If Miracles Can Still Happen Al Smith May Be Stopped At Houston Convention

Dry Plan Battle to Bitter End But It Looks Hopeless

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

HOUSTON, June 23.—If Governor Alfred E. Smith as denied the Democratic nomination he will be the victim of one of the greatest surprises in political history.

There will be a few who can correctly say that told us so; but most of them will really be quite astonished as the vast majority of politicians and political writers who now believe there is no stopping him.

Yet there is strong opposition facing Smith and more bitter than "strong." In these last few weeks it has stiffened desperately and it hopes to break Tammany's heart with the two-thirds rule, without which, of course, it wouldn't have a chance in the world.

When one considers the character and extraordinary power of the principal elements in the opposition group the fact that Smith's victory is so widely conceded seems all the more remarkable. For the die-hard enemies of the New York governor include:

1. The Anti-Saloon League and all the organized drys.
2. The Ku Klux Klan and all the anti-Catholics.
3. The radical purists of the Democratic party who were brought on by Bryan and Wilson and consider Tammany impossible as a source of leadership.
4. The dry southern democracy.
5. The other candidates.

The drys, of course, are the backbone of the anti-Smith fight. They will supply the "dry" vote to many who dislike Smith most for his religion.

They have distributed millions of pieces of anti-Smith literature and are prepared to distribute millions more if this outstanding wet is nominated. The Democratic party will be making a really bold stroke if it nominates him. For it is far from customary for politicians to defy the Anti-Saloon League. The cause may almost be considered as "lighting with its back to the wall;" some of its leaders have long foreseen the dangerous possibility of a "strong" eastern wet leader who might wish to unite the more or less wet with the dry Democratic vote and win the election with a few additional electoral votes in the west.

A terrific battle ahead. The current battle, however, is still compared to that in which the league will seek to help the Republican candidate beat Smith. Already here are Democratic leaders who

WALSH NOT TO COME

Former Idaho Favorite Son To Stay At Home

HELENA, Mont., June 23.—(AP)—United States Senator T. J. Walsh, chairman of the 1924 National convention, a candidate for the party's presidential nomination until a few weeks ago will not be present at tonight Senator Walsh, who was named by J. Bruce Kremer, national committee man, to head the Montana delegation and to whom Senator Smith cannot be nominated, reached here tonight from Washington and will spend the summer in Montana.

POMERENE NOT COMING

Dio's "Favorite Son" To Stay At Home

CLEVELAND, June 23.—(AP)—Former Senator Alice Pomerene, Dio's "Favorite Son" in the democratic national presidential race, will not attend the Houston convention, he said today, and neither will he have any spokesman on the convention floor.

"The delegates will speak for themselves," said the man to whom Dio's 47 votes are pledged on the first ballot.

Attorney Joseph C. Breitenstein, Cleveland, who will nominate the government's Teapot Dome prosecutor, said that the former senator would not withdraw before the first ballot.

OTIS BATES HURT

Nu-Grape Employee Injured At Littlefield

Otis Bates, with the Nu-Grape bottling company, 2413 Main, was hurt in a truck accident near Littlefield Saturday around noon. Extent of his injuries was not known at the plant here. His wife and friends went to the scene of the accident.

They Lead "Bitter End" Fight On Smith

Here are some of the outstanding leaders in the fight against Gov. Al Smith. At the top, right, is the best known and most bitter of the lot—Sen. Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama. Besides him is Dr. Ernest Cerrington, executive secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism; below Dr. Cerrington is Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, and below him is Sen. Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina. At the right, below, is F. Scott McBride, head of the Anti-Saloon League. The shadowy picture between McBride and Heflin? William G. McAdoe, who fought with Smith for 103 ballots at Madison Square Garden in 1924, and is lending his support to the Anti-Smith forces this year.

Marine Flier Is Dashed To Death

Service Loses Oldest And Most Colorful Aviator As Nicaragua Bound Airplane Falls.

(By Associated Press)
FILE, Va., June 23.—The Marine Corps lost today its oldest and most colorful aviator in the death of Major Charles A. Lutz, when the giant tri-motored Fokker transport plane he was piloting to Nicaragua, crashed here, killing him and two of his crew and injuring the third. Major Lutz and Lieut. Howard C. Busbey, of Washington, relief pilot, were killed instantly. Corporal D. C. McChesney, of Detroit, Mich., aviation mechanic, died of his injuries.

Corporal Reeder Nichols of Florence, Ala., radio operator, was seriously injured.

After little more than an hour's flight from the starting place, the naval air station at Anacostia, D. C., the larger plane passed over File and then returned shortly circling the town apparently to seek a place to land. Coming down close to earth, the craft struck the ground with a wing on a turn into a ditch and somersaulted several times before settling down, a complete wreck.

Major Lutz who was 47 years old, had recently been in command of the air forces at Quantico.

Stage Driver of Thirty Years Ago Tells of Transformation Here

In 1898, Lubbock Boasted Only Two Stores, Says Former Stage Pilot

A. L. Carlisle, who drove the stage out of Lubbock to Grassland, 40 miles to the south, some thirty years ago, returned to the city yesterday for his first time in 28 years to be fully dunned by the transformation here from the dreary, uninhabited prairie of 1898 to the bustling, populous and prosperous South Plains of 1928.

Along the prairie where in 1898 Carlisle whipped his team of sleepy mules over the lonesome route, today he saw fertile farms, bustling towns and rich communities. Instead of the two houses which formerly broke the long drive to the "end of the stage," today there are literally thousands of new farm homes dotting the "expanse of fertile land."

"You wouldn't have recognized Lubbock," he said. There were only two stores around the square—one of them being operated by J. D. Caldwell and the other being combined with the postoffice.

The "stage" generally made the eighty-mile round trip in a single day, though sometimes it was necessary to drive far into the night.

"Stage hold-ups are confined almost entirely to the novels and the movies," he said. "I was never held up. Neither were there any painted Indians lurking in ambush to rob us."

There were plenty of antelope on the Plains at that time but no wild buffalo, he said. Coyotes were thick as prairie dogs are today.

Though Mr. Carlisle lives at Bronco now, he still favors the Plains.

"I said it when I drove my stage each day over this then uninhabited prairie and I say it now: Lubbock county is just about the best in the state."

Prohibition Is Storm Center Of Platform Makers

Supersedes All Other Issues, With Ultra-Drys Clamoring For Specific Mention Of Volstead Act.

FARM RELIEF ALSO WILL GIVE TROUBLE

Planks Against Corruption And Graft Expected To Be Strongly Imbedded In Demo Politics.

By JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, June 23.—Prohibition has superseded all other issues in the discussion and arguments pending the opening of the Democratic national convention Tuesday and it may furnish the basis for a real fight in the platform-making committee if not in the convention itself.

Thus the ultra drys, who are violently opposed to the nomination of Gov. Smith, momentarily at least, have taken the ball away from the party leaders, who had planned to concentrate public attention on allegations of corruption in government and in politics, farm relief, tariff revision and other issues which they regard as the weak spots in the Republican armor.

Just how far the ultra drys can carry their fight in the convention remains for future determination, but the stressing of this issue at this time has been deprecated by a number of the leaders, some of whom are opposed to Smith, and who take the view that the Democratic party must go to the country not on a single issue, but on a series of covering planks of the hour.

Want Strong Plank

The drys want a plank stronger than that adopted by the Republicans at Kansas City last week and there have been suggestions that some of them say demand a full endorsement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act with a declaration against either repeal or modification. Such a demand would meet with estimated opposition from not only the Smith, Dan Moody, Texas' youthful and dynamic governor, is looked to by

Believe Mail Sacks On The Leviathan Pilfered

(By Associated Press)
SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 23.—A loss from the mails of negotiable paper and money amounting perhaps to $500,000 was revealed today when registered parcels carried by the Leviathan from the United States were opened. The Leviathan arrived here yesterday.

Scotland Yard, the detective branch of the general post office, and insurance investigators have been working on the case for 24 hours.

It was indicated, however, that there is a strong belief in British detective circles that the robbery took place in the United States before the mail bags were loaded on the ship. This is based on the fact that seals on the registered packages were intact and that the bags in which these packages were contained were also under seal when the steamer was unloaded here.

NAME PUBLICITY MAN

Former Kansas Governor Is GOP Director

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—Secretary Work, chairman of the republican national committee, and a group of party leaders engaged in a lengthy conference today to select heads for the campaign organization but only made one choice—that of Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas and publisher of the Wichita Beacon, to be the Hoover-Curtis campaign publicity director.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire and former Representative James W. Good of Iowa, manager of the Hoover pre-convention campaign, were under discussion as possible eastern and western division publicity managers, respectively.

Heflin Sees 'Revolution'

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 23.—(AP)—Senator J. Thomas Heflin predicted here today that if Governor Smith of New York wins, the democratic nomination for president that there would be a reorganization of the party in the south.

LUBBOCK DELEGATE LEAVING TODAY

Lubbock's lone delegate to the democratic convention, who is one of the twenty-six holding Texas uninstructed votes—James H. Goodman, is leaving early this morning by automobile for Houston. Last night he refused to divulge his personal preference for president, making the sole comment that he was pledged to support a dry candidate.

Mr. Goodman is to be accompanied by his wife and he expects to arrive in time for the first state caucus, called for 10 o'clock Monday morning at the headquarters hotel, the Lamar.

Other than Mr. Goodman, Dr. W. A. Jackson, Tom Garrard, and Marvin Wallack are to attend the convention from Lubbock, as spectators. Mr. McSpadden of Brownfield and R. R. Travis of Rails are likewise going from this section.

Surratt To Speak On City Planning Wednesday Night

Every Citizen Invited To Hear Dallas Expert In Pointing Out Benefits Of Systematic Scheme.

Everyone interested in the city's welfare should be at the district courtroom on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to hear John E. Surratt, of Dallas, secretary of the Kessler Plan association, as he explains and exhibits the benefits derived from the adoption of city planning, officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce urged yesterday as they made preparations for Surratt's visit here.

Featuring his appearance in Lubbock will be the stereotypical lecture on Wednesday night, in which he will show scenes of Dallas where bad situations were relieved, how narrow streets were widened, how unsightly businesses removed from residence sections and how other problems were remedied. Scenes of bare situations and good features of the Lubbock plan will also be shown by Mr. Surratt.

At noon on Wednesday, Mr. Surratt will appear in a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at the Lubbock hotel. The meeting will count on the attendance of Surratt.

RELEASE EXCHANGE

Judge Releases Injunction On Cotton

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Lydon today released the New York Cotton Exchange from an order restraining tender or delivery of ineligible cotton contained in an order, signed Monday, calling upon the exchange and two member firms to "show cause why they should not be restrained from tendering or delivering cotton in violation of contract."

Justice Lydon decided that the restraining order, obtained by L. N. Omond, calling upon the exchange and Anderson, Claxton & Co. and George H. McFadden & Brother, was not justified and eliminated it from the order to show cause.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 23.—The Postal Telegraph company here received a report about 10 o'clock tonight from a line man at Forest City, Ark., that White river had broken through Peach Orchard levee at two places. And that sections of Jackson Bayou levee were crumbling. The report said water was rapidly inundating farm lands near the breaks, but that no lives had been lost. Several hundred men working on the dikes when they gave way fled to safety, the company learned.

TROOPS IN PURSUIT

Kidnapers of American Miners Chased

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—Federal troops have been ordered to pursue a bandit party which kidnaped W. M. Mitchell and John P. Hooper, American mining men in the state of Jalisco, and are holding them for ransom under threat of death.

The bandits, said to number 150, also raided several towns and ranches, drove off cattle and captured several Mexican workers who later were released.

Federal dispatches say the bandits demanded 3000 pesos (approximately $1500) for the release of each of the captives, while the American embassy has received advices from private sources that 18,000 pesos (approximately $9000) have been demanded for both.

GRAFT MAIN ISSUE

Georgia Will Support Candidate

HOUSTON, June 23.—(AP)—Georgia will stand to the end behind the standard bearer selected here next week by the democratic national convention, Senator George of that state declared today in a formal statement in which he said fraud in elections and graft and corruption in office was the issue of "supreme importance."

WALKER LEAVES

Vanguard of New Yorkers Off For Convention

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, who will be floor leader of Governor Smith's forces at the Democratic convention, almost missed his train today as the vanguard of the New York delegation left for Houston. The Mayor had stepped from his private car to the station platform to give photographers a last shot at him when the train started. He was rushed through the crowd by a policeman and boarded the train with a jump.

The bulk of New York City's delegates departed this afternoon.

Watts Gunn Bests Carlton To Win Southern Golf Title

Babe Ruth's Two Homers Are Wasted As Yanks Drop Double Bill to Red Sox

Inspired By Wire From Bobby Jones, He Sweeps Match

Texas' Hope for Crown in Dallas Tournament Loses Seven Up and Six to Play; Carlton Wild.

(By Associated Press) BROOK HOLLOW GOLF CLUB, Dallas, June 23.—Watts Gunn, young golfer from Atlanta, Ga., was crowned amateur champion of the South today when he defeated Ossie Carlton of Houston, Texas, seven up and six to play in the 36 hole final round.

Gunn's golf stood out from the moment he stepped to the first tee on his first practice round over this beautiful but difficult course. His form and his general effectiveness with woods, iron and putter marked him as a man the others would have to learn.

Receives Two Cups. In addition to his new title of Southern Amateur champion, Gunn received the two cups emblematic of his victory. He dashed away to a train for New York in pursuit of new laurels—the National Amateur championship.

At the start of the final round, he was effective with his putter, and the contest started as an up and down, ding dong affair not nearly so dramatic as the Gunn parade into Dallas which developed this afternoon.

After they got away in par figures, the first time either had neglected a difficult first hole in fewer than three strokes, one over par, in their second hole over the course.

Carlton supporters, and they were legion in the huge gallery that gathered breathlessly on each shot, had heart then when the South-ron, several times a state champion, took the next two holes.

Ossie Got Wild. Their happiness was short lived, however, because immediately Ossie began banging the ball about wherever except on line the green and ran a stroke over par in the next two holes, which went to Gunn in par figures.

Gunn took the lead at the sixth green, never to be headed and to go on to the end of the forenoon round for a three up advantage.

Coming back in the afternoon, Carlton and Gunn went back to having trouble on Number 1, then the next nine, but Ossie had the best and Watts got a three up advantage with a five-six victory.

Seis Par Pace. Gunn began playing golf in dead earnest then, anxiously keeping the time as he was due to finish that New York train, but nevertheless setting a par golf pace which soon had the Houston man floundering badly.

Nine straight holes the little Atlanta reeled off in par figures, of his lead crept up to the final score, seven and six.

In the afternoon round Gunn ever lost a hole, halving seven of nine holes played and winning the par five.

For the first time since the tournament opened last Tuesday, terrific wind was not blowing this morning, and the golfers had perfect weather for the final round.

Makes Best Score. Gunn's third nine was negotiated in 36, one over par, the best score of the tournament. Earlier he had 39 over it, and he finished the ultimate eighteen in 77, seven over par. Carlton had 80 for the morning 18, and on the start this afternoon had a 41 for nine holes.

Gunn played this afternoon with an inspiration of a telegram from Bobby Jones, O. B. Keeler and other champions, and all the time the real fight the capable of doing.

(Red) May and I. Gunn yesterday afternoon, and people frantically hunting last-minute bargains. Women in the grocery stores, hesitate between spinach and asparagus for the Sunday menu, they would choose asparagus. John doesn't like it.

Negro bootblacks sit outside a shop and seem to enjoy life. It is very little to make them giggle, and so they are always in good humor. Perhaps many of us could get more out of living if we could acquire the "bootblack" viewpoint.

Men in sweltering clothes mutter imprecations at the custom which forces them to keep on their coats in tropical weather. Here is one instance in which they would accept "the single standard" without demur.

Two girls go down the street, arm-in-arm and giggling. A flaming sign in a shop window claims their attention for a moment, then they see a man with a colleague and they stily resume their giggle, still giggling.

The Nut Cracker By Joe Williams

Judging by the attendance at the recent Emanuel-McTigue bout, the fever heat of the New York fans for boxers has considerably cooled.

By the time Prof. Tunney and the Big Fellow From Down Under get ready to do their act, it may be changed into a chill.

Tunney should have declared a day off and gone to the garden to see the lead from the coast and Grand Father McTigue. In the solitude and emptiness of the garden he could have found sweet peace.

The horrible suspicion begins to dawn that even the toughened contestants aren't in condition to stand such grueling contests as these.

The current crop of mitt slingers such as Kid Lewis, Jack Britton, Bat Levinsky and a couple of other patriarchs are abandoning their comfy rockers on the porches of sundry old gentlemen's homes and returning to what is jovially called the prize ring.

Tom Sharkey and Jim de Jeff haven't been heard from, but indirect rumor hath it they are taking short walks daily without their crutches, and a return bout may be arranged. It could be whopped up jilly well as a push ball contest or potato race or something.

There's a serious thought. Before this is all over New York promoters may be staging just the kind of potato race by which we sardonically mean racing for their own potatoes, and racing how!

Goose Goslin Out In Front In A. L. Slugging Parade

George Herman Ruth, Himself, Drops to 15th Place While Lou Gehrig Is Second and Kress to 4th.

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, June 23.—The "Goose" still hangs high in the American League's individual batting mara, though with the race more than one-third over, Leon "Goose" Goslin, veteran Washington outfielder, was far in front of his slugging rivals with the dizzy average of .426, which is 12 points higher than the high mark of Rogers Hornsby, in the Heydler circuit.

Goslin skied his average 11 points during the tenth week of play, unofficial averages, including Wednesday's games, disclosed today. He was at bat 23 times during which he bagged seven singles and four doubles. His closest rival, who persists in adding several points to his average each week, was "Columbus Lou" Gehrig of the Yankees who added seven points during the tenth week and went from sixth to second place with a mark of .366.

Four Yankees remain in the circle of the ten leading batsmen, although Babe Ruth has dropped to fifteenth. The leaders: Goslin, Washington, .426; Gehrig, New York, .366; Lazzeri, New York, .354; Kress, St. Louis, .353; Fothergill, Detroit, .349; Reeves, Washington, .346; Dugan, New York, .343; Manush, St. Louis, .342; Durst, New York, .342; and E. Miller, Philadelphia, .335.

Wrote Hoyt, of the Yankees took leadership in pitching honors ousting his teammate, George Piggas, who is second, Hoyt hurled his ninth victory during the tenth week and now has a season's record of nine wins and one defeat. Piggas dropped one and won one, bringing his average to 12 won and 2 lost.

The Yankees still retain a wide margin in team batting although they dropped a percentage point. Their average is .314, while Washington is second with .289, a four point gain over last week.

Team fielding during the tenth week was miserable, the only bright spot being flashed by Cleveland. The Indians turned in 11 double plays, hoisting their season's high record to 76.

Boston retained leadership in team fielding, however, with a .975 mark, while St. Louis pushed Philadelphia from second with an average of .914.

Lon Chaney's "Laugh Clown, Laugh" is said to be his best picture, with an abundance of pathos sprinkled through an interesting circus story.

Teams Retrench For Final Spurt In League Battle

Only One Cloud—Abilene Row—Appears to Cast Shadow Over Prospects of Successful Season.

With practically every team in the league retrenching for the second half grind in the West Texas league, all indications point to a much better brand of ball for the circuit in the last part of the season.

Only one cloud appears on the horizon of what may well be a successful first year for the circuit. Texas' newest baseball loop, that is the row which has been precipitated by President J. McAllister Stevenson in the suspension, first of the Abilene and San Angelo franchises, and later of the entire Abilene team.

Abilene fought gallantly in the final games of the first half and won the first part of the league's schedule winning twelve successive games nine of them from the Hubbers, and three from Bob Couchman's Bobcats.

Snappers Battled Gamedly. San Angelo battled furiously, turning aside both Midland and Hamlin in taking a majority of the last six series of games played at the Concho park and went into second place.

Working under a handicap of crippled players, and placing what he could in the positions vacated through the injuries, Bennie Brown, the low's Hubbers encountered a serious slump that dragged the Hubbers from top rung to fourth place in the circuit.

Starting in with the pitching of the club Brownlow applied the axe to the local hurling staff, releasing Mark (Lefty) Maxwell and Alex

The regular week-end trapshooting of the Lubbock Gun Club will be held this afternoon immediately after the Lubbock-Midland ball game.

H. Earl Jones, who won the watch shoot last Sunday, will be ready to defend all comers in this afternoon's tourney.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION. New Orleans 5-2, Memphis 6-0. Chattanooga 1-8, Birmingham 15-4. Nashville 3, Atlanta 10. Mobile 1, Little Rock 4.

PALESTINE, June 23 (AP).—Palestine defeated Tyler 5 to 4 here today in a hard fought game featured by heavy hitting.

Orr. They were replaced by Bill Gregory, dimwit left hander from Southland who checked the drives of Abilene in the last game of the first half and the Colts in the opening game of the final half. Vincent Goddard, another portender replaced Orr on the staff.

Goddard came to Lubbock early last week from Palestine of the Texas Association.

Other clubs, five of them, Abilene, San Angelo, Coleman, Hamlin, and Midland, like the Hubbers, are making changes in their machines to put over a winning combination that will battle for the league supremacy of the last half.

Convention Hall Brings Praise

Vast, Gay and Graceful, Coliseum Rises Majestically From Gardened Setting

BY KIRK L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
 HOUSTON, June 23. (AP)—Vast and gay and graceful in its garden setting, Houston's convention hall, risen as by magic almost overnight, awaits the hordes of the national democracy to meet the Hoover challenge of republican opponents.

It's a mighty structure the people of Houston have raised for their guests. Immaculate in its paint and burning open to every breeze, resident with the brazen, pungent odor of the forest of new-cut Mississippi pine that went into its making, it is more like a seaside pleasure palace, dedicated to mirth and music, than a hall designed and built with an eye single to the prosaic, practical business of politics. And it's a far cry indeed from dingy, dilapidated old Madison Square Garden, now itself but a memory where the democrats last sat down together to ballot endlessly on a party presidential nominee.

Made To Order.
 Yet into the making of Houston's amazing political pavilion, soon to be dedicated to the surge of that old states' tune about "The Sidewalks of New York," that roared the country four years ago, has gone all that the years have taught as to the mechanical problems of convention holding. It is a building made to order for the purpose, a political city under one sharp roof.

The thing is so vast, so clear of obstructions to the view, so stunning in the diamond graining of timber cobwebbery that seems to leave the triple-sweep of rounded roof domes floating in air in defiance of every known law of nature, that it beggars description. Just a day ago, it seems, a huddle of tumble-down shacks occupied the ground. Now the wide-flung reaches of this gay, alluring wind-swept hall set with its mirrored entanglements to meet the attack of new crumblers, stands in landscaped living gardens amid gravelled paths, its windows graced with endless rows of bright hued blossoms that come and go with the hours, changing the color scheme by nature's dictum.

FINISH COURTHOUSE

$440,000 Tom Green County Structure Completed

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)
 SAN ANGELO, June 23.—Moving day is about to dawn for the official family of Tom Green county, and the move will be a welcomed one. The $440,000 Tom Green county court house is being given its final touches, and County Judge J. T. Mathison and the members of the commissioners court will make final inspection of the construction work tomorrow, when the building will be delivered to the court by the contractors.

Judge Mathison stated that the court house attaches had planned on remaining in their temporary office quarters until new furniture for the new court house has been received, but the attractiveness of the new building and the crowded condition of the temporary court house have combined to hasten plans for the move.

Construction is Rushed
 Construction-work on the huge structure has been completed six weeks ahead of schedule, and work of improving the grounds is already well advanced. Some of the large trees that were planted a number of years ago have been removed due to the fact that they obstructed view from the new building.

While some of the county officials will begin moving their office equipment into the new court house Monday, Judge Mathison stated that two or three days will be required for getting all of the offices moved. The temporary court house now in use was originally constructed for a garage building, and was used as temporary for the San Angelo National bank, while its eight story structure was being built.

South Plains Pipe Company Host For Huge Picnic Here

Two Hundred, From Over Region, Attend; Baseball Game Features; Announce Plan for Plant.

Lubbock as the hub of a vast agricultural section as the result of cheap irrigation power was pictured last night with the "Good Fellowship" meeting given by the South Plains Pipe Line company in honor of the West Texas company and other friends.

The keynote of the whole session was cooperation. Lubbock was pictured as the center of a huge network of pipe lines covering the entire South Plains, with the distributing point here. Gas distributed from this point to Midland and to the south attended the meeting yesterday afternoon and last night.

An elaborate program and feed followed with a ball, last night furnished amusement for the visitors. J. P. McClosky, general superintendent of the South Plains Pipe Line company, delivered the welcome address. He depicted the possibilities of the agricultural development of this section by means of cheap power for irrigation purposes, and showed the faith of his company in the country by the vast expenditures put forth here.

Approximately fifty permanent ditches have been brought to Lubbock by the company. Mr. McClosky said. An average payroll of $100 every 15 days is paid out in addition to what is paid the various contractors on the line, which averages around $25,000 that period of time. The pipe line company plans to build an enormous plant here in the near future at the cost of from $750,000 to $1,000,000 according to the speaker.

Horn Speaks
Paul W. Horn, president of the Tech, stated at the gathering last night that the agricultural development of Tech was cooperating with the pipe line companies—experimental farm, and that many important projects were expected to be worked out. He predicted that the South Plains could be made into a section as fertile and rich as the Santa Fe, Texas, California, or Florida by means of the abundant water supply and cheap power.

The grounds of the camp were decorated with flags, pennants, and Japanese lanterns. The celebration started yesterday afternoon with a baseball game between the Santa Fe team, of Slaton, and the Amarillo, with the Santa Fe team winning 5 to 4.

Refreshments were served about 7:30 o'clock to about 200. Orchestra music was furnished during the meal.

After the opening address by Mr. McClosky, H. S. Brown, led in several popular songs. Response to the welcome address was given by W. W. Groves, after which Mr. Brown sang a solo.

One of the outstanding features of the program was an accordion solo by Miss Willet Waters. The baseball trophy, in the form of a cracked pitcher, was presented to the losing ball club of the day by Miss Gladys William gave a reading, which was followed by a piano solo, by J. C. Norwood. An impressive spot light flag service and a picture show followed with the ball culminating the day's activities.

A number of prominent local men spoke at the session and commended the pipe line company on its work in Lubbock.

MR. HOME BUILDER OR INVESTOR

Lubbock is fast developing into its place in the sun. It is destined to be THE CITY of the West—watch it.

Our crop conditions, location, distribution facilities, Tech College, farm area, all insure its future.

In Lubbock, the development is going South-west. Drive out that direction and look at the many new and beautiful homes—it will mean a "lot."

We point with satisfaction to the following additions, all of which are highly desirable for homes for investments:

ELLWOOD PLACE—With 151 homes built in last three years! Count 'em. Lots can still be had at $150 to $1,000, terms too.

HIGHLAND HEIGHTS—With 54 new homes built in two years. Count 'em and lots can be bought at $400 term* too.

O'NEALL TERRACE—The latest addition, restricted to brick or stucco homes, with 14 homes contracted or built in first 3 months! No lots for sale—except to home-builders. Terms will be made to suit you and prices very reasonable.

SUMMER HILL ADDITION—About 700 feet east of O'Neal Terrace, a splendid investment at $150.00 per lot on remarkable terms of $5.00 down and $5.00 monthly. A look will mean a "lot."

O'NEAL TERRACE ANNEX—Lying just north of the Terrace, also restricted to brick or stucco homes. Prices $200.00 to $500.00 per lot. Two new homes contracted for this addition at this time.

We believe in the future of Lubbock and particularly in the Southwest part of the city. The many new homes, sewer lines, water and other improvements make it a pleasant place in which to live. Let us show you the lot that will please you.

Hobbs, New Mexico, Booms With Strike Of New Oil Field

Producer Causes Large Amount of Leasing And Trading; Huge Crowds Are Expected.

Opening today of the new town-site of Hobbs, New Mexico, in the center of the newly discovered oil field, last night was expected to draw a record crowd of ten thousand people according to word received here yesterday from the Hobbs Townsite company.

The new townsite is located two miles from the old Hobbs. It is directly west of Lamesa about seventy miles, and about thirty miles west of Seminole.

Leasing and royalty exchanges have been active in the new area during the past week.

It is said that the lack of rail facilities to the field are being considered by several railways.

Democrats

of the anti-Smith delegates in one camp, and some in another. As the debate stood tonight, the fighting spirit was a proposal of some of the drys to put into the platform a plank endorsing, not law enforcement merely, but the soundness and desirability of the prohibition statutes themselves. This neither the Smith leaders nor some of the least ardent anti-Smith including Roosevelt, apparently the severest of the movement have hitherto that they can command a majority, but they are threatening to fight all along the way.

May Accept Platform

There is every indication that the Smith managers are quite willing to accept a plank specifically declaring for federal enforcement of prohibition, now that it is a law and will make no serious attempt to include in the platform an expression of Governor Smith's recently repeated opinion that the law should be modified.

Thus far, in all of these discussions, both sides have expressed an underlying hope for a harmonious convention and a horror of any approach to the disastrous three weeks that was written into party history at the last convention at Madison Square Garden. Every body expects that the convention itself will be finally over by Friday night.

First in Solid South

In many respects this meeting will be unlike any that has gone before. The convention is the party's first in the Solid South since it emerged from the Civil War. It meets in a state and section where opposition to the leading candidate has been militant and persistent. Texas herself probably will lead the platform fight for a dry plank directly at odds with the opinions of the New York governor. Most of the other states of the south are sending delegations who oppose Smith for various reasons—some on account of his prohibition views, some because of his Tammany connections, and some, like the He'lin wing from Alabama, because of his membership in the Roman Catholic church.

Reverses Party History

In its own makeup, the convention is an almost complete reversal of recent party history. Those whose voices have been heard most often have almost all passed from the picture. Bryan, a factor in every convention from 1896 to 1924, has left behind no designated heir to his mantle. The Wilson leadership, which appeared to have descended in some degree four years ago to the shoulders of William C. McAdoo, has become a debatable quantity, and McAdoo himself will be absent from the convention and from the list of candidates. James M. Cox, the standard bearer eight years ago against Harding, does not plan to come, and although John W. Davis, nominated in the breakup of the long 1924 deadlock, will be present at the convention, it will be as a delegate pledged to the leadership of Smith.

Smith Alone Remains

Of the nineteen who were voted for on the first ballot in Madison Square Garden, Smith alone, denied then the majority he now commands, remains a candidate at Houston. Reed was refused a nomination on the Missouri delegation eight years ago by Wilson leaders at San Francisco, and four years ago he was denied the favorite son support of his state when he made his first bid for the presidency. All of the others for whom votes are pledged are newcomers among candidates.

Fraud of her role as hostess, the city of Houston bustled with the manifold functions of Southern hospitality tonight as her streets began to fill with convention crowds. Tomorrow her citizens and such visitors as have arrived will gather to formally dedicate Sam Houston Hall, the great wooden structure built to house sessions of the convention. It seats some 17,000 and is built for comfort. Wide and flat, its sides stand open to such breezes as may choose to blow to relieve the force of a semi-tropical sun, and all about are great electric fans guaranteed to set up appreciable breezes of their own.

The home commonly called the kneecap is known as the patella. Nebraska is the 15th state in area, embracing 77,500 square miles.

Bondsman Goes After the Bonded

The best way to get what you want is to go after it! That is evidently the psychology of a Lubbock man who had the experience to sign a bond for another local citizen and the latter was evidently not disposed to take the occasion so seriously as his benefactor.

Consequently, in the language of the courthouse, the bonded gentleman "skipped his bond," leaving his bondsman "holding the sack" in the sum of 300 bucks. Then things began to happen.

The bondsman got on the trail of the bonded, locating him in San Antonio. Following the advice of his attorney, he secured from Sheriff H. L. Johnston a deputyship, a pair of handcuffs and late Friday started on his trek to the Alamo city where the bonded gentleman had been found and incarcerated in the Bexar county jail.

The bondsman Dr. D. D. Cross, expects to be back Monday with the bonded Pat Thomas, who stands charged in Lubbock county court with misapplication of funds. Instead of being "out" the $300, Doctor Cross will return Thomas to Lubbock at only the cost of his gas, oil and other expenses incidental to the trip—but according to custom will have to play host, as well as guardian, to his prisoner enroute.

Encampment

Wednesday afternoon, W. P. Knox, area executive of the Boy Scouts, will be in charge of the enrollment division of the club members and the games during the encampment. Meals will be furnished by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the local county farm bureau.

Public is invited. Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent, who will be in charge of the program for the girls, yesterday issued a special invitation to the public, especially the women club members of the city, to attend a series of exhibits given by the club girls during the encampment.

The girls' club work will be displayed starting at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A cotton dress carnival and an appropriate dress contest will be held in connection with the program. Prizes will be presented to the winners. The Chamber of Commerce will give two girls and one woman winner trips to the short course held at A. and M. college. Other prizes will be given by Barrier Brothers.

Judges Announced. Mrs. Myrtle Murray, of College Station, Mrs. Roy Sides, and Mrs. Julia Kelly will judge the contests. Nina Robertson, Estelle Shepherd, and Anna Belle Collins, of Tech, will be in charge of the recreation. Faculty judging will be held by both girls and boys. Two scholarships to the short course will be presented to the boys by the farm bureau here.

A free swim at the municipal pool will be held at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning. The encampment will come to a close at about 4 or 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Prohibition

the dress to lead their fight within the resolutions committee after the leaders of the prohibition organizations have presented their arguments at the public hearings which will precede the actual drafting of the platform. Moody will arrive here Monday and is expected to bring with him the outline of a strong prohibition plank.

Many other dry planks will be presented to the platform makers, some patterned along the lines of those adopted by the state conventions and which differ materially. Whether New York state will have a plank of its own will be determined at a caucus of the Empire state delegation Monday night.

While the Smith managers are silent on the subject, the general belief now is that they not only will refrain from advancing a proposal for modification of the Volstead Act, in which the New York governor believes, but will be satisfied with a declaration for rigid enforcement of the dry laws as long as they are on the statute books.

Farm Relief Puzzles. Next to prohibition, the plank likely to give the Democrats the most difficulty is that dealing with farm relief. Several tentative declarations have been drawn as the basis for discussion within the platform committee, but there seems to be little unanimity of opinion now as to the precise form this plank shall take.

It is known, however, that most leaders are adverse to having the party commit itself to any particular plan or relief, such as the equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen bill. Cordell Hull's suggestion that the party pledge itself to call an extra session of the next congress in the spring of 1929 to deal with the farm problem appears to be gaining in favor.

Undoubtedly the Democratic declaration against corruption in government and in politics will be much stronger than that embodied in the Republican platform as this promises to be one of the paramount issues in the coming campaign so far as the Democrats are concerned.

Dry Leaders

privately refer to the league as an arm of the G. O. P. and bitterly denounce what they term its effort to divide and defeat the party. And that doesn't mean merely wet Democrats, either.

The favorite son delegates probably will decide whether Smith can be held below the 733 1-2 votes necessary to nominate. The other factor is the disputed delegates now claimed by both Smith and his enemies. An important item in the anti-Smith creed is the assertion that the 47 Allee Pomerene delegates from Ohio and the 30 Evans Woolen delegates from Indiana will never vote for Smith despite Smith's expectations. Incidentally, a recent report from Ohio said that the state delegation would try to do something for Governor Vic Donahay after dropping Pomerene.

Anti-Smith leaders have been predicting that all along and some of them look to Donahay as their best hope.

Speeding of Fire Trucks And Ambulances Rapped. Declaring that ambulances and fire trucks had no more right to exceed the speed limit than any other cars, County Attorney Amos Howard yesterday openly criticized the practice of local ambulances and fire trucks speeding through the streets of the city.

"In ordinary cases a few seconds will not make any difference in the condition of an injured man or the burning down of a house," he said. "Any way there is no excuse for the lives of the hundreds along the streets being endangered because of the fast driving of the fire trucks and ambulances."

"If anything these vehicles should be more cautious than other cars because of their excessive weight and size."

Deluge of Weddings Uses Up Book

Brand New License Roster Required to Finish Out Month of June

A brand new shiny marriage license book has been started in the county clerk's office yesterday to take care of the deluge of June weddings.

The old book, a veteran of 485 licenses, in service since August 2, 1927, was discarded for the newer and shinier book. Out of the 475 licenses issued from the old book, ten objections were listed. All of the objections were on the grounds of under age.

The massive new book promises to be sufficient for some time to come. A total of fifty marriage licenses have been granted during June, and with a week yet to go the month promises to be a record breaker.

May is the only previous month so far this year during which more than forty licenses were granted. The first license from the new book was issued to Robert Perry Johnson and Ludy Leon Cory, and the second to Murry Glasscock and Vesta Lancaster. The last one from the old book was to Maurice Bergh and Lillie Rolan. The other license yesterday was to Frank Bennett and Ruth Stringer.

State's Right Issue Seen

ST. LOUIS, June 23. (AP)—Voters will go to the polls in November to decide one of the great major issues—state's rights—with Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York bearing the democratic standard and Al Ritchie of Maryland predicted on his brief stop here today en route to the democratic national convention at Houston.

Defense Fund For 'Lynchers,' Rumor

Search Is Continued For Seventh Man Charged In Hanging of Negro At Houston.

HOUSTON, June 23.—As officers continued their search for the seventh man charged with murder in the lynching early Wednesday of Robert Powell, negro, unconfirmed reports here Saturday were that a $2500 defense fund had been raised by friends of the accused men.

Several prominent citizens were reported to have contributed to the defense fund, but when asked the direct question each of them either denied or evaded it. It could not be learned who was raising the money.

Officers were non-committal as to when they expected to arrest Allen Kent, seventh member of the group charged with having taken Powell from his bed in a hospital here and hanging him from a bridge. Powell had a bullet wound in the stomach, thought to have been inflicted in a gun battle in which Detective Davis was wounded fatally when he attempted to disperse a group of negroes on June 17.

Six men have been indicted. The names are John Kent, Charles Oldham, F. T. Shuck, T. J. Reese, Howard Minton and Allen Kent. All are in jail but Allen Kent, who whereabouts are unknown.

A. B. Wheeler, the seventh man charged with murder, has not been indicted. He made a statement to officers, who said they had gotten such statements from four other men. Word also was received during the day from Austin that Gen. Dan Moody would appoint General Jacob F. Welters and Henry Dornbaum as special prosecutors at the request of Houston citizens.

Moody To Wage Re-Election Campaign In Newspapers

Governor Regrets That He Can't Go To People Direct

AUSTIN, June 23—A quiet recital of the administration's achievements will be Governor Moody's method of campaigning for re-election, he revealed today.

Pointing out that it will be impossible to cover the state in speech making, the governor said he intends to deliver addresses, during only in the principal centers of the newspapers will be made a statement to carry what I have to say to the people throughout the state. I like campaign, and wish I could go to every town in Texas, but that cannot be done.

Among the accomplishments he will discuss: "Apportionment of $15 per capita for the public school, added support of higher education, rescue of the prison system from debt and its return to a supporting basis, purchase of new priced text books, greater highway construction and maintenance, reduction of the state ad valorem tax, sound condition of the jury and remedial laws passed with legislature."

There has been done for Texas during the past 18 months than in any like period. The public school system has been supported than in any past administration. Children received a year, and will receive next year, per capita apportionment—pledged for by school authorities but never before obtained. It is $1,500,000 more for the coming year and next," the governor said.

Under the system developed for apportionment of the rural aid fund, every school which qualified receive rural aid got a six months term—an unprecedented occurrence.

Through an appropriation, opportunity for high school attendance was provided every youth in these districts without hindrance. The last legislature appropriated money for their tuition and parents theretofore had been asked to do so. This opened the way for thousands of boys and girls.

Having on Textbooks

An amendment by the last legislature requires that text books be sold at the lowest wholesale price which the purchasers charge in sales at their places. In the past, publishers added the cost of other items. This amendment will save the state $200,000. A book binding contract has been let, affording a further saving. No litigation has resulted from book contracts; no breath of suspicion against their fairness; no question about their justness—in striking contrast with our past experience.

Institutions of higher learning have been supported better, best opportunities possible having been given. Buildings and new equipment, where needed as demanded, were furnished.

When the present highway commission took office, unpaid obligations amount to $6,250,000 and always were in worse repair than our state program was begun before the present commission. It had on hand only $697,000, and although federal aid approximating $6,500,000 was available, the department had no money to pay its debts, meet federal requirements and match federal funds. Federal aid had been held back, its withdrawal was threatened, and roads had not been maintained properly. To meet the necessity, the gasoline tax was fixed three cents. On Sept. 1, it reverts to two cents. All highway department obligations paid; federal aid has been secured and roads placed in better repair, and maintained better, than at any time in the past.

During this administration, the highway department has placed under construction 396 miles of concrete road, 219 miles of bituminous road surface, 758 miles of grading and drainage structures, 65 miles of gravel and 1,056 miles of asphalt. Construction work involving $19,930,145 has been put under

Retail Merchants Will Hold Annual Session Thursday

Dutch Lunch Will Be Event Long Remembered, Leaders Say; Hay Davidson Will Head Committee.

Planning for a greater program of activities during the coming busy season, members of the Lubbock Retail Merchants association will hold their annual "dutch lunch" on Thursday night at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, an announcement from the headquarters of the association stated yesterday.

Discussion of plans for future activities, the closing schedule for the coming year and the report of the two delegates, Paul Sherrod and J. D. Hassell, to the state convention at Wichita Falls, will comprise the business of the meeting to be preceded by a lunch the combination of several selected cuts.

Its Annual Affair

The "dutch lunch" is an annual affair with the merchants and has attracted additional interest each year that it has been held. More than 150 merchants of the city are now members of the organization and the majority of them are to be present, officials said yesterday.

A committee composed of Hay Davidson, R. D. Erwin, Joe Baldrige, and J. D. Hassell has been appointed to arrange the program and cater for the lunch. Another committee composed of E. L. Robertson, chairman, Riley F. Huie and O. W. Riddle has been appointed as the new membership committee. They will serve until five new members are brought into the association.

The hour of the feed is so arranged that it will not break into any other engagements of the members, officials said yesterday. They can come to the meeting from their businesses and leave within a short time as only a short meeting will be held.

Million Is Being Spent To Two San Angelo Hostelries

12-Story Hilton Hotel Is To Start Soon; 3-Story Structure Being Built By Lumber Man

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SAN ANGELO, June 23—Nearly one million dollars is involved in two contracts for the construction of two hotels in San Angelo, the 12-story Hilton Hotel to be erected for B. B. Hall of the West Texas Lumber company at the corner of Twelfth and Oak streets, and a three-story hotel to be erected at the corner of College and Chadbourne for Ray and Willick, local merchants.

Plans for the Hilton hotel, which will be one of the finest in West Texas, were drawn by Anton F. Korn, of the firm of Korn and Morgan, architects of Dallas and San Angelo. Construction of the building will be superintended by B. M. Morgan, San Angelo member of the firm. The contract was awarded to R. E. McKee of El Paso for the general construction, the letting being made at the office of Mr. Korn at Dallas, and the amount of the contract and details as to when construction work will start were not learned here.

Lumber Firm To Move

The site for the Hilton hotel is occupied by the office and yards of the West Texas Lumber company, of which Mr. Hall is owner, and the site will be cleared just as soon as the lumber company can move its yard and stocks to a new $25,000 home just being completed on the Santa Fe tracks.

NEW FIRE TRUCK

Slaton Adds La France To Increase Facilities

SLATON, June 23—The city commission has bought a new American La France fire truck for increasing Slaton's fire fighting facilities. The pump on the truck will have a capacity of delivering 750 gallons of water per minute, one of the largest pumps of the present time being used in fire fighting. The truck cost $12,000 and will be delivered here within 60 days, according to Mayor W. G. Reese. The fire truck which the city has had for several years is being retained and overhauled, thus helping to guarantee Slaton the maximum in fire protection.

Recruits of the Toronto police force must not exceed 160 pounds in weight or six feet in height.

About 600 soldiers in the English Army of the Rhine have taken German women as wives.

Under the "big brother" movement, founded in 1925, 1300 British boys have gone to Australia. In 28 cases their families have followed them.

and will cost approximately $525,000 according to an early announcement made by the builders, and will be owned by a company formed by officials of the West Texas Lumber company. It has been leased for a period of 15 years to the Hilton Hotel company, which now operates five large hotels in Texas, including one at Abilene. The hotel site is valued at $100,000 and the furnishings will cost $125,000.

Contracts for the smaller hotel to be erected for Ray and Willick was awarded to Balfanz Construction company of San Angelo and Abilene and while the amount of the general contract was not stated, H. H. Ray, one of the owners said the building when completed will cost $100,000.

Vast Progress Is Made By Division Of Correspondence

More Than 300 Individuals Have Enrolled In Department Since Its Creation Last July.

Approaching the first anniversary of its existence, the correspondence department of Texas Technological college is making as much if not a greater record than the college has in the past three years, a report being prepared by Prof. J. F. McDonald, head of the department, shows.

A total of more than 300 individuals have enrolled in the department since its creation last July, making more than 450 different courses. Ninety-two persons are now carrying work in the department, the enrollment record shows. During the past year, 23 instructors have given work through the department in 17 different departments of the college.

Although most of the students in the department live in the neighborhood of 100 miles from Lubbock, many are residents of other parts of the state and some even in other states. Five different states are represented in this summer's enrollment. Students are enrolled in the department in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado and Wyoming. Study is being made by students from Stratford to Hillsboro, from Canadian to Slaty and Fort Worth to Midland.

Mary Pickford Knows Her Clothes, Says Jean Patou, Who Praises Her Judgment

BY JEAN PATOU For NEA Service

PARIS, June 23—It is interesting to note the preferences and reactions of certain women when they are engaged in choosing a new set of clothes. The very way in which they look at a collection and then decide upon the creations which have appealed to them is always indicative of their personality and their own particular traits.

Mary Pickford is one of my clients who evinces the most decided in the choice of her gowns. When she enters the salons the temptation always is great to show her the collection reserved for the young girl.

I do not for one moment believe I am lacking in respect in stating that when she insists on seeing other models, she gives one the impression of a young girl who wants to look grown-up, who is interested in things which are not of her age.

Knows Her Clothes She does, however, wear more sophisticated styles and wears them exceedingly well. It is perhaps useless to state here that Mary Pickford has nothing to learn in the art of dressing.

She often will choose a model and have it made in the material of another which she thinks more becoming to her personality. She has a decided way of imparting her wishes to her "vendresse," and needs no counsellors. Nor does she seek it in eliminating those styles which she knows she never could carry off.

Mary Pickford is one of the very rare women who knows that no matter how beautiful a girl may be she can not wear any and every style of dress.

Likes Tennis Frocks She chooses, as is perfectly natural, the most youthful looking models and in turn imparts an air of youth to those which are perhaps a little more sophisticated. Fancy sports clothes and dresses with a swing to them, which I have called "tennis frocks," are those which she prefers.

The fluffy, intricately worked chiffon dress becomes her exceedingly well too. Her choice goes to printed chiffons with a light ground. One attractive costume is a dress of white jersey with a fan-shaped "effe" in front, a rather wide and soft patent leather belt, a youthful lion ocellar and tie. Her evening dresses are mostly all of printed mousseline de soie. She does not care for much embroidery as she avoids anything which might tend to look heavy. She prefers to keep the more elaborate type of sports dress and to the light, fluffy afternoon or evening frock which suits her fragile blonde beauty to perfection.

A Youthful Model

One ensemble that Miss Pickford selected was a faint grey and white checked foulard dress with a black crepe lone coat, foulard-trimmed. It was an extremely youthful model, square necked frock with novel buttons trimming it from the neckline to the hem. The skirt had

Texas Leading

Soch—Texas Leading in have no nurse of their own, and Miss Moore has helped the associations with the first clinic. Mrs. Maddocks says that Miss Moore had up to June 5th, assisted in 30 clinics in Eastland, Stephens, Erath, Childress, Brisco, Floyd, Bell and Bosque Counties. Later Miss Moore will go to Freestone, Henderson, Panola, Hunt, Anderson, Rusk, and other counties. Mrs. Raymond Robbins, president of Twelfth District, reports that Henderson county, registered 100 percent for Summer Round-Up.

Mrs. Maddocks says: "Reports the clinics show many defects. Out of 579 pre-school children examined only ten were perfect. Many cases of heart defects are reported. In one town seven children had heart trouble. In this same town only one perfect child was found out of 75 examined. Of course Texas parents will do their best by their children and it is safe to predict that as the clinic in the fall there will be many 100 per cent children in these communities. This will make fewer absences from school, less cases of discipline, for usually the child that has some physical defect gives trouble and there will be fewer "repeaters." A child handicapped by physical defects is much less liable to pass than one who is well. Think of the children, well, free from pain, happy as children ought to be and decide whether the Summer Round-Up pays or not.

The first typewriter was invented by an Englishman early in the 18th century. The first workable pattern, however, was designed in Detroit, just 100 years ago.

Its pleats stitched down to hip-length. To wear with this she chose a lace straw hat in a very pale grey, with a slightly irregular brim, and no trimming save a banding.

Another choice was a dressy suit with a tuck-in blouse of white georgette, finely tucked in plain design. The pleated skirt and coat were of fine black crepe de chine. To top this, she selected a little turban of very fine black felt, with a tiny off-the-face front brim. To complete her wardrobe, and because she is a practical woman, Mary Pickford ordered different sets of pajamas and one of the new beige raincoats. A dressy suit of black crepe de chine with tuck-in blouse of white georgette.

Mixes Work, Study Student Gets Job In Yellowstone

One student of the Texas Technological college believes in mixing a summer of work, vacation and study all together. He is L. B. Dean, of Route 4, Lubbock. Having secured a position in Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, he is enjoying change of climate and scenery during the summer.

He is also keeping up with school work by enrolling in a course in the correspondence department at the Tech.

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

dearest Mom: Here beginneth chapter one in the life of your favorite working girl. After a day of service, I am the same sweet child I was, and presently my job is still good for at least one more day. Really, Jane and I got a big wallop out of the day's toil. Had we been asked to job a time when we started—promptly at nine—neither of us would have been surprised. But such was not the case. A maid admitted us to a dressing room, where another one—with a French accent that was so delightful that I decided to parlez French—took my last brain cell—looked us over and was quite ready to give us a manure, wave, or take us a little stitches we might require. We were all baited for bear, however, and had attended to everything before we arrived. I noticed she did quite a great deal of beauty-izing to some of the other models. She had apparently left home in a hurry. She decided that I am best in the line of sports frocks, and that my goal should be a distinguished simplicity. So she advised me not to curl my hair, or wear much makeup—and not to take on a frown, no matter how tempted I might feel to indulge myself at times. She stacked up on the other side. She appears to be an exotic creature, who can wear bizarre styles and complicated costumes. It seems she has a certain dramatic quality, which I lack. She is to wear her hair pulled back, a la Russe, and to have it sleekly brushed and coiled at the nape of her neck. She can be lavish with her lipstick as she pleases. Two of the mannequins here are models, and there is a redhead in pink is marvelous. It seems to be the most desirable for mannequins. First they look so well white, pastels, and the delicate colors. 1928 it lost $633,703. About $1,664,799 was required to pay its outstanding obligations at the beginning of this administration. During the first year of this administration, the system was self supporting and showed a net gain of $7,534. This is considerably better than the loss in 1926.

"The 40th legislature's act provided a budget basis for the system which enables it to pay cash for its supplies instead of buying on credit and paying high prices and high interest. As a result of this new arrangement, the penitentiary's operating costs for 1927 were reduced about $250,000 from the preceding year's total. Under the old method, the state paid a premium for practically everything it bought. Now prison supplies are bought at lowest cash prices on a competitive market.

"The 39th legislature appropriated $32,414,096 to operate departments and institutions from Sept. 1, 1925, to Sept. 1, 1927. The present administration inherited a long list of deficiencies, unpaid obligations and departments and institutions not properly supported from the preceding administration. To meet these, the 40th legislature had to appropriate $3,685,075. Thus, the 39th legislature should have appropriated $46,099,171 for the period from Sept. 1, 1925, to Sept. 1, 1927.

"Explains Appropriations "The 40th legislature appropriated $47,636,333 to support the departments and institutions. In other words, the money set aside to support the state from Sept. 1, 1927, to Sept. 1, 1929, was $87,175 more than the total for the preceding biennium. The 40th, however, provided $500,000 for vocational training of under privileged children. This accounts for more than half the difference. I approved the appropriation, and while a like one was made in the 39th session, it was vetoed by the governor who preceded me. An increase of more than $200,000 to care for the insane and unfortunate in eleemosynary institutions accounts for still more of the difference. Another appropriation—for $300,000—to build dormitories at A. and M. college for students who were living in huts, was made. These necessary items explain the increase.

"The preceding administration, with a much smaller prison population, spent $3,149,146 for prison maintenance; during this administration provision for an expenditure of only $2,811,687 has been made.

"Touches Court Question "The people long have asked for judicial reform and the acceleration of litigation. They have wanted justice brought more nearly within the reach of the rich and poor alike. Initial steps toward this goal were taken by the 40th legislature. The first requisite of a successful judiciary is capable and courageous judges. We have many capable judges in Texas, but because of meager salaries paid, many of our ablest men would not offer for the bench and many have retired. Salaries have been raised and judicial service made more inviting. Our appellate courts are more nearly up with their dockets than in years.

"For a long time the Texas law on manslaughter was a monstrosity. Its technicalities made an avenue of escape. The 40th legislature amended this law to abolish manslaughter, as an offense and make all voluntary killings murder. This law has been upheld by the court of criminal appeals.

"Law enforcement has been improved measurably. In January, 1927, there were about 3,000 state prison inmates; now there are around 4,576.

"Speaks on Banking Situation "In the state banking system only three banks have failed and been placed in liquidation since the present commissioner took office. The liquidating department has been placed almost on a self sustaining basis and it heretofore has cost creditors of insolvent banks 46 per cent.

"Many other pieces, too numerous to mention, of remedial legislation have been passed. Among these is one establishing of a state service office to assist disabled world war veterans in securing compensation; another authorizing the highway commission to build interstate bridges that tolls need not be collected; another writing a new health code and taking the health department out of politics; another giving a wife control of community property when abandoned by her husband; another reforming the libel laws that the truth may be published; another making the courts of civil appeals accessible 12 months in the year.

Political Statement

To the Voters of Lubbock county: When in the early part of January of this year I had my name placed in the announcement column for candidates for the office of County Tax Assessor, in the Avalanche-Journal, I did so fully realizing that continued earnest effort would be required to succeed in the undertaking.

The encouragement I have since then received is very gratifying. I will appreciate my friends and acquaintances telling those who do not know me about my character and qualifications for this important office. I do not believe in long time office holding, there are plenty of good men to fill all the offices. It is my intention if my finances and credit permit to try and see as many of the voters as possible between now and July 28. I need your vote and influence.

If I receive the nomination and then elected in exchange for the remuneration the office pays, I promise a faithful, conscientious conduct of its affairs. Assuring you that your vote and influence will be sincerely appreciated. I am, Yours very truly, (Signed) A. B. ELLIS.

Prohibition Bugaboo Threatens To Halt Smith Drive

Mack's Statement Rocks Foundation Tammany Hopes

Politicians Uncertain But Believe New Yorker Hurt By Wet Charge; Women To Play Big Part At Meet

By C. D. WADE
 Special Correspondent
 HOUSTON, June 23.—His Norman Mack, the veteran politician from New York, definitely spilled the beans, knocked over the decanter and broken all the glasses? That's the question that is worrying the democratic delegates here for the big convention that starts Tuesday.

Mack issued a statement Wednesday afternoon to the effect that Al Smith is against prohibition, is in favor of temperance and wants the states to have the right to determine the alcoholic content of their beverages. Then things began to happen.

George R. Van Namee, Smith's campaign manager, issued a hot statement as soon as he saw the Mack effusion, denying that anyone in Houston had a right to speak for Smith. Mack realized, too, that he had said the wrong thing, or at least said it in the wrong place, and he backed up, explaining that he was expressing only his personal sentiments.

The Politicians Wonder
 But the politicians are now wondering how much damage has been done to Smith's cause. They know there is some damage, and their chief hope is that the convention will be over before the reaction is full force.

Women are going to play a bigger part in this convention than any in the history of the country before. They are gathering here in large numbers from all over the country, and the Houston women are preparing to furnish the gallery, provided they can get in the auditorium, and it will be a noisy gallery. The conservative leaders may want to talk about farm relief, flood control, low tariffs and other such economic matters, and skirt lightly over prohibition with just a platform plank demanding the enforcement of all laws. But they will never get away that easy. Each kind and form of prohibition organization is represented in Houston, some by their paid secretaries and officers and others by volunteer workers, and all are going to make a lot of noise—so much noise, in fact, that prohibition is likely to become the biggest issue of the convention. Certainly it will be the noisiest issue.

Smith Loses Like a Cuckoo
 Despite all the noise, however, it seems almost certain three days before the convention opens that Al Smith will be nominated by the fourth ballot, with the possibility of his being named on the first ballot. Few of the observers here doubt that probability.

It is still impossible for anybody to tell with mathematical certainty what will be the result of the first ballot, although it is likely that the result can be foretold a few hours before the voting starts. By that time the various campaign managers will know how every vote in the convention is going to be cast, but until all the delegates have arrived and the various delegations have held their caucuses it will be impossible to take an accurate poll of the convention.

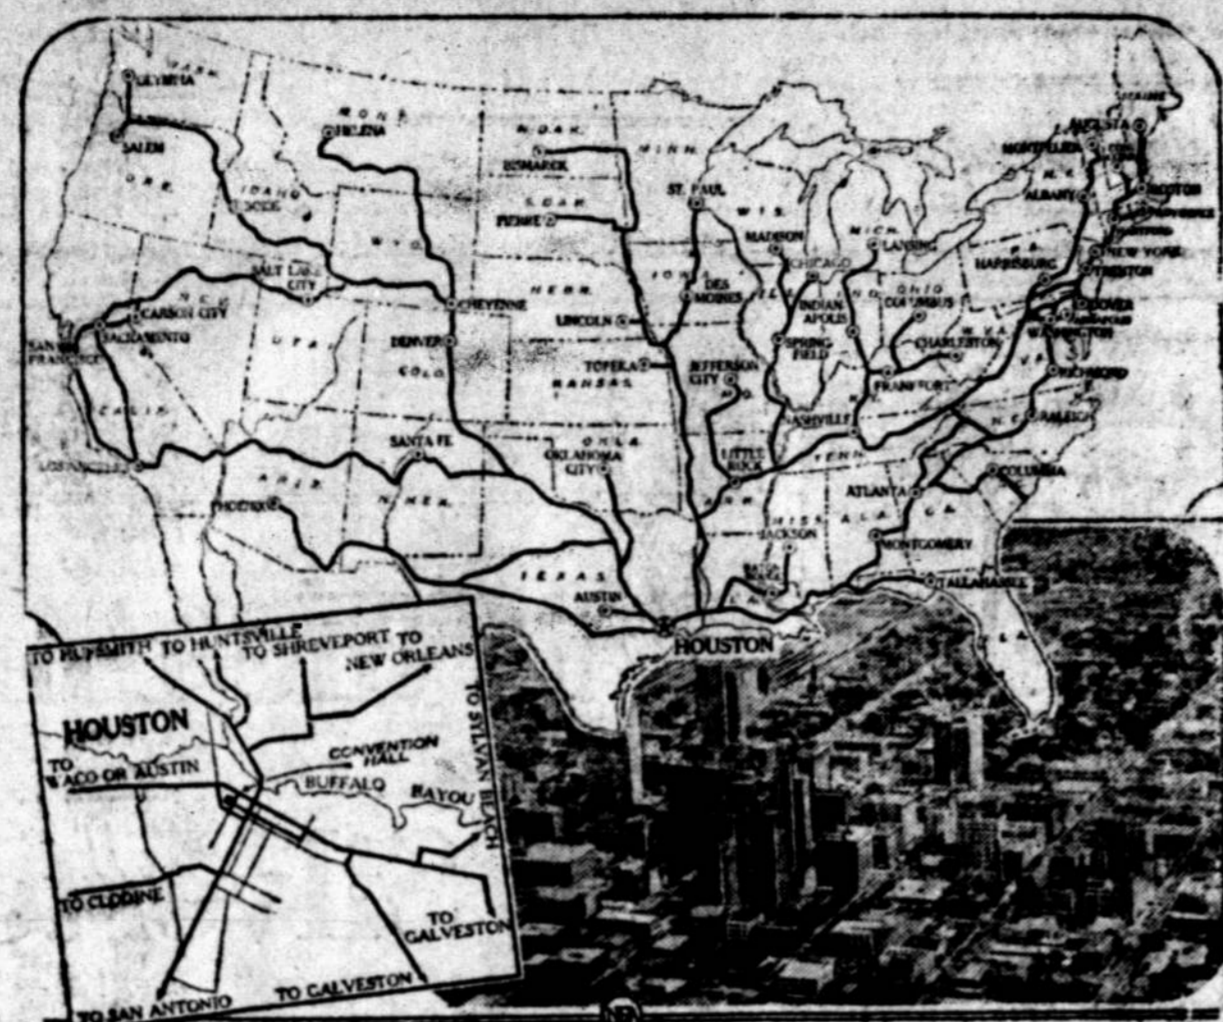

Van Namee Makes Boast
 George Van Namee, the Smith leader, is content with telling the newspaper men each day that Smith will have more than 650 votes on the first ballot, which is within 25 of enough to win, with the delegates of half a dozen states ready to swing to him when they have paid their political debts by honoring their favorite sons.

The first "stop Smith" coalition got under way yesterday when the Reed forces began flirting with the dry women delegates. The women are not for Reed, but they hope if they can encourage the Missouri senator stay in, as the strongest anti-Smith candidate, for at least 15 ballots, it will have successfully blocked Smith's nomination, and then they can turn to a dry candidate. On the other hand, the Reed forces are anxious for the support of the dry women in the hope that if they can hold out for 15 ballots they can eventually put their candidate over.

EXPERTS BIG HELP Miller Tire Men Show How Money Can Be Saved

AKRON, O., June 23.—An amazing saving of 448 bushels with a total of 7,213,706 tire miles, at an average of 26,947 miles to the tire, as elected in a year, on a metropolitan bus fleet as a demonstration of the economy of efficient tire use, according to Miller tire men, under the care of an expert tire man, the tire mileage of this large fleet was increased 67 per cent in one year and records for the first six months of this year show an increase of 86 per cent over 1926. The tire expert took charge of tire inspection and tire care at the beginning of 1927, it was explained.

 Parallel to this route is No. 71, a little to the west. This is the Jefferson highway. It goes straight north to Omaha, where it meets the Meridian highway, U. S. No. 75, which continues north into Canada. At Kansas City, the route branches off into U. S. 65, to Minneapolis and St. Paul, and crosses the National Old Trail road, U. Delegations from the northeast are expected to take the National Old Trail route as far as Kansas City, where they will come down on the Jefferson highway to the Old Spanish Trail at

IN MEETING the more severe strains imposed by modern high compression engines, higher speeds, faster acceleration and quick-acting four-wheel brakes, the new Hupmobile Century body styles set new high standards of

Door lock pillars are made double width to give extra strength where latching imposes strain. Sound is deadened at 123 points. Exterior finish is protected by 21 coating and rubbing processes. In every way, the safety, comfort and long life of the new Hupmobile Century coachwork match the same brilliant qualities in the Six and Eight cylinder chassis on which they are mounted. Business Good On Coast, Rose Finds On Western Tour

Hupp Official Back From Extended Trip to the Far West States With Optimistic View

DETROIT, June 23.—Business conditions in the far western states are distinctly improving and while there are still some weak spots on the coast and mountain sections are on the whole in good shape, according to H. E. Rose, Sales Promotion Manager of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, who has just returned to Detroit from an extended trip which in the past two months has taken him to important centers as far north as Vancouver, British Columbia, and throughout the Pacific and mountain areas.

Tendency toward slackening buying which was noticeable earlier in the year and was attributed to unseasonable weather conditions was rapidly disappearing during his stay. Mr. Rose says and in several districts the renewed impetus of business had brought sales volume fully up to the 1927 level, with every prospect of continued and widespread improvement.

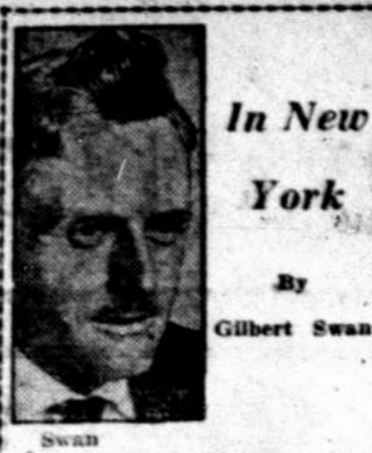

Sales Are Picking Up

Automobile sales along the Pacific coast have been picking up in comparison with other lines of trade. Mr. Rose said after his return to Detroit. "The prospect for the rest of the present year is now excellent. I was especially impressed with the Puget Sound country, on both sides of the international boundary, but business is good with most dealers elsewhere and in Salt Lake and Denver I found them as a class jubilant over their sales and the outlook for coming months."

The Pacific region is of particular importance to the automobile industry, as it is one of the best, if not the very best, of motor car sales fields in the whole country. In 1927 with only 6.22 per cent of the population of the United States it accounted for 11.34 per cent of the total registrations reported, while six of the seven states in the coast and mountain area showed gains above the average for the whole country.

"As has been the case everywhere Huppobile sales in these states have been reaching an unprecedented volume this year. The beauty and performance qualities of the new Century cars make the same powerful appeal to the people of the west that has been reflected in the record breaking demand from the east and south ever since they were introduced."

"We are fortunate, too, in having an exceptionally high class representation all through the territory I visited. Our dealer organizations there is now fully 96 per cent exclusive, and those who have been carrying other lines have been dropping them this year and concentrating their attention on Huppobile which with its present demand is giving them all they can care for. I found our distributors and dealers all happy, making money and proud to be identified with a product so popular as Huppobile cars."

In New York

By Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, June 23.—Perhaps it's because I have never quite erased from my memory the vision of the little white and green church that stood so neat, trim and cool under the sheltering oak trees.

Anyhow, I experience a distinct shock when those uniformed door-men stand before certain Manhattan churches ready to open your taxi door. They are, to all intents and purposes, no different from the liveried doormen of the movie palaces or the ritzy hotel. And, believe it or not, I beheld one the other day who flaunted in gold letters upon his cap the words "Broadway Temple."

Oh, well, I presume the day will come when those severe and ultra-dignified plate passers will go by the boards and we will find little slot machines in the pews for our quarters and half dollars. And, after all, why not?

Which reminds me that a millionaire philanthropist has just presented the Broadway Temple, which is to be the newest of the skyscraper churches, with a cross which when fully lighted, can be seen by ships 36 nautical miles off shore, while airplanes can use it as a beacon. From the air it will be visible for 100 miles, since it stands 75 feet high and, when mounted atop the skyscraper church steeple, will be nearly 700 feet from the ground.

They tell me that the vogue for skyscraper churches or apartment churches, or whatever they will eventually be called, is spreading over the nation. And they are solving the church's old economic problems.

In Syracuse the church-hotel which is known as the Mispah Inn showed a $12,000 profit last year I am informed. Rochester has its Baptist Temple, which could easily be mistaken by the casual passerby for an elaborate modern business block. Chicago has its Sunnyside Temple and Kansas City has its Grand Central Temple.

The Broadway Temple, which already owns business property, is expected to have an annual yield of $200,000, it will have a swimming pool, gymnasium, basketball court and many other features. Its cost is something like a million and a half.

Meanwhile scores of the well known hotels are going down under the wrecker's attack, to make way for office buildings. The latest is the Belmont, just across from Grand Central station. The old Grand Union and the Knickerbocker were the last to perish.

One of the leading Manhattan hotels has determined to take no more chances with the fly-by-nights. If a bill has not been paid after a three-day occupancy of a room or if a credit account has not been established, the guest is automatically "checked out" and the porter removes the baggage from the room.

And theatrical hotels around Times Square now supply theatrical artists with special towels for makeup, a small charge being made. This move was occasioned by the fact that actors had a habit of ruffling hundreds of good towels. A special brand was devised that can be discarded after being used once. GILBERT SWAN.

New Whippet Six Is Very Popular

Lowest Price Six in World Copes With Whippet Four With Buyers; Sales Are Going Strong

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—In the immediate acceptance of the new Whippet Six which made its initial appearance in the showrooms of all Willys-Overland merchants a few weeks ago, indications are that interest and popularity of this new light six will be as outstanding as that of the Whippet Four when it was introduced two years ago.

Well informed men in the automobile industry declare that the Whippet Six strikes a new achievement for design, quality, price and performance in the light six cylinder field as the Whippet Four did in the light four group two years ago.

Both cars set a new trend in their separate price classifications since they embraced characteristic features of design and construction which were new in their classes.

Lowest Priced Six

The introduction of the new Whippet Six brought to the automobile market the lowest priced six cylinder car in the world. Equipped with a seven-bearing crankshaft, full force feed lubrication and other features and a performance rating that is said to equal that of many higher priced cars, the Whippet Six found a ready market. Willys-Overland merchants from over the nation report that the new Whippet Six is registering the greatest buying demand in the history of the light six field and every effort is being made at the company's factories to maintain production of this model at capacity to fulfill the volume of orders that have been received by the sales department since the car was first placed on display.

Dodge Brothers Export Sales Show Substantial Gain

Increase of 17.5 Per Cent Made Over Record for May 1927; 3,814 Units Sent Out From Plants

DETROIT, Mich., June 23.—Consolidated in the foreign automotive market are evidenced by the export of 3,814 units of Dodge Brothers trucks and Graham Brothers trucks from the plants in the United States and Canada during May, compared to May a year ago, when 3,243 units were shipped, this represents a gain of 568 units or 17.5 per cent, and an increase of 863 units of 26.3 per cent over April, 1928.

The plant of Dodge Brothers, Ltd., Canada reported the best month in its history during May with shipments of 1,347 passenger cars and trucks; the best previous month was May, 1926 with a total of 1,347 units.

The record of 1,347 units is a gain of 742 or 122.6 per cent over a year ago, and 385 units or 28.7 per cent over April this year.

192,538 Units in 5 Months

Increased demand for passenger cars and trucks is reflected by the Brothers total shipments for the first five months of this year compared to the corresponding period last year. A total of 192,538 units was shipped from the plants in United States and Canada for the first five months of 1928, compared to 83,781 for the corresponding period last year, a gain of 108,757 or 22.4 per cent.

Shipments for June indicate these substantial gains over 1927 will be maintained for the first half of the year, both in the passenger and commercial car sales.

Evidence of the leadership of the Dodge Brothers trucks is shown by commercial car registrations in California from Jan. 1 to April 30th in California, Nevada and Arizona, typical of the other parts of the West.

In California, new Graham Brothers trucks registered represented 25.1 per cent of all makes; in Nevada, 37.9 per cent; in Arizona, 29.3 per cent.

like pulling against dragging brakes, or a slipping clutch, causes it to overheat.

Another burden on the engine is due to neglect of the tires. If the tires are too soft they pull hard. Over inflated tires should not be over inflated to avoid the opposite condition, or hard riding and greater possibility for punctures and blowouts will result.

If the driver knows his car thoroughly, he will know exactly when to shift into low gear. At least, he won't do this unless he has to. For excessive use of low gear will cause the engine to overheat.

Sometimes speed can be picked up easily in high by judicious use of the throttle without straining the motor and without being obliged to resort to lower gear. At any rate, constant shifting from high to low doesn't help the transmission, either.

But this shouldn't deter the driver from shifting to low gear at the proper time. An engine will overheat from improper use of high gear as well.

Clancy Proves He Was Wrong

Twenty-Five Years Ago He Wrote "Auto Useless Invention With No Future" Now He's Big Prover

PONTIAC, Mich., June 23.—Back in 1903 two bright young students of Lehigh University collaborated in writing a pessimistic thesis which scornfully criticized the automobile as "a rich man's toy, a useless invention with no future."

Their treatise was based upon personal experience with several popular cars of the day, including the long-forgotten Knox which reared a lone sizzling cylinder head right up through the floor-boards.

The students experimented also with some of the first four cylinder cars which then were breathing a stream of adverse advertising sponsored by the single cylinder manufacturers who drew discouraging comparisons between the complexity of handling four small horses instead of one big, powerful horse." Condemned horseless carriages. But one cylinder or four, the young essayists condemned the entire horseless carriage idea as unsound, impractical and doomed to certain failure.

Today, a quarter of a century later, both of the former Lehigh students are actively refuting their collegiate conclusions. One of them has just placed in operation a $3,000,000 addition to a $25,000,000 group of automobile factories. He is A. R. Clancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company. The other is Paul Gerhard, president of Paul Gerhard Motors, Omaha, Neb., who sells the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes which his former college chum manufactures.

Though failure of the cooling fan and improper operation of engine and its accessories, causing overheating of the motor, may be traced indirectly to negligence on the part of the motorist, there are some causes that may be directly attributed to the driver himself.

In the little matter of improper use of the spark lever, after starting, the spark is retarded, not only is power lost, but excessive heat results from the hot gas left in the cylinder.

Retarded spark keeps the gas hot not only during the power stroke of the piston, but during the part of the exhaust stroke, puts an extra burden on the motor with a resultant loss of power besides an increase of heat.

When the clutch is another habit, the clutch will slip and the engine will then be called upon to do the excessive power and that has been lost through the slipping clutch.

The result is an overheated engine. The final result, of course, is ineffective clutch and a stalled automobile.

When riding the clutch, riding the pedal is another cause for heating of the engine. A slight pressure on the brake pedal causes the motor to drag and puts an extra burden on the motor.

The engine must have as much oxygen in operation as it possibly get, in order to pull at its efficiency. Any added work

What is a Sale?

Sometime ago we heard a definition that appealed to us.

"Selling something that won't come back to someone who will."

That has been our business policy. We are not in business to lose money—neither are we here to make any more than our legitimate profit.

To do this as we see it, it is necessary to, in the case of Tires for example, sell you and our other friends, the most care-free miles at the lowest per-mile cost.

Initial cost means nothing if it is paid for something that is going to "play out" long before it should. "Special Prices" for cheap products are new—that is all.

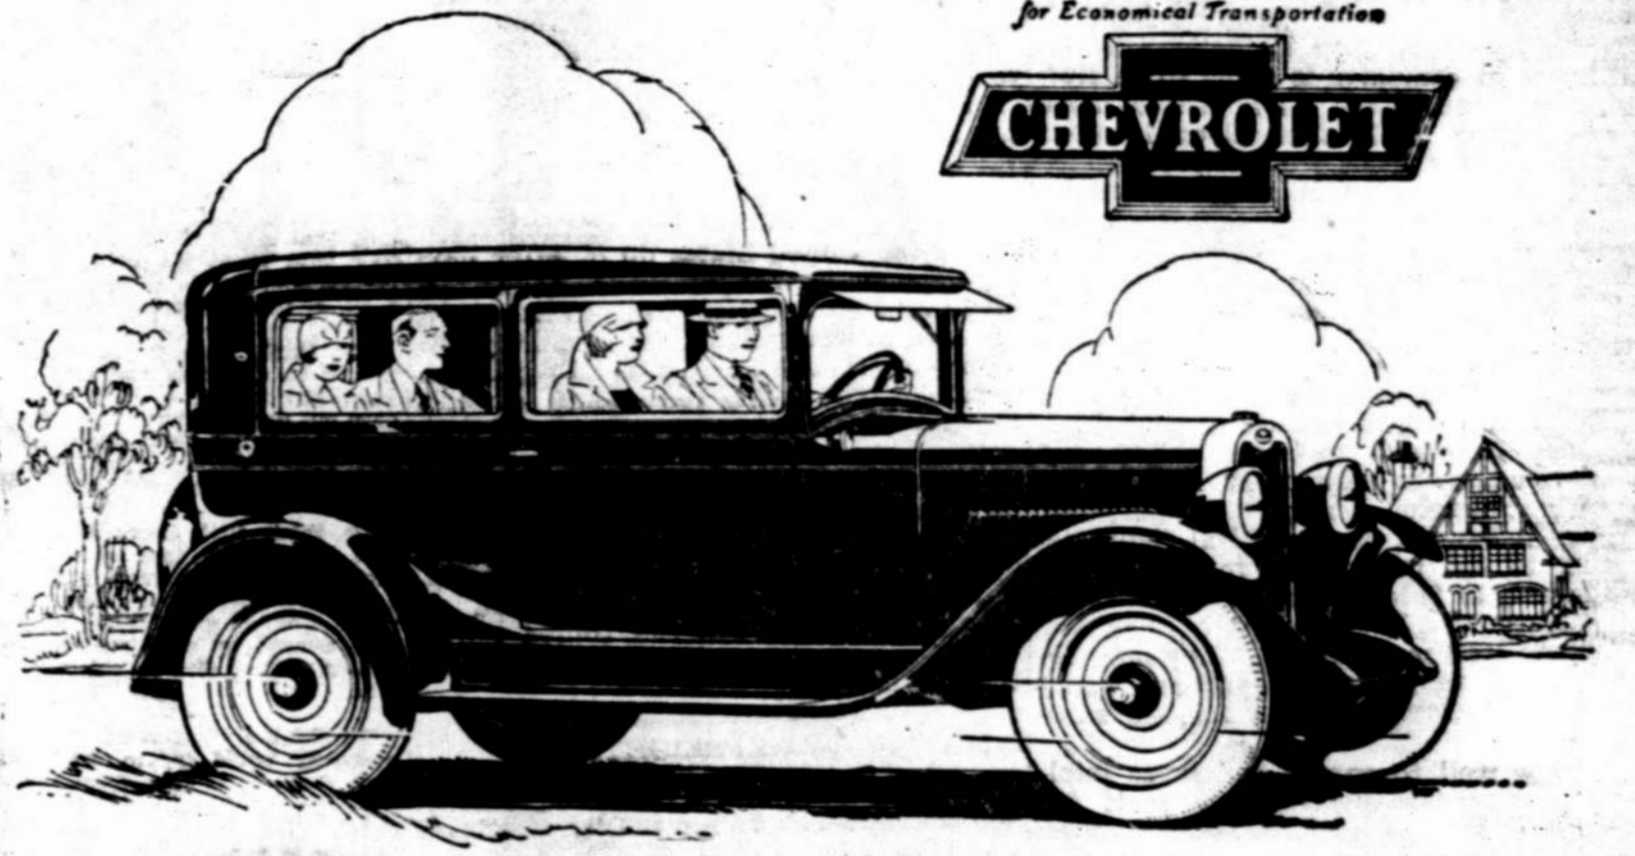

Our new lower prices on Miller Geared-to-the-Road Tires make them the last word in Tire economy—we mean final economy. Let us show you how really fine they are—how you can eliminate trouble and save money by riding on them.

MAKING THE UNCLEAN CLEAN—By mercy and truth, iniquity is purged; and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil.—Prov. 16:6.

PRAYER—Purge me with hyssop and I shall be clean. Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow.

MUST DEMOCRATS VOTE FOR SMITH

It would seem from the way people talk, who have been Democrats for many years that there is come a time in the history of men that party is not going to tie them any longer. Men are in the minds of people these days rather than party.

ference of the world, and has he ever given of his time and means to build up and nourish an institution that gives more service to human welfare than any other on earth? By no means. He is a voice from the bleachers. He has never played the game, but he sits outside and damns those who do.

DOWN WITH WAR

THE abolition of war as an institution means the reversal of fundamental international law and the voluntary abandonment by the nations of an instrumentality that has promoted national policy, good and bad, for ages.

The Big Roundup

SO THINK WE

We think that people who live in glass houses should not throw parties in this day and time.

We think that some people work so hard to get something for nothing that they frequently take something for nothing.

We think that the republican builders of the platform are honest in their desire for honesty in government, but it looks like there is always some fellow trying to take the joy out of life.

We think if the republicans wanted to do honor and credit to Americans first that they should have put Senator Curtis in as presidential nominee.

We think that ill-gotten money very seldom ever does anyone any good, or at least to any length of time.

We think that if a lot of these husbands would try to get along with their wives that there would never be a cross word between them.

We think this is a strange old world anyway. We read in the newspapers a few days ago where Mr. Charles M. Schwab says he thought so much of them once, and then suddenly found out that there is nothing but faults to back them up.

PRSSS COMMENT

"Money itself is lifeless, impotent, sterile. A man with $1,000 in gold on the desert might die of hunger or thirst. He might go mad and perish, and the gold would not help him. But man with his brain, brawn and imagination using money as his servant, may feed the hungry, cure the diseased, make the desert places bloom, bring beauty into life.

"Realizing the spiritual will give meaning and zest to life. A most pathetic exorcism of the intellectual world today is the disease cynicism the result of spiritual malnutrition in poor, floundering souls, who, no matter how successful in mastering physical, social or mental sciences, have not found the key to mastery of self and its world; who, no matter how difficultly they relate fact to fact, have not related themselves harmoniously to life itself."

"It is the insignificant, minute details of life that make it possible for one to reveal one's self when the great events occur."

"The first great universities of the United States were founded upon the basic fact that you can know nothing in ignorance. There is no place in the land to build an altar to an unknown God. We are a free people, and our liberty is constrained only through our devotion to Jesus Christ."

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that a certain Lubbock man, we are not going to tell you who it is, and you need not ask us, saw that his daughter was having quite a time getting a new pair of shoes on, and told her that they were just simply too small and that she would not be able to get them on till she had worn them for awhile.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey has decided that the real estate business is really a better way to make money than fighting for it. He recently sold a hotel in Los Angeles for $650,000, cleaning up a cool $100,000, and did not have to knock anyone out in order to get it, and did not have to get any black eyes or bruises.

It is reported that the annual row about the price of binder twine has started again. Every year about this time the farmers face a raise of the price of twine, and vow that they will never pay the price again, but when time comes for harvest they shell out the price asked and do not do more than complain. This is about all the relief the republicans have ever given the farmer.

It is reported that fifty donkeys will be sent to the Democratic convention at Houston from San Antonio. We do not know whether this is part of the delegation from that city or not, but in all probability this group will know about as much about it as some of the higher class animals who will attend that meeting.

It is reported that Slaton has some battle axes down that way. We were down to that burg a few days ago, and three out of the four men we so parked in front of one of the drug stores in that place, were spitting on the sidewalk at regular intervals of two or three seconds.

It is reported that a Lubbock pessimist, who is a brick layer by trade has discovered that his is a hard life. He says if he does not work hard he will get fired and if he works fast his job will give out. Such is the life of a pessimist.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

To the average person a tumor is a cancer and a cancer is a tumor. The physician differentiates many types of new growths in the body, his main classification being into benign and malignant tumors.

A benign tumor is one that grows in one spot only. It does not transplant itself to other parts of the body. It is likely to grow slowly and to be limited in its growth by certain definite factors.

When the physician makes a diagnosis of benign tumor he knows that the condition can be controlled by surgical removal, or by the use of other methods. Because the tumor is not likely to produce serious illness or death even if it is left alone, it is called benign.

A malignant tumor or cancer is dangerous from the earliest moment that it appears in the body. Immediately it begins to attack the normal tissues that surround it. Moreover, the cells have the power of traveling to other portions of the body there to set up new spots where the cells reproduce themselves rapidly.

Soon new rapidly growing tumors are forming in many places and it is impossible to hope to remove enough to save the life of the individual on whom the malignant growth is thriving. Sometimes the growths attack internal organs on which the existence of the human being depends. Their death comes soon.

LAUGHS

Enviously Situated "Howdy, Lard!" saluted an acquaintance. "How's everything?" "Finner's frog hair!" returned Life Laug of Booger Hoiler. "O course, it was so wet last spring that I didn't raise nuth'n' worth bragging about, and wife's got a rain' in her head and ain't no 'count for nuthin', a couple of the ch'ildren got snake bit yest'ery and are yelling about it yet, my brother-in-law took a notion to die on me not long ago and mused the place up scan'lous, the south end of the house got burnt off one night last week, our only cow choked to death t'other day, and such like. But a couple of my bounds have got six pups apiece. Peartest little scallawags you ever laid your eyes on!"

"One more word from you and I'll knock your head off." "You will?" "Yes, I will. I'll knock your head off."

"What?" "I said: 'One more word from you and I'll knock your head off.'" "Oh, you will, will you?" "Yes, I will."

"What?" "What?" "Difficult!" Emily: "I love you!" David: "Oh, it isn't me, it's the moonlight that's affecting you." David: "Maybe, but I can't pet moonlight!"—Mrs. W. K. Peery.

When they shall ask me over there: "What did you see, what did you do, In what great splendor did you share?" Tell us about the folks you knew, I'll bet they'll smile to hear me say: "I saw the tulip bloom in May."

Spring after spring, I loved the breeze Which clover blossomed to perfume, I watched the birds build nests in trees And saw the roads come to bloom. For trout I used to wade the streams And had an endless number of dreams.

I had a little garden there. Despite the cares I had to bear There never came a dreary day. But what some loveliness was there. And forty or poor or great or low The friends I made were good to know.

I had a little garden there. A home where it was good to stay. I'd food for all, and some to spare. And there were games I loved to play. And though I sighed for pleasant lost, Life on the earth was worth the cost.

Early Days On The South Plains

BY J. J. DILLARD

In all ages we have had pioneers. Even Christ was a pioneer. He longed for the free, open, wide expanse of space, where there was freedom of thought and speech.

Christopher Columbus was a pioneer; he explored the unknown and untried sea. Cortez explored Mexico. Pizarro invaded Peru. Magellan sailed through the unknown seas and through the Strait which bears his name, and crossed the Pacific ocean, returning home by Cape of Good Hope, thus circumnavigating the globe.

Ponce de Leon, the gallant soldier, landed in Florida in 1512. Ferdinand de Soto and others too numerous to mention were pioneers. From the discovery of America to the present day we have had many pioneers of note. We have had many within the last fifty years.

Frank Wheelock a Pioneer Perhaps the most conspicuous of these West Texas pioneers was Frank Emerson Wheelock who was born in Holland, Erie county, New York state on April 11, 1863. His father and mother were born in the same state. His grandparents were born in the state of Vermont. His ancestors were Scotch-Irish, having immigrated to the United States from Scotland.

Frank, as he is familiarly known, was left motherless at age of six years. His grandfather Wheelock died a few years prior to the death of his mother, Mrs. Stullman. His father, Dr. Wheelock and his grandmother came to Madison county, Wisconsin, where they resided for about two years, later moving to Moline, Illinois. Resided for a few years in Washington, Iowa. Later Dr. Wheelock and son, Frank, grew successful in North Dakota and on account of the rigid cold winters, he again moved, this time to Minneapolis, Minn., and after a few years residence in that state, returned to Moline, Ill. and took charge of a stable of trotting-horses owned by his father's wife, Stullman. W. Wheelock, who was a capitalist and was president of the Moline Plow company, president of the First National bank of that place and president of numerous other corporations in Moline.

Among them was an corporation known as the Western Land and Live Stock company in which he owned a controlling interest. The Western Land and Live Stock company owned 86,000 acres of land located in the southeast quarter of Lubbock county, and it was stocked with 20,000 head of cattle. Stillman W. Wheelock and Frank E. Wheelock of Moline, Ill., on the 27th day of April 1887, after Frank's 24th birthday, coming to Lubbock county to inspect the ranch properties of the Western Land and Live Stock company.

They assisted him in locating 1871. Mitchell Columbus on April 29, 1887. They hired a team of horses, hack and driver and left for the L. O. A. ranch, which was located some five or six miles southeast of Lubbock on the south side of the canyon, arriving at the headquarters on May 1, 1887, more than 41 years ago.

Stullman W. Wheelock after an inspection of the ranch, employed young Frank to remain and take charge of the ranch in the capacity as general manager, which position he retained until Stullman W. Wheelock died and the land cattle was sold. Frank employed R. C. Burns, who is now tax assessor, as ranch manager. Mr. Burns was at that time ranch manager of the Square and Compass ranch in Borden county, owned by the Nave and McCord Cattle company.

Mr. Burns remained with the Western Land and Live Stock company in the above capacity until the property was sold. In the latter part of 1889, W. E. Raynor of Stonewall county came to Lubbock county for the purpose of establishing a town and organizing the county and locating the county site. He made an oral agreement with F. E. Wheelock and R. C. Burns to assist him in locating the county site, promising them certain interest in the town and adjoining lands. He finally decided to locate his town on the section immediately north of the Tech, leaving Wheelock and Burns out of the enterprise.

Establish Own Town After he had decided to establish his own town without the assistance of Wheelock and Burns, they decided to start a town their own and to contest the county site question with Mr. Raynor. They established their own town immediately east, across the Plainview highway, from the Country club property, some three miles north of the present city of Lubbock.

In about about eight months there were in the Raynor town 32 houses and 26 people in the Wheelock and Burns town. The animosity between the promoters of the two rival towns became so acute that serious trouble was momentarily anticipated. W. A. Carlisle, another pioneer citizen, was interested in the Raynor town, and being a man who at all times and under all circumstances was for peace and harmony, anticipating serious trouble, Mr. Carlisle submitted his plan to the Raynor town.

and be able to pound it with such a blow that the tremors of the world's power-ah, give us power! But might might might a man how to live. Mighty Goliath dispersed to late. The weakness of David plus the strength of God was invincible. And mighty Gennacher invading Jerusalem was forced to acknowledge that one with God is mighty. His proud boast against Hezekiah: "Think not that you God can deliver you out of my hand. The nations round about trusted in their gods, but where are they today? I and my fathers have conquered them," became a different song after God had finished with him. Not the arm of flesh but the sickness of Paul, plus the arm of God, conquers the world.

"Riches will not teach a man how to live. Let not the rich man glory in his riches. Oh, friends, let us rather gather treasure to heaven!" We have already noted various things that will not teach a man how to live: wisdom, might, riches, wonder if we can not sum up everything the world seeks to live for under one of these three, "the wisdom, might, or riches. If so we conclude that the world has not been taught how to live.

Now, let us consider what will teach man how to live. We will teach man how to live by means of a morning at that knowing God teaches a man how to live. But why? God exercises lovingkindness and if you really know God, you will exercise loving kindness. wonder if love will not teach a man how to live. Some one has said: "Happiness is a by-product. You fall to find it when you seek it, but when you seek to make other happy, you surprise yourself by becoming happy also." Jerry McAuley was taught how to live by means of a tramp in the slums of New York City, he spurred a tract offered him by a poor clad city missionary. Instead, he said: "If you gave me your coat, I would appreciate it." The mission-ary did give him his coat, and the act of love so impressed Jerry McAuley that he has never since been in need of a coat.

Carlsbad Cavern With Its Miles Of Bewildering Marvels "Beggars All Description"; Is Ideal Scenic Spot

Writer Finds Cavern To Be One of World's Wonders; Lubbock Should Visit The Cavern and Sense Beauty

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Imagine something so beautiful, so awe-inspiring, so magnificent, so gigantic, so marvelous, so bewildering, so unbelievable, so wondrous, so vast and so heaven-like that "it begs all description" and is beyond all human powers to conceive and you have the Carlsbad cavern, near Carlsbad, New Mexico, and lying 243 miles slightly southwest of Lubbock.

Imagine anyone not wanting to see it and you have a case of pure and undefiled insensibility. No better disposition of a weekend can be made than in visiting the cavern, now the year-round mecca of hundreds of thousands of tourists from the world over.

Seven Hours From Lubbock A drive of seven hours from Lubbock places you in Carlsbad, a tiny little city nestled in the Pecos valley near the rugged foothills of the Guadalupe mountains in southeastern New Mexico. An additional drive of an hour finds you at the natural portal of the cavern, opened as one of the wonders of the world as the result of 27 years of exploration by Jim White, a Texas cowboy and now chief of the guide corps. It is now known as the Carlsbad Cave National Monument.

The payment of a $2 guide fee and you are eligible for the bewildering descent of 750 feet; a subterranean journey which carries you through miles of vast chambers, intricate galleries and passages, under millions of pendants, through fairlands of titanic proportions and down to breath-taking depths.

Seems Unlimited With 200 odd steps as you first descend you enter a vault as dimly lit as a cave and as night. Striking a level you wander through a maze of steps and again down additional steps with a noticeable shake your knees you sense in an indescribable manner the immensity of the void as the lantern carried by the guide begins to cast shadows dancing grotesquely in and out of the innumerable passages and alcoves. As you descend you note that the shadows and light possess unlighted realms.

Through countless turns of the trail, the vastness of the cavern begins to thrust itself more upon you as here and there giant flood lights pierce out various places of translucent beauty and formation on the walls, floors and ceilings.

Imagination Runs Wild Then you begin going down down again and time, distance and directions are matters of little importance as your imagination runs wild and wonderful accounts to unexpected heights. The unbelievable and impossible begins to appear in this buried world as myriad formations of complicated coraline encrustations, the blue-green white and the sparkling brilliance of frost, the black and grey and brick red of the basic rocks, the pale green of the flowstone, the shell pink and tea-rose in the stone curtains and portiers, the light cream of the great domes, the turquoise blue of the wood, the delicate and fresh delicacies and stalagmites flash before your eyes.

in the King's Palace, the Queen's Chamber and the Big Room. Lunch is greeted with ravenous hunger in the lunch room where coffee and sandwiches are served 750 feet below the ozone.

Return More Impressive The return trip brings greater amazement as glimpses of the richness of the infinitesimal part of the glories of the Texas Trail are revealed and climaxed with the lighting of a giant vari-colored flare in the Big Room.

You are carried to the opening of the lower cavern, a black hole where 150 feet below additional wonders are in store, Jim White, who has discovered more than 30 miles of the cavern says. It is to be opened up after July 1.

Returning from the opening of the lower cavern, one sees more things and seem in a different place although you are following practically the same trail back. Then you go up and up where you went down with the lights playing still stranger tricks on you. An hour later the faint blue haze of the cave's opening begins to appear which soon turns a dazzling brilliance. Green, purple, blue, and all the colors of the rainbow make their appearance on the rocks and walls near the opening which looked to be only black objects on the descent.

Is It Really So? Trudging out into the afternoon sunlight you wonder if it is all really so or if you have just been in a dream, trance or even another world since that morning.

But it's useless to attempt to describe the cavern in any way, the above words might just as well have some for naught for to appreciate this bit of God's handiwork, you must see it, that's all.

MOTORING HINTS

If you're one of the fresh thousands of greenhorns planning to begin your first long motor tour during the vacation holidays, what follows may offer you a modicum of wisdom gained from experience. Even if you do as you damn please about the matter, says the Chrysler News, publication of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

One fact is that those who feel the urge of the wide open spaces and "fools" when they road comfortably in a motor car day by day "as cheaply as they can live at home," the paper continues. "Touring club statistics indicate that for one year the average tourist car carries 3.66 persons, and each of these campers spent an average of $3.21 a day for food, shelter, amusement, general necessities and running expenses.

The driver may be profoundly ignorant of the intricate mechanism of his car, but why worry if it is a make which engineers have endowed with performance, dependability and long life, and as long as courteous dealers dot the countryside, as eager to render service as the factory itself? Be prepared by driving an automobile that is fleet on the open highways, powerful on the angling inclines, strong under tough road conditions and safe at all times. Then trouble isn't likely to mar your pleasure. People must believe that "Providence takes care of children and fools" when they venture forth in a machine that they aren't sure will be able to cope with all the exigencies that can arise on a long tour. Besides, it's a relief to drive a car which your neighbors in camp can't regard with dubious glances.

Motor wandering has become so popular as an outdoor sport that it now ranks in the $300,000,000-a-year class. This season it is estimated that 44,000,000 persons will make long motor tours, of which number a large percentage will camp enroute. Rich and poor alike now leave their fireplaces to play "motoring gypsies." Around evening camp fire in the tourist grounds you'll find men of all classes from a half-dozen states rubbing elbows. At these times you'll become convinced, as you did one tenderfoot, that what cynics have dubbed "the so-called human race" is really a kindly, friendly people, all democratic and ready to accord innumerable favors. The secret is to be a gentleman and "the world is yours."

After it's over, count on being a changed person. Every mile of motor wandering exerts a magic influence which is hard to identify, but nevertheless manifests itself in those who follow the wake of the caravan of pathfinders and covered wagons which trekked over these same trails long before. The experience, comparable to none other, is broadening, inspirational, invigorating and educational.

The second time it'll be easier. The first thing the motor camper

Graham Brothers Trucks Changed

All Trucks Will Be Sixes Now; Four-Wheel Brakes, Four-Speed Transmission and Radiator Shutter Added

DETROIT, Mich., June 23. — A complete line of six cylinder trucks and commercial cars with larger capacities, longer wheelbases, four-wheel brakes and many improvements in motor power, construction and appearance has been announced by Graham Brothers, the truck division of Dodge Brothers, Inc. Supplanting the four-cylinder trucks in all capacities, the new line ranging from the Package Express to the two-and-one-half-ton size offers greater power, speed and flexibility to fill the transportation demands of 95 per cent of all business. The new designations are Merchants Express, Commercial Truck, one and one-quarter ton, and three-quarter ton, and two and a half ton.

The new trucks are now on display in the salesrooms of the Royalty Motor company, Lubbock Dodge Brothers dealers, and factory production has been speeded up to meet the increasing demand for six cylinder trucks in commercial cars. Fine appearance, regarded as a definite business asset for the truck owner, marks the construction of the new trucks throughout. Graceful lines of the engine hood and cabs, with bodies lacquered in attractive colors, have been combined with sturdiness and dependability long associated with Graham Brothers' trucks.

Many New Features Added. Four-wheel brakes on all models, radiator shutters operated from the dash and temperature indicators on the instrument board on all models except the Merchants Express are outstanding features. Adoption of an internal gear, four-speed transmission in the one and one-quarter ton and heavier capacities, insures two quiet, high speeds, longer engine life and greater fuel economy. Lockheed hydraulic internal expanding brakes are standard equipment on the Commercial Truck and heavier capacities, while Midland steel-draulic mechanical internal expanding brakes are provided on the Merchants Express. All brakes are completely enclosed.

After the termination of his first trip is to begin looking forward to doing it again next year! As Aesop might have said 2000 years ago: "The first 100,000 miles are the toughest, after that it's soft picking."

The fifteenth wedding anniversary is celebrated at the Crystal Wedding.

Major Hoople Says It's 'Hot Stuff'

And Of Course He Means Living In Texas During The Past Several Torrid Days

BY MAJOR HOOPLE McCORKLE
Avalanche-Journal Philosopher

Well, we don't know that the weather man has it in for the Plains area, but he has certainly demonstrated his powers to act in case he did. No use talking—if he wants to make it not be a case. However, there's no use fussing (or when it is hot in Lubbock just put yourself on the back and thank the Lord that you are not down in the really warm belt.

Heretofore we have had an idea that a sandstorm was about the most disagreeable thing known to a more or less "case hardened" though highly civilized West, but since the heat contest this week we have just about decided that a sandstorm is a joke as compared with well regulated heat. It can do more damage and do it quicker than anything we have ever heard of.

Worse for the Crops

For instance it will take a sandstorm all day to grind down a cotton patch or a garden, while heat can and will scorch it down to the tap roots in 30 minutes. Grass that will thrive on sand and wind will give up the ghost when old Sol hits it with a little of hundred and some odd degrees of pure, though intense heat.

We know one man that has ordered a car of tents to shelter his tomato plants, but unless the weather cools off a little he will have to install a system of refrigeration in every one of them.

People who operate incubators know that it takes considerable heat to "make the eggs hatch" but this week they put out all fires and sprinkled the eggs with ice water. Even then some of the young chicks arrived with scorched feathers.

Ways to Keep Cool

Children have spent most of the week in bathing suits under a hydrant or lawn sprinkler, while the parents satisfied themselves with eating ice and drinking homebrew. Spooners have failed to spoon—no girl would want her best beau to see her perspiring and sweating in some sections to the tune of a pin and a half an hour.

There have been several fires in the city, and while it is not definitely known most people have an idea that the heat scorched the paper on the walls and the house would go up in flames before the preparing owner could call the fire department, and turn on the hose.

Radio fans have done some kicking and most of them buying new tubes—the old ones melted.

The children had been suffering from heat, defied the whole coddled world and went to Wichita Falls instead of Sweetwater. They have been given plenty time to "cool off."

Rubber tires have melted, and passed out while state owners calmly quipped and admitted that they enjoyed driving on the rim. Spark plugs have not been necessary—the sun was all that was needed.

Even Ice Cream Is Warm

Ice cream and soda water salesman report good business, but complain that they have had trouble in keeping their products cold.

Dogs have suffered alone with their owners. There are few streets here, and the owners generally insisting on reserving them for personal use.

Men who had not taken a cold bath since the days of the old swimming hole have been known to spend from three to five hours a day in a bath tub filled with cool water and cracked ice. And being of the porous porous type, sufficiently "thick" to absorb considerable heat, we think the ice water bath the proper idea. It may be a sin to waste ice in this manner, but it is more pleasant than sizzling to death.

His Majesty Satan Devil had just well pull down his signs—he will never be able to bluff people into being "good" through fear of fire and brimstone. No they have found they can live through it. Of course he may make it a felony to import ice into his region, but if he does some fellow will take out a patent on some new cooling machine before he has time to get very hot. He's getting pretty wise these days.

Plan for Heaven

Indians during the looked forward to the time when they might enter the happy hunting ground; people in to forests look forward to a heaven that will be level and where one may have long vision without being blinded by trees, but people on the South Plains are now looking forward to their heaven as being a big ice box where they can talk and play harps all day without the insects look forward to a shed their coats. (You know it is nature for us to want just those things we haven't.) If it's hot we want it cold—if it's cold we want heat. If we have trees we want the prairie and if we have prairie we want big trees and mountains. Funny bunch, we are.

Now the Holy Writ doesn't say anything about what kind of a climate Adam and Eve enjoyed, but we have been told that the Garden of Eden was a place filled with comforts. In plain English it was not hot enough to make a fellow want ice, and he could sleep on the creeks at night without fear of getting cold. Just neutral.

But Adam and Eve were not satisfied and so far as we know none of their kids or grandkids have been either. Jehovah fixed up a good place for them to live, but they didn't appreciate it (men never do) so he just scattered the bunch and let 'em all root hog or be a runt. He made odd climates and warm climates and allowed every fellow to choose for himself. Some people will leave Texas and go to Alaska where they must freeze for six months in the year, but their choice.

Native Alaskans have an idea that the equator country would be the hot stuff, and it would.

In Texas we have a temperate climate—that is not too hot (very often) and as a rule not too cold.

Might As Well Smile

This being true we see no special reason for dissatisfaction. If it warms up a little we can get in the shade and think cool thoughts like ice and snow and "blue norther." And then when the blue norther hits us like a pile driver we can get in by the fire and think of warm things like hot chocolate, chili con carne and "June breezes."

So after all most of our troubles are imaginary, and if we put in as much time trying to be thankful for what we have as we do in worrying about the things we "think we should have" we would get a lot more out of life.

Yes, it has been hot in Texas for several days, but it has also been pretty cold on that bunch of stunt fliers who are now enjoying life on an iceberg. They would no doubt be glad to change climates. Let's quit howling.

When A Girl Loves

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED VIRGINIA BREWSTER, is in love with an artist, NATHANIEL DANN, but she is tricked into promising to marry FREDERICK DEAN in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of.

BREWSTER had lost his fortune in speculation before his death and VIRGINIA is left destitute. She pawns some of her jewelry and OLIVER CUTLER promises to invest the money for her.

She seeks work, but without success. She discovers that she is being shadowed and suspects that DEAN has bribed the agencies not to help her. OLIVER gains her confidence and shows her attentions which she resents, but then VIRGINIA discovers the familiarity with which he models. CHIRL treats her like a doll.

DEAN sends VIRGINIA an evening wrap which she returns, telling him how contemptible she thinks his spying tactics are. His virginity and she warns OLIVER then she is lucky enough to get a position which she likes.

The summer passes and in early September she is amazed when charged by CUTLER's alterations. She appeals to OLIVER to explain, and demands a settling of her account. Then she learns that he has not made any money for her, and that she is no nearer her hundred thousand goal.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII Oliver waved her to a seat. "If we've got to go into all that, please sit down," he said after a few seconds of close inspection of Virginia's features. She had somehow learned enough of his duplicity to require an explanation on his part, he reasoned.

Any attempt at further concealment would be futile, he knew. And he did not regret that things had come to an impasse—the affair had dragged itself out beyond the time he had thought would be necessary for the fulfillment of his plans.

In the hours he had spent with Virginia alone in his office he had hoped to find an opportunity to tell her of his infatuation and make her listen to him. But no such opportunity had presented itself. Virginia had remained definitely business-like and aloof.

At times he had been driven to the verge of declaring his passion regardless of her distant manner—a manner her sense of propriety in the presence had inspired in her. He had tried little things such as lingering handclasp, revealing glances, hints of domestic unhappiness, and other formulas for breaking the ice.

Virginia had ignored them on the occasions they had penetrated her consciousness. She did not wish to repeat the mistake she believed she had made about him in the beginning, and so she told herself that Oliver was merely lonely and looking for a sympathy she had no intention of giving him.

Generally she failed to notice his thinly-veiled efforts to inject a wedge of personal interest into their meetings for the reason that she was absorbed in her own problems. Her mind was obsessed with the idea of freeing herself from Frederick Dean's clutches. She had given little thought to anything else when with Oliver.

She had not dared let herself dwell on the cost of failure when in Nathaniel's company, because he read trouble in her face and asked questions. At the office she resolutely put it out of her mind to devote herself to work. But with Oliver she was frankly consumed with anxiety about the outcome of his efforts to help her.

It was just this burning desire each time they met to know if he had made any gain that impressed him with the importance of the money to her. She had not told him what it meant to her, but he knew it concerned Frederick Dean and concluded that the man had some hold on her.

Often he had seen a flash of fear and hatred in her eyes when his name was mentioned, and his wish to possess her was father to the thought that she might listen to him in a last despairing effort to frustrate Dean.

Cleverly, and without a pang of remorse, he had let her believe that he was succeeding in his speculations for her and would have the sum needed at the end of the year she had given him to accumulate it. Failing to win before that time, it had been his intention to overwhelm her at the last moment with his bombshell of disaster, by telling her he had lost the entire sum in one gamble.

Then—well, he was prepared to part with $100,000 if she wanted it badly enough.

But Frederick Dean's disclosure of his knowledge of their secret meetings had changed his plans, making it necessary to tell Virginia this lie prematurely.

Just how she had discovered that it was a lie Oliver could not at the moment guess, but he quickly made up his mind that this would probably be the last chance he would have to regain any of his lost ground and he determined to take advantage of it.

Virginia took the chair, stealing herself to hear almost anything from a man who had tricked her so miserably. She wondered at herself for coming back when she was sure she knew why he had done it. But there was a chance that she was wrong about his motive, and if she were she felt she had a right to demand that he tell her his real reason for deceiving her.

Oliver did not leave her long in uncertainty. "Did you truly believe that I could make $100,000 from $300 in a year's time?" he asked as though it were the most inconceivable thing in the world.

But Virginia was not nonplussed as he had hoped she would be. "Please remember that I have doubted it many times," she replied calmly, "and you always assured me you could do it."

Oliver looked straight at her, sat down in his chair, placed his elbows on the arms, and leaned forward and said very coolly: "And so I can—on my own terms as a broker. Can't you guess why I've been pulling the wool over your eyes, Virginia? I'd have done worse than that if it would have put you in my power. I wanted to get you in a hole so deep you couldn't climb out without any help."

"I'm madly in love with you. If Jeanie would give me a divorce I'd marry you but she told me before we were married that she never would be a divorced woman and she told me so again last night. She'd tear your reputation to shreds if I tried to divorce her."

He stopped for breath and Virginia stared at him, speechlessly fascinated by his complete revelation of his true feelings.

"It's true that I haven't made a cent for you," he went on, speaking in a voice that vibrated through its efforts to suppress its inflections. "You need that hundred thousand badly, don't you? Give half your life for it, wouldn't you? Well, you'll never make it on Wall Street—not on the market. I mean, but you can have it."

"I told you not to worry. I'd have let you know in a few days—when you'd have had time to realize that more than half your year is gone and you're broke. But since you've found out now that I never made any money for you there's no reason why you shouldn't hear the rest of it."

"I'm going up to the Adirondacks next week when Jeanie closes the place on Long Island. A hundred thousand dollars is a lot of money, Virginia. I guess you know that. Quite a lot to make in a week, any day. But if you're ready to go with me next Tuesday I'll give you a check for that amount as soon as we're on the train."

He spoke hurriedly as though in fear she would interrupt him, but Virginia was too stunned to say a word. She had half expected him to confirm her worst suspicions, but she had not dreamed he would still believe that she could do anything but utter loathings and contempt for him. She could not believe he would dare say such things to her.

He waited for her answer and for several long, torturing seconds Virginia sat silent in the grip of shock. Oliver, watching her dilated eyes contract back to normal and her stiffly held body relax slowly. He was not quick enough to grasp the fact that this was the breaking of the spell that held her.

When she jumped to her feet and blazed away at him with hot words of anger, he was taken by surprise. Having failed to realize that she was shocked into silence, he had entertained a growing hope that she was giving consideration to his offer of a fortune.

He shrank back from her fury in alarm while she continued to pour out her wrath upon him. Virginia was mad with despair and disgust, caught in the trap of a man so unscrupulous she could not think of words sufficiently seathing to denounce him as she felt he deserved to be denounced.

"If you only knew what you've done!" she cried at last when words of condemnation failed her. Her fierce anger was abating, giving way to panic. Her hands fluttered up to her throat and clutched it nervously while she swayed dizzily and fell against Oliver's desk for support.

Failure, stark and hopeless, stared her in the face. She knew there was little chance on the market now.

What had she to start with? Three hundred dollars. A little more than she had saved from her salary and perhaps a thousand or two that Mr. Gardner had told her recently she might reasonably expect from his estate, which was still in process of being settled.

But who would help her, with Mr. Dean, and perhaps Oliver now standing by to persecute her? And would she ever dare trust anyone again?

And now that he had destroyed her fool's paradise here, would not her enemy attack her from another quarter? These thoughts trailed through Virginia's mind like scorching wires drawn across her brain. Her position with the Blue Capella might be the next thing to be torn from her.

But all that was very, very little compared to the final great fear that edged through the others and served definitely to crush her.

Frederick Dean could marry his information to Nathaniel! He could inject the same poison there that he had used to convince Jeanie of an affair between her and Oliver.

Oliver saw Virginia's head drop and her face so deathly white. He thought she was falling and sprang to catch her.

As his arms closed round her she lifted her face and stared at him. Oliver saw surrender in her eyes. (To Be Continued)

Accident Toll In Texas Increases Over Last Year

48 Killed And 99 Injured Week Of June 1-7; Total For Year 691 Killed And 2,511 Injured

In spite of "Safety First" campaigns being carried on throughout the country by various organizations, the toll of death and injury from accidents in Texas increased considerably during the week of June 1 to 7 over the corresponding period of a year ago, it is revealed in statistics compiled by the Texas Council of Safety, which shows that 48 persons lost their lives and 99 were maimed during the week of this year.

The total for 1928 to date is shown at 691 killed and 2,511 injured, as against 627 killed and 2,176 injured in the corresponding period a year ago.

Automobile Holds Lead

The automobile continued to hold a long lead in both fatalities and injuries, the report shows, with 15 being killed and 63 injured during the week. Falls stepped up into second, with five being killed and seven injured, and drowning next with five killed and one injured.

Early Days

ed a proposition to Wheelock's and Burns to consolidate the county government on a new location and proceed with the organization of the county.

Agreement Reached

The agreement between Wheelock and Rayner was entered into during the present session of Lubbock, the deed reciting that each rater an undivided one half interest. It was agreed between them that each was to move the buildings from their townships to the new location at his own expense and give all who had been given town lots in the other townships the same amount of property in the new compromise town.

was appointed postmaster in G. W. Singer's place. Postoffice is Moved After receiving the appointment of postmaster, Wheelock secured permission to move the postoffice from the Rayner town to North Lubbock, the Wheelock town. When Wheelock received his commission as postmaster, a number of citizens or North Lubbock volunteered to go with him and see that he was not attacked, but he declined, and declared he would go alone. Wheelock knew that had feeling existed between the citizens of the rival towns and he believed that he could more safely than with his zealous friends.

Moving the postoffice from Rayner's town necessarily carried with it the name of Rayner's town, thus giving the Wheelock town the permanent name of Lubbock.

Town is Renamed

After Mr. Rayner lost the postoffice he remained his town calling it Monterey. Wheelock went to Rayner's town after the postoffice equipment driving a good team and buggy and no one with him.

G. W. Singer was the postmaster and kept the postoffice in a store stocked with general merchandise. Wheelock drove up to the store and tied his team to a post and walked into the store. There were ten men in the building at the time he entered and all were interested in and supporters of the Rayner town.

Wheelock had his commission as postmaster in his pocket which he handed to Singer for inspection, which was signed by the second assistant postmaster general. He also had an order from the second assistant postmaster general to move the postoffice to North Lubbock.

Mr. Singer read the commission and Greer's removal. Mr. Singer told the visiting customers which were his friends that Wheelock had a commission as postmaster and order to move it to his town. One of the bystanders and a staunch friend of Rayner's town spoke and said, "He will play a moving game."

Apparently all of those present shared in the belief of the spokesman and said, "That's right, he will." Wheelock asked them to listen to him and he talked for about ten minutes. He said "I am not here for trouble" and that he was the legal and authorized postmaster as Mr. Singer had informed them, had orders from the government to move the office, and Mr. Singer refused to surrender the office peacefully, that he would report his decision to the postoffice department and that the United States marshal would come and take charge of the office and also Mr. Singer and let the federal court decide the question.

Singer and his associates discussed the question for a few minutes. Then Singer said, "Boys, Wheelock has gone and he and there is no use in kicking, and take charge of the office and take charge of the office and take charge of the office."

Sunday Sermon

And that he accompanied him to the mission, was there converted, and spent the rest of his life preaching the gospel of love to lost humanity. No wonder the large New York newspapers came out with front-page headlines when Jerry McAuley died, saying "Jerry McAuley is dead." But love taught this man how to live.

Further, God exercises justice, and if you really know God, you too will exercise justice. When David failed to follow the path of justice, he found no satisfaction in life. Instead, he tells us, "My bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me; my moisture is turned into the drouth of summer."

God exercises righteousness, and if you really know God, you too will exercise righteousness. Oh, to have lived such a life that you can look the world squarely in the eye. Does a man with an evil conscience know how to live? Hounded from place to place, the look of Cain stamped on his brow, he knows nothing about living.

What we have said about knowing God may be summed up in these words: Knowing God teaches a man how to live, because such knowledge places the look of Cain stamped on the soul. The restless longing for a life which is filled when a man has really learned to know God, Jesus puts it this way: "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst." The soul thirsting in God knows how to live, for a life's longings have been satisfied. "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent."

Knowing God not only teaches a man how to live, but it also teaches him how to die. Wisdom, might, riches must now be left behind. The man who lives for these has never been taught to die, because, in dying, he must leave them all behind.

An old Christian doctor, one who had witnessed many death beds, wrote an article in a magazine some time ago. He said he could not understand how a man could help being a Christian who had witnessed the difference between the death of a Christian and a non-Christian. But the young man may exclaim with impatience: "Why always mention death? We have a long time to live yet." Let us not be too sure of that.

Let this be said for our comfort: If we know God, then He will teach us how to die, no matter how young we may be. Yes, though the urge to live, courses swiftly and powerfully through our veins, God can teach us how to die. A little poem entitled "Enough" expresses my thought beautifully:

"Daddy, it can't be bedtime yet; There's still so much to do— These problems that you said to get Why, I'm not nearly through." The father closed his book and smiled. Carressed the curly head:

The unit of currency of Spain is the tical.

"I think you've done your best, my child. And that's enough," he said. "O Father, Father, must I go? The vision Thou didst give Has shown so much of grief and woe— Such need to work—and live." "The need is seen by others, son: Let them take up the task. Thy part, each day, hath been well done, And that is all I ask."

Yes, God can teach you how to die. But, though you are asked to pass beyond through the portals of death, there is no reason why you should not have a blessed departure, even as the great evangelist Moody had—about whose ministry it was said that "he decreased the population of hell by a million souls." Moody's last words were: "The world is receding and heaven opening; God is calling." Then, when some one suggested that he was going to get well again, he said, "O I am in the gates; I have seen the children"—here he referred to his two grandchildren who had gone on before. Still later he said, "No pain; no valley; is this death? This isn't bad; it is sweet; this is bliss. And finally these words of triumph: "This is my coronation day, and I have been looking forward to it for years!"

The Christian is not afraid to meet the one he knows and loves. The deep communion between his soul and God has taught him how to live and how to die.

NEW WATER TESTS Lamesa Plans More Wells To Increase Supply

LAMESA, June 23.—The City of Lamesa is making plans to acquire additional lands adjacent to the city incorporation which will be used for the purpose of drilling additional water wells on to secure ample water supply for the city. A contract was recently let to the Air Made Wells company of Kansas City with guarantee that at least five hundred gallons per minute will be furnished. The contract calls for an expenditure of $18,500. The geologist of this company reports that an inexhaustible water supply and water sufficient for a city of ten times the present population of Lamesa lies immediately east from the present townsite.
