Hamon Reports Devonian Tests In South Reeves

Jake L. Hamon of Midland No. 1 Kimber Gas Unit, wildcat in South Reeves County, is calculating production potential on the Devonian horizon. Operator reported tests through perforations from 14,048 to 14,116 feet.

In two hours, on a 13-64-inch choke, the project flowed gas at the rate of 2,650,000 cubic feet per day. The next hour, through an 11/16 choke, it made 1,8000,000 cubic feet per day.

A third test for one-hour through a 10-64 choke, yielded gas at the rate of 1,375,000 cubic feet per day. The choke was reduced to 9-64 the next hour and the wildcat flowed at the daily rate of 980,000 cubic feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 17, block 54, T-7, T&P survey, 11 miles north of Saragosa and ¾ mile southeast of the Nime-Mile Draw (Fusselman) gas field.

Borden, Kent Get Wildcats

Wildcat project have been announced in Kent and Borden counties.

Viking Drilling Co. of San Antonio will dig a 7,500 - foot Pennsylvanian exploration in Kent County, 4½ miles southeast of Polar.

It is No. 1 Mrs. Maurice Logan, 800 feet from north and 1,200 feet from west lines of section 700, block 97, H&RC survey, ⅝ miles southeast of the recently reopened Vernon Cox (Canyon reef) field.

The Borden test is a re-entry project by A. N. Norwood, Inc., of Midland.

The test is No. 1 Davis, 467 feet from north and west lines of section 80, block 25, H&TC survey, 16 miles southeast of Gail and one location southeast of the Von Roeder, West multipay field.

Originally drilled by Lario Oil & Gas Co. as No. 1 Davis to 6,072 feet, the project now will be taken to 6,900 feet.

Atoka Discovery Reports Potential

Depco, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Derrick has been completed as an Atoka sand gas discovery six miles southeast of Hagerman in South Chaves County.

The strike finaled for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,071,000 cubic feet of gas per day, plus an estimated 24 barrels of condensate per million cubic feet of gas.

The potential was taken on the section behind perforations from 7,964 to 7,970 feet after a 1,500-gallon acid treatment.

Wellsite is 1,325 feet from north and east lines of section 3-15s-27e. It is on the west side of the Buffalo Valley gas field.

Lario Sets Site In Scurry Sector

Lario Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Schuler is to be drilled as a 7,600-foot wildcat six miles

'Plan O' Debate Slated Tuesday

"Plan O" will rear its head once again in the Tuesday meeting of the Midland public school trustees, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the district's central office board room.

A feasibility study of the projected operation of the plan will be presented by the administrative staff. It was requested six months ago during the high school boundary dispute.

The plan calls for unification of the city's two high schools, with sophomores attending Midland High and juniors and seniors attending Lee. It was sent back to the drawing board for additional study when the trustees approved a boundary line modification which could be superceded by Plan O if the board members deem it workable.

In addition to considering again the alternative proposal for high schools, the trustees also will take their first look at the proposed 1975-76 school budget. The district's superintendent, Dr. James H. Mailey, said Tuesday's consideration will be only a preliminary study. Action is expected to be taken at a later date.

Other items on the agenda include consideration of administrative salaries and release of pledged securities.

Midlander Held In Felony Theft

BIG SPRING—Carl Dale Harding, 43, 1600 S. Fort Worth St., Midland, was being held in the Howard County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond early today after being charged with felony theft in connection with $8,000 to $10,000 worth of oil field equipment found in a pickup truck Saturday by local law enforcement officers.

Officers from Midland, Howard and Mitchell counties as well as the Texas Rangers were conducting a search Sunday for two brothers, who are also thought connected with the stolen property and with the assault of a Howard County deputy Saturday night.

The men are James Thomas "Pinky" Cooksey, 46, and Harold Dean "Deano" Cooksey, 47, both of San Angelo. A Midland sheriff's office representative indicated today that James Cooksey had been living at 208-A Mitchell St. in Midland.

A three-county search for the three men took place Sunday after Deputy Buster McCartney reported that he had been disarmed by the men on the property of Dorland Oil Co. about five miles southwest of Coahoma. The hunt produced Harding, who was taken into custody Sunday.

McCartney said he was answering a call from Coahoma that some people were tampering with oil company equipment. He said that when he arrived at the oil field site Saturday night, three men attempted to drive away in a pickup truck with a flat tire. When the truck stopped, he said, a man descended from the truck and pointed a high-powered rifle at him.

"He advised me to drop my gun or throw it down, so I did real slowly," McCartney said. "They advised me to walk down the road for 20 minutes or my heart would be lying out on the ground."

According to McCartney, the three men then left on foot. He said he then fixed the battery cable they had broken and radioed for help. The three men, McCartney said, had also disabled his car.

A Big Spring sheriff's office official said that the three men at the site had apparently been siphoning gasoline, but that some $8,000 to $10,000 worth of equipment was found in their abandoned truck.

Coins Not In Yet

By GEORGE MASSEY

Hundreds of Midland coin collectors fell victim to the "50 cent misunderstanding" today as they waited in long lines at local banks to obtain the new Bicentennial design half dollar that won't be available until next Monday.

All four Midland banks reported numerous requests for the new coin early today, but none of the local banks have yet received any of the Bicentennial pieces.

Spokesmen for The First National Bank and The Midland National Bank reported a shipment of the new coins will come in Friday from the Federal Reserve Bank at El Paso and be distributed through teller windows next Monday.

Officers at Western State Bank and Commercial Bank and Trust said the coins would be available to their banks from the orders made by the two larger banks.

Banking officials indicated the coin order will be a "large" one, but could not say exactly how many coins would be ordered.

The bankers noted that the Bicentennial half dollar is not a limited edition coin. They said, "The Bicentennial half dollar is a standard issue, and will be produced and distributed all year."

None of the banks are taking orders for the coins. The pieces will be distributed at the teller windows on a normal coin basis.

The Bicentennial half dollar carries a picture of Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was signed, instead of the familiar American eagle. John F. Kennedy's profile remains the same on the reverse side of the coin.

Refugee Camps Inside Lebanon Target Of Raids

By The Associated Press

Israel, vowing an uncompromising war against Palestinian guerrillas, blasted Palestinian refugee camps in southern Lebanon from the air, land and sea today. Witnesses said at least 13 persons were killed and scores of refugee huts destroyed.

At the same time, Lebanon's premier expressed hope of getting kidnaped U.S. Army Col. Ernest R. Morgan released soon.

The Israeli raids came less than 72 hours after an Arab terrorist bomb killed 14 persons in Jerusalem in the Holy City's worst terrorist incident in a quarter century.

Addressing parliament in Jerusalem, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said, "We will continue Israel's policy of no negotiations with the terrorist organizations . . . The only language they understand is the sword—and in that language we will speak to them." He vowed that the war against the guerrillas would be "uncompromising" following the Friday bombing.

The Tel Aviv command made no mention of that bombing, but said the targets of today's raids were guerrilla bases used by Palestinian raiders in various operations against Israel. It said Arab gunners retaliated by firing rockets and other shells at two Israeli settlements just south of the Lebanese border. The Israelis listed no casualties.

Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami did not mention the raids, but said Lebanese authorities are negotiating with Morgan's kidnapers and "we hope to get him released soon."

"We are continuing the contacts and discussions include the terms set by the kidnapers." The terrorists have threatened to kill Morgan, 43, of Petersburg, Va., by 9 p.m. Wednesday — 1 p.m. CDT — unless the United States gives food and building materials to "the toiling masses" in a Moslem slum known as the "slaughterhouse district." The ransom demand was accompanied by photos of Morgan in

Hanoi Links MIA Hunt To U.S. Aid

BANGKOK (AP) — North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong says his government is ready to pursue the fate of Americans listed as missing in action in Vietnam, but he linked the search for the men to U.S. aid in the reconstruction of Vietnam.

Pham, in a letter to 21 U.S. congressmen aired over Hanoi radio today, said "the search for U.S. missing persons in the Vietnam war, the exhumation and return of bones of U.S. personnel are outstanding matters that should be resolved as soon as possible."

Another matter, linked to any resolution of the question of missing men is "the U.S. contribution to the postwar reconstruction of Vietnam," according to the broadcast monitored in Bangkok.

The broadcast said Pham's letter was in reply to a query by 21 U.S. congressmen "who previously worked for the termination of U.S. military involvement in South Vietnam."

The broadcast did not name the congressmen but said the letter was answered by Pham on June 21.

Red Tape Keeps Children Tied To Camp

Only 4 Of 107 Reunited With Their Parents Thus Far

By GREG WASKUL
The Los Angeles Times

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. — While refugees by the thousands are making plans to leave American bases around the world and begin new lives, a group of children at Camp Pendleton must sit and wait until the American government decides what to do with them.

"We miss our parents, especially after it gets dark. There are many boys and girls crying every night. It is like a chain reaction — one boy cries and others start crying together — especially when they play the Vietnamese music over the loudspeaker," says Phan Xuan Hoang, 15.

Phan lived in Saigon with his parents until the Communist offensive threatened the city. His father, an army colonel, paid to get Phan, his only son, to safety.

The boy later found himself at Camp Pendleton along with 106 other unaccompanied children, according to Nick Thorne, Interagency Task Force commander at Camp Pendleton.

Some of the children, who range in age from 2 to 17 have waited as long as six weeks to leave the camp. Only four of the children have been reunited with their parents.

The government, however, cannot decide whether to put the remaining unaccompanied children into foster homes or place them through normal adoption procedures. And, unless red tape is cleared and a decision made, there are many children who will remain in the camp for some time to come.

The Red Cross is taking care of 33 of the children.

Thorne said he thought the situation was so complicated that it could have "a tremendous potential for unhappiness."

"We want to stay away from adoption processes until we are absolutely sure that the child is an orphan," Thorne said. He also said that in cases in which parents or blood relatives were found in Cambodia or South Vietnam, the government would decide whether to place the child in a foster home or put him up for adoption.

Thorne said that such a decision must be made with the mutual agreement of several agencies in the task force because "we don't believe we can play God in this thing."

Meanwhile, the Red Cross is conducting camp - to - camp searches for the parents of the unaccompanied children. So far, they have located four sets of parents, according to Red Cross spokesman Patrick Guibao.

Thorne said he would like children who became separated from the families Pendleton are taking part in recreation and educational programs.

There is a Red Cross nurse on call 24 hours a day. Volunteers from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have volunteered assistance around the clock for various hut activities.

The Red Cross described the mental attitude of the unaccompanied children as "good and improving" although Guibao conceded that there was "a great deal of instability" when the program began about six weeks ago.

But the children are not as enthusiastic about their situation as Thorne and Guibao are.

Phan arrived in Camp Pendleton on May 13, and was told that since his parents were not at the camp, he would not be able to leave even if he found a sponsor.

A Thousand Oaks, Calif., family, the Leonard Smiths, met Phan at Pendleton and decided to sponsor him shortly thereafter. "The Smiths wanted to sponsor me," Phan said, "but they were told they could not because I have no parents here and I am so young."

The Smiths are just as frustrated.

"We were told we could sponsor Phan, so we filled out the necessary forms. Then they told us we would have to adopt him. So we worked through a Ventura County adoption agency to have our home cleared.

"We have done everything possible to cooperate with the government, but we are still waiting for them to make up their minds how to handle it."

Part of the problem has been that even if the government decided to let Phan leave Pendleton, he could not be declared a ward of the court in Ventura until he is physically in the Ventura area.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Smith is growing more bitter.

"At one point several weeks ago, they told us we would have him in less than a week. They said problems would be solved quickly, but they weren't.

"That makes it doubly hard on us. We've been told several times he would be with us. Yet every time it is about to happen, they change their minds again."

July 4 Road Death Toll Reaches 488

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents on the nation's roadways during the three-day Fourth of July weekend which ended today killed 488 persons.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 480 and 580 persons would die from traffic accidents during the weekend. The traffic fatality count started at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday. The council also predicted that between 22,000 to 27,000 disabling injuries would result from holiday traffic mishaps.

During the four-day Fourth of July observance last year, the traffic death count was 549. The Independence Day record was 758 deaths in 1972 before gasoline prices soared and before adoption of the national 55-mile-an-hour speed limit.

President Seeks Drastic Highway Trust Fund Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford asked Congress today to drastically reduce the size of the highway trust fund and to dedicate the fund only to the completion and the maintenance of the country's Interstate highway system.

All other highways would be funded from general Treasury revenues if the President's proposal is enacted into law.

In addition, the President proposed giving states new revenue by allowing them to raise state taxes on gasoline by one cent without increasing the over-all state-federal gas tax.

Under this provision, the federal government would agree to reduce the current four-cent-per-gallon federal tax to three cents in states which raised the state tax by one cent.

The Ford proposal is similar to the proposal the administration planned to send to Congress in February. That proposal was held up to allow incoming Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. time to review the legislation and make comments.

The administration proposal calls for one cent per gallon of the current four-cent tax on gasoline to go into the highway trust fund to be used for finishing the 42,500-mile-long Interstate system.

The Ford proposal would give high priority to completion of Interstate segments between systems but relatively low priority to completing segments within cities.

Two cents of the current four-cent-per-gallon tax would be transferred to general revenues and could be used for building non-Interstate roads. The final cent would be diverted to the states for use on transportation projects or for any other state program.

The administration said it would encourage states to use the one-cent-per-gallon revenues for transportation purposes, including mass transit, but said this would not be mandatory.

Argentine Unions Launch 48-Hour General Walkout

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The 3.5-million-member General Labor Confederation (CGT), the bulwark of the Peronist political movement, began a 48-hour general strike today.

The strike is an attempt to end the influence of government strongman Jose Lopez Rega and roll back his conservative economic policy.

Lopez Rega and the other seven members of the cabinet submitted their resignations to President Isabel Peron Sunday night in an attempt to head off the strike. But the walkout began on schedule at midnight, and the leaders of the CGT announced after a three-hour meeting with Labor Minister Cecilio Conditi that it would continue.

The union leaders added that they would continue negotiations with the government "to find solutions demanded by the country and the legitimate aspirations of its workers."

There was no indication that Mrs. Peron would accept the cabinet members' resignations. Labor sources said the resignations did not avert the strike because the president did not announce acceptance of them or name new ministers. The labor leaders apparently felt that the government was maneuvering to gain time.

The general strike was the first full-scale work stoppage ever called against a Peronist government.

Public transportation stopped at midnight, and restaurants, theaters and bars closed. At hospitals only emergency staffs were on duty.

Most businesses and industries were not scheduled to reopen until Thursday, since Wednesday is the Independence Day holiday. Economic writers for the newspaper La Opinion calculated that by the time production resumes, the crisis will have cost the economy more than $800 million.

Heavy Rains Bring Flooding In El Paso, Amarillo Areas

Skies were clear over most of Texas early today after heavy downpours struck the Amarillo and El Paso areas Sunday, causing some flooding and power shortages.

At dawn, light rain or showers were restricted in the Van Horn and Marfa areas of West and Southwest Texas.

Skies also were fair for the first half of the day Sunday before warm temperatures spawned heavy thunderstorms in the Panhandle and West Texas. The storms were marked by spectacular lightning displays, strong winds and heavy rain.

Rangers at Palo Duro State Park southeast of Amarillo said more than 2 inches of rain fell in 30 minutes. The Weather Service responded with a flash flood warning as Palo Duro Creek reached a depth of 5½ feet at a road crossing at the canyon floor.

Many campers were stranded by the high water, but rangers said "many aren't in any hurry to get out anyway."

As the rains dissipated, the creek quickly fell to the two-foot level. But deep deposits of mud remained on the road and motorists were discouraged from attempting to cross.

After a long summer drought, heavy showers were welcomed in the El Paso area, along with some hail and high winds, although some street flooding was reported.

Elsewhere, it was a typical hot July day in the state. Maximum temperatures ranged from 99 degrees at Wichita Falls and 98 at Cotulla and Mineral Wells down to 84 at Dalhart and El Paso, The Associated Press reported.

Little change in temperatures with highs in the middle 90s under partly cloudy skies is the Midland forecast both today and Tuesday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal recorded a high Sunday of 93 with an overnight low of 68.

Tonight's low should be near 70.

Annexation, Midland College Head Agenda For City Council

A public hearing date will be set Tuesday on annexation of 110 acres into the city as city councilmen consider taking in the property located between Midland Drive and Holiday Hill Road on the north side of U.S. 80.

The hearing date will be set during council action on a 19-item agenda with business getting under way at 1 p.m. in council chambers at city hall.

A recommendation not to annex the property has been made by the city's planning and zoning commission after it heard protests of citizens living in the proposed annexation area.

City officials have indicated annexation of the property is desirable to effect "control" over development on the acreage.

The status of Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds for a $100,000 proposed tennis center complex at Midland College will also be discussed.

College officials have indicated a desire to start work on the project on a 50-50 basis before getting approval for the BOR funds. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department informed the city earlier this year funds had been depleted, but noted the application would be considered again when funds become available in late September.

A shuttle airline service from Big Spring to Midland Regional Air Terminal will be considered for a contract to operate at the local air facility. At present Trans Regional Airlines is scheduled to offer two flights daily with a Cessna 402 aircraft.

Councilmen will hold a public hearing on a request of Roy B. Moran for a zone change from single-family to multiple-family on eight acres out of the property on North Garfield Street north of the Chaparral Apartments.

The request of Leo and Jessie Hatfield for a zone change from single-family to multiple family and local retail will be considered for approximately 9.5 acres located at the southwest corner of Garfield and FM 868.

Harold Shull's request for a zone change from single-family to planned district on 16 acres in the 3500 block of the Andrews Highway will also be considered in public hearing.

Long-Dormant Volcano Spews Lava In Hawaii

VOLCANO, Hawaii (AP) — "It was never a question of 'if it was going to erupt again.' It was just a question of when it would erupt," said Dr. Robert Tilling as he explained Mauna Loa volcano's weekend awakening from a quarter-century of hibernation.

For more than a year the 13,650-foot volcano showed signs of restlessness. And late Saturday night it erupted with a spectacular "curtain of fire" flowing along miles of fissures which rumbled open across the summit.

Two major rivers of lava oozed down the vast barren upper slopes of the northeast side of the mountain, fed by several large vents which continued to spout the red and yellow molten rock hours after the original activity in the summit had halted.

The flows, one moving down the north slope and the other to the east-northeast, do not pose an immediate threat to any inhabited area, said Tilling, who is in charge of the U.S. Geological Survey's volcano observatory.

However, it was the first time since 1942 that a lava flow has moved in the direction of Hilo, the largest city on the island of Hawaii, and it could be a threat if the activity continued, said geologist Donald Peterson.

Mauna Loa's previous eruption in 1953 lasted 23 days and sent a massive flow estimated at 600 million cubic yards of lava down the southwest side of the mountain.

Bandit Holds Up Store, Takes $33

A robber held up a 7-Eleven Store at 1220 N. Midkiff Road early Sunday, making off with $33 in small bills.

Mrs. Joyce Whitfield, store clerk, told police that a man had entered the store shortly before 6 a.m. Sunday and then left. She said that around 6:10 a.m. the man returned and demanded the money. The man held his right hand beneath his shirt, she said, but he did not display a weapon.

Mrs. Whitfield indicated that the man took no change but slipped the small bills into his pocket and left. Police reported that he was last seen running south away from the store.

captivity and three tape recordings in which he said he was being treated well and was impressed by the seriousness of his captors' motives.

In another development, the Israeli cabinet Sunday postponed for at least a week any decision on further withdrawal in the Sinai Desert in order to seek "elucidations and clarifications" from Washington on various issues in the proposed new agreement with Egypt.

The Israeli command said its "combined forces" struck against "several terrorist bases" in the area of Rashadiyeh and Tyre on the southern Lebanese coast. The communique said all Israeli troops returned safely from the raid. The Palestinian guerrilla command claimed its forces shot down one Israeli jet, but Israel denied any planes were shot down.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said the four-hour attack began at about 2 a.m. when Israeli planes dropped flares and three gunboats opened fire on the big Rashadiyeh and Burj el Shemali refugee camps outside Tyre, 35 miles south of Beirut on the Lebanese coast.

The communique said authorities still were taking stock of damage and casualties. Reports from the camps said the dead included a refugee couple and their two small boys killed in a direct rocket hit on their home.

The Lebanese army said 13 villages in southernmost Lebanon came under intermittent artillery bombardment from midnight to dawn.

Soviets Beef Up Military Forces Near China Border

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet government has sent thousands of additional troops plus tanks and fighter planes to Mongolia to strengthen its forces facing China, a British correspondent in Peking reported today.

Clare Hollingworth of the Daily Telegraph said the Russians have added another army division, tanks and six or seven squadrons of fighter planes to their forces in Mongolia and now have three infantry divisions and a strengthened tank regiment there.

More than 10,000 Russians, two-thirds of them concerned with military affairs, are living in Ulan Bator, the Mongolian capital, Miss Hollingworth said.

Don't Discipline Johnny; Just Watch What He Eats

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny's temper tantrum may be the result of something he just ate.

It could have been caused by bananas, chocolate, eggs, corn, milk, cola drinks or other foods, says a Pittsburgh psychologist.

Aggressive behavior can and does sometimes result from allergies to food, says the psychologist, Dr. K. E. Moyer of Carnegie-Mellon University.

"For an allergic person, eating may lead to beating, biting and battle," he writes in the July issue of Psychology Today. "While a person who is allergic to pollen suffers a stuffy nose, a person allergic to chocolate or bananas" may become very aggressive and unruly, he said.

"Aggression as an allergic response is a well-documented phenomenon that has been known to researchers since early in this century."

Nevertheless, physicians, psychologists and others dealing with children continue to misdiagnose the problem, blaming it on personality disorders, frustration "and all kinds of other reasons," he said in a telephone interview.

The frequency of such allergic reactions is unknown, he said. He added that most allergic persons do not react in this way but get rashes, stuffy noses, headaches and other symptoms.

The existence of an allergy resulting in aggressive behavior has been often proved simply by eliminating the suspected foods from the diets of allergic children.

After a period of tranquility, the children are again tested with the allergy-producing foods and their tantrums and other aggressive behavior return.

Moyer said substances that cause allergies probably affect the nervous system directly by causing swelling in the brain.

The intensity of the allergic aggressive symptoms ranges from a mild irritable reaction to a psychotic aggressive reaction, Moyer said.

$2 Bills May Be Reissued With Bicentennial Design

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department may reintroduce the two-dollar bill by the end of this year, according to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

In a letter to Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., dated June 21 and released today by Rosenthal, Simon said a decision has not yet been made, but indicated it would be soon.

He said the Bureau of Engraving and Printing already is preparing preliminary designs for a two-dollar bill using bicentennial themes.

"If the project fares well, with the concurrence of the Congress other members of the administration, I would hope that we could agree to introduce the issue at the end of this year with a well-coordinated program to assure the circulation goals," Simon wrote.

Rosenthal is chairman of the House subcommittee on Commerce, Consumer and Monetary Affairs, which already is on record favoring the two-dollar bill.

A major reason for reintroducing the bill would be to save on printing costs, since fewer bills will be required if the two-dollar bill successfully replaces a portion of the one-dollar bills now in circulation.

Nixon Bids To Recover Personal Papers, Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says that when his administration collapsed under the weight of Watergate he left behind records that give his years in office a personal touch.

"When I resigned the office of President ... I left in the White House not only the materials my staff had accumulated during five and one half years there, but a large quantity of the materials I had brought with me at the time I assumed office," Nixon said in a sworn affidavit filed last week in U.S. District Court.

The affidavit was filed in support of Nixon's contention that Congress acted unconstitutionally in denying him ownership of 42 million documents and 880 reels of tape, many of which were involved in the Watergate investigations.

Although all of the material has been lumped together under a Watergate label, Nixon said many of the items held by the government are of no use to anyone else. He said they represent the records of his personal and professional life.

Nixon's affidavit said he has received some of his pre-presidential papers, although "I know that many items ... are still impounded with the presidential materials of my administration."

Among personal items the former president says he wants released are diaries, letters, memoranda and tape recordings of personal conversations, some between members of the former first family.

Nixon said some of the tape recordings still held by the government contain discussions of "purely personal matters."

10,000 Attend Lamesa Jubilee

LAMESA — Approximately 10,000 former Lamesa High School students and their families returned here this weekend for the 1975 Golden Tornado Jubilee.

As registration began Saturday morning, over 4,000 had already signed in to be a part of the mammoth homecoming event. Exes registered from Anchorage and Seattle, from New Caanan, Conn., Philadelphia, Bowie, Md., Syracuse, N.Y., San Francisco, San Leandro, Freemont, Thousand Oaks, and other California areas. Others came from such distant points as Minnesota, Virginia, Ohio, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

Friday and Saturday were packed with reminiscing, rekindling old friendships, and with what the jubilee program termed "hugging and kissing." Church services were held for the reunion visitors.

Finale for the events was a "Golden Tor Extravaganza" at the school auditorium Saturday night. Featured was the "Slumtown Symfunny" composed of former students including former band directors Jerry Bartley and Sam Neply. All former athletes gathered Saturday afternoon as did former cheerleaders. The teachers were honored with a reception and individual classes got together for smaller reunions.

Producers, Consumers Work On New World Coffee Pact

LONDON (AP) — Producers and consumers in the International Coffee Organization (ICO) met separately today to narrow down the technical clauses of a new world coffee pact now under negotiation.

A special 20-nation working group made up of both producers and consumers will meet this evening to continue discussions on a draft version of a third international coffee agreement.

The new agreement would replace the second agreement which expires on Sept. 30, 1976. Coffee pacts were first set up in 1963 to help stabilize world coffee prices and assure adequate supply.

The council of the organization is scheduled to meet Tuesday to hear progress reports from both sides. The council, now in official negotiating session, first met two weeks ago. The sessions are scheduled to end Friday.

On Saturday the consumers outlined their general objectives in a paper sent to the council. The producers, who seem far from being united among themselves, still have to prepare a similar document.

Nation's Economic Woes Producing 'Doom Factor'

By VICTOR COHN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Long recession and high unemployment have begun to have a grim effect on the nation's mental health.

Psychiatrists at community mental health centers report that they are swamped with a growing flood of jobless and depressed men and women, as well as children affected by family troubles.

Suicide is up nationally this year at least 2½ per cent — meaning 500 deaths more than the usual toll of around 21,000 — estimates Dr. Calvin Frederick of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIH).

Dr. M. Harvey Brenner of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health believes a "doom factor" is in operation as a product of high unemployment and the prospect that job opportunities will improve very slowly in the next 10 years.

He forecasts that the mounting strain will cause thousands of cases of serious psychoses, as well as heart disease and other physical ills in the years ahead.

Statistics "only start to tell what's happening to people," said Dr. Bruce Danto, director of the Detroit Suicide Prevention Center. "With our 22 per cent unemployment, we're seeing a marked increase in depression and suicides," he said.

Phone calls to the Detroit suicide and crisis intervention center have increased by 10 per cent this year to almost 800 a month.

"People feel helplessness and futility," Danto said. "Because the idea of being worthy is tied to the idea of having a job and money, they feel unworthy.

"Also, security in our country is tied to the belief your government is going to protect you, that it's going to come to the rescue like the U.S. cavalry. That has not happened either.

"The old on Social Security are not getting enough. The young going to school and trying to get into professions without much success — they find the best economic security by applying to the police or fire department or Army. This isn't leaving them many options, since cities like Detroit and New York are laying off firemen and policemen."

However, official Detroit-Wayne County suicide statistics fail to bear out mental health workers' conviction that there are a growing number of recession-linked suicides. There were 165 officially listed suicides through June 20, roughly the same number as last year.

Psychiatrists like Danto and Frederick — head of disaster assistance for NIMH — believe many suicides never get into the official tables. Frederick and other experts on suicide maintain that there actually are about twice as many suicides each year as the official court.

"No one wants to record a suicide unless it's absolutely certain," Frederick explains. "There's the stigma, insurance problems. Families and doctors usually do all they can to classify a death as anything else."

In Los Angeles, suicide prevention director Dr. Carl Wold said, "we're not seeing more suicides, but we're seeing more by young people." At several centers, workers said the "very young" and the old seem to find the future without hope.

Frederick has conferred with many mental health center directors and reports similar findings from Buffalo, Nashville and St. Louis, "in fact, almost universally."

NIMH also surveyed 18 community mental health centers to see if there were any changes in their admission patterns.

Eleven centers reported changes that their directors thought were related to joblessness. There were centers in Brevard County, Fla.; Passaic and Saddle Brooke, N.J.; Waltham, Lowell and Fall River, Mass.; Butler, Pa.; Sylmar, Calif.; Bellingham, Wash., and two rural centers in Colorado and Wyoming.

Johns Hopkins' Brenner is a social scientist who has studied the effect of past recessions and depressions on mental and physical illness.

"In general, the serious health effects take some time to appear — a year or two to four years after the economy hits bottom," he said.

"Someone may begin to develop hypertension, but it takes some time before it becomes a heart attack. Or someone becomes an alcoholic, and it takes time before there's cirrhosis of the liver.

"Still, we are already seeing a number of things. Mental hospital admissions are beginning to increase in New York and Michigan and some other places.

"What I hope is that the government would begin to recognize that every level of unemployment carries a certain health risk. The government should be considering ways to protect the individual."

South Viets Moving City Dwellings To Countryside

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The new South Vietnamese regime is relocating city dwellers in the countryside to boost agricultural production, Saigon's Liberation Radio reported today.

The broadcast said 6,500 residents of Da Nang, the country's second largest city, recently "volunteered" to move to the country to farm.

The broadcast also said 2,000 people in the vicinity of Hue, the former imperial capital, would move to the coastal town of Phu Loc, described as a depressed economic area southeast of Hue.

Food shortages have been reported in the South Vietnamese cities since the surrender of the American-backed Saigon government on April 30 ended the import of rice and other goods paid for by U.S. aid funds.

In Thailand, the national police headquarters announced that the Thai government will continue to enforce its 1957 anti-Communist law despite the establishment of diplomatic relations with China last week. The law prohibits "any involvement in Communist activities including distributing or publishing materials on China."

Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj, who signed the agreement to open diplomatic relations, said on his return Sunday from Peking that he would never introduce communism to Thailand.

However, he said his talks with Chairman Mao Tse-tung, Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders would help Thailand understand China better.

The U.S. Air Force withdrew 15 F4 reconnaissance aircraft from Udorn Air Base, 250 miles northeast of Bangkok, continuing the withdrawal of American forces from Thailand that is scheduled to be completed by next March.

The departure leaves about 19,500 American military personnel and about 200 aircraft, a U.S. military spokesman said.

In Manila, Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos said his government wants to take control of U.S. military bases in the Philippines and turn them to "productive economic as well as military use."

However, he told a conference of Southeast Asian bankers that "at the same time we are willing to enter into new arrangements that would help the United States maintain an effective presence over the air and sea lanes of the Western Pacific."

Taiwan Denies It's Planning To Develop Nuclear Weapons

TAIPEI (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese government has no plans to develop any nuclear weapons, a Defense Ministry spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman was commenting on a report in Time magazine that U.S. intelligence experts believe the Nationalists will develop their first nuclear bomb by 1980.

"All technology for nuclear development in Taiwan is designed for peaceful uses," said the Defense Ministry.

The Nationalists installed their first nuclear reactor more than a decade ago and have installed several more advanced reactors since then.

Time said the Taipei government also is planning to develop a delivery system for its nuclear bombs and is constructing a missile range as part of this program.

In its current editions, the magazine quoted an American expert who said the island nation off the China mainland is "making the tests by programming experiments on computers, the way the Israelis did," rather than by exploding bombs. The finished device will use enriched uranium from existing reactors on the island, the magazine said.

There have been numerous reports that nuclear capability is expanding beyond the current six — the United States, Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, France, the Peoples' Republic of China and India.

Taiwan, South Korea, Pakistan, South Africa, Israel, Iran, Egypt, Brazil and Argentina are in varying stages of building nuclear power industries, and arms control officials have been watching keenly.

Ford May Try To Cut Number Of Gun Dealers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration may try to sharply reduce the number of gun dealers in the United States through gun control legislation being prepared for Congress, an administration source says.

"The proposal is to make the license fee for dealers high enough so many would find it prohibitive to deal in guns, especially the fly-by-nights who sell Saturday night specials," the source said.

The source said there are about 150,000 gun dealers in the United States and it is hoped the proposal will cut that number to about 40,000.

Many dealers are now licensed by states, but the Ford administration proposal would require all to have federal licenses. Federal licenses are currently required for dealers who import parts.

In his crime message to Congress, President Ford said he opposes federal registration of guns or gun owners, but he said he wanted to ban the manufacture and sale of cheap handguns known as Saturday night specials.

Career Training School Refund Deadline July 18

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Federal Trade Commission warns former students of vocational schools owned or franchised by Career Enterprises, Inc., that July 18 is the deadline to contact the FTC regarding their elibigility to share in a $1.25 million refund.

At Odessa, the school was known as Career Training Center.

Students from 28 similar schools in Texas will receive part of the $1.25 million refund.

The schools are no longer in operation, and the FTC has ordered that refunds totalling $1.25 million be made nationwide to students who attended one of the enterprises' schools between Jan. 1, 1969, and July 17, 1972.

Students who paid over $100 for a course are eligible for a refund of 75 per cent of the money actually paid.

However, the refunds will be denied if the student: received a job as a result of the training received; did not show up for any classes after enrolling; dropped out of the program before completing the course; or did not seek employment in the field for which the training was received.

Career Enterprises, Inc., offered courses in computer keypunching and programming, cashier-checking, and secretarial, medical and paramedical personnel training.

Former students seeking refunds should notify the Bureau of Consumer Protection, Federal Trade Commission, 1726 "M" Street, Washington, D.C. 20036, by July 18. The FTC needs the name of the student, the current mailing address, name of school attended, date of enrollment and the names of the courses taken.

Iffy Weather Space Launch's Main Concern

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The unpredictable, semitropical Florida weather is causing the most concern to scientists working on the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project.

"The thing we're sweating most is the weather," said Dr. Walter Kapryan, director of launch operations for the Kennedy Space Center, said Sunday. "As far as the crew, the launch team and the hardware are concerned, we're in real good shape."

Kayryan's main concern is the possibility of a large thunderstorm with lightning that could affect the July 15 Saturn rocket launch of the Apollo spacecraft.

Mexican Papers Report Major Narcotics Bust

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Narcotics agents seized 220 pounds of cocaine and arrested at least 11 persons including several foreigners in a recent raid at a downtown luxury hotel, Mexican newspapers say.

The attorney general's office would not confirm or deny the stories. But an agent of the local district attorney's office said he understood the raid was the "most important drug action ever carried out by Mexican authorities."

Quoting "reliable police sources," the newspaper accounts said the cocaine seized was worth about $1 million on the street in the United States. The newspaper Excelsior said the raid wiped out a major international smuggling ring and that "important personalities in Mexican public life" were implicated.

Some of the accounts said narcotics agents were alerted to make more arrests related to the case in other parts of the country.

The newspaper reports gave no names of those arrested nor did they indicate the nationality of the foreigners.

IRS Agents Writing Report On Second Secret Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top officials of the Internal Revenue Service spent the July 4 holiday writing a report that will reveal the existence of another secret intelligence operation in the Miami area.

IRS planned to turn over the report on the project called Operation Sunshine to a House Government Operations subcommittee today.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., was expected to disclose details of the project at hearings Tuesday to which IRS officials have been called to testify.

An IRS spokesman said the project and report will remain confidential until and if the Rosenthal panel makes it public.

Sources said the project deals with an IRS investigation into organized crime in the Miami area, including the possibility of rackateers infiltrating legitimate businesses.

Operation Sunshine is the second secret intelligence-gathering project known to have been run by the IRS in the Miami area.

The other, Operation Leprechaun, used informants to probe political corruption. Targets were identified initially by a federal organized crime strike force that compiled a list of 12 to 15 politicians and judges suspected of corruption.

An IRS spokesman, acknowledging a tight wall of secrecy still surrounding Sunshine, said he could not even say whether it was still in operation. All the spokesman said he knew about it was that "there is such a thing because they are preparing a report on it."

Lutherans May Force Some Officials To Quit

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — An effort was made to force at least eight district presidents of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod to amend their ways or get out. But a final decison was delayed.

The matter came up Sunday at the denomination's governing convention in a resolution declaring district leaders who have ordained graduates of a rebel seminary are in violation of the church's constitution.

If they don't stop the practice, the resolution would force them to resign or be forced out.

Delegates representing the 2.8-million member church debated the proposal for about an hour before deferring action on it until after a meeting tonight of the district presidents.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbert E. Griesse of Fort Smith, Ark., chairman of the Council of Presidents, said the delay would allow an attempt to "solve a human problem on a human level rather than on the legislative level."

This left open the possibility that the church's 38 district heads — often called bishops — would agree among themselves to promise to stop the controversial practice.

However, the Rev. Dr. Rudolph Ressmeyer of New York, head of the Atlantic District, said there was little likelihood the district-level leaders involved would submit.

He and seven other district presidents have ordained and installed in congregational posts most of the 100 graduates of a seminary in exile in St. Louis that was set up outside the church administration's control.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A young mother who left three children in a closed car in which the heat reached 140 degrees is in custody "pending the filing of charges" after two of the youngsters died, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Authorities were summoned to a sedan parked outside the Sedgwick County Courthouse on Sunday afternoon when one of three children inside the locked auto was seen convulsing. Victoria Crockett, 5, and Melvin Crocket, 22 months, were unconscious in the back seat and later pronounced dead at a hospital.

Their sister, Stephanie Crockett, 3, responded to treatment at the hospital and was released.

Egypt's Sadat Grants Amnesty To 2,000 Political Prisoners

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat has granted amnesty to about 2,000 political prisoners convicted of trying to overthrow his predecessor, the late Gamal Abdel Nasser, officials said today.

Most of the 2,000 persons affected by the measure are Communists or members of the banned Moslem Brotherhood, who were sentenced before May 15, 1971.

On that date Sadat blunted a coup attempt by key figures in the Nasser hierarchy, led by former Vice President Aly Sabry. Sabry and others convicted of political charges since then, including spies for Israel, are not included in the amnesty, officials added.

The measure is believed to be another in the series of "liberalization" moves Sadat has instituted since the October 1973 war with Israel.

It coincided with a new tide of anti-Nasser criticism in the press and courts and with elections to reform the Arab Socialist Union, the country's only authorized political party formed by Nasser to spread socialism and tighten the grip of his government over the people.

Maj. Gen. Hassan Abu Basha, director of the state security court, said the decree opened the door for many Egyptians who were sentenced in absentia and live abroad to "return home, start a new life and participate in rebuilding the country."

Thunderstorms Dominate National Weather Scene

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms and the threat of more rain dominated the weather picture in much of the nation today.

As electrical storms rolled across the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Southeast late Sunday night, more rain was threatened today and Tuesday on already-soaked sections of North Dakota and Minnesota.

New York City, meanwhile, was hit by a violent thunderstorm Sunday afternoon — just as thousands of city-dwellers were trying to return after the July 4 weekend. The storm snarled traffic, flooded some subway lines and forced the temporary closing of some major traffic arteries. Water was four feet deep at one point in the Queens Midtown Tunnel and motorists were evacuated by police when its Manhattan-bound lanes were closed for an hour.

A line of weakening thunderstorms stretched this morning from western Tennessee and Arkansas into northeast Oklahoma, and another line extended from North Carolina into Southwest Georgia.

Severe thunderstorm warnings had been posted earlier in southwestern Missouri and adjacent sections of Arkansas and Oklahoma. Other late night thunderstorms spread from the Great Lakes into the Ohio Valley and the central Plains, and isolated thunderstorm activity was reported in the Rockies and the Pacific Northwest.

Overnight temperatures were warm — generally in the upper 70s along the Canadian border and up to the upper 90s in the desert Southwest.

Conceal Honor To Induce Duck

You've probably heard the expression "Cover an honor with an honor." It's not a good rule to follow, but many of your opponents swear by it. Give them an honor to cover when you will profit by the cover, but conceal the honor from them when you don't want a cover.

Opening lead — ♣ 8

West leads the eight of clubs, East puts up the jack, and you, South, win with the king.

West would hardly lead your bid suit if he had only four cards of the suit himself. Hence you must win nine tricks on the run. If you lose a trick, the opponents will take four clubs as well.

You need at least four diamond tricks. How should you play the suit?

Lead Is Important

If you lead the ten of diamonds, West will cover the honor. When West plays his queen of diamonds you must win in dummy. Now you are limited to three diamond tricks.

Since you don't want this to happen you must conceal the ten of diamonds when you first tackle the suit. Begin the diamonds by leading the nine from your hand instead of the ten.

Unless West is right on his toes he will duck your nine of diamonds. Once you have stolen that trick you can lead the ten of diamonds to repeat the finesse. You can overtake with dummy's jack if West plays low, and you make your contract with an overtrick.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Living Will Gives Peace Of Mind

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old reader who wants to thank you for the best present I have ever received.

Because of an item in your column, I sent for The Living Will. Now I have peace of mind, knowing that if I should become terminally ill, those who love me will not have to watch me die by inches. (I went through 22 months of that. My mother died of cancer.)

Abby, you would be doing your readers a tremendous service by explaining The Living Will and telling them how to obtain one.

S.S. IN BOSTON

DEAR S.S.: The Living Will is simply a document that reads as follows:

"To my family, my physician, my lawyer, my clergyman,

"To any medical facility in whose care I happen to be,

"To any individual who may become responsible for my health, welfare or affairs:

"Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity and old age—it is the one certainty of life. If the time comes when I, (name), can no longer take part in decisions for my own future, let this statement stand as an expression of my wishes while I am still of sound mind.

"If the situation should arise in which there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from physical or mental disability, I request that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by artificial means or "heroic measures." I do not fear death itself as much as the indignities of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain. I therefore ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may hasten the moment of death.

"This request is made after careful consideration. I hope you who care for me will feel morally bound to follow its mandate. I recognize that this appears to place a heavy responsibility upon you, but it is with the intention of relieving you of such responsibility and of placing it upon myself in accordance with my strong convictions that this statement is made."

Signed:

Date: Witness: Witness: Copies of this request have been given to (.)

Thus far, over half a million Living Wills have been distributed. (Yes, I have signed one.)

Contrary to what many believe, "euthanasia" does NOT mean "mercy killing"; it means "the good death." I am absolutely opposed to killing for any reason. However, should it be positively determined that there is no hope for my recovery, I believe that it is my right to be allowed to die with dignity.

It is not "against" anyone's religion. Pope Pius XII said in 1957: "The removal of pain and consciousness by means of drugs is permitted by religion and morality for both doctor and patient, even if the use of drugs shortens life."

A California reader offered to donate $1,000 to my favorite charity for acquainting him with The Living Will.

And one Texan wrote: "I want to fill out a Living Will because when Gabriel blows his horn, no S.O.B. is going to keep me from going."

The Living Will can be obtained by writing to The Euthanasia Educational Council, 250 W. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019. It is a non-profit organization, so with your request, please enclose a few dollars (tax deductible) to cover the cost of the documents and mailing.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)

by

Bryan Bost

Matthew 27:26 is one of the saddest verses in the Bible. It reads: "Then he released for them Barabbas, and having scourged Jesus, delivered him to be crucified." How sad that the Roman governor Pilate gave into the pressure of the crowd and sent an innocent man to be executed. How sad that the people wanted a murderer released instead of one who went about doing good. How sad that the world violently rejected the Son of God when he lived on earth as a man.

And yet, in the sadness there is a sense of purpose and joy. The Roman soldier stated it well after Jesus' death when he said, "Truly this was the Son of God." Only God has so much love to allow his Son to be crucified for our sins. Only Jesus has so much love to give his life when through his divine power he could have prevented his death. So, out of the hatred of the crowd that wanted Jesus killed came the sacrifice for the sins of the world. Sadness is turned to joy by the love of God. Defeat is turned to victory by God's power in the resurrection. We can share that joy and victory when we share in Jesus Christ.

Woman Said To Be Better At Taking Car For Garage Repairs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Car repair bills might be lower if husbands let their wives take ailing autos to the garage, a female transmission expert suggests.

Men are often hesitant to show how little they know about their cars, and in an effort to hide their ignorance they may agree to whatever repairs a mechanic advises, says Lucille Treganowan, who operates "Transmissions by Lucille" in suburban Penn Hills.

"This makes a man more vulnerable to rip-offs than their wives, who aren't hesitant to ask 'dumb' questions," said Mrs. Treganowan, also a member of the Pittsburgh chapter of Automotive Service Councils of America.

Mrs. Treganowan teaches powder puff courses on auto mechanics and she says her students "would walk out if a garage repairman makes a decision without first checking their car." In an effort to show the public that most auto repair shops have integrity despite the shoddy practices of a few, the council is encouraging consumers to be more selective about who works on their cars.

Frank Gentile, president of the local council, said the organization is policing its own people. The group is made up of experts in every facet of auto repair — transmission, radiator, air conditioning, body work, mechanical and glass, he said.

The local chapter, which covers Allegheny County, recently established a consumer review board made up of the county Bureau of Consumer Protection and a private group called the Alliance of Public Affairs.

"We wanted to remove the black eye so many back alley garages have given the industry," said Milo Carlson, chairman of the council's auto body repair council.

"The review board gives patrons of a shop access to impartial review procedure to help resolve his complaints," Carlson said.

If the review board finds a member shop wrong in a dispute, the shop must correct the problem or face expulsion from the council.

"Most complaints have been settled amicably. Good members don't want to be thrown out," Gentile said.

Mrs. Treganowan said the service council is also pressing for legislation to require the licensing of repair shops.

"As it stands now, anyone who wants to can hang up a sign. Until there is such legislation, we're trying to clean up the industry ourselves," she said.

HINTS FROM Heloise

It's A Pressing Problem On A Muggy Day!

Dear Seamstresses:

I have been on a sewing jag recently. And really sewed up a storm!

And did I ever run across a newsy.

I couldn't find my pressing cloth. Tried a dish towel instead, and let me give you a tip right now about that.

Don't EVER use one.

Sometimes they will contain some grease and it gets on your beautiful material as soon as that hot iron hits it.

Take it from me, it's true.

As a last resort I grabbed some white paper towels and wet 'em. Squeezed them out real good and applied them to the seams and pressed away.

It was a discovery of the week.

As soon as the towels dried (the paper will turn white again), the seam was pressed perfectly. Most amazing. Remove the iron and go to another spot. . .

These towels can be reused umpteen times. And when you get through with 'em, save them to use in the kitchen.

Another good thing about this is that you can tell if your iron is too hot because the paper will scorch quicker than the old pressing cloth.

Try it to believe it. Whatcha' got to lose except a paper towel?

And you only lost part of that because it's resusable. . . .

Love,
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a valuable tip that I've given several people when they needed to have a cord stretched across a walking area in an emergency situation.

My aunt was confined to bed for several months and needed her phone beside her, thus leaving the cord dangerously lying in the pathway of everyone who came in to see her.

I sealed the flap of an envelope over the cord.

Granted everyone who came into the room automatically stooped to pick up the envelope (which continually delighted her), but no one missed seeing the cord!

Dorothy Hurley

Dear Heloise:

I am planning a camping vacation and got to thinking about the mess I have when I take a large sack of charcoal.

I decided that before I leave, I will measure out the different amounts I will need into lunch bags and staple the tops closed to prevent spilling.

These bags will stack nicely in the car and each evening when I am ready to cook, I will just put the sack in the grill.

This will eliminate having to handle the coals and getting black soot all over my hands.

Hope someone else can use this idea too!

Dee Baxley

Why not use the cardboard egg cartons? The briquettes will fit easily in the carton just like eggs. They will stack easy and the carton will burn, starting the charcoal.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

About the cheapest, handiest disposable diaper liner I've found is a man-sized facial tissue, folded in half.

Lisa Bogarty

Dear Heloise:

If you are one of those who have to wear a wig during the summer days, try my trick.

I wet my hair before putting on my wig. I feel refreshed for at least half a day, then when I feel hot I go to the ladies' room and wet my hair again.

It sure makes me feel more comfortable on hot days.

CIA Funding O.K.

Congressman George Mahon, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, again has shown sound judgment in taking a strong stand in defense of secret funding for the nation's Central Intelligence Agency.

He realizes full well that his stand will be criticized by the liberal press and others, but George Mahon is one congressman who will stand by his convictions regardless.

"Why tell potential enemies of the United States, such as China, Russia, Cuba or whoever, how much money we may be spending in 'keeping tab' on what they are doing," Mahon said in an interview with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

He noted that everything the CIA has done does not meet with his approval, but on balance, "the organization plays and has played a key role in protecting the best interests of the U.S."

Neither is he sure that the "staggering sum spent on intelligence can be defended," but at the same time he argues that keeping the CIA budget "hidden" also prevents the entire world from knowing the extent of the nation's intelligence gathering effort.

This is a highly controversial matter which has been argued pro and con for a long time, but it all boils down to the fact that such an organization is essential and that its secret operations must be kept that way for overall effectiveness.

Mahon explained in the interview the procedure followed by the Appropriations Committee in funding the CIA. After committee members decide on the amounts, the agency's funding is filtered into other budget items and various other agency appropriations. The appropriations bill, following this procedure, does not reveal that any money is given to the CIA. It is noteworthy, however, that the CIA's askings receive the same close scrutiny as other agencies.

The congressman made it clear that he does not condone some of the excesses in which the secret organization has engaged. But he sees more good than harm in the CIA. We agree.

It is an accepted fact that any nation, in order to survive, must engage in some sort of "checking up" on friends and foes alike. This has been going on from the beginning of diplomacy, and undoubtedly will continue from here on out.

Proper channels can and undoubtedly will be set up to keep proper tab on what the agency is doing, making sure that it is performing in the manner intended. As the Lubbock newspaper pointed out, "those channels, incidentally, aren't the ones used for television commentators or columnists who seemingly see only one side of the issue."

Wonderful Weather

The 4th of July weather in Wonderful West Texas really was wonderful . . . calm, cool and delightful all-the-way.

The highly publicized mountain, lake and sea breeze resort areas would have been hard-pressed to produce weather as pleasant as that enjoyed here and elsewhere in this region of the Lone Star State over the holiday weekend.

Rains earlier in the week over much of the vast West Texas territory cleared the way for delightful weather dreamed about in other parts of the country.

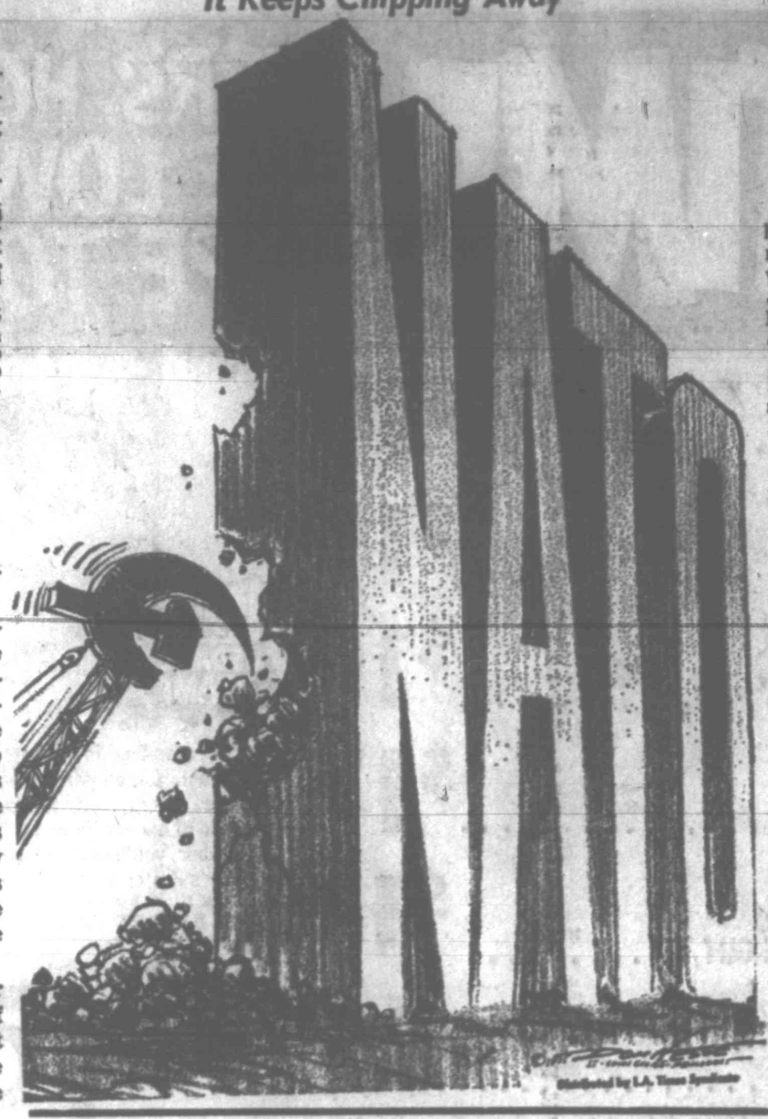

And it really wasn't too unusual for this particular season, especially when rainfall, which usually comes in late June and early July, cools and freshens the atmosphere.

In fact, West Texas climate, year-round is difficult to equal or beat. It comes about as near being ideal as one can find.

West Texans expect it and enjoy it, but as a whole we do not do a very good job of publicizing it, compared to some other regions.

Anyway, it's really great . . . so, go right ahead and bask in its wonderfully pleasant, health-giving qualities.

It Keeps Chipping Away

INSIDE REPORT—

Appeal For Bucharest Issued By President

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A list of "several hundred" Jewish and non-Jewish Romanians recently granted emigration visas was quietly delivered to Sen. Henry M. Jackson 10 days ago in the latest round of Romania's extraordinary campaign for equal treatment in its trade with the U.S.

That followed Romanian president Nicolae Ceausescu's unprecedented stopover visit here June 11 to lobby Jackson and other congressional builders of the barricade to trade equality known as the Jackson amendment, aimed at forcing Communist countries to permit free emigration as the price for U.S. trade equality.

In fact, the Jackson amendment had one major target — freeing Jews from the Soviet Union. Now caught in the snare of the amendment is Romania, the Eastern European Communist state that, with the sole exception of Yugoslavia, has most courageously refused to toe Moscow's foreign policy line. Instead, Romania has staked out bold independence in its relations with nations not in the Soviet orbit, particularly China and the U.S.

It was precisely for that reason that President Ford asked Congress to waive the Jackson amendment for Romania. The waiver requires approval of both the House and the Senate and administration officials are now in the midst of trying to persuade the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees to adopt waiver resolutions.

Thus, involved here is far more than simply the question of extending most-favored-nation status to Romania (along with U.S. credits to lubricate heavier two-way trade). At stake is a basic principle of U.S. foreign policy to weaken once-monolithic Soviet control over its Eastern European empire.

Evans

That principle supports doing whatever is possible to encourage diversity and independent policies within the Soviet Union's Communist orbit. Yet, even though trade with the U.S. is an obvious lever with which to encourage Romanian diversity, it is now being blocked by an act of Congress designed not nearly so much for Romania as for the Soviet Union, where many hundreds of thousands out of three million Jews desperately want to emigrate.

Romania on the other hand has allowed some 300,000 Jews to emigrate, most of them to Israel, over the past 20 years. There are now no more than 100,000 — at the maximum — left in Romania.

Moreover, Romania is the only Eastern European state that kept formal diplomatic relations with Israel after Israel's conquest of Arab lands in the 1967 war. At a press conference in Bucharest early last month, Israeli foreign minister Yigal Allon praised Romania's treatment of its remaining Jewish population. "As a Jew," he said, "I witnessed how the Jewish community in this country enjoys the liberty of cult, spiritual and religious freedom and that the members of this community are everywhere considered equal citizens."

Even conceding the diplomatic niceties imposed by a formal visit, Allon's remarks went beyond any protocol requirements. That helps explain why some Congressmen who met with Ceausescu here on June 11 were embarrassed at Jackson's characteristically blunt talk in demanding proof that Ceausescu would lift emigration bars for Romanians, particularly those wanting to go to Israel.

The list of "several hundred" Romanians recently granted visas which was quietly delivered to the Senator 10 days ago was the first hard fruit of Ceausescu's personal lobbying and Jackson's personal pressure. All told, some 1,500 visas were issued in Romania during June, including 500 whose destination — if they actually get out — is the U.S.

But even if that visa list turns out to be a fraudulent maneuver to influence congressional passage of the Jackson amendment waiver, the maneuver can't work for long. That's because under terms of the Jackson amendment,a complete review of the Romanian emigration experience must take place next June, at which time equality in trade would be cancelled if the emigration doors have been shut.

The litmus test for how Congress will decide the President's waiver request is in the leadership of the American-Jewish community and among the original congressional backers of the Jackson amendment. One such Congressman told us that Romania's past performance on emigration, particularly of Romanian Jews, has convinced him to support the waiver "if they can show any increase" over 1974, when 3,500 emigrants left.

Others see a more Machiavellian reason to support the waiver. They are deeply concerned over the precipitous decline in Soviet Jewish emigration from a peak of 35,000 in 1973, at a time Moscow was trying to negotiate around the Jackson amendment by widening the door to Israel. The drop to less than half that number suggests what might follow rejection of Mr. Ford's waiver request.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON
With Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Recently we reported that Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos offered a former confidant, Primitivo Mijares, a $50,000 bribe not to tell the U.S. Congress what he knows about corruption in the Philippines.

Now we can reveal the story that Marcos tried to cover up. It is another Watergate scandal, Philippine version — a story of high crimes and misdemeanors, ranging from abuse of power to misuse of government funds.

The story is told in a 24-page memo, which Mijares submitted to the House International Organization subcommittee. In the memo, he freely confesses his own dirty work for Marcos.

The memo details how Marcos won re-election in 1969 using some of the same tactics that Richard Nixon picked up in 1972. Mijares describes the Marcos campaign as "the dirtiest election ever held in the Philippines."

Marcos used "goons, guns and gold," his former confidant charges, to win the 1969 election. The strategy was to create an atmosphere of disturbance, which called for Marcos' strong hand to control.

The Philippine president, according to the memo, "had military personnel infiltrate the ranks of demonstrators to explode bombs in their midst and to instigate the demonstrators into committing acts of violence."

Philippine air force infiltrators allegedly lobbed "heavy explosives in front of the (U.S.) consular offices," and "armed forces psychological warfare units" conducted bombing on Manila's water system, city hall and the bathroom of the Constitutional Convention. The violence was "later blamed by Mr. Marcos on the Maoist People's Army."

The incidents that Marcos secretly encouraged, Mijares alleges, had their innocent victims. When a bomb exploded inside a department store, for example, "a family man who was buying a gift for a child observing its birthday was blown to bits." A conscience-stricken police sergeant later confessed he had planted the bomb "on superior orders," claims Mijares.

To improve his press notices, Marcos allowed "heavy borrowings from the Philippine Bank," according to the memo, so a toady could buy up a "media empire." Allegedly, the pro-Marcos media even collected "part of their salaries. . . from the president's contingent fund."

These tactics worked so well, charges Mijares, that the re-elected Marcos continued using them to take over dictatorial power. Under the Philippine constitution. Marcos was limited to two terms, but he had no intention of retiring.

He continued to whip up a crisis fever. He staged "a supposed landing of combat weapons," for example, "along the coast of Digoyo." Mijares claims the weapons were planted by "a special operations group of trusted military men," but Marcos loudly blamed "a foreign power" and "Maoist guerrillas."

There was also a faked ambush, Mijares charges, involving a Philippine official's car. By exploiting these incidents, Marcos had the country psychologically ready for his proclamation of martial law on Sept. 21, 1973. With a great show of benevolence, he proclaimed a so-called "smiling martial law." He quickly restored order and gave the citizenry respite from turmoil. But he also closed down opposition newspapers and jailed recalcitrant editors and rivals.

Marcos asked a Constitutional Convention to put a stamp of legitmacy upon his dictatorship. But when the delegates showed a little independence, the memo states, he "caused the arrest and detention in military stockades of delegates" and "bribed floor leaders of the convention with money and favors."

To make doubly sure the convention gave Marcos the powers he wanted, alleges Mijares, the results "were manufactured by a group headed by the president's favorite brother-in-law, Gov. Benjamin Romualdez."

Mijares had personal knowledge that the convention vote was rigged, he writes, because "I was a member of that group." Just as John Dean later confessed his role in the Nixon scandals, Mijares describes how he ordered the takeover of a newspaper, investigated an Associated Press reporter, prepared phony stories on revolutionaries and committed other outrages on Marcos' orders.

The Mijares memo then tells how Marcos' "military regime has gone absolutely corrupt." The dictator parceled out to his cronies the licenses to smuggle in luxury goods and to smuggle out sugar, copra, lumber and cement, charges Mijares. Military supporters have been given fabulously lucrative rackets in Manila to run as they please, he adds.

Through front men, according to Mijares, Marcos has taken over agricultural lands in northern Luzon, the Visayas and Mindanao. He also allegedly controls oil concessions, a huge export business, a free trade zone in Mariveles and even a claim on some buried World War II Japanese treasure in the Sierra Madre.

Mijares also claims that Marcos has misused some of the $100 million in U.S. aid he gets each year. The greatest part of U.S. medical aid, for example, "goes to the United Drug Company, the biggest pharmaceutical firm in the country, which is owned by a front man of the president," alleges the memo.

Yet the U.S. State Department, swears Mijares, has thwarted Marcos' democratic opponents by supporting "the Philippine martial regime."

Looking For A 'Pariah' Group To Blame

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — "The educational confusion between the French and the American revolutions," observed historian Otto J. Scott, "has kept us from appreciating what the American Revolution was all about; it has kept us from being able to realize and extend its basic principles."

Scott contends that the basic principle of the American Revolution of 1776 was limiting the powers of government over people, while the French Revolution of 1789 was the exercise of unlimited government power over people.

Both revolutions are celebrated each year during the month of July, the American on the 4th and the French on the 14th that commemorates the storming of the Paris prison fortress known as the Bastille in 1789.

In his study of the principal leader of the French upheaval ("Robespierre: The Voice of Virtue," Mason & Lipscomb, N.Y., $9.95) one is made aware of the striking similarities in what happened in France in 1789 and what is happening in America today. In an interview with the West Coast correspondent of the TVN Newservice, Kenneth Gale, Scott spelled out his theory that the effects of the French and American revolutions are still felt in 1975.

"Robespierre was probably the most remarkable of a whole group of remarkable young men," Scott told Gale. "He was an unsuccessful lawyer; today we would call him a social activist lawyer.

"He went into court, before the revolution (of 1789) started, to represent various unpopular clients. But he wasn't so much interested in their cases as he was in castigating the system of justice.

"Now Robespierre, in person, was clean living; he didn't drink to excess, he didn't chase girls, he didn't take bribes, he lived in modest quarters and he came across almost like Ralph Nader; as a fellow who was more concerned with the people than himself. The only problem was...his finger would point at one or another individual, whom he described as an enemy of the people, and they were taken away and executed. And, at one point, in a private conversation, he actually discussed reducing the population of France from 25 million to five million so that it would be manageable!"

Scott maintains that the French Revolution was the "granddaddy" of all left-wing revolutions, including the Soviet one engineered by Lenin. Does he believe that the American Revolution is in danger of being subverted on the nature of the French and Soviet?

"Well, the extension of government power in the United States," he replies, "has taken us away from our origins.

"This country started out with the idea that the average man had been held down, all through history, by individuals who considered themselves his intellectual betters and who would do the thinking and planning and give the orders to him.

"And for at least the first hundred years this country proved that argument was a fallacy because the average man and woman in the United States came out with a flood of inventions; a flood of enterprises; and an avalanche of projects that astounded the world. Now, I believe, we have fallen back into the French pit."

A contemporary illustration of the above can be glimpsed in the active attempts in Congress and at universities like Harvard to institutionalize the idea of aggressive and pervasive government planning of the economy on an unprecedented scale. And this effort is being launched as we prepare to celebrate the Bicentnnial of the American Revolution—which had been successfully waged as a revolt against the very kind of economic and political controls imposed on the Colonies by Britain from 1765 to 1775.

"If the government, as they found in France and as they found in the Soviet Union," states Scott, "if the government is going to undertake to do the planning, the rest of us have to carry out the plan, whether we like it or not. And those that resist the plan become labeled as 'enemies of the people.'"

The Communist regimes are the ultimate end of the belief in government planning. An example of the sometimes revolutionary nature of economic and political dictatorship is found in both Portugal and here at home. On June 6, 1975, the Washington Star reported from Lisbon that the left-wing military government announced it was assuming power to freeze all private assets if it believed such persons holding such assets acted against the good of the national economy.

Similar, but less stern, edicts had been issued by the federal government against American businessmen during the attempts to make wage and price controls work.

Scott points out further that beginning with the French Revolution of 1789 each revolutionary movement has needed a "scapegoat" or "pariah" group to blame. In France of 1789 it was the aristocracy; in Russia of 1917 Lenin used the Czar; in Nazi Germany it was the Jews; and in Mao's China it was the land owners.

"What if the American Revolution were to go astray here?" Scott asks rhetorically. "What would be the pariah group? Well, what group in the United States has the worst press? It's our free enterprise groups. American business probably has the worst press of any influential group. And, of course, were we to eliminate our private business group, we would be eliminating economic liberty.

"And you cannot have political liberty when you eliminate economic freedom.

"The French Revolution," Scott adds, "started out as an antigroup and this is one of the hallmarks between a true American Revolution and a French heresy. A real revolution seeks to liberate all groups and a revolution that is being used as an instrument for the total seizure of absolute power has to have a pariah group. And it is usually a group which is conspicuous, which is in better condition than the average, and which has lost the power to defend itself."

Mother Of Hostage Tapes Appeal To Zaire Rebels

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) — The mother of the American student still being held hostage by Marxist guerrillas in Africa has taped an appeal to the rebels to free her son.

Mittie Smith recorded the message early Sunday. It was sent to Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, to be translated and passed on to the Popular Revolutionary Party.

Her son, Stephen Smith, 22, a student at Stanford University, was one of four young people kidnaped May 19 from a remote research station on Lake Tanganyika between Tanzania and Zaire.

"You must know how much anguish you've caused us since May 19," Mrs. Smith said in the message.

"Steve's dad and I are just hard-working people. My husband works on the docks unloading ships. I work in a hospital helping the aged and sick," Mrs. Smith said calmly.

"We are not wealthy and if it hadn't been for Steve's hard work and dedication he would not have been able to go to college.

"I plead with you to let my son go now," the message concluded. "If any of you have children of your own, you surely must love them as much as I love Steve and you would realize how much I already have suffered."

The rebels have been described as a Marxist organization seeking to overthrow Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko.

Soon after kidnaping the four young people from the town of Kigoma, Tanzania, where the students were doing research on baboons, the guerrillas released one — Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich. — with a note demanding the release of leftist prisoners from Tanzanian jails, weapons, ammunition and $500,000.

After Tanzania rejected the demands, international efforts succeeded in gaining the release June 28 of two other students — Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif., and Emilie Bergman, 25, of The Netherlands.

Rod Serling: There'll Be No Third Act

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD—For Rod Serling, a writer who was obsessed with the phenomenon of time, the ultimate and surpassingly tragic irony is that he was granted so little of it. There are no third acts in American lives, Scott Fitzgerald once said, meaning in particular the lives of American writers. What might have unfolded from his typewriter if Rod Serling, dead at 50, had been given those added years, his own third act?

As a playwright—perhaps the dominant literary figure spawned by television—Serling was moving into trickier waters, deeper, more profound emotions. From the very outset, entering TV's upper ranks with an explosive drama about big business called "Patterns," Serling etched his reputation as an exponent of the trip-hammer school.

There was, in a Serling script, always that trademark of crackling buckshot for dialogue in which the colloquial and the literate were somehow deftly fused. His work, as someone once remarked about Fitzgerald's writing, invariably had bones in it, along with a very special pungent imprint, distinctly Serling.

A subtle transformation occurred, however, in one of his last major works, "A Storm in Summer."

In this Serling cast his gaze on the conflict of youth and age as personified by an elderly delicatessen proprietor and a black lad of 10, a product of the Harlem ghetto with terribly old, angry eyes that told of hate and suspicion.

This, in short, was Serling expanding his horizons. Here was Serling edging out with compassion in another, warmer dimension, stretching his vast gifts as dramatist, and we could share his searching glimpse into the truth of the human condition as he perceived it.

It was, moreover, characteristic of Rod Serling in its absorption with time. In "Requiem for a Heavyweight," his most well-known play for television, it was again the passage of time that gave the yarn its substance as Serling dwelled on an old prizefighter at the end of his rope.

Even before "The Twilight Zone," which was indisputably concerned with time, Serling wrote a science fiction item called "The Time Element," wherein a horseplayer (played by William Bendix) is transplanted in his dreams to Dec. 6, 1941. And there, given his prior knowledge of events past, he scatters bets on the Joe Louis-Buddy Baer fight, on the next World Series, on the Kentucky Derby.

If time was a theme of persistent fascination to Serling as a writer, the inexorable march of the years he found both distressing and, in a curious sense, challenging. A paratrooper in World War II, with 60 combat leaps to his credit, Serling elected to celebrate his 40th birthday by hitting the silk at Ft. Bragg in North Carolina with 120 other jumpers.

Serling made the leap from 2,000 feet with 35 other men aboard a C-124 Globemaster. He was the second man out.

"There was one guy to lead me," Rod said later, "and 34 to push me out."

This was Rod Serling: self-deprecatory, good-natured, candid, tough-minded. Rod Serling—you thought of him always as a guy who smiled and laughed more than most of us, a very likable man who took sharp bites out of life and who, sitting quietly at a table, created the odd tension of a boxer in his corner, a wound-up welterweight about to enter the ring.

It was one of life's ironies that Rod Serling's voice, the voice of a writer, would become so recognizable. You could hear Rod's voice in narration of the Jacques Cousteau specials on ocean life and you could also hear his voice—over commercials, a lucrative venture.

Once, in the spirit of banter, I asked Rod why he wasn't hammering at his typewriter instead of talking into a microphone.

I remember his shrug and his smile. "It's not easy to turn down," Serling said then. "For one aspirin commercial they pay me a fast $4,000 up front and it'll bring in maybe $15,000 over a year—all this for 20 minutes' work in an afternoon. On the other hand, I can work months on a script and it may not satisfy me or a producer and that's time down the tube."

Time down the tube. And then the time ran out.

Texas Logs 44 Traffic Deaths During Weekend

By The Associated Press

Holiday motorists died at a slower rate in Texas than predicted by the Department of Public Safety, but a sizable number of persons were killed on the state's streets and highways to start the nation's 200th year.

The Associated Press counted violent deaths in the state ran from 6 p.m. Thursday and included fatalities that occurred before midnight Sunday.

Early today, the violence toll stood at 72, with 43 persons killed in traffic accidents. State stood at 73, with 44 persons would die in traffic mishaps.

Among deaths recently reported:

South Korean Floods Kill 11

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The year's first floods in the three southern provinces known as South Korea's "rice bowl" took at least 11 lives and left 400 homeless, 10 missing and two injured over the weekend, police said today.

Authorities said the flooding followed rainfalls of up to eight inches Saturday and Sunday.

In other areas of the nation, milder rains relieved a five-week drought, they said.

Circus Aerialist Injured In Fall

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A featured Ringling Brother's Barnum and Bailey Circus aerialist, Anka Ivanoa, was in Bexar County Hospital today after suffering a fractured pelvis in a fall during her act Sunday.

Richard Fleming, a spectator at the circus performance, said the performer had finished her act and was about 20 feet above the ground when she fell.

Romania Issues 6-Point Program To Fight Floods

VIENNA (AP) — The Romanian government today issued a six-point program to battle floods that have ravaged large parts of central and southeast Europe, the official Romanian news agency Agerpress reported.

The directives called on all working people to work selflessly to save the crops, to start harvesting in areas immediately threatened by new floods, to restore rail and road traffic, to repair damaged communications, to continue work in the factories and to ensure strict order and discipline.

Agerpress said the country faced the gravest menace from the Danube, Mures and Ialomita rivers. The Danube was expected to crest in Romania late Tuesday, the agency said.

Agerpres said that the rain continued to fall throughout Romania until early today and new rainfalls were expected for the next 24 hours.

Later in the week, the Danube and its tributary the Draba are expected to crest in Yugoslavia and farmers were rushing to harvest before the anticipated floods inundate their fields.

Some Yugoslavian weathermen were predicting a "veritable catastrophe" when the rivers run over.

European Birth Rate Declines

Agence France-Presse

GENEVA — The European birth rate has reached a turning point and the total population will be stagnant in another 30 years, a report of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe indicated here today.

U.N. experts noted an increasing tendency in practically all European countries for families to have no more than two children.

The number of old people will therefore increase relative to the whole population. Welfare state investments will have to be reoriented accordingly, the report forecast.

The declining birth rate in Europe is accompanied by an increased divorce rate and reduced marriage rate.

Marcos Denies Trying To Bribe Former Aide

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos today denied charges made in the United States by his former press censor that Marcos had attempted to silence him with a $50,000 bribe.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said: "Our attention is called to an allegation appearing in the foreign press, accusing President Marcos of attempting to bribe a certain Primitivo Mijares, reportedly to prevent the latter from testifying before a subcommittee in the United States Congress. The president vehemently denies this."

Mijares, now living in San Francisco, was chairman of the defunct government-created Media Advisory Council and top columnist of the Philippine Daily Express, owned by relatives of the president, until he went into exile in the United States last year. He was reputed to be the only presidential reporter who could see the president without prior appointment.

Reports from Washington last week said Mijares claimed the results of the national referendum favoring Marcos' martial law were manufactured and that the Supreme Court decision upholding martial law was written at Marcos' presidential palace.

Tatad's statement made no mention of these charges.

"The claim," said Tatad, "is that the president talked to Primitivo Mijares by overseas telephone at 11 p.m. on June 16, 1975 prior to the latter's appearance before the subcommittee.

"No such telephone conversation ever took place.

"The policy of the Philippine government has been to open to the outside world all facts relevant to the Philippines under martial law. Consistent with this policy, the government has welcomed, and continues to welcome, those interested in reporting conditions in the country.

"In view of the seriousness of the charge, however, the president has ordered the Department of Foreign Affairs to immediately conduct an investigation. He has also ordered that any government personnel, here or abroad, who might be involved in any transaction having any bearing on the published claim of Primitivo Mijares reveal all the details of such involvement to the investigating agency."

Auto Industry Employment Hits New Low Today

DETROIT (AP) — Unemployment in the auto industry, which peaked last February when more than 270,000 hourly workers were affected, hits a seven-month low of 141,002 today.

The four major U.S. car companies are stepping up assembly rates at many plants because of a slight improvement in car sales, and because the firms are closing out production of 1975-model car and trucks.

June car sales were the best in 11 months.

Meanwhile, Ford Motor Co. and American Motors are giving thousands of their workers paid vacations. Ford is closing 26 plants and AMC will shut down three factories to gear up for 1976-model production.

Last week 144,182 auto industry blue-collar workers were on furloughs, all but 4,150 of them indefinitely.

This week temporary layoffs will idle 6,470 persons, while indefinite layoffs are down almost 6,000 to 134,532. The nation's four major car companies employ about 712,000 hourly workers.

The industry jobless toll hasn't been this low since November, when the auto companies began to trim production because of sagging sales.

Congress To Consider Naval Reserve Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns from an Independence Day recess facing debate this week on bills to open naval petroleum reserves for development and other energy proposals.

The Senate returns to work today and the House ends its 10-day recess on Tuesday. Congress will be at work for four weeks before beginning its month-long August recess.

Both the House and Senate are to consider bills on opening naval petroleum reserves for production, and the Senate also may take up a measure to extend federal price controls on so-called old domestic production.

In addition to energy legislation, the Senate will resume its debate on the still-disputed outcome of last November's New Hampshire Senate race between Democrat John A. Durkin and Republican Louis E. Wyman. On Tuesday, Senate Democrats will make a fourth attempt to halt floor debate, but the move is given poor chances for approval.

Even if the move succeeds, the issue still must go back to the Senate Rules Committee, which must settle questions on some 30 disputed ballots and report back.

In the House, a battle is shaping up between sponsors of competing versions of bills to open up naval oil reserves in Elk Hills, Calif., and elsewhere.

A bill sponsored by Reps. John Melcher, D-Mont., and Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., would transfer jurisdiction of the naval reserves from the Navy to the Interior Department. It would allow the government to sell oil and gas reserves from Elk Hills on the open market if needed to help ease the nation's energy crisis.

The other proposal, backe by the House Armed Services Committee, also would authorize production of oil in the reserves but would keep it under Navy control. And it would specify that oil produced from Elk Hills and other naval fields could be sold only to the military.

The Armed Services Committee bill will be considered first. If that is rejected, then the House will take up the Melcher-Bell proposal.

The Senate bill, under debate since June 27, would keep the reserves under control of the Navy and would direct the Navy secretary to order production from the reserves for a period of seven years.

Yates Unitization Pacts Now 95 Per Cent Complete

FINDLAY, Ohio, — Marathon Oil Company has announced that owners of 95 per cent of the working interest in the Yates field of West Texas have executed agreements to unitize the field.

Agreements will be circulated among the remaining working interest owners and the field's numerous royalty owners for their consideration and approval, according to Robert E. McMillen, Marathon's senior vice president of production, U. S. and Canada.

"When enough working and royalty interest interest owners have signed the unit agreement to qualify the necessary number of tracts, an application will be filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for approval of unitization and for an increase in daily field production rate from 50,000 barrels per day to 100,000. We feel confident the commission will act promptly and favorably on both requests," Mr. McMillen said.

He said application of a field-wide engineered program of reservoir management can increase the ultimate oil recovery from the field by approximately 200 million barrels.

The agreements designate Marathon as unit operator. If all tracts within the field finally participate is the unit, Marathon will have a 49.4 percent share of participation.

Senate Checking Price Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent increases in gasoline prices have become the target of a special Senate investigation.

Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill, announced the investigation Sunday and said it will try to determine if oil companies purposely cut refinery production in order to raise gasoline prices.

They said the first round of hearings will begin within two weeks by the permanent subcommittee on investigations, headed by Jackson, and the Commerce subcommittee on oil and gas production and distribution, headed by Stevenson.

Federal energy officials said last week they expect gasoline prices to increase by three to five cents per gallon this summer, and several major oil firms announced price hikes during the week.

Gulf States To Buck Striking Plant Workers

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A Gulf States Utilities Co. executive says his firm will continue service to its 405,000 customers despite a strike by 2,200 employes belonging to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A union official said the union had made its position "clear to the company and unless they are prepared to make substantial concessions, it's going to be a long hot summer."

The union put up pickets at Gulf States' power plants, service centers and offices in Texas and Louisiana at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Floyd Smith, Gulf State chairman of the board, said his company will use supervisors and other employes to maintain service.

The strike began after the Local 2285 bargaining committee turned down a package the company said included wage and benefit increases of more than 25 per cent over two years.

Ed W. Barton, the local union's business agent, said he would contact company officials to see "if there is any hope of getting the talks back together."

Negotiations involving the company, the union and a federal mediator, who joined in the discussions Thursday, extended into early Sunday morning before ending.

A Gulf States spokesman said the firm's last offer Saturday night included a 10.5 per cent immediate pay increase, another 5.5 per cent hike Jan. 4, 1976, and a 7.5 per cent increase July 4, 1976.

The spokesman said the company also offered significant improvements in the retirement program, increased company contributions to medical and life insurance programs and an additional holiday.

The union represents Gulf States employes over an area from north and east of Houston to east of Baton Rouge, La.

Coastal States Case Continues

By ROBERT HEARD

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Coastal States Gas Producing Co. intended "from the very beginning" to shift to a subsidiary with little net worth and obligation to furnish gas to the Lower Colorado River Authority, an LCRA lawyer argued today.

Coastal States had a net worth of $20 million in 1962, but its subsidiary, Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. had almost no net worth to back up that obligation, Hume Cofer told a six-woman, six-man jury.

LCRA is suing Coastal States for $26 million on allegations that Coastal States failed to live up the 1962 contract with LCRA and the city of Austin.

The river authority uses natural gas to generate electricity for cities in 41 Central Texas counties. Coastal States contends it assigned the contract to Lo-Vaca and that LCRA either agreed to the assignment or led Coastal States to believe it would agree.

Cofer said there was "an amazing lack of controversy" in the case.

"I have never seen a case so bitterly contested where there was so little controversy about what the witnesses said," he said.

District Court Judge W. C. Davis read a charge to the jury with 21 special issues to be answered. A verdict may be reached by as few as 10 of the jurors.

Lo-Vaca is billing LCRA higher rates under a Texas Railroad Commission emergency rate order.

Venezuela Spells Out Nationalization Plan

By JOANNE OMANG
The Washington Post

CARACAS, Venezuela — President Carlos Andres Perez Saturday spelled out for the first time the structure of Venezuela's projected nationalization of its petroleum industry.

In a nationally broadcast speech before virtually the entire leadership of the country, assembled to observe Venezuela's 164th anniversary of independence Perez made himself "directly responsible" for ensuring that the new state corporation, to be called PETROVEN (petroleum of Venezuela), would not be subject to "pressure or privileges of any trans-national corporation."

The 20 American-owned oil companies will become subject to PETROVEN, a holding company, and continue operating under its supervision and control as administrators for the state, Perez said.

The announcement ended the U.S. firms' uncertainty over whether they were to become state administrators, contractual operators or minority partners with a continuing stake in the business after expropriation. The firm's combined investment in the country is more than $4.3 billion, and their production has made Venezuela the world's third largest oil exporter. More than two thirds of its oil goes to the United States' east coast.

PETROVEN will begin life with about $470 million from the state to cover initial operating expenses and will be directed by a nine-member council initially appointed by the president for a six-month term and afterward elected by PETROVEN's membership.

The membership will consist of representatives from a dozen government ministries and agencies involved in the oil industry and in allocating the 80 per cent of the government's income that comes from oil. Last year's oil income was $10 billion.

Perez said he would name the council members this month so that they could begin studying the situation in time to be fully organized the day that nationalization becomes effective.

That day will be 120 days after the nationalization law is passed twice by both houses of Congress, where it is currently under debate. Perez' Democratic Action party has the votes needed for passage anytime but has been seeking to achieve a broad consensus on the terms of the bill, which was drawn up by a 36-member commission after a year's work.

Debate has centered on Article 5 of the bill, which would reserve the state's right to make contractual or even part ownership arrangements with private firms if it chose to do so.

Perez again defended the clause Saturday from criticism that it will compromise the state's sovereignty by saying it will "conciliate the interests of those who possess technology but need our oil and those of the country that possesses the oil but not the advanced technology."

Perez three times in his speech allied Venezuela with other underdeveloped nations. He noted that although Venezuela's "voice in the world has risen and its tone has extended its reach" as a result of oil money, the act of nationalizing was not to be seen as an act of aggression against either oil companies or other countries but rather as "an instrument of negotiation for the economic liberation of our Latin America."

That menacing beast you're looking at is a tourist attraction in the desert near Palm Springs, California.

It didn't scare us a bit.

With all its king sized problems (large rooms, small rooms, tunnels, stairs), a Payne Air Management Specialist was able to air condition it.

Without any problems.

Which makes our point.

If a Payne Air Management Specialist can expertly air condition this monster, he can air condition your home as well.

White House Helps Republican Mayors At Session

BOSTON (AP) — The White House has helped organize Republican mayors to defend its urban policies in a national mayors' conference, but so far the outnumbered GOP forces have won few victories.

White House lobbying at the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors is a tradition, but the Ford administration forces have won praise for their straightforward and open style. And when Republican mayors unsuccessfully tried to scrap the conference's long-standing criticism of the defense budget, even Democratic mayors said, without rancor, that the move was quite expectable with the presidential election year coming up.

Some 50 Republican mayors formally organized a GOP mayors' caucus Sunday and members of the caucus received a nine-page statement of administration policy on various resolutions before the conference.

The administration position papers were provided by Jim Falk, associate director of the White House Domestic Council and leader of the Ford forces at this meeting. He had briefed some of the GOP caucus organizers last month in Washington about issues likely to be raised here.

During the Nixon administration, the White House lobbyists never prepared any formal position papers for general circulation and there were often complaints of arm-twisting by Nixon men — complaints notably absent from this session.

One veteran conference staff man who maintains a nonpartisan position said, "The White House has lobbied for years except more clumsily. They didn't do it so well in the past. I think it's great."

Falk, who served in the Nixon administration but never before headed the lobbying team, has indicated he wants a more open operation and has said he would be delighted to speak to the year-old Democratic mayors' caucus if it invited him.

As the resolutions committee met Sunday, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, chairman of the Republican caucus, consulted Falk's position papers as he argued against a resolution critical of Ford's $107.7-billion defense budget for fiscal 1976. The resolution said the 18 per cent increase in Pentagon spending was "substantially more than necessary to cover inflation costs" and was proposed despite the end of Indochina war and easing of relations with China and the Soviet Union.

The resolution sponsored by Democratic Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee said, "Increased military spending is a less efficient way of fighting recession than government spending on public employment programs, housing, transportation and other critical urban concerns."

The Democrats prevailed in a series of votes virtually along party lines, 19 to 11, 17 to 8 and 22 to 7.

Though Republican mayors in the past had defended Nixon's Vietnam policy, they had never before seriously challenged the conference's criticism of defense spending.

FILLY SUFFERS SHATTERED ANKLE

Owners Destroy Ruffian

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruffian was humanely destroyed early today, the victim of a shattered right ankle that ended her sensational racing career just one-half mile after the start of The Great Match Race against Foolish Pleasure.

"Don't let her suffer any more," owner Stuart Janney told veternarians and trainer Frank Whitely after the coal black filly had dislodged a cast and protective brace on her right leg.

The decision to end the life of the winner of her first 10 races came at about 1 a.m., CDT, a spokesman for the New York Racing Association said and followed by 2½ hours an operation on the shattered sesamoids in her right leg.

The daughter of Reviewer broke down Sunday at Belmont Park with about three quarters of a mile to go while she had a half-length lead in her $350,000 1 1-4 mile match against the Kentucky Derby winner.

Jacinto Vasquez immediately pulled Ruffian up and dismounted. The leg was put into a plastic cast and Ruffian was removed by a horse ambulance at 7:45 p.m., an hour and 35 minutes after the race.

Ruffian underwent surgery that was to last almost four hours. But the winner of New York's Triple Crown for Fillies could not be saved.

"She was running very well," Vasquez said. "She changed her lead and I could feel something happening. It was her right leg."

While Vasquez pulled Ruffian up, Foolish Pleasure continued to the finish line to win the $225,000 first prize.

Diablos Rap Midland, 6-1

EL PASO— A crowd of 5,037 rabid fans showed up for a "Beat Midland" night and the El Paso Diablos did just that with a 6-1 Texas League victory over the Cubs here Sunday.

The Diablos did it quickly and almost before the Cubs realized what happened, unleashing a six hit knockout blow in the sixth inning against starter and loser Mike Weiss, 2-3.

Weiss went all the way for the first time this season and pitched one-hit ball outside of the decisive sixth.

Midland staked the righthander to a precarious 1-0 lead in the second when Al Montreuil singled and Cesar Goszalez tripled.

It remained that way until Dave Machemer singled and Marty Friedman doubled home the tying run in the sixth. Then Carlos Lopez singled, Paul Dade singled home a run and Butch Alberts hit a two-run double. Sam Ashford then applied the coup de grace with a two-run homer to make it 6-1.

The Cubs send Steve Hamrick, 0-1, against the Diablos tonight in an attempt to make it three wins in four starts here while El Paso will counter with Bill Rothman, 6-4.

The teams wind up the series Tuesday night and the Cubs return home to play Lafayette of the East Division on Thursday night.

LUBBOCK TEAM CAPTURES MARATHON TOURNEY—

Raiders Win Slow Pitch

By BOB DILLON

The talented and hard-hitting Lubbock Raiders stormed past Beverage Sales of San Angelo, 12-6, Sunday afternoon in the finals of the 7th annual July 4th Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at Hogan Park.

A big six-run outburst in the sixth inning broke open a 6-6 tie with Carl Beyer and Tim Kistner slamming a pair of two-run homers to spark the Raiders to the coveted title.

Lubbock zipped through six straight opponents in going unbeaten during the three-day double elimination tourney which had an entry field of 50 teams.

The title game was the biggest test for the Raiders after posting easy wins in their first five games. They beat First Christian of Midland, 10-1 Friday night and then defeated Webb Air Force Base of Big Spring, 12-2. They took a 12-3 victory over the Roadrunner Express followed by a 12-3 win over Beverage Sales along with an 11-2 triumph over San Angelo Independents and the big victory in the finals over the Brewers.

Rosana's of Abilene finished third and the Roswell, N.M. Merchants fourth, leaving Midland teams out of the limelight. The Roadrunner Express wound up seventh, the highest of any Tall City team.

Goodrich Service Center lost to the Lubbock Stars, 5-4 Saturday morning and then Webb AFB pulled off a 7-4 win in the 1:30 a.m. Sunday contest. The Tiremen did sandwich in three wins, but after winning tourneys at Abilene, Lubbock and Wichita Falls, they never did start hitting here.

In the championship game, both teams had 14 hits, but the long ball of Kistner, Beyer along with Mark Withrow and Dudley Coapland, were too much for the battling Brewers.

Scotty Chastain, Willie Hill and Rod Stewart hit homers for Beverage Sales, but the Brewers needed two straight wins over the Raiders in order to win the tourney.

Beverage Sales moved into the finals with a 22-14 victory over Rosana's Realtors with catcher Mike Sawyer hitting three homers to knock in six runs. The former football player from Henderson State of Arkansas, only had five hits in the tourney, however.

Bill Hamilton, Monty Eady, Hill and Chris Frederick also homered for Beverage in the semifinal game while Hugh Standifer poked three homers and teammate Ken Corbin two for the losers.

Rosana's eliminated the Roswell Merchants, 10-0 after the New Mexico entry had gained the quarterfinal round taking a 7-0 forfeit win over Independents of San Angelo. A player for San Angelo was thrown out of the game, giving them only nine players so Roswell got the win by the forfeit.

Rosana's eliminated another Abilene team—Waugh, 11-10, in eight innings Sunday morning, to stay in the tourney.

Roswell knocked off the Lubbock Stars, 7-5 and beat Iowa Park, 3-2 in earlier games.

A 12-man all-tourney team was chosen and was dominated by Lubbock with five players while Beverage placed four players on the elite team. Raider choices included Bo Cornett, Coapland, Beyer, Brian McCutcheon and Withrow while Brewer players were Chastain, Hamilton, Frederick and Hill.

Other all-tourney selections were Mark McAllister of Roswell, Randy Davis of Rosana's along with teammate Keith Fletcher who was the leading hitter in the tournament with a .620 average. Cornett was also chose Most Valuable Player of the Tournament.

Funeral Services Set For Top Jockey

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Funeral services were set here today for Juan Gonzalez, Northeern California's top jockey who was killed in a three-horse spill at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

Gonzalez, 26, died Saturday in the freak accident witnessed by a horrified holiday weekend crowd of 17,131 persons that included his wife, Maria, and two young daughters.

Track physician Dr. Edward O'Regan said the Mexican-born Gonzalez died instantly of a broken neck from being kicked in the head by Saratoga Lane after the spill during the $10,000 added Sam J. Whiting Meheld at the fair.

Following funeral services and a mass here, Gonzalez' body was to be sent to Jerez Zazatecaz, his birthplace in Mexico.

The tragedy occurred as the field of nine horses neared the first turn of the 1 1-16th-mile race. Ocala clipped the heels of Quit A Day and fell, throwing its rider, John Luckie. Gonzalez then was tossed 10 feet in the air when his horse, Bold Clarion, somersaulted over Ocala Boy. Saratoga Lane hurdled the two horses and struck Gonzalez, meanwhile throwing his own jockey, Randy Schacht.

Luckie, 20, was hospitalized in stable condition with possible back injuries and Schacht was shaken up.

Dr. O'Regan said Gonzales also was struck by other horses as they passed over him.

Despite protests from some fans, the race was completed and declared official, with Rio Claro winning in a time of 1:43 1-5.

Susie McAllister Posts Victory In Wheeling Golf

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Susie McAllister admitted that she didn't think she would be cashing a $5,700 winner's check for capturing the second Wheeling LPGA Classic Sunday.

And she added that her mother had a similar doubt.

"I just went home to call my folks," said the 27-year-old blonde from Beaumont, Tex. "I asked my Mom if she had seen any newspaper stories about the tournament, and she said she hadn't. But she said my aunt came in and told her I was in third place.

"Then my mother said, 'oh, well, how'd you do?.'

"I won!"

Thus ended a 4½-year drought as a professional golfer for Miss McAllister, who charged out of the pack Sunday to overtake the leaders in the tournament.

She covered 54 holes in four-under-par 212, one stroke better than Jan Ferraris and two better than the 36-hole leader, Karolyn Kertzman.

Miss McAllister said she had been in position to win in other tournaments this year, but had always fallen short. But Sunday, "I was going for it all. I wasn't going to be defensive."

While the winner was turning in her third par or better round over the 6,050-yard Speidel Course at Wheeling's Oglebay Park, Ferraris and Kertzman were having their troubles.

Kertzman, who was looking for her first professional victory, began Sunday's final 18 at five under par and two shots in front of Ferraris.

Austrian Niki Lauda Dominates With Ferrari

LE CASTELLET, France (AP) — Austrian Niki Lauda's masterly start-to-finish domination of the French Grand Prix for Ferrari makes him a clear, odd-on favorite to become the 1975 World Driving Champion.

With four victories, one second, two fourths and one fifth in nine races, Lauda has 47 title points, a solid 22 ahead of his nearest rival, Carlos Reutemann of Argentina, and 23 ahead of reigning champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil.

But Lauda's French victory was a far harder task than it appeared, and he remembers vividly leading the points race at this stage last year . . . and finishing only one more race.

Lauda had to drive to his "absolute limit" to keep the lead Sunday over Britain's James Hunt in a Hesketh, when the Ferrari's tires started giving Lauda trouble 20 laps from the end of the 54 lap race.

But the Ferrari is so clearly superior to its Cosworth-powered rivals this year in all departments that Lauda has the confidence he needs for the next six races, starting at Silverstone in Britain in two weeks.

Hunt continued to show the form that won him the Dutch race and is hoping to have a revolutionary new car at his disposal for the British race, backed up by his present highly-competitive car.

Caps Sweep San Antonio

By The Associated Press

Shreveport increased its stranglehold on the Texas League's West Division Sunday night as the Captains swept a doubleheader from San Antonio and pushed the Brewers deeper into the division cellar.

In other action, El Paso bumped Midland 6-1 while Lafayette edged Arkansas 3-2 and Jackson crushed Alexandria 11-2.

In the first game in San Antonio, Shreveport's Mike Gonzales hurled a two-hitter as the Captains clinched a 6-0 shutout.

San Antonio managed to tie the nightcap until the last inning when Shreveport drove in four runs to win 5-1. Shreveport's Mitchell Page started the rally with a bases-loaded single that tagged the Brewers' Ron Salyer with his seventh loss against four victories.

Lafayette's Gary Alexander slammed a solo home run in the ninth inning to break 2-2 tie and give Gene Lanthorne his second victory of the year against one loss. Arkansas' Jay Schlueter also hit a solo homer.

Jackson's hitters, led by Randy Trapp and Carlos Sagredo with three hits each, were too much for Alexandria's pitchers, four of whom unsuccessfully tried to stop the Mets' onslaught. Southpaw Bob Myrick picked up his fifth victory of the season against three losses while Rich Troedson saw his record go to 6-5 in absorbing the loss.

Cubs, Bucs Replay The War Of 1812

By The Associated Press

"The score was 18-12, but it looked more like the War of 1812."

The scene was Chicago's Wrigley Field, and Champ Summers, a young outfielder with the Cubs, was surveying the wreckage after the Pittsburgh Pirates had unleashed a 20-hit barrage in beating the Cubs 18-12 in the opening game of a scheduled Sunday doubleheader.

The second game was rained out, giving the pitchers a chance to lick their wounds after the 3-hour, 26-minute opening-game slugfest.

The 18 runs and 20 hits were season highs for the Pirates, while the Cubs' 18 hits was their most for the year. The Pirates scored in every inning but the ninth, and afterwards expressed regret at not getting to play more often at cozy Wrigley Field.

"I'd like to see this club play one full year in this park, just to see what we could do," mused Pirates outfielder Richie Zisk, obviously relishing the thought. "I bet there would be a lot of records broken."

The Pirates got home runs from Rennie Stesnett, Bob Robertson, Willie Stargell and Dave Parker; Stargell and Al Oliver each had four hits and three runs batted in, and Parker also drove in three.

It got to the point where any time a Pittsburgh player made an out, it drew cheers from the crowd of 28,023. When the Pirates went down in order in the ninth, a huge ovation echoed through Wrigley Field.

Montreal was trailing 3-1 going into the eighth but tied the game on Mike Jorgensen's two-run homer, then pushed across the winning run on singles by Barry Foote, Gary Carter and Pete Mackanin.

Reggie Smith of the Cards, who threw two punches at Montreal shortstop Tim Foli in the first game of a doubleheader Saturday night, went after Montreal Coach Dave Bristol while they were presenting the lineup cards at home plate before Sunday's game.

Smith, scratched on the face Saturday night, had blamed Bristol for his role in interceding in that fracas.

Rangers' Perry Wins While Foes Splutter

By The Associated Press

If Gaylord Perry is back, can his spitball be far behind?

"Perry was using the spitball all day long," Minnesota Manager Frank Quilici charged after Perry pitched the Texas Rangers to a seven-hit 7-0 triumph over the Twins and a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader.

"Whenever he was in a situation where he needed it, he used it," Quilici stormed. "He's got good enough stuff without having to throw that."

It was Perry's first victory with Texas after four losses and one no-decision and snapped a personal eight-game losing streak dating back to May 27. In the opener, Clyde Wright pitched 7 1-3 strong innings for his first victory of the season and the Rangers won 4-2.

Whatever Perry was using, it looked especially peculiar on a 1-0 serve to John Briggs with the bases loaded and one out in the third inning. Briggs, fooled badly, swung and missed, but plate umpire Dave Phillips ruled it an illegal pitch, running the count to 2-0. Perry then fanned Briggs on the next three pitches.

"The ball was like a fast ball with no rotation on it and the bottom dropped out of the pitch," Phillips explained. "I know there was a foreign substance involved. It was not a normal pitch."

As for Perry, who was supposed to be all through with spitballs, greaseballs and the like a year ago, he wasn't admitting anything.

"You didn't hear what I told Phillips, but I was mad," he said. "I wanted the shutout bad as the game progressed and managed to get the strikeouts when I really needed them. This has got to be my best game of the year."

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher by as much as $4.75 a bale in in midday dealings today. Reports of heavy rain in some sections of the Texas cotton belt during the long holiday weekend, which caused some local flooding, prompted buying of futures, brokers said. The rain will hamper the development of the newly planted cotton crop, dealers noted.

Some buying was also said to be by textile mills who brought futures to assure prices and supplies of cotton in the months ahead, sources said.

The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16-inch spot cotton advanced 36 points to 44.77 cents a pound Thursday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange[illegible] close. July 47.65, Oct. 48.60, and Dec. 49.60.
