SECOND WHITFIELD CASE CALLED IN COURT HERE

Testimony in the J. W. (Shorty) Whitfield liquor case, which was called in criminal district court here Monday morning was finished shortly after noon, and a recess was called until 2:30, when the judge's charge will be delivered to the jury, and arguments of counsel opened.

Four motions, contesting certain phases of the arrest of the defendant were filed before the court by Bishop and Starnor, counsel for the defense, but all were overruled by Judge Clark M. Mullican with the order to proceed with the trial.

The first motion sought to quash the indictment of Whitfield on the ground of duplication; the second sought to quash the affidavit of search and seizure; the third sought to quash the warrant for the arrest; and the fourth to quash the sheriff's return on legal proceedings.

The state produced five witnesses, including T. E. May, Chief of Police; Lem Chesher, Inspector for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association; Terrell Williamson, deputy sheriff, and O. H. Brown, deputy sheriff, all of whom assisted in capture of the defendant alleged to have been operated by the defendant.

The defense did not have a witness on the stand, but gained a strong point when they proved that certain portions of the search warrant did not meet requirements of the state law.

The judge's charge to the jury was read at 3:30, following which arguments started. The following men composed the jury:

W. J. Anderson, Slaton; E. W. Reddell, Idalou; L. E. Hunt, Lubbock; J. H. Teague Jr., Slaton; T. D. Johnson, Slaton; T. B. Taylor, Idalou; J. P. Boyd, Slaton; D. N. Laverton, Lubbock; Enoley Guess, Idalou; Drev Hobby, Slaton; Paul Owens, Slaton, and J. W. Daniel, Lubbock. An early verdict was expected after the jury is given the case.

Miner's Wife Dies From Starvation In Wilkesbarre, Penna.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 8. (AP)—Starvation as a result of the anthracite, has claimed its first victim. Destruction and want have been reported from all parts of the region for several weeks but the first case of actual starvation was revealed yesterday, when the death of Mrs. Harry Harrington, of Ashland, wife of a striking miner, was investigated. Deputy coroner Hener said he was convinced that her death was due to starvation.

Mrs. Harrington's husband had left the coal field to find employment elsewhere. What little food she had received, Mr. Hener said, was obtained from a soup kitchen and this had been given to her children, one of whom was only five months old. The deputy coroner said the woman had been too proud to ask for food herself.

Body Of Slain Girl Is Found Buried In New Jersey Ice Cake

PAULSBORO, N. J., Feb. 8. (AP)—Authorities were trying today to establish the identity of a young woman whose body, clad in a union suit, was found encased in a cake of ice in the Delaware River yesterday.

An examination, coroner Adams said, showed that the woman, whose age was between 25 and 35 years, was murdered. The skull was fractured and forehead gashed. Other evidence tended to show that she was dead before the body was thrown into the water. The coroner suggested perhaps she was thrown into the water from a vessel, after a terrible beating.

It was necessary to use axes to free the body from the ice. A religious emblem hung about the neck, but no other mark of identification was found.

$170,000 ISSUE VOTED RECENTLY GIVEN APPROVAL

BONDS SOLD TO FIRM IN DALLAS TO BE SENT THERE SOON

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—A $170,000 bond issue for the Lubbock Independent School District was approved today by the attorney general.

The script of the bonds was given approval of the Attorney General's department soon after the election in which they were given approval by voters here as a result of personal submission of the script by A. C. Jackson, Tax Collector and Business Manager of the school board, but final approval was held up pending printing of the issue.

The bonds will go from the Attorney General to the Comptroller's office for registration that will only take an hour or two, after which they will be deposited in an Austin bank to the credit of the Independent School district here. They have been sold to the Garrett Company, of Dallas, and will be delivered within the next few days, Mr. Jackson said Monday.

Plans as drawn up call for the erection of an eight-room building across the railroad in the north part of the city; for a sixteen room building in the south part of the city, where developments are exceptionally rapid, and for two assembly halls to be built between the north and south wings of the high school building.

Sites for the two buildings have been secured, and plans are now under way for extension of city utility lines to the Spikes addition, where the building in the north part of the city will be located. This addition probably will be received into the city limits at the next meeting of the Commission. A motion to this effect passed its first reading at the last meeting, but another reading is necessary.

Work probably will start on the building program on or before the first of March.

Menus for the Family

MENUS FOR THE FAMILY By Sister Mary

Breakfast—Halves of grapefruit, baked hash with poached eggs, cream cornbread, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Mock oyster soup, croutons, cottage cheese and jelly sandwiches, caramel custard, milk, tea.
Dinner—Veal and pork loaf, scalloped potatoes, buttered carrots and peas, salad chiffonade, bran rolls, peach cream, milk, coffee.

If you happen to live where cream is plentiful you will welcome this following recipe for cornbread. This time of year sour milk is not always at hand, so sweet cream is used. With maple syrup drizzled just around the corner, it is well to "get our hand in" for good cornbread.

Cream Cornbread
One cup white flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cups cream, 2 eggs.
Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Add cornmeal and mix thoroughly. Add cream gradually, stirring to keep smooth. Add eggs well beaten and beat mixture hard for 1 minute. Turn into a well buttered shallow pan and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

If cream is not available 1 cup of sweet milk and 1/2 cup of melted butter can be substituted. The salt is reduced to 1/2 teaspoon but the other ingredients remain the same.

DELICATE OPERATION TO BRING LIFE TO LEGS OF CRIPPLE IS PERFORMED BY DALLAS SPECIALIST

DALLAS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The twisted figure of a boy sat on the operating table at the Crippled Children's hospital. White light reflected from spotless walls beat down on him. Two white robed physicians peered at him from behind masks, while 20 other physicians, on a raised bench behind a railing, looked down inquisitively at his helpless form as he blinked up at them. A nurse arranged innumerable instruments on a table nearby. This ten-year-old lad, who had never walked, was about to undergo a "sympathetic ramisection," one of the newest and most remarkable developments in surgery. Dr. W. B. Carroll, who was to perform the operation, was recently honored as the most useful citizen of Dallas because of his services in operation without charge on thousands of poor, crippled children. An Associated Press representative had asked permission to view the work in order to give an idea of the service on which this public recognition had been based.

Certain Nerves Severed.
In a sympathetic ramisection, certain nerves are severed to relieve muscular contraction. Dr. Carroll explained that the boy had been born with a brain hemorrhage, which produced the contraction, preventing proper transmission of messages to the legs. "The impulse starts down the nerve, but gets shunted off on the wrong wire," he said. "The problem is to sever the leg nerves of the sympathetic system allowing the message to pass along the spinal trunk to the extremities without interruption."

If successful, the operation virtually would give the boy a new pair of legs. The best he had ever been able to do was a pitiful shuffle.

"Lie down now," said a gentle voice, and without a whimper, the boy who had never walked, stretched out on the table. The ether cap was adjusted, there were a few gasps, a brief heaving of the chest and the lad was quiet under the mystery of the drug.

The knife of the surgeon began its work. A quick movement of the flashing blade laid bare the white of the outer skin. Another stroke and the red flesh appeared. The incision was made on the right side, the body lying on the left.

Incision Is Entered.
Dexterous hands laid back muscles, pushed aside vital organs, and began probing. With two instruments resembling silver chop-sticks, the physicians went down into the living body, behind the abdomen, in front of the back muscles, on down past an artery, threading his way through delicate nerve centers and past large blood vessels. A tiny electric light was placed in the cavity while the physicians on the sets peered down at the living organs pulsing under the knife.

The instruments penetrated deep into the boy's side. They paused. For a moment the physician searched for something. Then he brought to view a nerve, showing white against the red flesh. This was the sympathetic trunk.

The physician held it for a second to show several smaller white cords running off from the trunk to the stomach, liver, and other organs, like wires from a switchboard. He explained that some of these branches were the sympathetic leg nerves, which he was about to sever.

Carefully he separated the leg nerves from the others. The nurse handed him a pair of scissors. He passed the scissors down among the little white strands, with unerring skill selecting just the right nerves. There was a snap as the blades came together—and the operation was over. The nerves had been cut and would no longer carry wrong messages.

In a few weeks the boy will be able to use his leg almost normally. A similar operation must be done on the left side to give locomotion to both legs.

The Crippled Children's hospital, maintained by Bella Shrine Temple, is a factory where human bodies are rebuilt. Dr. Carroll literally is manufacturing joints, hips and new backs.

On the same morning, he removed the astragalus bone from a boy's foot. This marble shaped bone acts as a universal joint between the leg and the foot. The boy could not stand because his leg muscles had become paralyzed and he could not control the joint. The doctor moved the foot back slightly so that when the bones became fused the leg will stand solidly on the foot.

Girl Has Eight Operations.
A girl in the hospital has undergone eight operations. Among other things, the doctor made her a new knee joint out of her own knee cap, and now she can walk.

Spines are straightened by bone fusion. The crooked spine is first drawn into position by a plaster cast, and is held in position by bones nailed to the backbone.

Dr. Carroll denotes his services and no fees are charged by the hospital, as only poor children are admitted. He performs more than 100 operations a month, and is devoting a large portion of his time to rebuilding the bodies of these little children who come here from all parts of Texas.

DIVORCE IS SOUGHT FROM A COMMON LAW MARRIAGE

One of the most peculiar cases in the history of district court in this county is now awaiting action at the hands of the court. It is a plea for divorce from a common law marriage, filed by a Mexican woman, and seeking custody of a certain amount of property alleged to have been accumulated by the couple during the ten years of their "married" life. The plaintiff sets out that in 1916 the two began living together as man and wife, and that during the intervening time, repeated promises have been made by the defendant that he was willing to take legal proceedings to make the marriage binding by law, but that such has never been done. The plaintiff's petition alleges further that the defendant has at times resorted to violence in persuading the plaintiff to remain under his roof, especially following a divorce which was granted him from his legal wife some three or four years ago, and that she is entitled to half of the property that has been accumulated.

—The great success of the Lubbock-owned Plant has been the result of the constant co-operation of these people and their loyalty to their own plant. Its growth has been regular—its profitableness constant.

FRED BRAINARD SPUDDER LEADER, HERE IN EFFORT TO SIGN ALLEN TO COACH HIS CORPS OF HURLERS

Manager Fred Brainard, of the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, was in Lubbock Monday afternoon for a conference with Manager Sled Allen, of the Lubbock Hubbers, in an effort to get the veteran receiver's name on the dotted line as a coach for the Spudders during the arduous part of this season.

Mr. Brainard told the Daily Journal that he had made the Skipper a good offer, which he hoped he would consider favorably. According to Mr. Brainard's statement the contract calls for Sled's reporting by March 5th, when the Spudders will go into training at Wichita Falls, and will not keep him from his usual avocations and the bat for the Champion Hubbers during the coming campaign. "If Sled can give me six weeks or two months, I will be satisfied," Mr. Brainard said.

Pitching had become too powerful, batting had slumped and the magnates wanted to increase the hitting.

Unfortunately they went too far by putting in the rabbit ball at the very time they eliminated trick pitching.

TRICK PITCHING

Doing away with trick pitching which had reached alarming proportions, would have remedied the lack of hitting, by tending to equalize pitching and batting.

Instead of getting a balance, the magnates went from one evil to another. From pitcher's battles, the games developed into slugging matches, featuring the home run, with Babe Ruth as the leading performer.

Near the close of last season, under constant pressure by the sports writers, who insisted the rabbit ball was making a joke out of the game, the manufacturers so changed the core of the ball, that its liveliness was decreased at least 20 per cent, probably more.

At that, a rabbit ball is better than trick pitching. All batters have an equal chance against the lively ball, but all pitchers are not capable of trick pitching. There are some who simply refuse to use dishonest methods to increase their effectiveness.

Resin is a foreign substance. Now that a foreign substance can be applied to the hands, it isn't always going to be resin.

SERIOUS EVIL

If a pitcher puts a certain amount of resin on his hands, for drying purposes as the rule states, and then perhaps rubs his hands on his trousers, there is bound to be a dirty spot on the uniform as a result. That dirty spot is sure to cover a multitude of pitching sins.

In the old days of trick pitching many hurlers would have certain spots on their uniform into which they would rub powdered emery which is not unlike resin in appearance. And they always managed to get the powdered emery on the ball.

Other pitchers went so far as to have a large sized piece of emery paper sewed inside the shirt of their uniform and by rubbing the ball over that spot could easily roughen it.

CONSTANT STREAM COMING INTO WEST TEXAS

DALLAS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The covered wagon again is trekking across the western plains. This time it is hauled, in some instances by an automobile engine, and it carries not the gold seeker but those who come for the hard earned wealth of the soil.

Across the vast plains of West Texas as the long lines of home builders are now moving by horse-drawn wagon, by automobile, and by train. Last year 49,996 families moved into the section, and this figure is expected to be far exceeded this year, according to officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The breaking up of many huge ranches, some of which contain over 100,000 acres, is making this settlement possible. Along a new branch of the Santa Fe railroad, west of Lubbock, in the Texas-New Mexico border, a dozen towns have sprung up in the last few months. Everywhere are the signs of new life. The plow is being put to virgin soil. The cattle man and the cowboy are passing. The overall is taking the place of the chaparral.

West Texas itself is larger than any state in the union except the state of which it is a part, having a slightly greater area than California, the Union's second largest state.

The country is so level that the wind supplies excellent motive power and windmills are to be seen everywhere. It is one of the few sections in the United States where railroads are still competing with each other for territory, a half dozen roads recently having applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for right to build.

Some of the counties in which this development is taking place have had only 50 or 75 inhabitants, constituting virtually the cowboys on the ranches. The county seats of some of them have grown so rapidly that many of the courthouses still are of frame construction.

1926 Intersectional Grid Games On Bigger Scale Than Ever Before Schedule of 54 Big Contests Show

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Intersectional gridiron conflict, reflecting the widespread growth in this spectacular college sport, will be waged on a greater scale than ever before in 1926. Fifty-four contests, bringing together rivals of the north and south, east and west, already have been scheduled by representative institutions. This is as many as the entire 1925 campaign witnessed and the prospects are that the total will be substantially increased when schedules are completed.

Most of the intersectional play of the last few seasons has been confined to the Eastern and Middle Western schools, but this year finds a wider range. For instance, the University of Missouri, which has held the Missouri Valley title for two successive years, has booked games with West Virginia, Tulane and Southern Methodist.

Notre Dame, a consistent traveler, has the East, South and far West on its slate with games against the Army, Penn State, Georgia Tech and Southern California.

The University of Chicago and New York University, representing the country's greatest two centers of population, will branch out in intersectional fray to a much greater extent. Chicago on successive October Saturdays, opposes Florida, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The Naval Academy will tackle two outstanding foes in Drake and Michigan, both probably in the Baltimore Stadium. This year's intersectional slate for the Army includes Detroit, Davis-Elkins, and Notre Dame.

The list of intersectional games so far scheduled follows:

- SEPT. 25
Providence, R. I.—Providence College vs. Quantico.
- OCT. 2
West Point—Army vs. U. of Detroit.
Chicago—Chicago vs. U. of Florida.
New Orleans—Loyola vs. Baylor.
Annapolis—Navy vs. Purdue.
- OCT. 9
Syracuse—Syracuse vs. Wm. & Mary.
State College—Penn State vs. Marietta.
- West Point—Army vs. Davis-Elkins.
Annapolis—Navy vs. Drake University.
- New York—N. Y. U. vs. Wesleyan.
New Haven—Yale vs. Georgia U.
Bloomington—Indiana vs. Kentucky.
Chicago—Chicago vs. U. of Maryland.
Hanover—Dartmouth vs. Vm. Poly.
E Princeton—Princeton vs. Washington & Lee.
- Dallas—Texas Aggies vs. Sewanee.

Florida Rum Guards Report Big Captures

The latest capture was reported yesterday when coast guard cutter 3229 seized liquor, bottles and stills valued at $46,000.

Umpires Groan As Officials Grant Pitchers Permission To Use Resin

By a vote of 5 to 3 the rules committee has again legalized the use of resin by the pitchers.

The three dissenting votes were polled by the American League representatives on the committee. The three National Leaguers, Judge Landis and Dale Gear, representing the umpires, went on record as favoring it.

Personally I am sorry that resin has come back as a pitching asset. First, because it is going to make more work for the umpires and they already have plenty. Second, because it will act as an opening wedge for the return of trick pitching.

Five years ago the majors ruled out the right of a pitcher to apply any

LONGIVITY

A British surgeon, when asked what he considered the surest way to live to be a hundred years old, replied he would become a peasant or a pauper and be received into an English poorhouse.

In English almshouses longivity is the rule. The food is plain, inmates rise and retire early and are without care. For these dependents on society there is work to do but they are not overworked. Their own long life is the best testimonial for their formula for longivity.

Thomas Parr, of Alberbury, who was reputed to have lived to be 152, is the honor of being England's foremost contender for the Methuselah cup. He attributed his long life to "society faire but free from care," and the fact that he was famous as a sleeper may also have had something to do with his great age.

Simple fare, no cares, much sleep and little labor kept "Old Parr," so tradition says, alive more than one and one-half centuries, but in the end he was a victim of rich foods and immoderate eating. After two months feasting by Charles I and the Earl of Arundel he died.

Parr was supposed to have been born in 1483 and died in 1635. There is documentary evidence that he was farming in 1522, 1544 and 1555. When supposed to be 80 years old he married for the first time. That was in 1563. The two children from that union died in infancy. Before her death in 1595 Mrs. Parr caused her husband to do penance in a white sheet in the Alberbury church for an affair with another woman. He threshed corn at 130, he married for the second time at 122, and when he died an autopsy found his organs sound.

FORTUNE

Soviet Russia wishes to exchange a portion of the crown jewels for American machinery. The collection which it is the design to utilize in the trade comprises 466 separate pieces. The diamonds they contain weigh 25,300 carats; pearls, 6,200; sapphires, 4,300; emeralds, 2,200; and uncut rubies 11,200. There are three crowns, many crosses, scepters and other emblems of empire. The collection is the accumulation of centuries and is estimated to be worth $264,000,000. If these gems are exchanged for machinery on the basis sought a goodly shipment will be headed toward Russia.

That such a vast array of jewels were thought needful to impress the dignity and glory of the czaristic regime reveals to what extent "properties" were indispensable to Russian royalty. The wearing of jewels on state occasions, the glitter and glamour, are the evidences of power. They are designed to enhance personality and make it appear to greater advantage. An emperor without distinguishing marks might be mistaken for an ordinary individual in barbaric magnificence none surpassed the Muscovite rulers in the days of their glory.

That the canaille which these jewels were intended to dazzle are now in possession of the seats of absolutism and are eager to exchange gems collected with so great care and at such cost for the plebeian implements of industry is a striking instance of the reverse of fortune.

Life started from a cell and it's going to end in the same place for a lot of folks we know.

Uncle Abner Stumbles Onto One of Life's Little Mysteries

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY HENRY RAND, middle-aged business man, expected home by his family to celebrate his son JIMMY'S 27th birthday, is found dead by police in a cheap hotel. The room is filled with gas. There is a welt on the back of his head. The only clues are a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket from the Paragon Theater in Cleveland. Jimmy's sister, JANET, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN after the murder and Jimmy goes to Cleveland with DETECTIVE MOONEY, where they trace the ticket stub to a THOMAS FOGARTY. Jimmy saves MARY LOWELL, a Cleveland girl, from the attentions of two masher. The next night he and Mooney lay a trap for FOGARTY. They follow him to his hotel room. Later he and Mooney confront FOGARTY, who gives a plausible alibi and says he never used the theatre ticket, but gave it to a woman named Olga Maynard. He is with Mary in a cabaret when he hears a man pronounce the name of Olga Maynard. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI Olga Maynard! He wheeled sharply in his chair to see who had pronounced the name. The two men were looking across the room at a table in a far corner. Jimmy saw a girl sitting alone, smoking a cigarette. She certainly fitted Fogarty's description of Olga May-back. It was the first name he could think of. "I'll be here tomorrow night. Same time." He was tipping the check room girl when Mary emerged from the dressing room. She was frigidly silent on the ride home. He was half tempted to tell her everything—why he was in Cleveland and who Olga Maynard was—but on reflection decided stubbornly not to. Back in his room, he threw his hat angrily on the bed, convinced that he had made a botch of things. Olga Maynard met him. She kept him waiting a half hour, but he never doubted for a minute that she was coming. "Well," she said sitting down at his table, "I'm here." He had risen. "It was good of you to come." He offered her a cigarette and lit one himself to hide his excitement. She waited for him to speak. "Miss Maynard," he began, "I lied to you last night about my name. It ain't Colvin. My name—his was swatching her closely to observe the effect of his words—is Rand. James Rand. I'm from Grafton." She betrayed no surprise. "Grafton's a good place to come from," she remarked dryly. "I've been there." "Yes, I know you have. As a matter of fact, you were there week before last." "Say, who are you—Sherlock Holmes in disguise?" She said, half angrily: "I didn't come here to hear my history. What have you been doing—trying to get something on me?" "No, I haven't, but listen to me. I—" "You said," she interrupted, "you had a musical comedy job lined up. I'm interested. If you haven't, I'm not. Now tell me what's on your mind." "I'll tell you in a minute what's on my mind, but first I want you to answer a few questions. Tell me this—did you go to the Paragon theatre the evening of Nov. 25? That was a Monday night—the night before you went to Grafton." "Say—" "You answer me!" he brought his hand smartly down on the table. She shrugged her shoulders. "All right—I did. Sure." "Where did you get the ticket?" "Tom Fogarty gave it to me." There was bewilderment in her eyes. "All right. Fogarty at least is telling the truth. Now then, did you ever hear of a man named Henry Rand?" "No." "Did you ever know a man named H. A. Jones?" "No. Say, for God's sake cut this out and tell me what it's all about. You'd think I'd murdered somebody the way you act." "Miss Maynard," he said, "that's exactly what you're suspected of doing." "No! You're lying!" She sprang to her feet. Her eyes darted a look of rage at him. "You dirty dog!" she whispered hoarsely. "You're trying to get something on me. Why can't they leave me alone—" "Why can't they leave you alone?" he broke in. "You know who I'm talking about. You know very well you can go to hell. I'm leaving." She grabbed her pocketbook—a headed bag. "Miss Maynard," he took hold of her wrist, aware that they were very nearly creating a scene, "don't go yet. Sit down and listen to me. You've got to." He was holding her wrist cruelly tight. She winced with the pain and sat down, he half forcing her into her chair. "I'm not trying to get anything on you, as you say. You listen to these facts and see for yourself. Henry Rand was my father. He was murdered in a hotel in Grafton on Nov. 27. You've just told me you used Fogarty's ticket at the Paragon theatre two nights before. Well, the stub of that ticket was found in the room with my father. How'd it get there?" She was white beneath her rouge. She was gripping the edge of the table with her hands. "It's a lie! She leaned toward him, tense. "It's a lie! I don't believe it!" "It's the truth. How do you sup-

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

AHA! FOUND! TRACKS OF PTERODACTYL By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON — Some tourists were pawing around among the rocks at the bottom of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado one day in 1915, looking for any old thing they might happen to run across. "Old" is right, as the reader presently will see. Suddenly, "Ha!" exclaimed one of the tourists, excitement in his tone. "A pterodactyl track!" The other tourists hurried to the spot and examined the footprint closely and interestedly. Then, straightening up, "So it is," they all agreed, "but rather a cold trail."

"Well, yes," the first tourist admitted. "It is a trifle ancient—and about 25 million years, I'd say." By this time the reader will have divined that the tourists were scientists—paleontologists, to be exact—who were playing seek to Nature's hide on the occasion above referred to. Prof. Charles Schuchert was the one who made the discovery. The Smithsonian Institution, hearing of the professor's find, sent Prof. Charles W. Gilmore out to the canyon and he uncovered a lot more tracks.

"Funeral" and "Progress" are synonymous terms in many instances. The woman who dies of a broken heart has to do it before she is 18.

The world suspects the man of ulterior motives who parades his charities behind a brass band. Plain, hopeless drifting is the road to imbecility. If you are conscious of failure in your present vocation or profession, try something new. Better buck the current of a small turbulent stream than drift to your destruction on a placid river.

If you do your duty as you see it, if you so live that your fellows are better for your having lived you can pretty safely allow the other fellow to worry about the destination of your soul.

Legal Amenities From the Argonaut: Lord Aberdeen, in his recently published book, "Tell Me Another," has a story about a celebrated lawyer named Curran. During the proceedings of a court on circuit in the country on a summer day, the windows were wide open. While Curran was addressing the court a donkey in an adjoining field brayed loudly. The judge, interrupting, said, "Excuse me, Mr. Curran, one at a time, please." Curran bowed acquiescence, then proceeded with his address. Later when the judge was delivering his charge to the jury, the donkey brayed again, on which Curran arose, and said, "I'm sorry, your honor, but there seems to be such an echo that I can scarcely make out what you are saying."

INDICTED

'Twas only a short time back that the Governor's right hand man was shouting defiantly to those conducting the prosecution of the highway contracting companies in Texas that none had been indicted and there was no reason for the hue and cry being raised against excessive highway contracts. Now there has been an indictment, which does not of itself mean that the one billed is guilty, but it does take some of the sand out of the defense that the former Governor put up in behalf of the Highway Commission.—San Angelo Standard.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The cotton market opened easy owing to lower Liverpool cables. First trades were four points down on near months, and one point down on more distant positions. Prices rallied a point or two after the call but soon eased off again to 1 to 6 points under Saturday's close. The map showed all food weather in the belt which is favorable to the new crop. The market ruled very quiet all morning with price fluctuations limited to a few points. March eased off to 19.64c, May to 19.92c, and October to 17.53c, or 4 to 5 points under Saturday's close. Later prices rallied a few points to within 1 to 1 1/2 points of previous close. The market appeared to be waiting for news of preparations for the new crop which no far has not been very definite. The market, after ruling steeper around noon, eased off again during the afternoon mainly on the weakness that developed in the New York stock market. March eased off to 19.62c, May to 19.97c, and October to 17.51c, or six to nine points under yesterday's close. NEW YORK FUTURES NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady. Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Wall Street's first reaction to the announcement that stock and bond loans of members of the New York Stock Exchange as of January 21, exceeded $3,500,000,000, was a downward movement of stock prices at the opening of today's market. The reaction was an orderly one, however, initial losses in most of the popular shares being held to fractions. Motors were the first to feel the weight of the selling. General Motors declining 1 1/2 on the first sale. Food shares turned weak on announcement that the Department of Justice was preparing to move quickly against recently announced mergers. California Packing breaking four points and Warb Hacking 2. Selling of the food shares assumed larger proportions as trading progressed. California Packing extending its loss to 11 points before sufficient buying support was formed for the end of the first half hour. California Packing yielded four points from its low, General Motors made up its loss and California Petroleum advanced a point above last week's closing quotation. A strong demand also was noted for Barnwell in apparent anticipation of additional merger developments. Trading in the foreign exchange was extremely dull, demand sterling holding steady at $4.86 and 1-16, and French francs dropping 1/4 points to 3.71 cents.

MARKETS BREAK

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Stock prices collapsed sharply today on selling inspired by three bullish developments, the announcement after the close Saturday that stock and bond loans of members of the New York Stock Exchange exceeded $3,500,000,000; the calling of about $20,000,000 in loans by New York banks today, and the filing of an anti-trust suit against the Ward interests and others in Baltimore.

CANYON NORMAL TO OFFER SPRING COURSE

CANYON, Feb. 8.—For the first time, the West Texas State Teachers College will offer courses beginning in the middle of the spring quarter and continuing for six weeks. These new classes will be opened on April 26. This plan of work, which has been successfully tried in other states, will enable students who have been out of school for any reason throughout the usual school year, and teachers whose classes close early to enter college without further loss of time, and in a six weeks period earn nine terms worth of credit. These classes will require six times each week, and will be taught by members of the regular faculty of the college.

Variety of Courses Open

The courses that are offered are those that will enable high school graduates, teachers, and other students to make satisfactory programs. The departments of Education, Mathematics, English, Agriculture, Manual Training, History and Domestic Science are giving these courses. The West Texas State Teachers College is doing everything possible to reach all the people of this territory; several hundred people representing all sorts of occupations, have increased their working capital through its correspondence courses which have been given for the past three years.

Many Club Women Attend

Several hundred club women of the Seventh District of Texas are taking courses especially prepared for them. Many communities have enjoyed lyceum courses through the departments of the college. All of these activities of the college at Canyon are efforts to carry out the ideals of J. A. Hill and members of his faculty. It is believed by them that a college must serve the people of its territory not limiting itself to the few hundred young men and women who can study within its walls. This kind of service and the spirit behind it have endeared the West Texas State Teachers College to thousands of people throughout the northwest section of the State, and have given the college a reputation throughout the entire United States.

Sunday Blue Law, 123 Years Old, Wrecks Havoc In Tennessee When All Business Houses Are Closed

(By The Associated Press) NASHVILLE, Feb. 8.—A Sunday blue law, 123 years old, kept motorists at home, and closed cigar stores and other establishments in parts of Tennessee yesterday, while other sections reported business as usual. Sixteen persons were cited in Nashville for violation of the law, which provides a forfeiture for "any merchant, artificer, tradesman, farmer, or any other persons found guilty of doing or exercising any of the prohibited avocations of life, or causing or permitting the same to be done by his children or servants—acts of real necessity or charity excepted." Journalists Are Cited Among those receiving citations here was J. G. Stallman, executive director of the Nashville Banner and Lake Land publisher of the Nashville Tennessean, J. P. W. Brown, manager of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, and the managers of gasoline filling stations. News stands, automobile rental company, candy and cigar stores and bookish parlors also were included. Other cities throughout the state reported various attitudes as to the law. Independent gasoline dealers in Chattanooga continued business, while the Standard Oil and Gulf Refining Companies closed. No arrests were recorded. Memphis, Knoxville, and Bristol reported gas and tire stores closed, but cigar, candy and lunch stands open as usual. No citations were issued. Bristol on the Virginia-Tennessee line presented an unusual problem with filling stands on the Tennessee side of town closed while those on the Virginia side remained open. Warrants Are Sworn Warrants for the arrest of those charged with violating the law passed in 1803, were sworn out by a Nashville attorney. The penalty is $1 for each citation, half to go to the state and half to the person making the

Art Director Was Once Cabaret Song Writer in France

PARIS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Maurice Couba, who has been appointed director of the State School of Decorative Arts, once wrote songs for the celebrated Montmartre cabaret, the "Chat Noir," and occasionally sang them there himself. A court charge of $4 would be added to each fine, Magistrate Reanover announced. This would apply to those pleading guilty, while those who plead not guilty be bound over to criminal court. A test case is expected. Hunters, fishermen, and golfers were included in the edict but none were arrested, although deputy sheriffs patrolled the state looking for such violators. The law, after its many years of enforcement came to light when the state supreme court handed down a decision recently in the case of a filling station

COAL STRIKE IS NOT TO GO TO COOLIDGE

SENATE VOTES MEASURE DOWN AGAIN BY VERY LIGHT MARGIN

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—For the second time within two days, the senate refused again to consider a proposal that it request President Coolidge to invite the miners and operators to the White House in an effort to end the anthracite suspension.

The majority against the resolution today was only five as compared to the twenty recorded yesterday. The vote was 25 to 43, and was taken after considerable debate which revolved around a bill offered by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, proposing creation of a federal board of industrial adjustment, charged with fixing responsibility for coal strikes.

This measure was referred to the committee on education and labor, after Senator Robinson had urged for speedy action in committee, so the senate might take it up after the bill has been passed.

At the end of the debate, Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, moved that the senate consider his resolution for a White House conference, which would have had the effect of displacing the tax bill. Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey, countered with a motion to lay the Copeland motion on the table, but that was voted down 41 to 25.

On the direct vote on the Copeland motion which followed, 19 Republicans joined with 27 Democrats and the one Farmer-Labor senator in support, and 7 Democrats joined with 49 Republicans in opposition.

'Y' FIELD MEN WILL BE AT COLLEGE

Henry P. Van Dusen, special traveling representative of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations, who is recognized as one of the best leaders in this kind of work in the South, is to spend three days at the Texas Technological College here the coming week in the interest of Christian work. It was announced here Saturday by Dr. W. T. Reed, professor of chemistry at the college, and one of the leaders in both Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. work. He will be accompanied by Harry Bone, Texas Y. M. C. A. secretary.

The two will appear before the student convocation Monday morning at 10 o'clock, and at 7:30 Monday evening will be honor guests at a banquet to be given by the student body at the cafeteria. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be spent here by the "Y" workers.

The college is planning to send representatives to the state conference that is to be held February 12, 13 and 14 at Austin. Eugene Jordan, president of the Y. M. C. A. and Winfield Nicholas have been selected as delegates to the conference, but others possibly may make the trip. Dr. Reed said.

Mr. Van Dusen is a graduate of Princeton University, where he finished with an A. B. degree in 1919. While in Princeton he was chairman of the undergraduate council; president of the Philadelphia Society, a Christian association; editor-in-chief of Princeton year book; member of the university debating team; valedictorian in Phi Beta Kappa, and a member of a movement for abolition of upper class sailing clubs led by Richard Cleveland, a son of former President Cleveland, in 1917.

He is a graduate secretary of Princeton University Christian Association; was a theological student at Edinburgh University one year; graduated from Union Theological Seminary with a B. D. degree in 1924; was president of the students' association there, and was student assistant to Henry Sloan Coffin, of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York from 1922 to 1924.

BIG MEETING FOR TUESDAY NIGHT PLANNED

The annual meeting and banquet to the Retail Merchants Association which will be held Tuesday night in the basement of the Leader Building at seven o'clock will be one of the biggest meetings the retailers have ever held, according to W. W. Royalty, chairman of the arrangements committee. An unusually large number of reservations for the banquet has already been made and others are expected to be made Monday and Tuesday.

The arrangements committee met late Friday afternoon and made final arrangements and completed the program for the evening, and everything is ready for the meeting, according to Royalty. Other members of the committee includes P. L. Sherrill, J. D. Hassell, Fred Owens, and L. A. Howard.

Letters are being received in response to invitations to the presidents and secretaries of associations in other South Plains towns, stating that representatives will be present. Stanton, Ralls, Crosbyton, Lockney, Brownfield, and Flatview have already signified their intention of being represented and a number of other associations will probably send in their reservations Monday.

Edgar H. Kemp, of San Antonio, field representative of the Retail Merchants Association will be present at the meeting and will give an address which will be of benefit to the local association.

The election of officers and other business will be transacted at this meeting and it is very important that every member of the association be present, according to J. W. Gamel, president of the association.

Henry Ford Is A Good Dancer Partner Claims

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Henry Ford is nothing short of "marvelous" as a dancer, in the opinion of Miss Margaret Allen, president of the National Stagewomen's Exchange, who has just returned from Detroit where she danced with him. She said today Mr. Ford was "grace itself," although Mr. Ford frowns on the Charleston, he can give the younger chicks cards and spades in the old-fashioned dances and beat them to frazzle," Miss Allen said. "He knows all of his steps perfectly. I know the old dances pretty well myself, but more than once Mr. Ford found me making little deviations from the correct form and laughingly pointed them out."

REPORTS MADE IN NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Making the public the volume of brokers' loans for the first time in the history of Wall Street, the New York Stock Exchange Saturday announced the borrowings of its members on stock and bond collateral at the end of January totalled $2,512,174,154.

peak of the bull market last November. Early in January private estimates placed total borrowings at $2,500,000, and the curtailed activity in the stock market has indicated a further reduction since that time. Numerous guesses ranging from $2,200,000,000, to $2,900,000,000 have appeared within the past several weeks, but few went beyond the $2,000,000,000 mark.

DRANK, DANCED AND SWORE KIN SAYS

BY VID LARSEN
NEA Service Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—The father of his country never suspected that his child would lose any sleep over its parents private life.

So George Washington was a drinker, a smoker, a dancer, a card player, and—on occasion—a most artistic cusser.

This is the picture given of him by his great-great-grandnephew, John Thornton Washington, of San Francisco, who draws on family records for the portrait.

The Empty Pew

"Of course Washington drank, smoked, danced and played cards," he says. "Why not? All gentlemen of his time did.

"And although he had a pew in Christ's church at Alexandria, it was unoccupied more often than it was occupied.

"He was a great man. Unquestionably he saved the republic.

"But Washington was no prude; he wasn't a stupid, stilted person. He was a human being. And he was a handsome man and undoubtedly many women cast sheep's eye at him during his life time, although its a lie that he wasn't a good husband.

"Why, I've drunk Maderia wine that came from the cellars of Mt. Vernon. That was in 1861, when I was visiting my grandfather's plantation in Virginia.

"One of the troubles with us Americans is that we insist on making sissies out of our national heroes. We want our national heroes to reflect in every detail our own personal views on life, religion, booze, philosophy, art, tobacco, Americanism, dancing and what not.

JOHN THORNTON WASHINGTON

George Washington may not have told a lie, but at least he certified that a false account was correct. The page shown above is a photostatic copy of a page in his personal accounts, now in the Omaha (Neb.) public library. The addition at the bottom is incorrect, ten dollars more than it should be. Note also the receipts for the sale of whisky, marked with an arrow. The error went unnoticed for years until a public accountant happened to scan the page. At the right is his kinsman, who vows that the first president was a "he-man," and below are some of the things he says Washington did.

TELLS OF ENJOYING MOUNT VERNON WINES

"And so, as the years roll on, we insist that Lincoln was this and Washington was that and that Grant never smoked and that Jefferson believed the Adam and Eve version of evolution.

"Take the cherry tree story about Washington. It's pure bunk, manufactured out of whole cloth by a preacher 30 years after Washington's death. My great-grandfather asked the gentleman why he told such a stupid story about Washington, and the gentleman replied that he did it to inculcate a respect for truth in the boys and girls of the land.

"What sort of morality is it that depends on lies?"

"Lots Of Fun"

John Washington is 80 years old, and has lived a life chock full of the "good living" which, he insists, was enjoyed by his famous kinsman. He was born in Virginia and came west in 1851, only to go back east again 10 years later to fight for the Confederacy. He returned to California after the war and has lived here ever since, working in the gold fields for a time and trying his hand at journalism.

"I live as I please to live," he says with a laugh. "I may not be as famous as George, but, by Jove, I'm having more fun than he did—although I'm sure he had a good time, at that."

CONTINUATION OF PUBLIC HEALTH WORK IN LUBBOCK CO. TO BE VOTED UPON MONDAY BY COMMISSIONERS

During the approximately eleven months that the public health department of Lubbock county has been in operation, much work of a nature that could be accomplished in no other manner has been carried on, it is revealed in the report of Miss Anna Bruckner, county public health nurse in a report that was submitted to the county commissioners' court at its session here Monday when the court voted on whether or not the work will be carried on the coming year.

The public health work was initiated into this county March 1, 1925, after three months of preliminary work carried on by Miss Edith Hodgson, and since that time Miss Bruckner has been in charge of the department.

In a comparative report carried recently in the Daily Journal in connection with the work in this county and that in the state, it was shown that Lubbock county has more than met her pro rata part of guarding against disease in infants, school children and adults.

28 Clinics Held. During the eleven months 28 baby clinics affecting infants and pre-school children have been held under Miss Bruckner's supervision. A total of 714 children were in attendance at these clinics when one or more doctors local to the city or community in which the clinics were held, if such were possible, were called in to assist. Physical examinations were given free, and parents were directed as to diet, physical condition, etc.

Every rural school in the county has been visited, some of them many times and on these visits a total of 3,212 children of school age were given physical examinations, weighed and measured, with suggestions as to how to overcome defects found being submitted to parents. From this number of children, 288 corrections are known to have been secured, with others that have not been heard from. Parents in many instances were visited personally by Miss Bruckner following examinations and were directed as to the best manner of procedure.

The Lubbock county public health committee, composed of ladies from various towns and communities throughout the county, are planning to appear before the commissioners with an appeal that the work be continued, and will point to the work accomplished as the best paying investment that the county could make. The public health committee of the county includes the following ladies: Mrs. C. E. Macdonald, Mrs. E. L. Banks, Mrs. A. H. Laidigh and Mrs. F. A. Normag of Lubbock; Mrs. Hardesty, of Slaton; Mrs. Corley and Mrs. Crump, of Shallowater; Mrs. Gill, of Woodrow; Mrs. Austin Vaughn, of County Line; Mrs. C. Z. Pine, of Posey; Mrs. Douglas Pounds and Mrs. Ed Griffin, of Acuff; Mrs. J. B. Potts and Mrs. J. J. Barham, of Canyon.

DAWES WILL KEEP UP FIGHT ON RULES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—Any doubts as to whether the recent action of the senate in cutting off debate on the world court would serve to still further Dawes' campaign for amendment of the senate rules were dispelled tonight by a pronouncement on the subject from Mr. Dawes.

Addressing the Manufacturers' Club at a dinner, the senate's presiding officer said recent events in that body make opportune the discussion of some immediate forward steps for rule changes "desperately needed in the public interest."

While declaring that he still favored a rule whereby a majority instead of two-thirds vote could cut off debate, Mr. Dawes said he was willing to support some plan "which may possibly invoke less determined opposition at present than does the proposition of full majority cloture."

YOAKUM COUNTY JOINS RANKS OF GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS AND WILL VOTE ON HARDSURFACING BONDS

Yoakum county has joined the ranks of good roads boosters in West Texas, and plans are now under way for calling an election to vote bonds with which to lay a hard surface highway through the county, according to a report brought to the office of Division Engineer Geo. A. Field of the State Highway Department, here, by county R. P. Morland and County Commissioner Dean, of the County Court.

No definite date has yet been set for the election, but it will be called in the very near future, Judge Morland said. The election will call for an issue of county bonds in the amount of $100,000, and application will be filed for state aid to bring the amount available for expenditure to $200,000.

The highway to be surfaced under the contemplated program will be No. 54, east and west across the county, which connects with No. 53 from Lubbock to Brownfield, and the highway No. 54 leads from Brownfield through Plains, county seat of Yoakum county, to Roswell, New Mexico, and will connect up with the hard surface program that is now being finished up on this highway in New Mexico.

To Use Caliche. Caliche, which will be used on Lubbock county's program, will also be used in Yoakum according to present plans. The material is to be found in abundant quantities near the location of the highway.

Lubbock county's hard surface program will cover highway No. 53 to the county line in the direction of Brownfield, and although no information is at hand in connection with what officials of Terry county have in mind regarding a similar program to connect up the route, it is believed that Terry will soon join in the program to finish up a connected string of hard surface highway from Lubbock to Roswell.

Dickens Work Finished. Reports brought here from Dickens county Monday say that the strip of highway from Dickens, county seat, to the Crosbyton county line has been finished and that work is fast being completed on a project north of Dickens to the Motley county line. These are both hard surface programs, with clay and gravel being used.

Crosby county is now beginning to talk hard surface roads, and officials say that in the near future an election will be called there to link up highway No. 53 from the Lubbock county line to Dickens county, that would open up a hard surface, with only an occasional strip, from Roswell to Fort Worth. King county is completing work on a standard dirt construction road east and west across the county linking up the hard surface highways that will cut off a considerable distance between Lubbock and Fort Worth.

R. D. Shaw, Plains Pioneer, Dies at Lamesa. R. D. (Farmer) Shaw, pioneer citizen of the Plains section, who for several years lived near Abernathy, died Monday morning about 5 o'clock at Lamesa while enroute here from San Antonio, according to messages received by friends of the family here this morning. Heart failure was given as the cause of his death.

Mr. Shaw had been in ill health for some time, friends here said, and had moved with his wife to San Antonio on this account. His son, Bob, who lives in Lubbock, was called to San Antonio several days ago to bring his father back here for medical attention, but failed to reach LUBBOCK before his father died. Deceased is a brother of Smith Shaw, pioneer South Plains citizen.

Reported actions of air officers in furnishing congressmen with prepared statements intended for distribution through their offices at the capital and supporting other legislative proposals for alterations of the president's air service also being carefully inquired into by the investigators.

It is well understood by all army officers that President Coolidge concurs in the conclusions of his air board, which recommend against the separate air service advocated by Mitchell and proposed instead that air personnel be placed under a special assistant secretary of war and remain an integral part of the army.

Want Separate Corps
Nevertheless, General Patrick apparently before a house committee and renewed advocacy of a separate corps. A bill embodying his recommendations was introduced immediately afterward and now is before the house.

One of the anonymous circulars now in Secretary Davis' possession, and represented as having been distributed from air service headquarters, declares there must be more "educational work" in congress, and urges recipients of the circulars to "get busy" with senators and representatives in the interest of a separate air corps.

War department officials are considering this language in the light of the declaration of President Coolidge, when he approved the Mitchell court martial findings.

"The theory of government," said the president, "implies that every official so far as possible should support himself with respect toward his superiors. This is especially true of those in the military service. Unless this rule is applied there can be no discipline in the army and navy, without which these two forces would not only be without value as a means of defense, but would become actually a menace to society. Discipline is the whole basis of military training."

CONTINUANCE OF HEALTH WORK IS UP BEFORE COURT

The commissioners' court of Lubbock county went into regular session here Monday morning, and were to have voted on whether or not the public health department of the county government would be continued, but did not reach this question in the proceedings at 2:30 p. m.

The morning session was consumed by approval of bills submitted and if other more or less routine matters. It was the belief of those in close touch with the question of public health work that continuance would be voted, according to a preliminary poll, only one commissioner is known to have voiced opposition to continuance of the work at county expense.

Miss Kathryn Hazquist, state advisory nurse from the state health department, was here and appeared before the court with a plea that the work be continued, and she was exceptionally optimistic over the outlook. Miss Hazquist has been instrumental in having this work added in four or five counties surrounding Lubbock recently.

Police Search For Kansas City Priest

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 8 (AP)—Police today were searching for the Rev. Francis E. Hagedorn, an assistant pastor of the Immaculate Conception Cathedral here, who has been missing since Saturday night.

Father Hagedorn left the cathedral rectory about 7 o'clock Saturday evening to make a sick call. Police have been unable to get a definite trace of him since. His prayer books, empty billfold and leather case for holy oils, were found yesterday in an alley five blocks from the cathedral. A theory that he was robbed and murdered has been advanced by police.

RIZES IN MORE FEED CAMPAIGN HELD LAST YEAR ANNOUNCED IN BOTH ADULT AND BOYS CLUB DEPARTMENTS OF THE CONTEST

The farmer of this county, or any other county who would be successful, must diversify, rotate his crops to properly conserve his soil, raise plenty livestock and poultry, and live within his means, Col. O. L. Slaton, president of the First National bank of this city told a gathering of farmers and business men from over the county at a luncheon held here Monday when awards were announced in the "More Feed" campaign that was carried on here last year through the county farm agent, the Farm Bureau and various Chambers of Commerce in the county.

Mr. Slaton praised the work being done by the farm agent and home demonstration agent in this county, saying that the county would be in a bad fix if it were not for them. They have made special study of the problems of the farmer, know the situation, and are willing to do anything in their power to aid, he said.

Urges Intensive Cultivation.
One of the greatest mistakes that the farmer makes is his attempt to cultivate too much acreage. Mr. Slaton said in urging that acreage be cut down to where intensive cultivation will be possible. The farmer, he said, should conduct his business in a manner that he will not have to borrow money from the banks, and this can be accomplished through intensive cultivation. This is not from the fact that the banks do not want to loan money to farmers, but that they may save this interest and put it into something that will be more profitable to them, he said.

He outlined three classifications of farmers as: 1—the farmer who owns his home, lives to a great extent from the soil, loves his work and makes a business out of it. This is the class of man that any country wants, he said.

2—The man who farms because it is the only thing he knows and tries to use the farm as a stepping stone to something else. He doesn't know anything about farming and admits that he doesn't like it as a profession.

3—The man who farms for one purpose only, and that purpose is to gain credit. This kind of a man is a curse to any country, and has a bad effect on others who want to do well, he said, in expressing a desire that every one of these leave.

Don't Need Legislation.

The great need of the farmer today, he said, is not legislation, but a willingness to try to do something for himself—use his head to the best of his ability in diversifying his crops, raising the most of his food at home and tending to his own business. No one can raise all cotton and buy feed credit. This kind of a man is urging farmers to diversify, intensify, rotate their crops and raise plenty of cows, hogs and chickens.

Cal. C. French, of the Fort Worth Stockyards company, who is originator of baby beef clubs and similar organizations, and an authority on raising of hogs, addressed the gathering in hog raising, which he claimed could be a great measure being relief to the farmer.

He pointed to the fact that there were only about 4,000 hogs raised in this county last year, when there should be 35,000 to 40,000.

Club Boys Talk.

Two or three club boys of the county, who have been outstanding in the work last year, made short talks preceding that of Mr. Slaton, including J. J. Thornton, Lubbock county club boy who was awarded the trip to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago by the Santa Fe railroad. Young Thornton recounted his record briefly, and told of his trip to Chicago with 21 other Texas boys from other parts of the state who won the trip.

Prizes to farmers who won in the "More Feed" campaign were announced as follows:

Milo Maize. First, C. C. Thornton, of Posey, who incidentally is the father of the club boy who went to Chicago, production of 54,640 pounds, $125; second, B. W. Story of Monroe; sixth, Woodrow Pugh, of Canyon and Keyser Dawson, of New Hope, tied with production of 4,500 pounds, $10.

Between 80 and 90 farmers and business men attended the meeting. The luncheon was served by club women of the county for the Farm Bureau. Delegations of business men from Slaton, Idalou, Shallowater, Abernathy and Lubbock were in attendance. The directors of the Board of City Development of this city were present in a body.

Must Die

One thousand Kentucky militiamen, with five tanks, three field pieces and 37 machine guns, have been ordered to duty at Lexington, Ky., when Edward Harris, above goes on trial for killing Mrs. Mary Bryant, her husband and their two children. Business places will be closed, interurbans and buses will not carry passengers into the city and all persons will be kept away from the neighborhood of the courthouse. Convicts at the state prison, where Jones has been kept for safety, have tried without success to lynch him.

Her utterances represent exactly the thought of all Italians, no opposition existing on this ground. "The territory as far as Brennero is doubly sacred because it was conquered through sacrifices of blood and because it is the strategic bulwark of the North-ern frontier."

Texas Pie King Is Dead In Dallas; He Owned 9 Pie Shops

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Simon Hubig, master pie maker, died here today, aged 66. Known throughout the south-west as "Simon the Pie-man," Hubig was the owner of nine pie factories in Texas, New Orleans and Cincinnati. He formerly was president of the International Association of Master Bakers of the United States and Canada. Retiring in 1912 as one of the largest bakers in the country, he started the pie business at Camp Bowie, when the soldiers were there during the World War. From this his business grew to an extensive chain.

When Simon was a baby, his father died, and his mother became a clerk in a bakery in France, and this is where he started the bakery business.

Clouds of War Menace Europe

Mussolini's Attack Made On Germany Causes Worry In European Nations
(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Feb. 8.—There is much perturbation and no little ill feeling in Germany over the speech delivered Sunday in the Chamber of Deputies in Rome by Premier Mussolini with regard to an anti-Italian campaign by Germans in the Upper Alps. Although the German government has made no reply, pending receipt of the text of speech, the utterances of Mussolini are considered the strongest used by any statesman since the war toward a country with which his country is at peace.

Particular attention is being paid to Mussolini's threat after characterizing the alleged German-Italian campaign as "retardatory, ridiculous and lying," that "sometimes it is necessary to pay with two eyes for the loss of one and with a whole set of teeth for the loss of one tooth."

Makes Veiled Threat.
His remark that "fascist Italy, can if necessary, carry further beyond its tri-color, but never lower it" is regarded in some quarters as a direct threat that the Italians may move further into Austrian territory at "such a step be considered necessary."

Mussolini at the time was referring to the Italian position at the Brenner Pass, which is on the Austro-Italian frontier, and is the shortest route from central Germany into Italy.

The perturbation here has been increased by the receipt of comment from the Italian newspapers, some of which assert that Mussolini's words were almost equivalent to a declaration of war against Germany.

A move to recall the Italian ambassador is interpreted locally as an expression of Italy's distrust of Germany and Mussolini's challenge is viewed as an insidious omen for Germany's entry into the league of nations.

FRANCE IS TO BE GERMANIZED IS NEW THOUGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8 (AP)—France eventually must become Germanized in fact, if not in theory, in the opinion of Dr. R. H. True, professor of botany, University of Pennsylvania. This conclusion is based upon a study of the history of agriculture and populations from the earliest records to the present day, a subject of which he has made a special study.

"I can't see what is going to save France from German agricultural penetration," Dr. True said. "History, as I interpret it, revolves about the problem of food supply, and that is primarily a land question. Politics is the institution through which land affects nations through their rulers."

"The Germans always have been ardent populators. From the earliest times they have been boiling over their boundaries. Julius Caesar caught them raiding the Gauls. Not many years ago the German tribes again raided the Gauls through Belgium. The population through which land affects nations through their rulers."

France, with a stable population, Dr. True asserted, faced by land hungry Germany possessing a highly developed knowledge of modern agricultural methods, is bound to yield part of her acreage.

"Italy, too, is faced with the need for more farming land," he added. "That is what is the trouble with Mussolini."

"Japan, also, is up against food difficulty. Birth control does not operate in Japan and her population is picking up. What can the Japanese do but hunt unoccupied lands or starve."
