Judge Resigns

FORT WORTH (AP)-The judge whom millionaire Cullen Davis is accused of wanting killed has reliquished jurisdiction of Davis' 4-year-old pending divorce suit.

In a letter Tuesday to District Judge Charles Murray, administrative judge for the judicial district that includes Tarrant County, Judge Joe Eidson said he expects to be called as a state witness in the murder-for-hire case against Davis.

Prime Rate Hiked

NEW YORK (AP)-Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest bank, today raised its prime lending rate from 9 percent to 9¼ percent, its highest point in more than three years.

Analysts had been predicting the rise in the rate, which is the interest charged on loans to the bank's most creditworthy customers. The Chase Manhattan move was expected to touch off a wave of similar increases throughout the industry in coming days.

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Tuesday he and other governors will discuss the pending natural gas bill with President Carter on Thursday at the White House.

Track Big Money

WASHINGTON (AP)-Federal agents are tracking "big, big money" to Swiss banks, where they believe General Services Administration employees channeled it after demanding payoffs from contractors, a source close to the investigation says.

In House Subpanel Report...

DOE Officials Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House subcommittee, sharply criticizing Energy Department officials, says the administration failed to make a convincing case for removing price controls on gasoline and withheld information predicting a possible shortage in 1980.

The subcommittee report said the shortage, forecast by the Energy Information Administration, could be as high as 400,000 barrels a day.

"A 400,000-per-day gasoline shortfall, with or without gasoline controls, would be an unmitigated national disaster," said the report.

The subcomittee said the shortage during the 1973-1974 Arab oil embargo was 280,000 barrels a day.

"The inability of the (DOE) Department of Energy to present a logical and coherent case for gasoline decontrol is attributable to a number of factors," said the House Commerce subcommittee on over-sight and investigations, chaired by Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., in a report made public today.

The department had no immediate comment on the report.

The report cited:

-"The department's apparent intellectual inability to justify the administration's long-standing commitment to gasoline decontrol.

Higher Inflation Seen Next Year

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-In a pessimistic new assessment of the nation's troubles with inflation, a member of the Federal Reserve Board said today that inflation might be worse next year than the 8 percent rate so far this year.

"Inflation has clearly accelerated, from the 6 percent area into the 8 percent area, and threatens to accelerate further next year," said board member Henry C. Wallich.

Wallich urged that the government consider a tax incentive program to penalize or reward business and labor for their price and wage behavior, depending on whether it conforms with government anti-inflation goals.

A new approach is needed, he said, because the government's traditional ways of controlling inflation through spending and interest rate policies are not working.

Such a tax incentive plan is "tough," Wallich said, "but we have run out of pleasant options."

He added: "The same or even more drastic remedies would confront us at higher levels of inflation, plus possibly severe recession. I hope it will not take such higher levels to convince people of the need for action."

Wallich made his remarks in a speech prepared for the Allied Social Science Association in Chicago. The text was released here.

In its latest inflation report on Tuesday, the government said consumer prices rose by 0.5 percent in July, the smallest increase this year. However, virtually all the improvement was attributed to the first decline in grocery prices in a year.

Prices for non-food goods increased 0.7 percent, about the same as in previous months, indicating there has been little if any progress is slowing overall inflation.

The dollar plummeted sharply against major foreign currencies with a companion announcement by the Commerce Department that the U.S. trade deficit in July was $2.99 billion, nearly double the deficit for June and the fourth largest monthly gap ever between U.S. exports and imports.

Hijacker Asks Asylum In West

BERLIN (AP)-A gunman accompanied by his wife and at least one child hijacked a Polish airliner with 60 passengers aboard today and forced it to Tempelhof Airport, a U.S. air base in West Berlin, an Air Force spokesman said. After the plane landed, six other occupants also asked for asylum in the West, official sources said.

Most of the passengers on the flight were East Germans, the Air Force spokesman said.

"The hijacker surrendered peacefully as soon as this thing landed," said information officer Lt. Col. Gerald R. Roys, gesturing toward the Tu-132 twin-engine jet of the Polish airline LOT.

The hijacker, who was not further described, had put a pistol in the face of the pilot and told him to land in West Berlin instead of East Berlin as scheduled on the flight from Warsaw and Gdansk, Poland, Roys said.

The first person off the plane, a man carrying a brown bag, was escorted peacefully away, witnesses said. The six persons asking for asylum in addition to the hijacker, his wife and child were not immediately identified.

Besides the 60 passengers, the Tu-132 normally carries a crew of seven, a LOT spokeswoman in Cologne said.

Over the years we have observed many lessons in competitive athletics and heard of many more. An announcement Monday reminded that, although such activities have been commercialized and their operation today only faintly resembles that of 25 years ago, these lessons endure. For example, there is the lesson of adversity that appears almost insurmountable, but instead turns into a bonanza.

Last year at this time, a rookie professional football quarterback named Steve DeBerg lost a battle with another rookie named Glenn Carono to become the No. 3 quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys. Carano's glittering surroundings became even more enchanting as his team marched through the season a winner and capped it off by winning the world championship in the Super Bowl.

DeBerg would up in San Francisco where the coach got fired and turmoil seemed to prevail. This week, however, DeBerg's situation did an about-face. The San Francisco 49-ers announced that veteran quarterback Jim Plunkett had been put on waivers. This meant that DeBerg had suddenly become the No. 1 quarterback of what appears to be an up and coming NFL team. Carano is still No. 3 at Dallas.

It reminded us of the Bill Bradley case at the University of Texas. "Super Bill" as he was known, came out of Palestine High School with the greatest credentials you could imagine for a quarterback. But somehow, he never could quite get Darrell Royal's Longhorns in high gear. So, 10 years ago in the third quarter of a game with Texas Tech at Lubbock, Royal replaced Bradley at quarterback. Bradley promptly set his sights on a defensive position and soon became a starter. He went on to become one of the most respected defensive backs in professional football at Philadelphia.

Bill Bradley never would have gone to the professionals as a quarterback. But he turned what must have been great disapointment in Jones Stadium at Lubbock into a lucrative career as a professional. He announced his retirement a few days ago.

By the way, what was the name of the fellow who took his place at Lubbock that night? You don't remember, huh?

Well, he was a good football player, also, and he was able to pump some life into the Longhorns the rest of that season. His name was James Street and he came out of Longview. But his rise to No. 1 at Texas literally pushed Bill Bradley into a good paying job with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Senator With Influence Needed, Says Krueger

Democratic Senate nominee Bob Krueger brought his campaign to Snyder Tuesday afternoon, and briefly lashed out at John Tower, the incumbent Republican Senator he faces in the November election.

Tower, meanwhile, was scheduled to come to town this afternoon for a reception at the Community Room of the Snyder Savings and Loan.

"John Tower has voted on the initiatives of other people for a long time. But John Tower has never taken any initiative (of his own)" declared Krueger.

"Any senator the State of Texas sends will vote for deregulation," Krueger said. "The task is not to get the vote, but to get someone who can influence someone else."

It is important, Krueger added, that some kind of energy policy is established. "If we don't get an energy bill this year, I'm

Hermleigh Liquor Petition Pondered

A wet-dry election of some sort may be in the offing for Hermleigh and Justice of the Peace Precinct 4 in a reported attempt to improve the school system's financial situaton.

The question of the Hermleigh School District's possible consolidation with the Snyder Independent School District is presently in limbo. Two petitions for the measure have been circulated and signed, but two more petitions are needed before the issue can be voted on.

A committee of Hermleigh residents is considering the possibility of having JP Precinct No. 4 voted wet to raise money for the school, said Ken Minyard who is researching the various technicalities and procedures involved in a wet-dry vote.

While not mentioning any names, Minyard said he has been in contact with committee members and has discussed the issue with them.

Minyard said the committee is loosely organized and has no name yet. It is composed of concerned citizens in the Hermleigh community who are interested in retaining the autonomy of the Hermleigh School, he said.

Minyard, a Snyder reident, who is not qualified to vote in Precinct 4, indicated there are approximately 400 persons qualified to vote in the precinct should the issue come to a vote.

Exactly what kind of wet-dry election may be held has not been determined yet, Minyard said. The possibilities are open.

Minyard said that before a wet-dry election can be held an application for a petition must first be circulated and signed by 10 qualified voters in the precinct. Then, a petition for a vote must be circulated and signed by at least 57 qualified voters.

So far, he said, no petitions have been circulated. He said he and members of the committee are still considering options and investigating possibilities.

He said he expects to get back in touch with the committee and have more comments for the press later.

Air Crash Kills 10

NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)-A twin-engine Las Vegas Airlines plane plunged to the ground shortly after taking off from the North Las Vegas Air Terminal today, killing all 10 persons aboard, authorities said.

The Piper Navajo crashed about 7:50 a.m., moments after it left the general aviation terminal northeast of Las Vegas.

Chief Deputy Clark County Coroner Dick Mayne said the plane was on a flight to Santa Ana, Calif. According to the flight plan, Mayne said, there were 10 persons aboard. A quick inspection showed there were no survivors, he said.

Mall Plat Approved

The Snyder Planning and Zoning Commission last night formally approved a plat for the proposed Snyder Shopping Mall, contingent on a few minor alterations.

The plat is scheduled to go to the City Council next Tuesday night for final approval with the Planning and Zoning Commission's endorsement. A preliminary plat had been submitted to the commission last month.

The plat was presented by Ainbinder Associates of Houston, the developer that announced plans for the mall last spring. The plans call for a 200,000 square foot enclosed, air conditioned mall with some 40 stores including a large K mart store. The site is on the east side of College Avenue south of Varsity Square and plans include entrances and exits on both College Avenue and 37th Street.

Ask Us

Q--Why aren't the red lights in the city set so you can run a certain speed. As much truck traffic as we have, it looks like it would make traffic flow more smoothly.

A--The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has a contract out now to replace all traffic lights on state and federal highways through the city. However, not all of the lights are interconnected, and engineers say it is difficult to syncronize the lights unless there are four or more in a row. The new system is expected to help considerably, nevertheless, and it will include a traffic-actuated left turn signal at 37th and College, something new and something that is needed. Ed Vernon, Highway Department engineer here, says one of the objectives of the new equipment is better timing for the traffic flow through town. The only thing holding up the new system now is delivery of materials.

SHS Annuals Have Arrived

Snyder High School's 1978 annuals will be distributed Friday.

Those who have purchased copies of the annual may pick them up in the lobby of the SHS Auditorium between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Big Motor Home Rally Set Here

Snyder will be host this weekend to Holiday Rambler owners throughout the state.

It will be the 14th State Rally of the Texas Holiday Rambler Recreation Vehicle Club.

The event will encompass four days, with the visitors scheduled to assemble their vehicles on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds. Planned activities will begin on Friday, although some of the Holiday Rambler owners expect to arrive on the scene of the rally earlier.

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce has helped plan a number of activities for the Holiday Rambler families during their stay here. There will be tours of the community, with stops at local industries, museums, etc. Also planned are a parade, a shopping spree and a dinner theater presentation. These events have proved to be popular with similar groups who have held rallies here.

A special feature of the Holiday Rambler rally will be a Teen Queen contest.

The organization also plans to elect officers during its rally here.

deliver us from this

The West Central Texas Council of Governments last week raised a red flag when a $214,529 federal project for "communal" nutrition was presented on behalf of People for Progress, Inc., a Sweetwater agency that specializes in spending federal funds.

COG officials said it appeared to overlap nutrition programs for senior citizens, and the reason such proposals are routed via COG for comment is to reduce duplication of effort.

The COG committee's unfavorable comments on the proposal drew some reaction from the agency involved and elicited this information about the project they have in mind: It would be a self-help program for poor people. It would spend $25,000 in planning and $189,529 in implementing a program that would provide a "communal fishing expedition" to Lake Sweetwater and Lake J.B. Thomas, cultivating "communal gardens" plus "communal poultry production," with the fish, vegetables, eggs, etc., to be put in cold storage for the poor people to draw on. They would serve Nolan, Fisher, Scurry and Mitchell Counties.

Snyder and Scurry County officials had voiced their concern about this proposal prior to the COG committee meeting, and Sweetwater Mayor Jere Lawrence, who heads the WCTCOG, said projects like this are what brought about Proposition 13 in California. The Sweetwater mayor is right on target.

Now that the WCTCOG committee has entered its comments, it will be interesting to see how the project fares. Rejection by the WCTCOG does not knock it out. The COG unit only has the right to offer its comments. The final decision will rest with the Office of Economic Opportunity, and we suspect that its action will depend on whether the Proposition 13 message has reached the proper people in that federal agency.

Whatever the outcome, we hope Snyder and Scurry County officials will take whatever steps they can to keep us out of it. That is, if it is possible. The taxpayers have had it up to here with these mickey mouse projects.

kennedy bid looms

Observant watchers for portents of events to come are about ready to predict a bid by Massachusetts Senator Ted Kennedy for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1980. Proving the point was his appearance as a central figure in an impromptu celebration of the proposed constitutional amendment that will give the District of Columbia two black members of the Senate and at least one additional black Representative.

Two other factors provide even more impressive material for President-makers among members of the Washington press corps. Come next January the Massachusetts glamor boy will become chairman of the extremely powerful Senate Judiciary Committee. Another plus is the fact that most delegates to national conventions will be chosen in primaries.

A Kennedy-Carter contest in the primaries would be murder, according to one experienced Washington correspondent. In any event things are shaping up for an intra-party fight for the big prize that has few precedents. Republicans view the possibility with thinly veiled satisfaction.

my turn

by jo ann nunley

Money is nice. Money has been many things. Rum, salt or seashells have been used as money at one time or another. Money is a medium of exchange, a measure of value.

In early America the first settlers of Virginia established tobacco as money, but not for long. It was difficult to separate the leaves, therefore hard to make change. Devaluation was eminent when the temperature or humidity went up-the leaves crumbled.

Came the revolution and the Continental Congress, hard pressed for scarce metal, issued paper money. They issued too much, reducing its value and giving us the expression "not worth a Continental."

In 1974 silver dollars appeared and remained only a century. They were unpopular because they were heavy-and paper money became popular. Silver dollars were discontinued in 1935 due partly to industrial use of silver, then returned with the Eisenhower dollar. Today one version of it is completely silverless, as are the dime and quarter.

At the turn of the century, a profound shift occurred and people started putting their faith in checks.

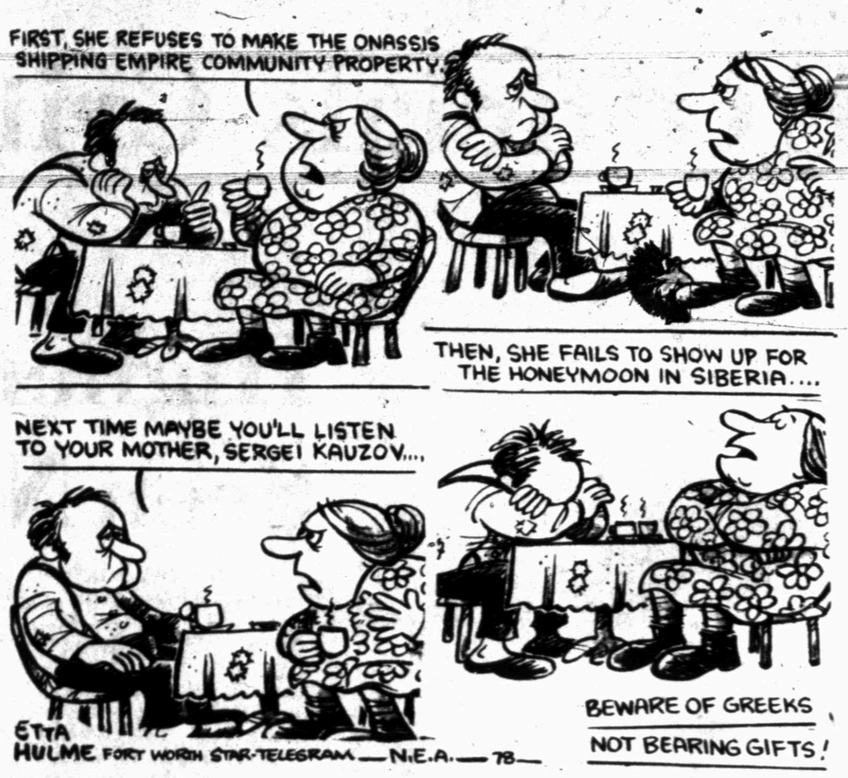

And so it has gone-endless changes dictated by fundamental criteria, cultural needs and international forces.

Today-better than rum, better than seashells and as good as gold, a little 8.5 by 5.5 mm rectangle of plastic, known as the credit card, is creating a new change of acceptable money.

Cards can be used to pay for almost anything. They pay rent, cab fare and even funerals. What's more you can even "buy" money with them all over the world. One credit card is good for cash at over 60,000 banks in 110 countries. Another happening that makes the world seem smaller. We might have been better off staying with the seashells or tobacco.

Russell V. Delong says "The most valuable things in life are not measured in monetary terms. The really important things are not houses and lands, stocks and bonds, automobiles and real estate, but friendships, trust, confidence, sympathy, mercy, love and faith."

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS FOR TELEVISION GRADUATES

Good morning, Graduates.

Thanks for allowing me to preempt the test patterns for my message this morning. You know, a funny thing happened to me on the way to the studio. Come to think of it, if you've watched 22,836 sitcoms, you've probably heard it before.

Today, my friends, you're standing on the brink of prime time . . . a new life where you'll leave the house and get jobs and - actually they won't be as good paying jobs as $20,000 Pyramid or Hollywood Squares or Joker's Wild, but . . .

What I'm trying to say is that all you professional viewers aren't going to be renewed next season. You're going to have a taste of real life for a change like riding the subway, sitting at a table for meals . . . or to put it another way . . . a documentary without commercials. You're ready to see the world.

Oh, I know you've seen all the Olympic games, live, seen every inauguration, every country and its leader in the world, mass on Christmas Eve in Rome, climbed the Himalayas, but your travels this time will take you several feet away from your TV screen - and that's a little scary.

You've all known about sex since the age of two and regard it as about as exciting as flossing your teeth, but trust me, there's more to getting married than the ratings.

Your education up to now has been one of the most unique in the history of civilization. You know how to unclog drains, shake up your mouth, aid indigestion, clean your oven while you sleep, deal with irregularities and fight cavities.

But have you no curiosity as to what happened to Mr. Olsen? How long Charlie Tuna can handle rejection? And what Sandy Duncan replied when her husband said, "This is ridiculous, but I thought I saw you today standing in a wheat field with a box of crackers."

About violence . . . what can I tell you? You've seen it all . . . war, riots, assassinations, terrorists, rapists, murders and cities burning.

What you don't know . . . and what the real world can provide - is the means to do something about it and the love and compassion to feel. Stop observing the world and start living in it. Good luck!

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The "urgent and personal" letter, complaining of "unfair and unjust treatment," reads like one of those mail appeals soliciting aid for a destitute family in some distant, impoverished country.

"I am not a wealthy man," proclaims the writer, warning of imminent financial disaster that "will have a devastating impact on my life, on the life of my wife and on the lives of my three children."

There's an impassioned plea "to provide additional money which is necessary to support my family and to educate my children...to take care of the doctor and the dentist and to buy the necessities of life."

Adds the author: "After all of those are taken care of, there is very little left over for anything else."

Is the writer a starving African? A rag-clad sharecropper? An ill-fated American Indian?

Nope. He's a member of Congress, earning a salary of $57,500 a year and eligible for more than $500,000 worth of various official benefits that include a generous staff salary allowance and free office space, postage, telephone service, office equipment, air travel and computer services.

The letter, sent to all members of the House in mid-August, was written by Rep. John W. Wydler, a New York Republican whose 16 years in Congress have produced few accomplishments and little distinction.

Not withstanding his purported poverty, Wydler twice voted against increasing congressional salaries. And conveniently not mentioned in his letter are the embarrassing installment payments that he's making to the federal treasury.

Four years ago, a Justice Department investigation found that the congressman had paid more than $47,000 worth of printing bills by placing the printers on the public payroll - a procedure "not authorized by law." He avoided a federal civil suit by promising to personally repay $25,000.

Wydler's letter to his colleagues is designed to generate for support for a Capitol Hill campaign to rescind one of the key provisions of an omnibus code of conduct overwhelmingly adopted by the House in March 1977.

The section under attack limits outside earned income for all members of the House and Senate to 15 percent of their salaries. That's $8,625 annually based on the current pay scale.

The opportunity to scrap that limitation will come after the House returns from its Labor Day recess and considers a bill that incorporates the code of ethics into permanent law and authorizes, for the first time, the imposition of civil and criminal penalties on violators.

Wydler is one of scores of members of Congress who reap the financial benefits of lucrative legal practices. A recent finanical statement lists $10,700 in income from his law firm during a three-month period last year and places the value of his holdings in the firm at more than $100,000.

Echoing the claims of other lawyer-legislators, Wydler insists that the recently strengthened financial disclosure requirements provide full public awareness of "all the facts relating to our income."

In fact, the attorneys in Congress are required only to list the income from the equity held in their law firms - but they need not identify the source of the money.

Thus, a special interest group seeking to influence a legislator can provide convert financial assistance by paying the law firm a sizeable annual retainer that requires little or no work in return.

Members of Congress have seldom displayed any inclination to discipline the crooks, con artists and schemers in their midst who used such techniques in the past.

As a result, they now ought to pay the price: They'll just have to scrimp and save to make ends meet on a mere $66,125 in earned income each year.

glamor stocks shine

NEW YORK (AP) - The leading role taken by the big-name growth stocks in the market's rally this summer has provoked some speculation that glamor might once again be coming into fashion on Wall Street.

If that happens, it would mark a dramatic change. Over the past five years, the once-elite group of glamor stocks has enjoyed about as much vogue as tail fins or the Nebru jacket.

For the most part, the companies themselves - household names like IBM, Xerox, Kodak, Johnson & Johnson, Coca-Cola, McDonald's and Avon Products - have continued to compile impressive earnings records.

Anthony Tabell, an analyst at the Princeton, N.J., firm of Delafield, Harvey, Tabell, reported that a statistical composite of a dozen of these companies has shown steady earnings growth at a compound annual rate of better than 12 percent since the mid-1960s.

Yet an index of their stock prices calculated by Tabell fell from 117 in 1972 to 44 around the bottom of the 1973-74 bear market, and had recovered only to 55 by the end of 1977.

The price-earnings ratio of the stocks in the index - a widely used measure of investors' enthusiasm for a given issue or group of issues - tumbled from 52 at the end of 1972 to 13 five years later.

Tabell noted that this slide was partly the result of general market weakness. The price-earnings ratio of Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index fell during the same time span from 18 to eight.

But he also pointed out that the growth stocks suffered disproportionately because of a shift in the investing pattern of institutions such as pension funds, which once were the glamors' biggest fans.

Working with data collected by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Tabell observed that pension funds in 1972 poured 95 percent of the money they received into stocks.

By 1977, that percentage had fallen to 21 percent. And in the first quarter of 1978, pension funds sold more stock than they bought for the first time on record.

The flow of money into pension funds, in the form of contributions by both corporations and employees, reached a record of $21 billion in 1977.

Tabell noted that that was equivalent to 2.7 percent of the total market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and 11.59 percent of the value of all stocks traded during the year.

A person may be mild-mannered, shy, and quiet, yet that person can turn into an absolute blabbermouth at a bridge table. To talk too much at bridge you need only say one or two words; in the case of the diagrammed hand, the words were "three diamonds".

Three notrump would have been a cinch for North-South, but South wanted those 150 points for spade honors. South's two-club opening bid was strong, artificial and forcing. He and his partner were playing weak two bids, which means that a strong two bid in any suit had to be made in clubs. The remainder of the auction was natural.

West's well-timed opening lead took out declarer's most important entry to dummy. Any other lead would have given South the trick he needed to make game. But admiration for West's excellent opening lead must be tempered and weighed against his bidding error, an error that ultimately proved conclusive.

South was certain from the bidding that both the ace of hearts and king of diamonds were in West's hand, and that West had length in both suits. South realized that to make the contract he had to strip the West hand of clubs and throw West on play where he would have to surrender the game-fulfilling trick.

Accordingly, South ruffed a club in his hand at trick two and played the ace of spades and a low spade to dummy's nine. He ruffed another club, exhausting West's club suit and drew East's remaining trumps.

Next South led the ace-queen of diamonds, West winning the queen with the king. If West returned a diamond, dummy's jack was the 10th trick. If he returned a heart, declarer's king would score.

It was a pretty end play, but declarer might not have played it so well had West showed more discretion in the bidding.

Bridal Shower Correction

A line of names under the picture of the future bride Valerie Burney's bridal shower were inadvertently left off. It should have listed the names of Frances McCowen, Billie McCormick, Jo Ann McCormick and Lillie Sullivan as hostesses. And on the same line were the names of Myrtle Burditt, the groom's grandmother and Peggy Martin, his mother, who were pictured with the honoree.

Evergood's Art

WASHINGTON (AP)-An exhibition of 42 works by American painter Philip Evergood is on view at the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum through Oct. 8.

The museum says Evergood "united fantasy and realism in exploring a variety of contemporary themes." It says the exhibits, which consist of 17 paintings and 25 works on paper created between 1919 and 1961, "reflect Evergood's overriding interest in the human condition."

Normal, Balanced Diet May Reduce Cholesterol Levels

Many people mistakenly think of cholesterol as dietary poison they should avoid. They have trimmed all the foods containing whole milk products, red meats and eggs from their diet in an effort to avoid adding more of the waxy substance to their bloodstream.

Drs. Barbara C. O'Brien and Raymond Reiser, Texas A&M University suggest that the cholesterol in a normal, varied diet probably won't affect the cholesterol in your body (serum cholesterol levels). They claim that certain amounts and kinds of foods, not fats or cholesterol, in the diet are responsible for lowering serum cholesterol levels.

Reporting their finding at a meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology O'Brien and Reiser found that adding plant or animal fiber to an experimental cholesterol diet lowered the serum cholesterol. More importantly, they also found that a normal diet (beef tenderloin, beef fat, white bread, rice, whole dry milk, minerals and vitamins) containing the natural occurring plant and animal fiber had the same affect. In other words, these scientists found that the foods many people may have been avoiding may be better at lowering serum cholesterol levels than combinations of synthetic or isolated ingredients in a laboratory diet.

O'Brien-Reiser's findings are raising a number of questions concerning the cholesterol experiments of the past 20 years.

Before the 1950's scientists were confident that dietary cholesterol had no affect on serum cholesterol. They used "human-type" diets fed to healthy individuals and found no relationship. But during the late 50's and early 60's, scientists linked fats in the diet to fats in the bloodstream based on research using cholesterol-containing formula diets.

Laymen and medical practitioners were alarmed that high serum cholesterol levels would increase the risk of arteriosclerosis and ultimately heart disease. Their judgment was based on diets containing casein, sucrose, dextrose, maltose, fats or oils, vitamins and minerals while wholesome foods from the milk, meat, vegetables-fruits and breads-cerals groups were ignored.

O'Brien and Reiser are just two of the researchers advocating a more rational, human view of the cholesterol issue. The trained nutrition educators at Dairy Council, Inc. would like to join them in saying that no research has ever shown conclusively that a nutritionally balanced diet (with a variety of foods and a caloric level to maintain ideal body weight) has ever caused heart disease. Or, just follow the advice your grandmother could have given you.

A Very Good Year

BOSTON (AP)-The Museum of Fine Arts says it ended its 1977-78 fiscal year with "one of the most successful exhibition programs and one of the highest yearly attendance figures in history."

The museum says it attracted over 890,000 visitors in 12 months, a figure which represents an increase in visitors of more than 75 percent over the previous fiscal year.

It attributed the increase to "the public's enthusiastic response to the museum's program of special exhibitions,"

It said more than 430,000 persons saw "Pompeii A.D. 78," an exhibit of art and artifacts from the ancient Roman city, during its three-month stay. This made it the "single best attended exhibit in the museum's history."

Hodge Rested, Ready To Go For Cougars

HOUSTON (AP)-David Hodge is a computer science major but he didn't have to get a readout from a cathode ray tube to realize he needed to get away from football.

"I had been playing since I was on a flag team in the fourth grade," the Houston Cougar middle linebacker told touring Southwest Conference writers Tuesday. "I was tired of it."

After Houston's 1976 SWC and Cotton Bowl championship team, Hodge went to Coach Bill Yeoman and announced he was burned out on the sport.

A stunned Yeoman told Hodge to think about it then do what he thought was right.

Hodge, the most sought-after schoolboy player in Texas in 1974 out of Brazoswood, an all-conference performance his sophomore season, decided to quit football and go to work.

"I didn't even keep up with football in the papers," said the quiet-spoken Hodge. "My momma informed me."

Hodge started to miss the sport and also admitted candidly, "I decided I wanted my degree and it would have been harder for me to come back financially without playing football.

"I'm glad I returned. The time off really helped me. I'm ready to play now."

The 6-foot-3, 250-pound junior said, "I was a little apprehensive when I returned. You never know how you're going to be accepted by your teammates."

Hodge was welcomed back with open arms and his teammates immediately elected him captain.

Linebacker Steve Bradham said, "You can already see the difference in our defense. The guys hit harder and try harder because he is out there."

"Oh boy, it's an entirely different defense with him on the field," said safety Elvis Bradley.

"He is a player and he is enjoying it," said Yeoman. "My wife saw him in a scrimmage the other day and said 'David even smiles and laughs now.' I think David just needed to take a deep breath. He was being squeezed so long-all the way back to the little leagues."

Yeoman added, "He wants to play badly now. He is a super kid and I'm glad he's back. You know when he had that lack of enthusiasm he was still a pretty darn good player. and now he has a chance to be a truly great one."

Moore Minces Texas; Despite Being A Fan

ARLINGTON (AP)-Young Balor Moore says he's a fan of the Texas Rangers, but you couldn't convince anybody of that Tuesday night.

Moore, a Deer Park, Texas, native, stopped the Rangers on five hits as the Jays clipped Texas 4-1. It was the 54th victory for expansion Toronto, equaling the team's highest number of wins in a season.

"He (Moore) kept everybody off balance," said Ranger Manager Bill Hunter. "You know we've knocked him around pretty good in the past. The difference tonight was his location."

Moore got a two-run homer from Otto Velez in the second inning to go with a first inning marker and that was plenty for him.

"I wanted to stay aggressive by establishing the fastball in and off the plate," he said. "I wanted to show them I wasn't afraid to challenge them so they couldn't lay back and wait for the slow stuff. And (catcher Rick) Cerone called a heck of a game.

"I really am a Ranger fan," Moore said. "From tonight on they can win every game and I won't care."

Hunter said, "Well I'm no Balor Moore fan tonight."

Toronto opened the scoring in the first when Bob Bailor singled, Velez walked and Willie Horton was safe on an error. Doug Ault slashed a single off third baseman Kurt Bevaqua's glove to score Bailor.

Bailor reached first on a fielder's choice in the second and rode home on Velez's towering blast into the leftfield seats.

The Jays padded their lead in the seventh, knocking loser Jon Matlack, 12-11, out of the box on three singles, the last by Horton that scored Bailor with the final Jay run. Reggie Cleveland came on to fan David McKay with the bases loaded, ending the inning.

Texas threatened in its half of the first when Toby Harrah walked and took third on Bevaqua's double inside the third base bag. Al Oliver grounded hard to third, but Bailor was able to nail Harrah at the plate. Bobby Bonds ended the inning by striking out.

Juan Beniquez gave Texas its lone run when he led off the eighth with a home run to left.

Astros 6, Cardinals 3

Kenny Forsch walked only one and struck out seven in running his record to 8-4. He also knocked in two runs.

Dennis Walling drove in three runs for Houston and Art Howe had three singles before suffering a broken finger when he was struck by a thrown ball in the sixth inning.

White Sox 9, Royals 3

Mike Proly pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before a Darrell Porter line drive hit his hand and fractured his right thumb.

Yankees 4, Angels 3

Paul Blair was twice a hero for the Yankees. He advanced two bases on a sacrifice bunt in the eighth, then scored on Willie Randolph's triple.

Officials Should Watch QB More, Says Landry

DALLAS (AP) - Quarterbacks in the National Football League need more protection - not from their offensive lines, but from the game officials - Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry says.

"The officials should watch the quarterbacks closer than they've been watching them in preseason," Landry said Tuesday.

Five quarterbacks were hurt last weekend in NFL exhibition games.

"The quarterbacks are getting hit too much, and the officials aren't calling it," Landry said at his weekly press luncheon. "They need to, because the quarterback needs to be protected,"

The Cowboys' starting quarterback Roger Staubach has escaped injury in preseason, but Landry seemed worried about keeping him in good health.

"The rules don't need to be changed," Landry said. "The officials just need to call them more strictly. Once you call them stricter, the quarterback will be protected."

Landry announced some roster changes and some changes in the starting lineup of the Super Bowl champions who open their season Monday night when they host Baltimore.

The Cowboys' biggest problem right now if finding a place kicker to replace Efren Herrera, who had contract problems and was traded to Seattle.

Tryout Jay Sherrill, who missed two field goals and an extra point against Pittsburgh, was placed on waivers Monday and was not claimed by any other club. The Cowboys coaches say they will decide this week whether to keep the rookie free agent from North Carolina State or find someone else.

"We're checking three or four other kickers right now," Landry said.

The team also announced it signed rookie offensive guard Tom Randall of Iowa State, who was the team's seventh round draft pick. That brings the roster to 44, with one slot left to fill - the place kicker.

In starting lineup changes, Tony Hill won the starting split end job previously shared by Super Bowl standouts Golden Richards and Butch Johnson.

Andy Frederick will start at right tackle, and Pat Donovan will be at left tackle, where he has played for the four-game preseason. Donovan replaced Ralph Neely, who retired.

This means veteran Rayfield Wright, trying to gain top form after an injury, will be the backup right tackle.

"Tony Hill is one of the most exceptional receivers we've had, especially in his ability to adjust to the ball and go for it," Landry said. "He has great potential." Hill is a second-year man out of Stanford.

He said Richards and Johnson performed as well in preseason as they had ever had but that Hill was so exceptional the decision was pretty clear cut.

WTC Awards Golf Players

A Western Texas College scramble awarded first and last place prizes to golfers yesterday.

Ronal Richardson, Franklin Pruitt, Jerry Baird and Wanda Clinton took first with a score of 32.

Van Rigby, Kent Mills and Joe Cushing finished last place out of the six-team field with a mark of 36.

Both teams received golf balls as prizes.

Cats Set Scrimmage

Snyder High School varsity Tigers will stage their final scrimmage in Abilene against Abilene Cooper 7 p.m. Thursday at Rose Park Stadium.

A junior varsity scrimmage will be held at 5 o'clock.

WGA Scramble Planned Sept. 3

The Women's Golf Association Couples Scramble will be held Sept. 3, announced Snyder Country Club golf pro Don Bryant.

The scramble, which will stage a shotgun start at 1:30 p.m., was accidentally listed Sept. 10 on the club's monthly calendar.

Four-player teams will comprise the scramble.

Bryant also noted another change from the calendar concerning a Labor Day scramble to be held Sept. 4. Shotgun starts for the four-player scramble will be held at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The calendar lists no mention of the scramble on Labor Day, while the Manager's Corner portion of the monthly newsletter lists starting times at 9 and 1:30.

In one final note, the Twilight Golf Swingers were omitted from the calendar Sept. 8, but will be held as usual.

States Wins At Diamond Tournament

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP)-Terry Francona of Arizona cracked four hits in six times at bat Tuesday as the United States rained 19 hits on Belgium Tuesday and won, 15-0, in the World Amateur Baseball Championship Tournament.

The game was called after seven innings because of the 10-run rule.

The U.S. team now boasts a 4-0 record. The only other undefeated team in the 12-team tournament is Cuba, which defeated Nicaragua 7-2.

Kyle Hawthorne of Texas A&M and Howie Shaprio of Miami-Fla. added three hits each in the U.s. effort against Belgium. Righthander Tom Lukish of the University of Houston pitched the first five innings, allowing only two hits while striking out 11.

Umpires Could Call Strike Again Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Major League baseball umpires could walk off the field again today if a ruling at an injunction hearing in federal court here allows them to strike.

A temporary restraining order was issued last Friday, forcing the umpires back to work after a one-day walkout. Amateur umpires were used in their place. It was the second umpires' strike in major league baseball history.

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, and Chub Feeney, president of the National League, were expected to attend the federal court hearing.

Richie Phillips, a Philadelphia-based lawyer representing the Major League Umpires Association, also was expected to attend. He would not comment Tuesday on the scheduled hearing.

The umpires are seeking improvements in a contract that runs through 1981. They want three one-week vacations during the regular season, job security after three years, cost-of-living increases and increased disability benefits.

Both leagues have refused to negotiate these details, saying they are covered by the contract. But on Friday, Phillips contended the contract was not valid and said the umpires would fight the injunction through the courts.

Bjorn, Austin Score Round On Victory

NEW YORK (AP)-Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg and 15-year-old Tracy Austin zipped through their first-round matches as the U.S. Open tennis championships unfolded for the first time at the New National Tennis Center.

Borg, despite his complaints that the synthetic courts were too fast, easily defeated Bob Hewitt of South Africa 6-0, 6-2.

Austin, who was a quarter-finalist in the Open last year and is seeded fifth this time, beat Trish Bostrom 6-0, 6-1.

Makeup Physicals Slated Thursday

Makeup physicals and junior high girl's physicals will be held Thursday in Snyder High School Boy's Gym No. 2, it has been announced.

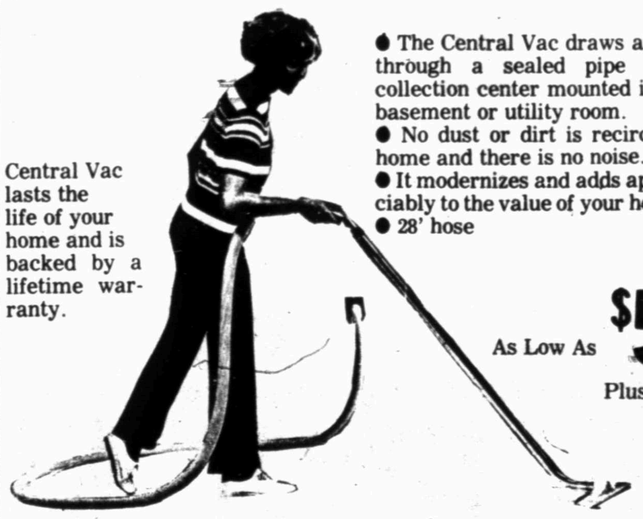

Makeups for high school and junior high girls missing a previous scheduled physical are to report to the gym at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. At 2, all eighth grade girls in competitive athletics other than volleyball are to take physicals. Finally, at 2:45, all seventh grade girls other than volleyball participants are to take physicals.

SHS Athletic Director Roy Carter notes that any high school or junior high student planning to participate in competitive athletics will not be permitted to work out until a physical has been taken. Anyone having missed a previously scheduled physical is asked to report to the gym Thursday between 1:30 and 3 p.m.

The only students not required to have a physical at this time are junior high boys and girls signed up to take gymnastics or tennis only. Those physicals will be given at a later date.

Tax Revolt Not New To Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)-Gov. George Wallace says he didn't have to go to the meeting of the National Governor's Association in Boston this week to learn the nation may be in for a tax revolution.

"All they've talked about up there is tax revolt and I've been talking about that since 1968," Wallace told The Associated Press on Tuesday.

He was referring to statements made at the governor's conference by California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. and others that government must cut expenses or face on uprising by taxpayers.

"What they are saying now is exactly what I, and the people of Alabama, have been saying for years," said Wallace. "If you tax the middle class to death, you will destroy our country. And the people are not going to put up with it."

Wallace added, "If I had gone to Boston, I could have been their Paul Revere, shouting, 'The revolution is coming, the revolution is coming.'"

Maintenance dietary plan

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I received your diet for weight reduction and am very pleased with it. I think it is something I could live with for the rest of my life. However, there are some items that I would appreciate knowing about and I am including a list of these in the hopes that you might comment on them.

DEAR READER — Of the items you have on your list, cottage cheese is an excellent food, particularly if you use the uncreamed cottage cheese, because it contains very little fat. It's a low-calorie food which contains a lot of good quality protein plus calcium.

String beans are fine and are a low-calorie food as long as you don't add fat in their preparation. Most of the fruits, if you don't go overboard, are fine for people and should be part of a normal balanced diet. As you will notice, orange juice is included on the diet and you could substitute an orange for a glass of orange juice.

You asked about eggs and they are acceptable in a small amount and, again, it depends on how you prepare them. The American Heart Association recommends that men not have more than three egg yolks a week from all sources because of the cholesterol content.

You might ask about some of the egg substitutes that are on the market that contain no cholesterol, but I'm sorry to say most of these that are commonly used today also contain a lot of fat, although it is unsaturated fat.

The diet is probably better if you limit the fat intake. As far as the jack and cheddar cheese are concerned, these are high in fat and frequently high in cholesterol. A little bit of these processed cheeses add a large number of calories to the diet so they should be used sparingly, if at all.

You can prepare gravy and cream sauces and cream soups with non-fat dry milk powder and proper seasonings so they contain a limited amount of calories. Unsweetened canned pineapple is a reasonable source for fruits and often goes well with uncreamed cottage cheese.

You also ask about butter and margarine. If you are losing enough weight or maintaining your weight at the level that you want to, then you can use these in limited amounts.

But all fats, whether they come from margarine, butter, vegetable oil of all types, or from meats of all types contain lots of calories. Anyone who needs to limit his calories will need to limit his intake of fatty foods as well as the foods that contain lots of sweets or concentrated sugars.

In the last analysis, the test of whether a diet works for a person or not is whether it safely enables him to gradually lose excess fat or enables him to maintain his weight at the desired level.

In addition to meeting this requirement, the diet should be sufficiently well balanced to provide all the necessary vitamins and minerals. Unless a person learns these features, the fad diet efforts won't be very effective because most of these people lose weight and then regain it as soon as they return to their previous dietary habits.

Other readers who want the dietary plan that you spoke of can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Motorcycle Enthusiasts Meet Here

A group of local motorcycle enthusiasts meets every Thursday night at the Piggly Wiggly Supermarket parking lot, and anyone wishing to join may drive by---on a 'cycle.

The group is loosely formed, explained Glenda Thomas, a member, and has not yet incorporated into a club. It is composed only of motorcycle enthusiasts.

The group s purpose, she explained, is to promote a good public image of motorcyclists and to stress motorcycle safety. Group members attend motorcycle rallies and, on meeting nights, often go to out of town restaurants.

Anyone, said Mrs. Thomas, may join.

The group meets about 7 p.m. every Thursday.

New Rules On Oil Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oil and gas producers will be required to disclose the value of their reserves under a new accounting procedures initiated by the Security and Exchange Commission.

Tuesday's SEC decision will also lead to more precise public disclosures by oil and gas companies as to their reserves and profits.

"The biggest assets of an oil company is its reserves," noted a spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute (API). "Today it is not on the balance sheet. Today only the cost of drilling shows up...but the value of reserves tells who's in the game and who's not in the game."

The announcement is viewed as a compromise, added API's Bob Stewart.

"I don't see that it favors either major companies or independents," said Stewart, API's director of finance and accounting. "Like the chairman said, it's good for competition and better states what the facts of life are."

Citing the need for goverment decision-makers as well as private investors to be more informed, SEC chairman Harold M. Williams added that specific guidelines pertaining to the accounting procedures and forms the oil and gas industry must begin filing after Dec. 25, 1979, will be released "later this week."

Almost three years of debate on the subject preceded the announcement including testimony during 12 days of recent hearings in both Washington and Houston from oil and gas producers, investors, research consultants and public accountants.

The controversy centered around the "successful method" accounting used predominately by major companies as opposed to the "full cost" method employed by mainly independent producers. The two methods differ basically in the accountant's treatment of the cost of drilling unsuccessful wells. By amortizing "dry" wells, the full-cost method generally allows companies to show larger assets and income figures.

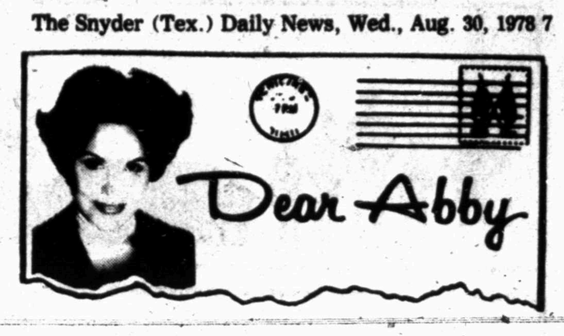

Under the SEC's "reserve recognition accounting" method, companies will employ the "value concept" of accounting to put a price on its proved oil and gas reserves.

Williams noted that "traditional accounting methods - successful efforts and full cost - fail to provide sufficient useful information on the financial position and operation results of oil and gas producers."

The development of "an accounting method based on a valuation of proved oil and gas reserves would provide significant useful information and steps should be taken to develop such a method," he continued. "In these circumstances, requiring either successful efforts or full cost as a uniform method of accounting is unwarranted."

Congress gave the SEC the responsibility for devising an industry-wide procedure under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975.

The SEC chairman also noted that full implementation of the new system will require a minimum of from three to five years.

No Free Exam For Her Feet

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm new in town. My feet were giving me a lot of trouble, so I looked in the yellow pages for a foot doctor. I knew some corns had to be removed, and one toe felt as if I had an ingrown toenail.

I selected a podiatrist who was located on the bus line and whose name I could pronounce. I phoned him and made an appointment.

When I got there, I showed him my feet and told him I didn't want him to DO anything until he gave me an estimate on how much he would charge to do what had to be done.

He got a disgusted look on his face and said, "Lady, I treat patients—I don't give estimates." Then he practically threw me out of his office.

Was I out of line to ask him for an estimate? If he charged more than I could afford to pay, I would have tried another doctor. Isn't that better than letting him do the work and then making him wait for his money?

OUT OF LINE, OR NOT?

DEAR OUT: When you booked the appointment, you should have asked how much the doctor charged for an office visit. No one should expect a free examination, which is what an "estimate" entails. All a professional person has to sell is his (or her) knowledge and time.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to announce my engagement soon, and my problem is this: My fiance's mother wants us to have a big wedding, and I don't want a big wedding.

My fiance's family is quite wealthy, and his mother says they will pay for everything. Abby, I don't want to accept this kind of a gift from my future in-laws. Besides, aren't the bride's parents supposed to put on the wedding? Mine can afford only a simple little family affair, which is all I really want.

My fiance's mother already has a "tentative guest list" of 300. She says she "owes" so many people, and she has friends who will not invite HER to their children's weddings if she doesn't invite THEM to hers. (She's already picked out the bridesmaids' dresses. How about that?)

Another thing. She told me she wanted me to have a baby right away because all her friends have grandchildren and she is way behind. Abby, I intend to teach school while my husband finishes law school, and we don't plan to have a baby "right away."

What should I do? My fiance is in the middle. He doesn't want to hurt his mother, but he doesn't want me to be unhappy either.

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that YOUR parents will put on the wedding. And make clear that you will have a family when YOU decide you want one.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were divorced several months ago. The divorce was on very friendly terms, and we see each other occasionally at social gatherings, etc. It is very awkward to introduce her as my "ex-wife."

Is there a less embarrassing way?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Yes. Introduce her by name only, and skip her marital history—unless somebody asks.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

Every mother is employed

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — You probably can't help me. No one can because I am my own worst enemy.

I am a wife and mother who used to be very busy taking care of everyone. But now my life is empty. The children are in high school and quite independent. My husband is very involved in a new project at work and is rarely home.

I want to find a job but I have no training in anything. I graduated from high school but after that I never worked. I also think I have lost some of my confidence; I am reluctant to meet new people and put myself in new situations. I guess I have always been a little shy.

Can you help a wife and mother who hasn't done anything for 18 years find something useful and interesting — and maybe even lucrative — to do? If you can't, I won't be surprised.

DEAR READER — You are right. I cannot help a person who has not done a thing for 18 years find an interesting and useful — and maybe evem lucrative — job.

But I can help a woman who has almost two decades of work experience in raising children and managing a home. You are right about being your own worst enemy.

It does not help to think of yourself as someone with no marketable skills. You have been working — albeit without pay — for 18 years; every mother is a working mother.

What are your skills? Are you an excellent cook, a terrific organizer of small parties or a whiz with wallpapering and painting? Do you fly through your cleaning chores with lightning speed? Do you miss the pleasure of caring for small children? Can you organize a youngster's birthday party and entertain the guests with stories, games and maybe even music?

Many women have parlayed their homemaking skills into lucrative small businesses. Some are quite imaginative. One woman became a professional "complainer" by offering her services to people who had been cheated or stuck with defective merchandise. She writes effective letters, follows them up and gets results.

Another woman organized "Chutzpah Phone Service." For a fee, she makes the phone calls her clients do not want to make. She now sells franchises of her business for $500 to $800 each.

These ideas may help you build your self confidence. But you may need to do something about your shyness before you can really get started. In case you decide to work on this aspect of your personality, I am sending you my "Hotline on Shyness," which offers practical suggestions for overcoming this common problem.

Other readers can obtain copies by sending 50 cents plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for "Hotline on Shyness."

And readers who are interested in pursuing the idea of starting a small business might wish to contact the nearest office of the federal government's Small Business Administration or read "100 Sure Fire Businesses You Can Start With Little or No Investment," by Jeffrey Feinman (Playboy Press, 1976) or Free Enterprise Magazine. Many women's centers offer counseling to long-time homemakers interested in finding jobs, starting businesses or returning to school.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Your Birthday
August 31, 1978

There are changes in store for you this coming year which you might feel you don't have control over, but it won't be anything to worry about. In fact, the more you relax and flow with events, the more gains will come your way.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The quiet manner in which you set about doing things today should prove to be highly profitable. Without outside influence you'll be able to do what you know to be right. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your highly receptive mind puts you in an excellent position to learn something new today. This knowledge will enable you to go after a personal goal.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's not important to show your strength today. Placing all your energies on your inner resolve is what will win you your prize.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The soft-sell approach is the right one today. Apply your charm and humor to any situation, and you'll woo others into your corner.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) While doing for others you gain a great deal of ground today. You won't have to settle for second best, even though you concentrated on someone else.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People are sensitive to your needs today. If there is a favor you've been wanting to ask for, this is the day to do it.
PICES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tasks you tackle today are accomplished with ease and efficiency. You should be able to take great pride in the results.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) The blending of enthusiasm with warmth produces for you today a mannerism others find most appealing. Your company is welcomed in any circle.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your efforts for loved ones today are well spent. You'll be able to help them overcome tasks that appeared insurmountable.
GEMINI May 21-June 20) It's to your advantage to be a good listener today. Someone with your best interests at heart is trying to tell you something to help you socially.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your chances for acquisition look quite promising because of the resourceful manner in which you approach a task today. Follow through on any clever idea.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This should be a fun day, involving much activity. It's probable you'll be the one who gets the gang really jumping.

DOE

David Bardin, administrator, Economic Regulatory Administration, charged with preparing the environmental assessment and supplement in reviewing the work of his subordinates." It said the forecast of a possible shortage was included in a June 7 memorandum to Bardin.

-"An embarrassing failure of acting assistant secretary for the environment, Dr. James L. Liverman, to fully and effectively discharge the duties of his office in reviewing the environmental assessment."

The subcommittee said it was not commenting on the question of whether the price controls imposed on gasoline during the Arab oil embargo should be lifted, "but on the competence and credibility of the DOE in addressing the issues surrounding gasoline decontrol."

The report said the Energy Department withheld information indicating the possibility of a gasoline shortage in 1980.

The panel also said:

-"The DOE had no basis for stating in its environmental assessment and supplement that all gasoline is selling at retail for less than the price permitted by regulation and that retail price controls are therefore superfluous."

-"Contrary to the DOE's contention, price regulations are constraining gasoline prices at the refinery level."

-"DOE had no basis for concluding that gasoline decontrol will not have an adverse environmental impact; in fact, the evidence strongly suggests the contrary."

A tee is permitted for kickoffs in the National Football League but not for field goals or extra-point attempts.

Hill Seeks VetoPower For Texas

AUSTIN (AP)-Attorney General John Hill asked the U.S. Department of Energy on Tuesday to grant Texas veto power over storage of nuclear wastes in or near the state or transportation of radioactive debris through Texas.

Hill noted that the department has proposed nuclear waste material in New Mexico, 25 miles from the Texas border. He said most of the waste stored there would move through Texas.

The attorney general also said the energy department is studying locations in Randall and Anderson Counties for possible storage sites.

"At my request the energy department has held public hearings in Texas on the proposed New Mexico waste disposal project.

Vandalism Under Probe

COLORADO CITY-The sheriff's department is investigating the burglary and vandalism of a home in Horn Chapel, a community northwest of Colorado City. Thousands of dollars in damage and stolen property are reported in the incident that took place sometime between Aug. 21 and Aug. 29.

Among the items reported missing are several antiques and a citizens band radio base station. The house also sustained considerable damage according to a source at the sheriff's office.

The owner, who has not lived at the rural address in about three months discovered and reported the incident Tuesday afternoon.

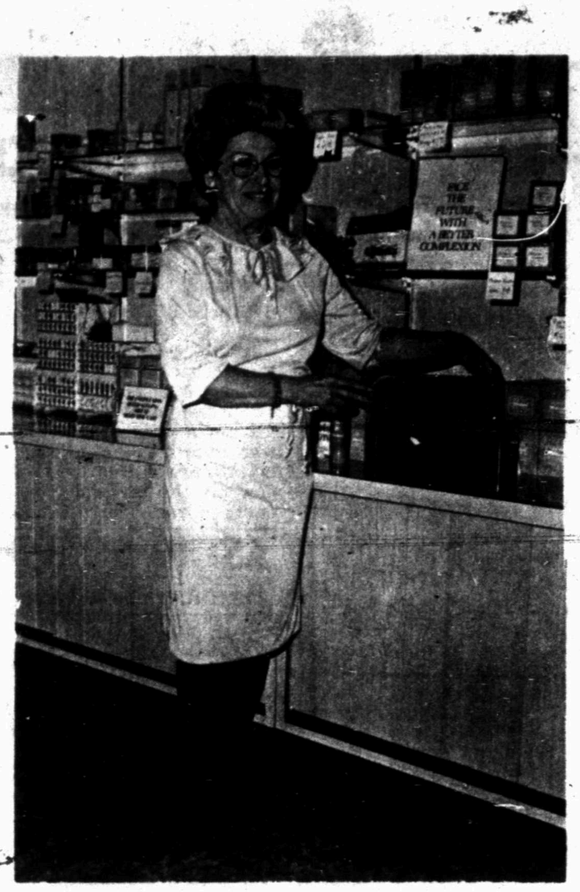

Mitchell County Sheriff, Bill McQuire and Deputy Mike Stutts are heading up the investigation.

Rabid Cow Destroyed

A rabid cow was destroyed at Fluvanna Monday. The young Hereford belonged to Charlie Bley who lives south of the community. It had given birth to a calf Thursday but veterinarian, Dr. Charles Church, who diagnosed the rabies, said there is no danger of the calf having contracted the fatal disease through its birth from a rabid mother.

Dr. Church said the cow was infected by being bitten by a rabid animal probably a skunk, fox, or raccoon. He said it was unusal for a cow to get rabies but not unheard of.

Several cases of rabies, sometimes called hydrophobia, were confirmed in the area this summer including two horses in Borden County. Those belonged to Mike Sweeny and Travis Rinehart.

Local Ideas Made Fed Projects Success

By BARBARA RIEGELHAUPT
Associated Press Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - Billions of federal dollars have had little impact on education, mainly because local officials didn't get involved and teachers weren't taught how to teach better, a Rand Corp. study says.

The net return to the federal investment, the researchers said, "was the adoption of many innovations, the successful implementation of few and the long-run continuation of still fewer."

The four-year study commissioned by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare examined 293 federally financed projects, including some aimed at eliminating illiteracy and others at improving vocational and bilingual education.

Whether a program survived past the end of federal financing, the study found, was unrelated to how much money was spent and what kind of materials were bought. Rather, the amount of local ideas put into the project often meant the difference between success and failure.

"The ultimate responsibility for really making these programs work over the long run rests with the local people," Paul Berman, one of the chief researchers, said Tuesday. "The problem is not how to get more money, but how to get these people motivated.

"If schools are going to change, they have to learn to change themselves - to learn how to teach better," he said in an interview. "The federal money is just a help in getting them started."

Instead of simply pumping money into the nation's classrooms for poorly planned and ultimately short-lived programs, the federal government should adopt "a long-term goal" of helping school districts develop the capacity to improve their own performance," the Rand report said.

KRUEGER

sure we will next. The issue is too important to be (kept) lying around," he said.

Just as important, he continued, is the need for deregulation not only of the oil and gas industry, but of small businesses and industry in general. Too much government interference stifles growth, he said.

"The root of the problem is that government has grown so large," Krueger said.

The passing of Proposition 13 in California shows two things, Krueger pointed out. First, it shows that people are willing to accept less government spending. Second, it shows that people are ready to take initiatives in their own hands and to circumvent do-nothing elected officials.

In a prepared press release for the occasion, Krueger cited his support for right to work legislation in Texas.

"I have always supported the Taft-Hartley Act because of the positive impact it has had on our state," it stated. "And I will continue to support it---right to work must stand."

The press release also cited a poll's findings that he is running only slightly behind Tower.

According the release, Krueger has pulled to within 1.4 percentage points of overtaking Tower. The poll showed Tower leading Krueger by 42.6 percent to 41.2 percent.

Krueger spoke briefly yesterday at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, then attended a reception at the Spanish Inn.
