50 percent 'again'...

New construction totals plummet for 2nd year in a row

For the second year in a row, Snyder has experienced a 50 percent decrease in new construction totals, back-to-back declines which have seen the year's building fall from some $7.4 million in 1985 to the just counted $1.7 million.

The decline is even more stark when compared to three years ago, when an all-time high of $9.4 million was recorded.

The city's fiscal year ends each Sept. 30, and the final month for 1986-87 contributed only some $52,450 toward the year's total. The exact total for the year is $1,720,150.

During the decade's peak period of building in 1983 and 1984, many monthly totals were in excess of $1 million.

One project which did not make it on the 1986-87 count was a new office building to be constructed by Olney Savings Association.

A building permit for the facility was not issued before the end of the month, although dirt work on the project is slated to begin this week.

The construction estimate for it is now set at some $300,000 and should begin the new fiscal year with a healthy start.

For the just-completed fiscal year, the city counted only seven new single family residences being built. Last year, the city experienced 21 new homes and, the year previous to that, 34 were built.

As for mobile home move-ins, the current total shows 47 were applied for, a figure close to that reported during the previous year when 49 were issued. The year previous to this, 78 were applied for and issued.

The complete building totals for the decade include: 1980, $5

Confirmation hopes slim...

DeConcini is against Bork

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Bork's chances of winning a Supreme Court seat fell further today when formerly undecided Sen. Dennis DeConcini announced he would vote against confirmation.

The announcement by the Arizona Democrat was the seventh declaration of opposition on the 14-member Senate Judiciary Committee, making it impossible for Bork's nomination to be sent to the full Senate with a favorable recommendation, unless someone publicly changes his mind.

Two other committee members, Sen. Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and Howell Heflin, D-Ala., are still publicly undecided, and Byrd has said he would prefer the committee send the nomination to the floor with no recommendation.

A committee vote is set for Tuesday, and discussions were under way today on the phrasing the question the members will vote on.

On Sunday, President Reagan, rebuffing suggestions that he withdraw the nomination, gave notice he will embark on a string of events designed to highlight support for the embattled jurist.

The split among senators who have declared how they will vote on Bork's nomination narrowed to 32-30 with DeConcini's announcement and with word on Sunday that Sens. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., and Thomas A. Daschle, D-S.D., will also vote no.

The president and his aides are looking beyond Tuesday's vote on the nomination in the Senate Judiciary Committee and are concentrating instead on winning the nomination on the Senate floor.

Reagan, returning to Washington on Sunday on the eve of today's new Supreme Court session, said "no" when reporters asked if he thought his nomination of the conservative appeals court judge was dead.

Asked whether he was considering withdrawing Bork's name from Senate consideration, Reagan said: "I'm going to continue with his nomination."

Washington attorney Leonard Garment, a friend of Bork, called The New York Times on Sunday to say he was "authorized by Judge Bork to say that he will not ask the president to withdraw his name prior to the full Senate vote on his nomination," the newspaper reported today.

Reporters at the White House also asked Reagan a question dealing with his policies involving the Nicaraguan civil war.

"I'm fighting another war," Reagan quipped, adding, "Bork."

Juvenile contract extended

Scurry County commissioners Monday agreed to a one-year contract extension with Lubbock County Youth Detention Center with an expansion from 20 to 50 beds to accommodate a stricter local enforcement of juvenile statutes.

County adult and juvenile probation officer Larry Thompson said the additional space was needed because District Attorney Ernie Armstrong and District Judge Gene Dulaney have joined him in a crack-down on juvenile delinquents.

"We're not messing with them any more," he told the Snyder Daily News after his presentation, explaining that the Lubbock center is used as an interim detention center for incorrigible offenders before they are sent to the state center in Brownwood.

He said state funds are used to pay the $45-per-bed charge with Lubbock County, so Scurry County funds are not required.

In other business, the commissioners voted to nominate Dwaine Williams for reappointment to the county appraisal district board and accepted the request of several persons for the county to assume the maintenance of a half-mile residential road intersecting Pleasant Hill Rd. east of town following a presentation by Myron Fenton, one of the residents.

Appraisal district balloting now underway for 5 entities

Voting by five local taxing entities for two-year terms on the Scurry County Appraisal District board is about to begin again and Snyder city council members have slated it as an agenda item for the regular October meeting.

The council will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday at city hall.

Of the five-member appraisal district board, the current indication is three will not be available to serve a new term, Pete Hester, Ross Blanchard and John Reed. Remaining board members are Mairl McFaul and Dwaine Williams.

Every two years, the terms expire for each member of the five-member board.

Each county taxing entity--with the exception of Western Texas College--has the option to nominate up to five individuals for these seats.

Once the nominations are complete, the taxing entity boards meet again to cast ballots. The number of ballots each entity has is determined by the size of its tax base. The city has only approximately 4 percent of the total vote.

The entity controling the most votes is Snyder ISD with more than 66 percent. Scurry County has some 20 percent; Ira ISD some 6.5 percent; and Hermleigh ISD less than 2 percent.

The number of total votes for the five entities is 5,000. The number of votes apportioned to each is Snyder ISD, 3,320; Scurry County, 1,040; Ira ISD, 326; City of Snyder, 218; and Hermleigh ISD, 96.

The entities may cast all of their votes for one member or divide up their votes among more than one candidate.

The various entities are to complete the nomination process before Oct. 14. The appraisal district then prepares the ballot and voting, which must be done in open session, is to be com-

DA's right to appeal among ballot options

Vote

Proposition 14 on the upcoming amendment ballot would give the state a limited right of appeal in criminal cases.

Supporters say the measure will give the state the same right that defendants have to seek review and correction of errors.

"As a result, guilty defendants can go free due to an error and the state can do nothing about it," a proponents' spokesman said. "This change would bring Texas more in line with the rest of the nation because it is now the only state that flatly bans all appeals by the state in criminal cases."

Under implementing legislation that would become effective if the amendment were approved, a district attorney would be required to certify that an appeal was not for the purpose of delay and was important to the case.

Opponents say situations in which a prosecutor would need to appeal are rare because most judges are reluctant to suppress evidence or quash an indictment without a compelling reason.

"Over-zealous prosecutors could use a state right of appeal to harass people that they know they could not convict, especially in politically important cases," a spokesman said.

"Many defendants have great difficulty paying an attorney to represent them at trial. Having to pay for one or more interlocutory appeals filed by the prosecution before the case even goes to trial would be an unreasonable burden on the defendant."

Clerk asks update on addresses

County Clerk Jenna Vee Miller has issued a request for voters who have changed addresses within the past two years to update their records with her office.

"Records may be changed in person, or the proper forms will be mailed upon request," she said. "Unreported changes may result in the cancellation of a voter's registration."

Miller said renewal certificates will be mailed to all registered Scurry County voters in late November and early December. The certificates are non-forwardable and will be returned to the clerk's office if they are undeliverable.

She noted the deadline has already passed to register to vote for the Nov. 3 constitutional amendments election. That date was Oct. 4.

This coming Nov. 14 is the last day to make changes before the voter registration renewal certificates are mailed, she said.

'Copter crash

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A U.S. Marine helicopter crashed near the U.S. Navy's command ship in the Persian Gulf and one of four crew members was missing, U.S. officials said today.

Tehran meanwhile announced it was placing its gulf bases on "full alert" after Iranian naval maneuvers that prompted U.S. authorities to briefly divert a warship to the northern gulf.

Iran and Iraq, foes in the 7-year-old gulf war, reported heavy shelling across their border, resulting in the deaths of several civilians.

No hostile activity was involved in the helicopter crash, which took place as the UH-1 copter was conducting routine night operations late Sunday.

U. S. clashes

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials charged today that U.S. plans to produce a new generation of chemical weapons could torpedo negotiations aimed at eliminating the world's dreaded stockpiles.

The Soviets made the allegations at a Foreign Ministry press conference following their weekend display of formerly secret chemical munitions at a military base in Sikhany, about 400 miles southeast of Moscow.

The top American negotiator at the chemical weapons talks, Ambassador Max A. Friedersdorf, sought to defend his government's policy at the press conference but was ruled out of order. He was a member of the foreign delegation that toured the Soviet chemical weapons facility.

High rate of heterosexual spread of AIDS found in the inner city group

NEW YORK — A study of inner-city residents infected with the AIDS virus found that one-third of the men and almost half of the women apparently got the infection through heterosexual contact, a rate far higher than that found in other studies.

The study was based on a questionnaire given to 4,000 men and women visiting a clinic for treatment of sexually transmitted diseases, Dr. Thomas Quinn, one of the study's authors, said Sunday. The anonymous men and women came from an area of Baltimore where drug abuse is common, he said.

Three percent of the women surveyed and 6.3 percent of the men had been infected with the AIDS virus, Quinn said.

Approximately one-third of the infected men and nearly half of the infected women denied being intravenous drug abusers or homosexuals or engaging in other behavior that would put them at special risk of getting AIDS, said Quinn, who is affiliated with Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

The assumption is that those respondents became infected through heterosexual contact, said Quinn, who didn't want to give precise figures about the anonymous respondents' sexual orientation until the study is published in a scientific journal.

Quinn and his colleagues did not attempt to investigate the individuals to determine whether they were being truthful on the questionnaires about their sexual orientation and use of drugs.

Still, he was "absolutely confident" these individuals became infected through heterosexual contact, he said in an interview after presenting the findings at a meeting of the Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, which is largely devoted to research on infectious diseases.

Many other studies have suggested that the fraction of AIDS-infected people who get the disease through heterosexual contact amounts to no more than a few percent.

A study to be presented this week by the New York City health department and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control found that only one in 205 men coming to a sexually-transmitted-disease clinic in New York City was infected with AIDS in the absence of drug use, homosexuality or other high-risk behavior.

Quinn said that his study used anonymous questionnaires specifically to encourage people to admit to drug abuse and other high-risk behavior that they might not confess in a personal interview, fearing retribution. The New York City study used interviews to identify high-risk behavior.

Furthermore, Quinn said the accuracy of his questionnaire was tested by asking respondents whether they had ever had syphilis and later testing them to see whether they answered correctly.

Ninety-five percent of the respondents told the truth about their history of syphilis, Quinn said.

Lupus Drives Despairing Mother Close to the Edge

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My doctor just told me that I have systemic lupus erythematosus. What do you know about this disease?

I am a 29-year-old school teacher, divorced, and have a 5-year-old daughter who stays with my mother most of the time. I feel so tired I can hardly keep up with my job. My problem developed shortly after my daughter was born. I developed a kidney infection and was never able to get my strength back.

I am taking some medicine that makes me retain fluid and have gained a lot of weight. My face looks like a pumpkin, and the dizziness, diarrhea, headaches and the swelling of my hands and knees have driven me close to the edge.

My doctor says that lupus is a rare, mysterious disease with no cure in sight. What I need most is someone to talk to. Can you help me?

LADY WITH LUPUS

DEAR LADY: Contact the Lupus Foundation of America. Through its literature I have learned that there are about 500,000 known lupus victims in the United States, and probably twice that number who don't even know they have it. Most victims are women in their 20s and 30s.

Lupus has been misdiagnosed, misunderstood and ignored for years. It's especially frustrating because most lupus sufferers "look" so well between episodes that no one can believe that their energy level is so low they can hardly breathe or drag themselves out of bed.

It's enormously comforting to know that you are not alone. I urge you, and other interested parties — including doctors and others in the health care field — to write to the Lupus Foundation of America Inc., 1717 Massachusetts Ave. N.W., Suite 203, Washington, D.C. 20036.

You will be sent up-to-date information on the foundation's treatment and research findings, as well as a list of nearly 200 support groups throughout the United States and Puerto Rico, and 45 affiliated groups throughout the world. This is a non-profit health organization, so please enclose a dollar for its material and a long, self-addressed, stamped (39 cents) envelope.

DEAR ABBY: "Zack" and I have been living together for over six years and are now planning a simple wedding by the local justice of the peace. Just the two of us and the attendants will be present.

The trouble is I would like to send out announcements of our marriage after we are married, but do not want it to look like I'm "hinting" for a wedding gift.

Is there a tactful way to accomplish this? Please help me out, Abby. My marriage awaits your response — I've already waited so long.

BEWILDERED BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BEWILDERED: Since you've waited this long, wait a few more months and send Christmas cards from "Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so." You can add a personal note to family and special friends. That way you'll get your message across without giving the impression that you're hinting for a gift.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a long-standing debate between me and a co-worker. What is the proper way for a gentleman to wear an identification bracelet? Should the name on the bracelet be readable by the wearer of the bracelet or the onlooker?

CONFUSED IN MILLBURN, N.J.

DEAR CONFUSED: I do not know whether there is a "wrong" or "right" way to wear an ID bracelet, but common sense tells me that it should be worn so that "onlookers" can read it. The wearer knows his name.

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about sex, drugs and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. ## M&F Plastic Pipe has variety of sizes

M & F Plastic Pipe is your locally owned dealer for polyethelene pipe, sales and rental, with a wide range of sizes and pressure ratings.

Polyethelene pipe is now replacing steel pipe and PVC pipe in many areas. It is much more versatile than PVC and more economical than steel. It's flexibility makes it easier to handle, therefore saving you time and labor. The durability of this pipe has been proven under all kinds of weather conditions and it can be re-spooled and re-laid several times without damage to the pipe.

They have spooling trailers, reel trailers and a spooling truck to handle pipe up to three inches. Pipe that is four inches or larger comes in joints and must be laid by hand. It is "welded" together by using an electric iron that melts each end of the pipe and then it fuses when put together. This eliminates the worry about leaks from bad threads or not being tight enough such as in steel pipe or the hassle of cleaning and gluing as in PVC.

Poly pipe can be used for water lines in homes, stock tanks, water wells, water supply for drilling, transfer lines, gas lines or production flow lines.

They will lay new or used pipe, provide you with valves, fittings, ditching, etc. to suit your needs and will also repair your lines, relocate it or replace it if needed.

M & F Plastic Pipe is owned and operated by Ricky and Teresa Trammell. Please feel free to call them or Darby K. Scott, manager, for prices or information at 573-8612.

Your Birthday

Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1987

In the year ahead you will be able to achieve proper harmony and balance in your life. Your worldly ambitions and your pleasurable desires will compliment one another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Agreements that you strike today may not be destined for success; neither party will attempt to fulfill that to which they agreed. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Co-workers will start shifting their burdens to you today if they think they can get away with it. Help where you can, but don't do all their work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is not a good day to get involved in anything where you are depending more on Lady Luck than on your own abilities to direct your destiny.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, if you have to deal with big shots, don't be overawed by their titles and award them more power then they actually have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Heated discussions could create unnecessary trouble for you today, so be careful. Don't debate issues with an acquaintance who loves to argue.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't participate in any type of financial involvements today about which you have misgivings. In this case, it's best to abide by your instincts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Treat an important negotiation with kid gloves today. You could be on weak ground in this arrangement. Don't underestimate the other guy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be unrealistically generous today. Don't give something of value away on impulse or make a commitment that you might later regret.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid gatherings today where there are likely to be people who make you feel uneasy. You can do without their company.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to put yourself in a position today where you have to rely on others to fulfill your ambitious objectives. Be a loner if necessary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your powers of persuasion might not be too effective today. There's a chance you may try to force your ideas on people who are not receptive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extremely careful today about how you handle your personal finances. Also, think twice before offering economic advice to another.

Conflicts are surfacing in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — After a little more than a year on the job, conflicts between school board members and the superintendent may lead to her departure, sources close to the district's head say.

Several school sources who spoke only on condition they not be identified told The Houston Post that Superintendent Joan Raymond will either be ousted by the board or resign in six months to a year if the current situation continues.

"Either her choice or theirs, it's fair to say she'll be gone if things don't change," one top administrator in the Houston Independent School District said.

Three board members — Elizabeth Spates, Bobby Ann Peiffer and Ginia Wray Wright — deny they are attempting to force Ms. Raymond out.

Some officials dispute illegal entries of aliens

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite records showing new immigration laws halved the number of illegal aliens arrested while trying to cross the border, some immigration experts say illegal entry has not slowed.

"I think it's an illusion," said Pan American University's Gilbert Cardenas, who has researched the immigration issue for several years.

Jorge Bustamante of the University of Northern Frontier at Tijuana, Mexico, said a year-long study involving daily monitoring of border crossing areas revealed no observable changes in the numbers of people coming across.

Bustamante told The Houston Post that the new immigration law is a political law and not one of economics because studies show the services provided by the illegals in the United States far outweigh any burden they may be to society.

He said the Immigraton and Naturalization Service statistics showing employers are complying with the law are meaningless because the figures involve mostly big corporations.

"The overwhelming number of undocumented workers in the United States are hired by companies with no more than 15 employees," Bustamante said.

He said his research indicates many of these employers would not hesitate to hire illegal aliens in the future, despite the new law.

Employer sanctions in the Simpson-Rodino immigration law are credited with a nearly 50 percent drop in the number of illegal immigrants arrested in Texas in September, compared to the record-setting number for the same period last year.

U.S. Border Patrol records show only about 36,220 illegal immigrant arrests this September, compared with 72,041 in September 1986.

Quarterly figures provided by the agency show there were 43,435 arrests in August, compared with 69,806 in August 1986 and 62,817 in August 1985.

The reports also show there were 43,816 arrests in July of this year, compared with 69,247 in July 1986 and 57,791 in July 1985.

Getting off to the best lead

By James Jacoby

Does it seem unusual that South opened one diamond rather than one club? That choice, plus the subsequent bidding, can be explained by his use of a one-club opening to show 16 or more high-card points. South was happy to then come in freely with two clubs over East's one-spade overcall. (But what if East had jumped to three spades?) West's jump to three spades was pre-emptive — a modern device that steals bidding room from the enemy. But North had a counter. Four spades seemed just right with a spade void, excellent club support, and aces in the red suits. Despite the five-spade intervention by East, South trusted his partner's cue-bid enough to bid the small slam in clubs.

The lead of the singleton heart made declarer's life easy. He won in his hand, drew trumps, cashed the second high heart and ruffed a spade in dummy. Now ace of hearts and a heart ruff made the hearts all good. When the diamond king dropped singleton, he had 13 tricks.

All that seemed easy enough, but the opening lead was ill-conceived. When the opponents have bid to a slam that they expect to make, it is not usually right to lead one of their suits, even if it's a singleton. Also note that East cannot have the ace of hearts, because he would have bid five hearts to show that ace instead of making a five-spade sacrifice bid. Try playing six clubs with a spade lead, pretending you haven't seen the East-West cards. You may well come up short.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

Doctors' titles are confusing

DEAR DR. GOTT — When I try to find a doctor in the telephone directory, there are so many different ways the names are listed, I am totally confused. Some simply list their names, followed by "M.D." Some state they are certified, some are diplomates, some are fellows and some are "members of ..." These designations must be important or the doctors wouldn't pay to have them there — but what do they mean? And why are some doctors incorporated?

DEAR READER — When doctors complete their training, they usually choose to be tested and certified in certain specialties. This is called "board certification" and is usually a good sign that the doctor is competent in his or her field. Not all good doctors are certified, but those who are have met a certain level of competence.

A doctor may also choose to become more active in the certification process. By meeting certain criteria, which vary from one specialty to another, he or she can become a "fellow" or a "diplomate" in the specialty. For instance, FACS means that the surgeon has not only passed his board exam but is a "Fellow of the American College of Surgeons."

To a large degree, these titles are honorary and simply mean that the doctor has advanced in his specialty. Such titles do not necessarily mean that your doctor is "better"; they indicate that the practitioner has mastered certain skills for which he or she has achieved recognition.

Doctors incorporate for financial reasons. The initials P.C. (professional corporation) after a doctor's name are no reflection of his or her ability or competence.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Others who want a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a very painful hip joint and went to a medical clinic that accepts Medicare assignment. I was given an injection in the joint, but a copy of the Medicare payment to the doctor showed the injection had been billed as "office surgery" for $27.50. Should I report the clinic to Medicare?

DEAR READER — In folk mythology, Procrustes was a cruel highwayman who forced his victims to lie on a bed. If they were too short for the bed, Procrustes stretched them; if they were too long, he cut off their legs. The term "Procrustean bed" has survived into modern times as a metaphor for those people who try to force others to fit a preconceived mold or notion, rather than altering the circumstances to allow for individual variation.

Doctors often — and with good reason — play a Procrustean game with Medicare, Medicaid and private insurers. We have to adapt the patient's diagnosis and treatment to the rules promulgated by bureaucracies. In order to receive payment, the doctor coded his procedure to agree with Medicare guidelines. Although you didn't truly have "office surgery," you did, in fact, have it because the doctor stuck something in you and the procedure was billed in a language that is understood by government workers who spend their lives dealing with this kind of thing. If you had been charged $275 you would have an obligation to complain, but $27.50 seems reasonable to me for a shot. Welcome to the strange land of Procrustes.

Pop music replaces politics

ABOARD THE PEACE SHIP (AP) — The Voice of Peace, a floating pirate radio station that once crisscrossed Middle Eastern war fronts to spread its message, has forsaken politics for pop music and cigarette commercials.

The word "peace" is rarely mentioned, except in the station identification, in which a booming voice tells millions of listeners from Alexandria to Damascus in English, Hebrew, French and Arabic: "From somewhere in the Mediterranean, we are the Voice of Peace."

The station's founder, flamboyant Israeli Abie Nathan, said in a recent interview that the peace issue has been on the back burner since the 1979 Egypt-Israeli peace treaty.

"Times have changed. Tension is less in the region today than when we first arrived in May 1973," said Nathan, 60, who flew fighter planes and made millions selling hamburgers on Tel Aviv's Dizengoff Street before taking up the peace crusade in the 1960s.

"But the ship is still on standby for any emergency in the area, to get involved to bring people together," Nathan said.

The Israeli government has refused to grant the Voice of Peace an operating license, but navy patrol boats look the other way when the ship is within the three-mile limit of Israel's territorial waters.

In its heyday, the Peace Ship made headlines with spectacular acts, such as dodging bullets to broadcast peace messages from Beirut during the 1973 Arab-Israeli war and, two years later, delivering 100,000 flowers to the people of Egypt in a gesture to encourage peacemaking.

But the traveling days are over and the 48-year-old former cargo vessel with two baby blue doves painted on the bridge is anchored off Tel Aviv.

The 500-ton ship is pointed out to sightseers, and its British disc jockeys are regular customers at the White House, a tavern frequented by a young crowd.

The station broadcasts around the clock from two small shipboard studios, playing mostly pop music, said program coordinator Mike Darby, 31, of Birmingham, England.

"We used to play peace songs all the time, but people got fed up," said Nathan.

Up to 15 commercials an hour for anything from cigarettes to jeans provide money to cover the station's monthly expenses of about $30,000.

Nathan said extra money goes to charitable projects, such as taking elderly people to the Western Wall, Judaism's holiest site, during the Jewish High Holidays.

Nathan, who in the past raised money for Cambodian refugees and distributed relief supplies to Central American earthquake victims, said he plans to broadcast a South African song every hour as part of a new campaign for the release of imprisoned black guerrilla leader Nelson Mandela.

"But the reality is that there is not so much to do with peace on the Peace Ship. said disc jockey Tim Shepherd, 24, of Birmingham. "It's more of a music station."

In deference to its original mission, the station observes a daily moment of silence for the war dead everywhere.

City officials defending hunting trip

CORSICANA, Texas (AP) — Three municipal officials found nothing illegal or unethical about a weeklong Wyoming hunting trip hosted by an engineering firm which oversees the city's two largest construction projects, a published report says.

The Corsicana Daily Sun reported on Sunday that City Manager Craig Lonon, Mayor Jim Gill, and City Commissioner Patrick Sherman traveled to the Medicine Bow Lodge near Saratoga, Wyo. The trip last month was hosted by Knowlton-English-Flowers Inc., a Bedford, Texas, firm.

The company is consultant on a $4 million water intake and pump station, which was recently completed, and on a $1.3 million project at a water treatment facility.

Unlike contractors, consulting firms are not hired through a bidding process. The city manager is given the discretion to choose consulting firms without going through a bidding process.

The firm has been taking city officials to the combination hunting trip-seminar for about 10 years, he said. Bill Flowers, a partner, said his company's attorneys determined it was not illegal to offer the trip.

Flowers said Gill, Sherman, Lonon and city engineer Gary Anderson have attended in the past.

He said officials from several other cities have attended the service clinics in the past.

Corsicana's city officials departed Sept. 16 from Fort Worth, arriving the next day in northern Wyoming, according to an itinerary provided by Flowers to the newspaper. The caravan returned Sept. 22 to Fort Worth.

Seminar participants were treated to hunting, fishing and sightseeing when they were not viewing videotapes about the consulting firm. Flowers said the company showed about four hours of videotapes when participants were "eating or standing around discussing."

"We have checked this out with the Internal Revenue Service and our attorneys, and there is absolutely nothing wrong with this," he said. "We checked it out because we were concerned there might be some misinterpretation of this being somewhat shady."

Flower said the company paid for transportation, room and board and guided fishing and hunting expeditions.

He said he did not know the exact cost of the trip. Up to 16 city officials from various communities attended, he said.

Lonon said he was not concerned about appearances because he assumed the company would not offer the trip if it were illegal.

Gill said the seminars were very beneficial.

"I have never cast a vote that would have allowed the company to make a nickel. The trip didn't cost the city a dime, and we got a lot out of it because of the interaction with other city officials," Gill said.

Three-day antelope hunts in the area cost about $775 per person, Lisa Fluty, a receptionist at Elk Mountain Safari in Saratoga, Wyo., told the Corsicana newspaper.

Four-day deer hunts can cost up to $1,375 and seven-day elk hunts are about $2,100 per person, she said. Trophy hunters are required to pay an additional 25 percent, she said.

Selection pleases people in Mexico

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — The nomination of Carlos Salinas de Gortari by Mexico's ruling party for president drew instant praise Sunday in the northern border state of Nuevo Leon, his family's home.

Jubilant business and political leaders in Monterrey, the state capital and the most important industrial center in the north, lauded the party's choice in private interviews and at a public fiesta Sunday at the headquarters of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI.

More than 1,000 people, many holding hastily made banners bearing Salinas' name, gathered outside PRI headquarters for a midday celebration Sunday.

Salinas de Gortari, of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, will certainly be elected Mexico's next president on July 6, 1988.

He will succeed President Miguel de la Madrid for a six-year term starting Dec. 1, 1988.

"He created the current administration's economic policy. The route he took with the economy is the right one," said Fernando Sada, president of the Nuevo Leon Chamber of Industry.

"We can hope that there's a continuation of those economic policies," Sada said in an interview at chamber offices.

Salinas de Gortari, de la Madrid's current budget secretary, is given much credit for helping Mexico survive its worst economic crisis in modern history.

"We can't be doing experiments every six years. We have to select a road and follow it," Sada said.

Salinas was chosen from a group of six men named as possible presidential candidates.

"It's Salinas de Gortari," the daily Monterrey newspaper El Diario announced in its Sunday morning edition, even before the official announcement came from Mexico City of the party's choice.

El Diario's regular afternoon edition Extra said, "Carlos Salinas de Gortari will be the next president of Mexico" and even went so far as to note that his wife, Cecilia Occelli "will be the country's next first lady."

The daily El Norte newspaper published a rare special edition of six pages dedicted to Salinas de Gortari who, on his last visit to the state, was quoted as saying, "The Salinas family has its roots in the north. I feel, in my heart, from Nuevo Leon."

Tech enraged at 'ugliest campus' tag

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech students and alumni were not terribly amused in 1984 when a Sports Illustrated writer named Douglas Looney branded their campus the United States' ugliest.

"Looks as if they should cancel classes and convert the school into a prison," hissed Looney, forked tongue in cheek.

Looney didn't appease Tech loyalists much when he went on to proclaim Austin as "best town" and the University of Texas Longhorn band as "best band."

The ugly-campus comment triggered a spate of nasty responses, among them a letter from Bill Dean, executive director of Texas Tech's Ex-Students Association.

Dean wondered in his letter to Looney if the writer had ever indeed set foot on campus and suggested that his accuracy, if not his ancestry, was certainly suspect.

Still, the issue soon died of natural causes.

But alas! Writing in a recent issue of Sports Illustrated, a magazine some say is the Bible of the sporting world, Looney struck again.

"Three years ago, we said in this space that Texas Tech has the ugliest campus," he purred. "An avalanche of mail disputed this assertion. So we have looked at the school again, rechecked the photos and consulted experts. We are not too proud to admit our mistakes.

"This, however, was not one of them."

Hardly was the ink dry before Lubbock cardiologist Joe Arrington Jr. fired off a letter to SI in which he took fierce exception to Looney's latest pronouncement. He concluded:

"Enclosed is the mailing slip from my subscription, cancel same and refund the above immediately."

Across town, Bill Dean, still the executive director of Tech exes, took pen in hand to again challenge Looney's accuracy and fairness and to decry repetition of what he called "this slur."

He also canceled a renewal of his son's subscription to SI and ended his letter thusly:

"Further ... I intend to write a letter addressed to all 91,000 graduates of this university and strongly encourage them to cancel their subscriptions to SI if they have one."

The September-October issue of the Texas Techsan contains an open letter to Tech exes in which Dean carried out his threat.

Meanwhile, Joe Hornaday, sports information director at Tech, wrote "Campus Evaluator" Looney in New York and, in a "Dear Doug" letter, said:

"I can't believe you did this to me again. Just when they had forgotten. Now it will happen all over again ... . You gotta help me."

Hornaday invited Looney to come to a Tech football game, offering him "a tour of the campus. Maybe even a parade. Or a picnic under one of the ugly trees ... Maybe a Sports Illustrated Ugly Man on Campus contest ... I might be able to even get you an ugly date."

In the meantime, Hornaday cautioned, "you might stay away from guys with cowboy boots who talk Texan."

KAMC-TV in Lubbock located the "ugliest" spot it could find on campus and provided a live report on the controversy. Grumbled sports anchor Rick Hayes:

"I've seen some real ugly schools, but Tech's not one of them ... It's not the prettiest place in the world, but it's not ugly."

Radio station KRLB, known around town as fiesty FM 99, conducted a contest to determine the "Ugliest Magazine Staff in America." SI was pretty much a unanimous choice, perhaps because those voting for SI were promised free Texas Tech "Big, Bad and Ugly" T-shirts.

FM 99 notified Looney of the contest results and sent him some "Ugly" T-shirts along with several photographs purportedly depicting the Tech campus. The pictures looked suspiciously similar to European river, mountain and garden settings.

In a recent letter to the folks at FM 99, Looney accepted the T-shirts "in good grace" and confessed that he somehow overlooked the river winding "majestically" through the campus.

In an on-air conversation, FM 99's Kelli D'Angelo and Dave Scott invited Looney to come tour the campus and maybe do a little snow and water skiing or perhaps some mountain climbing, an unlikely feat in the broad-flat landscape.

"You really are in the heart of mountain-climbing," quipped Looney, while inquiring if there was such a thing as a paved runway in Lubbock.

Last week, Texas Tech's newspaper, The University Daily, sought reaction from Tech's more than 23,000 students to the "ugliest campus" claim.

Most everyone disagreed with Looney's assessment, noting that the campus was "uncluttered" and "spread out" and that its "openness" was but one of its many charms.

LaRail Wilson, a freshman from Lubbock, put it this way:

"Tech is pretty compared to all the cotton fields. I've lived here all my life. Generally, I think West Texas is ugly. Texas Tech does a good job of making the campus look beautiful."

In a parting shot at the University of Texas, Ms. Wilson added: "Tech is prettier than UT."

It's possible that Tech ex Joel Brandenberger of Austin got in the best, if not last, word. In a letter printed the other day in SI, Brandenberger claimed that Looney's second shot demanded rebuttal.

He quoted an objective observer named Ron Reid who once wrote that "...neither Texas Tech with its elegant campus nor air as clear as Steuben glass has enabled Lubbock to shake its unsophisticated image..."

The article describing the campus as elegant was entitled "A Real Lulu in Lubbock" and appeared on newstands in November 1976.

In Sports Illustrated.

Judge acquits drunk drivers

HOUSTON (AP) — Unless defendants fall down or exhibit other outrageous behavior in police videotapes, they are almost a cinch to beat drunken driving raps before County Court-at-Law Judge Bill Ragan, prosecutors say.

During a six-month period, Ragan acquitted 97.7 percent of accused drunk drivers appearing in his court after they opted to waive trial by jury, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

Criticism of Ragan's novel approach to settling DWI court trials doesn't faze the judge.

Scabs shine in Dallas victory

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It might be the only game they ever play in the NFL, a short but delicious taste of football's good life. For one day, at least, they were America's Team.

Kevin Sweeney, Kelvin Edwards, Alvin Blount, Mike Dwyer, Dale Jones and Tommy Haynes replaced more famous and accomplished Dallas Cowboys on Sunday and routed the New York Jets 38-24.

They had help from some of the strike-defying veterans, particularly Too Tall Jones, who led a defensive charge that totaled 11 sacks. But they were lead players, too, not just supporting actors.

"This game belonged to them," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said. "This was a showcase for them."

So Danny White, Tony Dorsett and Mike Renfro, three offensive regulars who crossed picket lines, watched from the sidelines. Sweeney, who replaced White at quarterback, completed just six passes. But three were for touchdowns and, as White said, Sweeney "was flawless running the team."

Blount rushed for 72 yards and a TD in place of "TD," who admitted "I feel apart" from his new teammates.

Edwards, who was with New Orleans for six games last year, caught 33- and 35-yard touchdown passes and, he hoped, "showed some people I can do the job in the NFL."

Haynes, a safety from Southern Cal, led Dallas with eight tackles, including two sacks. Dale Jones, a linebacker who was drafted in the 10th round out of Tennessee, was cut by both Dallas and Houston last month. Against New York, he had six tackles and recovered a fumble.

So did Dwyer, a demonstrative DT from Massachusetts who celebrated every outstanding defensive play with his arms raised and pumping in the air.

"You have to play like it's your last game," Dwyer said. "That's our situation. The guys who can make the most of this might have their dreams realized."

Sweeney's NFL dreams didn't seem far-fetched when he set the NCAA all-time passing yardage record of 10,623 yards at Fresno State. But he wasn't selected until the seventh round of April's draft, then was cut in preseason.

"Danny came in off a bad wrist and he had to sort of learn how to throw all over again," Sweeney said. "I'm not saying I was treated unfairly because I wasn't, but he got a lot more turns and I was unable to get them.

"Hopefully, this will help me here or somewhere."

The Cowboys got plenty of help from the Jets Sunday. But they weren't exactly overpowering either — except on the pass rush.

There were 26 penalties in the game, the most critical a pair of pass interference calls against New York that helped set up Dallas touchdowns. The Jets had five turnovers — three fumbles and two interceptions — and Dallas had four.

Raiders gear up for Arkansas

LUBBOCK (AP) — As Texas Tech celebrated its 27-21 upset of Texas A&M Saturday, someone asked coach Spike Dykes what his Red Raiders must do to beat Arkansas this weekend in Lubbock.

"Oh, shoot," he cracked, "I'm not going to start thinking about Arkansas for at least 10 minutes."

He was all smiles.

Tech's crucial Southwest Conference triumph over the defending champion Aggies was Dykes' most important as the newly installed Tech coach, hiking the Raider record to 3-2 and 1-1 in conference action.

"It's a great victory for Texas Tech against a great football team from Texas A&M," he said. "I'm proud of our football team.

"We did some things we haven't been able to do. Our offense did move the ball with a high degree of consistency. The defense made the plays you have to make to win the big games."

Baylor looks like 1974 team

WACO (AP)--The Baylor Bears are beginning to look like the lightly regarded 1974 team that became the school's first Cotton Bowl participant.

The current Bears, generally selected for a second division berth in preseason polls, lead the Southwest Conference with a 2-0 ledger after Saturday night's 30-18 victory over Houston.

"There's a resemblance between this team and the one I had in 1974," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "We'll just have to see if we can hang in there down the stretch."

Baylor hosts Southwest Texas State on Saturday and doesn't resume SWC action for two weeks when Texas A&M comes calling.

Arkansas, the preseason SWC favorite, bounced back from a 51-6 humiliation by Miami with a 20-10 victory over Texas Christian.

Texas outlasted a scrappy Rice team with a 45-26 victory, the Longhorns' 22nd consecutive victory over the Owls.

The Horned Frogs haven't won a conference opener since 1958.

Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield said he had never been prouder of a victory.

"I've never been part of a win that meant more," Hatfield said. "After last week's game when we fell behind 10-0 we could have quit. But we didn't."

In games this week, TCU is at Rice 1:30 p.m., Houston is at Texas A&M 2 p.m., and Arkansas is at Texas Tech 7 p.m.

The SWC has yet another chance for glory against a Top Ten team this weekend.

Top-ranked Oklahoma meets Texas at Dallas in a nationally televised 1:45 p.m. game.

"Oklahoma will probably be 50 point favorites," said Texas Coach David McWilliams.

The SWC has lost five of six games against Top Ten competition this fall and is 13-11 in outside games.

Rangers season over--finally

ARLINGTON (AP) — Texas Rangers manager Bobby Valentine looked up from the desk in his clubhouse office after his team lost for the fourth straight time to bring the 1987 campaign to a close.

"I never thought I would be glad to see a season end, but I'm glad this one is over," Valentine said on Sunday.

In pre-season, many writers and sports publications predicted the Rangers — a pleasant surprise in 1986 — would win the American League West in 1987.

Instead, they tied California for last place with a 75-87 record, 10 games off Minnesota's winning pace.

"I'd like to forget about the negatives of this season as soon as possible. The season really didn't go the way we planned," Valentine said.

Texas started the season by losing 10 of its first 11 games, and finished by losing 11 of its last 13.

The Rangers got above .500 only twice all season. After battling to overcome their disastrous start, they finally pulled even at 49-49 on July 27, only to lose six of their next seven games.

Seventeen times, the opponents scored the winning run in the ninth inning or later.

Team Snyder has first soccer loss

MIDLAND--Snyder's Senior Youth Soccer team, Team Snyder, was bested by their division nemesis, the Midland Blast (formerly the Bandits) Saturday by a score of 3-1.

The halftime score was 1-1, reflecting a balanced offense-defense competition. In the second half, the Blast overcame the Team Snyder defense by two goals for the win.

Teams Snyder is now 3-1 for the season and in solid second place in the junior high division. Their next opponent is Odessa.

RUIN HOMECOMING--The Ira Bulldogs nudged the Hermleigh Cardinals 16-15 Saturday afternoon to cloud Hermleigh's otherwise cheerful homecoming activities and 80th school anniversary. Here Brent Withers (30) carries for a gain behind the blocking of No. 10 Charles Barbee. Hermleigh defenders are Manuel Castillo (30), Mac Castillo (24), Eddie Whitehead (34) and tackler Rodney Foster. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ira spoils Cards' homecoming

HERMLEIGH – Brent Withers kicked Hermleigh right where it hurt - in the homecoming - as his two-point conversion boots lifted the Ira Bulldogs over the celebrating Cardinals 16-15 here Saturday afternoon.

The loss knocked Hermleigh out of the unbeaten ranks in the 4-1A East Zone to 1-1. Ira is also 1-1 in zone play.

Withers' winning kick came with 6:24 to play after Nasario Juarez scored for the visiting Bulldogs on a 14-yard run. Trailing 15-14, the 'Dogs went ahead to stay on the Ira senior's conversion kick.

Hermleigh had taken a 6-0 advantage into intermission when Rodney Foster hit Mac Castillo on a short screen pass that went for 34 yards and a touchdown. With 1:43 to play in the half, Hermleigh made it 7-0 as Eddie Whitehead tossed a 1-point conversion pass to Bobby Brown.

After halftime festivities which included the introduction of Hermleigh's 1937 team and the crowning of Foster as football hero and Carli Nichols as sweetheart, Hermleigh came back strong again.

The Cardinals reached the Ira 11-yard line before things went awry. Shane Bearden thwarted the TD attempt with an interception at the 1. Hermleigh still reaped points, however. On Ira's first play Brown caught Justin Spradlin in the end zone for a 2-point safety. With 2:26 to go in the third period, Hermleigh led 9-0.

The score boomed to 15-0 just 17 seconds later. Ira popped a sharp free kick that put Hermleigh on its own 36. The Cardinals turned it into points on their first play as Eddie Whitehead went back to pass, scrambled all over the field, then connected with Andrew Sanchez on a 44-yard touchdown catch-and-run. Whitehead tried to dropkick the conversion, but it missed with 2:09 to go in the period.

Apparently undaunted, Ira went to work. The Bulldogs marched down the field on a 24-yard toss from Chuck Barbee to Gary Gunset which ended at the Hermleigh 4-yard line. Two plays later, Spradlin went over for the touchdown. Withers' points-after kick made the score 15-8 with 20 seconds to play in the third period.

It appeared as if Hermleigh would stay on top moments later when Whitehead broke a 43-yard run to the Ira 8-yard line. The Bulldog defense stiffened and held, however, and a fumble on fourth down thwarted the effort.

Taking over at the 47, Ira quickly moved downfield. Barbee found Spradlin on a deep pass to the Cardinal 14, and Juarez ran it over from there on the next play - setting up Withers' go-ahead conversion.

Hermleigh was able to get the ball back twice more, but could not manage to score.

Hermleigh will bus to Trent this Friday while Ira will enjoy an open date after McCaulley cancelled its schedule.

Snyder volleyball girls move into second place

FORT STOCKTON--The Snyder Tiger volleyball team is back in the thick of the District 2-4A race following a victory over the Panthers Saturday.

Coach Vicki Nelms and squad posted identical 15-11, 15-11 victories over Fort Stockton Saturday and moved into a tie for second place with Lamesa, the state Class 4-A defending champion.

A big week is in store for Snyder. On Tuesday, the varsity travels to Sweetwater. "Every game is important," said Coach Nelms. "At this point you can't afford to lose another one or to look ahead."

Snyder is 7-2 in district play and 13-7 for the season. On Saturday, the Tigers play host to undefeated Pecos, the defending district champion.

Tuesday night in Sweetwater, the freshmen will play at 5 p.m. followed by the junior varsity at 6:30 and the varsity at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday's games against Pecos include the freshmen at 12:30 p.m. the junior varsity at 2 p.m. and the varsity at 3 p.m.

Against Fort Stockton, Sandra Morin and LaFon Williams each served for seven points. Williams had two aces and Morin one.

Melody Pickering had six points with one ace. Becky Becerra had five points with a pair of aces while Sandra Powell added five points.

Snyder netters post wins over Ft. Stockton, Andrews

FORT STOCKTON--Snyder High School netters played their best tennis of the fall season and secured a tie for second in district standings following impressive team victories over Fort Stockton and Andrews Saturday.

Coach Charlie Chrane was pleased with his team's performance describing it "as the best match of the year." It was also the first time in a number of years for Snyder to defeat Andrews, Chrane said.

Snyder will host San Angelo Lake View Tuesday afternoon and expects stiff competition since Lake View defeated Snyder in a practice match earlier this season. The Snyder-Lake View battle will likely determine who will advance to regionals along with the district leader, Monahans.

Against Fort Stockton, Snyder almost made a clean sweep, losing only one boys singles match for a 17-1 victory.

Against Andrews, Snyder posted a 12-6 victory with Snyder winning all three boys doubles matches.

WTC rider wins first

ALPINE--Saddle bronc rider Shawn Goemmer paced the Western Texas College rodeo team last weekend at the Sul Ross Rodeo. The men's team finished fifth and the women placed third.

Goemmer scored an overall 146 for the first place finish. Teammate Troy Budvarson placed fourth with a 137.

In steer wrestling, Scott Sharp was second in the long round, second in the short-go and finished second overall with a 11.8 Sharp also competed in the calf roping but did not place.

WTC's Michael Gaffney was first in the first round of bull riding, but failed to place in the finals.

In team roping, WTC's Tom Figeroa and Wesley Gouge of Vernon Regional Junior College took third with a 17.4 after taking third in the short-go with an 8.4

For the WTC women, Sandy Scott was third in the break away roping with an overall 8.0, but Scott failed to place in the barrel race.

Sul Ross captured the championship with 275 points followed by Odessa College with 230. Eastern New Mexico was third with 135 followed by Tarleton with 130 points. WTC was fifth with 80 points.

For the women, Tarleton was first with 135 points followed by Eastern New Mexico with 115. Western Texas was third with 30 points.

Coach Bob Doty and his team travel to Vernon Thursday for additional rodeo action.

Proxy marriages on rise in prisons

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — When John and Pam Indo were married, he had a bachelor party in his cell within the Texas Department of Corrections while she toasted at a fancy restaurant.

The Indos are just one of many couples who are being married by proxy involving prison inmates and brides on the outside. Many of the couples meet through personal ads or volunteer programs.

"It used to be rare," said Prison Chaplain Carroll Pickett. "But now, I'm handing out six to 10 forms a month at my prison unit alone."

The Walker County's clerk's office, in the heart of Texas' prison system, also has noticed the steady increase.

"It's picked up considerably in the last five to six years," Chief Clerk Jaime Clarke told the Houston Chronicle.

Many of the relationships started out when inmates became pen pals with their future brides.

The couples connect through personal ads in everything from biker magazines to religious publications. Sometimes they are introduced by outside friends or meet through volunteer programs.

Some even travel thousands of miles to talk to each other through glass screens in crowded visiting rooms. Some fall in love and marry each other, sight unseen.

The Indos were pen pals before she proposed. They married three years before his release.

Indo, a new parolee, estimates one of five prison relationships are sincere.

"A lot of inmates try to exploit women through the mail," he said. "There were so many, I resented it."

That's why he never took money from his wife. He sent her the transcript of his trial so she'd know about his past: He killed both his parents in 1969 during a Thanksgiving vacation.

He was released seven months ago and both say they've found marital bliss in their small Houston apartment.

For Robert Excell White, the dean of Texas' death row, it began with a personal advertisement in a biker magazine placed by other inmates who wanted to surprise him.

The ad stated that White needed correspondence from a "nice, sincere-minded lady."

"I got several letters from that. In fact, I got 200. I got a lot of proposals," said White, who is accused of a bloody rampage in which four people were killed. "You'd be surprised the people out there who need love and moral support."

Six months later, in his 12th year on death row, White, 48, arranged a proxy marriage with a Montana woman.

But within a year, she telephoned to announce her plans for a divorce. He blames the break up on her recent business venture into selling X-rated videos and books.

Out-of-town travelers flip auto near Snyder

A 19-year-old Houston man, James Camberon, was listed in stable condition Monday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a one-car accident Sunday morning on U.S. 84.

Two of Camberon's companions, Ned Steck and David Jeter, both 18 and from Amarillo, were treated and released following the 7:30 a.m. crack-up four miles north of the city and less than one mile north of FM 1611.

The driver, 18-year-old Gordon Niebergall of Amarillo, was uninjured after the 1987 Jetta GL four-door he was driving went out of control.

According to reports, the southbound vehicle crossed the opposite lanes and flipped, coming to rest right side up in the opposite ditch.

The price of The Family Pack listed in Rosa's ad in Sunday's Snyder Daily News was incorrectly listed as $7.95, the price should have been $12.95. We regret any inconvenience this may have caused.

Clarence Brandley hearing enters 2nd week

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — State District Court Judge Perry Pickett asked a witness early in the evidentiary hearing of death row inmate Clarence Brandley a question on the minds of many.

"Do you know the meaning of an oath?" the judge inquired. "Is there anything you would like to add? Are you telling the truth?"

Pickett, a retired judge from Midland, has the unenviable task of deciding whether to recommend to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals if there's enough new evidence to merit Brandley a third trial on charges the Conroe High School janitor raped and strangled a 16-year-old girl in 1980.

Testimony resumes Tuesday in Galveston, where the hearing — moved to escape what the judge termed an atmosphere of fear in Montgomery County — enters a second week.

But is there any new evidence? Will Brandley get a new trial? Can he be tried yet a third time? Can any of the some two dozen witnesses to testify so far be believed?

Who is telling the truth? Is anyone telling the truth?

"Some of these witnesses are on their seventh story," a frustrated District Attorney Peter Speers said. "But let's put it this way. I don't think there's any legal basis to support why he should get a new trial. And I don't anticipate one."

As for all that's been accomplished so far, Speers replies, "Taxpayers are out a good deal of money."

Defense attorney Mike DeGeurin sees it differently.

"The big picture shows Clarence Brandley did not have a fair trial in 1981," DeGeurin says. "Credibility in the big picture is what we're looking for."

The hearing so far has proved racial tensions were a factor in Brandley's trial, that investigators unnecessarily hurried to make an arrest, that witnesses were intimidated and Brandley was isolated, DeGeurin says.

"There's no question in anybody's mind he did not get a fair shake," he says.

Some of the characters who have sat in the witness chair so far are straight out of a movie casting call.

There's Ickie Peace, the Conroe janitor who says he can neither read nor write. Peace, a diminutive man with a squeaky voice and a belt loaded with keys, was with Brandley when the two of them found the body of Cheryl Fergeson on Aug. 23, 1980.

Violence's intensity causes concern

DALLAS (AP) — Student stabbings and fights are increasing in intensity in North Texas schools, prompting concern among parents and administrators who are searching for solutions to curb the violence.

Although the number of violent acts are not increasing, the intensity of the violence in schools is increasing for some unknown reason, Dallas Independent School District Superintendent Linus Wright said.

"They are more severe, more hostile, and I'm concerned," Wright said.

Students, parents, teachers and administrators across Dallas grappled with the ramifications of one of the worst football-related incidents in the district's history two weeks ago.

Five students were stabbed and one was treated for a head injury when a fight broke out after the game between football fans of opposing teams of Carter and Roosevelt high schools.

This past week, one Carter student was arrested for fighting with coaches after he was asked to leave a pep rally he was disrupting, police said.

And in a separate incident, a Roosevelt student was arrested for allegedly punching one of his school's football players and then hitting a coach attempting to break up the fight, police said.

Although police are uncertain whether these two incidents were related to the stabbings, officials are concerned about the violence within the two schools.

DISD spokesman Rodney Davis says students are arrested regularly throughout the district. But since the Roosevelt and Carter incident, the district has been watching those two schools closely.

Other area high schools are taking a closer look at their own students and have begun planning preventive measures to curb possible violence.

At Adamson High School, principal Edward Baca met with his coaches to outline a plan to keep emotions in line and PTA presidents from across the district discussed reviving "Dads Clubs" to patrol high school football games.

Other plans under consideration throughout the district include adding more security guards to some stadiums, changing two-way streets to one-way traffic during games to help manage crowds and locking the gates between rival teams' bleachers.

"We are optimistically cautious," said John Kincaide, DISD athletics administrator. "We are optimistic that we have a strong, wholesome athletic program.

Statistics show that in the first month of this school year, officials have confiscated 10 weapons in schools throughout the district, a decrease from the 17 confiscated during the same period last year.

Hoccheim carries variety of insurance

Farm mutuals developed in the late 1800s when Texas was experiencing tremendous population growth in rural areas. The big city companies were not very interested in providing insurance protection for farmers, so the farmers got together and created their own way of helping families who suffered losses.

A farm mutual is really an association of individuals which operates through a system of lodges, locals, or branches. It has no stockholders and is non-profit. Each policy holder is actually an owner of the company and has a voice in the election of branch officers as well as the board of directors who govern the operation of the company. Thus, farm mutuals can provide protection for their members at prices they can afford.

Hochheim Prairie protects its members against tragic losses on their houses, mobile homes, farm outbuildings and equipment, even satellite antenna systems. And, this coverage is available at very low rates. The Hochheim Prairie Farm Mutual Association, whose initials H.P.F.M.I.A. represent its goals of honest protection and fair minded individual attention, is a company you can be proud to be a member/owner of.

The branch manager for Hochheim Prairie in the Snyder and Scurry County is Carol Iglehart. She is assisted by Betty Kincheloe and Arlie Eicke. The office hours are 8 to 5, Monday through Friday. Call 573-1923 or 573-6588 for information or assistance.

Carol, Betty, Arlie and Amy McDaniel, secretary, look forward to serving your insurance needs. You are always invited to come by and compare Hochheim's rates to what you are presently having to pay. They will do their best to give you the best protection at the best price, with the best in personal service. So when you need property insurance, remember Hochheim Prairie.

Iowa Democrats charge admission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political stakes in Iowa's Democratic caucuses are so high and the process is so twisted that the state party has managed to cross an invisible threshold.

It can charge admission to explain how things work.

For $25 a head, some four dozen reporters in Washington spent an afternoon pretending they were at a Democratic precinct caucus in Adair County, Iowa, which lies amid farmland about 100 miles southwest of Des Moines.

The group included the usual gaggle from Washington and New York, but there were also a couple of them from London. There was even one from Iowa.

Iowa's importance draws not from its size — with 58 delegates, it ranks 25th among the states and territories — but from timing. Next Feb. 8 it will be the leadoff event toward choosing a Democratic presidential nominee at the national convention in Atlanta in July.

AP analysis

The caucus tradition in Iowa goes back to the last century. The state toyed with the idea of a primary but gave it up after holding one in 1916.

The process has endured over the years, and the paper to explain it has piled up, especially since the Democratic Party reforms of the 1960s and 1970s. The rules for the Iowa caucuses are 35 pages long; by contrast, the national party's rules for picking delegates take 16 pages.

The operation of an individual caucus is rather simple: On a given signal, people sitting in a classroom or some other kind of meeting hall scatter to regroup in corners, doorways or near other landmarks to show how many of them support one presidential candidate or another and to pick a proportional number of delegates to the next highest level.

The ersatz Iowans meeting in Washington last week chose among a field of five presidential candidates, two from the East, one from the Midwest and two from the South. Rumors circulated about the womanizing habits of at least three of them.

In the end, Thomas Jefferson carried 43 percent, Harry Truman had 33 percent and Grover Cleveland had 24 percent. Franklin Roosevelt and Andrew Jackson did not muster enough support to qualify for delegates from the precinct caucus to the county convention. The Jefferson supporters were nothing if not eloquent in trying to draw the undecideds into their camp: "Oh, come on, he has a swell monument."

In Iowa, something like this will happen 2,592 times in one night to pick some 15,000 people to attend 99 county conventions, where 3,001 delegates will be picked to go to congressional district and state conventions, where 52 of the state's 58 delegates to the national convention will be chosen.
