FIREPROOF HOUSEKEEPING

College Station — Fireproof housekeeping can be every home-maker's job in keeping the country safe. Mrs. Bernice Clayton, home management specialist for the Texas Extension Service, says this will aid defense efforts.

For fireproof housekeeping five steps are suggested by the National Board of Fire Underwriters to reduce common fire hazards in the home: first, clean out all rubbish from closets, attic, basement, and other places. Then put waste paper in covered metal containers and empty them frequently; keep oily rags and paint cloths in covered metal containers; get rid of gasoline, benzine or other highly inflammable liquids, keep electric wiring, extension cords, and appliances in good repair.

Have an emergency kit including a flashlight, extra batteries, portable radio, first aid kit, several days' supply of canned food and drinking water.

Have some home fire-fighting equipment handy—a five gallon hand pump, a hose and several

Interior Hay Produced by Using Wrong Harvesting Methods

College Station — The failure to use proper harvesting and storage methods in connection with the production of hay, annually results in great amounts of low quality hay being produced in the state. According to E. A. Miller, extension agronomist of Texas A&M College, such hay not only has a low feeding value but also sells for less. Both add up to losses for the hay producer.

The time of harvest for hay crops is more important than most farmers realize, points out Miller. If the hay crop is left too long before cutting, it becomes coarse and loses much of its feed value, especially the protein and vitamin A.

Sudan and johnsongrass should be cut as soon as the first seed heads begin to form, or even a little earlier to get the full feeding value of high quality, protein-rich hay. Cowpeas should be left until the first seed pods begin to ripen. Prairie grass, adds Miller, can generally be left until time and labor are available for the haying operation, but if left too long it will lose quality and feeding value.

Alfalfa should be cut for hay when the field is one-tenth to one-fourth in bloom, or when young shoots begin to show up at the base of the plants. Miller says it's a good idea to let at least one cutting "go-to-seed" or at least to the full bloom stage on the new alfalfa fields in order to allow for the development of stronger root systems and longer lived fields.

Sweet clover should always be cut before the stems become coarse and woody—before it blooms. Because of growth habits, biennial sweet clover should not be cut closer than five or six inches to the ground, except the last cutting. New growth comes from shoots on the main stem instead of from the stool as is the case with alfalfa.

Legume hay, that is alfalfa, clovers and cowpeas, must be raked into rows before the leaves shatter. Miller points out that much of the feed value of high quality legume hay is contained in the leaves and heavy losses occur when the hay is left too long in the field. He says if a pickup haler is not available, the hay should be placed in piles or shocks before the leaves shatter, then baled or stacked when sufficiently cured. Grass hay may be left in the swath until it is fairly well cured.

Two important changes take place during the hay curing process, says Miller. The water content of the plants drops from around 75 per cent to 15 or 20 per cent and the chemical change is referred to as "sweating" or fermenting. During the sweating process the hay develops an aroma and becomes more palatable.

One of the secrets of producing high quality hay is getting rid of the excess moisture in the hay as fast as possible. Speed in drying means a good curing job and aids in retaining the green color. In humid sections of the state, the use of artificial hay driers makes possible the production of high quality hay that contains plenty of vitamin A and protein, says Miller.

Hi-Bred and Deltapine Cotton Produce Highest Yields in Test

College Station — Hi-Bred and Deltapine (TPSA) produced the highest average yields in the cotton variety tests conducted at the Big Spring Experiment Station for the last three years, announced F. E. Keating, Big Spring station superintendent.

"Average per acre yields of 214 and 211 pounds of lint were obtained from Hi-Bred and Deltapine (TPSA)," said Keating. Other high yielding varieties were Stormproof 1, Paymaster 54, Stoneville (TPSA), CA 89A Stormproof, Texcala, Rogers, and buckets of water, sand and a shovel.

Texans Run Risk in Trying to Tame Wild Animals and Birds

Austin—Texans run a risk in trying to tame wild animals and birds, according to the Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish & Oyster Commission. He made the point in commenting on the current "invasion" season which parallels the appearance of fawn deer and other wildlife young.

"The fawn, which are beginning to appear now, often are believed to be lost by well-meaning persons," said the Executive Secretary.

"Usually, in such cases, parent deer have been frightened away temporarily but will find their young either by sight or by scent."

"One of the primary dangers of persons trying to tame wild deer is the shock from fright which handled many times kills the things. They are very sensitive to human encroachment."

"If the 'lost' animals usually prove to be tame. This is particularly true of deer. Actually, there is a genuine hazard involved in trying to tame wild deer, especially bucks. They have been known to follow people around like a dog and then suddenly, in the mating season, become violent attack humans either with horns or front feet."

The Executive Secretary, trying to raise wild birds by trying their eggs under a domestic fowl usually proves wasted since they seldom hatch and they do, the little birds perish on making pets of wildlife. A permit under a state law is required.

OIL TAX COLLECTIONS UP
Collections from the three federal oil taxes amounted to $665,072.792 in 1950, topping 1949's $605,145,384 by more than 10 per cent, the Internal Revenue Bureau has reported. The collections included $551,449,723 from gasoline against $504,063,429 in 1949; $91,747,997 from lubricating oils against $80,317,326; and $21,875,071 from pipe line transportation levies against $18,764,629. Last year was the first time pipe line levies went over $20 million. The federal taxes are only a part of the three billion dollar tax bill levied on petroleum products and services.

Fifty-Six Wildlife Bills Passed by Legislature

Austin—Fifty-six bills bearing on wildlife were passed by the recent Legislature.

A tentative check on the measures enacted indicates that only a few have a state-wide effect. Most of them were local bills.

The major acts, according to the Executive Secretary, were these:

Increase the Game & Fish Commission from six to nine members. Provide one hunting license at a cost of $2.15 instead of the old small game license of $2.00 and the big game license for $2.15.

Authorize the Commission to accept the state's share of the new federal tax on sporting fishing equipment.

Require boat-for-hire operators to furnish life preservers for each person using a rented boat, with game wardens empowered to enforce the law.

Give local courts power to revoke hunting and fishing privileges after game or fish law violations. Some of the more important "local" bills passed were to:

Set up a new wildlife regulatory area in the counties of Jack-

Young, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Erath and Hood, with the Commission authorized to open and close seasons and determine bag limits.

Authorize the Commission to cooperate with federal authorities in managing wildlife in the National Forests in Houston and Trinity counties.

Permit commercial fishing of menhaden with purse seines in a restricted Gulf area since scientists have found that game fish do not use these rough fish species for food.

SQUANDERING YOUR MONEY

Anyone who has the slightest interest in honest, economical government should read an article by Charles Stevenson in the June 9 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, called "How Government Pressure Boys Squander Your Money." The point of it is well described by the Post's subtitle: "With expensive hooks, cocktail parties and thousands of paid press agents, government agencies beat the drum to glorify and perpetuate themselves. They try to teach you what to think—at your expense."

able promotion of good farming practices, information concerning social security benefits, plus other services authorized by Congress. But much of it is also sheer propaganda of another sort. In one week The New York Times released enough government news releases to fill 800 of its columns, and the Journalism Quarterly, on analyzing 286 releases of this type, found 55,080 words of press-agency, 10,166 words of influence legislation, and 45,615 words of influence policy.

NUMBER ONE

The Committee for Economic Development recently observed that the Number One need in the fight against inflation is "economy in government expenditures, Federal, state and local, military as well as non-military." It then made this significant statement: "Wasteful expenditures that impose unnecessary tax burdens weaken the ability of the economy to support an enlarged military program. And waste and inefficiency reduce the willingness of the public to support the program."

INTO THE FIRE

By back in 1916 the late Samuel Gompers, father of the American labor-union movement, said, "The employees of the government are denied the right collectively to lay down their tools or implements of their work and quit. They cannot strike. . . . It is well for all the workers to seriously consider the plunge into government ownership; whether after all it would not involve the plight of jumping from the frying pan into the fire."

This was a striking piece of foresight. When government takes over business, the basic rights of labor are automatically destroyed. We have seen a particularly revealing example of this in government's socialized electric power activities. To take a typical case, a short time ago part of a Western utility was absorbed by a municipality. Some 400 employees transferred from the private operation to the new government operation. More than 100 of them, all union members, were forced to take lower salaries and fewer paid holidays. They also lost other benefits, including their pensions.

"SHARES IN AMERICA"

A short time ago the New York Stock Exchange appointed a new president, choosing a man who has been head of a Connecticut college. Asked by a reporter what his policy would be, he said, "I'll try to be a salesman of shares in America." That is a pertinent phrase. The present-day security exchanges give everyone the opportunity to buy, in large or small amounts, shares in America—in the enterprises which produce and process the finished goods and the services which keep this country strong and vigorous, and which create and maintain its unrivaled living standards.

southern power company touched on this when it said, "Socialist planners try to sell their plans for government - in - business on the idea of 'something for nothing.' " "Socialized medicine, Federal owned power, government built steel plants and U. S. financed transmission lines all come from the same hopper. "The man who pays is the wage earner, through direct and indirect taxes, and through withholding deductions which cut down his 'take home' pay. The taxpayer is learning means that he must pay 'something for nothing,' and he'll keep right on paying more and more until he rises to put a stop to socialism in any guise whatsoever."

Austin, Texas, June 25 — Austin is honoring the 27th Fighter Escort Wing which, based at Bergstrom Air Force Base here, has been in Korean action since last December, and is now returning home. First to fly the F-84 Thunderjet in combat, the 27th's men compiled a wonderful record. They went to Korea at a time when the Russian-built MIG-15 demonstrated that it clearly outclassed the U. S. Shooting Star. The Thunderjet, while speedier than the Shooting Star, is not as swift as the MIG, but pilots of the F-84, along with those of the F-86 Sabre, make up the difference in skill and versatility. The 27th's pilots kept the score lopsided in their favor in air-to-air combat with Communist planes. At the same time, they gave the ground forces a lot of close support. They destroyed or partly destroyed more than 14,000 buildings and killed or wounded nearly 16,000 enemy troops. They also scored on enemy tanks, bridges and many other targets. Two pilots knocked out a camel caravan carrying Red supplies. Lieut. Col. John W. Larko is the man with most combat missions—147, but 60 men flew 100 or more combat sorties and 15 flew more than 120. Men of the 27th received many decorations for their outstanding work. The Fighter-Escort Wing's first arrivals were welcomed here with a parade, speeches by high government officials and others. A large number of the 27th's officers and airmen have wives and children living in Austin and think of this city as being their home. Sergeant Bert Tavender expressed the sentiment of these men when he said: "There never was a boy from Illinois so glad to get back to Texas." Replacing the 27th in Korea is the 136th Fighter-Bomber Wing, which is a unit of the Texas National Guard. Elements of the 136th began operating with the 27th in Korea early this month. Commanding the 136th is Col. A. C. Prendergast of Dallas. The Wing consists of fighter squadrons from Houston, San Antonio and Little Rock, Ark. When the first elements of the 136th went to Korea, they took along a large Texas flag, presented by Major Gen. K. L. Berry, Texas adjutant general. When it was activated, the 136th became known as the "Texas" wing. Seventy-five per cent of its officers and airmen are Texans. It is the largest unit in the Air Force to be composed of men from two adjoining states—Texas and Arkansas.

Health Letter
NEW TEST MAY AID DRUG AGAINST BOVINE DISEASE
Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer.
Austin, Texas—Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, endorsing the observance of June as National Dairy month recently released a statement congratulating Texas dairymen on the remarkable progress they have made in the past few years.
The use of clean safe milk is a health measure. Milk is our most nearly perfect food as it is rich in proteins, vitamins A and G and the minerals, calcium and phosphate. Improved methods of producing wholesome milk has been a great help in the saving of infant lives.
Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large numbers of bacteria, due to insanitary methods of production is a health hazard.
Dr. Cox added, "Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, undulant fever, diarrhea and enteritis. Numerous milk-borne outbreaks of disease occur every year in this country from the use of milk that might have been safe with proper care. A boar constrictor is not poisonous. It kills by crushing its care. "We should firmly insist the milk we drink be carefully produced, so that we will get the maximum practicable protection along the line from the to the consumer."

Walter Jenkins to Be Candidate for Representative

Walter Jenkins this week announced he would be a candidate for Congress from the Thirteenth District and told voters that his "one and only promise is to be a Working Congressman."

At his home in Wichita Falls, the 33-year-old native of Jolly, Clay County, said he had given up his position as administrative assistant to U. S. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson to make the race for Congress from this District. Jenkins mentioned Congressman Ed Gossett, who has resigned, as "one of the hardest-working men in Washington."

"To do the job right, you have to work hard," Jenkins said, "and that is what I intend to do. I don't promise to make a lot of speeches, I don't promise to turn Washington upside down overnight. I only promise to work hard—and to be on call, 24 hours a day, to work, as best I can, for everybody in the district I have lived in all my life."

Jenkins has lived in Jolly, Decatur and Wichita Falls, where he was a reporter for the Wichita Falls Record News and an accountant for the State Highway Department. During World War II he served overseas in North Africa, Corsica, and Italy for nearly two and one-half years. Jenkins announced that he would begin immediately to visit over the District on a "dawn to bedtime schedule," and that he would be ready to answer "any and all questions" on where he stands. Jenkins is married, and has four children, Beth 4, Walter 2½ and twin sons, John and Joe, who were born last election day, Nov. 7.

"I will do my best to represent 100 per cent of the citizens in the Thirteenth District and not just the special interests," Jenkins concluded.

Tractor Maintenance School Held Recently by Archer 4-H Boys

College Station—4-H Club boys found that carburetor adjustment was needed by all tractors used at the tractor maintenance school held recently in Archer county.

One-half day was spent at the August Berend farm where two tractors were available, and another half day was spent at the Fred Steinberger dairy where a tractor and labor saving devices were studied.

County Agent C. W. Wilhoit reported that a few things were found on each tractor that needed to be corrected to prevent costly repair or expensive operation. The air hose between the air filter and the carburetor needed replacements on two of the tractors. The cooling system on one was badly clogged.

This is a good example of the value that has resulted from six three-day tractor maintenance schools held during the spring at Lubbock, Greenville, College Station, Coleman, Childress and Amarillo.

At these early schools, 4-H leaders and county agents were trained so they in turn could train 4-H Club members in the maintenance and operation of farm tractors. Attendance ranged from 25 to 40 persons, with an average of about 30 at each meeting.

The value of the program depends on the results obtained through 4-H leaders training club members and adults in tractor care, said W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer of Texas A. & M.

July 10 Is Last Day for Applying for Job with Highway Patrol

Austin—Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced that the closing date for receiving applications for appointment as Texas Highway Patrolmen is July 10.

Young men who are citizens of the United States and who have resided in Texas for at least one year immediately preceding the date of their application and who are between the ages of 21 and 35 years, inclusive, with a minimum height of 5 feet, 8 inches; and who meet the other necessary physical, mental and character qualifications may secure application blanks from their nearest Texas Highway Patrol District Office or by writing directly to W. J. Elliott, Chief, Texas Highway Patrol, at Austin.

Garrison pointed out that the Patrol offers excellent advantages in working conditions to young Texans who are interested in career law enforcement.

Applicants who successfully pass the exhaustive character investigation and field examinations will be thoroughly schooled at the Department's headquarters in Austin early this Fall before assignment to duty posts over the State.

Home Demonstration Notes

MARY DEEB BROWN

Many of you have asked about canning different vegetables, etc., and these are recommendations I received the other day from College Station that I thought you might like:

Here are the latest recommendations on using your pressure saucepan for canning vegetables. These come from the foods preservation committee of the Texas State Nutrition Council, which say the "cooling time" is an important part of canning in a pressure saucepan.

Prepare your vegetables as you would for canning in a regular pressure canner, use a rack to keep the pint jars off the bottom of the saucepan. If you are canning 4 pints of vegetables, have one quart of boiling water in the saucepan; if 3 pint jars, then have 1 1/2 quarts of boiling water.

Allow steam to escape briskly from the vent for at least one minute, then close the vent and allow the pressure to increase to 10 pounds. Count processing time exactly from the moment 10 pounds pressure is reached.

Now—here comes the important feature to remember: cool the pressure saucepan before opening—there is a specified cooling time for each vegetable, 30 minutes for asparagus, sliced beets and sliced carrots, 35 minutes for wax beans, peas, spinach and broccoli, and 40 minutes for lima beans. At the end of the heating and cooling period, remove the jars immediately.

Remember, if you are using your pressure saucepan at home to can several pints of vegetables from your garden each day, follow the latest recommendations. Get the required amount of boiling water in the pressure saucepan, count processing time from the moment the gauge reaches ten pounds pressure, allow the pressure saucepan to cool before opening, and remove the jars immediately. Keep them out of drafts, and give each jar enough room for air to get to all sides.

If you want to can some of those fresh red-ripe tomatoes to have firm and whole when you are ready to eat them, you'll be interested in the directions for "salad pack tomatoes."

These come from the State Nutrition Council's 1951 recommendations for food preservation, and were worked out by Fae Bass and Jennie Wilnot, members of the Council.

Directions are to peel ripe tomatoes, small enough to get into

Fruits of Capitalism Shipped to Moscow

NEW YORK—Pictured above is part of the cargo of American luxury merchandise included in the baggage of Alexander Panyushkin, soviet ambassador to the U. S., which he took with him (June 8) when he sailed for home. The New York "price war" was responsible for many of Panyushkin's purchases. One can only speculate as to the effect of these capitalistic luxuries on the victims of Moscow's enforced poverty.

your containers without breaking. Use the other tomatoes to make juice with a Sepro-sieve, collander or sieve. Heat the juice and cover the whole tomatoes in the jars, with one-half teaspoon of salt for each pint or No. 2 can. Fill the containers to within one-half inch of the top, and press the tomatoes gently to remove air from the container.

Wipe the edge of the jars or cans, and seal. Then put the containers of whole tomatoes covered with tomato juice on a rack in the water bath canner, with water to cover two inches above the containers.

Cover the canner and leave it over the heat until the water boils, remove, and leave the containers in the canner until cool. Then remove the containers, dry, label and store in a cool, dark place.

Sylvia Cover of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has studied two ways of canning blackeye peas at home, the hot pack method and the cold pack method.

The research shows both ways to can blackeye peas are safe, but the cold pack method can only be used with two-piece metal closures to make possible adequate venting.

Now, you are familiar with the hot pack method for canning vegetables—where you wash the peas, precook by covering with boiling water, bringing to a rolling boil and drain. Then you pour the peas into the clean hot jars, leaving one and one-fourth inches head-space for pints, and one and one-half inches for quarts. Cover the peas with fresh, boiling water, and work out the bubbles with a knife blade; add more water to one-half inch from the top of the jar. Wipe the mouth of the jar clean, and seal with two-piece closure, place in hot pressure canner, with 1 or 2 inches of boiling water. Adjust the canner lid, and after steam appears—allow it to escape for 10 minutes. Close the petcock, bring the pressure to 10 pounds and start counting processing time—35 minutes for pint jars, and 40 minutes for quarts. Cool the cooker back to zero, open the petcock and remove the canner lid, but leave the jars in 5 or 10 minutes more, then remove and cool the jars away from drafts.

Now—the cold pack method is to put the uncooked peas into clean, hot glass jars. Leave one and one-half inches head-space for pint jars and 2 inches for quart jars, and cover with fresh boiling water. The rest of the directions are the same for the hot pack method.

Both methods are safe, so take your choice of hot pack or cold pack method of canning blackeye peas.

If your family enjoys eating pork and beans, you'll find it profitable to can them at home. The directions for 1951 food preservation from the Texas State Nutrition Council say you may safely use the raw-pack method.

Take your choice of tomato or molasses sauce, and prepare enough for the amount of canning you'll do. Make the tomato sauce by mixing 1 quart of tomato juice, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, one tablespoon chopped onion, and one-fourth teaspoon mixture of ground cloves, allspice, mace and cayenne, or use one cup tomato catsup and three cups of water, heated to boiling.

The molasses sauce is made with 1 quart of water, 3 tablespoons dark molasses, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt, and three-fourths teaspoon ground mustard, and heated to boiling.

Get your dry beans ready the night before, because they have to soak for 15 hours. You can use kidney, navy or yellow-eye beans. Next day, drain the beans and immerse in boiling water for 5 minutes and drain.

Then you're ready to can: fill glass jars three-fourths full with hot prepared beans, add small piece salt pork, ham or bacon, and fill to one-half inch of top with either hot tomato sauce or hot molasses sauce. Adjust jar lids. Process at 10 pounds pressure for 65 minutes—pint jars; 75 minutes for quart jars.

For further information on canning or freezing foods contact me as I will be glad to help in any way possible.

Good Results Obtained in Controlling Moss Growth in Lakes

College Station — Good results in controlling moss growth in fish ponds are reported each year by J. W. Stufflebeme, Washington county agricultural agent.

Recently, Stufflebeme reported used as a guide in this decision. The Commission asked Texans to write their date ideas to the Game Department, Walton Building, Austin, after considerable conflict in opinion developed over last season's shooting regulations, particularly in the south zone.

Some sportsmen thought that the southern zone mourning dove season should have paralleled the quail hunting season which is set by law.

The southern zone dove season last year was from October 20 to December 3. The quail season set by law is from December 1 to January 16.

The northern zone mourning dove dates in 1950 were from September 1 to October 15th.

that top moss in the Matchett, a privately owned pond eight miles from Brenham, was killed 48 hours after the water was treated with sodium arsenite.

However, Stufflebeme said took longer than the usual 48 hours for the underwater grass to disappear. He attributed this to the dry, cool weather that prevailed after the lake was treated with sodium arsenite.

A lake or pond should be treated very carefully and the amount of water figured before any arsenite is used, warns R. E. Lender, wildlife conservation specialist for the Texas Extension Service. If the application is strong, it will kill the fish as well as the moss.

Callender recommends that one who has a moss infested pond contact their county agricultural agent before starting a control program.

Friday, July 6, to Be Dove Day for Texans

Austin—Friday, July 6 will be D (for dove) Day for Texas sportsmen.

At that time, the results of the popular poll on hunters preference for the coming mourning dove season will be announced.

The Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, according to the Executive Secretary, plans to use the results of the poll as a basis for recommending mourning dove shooting dates for the 1951 fall season.

Final action on the dates, hunting hours and bag limits is taken by the Federal Fish & Wildlife Service since mourning doves are a migratory bird, and therefore are under Federal jurisdiction.

This is the first time, the Executive Secretary said, that the sportsmen's own preferences, as indicated by a mail poll, have been

Health Letter

Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer
Austin, Texas—During the first five and one-half months of this year 283 cases of poliomyelitis, polio for short, have been reported to the Texas State Department of Health. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has issued the following suggestions concerning the disease and its control.
"All the methods of transmitting the disease may not be known, however, sufficient information is at hand to demand certain precautions and these include personal hygiene and campaigns for sanitation improvements.
Stringent efforts should be made to eliminate house-flies, mosquitoes and rodents and to destroy their breeding places. Every effort should be made to institute approved garbage collection systems and secure safe water supplies. Where adequate municipal sewage disposal systems are not in operation, it is necessary to install and maintain sanitary septic tanks and outdoor privies.
All raw foods and vegetables should be washed thoroughly before use and protected from filth and insects. All food handling establishments should adhere strictly to the State law concerning the sterilization of dishes and utensils. Those restaurants with insufficient personnel to maintain approved sanitation, should close one or two hours a day so that employees can assist in maintaining cleanliness and high sanitation standards.
Over-exertion in children should be avoided. Children should not visit homes where there is illness. Early symptoms of infantile paralysis are headache, fever, vomiting, drowsiness, followed by stiffness in the neck and back. When suspicious symptoms appear, a physician should be called immediately.

Weekly Sermon
TENDING GOD'S FIRES
from Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

These are days when God is graciously kindling great fires of spiritual desire. Huge evangelistic services where ten, twenty-five or fifty thousand hear the gospel and hundreds respond to altar calls are taking place from time to time in many sections of the country. And we pray that such stirrings will continue.

God is also kindling little fires in the hearts of individuals—a businessman here, a school girl down the street, an invalid shut away from friends. Letters which come to us from week to week bring out the fact that everywhere individuals are becoming aware of the need for something more than they now have, and that they are looking for help.

Not many of us have been gifted—nor indeed have we been called—to reach huge crowds with the message of the gospel. This is the ministry of a few chosen servants. But to each one of us God gives the privilege of tending the small fires here and there wherever we may find them.

A recent letter, for example, tells of a man who wants to join a church because he feels a definite need in his life for something he now lacks. What an opportunity this is for someone to tend this little fire.

In this particular instance as in many others the need would seem to be first to introduce this man to the One who longs to bring each person to Himself and who alone can satisfy the hungry soul. Ten will follow the opportunity to guide him to a fellowship of those who also have been warmed by Christ and who manifest that they know Him by their daily lives.

Big fires and small fires—both are from God. After all, are not the huge fires merely many small flames burning together? The little fires you tend for God from day to day may yet become the sweeping flames of nation-wide repentance and revival which every Christian longs to see.

LEARN FROM EXPERIENCE

The head of a large department store recently had this to say about price controls: "The real answer to lower prices lies in production and then more production. Controls that bring about increased production could possibly be helpful during this emergency—and retailers have expressed their willingness to go along with such helpful controls. But it is high time we learned from our past experience about the evils of 'controls for control's sake' . . .
"Virtually every merchant who operated under OPA price controls, after the various other controls had lapsed, will testify that these controls resulted in artificial shortages, decreased production, quality deterioration, black markets and higher prices than would have otherwise prevailed . . .
"More than 60,000 Federal employees were required to handle the OPA job, and the cost of administering this agency, during its lifetime, exceeded $750,000,000. This amount, however, was chicken feed compared to what it cost retail distributors to try and observe these OPA regulations. A conservative estimate of this amount would run into many billions of dollars, thereby adding that much more to the existing inflation."

LP GAS POPS UP AGAIN

Liquid petroleum gas, a versatile fuel which is finding its way into tractors, automobiles and even airplanes, has now appeared in a carnival atmosphere. A Chicago firm is marketing a popcorn machine which burns propane gas.

The Office of Price Stabilization is a very youthful organization, but it is already showing alarming symptoms that it is falling into the old OPA pattern—a pattern which probably did more to stimulate inflation than it did to reduce it. We need more production and more competition—not less production and less competition. Unless we keep that fact in mind and act on it, we're sunk so far as successfully controlling inflation is concerned.

B&PW Club Installs New Officers Last Thursday Evening

A beautiful and impressive candle ceremony was used to install officers of the Business and Professional Women's Club last Thursday evening. In connection with the installation service, recognition was given to new members added to the club during the year. Miss Mayme Lee Collins, a past president, acted as installing officer. She was assisted by Miss Gusta Davis as candle lighter and Mrs. Irene O'Connell as membership chairman. Officers assuming new duties in the club were: Dove Canille, president; Sally Archer, vice president; Lottie Russell, treasurer; Alyene Graham, recording secretary; and Inez Spencer, corresponding secretary.

In well-chosen words, Mrs. O'Connell paid tribute to Miss Cora Carter, retiring president, and presented her a gift of appreciation for services rendered.

The hostess committee for the meeting was composed of Viola Biggerstaff, Willie McWilliams and Alyene Graham.

Robert R. Gloyna Weds Miss Edna Knippa at Giddings

A double ring ceremony united Miss Edna Knippa and Robert G. Gloyna in marriage on June 3 in the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Giddings, Texas.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Knippa of Giddings, the bride is a graduate of Giddings High School and Nixon-Clay Commercial College. For the past three years she had been employed by the Texas Railroad Commission.

Mr. Gloyna is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gloyna of Kress, formerly of the Riverside community, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Riethmayer of Vernon, former residents of Crowell. He graduated from Crowell High School in 1946. He is now attending the University of Texas and

FOARD CITY W. S. C. S.

Although many members were absent, a group of W. S. C. S. women met at the Foard City Church on Monday, June 25, and heard of a few of the educational, council and relief organizations at home and abroad which are supported by the Methodist Church in its World Federation plan.

Mrs. Jack Welch, president, led the planning of the zone meeting, scheduled for Thursday, June 28, at Foard City. The devotional, based on Isaiah 55:1, was given by Mrs. O. N. Baker. She stressed the truth that God's offer of grace and love, of forgiveness and salvation, has never been withdrawn; neither has it ever failed of fulfillment.

Distressing conditions in Korea and hampered but inspired work of the Methodist missionaries and chaplains were described by Mrs. W. L. Johnson. Practically all of the church leaders and many of the Christians have been evacuated to the south.

Wesley House, San Antonio, settlement house, and its activities were described by Mrs. Roy Ferguson and Mrs. Grady Halbert explained the purpose and responsibilities of the Frances De Pauw Home in Hollywood, Calif.

The meeting was dismissed with a prayer by Mrs. J. C. Rader.

PINK AND BLUE SHOWER

Naming Mrs. Durwood E. Sanders as honoree, Mrs. C. Y. Pettigrew, Mrs. Bob Abston, Mrs. John Rader, Mrs. Howard Ferguson and Mrs. J. T. Brooks entertained with a pink and blue shower at the home of Mrs. Brooks on Wednesday afternoon, June 26.

The dining table was covered with a lace cloth overlaid on blue and centered with a beautiful centerpiece featuring a low bowl holding tall pink and blue candles surrounded by colorful flowers of the season in the chosen colors.

Pink punch with blue ice cubes, pink and blue ribbon sandwiches, cookies with tiny pink and blue rosebuds atop and mints were served the guests. Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Wilena Vich of Longview, a sister of Mrs. Sanders. Miss Nelda Brooks assisted in serving.

Mrs. E. A. Sanders of Childress, mother of Dr. Sanders, registered the guests in the guest book. Incidental piano numbers were played during the reception hour by Miss Bobbie Ruth Abston.

Fifty ladies called during the afternoon.

WEST SIDE H. D. CLUB

The West Side Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday evening, June 26, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Connell.

This was the annual meeting at which the club members entertained their families. This year it took the form of an ice cream supper. After the supper, games of forty-two and dominoes were played.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bryson and Kenneth Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gentry, Mrs. S. E. Tate, Ed Manard, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ross, Mrs. Becky Smith and son, Sam, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kincheloe and J. C. Miss Patricia Prosser and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Jim Bailey. The 4-H Club girls will have charge of the program.

FORMER RESIDENT TO WED

The engagement and approaching marriage of Larry Rex Kinsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kinsey of Carrollton, former residents of Crowell, to Miss Norma Joyce Truitt of Dallas has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clifton Truitt.

The announcement was made at a tea and the wedding date was revealed to be July 28.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Sunset High School and the Cooke School of Expression in Dallas and attended North Texas State College at Denton where she majored in speech.

Mr. Kinsey was graduated from Carrollton High School and North Texas State College. He is now a sophomore at Southwestern Medical School where he is affiliated with Phi Chi medical fraternity. He is well known in Crowell, being the grandson of W. W. Kinsey.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Norma Jones honored her sister, Miss Clara Jones, with a surprise cake party on her ninth birthday, Monday, June 18.

The setting for the afternoon party was the garden of the Jones' ranch at Truscott. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered by a low bowl of tea roses. During the afternoon, the girls took pictures and went swimming. Iced drinks and birthday cake were served to the young ladies.

Wave Enlistment Requirements Altered

The enlistments for Waves have now been changed because of the urgent need of more women in the Navy. Age limits for Waves now are lowered from 20 to 18. Women under 21 must have their parents' consent before they may enlist.

Women between the ages of 18 and 20 must be high school graduates, and those between the ages of 20 to 26 must be high school graduates, or must be able to pass required tests.

Women wishing further information about the Waves should contact a Navy Recruiter at the Navy Recruiting Station in the Post Office building at Wichita Falls, Texas.

Opening Day of State Fair of Texas, Oct. 6, to Be Press Day

Opening day of the 1951 State Fair of Texas, Saturday, October 6, has again been adopted as official Press Day by the Texas Press Association at its annual convention in Dallas.

Press Day, traditionally held on opening day, is expected to attract more than 2,000 newspaper and radio men and their families, who will be guests of the state fair at such attractions as:

1. "Guys and Dolls," current Broadway musical hit that will hold forth at the Auditorium.
2. "Ice Cycles of 1952," the always-popular skating extravaganza in the Ice Arena.
3. The Aut Swenson Thrillride, an exciting mixture of thrills and spills by world champion auto daredevils, in front of the grandstand.
4. The Southern Methodist-Missouri football game in the Cotton Bowl at night.
5. All shows on the fair's million dollar Midway.

The State Fair Picnic Pavilion, where registration will be held, will be open all day to serve as a gathering place for the publishers and editors.

In addition, the newsmen will find exhibit buildings bulging with the best-balanced array of free shows and exhibits the fair has ever had.

The Pan-American National Hereford Show, king of all cattle shows, will be getting off to a flying start on Press Day, and other beef cattle shows also will be underway, along with shows for breeding swine, sheep and Angora goats, and American saddle horses.

And quite a bit of livestock judging will be going on in the fair's new $125,000 Livestock Judging Pavilion.

At a breakfast extended TPA members on the first day of the Dallas convention, James H. Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the fair, expressed the fair's appreciation for the part the press had played in putting the fair on top and keeping it there.

Tagged Fish Contest on Gulf Coast Due to Improve Fishing

Austin, Texas — A poor man's fishing contest designed to ultimately improve coastal fishing is being conducted by the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, according to the executive secretary.

Commission scientists hope, through reports on tagged fish caught, to gather needed data on such prized species as the salt water trout, the drum, redfish and flounders.

The winners, or the anglers catching a tagged fish and turning in the tag, will be rewarded with a year's subscription "Texas Game and Fish," commission magazine. The tags should be forwarded to Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, Rockport, Texas.

Ernest G. Simmons, of the Rockport laboratory staff, tells about the contest in the June issue of the magazine.

He writes that posters about reporting the tags have been placed along the coastal area, and adds that anglers should look for the tags which have been placed either on the tail or the gill cover of the fish.

To date, approximately 1,650 fish have been tagged and released. The ultimate goal of the project, Simmons reports, is the tagging of 10,000 fish in the area between Port Isabel and Port O'Connor.

"Cooperation of the sports fishermen and commercial fishermen will help us get the complete story on the migrations of these fish,"

Simmons states in his article. "Data already has been obtained on their spawning habits. The place of spawning is known. The growth rate to some extent is known, food preferences and feeding habits have been thoroughly investigated.

Little, however, is known of the movement and migrations of these species." The Executive Secretary pointed out that the magazine subscription reward for fishermen reporting the tags is "a mere token acknowledgment." "The main reward," he said, "will be the knowledge of the fishermen sending the tags that they are a vital part of an effort to provide better fishing."
