Ormoc Road Severed Behind Trapped Japs

Other Units Keep Nips Busy With Frontal Attacks

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Thursday, Nov. 14.—Two units of the American 24th division "practically severed the Ormoc road" behind a trapped Japanese regiment as the battle for Leyte island flamed with bitter fighting today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that the infantrymen in a double envelopment move thrust behind the Japanese near Limon, American-held village four miles south of Carigara bay.

The main body on the 24th meanwhile engaged units of the Japanese First division in headlong combat on the road near Limon, which stands at the gateway to Ormoc corridor.

Jap Blow Beaten Off

Some 30 miles southward, the U. S. 7th division "bloodily" repulsed a Japanese counterattack at Balogo, 10 miles south of Ormoc on the coastal road.

This means the 7th has advanced four miles northward in its drive to apply the southern lever of the American squeeze against Ormoc, Japan's last port on the island. These Yank forces smashed a Japanese landing attempt Tuesday at Damulaan, 14 miles south of Ormoc.

The third arm of the American pincers, pushing westward through the mountains, closed tighter as elements of the 1st Cavalry division seized new hill positions and overran several enemy strong points.

Jap Forces Cut Off

Forward elements of the 24th division's two outflanking units were reported close to the vital Ormoc road late yesterday. One unit swung around to the west, then turned southeast toward the road. Another force moved in from the east and pushed west.

This difficult maneuver cut off Japanese forces estimated at a regiment's strength — possibly 2,000 men.

The Nipponese were fighting bitterly, however, and showed no signs of withdrawing.

The unit of the 24th punching along the road were reported to have made slight advances over great piles of Japanese dead.

The Japanese counterthrust at Balogo was on a comparatively small scale, but the Nipponese losses in the action were estimated at 50 percent of the force employed.

Dismounted cavalrymen, driving westward from Jaro, overran numerous scattered Japanese ridge positions to seize Mt. Mamban, a

Senate University Probe Questioned

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Because Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith questioned the authority of the Senate's Educational Investigating committee to inquire into the controversy at the University of Texas, committee hearings were postponed today pending a ruling from the attorney general.

After nearly a two-hour delay in the start of the session at which testimony was to be taken, Sen. Penrose Metcalfe, chairman of the committee, emerged from the meeting room into the Senate chamber and said he had a brief announcement.

Authority Questioned

"The authority of the committee to investigate the situation at the University of Texas has been questioned," he said. "Members of the committee unanimously voted to request the attorney general for a ruling as to the authority of the committee.

"This opinion is in the process of being prepared and we hope it will be ready tomorrow. The meeting is recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow."

"Who raised the question?" Metcalfe was asked.

"Several persons," he replied, "among them the lieutenant governor of Texas."

Witnesses Wait

Prospective witnesses, including Dr. Homer P. Rainey, recently discharged as president of the university after a five-year controversy with the school's board of regents, had been waiting in the Senate chamber since 1:30 p. m., when taking of testimony had been scheduled to start.

There was also a delegation of students, and a committee from the ex-students association. Dr. J. Alton Burdine, vice-president of the university who has figured in the controversy, was likewise on hand.

This same committee recently conducted an inquiry into affairs at Texas A. and M. college involv-

24 Jap Vessels Sunk By British

LONDON, Nov. 15. (AP)—British submarines in Far Eastern waters have sunk another 24 Japanese ships, bringing to 69 the total announced destroyed in five days, the Admiralty said tonight.

A communique Nov. 11 announced the sinking of 45 ships.

The latest toll included 23 supply ships and an anti-submarine vessel, the latter intercepted in the East Java sea south of Celebes and sunk by torpedo.

Surfaced submarines also shelled the harbor on the island of Car Nicobar, an Admiralty communique said, damaging installations and sinking several craft along the jetty.

Five Are Singled Out

Five submarines were singled out for mention in the newest attacks which mark a rapid intensification of the Royal Navy's campaign against Japan.

Since the beginning of the year it was declared British ships have sunk 158 Japanese vessels, including one Japanese cruiser of the Kuma class, and craft ranging from large supply ships to anti-submarine boats.

It was believed that a 7,000-ton aircraft carrier sank after being torpedoed and at least one other cruiser was damaged by a torpedo.

Bombardment of shore installations and ports as the submarines run close to strike at the supply ships hugging the coast has been a frequent feature of the forays. The submarines also have surfaced often to shell enemy ships.

OPA Warns Against Misuse Of 'C' Books

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — To motorists toying with the idea of using supplemental gasoline rations to travel to winter resorts, the Office of Price Administration today offered this advice:

Don't do it.

Such use is illegal, OPA said, adding there will be no rations issued for return trips. In cases of misuse, the agency warned, motorists "Will be called before hearing commissioners who have the power to revoke not only supplemental "B" and "C" rations, but basic "A" rations as well.

Dutch Raising Army To Liberate Indies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — Plans to raise a Dutch Army to aid in the liberation of the East Indies were disclosed today by Netherland officials here.

Maj. Gen. N. L. W. van Straten, chief of staff to the commander in chief of the Netherland Indies Army, conferred with Dutch officials, enroute to London where the recruiting plan is being formulated.

General van Straten will begin recruiting in the liberated areas of Holland. Recruits will join existing forces now operating in the Southwest Pacific under General Douglas MacArthur.

For nearly a year, van Straten's men conducted guerrilla warfare against the Japanese on the island of Timor after turning down a demand for surrender.

Gen. Lear Arrives For Inspection Tour

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 15. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, chief of all ground forces in the United States Army, arrived in San Antonio this afternoon for an inspection tour of Fourth Army headquarters and for conferences with high-ranking Army officers at Fort Sam Houston.

The Fourth Army, with troops stationed at Army posts in 11 states, is preparing combat teams for duty overseas.

General Lear, former commanding officer of the Second Army who succeeded the late Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair as head of the all-important army ground forces, will hold further conferences at Fourth Army headquarters Thursday morning.

Nazis Launch New Drive In Nazification

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 15—A significant new step in the Nazification of the backs-to-the-wall German Army—with the apparent intent of making it a "never-surrender" force to fight on as guerrillas after defeat—was announced today by Berlin.

A new decree ordered all German officers and noncoms who are members of the Nazi party to "educate their men in the Nazi philosophy" both on duty and off "in order to form a closer link-up between the armed force and the party." Previously members of the German Army were required to leave the party during their period of armed service.

Himmler Gets Blame

The new decree did not bear the signature of Heinrich Himmler. But an authority on Germany—a German—was quoted tonight by the British Press association as expressing conviction that the man behind this move was Himmler, homefront commander-in-chief and the man rumored in some quarters to have superceded the mysteriously-secluded and silent Adolf Hitler as number one in the Reich.

Close students of Germany here interpreted today's decree as the most important in a Nazi campaign begun some months ago to adapt the German Army to the Nazi pattern of fanatic resistance which would continue, as Hitler once put it, "past twelve o'clock"—in the hills and underground. Such resistance would be designed, as Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels said at the founding of the volkssturn people's army, to "make enemy occupation of Germany a veritable hell."

Cotton Subsidy For Export Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — The War Food administration announced today that it will offer a subsidy of four cents a pound, gross weight, on export sales of American cotton until further notice.

The agency also announced these other export subsidies:

Wheat for export by water from Atlantic or gulf ports, 34 cents a bushel.

Pacific Rate Higher

Wheat for export by water from Pacific coast ports, 29 cents a bushel.

Wheat for export by rail, six cents a bushel.

The WFA also offered subsidies for flour exports based upon the wheat subsidies, with manufacturing differentials.

The export payments are designed to make American cottoh and wheat competitive in world markets. Present domestic farm price programs are holding prices of these commodities above world levels.

Shipping Space Short

Because of shortages of shipping space in relation to prospective military and relief demands abroad for United States wheat, WFA said export sales of wheat, and wheat flour under this program may, until further notice, be made only to western hemisphere destinations except where government approval is obtained.

Sales of American farm products abroad at prices below those prevailing in this country were authorized by Congress recently as one method of helping this country gain and hold its share of world markets and of preventing the accumulation of surpluses.

Former Senator Brookhart Dies

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 15 (AP) Smith W. Brookhart, for eight years U. S. senator from Iowa and long one of the foremost champions of the American farmer, died today in Arizona to which he had retired because of failing health in 1943.

After the death last Dec. 30 of Mrs. Brookheart he became a patient at the U. S. Veterans hospital in Whipple, near here, but his condition did not become critical until a few hours before the end. He was 75 years old.

Burial services will be held in Washington, Iowa, the old family home where Mrs. Brookhart was buried.

Suspect Held After Women Slain, Bodies Mutilated

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15. (AP) — Otto Steve Wilson, 31, was arrested tonight by police who identified him by fingerprints as the slayer of two women whose nude, mutilated bodies were found today in downtown hotels.

Detective Lt. Harry Hansen said Wilson had been identified by fingerprints as the slayer of 25-year-old Virgie Lee Griffin and Lillian Johnson. The bodies of both women had been mutilated.

Hansen also said Fred O'Briant hotel bellhop, had identified Wilson as the man who registered with Miss Johnson as man and wife.

Previously Arrested

Authorities said Wilson had been arrested before on charges of attempted rape. He was taken into custody late today within a few blocks of both downtown hotels where the slayings occurred.

Wilson, six feet tall, was wearing a polo shirt when arrested. He has blond hair, combed in a heavy pompadour, and a mustache.

Miss Johnson's body was discovered in a hotel a few hours after that of Miss Griffin was found in another hotel a few blocks away. Miss Johnson had been slashed from the breasts to the pelvic region. Hotel employes said she had registered a few hours earlier with a man.

Lt. Hansen said Miss Johnson frequently had been seen in bars near the hotel where her body was found. She was about 38 years old, blonde, and when found murdered was nude except for her shoes and stockings.

Torso Badly Slashed

Miss Griffin had been slashed from neck to abdomen, the right leg severed at the knee and at the hip, the right shoulder amputated, and flesh had been hacked away from other parts of the body.

"This is the most fiendist crime in my 19 years of experience here," said Hansen. "It is worse than the Winnie Ruth Judd case."

The body of Miss Griffin was found by a maid in the hotel. It was lying in a clothes closet. Nearby was a knife with a nine-inch blade. Investigating officers said the slayer also had used several razor blades in the mutilation.

Corporations Face Conspiracy Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — Attorney General Biddle announced that 18 steel corporations and six of their officers were indicted in Trenton, N. J., today on charges of conspiring to fix prices on stainless steel.

Biddle said the grand jury indictment charged "that beginning in 1934 and continuously until the present the defendants and co-conspirators have engaged in an unlawful conspiracy arbitrarily to fix and maintain uniform and non-competitives prices, terms and conditions for the sale of stainless steel finished products sold in the United States."

Conviction would involve a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and one year imprisonment in each of two anti-trust charges. Biddle said.

Metz In Death Grip; 6th Opens In South

Yanks By-Pass Bloody Driant, Close On Three Sides Of City

By HOWARD COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 16.—The Allies' November offensive against Fortress Germany mounted toward all-out proportions today under the impetus of a new assault by the French First Army on the approaches to Belfort gap at the southeastern end of the 400-mile Western front.

This assault, which began yesterday on a 25-mile front and gained four to five miles in its first day, came as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army closed its steel grip on Metz to within little more than a mile of the great fortress city and the British Second Army forced its way five miles through the boglands of eastern Holland to within 37 miles of the Nazis' key industrial center of Duisburg.

Whole Front Flames

As a result, the whole front from Holland to Switzerland was alive except for the segment around Aachen held by the U. S. First Army.

The American Seventh Army, which is teamed with the French First Army in the Sixth Army group at the southeastern end of the front, had already swung into the attack.

Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassignys' French troops yesterday smashed forward on both sides of the river Doubs and a front dispatch said they captured several hundred prisoners as well as ten small towns, including the highway village of Arcy, 11 miles southwest of Belfort.

Metz was beseiged from three sides and Patton's doughboys bypassed powerful Fort Driant in a direct thrust toward the city's suburbs from the west.

Both Fort Driant and Fort Jean D'Arc—two of the nine major bastions ringing Metz—were neutralized by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 95th division, which captured two smaller forts, Hubert and Jussy, as it smashed toward the outskirts of the city from the west. French Launch Belfort Attack

By ROBERT C. WILSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY GROUP IN FRANCE, Nov. 15.—The First French Army of Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny launched an attack today on a 25-mile front covering both banks of the Doubs river on the approaches to the Belfort gap and scored advances of four to five miles.

Moroccan, Algerian and Senegalese troops reinforced by the FFI, smashed forward through the snow and seized ten villages as well as taking several hundred prisoners.

Barrage Opens Drive

A heavy artillery barrage opened the assault, which reached all its local objectives including the village of Arcy, 11 miles southwest of Belfort and five west of Montbeliard.

At places the infantry broke through the enemy's forward defenses for as much as five miles.

Villages were taken on both sides of the Doubs. Arcy, on the main highway from Besancon to Belfort, was the principal prize. But strung out in a southeasterly line behind it Tassigny's troops took Gemonval, Marvelise, Onans, Bretigny, Montenois and Lougres, all north of the river, and Ecot, Vermondans and Ecurcey, all south of the river in the area of Pont-de-Roide.

Seventh Fights Bitterly

To the north, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army encountered heavy resistance at many points, but in the area northeast of Baccarat captured the village of Ste. Pole, a mile and a half east of Montigny. The Germans, who hold commanding high ground in this vicinity, resisted grimly.

German opposition was particularly fierce east of Vaucourt and heavy artillery and mortar fire was directed against the Americans.

At the village of Migneville, just north of Montigny, American guns destroyed three Mark 4 and two Mark 5 tanks and one self-propelled gun.

Nazis Are Dug In

East of Baccarat in the Foret Du Petit Reclos the Germans were dug in well and met the American drive with heavy fire from small arms.

Southeast of La Chapelle the Germans made a counterattack which was repulsed with the aid of artillery. The Germans used smoke liberally east of St. Remy in an attempt to screen troop movements on the other side of the Meurthe river.

Reds Step Up Pace In Budapest Drive

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 16.—The Red Army, increasing the pace of its assaults aimed toward Budapest, seized the fortress city of Jaszbereny and more than 50 other Hungarian communities yesterday as the Germans fell back in hard fighting retreats along a 100-mile front stretching from southeast of the capital to the area of Miskolc.

Jaszbereny, a strategic railway center 35 miles east of Budapest, fell to a combination by-passing maneuver and direct frontal assault, Moscow announced this morning.

"Having concentrated in this area large force of infantry and tanks, the Germans offered stiff resistance," said the Moscow war bulletin. "The enemy repeatedly tried to throw back our attacking units. However, the Hitlerites counterattacks had no success."

Flanking Ruse Works

The Russians began to outflank the city on the northeast, and then, when the Germans extended themselves to meet this threat, the attackers speared straight into the town and took it in fierce street fighting.

Besides this biggest prize of the day, the Russians recorded other gains right along the line from the railway town of Mende, only 12 miles southeast of Budapest, up to Korom and a group of other communities nestling 10 miles below the north Hungarian center of Miskolc.

Altogether 570 German and Hungarian prisoners were taken during the day, Moscow reported.

The Germans themselves announced withdrawal from Jaszbereny before its occupation was listed in the broadcast Soviet night communique recorded by the Soviet monitor here.

The general nature of the German withdrawal was hinted at in a Berlin broadcast by the military commentator Ernst von Hammer, who said, "east of Budapest German troops, behind a curtain of steel from the fire of hundreds

Eighth Advances West Of Forli

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP)— The British Eighth Army, advancing from small bridgeheads established across the Montone river west of Forli, drove forward to a general line two miles north of a loop of the river and made good progress elsewhere along the eastern sector of the Italian front, the Allied command announced today.

After crossing the Montone Eighth Army units seized a foothold on broad highway nine, leading to Bologna, at a point two miles northwest of Forli, capturing Monte Poggiolo and the village of Villagrappa south of the road.

Resistance Slackens

Resistance generally seemed to slacken in the hills below highway nine. Allied forces were in contact with the Germans about 1,000 yards northwest of San Varano, which is on the southern outskirts of Farli. An advance of 2,000 yards was made in this area.

In the hills west of Castrocaro, southwest of Forli, Polish troops accupied Monte Ceretto and captured more high ground still farther west.

Northwest of Forli opposition stiffened as British troops pushed on beyond San Tome. The Germans brought new self-propelled guns and tanks into this area.

South Of Ravenna

There was little activity south of Ravenna on the Adriatic coast but the Germans were shelling the coastal highway heavily. On the Fifth Army front there was little activity, but Indian troops took Monte San Bartolo from the enemy. This height affords observation of the main avenue of approach to Modigliana about two miles to the northeast. This sector, the extreme right flank of the Fifth Army front, is 15 miles southwest of Forli.

American Artillery Outsmarts Germans

A NINTH AIR FORCE COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, France. (AP)—American artillery pulled a neat trick recently to confuse German batteries near Aachen, Germany, says a U. S. Ninth Air force Thunderbolt pilot who spent two weeks at the front as liaison officer with an armored division.

The pilot, 2nd Lt. James C. Dunn, 2803 Avenue M, Snyder, Texas., said the Germans sent up rockets to mark their own front line before laying down a barrage.

"But our artillery boys foxed 'em," he said. "Our guns shelled the enemy front lines and forced the Jerries to take cover. Then when their flares stopped, our artillery fired flares that burst several hundred yards behind the Jerry line, and the Germans shortened their artillery range and shelled their own troops."

Red Vet Blames Japs For War

MOSCOW, Nov. 15—Col. Ivan Tolchenov, veteran Soviet Army officer and military authority, declared today that Japan had "risked fighting two great powers, the United States and Britain, as a consequence of her long-time policy of expansion," and said that the war in the Pacific was developing unfavorably for Tokyo.

Before a rapt public lecture audience which included Japanese correspondents and Red Army men, Col. Tolchenov recalled Japanese attacks on the Soviet Union. After mentioning the war with the United States and Britain, the Soviet officer continued:

Had Attacked Soviet

"Japan has also attacked and raided the Soviet Union several times. We may recall the Mongolian border action by the Japanese in 1939, when they were strongly rebuffed. The Soviet Union's peaceful policy has induced Japan to keep peace with the U. S. S. R."

(This address was delivered nine days after Premier Stalin described Japan as an "aggressive nation." Moscow and Tokyo are bound by a non-aggression pact.)

"The outbreak of the German war changed conditions for Japan," said Col. Tolchenov. "The perfidious invasion of the U. S. S. R. by German troops was a favorable phenomenon for the Jap-

J. Frank Dobie, Back From England, Joins Defense Of Rainey, Says Regents Trying To Build 'Maginot Line'

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Professor J. Frank (Pancho) Dobie returned to the University of Texas today after a year in England and was not happy at what he found.

The regents, said Dobie in a formal statement supplementing an interview, have had the idea "to built a Maginot line around the university to fortify it against the penetration of ideas not coinciding with their own."

Coming specifically to the defense of former President Homer P. Rainey, he said he had sent Rainey a telegram telling him he would "fight for him" the minute he had heard Rainey was fired.

"The firing of President Rainey is but the climax to a long train of acts and to a policy initiated by the regents three years or more ago. The O'Daniel appointees on the board initiated the policy," Dobie's statement said. "Coke Stevenson appointees added their weight and made a majority."

In the interview at his home, the professor of English who has been teaching for a year at Cambridge, brushed off questions as to his possible interest in the governorship and the presidency of the university.

"I would never make a good governor," he quipped. "I would die in the first month.

"I have no desire to be president of the University of Texas. I had rather be a free lance. I don't think the regents would like me."

Dobie, who has spoken often and candidly on a wide range of issues during his teaching career at the university, jumped into the controversy over the discharge of Rainey by issuing a formal statement the day of his return. His statement said in part:

"Rainey represents liberal ideas; he understands that society moves forward instead of backward; without being a radical, he is a modern. Also, he knows something about the functions of a university and has a conception of thought, science and art.

"The majority of the board of regents, the oil millionaires, the corporation lawyers and the lobbyists have conceived the university and its faculty to be something like a gang of roughnecks in an oil field to be ordered about and fired at will. A university is not an oil corporation. Their policy has been to treat any faculty man, including the president, whose ideas they did not like, as a fifth columnist. They have not been as bold as they wanted to be; they have not been clever at all. I know and like several of them personally; they are good fellows in lots of ways, but they don't know or care anything about the liberation of human minds that education is supposed to stand for.

"Governor Coke Stevenson is quoted as saying that he does not want to get his lips burned by drinking out of a boiling coffee pot. I came back on a ship from England with hundreds of American soldiers. Texans among them, without legs and arms and with bodies in casts, who have been

Wickard Envisions Expansion Of Electric Service To Every Area

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Electricity to all areas that do not now have it, and the best service at the lowest cost, were two objectives for post-war America presented by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard at a state-wide meeting of Texas rural electric cooperatives here today.

"Farming is one of the world's most diversified callings; electricity is one of the mose versatile forms of energy," said Wickard. "In the years after the war many new electrical appliances will be developed to make farm life more pleasant and prosperous."

Three Things To Be Done

Wickard told REA co-op members there were three things to be done:

1. Start making local plans now with an eye to regional and national programs.

2. Support the Lucas bill. This bill, introduced last summer by Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois provides for a $585,000,000 appropriation program. This loan to be amortized over a 35-year period.

3. Plan for full area coverage as this is "the only sound basis on which to build.

Should Serve Fully

"Neither cooperatives of the REA system nor private utilities should undertake construction of lines designe dto serve only part of an area," Wickard said.

"To skim off the cream and serve only the prosperous populated areas is an unfair black-out of equal opportunity."

Prior to 1936 when the REA began to compete with private companies, nine out of 10 farm families were without electrical service, explained Wickard, who asserted he knew of "no other program that can do more toward stimulating industrial activity and employment in the years after the war than this program of the Rural Electrification administration."

Only a Starter Yet

But what has been accomplished is "just a starter," said the agriculture secretary. "It is a national responsibility to see to it that every family in the six million rural homes still lacking electricity get this service just as soon as it can be brought to them."

Wickard, who is on a general survey tour of Texas will address the 10th region REA cooperatives tomorrow, then go on to College Station and from there to Houston to attend a farm credit board meeting.

A box supper to finance the Roosevelt High school junior-senior banquet will be held tonight at the school under leadership of the junior class, according to Mrs. Dwight Lindsey, class sponsor. Auctioneer will be Kenneth Bozeman of Lubbock. The public is invited.

A delegation from First Baptist church attending sessions of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in San Antonio this week is expected to return to Lubbock Friday. They are Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hereford, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Leverett, A. M. Leftwich, J. D. Riddle, Mesdames W. E. Twitty, W. L. Pattillo, R. S. Wilkinson, O. A. Tyner and Mr. G. H. Nelson.

Lubbock Salvation Army officials Wednesday appealed to campaign workers to turn in their financial reports at once, so that accurate tabulation of contributions can be made. Progress in the drive has been extremely slow, it was learned, with still almost $3,000 to go to reach the $10,000 quota.

Members and guests of Lubbock Rotary club were entertained at their luncheon Wednesday in Hilton hotel by the 41-piece concert band of Lubbock Senior High school, under the direction of Charles Eskridge. F. W. Groce and E. J. (Pinkey) Lowrey had charge of the program. H. L. Dunlevy and young son of Emporia, Kans., W. A. Cox, Seminole; John Kilgore, Brownwood; Carl Frances, Houston; F. M. Poffenbach, Fort Worth, and Lt. (jg) Hunter Dupree, U. S. Navy, were guests. President C. A. Bestwick presided.

Bobbie Shoop, a woman, posted bond of $500 Wednesday in connection with a charge of theft over $50 filed in the court of J. T. Inmon, justice of peace. J. A. Sellers, complaining witness, said a truck had been stolen from him.

Information Sought By County Agent On Grass Infestation

Assistant County Agent W. O. Rieger recently mailed out 1,936 cards asking that farmers give the following information on Johnson grass in Lubbock county:

Name and address. Do you have Johnson grass? If so, how did it start? Control methods used this year. Results—poor, fair, good. Should the program be continued? How many miles of fence will you move for backslope? Suggestions for improving Johnson grass program.

A total of 150 cards had been returned to Rieger Tuesday which show the following:

Slightly more than 73 per cent have Johnson grass on their farms. Thirty per cent say it was started on their farms by planting inferior seed; 34.3 per cent say it started from the barrow ditches along roads adjoining their fams. The remainder reported various reasons such as wind, birds, cattle trucks, adjacent farms, etc.

Of those who have Johnson grass, 72.7 per cent have carried out some kind of control program this year. Of this 72.7 per cent, 40.2 per cent reported their results good; 50 per cent fair, and 9.8 per cent poor.

In answering the question, should the program be continued, only one farm operator has said no.

Practically all who have old fences have agreed to move them in order that the county commissioners might backslope the barrow ditches on county roads.

Eighty-three per cent made suggestions as to how the program might be improved.

If the 150 cards returned is a fair representation of the entire county, there are approximately 1,400 farms in Lubbock county that have Johnson grass, Rieger said.

By the end of 1941 owners of private planes in the U. S. totaled 24,124, compared with 27 million privately owned automobiles.

Out-Of-Town Reservations For Passion Play Ahead Of Local Ticket Sales, Official Says

Out-of-town reservations for the presentation of the famed Luenen Passion play of the Black Hills at Lubbock Senior High school auditorium Nov. 18 through Nov. 21 are exceeding reservations of local people, C. S. Finney, general respresentative of the play, reported Wednesday. Tickets are on sale at Passion play headquarters in the Kuykendall Chevrolet company building, Thirteenth and Ave. K.

The great play, which is being brought to Lubbock by the Lions club, may be seen in seven performances, three matinees and four nights. The play will open with a matinee at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon for children; another matinee for students being scheduled on Monday afternoon. The Sunday afternoon matinee will charge the same admission prices as night.

Meier Has Christus Role

Josef Meier, raised in the tradition of the Passion play, portrays the role of the Christus and is hailed as one of the greatest living portrayers of the Life of Christ. Regardless of religion, sect or creed, the story's dramatic appeal is as wide as human nature. A fitting climax to each of the 22 beautiful scenes re-enacting the last seven days of Christ on Earth, will be to all witnesses a remembrance of long standing.

More than 100 persons participate in the play and its rich oriental costumes and settings rival the brilliance of lighting effects, said to be the most outstanding in the world.

Beginning with the prologue, followed by the enunciation, the life and sufferings, death and resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth are reverently brought to life in the play. The great drama closes with the mighty "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah."

All of the spoken parts are in English.

Austin Cars To Be Put Out In Four Models

LONDON, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—The Austin Motor company announced today that it will produce four models of automobiles in its immediate postwar program, including types of eight, 10, 12 and 16 horsepower.

The company said prices and production dates cannot be announced yet because they are dependent on government decision regarding the purchase tax and on the duration of the war.

The 12-horsepower was expected to be an adequate family car with accomodations for five persons with generous luggage space.

All four models will have four doors. The smaller types will have side valve four cylinder engines. The 16-horsepower type will have the overhead type valve, and provisions for radio, air conditioning and hydraulic jacking.

The company said advances in design and construction had been made possible through wartime research, and the cars will have better engine mountings, bodies, sound insulation, and safer steering.

ODT Asks Employers To Limit Vacations

All employers have been asked by N. F. Nelson, Lubbock district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation, to refrain from granting vacation leave or time-off to employes where intercity travel will be involved from Dec. 15, 1944, through Jan. 8, 1945. He also requested business men to cut down all travel during that period to the extent that such travel could be deferred without impairing the war effort.

Government agencies have been asked to cooperate.

Maximum curtailment of non-essential civilian travel during the approaching holiday period is necessary, Nelson said, to prevent interference with the orderly movement on trains of military traffic and passenger travel directly connected with the war.

New Type Artificial Leg Invented In Russia

MOSCOW, Nov. 15. (U.P.) — The Army newspaper Red Star reported today that Russian factories will soon start large scale production of a new type of artificial legs invented by a legless Soviet engineer.

The inventor, Boris Yefremov, demonstrated his artificial legs yesterday by walking 7 1/4 miles along the Leningrad highway against a strong wind in two hours and 23 minutes, Red Star said.

Now that the Harvest is over—

HERE'S OUR FINAL ESTIMATE ON WHAT CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES WILL BE AVAILABLE THIS WINTER

—and what you can do to make the best of the situation

Twice during the harvest and packing season just finished, Del Monte has reported that apparently there would be less canned fruits and vegetables for civilians this winter.

This picture hasn't improved, in spite of the industry's strenuous efforts to increase total packs. Both housewives and grocers will need to use a great deal of intelligence and patience in the months ahead.

To help, we are giving you the best answers now available to the questions you are probably asking about this whole situation.

Just what can you expect in canned fruits and vegetables?

The fruit pack this year came close to that of 1941, the largest in history—a magnificent job made possible by earnest cooperation of growers, packers and workers.

But greatly increased military needs have sharply reduced the civilian share of canned fruits. There will be ⅓ to ¼ less for civilians than last year. In total, fruits will be available to civilians in very limited quantities.

As for vegetables, bad weather and manpower difficulties reduced the 1944 pack below last year's, while government requirements almost doubled.

As a result, the total civilian supply of canned vegetables apparently will be about ⅓ less than last year.

Will the end of the European war change this picture?

There could be a radical change in the civilian supply of canned vegetables if military quotas are reduced or substantial quantities released from military stockpiles.

So far, however, there has been no definite indication that the end of the European hostilities will enable the military to greatly change its requirements immediately.

What can you do to keep your meals up to par this winter?

You, like many other American women, have probably already discovered that sticking to a dependable quality brand is one of the best answers to shortages.

There are so many different Del Monte Foods that even when you can't find exactly the one you'd planned on, you may still find another Del Monte Food to meet your needs.

That way, you are always sure of the quality and flavor—less food is wasted, and all your meals are more satisfying.

What about your chances of finding Del Monte?

Again, we emphasize that all Del Monte Foods will continue to be apportioned fairly to our distributors throughout the country.

Deliveries will also be spread throughout the year, giving you a chance to find at least some varieties of Del Monte Foods on your grocer's shelves at most times.

Whose fault is it when you can't get what you want?

Certainly, it's not your grocer's! It's just an unavoidable wartime situation—one that makes things harder for him.

So continue to give your grocer your patience and understanding. It will help him serve you better.

Here's your quick summary of this winter's canned fruit and vegetable prospects

CANNED FRUITS

PEACHES You will probably be able to purchase an amount slightly less than half last year's supply.

PEARS Larger pack, but larger government requirements will leave civilians less than half last year's short supply.

FRUIT COCKTAIL Amount available to home front is about half of last year's limited supply.

APRICOTS A bumper crop will give you more than usual, even in normal times.

PINEAPPLE Harvest light again this year. You will get about ⅓ average 1935-39 consumption, and much less than last year.

CANNED VEGETABLES

PEAS Amount for civilians will be about ⅓ below last year.

CORN Bad weather reduced crop. Consumer should expect about ¼ less corn this coming year.

ASPARAGUS Larger pack offset by increased military quotas. Still you will get only slightly less than last year.

BEANS Look for slightly less than you bought last year.

BEETS Packs not complete. Much larger government quotas. Supply for civilians about the same as last year.

TOMATOES Civilian supply severely cut by weather and manpower difficulties and higher military requirements. Probably about 60% of last year's supply.

CANNED JUICES

PINEAPPLE JUICE Only ⅓ to ¼ of amount consumers would ordinarily buy will be available.

GRAPEFRUIT JUICE Very large pack was anticipated, but recent hurricane damage probably means you'll get materially less than last year.

TOMATO JUICE Big pack, but larger government requirements, resulting in slightly smaller civilian supply this year.

Power Of Guerillas Emphasized As PT Men Escape Nips On Leyte

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Crews of several patrol torpedo boats forced ashore behind the enemy lines after a running fight with Japanese destroyers several nights ago have returned to their base in the American-held section of Leyte. Associated Press correspondent Spencer Davis shared their shore experiences and returned with them from their temporary hiding places behind the Japanese lines.)

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BEHIND THE JAPANESE LINES ON LEYTE, Nov. 15. — Filipino guerrillas, the native version of WACs and plain citizens of Leyte have guarded several patrol torpedo boat crews—and this correspondent—in the heart of the Japanese-held section of Leyte for 72 hours.

Trapped on the island reefs after a running fight with Japanese destroyers, the crews came ashore in the center of territory where betwn 30,000 and 40,000 Japanse reinforcements have been landed in the last fortnight. We came ashore while Japanese bombers circled overhead by day and destroyers hunted us by night.

Guerrillas In Control

But despite the reinforcements and despite the lurking ships and planes, this territory seems absolutely in the control of the guerrillas.

Filipino girls, who call themselves WACs after the American fashion, are omnipresent. They busy themselves serving delicacies to the men.

One of the PT boat captains, Ensign Hareell Dumas, of Genoa, Tex., has even received a fan letter here behind the enemy lines.

Young Lady Mayor

The letter was from the young lady mayor of a village who wrote:

"My dear Ensign:

"My uncle has arrived with prominent land-owners, just purposely to meet you and all the boys. They simply climbed the steep hills and crossing muddy raging streams just to see you and company. In case you are not able to sail tonight and it will not inconvenience you very much, he wants you to spend the whole of tomorrow here with us.

"We shall be preparing some drinks for all of you. Canadian Club wines are sincerely ready for the toast."

All this is in sharp contrast to the battle from which the crews just came. Dumas and Ensign Lou Thomas, of New Orleans, former Tulane football player, had their boats on patrol the night of Nov. 12 when they were surprised by three enemy destroyers. The first inkling of the destroyers' presence was when their brilliant searchlights flashed squarely on the torpedo boats.

Shells Bracket Craft

Seconds later, five-inch shells bracketed the little craft. The PTs countered with smoke screens and attempted to maneuver within torpedo range but the enemy guns kept them at a distance. The Japanese commander, using the PT radio frequency, called them by their code names with a taunt:

"Manhattans! Manhattans! We are closing you! This is the end!"

One PT skipper replied shortly: "You'll have to catch us first."

Then the boats opened their triple motors for a run to the south, weaving to escape the gunfire, and at last ducked into this inlet and ran aground.

Ship Is Destroyed

Rather than risk having his craft fall into enemy hands, Thomas ordered his crew to abandon ship, then destroyed it with explosives. The sight of the explosion and the PT boat on the reef apparently satisfied the Japanese, for the destroyers retired. Dumas and his men then joined Thomas' party on the beach.

Eight patrol boats that night failed to locate the stranded crews, so on the third night another rescue mission set out under command of Lt. Col. Carl Gleason, Clemsford, Mass. While investigating a light on shore, the boat on which I was riding crunched to a stop on a hidden reef.

We ferried our way by life raft to another PT, commanded by Lt. (jg) Howard Terry, Cameron, Tex.

A Filipino paddled out in a small boat and offered to take us to cover on shore.

We came ashore.

During the day, we met Thomas and Dumas, with their crews. Then the Filipinos took us to their hearts, and we have been living as guests in the heart of the enemy country ever since.

Enemy airplanes have been overhead frequently, but none has attacked the helpless boats. So presently, when tide conditions are right, the remaining boats — which must be towed—will attempt to slip around the enemy destroyers in the dark to get home again.

UAW Seeks Seniority Rule For Servicemen

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (U.P.) — A "model" contract, giving returning service men seniority benefits equivalent to their time in service, has been signed by Southern Aircraft at Garland and the United Automobile Workers (CIO), according to Russell Letner of Dallas, subregional UAW director for Texas.

Letner said the union hopes to insert the clause in its contracts with the Dallas plant of North American aviation, with Ford Motor company and with other companies, whose contracts are coming up for renewal.

A youth who went from high school into service, under terms of the clause, will receive seniority credit for the time he was in military servce after he has served a probationary period at the plant, Letner said.

Men who left their jobs to enter the service will be reinstated on the basis of the "seniority" accumulated while in service.

Tom Pickett Arrives In Washington Early

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — A typical, six-foot Texan visited the Capitol today to see where he will work for the next two years.

Tom Pickett, 36, from Palestine in the heart of East Texas, is his name. He will take oath as a member of the House on Jan. 3, succeeding Rep. Nat Patton of Crockett, whom he defeated in the primaries. Leaving his wife and two-year-old daughter, Helen Louise, at home, the slow talking prosecuting attorney arrived yesterday to get his bearings and find a place to live.

"I just want to kind of get my feet on the ground," he drawled.

"No, I can't say that there is any particular legislation I have on my mind now."

Visiting the Capitol for the first time, he was welcomed by Speaker Rayburn; War Food Administrator Marvin Jones, and other Texans. Showing him around was an old friend and former fellow student at the University of Texas, Rep. Ed Gossett (D-Tex) of Wichita Falls.

He visited last night at the home of old East Texas friends, Naval Lieut. S. A. Kerr, jr., and Mrs. Kerr, formerly of Nacogdoches. Rep. Thomas (D-Tex) and Mrs. Thomas, friends of the Kerrs, were present.

Pickett is one of the three new members to join the Texas congressional delegation next January. The others are Judge J. M. Combs of Beaumont, who succeeds Martin Dies; and John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, who succeeds Richard Kleberg. All are Democrats.

LAAF Variety Show Set Friday Night

Following quickly on the heels of the successful LAAF hobby show, another "first" of a series of LAAF master variety shows will be staged at the post theater Friday night at 8:15. With talent and material supplied exclusively by military personnel, "Varieties in LAAF" will feature eight assorted acts, including songs, dances, skits and the valuable services of the LAAF dance band.

A Special Services function, the versatile show will have Sgt. Fred Muxfeld, of LAAF orientation dept. and a former radio announcer in Illinois, as master of ceremonies. Enlisted men, on-the-line trainees and members of the Women's Army corps have pooled their talents to present the show. It's free to all military personnel.

Sweet Potato Output Is High

South Plains residents who are skeptical about raising sweet potatoes in this area should drive out to the C. D. Elliston farm about two miles east of Lubbock county courthouse on the Idalou highway.

Elliston, who has been in the sweet potato business for several years, has imported two new strains of Maryland "sweets," the "Red Golden" and a yellow Maryland sweet. The yield from these two strains has been enormous.

Averegae 700 Bushels

More than 20,000 bushels were gathered from his 30-acre field, an average of nearly 700 bushels to the acre.

Elliston plans to go into the potato business in a big way next year, having purchased additional land. He plans to plant 80 acres in potatoes in 1945.

Raising and harvesting of the crop is only a minor part of the industry, he pointed out. "You have to handle sweet potatoes as if they were eggs. These particular strains, in particular, have very thin skins and if the skin is broken the potato is practically ruined," he said.

Builds Own Curing Plant

Elliston has built a four-section curing plant on his farm where the potatoes are cured and stored. The potatoes are kept for the first 10 to 14 days at a temperature of 80 to 85 degrees, then the temperature is gradually reduced to 55 degrees.

After curing heat should be provided when outside temperature drops to 48 degrees or below. Ventilation should be increased when outside temperature rises to 60 degrees or more.

Elliston explained that by keeping the temperature at 80 to 85 degrees for the first 10 to 14 days the surplus water is removed from the potatoes.

He predicts that the South Plains is going to be one of the biggest sweet potato sections of the state as many farmers have visited his farm and have shown much interest. Approximately 350 acres of sweet potatoes were planted in Lubbock county this year.

Church Assistance For Farmers Urged

ELGIN, Ill., Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Dr. Henry S. Randolph, New York, a member of the board of national missions of the Presbyterian church, believes that churches must advocate "a Christian sharing of the income from the soil" when land tenure is on the landlord-tenant basis.

Speaking before the second annual national convocation on town and country churches last night, Dr. Randolph said the "local church should promote in every way possible the farmer-ownership type of land tenure,"—since "we are no longer a nation of freeholders living on the land." He asserted that only one farmer in three owns farm land free of a mortgage.

He asked that churches become voluntary agents to help farmers locate on favorable land and also inaugurate local credit unions to help "deserving farmers" buy their own land.

Leaves For Roosevelt Boys Said Not Sought

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that she and the President will not make any request that their sons in the service be given leave to attend the fourth term inauguration on Jan. 20.

"We never make requests for anything for the boys," she said.

One son, Col. Elliott Roosevelt of the air force is back in this country from Europe. Asked if he had been sent home for reasons of health, Mrs. Roosevelt said she thought he was "quite well" and was back "ready for work but will have a leave while he is here." She has not seen him since his return.

Creation of a new cabinet post to embrace education, fine arts and "the whole field of cultural interests," would be an excellent move, she thought, but she doubted that Congress would be interested in making such a change during war.

PROTECT HARD-TO-REPLACE ENGINE PARTS—PUT IN ANTI-FREEZE NOW

FREEZING WATER may shatter the cylinder head, engine block, radiator and other engine parts of your car. In ordinary times these parts can be replaced, although expensively. But today, it's a lucky car owner who can get replacement parts.

WPB ORDER. The War Production Board has tried to protect every automobile, truck, bus and tractor in the country by making available enough anti-freeze to meet all real needs.

You may not always be able to get the type or brand you prefer, but your dealer should have enough of one kind or another to give full winter protection.

CLOSED NIGHTS. This year you may not be able to rush to your service station the last minute before a freeze-up to have your car protected. Most service stations are closed nights. So have your anti-freeze installed at the first opportunity . . . today, if possible.

EXPLOSIVES. Explosives, plastics, and synthetic rubber are made from the same war-critical materials as anti-freeze. The anti-freeze you save or don't waste today means just that much more for vital war needs. One good way to save anti-freeze and keep your car in good operating order longer is to have your cooling system checked over. Your dealer who handles Du Pont anti-freeze can do this for you.

STOP RUST, TOO. Du Pont "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freeze each contain an anti-acid rust inhibitor. It protects vital engine parts against rust and corrosion—and can't form sludge to clog your car's radiator.

SEND NO MONEY ... IT'S FREE

PROPOSED MEMORIAL

RECENTLY we read an article containing a list of proposed memorials to veterans of World II. The list included parks, streets, fountains, etc., to honor returning veterans, as well as those who gave their lives in battle.

We were struck with the idea that no one suggested a library. What better memorial could a county have for its living and dead soldiers, sailors and Marines than a library? What better way to give a mained veteran an opportunity to get off of the street, away from the curious public than to retire to a well stocked library room set aside especially for his benefit.

Lubbock will have a public library in a building to itself some day when peace comes if present plans mature. We hope that a room is set apart as a special memorial to men from our county fighting in their country's service.

IN THE MAIL

A LUBBOCK man classified 4-F by the draft board whose name isn't necessary, writes the following letter:

Thanks from the bottom of my heart for the paragraph in your column today (Sunday) concerning men with 4-F classifications. The pains our pride have to suffer is enough; and the struggle we have to wage to maintain our self-respect is far from small. Especially is this true in my case with three years of infantry training, over a year of artillery training and a knowledge gained in two summer camps going to waste. I cannot help but feel there are plenty of jobs in a limited capacity we could fill, even if special uniforms and classifications were necessary.

It is civilians that make hurting remarks. All persons I know wearing a uniform understand and are very considerate in what they say. I am tempted to retort, first tell me how many pounds of paper and fat you have saved, and how many gallons of gasoline, and how many bandages have you rolled and how many garments have you knit.

Among my friends are some in recruiting. One should read a list of the excuses given by girls for not enlisting in the women's branches — "now I have a chance of getting a footing," "my job is too important to leave," "my field of study is too valuable to the post-war years," to mention only a few.

But I do honor the girl who said she could not join the WAC because her family owned three farms, could get no help, so she felt it her duty to stay at home and help harvest the crops. My hat is off to all girls who are not afraid to get their pretty hands soiled.

Again, thanks from the bottom of my heart.

SINCE we have helped to interview young women who applied for entrance into the WACS and have talked to others who didn't show any interest in the women's services we know both sides. But in fairness to some women who felt they wanted to wear their country's uniform, we'll suggest that there may be reasons unknown to the public.

In our own case, for instance, after passing preliminary tests and feeling assured we would be accepted for officers' candidate school in the WAVES, we were told that branch is accepting no one else in that branch except doctors and physio-therapists. So you see, there it is again. One should not pass judgment on whether he thinks a man or woman is patriotic and serving his country to his fullest capacity unless he knows a few inside facts. Thanks for your letter.

Famed Lecturer Is Speaker For P-TA

Approximately 200 members and guests of the Senior High Parent-Teacher association heard Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton of New York, lecturer with the Hogg Foundation, speak on "This Business of Being a Parent" Wednesday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. Overton offered a challenge to all parents in understanding the adolescent age children. She stressed the emotions and developments of children of that age.

Miss Grace Padley, program leader, introduced Mrs. Overton, who described how in different cities teachers and parents are working in consultation groups in bringing about a better understanding between parents and teachers of the children. She also said, "Following the other war, preachers and churches were blamed for the chaotic conditions but now the parents and teachers are being blamed.

During the business session the unit voted to sponsor the Thanksgiving dance to be held at the Teen Age Center. It was announced that the recreation programs for high school students will be held in the high school gymnasium Dec. 1, 8 and 15. The senior class will plan games for the first entertainment and the sophomore class will be in charge of the second. Members of the junior class will plan for the third program. Mrs. Paul Hardwick is recreation chairman and will be assisted by fathers and mothers.

Club Hears Review By Mrs. R. A. Mills

Mrs. R. A. Mills, a guest, reviewed the book, "Boston Adventure" (Jean Stafford) Wednesday afternoon for members of the Book of the Month club when they met with Mrs. H. T. Luther, 2513 Twenty-first. Mrs. J. E. Ausburn was co-hostess.

Refreshments were served and two new members present were Mesdames W. H. Bradberry and H. G. Derman. Others present were Mesdames O. L. Byrd, Milt Jones, DeWitt Landis, Don Mitchell, E. T. Pope, W. B. Price, Parker Prouty, Charles Read, C. I. Wall and Ray C. Mowery.

Junior Welfare Group Has General Session

At a general meeting Tuesday night at the Hilton hotel, report of hours spent by Junior Welfare league members in Red Cross work and at the Well Baby clinic which it sponsors was given.

Since Jan. 1 league members have spent 1747 hours at the Red Cross and 681 hours at the clinic. During the quarter just over 554 hours were consumed.

Mrs. Robert Maxey presided. Report of the clinic chairman, Mrs. Durwood Bradley, was read by Mrs. Hiram Parks, co-chairman. It was stated the babies are doing well and interest is maintained at the clinic. Mrs. C. C. Mansell spoke briefly on keeping up the good work for the well babies at the weekly sponsored clinic.

Mrs. A. H. Maas gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Harold Humphries reported the work hours. Mrs. C. E. Wiginton is secretary of the league.

Opti-Mrs. Club Sees Movie At Meeting

A movie, "The Ominous Arms Cade," under the direction of R. K. Landreth and B. M. Mason of Houston was presented for members of the Opti-Mrs. Club when they met at Seaman hall Tuesday night. Mrs. C. H. Scales presided.

A playlet was presented by a number of school children directed by Ross Craig, Marion Gill, Sam Camp, Carolyn Taylor, Bernard Cave, Carolyn Pope and Frank Ford. Mrs. Ernest Mader directed the play.

Hostesses were Mesdames O. W. McGuire, Berl Ham, T. D. Peel, A. E. Quest and M. H. Adkisson.

Colorful Exhibit Displayed At Junior High School Library; Tea Honors Faculty

With emphasis in carrying forth the idea of National Book Week, to show how books are related to work done by students, the Junior High school library has prepared a colorful exhibit with various table arrangements by the music, Latin, Spanish, reading classes, art, Bible, journalism, science, English, practical art departments and the faculty library.

Miss Velma McCollum, librarian, is in charge of the exhibit which has combined book displays with posters and illustrations, also magazines in the library. The motto, "United Through Books" was carried out in arrangements of books from every Nation.

A tea given for the Junior High faculty was held Wednesday afternoon in the library with the Home Economics department in charge. High school teachers were guests.

Fall flowers were decorations furnished by room mothers. Guests registered in a green and yellow book and favors were miniature books declaring National Book Week, both made by Home Economics department. Favorite cookie recipes were also given to guests.

Special interest in the displays included an original letter from John Greenleaf Whittier, owned by Mrs. Rachel J. Stubbs. The letter was written to Mrs. J. B. Morrisette. Old books on the "Life of Christ" by J. James Tissot, were loaned by Mrs. Jed W. Burns for the Bible display. Outstanding on the art display were trays, vases and soap carvings made by students.

One of the most attractive exhibits was the study of nature, by the reading department, under the direction of Mrs. J. G. Wilhite. A miniature forest scene and nature study was included. In the background were nature and animal books.

Book ends of U and S have been made for the library by the wood work classes. Another project shown was book jackets which were made by students instead of book reports.

The public is invited to see the exhibit in the Junior High library Thursday or Friday from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Cold Aid
Helps Break Up Colds' Local Congestion—Checks Coughing
Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

A FLAVOR TREAT FOR CHILDREN...

PLUS THE BENEFIT OF EXTRA IRON

IT'S A DELIGHT—that unforgettable old-time flavor that comes from the juice of freshly crushed sugar cane! And in this juice there is also a substantial amount of iron to enrich the goodness of Brer Rabbit Syrup.

Recent scientific tests show that Brer Rabbit Syrup not only contains a high amount of iron, but the iron is in a form almost completely available for use by the body. So eat plenty of this syrup that tastes so good. It is fine for you and your family. Buy it from your grocer tomorrow. Made by Penick & Ford, Ltd., Inc., New Orleans, La.

Serve this Delicious Syrup several times daily

Children need an abundance of iron daily . . . and they love delicious Brer Rabbit Syrup. Give them plenty every day—in any form they enjoy:

AS A SPREAD—For pancakes, waffles, biscuits and other hot breads. Or on plain or buttered bread for between-meal snacks.

IN MILK—For a delicious Brer Rabbit Milk Shake, mix one or more tablespoons of Brer Rabbit Syrup with a glass of milk.

OR CEREAL—In place of other sweetening.

FOR DESSERT—As a sauce for ice cream or in luscious gingerbread or cookies. All of Brer Rabbit's iron is retained in cooking.

Sale Of Natural Gas Is Defended

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson believes that the natural gas in Texas fields will ultimately bring more money to the state than the remaining oil.

In a statement today incident to the recent completion of the gas pipeline from Texas to the East, Thompson said:

"You cannot build up a more prosperous union by erecting trade barriers against a free flow of commerce between the states.

Applies Some To Oil

"Some people might say, 'but we will soon be out of gas'. The same reply could be given as to oil. But I have not heard of anyone suggesting that we not ship our oil out of Texas.

"In fact, we hunt for markets for all our products and heretofore we have been glad to have a market.

"One thing is sure and that is that natural gas sells too cheaply at the well. The reason for that has been that there was not a sufficiently competitive market for natural gas.

"It looks like we are going to now get a competitive market for gas and perhaps it will go up and bring more nearly what it is worth as a fuel and as a content of liquid hydrocarbons.

Somebody Must Pay

"But when you say it should not be permitted to sell Texas gas to go outside Texas then who is to pay the rentals on the gas lands and who will pay for the development?

"The natural gas in Texas fields will probably bring more money to Texas than the remaining oil. The industry is learning to make many things out of natural gas—even gasoline.

"It is up to Texas enterprise to attract gas industries to Texas, but I doubt if building a wall around Texas is the way to do it."

Grand Jury Recalled In Hockley County

LEVELLAND, Nov. 15. (Special)—A 72nd district grand jury will be recalled at 10 o'clock Thursday morning by Judge Dan Blair to investigate several formal complaints, defendents in which had been bound over to await its action.

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, said the charge of failure to stop and render aid filed Monday against R. C. Bonds, 17, of Sudan would be among the four or five cases to be referred to the jury.

Bond's truck allegedly was involved in a crash with an automobile Saturday night near Roundup. Billie Sanders, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Sanders of Littlefield was killed and Roy Luke, also of Littlefield, injured in the mishap.

Special Navy Service Is Available To Men

Qualified men of selective service ages—as well as in the 17 and 38-50 groups—may volunteer for special Navy service and be assured of assignment to that branch upon induction, the Navy department has announced.

Lieut.-Comdr. Dan Henry, officer in charge of North and West Texas Navy recruiting, who is visiting in Lubbock today said he had been authorized to announce that, effective immediately, men who have physically qualified for armed service through pre-induction examinations, and before reporting for actual induction, may take the Eddy test for radar and radio technician training, without obligation, at any Navy recruiting station or sub-station.

Successful applicants who have not received orders to report for induction, will be given letters of directed assignment to submit at the time of induction. These letters will assure assignment to the Navy and enlistment as Seamen, first class, in the U. S. Naval Reserve, in which the men will enter a ten-months course of concentrated, technical training in radar, radio and related subjects. Need for men in these fields is the Navy's No. 1 urgency just now. Basic knowledge of mathematics, science, shop work, electricity and radio is beneficial but not required.

Only by taking — and passing —the Eddy test prior to induction are men of draft age eligible to apply for voluntary enlistment in the Navy, Commander Henry said. High school graduation is the minimum educational requirement.

CHARTER IS ISSUED

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—A charter has been issued by the secretary of state to the Texas A. and M. College Research foundation.

The foundation's purpose, said Engineering Dean H. W. Barlow, is to seek solution of research problems which are adequately subsidized for the benefit of the people of Texas, the college, its staff and students, and the foundation

Women Still Lead In Totals At University

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (UP)—Despite a large Navy trainee enrollment, women students still predominate at the University of Texas.

Of a 7,425 enrollment, announced today, 4,143 are women and 3,282 are men—including Navy's 1,001 trainees.

Last year there were 3,645 women to 3,293 men.

HOUSTON, Nov. 15. (UP)—The Houston Packing company has been awarded the War Food administration's "A" achievement medal, first such award made to a Texas packing house, the WFA announced today.

The award was for maintenance of quality and quantity in production of processed food.

FDR Makes Sweep Of Vote In Big Cities

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—President Roosevelt made a clean sweep of the country's biggest cities in his fourth term victory this year, an Associated Press survey disclosed today, and he amassed a larger vote in these cities than in 1940.

Roosevelt received 6,556,859 votes in the 13 cities having populations of more than 500,000, against 4,273,631 for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and the soldier vote is yet uncounted in St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Baltimore. Except for Ohio and Wisconsin, Roosevelt carried every state in which these cities are situated.

In 1940 the 13 metropolitan communities gave Roosevelt 6,152,096, while Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate, got 4,238,162.

TAKES ELLINGTON POST

HOUSTON, Nov. 15. (UP)—Col. Edward V. Harbeck, jr., recently assigned to headquarters of the Central Flying training command at Randolph Field, arrived here today to take command of Ellington field, succeeding Col. Rosenham Beam, who was appointed commander of the 80th Flying Training wing at San Marcos, Tex., in September.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Syrup at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough medicine. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

...or getting along in Guatemala

Music makes friends among our Latin-American neighbors, just as it does here at home. There's another custom that helps make friends even faster. It's the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Have a "Coke" is an invitation of welcome as quickly understood in Guatemala as in Georgia. In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola has become the same symbol of friendliness that it is in your own living room.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Planting Of Nearly 364,000,000 Acres In Crops Slated For 1945

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. — Choosing to risk surpluses rather than shortages, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones asked today that farmers maintain their 1945 production as near this year's record level as possible.

"We cannot risk the possibility of shortages," he said in announcing the commodity goals.

The plans are based on assumed continuance of the war in Europe until next summer or fall, with consequent heavy military and lend-lease demand, and the continuance of an above-average civilian demand at home.

Might Modify Plan

In case of an early end to the war in Europe and reduced military demands, Jones said he would suggest modifications in goals before planting time next spring.

The new goals were announced amid speculation in farm circles of possible crop surpluses after the war and consequent farm price difficulties. They call for about 364,000,000 acres in various crops compared with 360,000,000 planted this year.

They recommend also a two per cent increase in the 1945 spring pig crop, a three per cent increase in the fall pig crop, a two per cent increase in milk production and a three per cent increase in slaughter of cattle and calves for beef, but a 16 per cent decrease in egg production.

No Cotton Increase

Very little change was recommended for the major grain crops and none for cotton.

To encourage continued heavy production, the government will provide farm price supports or guarantees at about the same general level as this year. Such support will be contingent, however, upon congressional approval of an administration request for a $2,000,000,000 increase in the funds of the WFA's banking agency, the Commodity Credit corporation.

J. B. Hutson, chief of the WFA's office of production, told farm leaders at a conference that the goals should provide about as much food and fiber as was produced this year if acre yields equal the above-average yields of the last three years. He said production would be ten per cent less if yields come out about average.

The WFA is assuming, he said, that military and lend-lease demands will be between 60 and 65 per cent of requirements this year. Any reduction in such requirements could be used, he said, to help meet now-restricted civilian demands and to rebuild food reserves for the future.

The government is particularly anxious, Hutson said, to restore pre-war reserves of corn and other feed grains for use in event of a future drouth or other emergency.

Mexican Escapee Is Held By Police Here

Police had in custody Wednesday 36-year-old Leandro Perez who twice has escaped the Texas prison system.

Perez's last escape occurred last Sept. 1, the first last February. Both escapes were made from the Ramsey state prison farm.

He was serving a 25-year term for robbery by assault from Bexar county, police files show.

Perez was one of six Mexicans arrested early yesterday in 200-block Ave. K for drunkeness and general investigation. They were rounded up by police Capt. Bill Bell, Mark McCurry, Gilbert Newton and Glynn Hudgens.

Perez, who gave an alias when booked at the police station, was fined $15 for drunkeness and was detained for prison authorities when a check of police files revealed his record.

Police said the man admitted the September escape.

Amazing results shown in improving the Looks... boosting VITALITY!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impairs the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength.

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

At such times Nature needs extra help to restore its balance and function properly. Undigested food places a tax on the system...insufficient blood strength is a detriment to good health.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need!

SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat . . . to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality . . . pep . . . become animated . . . more attractive!

Armed forces, both sexes, are great listeners to America's Town Meeting of the Air. Possibly because they know it's important today to think and talk about all sides of the vital questions that face us. A good reason why you should listen in! WITH the AEF

by KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE AEF ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Nov. 11. (Delayed) (AP)—Nobody ever gets anywhere telling the weatherman how to behave, so when Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army advance got underway here in the Metz sector the men had to keep moving despite mud, rain, snow and floods.

DIXON

With the 60th combat engineers, it became a matter of ingenuity. They had to be ready to get tanks across rivers and the flooded Lorraine valleys under fire. While awaiting the order to advance, some officers in the 60th got an idea and passed it along to Sgt. Eugene Conran of Brooklyn, and the sergeant got busy.

The scene shifts to a river crossing a few days later when the Sherman tanks jumped off with orders to cross the river and capture a strategic town on the other side.

Bridged In 20 Minutes

"There was German machine-gun crossfire at the bridge site," said Sgt. DeWitt Gilpin of Chicago. "But that bridge was placed across the river in exactly 20 minutes working time. The tanks rolled across. A little later, supplies and ammunition followed. Another 'quickie' bridge, and the town was ours."

"The idea is that you build a bridge back in the bivouac area and then bring it up ready made, all set to throw across," explained S/Sgt Harold Miller of Warsaw, Mo. "It cuts down Jerry's shooting time at you."

Miller ought to know why that's important. When one wounded man became isolated across the river, the bridge building was stopped long enough to cover him while he went across under fire, applied first aid and carried back the injured man. Then the tanks and machineguns behind the engineers laid down a heavy protective fire and the bridge was completed.

Tanks Ready To Roll

"Those tanks were lined up behind us ready to roll and we didn't like to keep them waiting," grinned Cpl. Joseph Sanantonio of Brooklyn.

Capt. Tim Mercer of Breham, Tex., said the other bridge also was built under German fire at about the same time, after Lt. Roland Moureau of Elmhurst, Ill., and his men fought their way through a mined German roadblock in order to reach the crossing site.

As soon as the tanks were rolling, the engineers got busy making more "bivouac-built bridges" to be ready for other crossings. Despite the weather, another outfit, also a part of the 25th division, found the advance a matter of human endurance. These were doughboys of the 320th Infantry regiment.

Not Conducive To Sleep

"They had mud for mattresses, rainwater for sheets and German bullets for lullabies," reported Pvt. Whitney Hanson of Salt Lake City, a former fiction writer. "You wouldn't believe men could sleep in those conditions in the middle of an attack — but they did."

"I wouldn't believe it either unless I'd seen it," agreed Lt. Larry D. Gilbertson of Black Falls, Wis., in a voice flat with fatigue. "But most of our men were so exhausted they'd fall asleep every time we stopped for any reason.

"When the attack was held up, they'd fall asleep right there in the mud — bullets whining over and around them, rain falling all the time. As soon as a German strong point was wiped out, we'd wake them up and push along. The next time we were pinned down, they'd do it again."

Couldn't Keep Awake

Gilbertson's battalion had made three attacks in the first day of operation. "We were so tired we just couldn't keep awake," agreed Pfc. Paul W. Wagner of Bridgeton, N. J. ("We'd hiked all night through the mud with full packs just to get to the jumping off point of the first attack the next morning."

"It had rained all that night and all the day before and all night before that," said Pfc. Elmer E. Haggerty of Glen Robin, O. "We hadn't rested, so naturally we were sleepy during the attack."

Nevertheless, these men always had gotten up and gone ahead when the time came to attack again—and as we stood there talking, they were getting ready to attack again, right away.

Baptists In Texas Cut Debts Sharply

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Report of the Baptist Foundation of Texas, George J. Mason, Dallas, executive secretary, to the Baptist General Convention of Texas Wednesday night revealed that the foundation has reduced the $6,000,000 debt of Texas Baptists, as of 1931, to $1,000,000 and has increased endowment for Texas Baptist instutions from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 during the same period.

The home missions committee, Rev. E. G. Gregory, jr., Comanche, chairman, reported that the board now has 514 missionaries working in 1050 churches and mission stations in every state of the Southern Baptist convention and in Cuba and Central America.

The committee on Baptist hospitals of Texas, Rev. E. S. Hutcherson, chairman, reported that during the last year the five hospitals under the Texas convention cared for 55,195 patients and gave to charity $133,232. Total present asset of the hospitals is $6,011,810.

The executive board presented for approval and adoption a $3,000,000 budget for the next convention year: $1,000,000 for southwide causes; $1,000,000 for state missions; and $1,000,000 for endowment.

Dr. J. M. Dawson, Waco, speaking on "World Peace," declared that "a guarantee of religious liberty must be included in any plan for lasting peace." And in the name of 13,000,000 Baptists, he insisted that it be much considered in all peace plans now in formulation.

Five Fliers Killed In Crash Of Trainer

MONROE, La., Nov. 15. (AP)—Five Army fliers from Selman Field were killed late last night when their AT-7 navigation training plane exploded and crashed two miles north of Kokomo, Miss., Col. W. H. Reid, commanding officer of the AAF training command base here said today.

The dead included Pvt. Herman D. Armstrong, engineer; Henry E. Armstrong, father, Fort Worth, Tex.

GREEKS RELEASED

(By The Associated Press)

Premier George Papandreou announced yesterday that all Greek soldiers arrested after the mutiny in Alexandria, Egypt, last April had been released, the British radio reported last night in a broadcast recorded by the Office of War Information.

News Briefs

A South Plains Army Air field soldier was released to military authorities by police in connection with the theft Wednesday night of a car from a negro, Elijah Washington, who lives in 2200-block Sixteenth. The soldier was arrested by Chief of Police Don Reeder in 1700-block Main, where he abandoned the car, after Reeder observed that the vehicle was being driven without lights. Washing said he had parked the car in 1700-block Broadway.

Seaman Guard Gordon Treat of San Diego, Calif., arrived in Lubbock Wednesday to spend a six-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Treat of 1507 Arnett.

Firemen answered two alarms in a 10-minute period Wednesday morning but they did not leave their trucks in either instance. Both fires were out when they arrived. There was an automobile fire on East Broadway and a "grease" fire at 1608 Ave. Q.

A car stolen in Stanton from Mrs. J. K. Cawthorn of 2921 Thirty-fourth was still sought by Texas officers Wednesday night. Mrs. Cawthorn is a teacher in Stanton schools. The sheriff's department at Stanton described the car as a 1940 Ford black coupe bearing license 964-607.

Approximately 55 members, women and special guests attended a ladies night dinner meeting of the Lubbock Association of Life Underwriters Wednesday night in Hilton hotel. Sam P. Hay, jr., of Houston, was principal speaker, talking on life insurance sales technique. Hays is director of sales training for the Great Southern Life Insurance company. Jimmie E. Yates is president of the Lubbock association.

tions policy toward neutrals who were indifferent to the Allied cause emerged today with the disclosure that Spain—long pro-Axis—would be barred from the peace table.

Richard Law, under secretary of state for foreign affairs, in language unusually plain for dealing with a diplomatic situation of the future, laid down before Commons this stand of Britain.

Should Make Contribution

"So far as the governments are concerned, they see no reason why any country which has not made a positive contribution to the United Nation's war effort should be represented at the peace conference or at any discussions on the peace settlements."

His statement generally was regarded in diplomatic quarters here as reflecting the views of the United States and Soviet Russia, but there remained some uncertainty over interpretation of a "positive contribution."

It seemed clear, however, that the policy would affect Argentine and Eire as well as Spain. It left at least four other countries — Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal and Turkey—up in the air.

Turks Under Pressure

Turkey went part of the way toward restoring herself in Allied good graces by belatedly breaking diplomatic and economic relations with Germany — but only after Prime Minister Churchill declared on May 24 that the Turks could have obtained a stronger voice by a more active role.

Portugal, Britain's oldest ally, and Sweden, geographically vulnerable to German assault—like Turkey — traded with the Axis until the tide of war turned to Allied favor.

Switzerland — long aloof from Europe's wars — appeared in a somewhat better position for getting a peace table seat, partly because of her established position of neutrality, partly because of her service as an international go-between.

Furniture Retailers Hold Session Here

Businessmen from six South Plains counties attended the district meeting of the Retail Furniture association of Texas Wednesday night in the Hilton hotel.

Howard Laird, furniture dealer of Fort Worth, and H. E. Dill of the Dallas district of the association, spoke on price control and regulations, and post war planning by the furniture industry.

F. W. Groce, director of the state association, stated that he was entirely satisfied with the success of the meeting, and reported that many new and useful ideas were presented.

Counties represented at the meeting were Lubbock, Garza, Terry, Crosby, Lamb and Hale.

Revision Of Treaty Ratification Plan Runs Into Senate Trouble

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A revived proposal to permit ratification of treaties by a majority vote of House and Senate ran into opposition today in the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Even some members favorable to setting aside the constitutional requirement that a two-thirds majority of the Senate approve treaties opposed action at this time.

They took the view that it would be more difficult to get the Senate to vote two to one to change the rules than it would be to get the same majority to ratify a treaty.

Revived By Bloom

The issue was revived by an appeal from Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the House Foreign Affairs committee for Republican support for his proposed constitutional amendment to permit ratification by a majority vote of each house.

Bloom argued that exclusion of the House from treaty consideration "leaves the direct representatives of the people without anything to say."

Senator George (D-Ga), ranking member of the Senate committee, told reporters he regarded the matter "as an academic discussion."

"Any international peace organization or treaty that does not have the support of at least two-thirds of the American people and of the senators representing them wouldn't have much hope for success," George asserted.

"There isn't the slightest justification for a change in the fundamental constitutional system at a time when we were trying to work out far-reaching international agreements."

This is the view previously expressed by the committee chairman, Senator Connally (D-Tex) who is expected back in Washington next week.

The Senate Judiciary committee has kept pigeon-holed for months four proposals by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) calling for constitutional amendments to set aside the two-thirds Senate majority requirement. One would permit a simple majority of the Senate to ratify. Another would allow ratification by a majority of both houses.

Obstacles Explained

The obstacles, as Connally and other members of the committee see them, are:

1. Adoption of a constitutional amendment requires approval by a two-thirds majority of both houses and approval by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states. They estimate it would require a minimum of two years to put one through.

2. Action approving an international peace organization with force to resist aggression should be sought as soon as its nature has been determined fully.

3. Prolonged debate over a proposal to set aside a constitutional prerogative of the Senate might arouse bitterness that would threaten peace proposals themselves.

"I fear it would be much more difficult to get the Senate to change the rules by a two-thirds vote than it would be to get it to ratify a treaty it has before it for examination," George said.

Pearl Harbor Case Expected To Break

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short either will be cleared of charges in connection with the Pearl Harbor disaster or ordered to face court martial proceedings sometime before Dec. 7, reliable congressional sources said today.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal already have received detailed reports from Army and Navy investigative boards and, according to authoritative information, will be ready to announce a decision in the next few days.

Dallas Navy Office Slated For Houston

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP) — The Dallas office of naval officer procurement will be transferred to the office of naval officer procurement in Houston Dec. 1, Lieut. A. M. Leary, jr., officer-in-charge, said today.

The Houston office will be in charge of procurement for Texas and Oklahoma, the Oklahoma City office of procurement having closed on November 15, Leary said.

Leary will report for duty as the executive officer at the Houston office some time in December. Other Dallas officers and enlisted personnel will be transferred to procurement offices in Houston, New Orleans, and other stations.

"The Navy's need for chaplains, medical officers, engineers and combat air crewmen continues," Leary said. He added that the enlistment of WAVES would continue, with numbers enlisted on a more restricted basis, and that WAVE procurement for Texas and Oklahoma would be handled in Houston.

State Loses In Oil Land Suit

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP) — The Supreme court's decision in a land patent dispute between the state and owners of oil land in Brazoria county today knocked out a number of other similar suits filed or contemplated, the attorney general's office said.

The court refused the state's motion for a rehearing in two test cases, in which the state contended that the patents issued by J. H. Walker as land commissioner in 1935 were void. The landholders contended the statute of limitations applied in the test cases, and were upheld by the court.

Records in the case showed that the suits were filed Sept. 29, 1943, and that the patents were issued Nov. 29, 1935, after Walker had obtained an opinion from the attorney general approving the action. The state argued these patents were void because of the law which says public lands within five miles of commercial oil production may only be leased, not sold.

The test cases were styled State versus Gilbert Sneed and State versus Pan American Production company. The state lost in both trial and civil appeals courts.

In the written opinion denying the motions for rehearing, Chief Justice James P. Alexander said applications for writs of error against the civil appeals ruling were refused "because we were of the opinion that the state's suits to recover the land were barred by the one year statute of limitations."

Friendship "Stronger Than Fear Of Death" Revealed After Gunners Ride Plane Down

AN EIGHTH AIRFORCE BOMBER STATION, England, Nov. 15. (U.P.) — A friendship that was "stronger than fear of death" was revealed today with the announcement that three Flying Fortress gunners had ridden their doomed plane into the ground rather than abandon a wounded comrade who was trapped in the ball turret.

All four died as the Fortress crashed in France a few miles behind Allied lines. They were buried side by side in a Canadian army cemetery.

Unable To Bail Out

Staff Sgt. Edwin T. Kreisel, jr., Wilmington, Del., the ball turret gunner, was wounded by flak and his turret was damaged so badly that he was unable to bail out.

His three buddies, Staff Sgt. John J. Burgard, Long Beach, Cal., tail gunner; Staff Sgt. Irving Stewart, Moran, Ga., waist gunner, and Sgt. Elvert D. Scott, Aspermont, Tex., radio operator, told Kreisel:

"Don't Worry Down There"

"Don't worry down there in the ball turret. If anything ever happens, we'll either get you out or we'll still be here with you when she hits."

T/Sgt. Grady Cooper, Chattanooga, Tenn., top turret gunner, who injured his ankle when he bailed out, told of the four boys' friendship:

"I often heard them promise to stay with "Fritz' Kreisel if he ever was trapped in the ball," he said. "Perhaps they thought they could ride out the crash and have a chance and perhaps they didn't"

Passport Regulations Relaxed By Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—The State department has informed Rep. Thomas (D-Tex) that Mexico has relaxed passport regulations to facilitate visits by American nationals on business trips to that country.

The new regulations, valid for six months, permit the following categories of Americans to obtain passports directly from Mexican immigration officials at the border:

Produce buyers and inspectors of packing companies operating in the Mexican states of Sonora, Sinaloa, and Nayarit; cattle buyers in the northern zones of Mexico, mining prospectors, actors performing under contract in Mexican border towns, and firm members and accounts of American companies having business in towns along the Mexican border.

Brooklyn Wants Ban On Coward's Writing

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP) — If Brooklyn has its way, New York City will see no more plays or books by Noel Coward.

The borough's five councilmen, with community pride seething at the British playwright's comments on bravery of Brooklyn's serivce men, yesterday introduced a resolution in the city council that Coward's books and plays be banned from theaters and stores here.

Coward, in his new book, "Middle East Diary," had written:

". . . I was less impressed by some of the mournful little Brooklyn boys lying there in tears amidst the alien corn with nothing worse than a bullet wound in the leg or a fractured arm."

Production of heavy-duty trucks totaled 37,611 in 1943, compared with 21,609 in 1942.

Howard Convicted, Assessed 10 Years

ODESSA, Nov 15. (AP)—Shirlie Howard was convicted of a charge of murder with malice and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary last night in the fatal shooting of J. W. Whittington of Midland Nov. 8, 1942.

Howard entered a plea of innocence.

In a previous trial in Midland county Howard was sentenced to 45 years but the court of criminal appeals reversed and remanded the case and it was sent here on a change of venue.

Admiration—Where All Tastes Meet

Dear Son:
I know it all too well. She called you a mouse and you called her a moose. Twenty five years ago your Mom and I started every breakfast the same way. It went on for months. I had to sift a lot of sand to find the flea but I found it. It was the little things of married life like squeezing the tooth paste tube in the middle, cold flabby pancakes, uncombed hair, and others. We both were guilty, and admitted it. After that compliments replaced criticism and well, Mary and I agree that life without each other would be like wandering in deserts. We still do.
Affectionately
Dad

P.S. Good Coffee is often the fountain of Family Harmony

Soul Satisfying and Richly Mellow

Admiration gives a cheering lift to the spirit and makes life brighter. Its heart-warming goodness, its mellow, satisfying fragrance, its rich, robust flavor are carefully blended into each pound in such a manner that they never vary from week to week. Even from package to package. You'll have no "coffee complaints" when you use Admiration—and probably no breakfast rows, either. For on Admiration Coffee all tastes meet.

Morgan Seeks Pass Slinger

Coach Dell Morgan continued to work on the T model scoring machine of the Texas Tech Red Raiders, and much of Wednesday's workout was devoted to seeking a potent offense through the airlanes for Saturday afternoon's battle here with the New Mexico Lobos.

With Gene Hardey, the regular quarterback, and chief passing threat, sitting on the sidelines this week with an injured knee, a passer has become a top question around the Tech campus and stadium.

Passers Try Luck

T. M. Cox, Bud Davis, Ernest Hawkins, Tom Montgomery and Billy Whitehead were all taking turns at chunking the pigskin during the dummy scrimmage session, with Whitehead showing the most promise with his bullet heaves on short stabs over the line.

The Red Raiders will have one more rough drill before tapering off for the game Saturday afternoon.

Lobos Add Strength

Reports drifting in from New Mexico indicate that the Lobos have been showing plenty of punch with a number of new Marines moving in to place the situation well in hand, and are expected to turn loose an offensive barrage here Saturday.

The indications that the battle will develop into a fast scoring duel has pepped up lots of interest among local fans, and the rivalry of the two schools in the pre-war Border Conference adds fuel to the fire.

The greatest praise from the Lobo camp centers around a pair of fast stepping backfield stars in W. B. Calland, a recent transfer from Washburn college, and W. E. Rice, a southpaw passer who has been the chief threat of the Lobos this season.

Weather Gives Deer Hunters Big Break

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP) — Life hung by a thread tonight for many of the deer and turkey in all Texas east of the Pecos river.

A timely norther will give nimrods a brisk day, ideal for hunting for the opening of deer and turkey season Thursday. Will Tucker, executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission estimated there will be a record kill of between 35,000 and 40,000 deer before the season closes Dec. 31.

Deer season west of the Pecos is open Nov. 20-25 only.

The same range conditions that have sent Texas cattle into the winter in good flesh also have put deer in good condition.

Cooler weather not only keeps the deer on the move, but it makes their transportation to cold storage less of a problem. Most hunters carry deer home in their cars, and cool weather lessens the change of spoilage.

Shortage of ammunition was less of a deterrent to hunters than gasoline rationing. Almost anyone who had a rifle could find enough shells, although supplies were limited.

Carbine, winner of 33 races in 43 starts and a famed sire in his later years, is the idol of Australian racegoers.

SPAAF Offense Oiled For Buffs

Pepped up for their game Friday night with the West Texas State Teachers college Buffaloes, the up-and-coming Winged Commandoes of South Plains Army Air Field prepped yesterday with a game-condition scrimmage.

Divided into teams with first-string players on both outfits, each eleven showed considerable offensive punch.

Club Looks Good

The team featuring Paul Campbell at left half, Claude McClanahan at quarterback and Ed Schuknecht at left end passed to several consecutive first downs and the opposing team with Joe Eager at tailback and Herman Ciripompa at fullback was pounding out yardage on the ground.

Both lines were opening up big holes for the light backs to scamper through and Campbell was getting excellent protection on his passing.

Ciripompa, who suffered a mild concussion Saturday night in the Fort Bliss game when he tackled Tony Canadeo, is fully recovered and probably will start against the Buffs Friday.

Cagni Shifts Lineup

Head Coach Ray Cagni has shifted big tackle Nishon Parseghian to the backfield and will likely run the 250-pound fellow at fullback part of the time against the hustlin' Buffaloes. In the scrimmage yesterday, he was making his own holes and was going for three or four yards every time he carried the ball.

The Commandos are in good mental and physical shape for the game Friday and are pointing for their first win of the season with vim and vigor.

However, the Buffs will be out to make it two out of three wins over Lubbock opponents and will be bearing down in their first Lubbock appearance.

The Buffaloes will be heavily favored—probably for the first time this year—by virtue of their 14-12 win over Lubbock Army Air Field, which licked SPAAF easily 49-14. West Texas Teachers also holds a victory over New Mexico 19-13, but has lost to Texas Tech.

Leaders Blanked To Tighten Bowling Race

Bowling leaders found the going rough Wednesday night at the Plamor alleys, and both Armour's and Lions club teams were knocked over for three in a row to feature the play in the City-Commercial league race.

DeKalb Oilers knocked over the league leading Armour's and Meads Bakery took the measure of the Lions. Hub Laundry moved into a second place tie with DeKalb by winning two from Coca-Cola. S. and Q. Clothiers tied the Lions for third place by winning two games from the Optimist club.

With Maurice Cooper setting the pace, DeKalb set a new high for the season in a single game with 949 pins. Cooper toppled 649 for the three games and had a top single game score of 247, one pin better than R. B. Hamlett. J. K. Giles with a 234 single game and a 635 series was close on the heels of the leaders.

Army-Navy Game Still Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Time was rapidly running out tonight on the possibility of the Army-Navy football game being shifted from Annapolis to a big city stadium.

Government officials apparently had adopted a gridiron strategem, the lateral pass, and were tossing the Dec. 2 game back and forth, with no official announcement yet made.

Unless a definite decision is reached by Friday, officials said it will be too late to arrange for a change.

Capt. C. O. Humphrey, director of athletics at the Naval academy, the home team, told the Associated Press it will be a "physical impossibility" to print and distribute tickets later than Friday. Humphreys said tickets can be distributed Nov. 24, if a decision is made right away.

President Roosevelt said yesterday he planned to talk with Secretary of War Stimson about shifting the wartime service classic from the quiet setting of Annapolis to a big city, but no additional indication came from the White House today.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, who had previously said he was confident Mr. Roosevelt would keep the game at Annapolis, tersely reported no recommendations had been received from either Stimson or Secretary of Navy Forrestal.

Lineups Shape Up In North-South Classic

MONTGOMERY, Aa., Nov. 15 (AP)—A decision of the Southeastern Conference at its Dec. 8 meeting in Birmingham will have a lot to do with the flash and color of the annual Blue and Gray classic here Dec. 3.

Then it will be decided whether non-seniors—including freshmen—are eligible to play in the post-season tilt. Already the Big Ten conference, traditionally conservative with freshman eligibility, has passed favorably on the question.

A number of noted stars now playing on service teams have accepted invitations, but must await War Department arrangements.

So far these college men have accepted:

South: Tex Warrington, center, Auburn; Joe Renfroe, back, Tulane; Clyde Flowers, tackle, Texas Christian; Curtis Kuykendall, back, Auburn; Hillery Horn, tackle, Mississippi State; Zeke Chronister, end, Texas Christian; and Charles Owen, center, Wake Forest.

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Carl Snavely of Cornell, Blue mentors since the 1939 inauguration of the classic, will return this year as Northern coaches. Bo McMillin native Texan and coach of Indiana is third man on the Blue staff this year replacing Bert Ingwerson.

A'S TEAM WITH TORONTO

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15. (AP) —Roy Mack, business manager of the Philadelphia Athletics American League baseball team announced yesterday that the A's have signed a working agreement with the Toronto club of the International League, giving strength to reports that Lena Blackburne, former A's coach, would manage Toronto in 1945.

Blackburne managed the Lancaster team of the Interstate League last season.

Westerners Polish Offense For Nov. 23 Sandie Battle

The Lubbock Westerners continued to take it easy Wednesday afternoon at Chapman field, holding a light offensive workout and dummy scrimmage to polish their running attack for the annual classic battle with the Amarillo Golden Sandies.

Coach J. Mule Davis was missing from action Wednesday afternoon because of illness, but Coach Dixie White carried on and put the squad through the paces.

George Brewer, who was out earlier in the week with a bad cold, was back in uniform again Wednesday afternoon.

The Westerners will likely take it easy the rest of the week, but have been promised plenty of hard work for the next week to whip into shape an offensive for the big game of the season.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey said Wednesday night that tickets were still selling briskly, and added that the ducats for the Sandie battle would be on sale again today at the Hilton hotel lobby from 1 o'clock this afternoon until 5 o'clock.

Dupre Dogies Romp Over Hunt Pioneers

The Dupre Dogies remained unbeaten, untied and unscored on Wednesday afternoon at Dupre field when they mustered their punch in the third quarter to knock the Hunt Pioneers from the unbeaten, untied class in the Lubbock grade school touch football race, 14-0.

The two teams battled through the first half at a scoreless clip, with the Pioneers having a little edge in the play for the first half.

Lightning struck quick in the third quarter, and Norman Lindsey intercepted a Pioneer pass and galloped 35 yards for the first touchdown. Johnny Tatum kicked the extra point from placement.

A few minutes later, Lindsey fired a short pass to Bill Davis, who ran 20 yards before he was roped in on the one yard line. After two passes had been batted down by the battling Pioneers, Lindsey ran over for the score, and Tatum again kicked the extra point.

The Pioneer defense checked the scoring parade of Dick Lindsey, ace Dogie scorer, and for the first time this season Lowrey was held scoreless.

Louis Shows Fans He Still Has His Punch

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 15. (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, used one right-hand punch to knock out Johnny Davis, Brooklyn, in 53 seconds of the first round last night before 7,107 fans here.

Louis weighed 205 and Davis 190. The bout was scheduled for four rounds.

The fighters used regulation gloves. In previous appearances during his current 21-day furlough ring tour, Louis used gynasium "pillows." Fans paid $15,500 to see the scrap.

There are about 60,000 retail druggists in the United States.

LAAF Eleven To Play Plowboys

Lubbock Army Air Field, having completed its schedule of home games, will end an up-and-down season with two games played away from home, with a journey this Saturday to Stephenville to meet the John Tarleton Aggies.

Set back on their heels two week ends in a row by a fighting West Texas State Teachers Eleven and a superior Norman Zoomer grid machine, the Flyers hope to get back into the win column this week. They emerged battered and bruised from last Saturday's exhibition of finer football as it is played by the Norman Naval Training Station, but most of the squad will be in shape to play this week end.

The red-jerseyed warriors from LAAF uncovered a new backfield star in last week's game, H. L. Bennett, halfback who hails from Sweetwater and Abilene Christian college, and who started out the season as a blocking back but was shifted to a running position. He made several nice gains against the big and tough Zoomers and appears to have hit his stride as a ball carrier. Little Jack Kelejian, who has shown his heels to every other team faced this year, was unable to go any place against the Navy powerhouse.

Kelejian and the usual LAAF starting backfield of Dixon, Williamson and Nickels should be able to again get into forward gear against the lighter JTAC squad.

It is doubtful whether Elvin Lyon will be able to put in much time in his usual guard position but Coach "Geeber" Morris will undoubtedly be in there as the other guard, and the big LAAF tackles, Pat Davidson, Gene Chenier, J. T. Olinger and "Big Mac" McWhorter, are all set to throw their weight about in the line. Either Dan Clark or Lewis Aamon will start at center, with Schmidt, Mowbray, Servante, Long and Cauley alternating at the end.

On November 24 the Lubbock Airmen go to Fort Worth to meet the Eagle Mountain Lake Marines in North Texas State Teachers Stadium at Denton.

Whiteface-Sundown Tilt Draws Interest

SUNDOWN, Nov. 15. (Special)—Interest has been growing in the coming clash here Friday afternoon between the six man football teams of Sundown and Whiteface, and a wide open battle is predicted.

The game will be played for the benefit of a special athletic fund, and indications are that it will draw the season's best crowd.

The Sundown club has already won the district title, but the club expects perhaps the hardest battle of the year from the Whiteface crew this week.

Coach G. L. Detrixhe announced today that his starting lineup would be in doubt in only one position. Nugent will start at center, W. Clark will be at one end, while either Swain or Huff will be at the other end. In the backfield will be Matlock, E. Huff and Holder.

The starting lineup for Whiteface will find Smith and J. Gill at ends, Lewis at center, Thomas at quarterback, Sides at halfback and Swinney at fullback.

Littlefield Due Test From Tulia

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 15. (Special) — The Littlefield Wildcats, champions of District 5-A are looking forward to their bi-district battle at Denver City on Nov. 23, but before that date they have another little private matter to take care of for the home fans.

The powerladen Tulia eleven will move into Littlefield Friday for the final game on the regular schedule of the Wildcats, and this final tuneup game will be closely watched by South Plains fans, as an indication of the strength of the Wildcats.

Tulia Improves Club

The Tulia club started solwly this season, and were counted out of the District 1-A race when beaten by White Deer 26-6 and by Panhandle 13-0 in a pair of non-conference games, then were tripped up by Fiona in the first conference game, 19-7.

But Tulia came back strong and knocked over the powerful Amarillo Yannigans, 12-6, then polished off Matador 21-7 and Dumas 26-0. Last week Tulia moved into Hereford, and knocked off the favored Hereford eleven, 19-0 to throw the race into a tie, and a conference record of three wins and one loss, and a season's record of five wins and three losses.

The defeat of Hereford last week, knocked that club from the unbeaten list in the conference, and left Tulia with four wins and one loss.

Upsets Hereford Club

The week before Tulia upset Hereford, Littlefield knocked over the same club by a 27-6 score, so the two clubs Friday night appear pretty evenly matched.

Littlefield was undefeated and untied in winning the District 5-A crown, and Friday's game will offer Coach J. S. Fike a chance to give his high geared machine a final touch of oil before the bi-district battle.

Army Still Big Woe To Coach McKeever

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 15. (U.P.)—The impact of the Army was felt by Notre Dame in several ways today as Coach Ed McKeever announced that two of his players have received induction orders and All-American Pat Filley, who was injured again in the team's 59-0 loss to Army, will not play in Saturday's clash with Northwestern.

Bob Kelly, stellar right halfback, and Fred Rovai, first string guard, also were not expected to play against the Wildcats due to injuries received in the Army tilt.

John Ray, starting center until the return of veteran Frank Szymanski, and Ed Clasby, third team quarterback, will answer Army induction calls and John Corbisiero, second-string fullback has been ordered to report to the Merchant Marine.

Sheppard Field Set For Big Cage Year

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 15 (AP) The Sheppard Field basketball team, coached by Doc Spears and Joe Golding, former all-conference stars, will open its eight-game schedule against Frederick Army Air field in Frederick, Okla., Saturday night.

A 10-member squad will make the trip. The players include Lother Stephenson, ex-West Texas standout; Curtis McDaniel, all-Texas Conference at East Texas: Jim Rainbolt, former Washington State regular; and Bob Mortenson, scoring ace from last year's officer team here.

The opening home game will bring the Marine Corps Air Station of Fort Worth here Dec. 2. Sheppard Field will play a return engagement Dec. 16.

Texas Tech will invade Sheppard Field Jan. 1, and four days later Sheppard Field will play South Plains Army Air field at Lubbock. Frederick AAF will come here Jan. 13, followed on Jan. 31 by Perrin Field. South Plains is slated for a game here Feb. 7, and on Feb. 28 Sheppard Field will be entertained at Perrin Field.

Sheppard Field seeks additional games within a 200-mile radius.

Detroit Tigers Give Al Vincent Release

DETROIT, Nov. 15 (AP)—The unconditional release of Al Vincent, coach for the past two seasons, was announced today by General Manager Jack Zeller of the Detroit Tigers.

Zeller simultaneously disclosed that Al Benton, ace relief pitcher when he enlisted in the Navy in 1942, has been given a medical discharge from the service and is expected to be back with the Tigers next season.

Vincent came to Detroit after managing the Buffalo Bisons of the International League for two years. He previously served in a similar capacity with Beaumont of the Texas League and played with a number of minor league clubs.

BOW AND ARROW HUNT

ATLANTA, Nov. 15. (AP) — A bow-and-arrow hunt, an annual affair, is underway in the management area of the Chattahoochee National forest. Charles N. Elliott, Georgia game and fish director said permits were granted to 15 persons from Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina and Arkansas.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Let The People Be Heard!

ONE of the basic principles of the American form of government and, in fact, of the whole American Way of Life, is that which encourages—even demands—that the people be heard in matters of public concern.

Therefore, The Morning Avalanche has no criticism of the fact that the Congress is being deluged with demands upon the part of individuals and organizations opposing any system of compulsory military training for our young men in the peaceful era which will follow our victory in the current war. We do not agree with those who oppose compulsory military training. But we freely admit their right to their opinion and, furthermore, their inalienable right to make that opinion heard in the walls of Congress.

It is interesting to note that opposition to compulsory military training in the post-war era comes from organized pressure groups. That the organizations, and the individuals composing them, are perfectly sincere in their attitude we have no doubt. Yet we cannot help but wonder how plain John and Jane Citizen, the nation over, feel regarding this question. We'd like to know how they feel in their own hearts and minds, unregimented by organized forces which look with favor, or with disfavor, upon the plan.

The men who make up the Congress know, of course, that it is impossible to gauge public opinion by accepting as typical masses of communications "rigged up" by organizations. But knowing that "rigged up" letters, telegrams and resolutions on either side of any question are not, in themselves, important, will the gentlemen of the Congress go out of their way to plumb the thinking of the rank and file of citizens who have their own opinions, unaffected by propaganda and argument?

This the Congress certainly should do before it approves, or disapproves, compulsory postwar military training. The subject is so controversial; it touches the lives of so many people, that it must not lightly be disposed of, one way or the other. Before it acts, the Congress should be sure it knows what the people think and want, not just what well-meaning, organized minorities think they want.

For our part, we think the only way our country's future can be safeguarded is for the government to set up and operate compulsory postwar military training, encompassing at least one year's full service in some branch of the armed forces at the time the individual is 18, 19, or 20 years of age. And despite the opposition being kicked up by organized opponents of the plan, we believe most of the people of the nation share this view.

Gallup "On The Beam" Again

POLLS may come and polls may go—but the Gallup Poll rolls right aong, ringing the bell and hitting the nail on the head.

Latest triumph of the American Institute of Public Opinion—which is the technical name of the Gallup organization—came, of course, in the November 7 election. For the benefit of readers here is the Gallup "score" for that occasion:

In its final article before the election, appearing in The Morning Avalanche on election day, the Gallup poll was right when it forecast that the majority of popular and Electoral College votes would go to Franklin Roosevelt; it was right when it forecast that vote could result in an Electoral College nearlandslide for the President.

It unerringly predicted the number of sure votes for Thomas E. Dewey and was "right on the beam" in its estimate of the effect of the soldier vote on the election.

From time to time, it becomes a popular sport for some political leaders with a peral stake in voting to cast aspersions on the Gallup Poll. But the fact remains that political high commands of both parties watch the Gallup releases like a hawk watches a chicken—and that they frequently revamp campaign plans as a result of the Gallup organization's findings.

Without doubt, the American Institute of Public Opinion keeps its finger on the pulse of American thinking and knows how to interpret that pulse-beat.

The Morning Avalanche is proud that it is among the more than 100 leading newspapers of the country privileged to be a member of the American Institute of Public Opinion and, through the institute, able to report national thinking to the newspaper reading public of the South Plains.

The One Minute Sermon

Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

And above all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness.

And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body; and be ye thankful.

Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.—Colossians 3:13-16.

Germany Will Try It Again

By Sigrid Schultz

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

As an American newspaper correspondent in Berlin from 1919 to 1941, Sigrid Schultz saw at first hand the events that led from World War I to World War II. And she saw the behind-the-scenes preparation for the coming "war in-peace" that she warns may culminate in World War III. This is the story of Germany's plans to win the peace, plans that even now are being put into effect.

XXX

EVERY one of the German underground leaders whose confidence I enjoyed felt very deeply about exemplary punishment of Nazi criminals. The underground for years has collected evidence on the crimes and depredations of the Nazi Party members, of sympathizers among their countrymen of all classes. The great burden of guilt, however, is shared by the people who have had some measure of power: the Junkers, aristocrats, professors, industrialists, businessmen, officials, besides the army. There is no way of knowing, of course, how many such files, whose mere existence constitutes a menace to the holder's life, will have survived the war.

But without exception these underground men insisted that punishment be administered by Germans, either directly or through transfer of those recognized as criminals by German courts martial. They spoke time and again of the danger that the Nazified minds among the masses might elevate to martyrdom men and women executed by foreigners, without German co-operation, whether or not they deserved death.

The non-Nazis within the Germany army have weapons and access to weapons. When it becomes sufficiently clear to them that they cannot hope for peace as long as Nazi criminals are at large, they can and will make use of their weapons if proper psychological pressure is applied.

This must under no condition be understood to mean that we countenance the establishment of a German militaristic government. For German army leaders should never be given a chance to repeat their performance of 1918 and of the following years, when they were able to hide behind the Republic, claim they had not been defeated, and regain power. They will not be able to do so if we make use of them to enforce the consequences of defeat.

German army leaders who, in collaboration with the underground, mete out court-martial sentences to German war criminals will automatically do everything in their power—for the sake of their own personal safety—to convince the population that the punishment is just. This will reduce their chances of organizing one more conspiracy against whoever tries to build up a sane government in Germany. And the new government chiefs, knowing how the Republic was tricked by the army in the past, will be on guard against an army camarilla even if it has helped bring about the overthrow of the Nazis.

German psychology being what it is, there can be no doubt that the decent German elements would have a better chance to take over governmental responsibility with a certain amount of prestige if there were no open occupation of Germany by the United Nations. That rigid control will be necessary is self-evident. But this control could probably be exterted more effectively from bases in the ring of iron surrounding Germany than it could be from within.

I have seen how occupation worked in Germany after World War I, before the whole of the country was trained for nationalistic propaganda. As a consequence of observations made at that time, I am deeply convinced that the quicker the Germans are made to run their own show, with responsibility placed squarely on their shoulders, the more quickly pacification can be enforced, provided they are made to realize that none of the tricks which worked after World War I can serve them after World War II.

We spent 25 years being frightend of chaos in Germany and making concessions to the Germans because of that fear.

They will cry chaos again, and still again. Yet why sohuld we send a single United Nations soldier to save them from the chaos they have invoked?

We want to help. Then let us concentrate on helping the emaciated people in Germany's neighboring countries, the innocent victims of pan-Germanism.

The Germans are nothing if not realistic. When they see that crying "Chaos! Chaos!" will not bring us running to help them, they will promtly settle down and control the chaos themselves. Certainly there will be bloody clashes, but they would be and should be Germany's affair.

We will have to remember that Nazism will retain a great appeal for the Germans, even in defeat. It taught them to co-ordinate the power of the whole nation. And they will never forget that for a time they almost ruled the whole of Europe. They have been thoroughly indoctrinated with the thought that German strength is the basis of all life. Their decent, humanitarian instincts have been buried in decades of wrong teaching, wrong thinking. They won't accept correction from us.

Under some stable form of government, chosen by themselves, the better German elements can emerge again and assume the direction of Germany's re-education. They can teach the Germans to fulfill their genuine talent for co-operation and constructive work, which is evident whenever they abandon their dreams of conquest and agression.

Our contribution toward real world peace is to keep on guard—unremittingly — eternally. At the first sign of weakness on our part, they'll try it again.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A COUPLE of weeks ago my wife said to me: "I think Deuce has a tape worm."

Deuce, as you may know by this time, is our little Sealyham and since we have had the little fellow ever since birth, naturally I know all about him.

"Don't be silly," I replied in the superior way that husbands have, "I think I know the symptoms of worms. I've had enough dogs."

"I still think Deuce has a tapeworm" she insisted and I just smiled forgivingly. "Poor woman" I said to myself (to myself, mind you), "how they worry and fret over nothing."

When we go to New York we always leave Deuce with our veterinary in Danbury, who takes care of him while we are away.

When we returned I called for him and asked the attendant how much I owed.

"Six dollars" he said.

"Why six dollars?" I asked. "It should be only three."

"Yes, I know" said the attendant, "but we had to worm him. That's three dollars extra. He had a tapeworm."

* * *

On the way home I pondered. Should I tell her and lose my prestige? Or should I just pass it off?

Well, I decided to swallow my pride and told her that she was right. And, would you believe it, she didn't even gloat!

But this morning she said something that certainly capped the climax and made me doubly sure that no man on earth will ever understand women.

"You know" she said "I've been wondering whether Deuce really had a tapeworm or whether that fellow only wanted the extra $3."

You figure that one out. I can't.

BUT THAT isn't what I wanted to talk about. I've been watching a lot of married couples to find out why so many of them don't get along.

I think I've found one answer.

We were at a party the other evening. There were about 20 people present and, as the night wore on, everybody had to do something—sing, recite, tell a story — anything at all.

A woman recited a poem. It was pretty bad, but no werse than most of the others.

While she was in the midst of a particularly romantic verse, her husband turned on the radio. We told him to shut it off.

Pretty soon he got hold of a bell and rang it. Naturally the poor woman got all rattled and blushed and stammered—and sat down.

We were too polite to punch the fellow in the nose, but we all felt like it.

They went home early and I can just about imagine what happened when the door of their home was closed behind them.

Too many married people have a tendency to belittle each other in private or in public.

Too many husbands never appreciate their wives until they see another man making a fuss over them.

Too many wives take their husbands for granted and treat them too much like old shoes or a girdle that has lost its stretch.

Familiarity shouldn't breed contempt. It should breed companionship, respect, friendship.

Why should my wife know less about tapeworms than I just because we've been together for 20 years?

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TURKEY has quietly negotiated an agreement with the United Nations which may shorten the European war and result in an eventual declaration of hostilities against Japan by Russia, according to diplomatic sources here. It is one of the most important anti-Axis strokes on the diplomatic front since Teheran, and chief credit for it is due President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

Ankara has waived or rescinded temporarily the world pact under which she prohibits wartime passage of belligerents' ships through the Dardanelles and into the Black Sea. Even after the partial break with Berlin more than a year ago, the Turks refused to make this concession to the Allies. But Germany's recent defeats in the west of Europe, in Italy and in the Balkans led to the change of mind.

As soon as final details are ironed out and complete terms are accepted, insiders predict that American lend-lease weapons will be forwarded directly to Stalin's armies, instead of making the long voyages through the Suez Canal, up the Persian Gulf and thence by a tortuous and mountainous rail and truck route into Soviet territory. The deal also obviates the many thousands of miles wasted in sailing around the southern tip of Africa.

So far the Turkish terms do not permit warships to go through the Bosporus. But that is immaterial. What President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill want is the right to send merchant vessels laden with arms, especially tanks and artillery, straight to Stalin's southern, warm-water ports. These munitions will afford vast assistance in the current stage of the conflict in Hungary and the eastern front.

Mr. Churchill derived great satisfaction from the transaction. It was at Gallipoi in World War I that he suffered the worst setback in his stormy and vicissitudinous career.

HITLER: Opening of the Bosporous to our transports and supply ships would have special bearing on more intensive prosecution of the war against Tokyo. As the news percolates through the Reich—where life is now "hardly worth living," to quote Air Forces Chieftain Henry H. Arnold—this indication of world belief in eventual German disaster will also strengthen our arms in that sector.

The release of vessels, technical and military personnel and other facilities for use against Tokyo would be the most material benefit. Under past conditions we have handled all lend-lease shipments through Iran, turning them over to the Russians at a halfway point. Thousands of trained transportation experts, engineers and soldiers have toiled on this long and dangerous route.

A host of trucks, railroad rolling stock and harbor installations have been tied up in the Middle East. They can be shifted quickly to fronts in Burma, India and China, and eventually to the new bases we shall require for the final assault on Hirohito. Released freighters will ply the Pacific.

In view of the negotiations, some irony lies in the recollection that it was through this area that Hitler once hoped to establish contact with Japanese forces, make the Mediterranean an Axis lake, squeeze Iran, Iraq, India and establish himself as master of a European, Middle Eastern and Oriental empire.

Now the diplomatic thrust further separates the two Axis partners, and will disrupt completely the Berlin-Tokyo tie-up—an alliance which has never been more than a "piece of paper," as the kaiser of unhappy memory characteried his pledge not to invade Belgium. It looks as if our enemies will never learn.

TOKYO: The bargain's reinforcement of Russia probably accounts for Stalin's revolution anniversary reference to Japan as an "aggressor power" as well as for the Washington-London expectation that he will pitch into the grand offensive against Tokyo when he has disposed of Hitler.

The new route will enable us to get weapons, and possibly men, to the Russian dictator in greater volume and more quickly than we have been able to in the past. It will permit him to draw on the soldiers, sailors and technicians now stationed in Murmansk and Vladivostok ports, not to mention the personnel and materiel required along the Iran link until now.

The man in the Kremlin had an even more realistic reason for not arousing Japanese suspicion until the Dardanelles deal. For several years we have been shipping and flying armor to Russia over seas and airways adjacent to Japan. These have gone direct from Pacific ports and Alaska airfields to Vladivostok and other harbors.

Tokyo has never molested a single plane or ship because of her peace pact with Moscow. Now, of course, "Uncle Joe" can afford to disregard that bit of Hirohito favoritism, which operated against Hitler, and tell Tokyo to go to its place of ancestor worship—or even to where some of the ancestors should be at the moment.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

EVERY day it becomes clearer that Hitler has staked the outcome of the war on new-type weapons.

An indication of this are reports from Berlin and Stockholm that the Nazis are firing their long-promised V-2 bomb on London. According to rumors from neutral sources, this "flying telegraph pole" is 50 feet long and is packed with 15 tons of dynamite.

Even if the accounts prove to be exaggerated propaganda, military authorities confirm that German dependence on mystery arms to stave off defeat is far greater than was at first believed.

Enemy experts are withdrawn from munitions plants to invent new terrors. Todt engineers are transferred from erecting field fortifications to building huge concrete structures for housing the strange ordnance, some with protecting walls at least fourteen feet thick. Every branch of the Wehrmacht is being robbed to concentrate ingenuity and materials on devices that can compensate for Germany's woeful lack of manpower.

The discovery of a miracle before the weight of growing Allied might overwhelms the Nazis is a race against time.

TANKS: Our inventors have accepted the challenge. Although we are not gambling on one or two freak monsters to decide the issue, we have scores of novelties in our bag of tricks, too.

Recently the officials of the Aberdeen, Maryland, testing center lifted the veil of secrecy from wonders such as the "Water Weasel", an amphibious jeep, the "Locust," an air-borne tank, and several improved models of motor gun carriers. There are many more unique contraptions now in action or on the way.

The Army Air Forces are opening a laboratory at Wright Field, Ohio, for trying out airplanes—so large that five giant B-29s can roll around in it without barking their shins. The Black Widow, our first night-fighting plane to battle over France and one of the heaviest of its kind ever constructed, is equal in speed to anything in the skies.

Our motorized armored vehicles are more and more becoming self-contained units. A new half-track for convoy work is equipped with antiaircraft guns, wireless masts, spacious lockers for severla days' supplies, and extra parts.

Tank retrievers that pull damaged machines from the battlefield are now so strongly armed that they are really heavy tanks with cranes attached. We have a transport behemoth 58 feet long, protected by its own guns, which carries a tank "on its back" so that the "iron cavalry" arrives for action with a full supply of gasoline and a cool engine.

Fight Over Poll Tax Will Feature Next Legislature

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—The poll tax controversy is sure to rear its head after the legislature meets in January, political observers here believe.

While it has been felt for some time that new attempts would be made to abolish the poll tax in Texas, a recent decision by the attorney general furnished reason for stronger belief that some forceful discussions are not too far away.

The attorney general held in an opinion to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson that the privilege given persons 40 per cent or more physically disabled to vote without poll tax payment is invalid. The governor was concerned with the voting status of crippled veterans, but his inquiry produced a review of the whole poll tax question.

There is no way telling how many persons were disqualified November 7 from voting in the general election because of the ruling, which was issued the Saturday prior to the balloting.

However, by the time the next legislature meets the issue will have crystallized in the minds of those who are concerned with disabled war veterans having to pay poll taxes—something they've not had to do in Texas before.

Substitute Plan Expected

More than likely the legislature will be asked to abolish the poll tax and substitute for it a registration system as used in many other states.

Legislators who come from long-line Southern Democratic families will put up a bitter fight if this is attempted.

If the poll tax abolitionists fail to succeed before the legislature, they may carry their campaign into the courts.

The U. S. Supreme court—where the poll tax litigation might eventually land — already has decreed that negroes cannot be barred from voting in Democratic primaries.

Recalling this decision, some observers foresee the poll tax being outlawed on a similar constitutional basis.

OUSTING of Dr. Homer Price Rainey was the first time a University of Texas president has been dismissed, university records show.

After its opening in 1883 and until 1895, the university did not have a president. Instead, one of the professors was designated as the chief executive officer of the institution, and during that time three served terms.

Actually there have been eight president of the university. Others who have held the office have been either ad interim or acting presidents, taking over the position until a regular appointment could be made.

Rainey To Rest, Fish

As president of the university, Dr. Rainey also was a faculty member, a professor of educational administration, but this without salary or class assignments. University regents did not disturb his professorship.

If present conditions continue, Rainey has said he does not intend to ask for a salary as a professor and for class assignments until next March—if he remains here.

Reports are that he has been offered a position paying more than the $17,500 he received as Texas' president.

Possibly he is waiting to see the outcome of the controversy. In the meantime, Dr. Rainey has said he intends to rest, write and fish and fill some speaking engagements.

These include addresses November 21 in Austin before USO workers from Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico; between February 5-9 in Austin at a Presbyterian ministers' conference, and some time in March in Memphis, Tenn., before the Southern Association of Junior colleges.

FLORIST at Lufkin missed $180 worth of business last week in the Rainey-regent controversy at the University of Texas.

While Student President Malcolm Wallace, Dallas, at a student mass meeting was praising Mrs. I. D. Fairchild, Lufkin, for her support of Dr. Homer P. Rainey, someone on the platform whispered to Wallace that a $200 donation had been made by a Rainey-supporter from Dallas.

Right off, Wallace said he thought $200 worth of flowers should be sent Mrs. Fairchild.

"We'll cover her house with flowers," Wallace said, as cheers went up from the crowd.

Toward end of his speech Wallace said some money was needed for radio speeches and letter-writing in behalf of Rainey.

One co-ed stood among the masses seated on the gymnasium floor. She asked if all the $200 should go for bouquets to Mrs. Fairchild. Wallace and others huddled, Wallace announcing he had made a mistake.

It was then agreed $20 worth of flowers would be sent Mrs. Fairchild and a like amount to Dr. Rainey.

Mercury Due To Rise Here Today

Rising temperatures were predicted for the South Plains today after the area received its first freeze of the season Wednesday morning.

Ice in quantity was reported for the first time this fall. The mercury dipped to 31 degrees at the farm experiment substation east of the city.

The midnight temperature was 46, according to West Texas Gas Co. thermometer, as compared with 52 at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Showers Forecast

Increasing cloudiness and showers also were predicted for the Lubbock area.

The freeze was expected to defoliate cotton stalks and make gathering easier. Tops of tomato and bean plants were nipped, according to Dr. W. W. Yocum, professor of plant industry at Texas Technological college.

There had been three light frosts reported earlier in the season, two of them accompanied a low of 34 degrees.

Usually, the South Plains receives several "killing frosts" before this date, crop observers said. Farmers have had a very favorable fall for gathering crops, they pointed out.

A light sleet swept Big Spring and Farwell, near Clovis, N. M., shivered in 29-degree weather at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon

40 At Wichita Falls

Wichita Falls registered 40 degrees when the norther slipped in through the Panhandle. Temperatures of 40 were also forecast for Houston and Fort Worth. Amarillo was expecting a drop to 27 degrees last night and rainfall after Tuesday night's low of 29 degrees. Austin reported cooler weather, clouds and light showers.

At 9:30 p. m. last night Pampa reported 33 degrees, Dalhart, 39. Clarendon registered 40 and El Paso 41. Skies over Dallas were cloudy, while yesterday's temperature reached a high of only 62 degrees. Minimum temperature yesterday neared 40 degrees.

burned by something a lot hotter than hot coffee. They got burned in the fight for human freedoms. There comes times when a man in a responsible position has to take the side of what is right, even if he does get a few blisters. If he is a big man, he even welcomes the chance to stand up for what is right.

"Rainey is the biggest president the university has had since I have known its presidents — the most fearless, with the largest conception of society and the university's place in society. I'm not thinking about effects on him. He can go up from the university—I am thinking of the disaster that has fallen upon the university. Policies as well as principles are now at stake. The only solution is a new board of regents and the reinstatement of Rainey. The only way to get a new board is for Coke to get off the fence and act as if he cared something about the nobility of human rights and civilizations."

Jap Leyte Trap

3,830-foot height, and hills known as numbers 4047 and 4018.

The cavalrymen are closing in on the road some distance below the trap made by the 24th division.

Associated Press war correspondent Fred Hampson, with the 24th, reported many more Japanese dead were found, in addition to great masses of bodies littering ridges and valleys after fierce battling early this week.

American fighter planes again blasted Japanese barges and shore targets at Ormoc. Single enemy planes staged "several ineffective raids" on American ground installations, the communique reported, and five were shot down.

Western Front

ville, also was stormed and its Nazi garrison killed or captured.

Driant's guns, which barked spasmodically yesterday when the Yanks began pushing past it on the north, were silent today, suggesting that the Germans had abandoned the mighty mile-and-a-half long structure on the west bank of the Moselle river as they previously had evacuated Forts L'yser and L'Aisne after only after only small arms resistance.

Due south of Metz the American Fifth division inched forward to within little more than a mile of the city while beating off some of the most determined counterattacks the Nazis have raised since Patton's forces opened their winter assault eight days ago.

Town Cleared Of Enemy

Peltre, two and a half miles southeast of Metz, was cleared of the enemy, and German counterattacks were beaten off along nearby Pouilly Ridge, from which American guns command the enemy's main escape route from Metz eastward to the Saar frontier.

The Germans (employing their first substantial force of armor since the American attack began, also struck back viciously against Patton's 80th Infantry division south of Remilly forest, southeast of Metz, but the Yanks stopped them cold and pushed within four miles of the city of Falkenberg (Faulquemont), which is only 10 miles from the German border.

(Possibly preparing the German people for the imminent loss of Metz, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, leading Nazi military commentator, observed that the famous fortress city "represents only an outer position, for holding of which one does not wage decisive battle but engages only a smaller amount of forces—just enough to force the enemy to strong wear and tear of strength.)"

Bitter Weather Cited

Bitter weather and thick minefields supplied most of the opposition as Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Second Army fought through the first full day of its new offensive southeast of Eindhoven in Holland. A staff officer reported "we are pushing on fast and for the present, at least, there is nothing much in sight to stop us."

The British quickly merged three of their four original bridgeheads into one — approximately three miles wide—at the junction of the Noord and Wessen canals 18 miles southwest of Venlo and expanded a fourth over the Wessen only eight miles from the Dutch city of Roermond. One British column was at the edge of Grathem, five miles due west of Roermond, and the bogland village of Leveroy, seven miles northwest of Roermond, was seized after a light skirmish.

The German city of Duisburg, toward which the attack appeared tentatively aimed, is a great center of Hitler's war industries. Situated on the east bank of the Rhine, it is connected with Berlin by one of the arrow-straight super-Highways with which the Nazis interlaced Germany in the years before the war.

A British officer said it was possible that the Germans had pulled back to the Maas (Meuse) river, which forms the Dutch-German border, or even had withdrawn across the stream.

(The Berlin radio speculated that Montgomery's attack was a "prelude to the expected large-scale attack of the whole left wing" of the Allied armies.)

The enemy's yielding of the powerful Metz forts almost without a fight was regarded as strongly suggestive of a pull-out that might well carry all the way back to the Rhine. To some observers it indicated that the German commanders feared their manpower reserves might soon be needed more urgently elsewhere.

WHITE BREAD AGAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Filipino dinner tables had, white bread on them last night for the first time in three years, George Thomas Folster, NBC correspondent in the Philippines, said in a broadcast recorded here. The American Army is issuing white bread to natives in eight ounce loaves, he explained.

Congratulations To:

Allied Conference At Moscow Hinted

PARIS, Nov. 15. (AP) — French officials speculated tonight on the possibility that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and President Chiang Kai-Shek might attend a major United Nations conference in Moscow soon, following announcement today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle would leave shortly for the Soviet capital.

De Gaulle will be accompanied on the trip by his foreign minister, George Bidault. He accepted promptly the invitation from Premier Stalin, and French officialdom coupled this with a report here several days ago that Stalin had invited President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to come to Moscow.

Such a major conference, it was pointed out, would require French representation, in view of the wide range of problems in which France is vitally interested.

of our guns, have disengaged themselves toward prepared positions to economize their forces."

The German announcer said the garrison at Jaszbereny had been surrounded Tuesday and had had to force its way back to a new line in a series of fierce counterattacks, adding "this resulted in the necessity to abandon the blazing ruins of the town under protection of a rainy night."

The Russian communique, however, said Jaszbereny fell in combat, rather than by evacuation.

Supreme Bid Nears

With his forces northeast and southeast of Budapest now joined up firmly and advancing generally, Soviet Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky appeared almost ready to make his supreme bid for the capital that is the center of Hungarian national life.

The Russians, methodically shaping their attack and giving notice in effect that Budapest's defense was in its eleventh hour, mentioned only one other front in their communique.

This confirmed Tuesday's announcements by the Bulgarians and Yugoslav Partisans that troops of those armies, with Russian aid, had captured Skoplje, big south Yugoslav communications center.

On the rest of the Eastern front, comparative quiet prevailed.

"Important events are ripening under unfavorable circumstances for Japan. Since the American landing in the Philippines, the battles are becoming stiffer."

Japanese successes in the beginning were due to Japan's closeness to the scene of operations, and the employment of numerically superior forces and the striking "without even a declaration of war," Col. Tolchenov said.

Now, however, "the balance of power has shifted in favor of the Allies," the Soviet authority said, adding:

"American industry turns out 9,000 planes monthly while Japanese plants hardly produce more than 1,400 to 1,500 planes in the same period. Even given equal losses, the Allied air forces will continue to grow and exceed the Japanese. At present the United States fleet is two or three times stronger than the Japanese fleet."

University Inquiry

ing differences between the board and the president.

"Did anyone raise a question as to the committee's authority in the A. and M. inquiry?" Metcalfe was asked.

"No, they did not?", he said.

The committee had been in executive session since 10 a. m.

Metcalfe said the committee, not wanting to exceed its authority, voted unanimously to ask for the attorney general's opinion.

In an interview, Lt. Gov. Smith said the question of authority was first raised by Senator Houghton Brownlee of Austin, chairman of the Senate's contingent expense committee which pays the expenses of the Metcalfe and all other interim committees.

Power Said Limited

Smith said that Brownlee's point was that the resolution creating the Metcalfe committee gave it power only to investigate purchase, sale and distribution of free public school text books. Its life was confined to the duration of the last general session of the legislature but before adjournment of the session a new resolution extended the life and power of the committee. The second resolution gave the committee authority to inquire into "such other matters affecting the schools of Texas as it sees fit."

This clause, Brownlee contended, was not sufficiently broad to authorize non-textbook investigations. Smith said he was inclined to hold with Brownlee's legal argument but added that he himself did not oppose an investigation of the university situation by properly authorized committee.

Governor Not Involved

In announcing postponement of the hearing Metcalfe, answering a question, said neither Governor Coke R. Stevenson or anyone in the governor's office had questioned the committee's authority.

Smith, as presiding officer of the Senate, appointed members of the Metcalfe committee and in that connection he also requested the committee in Brownlee's behalf to seek an opinion from the attorney general.

Attorney General Sellers said that his office would make every effort to expedite the writing of the opinion. He had some doubt as to whether it would be ready tomorrow.

"It will take some studying," he said.

Wants Facts Revealed

Malcolm (Mac) Wallace, president of the students association, said that university students would be disappointed "if this matter does not come out into the open . . . We want the facts out in the daylight."

Rainey was discharged as the climax of their long-standing series of differences, after he charged that the board had attempted or imposed restrictive measures. The board countered with a denial of these charges, saying that Rainey had made statements reflecting on the motives of board members and had violated board regulations.

Shipyard Worker At Orange Is Found Shot

ORANGE, Nov. 15. (UP) — A strange note saying, "I failed to pass the test" was found today beside the body of Charles Clyde Davis, 51-year-old World war I veteran, a Beaumont shipyard worker. He had blown off the top of his head with a double-barreled shotgun.

Deputies said Davis apparently ended his life by discharging the .12 guage shotgun with a long forked stick.

His body was found by Mrs. K. French, Orange, his daughter.

TOBACCO PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—The government moved today to make more cigarettes available in the future by increasing 1945 production quotas of cigarette tobacco.

The War Food Administration said farmers will be permitted next year to plant three percent more flue-cured and two percent more burley tobacco — principal types used in cigarets.

Nazi Actions Indicate Siegfried Break Would Nullify Whole Wall

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Hooked on the horns of a two-pronged Allied offensive in France and Holland, the Nazi high command in the west appears to have signalled a manpower-conserving retreat in the Moselle and Meuse bulges.

That, at least, is the construction placed on field reports of relatively light German resistance to both the American Third Army efforts to iron out the Metz - Thionville westward hump in the south and the British drive in the north to clear the west bank of the Meuse.

SIMPSON

The broad intimation of the indicated German withdrawal from the bulges is that the Nazi command still expects the main Allied winter push to come again on the Neder Rhine sector in Holland against the Arnhem - Emmerich gateway to the north German plains. In other words, a flanking rather than a frontal assault operation.

Critical Segment

Security of that critical segment of the German defense front in the west is obviously the Nazi's first consideration. It is an extemporized position on Dutch soil at best, lacking the months or years of preparation that went into the construction of the Siegfried line. British airborne forces all but succeeded in seizing and consolidating a Neder Rhine crossing at Arnhem. By every indication, Nazi field troops have now been massed at that end of the battle line to safeguard it from a new Allied assault.

In the eyes of Allied staff spokesman and front line press observers that explains Nazi failure to cling desperately to the Moselle and Meuse bulges. Mobile troops to deal with the American encirclement drive on Metz and Thionville or the British thrust into the Meuse bulge west of Venloo cannot be spared from the more vital task of guarding the lower Rhine gateway. An Allied breakthrough there would virtually nullify the whole of the Siegfried "westwall" lying west of the Rhine.

Cigaret Rationing Is Said Impractical; Sane Buying Urged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Government officials, dismissing as "completely impractical" the rationing of cigarets, today urged harried smokers to "buy sanely" and help assure more equitable distribution of short civilian supplies.

OPA Chief Chester Bowles said that "scare reports" of shortages, rather than an actual scarcity, were largely responsible for the dearth of cigarets that is reaching alarming proportions in many sections of the country.

Greatest Production

The Office of War Information reported that the tobacco industry, despite manpower shortages, is experiencing it greatest production year and during 1944 should deliver 16,450,000,000 packs of cigarets. However, roughly 5,000,000,000 packs—almost all of them popular brands—will be shipped to the armed forces overseas.

Bowles and the OWI attributed the current homefront shortage to:

1. Rising demands for cigarets by fighting men abroad and "we all agree that their needs come first."
2. Black market operations.
3. Spotty distribution.
4. The fact that more people are smoking more cigarets under the strain of hectic war days.

Illicit Markets Flayed

Bowles pledged that his agency will combat illicit operations by every means at its command, and it was disclosed that investigations already are underway into black market sales in Detroit and Minneapolis.

But he called on the public to help—by buying "in the normal manner' and refusing to pay more than the ceiling price.

Navy Pilots Strike Ammunition Cache Of Japs In Cliff

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP) — A strike by Naval pilots, including Lt. (j.g.) Ralph Schulze of Waco, against a high cliff held by the enemy on a Pacific island was related by the Navy today.

The pilots were members of air group 32, which in a combat tour destroyed 109 enemy planes in the air and on the ground, sank or probably sank 28 ships, and damaged 51 other enemy vessels.

The fliers had noticed several openings in the cliffs, and suspected they were caves used to cache enemy ammunition, a release from the Eighth Naval district said.

Eleven planes dropped bombs with accurate aim, but the bombs exploded without sliding into the caves. The group commander, Lt. Comdr. George N. Eisenhart of Binghamton, N. Y., instructed Schulze, whose Hellcat carried the lone remaining bomb, to follow him in and watch where his machine gun tracters hit.

The two planes streaked in and streams of tracers poured from Eisenhart's 50 caliber guns. Suddenly, a tremendous explosion occurred; dirt and large pieces of rock erupted 2,500 feet in the air as the entire cliff blew up.

The Hellcats were rocked by the concussion and jagged holes were torn in their wings and tail surfaces but the planes escaped serious damage and returned to their carrier.

TEMPLE, Nov. 15. (AP) — The head of Mexico's soil conservation service is making a four-day survey of conservation programs in the Temple area. He is Lorenzo R. Patino, and is conducting the survey as a guest of the state office of the United States Soil Conservation service.

Brady Entry Named Champion Hereford

DALLAS, Nov. 14 (AP) — Lady Domino 19th, smooth, blocky Hereford two-year-old from the Brook Hereford ranch of Brady, Tex., was named grand champion cow of the Pan-American Hereford exposition today.

The title of reserve champion female went to WHR Miss Mixer 57th, two-and-one-half year old from the Wyoming Hereford ranch, Cheyenne.

WHR Cavalier 41st, also of the Wyoming herds, won first in the junior calf class.

Selection of the champion females followed judging of the female classes during the morning. Sales opened shortly after noon also.

Martha Mischief, Pettit's flat top ranch, Walnut Springs, took first in the summer yearling class of female entries, with Dixie Domino 2d, of Lanius Hereford ranch, Godley, taking second place.

In the senior calf class, Miss G. A. Domino 25th, of Glad Acres Hereford farm, Dallas, captured first place, with Miss Vagabond Silver 26th, of Silver Crest Herefords, Fort Worth, second.

Nine Hereford exhibitors will sell 20 bulls and females during the afternoon.

Two New Members Of Prison Board Named

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Lindsay T. Murray of Waco and J. W. Keeland of Houston were new members of the state prison board today, giving the body a quorum.

Two other vacancies, caused by resignations or deaths, will be filled soon, said Gov. Coke R. Stevenson.

HOOD GETS APPOINTMENT

War brought a strong sense of responsibility toward fellow-drivers and their cars. And now this fine spirit continues.

Folks have been going even beyond the utmost caution in driving day or night. They've gone to doing such things as sweeping glass off the pavement. They've made themselves remember that anyone's car is as much worth conserving as their own. And so the best motoring manners are almost the only ones expected. That's been saving lots of car trouble and walking. But unfortunately it cannot help out against damage from corrosive engine acids. There the accepted remedy is to have your engine's insides OIL-PLATED.

Changing to Conoco Nth motor oil for Winter—in the ordinary way, at an ordinary price—automatically assures OIL-PLATING, on guard against acid corrosion!

What makes engine acids? Every explosion—in the cylinders—every time!

What makes OIL-PLATING? Conoco Nth oil's strong "power of attraction."

In patented Conoco Nth oil there's a special ingredient, developed by costly pioneer research. And that's what attaches protective OIL-PLATING to your engine's fine inner finish. OIL-PLATING stays there just as long as you use Conoco Nth oil. And now when acids are at their worst—when the most limited Winter mileage and overcool driving let acids collect excessively—they still can't excessively corrode the parts kept OIL-PLATED by Conoco Nth oil. Change today—at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company
