Community Gets Hospital Service

Hospital service is again available in Olton.

The community, without a hospital since 1958 now has a seven-bed facility.

Announcement of the expansion of the local clinic to provide hospital service was made Wednesday by Drs. C. B. Johns and O. H. Jones.

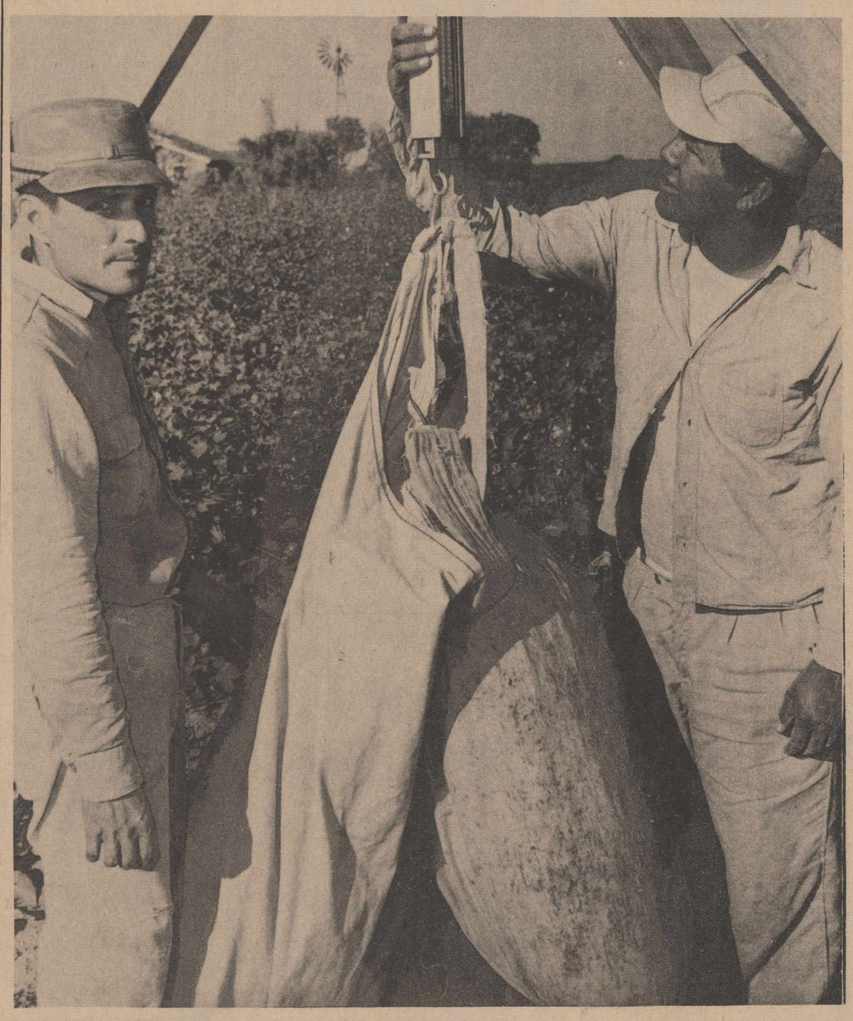

The institution, Community Hospital and Clinic, is open for treatment of general medical and surgical cases.

Mrs. Walter Lewis, R.N., has been named superintendent of nurses.

All hospital facilities for seven beds are available, along with surgical facilities and auxiliary equipment.

Laboratory, full diagnostic facilities and x-ray service are also offered.

"We hope to expand within the next year to possibly 12 to 15 beds," said Dr. Johns.

COTTON PULLERS on the Travis Bundick farm about eight miles north of Olton check the weight of a sack of cotton. Bundick has had several bales hand-pulled as have a number of other area farmers. Thus far three gins inside Olton city limits have ginned 156 bales. Many of the farmers are catching seed from the early cotton because of better germination. Ginners say stripping will probably be extra rough this year because of so much rank cotton.

HUBERT HARRISON, co-owner of Harrison and Mills Bean and Seed Co. looks over a load of black-eyed peas as they pour out of the cleaner. Only about another week remains on the pinto bean and pea crop with yields running high Bob Mills said the quality is poor, however, because of earlier bad weather. Both pinto beans and peas have been bringing farmers $5.50 a hundred.

Olton Tries Tough Tulia

Tulia's Hornets, undefeated this season, have been filing down their stingers this week, preparing to heap vengeance upon Olton's fast improving Mustangs.

Last year Tulia swarmed into town with an undefeated alignment and were upset 21-20 by the giant-killing Mustangs.

This season Olton will travel out-of-town for the game and will take on a band of Hornets, who have allowed only six points to be scored against them.

Tulia is a team which likes to win by big scores, and this has been their year to buzz. From their first game, when they knocked off Hereford, 22-0, to last week's 33-0 stomping of Dimmitt, the Hornets have crushed everything in their path.

After riding down the Whitefaces, Tulia turned its attention to White Deer and pole axed its opponents, 48-0. The following week, the Hornets romped past Muleshoe, 25-6, allowing the Mules a rare distinction of crossing the goal line.

Tulia's other victory was a 19-0 shutout of Wellington.

Football fans will see two of the finest backs in AA Friday according to poop by Coach and scout James Hyatt. They're Jim Arnold and Jeff Tucker.

Hyatt told Olton Quarterback members that the Hornets will run over you, outrun you and outman you. "Personally" added Hyatt, "I think they're better than Floydada."

The coach continued that Hornet quarterback Frank Hooper is a better passer than Lockney's Tommy Moore.

Both Tucker and Arnold have the break-away ability to go all the way. Against Dimmitt, Tucker opened the game with a 50-yard touchdown sprint and minutes later Arnold roared 92 yards to paydirt.

Hooper, who has thrown several touchdowns this season, has a knack for hitting receivers on extra point attempts. Charles Shelton has been his favorite receiver.

Boomed also as an exceptionally talented end is Tommy Kendrick.

Defensive standouts in prior Hornet games have been Billy Don Childers, Jim Pat Sharp, Shelton and Phillip Tucker.

Tucker will pay over the offensive center and will "red-dog" occassionally. Scout reports have Tucker branded as big and mean.

Hyatt said the Hornet's favorite offensive play is a full-back trap. They will come right back with a pitch to the tail-back with the wingback blocking in and the end blocking out.

Last year against Olton the Hornets fumbled four times and on each miscue a Mustang came up with the ball.

Olton, fresh from a 49-36 victory over Lockney, will go with the usual offensive alignment. Defensively, the Mustangs will go with the boys who can stop Tucker and Arnold.

Punt, Pass, Kick Time Approaching

Time is running out for Olton area grade school boys to enter the 1963 Punt, Pass and Kick Competition, sponsored locally by Mustang Ford Sales.

Friday at 6 p.m. is the last day that boys can sign up for the event. Boys age 8 to 11 are eligible to enter the contest and may do at Mustang Ford Sales. They must be accompanied by one of their parents at the time of the sign-up.

Actual competition is scheduled Monday at 6 p.m. at Olton Memorial Stadium. OHS coaches will help run off the event.

The public is invited to watch the grade school entrants in contests of punting, passing and kicking (using a kicking tee) footballs.

The Olton area competitors will be testing their football skills at the same time as thousands of other youths aged eight through 11 also will be competing in Punt, Pass and Kick Programs throughout the country.

Scores of the winners in each local competition will be wired to the National Punt, Pass and Kick Headquarters, for comparison and determination of state and area winners.

The winners in each age group in the 14 areas--the areas being set up in line with the television coverage of the 14 National Football League teams--will compete during half-time celebrations at NFl games, and eight finalists will competed at the National Football League Championship game, after a trip to Washington, D. C., and to Dearborn, Michigan, where the Henry Ford Centennial is being commemorated.

In Olton, as in all other local competitions, first prizes of warm-up jackets will be given winners in each of the five age groups, with football helmets and autographed footballs for second and third place winners.

Council Rubs Out Old Restriction On Negroes

Olton City Councilmen Tuesday night voted to remove all restrictions which might keep Negroes from owning property within city limits, erasing an ordinance which dated back to the early 1900's.

Lots in the original Olton townsection could not be owned by Negroes.

Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas said he thought color restrictions had been removed by past council rulings but for some reason lawyers kept asking new landowners to get clear titles.

Loan company lawers will not authorize loans on lots which restrict Negroes. Councilmen voted unanimously to remove the restrictions.

Another item which came in for detailed discussion was the mosquito and fly problem. Since the breakdown of the spraying machine, fly and mosquito population has rapidly increased.

W. F. Williamson, water supt. said the jet spraying machine had caught fire numerous times and that it almost burned up Friday. Williamson himself was on fire momentarily before he could snuff out the blaze with a blanket.

Councilmen discussed buying a new dusting or spraying machine, but no official action was taken. A number of the men made plans to go to Earth Wednesday and borrow that town's machine.

A humorous note in the sprayer discussion came when Williamson said a new dusting machine would cost $3,000. Bill Kemp quipped, "Those mosquitos aren't nearly as bad as I thought they were."

Councilmen also decided officially to reject both bids submitted earlier on digging a new city water well and to call for new bids.

Councilman Bob Gullett suggested hiring an independent company which would stand good for its work. The council believed such a step would save the city several hundred dollars.

City planners also reject the two high bids on laying a water line from the new well site to the storage tanks and accepted the lowest bid.

Winning the contract for $4,200 was Conklin Brothers of Plainview. The line will be 1,900 feet long. The new well will be

WILLIAMSON ESCAPES FIRE

W.F.Williamson, water supt., and operator of the mosquito spraying machine, narrowly escaped being burned last Friday when the sprayer caught fire.

Williamson said he was spraying the football field area when gasoline used to operate the jet ignited. The rear of the pickup was on fire, and Williamson attempted to put it out with a blanket.

As he did so, gasoline was sprayed on his clothes, and he too became inflamed. "I wrapped the blanket around me and smothered the flames," said the supt.

He finally extinguished the blaze by opening a fire hydrant near the south end of the football field and washing the pickup down.

The vehicle caught fire again as Williamson drove past the high school building. He ran inside for a fire extinguisher, which he used to douse the flame.

Warm Weather Aiding Cotton

Cotton and cotton farmers in the Olton area are beginning to take on a healthier glow since old man weather decided to puff hot and dry for several weeks.

For more than 20 days now temperatures have mounted toward the 90-degree mark, making for ideal cotton maturing weather.

Several farmers, however, felt their grain production might have suffered somewhat by the abrupt drying condition. Much of the sorghum hardly had enough moisture for a reading.

A smattering of farmers whose cotton is open have put laborers to harvesting it. Thus far Olton gins report 156 bales ginned off.

Dan Daniels, pinch-hitting for Owner Leo Smith at Smith Gin, said, "the earlier cotton is opening up real well. The last four weeks have been ideal."

He said if weather stays good, it won't be much longer until cotton harvest will pick up. Daniels added that cotton looks good now, despite its being green and hand-pulled.

Lloyd Graham, manager of the Co-Op Gin, said he hasn't heard much comment from farmers concerning yields and that the weather is still to be reckoned with.

Graham said one reason why farmers are hand-pulling cotton now is to catch their seed. "The early seed germinate better," he said, "and farmers want them for next year's planting."

Jack Straw said Wednesday things are a little slow and probably won't really pick up until after frost.

He too said most of the farmers bringing in cotton are catching seed. "The cotton crop is still uncertain," Straw speculated, "because if wet weather comes on and sap freezes in bolls, it's going to hurt."

Straw believes this year's cotton crop will be harder to gather with a stripper since rankness will make handling difficult.

BARTOW RILEY------Sawing away at his favorite instrument.

Fiddling Involved Hobby Of Olton's Bartow Riley

It's not hard to imagine a band of early settlers grouped around a camp fire, clapping their hands and patting their feet to a hoedown of fiddle music.

Some of the earlier breakdown fiddlers were good, but so are today's fiddlers. The 20th century musician has the knowledge of accumulated thousands.

In Olton there is a fiddler who would fit in perfectly anywhere breakdown music is played. He's Bartow Riley one of the best fiddlers around these parts.

What better proof is needed than the fact that Riley is a consistent fiddle contest winner. Thus far this year he has entered 13 contests. He has won first five times, second place twice and has placed third three times.

In the four contests in which Riley didn't place, he was competing against the best in the nation. Last April the Olton fiddler came in third in the National Fiddling Contest. He earned $150 for his efforts.

Riley can talk about violins and fiddles all day long and never repeat himself. For a hobby, it's one of the most involved a person could choose.

Besides his regular business, Riley repairs violins and fiddles in his spare time and has recently completed work on a fiddle of his own.

"You don't just make one out of a box," Riley said, showing the attractive instrument he had made.

Riley said that spruce is used for the top and usually curly maple for the back. He explained that calipers are used to be certain graduation of the top is exactly 10.64 hundreds of an inch thick and the back 12.64 hundreds of an inch.

If the top and back are too thick, the tone is hampered. Both the back and front of the fiddle must vibrate perfectly to produce the finest tones.

"It works on the same principal as a speaker cone," said Riley in explaining vibrations. He said also that the balance must be correct. Three things Riley pointed out as necessary for tone are quality of the wood, thickness and contour.

Riley doesn't have a bit of trouble recognizing violins made by the great master, Stradivarius and Guarnerius. "I can tell them by the kind of varnish they used," he explained.

Riley said if he knew the secret to the varnish of that day he could make millions of dollars.

He told that the varnish formula was lost and that no one had learned its secret. "It remained flexible," Riley said of the early-day varnish, "and allowed finer tones to vibrate from the violin." A well-repaired Stradivarius today is worth about $80,000.

When asked the difference between a fiddle and a violin, Riley said, "violins have a soft, deep tone and usually gut strings, whereas, a fiddle has a sharper sound and a more powerful tone.

Riley hasn't always been interested in fiddling, although his grandfather and father both played. "I had heard too many scrapers and squeakers to get really interested," Riley confessed.

But his interest was kindled about 10 years ago when he heard Bennie Thomason and Major Franklin, two of the best, playing at Hale Center. From that point, Riley took up fiddling in a serious way.

"Bennie has taught me every note I know, and I think he's the greatest in breakdown fiddling," said Riley.

Fiddling is no easy thing to learn. "Your ear must tell you where to put your fingers," said Riley, "there are no frets on

Other Crops Going Well

Perhaps the largest bean, pea and corn crops ever produced in the Olton area are being evidenced at the Harrison and Mills Bean and Seed Company.

Record pinto bean turnouts began rolling into the processing shed about two months ago, part of the 1,500 acres planted by Olton farmers.

This year, because of severe July and August weather, farmers went the pinto bean route and also planted large crop acreage.

Bob Mills, co-owner of the Olton-based company, said the quality of pinto beans this year has been poor but that yields have held up good.

He estimated the bean harvest would probably be completed in another week. "This year's bean crop hasn't been to profitable for farmers," said Mills, "but they only planted them in a have to case."

The businessman said that both peas and beans are bringing farmers $5.50 a hundred.

"There has been more corn planted this year than ever before, and it appears there will be more next year," Mills added.

HERE'S JUST ONE EXAMPLE of George Jones' fine night against Lockney, in which the Olton halfback raced for five touchdowns and kicked five extra points. Jones scored on this play from the three-yard line. Coming up for assistance was Leon Kendall (55). Jones gained 260 yards rushing in 21 carries during the ball game.

Olton Gets Wild 49-34 Victory Over Longhorns From Lockney

Olton's Mustangs and the Lockney Longhorns put on a wild and wooly show for two hours here last Friday night and the boys were still going strong when the whistle blew.

No one seemed the worse for wear except the scorekeeper. That poor, bedraggled fellow had tallied up 83 points---49 for Olton and 34 for Lockney.

What seemed to be a dream game for the Mustangs, leading 35-6 at the end of the third period, turned into a scoring nightmare in the final stanza.

The game got loose and ragged in the final three minutes as four touchdowns were scored--two by each team.

Before the dam broke, Olton had rolled to an impressive lead, completely overshadowing Lockney in a game that had been rated a toss-up at the start.

Jones had the finest night of his career, scoring five touchdowns and adding five extra points. He also rolled up 260 yards rushing on 21 carries and played just as well on defense.

And it was a fine offensive effort by the boys up front what paved the way for Jones' showing. Olton linemen repeatedly opened up gaping holes for the Mustang captain.

Two other Olton backs did well for themselves. Fullback Joe Costello found the running to his liking and carried 12 times for 121 yards and one touchdown. Quarterback Joe Priest carried 13 times for 66, and threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to End Darrell Glover. He also put on one of the finest runs of the night to get a pair of extra points for Olton.

Stalwarts in line play for Olton, both offensively and defensively were Dwight Clark, Don Sopher, Dennis Givens, Glover, Jerry LaFrance, and Don Mitchell. Also defensive aces this night were Richard Hall, Clyde Gallaway and Jackie Burkhalter.

The 65-yard drive was sparked by three jaunts by Jones, one for 33 yards. The touchdown came on a 10-yard scamper by George.

That was the scoring until 2:20 was left in the first quarter, when Lockney's Dale Galloway shocked the Mustangs with a screen pass to Rusty Smith. Smith went 56 yards for the touchdown and it was 7-6, Olton.

The Ponies came right back with a score, driving 60 yards in seven plays. Jones pulled off a 25-yard run to the Lockney 28, then Burkhalter, Priest and Costello combined with short gains for a first down at the 18.

Jones ran 13, then five for the touchdown and Olton led by 14 to 6 as the second period opened.

The teams traded punts until midway in the second quarter, then Olton drove 67 yards for a touchdown, using only nine plays.

Guard Leon Kendall got the first five yards, picking up a loose ball and driving for a five-yard gain.

Jones ran for 11 and a first down, then Priest raced 15 yards for another. Two carries by Jones gained 11 and a new first down at the 19-yard-line.

After Costello gained nine and Priest seven, Jones carried it over from the three and it was Olton by 20-6 with 3:57 left in the half.

Priest picked up a loose ball on the PAT attempt, was forced back to the 20, then swivel-hipped all the way for two points, making it 22-6.

Just before the half, Olton got the ball again and combined a 13 yard run by Costello and a 15-yard penalty against Lockney to move the ball to the Longhorn 19.

Jones raced all the way on first down to make it 28-6 at the half.

The third quarter was mainly a defensive battle, with Olton holding off the Longhorns early in the period.

Lockney got down to the Olton 29 before some stout defensive play by Glover, Jones, Burkhalter and Kendall stemmed the tide.

With just 27 seconds left in the quarter, Costello broke the show wide open.

He hit right guard, roared through a hole big enough for an elephant and raced 55 yards untouched, giving Olton a 34-6 lead. Jones kicked the point to make it 35-6.

The Longhorns needed a penalty to help them get that one, because the Mustang line was hanging tough. At one point, J. Curtis Hall broke through from his tackle position to grab a runner for a four-yard loss.

Lockney made it 35-18 with 7:45 left in the game, when H.G. Graham picked off a Tommy Hall pass and raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

The Mustangs called back the first-stringers, but the game turned even wilder. The two teams traded fumbles with Don Sopher grabbing one for the Mustangs at the Olton 22.

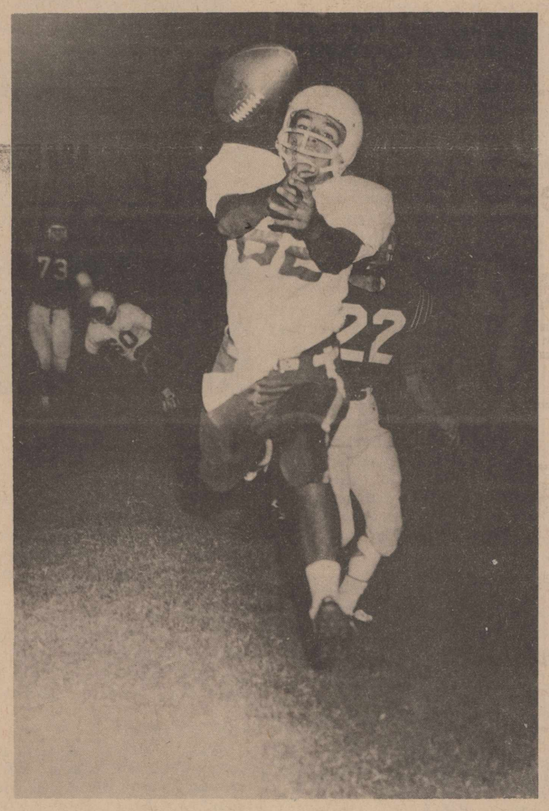

From there the Ponies raced to a score. Jones got off the big play, a 54-yard run to the Lockney four. A play later, he scored the touchdown to make it 41-18, then added the extra point.

That came with three minutes to go. A minute later Lockney scored, courtesy of a 48-yard run by Lockney's Tommy Moore. Galloway passed to Moore for the PATs and it was a 42 to 26 ball game.

Olton's Richard Hall returned the kick-off 54 yards to the Lockney 31 and a penalty against the Longhorns moved the ball to the 19.

There Priest rolled out and passed to Glover for Olton's seventh touchdown. Jones added the PAT and it was 49-26.

Lockney got its final score with 25 seconds left in the game, Galloway passing to Moore on a play that covered 45 yards. Smith ran the extra points.

END DARREL GLOVER watches in dismay as an aerial thrown by Joe Priest trickles off his fingertips early in the second quarter of Olton's 49-34 victory over Lockney. A few moments later, Olton drove for a TD to make the score 22-6.

Jones Takes Rushing Lead, Gains 260

Olton halfback George Jones took over the Mustang rushing and scoring lead last week on the strength of his fine performance against Lockney.

He carried 21 times for 260 yards and scored five touchdowns. Jones also kicked five extra points to tally 35 points in the game and bring his five-game total to 51.

Footballers Win Prizes In Contest

A pair of Olton High School football players led the way this week in the Enterprise football contest.

Clyde Gallaway, an OHS end came up with the top entry and J. Curtis Hall, a Mustang tackle, grabbed second place. Mrs. Walter Bryan, wife of the football coach, won third place.

Gallaway and Hall each missed only two games, but Gallaway's guess on the tie-breaker was just a little closer than Hall's..

Mrs. Bryan missed three games and edged out several other contestants for third place, scoring closest on the tie-breaker.

Others missing only three games were Paul Nafzger, Todd Varner, and Dale Chitwood.

Gallaway will receive $6, while Hall will get $4 and Mrs. Bryan $2.

There's still time to enter the contest for this week. Just pick up a copy of the Oct. 3 Enterprise, fill out the entry and turn it in to one of the sponsoring merchants before 4 p.m. Friday.

Running Water Philosopher Debating With Problem Of Selling Wheat To Russia

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his careless weed farm on Running Water Draw faces up to a difficult international problem this week.

Dear editar:

There are some international problems which I'd just as soon not have to solve.

For example, take wheat.

As I understand it, the Russians are trying to buy a lot of surplus wheat from the United States, I guess in order to get enough strength to handle the shovels they're planning on burying us with, and the offer, especially since it mentions cash in advance, is troublesome to answer.

One side says no, don't sell them Communists anything. The other side says why not, we got all this surplus wheat staring us in the face and costing us money to store and if Russia doesn't buy it from us, she'll buy from Canada or some other country, so why not take the money and spend it on defense or apply it on the national debt if it's not unconstitutional to reduce it.

It's that cash-in-advance angle that makes this a hard problem to answer. If she wanted to borrow some wheat, or buy it on credit, any Congressman could give you the answer, but cash on the barrel head....this is a question that requires judicious debate.

It stumps me, I don't have the answer, but I think I can tell you what we'll do. We'll sell.

Human nature is hard to control. I've never yet seen a prohibitionist lumberman who wouldn't sell material to build a bar if he got the cash, a reactionary insurance man who wouldn't sell insurance to a liberal. Cash, like music, seems to be a universal language.

Personally, I don't have any wheat to sell, but if you hear of any country in the world wanting to buy some careless weed seed, let me know and I'll rassle with the problem.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Atomic Energy Program To Be Held At School

A demonstration lecture program, titled "This Atomic World," will be presented in an assembly program at Olton High School, Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Sponsored by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, the program is presented by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The Institute is a nonprofit, educational corporation of 39 Southern universities and colleges, operating under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The traveling exhibits units, which visit hundreds of high schools throughout the United States each year, are designed to provide the public with a better understanding of atomic energy.

James W. Bibb, an exhibits manager who has received special training in nuclear science, will present the program. Bibb holds a bachelor of science degree in naval and electrical engineering from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland.

The demonstrations and lectures are designed specifically to acquaint high school students with the basic principles and uses of atomic energy and to stimulate their interest in science.

Subjects to be covered include atomic structure, the nucleus and radio-activity, radiation biology and fission and fusion. The uses of radiosotopes are also included.

The application of these isotopes in agriculture, industy, and medicine is an important aspect of the non-military use of atomic energy. Projections for the use of the atom in rocketry and space travel are also discussed.

Riley said he wishes he had taken violin lessons but he feels it's a little late now. Still, he practices on the fiddle for a little while every day and listens to recording of the nation's best.

Riley said that slender fingers help on the spacing and making flatted notes. "But the bow is the most difficult part of playing a fiddle," he said.

He added that too many fiddlers hold the bow wrong. "You have to have a limber wrist to play the fiddle, and too many fid- to saw off a tune with a stiff bow arm." He explained that a stiff bow arm makes the notes shorter and gives them a jerky sound.

Riley told that the "corn stalk" fiddlers, the sour note scrapers and squeakers, have hurt the public image of fiddling.

"A really good fiddler," he said, "makes the hair curl on the back of my neck."

Some of the favorite tunes by breakdown fiddlers are "Billy and the Low Ground", "Dusty Miller," "Sally Johnson", "Sally Goodin" and "Grey Eagle".

Riley said many of the young people today are missing out on the enjoyment and satisfaction brought about by music.

He added that a home without music is lacking and that some kind of musical instrument should be introduced. "I would like to see a nation of musically inclined people," said Riley.

His tour through the United States began Sept. 8 in the Secretary's home state of Minnesota.

The Secretary said the meetings are being arranged in small communities in 11 states selected geographically to reach nearly every major agricultural area in the nation.

"The meeting will be geared toward dirt farmer participation. The program will be organized both to encourage questions from farmers which I will try to answer and to provide time for farmers to give me their advice and recommendations."

County Teen-Age Market Tops Two Million Mark

NEW YORK, How much of Lamb County's retail business is due to teen-age spending?

How large is their outlay for clothing, records, food, transistor radios, used cars, beauty supplies and the many other items that make up the teen-age market?

What it amounts to is best known to their parents, who have been busy outfitting them recently for the back-to-school trek.

On the basis of the latest information, the teen-age market in Lamb County comes to an estimated $2,371,000 a year.

The figure is arrived at through studies and surveys made by the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Gilbert Youth Research organization and others.

They show that nearly $11 billion is spent annually by the nation's teen-agers.

As a result, they are being courted as never before by retail merchants and manufacturers, who come out with frequent changes of fashion to lure this clothes-conscious group.

With costs as they are at present, it takes about $800 a year, on the average, to support a 13-year-old child, the figures show. The amount climbs to $865 at age 15, goes to $920 at age 17 and to $955 at 19, not counting college expenses.

At the midpoint, which is at age 16 1/2, its averages $905 a year.

This median cost, applied to Lamb County, with its teen-age population of 2,620 as last reported by the Census Bureau, gives $2,371,000 as the estimated amount that is spent on them per year.

For the individual teen-ager, according to the Department of Agriculture, the biggest item is food, which averages $450 a year. Another $275 or so goes for clothes and the remainder for housing, medical care, sports, entertainment and miscellaneous expenditures.

All in all, the teen-age market has become an economic force and, in addition, the fastest-growing one in the nation.

The latest figures reveal that the number of teen-agers is increasing at 3 1/2 times the rate of the rest of the population, reflecting the high birth rate that followed the last war.

The expectation is, as a result, that Lamb County's teen-age population in 1965 will be 30 percent above the 1960 total.

Electric Service Bills Will Come In Envelopes

Electric service bills for Olton customers will come in envelopes beginning next week, it has been announced by Ralph Glover, Manager for the Southwestern Public Service Company.

The change from the postcard bill, which has been in use for a number of years, is the result of the installation of new electronic billing equipment, Glover said.

"I think the chances are slim that anyone would throw away an evelope with our company's return address on it, without first seeing what it contained, but it seemed wise to point out, at the start of this new billing procedure, that the statement will be coming in an envelope in the future," Glover added.

The new envelope, white in color with a green block, is clearly marked on the outside as an electric service bill. Enclosed along with the new statement is a return envelope. The stub from the bill should be enclosed with the payment, the same practice that has prevailed in the past.

Glover said Olton customers would be billed at the same time of the month that they have been in the past.

Glover pointed out that there is a feature in the new billing system which might encourage more customers who have checking accounts to use the bank draft method of payment. He said that the objection to this method on the part of some customers in the past has been that they didn't know how much their bank account had been charged.

Under the new billing system, the customer using the bank draft method of payment will receive a copy of his statement at the same time that the billing for Olton customers is made. The statement will be clearly marked that it should not be paid because a bank draft will be drawn, but it will inform the customer of his monthly charges for electric service.

A small pamphlet, announcing the new billing procedures, will be enclosed in the first statements, scheduled to go out next week, Glover said.

Governor Endorses New Texas 65 Plan

The first three policies issued under the new Texas 65 Plan, to provide health insurance to Texas residents 65 years of age and older, have been delivered to Governor John Connally for his mother and his wife's parents.

Governor Connally stated that his mother, Mrs. J. B. Connally of Floresville and his wife's father, Arno Brill, of Austin, were among thousands of Texas citizens over the age of 65 who have need for voluntary health insurance.

Mrs. Brill is not 65, however; under the Texas 65 Plan a husband or wife may be enrolled, regardless of age, provided the other spouse is 65 or over, and enrolled in the Plan.

"I have asked that my mother and wife's parents be enrolled in Texas 65 not only to show my personal faith in this excellent program, but because it will provide them with needed health insurance coverage" the Governor stated.

Governor Connally has proclaimed October Texas 65 Month.

The precedent-breaking insurance Plan will be available for the first time, October 1-31 to all Texans 65 years of age and over regardless of their health or age.

It can be purchased from any insurance agent licensed to sell health insurance in Texas.

Enabling legislation authorizing the establishment of the Texas 65 Health Insurance Association was passed by the 58th Legislature without a dissenting vote.

Fifty insurance companies doing business in Texas have agreed to guarantee and underwrite the benefits of the Plan.

Voters Will Decide Fate Of Poll Tax Saturday, Nov. 9

Olton area voters, along with those throughout the state, will decide the fate of four proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution in an election scheduled Saturday, Nov. 9.

Probably only one of the four--that one dealing with the poll tax- has drawn much attention from the public as a whole. With this thought in mind, the Enterprise will present an analysis of these four proposed amendments.

This presentation will be a public service, meant to inform and not to indicate how anyone should vote. The idea is to present facts which will be helpful in determining whether the amendments are desirable and for the best interests of our citizens as a whole.

The Constitution, because it is the instrument guaranteeing our liberties, is not simple or easy to revise. An amendment must first be submitted to the Legislature at a regular session. A two-thirds vote of the membership in the House and two-thirds vote in the Senate is required to authorize placing it on the ballot for a vote of the people.

ELIMINATING REQUIREMENT OF POLL TAX PAYMENT IN ORDER TO VOTE

Proposition 1 on the Ballot

"FOR the amendment of the Constitution of the State of Texas so as to repeal the provision making payment of the poll tax a requirement for voting and so as to authorize the Legislature to provide for the registration of all voters."

"AGAINST the amendment of the Constitution of the State of Texas so as to repeal the provision making payment of the poll tax a requirement for voting and so as to authorize the Legislature to provide for the registration of all voters."

This proposed amendment, if approved by the voters, would repeal the provision in Section 2 of Article VI of our Constitution which requires payment of a poll tax in order to vote. It would give the Legislature authority to provide by law for the registration of all voters, by amendment of Section 4 of the same Article.

A sound and fair system of registering voters in advance of an election — how such a system can be assured and maintained — is the basic issue involved. The proposed amendment would not repeal the poll tax, it would simply do away with the requirement of a poll tax receipt in order to vote. The poll tax, when originally adopted in Texas in 1845, had nothing to do with voting. It was not made a prerequisite to voting until 1902 when this requirement was adopted as a means of securing general registration of voters.

The first appearance of the poll tax in Texas law was in the general revenue measure passed by the Ninth Congress in 1845. The revenue measure provided among other things that "there shall be levied and collected a poll tax on every white male of this Republic, between twenty-one and fifty years of age." The Constitution of 1876 provided that a "poll tax of $1 on every inhabitant of this state, between the ages of twenty-one and sixty years, shall be set apart annually for the benefit of the public free schools."

During Reconstruction Days a type of so-called registration of voters created widespread resentment. Agents of the Governor, acting as registrars under little restraint of law, were accused of fraud and intimidation. The system was used to insure that those who would support carpet bag rule voted while persons who had been connected with the secession movement were barred from the polls. When our present Constitution was adopted in 1876 after the State recovered its authority from occupation forces, resentment was so strong that the new document provided "no law shall ever be enacted requiring a registration of the voters of this state." It was soon evident that some means had to be found to keep the ballot pure.

In 1891 an amendment to the Constitution gave the Legislature authority to require registration of voters in cities having a population of 10,000 or over. In the highly agricultural State of that period, when the total population in incorporated places of 2,500 and over was less than 16%, this was such a small portion of the population as to be almost meaningless.

It was repeatedly charged that illiterate and uninformed voters were being controlled by influence men representing the "big interests" and the "liquor interests." A constitutional provision was finally adopted in 1902 requiring payment of the poll tax in order to vote. It was proposed by reform elements in the Democratic Party and by the Prohibitionists as a system of mandatory registration of all voters without actual use of the word "registration," which was calculated to stir bitter memories of Reconstruction Days. This is the same provision this amendment now proposes to repeal.

A proposal to eliminate the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in Texas elections was submitted as a constitutional amendment in 1949. It was defeated by a vote of 172,284 to 133,550. Referendums taken last year by both major parties indicated strong sentiment for repeal but wording of the questions left some doubt as to whether people understood them clearly. Apparently many overlooked the referendums or were not interested since the vote on this subject ran considerably behind that for candidates.

The proposed amendment does not repeal the payment of a poll tax. Section 1 of Article VIII of our Constitution gives the Legislature authority to levy a poll tax and Section 3 of Article VII provides, as previously mentioned, that a poll tax of $1 on every inhabitant of the state between twenty-one and sixty years shall be set apart annually for the benefit of the public free schools. Neither of these two sections would be changed.

As a practical matter collection of the poll tax would become difficult and doubtful. The money for schools which the poll tax now provides, about $2,000,000 per year, would probably have to be made up from some other revenue source.

This proposal should not be confused with a proposed amendment to the federal constitution which has been submitted to a vote of the states. If the federal amendment is adopted, it will prohibit requirement by the states of the payment of a poll tax or other tax in order to vote for federal offices. This amendment also would relate only to the vote and would not affect legally the right to levy a tax.

The amendment provides that the Legislature may enact a registration law in anticipation of its adoption, and the Legislature passed Senate Bill 132 which will apply to all elections in Texas if the amendment is adopted. It provides for general registration of voters before February 1 of each year, with a registration fee of 25¢. It would, of course, be subject to revision or repeal at a future session.

A special provision of Senate Bill 132 would apply if the federal poll tax amendment is adopted before our Texas Constitution is amended. This provides the manner in which people could vote for U. S. Senators, U. S. Representatives, the President and the Vice President, or electors for President and Vice President, without payment of the poll tax.

Payment of the poll tax as a requirement for voting has become entangled in racial issues, and for that reason there are those who argue that it would be best if this amendment were adopted. Aside from whether its effect has been good or bad, and regardless of its history and purpose, they feel the requirement of a poll tax receipt in order to vote has received so much bad publicity throughout the nation that it would be better to set up a new system of registration for voters without reference to the poll tax. It is argued that repeal of the poll tax requirement for voting would not materially change the fundamental situation since the Legislature would be given power to enact a system of registration.

It is argued just as earnestly by others that repeal of the registration requirement, based on payment of a poll tax, would leave the subject open to the abuses that brought cries of fraud and corruption in years gone by. They emphasize that we are dealing with the very foundation of all our law, which is the Constitution, and that this amendment would take out of the Constitution any requirement for registration of voters. While the Legislature would be authorized to set up such a system, it would not be required to do so.

Opponents fear some future Legislature might weaken requirements for registration, or the method of registering, or allow registration so near to election dates as to invite the very problems the reform elements sought to end in 1902. They remind us that it took a long struggle to get a state-wide system of voter registration in Texas, and it was not achieved until it was written into the Constitution in mandatory form.

Flame Cultivator Used In Grain Defoliation

Flame cultivation, as a means of desiccation, or type of defoliation of grain sorghum, can increase harvest yields by from 300 to 500 pounds of grain sorghum per acre. Jack Parks, associate agricultural engineer in charge of flame cultivation research at the Foundation, said, "This practice, which the Foundation has been working on for two years, not only will increase yields, but will also speed the combining rate."

Standard flaming equipment can be used in this operation by raising the burners up high, pointing them toward the back, and then applying heat to the top of the leaves, or by applying heat at the base of the plant. This practice will dry the leaves so that during harvest, grain will not ride out the back of the combine on green leaves.

Desiccation of the leaves 3 to 4 days before harvest will enable much faster combining in the field, which can be extremely important due to weather conditions.

Dr. Earl H. Collister, Director of the High Plains Research Foundation, states, "This method of desiccation of leaves, along with greater efficiency of harvest, will return profits to the farmer, and the flame will not leave residue for following crops."

WORKING TO PROMOTE THE COTTON INDUSTRY

Cotton producers have for several years become more and more concerned about the growing threat of synthetic fibers. Cotton profits have been seriously cut by loss of markets and acreage, and rising production costs. As our only basic answer to the problem cotton producer leaders across the belt have strongly pushed for an adequate research and advertising effort. Their ideas have become reality in the Cotton Producers Institute.

The Institute is completely producer controlled, non-political, voluntary and 100 per cent of its funds will go for research to cut production costs, develop new qualities and uses, and nationwide consumer advertising to sell more cotton. By an agreement whereby the National Cotton Council will service the program and bear all administrative costs, none of the Institute funds will be spent in salaries and overhead. Too, lending agencies and internal revenue have cleared the program as a tax deductible production expense.

The finance plan calls for $1.00 per bale to be paid by the producer. This is left strictly up to individual farmers, on a voluntary basis. In line with the usual support Olton gins give to progressive movements, we will cooperate in the program and its finance plan, accepting voluntary participation from producers.

Support The Industry That Supports You !

COTTON PRODUCERS INSTITUTE

Research

The Institute funds are actively at work in key research projects aimed at:

1. Easing the cost-price squeeze on cotton growers by reducing costs and improving raw fiber quality; and
2. Producing new or improved cotton products.

Outstanding research organizations are working on Institute projects. In many cases, the projects are attracting funds from other sources, thereby boosting cotton's total research effort.

Promotion

The Institute is operating a hard-hitting advertising campaign to sell products made from cotton. It is aimed mainly at the U. S. housewife who buys most of the textile items used by the family. In addition, the Institute is telling garment manufacturers, retailers and others how advertising by cotton growers is helping them stimulate sales of cotton products.

We Heartily Endorse this Concept of a Self-Help Program

By voluntary participation in the Institute, cotton growers are demonstrating their ability to build for themselves a lasting and promising future in cotton. Every dollar goes for operating research and promotion programs — there is no overhead. The Institute deserves the wholehearted support not only of all cotton growers but all people in cotton communities. Organized research and promotion can increase markets and profits for cotton — the key to the economic health of this area.
