Shah May Step Aside

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi met with former Prime Minister Ali Amini amid growing speculation the monarch will name him head of a new civilian government Saturday in a bid to end bloody antigovernment protests, well-placed sources reported.

Amini, prime minister from 1962-63, was summoned to the shah's heavily guarded palace today after the monarch met Wednesday evening with his main political foe, National Front leader Dr. Karim Sanjabi, in an abortive bid to persuade him to participate in a coalition.

Ex-Chief Convicted

HOUSTON (AP)-Former Houston police chief Carrol Lynn was found guilty today of extortion, perjury and obstruction of justice.

A federal court jury deliberated four and a half hours, including three hours Wednesday night, before returning its verdict.

A judge will set the punishment. Lynn, an assistant chief at the time of his indictment, faces up to 35 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

FBI Arrest Skyjacker

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)-An unarmed passenger told an attendant aboard a New York-to-Miami jet early today that the flight was going to Cuba, authorities said. The pilot diverted the plane to Charleston, where the man was arrested by the FBI.

The passenger, tentatively identified a Gerald Edmond Casey, was taken to the Charleston County jail on a charge of "crime aboard an aircraft-interference with a flight crew."

Big Brother Saves 5

BROWNSVILLE (AP)-Richard Heath, 17, jumped into a burning house through a window early today and rescued five young brothers and sisters from the blaze, firemen said.

The teenager suffered burns and cuts, but was not hospitalized.

Fire Marshal Abel Zapata said the rescued children were all younger than 5 years old, but authorities did not have their names.

Hard work yields rewards, according to reports from Gov.-elect Bill Clements' campaign leaders. They claim that the Clements telephone brigade made no less than 2.2 million calls on election day, Nov. 7, and the day before.

Of course many of these went to people they knew to be "leaning" toward their candidate, or perhaps actively supporting him, but some of them might have neglected to vote if they hadn't been reminded at the last minute.

The name of the game in successful politics is getting a candidate's own supporters out to the polls. If he is running anywhere near his opponent in general sentiment among the electorate, he can usually depend on enough of his opponent's backers staying home to put him in. Unless, of course, the opponent uses the same tactics.

Anyway, two questions that kept popping up with monotonous regularity three or four weeks ago have just about faded from the scene.

One is, how did Bill Clements do it?

The other is, what is wrong with the Dallas Cowboys?

A little over five years ago Snyder and Scurry County celebrated the production of the county's billionth barrel of oil. Among feature attractions during a full week of planned activities in the community was a stage production titled "Boom Town Follies." It was one of the "hits" of the celebration and it served to start a sort of tradition involving the drama and music departments at Snyder High School. The latest version, titled "Yuletide Follies," opens tonight for the three-night run, and if you have seen one of these "follies" type shows put on at our high school, chances are, you will be there, at least for one performance. If you haven't seen one, you're in for a surprise if you take it in, and we make that statement without having even seen a rehearsal.

SOVIETS IN SNYDER--Seven Russians arrived in Snyder Wednesday for a two day tour of the local oil industry. They are well-servicing executives with the Ministry of Oil, one of two government agencies that regulate petroleum activity in the USSR. Snyder Well Service is hosting the group. Pictured from left to right are Freddie Everton of Snyder Well Service, Mr. Androsenko, Mr. Liatifov, Mr. Khachaturov, Mr. Zaretsky and Mr. Lesovoy. 7 Russian Oil Experts Touring Industry Here

By JOHN DUNNAM

Seven Russians are in Snyder today winding up a two-day tour of the local oil industry. They are well-servicing executives with the Russian Ministry of Oil, which oversees the production of oil in their country. Another agency, the Ministry of Gas, regulates the production and distribution of heating fuel.

Hosting the group is Snyder Well Service, and employee Freddie Everton is directing the tour.

According to John Young of Victoria, who accompanied the group to Snyder, the tour is part of a training mission in the use of mobile oil well servicing rigs. Young, a senior designer for Skytop Rig Co. of Victoria, explains that his company sold 10 units similar to those used by Snyder Well Service to the Russians. While in Snyder they are visiting oil well sites to observe the operation of the workover rigs in live situations.

Snyder Well Service was selected to host the group because it is a sister company to Skytop Rigs. Both are currently owned by Texas International. Snyder Well Service, however, is in the process of being sold to NL Industries, a huge concern that also owns Baroid Chemical and McCullough Services and other well known oil field service companies. Completion of the sale is expected soon after the first of the year, according to Donald Ball, Snyder Well Service employee.

Since none of the seven Russians speaks English, an interpreter, Alex Kovganko, also accompanies the group. Kovganko, a Canadian who now makes his home in Houston, says the group is obviously enjoying itself but is naturally reluctant to make any statements.

Young did suggest that the Soviets seem very impressed with the abundance and variety of businesses and seem to have particularly good appetites. It was hoped that they would get a chance to sample some West Texas beef before their departure.

Last night they got the capitalist thrill of eating at the Country Club.

One thing that has bothered the Russians is the cold West Texas weather. They indicate it is warmer

Rape Indictments Are Returned Here

Rape indictments were returned Wednesday afternoon against Craig Merritt and Gary Wayne Lee who were both 16 years old and juveniles when investigators allege they participated in the rape of a girl north of Snyder.

The two were declared adults at a certification hearing in district court last week. It is believed to be the first case in Scurry County history in which juveniles have been declared adults for criminal prosecution.

The alleged rape is reported to have occurred the night of Nov. 10, and the victim is reported to have been a 16-year-old girl.

Reports indicate Merritt will turn 17 later this month and that Lee will be 17 next month.

Other indictments returned yesterday included one of forgery by passing against Arthur Lee Harding.

Harding, the indictment alleges, passed a check drawn for $100 on a local woman's account at the Snyder National Bank. The incident is reported to have occurred Dec. 5.

June Neneatte Walton was named in a burglary indictment. She is alleged to have entered a car Dec. 11 owned by Susan Lee and is reported to have taken a suitcase.

Indictments of driving while intoxicated were returned against George Marvin Speed Sr., Isabel Pesina, Haskell Monroe Franks, and Luis Alaniz.

Serving on the grand jury were Mrs. H.F. Clark, Columbus Crayton, Emily Collins, N.Y. Benitez, Mrs. Clyde Hall Jr., Mrs. Marshall Wilson, B.J. Bartels, J.N. Eicke, Weldon Key, Milton Ham, Don Gray, and Louise Thompson.

Carter Claims Economy Solid

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter says predictions of a recession next year could "become a self-fulfilling prophecy" if people begin to believe them, even though the economy is basically sound.

Meanwhile, a key member of Congress said today the dollar is failing in its role as the world's key currency and should be supplemented with other international money before the world economic system collapses.

The suggestion by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., was made in remarks prepared for the opening of hearings on the dollar problem before the international economics subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and Charles L. Schultze, chairman of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, were scheduled to testify later in the day.

Carter told a group of business leaders Wednesday night: "There are predictions of a recession from various sources which I think can become a self-fulfilling prophecy unless the facts are described accurately to the American people."

In his speech, Carter said the economy continued to show strength that even his own advisers have found surprising, pointing to recent favorable statistics on housing, employment, retail sales and business inventories.

He said the "one consistent error in economic predictions" of his administration has been "to underestimate the economic strength and growth potential of our country."

"We do not anticipate a recession next year...Our nation is strong," Carter said.

The president's address was to a meeting of the Business Council, an organization of the nation's top corporate executives. He appealed for backing for his anti-inflation program, warning that inflation could undo all the economic gains of the last two years.

"Give me your pledge of compliance," he said. "There is no excuse now for you to delay...It would mean a great deal."

Business Council Chairman John D. deButts, who also is chairman of American Telephone and Telegraph, urged in his own remarks that the corporate executives work to support the wage and price guidelines.

While they are not perfect, he said, "I think the alternatives to the program are far worse, possible mandatory controls."

Reuss told the economics sub-committee, which he heads, that as much as $700 billion in U.S. dollars are held by foreigners, which could be used to overwhelm efforts to prop up the value of the battered greenback.

Savings And Loans Prepare New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)-Many federal savings and loans are preparing to offer conventional loans to home buyers on a graduated interest rate that will let them make lower mortage payments for the first few years they are buying a house.

For example, a standard home mortgage of $50,000 at 9½ percent interest over 30 years calls for monthly payments of $420. Under the graduated plan, the payments during the first year would be $318 a month. The monthly payment would increase in each of the first five years, reaching $457 in the fifth year. It would continue at that level until the loan is repaid.

The plan already is offered on many loans guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration - commonly referred to as FHA loans.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board was voting today on a regulation authorizing the nation's 2,000 federally chartered savings and loans to offer the graduated plan on conventional loans.

"They will start very promptly, probably after the first of the year," said Alan Wade, spokesman for the United States League of Savings Associations.

However, he said, the program's growth may be gradual and he could not estimate how many associations would offer the plan.

Students are urged to register for the Midwinter session as quickly as possible so the courses to be offered can be confirmed. Students are to register in the Administration Building.

Industrial Ads Planned By BCD

The Scurry County Board of Development approved an advertising program to promote industrial development at their meeting Wednesday.

Bill Warner, consultant to the board and manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, presented a proposal to place four advertisements in a magazine, "Plants, Sites and Parks," which is published in Coral Gables, Fla., and specializes in promotion of plant sites.

Warner said the Texas Industrical Commission uses this medium and that response has been good. The Scurry BCD will receive data from the magazine on industries which express an interest anywhere in this region, as well as any responses from its own advertising.

The board also authorized Guy Sullivan, BCD president, to proceed with negotiations to provide additional electric and water hook-ups for trailers and motor homes at the Scurry County Coliseum. Warner reported that availability of utility hook-ups is playing an increasing role in decisions of trailer clubs and other such organizations in the selection of sites for rallies and conventions.

convention welcome

Headlines in a Dallas newspaper prior to the last weekend carried the statement that Dallas has the inside track in the contest for the privilege of entertaining the 1980 Republican national convention. The headline was a direct quote from a statement made by William Brock, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Reasons given by Mr. Brock for his conclusion are worth noting. Foremost was the election of a Republican Governor in Texas for the first time since 1873. Also cited was the election of John Tower to a fourth term in the United States Senate.

Texas is no longer a one-party state, according to Mr. Brock. He predicts that from this time forward the trend will be away from the Democratic Party. That is quite possible, of course. An unbiased analysis of the situation, however, indicates Republicans have a long way to go before they can become a serious factor in elections involving members of the Legislature and local and district officials.

These are positions that reflect basic party strength. In the next Legislature, for example, out of 180 members only 21 are Republicans. In races for county and district offices the number of Republicans elected is probably lower than the party's ratio of one out of seven in members of the Legislature.

These figures are interesting only in assessing possibilities in future elections. Certainly they have no bearing on the proposition of whether Dallas is a logical meeting place for the next GOP national convention. The Clements victory is a logical point of importance in choosing a convention city. The obvious fact is that Texas voters have broken with the tradition that Democratic Party is the popular choice.

These elements seem to favor Dallas as 1980 national convention:

-A fine city with adequate facilities for entertaining thousands of visitors at one time.

It is the home town of the newly-elected Governor of Texas.

-Texas is one of the 36 states that ratified the celebrated Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which means there is no danger of running counter to wishes of supporters of this particular piece of legislation. On a replay the Texas Legislature in all probability would vote no on ERA. But that is a moot question. Ratification stands.

In any case most Texans, irrespective of party affiliation, would like to have Republicans meeting in Dallas in 1980. The experience should be good for all concerned.

environmental detente

In one of its little noted final acts, the 95th Congress gave Americans aid and comfort in the undeclared economic war with the endangered species of animal and plant life.

Shortly before its aujournment Congress voted to amend the Endangered Species Act of 1973, which was enacted with the best of intentions, namely, to ensure the ecological balance by protecting species whose existence is threatened by modern progress. This was to be done by designing certain species as endangered and by banning commercial or other use of their natural habitats.

Unfortunately, in actual application, the Act frequently became an obstacle to economic growth when land was foreclosed to new business developments, highways or housing in order to spare the species. In the most notable case, completion of a multi-million dollar dam project on the Tellico River in Tennessee was blocked in order to preserve the habitat of a tiny minnow called the snail darter. In Houston, federal regulators proposed to ban use of a downtown paved parking lot because it is the natural habitat of the Houston toad, a creature whose existence itself is in doubt. No one can swear to seeing one.

Thanks to groups such as the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, lawmakers took notice of the problem and agreed a more equitable approach was needed to balance environmental and economic interests.

First, Congress voted to extend funding of the Act for 18 months, instead of three years, to anticipate the recommendations of a study underway by the General Accounting Office, the Congressional watchdog. Then, sorting through a deluge of amendments, Congress voted a number which in the Chamber's view were "plusses."

These will give the public a greater and more effective role in decision-making leading up to determinations of endangered species and habitats speed up court appeals and grant exemptions for the first time.

After GAO completes its study of how the Act has been implemented, Congress should take another look at the problem. Meanwhile, our envoronmental and economic needs should be able to prosper in a "detente."

how it could happen

How in the world could it happen?

In the Robert Browning poem, the Pied Piper of Hamelin played a fetching tune on his flute and all the children left their beds and their parents and followed him into oblivion.

How in the world could it happen?

In the comtemporary saga of Jim Jones the seductive misleader hypnotized thousands into leaving their homes, surrendering their possessions, and following him to the jungle of Guyana-and oblivion.

How in the world could it happen?

The children of Hamelin town yielded their own will to the Pied Piper and blindly followed him into nowhere.

The followers of Jim Jones surrendered their will to his and followed him into nowhere.

You and I would never do that--or would we?

Have United States of Americans over the past 40 years, unaware, allowed themselves to be brainwashed?

Have we forfeited our historic individual independence, yielding ourselves to an increasing dependence on government?

Have we allowed government to take our money and do with it whatever government wants?

In our own best interest, of course, which is precisely what Jim Jones told his puppets.

It happened gradually--it always does--that we became addicted bit by bit to government, voting only for those politicians who promised more and more to take care of us if we got hungry, if we got ill, if we got old.

Eventually "rightness" and "wrongness" were all confused in a mishmash of tempting sounding promises.

There were rewards for the lazy, tax advantages for the living-together, subsidies for illegitimacy.

Gradually the oldest of lifestyles was sold to us as something "new."

Election after election, politicians hypnotized us with promises of a utopian existence where everything would be "free" and everyone would be "equal."

And as though in an hypnotic trance, we voted, "Yes! Yes! Yes! More!"

And when there was no longer enough money to fulfill our childlike demands, government printed more.

Any hurt, any slight, any inconvenience, was not too much for us. "Government must correct this," we demanded.

And government did for us until we had no will to do for ourselves anymore.

In blind obedience, unprotesting, like the children of Hamelin--or Jonestown--we willingly accepted socialistic, paternalistic, corrupt leaders who all the time were indulging their own passions, padding their own pockets.

We watched the darkness descending but by now we were too tired to turn back.

It was easier just to stay in line, march in step and wait for the last drink.

my turn

by john long

Part of my present dissillusionment concerning Christmas dates back to the time when I was very young...and a Methodist.

Mind you, I have nothing against Methodists. I went to the Methodist Church just this past Sunday, and I think the world of John Wesley. 'Ol John's brother, Charles, wasn't bad either, I am sure.

I always think of the church, however, when I think of that disastrous hayride many winters ago. I think of that, the stickers in the hay, and the wind chill factor created by a swiftly moving pick-up truck.

It was Christmastime, as I recall, when someone thought it would be nice for us young folk of the church to hop on a hay trailer and spread cheer and warmth with our cherubic little voices.

Yes, we went carolling. A farmer donated the hay that covered the trailer. Everyone thought it was very nice of him. Even we children did, too, until we sat down in it. Then we discovered it was laced with stickers.

As if sitting down in sticker-laden hay was not bad enough, the wind chill factor was something else. That was just the beginning of my cynicism.

My mental well-being was not helped any the next year when we again went carolling. That time we did it without the hay. It was still very cold, however.

Then, on another Christmas, we young folk of the church reinacted the nativity scene. I played one of the wise men, I think. I am not sure now exactly what my role in that small extravaganza was, but I distinctly remember it being cold again that Christmas.

We were playing the scene outdoors for passing motorists. Most of the motorists keep right on passing. Oh, a few of them may have slowed down a little, but most went on about their business.

I felt very foolish dressed up in the garb of anything but a wiseman watching cars pass us by. If I had been truly wise, I now believe, I would not have been out there. I am convinced, though, that I should have been more warmly dressed.

One of my favorite lines in all literature comes from "A Christmas Carol" in which Scrooge makes the observation that anyone who enjoys Christmas ought to have a stake of holly driven through his heart.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— President Carter's ambitious anti-inflation program has little chance of success because it fails to focus on the root causes of the price increases that have the greatest impact on the budgets of most families.

That's the conclusion of a compelling economic analysis produced by a broad coalition of senior citizen, consumer, labor and environmental groups that recently organized as Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities, or COIN.

Relying on research done by the Washington-based Exploratory Project for Economic Alternatives, COIN offers a persuasive argument that the White House must target its anti-inflation campaign on the big-ticket items responsible for the most dramatic price increase of recent years.

But Carter is relying instead on a conventional "shotgun" approach that wrongly assumes wage hikes and price increases are equally responsible for inflation and makes few distinctions between luxuries and necessities. COIN ties by virtue of the fact that consumption is neither optional nor deferrable for most families.

Those categories and the seasonally adjusted annual rate of inflation for the first 10 months of this year are food, 12.6 percent; shelter, 12.6 percent; medical care, 8.9 percent, and energy, 8.6 percent.

The weighted average of those increases is 11.6 percent, substantially higher than the 9.4 percent increase registered during the same period for all items measured in the federal government's Consumer Price Index.

Excluded from COIN's analysis are alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, cosmetics, entertainment, household furnishings, clothing and various other items whose purchase can be postponed if not foregone by families on tight budgets.

Perhaps most significantly, many of the elements most responsible for inflation during the 1970s are not even covered by the Carter administration's reliance on public-spirited compliance with voluntary wage and price guidelines.

The most notable exception to that rule is the administration's still-unsuccessful effort to convince Congress to approve hospital cost containment legislation.

But other health care costs have received far less attention. Drug company profits, in terms of return on equity, were 18.2 percent last year. The average income for doctors in 1976 was $63,000.

Although food prices increased 67 percent between 1970 and 1977, farmers last year received only 31 cents of every dollar spent on food, down from 34 cents two years earlier. Yet food marketing firms and other corporate middlemen increased their after-tax profits by 150 percent during the 1970s.

In the energy field, profits of the nine largest petroleum companies have doubled, from $4.5 billion in 1970 to $9 billion in 1977. Gas and electric rates rose 69 percent during the five years of the mid-1970s.

Soaring interest rates and property costs pushed the average price of a new home up from $23,400 in 1970 to $48,800 in 1977 - an increase of more than 100 percent.

A close examination of the price shifts during that period shows land prices and financing charges registered major increases as components of home construction while labor costs declined in relation to other components.

In virtually every field, COIN argues, wage increases are only a minor factor in fueling inflation. Real earnings - weekly wages and salaries adjusted for inflation and increased taxes - are down more than 3 percent nationally thus far this year.

The COIN campaign was best summarized by a statement made during a nationwide television address in early 1977: "Inflation has hit us hardest not in the luxuries but in the essentials - food, energy, health and housing."

But almost two years have passed since then, and the speaker - Jimmy Carter - seems to have forgotten the wisdom he offered on that occasion.

Had West opened a low spade, South would have played low from dummy and eventually set up dummy's queen for a club or diamond discard. Had he opened a diamond, the lead would have been right into South's trap, while a club lead would have taken care of South's club loser. But West opened a trump, and South had to try to eliminate one loser some way or other.

West wasn't trying to help South, and it was up to South to see what he could do about making 10 tricks. So South played two rounds of trump and led his five of spades toward dummy. West played the nine, dummy the queen and East the ace. East led a diamond and South rose with his ace. If worse came to worst he could try the diamond finesse later.

South led his 10 of spades. West won and led a third spade, which South ruffed. Now South simply played three rounds of clubs. West was forced to win the third club and while that was the third trick for the defense, it was the last one. West had to give a ruff and discard or lead right up to the diamond ten ace.

A Canadian reader wants to know if we consider this hand strong enough to open with a forcing two bid.

We certainly do. It only has 14 high-card points, but will produce a slam opposite even a bust hand that probably includes four cards in hearts or spades.

Accreditation Of WTC Reaffirmed

The Delegate Assembly of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools voted yesterday to re-affirm the accreditation of Western Texas College, Dr. Robert L. Clinton, college president, said.

Dr. Clinton is in Atlanta, Ga., to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Association.

The new accreditation will remain in effect for 10 years. WTC has been fully accredited by the Southern Association since December, 1973, slightly more than two years after the college opened in the fall of 1971. The college applied for accreditation at its opening, and received a preliminary visit from a Southern Association accreditation committee in the spring of 1972. A second committee visited the campus in the spring of 1973 and accreditation was granted at the annual meeting in December of that year.

The college was required to conduct a self-study in 1977-78 in preparation for reaffirmation of its accreditation. The Association conducted a four-day visit on the campus last spring, observing the college in operation and examining the self-study reports before making recommendations for the new accreditation.

The Southern Association was organized in 1895. Its purpose is to improve education in the South through the exercise of leadership and promotion of cooperative efforts through colleges, schools, and related agencies. It seeks to identify and recognize through accreditation those schools and colleges of acceptable quality. It also works to strengthen local responsibility for schools and to disseminate information bearing upon the solution of important educational problems.

Snyder public schools are accredited by the Southern Association.

WTC is approved by the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System and the Texas Education Agency. It is a member of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, the Texas Junior College Association, the Southern Association of Community and Junior Colleges and the Association of Texas Colleges and Universities.

Big Kitten For A Measly $650

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)-How do you get rid of a 12-week-old lion cub? With difficulty.

That's what Judy and Max Retting are discovering about Larry, a cub they describe as "supercute" and "potty-trained."

The Rettings say Larry is just too much trouble, and hoped to sell him for $650 - the price thay paid two weeks ago. But newspaper ads failed to produce buyers - only the curious came to look.

Discouraged, the Rettigs decided to give Larry to a Cleveland park where it could be with other lions.

But he's one of the family in Indianapolis.

"He sleeps in bed with me and my husband," Mrs. Rettig reported.

Robbery Was Ex-Wife's Idea

FORT WORTH (AP)-The ex-wife of a New Mexico man accused in the capital murder of an Amarillo Pizza Hut manager has admitted it was her idea to rob the restaurant, but said 26-year-old David Grijalva was wholly responsible for the killing.

Prosecutors contend Grijalva, of Gallup, N.M., killed Jeanette Powers by slashing her throat, beating her on the head with a 15-pound rolling pin and then shoving her head in a dough mixer.

Kathy Sutton, the state's star witness against Grijalva, testified Wednesday she lied to police initially about her role in the incident in blaming the entire episode on Grijalva.

Miss Sutton, 20, pleaded guilty to robbery and was assessed a 10-year probated sentence for her role in the Jan. 11, 1977, incident at the pizza parlor.

Contrary to what she first told police, she knew about the pistol used in the robbery, she knew Grijalva was plotting the robbery and she knew what happened to Grijalva's blood-stained clothes after the slaying, she testified Wednesday.

But when defense attorney Dean Roper suggested she masterminded the robbery and instructed Grijalva to murder Mrs. Powers, Miss Sutton's admissions stopped short.

"Is it not true that you instructed David to take Mrs. Powers into the dough room of the Pizza Hut where she died?" Roper asked.

"No sir. It's not," answered Miss Sutton.

Roper then asked her if she personally instructed Grijalva to kill Mrs. Powers.

"I never told David to kill her," Miss Sutton answered.

Air Hijacking Attempt Fails

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)-A man who said he wanted to go to Cuba tried to hijack a National Airlines flight from New York to Miami early today, the FBI said.

The plane was diverted to Charleston, where FBI agents boarded the plane and arrested the man, tentatively identified as Gerald Edmond Casey.

FBI agent John Lee in Washington said Flight 97 was enroute from Kennedy Airport to Miami with 48 passengers and a crew of six. He said that shortly after 3 a.m. when the flight was about 50 miles south of Wilmington, N.C., a man approached a flight attendant and said "We're going to go to Cuba."

The alleged hijacker was unable to get into the cockpit, and the pilot diverted the flight and notified authorities on the ground.

Lee said no weapons were found.

Casey was charged with "crime aboard an aircraft -interference with a flight crew."

He is being held in the Charleston County jail pending a hearing before a U.S. magistrate.

Walt Robshaw, a National spokesman in Miami, said the Boeing 727 completed its flight to Miami International Airport at about 6 a.m.

Pioneer Raising Funds For Opera

NEW YORK (AP)-U.S. Pioneer Electronics Corp., maker of high fidelity components, says it will conduct a second fund-raising program for the Metropolitan Opera in early 1979.

The company said Monday it will match public donations made during the campaign. The National Endowment for the Arts has made a grant that is expected nearly to triple the public contributions.

In 1977, 34 newspapers and magazines ran free advertisements soliciting donations in care of Pioneer. The drive raised a total of $140,000 from the public and Pioneer, and the National Endowment donated $135,000. Eighteen magazines so far have committed space for 1979.

Home Burglaries On The Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 3 million burglaries involving private homes and businesses took place in the United States during 1977.

The Insurance Information Institute says the figures come from the most recent crime report released by the FBI.

It adds, "Nationally, burglaries accounted for nearly three of every 10 crimes included in the FBI's 1977 Crime Index. Losses from home burglaries amounted to $977 million nationwide in 1977, according to the FBI report."

Reorganizing Plans Not To Close FmHA Offices

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A tentative governmental reorganization plan drawn by the Carter administration does not contain a provision for closing 1,800 county offices of the Farmers Home Administration, according to qualified sources.

One of the sources, who requested anonymity, said Wednesday "A lot of heat" was generated by a news story Dec. 6 disclosing that the administration was giving "active consideration" to shutting down the offices.

Comments by the plan's designers cited in the story at the time indicated that substantial opposition could be expected from the Senate and House agriculture committees and from other rural interests.

The story also pointed out that office closings were not being recommended at this time and were only among a number of options being considered by White House reorganization planners.

Another source close to the reorganization effort said: "We have never had as a serious option the closing of the county offices."

Both of the sources agreed to talk to a reporter only on the condition that they not be identified.

Meanwhile, a senior Agriculture Department official who oversees operations of FmHA, the lead agency in the department's rural development program, said, "No county FmHA offices are being closed."

The official, Assistant Secretary Alex P. Mercure, said several alternatives are in draft form but that "none has gone to the president" for a decision.

Mercure's remarks were in a speech prepared for a meeting Wednesday in Denver of state FmHA directors. Texts of his remarks also were issued in Washington.

Among the options for FmHA, he said, is one to put development programs now operated by the agency into a new "super Department of Community and Economic Development" that also would include functions of some other federal agencies such as Housing and Urban Development and the Small Business Administration.

This part of the plan also was disclosed in the story a week ago, which was based on official documents. The phrase "active consideration" in describing the plan to close county offices also was from the documents.

One of the sources said "the only place" where talk of closing county FmHA offices showed up was in staff papers drawn up to illustrate potential savings by juggling various federal agencies.

"In the course of doing that, we put a lot of things in to look at," the source said. "But it was not in any sense an active option in our minds to close the county offices."

The source declined comment on other possible USDA reorganization plans, including one reportedly that would merge the Forest Service with the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management in a new Department of Natural Resources.

But the source said that the plans as now conceived "do not mean just taking away" from USDA and that there is strong talk for adding some programs now in other agencies to the department.

Drug Abuse Pact Ready

AUSTIN (AP) Texas and Mexican officials will sign a cooperative agreement on drug abuse treatment on Dec. 20 in San Antonio, a state agency head announced Tuesday.

Ben F. McDonald, executive director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, said the signing will be at the Institute of Texan Cultures.

Armando Marte Cantu, director of the Centros de Integracion Juvenil Asociacion Civil, will represent Mexico in the ceremony.

McDonald said the agreement emphasizes exchange of drug abuse treatment and training methodologies, joint research on prevention and cultural exchange visits between Chicano drug abusers in Texas and Mexico.

Briscoe Makes Appointments

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced appointments Tuesday to the State Rural Medical Education Board and the Hospital Licensing Advisory Council.

Mrs. Billie Marie Veach of Burnet was named to the medical education board and Dr. Edwin W. Schmidt of Pecos was reappointed to the panel. Mrs. Veach replaced Paul Musslewhite of Levelland whose term expired.

Schmidt is past president of the Texas Medical Association and has been Pecos mayor for 10 years.

Sidney M. Wieser of Lampasas was appointed to the hospital council. Dr. Van Goodall of Clifton and Mrs. Marcella V. Henke of Hallettsville were renamed to the board.

Wieser replaced Jack G. Maxfield of Carrollton whose term expired.

Iran Hit By Quake

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP—A strong earthquake hit southwest Iran today, the Hagfors Seismological Observatory reported.

A spokesman said the quake registered 6.2 on the Richter Scale and occurred at 10:05 a.m. Iran time 2:05 a.m. EST. He said three small after shocks were registered.

The observatory located the epicenter of the quake about 175 miles west of Isfaban, Iran's second largest city where 44 persons were more than 700 were reported wounded in clashes between opponents and supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi during the past three days.

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude, and an earthquake with a reading of six can cause severe damage.

Fifteen million Americans are obese to a degree that actually shortens their lives, reports a foods and nutrition specialist.

The obese are getting fatter, and the absolute number of obese Americans is increasing each year, says Frances Reasonover with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Clements Backs Away From Tax Cut Stance

AUSTIN (AP)—On Nov. 22, Gov.-elect Bill Clements insisted that "one way or another" he would reduce state taxes by $1 billion in addition to the "Tax Relief Amendment."

But on Wednesday, Clements backed off his rigid stance on the $1 billion figure.

"I said at the time it wasn't definitive, but I'm optimistic," Texas' first Republican governor in a century told an impromptu Capitol news conference. "Certainly I'd say that a billion dollars is a goal. It's still a goal I'll work toward."

Clements talked about possible tax cuts following a meeting with Speaker Bill Clayton.

The governor-elect and Clayton said spending proposals by the Legislative Budget Board can be trimmed in the lawmaking session that begins Jan. 9.

The board recommended over $2.4 billion in new state spending for 1980-81, leaving only $80 million in new revenue from inflation, higher oil and gas prices and economic growth available for spending or tax cut programs.

Legislators use the LBB recommendations as the starting point for determining the state budget.

"I think there will be, in due course, a meeting of the minds and we'll come out of this with a program that will be good for the people of Texas," said Clements.

Clements and Clayton said they needed state revenue estimates from Comptroller Bob Bullock before deciding what budget areas to cut.

"There will be some areas in the document that can be trimmed," Clayton said. "I don't know that it would be proper to say $1 billion or $2 billion or half a billion dollars."

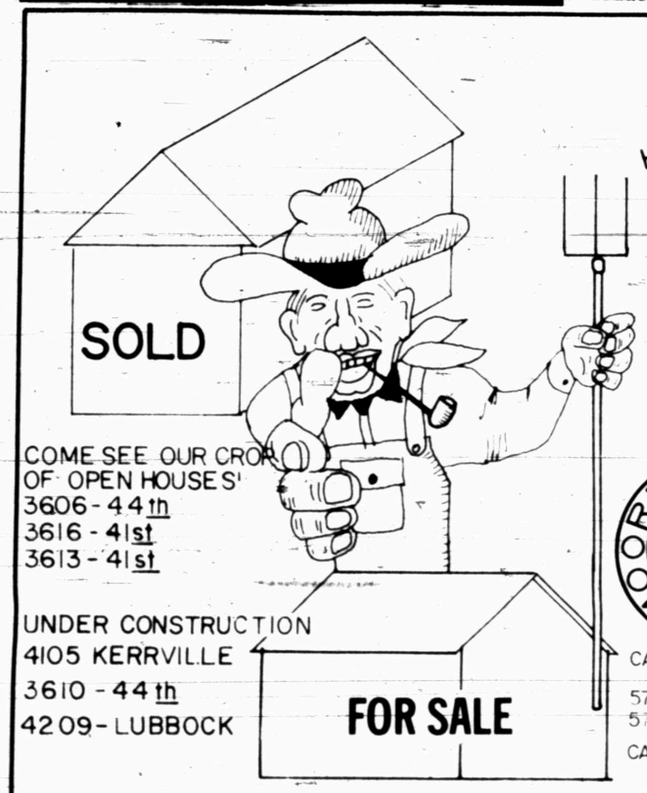

Clements said he has received "very good reaction" from legislators during recent private meetings.

Premium Cable Service...

Fanfare Offers Movies, Sports

Some of Hollywood's biggest recent hits are now coming to Snyder via Fanfare, the new premium cable service offered by Snyder Community Antenna Television.

Mel Gilbert, general manager of Snyder Community Antenna Television, said Fanfare subscribers will for the first time have the opportunity to view current major motion pictures, regional sporting events, including selected Texas Longhorns' games, and entertainment specials.

"In December alone," said Gilbert, "Fanfare has scheduled 'The Turning Point,' starring Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft, 'Coma,' with Michael Douglas, the Academy Award winning comedy 'Annie Hall' with Woody Allen and Diane Keaton, and 'The Choirboys' to name a few. All movies on Fanfare are shown in their entirety without commercial interruptions."

Unique to Fanfare is its coverage of Southwest regional sports. Fanfare presents exclusive live coverage of Southwest Conference basketball, taped coverage of conference football games you won't see on TV, and other conference sports. On the professional scene, Fanfare features National Basketball Association action live from the Houston Summit, National League baseball live from the Houston Astrodome, tennis, motocross, auto racing and rodeo, among others, said Gilbert.

The wide variety of movies include PG, G and R rated releases. However, R rated movies are not shown before 9 p.m. and no X rated movies will be presented on Fanfare.

Fanfare is now available as an optional service of SCAT. Subscribers will pay a monthly service fee of $9.50 for their Fanfare service. To receive Fanfare, a special converter device must be installed on subscriber TV sets. A refundable deposit of $25 is required on the converter device. Further information on Fanfare is available by calling SCAT at 573-2327.

Seeing Tut Relics Now A Major Status Symbol

NEW YORK (AP)-Tutankhamen ruled fewer than 7 million subjects as pharoah of all Egypt 33 centuries ago. But in this nation the boy king has captured almost 6 million more souls. So far.

As if that weren't enough, the obscure Egyptian ruler has also spawned both legitimate and black market businesses that are cashing in on the epidemic of Tut-worship in the United States.

Since November 1976, a total of 5.6 million people in five cities have viewed the touring exhibit of relics recovered from Tut's tomb. Before April 15, when Tut departs New York for San Francisco, an additional 1.3 million will see the relics here.

When Tut played Los Angeles earlier this year, exhibit officials were told that scalpers were hawking admission tickets for as much as $45, so eager were Californians to lay eyes on the alabaster and gold objects from Tut's tomb.

All the 1.3 million tickets offered by Manhattan's Metropolitan Museum of Art - some free, some for a 60-cent service charge - were snapped up three months ago.

But as the Tut fever soared in New York with the exhibit's arrival here this week, scalpers' were charging from $15 to $50 a ticket.

Metropolitan Museum officials said Wednesday that they were seeking an injunction to prevent a ticket agency in Union City, N.J., from selling tickets at $20 each. Callers answering a New York City Newspaper advertisement were offered the tickets.

Bruce Ratner, the city's Consumer Affairs commissioner, warned Wednesday that it is illegal to resell tickets to the exhibit and asked the city's newspapers not to accept advertisements for such sales.

"Seeing Tut is the status symbol right now in this city," said a Metropolitan Museum official who declined to be named. "It's even superseded sex."

Everyone, it seems, is cashing in on Tut fever here. Manhattan bookshops feature separate Tutankhamen sections near best-selling fiction and non-fiction. Bloomingdale's department store is offering a host of objects ranging from Wedgwood china to a tote bag with "I Love New York" inscribed in hieroglyphics.

The Metropolitan Museum reports that sales of its Tut relic reproduction and publications long ago totalled more than $12 million nationwide since 1976; profits will go to finance renovation of the Cairo Museum.

An "astounding" 80,000 people have paid $12.95 for "Tutankhamen - The Untold Story" by Thomas Hoving, says a spokesman for Simon & Schuster, which published the book just two months ago.

None of this surprises Hoving. A former director of the Metropolitan and the man who masterminded the Tut exhibit's 7-city, 3-year U.S. tour, Hoving says he knew all along precisely what he was doing.

"After we concluded the negotiations to bring the exhibit here, I wrote down what I thought the attendance would be. I figured 1 million a city. It averages 1.2 million. That's not bad," he says.

If Tut attendance isn't impressive enough, consider this: Exhibit officials report that more than 25 percent of those who've seen the Tut relics had never before entered a museum. Tut drew them. But why?

Tut ruled Egypt just nine years before he died at the age of 18. Many scholars say the boy king's reign would merit barely a sentence in any tome on Egyptian history - except that the eye-blinking gold and alabaster wealth of Tut's tomb was unearthed in 1922 virtually untouched since it was sealed more than 3,000 years earlier.

Richard Morsches, Metropolitan Museum vice president, believes much of Tut's modern appeal harks back to the tomb's discovery in 1922, "one of the great archeological finds - intact - of all time. It aroused enormous excitement at the time and it has become one of the great names of history, something that practically every schoolchild hears about."

There's more to Tut fever than that, says Hoving: "The young boy has a magical magnetism. People have gone to see it and the word has gotten around that this exhibit is really something unique.

"Most of the people I've talked with are extremely impressed with the nearly unbelievable craftsmanship that went into these objects. They look as if they were made last week, yet we know they're 3,200 years old," Hoving says.

He ticks off other theories for Tut fever: the appeal of the legend that those who unearthed Tut's tomb were cursed; fascination with the ancient Egyptians' concept of a life after death, ancient Egyptian embalming techniques and the mysteries of hieroglyphics.

Word of mouth played a role in the Tut exhibit's swelling popularity, says Hoving. "The Phenomenon just snowballed as the exhibit moved across the country."

Enlarged heart

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was told I have an enlarged heart. I am 81. A friend has had an enlarged heart for 18 years. She told me the hole in the heart was beginning to close. What does that mean? I would appreciate any information you can give me. Is yard work too hard — just weeding flower beds?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for an enlarged heart. If you have high blood pressure, your heart may gradually enlarge. If you develop heart failure, which literally means weakening and overstretching of the heart muscle fibers, that can cause a large heart.

Heart failure with an enlarged heart is a common complication of disease of the arteries to the heart. In our society that's usually caused by fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. Your heart can enlarge because of an obstruction to the outflow valve. I suspect that is what your friend is describing. The heart has to work harder to push the blood past the obstruction.

You can have a large heart from persistent, regular, vigorous physical activity as in long distance runners. This adaptation to exercise enables a person to pump a lot of blood when he is doing a lot of work. It is usually an indication of good health.

You need to judge your level of physical activity in relation to your response. If you can do light yard work and you feel comfortable without shortness of breath, there isn't any reason why you can't do it.

Readers who want information on what controls blood pressure can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-8. Send your request with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you discussed hemorrhoids. You said bleeding hemorrhoids should never be ignored because the pressure behind the veins causing the hemorrhoids might be a tumor. I take it this could lead to cancer of the rectum.

My husband has had bleeding hemorrhoids for several years. The bleeding has been quite profuse at times. Several years ago a doctor told him he would have to have the hemorrhoids removed. My husband was working at the time and didn't want to lay off work to get treated. The doctor told him not to put it off too long, certainly no more than two years. Actually, it has been 10 to 15 years ago that he was told this.

My husband is not overweight and has never had constipation. I'd like to know if this problem can be caused by the presence of a tumor that has been there all these years without symptoms and, if so, would the tumor be benign or malignant? Whenever he is on his feet more than usual, the bleeding becomes worse and sometimes he bleeds to the outside through his clothes. This has just been during the past two years. What is your recommendation?

DEAR READER — Because your husband has had hemorrhoids for a very long time, I doubt they are caused by a tumor. Nevertheless, I think a careful examination is important for anyone who has bleeding from the rectum, even if you think it is from the hemorrhoids.

Those bleeding hemorrhoids are varicose veins of the rectum and he will continue to have trouble now and until the condition is corrected.

Rose Parade's Top Fan In New Role

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Everyone loves a parade. Perhaps no one loves a parade more than Lathrop K. "Lay" Leishman, a 74-year-old native of Pasadena, home of the Tournament of Roses Parade.

Since 1913, Leishman has seen all but one Rose Parade, a tradition which will be continued next Jan. 1, at the 90th annual Rose Parade.

However, Leishman will view the 1979 parade from a different angle than usual. Instead of joining the 1.5 million spectators, he will serve as Grand Marshal as well as lead the traditional procession of flowered floats, marching bands and costumed equestrians through the streets of Pasadena.

Grand Marshal honors, which have not been given to a local citizen for 15 years, were bestowed on Leishman in honor of his nearly 50 years of service to the Tournament of Roses Association, the volunteer organization which stages the annual New Year's Day spectacle.

As Grand Marshal, he will join the ranks of presidents, astronauts, movie celebrities, sports figures and other personalities who have headed the pageant in past years.

Leishman has served as a Tournament member since 1929, was the group's president in 1939 and, from 1945 to 1974, chaired the prestigious football committee that oversees operation of the "Granddaddy of All Bowl Games" - the Rose Bowl.

Actually, 1979 will be Leishman's third Rose Parade appearance.

He first participated in the 1920 parade, at age 16, as the driver of a flower-bedecked touring car carrying his father, William, who was Tournament president that year.

"Most Tournament presidents in those days rode horses in the parade," said Leishman. "But my father was not much of a horseman and decided to ride in a float. He became the first president to do so.

"We had a touring sedan then. We took the top off and built a frame of plywood and chickenwire over it. Some ladies from a local service club brought flowers to decorate it. The pageant was a real home-town affair."

That small community procession has since blossomed into an international event telecast to 125 million people worldwide. The simply constructed floats have developed into elaborate floral masterpieces.

Leishman next appeared in the 1939 Rose Parade, the year he served as Tournament president. That parade, the Tournament's 50th, provided him with some of his most memorable moments.

As president, it was his duty to select a Grand Marshal, and only one name kept popping into his mind as he contemplated his possible choices: Shirley Temple.

"The only problem was to persuade Shirley, then at the peak of her childhood film career, and her parents to cooperate," he recalls. He presented his idea to the Temples in Shirley's special doll-house dressing room on a studio backlot.

Before approaching the Temples, Leishman had arranged for a sheriff's posse to be available to guard her during the parade and had made a plastic bubble to cover her in case of rain. Shirley's mother, after reviewing Leishman's well-prepared plans, left it up to her daughter to decide.

Cotton Prices Up 29 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP)— Cotton prices are up about 29 percent from a year ago, primarily because of a much smaller crop this year and rising exports.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that as of early December, cotton prices were averaging about 66 cents a pound, up 15 cents from a year earlier.

The U.S. harvest currently is estimated at 10.7 million bales, down from 14.4 million in 1977. Bad weather in key production areas has reduced yields sharply this year.

Cotton exports are expected to total about 5.8 million bales in the year that began Aug. 1, up from 5.5 million bales in 1977-78.

But "record cotton textile imports and reduced levels of denim production" are expected. That will mean a lower domestic use of U.S. cotton this season, around 6.3 million bales against 6.5 million bales last year, the report said.

With total use still slightly more than last season, the smaller crop means cotton stockpiles will be drawn down by next Aug. 1, the beginning of the 1979-80 marketing year.

Cotton reserves then are expected to be around 4.1 million bales, compared to 5.3 million this Aug. 1, the report said.

Grain Standards Should Be Updated

WASHINGTON (AP)— An Agriculture Department report says federal grain standards should be updated so it will be more difficult to disguise contaminated shipments of wheat, corn and other commodities.

The report was sent to the House and Senate agriculture committees by the Federal Grain Inspection Service, an agency of the department. It was made public Tuesday.

Changes need to be made, the agency said, but will require time and study to determine rules acceptable to farmers, the grain trade and the ultimate users of the commodities.

It also said the impact of changes on prices, exports and other factors must be weighed carefully in modifying regulations.

Dan Bullick, a 15-year-old Marine, in 1969 became the youngest American killed in the Vietnam War.

In Lufthansa Heist...

Police Study Getaway Van

NEW YORK (AP)-Finger print experts swarmed over a black getaway van today looking for clues that would help them crack what the FBI says is the biggest cash heist in U.S. history.

Police said the van, found Wednesday night on a Brooklyn street, was used by five masked gunmen to flee the Lufthansa German Airlines cargo hangar at Kennedy Airport Monday with more than $5 million in U.S. currency, plus a huge haul of foreign currency and jewels.

But the men who masterminded the robbery and their record-breaking loot were still missing early today.

It was a traffic officer looking for illegally parked cars who gave the combined forces of the FBI, city police and the Port Authority police their biggest break in the case.

The van was towed to Kennedy Airport in the custody of Port Authority police, who have jurisdiction over all crimes committed at the airport.

The FBI confirmed Wednesday what had been in the van when it left the Lufthansa hangar after the hour-long rifling of a "high-value" concrete vault room: more than $5 million cash in U.S. currency, an undetermined amount of foreign currency, and an unknown amount of precious stones and other jewelry.

An airline spokesman had said earlier that the jewelry shipments had a declared value of more than $850,000.

Discovery of the van came after authorities made public two composite drawings based on descriptions of two of the masked robbers. The composites showed one suspect to be about 27 with dark hair and a drooping mustache, the other appeared to be about 30, clean-shaven with gray hair. All of the robbers were described as white males with Brooklyn accents.

The gunmen reportedly unmasked at some point during the robbery long enough for Lufthansa guard Kerry Whalen to remember their faces. Whalen is believed to have seen the robbers during an interval when they believed he was unconscious from a blow to the head.

Little white lies

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

The average American tells 200 lies a day. Force of habit and standards of etiquette are prime motivations. For example, are you really "fine" every time you give that short, expected answer to the question, "How are you?"

People also tell hundreds of little lies to enhance their images — to make a story more entertaining or a business deal more impressive.

In and of themselves, these little white lies are not particularly destructive. But, as the man in the following dialogue admits, they can cause trouble if they get out of control. (Personal information in all hotline excerpts has been changed to protect the caller's confidentiality.)

HOT LINE

JACK: I got into a lot of trouble today at work. I may even be fired. With all the other problems I have right now, I just don't need this.

COUNSELOR: What happened?

JACK: It's very complicated. The company is divided into four sections. The boss of the section located next to mine gave me a juicy tidbit of news about someone who was going to be fired soon. When he realized he had told me a secret, he made me promise not to tell anyone.

I didn't intend to pass on the information, but later that day I went to a meeting where people were speculating on the fate of the same person. I couldn't resist saying I had heard he was going to be fired soon — and that the news had come from a very reliable source.

Of course, word got back to the person who told me the secret and he called me into his office. I denied being the source of the rumor and covered myself fairly well. I just don't know if I'm safe yet.

COUNSELOR: It does sound complicated. How were you feeling in the meeting just before you told the secret?

JACK: Let's see. Well, I wanted everyone to know I had access to privileged information. It made me feel important. And I was pretty sure I could get out of the whole thing without getting caught.

COUNSELOR: Why do you say that?

JACK: I have always been able to talk myself out of tight spots by telling a few harmless white lies.

COUNSELOR: There is a hint of pride in your voice.

JACK: I do feel good about this special skill of mine. It has never let me down.

COUNSELOR: You haven't even had any close calls?

JACK: Actually, as I mentioned earlier, I am in trouble in a number of different situations right now. I guess I am getting a little nervous. Maybe I am losing my touch.

COUNSELOR: Maybe you started taking greater and greater risks as your confidence grew in your ability to tell white lies. Maybe things have gotten out of hand.

JACK: I have been taking a lot of big chances lately. I hate to admit it, but maybe I'll have to accept the fact that I can't get away with everything. It's hard for me to play by the rules. Lying has become a way of life for me. I wonder if I ever tell the truth.

COUNSELOR: Have you been telling me the truth?

JACK: Well, I embellished the story a little but basically I told the truth.

The counselor thought it would help the caller to begin a private log where he could record all instances of lying. She hoped he would become more sensitive to the number of lies he was telling and feel motivated to cut down.

UA Players May Be Tied To Alleged Rape

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Two University of Arkansas football players are tied to a probe of the alleged rape of a coed in a UA athletic dormitory, sources have told The Associated Press.

A local prosecutor Wednesday night confirmed that a coed, about 21, had lodged a complaint alleging that she was raped six times early Tuesday morning in the dormitory. The university on Wednesday suspended two students pending a hearing, but declined to say whether the students were football players.

No charges have been filed.

The Razorbacks, ranked No. 8, are 9-2 on the season. They play UCLA in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., Dec. 35.

School officials and Kim Smith, the Washington County deputy prosecutor conducting the probe, refused to name the students. However, sources close to the UA athletic program told the AP Wednesday night that the students were UA football players, and Smith said that he believed at least one of the two was a football player.

Passing Duo Guide North

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Two record-setting passers - Stanford's Steve Dils and Michigan State's Ed Smith - have been tapped to quarterback the North squad in the 30th annual Senior Bowl football game here Jan. 13.

Dils and Smith were among 33 college seniors picked for the North squad on a roster released today.

Dils set eight Pac-10 records, including a season high of 22 touchdown passes as he completed 247 tosses in 391 attempts for 2,943 yards. Smith established a Big Ten record for career yards passing - 5,706 - as he led Michigan State back into the top college ranks this year and was chosen the Spartan's most valuable player.

Teaff Decides To Stay At BU

WACO (AP)—Grant Teaff, the object of an all-out push by Oklahoma State to become their new head football coach, has decided to stay at Baylor University, The Associated Press has learned.

Teaff, who brought Baylor its first Southwest Conference football championship in 50 years just four seasons ago, has one more year remaining on a five-year contract he received after taking the Bears to the Cotton Bowl.

Teaff was to make his decision to stay at Baylor a formality later today in a statement clarifying his situation.

A source close to Teaff said his close ties to the Baptist school was the final item that kept Teaff from being tempted by a reported $50,000-a-year offer from OSU.

Wednesday night in Houston, where he spoke at a high school banquet, Teaff hinted he was leaning toward remaining at Baylor.

Bengals '54' To Be Retired

CINCINNATI—The number "54" worn by 11-year-veteran center and captain Bob Johnson will be retired by the Cincinnati Bengals in pregame ceremonies Sunday, as the Bengals close out their National Football League season against Cleveland.

Johnson, an All America at Tennessee, was the first player drafted by Bengals' Vice President Paul Brown for the 1968 expansion franchise.

Johnson, the last remaining member of the original team, will retire after the game to become a fulltime executive with the Cincinnati Adhesive Co.

Blue Devils Blanket Robinson...

Duke Takes USC Easily

By The Associated Press

What had been billed as the battle of the centers was really no contest as the top-ranked Duke Blue Devils put the clamps on Cliff Robinson and defeated No. 12 Southern California, 79-65.

"It was an emotional game," said Duke Coach Bill Foster, "almost as emotional as an ACC Atlantic Coast Conference game...almost."

Duke center Mike Gminski fired in 25 points and led the Blue Devils' blanket defense of Southern Cal center Cliff Robinson, the Pacific 8 Conference's leading scorer as a freshman last year. Robinson was scoreless from the floor in the first half and finished the game with just six points, hitting only 2 of 13 field goal attempts.

"They executed very well," Southern Cal Coach Bob Boyd said of the Blue Devils. "While playing from behind, this is a very tough offense to stop."

Duke led 32-26 at the half, then pulled away behind Gminski, Jim Spanarkel and Gene Banks.

"Give them a lot of credit for their defense," Foster graciously said. "We were hoping to break open a lot earlier, but when we finally did, that was it."

Spanarkel added 20 points and Banks 17 for Duke, Barry Brooks paced the Trojans with 14 points.

In the only other game involving a ranked team Wednesday night, No. 3 Michigan clobbered Western Michigan 109-69.

Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote apparently didn't see the final score in his team's third straight victory.

"We played quite well in the first half, but we're not ready to kill anybody yet," Heathcote said after the Spartans slaughtered Western Michigan. "We had trouble with their zone defense."

Kenon Celebrates Win, Birthday

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The Spurs' Larry Kenon celebrated his 26th birthday Wednesday night in a way all pro basketball players ought to celebrate.

The San Antonio forward poured in 36 points and tied his season high of 17 rebounds as the Spurs clobbered the New York Knicks 139-109, before 10,166 fans in the Convention Center Arena.

The victory was the Spurs' fifth in as many outings against New York in the arena over the last three years.

"I had a really good feeling tonight, like something big was going to happen," said the elated Kenon.

"Now we're clicking as a unit," he added, snapping his fingers with every word.

Before Wednesday the Spurs had dropped two of their past three home games, no not everything was clicking. They also had lost their last two road outings.

The rout left the Knicks with a four-game losing streak away from Madison Square Garden.

New York was in the game for the first eight minutes before the spurs began to construct the runaway.

Benefit Underway; Officials Note Top Teams, Good Food

HOBBS--The McCaulley Benefit Tournament--with all proceeds going to McCaulley High School - began here in Hobbs Gym this morning with 16 teams vying for honors.

Eight teams each of boys and girls from Paint Creek, Weinert, Hobbs, Hermleigh, Guthrie, Divide, Blackwell and Rochester are competing in the three-day tournament.

Admission to the unique tournament is a donation of the spectator's choice. No set admission is required.

In addition, the Hobbs consession stand - one of the largest in the area, and not directly connected to the basketball arena - features homemade goods such as chili, hot dogs, sloppy joes, frito pies, nachos, buritos and many baked goods.

Seating arrangments in the consession area are provided, and Hobbs officials have asked those who are not interested in the basketball action to have lunch in the consession area and thereby aid in the benefit.

The benefit tournament is in response to a recent tragedy in which a chemical truck collided with a tournament-bound McCaulley school bus, killing four students and injuring many others, including the principal and superintendent.

Helping with the tournament and providing donations of time and food are residents of Hobbs, Hermleigh, Snyder, Roby, Rotan, Sweetwater, Guthrie and other area towns.

The tournament will run until about 8:30 this evening and from 10 a.m. through 8:30 Friday. Saturday hours are from 1 p.m. until about 8:30.

RUSSIANS

back home.

Before coming to Snyder the group visited the oil fields around Victoria and Houston and spent a few days in a West Texas town named after a Russian city, Odessa. They are heading back to Odessa today and will spend a few more days in Houston before flying to New York on their route back to Russia. They will have spent about one month in the U.S.

Foundation Planning To Elect Four

A committee to nominate four new directors to the Snyder Industrial Foundation was appointed Thursday morning at the group's December meeting.

President Paul Sizemore appointed a committee chaired by Bobby McCormick to make the nominations. Foundation directors whose terms expire at the end of the year are McCormick, John Boren, Mel Gilbert and James Rosser.

The committee will make its recommendations at the Jan. 8 meeting and then ballots will be mailed to the industrial foundation membership.

In other business, the board heard a request from Jack Newsome of the Hunter Masonic Lodge to use a portion of the Lincoln School property in southeast Snyder. The board took no action on the request.

The board also discussed long-range planning for Snyder's industrial development. Those attending the meeting were Gilbert, Boren, Tommy Davis, Daryl Lambert, Gene McClurg, McCormick, Sizemore, Lanny Wadleigh and Roy McQueen.

Four Mishaps Are Reported

Four traffic accidents have been investigated by city police yesterday and this morning.

The latest accident took place about 8:35 a.m. today at the intersection of 27th St. and Ave. V. It involved, officers reported, a 1975 Ford garbage truck owned by the City of Snyder and driven by Merle Wilborn and a 1968 Buick drivey by Deana Waller. Minor damages were reported to the truck and moderate damages to the car.

A three-car accident was recorded yesterday in the 3500 block of Houston. There, reports show, a 1968 Chevrolet pickup driven by Rodney Blain Mueller was in collision with a parked 1977 Pontiac owned by Miriam H. Sullivan and a parked 1974 AMC Hornet also owned by Sullivan. The wreck was reported at 1:12 p.m.

Two cars collided in the 2600 block of Ave. R. Wednesday at 1:35 p.m. That collision involved a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Franklin Crayton and a parked 1972 Ford pickup owned by Bob Harriston.

A two-car collision was also reported yesterday in the 3300 block of El Paso. It involved a 1975 Oldsmobile driven by Eualean Parmer and a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Alice Bass. It occurred about 3:35 p.m.

Baldy Gets No Fringe Benefits

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is to protest that a bald-headed man has to pay the same price for a haircut as a man with a full head of hair.

It isn't fair. I think the barber should charge the bald-headed man half-price for a haircut.

Awaiting your reply.

MRS. L.P.B.

DEAR MRS. B.: So what should a barber charge the man whose hair is long and thick and requires twice as much time for a haircut? Sorry, it all evens out. Anyone who feels that the trimming he's getting isn't worth the trimming he's getting should stay out of barber shops.

DEAR ABBY: My son is living with a woman we are not at all fond of. On Christmas Eve the family gathers at my home for an exchange of gifts and I know my son will bring her.

No way will I give my approval of this living arrangement by giving them a gift together. And I certainly wouldn't give this woman a gift under ordinary circumstances. So my dilemma is: should I give her a gift?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Yes.

DEAR ABBY: I've been seeing Ron (made up name) for seven months. We also work together. He's everything I like in a boyfriend—intelligent, considerate, good sense of humor and he puts up with my bossiness. My parents are crazy about him and I love his parents. He's 26 and I'm 23.

The problem is he wants to marry me and I keep putting him off because I think he's too short for me. I'm 5 feet 5, and Ron is only 5 feet 6. We are exactly the same weight, but my hands and feet are bigger than his.

I feel conspicuous when we're out together. He just doesn't seem masculine enough for me.

My parents say I'm too picky. Ron says if I don't make up my mind by next summer, he'll start dating other girls.

I don't want to lose him and I don't want to marry him. I know good men are hard to find, but I don't want to marry him unless I'm rid of this hang-up about his size. Can you help me?

HUNG UP

DEAR HUNG: The word from here is DON'T marry Ron or anyone else unless your heart and mind are in unison. In my opinion, size is unimportant, but then I won't have to live with Ron—YOU will.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.W.D.: No one said it better than Ella Wheeler Wilcox:

"Talk happiness. The world is sad enough
Without your woe. No path is wholly rough;
Look for the places that are smooth and clear,
And speak of those, to rest the weary ear
Of earth, so hurt by one continuous strain
Of human discontent and grief and pain."

Value Of Burglary Loot Over $5,000

More than $5,000 worth of oilfield equipment has been taken from Baker Service Tools, a police report shows.

The burglary complaint was filed Wednesday afternoon by Hood Jones who told police two tubing catchers and two casing packers were missing from the firm's yard. Total value of the missing equipment was placed at $5,322.

The burglary is alleged to have occurred Tuesday or early Wednesday morning. Entry to the facility was allegedly gained through a window, report show.

Police are also investigating a shooting in which no one was injured.

Police received a report about 7:40 p.m. Wednesday advising them of several gunshots being heard in the neighborhood of 34th St. and Ave. L.

At 8:19 p.m., records show, Dwight Davis informed officers that someone had entered his home while he was away and discharged several rounds of ammunition into the walls of his 503 33rd St. residence.

At 10 p.m. Davis discovered that two rounds had been fired through the front of an establisment he owns, D.D.'s Disco, at 3503 Ave. M.

Also at 10 p.m., Floyd Wellington, 3501 Ave. M, discovered that the front of his residence was marked by two bullet holes.

The reports were filed as criminal mischief complaints. It was not immediately known the caliber size of the gun involved in the incidents. Reports do not show that any slugs were recovered.

Firemen Called Three Times

Three fires were doused Wednesday evening, all within about an hour and a half.

The first report was one advising of a grass fire about six miles north of Snyder on Highway 84. That report was received at 5:30 p.m.

At 5:35 p.m., another report was received advising of a cotton trailer fire about 13 miles southeast of Snyder.

The final report came in at 6:55 p.m. It told Snyder firefighters of a cotton burrs fire outside the Paymaster Gin about two miles west of Snyder on the Lamesa Highway.
