PRISON HEALTH IS DEPLORED

What About Dallas On November 4

Once It Returned Majority Against Culberson and Years Ago Went for McKinley for President.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

THIS week they are coming down the track—the elephant, the donkey and the liberty bell tortoise. Which of the entrants will win? Well, the story will be told in the battle of the ballots on Tuesday, November 4. John W. Davis wil speak day and night until the close of the campaign to place New York in the democratic column. Robert M. LaFollette will make many speeches in New York and adjoining states in the closing days of the campaign. Calvin Coolidge will remain at the White House looking as wise as an owl and remaining as dumb as an oyster.

Whoever carries New York may win the presidency. From the beginning the republicans have had the best organization, the big money barrels to tap and big business behind them. At the beginning of the last week of the campaign Coolidge was a three to one favorite in Wall Street with Al Smith a seven to five favorite in the race for governor of New York. Jesse Jones, a Texan is the financial director for the democrats. He contributed $25,000 to the national campaign fund. William L. Clayton is the Texas director of finance. He contributed $5,000 to the fund.

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD and Congressmen Connally, Garret, Box and Black are making speeches in the doubtful states. All have wired that they are coming home to vote for the democratic nominees from president to constable. Everywhere in Texas Creager and his lieutenants are doing all in their power to make votes for Coolidge and Dawes. It is no secret that big business in Texas and this includes many democrats are hoping that Coolidge will be elected. They believe that money talks, that property rights come in advance of human rights and they are honest in their belief.

Ferguson and Butte are holding the center of the stage—the former speaking for his wife, the democratic nominee for governor and the latter speaking for himself. These two will be on the stump until the campaign closes on the night of November 3. As the writer said in an earlier story the democrats who never scratch a ticket, democrats who vote as their fathers voted, democrats who are ambitious for a political future, democrats who love the spoils of office as well as the power that office brings, are being enlisted to go to the polls on election day.

JED ADAMS and E. A. Berry, the heads of the national and state official machinery, are working like trojans and the county committees in 250 units of the machine are busier than ever before, at least in recent years. They are striving to get out a very large vote and the indications are they will be successful. They say that reports from twenty-two of the thirty-one senatorial districts indicate heavy majorities for all the democratic nominees.

Dallas is the storm center. Dallas in days gone by rolled up a majority against Culberson for governor. Dallas rolled up a majority for McKinley for president. Dallas is the home of many republicans and a larger number of individuals who were republicans when they came to Texas but have called themselves democrats in state affairs and republicans in national affairs. Among this latter number is one big newspaper publisher and his confidential man of affairs. This may be the year for them to step out.

Dallas is the home of Judge Felix D. Robertson who was defeated by Mrs. Ferguson for the nomination by 100,000 majority. Judge Robertson has declared in the newspapers that he is for the straight democratic ticket, including Mrs. Ferguson as he holds that the pledge is binding and he is a democrat first of all things. State Senator John Davis, a delegate to the New York convention is making speeches for all the nominees including Mrs. Ferguson. Frank W. Woenkraft, delegate at large to the New York convention, has declared for the regulars. He is a young man and he votes as his father voted.

With but three exceptions all the nominees for county office in Dallas county are klan democrats. To a man they have declared for the regular ticket without a scratch. "Deaf John E." Davis who will serve his seventh term in the lower house of the legislature next winter was for Mrs. Ferguson in the runoff. Democratic office holders and democrats who hope to be office holders are familiar with the political history of Texas. Since 1872 their fathers looked to the democracy for favors and the sons acquired the habit.

REPRESENTATIVE TRUE STRONG, a klan democrat until the runoff election was over, has declared for Mrs. Ferguson and Hall of Harris county for speaker, thus overlooking the candidacy of his colleague, Representative T. K. Irwin. Dallas county has 64,000 qualified voters. In his races for office James R. Ferguson never ran strong in Dallas county. In the run-off against Robertson, his wife, the democratic nominee, received more than 15,000 votes, the high peak established as a vote getter by one of the name. She polled a big vote in the country districts and County Chairman Claude M. Dillman says that in all the rural districts, Mrs. Ferguson will receive the full strength of the party.

As for the city it will be necessary to wait for the count on the night of November 4. This is the way the

HOLLIDAY, 10TH TO GOLF GROUND, DUE FOR PAVING

County Offers to Put In Improvement If City Will Help

COUNCIL AGREES

Two Miles of Pavement Will Be Added if The Project Is Passed

A paving for Holliday street from Tenth to the Country club is believed to be virtually assured as a result of acceptance by the city council last night of a proposal from the county that the two groups collaborate on the improvement. It was indicated by County Engineer Isbell, who appeared before the council, that the county was ready to proceed with the work if the city could lend its cooperation.

The plan has been under consideration before but has never progressed to a point where it was considered a reasonable certainty.

Both to Pave

Briefly, it proposes that the county pay for an 18-foot strip of paving on Holliday from Tenth to the city limits, with the city to pave a six-foot strip on each side, thus making a 30-foot street within the city limits. Beyond this boundary, the county will continue with the paving to the Country club grounds, a distance of about a quarter of a mile. It is also asked that the city do the excavating for the work.

The city officials signified their willingness to undertake the project on those conditions. It is presumed that the preliminary work will be started in the near future.

Important Street

Holliday street is one of the most important unpaved highways remaining in the city and it bears a huge amount of traffic daily. It is the principal outlet to the Sibley-Taylor and other additions in the south part of town and, with work started on the new city park on the Weeks tract, its importance as an artery of travel will be increased. In addition to giving access to the present golf and country club it will also provide a paved road to the new city park. Rural travel to and from territory to the south of Wichita Falls also utilizes it to a large extent.

He was campaigning for LaFollette and considered the theological teachings a waste of time now that election was coming on.

He admitted being drunk.

Tiny Tots Bring Their Dimes and Pennies To Training School Altar

Forty tiny babies contributed funds toward the Belle Bennett memorial administration building for Scarritt Bible training school following a stirring talk by Mrs John S. Terry of Terrell, at the Wichita Falls district meeting of the society, Methodist Episcopal church, south, held Monday at First M. E. church. The little tots came down the aisles of the church, some of them toddling, some of them in their mothers' arms, to give their pennies, their dimes or their dollars to Mrs. D. J. Carrithers, district treasurer, and receive a certificate registering their names as donors to the fund. Mrs. Terry closed the service with a prayer of consecration.

The service followed an inspiring address by Mrs. Terry on "Our Unfinished Task," wherein she told the women of the great field of unfinished work planned by the centenary which remains undone, and a challenge to the women of Southern Methodism. The speaker stressed the necessity for the new building at Scarritt school in Nashville, and told something of the work of Miss Belle Bennett, founder of the Women's Missionary council, giving details of her fruitful life up until her death in 1922, which inspired the erection of the $500,000 memorial.

Monday's session of the meeting opened with Mrs. Bob Gafford of Burkburnett, district secretary,

Scott St. Lake Is Doomed By Order Of City Council

Boats No Longer Needed To Navigate Busiest Corner

A STORM SEWER

Pre-Season Storm Precaution Is Taken to Dispell Water

For the supreme joy of those who so often have waded through it, it is stated that boats will be needed no longer to navigate at Eighth and Scott after every rain.

One of the busiest corners in town, which has heretofore resembled a miniature lake during much of the winter, must be properly drained in the interests of public pride and safety, the city council decided last night in authorizing the installation of a storm sewer main from the southwest to the northwest corner of that intersection. No one has been drowned there yet, but the commissioners learned that a wet season is in store this winter and they entertained grave fears, accordingly.

Anyone who has been down town during or after a storm and has had to wade shoe-top deep to get from the Kemp hotel to the City National bank will appreciate this order. The troublesome puddle "just accumulated and there she stayed," as one official put it, and has been an eyesore and a danger spot ever since the streets were paved.

A sewer opening will be cut on the City National side and a pipe run to the Kemp hotel side, which already has a sewer line.

COMMANDER OF DWINDLING GRAY HOST IS CALLED

Gen'l W. B. Haldeman Dies From Heart Attack At Churchill

IN ARMY AT 16

Veteran of Civil War Passes Before Wife and Daughter Reach Him

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—General W. B. Haldeman, 78, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, wearing the honors of long active years, tonight had answered the final roll call and gone to rejoin those comrades in gray whose cause he had served since it first called him from his school books, a boy of 16.

General Haldeman, at one time part owner of the Courier-Journal died late today from a heart attack in the emergency hospital at Churchill Downs. He had been stricken a half hour before while watching the races, his favorite sport.

Attack Is Sudden

Seated in a box, surrounded by scenes and friends he loved, the white haired old soldier complained of feeling ill and suggested he should go home. He was assisted from the box, but before he could reach his automobile the attack had so overcome him it was necessary to call for a stretcher to carry him to the track hospital.

"I am nauseated," he murmured as he was borne into the hospital. Those were his last words.

General Haldeman who had valiantly resisted the infirmities of age, suffered an attack about two weeks ago, while addressing the United Daughters of the Confederacy at their state convention in Frankfort. He was similarly stricken last Thursday at Churchill Downs, but he had returned to the races, apparently completely recovered.

Funeral Wednesday

He was at the Downs with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Graham, of Louisville; J. Frazier Bonnie, a son-in-law, and Mrs. Arthur Brock of New York, wife of a former editor of the Louisville Times.

Soon after General Haldeman was stricken his chauffeur brought the general's wife, Mrs. Lizzie Robards Haldeman, and his daughter, Mrs. Chra Bruce Haldeman Bonnie to the Downs, but he was dead before they arrived.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church of which General Haldeman was a trustee. General Haldeman will be buried in his full uniform as commander of the confederate veterans.

Petrolia Gas Field Big Factor In ZR-3 Flight Due to Helium Source

If it had not been for the Petrolia gas fields, near Wichita Falls, the ZR-3 might never have made its history making flight across the Atlantic ocean to American shores, for without helium obtained from the gas produced in that field the big ship would have been of little value to the United States with this country's natural prejudice against the highly explosive hydrogen bags. For the United States, recognizing its tremendous asset with a supply of helium gas, not to be duplicated anywhere else in the world, was ready enough to agree to cancel a large war debt with the German people in return for a big cigar shaped Zepelin dirigible of a type and workmanship which American manufacturers and workmen have never attained.

In North Clay County.

Helium is a gas, a component of the gas found in the wells of northern Clay county in the Petrolia district. The proportion of helium to other elements in the Petrolia gas is greater than is found anywhere else in the world, and practically the only place in the world where it is great enough to make extraction practicable.

This extraction takes place at the government's helium plant at Fort Worth, the only one in existence. There the gas from the mains is cooled to 317 degrees below zero, and the helium run off in liquid form, it reaching that stage at that temperature. Allowed to become a gas again the helium is ready to use in balloons and dirigibles.

Gas Noncombustible.

Helium is noncombustible and can not be ignited or exploded. In this

Dares Coolidge To Oppose Senators Of Pink Tendency

Glass of Virginia Would Test the Republican "Honesty"

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 27.—Declaring he was seeking to "test the honesty" of republican party leaders, Senator Carter Glass, democrat, of Virginia, challenged President Coolidge in a campaign speech here tonight to come out in opposition to the reelection of Senators Borah of Idaho, Norris of Nebraska and other republicans who favor changes in the status of the supreme court.

Unless the republican managers do so, said the Virginia senator, their "persistent efforts to project an issue of constitutional security" into the campaign must be regarded as "devoid of honest purposes."

He attacked particularly the recent utterances of Secretary Hughes regarding the LaFollette court issue.

The Frederick, witnesses testified, was considered so unseaworthy by engineers who had brought her here from Baltimore that they later refused to put to sea in her.

MEDICAL REPORT PLACES BLAME TO LEGISLATURE

Wichita Falls Physicians In Accord With Social Welfare Findings

3,811 EXAMINED

Infections Continuous In Prisoners and Physical Defects Pitiful

Wichita Falls physicians, participants in the state-wide medical appropriation of talent to the recent health survey of Texas prison systems, found "deplorable conditions" existing among the state's prisoners and agree with a summary released last night of findings of the survey that the blame should be placed upon "the citizenry and legislative bodies of Texas that have been blind for 75 years to their responsibility and have not provided sufficient means for their correction."

Report Was Awaited

Local comment had been withheld until yesterday, pending publication of a report on the investigation before the state conference on social welfare being held at Austin. Wichita Falls doctors who were included in an imposing array of medical talent which made inspections were Dr. A. F. Leach, Dr. Everett Jones and Dr. R. B. Wolford. Ten "teams" of physicians from various sections of the state, each assigned prison camps, conducted the examinations. Dr. Jones of Wichita Falls was associated with the clinic which probed the physical conditions of inmates Drs. Leach and Wolford were members of teams investigating internal medical conditions. As it happened, assignments of all three took them to the Eastland and Ferguson farms, and in their investigation examined about 600 prisoners of all ages.

Approximately 30% of the prisoners examined by Drs. Leach and Wolford, according to the statement of the former, were found to have venereal diseases, and physical defects were discovered in at least 10% of the number. Dr. Leach emphasized the value to the research added by the presence and skill of Dr. A. C. Scott of Temple.

Report Is Digested

Digest of the report as carried by the Associated Press last night and in which Dr. Leach agreed practically in toto declared that neglect in the state penitentiary and prison farms, was of alarming proportions.

Prisoners without proper medical attention infecting each other: men at the mercy of the state suffering from malignant diseases for which they can obtain no adquate treatment and finally being discharged either wrecks or so diseased as to endanger their families and their communities, prisoners crowded into bunk houses 100 to 150 in a room, breathing the foul germ laden air; one prisoner put to work in the blazing sun with blood pressure at 270 and another made to handle a walking plow though every turn of the plow painfully wrenched an infected elbow—these are some of the conditions cited.

Psychiatric Survey

A companion report, giving results of a psychiatric survey made by Dr. Ralph M. Chambers of Massachusetts, reveals it was said, an equally serious condition in the mental, moral and educational condition of prisoners, thousands of whom are reported to have no education.

Of 3,811 men examined in all, it was found 3,376 were suffering from some physical defect or disease. One man while being examined, died from acute appendicitis, which could have been cured by proper treatment, the report said.

"No disposition is felt to cast blame upon any individuals for unfortunate conditions, but that a deplorable situation exists and has existed for many years there can be no doubt," said the report. "Curable disease which are amenable to scientific treatment are not being treated. Communicable diseases are by no means properly segregated, and men while serving sentences are unnecessarily exposed to harmful diseases from which they never recover after returning to civilian life.

"These are but illustrations of the injustice done in innumerable ways to a group of men at our mercy."

These conditions said the report, indicate practices which have been followed for years by many county commissioners "who assume the attitude that most any kind of service is good enough for criminals who inhabit their jails."

AT BROWNWOOD

"The maintenance and extension of commerce and trade which will be profitable to both countries requires the continuance of the most friendly relations between the United States and Mexico. You may say to President-elect Calles as the representative of the people of the land of Juarez and Hidalgo that if I am elected governor I will deal in a most friendly and sympathetic way with every problem which the governor of Texas may be called upon to decide affecting these sister republics."

Britain Winds Up Warmest Election Campaign in Years

One of the warmest political battles in many years is being waged in the final days of the English election campaign. Above (left to right): Sir Alfred Mond, H. H. Asquith, Lord Beauchamp, David Lloyd George, Sir John Simon and Dr. M. MacNamara are seen on the stump at a big liberal party mass meeting in London; at right, the labor premier, Ramsey MacDonald, is seen with his daughter, Ishbel, mistress of 10 Downing street, aboard a train on a campaign tour in Scotland. All three parties, labor, liberal and conservative, are claiming victory, but the liberals are expected to lose seats in parliament. The conservatives are considered likely to gain.

Soviet Note To England Might Have Been True

MacDonald, the Premier, Not Certain It a Forgery

TAKES CHALLENGE

Zinovieff Communication Raises Storm in England

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 27.—Prime Minister MacDonald, speaking before a political meeting here today, declared that he honestly believed to be genuine the alleged letter from M. Zinovieff to the British communists upon which wins based in part the protests submitted by the British foreign office on Friday to the soviet representative in London.

Accepting the challenge to make public the date of receipt of the Zinovieff letter made to the government by the press hostile to it, Mr. MacDonald declared that the letter had been received by the foreign office on October 10, the date of the dissolution of parliament. Only nine days elapsed between the receipt of the document and the answer, he said.

Stressing the fact that the matter had been handled in the briefest possible time the premier asserted that in "the old days" the foreign office would have taken weeks to deal with the situation.

Mr. MacDonald declared unequivocally that the British government would not brook interference from any foreign power. He said he could not avoid the suspicion that the entire incident was a political plot.

it differs from hydrogen, which expiodes easily, usually causing a great loss of life and property. Because of the seeming danger of these explosions and the attendant loss of life, congress, prior to the war, had always frowned on dirigible balloons. Helium with its absolute safety and almost as great lifting powers as hydrogen, was discovered and, although production cost approximated $2.000 a cubic foot, congress appropriated money for its extraction and experiments. The experiments resulted in reducing production costs to six cents per cubic foot and putting extraction on a practicable basis at Fort Worth.

More Gas Available.

But even there the the supply is insufficient and more must be found. Gas production in north Clay county can be doubled by drilling more wells, and the gas wells of northern Montague county north of Nocona are also known to carry a large amount of the same element. There has been talk from time to time of government gas lines to Montague county to obtain gas, nods having materialized to date, however. As the needs for the gas grow greater it is probable that this will be done.

Scientists are certain that the gas exists nowhere else in the world with the possible exception of in Mexico in sufficient quantities to make possible another nation able to acquire a supply in case fo war. The United States is considered extremely fortunate in having such a supply at hand, as it makes practicable the dirigible balloon for fighting, the danger having minimized its use until now.

Columbus Found Land By the Aid Of Birds, He Says

Static Game Warden Quotes Discoverer's Journal As Proof

MANCHACHA, Texas, Oct. 27.—Birds helped Columbus discover America and without their timely aid as harbingers of a new land he might have been thrown overboard by a mutinous crew, said J. G. Burr of the state game and fish department in a school address here today. He quoted as follows from Columbus Journal:

"September 17, 1492: Saw white bird not accustomed to sleeping on the sea, called rabo de junco (boatswain bird). Literally rood tail is the tropic bird or phaeton.

"September 20: Two boobies came to the ship and afterwards another—a sign of proximity of land.

"Sept. 21: Booby seen; saw a whale; sign of land.

"Sept. 22: Saw sandpipers and another bird. Saw a dove and booby; another river bird and some white birds.

"Booby came to ship and many sandpipers; Sept. 24.

"Sept. 27: A boatswain bird came.

"Sept. 30: Four boatswain birds came to ship, also four boobies.

"Oct. 2: Saw a gull; sandpipers seen.

"Oct. 6: Many land birds migrating with ducks, teras and boobies. Seas calm and stormy, breeze balmy. It is good to be here. Wind mostly from east.

"Four days later Columbus reached land."

Expensive French Cars Display a Twist of Tweed on Tonneau.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(A.P.)—Scotch plaid, which has been popular in France as a cloth pattern for several years, now is being used to decorate automobiles, and several expensive machines have been seen on the streets of Paris recently painted like the latest thing in golf hose.

Plaid stockings, too, are much in vogue. They are made of fine silk in yellow and brick red, yellow and violet, blue and green or other combinations. The plaid is not so large as that used on the automobiles, but neither has much relation to the tartans of the Highland clans.

Lutherans Agree On War Policies; Warn of Movies

Christians May Engage In "Just Wars" Is Creed

DEBATE EXTENDED

Resolution for Several Days Bitterly Opposed By Some

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The United Lutheran church of America in biennieal convention today adopted a resolution declaring that Christians should work for the promotion, "through some agency" of international good will, but "may engage in just wars."

A number of delegates subsequently signed a statement dissenting from the resolution on the ground of its alleged "emphasis of the rights of war."

"I speak not as an extreme pacifist," said Dr. J. A. W. Haas, president of Muhlenburg college, Allentown, Pa., one of the dissenting group, "but as one who attempts to read the signs of the times. The fundamental need today is not to declare that there are just wars, but to fight against the fundamental evils that cause war."

The convention unanimously adopted a resolution protesting against "suggestive and indecent moving pictures," and providing for surveys of moving pictures in various centers to be presented to governors of the states where made.

believe in honesty in government and I expect to be elected by a landslide vote.

"Mr. Ferguson's supporters say I am praying for rain on election day as the boys from the 'forks of the creeks' can't get to the polls. Nothing could be further from the truth. believe that the farmers of Texas are just as red-blooded and patriotic as any other of our citizenship and on election day they will meet the common foe of the state face to face, voting their conscience for their country.

Wants Good Weather.

"My sincere hope is that the weather, prior to and on election day will be such that all of the people may express themselves on this great moral issue, and that my election will be therefore an election by the people, a majority which every class of our citizenship will be represented."

Four prominent democrats, F. W. Grebe, John T. Tantis, E. B. Gilliland, P. R. Richey and two prominent republicans, W. T. Turner and G. N. Harrison met Butte at the train this afternoon. These men formed the Butte arrangement committee and sat with almost a score of other prominent democrats on the platform during Butte's speech. Judge Harrison, republican nominee for attorney general presided.

Dr. S. E. Chandler, president of Daniel Baker college, introduced Butte. Chandler was a teacher under Butte at Austin college 30 years ago.

"Mr. Ferguson is saying that democrats who voted in the primary are under a moral obligation to restore him to power, by proxy. Of course, I deny there is any such obligation," Butte said, "because I deny the existence of any such obligation. Mr Ferguson's partisans declare that I am teaching the youth of Texas bad morals. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"My Country First."

I hold that the moral obligation to country is higher than the moral obligation to party. In every speech I have made I have plead with the men and women of Texas to be true to their moral obligation to country, if they conscientiously believe that the restoration of James E. Ferguson to power would be a detriment to the state. Which will you put first, party or country? Listen to the patriotic utterances of John W. Davis, democratic nominee for the presidency. He declared in his speech at Onaga, Kansas, on Sept. 23: 'no true American ought to say "my party right or wrong, but my party never the less, my party. My party when it is right but some other party when mine is wrong,' that is the motto of every true American.

"Fellow citizens, like Mr. Davis I am invoking the moral obligation every citizen is under to put his country first. If it is treason to hold to that doctrine, I am proud to find myself in such distinguished company."

Fourth and Largest South Vernon Pipeline Project Gets Under Way-

Humble 52-Mile Carrier to Have 6,000 Capacity

Will Bring Humble Pipeline Investment to $1,000,000 Here

FINISH DEC. 1

Company Acquires 55,000-Bbl. Tank Contract From Bridwell-Heydrick

Storage problems in south Vernon, Wilbarger county will soon be a thing of the past, four pipelines building or soon to be building to that area providing sufficient carrying capacity to serve present production in the field and prospective output for some months to come. The Humble Pipeline company's announcement last Saturday of their intention to lay a combination six and four-inch line from Swastika to south Vernon placed in immediate prospect for the new Wilbarger county field its fourth pipeline.

The new line will strike an almost straight path between Swastika and south Vernon instead of being routed by way of south Electra as was at first reported, being laid with six-inch pipe for the first 35 miles, and with four-inch pipe for the remaining seventeen. The capacity of the line is rated at about 6,000 barrels a day. Actual laying of pipe is expected to start by November 5, completion to come around the first of December, weather conditions and no bad luck interfering.

One Million Invested.

The line will represent an approximate expenditure of $550,000, the largest investment so far contemplated for Wilbarger county carriers. The Humble Pipeline company has recently completed a 100-mile pipeline from Stephens county to Wichita county, via. Young county and Swastika, total expenditure there running around $850,000. The total investment of the Humble Pipeline company in the Wichita Falls district, thus, during the past sixty days and the next thirty will reach a figure larger than $1,000,000, and will give that company a system of more than 152 miles of pipeline, one of the largest in the district.

The Humble Pipeline company, according to statement, is building the new line on faith alone, no contracts having been signed, the line being laid to the field to serve those desiring connections and also to care for prospective production of the Humble Oil and Refining company which has lately invested heavily in leases in the district and is now preparing to drill within 1,700 feet of the field's largest producer.

Humble Gets "S"

The Humble Pipeline company has taken over the Heydrick and Bridwell contract for a 55,000-barrel storage tank and will build that on their lease in the southeast quarter of section 83, thus being able to take care of any connections they may make between now and the time of the new line's completion.

Of the lines building, Waggoner Refining company is due to complete first, more than half of their twenty-mile line being already strung, and actual finish expected by the end of next week. Sinclair Pipeline company should come next, it being expected to start actual laying of pipe by tomorrow or next day. Texas Pipeline company's plans have not as yet been made known but no delay is expected in the completion of this company's line, a six-inch carrier.

New Kansas Pool

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 27.—A 200-barrel well opening a new oil pool in the Wilcox sand was drilled in late Saturday at 1,098 feet on the W. L. Conneway farm, section 21-29-18, four miles south of Edna, Kan., in Craig county, Oklahoma, by Pitzpatrick, French & Rhodes of Tulsa. The new pool is 15 miles southeast of Coffeyville and 12 miles east of the Lamb pool, where the Wilcox sand development began in southeastern Kansas in 1923. It is the eighth pool to be opened in the territory since and the first one outside of Montgomery county, Kansas.

Castleberry, Bower

The Oklahoma and Texas Refining company has consummated a deal with S. A. Castleberry of Vernon in which the Castleberry No. 1, Bower, northeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 100, H&TCRR survey, block 14, Wilbarger county, and the 40 acres on which it is located, the northeast 40 of the same quarter-section is turned over to that company for a reported consideration of $20,000 and 3-16 overriding royalty.

Production Decline

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A daily decline of 96,000 barrels in crude oil production throughout the country in the last eight weeks has created a better sentiment in the oil trade than has existed for the last two years. The impression prevails in the industry that production will continue to decrease until it reaches 1,850,000 barrels a day by the end of the year. This belief is based on the extraordinary drilling activity of recent years which has depleted many of the country's richest oil pools.

Sheerin, McCamey, Stephens

Sheerin and McCamey are making preparation to pull casing and drill deeper in their No. 1, Stephens, southwest corner of the northeast 40 acres of section 83, Wilbarger county, H&TCRR block 14, after making a small well in the 1,500-foot sand. A standard rig has been built over the location to replace the old National rig and drilling is expected to commence at once. This well is located about half a mile east of the South Vernon producers.

Mulligan, et al

MULLIGAN et al erected their derrick for their No. 1, Waggoner, yesterday, test to be located in the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of section 100, abstract 1776, H&TC-RR block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county.

Bridwell-Heydrick, Stephens

Bridwell and Heydrick had all but the last joint or so of casing run in their No. 1, Stephens, northwest corner of section 82, H&TCRR block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county, late yesterday afternoon, and expected to start hailing some time last night. Casing seat depth is given as 2,020 feet with a broken formation of lime, sandy lime, and finally shale to 2,047 feet, the bottom of the hole.

Staley-Wynn, Waggoner

Stanley and Wynn have erected a derrick for their No. 1, Waggoner, in the southeast corner of section 100, H&TCRR block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county.

Humble, Castleberry

Humble Oil and Refining company started yesterday building the derrick for their No. 1, Castleberry, northwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 83, H&TCRR block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county. This test will be located diagonally across a forty acres from the big south Vernon producer. It will be drilled with cable tools.

Heinzerling, Mutual

Heinzerling and the Mutual Oil company have erected a derrick and are rigging up with cable tools for their No. 1, Zipperle, northwest corner of the south half of the northwest quarter of section 80, H&TCRR block 14, south Vernon, Wilbarger county.

Atlantic-Everest

The Atlantic Oil Producing company and Everest have encountered a good looking sand at a depth of 1,588 feet in their No. 1m Parkey, southeast forty acres of section 1, SPRR survey, abstract 423, north Archer county. Casing will be run and seated today and hailing will probably take place tonight.

LABOR RIGHTS UPHELD BY SMASHING DECREE.

On the eve of an important presidential election the supreme court of the United States sustained the constitutionality of the Clayton act granting trial by jury in all cases of contempt arising out of labor disputes. This opinion which was read by Justice George Sutherland was handed down in cases that came to the court as a result of the Chicago railroad men's strike of 1922.

Furthermore the court upheld the right of congress to provide for a trial by jury in federal courts upon the demand of one accused in an independent proceedings at law for a criminal contempt. It laid down a rule that when persons are charged with having violated injunctions issued in connection with strikes a jury trial shall be accorded upon demand of the accused. It is looked upon as a most important victory for organized labor—for all wage earners who band together for protective purposes.

Before the coming of the Clayton act federal judges issued their injunctions and those who were charged with violating the same were denied the right of a trial by jury and either heavily fined or hurried off to prison.

Striking employes of a railway company in the city of Chicago resorted to picketing. A temporary injunction was granted. Strikers were arrested for violating the injunction. They demanded a jury trial. This was refused. Then the strikers were judged guilty and sentenced to pay fines in various sums and in default to stand committed to jail until the fines were paid.

A United States circuit court affirmed the judgement of the lower court. Now the supreme court of the United States has held that this was in error and that the circuit court of appeals for the seventh circuit when it held that the trial by jury was not a matter of right must have been ignorant of section 22 of the Clayton act. This is what the court of last resort held:

"The simple question presented is whether congress may require a trial by jury upon the demand of the accused in an independent proceedings at law for a criminal contempt, which is also a crime. In criminal contempt, as in criminal cases, the presumption of innocence obtained. Proof of guilt must be beyond reasonable doubt and the defendant may not be compelled to be a witness against himself."

Striking miners in West Virginia who had been fined or imprisoned and had appealed to the supreme court of the United States for redress won when the striking railway men won in the case taken to the court of last resort on an appeal from the decision of the circuit court of appeals for the seventh circuit. This decision has been hailed as a sweeping labor victory by the attorneys for the railway organizations of America.

Indeed it is their conviction that there can be no question that the result of the decree will be to diminish the abuses of injunctions issued out of the federal courts in labor disputes.

Again, these spokesmen of organized labor say the legal concept overthrown by the decision was the opinion long established in American practice that the power to punish for contempt was an inheritant judicial power which brooked no interference by the legislative authority for, mind you, the defense' contention was that a jury trial in contempt cases was a constitutional guaranty. Back to the constitution, yes.

"That beast down there, with yellow eyes
Is called a cat;
Be careful that
He doesn't ever getcha!"
Does Johnnie instantly obey,
And from all felines keep away
As he's been told
When he grows old?
He does just that. You betcha!

When Johnnie's mother says to him:
"The sky is looking cold and grim.
Down south we'll go
Where warm winds blow
And palms grow tall and stately."
Does he reply, "Yes, mother dear,
Lead on, I'll follow, never fear,"
And go with her
With wings a-whirr?
He does. Immediately!

The furry-clad four-footed things,
In wood and wold
Do what they're told
And always make it snappy.

Just what his mother tells him to,
He'd find that he
Would probablee
Be very, very happy!

"TO THE LOVELORN"

Suppose a nice young man should come to your town. Suppose you saw him, and had a quickening of the pulse and a flutter of the heart—and knew that you had experienced love at first sight?

And suppose you asked me just what was the best way to proceed to make the young man your very, very own.

Should you be quiet and conservative—a happy-go-lucky and care free? Should you wait with the hope that chance or fate would bring him your way—or should you make it your business to find out who he is—who knows him—and arrange an introduction through some mutual acquaintance.

Perhaps in days of yore, the girls waited—but now girls have so much business sense that they go after everything in a business like way—be it after a man or a haircut.

My advice is: waste no time, arrange a proper introduction as soon as possible. Now as to your conduct after you meet him.

You may not know it—but few women are ever natural in front of a man. If they were, they might perhaps throw their arms around his neck and kiss him in public.

No—most women practice restraint—it is always a good plan. Remember a man is a natural hunter—he wants to do the chasing. There is no harm in knowing the ground he covers—but no gunman would get a thrill out of shooting a rabbit that met him half way.

Here is one tip that is valuable, there are two kinds of women—the "brain-woman" and the "heart-woman."

As a rule it is the "heart-woman" who captures the man. Men are often so wearied with themselves, that they are rather predisposed to admire qualities and tastes in others different from their own.

What Today Means to You

SCORPIO

Today's planetary aspects are very favorable until the late afternoon, at which time they change and become distinctly adverse. During the day, it will be well to act, if the occasion should present itself, aggressively, and the opportunity is a propitious one for renewing your attack on some problem that has hitherto baffled your efforts. In the evening, there will be prevalent an air of unrest and uneasiness. This, unless poise and equilibrium be maintained, may induce a critical attitude, inharmonious with that peace and tranquility which is essential to happiness in the family or social circle.

A child born today will suffer, more than the average, from the ailments of infancy. Consequently, careful nutrition and never-failing vigilance will be needed to tide this child over its physical troubles, and insure for it a healthy and strong maturity. Its character will be docile, its disposition emotional, its mentality normal. This child, if allowed to develop without that forceful training and correct upbringing so essential to successful manhood or womanhood, will materialize into a weak character, swayed by its emotions and uninfluenced by judgment. On the other hand it will possess basic virtues and attributes that can be developed by an adherence to principle and an absence of indulgence.

If today is your birthday, nature, in your case, has been quite prodigal, and you possess not only many charms, but a keen intellect: this if employed in the right way, would secure for you that success—both social and commercial—which you often consider unattainable, owing to the frequency with which you have tried to achieve it, but which, with quite as much frequency, you have failed to reach.

An analysis of the situations that have brought about this state of mind will, if honestly made, convince you that your failures are attributable to lack of loyalty—either to an idea, or to those associated with you. On many an occasion you have started out, in companionship or business connection with others, to accomplish an object to be shared by all. Later on, it has suggested itself to you that the project could be secured by your own unaided efforts, and the results could be made to accrue to you exclusively. You have embraced this idea, and those who trusted you trust you no longer.

Loyalty alike to friends and to business associates is an asset, without which intelligence and ability are of little avail. The subordinate who is loyal to the chief, the friend who is loyal to a friend, the husband and wife who are loyal to each other, the family, all the members of which are loyal to each other—these are the ones that attain moral contentment and material success.

Successful people born on this date are: Horace Smith, manufacturer, Smith & Wesson firearms; Robert Trent Paine, philanthropist, created the R. T. Paine association for charitable purposes; Homer D. Dickinson, lecturer and author, lectured on war and political questions; Moses Ezekiel, sculptor, first foreigner to win Michael Beer prize; Birge Harrison, artist.

ITALY PLANS 88-STORY SKYSCRAPER AS CENTER OF ROME'S CULTURAL LIFE

Two views of the proposed "Lictoria," as shown by the architect's drawings.

ROME, Oct. 27.—The largest and tallest skyscraper in the world is proposed for Rome. Plans drawn by the Argentine architect, and approved by Premier Mussolini, call for an 88-story building towering 1,500 feet above the city.

It is planned as the center of Roman culture and athletic life. It would contain 4,500 rooms, 100 large halls, a huge theatre, a gymnasium for the training of Olympic athletes and the world's largest concert hall. The structure would have a frontage of 1,000 feet.

Mussolini is highly enthusiastic over the venture. But grave difficulties must be surmounted before the building can get beyond the proposal stage. First, there is the difficulty of finding a plot of ground in the city large enough to accommodate it without necessitating the raising of historical buildings, and second, and most important is the matter of obtaining funds for its construction.

The Fascist organization is backing construction of the building. It wants it to be a memorable monument to Fascism. The proposed name of the structure is "Lictoria," after the lictors and fasces, which are the emblems of Fascism. Palanti who already has erected several colossal buildings in Buenos Aires, is a Fascist.

In Palanti's plans the general outline of the building is pyramidal, its massive base gradually thinning into a central tower whose summit would be almost two and a half times as high from the ground as the cross of St. Peter's Basilica.

Its decoration follows vertical lines strongly reminiscent of the Woolworth tower in New York City.

A BUSINESS GIRL

By MARK ALLERTON

"They aren't as dreadful as they are true. They'—"

The telephone bell rang shrilly. Barbara leapt to the receiver.

"Is that Miss Linwood. This is the Great South railroad. Can you do some work for us immediately? A lot of work? Good. Then send round for it at once. Mind, we need it immediately. Ask for Mr. Ratcliffe. Goodby."

Barbara sank into a chair. She was deadly white.

"What's the matter" cried the other. "It's—it's the miracle," panted Barbara. "We're saved!"

Barbara was her own messenger. As soon as she recovered from this miracle that had happened through the telephone, she hurried to the offices of the Great South railroad and there inquired for Mr. Radcliffe. He was a youngish man, with an anxious look in his eyes. He interviewed her through a brass grille.

"What is it you want?" he asked.

"Miss Linwood is my name. You telephoned to me."

"Miss Linwood? Miss Linwood? I didn't telephone to you," he replied.

Barbara's heart sank like a plummet. Her first thought was that this was some hideous joke on Rutland's part, that to his cruelty he was adding torture.

"Somebody telephoned from your office asking if I could do some typewriting for you immediately. I was told to ask for Mr. Radcliffe," she replied weakly.

"Everything's put on to me," grumbled the man. "Wait, and I'll inquire."

He was gone an eternity—an eternity of dreadful doubt and fear. When she saw him coming back to her she felt that she could not breathe for sheer suspense. If she had indeed been sent on a fool's errand, she felt that she could carry on no longer. She would give in.

What giving in meant she did not stop to think. It might mean giving in to Rutland. It might mean anything. She clutched at the counter to support herself.

"Well?" she breathed.

"Yes, it's all right. They might have told me. There's a heap of stuff—far too much for you to carry."

"I'll take a cab," declared Barbara, in a thin voice. The office before her had become a blurr, and Mr. Radcliffe a grotesque figure—all head and arms.

"All right. I'll send a porter down with the stuff. Instructions are on the top of each set of documents. It's straightforward work. But it's needed right away."

"I shall see that it's done at once." She hesitated and went on: "I should be glad if you could tell me how you came to ring me up?" She wanted to know how the miracle had happened.

"I'm sure I don't know. I say there, Jenkins. Fetch down that bundle of documents addressed to Miss Linwood and put it in a taxi. Don't forget we want it sharp."

And Mr. Radcliffe betook himself to his own duties.

Barbara watched Jenkins carry the bundle down to the street. It was a bulky bundle. Barbara exulted in its size. It meant work—work.

CHAPTER XVIII

She hoped the Great South railroad did not think that she had a very large staff that could put all the manuscript into type in the course of hours. She knew she would take days over the job, but she would work at it till she dropped.

Another miracle was that she had left Alice Farquhar in her office. Together they would attack these documents. They meant everything to both of them, but she would not have tackeld the lot by herself.

Arrived at her office, she tottered with the precious bundle up the long flight of stairs, and arrived panting and flushed and triumphant. The girl waiting for her rushed to her assistance.

"It it really true?" she cried.

"Really and truly true. The days of miracles aren't yet over. Come on. Quick. Let's get to work."

They tore open the bundle and divided the spoils.

This bundle represented about $100 of work. There was no reason why there should not be more to follow.

As the day wore on and these two, worked in silence and one pile of papers grew less and less and another grew higher, the dream castles rose again.

The only interruption was a call from her former assistant. The eyes of the girl grew large as she saw Barbara's frantic fingers and those of another girl hammering on the keys at her side.

"I saw my cousin, the lawyer. He says I ought to have had a month's notice," she began, but Barbara interrupted her.

Oh, go away. I'm too busy to bother about your cousin today. You left before your week was up, so you've no claim. You can come in on Saturday for what I owe you."

"Look here, that won't do, you know—"

"It's got to do. I'm too busy to talk to you. Hand me those pages over there, Miss Farquhar, please."

"Then it's all a lie about your closing down?" cried the girl.

"All a lie!" cried Barbara cheerfully.

"Then you wanted to get ride of me?"

"I do now. I've said so. I'll talk to you on Saturday.

"I'll see my cousin about this."

"Do—at once. Good afternoon."

Each day's work was delivered in the evening, and on the third evening the job was finished.

It was somewhat anxious Barbara who handed over the last parcel.

"That's the last of it," she said to Mr. Radcliffe.

"Right you are. Got a bill with you?"

"No. There's—there's no hurry."

"As you like."

"Is—is there anything else I can do for you?"

"Not that I know of. Anything else to go to Linwood's, Barker?" he shouted.

The reply was inaudible.

"Wish people would speak out," grumbled Mr. Radcliffe. He was never really happy without a grievance.

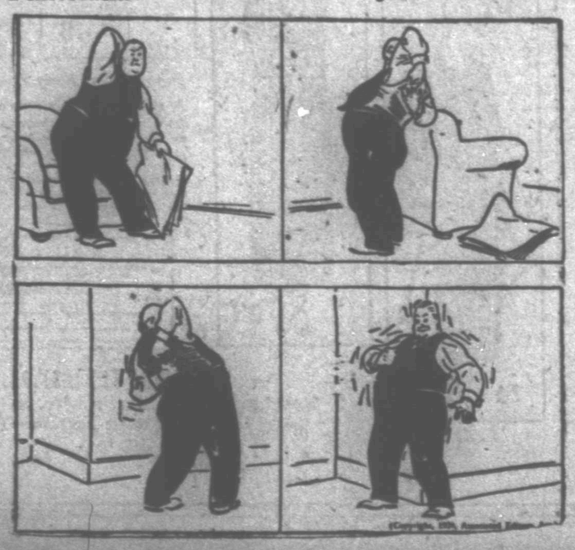

"Wait a bit."

Another of those awful eternities that punctuated Barbara's business career ensued. Had this job been a mere flash in the pan? Was it ended now? Never mind; she forced herself to be brave; there would be more flashes.

Pantomime

HOW IT STARTED

"DON'T CARE A TINKER'S DAMN

What more felicitous announcement to the vast multitude that has daily need of relieving overheated machinery of steam than that "don't care a dam" or "a tinker's dam" may be used with impunity by a perfect lady or gentleman.

Because the first dam refers to a small coin current in India, it means nothing more offensive than "don't care a farthing" or "a twopence."

A tinker's dam is a wall of clay or other similar substance built around a spot which a plumber wishes to flood with solder. As the material of which it is made is worthless after the dam is no longer needed and cannot be used to make another, it gave rise to the expression "not worth a tinker's dam."

Only by the addition of the letter "n" is the word profane or objectionable.

Therefore, say these dams as much as you please, and if you must write them be careful to leave off the "n." Used in these two ways they are guaranteed to be harmless, even for children, and satisfying to all.

Fame For Little Dressmaker Will Mean a Fortune

25-Year-Old Girl in Paris Wins Prize for Best Gown

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP) Sudden fame in the dressmaking world has come to Marcelle Guillou, a Paris seamstress, who by three days' work on a prize gown has won the promise of a position paying her as much in a day as she now earns in a week and putting her on a salary equality with a cabinet minister.

Marcelle, who is 25 and the eldest of four children of a workingman, has been sewing for a living since she was 13. Entering the municipal trade competition, she and eleven other girls—the best of the Paris dressmaking shops—were locked up for three days with the task of making the best gowns possible. Hers, it is already known, will be awarded first prize.

Several shops are pledged to employ the winner at 40,000 francs a year, while Marcelle, as "first hand" for a big house, has been getting only 135 francs, the equivalent of $7, a week.

Persia Continues Efforts to Evade Imbrie Penalties

Country is Sending Envoy To U. S. to "Explain" Its Course

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Persian government will send an "extraordinary envoy" to the United States to explain and elucidate to the state department that government's attitude regarding the murder of Vice Consul Robert W. Imbrie by a fanatical mob in Teheran, and to relieve any tension between the two governments due the apparent failure of the Persian authorities to carry out sentence of death against all the chief instigators of the crime.

Although the state department had no comment to make on the latest Persian move, doubt was expressed in some competent circles that the situation could be cleared up to the entire satisfaction of the American government through discussion with the special envoy. It is anticipated that the United States will contend that the controversy is based on Persian executing the two mob leaders whose guilt is held to have been established beyond doubt by Persian military and other courts and that the Persian government's only possible course of action is to apply the penalties which its own tribunals sanctioned.

"Enormous Sums" Spent; Coercion Of Labor Charged

Republican Committee Hits Back at Pinks With Accusations

NO DETAILS GIVEN

Sharp Tilts With Committee Members Feature Election Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Through counsel, the republican national committee laid before the senate campaign investigating committee today a counter charge of the expenditures of "enormous sums" on behalf of the La Follette-Wheeler presidential ticket and not accounted for through the independent national political organization.

In presenting his counter charge of the investigators today Weymouth Kirkland, a Chicago lawyer, did not go into details other than to say that the republican national committee had evidence "showing the coercion of labor unions with regard to how their members shall vote on November 4."

Later he made reference incidentally to the sending out of "3,000,000 phamplets by the American federation of labor" on behalf of the independent presidential ticket.

Wants Time Divided

Replying to an objection raised by Senator Walsh to an interruption to the present line of inquiry, Kirkland said he thought the time should be divided.

Several times today Senator Borah sought to get at the point of some of the cross examination and at the conclusion of the day he had a sharp tilt with Untermyer. The New York lawyer was seeking to develop that some "inducement" had been held out to contributors to the republican fund. Emerson had denied this, so far as his own organization was concerned, and Untermyer then made an effort to show that enactment of the Mellon tax plan might benefit some supporters of the republican party.

Henry Ford was cited as an example, Untermyer pointed out that Ford had paid a heavy income tax in 1923, as shown by published records, and that if the Mellon plan for reducing our taxes should become operative this tax would be reduced about 40 per cent.

Tilt With Untermyer

"Might not that have something to do with his being a republican now?" asked Untermyer.

Chairman Borah interrupted before the witness answered by saying that the reply could only be a matter of inference or conjecture and that this was not proper in the present inquiry. Untermyer insisted on this question.

"Now, Mr. Untermyer, the committee is going to run this investigation," said Chairman Borah pounding the table. "That might just as well be understood right now."

"I assumed so," the lawyer replied, "but I am trying to show that there is inducement."

However, the line of questioning was dropped.

Steel Failed to Aid

Under the examination of Walsh, Emerson went into rather minute details of how the collection committees were organized and how they operated and also as to sums received. Taking over the examination, Untermyer called attention that there was no committee for the steel, oil and sugar trades and said that what he wanted to know why there was no organized effort to collect from "the protected" industries.

Emerson said there was a committee for the sugar trade, under the title of "food stuff" and that efforts had been made to organize in the steel industry, but without any success.

Cecil Arden Is Praised For Her Touch of Pathos

Metropolitan Prima Donna in Wichita Falls, October 30.

CHARMING SINGER

True Daughter of the South Declare Her Admirers

No wonder her listeners exclaim "What real darky dialect!" or "How true the plaintive touch of pathos she instills into her singing of the old songs of the south!" for Cecil Arden, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, who sings in Wichita Falls at the Wichita theatre Oct. 30, is a daughter of the south. Her father is a South Carolinian while her mother is from Kentucky and Cecil Arden in her baby days had an old negro mammy for a nurse.

While the charming young singer was not "born an' bred in de briar patch" as Brer' Rabbit says in the Uncle Remus stories, her birthplace being New York City, she has grown up in an atmosphere of old southern customs—her real negro dialect and her sympathy and feeling for the negro spirituals has been taught her from the time the old colored mammy rocked her "white chile" and told her stories fo life "befo' de war" when the darkies on the old plantations gathered together, in the evenings, around the cabin doors and sang the old spiritnals and revival hymns. Is it not natural that this lovely singer, with the memory of these stories of happy days long ago, should be able to move her audience to first laughter, then tears, as she sings with great simplicity and beauty of tone, these negro melodies?

Child-birth

Good news for Expectant Mothers

WHEN the little one arrives you can have that moment freer from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great rubbing preparation called "Mother's Friend."

Results from the use of "Mother's Friend" are proven by many startling letters of testimony from happy users. "I can almost say my baby was born without pain," writes a young mother who had used "Mother's Friend." "Mother's Friend" is applied externally. It has been used by three generations of expectant mothers. Start using it today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., B-A 18, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all good drug stores.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the nausealess Calomel tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calomel, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasures. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, prices 10c for the vest pocket size; 25c for the large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists. Your money back if you are not delighted.—Adv.

TARS AGREE EASIER TO SCORE FROM 20-YARD LINE THAN INSIDE

hance for Touchdown Is Less When Ball Is Close to Goal Than When Long Distance Away

By ED POLLOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—We saw Clem Urquhart yesterday and although it passed him by. A black mustache and a five or six intervening years formed a disguise that was close to perfect.

Urquhart was an end at Pennsylvania a full decade ago. He was not one of the ordinary run of ends. Glenn Warner expressed an opinion of him after the 1914 battle with the Carlisle Indians.

"He is the best end I ever saw on Franklin Field," said the "Old Fox." Barnes previous to 1914 had seen a few real wingmen in red and blue—"Izzy" Levine, Hunter Scarlett, Lou Young, Lon Jourdet and others. It was no left-handed compliment.

Urquhart's end playing had more than a little to do with the 7-0 victory which the Quakers scored over the Indians that season.

But to get back to the chance meeting on the street yesterday. The conversation followed the lines of least resistance, which means that in no time it turned to football.

Clem shed a tear, figuratively, over the opportunities Pennsylvania had lost against Columbia.

"It's easier to score from beyond the 20-yard line," said Clem, "than it is from any point inside."

* * * * * * * * *

Think that one over. There's enough in it for mental digestion or indigestion.

* * * * * * * * *

A Football Paradox

Less than an hour after we left Urquhart we read a newspaper article under a Boston date line, the first paragraph of which was:

"A football, paradox that it is easier for a football team to score by touchdown from the 20-yard line than it is from the 10-yard line or less was voiced by George Owen, Jr., Harvard star of recent years, in a talk to boys at Trinity church."

The coincidence was as striking as the statements. A study of conditions shows the paradox is logical.

"Within the 20-yard line the defense stiffens," explained Urquhart, "and gets tighter and tighter with each play. The roving center moves into the line and the whole secondary defense comes closer. The tackles move in. So do the ends. The line becomes compact.

"Outside the 20-yard line the defense is spread. The holes are larger and there is the gap between the first and secondary defense. There is more of a chance for the runner to break loose."

Owens' explanation is identical with Urquhart's.

"The day of the line buck is gone," said the former Harvard star. "The game of today is to wait for the breaks.

"Defending lines knit so close as they near their own goal that it becomes much more difficult for the attacking backs to get away by rush or pass. On the other hand, when the ball is outside the 20-yard line it is possible for the runner to get away for a long run.

"For these reasons I believe—in fact, I know—it is easier to push the ball over from outside the 20-yard line than it is from inside. Too much linebacking was what ailed the Yale team while I was in college."

The test of field generalship comes within the 20-yard line. The signal caller who can select the right play near the goal line is the strategist every football coach looks for and seldom finds.

The temptation to order a line buck is strong. It is the safest play. If it is stopped no ground, or at the worst very little ground, is lost.

Eddie Dooley's "Grab for Glory"

Jesse Hawley, coach of the Dartmouth eleven, has demoted Eddie Dooley, the quarterback who called the signals against Yale. The critics are pointing out that he is paying the penalty for poor generalship in the Blue bowl, 9-0.

The story goes that Dooley made a "grab for glory" with the ball on Yale's 2-foot line and victory in sight in the final period.

According to the report, Dooley called a signal for Hall to carry the ball. He received the pass from the center, but never handed the oval to his fullback. Hall leaped through a hole and was over the goal. Dooley tried to follow, but the gap closed and when the whistle blew the ball was still two feet from the last line.

Dooley's action, it is pointed out, was prompted by his ambition to score the winning touchdown. He was "grabbing for glory," they say, and on that basis he is being panned generally.

Regardless of Dooley's mental functioning at that particular moment, the fact remains that he made a mistake. He was wrong.

At the same time it is quite possible that Dooley figured he would fool the Yale line. He may have believed the Blue athletes expected one of the other three backs to carry the ball in the emergency, and in their anxiety to "get" the line-buckers they would overlook him long enough to enable him to slip through.

If Dooley had succeeded he would have been hailed as a clever strategist. You never can tell.

* * * * * * * * *

Maybe Dooley was "grabbing for glory," but there's a good chance that he wasn't. Intentions frequently are misunderstood.

In Quest of the Feather Crown

The New York Boxing commission has mapped out a definite plan to decide the world's featherweight championship and to select a challenger for Benny Leonard's lightweight title.

Six featherweights have been selected to enter an elimination tournament, but George E. Brower, the chairman, will not name the half dozen favorites until later. Kid Kaplan and Danny Kramer must be among the six, as they generally are recognized as the leading contenders.

The names will be drawn from a hat to decide who shall meet who. This means that the Kramer-Kaplan bout, booked for Nov. 21, may be off unless they should be drawn together.

It strikes us that the commission should name either eight or four boxers as the contestants. This would avoid byes.

As it is now, there will be three winners of the first bouts. A bye will be given to one of the successful boxers and he will oppose the victor of the contest between the other two. In other words, one hiffer will have to engage only two bouts and his final opponent in three.

A tournament is a good and fair plan, but why should the selection of the leading featherweight be left to the judgment of the New York commission?

In no other sport is a world's championship conducted solely by a state organization.

Circuit Sluggers' Drawing Power Passe, Says Mack

While the baseball world is still trying to figure out whether or not Connie Mack really did pay $100,000 for Lefty Grove, star pitcher of the International league and a strikeout wonder, the Athletic leader injects new interest into the discussion by stating the reasons which prompted him to lay the aforesaid sum.

Mack points out that the popularity of home run hitting is on the wane. He calls attention to the drawing power of Dazzy Vance last season due to his wonderful strikeout performances. This is an indication of the mind of the baseball times he then says.

"The fans being tired of this terrific slugging, what is more natural than that the pendulum should swing to pitching. And to the average fans no pitcher who strikes them out is a more interesting man to watch," says Connie.

And, acting on his belief he says, promptly paid $100,000 for the most intelligent pitcher in the minor leagues and the man who should be able to equal Dazzy Vance's performances in the majors if past records mean anything.

Grove has fanned an average of over 200 batters a year over a span of five years with the Baltimore Orioles. His last strikeout victim last season was No. 1107. In fanning those one hundred men he won 109 games and lost but 35. His pitching helped Manager Jack Dunn of Baltimore to run his string of championships to six. Last season Groves won 26 games and lost but 6. He whiffed 230 batters.

Mack believes that, if Groves can find his stride in the big time next season, the fans will flock to the ball park to see him turn back Ken Williams, Babe Ruth, and the other home run clouters and .300 hitters. And a few "flocks" of the Athletic's ball park will return that hundred grand to Cornelius.

One thing may handicap Groves in the big show, however. That is his wildness. He will be facing heavier sluggers and wiser ones. He will be forced to keep the ball out of the groove and work the corners. His one weakness early in his career—until he gained confidence—was his wildness. Should the big league sticks start waiting him out he may have more trouble finding the plate.

Regarding the truth of reports that Connie did pay $100,000 and a way of $6000 for the southpaw this much can be said. Connie announced at the close of the last season that one good pitcher would put him into the pennant fight next season. He had molded together a good hitting club and a good infield. He lacked hurlers. If he was firmly convinced that one big winning pitcher would put his team "up there" from the first bell next season he probably figured such a pitcher would be worth $100,000 to him.

Football and Other Sports — By Feg Murray

The scowling face shown at the upper left in the illustration may puzzle you for a minute—where have you seen it before? If you were a lineman, how would you like to have this tough-looking guy for an opponent? Or if you were a half-back speeding toward the goal do you think if you ran into Jack Dempsey in football armour that he would spill you gently? No, he would not, but no one will ever know just how good a football player the heavyweight champion would make. "Red" Grange, the champion football player, has been quoted as wishing to become a prize ring champion. Probably he would make a monkey out of Jack on the gridiron, just as Jack would make a monkey out of Red in the ring. "Ma" Stribling, trainer-manager, and coach of her boy, "Young" Stribling, let her fighting son take part in all sports at Macon high school except football.

"Football," she said, "is too dangerous!" At that, there have been many more fatalities on the gridiron than in the roped arena.

Football is like nearly all other games played with a ball, however—you wind up and let fly—just like the golfer and the batter shown in the picture. A pitcher would do instead of a batter, too, as far as baseball is concerned. Some one suggested once that football be made more difficult by having the field cut up with hazards, bunkers and traps like a golf course. That's all right, if you let one golfer takde another just as he is about to make a shot. Football is a rough game, played on a smooth, level, regular field, while golf is a gentlemanly game, played on a rough, uneven, irregular course.

They ought to get together!

You Can't Play Favorites And Beat This Race Game

Have you ever played the favorites in a day's racing across the board only to see or read of the long shot boys copping? Course you have, if you follow the ponies. Then you swore off the sure choices and started playing the wild ones, only to have the dope run true to form.

This being the case with about every railbird in the game some facts collected regarding the outcome of the thoroughbred meets on the New York tracks the past season are interesting.

The results of 890 races were tabulated. These results showed that in 358 of the races favorites won. In other words forty per cent of the time the dope was good. Second choices came through in 210 events—a percentage of 23.

Odds—on horses won 121 events. Also, 82 odds on horses lost.

Now, figuring a flat bet of $5 on each favorites on every one of the races the man who stuck absolutely to favorites would be out $186.15. The boy who played safe and put it on second choices would be out just $212.50.

On the daily card the second, third and fourth races seemed to be the best ones for the first choices. The sixth race seemed built for the second choice nags.

These facts prove once more that all one needs to beat the runners is the dope one when the favorites are ready to win and when their turn has come to lose.

Brooklyn Looks For Champion In 1925 Race

Uncle Wilbert Believes He Can Bolster Staff Sufficiently

Uncle Wilbert Robinson believes that from the list of young pitchers he tried out last spring and the early weeks of the 1924 campaign he can find two or three men who can help Dazzy Vance, Burleigh Grimes, Decatur and Young Ehrhardt pitch the Brooklyn Dodgers to a pennant next season. A few poorly pitched games when Vance and Grimes weren't available, cost the Dodgers the 1924 flag.

Ehrhart, it will be recalled, joined the team late last season and pitched winning ball from the drop of the hat.

Last spring Robbie had Dutch Henry, Danny McPhee, Green, Hollingsworth, Osborne, Decatur and Schreiber. During the season he acquired old Bill Doak from the Cardinals.

McPhee, a Canadian pitcher, needed more experience and was farmed out. So were Green and Hollingsworth. Henry was sent to New Orleans after the season opened. Decatur, Osborne and Schreiber remained with the club all season.

Robbie has recalled all the flingers he placed last season and gets Henry back again.

Decatur should be a bigger winner next season, by virtue of the opportunities he had last season to find himself. Schreiber seemed about ready. He did win six games. Osborne won half a dozen games also. The last two will have to fight it out with the returning hopefuls for the regular berths next spring.

MARINES PICKED TO WIN.

Scouting Fleet Eleven Depends On Massed for Victory.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Secretaries Weeks and Wilbur are expected to occupy boxes today at the Yankee stadium at the football game between the Quantico marines and the scouting fleet elevens arranged as part of the Navy day program to benefit the Belleauwood memorial fund.

The marines have already tied Vanderbilt university and beaten Michigan and are favored to win. The navy is counting principally upon its mascot goat, born on Armistice day.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 27.—A heavy shower just before the second game of the series which was about to be played here between St. Paul and Seattle for the class "AA" baseball championship, caused postponement today.

Pirates Exchange Trio For Aldridge, Grantham And Neihaus

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The Chicago National league club today acquired Walter Maranville, second baseman; Charley Grimm, first baseman, and Wilbur Cooper, left handed pitcher, all of the Pittsburgh Nationals, in exchange for Vic Aldridge, right hand pitcher; George Grantham, second baseman, and Albert Neihaus, first baseman, the latter recently purchased by the Cubs from Chattanooga. No money was involved in the deal.

CHESBRO HELPED NATS

Veteran Hurler Drilled Marberry in Spring Training.

What part did old Jack Chesbro play in helping the Washington Senators win the American league pennant and the world series?

One might well ponder on that query.

Chesbro, the man who hung up 41 victories for the New York Americans, was engaged last spring to coach the Washington pitchers. He centered his attention on Marberry, who turned out to be a wonderful relief hurler. Zachary, who won two world's series games, and the youngsters.

A few weeks after the season opened Chesbro was canned to cut down expenses.

Chesbro is one of the old timers who played the game mainly for the game. He took personal pride in his efforts while he was working with the Washington hurlers. That he was not kept to share in the glory that was later their is unfortunate.

Top O' the Mornin' Stuff

BLONDY CROSS

HARD LUCK, JOE.

Johnny Celmars wants to box in Wichita Falls!

It's doubtful, very doubtful that he will be given the chance. Celmar's days as a fighter are just about over. Never a topnotcher, this veteran is fast slipping until he and Jimmy Carrol, the Cowtown punishment absorber, are in the same class.

Celmars broke Joe Denton's jaw last week in Waco. Up to the time of the accident Denton had completely outboxed him as was expected by fight followers of this section. This ring tragedy, for tragedy it was in that it put a stop at least temporarily to the career of one of the southwest's most promising and cleanest welterweight gloveters, undoubtedly was a fluke, a poor break of the game.

* * *

Denton became careless. He turned to the referee to complain about tactics used by Celmars, who as stated was getting the worst of the mill, when Johnny swung a left hook from way back in the rear over and to the jaw. Any boxer could have evaded the blow, one of the barn-door variety, but Denton at the time was not on his toes. The punch was not necessarily as hard a one as would be imagined. Denton had his mouth open talking. It doesn't take much of a smack to crack the jaw bone when in that position.

Denton received $40 for his end of the melee and a broken jaw. The fight game is no soft snap. It will be many days before Joe can return, and start all over again.

ONE OF HOME BOYS.

Hamp Brown, the scrapper who took a rough drubbing off Trammel last week but kept boring in for more and nearly put Duke to rout, is training here daily for his return engagement with the Fort Worth lad Thursday in a 12-rounder.

Brown soldiered with a number of Wichita Falls men during the World war. He was a member of the 111th engineers, 36th division, a company which had on its roster quite a few local men.

ABOUT THAT GYM.

Plans for the organization of the Wichita Falls Business Men's Athletic club seem moving along rapidly. Harry Warner, athletic director of the club-to-be intends to make arrangement today for about half of the equipment necessary. This paraphernalia will be on hand inside of ten days, says Warner.

In the meantime, a drive for membership will be put on. Don Wofford, legion boxing promoter, is acting as temporary chairman of the organization. M. A. Ellis of the Security National bank has taken over the treasurer's tasks.

The legion hall is to be remodeled to an extent and equipment put in costing somewhere between $800 and $1,000, it is estimated. The club, according to officials, should be prepared to begin functioning the early portion of November. There are to be regular courses in gymnasium exercises, indoor sports and in short athletic work for business men of the city to indulge in during the winter months especially. Boxing is to be taught, too.

NO GAMES YET.

The Coyotes and junior college gridmen did little yesterday. Neither team is matched for a game this week, and it begins to appear that McCallum's youths will go a-wanting for competition for several days to come. Mosley hopes to line something up for the Indians today in the way of a game for Friday or Saturday.

The Indians resumed through a fairly brisk practice Monday, and then scrimmaged with a flock of McCallum's first and second string youngsters, mostly second string. The workout was not taken very seriously, so little effort was displayed by either aggregation.

The two Wichita Falls coaches are fortunate in that out of the past week-end combats both teams came away practically unscathed. No serious injuries were unearthed when the two squads showed up for drill yesterday on the junior college field.

* * *

There seems to be one sport scribe who doesn't believe that Dana's Aggies were fortunate in not losing to the S. M. U. Mustangs Saturday. Jinx Tucker, Waco grid expert, declares that Referee Quigley handicapped the Farmers severely by misinterpreting the rule governing the rushing of a forward passer by the defending players. Jinx declares that the work of Quigley was farcical and disgusting and so impaired the Aggies and possibly demoralized the A. & M. athletes to such an extent that S. M. U. was saved from defeat instead of Bible's eleven.

BRITAIN'S CHANCE AT LAST

Time Is Ripe for England to Show Real Heavyweight

Oh, what a wonderful time for England to produce a real heavyweight!

Luis Firpo, the Argentine wild man, has become an old story, albeit still a fairly interesting one. Erminio Spalli, Italian heavy, has failed to shine. Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean husky, is coming, but has a long road to travel as yet. Georges Carpentier and Battling Siki have faded from the picture. Other foreigners have proved to be bloomers.

The time is ripe for a first-class Britisher to make a cleanup. The opportunity probably will go begging however. Jack Bloomfield, the newcomer in the heavyweight limelight in the British Isles, blew up quickly. English fans once more have no one in sight.

Baylor Coach Regards Aggies 'As Tough Club

Bridges Believes Farmers One of Strongest In Conference

THEY PLAY SATURDAY

Bruins Slated to Be Under Dogs in This Tilt

WACO, Texas, Oct. 27.—All is quiet along the Brazos tonight but on opposite banks opposing forces are preparing for the premier gridiron battle of the Southwestern conference when Baylor Bears clash with Texas A. & M. at the Cotton Palace here next Saturday, November 1.

The Aggies by every reason will enter the game as favorites while the Bruins will be the under dog. Bible's crew fought a brilliant 7 to 7 tie with the powerful S. M. U. Mustangs last week while Baylor was losing to Austin college by a 7 to 3 score.

After witnessing them in action in their game with the Mustangs, Coach Bridges regards the Aggies as one of the most powerful teams in the conference, having Bible's usual formidable defense and a strong offense.

Bridges has been fortunate this season in that he has not been forced to uncover many of his tricks. He first opened up in the battle against Arkansas and in that game pulled only three tricks—the open formation, short kick off and criss cross. Bridges can work the criss cross, although it is an old trick, in nearly every game, for he seems to possess the knack of picking the psychological moment to stage it. The open formation has been very effective and has rival mentors worrying over how to cope with it. The short kick off is dangerous to use now and will likely be discarded.

Next Saturday will be Baylor and Texas A. & M. day at the Texas Cotton Palace here and one of the largest football crowds of the season will be present, including 2,000 cadets who will accompany the Aggie team to Waco. The Baylor Letterme. association will be organized that day also.

Here's thought for the day for Manager Stanley Harris of the Senators. If Walter Johnson decides to quit the mound and take over the ownership and management of a minor league outfit who will carry his load in the 1925 campaign for the world's championship? Men have grown gray worrying about less difficult problems.

Practice Game Waged Nearly Two Hours Long

First String Forwards Run Away With Regular Backfield

COACH OUT OF TOWN

Titular Clash Probably Will Be Played in Spud Park

Montgomery's junior Coyotes opened the week's preparation with a crash Monday for the Graham game scheduled Saturday. Nearly two hours of the toughest of scrimmage constituted the training menu yesterday under the supervision of Assistant Coaches Roy Golden and Fall. The junior mentor himself was not on hand. He was in Stephenville visiting his family.

Line Looks Good.

The first string forward wall loomed brightly in the scrimmage yesterday, and certainly made the going rough for the regular backfield which played on the second team's side. At one stage of the workout the regular line composed of H. Herndon at left end, Tollet at left tackle, Ferris at left guard, F. Herndon at center, R. Taylor at right guard, Martin at right tackle, and Barrett a right end started on their own 20-yard line and pushed the first string backfield which was carrying the ball and second team forwards back to the 40-yard line in 18 downs. The backs would gain yard, and then get thrown for a yard loss on the next play.

Ferris, Barrett, Martin and second string quarter Hicks played a sterling game on the defense, proving the downfall of the first string backs time and again.

Lookout Graham.

If the Coyote Pup forward wall puts up the same kind of battle Saturday with its regular backfield in behind it against Graham the Pups more than likely will kick over the dope bucket and drub the highly touted Graham eleven.

Coach Montgomery will stop over in Graham on his return to Wichita Falls today and complete arrangements for the game. The coach hopes to bring Graham to Spudder park for the contest. The class B title of the southern half of section four will be at stake.

Two Players Hurt.

More scrimmage and intensive drill on the passing end of the game is on the card for this afternoon.

Captain Walker, halfback, went out of yesterday's scrimmage with a charley horse, and may not be able to practice very consistently the remainder of the week. The injury is not serious, however, and he will be in the lineup Saturday. Jackson, second string guard, wrenched a knee bad enough to be kept out for a number of days, possibly the rest of the week.

BILLY WHISKERS

By Frances Trego Montgomery

We left Billy trying to free himself from a long string of sausages that had caught on his horns and to get away and find Stubby and Button.

Freed from the sausages, Billy ran faster than ever and turned down a street that led to a railroad crossing. A freight train was moving slowly across the street when Billy spied a car with a door open and he made a flying leap and landed in the car safe and sound. When he looked down he saw the butcher standing by the track waving his broom frantically and calling out, "Just you wait until I catch you!"

Billy bleated back, "All right, I'll wait."

Stubby and Button waited all night for Billy to return. Then as the dawn began to break and no Billy appeared they knew he had not been able to escape from the movie people.

"The best way for us to do," said Stubby, "is to go back to the studio and hang around there until we find where they have shut him up."

"Yes," agreed Button, "I do think that would be the best plan."

So the two of them trotted back to the studio, Button running up a tree or traveling along the top of a fence when she saw a dog coming, and Stubby crawling under a fence to hide when he saw anyone whose looks he did not like. There was only one thing Stubby was afraid of and that was the dog catchers.

They had reached the studio and Stubby had crawled under the gate to get into the yard while Button had run up a tree and jumped from one of its limbs to the high fence that encircled the yard, and then to the ground. Both were cautiously creeping toward the animal quarters to see if Billy was there when without a bit of warning Stubby was grabbed up in Nick's arms and Button in Snub's.

"Well, you doggone little pup, you! What for you go and run away from us the very day the big performance was to come off and they need you so? You is goin' to kotch it, you is. An' I have orders to shut you up in a barrel or chicken coop until you are wanted. You hear dat now?"

Yes, Stubby heard, and his heart sunk within him, for he knew this meant that he would have to play his part in the show the movie people were then putting on.

As for Button, he tried to scratch Snub but he held his four feet together so he could not scratch or do a thing. This treatment made Button so angry that he vowed vengeance on Stub when he let him loose. All the time Snub held him thus he was talking to him and telling him what the movie people were going to do with him.

"You big, black rat, you! I'll fix you if you ever run away from us again and make me lose my breakfast and luncheon looking for you. Yes, and I'll duck you in the horse trough if you don't go through your performance as well as you know how when the time comes. Until they want you I am going to shut you up in the chicken coop. Hear that?"

(Poor Stubby and Button did not feel very joyful, you may be sure, when they heard these words.)

"Now you can do something for me," laughed Betty. "Stop being a pirate and get into your working clothes. We have to get the basement all straightened around, because we're going to fix it so we can have part of the Hallowe'en party down there.

Mothers

AND THEIR CHILDREN

Avoid Abrupt Commands.

One Mothers Says:

Unless there is some particular necessity for it, I do not give commands. If, for instance, I see my little son buried in a book, I do not wait until supper is ready and then call, "Come to supper." Instead I prefer to say, "Finish your story as soon as you can, dear. Supper is nearly ready." Abrupt commands, especially if ill-timed, are likely to be disregarded by the child and he falls into the habit of disobedience.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Belief that the decline which followed publication of the government crop report on Saturday had brought in an increased trade demand, seemed largely responsible for an advance of well over a cent a pound in the cotton market today. January contracts, which had sold off to 22.20 Saturday forenoon, advanced to 23.57 in today's late trading or 132 points above the closing quotation last week. That delivery closed at 23.50, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 123 to 131 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 29 to 50 points in response to higher Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the western belt. Demand was not particularly active at the start but offerings were light and the market showed increasing strength and activity in the afternoon on covering and trade buying. Very little edge selling was in evidence while selling otherwise was checked by a belief that there were a good many trade buying orders in the market and comparatively light realising was absorbed on slight setbacks at mid-day.

Reports of large export engagements for end-October and first half of November shipment contributed to the advance, which carried December up to 23.45 and March to 23.90 in the late trading, or 128 to 138 points net higher. The detailed weather reports showed a good deal of rain in the Carolinas and Georgia with freezing temperatures at a few points in the southwest. These conditions combined with the frosts of last week, were regarded by some traders suggest that Saturday's official crop figures might be accepted as a maximum view of the yield. The factor mainly discussed on the advance, however, was the improving character of trade accounts, particularly from abroad, and indications that the crop prospect of around 12,675,000 bales had not checked the demand from foreign spinners. Last prices were within 6 or 7 points of the best.

Private cables attributed the steadiness of Liverpool on buying to improving trade prospects.

Exports today 33,911, making 1,676,762 so far this season. Port receipts 81,346; U. S. port stocks 1,138,590.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—The cotton market was very active and strong all through today's session and prices scored an advance of $6.50 a bale and closed at the highest of the day. Decidedly more favorable Liverpool advices than expected, active trade buying supplemented in the afternoon by speculative buying in anticipation of active business after next week's election and reports of greater damage by the recent frosts than looked for were the main stimulating influences.

The market started off with gains of 24 to 33 points and continued to advance with only brief reactions until around noon it stood 73 to 78 points above Saturday's close. After a recession of about 10 points the market turned strong and the close which was at the top, the market ending strong, the first time that term has been used in a long while, at net gains for the day of 124 to 131 points.

The strength of Liverpool was attributed to traders in that market taking a bullish view of the government report. Traders on this side seemed more disposed to regard the estimate of Saturday as likely to prove the maximum and the trade buying was based on the belief that now that the crop is practically known, buyers will be more disposed to take hold in the goods trade with confidence.

Exports for today totalled 33,911 bales of which Houston contributed 29,730. Neither Galveston nor New Orleans cleared any cotton today although stocks on ship board total 143,695 bales at Galveston and 45,802 here.

Grain

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Unexpected sharp upturns in price at Buenos Aires and Liverpool, together with active export demand in the United States, gave a decided lift today to the wheat market here. Wheat in Chicago closed firm, 2⅛ to 3⅝c net higher, December 1.44⅝ to 1.44¾ and May 1.49¼ to 1.49⅜. Corn finished 1⅜ to 1⅝c up, and oats at 1¼ to 1⅝c gain.

Strength which developed in prices of corn and oats appeared to be due mostly to the action of wheat. Husking returns were disappointing. There was export business both in United States and Canadian oats.

Responsive to a downturn in hog values, the provision market averaged lower.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Stock prices displayed a reactionary trend in today's relatively quiet market. While bear traders succeeded in uncovering a few weak spots, notably the Yellow Cab issues, and pool operations were continued in a few specialties, trading in the general list was characterized by a backing and filling movement, regarded as typical of pre-election markets.

American Can was the weakest of the so-called pivotal issues, dropping nearly 3 points to 128⅛ and then rallying to 129⅝. The preferred touched a new 1924 high at 119. Baldwin closed about a point lower at 117⅝. U. S. Steel common, dividend action on which will be taken at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors, fluctuated within a range of less than ¾ a point and closed only ⅛ lower at 107⅝, apparently indicating that the regular dividend of $1.25 and an extra of 50c, which has been paid in the last three quarters, was expected.

A break of more than 8 points in Yellow Cab manufacturing which established a new low for the year at 41½, followed the publication of a financial statement showing only 88 cents a share earned on the common stock in the third quarter as against dividend requirements of $1.25. Chicago Yellow Cab dropped 4¼ points to 43.

Railroad shares yielded with the industrials despite the publication of some surprisingly favorable September earnings statements. St. Paul September net increased from $2,664,107 in 1923 to $3,024,945; Lackawanna from $666,941 to $1,593,997 and Friscos from $1,607,308 to $2,313,167.

Frisco common attained new peak price at 39⅛ and then reacted to 37⅝, off ⅝.

Oil shares declined in the face of the publication of stastics showing a tremendous increase in gasoline exports and a further reduction in crude production in the Los Angeles basin. Net losses in the popular issues, however, were held to small fractions.

American Woolen duplicated its recent low of 51⅛ and then rallied to 53⅝, up 1½ on the announcement of an advance in prices on men's wear fool fabrics for the spring 1925 season.

Call money opened at 2 per cent, advanced at 2½ and then to 3, the increase being associated with the deficit in reserve shown in the weekly clearing house statement last Saturday. Time money and commercial rates were unchanged.

Strength of sterling, which advanced more than a cent to around $4.50 was the feature of the irregular foreign exchange market. Buying of British bills was attributed in some quarters to the more hopeful feeling in London regarding the parliamentary election this week.

PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Poultry alive, higher; fowls 16@22c; springs 22c; roosters 15c; turkeys 25c.

Butter, unchanged; creamery extras 37c; standards 34⅛c; extra firsts 34½@36c; firsts 30½@32c; seconds 28@29c.

Eggs, higher; firsts 42@47c; ordinary first 37@40c.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—With the rise in speculative cotton markets today, cloth markets were firmer and a fair amount of inquiry developed. Yarns were firmer. Silks were steady with spring lines attracting more attention.

Burlaps markets were firm, the high prices apparently checking forward buying. Wool goods for the spring were selling best in women's lines. Spot orders were steady.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Just how much does the United States export?

To give figures in dollars and cents or in tons and bushels for the amount this nation exports would be foolish because it would not furnish a proper basis for comparison, in such a short article as this. Taking all of the reports of the United States together, it is found that the nation exports about 7 per cent of its total production.

Anything very much above this figure will start a wave of prosperity and anything very much below that used to start a depression. Much of this depression due to a lack of foreign trade is on the road to being eliminated, as the United States and Canada offer such enormous markets that this extra, exportable 7 per cent can probably be sold and used to good purpose without exporting.

Of course, this 7 per cent figur will not do for any one commodity. It is a figure based on all commodities. For example, in normal years, the United States sells about 25 per cent of its wheat crop abroad.

THE TEXACO STAR

Published by The Texas Company, Port Arthur, "illustrating real conservation, we send a photograph showing the type of steel gunbarrel tank in use on some of our leases in the North Texas Division.

"The tank is so constructed that from one inch to three inches vacuum is maintained. Vacuums regulator is also shown. We have seven of these tanks in operation, from which we conserve 200,000 cubic feet of gas daily, not conserved previously, which is taken to our Electra gasoline plant.

"This tank and others of like construction pay us good dividends. On the present price of gasoline and residue gas sales, we figure that each three or four months these tanks have earned their investment. Also, they greatly reduce fire hazard on our producing properties."

The above tanks are manufactured by the Panhandle Refining Company's Boiler Shop Department. For particulars call the following numbers: Day Phone 7125. Night, 2850 or 2225.

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Opposition to the new ordinance prohibiting all kinds of peddling in the city will develop this week, city officers have learned, and it has been indicated that before the ordinance is passed on its third and final reading next week claims will be presented to the council setting forth reasons for elimination of the proposal. Despite this, however, the ordinance was passed on its second reading last night and now needs but one more successful hearing to become a law.

The permit was issued on application of O. F. Marcham and associates who propose to erect a modern structure on the property just south of the new Gulf filling station.

Clocks Ring To Warn "Parkers"

Baltimore Solves Problem Caused By 2-Hour Rule

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Downtown Baltimore, or a good part of it, is doing its work to the tune of alarm clocks. Commissioner Gaither and his two-hour parking rule are responsible.

And the merchants who sell clocks are pleased. The explanation is this: Motorists, accustomed to using the street for all-day parking, continued to leave their machines on downtown streets after the new parking regulations were put into effect. They planned to move their cars every two hours. In the excitement of work it often was forgotten.

Vigilant policemen made the lapses of memory expensive. Tags were distributed freely, and every tag cost money.

Someone bought a clock. It was set every two hours and the tag problem was settled. In several offices there was a battery of alarm clocks.

But a difficulty arose. With ten alarm clocks in one office and all the clocks set at two-hour intervals whose clock was it that was ringing?

Sometimes as many as five men stood up prepared to dash to their cars.

But the sale of clocks goes on.

Toxic Delirium Comes To Victims After Gas In Oil Plant Breathed

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Two men are dead and three are confined to Reconstruction hospital today suffering from a strange toxic delirium resulting from the breathing of gases in the Bayway plant of the Standard Oil company at Elizabeth, N. J.

Although the second man to succumb to the mysterious malady, Walter Dymock of Elizabeth, died at Reconstruction hospital last night, an announcement of the fatality was made by the hospital authorities. The frist victim, Ernest Oelgert, Jr., also of Elizabeth, died there before he could be removed to the hospital.

T. L. Davis, superintendent of Reconstruction hospital, early today refused to give any information concerning the survivors of the mysterious ailment and made no announcement of the death of Dymock. News of Dymock's death was obtained at his home in Elizabeth.

Dr. W. G. Thompson of Reconstruction hospital and a consultant of the Standard Oil company, said that the poisoning is entirely new to science. Insomnia, he said, was one of the first symptoms and low blood pressure also was noted. The effect, he added, is somewhat similar to that which sometimes followed the use of certain poison gases during the war, but no special method of treatment has been evolved.

Car Inspector Killed in Yards

Switch Engine Shunts Another Coach Catching Man Between

Caught beneath the wheels of a passenger car into which a switch engine shunted another coach, Clyde F. Smith, a car inspector of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad was instantly killed at 3 o'clock Monday morning in front of the union station. His body was cut in two by the trucks which passed over him.

He had been inspecting the cars of the northbound Denver passenger train due in here at 3 a. m. and had just crawled beneath a car on a siding when it was bumped by the switch engine. The engineer of the locomotive declared no warning signal had been given him and he knew nothing of the man on the track.

The body was removed to the Merkle Undertaking parlors and is being held there pending the arrival of a sister from Pueblo, Colo. It will probably be sent today to Waurika, Okla., for burial.

Little Homes In City Leap Ahead In Building Line

Structures Costing $5,000 Or Less Comprise Most Of Work Here Now

Little homes—those costing less than $5,000 but which make adequate and ideal nests for a young couple to start out in are rapidly coming to the fore in building activities of Wichita Falls.

That, at least, is the observation of Building Inspector Fred A. Smith who stated yesterday that a surprisingly large number of such structures were being erected here these days. Monday was cited as typical when eight building permits were issued, and not one was for more than $5,000. The highest was for this amount, one was for $4,000 and the others ranged downward to $200 which a couple of repair jobs totalled.

Mr. Smith pointed out that probably 80 per cent of the construction work in Wichita Falls now is on these houses. They are springing up on the outlying edges, he said, where property values have not mounted to skyhigh figures and where an attractive four or five room bungalow may be erected for $5,000 or even less.

Phillips Seeks A New Trial In 89th Court Here

Appeals from Two-Year Term Assessed For Extortion

ALLEGES MISCONDUCT

He Claims Jury Talked Of Prohibited Case In Deliberations

Misconduct of the jury is alleged by J. S. Phillips, former justice of the peace at Electra, who Monday presented a motion for a new trial on charges of extortion by virtue of his powers as an officer. He is under a two-year sentence in the state penitentiary, that penalty having been assessed by a jury which found him guilty in the 89th district court last week.

Hearing on the motion has been set by Judge P. A. Martin for Wednesday morning.

Phillips holds that the jury, in discussing his case, made reference to that of L. C. Salisbury, a Clay county resident who is under indictment for murder. Salisbury, while posing as an officer, sought to arrest H. D. Jobe on a country road near his home and in the scuffle that followed, Jobe was killed. A point at law, hinging on whether officers may make arrests without warrants is involved in both cases.
