42 Workers Perish When Lake Floods Mine

ONLY SEVEN ARE SAVED OF THE 19 CAUGHT IN TRAP

No Extended Warning of Flood Given and Waves of Death Engulfed

FRENZY FOLLOWS

Wives and Other Relatives Crowd to Shaft Opening and Wait For Bodies

Special to The Record News.

CROSBY, Minn., Feb. 5.—Forty-two miners perished when the bottom fell out of a small lake and flooded the workings of the Milford Iron mine here late today.

Caught in the lower levels of the small mine, only seven of the crew of 49 at work were able to gain the safety of a skip and ascend to the surface.

Like rats in a trap they died, suffocated by slimy mud and water that gushed through the workings, soaring in the shaft within a few feet of the top within 15 minutes.

There was no extended warning. "just a rumbling like a thousand automobiles roaring down a distant road" one survivor said. Then the leaping black wave of death engulfed them, battering its victims against the walls.

Night found the shaft opening crowded with scores of wives and mothers and children, some in frantic tears, others dry-eyed and staring, as helpless as were the men about them to snatch from the murky waters the bodies of their loved ones.

The mine, situated about four miles north of Crosby in a region somewhat swampy, last year yielded 7,000,000 tons of manganese ore.

It is operated under lease by the Whitmarsh Mining company and is owned by George H. Crosby of Duluth.

Germany To Also Join Nations In Honoring Wilson

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — The German embassy which has so far given no public expression of mourning in the death of Woodrow Wilson, will fly its flag at half staff beginning at 12:30 tomorrow afternoon when the executive departments of the American government will be closed to honor the memory of the former president.

In reply to an inquiry, officials of the embassy said: "It having been officially announced this afternoon that there will be general mourning for the late President Wilson at 12:30 o'clock, the German embassy will join the expression of the nation's mourning by flying its flag at half staff."

Comment was raised when it was noted that the flag was not at half staff, although all other embassies and legations with the exception of the Austrian, had their flag flying in mourning to the late president. At the Austrian embassy it was said the flag would be flown in mourning on the day of the funeral, but at the German embassy it was stated early today that there was no official display of mourning upon orders from the Berlin government which regarded Mr. Wilson as a private citizen.

Jules Jusserand, French ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps was notified by the state department immediately of the death of Mr. Wilson and notified all his colleagues with the result with two exceptions the flags were flown at half staff. Arrangements were also made to send a wreath from the diplomatic corps to the Wilson home, and it was said today at the German embassy that it had on Sunday contributed to the fund for the wreath.

Burk's New Postmaster

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 5.—The announcement of the appointment of Neely R. Vaught of this city as postmaster of the Burkburnett postoffice was received with a general approval throughout the city.

This splendid young man has been in Burkburnett about 5 years, prominently associated with the leading business interests of the city, having served as teller for the Farmers' State bank of Burkburnett and formerly of the American Exchange National bank of Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Vaught was born in Terrell, Texas, and is 29 years of age. He is a world war veteran; a Thirty-second Degree Mason and Shriner; also a Lion and a member of the American Legion of Burkburnett.

He has an interesting young family, a wife and two bright little children. By his attractive personality and good business qualifications, he enjoys the high esteem of hosts of friends in this city who are offering him every congratulation on his new appointment as postmaster of Burkburnett.

The Day In Washington

The house approved an appropriation of 10,629,770 for prohibition enforcement.

Admiral Eberle endorsed the proposed Alemada naval base before the house naval committee.

The senate oil committee met but adjourned because witnesses were late in arriving.

Republicans of the house ways and means committee voted for a 25 per cent reduction in all personal income taxes payable this year.

Evacuation of Vera Cruz by the De la Huerta revolutionary forces was reported to the state department in consular advices.

President Coolidge declared he hoped justification for an increase in the event the wheat tariff would result from the tariff commission's present investigation.

Charles B. Brewer, who investigated the bureau of engraving and printing, began suit to prevent government officials from interfering with securities he said were needed as evidence.

The District of Columbia court of appeals upheld the conviction of Jules W. "Nicky" Arnstein and four others in connection with the transfer of stolen bonds to Washington.

The Canadian government in a note transmitted to the state department declared its willingness to proceed with certain proposals for developing the St. Lawrence deeper water way project.

Announcement was made that injunction proceedings to stop the extraction of oil from the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill reserves would be instituted as soon as President Coolidge signs the Walsh annulment resolution.

Auditor Walsh Answers All Murphy Charges Regarding Jailer and Matron Matter

Said He Wrote Attorney General About Excess Fees on Nov. 27 and Only Recently Received Reply.

Regarding the recent action of the county commissioners' court in rescinding payment of $4.50 per day and $90 a month for jailer's and matron's salaries to the sheriff, County Auditor E. P. Walsh said Tuesday his duties in the matter were clear and that so far as further controversy is concerned, he did not want any.

Walsh reviewed the case concisely, telling how it was first received and the action of his office and the commissioners' court. An opinion from the attorney general's department received by himself July 16, was in reply to a query as to the effect of certain acts of the legislature just prior to that time on the payment of salaries to the sheriff's assistants, stated Walsh. The answer was to the effect a $200 maximum had been provided for monthly payment to jail guards, which was taken to mean just that, he said.

Some months later, in November, Walsh, after having certified amounts of $4.50 per day for jailer and $90 a month for matron, paid to the sheriff, Walsh said his attention was brought to the added payment of the $200 extra for jail guards. This seeming to be surplus payment of fees for jail help, he wrote to the attorney general for a more definite meaning of the act passed June 16, on November 27. This reply did not reach him until last week, he said, and was the opinion of the attorney general's department stating all jail guards, matron and jailer, must be paid out of the fifteen cents per day not to exceed $200 per month.

County Auditor Walsh stated he lamented the arising of any local controversy, but was following the duties of his office and the holding on the law.

STREET CAR HITS FREIGHT; 2 DEAD

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Two men were killed and score or more passengers were injured today when a crowded street car was struck by a freight train on the Indiana Harbor Belt railway and Kedzie avenue and 40th street on the southwest side.

The crews of the train and the street car were taken into custody.

2 ESCAPED FELONS KILLED IN BATTLE WITH POSSEMEN

By The Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 5. Emery Connell and Eulof Sullivan were shot to death in a gun battle with a posse in a battle near Ifedfield late today.

Joe Sullivan, third member of the trio who fled the state prison here last Friday morning, is in a local hospital, believed in a serious condition from loss of blood and exposure.

Fred Snodgrass, a newspaper man accompanying the posse, suffered a slight wound in the foot during the battle in which the two men were killed. The fight lasted about 10 minutes and more than 100 shots were fired. No one else was injured.

The desperados were discovered hiding in leaves and grass in the branches of a fallen tree, and are said to have opened fire as the posse, following flood hounds, came up. The possemen replied with a volley.

MRS. DE BOUCHEL LOSES SUIT FOR $500,000 AGAINST CANDLER

Candler Says Not Surprised At Verdict; Plaintiff "Nothing to Say"

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 5.—Within thirty minutes after the case was given to the jury's verdict denying damages to Mrs. Oneslma de Bouchel of New Orleans in her suit for $500,000 against Asa G. Candler, Sr., of Atlanta, was returned here today in the United States district court. Only one ballot was taken.

"We, the jury, find a verdict for the defendant," was the verdict written across the back of the original petition. Neither of the principals were in the court room when the verdict was announced. Mrs. de Bouchel had alleged breach of promise to marry in bringing her action against the Atlanta millionaire.

A few minutes following the verdict, Mr. Candler was found in the lobby of the Candler building, surrounded by friends who were congratulating him. "I have no statement to make other than I am very happy."

MILLER APPOINTED TO WARDEN'S JOB

By The Associated Press.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 5.—W. A. Miller of Cleburne, for six years sheriff of Johnson county, was appointed warden of the Huntsville penitentiary by the prison commission late this afternoon. Miller arrived in Huntsville and appeared before the commission.

Governor Neff wired a request to the commission Monday asking that Miller receive the appointment.

Five men are in the penitentiary here awaiting the death penalty and one of Miller's first official acts will be to electrocute them Friday in the chair just installed.

B. F. Coleman, former warden and for 20 years an employe of the prison system, resigned rather than become state executioner as required by the new law.

There was a possibility that the five condemned men might be reprieved for the third time had the commission failed to appoint a warden before Friday. Acting Warden Spear expressed his willingness to execute the men but the law provides that the warden do it.

NATIONAL OBSERVANCE

Every City In America Will Pay Tribute This Afternoon During Funeral

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Lonely in the inscrutable majesty of death, Woodrow Wilson kept his last vigil tonight in the quiet room where life ebbed away. Eternal calm and a great peace brooded over the still, strong face. Deep graven lines etched by years of pain and suffering were softened in death, the look of strain gone forever.

Dear ones will have looked their last on those chiseled features when another sun shall have set.

The broken machine, the valiant spirit that ruled it, fled, will have been laid tenderly away amid sculptured marble to sleep forever.

There was little more of preparation necessary today for the funeral ceremonies tomorrow. They will be doubly striking by the utter simplicity. Even the double religious services will be brief and lack much of the cadency sorrow of church ceremonials for the dead. Of military pageantry there will be none. It was so Woodrow Wilson wished to be served in the last hours when men could do for him.

Three times in less than three years the national capital has been called

6 WHITE HOUSE STAFF MEMBERS TO ATTEND WILSON FUNERAL

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—At the request of Mrs. Wilson, six members of the White House staff who served there under the war president will be admitted to both the private funeral services at the house and the public ceremonies later at the cathedral. They are: Rudolpher Forster, since McKinley's time chief clerk at the executive office; Nelson P. Webster, cashier at the executive office throughout the last half-dozen administrations; I. H. Hoover, for years chief usher at the White House; E. D. Smithers, chief telegrapher; P. E. McKenna, usher at the executive offices; C. C. Wagoner, chief stenographer.

Teapot Expected to Steam Again When Leaders Testify

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—William G. McAdoo, a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, is expected to appear next Friday before the senate oil committee at his own request to tell of his employment as counsel by the Doheny oil interest after his retirement from the office of secretary of the treasure in the Wilson administration.

Before Mr. McAdoo takes the stand, Albert B. Fall, who as secretary of the interior granted leases to the Teapot Dome reserve to Harry F. Sinclair and the California reserve number one to the Doheny interests, will be recalled and asked to submit himself for examination. Should he again refuse as committeemen generally believe he will, on the ground that his testimony might tend to incriminate him in future court proceedings, the committee will determine whether contempt proceedings against him will be initiated.

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, who is also here to attend the funeral of Woodrow Wilson, may testify Friday in relation to charges of Mr. Doheny that he would not lease the California naval reserve because he sought to protect big oil companies which Mr. Doheny claims were draining the naval field. Mr. Daniels already has issued a statement denying this charge.

Senator Walsh, democrat of Montana, who has been the dominant figure in pressing the oil inquiry said today the committee also would hear George Greel, chairman of the committee on public information during the war. Mr. Doheny has testified that he advanced $5,000 to J. Leo Stack of Colorado, who told him it was for Mr. Creel who was endeavoring to prevent

Worst Storm In 20 Years Hits Mid-West

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The middle west tonight was digging itself out of the worst snow and sleet storm in two decades with prospects that railroad transportation and wire communication facilities would be improved greatly tomorrow, unless further snow, promised in weather forecasts, offset the headways that had been gained.

Railroads centering in Chicago, many of which had stalled and lost trains somewhere in the snowdrifts of the Mississippi Valley region, reported tonight that conditions were much improved and that trains were moving through the storm but many of them were hours, and some almost a day behind time.

Some estimated the damage at millions of dollars. In Chicago it is estimated it will cost $40,000 to move the snow.

It was reported that almost 40 miles of telegraph and telephone poles and wires just outside Chicago were down.

The storm took a toll of at least three dead in Milwaukee, while a dozen were injured. Twenty inches of snow fell there.

Damage in the Milwaukee section was estimated at close to $1,000,000.

While telephone and telegraph companies said that the great damage to wire communication was in the narrow strip about 50 to 75 miles wide and extending from the Great Lakes to St. Louis, the snow in the northwest and sleet and rain through Illinois, Missouri and as far south as Texas piled up much damage.

TEN MILLION PROHI ENFORCEMENT

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The house today approved a section of the treasury appropriation bill which would provide $10,029,770 for prohibition enforcement during the coming fiscal year.

COURT UPHOLDS FALL'S RAIL DEAL

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — Albert B. Fall's action in cancelling a land grant to the Santa Fe Pacific railroad company was upheld here today by the district court of appeal, which affirmed a decision of the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

The railroad in 1866 was granted a non-mineral public lands right, with the right to relinquish such parts as were settled upon and to receive other land. It relinquished certain land in 1921 and selected in its place coal lands but the court ruled its choice was limited to agricultural tracts, sustaining Mr. Fall's action.

COMPLETE DRAFT TAX REDUCTION BILL

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Republican members of the house ways and means committee today completed the draft of the 1924 revenue bill which carries a reduction of 25 per cent to apply on all personal income taxes payable this year. The measure is to be formally ratified by the whole committee Thursday and reported to the house Monday.

A reduction of about $13,000,000 in the jewelry tax also was approved today by the republicans.

When the house would take up the bill, which provides for revision of taxes on the plan suggested by Secretary Mellon, was doubtful. Chairman Green said it was possible it would not be taken up next week on account of delay in passage of the appropriation measures.

Meanwhile the constitutional amendment to prohibit the issuance of tax-exempt securities will be taken before the house Thursday under special rule adopted by the rule committee.

Provision was made by the ways and means committee republicans to permit pro-rata distribution of any excess payments of taxes this year on later installments if the reduction in 1923 taxes is approved after the first payments are due March 15.

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 5.—Gordon Ingalls, trustee for the Rader Mineral Deeds syndicate, was the first defendant to testify in the government's case against himself, Robert Edmond Ingall and Richard Rader, when he was placed on the witness stand in federal court here this afternoon. The three defendants are charged with misuse of the mails in promoting the syndicate.

Gordon Ingall testified as to the organization of the Rader syndicate and detailed the purchase of lands by the Rader trust. He said he was responsible for all the advertising and promotion literature of the concern.

"I didn't think anybody would take that literally. It was the spirit of the business and the customary form of oil advertising," he said in reply to questions relating to contents of the advertising. "I did not intend to lie." He testified that similar advertising had appeared from oil concerns and he had not known of any prosecution.

"That is too bad if there were not any," Judge William H. Atwell interjected. "I know it was not the case ten years ago here. That is no excuse."

TEXHOMA IN BIG DEAL

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has purchased the holdings of Fain and Murchinson of this city in lots 700, 701, 702 and 703, L. F. Wilson lands, American Tribune New Colony survey, Archer county, comprising 38.6 acres and six producing wells, with approximately 1,600 barrels daily production. The consideration was said to have been $250,000.

The deal was made Tuesday, according to officials of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company.

TO HIM WHO WAITS

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—It took only about three weeks to write the peace plan which brought him the $50,000 Bok prize awarded at Philadelphia last night, Charles H. Levermore said today, but it represented nearly 40 years of thinking and studying. The big thought behind the plan, he said, was the use of moral forces as against economic or military force.

FRANCE QUIET ON RUSS RECOGNITION

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 5. — Recognition of Soviet Russia so far as France is concerned remains just where it has been.

France, according to semi-officials sources, is not considering any joint discussion under which recognition might be extended as reported in a London dispatch printed here which says that the United States, France and Italy are about to exchange views on this subject.

"I Shot In Self Defense" Smith Tells Somerville In Statement After Shooting

"He was coming at me with his hands in his pockets, like he was going to stamp me into the earth, so I shot in self-defense," was the statement made to Wayne Sommerville, assistant county attorney Tuesday afternoon by Marvin Smith, charged with assault to murder, in connection with the shooting of S. T. Buzzard at Iowa Park at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Smith was released on $1,000 bond after appearing before the grand jury which convened Tuesday morning. Among those signing the bond were E. A. Dale and A. A. Jackson.

Buzzard, who was struck by a bullet in the right lung, was reported to be in a serious condition at the Iowa Park sanatarium late last night. The bullet entered Buzzard's right chest, pierced the right lung, and emerged on the right side, lodging in the arm, according to attendants at the sanatarium. Buzzard, a casing broker, is said to be 36 years old.

The shooting occurred on the downtown streets of Iowa Park in front of the Rexall drug store, according to witnesses. Shooting commenced after a few words had passed between the two men, according to accounts of those near the scene at the time.

From all accounts, the trouble started some time ago over some pipe rented by Buzzard to Smith, Buzzard having ordered a delivery of the pipe. Smith, 40, is a drilling contractor.

Chamber Will Raise $12,000 to Establish Experiment Station

Soil Survey to Be Published; Station in Irrigation Area.

Plans for the purchase of a demonstration and experimental farm to be tendered the state, was approved by the chamber of commerce directors at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the directors' room of the chamber's offices.

According to the plan outlined the cost will be between $12,000 and $15,000 of which sum the local chamber of commerce will undertake to raise one-third from the general business public, co-operating with the Wichita Valley Landowners association in raising the remaining two-thirds.

The action of the president and general manager in agreeing to pay for the publication of a soil survey to be made by W. T. Carter under the direction of the state Agricultural & Mechanical college, was approved by the directors.

The financial statement which was presented to the body showed a most gratifying payment of dues by the members which indicates that the membership plan agreed on is successful.

Whole City In Wilson Memorial Service Today at 2.30

BUSINESS TO BE SUSPENDED

Majority Concerns Expected to Close While Memoril Is Held M. E. Church

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church, south, the citizens of Wichita Falls have been asked to meet to pay tribute to the late Woodrow Wilson. A special program has been arranged to take place during the hour's service and all citizens are asked to attend.

Judge A. H. Britain will have charge of the program at the church, and the Rev. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the First Methodist church, south, is chairman of the arrangement committee.

Mayor Collier has issued a proclamation requesting all business houses to close during the hour of the service and that all flags be placed at halfmast. Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, has declared a holiday for the students of the high school and Junior college.

The president of the trades council, Jack Barnes, has requested that crafts affiliated with the building trades council, declare a half-holiday and meet at the Labor Temple at 2 o'clock. They will march in a body from the temple to the church.

The American Legion and ex-service men will meet at the Kemp hotel on the mezzanine floor at 2 o'clock and from there they will go to the church for the memorial service.

Miss Lucia Powell, librarian of the Kemp library, announced that the library would be closed from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock in honor of the service.

Arrangements for the memorial service were completed at a meeting of a committee made up of representatives of the various civic and fraternal organizations of the city.

The members of the Wichita Falls Clearings House association met Tuesday morning and decided that the five banks of the city would close their doors at 2 o'clock today in order that all bank employees may attend the memorial services for ex-president Wilson.

All offices in the city hall will be closed for two hours Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, in honor of the memorial service at 2:30, according to announcement made Tuesday by city clerk, W. E. McBroom.

BRITISH RULERS CONDOLE MRS. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A message of condolence from the King and Queen of Great Britain was conveyed to Mrs. Wilson today by Henry G Chilton, counsellor of the British embassy, and who later communicated to the state department a similar message from his government to the government of the United States. The message from King George to Mrs. Wilson said: "The Queen and I have heard with the deepest regret of your terrible bereavement and hasten to assure you of our heartfelt sympathy. We shall never forget the hours which you and your husband spent as our guests on your way to the peace conference where the part played by Mr. Wilson on behalf of a just and lasting peace will be forever remembered by the peoples of the British Empire."

The communication to the United States government said this country had lost "A great servant to humanity."

ODD FELLOWS DEGREE TEAM PRACTICES

The Patriarchs of the degree staff of the Wichita Falls encampment No. 6, I. O. O. F., met at the lodge room Tuesday evening for drill practice and discussion of business matters.

Arrangements were made for members of the local lodge to attend the grand lodge meeting to be held in Fort Worth March 15 to 17. It was announced that the Rebecca degree team will sponsor a carnival to be given on the evening of February 20.

BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR 30 YEARS

"It Did Me Good," Says Painter, Who Uses It for Headache, Indigestion and Liver Trouble.

Bowling Green, Ky.—"I don't just remember how many years I have used Black-Draught," says Mr. Frank Burnett, a painter and song writer, of 200 Park street, this city, "but I've used it longer than I've known my wife—that is over thirty years—and I've found it a wonderful friend."

"When a young man," he says, "we kept Black-Draught in our home and I would take it for headache, indigestion and liver trouble. It did me good. I used it on until we married, and then my daughters grew up and they used it, and we hardly know how to get along without it.

"I am a painter and the paint affects the stomach. When I need anything for stomach trouble, I take a good dose or two of Thedford's Black-Draught and I am all right. It relieves indigestion and cleanses the liver best of anything I ever used."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been a well-known, successful liver medicine for over eighty years. Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs it is nature's own remedy for a tired, worn-out liver.—Adv.

Washington To Observe Wilson Funeral This P. M.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Although a technicality of the law forbids, the great executive departments of the government will suspend their multitudinous activities tomorrow afternoon as an expression of respect for former President Wilson.

Under an old statute, work cannot be suspended because of the death of a former official, but President Coolidge and his cabinet found a way at today's session to make an exception to that requirement.

It was decided that no executive order should be issued by the president, but that each secretary would inform those under him that nothing would be required of them after 12:00 p. m. on the funeral day.

Denied the privilege of paying tribute in a state funeral ceremony, Mr. Coolidge and his advisors decided that at least the federal government should give homage to its former chief by standing silent while his body is consigned to its last rest.

FUNERAL RITES

to witness the solemn ceremonial attending the funeral rites of men to whom the nation would pay the highest honors at its command. First in that succession came the funeral of America's unknown soldier. It was a glorious spectacle that surrounded his entombment.

Profound sorrow marked the funeral of President Harding. He also had been struck down in the full tide of his services to the flag and men mourned his untimely death.

Again, but with utterly different note underlying, the military and civil pageantry of fullest national honors was mustered; again the broad avenue over which flows America's tides of feeling in hours of victory or national sorrow brimmed full with ordered ranks of armed men and again under the great dome of the capitol solemn services for the dead was rendered.

THIRD INSTANCE

Tomorrow comes the third day of national mourning, a day that will be strangely different from those that went before. Again the nation stands eager to lavish the full splendor of its sorrow about the bier of a faithful servant.

Again it would blason to the world its prize as well as its sorrow in the American life that had ended. But he would not have had it so, and the American people have acquiesced in his longing for the privacy of simple citizenship. There will be no sound of drum or funeral note as he is carried to his resting place in the cathedral; no military coloring save the uniform of a handfull of gallant comrades of the sister services, over which, in their great hour of their trial by war, he was commander-in-chief. They alone will lay hands upon his casket in his last journey.

The family service at the S. street home will be held in the library, just below the room in which the dead war president still lay tonight. There, in the years since he came speeding homeward from the capitol nearly three years ago to know for a brief time freedom from all cares of state and the trials of high place, he has often sat among the loved books that range themselves about the walls, old trusted friends, ready to his hand. The room looks out over the same quiet garden upon which he last gazed from the windows of the death chamber. It is a peaceful, quiet room, remote from the noise of the city or the strife and contentions of the world. Before its wide fireplace Woodrow Wilson found much ease and comfort despite the heavy hand of fatal illness that lay upon him.

There, no doubt in the long quiet hours of calm reflection, his tired eyes gazed back over the troubled years behind him. Before him again were marshaled the figures on that great world stage where he had played so stirring a part. Again in fancy he must have felt the heart-stir men feel when the world acclaims them great; again the surge of high emotion from which he drew inspiration for the valiant words in which he voiced the challenge of democracy as the world faltered on the brink of utter ruin.

LAST SHORT HOUR

Tomorrow tender hands will lift him down again from his last short hour in that memory peopled room. They will lay him gently before the the great fire-place where he so often sat and about him in the sacred privacy of the family circle will gather the few who may share in those last moments. Among them will stand the colleague upon whose shoulders now rests the heavyweight of the presidency. Among them, too, will stand a few who served humbly with him in the great days gone by. There will be true democracy, the democracy of sorrow in that little group in the stricken home.

A short half hour will serve for the intimate leave taking. There will be only the trio of clergymen to speak the kindly consoling words of the Psalms and entreat God's tenderest compassion for dear ones whom he is parting. They will read, too from the light, worn book of devotional exercises that Woodrow Wilson scanned through the years in his nightly reading, even as he searched the scripture for those texts that stay his spirit against the trials of a day to come.

There will not no music or hymns in the home service, although in life he had great love for three of the old hymns that have taught men courage and patience.

There is something significant of Woodrow Wilson's character in his choice among all those he had heard in his calm church going way of life. His favorite of all was "Day is Dying in the West," the soothing, lulling hymn that breathes of peace and rest and devout worship for a tender, loving God. But also his strong spirit was drawn by the majesty of "How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord," and to him came like a battle cry the healing calling of "The Son of God goes forth to War."

SOLDIERS TO CARRY HIM

From the library of his home Woodrow Wilson will be carried out by the soldier and sailor comrade of his strangely small escort—he under whose command the greatest armed forces of the nation, men in the millions had served—to be lifted in the waiting hearse and the last journey begun. There will be only a few carriages following. They will carry the little company that had met in the intimate service at the house and among them will be the old friends and companions who are honorary pall bearers. The names of William Howard Taft and Charles R. Crane were added to the list.

Down the steep pitch of S. street to the broad sweep of Massachusetts avenue runs the way to the cathedral. Along the road and about the house details of soldiers and marines will help to hold the road open against the pressing thousand that naught but bitterest weather can keep from this last mark of respect to a great American. Up the avenue the funeral way winds over the grade that leads to the great church.

Within, deep amid the masonry of the foundation, in the crypt of the chapel, runs the only entrance to the vault, the few hundred who may find place at this oddly small public service will already be in their places when the funeral train arrives. They will be standing close packed behind the seats where the bereaved family, the president and his cabinet and a few others of the distinguished guests will gather. In that standing group will be representatives of the army, navy and marine corps, of the supreme court, of the senate and house and of the great departments of government. There also will be the ambassadors and ministers and the few others who can be crowded in.

LAST HOUR

The casket will be laid before the altar rail and again the services will organ will play their part in this be brief. The full choir and the ceremony, and beyond that there will be only the reading of the Psalms and the prayer with Bishop Freeman and his Presbyterian colleagues, Drs. Taylor and Beach, again sharing in conducting the service.

At the close when the benediction has been said and while the organ plays softly, Mrs. Wilson and the members of the family will go out, then all the company in the chapel. The entrance of the vault will be opened in private and when the great slab of stone that covers it had been set aside the stricken family will go back alone to witness the placing of the casket in the niche far under the massive wall of the building where it will lie until its final resting place has been made ready.

In the chapel service, the choir will sing that favorite hymn of the dead man, "Day is Dying in the West," and as the mourners turn away at last to go down into the work-a-day city below and its crowding cares and clamor, the far rim of Maryland hills to westward will be tinged with the glow of the night to come and Woodrow Wilson's last hour among men will be over.

The home service will take place at 3 p. m. and the chapel services at 3:30 p. m.

"Spirit of America," (Woodrow Wilson), delivered by Crump Anthony, president of the senior class, High school.
Song by audience, selection one of Mr. Wilson's favorites.
Introduction of the speaker of the occasion, Judge H. R. Wilson, by Dr. W. P. Martin.
Memorial address, Judge H. R. Wilson.
Song, "Star Spangled Banner."
Benediction, Rev. Pool.

Special reserved seats will be held for the American Legion and ex-service men, all of whom are requested to meet at the city hall at 2:45 and march in a body to the High School auditorium.

All business houses are requested to close if possible during the memorial service hour.

Burk Building Showing Large Increase Lately

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 5. — The Key building, formerly the Farmers State Bank building, is being remodeled, painted and improved and will be occupied by the owner, A. J. Key who will move his new drug stock to this valuable location. The second story is being repaired also for offices with up to date accommodations.

Mr. Key's present location will be used by its new owners the R. H. Henry company who will extend their grocery and market departments into this building.

The Iona Drug store is planning to move its stock from the side business street, north Avenue B to Main or Third street, in the house formerly occupied by the City Barber shop, while the latter is well established in its new quarters near the Caro Motor company, further east on Main street.

The Maridian garage, owned by the Abbott Brothers is making a marked improvement, enlarging its entrance to accommodate four instead of two cars at their splendid corner front for gasoline, water, oil, etc. with repair departments in the rear of the building corner of Main and Avenue D.

The new Browning cottage on East Main and others under construction are promising a much needed civic improvement in the residential sections of Burkburnett.

A call for many new men is being made from several oil company leases where improvements are being made and the industrial outlook is promising of a much improved condition.

CITY COURT IN NIGHT TRIAL

Case Against Young Woman Continues Four Hours

A verdict of guilty with a fine of $1 was returned by the jury in the case of a young woman, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace, before Judge Whitelaw in the corporation court last night. The jury was out twenty minutes.

During the almost four hours in which the case was being tried, a packed court room testified to the interest held in the trial of a seventeen year old girl for an offense pronounced "serious" by attorneys for each side. It was termed one of the longest cases ever held in corporation court. The testimony in the case showed the young woman in company with four other girls and one man was riding around the city Monday night when stopped by Officer Griffith for speeding, as he testified. Testimony of those in the car and of Griffin showed he fired at the rear tires of the car when they refused to obey his order to stop, and when stopping refused to be taken to court.

Much coloring was added to the case by the testimony of the young people, when asked questions as to whether or not there was any drinking going on. Counsel for the prosecution, City Attorney George and Attorney Charles Cursey, attempted to show the defendant was drinking intoxicating liquors. Attorneys McMahon and Montgomery for the defense attempted to show the evidence presented was not sufficient to establish the charge of drunkenness, and plead the improbability of them making a speed of from 35 to 40 miles an hour on the unpaved street as testified by Officer Griffin.

Defendant, with a plea of not guilty, went on the stand to maintain she was not drinking on that night. Previous evidence introduced by witness for the prosecution that she was guilty of improper conduct in accosting a man in a confectionery, was stoutly denied by the defendant.

With ten minutes to each side, the four attorneys made touching appeals for conviction and release. City Attorney George plead for support in what he termed his duty of breaking up such practices, concluding the argument with a strong plea for conviction.

The jury was composed of the following men: R. N. Smith, E. F. Riley J. N. Atcheson, C. E. Franderson, W. H. Daughterz, B. P. Williams.

MRS. DE BOUCHEL

he said. "I din't expect anything else."

Mrs. de Bouchel and a group of friends were eating lunch at her hotel when a reporter brought news of the verdict. Her attorney, Harry Gamble of New Orleans, who left the table to receive the news, said the New Orleans society leader had no statement to make at present.

Mr. Candler's attorneys attacked the validity of the Reno, Nevada, decree of September 21, 1921, which granted her a divorce from her husband, Adolph Rocquet of New Orleans. The Atlanta capitalists' lawyers also declared the decree invalid because Mrs. de Bouchel did not establish a domicile in Nevada. The decree being invalid, they contended, she could not become engaged to marry Mr. Candler and therefore any engagement existing for that purpose was not legal. They asserted that there was not sufficient evidence presented to allow grounds for recovering damages.

The suit dring manufacturer's attorneys declared that Mrs. de Bouchel was the legal wife of Rocquet when she became engaged to Mr. Candler and that she is still legally married to the New Orleans man.

Mrs. de Bouchel through counsel, upheld the validity of her divorce decree and said that she had in every way complied with the laws of the state of Nevada. The New Orleans woman, they contended, had determined to divorce Mr. Rocquet before she met Mr. Candler in Atlanta during the Confederate Veteran's re-union in 1919. She had offered to release him from the engagement, they said, when it became apparent there was opposition to their marriage on the part of his family, but that he refused to listen to the offer, and insisted on the marriage. Wedding plans were all arranged the trousseau for the bride had been made, cards printed. Mrs. de Bouchel had shipped her furniture to Mr. Candler's home in Atlanta, and the wedding itinerary agreed upon and passage for the future husband engaged from Atlanta to Reno, when two days before the wedding her petition declared, she received a letter from th Atlanta millionaire saying he could not marry her because it had been told him that two men visited her room at the hotel in Atlanta while she was attending the Confederate re-union in Atlanta in 1919, at night, for improper purposes.

Mrs. de Bouchel said she demanded the names of the alleged two men but Mr. Candler declined to give them. She came to Atlanta finally, she asserted, in an effort to learn their names but he steadfastly declined to make them known. Finally, she said, she entered suit for $500,000 to force the information from him.

During the trial of the case numerous love letters which passed between the principals were introduced in evidence. Several of those from Mr. Candler to Mrs. de Bouchel began with "My Dear Sweetum" and numbers of her letters to him were addressed to "My Darling" and signed "Sweet One." They covered a period of from 1920 to the fall of 1922.

From the petition in the case it was developed that the two became acquainted during the Confederate re-union in Atlanta in 1919 when Mrs. de Bouchel was serving as chaperon general. The acquaintance developed and the letters covered the period of residence of Mrs. de Bouchel at Reno, which terminated in a decree divorcing her from her husband, Adolph Rocquet. In January 1922, Mr. Candler and Mrs. de Bouchel, the petition stated, became engaged and the courtship developed until the breaking of the engagement in September 1922.

Mrs. de Bouchel filed suit against Mr. Candler in the early part of 1923 and his answer was filed some weeks later.

FALL, DANIELS,

leasing of the oil reserve to republicans after the change of administrations.

COUNSEL PREPARES

While the committee was in recess today Silas H. Strawn and former Senator Pomerene of Ohio, special government counsel on the oil lease cases continued their study of the whole question. They conferred during the day with Chairman Lenroot and Senator Walsh and information came from the White House that they would cause injunction proceedings to prevent further extraction of oil from the two naval reserves as soon as President Coolidge signs the Walsh resolutions. The proceedings will be by United States district attorneys in the districts in which the reserves are located.

Announcement came during the day of the summoning of additional witnesses in the inquiry, chief among them John T. King, former republican national committeeman from Connecticut. Senator Walsh said information had come to him that Mr. King is associated with the Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico; that this association spent sums of money in Washington and that it was desired to know for what the expenditures were made.

Guy Stevens and Thomas Lee of New York City also have been summoned by the committee for examination with regard to the books of the Association of Petroleum Producers in Mexico and the Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico. It is proposed to have accountants to examine these books as is being done with the records of W. B. Hibbs and company, a Washington stock brokerage concern.

According to reports from all sections of the country, basket ball amateur, scholastic and collegiate, is enjoying another big season. Games are well attended and the play of high caliber. All of which makes it more tragic than ever that basket ball has not been given the popular support and organization advantages of football.

Today's Poem

"Two shall be born the whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought,
Each of the other's being, and no heed;
And those, o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step to this end,—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet,
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes."

COLOR CUT-OUTS

A Dutch Boy Comic

"What kind of a valentine could I give a boy,—something I can make?" asked Natalie, Betty Cut-out's friend. "A comic is best," replied Betty, "and I know how to make a dandy Dutch Boy of Hearts." Then she began cutting little hearts and big ones of white paper. When she had enough made, she traced some on blue sheets and some on red. She pasted them together to make the boy you see here.

The heart for the Dutch Boy's trousers is blue, the ones for his jacket and sleeves, red; his face is yellow and his cap, blue. You may make a Dutch Boy either by cutting out these hearts, coloring and mounting them on cardboard, or cutting your own the size you like. A cardboard strip pasted on the back will make him stand up. His eyes are spots of blue, his mouth a tiny red heart.

Tomorrow you'll learn how to play a valentine fortune game and how to make a candy dish.

Home-Wrecking Is Always An Inside Job — Dorothy Dix — Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

Husbands of the Future, Trained to Cook, Sweep and Sew, Would Not Be Such Matrimonial Prizes—With the New Domestic Knowledge, They Could Tell Their Wives Where to Get Off.

The American Home Economic association recommends that boys be taught domestic science in the schools so that when they grow up and get married pa will be able to substitute for ma in the home in an emergency.

At first blush this idea will seem alluring to women. When a girl gets married she does not look forward to getting a helpmate, as a man does. On the contrary, she knows that she is getting some one for whom she has to cook and clean and patch and mend the balance of her life. So the prospect of having a soulmate who is also a working partner and who will literally halve her labors and double her joys is, indeed, a dazzling one.

Certainly matrimony would have a new lure if the wife could count on her husband lending a hand with the spring sewing and helping her with the darning at night. When she was in a hurry of a Sunday morning she could leave him to bathe the baby, secure in the knowledge that he would do it scientifically instead of washing it with mange soap as he would a setter pup. She would have no hesitation about staying downtown of an evening because she could phone hubby at the office to hurry on home and get the dinner.

Undoubtedly, also, it would make for greater sympathy between husbands and wives if men had had a thorough training in household work and knew from experience the endless steps it takes to prepare a meal and the never-ending toil it requires to keep a house clean and tidy. A little turn at the domestic treadmill would give men respect for woman's work, which now in their inexperience they regard as a perpetual picnic. No man who had ever tried scrubbing for mother would ever be guilty of making that ancient and infuriating remark to his wife: "I wish I had nothing to do but to stay at home with the children as you do."

All of these considerations would make it seem highly desirable for boys to be taught domestic science in the schools. Undoubtedly, a husband who could sew on his own buttons and get his own breakfast without mussing up the whole kitchen would be a pearl of price. But the matter is not so simple as it seems, and there are many drawbacks to the plan.

In the first place, it would be the greatest possible discourager of matrimony and men are none to keen over the holy estate, as it is. The reason why the great majority of men marry is to get a home.

There comes a time when a man sickens of even the finest club and restaurant cooking, or his tummy revolts at the sight of boarding house prunes; when he finds, as he is dressing in a hurry to go out, that the laundress hasn't brought home his clean linen and that he hasn't a shirt that isn't shy of buttons, or frayed at the wrist bands. Then it is that he turns to matrimony as his salvation, and Heaven delivers him into the hands of the nearest woman.

Far otherwise would it be if he were a trained home maker and an accomplished chef and a firstclass seamstress. Then he could make his own home, cook his own dinners, darn his own socks and save himself the expense of a wife, and the worry of getting along with her, and the danger of losing his personal liberty.

Take away men's need of women to make them comfortable and you strike a solar plexus blow at matrimony.

To teach boys the domestic arts would also be first aid to divorce, because it would provide every household with a critic on the hearth and not even Patient Griselda herself could endure that affliction.

No woman knows why, but every woman knows that it is true that nothing else on earth is as aggravating or makes her so mad as to have any one find fault with her housekeeping. She would rather have strictures passed on her morals than her bread. She would rather be told that her conversation was heavy than her cake. She will sit at the feet and humbly learn from any one who will lecture about health, beauty, dress, art, science, religion, but woe to those who try to teach her how to run her house differently!

Hence no one can visualize the dove of peace making its nest under the roof pole of the home in which the husband throws his own brand biscuit in his wife's teeth, and tells her how light they always are, and that his pie crust is always crisp and flaky, and not like the leathery compound that she makes, and that he always doublefells his seams, and he would be ashamed to turn out the sloppy work that she does and call it a job.

Goodness knows, husbands are prone enough to kick now about their wives domestic performances, when they kick in the dark, as it were. And what they would say when dinner isn't up to the mark and there is dust on the mantlepiece, if they knew what they were talking about, it makes one tremble to think.

Certainly it is something that no woman of spirit would stand for, while Reno is still on the map.

All of which is a solemn warning to women to keep men in their sacred sphere. Keep them ignorant of the domestic arts. So shall they be dependent upon us and marry us and eat what is set before them without making remarks upon it.

A word to the wise is sufficient.

COLD WEATHER CAUSES MANY S. A. CALLS DAILY

The cold weather of the last two days has caused the Salvation Army to receive numerous calls for help.

During the week just past, the Army supplied nine persons with meals including 30 meals given. Transportation was given to one person. Two hundred and fifty families were given bread or milk, and 15 persons were given lodging. To needy persons 314 garments were given away, and 64 pairs of shoes were distributed. Thirty men were supplied with employment and four women were given work. Medical aid was given to three persons. The number of families to whom help was given by any means totaled 130. The cost of the week's relief was valued at $288.55.

"Women and children have called for clothes almost incessantly yesterday," said officials at the Army, "and we gave out all we had that could be used from the dispensing bureau. If there are any who have clothes and winter supplies that they would like to give away, we could use them, and they would help many who call for them these cold days."

FATE OF REFORMER ANDERSON

William H. Anderson of New York has been a national figure on the stage of action for many years. He is the head of the New York state Anti-Saloon league and high in the councils of the league. He has been prominent in every political campaign in recent years and has been denounced by great newspapers of the metropolis as a political dictator ever virulent in his charges against his political enemies and vitrolic in his utterances against those who fail to subscribe to his personal opinions or political programs.

Now a jury has convicted Anderson of Forgery and the maximum penalty is two and one-half years' imprisonment. He was indicted for having altered or changed the record books of the league and he was accused of having forced solicitors who collected money for the prohibition cause to split their commissions with him.

This is given as one of the reasons why the Rockefellers, father and son, two or three years ago ceased to contribute funds annually for the support of the Anti-Saloon league of the Empire state. It is the policy of the Rockefellers to frown upon giving commissions or permitting commissions to be given when they make subscriptions or donations to the church or charity or the cause of temperance or any other moral endeavor or activity.

They were told, these titans of the Standard Oil company, that Anderson was getting a rake off on their fat contributions to the chest of the Anti-Saloon league and when they withdrew financial support from the League Reformer Anderson paid his respects to the financial disbursing officer of the Rockefeller funds in language that was so plain the simple minded could readily understand. His diatribe did not disturb the Rockefellers or their disbursing agent. They treated the Anderson outbreaks with dignified contempt. Two men, father and son, who are able to talk in the language of billionaires, always obtain an audience when they do talk and always command attention when they don't talk.

Anderson has been fighting his case in the pulpits and the friendly press ever since his indictment a year ago. He charges that he had been the victim of a democratic frame-up and that the democratic leaders were bent upon sending him to the penitentiary. Now he is on the road to the penitentiary unless a higher court interposes in his behalf. For years and years Anderson refused to file with the secretary of state of New York an itemized account of the expenditures of the league for political purposes as the election law required.

He defied the press and the courts for that matter until he landed before a justice of the supreme court of New York who decided that the league was a political organization and must comply with the election law by filing each year a sworn statement of the money expended by its officers and agents in the political activities of the Empire state.

There is no man above the law. There is no organization of men above the law. Whenever the test is made the law is vindicated and those who would set it aside pay the penalty. Justice may travel with a leaden heel but it gets there just the same. Pros who violate the laws of the land or antis who violate the law of the land should be taught the lesson that obedience to the law is or should be the supreme thing under American skies.

All organizations which are political in their nature, all organizations which invade the domain of politics and by the free use of money advance the cause of their favorites should be willing to file with the proper officials sworn statements containing itemized accounts of all monies received and distributed for political purposes and the New York statute requires this on the part of all candidates for office or their managers or the heads of all political organizations or those responsible for their activities.

Haven't the people a right to know? Why shouldn't they be given the information? Why should invisible hands be permitted to pull invisible wires or bag men and disbursing officers be permitted to collect and distribute large sums of money, placing the coin where it will do the most good, in the campigns of the country?

Publicity is the thing—honest publicity and no man should be ashamed or afraid of honest publicity or those who direct it.

The Middle Of Things

"There's nothing to prevent it, to be sure," answered Drillford, and presently he left the room, after pointing Viner to a chair. Viner waited—five, ten minutes. Then the door opened again, and Drillford came back. Behind him walked the accused man, with a couple of police men in attendance upon him.

The prisoner stepped forward, regarding Viner earnestly.

"Viner!" he said, in a low concentrated tone, "don't you know me? I'm Langton Hyde! You and I were at Rugby together."

CHAPTER V.
Look For That Man!

"Hyde!" Viner exclaimed. "Then—that's what I remembered! Of course I know you! But good heavens, man, what does all this mean? What's brought you to this place? Tell me! I've been certain for an hour that you didn't kill this man, and I want to help you. But—tell us the truth! What do you know about it! How did you get that ring?"

Hyde suddenly dropped into a chair by which he was standing.

"Let me sit down," he said. "I'm weak, tired, too. I've been out of a job for months. I haven't had a penny in my pockets for days now!"

"Your relations?" questioned Viner.

"Didn't want them to know," answered Hyde, "I had to clear out of my lodgings—which was nothing but an attic, three days since, and I've been wandering about, literally hungry and homeless, since that. Last night, I got wandering about this part. As I was going along the top side of Marquendale Square, I noticed a passage and turned into it, as a man came walking out. Viner, look for that man! Find him! He's the fellow these police want! This man passed me and went on into the square. I went up the passage and then I saw another man, lying across the flags. I don't know that I'd any impression about him—I was too sick and weary. I believe I thought he was drunk, or ill or something. At the same instant that I saw him, I saw a diamond ring lyong on the flags close by the man. I snatched it up, thrust it into my pocket and ran up the passage. I sneaked into a shanty in a yard, and stopped in it the rest of the night. And this morning I tried to pawn the ring."

"And that's the whole truth?" asked Viner.

"It's the whole truth," declared Hyde.

"Can you describe the man who came out of the passage as you entered it?" he asked. "Be accurate now!"

Hyde's face brightened a little. "Yes!" he answered. "I was dull enough, in one way, but alert enough in another. I can describe the man—as much as I saw of him. A tall man—neither broad nor slender—half-and-half. Dressed in black from top to toe. A silk hat—patent leather boots—and muffled to the eyes in a white silk handkerchief."

"There are a few thousand men in the West End of London who'd answer the description you've given," observed Drillford.

"All right!" muttered Hyde doggedly, "But—I know what I saw. And if you want to help me, Viner, find what I saw. And if you want to help me, Viner, find the body!"

"What were you doing with that knife in your possession?" Drillford asked.

"I bought that knife when I was in the States—more as a curiosity than anything—and I've carried it in my pocket ever since."

Drillford looked again at Viner.

"He'll have to go now," he said.

"I'll send my own solicitor to you, Hyde, at once," said Viner. "Be absolutely frank with him about everything."

Viner went away troubled and thoughtful.

He walked rapidly to number seven in the square, intent on doing something toward clearing Hyde of the charge brought against him. In the living room he found Mrs. Killenhall and Miss Wickham who introduced him to Mr. Ashton's solicitor, Mr. Pawle of Crawle, Pawle and Rattenbury.

Speculations.

Mr. Pawle, an alert-looking, little man, smiled as he shook hands with the new visitor.

"I knew your father very well, Mr. Viner," he said. "He and I did a lot of business together in our time.—This is a sad business that we've got concerned in, young man! Now, what do you think of the proceedings we've just heard?"

"I had better tell you something that's just happened," replied Viner. He went on to repeat the statements which Hyde had just made to Drillford and himself. "My opinion," he concluded, "is that Hyde is speaking the plain truth."

He looked round from one listener to another.

"The real thing is this," Miss Wickham said thoughtfully, "none of us knows anything about Mr. Ashton, really. He may have had enemies."

"Miss Wickham is quite right," Pawle said. "Mr. Ashton is more or less a man of mystery. What do I his solicitor know about him? No more than this—Mr. Ashton called on me about six or seven weeks ago, told me that he was an Australian come to settle in London, that he was pretty well off, and that he wanted to make a will. We drafted a will on his instructions, and he duly executed it. Mr. Ashton has left every penny he had to Miss Wickham. He told me she was the only child of an old friend of his, and that as he, Ashton, had no near relations, he intended to leave her all he had. That is all I know about him—all!"

"There is one matter we haven't mentioned," said Mrs. Killenhall. "Just after we got settled down here, Mr. Ashton went away for some days—three or four days. That, of course, may be quite insignificant."

"Do you know where he went?" asked Mr. Pawle.

"No, we don't know," answered Mrs. Killenhall "and he didn't tell us where he had been."

Mr. Pawle looked at his watch and rose.

"Well!" he said. "We shall have to find out more about my late client's habits and whom he knew in London."

Bidding the ladies good-bye, Viner followed Mr. Pawle into the square. "Come and lunch with me," he said. "We can talk over this at our leisure."

"Thank you—I will," answered Mr. Pawle. "Very pleased."

Viner introduced Mr. Pawle to Miss Penkridge with the remark that she was something of an authority in mysteries, and as soon as they had sat down to lunch, told her of Langton Hyde and his statement.

"Just so!" said Miss Penkridge dryly. "That's much more likely to be the real thuth than that thief ad killed Ashton. Now, there's one thign srtuck me at once—there must be men in London who knew Ashton. If I were you, I should invite men who knew him to come forward and tell what they know. And there's another thing. I should find out what can be told about Mr. Ashton where he came from. I believe you can get telegraphic information from Australia within a few hours. Why not go to the expense—when there's so much at stake?"

The old solicitor went away, promising to get to work on the lines suggested by Miss Penkridge, and next day he telephoned to Viner asking him to go down to his offices. Viner hurried off, and on arriving found Mr. Pawle with a cablegram before him.

"I sent a pretty long message to Melbourne, to Ashton's old bankers, as soon as I left you yesterday," he said. "Here's their answer."

Viner read the cablegram carefully:

Ashton well known here thirty years dealer in real estate. Respected, wealthy. Quiet man, bachelor. Cannot trace anything about friend named Wickham. Ashton, was away from Melbourne, up country, four years, some years ago. May have known Wickham then. Ashton left here end July by Maraquibo, for London. Was accompanied by two friends Fosdick and Stephens.

"There's the mention of two men who might know something of Ashton's habits," Viner observed as he looked up.

"I'll advertise for both," said Mr. Pawle. "But now, here's another matter. I asked these people if they could tell me anything about Wickham. Well, you see, they can't. Now, it's a very curious thing, but Miss Wickham has no papers, has, in fact, nothing whatever to prove her identity."

Just then a clerk came into Mr. Pawle's room, and bending down to him, whispered a few words which evidently occasioned him great surprise.

"At once!" he said. "Bring them straight in, Parkinson. God bless me!" he exclaimed, turning to Viner. "Here are the two men in question—Fosdick and Stephens! Saw our name in the paper as Ashton's solicitors and want to see me urgently."

CHAPTER VII.
What Was the Secret?

The two men who were presently ushered in were obviously deeply interested in the occasion of their visit to Mr. Pawle.

"Mr. Pawle, I understand?" the elder of them said. "I'm Mr. Fosdick, of Melbourne, Victoria; this is my friend Mr. Stephens, same place."

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Pawle, "I'll be frank with you. Here's a cablegram which I have just received from Melbourne—you'll see your names mentioned in it. If there is something you can tell that will help to solve this mystery, I shall be very glad to hear it."

"I'll tell you," replied Fosdick. "This is what it comes to: Ashton was a close man, a reserved man but one night in the smoking saloon in the Maraquibe, he opened out to us a bit. We'd been talking about getting over to England and the talk ran on what we'd do. Ashton was turning home for good. And he said to us, in a sort of burst of confidence that he was in possession—sole possession—of a most extraordinary secret, the revelation of which would affect one of the first families in England, and he was going to bring it out as soon as he'd got settled down in London."

"Is that all you can tell?" exclaimed Mr. Pawle.

"All!"

"He didn't tell you what the secret was?"

So Goes It

By BURNS HEGLER

A. W. Hurley has raised the question as to what a happy disposition is worth. Mr. Hurley lives in Oklahoma City. He says he used to have a happy disposition and that he received an injury while driving a truck that robbed him of his happy disposition.

Now he wants $20,000 because his happy disposition is no more. The first question that arises is whether a happy disposition is worth more in Oklahoma City than elsewhere.

We shall not discuss that other than to venture the opinion that it would be worth more in Oklahoma City than in Wichita Falls. For Wichita Falls is the easiest town in the world in which to keep a happy disposition. It's just that kind of a town.

But getting down to the more serious aspects of the case, any happy disposition is worth a lot of money. A man can get farther and do more on the strength of a happy disposition than on anything else. It improves his health, lengthens his credit and increases his popularity.

Twenty thousand dollars is a small value to place on a happy disposition. If that asset isn't worth at least a million dollars it isn't worth a cent.

The gentleman who claims Oklahoma City as his place of residence underestimates the value of a happy disposition. And for the life of us we cannot see how a little thing like a truck smashup and a few minor injuries such as a broken leg and a crippled back would destroy a real, honest-to-goodness happy disposition.

Our judgment of the case is that this gentleman is trying to lay some of his troubles onto an unfortunate situation, for which he was not to blame. Having presented the case in due form, we will now turn it over to the jury.

They became so interested in building that they neglected the soldiers, and there was no fuss made when I took them away.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE

AQUARIUS.

To overcome the bad aspects of the day be deliberate and calm, as there is a strong tendency to overdo and miscalculate. If force an energy is transcended much useful work may be accomplished. Be cautious in travel.

A child born today will be clean cut in body and mind, and of great promise as a scientist.

If today is your birthday your nature should be one of cheerful optimism, but not to the point of recklessness. You simply analyze problems and choose the happy and immediate solution.

You will always sacrifice a distant success to seize present comfort. You are at least destined to make yours a merry way of life and gather many friends wherever you may go.

You are fair in your dealings with your fellow beings but apt to live strictly to the line in personal disputes. You recognize the necessity of laws in complex civilization and you observe them quite as faithfully as you would have others observe them.

Your mind is alert to all the transient events of the day. You would make a splendid journalist, and with your executive ability you should be a successful leader among men.

Your judgment on matters comes almost instantaneous and you are willing to be responsible for your decision. In fact, your highest efficiency will certainly be accomplished in a position of administrative authority.

You are generous in spirit, but not in fact; that is, you will help your fellow men leniently but you will help only those who help themselves, as you are extremely intolerant of all weakness.

You are affectionate with your friends, particularly those of the opposite sex and when the occasion presents itself an indefatigable philanderer.

Successful people born on this date are:

William M. Evarts, lawyer and statesman.

Joseph Winlock, astronomer.

James E. B. Stuart, Confederate general.

Frank Beard, artist.

Henry J. Hardenbergh, architect.

George J. Gould, capitalist.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE QUANDARY

If I, in my infancy ever fell ill,
The doctor would sternly declare:
"The thing to prevent at all costs is a chill;
Keep him carefully out of the air."
So the windows were closed and the curtains were drawn
The room was made tight as a cell,
And presently after the fever was gone,
I found I was perfectly well.

When I in my youth became ailing once more
The doctor observed with a frown:
"It is air that he needs, just throw open the door,
And don't keep those windows shut down."
And so through the room the rest of the week,
The wind in a hurricane poured,
And the place became frigidly chilly and bleak,
But my health was completely restored.

And thus it has gone every illness I've had,
Until I am sorely perplexed;
The treatment that one year was dreadfully bad,
Proves the best course to follow the next.
One season I'm told there is death in all pills,
Thereafter I'm greatly assured,
That without them there isn't a chance that my ills
Can ever be possibly cured.

I follow the doctor's advice every time,
With a firm and abounding reliance;
I am free to confess that my faith is sublime,
In the marvels of medical science.
Yet sometimes I own that I inwardly quake
With a horrid and shuddery fear,
Lest haply the treatment I'm ordered to take
Won't be right till the following year.

SOILS AND SOIL PHYSICS

Boron and Fluorene in the Soil

Boron and fluorene are two elements that are found in the soil only in minute quantities. There are some places in the west, however, where boron is found in excess. Soils with an excess of boron are useless for farming purposes.

Where plants are burned to ashes and an analysis of the ash is made small quantities of both boron and fluorene are generally found. So they do enter into the composition of plants and their presence in the soil in more or less minute quantities is probably essential.

Boron is the main element in borax, the familiar aid to the housewife on wash day. Borax is found in many parts of the world, generally around volcanoes. The principal deposits in the United States are the lakes or lake beds in California and Nevada. Borax is a compound of sodium and boron.

Fluorene is a common constituent of many rocks, but always in combination with some other elements, especially calcium. Fluorene by itself is a greenish gas, very corosive and poisonous. The rock used in the smelting of iron called fluorspar is calcium and fluorene combined.

Fluorene in combination with hydrogen forms an acid called hydrochloric acid. In some respects this is the most powerful acid known, as it acts on glass and must be kept in wax or rubber bottles.

Boron and fluorene are comparatively little discussed in relation to soil and many soil analysis will neglect entirely to show how much boron or fluorene is in the soil. Nevertheless they have their part in promoting the growth of plants.

Rail Crossing Tolls For Texas Great In Nov.

Austin Bureau,
Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 6.—There were 13 persons killed and 36 injured, in railroad crossing accidents in Texas during November, the highest number ever recorded, according to reports to the state railroad commission.

Of those killed, three persons lost their lives at Mission in an automobile-train collision; two at Richardson, when an interurban collided with a train, and two were killed at Marlin in an automobile-train collision. One person was killed at Stanton, one at Cleburne, one at Cuney, one at Venus, one at Buda, one at Rockwall and one at Temple.

Six persons were injured at Houston when a street car was struck by cars which were being "backed up" by a switch engine.

Following report of death of Neal Elliott at Bodie, Nov. 16, is the notation on the railroad commission report: "Tried to beat train over crossing." Cars on siding, view obstructed by buildings, side curtains up, and other causes of automobile drivers being unable to see approaching trains was given as cause for several of the accidents.

Ten of the 13 killed were in automobiles, one on a wagon, and two were pedestrians. Thirty of the 36 injured were riding in automobiles. In five accidents, one or more persons were killed and others injured.

OIL NEWS

SEARCH FOR NEW PRODUCTION IN OKLAHOMA AREA

More Than 100 Wildcats Drilling In the Northern Districts

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 5.—With approximately 100 wildcat wells being drilled throughout northern Oklahoma the race is on in earnest to find another Tonkawa pool. This wildcatting covers Osage, Pawnee, Kay, Grant, Garfield and Noble counties.

Oil men admit that the price of crude gradually ascending because of an actual demand for the crude, and with all products finding an immediate market, the oil industry is on the best basis that it has been in a number of years. But they say there is no field in sight to take the place of the Tonkawa, which has gone down to 38,000 barrels daily output.

There have been some bright spots the past few months, with a claim by the Marland interests that its Pettit lease in the Hominy district of the eastern Osage is the most promising of the new fields. The Atlantic Oil & Refining company evidently has uncovered a pool southeast of Pawhuska and the Otstott field northwest of Blackwell is showing some good wells. A vast amount of faith has been placed heretofore in the area west of Tonkawa, but nothing has developed. At one time it appeared certain that a pool would be located.

His lecture in Wichita Falls is one that he has delivered in all the major cities of the United States and England. Dr. Dingus has taken for his subject, "All nations marching to Armageddon, but millions now living will never die." The public is cordially invited to attend.

ROGERS INFANT DIES AT BURK

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 4.—Little Billie Roberts Rodgers, about 2 years of age, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rodgers, in the Doyle addition Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The remains was shipped by the Collier Brothers to St. Joe, Texas, for burial.

Deceased was the victim of pneumonia following measles it is reported.

The sympathy goes out to the family especially when it is noted that the mother is ill in the home with a tiny infant during this sad bereavement, and was unable to attend the little one's funeral.

Colonel A. E. Humphreys, who brought in the discovery well in the Mexia field, is one of the most unique characters of the industry. Perhaps no other operator-promoter is better known than Mr. Humphreys.

The first dime Albert E. Humphreys ever earned he cached for a boyish reason under Mount Zion, a little church at Sissonville, in the West Virginia mountains, and never retrieved it. He is a man of millions now, but he wants that dime so badly that he bought the church and will tear it down to get it. Then he'll build a new edifice.

Ohio Advances Montana Crude

By The Associated Press.

FINDLAY, O., Feb. 5.—The Ohio Oil company today announced an increase in the prices of all grades of Wyoming crude oil and Sunburst Montana crude. New prices: Grass Creek $1.90; Elk Basin $1.80; Lance Creek $1.75; Big Muddy $1.35; Rock Creek $1.55; Mule Creek 95 cents, all upt 25 cents a barrel. Sun Burst 95 cents, up 15 cents a barrel.

United Company Spuds Deep Test

The United Production company spudded in a well west of Electra on the Jennings lease, section 12, Tuesday. This well is to be drilled to the 1,500 foot sand, offsetting some wells that are already at 1,800 feet on the same lease. The well is a cable tool test.

RIGGING UP

By SUMMERS

The Muutal Oil company is storing approximately 10,000 barrels of crude daily from its production in Oklahoma and Texas fields.

The shortage of crude in Oklahoma is causing much concern among the independent refineries who are finding it hard to contract enough oil to keep the refineries running full capacity. Premiums as high as 50 cents a barrel are being paid in the Tonkawa district.

In the Orange district activity is being carried forward. Many tests for the deep sand have been spudded during the past 30 days. The field is producing approximately 11,500 barrels daily.

The new schedule of prices made by the Prairie Oil and Gas company Saturday have been met by practically all major purchasers in the midcontinent district.

Spindle Top, which made oil history in the state many years ago is still producing about 840 barrels of crude daily.

The town of Big Lake, Reagan county, is booming since the Big Lake Oil company completed three producing wells on the University lands a short distance from the town.

Oklahoma has 58 refineries in operation; Kansas 24; and Texas 41. The refineries are handling approximately 2,132,300 barrels of crude oil daily.

Pennsylvania fields produced 7,285,000 barrels of crude oil in 1923, according to figures recently made public.

KENTUCKY WELL MAKES 350 BBL.

Company Is Active In Several Areas In Archer County

The Kentucky Oil company's L. F. Wilson No. 1-E, lot 9, block 27, American Tribune New Colony lands survey, was completed early Tuesday morning from sand encountered at depth of 1,502 feet. The well is estimated as 350 barrel pumper.

The company's L. F. Wilson No. 1-C, lot 9, block 27, American Tribune New Colony lands survey, is feeling for sand.

The company's J. A. Kemp No. 1, lot 5, block 27, American Tribune New Colony lands survey is drilling at depth of 1,350 feet.

The company is moving derrick to location in lot 2, block 27, L. F. Wilson, American Tribune New Colony lands survey.

The company's J. A. Kemp N. 1, block 6, Denton County School Lands survey, is moving in Star machine to complete.

The company has made location in southeast corner of lot 8, block 23, L. F. Wilson lands, American Tribune New Colony lands survey.

J. I. Staley's L. F. Wilson No. 1, Wilmot pool, Archer county, has been completed with an estimated production of 200 barrels daily. The well is west of the Boller and offsets the Kentucky Griswald producers. The depth of the well is reported at 1,605 feet.

MISS GERTRUDE SELL

After The Flu

If the Flu Left You Weak, or You're in Need of a Tonic to Build You Up, Take This Advice

Houston, Texas—"I was in a terribly run-down condition of health after a siege of ptomaine poisoning, and then the influenza. I could not seem to regain my strength and was really not able to do my housework. I knew I needed a good tonic and builder and remembered how my folks used to regard Dr. Pierce's remedies in my girlhood days, and then I decided to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking the second bottle I found it was doing me a world of good, strength returned rapidly and I felt better in every way. I am glad indeed to recommend the medicine that did me so much good and do not hesitate to give this statement."—Mrs. Gertrude Sell, 1236 Rutland St.

MOORES TALKS TO U. CLUB

Tells of Alaskan Experiences and Travels There

Clifton Moores, who spent several years in Alaska prior to the World War, entertained the University club members at the regular weekly luncheon Tuesday at noon at the Kemp hotel when he told of his personal experiences in that territory.

The speaker explained that he first went to Alaska in 1910 on an Artic expedition fostered by the Canadian and American governments, to establish a boundary line of the British Yukon. He opened his address with a brief geographical sketch of the country, telling the present population and something of its history. He explained that Alaska was formerly governed by the federal government only, but that by the enabling act it was given a territorial government with a governor. He explained the system of the present judicial districts of which there are four.

Mining and fishing are the principal forms of industry in Alaska, according to Mr. Moores. He told also of the building of the railroads and forms of transportation, stating that the United States government had constructed fully 700 miles of railroad there. Mr. Moores said that it was hard to compete with the Pacific coast coal industry because of the transportation, but that the government was building steadily to put coal mining on its feet.

He gave a brief sketch of a gold stampede with the hardships encountered by the gold hunters who were unprepared to fight the cold and hunger. A number of amusing incidents, some of which occurred while he was manager of a trading post.

Mrs. J. S. Pitman sang several vocal solos accompanied by Mr. Pitman.

A resolution was passed commending the local board for its action in re-electing Dr. J. W. Cantwell superintendent of the schools for a period of two years. Dr. Cantwell is a member of the University club.

Relief For Feet

Look to your heels—the seat of most foot troubles. The heel forms one end of a perfect arch in every normal foot. The other end rests on the broad ball of the foot. If both ends are true, your arch will support your weight comfortably. If the heel leans, the arch is twisted. Fallen arches, painful callouses, flat foot and other serious foot troubles soon follow.

Special Foot Service All This Week

That you may have relief from feet that hurt, come meet our foot expert who is trained in the

Wizard Arch Foot System of Foot Correction

Without discomfort or inconvenience to you, your stockinged foot will be examined free of charge. You merely slip off your shoe just as you do in buying a new pair. A skilled examination will reveal the cause of your foot trouble. Recommendations will provide the way to immediate and permanent foot relief. Come meet this expert and obtain absolute foot relief.

RECORD NEWS SPORTS

BAYLOR BEGINS BATTERY WORK

Ten Pitchers and Catchers Begin Training For Season

Special to The Record News.

WACO, Tex., Feb. 5.—Despite the intense cold weather a squad numbering 10 composed the battery men who reported to Coaches Bridges, Lyons, Weathers for the initial workout of the Baylor Bears for the 1924 season. Both cubs and varsity were listed in this number.

The players did not handle the horsehide for more than five minutes Monday afternoon, most of the time being spent in handling the medicine ball and gymnastic exercises. When the weather will allow the pitchers will spend more time in throwing to the catchers.

The rest of the squad does not report till Feb. 18, and the entire squad will not report till after the basket ball season closes on March 3.

The varsity candidates who reported for pitching tryouts Monday afternoon numbered such regulars of last year's championship team as Jake Freese, and Sniper Connally. Roy Williamson, a cage player who was injured early in the season, managed to hobble out for practice. Williamson, Childs, Cochran and Brown made up the list of catchers. Jeffreys and Cumney of last year's cub team were the other pitching tryouts. Stallings and Jones reported for the cub squad.

Baylor To Play 7 Games In Six Days

Special to The Record News.

WACO, Texas, Feb. 5.—The Baylor Bears will play six games in seven days commencing with the series against the Southern Methodist university Mustangs here Wednesday and Thursday nights. Four games will be played on the road, the first two against Texas Christian university at Fort Worth Friday and Saturday nights, while the last two will be against the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater Monday and Tuesday nights.

Six games in seven days will be quite a test for Coach Bridges youngsters. They now have a playing average of .500 for the season. The Bears figure that by taking two games from the Mustangs here and coming out even with the Aggies they will play on the road they will be able to retain their hold on fourth place in the first division of the conference standings.

Although the Bears lost one game to the lowly Owls at Houston they did so when they were without a leader, as Coach Bridges left the club in Houston to attend the founder's day program of Baylor held at Dallas last Saturday night.

The return of Strickland to top form was one of the bright spots of the play against the Owls. Strickland looped six field goals in the first game against the Owls and Baylor won and followed with five field goals in the second game. Bell also showed improved form in looping baskets.

With Strickland and Chambless at forwards, Bell and Meers alternating at center, and Woodson and Fullingim at guards, the Bears have the best combination since Roy Williamson went out of the game early in the season with an injured knee.

Coyotes Meet Archer Cagers Here Friday

Coach McCallum's Coyotes meet Archer City Hi cagers here Friday night for a return game, and plans are under way for one more game this week, stated McCallum last night. Harrold was wanted for a date this week but will be unable to be here until probably next week, it was reported.

The Archer City crew will probably be entertained at Legion hall court where the Coyotes last week defeated Iowa Park. As for the Archer county capital quintet, with a strong defense, a good offense, and the Coyote lineup mixed up, they took the Wichita Falls team to a 13-7 cleaning there last Saturday night.

Needless to say, the Coyotes are laying for Archer City at this date, and hope to come back at that combination with a bang. Indications are for an interesting cage tilt.

The Coyotes are practicing out daily for the district meet to be held here in less than two weeks. Maskat Temple court affords all the room and play they can use, and with a return of the old fight, the Coyotes may get somewhere in the cage world this year.

Will Give Diploma Best American League Player

By The Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass. Feb. 5—A diploma will be presented each season to the player in the American league who is named as the most valuable for his season's work, it was decided today at the adjourned annual meeting of the American league here. The diploma will take the place of the championship button previously awarded.

The meeting which was attended by President Ben Johnson and seven members of the league was the so-called schedule session held each year. Aside from adopting the playing schedule for 1924 which was released for publication February 6, the magnates devoted their time to informal discussions of what was the best league. No deals were made public. The Chicago club was not represented owing to the legal tangle growing out of the Joe Jackson incident.

The suggestion regarding the diplomas for the most valuable ball player emanated from Babe Ruth. Ruth, possessor of many championship buttons, proposed a diploma setting forth work of the player and signed either by President Johnson or the chairman of the trophy committee. The proposal was adopted unanimously, and in a few weeks Ruth will have something to hang on the walls of his Sudbury, Mass., home, setting forth his prowess in the 1923 season. Sisler, who was selected in 1922, as the most valuable player in the league, will also receive a diploma.

DECATUR BAPTISTS BEAT TERRAL CLUB

Special to The Record News.

DECATUR, Feb. 5.—Decatur Baptist college Indians defeated the Terral, Oklahoma, Independents in a fast game of basket ball at Terral Monday night. The score being 22-24. In the first half the Independents were leading 10-12, but in the early part of the second half the Indians rang up four baskets which put them in the lead until the latter part of the game. The Independents rallied and tied the score.

This ends the road trips for Decatur on which they have played three games, winning all of them. Petty, Hardy and Christian played a stellar game for Decatur, while Ray brothers and Scott starred for Terral.

FLOYD JOHNSON GETS KNOCKOUT

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—In his first attempt at a come-back, Floyd Johnson of Iowa, won a sensational knockout in the first round of his bout tonight with Jack Douglas of New York after two minutes and 30 seconds of fight.

For two minutes the fighting was openly contested. Johnson swung a left to the stomach and a right to the jaw and Douglas fell. The referee did not begin to count and as the New Yorker struggled to get to his feet the arbiter stepped before Johnson and ordered him to his corner, awarding the technical knockout.

Johnson weighed 197 and Douglas 20 pounds less.

J. Arnold, Shreveport To Meet Dickson Sat.

Jack Arnold of Shreveport will meet Dickey Dickson in the semi-final of the Legion boxing card Saturday night, was the change in program announced last night. Arnold will take the place of Greer, first announced as Dickson's partner for the night.

The reason for the change is due to the fact Dickson is fighting this week at Wichita, Kans., and Arnold being closer, was scooped up, according to Don Wofford.

And the Legion fite promoters are very well pleased with the trade. By many counts, Arnold is the better man of the two, having made himself considerable reputation around Texas and Louisiana. He fought at Burkburnett some three years ago, and will be remembered by fans around these parts as quite a scrapper. Incidentally, he is in Dallas at the present writing, according to officials here.

Having indirect bearing or none at all on this week's fights, Chief Koren is off for Sayre, Oklahoma, to meet "Big Boy" Ray there Thursday night. Ray is the big seven-footer, weighing over 200 pounds, who is alleged to have received much publicity as a Dempsey sparring partner just before the Shelby fight.

According to Wofford, Ray will be brought here next week, Chief Koren being picked as his man should the Chief come through all together tomorrow night.

LABOR COMMISSIONER STILL UPHOLDS M'ADOO

Austin Bureau, Record-News.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 4.—William G. McAdoo's chances of nomination by the democratic party are in no degree impaired by efforts to "drag his name" into the Teapot oil lease investigation, Texas Labor Commissioner J. S. Myers told the voters of Texas, in a statement commending editorials in republican papers that his employment as an attorney did not connect him in any sense with "the scandal of the republican administration."

Mr. McAdoo will, when the hearing before the senate committee asked by him is given, make the record complete and clear as to his employment to represent the Doheny interest, in causing to be carried out Mexican guaranties for protection of American interests in Mexico, Mr. Myers said.

The McAdoo organization in Texas will continue without any break carefully laid plans for securing an instructed McAdoo delegation from Texas to the New York convention, according to its leaders.

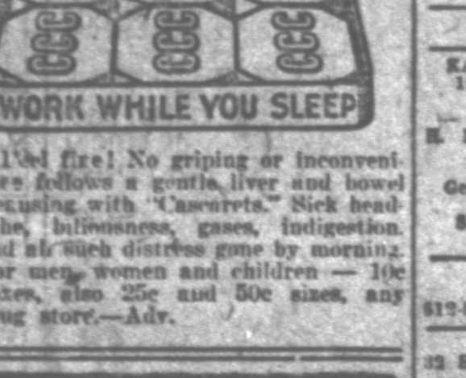

"I heartily agree with the Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Examiner, and other republican papers, that the dragging of the name of William G. McAdoo into the Teapot Dome scandal is unjust and unfair," Labor Commissioner Myers declared.

"As to his present employment with the Doheny interests, there is not a lawyer in the United States but who would today take the same under the circumstances which prompted Mr. McAdoo to take it," he declared.

RUSSIAN PRINCE HERE TO STUDY AUTOS

By The Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 5. — Among the passengers who landed from the United States Line steamer George Washington here today were Prince and Princess Orloff, the latter daughter of Grand Duke Peter and a cousin by marriage of the late Czar Nicholas.

In easy and fluent English the prince, a solidly built man in the late thirties, said he had come to the United States with the idea of connecting with some automobile concern here. He said he and a few others had recently become interested in the availability for automobile manufacturing of the ores in the Russian mines of which the prince owns a number and that he would discuss the matter with various leaders in the industry here.

A representative of Henry Ford met Prince Orloff on board the steamer. Neither would say whether business dealings with Detroit manufacturer were in progress. It was reported from Cherbourgh when the prince and princess sailed that they would settle in Detroit, but the prince said their American visit would be mere temporary.

Camp Fire Girls Prepare Beautiful Prologue.

A group of Camp Fire Girls under the direction of Mrs. J. Sidney Pitman are busy rehearsing an accurate reproduction of a Puritan scene in which Priscilla and John Alden take the leading parts, as a prologue of the picture "The Courtship of Miles Standish" starring Charles Ray, which the Camp Fire movement of the city is presenting the week of February 10. Manager Day of the Strand theatre has allowed the girls this privilege and will share the proceeds of the picture with them in return for their efforts in selling tickets, ushering, and presenting the featured prologue.

Tickets are on sale at the present time and may be procured from any Camp Fire Girl. The picture is the finest Ray has ever produced.

Following is a clipping from The Washington Post:

"Since Griffith's 'The Birth of a Nation' which for eight years has remained untouched for popularity and number of showings, there had been no motion picture dealing strictly and authentically with American history on an elaborate scale until "The Covered Wagon" appeared, to prove anew the tremendous appeal of actual human experience when it is used for screen material.

Now, however, has come a third pre-eminent American historical drama in Charles Ray's "The Courtship of Myles Standish," which not only vivifies the immortal characters of Longfellow's epic, but also spans the great adventure of the Pilgrim fathers."

Birds of a feather—

Gloria Swanson Returns to Her Beautiful Gowns.

Gloria Swanson is returning to her wardrobe in her newest Paramount picture which is based on Alfred Sutro's play, "The Laughing Lady," and which has just been completed under the direction of Allan Dwan at the company's Long Island studio. She will be resplendent in gorgeous negligees, smart dinner frocks, dazzling evening gowns and sport togs in the role of a young society woman of 1924.

The picture, following as it does, "Zaza" and "The Humming Bird," which has just been released, will be a direct contrast to the two in the matter of clothes. Miss Swanson will wear fourteen different gowns in the new picture while in "The Humming Bird" she had but four outfits, one of them being boy's clothes.

And that is not all. With each one of the stunning gowns she will have a special coiffeur that will make the women who see them green with envy. Besides being a highly dramatic story the new picture will be a fashion revue of the smartest order.

Jacqueline Logan's Mother Sings To Make Her Cry on Set.

Because her mother singing plaintive melodies has always exercised a great emotional effect upon her, Jacqueline Logan, featured with David Torrence and Ray Griffith in George Melford's "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," had her come to the Paramount West Coast studios to aid her in a "crying scene."

Mrs. Logan, playing her own piano accompaniment, sang, "O, Haunting Memory," while Miss Jacqueline in front of the camera cried softly because she believed she had lost her sweetheart, Dandy, a safe-cracker. The plan succeeded and Director Melford and many on the set consider the scene one of the best of the dainty actress's career.

Mrs. Logan, who sometimes teaches music, refused to accept a check for her services.

Thomas Meighan Sponsors Ball for Florida Charity.

Thomas Meighan recently added another to his long list of charities when at the leading hotel in Jacksonville, Fla., he gave a ball to the residents and the winter colony for the benefit of the crippled children of Jacksonville.

Mr. Meighan underwrote the expenses of the ball himself and all of the receipts, which were expected to be more than $2000, were turned over to the charity.

Mr. Meighan, with his company, is in Floria to film exterior scenes for his next Paramount picture, "The Confidence Man."

Lois Wilson Denies She's Engaged To Richard Dix.

In a recent telegram to an intimate friend in Hollywood Lois Wilson, popular screen actress now playing in New York, emphatically denied her engagement to Richard Dix, also well known to motion picture theatregoers. The rumor of the engagement was given wide publicity in recent news dispatches.

Miss Wilson's telegram follows:

"I have just heard that a story announcing my engagement to Mr. Dix has gone to the coast. Please, if you can, deny this for me as it is untrue and such rumors naturally cause embarrassment to both parties. It seems a shame that two people in this profession, because they happen to work together in a few pictures are necessarily believed to be engaged. I consider Mr. Dix one of the best friends I have ever had as well as one of the finest men I have ever known."

Signed: LOIS WILSON.

Miss Wilson and Richard Dix have played opposite each other in several recent Paramount pictures and are at present playing the principal roles in William de Mille's production, "Icebound" which is being filmed in the east.

All-Star Cast Chosen for "Monsieur Beaucaire."

Rudolph Valentino will be supported by an all-star cast in the production of "Monsieur Beaucaire," which will mark his return to the screen in Paramount pictures. Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson and Helen Chadwick are the more important women players already chosen and among the men are Lowel Sherman, Oswald Yorke and John Davidson.

Miss Daniels has come from the west coast to play the role of Princess de Bourbon-Conti, Beaucaire's gay sweetheart in France; Lois Wilson will have the part of Marie Leczynska, wife of Louis XV of France, and Miss Chadwick will play Lady Mary Carlisle, the English girl.

Lowel Sherman will have the role of Louis XV, King of France; Oswald Yorke will play Mirepoix, Paulette Du Val, a French actress just recently arrived in this country, will have the colorful role of Mme. Pompadour. John Davidson will be young Richelieu.

CAMPUS CHATTER

S. L. Butler of Fannin school is hobbling about this week on crutches suffering from a scalded foot.

The Fine Arts club meets this afternoon after school at the high school.

Mrs. E. W. Napier, president of the Austin school Mothers' club, held a meeting of the members of the Mother's club who are the sponsors of the various rooms in the building, Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was devoted to a discussion of school affairs, and $51.00 was reported from the sale of old paper, with Mrs. Benn's receiving a prize of $5.00 for having sold the greatest amount.

At the close of the meeting Mrs Napier served refreshments to Misdames Johnson, Ebert, Sullivan, S. L. Dixon, Reese Carter, W. O. Bensley, Helgerson, Dennis and Armstrong.

Speakers' club will meet this morning at 8 o'clock at the high school to observe a special Wilson Memorial program, according to announcement of Miss Juanita Kinsey, sponsor of the club.

The program is announced as follows:

"Wilson's Speech to Congress"—Ruth Moore.

"Wilson's War Message"—Thelma Cain.

"A recent Address of Wilson's on the League of Nations"—Vera Cain.

"Wilson, the Statesman" — Sam Bashara.

"Wilson, the War Leader"—Herman Staton.

"Wilson at the Crisis"—Kenneth Barker.

Miss Bessie Tee spoke to the debating class at the high school Saturday on the "League of Nations" in a very interesting and forceful manner. Her talk was very much appreciated by the students who are gathering all material possible and studying methods of address preparatory to the spring debates, and the interscholastic contest.

"World Service" Methodist Book Is Very Popular

"World Service" a volume outlining the work of the First M. E. church during the past five years of the great centenary movement which is the world wide policy of that denomination, has been introduced into the congregation of the First Methodist church of this city and is selling rapidly among local church people.

The volume is of a geographical and sociologic nature and tells through pictures, story, maps and charts, of the work being done in this and in foreign countries by the missionary and benevolent workers of the Methodist church. It will be used as a text for mission study in Sunday school classes and in the circles of the Ladies' Aid society of the local church during the spring, because of its value in bringing in an attractive manner, tangible evidence of foreign work, and an accurate and comprehensive insight into other corners of the world. Because of its authentic geographical value, the book has been adopted in some eastern cities as a supplementary reading for geography classes.

One whole Sunday morning service was devoted recently by the Rev. Leslie Miller of the First M. E. church, to an introduction and explanation of the volume, and the part it has played in stimulating enthusiasm and interest in church circles over the plan of world service along which the Methodist churches all over the world will work for the next ten years.

The book is well bound, beautifully finished and has some fine work in printing and engraving. Due to the vast number which have been printed and the aim of the church to place one volume in each home in a congregation, the price is quoted at 50 cents a volume. Because of this low figure, the local congregation anticipates no difficulty in selling their share of the books.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Yesterday's advances were followed by reaction in the cotton market today. There were rallies from early declines on reports of unfavorable weather and bullish spot advices from the south, but after selling up to 34.87, or 8 points net higher, May contracts broke to 34.42 in the late trading under renewed realizing or liquidation. The market closed easy at net declines of 35 to 46 points on old crop positions and ten to 26 points on the new crop.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of six to 27 points because of relatively easy Liverpool cables and overnight realizing sales. After showing net losses of about 30 to 40 points on present crop months, the market stiffened up on the complaint of further delays in southern farm work and bullish spot advices. Offerings were light, and for a time the market showed considerable strength, selling up from 34.16 to 34.58 for March and 33.04 to 33.40 for July, making the active months about net unchanged to 8 points higher. The demand tapered off at these figures, however, and the market was weak and unsettled late in the afternoon, with July selling off to 30.94 and with the general list closing at about the lowest prices of the day.

'All Nations Marching to Armageddon

But—"Millions now living will never die."

Judge Rutherford.

Wed., Feb. 6, 7:30 p. m.
98th Dist. Court Room

THE WORLD faces a condition never before experienced. Fear has taken hold upon all classes of people. The nations are in distress and perplexity.

THE WAR did not make the world safe for democracy. The very foundations of civilization are now shaken by revolution and anarchy.

EUROPE is completely bankrupt, with hosts of unemployed and discontents hourly increasing. All contending forces are hastening to the great battle of Armageddon.

BUT let the people take heart. The Lord will cut short the trouble, establishing peace and righteousness; and millions of people now living will become obedient to his kingdom and will live on the earth forever in peace and happiness.

WHEAT REACHES HIGHER MARK

Liverpool Advancing Stimulates Buying and Trade

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Stimulated largely by advancing quotations at Liverpool and by considerable purchasing here on foreign account, wheat today reached new high price records for the season. Profit taking sales eased the wheat market down later, and it closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8 cent higher; May 1.12½ to 1.12 5-8, and July 1.11¼ to 1.11 5-8. Corn finished 3-4 to 1 cent up, oats shade to 1-4 cent advance, and provisions with gains of 5 to 15 cents.

Rough weather likely to delay the movement of the corn crop and to increase demand from feeders gave a good deal of independent strength to corn and oats.

New Orleans Cotton.

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—Cotton turned distinctly reactionary today under what looked to many observers like liquidation of some of the extensive lines of long contracts that have been built during the recent advance of something more than two cents a pound. Many partial recoveries from the decline were made during the early and middle parts of the session but the late trading brought pronounced weakness and losses under yesterday close of 34 to 51 points. March well to 34.15 and October to 27.73. Last prices were 31 to 49 points off on the day, the last transaction in March being at 34.20 and in October 27.78. The early trading brought selling that was based mainly on a poor Liverpool. It caused losses of 24 to 30 points, after which small recoveries set in. From then on it was a series of set backs and recoveries with the highest levels in the early afternoon when March was up to 34.57 and October to 28.05. Here the list was 3 points up to four down, compared with yesterday's close. The late trading brought new lows. Buying that was responsible for the recoveries was mainly based on much better accounts from dry goods centers of this country. Moderate buying was caused by freezing weather over a good part of the belt and many complaints that it was giving new crop preparations a further set back.

SUGAR AND OIL SHOW GOOD

Constructive Side Marked the Day's Activities

Total stocks sales 1,180,000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 100.95; net gain .03.

High 1924, 100.95; low 94.88.

Twenty railroads averaged 84.33; net loss .15.

High 1924, 84.90; low 82.74.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. — Strong financial interests were again at work on the constructive side in today's market, staging bullish demonstrations in the steel, sugar, oil and motor shares in the face of heavy profit taking in other sections of the list particularly among the industrial specialties, tobaccos and a few recently strong rails.

The sales ran over a million despite the fact that the wire service of all commission houses was seriously crippled by the storm.

Reports of a further expansion of mill activities brought fresh buying into the steels, U. S. Steel common touching 108½, the highest price since last March and then easing to 107 7-8. Bethlehem and Crucible steels moved up nearly a point each and Republic improved fractionally.

The preliminary 1923 report of Mack Truck showing earnings of more than $20 a share on the common stock, or more than double the earnings of 1922, drew attention to the motors. Mack Truck climbed as high as 9 1-2, but fell back a point. Studebaker hit 106 5-8, but also yielded a point at the close. White Motors crossed 58 and closed 3-4 higher at 57 1-2 and Stromberg Carburetor showed a net gain of more than one point.

Among the factors which influenced oil shares were the steady decrease in domestic production of crude oil with a still further decrease probable if the naval oil reserve leases are cancelled, the rising trend of gasoline and crude prices with the resultant increase in inventories on oil in storage, and the increased consumption of gasoline due to the open winter.

General Asphalt preferred advanced nearly 4 points, Phillips and Houston about a point each, and most of the other oils showing fractional gains. Pacific touching another new top at 58 3-4. Pan American issues were heavily bought on another advance in Cuban raw prices. Rails were sluggish.

Lorillord was the weak spot in the tobacco group, dropping 6 1-4 points to 156. Other tobaccos yielded fractionally.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 cents, but dropped to 4 again before the close. Time money and commercial paper market were rather quiet with the bulk of the business done at 4 3-4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were again reactionary. Demand sterling dropped back more than 2 cents to just below $4.31 and French francs dropped about 5 points to 4.61 3-4 cents.

Fort Worth Cattle.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 5. — The cattle market was slightly more active today, receipts amounting to 1000 head of cattle and 500 calves. Following yesterday's downward revision of 15 cents to 25 cents on most classes, prices were in line with the decline. A few cars of cattle were of good quality, but most of the run was rather common. Calves made good progress on a steady to strong basis. One car of steer yearlings went at $8 and a few calves brought 6.75 to 7.00. Odd cows ranged up to 5.00 to 5.50.

With 1300 hogs on sale the market displayed fair activity and sales were around 10 to 15 cents higher. One car sold to an order buyer at 7.35 and later packers purchased at the same value. Bulk sales ranged from 7.00 to 7.25. Pigs met with an active demand, the market being strong to 25 cents higher. Order buyers paid 5.00 for the choice lots and bulk sales ranged around 4.50, with some at 4.75.

Only 100 head were recorded for the sheep division, the market remaining nominally steady.

Chicago Cattle.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Cattle, 8,000; uneven; around steady; top steers 11.00; yearlings 10.25; bulk steers 7.75 to 9.50; fat cows 4.60@5.75; heifers 5.25@7.50; canners and cutter 2.60@3.40, bologna bulls 4.50@4.85; vealers 10.50@11.00.

Hogs, 40,000; mostly ten cents higher; medium and heavy weight 7.30@7.35.

Sheep, 8,00; steady to 25 cents higher; fat wooled lambs 14.00@14.50; top 14.60.

WARREN HEADS BOYS' CLUB

At a meeting of the Wichita Falls Boys' club, James Warren was elected president to take the place of Ben Griswold who has gone to Laredo. Coyle Francis was selected for vice president. Adjutant Swanson of the Salvation Army was chosen chaplain of the culb.

Initiation was held for two new members, G. D. Glasgow and Cecil Stovall. Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served to the boys.

Reason So Many "Pimple Cures" Fail

Salves and lotions come and go, one after the other, hoping to hit the right thing which might cause them to get results for people who suffer from skin troubles. Most of these concoctions don't even heal the outward effects, much less take away the cause of the disease.

Do you think so little of your delicate skin as to allow yourself to become the subject for these experiments? By all means use only the thing which has stood the test of time and public opinion. Black and White Ointment has not only stood this test, but you are sure of it—when you know that it is selling at the tremendous rate of nearly two million packages a year.

The way it is economically priced, in liberal packages, has helped to make it so popular, along with its dependability. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have it.—Adv.

With The Boy Scouts

Robroy Price, special deputy regional Scout executive, from Houston who has been in Wichita Falls in the interest of scouting, left last night for his home. During his visit here, Mr. Price added one more county to the council of Boy Scouts of this district.

The council was composed of six counties, but Throckmorton county was isolated. It was thought that it could be more easily reached and served by the field executive, F. A. B. MacKell, so Throckmorton county was added to those counties forming this district. It will be served through the office here under the direction of Frank Creighton, Scout executive.

F. A. B. MacKell was in Wichita Falls Monday on his way to Iowa Park and Electra, according to information received from the Boy Scout office Tuesday. Iowa Park was working on a campaign Tuesday to raise funds for the budget in which the Boy Scout organization was included, and Mr. MacKell was helping with the drive.

Three training camps are being planned by Scout Executive Frank Creighton and Field Executive F. A. B. MacKell for Scout Masters in this district. These camps will consist of one day of 15 hours each, and two separate periods of three hours each to make the 20 hours required by the New York office. This course will be approved by the national office and certificates will be awarded to those who satisfactorily pass the required tests.

Troop No. 4 of the Boy Scouts will hold an overnight camp Friday night. The Scout will meet at the First Christian church at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and will be in charge of Scout Master Van H. Thompson. The boys expect to be back to the city by 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Plans are being made to send eight Wichita Falls Boy Scouts to Fort Worth to the Scout Jamboree, and statements are made that they will probably participate in the activities. The boys will spend Saturday night at the Fort Worth Boy Scout camp on Lake Worth, and will prepare their own meals while there.

Arrangements are being made to have the boys go in cars to Fort Worth, and they ask that if any one driving through has a place in the car for a Scout to notify Scout Master Creighton. The boys to go to the Jamboree will be selected Friday.

Why Women Use Glycerine Mixture

Women appreciate the quick action of simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH uper and lower bowel, and removes all gasses and poisons. Excellent for obstinate constipation and to guard against appendicitis. Helps any case gas on stomach in TEN minutes. The Palace Drug Store at 812 8th street, and the Central Drug Store at 826 Indiana.—Adv.

LOCHERIGE SPEAKS AT TECH CLUB ON "DUTY OF WATER"

Discuss Plans For Routing Highway No. 30 Through Irrigation Area

At the regular meting of the Technical club at the Wichita club rooms last night, J. L. Locherige, designing engineer of the irrigation district, made the chief address of the evening, his subject being the "Duty of Water." His speech was followed by a round table discussion by the members of the club along other points of interest.

J. M. Isbell, county road engineer, exhibited a map showing two routes between Wichita Falls and Seymour. One route is designated as highway No. 30 on the map and follows an old road through Archer county to Seymour. Mr. Isbell has an alternate route which would take off the present Seymour road about 7 miles from the city limit and would continue westward through the project o the diversion dam. This would shorten the road to the diversion dam about six miles. According to Mr. Isbell, Baylor county in its recent bond election is empowered to build a road to connect with the route he proposes.

However, if Archer county should succeed in voting bonds for this year, it may be that the State Highway department would refuse to designate this alternate road as a highway, Mr. Isbell stated. Thus state moneys would not be available for its construction.

H. H. Roberts, state game warden, has completed a careful count of the bass in Lake Kemp. He reported to the club that 140 millions of bass over eleven inches in length were released in Lake Kemp. According to Mr. Roberts, the fishing season will be open in about 15 days. He estimated that if every citizen of Wichita Falls should get his share of the bass, it would mean that 150 pounds of bass would go to every inhabitant.

Mr. Locherige spoke as follows:

"I believe that the duty of water for crops will not average more than 18 inches per year in this district. The main canal of the irrigation district is designed for a duty of 100 acres of land per second foot at the headgates. It is planned to use the rotation method in the distribution of water to the water users, and the small laterals are designed to deliver 5 cubic feet per second to each tract every ten days.

"The duty of water in an irrigation system cannot be accurately determined until the demands of each irrigated crop, the requirements of each class of soil and other factors are determined.

"All of this perhaps is another way of saying that maximum duty is inevitably tied up with efficient metering of irrigation waters in order to know where needless losses may be determined. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on necessity for developing the maximum duty of water for the success of the irrigation project, will, to a great measure, depend upon whether or not a maximum acreage is irrigated by making the available water supply do its maximum work, and these results cannot be accomplished where unknown losses exist due to imperfect metering of water and to undetected miscellaneous losses.

"Until local data can be developed by accurate measurements of water consumption by the water users of the district, efficiency of water will be problemetical. In general depending upon soils, various operations at different altitudes, and in different climates, etc., it has been discovered that the unavoidable losses due to seepage and evaporation, say for a system of canals irrigating 40,000 acres may vary from 18 per cent to 60 per cent, the losses depending upon the length of the canals, area of the wetted perimeter and the design of the canal section, considering area of water surface exposed to evaporation.

WAYS AND MEANS.

"Every one is more or less familiar with the contract between the two irrigation districts, and realizes that the method of payment for water will be on the acre year basis, and eliminates the use of placing meters for each water user. In some districts in the west where similar methods of payment are employed, a time limit is placed on the delivery of water, namely, a head of 5 to 7 cu. ft. per second is delivered to each water user and a specified time is allowed him for each acre irrigated. In a short time each water user realizes that in order to complete his irrigation before the gates are shut he has got to have his small laternals of proper size and in perfect condition to convey the water to the lands, in addition his lands have got to be in first class condition of uniform slope, free from weeds and obstructions, in order that the water will pass over the lands as quickly as possible. The rows or beds have got to be the proper length.

"Some experiments were made on some of the soils that exist in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas. It was found on those soils that under proper conditions a 1 inch irrigation could be applied to rows or beds up to 150 feet in length, one and one-half to 2 inches was required for rows or bed from 150 to 250 feet long, 2 to 3 inches for rows or beds from 250 to 350 feet long and 3 to 6 inches where rows were from 350 to 500 feet long, the depth of water that can be applied of course depends a great deal on the slope of land, amount of vegetation, condition of the land, and the kind of soil. Some measurements were made on the actual amount of water being applied by some of the worst conditions that existed by the water users. Where rows were from 400 feet long to 700 feet long it was found that the application ranged from 6 inches to as much as 18 inches for each irrigation, and in some of these cases the application was repeated about every 10 days to 2 weeks.

Some of the farmers seemed to irrigate when it came time to cultivate. No doubt some of these farmers are today wondering why the salts in the soil have riven to the surface, and their land is waterlogged. It is believed that most any soil, when too heavily irrigated will eventually become waterlogged, some of the lands in this valley as brought out by the recent soil survey, have poor underdrainage, and it is going to take the best engineering talent in planning the field ditches, and proper care in the use of water to prevent waterlogging.

I do not believe from observations in this valley that, ordinarily, the rows or beds can be made more than 400 feet long, and be irrigated to the best advantage. However, I believe that 300-foot rows will come nearer being the ideal, when everything is considered. The type of soil on which the water is to be applied has to be studied and the best judgment from years of engineering experience used.

In laying out field ditches or small canals for the farmers, it is good practice to make a close topographic survey, I have found that an ordinary Y-level taking shots every 100 feet, and closer if the topography is at all rough, and prepare a map with at least 6-inch contours and on a large scale, in order to show any variation that may be in the slope of the land to be irrigated. It is not good practice to try to irrigate a tract of land that has a change in slope from one canal, in other words, when the slope of the land changes another canal should be built, as water will run over a steep slope much faster than over a flat slope, and so that the water may be applied evenly from one end of the row to the other.

Proper drainage should be provided at the lower end of all rows or beds in order to carry away any excess water that may be applied during the irrigation, and excess rain water. It is just as important to get all excess water off of the land as it is to apply the irrigation water properly.

In order to apply irrigation water properly it is very essential that the farmer shall have proper structures built in field ditches to control the water, and save water, expense of labor and time in the long run, after he has definitely decided the method of irrigation, and crops that he will grow.

In conclusion, nothing appears to make a commodity rise in value more than by doling it out the same way that a thrifty paying teller at a bank window would let out his money to the public. Any one can waste water, if he is allowed to do so, but it takes the most progressive management to use irrigation water profitably to irrigate maximum acreage, and thus collect maximum profits. Managing irrigation for respective crops and soils in conection with a graduation of water consumption, combining the best knowledge of dry farming methods, with the most progressive irrigation ideas and analyzing our local conditions. It is a well known fact in successful irrigated districts that any enginegr to be competent to lay out ditches for a farmer must first have had actual experience in irrigating himself."

SHRINE SHOW SEATS SELLING

Record Crowds Making Reservations For Minstrel

Beginning this morning, reserved seats for the Maskat Minstrel, the production being staged by nobles of Maskat Temple at the Wichita theatre, Thursday and Friday nights, will be on sale at Tipton's Drug Store. According to Horace Robbins, chairman of the ticket committee, a large number of tickets have been sold and he advised the o wishing reservations to make their selections early, in order to insure choice seats.

It is understood that Potentate Hawkins of Vernon will be in attendance at the opening night, as will as Walter D. Cline and Frank Collier, past potentates of the temple, the members of the divan, and their wives. Several box parties are also being planned and from indications all available seats will be taken for both nights.

Rehearsals are going forward nightly, and under the direction of Chief of Police George Hodgins and Chas. Nolen, the comedians are rounding out their parts, and making every preparation to see that the hardest crusted grouches take a trip over the laugh route Thursday night. Many new song numbers will be introduced during the minstrel. To hear W. B. Richardson sing "Wonderful One," John McCormick's favorite ballad, is to enjoy a real treat, and then, with such capable singers as Judge B. D. Sartin, R. E. Shepherd and others, it is seldom that local audiences have had an opportunity to hear vocalists of equal ability on the same bill.

The Maskat Chanters, always welcome favorites with local audiences are working on several new selections for the minstrel and promise their program will be up to their usual high standards. Mrs. J. S. Pittman, another popular entertainer, will render several new character songs of the comic and popular type. All in all, the bill has been planned to include everything from Blue melodies to the highest types of classical selections and regardless of your preferences, you are certain to find a variety of entertainment to meet your satisfaction.

METHODIST WOMEN TO HEAR MRS. BROCK

Mrs. C. J. Brock, field secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will be in the city today and will speak this afternoon at 4 o'clock to the women of the church.

Mrs. Robt. A. Lyle, president of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church, Seventh and Lamar streets, will preside at the meeting.

Mrs. Brock will speak on plans and organization work for the coming year, connecting on the general scope of the Home Missionary movement and the work for foreign speaking people, negroes, backwoodsmen and mountaineers that the society sponsors extensively, along educational and evangelistic lines.

Thursday Mrs. Brock will visit Friberg where she will address the women of Friberg and Thornberry community along similar lines.

Mrs. Brock, while in the city, will be the guest of Mrs. G. C. Friberg at her home on Tenth street.

PERKINS-TIMBERLAKE BUYERS ARE BACK

E. P. Timberlake, R. D. Kennedy, T. H. Moreen and R. M. Tittle, all of the Perkins-Timberlake Co., have returned from eastern markets where they have been buying spring merchandise.

Mrs. Kennedy returned with Mr. Kennedy from Little Rock, Arkansas where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. W. Hartman.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO HONOR WILSON

Superintendent of County Schools Earl Bryant issued a statement Tuesday afternoon to the effect he felt rural schools should hold memorial services today in honor of Ex-president Woodrow Wilson.

This in view of the fact city schools have planned suspension of regular duties and services in memory of Mr. Wilson. Bryant stated he realized rural schools were not in a position to give like time and preparation as planned by larger schools, but suggested they might hear a reading of something on the life of Woodrow Wilson or like mention.

COMMISSION SUIT

A jury was empanelled Tuesday afternoon in the case of Jackson against Johnson, for commission, before Judge R. A. Martin in the 30th district court.

DEFENDANT WINS

Decision was returned for the defendants in the case of Jackson against Long and Hines et al., in the 30th district court Tuesday. The plaintiff sued for commission.

Chinese College President Will Speak Here

Announcement has been made that Dr. Leighton Stuart, president of Peking university, Peking, China, will speak at both services at the First Presbyterian church on next Sunday, February 10th.

Dr. Stuart was born in China, his mother and father both having been well-known missionaries there. His mother is still living in Peking and only recently celebrated her eightieth birthday, at which time many Chinese and Americans alike rejoiced with her and sent greetings. A large church at Hangchow, China, has been erected as a memorial to Dr. Stuart's father.

After completing his education in the United States, Dr. Stuart returned to China and became one of the leading spirits in the Nanking Theological seminary, and while there published several books, among them one on the history of missions and a first primer to help Chinese study Greek, and its companion book, a Greek-Chinese dictionary.

In 1919 he was called to be president of Peking university, which is a recently formed union of two men's colleges, both dating back some fifty years, and the Yen Ching Women's college, the oldest and largest women's college in China, which is now the women's college of Peking university. Peking university is one of two Christian colleges for all of north China, comprising 120 000 square miles. Yen Ching, the women's college, has even a vaster field than this, as it occupies the whole field alone with respect to women's colleges.

At the special request of the missionaries an educational commission, composed of leading educationalists in this country, went to China and spent from September, 1921, to February, 1922, studying the educational situation there in all its aspects. To this commission was added three missionaries, selected from all the missionary forces in China and Dr. Stuart was one of these.

Dr. Stuart is at present in this country considering questions of great moment raised by the report of this commission. He is widely known throughout China and quite as widely loved. Having been born in China he understands the Chinese background with deeper sympathy and interest and a more adequate knowledge than is usually possible for those who have not been born in that land.

His visit to this city will give unusual opportunity to those interested in our contacts to influence our friends and neighbors across the ever-narrowing Pacific. The public is most cordially invited to hear Dr. Stuart next Sunday morning.

DE MOLAY PATROL IN MEETING

The DeMolay patrol held a short business meeting at the Masonic Temple last night followed by a rehearsal of the DeMolay degree team, preparatory to the ceremonial to be held in the near future.

Fire Chief McClure, newly appointed advisor of DeMolay was on hand at the meeting to assume his new duties in accordance with a regulation of the organization which states that the DeMolay advisor must be present at all work put on by the degree team.

MAYOR COLLIER'S WILSON DECREE

WHEREAS, that kindly gentleman, Woodrow Wilson, former president of the United States and revered national leader, has passed to the great beyond, and

WHEREAS, the citizens of Wichita Falls join with all other Americans in solemn mourning because of the passing of this great and good man, and

WHEREAS, as Mayor of this community it becomes my official duty to speak for our people in expression of the profound regret we all feel in this hour,

THEREFORE, I, Frank Collier, mayor of Wichita Falls, do here and now proclaim an hour of solemn mourning, reflection and prayer on behalf of the entire community of Wichita Falls between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, February 6, and I request all business houses throughout the city to close their doors for this one hour, and I also request all men and women engaged in their daily tasks in offices, stores, shops or in the fields or wherever employed, to cease their labors for this hour and reflect upon the life of this great leader who has gone, in respect and loving memory. I urge all citizens who can do so, to attend the community memorial service at the First Methodist church from 2 to 3 o'clock, Wednesday, February 6.

(Signed) FRANK COLLIER,
Mayor.

Done at the office of the mayor of Wichita Falls, this the 4th day of February, 1924.

Attest: W. E. McBroom, City Secretary.

Salvation Army Keeps Track Of Men Helped

"Men Who Come Back" is the first annual prison report of the Salvation Army 1922-1923, a book which is just off the press. It tells of the work of the Salvation Army in the prisons. Its statistics in the United States show the following kinds of work done:

A total of 17,401 meetings were held; and a total attendance of 890,055; advised, 53,394; conversions, 8,901. War Crys and other literature distributed, 666,647, soldiers 480. The expenditure of the Army on prison work for the 1922-1923 amounted to $34,759.83, and the income $965.12. The hours spent in prison visitation were 31,003.

Other particulars included in the prison report include men paroled to Army's care, paroled and discharged prisoners helped, meals, beds, clothing, transportation and employment.

"Hunchback of Notre Dame" Is Creating Interest

If the advance ticket sale is any criterion "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is destined to be the most sensational success of any production that has ever appeared at the Palace theatre. In a large measure this is probably due to the fact that excerpts from the glowing tributes paid by the New York and Boston critics have appeared in the columns of this and other local papers. The production is now in its seventh week in New York and fifth in Boston.

It is interesting to note that this production marks the dawn of a new day in pictures as it is being restricted solely to the largest theatres in the country and each company carries a car of scenic equipment, a full stage crew and a special symphony orchestra of 22 men. Universal officials have announced that it positively will not be shown in any motion picture theatres before 1925, if then. This step has been compelled by the tremendous production and operating cost.

The cast numbers such celebrities as Lon Chaney who plays the stellar role of Quasimodo; Ernest Torrence, Patsy Ruth Miller, Gladys Brockwell, Tully Marshall, Brandon Hurst, Nigel de Brulier, John Cossar and some 3,091 others. The entire cathedral of Notre Dame was reconstructed at Universal City at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

GIBBS HOLDS INQUEST OVER DEAD NEGRO

Inquest over the body of a negro, Walter Stanton, found dead at 311 Mill street Tuesday morning, was held by Judge O. L. Gibbs at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Judge Gibbs rendered a verdict of death by natural causes.

The negro had been dead only a short time when found, it was reported.

REMMER TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Harry Remmer, noted evangelist and prize fighter of Los Angeles California, is in Wichita Falls, through the arrangement of railroad officials. He will speak this evening at 8 o'clock at the superintendent's office of the M. K. and T. railroad offices, according to statements made Tuesday. All railroad officials are invited to attend.

FULLER BRUSH MEN TO MEET TONIGHT

H. M. Abele, manager of the southwestern division of the Fuller Brush company with headquarters at Birmingham, Alabama, will be in this city today to attend a convention of salesmen of Fuller brushes in this trade territory to be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the Hemp hotel. The district manager, V. A. Lundy of Dallas, will also be here, according to A. J. Bacher, manager of the local branch of the Fuller Brush company.

Mr. Bacher expects 24 men from the trade territory including Lubbock, San Angelo, Guinesville, and other points to be present.

IN honor of him who gave his life in pursuit of a just and right cause and with profound dignity and respect of Woodrow Wilson's unfailing devotion to the American public as a citizen and as a president of the United States, the officers and directors of The First National Bank in due respect and in accordance with President Coolidge's proclamation, earnestly request the presence of its employes at memorial services at the First Methodist church, south, today, between the hours of 2:30 and 3:30 P. M.
