RAIL GROUP TO HEAR PLAINTS OCTOBER 22

Seven Pipe Line Concerns Named in Charges Brought Here

RULE TO BE TESTED

Operators Claim District Not Allowed to Run Full Share of Oil

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—On complaint of the North Texas Oil and Gas association, the state railroad commission today set for hearing Oct. 22 alleged discriminations by pipe line companies in the purchase of oil under the state-wide proration order.

Named in the complaint were the Continental, Texas, Humble, Gulf, Sinclair, Shell and Prairie purchasing companies.

While no other complaints were set for hearing at the same time, it was considered probable the scope of the hearing would be enlarged before the date set for it, as other complaints are registered with the commission.

The charge was that the pipe line companies failed to take oil from oil operators ratably, as they were obliged to do under the proration order.

COMPANIES BUYING LESS THAN ALLOWED

P. B. Flynn, president of the North Texas Oil and Gas association, explained Monday night that the association is lodging its complaint against certain companies on the contention that the purchasing companies are buying more oil out of some districts than out of others, discriminating against the North Texas district.

Since the proration order of Aug. 27, allowing 69,000 barrels production in the district, the companies have bought only 57,000 barrels, he explained. The independent operators cite the recent law against discrimination in purchasing, either against producers in a pool or pools in the state, except such "reasonable discrimination as is ordered by the railroad commission."

The complaint filed in Austin alleges that the companies are failing to obey the law, taking the stand that under the proration order the pipe lines are bound to handle the oil equitably in accordance with the terms of the proration.

The action was brought through John E. Kilgore, attorney for the association, and is expected to result in a final interpretation of the proration and discrimination acts. Violation of the railroad commission ruling involves a penalty of $1,000 a day, it was explained.

Lively Session Seen As British Laborites Convene

LLANDUDNO, Wales, Oct. 6. (AP)—Strong indications that the autumn session of parliament will be lively were provided by the opening day's events of the Labor party's annual conference.

For the first time in its history the political caucus was presided over by a woman, Miss Susan Lawrence, member of parliament and secretary to the ministry of health. In a keynote speech she declared that sooner or later the Labor party would have to deal with that "aged anachronism," the house of lords. This alone, she forecast, would lead to heated parliamentary exchanges.

Bilboa Strikers Return Peacefully to Work

BILBOA, Spain, Oct. 6. (AP)—With the return to work of practically all of those who have been on strike more than a week, the tension of the last two days began to wane tonight and authorities were confident no more riots were in prospect.

A communique from the governor's offices said that workers in nearby towns, who struck in sympathy with the Bilboa union men, also had gone back to work.

Coleman Murder Trial Continued Until Spring

COLEMAN, Texas, Oct. 6. (AP)—The case of Frank Rucker, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Guy Green, was continued by Judge E. J. Miller in district court today until the spring term.

Giant Oklahoma Well Tests 140,000 Barrels

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Surpassing other gigantic wells in the south Oklahoma City field which have set records for production of high gravity oil, the number 1 Ross, well of Oils, Inc., flowed 1,824 barrels in 18 minutes on a test late today, or at the rate of about 140,000 barrels a day.

'Baering' Down On The News

With ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

League of Nations closed its Geneva session with prayers for peace in the wrong language.

Brazilian rebels, Soviet, Spanish Republicans, Cubans, Arab Nationalists, and other nations too important to mention, have all resumed their rough, manly ways.

The league should stop requesting peace and be satisfied with an armistice.

It has builded its tower of babble, speaking every tongue including the pickled.

Ten years ago we wrote a line that has since been credited to many others That line was that the United States had never lost a war nor won a peace conference.

But the league still continues to move from city to city thinking that a change of climate will atone for an absence of reason.

Like a man in a lunch wagon, the league diplomat is eating, but he ain't going anywhere.

REBELS CLAIM EARLY VICTORY

Army of 80,000 Marching On Rio de Janeiro

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 6. (AP)—Leaders of the Brazilian revolt asserted in dispatches reaching here tonight that the triumph of the revolution was only a few days away. An army of 80,000 men is marching on Rio de Janeiro and nine states, in both North and South, rebelling against the government of President Washington Luis.

The states in arms against the federal administration are Rio Do Sul, Santa Caterina and Parana in southern Brazil; Minas Geraes in central section and Piahuy, Ceara, Rio Grande Do Norte, Parahyba and Pernambuco in the north.

General Francisco Flores Da Cunha, federal deputy and leader of the revolutionary troops, said he could not make definite statement as to the states of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, where the government is strongest, but intimated the situation there was grave for the administration. In addition, some reports said revolutionary outbreaks had occurred in the great northern state of Para.

General Da Cunha asserted that in case Sao Paulo and the capital resisted, the revolutionary troops now moving toward Sao Paulo were ready to attack them. This powerful body, numbering 80,000 comprises infantry, cavalry and artillery from Rio Grande Do Sul, Santa Caterina and Parana.

Bandit Killed While Sister Waits in Car

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—A young robber was shot and killed today as he ran from a restaurant to his automobile, where his sister, Mrs. Betty Martin, waited to speed him away.

The youth, Charles Johnson, alias George de Foe, emerged with $100 from the till just as a police squad passed. A policeman leaped from the car and chased him. Johnson whirled to fire but his gun jammed and four bullets from the officer's weapon struck him. The sister fainted as Johnson was shot. Later she told police she had agreed to help her brother in the robbery as a relief from loneliness. Her husband is a traveling salesman, she said.

Los Angeles and Detroit Seek Legion Convention

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The contest for the scene of the next national convention of the American Legion today narrowed down to a fight between Los Angeles and Detroit. These two cities were the only ones to bid officially for the convention before the time and place committee. Baltimore made a bid for the convention of 1932 and Chicago for 1933.

AIRMEN SIFT EVIDENCE IN R-101 DISASTER

Wild Rumors Quieted As Joint Commission Probes Crash

NATIONS MOURN LOSS

Death Toll May Grow With Slow Identification Of Bodies

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 6. (US)—While France and England joined hands today to pay homage to the 47 who were killed in the crash of the British dirigible R-101, an exhaustive inquiry into the causes of the disaster was begun by an Anglo-French commission headed by Air Commander F. V. Holt, R. A. F.

While all sorts of conflicting reports are being circulated in connection with the inquiry, Commander Holt himself tonight took occasion to deny one which had it that pieces of the dirigible's fabric had been recovered far from the hillside where the giant ship fell to earth.

This was especially significant in view of the belief in some quarters that there had been a leakage in the cells containing the lifting gas, allowing the hydrogen to escape and weakening the R-101's lifting power.

Airmen Honored

Some of the villagers of Beauvais and Allonne reported to the commission that they saw spurts of flame before the R-101 crashed into the hill, but Commander Holt believes the flames to have been the exhaust of the powerful motors.

GERMAN DISASTER

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (US)—With Germany still shocked at the appalling catastrophe suffered by the British dirigible R-101, the nation was given a terrific blow today with the worst airplane disaster in the history of German heavier-than-air aviation.

A Lufthansa plane of the Berlin-Vienna passenger line crashed as it was gliding to a landing at the Dresden aerodrome shortly after 9 o'clock. Six passengers, including two women, and the pilot and the wireless operator were killed. The toll of eight killed is the largest of any German airplane disaster.

Oil Men Hear New Needs of Industry

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 6. (AP)—The need of the petroleum industry for new methods and machinery in meeting new problems has called science into a leading part of the drama of oil.

Oil men, inclined to scoff at scientific education in the early days of the industry, are growing to depend more and more on the value of technological studies, W. G. Skelly, president of the International Petroleum Exposition and Congress told the petroleum division, American society of mechanical engineers here today. The group opened a three day-meeting in connection with the seventh annual petroleum exposition.

Atlanta Lays Census Claim Before Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Atlanta's contention that it has a population of 360,892 instead of 270,367 was laid today before the District of Columbia supreme court, where decision was withheld pending further study.

Seeking a court order to compel Census Director W. M. Steuart to publish the larger figure, counsel for the Georgia city contended the Georgia legislature had a right to increase the area of the metropolis from 34 to 184 square miles. In this area, five corporate cities and 15 communities totaling about 90,000 population are located.

Home Run In 9th Inning Breaks Scoreless Tie To Give Athletics 2-0 Win

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Oct. 6.—Jimmy Foxx, the pride of the Eastern Sho' of Maryland, broke up the tighest ball game that a world's series has seen in many years this afternoon, when he slugged a home run into the left field bleachers in the ninth inning.

It gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 2 to 0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth game of the series of 1930, which now stands 3 to 2 in favor of the American leaguers.

Mickey Cochrane, the great catcher of the A's was on first, having been passed by Burleigh Grimes, the irascible veteran of the Cardinals, who, for seven innings had been locked with George Earnshaw in a desperate pitching battle. Al Simmons retired on a weakish fly to Gelbert, making room for the stout first baseman of the A's.

Foxx Hits First One

Foxx wasted no time. He smashed at the first ball pitched by Grimes, and oddly enough it was exactly the same kind of ball on which Grimes had struck him out in the seventh inning, a curve right over the plate. The sharp report of Foxx's big bat meeting that leather was the crack o' baseball doom in the hearts of the 39,000 wild-eyed fans who packed Sportsman's park. They sensed disaster behind that punch. The ball seemed to raise high in air, then suddenly straightened out and began traveling toward the green wall that hedges off the bleacher in left center.

A couple of pulse-beats later it

Imperial Conference Honors Crash Victims

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The imperial conference met today in the shadow of the greatest aviation disaster of all time—the crash of the dirigible, R-101, in France yesterday.

The chief delegates met this morning at number 10 Downing street, adopting a motion of tribute to the men who died in the R-101, and to their relatives.

For the most part, however, they listened as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told them what the loss of one of these men—Lord Thomson, air minister—meant to him personally.

Day Schedule for New Mail Route Announced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A daylight schedule for the new Western Air Mail route which will begin operation Oct. 15 between New York and Los Angeles was announced today by the postoffice department.

With a night lay-over in Kansas City, this route will be in effect until lighted for night flying, probably about Jan. 1.

When night flying goes into effect the St. Louis to Kansas City supplemental route will be amalgamated with the continuous transcontinental schedule.

Weather Delays Take-Off Of Woman Record Seeker

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—One hop of 228 miles—from St. Louis to Kansas City—was the day's work of Laura Ingalls, St. Louis aviatrix, who took off yesterday morning in New York in an attempt to set a transcontinental flight record for women.

Unfavorable weather delayed Miss Infalls' hopoff at St. Louis, where she spent the night, until 10:31 a. m. central standard time, reaching Fairfax airport at Kansas City at 12:49 p. m.

Chain Store Employe Hijacked of $3,000

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 6. (AP)—Police were seeking two men tonight in the robbery of Walter King, negro employe of a chain grocery store, of $3,000 in cash and checks, the receipts of the company for Saturday.

Four suspects were detained, two of whom were released this afternoon, Carl E. Kennedy, chief of Police, said he expected a solution of the robbery tomorrow.

Supreme Court Splits Commission of Appeals

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Placing into effect authority granted it by the last legislature, the supreme court, at the initial meeting of its 1930-31 term, today divided the commission of appeals in sections to pass on applications for writs of error, and motions for rehearings of applications.

U. S. Navy Dirigible Ready for Long Non-stop Pilgrimage

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 6. (UP)—The United States navy dirigible, Los Angeles, probably will make a nonstop flight this fall to Havana, Cuba, fly over the city and then proceed northward to Paris island, S. C., where it will engage in experimental work. The flight is expected to start as soon as weather conditions are deemed favorable.

Reports that the Los Angeles would be decommissioned within a year because of its already comparatively long service were scoffed at.

STERLING QUITS ROAD BOARD

D. K. Martin of San Antonio New Member

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Ross S. Sterling, Democratic nominee for governor, relinquished his official position as chairman of the state highway commission today, and D. K. Martin, San Antonio business man, was named to fill the vacancy on the commission.

Sterling's resignation presumably was in anticipation of his election as governor so he would have more time to devote to his private interests before next January, when the new governor will be sworn in.

Martin, new member of the board was not named to fill Sterling's unexpired term, however. Governor Dan Moody, in announcing the resignation, shifted the terms to make Martin's term expire in 1931, leaving his appointment to the next governor.

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, was named chairman, with almost full six-year term to serve. Cone Johnson of Tyler, the oldest member of the commission, whose term would have expired in 1931, was appointed to serve in Sterling's unexpired term until 1933, and Martin's appointment officially was to succeed Johnson.

Martin, friend of Sterling for many years, formerly served on the commission and was said here to be acquainted with all phases of the commission's work.

Standard-Vacuum Oil Merger Suit Opened

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6. (AP)—Three judges of the United States court of appeals today were told by lawyers representing the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company that the proposed merger of the two companies was not in any sense a merger in restraint of competition and trade in violation of the anti-trust law. Instead they argued, it was a move to enable the Vacuum company to keep pace with competition in the markets of the world.

Judges Kimbraugh, presiding and W. F. Booth and Archibald K. Gardner, sitting as a district court of the east Missouri district, heard the outline of the merger plan from the company lawyers as the suit of the government to prevent the merger opened.

Road Congress Hears Address by Stimson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Cooperation among nations as a means of promoting peace and prosperity throughout the world was stressed today by Secretary Stimson in an address at the opening session of the sixth international road congress.

Addressing highway experts from 60 nations representing every part of the world, the secretary of state said "it is to the unselfish spirit of international cooperation, so finely exemplified in this congress, that we must look for the basic guarantees to the future peace and prosperity of the world."

SKIES CLEARING AFTER 60-HOUR STEADY FALL

Wichita Area Receives Two To Seven Inches Of Moisture

HIGHWAYS CLOSED

Lakes and Streams Rise Steadily; Damage Held At Minimum

Skies were clearing Monday night over rain-soaked Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma where since Saturday morning slow downpours measuring from two to seven inches drenched the drouth-parched lands. All records in Wichita Falls were smashed Monday when the total precipitation reached 6.12 inches within the three-day period. Of the total, 2.36 inches fell Monday, mostly in the hours of the early morning. Petrolia claimed a record for the section with a fall of seven inches.

Because of the slow, soaking quality of the rains, the damage of the heavy precipitation was held to a minimum as balanced against the immeasurable benefit of the drouth's breaking. All dirt roads throughout the section were rendered practically impassable, but in only two instances were communications broken. The detour between Archer City and Wichita Falls, made necessary by the floods of the early summer, was washed out by high waters and the road closed. Miller creek again left its banks Monday, carrying away for the third time in a year the bridge on the highway between Seymour and Throckmorton. The Brazos above Seymour was out of its banks but no serious damage was reported.

Lake Kemp Rises

The water at Lake Kemp had risen one and one-half feet late Monday with another half foot rise anticipated. Four and one-half inches of rain fell over the lake region proper.

At Diversion lake the water was running over the spillway at a depth of .8 inches Monday, much lower than the overflow in June. The Wichita river was swollen somewhat by the flood waters but still well within its banks. A total of 5.75 inches of rain fell at Diversion lake.

At Lake Wichita the water Monday night was rising toward the spillway at a rate of approximately one-half inch an hour. Since the rains started the rise has measured 18 inches, with the level still a foot below the overflow point. Dr. A. H. Douglass, superintendent of the

Five Charged in Car Theft Ring at Houston

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Oct. 6. (UP)—One of the largest automobile theft rings in the state was believed broken here tonight after complaints had been filed against five men and three more were held for investigation. The latter included a garage worker and two Corpus Christi business men.

Nueces county deputy sheriffs and Houston City detectives left here tonight in quest of more stolen cars. Charges against the five men were filed in justice court at Houston, it was learned.

Searchers Seek Body Of Missing Fisherman

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Oct. 6. (UP)—A searching party, accompanied by an airplane, left here late today to hunt for the body of E. F. Seim, local butcher, who was believed to have drowned in Copano bay.

Seim went fishing early Sunday and had not been heard from since.

Mexican Wrestler Held On Charge of Murder

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6. (UP)—Pancho Vitela, Mexican wrestling champion, was charged with murder today after the body of Roy Salinas had been found in the Mexican quarter. Police said a fatal argument had arisen over Vitela's dog. Salina's head had been crushed with a rock.

Score Hurt By Twister Near Latexo

Brady Hardest Hit by Floods As Downpour Fills Streams

CROCKETT, Texas, Oct. 6. (AP)—More than 20 persons were believed to have been injured and numerous farm houses were demolished today as a tornado struck Houston county, skirting Crockett, and centering on a farming center near Latexo, six miles north of the Houston county seat on the I.-G.N. railroad.

As hospitals here began filling and relief forces battled torrential rains and tree-strewn roads to find other victims, South Central Texas began counting high property damage as a result of three days of unusual weather.

The tornado cut a swath of undetermined length. It first struck five or six miles southwest of here and extended one and one-half miles northeast of Latexo. Mired roads, strewn with debris, tonight had prevented workers from searching beyond that point although it was feared that its path extended considerably farther in a northeasterly direction. Its path was from 200 to 300 yards wide.

Town in Darkness

With the Texas Power and Light company's high line blown down by the twister, this town was in darkness tonight. Six persons were in the Houston County hospital, some in a serious condition, and numerous others were being treated at physicians' offices and in private homes.

"We have heard of approximately 20 persons, men, women and children, who have been injured," State Senator Nat Patton of Crockett declared, "but we don't even know how far the path of the tornado extended. Rain is still falling in torrents and the roads are so blocked with fallen trees and other debris that we have not been able to make a close check on the injured or get to all of them. So far as we know, none was killed."

Homes Demolished

Five to seven farm homes were known to have been demolished, together with dozens of outbuildings. Relief crews including doctors and nurses, found a score injured near Latexo and brought them in.

One of the most seriously injured was Will Norris, farmer residing one mile east of Latexo, who has internal injuries and may die. A child also was reported to be critically hurt. Norris' home was totally destroyed.

The tornado crossed the Missouri Pacific railroad at a section house a mile south of Latexo, injuring Mrs. Bob Westbrook and her three children. They were reported to have been blown 300 feet and all were badly injured.

Charley Sims, another farmer near Latexo and his wife and three children also were injured. Chester Spence and family were reported badly hurt.

The home of Walter Patten, one and one-half miles northeast of Latexo, was reported to have been blown away and concern was felt for this family by Senator Patton.

STREAMS ALL OVER STATE OVERFLOWING

(By The Associated Press)

Texas streams were overloaded in carrying away the surplus water from longtime parched lands today after torrential rains fell generally over the state, flood waters spreading from rivers and creeks to cause appreciable damage in some communities. No lives were lost.

Brady was the hardest hit when the usually tranquil Brady river spread from three to eight feet of water over several blocks of the business section, carrying away from 30 to 40 small homes, making from 200 to 300 persons homeless, damaging merchandise stocks approximately $250,000 and floating off about 1,000 bales of cotton stored in a shed near the river's banks.

Power Plant Covered

The light and power plant there was submerged and put out of business, the water supply was menaced and there was a probability of a food shortage. The Brady chapter

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan And Daughter Slightly Hurt in Crash

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carrigar and Miss Elizabeth Carrigan of Wichita Falls were slightly injured in an automobile accident Saturday near Hope, Ark., according to word reaching relatives here Monday. Their injuries were painful but not dangerous and all are expected to be able to return here within a week.

The three were driving with Dr. F. B. Carrigan, Mr. Carrigan's brother, at the time of the accident. On the highway between Hope and Camden they were forced to attempt to stop suddenly while driving in loose gravel. The car skidded and turned over in a ditch. Dr. Carrigan alone escaped injury.

Miss Elizabeth Carrigan suffered a severe cut on the leg and is still under treatment in a Hope hospital. Mrs. Carrigan was badly bruised and Mr. Carrigan is still confined to his bed with cuts on the hand and head. Miss Mary Carrigan, a niece, was also slightly hurt.

College Committee to Confer With Electra C.-C. on $300,000 Program

J. T. Harrell and J. W. Cantwell, members of the chamber of commerce Junior college committee, will confer with the directors of the Electra Chamber of Commerce Tuesday it was announced Monday.

The two committeemen are making the trip to Electra on the invitation of the chamber of commerce there, and will explain the situation now confronting citizens of this area in retaining a junior college in a separate building from the high school.

Following the conference Tuesday, the committee will submit its report to the meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce here and will recommend that the board of the Wichita Falls independent school district accept the provisions of the junior college act and that the board call an election to vote a bond issue of $300,000 for a jounior college building and that the state legislature at its next session be asked to amend the special act of the Wichita Falls independent school district giving it authority to increase its tax rate not to exceed 15 cents on the $100 on the present limit of $1. in order to provide for the bonds and the construction and maintenance of a junior college.

Although these recommendations propose that the Wichita Falls independent school district

MR. X CLOSES VISIT HERE

'You Should Be Proud Of Your City,' He Says

Mr. X has concluded his visit in Wichita Falls.

Owing to the bad weather he had to postpone three of his demonstrations on Monday. With these exceptions he has performed all the tasks he has undertaken. Of course he could not have the time to fulfill all the requests that were sent to him. Mr. X during his stay repaired clocks, watches, painted pictures, did various demonstrations in store windows, danced at the Marathon contest, and spoke before several clubs and societies, not falling down once.

Praise From Scoutmaster

The following letter is typical of some of the praise that he has received:

Mr. X.
Care Times and Record News,
Dear Sir:

I wish to express my appreciation for the talk which you made last night to troop 16, Boy Scouts. This was undoubtedly the most acceptable talk we have ever had at our troop meeting, combining so effectively, as it did, interest and entertainment with information and logic. The boys themselves, as well as myself, were highly pleased at your presence and your talk.

We were, as you surmised, greatly surprised to learn that you are a member of the national council of the Boy Scouts, and in view of this fact we are wondering if you would object to disclosing to us after your stay in this city in your present role is completed your real identity. We feel greatly honored at your visit to our troop, and would like to know more definitely who our visitor was.

Assuring you that it was a pleasure to meet you, and again thanking you for your address to the troop, I remain.

Sincerely yours,
—KENNETH ERWIN,
Scoutmaster, Troop 16.

Thanks Merchants

"In bidding farewell to the big-hearted people of Wichita Falls, I wish to thank them for the kind way in which they received me," Mr. X declared.

"In every task that I undertook, I did my best, and that is all that a man can do. I wish also to thank the merchants of the city for their assistance. The residents of Wichita Falls should be proud of their merchants and of the stores. In fact they should be proud to live in this wonderful city. I wish it could be my home. As I leave, I will carry away with me some of the most pleasant memories of my work since I became Mr. X, 10 years ago. So good bye to you all."

Big Rain Soaks Wichita Section

city water department, expected to see the lake go over the spillway late Tuesday as the waters from Monday's rain accumulate.

General Downpour

Rains similar to those here fell throughout the three-day period all over Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma, continuing their slow, steady downpour all day Monday. The following reports from the communities of the section were received by The Record News:

ALTUS, Okla.—Skies were clearing here late Monday after a .75 inch downpour during the day had brought the total precipitation for the past three days to a four inches. Buses operating west from Altus to Quanah and from Altus to Hollis were forced to discontinue runs Sunday and Monday. Federal highway 62, west of Altus, being graded and widened, is practically impassable.

TIPTON, Okla.—More than two inches of rain had fallen here late Monday since Saturday morning. Skies were clearing Monday evening. The slow downpour was of widespread benefit to crops.

WALTERS, Okla.—Slow rain continued to fall here Monday night after 4½ inches had been recorded during the past three days. Roads are bad, no bridges are endangered, the downpour having been soaked up as it fell.

DUNCAN, Okla.—A slow drizzle continued to fall in Duncan Monday night adding to the four inches of rain which soaked the country since Saturday. Many acres of wheat planted before the gentle rain started will be greatly benefited and the damage to the cotton is regarded as negligible.

FREDERICK, Okla.—Skies were clearing here Monday afternoon after the county had welcomed a slow, drenching rain which measured between two and three inches and was of great benefit to grain crops.

WAURIKA, Okla.—Rain continued to fall here Monday night after an almost continuous slow precipitation during the past 50 hours. Between two and three inches were recorded.

SPUR—Rain began falling here Friday and has continued without letup since. It is considered the most beneficial that has fallen since 1923 in Dickens county. A total of 2.90 inches of precipitation has fallen with prospects of more, according to the guages at the Spur experiment station.

Farmers throughout Dickens, Crosby, Kent, Motley, and Garza counties are assured of plenty of season for all winter grain and some native winter pasture. Thousands of acres have been planted already to wheat and rye in these counties to be used mostly for winter and spring pasture.

CROWELL—A slow rain has fallen almost continuously in Foard county since last Friday morning and late Monday had amounted to five and two-tenths inches at Crowell with rain still falling.

SEYMOUR—A gentle rain has been falling here since Saturday morning totaling 5.86 inches Monday afternoon. This is the most rain that has fallen in Baylor county in several years and will be of great benefit to the farmers.

VERNON—Breaking a six-year record for October, rainfall here for the past three days had totaled 3.8 inches Monday afternoon, and a light mist was still falling. The downpour is extremely beneficial to farm interests.

STAMFORD—At 4 p. m. Monday rain to the amount of three inches had fallen here since Saturday morning, the downpour continues. The whole country is soaked and people are optimistic over prospects. Cattle are looking well while the fall grass, wheat, oats, and pasturage are progressing.

OLNEY—The drouth was really broken here for the first time in three years by a 5½ inch rain during the last 74 hours. The rain has been slow and continuous, very little escaping by runoff. Cattlemen and farmers are jubilant over prospects for fall grain and pasture.

PETROLIA—With a record-breaking seven inch rainfall recorded since Saturday, a gentle downpour continued to fall here Monday night. Tanks for livestock water are filling and farmers are enthusiastic over prespects for winter wheat and grain crops. Roads are bad but not impassable. No washouts were reported.

ELECTRA—It was still raining in Electra Monday night after 5.88 inches had fallen since Saturday morning.

Marathoners to Demonstrate How They 'Hate to Get Up' to Dance

Men to Get 20 Minutes Sleep on Floor; Rest Periods Being Gradually Reduced

Tuesday will be "cot night" at the marathon dance being held at Aztec Roller rink, according to King Brady, master of ceremonies.

To give the public some idea of what goes on in training quarters, Tuesday night during the rest periods between 8:40 and 9 o'clock and between 10:40 and 11 o'clock, male contestants will take their sleep on cots placed in the middle of the floor. The object is to show the onlookers how easy it is for the contestants to go to sleep and how hard it is to awaken and get them back into action, Brady said.

New rules will go into effect at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, it was announced, and will make the contest the hardest of its kind ever staged. Each day one minute will be taken off the rest period until the contest comes to a close. Another new ruling taking effect at that time is that trainers, nurses or floor men will not be allowed to assist the contestants while on the floor in any way. Instead, a table is being placed in the center of the floor and contains smelling salts, ice, liniment and other necessities for the dancers.

Six couples now remain in the contest which at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon will have been in progress 448 hours.

DEATH CLAIMS G. W. FILGO

Pioneer Wichitan Dies In California

George W. Filgo, former Wichitan, died Monday morning in Los Angeles following a major operation, according to information received here by friends.

Mr. Filgo was a pioneer citizen of Wichita Falls and was formerly a county commissioner here. He was well known and a large property owner. He has resided in California for the past 10 or 11 years, his home being at 321 El Camino, Beverly Hills.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at Beverly Hills, it was learned.

Mr. Filgo is survived by his widow, two sons, George Jr., of Beverly Hills, and Elmer, 1602 Garfield, Wichita Falls, and one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Williams, 2307 Bullington, this city. All except Mrs. Williams were at the bedside. She left for Beverly Hills Monday on receipt of word of her father's death.

RUSSELL L. ECKERTY DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Russell L. Eckerty, former resident here, died Sunday night in Los Angeles, according to information received Monday in Wichita Falls by friends.

Mr. Eckerty was formerly chief clerk for the Gulf Production company here and was later an independent operator. Since leaving Wichita Falls about two years ago, he has been connected with the Gulf as chief clerk to the vice president in Los Angeles. He was a member of Maskat temple and other Masonic bodies here. Burial will be in Eckerty, Ind.

MRS. AMIE WHITE

Funeral services for Mrs. Amie White, 65, who died Sunday morning at her home two miles south of Wichita Falls, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the chapel of the Albert's Funeral home. Burial will be at Burkburnett.

Surviving her are one brother, Horace Brooks of Chatham, Ill., and one foster daughter, Mrs. Faye Francis of Los Angeles.

A. W. McMAHAN

Funeral services for A. W. McMahan, 47, who died Saturday at his home, 409 Travis street, were held Monday morning from the chapel of the Dalton-Powell Funeral home, with the Rev. S. F. Martin, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, officiating.

Pallbearers were C. W. Stewarman, Dale Church, J. L. Hyde, G. G. Church, A. M. Britton and A. M. Gordon.

Experts Probe Crash of R-101

dieu. France tomorrow will pay tribute to the British airmen who lost their lives in the catastrophe which took place as the R-101 was on its way to pass over Paris on the way to India.

Tuesday will be a day of official mourning for the memory of the dead, who now lie in sealed caskets in the historic Hotel de Ville here, grouped about the casket containing the body of their chief, Air Minister Lord Thomson, who died with them.

Stowaways Die

The bodies of the dead and partial remains not yet identified, but which, in view of the as yet undenied report that stowaways were aboard, may raise the total of the killed to 50, were transferred today from the town hall of Allonne, where they were placed yesterday, to Beauvais. One additional casket, that of Walter George Radcliffe, testified that still another life had been given in the cause of aviation.

The possibility that a woman typist had been aboard without the knowledge of the air ministry in London appeared in the finding of a woman's new shoe near the tragic ruins and a charred typewriter. One of the examining experts, however, said he believed that the shoe was one of a pair being carried to a passenger's friend in India.

The identification of Lord Thomson's charred form was made possible by a signet ring, but the body of Sir Sefton Brancker, air marshal, has not yet been identified. Work of further identification is proceeding slowly and systematically under the supervision of a special board of three, headed by a senior officer of the British air force.

You should know this about oil, says mechanic

The proper oiling of household devices presents a problem different from any other form of lubrication. Sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, the electric motors of washers, fans, refrigerators and similar devices have a tendency to collect dirt and rust when not in service. Consequently oil intended for general household use should clean and protect as well as lubricate.

3-in-One Oil will no these three things. For, unlike ordinary oil, it it really three high quality oils in one—animal, mineral and vegetable. It penetrates quickly, cleans the metal surfaces, "stays put," reduces wear and saves repairs. It also prevents rust and tarnish.

Don't make the mistake of thinking "any kind of oil will do." Play safe; insist on 3-in-One Oil. Sold everywhere, by good grocery, hardware, drug and general stores, in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.—Adv.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD, DRINK WATER

Add a spoonful Jad Salts to first glass before breakfast to clear intestines of poisons that may pass from intestinal tract to kidneys and invite trouble.

If you have miserable pains in your back, or strained feeling, don't jump to the conclusion you have a bad kidney ailment and start dosing yourself with a lot of medicine. Plain water is the best diuretic—the best flusher of the kidneys you can find.

Drink a full glass one-half hour before breakfast to which you've added a spoonful of ordinary Jad Salts. The water will flush the kidneys. The Jad Salts will cleanse the intestines of the dangerous toxins of Systemic Poisoning which are probably the real cause of those back pains.

According to recent discoveries of able men of science, these toxins frequently pass from the lower intestines to the kidneys, causing pus formations and pain—and inviting trouble. Get them out of your system and chances are, those pains you've diagnosed as "kidney pains" will go like magic. You'll feel a general easing up, less of that horribly tired and strained feeling at your back. You'll feel more snappy and alert than perhaps for years.

Yet can get the Jad Salts at any corner drug store. Just ask for ordinary Jad Salts. Take as suggested above. Also drink two glasses of plain water between every two meals and at bedtime. Then if your "kidney pains" aren't completely gone in six days or less, see a good doctor. Try this simple way today. You'll be glad that you did.—Adv.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—Adv.

of the American Red Cross had organized a relief program for those who lost their homes and personal belongings.

The water rose eight feet in the chamber of commerce building, submerged the courthouse plaza and from 60 to 70 business houses had water in them ranging in depth from three to eight feet.

COLORADO RISES

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—A rise of at least 26 feet in the Colorado river in the next 24 hours was forecast for Austin by the United States weather bureau tonight. The river stood at .6 foot above normal tonight.

Warnings to move out of the lowlands along the Colorado were issued today by police, and Bastrop and Smithville on the river southeast of Austin, were notified of the impending flood.

The Guadalupe river was on an 18-foot rise near Kerrville, after three days of continuous rain, measuring 7¾ inches, in that hill country. Tonight the water was receding slowly.

Narrow Escape

Tony Sanchez and two others, who attempted to cross a bridge over the river in an automobile, were swept downstream. Sanchez floated five miles on a log, finally pulling himself to safety in the top of a tree. He later was rescued. His companions swam out immediately.

The river waters carried away four small houses in the vicinity of the United Veterans' hospital at Legion.

The San Saba river in the vicinity of Menard was the highest in 20 years and the flood waters were spreading over a large area of lowlands. It was believed all livestock had been driven to safety, however.

The Rio Grande at Del Rio, where more than 10 inches of rain fell, had risen eight feet and still was rising. The Devil's river in the same section was up 15 feet and still rising.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

DIRECTORS DELAY MEETING UNTIL WEDNESDAY

The directors meeting of the chamber of commerce has been postponed one day and will be held Wednesday noon at the Wichita club instead of Tuesday, according to J. S. Bridwell, president. The postponement is made in order to allow the Junior college committee additional time to prepare its recommendation, which will be given at the meeting.

A heavy schedule is booked for discussion, it was announced, including several reports and recommendations of committees. Aside from the recommendation of the Junior college committee, a report from the traffic committee will be heard, involving the change of railroad and bus schedules and the possible establishment of one or two new bus lines, it was said. The nation affairs committee will give a report of its findings on referendum No. 56, having to do with commodity exchange trading, submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce to its affiliated organizations for vote. Several matters referred by the agricultural committee will be acted on, and discussion and possible action will be taken on the local air line situation.

A vote will be held to determine whether the chamber of commerce here will send representatives of boys' and girls' farm clubs to the encampment at the Texas state fair at Dallas. The possibility of the chamber of commerce sponsoring a special train to the State fair from Wichita Falls will come up for discussion.

SENTENCE FOR GORDON TODAY

Tillman Liquor Conspiracy Before Grand Jury

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6. (UP)—Formal sentence of R. O. Gordon, former assistant state attorney general, was delayed in federal court today until 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Gordon pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to bribe a government witness in the Pottawatomie county liquor conspiracy case in which 12 persons of 103 indicted were convicted.

Absence of Gordon's attorneys caused the postponement of sentence.

Gordon was arrested last spring on information furnished by Homer Knappenberger, former Earlsboro mayor, who pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges.

Federal court opened today with sentencing of persons who pleaded guilty in previous court sessions.

The federal grand jury which will investigate an alleged liquor conspiracy in Tillman county will convene Tuesday.

Association Auxiliary Takes Stand Against New Texas Marriage Law

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 6.—The eighth annual convention of the West Texas Auxiliary of County and District Clerk association of Texas, closed a very successful two-day session here Friday afternoon.

The most important subject brought before the convention in the two-day session was the new fee system. The general attitude of the convention showed that the clerks were in favor of repeal of the present marriage license law.

The two-day convention opened Thursday morning in the commissioners courtroom with Miss Edna Bryan, county clerk of Hall county, president, in charge. After a short business session the convention adjourned until after 1 o'clock.

Banquet Tendered

At noon the delegates and visitors were presented with a luncheon by James A. Caldwell, representative of the Dorsey Printing company.

A banquet was tendered the convention by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening. Following the banquet Miss Edna Bryan, county clerk and D. H. Arnold, district clerk, both of Hall county, presented the guests with tickets for the picture show.

The convention opened Friday morning with another business session, with discussions on various subjects, and at noon Miss Bryan and D. H. Arnold, presented the delegates with a luncheon at the Memphis hotel. Following the luncheon the following officers were elected: Roy N. Ivey, Vega, Texas, president; C. L. Upham, Panhandle, vice president; Miss Louise Miller, Pampa, second vice president, and W. E. Blackburn, Amarillo, secretary-treasurer.

The president appointed the following on legislative committee: Chas. Thut, Pampa; J. W. Grigg, Tulia; C. W. Stewart, Claude.

Delegates Listed

Following is the list of delegates attending the convention: W. E. Snow, Amarillo; James A. Caldwell, Dallas; W. E. Van Antwert, Lubbock; Horace Morrow, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Ivey, Vega; C. L. Upham, Panhandle; Miss Louise Miller, Pampa; Charles Thut, Pampa; Judge Mathews, Claude; Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Goss, Dalhart; Mrs. N. Bartlett, Wellington; Mrs. Lenore Horn, Wellington; Miss Cleo Watkins, Dumas; Miss Lois Sherwood, Wellington; Elmer V. East, Childress; Mrs. Bessie Smith, Clarendon, and John W. Grigg, Tulia.

The next meeting place for the annual convention will be decided upon by the executive board.

National G. O. P. Dodges Dry Issue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (INS)—The prohibition question, while exciting millions of voters and splitting party ranks in a half dozen states, today was delegated to the sidelines as a national issue by Senator James E. Watson, spokesman for President Hoover in the senate.

While the president in his speech-making tours invaded only those states where his party is pledged to the 18th amendment, Watson declared the Republican national committee would support Republican congressional candidates everywhere, regardless of their views on prohibition. This was a little different from the utterances of Senator Simeon D. Fess, the Republican national chairman, that national speakers would not be assigned to states where Republicans are pledged to the repeal of the dry amendment.

SOONER SETS STATE LEVY

Tax Rate Held at Three-Mill Level

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6. (UP)—The state tax levy for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930, and ending June 30, 1931, was set at 3½ mills today by the state equalization board.

The levy, which is the constitutional limit, is the same as last year.

Figures compiled show that the 3½ mill levy will bring the state a grand total of ad valorem tax of $5,554,577.76.

The levy is divided as follows:

One-fourth mill to take care of the deficits in the 1929 general revenue fund.

One mill to take care of the deficit in the 1930 general fund.

One and three-fourths mills for general revenue purposes for the current fiscal year.

School Levy

One-fourth mill for common school purposes and one-fourth mill for construction of state highways.

The levy for common school purposes and state highway construction is fixed by state statutes.

Total assessed valuation of the state as fixed by the equalization board is $1,851,525,923.

The amount to be raised from ad valorem tax for 1931 general revenue totals $3,240,170.34.

The one-fourth mill levy for the deficit in the 1929 general revenue fund will bring the state $462,881.50, while the one mill levy for the 1930 general revenue fund deficit will bring $1,851,525.92.

Big Appropriations

Estimated receipts other than an ad valorem tax total $13,265,802.71.

Appropriations from the 1931 general revenue fund for the regular and extra sessions of the state legislature total $12,504,977.54.

Elgin Telephone Co., Comanche county, $25,000; Faxon Telephone Co., Comanche county, $710; Geronimo, Comanche county, $800; Alma Telephone Co., Stephens county, $5320; Carter county, $2,337; Central Telephone Co., Dewey county, $2,121.

The board dismissed the protest of the Pushmataha county attorney against the value of property owned by the Gulf Pipe Line Co., in school district No. 55, Pushmataha county.

A total of $2,500,995.51 for the 20 per cent statutory requirement for delinquent taxes and $1,500 standing appropriation for weak schools added to the legislative appropriation makes the total revenue requirement for the 1931 general revenue fund $16,505,973.05.

The estimated receipts of $13,265,802.71 from sources other than ad valorem tax is considerably greater than the amount received during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930. Total collections during the past fiscal year were $9,454,804.22.

These collections represented funds collected by the state auditor, state treasurer, insurance commissioner, insurance board, bank commissioner, corporation commission, commissioner of land office, board of health, state mining board, board of public affairs, clerk of the supreme court, board of agriculture, and miscellaneous departments.

In addition to setting the new state tax levy, the equalization boar dvoted permanent assessments as follows:

Gainesville Red river toll bridge, $60,000; Kusa Water & Light Co., $2,000; Keifer Gas Pipe Line Co., $4,000; Keifer Gas Co., $4,800; Okarche Light & Power Co., $5,645; Sapulpa Gas Co., $75,000.

Deadlocked Alsup Jury Discharged by Court

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6. (AP)—Unable to reach a verdict after deliberating from 7 o'clock last night, the jury in the John Alsup murder trial was discharged by Judge George E. Hosey in criminal district court at 5 p. m. Sunday.

The jurors reported they were hopelessly deadlocked and declared they did not see any hope for them to agree unanimously on a verdict. The jury was reported evenly divided, six against six, but there was no indication whether the disagreement was on guilt or innocence or on the penalty.

IRVIN S. COBB

Noted Author

"The old time watch-word—'Let the Buyer Beware' has given way to the modern slogan of confidence 'Buy in Safety', and this miracle was wrought by the honesty of manufacture which characterizes every fine American product. A notable example of the modern manufacturers' constant desire to give the public the best is your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos. Anyone can see this as I have seen it on my visit to your LUCKY STRIKE Plant. It's magnificent."

Irvin S. Cobb.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company invited Mr. Irvin S. Cobb to personally witness and to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process and report his findings. The statement of Mr. Cobb appears on this page.

Inspiring Address Given At First Presbyterian Church

Mrs. R. H. Evans, who went to Africa as a bride in 1914 and has since assisted her husband in evangelistic work at Elat station in the Cameroun district, Africa, was honor guest and speaker Monday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church when the Woman's Missionary society of that church was hostess to members of the Lucy Hansell, Floral Heights Presbyterian and East Side societies at a tea.

A woman of such charming personality that she instantly endears herself to all who meet her made her marvelous magnetism felt the instant she began her talk. She painted for her hearers a dark picture, telling them that she was doing it purposely.

Only recently in Baltimore, Mrs. Evans said some one remarked to her lightly, "Why go to Africa to teach the natives religion? They have a religion good enough for them." One need only get off the beaten track, only off the edge and into the interior to see very different places from those Christian communities where evangelistic work is done, the speaker said. "Just drop about 300 miles from the Camerounian coast," she continued, "and you will find natives living as they have lived for centuries. I have heard people speak highly of Mohammedanism but the very fact that Mohammedanism is a polygamous religion is enough for me. The African woman is some man's property from the day she is born until the day of her death. She is a chattel."

In graphic words, the speaker told of how a little girl born in a village belonged to her father at once and if he died, to her brother; if the brother died, to the men of the village and was cast along until she married and very often there is no love in the polygamous marriage.

"Polygamy," Mrs. Evans said, only buys service. There are only two women in a polygamous family who are happy; first, the favorite wife, and her happiness is only temporary and she makes the best of it while she can; and second, the woman who has a new baby."

Contrary to public opinion, there are not many children in Africa and the arrival of a new baby makes the man value its mother, Mrs. Evans said. She stressed the hard work of the women. "African men are lazy," she stated emphatically. She told of the two times when one really works; when the old house wears out and he has to build another and when he fells the trees and helps dig logs out so his wife can plant the peanut crop. The African man was pictured to the audience as perpetually hungry; in palaver they talk of three things, women, war and food. A woman who is a good provider gains her husband's favor.

An amusing story was told of an old African who was asked how many wives he had owned. "How can a man tell how many wives he has had?" he queried. But with the help of his brothers and cousins and the remainder of the family, he managed to count up 84. Of course, Mrs. Evans said, he had only 35 or 40 or maybe 50 at a time, but altogether they remembered 84.

An appealing story was told of the matron of a school who came to Mrs. Evans and told her she wished to marry. Mrs. Evans did not wish to lose her remarkable matron. The woman had been a slave who had never seen her mother, captured as a baby in intertribal war; had been the wife of many men, and then by remarkable coincidence, had come back to the home of her girlhood where she had become a Christian and a matron over about 30 girls. "You might not be happy," Mrs. Evans told her, "and you have been so happy here." "But never since I was born did I have a whole husband to myself," the African matron answered, and Mrs. Evans told her to "go to it."

"We think of the radio as a recent invention," said Mrs. Evans, but the African woman has known it for years. She stands in the middle of the street, preferably early in the morning before people have risen and tells all she knows; she does not hesitate to call names and voices her hate scathingly. She broadcasts it.

No Lovely Old Africans

"Civilization makes us hide our feelings," Mrs. Evans said. "But an African woman does not hide anything; she can talk to the high heavens and she can be sullen and quiet. She is not a very lovely person." Mrs. Evans read to the audience a paper written by a returned missionary who said it was not the Woolworth building, the autos, radios, airplanes, fine hotels nor factories that he noticed when he came home; not the fine dresses nor the ladies who wore them, but the beautiful old women. There are no beautiful old women in Africa. The Christian spirit was stressed as a factor in developing beautiful age.

Interesting stories were told of two beautiful African characters with whom Mrs. Evans had come in contact and the sad pattern that had made up their lives until they became Christians. African church members are wonderful givers, she said, but one woman who tithed might have been an example to the women of America, as her story was told.

Mrs. Evans began her talk with an expression of the happenings she felt in coming back to Wichita Falls after eight years. Dr. Evans is the foreign pastor who has been supported by the First Presbyterian church for 14 years and Mrs. Evans is supported by a northern church.

With their two boys in school in America, for the last three years, Mr. and Mrs. Evans have been separated and the visit to Wichita Falls was arranged for Mrs. Evans so that she might spend her husband's vacation year at home in his company.

Mr. Evans spoke briefly before the beginning of the service.

Mrs. E. T. Duff, president of the missionary society, presided and Mrs. Emma Goff gave the beautiful devotional. Mrs. Walter Priddy and Baldwin Montgomery, with Mrs. Luke McCrory at the piano, sang "Mother Machree."

Parlors Beautifully Decorated

The parlors of the church where the service took place were beautifully decorated with masses of roses and greenery across the mantel and baskets of roses in each window; on tables stood great jars of crimson zinnias.

In the hall where tea was served, the table holding the great cut-glass bowl was covered with a filet cloth and edged with sprays of green and tiny pink roses, making an unusually lovely setting.

Mrs. Duff thanked the social committee, Mrs. Harry Weeks, chairman with Mesdames C. E. Beavers, R. T. Weidmer, Fred Couper and J. T. Bonner and the decorating committee, Mesdames John Humphrey, Luke McCrory, H. J. Strief and B. L. Fain for the lovely decorations and the delicious punch served during the afternoon to approximately 125 members and guests.

Jewish Women's Council Opens Autumn Season

Autumn flowers in brilliant colors decorated the long table at the Woman's Forum clubhouse where the Council of Jewish women held their opening fall program and enjoyed a delightful luncheon Monday. Pretty little hatracks served as place cards. Pastel hats stood on the tops and a space at the bottom held each member and guest's name.

Mrs. Paul Green, president, gave a clever talk following the invocation delivered by Mrs. L. Goldstucker and Mrs. N. Marantz, chairman of the program committee was toastmistress during luncheon.

Mrs. Alvin Horwitz, who is noted for the cleverness of her reviews, gave a splendid paper on cooperation and Joe Witherspoon gave a reading.

Minnie Louise Jordan was presented in a lovely dance during luncheon and Mrs. Sam Kruger, whose work is being accepted by several eastern magazines, read one of her many poems, "The Wax Candle."

Christian Endeavor Hears Address by Mr. X Sunday

Members of the junior, intermediate and young peoples' groups of Christian Endeavor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church were given a surprise Sunday evening when Mr. X, the man of a thousand accomplishments, gave them a special address.

The speaker pointed out in his talk that the young people of today can be and are instrumental in bringing their parents into the fellowship of the church. Mr. X also pointed out that the people of today have excuses for everything. "If we were to ask three absentees from church services why they were not present there would be three different excuses," he said.

The meeting was opened with a song service led by Shirley Donnell. Dr. N. F. Grafton made several announcements, one of which was in regard to a pure food supper in the church on Friday evening, Oct. 17. Revival services will be held at the Ray community church all this week with Rev. Pat Moreland, pastor of the Methodist church in Archer City, delivering the messages.

Mrs. L. L. Davis gave a special musical selection and the meeting closed with the mizpah benediction.

Camp Fire Girls Give Program at Church

A group of Camp Fire Girls under the leadership of Miss Mary McIlhenan, city Camp Fire executive, had charge of the church services Sunday evening at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, when a Camp Fire group was organized in the church.

Miss Ida Weaver presided over the program, which was composed of a number of Camp Fire songs, and the presentation of the seven symbols for which Camp Fire stands.

Martha Nell Eason, Norene Eason, Margaret Stehlik, and Theda Smith, members of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society, were initiated into the new group with Thelma Mae Stehlik, guardian of the organization in charge of the installation.

Miss McIlhearn asked for the cooperation of the church in making the Camp Fire a success, and said that the group would be largely dependent on the support of the members of the church.

At the close of the meeting the Wewoka group from the Crockett school gave a little skit depicting the adventures of camp life. The meeting was closed with the bugle sound.

GERMAN DOCTOR FINDS STOMACH GAS REMEDY

With a simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline, etc., Dr. Carl Weschcke has relieved cases of gas bloating which nothing else would help. His mixture, called Adlerika, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel while other remedies act on lower bowel only. The quick and gentle action of Adlerika for gas and constipation is astonishing. Lesson Presented In Drama At First Methodist W. M. S.

Members of the First Methodist W. M. S. who met in all-day session at the church Monday to study their first lesson in the new mission book, "Trailing the Conquistadores," saw the morning program put on in a clever manner when Mesdames C. A. Spragins, Wayne Somerville and E. F. Bohmfalk acted in costume, "The Cradle of America," and Mesdames Somerville and Spragins later gave a clever rehearsal of "The White Man's Burden."

The meeting was opened with congregational singing led by Mrs. Stanley Raub with Mrs. J. E. O'Brien at the piano. Mrs. J. C. Russell gave an inspiring devotional, urging in her talk that the little band of Christian women talk for the good of all the world.

Mrs. Q. B. Lee, who was in charge of the program for the day, introduced the new study book and gave a short talk on the writer Samuel Guy Monan, who at present holds the chair of International relations at Columbia. Mrs. Lee also made an interesting talk on the Caribbeans and their importance to America, lying as they do directly in the line of travel from Europe to the Panama canal. She spoke of the Monroe doctrine bringing the sense of responsibility to this country, and pointing out the islands of the Caribbeans, named directly the ones to be dealt with, Cuba, Haiti, Porto Rica and San Domingo. Attention was called to the interest the study of the mission book developed in current news of these islands, and Mrs. Lee introduced on the stage a scene from Spain in the new world, the scene being "The Cradle of America," presented in the oldest cathedral in San Domingo. Mrs. Spragins took the part of the abbess, Mrs. Somerville was "Spain" who brought North and South America and all the gifts of the conquistadores and put them in care of the abbess. Mrs. E. F. Bohmfalk, dressed as one of the Indian girls, gave the thrilling climax to a scene reminiscent of the days when ruling Spaniards were cruel to those they conquered. The colorful costumes and the real acting gave the theme of the first chapter in a manner that left it impressed in each mind.

Chapter two was presented by Mesdames Spragins and Somerville who met and discussed it informally as two women interested in the phases of the time. Members were generous in their applause.

Mrs. C. Y. Tully, accompanied by Mrs. O'Brien, sang "Tell Me the Story," in her lovely voice. Mrs. A. C. Walker discussed the "New Caribbeans" in which she spoke of their beauty and of the wonderful climate that had made thousands of Americans go to these places for vacations; she told of the manner of living in the different islands and spoke of the questions that would be particularly handled concerning each. "When Cuba begins to think of Cubans instead of sugar," she quoted, that island will be ready to become something real. She spoke of the Y. W. C. A.'s in the islands with particular enthusiasm.

In the open discussion following, Mrs. W. W. Cook told of the University of Havana and of the Evangelical federation recently launched to look after the divisions and branches of Christian education. The morning meeting closed with the question ringing in each mind, "If the Caribbeans have maintained an economic foothold for 438 years, does not the new Caribbean deserve a place in the Sun?"

Many Members Served Lunch

Circle five, Mrs. R. E. Fisher, chairman served luncheon to 95 members and visitors and Mrs. W. J. Daugherty led in prayer opening the afternoon meeting. A short business session was held and Mrs. Lee again took charge of the program, presenting Mrs. W. W. Silk who reviewed "Cuba, a Struggle for Freedom," in a vivid manner. Mrs. Silk told of the conditions that had endured in Cuba for so many years with little if any improvement yet and showed how hard it is to do missionary work under conditions there.

Mrs. W. W. Cook talked on the subject "Our Work in Cuba," discussing in an interesting and informal way, what has been done in that island.

Those present were Mesdames T. A. Hicks, A. B. Lipscomb, Grover Bullington, W. R. McKinney, C. A. Spragins, Wayne Somerville, W. W. Cook, Q. B. Lee, W. B. Hamilton, W. J. Ramberger, W. P. Smith, Miss Ruth Downing, Mesdames L. C. Ulrich, E. B. Lehrack, E. McCullough, Jason Walker, J. E. O'Brien, A. C. Walker, Guy C. Raley, J. D. Bright, W. R. Thompson, J. C. Russell, W. H. Downing, A. Wichita Students To Hear Talk On Fire Prevention

Finishing the second day of fire prevention week, excellent progress is being made on the campaign, according to Clifford Deaton, chairman of the committee in charge.

A large amount of fire prevention literature has been distributed to schools in the city and discussion on the subject in some of the classes has already started, he said. Speakers from the Junior chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the campaign, will appear at the various schools starting Wednesday and will address the student bodies on the subject of fire prevention.

Addresses will be made to all luncheon clubs during the week.

Adverse weather conditions have been an impediment in carrying out some of the plans for the week, Mr. Deaton said, but as soon as it is clear, several fire trucks will be covered with banners and paraded on the streets to remind the general public of the observance.

College Students Name Officers

Randal Hanks and Bill Hord were elected to pilot the classes of 1931 and 1932 through the 1930-31 terms of Junior college at the two class meetings held Monday morning. Hanks is the president of the senior class and Hord of the freshman group.

Other officers elected by the graduating class were as follows: vice president, Logan Staton and secretary, Nellie Mae Ross. Other freshmen officers elected were: vice president, George Nelson; secretary, Laurette Erwin and treasurer, Oral Jones.

R. O. Jonas, head of the department of education, was chosen as faculty sponsor of the senior class, and the freshmen elected as their advisor for the year Miss Madge Davis, of the English department.

Council Grants Golf Permit, Refuses Grocery

Permission to open an indoor miniature golf course at 813-815 Scott avenue was granted to Albert Phelps Monday night by the city council, subject to the same regulations which apply to other courses in the city.

Several citizens residing near the corner of Collins avenue and Brook appeared before the council with Ewing Claggett as their attorney to protest the granting of a permit to operate a grocery business to Mrs. L. B. Saye, 1701 Collins. The permit was not issued.

The ordinance fixing the city tax rate at $1.60 for this coming year was passed Monday night on its second reading. Representatives of the vicinity of North Burnett and Warren streets appeared before the council to ask for better drainage facilities for that section.

Aldermen J. N. Prothro, C. E. McCutchen, R. O. Harvey, E. H. Eddleman, City Manager George D. Fairtrace, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., City Clerk W. E. McBroom, and City Attorney Thelbert Martin were present at the meeting.

Baptist Society Has Lesson On State Missions

Members of the First Baptist Woman's Missionary society met in an all-day session at the church Monday when Mrs. H. P. Ledford, chairman of circle 11, had charge of the lesson on "Your State and Mine."

The meeting was opened with a devotional by Mrs. Fred Morris after which Mrs. J. W. McCutchen, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. O. G. Stephens, gave a vocal selection. Topics were discussed by Mesdames Floyd Randle, Charles Daniel, Ray Arnhold and G. D. Fox.

Special prayers were given by Mesdames Knox Finley of Oklahoma City and C. R. Smith. Luncheon was served at the noon hour by circle 12. The tables were beautifully decorated with Halloween suggestions and during the hour, Mrs. C. D. Whitley, accompanied by Mrs. Stephens, entertained with vocal numbers.

In the business session reports were heard from the standing committees and Mrs. O. L. Powers gave a special prayer for Mrs. J. L. Jackson Sr., who is ill in Fort Worth.

Those present were Mesdames C. E. Borland, R. C. Smith, W. L. Robertson, John Nossett, L. C. Cole, S. W. Stout, T. H. Stanfill, H. E. Bradley, W. B. Reeves, Charles Harr, J. F. Detlefs, W. A. Miss Russell Weds M. M. Painter Sunday

A wedding of much interest to friends of the couple was that of Miss Dita Lou Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Russell of this city and Maxwell M. Painter of Fort Worth, which was solemnized at the Church of the Good Shepherd at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

The ceremony was read by Rev. W. D. Bratton before the beautifully decorated altar. The bridal party entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. J. H. Allison who played as a recessional, the march from Lohengrin.

The bride was attractively gowned in brown with accessories to harmonize and carried a bouquet of orange tinted roses. The young couple left immediately following the ceremony for Fort Worth where they will make their home.

Mr. Painter is the son of Mrs. Mary M. Painter of Dallas and is connected with the General Motors Acceptance corporation in Fort Worth. Mrs. Painter was an employe of the Commercial Credit company here.

Floral Heights Methodist W. M. S. Has All-Day Meet

An interesting feature of the all day meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Floral Heights Methodist church held at the church Monday was the study of Cuba in which Mrs. Val Land was director.

Following a devotional by Mrs. M. E. Crowell, Mrs. Skeen Staley discussed Cuba, referring to the enormous wealth from the sugar industry. She also gave a brief resume of the former chapters studied in "Training the Conquistadors."

"The Platt Amendment" was defined in detail by Mrs. R. A. Sanders and Mrs. W. C. Chapman ably discussed "The Moral Obligation of the United States to Cuba." Mrs. R. E. Benson presented a lovely poster and Mrs. C. M. Simpson read "Lest We Forget" by Kipling. The morning session was closed with a prayer by Mrs. P. B. Cox.

Luncheon was served by circles one and two with Dr. C. M. Simpson giving the invocation. The afternoon session was opened at 1 o'clock with Mrs. Austin F. Leach, the president, presiding. Mrs. Land led the song service with Mrs. P. A. Newell at the piano after which sentence prayers were given. Mrs. H. C. Jasper gave an impressive devotional from a prayer book which has been in her family for about 400 years and Mrs. Rhea Howard read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mrs. Milton Johnson gave the outline for the week of prayer program and explained the purpose of the offering to be taken for the needy mission stations.

Mrs. M. E. Falk read a splendid treasurer's report after which Mrs. W. J. Stuckler, assistant treasurer, gave a detailed report of the local work and Mrs. S. E. Trevathan gave an itemized account of all departments. Mrs. Floyd Billingsly, the new leader for young people gave an encouraging report of the work being done by the department and Mrs. J. A. Curtis reported good work being done by the baby, primary and children's department.

The flower chairman, Mrs. J. O. Presley, reported flowers sent to sick members during September and social service activities were numbered by Mrs. Paul Harding in her report. Mrs. P. B. Cox, the Missionary Voice representative, urged an increase in subscriptions for the balance of the year. Circle reports were given by Mesdames Lester Jones, John Taylor, F. H. Corbin, A. B. Gough, P. B. Cox, S. V. White, and T. H. Hunter.

Nominating Committee Appointed

In the business session a new nominating committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. C. M. Goodwin, temporary chairman, Mesdames Milton Johnson; P. B. Cox, Rhea Howard and A. B. Gough. Mrs. C. M. Simpson offered a beautiful prayer in behalf of the work of this committee. Mrs. Rhea Howard read a letter of appreciation from the Janie Chauncey day school and a rising vote of thanks was extended circles one and two for the luncheon. The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Austin Leach.

Those present were Mesdames Austin Leach, H. W. Bertin, Rhea Howard, M. E. Faulk, W. J. Stuckler, S. E. Trevathan, Milton Johnson, Val Land, C. M. Goodwin, J. O. Presley, Floyd Billingsley, J. A. Freight Reduction Certificates Ordered

Freight reduction certificates authorized by the government as a measure of relief to farmers in drouth areas are now available to farmers and grain dealers in this section at the office of G. C. McGown, county farm agent, it was announced Monday.

Reduced freight rates under the emergency arrangement may be utilized only until Oct. 31, it was announced. Certificates providing the one-third reduction on feed and livestock must be secured before shipment is made, Mr. McGown emphasized. Feed dealers may secure such reductions on shipments of feed to this point provided they certify that farmers here will receive the benefit of such lowering of costs.

Those wishing to make use of the lowered freight rates for the movement offered or stock were urged by Mr. McGown to do so at once.

10 MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE

No fruit is better adapted to giving dishes an individuality than the colorful piquant cranberry.

Fresh cranberry sauce gives the glorified touch and zest to every meal especially when served with hot or cold meats or fowl.

Make your meals interesting and flavorful by serving fresh cranberry sauce made quickly and economically by this recipe.

Cranberry Sauce

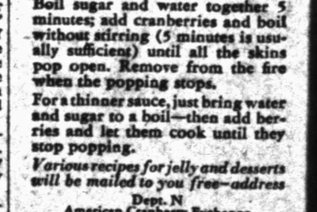

4 cups (1 lb. or qt.) cranberries
2 cups water
1½ to 2 cups sugar

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

For a thinner sauce, just bring water and sugar to a boil—then add berries and let them cook until they stop popping.

Indiana Lady Says She Feels More Energetic After Taking Black-Draught

Evansville, Ind.—"I have known of Thedford's Black-Draught all my life because my father kept it in my home and used it whenever he needed a medicine of that sort," writes Mrs. Earl White, of 1117 Mary street, this city. "He gave it to us for colds or whenever we needed a laxative. Since I have been married, I have used it in my home. I found it very good for children.

"I take Black-Draught whenever I have a spell of indigestion. Sometimes I have pains in my chest which seem to be caused by gas. Black-Draught relieves it.

"If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish and have no appetite, I know that I need something for this condition. I take Black-Draught, because after having used it I feel fresh and have new energy. I recommend it for I find it so good for my own use."

Thousands of others have reported that many disagreeable symptoms, due to constipation, indigestion and biliousness, have gone away after they had taken Black-Draught. Only 1 cent a dose.

Schools Should Teach Health

Our system of education has improved to a marvelous degree in the past quarter of a century, but there are still some vital changes to be made before educators can honestly feel they have fulfilled their duty in giving a coming generation real facts about life and preserving health.

The public school system is undoubtedly improving in its effectiveness in teaching children to be more proficient in making a living. Manual training is available in every well organized school and students are carefully trained to be more efficient in business and making a living, but I do not believe the children learn enough about how to live. This subject seems so important that I believe that at least one-third of the hours of each day should be spent in studying such subjects as physiology and the science of food, the practice of corrective physical culture, and sex instruction. In only a small percentage of schools is the study of physiology made compulsory, and the facts then given are so primary as not to be taken seriously. Many pages are given over to the evils of tobacco and alcohol, but almost no information is given on the important study of food science.

It is amazing, how much the young folks know about literature, and how little they know about the function of their own bodies. Often, they pick up the almost important facts of life in a distorted way, from coarse companions.

The study of physiology is far more interesting and important than most of the stories of classical literature which are studied. I have never yet talked to parents who do not believe that what I am saying is true, and still there is very little constructure effort made to improve the present system of education. The responsibility for putting such studies in the public schools must be laid upon the shoulders of the parents, for they are the taxpayers who employ the teachers and select the boards of education.

Your duty does not end when you send your child to the public schools but if your health consciousness has been sufficiently aroused you will realize it is not only your duty but your God-given opportunity to see that your child is given the very best chance to learn the habits which make for healthful living.

Children's diets do not differ materially from those of adults, and you can impress your advice by the priceless example of practicing good diet habits, yourself. If something is not good for your child it is not good for you. It is not good to say, "This is not good for little boys," and then eat the same indigestible food, yourself.

No teaching you can give your child about the bad effects of certain foods will be worth anything if you continue to show such a bad example.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Stomach Ulcer

Question: M. A. asks—"Will you kindly explain the most positive symptoms of stomach ulceration? Is there any dieting or medical cure for ulcer in the stomach, without surgical operation?"

Answer—If the stomach ulcer has really developed, there will be intense pain in the upper gastric region which is located between the ribs and the navel. This pain is usually accompanied by vomiting of blood and even pus, and in this condition a patient is in danger of having the ulcer perforate through the walls of the stomach or intestines. An operation is sometimes advisable in order to save the patient's life, but if taken in time when the first symptoms develop, a short fast followed by the milk diet will so reduce the irritation that the ulcer can heal by itself without surgical interference.

Diet in Rheumatism

Question: J. D. E. asks—"Are fresh figs and peanut butter good foods for one who has rheumatism?"

Answer—Figs, either fresh or dried, may be freely used by one suffering from this trouble, and while no especially harmful results will come from the use of thoroughly roasted peanuts or the butter made from roasted peanuts, one troubled with rheumatism does better on a diet regimen such as my Cleansing Diet Course which does not include nuts.

Turkish Baths

Question: Mrs. H. asks—"What is your opinion of Turkish baths for reducing? I find that can always lose two or three pounds with each bath. Do you consider them harmful?"

Answer—The Turkish bath causes a reduction by an elimination of water from the body, but one usually regains the weight again as soon as food or liquid is taken. They are useful in some disorders, however, because a large quantity of toxic material is usually discharged in the perspiration.

JURY TO PROBE DOUBLE VOTING

Martin Also Asks Inquiry Into Liquor Traffic

Suggestions that the October grand jury impaneled Monday morning by Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court investigate recent election irregularities, laxity in enforcement of the prohibition laws, and alleged illegal treatment of negroes by local officers were contained in an address to the new jury by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

Addressing the jurors at the request of Judge Montgomery, Judge Martin referred to numerous reports that certain men in Wichita county had voted both as Democrats and as Republicans in the recent primaries. He promised to furnish the name of an election official who "told of knowing the names of men who did that."

Irregularities in prohibition enforcement which are being charged here, Judge Martin said, refer largely to the disposition of liquor seized by the constable's department. Investigation of that matter was recommended.

Alleged refusal of local officers in some instances to allow negro suspects the privilege of bail, and reported cases of holding persons arrested on suspicion for prolonged periods without warrant, complaint or legal authority were referred by Judge Martin as warranting investigation by the grand jury.

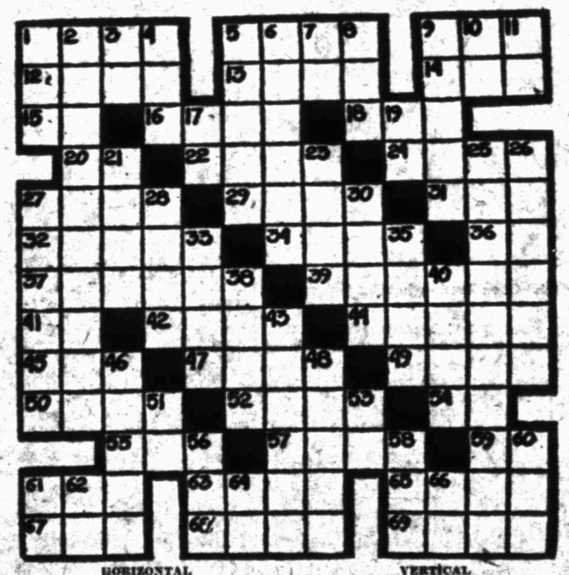

"The grand jury report is read by everybody," he said, "and has the effect of silencing the fellow who sits on the sidelines and unjustly criticizes the officers. But it also makes a negligent officer more diligent."

Cases docketed for investigation by the present grand jury number less than 25, according to District Attorney Sam B. Spence. There are no capital cases included, he said. It was predicted that the jury's report will not be returned before Wednesday evening.

The grand jury is as follows: Gordon Douglas, M. A. Barwise and A. L. Robb, of Electra; W. W. Chambers, A. L. Gregg and F. A. Hill of Burkburnett; Carroll Duke and John B. Barbour, of Iowa Park; Walter Curlee Marvin Smith, J. L. Jackson Jr. and John W. Thomas, of Wichita Falls.

HOOVER PLEADS 'TEAM PLAY'

President Addresses Two National Meetings

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Cheered in two addresses before the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor, President Hoover today called for nationwide team work to end the business depression and denied the existence of imperialistic ambitions by the people of America.

Immediately after the conclusion of his labor speech, expressing confidence that the nation would build steadily and mitigate the destructiveness of business storms, the chief executive left on his special train for a 21-hour run to King's Mountain, N. C., where tomorrow he is to speak at the sesqui-centennial of the revolutionary war battle.

Praises Team Play

"The demonstration of nationwide cooperation and team play and the absence of conflict during this depression have increased the stability and wholesomeness of our industrial and social structure," Mr. Hoover said at the 50th annual convention of the labor federation, held in the auditorium of the Hotel Statler.

He asserted expansion of construction and freedom from strikes and lockouts had contributed greatly to lessening unemployment. Turning to the bituminous coal industry for specific remarks, he held that it was suffering most from readjustment made by new discoveries and labor-saving devices and added that "destructive competition and breakdown in wages" had severely handicapped it.

Destructive Competition

Six thousand independent mine owners, he said, were operating 7,000 mines, and he urged elimination of this "destructive competition" as "one key" to the solution.

Earlier in the day, a few hours after his arrival from the capital, the chief executive received an enthusiastic demonstration from the American Legion.

He spoke in the Boston arena where two years ago to the day, he spoke during his pre-election campaign. Thousands of legionnaires, with their states banners held aloft in a manner suggesting political conventions interrupted the president repeatedly as he asserted that the "peace of our country has never stood more assured than at this moment," and warned that a belief by some leaders in other countries that "they were in the presence of the birth of a new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples" and an "utter misconception."

Coolidge Acclaimed

Before the legionnaires, the present chief executive shared his acclaim with his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge, who sat on the platform beside him as an honorary chairman of the legion.

The former president was cheered as Mr. Hoover diverted from his prepared manuscript to pay tribute to "my eminent predecessor," to whom he gave credit for carrying through "with great success during his administration" the Kellogg-Briand pact for outlawing war.

After the conclusion of Mr. Hoover's address, when former President was presented to the convention by O. L. Bodenhamer, commander of the legion, the audience arose and applauded.

Through a demonstration lasting more than a minute, the legionnaires clamored for a speech by the past president. While the Vermont banners waved vigorously, held far above the others, and Mrs. Coolidge sat and shook her head smilingly at her husband in the belief that he should not speak, Mr. Coolidge remained quiet.

Finally, rising slowly from his seat as the tumult gave no indication of abating, he advanced to the microphones and stilled the applause, saying:

"To save the time of this convention, I am going to give you one sentence:

"You have paid your debt to Lafayette, but you still owe a debt to yourselves and to the United States of America."

Walton Members To Meet Tonight

Members of the Wichita Falls chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America will hold their first meeting of the new chapter year in the 78th district courtroom Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced Monday by Ben G. Oneal, president.

Several questions of importance to the league and to sportsmen in this area will be brought up for discussion, it was said. Among these will be the league's relations with the national association and with the state association, questions concerning the league's bass rearing ponds at Lake Kemp and Lake Wichita and the distribution of fingerling fish from these ponds.

Breckenridge Lays New Gas Lines

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 6.—The unemployment problem here will be materially aided during the next three weeks by improvements slated to be started here Monday by the Texas-Louisiana Power company.

C. G. King, district manager of the company, with headquarters in Breckenridge, announced that his company would put 50 or 60 unemployed men to work within the next two or three days at laying approximately 4,000 feet of new eight-inch gas mains. The work will keep this large crew of men busy for 12 or 15 days, Mr. King said. Several thousand dollars will be expended by the gas company in laying the new line.

Mr. King said that the new gas line would be brought in from the east part of town, tapping a new natural gas source. The line will serve the city and will give the gas company three large lines now with which to furnish their customers during the winter months.

A municipal opera school has been formed by the Santa Monica, Calif., Bay Music association.

Too Many in Cities
Bobby Jones' Science
$10,800 Worth of Hair
Killing the Old

By EMILE GAUVREAU

As one way out of the unemployment problem, AE, visiting Irish poet and economist, urges the building up of a rural civilization. He calls upon poets to aid and further this aim.

There is no doubt that there are too many people living in big cities. They would be better off in the small towns, or on farms, where they could do useful work, instead of degenerating here as middlemen, entrepreneur, and go-betweens, who are parasitic and a drain on legitimate production.

The planting and cultivation of a single potato represents more productivity than all the manipulations on the stock exchange. Brokers produce nothing. Any day laborer is more useful.

That winning a game may cease to partake of the nature of chance and become a science is demonstrated admirably in the triumphs of Bobby Jones, who carries off the national golf championship for the fifth time, a record unprecedented in golf. Babe Ruth demonstrated this in baseball, Helen Wills in tennis, Vanderbilt in yacht racing, Hiltenbrand in bowling.

The integers in chance can be studied and mastered the same as the integers in any algebraic or geometric problem. The perfect scientist, if there were such a one, could predict, for example, the precise emotional responses in a human being to any given stimulae. He would be, in fact, the first man in history to understand woman, and could make her fall in love as surely as he could get bubbles from boiling water.

Chance is nothing other than an imperfect reading of the way, cause and effect operate. An absolute knowledge of this law would make us sovereigns of the universe.

What price tresses? Here's a woman, Lola White, who estimates the worth of her own at $10,800. That is the amount for which she is suing a beauty salon, claiming the process used by the salon for bleaching the hair caused the hair, instead, to fall out. The replenishment of her beauty has cost the plaintiff, so far, according to her affidavit, the amount claimed.

Some of our training schools would go bankrupt if they had to pay for the minds they have ruined and which no amount of money can help to rebuild.

Pleading for the lives of 45 old street cleaning horses, whose usefulness is over, Mrs. Stella Ehrlich, president of the Horse Aid society, appears before the New York department of sanitation. A dozen dobbins have already gone, in a heap, to their maker, but there are still two score and more that may enjoy old age at a dobbins farm at Milwood, N. Y., if Mrs. Ehrlich proves a convincing Portia.

Shooting animals who suffer may be an act of mercy, but shooting them because their usefulness is over is an act of inhumanity. Some years ago a scientist suggested the killing off of our aged men and women who were no longer productive. But that scientist became the most unpopular man in the land.

It is becoming more and more apparent republicanism with the Germans is unpopular and always has been. They did nothing more than endure this form of government since the removal of the kaiser as a concession to the allies. But, it is well to remember, they put a war lord at the head of it. Now, it seems, they have had enough of representative democracy and are restive for dictatorship. From that to monarchy is but a step. Some people would rather be slaves than free men. The Germans love masters.

The founding of a school of geography at Harvard supplies a long-felt want. It will, at least, enable students to write home that they have covered considerable ground.

There are 50,000 horses in New York, latest statistics reveal. So the stock market there isn't as badly off as we thought.

The 'Why' of Brutality

A COMMITTEE of the American Bar association, appointed to study lawless methods of law enforcement, recently made this report concerning police brutality:

"We can only say that the 'third degree' in the sense of rigid and severe examinations of men under arrest by police officers or prosecuting attorneys or both is in use almost everywhere, if not everywhere, in the United States."

There is nothing in that remark which has not been suspected by most people who devote any thought to such things; but the statement is disturbing enough, in all conscience, and it probably will be the jumping off place for a new campaign against third degree methods everywhere.

Now the third degree is a disgrace to civilization, and deserves no defense. But while we are campaigning against it, we might as well look a little farther and figure out just what it is that causes the third degree to be so generally used.

Policemen and prosecutors, to begin with, are no more brutal than the rest of us. Some of them are hard-boiled and a very few are downright cruel, but in the main they are pretty representative citizens, as decent and kind hearted as their jobs will let them be. Why, then, does the ordinary man who is arrested as a suspect in a crime take it for granted that he will be kicked and cuffed and bruised and whipped when he reaches the station house?

The real reason, probably lies, not in the police station, but in the courts of justice.

The average policeman is pretty cynical about the courts. He sees notorious rogues go into court and come off scott free because of the machinations of clever lawyers, the interminable delays of legal procedure, the favoritism of judges, the intimidation of juries or the connivance of unscrupulous court attaches. He knows that arresting a criminal is much easier than convicting him. He knows that there are often wheels within wheels in his city's legal machinery.

So it has become a police axiom that the case against a suspect is hardly complete without a signed, sworn confession; and it is the eagerness to get this confession—born of the sad knowledge that without it the best case in the world may fall through—that causes the third degree.

All of this, of course, does not form an excuse. No language is strong enough to condemn the practice of torturing prisoners into making confessions. But understanding this background may help us in the task of eliminating the third degree. Concentrating our energies on the courts might do more good than simply calling policemen names.

A New Source of Danger

IT IS not especially reassuring to learn that Adolf Hitler promises, if he ever comes to power in Germany, that he will do everything he can to evade fulfillment by Germany of international treaties.

Since Hitler's Fascist party made such a spectacular gain in the last election, and since there are so many strong rumors of an impending "putsch," or forcible seizure of power, by this party, the chances of Hitler's coming to power are not quite as remote as one might wish; and if he ever does come to power resolved to carry out the program he has outlined, you may rest assured that Europe will have plenty of trouble.

It is quite possible, of course, to argue plausibly that many of the international treaties under which Germany now labors are unjust and should be revised; but sudden, forcible revision such as Hitler advocates could only mean war. This Austrian politician seems to rank now as the leading source of danger in all Europe.

Pies and Their Crusts

HERESIES in the matter of food have been spreading throughout the land of recent years; but no heresy more fundamental or sweeping has yet appeared than the bland assertion in a recent cook book that pies, especially apple pies, should be baked without any bottom crust, "since nobody ever eats the bottom crust anyhow."

Here is a blow square at the jaw of one of America's greatest institutions. This nation was nourished throughout its youth on apple pie. In Boston, cradle of liberty, they eat apple pie for breakfast, and thrive on it. And any genuine, dyed-in-the-wool pie eater would as soon think of leaving the bottom crust uneaten as he would forget to honor his wife's birthday.

The man who, tackling a piece of pie, leaves the bottom crust to its own devices, bare and forsaken, is no true pie addict. It was not by such men that our nation became great. Pie was made to be eaten, and the under crust is its chief jewel and its greatest glory.

Our Responsibility in Cuba

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH of Massachusetts is not a senator given to the making of wild and irresponsible statements; consequently, when he declares—as he did recently—that affairs in Cuba are in a bad state and that a violent revolution may develop if this country does not take some sort of action, his assertion deserves some serious consideration.

Under the Platt amendment, this country has a more direct degree of responsibility for affairs in Cuba than for affairs in any other Latin-American nation. We gave Cuba her independence and pledged ourselves to see to it that her national existence ran fairly smoothly. If anything goes wrong there we cannot wash our hands of it.

Senator Walsh's statements needs looking into.

BROADWAYCASTING

(Being part of latest Winchell radio gab)

Ladies and gentlemen, and those who like Hellinger better. Before offering the sweet-and-low-down on the locals who take themselves seriously, please let me delight you with two of the featured pretenders in George White's musical hit, "Flying High," at the Apollo theater. They are Pearl Osgood and Russell Brown, whose clowning, songs and stepping in that hit usually stop the show colder than a Broadway audience when your act isn't so hot. They will duet "Good for You, Bad for Me," one of the contagious chunes from Mr. White's smash, (Song here). Thanks very much, Pearl and Russ. Please forgive me for making you get up so early. And now for the weekly libel.

Buddy Rogers and Mary Brian who are supposed to be sweetenheartens, and who went to the Palace together Sunday eve'g, are confusing everyone. Buddy took Claire Windsor to "Once In a Lifetime" Monday night and then they went gay in the hot-spots together . . . The King of England has asked Lord Derby to take his racing stables to the U. S. to create good will . . . The picture page editor of a local rag was fired last week for giving plenty of space to night club cuties who offered nudes instead of news.

If you recall "The Jazz Singer" in which Mr. Jolson wept so furiously, you may remember that in the flicker Al quit the show to observe the holiest of the Jewish holidays, the Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur . . . Well, I've been wondering if Jolson will practice what he screeched in that film during the current Jewish holidays, considering that he is getting $20,000 this week at the Capitol instead of only 15 G's. "The Jazz Singer," you know, was supposed to have been based on Al's life.

Evan Potter, Natalie Hess's beau, has challenged the following men about town to duels: Frank Patterson, George Brokaw, William Hare and Erskine Hewitt, who like to play bridge with Natalie and lose diamond vanity cases . . . Sue Daly suggests that it be called The Metropolitics Opera House . . . Far be it from me to make some of you very ill, but I thought you should be reminded that the first anniversary of the Wall street Crash is Oct. 18.

Belle Livingstone, whose salon (one "o" again, please) on Park avenue was raided, is plotting another whoopee cathedral. In it will be a sardine golf course. "I may only last a week," said Belle, "but I'll show this town something different!" . . . About the only thing Belle can show New York that it hasn't already seen, is a woman who doesn't expect a man to be true.

When Richard Bennett, the actor who makes speeches about critics, falls down in a night club, he knocks over at least five tables.

One of the mags carries a sad story about Joan Lowell, whose book about her sea career was finally renamed "Ship Ahooey" . . . Joan says the critics broke her heart . . . Joan is better described as the type who could discover a hair in a dish of spinach . . . The maw and paw of La Guinan will celebrate their Golden Wedding (not rye) Anniversary at their daughter's asylum on Oct. 18 . . . And at least one of us is wondering what the older generation is coming to.

His intimates would have you believe that Charlie Schwab, the big steel man, does all his business between 9 and 10 in the morning in his barber chair . . . While he is having his face spinach razored or his fingers polished or his boots glistened a secretary reads his mail . . . As soon as she has finished reading a letter Cholly dictates the reply to another sec'y . . . Then he calls it a day, they say . . . In other words, he has it easier than a Broadway radio colymist, who is so lazy he won't even use a megaphone.

Gloria Swanson, it appears, cost the company a mess of coin when she refused to permit Constance Bennett on the studio set, thus holding up Connie's flicker . . . The reason for the Swansong was that Connie had been listed among Gloria's rivals for her husband's adoration . . . However, it isn't the Marquis, at all . . . They say Lew Ayres is the one who can't eat or sleep because of Connie . . . Gavin Gordon is suffering from tight collar poisoning and Greta Garbo's indifference, which must be a painful combination.

Incidentally, Greta told a mutual pal that she will never again Go For another lad . . . "I'll go out with them, now and then," said the Greatest Garbo, "but no more will I promise to be true!" . . . And Motion Pictures reminds us that Mary Duncan believes that love is the most important thing in life but that she will never again make any sacrifice for it . . . Cholly Chaplin and Bill Haines almost came to blows at a party the other week-end—as did Fifi Widener and her husband in the Bulb Belt Chewsday yawning.

Although the Guinan asylum has only been open a week at most one of the Guinan heart-juggiers Judith Dean (17), will middle-aisle it within the fortnight with Jack Stack Jr. of Alcohollywood . . . They met when the lights were low and the music was soft and slow . . . Prince Sotcheeney (which isn't the way you spell it—that's the way you pronounce it!) of Hungary is a handsome guy, who has the local debs and dowagers frothing at the mouth.

Inasmuch as we have been talking out of turn all these years it is only fair to reprint the truth about ourself . . . A Mr. Harris of a San Francisco mag has this to say: "As a matter of fact some columnists are far worse craftsmen than Coolidge, even though they are far more entertaining. Take Winchell, for example. In N. Y. there are hundreds of people who grow apoplectic at mere mention of his name. A few years ago he was a song and dance man, and, by his own confession, a flop at that. He writes of cheap actors, scandals, etc. That is Winchell's type, who is fond of calling himself a newspaperman. He will be a wise-cracking, gossiping trouper so long as he lives. He does a dozen things a day that grate painfully on the sensibilities. But with all this he exerts a tremendous fascination over regiments of readers. Some people who despise him most read him regularly; in fact I read his column every day."

That's all I wanted to know!

A more amusing gag is that they got $11 for premiere tickets to "Abraham Lincoln," the movie which caused one critic to remark that they didn't charge that much at the old Ford Teather the night he was assassinated!

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

Illustrated by Jay Hyde Barnum Copyrighted by Public Ledger

She picked up the telephone and asked for Granby's number. In a moment she was speaking to him.

"I must see you," he said.

"Are you able to go out?" she asked.

"You'll have to come here."

"To your apartment?"

"Donna—please," he cried. "We must talk—we'll have to. Donna, do you love him?"

"Why not?" she asked.

"I might know it." His bitter laugh was a revelation. "To the victor belongs the spoils. But I must see you."

She hesitated a moment.

"About noon, then?"

"If you can't make it sooner."

"I can't," she said. "It's 11 now."

She hung up thoughtfully.

Of course. It was too obvious. He wanted her—he was responsible for her entrance into circles where she could encounter Frank Gardner. He felt that—he owned her. He had given her money. True, there had been a bargain, or a wager, involved, but—what man ever held to a bargain with any woman?

Why hadn't Frank telephoned? A wild idea came into her head. Gardner wanted to be married right away. Why not marry him at once, this very day, and thus discount anything that Granby, in pique, might say to the younger man? For Granby couldn't after she had married Gardner, say to the husband what he might cadishly say to the lover.

But marriage is for a long, long time, discretion suddenly told her. To marry for anything in the world save love . . . Well, did she care for Gardner?

He had kissed her last night and the kiss had not been unpleasant. Indeed, she had returned it with a fervor equal to his own. But—did that mean anything at all? Circumstances had made it imperative that she receive his kiss. She regarded herself reasonably. After all, human beings are composed of flesh and blood. She was young and he was attractive and not to be stirred by his kiss would have been to deny her own humanity.

But love—that was different from the passion inspired by the moment. And to marry a man whom she didn't love, as an escape from any trouble however great, was—well, she didn't think she could do it. Certainly she couldn't do it until she had seen Granby, until she knew exactly how great the trouble was and how imminent.

Dressed, a taxi summoned, she hesitated on the sill of the outer door as the telephone rang. This might be Gardner. But it was, Jennie informed her, another newspaper man, avid for information about the girl who had captured Frank Gardner.

Why hadn't he telephoned? This was not in keeping with the ardent youth she knew. True, he had sent flowers, but not to have called up. . . . A battery of cameras greeted her as she stepped out upon the sidewalk. Before she realized what had happened shutters had clicked a dozen times. Well, after all, this didn't matter. But, inconsequently, she thought of Jiny Loan, her companion when she had written to Ran Granby, asking his financial aid, of those other people, men and women, whom she had known in those earlier days before Granby's money had unlocked for her the doors of another world. Those old acquaintances would sooner or later recognize her pictures in the papers. Would some of them, perhaps, try to make some profit out of their knowledge as to who she was? . . .

"Come, come, you mustn't do that. Good Lord—what did you expect me to do? Scold you?"

Not Jinny Loan, though. She hadn't thought of Jinny in weeks. She felt a sudden wish to see her, to talk things over with her. Dear little Jinny, who had never tried to repair their broken friendship. . . . She forgot Jinny as she alighted at Granby's apartment house.

At Granby's Apartment

Granby himself opened the door for her. He was dressed, she noticed later, in some sort of house suit, brown in color, and with silk facings. It was the sort of luxurious garment that on any other occasion would have made her smile because it was exactly in keeping with his somewhat romantic conception of himself.

But at first she was only conscious of the bruises on his face. She smothered an exclamation of pity.

"Oh, this?" He touched his face. "Pretty awful, but Gardner's no dewy rosebud himself, as you've noticed. Come in. Sent the servants away. Not a soul to notice, to talk scandal—"

He closed the door behind her and ushered her into a comfortable living room. He walked, she was glad to notice, without apparent effort.

"Shouldn't you be in bed?" she asked.

"That's what the silly doctor said. Wanted me to keep a nurse indefinitely—good lord, this is nothing to what I've gone through playing football."

"But that was—" she stopped abruptly.

"When I was young, you mean to say, eh?" He grinned at her, and this grin was as revelatory as his bitter laugh over the telephone. He could be cynical and also mischievous, whereas she had been seeing him as merely kindly and pompous. "I'm not exactly aged, my dear. Six months' training and I'd be better than I ever was. And if that young ass, Gardner—sorry, if you don't like what I call him, but this is a time for plain speaking—if he had not come around to see me—I'd have taken that much training and tried again."

"No," she said. "Fighting is so—futile."

"Eh? Futile? Never had a better time in my life. Fine chap, Gardner. Congratulations and all that sort of thing. Only—"

"You congratulate me?" she interrupted.

"Why, of course. Why not?" he demanded.

For answer she put her face in her hands. Tears seeped between her fingers.

"Come, come, you mustn't do that. Good lord—what did you expect me to do? Scold you?"

She looked at him through blurry eyes.

"I thought you were going to tell me that I mustn't."

"Mustn't what?"

"Marry Frank," she said.

"Why shouldn't you? And why should I give you any orders?"

"Then you aren't?"

"Certainly not." He was brusque, but just a shade too brusque to be completely convincing.

"Well, not orders, exactly, but—well, arguments?"

"What sort of arguments?" he demanded.

"Well, you might not think it funny. You see, I thought that perhaps you were going to threaten to tell Frank about—about financing me?"

His blank expression, upon that battered countenance, was grotesque. But bewilderment changed to anger.

Q.—What is the significance of the claw-and-ball foot on furniture?—M. G.

A.—This is a characteristic trait of the Chippendale style. It was first introduced to England in the Chinese pieces that Sir Francis Drake brought from his voyages, and which symbolized the Chinese dragon guarding in its claws the jewel of truth.

Q.—Please tell something about the Lost Battalion.—S. J. G.

A.—The Lost Battalion is the name given to the 308th regiment, U. S. infantry, commanded by Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey. Whittlesey was ordered to advance through the densest part of the great forests of the Argonne during the world war in order to take a certain point and hold it. Far in advance of the other troops he was soon surrounded by the enemy and attacked for four days and nights. Over 100 hours passed without his men obtaining any food and only a little water. The majority of his command was killed or wounded but Whittlesey refused to surrender. He was eventually relieved.

Q.—Please give me such information as you can as to the transfer from the state of Massachusetts to the state of New York of the triangular piece of territory which is now the southeasterly corner of Columbia county, New York.—H. C. W.

A.—Boston corner lies along the southwest line of the town of Mount Washington, Berkshire county, Massachusetts. It is of triangular form. It was first settled by Daniel Porter about 1763, was incorporated as a district April 14, 1838, and ceded to New York May 14, 1853. This cession was made because persons arrested there could not be brought to a Massachusetts court without going through New York territory, there being no road over the mountains to the eastward into the adjoining Massachusetts town of Mount Washington. Prize fights and similar activities were common there because the New York sheriff had no authority there and the Massachusetts sheriff either could not reach the place in time or was powerless after he got there.

COYOTES, PROUD IN DEFEAT, GET READY FOR ELECTRA TIGERS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Cardinals lost one of the most remarkable baseball games in world series history yesterday, lost it after battling stupendously to the last inning, and old Burleigh Grimes received credit for his second defeat in the series.

And in losing that game the Red Birds probably lost out in their scramble for the 1930 title as masters of the whole baseball world.

It was a tough decision to lose, but Grimes should not take it too hard. That game brought to light one of the most amazing duels of hurlers ever dreamed of. In our opinion, Grimes did a better job than Earnshaw. A near fatal error on the part of Second Baseman Frisch was instrumental in getting the bases loaded with eager Athletics, and a pitcher who can get two men out with the sacks loaded is no less than a giant at his trade; and that is exactly what Burleigh did. Earnshaw, going out for a pinch hitter, was cheated of credit for the victory, Grove reaping the honor of being called the winning pitcher. Grove indeed deserves plenty of credit for his masterful handling of those last grueling moments, but Earnshaw was the real pitching star of the A's. The spectacle of Earnshaw and Grimes fighting to the death will go down in baseball history as an ironclad battle of masters.

Also, the game of yesterday should quiet the critics of baseball, if indeed they are still howling about the game degenerating. When Hallahan blanked the Athletics the other day, it was the first shutout game in a world series since 1926. Yesterday the Athletics made it two shutouts in world series in four years.

There have been numerous other records broken in this series. In fact, every game has produced its record breakers, and it is hard to keep up with them. We will have to wait for the final statistics for the entire series before we can digest the many records that have been smashed by modern day big league baseball players. Indeed, the old game is getting bigger and better, even if stories of the good old days of Christy Mathewson and the rest still sound alluring.

The Cheer Leaders

High school students would help the Coyote team immeasurably if they would use a little discretion in their howling, or, to be exact, if they would time their howling so it wouldn't absolutely deafen the ears of the players while the quarterback is trying to call signals.

The time to howl is when the ball is in possession of a runner, or after the ball has been snapped by the center. Howling then is proper, and should be indulged in even to the extent of a person being hoarse for a week. But cheering while the quarterback is calling signals is disastrous, as was evidenced in last Saturday's game.

In that instance, the ball was in play right in front of the grandstands. Little Danny Cox and his mates, fighting in their opponents' territory, and with a chance at a score, every one of them muddy and soaked to the skin, lined up in formation. Cox waved frantically to the stands, trying to quiet the boys and girls so he could tell his team what to do. He called signals three times, and not a word he uttered was heard by his mates. He tried again, but the crowd still howled. Finally, the allotted time before putting the ball into action elapsed, and the team was penalized about 10 yards. It hurt. It hurt very much. Those boys had plowed through mud, fighting for every inch, and here they lost 10 precious yards because their loyal boosters didn't have sense enough to keep their mouths shut at the right time.

The fault lies not so much with the cheering high school fans, as with the cheer leaders. A football crowd, or any kind of a crowd, for that matter, has no control of itself. It depends on a leader. It will do whatever their leader says.

The cheer leader selected by the high school showed himself to be exactly of class D caliber at that game Saturday. When the team was penalized for taking up too much time, the cheer leader was still calling for yells. He used no judgment whatever. He always called for cheers at the wrong time. Every time Danny Cox started calling signals, the cheer leader would shout, "Now let's give 'em Zip, Boom, Ah," or whatever they call their yells.

And at the time when the fans should be led in some rousing yell, when the teams were in action and silence was not necessary, the cheer leader failed to call on the crowd for some organized whoop.

Now don't argue with me, my dear fellow comrades of the Wichita Falls High school, for I know what I'm talking about. You might think it okay for your band to play and your fans to shout when a quarterback is calling signals, but you are wrong.

Several years ago I was one of you, and I played in the old University of Texas Longhorn band for over two seasons. And when one of us band boys lifted a horn and emitted a single note while a quarterback of either team was calling signals we got one of two things, a sock in the nose by our band director, or complete suspension from the band. And the thousands of people who attended the football games down at Austin were kept under control by their cheer leaders.

Personal Notes

George Blackerby, Dallas and Western league outfielder last season, has returned to his home here.

Milton Price, Texas league secretary, is vacationing.

I haven't seen J. Alvin Gardner in weeks.

All the baseball offices are closed, Prexy Huff and Guy Airey being away. They should be back from the world athleticus any day now.

For the information of John (Roughly Speaking) Gould, spinach is now prepared a la potato chips, in crisp little flakes, and you can get the food value without having to taste the d—— stuff.

Now how about a pome on that, John?

I believe her name is Mrs. Mabel Rankin, but anyway she was jobbing the ears off the Junior college tennis courts before Northwest Texas became a lagoon of the Pacific ocean.

There's a golfer in this town who holds a record—probably a world's record—by virtue of playing 72 holes of golf every time he gets out. I won't tell you his name, yet. Good story coming up on him in a few days.

BARRY PLEASED AT TEAM'S GRIT

Raw Pack Tackled Real Vets, Statistics Show

By FRED D. THOMPSON

In this respect, at least, the Wichita Falls Coyotes resemble the St. Louis Cardinals: When they lose, they snarl.

And they had plenty reason to snarl and keep their heads high in the air Monday when they reported to Coach Holton—plenty reason to feel enthused, instead of discouraged at the 13 to 10 defeat they suffered in Saturday's muddy imbroglio with the Westerners of Lubbock.

The reasons being supplied by a comparison of the experience of the men making up the two teams—a comparison that makes one think of the Coyotes with the highest of regards—and the reflection that the Coyotes held such a husky bunch of warriors to 13 points in a game in which anybody could have been winner. But more of those comparisons later in this story.

Coyotes Are Proud

The news coming from Coyote headquarters Monday was that the Pack is cheerful, proud of their showing Saturday, and ready to buckle down and tackle the Electra Tigers at Electra next Saturday. Cheerful from coach to recruit, that's the atmosphere around the high school.

"The fight put up by the Coyotes was above all expectations," said Coach Barry Holton, "they played heads up football all the way through, and they deserve to be commended, first, for their willingness to tackle such a veteran team as the Lubbock Westerners, and second, for their determination and grit in playing the game."

The Coyotes indeed should feel ready to go back into the conference race with a will, when it is considered that every Lubbock man who played against them Saturday has had at least one year of high school experience, four have had two years, and two have had three years. On the other hand, eight members of Holton's crew who played Saturday had never before in their lives played a conference football game, and two of them, Mauldin and Rugeley, had never played football at all before. Mauldin, playing his first game Saturday, lasted the whole route—and that means something. And Rugeley, playing his first, relieved Cox at quarterback toward the last of the game, and conducted the team very creditably.

Lubbock War Veterans

In addition, the Coyotes had only two men in Saturday's game who played against Lubbock last year, Chick Holden, left guard, and Harlan Ray, right half. Holden played the whole game against Lubbock in 1929, while Ray went in as a substitute.

A comparison of the years of experience of each man on the Coyote team, with the amount of experience of the Lubbock players reads like this, taking the men by position.

Left end: Watson, Lubbock, is playing his third year of high school football; Parish, Wichita Falls, played his first conference game Saturday.

Left tackle: McCasland, Lubbock, is playing his second year; Brandon and Gough, Wichita Falls, were on the B squad last year and played in their first conference game Saturday.

Center: Crawford, Lubbock, is playing his second year; King, Wichita Falls, has had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year, and saw service in only a few conference games.

Right guard: McGehee, Lubbock, is playing his second year; Sepkovitch, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year, and played his first conference game Saturday.

Right tackle: Brawley, Lubbock, is playing his second year; Daniel, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year, and was in a few conference games.

Right end: Martin, Lubbock, is playing his third year of high school football; Mauldin, Wichita Falls, is playing his first football of any kind.

Playing Fourth Year

Quarterback: Lawson, Lubbock, is playing his fourth year of high school football; Cox, Wichita Falls had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year and was in a few conference games, and Rugeley, Wichita Falls, is playing his first football.

Left half: Teal, Lubbock, is playing his third year of high school football; Withrow, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year, and was in a few conference games.

Right half: Smith, Lubbock, is playing his fourth year of high school football; Holton, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, was on the A squad last year, and was in most conference games in 1929, and Ray, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, was on the B squad last year and was in a few conference games.

Fullback: Watkins, Lubbock, is playing his third year of high school football; White, Wichita Falls, had one year of junior high football, and was a sub on the 1928 squad.

These figures are from the Texas Interscholastic league eligibility files, and those of Lubbock are certified by M. H. Duncan, Lubbock superintendent of schools.

They show exactly what the Pack went up against, and the score showed how well they fared.

Blackboard Drill

Coach Holton presided at blackboard drill Monday, the field being too muddy for practice. Every Lubbock play was gone over and analyzed.

"Each man got up and admitted his weakness and his errors, and got it clearly into his head what he was to do in future in cases of such an emergency," said the coach.

But today the team will take to the field regardless of the weather, Holton said, in order that stiff workouts may begin in anticipation of the Electra game.

Last year Electra nosed out the Coyotes, 2 to 0.

"And we want revenge," Coach Holton said.

Scene of Series Shifts To Philadelphia

was in the lap of a man sitting in the first row of the bleachers, and he was very much astonished indeed to find it there.

Fans Shocked

No thunderous roar kept time to the pounding feet of Cochrane and Foxx as they galloped around the bases, you may be sure of that. The St. Louisans take their baseball more seriously than any other town in the land, and this was tragedy.

Old Burleigh Grimes, with one of the greatest pitching feats of his long career suddenly knocked from his grasp, stood open-mouthed watching the runners. Then his weather beaten features contracted with fury, and he savagely kicked at the dirt beneath his cleats, especially as Cochrane, with whom Burleigh has had a lot of heated words during this series, laughed ever so lightly at the scowling pitcher as he leaped on the plate.

Foxx's teammates on the side lines rejoiced with him over his prodigious punch. The solemn face of old Cornelius McGillicuddy wrinkled in a swift grin as Foxx came home, and he said something to the stout man from the Eastern Sho', where the wild geese will soon be flying.

Tough, Either Way

"A tough game for Grimes to lose," muttered some of the St. Louisans as they were leaving the ball yard, and that is quite true. Yet it would have been a tougher game for big George Earnshaw to lose. He held the Cardinals to two hits in the seven innings he pitched, being taken out by Connie Mack in the eighth for a pinch hitter in the person of Jim Moore.

"Lefty" Grove, who worked Sunday against the Cards, finished the game, and allowed one hit. In the meantime, old Burleigh Grimes was holding the Athletics to five hits, most of them scratchy except that last devastating punch by Foxx. It was an extraordinary pitching duel for a world's series, and it had the St. Louis "bugs" screeching from start to finish.

The series now moves back to Philadelphia for the sixth game Wednesday. The A's can win one more and close it up, but old Cornelius McGillicuddy will have to be a baseball magician to find some pitching for the next game, after exhausting his stars, Earnshaw and Grove, here. He had Walberg and Jack Quinn warming up toward the finish of today's game.

Behind Grimes today, young Charley Gelbert, short fielder of the Cardinals, played an extraordinary game. He had 10 chances without an error. Throughout this series Gelbert has been a real star, though it is his first appearance in what the ball players call the "money games." He was pouncing on tough grounders like a sparrow hopping on a worm, and his arm was sure death to base runners.

Foxx hadn't done much to distinguish himself up to today. In fact, he was just a ball player until the ninth inning arrived, with Cochrane on the bases. It looked as if the game was bound to go into extra innings, to finally be called by darkness, and then Grimes dropped that curve in. They will long remember that blow hereabouts, but only with sorrow. And Foxx tonight is the big man of the hour.

Last Effort Falls

The Cards made an effort to keep up their hopes in their half of the ninth, but Grove made short work of them. Hafey popped to Cochrane in front of the plate; Blades batted for George Watkins and walked. But Wilson's tap was easy for Grove, who tossed him out. Gelbert fanned with his bat on his shoulder to end the game.

The game opened under dripping skies. Grimes worked hard in the first inning, but was touched for a useless single by Cochrane. The Cards got one of their hits in this inning, Sparky Adams singling by Boley, only to die on first.

Grimes set the Mackmen down in order for the next three innings, striking out three of them in this period. In the third, the Red Birds threatened. Gelbert walked and Grimes sacrificed. Douthit slapped one straight at Jimmy Dykes and the A's third baseman, with memories, no doubt, of his misplay which cost his club the fourth game again pulled a prize boner.

Gelbert Eludes Dykes

Gelbert had a lead off second and started back to the bag when Dykes came up with the ball. Dykes whirled and started to throw to Bishop who was covering second, but elected to get closer to Gelbert to make the trap more certain. But instead of pegging the ball, he finally decided to run Gelbert down by himself and wound up by chasing him into second, where Gelbert arrived safely.

Adams popped weakly to Boley and Frisch grounded to Foxx to retire the side.

Grimes and Earnshaw turned back the batsmen who faced them in the fourth in one-two-three order, and while Foxx opened the A's fifth with a single to center, Bing Miller forced him at second and Mule Haas hit into a double play.

Neither team got a man to first then until the seventh when Dykes walked. Cochrane skied one right in front of the plate and with Dykes hovering close on first, Wilson, Card catcher, missed a chance for a smart double play. Had he allowed the ball to fall he could have forced Dykes at second and Cochrane, who had walked back to the bench beating his bat angrily to the ground, could have been doubled at first. However, no harm resulted.

Wilson Hits Double

Wilson doubled in the Cards' half, making second by a fast dash, but died there when Gelbert was passed and Grimes lifted to Haas.

The eighth was packed with excitement. Miller grounded to Gelbert. Haas crossed the Cards by dumping a neat bunt down the third base line and beating Grimes' savage throw by a whisker.

With a strike and a ball on Boley, Haas tried to steal second. Wilson's accurate throw to Frisch had him out easily and Umpire Geisel's hand whipped up in a signal to that effect. Then, in the mud and dust around second base arose the voice of "Mule" Haas, calling the ump's attention to the fact Frisch had dropped the ball.

Geisel reversed his decision and declared Haas safe. Boley then slapped one off Grimes' glove. Grimes scrambled after it, flipped the ball to Adams just as Haas slid into the bag. Despite more picturesque squawking, Haas again was declared safe.

Moore at Bat

At this juncture, Connie Mack sent Jimmy Moore in for Earnshaw and Moore walked, filling the bases.

Bishop, with only one out, blew his chance to be the day's hero by grounding to Bottomley, who threw home, forcing Haas. Jimmy Dykes might have been the fair haired boy, with all forgiven, but he hit to Gelbert, forcing Bishop at second and the rally ended.

And a few minutes later, Jimmy Foxx, grinning from ear to ear, was trotting around the bases behind Mickey Cochrane, into the arms and pounding hands of the dancing Athletics.

Once more the American league champions are favorites to win their second successive world series championship. And yet they must beat Bill Hallahan who blanked them Saturday, to keep the series from going the full seven games, as the magnates so devoutly hope it will.

Just who Connie Mack will pitch Wednesday in the sixth game at Shibe park remained quite a mystery as the two ball clubs entrained tonight.

Rube Walberg, Bill Shores or Ed Rommel, it might be any one of the three. Or possibly Connie has a surprise. And then there is the chance Lefty Grove may feel up to going right back in there. It is Connie's little secret, for the time being.

With Hallahan likely to turn in a winning game for them and Jess Haines already having proved Grove's master, the Red Birds are far from beaten. Some even figure they have at least an equal chance to win.

He Did It

If and when the Athletics win the world series, they can point to Jimmy Foxx as being the boy who got them off on the right track. His home run in the ninth inning yesterday with a mate aboard ended one of the greatest pitching duels of all times, gave the Macks the victory, 2 to 0, and put the team ahead in the series, three games to two.

'WE'LL WIN YET,' SNARL CARDS

Flock Is Down, but Not Down and Out

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6. (AP)—It was a snarling, defiant flock of Cardinals that hurriedly packed their luggage today after dropping a heartbreaking 2 to 0 game to the Athletics in the fifth battle of the world series. They were one down to the white elephants, but they were not down and out in spirit. They openly muttered defiance with Gabby Street, their manager, declaring they would certainly win two games in Philadelphia. There was no solemn, depressed air of a burial in the Cardinal dressing room. To hear them shout, the impression prevailed that they won instead of lost today.

Gabby Not Excited

"It was a well pitched ball game that anyone could have busted up," Street said, "and Grimes nor anybody else is excited about losing it. We're going to Philadelphia heads up and determined to win the next two games."

The old garge said he would start "Wild Bill" Hallaban, the pug-nosed Irish kid who blanked the A's Saturday and expected that Connie Mack would counter with Robert Moses Grove.

"He'll have to pitch Grove because we can beat anyone else he's got. And we'll beat him too.

"It was lucky that Foxx had to hit a high, fast curve ball. We had no idea of passing him. He was just lucky that's all. The team that got the breaks got all the luck that went with it."

Some Prophet

Jimmy Foxx, the hero of the game, not only is a home run hitter of distinction, but he is a sage. During the contest, Jimmy told his mates he'd win the game with a home run. He did just that.

Before grabbing his bat in the dramatic ninth inning, Foxx yelled back to the players on the bench:

"I'll bust up this ball game right now!"

He stepped up to the plate, caught one of Grimes' high ones and dericked it into left center field bleachers.

That smash gave Connie Mack the greatest thrill of the year. The 67-year-old leader of the Athletics, sitting on the bench, saw the ball sail into the bleachers and Foxx trot triumphantly home.

"My heart beat faster at that moment than it has all year," said Connie. "I knew from the sound of the crack that it was a homer. I tried my best to keep calm, but inside I was burning up.

"Outside of that one hit there was nothing except the pitching, which was about as brilliant as I ever saw in the world series. Earnshaw was even better than he was in the second game. He was faster and had better control. As for Grimes, he was every bit as good until Jimmy Foxx swung his big bat in the ninth.

"Good Judgment"

"Grimes showed excellent head work in the eighth when he decided to let Jimmy Moore, our pinch hitter, either hit a bad ball or walk. He evidently thought Moore was more likely to score the runner from third with a long sacrifice fly than either Bishop or Dykes, who followed."

Shake-Up in Ranks Of Hawk Players

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 6.—In a practice session yesterday the Hawks lineup was changed in a general shakeup by Coach Neil. Many new men will be seen in the lineup and due to these changes a much stronger team is expected.

In the practice much fancy running was exhibited by Captain Cobb, and a powerful line driver is being developed in a new man, Cleburne Maier. This is Cleburne's first attempt to play but he promises to be one of the best halfbacks ever developed out of a sophomore in the local schools.

Cunningham will be out of the game for the greater part of the current season due to injuries received in the past games and due to a severe wrench of his knee in the last practice. He is still enthusiastic about being able to participate in the games later in the season but grave doubts were held by the coaches that he will be able to enter any more contests. Bedford was one of the outstanding guards and backfield men seen on the conference squads last year. He will be greatly missed in the local lineup this season.

All indications are that Kildow, flashy backfield man, will be back in the lineup this week.

Longhorns' Star Center Declared Ineligible by University Officials

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Mentors of the University of Texas football team were forced tonight to start revamping their line as the result of two athletes being declared ineligible today by a faculty committee. The two were Nick Gatoura of Austin, first string center, and Charles Hawn, Athens, substitute center.

Both were declared ineligible because of low grades but school officials expressed the belief Gatoura would be able to play as soon as his record in one course is straightened out.

Littlefield probably will be forced to shift Rut Vining of Pine Bluff, Ark., from end to center. Two promising sophomores will battle it out for Vining's wing post, Ed Price of Corsicana and Bill Dubose of Gonzales. Walter Howle of San Antonio, who has played heads-up football in the first two games, also may be called upon to do duty at the snapper-back post.

Texas will meet Howard Payne next Saturday at Memorial stadium.

T. C. U. READY FOR STADIUM DEDICATION

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6. (AP)—The new Texas Christian university stadium, to be dedicated Saturday as the Frogs launch their conference campaign against Arkansas, is ready.

A 30-minute dedication ceremony will precede the game. Amon G. Carter, president of the T. C. U. Stadium association, will formally present the athletic plant to Dr. E. M. Watts, president of T. C. U. The dedication program calls for the T. C. U. band to march into the stadium, followed by players of both teams and directors of the stadium association. As the players go to the benches on opposite sides of the gridiron, the Stars and Stripes will be raised, the T. C. U. song sung by the T. C. U. student body and alumni assembled.

Carter then will formally deliver the stadium to Dr. Waits. After the president of the university replies to Carter, Rev. Dr. L. D. Anderson, pastor of the First Christian church, will say the dedicatory prayer.

PORKERS FORCED TO PRACTICE INDOORS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 6. (AP)—Forced indoors by heavy showers, the Arkansas Razorbacks went through a two-hour drill today perfecting formations for use in the Southwest conference opener against Texas Christian Saturday at Fort Worth.

The Porkers were not dismayed over their showing against the Tulsa Golden Hurricane last week, since only straight ground plays were used except in the third period.

Holmes, kept out of the Tulsa game, may be back in the lineup Saturday. With the exception of Clark, tackle, Arkansas will be intact for the game.

Cubs Retain Title As City Champs

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Cubs defeated the White Sox today 6 to 4 to retain the Chicago city championship. The contest was the best crowd pleaser of the series, with the lead changing three times in the last three innings. Both starting pitchers, Blake for the Cubs, and Caraway for the Sox, failed to finish.

The victory gave the National league club four out of six. Jess Petty replaced Blake in the eighth and received credit for the victory, while Garland Braxton, who replaced Caraway, was the losing hurler.

The see-saw battle of the last three innings had a crowd of about 15,000 in an uproar. Errors by English helped the Sox who were outhit 13 to 10, to stay in the struggle up to the finish, while John Clancy committed a costly boot in the ninth to help the Cub drive along.

The score:

Cubs	000	110	013	6	13	4
White Sox	000	021	010	4	11	2

Blake, Petty and Hartnett; Caraway, Braxton, Thomas and Tate.

AUTO BLAZE

The first alarm to be answered by the fire department in more than three days proved to be an automobile with defective wiring Monday noon, according to J. L. McClure, fire chief. The automobile belonged to E. Garonzik, president of the Primrose Refining company, and was being driven by Mrs. Garonzik on the 2200 block on Ninth street when the fire broke out.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHEDULE MADE

School Heads Plan for New Sectional Race

Football and school officials of Reagan and Zundelowitz Junior High schools Monday night formulated a tentative schedule for the new Junior High school football conference, and agreed on rules to cover the competition.

The conference, arrangements for which were completed this week as a culmination of efforts of several years on the part of local junior high school heads, includes the Vernon and Denton schools in addition to Reagan and Zundelowitz. The sectional championship will be decided via the round robin route, it was decided.

The schedule adopted Monday night will be submitted to the Vernon and Denton school officials for confirmation, however, it is believed it will remain as formulated. It follows:

Oct. 16—Zundelowitz at Vernon.
Oct. 17—Reagan at Denton.
Oct. 30—Vernon at Reagan.
Nov. 7.—Denton at Vernon.
Nov. 14.—Denton at Zundelowitz.
Nov. 21.—Reagan at Zundelowitz.

The last game of the schedule will be turned into the traditional battle between the two local junior high schools for the city championship.

Interscholastic league rules cover all games played, with the exception of two amendments voted Monday night. These provide players must be in the sixth, seventh, or eighth grades; and that the age limit shall be 15 years.

The officials met at the Zundelowitz school. Those present included H. A. Glass, principal, and T. W. Brumbalow, vice principal of Zundelowitz; W. A. Franklin, principal, and T. B. Parnell, vice principal of Reagan; A. D. Beck, Reagan coach; and Roy Golden, Zuncy coach.

liquidation and a moderate volume of southern selling. The new December contract, after advancing from 10.33 to 10.44, closed at 10.36, compared with 10.42 at the close Saturday. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 4 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 10 points with new October selling off to 10.10 and March to 10.63 in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and over Sunday selling which seemed to come partly from the South.

Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest on most months at 10.11 for New October and 10.64 for March.

Private cables said there had been hedging and liquidation in that market influenced by weakness in Egyptian following the Egyptian government estimate placing the crop at 8,420,000 cantars including 2,328,000 sakels. NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6. (AP)—The cotton market was strictly a pre-bureau affair today, prices being influenced by fears as to what the government report may show when issued Wednesday morning. The opening was 2 to 7 points down in sympathy with lower cables and the market continued to ease off in early trading on rather a weak opening of the stock market and some belated liquidation, dropping to levels 8 to 9 points under Saturday's close.

The market rallied later in the morning on reported good buying by New York and trade interests, recovering 7 points from the lows. Prices fluctuated narrowly within the previous range during the afternoon and closed steady at net declines for the day of 5 to 7 points.

Three private crop reports were issued during the day with condition ranging from 52.1 to 52.5 and indicated crop from 13,975,000 to 14,600,000 bales.

Liverpool cables came in as due to 5 points worse than due. After the lower first trades, prices ruled steady for a brief period and eased off in sympathy with a lower start in the stock market and pre-bureau liquidation helped by a bearish private crop estimate. December traded down to 10.33 and January to 10.43 or 8 to 9 points under Saturday's close.

After fluctuating narrowly during the balance of the morning the market rallied shortly after noon on good New York buying and some short covering, December advancing to 10.40 and January to 10.50, up 7 points from the earlier lows.

The market fluctuated narrowly during the afternoon within the earlier range influenced by pre-bureau evening up. December closed at 10.33 and January at 10.45 or 6 to 7 points net lower for the day on those active months.

Port receipts 92,563, for week 157,768, for season 2,778,520, last season 2,245,457. Exports 31,494, for week 62,581, for season 1,375,473, last season 1,152,498. Gilt-Edged Stocks Hit New Lows Under Severe Selling Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (US)—A persistent selling wave which centered against the highest-grade issues today brought about further severe reaction in prices on the stock exchange. Except perhaps for the Brazilian revolution, there were no new developments to account for the sharp declines. That is, no explanation other than that investors' and speculators' minds still are influenced more by the market's own performance than any other single factor. The lack of aggressive support even in the finest type securities provides the basis for most of the pessimism rampant in stock market circles. Today's weakness, aggravated undoubtedly by heavy short selling carried all groups of leading stocks, industrial, railroad and public utility, into new low ground for the year. Volume was not unusually heavy, 2,365,000 shares, but the selling was very persistent. A slightly more favorable tone to the wheat market and a sudden and most welcome improvement in sugar prices were probably offset by a sharp break in coffee on the South American news.

It is difficult to explain the weakness in the gilt-edged stocks as being due to bear raiding. These stocks are heavily held by investment trusts and the natural assumption was that considerable outright liquidation was coming from such holders. Certainly, many investment trusts have been as incorrect on market fluctuations as individual traders this year, particularly since most investment trusts confine their operations chiefly to the losing side of the market. That the bears were taking full advantage of the unsettled conditions was obvious but the large blocks of such stocks as General Electric, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas and others of similar caliber indicated that substantial liquidation was in progress.

An outstanding development of the day was the relative resistance displayed by the low-priced and generally despised stocks of the cat-and-dog variety. These issues have almost universally passed through drastic deflation, in many instances amounting to 80 and 90 per cent of their peak prices. The gilt-edged stocks had held up relatively much stronger, quite naturally, since in the main they represent the most valuable equities in American industry. The market has been witnessing, however, continued selling in the high-grade group on the theory these issues have not yet completed their proper deflation.

The first evidence of acute weakness developed in the Public Utility stocks. American and Foreign Power's South American interests furnished the basis for heavy bear selling of the stock and it broke through the panic low. With this opening wedge, the bears pressed their campaign and uncovered considerable liquidation. As already pointed out here, there has been waging a severe contest between bears and bulls in the entire Public Utility group. The bears have been emphasizing the high ratios to per-share earnings at which the group is selling. Then, too, the investment demand which had sustained the utilities relatively better than other major groups no longer is evident, except in a few stocks, such as Consolidated Gas when it sells at a 4 per cent yield basis or better. American Telephone and Telegraph broke to within a fraction of its former low for the year at 220⅛. More speculative utilities suffered declines of five points or more.

Continued weakness in the best-grade Railroad stocks such as New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific and others of equal standing could hardly be attributed to professional pressure, since few large-scale bear operators have been unduly active in the Railroad group. Pennsylvania declined close to its former low of the year at which level it yields almost 6 per cent. Copper shares and Motors fared relatively better than did the high-grade stocks, although General Motors dropped to within a fraction of its former low for the year.

The market was a severe disappointment to its friends, who had been expecting at least stability and perhaps a rally. There is no denying that the short interest at times reaches substantial proportions but short covering in turn provides most of the market the market receives. Improvement of the technical position provides chief hopes for a rally.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6. (AP)—Good demand was reported as the week began for the light offerings of wheat on the cash grain market here. Exporters were buying no wheat but mills were bidding 92¼ to 92¾c for No. 1 hard wheat of any protein. Fair demand was also reported for corn and oats, but barley was rather slow sale and the sorghums were dull.

Estimated receipts for the two-day period: Wheat, 19 cars; corn, 11; oats, 19; barley, 1, and sorghums, 3.

Bids and offerings on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—Price nominal with no sales posted at the close of the market. No. 2 mixed 97@98c; No. 2 white $1.00@1.01; No. 2 yellow $1.01@1.03.

Oats—No. 2 red 50½@51½c; No. 2 white delivered Texas group on points 49@49½c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 68@69c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.75@1.78; No. 2 kaffir $1.47@1.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Grain threw off the influence of stock market weakness today and scored late gains both for wheat and corn. An unlooked for decrease of 2,739,000 bushels in the United States visible supply was largely responsible for late rallies in the wheat market, together with reports that the Argentine wheat crop had been damaged by frost. There also were advices that husking returns from various sections of the corn belt in this country were disapointing and that farmers expected such advices to continue.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at ⅛@½c per bushel higher than Saturday's closing. Corn finished at 1½@2c net gain, oats a shade to ⅜c down, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 10c.

Late advances in Chicago wheat values lifted the market 2⅜c from the day's bottom level, and as much as 1⅛c above Saturday's finish, but efforts to realize profits on the upturn led to some reaction from the top point reached.

Throughout the day the corn market gave signs of independence when wheat showed weakness. Offerings of corn fuure deliveries were notably lacking in volume at times. Oats displayed less rallying power than either corn or wheat, demand for oats being confined mostly to traders who previously were sellers.

Provisions were irregular, with the pit disconcerted by fluctuations in grain, whereas from the outset hog values showed upturns.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 80⅞c, 83⅞@84c; March 84½c, 88⅛c; May 87⅞@87⅞c, 91⅛c. Corn—Dec. 84⅛@84¼c, 87⅞@87⅞c; March 85⅝c, 88⅞c; May 87⅝c, 90½@90⅝c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Curtailed hog receipts around the 11-market circuit prompted another price advance of $10.40. The lighter weights generally showing the most advance. The day's extreme top of $10.45 was paid at Chicago for choice medium weight butchers. Offerings were around 82,400 as compared with 108,410 last Monday and 103,864 the corresponding day a year ago.

Fat lambs were in demand at firm to 25c higher rates with bulk up more on the better grades. Matured classes of sheep ruled fully steady. Choice had a practical top of $8.50 on range lambs with a consignment of Idahos at $9.00 which was considered out of line. Fat range lambs at some of the river markets paid $8.00. Supply approximated 150,200.

Although cattle trade was somewhat spotted, the general tone was better than last week. Western steers were on a fully steady basis at most points but a few markets reported slight declines. Chicago had a top of $13.15 on choice yearling steers and secured $11.75 for beeves scaling 1,509 pounds. Receipts were estimated at 123,400.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Rather limited receipts of cattle for a Monday, were posted here and the bulk of the run consisted of butcher cows, low cutters and mixed butcher classes.

Heavy horned grassers sold for rodeo purposes at $5.50 and some common and inferior little steers were reported at $3.65. Other slaughter steers moved in the $5.00 and $6.00 ranges.

Good fat cows sold up to $4.75 and $5.00 while butcher grades moved from $3.00@3.65. Low cutter cows changed hands around $2.25@2.65. A few strong weights up to $2.75.

Buyers on country account said $6.75@7.00 for good stock after calves.

Good heavy fat calves brought $6.65 and small lots were reported up to $7.00.

No good hogs were shown in the car-lot division today and a few medium grades brought $9.00, indicating a quotable limit of about $9.50 on choice medium rail butchers. Truck hogs cleared an advance of about 35 cents. Good to choice truck hogs topped at $9.35.

All classes of sheep and lambs moved readily at prices strong to quarter higher on today's market. Good fat lambs sold up to $7.25 and wooled fat yearlings brought $5.00.

Hogs—Receipts 300; no good rail hogs offered; few medium grade at $9.00; truck hogs around 35c higher; good to choice, $9.45; packing sows $6.75@7.25.

Bold Bandit Nabs Saddle As Dobbin Nods At Rail

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, Oct. 6.—Mr. C. C. Henderson, a stockman and merchant of Jacksboro tied his horse behind his store while he went to lunch. When he returned the saddle was gone and the blanket was lying on the ground.

Although it was in the middle of the day, no one was seen about the horse. Officers found no clues as to the identity of the thief. It was one of the boldest and most mysterious thefts since the horse and buggy days.

The saddle was valued at around $125. It belonged to his son Elvis Henderson, who had worked all summer to buy the saddle which he got to keep only 30 days.

BUFFALO HUNTERS BUSY

The depression which has clouded Australia is reported to not be touching the buffalo hunters in the northern part of the country. In the last 12 months, it is estimated, 15,000 bulls were shot, the hunters receiving an average of $5 a hide from exporters at Darwin.

A canal from Liege to Antwerp is under construction in Belgium, giving Liege a direct water route to the sea.

A $7,000,000 span at Vicksburg, Miss., is the only one to bridge the Mississippi south of Memphis.

Frisco Tax Suits Dismissed by Court

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6. (UP)—Protests which the Frisco railroad had made against certain tax levies in eight counties were ordered dismissed today by the state tax revue court.

The following protests were dismissed:

Ottawa county: Protest against sinking fund in school district No. 14.

Creek county: Protest against 13.02 mills sinking fund levy in the city of Shamrock; 1.20 mills sinking fund levy in school district No. 2; 5.15 mills sinking fund levy consolidated school district No. 3.

Hughes county: 1.386 mills levy for general fund, 1.15 mills for sinking fund levy in school district No. 5; .333 mills sinking fund levy in consolidated school district No. 35.

Leflore county: 1.03 mills sinking fund levy in school district No. 52.

Pontotoc county: 1.98 mills for sinking fund levy in school district No. 3.

Choctaw county: 2.82 mills for sinking fund levy in school district No. 39.

Garfield county: 2.82 mills for sinking fund levy in school district No. 77.

Rogers county: 1.15 mills for sinking fund levy in school district No. 14.

The court dismissed certain causes of protests in each of these cases.

Fire Prevention Program Planned

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 6.—The Thompson Ward Parent-Teacher association have planned a fire prevention program for the next meeting which will be Thursday, Oct. 9. The meeting will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock instead of at 4 p. m. The time has been changed so that the fathers as well as the mothers can attend. The room having the greatest number of parents present will be given a prize.

Among the topics on the program will be a talk, "Teaching Fire Prevention in Public Schools," Miss Lucille Hobbs; playlet, "The Murder of Major Fire Destruction," pupils from Miss Eva Williamson's expression classes. During the business session reports will be given on the Thrift exchange movement. A lesson in fire prevention will also be given by some of the parents.

The board and executive committee of the organization met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. B. R. Hutchins, president, in charge. A report on the Valley View meeting held Oct. 1 was given. Mesdames Jack Ligon, W. B. January, W. M. Austin, and Hutchins attended the county council meeting, representing Thompson ward. The committee voted to secure literature for the P.-T. A., and discussed purchasing supplies for the needy school children. Those attending the committee meeting were Mesdames B. R. Hutchins, W. M. Austin, Jack Ligon, C. C. Hair, T. C. Stockton, C. M. Harvey, Homer C. Jones, Misses Roselle Cochran, Willie Haren and Eva Williamson.

$1,500 FOUND IN OLD STUMP

Gold was struck by a man while chopping wood in the back yard of his home at Perth, Australia, recently. Three ingots weighing over 75 ounces and valued at $1,500 were inside a hollow stump, which had been taken out of the ground a year ago. It is thought the gold had been hidden there by a thief in the old pioneering days.

TEXAS RETAINS DROUTH RATES

Lowered Freight Charges To Be Maintained

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Texas counties now obtaining reduced freight rates as a drouth relief measure will not be withdrawn from certification, Governor Dan Moody was informed today by C. W. Warburton, head of the federal drouth committee.

Warburton said that his letter last week saying some Texas counties might be withdrawn and that no further counties would be added to certification last was based on reports from county agents, which were meager, and indicated that the governor's recommendation that the lowered rates be continued probably would be followed.

The letter also pointed out, however, that a part of the feed shortage might be due to overstocking on the sheep ranches, as well as to drouth.

Warburton said that in his previous letter he did not have in mind the withdrawal of any specific Texas county.

The governor also received a letter from J. G. Putterbaugh, chairman of the Oklahoma drouth committee, suggesting the drouth states cooperate on drawing up a bill to be presented to congress for an immediate appropriation to carry farmers through the next harvest. Governor Moody will turn this letter over to the Texas committee, he said.

Commenting on the projected special legislative session for drouth aid, Moody said that while the rains may have benefited West Texas farmers, he would not yet say that he had abandoned plans for a special session.

Successful Exhibit Closed in Floyd

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Oct. 6.—The most successful home demonstration and 4-H girls club exhibit that has ever been held in Floyd county drew to a close Saurday night after many hundred people from all parts of the county had visited the exhibit throughout the day. The judging and awarding of ribbons was made Friday by Miss Myrtle Murray, district home demonstration agent of College Station assisted by Miss Jennie Orsborn, home demonstration agent of Dickens county.

Miss Murray was high in her praise of the exhibits and expressed surprise at the size of the exhibit and the fine quality of the products saying that the exhibit was as a whole the best that she had ever seen. The exhibit consisted of 935 articles, valued at $818.60, representing 265 club women and 47 4-H club girls.

Every club in the county placed an exhibit and filled the entire score card.

Eight of the nine 4-H girls clubs placed exhibits. As an added attraction to the exhibit this year is an exhibit of fresh vegetables grown in the gardens of the club women of the county which included, beets, sweet potatoes, carrots, turnips, butter beans, okra, celery, sweet peppers, hot peppers, egg plant, tomatoes, radishes, Irish potatoes, sweet pumpkin, canteloupes, squash, onions, peanuts and watermelons.

Much of the canned fruits and vegetables together with the fresh garden products were sold to the public at a sale late Saturday afternoon which was conducted by the women of the various clubs.

ROYAL MOVIES OF EVENT

When the duke of Gloucester left England for Ethiopia to attend the Emperor Tafari's coronation he took with him his cinematograph camera with the hope of securing some interesting films of the event. He also included his hunting weapons for the big game expedition scheduled to follow the coronation.

COURT ORDERS COUNTY AUDIT

Mrs. Burl Bryant to Act As School Superintendent

Members of the Wichita county commissioners court Monday passed uninamously a resolution favoring an audit of all books, records and accounts of all county offices covering the pediod of Jan. 1, 1927, to Dec. 31, 1930, in order that all accounts of office holders with the county may be properly adjusted before the new fee bill becomes effective on Jan. 1, 1931.

According to Judge John P. Marrs the fee bill enacted by the 41st legislature which becomes a law on the first of the coming year will limit the emoluments of any county office in Texas to $5,500, and will require the accounting of every fee paid into any office of any county. Wichita county, he predicted, will have an increase of from $10,000 to $15,000 in income, representing fees which formerly have gone to individual office holders.

Unanimous Vote

As a means of assuring both the county and incumbents in county offices that accounts are in proper condition, all commissioners joined in recommending the audit. Paul Barnett, county auditor, was authorized to have the adopted resolution published one time this week in local papers, and final action will be taken on the matter next Monday at the commissioners meeting, it was said.

Results of the vote cast last Saturday by voters of the proposed Wichita Falls Water Drainage District No. 2 were canvassed and the bond issue was declared to have carried by a vote of 16 to 2. The 18 votes represented practially 100 per cent of those eligible to ballot on the matter, it was stated. Papers requisite to the issuance of bonds for drainage ditch construction are now being prepared by A. H. Britain, attorney for the district, it was said. They are being issued to procure about $26,000 to match a like sum promised by the Wichita Falls Water Improvement District No. 1 for the building of more than five miles of drainage ditch.

A. V. Moller, J. Solon Downing, and Tom Fields were appointed as commissioners of the new district, with bond for each fixed at $1,000.

Mrs. Bryant Named

Reports of T. W. McHam, county treasurer, for September, and J. B. Fitts, county highway officer, for the past three months were received and referred to the county auditor. The resignation of Burl Bryant, county school superintendent, was accepted to become effective Oct. 20, and Mrs. Bryant was appointed to fill the position during the remainder of the current year. J. A. McDonald, juvenile officer for the past two years, was re-elected to the same position.

Combs & Glade were awarded the labor contract for the construction of about two miles of asphalt pavement on the Thornberry road, extending northeastward from the end of the present pavement. Materials for the work have been placed on location by the county, and plans are being made for providing a further three-mile extension of hard-surface road toward Charlie. Bids will be received on that portion of the work next Monday, it was announced.

Paul Barnett, county auditor, was authorized to advertise for bids for supplying a crawler-type tractor for the use of precinct 3, the Iowa Park community.

J. T. Harrell was granted a lease on 160 acres of land at the county farm beginning Dec. 1, 1930. Permission was given the Waggoner Refining company to lay a four-inch pipe line underneath the Burkburnett highway at a point near the Primrose refinery, and the Municipal Gas company was given a permit to make a similar crossing under the pavement of the Charlie road near the city.

SHE PLAYS CROQUET AT 86

Mrs. Walter Creyke, the veteran croquet player, has resumed play at Hurlingham, England. Although 86 she plays in rain or shine, and recently played gallantly through the showers in a match with a woman less than one-third her age. Mrs. Creyke took up croquet after she was 70.

FIRE CHIEF GIVES TALK

Kiwanis Club Has Program On Prevention

Fire Chief J. L. McClure and J. L. Jackson Jr., were the principal speakers Monday before members of the Kiwanis club on a program devoted to the observance of fire prevention week.

Mr. Jackson urged "fire prevention by each resident in his own backyard" as the chief requisite to reduction of fire losses. Chief McClure reviewed the history of the local fire department during the 23 years of his membership, and declared that the year 1929 was the worst in its history from the standpoint of injuries and death to firemen.

G. W. McReynolds Jr., cornetist, entertained with two solos, accompanied by Miss Marie Dollard, pianist. Gerald Pond was in charge of the program, and Dr. V. E. Wratten introduced the guests.

TELEVISION SOCIETY LATEST

With the showing of television in London theaters a television society is being organized there. It is to promote information on the new invention and other scientific subjects by lectures and discussions. The organization has just been officially registered.

Negro Fined $25 After Auto Crash

Pleading guilty Monday before Judge Irvin M. Vogel in the county court at law to a charge of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle, Robert Johnson, negro, was fined $25 and costs.

The charge resulted from an automobile collision which occurred at Seventh and Lee streets about 4 p. m. Sunday, Mrs. William Long, 2206 Eighth street, being painfully injured when thrown from her car to the curb. Mr. Long, chief electrician for the city fire department caught his baby as it was thrown from the car, and prevented its being injured.

A "bonehead club" has been organized by 21 Big Spring, Texas, residents.

NOTICE TO ALL MERCHANTS AND APPLE DEALERS
If some wholesale men have been selling all kinds of produce to small merchants by the "nickel's worth," come to 1001 Ohio and I will sell you so you can meet their prices and at the same time make money.
It is against the law to retail from an open shed, therefore, we sell only in wholesale lots . . . but at prices that will allow you to meet all competition.

MEN AIMED AT HER HEART

But she shielded it with an armour of selfishness and vanity and made a game of love.

Some said that Carla Cross had no heart, but many men could testify that she had taken theirs . . . Read her story . . . the story of a famous movie star and of a girl who idolized her—who wanted to be like her.

Here is a really great story of Hollywood life, written by one who knows.
