Governor's Committee To Draft Drouth Relief Program At Conference Today

NELSON AND BRITAIN TO GREET VISITORS

40 Farm and Business Leaders to Meet At Wichita Club

'BUY A BALE' GAINS

Civic Clubs Join Moody's Drive to Bolster Up Cotton Prices

The vanguard of a committee of 40 leading Texans appointed by Gov. Dan Moody to study drouth conditions and devise relief measures were arriving in Wichita Falls Thursday night for an all-day conference Friday.

The group, representing stricken counties of the section, will gather at the Wichita club Friday morning where it will be greeted by A. H. Britain for the chamber of commerce and Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., for the city. The delegates will be entertained at luncheon by the chamber of commerce.

Two Wichitans on Board

J. A. Kemp and J. F. Friberg will represent Wichita Falls on the committee, appointed by Governor Moody after West Texas had been included in the area named in Hoover drouth relief plans. The delegates will inquire into conditions and are empowered to submit recommendations for relief. Measures suggested have included loans to farmers from private sources and through state and national agencies.

Counties which have asked for relief include Knox, Throckmorton, Baylor, King, Hall, Childress, Wilbarger, Hardeman, Foard, Cottle Motley, Floyd, Bailey, Crosby, Dickens, Haskell, Stonewall, Kent, Lynn, Garza, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Eastland, Stephens, Cass, Callahan, Tay-

Legge Urges Housewives To Bake Their Own Bread

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm board today called upon the nation's housewives to bake their own bread as a means of bringing down existing prices on that commodity.

The price, Legge admitted, is very high considering the amount of wheat flour going into an average 10-cent loaf. For all ingredients, as they arrive in the baker's hands, he said, the consumer pays 3.9 cents. The other 6.1 cents, he declared, goes to pay for the elaborate system of marketing and distribution which makes it possible for the housewife to have the loaf delivered at the kitchen door.

J. E. McDonald Pledges Cotton to Co-Operative

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (UP)—J. E. McDonald, Ellis county farmer and Democratic nominee for commissioner of agriculture, signed a marketing agreement to handle his large cotton crop through the Texas Cotton Cooperative association today.

At the same time, McDonald issued a statement calling up farmers and business men to support the cooperative movement and "present a solid front against insane marketing of this cotton crop at present prices."

U. S. Joins Mexico In Probe of Dual Murder

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28. (UP)—Mexican and American authorities met in conference here tonight in an effort to solve the mysterious murders of Lois Marion Kentle, 23, and Francis Conlon, 24, her fiance, who were stabbed to death last Monday night on the bathing beach at Ensenada, Mexico.

Major Louis Farrell, member of the personal staff of Gov. Jose Tapia of lower California, arrived by airplane from San Diego with L. Tenorio, a special Mexican police officer, and Deputy Sheriff Jack Tillery of San Diego.

WIFE'S SPIRIT CHEERS PAYNE

Bomb Slayer Expects Death To Prevent Trial

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—A. D. Payne, former prominent Amarillo attorney, claimed inspiration tonight from a visitation of the spirit of his wife, whom he admits he killed by placing a bomb in the family automobile.

He said he did not believe his God would ever allow him to be brought before the court of man to answer for his crime.

"My wife's spirit, as real as any living being, told me that I will expiate my crime before the highest tribunal and therefore I should make no defense or hamper efforts of those who defend or prosecute me," Payne confided to the United Press correspondent.

"She appeared to me here in jail in the middle of the night and told me I should not worry about the outcome of my case. 'Our God,'

Hoover Searches Lists For Young's Successor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—President Hoover was looking today for an able, seasoned banker, nationally distinguished in his field and willing to endure lots of criticism if need be, to serve as governor of the federal reserve board.

For a man possessing all these qualities, and preferably a good many more, he is able to pay $12,0000 a year.

The problem of finding a successor to Gov. Roy A. Young, who resigned yesterday to become governor of the Boston reserve bank, will not be solved quickly nor easily, officials close to the president indicated today.

Unlucky Number Puts Jinx on Ambitious Boy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—It remained for Charles Johnson, a boy scout of Anderson, S. C., to show at the White House today that there is such a thing as an unlucky number.

It was his 13th birthday and he was about to realize his boyhood ambition of shaking hands with the president, along with 12 of his companions who have been on a tour of the United States and Canada.

Thirteenth in line, he waited impatiently and finally toppled over from exhaustion. He was taken to a nearby hospital and revived. The president will send him an autographed photograph.

Infantile Paralysis Threat Closes Church

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 28. (UP)—Because of infantile paralysis cases in Wichita, no services will be held Sunday in the United Congregational church, one of the largest here, Pastor J. Henry Hornung notified City Physician R. E. Hobbs today.

Doctor Hobbs said there are three Wichitans ill, and several out of town persons suffering with the dread disease.

FIRE DANGER STRESSED IN WATER STUDY

City Would Save $260,000 In Building Costs Under New Plan

LAWSON GIVES FACTS

1,500 Homes in Low Pressure Area, Speaker Tells Rotary Club

The startling statement that "there are 1,500 homes in Wichita Falls which would be wiped out if a fire were to start in those sections between the hours of 5 p. m. and 9 p. m., provided the fire were too big to be extinguished by chemicals" was made Thursday by T. H. Lawson at the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary club in an address in which he presented a revised estimate of the cost of needed improvements in the city water system, cutting the Black & Veatch estimate of four years ago from $1,400,000 to $1,140,000.

Lower Building Costs

An explanation of the revised estimate, consideration of the lowered cost of improvements and a discussion of suggested means of financing a bond issue on the basis of the new estimate constituted the club program Thursday, marking the fourth program devoted by the Rotary club to the water question. The club voted Thursday to continue its study of the problem at next week's luncheon.

Factors named by Mr. Lawson as having contributed to the cut in the original estimate included the present comparatively small cost of labor and materials, the fact that a number of improvements have been made in the system since Black & Veatch, Kansas City waterworks engineers, made their report in 1926 and revision of some of the proposed improvements on a smaller scale due to the fact that the city's population does not justify certain additions to the system as recommended by the engineers on the basis of considerably large population.

The scale of reduction on the various items, compared with the original Black & Veatch estimate, follows:

Item—	B. & V. Estimate	Present Estimate
Drainage ditch and raising spillway	$ 156,224	$ 75,000
Conduit from lake to plant	230,000	190,000
Plant improvements	525,000	525,000
Distribution system	450,000	350,000
Total	$1,361,224	$1,140,000

The unusually large reduction in the first item, which includes both construction of a drainage ditch and raising of the spillway at Lake Wichita two feet, is accounted for in the fact that the engineers' estimate allowed for a population of 130,000 here in 1936 and that raising of the spillway is unnecessary at present rate of water consumption, Mr. Lawson explained.

Lower cost of building materials accounts for the reduction in the French Actress Invades Hollywood in Breeches

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US) — Dressed in knee breeches over a detachable skirt, Lily Damita, French actress, arrived today en route to Hollywood.

The sporting outfit, Miss Damita said, had been designed by herself for the two extremes of temperature. The detachable dress could be worn when she felt cool and dropped in favor of the breeches when she felt warm.

Asked about the report that she was engaged to William H. Vanderbilt, the actress hung her head low and suggested that Mr. Vanderbilt, in Paris, be questioned about that. Se declined to say anything further.

Houston Named for 1931 Sanitarian Convention

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Dr. H. K. Head, supervisor of hygienics of the public schools of Houston, was re-elected president of the Texas Association of Sanitariums at the closing session today of the eighth annual short school. The organization also voted to change its name to the Texas Public Health association. Houston was chosen for the 1931 convention.

C.-C. Drafts Three Plans To Retain S. A. F. E. Air Lines; Other Cities Join Petition

Three plans for preserving the Safeway air passenger service between Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Dallas, Oklahoma City and Tulsa, will be presented Friday morning when representatives of the local chamber of commerce, with delegations from the four other cities involved, meet with Earle P. Halliburton, head of the line, in Oklahoma City.

The proposals were tentatively outlined in a meeting Thursday afternoon of the six Wichita Falls committeemen and the chamber of commerce aviation committee.

Conference With Halliburton

Mr. Halliburton will first be asked to maintain the schedule now in operation, with the promise of the utmost in co-operation from every civic body. The discontinuance of the line within the next six weeks was announced last Tuesday after the awarding of a federal air mail contract cutting off Northwest Texas, and Southern Oklahoma both from air mail service and the already established passenger lines. The delegations will ask Mr. Halliburton to reconsider the discontinuance order, issued on the grounds that all equipment is needed for the new transcontinental route and that the present line is operating at a loss.

Seek Mail Contract

As an alternative, the group will seek a co-operative movement to secure air mail service for the section in an effort to make profitable operation possible. Members of the local committee were unable to reach Congressman Guinn Williams before he left for Washington Thursday, but efforts will be made to organize a concerted campaign for the mail subsidy should the first proposal prove unsuccessful.

As a last resort, to hold the air service between the five cities, the committeemen will invite Mr. Halliburton to join them in a new branch line to be financed by the cities and the Halliburton interests. They will propose that Mr. Halliburton assume one-half the financial burden, the remaining 50 per cent to be handled by the cities themselves.

The local delegation will fly to Oklahoma City on the morning ship Friday, returning by the 3 o'clock plane. J. L. Jackson Jr., vice president of the chamber of commerce will head the group, which includes J. H. Allison, Wilbur Cahoon, W. M. McGregor, J. B. Chatham and Harry Gray Jr.

American Notables Married in England

KINGHAM, Oxfordshire, Eng., Aug. 28. (US)—Every soul of the hundred inhabitants of this tiny old world hamlet turned out to the old Norman church today to witness the wedding of William Arnold Hanger, of Richmond, Ky., and Miss Hope Gay Yandell, of New York and Greenwich, Conn.

Mr. Hanger is a noted horseman and breeder and a member of the old Hanger family of Virginia and Kentucky, and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor Hanger. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Lunsford Pitts Yandell.

Standard Oil Wages Fight on Infringers

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—For more than a year the Standard Oil company has been waging a legal battle in nine states, from Maine to New Mexico, against a chain of companies using the name of Standard Oil, it was learned today.

The nine companies, each bearing the name "Standard Oil company," with suffixes for the states in which they were organized, sprang to life in mushroom-like fashion in two months. Four of the companies were launched on the same day.

Youthful Bank Bandits Escape With $4,000

COYLE, Okla., Aug. 28. (UP)—Search for two youthful bank bandits who robbed the bank of Coyle of approximately $4,000 in currency at noon today, centered around Perkins tonight.

There was only one customer in the bank. Cashier Fred Cooke was forced to lie on his face while the two bandits gathered up all the available money. They were believed to have hidden near Perkins.

Girl Dies as Plane Plunges to Earth

BUFFALO, Aug. 28. (AP)—One girl was killed and another girl and the pilot were injured, probably fatally in an airplane crash early this evening in Cheektowaga. The plane had taken off from a Buffalo field and had been in the air only a few minutes when the accident occurred The cause was not determined. The girl killed was Rose Zajac, 20, and the injured girl is Pearl Jabczynska.

Hanging Of Sam Gowan Big Mistake

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 28. (UP)—The hanging of Sam Gowan for "murder" at the notorious mining camp of German Gulch in 1865—a notable event during the gold rush days of that period—was revealed tonight in the diary of W. R. M. Edwards, pioneer, as a miscarriage of vigilante justice.

The swift, and oftimes crude, justice meted out by the pioneers claimed the life of Gowan, who came West to seek his fortune in gold, for a killing that never took place.

The story was revealed in the notes jotted down by Edwards, and now in the possession of John B. Taylor, Deer Lodge national forest supervisor, during the turbulent camp's heyday.

Gowan stabbed Jack Dowd, another miner, during a quarrel. Physicians said a piece of Dowd's lung had been cut out by a nasty twist of the knife and that he had only "one chance in a million to live."

Gowan was not arrested immediately. We went from one mining camp to another, harassed by his

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL IN PERIL

Emergency Guard Placed Around Irigoyen

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28. (UP)—Police hurriedly took emergency precautions to protect President Hipolito Irigoyen today as labor unrest grew in Buenos Aires.

Machine guns were placed at strategic points in the vicinity of the chief executive's residence, where a heavy guard was "mysteriously" established.

Activity of the authorities was unexplained in official quarters. Widespread comment, however, was aroused throughout Buenos Aires and the newspaper La Critica called attention to the presence of troops and police at the Irigoyen residence. The paper, which opposes the administration, printed a front page story purporting to reveal discussion of "revolutionary activities" at a cabinet meeting last night.

CERRO SWEARS IN PERUVIAN CABINET

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 28. (US)—Peru today swore allegiance to the military government of Col. Luis Sanchez Cerro, "father of the Arequipa revolt," who flew into the capital yesterday to take over control from the army junta which forced the resignation of Auguste B. Leguia, president and dictator for 11 years.

Col. Sanchez Cerro, swearing in his cabinet of three military officers, a naval officer and three civilians, assumed the role of chief of cabinet without portfolio.

Eighteen Injured In Crash of S. P. Trains

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Aug. 28. (US)—Eighteen persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, when the Southern Pacific passenger train Lark crashed into the rear-end of the Padre here early today. Both trains were bound from Los Angeles to San Francisco and both carried capacity loads.

The Padre, running 15 minutes ahead of the Lark, had been delayed here because of a broken steam pipe.

Because of a sharp curve in the tracks, the engineer of the Lark did not see the rear-end lights on the Padre.

Pulp Manufacturers Ask Russian Tariff

MARINES TAKE PART IN BURIAL OF LON CHANEY

Disabled Veteran Who Was Befriended by Actor Stands at Bier

SIMPLE SERVICES

Widow of Famous Cinema Artist Collapses As Rites Are Said

By RONALD WAGONER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28. (UP)—With impressive yet simple funeral services in which the United States marines played a prominent role, Lon Chaney, recognized as Hollywood's greatest character actor, was buried here late today.

In accordance with the actor's last wishes only his relatives and closest friends were in attendance while Chaplain H. S. Dyer of the San Diego marine base read a brief Episcopalian service in the chapel of a mortuary in downtown Los Angeles.

The marines were present to honor Chaney, who was one of their greatest admirers and an honorary member since "Tell It to the Marines," a silent picture in which Chaney played a marine sergeant and became personally acquainted with scores of the sea soldiers.

Rites Held Up

The rites were held up for more than a half hour when word was received that Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, one of Chaney's closest friends, was expected to arrive by airplane from Philadelphia. General Butler failed to appear, however, at the time the chapel services were finished.

"It was a case of mutual admiration," explained Chaplain Dyer. "Lon Chaney liked the marines and there isn't one of us who ever met him on shipboard of elsewhere who did not regard him as a real man-worthy of membership in the corps."

A crowd of approximately 500 men, women and children gathered in front of the chapel tying up traffic for several hours. Several squads

Boat Blown Up In Lake Fishermen's 'War'

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Aug. 28. (UP)—The $15,000 fishing tug, Island Queen, blew up mysteriously in Waukegan harbor today. Police believed it to be the first reprisal of racketeering among Lake Michigan fishermen.

The boat, owned by Frank Repke, Chicago, was shattered by three successive explosions.

No member of the crew were aboard. Fire Chief Sard O'Farrell blamed a fishermens' war which has kept Lake Michigan fishing fleets more or less embroiled for the last several months.

Balloonists Expect Race To End in North Woods

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28. (AP)—A belief that this year's International Gordon Bennett balloon race will end in the forests of Northern Canada, was expressed today by the German and French entrants in the contest. They are Dr. Hugo Kaulen Jr., of Germany, and Albert Boltard of France, who with Ernest Demuyter, Belgian entry, will represent Europe's attempt to check the United States' string of four consecutive victories.

Postoffice Clerks End 34th Annual Session

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (UP) — The United States National Association of Postoffice Clerks adjourned its 34th annual convention today after defeating a resolution that would unite the body with the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, an organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Oil Field Employe Injured in Shooting

ABILENE, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—H. Chrisman, oil field worker, was in a critical condition from bullet wounds tonight and A. C. Harding was at liberty on $1,000 bond charged with the shooting. Harding charged Chrisman with annoying him and his young wife.

SLIM AND ANNE 'STEAL SHOW'

Lindberghs, Spectators, Are Center of Attraction

CURTISS - REYNOLDS AIRport, Chicago, Aug. 28. (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh became the center of attraction for 40,000 persons at the national air races today.

The popular hero and his wife set their black and red Lockheed Sirius, low-winged monoplane in the middle of the airport early in the afternoon, coming here from Columbus, Ohio, where they spent the night, by way of Indianapolis. After taxiing across the field, they were met by race officials and cameramen and escorted to the grandstand by a small auto parade.

The crowd cheered as the famous couple were taken to a box, and several hundred persons left their good seats to stand in front of the Lindbergh space. Jimmie Doolittle was stunting with a Doodle Bug, an event which usually keeps all eyes turned skyward, but only the Lindberghs were watching him. The crowd was watching the Lindberghs.

Cameras Bombard

Amateur photographers in droves climbed the railing around the box and pointed cameras at the couple, some staying long enough to expose whole film rolls. Finally, Major R. W. Schroeder, chairman of contests, led the Lindberghs out of boxes to the chief judge's stand above the press box. There they could see the races without themselves being seen.

Colonel Lindbergh said he was

Girl Loses Life In Roller Coaster Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—One girl was dead tonight, four seriously injured and three others less seriously hurt as the result of a roller coaster accident at North Beach amusement park here last night.

Miss Ina Morton, 17, died early today from injuries she received when the first car of a two-car train left the track at the bottom of a steep incline, wedging between the track and some guard posts.

Effect of Rains Upon Cotton Problematical

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (UP)—Effect of scattered rains over the northern third of Texas on the cotton crop is still problematical, the Dallas News will say tomorrow in its weekly crop report.

"It becomes a question whether leafworms, now generally distributed over Texas, will become a menace or whether cotton plants will put on a top crop or escape insect nijury," the news report will read.

OFFICERS SEE EVIDENCES OF CHLOROFORM

Kidnaping Victim Recalls 'Floating Through Air' As in a Dream

FOUND ON HIGHWAY

Mrs. Dorothy Gardner Fails To Recall Events After Going to Bed

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Aug. 28. —The theory that Mrs. Dorothy Gardner, 30, had been smothered in a chloroform-soaked towel and kidnaped from her bed in Chillicothe sometime after midnight Wednesday was advanced by officers Thursday night after the woman had faltered out vague recollections of "floating through the air as in a dream" and "riding in a car with something wrapped around her head."

Mrs. Gardner bound and gagged and clothed only in a sheer night gown, was found unconscious on the Crowell road one mile south of Chillicothe by A. B. Gardner, neighboring farmer, early Thursday morning.

Unable to Remember

When she was first revived in the Chillicothe hospital, the young woman was unable to recall anything that happened after she went to bed in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Campbell, about 11 o'clock Wednesday night. Later in the day however, she told Constable R. A. Jackson that the events of the night seemed like a dream, that she recalled a sensation like floating through the air and a vague recollection of riding through the night in an automobile struggling with a cloth wrapped around her head. How she got into the car, or out of it, however, she could not recall, repeating that her mind went blank when she tried to explain.

Physicians told investigators that they found no indications of dope and that Mrs. Gardner was unhurt except for a slight bruise on her neck and a few scratches. She was allowed to return to her sister's home after emergency treatment, but was ill throughout the afternoon and evening.

Disturbed by Prowler

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, who sleep out-of-doors at the home they share with Mrs. Gardner, reported that they had been disturbed by the sound of a supposed prowler in the early hours of the morning Thursday. Mr. Campbell took a gun and searched the premises but failed to find any trace of an intruder. They first missed Mrs. Gardner when they arose at 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

When she was found unconscious beside the road the young woman's wrists were securely bound with bed clothes and a knot of sheeting had been thrust between her teeth.

Officers continued their investigation Thursday night and persisted in their questioning in the hopes that Mrs. Gardner would be able to remember the night's events when she has recovered from the shock. She had lived with her sister in Chillicothe since her separation from her husband, an oil field worker, some time ago, and was employed in a local cafe.

Mayor Walker Greets Fliers at City Hall

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The German fliers were welcomed at city hall today at a ceremony broadcast in this country and Germany.

Mayor James J. Walker greeted the fliers and Capt. Wolfang von Gronau replied, both speaking in English. Then Gustave Hauser, acting German consul general, and Capt. Von Gronau spoke briefly in German.

Wanted: Law to Regulate Appetite of Neighborhood Bees

Busy Little Buzzers Create Serious Problem in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 28. (UP)—City prosecutors here, hardpressed to enforce the law and protect the city from outlaws and bandits, are faced with a new task—this one to keep wandering bees at home.

Down in the neighborhood of Twenty-First and Central streets some man who loves his bees but can't keep them at home, has the community aroused.

As the bees buzz, telephones ring in the office of John C. O'Brien, assistant city attorney.

"This is Mr. So-and-so," a complainant told O'Brien. "I've just been stung again."

"Where?" OBrien asked

'On the front porch.'

"Hm-m-m. It may prove serious. I'll have to see what can be done about it," advised O'Brien as he dusted off law tomes to discover ordinances governing the behavior of bees in a city.

Other calls followed. O'Brien answered another jangle.

"Hello," he answered somewhat exasperated. "I 'spose you've been stung—"

"Yeah, on my lawn. And my wife was stung in the flowerbed and the two children—"

Mr. O'Brien didn't wait to hear about the children. It's the old story about Mr. A's bees at Twenty-first and Central.

It seems Mr. A's bees drink, but not at home. Thirst makes them migratory. They go down to Twenty-Second and Central and consort with the fish in Mr. B's (no relation) fish pond, then perhaps they alight on Mr. C and Mrs. C and the little members of the C family in the middle of the block. They sting and fly away.

"What are you going to do about it?" angered citizens ask Attorney O'Brien. That's puzzling him. There's an ordinance covering etc., but nothing about bees.

"You might try hobbling them," late complainants were told as the telephone receiver clicked.

Annual Fall Style Show And Window Display to Open Sept. 11

The approach of the annual Wichita Falls fall opening and buyer's week, ushered in by the window display contest sponsored by the Wichita Daily Times and Record News, was heralded Thursday afternoon when members of the Retail Merchants association met with officials of the Times Publishing company for a preliminary conference at the chamber of commerce.

The date for the autumnal style festival was set for Sept. 11. On the afternoon of that date entrants in the display contest, including practically every retail merchant in the city, will veil their windows to prepare for the spectacular opening at 7:30 in the evening. At a given signal, the draperies will be removed and the brilliant fall displays revealed to the thousands drawn each year to view the presentation.

A total of 28 prizes, first and second awards for 14 classifications, will be presented by The Times and Record News upon the verdict of judges to be imported from out-of-town. Loving cups will be presented to the winners of first place in each class. Bronze medals will be

Moody Wires Bridwell

Governor Moody Thursday afternoon wired J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce here, that he would be unable to attend the conference to which leading bankers, business men and agriculturists have been summoned. Each delegate is expected to present conditions in his own territory and all will combine in devising remedies, to be offered to Governor Moody in the form of recommendations expected to be framed before the meeting is adjourned.

Members of the committee include: L. M. Hogsett of Fort Worth, general freight agent of the Fort Worth & Denver railway; Dick McCarty of Albany; D. A. Bandeen of Stamford; J. M. Crews of Childress; J. F. Frieberg of the American Red Cross at Wichita Falls; L. M. Thompson of Throckmorton; C. A. Phillips of Paducah; E. B. Smith of Quanah; H. F. Fletcher of Alpine; A. M. Cooper of Baird; Andy Bourland of Vernon; Judge Edgar Gutchins of Crosbyton; Sim Oneal of Coleman; L. L. Harier of Linden; Fred Rennels of Crowell; J. K. Crews of Matador and J. A. Lacy of Turkey.

BUY-A-BALE DRIVE SHOWS PROGRESS

AUSTIN, Aug. 28. (AP)—The opinion that the "buy a bale of cotton" movement was "going fine" was expressed today by Gov. Dan Moody as he recounted the results of his plea to citizens to buy cotton at 15 cents and take it off the market.

A telegram was received from the Lions club at Beaumont endorsing the movement and challenging luncheon clubs of the world to a contest on the percentage of members buying bales.

South Texas Organizes

Officials of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce advised him they had started organization of all chambers of commerce in their area to sponsor the movement in their various communities, and Moody wrote the West and East Texas chambers asking similar cooperation.

He also announced he was preparing to get a group of representative citizens from various parts of the state to organize a statewide committee to push the movement.

He had been advised, Moody said, that some luncheon clubs had interpreted his request as meaning that each luncheon club buy a bale. While endorsing this, Moody explained he had intended to ask luncheon clubs to sponsor the project in their communities, and obtain pledges from citizens.

One telegram was received from a Monroe, La., newspaper asking to be kept advised of the progress of the movement.

The governor again telegraphed governors of southern states enlisting their cooperation, and suggesting that President Hoover be urged to make a nation wide appeal. The telegram follows:

Oklahoma Declines

"The buy a bale movement is taking rapidly in Texas and received enthusiastic and hearty cooperation and support from civic organizations, luncheon clubs, chambers of commerce and business men. Wires and letters received from all over the state and other states endorsing the proposal. Hope you will see fit to join in the movement and in asking President Hoover to call on the people to support. Present prices mean poverty for southern cotton farmers and offer less for their product than the cost of production. If southern states will cooperate it will take at least a million bales off the market, advancing and stabilizing the price of cotton."

Shown dispatches from Oklahoma City indicating Gov. W. J. Holloway would not join in the movement on advice of Dr. R. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, the governor said he would be glad to have Dr. Bennett suggest a better means for aiding the drouth stricken farmers.

He said the experience of the similar movement of 1914 did not indicate most buyers would put the cotton back on the market within a few days, as Dr. Bennett believed.

Court Frees Prisoner On Habeas Corpus Plea

Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Thursday ordered the release of Daniel Norvell from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus presented to the court by Temple Shell, Wichita Falls attorney. Norvell has been held in jail here since July 28 on a charge of second degree burglary said to have been filed at Frederick, Okla.

The habeas corpus writ was admitted to be good by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, who said that the state held no fugitive from justice warrant for the prisoner.

Underworld Arsenal Uncovered in New York

A gangland arsenal, equipped with enough weapons for a fair-sized war, is pictured above after it had been seized by detectives in Brooklyn, N. Y. The array of underworld fighting material—more formidable than any uncovered in New York police history—included bombs powerful enough to destroy a large building, hand grenades, machine gun stocks, tear gas and fountain pen pistols. Steel vests for wear by gang gunmen are shown in the lower part of the picture. Detective Alexander McConeghey (at right) was one of the three officers who discovered the nest of munitions after they had trailed to the scene a sedan belonging to the wife of Jack (Legs) Diamond, notorious gangster. Three men and a women were arrested.

TEACHERS TO MEET SEPT. 5

Iowa Park to Entertain Rural Institute

Dr. H. L. Pritchett of Southern Methodist university at Dallas will be one of the principal speakers at the annual teachers' institute for all rural schools in Wichita county and for the Iowa Park schools, to be held at Iowa Park Sept. 5 and 6, according to an announcement issued Thursday by Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

The two-day institute will include talks on various phases of school work and on the proper instruction and leadership of children. The city of Iowa Park has made extensive preparations for receiving and entertaining the visiting teachers, Mr. Bryant said. The program for the institute follows:

9:55 a. m.—Talk on the county fair by H. V. Winn.
10 a. m.—Address by Dr. Pritchett.
11:15 a. m.—Sectional meetings.
Noon—Lunch at the First Baptist church.

Dallas Man Hurt As Car Overturns

C. O. Poteet, Dallas insurance man, suffered injuries of undetermined extent to his ankle, cuts and body bruises about 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, when the automobile in which he was riding alone overturned and rolled over three times at the Iowa Park highway railroad crossing.

J. H. Pogue, city motorcycle officer, who was approaching the crossing from the west at the time of the accident, was forced to leap from his moving motorcycle and run to one side when he saw Poteet's car catapult directly toward him with such speed that it would have been impossible to turn the motorcycle aside in time to avoid being struck by the overturning car. The machine came to a stop on its top within two feet of the spot where Officer Pogue jumped from his motorcycle.

The injured man was rushed to the Wichita General hospital in an emergency ambulance from the Merkle Undertaking company. Attendants reported he was resting well late Thursday night.

Water Discussion Cites Fire Peril

amount estimated for building the conduit from the lake to the city, he said, while no reduction was made in the improvements and additions necessary at the water plant proper. The one remaining item reduced is that of the distribution system, Mr. Lawson explaining that changes in the location of belt lines, resulting in very little tearing up of the old water mains, will cut down the cost of a new system by about $100,000.

Fire Hazard Tests

"More than 50 per cent of the present daily pollution of the city water," he said, "is the result of the cracked condition of the basins now being used as reservoirs at the plant."

In connection with the fire hazard in localities where there is little or no pressure late in the day, he said, "tests taken by the water department during the month of August show that there are many places in the residential section where there is only six pounds pressure or less during the hours from 5 to 9 p. m., and there are dozens of families who cannot even draw water into the bathtub at that time of day."

Mr. Lawson quoted figures from these tests in which drops of as high as 54 pounds pressure were recorded during the evening in comparison with morning pressures. In Indian Heights, he said, the pressure is six pounds in the evening and 60 pounds in the morning.

A 20 per cent increase in the water rate was suggested as the most practicable way of financing the proposed new project. Rates in other Texas cities were quoted to show that an increase of that amount would bring the average here to 27 cents, or only three cents higher than the present rate average, and keep our rate in line with those of other cities over the state.

Mr. Lawson estimated that with a 20 per cent increase and the additional water sales, the yearly payment of $70,000 could be made on 40-year serial bonds—the amount necessary on a bond issue of $1,140,000.

DEATHS

MRS. ANNA WILLIAMS

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Williams, 58, who died Wednesday afternoon at her home near Iowa Park, were held Thursday afternoon at the grave in Riverside cemetery, with Ensign Amel Schultz of the Salvation Army officiating. Arrangements were under the direction of the Albert's Funeral home. Mrs. Williams is survived by her husband and four children.

not planning to do any flying in the air races, although he will attend them again tomorrow before hopping off for Detroit. They arrived in time to see Lloyd O'Donnell of Long Beach, Calif., fly a Waco 10-T open ship 152.05 miles an hour to win a 25-mile race limited to motors of less than 800 cubic inch piston displacement.

May Haizlip of Kansas City won the first closed-course race for women when she flew around the pylons at 121.08 miles an hour. Vera Dawn Walker of Los Angeles was runner-up at 120.66 miles, and Laura Ingalls of St. Louis, third at 111.55 miles.

A 25-mile free for all civilians with planes of 110 cubic inch piston displacement was taken by E. B. Heath of Chicago at 79.13 miles per hour. Delbert Koerner, who was entered from Kankakee, Ill., was second, and Gus Palmquist of Chicago, third.

The dead stick landing contest for women pilots, postponed for several days, because, executives said, the contestants slept too late, was finally held. Charity Langdon, Norfolk, Va., put her plane down within 150 feet, 1 inch of the center, taking first place.

R. E. Kuser, Trenton, N. J., placed his ship within 6 feet, 1 inch of the center, to win the dead stick landing contest for men.

Four Boys to Seek Eagle Scout Rank

Four Wichita Falls Boy Scouts were hard at work Thursday morning preparing for their life saving tests and studying for the examination which they will take next week as part of the finishing work preparatory to receiving the rank of Eagle scout, according to the announcement Thursday of Frank B. Creighton, scout executive here.

Those who will take the examination for the high scout rating are Lloyd Holmgren of troop 4; Cooper Waters of troop 12; Bob Ford of troop 15; and Tommy Cox of troop 16, all of whom have been actively connected with scout work for some time.

LOSES HANDBAG

MARINES TAKE PART IN BURIAL

Lon Chaney Laid to Rest In Hollywood

of motorcycle officers were called to marshal the throng.

Mass of Flowers

The inside of the chapel was a mass of floral pieces sent by motion picture celebrities and friends and admirers of Chaney from all parts of the world.

Mrs. Hazel Chaney, widow of the actor, was deeply affected by the rites and collapsed several times. A nurse was in attendance constantly and revived Mrs. Chaney, who was hysterical as the casket was taken from the chapel. She leaned heavily on the arm of her stepson, Creighton Chaney, and her nurse as she entered an automobile to go to the cemetery.

The body of Chaney lay in a huge bronze casket at the head and foot of which burned immense yellow candles, a blanket of red roses and lilies of the valley from the family was the only floral piece on the bier.

Marines Stand Guard

Four United States marines with sabres bared stood guard as Chaplain Dyer spoke a few words in Chaney's memory. Within a few feet of the marine chaplain was Sergeant Frank McCloskey, a disabled war veteran, whom the actor had befriended and who had asked the honor of standing at the head of the casket dressed in his world war uniform.

"If I had the ability to eulogize Lon Chaney in flowing language I would not do it," Chaplain Dyer said. "Lon Chaney was a simple man and would not like it.

"I could tell of his many virtues and of the friends he made and kept through early lean days in his chosen profession. I could tell of many whom he aided in his quiet manner, but I will not do this."

He then laid his hand on the shoulder of Sergeant McCloskey.

"Perhaps, if this man was able, he could express better than I am able what I am trying to say about Lon Chaney," the chaplain said.

Veteran Weeps

McCloskey bowed his head and wept. Later he explained to newspapermen that Chaney had found him when he was desperate from war injuries and nervous shock and had paid for hospital treatment which enabled him to make a living.

"Mr. Chaney was my constant friend," McCloskey said. "Last night I asked Mrs. Chaney for the great privilege which was mine today."

Hollywood's motion picture colony was represented at the services by Lew Cody and William Haines, close actor friends of Chaney, and by Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, executive at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where the actor was starred.

At the exact hour the casket was lowered into a grave beside Frank Chaney, the actor's father, in Forest Lawn cemetery, a squad of marines lowered a flag and sounded taps at the studio.

Five minutes of silence was observed by all Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stages while actors and actresses, many of whom had worked with Chaney, stood with bowed heads. Other studios held three minutes silence and every Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer office in the world was inactive for the same length of time.

Western Freight Rate Revision Postponed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—Revision of freight rates on grain and grain products within the Western district, and for export, in compliance with an Interstate Commerce commission order, was postponed today from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1.

The commission authorized the stay upon a plea from the railroads for more time to adjust their schedules.

Payne Cheered By Wife's Spirit

she said, 'will take the matter from the hands of those on earth and will administer justice himself'."

Payne said he had a heart attack soon after the visitation and believed for a time he was going to die, as he thinks God has issued a mandate for him to appear for trial.

"My wife has assured me that she loves me and will see me through. She has told me that she condones my act and realizes that it was because of my great love for her that I did it. She also assures me that I am right when I say that I would not do it again. Now I realize that if I were to take her life again I would die with her and son. Instead of using three sticks of dynamite I would make it 12 and the three of us would start life anew in that other world," he said.

Payne's son, A. D. Jr., was maimed by the blast that killed Mrs. Payne on the street here, and his life was despaired of for days.

A growing impatience at the failure of the grand jury considering Payne's case to return a verdict was noted tonight among citizens of the vicinity. Threats of violence caused the hurried removal of Payne to the jail at Stinnett shortly after his arrest. Guards, heavily armed, were on the alert for any attempts to wreak punishment on Payne.

Several more witnesses awaited the call of the grand jury and it was not believed a verdict would be returned before Friday.

SAM GOWAN'S HANGING ERROR

Vigilantes' Mistake Bared In Old Diary

"wicked dead," and explaining he wanted no mercy to be shown him.

With Dowd lingering between life and death, law officials decided to empanel a jury and try Gowan for murder. Edwards summed up the trial in these words:

"After a fair and impartial trial, a unanimous verdict that Gowan was guilty was returned and he was sentenced to be hanged."

The defendant was satisfied with the verdict, the diary said. He made the following last requests: That a letter be written to his folks "back East," telling them he met death "accidentally;" that the sheriff read a prayer as he was being hanged; and that he be put to death with his hat on.

After the hanging, Dowd showed marked improvement and finally recovered.

Edwards concluded his strange tale:

"Thus was a man executed for a murder he did not commit. But it was not Gowan's fault that Dowd did not die; neither the sheriff nor anyone else concerned in the affair lost any sleep over what had happened.

"It had a salutary effect on crime in Deer Lodge county for many years and if there were more determined men now who would administer such justice, crude as it was, there would be less crime today."

SPANISH HERO TO VISIT U. S.

Scarred Veteran Seeks Gallant Yankee

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, Africa, Aug. 28. (AP)—An arm shot off and an eye shot out, a bullet hole through his face and the scars of a hundred desert battles on his body, General Jose Millan Astray, founder of the Spanish foreign legion, is on his way to America.

He has been invited to Mexico as an honor guest by President Ortiz Rubio and the secretary of war, General Joaquin Amaro. He expects to reach Vera Cruz Sept. 1 on the Alfonso III, after a stop in Havana Aug. 30, and probably will reach New York Oct. 5.

The general would like very much to find in the United States a certain "Yanqui," one of many roamers and adventurers who at one time or another have chosen for reasons best known to themselves, to enlist under any name that pleased them in perhaps the hardest-boiled body of fighting men on earth—not excepting the French foreign legion; for the Spanish outfit prides itself on being, if anything, harder than the French.

Gallant Gesture

This "Yanqui" was lying wounded in a Spanish Moroccan hospital, and the wife of General Millan Astray, as was her custom, visited there and gave him a few cigarets, a smile, a pat on his forehead and a word of cheer. She did that to thousands.

"To 20,000, all in all, I dare say," said General Millan Astray, reminiscing. "But of all those thousands that Yanqui did something no other legionnaire ever did. When he could walk he went to the town market and, from his few coppers, bought a little bouquet of flowers and four pieces of candy.

"He limped out to my house and requested to see my wife. With great dignity, yet simplicity, he presented her the flowers and the candy.

Praises Yankees

"She was very touched. And I was—although, of course, I could never let him know so becouse of discipline. Only a Yanqui did, or could do, that. I should love to see that Yanqui when I am in the United States — but, of course, I never will. I do not even know his name, or whether he is alive.

"We have had fine 'Yanqui' fighting men in the legion. Some negroes have been especially notable—black men from the south of your country. They will fight, those men. I remember one who called himself Jack Johnson. Of course, he was not the prize fighter. I never had a better non-commissioned officer. I don't know his real name. All we ask in the legion is that a man be a soldier and indifferent to hardship and danger. We ask no other questions. But God help the man who thinks it is a place for weaklings."

Leader Honored

More than 15 years ago King Alfonso conceived the idea that Spain might well organize a foreign legion, on the lines of the French body of that name, in Spanish Africa. Millan Astray, then a captain of infantry, son of one of the most brilliant police officers of Spain, and with a fine army record, was selected to do the job, for 12 years he headed it, fighting African tribesmen. When, after many less serious wounds, he was one-eyed one-armed and full of lead and dagger thrusts spear gashes and saber cuts, the Spanish government did something it has done in modern times to no other of its officers. Instead of retiring him as physically unfit, it elevated him in the active army list—the highest honor that could be given this fighting man. He is an inspector general of the army, and honorary colonel of the legion which he made.

Highwaymen Secure $2,600 in Pay Roll Raid

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 28. (AP)—Twenty-six hundred dollars, drawn from a Baton Rouge bank this morning to cash pay checks of employes of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana by W. D. Talbert, merchant of Dixie, near the Standard plant, was taken from him shortly after noon today by two highwaymen after Talbert had been forced to accompany the pair for some 10 miles into the country.

Bodies of Two Men Found on Railroad

LIBERAL, Kan., Aug. 28. (AP)—The bodies of two men, one identified as James G. Tope of Kansas City, were found early today on the Rock Island tracks near here. Both were well dressed.

Indications were the men were riding on No. 12, eastbound passenger train, and that they fell or were thrown from a car.

TICK CAMPAIGN GETS RESULTS

Two-Thirds of Counties In Texas 'Cleaned'

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28. (AP)—Livestock in more than two-thirds of the 253 counties in Texas will be free of the tick and scabies menace by the first of the year if plans of livestock sanitary commission of Texas are carried to completion. The commission met in annual session today at the commission headquarters here.

J. A. Whitten, Eldorado, chairman of the commission, announced that 162 counties in the state now are "clean," every herd having passed inspection after campaigns of eradicating conducted by the commission. He said that the total of "clean" counties more than likely will be increased to 183 by January 1 when 21 other counties, already released from quarantine but still under surveillance of the commission because of one or more partially infested herds, are expected to pass final tests. Seven of the 21 counties have only one infested herd.

In the remaining 70 counties, the commission is now carrying on systematic eradication work in 32, while 38 of the counties are not doing systematic work.

Three Railroads Use Five-Day Week

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Three railroads with headquarters in St. Louis have put virtually all clerical employes below the rank of chief clerk on a five-day week with proportionate reductions in pay, it was learned today. The policy was adopted to prevent additional unemployment.

The railroads are the Frisco, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and the Wabash. The plan applies to some classes of clerical employes at division points and other offices.

The Missouri Pacific and the Cotton Belt have not adopted the five-day plan but the Missouri Pacific is understood to have been reducing its payroll gradually since last Jan. 1. Economy has been effected by the Cotton Belt through consolidation of departments, few dismissals having been necessary.

Sutton Stresses Part Of Education in Business

ATLANTA, Aug. 28. (AP)—Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, recently elected president of the national educational association, in a message to the organization today said "possibly the greatest need of America today is that business may understand what education is contributing to its success."

He asked that the business interests of the nation realize "that the greatest business of America is training and developing the personnel that shall guide and direct all the business institutions of the land."

Policeman Freed After Donating Car Load of Beer to Legion Party

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Declining to charge violation of the prohibition law against Charles M. Howell, New Orleans, a policeman, for escorting a truck load of beer to headquarters here of the American Legion, Edmund E. Talbot United States district attorney, today drew a distinction between beer manufactured for home consumption and that made for commercial use.

The patrolman, an officer in the American Legion, was guarding a load of beer carried to the legion headquarters where installation of officers was in progress. Howell was arrested but the truck driver escaped.

The district attorney was told Howell had made the beer at his home and was donating it for the celebration. The case, the district attorney said, "did not constitute a clearcut case of prohibition law violation as no criminal feature was involved."

"It is just as illegal to make liquor for home consumption as it is to offer it for sale," Mr. Talbot explained. "However, it is the policy of the prohibition department not to interfere in the manufacture of beer in which criminal features are not involved."

Pilsudski's Reply To Note Awaited

WARSAW, Aug. 28. (AP)—All Warsaw was curious today to see what might happen to Doctor Hofmokl, a major of reserves, member of parliament and noted wit, who has bearded the lion in his den by a letter to the fiery Marshal Pilsurski.

Pilsudski this week again became dictator of the country and denounced the members of parliament.

It so happens that the marshal is war minister as well as premier, hence Doctor Hofmokl wrote him a letter in the marshal's capacity as war minister asking instructions as to what to do about the "insults" directed at parliament by Pilsudski as premier.

The newspapers rely upon the marshal's sense of humor to make an appropriate reply.

BABSON SEES BETTER TIMES

Statistician Finds West In Fair Condition

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 28. (UP)—Roger W. Babson, widely known business statistician and stock market diagnostician, predicted in an interview today that business conditions throughout the country generally will be improved in the next few months. He declined to forecast conditions in 1931.

Babson, who has just completed a 10,000-mile tour of the West, stated that there is as much, if not more, money in the United States at present, but that it isn't being circulated. This has made business appear depressed, he said.

Conditions in the West, caused by the drouth, are not as bad as Washington officials believe they are, Babson said.

"We seem to forget that petroleum, not horse feed, is the modern barometer," he declared. "We seem to forget that we eat more fruits and less corn, and wheat products. Fruit is the other barometer. Today it's oil and fruit, and the West is overflowing with both."

The corn crop, he said, will be off about 25 per cent of normal with prices approximately 30 per cent higher than last year."

Parliament Called on Unemployment Problem

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 28. (AP)—A special session of parliament to take up unemployment relief has been called for Sept. 8 by R. B. Bennett the new conservative prime minister.

The session is also regarded as likely to take some tariff action, probably by enacting brief legislation affording more adequate protection for Canadian products. Such action might be in the form either of a flat tariff increase, provision for an advance on certain specified imports, or a general increase except on stipulated commodities.

Immigration to Canada Drops in Four Months

OTTAWA, Aug. 28. (AP)—Immigration to Canada for the four months ending July 31 declined 38 per cent from the same period for 1929. In the quarter 58,273 immigrants entered the country, compared to 94,214 in the same period last year. Immigration from the British Isles showed the greatest falling off. The movement from the United States showed only a slight drop in volume.

India Association Raps Disobedience

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 28. (AP)—The European association of India wound up a two days' session today with the recommendation that the Indian government take "drastic measures" to combat civil disobedience.

The association went on record also that "any further delay in the hope of creating a favorable atmosphere for the round table conference is not only undesirable but dangerous."

Resolutions which also approved the Simon commission report "in general principles" recommended further that adequate representation be given moslems and other minorities in the reconstructed legislature.

Criminologists Study Scientific Detection

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (INS)—Police chiefs, noted criminologists, federal agents and public prosecutors today continued their study of the scientific detection of criminals at the symposium being conducted at Northwestern university.

Inspector Ferdinand Watzek, eminent Viennese detective, today demonstrated the process of "moulage" developed in Europe for the preservation of evidence. The process consists of making casts of murder victims and other objects.

The casts, Watzek pointed out, are sometimes useful in vividly portraying for the juries the savagery of the crimes for which the perpetrators are being tried.

Strong Winds Hamper Forest Fire Fighters

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 28. (UP)—Flames driven by a strong wind, advanced toward the village of Upson today driving back forest rangers who fought in the timbered region south of here to save the town.

Despite the first heavy rain in weeks, the fire continued to make headway.

Rangers reported that unless they were provided modern fire fighting apparatus they would be forced to retreat.

Shovels and ploughs were the only weapons in the hands of fire fighters. Scarcity of water hampered the work.

NET CLOSES ON AGED FUGITIVE

33 Year-Old Murder Case Revived

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 28. (UP)—Assistants to Atty. Gen. J. Berry King today pondered the state's chances of returning Robert Atchison to Oklahoma from California to serve a life sentence for murder after having been a fugitive for 33 years.

A brother of Atchison informed Los Angeles officers that Robert Adkins is Robert Atchison, the fugitive.

John H. Lawson, assistant attorney general, prepared requisition papers asking the return of Atchison.

Adkins denies that he is Atchison and the burden of proof is on the state to show that he is Atchison, Lawson said.

Another complication in the case is the fact that Atchison escaped from the El Reno jail after his conviction on a murder charge but before his formal sentence to life imprisonment as provided in the verdict. The question of sentencing a man 33 years after return of the jury's verdict is expected to be raised.

The requisition for the return of Atchison is not expected to be signed before Tuesday, as Governor Holloway will be out of his office the rest of this week and Monday is a holiday.

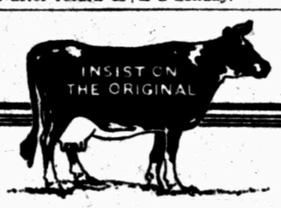

Injunction Halts Building of Dam

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—An injunction restraining the prosecuting attorney and members of the Camden county court and their attorneys from any further action in state courts in connection with the construction of the Osage river dam at Bagnell was granted in United States district court here today by Judge Albert L. Reeves.

A suit to condemn the Camden county courthouse, and jail and approximately 60 miles of county roads was filed in the federal court today by attorneys for the Union Electric Light & Power company, builders of the dam. A hearing was set for Sept. 25 before Judge Reeves here.

The prosecutor of Camden county last Aug. 11 obtained an injunction from the county court restraining the electric company from instituting proceedings to condemn the courthouse and county jail the sites of which will be inundated upon completion of the dam.

The courthouse and jail are in Linn Creek.

No mystery about why it checks loose Dandruff

If your scalp itches or burns, if your hair is thinning or you are troubled with loose dandruff, begin using full strength Listerine, systematically, as an antiseptic shampoo. Simply douse it on and massage the scalp as vigorously as you can.

Literally tens of thousands who have rid themselves of a dandruffy condition with Listerine, are simply amazed by the speed with which it gets results.

Yet when the facts are known there is no mystery about its success.

Many dermatologists claim dandruff is caused by germs. They successfully combat it with a combination of frequent massage and the application of healing antiseptics.

Full strength Listerine, as you know, is so safe and soothing it may be used in any body cavity. And at the same time is so powerful it kills even the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) and M. Aureus (pus) germs in 15 seconds.

At the first sign of dandruff, begin using Listerine. Simply douse it on the scalp full strength. Massage vigorously—moving the scalp itself—not the fingers. Results will delight you. But don't expect a miracle over night. It is important that you keep the treatment up, systematically, for several days, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry. Grant Street Methodist Class Has Pretty Party

Members of the D. O. D. class of the Grant Street Methodist church were entertained in a business and social meeting at the home of Mrs. John Saunders on Beverly Drive Thursday afternoon. Summer flowers made the home particularly attractive.

Mrs. H. A. Baker, class president, presided in the business meeting when plans were made for a doughnut sale on Sept. 17. In the social meeting Mrs. A. G. Kirby gave numerous readings. Ed Reeder sang several lovely numbers, accompanied by Miss Thelma Adams.

Delightful refreshments were served to Mesdames E. L. Shy, Miss G. M. Carson, A. T. Crump, Mary Scott, Ed Smith, D. A. Jones, G. N. Walker, M. W. Johnson, D. O. Waymire, Louise Oltman, H. A. Baker, C. W Thomas, J. J. Nipper, W. D. Smithson, L. G. Chiles, A. D. Kirby, Miss Thelma Adams, and Mrs. Saunders.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

That trip we make to the Memorial auditorium every day is a "dry one" when it comes to news. The auditorium force seems to be taking a vacation. But at that, we glean some things of which we like to talk.

We have told them individually that we regard them as a set knowing less news than anywhere we go. And almost to an individual, they tell us they are sorry they haven't a story for us.

Usually there is something to learn in the office of C. C. Bunnenberg, and though the latest news was just a program, we had more than a little pleasure looking over Mr. Bunnenberg's framed assortment of pictures of baseball teams for the season of 1930. One can tell there's a big place in his heart for boys.

Mrs. Chambers, his charming secretary, told us there were 33 teams in six leagues under the jurisdiction of the park department. Each team phones in the score and when a game is protested, all the players come to the office—which furnishes color in clothes and language we would imagine.

And as to Bill Ward—just get him to talking about the Boys' club. It warms the heart!

Mr. McBroom, city clerk, is feeling very poor for the city because the city has been told it would lose the S. A. F. E. line. The city sold them gas. Mr. McBroom, being just back from a vacation, looks anything but poor, however. But the city is trying to devise some way in which the line will still have the field here, so we have hope for our city clerk's feelings.

One man in the auditorium has false teeth. There may be others, but one of them told up a funny tale of a habit he has of clicking them so that it sounds like a horse on the pavement. He demonstrated for us and we did not blame the lady of whom he told us for rising time and again and going out to see if she really heard a horse. He thought that funny, but when, at the beginning of his acquaintance with the store-boughts he went into a cafe and called for milk toast and the waitress yelled "One dead man's stew," he was indignant enough never to go back.

With all due regard to the city manager, we wish he would talk to us sometime. Just as nicely and courtously as one posibly could, he says, "I don't know any news whatever." We never had a man treat us so.

Down in the home welfare and children's aid rooms, we see. Sometimes we feel that we have hard luck—until we go there.

The Children's aid has just placed two lovely little sisters in a home together and the members of the force were delighted that they did not have to be separated. They take as much pains—more sometime, than parents, to keep sisters and brothers together.

We saw a picture of one family of four all of whom Mrs. Snyder said she had the pleasure of bathing. She had to use two tubs of water and one of them, who was combed and dressed when she next saw him, she did not recognize. Then we saw another picture of one of the same family after he had been placed in a proper home and he looked a perfect little gentleman.

There's lots of bread cast upon the waters in Wichita Falls that will come floating back some day.

Currency, in the form of bank notes, was issued as early as the ninth century.

Work of Love One of Pleasure, Says Dorothy Dix

The other night I was listening to some one singing over the radio a popular song, the burden of whose refrain was:

"I Like to Do Things for You."

Why, I thought, that is the finest love song ever written. That is the real answer to the question: What is love?

All the other love lyrics I ever heard were full of sighing and dying, and billing and cooing and kissing, and yearns and heart throbs and moonlight and roses and red-hot passion and gooey sentiment, but nobody ever offered to do anything about it except lift up their voices in song.

That is dead easy. Words are about the cheapest thing in the world and the least valuable as evidence. Also they are the thing that we are readiest to give away. But doing things for another and getting fun and joy out of doing it because you care more for that somebody than you do for yourself, that is love. That is a proof of devotion strong enough to draw money on at the bank.

For it is love that turns work into pleasure when it is done for one whose comfort and happiness you put above your own. It is love that changes personal service from slavery into a high privilege. It is love that takes the sting and bitterness out of sacrifices and makes them sweet. It is love that makes us like doing things for you-oo-oo.

Watch a woman with her baby. It's messy. It cries and frets and whines. It goes from one piece of mischief into another. It pulls and howls at her and tears at her clothes. She is tired and worn and wan-looking from ceaseless work and worry over it and lack of sleep and you wonder how she can stand it, why she doesn't dump the troublesome little brat on somebody's doorstep, or donate it to an orphan asylum. You look upon her as nothing short of a martyr.

But the mother doesn't feel that way about it. She doesn't pity herself because all day long she is washing dirty little faces and fixing bottles and picking little toddlers off of the floor where they have bumped their noses and hushing their cries on her breast. She does not consider it a hardship that she is up half a dozen times a night covering restless little sleepers and giving water to thirsty little lips She doesn't mind being tied down at home with her babies, or doing without pretty clothes herself so that Johnnie may have a grand perambulator when she wheels him abroad and little Mamie may have real lace on her baby cap.

She is prouder of having her babies' arms around her neck than she would be of a matched pearl necklace. She gets more thrill out of walking the colic than she would out of dancing at a night club. She is more entertained by the babble of her 3-year-olds than she would be by the conversation of the wittiest dinner partner. Everything she does for her children is a pleasure because she likes to do it. But for this wonderful mother love that glorified her job not one of us would have been reared. Nobody else would have thought we were worth the trouble of bringing up.

And it is love that makes marriage worth while or not. Marriage is bound to be full of sacrifices for both men and women. Both must give up their freedom. Both must make concessions of their tastes and habits. Each must work for the other, and whether they get happiness or misery out of this depends on whether they like to do things for each other or not.

After marriage the average man is little more than an economic slave who must grind away day after day, month after month, year after year at his task in order to support his family, and for his labors he gets personally little more than his board and clothes. He has no time for pleasure jaunts, no money to indulge in personal tastes and whims. All that he earns goes for houses and cars and raiment and trips and college educations that he lavishes upon his wife and children.

It is love that gilds this lot and that makes him a prince among men, blessing the ability that enables him to make money so that he can make life soft and easy for his family. Lacking love he is nothing but a galley slave pulling at an oar with no reward to repay him for his labor.

For the man who loves his wife and children likes to do things for them. He likes to work that his wife and daughter may have pretty clothes, that his boys may have an education and a chance in the world that perhaps he did not have, and so the truest proof of affection that any man can offer a woman is not when he writes sonnets to her eyebrows, or swears impassioned vows of deathless devotion, but when he rolls up his sleeves and settles down to the steady grind of making her a good living.

And it is the same way with women. The woman who really loves her husband never moans and groans over having to pick up after him when he scatters his clothes all over the house and hang up the towel from the bathroom floor, nor does she consider herself a slave because she has to do with her own hands the work of feeding him and making him comfortable. She likes to do things for him. She enjoys giving him personal service, and when she stands before her gas range coking the things he likes to eat she has the thrill of a priestess ministering before the altar.

For nothing is too much trouble, nothing is a hardship, nothing is a sacrifice if done for those we care for. So the final proof of love is, "do I like to do things for you?"

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married for 15 years to the dearest woman in the world. She has been a good wife to me, but she is not of an affectionate disposition. For five years I have had an affair with another man's wife who fell in love with me. Now her husband has found it out and he has divorced her and left her penniless. She has a child which he let her keep, but she has no home and no way to make a living. Now I am very fond of this woman, too. The fact is that I love her and I love my wife and I don't know what to do. My wife is highly educated and is a good wage-earner and could support herself, while the other woman has had little education and never earned a dollar in her life. Which woman is my duty to?

—PETE.

Answer—Page Mr. Solomon! Your dilemma is too great for me to solve, though I think I am on the side of law and order and your legal wife if she still wants you.

However, I should think she would be glad to turn you over to the woman who cheated on her own husband. You two seem birds of a feather and at least neither one of you could reproach the other with your pasts.

—DOROTHY DIX.

MAKE THIS MODEL AT HOME
Stunning Frock for Early Fall
Pattern 2009
By ANNE ADAMS

The collar and scarf of the model sketched today express the very latest word in fashion to say nothing of the chic and beauty of the sleeves. If it were necessary to add grace to these details, the flared skirt joined in downward point would surely achieve that. A narrow belt of the fabric is buckled in front.

Pattern 2009 is exquisite fashioned of canton or flat crepe, dull satin, marocain or chiffon velvet. For immediate wear, georgette voile or shantung would be delightful. Seasonal colors are black, brown, green and blue. Or, if you wish, a print will be equally effective.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coin carefully wrapped, or stamps for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Our book of patterns for adults and children including transfer patterns is fifteen cents. Book with pattern, 25c. Address all mail and orders to The Record News Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Princess Killed in Automobile Accident

RAVENSBURG, Germany, Aug. 28. (AP)—Princess Marie Therese of Waldburg Zeil, 61, was killed today in a tragic sequel to a flight of German nobility aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin yesterday and today.

The princess died in an automobile accident as she and other members of her family who had been aboard the airship were returning from Friedrichshafen to the ancestral castle in Wurttemburg.

Her son, Count Constantin, lost control of the car on a sharp curve and it dashed down an embankment. He was unhurt.

Booth Tarkington Has Eyes Treated

BALTIMORE, Aug. 28. (AP)—Booth Tarkington, Indianapolis novelist, was a patient today at the Wilmer eye institute at Johns Hopkins hospital, but officials declined to confirm a report that he was seriously threatened with total blindness.

Mr. Tarkington underwent an operation in March, 1929, designed to save the sight of his right eye, and the operation was described afterward by Dr. William H. Wilmer as "a remarkable success."

Since then the novelist has come here for observation several times.

Nearly two years ago he abandoned his practice of writing manuscripts in longhand and began dictating to a secretary.

Buying of Postal Buildings Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (UP)—Investigation of the postal leasing situation in various cities has convinced Postmaster General Brown the government could save $10,000,000 in the next 20 years by buying more than 100 buildings now under lease, it was learned today.

Brown is planning to transmit to congress next December a list of the cities and sites where he believes it would be best for the government to buy properties now being rented. Meanwhile, the department is informally inquiring into prices of the properties sought.

The department spends annually $18,000,000 for rental of postal buildings.

New Orleans Man Is On Waterways Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Secretary Hurley announced today the appointment of William Pierce O'Neal, vice president of the Canal Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, to the advisory board of the Inland Waterways corporation.

O'Neal will fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of M. J. Sanders.

Jail Visitors Barred After Attempted Break

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 28. (INS)—Sheriff E. Frank Pine today banned all visitors from the county jail atop the courthouse here and started an investigation into the attempted wholesale jailbreak last night.

Open mutiny broke out as some of the 214 prisoners attempted to carry out a carefully laid plan to escape, but state troopers, armed with machine-guns and tear gas bombs, effectively checked the revolt before it was well started.

Why A&P prices for good food are low

A & P has millions of customers all over the country, and more customers are coming to A & P stores every day because they find there the good food they want at prices they know to be as low as is possible to a going business.

There is no secret about this. Like everyone else in business, A & P buys goods to sell them at a profit. A & P's unusual success is due to two facts:

(1) A & P buys the best wherever the best can be bought at greatest advantage to A & P customers; (2) A & P sells the best for only a little more than the best costs—plus selling expense. It can do both these things because so many people buy in its stores.

These people know that A & P passes on to them all the saving when prices fall at the sources of supply, retaining, under all conditions, no more than its regular profit—2½ cents in the dollar.

TRINITY CANAL WORK OUTLINED

Huge Project Pictured as Early Possibility

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28. (AP)—Approval by congress of the proposed Trinity river canal would involve the expenditure of from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 in making the river an adjunct of the inland waterways system of the nation, Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, executive vice president of the Trinity River Canal association, estimated in outlining the primary objectives of the organization to its directors here today.

The ultimate authorization of a sum of that magnitude, Miller declared, will depend upon the reaching of two objectives that face the canal association as a preliminary to getting the project actually under way. The first of these objectives, in his opinion, is to overcome any prejudice against the waterway proposal that may remain from an abortive attempt 25 years ago to make the river navigable. This can be done only by a nationwide educational campaign, he declared, while at the same time northern and eastern shippers must be convinced of the commercial advantages they would derive from completion of the project.

Part of System

Miller painted a picture of the Trinity river as a part of the so-called Mississippi system of coordinated waterways, and as an important adjunct to the water connections extending far into the northern and eastern part of the United States. The advantage that has resulted to Mississippi ports by the completion of other systems, he said, would be offset and the benefits distributed to other southwestern cities by digging the Trinity river canal.

"The plan must stand or fall upon the question of its commercial and industrial justification," he warned the directors, "But 25 years has changed the aspect and possibilities of Trinity river navigation. At that time it was considered a local project. Today it takes its place as part of the national waterways system, reaching a portion of the country that has seen the most rapid development during the last 20 years."

In giving the report of the executive committee, of which he is chairman, Amon G. Carter described the navigation proposal as "sound, practical, and economical." He predicted that opposition will be overcome, and that congress will be disposed to approve it, when its practicability has been demonstrated. He declared the canal not only would save money in freight and shipping charges, but would create business in Texas by inducing outside enterprises to locate here.

$60,000 Budget

His report made mention of the $60,000 a year budget adopted for operation of the association for the next five years.

Manager John Fouts said the plan has a better chance to succeed than ever before because of the assurance of plenty of water, a point in doubt when navigation of the Trinity was first proposed, because of more favorable laws, and because of the rapid development that has taken place in the Southwest. He pointed to the importance of connecting this section with the intercoastal canal by a similar waterway.

He said he hoped to have the report on the project ready to submit to the United States army engineers by Nov. 15.

The report of the nominating committee was made to the directors by Simon W. Freese of Fort Worth. The names of new directors submitted and approved are as follows: D. A. Nunn of Crockett; Joe Webb of Madisonville; Todd Robinson, Point Blank; L. O. Jackson of Livingston; E. B. Pickett of Liberty; Tom Dall of Huntsville; E. P. Harwell of Tulsa; Ben Critz of Dallas, and Lowry Martin of Corsicana.

Helen in Movies in Spite of Papa

The famous New York theatrical family of Cohan is going to crash the silvery gates of Hollywood whether Papa wants to or not. Helen Cohan, shown here, 19-year-old daughter of George M. Cohan, has just been awarded her first leading part in a movie in spite of the objections of her dad. "Daddy probably will be scandalized," Helen said. "He lives up to the older traditions of the stage. But I'm going to make my own way. And that's that."

HOBBY TELLS OF BIG LOSSES

Former Governor Explains Insurance Cases

HOUSTON, Aug. 28.—Former Gov. W. P. Hobby today issued the following statement:

"The unusual publicity recently given receiverships of the Security Union Insurance company and Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was, of course, for political effect. Because of my association with Mr. R. S. Sterling and the misconstruction political opponents would have given to same, I have waited until the campaign for governor was at an end before making a public statement concerning my connection with the companies.

"Thirteen years ago the Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was organized for the purpose of allowing those who carry compensation and liability insurance, to do so at a fair and reasonable cost, without profits ordinarily charged by stock companies writing this class of insurance.

"The Lumbermen's Reciprocal association was a mutual company, in fact, an agent for its policy holders, and whatever profit accrued to the association, after a commission of 10 per cent to Christie & Hobby, Inc., as managers, accrued to the policy holders in the form of dividends.

"The Security Union Insurance company was organized five years years ago to write compensation insurance and other lines so the policy holders could have the choice of a reciprocal or a stock company, and it was thought by Mr. Christie, and others associated with him, that it could be operated at little additional expense, and would help the Lumbermen's Reciprocal.

"The Security Union company had a paid up capital stock of $250,000 and a paid in surplus of approximately the same. It was also managed by Christie & Hobby, Inc., for a commission of 10 per cent on premiums received.

"The management of Christie & Hobby, Inc., was in the hands of Mr. George R. Christie, an experienced insurance man.

"During the time that I have been associated with Mr. Christie I have received from Christie & Hobby, Inc., a total of $148,000. I have received nothing from the Security Union company or Lumbermen's Reciprocal association.

"I now owe $178,000 because of a liability I have personally guaranteed of Christie & Hobby and an obligation I will have to pay for the purchase of stock in the Security Union company and instead of my having profited from the Lumbermen's Reciprocal or Security Union or Christie & Hobby, Inc., I have sustained a large personal loss.

"I have had nothing actually to do with the management of either of said companies, my interest having been confined to 35 per cent of the capital stock of Christie & Hobby, Inc., the other 65 per cent being owned by Mr. Christie, in whom I had full confidence, and who was in active charge of all of the business of said three companies—the Security Union Insurance company, Lumbermen's Reciprocal association and Christie & Hobby, Inc.

"I am issuing this statement in order that the people of Texas may have the full and true facts about these companies and my connection with same."

'Bake Own Bread' Chairman Legge Tells Housewives

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (INS)—Those housewives who object to "profiteering" on bread at 9 cents a loaf with the price of wheat at rock bottom prices were advised today by Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the federal farm board to "bake their own bread like their mothers used to do."

He declared there is no evidence that flour mills have benefited from the depressed wheat price. The millers, he said have maintained a normal stabilized price, and out of every dollar, only 39 cents is chargeable to "laying down the wheat from the farmer to the baker." The rest, he explained, goes for baking and distribution costs and profit.

"Some people of course do not like home made bread, but the remedy against profiteering lies with the consumers themselves. As for me, just let me get my teeth in a piece of home made bread."

Dusting by Planes

SAN FRANCISCO—Airplanes are being used extensively in dusting crops in the state with insecticides. One company alone reports dusting 1,500 acres of citrus fruit, using 126,400 pounds of sulphur for exterminating citrus thrips, and the dusting of 24,342 acres of grapes.

U. S. URGED TO SAVE LEGUIA

Michigan Professor Points To Constructive Work

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP)—A suggestion that the American government act to protect the life of Augusto B. Leguia, deposed president of Peru, was advanced by Prof. Jesse S. Reeves of the university of Michigan at the round table on Pan-American problems at the institute of politics today.

He declared such action would be "out of respect for and appreciation of a man, who, in spite of his faults, accomplished more for the development of Peru during his 11 years in office than is to be found in any similar period of its history."

He said since we would be acting upon humanitarian motive, "it is not likely that the tender of our good offices would be construed as an act of intervention."

In the round table conference on limitations of armaments, Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, chief of staff of the United States fleet, said the United States should join the league of nations "as the only logical means of taking a positive action towards the stabilization of world peace."

The preventive and security provisions of the league covenant are its most important features, he said, and "these features have been obscured and their importance discredited in public opinion by the league's insistence upon disarmament as its most immediate and urgent undertaking."

He pointed to the achievements of limitation of armaments at the Washington and London conferences as forming "the most potent influence working toward the preservation of peace and future reduction of armaments."

Yusuke Tsurumi, former member of the Japanese imperial diet, told members of the round table conference on the Far Eastern situation that there "is no reason why the three major naval powers cannot work out a new concord in which a new China policy should be formulated," if the growing desire of the new Democracy of Japan is clearly understood. "For Japan's own existence as well as for the peace of the world, this concerted action is essential," he declared.

Workers Trapped Nine Hours by Mine Cave-In

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 28 (UP)—Trapped for nine hours beneath tons of slate and rock in a mine cave-in, William Williams, 54, and Ralph Masson Kiel, 25, employes of the Glen Alden Coal company, were recovering today from their harrowing experience.

The men were trying to shore up the sides of a cave-in which had wrecked two homes and injured a woman, when the sides of the hole began to slide, trapping the workers.

Skipper of Freighter Goes Down With Ship After Saving Crew

By DAVID P. SENTER

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—They were looking wor the body of Captain Eber Estes today to give him a true sailor's burial.

Estes went down with his ship, the freighter Neches, after saving his 24 men rescued after a collision with a steel scow in the narrows off Fort Wadsworth.

Imprisoned behind a tangled mass of tons of iron pipe dislodged by the crash, the gallant skipper ordered off the ship the last 10 members of the crew who attempted to free him.

Edward Carey, chief engineer, told how he tried to unmesh the captain from the network of knotted rigging and the pile of iron pipe.

"He told me to never mind him but to look out for myself," said Carey. "The ship was sinking fast. He said 'goodbye'—and then I jumped.

"When the crash came the skipper didn't look out for himself. He was everywhere seeing that all the men were getting off."

Police launches and coast guard vessels picked up all the members of the crew.

Virgil Lowe, 20, of Key West, Fla., one of the youngest sailors, didn't remember swimming.

"I was so excited I don't remember what happened," he said. "I found myself in a police launch with my clothes soaking wet and that's all I know."

H. L. Driggeris, of Tampa, Fla., another crew member, said:

"When the collision came I was thrown to the deck. I ran to my bunk and grabbed a couple of shirts and my fountain pen which my girl gave me. Then I jumped."

James H. Stanley, of Plant City, Fla., said he lost everything he had. "I didn't have any clothes on when we were hit but that didn't stop me from jumping," he said.

The Neches sank in 30 minutes.

She was bound with a cargo of machinery and merchandise for Tampa, Key West and Mobile.

'For Sale' Sign Is Fate of Last Manhattan Farm

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UP)—The last farm on Manhattan Island is for sale.

In the shade of the subway trestle at 213th street and Broadway Mr. and Mrs. Joe Benedeto hoed silently in their plot of vegetables, the size of a city block. Over their heads was a large sign: "Entire block for sale or lease."

To the south, the advancing skyscrapers loomed in the haze. Benedeto shook his fist at them. The chickens huddle together when the subway roars overhead.

This last farmer on Manhattan has a well-ordered plot of corn, beets, spinach, tomatoes, string beans, carrots and cabbages. There are no crows to raid the garden, but street urchins are worse.

"Things have not been good for farmers this year," she said. "All my corn has been dried by the sun and prices are low. Yes, it is better that my husband go into an office."

Spencer Bank Bandit Charged With Holdup

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 28. (AP)—Bryan Keene, 23, was charged with robbery with firearms here today after E. S. Poole, cashier of the Spencer State bank of Spencer, had identified him as one of the two men who robbed the institution two weeks ago. Poole was shot in the arm during the holdup.

HUGE UTILITY CONCERN SOLD

American Service Company Bought by Kansan

SALINA, Kan., Aug. 28. (AP)—Purchase of the American Service company, an ice utility serving 54 cities in 13 southern and middlewestern states, for $18,000,000 was announced today by the Nathan L. Jones interests of Salina.

Ninety-three plants are involved, including those at Austin, Texas, and Shreveport, La.

The American Service is divided into three groups, the Mid-Continent with headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., the Southeastern having its operating base at Atlanta, and the Southwestern, with main offices at Houston, Texas.

The groups will be maintained under the same management, with Nathan L. Jones as president.

In addition the Jones company operates electric, gas, telephone, water and ice services in 325 cities. The Jones interests were valued in an announcement at $45,000,000.

Business Goes To The MODERN Store

Stores that are modern in appearance compel people to notice them. They invite more business.

To be modern, a store building need not be new. Many shabby, old-fashioned stores can be converted into attractive, business-inviting establishments quickly and economically. An exterior facing of cast stone or light-tinted stucco, a rearrangement of window space, an attractive terrazzo floor, a new colored sidewalk—such changes will make an astonishing improvement in any old store.

Such improvements as these not only draw more customers, but they increase the value of the property, lessen the fire hazard and lower the cost of maintenance.

If you would like to know more about modernizing, write to us direct or consult your building material dealer, architect or contractor, any of whom can help you with such further information as you desire.

Perseus Roosevelt Faces a Medusa
Legal Robin Hoodism
Aimee's Sad End

By E'TILE GAUVREAU

The superseding of District Attorney Crain by Attorney General Hamilton Ward in the Ewald graft probe shows that Governor Roosevelt is determined to get at the truth, whatever the cost. The truth will probably be ugly, and many faces will turn to stone at the sight o fit. But it is better that the face of the Medusa of bench corruption is revealed than draped. If Roosevelt is a good Perseus, he will know how to cut off her head without endangering his own, which is a great trick if you can do it inside of Tammany circles.

New Zealand, coping with its own unemployment problem, has decided to tax workers $7.50 each, to help those without work. Robin Hood, who used to take from those who had and give to those who had not, would dance a jig in his romantic grave at the news, if it could penetrate to him. For the New Zealand tax is nothing other than legal Robin Hoodism.

A similar tax on all those earning more than a living wage might not prove so unpopular here. Approached in the right way, people are generous. Robin Hood was not despised. He was loved. A tax of $7.50 or $10 would not strain too much the quality of mercy. In helping to overcome a national crisis it would, indeed, bless both the giver and taker.

Aimee McPherson, who supposedly serves God, evidently does not serve nature. As a result of having her face lifted, she suffers a nervous breakdown from which, it is reported, she is losing her sight in Los Angeles.

The evangelist is more concerned about her personal appearance than the precepts of religion. More interested in getting an item about herself in the newspapers than expounding an item in Deuteronomy. Now she pays the price for her vanity. She tried to serve two masters at the same time and failed. When she is no more her disciples will be the first to forget her. She made a racket out of religion.

Dr. Melvin Grove Kyle, director of an expedition to Palestine, says he has identified the house where Lot defended the angels. He says he can also fix the time of Abraham, linking his arrival in Canaan with the rule of Nebuchadnezzar, who waged war against Canaan.

Stamped jar handles, dug up from the mounds near Hebron, used as tax receipts by King Jehoiakim, also help to fix the period, about 2,000 B. C. It helps to support the biblical accounts. There is no reason why men who wrote so well in Bible times should not have written truthfully. The Bible is an historical document of priceless value, not because of its prophecies and exhortations, but because of its record of vanished peoples, their ethics, their ideology and their beliefs. Whether you are a worshiper or not, read the Bible.

Bernt Balchen, famous Norwegian flier, who helped cover America with glory, will get his United States citizenship, even though he was away from his country in the antarctic for a long time. He will be the kind of citizen America can present as a high type.

Auto Driver Charged With Death of Girl

HOUSTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Edward Holstine, 20, alleged driver of an automobile that struck and killed Marguerite Moore, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore of Freeport, was charged today with negligent homicide. The accident occurred about 11 miles from Houston.

Holstine said he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming machine.

The History of Steel

AMERICAN history is usually written around the careers of certain famous men. Study the biographies of such men as Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt and you will have a very fair notion of the things that have happened in your country's life.

There is another method of approach, however, that has not been exploited yet. By tracing the development of certain industries you could do the same thing in quite as interesting a way—and, at the same time, turn up a lot of facts that the traditional method overlooks.

This thought is provoked by Samuel Crowther's remark, in the current issue of World's Work, that sometime during the present year this country produced its billionth ton of finished steel.

The remark becomes more stimulating when Mr. Crowther goes on to say that it has taken since 1810 to make that much steel, but that more than half of the total has been accounted for during the past 12 years.

Trace the history of steel production, from the making of that first ton back in 1810 to the present day, and you would have a very fair picture of the development of the nation.

At the beginning you would see a thinly-settled agricultural land struggling painfully to industrialize itself. You would see it using foreign capital to do it, dotting the eastern landscape with small mills, slowly pushing its way west as the tremendous iron deposits of Michigan and Minnesota began to come into use. You would see the emergence of great industrialists, and as the industry grew to greater dimensions the influence of the financier and the promoter on the country's industrial life would become clear.

The history would explain the development of Pittsburgh, of Gary, of the Mahoning Valley, of Great Lakes transportation. It would give a picture of the industrial renaissance in the "new south," around Birmingham. A thorough-going discussion of "Pittsburgh plus" would contain many significant facts affecting all the rest of the nation.

So, too, would the story of the last dozen years, when more steel was produced than during the entire preceding century. To explain the reasons for that amazing increase in production, the historian would have to enlarge on the new uses for steel—the automobile, the skyscraper and so on. He would come down to the present great development of the steel pipe business, which will have a very profound influence on American life during the next few decades.

All in all, a history of steel would be a very fair history of America. It might miss some of the battles and some of the "statesmen," but it would give us most of the essentials.

Why the Farmer Suffers

THE FACT that the diet of the American people has undergone a sharp change during the last 15 years is seldom emphasized enough when the plight of the farmer is discussed. A recent bulletin from the American Bakers association shows just how that dietary change is related to the current agricultural depression.

Henry Stude, president of the association, asserts that a return to the old-time diet, with white bread back in its traditional place of preeminence, would increase the domestic consumption of wheat by 130,000,000 bushels a year—thereby boosting the price that the farmer would get.

Before the war, Stude points out, the average American consumed 5.30 bushels of wheat a year. During the war a great propaganda campaign induced the nation to eat less bread. When the war ended the war-time habit persisted. Today average annual per capita consumption of wheat is only 4.26 bushels.

Why We Like Dirigibles

ONE of the British newspapermen who made the round trip across the Atlantic on the dirigible R-100 writes that the whole trip was reminiscent of Rudyard Kipling's fanciful tale—written a couple of decades or more ago—about transatlantic airships. There was the same sense of drama, of romance, the same feeling that the old science and tradition of the sea had been transfigured by being put into an entirely different setting.

It is that fact, probably, that makes most of us rather hope that commercial transatlantic airship services will eventually be established. We don't care much whether they would be time-savers; they would be very thrilling, and that is enough for us. Whenever the imaginative fiction of one age can be translated into the reality of the next we are all the gainers. That probably goes far to explain the general public enthusiasm for dirigibles.

Speaking of Dr. Butte

A WASHINGTON dispatch reads as follows: "Doubt that Dr. George C. Butte, Republican gubernatorial nominee in Texas, will make the race was felt in political circles here today." Why should the worthy doctor butt his head against a stone wall? He is the holder of a very high and lucrative government position. If he resigns he would be be leading a hope that isn't even forlorn. It would be an impossible hope. Now Texas Republican leaders are said to have selected Col. William Talbott of Dallas at the head of a list of candidates who will be considered by a Republican convention in Texas. Col. William Talbott is a World war veteran who has led many forlorn hopes of a political nature. If drafted he will accept. He never runs away from a fight.

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

An Elegy on a Lost Lover

(Just a week after the final blow.)

Beloved Rogue: Sometime ago your Cleveland nurse wrote—and although I do not recall entirely what it was she decried, I think it was the fact that she merely existed, did not really live at all. May I add that the whole thing struck me as being only a circumlocution through which to indicate that she wanted not life—just lots of mazda and People—people who mattered. She's all wrong there—it is not people who matter, it is Persons who matter.

You gave her, if I recall correctly, the old bunk about Broadway being just a trail of broken bottles and cheap mink coats, about people who just pretend they are enjoying it all, about the yellow sun and the green grass being everything, how everybody really wants to live in the country and raise chickens, etc.

Well, I don't know whether or not it worked, but see if you can give me some good advice. First, I'll tell you what I want, and what I once had, and then I'll tell you what I have now. I think that's the simplest way out, don't you?

Here's what I want. I want to lean over a table top and hear somebody say, "Why are your eyes so blue? And your lips so sweet and your hands so white?" And I want to look up and drown deep in a pair of dark eyes, and to hold on to the edge of the table to keep from sinking, and say, "And what makes your hair so black, and your teeth so white, and why do I adore you so?" And I want to see the amused glance of the waiter in Riggs', and I want to say, "I want anything you want, anything at all."

And to feel myself pouring out in harmony with his soul, and to feel each beat in his blood as well as in mine, and to sway, and to hear him say, "Honey, isn't it marvelous," and then to sit and wonder for the rest of my life how marvelous that we two, of a whole world of people, had been thrown together, and to say, "I wonder just how many times I have passed you, going in and out of trains, and I wonder what pulled me toward you in that store?" and so on.

And I want to ride in the subway with him and hear him say, "I don't like the way that villain in the gray suit stares at you. Shall I tear his eyes out," and to answer back, "If you'll help me with that female in the black dress, who can't seem to be able to tear her eyes from you, although I must admit I don't blame her." And to hear him say, "Gee, Honey, I never met a girl like you before, you're different," and to hear him say, "and I won't ever have to meet a girl like you, because I'll have you for ever and ever, and then because I seemed to feel something pulling, I'd say, "Yes, even if forever only means—only lasts two weeks with us," and to hear him say, "Don't speak like that, Honey," and then to answer, "We won't let it drag, we'll just break it off like that, you know, sharp-like, so that there won't be any ragged edges, nothing to cheapen it."

Can you understand that, sir? And if you can, don't you think I want to have the thrill of standing up in the subway, next to him, and to wish the fat woman next to me would push hard, and when she finally did, I'd find my nose some place between his chin and his shoulder, and I'd like to have something funny happen in the train, where it would be a breach of manners to laugh.

He always said, "You know that it's not lust, don't you honey? You know that!" And of course I know it, because I wanted to know it, and because I was so dizzy about him, and I'd give anything in the world to hear him say again, "Now I know it was with Paul and Francesca, now I understand how Dante felt about Beatrice. Honey, that's just the way I feel about you," and then to come home in the evening and to weave a fairy tale about some position I had tried to secure, and to feel so delicious, because I was lying, and to simply hibernate till the next time I saw him, and to never even wonder about what I would do without him, because I knew it was impossible.

That's what I want. And now I'll tell you what I have. A friend who told me not to believe him. But she was bitter and disillusioned, anyway—All alone, that's what I am. I work now—have a fairly good position, and hate it—and every morning I long for the night—and every night I just walk and walk—and look my very best, because otherwise would never do, if I should happen to meet him, you know—and look into the eyes of everyone who passes—and always walk on disappointed.

Have you ever looked for something and not known what it was? Have you ever felt you must do something and hear some beautiful music—and melt into tears at the first bar? And because the lights looked so friendly, and welcoming, and because so many people walk there, walked on Broadway—up and down, from 42nd street past the Roxy theater—and then back to 42nd—and then to ride home again on the Bronx train—have you ever?

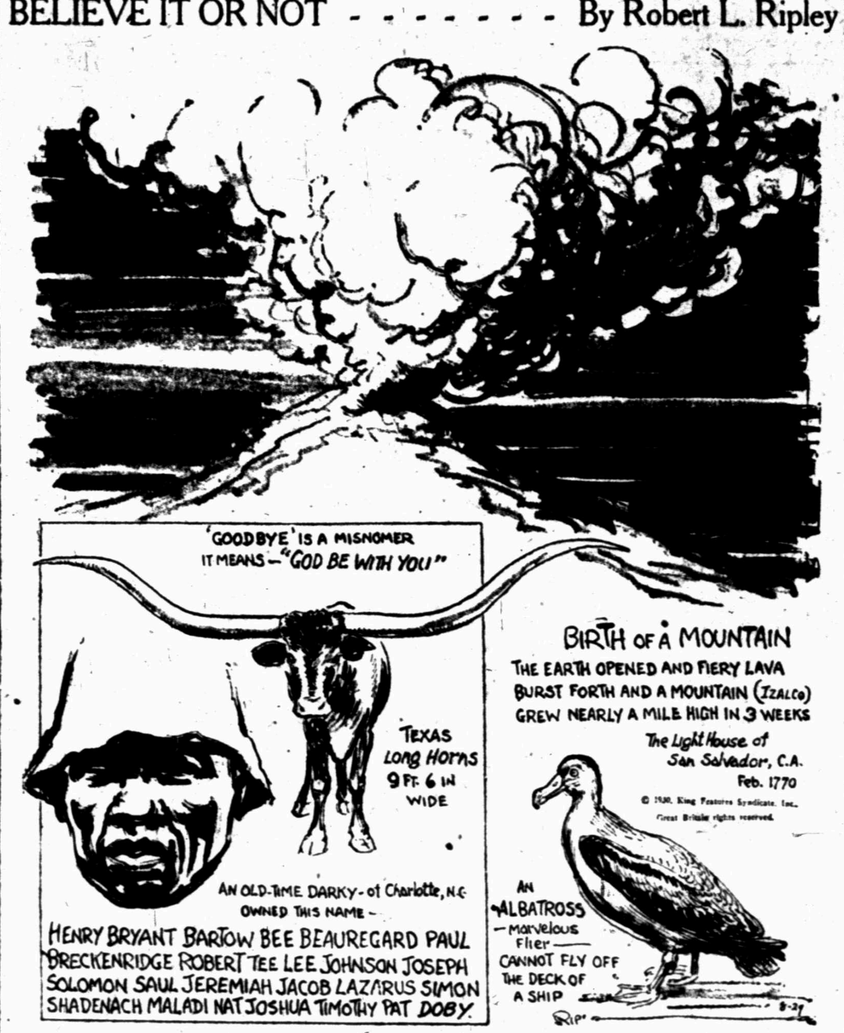

And to just walk miles and miles and wonder if anybody can understand—and if I'd ever meet that person, and wondering if it was really because I loved him so, or because he'd been the first to get tired—when I'd always been the one to do that before—and why did it have to happen to me, instead of anybody else, and why in connection with him rather than any one of the other fellows I ever knew and didn't care for that way, or maybe I'm getting a taste of my own medicine, but I bet nobody ever took it so hard before in the world—nobody at all.

And then I'd make up my mind to answer the very next pair of smiling eyes and broad shoulders, because I am of the type that must be wildly enthusiastic about somebody or something every minute of my life, or it all becomes a blank—and then, saying to myself, "Well, it's just as well I let him pass. He might have turned out to be stupid, anyway," and all the time I know he isn't stupid, not at all. Or when I sit in the subway and look at some ugly girl, sitting with her boy friend, and think that even if she is very stupid, still she's enjoying herself more than I probably ever will again, and how come I had all the luck, and sometimes I see some handsome chap in the subway, and I compare him with my past future, and he always suffers by the comparison, and then I always feel so sorry for myself, and wish I—shall I go over all that again?

What does Doctor Winchell, the great Medicine Man, suggest? What does he offer as advice for the young lady who just walks and walks, and walks and walks—in an effort to recapture the charm, or perhaps forget, those other walks. And why do my eyes fill up so when some idiot gets up and sings "I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You"—or the other silly little songs that never used to tug at my heart when he was Mine?—J—— S——.

Why, er—you simply—you merely—what I mean, my dear is that you must simply try to—er—er—you go along and try to—er—er—oh, you know what I mean. You, er, mustn't listen to that sort of song, and you should try to—you should try and—dismiss it. That's it! Dismiss it! Dismiss it from your mind. I'm sorry if I haven't made myself clear, but you know what I mean, don't you? I mean that you should—er—er—.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

After months of searching for a clew to her identity, Kay Smith recalls everything at sight of Larry Nettleton, her husband. Kay, in love with Dane Talbot, remembers that her true name is Karen Mayhew. Grief-stricken by the suicide of her father, but faithful to her promise to marry Nettleton, Karen had fled on her wedding night to New York City. Alone in the strange city, she had been knocked down by a car and was unable afterward to recall her name.

CHAPTER XLIII

When she told Doctor Raleigh her story later, he nodded. It conformed his theories at last. For he had thought from the very first that Kay's memory had not been taken away when Mrs. Talbot's car struck her. That was contributory of course. But there was something else he felt; something which had happened before.

Her father's suicide was the obvious thing. The fright it gave her to find the body. The shock of that preying on her already delicate nerves. Her subsequent marriage, which subconsciously she did not want to go through with. Everything taken together caused the aphasia. Her lonely life, her being craving love, companionship, affection. Denied these things which were so essential.

Her father suspecting nothing of her feelings, knowing nothing of this girl who was his daughter. Rather afraid of her, too, Doctor Raleigh thought, for he, too, evidently had led a lonely sort of life. Trying to adjust himself to home life. Failing.

If there had been more confidence between them, the confidence Kay wanted, had to have, both of their lives would have been different.

He knew from what Kay said that hers had been an imaginative childhood. There were always the dreams of when she should have a home, when she would live with her father. Gorgeous, girlhood dreams, that faded when she finally went to the home he had bought for her.

Perhaps in his heart Ralph Mayhew had loved his child dearly, but did not know how to express his love, as a man does not who lives for a long time alone. He had spent years building up a fortune, only to lose it in the end. He blamed himself entirely, but was weak enough to take his life when he met defeat.

This diagnosis, however, came later. Just now, Kay opened her eyes and found herself staring at Larry. His feet were still tapping the floor. She had no idea what time it was, how long she had sat in Doctor Raleigh's swivel chair, oblivious to everything but the past which she was recalling.

The doctor was still holding her hand.

"You remember?"

"Everything—"

"Karen, why did you leave me?" Larry burst out. He had been waiting so long to talk to her. But that confounded doctor wouldn't let him. His eyebrows drew together in a frown.

"How did you find me?" Kay asked without answering his question. She was thinking of how he slipped her wedding ring on her finger in the registry office when they were married. The kiss he had given her in the car going back to her home.

"I just caught the boat. As I got on, the gang plank was raised," Larry said. "Of course I went immediately to our stateroom. You weren't there, but I thought for a while that you were on deck. I didn't notice at first that your bags weren't there. My bags were, so I imagined some of them might be yours. I don't know why. I was so sure, I guess, you were out on deck. Well, I searched for you for a couple of hours, and then began to get worried. I inquired all over the boat. No one had seen you get on. It was about 9 o'clock when I began to send frantic radios—for I knew by then you hadn't boarded. I had to go on—because the boat wouldn't stop, unfortunately, to let me off until I got to Cuba. I took the next boat back to New Orleans. No one knew where you were. You hadn't bought a railroad ticket any place. Detectives found out that for me. You had taken none of your clothes with you.

"I knew you'd never been in the North, since your childhood, so I didn't dream you'd go there. I thought of everything. Suicide, kidnaping. The more I thought the more I decided you had—killed yourself, like your father—"

Kay shivered, and drew her hand from Doctor Raleigh's. She didn't need his aid now.

"Well," Larry went on. "I searched and searched, still thinking you were dead. I notified all the authorities, but it did no good. You weren't to be found.

"Yesterday I met Randy on the street. Alton Randy. You remember him? One of your father's friends. He had just got to the city from New York. They were abroad for a long time, you know. He told me his wife was ill—that he had had to rush her down to New Orleans from New York, because when she had her heart seizures this doctor in New Orleans was the only one he'd trust.

"He didn't know we were married—hadn't seen anyone to tell him. I was about to tell him when he mentioned very casually that he had seen you in New York, in a night club. In fact under very peculiar circumstances. And he didn't know your address or where you were living.

"He said he was so upset with the illness of his wife that he didn't think to ask you where you lived. Moved out of the hotel that night, and took the train with Mrs. Randy for New Orleans.

"Of course I took a plane right up here, and when I couldn't find out where you were, thought of going to the police, the missing persons department. On a chance they sent me up to St. Luke's hospital, and the hospital gave me Doctor Raleigh's address. If it hadn't been for Randy, I never would have found you. It was sheer luck as it was, thinking of the missing persons bureau, and finding that a girl of your description had been registered there. Don't know why the detectives I had on the case didn't think of New York. I was paying them enough, but they didn't get very far."

The scent of heliotrope—Kay remembered. Mrs. Randy had given her a bottle as a gift, when she admired the older woman's perfume.

"Karen, I can't understand why you left me—"

"We won't bother her about that now," Doctor Raleigh hastily ejaculated.

Karen—the name didn't seem her own. Larry calling her Karen when she had been called Kay for so long.

"You understand that Kay—Karen, I mean, is my patient. And I'm responsible for her," the doctor continued.

"Of course. And please give Mrs. Nettleton the best of care."

Mrs. Nettleton! The name struck the girl sharply. Mrs. Nettleton. The first time she had been called that. She remembered what she had written on the paper on her desk—before Larry came. The name she thought was to be hers. Mrs. Dane Talbot . . . The paper was torn up, in the waste basket now.

The man who was her husband, sitting on the chair opposite her. Her husband. Mrs. Nettleton she was, although she had dropped her wedding ring through a crack in a station platform. She didn't even remember the place. It made no difference now . . .

"She's able to travel?" Larry asked Raleigh.

"She's strong physically, but this shock—"

"When will she be able to travel?"

Travel? Travel where? Then Kay knew. Larry wanted to take her with him. Go with him back to New Orleans. She was his wife . . . He expected her to go with him.

What about Dane? Their plans. He would be coming back soon—and she would have to tell him.

"I don't know," Dr. Raleigh hesitated. "It's up to her—"

"I'm anxious to get back. My business. I left it in such a hurry. And the sooner I get back the better," Larry spoke brusquely.

Raleigh's lips pursed, and his eyes behind his spectacles were enigmatical.

Kay wondered why she didn't love Larry. Never had loved him. He was handsome. The first time he had come to her father's house, she had instinctively disliked him. Disliked the cock-sure attitude he had, the hardness about him, the lack of sympathy she found in him. But love—she could never love him. Never. Not so long as she lived. Why did you love some people, and dislike others? Dislike others you should love?

Her husband. She should love him, and she didn't.

If he had waited after her father's death, she would have been thankful, glad. But rushing things the way he did. Insisting on being married at once . . .

He was like a stranger to her yet. A stranger she did not completely trust . . .

A rap at the door, and Dr. Raleigh called "Come in."

Dane's face, smiling when he saw Kay. Mildly curious at the man in the chair.

"I'll talk to him," and Dr. Raleigh hurried to the door, which closed abruptly behind the two men.

Kay was alone with Larry. Dr. Raleigh was telling Dane. Telling him she was married. He had come for her, as he said he would.

Two College Students Die in Plane Crash

ROCKVILLE, Ind., Aug. 28. (UP)—Two college students were killed near Turkey Run Airport, north of Rockville, when their plane crashed from a low altitude. An inquest was scheduled today at Madahallon.

Albert J. McKee, Terra Haute, student at Purdue university, and Leland Burford, Indianapolis, Indiana university medical student, were definitely identified as the two youths killed.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J HASKIN

This is a special department devoted to the handling of inquiries. You have at your disposal an extensive organization in Washington to serve you in any capacity that relates to information. Write your question, your name, and your address clearly, and enclose two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What king was known as "The Fowler"?—B. N. G.

A.—Henry I, chosen German king in 919, was called "The Fowler."

Q.—What does the title, Cavaleria Rusticana, mean?—T. W.

A.—In English it would be Rustic Gallantry.

Q.—How many American officers were killed or wounded in action during the world war?—A. W.

A.—Officers killed in action, 1655; died of wounds received in action, 559; wounded, not mortally, 6471.

Q.—Where is the statue erected by women to a woman?—C. O'B.

A.—There is one in Fredericksburg, Va., erected by women of America to Mary, mother of George Washington. It was dedicated May 10, 1894.

Q.—Is there such a mineral as virgin platina?—C. A.

A.—The bureau of mines says that practically all platinum recovered in the world is native platinum which is the same as virgin platina.

Q.—What happened to the Mexican who shot President Calles?—A. A.

A.—Jose de Leon Toral, who shot President Calles, was found guilty and was executed by a firing squad at Mexico City penitentiary, Feb. 29, 1929.

Q.—Was David Garrick an Englishman or a Frenchman?—L. K. O.

A.—David Garrick was an Englishman, but he was descended from a French family named Garric or Garrique of Bordeaux, which had settled in England on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

Q.—What kind of guns could be used for big game hunting in Africa?—F. D. M.

A.—The National Rifle Association of America says that for elephant shooting a .375 Mauser rifle is generally used, and that for other game the common weapon is either a model .54 Winchester or a Springfield sport rifle with a 30-06 cartridge.

Q.—Please give a translation of the Greek inscription on the Parthenon Stone in the Washington monument.—P. G. D.

A.—A translation is: "George Washington, the hero, the citizen of the new and illustrious liberty: The land of Solon, Themistocles, and Pericles—the mother of ancient liberty—sends this ancient stone as a testimony of honor and admiration from the Parthenon."

Q.—What are the five strongest animal hairs? Vegetable fibers?—C. D. T.

A.—One authority suggests the following order for vegetable fibers: Abaca, henequen, ixtle, ramie, hemp. For animal hairs, Matthews gives the following order of strengths for equal cross sections: Alpaca, Saxony merino, mohair, Northumberland, Australian merino.

Q.—Is it true that it costs more or takes more energy to bring an elevator down than it does to send it up?—J. H.

A.—The bureau of standards says that it is not true that it costs more or takes more energy to bring a loaded elevator down than it does to take it up. The reverse is true. Elevators are usually provided with a counter-weight equivalent to the weight of the car plus a third of the rated load so that in the up direction the motor, neglecting friction and windage, must lift two-thirds of the rated capacity of the car. With full load in the down direction no energy is used except to bring the car up to speed. When the car has attained its rated velocity the motor acts as the generator and returns energy to the system.

Q.—When was the English East India company formed?—L. R. A.

A.—In 1599 the Dutch raised the price of pepper from three shillings to six shillings per pound, and in September of that year the merchants of London banded together for the purpose of joining a company to direct trade to the Indies. The East India company was granted a charter by Queen Elizabeth in 1600, and was first called "Governour and Company of Merchants of London Trading with the East Indies." In 1698 William the Third incorporated the "English Company Trading With the East Indies." The two were amalgamated in 1708 under the title "The United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies," commonly called "Honorable East India company."

The Record News Offers A Booklet on the School Child's Health

Children may not like to think of it, but vacation is almost over and school time is at hand. Parents must give thought to it and one of the first questions that confronts them is, "Is my child fit to attend school?" The answer to this question is one of the gravest of parental responsibilities. Clothes, shoes, books, bags and lunch boxes are the usual considerations, but the routine of going to school has a new and more important side to which parents have previously paid too little attention—the health of the child. Children should be prepared for school as carefully and completely as soldiers are got ready for war.

The booklet, The School Child's Health, prepared by the American School Hygiene association, with the cooperation of the American Red Cross, should be in the hands of every mother.

That Body Of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

Another Point About Food in Epilepsy

The usual method of teaching physiology is to compare the body to a machine or steam boiler. Coal is the fuel for the steam boiler and food is the fuel for the body; each giving heat and energy.

However, food not only gives heat and energy but it also gives growth to the child.

And the big difference is that the coal never becomes a part of the steam boiler, whereas food not only gives heat, energy, and growth, but actually becomes the tissues of the body—the body itself.

Now with the ordinary healthy body practically all kinds of foods may be eaten, but if anything goes wrong with the body, then not all foods are suitable, so that certain foods must not be eaten.

For instance, for years it has been known that starches were not good food for diabetic patients, that salty foods should not be given to patients with kidney ailments. On the other hand cod liver oil was found to be excellent food for children suffering with rickets, and that fat in the diet had been found to help greatly in preventing attacks of epilepsy.

However, one point has been overlooked by some physicians in their natural enthusiasm in the use of fats in these epileptic cases.

"During the period of active growth in boys and girls, there is normally a storage of protein in the form of new tissue, and a positive nitrogen balance is established in the body." This is absolutely essential to health. The usual protein in the diet is one part protein (meat and eggs), two parts fat (milk, butter and cream), and four parts vegetables and bread.

Now in feeding cases of epilepsy the rule has been to cut down on the starches and increase the fats, leaving the protein foods (meat and eggs) one part, fats three parts, and vegetables one part.

However, Dr. Irvine McQuarrie has investigated this nitrogen balance (obtained from meat and eggs), and says that it is not obtained for the body unless the supply of meat and eggs is really doubled in the diet of young epileptics.

This means then that the average healthy youngster needs one part meat or eggs to two parts fats, to four parts vegetables and bread, and the one subject to epilepsy should really take twice as much meat and eggs daily.

Mothers should remember that some protein food, meat, eggs or milk—animal foods—should enter into the daily diet of their youngster.

It is discoveries such as this that make us realize that we are to a large extent what our food makes us.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

League President J. Alvin Gardner had not rendered a decision on the protested Beaumont game when this col. went to the printer late Thursday afternoon, and it appeared unlikely that a ruling would be had before Friday morning at 9:42 o'clock, when the 36-hour time limit on a ruling of this kind expires.

The league prexy was, as everybody knows, out of the city. Hizzoner Mr. Gardner is called out of the city at the most exasperating moments.

Meanwhile Spudderland was offering its opinions, pro and con, on the protest. When news of it first reached here there were many who thought it downright silly. There has never been a nine-inning tailender to a double-header in the Texas league in the memory of most of us, they reasoned, hence Skipper Williams' protest sounded like the squeal of a youngster who has been rapped on the pantaloons for spilling applesauce on the new parlor rug.

But after sleeping on the matter and giving it sober thought, many others finally woke up to the fact that old Carl had used his head. It was the umpire's duty to call on the managers and ask if an agreement had been reached to play seven innings. There was nothing of the kind done at Beaumont Wednesday. No agreement whatever. The unwritten law of Texas league baseball undoubtedly made Carl aware that nine-inning nightcaps were unheard of in this country, but the rules had not been followed, and he figured he had a perfect right to file a protest.

Had he been in the lead at the end of those seven innings he certainly would not have thought of continuing the game the full nine innings. And it is a matter of conjecture whether Del Baker, manager of the Exporters, would have thought of entering a protest as Carl did.

It seems a little foolish, but it cannot be denied that the rules are all in favor of Carl, and that the Exporters should be forced to forfeit the game. The rules expressly state that where a club refuses to finish a game once started, they shall forfeit to the opposing team and pay a fine of $50, if it is the home club, and $100, if it is the visiting club.

The Exporters refused to finish a game that should have gone on for nine innings, according to the rule book, because no agreement had been made, according to the rules, to play a seven-inning game. Therefore they are subject to forfeiture of the game and a fine of $50.

Thus read the rules. Carl's protest is based entirely on technicalities. It sounds like a defending attorney reciting his claims for a new trial before a superior judge. As a matter of common sense, Carl knew that second game wasn't going to go for nine innings. But he saw a technical loop-hole through which he might retrieve a lost game, and took advantage of it.

And was it cowardly? The only answer to that is, that if the Exporters had been in the rear instead of in the lead, Del Baker probably would have filed the same kind of protest. That is, if he had thought about it.

The real cause of this squabble is not to be found in the actions of the managers, but solely in the umpire's negligence in not calling a conference of the managers before the game, to decide, as is customary, on the length of the second contest.

A Real Vacation

Thomas L. Davis, agent of the American Railway Express agency here, returned Wednesday from a jolly vacation, spent in Minnesota, where he hauled fish from lakes and rivulets and between spells took on a little American association baseball.

The fishing, said Mr. Davis, was great; but he couldn't say as much for the baseball. All of which goes to prove, once again, that after watching these Spudders in action, you are absolutely spoiled—all other teams seem flops.

Mr. Davis watched Minneapolis and Indianapolis stage a double-header in the former city.

"And I never saw such a worn out bunch of ball players in my life," said Mr. Davis. "They were all old fellows, discarded by the Major leagues, and I believe I could run as fast as the whole bunch of them. None of them showed the pep the Spudders do.

"And I was disappointed in the way they handle baseball up there. Minneapolis is a big city, and yet their baseball park can't compare to ours. The stands looked like they would fall down any minute. And the park was the smallest, dinkiest thing you ever saw. Larry Bettencourt could hit a home run in that park every time he went to bat."

Mr. Davis couldn't see much in our northern friends. In fact, said he, "they don't look much like men to me. Little, dried-up hump-shouldered fellows . . ."

Gridiron Stuff

The sports scribes over the Plains are now writing about their football teams. Memphis, says Adrian Odom in the Memphis Democrat, looms as a strong contender in the interscholastic league race this year. He's collected some facts on the team's prospects, as follows:

"The Memphis High Cyclone has all the prospects of having one of the best football teams in the Panhandle this year. Nine letter men are expected back in the lineup for Coach Walter to build his team around. The position at center and one halfback position will have to be filled with new men. At least 40 men are expected to report for practice next month.

"J. D. Jackson and J. W. West will be back in the lineup at the two end positions, and Jewel Meacham, a Turkey letter man, will probably work at the same position with the Cyclone. With Jackson and West back, the Cyclone will be assured a fast working, good pass receiving combination.

"At tackle, two letter men are expected to be back in the harness. "Tug" Sanders and Gerald Kunkler will hold these line positions in the same manner as they did last season. Both are big men, and they will be able to show good

BAKERMEN GET ONLY 4 HITS

Burns and Bettencourt Get Home Runs

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 28.—Milt Steengrafe breezed through to a 5 to 0 victory for Wichita Falls over Beaumont this afternoon, limiting the Bakermen to four scattered bingles as his Spudder buddies bunched their socks at timely moments. Guy Green went the route for the Shippers. A homer inside the park by Burns with one aboard featured the first round splurge of three runs, with Bettencourt picking up homer No. 42 in the seventh frame. Only two Shippers reached as far as second base. The game was reeled off in one hour and 15 minutes. Score:

CATS WIN AGAIN

WACO, Texas, Aug. 28 (AP)—Fort Worth won another stormy game from Waco in the ninth when Stoner again went to the rescue. The score was 7 to 6. Joe Bonowitz hit a home run with one on after two were out for the Cats in the ninth. In the Cub half, the first two hitters up singled, and Waco got both men to second and third but Lil Stoner rushed in and held Waco to one run to win the game. Score:

HOUSTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—With the bases loaded in the sixth, Hunt, who had been in a batting slump, dropped a single into short right field scoring two tallies that enabled Houston to beat Shreveport tonight, 4 to 3. Whelan made a great try for the ball and almost robbed Hunt of a bingle. The game was a mound duel between two old warhorses, with Payne getting the verdict over Tuero. Score:

DALLAS 5, INDIANS 3

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Dallas pounced on Cottey for four hits and three runs in the second inning, followed with another two-run barrage in the fourth, with a superfluous tally in the fifth, and beat San Antonio tonight, 5 to 3. The Indians garnered only six hits off Adkins, scoring one each in the third, fourth and fifth. Score:

Spudders Upheld in Beaumont Protest

But Prexy Causes Jam in Delaying Decision

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—When Wichita Falls protested the second game of Wednesday's double-header, which Beaumont won 3 to 2 in seven innings, the Spudders started something.

President Alvin Gardner officially notified Umpire Dominique and Manager Del Baker of the Exporters this afternoon to play the game out but the messages were not received by either party until they had returned to their hotels after today's game.

President Gardner is now called on to decide whether the disputed game shall be ruled no contest or a forfeit to Wichita Falls, a decision which may bring comment from other contending clubs.

The issue is further muddled by a telephone message received by Bob Rudd, secretary of the Beaumont club, from Gardner's secretary during the eighth inning this afternoon. From Wichita Falls Rudd was advised that Gardner had ruled the game to be played out. Rudd said he asked Gardner's secretary "what would happen if the game wasn't played?" and was told that "he (Gardner's secretary) supposed it would be ruled no-contest."

This information conveyed to Rube Stuart, sitting in the stands, brought a decision from Stuart not to play the game. He stated that he believed the game had been fairly won yesterday and that if anything further was done about it, Gardner would have to do it. Just before today's game ended Umpire Dominique had a telephone query sent to his hotel asking if a telegram had been received from Gardner. It had not and the time on the message later showed that it had been received in the Beaumont office at 5:34 p. m., which was 10 minutes after today's game had ended and the players left the field.

Manager Carl Williams of the Spudders had protested that he had not entered into a mutual agreement to play the nightcap seven innings and that nothing was said about it. Baker contends that when he took the batting order to Dominique before the game he met Levey, Spudder shortstop at the plate with the Wichita Falls lineup. Baker says Levey obviously was serving in this detail as manager and that he said to Levey, "This is seven innings, you know," and Levey replied, "Hell, yes; we belong to the union." Baker says Dominique and Catcher Hugh Wise heard the remark.

Protest Muddle Caused by Failure Of Telegram to Arrive, Says Price

Milton Price, secretary of the Texas league, Thursday night explained that the cause for the delay in instructions to Beaumont officials in regard to the protested nightcap of Wednesday's double-header was due to the failure of the Beaumont telegraph office to deliver a copy of the official protest to the Beaumont president.

Skipper Carl Williams filed the official protest to the Texas league offices here Wednesday night about 9:30, Price said, leaving a duplicate copy to be delivered at once to Rube Stuart, Beaumont prexy. The Beaumont telegraph office overlooked the local telegram and didn't deliver it until 3:30 Thursday afternoon. At that hour, said Price, the Beaumont club received its first notification that a protest had been made.

Then the Beaumont club wired its answer to the protest to the league offices here, Price said, it being received at 5:07 p. m. Thursday. Instructions that the protested game should be played out were then wired to Beaumont, but the message arrived too late. Thursday's game was already over.

The muddle will be cleared up today, Price said.

Longhorns Held Eligible to Compete In State Baseball Tournament

Protests among baseball teams apparently being the order of the day, the contentions of a group of sandlot players in the city were aired before an arbitration committee at the Memorial auditorium Thursday afternoon, while Beaumont and Wichita Falls authorities were placing their views on the Beaumont protest before J. Alvin Gardner and his aides.

The argument among the sandlot players concerned the question of the eligibility of the Panhandle Refining company Longhorns, city champions, to participate in the state championship tournament at Dallas sponsored by the Texas Amateur Athletic federation.

Courtney Flies Protest

According to a rule of the federation, if players on a team entered in the state meet were signed after July 15, the team is ineligible to compete for state honors.

Tom Courtney, manager of the Dixon Motor company team, which was eliminated by the Longhorns, claimed that the Longhorns were ineligible to enter the tourney at Dallas for the reason that the champions, with three other teams, organized the Twilight City league after July 15. The organization of the Twilight league followed a ruling by Kroger Stokes, president of the federation, that teams in intercity leagues could not represent a city in the state tournament. The Longhorns at the time were in the Wichita Valley league. In order to get around the ruling, the Longhorns, with the Star Transfer company, the Texas Electric Service company, and the Continental Oil company, organized the Twilight league, thus making themselves eligible for competition for the city title.

The formal protest was filed about a week ago. C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent, wrote the federation president, placing the question up to him. Stokes replied, placing the final decision with Mr. Bunnenberg. The latter decided to place the protest before an arbitration committee composed of William E. Huff, president of the Spudders; A. W. King, Spudder vice president; Al Parker, Daily Times Sports editor; and George Merkle.

And That Ended That

The committee Friday afternoon voted that since the Longhorns had been playing together all season, and since the letter of the federation rule had not been violated, the team should be eligible to enter the state competition.

The Longhorns won the city championship title in a play-off this week in taking two straight games with the Texas Electric Service company team of the Merchants league.

Speed Boats Given Last Minute Trials

DETROIT, Aug. 28. (AP)—The three speedboats on which Gar Wood will depend to meet the most formidable challenge yet made against his right to hold the Harmsworth trophy, were given additional tuning up spins on the Detroit river today. Meanwhile scores of watercraft, ranging from the little dinghies that are part of the equipment of a commodore's yacht to the large cruiser type, assembled on the river to open tomorrow a five-days' regatta.

Tomorrow's card will be devoted entirely to preliminary heats of lesser events, with the first 30-mile race for the Harmsworth trophy set for 5 p. m. Saturday. The second race of the Harmsworth event will be raced Monday afternoon.

Following a somewhat different practice than Gar Wood, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs, the British challenger, has been conserving the motors of her two boats, Estelle IV, and Estelle V. They have been driven at full speed perhaps less than an hour, although there have been numerous tests with their Napier engines throttled down.

In the event the first two Harmsworth races are divided between Great Britain and the United States a third race will be held Tuesday. Tuesday will also see mile trials for new world speed records by the Harmsworth entries.

GOLF MEET IN SEMI-FINALS

Four Women Play Today In Western Tourney

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28. (UP)—Four seeded women golfers, survivors of a field of 150 stars from west of the Appalachian mountains will compete tomorrow over the Hillcrest Country club course here in the semi-final round of the 1930 women's western golf tournament.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion and medalist, will play Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., star. Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles, runner-up in last year's tournament, was paired with Mrs. Miriam Burns Tyson, Kansas City former national and western titleholder.

Mrs. Hill, shooting the same brand of sub-par golf that won the tournament medal honors with a 75 over the par 82 Hillcrest course, today defeated Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, 3 and 2. Although Mrs. Lee played brilliantly, she trailed the champion from the first green Her putting was ragged and Mrs. Hill slowly amassed a lead that the Chicago star could not overcome. Mrs. Hill shot a 41 on the out nine, Mrs. Mida, a 45.

Only One Upset

The only upset provided by the fourth matches came when Miss Page eliminated Miss Virginia van Wie, Chicago, an international team player, 2 and 1 after a bitterly contested match. Miss Van Wie made her bid for victory on the 12th hole when she cut the Madison, Wis., player's lead to one up.

The Chicago star halved the 13th and 14th but Miss Page rallied to take the 15th and increased her margin to two up. The next two holes were halved, ending the match.

Mrs. Lifur, playing the brand of golf that has made her one of the leading feminine stars in the country, experienced little difficulty in defeating Miss Betty Bruen, Kansas City, 4 and 3 on the 12th green. Miss Bruen, competing in her first major tournament, battled for each hole but could not offset the brilliant shots of the California star.

Mrs. Tyson eliminated Miss Florence Beebe, Chicago, one up. Miss Beebe, two down at the turn, rallied and with the score against her four down and four to play, won the next three holes. She conceded the match to the Kansas City player on the 18th green, however, when Mrs. Tyson had a certain four and her third stroke was far from the cup.

Mrs. Hill was favored to win her second consecutive Western championship. The final match of the lower bracket, with Mrs. Lifur matching strokes with Mrs. Tyson, drew the greatest amount of interest.

Both Steady Players

Both Mrs. Lifur and Mrs. Tyson are experienced, steady players. Their styles of play, long drives, deadly approaches and consistent putting, are almost exact. The outcome was conceded to be a toss-up.

The long, hilly Hillcrest course was in excellent shape. The fairways, dry from the recent drouth, promised long rolls for wood shots and the greens have been rolled for the semi-finals.

The finals will be played Saturday.

Vanderbilt Will Oppose Lipton

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28. (AP)—The honor and responsibility of defending the America's cup rested gracefully tonight on the shoulders of Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the enterprise, which has been selected to meet Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger, for the famous of all yachting trophies.

Enterprise's three unsuccessful rivals—Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, Weetamoe, the Morgan Nichols, entry, and Whirlwind, the Throne-Hammond boat—repaired to boat yards today while Vanderbilt went aboard Enterprise to supervise tuning up the defender, which he hoped would retain possession of the cup won from England in 1851.

On Sept. 13, he must take her out on the ocean course to meet Shamrock V, and he is going about his task seriously and intensely. Vanderbilt has an enviable reputation as a bridge player. One play, the Vanderbilt convention, was named for him. His opponents long ago learned to know him as a dangerous foe.

Throughout the various trials of the four cup candidates, Enterprise was consistently the best sailed. Probably her crew was imbued with Vanderbilt's own favor.

Baltimore Youngsters Defeat New Orleans, 5-4

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 28. (AP)—Baltimore's contingent of fast playing youngsters came from behind to defeat New Orleans 5 to 4 here today in the first game of the American legion junior world's series. Three successive singles in the 10th and a bunt sent Baltimore's winning run across.

Metcalf Family Buys Three Bales of Cotton

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—In line with Governor Dan Moody's "buy-a-bale of cotton movement," C. B. Metcalf, vice-president of the Farmers' Marketing Association of America, Mrs. Metcalf, and their son, Primrose, a state representative, bought three bales of cotton today. They paid 15 cents a pound and plan to hold the bales until the price reaches 20 cents, they said.

Browns' Veteran Third Sacker Sold to Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28. (AP)—Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, announced today the outright purchase of Sammy Hale, veteran third baseman from the St. Louis Browns. Turner said Hale would report immediately.

Coyote Squad Goes Through First Hard Workout Like Crew of Veterans

A little pack of Coyotes spent its first full day of learning how to snarl Thursday, when Coach Barry Holton put the candidates for the Wichita Falls High school gridiron machine through a strenuous workout. The drill started early and lasted late, the 30 aspirants being put through the grind both morning and afternoon.

Though the feeble yelps of the youngsters betrayed them as fledglings, their bared fangs, and the determination they showed easily gave them the appearance of veterans at the game.

Spring Grind Helped

The small squad, divided into two teams, went through team practice late in the afternoon, executing trick plays with precision. They looked anything but like raw recruits, due principally to the rigid training given them early in the spring by Coach Barry Holton. Thursday's team drill awakened in the lads the fundamentals drilled into them in the spring training grind, and soon the plays were being reeled off with but few blunders noticeable.

The morning was spent in calisthenics and instructions in fundamentals, with Holton and his assistant, Bill Morris, presiding at the skull sessions. A little field work was completed during the morning, but the majority was left over for the afternoon.

The practice session was witnessed with much interest by Brick Lowry, of 1517 Monroe street, star center for the high school team back in the early '20's, and now football coach for the Huntsville, Texas, high school. Lowry expects to leave here early next week to begin his coaching duties at Huntsville.

Another spectator with more than usual interest was Jerry Elliott, left half on the Coyote regular team last year. Elliott, who graduated in June, will enter the University of Texas this fall.

Veterans Show Way

With Coach Holton shouting his instructions, the squad began its work Thursday afternoon with practice in passing. Some of the boys, chasing down the field, exhibited the expected inability to get their hands on the ball, while Bob Daugherty, B squad backfielder last year, and J. B. Holton, fullback in the early stages of the 1929 season, showed their fellows the way. Holton is regarded as the makings of the first string fullback or half this year. He is regarded as one of the best blockers on the squad.

With C. L. King and Willard Wilkins alternating at center, the squad gave Chick Holden and Raymond Allen a period of punting practice later in the day. Holden, only letter man to return this year, showed his old form in sending the ball spiraling down the field.

Team drills followed, with Hamlin Rugeley, left half, and Malcolm Mauldin, right end, on one of the teams, completing a nice pass for one of the features of the afternoon.

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Aug. 28.—Only four letter men from the 1929 football squad will report for practice Friday evening. They are Alfred Ragsdale, Harrel Preston, Garland Smith, and Milliage Hall. Other members of the squad are Dale Johnson, Billie Henderson, Leo Salyer, Euel Hurd, Vincent Goodlet, and Walter Marley.

Coach Jessie Johnson is expecting many new members, who will be out for the team.

RATTAN MEETS CARR TONIGHT

Grapplers Booked for Show At Athletic Park

"Silent" Rattan, Kansas City welterweight, and Charlie Carr of New Orleans will meet in the feature match of the evening on tonight's wrestling card at Spudder park. Silvio Checco Reno and Red Rogers of Oklahoma City, and Jim Coefield of Kansas City and Al Mercer of St. Louis will perform in the semi-finals.

The Rattan-Carr bout will be a finish match.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Grid Teams to Play

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28. (US)—For the first time in football history, Pennsylvania and Ohio State are to meet in football.

A two-game home-and-home series was announced today. The first game will be at Franklin field here, Nov. 12, 1932, and the second, at Columbus on Nov. 11, 1933.

CARDS WHIP CUBS IN LONGEST GAME OF MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON

The Rambler's Corner

work in these positions. With one year of experience behind them, they should be able to break up many well executed plays.

"Exell Champion and Curtis Bourland will both be back at their guard positions, and are expected to stop many well meaning halves before they get to the line. The center position is weak, but two new men are expected to fill it in good football manner. They are Blanton Bagwell and John Smith, both substitutes from last season.

"The backfield will be light, but fast, this year. James Hammond, captain, will play his fourth year at fullback and will probably do all the passing for the team. Albert Pearson will probably pilot the team. Bob Phillips may return to his halfback position, and the others may be filled by W. F. Britton, Carl McLear, Charles Flanery, Regnal Greenhaw and Harry Womack.

"Coach Walter has worked out an array of fast plays that will be fitted to the light backfield. When the Cyclone goes on the field this fall, they will show speed rather than hard plunging in their attacks, and will resort a great deal to their passing combination. This arrangement of plays will add greatly to the color of the countests."

The Breckenridge Situation

There has been much speculation in the Oil Belt on whether Dave Graham, stellar half of the Breckenridge machine last year, will be eligible to play this year. There was a conflict in records giving the date of his birth, one of them placing his age within the limit, and the other placing him above the age limit and hence ineligible to play. The matter will have to be taken up by the district's committee and decided upon.

Meanwhile scribes in that area are giving their opinions. None other than Blondy Cross, former scribe of these parts, gave his verdict recently in the San Angelo Evening Standard, as follows:

"Wes Hodges, the Breck scribler, retains hope Dave Graham heavy half back and one of the finest interference runners the interscholastic league has known, yet will be proclaimed eligible for the 1930 Oil Belt competition. During the forepart of the summer it was announced the Breckenridge mentor had given up ideas of using Graham this year following unearthing of a berth record or something similar to effect Graham would be a few months older the impending fall than the league's 20-year rule, allows. It seems school records show Graham will be 20 along in December and thus eligible since the 20-year deadline is Sept. 1. An Albany birth certificate places his natal date in July, which if correct has him going on his 21st year of life now. Just why Hodges retains the hope we do not know. However, it would be a shame to curtail the high schol athletic career of this sensational youngster at this stage of the game. He cannot graduate from high school until either the mid-term or at the end of the spring term in 1931. Declaring him ineligible will force him into athletic idleness for a whole school year before he can move into what looms as a great college career. Should the matter come down to the question of the Oil Belt executive committee determining his eligibility, if there is any possible chance at all to conscientiously declare him eligible, the committee should do so, and we feel that San Angelo's representative, although we have not intervewed him on the case, will vote in his favor. That is, if he conscientiously can do so. If it is anything like a case of a toss-up between this record and that record, one in favor of Graham, the other against him, we fel sure the San Angelo representative will vote in his favor. Also, there is little doubt under the same circumstances but that R. D. Green, the Abilene school superintendent, will vote to declare the boy eligible. The case as put before us seems as knotty as the one Old King Solomon was confronted with and is similar to the proposition that confronts a baseball umpire in almost every game. In the baseball umpire's case, the rules say if it looks like a tie, give the runner the advantage of the doubt."

CONTEST GOES FOR 20 ROUNDS

St. Louis Crowd Takes Decision, 8 to 7

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals outlasted the Cubs today in the longest game of the major league season, winning, 8 to 7, in 20 innings.

The Cardinals grabbed a five-run lead early in the game, but the Cubs tied it up with seventh and eighth inning rallies. Each club scored twice in the 15th then fought on until St. Louis broke it up in the 20th. Score:

PIRATES WIN TWO

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates drubbed five Cincinnati pitchers for 30 hits today, taking both games of a double-header, 16 to 12 and 11 to 2.

Though the Pirates did the winning, Harry Heilman of the Reds was the batting star of the day, hitting two home runs in the opening contest, one in the fifth with the bases full and one in the first inning with one on. A double, also in the first game, gave him a total of seven runs batted in and three scored himself. Scores:

ROBINS 8, GIANTS 7

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins smashed through the Giant's defenses in the sixth inning today and made their way into second place by scoring seven runs in that frame for an 8 to 7 victory in the second game of their series. Dazzy Vance managed to go the route for the Robins although the Giants hit him hard and effectively.

Athletic Commission Suspends Two Boxers

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28 (UP) —Ace Hodkins, Nebraska "Wildcat" and Jack McVey, New York negro middleweight, were indefinitely suspended by the state athletic commission late today.

The action followed disqualification of both boxers during a recent 10-round bout in Los Angeles and the referee reported he had stopped the bout because in the 10th round he heard one of the fighters say to the other, "this your round."

RED SOX BEAT ATHLETICS, 2-1

Lisenbee Allows Champs Only Six Hits

BOSTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Lisenbee held the world champion Athletics to six hits today and the Red Sox won the first game of the series, 2 to 1. All the scoring was done in the seventh inning. Philadelphia went into a short-lived lead in the first half when Regan muffed Simmons' grounder and Foxx tripled to left field. In the last of the seventh, however, the Red Sox scored twice on Webb's single, Miller's double, and an error by Foxx at first on a thrown ball. Score:

INDIANS 10, CHISOX 5

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28. (AP)—Wesley Ferrell, young right-hander, today ran his victory string for the season to 23 and his consecutive wins to 12 as the Cleveland Indians won a 10 to 5 decision over the Chicago White Sox, in the third game of the series. Chicago won a double-header yesterday. Ferrell was hit freely at times, allowing a dozen hits, but his mates gave him a five-run lead in the first inning and kept on pecking away at the offerings of Young Ed. Walsh, who succeeded Dutch Henry in the opening round, to make the victory certain. Score:

Poloists to Meet In Final Tests

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP) — The battle for the No. 2 position on the American polo "big four" will be carried into the final test match Saturday at the Meadow Brook club.

The return of Earle A. S. Hopping to the varsity fold yesterday was regarded as a forerunner of his selection for the No. 2 post but two other candidates, Elmer J. Boeseke, Jr., of California and Herbert W. (Rube) Williams of Texas, will be given final chances Saturday to show what they can do.

Boeseke will ride at No. 2 for the first four chukkers, Williams for the last four, while Hopping will perform at the same position on the "red" or reserve combination.

Boeseke's trial is a recognition of his sensational play for the "reds" in yesterday's test match at Locust Valley. Of further significance in the week-end polo schedule, is the fact that Williams and Boseke will also divide the No. 2 position on a team picked to play the British Internationalists at Port Washington Sunday.

TILDEN AND HUNTER BEATEN

Lott and Doeg Go to Final Round

BROOKLINE, Aug. 28. (AP)—History repeated itself here today when hard-driving George Lott and Johnny Doeg, defending champions in the national doubles tennis tourney, gained the final round again by defeating those wise old veterans, Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, in a sparkling five-set match, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Tilden used up most of his stamina in rushing to Hunter's rescue during the first four sets and when the finale rolled around he was so tired the champions blasted both of his services and clinched the victory early.

Lott and Doeg must upset Johnny van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis cup doubles team Saturday to retain their title, for those Wimbledon champions gained the last bracket with a four-set victory over another Texas-New Jersey combination, Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin, by scores of 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

The defending champions' struggle with Tilden and Hunter was an extremely tense affair. All four players were in top form and their thrilling rallies and well-executed strokings delighted the largest gallery of the week.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet today with an early decline under selling in response to relatively easy cables, followed by rallies on covering in the absence of any material increase in offerings from the South. After selling off to 11.31 under the early pressure new October rallied to 11.45, and closed at 11.40. The general market closed steady net 2 points higher to 2 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 9 to 14 points, with active months selling about 10 to 14 points net lower during the early trading.

The new December sold up from 11.16 to 11.62, while March advanced from 1.72 to 11.89, making net advances of about 2 to 5 points. Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under liquidation or realizing by some of the early buyers.

Stock Prices Hold Fairly Firm Despite Pre-Holiday Influences

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—The holiday influence began to be noticeable during today's stock market. Nevertheless, prices held reasonably firm with perhaps an equal division of gains and losses at the close. To a large extent the transactions represented evening up by professional traders who were disinclined to carry commitments over the extended week-end. It was evident, however, that persistent demand existed for pivotal issues on all setbacks. The demand was not on a heavy scale but about equal to offerings. In a few groups more aggressive buying was evident, this being especially noticeable in the mail-order stocks and at intervals in some of the public utilities. There were no new external developments which would stimulate dealings and lacking this the session reflected primarily professional activities. Volume lessened considerably. 1,400.000 shares changing hands compared with over 2,000,000 shares on Wednesday.

Strength in the mail-order stocks was particularly cheering, in view of the recent fears that buying power of the agricultural community had been materially affected by the drouth. Sears-Roebuck was an outstanding feature, rising 4½ points on continued buying for the account of interests close to the company. The management of Sears-Roebuck is understood to have informed its friends that in their opinion the company had turned the corner. Montgomery Ward followed in sympathy with Sears-Roebuck and its strength was accepted possibly expressing satisfaction with safety of its $3 dividend. Directors of Montgomery Ward are understood to have an open mind on the dividend question, preferring to await general trade developments for guidance on the dividend action. Woolworth was another retail issue to share in the strength. This company is among the first to reflect increased public buying.

Leading stocks were inclined to remain within a narrow range. Steel common closed unchanged for the day after milling around for a few points. There is considerable uneasiness in financial circles as to accuracy of recent estimates on steel mill operations. Railroad shares as a group held relatively firm, Bangor & Aroostock responding with a 1½ point gain to announcement that prominent bankers hold a sizeable block of its stock. Baltimore & Ohio attained par but the buying was light in reflection of the uncertainty regarding continuance of the $7 rate. This dividend, however, depends almost entirely on business trend of the next month or so. Specialties and other recently active stocks such as Radio, Warner Bros., Radio-Keith held within narrow limits throughout the day. Even Vanadium closed the day only ⅛ of a point lower.

In the public utility section interest was revived by continued activity in the Electric Bond & Share group of stocks. National Power & Light seems to be the particular favorite of this section of the market, in anticipation of important announcement promised by those most active in the stock. Electric Bond & Share executives denied any large-scale new developments in the near future involving several of their companies, as reported, but admitted having bought substantial additional block of National Power & Light which is still held. This stock was bought lower than current price. International Telephone & Telegraph again proved vulnerable to selling pressure. It reached a new low for the year before recovering to close fractionally lower. Its persistent weakness has aroused fear concerning its dividend, but more reliable indication will be furnished by an earning statement shortly to be issued.

The market saw fit to ignore the commodities, although wheat dropped to new lows. Money remained at 2 per cent but some stiffening in the rate is anticipated. Bond prices were somewhat lower.

The $26 000.000 reduction in brokers' loans for the past week reported by the reserve board indicates further strengthening of the market's technical position since the decrease occurred during a period of somewhat higher price level in the market. The change however is too small to be particularly significant.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28. (AP)—Export demand for wheat continued dull Thursday with bids still out of line as compared with the mill prices. Basis delivered Texas gulf ports, exporters were nominally bidding 91@91½c while mills were bidding 94½@95c for ordinary No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points. Even at the latter price sellers were indifferent and trade small with no sales posted at the close of the market.

Good demand was again reported for barley and oats and corn were fairly selling. Sorghums were not offered freely and trade held to small volume. Best quality red oats for seed purposes were in demand at a premium.

Estimated receipts: Wheat 18 cars; corn 9, oats 2, barley 1, sorghums 3.

Bids and offers on coarse grains, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid, ranged as follows:

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.01@1.02; No. 2 white $1.03@1.04; No. 2 yellow $1.09@1.11.

Oats—No. 2 red $1.45c; best seed quality up to $1.53½c, also quoting No. 3 white oats delivered Texas group one points 1½c to 5c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

Barley—No. 2, 72@73c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.85@1.90. No. 2 kaffir $1.72@1.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Corn values developed notable strength today, and helped to rally the wheat market after wheat again had broken the season's bottom price record. Upturns in corn quotations were associated with a statement from a leading crop authority that the corn trade now has to deal with likelihood of 13 months feeding for livestock instead of 12-month feeding year. Big receipts of Canadian and domestic spring wheat were largely responsible for the weakness wheat values displayed throughout the greater part of the day.

Corn closed firm ⅝@1⅛c a bushel net higher. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜c up, oats unchanged to ⅞c advance, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents off.

Wheat had a generally heavy tone except just at the close when responding to corn strength. Canadian country marketings of wheat totaled 3,207.000 bushels for 24 hours against 1,620.000 a year ago.

Closing indemnities—Wheat, September 85c, 87½c; December 90¼@90⅝c, 92½@92⅝c; March 94⅛@94⅜c, 97c; May 97½c, 99¾@99⅞c. Corn, September 94½@94⅝c, 96¼c; December 92½c, 94½c; March 94¼c, 96½c; May 96c, 98½c.

Provisions were easy, influenced by setbacks in the value of hogs.

THREE PRISON RIOTERS DIE

Sing Sing Inmates Pay For Bloody Disorders

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 28. (US)—Three participants in the Auburn prison riots of last winter, convicted of causing the death of Harry Sullivan, convict leader in the riots, were electrocuted just before midnight. They were Claude Udwine, William Force and Jesse Thomas.

Almost to the very hour of their execution hope still clung that Governor Roosevelt would intervene and commute their sentences to life imprisonment, but it was stated early in the evening that the governor was not likely to act.

The three were known as hardened criminals, and even if they had been spared the chair, their long criminal records would have precluded their escaping life terms.

For the first time in 15 years all three official chaplains of Sing Sing—Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew—were called at the same time to give consolation to condemned men in the death cells, and to walk with them to the electric chair. The Rev. Anthony N. Peterson, Protestant chaplain, accompanied Thomas on his last walk; Force was accompanied by Father John P. McCaffrey; and Dr. Jacob Katz, Hebrew chaplain, gave the last comfort to Udwine.

Negro Confesses To Ax Slaying of Farmer

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 28. (UP)—Legus Brown, an Indian, confessed to officers today that he killed Alva Shanks, Bixby, Okla., farmer, with an ax last Sunday. Brown said the two had engaged in an argument over some land. Murder charges were filed against Brown.

Brown said he attacked Shanks in self-defense.

Prison Riot Blamed On Long Working Day

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 28. (UP)—Fourteen hour working days on the privately owned farms and the viciousness of prison trusties employed as guards over fellow convicts were blamed for the recent mutiny at the Burgin convict farm by Capt. W. W. Pecue, who is in charge of the camp.

For the mechanical cleaning of windows and skylights, an electrical washer now is available.

COUNTY ORDERS DRAINAGE VOTE

Program Expected to Raise Land Values

With but one property owner objecting to the plan, the county commissioners court in special session Thursday approved the report of the engineer on the advisability of creating a drainage system in the area between Lake Wichita and the city limits and called an election for Oct. 4 in which resident property owners in the area will pass on the proposal to create drainage district No. 2 and vote bonds totaling $26,000 for half of the cost of installing the system.

According to the estimate made by F. P. Brown, engineer appointed by the court to make a survey of the area, the total cost of the drainage system will be $53,816, amounting to $12.91 per acre for the 2,085 acres included in the district. Wichita county irrigation district No. 1 has already agreed to pay half the total cost, the remainder to be paid by the property owners through the bond issue.

One Protest

With the exception of E. M. McGrath, who said he was opposed to the plan, no opposition was met during the hearing. The court before adopting the plan presented by Engineer Brown, asked if there were any person present with another plan for drainage of the waterlogged area, particularly asking Mr. McGrath if he had another plan in mind or any changes to suggest in the plan presented. No other proposal or change was forthcoming.

The court named Ballew's store, at the intersection of the Grant street Lake road with the Rosemont Burial park road, as the voting place for the Oct. 4 election. A. V. Moller was named presiding judge, with Tom Fields as assistant judge and E. S. Ballew and Dr. R. H. Graham as clerks.

It was pointed out that a two-thirds majority of the resident property owners would be necessary to carry the election and that only tax payers who are qualified voters and who live within the area to be covered by the drainage system would be allowed to vote on the creation of the district.

The plan as made by the engineer calls for cleaning and straightening of Holliday creek at several points where the flow of water at present is hampered. It also provides for two main canals, from five to seven feet deep, with a system of smaller drainage ditches running laterally from the main canals forming a total of 5.16 miles of ditches. It was estimated that the waterlogged condition of the land would be relieved and the soil sufficiently reclaimed to allow cultivation within a short time after the system becomes operative. Work on the installation of the system will begin as soon as possible after the election and will require only a few months, it was said.

Valuable Land

It was brought out at the hearing that the land damaged by seepage and waterlogging is practically worthless at present, due to the fact that nothing can be grown on the soil. The waterlogged area, it was said, is growing and spreading each year, rendering more land worthless for cultivation. Shields Heyser, one of the property owners who strongly favored the drainage proposal, said the land was worth from $500 to $1,000 an acre before it became waterlogged. It was pointed out that the total taxable values in the area now amount to $132,105 on the basis of present county valuations. The engineer reported that the values of the land would increase, under the drainage plan, many times in excess of the cost of installing the system.

It was also brought to the attention of the court that the tracts involved in the proposed system are among the richest agricultural lands in Wichita county, capable of producing large crops under favorable conditions. One farmer mentioned at the hearing had previously reported a $1,400 pepper crop on one acre of the land and instances were quoted where the soil had produced from $1,000 to $1,800 a year per acre before it became waterlogged. At present over large areas the water table has become filled to such an extent that the water level is but one or two inches below the surface, making cultivation impossible, it was said.

The plan as approved Thursday provides that the county tax collector and assessor shall handle taxation and assessments for the new drainage district unless the taxpayers vote otherwise. The lands will be taxed on the basis of regular county valuations. The area included in the district lies between Lake Wichita and a line near the city limits and between Holliday creek on the east and Rosemont Burial park and Call field on the west.

County Groups Organize For Iowa Park Fair Sept. 25-26-27

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Aug. 28. — Arrangements for the annual Wichita county fair, to be held in Iowa Park Sept. 25-26-27 got under way here Thursday night at a meeting of the executive committee of the Free Fair association with committee heads and representatives of the chambers of commerce of Wichita Falls, Electra, and Burkburnett. The committee voted to include members of each of the chambers in its own membership, appointments to be made later. C. C. Hudson, E. C. Knox, and J. G. O'Donohoe are members of the original committee. The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce was represented by Wilburn Page and Milburn Nutt.

Catalogues listing the premiums and committees will be out on Monday of next week and will be available at the offices of the chambers of commerce over the county. It was announced Thursday night that 29 booths have already been sold in the exhibition hall.

The second day of the fair was set aside as Wichita Falls day and the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce put in charge of the program.

Dr. Gordon Clark, president of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce and head of the entertainment committee outlined plans for band concerts, and old fiddlers competition, and a parade, in addition to the rodeo and street carnival. Will Burnett is chairman of the rodeo committee.

The Kennell club will sponsor the annual dog show. Committee heads were announced Thursday as follows: J. H. Stanfill, rabbit show; S. D. Jacks, poultry; H. R. Overby, dairy cattle; Will Burnett, beef cattle; W. R. Davis, sheep; W. L. Hodges, swine; Mrs. A. C. Henson, woman's department; Mrs. C. L. Reaves, baby show; Miss Ethel Louise Webb, home economics and Four-H club exhibits; Earl J. Wilson, agricultural; W. R. Bradford, educational.

Booths have been purchased by the following firms:

Texas Electric Service company, 3; Bebb's Flowers, 1; W. B. McClurkan and company, 1; Cline Commercial college, Beasley and Cain Oil company, Purina dealers of Wichita county, 2; Rexall Drug store, Sanitary bakery, The Famous store, J. A. Tanner and Son, Morgan Oil company, Iowa Park Herald, Saul's stores, Overby-Troutman company, Independent Ice company, Redin Service station, B. L. Bradford Hardware, Wichita Cycle company, Municipal Gas company, 2; Wichita Mill and Elevator company, Gold Medal Flour company of Texas, Wichita County Lumber company, R-F Finance corporation, Lehrack-Ferguson Dairy Products company, Southwest Dairy Products company.

County Attorney Warns Merchants Of Lottery Laws

A warning to Wichita Falls merchants who might be tempted to make an effort in the direction of increased business by offering tickets with each purchase good for chances at some prize was issued Thursday by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, who deseribed the practice as a "lottery, no matter what form the deal or the prize might take."

"It has become a prevalent mistaken idea," Mr. Somerville said, "that it is not illegal for merchants to issue chances on some prize with each purchase of a certain amount. This form of attempting to increase business sales is a lottery, just as the old forms of selling the lottery tickets outright was a lottery and a practice outlawed in Texas.

"This warning is issued so that any Wichita Falls merchants contemplating such means of augmenting their sales will know the attitude of the law concerning lotteries and so that the county attorney's department may avoid the necessity of filing complaints against them on such charges."

New Iowa Park Resident

A baby boy weighing six pounds and eight ounces was born about 8:45 o'clock Thursday evening to Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Bradford of Iowa Park. Mrs. Bradford and the baby were reported resting well at the Wichita General hospital late Thursday night.

BOYS TO MAKE TRIP SEPT. 2

6 to Go to Fort Worth On Outing

For the first time in Wichita Falls, a group of boys, some of whom have never been out of the city, are to be given a trip in which they will have to pay nothing. The Boys club, sponsored by the Rotary club, will take care of the expenses of some 60 odd lads who start Tuesday morning, Sept. 2, at 8 o'clock on an educational trip to Fort Worth.

The trip will be made in special buses furnished through courtesy of Leonard Albritton, manager of the traction company. The happy group of boys will sleep in pup tents the night spent in Fort Worth, furnished by the local Boy Scouts; each boy will take his own bedding and eating equipment and Scout Executive Creighton, will take care of the meals, assisted by the boys.

Lunch will be served to the group just before they enter Fort Worth. Olin Harvey, Bill Ward and Frank B. Creighton are to accompany the younger crowd of boys. Mr. Creighton figured the food needed for lunch Tuesday at a moderate estimate of five pounds of ham, five pounds of cheese and 24 loaves of bread. Lunch will consist of ham and cheese sandwiches, cookies and fruits.

After tents are pitched at the camp ground in Fort Worth, a game of ball is scheduled between the Wichita Rotary league team and the Panther Boys club of Fort Worth. There will be free swimming in the afternoon or evening and an educational trip is planned to the Armour and Swift packing plants and to the Purina mills. The boys will be free at night to visit points of interest in the city and a free picture will probably be given them.

The Boy Scout traveling camp outfit will be used for cooking, and meals will be cooked Tuesday evening at the camp ground and Wednesday morning. Luncheon will be the same as that given the travelers entering the city and served at the same spot as they start home.

Supper Tuesday evening will consist of weiners and kraut, mashed potatoes and stewed fruit.

Arrest of Six Clears Up Thefts in Four Cities

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 28. (UP)—Robberies in four Kansas cities were cleared up today with the arrest of four youths and two women, one of them the wife of a confessed burglar.

Confessions of Johnny Wilson and Jack Wright said they and Harold Connelly of Walters, Okla., had attempted to rob a store in Arcadelphia Sunday, but that officers had driven them from the building. Later, Wright and Connelly were arrested there and charged with the robbery, Wilson being apprehended here.

STRAND: "All Quiet on the Western Front," serial published in The Record News recently and best-seller in book form. Comedy and sound news.

MAJESTIC: Cyril Maude in "Grumpy." Grantland Rice sportlight. Our Gang comedy and sound news.

STATE: "The Singing Caballero" with Ken Mayard. Comedy and sound news.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" will probably draw the biggest crowds of any picture booked here for the past several years. Anticipating such a condition, the Strand has announced the first show for 11:45 Friday morning. The picture is two hours and 15 minutes long and is said by those who have seen it to be the most gripping of war dramas.

Judging by the book, which is the greatest "best seller" ever put on the market, and which also ran in serial form in several newspapers, including The Record News, "All Quiet on the Western Front" will have a powerful effect upon its audience. As baldly and unashamedly a piece of propaganda as was ever published, it is one of the best and most powerful moves of peace since the world war was ended. The fact that millions of people have read it is encouraging to those of us who hope that there will be no more battles until Armageddon.

"Grumpy" is one of the best shows for children booked here in a long time, and "Anybody's Woman" (starting Saturday with Ruth Chatterton) is not, judging from the Majestic ad which 'does not recommend it for children". That little line in the advertisement should help pack the theater.

The Majestic will repeat "The Texan" with Gary Cooper for its regular Friday night free double-bill picture. Immediately after the last show of "Grumpy," "The Texan" will begin.

The most interesting late matinee scheduled in a long time, however, is set for Saturday midnight, when the four Marx brothers will be presented in "Animal Crackers." The picture will be brought here for its regular run on the following Friday, but will be given a preview showing at 11:30 Saturday evening.

Sugar Conference Making Progress

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the conference of American and Cuban sugar producers, said today that definite progress had been made by conferees toward establishment of "equilibrium between demand and supply" in the sugar industry.

"We have encountered no real obstacles," he said, "and our progress has been more than we hoped for."

The conferences will be continued, he said, until a definite agreement has been reached upon the proposal by Cuban interests of a pact calling for curtailment of Cuban and American sugar production during the next five years in an effort to stabilize prices.

Ocean Air Service

BERLIN—A transatlantic air service between Berlin, Seville and South America has been proposed by the Deutsche Luft Hansa and the Compania de Navigazion Aerea Espanola Colon. It would be a combined airplane-dirigible service and would transport passengers from Berlin to Seville by plane and from there across the Atlantic by dirigible.

Slip covers for shoes, rubbers and slippers have been made which will prevent these articles from soiling clothes when packed in trunks or bags.

WINDOW SHOW SET SEPT. 11

Merchants Here Plan For Annual Display

the second prizes. At least 50 entrants are expected.

Details of the annual festival were left largely in the hands of the individual merchants at the Thursday conference. Decision as to leaving the stores open, making sales during the show, and staging displays on the floors as well as in the windows, was left to each manager. The use of living mannequins and store orchestras and the introduction of special advertising an dentertainment fashions are expected to again enliven the fall opening but individual merchants were inclined to reticence about their plans Thursday.

Leaders of the festival set the date for the opening with an eye to the prospective baseball play-off, foreseeing the possibility that the second of the play-off games might fall on that date and add a new attraction for the hundreds of buyers and visitors expected from all over the trade section.

Later meetings will be called as plans for the opening night develop. Prizes will be awarded for the most effective window displays in the following classifications: children's wear, women's ready-to-wear, millinery, women's shoes, men's clothing, men's furnishings, boy's wear, furniture, hardware and electrical goods, jewelry, drugs, groceries and provisions, piece goods, insurance, banks, building and loan, real estate, radio and musical instruments.

Entrants will be asked to fill in a blank to be prepared within the next few days indicating the type of merchandise to be entered in the contest.

Supreme Court Asked to Define Officers' Limits in Halting Cars

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—The supreme court was asked today to rule on how far federal prohibition agents lawfully can go in halting automobiles without a search warrant to look for illicit liquor.

Near Sturgis, Mich., last February, Edwin C. Kudy and Byron Langtry were stopped by two warrantless federal agents. They were convicted of violating the prohibition law.

They contend the search was illegal but the lower federal courts refused to take that view and declined to prohibit the use of the seized liquor as evidence.

Asserting the action was illegal, the two men insisted they were being deprived of their constitutional rights. The federal circuit court of appeals sustained the stopping of the automobile and declared that the agents had received information which warranted their action, as was disclosed by sagging automobile springs and the 192 quarts of liquor found in the car.

Dawes Becomes 'Just Another Yank Tourist'

MADRID, Aug. 28. (US)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, now in Spain on vacation from London has temporarily abandoned his role of archaeologist, and become, in his own words, "just another American tourist."

The ambassador arrived in Madrid in this capacity today from Santander, and spent much of the day in visiting Madrid's many museums. He wouldn't venture much light on his archaeological exploits, but told Universal Service he is "having a great holiday."

Tomatoes and Bottle Cause Death of Boy

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 28. (INS)—Tomatoes and a ketchup bottle, this afternoon resulted indirectly in the death of a 10-year-old grammar school pupil, and the arrest of a man charged with first degree murder.

The boy, Everett L. Stoughton, 10, died in Brockton hospital, as result, officials said, of a broken neck.

Anthony Sutkin, 58, was arrested charged with murder.

According to police, Sutkin, who was out of work, was picking scraps of iron and bottles from a city dump, when a group of boys arrived. The boys began throwing tomatoes at the man, police said, and in anger he picked up a ketchup bottle and struck the nearest boy.

Young Stoughton was taken to Brockton hospital by police and died a short time later.
