Indictment Against Congressman Charges Liquor Smuggling

SOLON'S TRUNK SEIZED AFTER BOTTLE LEAKS

Chicago Representative Faces Federal Charge Filed Last October

BAGGAGE IS 'IMMUNE'

But Broken Flask Causes State Sleuths to Confiscate Liuor

TAMPA, Fla., March 28. (AP)—The Tampa Tribune will say tomorrow that Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson, of the Seventh Illinois district, was indicted last October by a federal grand jury at Jacksonville on a charge of violating the prohibition law in smuggling liquor into Florida from Cuba, but that no capias or warrent of arrest has been served in the case.

The indictment charges, the newspaper will say, that Michaelson landed at Key West from Havana, his baggage being put through on an "expedite order" from Washington and that one bottle, breaking in a trunk at the railroad station at Jacksonville, led to seizure of the trunk by state officers, who, reporting to federal authorities, were instructed to turn it over to them for investigation and handling.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 28. (AP)—E. M. Williams, clerk of the federal district court here, said tonight that an indictment of M. A. Michaelson, of Chicago, was on the docket of his office.

GRAHAM, Texas, March 28.—Last rites will be said here Friday at 2:10 p. m. for Dr. R. O. Prideaux, pioneer Texan, whose death Thursday morning brought to a close a romantic chapter in the history of West Texas, which began in the early 70's with Prideaux's arrival in Archer county as the first white settler to enter the area.

Dr. Prideaux came to Texas from Oklahoma, settling first in Brown county. Later he moved to Archer county, and more recently to Graham. He was well known as a farmer, landowner and oil man.

The final rites will be held from the residence here with the Rev. W. E. B. Lochridge, Baptist minister, officiating, assisted by J. O. Harmonson, county missionary. Interment will be in the local cemetery.

Coast Guard Gets Support For Explanation Of Sinking Runner

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—The coast guard announced today that it had received information from "responsible officials" at New Orleans, not belonging to its own service, corroborating its original position that the Canadian rum runner I'm Alone had been legally pursued and sunk.

The names of the officials were not disclosed. The coast guard statement said there was "no doubt" that the I'm Alone was 12 miles off the coast, and under American statutes the coast guard has jurisdiction over these waters. Further, it was added, there was no doubt that a hot and continuous pursuit existed from the time the vessel first was sighted until she was sunk by gunfire.

These are two of the most important points to be considered. The state department late today forwarded to the Canadian embassy a copy of the coast guard report of the case.

A reply to the Candalans had been delayed since the coast guard's preliminary reports did not satisfy the state department and because the department hesitated to take definite action pending the induction of Secretary of State Stimson, who must shape the American government's policy as soon as he has had time to study the situation.

Meanwhile the department of justice started an independent investigation with a view to the possibility that it might have to prosecute members of the I'm Alone crew landed at New Orleans.

State to 'Umpire' Investigation Of Shooting of Woman During Dry Raid

AURORA, Ill., March 28. (AP)—The state today took a hand in the furor concerning the killing of Mrs. Lillian de King in her home Monday during a prohibition enforcement raid.

Atty. Gen. Oscar Carlstrom announced he would be present or would send a representative to the inquest into her death. He had received a telegram from State's Attorney George D. Carberry asking him to take part. The telegram said public feeling in Aurora was that Carberry's office could not act impartially.

Two other developments were noted in the case, which has brought hundreds of letters protesting the actions of the deputy sheriffs who fractured Joseph de King's skull, shot his wife to death and terrorized his 12-year-old son.

Roy Smith, deputy sheriff, who headed the raiding party and fired the fatal shots, asked that he be removed from the hospital here to Elgin. It was said he feared mob violence.

Shot in the leg by the De King boy, Smith has been in fear of blood poisoning, and today his condition was worse.

Another new Angle was the sworn statement of Joseph de King's partner, George Stafford, that the raiding party was "out to get De King."

BURIAL PARTY MAROONED BY ALTUS FLOODS

Hundreds of Acres of Farm Lands Inundated By Overflows

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., March 28—Funeral parties as well as traveling salesmen, farmers who were attempting to return to their homes and all other persons who were traveling on the highways a few miles west of Altus were forced to abandon their cars and walk or swim to higher land, some even being forced to rely on assistance of motor boat rescue parties when creeks and rivers raised several feet and left their banks.

W. E. Jordan, district manager of the Centennial Cotton Gin company of Dallas, Texas, related one of the most unusdal experiences, telling how he had to flee to higher land when caught on the highway between swollen streams on his way late Wednesday from Altus to El Dorado.

Hearse Marooned

A hearse carrying the body of Mrs. C. M. Walker of Eldorado was caught by the rising water and rescue parties had been unable to reach the hearse late Thursday. Mrs. Walker died earlier Wednesday in a hospital at Hollis.

Starting out in an automobile Wednesday night to rescue a family marooned by flood waters of Bitter and Turkey creeks and the Salt Fork of Red river, proved a big and almost impossible task for six Altus men, who finally succeeded in taking the Geary family to a nearby home on higher land early Thursday morning.

Family Rescued

A motor boat, wagon and teams were finally employed to rescue this family where water already had risen two feet into the residence.

Tillman County Sheriff Succumbs

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., March 28.—Sheriff Ed May, about 60, well known peace officer of Tillman county, died at his home here tonight after an attack of influenza lasting several days.

Mr. May had been a peace officer in this community almost continuously for 20 years. He served as deputy under Frank Carter, the first sheriff elected in Tillman county. He served several years as city marshal of Frederick, and during the four years prior to his election to the office of sheriff last fall, had been a deputy in that department.

Mr. May was reputed to have captured more stills since the prohibition law went into effect than any other peace officer in this section of Oklahoma. He was one of the original homesteaders in the Frederick community, coming here from Texas more than 25 years ago, and was a member of the First Christian church here.

Besides his wife and a son, N. B. May, of Wichita Falls, Mr. May is survived by a second, Ivan May of Frederick, and a daughter, Mrs. Guy Lookabaugh of Ardmore, Okla.

Funeral arrangements had not been made Thursday night.

Word of the death of Sheriff Ed May of Frederick was received in Wichita Falls early Thursday night by Lee Smith, brother-in-law of N. B. May, the sheriff's son, who lives at the Smith home at 1601 Polk street.

The son living here was notified of his father's critical illness Wednesday and left for Frederick. He was at the bedside when death came.

The sheriff leaves his widow and several children.

Long Says State Solons Paid by Standard Oil Co.

Accused Governor Strikes Back at Legislators Who Seek to Evict Him From Statehouse

BATON ROUGE, La., March 28. (AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long struck back today at those who are seeking his impeachment, and added bribery to the charges which have come up through activities of the Louisiana legislature.

While the house was arranging details for the start of hearings on the impeachment Monday night, the 36-year-old governor made the charge that legislators had been bribed by the Standard Oil company to oppose his proposed oil tax.

These fresh charges staggered this ancient capital, already agog over the charges against the governor, accused of plotting murder and of 18 official irregularities.

By unanimous vote the senate adopted a resolution demanding that the governor name the legislators whom he said accepted bribes and name the oil company financial agents charged with paying the bribes. A circular issued by the state highway department, entitled "Cross of Gold: Standard Oil company vs. Huey P. Long" had been presented to the senate. Late today the governor had not furnished the names.

The house session was swift. It brushed aside a Long supporter who attempted to invoke a rule holding the impeachment proceedings out of order, appointed a committee of 12 to draft rules of procedure, agreed to have 12 official questioners of witnesses, set Monday night at 8 o'clock as the time to start the impeachment hearing and adjourned until next week.

The atmosphere was charged. The room was packed and there was a chilling seriousness to the procedure. C member remarked: "The eyes of the nation are on us. We must do something."

Since the battery of impeachment was turned upon him, Governor Long has not been seen in public.

But while the governor outwardly has been inactive, behind the scenes he has started negotiations for some of the best legal talent in the state and is preparing to direct the greatest battle of his life. His spokesmen cry dow. any suggestions of his resigning and promise a fierce counter attack.

GOVERNOR LONG

To meet this onslaught, Attorney General Percy Saint has summoned from Oklahoma Charles A. Moon, Muskogee county representative, instrumental in impeaching two governors, to aid in the prosecution of the Louisiana case.

Martin Jensen Wins New Laurels With Longest Endurance Flight

Runner-Up in Dole Contest Lands After Staying Aloft Eight Minutes Beyond Past Record

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., March 28. (UP)—A tired aviator, a grim splitting his grease smeared face, stepped out of a Bellanca monoplane this afternoon to receive congratulations from a crowd of more than 100 for remaining alone in the air longer than any other man had done.

Martin Jensen, who finished second to Arthur Goebel in the Dole Hawaiian flight two years ago, had just landed after flying continuously over Long Island fields for 35 hours, 33 minutes and 20 seconds. This exceeded the former solo endurance flight record, which the late Lieut. Royal V. Thomas established three years ago, by about eight minutes. Thomas' time was 35 hours, 25 minutes and 8 seconds.

Record Unofficial

Officially Jensen didn't establish a new record. The National Aeronautical association doesn't make any divisions in the endurance flight record and that record is held by the airplane Question Mark, which stayed up almost a week in California. Also to establish a new record under aeronautic rules, Jensen would have had to remain aloft one hour longer than the old record.

But aeronautic officials said there was no reason that Jensen couldn't claim to hold the unofficial record. They timed him officially but since there is no official record recognized, they believed Jensen would be justified in claiming the unofficial mark.

Makes $11,000

Jensen made about $11,000 by his flight. He was flying under auspices of an oil company who had promised him $1,000 an hour for every hour over 24 that he remained aloft.

When Jensen landed his first thought was to look at his gasoline tank. He found there just one gallon of the 440 gallons of automobile gasoline with which he had started.

"I got here on time," he commented.

WOMAN DENIES MEETING HELD AT HER HOUSE

Parts of Mrs. Wilson's Tale Of Relations With Minister Disputed

LOYS WILSON HEARD

Parents of Slain Man Give Information About Son's Moves

TYLER, Texas, March 28. (AP)—The prosecution in the murder of Loys Wilson, charged with slaying the Rev. Fount Wallace, Baptist minister, at Troup last April, tried today to blast the defense story of a clandestine meeting between the slain pastor and Mrs. Wilson after a reconciliation between the defendant and his wife.

Mrs. Wilson testified yesterday that she had improper relations with the Rev. Wallace at a friend's house in Tyler Jan. 26, 1928, about three months before the killing.

Mrs. Laura Dobbs, the friend at whose house the meeting was alleged to have taken place, was a star witness for the state in this phase of the rebuttal.

Meeting Denied

"They did not meet at my house," Mrs. Dobbs declared.

The witness said Mrs. Wilson came to her home a few days before the habeas corpus hearing for Wilson and asked her to swear that she had left the door unlocked on the day in question.

"I don't know anything that would help you," Mrs. Dobbs said she replied.

"Oh, honey, you don't have to know anything," the defendant's wife was quoted as saying. "Just go to the office of Mr. Maynor (Duncan Maynor, defense attorney) and he will tell you what to say."

Clash Brings Warning

Maynor and the witness had a heated clash which brought a warning from District Judge J. R. Warren.

"She's got no right to abuse me that way," the leading defense attorney said. A few moments later when Mrs. Dobbs shouted "That's a lie" in reply to a question from Maynor, the judge ordered her to answer yes or no.

Mrs. Dobbs admitted she had heard Mrs. Wilson say that she "thought the pastor was cute" and that she "fell for him," but asserted she never had heard the defendant's wife say that her affection was reciprocated.

Parents on Stand

Mrs. Dobbs testified that a short time after the killing she heard Mrs. Wilson say: "Loys shot him

Decisive Battle Again 'Imminent'

Federal occupation of former Mexican insurgent headquarters of Escalon and big rebel troop movements south from Juarez towards the Chihuahua front have narrowed the gap between the contending armies and made imminent a decisive battle.

Meanwhile, at Jiminez, north of Escalon, a clash between rear guard rebels and the vanguard of the pursuing federals was reported to have resulted in several casualties on both sides.

PASTOR'S LOVE TRYST DENIED

Woman Says No Meeting Held at Her Home

down like a dog without cause."

The Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Wallace, parents of the slain minister, testified that on Jan. 26 their son had come directly from a rally at the First Baptist church to their home and had remained there until supper. The alleged love meeting that resulted in Rev. Wallace's death was supposed to have taken place in the afternoon.

A group of Baptist ministers who said they attended the rally asserted that they had seen the young pastor at various times during its progress. They emphasized that he was present near the close of the meeting, between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Widow to Testify

The state had not concluded its rebuttal testimony when court adjourned. Mrs. Fount Wallace, widow of the slain man, was expected to be called tomorrow.

The defense ended its direct testimony shortly before noon. Wilson described in detail his actions the day of the shooting. He told of seeing an "unusual" wave between his wife and Wallace a few minutes before the killing.

"She told me she had not quit seeing the preacher, even though both had promised to have nothing further to do with each other," the accused mechanic testified. "It tore me all to pieces. I got my pistol and left the garage. When I alighted in front of Tarbutton's Drug store I saw the preacher. It tore me all to pieces. I don't know what happened."

Thought Him Joking

S. O. Brooks of Troup and W. H. Brooks of Beaumont, state witnesses, testified that they were talking with Wallace a few minutes before the shooting and that they did not see him wave to anyone.

Mrs. S. R. Ghee, who lives close to the Wilsons, said that the defendant's wife told her the night after the killing that she thought "Loys was joking when he threatened to go out and get a man."

A group of members of Wallace's church testified in defense of his conduct. They declared they never had seen anything suspicious in the actions between their pastor and Mrs. Wilson. They said they had not seen the couple remain at the church after all the lights had been extinguished at the close of services, as testified by Mrs. Wilson.

Most of them recited that the defendant's reputation as a "law abiding citizen" was bad.

Concerning Wilson's contention that he elicited a promise from Rev. Wallace not to see his wife any more after she had "confessed" her relations with the pastor, Mrs. Lessie Hocert testified that about the time of the Wilson separation she had seen a man in an automobile talking to Rev. Wallace. She afterward was told the man was Wilson, she added.

Teacher Wins $500 Verdict Against Sheriff

Damage of $500 was awarded Mrs. Ruth Owens, school teacher, in her suit against A. A. Payne, sheriff of Cottle county, for alleged false arrest in a verdict by the federal jury in the case Thursday night. Mrs. Owens had sought $25,000 damages, the case going to trial before Judge W. H. Atwell in hte United States district court here Thursday morning.

Mrs. Owens claimed she was arrested at Paducah, Sept. 13, 1927, on an unwarranted charge of carrying a pistol, that the officer failed to take her before a magistrate, and compelled her to pay approximately $120 before releasing her from jail. He later pleaded guilty in her name without her consent to the charge, the petition claimed.

Mrs. Owens claimed she had driven from Albuquerque, N. M., where she taught school, to Paducah to visit relatives. A pistol carried on the trip was left at a hotel, she recited.

TORONTO, March 28. (AP)—The Toronto Telegram says today that port credit and bronte fishermen are highly incensed at the appearance among their fleets of a United States revenue cutter with guns fore and aft. The fishermen, says the Telegram, are at a loss to know what the cutter was doing so far on the Canadian side of the international line.

Flood Delays Funeral Party

composed the rescue party, aiding this and other families who were in less danger.

Water was running over fence posts around some of the farms near the creeks and rivers and several hundred acres of land was under several feet of water.

Crops on this land will be greatly damaged and ruined in case water remains there very long.

One of the largest rains in this section of the state in about two years was recorded when approximately four inches fell within 48 hours.

Roads in Bad Shape

Clouds are hanging low, indicating even more rain may fall.

All roads in this section are reported in bad condition with traffic halted in several directions.

Travel on highways east and west has been at a standstill since late Wednesday.

Water in the north fork of Red river, now within one and one-half feet of the top of the railroad bridge, is continuing to rise at the rate of four inches per hour and citizens here fear that with continued swelling of the streams, bridges on railroads and highways will be washed away and the town completely marooned from the outside world as was the case about two years ago.

Rainfall total for the Wichita Falls area was increased by precipitation which continued in most parts of the section Wednesday. The beginnings of the rain Tuesday saw farmers more optimistic over crop prospects than in years, and the further downfall Wednesday came virtually as an assurance that most of the Panhandle-Plains area would yield bumper crops.

According to County Agent G. C. McGown, the small grain crops are those most benefited, while the rain puts the ground in condition for planting of later crops. Wheat has been especially benefited.

The rainfall for Wichita Falls and vicinity late Tuesday totaled slightly more than one inch. Clouds hovering far into the night promised more.

Reports received late Thursday from Benjamin said the sun was out there for the first time since Monday, coming from behind murky clouds after rain totaling more than an inch. Seymour and Newcastle also reported rains. Other towns, near here, according to train dispatchers, came in for the benefiting moisture.

Hoover First President to Have Telephone On Desk

WASHINGTON, March 28. (US)—As strange as it may seem, President Hoover is the first chief executive of the nation to have a telephone on his desk. The telephone made its appearance today.

Although living in a "telephone age," former presidents rarely felt called upon to do their own 'phoning. On rare occasions, they used a booth in a room adjoining the executive offices.

But Mr. Hoover frequently calls up cabinet members and department heads direct, and found he was losing valuable time by going to and from the booth in the next room.

So the desk telephone—of the continental one-piece type—made its appearance.

STIMSON TO FIND THINGS SIZZLING ON HIS FIRST DAY IN OFFICE

SECRETARY TO HAVE BIG TASK

Rum Ship Case Furnishes Worry Aplenty

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—President Hoover's official family was completed late today with the induction of Henry L. Stimson into the office of the secretary of state. The oath was administered to the former governor-general of the Philippines by Chief Justice Taft, under whom Stimson once served as secretary of war.

WASHINGTON, March 28. (INS)—Henry L. Stimson, when he assumes his duties as secretary of state tomorrow, will be confronted almost immediately with the task of attempting to defend the treasury department's coast guard against onslaughts from three foreign governments—Great Britain, Canada and France.

At the same time, he will have to justify the application of the domestic laws of the United States and the anti-rum smuggling treaties, permitting search and seizure of suspected vessels beyond the three-mile limit, to the sinking by gunfire of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone.

Departmental Row

The action of two enlisted men of the coast guard, commanding the cutters Walcott and Dexter, in exercising the authority usually given only to a commissioned officer has seemingly engaged at least two government departments into a hopeless tangle as to whether the sinking was proper under the tariff act or under the Anglo-American anti-rum running treaty. The treasury takes the former as its authority, and indications are the state takes the other.

The Canadian government, no matter by which instrument the act is to be defended, will insist on settlement of the controversy on a firm basis of international law. This was made clear in Canadian circles today, when it became known that the Ottawa government had been contemplating for some months a strong protest to the United States against the right asserted by this government and upheld by three domestic court decisions, of hot pursuit from any point within one hour's steaming distance from shore.

France In Case

Coupled with the seriousness of firing on and sinking a vessel flying a foreign flag on the high seas, the drowning of Leon Mangay, a Frenchman, brought France into the already seriously complicated situation.

On the Mangay phase of the case, then, the protest will be jointly by Canada and France; on the sinking of the I'm Alone, the protest will be jointly by the Ottawa and London governments, Canada, because of the vessel's registry, and the British government because of the involving of the whole question of freedom of the seas.

The report sent the Canadian minister, Vincent Massey, by the British Consul General Henry Tom, of New Orleans, has not eased the situation and has neither added to nor taken from the story. Capt. John T. Randall, master of the I'm Alone, told the customs authorities at New Orleans when he was brought ashore in leg irons under orders of the Dexter's warrant officer in command.

Canadians Silent

The Canadians and British are silent concerning the picture of a former lieutenant commander in the British navy being brought ashore under such circumstances by an enlisted man. It was protested, however, by Randall through his lawyer at New Orleans.

The Canadian legation emphasized that its orders concerning the course must come from Ottawa. Orders concerning what action Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, will take, will come from London.

The state department, it became known, would like to have the whole matter settled by "the lawyers," and avoid all the international complications that threaten through the raising of the question of freedom of the seas.

There appears to be no well founded hope that a discussion of the freedom of the seas can be avoided, in view of the attitude expressed at both the British embassy and the Canadian legation, that so many questions are involved that might embarrass the British empire in the future, they must be settled on this issue.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.—Adv.

Ford Only Financial King Who Hasn't Yet Turned Down Farm Aid Request

WASHINGTON, March 28. (UP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr., telegraphed the senate agriculture committee today that he had made no study of the farm problem and therefore was insufficiently equipped to accept its invitation to testify.

Rockefeller's wire was received along with telegrams from Charles M. Schwab that he had engagements for next week and from Everett Case, secretary to Owen D. Young of the General Electric company, that Young is in Europe and unable to testify.

These three replies followed others from a secretary for J. P. Morgan and by Paul W. Warburg, New York financier stating they would be unable to appear. Among those not yet heard from are Henry Ford and Secretary of Treasury Mellon.

Rockefeller's wire follows:

"I thank you for your telegram inviting me to appear before the senate committee on agriculture and forestry, which is studying the questions involved in the farm problem. Much as I would like to be of service to your committee, never having made a study of this problem and never having gained any first hand knowledge of them, I am unfortunately not equipped to render such service."

In the absence of the industrial leaders the senate committee along with the house agriculture committee continued to hear farm leaders expound their views as to what the new legislation should include.

New Chieftains Of Army Named

WASHINGTON, March 28. (UP)—Secretary of War Good announced today the appointment of Col Harry L. Gilchrist of Iowa, to be chief of the Chemical Warfare Service and Col. Stephen C. Fuqua of Louisiana to be chief of infantry. Gilchrist succeeds Major General Amos A. Fries and Fuqua succeeds Major General Robert A. Allen.

Good said that the appointments were in pursuance of the rotation system of the Coolidge administration, which the Hoover administration will continue. Both Fries and Allen have completed four-year details and both are eligible for retirement, but neither has made any request.

Gilchrist, a medical corps officer, was born in Waterloo, Iowa. He is 59 years of age. He has been chief of the medical division of the chemical warfare service since 1921. Fuqua, who is 54, has commanded the 16th infantry at Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y., for the last two years.

LENIN'S BODY WILL BE KEPT

Embalmer Says Corpse Is Well Preserved

MOSCOW, March 28. (INS)—"Lenin's body can be preserved indefinitely," Professor Vorobjov, the eminent anatomist who embalmed the remains of the founder of Soviet Russia, told International News Service today. He did his work with such extraordinary skill that rumors bob up periodically that the short stocky figure in the tomb is merely a wax image and not the mummy of the great bolshevist chief.

Despite the differences in climate it is possible that the body of Lenin may remain in its state of preservation as long as some of the Egyptian mummies. But Egypt has the advantage of having an absolutely dry atmosphere.

Foreign correspondents were invited to the tomb to set at rest the rumors that the body was merely a wax effigy. The triangular glass case covering the bier was opened. Those who cared to muster up the courage were allowed to touch the body. It was not wax. The lobe of one ear pressed upward flapped back into place when released. Professor Vorobjov then pressed a dimple into one cheek with his finger. The dimple disappeared when the pressure was withdrawn.

Professor Vorobjov revealed that the body has been embalmed twice. Upon Lenin's death there was no thought of preserving the body for more than one month—just long enough so that several hundred thousand persons might pay homage at the bier. Then it was decided to preserve the body indefinitely. It was re-embalmed early in 1926 and has not been touched since that time for purposes other than examination. More than 3,000,00 persons have filed past the bier in the tomb on the red square in the past five years.

The body showed not the slightest trace of having been marred by the fanatic who recently hurled a brick through the glass bier. Nor were the oft reported beads of perspiration visible on the forehead.

WAYS TO HELP FARMER TOLD

Federal Aid Proposed For Research Work

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—Federal aid to carry on the search for new methods of utilizing waste products of farms was proposed today as one phase of a new plan for farm relief in testimony by Anson Marston of Ames, Iowa, president of the American Association of Land Grant colleges, before the house agricultural committee.

Marston pointed to the use of corn stalks in making paper as one of the many uses for waste products that such research might discover. So far, however, he said, the use of corn stalk paper was not general enough to benefit all farmers.

Wm. H. Marshall, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., farmer, advocated a plan for handling all the perishable products from one section through one shipping point in mixed carload lots.

Before the senate agriculture committee the new McNary farm relief bill was endorsed by Hallvard Kloster, representing 430 national farm loan organizations in the eighth federal land bank district comprising Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. He said he had supported the McNary-Haugen bill with the equalization fee but he thought the substitute measure would provide the relief needed.

At the beginning of today's hearings, Chairman McNary of the committee made public telegrams from John D. Rockefeller Jr., Charles M. Schwab and an assistant to Owen D. Young, declining the committee's invitation to appear on the farm issue. Rookefeller said he had never made a study of the farm problem and was therefore not qualified to testify. Schwab said he had other engagements and Young's assistant said the financier would be kept in Paris for some time on reparations matters. The committee has yet to hear from Henry Ford.

He awarded John A. McCabe a $2,695.53 judgment against Willard and his wife.

Explorer Believes Central Americans Originated in Asia; Finds Lost City

TOKIO, Januan, March 28. (INS)—Dr. T. Gann, famous archeologist and noted explorer, believes that Central Americans are of Asiatic origin. Dr. Gann, who is en route for England from the Orient, told International News Service that his researches in Indo China have confirmed this opinion.

The explorer went to Java and Indo-China to determine the authenticity of reports of explorers that ruined cities in those countries closely resembled recently unearthed Central American towns, where he had been interested in research for many years.

One of his most famous contributions to historical research was his discovery of the buried Maya City in British Honduras, which is considered one of the oldest cities in the world. His work is in the interest of the British museum, and upon his return he will report that, without doubt, the people of Central America are of Indo-China origin, as proved by his recent investigations.

Sees Old Temples

When he stood spellbound at the ruins of Angkor, he saw the old ruined temples and cities in Cambodia and those in Ceylon and Java, dispelled all doubt in his mind.

On the walls of the temples, carveed in the stone were the Gods, the mythological animals, the life of the people, fighting, eating, hunting sleeping, exactly as had been found in the Maya area. He found the five, seven and nine headed snakes in the temples of Cambodia tobe exactly like those in Maya City. The pillars, walls and steps leading up from four sides—all were the same. Those facts were convincing, but the thing that convinced him beyond all doubt was that, in one of the temples of the old Maya city, on a stone wall, is depicted a Buddha sitting upon double headed lion, a supliant, holding in one extended hand a flower, presumably a lotus, and in the other a pot of incense.

During his investigation in Cambodia the elephant train came upon and old Cambodian temple, which is seldom visited. Upon entering he found many similarities, many images and carvings of which those of the Mava area are undoubtedly replicas. But he was unexpectedly surprised when he saw on the wall a Buddha sitting upon double headed lion.

Early Migration

Dr. Gann believes that the peoples of Central America migrated from Indo China to America in the early ages, taking with them the arts, cult, religion and cusoms of the Indo-Chinese. It is conjectured that they crossed the South Pacific, perhaps in a fleet of junks, aided by the current and the brisk trade winds. Here in this new and far off land they built an oriental city, which, perhaps, thrived for centuries before nature's hand buried it, only to be unearthed centuries later.

Dr. Gann will return to British Honduras to inspect excavations in the Maya area, on his way to London.

OLD FASHIONED

He Gave Her a Ring, But It Was Just a Gift To Her

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 28. (AP)—Giving a girl a diamond ring was sufficient to suggest wedding bells i the now more or less old fashioned days.

But in law a diamond ring is just a gift, more expense, but otherwise differing not at all from a box of candy. A jury so decided here in the suit of M. F. Tyre, 55, to recover a ring from a young woman. He said it was an engagement ring, but she testified that nothing was said about an engagement and that she accepted the ring as a gift. The jury said she can keep it.

CLARENDON IN BUILDING MOOD

Spring Sees Host of New Homes and Stores

Special to The Record News

CLARENDON, Texas, March 28.—With the opening of spring and warm weather, building and improvements have taken on new life in Clarendon. Ten residences are under construction in the city at this time, and 15 are being remodeled. The building takes in all parts of town but most of the new homes are to be found on College Heights near Clarendon Junior college. At no time within the past two years has there ben such a building impetus evident here.

All building in the city is not confined to residences as there are at this time two new business houses going up. These buildings are being erected by C. W. Bennett and George Ryan of this city. Extensions have been made on a number of business houses making ready for expansions and growth in business. Holland brothers are building a 50-foot extension, the McDonald building has been overhauled making one of the best 75-foot fronts in the city, the mill and feed store owned by J. B. Thomas has been added and a number of other new business houses have added more room or improved their present location.

With one of the best crop years in history back of it and ideal prospects showing up for the coming year to be enhanced by the recent two-inch rain this city looks forward to a prosperous year in 1929. The largest crop of cotton to be produced was recorded this year with 30,255 bales valued at $3,169,211. More land is being put into cultivation and it is predicted the production of crops in the county will greatly increase within the next few years.

HERETIC BOOK IS DESTROYED

Anti-Fundamentalist Publication Suppressed

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 28. (INS)—The wholesale destruction of all unsold copies and the type forms of an asserted anti-fundamentalist book by Dr. John Murdock MacInnis, resigned dean of Bible Institute of Los Angeles, today fanned the smouldering embers of discord in the internationally known theological institution.

The publication of the book, 'Peter, the Fisherman Philosopher,' caused a definite split in the ranks of the institute members and finally resulted in the resignation of Dean MacInnis last December.

The startling news that "all remaining copies in their possession, together with type forms" had been destroyed was contained in a formal announcement today by the directors of the school.

In reply, Dr. MacInnis charged the board with having "sold its convictions and Christian freedom for the favor of an extreme group whose favor is hardly worth 30 pieces of silver."

In a postscript to his letter, Dr. MacInnis notified the board that the destruction of his book "will be dealt with in another way."

Dr. MacInnis, in his letter to the board, flatly charged that Dr. Charles G. Trumbull, Philadelphia fundamentalist, was responsible for the board's attitude toward his book.

Shortly after it came from the press, Dr. MacInnis' book was criticized in some quarters as being not entirely "fundamental" in its expression and contrary to the doctrines of the institute.

Following the resignation of Dr MacInnis, 11 other officials of the institute resigned.

Bucket Brigade Saves Noted Tower From Fire

PLACERVILLE, Calif., March 28. (UP)—Fire which broke out in the Elite theater here today threatened for a time to destroy the historic California town and was finally controlled after causing damage estimated at $60,000. A bucket brigade saved an old tower containing a bell that once called vigilantes together.

Peace Is an Ideal for Future Times, Coolidge Writes in New Article

PHILADELPHIA, March 28. (AP)—Peace, in the opinion of Calvin Coolidge, "perhaps is an ideal that can come only to future generations which are more perfect than our own."

Writing in the Ladies' Home Journal on "Promoting Peace Through Preparation for Defense," the former president says the nation should take every precaution to prevent war, "of which adequate defense is one," and it also should take every precaution to protect itself to the fullest possible extent from the ravages of war, "if it does come." He said the army and navy serves the double purpose of prevention and defense.

Mr. Coolidge declares the forces required for adequate national defense should be large enough so that others would see "that there would be a great deal of peril involved in attacking us," and not so large that the United States would feel it "would undergo no peril in attacking others."

'JUST CALLING'

Women Pour Whisky Into Sink as Helpless Cops Peer On

WACO, Texas, March 28. (AP)—Constable W. B. Mobley and Deputy Constable D. L. Tiner, carrying a search warrant, prepared to make a raid on a South Waco home, but a woman occupant of the house saw them coming.

Every door was barred and all the windows were locked. The officers could only peer through a window as the woman busied herself pouring 10 gallons of whisky down the sink.

As the last drop of liquor disappeared the woman opened the front door and asked: "Well, what do you want?"

"Nothing. We were just calling and must be going now."

Mothers Battle Over Man's Love

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 28. (INS)—During a bitter quarrel over the love of a man, Mrs. Concetta Cardillo, 40, mother of two children, today shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Julia Minutelli, 32, mother of seven children.

Mrs. Minutelli claimed the other had stolen the love of her husband, police said.

The victim was rushed to a hospital, where it was stated she would live. A charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was placed against Mrs. Cardillo.

LINDY TO WED ANNE ON ISLE

North Haven Reported As Wedding Place

BOSTON, March 28. (INS)—North Haven, an island in Penobscot Bay, Maine, will be the scene of the wedding of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, daughter of the ambassador to Mexico, according to a report given credence here today.

The Morrow summer home, "Deacon Brown Point," is located on the outer side of the island and the room in which the wedding would probably be performed, should the report be correct, overlooks the sea. Miss Morrow is said to have become much attached to the place since her father purchased it two years ago.

Herbert O. Grant, caretaker of the Morrow estate, expressed no surprise when discussing the report. "I expected to hear that they were coming here to be married," Brant said.

Stop Rheumatic Pain With Prescription A-2851

Local druggists who are dispensing Prescription A-2851 are all loud in their praise of what it will do. It doesn't seem to matter whether the condition is of long standing and the pain constant, or whether only occasional twinges are felt—Prescription A-2851 seems to go right to the seat of the trouble and knock out the pain.

While this particular prescription was compounded especially for rheumatic conditions—it has also proven successful in many forms of gout, neuritis and sciatic nerve pain.

Tear out this announcement and hand it to your druggist, or be sure to remember the name—Prescription A-2851. In liquid or pill form. There is nothing else so good to drive out rheumatism.

Over 100 Members Attend Lovely Party Given By Alathean Class

The dining room of the Wichita club was spring-like in its beauty Sunday afternoon on Thursday, when the Alathean class of the First Baptist Sunday school held their annual party there.

The class colors are pink, orchid and silver, and these were carried out in the tall tapers of pink in silver candle sticks, the masses of pink and orchid sweet peas, tied with great bows of tulle, and the favors, pink and orchid mints, tied up in crystal paper and adorned with contrasting sweet peas.

The program given during the luncheon hour was varied and beautiful. It follows: Invocation, Dr. O. L. Powers; two violin numbers by Mrs. C. D. Whitley, accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Morgan; two lovely vocal numbers by Miss Dorothy Greathouse, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Orr; "Who's Who in the Alathean Class," then an after-dinner talk by Bert King.

In the foyer, on the table, was a register of silver, pink and orchid. Here each member of the class and guests wrote their names. The following registered: Mesdames L. B. Rhodes, C. R. Cowles, Nathan Lynch, C. A. Andre, N. D. Derby, Paul Buchanan, J. P. Rayzor, R. C. Lipscomb, John Finch, Eli Morgan, Homer McGregor, F. E. Rigsby, J. D. Morgan, W. H. McDowell, G. P. Whatley, C. D. Academy Shows Friendship For 'Outside' Artists

By WILLIAM B. M'CORMICK
Universal Service Staff

NEW YORK, March 28.—Portraits and figure studies sound the salient notes in the "spring academy," now on view in the fine arts building. Owing to the changeless generous policy of the national academy of design, the 104th annual exhibition, which is its official title, is much more an "outsiders'" show than of the "insiders," since there are 248 exhibits by non-members, as against only 123 by academicians and associates. Moreover, out of the nine prizes at the disposition of the jury four have been awarded to non-members of the academy.

And as another refutation of the oft-repeated and untenable charge that the academy is unfriendly to youth and the unknown painter, the first prize has been awarded to a 24-year-old Boston painter, Ethel Thayer, for her large nude study called "Circles," while the second hallgarten went to Arthur Hill Gilbert, who has had only one exhibition here, for his California landscape "Old Oak, Monterey." Of course, attacks on the national academy will continue, in spite of these heartening facts, since they are always based on ignorance, prejudice and a deliberate refusal to be fair to our oldest art institution.

Vanderbilt Gallery

The Vanderbilt gallery is quietly impressive this year, owing to the arrangement of the paintings and the fact that on its walls are hung Sidney E. Dickenson's touchingly lovely portrait of "Mary," a scheme of black and yellow tones, brushed in with a looseness strange to this painter's usual smooth manner; the very charming portrait by Ernest L. Ipsen of Mrs. George Willoughby Maynard in a black evening gown, the canvas being awarded the Isaac N. Maynard prize; the Saltus medal winner, "Wilderness," by Carl Rungius; and the realistic "My Sister Aurora," by the distinguished young painter, Luigi Lucioni.

In this room also hang two of those rare things in American exhibitions, religious subjects, these being H. A. Tanner's "On the Road to Emmaus" and Fred Nagler's "Saint John." Walter Ufer makes a gay splash of color and sunlight with his taos group of "Callers"; Will Foster has one of his delightful color schemes in the "Portrait of A. M.," and Maria Banforth Page shows her mettle in the study of "Betty." Dine Carlsen's "Samothrace" is one of his most alluring and brilliant still life subjects; Roy Brown has a thrilling view of a city street on a "Wet Day"; Mary Gray has another of her lovely still life studies of an "Interior," and W. Granville-Smith repeats his mill pond subject that won the second Altman prize.

Prize Works

The center gallery displays Miss Thayer's large nude, which shows she is neither afraid of a big canvas nor of the figure—if the painting of the body was up to that of the head this would be a stunning work; Leroy MacMorris' "Fernanda," recently shown at Durand-Ruel's; Jes Schlaikjer's "Prairie Mother," a western "Caritas" Arthur Little's amusing and human "Baby Carriages," and Joseph Chenowth's sturdy piece of painting and modeling called "My Hired Man." William S. Robinson's "Borderland," which won the first Altman prize, is by far from his best vein, as is also the "Fruits of the Earth" by Ettore Caser, winner of the Clarke prize. Malcolm Humphreys' "Fishing Fleet," winner of the third Hallgarten prize, is a really brilliant piece of painting of sunlight on the sea, a very distinguished work for a young artist.

Among the sculptures the outstanding pieces are the two portraits carved in wood by Franz Plunder, technical achievements of great beauty; the "Portrait of Mrs. Douglas Moore," by Elizabeth K. Underwood; Madeleine Park's admirabel study of the elephant "Maud," and Furio Piccia Rilli's "Seal," which was awarded the Elin P. Speyer memorial prize.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, March 28. (US)—The life of the least effort, the most loving care, the greatest affection and a memory with a handsome tombstone tacked on the end, is a dog's life in New York.

The paint their cars to match their pet dogs there. And they bury them up in Westchester county, in the canine cemetery which has perpetual care. On one tomb costing something like $10,000 is engraved:

"Sally and Toodles. My dear little true loving hearts, who would lick the hand that had no food to offer. My darlings."

On a white marble slab that cost enough to give several sick orphans a summer outing, read this:

"Jerry. Mama's only baby. Bright light of love burned out—ever mourned."

Another lady waxed poetic over a black Pomeranian named Rags and at great expense she told the world:

"Only a dog. Such love he gave
Cannot have perished in the grave.
So constant and faithful and true a heart,
Must in eternity have its part.
And I sometimes fancy when I've crossed life's sea,
I'll find him waiting to welcome me."

One big lot is peppered with white stones. A weak breed perhaps, all bearing names like those they give the dogs that look like large sized grasshoppers with long, very heavy hair. Ping Ming, Sing Ging, You Know.

One stone says only "Wuzzy Dear."

Sweet Essence of Tuberoses!

A cat got into the dog cemetery, too late to fight. A nice grey stone has his picture on it, marking his last resting place—but sight. In this probably his first death, the stone says: "Pussums." Which in cat language is, no doubt, equivalent to Percy.

Another says: "Baby Kitty Cat. Oh how I miss you Baby." And: "Puff. Thanks for the joy you brought into my life."

"Snook Kee' sounded like a thoroughbred who could like the brevity accorded him in this strange burial ground.

You couldn't tell just what was buried under a stone that read: "Pancho." By Baby. We loved each other."

"Baby Sun Dance" had a pretty stone, as did "Tootsy Loving Darling." A stone tagged "Our Dear Wuff" said: "Beloved pet. All God gave to you to us you gave."

A bronze and cream marble stone tells you: "My Adored Zowie. I do not cringe from death so much, since you are gone, my truest friend. Your dear dumb soul wait for mine, however long before the end."

I'll bet none of them will wait. Being dogs, maybe now they will get a chance to live like dogs, in a heaven full of alleys with old bones in them. They deserve a heaven after being parked with squirrels.

White? Not these clothes!

THERE was plenty of soap. The clothes were scrubbed thoroughly, and rinsed. But the water was hard. The soap mixed with the hard water, and formed a dirty ring around the basin—scum! The scum got into the fabric of the clothes. That's why the clothes weren't clean.

But they can be clean. How? By washing them in soft water. And how can hard water be made soft? By adding Melo. The water is now a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap; and the soap much more effective. Get a can today at your grocer's.

WE WOMEN
by Betty Brainerd

LOVE AND THE GYPSIES

I TOLD recently, under the title "Tragedy in a Kitchen," the story of a maid who had made of the kitchen in which she worked a fairy land. There, in the glitter of bright pots and pans, she was courted by a young man who seemed to be so nice. They were engaged, the wedding day had been set several times, but each time the young man caused it to be postponed. Then came the day when the young man told the nice young maid to get her wedding gown. Another day was set, this time she thought, with absolute certainty. But something went wrong. That love affair is no more. The young man has gone his way.

Man attempts to ease the ache of a shattered love affair in various typical ways. Sometimes he drinks to assuage the hurt. Sometimes he goes far away. Some women weep and weep and weep.

Ida, the girl in the kitchen, wept—but on her day out went to consult with a gysy fortune teller.

What the gypsy fortune teller told her, you and I could have told her. We would have thought the tale drab, unsurprising, but to Ida it was a tale of new high hope.

"I see another man in the distance," said the gypsy fortune teller. "Good man, handsome, maybe rich. He loves you so much. You love him. You marry You be very happy with him. He be so kind and good to you. You be very, very happy with him. He be so kind and good to you. You be very, very happy with him. You no work hard any more. You have babies. You like babies?"

And in her happy excitement, Ida confessed that she liked babies.

The past had been dark and so painful. The future was bright with the vision of another handsome young man who would make her happy—who would make her happy.

The gypsy fortune teller had so proclaimed.

I never knew a man who went to a fortune teller or an astrologer when a love affair went wrong. Of course, some men read the stars for business reasons or superstitions. Some of the giants of the financial world have done that. The exact opposite is true of women. They consult with fortune tellers for reasons of the heart principally, and if that is the only way they can get relief, fortune tellers, perhaps, serve a good purpose after all. At any rate, Ida found balm for her hurt.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

WIFEY'S GROANS MAR HUSBAND

Complaints Destroy Faith Of Worker

If a Wife Groans Failure at the First Cloud on the Financial Horizon She Destroys His Faith in Himself and Prevents His Making a Successful Comeback.

I know a young man, full of talent, ambition and energy, who is having his talents dimmed, his ambitions dulled and his energies atrophied by his wife. Before he was married he was well on his way toward the realization of a brilliant success. Now he is foredoomed to certain failure. And all because of his wife.

The wife is a woman who is crazy for money and the things that money buys. She wants imported frocks, jewels, furs, an expensive apartment, a fine car, to lead the gay life and be seen in the haunts frequented by millionaires and she prods her husband ceaselessly to make more money and still more money, and when he cannot give her all she wants she taunts him with his failures and demands to know why he isn't as clever and successful as some other men are.

This nagging, this belittling of his efforts and his ability, breaks down the husband's morale completely. It demoralizes him utterly. He cannot think clearly with his wife's diatribes ringing in his ears, and his particular line of work requires concentrated mental effort and the evolving of new and original ideas.

Inspiration does not wait upon a fagged brain and a troubled heart, and so his work has fallen off in quality and is no longer in the demand it was. This brings forth renewed reproaches from his wife and reiterated prophecies of failure, and the result is that the man has lost faith in his own ability and is so discouraged that he no longer aspires to do great things, and is settling down into a second-rater.

The poor, silly wife cannot see that she is the fool who is killing the goose that lays the golden egg. For if she would only make her husband a quiet and peaceful home to live in and surround him with an atmosphere in which his genius could flourish; if she would believe in him and encourage him and buck him up when his own courage wavers and especially if she was good enough sport to say when failure threatened:

"Don't worry. You can't lose out. We will fight this thing out shoulder to shoulder and you will show 'em." Why, if she would do these things her husband would be able to make the money she wants and give her the things she craves.

When I look at this woman who is killing her husband's chances of success I can but contrast her with another wife I know whose husband is one of our most distinguished writers. She stands between him and every sordid detail of life from which she can shield him. She once told me that if the house were on fire she would not permit him to be disturbed until the flames were within three feet of his study door and she also said that, when they were sitting together of an evening in their living room or motoring or walking, she never addressed him first. She always waited for him to speak, because she was afraid that she would interrupt some train of thought in which he might be working out the plot for a new story, or delving into the psychology of some character he was creating.

I often wonder that wives so seldom realize the vital part they play in their husband's careers and how completely they hold its success or failure in their hands. The average woman's idea of helping her husband consists in merely penny-pinching, which is well enough as far as it goes, for it takes a man with the financial genius of Mr. Ford or Mr. Rockefeller to get ahead of a wasteful and extravagant wife, but there are ways in which she can forward his career that are far more potent than haggling over butcher's meat and haunting bargain counters.

One of these is in making a husband happy and keeping him contented. Few wives ever think that domestic harmony has a price tag on it, but it has. Not long ago a firm which hires thousands of men made a survey of the home life of its employes and it found that the men who were forging ahead, who did the best work and who were full of energy and enterprise were, almost without exception, men who were in love with their wives and who came from cheerful homes.

Nor is this hard to understand. A man who has had a breakfast table fight with his wife goes to his work with his heart surcharged with bitterness and his mind in a turmoil of angry thoughts. For the time being he is a pessimist who believes in nothing and he is ready to turn down any proposition that may be brought before him, and to scrap with anybody, from the boss to the best customer. Not only is he incapable of clear thinking, but he asks himself what's the use of working his head off for a woman who doesn't appreciate anything he does for her, anyway. There is no quicker way for a woman to slow her husband down than to bawl him out.

On the contrary, many a man of mediocre ability is turned into a go-getter by his desire to make good and justify his wife's belief in him. If Mary thinks he can do it, well, by George, he can do it! And he does do it.

Very often after having been successful for years a man meets a sudden check in midcareer. His business goes to pot. He loses his job through a change in the firm. A new style comes in writing or illustrating or whatnot. Then his wife determines his future.

If she begins to croak failure; if she wet-blankets his every plan; if she loses faith in him and accepts defeat, then he is done for because she slays his belief in himself. But if she has faith in him and fosters his faith in himself; if she makes light of their disaster as a temporary misfortune; if she keeps telling him that he succeeded once and that he can succeed again, then he almost invariably comes back.

It is often said that there is a woman behind the door of every man's success. That woman is generally his wife, and it is only too often the wife who shuts the door to success in her husband's face.

Social Climbers At Newport Face Season of Trials

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Society Editor

NEW YORK, March 28.—Isn't it strange—the glamor the magical name "Newport" has for those who have never been within the confines of the world-renowned Rhode Island watering place?

I have always found it so, especially with the western contingent, who look upon Newport as a forbidden social paradise, a beautiful and fertile pasture where only a few chosen ones may graze, sheltered and protected from the vulgar stares of outsiders by an imaginary—but none the less effective—wall.

Newport has been for many years and will continue to be, the queen of American summer resorts. It is the torrid season capital of the U. S. A. and is, naturally, the goal of all social climbers possessed of the wherewithal and ambition to tear themselves away from "home-town society, and enter Mayfair's big league.

The past few seasons at Newport have been gala ones for these aspirants, due to the absence of many of the older, more important hostesses, who in former years had undisputed control of the sea.

Now comes the tale—on the first gentle spring breeze—that many of these "absentees" will return to Newport this coming season, and, while a number of the architectural piles that dot Bellevue avenue, Ochre Point, Brenton's Point, etc., will be placed on the market labelled "for sale" or "for rent," the arrival in Newport of the ladies who did much, in the past, to raise the resort to its present social eminence will bring back the old order of things.

All of which causes me to predict the "climbers" will have a far different road to travel when the Newport season opens on May 1.

Not that the leaders of the Bellevue avenue colony are snobs.

No, indeed.

Any person conducting himself or herself according to the dictates of polite society and who is clever and blessed with a flair for giving the proper type of entertainments always is welcomed by the sovereign powers at Newport.

Those, however, who have nothing to recommend them but money and who imagine their enormous cargoes of gold will enable them to sail their social craft safely into the Newport harbor will soon discover that same harbor frequently is disturbed by disastrous social squalls.

Newport is probably the least extravagant of all the summer playgrounds favored by society. Rents are modest, club dues are not excessive, and entertaining, except when done by the colony's celebrated multi-millionaires, is far from costly.

Now that she is legally free of the shackles that bound her to the handsome but philandering "Freddie" Cameron Church Jr., the one-time Muriel Vanderbilt has advised her friends that she prefers to be known as "Mrs. Vanderbilt Church."

And I predict that name will soon become one of the most important cognomens connected with the showing of blue-ribbon horses. For Muriel is determined to continue her residence at "Dudley Place" Newport, where she recently spent many thousands of dollars on the erection of extensive new stables and now is filling the stalls with blue-blooded "hosses" that are certain to sweep everything before them in the horseshow rings.

Only last week Mrs. Vanderbilt Church acquired four high-stepping thoroughbreds which will be used exclusively as a coaching four. Inasmuch as she now has the horses and is in the market for a handsome coach, it looks as if Muriel is planning to give her relative, William H. Vanderbilt, a race for Newport coaching laurels.

Muriel's mother, "Birdie" Vanderbilt, is not, I am told, in favor of her daughter's riding spirited horses or cracking the whip over a coaching four. "Willie" K. Vanderbilt II, Muriel's papa, on the other hand, is encouraging his daughter in her determination to again make the Vanderbilt name a factor in horse-show circles.

Just another instance of "Birdie" and her ex-husband disagreeing—for the 'steenth time.

To Make Even Inexpensive Glass and China Sparkle

Simple New Way Does Wonders And Is Kind To Pretty Hands—Use Any Ordinary Soap

Even the most inexpensive table china and glassware can be made to look far better than its price in a simple way. It can be given the brilliancy and sparkle of the most costly kinds; and glassware particularly is judged by its sparkle.

Simply add one teaspoonful of the cleansing preparation called CLIMALENE to your water. Use the same soap you ordinarily do, but use only ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity. Wash as usual.

This preparation is a grease dissolvent, while soap is, strictly speaking, a grease. Thus it gives shine and sparkle while soap often leaves a greasy film that's hard to get rid of even with the most careful drying.

Most hotels use this method to make glass and china gleam. Housewives like it not only for this reason, but because it acts to soften and whiten skin fabrics of the hands.

Results are surprising. Try it. Get it at any grocery store in 10c or 25c packages. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

Prints First and Foremost in Spring Fashions

Simplicity Marks New Frock Styles; Many Nice Colors

The fashion of prints is first, last and foremost. Just now, when the world is so busy getting ready for Easter, the printed frock is so important that we have assembled many new printed models, and from them have chosen these few as distinctive of line and original of treatment. Skirt pleatings, bows, revers and neck lines, are but a few of the details that give these frocks their chic.

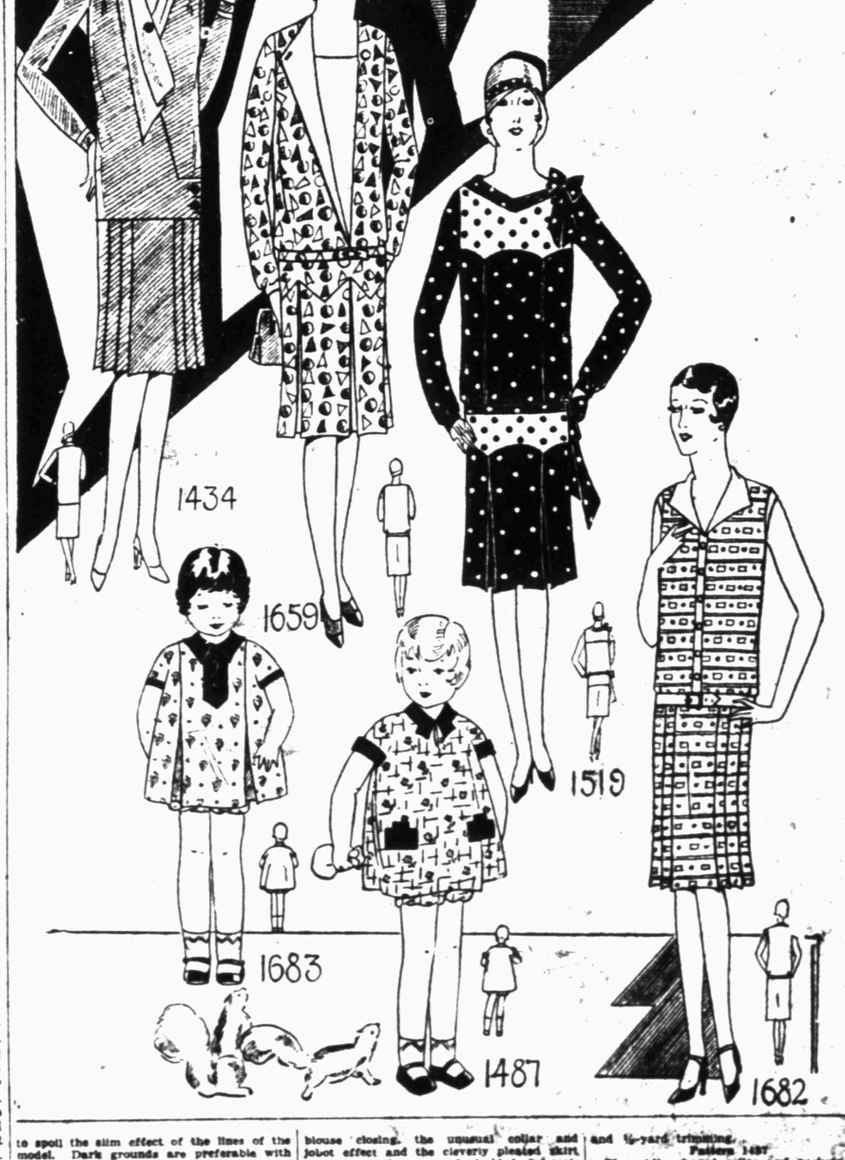

A refreshing note, in the maze of modern fashions, is the exquisite simplicity that marks many of the lovely things for spring. Though softly feminine, there is a tailored appearance that is most welcome. In model 1659, for example, the straight, pointed tailored lines help create a frock that is smart, slender and so becoming, yet decidedly simple. This style is most attractive for the woman who is no longer slender, as every feature tends to slenderize the silhouette.

The persistent mode of dots comes to the fore in many new versions. Especially new are models fashioned of twin fabrics, alike in every respect except a slight difference, as is always the case with twins. Perhaps seeing is easier than explaining—design 1519 is a stunning version of the mode. The dress is made of brown silk crepe dotted with beige; the yokes are made of beige dotted with brown. And the result is amazingly attractive.

Other delightful color schemes carried out in this manner are black and white, light and dark blue, green and beige and two tones of violet. The later is simply delicious for summer wear and the ensemble may be completed with shoes and bag to match. Another variant of this fashion, is the use of two fabrics of different sized dots—very chic, too. Our ever lovely foulard is shown in these designs, and is there a woman on earth who does not adore foulard?

For sports, shopping and general run about wear there is no more versatile frock than the woolen frock. It always looks smart if made along simple lines, is comfortable for uncertain spring weather and does not muss or wrinkle easily. Design 1434 is just such a model made of smooth supple woolen material and charmingly trimmed with silk crepe collar, jabot and cuff bands. Jersey, tweed, flannel, kasha and wool crepe are the outstanding woolens of the moment.

As to colors, both the serviceable ones, the quiet browns, blues, tans and beiges, and the lighter, gayer ones are extremely smart. Black and white wool is much in demand—the bit of color necessary for spring added through the accessories, hat, bag and shoes. Pastel shades are prominent in the flannels and will be especially lovely for sports wear at the seashore. Another color seen in every shop and window today, is orange, and it is remarkable how beautifully it goes with so many different tones.

Pattern 1683

Sleeveless frocks are very smart, for wear under a cloth coat and for sports a little later in the season. Pattern 1683 is charming in its simplicity. It is fashioned of printed material, either silk or cotton, as the occasion demands. The new cheerful prints should delight every one as the colors are more intriguing and the designs more exotic than those of last year. Design 1682 uses plain color for trimming to contrast the colorful fabric. Made of tweeds, this model will be lovely for wear about the home, and so easy to launder because of its simplicity. Pinks, yellows and greens are designed in charming manner for just such frocks as this.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42.

Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards 40-inch material and 1¼-yard trimming.

Pattern 1659

The odd rever which may be buttoned so desired, and the pointed skirt yoke are features that are outstanding in this exquisitely simple model for the matured figure. If printed fabric is chosen, be sure to select very tiny designs in order not to spoil the slim effect of the lines of the model. Dark grounds are preferable with beige, grey or green designs far apart. A narrow belt causes slight blousing of the bodice and inverted pleats give fullness to the skirt.

May be obtained only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48.

Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards 40-inch fabric and ¾-yard trimming.

Pattern 1519

Twin fabrics fashion this unusual model, design 1519. The sleeves, bodice, skirt and trimming are made of brown silk crepe with small dots of beige, while the yoke sections of bodice and skirt are made of beige silk crepe dotted in brown. Of course if one wishes, the frock may be made up in the same material. Inverted pleats in both bodice and skirt give an attractive line. The neck is delightful and very becoming.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44.

Size 36 requires three yards and one yard light ground, 40 inches wide.

Pattern 1434

Straight, tailored, slender lines have been achieved in design 1434. The diagonal blouse closing, the unusual collar and jabot effect and the cleverly pleated skirt groups are features of decided interest. The sleeves are trim and well made with a narrow band of the silk trimming around the cuffs. A tiny tuck on the shoulder gives added bust fullness if necessary. Flannel, kasha or if desired, silk faille will fashion stunningly in this model.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44.

Size 36 requires 4½ yards 40-inch material and ¾-yard trimming.

Pattern 1685

Prints for tots are equally fashionable as may be seen in the dainty frocks sketched today. Design 1685 has a cunning collar and vestee made of plain color or white—the sleeve bands are of the same fabric. Two inverted pleats find their way from shoulder to hem, giving ample room in the little frock. Bloomers and dress are made of a gayly printed percale or gingham. The trimming may be pique or linene. Blues, pinks, yellows and tans are the favored colors for kiddies this spring.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8.

Size 4 requires 2¼ yards 40-inch fabric and ⅛-yard trimming.

Pattern 1487

The oddly shaped collar and pockets of design 1487 are cunning, indeed. As the collar fits closely about the neck there is a tiny opening in front. Printed pongee will prove delightful for this dainty model, plain pongee for trimming. Printed percale, dimity or gingham may be used effectively and trimmed with piqué.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Size 4 requires 2⅛ yards print and ½-yard plain material, 40 inches wide.

These models are easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. You will be delighted with the fit and simplicity of the patterns.

Patterns will be delivered to you upon receipt of 15 cents in U. S. coins or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern wanted.

French War Over American Films

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.

PARIS, March 28. (US)—French exhibitors—the owners of motion picture theaters throughout France—are marching 2,000 strong to the rescue of American pictures, threatened with expulsion from France by the proposals of the French producers who have great influence with the government. To help French production, these producers propose to bar films made in the United States from the French market.

But the French exhibitors say no! They want American pictures. They intend to have them. They say French theatergoers demand them and won't go to the theaters unless they can see them, and they have signed a petition—2,000 of the most important of them have—urging the government under no circumstances to enact into law the proposals of the French producers.

The French producers seek laws which will force Americans to buy French films or forego the right to import American films into France. American film men declare they cannot buy French films because they are not box-office successes. Now French theater owners are announcing the same thing. It is a question of the box office, they declare.

American films, they say, draw the crowds, while French films do not.

SUES BARBER FOR TRESSES

Hungarian Actress Claims $51,000 Damages

LOS ANGELES, March 28. (INS)—Erene Duna, "the little long-haired Hungarian gori of the movies," has lost her golden tresses.

To today she sued Ben Verschleiser, owner of a permanent wave shop in Hollywood for $51,540 damages.

Instead of a permanent wave, the actress declared that her beautiful crown of blonde hair was turned into a "shaggy" colorless, bespotted, streaked and mop-like thatch."

She said the marceller neglected her while giving the treatment and the hair was burned off close to the scalp, which was scarred.

As a result, she claimed that she has been forced to take inferior roles in pictures and her income has dropped.

Skin troubles—pimples, boils, eczema and sallow complexion are usually but symptoms of a deeper, a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

No one can afford pimples

A clear, smooth look, by which experts of Nature's own world recognize or interpret healthfulness.

HAPPY is the woman who has a clear, smooth, flawless skin! Both men and women admire such captivating loveliness.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

The way to the Skin is through the Blood

Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

Brief addresses by seven pastors of local churches and a program of musical numbers based upon the expressions of Christ from the cross will feature the Good Friday Passion service to be conducted Friday from noon to 3 p. m. at the First Christian church, corner Tenth and Austin.

Rev. W. H. Townsend, president of the Ministerial Alliance, and Rev. Harold F. Shimeall will preside. The seven last words of Jesus will be presented by Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Rev. Alvin S. White, Dr. Gaines B. Hall, Rev. Ben Bell, Dr. S. Stephen McKenney, Rev. John E. Wade and Rev. Patrick Henry.

Those giving the musical numbers include many of the prominent church musicians of the city. The first word will be followed by the singing of "Father, Forgive Them," written by Mrs. W. L. Underwood of this city, by a double mixed quartet comprised of Mesdames W. J. Holmes, George Thornburn, W. L. Underwood, Miss Katherine F. Sullivan, Messrs. A. H. Mahaffey, W. L. Underwood, Lester F. Aldrich and H. W. Gray, with Mrs. Mahaffey at the organ. "Calvary," by Rodney, will be sung by the First Presbyterian church quartet, composed of Mesdames J. C. Payne, A. H. Mahaffey, Messrs. A. H. CHIMES TO WELCOME EASTER MORNING

Eastertide will be ushered into Wichita Falls next Sunday morning with the pealing of chimes between 5 and 5:30 o'clock, preceding the gathering on the hills west of the city for the annual sunrise Easter service, when Mrs. J. H. Akin Jr., organist, will sound the call to worship with the chimes in the First Methodist church.

Preparations have been completed, according to Mr. Floyd Allen Bash, who is in charge of arrangements, for an outdoor program which promises one of the best services given since the Easter morning service was instituted here.

Scouting Services

Members of the various Boy Scout troops of the city will act as ushers at the grounds, it was said, while ample police have been promised to handle the traffic problems imposed by the parking of thousands of automobiles in the city. Special bus service will be instituted, beginning shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday morning, to accommodate those who may not be driving their own cars. Buses will follow the Tilden route from downtown, to the Seymour road, thence to the site of the pageant, it was announced.

Bert King will act as reader in the pageant, which has been drawn to throw light upon the immortality promised through Jesus Christ, according to Dr. Bash. The prophets Moses and Isaiah will be portrayed by Voyle N. Armstrong and Grover C. Bullington, respectively. Albert Ellis will impersonate King David. The mother of James, in the scene at the empty tomb, will be taken by Mrs. Winona Ware; Miss Modena Howell will represent Mary Magdalene; Mrs. Arthur L. Cook will take the part of Salome and in the scene of the nativity of Christ, Mrs. Porter Oakes will be Mary, while Joseph will be portrayed by Roy J. Mann. J. L. Jackson Jr., W. J. Holmes and C. E. Miss Howell will sing "Low in the Grave He Lay," and the closing musical number will be the singing of "Unfold Ye Portals" (Gounod), by a chorus directed by Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes. R. E. Shepherd will lead the chorus of several hundred school children which will sing "The Morning Light Is Breaking" early in the service.

The Easter sermon will be given by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, on the subject, "Resurrection, the Foundation of Christianity."

War Correspondents Tighten Up Their Belts, Frown, and Gulp Sizzling Chili

What With No Food, and Frigid Nights, Reporters Agreed With Sherman Until Calles Came

By JOHN LLOYD
Staff Correspondent, The Associated Press

ABOARD GENERAL CALLES TRAIN WITH FEDERAL ARMY, near Durango, March 17. (Delayed) (AP)—War has been more like what General Sherman called it than a picnic for newspaper correspondents thus far. Cool nights and little food, with what was available not with peppers, have been bad enough, but were more or less expected.

What has irked the souls of the party above all else was the uncertainty as to how, when and where their dispatches would come out, if at all.

Calles Treats 'Em Better

But since catching up with General Calles the correspondents have been served on his private dining car. He also placed his mobile radio set at their disposal for sending dispatches, but there are few moments when the apparatus is not jammed with official business.

The cold started at the town of Frio—the name means "frigid"—and the placed lived up to its appellation. It is high in the mountains, but is in the midst of a plateau across which the wind gets a 10-mile sweep.

The correspondents and a number of Mexican officers, including General Osornio, live in a rickety wooden railroad coach. It leaked air and kept out little of the Frio breeze. Even bundling into overcoats and wrapping oneself in Indian fashion in a blanket did no good. What little sleep was obtained came when doubled up jackknife fashion on a seat.

Railroads Are Dangerous

Progress on the railroad, or what was left of it after the rebels had applied dynamite and fire to the rails and road bed, was small like. At each new bridge, hastily thrown together to take the place of structures blown up by retreating rebels, the train crept out foot by foot with the engineer ready to throw his locomotive into reverse if the trestle should show signs of collapsing.

At Canitas a few days ago the correspondents' train was trying to handle the traffic of an entire army ahead. The only restaurant in the town was in an old box car near the track, but it had no food left.

Then late in the evening a meager supply of meat and corn for tortillas arrived. The newspapermen were in van of the race back to the box car cafe and were among the few to share in this windfall. The meat, however, was impregnated with chili and tongues hung out for hours.

The Mexican soldiers live off the country and always seem to obtain crude edibles from some mysterious source. But officers and camp followers like newspapers writers and photographers, forage with varying degrees of success.

Saved at Last

Once arrived at Durango General Calles directed that the reporters can be attached to his own train and go where he goes. This train consists of a dozen cars, including a radio and chart coach, a diner, sleepers for general and his staff, an observation coach and several box cars containing supplies. The doors of the box cars are open but the supplies are not raided, for a brace of machine guns peeps out of the opening.

The train also carries a barber.

General Calles frequently invites the writers into the chart car and explains the position of the troops and the significance of the various movements.

Aged Man Lives in Hollow Tree to Escape Static Terrors

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29. (AP)—Irked because members of his son's family "kept the radio going night and day," Aaron L. Everett, 69, sought the quiet songs of nature beside a rippling stream, he told Judge Clifton R. Cameron in municipal court today.

Police found him last night in the Eagle Creek bottoms, his home a hollow tree, and held him for vagrancy.

He told the court a "fellow can't get any sleep at all," with a radio busy at all hours. Judge Cameron advised him to return home and try it for a month.

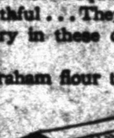

Water District To Appeal Verdict Here

In overruling the defendant's motion for a new trial, Judge P. A. Martin Thursday afternoon entered the final order for the 69th district court in the prolonged controversy growing out of Mrs. J. M. McGrath's damage suit against the Wichita county water improvement district No. 1. The plaintiff was awarded $10,866 damages for injuries to her land from seepage from an irrigation canal in a judgment of the court last week.

Attorneys for the district gave notice of an appeal after the motion was overruled Thursday afternoon. The suit involves farm lands lying south and west of Wichita Falls, adjoining the Country Club Estates, which the plaintiff claims have become water logged from the negligent handling of the irrigation canal.

MAD ELEPHANT WRECKS FARM FENCES BEFORE DOG STOPS HIM

PACHYDERM ON WILD RAMPAGE

Love of Canine Pal Finally Quiets Huge Brute

HOUSTON, March 28. (AP)—Love for a dog chum Wednesday stopped an elephant on a rampage on the Galveston road after the pachyderm had torn out the side of an arena at the Christy Brothers circus winter quarters, broke through a door, crashed through eight wire fences and threatened to enter a farm house.

The elephant was being rehearsed for an act to be presented this season. The act, directed by R. A. Stokes, consisted of a leopard riding the elephant around the arena.

The leopard rebelled when ordered to mount the elephant. Stokes lashed the cat with his whip. The elephant became excited. At another crash of the whip the pachyderm wheeled, butted through the huge double doors, broke its chains and, waving his trunk wildly, crashed two fences as he crossed the Galveston, Houston & Henderson railroad, despite the efforts of Slim Walker, "bull man," who was hanging on to a bull hook in the elephant's ear.

Walker hung on grimly, shouting from time to time, but the elephant apparently didn't hear. Or at least, he was determined to stage a respectable rebellion while he was at it.

Down the Galveston road for nearly a mile, motorists were scampering from the highway, stopping automobiles abruptly, some of them crawling through fences. Then the elephant went through the railroad fences again, circles and crossed the tracks a third time, crashing two more fences, with Walker still hanging to the bull hook.

At a farm house a dog barked furiously. The elephant hesitated.

Then Walker showed his wits.

"Here, Rover! Here, Rover!" he called, tugging at the elephant's ear.

The huge animal quieted down, listened to the keeper for a few minutes and then tamely submitted to being led back to the circus headquarters.

"He thought the dog was his chum, which rode in the car with the elephant for several seasons," Walker grinned.

Nation's Prisoners Increase Faster Than Free Population, Report Shows

Penitentiaries Gain 20 Per Cent In Past Five Years; Mental Disease Patients Gain 30 Per Cent, Bureau Says

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In five years the proportion of American citizens confined in state penitentiaries has increased more than 20 per cent.

Instead of falling behind, the prison population is outstripping the free population in relative growth.

The proportion of patients in state hospitals for mental diseases has also increased in the same period and over a period of 18 years has jumped at least 30 per cent.

These figures are compiled from preliminary reports of the census bureau covering state prisons and reformatories and state hospitals for mental cases in 27 states. The states are representative, both sectionally and in size.

At the beginning of 1928 there were 67,724 prisoners in the state penal institutions, as compared with 49,192 in January, 1923, and 41,471 in 1910.

Increase Rate Grows

That meant an increase of about 18,000 in five years as against an increase of less than 8,000 in the preceding 13 years.

During the first and longer period there was an actual relative decrease as compared with the general population change. But the ensuing five years told an altogether different story.

Per 100,000 of general population in the 27 states there was an average of 79 state prisoners in 1910, 72 in 1923 and 88 in 1928.

The available census reports show that in January, 1928, the largest proportionate prison population was that of Nevada, which had 245.5 prisoners per 100,000 population, although Nevada has neither 245 prisoners nor 100,000 citizens, being the least populous of the states. Among the other 26 states, California and Michigan run second and third to Nevada.

Most of them show substantial relative increases, the only ones to show a decrease in the percentage of their populations in prison since 1923 being New Hampshire, Maine, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Utah and West Virginia.

Here are the comparative relative figures showing the number incarcerated at the beginning of 1923 and of 1928, per 100,000 of population, with decimal points removed:

California 100 (1923) to 146 (1928), Illinois 65 to 87, Iowa 74 to 89, Maine 48.7 to 48.0, Maryland 96 to 130, Massachusetts 36 to 44, Michigan 91 to 139, Minnesota 65 to 80, Missouri 64 to 103, Montana 54 to 85, Nevada 225 to 245, New Hampshire 31 to 28, New Mexico 64 to 97, New York 58 to 66, Ohio 69 to 111, Oklahoma 83 to 136, Oregon 49 to 70, Pennsylvania 47 to 46, Rhode Island 72 to 51, South Dakota 49 to 60, Utah 42 to 40, Virginia 82 to 83, Washington 70 to 94, West Virginia 105 to 91 and Wisconsin 42 to 55.

These figures, it should be pointed out, cannot be used to show that the people of one state are wickeder than those of another. Too many complicating factors would have to be considered before any wise cracks of that sort would be warranted.

The 27 states in which the census of state mental hospitals has been taken are in some instances the same states mentioned above and sometimes not. The total, as added by this writer, shows 169 inmates per 100,000 population in 1910, 211 in 1923 and 222 in 1928.

The 1910-1923 period, which covers the war and immediate post-war years, produced an increase of about 25 per cent and the next five years an approximate increase of 5 per cent more.

It will be observed that the number of inmates of state hospitals for mental diseases runs more than double the average number of prisoners in state penal institutions.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

MORONS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Daily Editorial

DON'T FORGET a trip to Washington this Spring. Horn in on your senator and chatter him from action for at least half an hour.

Then cross over and draw Representative Bux off the floor, while in the midst of pressing business. He squanders several hundred hours a year on such tom-fool interruptions so you might as well steal some of his time, too.

Or, better still, organize a delegation and call on Mr. Hoover. He'd feel very badly if you left the capital without telling how you and the Missus helped elect him with your very important votes and influence.

But, especially, remember to give a thorough, whole-souled handshake. Probably not more than a thousand folk will similarly pester him that week.

He's your president. And, under the equalities of citizenship, you have the same right to be a bore as any other moron.

Europeans can't do that with their kings. No, siree! But, "in the land of the free and the home of the brave," where everybody is as good as the next fellow, we just butt in as we please, and dissipate executive and legislative energy, regardless of national exigencies.

As you were about to observe, Hoover and the cabinet, after all, are simply our hired men.

But it might occur to you that they are also our very tired men—working under strains that shallowpates and busybodies never experience.

THE RESPONSIBILITY of administering this ponderous and complicated machine, called the United States, is a life-shortener and a man-killer.

The president must mentally digest the happenings of the universe every day—confer with department officials, and advise them—consult with diplomats, grant audience to pollen-bearers—keep an eye on federal plans and expenditures—analyze bills and budgets—read balance sheets and legal decisions—sign appointments, vouchers and statutes — cross-check reclamation and highway projects—flood and farm-relief programs—dictate and answer correspondence on consular matters, law enforcement, transportation and aviation.

He must constantly survey possibility and consider anticipatory measures for prosperity, safety and employment to the whole community.

His precious vitality can't be frittered on autograph albums—patting child wonders—or listening to the bromides of small-town bosses.

But such things never concern the Babbits and Schmalzes, sitting up nights to invent stunts which will entice him out on the lawn to be photographed with the chamber of commerce of Pohunk—nor do they halt the committee bringing the crocheted flag from Bingville's sewing circle.

For heaven's sake, have a heart, and quit nagging the man. You arm-pumped and gabbed most of his predecessors to premature graves with like inconsideration.

He needs all his store of strength to handle congress, foreign affairs and predacity; the gad-flies on Capitol hill and the log-rollers of Wall street and Europe.

You gave him his job, now give him his chance—to succeed—and survive.

Today in Texas History

MARCH 29

1836—Houston's army encamped at Mill creek, for one day on the march east.
1872—Brenham young people were enjoying the novelty of a skating rink.
1926—Texas highway commission awarded contract for a steel and timber bridge across the Sabine at Orange.
1927—Reinauguration of federal road aid which was withdrawn from Ferguson highway commission.

Quite a few people are said to be disappointed over Mr. Coolidge's articles. After all those costumes he wore in Dakota you can't blame people for expecting some wild west stories.

How about bringing Mr. Einstein over to this country and putting him to work on the parking problem?

A Message to All the Warriors in Valhalla

WHEN Stonewall Jackson's body lay in state in the capitol at Richmond, Va., in the spring of 1863, a haggard Confederate officer, fresh from the bitter struggle of Chancellorsville, paused before the casket and remarked:

"If today you meet with Caesar, tell him we still make war."

That old quotation comes to mind once more as the French republic gives final honors to the body of Ferdinand Foch—Foch who commanded more soldiers than any man who ever lived, and who brought to a victorious close the most terrible war the earth ever witnessed.

The warrior has always had the headlined position on the page of history. From the time of Alexander down to the present, the list of men who have won honor and fame has contained a constant percentage of fighters. Methods of combat and schools of strategy have changed. The Macedonian phalanx has evolved, in long centuries of warfare, into the infantry platoon with bayonets and hand grenades. But the old principle remains unchanged. Men have always been willing to be killed or mangled at the order of their leader.

Never yet has the program been interrupted. Men have devised elaborate new ways of killing one another; Hannibal, for instance, with his war elephants, would have appreciated the modern tank, which serves much the same purpose. But they have not yet even come close to finding a new way of settling their differences. War is still the accepted method, and the soldier still has plenty of employment.

The passing of Foch brings this fact home somehow. When he was hurling his masses of French, British and American soldiers at the German lines in that last great offensive, and men were dying by the scores of thousands to bring the war to an end, there was a great hope in the world; a hope that this frightful struggle might, in some way, bring about a better day, in which the necessity for war and destruction could be avoided. Out of this war, it was felt, could be made to grow a new order that would be wiser and less bloody.

That hope is not so strong now. It is not Foch's fault. He was given the job of bringing the old war to an end, so that victory could be made the foundation for a new era. He did his part magnificently. His fame will always be secure in that select circle of strategists that includes such soldiers as Napoleon and Lee.

But after his job was finished, the rest of us slipped up. We let the idealism and high resolves of wartime ooze out of us, and dropped back into acceptance of the old ways. So now, 10 years after the war, we find ourselves little nearer an enduring peace than we were before.

It would be pleasant to be able to say that Foch will prove to have been the last of the great generals. But we can't be that optimistic. As Foch goes to his grave, we can do little but quote the Confederate officer:

"If today you meet with Caesar, tell him we still make war."

Governing Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA has ousted its second governor in six years, and people in adjacent states must be beginning to wonder what there is about the atmosphere of Oklahoma's state capitol building that makes it so hard for a governor to stay in it.

Johnston follows Walton into retirement, after an impeachment trial that was, to say the least, hardly edifying. One cannot help thinking that if the Oklahoma voters were to demand a little more plain speaking during the campaign they could discover the character and qualifications of a candidate earlier and save themselves considerable trouble.

However, there is this to remember: other states than Oklahoma have had highly incompetent governors, and have put up with them. Oklahoma at least does not hesitate in getting rid of hers when she finds them out.

Doing the Work Too Well

EFFICIENCY, goal of all up to date shops, is at times a two-edged affair. At any rate, workers in a Boston and Maine railroad shop at Concord, N. H., have found it so.

During the past couple of years the shop at Concord gained a high record for its efficiency, and a magazine recently called it one of the best freight car repair shops in the country.

Now the 400 employes have been notified that there will be a week's shutdown, after which work will be resumed on a five-day schedule for an indefinite period. There is simply a dearth of work—the men did their jobs too well.

The Old Strain Remains

NEVER say that the hard-handed, rough-and-tumble breed of the early frontier is entirely gone from America. It still survives. In Hamburg, Tenn., two men got into a quarrel in a poker game the other day. They shot it out after the manner of the old frontier; each clasped the other's left hand, drew his revolver with his right, and blazed away as long as he could hold his weapon.

One man was dead by the time bystanders got to the scene—dead with five bullets in his body. The other died 30 minutes later, equally riddled.

A wild, lawless pair, surely! But why is it that that story sends a little, irrepressible thrill of something like admiration down our spines?

The State Park Movement

ANNOUNCEMENT by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur that the ninth annual meeting of the National Conference on State parks will be held early in May at Cliff Falls State park, Indiana, serves to emphasize anew the great service states can do their citizens by setting up park areas.

The state park is a comparatively recent development. In every state are many areas which, while not quite of national park caliber, are nevertheless worth preserving as recreational and scenic spots for the use of all the people. The great increase in the number of state parks in the last decade is a highly encouraging sign. No state can establish too many. Each additional one that is set up means wholesome enjoyment for many thousands of people.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, March 28.—An individual you must admit a big synonym and antonym is Frank H. Vizetelly, who for nearly 40 years has been a guiding genius of the Standard dictionary.

In a community where new words are coined almost every day, particularly on Broadway, Mr. Vizetelly remains unperturbed about the inroads that have been made by slang into the dictionary. Mr. Vizetelly is a student of words and, as such, he is not afraid of new ones. He is quite aware of the fact that all words had to have a beginning at some time.

In his office are to be found all kinds of words on all sorts of memorandums. He studies them, even the jazziest and slangiest of them. And, in the end, when a new dictionary appears, he seeks to produce a happy fraternization of old words and acceptable ones. To show the open-mindedness of this word czar he has accepted "Kibitzer" as a legitimate word. It was coined not so long ago and opitomizes the individual who gives advice or counsel or criticism of a thing, particularly a card game, without himself participating. There is a play by that name in New York at present. Mr. Vizetelly also has accepted such slangy words as "necker" and "necking."

Whyte's, about the most popular of the better restaurants in downtown New York, is going to move away. It has been such a successful venture that Mrs. Mary Whyte and her associates have decided to move uptown and establish a sort of night club, of a high class nature, in Fifth avenue.

Business men and financiers, as well as the newspaper men of more or less means, will miss Whyte's, which has an old history and an estimable record. I don't know whether it is merely another faint rumble presaging the drift of all downtown business and activity to the midtown section, or just another fine restaurant gone nightclubby.

There is a man in New York who enjoys the reputation of being a peer in his particular profession. His profession, if that is what it should be called, is renting out full dress suits for the benefit of those who don't happen to have them or, who, upon the rare occasions when they are needed, find their own suits are in an unhappy state in spite of mothballs.

Lou J. Harris is the man and his place is in East Fourteenth street. Some nights, he says, when an organization is giving a formal dinner or ball, there is a great run on his suits and the next day or two he is chagrined to find that many of them are in bad shape. The percentage of those who fail to return rented suits is about one per cent in a thousand.

Although there is no definite way of checking up on the matter, I daresay that the rented full dress suit is passing out of vogue. The popularity of the dinner jacket and the swallow tail has spread to a point where today nearly every man has at least one such suit in the old clothes closet. And the vogue of wearing evening clothes to the theater is such that mothballs are unnecessary.

Another item of formal wear becoming popular is the high silk hat. In the evenings on Broadway and Fifth avenue you will find them in profusion, with the black derby a runner-up. It would take an eagle eye to find a cap on Broadway day or night.

A fellow that looked like Eugene O'Neill—except that he was carrying a sign advertising a sale of suits for $10 with an extra pair of trousers thrown in—Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt, the latter wearing a bright red necktie. . . . Imitation Ziegfeld girls enticing passers-by into a theater. . . . Crowds of young men and women attending the parents' exposition in the Grand Central palace. . . . Gene Fowler, author of the forthcoming "Madame Silka," looking tanned after his Bermuda vacation. Now he's going to China.

Plainview Dairy Show Sets Aside April 3 as 'Lubbock County Day'

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, March 28.—Lubbock county farmers and merchants will take Plainview by storm Wednesday, April 3, which day has been designated as Lubbock county day at the Panhandle-Plains dairy show.

The Lubbock High school band will be along on the trip and an effort to get the biggest delegation of citizens of the county that ever left in one group is to be made.

Plans Worked Out

The dairy promotion plans of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, which has been holding a meeting once each week for the past several weeks to work out a program which will further promote the dairy industry in the county, have agreed to assist in getting up the banner delegation. Each of the seven members of the committee have agreed to make the trip. The committee will arrange for transportation for the Lubbock high school band and will urge all Lubbock merchants to attend. Questionnaires have been mailed to 2,500 farmers of Lubbock county, asking for information which will help the committee determine the present status of the dairy industry. A personal letter will go out from the committee to every farmer who has answered this questionnaire, inviting him to join the party and go to Plainview to see the dairy show.

Badges will be worn by the Lubbock delegates and the dairy promotion committee is inviting all the Lubbock county farmers who live where it is convenient to come into Lubbock to drop in at the chamber of commerce office to get a badge. Others can likely join the delegation along the road at Monroe or Abernathy on the north of Lubbock. Those who do not get their badges before they leave for Plainview will be able to visit headquarters for the party at the show and get the badges there.

To Stage Parade

Headed by the Lubbock high school band, with James W. Crowley directing, the Lubbock delegation intends to put on a parade when it arrives at Plainview, which may prove to be one of the outstanding features of the show.

Members of the dairy promotion committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce are Floyd A. Norman, chairman; Dean A. H. Leidigh, Dr. I. E. Barr, K. M. Renner, Walter A. Myrick Jr., W. L. Stangel and R. C. Smith.

D. F. Eaton of Lubbock is president of the show. W. L. Stangel is a member of the executive committee and other Lubbock county people are officials of the show and have been helping to make it a great success this year again.

AIMEE'S CASE TO BE AIRED

Hardy's Trial Will Uncover Complete Story

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 28. (UP)—Every phase of the mysterious disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson, red haired evangelist of Los Angeles, will be revealed at the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos S. Hardy beginning here a week from next Monday, Assemblyman Clarke Woolwine told the United Press today.

"I am certain I have obtained the true story of her kidnaping," Woolwine said, but refused to reveal whether it confirms Mrs. McPherson's version of being kidnaped from a California beach.

Woolwine's reply to all questions concerning details of his newly found evidence was that it would come out at the trial of Judge Hardy, who is facing charges of having accepted a $2,500 check from Mrs. McPherson while he was on the Los Angeles bench. He will stand trial before the state senate. Woolwine is member of the board of managers who will prosecute Hardy.

Woolwine, when he gave out the statement about solution of the kidnaping, had just returned from questioning Asa Keyes, Los Angeles district attorney who investigated Mrs. McPherson's disappearance.

Keyes is under sentence after being convicted of accepting a bribe to dismiss charges in the Julian Petroleum company case.

The Reader's Opinion

The columns of The Record News are open to its readers for the discussion of questions of current interest or import. Letters should be not more than 500 words in length, preferably shorter, and should be signed with the name and address of the writer. Initials, or pen-name, will be substituted upon request. ANOTHER PROTEST AGAINST POISON

Editor The Record News:

I have just read with much interest the article in yesterday's paper by K. O. Williams, under "The Reader's Opinion," protesting against the using of poison to exterminate the coyotes.

While I am a comparative stranger in this state (my home state being New York) and also a stranger to Mr. Williams, I am glad, through my love for animals to write this line to endorse what he has already written, as I quite agree with his views.

I am a great lover of all of God's creatures, especially the dumb animals, who, in many instances, we find are not as dumb as man himself, for this so-called man is constantly interferring with God's laws and government, taking life where he has not the right to do so.

As Mr. Williams stated in his article, our dogs and other animals look to us for protection and they have a right to this protection. Shall we fail them and allow this wholesale slaughtering of the innocent, just to further another's purpose for material gain, as it seems? I ask you one and all to protect our friends and "the pals of the children." God, in the beginning gave man dominion over the beasts of the field, the fowl of the air and the fish of the sea, but this dominion did not include, as I understand it, the wholesale slaughtering of this kind.

If this thing is allowed, no one's dog will be safe. Let us all cooperate in this matter for truly what blesses one, blesses all.

Very truly yours,
MRS. H. W. BENTON.

Tests for Bootleg . . . . Stock Market Dope

On Tests for Bootleg Liquor: The Flame Test: "Pour a little of the liquor into the saucer. Light it. If it burns with a blue flame it is wood alcohol. If it burns with a yellow flame it is also wood alcohol."

The Rabbit Test. "Take a rabbit—which is part of the equipment of every well ordered kitchen—and drop 10 drops of the liquor down its throat. If the rabbit dies it is bad liquor. If the rabbit lives it's a bad rabbit."

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

Glootz & McCann—"It is too early to say how far the decline may go. We think America is a great country."

Oswald W. Moofus—"What has happened has happened. The future will take care of itself. Beyond this we have no evidence to offer our customers."

Snooks, Snooks & Snooks—"What goes up must come down. We think the French will find a way out. Belgium imported 28,000 casks of steel nails during the first six months of last year. Everything depends on the crop report. Money begets money."

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, March 31:

Sunday—Breakfast, poached eggs on Melba toast, stewed raisins; lunch, sweet potato fluff (recipe given last Friday), cooked lettuce, salad of chopped raw cabbage; dinner, tomato and celery vegetable broth, baked chicken, squash, spinach, jello or jell-well with whipped cream.

Monday—Breakfast, French omelet, re-toasted cereal biscuit, stewed prunes; lunch, eight-ounce glass of orange juice; dinner, minced chicken in tomato jelly (chicken left from yesterday), steamed carrots, tomatoes, salad of raw celery, junket.

Tuesday—Breakfast, wholewheat mush, with milk or cream, no sugar, stewed raisins; lunch, baked ground beets, cooked asparagus, ripe olives; dinner, roast pork, mash turnips, salad of shredded raw spinach and parsley, baked apple.

Wednesday—Breakfast, coddled eggs, Melba toast, stewed figs; lunch, raw apples, pecan nuts; dinner, olive and cheese salad (this is protein part of meal), baked egg plant, spinach, ice cream.

Thursday—Breakfast, crisp waffle, small slice of broiled ham, applesauce; lunch, cooked oyster plant, stuffed celery; dinner, celery soup, broiled lamb chops, string beans, salad of chopped raw cabbage and carrots, stewed apricots.

Friday—Breakfast, cottage cheese, sliced pineapple, Melba toast; lunch, cooked carrots and peas, raw celery; dinner, jellied tomato bouillion, served in cubes, broiled filet of sole, spinach, baked parsnips, sliced tomatoes, plain jello or jell-well, no cream.

Saturday—Breakfast, waffle, browned all the way through, with a little butter and maple syrup, crisp bacon; lunch, baked potato, combination salad of chopped celery, peas and cabbage; dinner, broiled steak, baked ground beets, cooked lettuce, salad of cold cooked asparagus, minced prunes in gelatin, whipped cream.

Minced chicken in tomato jelly: Drain, but do not strain, two cups of juice from a large can of tomatoes. Pour into a saucepan and heat to almost boiling point. Have ready one envelope of plain gelatin which has been softened with a little cold water. Dip up some of the tomato juice and stir into the gelatin until thoroughly dissolved, then mix all together and set in a cool place until the juice begins to thicken. Now, mix in one cupful of minced chicken, one-third cupful of chopped celery, parsley and ripe olives. Pour into wet molds and place in the refrigerator until ready to serve. Serve unmolded on crisp lettuce. The amount is sufficient for four persons, and forms the protein part of the meal. Any left-over roast, such as beef, pork, or mutton may be prepared in the same manner and found very appetizing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Yellow Eyes

Question—Lora R asks: "Will you please tell me what would cause the whites of the eyes to become yellow?"

Answer—When the whites of the eyes become yellow it is usually due to a retention of bile in the blood. This means that the whole system is poisoned and indicates the need for a diet which will relieve the encumbered liver and gall bladder. Bile should only be in the liver, gall bladder and intestines, and should not appear in the blood. When it does it becomes one of the toxins responsible for many diseases more serious than the discoloration of the eyes, which is merely a symptom of the bile poison in the system.

Chewing Gum

Question—Mrs. J. H. asks: "Can you tell me something about chewing gum? What is its effect upon digestion, and of what is it composed?"

Answer—Chewing gum was originally made from spruce gum or refined paraffin-wax variously flavored, but chewing gum at the present time is made from chickle, a gum obtained from the milky juice secreted by the bark of the sapodilla tree which also bears one of the most delicious of the tropical fruits. This gum was used by the Indians for chewing many years before it was known commercially. It makes a very good substitute for rubber, but brings a better price from the chewing gum industry, and is practically exclusively used for this purpose. In the chewing gum factory blocks of the dried chickle are thoroughly refined and sterilized, and mixed with the sweetening and various flavors. Chewing gum stimulates the secretion of saliva and various other digestive fluids and for this reason may be used after a meal, often taking the place of a dessert to an advantage. Its use assists in developing the muscles of the jaw and probably assists in preserving the teeth and keeping them clean. It is best not to use the chewing gum immediately preceding a meal or simply from habit.

Two Black Crows

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN: Here comes General Gozzabo now.

MACK: What does he do?

MORAN: He is th' general of th' Mexican rebels.

MACK: Tell him I'm a good-will ambassador.

MORAN: It's too late now.

MACK: They aint goin' to make me fight.

MORAN: No. But they is goin' to take you where th' fightin' is.

MACK: I ain't mad at nobody.

MORAN: They is shootin' again.

MACK: I wish I was back in Chicago.

MORAN: Didn't yo' say yo' was th' bully of yo' town?

MACK: This ain't my town.

MORAN: When a man shoots at yo' don't yo' shoot back?

MACK: Sure, I shoots back t' where I come from.

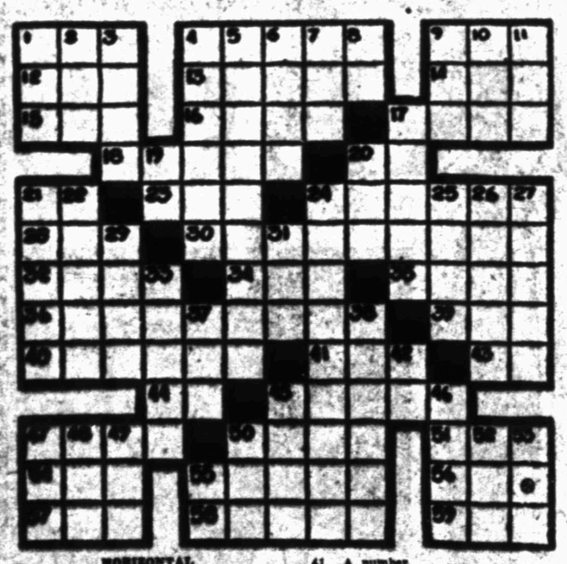

Big Boy's idea of shooting back is to put plenty of territory between himself and trouble. Looks like one of the Two Black Crows is a canary.

Experts Hope to Reach Agreement by Today

PARIS, March 28. (UE)—With the elusive "final figure" which Germany must pay on reparations claims still unfound, Owen D. Young, chairman of the experts' committee, will lay before the experts in full at the plenary session tomorrow morning a formula by which it is hoped to reach eventual settlement in the troublesome reparations controversy.

A new laboratory in Berlin, Germany, is equipped to produce temperatures as low as 452 degrees below zero, or about eight points from absolute zero.

Marty Berghammer's Tulsa Oilers, champions of the Western league, will oppose the Spudders in a three-game series starting today out at our orchard. Berghammer, one of the most successful minor league managers, brings his usual fast club to meet the Spudders.

Rain and cold weather prevented the game with the New York Giant seconds yesterday, both contests with the Gotham club being called off.

The Tulsa club is made up of youngsters. Only Joe Munson, the mighty clouting outfielder, who formerly played in the Texas league; Peters, third baseman, and Wright and Valentine, pitchers, were members of the 1928 championship Tulsa club.

Joe Mathes, manager of the Springfield club of the Western association, is assisting Berghammer in the leadership of the Tulsa club. He formerly was manager at Houston.

Skipper Galloway will start the lineup which opposed the St. Paul Saints and Oklahoma City Indians, with the exception of Bill Bean at first base if a righthander is pitching for the Oilers.

Coyote Eleven To Play Ranger

Pack and Bulldog in Practise Tilt April 5

Wichita Falls high school Coyotes, under the direction of Coach Bud McCallum, will journey to Ranger, April 5, to meet the Bulldogs in a practice football game. This is the only game to be played this spring by the Pack.

The Coyotes have been working hard on fundamentals in preparation for next fall, but they also have an eye on the Ranger game. Revenge for two defeats at the hands of Ranger is sought by the Coyotes. In 1927, the autumn they lost a bi-district game and last spring were defeated by the Ranger gridders.

Ten or twelve plays have been given to the squad and drills no these plays occupy a good portion of the practice session. Dummy scrimmage occupys, along with signal drill, the chief parts of the daily practice sessions.

Four or five track aspirants, who are some of last year's football letter men, will be able to play in the Ranger contest, according to Coach McCallum. The return of these men adds much strength to the lineup and brightens the Red and Black hopes considerably. The four track men who are out for the team now are Rollin Dixon, Thomas Beaty, John Bell and Morriss Lee. Approximately 24 men will make the trip to Ranger.

Assistant Coach Bill Morriss is drilling the linemen in charging, tackling and blocking. The forward wall is well supplied with weight this spring and should give the Bulldog backs plenty of trouble. Men who are expected to finish the practice season are:

Kal Segrist to Lead Midland West Texans

RAIN STOPS SOX

DALLAS, Texas, March 28. (UP)—Rain caused cancellation of a White Sox practice session today and also spoiled "the sun treatment" prescribed for the Chicago hurling staff. The sun-olive oil treatment for pitchers' arms was instituted yesterday. Manager Lena Blackburne is preparing his team for the Giant game here Sunday.

REDS BEAT MONTREAL

ORLANDO, Fla., March 28. (UP)—Five runs in the eighth inning enabled the Cincinnati Reds to beat the Montreal International league club today, 7 to 3. Red Lucas pitched five innings for the Reds without allowing a runner to reach third. McMullen's triple with two on and none out in the eighth broke up the contest.

RED SOX TUMBLE

PALMETTO, Fla., March 28. (UP)—The Boston Red Sox took a tumble before the Buffalo International league club today, losing 9 to 4. The minor leaguers hammered Gaston and Simmons for 15 hits. Moore hit a home run with two men on base. Manager Bill Carrigan used many substitutes.

WEAVER IS RELEASED

TAMPA, Fla., March 28. (UP)—James Weaver, the biggest player in the major leagues, was released today on option to the Birmingham Southern league club by the Washington Senators. HEAT STOPS INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 28. (UP)—The Cleveland Indians' practice was limited today to one hour because of the excessive heat. Manager Peckinpaugh is pleased with the condition of his players. Johnny Hodapp, who injured his knee the first day here, is rapidly recovering from the ailment and is expected to play against the New York Giants next week.

CARDINALS BEAT CHAMPS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28. (UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have the Indian sign on the New York Yankees in exhibition games, at least, beating the world champions again today, 10 to 2.

Grover Cleveland Alexander and Willie Sherdel held the Yanks to five hits, the former working six innings without allowing a run. Alex held Ruth and Gehrig hitless and made two hits himself, one a triple.

Bill Doak, veteran spitball pitcher, joined the Cards today.

FRENCH IS REINSTATED

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 28. (UP)—Connie Mack announced today that Walter French, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder who retired last fall, had been reinstated by Commissioner Landis and will rejoin the Athletics in Philadelphia April 6.

The Panthers have 10 more exhibition games carded.

SPORTS ROUT MILLERS, 8 TO 5

SHREVEPORT, March 28. (AP)—The Sports wound up their exhibition series with the Minneapolis Millers of the American association by winning today's game, 8 to 5.

KANSAS CITY DEFEATS EXPORTERS

WINDLE COMES TO TERMS

WACO, March 28. (AP)—On the eve of a three-game series between the Waco Cubs and the New York Giants, Manager Del Pratt of the Cubs announced that Wayne Windle, star shortstop of last season, considered a holdout, had come to terms with the club management.

Pratt made use of his axe and when he finished Ben Ellis, first baseman; Abel, an outfielder, and Preacher Thurman were no longer members of the Cub squad.

BUFFS PLAY DERTOIT TWO GAMES

HOUSTON, March 28. (AP)—Manager Snyder's Houston Buffs Saturday will take on the Detroit Tigers. Saturday has been designated "Frank Barnes Day". The former Buff pitcher will be presented with a handsome gift by the Houston baseball association. Heine Schuble, former Buff shortstop, will be similarly remembered Sunday on "Heinie Schuble Day."

HIGH PRAISE for former Texas leaguers with the New York Giants is sounded by Dick Kinsella, veteran scout for the club which is master minded by John McGraw. Kinsella, here with the New York Giants a couple of days, says that much store is set by Karl Hubbell, the southpaw pitcher. Indeed, McGraw figures upon the slender lefthander from Beaumont as one of his regular pitchers for the coming campaign.

Eddie Marshall, the kid shortstop up from Beaumont, has a glittering future, Kinsella believes. Marshall probably won't be retained by the Giants this year. He still is a bit shy from big league class. But another season in a fast minor circuit—probably the Texas—apparently is about all Eddie needs before he gains permanent entrance into the fast time.

THERE is to be another candidate for a Spudder berth, not now in training camp. He is an outfielder, a collegian, and to all reports a corking ball player. Lowell Parrish, the highly successful athletic director at Estelline high school, is the man to whom I am referring.

Parrish' signed contract has been received by the Spudders but he will not report until school closes in May. Lowell was a star gardener with the Texas Christian university Frogs, and his work last spring was so spectacular as to catch the eye of J. Alvin Gardner.

GEORGE BLACKERBY stands an excellent chance of being retained by the Chicago White Sox. Irving Vaughan, a Chicago baseball writer, says that George Watwood probably will be left in Dallas by the pale hose with Alex Metzler and Carl Reynolds assured of regular berths, and Johnny Mostil and Bill Barrett, veteran contenders for the other garden post. It seems that our Georgie has so favorably impressed Lena Blackburne that he will be kept as a fifth outfielder.

EDDIE ROETZ has attracted a deal of commendations recently down at the Browns' training base at West Palm Beach. Eddie's work has been so impressive that Dan Howley figures the kid a future big leaguer, though still probably needing a bit more minor experience.

Just a green kid when he reported here last year, Roets was sent to Abilene and later brought back to act as reserve infielder. He learns fast enough how to field and has two outstanding characteristics. Ability to hit and a fondness for hot dogs.

How that boy could smash that ball hard—and dispose of Bill Newell's excellent hot dogs!

Quinn Clings to Youthful Vigor As Dean of All Big League Players

Veteran Southpaw, at Age of 44, Begins Twentieth Season in Majors With This Year's Games

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, March 28. (UP)—With Ty Cobb in retirement and Tris Speaker no longer in the major leagues, John Picus Quinn, veteran southpaw of the Philadelphia Athletics, is the dean of big league ball players.

Beginning his 20th season in the majors, Quinn is the oldest player in point of service in either league. Quinn is also one of the oldest active players remaining in baseball. He will reach the age of 45 on July 5.

Biggest in Majors

Grover Cleveland Alexander, pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Quinn are two of the most extraordinary pitching specimens left in the majors.

Quinn, who was a star with the New York Yankees as far back as 1910, when he won 18 games and lost 10, is one of the five spitball pitchers remaining in the majors. The others are Red Faber, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell and Bill Doak.

Quinn spent his boyhood days as a breaker boy in the Pennsylvania coal mines and those long, strenuous days underground developed a physique which has been able to stand the rigors of 26 years of major league pitching.

The Boston Red Sox discarded Quinn in midseason 1925, thinking the veteran southpaw was through. Connie Mack picked him up at the waiver price and that deal proved to be one of the best the astute Philadelphia leader ever engineered.

Two Best Seasons

The past two seasons have been two of the best in Quinn's long and colorful career. He won 15 games and lost only 10 in 1927, while last season, his 19th in the majors, he won 18 games and lost but seven.

Again this season Connie Mack is counting on Quinn to prove one of the mainstays of a pitching staff which is now badly shot to pieces because of the injuries and ailments of younger and less hardy pitchers than Quinn.

The record of Alexander is almost as remarkable as Quinn's. He is now 42 and was thought to be at the end of his pitching days when the Yankees hammered him so unmercifully in the last world series. But like "Old Man River," the famous right-hander seems to go on forever. Oblivious to age and other obstacles, Alexander is preparing for another successful season.

In Eighteenth Season

Only today Alexander, who is beginning his 18th season in the national league, dispelled any doubt that he is through by holding the world champion New York Yankees helpless during the six innings he pitched against them at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Yanks made but three hits off Alex until he retired in favor of Sherdel at the start of the seventh inning.

Alexander had his greatest pitching season with the Phillies in 1916, when he pitched in 48 games, and won 33 and lost 12. On two other occasions Alex has won 30 or more games—hanging up 31 victories in 1915 and 30 in 1917.

Alexander was sold to the Cubs for $50,000 in the fall of 1917. In 1926 he was released to the Cardinals on waivers after having trouble with Joe McCarthy over training rules.

Rixey Looks Good

Another veteran major league pitcher who is looking forward to another successful season is Eppa Jeptha Rixey, Cincinnati Reds southpaw, who is beginning his 17th season in the national league.

Rixey broke in with the Phillies in 1912, direct from the University of Virginia campus. He is 37.

Baylor Bears Score 3 to 2 Win Over Ponies

WACO, March 28. (AP)—The Baylor Bears opened their conference baseball season here today with a 3 to 2 victory over the S. M. U. Mustangs in the first of a two-game series.

White Sox Release Collegiate Pitcher

DALLAS, March 28. (AP)—Chicago White Sox officials tonight announced the outright release of Theodore Sahlberg, righthand pitcher from the University of Southern California. Sahlberg will leave tomorrow for a tryout with the Des Moines club of the Western league, training at Seminole, Okla.

WAIVER ASKED ON HEILMANN

'Bucky' Harris Flirts With 'Greatness'

DETROIT, March 28. (AP)—Stanley "Bucky" Harris apparently is to be a victim this year of the bromide that "some have greatness thrust upon them"—though whether it is fame that is being loaded onto the Tiger manager, ball games alone can tell.

With announcement in Phoenix, Ariz., today that Harris had asked waivers on Harry Heilmann, whose fifteenth season with the Tigers was expected to be spent on first base, the Tiger boss is faced with remodeling his infield.

Harris has not revealed details, but the logical layout would be Bucky himself at the keystone sack, Charlie Gehringer constorting with him at shortstop, Marty McManus at third and Dale Alexander supplanting the banished Heilmann.

Heilmann, it is an open secret, is to be moved as a disciplinary measure, although Harris has not said so. Harris has decided to enforce training rules, let the chips fall where they may.

Heinie Schuble, obtained from Houston of the Texas league to stop the gap between second and third, apparently will need another year of seasoning before qualifying.

LOUGHRAN WINS DECISION OVER WALKER TO RETAIN CROWN

BULLDOG RUSH HITS THIN AIR

Challenger's Fabled Attacks Come to Nothing

By BERT DEMBY

CHICAGO STADIUM, Chicago, March 28. (UP)—Tommy Loughran successfully defended his light heavyweight championship here tonight by outpointing Mickey Walker in 10 rounds.

Loughran won by using effectively a left jab which landed in Walker's face throughout the fight.

Judges Not Unanimous

By losing Walker missed a chance to achieve a fistic honor held by only one man. Had he won, he would have become a three title-holder and Bob Fitzsimmons is the only man that ever held that honor.

The official vote of the judges was announced as two to one. Davy Miller, the referee, voted for Walker.

Loughran, a master boxer, simply was too clever for Walker. The famous bulldog rush, which Walker has used to knockout heavier men than he, was stopped cold by Loughran's left.

Several times during the fight Loughran deliberately rubbed his left over Walker's face as the latter strived vainly to get inside. The real cleverness of Loughran was manifest in the tenth round. Walker, realizing his only chance to win was by a knockout, made one rush after another, swinging wildly.

Pounds Walker's Nose

Loughran calmly sidestepped or danced away and beat a tattoo on Walker's nose.

Walker surprised the crowd in the first round when he failed to start with his famous bulldog rush. He apparently went out to box but there was no comparison between the two in this respect. In the first round Loughran's left rested almost continuously in Walker's face.

The second and third rounds were practically a repetition of the first but Walker appeared better in the third.

In the fourth, Walker opened up with his rushes and hurt Loughran with two hard rights to the jaw. However, Loughran, as cool-headed a fighter as there is in the ring, clinched and held on until his head was clear. He boxed well enough during the remainder of the round to get a fairly even break, but it was Walker's by a shade. Tommy apparently went out to slug in the fifth round and got the most of it. Mikey belted the light heavyweight champion with hard punches to both head and body and Tommy finally clinched in the middle of the round and held him even.

Walker Breaks Through

The sixth round was the most even of the contest, each man fighting his own style and Walker succeeded in breaking through Tommy's left hand for the first time of the fight.

Walker took the seventh round by a series of hard rights and lefts to Loughran's head.

Loughran got hold of himself in the eighth and came back to earn an even break.

Realizing he was out in front by this time, Tommy contented himself by topping Walker's rushes. Mickey began to tire in the ninth and Loughran was able to jab him with a left almost at will. The tenth was Loughran's by a wide margin.

20,00 See Battle

There were three main preliminaries.

Al Fay, California, won from Frankie Cawley by a technical knockout in five rounds. The fight was stopped on account of a bad cut on Cawley's nose. Jackie London, lightweight, lost to George Kenvyn, Chicago, 6-round decision, and Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans heavyweight, lost to Jack Gross, Philadelphia, six rounds, decision.

The crowd was estimated at 20,000 and gate receipts at more than $200,000. No official figures were announced.

Loughran received 35 per cent of the gross receipts and out of that he pays Walker $50,000. It was believed his purse would run over $120,000.

ARMY ELEVEN STILL LOAFING

For Coach Can't Find Spot For Spring Training

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 28. (AP)—Capt. Lawrence Jones, F. A., U. S. A., Biff Biff Jones during the football season, is worried. The head coach of the Army eleven sits in his spacious office on the top floor of a stone building as rugged as he himself and wonders what, if anything, to do about spring practice for the football team of 1929.

The coach has given much thought to the question of practice or the lack of it, and has not yet found a solution. He seems to have a conviction that if spring comes, autumn cannot be far behind, and already there are unmistable signs of spring at the Point. The big coach would like to issue a clear, dignified order in the best army style naming a day and an hour for his practice, but the task is not so easy. He is facing a double problem—where he will practice and what material he will use.

There is no lack of men. The place is full of them and a generous majority believe they are football players, but most of them are otherwise engaged. Three score are participating in other major sports, many of them wearing the full equipment of the la crosse player, some in the scant apparel of the track athlete and the other garbed in the in-between uniform of baseball.

As the athletes by the hundred rush into the sunshine for the opening of outdoor activities after the lull, drab workouts of gymnasium, cavalry drill halls and other indoor places, Biff looks at football fields freshly plowed and getting some much-needed first aid from nature and ground keepers. And then he goes back to his desk and reads that Harvard, Illinois, Notre Dame and Stanford are having spring football practice.

"They'll have to have some spring practice," said Coach Jones today. "We may have to do our work in the street, but we'll practice somewhere."

New Football Loop Favored

League to Be Composed Of Large High Schools

AUSTIN, March 28. (AP)—Officials of the University Interscholastic league announced tonight through Roy Bedichek, director, that they stood ready to sanction the move of Dr. Norman R. Crozier, superintendent of Dallas city schools, for a football league, including in its membership Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston high schools.

The organization, to be designated as the class AA football league, will be looked on with favor, Bedichek said, if the four cities decide to enter it.

Under the plan outlined by Dr. Crozier, after the regular football season has ended Dallas and Fort Worth champions would play to determine the North Texas titlist. This eleven would meet another selected in the same fashion from Houston-San Antonio championship squads.

Eligibility requirements now required by the interscholastic league would apply to the contesting teams, Bedichek explained.

Old Gold wins at Princeton in a test of the 4 leading cigarettes

Five upper-classmen comparing the leading cigarette brands in the rooms of the Princeton Inn.

The four leading brands of cigarettes... "masked" with paper sleeves to conceal their brand names.

"The Daily Princetonian" was asked by the P. Lorillard Company, makers of OLD GOLD cigarettes, to conduct a test at Princeton to determine which of the four widest-selling cigarettes had the greatest taste appeal.

For the purposes of the test the four leading cigarettes were "masked" to conceal the brand names. Undergraduates were asked to smoke the four brands without knowing their identity. The cigarettes were numbered, and the men merely chose, by number, the one that appealed to them most.

The test was made at eleven Princeton upper-class clubs and at the Freshman Commons on January 11th to 16th. In all, 303 students smoked and compared the four cigarettes. The test was conducted in a perfectly fair and impartial manner.

The results show that "Cigarette W" won 75 first choices; "Cigarette X" won 74; "Cigarette Y" won 36; and "Cigarette Z" (which was OLD GOLD) won 118. The preference for OLD GOLD was 57% greater than that for the next highest brand.

Advancements in the famous engine bring 10% to 30% greater actual performance ... Huskier trucks throughout ... Strikingly fine lines and appearance ... Models of 7 different basic STRAIGHT RATINGS. (Prices, chassis only, F. O. B., Pontiac, Mich.):

TRUCKS of modern efficiency call for methods equally modern. Pledged to further the cause of Better Delivery (better truck transportation) General Motors Trucks match efficiency of vehicles with modern standards in methods of selling—and in co-operation between buyer and seller.

Prices of General Motors Trucks are not "padded". No unsound "excess allowances" on trade-ins are made. Extra value is given, instead. The advantages of unusual manufacturing facilities are fairly shared with the man who buys.

STRAIGHT RATING is a sane new method, giving the buyer exact, advance information—and a guarantee that means something. It clarifies the problems of wise truck-investment. And brings new economies to actual operation of equipment. It is based upon the maximum allowable total gross weight under which any given model will operate with top efficiency, year in and year out. It is simple, accurate; an advancement of the most practical value.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 28. (AP)—While opening advances were followed by reactions in cotton today, prices firmed up again in the afternoon on pre-holiday covering, which appeared to be promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables, reports of a better tone in the stock market and some uncertainty as to weather conditions over the three-day adjournment. After selling off from 20.22 to 20.06, July rallied to 20.23 and closed at 20.20. The general market closed steady at net advances of 7 to 25 points, with new crop months relatively firm.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 4 points. Near months were relatively easy under overnight selling orders. Later deliveries were higher on the relatively firm showing of Liverpool. Initial offerings were quickly absorbed, with active months selling about 9 to 15 points net higher during the early trade. This advance was checked by renewed liquidation and there were reactions during the middle of the day.

Reports of beneficial rains in West Texas and more favorable weather in eastern belt sections were factors on the reaction, which carried old crop positions about 2 to 7 points net lower and the new crop back to within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations. There seemed to be more uncertainty as to weather developments before the reopening of the market Monday. This probably contributed to the advance which followed. It also seemed that some interests who recently had liquidated old crop months were buying in new crop positions while some transferring of long accounts from May and July to the later positions was going on. At any rate, new crop months led the advance which carried the general list about 10 to 28 points net higher. May sold at 20.80 and the new October contract at 20.19. At the close July and December seemed to be on even terms at 20.20, while January, closing at 20.24, was 4 points above the July price.

A private report, pointing to a comparatively heavy infestation of boll weevil during the spring and summer, was published during the morning. Although it appeared to have little immediate effect on the market, it may have been a contributing influence on the advance.

Liverpool advices reported foreign buying and covering on unfavorable weather reports from the South. Port receipts today, 13,555. U. S. port stocks, 1,795,174. Exports today, 25,998, making 6,783,001 this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 28. (AP)—After ruling comparatively quiet for most of the session, the cotton market became quite active in final trading today and prices advanced rather sharply in response to a steadier stock market and a drop in call money. October contracts traded up from 19.75 to 20.04 and closed steady at net gains of 8 to 22 points.

The market opened steady and first trades showed gains of 4 to 6 points. Active positions continued to advance after the start on a moderate demand stimulated by relatively steady Liverpool cables and map indications of rain in the belt over the holidays. May traded up to 20.03, July 20.08 and October 19.88, or 10 to 11 points above the previous close.

Later, however, the market turned weak under some pre-holiday liquidation and realizing and before the offerings were absorbed values showed recession of 13 to 14 points from the highs, with May at 19.90, July 19.94 and October 19.75. At these levels prices were 2 to 3 points below yesterday's close.

After ruling quiet during the late morning and early afternoon session, probably due to the reluctance of traders to transact new business in the face of the three-day layoff, the market became active late in the afternoon and prices advanced rather sharply. New Crop months were in particular demand and relatively strongest. May sold up to 20.06, July 20.12 and October 20.04, or 18 to 29 points above the lows. There was some realizing at the end and final prices were 5 to 7 points under the top.

Further Drop in Call Money Rate Adds Vim to Stock Market Rally

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 28 (US)—Drop in the call money rate from renewal of 15 to closing of 8 per cent influenced a further spirited rally in the stock market today that closed all groups higher. Expectation that the rediscount rate would be left unchanged gave added stimulus to the buying while the advance was speeded by the desire of shorts to cover commitments over the holiday.

Baldwin scored an advance of 16 points but Radio with a further net gain of 9½ was the outstanding bull leader, approaching within a fraction of its record high during the height of bullish enthusiasm during the afternoon. International Telephone and Telegraph gained over 14, Steel climbed 4 and Packard gained 4⅝ points. Oils continued in active demand with Pan-American gaining 2½ and other active issues adding over a point to their advance.

Rails were quiet but held strong throughout. Volume fell off to the 5,000,000 share level.

The manipulation in the money market is worse than it has ever been in stocks. An 8 per cent call money rate within 48 hours of a 20 per cent rate makes the reserve system ridiculous. There were plenty of funds available at 8 per cent so the belief spread that the April 1 disbursements were provided for and easy money would be enjoyed for awhile. Undoubtedly banks have additional funds from corporations to take care of April 1 interest and dividends. Checks for such disbursements don't go through the banks until Tuesday, however, and if the money powers see fit they can again jack rates up at that time.

Under normal conditions there should be no extraordinary tightness in money until the middle of June. If the reserve continues its under-cover pressure on banks, however, only its officials can tell what money rates will be. In all the cheerfulness in the market it was pertinent that no word came through from official Washington.

Standard Oil of New Jersey enjoyed the best buying in the petroleum group, with Standard of New York, Standard of California, Sinclair, Pan-American and Texas also reflecting good demand. Everyone now realizes what was pointed out in this column exclusively several weeks ago. That is the favorable position of the oil group—provided the leaders of the industry adhere to their stabilization agreement. As stated some time ago the position of the oils is similar to that of the copper shares prior to the success of stabilization plans of the leaders of the red metal industry. Standard Oil of New Jersey's leadership is due to expectation that it will be first to increase its dividend.

Baldwin reflected the election of George W. Houston, as president. Mr. Houston represents controlling interest and his election is a forerunner to recapitalization and acquisition of additional properties. Westinghouse and American Steel foundaries are mentioned most in this connection.

Radio's sensational recovery was due in part to the large short interest caught therein and also to further indications of an important agreement with International Telephone soon. Another factor of cheer was the resumption of operations in General Motors by the group that abandoned activity early this week in fear of the money situation. They are headed by the midwestern interests associated with the corporation and they again are talking as bullish as ever.

It was no surprise that the rediscount rate was not changed as it is rather obvious that the reserve board does not want to increase it because of international affairs. The decline of $144,000,000 in loans, however, is about half of what was to be expected from the crash in prices experienced Tuesday. Considering the amount of new buying the last two days such decline for the week ended Wednesday means that brokers' loans right now are at a new high peak.

The idea was expressed that the full effect of Tuesday's selling was not reflected in the loan report because brokers gave customers time to come up with more margin. That simply means that the actual liquidation on Tuesday was materially less than was generally thought and that the federal reserve board has not achieved the slightest success in its corrective campaign to date.

Sterling dropped in an otherwise dull and irregular foreign exchange market as cables told of inquiries in London indicating more gold shipments here soon. Commodities rallied with stocks due almost entirely to short covering and the improved sentiment in speculative circles.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 28. (AP)—While cattle were more plentiful on the livestock market here today than on Thursday of last week, they do not measure up to the supply for the corresponding day last year.

All classes of cattle sold steay. The bulk of the supply consisted of mixed loads of stocker cattle. The southern division furnished five loads.

Packer buyers bought a load of rather common steers at $10.50 and two loads at $11.75. These prices considered fully steady. Two loads of rather fleshy cattle went to an order buyer for feeder purposes, one load at $12.40 and a load at $12.60.

Not enough bulls on hand to test the market. A few of the common light bulls sold around $6.75 and the better heavy ones around $8 and $8.25.

Slaughter yearlings and heifers about stady, better ones in carlots around $12.50.

No cows of any consequence entered in the day's trading. All values steady, with a few of the better fat cows at $9 and $9.25. Bulk of canners and cutters in package lots sold at $5.25 to $6.50.

A few more calves on hand today than usual. Values steady. Two cars of South Texas calves that averaged 221 pounds sold at $12, while some heavy calves sold at $12 and $12.60. Most of the culls sold at $8 to $9.

The demand for stocker cattle appeared to have eased off a little, yet no sales today appreciably lower. Some fair kind stocker yearlings sold at $13.

Steady to weak prices paid for hogs today, best rail butchers at $11 and truck top at $10.50. Bulk of the 175-350-pound butchers sold at $10.25 to $11; packer sows at $8.50 to $9.50.

Shorn fat lambs appeared a quarter higher, sales at $14.50 for those that were fresh shorn. Several decks of shorn fat wethers that contained a few yearlings sold at $10, or steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 28. (AP)—In tune with stock market development, grain values had a general higher pitch today, evening up of accounts for the holiday tomorrow, when no grain exchanges will be open, acted as a further strengthening influence, and so too did European buying of wheat future deliveries, as well as purchasing for immediate export.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅝c to 1⅛c net higher. Corn finished ⅛c to 1c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 37@40c.

Rather than maintain open risks over the holiday, previous speculative sellers of wheat bought wheat futures freely today, especially in the late dealings, and the market closed at the day's top level. Helping the late advance were indications that dry weather in Canada is becoming more of a factor. This circumstance did much to counterbalance the bearish effect of good rains in domestic wheat territory southwest, and also to neutralize the force of large deliveries of wheat today on March contracts here, the deliveries for the day totaling 457,000 bushels. Meanwhile, export buying today of North American wheat amounted to about 900,000 bushels and a good-sized aggregate, considering that holidays were acting as a check on business.

Rains today in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas led to wheat price downturns at times, and the more so as the moisture appeared to be covering the sections which have chiefly complained of soil blowing. On breaks in prices, however, offerings were rapidly absorbed, and for the most part the advantage continued to lean to the side of buyers.

From start to finish, sentiment was favorable to the buying side of the corn market. Shippers here were optimistic regarding eastern demand, calling attention to the fact that Ohio and Indiana were above a Chicago basis and that Michigan had brought corn here for the first time in two months. The cash corn trading basis here advanced ¼c to ½c today as compared with futures.

Lard and bellies were bought by commission houses, and prices for all provisions averaged higher, despite a setback in hog values.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, March 28. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed receipts of sheep around the 11-market circuit prompted a reaction on fat lambs, trade ruling fairly active at mostly steady to 25c higher prices. Some markets reported strength on aged stock. Choice fed wooled lambs in Chicago realized $17.25. The supply approximated 35,000, a decrease of 9,400 from a week ago and 19,000 short of the corresponding day last year.

Although receipts of cattle were light to moderate, demand was slow for most all classes at steady to 25c lower values. Packers were especially "bearish" on light yearlings and fat she stock. Chicago had a top of $14.25 on choice light weight steers, but up to a late hour best heavy steers at this point were unsold. Country outlet remained narrow for replacement stock but the market on this contingent should stabilize itself the forthcoming week as sharp declines have been enforced at several points where prices have reached relatively high levels. Total offerings were around 21,800 as compared with 35,534 last Thursday and 27,330 a year ago.

Aggregate receipts of hogs were estimated at 64,500, an increase of 2,200 over a week ago but 31,700 short of a year ago. Trade was slow at prices unevenly steady to 35c lower, most markets on the close reporting 10c to 35c lower figures. The day's extreme top of $11.80 was paid in Chicago.

INMAN BUTLER TELLS OF PEEP

Boudouir Scene Described In Divorce Trial

RENO, Nev., March 28. (INS)—Indicating that his case was reaching a climax, Walker P. Inman, multimillionaire Duke tobacco fortune heir, today took the witness stand in his divorce action against Helene Garnet Patton Inman.

He was called to establish the facts concerning his residence in Nevada.

He followed Otto Schmitt, his butler, to the witness stand. Schmitt on cross-examination told of watching events in the Inman New York apartment through a keyhole. He declared he had peeped through the keyhole but once.

"Who was there?" asked defense counsel.

"Mr. Yap. I saw his hat but I could not see Yap, so I presumed he was in the bedroom."

"Did you ever hear Mr. Inman say Mrs. Inman was getting too fat?" the butler was asked.

"He never spoke about Mrs. Inman to me," Schmitt replied.

Earlier in his testimony he had recited spicy details of a boudoir scene in which he declared Mrs. Inman figured.

Woman Leaves Funds For Unmarried Women

CHICAGO, March 28. (UP)—Three million dollars to establish a home for aged unmarried women here, was bequested by Mrs. Suzanne King Bruwaert, widow of Edward Bruwaert, French diplomat, in a will filed today.

A sister, Mrs. Jane King Burry, was left $50,000 and a nephew and two nieces are to share $25,000. The only other bequest was $10,000 for counsel fees.

Mrs. Bruwaert, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McGregor Adams, of Chicago, died recently in Utica, N. Y. She was 80 years old. All of her estate but $80,000 was cash, held in the Banque Cantonale Vaudoise of Lausanne, Switzerland.

VALUE CANNOT BE OVER ESTIMATED

"I've Gained 20 Pounds Since Taking Orgatone," Says Inspector of Wichita Falls Traction Company

"I can't praise this medicine, Orgatone, too highly, for all it has done for me," said J. O. Bradshaw, of 2001 Kemp Blvd., who has been inspector of Wichita Falls Traction Co. for the last 10 years.

"For 10 long years I have suffered agony with my condition. I just lost my health and everything seemed to be wrong with me. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and the food would lie in my stomach, undigested, which caused gas to form and would make me have shortness of breath. For the last five years I have been under the doctor's care, but just seemed to be going down hill, and kept getting weaker and finally got so I could hardly attend to my business. About two years ago, I suffered a great deal with a numbness in my legs, which would sometimes make it almost impossible for me to walk at times, and I guess this was due to non-circulation. At times I would have to hold to something, for fear I would fall.

"I just seemed to lose all my energy and didn't have the necessary 'pep' to do anything. I had a bad case of constipation, and had to take strong laxatives all the time. My nerves got to be in a pretty bad state, and I didn't get the proper amount of sleep and rest at night.

"People advised me to take Orgatone, and I read so much about it in the papers I got a bottle. I have received fine results from five bottles, but could tell the difference right away after I had taken my first few doses. I have honestly gained 20 pounds and have more strength than I have had in several years. My constipation is relieved. I have more pep and energy and can attend to my work with pleasure. Orgatone has helped me so, I don't think I will ever be without it. My wife is now taking it and is getting good results and thinks it is a wonderful medicine in every way. I don't think the value of Orgatone can be over-estimated and I hope this statement will be a benefit to others."

—Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls at Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Jury Foreman Denies Charges Made In Plea for New Hoobler Trial

Beyond a definite denial of charges that he was disqualified to serve on the jury which two weeks ago condemned D. J. Hoobler to death for the murder of Arthur Pendergraft, W. H. Pearce, foreman of the jury, Thursday declined to make any statement before the formal hearing on a new trial motion before Judge J. A. Martin Friday morning.

Attorneys for Hoobler Wednesday afternoon filed an amended petition with affidavits alleging that Mr. Pearce was disqualified and quoting him as having said in a discussion of the Hoobler case that if he could get on that jury he would "break his neck." The foreman said Thursday afternoon that the allegations were false and added that the facts would come out during the hearing Friday.

Sam Spence, district attorney, has announced that he will vigorously oppose the motion. Hoobler was sentenced to death for killing Mr. Pendergraft, wealthy Oklahoma farmer and his employer for 12 years, near Wichita Falls on Jan. 27. Hoobler pleaded self-defense.

Attorney Indicted Here Tries Case At Dallas as Guards Stand By

After petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus in his own behalf before a Dallas district court Thursday morning, J. W. Burns, attorney, indicted here on forgery charges and arrested in Dallas Wednesday night at the instance of Wichita county officials, proceeded under guard to complete the trial of a case in behalf of one of his clients in the Dallas courts all day Thursday, according to reports received by Sam Spence, district attorney.

A hearing on the habeas corpus petition is to be held in Dallas Friday morning, Mr. Spence announced. Burns was re-arrested in Dallas after being surrendered by his bondsmen, the district attorney explained. Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, and Dick Morris, deputy sheriff, went to Dallas Thursday. They will remain to appear at the hearing. Should Burns fail to make bond he will be brought back to Wichita county in the custody of Mr. Morris, it was explained.

PARK READY FOR EGG HUNT

Grounds Divided to Assure Chance for All

Assurance that all kiddies who attend the park department's Easter egg hunt Sunday at Scotland park will have an ample chance to locate the eggs was made Thursday by C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent, when he divided the grounds into sections for large and small children.

The division of the park will give even the smallest children who attend the hunt a chance to locate the eggs without being run over by the larger boys and girls.

The Easter egg hunt is a part of a program of the grand opening of the municipal zoo for the summer months, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Four barrels, which contain thousands of candy eggs, have been procured by the department and will be distributed by local Boy Scouts for the hunt.

Programs by the Lions club band, under the direction of Leo M. Underwood, the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, and the Paul Seeds Concert band will furnish musical programs during the afternoon.

The last animals of the zoo were moved into their summer home at Scotland park Wednesday afternoon and will be put on public exhibition for the first time this year in the program Sunday, Mr. Bunnenberg asserted.

INDIGESTION

Stubborn Persistent

If you are one of the unfortunate men or women who suffer torment from terrible—sometimes almost suffocating indigestion—that nothing seems to relieve, here's a fair and square offer you ought to accept.

Thousands just as badly in need of the right kind of medicine have blessed the day they accepted it.

Go today to Allison Drug Co. or any druggist in America—one who keeps abreast of the times—and get one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. Take it as directed and if it doesn't do you more good than anything you ever tried—get your money back—without comment.

One bottle will show sufferers from stubborn indigestion that here is a pleasant to take elixir that will put rebellious, distressed stomachs in splendid shape and make them so strong and sturdy that you can enjoy your meals without irritation or distress.—Adv.

Y. W. C. A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEET

Pageant of Work Features Banquet Program

Officers and members of the Young Woman's Christian association of Wichita Falls, and school, church and civic club leaders gathered Thursday evening to attend the annual Y. W. C. A. membership banquet, given in the dining room of the organization headquarters at 614½ Eighth street. More than 125 guests were seated at the banquet tables.

Mrs. Hogsett Speaks

Mrs. L. M. Hogsett of Fort Worth, member of the national board of directors of the organization, was the speaker of the evening. She summarized the work and the aims of the association, both in its inspirational and its "perspirational" aspects, and outlined for her hearers all the branches and departments of service being developed by the organization.

After the invocation by Rev. S. S. McKenney, of the First Methodist, the entertainment opened with club songs and cheers which continued at intervals while dinner was served. A trio of girl singers offered several numbers between courses and after dinner R. E. Shepherd, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Shepherd, sang "Only a Rose," "Out of the Night to You" and a delightful encore.

Impressive Pageant

Against a colorful and interesting background, in the center of which loomed a giant treasure chest, a group of Y. W. C. A. members, representing every phase of the work, moved through an impressive pageant illustrative of the service and the aims of the association. The figures in the pageant emerged one by one from the symbolic Y. W. C. A. treasure chest, speaking of their place in the work of the group. Reading from the scroll of history, Miss Thelma Wisdon acted as interpreter. Other members taking part in the performance were Misses Fay Dunaway, Jewell Beatty, Maurine Ulmer, Bermah Arnold, Emma Wall, Ruby Cardwell, Betty Love Rugeley, Genevieve Fritz, Mathilde Donnell, Mary Collier, Mary Virginia Barron, Rachel Gilbreath, Bonnie Donaldson, Hazel Allday, Helen Morrow, Winnie Mae Giddings, Peggy Teeters, Joye Baldwin, Marguerite Brand, Ruth Lamers and Beulah Gilbreath.

Miss Glenna Miller, editor-in-chief of a monthly paper to be published by the Business and Professional Woman's club, which was given its first circulation at the banquet Thursday night, introduced the new periodical and asked for suggestions as to its name.

Mrs. Laskey Presides

Mrs. Glenn E. Laskey, president of the organization here, presided and introduced the speakers. Guests were presented with the annual report of the association here for 1928, showing the work of each branch of the organization and outlining its financial status.

Miss Ida Catherine Walker, general secretary, and Miss Erma Schnelle, associate general secretary, acted as special hostesses. They were congratulated upon the effectiveness of the stage settings and the charm of the tables, decorated with spring flowers and bearing the colors of the association. During the pageant, all lights but the footlights were extinguished and the tall blue tapers at each corner of the room were lighted.

"Wild Sermon" By Crimm Promised

Preaching on the subject of "Excuses," Rev. B. B. Crimm, cowboy evangelist conducting the revival campaign at Twenty-second street and Yale avenue Thursday night declared he "wondered how any sensible person could bow his head, resist God and go to hell."

"I don't think there is any reason why a man should not be a Christian," Crimm declared. "Jesus Christ can save the vilest sinner in the world in the twinkling of an eye."

Rev. H. J. Ballew, pastor of the Highland Heights Baptist church, led the congregation in prayer.

On Friday night Crimm will preach on "A Man Up a Tree." This message has been described by the evangelist as a "wild sermon."

Cottage prayer meetings are to be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the following homes: Mrs. Z. W. Heath, 1311 Fifteenth; Mrs. T. E. Jennings, 1312 Thirty-fifth; Mrs. A. M. Davenport, 2225 Princeton; Mrs. W. E. Haynes, 1508 Twenty-second; Mrs. Mary Ham, 2307 Yale; Mrs. C. C. McGuire, 200 Holliday; Mrs. H. D. Brown, 1620 Wilson, Mrs. C. L. Burns, 1018 Terrill.

SCOUTS HOLD MEET TONIGHT

District Contest to Draw Several Hundred Boys

Final plans for the Boy Scout jamboree in the Memorial auditorium Friday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, were made Thursday by Frank B. Creighton, local scout executive.

The jamboree, which is open to the public without charge, probably will be the most elaborate and largest ever held here, Mr. Creighton said.

Awards in Contests

More than 1,000 persons and hundreds of Boy Scouts are expected to attend the contests. Scout troops in Vernon, Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Henrietta, Bellevue and Archer City notified the scout headquarters Thursday that they would attend the jamboree while every troop in the city will be on hand for the big program and contest.

Awards for all of the contests will be given to the individual scouts winning the events, while a grand prize of an emblem given each year to the winning troop in the jamboree will be awarded to the troop gaining the greatest number of points.

The program will be opened by a musical program by the troop 10 orchestra. Knot tying will be the first contest of the evening, with the scouts staying in the race by virtue of their speed and accuracy will be accorded first, second and third places.

A relay race in which teams of four boys from each troop will compete by elimination process for honors will be the second contest on the program.

Atwell to Sentence U. S. Prisoners Today

With the sentencing of six defendants who have pleaded guilty on indictments returned during the present terms, the criminal work of the March term of the United States district court will be brought to a close Friday night. No other cases, either civil or criminal, are set down on the docket until Tuesday morning of next week.

Of the defendants, three are women. Ruth Ross and Ruth Kebodeaux will be sentenced for violation of the narcotic laws. Sarah McDaniel, a negro, plead guilty Tuesday to a third offense in the possession of whisky, claiming in her plea that the liquor had been brought to her house while she was at church. Norman J. Porter, negro, has pleaded guilty to altering an adjusted service certificate; Theo Pyron and Lucian Adams, jointly indicted, to a violation of the national motor vehicle act.

Unless special motions are presented to hold the court after the sentencing, Judge Atwell is expected to announce an adjournment until next Monday morning.

New Grist for Impeachment Mill Uncovered

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 28. (AP)—A whirlwind finish of impeachments today was entered by the Oklahoma legislature, nearing the end of a session prolific in accusation against state officials, which resulted in the removal of Gov. Henry S. Johnston.

Although both houses agreed to adjourn Saturday, the house continued its investigating and impeachment activities. The house investigating committee voted an impeachment charge against Fred Capshaw, member of the corporation commission, and considered an identical charge against Charles C. Childers, chairman of the commission. It also was expected to consider a charge against Harry B. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture.
