NEW HOUSING PROJECT—Homes and other services and conveniences will be provided families of 293 veterans and personnel at the reactivated Lubbock Air Force base in Modern Manors, shown above in this architect's drawing. A $2,500,000 building permit, largest in Lubbock history, was authorized Saturday for the project, located in southwest Lubbock, increasing the city's permit total for the year to $9,500,000. Preliminary construction work got underway immediately, with expectation the first dwelling units will be ready for occupancy in 60 to 90 days and the entire project completed in seven to nine months. The modern shopping center serving the area, in the right foreground, corners at Adams avenue, which extends to the left, and Forty-second street. Other boundary streets of the development are Fiftieth, at the south, and Jefferson avenue, on the west. The dwellings pictured will be two, three and four-family structures containing from one to three bedrooms each, with rentals scaled according to size. Rental scales were not announced immediately. A large tract at Fiftieth and Jefferson has been reserved for a school building and the landscaping makes generous provision for play and recreation areas. More than two miles of streets will be paved, as well as large areas for off-street and shopping center parking. The paving contract was awarded late Friday to J. R. Fanning on a bid of $86,645.05. Builder of the project is to be Modern Manors, Inc., in which Homer and Robert Maxey, Harold Blank and Lee Fields are associated. Robert Maxey is the construction contractor. Charles E. Armstrong, of Fort Worth, is architect for the project as a whole and Butler & Brasher, of Lubbock, for the shopping center, which will include a large super-market and nine store buildings.

Showdown Urged In B-36 Investigation

Committee Member Demands Critics 'Put Up Or Shut Up' To Clear Leaders

By HOWARD DOBSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Rep. Bates (R-Mass) today urged a swift wind-up of the B-36 hearings with "the accusers, whoever they are, called on to bring out their evidence—if they have any."

The House Armed Services committee is inquiring into suggestions that improper influences figured in the importance attached to the huge six-engined strategic bomber.

To Question Arnold

Bates, a high ranking Republican member of the committee, told reporters:

"This cloud has been hanging over the heads of our top military leaders and defense officials too long already."

Critics, he said, should "put up or shut up."

He proposed that Secretary of Defense Johnson have a chance to answer hints of political influence in the B-36 program, as have other defense officials, and then that the the accusers present their side. "The hearings should not run more than another week," he said.

The hearings are recessed until August 22. A subcommittee will go to California next week to question General H. H. Arnold, retired Air Force chief, and airplane manufacturers.

"Smear" Attempt Charged

Four days of hearings this week were climaxed late Friday by an angry, shouting encounter between Air Secretary Symington and Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa), a committee member.

Symington accused the Pennsylvanian of trying to "smear" him and the Air Force through "rather a disgraceful way of using congressional immunity."

Lost Battalion Meeting Ends

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 13—Members of the "Lost Battalion" association brought their fifth annual reunion to a close here Saturday night following two days of business meetings, a memorial service, chicken and buffet dinners and an informal dance.

When the reunion broke up following the dance, some 300 members, who had fought together and had suffered the hardships of Japanese prison camps together for several years during the war in the Pacific, gave their parting handshake with a promise to meet again at the reunion next year. Amarillo was designated as the meeting place for 1950 with the exact date to be set later.

Various Problems Discussed

The final day of reunion opened at 10 a.m. in the Plainview American Legion Home. J. B. Heinen, jr., Dallas, presided. Veterans' insurance, the organized reserve corps and various problems that face former prisoners of war were discussed.

While the men were meeting in the main ballroom of the Legion home, the Ladies Auxiliary met in the game room.

The distaff side decided not to elect officers this year but instead named one committee - at - large chairman to help make plans for next year's reunion. The committee chairwoman named is Mrs. P. E. Holzkamper, Amarillo. The auxiliary meeting was conducted with Mrs. J. B. Heinen, Dallas, presiding and Mrs. E. L. Rayburn, Lubbock, acting as secretary.

The Lost Battalion re-elected J. B. Heinen, jr., president by a loud acclamation. Heinen was praised for the splendid work he

State Senator Taylor Quits; Assails Pay

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 — Senator A James Taylor of Kerens, the Senate's influential finance chief, stepped out of the legislature today. He gave low legislative pay as the reason.

Monday he will begin work as executive director of the Texas Motor Transportation association.

Taylor submitted his resignation from the Sixth District Senate post to Gov. Allan Shivers both by telephone and by letter.

"I would like to have served as a member of the legislature during your administration as governor," the 43-year-old former publisher told Gov. Shivers. "However, at the present Texas $600 a year pay scale for members of the legislature, 10 years is about the maximum period of service one citizen can afford to contribute."

Shivers Expresses Regrets

From Woodville, Gov. Shivers expressed his regret of the resignation and announced that a special election would be called Nov. 8 to fill the vacancy. The Sixth district includes Navarro, Freestone, Kaufman, Henderson and Anderson counties.

Two representatives, George Nokes of Corsicana and Phil Willis of Kaufman, have already indicated their intentions to run for the post.

Taylor had ruled the Senate's powerful finance committee for two sessions with an iron hand. His methods were seldom questioned. He had headed the Gilmer-Aikin committee and pushed its public education reform program successfully to legislative adoption over strong opposition.

Weather To Continue Warm Over Plains

Continued warm weather and partly cloudy skies are expected over the South Plains today and Monday, the Weather Bureau station north of Lubbock predicted late last night.

Return of some thunderstorm activity was forecast for the area late this afternoon and tonight and again Monday afternoon and night, the Weather Bureau said.

Lubbock had a high of 94 degrees at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, the warmest since July 21, when the mercury hit 99. No rain was reported over the South Plains, and most points had temperatures in the middle 90's.

Laredo again led in the state heat race with 104 degrees. Fort Worth had 102, and Big Spring 100, the Associated Press reported.

Victim Dies; Charges Filed

REX MELTON, 36 - year - old Plainview machine parts worker, died in St. Mary's hospital at 5 a.m. Saturday, victim of a two-car collision on the Lubbock-Amarillo highway in which his wife and six other persons were injured early Friday.

Melton was taken to the hospital suffering from a skull fracture after his car collided with a vericle driven by Francis Lee Jackson, 21, of Dimmitt, a mile and a half north of Lubbock shortly after 1 a.m. Friday.

The district attorney's office meanwhile announced that a charge of murder without malice had been filed against Jackson Saturday, replacing the original charge of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle lodged against the youth Friday.

Other Victim Still Serious

The complaint, signed by Deputy Sheriff Earl Horton, charges that Jackson, "by mistake and accident caused the death of Rex Melton while operating a motor vehicle in an intoxicated condition and while under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

The complaint was sworn to before Assistant District Attorney E. G. Pharr in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of the peace.

Samuel Hobby Thomas, 22, of Hale Center, who was riding in the car with Jackson and Jackson's brother, Kenneth, remained in an unconscious and serious condition in St. Mary's hospital

Solons Facing Emergency On Federal Funds

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Congress gets a reminder Monday that its historic log jam over appropriations to run the government remains unbroken.

The reminder will be the third request in two months for passage of an emergency measure to pay thousands of employes and keep the big agencies running normaly.

This time congressional leaders will ask stop-gap financing until probably the end of August.

Already the delayed apropriations are a month and a half late. The Senate is the offender. The House passed all the regular money bills months ago.

Situation "Unprecedented"

Caught in a money-bill log jam when the present fiscal year started July 1, Congress first passed a one-month emergency measure to keep the unfinanced agencies rolling at their normal rate for one month.

But when July ended, several big appropriation bills still were kicking around on Capitol Hill, so another "emergency" bill had to be passed. The second "stop-gap" resolution continued normal financing until August 15.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations committee said "it's unprecedented. Never before have we had such a situation."

Still to be passed by the Senate are the big Army-Navy-Air Force appropriation bill and the Interior

INSECTS DESTROY EACH OTHER

Cotton Outlook Remains Good Despite Some Insect Damage

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

INSECTS are waging war among themselves in most of the cotton fields of the South Plains, and the friends of cotton are winning.

This was the gist of a report Saturday on area cotton crop conditions by K. N. Clapp, observer for Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston cotton merchants.

While many types of insects are injurious to cotton, he explained, many others are helpful because they feed on enemies of the staple. The friendly ones now outnumber those which are harmful, he said.

But he reported that light infestation by damaging insects is widespread. These include flea hoppers, lygus bugs, thrip, aphids, climbing cutworms, careless worms, cabbage loopers, numerous leaf eaters and, described as worst of all, bollworms.

Among the friendly insects he listed the ladybug, green spiders and the insidious flower bug.

Two incidents illustrative of the war in progress were related by Clapp.

During a field inspection, he said, he discovered 17 insects on a small portion of one plant. Two were of harmful and 15 of friendly types.

On another occasion, he related, a farmer showed him a green

Addition To Administration Building Set

Tech Board Approves $750,000 Expansion

By JERRY HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE Texas Technological college Board of Directors approved plans in a meeting at the college Saturday for a $750,000 addition of two wings on the Administration building at the college and voted to accept bids on the project until 3 p.m. Sept. 23.

A special board meeting was called by Chairman Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City to be held in San Antonio Sept. 24 at which time the board will consider the bids.

M. L. Pennington, newly appointed comptroller at the college, will receive bids until 3 p.m. the day before the special meeting. The meeting will be held in the St. Anthony hotel.

Past Members Commended

The plans for the new construction were drawn up by Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth, acting in his official capacity as college architect. They call for two wings to be added to the south side of the Administrtaion building. The original plans for the building called for the wings but they have never been built. Most of the additional space will be used for classrooms and office space.

The Board met Saturday in the office of Pres. D. M. Wiggins at the college. In addition to approving the building plans the board concerned itself mainly with routine business. A resolution was drawn up to express the Board's thanks to O. B. Ratliff of Lubbock and Kyle Spiller of Jacksboro who recently completed six year terms of membership. Chairman Thompson said Texas Tech and the Board of Directors was especially grateful to the two men for their work while serving on the Board.

There was frantic rushing to and fro in hotel lobbies, press and photography rooms and all about town, but out at Camp Y-Noah, where the champions have been staying the past three days, everybody was relaxed.

Everybody—parents, accompanying newspapermen, friends and relatives of the boys— everybody but the champions are worried about the big race.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan today assumed full responsibility for ordering "home food freezers" sent to President Truman's "little white house" at Independence, Mo., and to top federal officials.

The White House military aide thereby explained how the First Lady, Mrs. Bess Truman, was sent the freezer which was involved in one phase of the Senate's sensational "five percent" probe.

Vaughan broke a long silence on developments at the Senate's "five percent" inquiry by claiming responsibility for dispatch of home freezers to a list of prominent Washington officials. He announced other recipients of the freezers were:

GIRLSTOWN, U. S. A., Aug. 13.—A tiny boot-clad foot pushed a shovel into the earth on the site of Girlstown, U. S. A., this morning to herald opening of construction of a rambling ranch-style home which will be the first permanent structure of Girlstown.

The ground breaking, witnessed by approximately 40 residents of Whiteface, Levelland and Lubbock, also heralded the achievement of a goal which had been considered almost impossible.

Many Make Move Possible

"It can't be done," many persons had told Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girlstown, when she had stated her goal of opening construction exactly one month from the time the first girls moved into Girlstown's new location July 13. Girlstown is located on 1,336 acres of land near Whiteface given by T. B. Duggan of Lubbock.

Gov. Allan Shivers Will Speak At DeMolay Meet Here Aug. 30

J. Q. WARNICK, JR.
Master Councilor

The E. Y. Lee Chapter of the Order of DeMolay will establish two precedents Aug. 30.

On that Tuesday, the chapter set the first precedent by being host to the first annual area conclave of the DeMolays of West Texas.

Another "first" will be set shortly after 7:30 p. m. when Jimmy Kennedy, DeMolay area orator, will present to the public for the first time in Texas history the flower sermon.

Shivers To Speak

Feature attraction of the conclave will be the public address by Governor Allan Shivers. Topic of his speech has not been announced but will be directed to DeMolays.

Governor Shivers will arrive at Municipal Airport in a state furnished plane. He will be greeted there by Kennedy and Dorrance Guy, who will represent the DeMolays, Chamber of Commerce and city officials. John L. Ross, jr., the chapter dad, and C. B. Boydston, chairman of the advisory council, will also be on hand to welcome the governor.

A parade for the governor will be conducted from College down Broadway to Ave. Q, where the procession will be met by the Sheriff's Posse and escorted on to the Hilton hotel.

Registration Is Slated

Guy requested anyone interested in participating in the parade to contact him.

Conclave activities will start with registration from 8:30 a. m. until 11:30 a. m. Lunch will be served when registration closes at Luby's Cafeteria.

An initiation ceremony will be held at 1 p. m. at the New Masonic building. At 5 p. m., a barbecue supper will be held at a site still undetermined. The governor is to be present.

The night's program, which is open to the public, has been tentatively set to be held at O. L. Slaton Junior High school.

To Present Sermon

Kennedy will open the program with his sermon. H. B. Bryan, prominent Mason, will then welcome DeMolays, Masons and the public to the affair.

Next on the program with a brief explanation to parents and visitors about DeMolay work will be Marvin Marks of Fort Worth, former city councilman there and chapter dad of all DeMolay chapters in Texas.

His talk will be followed by Governor Shivers' speech. The program will end with an interpolation, a part of the DeMolay ritual which is required for all functions that extend beyond 9 p. m.

Cocker Spaniel Trapped In Hole Rescued By Alert Dog

ALTON, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Pauline Hoffman, her son Gerhardt and her dog Ponto were driving through Rock Spring Park.

Suddenly Ponto began a series of maneuvers that meant he wanted to get out. The car was stopped. Ponto bounded away, his ears tuned to faint cries in the distance.

Soon he ran back and, by sound and motion, indicated he wanted company on a return trip. The Hoffmans trailed him.

The found a small cocker spaniel trapped in a hole. The best guess was that he had squirmed in after a rabbit and the earth caved in on him. Only his nose and one paw were in sight. He was dug out quickly while Ponto watched, head high and tail wagging.

University Publishers Get Strange Requests For Books

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—Publishers sometimes get some strange orders. The Columbia University press puzzled over a request for "Behavior in Pants," but finally filled it with a copy of "Behavior Development in Infants."

Another man ordered a copy of "United Nations Chatter." It turned out he wanted the deluxe edition of "United Nations Charter."

In its magazine "The Pleasures of Publishing," the Columbia Press gives some other curious examples:

"The person who ordered 'Algebraic Emotions' probably wanted a copy of 'Algebraic Equations.' Someone with mother-in-law trouble must have asked for 'Crime in Relation to Relations.' We sent a copy of 'Crime in its Relations to Social Progress.' An animal lover (or hater) wrote in for 'Dog Catcher.' The nearest we could come was 'A Song Catcher in Southern Mountains'."

German Valley Still Scarred From Wartime Bombing Of Dam

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Mohn valley in Westphalia looks today as if it had been the playground of a mad giant. Ten-ton boulders are heaped as if left after an Olympian game of marbles.

In 1943 the valley had what is believed to be the biggest man-made flood in history. May 16 British bombers breached the Mohn dam.

Most of the houses swept away have been rebuilt. Their bright newness contrasts with the rusting metal of destroyed factories.

Even today it is not known exactly how many people died in the flood. But those who worked there after the attack recall that the victims totalled between 1,700 and 1,800 dead. The dam itself was repaired by men working day and night for three months. This was a vital water source for the war industries of the Ruhr.

Dallas Man Caught In House Probably Not "Love Burglar"

DALLAS, Aug. 13 (AP)—A 23-year-old man caught in an east Dallas house Friday night no longer is considered a suspect in the "love burglar" episodes, police here said today.

The women victims of the mysterious prowler viewed the suspect in a police lineup and failed to identify him as the man who entered their homes and tried to force his attentions on them.

One of the women, 48, was criminally assaulted by the intruder, who has roved Dallas for the past three months. The other woman, 18, outwitted the "love burglar" by stalling him off until she could run and scream for help.

Suspect Still Held

Officers said the suspect still was being held. Burglary or lunacy charges probably would be filed, they said. He was arrested by city police when discovered in an apartment house by a resident, Buck Butler.

Police said the prisoner never was considered a strong suspect because his 120 pounds didn't match the description given by the thief's victims. He had been described as weighing 150 pounds.

The suspect told police he was an epileptic and was "doped up" on some kind of medicine when arrested.

School Completion In Muleshoe Delayed

MULESHOE, Aug. 13 (Special)—Present indications here are that Muleshoe's new high school building now under construction will not be completed in time for the beginning of school Sept. 5.

The general opinion, is that the building won't be ready for occupancy until sometime in October. If such is the case school officials are preparing to crowd the students into existing buildings until the new high school can be made ready for classroom use.

In line with the present building program, it has been announced that a building now on the school campus will be redecorated and moved to the negro school, which now has 30 pupils under Miss Lottie Hargest, teacher.

Meanwhile, School Supt. C. W. Grandy has announced that teachers will have their first meeting Aug. 31. Registration will be Sept. 1-2, he said.

Besides Mr. Bob Gray of Hereford, who will be the new band director and general music instructor, Grandy said there would be a full-time librarian and a voice instructor added to the faculty this year.

He said there will be a regular school nurse on duty each day. Another department this year will be a "guidance" service for advising pupils and helping them to take better advantage of the school program, and to guide them in choosing their life work.

These latter appointments have not yet been made.

Farm Queen Contest To Be Held In Hale Center Sept. 12

HALE CENTER, Aug. 13 (Spl.)—Community Farm bureau chapters of Hale county are now selecting a farm queen from their community to compete in the county wide farm queen contest to be staged here Sept. 12 in connection with the second angual Hale County Farm bureau membership banquet. The banquet is expected to attract an attendance of more than 300 persons and is to be served in the high school gymnasium.

To be eligible for the contest, queen candidates must be related to a farm bureau member and must be the daughter of a farmer, L. E. Ing, one of the committee members, said. The contest is not to be a "bathing beauty" parade, but is designed to pick a typical farm girl. Beauty, personality and poise will be among points judged.

Fourteen communities in Hale county having Farm bureaus, are expected to have a candidate in the county contest. The winner will compete in the state queen selection at the state convention later this year. A state queen, to enter a national contest, is to be picked at that time.

Consolidation For Air Routes Okayed

In the interest of greater efficiency and economy, Continental Air Lines has been granted a consolidation of its three routes into one integrated route, it has been announced by Robert F. Six, president of the airline.

In a unanimous decision, the Civil Aeronautics Board approved Continental's consolidation of routes request and ruled that effective Sept. 26, Continental's airmail routes 29, 43 and 60 will become one route and will be designated solely as Route 29.

The CAB decision will permit Continental Air Lines to operate, for the first time in its history, non-stop flights to Wichita, Kans., thus speeding up service from Denver to Tulsa, Oklahoma City and cities of the south along Continental's system, Six said.

The consolidation grant will effect certain economies in accounting and mail handling procedures and will lift certain technical restrictions under which Continental has operated along its 3,000-mile system permitting greater efficiency and service to the public. The new consolidated route pattern granted by the CAB will allow greater flexibility in flight scheduling in addition to the economies which will be effected, Six said.

"Little Paris" In Germany Losing French Atmosphere

BADEN - BADEN, Germany Aug. 13 (AP)—Germany's "little Paris" is beginning to lose a bit of its Parisian atmosphere and revert to the German resort center it used to be. Baden-Baden has been called "little Paris" ever since the war because it is the headquarters city of the French occupation forces and military government. Its French population (about 40,000) is larger than the number of German inhabitants (30,000).

Recently the number of French has begun to decline. The French Military Government has begun to reduce its staff, apparently in anticipation of the formation of the new wet German republic.

German city officials view this trend with mixed feelings. They are happy to get back and they look forward to when Baden-Baden can once again resume its place as the gay spa where the elite from many countries spent their holidays. But until holiday trade can be restored, there is likely to be much unemployment here, city officials fear. Three hundred Germans formerly employed by the French have already been released, with few new jobs opening up for them.

ARTIST USES 'BLACK LIGHT'

Lubbock Woman Makes Career Painting Murals For Churches

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

An artistic talent inherited from an uncle has paid off in big dividends in pleasure and enjoyment for Mrs. Glenn Smith of Lubbock.

The titian-haired wife of Lubbock's assistant fire chief is becoming quite famous as a muralist by decorating church baptistries and walls with paintings.

It all started about 15 years ago when she joined the College Avenue Baptist church. Because the walls of the new building seemed so bare, the pastor, the Rev. L. L. Richardson, approached her about doing a mural.

Others Ask For Murals

"I felt that I wasn't qualified for such a task," she said, "but he finally talked me into it. He is responsible for starting me in this work."

The result of that first effort, "Christ in Gethsemane," was unveiled the night she was baptized. Three years later, she painted a river scene in the baptistry. Her son was the first to be baptized in the church after the painting was finished.

But that was only the beginning. She was asked to do a mural in the baptistry at the Slide Baptist church, and she consented. Other churches began to seek her services, and a career was launched.

Fees Are Low

For quite some time she made no charge for the murals, but as her work load increased and businessmen began to seek her talents to decorate their store interiors, she had to start a token charge, which is still far below that that charged by commercial muralists.

One businessman wanted to pay her $5,000 for decorating the interior of his establishment. She took only $1,300.

"It isn't a type of work where one should think of the profit angle," she explained. "An artist must enjoy her work in order to do a good job. That is foremost."

Explains 'Black Light'

Since she began, Mrs. Smith has painted murals in more than a dozen local churches as well as in other parts of the state, and is New Mexico as well.

One of the newest things in murals is a "black light" process which has been developed since the war, she said. It is a fluorescent paint that glows in the dark when bathed by the light of special rays somewhat like ultraviolet.

For a night effect, Mrs. Smith paints the mural in the regular way, and then goes over the highlights with the new paint. In the dark, when the lamp is turned on, the retouched parts glow and give the mural the appearance of a moon-bathed scene. During the day, it looks like an ordinary mural.

Entire scenes can be painted with the new paints. In daylight they look no different from other paintings, although the color changes from day to night. For that reason, Mrs. Smith must use the new paint only in the dark and in the special light. Because of this, it is difficult work.

Mrs. Smith said she knew of no other artist in Texas who knows how to use this new process. Although the paint costs ten times as much as ordinary paint, she makes no extra charge where churches are concerned.

Already the College Avenue Church of Christ and the New Hope Baptist church have had their baptistries done over with it, so that night baptismals now are more impressive than ever.

Decorated Theater

Mrs. Smith said her biggest trouble in practically every case was to get people to decide what they want.

One exception to this was when she was decorating the interior of an Odessa theater. Acoustic material made the walls so rough, her biggest problem there was to keep the ballet girls she was painting from appearing "bumpy."

She has no difficulty with her proportions when painting a large mural. She has a "photographic" memory, and if she has a particular scene in mind, she just enlarges it and goes to work.

Because of this, she likes to paint from photographs or other true reproductions of actual scenes. She said she does not like to paint false scenes that are composed in the head because they mean so little to people who view them. An actual scene will always draw comment from someone who has been there, she said.

Outlines In Chalk

She usually prepares her surface with regular flat white paint. She then outlines her highlights in chalk, and goes to work, finishing from the sky downward.

She uses no special technique, except to paint her murals thinner than canvas paintings.

"It keeps them light and refreshing instead of dark and massive," she said. "Besides I find that lighter paintings are better than dark ones when viewed from a distance."

Mrs. Smith has two peculiar traits that distinguish her from most any other artist. She is left-handed, and she likes to paint in jeans and bare feet.

Holds On With Feet

The latter quirk isn't quite as queer as it sounds. Because she must do much of her work on high platforms, she likes to work barefoot to steady herself.

"I know the platforms are safe enough, but when I get up there and it starts shaking as I move around, I want to hold on with my feet, and I can't do that so well in my shoes."

She said it usually takes her about four days to finish a mural, but when she is away from home, she tries to get it done as soon as possible. Once she started in a Welch church at 10 o'clock one morning, and worked until 3 o'clock the next morning. She took a two-hour nap, and worked on through the day until she finished at 7:30 that evening.

Prefers Western Scenes

Mrs. Smith said her favorite scenes were western. "Because I grew up on a New Mexico ranch, I understand the West. An understanding of what you paint is essential for best results."

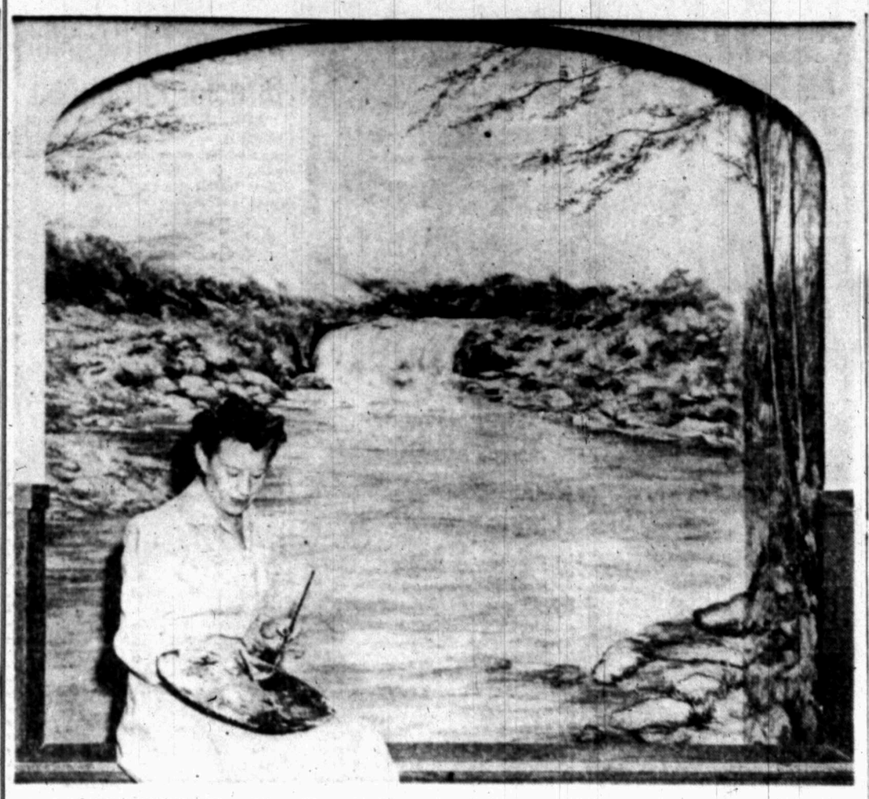

She likes to paint animals, too, especially horses. But her skill encompasses more territory than this.

After decorating a den in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greer, of 2603 Twenty-sixth, with two hula hula girls, she was told that she could paint girls better than Varga.

At present, she is preparing to use her "black light" process on Joe Rosenthal's famous Iwo Jima flag-raising picture for the Veteran's of Foreign Wars clubhouse.

Meanwhile, in their spare time, Mr. and Mrs. Smith are building their own home north of town. They started two years ago, and plan to finish the nine-room house in three more years.

Interior decorating will be done by—you guessed it—Mrs. Smith.

Ocean Diver Waits For Calm Weather

SMUGGLER'S GROVE, Calif., Aug. 13. (AP)—Rough seas today postponed marine explorer Otis Barton's attempt to descend in a diving bell to a depth of 6,000 feet below the surface of the ocean.

He may try again tomorrow.

"I want calm weather above everything," Barton told newsmen. "The greatest danger we could encounter would be the parting of the cable in rough seas."

The diving bell, a hollow steel ball about five feet in diameter, is raised and lowered on a five-eighths inch steel cable from a crane on a barge.

Barton said there was also need for further testing of mechanical equipment. It was not learned immediately what equipment was at fault.

The expedition will be ready between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. tomorrow, weather permitting, for Barton's descent.

Chinese Reds Push Two Drives Foward Canton; City May Fall

CANTON, China, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Communists pushed two increasingly furious drives south towards this Nationalist capital today.

Official Nationalist reports said the nearer one was being held in check on the outskirts of Kanhsien, 215 miles from Canton.

Private reports said the other was aiming at the key railway junction of Hengyang, 265 miles north of Canton.

The government account estimated 50,000 to $60,000 Red troops were hurling themselves at Kanhsien, but said they still were unable to crack the city's defenses.

Negro Ministers' Homes Bombed

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 13. (AP)—A tense racial zoning row erupted today in the dynamiting of two negro ministers' homes. Negroes guarding the houses answered with gunfire.

Two midnight blasts, seconds apart, rocked the adjoining negro houses in an area zoned for whites only. Windows were shattered and a few planks knocked loose.

There was little damage although the heavy explosions were heard over most of Birmingham.

Bombs Hurled From Car

E. B. Deyampert, one of the negro ministers, said three or four negroes fired with pistols and shotguns at a speeding automobile from which the bombs were hurled. The shots apparently missed.

Eighteen negroes were at the houses at the time, he said, but none was injured.

Asked if he planned to move, Deyampert replied:

"This is my home and I'm going to stay here." The other minister, Milton Curry, said the same.

The houses are a half block from three others that were heavily damaged by bombs March 24.

Negroes Had Tip

Deyampert said the dynamite was thrown by an unmasked white man riding on the running board of the car.

Police Commissioner Eugene Connor charged the negroes "are partly to blame for the incident for not informing police."

"They (the negroes) had a tip from a negro that something was going to happen last night." He said in a statement. "Instead of calling the police, they called in their neighbors. I understand they had shotguns and pistols and were waiting for them when the dynamiters came."

The long controversy stems from the slow encroachment of negroes into areas restricted to white occupancy. This is particularly so in the north Smithfield area in which the houses were bombed. It adjoins the Smithfield federal negro housing project.

The city sought to set up a buffer zone between white and negro residences there. City attorneys later said they believed the ordinance was illegal.

Plans For Lamesa's School Opening Set

LAMESA, August 13 (Special) — Opening dates for Lamesa schools have been announced by Supt. G. B. Wadzeck.

All first grade students will start Sept. 6, with others registering Sept. 7-9, and starting Sept. 12. The colored school begins Sept. 5.

Wadzeck said the Gilmer-Aikin bill has brought an increase in the faculty here from 89 last year to 108 this year.

Three full time and three part time principals will be employed in the primary, junior high, and high schools. Six vocational teachers will be on the faculty.

Two will teach vocational agriculture, two home economics, one diversified occupations, and the other diversified education. In the former, high school students will work part time while going to school in order to learn a trade with some local business concern. In the diversified education course, students will learn salesmanship under actual retail sales conditions.

Four special teachers, including school nurses and librarians, will be included in the faculty this year.

LOVE STORY ENDS

Man Marries Girl; Keeps Offered Eye

FRESNO, Calif., Aug. 13 (INS) — Ex-Army Sergeant Charles Eller of Fresno and his German sweetheart, Ly Else Beckmann, became man and wife today to mark the happy ending to their international love story.

The two principals were married by Police Judge Milo Popovich in the quiet seclusion of a private home—in sharp contrast to the hectic two weeks of limelight which started when Eller offered to sell one of his eyes to finance his sweetheart's trip from Germany.

The radiant bride, dressed in a white satin princess-style wedding gown, was more at ease than the nervous groom.

The dignified civil ceremony was performed shortly after 4 o'clock before a small group of relatives and invited guests at the home of Arthur Selland, one of the two trustees appointed to handle the donations which poured in from people who did not want to see Eller lose either his eye or his bride-to-be.

Charles N. Gould, Famous Oklahoma Geologist, Dies

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 13 (AP)—Charles Newton Gould, 81, known as the "Father of Oklahoma Geology" died in a rest home here today.

Gould, ill more than a year, was the founder of the University of Oklahoma school of geology in 1900 and the state geological survey in 1908. He was born in Ohio.

Gould left the University of Oklahoma in 1911 to work 13 years as a consulting geologist. He was largely responsible for the discovery of several oil and gas fields, including the Panhandle and South Bend fields in Texas, the Poteau, Carter-Knox and Muskogee fields in Oklahoma and the Augusta field in Kansas.

In 1935 he became regional geologist for the National Park service. For five years he toured national and state parks looking into geological problems. He then returned to Norman, where he had since made his home.

REFUGEES PROTEST

NEW DELHI, Aug. 13 (AP)—Unmindful of rains, about 400 refugees in rags squatted in the open before the relief minister's house here. They demanded immediate rehabilitation and recovery of their abducted women from Pakistan. These refugees sat on till the evening shouting slogans. They refused to budge until Minister Mohanlal Saxena came out and assured them of his personal attention. The July rains had flooded most of their quarters rendering them homeless.

Naming Of Hospitals Director Postponed

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—The state hospitals and special schools board postponed selection of a $10,000 executive director here today, and then found themselves in a snarl over a temporary set-up.

Dr. James W. Scarborough, now chief of the eleemosynary division of the board of control, was named temporary executive director until Sept. 12, the date set for the next meeting.

The board takes over the 22 eleemosynary institutions from the board of control on Sept. 1.

The board personally interviewed seven of eleven applicants for the director's job. The other four will be invited to the Sept. 12 meeting.

Although no definite commitment was made, it is expected that the director will be chosen at the September get-together. The board turned down efforts by some members to make a choice today.

The executive director's job and the board's will be to care for 22,000 mental patients and other wards of the state, and to supervise activities of 4,000 employes. To do that, they will have $17 million to spend during the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

Board Chairman Claud Gilmer of Rocksprings stated that the board contemplates no immediate changes when they assume control of the state's institutions.

"We will have a full survey and check on all institutions before we make any changes in operations or personnel," he assured.

"From the standpoint of personnel now employed in the institutions, we will appreciate their cooperation without any anxiety over their future, and without any confusion," Gilmer said.

FORREST WEIMHOLD GETS POST

Levelland Publisher Is Named Head Of West Texas Press Group

BROWNWOOD, Aug. 13 (AP)—Forrest Weimhold, publisher of the Hockley County Herald at Levelland, was elected president of the West Texas Press association today.

He was elevated from first vice-president to the top place at the concluding session of the two-day annual convention. Weimhold succeeded Wendell Bedichek of Abilene.

Other officers named were Roy M. Craig, Stamford, first vice-president; Jim Allison, Midland, second vice-president; and Mrs. Charles (Maud) Green, Kermit, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Graham Paper Wins

Three new directors were elected. They were L. B. Smith, Brady; Ross Woodson, Lamesa, and J. Marvin Hunter, Baird. Holdover directors are George Baker, Fort Stockton; W. W. Gaines, Del Rio, and Allen Hodges, Littlefield.

The Graham Leader was judged the best community service program contest winner and also as the best weekly in towns over 2,000. The Bronte Enterprise was named the best weekly under 2,000.

Directors will select the 1950 convention city later.

Water and school problems highlighted discussions today.

Max Bentley of Abilene, activities manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said the WTCC will ask in a special report for presentation to Congress that federal water legislation be amended to give water for domestic purposes number one priority. Flood control is now first. The WTCC will recommend domestic water first, irrigation second, flood control third, navigation fourth and hydroelectric power fifth, Bentley said.

School Official Sounds Warning

Joe Humphrey of Abilene, president of the Texas State Teachers association, warned against the election of Gilmer-Aikin opponents to the new state board of education, saying it would be a threat to sabotage and defeat the program before a fair chance to prove its worth.

"Elect the most able men in your district to this board, as the success or failure of the program depends upon the type of men selected by the voters," Humphrey said. He declared the program already has eliminated 1,800 dormant school districts and that the remaining approximately 2,800 can and will be additionally reduced.

Former Catholic Priest To Marry Divorcee In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Aug. 13 (AP)—A former Catholic priest and a divorcee will be married here today, by a judge of the Jewish faith.

Emmett J. McLoughlin, who resigned from the Franciscan order eight months ago, will wed Miss Mary Davis. Both are from Phoenix.

The ceremony will be performed by Superior Court Judge Charles Bernstein at 7:30 p.m. at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watkins, in nearby Buckeye.

McLoughlin is the superintendent and one of the founders of St. Monica's hospital here. His efforts while still in the priesthood were largely responsible for making the institution possible. It was erected as a charity organization in a poor district of the city.

Diego Rivera Will Divorce Fifth Wife Because Of Health

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Diego Rivera, Mexico's famous 63-year-old muralist, today announced he is divorcing his fifth wife, painter Frida Kahlo.

Rivera said a rumored romance with screen-star Maria Felix had "nothing to do" with his divorce. He said he and his wife were separating because of "her health." She has been ill for several months.

To Get Most Property

"Like hundreds of thousands of Mexicans," said Rivera, "I'm in love with Maria Felix but I have no intentions of marrying her."

Miss Kahlo, a noted painter in her own right, will receive all family property, Rivera said, with the exception of his collection of pre-Hispanic art which he will hold to pass on to the Mexican government in his will.

Miss Kahlo will continue to live in the Rivera household, members of the family said.

Rivera and his present wife were first married in 1929. They separated in 1939, reunited in 1941, and have been together since.

The aging painter, one of Mexico's three great muralists, is now showing his 50th anniversary exhibition at the Palace of Fine arts.

Texan Bound Over To Federal Court On Car Theft Charges

RAWLINS, Wyo., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A 25-year-old Texan, charged with stealing a convertable owned by night club songstress Hildegarde, was bound over to federal district court today.

Robert Lee Sullivan of Dallas entered no plea when he was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner C. A. Brimmer. He was placed under $1,000 bond.

The youthful Texan was arrested here early this week for investigation when he attempted to cash a check at a local auto dealer's garage.

Rawlins police said Sullivan was wanted in Cheyenne, Colorado Springs, Colo., and Wichita, Kan., on bad check counts.

However, he probably will be tried for alleged violation of the Dyer act.

Hildegarde's car, stolen on July 12 in Houston, Tex., was being held for Texas officials.

Barbara Ann Scott, Canadian Ice Skating Champ, To Make Hollywood Screen Tests

By DOROTHY MANNERS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13 — When Barbara Ann Scott, Canadian skate champ, arrives here for her ice skating "concert" in the Hollywood bowl Aug. 27, she'll also make extensive screen tests at the Walt Disney studios.

If Barbara Ann looks as good on film as she does on ice, she will be starred in Mary Dodge's old classic, "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates." Her co-star will be Dick Button, who won the Olympic figure skating title last year.

Mason To Go To England

James Mason may back out of the Garbo picture after all. He wants $100,000 good old USA money (not frozen funds in Italy) to make "Le Duchesse de Langeais" in Rome which is considerably more than Walter Wanger wants to part with.

But Garbo in the offing or not, Mason, his wife and eight months old daughter, Portland, take off for England just as soon as he finishes, "East Side, West Side." Portland has been copping most of the publicity lately. An "expert" swimmer before she can walk, Porty has been photographed by newsreel cameras and for national magazines and newspapers.

Greer Garson trained into town minus Buddy Fogelson early Thursday morning hoping she could settle some business affairs and get her house in order before taking off Monday for England.

Predecessor Makes Cracks

The apartment Ingrid Bergman is furnishing in Rome has six rooms, an enormous living room with a terrace overlooking Rome and a bathroom with a sunken marble tub. But, then, that's nothing exceptional in the older "swankier" Roman apartments.

Anna Amgnani, Bergman's predecessor in the affections of Roberto Rossellini, is also in Rome. Her temper has subsided a bit—but she is still making plenty of cracks.

She is loudly boasting to her friends that the movie she made on Stromboli with William Dieterle was completed in 45 days while Roberto and Ingrid consumed 85 shooting days on theirs.

Woman Gives Poison Drink To Her Three Daughters, Herself

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 13 (AP)—Detective Captain James P. Healey said today that investigation indicated Mrs. Mary Schimml, 41, served poisoned soda pop and cocoa drinks to her three daughters and then took poison herself.

Eugene Schimml, the father, found his daughter, Barbara, 11, dead on a couch in the living room on his return from work yesterday. His wife was in agony on a bed in an adjoining room. She died a short time later. Police tentatively listed the deaths as murder and suicide.

Healey said the other girls, Jeanne, 13, and Katherine, 5, escaped death because they didn't like the taste of the mixture which contained pop and cocoa and refused to finish it. Barbara drained her glass, Healey added.

Aware Of Poison

Jeanne and Katherine were playing in the yard unaware their sister was dead and their mother dying when the father arrived. They were taken to Greenwich hospital for observation.

Schimml is an electroplater, and three tanks of a plating solution containing cyanide were on the first floor of the home, Healey reported. He said Schimml had told him the children were aware of the poisonous contents of the tanks and would not have taken any of it knowingly.

Dr. C. Stanley Knapp, medical examiner, said it appeared that Barbara and her mother died of cyanide poisoning. An autopsy will be performed today.

Capt. Healey said Mrs. Schimml had been a mental patient at the Grasslands hospital, Valhalla, N.Y., about two years ago.

Amarillo Nurse Wills $35,000 Fund To Orphanage At Dallas

AMARILLO, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—An Amarillo private nurse who died last month in Austin left property valued at more than $35,000 to the Buckner Orphans home at Dallas, it was learned today.

She was Miss Mary Thurmond, who specified that the proceeds from the property be used for construction of a memorial building at the Buckner boys ranch near Marble Falls in Burnett county.

New Ballet On Pushkin Theme Is Produced By Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Aug. 13 (AP) — A new ballet on a Pushkin theme has been produced in the USSR. Many of the greatest Russian ballets of the past take their inspiration from poems and tales of the great Russian poet.

The new ballet is entitled "The Tale of the Dead Princess and the Seven Warriors." The production has been put on by the Leningrad Academic Small Opera Theater. It has been warmly received.

"Sidewalk Superintendent" Gets Video Set For Guess

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Burns and their five children are enjoying a new $400 television set at home these days because Burns is a good sidewalk superintendent.

When a local wrecking concern began razing the old Hotel Henry this spring to make way for the new U. S. Steel-Mellon Bank Building, passers-by were invited to guess when the side would be levelled. Burns, a Bureau of Internal Revenue agent, stopped by on his lunch hour one day, gave the project a cursory glance, and guessed exactly right.

PERUGIA, Aug. 13 (AP)—Over 600 foreign students attended the opening session of the special summer courses at Perugia University for Foreigners. Perugia, one of the most beautiful Medieval towns of Italy, has been the home of a University for Foreigners the past 20 years.

From 1921—the year of its foundation—to 1948, the University has taught 12,796 students belonging to some seven nations. The largest national group came from Switzerland, Hungary, Germany, Romania. About one thousand came from the United States.

Locomotive, Three Cars Jump Tracks Near Downtown Houston

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. (U.P.)—The locomotive and three cars of a Southern Pacific freight train jumped the tracks today as the freight neared downtown Houston.

Brakeman C. E. McClellen, 30, suffered a broken ankle when he jumped from a platform on the water tender to safety. No one else was hurt.

The 62-car train was pulling into a slow curve when the engine "just climbed over the tracks," McClellen said. The engine spun in the air, then crashed to the earth, pulling the three cars with it.

The accident's cause was not immediately determined.

Two Youths Startled By Elaborate Alarm System At Drive-In

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—Two young boys should be just about ready for straight-jackets after their set-to with the burglar alarm at Mac's drive-in on North Main at 4 a. m. today.

John McMillan, 36, owner of the drive-in and three others in Houston, got fed up with the burglars who victimized his places 15 times this year, stealing small amounts but wrecking the places before they left.

So he installed an electric-eye alarm system, which trips foghorns, whistles, sirens and flash cameras.

Boys Are Startled

The two boys walked head-on into the whole system when they pried open a door on the North Main store today, the sixth time it has been broken into this year.

R. R. Urban said he was startled out of his sleep by the wailing and screaming of the alarm devices. The boys, he said, scurried out of the place like it was on fire. He told police he saw them run around in circles before one of them recovered his senses and made for their car, parked nearby. He called to his partner and they sped from the scene.

Police were developing the films to see what the startled youths look like.

Squatters Blamed In Wounding Of Two Government Officials

BANGKOK, Aug. 13 (AP) — Two government officials sent by the War Veterans organization to stake out Crown Property claims to plantation lands in Songkhla now held by squatters got too warm a reception.

The men, Captain Phat Seokswang, 41, and Nai Visit Srisura, 34, were riddled with bullets soon after arrival. Fortunately, the two officials were hit only in the legs and were able to be brought back by plane to a Bangkok hospital.

The officials blamed squatters for the attack.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873 — 1949

Many times during the years the cotton farmers of the South Plains would have been justified in despair. Many doubtless have vowed solemnly they would never attempt to grow another stalk of the staple.

Drouth always has been the worst dread of most farmers. None were free of this fear before the extensive development of irrigation in relatively recent years. Drouths have cost the region untold millions of bales of cotton. But most years have produced enough moisture for a profitable crop and, not infrequently, for bumper yields.

One of the problems of the early days was the lack of varieties of cotton best adapted to climatic conditions like our own. This was offset in some degree by the development of ginning methods to handle cotton which, a few years previously, could not have been ginned.

But a more important step has been the development of cotton strains adapted to our climatic conditions. The common characteristic of these is that the staple fits snugly into the opened bolls and is highly resistant to winds which would blow out and ruin fluffier cotton.

These varieties have reduced very substantially the hazards that are an inescapable part of cotton farming. They have been a boon not alone to the South Plains, but to many cotton producing regions where farmers have to contend with winds at harvest time.

Lubbock Fire Record Improves; Best Year Since War Indicated

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

The City of Lubbock will have its best fire record since the war if a trend set during the first seven months continues throughout the rest of 1949.

That was indicated this week as Fire Marshal Bradley Black released figures showing losses thus far this year are far less than half those of any 12-month period as far back as 1945.

Records show that approximately $57,925 worth of property has gone up in smoke here since Jan. 1, representing 256 alarms. That compares quite favorably with the $138,595 damage during the previous 12 months, which itself was far below the figures of $451,745 in 1947 and $675,730 in 1946. By Aug. 1 last year 366 alarms had been answered.

Worst Months Ahead

"The records are good so far," Black said Friday, "but just one bad fire could ruin it all." He explained further that the worst fire months will start with the city's cold weather.

"When the first norther strikes, people will drag out last year's stoves and hook them up without any cleaning," he declared. Lint and dust collected throughout the summer will, as usual, cause numerous blazes, he said.

But it isn't the winter stoves which are causing the fire marshal his worries right now. He is more interested in cigarette smoking and trash burning.

"I'm not the only Lubbockite who will get 'burned up' over smoking," he asserted. "The only trouble is, it will be physically instead of mentally for some of them."

Chief Causes Listed

Black then listed careless cigarette smoking, trash burning, and general "fire education" ignorance as the chief causes of fire in Lubbock.

"The younger people," he said, "are getting fire education in the schools, but the older people need to be taught the hazards of fire, too." He estimated that a very high percentage of Lubbock fires are caused by carelessness.

"If I were to tell a housewife that the hanging of her dish cloth over the back of the stove or water heater constituted a fire hazard," he asserted, "she would laugh at me. It just takes one time, though."

The fire marshal expressed pleasure over the record so far this year, however. He pointed out that only three deaths have occured to date—a negro girl on January 28, B. E. Mixon, Lubbock barber, burned on March 22, and Virginia Dare Derrick, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Derrick, on April 4.

Penalty May Be Lost

Another bright spot in the year's fire picture is the hope that the record will completely liquidate a 15 per cent penalty on the city's insurance premiums levied after the "scorching" record of 1946. Five per cent was removed in 1947 and another five per cent last year. Property owners paid approximately $70,000 in penalties in 1948. Before 1946, the city had a 10 per cent credit knocked off premiums.

Going further into the fire hazard study, Fire Marshal Black listed faulty wiring and overloaded circuits as another big cause of blazes.

"Many families have a light or two, a radio, refrigerator, and maybe sometimes an iron hooked up to the same outlet," he declared. "An iron alone carries about 750 watts and a radio 200." National standards call for no more than 1100 watts on any circuit.

As some "do's and don't's" of fire education, Black listed: "Don't smoke in bed; get rid of inflammable rubbish, papers, magazines and broken furniture; don't use inflammable cleaning fluids; keep oily rags in metal containers; keep heating equipment clean; don't overload electric circuits; and replace frayed cords and hoses."

"Few people," he said, "don't know what to do if all that fails."

RECORD PLAYERS COMPLAIN

MOSCOW, Aug. 13 (AP)—A reader of "Culture and Life" has complained about some aspects of the Soviet phonograph recording industry. Among the serious shortcomings the writer mentioned superficial selection of material for recording national music of the USSR, a lack of attention to modern Soviet songs, an insufficient number of records of popular-Russian songs of today in the national languages. He added that at present the production of records has reached only 25 per cent of the pre-war level.

FACES TASK CHEERFULLY—Mary Etta Arwine of Lamesa must remain in bed for several months as a victim of rheumatic fever, but she is facing her task cheerfully. Shown above, in a chair with a favorite playmate, the seven-year-old-girl smiles despite her hardship. She wants letters from people, young and old, to help while away the hours ahead, she said this past week. (Photo by Royal Arts Studio, Lamesa.)

Young Patient Wants To Keep Smile

Lamesa Girl Wants Letters To Brighten Forced Stay In Bed

LAMESA, Aug. 13—The prospect of spending between six months and a year in bed isn't a very pleasant prospect for a lively seven-year-old girl, but it hasn't dimmed the infectious smile of Mary Etta Arwine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Arwine, 810 S. 7th St., Lamesa.

Grey-eyed Mary Etta, who looks healthy enough, was stricken about three weeks ago with rheumatic fever. Her lower limbs have been affected and her family's physician has ordered that she must remain in bed for several months.

Mary Etta puts up a brave front. She's chiefly worried because she'll be unable to go back to school next month. A "straight A" student last year in the first grade, she has been looking forward eagerly to her second year in the classroom. She also sorely misses regular attendance at Sunday school, but listens regularly to a number of gospel quartets on the radio.

Her parents, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chism, her younger sister, Shirley Ann, and even her dog, Blackie, have all combined their talents to help Mary Etta pass away the long, tiresome hours that she must spend in bed.

Letters, Cards Wanted

She likes funny books and reads them through much faster than her mother and father can provide them. "I've got a stack this high," she said, indicating a sizeable pile with her hands.

Mary Etta would like for some more folks to help her while away several dreary months in bed. She wants folks from everywhere to write her letters or cards, and says she thinks she can find many interesting friends this way. Mary Etta says she will surely enjoy reading letters from anyone who can find time to drop her a line.

When asked if she wanted letters from older folks as well as boys and girls, Mary Etta nodded her head and flashed her friendly little smile which she's determined not to lose no matter what happens.

Hoover Okay After Suffering Attack

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 13. (AP)—Herbert Hoover's gall-bladder attack aboard an eastbound passenger train today didn't impair his skill at gin rummy. When the train stopped here at 3:30 p.m. the former President had won $1.20 and felt good enough to smile about it.

Hoover was stricken earlier in the day, but rallied after receiving emergency treatment.

His secretary, Bernice Miller, said when the train stopped here: "The boss is feeling fine."

Doctor F. E. Magrath of Cheyenne boarded the train at Hoover's request. Magrath pronounced his condition as "nothing to be worried about."

Port Arthur Midshipman Killed In Fatal Crash Of Navy Plane

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 13. (AP)—Midshipman Frances Edward Bridges, 21, of Port Arthur, was killed at 4 p. m. yesterday when the Corsair Navy plane he was piloting crashed near Mifflin Pens, Kenedy county. A student at the Navy's advanced carrier flight training school, Cabaniss field, Corpus Christi, Bridges formerly attended Texas Christian university and the University of Texas.

The body will be sent to Port Arthur today. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Bridges Valentine, Port Arthur, and a brother, Ens. Joseph R. Bridges, USN, stationed at Piney Point, Md.

Europe Council Okays Program

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Council of Europe adopted tonight a nine-point work program for its drive to pull the war-battered countries of the old world closer together. At the same time it ruled out any specific discussion of Irish partition.

The council's committee of ministers approved an agenda which was drawn up earlier by the consultative assembly's 101 delegates, and which will keep them busy for at least several weeks.

The nine-point agenda provides for debate on such items as political changes necessary in Europe to bring about greater unity of member nations, and human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Churchill Gains Victory

The addition of the six points was a victory for Winston Churchill and the majority in the assembly, none of the points covers military subjects, since the committee and the assembly agreed this was not within the competence of the council of Europe.

The touchy nationalistic issue over Ireland was ruled out as a problem for debate during today's talk on possible agenda items. Eamon De Valera, former prime minister of Ireland, made two determined efforts to put the dispute with Britain over Northern Ireland on the program.

Strong opposition to the Irishman's proposal came from most of the British delegates.

A notable omission from the agenda was the question of Germany. Colleagues of Winston Churchill, who sits as one of the British delegates, say he intends to bring up the German issue next week after tomorrow's German election.

Nephew Of Film Producer Alfred Hitchcock May Star In Introducing Bullfighting In U. S.

By H. EDWARD KNOBLAUGH
INS Staff Correspondent

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 13.—A 21-year-old nephew of British film producer Alfred Hitchcock may help introduce bullfighting to Miami, Fla., next winter if promoter William Cody Farber has his way.

Farber has been in Spain securing materials for a portable bull ring which he said he plans to erect in the Florida metropolis.

The inaugural schedule announced by the American will consist of some 30 fights.

Expects To Attract Tourists

Farber does not know whether Florida laws will permit the killing of the bulls during these contests, or whether the fights will have to be purely exhibitions of fancy cape and foot work such as are held in France.

He believes that either way, the sport will prove a big attraction for the tourists wintering at Miami.

One of the principal toreros contracted by Farber, according to the latter's announcement, is Vincent Charles Hitchcock, 21-year-old nephew of English film producer Alfred Hitchcock.

Young Hitchcock, the son of a London jeweler, became fascinated with bullfighting during a visit to Spain two years ago.

Fans Approve Fight

After some training at bull-breeding farms in the south of Spain, Hitchcock made his first public appearance at La Linea on June 5, using the professional name Vincent Charles.

He had great success in this debut, caping like a master and killing each of his two bulls with a single thrust of the sword. The courage and skill shown by the young Englishman won him the two ears and the tail of his first bull, and an ear of the second. He was carried out of the bullring on the shoulders of elated fans.

On the strength of this success, Vincent Charles was contracted to appear in 20 more "novilladas," as apprentice fights are called.

Career Nearly Ended

His career as a torero nearly ended in tragedy five days later, however, when he was severely gored by a young bull while practicing caping at the farm of famous matador Juan Belmonte.

The youth's parents flew down from London and tried to persuade him to give up the dangerous business, but he was adamant. He said that his having been wounded only made him more eager to perfect his skill.

Farber said that the English novillero will be in good shape to open the season at Miami late in the fall. With Vincent Charles on the schedule, he said, will probably be at least one protege of Sidney Franklin, well known Brooklyn bullfighter.

Woman Wants To Fight

While the project to bring bullfighting to the United States was getting started, a young American woman named Laurie Entin arrived in Spain for the announced purpose of studying to become a bullfighter.

Laurie told reporters she had taken lessons in the art in Peru, the home of the famous Conchita Cintron, who fights bulls from horseback. Laurie said she does not want to be "rejoneadora" like Conchita, however. She aspires to be a regular "torera," fighting on foot.

This is going to be difficult, however, if Laurie hopes to appear professionally in Spain. For many years women have been forbidden to fight bulls on foot in this country. The only known exception having been a charitable performance given at Carabanchel by Miss Cintron before a crowd admitted by invitation only.

Green lima beans are a good vegetable to serve along with a Welsh rarebit; add a crisp salad of lettuce and chicory and a fruit pudding for dessert.

FLORIDA BASE IS UNDERWAY

U. S. Pushing Plans For Range To Test Long Distance Missiles

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Many of the nation's top defense leaders consider the development of the 3,000-mile, 75-million-dollar guided missile range on the Banana River, Fla., the first real step by the United States towards "push button" warfare.

The following exclusive story tells in detail the job facing the armed services, their plans and their hopes in building this range to test the weapons of the future.

As was the case with the atomic bomb, the guided missile program has been pretty well worked out in advance on paper, so that the equipment being erected is designed for specific and mathematically-possible weapons.)

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—They say down on the Florida coast that Uncle Sam is starting with a paint brush and claw hammer to build for "push button" warfare.

Construction has begun on a 75-million-dollar, 3,000-mile guided missile proving ground, eventually to involve 5,000 scientists and technicians. But it won't be in operation until July 1, 1951.

For the present, the job is to unboard windows, knock down palmetto bush, level off sand dunes and clean up old buildings at the former Navy training station on Banana river, near Melbourne, Fla.

For this the hammer and paint brush are useful tools. The station, with its 36-odd buildings, has been transferred to the Air Force and is being rejuvenated as a home base for the proving ground.

The next step will be to ready a former bombing range on nearby Cape Canaveral for platforms from which guided missiles will be launched seaward. All the land within five miles is being acquired as a safety area.

Then four electronic control stations will be erected in the strung-out Bahamas islands—on Grand Bahama, Great Abaco, Eleuthera and Cat islands—to radar—track the missiles for the first 500 miles of their flight.

As was the case with the atomic bomb, the guided missiles have been pretty well worked out on paper in advance. When the launching platforms begin to go up, they will be built for specific and mathematically-possible weapons.

There will be huge concrete tables, with spread-out "legs" and a big hole in the middle for escaping gases.

These will be for launching rocket bombs like the German V-2, which itself had a range of 250 miles at an altitude of 60 miles.

There will be "moon gun" shaped towers for missiles which require a "guide rail" in launching. They will be much bigger, but similar in principle to the barrel of a gun.

There will be radar stations to send out beams for missiles which follow a radar beam during the first portion of their flight, and which may receive additional guidance from the stations in the Bahamas.

And there will be runways for launching drone planes, with swept-back wings, to contain nothing but instruments and explosives. These pilotless planes are expected to be the first successful, long-range guided missiles.

Probably ten years will pass before any of the "inter-continental" missiles acquire sufficient accuracy to satisfy the military services. They have set up strict requirements.

They do not recognize the German V-2 as a guided missile, because it did not contain "an internal mechanism for changing its course toward the target while in flight." It is called a weapon of "area bombardment."

The services consider that long-range area bombardment is of doubtful military value. They are certain that atomic explosives could not be used unless the vehicle contained a homing device of great accuracy.

The Air Force's Gen. Joseph T. McNarney says a drone aircraft-type missile carrying a 500-pound warhead at ranges up to 5,000 miles could be built with "relative ease"—for area bombardment.

McNarney, the top authority, also believes a multi-stage rocket traveling outside the atmosphere at 4,000 miles an hour, and including a homing device and proximity fuse, is possible in "perhaps a decade."

To give such push button weapons sufficient accuracy, through "aiming" and "homing," is the sole purpose of the Banana river proving ground. Other types of guided missiles do not require such a testing range.

The Bahamas islands provide the only possibility for ground "instrumentation," covering about 500 miles, but the missiles can be tracked by ships and observation planes on out into the South Atlantic for at least 3,000 miles.

While they are rising, the missiles will be within an irregularly-shaped "danger area," 30 by 40 by 55 miles, which will be closed to shipping off Cape Canaveral.

Defense officials say that when operations begin about 100 long-range test flights a year will be made. The missiles will be with-device by which they can be destroyed in the air if they get off out warheads, and will include a their course.

Burglar Hauls Safe From Store In Dallas

DALLAS, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A daring burglar who backed up a truck last night and hauled away a Safeway store safe was the object of a search here today.

A man who lives across the street from the store said he saw a night intruder drive away. The burglar used a wench to drag the safe to the truck.

Store Manager C. A. Bristol said the safe contained mostly checks and the loss would be small.

Meanwhile, University Park Police Sgt. C. R. Warnick recovered $200 in cigarets taken in the robbery of another Safeway store last night. The burglar, however, abandoned his car and escaped on foot.

Store officials said the intruder knocked a knob on the safe, but failed to get into it.

Abundant Supplies Of Feed Forecast

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—An abundant fall and winter feed supply in most areas of the state was in prospect as of Aug. 1.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that ranges and pastures were supplying adequate feed over the entire state.

In other reports, the USDA's Bureau of Agricultural Economics said:

The Texas 1949 lamb crop, estimated at 3,206,000 head, was seven per cent above last year's short crop of 2,992,000 head, but 27 per cent below the 10-year (1938-47) average of 4,413,000.

The Texas wool clip shorn and to be shorn this year is estimated at 51,569,000 pounds, the smallest since 1930. Last year's clip totaled 55,653,000 pounds and the 10-year average was 75,906,000 pounds.

Commercial meat production in Texas during June totaled 63,703,000 pounds. That was up 13 per cent from the amount produced during May, but one-fourth less than production for June, 1948.

Economic Sabotage Is Claimed Mounting In Polish Industry

WROCLAW, Poland, Aug. 13 (AP)—Economic sabotage, most of it apparently centering in industries operated in former Eastern German lands, seem to be on the increase in Poland.

Arrests and trials of those accused of sabotage are frequent. A casual check of arrests reported by Polish newspapers since Jan. 1 showed 160 persons had landed in jail. Many of these included directors or vice-directors of industrial plants.

Petition For Second Kiwanis Club To Be Sent To Chicago

A petition for the formation of a second Kiwanis club in Lubbock will be sent to the central headquarters in Chicago Monday night, club officials have announced. The action will be taken at a banquet in the Lubbock hotel mezzanine at 7:30 p. m.

If approved, the formation of a new club would make the Kiwanians the only service organization in Lubbock to have two clubs, according to Roy Bass, chairman of the petition committee.

Purpose of the petition for a new chapter is to take care of the large number of members here and to further the belief that "competition is the spice of trade," Bass said. Kiwanians hope to have the new organization functioning before the district convention in Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 2-4.

Present membership of the Lubbock Kiwanis club is 219. Twenty-five is the minimum number which can form a club.

Hoover Commission Saves $31,000 Of Allotted Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Hoover commission, whose aim was to save you money through streamlining government operations, today reported a savings itself of $31,000.

It said this was the amount left over from the $1,938,000 Congress appropriated two years ago to finance the vast research job on government reorganization which the commission recently completed.

Between the time the bi-partisan study group was set up on July 7, 1947, under the direction of former President Herbert Hoover, and its legal wind-up last June 12, it turned out over 2 million words telling ways it had found to slash government costs.

Labor Groups To Face Rough Times, Union Leader Predicts

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 13. (AP)—Woodruff Randolph, president of the International Typographical union (AFL), predicted rough times ahead for organized labor today.

And, addressing the opening of ITU's 91st annual convention, he declared:

"The very life of this union is at stake.

"It has been so since the Taft-Hartley law was enacted. It will continue so until that law has been repealed."

He urged some 2,000 delegates and visitors that it was vital for members to get behind ITU's collective bargaining policies in order for the union to survive.

Basis for Randolph's gloomy prediction on labor's future was the Taft-Hartley act and the fact the present Congress did not repeal it.

This is Barkley's home town. He is to speak tomorrow at a program dedicating the Paducah airport as "Barkley field." Mrs. Hadley will stay over for tomorrow's program.

The vice-president has denied rumors he and his St. Louis guest will be married here.

Air Force Starting Two-Year Project For Rocket Research

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Air Force, which sings about flying "up in the wild, blue yonder," announced plans today to discover what the stuff's like 75 miles above the earth.

To find out, it said it is starting a new rocket research project using 3,000-miles-per-hour missiles developed by its aerial rival—the Navy.

The two-year program will be conducted at the Holloman Air Force base at Alamogordo, N. M., where the first "aerobee" rocket will be fired next Tuesday.

The Air Force said in a statement that results of the 60 rocket tests will be used in helping design new guided missiles which some scientists predict eventually may be able to circle the globe.

Girlstown Building Project Is Launched With Groundbreaking Ceremonies Saturday

she overcame obstacles.

The first building will be about 300 feet long and 36 feet wide and will contain 32 bedrooms, office and consultation room and living room.

Work To Be Rushed

Exterior will be of pumice blocks. Six logs peeled and shellacked will be arranged vertically at intervals on the front center portion of the building. Inside walls and ceiling will be of stucco and plaster and floors will be concrete with tile covering except in the living room, where floor will be of hardwood.

The center portion will face toward the gate, at an angle to the highway. A marble statue of an "All-American girl" and a fountain, which would be placed inside the entrance, is being considered as a possible gift from Whiteface residents.

Work opened immediately on the building after the brief groundbreaking ceremony, which was made up of moving of dirt by 22-months-old "Little Marie," resident of Girlstown, and a few remarks followed by prayer by Rev W. H. Hughes, pastor of Whiteface Baptist church, who gave tribute to the vision of the director of Girlstown.

About 100 foot of ditch was dug Saturday.

Labor To Be Donated

If the building were being built on contract, the cost would be about $125,000, C. J. Lightholder, business manager and secretary of the Building and Trades council of Lubbock, estimated Saturday.

Men representing affiliated crafts of the Building and Trades council in Lubbock will donate labor. A supervisor will be furnished by the council. Labor will not be limited to union labor and anyone wishing to donate a day or more of work is welcome to report to Girlstown, Lightholder said.

Numerous and varied gifts of money, labor, services and material have been donated.

E. E. Brown, N. A. Brown, R. P. Brown and King Chambless of Texas Pumice Block Co. donated $1,000 in pumice blocks.

Many Aid In Project

Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club, which cooperates as a sponsor of different phases of the Girlstown project with emphasis on the building fund, has compiled a list of Lubbock persons known by that organization to have contributed: Wright Kerr, Dunlap's, Sidney Claiborne, Mrs. Tobe Foster, Dale Bucker, Harold Griffith, Blackwell Mattress Co., Roy Heath, Mrs. Rosie Drake, K. L. Riggs, Sears, Roebuck & Co., G. P. Kuykendall, Mrs. Lillie B. Hall, Mrs. Byron Chappell, Mrs. Hugh C. Dryer, Ellison Drug and Anthony Co.

Owen W. McWhorter of Lubbock and Judge A. K. Dawson of Abilene are legal consultants and legal consultant at Austin is to be appointed.

Girlstown committees composed of Panhandle and South Plains residents, will be announced Aug. 23 at a meeting at 2 p. m. at Whiteface school auditorium. At that time, approximately $1,000 received from a recent barbecue and rodeo held at Whiteface will be presented to Miss Anthony, said H. P. Clemons, superintendent at Whiteface.

One visitor at the groundbreaking Saturday learned the ages of the 10 girls in Girlstown so she might report to Cowan Home Demonstration club. She was Mrs. C. J. Lightholder, Good Neighbor chairman of the club, which each year furnishes clothing for a family or group.

Gifts and letters to Girlstown have come from over the Panhandle and South Plains and from other states, said Miss Anthony.

The urgency of letters seeking to have girls admitted to Girlstown bears out the need to have the residence built as quickly as possible, she said.

The second building to be started will be the barn, which will be used as a dining room and general assembly room with capacity of between 400 and 500 persons. Long range plan is to have seven residences in 10 years. The name residence is used for the large buildings which will house many girls because it bears a home-like quality, said the director.

She expressed hopes both the residence now under construction and the barn might be completed by Nov. 13. "We hope to have Thanksgiving dinner in the barn and have everyone here who has taken part in labor, materials or any other assistance in building the barn or residence."

The United States has 45 per cent of the world's coal supply. The Soviet Union has 27 per cent.

Arms Aid Program Faces New Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The foreign arms program bumped into a new controversy today when Sen. Maybank (D-SC) charged the administration with trying to short circuit congressional action through a Reconstruction Finance Corp. loan.

Reacting to reports that Secretary of State Acheson favors such a loan to speed the furnishing of arms to Western European nations, Maybank summoned RFC officials before the banking committee for a public hearing Monday.

At the same time, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Foreign Relations committee conceded there has been discussion of a plan to write into the pending $1,450,000,000 foreign military bill a provision under which up to $800 million could be borrowed from the RFC to start the program rolling once Congress approves it.

Called "Buck Passing" Scheme

Spread Of New Mexico Bubonic Plague Virus Presents Danger

SANTA FE, Aug. 13. (INS)—The alarming spread of bubonic plague virus among wild rodents in New Mexico poses a definite danger to human beings.

H. C. Duke, U. S. health department sanitary engineer, said today there is always the possibility that bubonic plague could attain "epidemic" proportions.

He said that since the disease is difficult to recognize at first, there is always the danger that a victim might reach the pneumonic stage. In the pneumonic stage the sufferer can communicate the disease to others simply by polluting the air around him.

Vaughan Takes Blame In Probe

freezers, one of which was sent to the White House in Washington for the lunch room used by members of the staff.

The general declared forcefully that "there was nothing improper in ny manner regarding the gift of these units."

The freeze units were the gift of the Albert Verley Perfume Co., of Chicago. John F. Maragon, friend of the President and an intimate of Gen. Vaughan, formerly represented the firm in Washington.

Was Offered Units

Vaughan stated that he was offered the units in 1945 by "two old friends of mine—Harry Hoffman and David Bennett."

The Harry Hoffman mentioned by Vaughan has been subpoenaed by the "five percent" committee to explain the ice box case. Hoffman is an advertising man whose agency represented the perfume company, owned by Bennett.

Vaughan issued his statement as the Senate "five percent" committee seized the records of the Verley firm to learn whether it tried to curry favor with high officials through the freezer gifts.

The freezers actually were sent by Albert Gross, Milwaukee business man and head of a refrigerator firm at that time (1945). Gross testified he actually sent one to Vaughan but was halted before he could name other recipients.

"Nothing Improper"

Gross is scheduled to reappear before the investigators next week. He reportedly has a letter from Mrs. Bess Truman "thanking" him for the freezer.

Vaughan's statement was issued by the White House, under the heading "Statement by Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan," The statement asserted:

"Stories have appeared in the newspapers yesterday and today which bring in to the investigation the names of prominent persons. These stories refer to certain deep freeze units that were delivered in Washington and elsewhere.

"I believe that I should make a statement at this time so that it will be absolutely clear that there was nothing improper in any manner regarding the gifts of these units.

Asks For Units

"In 1945 I had a talk with two old friends of mine—Mr. Harry Hoffman and Mr. David Bennett.

"The subject of deep freeze units came up, and I said that I would like to have one for my house and that I would also like to send one to the little white house in Independence.

"Mr. Hoffman . . . informed me that he could obtain some deep freeze units that did not have commercial market value, as they were experimental models.

"At that time I informed him that I would like to have him send one to me and one to the White House in Washington for the lunchroom used by members of the staff.

Extended As Courtesy

"Also, I asked him to send one to the little white house in Independence, Mo., and to send other units to Mr. Fred Vinson, Mr. John Snyder, Mr. James K. Vardaman and Mr. Matthew J. Connelly. I had previously told them that I was going to get some deep freeze units and that I would like each one of them to have one.

"It is my recollection that the persons to whom the units were sent were not acquainted with either Mr. Hoffman of Mr. Bennett.

"They may have asked me later from whom I obtained the units and some acknowledgement of the receipt of the units may have been made to these men, or to either of them.

"The simple explanation of the entire matter is that Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Bennett desired to extend this courtesy to me as a friend, and in turn made gifts of these units to certain friends of mine."

Track Official Summoned

The congressional investigators also moved today to bring to a head two more spotlighted phases of the sensational inquiry.

It subpoenaed to appear on Monday Paul Bowser, president of Boston's Foxboro race track, to explain sworn testimony of other witnesses that the horse-race plant was renovated at a time when housing materials were scarce.

The committee also delved deeper into the evidence which caused suspension of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chemical corps chief, for alleged collusion with a "five percenter."

DEALER SAYS MARAGON 'COULDN'T' HELP HIM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 13 (INS) — A Milwaukee businessman declared tonight that John Maragon, former shoeshine boy and White House pass-holder, "couldn't do any good" for him in any business deal in the nation's capital.

The Milwaukee Sentinel quoted E. J. Afram, president of the Afram Brothers Co., and of the E. J. Afram Steel and Supply Co., wholesale scrap iron and metal dealers, of Milwaukee, as saying:

"Why, a dealer had to bid on that stuff and it went to the highest bidder.

To Testify Tuesday

"That's the way we get our scrap from the government.

"Maragon couldn't do any good."

The Sentinel reported Afram said that Maragon tried vainly to lure the Milwaukee scrap dealer into financial deals with "collect long distance calls" and brochures.

Afram will be in Washington, D. C., Tuesday morning to tell what he knows about Maragon, reportedly an alleged peddler of influence in high places, to the Senate subcommittee investigating the "five percenters."

Area Cotton Outlook

spider on a cotton leaf and asked what it was.

"That's one of the best friends you have," Clapp remarked.

Then he turned the leaf over and discovered another spider feeding on a half-eaten flea hopper. Flea hopper infestation threatened to become serious a few weeks ago but reports Saturday indicated continuing progress in bringing the pests under control.

Clapp emphasized that the danger of heavy insect damage has not been eliminated. Some areas already have been hard hit. But these areas, he said, are negligible when compared with the more than 2,755,000 acres planted in cotton on the South Plains this year. He does not expect other damage before the harvest begins around Sept. 20 to be heavy.

But he warned that bollworms are the worst menace, and are spreading. They have reached poisoning counts in Lubbock and Lamb counties, he said. Some poisoning is in progress in Terry and Lynn counties, he added.

"The bollworms are being watched carefully, but our farmers know from experience how potent they can be and how to deal with them," Clapp said.

"I find no cause for alarm at present, but they are a menace of the future and could cause serious damage."

He referred to the available supply of poison as "only fair," with enough on hand for immediate needs, but insufficient to deal with a quick general infestation.

Some Damage Noted

Relative to insect conditions in specific areas, Clapp noted:

"Flea hoppers did some early damage in the south, central and west counties of the area, serious to individuals but not in total amount when the large acreage is considered. They now are on the wane and plants are sufficiently fruited to withstand attacks.

"We find in the northern tier of counties—Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher and Briscoe, as well as Bailey, Hale, Floyd, Crosby and Garza—that infestation by any insects has been very light and damage almost nil.

"Careless worms are heavy in Hale county alfalfa fields and may move to cotton when the alfalfa is cut."

He reported that hail last week —unusually late — destroyed or damaged about 9,500 acres of cotton. The Anton area was hardest hit, he said, where about 3,000 acres were flattened and about 3,000 were damaged. About 2,000 acres were damaged in Shallowater area and about 1,500 in the vicinity of Morton.

Clapp said that "bullfrog" rains —those that hop from spot to spot —brought precipitation ranging from a trace to three inches to scattered areas last week. Damage was slight.

Farmers in a few dryland areas, including portions of Lynn county, would welcome moisture, Clapp observed. Most of the farmers elsewhere would perfer dry weather, he added.

He described the progress of the crop over the South Plains as a whole last week as "fair," the condition of the fields as "fair to good," and the labor supply "sufficient for the present."

'Lost Battalion' Meet

has been doing during the past year on behalf of former prisoner of war veterans. Heinen has made several trips to Washington and Los Angeles to confer on PW problems and to seek redress for the suffering of some 180,000 American prisoners.

O. C. Webster, Amarillo, succeeded Woodrow L. Starnes, Decatur, as first vice-president; Dale Lewis, Amarillo, was elected second vice-president to replace Luther J. Prunty, Jacksboro; and Tex McFarland, Hereford, was elected secretary. He succeeds Maston L. Rea, Plainview. The position of treasurer is automatically attached to the job of president.

In outlining the accomplishments of the past year Heinen pointed to the work the organization had been doing to further public law number 896. Heinen said the law had laid idle for almost a year without action. A telegram to President Truman from the "Lost Battalion" got immediate action and a commission was named to administer the law.

Group Works With VA

The organization is also working closely with the Veterans administration to expedite aid for needy veterans of World War II.

It was because of Heinen's work in behalf of his fellow war prisoners that won him the re-election unanimously.

The "Lost Battalion" is made up of former Texas National guardsmen who were members of the 131st Field Artillery and allied units, sailors and Marines from the USS Houston which was sunk in Soenda strait. Practically all of the members were residents of West Texas at the time they were called into national service.

The "Lost Battalion" was part of the regiment commanded by Col. Thomas A. Bay, Plainview. They fought a delaying action on Java during the retreat from the Philippines until captured by the Japanese on March 8, 1942. All were taken to prison camps in Sumatra, Burma, Singapore, Siam and Japan, where they were forced to perform hard labor in mines and mills. Many hundreds died from the hardships, the brutal treatment and malnutrition.

As the "Lost Battalion" wound up its fifth annual reunion a vote of thanks was given to the Plainview members who were hosts to this year's meeting. Those commended were Col. Bay, Maston L. Rea and Buster Spann, and the wives of the three men. The reunion was voted the most entertaining and successful so far held by the organization.

State Senator Quits

Except for war years, he had served in the legislature since 1939, two terms in the House and three in the Senate.

During the war, he was a lieutenant colonel with the famed 36th Infantry division.

Shivers said that in Taylor's resignation, "the state loses one of its most able and earnest public servants."

Taylor formerly published newspapers at Kerens and Corsicana. Between the last two legislative sessions he served as public relations director for the Texas Manufacturers association.

Taylor said he would move to Austin with his family and take over his new job immediately. The Texas Motor Transportation association, he said, represents one of the state's major industries, is the state's largest employer group and second largest taxpayer, exceeded only by the oil industry.

Taylor's resignation left acting Lieut. Gov. G. C. Morris to find another finance committee head for next January's special session to solve the problem of financing needed state hospital, construction.

Probe Of B-36

Vinson, committee chairman, "is evidently engaged in a whitewash job" on the B-36, and "the real purpose" of Vinson and Symington "is to endeavor to discredit me." A speech by Van Zandt in the House May 26 led to the committee probe. He spoke of "disturbing reports" about the business and political relations of Symington, Johnson and Floyd Odlum, head of the firm making the B-36.

Among other things, Van Zandt said he had heard Symington plans to resign his government job to take over an aircraft manufacturing combine being organized by Odlum. Symington has vigorously denied it. Van Zandt added that Odlum helped Johnson raise campaign money for the Democratic party last fall.

Van Zandt said then, and repeated Friday, that he did not claim the reports were true. He only brought them up, he explained, because he felt there should be a congressional investigation "to clear the air."

The committee went into the history of the B-36 step by step this week, and picked up some interesting information about the six-engined giant, which is built in Fort Worth, Tex.

It is "a truly intercontinental bomber," Air Force generals told the committee, and could reach targets anywhere in the world from bases on the North American continent.

Derby Contest Today

all over North America.

And that's all a part of the Derby program, to get the boys all relaxed before the big race so that they'll think more about the fun they're having than building up tension for the roll down the hill-side course before a crowd ranging between 75,000 and 90,000 persons.

Jimmy Stewart On Hand

A visit by James Stewart, noted movie star from Hollywood, highlighted today's program at the camp with Stewart appearing at a breakfast at which Jimmy Doolittle, famed leader of the Tokyo raiders, was host.

Stewart will act as Marshal in Sunday's big pre-race parade.

Today also marked the visit of another personality to the camp, a 13-year-old refugee from eastern Europe, Ekkehard Kornmesser, who won a German soap box derby last month. Ekkehard was flown here by the U. S. Army as a prize for winning the German race, patterned after the U. S. Derby. He will only be an observer.

Given Warm Welcome

It is the writer's regret that everyone reading this piece isn't here to see the Derby and the wonderful reception given the local champions.

Visiting Derby Downs topside Friday where the cars are displayed prior to the race, our thoughts kept flashing back to the cities, towns and villages all over America where Soap Box Derby races were held.

Every car was a winner in its hometown, and every car carries with it the hopes and aspirations of a young builder, his parents, his friends and most of the residents of his home town. He made it with loving care which every champ must put into his racer and he will race it Sunday with all the enthusiasm of American youth.

Wide Section Represented

Each of the cars represents an average of approximately 150 boys from the cities over the nation, Canada, Alaska and the Panama Canal zone.

Some were exceptionally slick little racers, others not so slick and some just plain outright soap box affairs.

Norman's car compares favorably with the average car in the group, although there are several which make a cabinet maker's eyes green with envy.

But, all in all, the cars look about like the 226 racers assembled on U. S. Highway 87 northeast of Lubbock for our Derby last July 4.

Runs In 32nd Heat Today

Of course there are names like Pat Flynn from Boston, Raymond Koenig from Cincinnati, Thomas Seybold from Dayton, Leo Pagel from Muscatine, Iowa, Robert Wissink from Mankato, Minn., Donald Klepsch from Detroit, Tommy Novrkal from Nebraska City, Neb., Rudolph W. Maier from Juneau, Alaska, and Robert Schlotzhauer from Ithica, N. Y.

Believe it or not, there are only two Joneses and two Smiths in the entire race.

Norman made his test run in fine fashion after passing inspection Friday. His car number is 77 and he will run in the 32nd heat against Paul Rinnert of Marion, O., and David Weedin of Wenatachee, Wash.

Smallest of the young racers is Baltimore's Darryl Ruppert, 11-year-old who weighs only 57 pounds and stands but four feet, two inches.

Heaviest boy is Howard R. Kermode of Los Angeles, Calif., who tips the scales at an even 150 pounds.

Sunday's race is more or less an anti-climax to the four-day stay of the boys here, for their welcome and treatment is such that all will leave Akron still feeling they are champions.

Sunday night's banquet features presentation of gold wrist watches to each local champion along with a scroll for having participated in the national finals.

The entrants from Alaska to the canal zone will vie for first prize of a $5,000 college scholarship and an automobile that will go to the second place winner.

Akron's top industrialists and business leaders donned kitchen aprons today to personally serve the boys hot dogs at a luncheon. An oil company held a breakfast in their honor.

Stewart, with his new bride, will serve as grand marshal of the annual parade preceding the 2 p. m. (EDT) (12 p. m. CST) starting time tomorrow. It will mark the third year he has acted in that capacity.

Board Approves Tech Expansion

for Raymond Pfluger of Eden who was appointed to the Board by the late Gov. Beauford Jester shortly before his death. Another new member, C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder was unable to be present for the meeting. Also attending Saturday was Robert B. Price of El Paso who was re-appointed to the Board at the same time McLaughlin and Pfluger were named to it.

Also included on the agenda were several smaller appropriations to the various departments. The agricultural education department received $1,100 for departmental maintenance. A $2,110 appropriation was made to the plant industry department to replace equipment lost by fire on March 15, 1949.

The music department was granted $7,000 for new instruments and music. A $1,860 contract was awarded the H. D. Sharpe company of Chickasha, Okla., for painting and cleaning the smoke stacks and water towers at the college.

Likely Won't Finish Quadrangle

During the morning session, which began at 9 a.m., girls from the Home Economics division served coffee to the members present. The Board lunched in the Dorm 4 dining room after which it paid a visit to the office of Elo Urbanosky, landscape artist, and inspected a campus plot model which showed the work being done on the campus.

The afternoon session was called to order at 1:30 p. m. and shortly thereafter the Board approved plans for the Administration building wings.

The plans, as drawn up by Hedrick, stipulate that each wing be 60 feet wide and 130 feet long. They will be of the same type Spanish architecture as the rest of the building and will also be three stories high. There will be a half basement under each wing.

While the original plans drawn up when the college opened call for a quadrangle with a south side to the Administration building, officials said Saturday it was doubtful this step would ever be taken. The first floor of the east wing will be used for office space alone. The first floor of the west wing will have both office and classroom space. The entire second floor of both wings will be for classrooms and the third floors will be for offices and classrooms.

Other Business Routine

The Board accepted the resignation of A. S. Gaylord, jr., librarian, effective July 1, 1949. College officials have previously announced R. C. Janeway had been appointed to that post and would assume his duties in the fall. An appropriation of $2,000 was also made to the Library for maintenance for the coming year.

Several leaves of absence were granted by the Board in the meeting. Those included Owen Caskey in the department of education and psychology to attend the University of Colorado and complete requirements for a doctor's degree; William Loyd Jenkins, department of engineering drawing, to complete requirements for a master's degree at the Georgia Institute of Technology and L. J. Powers, professor of mechanical engineering, to complete work on a master of science degree at the University of Texas.

Out of state leaves for short periods of time approved Saturday included Prof. T. E. Hamilton, in the foreign language department to attend the Modern Language Association of America meeting in Stanford, Calif. Sept. 5-11; Prof. E. R. Heineman, professor of mathematics, to attend the National Conference of Math Teachers in Denver Aug. 27-Sept. 4 and Prof. L. E. Parsons, head of the textile department, to attend a meeting of the National Council of Textile School Deans in Manchester, England Oct. 1 through Nov. 30.

Board members present Saturday included Thompson, Leon Ince, Houston; Mark McGee, Fort Worth; Pfluger; Price and Pres. D. M. Wiggins. A. G. Mayse of Paris, Chanselor Weymouth of Amarillo and McLaughlin were not present.

Guests at the meeting included Frank Junell, assistant to Dr. Wiggins; W. T. Gaston, college business manager; M. L. Pennington, college comptroller and Wyatt Hedrick.

'PIGS' INVADE HOTEL

Guests at Grosvenor House, London, were surprised when men arrived carrying pennants bearing the word "pigs," but learned they were members of the Plastic Industries Golfing Society preparing for their annual dinner.

FOUR DRUM STICKS — What every American family food budget needs is a chicken with four legs such as "Henrietta." The hybrid fowl is owned by Walter C. Chatwell of 1121 Thirty-first who sadly fears a breed of such chickens may never be developed. When Henrietta wants to rest, he (or she) rests on her two other legs. She scratches for food with them, too. (Staff Photo by Lonnie Hudkins.)

frightening."

Chatwell, a poultry specialist, discovered the 8-month-old chicken three weeks ago at Dan Smith's farm at Tahoka.

"I've heard of other three and four-legged chickens being hatched," Chatwell said, "but had never heard of one living more than a few days. Henrietta is just as healthy as any normal chicken."

But Henrietta is a difficult bird to interview. He (or she) refused to utter a single cluck (or crow) until a bit of grain was held under his (or her) beak. Then she (or he) did both.

"It confuses the neighbors," Chatwell confessed.

Name Is Confusing

Although Henrietta is a hybrid chicken, he (or she) has the same coloring and build of a white leghorn.

Chatwell, a resident of Haskell until he moved to Lubbock three years ago was a vocal teacher in Jones county for many years. But 15 years ago he became interested in chickens and established his business of culling and doctoring the usually two-footed birds.

Since then he has published several poultry pamphlets, the latest titled "The Chatwell System of Culling Poultry."

He is assisted in his business by his wife and 21-year-old son, Horwell.

The name Henrietta is the only disappointment Chatwell has in the fowl. "Maybe I should call it Jo (or Joe)," he mused.

He was born in Barry July 29, 1913, and made his home with an uncle G. W. Gingham, in Grand Prairie, after his parents died. He was married to Zanita Marabel in McKinney in 1939.

Others Leave Hospitals

Survivors include the wife, who was removed to Plainview from St. Mary's hospital Saturday; two children, Dion, 9, and a daughter Deanne, 6; and a sister Mrs. Leslie Shivers of Big Spring.

State police said the Jackson brothers and Thomas were enroute to Lubbock in a 1948 Chevrolet when the vehicle skidded over a highway island into the path of Melton's late-model Hudson sedan going toward Plainview.

Jackson told officers shortly after the accident that a tire had blown out, causing him to lose control of the automobile.

Riding in the Melton car were Miss Lynna Carter, 20, of Plainview, J. P. McPherson, 25, and L. A. Compton, both of Lockney.

COTTON DUSTER KILLED

SARDIS, Miss., Aug. 13 (AP)—A young Ohio pilot, flying low to dust bollweevil poison over a cotton field near here, died today when his plane crashed into a tree. He was 25-year-old Herbert C. Poston of Lakemora, near Akron. His Cub plane exploded into flame in the crash, burning his body almost beyond recognition.

On a per capita basis the British taxpayer, under austerity conditions, is paying $16 a year for naval defense, while the New Zealander pays $6, Commander C. H. T Palmer, president, told members of the Navy League of New Zealand.

Man Arrested In Check Law Case

City police and sheriff's officers teamed up last night to take into custody a New Mexico man sought here since last September on a warrant charging check law violation.

County officials said the suspect was being questioned in connection with a series of check cases—all of a similar nature — dating back to mid-1948.

The man, James Woodrow Webb, 31, of Clovis, N. M., was arrested by sheriff's deputies in an East Broadway tourist court where he had been followed by city patrolmen, acting on a tip from an employment agency.

Trap Was Set

The "break" came when the manager of the Mexican labor camp on North Ave. H became suspicious of Webb and called police after Webb reportedly attempted to hire a girl at the camp. Webb, the manager said, represented himself as a medical student at Tech and said he needed an assistant for special work.

Patrolmen Ira E. Scott and James D. Atchison were stationed at the labor camp when Webb arrived and picked up a woman "planted" by police to accept the offer of a job. The policemen followed the cab to the tourist court, which is outside the city limits, and called the sheriff's department to make the arrest. Deputy Sheriffs B. F. Forrester and John Barnett took Webb into custody about 8:15 p.m.

The room occupied by Webb at the motor camp was "crammed with flowers," the officers said. No explanation of the floral display had been advanced late last night.

Would Order Goods

Officials said that in each of the cases under renewed investigation since Webb's arrest, a man had purchased a quantity of goods from a Lubbock merchant and tendered a check larger than the purchase price of the goods. The man would take the difference in change, ask that the goods be delivered to a certain address — usually non-existent — and disappear leaving behind a bad check, officers said.

Difficulty in apprehending Webb until last night was cleared up when it was learned he had been a patient in Veteran's hospitals much of the time he was being sought by law enforcement circles.

Jerry Lynn McClure and Bill Ray Smith, both 17, pleaded guilty in county court of the theft Aug. 4 of a tire, tube and wheel from George Leftwich. County Judge Walter Davies fined McClure $5 and court costs and sentenced him to jail for 60 days. Smith was fined $25 and costs and assessed three days in jail.

Fines Are Assessed

In another case charging theft July 30 of a tire, tube and wheel from I. M. Hackett, McClure and Alton Lemons, also 17, entered pleas of guilty. Judge Davies fined McClure $5 and court costs and assessed 60 days in jail time. Lemons was fined $25 and costs and sent to jail for three days. McClure's sentences are to run concurrently.

D. F. Payne, 20, of 2905 Edna, charged with false imprisonment of C. G. Coker, jr., by assault and violence, pleaded guilty and was sent to jail for 30 days and ordered to pay court costs. He also was ordered to serve 30 days and pay costs for illegal possession of a pistol. The assessments are to be served concurrently.

Coker said he was recently forced to accompany Payne and another man in a car against his will. Coker alleges he was later beaten.

Bob Teston of the Grapette Bottling company here informed the sheriff's department of a burglarly at the building Friday night or early Saturday morning. Nothing apparently was taken from the building, but gasoline was siphoned from three trucks parked outside, Teston said.

A motorclycle on which was mounted a motor-scooter license was found abandoned in Mackenzie State park Saturday. The license had been issued in Odessa, Austin records showed. The person alleged to have had possession of the motorcycle was said by a friend to have gone to San Angelo to "clear title."

VIOLENCE BREAKS OUT AT RALLY

Western German Voters To Go To Polls For Showdown Today

By TOM AGOSTON
INS Staff Correspondent

FRANKFURT, Aug. 13—Six persons were injured tonight when Social Democrats broke up an election eve rally of pro-Hitlerites and other rightists at Brunswick in the British occupation zone.

It was the first major violence in the election campaign which culminates with balloting by an estimated 25 million voters of western Germany tomorrow in the first free federal election since Hitler came to power 16 years ago.

Flag Torn Down

The Socialists manhandled several supporters of the "German Rightist party"—one of the smaller groups in the campaign—who had shouted "Heil Hitler."

The Socialists tore down a black, white and red flag from the speakers stand. Those were the colors of the kaiser's old reich and later were used by Hitler for the national emblem.

Witnesses reported the outbreak was provoked when some of the rightists started the "heiling."

Former Nazi Speaks

Meanwhile at another "Rightist party" rally, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, financial expert of the Nazi regime, who was acquitted at the war crimes trial in Nurenberg, was the principal speaker. There were no disturbances at this rally near Brunswick.

German voters will start the job of setting up the new federal republic. It was predicted more than half of the 45 million west Germans will cast ballots. There has been no great enthusiasm displayed by the electorate.

They will pick some 400 members of the Bundestag, or lower House of Parliament, in the new Soviet-opposed government and set the stage for selection of the men who will guide Western Germany's destiny for the next four years.

First Major Test

Later on, a Bundesrat, or upper House, will be appointed by the 11 state administrations in the American, British and French zones and the entire Parliament then will elect a president and chancellor.

In turn the President and chancellor will form a cabinet which will steer Western Germany to the left, right or down the center against a background of severe problems such as growing unemployment and the headache arising from the division of the defeated country by the Big Four.

Election of the men and women who will make up the lower half of postwar Germany's first democratic parliament will provide the first big-scale test of the strength of the political parties, from the Communists on the left to the German party on the extreme right.

It climaxes weeks of sharp electioneering, featured by appeals to nationalism which drew a rebuke from the U. S. military government.

Key issues included the questions of free or planned economy, the allied dismantling policy and the future status of territories now lost to Germany in the east and west.

Candidates also got in their licks at the continued allied occupation of Germany, Ruhr control and the occupation statute.

The occupation statute coming into force next month curtails the powers of the new government until a German peace treaty is signed.

Services Slated For Whitfield Man Today

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 13. (Special)—Funeral services will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. for Lee Baugh, 62, in the Kress Baptist church of Plainview. Baugh died early Saturday morning in the Plainview sanitarium after suffering a heart attack about midnight Friday on his farm in Whitfield.

He was born in Mississippi and moved to Swisher county in 1915. He lived there intermittently until 1942 when he settled permanently.

The Rev. A. L. Shaw, Baptist pastor in Happy, will officiate and the Rev. Russel Pogue, pastor of the Kress Baptist church will assist. Burial will be in the Plainview cemetery under the direction of the Roy G. Wood Funeral home.

He is survived by his wife, one aunt, Mrs. Jesse Benton of Lorel, Miss., and a neice, Mrs. Virgil Lay of Lena, Miss.

Three Cars Involved In Crash Near Alvin; Passengers Shaken

ALVIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—Four persons were shaken up badly in a three-way crash a mile and a half north of here on highway 35 late yesterday.

Miss Lurline Roach and Mrs. Odell Kennedy of Houston, who had been visiting at Algoa, were en route back to Houston. The highway department recently had shaped up the shoulders of the highway and the car which Miss Roach was driving skidded in the soft dirt and spun around.

J. V. Ash, 60, of Bastrop, driving just behind the Roach car, ran into it and spun it around again and about the time a car driven by Mrs. Lucil Ash, a daughter-in-law, piled into the one driven by Mr. Ash.

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Roach were brought to the Alvin hospital, where they were treated for shock and held for observation and x-rays. Mrs. Ash and her father-in-law were taken to Memorial hospital in Houston. He suffered a leg and knee injury and she severe shock.

HEAD LID—"The lid that keeps the powder dry" is modeled in Cleveland, O., by its inventor, Charles A. Mueller. The contraption is designed for baseball fans, for parades, or as a beach sunshade. It's very simple, says Mueller. It's made of a hinged piece of lacquered wood to which a piece of galvanized wire has been attached. Mueller's now out looking for a market.

San Angelo Unites Fund Raising Drives Into One Campaign

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 13. (AP)—San Angelo claims to be the first major city of Texas to set up a "one-time" fund raising campaign for all its welfare and charity organizations.

The board of directors of the community council have voted unanimously to hold a single federated campaign sometime in October. It took this action despite the fact that various national agencies have a policy against federated campaigns and will not cooperate. The council probably will raise funds for them anyway.

National organizations with a policy against federated campaigns are those concerned with disaster relief, cancer, infantile paralysis, heart and possibly tuberculosis.

The directors discussed the possible repercussions of the federated drive in relation to the attitude of the national organizations represented in the county. They decided finally that "the time has come to decide if the people who raise the money and do the work should not have the right to say how the funds shall be raised." Meanwhile, the top contributors to last year's Community Chest drive have signed a written agreement that "they would support only one fund raising campanga with funds and manpower."

In 1653, Izaak Walton described 12 fishermen's flies used to imitate insects which fish were thought to like.

Better U. S.-Mexico Labor Pact Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (U.P.)—Chairman Harold D. Cooley, (D., N.C.) said today the House Agriculture committee is trying to find a way to get better contracts for American employers of Mexican labor.

Constant complaints are coming from employers who say the contracts between the American and Mexican governments are becoming more favorable to Mexico each year, Cooley said.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, (D-N.M.), and Rep. John Phillips, (R-Calif.), appeared before a closed session of Cooley's committee yesterday urging relief for the employers, Cooley said.

It is too late to provide help this year, he said, but the committee is making plans for action before next year's contract is signed.

The present contract gives benefits to Mexican labor that are not required from American labor, Cooley said. It also prohibits American employers from hiring Mexicans from areas near the California and Texas borders, Cooley said. This forces the American employer to pay higher transportation costs to bring in Mexicans from many miles south, Cooley said.

Anderson and Phillips favor legislation reestablishing the border-crossing "white card". This would permit Mexicans living near the border to cross daily for employment in nearby American agricultural areas.

Cooley said Mexico is opposed to this, however, for fear that Mexicans living far south would flock to the border and thus overpopulate the border area.

Elderly Negro To Return To Texas For 31-Year-Old Escape

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13. (AP)—Officers here were notified today that Texas is sending an agent to pick up a 64-year-old negro who escaped a prison work gang 31 years ago.

John Elliott signed extradition papers and agreed to go back to a life he said would soon kill him.

A routine check by police after a fight disclosed that Elliott was sent to prison for 15 years in 1912 for shooting a white man in the leg. He escaped after serving six years.

He has lived here since the escape. He became a church official and servant to a prominent Oklahoma City family. His employer and city police said they would do everything they could to gain Elliott's release.

"I always figured that as long as I attended to my own business no one would bother me," Elliott said. "That's what my mother told me when I was a child in Virginia. Sometimes it doesn't work out.

"I won't last in prison. I've been free to long and my body can't take that kind of work anymore."

Waco Burglars Get $3,000 From Store

WACO, Aug. 13 (AP)—Safe crackers got more than $3,000 from Clark's grocery store here early this morning.

They left their tools at the scene when an early-arriving clerk, Pat Cape, came to open the store at 5 a. m. Cape said he didn't get a good look at them but saw some men leave by the back entrance.

The burglars bored a hole in the roof to enter and dropped on a pile of sacks under it. They knocked the knob off the safe with a heavy sledge hammer and wrecking bars.

Co-Manager Dick Clark said $500 was in checks, the rest in cash. He said it was "pretty well covered by insurance."

Misdirected Sign Results In Trouble For Colorado Bank

GUNNISON, Colo., Aug. 13 (AP)—There's no profit in re-selling stamps so the First National Bank is glad it's out of the "postoffice" business.

Tellers were puzzled by a flood of tourists asking for stamps, mailing schedules and such until one visitor finally noticed that an arrow sign, intended to point to the postoffice around a corner, had been moved by the wind until it pointed directly at the bank.

Lubbock Theater Patrons Give More Than $750 To Polio Fund

Theater customer contributions to the Texas polio fund Thursday and Friday nights totaled more than $750.

The Lindsey theater reported its ushers collected $638.14 and the Smith treaters, including the Tech, State and Plains, totaled $125 during the first two nights of the fund raising campaign which ends Wednesday night.

TEAK DEMAND DROPS

BANGKOK, Aug. 13. (AP) — The demand for teak wood, one of Thailand's major exports, is slackening in the United States, reports Charles E. Kelcy, vice president of the Sembodja Corporation visiting here. Cheap metals are being used instead for house and ship building, he remarked.

WHEELS BEGIN TO HUM AT LAFB—Lubbock Air Force Base these days hums with activity reminiscent of the war-time era as hundreds of civilians and military personnel bend a collective shoulder to the task of preparing the base for use as an integral part of peacetime Air Force training. While the work is classified by officers as "skeleton activities with the mission of developing the station in order to begin pilot training," its effects are already being felt in Lubbock by businessmen and others. At upper left, Col. H. D. Wallace, senior officer at the station, right, confers with Lt. Col. I. L. Hoffman, medical officer who is expected to be base medical officer. The second picture shows one of the busiest spots on the base—shipping and receiving. Here Tech. Sgt. Joe Allen pushes a crate up for checking by J. H. McMahan, civilian employe who recently came here from Shreveport, La., during the process of unloading a truck-trailer. The civilian personnel office, too, is an active place these days. The third picture from the left, first row, shows W. H. Gewin from Phoenix, Ariz., placing his application for a job with Miss Faye Bruce, who moved here from Shreveport. At extreme right is a scene that is duplicated all over the base—painting. Here two Lubbock contractors, L. A. Beatty and M. A. Mitchell, are redecorating an apartment which a G. I. family recently moved out of. Beatty and Mitchell are working with C. O. Carvel of Houston, who received the repainting contract at the base. As might be expected, the post exchange is already operating, and in the picture at lower left Mrs. Una Napper receives payment for a purchase from Pfc. Alfred McGough. McGough likes Lubbock, having recently returned from duty in Alaska. The second picture in the bottom row shows Lt. W. A. Hilton, housing officer, at work on the tremendous job of trying to find housing for military personnel. The picture at lower right portrays part of the outside rehabilitation work in progress as work is completed on a telephone cable near the base communications office. Corp. P. E. Dye, extreme left, Lt. Hilton and Lt. J. D. Sinnett, base communications officer, watch as work on the cable is done by Mike Cotter, E. G. Lamp and C. W. Wilson. (Staff Photos by Bill Clark.)

Girl, 14, Struggles Barefoot Up Steep Incline To Seek Help For Dead Parents

WALL, S. D., Aug. 13 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl was still shaken today from her barefooted struggle up a rock-strewn incline to seek aid for her parents, killed when their car plunged down the 100-foot hill.

Chrysa Franjos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Franjos of St. Paul, Minn., said their car left Highway 20 about 5 p. m. Thursday. She told how she spent part of the night unconscious and then several hours climbing the steep badlands hills.

After she reached the highway, the girls was passed by several motorists who later reported to authorities that a "crazy woman" had been seen.

Finally, at 6 a. m., Andrew Gallna, Round Lake, Minn., picked up the near-frantic girl and brought her to the Wall hospital.

Her parents' bodies were pulled to the top of the incline by ropes.

Tibetan Yak Dies Of Sunstroke In 97-Degree Arkansas Weather

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP)—The Little Rock zoo's only yak—a furry, cold weather animal—died of sunstroke yesterday.

Zoo officials said the animal's temperature reached 108 before death. Tibet is the native habitat of the fur-bearing yak.

Radioactive Rocks Deposits Reported Found In Arkansas

ROLLA, Mo., Aug. 13 (AP)—Discovery of two deposits of radioactive (a-bomb) rock in north central Arkansas was reported yesterday.

One deposit was announced by Frank Thomas, a private mining engineer. The second was confirmed by Lean Dupuy an official of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

Thomas said a small quantity of an unidentified radioactive ore was found this week in the Ozark mountain country near Harrison, Ark. A sample was sent to the U. S. Bureau of Mines at Rolla for tests.

Dupuy was reluctant to talk but he disclosed the other find was made about two monthes ago.

Used Geiger Counter

"We were looking for other minerals when we hit one we couldn't identify," Dupuy said. "A Geiger counter pointed out the stuff.

"We're not at liberty to disclose where the discovery was made. Any release of that sort would have to come from the Atomic Energy commission."

The mines official hedged when asked if the discovery was significant.

"But you can say it isn't uranium," he told reporters.

As for the Harrison deposit, Thomas commented:

"It may not be uranium at all, but it is live, radiant material."

Body Of Missing Man Found By Fishermen On Lake Texoma

DURANT, Okla., Aug. 13 (AP)—The body of Larkin Marvin Ladd, missing more than a week, was found drifted against the bank of Lake Texoma near Woodville late yesterday.

Ladd, a 53-year-old veteran of World War I, was buried today. He lived alone near the lake.

The body was found by two fishermen about six miles from where Ladd was seen fishing Aug. 2. There was $32.58 in his pockets.

Bryan county undersheriff Elmo Mason said there was no evidence of foul play.

Ladd rented a boat Aug. 2. A search began Aug. 5 when the boat was found near the Denison dam.

Woman's Last Request To Have Pet Buried With Her Is Denied

OCEAN PARK, Calif., Aug. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Dora Toutant Van Dyke, 69, wanted her little black Pomeranian, Toi, to be buried with her. She specified in her will.

But her last wish was denied. Virtually at the last minute Valhalla cemetery of Burbank, handling the burial yesterday, refused to have the inurned ashes of the dog placed in the coffin with Mrs. Van Dyke's body.

The administrator of her estate, William G. Thornbury, said that Mrs. Van Dyke had expressed the fear no one would properly care for her aged pet which she had taken for daily walks along the beach for 12 years. The dog had been chloroformed and cremated after his mistress' death.

Australians Start Building Up Navy Strength For Own Defense

By RONALD STEVENS
United Press Staff Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Australia has taken delivery of her first aircraft carrier, which gives her a small self-contained task force for the first time since World War I.

The carrier is the 14,000-ton H. M. A. S. Sydney, formerly the British carrier Terrible.

Naval experts said that because of the strategic transfer of United States naval power from the Pacific to the Atlantic, Australia's acquisition of the carrier was a worthwhile contribution to western naval air striking power in the Pacific.

United States carrier strength in the Pacific comprises three 27,000-ton craft and two small carriers, plus four jeep type carriers on the United States west coast.

Before the end of the year, Australia expects to take delivery of a second carrier of the same class as the Sydney, which it will call the Melbourne.

The Sydney joins Australia's present active service fleet of one eight-inch gun cruiser, five destroyers and smaller ships, which for the first time is commended by an Australian admiral, Rear Admiral J. A. Collins, C. B.

Five-Year Plan Adopted

The $16,000,000 carrier was bought under a $250,000,000 five-year naval defense plan adopted two years ago which is scheduled by 1952 to bring Australian naval strength in the Pacific to two light carriers, two cruisers and six destroyers on active service.

The naval air arm is expected to cost $73,000,000 in five years.

Under the defense scheme, 1947-48 naval serength of 10,000 men will increase to 15,000 by 1951-2.

Planes Are Fast

Sea Furies are said to be the fastest piston-engined fighters in the world today, with a combat speed of 450 m.p.h. They have an action radius of 760 miles. The two-seater Fireflies have a maximum range of 1,070 miles and combat speed of 390 m.p.h.

A naval spokesman said the Sydney would remain in Australian waters at present. After refitting at Sydney, it will cruise around the Austlarian coast and probably later engage in maneuvers with the Austlarian fleet.

The spokesman did not think it immediately likely the carrier would go to Hong Kong to strengthen the British garrison there.

He pointed out that suitable Pacific bases for the Sydney included Singapore, Hong Kong, Honolulu, San Diego, Auckland, and perhaps certain South American ports.

Fierce Wolf In Iran Kills 27 Sheep In Brief Attack

TEHRAN, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A wolf has set up a murderous record in the Iranian village of Bijar. He killed 27 sheep in seven minutes.

Hossein, a shepherd, was accustomed to keep his flock of 35 sheep in his own yard to protect them from the fierce wolves swarming around his village.

One wolf, however, bored a hole through the wall around Hossein's yard shortly after midnight.

Within seven minutes, the wolf tore the gullets of 27 sheep, seriously but not fatally injured another seven, and carried off another for his own private dinner.

Minister Gets A Kick Out Of Job

FARMINGTON, Me., Aug. 13 (AP)—A minister got a big kick—literally—out of his part time job as a Federal census taker. The Rev. Bernard B. Holland met a cow moose on the road between Rangeley and Oquossoc.

The parson leaned on his horn. The moose refused to budge. Holland put his car in second gear and tried to edge around the moose. In mulish fashion, the moose let drive with her rear hooves, putting two deep dents in the side of the car.

Mr. Hollaid decided to va-moose—but fast.

Marl Road In Florida Is Trap For Fishermen When It Rains

FLAMONGO, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP)—Ever hear of a fisherman being cut off by a cloud? It happens this way:

This little town at the southern tip of Florida (and of the United States) is reached by highway the last 15 miles of which is a marl road.

Marl is a kind of clay, powdery when dry but as slick as a greased pole when wet. Automobiles just sit in one spot and spin their wheels on the wet marl road. Flamingo is a popular fishing spot. Dozens of people drive here from Miami to fish. But all keep a wary eye on the sky. Any kind of a black cloud sends them fleeing over the marl road toward the paved highway 15 miles away.

Those who get a slow start sometimes are too late. Rain hits the marl road. They remain in Flamingo until the road dries again—sometimes as much as three days. That's embarrassing for a fisherman who told his wife to expect him for supper.

Build-And-Sell Routine Keeps Pair Busy Erecting Own Homes

OXNARD, Calif., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—George Boaz, building contractor, and his architect wife, Aile, have begun building their own home recently, but they don't know how long it will be theirs.

"We build a house, move in, and the first thing you know somebody drops in to have a beer and the house is sold," Boaz said.

The couple have been building homes almost since 1939, when they were married at Vandalia, Ill., where they were high school classmates. Their construction operations here began in 1945 when Boaz returned from overseas with the Seabees.

Since then they have built six single homes, two duplexes, a garage apartment and a shop.

"I guess we've lived in more new houses than anyone we know of," Boaz said.

More oaks are planted along streets and roadsides of the United States than any other variety of tree; maples ranking second.

Punching Bag Aids In Boy's Recovery

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A punching bag helped put 10-year-old Billy Lewan on the road to recovery from an injury that deprived him of his speech.

Billy suffered a brain injury in September, 1948, when he was struck by a back-lashing hose on a gas truck. He remained in a coma for six months and underwent four operations to remove a blood clot. A plate was installed in his brain.

Experts were called in, among them Joseph M. Wepman, University of Chicago psychologist. Wepman studied Billy's case. Then he set up a punching bag over the boy's bed.

The punch bag attracted Billy's attention. He tried a tentative punch. A faint smile of recognition spread over his face.

For weeks the psychologist called on Billy and gradually the boy began to repeat single words, then sentences.

In ancient Egypt and Babylon temples often were also banks.

Russian Communists Use Church To Spread Ideas In Holy Land

By ELIAV SIMON
United Press Staff Writer

JERUSALEM, Aug. 13—Checkmated by the United States and Britain in the Middle East, Russia has turned to the church to spread its influence in this part of the world.

History is repeating itself, because the same situation developed almost 100 years ago. And if Russia attains the same results now as it did then, the western powers will have something to reckon with.

Soon after Moscow became one of the five patriarchates of the Eastern Church, Nikolai, the patriarch, visited Jerusalem in 1592. From then on the Russian Church began to spread its teachings over the Balkans and the Middle East.

But it was not until the British, French and Turks trounced the Russians in the Crimean War in the middle of the last century that the Church expanded in earnest.

Czar Sends Missions

The Czar poured millions of gold rubles into Palestine and bought huge tracts of land, particularly in Jerusalem and Nazareth. The Ecclesiastical Mission and the Holy Pravislav Misson were formed by Czar Alexander and sent to Palestine in 1875.

Yearly Easter pilgrimages to the Holy Land were begun. Thousands left Russia by ship from Odessa and landed at either Jaffo or Acre. From there they traveled either in carriages or on the newly constructed railway to Jerusalem.

So many Russians had come that consuls were appointed in the Holy City and by 1880 Russian compounds, churches and schools began to dot the country.

Although the French church had been entrenched in Palestine for 200 years, the rivalry from the Russians began to be felt and competition over land-buying grew. The Turks and Arabs exploited the competition so that land values skyrocketed.

Churches Built

One of the most hotly-contested plots of ground, which finally landed in the Russians' hands, was next to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre where a Russian Church was built. A church was also built in Gethsemane and a colony nearby.

On top of the Mt. of Olives the Russians built a hospice. Its spire is still one of the highest in Jerusalem.

In Hebron on the site where Abraham was said to have been visited by the angels, the Russians built another church. Schools, monasteries and convents were also set up in Jaffa, Nazareth, Tiberias and Ain Karem, village, traditional birthplace of St. John.

Today, the value of Russian Church property in the Holy Land is conservatively estimated at $15,000,000.

Reds Get Interested

With the overthrow of the Czar in 1917, connection between the Russian church and the Kremlin was severed. The British took over in Palestine from the Turks, and administered the Russians' property.

Communist interest in the Russian Church in Palestine was nil until 1946, when it appeared certain that Britain's days here were numbered.

Alexei, patriarch of Moscow, and top man in the Soviet-controlled Russian church, visited Jerusalem in 1946. It was the first sign that the Communists had any interest in ecclesiastical doings here.

In the early part of December, 1948, Archimandrite Leonide arrived in Jerusalem from Moscow. At a solemn ceremony in the Russian compound in Ain Karem he was installed as head of the Russian Church in Palestine and in one stroke the Soviet coup was completed.

Loan Negotiated

In the meantime, it was learned that Soviet representatives had negotiated with Israel for a loan to build and to repair war damage. It was tentatively agreed that the Russians would pay back with wheat, lumber and other commodities from the U. S. S. R.

Meanwhile small repairs are beginning to be made at the Russian compound in Jerusalem. The Jewish agency, which inherited the custodianship of Russian property from the mandatory, has granted a small loan in Israel pounds for the purpose.

Negotiations are now in progress with Israel on how to dispose of the custodianship.

New Philippine Civil Code Will Safeguard Personal Liberties

MANILA, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The new Philippine civil code, which becomes effective in July, 1950, contains safeguards against racial prejudice or discrimination.

Former Supreme Court Justice Jorge Bocobo, chairman of the commission which prepared the code for enactment, said that one of its aims was "the implementation of democracy."

"You can sue a man under the new code for vexing or humiliating another on account of his religious beliefs, lowly station in life, place of birth, physical defect, or other personal condition," Bocobo said. "One article penalizes racial prejudice or any similar discrimination.

"Another article compels teachers and parents to imbue the child by precept and example with love of country, fidelity to democracy as a way of life, and attachment to the ideal or permanent world peace."

Extravagance Outlawed

Another unusual provision of the law is directed against "thoughtless extravagance" on the part of any person in time of want or distress. Bocobo said that the world "has seen nothing like this except in war-time."

"It provides that thoughtless extravagance in expenses for pleasure or display during a period of acute public want or emergency may be stopped by order of the courts at the instance of any government or private charitable organization," he explained.

"After all, doesn't such extravagance make Huks of people?"

Spanish Law Out

The new code also gives the right of independent civil action to any person whose individual liberties are tampered with.

The code, which becomes effective one year from its official publication, will replace the old "Codigo Civil," which has been in use since the days of Spanish rule. Spanish laws continued, in most instances, even after the American period began some 50 years ago.

"We are still being governed from Madrid in a way," one Filipino jurist said.

The code commission was appointed by the late President Manuel Roxas on May 1, 1947. It prepared the code after eight months of intensive work. The code was adopted by the 1949 congress.

Wildcat In Southeast Gaines County Is Slated To Drill To Near Record Depth Of 15,000 Feet To Explore Ellenburger

A wildcat in Southeast Gaines county which was originally started under a permit to go to 8,500 feet has had its objective changed. This venture, Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer County fee, is now slated to dig to at least 15,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Drilling has progressed below 5,585 feet in the San Andres of the Permian lime and further hole is being made.

This exploration, located 15 miles southeast of Seminole and 660 feet from south and 860 feet from west lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school land survey, will be one of the deepest petroleum developments ever drilled in the Permian Basin.

Location Is Staked

In Central-South Crosby county, just north of the Garza county line, Rogers Brothers and Stewart of Wichita Falls, and others, have staked location for their No. 1 E. M. Wahlenmaier and others, as a 3,200-foot wildcat. This venture will test the upper Permian for production.

Drilling is slated to begin at once with rotary tools. Location is 330 feet from east and south lines of the northeast quarter of section 3, block D-15, WTRR survey, about 20 miles north of Post.

Slick-Moorman Oil company and C. W. Chancellor No. 1 Cloud, wildcat in North-Central Lubbock county, to test the Tubb zone of the lower Permian, was drilling in lime below 5,920 feet.

Operator is hoping that by the time it reaches 6,030 feet it will have encountered the pay zone found in Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Cravens.

This venture 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 22, block D, L & SV survey, is three-eights of a mile southeast of the Cravens well and 10 miles north and two miles west of Lubbock.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware, was preparing to spud and start drilling early this week at its No. 1 Mart Barrow, wildcat three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa.

To Explore Pennsylvanian

Projected to 10,000 feet, it will explore into the Pennsylvanian lime, the section from which production is from in the Spraberry field of Southeast Dawson county. It is 11 miles northwest of that pool, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8, block 35, T-6-N, TP survey.

Seaboard was cleaning out at its No. 6-D Spraberry, after the pay section between 6,490-7,200 feet had been shot with 460 quarts of nitro glycerin. Operator was preparing to clean out to bottom and was preparing to swab to try to get the well to kick off and flow.

This one location extension to the Spraberry-deep field has shown in previous tests that it should make an oil well.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 38, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

The same company was drilling below 3,287 in lime and shale at its No. 7-D Spraberry to test the deep pay in the Spraberry field.

It is an east offset to the company's No. 6-D Spraberry, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey, about 17½ miles southeast of Lamesa.

Rigging Up Rotary

Seaboard was rigging up rotary at its No. 7-A-D J. J. Robinson, located at the center of the northwest quarter of northwest quarter of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

This venture is one mile northeast of discovery from the deep production in the area.

It will go to 7,000 feet to test the Spraberry.

In Central-East Hockley county, one mile west of the original Smyer field, Woodley Petroleum company No. 1 W. L. Ellwood, located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block A, R. M. Thompson survey, had drilled to a total depth of 7,512 feet in the middle Permian.

It failed to develop any production in the lower section and has been temporarily abandoned.

This exploration was originally drilled several years ago to slightly below 6,200 feet. The Glorieta section above that point, which is the pay zone in the Smyer field, failed to produce oil.

It was abandoned and allowed to stand for several years before being re-entered a few weeks ago and deepened.

New Producer Completed

Magnolia Petroleum company has completed its No. 2 Flanagan on the southeast side of the Flanagan field, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey.

The new producer from the Clear Fork Permian completed for a daily potential of 237.63 barrels of oil through a ½-inch choke. Tubing pressure was from 150-30 pounds.

Gravity of the oil was 38.2 degrees and the gas-oil ratio was 477-1.

This project was originally started to test the Ellenburger at 12,300 feet, but that objective was abandoned when it ran low structurally on the lower Permian markers.

The new producer is in South-Central Gaines county, about 12 miles south of Seminole.

A north outpost, ¾ of a mile from the Flanagan Ellenburger field, Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 1 Selma Andrews, was making more hole below 10,765 feet in lime.

This wildcat is projected to 12,500 feet to test the Ellenburger.

Nickel Reward For Being Good Proves Costly For Young Boy

CHEYENNE WELLS, Colo., Aug. 13 (AP)—Larry Webb, 4, was such a good boy during a bout with pneumonia the doctor gave him a shiny nickel. Larry carried the nickel with him practically every waking moment for a week. Then one day he put it in his mouth and gulped it down.

That was the cue for another doctor to enter Larry's life. He was the one at Colorado General hospital who, somewhat to the boy's discomfort, salvaged the nickel after Larry's parents hustled him to Denver.

HEADACHES...

We think little about them perhaps, yet they are usually the warning signals of some disease which is developing within our bodies.

is the health science that has been most successful in immediately correcting the cause of those headaches and in many cases halting the progress of a dangerous disease.

ABOVE: Dr. Day making an X-ray examination of a patient to locate the vertebrae misalignment causing the nerve interference which results in functional disorders of the various organs.

The cases listed below are a few selected from the files at random to illustrate the wide scope of benefits available through specific chiropractic.

HEADACHE

CASE NO. 26: This young mother, age 29, came to the Clinic with the following complaints: Severe headaches 2 or 3 times a week; severe backaches and terrible weak spells. Blood pressure on entrance was 92. The Neurocalometer and X-ray analysis revealed a neck vertebra misaligned, causing pressure on the spinal nerves.

After a short period of scientific Chiropractic service this woman reported that all symptoms had disappeared, and that she was able to ride in a car. Before Chiropractic service her back had pained her when she rode, and now she was able to say, in her own words, "I feel just wonderful." Her blood pressure on dismissal was 108.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

CASE NO. 1614: Had been diagnosed Rheumatic fever, and had heavy pains between shoulders which prevented a deep breath, pains in neck, back of head and both temples, constipation, indigestion, gas bloating, shaky nervousness, and low blood pressure, and was sick with a bad cold and feverish. A spinal Neurocalometer examination disclosed areas of defective energization and X-rays located the causative subluxated vertebrae. When discharged the spinal correction was complete and this patient reported a complete absence of any of his original symptoms and a feeling of radiant health.

EPILEPSY

CASE NO. 356: A young woman who for 17 years had been having as many as ten to fifteen convulsions daily. Treated for epilepsy without avail. Under special treatment for seven years without benefit. All hopes for recovery had gone, when a friend advised Chiropractic. A spinal X-ray revealed a marked disarrangement of the neck, the result of a fall suffered when a child. Adjustments were commenced and after only a few months she was 95 per cent better.

HEART DISEASE

CASE NO. 673: Man, suffering from what had been diagnosed as catarrhal fever, influenza, and valvular heart disease, was discharged from the navy as incurable, receiving permanent disability.

Case consulted the Chiropractor and after the neurocalometer and X-ray revealed the cause, adjustments were given. Within a few months, patient's health steadily improved. This man works daily, supporting his wife and four children.

WEAK SPELLS

CASE NO. 11: A middle aged woman complained of terrible weak spells that would leave her unable to do any work; she also complained of terrible absentmindedness and mental confusion, being generally very nervous. A variety of treatments had failed to help her. When she finally turned to Chiropractic, the spinal displacement which was the cause of her trouble was located by use of the X-ray and Neurocalometer. A series of adjustments led to this woman's complete recovery.

PAINFUL KNEES

CASE NO. 69: This lady, age 53, complained of a painful right knee. These pains were severe and would run down inside of leg and cause it to ache, burn and get stiff. She had this condition for two years and it was getting worse. She also complained of stiffness in the neck and dizzy spells. The Neurocalometer and X-ray analysis of the spine located the cause of her troubles, a subluxated (misaligned) vertebra in her neck, causing an interference to the normal nerve energy flow. Scientific Chiropractic adjustments released this nerve interference and within a short time she reported that her knee was almost completely free of pain, she had no more dizzy spells and the stiffness in the neck was all gone.

REMEMBER It is not true to say "WE did everything possible" unless "CHIROPRACTIC" was included.

Story Of Frontier Days Told By Canadian Mounted Police Museum

REGINA, Aug. 13 (AP) — Much of the color and romance of the Canadian Mounted Police has been crowded into a small museum in the basement of the police barracks here.

Relics of some of the bloodiest chapters in western Canada's history are on view for the thousands of visitors who pass through the museum each year.

A one-inch strand of the rope which hanged Louis Riel is a grim reminder of the Riel Rebellion of 1885. Riel, master-mind of the uprising, was convicted of treason and hanged at the police barracks here.

The RCMP, then the North West Mounted Police, were engaged in the Riel campaign. Ambushed at Duck Lake, Saskatchewan, 13 police were killed and 12 injured. Those 25 men represented one-quarter of the force.

Gold Rush Recalled

A Maxim Nordenfelt machine gun on display tells a murderous tale of the Yukon gold rush days of 1898-1900. The weapon was to intimidate the Soapy Smith gang which was preying on individuals and small groups of miners leaving the gold fields for the outside. Eventually "Soapy" Jefferson Randolph Smith was killed in a gun fight against a vigilante committee known as "The Committee of One Hundred and One."

An oil painting of the aptly-named Fort Whoop-Up tells a dual story of the police's original march west from Fort Garry (now Winnipeg) in 1874 and of defeat for American traders operating north of the 49th parellel at that time.

The force marched from Fort Garry to Fort Whoop-Up on the Belly River between Lethbridge and Macleod, Alta., to halt illicit trading of liquor to Indians. When the Mounties arrived, the Americans had fled. But the Stars and Stripes flying over the Fort was evidence that the United States intended to take over what was then British North America.

Sitting Bull Tamed

A uniform of the late Superintendent J. M. Walsh brings back a chapter in the story of Sitting Bull. The Sioux Indian leader, after the tragedy of the Little Big Horn in Montana in 1867, crossed into Canada. Superintendent Walsh, who had to deal with Sitting Bull, employed a mixture of tact and toughness.

Once the Indian was thrown out of Walsh's office. Soon Sitting Bull returned with his braves only to find the barracks armed to the limit. Deciding that discretion was the better part of valor, the Indian returned to his camp. After that he gave no trouble to Canadian authorities.

In those days the North West Mounted Police were often solely responsible for keeping under British rule what now is the whole of western Canada.

More recent police exploits are wholly as exciting if less decisive.

Bullet-spattered snowshoes revive the exploits of the mad trapper of Rat River, near Aklavik, in 1931. That episode marked a milestone in police work for in the pursuit of the trapper, an airplane and radio were put to use for the first time in a manhunt.

The trapper, Albert Johnson, resisted to the end and was shot to death.

A Japanese balloon is a memento of one of the best kept secrets of the Second World War. The balloons were set adrift in Japan and carried to Canada by air currents. They fell over a wide area of western Canada from the Pacific Coast to Manitoba but the security clamp was so tight that few civilians heard about them until after the war.

English Bus Driver Quits Job To Begin Voice Study In Italy

WORTHING, Sussex, England, Aug. 13 (AP)—Bus driver Trevor Jones believes life can begin at 40—even if it's an operatic career you have in mind.

So he is going to quit his job on a Worthing doubledeck bus, sell his house in nearby Lancing, move his family to Milan and take singing lessons for the next two years from Ubaldo Carrozzo.

He first sang in public years ago in a choir back in Pontycymmer, Wales. He has wanted to become a professional singer ever since. He's an admirer of Beniamino Gigli, Italian tenor.

Six months ago, he heard Gigli sing at Eastbourne. He asked him for an audition. Gigli heard the bus driver in his London hotel. Jones said the singer told him:

"You have a wonderful voice but it must be trained at once. Go to Ubaldo Carrozzo in Milan."

Ghost In Singapore Hates To Be Alone

SINGAPORE, Aug. 13 (AP)—The ghost that walks the Singapore Mental Hospital grounds is a loney ghost that hates to walk alone. Its favorite partner is Hoshal Khan, the head watchman.

Hoshal Khan likes to tell about his walks with a ghost. He says the ghost wears a yellow drape like a Buddhist monk. About a year ago, Hoshal was making his rounds when the ghost detached itself from the mortuary shadows and began walking alongside him. He noticed that the ghost didn't care to talk, so they walked in silence. Soon, the ghost took its leave. "On the next visitation, he addressed me by name and said that I was well fed and not talkative. I made no reply," Hoshal recalled, and quoted an old Afghanistan proverb, "If a ghost appears, speak not or you die."

Clean-Up Campaign Started In Russian Plants, Shops

MOSCOW, Aug. 13 (AP)—A widespread movement has developed in the Soviet Union for cleanliness and order at work. It was initiated by workers and has been reported and propagandized by the Soviet press.

Articles appearing on this subject emphasize that in factories good order and cleanliness in shops is associated with high productivity of labor. At the same time that cleanliness is propagandized the press emphasizes the importance of economy of raw materials and parts, high producivity of equipment, and strict observation of technological systems.

A lead editorial in "Moscow Bolshevik" recently declared that every working place, every shop must from now on be kept at all oughly clean.

Ancient Wanderer Makes Way Home On Wooden Legs

WEIRTON, W. Va., Aug. 13 (AP) John Karo is home in Parkersburg, W. Va., but it took a little help. The wooden legs that he made for himself some 40 years ago finally gave out on him.

The octogenarian, who has no family, has roamed all over the country on his home-made legs. He has even wandered across the British Isles, but he wants to spend his last days at home.

As the weary old man crossed the bridge at Steubenville, Ohio, he missed a turn and headed for Weirton instead of Parkersburg along Route 2. Wobbling along the road, he was nearly struck twice by motorists, who notified police of Karo's whereabouts and condition.

Sheriffs In Action

The Hancock County sheriff telephoned Sheriff Hogg of Brooke county and asked for a deputy to meet him and Karo in Follansbee, W. Va.

From Follansbee, the "Parkersburg Traveler" was taken to Wheeling by an Ohio county deputy. At Wheeling, he was fed and given a bus ticket to Parkersburg. The "pony express" had done its job.

During the ride through Ohio county, the octogenarian was reluctant to talk about his past.

Frozen In Blizzard

Indicating his wooden legs, he said, "I froze the good ones off in the big blizzard of 1909 in Montana. Didn't think I'd pull through that, but I did.

"Made these I got on myself," he confided. "Carved them out of white willow. White willow's the best material for store legs. Better than that plastic and aluminum stuff they're using."

Karo admitted to better days. "Was a machinist for the railroads. Worked on most of them. Now I have to walk, but I can't walk much further. Guess it's time to go back after all. None of my people left, though. Only three second cousins."

Syracuse University's football team will play three night games this fall—all at home in Archbold Stadium.

Indo-China Next Frontier For Reds As French Give Up Border

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Yesterday the French pulled one of their small garrisons back from a point in Indo-China near the Chinese border.

If and when the Chinese Communists arrive, the French will not be there to stop them.

Possibly for the benefit of American officials planning a new policy to combat communism in East Asia, this underlines the fact that Indo-China lies squarely in the path of any communism that spills over from China.

Yet earlier this week, just after Gen. Omar N. Bradley announced that France would get the bulk of American arms sent to Europe to contain communism there, France's President Auriol assured the Indo-Chinese that France would defend them from any outside aggressor.

Rebel Is Communist

France would need help for this job, because for three years she has failed to beat down the native nationalist movement led by Ho Chi-Minh.

Ho is a Communist who heads the unrecognized republic of Viet-Nam. His leadership is popular enough among 25,000,000 Indo-Chinese that when the French set up Bai Dai as emperor of a rival state last June, they also called it Viet-Nam.

To fight Ho, the French still use more than 100,000 Foreign Legionnaires. Away from the main roads and cities, outposts are maintained by airlifts. The rebels control the rest of the country.

It has been a costly stalemate, with the French unable to defeat the rebels and the rebels unable to drive out the French.

Through Bao Dai, the French are trying now to lure the Indo-Chinese away from Ho chi-Minh. At this writing Boa Dai and what he stands for are not popular. France has granted him only nominal internal autonomy. Rebel grenades go off within a few miles of his capital at Saigon.

Communism Subordinated

Ho Chi-Minh has declared he will go on fighting.

There are two current opinions about Ho. One is that his politibureau is a typically high-handed Red powerhouse, liquidating its allies in the Republican front as well as bumping off Indo-Chinese like Bao Dai who work with the French.

The other version is that Ho's Communists by no means have attained the domination of the nationalist front that Mao-Tze-Tung has in China. The idea is that Ho still leads the popular front because he has subordinated his communism to the other elements in the nationalist coalition that fights the French.

The truth is hard to get at, for one reason, because the French censor in Saigon is very efficient and no correspondent gets in unless the French approve of him beforehand.

However it is known that Ho Chi-Minh, while educated in Moscow, also lived many years in China and is aware of two things about the Chinese. One is that Communist China is intensely rationalistic. The other is that there as a large Chinese minority in IndoChina, which the Communists of China can use by appealing to this nationalistic spirit.

Chinese Help Claimed

Last March Ho broadcast that he was getting help, in his fight against the French, from Chinese guerrillas. No one doubts this, but on the other hand no one knows what he will do if the Chinese Reds try to move in on him and take over.

The French withdrawal from the Chinese border region yesterday leaves him free to meet the Chinese Reds when they arrive, and may hasten the answer to the question of what will result—cooperation or conflict.

But it also puts up to the United States the question of whether France is going to be supported in Indo-China. The American position to date is ambiguous. When Bao Dai was enthroned, the State department put out a vague statement saying it welcomed the step because it might lead to peace. At the same time it indicated American enthusiasm would depend upon how "the legitimate aspirations of the Viet Nam people' are realized.

U. S. Prestige Suffers

American prestige has suffered in East Asia since V-J day because the U. S. has supported, dirictly or indirectly, such European colonial powers as France, Britain, and the Netherlands in their colonial position so as not to weaken the Anti-Communist front in Europe.

This has been potent material for the Communists who have been claiming that America stands for colonialism and continued imperialism over Asia.

At the same time, the one common denominator in Asiatic politics is the nationalism through which her peoples seek to get rid of anything that smacks of outside control.

The greatest of these nationalistic movements has been that in China. The white paper issued last week, is in one sense, a fully documented account of how communism was allowed to take over in the absence of any real competition for popular support.

The United States must now make a choice in Indo-China, for that is the next stop south from China for communism.

DEEE-LIGHTED—Mary Jane Hayes, 19-year-old Washington, D. C., beauty, registers high emotion as she learns she has been chosen "Miss Washington of 1949." She gets $5000 in prizes and a chance at the "Miss America" title at Atlantic City next month.

HONEY OF A MESS

GRIDLEY, Ill., Aug. 13. (AP)—For several years, the T. H. Benedicts knew there were bees in their home near here.

They finally discovered the bees but not before the swarms had made a honey of a mess. Summer heat disclosed the location of the bees nest when honey started running down from the living room ceiling. Four bushel baskets of honey and the bees were removed.

American Negroes Will Perform On Norwegian Stages Next Fall

OSLO, Aug. 13. (AP) — Twenty-four American colored students will perform plays by Ibsen on Norwegian stages next fall. An invitation from the Norwegian government was issued through the Norwegian embassy in Washington.

Theatrical circles in Sweden and Denmark have also shown interest in the project, the Olso "Daily Aftenposten" said. Norwegian cultural attache Erling Christophersen got the idea when seeing students and faculty members of Howard University in Washington, D. C., perform "The Wild Duck."

Headed by Dr. Anne Cooke, professor of dramatic art at Howard, the group expects receipts to cover expenses in Norway, and traveling expenses are taken care of partly by the Norwegian government, partly by private gifts.

Man Contemplating Suicide Is Very Sane, Professor Writes Before Killing Himself

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., Aug. 13. (AP)—A man contemplating suicide is very sane, wrote an Arkansas college professor a few minutes before he ended his life in a deserted downtown church.

Officers found the body of J. C. Stewart dean of men and psychology professor at Ouachita college, lying behind the pulpit of the First Baptist church about noon yesterday.

Stewart shot himself in the head with a .22 caliber rifle a few minutes after telling his friends goodbye, paying his bills and penning the note, Sheriff Andrew Widener reported.

Stewart, about 65, had borrowed the rifle from Ouachita college business manager Byron Price "to shoot turtles." It was found near the body.

Sheriff Widener said a note, found on a table in the church, stated:

"You have been wondering whether a man planning suicide is sane. As a psychologist I can tell you he is sometimes very sane.

"I have been in ill health for the past four months, have only about three months left to live. I suffer constantly in all parts of my body at all times. I cannot sleep."

No inquest is planned, Sheriff Widener said.

Women Play Important Role In Soviet Union Diplomatic Life

MOSCOW, Aug. 13. (AP)—Women in recent years have been playing an important role in Moscow's foreign diplomatic life. First of the women ambassadors the USSR was Madame Pandit, now Indian Ambassador in Washington.

She was followed by Golda Meyerson, first Israel minister to the Soviet Union. Then came the young and pretty Ida Gamcko de Benavides, as charge d'affaires, for Venezuela. Latest of the women diplomats to Moscow is S. D. Blagayeva, new Bulgarian Ambassador.

Belgian Congo Paratroopers Make Triumphant First Jump

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo, Aug. 13. (AP)—Thousands of residents including anxious relatives of a dozen soldiers assembled recently in the colony to see the first locally recruited paratroopers jump from a plane. Hitherto local resident had considered this mysterious power reserved for white use. When the grinning black faces of the troops silhouetted against the white parachutes neared the ground, the watchers went almost hoarse shouting encouragement. When the troops finally landed they were carried back in triumph to the town.

FASHIONS GO TO COLLEGE—Fall's fashion spotlight is focused on the college and university campuses this month, as coeds plan and purchase the wardrobes which will be their silent allies at the social, sport and scholastic events on the college calendar in the months ahead.

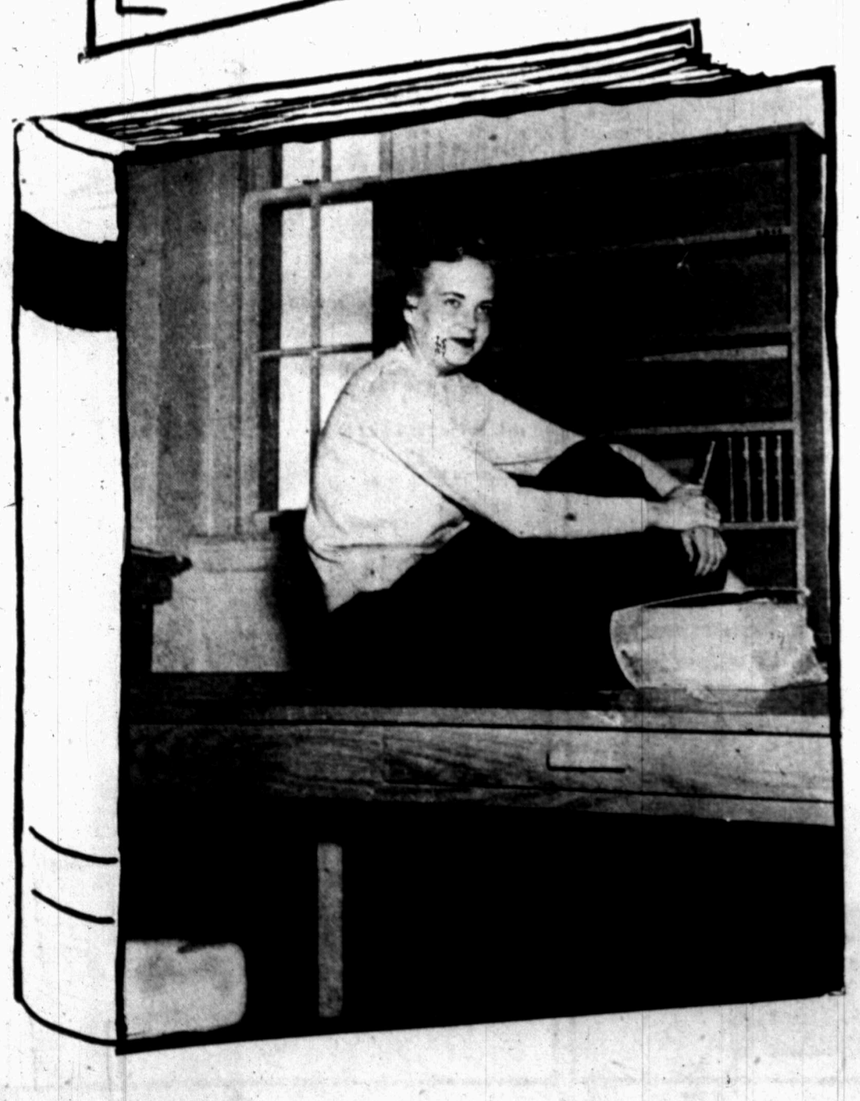

Lyn Lowrey, pictured at upper left, bright-eyed brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lowrey, 1926 Twenty-seventh, wears a navy faille ensemble which will be among her fall favorites for date and rush party wear. She is a sophomore student at Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tenn., and a member of Pi Phi.

Shown at upper center is attractive Dorothy Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Barnett, 912 Ave. K, who wears a tomato red gabardine skirt with a tuck detailed blouse, which is ideal for classroom wear. At the University of Arizona, where Dorothy will return as a senior student this September, skirts, blouses and her Chi Omega pin are the three indespensible items in the young woman's wardrobe.

Pictured in the heart, is Cecil Butler a Texas Tech sophomore and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Butler, 2215 Eighteenth. The petite blonde is a real little sweetheart in this champagne colored formal of satin and net, which is ideal for the college dances she will attend as a member of Las Chaparritas.

Representing the wide-eyed freshmen who will flock to Tech this fall is Marilyn Denman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Denman, 2615 Twenty-secod, featured in the football. While "boning up" on customs and traditions of the college, the charming young lady finds she has a lot to learn as a Texas Techsan, but she already knows that among the indespensible items on the college girl's list is an attractive and comfortable lounging robe and pajama set such as she is wearing.

Blonde Marjorie Cone, daughter of Mrs. Fern Cone, 1640 Broadway, shown at lower left, already knows that the hours of study which are a necessary part of every college week are more pleasant when she wears a well-tailored pair of navy flannel slacks with a pastel cashmere sweater. She attended Lindenwood Woman's college in St. Charles, Mo., last year, and will either return there or go to SMU in September.

Norma Grace Reid Is Bride Of Mr. Odom

THE MARRIAGE of Miss Norma Grace Reid and Vernon Lewis Odom was solemnized Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at First Baptist church with Rev. Vester Wolber reading a double ring ceremony before a background of woodwarden fern and white gladioli. Candles lighted the altar and white ribbon marked the bridal aisle.

A prelude of music played by Cerre Hancock, organist, included "Traumerei" (Schumann), "Liebestraum" (Liszt), "Chanson Triste" (Ravel) and "I Love You Truly" (Bond). As candles were lighted by Gail and Gary Jones, cousins of the bride, the organist played "Indian Love Call" (Friml). Solos presented by Mrs. Rex Webster were "At Dawning" (Cadman) and "O Promise Me" (DeKoven). The bridal party entered the church to the music of "Assembly March" from Tannhauser (Wagner) and as vows were repeated, "Clair de Lune" (Debussy) was offered. As a musical benediction, Mrs. Webster sang "Spirit of the Living God."

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Reid of 2505 Thirty-third, was given in marriage by her father, and as they approached the altar, the organist played "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin (Wagner). She wore a gown of white satin styled with a basque waist with a deep lace yoke outlined by a bertha decorated in a school design. The dress was fastened to the waistline in the back with self-covered buttons and the full skirt extended into a chapel length train. Her veil which fell from a seed pearl tiara was the one her mother wore at her wedding. She carried white gladioli centered with a detachable corsage of talisman roses.

Carries Out Traditions

For something borrowed, the bride carried a Syrian handkerchief belonging to her aunt, Miss Ruby Atwood; for something old, she wore her grandmother's wedding band; for good luck, she wore a penny in her shoe; and for something blue, she wore a blue garter.

Miss Bettye Jane Ewen of Plainview, maid of honor, wore a dress of ashes of roses faille taffeta similar to the bride's. She carried deep rose gladioli. Dresses identical to Miss Ewen's were worn by the bridesmaids who were Misses Nadyne Brewer of Spur, Olive Pearl Matthews, Mary Nell Bailey of Estelline, and Frances Evans of Hagerman, N. M. The dresses of Misses Matthews and Brewer were in maize faille taffeta and those of Misses Evans and Bailey were in lime green. Their bouquets were of picardy gladioli.

Grace Jones, cousin of the bride and flower girl, wore a maize taffeta dress and wore picardy gladioli in her hair. The candlelighters were dressed in maize taffeta, also.

Cecil R. Odom of Kermit served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Wane Randolph of Seagraves, Marshall Gettys of Santa Rosa, N. M., Tom Morgan, Bill Mac Keith, Dean White and George Morris.

Reception Honors Couple

After the ceremony, a reception was given in the Reid home. The wedding party, parents of the bride and parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Odom of Kermit, assisted with hospitalities. Arrangements of gladioli decorated the house. Out-of-town guests were from San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth, Kermit, Spur, Plainview, Estelline, Seagraves, Hagerman, N. M., and Santa Rosa, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Odom will be at home in Shawnee, Okla., where the bridegroom is a senior student at Oklahoma Baptist university. For travel, the bride wore a light aqua charmeen gabardine suit with a cocoa brown accessories and a necklace, gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Odom is a graduate of Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college where she was a member of Alpha Chi, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Home Economics club, Baptist Student union and Young Woman's association. During the past school year, she taught homemaking at Ralls High school. Mr. Odom is a former student of Tech and is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary fraternity in education.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy Folks!

Decorators Studio looked mighty pretty this week—especially a table that had been set with those scrumptious place-mats that I told you about in my letter a coulpa' weeks ago. The table was done in soft pink and gray tones that Fredda tells me are going to be such good decorator's colors this coming year. Combined with the pink place-mats was pink and gray Campo Del Mar porcelain—just as pretty and delicate looking as cotton candy—Go by to see for yourself.

For the goings on at the Studio—Josie and Fredda made a trip to Cotton Center to talk with a new client this week. When I made my weekly visit through those coral doors, Fredda was showing set-ups to a client from Odessa and I sure had fun watching her put all those fabric samples together—and ending up with such a harmonious blend of colors and textures. Walked into the next room to see Bee blending other harmonious set-ups for a Wichita Falls client. I asked the girls why they didn't clip all those set-ups together to use again. All three of them raised their eyebrows—and with a highly insulted look explained, "Goodness, no, Grandpa, would you want anyone to have a house just like yours?—A different theme and group of ideas for each home is our motto." Well, all I had to say was that I would certainly have thought they would have scraped the bottom of the barrel by now! But they seem to think the proverbial barrel is inexhaustible.

Enjoyed reading a long letter from James this week. He was mostly telling all about the merchandise that he and Anne are buying, but I could feel an undercurrent of his excitement over a prospective trip throughout the letter. Some friends he has made in France have invited him on a tour of southern Europe and a yacht trip on the Mediterranean for a few weeks the last of the summer. James is hoping to go on the trip and fly back instead of taking the boat. I don't, blame him for being excited. Doesn't that sound like fun?

By the way — I bought that service in pottery that I mentioned in my letter last week. It is a new Winfield pattern called "Tiger Lily," and Mrs. Nosey is tickled pink over it—Go by to see it at the Decorators Studio—Broadway and N.

See ya' there,

Grandpa Nosey.

A sleepin' in the shade
With all the things I got to write Paid.
I wish I were on yonder hill
A baskin' in the sun
With all the work I got to do
Done.
I wish I were beside the sea
Or sailin' in a boat
With all the htings I got to wirte
Wrote.
I wish the day were over and
I were asleep in bed
With every book I got to read
Read.
I wish the night had passed again
And the dawn of a new day broke
And every speech I had to make Spoke.

MRS. ALEC C. SHERWOOD

QUERY as to the identity of the woman who used to accompany the movies in the long ago day of the silent pictures brought response from a number of longtime friends we seldom see since Lubbock is getting to be such a city. She was Mrs. Alec C. Sherwood. Our best source of information was Mrs. Mollie D. Abernathy, who introduced the musician to Lubbock and was her sponsor, her financial adviser and best friend.

"Of course I'll never forget the late Mrs. Sherwood," Mrs. Abernathy mused. "I dream of her often. We met in the early turn of the century when I lived in Stephenville in Erath county.

"Mrs. Sherwood had come there to live after the death of her husband, who was from St. Louis and was a member of the legislature. Her daughter had married a Mr. Wright, a former classmate of mine and we had been friends for years before I met her mother. She accepted my invitation to visit on our ranch (the Swastika) and spent several happy months there; later staying in town at my hotel. Finally, she became so enthralled with this country and the people she decided to stay, accepted a job with E. McElroy, who had built Lubbock's first movie house, which was in the open air incidentally, and from then on she considered Lubbock home."

THE LITTLE woman, whose musical talent meant so much to Lubbock in its early days, was born in New York state, near Buffalo, of musical parents. They died when she was young and she went to Tennessee to make her home with her grandparents, who lived on a plantation near a bend in the Mississippi. Mollie Sherwood's first taste of life in the theater came from playing the piano on show boats.

Her first husband, whom she had married when she was quite young, died and several years later she became Mrs. Sherwood and moved to St. Louis.

WHEN the musician visited Mrs. Abernathy at the ranch she played for dances. Later after she moved in town, she played at the picture shows twice daily and also played at a restaurant during the noon hour. She had boundless energy and Mrs. Abernathy said the only times Mrs. Sherwood refused to play was when people insisted on talking when she was at the keyboard. "What use is there for one to play, if no one listens" she asked.

"She had a brilliant education, was kind and in all of the years I knew her, I never knew "Sherbie" to do or say anything out of keeping with the character of a gentlewoman," Mrs. Abernathy said.

The little woman always lived alone. After canned music cancelled the need for piano accompaniment at the picture shows, she continued to live here but she was growing old. Her daughter finally persuaded her to move to Fort Worth and live with her and it was there that she died several years ago.

Oh yes, one other thing. The legend we heard about Mrs. Sherwood's ability to know what was going on on the screen and what to play for the mood and at the same time to read is true, according to Mrs. Abernathy. That's what she could do. Sit at the piano and read a book and still keep the keys going right and left and making beautiful music.

Campus Wardrobes To Be Casual

"American Girl" Look Replacing Glamour Fashions For Coeds

BY OLETA TOLIVER
Of The Woman's Staff

THIS fall's wise college coed will toss last year's effort at Parisian glamour into the "outmoded" pigeon hole along with the discarded styles of other seasons, and a new, neat but casual, feminine but simple, "American girl" fashion parade will put in an appearance on the nation's campuses.

Floor plunging hemlines and yard after yard of circular skirts will be replaced by easy to keep, comfortable to wear, and nice to look at pencil-line or slightly flared skirts in a becoming-to-all, mid-calf length. Last year's bright and blazing colors are not to be forgotten, but will take a back seat as natural, taupe and brown tones play the lead in the fashion world theater, co-starred with subtle shaded grays.

The hard to iron and easy to crumple ruffle-covered blouse will be replaced by neatly tailored shirt blouses cut along casual lines for a maximum of comfort and a minimum of care.

Gabardine Is Standby

All-wool gabardine, the favored standby of career girl and collegian alike is still on top but shares its pedstal with such fall favorites as light-weight tweeds, suedes, corduroys and velveteens. All of these versatile fabrics are being featured in everything from date dresses to sports togs.

Pure worsteds, fine flannels and wool jerseys lend themselves especially well to the new trend toward the sculptured look in clothing designs, which is carried out through the medium of restrained fullness in stitched-down pleats, narrow gores or unpressed pleats smoothely belted at the waistline.

Scotch plaids are high on the fashion ladder, especially for one-piece dresses which are so popular for classroom and business office wear. Narrow waled corduroys are ideal for jackets, vests, skirts, peddle pushers, slacks and jumper separates which can be bought in color combinations to match and mix for a maximum of versatility from a minimum of wardrobe. Something new in the corduroy department are textured fabrics printed in glen plaids or tweedy stripes.

Small patterned tweeds are important in the fall campus picture for dresses and suits from the light-weight variety and great coats and boxy jackets in the weather resistant heavier weaves. Tweeds combine well with such contrasting fabrics as velveteen, suede, corduroy or wool jersey.

In Coat Range

A length ahead of tweed great-coats in the campus race for coat popularity are polo coats or camel's hair boy coats. And an indespensible member of the coat family which should be found in every coed's closet is a raincoat of good cut and fabric which can be worn equally well for sports and dress-up occasions. Sturdy matching rain or snow boots in a colorful rubber fabric with ankle hugging fur cuffs are fun to wear warm, and real shoe savers. They can be teamed up with the raincoat for a practical and smart costume.

Still tops on the hit parade of every college girl's wardrobe are a variety of cardigans in favored cashmere or in soft, light-weight knit wool. The "blouse look" describes most of the newest slipon sweaters and many of them have either Peter Pan or small shawl collars. Gold and silver metallic threaded sweaters in waist-whittling designs will again be popular for date wear.

Taffeta, bengaline or faille will be seen most often in date dresses, which this season should have a crisp look, and as would be expected it is in the date apparel department that the pretty collegian has her best chance to appear charming and appealing. This fall's after-five costumes are not nearly as extreme as the 1948 version, and the opinion of most college males is "Thank goodness."

Short Evening Frocks

Growing in popularity are the short evening dresses which have put in a tentative appearance in previous years. The shorter modes are easier to dance in, and here again the varsity male puts in the suggestion that "They're also easier to dance WITH." For very formal wear, of course, the floor-length, bouffant skirted and strapless gowns, so dear to every coeds heart, are still in fashion's favor. Crisp fabrics, full and tiered skirts, and a dash of rhinestone sparkle will characterize the favorite formals for fall.

There is a definite taboo on the giant sized football player variety of shoulder pads this season. Few fall garments will need any addition in the shoulder area, but those which do will be more attractive with the comparatively new shoulder molded pads of foam rubber.

It almost seems that 1949's fall college fashions have been especially designed to set off the self-sufficient, self-contained air which is typical of today's collegians, and pretty coeds will concentrate on being able to display good humor, natural beauty and personality to a better advantage in this year's clothes which have a charm and simplicity all their own.

The wise coed who adopts a duo of reworded platitudes as her motto—"Let your comfort be your guide" and "Neatness is the soul of fashion"—and combines them with the knowledge gained with an observing eye is fairly sure to score an "excellent" in the subject of fashion.

Leftover cocoa may be served as a cold drink; chill it well in the refrigerator, add a few drops of vanilla, and serve over ice cubes in tall glasses.

Yellowstone National Park
August 10, 1949

Dear Buck:

We left Hollywood last Saturday morning and spent Saturday night in Yellowstone park, then Sunday night in Reno, Nevada, Monday night in Salt Lake City, Utah, and last night here in Yellowstone Park.

It's all to beautiful to write about. I'll just have to wait and tell you all about it when I get back. I'm not sure when we will leave here, but when we do we are heading straight for Lubbock and the Larrymore Dance Studio. We may be there by the time you read this. That would a week earlier than we planned. We are tired and we will need the week to rest up from our vacation. Then we will have a week to get ready for enrollment. There are a lot of people that want to take ballroom lessons early before the Dance season starts so we can start with them.

There is a lot I want to see here in the park today so I'll see you next week. Tell anyone interested in taking dancing lessons to call the Larrymore Dance Studio, Phone 2-9254 or come by in person to 1905 Avenue R in good ole Lubbock, Texas.

Expert Pointers Aid Manicuring

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

You can keep the salon-new look to your manicure twice as long, and halve the beauty cost, by simply heeding some professional advice on the small things.

Do you usually launch straight out into your regular chores from the manicurist's table with no drying time allowed? Manicurists have special horror of women who spend a half hour being polished and begrudge that extra 10 minutes setting time. All you'll get for your rush is a smudged, scraped set of nails.

If you just can't spare the minutes, there is still a way. A finishing coat of special drying oil does a speed-up job. At home, you can use regular mineral or olive oil. Allow a shorter drying time and rinse the oil off. A plain cold water rinse after the final polish coat will set the color in a hurry also.

Other home-manicure tricks: A fresh new polish coat applied directly over old chipped color will look professional and brand-new if your brush strokes are guided by the outline of the old manicure at the cuticle line. New color overlapping the old gives a blotched appearance.

Two coats of nail polish brushed under the nail tips will add stamina and stave off the humpty-dumpty fate of long nails.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

FOR THE "LITTLE GUY"

He might not be old enough to read or write, but he is old enough to appreciate a room of his own. If that room isn't available, fix up a corner of the room you have . . . it will mean a lot to the little guy.

Color is something a youngster can understand . . . he likes things bright and cheery. So paint those walls an attractive color, or paper them with a fairy-tale or cowboy design. And don't forget the fancy decals for the chests of drawers and the end of the bed.

Any youngster would be proud to call the room illustrated above his own. It has everything a child needs . . . yet, if you'll notice, the center part of the room is not cluttered up, but left free for much needed playroom.

Another good thing to remember in furnishing a child's room is this: Children prefer to play on the floor. So cover it with either wall-to-wall carpet or linoleum of a serviceable color . . . but be sure to keep the color of the floor covering in harmony with the rest of the room.

Let us know if we can help you in any way. We'd appreciate the chance.

POWER SHORTAGE HARD ON POLICE

Blackout In Spain Is Found Right Down Hoodlums' Alley

By H. EDWARD KNOBLAUGH
INS Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Aug. 13. — Stick-up men are finding the blackout imposed throughout Spain because of a power shortage strictly to their liking.

And they've added a new technique to go with the power-saving measure.

Several persons caught in the accelerated crime wave were stripped of all of their possessions and clothes and left standing naked in the streets—protected only by the darkness.

Police Puzzled

The stick-up men and muggers go into action when master power switches are thrown at 2 a. m. and operate almost with impunity from police.

The Spanish police force has found it almost impossible to cope with the new menace because the black-out not only affords cover and easy escape for the prowlers but makes identification by their victims virtually impossible.

Residents of Madrid and Barcelona have been especially terrorized. In these two greatest of Spanish cities it is the custom of thousands to seek relief from the intense heat by sleeping in parks and public squares during the insufferable summer nights.

The wave of robberies and criminal attacks on these refugees from the blistering heat has driven them indoors where sleep these days is a torturing nightmare.

Cafe Business Hit

The new crime wave has also had severe effects on the Spanish cafe and theater business.

In Spain people usually stay up late, especially in the summer. Side-walk cafes are customarily thronged until three or four o'clock in the morning. The evening performances at theaters end around 1:15 a. m. or even later.

Now folks start hurrying for home shortly after midnight, anxious to get behind locked doors before the 2 a. m. curfew which lays a black mantle over Spain and signals the beginning of working hours for men outside the law.

People living in outlying districts must get started particularly early because there is no transportation except taxis after 1:30 a. m.

Police officials have been hard pressed to decide on a course of action. The situation is particularly aggravated during these summer months because of the fact that the regular force of police available for night duty is sharply reduced by vacation leaves.

Agents Enlisted

One step taken by officials to remedy this situation has not met with the approval of many members of the regular force.

This involved the arming and bestowing of full police powers on thousand of Falange agents whose previous authority had been limited to securing political information.

Knowing the antagonism which exists between the regular police and these Falange "speciale," many of whom are youths in their teens, the order issued by director of Public Safety Francisco Rodriguez Martinez established severe penalties for failure of the regulars to cooperate.

The Flangist newcomers are equipped with special badges which give them the same powers and privileges enjoyed by the regulars, a fact which is extremely irritating to the latter.

One veteran plain clothes man told this writer: "Now the theaters and entertainment spots are full of guys who walk in by merely flashing their badges."

BACK IN SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE, Aug. 13 (AP) — R.A.F. Transport Command York aircraft are back on air trooping service between Singapore and Britain with the easing of the Berlin blockade. The service was discontinued for a whole year to provide aircraft for the provisioning of blockaded Berlin.

Texas Barbers Use Teamwork To Give Speedier Service

BELLS, Aug. 13 (AP) — In a minute and a half a fellow can get the slickest shave in Texas at the hands of two barbers at Happy's Barber shop.

For the past three years, J. E. (Happy) Dopson and C. H. Moore, a southpaw barber, have been giving their impatient customers clean shaves in less time that it takes to lather 'em up and lie them down in the chair.

The barbering duo first began its quick work when customers complained that they "needed a shave in a hurry." And because Dopson is right-handed and Moore a southpaw, it works out fine when it comes to high-class barbering coordination.

Many men in Bells and the surrounding community have become accustomed to having a couple of straight razors whisking the studdle quickly from their chins, but a new comer is likely to get a wild look of concern in his eye when two men with razor in hand bend over his lathered face.

And who gets paid for the shave? Well, it's all according to whose chair the bearded customer decides to sit in.

CZECH C-C HAS TROUBLE

PRAGUE, Aug. 13 (AP)—A meeting of the Czechoslovak-British Chamber of Commerce decided to change its name from the Original Czechoslovak-British Chamber of Commerce to the British-Czechoslovak Chamber of Commerce. The nation's controlled press reported that, while various foreign chambers of commerce were maintained here for the promotion of foreign trade, the internal chambers of commerce had been liquidated as "enemies of the working class."

Czechoslovakian Government Fights Mine Labor Shortage

PRAGUE, Aug. 13 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government is combatting shortages of manpower and machinery in its coal mining industry as a serious threat to the nation's five-year plan.

In the mining town of Ostrava pictures of absentees are put on placards in the city square.

The government is offering free vacations to miners at Bohemian spas, which a coal digger could never afford on his wages. There are also proprieties on housing—in flats from which "undesirable elements" are expelled.

The press has been making something of a national hero out of Karel Benedikt, a 76-year-old miner from Ostrava. He has worked in the pits 42 years and has raised all his 10 sons to become miners. Two of the oldest son's sons also joined the trade.

TAX EVADERS SOUGHT

BANGKOK, Aug. 13 (AP) —The Thai (Siam) revenue department is sending out secret agents to run down stamp tax evaders among businessmen who are muleting the government of $1,000,000 a year. A revenue department official said most of the evasion is done by keeping two sets of books, one to be shown revenue officials and the other to keep track of the firms' actual transactions. Foreign as well as Thai business houses join in the practice, he added.

Student Panel Rules Out Crowded Closets, Bulging Bureaus

Campus Wardrobe For Coeds Needs Only 30 Basic Items, Research Group Says

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Crowded closets and bulging bureaus were canceled out-of-date today by a panel of students from every big college in the U. S. who agreed: "a campus wardrobe needs only 30 basic items."

A national youth panel—made up of two representatives from each U. S. college of 800 or more students—held that a coed can get by with:

1. An inexpensive fur or good cloth coat; 2. a raincoat; 3. a short jacket; 4-7. four skirts, 8-9 two suits; 10. a dressy blouse; 11-12. two sport blouses; 13-15. three sweaters; 16-17. two dresses; 18. one formal; 19-21. three handbags; 22-23. two pairs gloves; 24-28. five pairs shoes and 29-30. two hats.

Jewelry Ignored

The student panel, a research group sponsored and quizzed by New York clothing manufacturers, ignored lingerie and jewelry. These items, they said, would be "already on hand" or would be "bought at the coed's discretion."

But they said that regardless of the georgraphic or social classification of the school a girl must have the above-mentioned basics in her wardrobe.

They substantiated their theories by pointing out that each of their "basic" choices not only served its specific purpose, but could be used for other occasions.

To wit . . .

Purposes Explained

The raincoat should have a zip-in lining and be made of tweed or corduroy, to serve as a casual coat in fair weather.

The short jacket should be fleecy, so it can double for casual or evening-wrap wear.

Four skirts—a tweed, a flannel; a wool jersey and a velvet to be worn for date nights.

Two suits—as necessary as the registration itself; the panel suggested dark grey flannel as the most practical one-suit wardrobe prospect; tweed as runner-up.

The dressy blouse—preferably an off-shoulder model suitable for dating and dancing, teamed with the velvet skirt. Or, for the more tailored girl, a smart long-sleever to be worn with sparkling jewelry and either velvet or tweeds.

Sweaters Useful

Two sport blouses—one in wool jersey, the other in plain-colored cotton. The former is warm and high-style, the latter easy to wash and iron.

Three sweaters—two of them dark in color for practicality and casualness, the third in a light shade with short sleeves for perking up suits or coupling with dressy skirts on informal dates.

Two dresses—the first in worsted wool or lightweight tweed, with velvet accessories, because this is high-style date or classroom fare; the second in taffeta or satin, dark-colored and suitable for dressy fraternity functions.

The formal—in pale or warm-tinted satin or taffeta, chosen with foresight and lent to sorority sisters with care.

Beret In Style

Three handbags—for everyday wear, a strong, leather shoulder-strap variety as large as the figure will stand, to double for schoolbag or overnight case; for town and informal dates, a smaller calf bag, dressy but practical; and for evening, a small fitted case that can fit into the other two bags when necessary.

Malayan Vegetarians Seek To Save Wild Animal Life

SINGAPORE, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Malayan Vegetarian society seeks to save this land's wild animal life by controlling exports. The society said it had been told that a large number of monkeys exported from Malaya died on ships carrying them. Also, the group said, the one-horned rhinoceros is now practically extinct because of hunting and exports.

The society adopted a resolution asking the Singapore and Malaya federation governments to inquire into the import and exports of wild animals and to consider desirability of imposing stricter control, if not a total ban on the trade, because of the mortality rate among exported animals.

Surprisingly, two wild animal exporters who appeared without announcement at the meeting cast their votes in support of the resolution. The exporters succeeded first, however, in having the word "high" eliminated from before "mortality rate" in the resolution.

Persons Orphaned By Mine Mishap In 1882 To Get Aid

SYDNEY, Aug. 13 (AP) — Twenty-seven people orphaned in 1882—67 years ago — by a disaster in the Creswick gold mine near Ballarat, Victoria will probably get $320 dollars each as compensation. This results from the impending winding up of the Victorian Mining Accident Relief fund by a bill scheduled for introduction in the Victorian Legislative assembly in October.

Twenty-two miners were drowned in the Creswick disaster, when water burst a face 3,000 feet from the shaft. Twenty-seven trapped men retreated to the highest point they could reach, tied themselves together as water rose to their necks. Fifty-six hours later a rescue party reached them and found only five alive.

Development Of Burma Delayed By Revolt, Lack Of Capital

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 13 (AP) —Wolfram, steel, water power, lead, silver and emeralds in Karenni State are doing Burma no good because of revolt and lack of capital. The Karens revolt which started in 1948 has not stopped government surveys of the mid-eastern Burma region. But it has prevented development.

The area has mines which are a major source of wolfram. Government surveyors say they have found rich deposits of iron ore that would make good steel and that the 600-foot high Lawpita Falls could give cheap power to the whole nation.

Officials say capital would be needed even after peace comes to the region, but they would not say whether foreign capital is to be sought.

War On Marble Boards Flares

HOUSTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Houston police today investigated the tossing of two marble machines into Buffalo bayou while produce row declared war on thugs who work for marble table operators here.

The action followed the Thursday beating of a 17-year-old boy who won on the tables and yesterday's angry protest by 50 or more men who hauled marble machines out of two cafes, hurling them off a bridge into the bayou 30 feet below, scattering nickels which eager youngsters quickly pocketed.

The police department became interested because it's illegal to throw trash into bayous.

Can't Throw Trash

"You can't throw trash, old tires, chicken coops or marble tables into the bayou," Chief D. W. Payne complained.

The farmers market rebellion against "strong-arm tactics" in the neighborhood followed the beating and kicking of Aaron Miller by two marble machine company employees.

They accused the youth of using a wire to make tables pay off. The boy denied jimmying the machines, but admitted winning $16.50 three weeks ago, which he said he had played back into the tables.

Miller was then attacked by the pair, who were reported today to have "left town."

Payne said today he would also investigate machines allegedly paying off, adding that his department has been unable in the past to obtain testimony from anyone receiving money from the boards.

Prices in Russia are still very much higher than those in the United States, observers in Moscow report, considering wages, which are much lower in Russia.

Student Panel Rules Out Crowded Closets, Bulging Bureaus

Campus Wardrobe For Coeds Needs Only 30 Basic Items, Research Group Says

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Crowded closets and bulging bureaus were paneled out-of-date today by a panel of students from every big college in the U. S. who agreed: "a campus wardrobe needs only 30 basic items."

A national youth panel—made up of two representatives from each U. S. college of 800 or more students—held that a coed can get by with:

1. An inexpensive fur or good cloth coat; 2. a raincoat; 3. a short jacket; 4-7. four skirts, 8-9 two suits; 10. a dressy blouse; 11-12. two sport blouses; 13-15. three sweaters; 16-17. two dresses; 18. one formal; 19-21. three handbags; 22-23. two pairs gloves; 24-28. five pairs shoes and 29-30. two hats.

Jewelry Ignored

The student panel, a research group sponsored and quizzed by New York clothing manufacturers, ignored lingerie and jewelry.

These items, they said, would be "already on hand" or would be "bought at the coed's discretion."

But they said that regardless of the georgraphic or social classification of the school a girl must have the above-mentioned basics in her wardrobe.

They substantiated their theories by pointing out that each of their "basic" choices not only served its specific purpose, but could be used for other occasions.

To wit . .

Purposes Explained

The raincoat should have a zip-in lining and be made of tweed or corduroy, to serve as a casual coat in fair weather.

The short jacket should be fleecy, so it can double for casual or evening-wrap wear.

Four skirts—a tweed, a flannel, a wool jersey and a velvet to be worn for date nights.

Two suits—as necessary as the registration itself; the panel suggested dark grey flannel as the most practical one-suit wardrobe prospect; tweed as runner-up.

The dressy blouse—preferably an off-shoulder model suitable for dating and dancing, teamed with the velvet skirt. Or, for the more tailored girl, a smart long-sleever to be worn with sparkling jewelry and either velvet or tweeds.

Sweaters Useful

Two sport blouses—one in wool jersey, the other in plain-colored cotton. The former is warm and high-style, the latter easy to wash and iron.

Three sweaters—two of them dark in color for practicality and casualness, the third in a light shade with short sleeves for perking up suits or coupling with dressy skirts on informal dates.

Two dresses—the first in worsted wool or lightweight tweed, with velvet accessories, because this is high-style date or classroom fare; the second in taffeta or satin, dark-colored and suitable for dressy fraternity functions.

The formal—in pale or warm-tinted satin or taffeta, chosen with foresight and lent to sorority sisters with care.

Beret In Style

Three handbags—for everyday wear, a strong, leather shoulder-strap variety as large as the figure will stand, to double for schoolbag or overnight case; for town and informal dates, a smaller calf bag, dressy but practical; and for evening, a small fitted case that can fit into the other two bags when necessary.

Two pairs of gloves—a knitted, woolen or fur-lined variety that will take care of all activities but the dressy nights, when white kid models are the only choice.

Five pairs of shoes—two pairs of flats, one brown, one colored; two high-heeled pumps, one in suede and one in salf for wear with suits and skirts; one pair of evening shoes.

Two hats—can be any variety, for dress or sportswear, depending on the facial type. But for all who can wear them, the panel suggests that one hat be a beret—the high-est-style note in 1949 headgear on campus.

Shrine Of Saint Anne's 300th Anniversary To Be Celebrated

STE. ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que. Aug. 13. (U.P.)—The 300th anniversary of the Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre may be celebrated next year, the Holy Year.

The Redemptorist Fathers who have been serving the shrine since 1878 are convinced that it was in 1650 that the residents of New France started to worship in a special manner Ste. Anne of the coast of Beaupre, 20 miles east of Quebec.

However, the fathers of Ste. Anne do not wish to launch the organization of a third centenary until they have discussed the project with the higher ecclestiastical authorities.

According to tradition, it was about the year 1650 that some Breton mariners, sailing up the St. Lawrence River, were overtaken by a storm and their boat doomed to shipwreck.

Saint Invoked

In distress, they called upon Ste. Anne, the beloved patroness of their own Brittany, and promised to build a chapel in her honor, on the very spot where she would lead their boat to safety.

Their prayers were heard and at dawn the next day they found themselves stranded on the north bank of the river where the basilica now stands.

True to their vow, they began the erection of a small log chapel.

In 1658, about eight years later, the first miracle was reported during the construction of the first chapel.

One of the ten settlers at Ste. Anne on the coast of Beaupre, Louis Guimond, was crippled and could not work on the erection of the chapel. However, Guimond, to show his good will and out of devotion, brought three small stones to be placed in the foundation of the church.

Cure Proclaimed

To the amazement of his companions, Guimond, after placing the three small stones, rose up entirely cured from his ailment, the legend goes.

The news of his cure, the first at Beaupre, soon spread throughout the French colony and the little log chapel became the Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

From 1658 to date, more than 20,000,000 pilgrims from Canada, the United States and almost every corner of the world have come to Ste. Anne.

Six chapels, churches and basilica have been built at Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

The first chapel, consecrated by a miracle, was never completed. It was found, but too late, that the waters of the rising tides and the ice in the spring would destroy its foundations and a second church was built in 1661, closer to the hill.

Pilgrimages, in the first two centuries, did not have the importance they have acquired nowadays. Their progress was slow and it was only in the last 50 years that they have reached the degree of development which makes Ste. Anne, today, the "Lourdes of America."

Between 1658 and 1700, there were but 50 pilgrimages. Between 1700 and 1750 the number reached 100 and gradually increased until in 1947 9,230 pilgrimages had been organized, bringing 19,703,387 pilgrims to the shrine.

Ste. Anne's shrine also holds a treasury of religious and historical souvenirs of incalcuable value. Among them is the first statute of Ste. Anne venerated in Canada. The statute dates back to 1662. There is also the pilgrims chalice, a masterpiece of the goldsmith's art, enhanced by 313 precious stones, and the chasuble given by a queen of France in the 17th century.

American Slang Is Replacing King's English, Aussie Says

SYDNEY, Aug. 13. (AP) — The King's English, says Sidney J. Baker, is all washed up. The language, he says, will one day be replaced by American-English. Baker is an Australian lecturer and journalist who has made a study of Australian speech.

This is an example he gave. "Shove this spin down south, and mote down to the rubbity for a fiddley's worth of bombo. My sort's rat-bag cobbers are turning on a shivoo sarvo. Dice your jacker and get your chop of the plonk, why don't you? With all the galahs and dills that'll drag on this yike, it'd be ridge to have someone who's a wake-up to yabber with."

This, Baker said, is a free translation: "Take this five pounds and hurry down to the hotel for one pound worth of wine. My girl friend's eccentric acquaintances are having a party this afternoon. Leave your work and take a share of the liquor, why don't you? Anyway, with all the unimportant people who will be there, I would like to have someone intelligent to talk to."

Finnish Worker Has Sneezed For Half Of His Forty Years

HELSINKI, Finland, Aug. 13 (AP) —Finland is not to be sneezed at when it comes to sneezing: A man named Pelkonen, of Tampere, Finland, has been sneezing for half of his 40 years—not without interruption to be sure. For two or three days, maybe a week, he is normal. Then it starts, and he sneezes 1,500-2,000 time a day. The sneezing is accompanied by a bad headache and some fever.

Dr. Eric Nyberg, of a Helsinki hospital, explained that Pelkoen a metal-worker, appears to enjoy generally good health, but the sneezing recurs without fail—and Pelkonen returns to hospital.

There he is put to bed and given "asthma" treatment. The affliction, the doctor said is an allergy, a form of nasal catarrh, caused by the veins in the nose.

Five Little Siamese Kittens Live Despite Mother's Death

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 13. (U.P.) — Five tiny Siamese kittens are alive, thanks to some quick thinking by Mrs. Nettie Smith, a 73-year-old San Diegan.

Connie, the mother of the kittens, in bad health, died before the kittens were born. But as Connie lay inert on the ground, Mrs. Smith, with the aid of a neighbor, cut an incision with a kitchen butcher knife.

Today the kittens are in splendid health even though their mistress has to feed them with a medicine dropper.

Portly Gentlemen Make Best Husbands, Teachers Best Wives, Expert Declares

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13. (AP)—Fat men make the best husbands, and school teachers the best wives.

That's the word from the director of the National Institute for Human Relations.

Dr. James F. Bender of New York City declared at the closing summer session convocation of Buffalo State Teachers college yesterday:

The fat man is the least likely to want a divorce, he is a tender and faithful lover and he is more easily persuaded to wash the dishes and get up at night to look at the baby.

Bender, who thinks he's the "roly-poly type" himself, had this to say to maritally inclined gentlemen:

"School teachers love children and they make good mothers. . . . Teachers are well adjusted personalities as a rule and are less inclined to be neurotic than the average American woman."

Furthermore, he said when a woman has been giving classroom lectures all day long, she returns home at night too tired to talk, this is "sheer heaven" to most married males.

Use Of Emergency Rations Was Old Story To Greeks

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13 (AP) The Greeks used emergency rations in war 2,000 years ago, says a California Medical School bulletin. These rations were pills about the size of an olive. They were made of honey, sesame seed, opium and scilla. Scilla is a medicinal bulb used as a heart stimulant.

The bulletin says the honey gave carbohydrate, the sesame protein and the opium deadened hunger pains. The Greeks gave one of these pills twice each day to soldiers and civilians in besieged cities.

Planes from the South of France recently brought the 1949 season's first strawberries to Britain.

New Army Chief Won Fame For Triumphs In Crucial Battles

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the new Army chief of staff, earned his nickname —"Lightning Joe"—on many battlefields.

The graying, 53-year-old soldier —one of the handsomest men in the Army — was one of the most colorful and energetic field commanders of the second World war.

He was tough and cool and won his battles first hand. He ran his famous Seventh corps as efficiently as any top business executive. An all around soldier, he could plan a battle, fight it through — and encourage his own frontline troops with his presence.

General Is Puncher

This was his battle formula:

"Outguess the enemy, keep him off balance and never stop driving."

Some generals are boxers, and some are punchers. "Lightning Joe" is a puncher. It was his faculty of sustained drive that led Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley to give him the critical battle assignments that built his fame.

And few generals in American history can match his combat record. His victories stretch from Guadalcanal to the Elbe. Collins came to Europe after successfully completing the mopup of Japanese on Guadalcanal and New Guinea.

His Seventh corps seized Utah beach in Normandy. It freed Cherbourg, the first French metropolis liberated from the Nazis. It broke the crust at St. Lo. It was first to crack the Siegfried line and capture a major German city — Aachen. It took Cologne, too, expanded the first bridgehead across the Rhine at Remagen, and at war's end linked up with the Russians along the Elbe.

But "Lightning Joe," who never dodged a scrap, once got into a fight he wasn't looking for.

Heads Reserve Corps

It happened in the "battle of the bulge" in Belgium in December, 1944. The German breakthrough imperiled the American line of communications, and Gen. Eisenhower temporarily put his First and Ninth armies under the field leadership of Field Marshal Montgomery.

Monty immediately named "Lightning Joe" to head a reserve corps. This corps was to be used as a counterblow at the right time —when the German drive had been contained. But in the meantime it was under strict orders to refrain from attack.

One of the outfits in the reserve corps was the "hell on wheels" Second Armored division, led by Maj. Gen. Ernie "Old Gravel Voice" Harmon.

Praised For Action

After a spectacular 100-mile night march, Harmon's tankers reached their assembly area near Celles, Belgium. Then they were started to run into German outposts. Moving more swiftly than expected, the Nazis were only a few miles from the Meuse river. If they reached it and took Dinant the American armies would be split in half.

Harmon immediately relayed this information to Collins, who asked:

"What do you want to do, Ernie?"

"I want to attack, but we're under orders not to," said Harmon. "And there isn't time to get the orders changed."

"Go ahead, Ernie," said Collins. "I'll take the responsibility."

In a great grinding battle, fought in snow and fog, Harmon's division annihilated the German armor — and halted the German thrust.

Field Marshal Montgomery, angered at first because he thought his orders had been disregarded, sent a rebuke through channels. But when he learned the full story he sent his compliments to Collins and Harmon.

The battle had turned out to be one of "Lightning Joe's" best blitzes.

Kitten Insists On Staying In Tight Spot To Beat The Heat

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—During a heat wave a kitten squirmed into a narrow space between two buildings in suburban Glenn Ellyn. Its cries attracted a crowd. When all else failed, a fireman extricated the cat with a hook attached to a long pole.

Two days later the kitten was back in the same trap. A policeman, using the same tool, fished it out again. But within 48 hours it was in the tight spot again. Chief of Police Lee Brierton made a personal survey of the situation. He peered in the small opening, felt a cool breeze on his face and called off rescue work. The kitten, he decided, was in the most comfortable place in the neighborhood.

Decatur Can't Decide Whether To Use "True" Or "Loaded" Dice On Big Sign

DECATUR, Aug. 13. (AP)—Decatur isn't sure just how to make that "eighter."

The city, famed the world over by the "Eighter From Decatur" cry of crapshooters, has decided to put up two big signs advertising that—and showing the "point" being made on huge dice.

Some residents propose the eight shown be made in the traditional way—a couple of fours. Others think it would be more colorful to have several visible sides of the dice on the sign read eight—five and three, six and two, as well as two fours.

The committee in charge of the sign-building has this problem: Shall the dice be "true" and show only one eight—or shall they "load" them, and let lots of eights show?

Pie-Throwing Still Good For Laughs From Movie Audiences

LONDON, Aug. 13. (AP)—Movie Producer Arthur Dent thinks audiences still will laugh at somebody getting slapped in the face with a pie, just as they did back in the twenties. He has made free use of the old gag in his new film comedy, "Skimpy in the Navy."

In three weeks of shooting, the cast used 500 custard pies, paid for in part by a government production loan.

WEST GERMANS DENOUNCED

PRAGUE, Aug. (AP) —As far as Czechslovakia's Communist - dominated government is concerned the only good Germans apparently are those east of the Elbe—in the Russian occupation zone. Picked Russian zone Germans get the glad-hand treatment here as bosom pals under the rules of international Communism. But western zone Germans are generally roundly condemned in the controlled press as the tools of Anglo-American capitalism and "imperialist exploiters."

Nationwide Census Of Housing Scheduled In April Next Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—A nationwide census of housing will be taken along with the count of population and the agricultural census next April.

A survey of dwelling conditions was made by the Census Bureau in the spring of 1947. Why is another one needed?

The 1947 survey was only a sample census, taken in 32 big cities. The 1950 census will cover all of the country's dwelling units—some 40,000,000 of them, ranging from converted box-cars on abandoned railroad sidings to swank houses and apartments.

Survey Authorized

Congress authorized the survey in the new housing law provide detailed information on a locality basis. Houses on farms and in villages will be included as well as city dwelling units.

The most recent detailed locality information now available was obtained in the 1940 census of housing. Tremendous geographic shifts in population during the war years have resulted in outdating much of the 1940 information.

An increase in population of about 18,000,000 and wear and tear on dwellings over 10 years also have changed the housing picture; another factor is the improvement in the general economic situation since 1940.

Federal Groups Aided

The House Committee on Banking and Currency, which handled the 1949 housing act, says the census will be of value to these groups:

1. Federal, state and city authorities and others directly concerned with housing problems.
2. Busines and industry, which depend upon housing and home building for part or all of the outlet for their goods and services.
3. Local merchants, who will get a better picture of general sales possibilities in various types of residential areas.

The housing census will be taken by the enumerator who count the population. They will ask questions about the size and condition of dwellings, about plumbing and other facilities, number of occupants, rental values and mortgages.

Motorcycle Mishap Is Found Authentic

DUSSELDORF, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP)—Two policemen from Hilden near here fell off their motorcycle. In hospital they explained they had been driving at about 20 miles an hour when a bicyclist suddenly stopped in front of them and caused the accident.

The police chief didn't believe their story and asked two other policement to demontrate that the accident was avoidable. They are in the same hospital now, with the same sort of injury.

Women Of Thailand Denounce Polygamy

BANGKOK, Aug. 13 (AP)—How can Thailand (Siamese) women be considered as having equality with men when the males are permitted to have more than one wife? So asked Nang Nantaka Suprabhatanand, former chairman of the Women's Law association, amid the cheers of the Thai Women's association.

The woman attorney said Thai women legally have equal rights but nature and tradition militate against attainment of this quality. She said it probably would be impossible to pass a law to change the marital situation, but it was fortunate that the cost of living these days obstructs most men from having more than one wife.

The law recognizes three types of Thai wives: legally registered, semi-wife and servant wife. Women have the right of divorce, she commented, but she did not favor use of this legal weapon except in extreme cases. Nang Nantaka also criticized the law that gives the husband power to handle his wife's property. She said women who had their own careers outside the home should be allowed to manage their own property.

Band Of Spanish Gypsies Is Making Home In Florida In Attempt To Outwit Proverb

By WILLIAM GOBER, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 13—Far from their ancestral hills of Spain a band of gypsies has come to rest in Florida, trying to see if they can outwit a proverb.

Black-eyed Marie Stephenson and her kin have pitched "camp" in thickly-draped quarters on Jacksonville's busy Adams street. Traffic thunders by a few feet from their door.

Here, they hope, is the end of the trail; the vanishing of a wanderlust. Why are gypsies forever wandering? An old proverb of theirs explains it: "Chuquel sos pirela, cocal terela"—"A wandering dog will not starve."

Beauty Qualified

Marie and her clan are going to see about that. Whether they can stay put and stay fed. They draw only one line—no romance, no love, no marriage with non-gypsies.

Marie, like her great-grandmother, took up the profession of palmistry while very young.

She is shy. But even so, she is the only one of her closely-knit circle who will talk about the hopes and fears of the gypsies.

She is pretty by the standards of Spain, land of her forebears. Traditionally, Spanish men say that a beautiful woman must have three things black: eyes, lashes, eyebrows; and three things elegant: hands, lips, tresses.

She is 20 years old and small, standing barely five feet. Her dress is Americanized but there still remains a trace of the vivid greens and reds, the bright bangles so loved by the Romani. Her voice is soft with a slight accent.

Likes American Girls

Marie likes American girls but for one thing: "Some of them are shallow and some are bold, especially where men are concerned," she says. To her, the art of coquetry and courtship is missing.

She goes to the movies often. Her favorite female star is Joan Fontaine, her favorite male actor Tyrone Power. A recent film of life among the gypsies was soundly criticized by Marie and her kin. In it, the gypsy heroine tears a hunk of meat apart with her hands and gnaws it like a shewolf.

MARIE STEPHENSON
A Gypsy Finds a Home

"It's never like that with us," says Marie with a serious light in her oblique eyes. "We're neat and have manners."

Their quarters bear her out. They live in one long room, formerly a store. Heavy draperies partition it into clean rooms. Brightly-burnished cooking utensils hang on the kitchen wall. A small shrine is there, too. Marie and her family are Roman Catholics.

Planning Feast

The men also are trying to fit themselves into the modern pattern. One has taken a steady job in an industrial plant and wears an Odd Fellows lodge pin.

Marie does not dance in the "popular" version. But the gypsies here are planning a common feast later this summer. And there will be barbecued pig, wine, music and fast flamenco dances by Marie.

Besides attempts at light flirtations, she is bothered little by payllos—non-gypsy men. They seem to sense that these people are deadly serious about their moral codes.

Someday, Marie believes, a lithe young gypsy will come along and take her for his bride in a blood ritual. He will have tight bronze skin and a quick eye for the future. He will know, and help her understand, the American way.

"It will have to be like that or nothing," she says. "Because, you see, we are gypsies and we can never change."

Tragedy Blocks Romance Plans

HOUSTON, Aug. 13 (UP)—Death last night broke up remarriage plans of an ex-GI and the woman who divorced him during the war to marry his nephew.

Mrs. Dorothy Mae Vick, 38, received fatal injuries in a head-on collision last night while she and 42-year-old Jesse M. Vick, her former husband, drove along discussing a reconciliation.

Woman Is Charged

A charge of negligent homicide was filed against 18-year-old Mrs. Mary Lois Petty, driver of the other car. She suffered minor injuries. Vick was not hurt.

Vick said a wartime divorce broke up his 10-year marriage to Mrs. Vick, who then married Roy Vick, a nephew. The elder Vick joined the army and also remarried.

"The second marriages just didn't work out," Vick said today. "Dorothy Mae and I decided we still were in love, so we were planning on getting married again in a couple of months."

Railroading Father And Flying Son Exchange Signals On Trips

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 13. (AP)—Passengers on the United Airlines' flight from Denver to Cheyenne have noticed a train far below them winking its big headlight in the night. Passengers on the 8:15 p. m. Colorado and Southern between the same two towns have on more than one occasion spotted the huge airliner flying parallel to the track, systematically blinking the lights on its wings. This has been going on for three years now.

The engineer of the train and the pilot of the plane are father and son. The blink-blink of the lights is 64-year-old Clarence Chapman's way of saying "How are you, boy?" to his airborne son, 31-year-old Capt. Leroy Chapman.

Occasionally the senior Chapman fancies-up his nocturnal hello by lighting a red railroad flare and holding it out the window of his cab. "I'm right proud of my boy," Clarence says. "And I just like him to know the old man's still up and around and on the job."

Borger Tumbles Hubbers Into Sixth Place With 11-6 Win

Reynolds Outpitches Rosson To Give Gold Sox Win Over Lamesa

LAMESA, Aug. 13 (Special)—The Amarillo Gold Sox gained an even split in their two-game series with the Lamesa Loboes here tonight before 1,502 fans, taking a 5-2 victory in one of the fastest games of the season.

The contest lasted only one hour and 37 minutes as Jim Reynolds outpitched Eulis Rosson to register his 15th victory.

Reynolds gave the Loboes only seven hits and struck out seven and walked only one. Rosson absorbed his 11th defeat while allowing 10 safeties, seven of them doubles. He struck out five and walked none as the two teams unrolled four double plays to run their total in this department to nine in the two-game series.

The Gold Sox bunched four hits for three runs in the opening stanza on Crawford Howard's double, Al Carr's single, and consecutive two-baggers by Ted Clawitter and Paul Halter.

The Loboes did all their scoring in the sixth frame, combining an error by Sox Shortstop Lyle Christianson with Leon Mitchell's single and D. C. Miller's two-run double for their two runs.

The visitors made their winning margin safe in the ninth with a brace of tallies on Carr's two-baser, Clawitter's double, and Halter's single.

Carr and Halter tied for hitting honors for the winners, each with two doubles and a single and two runs batted in. Glenn Selbo paced the Lobo offensive with a brace of singles.

The fans contributed a total of $260 to the family of Frank Okrie during the contest. Lamesa and Clovis open a two-game series here Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Stanley Grzywacz or Jack Guiterrez will be on the hill for the Loboes.

Okrie Reported Out Of Danger

LAMESA, Aug. 13. (Special)—Frank Okrie, Albuquerque baseball player, was reported today to be "out of danger" by Dr. U. H. Zee. Okrie's fever has gone down, and he is breathing better with a lessening of present paralysis and severity of the headache which he has had since the onset of the paralysis.

Okrie ate a regular diet which included meat for the first time since stricken Wednesday. Until now he has eaten fruits and vegetables. He was in very good spirits today, read newspapers, received limited number of visitors, and expressed appreciation again for all the favors received.

The Duke shortstop slept in an iron lung Friday night but was out all day today. His wife has been with him and has proved very helpful to Okrie and the nurses. Flowers and messages have been received at his bedside.

The paralyzed muscles in his abdomen and lower chest have been treated continuously with hot packs. Okrie's physical condition has helped him rally quickly, Dr. Zee said.

Okrie corrected earlier reports that he was a polio victim before. He said he was wounded during the past war and that a fragment lodged near a spinal nerve and caused temporary paralysis in his legs and lower body.

Zee said Okrie probably would be sent to Albuquerque Tuesday if clearance was obtained from the health departments of Texas and New Mexico. If no clearance is obtained, then he will be taken to Plainview. He will fly to Albuquerque if possible, otherwise an ambulance will be taken at night to avoid the heat.

Albuquerque Beats Abilene Nine, 5-4

ABILENE, Aug. 13. (AP)—For a time tonight, Albuquerque and Abilene were tied for the West Texas-New Mexico league lead, but the Dukes struck furiously in the seventh inning to overcome a Blue Sox lead and win, 5-4.

Lefty Don Ferrarese pitched himself a neat ball game against the second place Blue Sox, despite a temporary weakening in the fifth when Abilene took two runs, added another in the sixth and went ahead. The Sox had tied the score at one apiece in the third after Albuquerque drew first blood in the second.

Going into the seventh with a 4-1 lead, the veteran Vallie Eaves weakened visibly, walking three Dukes, giving up doubles to Cliff McClain and Dick Gyselman. It was the latter which cooked the Abilene goose. The sacks were loaded and Gyselman smote a mighty blow down the left field line which immediately cleared the sacks with one out in the eighth 5-4.

The Blue Sox fought back, but were unable to put through a successful rally. They loaded the sacks with on eout in the eighth, then Bobby Fernandez, who went hitless for the first time in a dozen or so games, grounded into a double play.

In the ninth both teams threatened, Albuquerque getting two men on after one out, and Abilene loading the bases after two were out.

PAMPA OILERS SHUTOUT CLOVIS PIONEERS, 4 TO 0

PAMPA, Aug. 13 (AP)—Left-hander Johnny Martin threw a beautiful four-hit whitewash job at the Clovis Pioneers as the Oilers swept the two-game series 4 to 0 here tonight. Martin fanned nine, walked three and permitted no man to advance any further than second base.

The game was a complete turnabout from last night's 30-4 atrocity. The game was scoreless until the sixth inning. Up to that time the Oilers had but one hit. Catcher Jimmy Martin led off the sixth with a walk. Johnny Martin sacrificed him to second.

Tooter Harper then tripled to centerfield to score Jim Martin with the tie-breaking run.

Bill Rosin hurled a fine game for the Pioneers, allowing but five hits, but permitting three of them to be bunched in the sixth. Rosin fanned five and walked but two.

San Antonio Man Sets Course Record

Conrad, Blackwell In Plainview Finals

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 13. — Joe Conrad, stubby San Antonio shotmaker, and cool Clyde Blackwell, of Roswell, N. M., meet Sunday in the 36-hole finals of the fifth annual Plainview Country Club Golf tournament.

Conrad and Blackwell, both lightly regarded in the pre-tourney Calcutta pool bidding, today shot scorching sub-par rounds for easy semi-final victories.

Conrad played out his round after winning the match on the 14th green and wound up with a six-under-par 65 for a new course record over the 6,341-yard Plainview layout. His semifinal victim was Leroy Brannen, a fellow San Antonian.

Blackwell Under Par

Blackwell, who has won five of seven earlier tournaments in which he has played this summer, also was six under par when he closed out Billy Maxwell, ex-Abilene star now playing out of Odessa, 4 and 3. However, in trying for a new course mark he went over par on both numbers 16 and 17, so he did not play the final hole.

Conrad's par-smashing performance chipped one stroke off the old record of 66, set a short time ago by Plainview's Jack Williams. The San Antonio redhead blistered the front nine with a six-under-par 29, then equalled regulation figures over the longer, tougher back nine. His score would have been even lower had he not missed four putts of five feet or less. His brilliant front-nine score included seven 3's and two 4's.

Most observers gave the 19-year-old Conrad, medalist in this year's state junior meet, a slight edge over Blackwell. However, the blond Roswell socker has an amazing record in tourney play this year and there are those who think he will come through again. He won the ipvitational meets at Carlsbad, Roswell and Cloudcroft, the Doctor's Invitational at Roswell, and the New Mexico Lions Club tournament. At Ruidoso he reached the finals, and at Las Cruces he went to the semi-finals. Too, he is a fine scrambler and a bulldog-like competitor who may find the 36-hole route to his liking.

Against the favored Billy Maxwell this afternoon, Blackwell grabbed an early lead and never let up. Maxwell himself played sub-par golf, but he could not match Blackwell's sizzling play.

In the morning quarterfinals, Conrad had ousted another San Antonian, young Billy Erfurth, 1 up in a match that was in doubt until Conrad rapped in his final putt on the 18th green. Brannen, the roundish veteran who Friday sidelined defending champion Raymond Marshall of Lubbock, scored another mild upset by trimming Bob Maxwell, Big Spring, 3 and 2. Brannen was four below par when the match ended.

In the lower bracket, Blackwell scored a 3 and 2 quarterfinal win over Buddy Schulz of Wichita Falls, while Billy Maxwell was defeating Ross Mitchell, Lubbock, 3 and 2.

Rex Jordan, promising 13-year-old Plainview schoolboy, and Jack Trammel of Lubbock gained the finals by scroing two victories each today.

Trammel Beats Trout

Trammel bested Chick Trout, sr., of Lubbock 2 and 1, then outlasted E. G. Berry, Fort Worth, 1 up. Against Berry, Trammel rammed in a 15-foot putt on the 18th green for the par that protected his one-hole lead and gave him the triumph.

Jordan won over Roy Howard and Bob Ewerz, both of Lubbock, by identical 3 and 2 scores.

Winners were determined in all other flights today. They included: First, George Loveless of Charlotte, S. C.; second, Kenneth Shields of Plainview; third, R. E. Campbell, Matador; and fourth, Al Chambers, Littlefield. L. K. Gregory had won the medal play fifth flight Friday.

Sunday's Conrad - Blackwell match will leave the first tee at 9 a. m., with the second 18 holes slated to start at 2 p. m.

Trammel and Jordan will begin their 18-hole championship flight consolation match at 9:15 a. m.

Ken Sears Poles Thirty-Sixth Homer To Drive In Three Runs

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Borger snapped a four-game losing streak last night at Rosenthal Field and tumbled the Lubbock Hubbers into sixth place with an 11-to-6 victory before 1,611 paying customers.

Tommy Butler, elbowing his third loss for the Hubbers, departed from the game in the fifth after Ken Sears had poled his 36th home run of the year, a tremendous poke that sailed high and wide over the rightfield fence, to bring in three runs. That gave the Gassers a 5-2 lead and broke Lubbock's back.

The Hubbers could do nothing with the slants of Hugh "Mountie" King, who won his tenth game of the year last night. King was in fine form for eight innings, allowing only five hits—three of which came in the two-run fourth—and setting the Hubbers down almost in order.

Butler might have escaped trouble in the fifth entirely if Tommy Greenhaw, the new Hubber leftfielder, hadn't misjudged Gordon Nell's short fly to left.

Earl Butler had opened the inning with a walk, but Verdon Gilchrist bounced into a double play and the danger seemed to be over. Then Greenhaw started back on Nell's fly and too late turned to come in for it, the ball falling for a single. Jimmy Littlejohn walked to put two runners on and Sears slammed the first pitch to him out of the playing area.

Held 2-0 Deficit

Lubbock had fought from under a 2-0 deficit to tie the score in the bottom of the fourth. Nelson Davis led off with a triple when Nim Free tried a shoestring catch, the ball going under his glove and out to the fence. Al Duarte bounced out, but Jim Prince and Floyd Walker singled in succession to bring in a pair of tallies.

After Borger had taken a long lead, the Hubbers seemed to collapse, even though they turned in four double killings. In the riotous seventh, Sears and Littlejohn collaborated in a double steal at the expense of Walker; Littlejohn scoring on a bad throw to third. Then, after Eddie Carnett had been passed intentionally, as had Sears, those two runners successfully worked the twin theft act.

There was little for Lubbock fans to cheer over, until a too-late rally in the ninth brought in four runs. A double by Mike Dooley opened things and Jackie Sullivan, John Myers, Davis and Duarte kept the affair going. But with the Hubbers threatening, Sears yanked King and inserted Southpaw George Matthews. The old stumbling block for the Hubbers got Prince on an infield roller to end the agony.

This afternoon Albuquerque comes to Lubbock for three games, with a doubleheader today at 3 p. m. starting things off. The teams conclude their series with a single game Monday night.

Westerner Football Hopefuls Open Initial Grid Drills Monday

Pattison To Hold Daily Sessions

The 1949 Lubbock High school football season will get underway Monday morning at 8 a. m. when prospective candidates for the Westerner, Cowhands and Pioneer teams meet at Chapman field for the initial organizational meeting and grid drill.

Head Coach C. R. (Pat) Pattison, in his second year as the chief mentor at Lubbock High school will send the boys through two drills daily, confining the first two days to fundamental drills in light equipment before issuing shoes and pads on Wednesday. All morning drills will be with light equipment.

Pass offense, defense, ground plays and dummy scrimmage will consume the main part of the first week's practice as Coach Pattison, end Coach Fred Taylor and line Coach Bill Floyd start orientating the Westerner squad in the new T-formation which they will use this year.

Hold Camp August 21

On August 21 the team will leave for a week's camp at Schriener Institute in Kerrville and concentrate on hard training to put them in shape for the first game on September 16, a home stand against Childress.

Thirteen lettermen will return to the squad this year, but the reserve ranks are thin. Returning are Backs Malcolm Young, Bob Brown, Charlie Williams and Wayne Stroud; Ends Billy Wright, Garnet Reeves and Wayne Noland; Tackle Joe Brock; Guards Doug Ross, Freddie Gray, Curtis Roberts and Don Hufstedler; and Center Douglas Wienke. Of the letermen Brock, Gray, Wienke, Young, Brown and Williams are regulars.

Six of the 10 games are on the home schedule, and box or reserved seat reservations may be made by telephoning E. J. Lowrey at the high school athletic office (22033). Persons with reservations last year may retain their old seats if reserved early. Price of reservations are $9.

To Be In District 3-AA

The Westerners this year will be in the new District 3-AA, which includes Brownfield, Lamesa, Midland and Odessa. Home games are Childress, September 16; North Side (Fort Worth), September 23; Vernon, October 7; Pampa, October 14; Lamesa, October 28; and Brownfield, November 24.

Games on the road include Plainview, September 30; Amarillo, October 21; Odessa, November 11; and Midland, November 18.

The record of the Westerners the past season was not enviable, the locals winning four tilts, losing five and tying one. Another tough schedule is forecast, but hopes for a district championship this year burn brighter than at anytime since 1941, when Lubbock tied with Pampa for the District 1-AA title and lost to Wichita Falls in the bi-district.

In 1947 the Westerners finished the season with only one victory while losing seven and tying two. In 1946 the record was five wins and five losses, and in 1946 the team won three, lost six and died one.

The highlight of the last 10 years came in 1939 when Lubbock won the State Class AA championship, defeating Waco in the finals. The year before, 1938, Lubbock lost to Corpus Christi in the schoolboy finals.

Only five weeks of practice precede the first game, and a hard schedule is planned for the football candidates who are "trying out" for the Lubbock Westerner team.

TEXAS QUARTET RIDES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 13 (AP)—San Angelo faces the Fairfield team of Wichita, Kan., tomorrow in finals of the Harvey Lyle Cup polo tournament at Broadmoor field. San Angelo gained the finals with a 10-2 win over San Antonio. Gus White, jr., led the winners with five goals.

Country Club Invitational Golf Tourney Entries Now Total 130

Pro-Amateur Set Monday Afternoon

Entries for the Lubbock Country club Invitational Golf tournament reached 130 on the first day of qualifying, and a record field of more than 200 golfers is expected for the annual event.

The 17 amateurs who will qualify here Tuesday for the National Amateur have been released, and among them are eight Lubbock golfers. The entire list includes Jimmy Goldman, John A. Bell, Dick Jennings, Fenner Tubbs, Raymond Marshall, Tom Murphey, Ross Mitchell, and Murrell Tripp, of Lubbock; Don Hill and George McCormick of Amarillo; Lloyd R. (Bobby) French, Theodore G. (Ted) Roden, Mac Ottis Boring, jr., Billy Maxwell, Bill Breeden, and William (Red) Roden, of Odessa; and William P. Castleman, jr., Midland.

Special Match Set

Nearly all the national qualifiers will be in Lubbock Monday at 1 p.m. for a special pro-amateur match at the Lubbock club, and at least 15 of the top professionals in the area are expected for the event. Included among these are Red Bost of San Angelo and Shorty Hornbuckle of Odessa.

This event will set forth a week of golfing. On Tuesday is the sectional qualifying. Wednesday will see Kattmann Cup team matches between Lubbock players and 12 visiting golfers. Qualifying for the Invitational gets underway Thursday, with matches Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Some of the best golfers in Texas will participate in the event, the Invitational, and $2,500 in trophies and prizes will go to the winners and runners-up in each flight and consolation bracket. There will be a trophy for each flight, plus $50 merchandise prize and a $50 merchandise prize for every runner-up and consolation winner.

Greens In Top Shape

The Invitational tournament is over the par 71, rolling 6,233 yard country club course. The fairways and greens are reported to be in top shape, and rains the past few weeks have helped the grass.

Defending champion of the tourney is Bill Maxwell of Odessa, and he has won three of five tournaments entered this year, including the Glen Garden in Fort Worth, Kilgore and Abilene, and he was high among the winners in the Odessa pro-amateur last week. Maxwell won the title in 1947, and last year there was no tournament because of construction of the new $250,000 clubhouse.

Other hot visiting amateurs include Bo Wininger, Oklahoma A and M lad who was winner of Ardmore title this year and runner-up in the Oklahoma City Invitation, low amateur in Kansas PGA, two strokes under the first won by professional. He set a course record at Odessa last week, beating Byron Nelson's mark.

Jack Williams of Plainview won the Midland title and was runner-up to Maxwell here in 1947.

Roswell Champion

Clyde Blackwell, Roswell, was the Cloudcroft, N. M., champion this year, and the runner-up, J. V. Dixon, Abilene, will also be present.

Morris Williams, jr., Austin, National Collegiate runner-up this year, Texas Junior champion, and state amateur finalist. Also from Austin will be Ed Hopkins and Marion Pfluger.

Then there are Ernie Vosler, Fort Worth, Sherman winner; Tommie Roberts, Roswell, Hobbs winner last year; Jack Munger, Dallas, runner-up in the Broadmore in Colorado Springs; Carl Vandervoort, Fort Worth; Frank Redman, El Paso, Las Cruces winner; E. C. Nix, Seminole; Gene Klein, jr., Amarillo; Dave Duggan, Fort Worth; Bobby Davidson, Odessa; and Van Ligon, Midland.

From among this group the Kattman Cup team is likely to be picked by Captain Obie Bristow of Big Spring. Home captain is Fenner Tubbs, and he and club champion Jimmy Goldman will automatically assume a spot on the 12-man team.

Final qualification for the Lubbock Kattmann Cup team will be today at the club.

COACHES AID RACEHORSES

KUALA LUMPER, Malaya, Aug. 13 (AP)—A new type of horse coach to provide luxury travel for racehorses has been put into service on the Malayan railways. The interior of the coach is kept seven degrees cooler than previous types of coaches as a result of Chengai wood capped with a shining roof of lacquered aluminum. Each coach carries twelve horses at a time. There is room for twelve attendants.

Tornadoes Begin Practice Monday

LAMESA, Aug. 13 (Special)—Lamesa High school's Golden Tornadoes open training for the 1949 football season Monday on the new practice field adjoining the new senior high school and stadium Monday morning under the direction of head coach Bob Harrell.

Equipment will be issued to a squad of about 60 lads including 10 lettermen. Workouts will be held from 8 to 10 a.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. from onw until school opens Sept. 12.

Coach Harrell said that the squad would probably get down to hard work after about two days, noting the fact that the Tornadoes open their 10-game schedule at Levelland Sept. 9.

Assistant Coaches O. W Follis, Johnny Mason, Everett Martin and Jack Wetzel will help Harrell put the lads through their training program.

Lettermen Return

Mick Mason, an ACC graduate recently hired to coach the 7th and 8th grades elevens, and Galen Roberts, who will again tutor the 5th and 6th grade grid teams, will get their squads into action later.

Harrell said the Tornadoes would work out behind locked gates throughout the season.

The Tornadoes, opening their first season in the newly created District 3-AA, which includes Midland, Brownfield, Lubbock and Odessa, hope to do better than last year when they won three, tied one and lost six in Harrell's first year as head mentor.

Returning lettermen include T. J. Womack and Jerry Phillips, ends; Robert Adair and Jamie Pearson, tackles; Jim Bob Boothe, guard; Bill Hart, center; Larry Lattimore, Dick Echols, Ronald Chapman and Bobby Hawkins, backs.

All-Star Elevens Tangle Saturday

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 13. (AP)—Two crack passers, one for the east and one for the west, have accepted bids for the National High School All-Star football game to be played here next Saturday night.

Claud Kincannon, a 19-year-old Texan from Waco, has mailed in acceptance of a bid and will probably go into the starting tailback slot in the single and double wingback systems, used by pass-conscious Will Walls, University of Corpus Christi coach and mentor of the West squad.

As a buffer to Kincannon, 184, who steered Waco to the Texas high school championship last year, coach Red Drew, Alabama mentor and coach of the East team will bring along 185-pound Clell Hobson of Tuscaloosa, Ala. Hobson is ticketed for Alabama.

Drew sees Hobson as one of the great collegiate passers of the future, operating from the Alabama-T formation, which the Easterners will use here in the All-Star game.

A good candidate for the spinner fullback in the Walls-single wing is All-State Sam Allen, 185, from Chickasha, Okla., who is headed for the University of Oklahoma.

Two great breakaway runners, Lauren Hargrove, 190, Fitzgerald, Ga., and Tedd Millette, 175, Greenville, Miss., give Drew long scoring threats to offset the power and passing that the West squad is expected to rely upon.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

As you may have noticed, not all the talk at the High School Coaches association meeting in Beaumont over a week ago was about high school athletics. There was a good deal of talk about college athletics and what to expect this fall. Most of the sportswriters agreed with the Southwest Conference coaches — Rusty Russell excepted — that Southern Methodist was the team to beat and the one club most likely to win again. But there was a note of caution along with selection of SMU, Texas, Texas Aggies, TCU, Baylor and Rice all were conceded more than an equal chance of upsetting SMU's bid for a third title.

Don Oliver, the Baylor publicity man, was unusually quiet at Beaumont—concerning the Bears. He didn't have much to say except that they expected a fair team. When sport tub thumpers start being cagey, look out. That generally means they believe they are loaded. In fact, most of the so-called experts believe that Baylor is the main team to give SMU a strong run for the money. Both Texas and Texas Aggies will have a lot of sophomores and, while they can't be counted out of the dangerous class, they should not be potentially as strong. TCU is a coming team and should be more dangerous with the combined T and single wing. Rice has a power-laden club returning and many think that the Owls will be tough every Saturday.

Most surprising tale to come out of Beaumont was the intelligence that Jess Neely, Rice football coach, is on his last legs—if the alumni have their way. The news came as a shock and we expressed deep disbelief. But our source gave us enough details to make it sound plausible. The story is that the Rice alumni are going to try and make a second Homer Norton case out of Neely. They have, among themselves, given him this year to produce a winner. If he fails, they will attempt to buy up his contract. They feel that he has been having the proper material the past three years and that he should have produced to a greater extent than he has.

Jess has the source admits, good, solid contacts in Houston and on the board of trustees. Moreover, he has his roots solidly in place in the right spots and these influential persons will fight

Close Flag Chase In Oil Belt Loop

The nearer the end of the season in the Oil Belt baseball league the hotter the race for the flag seems to be getting, with Denver City, Seagraves, Sundown and Post in the first division.

Only one game separates the first three teams, and Post is a half game back of Sundown in the fourth position.

Denver City has undisputed possession of the lead going into games today, with Seagraves losing ground the past week.

In a game Tuesday night Levelland stopped Brownfield, and Thursday Sundown clipped Seagraves. Denver City, Post, Slaton, and Tahoka were idled by rain, which accounted for the slight variation in the standings.

In games today Sundown moves to Post, Slaton is at Tahoka, Levelland plays at Denver City, and Brownfield is entertained by Seagraves.

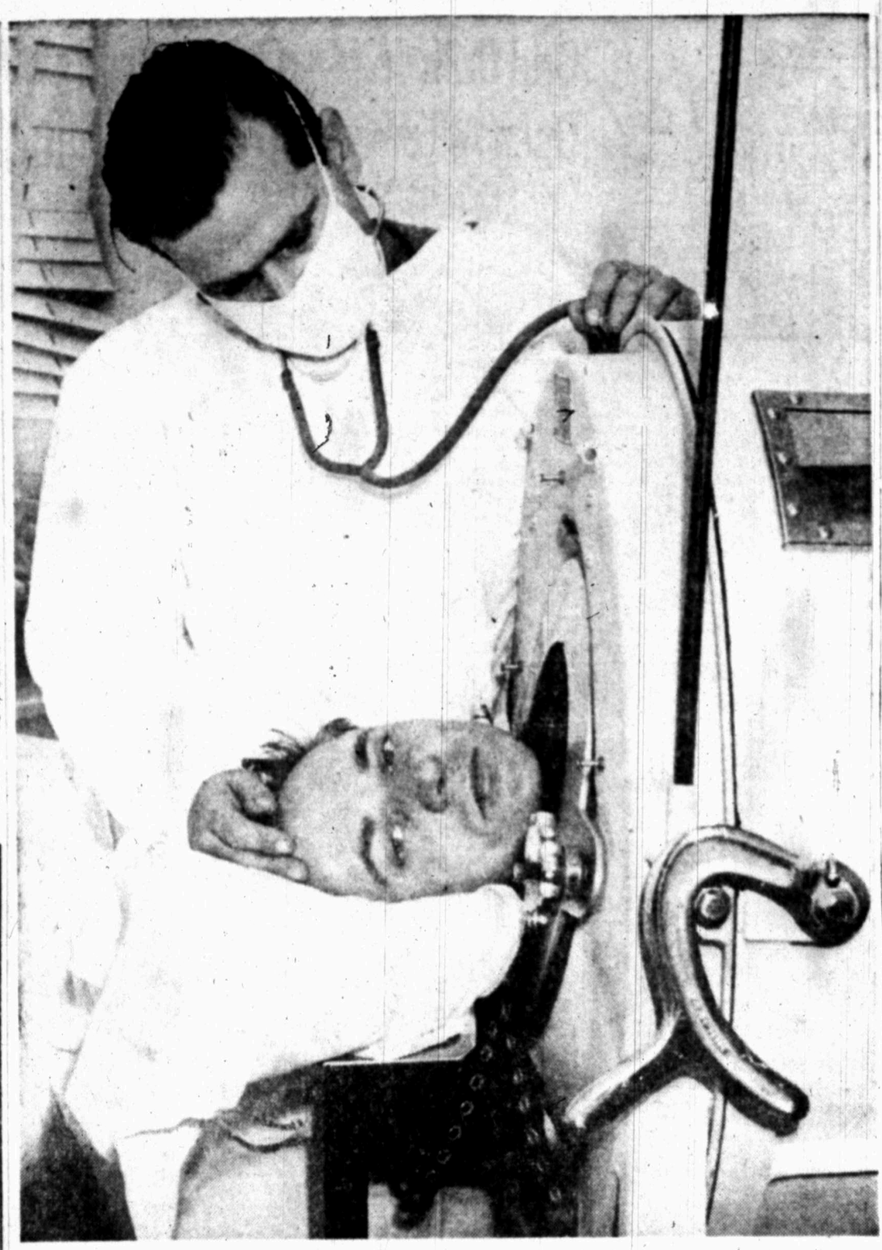

The standings:

OIL BELT STANDINGS

Teams	W	L	Pct.
Denver City	18	8	.692
Seagraves	17	9	.654
Sundown	18	10	.643
Post	17	10	.630
Levelland	16	12	.571
Slaton	10	14	.417
Tahoka	9	16	.360

SINGING MOUSE LIQUIDATED

MORRIS, Ill., (AP)—William Mathre trapped a mouse which for two months disturbed his family's sleep by chirping like a canary.

DUKE SHORTSTOP IN IRON LUNG—Frank Okrie, stricken with polio on Tuesday, is shown above incased in the iron lung into which he was put last Wednesday in Lamesa. The ace shortstop became ill Tuesday, but made the trip to Lamesa with the team. He was given an examination by Dr. U. H. Zee of Lamesa, shown standing beside Okrie, and he diagnosed the case. Okrie is making remarkably good progress and expects to be moved today to his home in Albuquerque. He is given a good chance to wage a successful fight against the dread disease, the second time that he has had to battle polio. (Photo by Roberts Studio, Lamesa.)

Midland Coach Sets Up Rigid Minute-To-Minute Drill Slate

MIDLAND, Aug. 13. (AP)—Thurmon (Tugboat) Jones, new coach of Midland high school, isn't talking about anything except winning.

He has issued a minute-by-minute training schedule for the entire football season and before each game is this note.

"Leave hotel or field house, go to field, win game, return to hotel or field house."

Jones comes here after coaching at Wichita Falls, Electra, Hardin college and Texas A. and M.

FIRST BASEMAN HURT

CORSICANA, Aug. 13 (AP)—First baseman W. A. Shart of the Ennis All-Stars' softball club suffered a broken right ankle here last night while sliding into third base. He is in a Corsicana hospital. The Corsicana City Cab team defeated the All-Stars, 6 to 0.

Monday Boxing Card Completed

Completion of the Monday night boxing card at Sled Allen's arena was completed Saturday, and Promoter Keith Anderson announced the signing of Bill Buck, Morton, to meet Leonard Duncan of Hale Center in a preliminary bout.

Buck has not entered the ring in some time, but he gave assurance that he has been training hard and promises to put up a good fight against the Hale Center slugger. Duncan has had one pro fight, winning a decision over Jimmy Boggs, Amarillo.

Lubbock Heavyweight Gene James will appear in the six-round semi-final event against Bob Taylor of Dallas, a 210-pounder who will outweigh the local slugger by 20 pounds. James has won seven straight heavyweight bouts—all by knockouts.

In the main event are Hubert Gray, Wichita Falls welterweight, and Joe Kramer of El Paso. Both fighters are well known in their areas and are expected to furnish plenty of action.

In another opener of the 28-round program are E. E. Sparks of Lubbock, last year's regional Golden Gloves featherweight champion, and he will be making his pro debut against Billy Brackeen of Slaton, who won his first pro start last week with a one-round knockout.

Charley Neff, Petersburg, will meet Eddie Manoi of El Paso in a lightweight bout. Manoi is a native of Chicago and spent most of his life in the Philippine Islands. He recently won the Eighth Army lightweight championship.

Tickets go on sale Monday at a booth in the lobby of the Hilton hotel, but tickets may be reserved by telephoning 2-0990. Ringside seats sell for $2.50, reserved $2, and general admission $1.50.

SPORTS Slants

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Ever since Joe Louis stepped down as heavyweight champion, the prizefight experts have been moaning over the dearth of potential successors to the Brown Bomber. The wailing to the effect that "there just ain't no good heavies" has been long and loud.

True, there aren't many good men in the 175-pound-plus class, but it seems to your correspondent that it's high time that the boxing crowd acknowledges Ezzard Charles as the fine fighter that he is.

Charles admittedly isn't as great as was Louis in his prime, chiefly because he is much smaller. But he certainly is head and shoulders above the current crop of challengers, and perhaps even as good as the aging Louis who gave up the crown some months ago.

Charles, it must be remembered, possesses one of the finest records of any active boxer. He has mopped up everything in sight, usually with considerable ease. After all, Louis experienced more than a little difficulty with Jersey Joe Walcott, whom Charles easily outpointed for the NBA title.

Probably the only current contender who could extend Charles would be Lee Savold—and by the time Savold gets around to taking a crack at the crown age will have taken its toll on him, just as it did on Gus Lesnevich.

So, from this corner, it looks like a long and happy reign for King Ezzard.

Speaking of Lesnevich, I'm still wondering why the International Boxing club threw him in with Charles. Gus had lost his previous three starts, and plainly was on the downgrade. Fortunately, the public, by staying away in large numbers, clearly showed that it didn't care for such a mis-match, so we can expect better selections by the IBC in the future.

Plainview has come up with one of the most promising young golfers seen on the South Plains in many a moon. He is Rex Jordan, the 13-year-old junior high school student who was among the three low qualifiers in this week's Plainview Country Club tournament.

The lanky Jordan, who has been playing "serious" golf for only two summers, qualified with a 71, and frequently tours the tough Plainview layout in near-par figures.

Pro Gene Mitchell, who has had a big hand in the youngter's development, thinks he may easily develop into a top-notcher by "sticking with the game the year 'round."

The approaching Lubbock Country Club tournament boasts the finest prize list in the event's history.

Each prize winner will receive merchandise valued at $50 or more. In addition, each flight champion gets a handsome trophy.

The tournament champion is to be given a giant 41½-inch trophy, while a trophy clock will go to the medalist.

All merchandise awards were contributed by Lubbock merchants. Credit also is due Johnny Powers, who had a leading role in rounding up the prizes.

Looks like a real bonanza for the "trophy hunters!"

AUTHOR IMPROVED

ATLANTA, Aug. 13 (AP)—Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With The Wind," partially regained consciousness today and recognized friends. She was struck down Thursday night by a speeding car driven by an off-duty taxi driver. Miss Mitchell, in private life Mrs. John Marsh, aroused from a coma today and gave signs of improvement.

to the limit for him. If alumni pressure were brought to bear, there would be a terrific fight and the odds are, right now, that Jess would win out. All of which doesn't mean that the attempt won't be made. On the otherhand, it may pass by the boards and be forgotten if the alumni realize that they can't win. Personally, we can't hold much with Rice alumni on the matter. From what we have seen of Jess, he has done a fine job with the material available. Rice, being a technical school, doesn't have the time to devote to athletics and we haven't seen an Owl eleven yet that wasn't well-coached and doing its best. We hope the thing blows over.

Harold V. "Author" Ratliff, AP sports editor, was the victim of a scurvy trick by sportswriters at Beaumont. Wednesday night they had a seminar planned in which Ratliff was to interview the Southwest Conference coaches present. A section in the auditorium that night was reserved for the sportswriters—three rows down front. The coaches came on stage and Harold was brought forward with a flowery speech. Just as Ratliff took the microphone to interview the coaches, the entire delegation of some 50 sportswriters got up and trooped down the aisle towards the exits. Some held their noses, others made disparaging motions with their hands. It was several minutes before order was restored and house lights dimmed. When they were, the writers quietly came in, one by one, to enjoy the interview.

Emmett Brunson, Rice track coach, was a busy man in Beaumont, but not too busy to spend a few minutes talking about Bill Howton, the great Plainview athlete. He thinks that Bill has a fine future on the cinderpath for Rice and could be, with more polishing, one of Rice's outstanding hurdlers. He liked the Plainview boy's spirit and ability and says that he is counting on him next spring, when he will be eligible for varsity competition. Emmett said that he was a little rough yet, but that he was expecting great things of him. Told that Bill was a fine softball pitcher, Brunson grinned and said that he'd better enjoy it this summer, that softball and track didn't mix. "You use too many different muscles in the two sports," Emmett declared. "He won't have time for softball next year."

If the football enthusiast were to stroll out to the Tech campus these days, he might keep his eyes open for a small, well-built young man wearing a Texas Tech T shirt and bluejeans. A closer look would disclose the compact young man to be none other than Waldo "The Monahans Meteor" Young. Waldo, and this may or may not be significant, is receiving mail at the athletic office. He also appears well sound of mind and mighty happy to be in Lubbock. For that matter, there are a number of persons mighty happy to have him in Lubbock. But Waldo had a trying experience the other night. Seems he was playing some basketball at Tech and got a deep cut over his left eye. Officials took him to a local doctor, a former athlete himself, to have stitches taken. As the sawbones sewed away, the nonchalant young Young looked up and inquired: "Say, Doc, is this the first time you've ever done this?" Confidence supreme!

THE ROUNDUP: Wally Rodriguez, Hubber outfielder, has been placed on the non-playing list and has been returned to Corpus . . . Ken Peacock has been returned to Greenville, optioned to Midland . . . Lefty Faulkner, Oil Belt ace from Seagraves, has been signed on a five-day look by the Hubbers . . . Baseball fans and sportswriters complained in Beaumont that Corpus Christi was winning the Rio Grande Valley league with a packed team. Several former Hubbers are there . . . Ray Hamrick has been optioned to Albuquerque by Oakland of the PCL to take Frank Okrie's place . . . Tech is after five particular boys that SWC schools are after. They say they'll be happy to land one of them . . . The Hubbers are getting a veteran pitcher, Ray Clark, from Greenville. Clark pitched for Dallas in 1946 and has been on option to Henderson this year . . . Two games for the price of one today and against Albuquerque. See you at the heat factory.

SMU TO MEET NAVY

DALLAS, Aug. 13 (AP)—Southern Methodist will play Navy and Baylor will take on Louisiana State in opening games of the Cotton Bowl basketball tournament here Dec. 30-31, Lester Jordan, tournament manager, announced today. The second night of the tourney will see the first-night losers meeting and the winners clashing.

Grid Drills To Open At Lamesa

Both of these teams have been picked as probable stand-outs in the state.

Not Enough Manpower

The Tornado mentor gives his eleven little chance to cop the district title, saying, "We just don't have the manpower." He rates his backfield as fairly well fortified, his line as capable but too light, and points to a scanty reserve strength.

Lamesa opens a five-game home season with Class A Seminole here Sept. 16 at the new stadium, Tornado field, which has a seating capacity of nearly 6,000.

Dedication of the swank new stadium, one of the finest small athletic plants in West Texas which is located directly behind the new senior high school building, will be staged during the latter part of the season, Harrell announced.

ROBBERS "GO TO DOGS"

Robbers in Cape Town, South Africa, are using dogs trained in crime, police assert—setting the dogs on pedestrians, who are usually so terrified that they put up little resistance to being robbed.

Crane Splits With Sunbeams To Win Shaughnessy Playoff

CRANE, Aug. 13 (Special)—Crane's Oilers continued to extend the mastery they have held all season over the Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers of Lubbock, splitting a pair of games here tonight to win the Texas Softball League Shaughnessy playoffs.

Lubbock won the opener 2-0 behind Kenny Scott's no-hit, no-run game, but Crane won the second tilt 4-0 behind the hurling of Red Denham.

The second game clinched the playoffs and sends the Oilers to El Paso, where they will meet teams from New Mexico and California in the National Softball Congress' regional tournament. The winner will go to the national tourney at Greeley, Colo.

A long home run by L. E. Weeks in the first inning was more than enough for the Oilers to win the second game, after Scott had tossed a magnificient shutout in the opener. Lefty Wells opened the damage with a single and Len Bostick walked to put two men on. Wells went to third when Joe Goodwin forced Bostick at second, but Weeks crashed his fourmaster at this point.

The Oilers added another rung in the fourth when Jerry DeFord was safe on an error at third. John Reynolds sacrificed him to second, he stole third and came in to score on a passed ball.

In the opener, the Blue-Beamers won the game in the first inning. Roy Butler, Lubbock's top batter, doubled sharply to left centerfield. He went to third on a passed ball and scored on another passed ball.

The same batter duplicated his feat in the fourth. Butler led off with a double, stole third and again crossed the plate on a passed ball.

Scott and Denham were almost equal tonight. Scott fanned 11 in the first game, 10 in the second. Denham whiffed eight in the opener and matched Scott with 10 in the nightcap. Scott issued three walks and hit two batters tonight, while Denham walked only two.

Ralph Bumpass, team owner, announced after the game that the Blue-Beamers had been extended a special invitation to appear in the NSC tournament at Greeley without further tournament play. The invitation was based on the fine showing the team made last year.

Four Cotton Belt Games Set Today

Activity in the Cotton Belt baseball league will be rough today, with four important games scheduled to be played.

Heading the list is the contest at 2:30 p. m. at Chapman field in Lubbock between Shallowater and Wolfforth's Wolves. The Wolves moved ahead in the league last week with a 12 - 5 victory over Lubbock when Shallowater split a double-bill with Meadow, taking the first game 5-1, and dropping the playoff of an earlier contest, 12-11.

The Wolves curently are one game ahead of their nearest rivals by .042 percentage points, and only two games separate the first three teams.

All three top teams have cinched their berths in the play-off series, and the Eagles, Ropesville, Lubbock and Meadow are contenders for the remaining places.

The standings:

Fernandez Leads In WT-NM Loop Batting

(By The United Press)

Roberto Fernandez of Abilene boasted a 13-point lead over the field for the West Texas-New Mexico league batting leadership through games of Aug. 8, official averages revealed Saturday.

Fernandez, with a .399 mark, also led in hits (183), total bases (254) and doubles (45).

Lamesa's D. C. Miller ranked second at .386 and continued to lead the loop in home runs with 33. Cliff McClain of Albuquerque was third at .384, three points ahead of Lubbock's Jim Prince and 10 ahead of Verdon Gilchrist of Borger.

Jack Guitierrez of Lamesa boasted the top mound record (11-3), a shade ahead of Tom Breisinger of Albuquerque (12-4) and Ray Faust of Amarillo (14-5), but Pampa's Roy Parker had won the most games (15-9) and led the league in strikeouts (163) and completed games (17).

Borger's Gassers continued to rap the ball at a terrific clip, boasting a .310 average, 11 points ahead of Lubbock.

OVER 860 SCHOOLS START WORK

Schoolboy Football Legions To Begin Fall Practice On Monday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Texas schoolboy football legions begin the long march Monday.

From Panhandle to Gulf and from from El Paso to the piney woods, high school gridders numbering some 25,000 will hit the autumn trail that will end with state championships in December.

The greatest field in Texas Interscholastic league history—more than 860 schools—is due to roll out the pigskins and sweat in the moleskins.

Three state titles will be on the line—the City Conference, with its 26 schools, Class AA with 84 and Class A with 228.

Class B and six-man football go only to regional titles.

This is the last year for starting fall practice Aug. 15. Next year spring training will return and the schools will open fall practice Sept. 1.

Favorites are scarce in all divisions as the campaign nears.

Jeff Davis of Houston is mentioned strongly in the City Conference but Arlington Heights (Ft. Worth), the defending champion, is due to return with another top team.

In Class AA, Odessa, Lubbock, Abilene, San Angelo, Gainesville, Marshall, Texarkana, Temple, Waco, Orange, Port Arthur and Austin are the top rated outfits. Waco, the defending champion, may find Temple too tough in its own district.

In Class A, Monahans, the 1948 winner, will be back with a good team but is not rated anywhere near as strong as last year. New Braunfels, a 1948 finalist, looks good again.

NCAA Reviews Cases Of Code Violaters

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP) — The cases of 39 colleges and universities suspected of being too generous in financial aid to their athletes were under final review today by a committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA's constitutional compliance committee members said they would wind up their two day study of the cases with a public report tomorrow. Their recommendations will be made to the full NCAA meeting in New York Jan. 13-14.

Sixteen of the schools are listed as known violators of the NCAA "sanity code" governing such financial help. Another 11 are classed as doubtful and 12 others have promised to put their athletic houses in order following previous warnings. The names of the schools have not been disclosed.

Meanwhile, the NCAA's nine-man 1949 bowl game committee opened two days of closed sessions. That group is expected to recommend elimination of some lesser bowl games. The total now number around 50. The group also is expected to require responsible management for all such contests.

Indians Set Pace In Texas Batting

(By The United Press)

Although there were five regulars knocking at the door, the top five Texas league leading hitters held to their positions with only a switch in places at second and third during the week ending Wednesday.

Big Herb Conyers of Oklahoma City slipped six points during the week, but his .357 average still gave him a 10-point edge over Bob Bundy of Fort Worth, who climbed into the runnerup spot at .347, a point ahead of Russ Burns of Tulsa. Bundy gained 11 points during the week, Burns two.

Hemus In Fourth

Solly Hemus of Houston clung to fourth spot at .334, while fifth spot was nailed down by Milt Nielsen of Oklahoma City at .323. Eddie Knoblauch of Tulsa, Ben Guintini and Buck Frierson of Dallas, Cal Abrams of Fort Worth and Ray Murray of Oklahoma City all were within six points of fifth place and were ready to step into the select five should any of the leaders slip.

None of the other individual leaders changed. Conyers continued to lead in hits (168) and doubles (45), Burns in RBI's (128) Johnny Lane of Tulsa in runs (109) and tied with Randy Jackson of Oklahoma City in triples (10). Jerry Witte of Dallas in home runs (37) and Preston Ward of Fort Worth in stolen bases (26).

Lanfranconi Top Hurler

Walt Lanfranconi of Dallas, among the active hurlers, boasted the best record (6-1), pushed closely by John Bebber, Tulsa, with a 7-2 mark and Bob Milliken of Fort Worth and John Gibson of San Antonio at 8-3. Joe Landrum of Fort Worth had won the most games (16), worked the most innings (216) and was tied with Tommy Fine of San Antonio and Clarence Beers of Houston with most complete games (15). Dick Rozek, Oklahoma City's no-hit pitcher, led in strikeouts (129) and bases on balls (125).

Oklahoma City dropped three points but continued to set the club batting pace at .283, followed by Fort Worth at .280. The Indians also led the league in hits (1,195), doubles (241) and triples (50).

Flying Beer Can Loaded With Lye Injures Race Track Fan

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13. (AP)—A flying beer can loaded with lye injured Marshall Miles, former business manager for Joe Louis, and four other persons at the Atlantic City race track yesterday.

Detective Sgt. Lewis Vormann of the state police said most of the lye blew back on the man who threw it, identified as Earl Griffin, 34, negro, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Police said Griffin was aiming at his wife.

RING ROWDIES TANGLE AGAIN

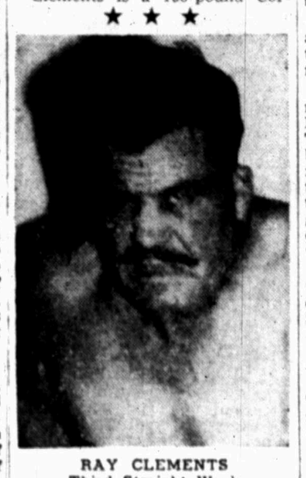

Big Train Clements Slated To Meet Bill Weidner In Arena Go

This week's wrestling card should be a natural, with Ray "Big Train" Clements and Bill Weidner meeting the third straight Wednesday at Sled Allen's arena.

After last week's engagement which resulted in another doubtful decision, the two grapplers asked for a chance to meet again to decide once and for all who was the better wrestler. The referee of the two previous brawls, Vic Weber, came in for criticism from both of the ring rowdies and will not be in the ring for the third meeting of the two.

RAY CLEMENTS
Third Straight Week

Bob Cummings and Gene Blackley will meet in the semi-final event, and both men have expressed their desire to meet the winner of the Weidner- Clements bout.

Cummings has been handicapped the last two weeks with a badly bruised hand received while in an exhibition with Ginger, the bear, but he says he is ready to meet and defeat Blackley and win the right to challenge the winner of the main event.

Blackley, who has been giving all opponents a rough time, is in the pink of condition and ready for the contest.

Weber steps out of his role as referee to tangle with Gentleman Dale Haddock in the preliminary. These two waged many battles back in the 1930's, and it will be interesting to see how the two old timers match holds after the years that have passed. Weber will be giving away 10 pounds to Haddock, but that doesn't seem to worry him.

Matches start at 8:30 p. m., and tickets are on sale at the arena each Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

White, Palmer Tie In Tam Golf

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Buck White and Johnny Palmer rolled into a 54-hole deadlock at 11-under-par 205 today, only one stroke ahead of Sam Snead as the Tam O'Shanter $35,000 "world" pro golf cash craze entered the final round.

Palmer, the Badin, N. C., hotshot who was beaten by Snead in the 1949 National P.G.A. finals, banged a third round 69 to gain a stroke over the 39-year-old White from Greenwood, Miss.

White was the halfway leader with 135 yesterday while Palmer trailed at 136.

After a temporary blow up for a two-over-par 38 on the first nine, White settled down for a four-under 32 coming in for a 70.

Unruffled although a jazz combo was hot-licking it for Tom Collins drinkers just off the 18th green, White dropped a difficult three-foot putt to salvage a par 4 and create the deadlock.

Historical Novels Not Too Difficult, Woman Author Says

By PETER HAYES
United Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 13—The jump from writing prize-winning children's books to lusty historical novels such as "Kitty" or "Duchess Hotspur" isn't very far. Not if you are Rosamond Marshall.

Nor has this vivacious, frizzy-haired author stopped with those two. Miss Marshall recently returned to her home at Cobble Hill on Vancouver Island after a whirlwind tour of the country plugging the sale of her third historical novel, "Celeste."

Miss Marshall likes to relax at her picturesque home and recall how she got her start writing best sellers.

"If it hadn't been for a little note penciled on one of the many rejection slips I used to get," Miss Marshall said, "I probably still would be grinding out juveniles."

Encouraged by Prize

The story began in 1942. The New York-born writer won first prize in the older children's division at the New York Herald Tribune's book festival with her "None But the Brave."

Encouraged, Miss Marshall wrote another juvenile, "Blue Boy," a story about the subject of Thomas Gainsborough's famous painting.

But "Blue Boy" fizzled.

"I got 10 rejection slips on that one," Miss Marshall smiled. "But on one of them was written the recipe that got me out of the juvenile field."

The note said, "This might show promise if you would write it for adults. And don't be afraid to put a little zip into it."

That Miss Marshal did. And in 1943 "Kitty" was published by Prentice Hall, followed by "Duchess Hotspur." Together they have sold more than 4,000,000 copies.

No Illusions

Unlike many authors, Miss Marshall has no illusions of writing a "great" novel.

"I just try to provide an evening's entertainment," she says. "But my real ambition is to create an immortal character in American art—someone like Stella Dallas.

Miss Marshall likes to do most of her writing in the early part of the day, preferably under natural light.

"I may write 20 pages a day, but if I can turn out three polished pages in a day, I'm satisfied," she says.

To look at her, you wouldn't think the author of "Kitty" has achieved international fame as a mountain climber. When she was living in Turin, Italy, Miss Marshall spent much of her spare time scaling the towering Swiss and Italian Alps.

"But I'm not in shape for such rugged exercise any more," she laughed. "I like to go salmon fishing off the island here. That's enough exertion for me."

Dispute Between Mrs. Roosevelt, Cardinal Settled, Pope Believes

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP)—Pope Pius XII said today he believes the controversy between Francis Cardinal Spellman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over the question of federal aid to Catholic schools has been resolved satisfactorily.

The pontiff expressed this opinion in a special audience given five American newspaper correspondents at his summer residence here.

The Pope, answering a direct question, first replied that the matter was too delicate for comment.

Then he added he had seen the exchange of letters between the New York Archbishop and Mrs. Roosevelt in a Rome newspaper and that, from them, he thought the controversy was resolved satisfactorily.

The controversy concerned the Barden bill in Congress, which would provide $300 million federal aid to public schools. The Cardinal called it anti-Catholic because, as introduced by Rep. Barden, it excluded private and Catholic parochial schools from assistance for health and transportation services.

He said in a statement July 22 that Mrs. Roosevelt had supported this idea in one of her newspaper columns and thereby shown an attitude of discrimination "unworthy of an American mother."

Mrs. Roosevelt replied the next day that she felt "the final judgment of the worthiness of all human beings is in the hands of God." She declared she had "no anti-Roman Catholic bias," but would stick to her belief in the principle of church-state separation.

Truman Stands Pat On Implied Refusal To Summon MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (INS)—President Truman stood pat today on his implied refusal to summon Gen. MacArthur home for China aid testimony, but Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), said it was up to the chief executive to comply with the wishes of Congress.

Assistant White House Secretary Eben Ayres made clear to news men that the President has no intention of calling the supreme Far Eastern commander home despite joint action by two top Senate committees in requesting his return.

Knowland is author of the "bring MacArthur back" resolution adopted, 13 to 12, Friday by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committee. He said he is "... hopeful MacArthur will return."

MARKET Reports

Wall Street

MARKET OUTLOOK GOOD

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—Confidence is a word frequently heard in Wall Street these days.

Quite a number of brokers are using it. They mean they have confidence in the immediate future of American business.

They say they like what they see ahead they have kind words for some of the actions of the federal government.

The course of the stock market this week is a clear reflection of their attitude. The market had its ups and downs, but it ended the week a little higher than it started. And it kept within a fairly short stride of the 1949 high point established last January.

Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve board, proposed to Congress a number of ways to encourage business to raise the money it needs by selling common stocks. One was income tax reduction in the middle and upper brackets. Another was easing the tax laws which result in taxing a corporation on the money it earns to pay dividends and then taxing the dividends as income after they are paid out.

Coupled with that was the reduction of reserve requirements by the federal reserve for city and country banks. That gave them more funds to lend to business.

On what Wall Street considered the dark side of the picture was the uncertainty over the outcome of negotiations between labor and management in steel, coal and automobiles.

Dividend reductions, lower earnings and management changes in some of the market leaders during the last two trading days unsettled the list enough to bring an average fall.

During the week The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose to $64.60 from $64.20 the week before.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (AP)—Selling from commission houses and local traders pushed grain prices lower on the board of trade. Losses ran to around 2 cents in corn at times and dealings slow at the start, picked up speed as prices slid late in the session.

Cash corn prices again worked lower as 320 cars of the grain arrived here today. Sales of No. 1 yellow corn were made at a premium of 6¼ cents over the September delivery. At the start of August the premium on this grade was 12¼ to 12½ cents over September.

News dispatches stating lower support prices for grains would result from a revised parity formula, as proposed in a new Senate farm bill, caused some of the liquidation. Traders also were concerned over the storage problem for both wheat and corn later in the year.

Wheat closed 1⅞ to 2 cents lower, September $2.00⅝-⅞, corn was 2 to 3 cents lower, September $1.19¼-$1.19, oats were ¼-1⅛ lower, September 65⅛-⅜, rye was ¾-1⅛ lower, September $1.47⅞, soybeans were ¼-1⅛ lower, September $2.35¼-½, and lard was 8 to 18 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.27.

McGrath Snubs Southern States In Call To Name Demo Chairman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (INS)—Democratic National Chairman McGrath today called the national committee to Washington Aug. 24 to pick executive vice chairman William M. Boyle as his successor.

McGrath, in his call, pointedly snubbed southern states which cast their electoral votes last November for states rights presidential Candidate J. Strom Thurmond.

He announced he was sending no invitation to the committeemen from Louisiana and Mississippi, and that the national committeeman from Alabama has resigned while the one from South Carolina "was a candidate on the ticket of another party."

The retiring chairman, whose nomination as attorney general already has been approved by the senate judiciary committee, said he had "suggested" to President Truman that Boyle be made chairman.

He said that the President had given "his wholehearted approval" if the committee agreed.

In explaining his omission of Louisiana and Mississippi, McGrath said, apparently referring also to Alabama and South Carolina:

"... in my judgement by their (Louisiana and Mississippi) several action in convention and subsequently in the campaign they have left the Democratic party."

Shallowater Official Denies Reports On Precinct Four

Co ty Commissioner Perry L. Corley of Shallowater has announced that precinct 4 "is not in financial straits" in denying reports to that effect.

"I have $10,000 in the county treasury left to last out the year," he said.

Corley said he recently "laid off" four county employes because "I felt they were not needed anymore." The men were D. McGuire, J. B. Westbrook, Jerry Putman and Carl Johnson.

The Avalanche-Journal erroneously reported his precinct contained 750 miles of roads. "It only has 420 miles," Corley explained.

"My budget was only $61,000 this year," he said, "because cost to operate the precinct last year exceeded the budget."

Coastal Bend Area Suffering Shortage Of Cotton Pickers

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—Cotton pickers are badly needed in the Coastal Bend area around Corpus Christi and Alice, the Texas employment commission reported today.

A big cotton crop in the Rio Grande valley is holding up migratory workers who usually follow the harvest up-state, the TEC explained.

Because of the large valley crop and the amount remaining to be picked there, harvesting of the Coastal Bend cotton has been thrown off schedule.

U. S., Britain Set For Far East Conference

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (INS)—Top level U. S.-British conferences on the Far East crisis became a certainty today when it was learned that British Foreign Secretary Bevin is bringing his foremost Asiatic expert with him to Washington next month.

Although Bevin's American visit primarily is concerned with Britain's economic plight, Secretary of State Acheson has said Communist encroachments in the Far East probably also would come under discussion.

The experts who will accompany Bevin is M. E. Denning, superintending undersecretary for the foreign office's Far Eastern department.

Conversations through diplomatic channels between Washington and London have been underway informally since it became apparent the Chinese Communists were in control of the situation in that country.

Acheson declared, as a result of these exchanges that the United States would back up Britain should the Communists attack the British colony of Hong Kong.

This is in line with the "white paper" policy announcement writing off Nationalist China temporarily, but warning that the United States would not countenance Communist incursions on any of China's neighbors.

Chemist Reports Poisoning Found In Woman's Stomach

QUITMAN, Aug. 13. (AP)—A state chemist testified in the Jewell Rogers murder trial today that more than three grains of strychnine were found in the stomach of Mrs. Viola Gilbreath.

The state charged Mrs. Rogers, mother of three, forced Mrs. Gilbreath to take poison at gunpoint last Jan. 8. Mrs. Gilbreath died in a Mineola hospital several hours later. The women had fought on a Mineola street.

Derwald Nollner, chemist of the state department of public safety at Austin, told of recovering the strychnine. He was the only witness during the morning.

Proceedings were interrupted an hour and a half while Nollner aided state highway patrolmen in investigating a traffic fatality near Mineola.

James Ernest Schachlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lige Schachlett of Lindale, was found dead on the highway early today, apparently the victim of a hit and run driver.

The Rogers trial got under way Monday. The defense is expected to call its witness early next week.

The couple flew to Europe after the ceremony in New York to join representatives of U. S. organizations making a world tour sponsored by the radio program "America's Town Meeting of the Air" (ABC).

White said his wife is not negro. They are collecting material for a book on "The Color Line Around the World" which the couple will write as co-authors, White said.

Orange Volunteers Search For Bodies After Fire; None Found

ORANGE, Aug. 13 (AP)—Volunteer firemen dug away debris today from yesterday's big downtown fire without finding any bodies.

It was feared for a while that some persons might have been caught in crashing walls blown out in an explosion that followed the fire.

Three two-story buildings were destroyed.

One man suffered a heart attack and died during the excitement. Ten persons were injured. L. A. Hammond, manager of the Texas employment commission office, was the most seriously hurt.

The explosion occurred in his office.

Dispute Over Disposal Of Farm Surplus Threatens Senate Bill

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.— The Senate's compromise farm price-support bill was threatened today with another sharp dispute. This one is over how the government should get rid of some $2 billion worth of farm products it holds.

The bill is pending in committee.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla) said he is not satisfied with the bill's feature concerning disposal measures for the cotton, wheat, tobacco, eggs, potatoes and other products the U. S. has taken over.

Closed Session Scheduled

"We've got more than $2 billion worth of farm commodities piled up now. Either we find some way to get rid of that and other products acquired under price supports or the whole program will collapse," Thomas said.

Thomas is to call a closed session of his committee next week to act upon the bill developed by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture.

Anderson has been urging agreement on the new bill. He claims unanimous backing of six other members of the subcommittee.

New Office Included

For many years the Agriculture department has been supporting farm prices by loans and purchases. Under the loan system, a farmer can reclaim his commodity if market prices are high enough to give him a profit after repaying the government loan and storage charges. Otherwise the government takes over the cotton, wheat or other commodity.

At the request of Thomas, the Anderson group authorized a new "assistant secretary of agriculture in charge of sales operations," as part of the compromise bill.

He would be sort of a merchandising or sales manager for the department.

Thomas said too many restrictions are placed in the way of these operations. For instance government stocks are not to be dumped on markets or sold if they would depress price levels, nor sold at less than existing price supports.

Thomas said he wants Congress to direct the department to take over food and crops in surplus areas and distribute them where they are needed, both in this country and abroad.

"We might better take a little loss on some things at times than hold them and lose most of the value later," he said. "Right now farmers in Oklahoma are getting 30 to 36 cents a dozen for eggs while here in Washington we pay 80 cents for the best grades. Meanwhile the government buys eggs and dries them and stores them in a cave."

Lower Support Opposed

Thomas said he also opposes the lower support levels for wheat, cotton and some other major crops contained in the compromise bill. Anderson said the bill allows sales of government stocks below support levels under certain conditions, such as converting peanuts, soy beans, cottonseed and other oil seeds into oil. It also would allow sales of wool and mohair at less than support levels.

Unless the Senate and House can agree upon some farm compromise, a flexible price-support program with permissible lower levels than the Senate compromise will go into operation July 1. It was passed by Congress last year with its effective date suspended until next year.

The House has voted to kill that and continue for another year the wartime level of relatively high rigid price supports in 1950.

Man Finds Home Of Metal Electrified

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 13 (AP)—E. R. Hyatt stuck the key in the door of his new metal house and wham—he was jolted off the stoop. He picked himself up and tried a window. He went down again in a shower of sparks.

He peered into the kitchen and steam was pouring from a cold water faucet.

"Stand back!" he warned his wife and children. "This calls for an expert."

The local housing authority repair man disconnected the power line and inspected the place. He found a bare wire rubbing against the frame of the metal house—which should have blown a fuse, he said, but didn't because a clip holding the ground wire had worked loose.

Jesse Jones Interests Sell Houston Site For $140,000

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Jesse Jones interests today announced the sale of a piece of downtown Main street property for $13,332 a front foot.

The financier and former cabinet member said he did not recall any previous sale by a Jones-sponsored organization of downtown real estate on the city's leading thoroughfare.

Houston Endowment, Inc., a philanthropic organization sponsored by Jones, sold the property, 10.5 feet wide and 101 feet deep, for $140,000.

The purchaser was Enrique Gutierrez Mendez, a Monterrey, Mex., merchant, who reportedly bought the building at 622 Main merely as an investment.

The sale immediately touched off rumors in business circles that Jones might be planning to dispose of more of his extensive downtown holdings in favor of expanding his interests toward the south section of Houston.

Communist Plot For Assassinating Tito Reported From Italy

TRIESTE, Free Territory, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Italian news agency Astra reports Yugoslav police last month foiled a plot of pro-Cominform Communists to assassinate Premier Marshal Tito.

Quoting travelers to Trieste, Astra said the plot to kill the Yugoslav premier with a Russian-type mine was carefully planned by anti-Tito members of a "proletariat" sporting club at Pola, Yugoslavia, on the Adriatic.

The travelers were quoted as having said traitors in the group betrayed the plot and Tito's police arrested 30 suspects, including several soldiers.

Astra said the mine was placed at the entrance of a Pola shipbuilding yard which Tito was to visit on July 29.

Pola, which lies some 60 miles south of Trieste, is a seaport on the southern tip of the Istrian peninsula. It was awarded to Yugoslavia under the Italian peace treaty.

THEY BLOW FOR HOUSES

BAD KISSINGEN, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP)—The district president of Kissingen urgently needed money to build houses for refugees. State funds were exhausted, so he got the 30 mayors of his district together and formed a band, consisting mostly of trombones and trumpets. This mayor's band plays in all towns to collect funds. They have already blown enough for one house.

Fairbanks Farmer In Hospital With More Than 50 Bee Stings

HOUSTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Note to nurses: Don't call W. L. Bane, "honey."

Bane, Fairbanks dairy farmer and former school tax collector, is in Methodist hospital with more than 50 bee stings in his face and head.

He tangled with the bee's nest while he was cutting weeds with a tractor on his farm. When they swarmed over him, he leaped off the tractor and rolled in the grass in an attempt to drive the bees away. They left—when they got doggone good and ready.

The orchid is one of the largest flower families.

LANDING DIVERTED BY INSTRUCTIONS

Crew Of Jet Bomber Grateful For Aid During Thunderstorm

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The pilot and crew of a B-45 jet bomber could thank a trash can and three enlisted men at Tinker Air Force base today for a long-distance rescue.

The trash can was not a heroic figure. It needed painting. So T-Sgt. Gerald Peltier, Pfc. Vito Spinelli and Pvt. Bill M. Arnold of the 1921st Airways and Air Communications Service group decided to stay after regular duty hours and paint it.

Being members of the VHG-DF (very high frequency direction finding) unit of AACS, they left the office radio turned on.

Plane In Storm

The painting was interrupted by voices on the radio. A four-jet B-45 flying at about 29,000 feet over central Kansas was trying to get landing instructions from Forbes Air Force base at Topeka. The pilot said he was in a thunderstorm and his instruments had gone bad.

As Capt. Hubert Hartley, commanding officer of the Tinker AACS group, tells the story, the pilot couldn't make himself heard at Forbes because of the storm.

"But the boys at Tinker could hear him very well," Hartley said. "So Private Arnold got in touch with the pilot and gave him 'steers,' or directions, towards the field here. The plane was traveling at more than 400 miles an hour and was running out of gas."

Landed Safely

The plane finally landed safely at Tinker, and its passengers had "plenty of thank-you's" for the men who had helped them.

"There was only about a thimbleful of gasoline left," Hartley said.

Aboard the B-45 were the pilot, Maj. G. M. Townsend, Capt. C. N. Clemence, Lt. Col. F. B. Carlson and crew chief M-Sgt. F. L. Corb, all stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force base, Dayton, O.

Arnold will receive a special commendation at ceremonies next Friday. The trash can has been rewarded with a fine coat of paint.

Man Loses Part Of Basement During Rescue Of Pups

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP) — James Liguori lost part of his James Liguori lost part of his his two puppies was alive, thanks to 12 hours of hard work by police, firemen, the animal welfare league and the city's sewer department.

Liguori went down to the basement last night when his mongrel dog, Queenie, began barking. He found her trying frantically to get into a sewer hole.

Peering down, Liguori could see nothing. But he heard Queenie's two puppies whining. They had fallen 12 feet into the sewer.

Liguori called for help. The city responded. As a dozen rescue workers dug one hole in the basement and another outside, hundreds of persons attending a nearby carnival gathered to watch.

The men worked all night. They blasted the concrete and dug down seven feet. Then they carved a tunnel to the sewer, pushed a long stick through, and shoved the puppies to the surface.

One was dead. The other was taken to the welfare league for observation.

Liguori said today: "The basement is a mess. I don't know what I'm going to do about it."

Meanwhile Queenie refused to leave the sewer hole. She is standing guard, apparently not realizing that the pups have been removed.

Girl Born To Woman Aboard Train Bound For New York

VAN HORN, Texas, Aug. 12 (AP) —The stork beat the eagle today with the greatest of ease.

A 5½-pound daughter was born to Mrs. Calvin Manry aboard the Texas & Pacific's streamlined "Eagle" passenger train between El Paso and Van Horn.

Mrs. Manry and her husband were hurrying home to Hornell, N. Y. Manry was discharged from the Army at Fort Bliss Thursday.

Seven passengers came to Mrs. Manry's aid when it became evident the stork was gaining. She was moved into the women's lounge. The dining car steward opened the dining car and served coffee to the attendants.

Mrs. Manry was removed to a hospital here. She and the baby were described as "doing fair."

WORKERS STRIKE GOLD

SYDNEY, Aug. 13 (AP) — Municipal Council workers digging holes for tree planting recently struck glittering gold at 2 feet quite close to the main street of Kalgoorlie, West Australian gold mining center. However, they did not dig up the roads to follow the lead; the local authorities would have taken a poor view of that. Such discoveries in the town's center are not uncommon.

New War Unlikely, UN Head Believes

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie said tonight that the danger of another war is over and the worst political crisis has passed.

The world still may undergo many stormy political divergencies, he told an audience in an open air theater here, "but personally I do not believe in the possibility of war, not even a war started by accident."

Lie said UN influence made possible the solution of the Berlin crisis.

"The highest circles among the great powers saw how dangerous it could be to play with fire," he said.

In a third world war, he said, there would be neither victor nor loser. He said he believed every responsible statesman in every country would do his best to avert such a catastrophe.

Galveston Negro Shot After Taking Cab To Funeral Home

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13. (U.P.)—Willis Sandford, 65-year-old Galveston negro, walked up to a cab driver today and said, "take me to a funeral home. I am going to kill myself."

Minutes later, the negro lay on the lawn of an undertaking parlor, a 38-calibre bullet hole through the mouth and a suicide note pinned to his shirt.

The cabbie, Joe Brawner, told police he followed Sanford's orders and saw him shoot himself on the lawn after alighting from the taxi.

May Enter U.S. As Non-Quota Immigrant Wife Of American

German Widow Married To Texas Farmer By Telephone Is Starting Lonely "Honeymoon"

BERLIN, Aug. 13. (U.P.) — Mrs. Otto Arndt, 46, telephone bride of a Texas farmer, began a lonely "honeymoon" today.

Her husband of a day is still on his farm near Brenham, Tex., but Mrs. Arndt's maid reported the bride seemed "very happy."

The maid told callers at the house that Mrs. Arndt would be on her honeymoon all afternoon.

The former Frau Margaret Zwirner became the wife of Otto Arndt, 61, in a marriage ceremony performed over the long-distance telephone with Pastor Theodore Strength, in Brenham, officiating.

Mrs. Arndt barely remembers her new husband. They met several years before the war when he came to Germany as a tourist. His first wife had been a girlhood friend, and they carried on a desultory correspondence until the outbreak of World War II.

After the war, Frau Zwirner, by then a widow, wrote to Arndt and learned he had become a widower. Romance blossomed and he asked her to come to Texas to be his wife.

Frau Zwirner accepted, but was told by the U. S. consul she would have a long wait for a visa. As a native of East Prussia, now part of Poland, she came under the Polish quota and might have to wait up to three years.

Arndt arranged for the telephone marriage in the hope that she could enter the United States as a non-quota immigrant wife of an American. The consul told her, however, that telephone marriages were not recognized in the United States.

"But this is Texas," she protested.

"Oh, Texas," the consul said. "That may be different."

Operators Congratulate Bride

Legal or not, the ceremony was performed. Mrs. Arndt is waiting for her husband to send the marriage certificate. She will present it to the consul and see what happens.

Mrs. Arndt, in German tradition, wore a sprig of mistletoe in her hair during the marriage call.

After it was over, Arndt told his bride:

"My sweet, beloved woman, I love you forever."

"I love you forever also, Otto," replied his bride, "and I hope I can come to you soon."

Arndt rang off. But before his bride hung up, she received the best wishes of long-distance telephone operators in a dozen cities between Berlin and Brenham.

Thief Takes Neat Package From Car; Contains Surprise

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The thief who stole a neatly wrapped package from the automobile of John M. Pereschuk here last night undoubtedly received an unpleasant surprise when he examined his loot.

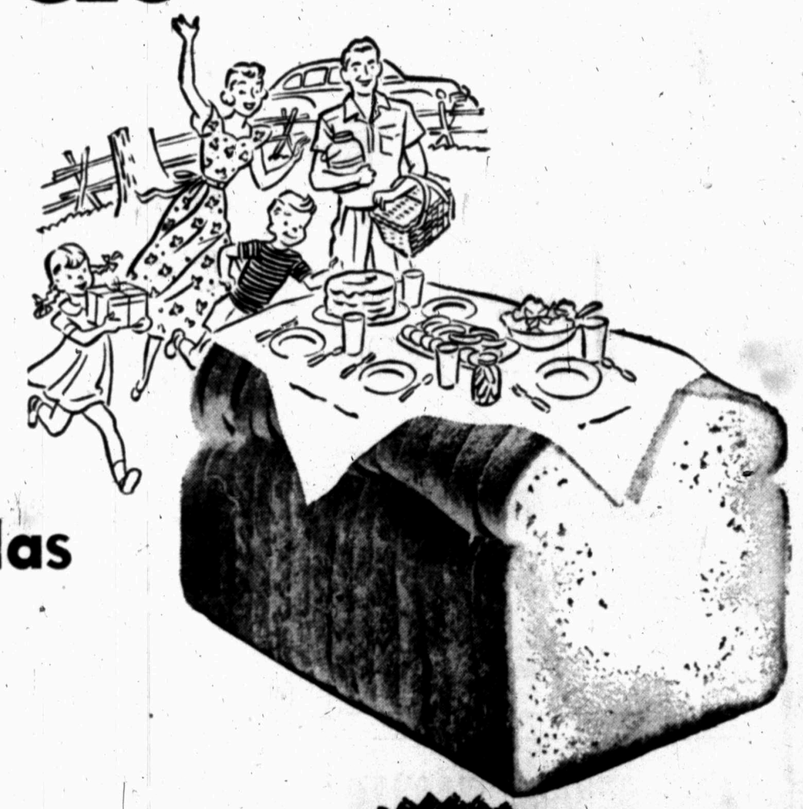

Pereschuk, an amateur snake collector, told police the box contained two poisonous copperhead snakes.

CZECHS CARRY NAZI CARDS

PRAGUE, Aug. 13 (AP) — Although living under the hammer and sickle of a Communist government since February 1948, Czechs are still carrying official indentification cards which bear the stamp of the Nazi swastika. But they now have an official promise that by the end of 1950 the last of these will have been junked and replaced. After that date all identification papers with the German-Czech text and the swastika insignia will be invalid.

OPAL DIXON

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the "honor system?" Does it work satisfactorily?

(That question was answered by students in the civil engineering department at Texas Technological college, which has adopted the "honor system" in almost all examinations given in the department. The instructor leaves the students during the test, returning at end of the hour to collect papers or sending someone for them. The system also is used in some other departments).

THE ANSWERS

F. B. STEADMON, 2205 Fourteenth, senior from Big Spring: "I really feel proud of it myself because if they can't trust a student to take a nexamination I don't think they would even want him in school. After all, they are not a bunch of kids going to school out here. A lot of them are married men. I'm sure it does work satisfactorily. It'd hurt my conscience worse to cheat if they trusted me than if they were standing there watching."

BOB MILLICAN, 2515 Twenty-fourth, senior from Acuff: "I think it is the best system there is of keeping down cheating. If anyone is going to cheat, they'll cheat whether anyone is watching or not. It leaves the responsibility on the student rather than on the instructor and I believe a student will come nearer trying to show he is honest. Yes, it does work satisfactorily out here. I've seen less cheating going on under the 'honor system' than I ever did when the teacher was there."

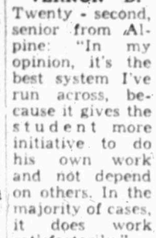

AUSTIN MONTGOMERY, Men's Dormitory No. 3, junior from Darrouzett: "I think it works nicely if it's managed properly—if the people giving the quiz are really sincere in trusting the students. The civil engineering department here uses that system and they have lots of luck with it."

BILL POLLOCK, 2313 Thirteenth, junior from Cleburne: "I think it's a very god idea. Some of our quizzes are open book quizzes. That's what college is for—to learn where you can find information instead of memorizing it. Under that kind of quiz, you are tested on how you can lay your hands on what you need. The 'honor system' works by keeping you from giving or receiving help in finding the information. You sign a note at the end of the paper stating that you have not given or received help on this quiz. I think it is very good. It makes you more responsible on your own."

WILLIAM H. PERRY, Dormitory No. 3, junior from San Angelo: "I think the honor system is a good idea, because after an engineer gets out in the field—and it would apply in any job, for that matter—a lot of his work is going to depend upon his word of honor and that's about what they require here in the way of the 'honor system.' Too, an employer always can check back on the college records to see what kind of a man he's hiring, from the standpoint of honesty as well as knowledge. It does work here. I don't think many students want to cheat in the first place, but this restrains them from a sudden impulse to glance at the other fellow's paper."

VERNON D. McCALL, 1924 Twenty-second, senior from Alpine: "In my opinion, it's the best system I've run across, because it gives the student more initiative to do his own work and not depend on others. In the majority of cases, it does work satisfactorily."

German Woman Has Two Husbands After "Dead" Soldier Contacted

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP)—Two German officers met in a Russian prison camp. They soon discovered that they lived in the same German town, in the same street, at the same number—and had the same wife.

This was how it came about, according to the Hamburg newspaper "Abenblatt." A German major, returning to the front from home leave in 1942, told his wife to marry again if he were killed. Soon she was officially told of his death in action.

Eighteen months later she married another officer. In due course he was captured. But husband number one had not been killed. He was picked up on the battlefield by the Russians.

Finally through the painfully slow communications from Russian prison camps the wife learned of her difficult position. She asked the two men to wait until they are back from Russia. Then, she says, she will decide which one to keep as her husband.

Growing Rift Between Workers And Their Employers Assailed

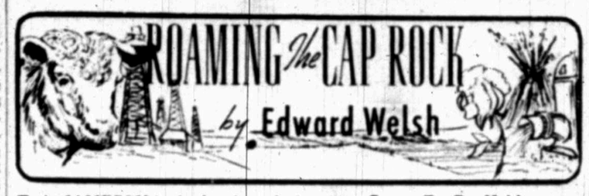

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 13 (AP)—Most British industrial workers "have already gone pagan," a Sheffield steel manufacturer complained to a Methodist church conference.

"Men and women are blindly turning into by-ways and cul de sacs (blind alleys)," said the speaker, J. A. Stead, "in a feeble endeavor to find freedom and liberty."

Laborers are wandering away from the church, he said, while "masters" and the "black-coated" worker has become its main strength. The reason for this?

"Today we no longer meet together on such close and intimate terms. We now live apart. The employer lives—or hopes to live—in the West End. The industrial worker lives in the East End . . .," Stead said.

Stead said it was the employers' responsibility to bring the workers back into the fold.

J. A. JAMESON is the hard working president of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce. But perhaps I had better identify him as "Ox" Jameson. Everybody knows him by that handle. "Ox" is as big as his nickname but the would be equally applicable to his capacity for work, the size of his heart and his interest in Seminole. "Ox" made me an honorary member of the Chamber of Commerce during my visit last week.

Of course no Chamber of Commerce runs without an efficient manager. Seminole has H. C. Kyle for that job and he more than fills the post. Small and wiry, Kyle is in the thick of everything going on in his home town.

He Purchased History

When 22-year-old Keith Chambliss purchased the Gaines hotel at Seminole he didn't realize that he was not only purchasing a business enterprise but a sizable chunk of West Texas history. Keith is away at college in Arkansas right now but his dad, T. N. Chambless is running the hostelry. Two cattle association officers were killed in the hotel by an irate rancher back in 1923. It was the last of the cattle wars.

A. L. Duff, former county attorney of Gaines county, says that rumors to the effect that Tom Ross is still alive are so much bunk. Ross was the man who shot the two officers in the Gaines hotel. He was reported killed in Montana in 1929 and his body was returned to Lovington for burial. Duff was at the funeral.

Also attending will be Miss Vara Crippen, Dawson county home demonstration agent; and, James G. Simmons, Lamb county assistant agricultural agent.

Alvin G. The seed was imported from Australia and has roots that go deeper than average grasses. Ainsworth believes it will prove successful on the South Plains. New Polio Certificate Required Of Texas Tourists To Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13 (AP)—The federal health department ordered today that all Texas tourists to Mexico have a certificate saying they have not been exposed to polio.

Texas supplies about half the Mexican tourist trade. The season is at its height. Tourists now fill every room in Mexico City hotels and net this country about $5 million a month.

The tourist office of the interior department said the new order applies only to tourists living in Texas. The office said traffic was normal, despite the order.

The order requires tourists to have a doctor's certificate saying they have not been exposed to polio for three years. The foreign office sent the order to Mexican consulates in the United States.

The order said that the certificate should be exhibited when the passenger boards his plane in Texas for the flight to Mexico, or when his train crossed the border.

Entomologist Reveals Three Methods Of Foiling Chiggers

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 13 (U.P.) — Chiggers are likely to be as enthusiastic about picnics as invited guests, even though something less than welcome.

Prof. O. S. Bare, University of Nebraska entomologist, offers three ways of ridding the party of the pest.

The old-fashioned remedy of dusting with sulphur at the rate of one pound per three square rods is one of the best, he said.

For those who feel there is little to choose from between the odor of sulphur and chiggers, Bare suggests a five per cent chlordane dust, one pound to four square rods. A 10 per cent toxaphene dust also is good, he said, half a pound to four square rods.

All treatments usually are effective for two or three weeks, he said.

Couple Decides Air Travel Dangerous

EASTON, Md., Aug. 13 (AP)—You can hardly blame Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dunham if they've decided to keep their heads out of the clouds for a while.

On a little flight from Baltimore to Richmond yesterday they ran into some trouble and Dunham crash landed their light plane near Smithfield, Va. The couple suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Word of the accident was sent to their hometown, Easton, Md., and Bill Newman, manager of the airport there, flew down and picked them up.

On the way home lightning struck the rescue plane, tearing a hole in its wing. Newman and the Dunhams reported to state police. They had some uneasy moments before Newman brought the ship down on a farm near Cambridge, Md., about 15 miles from Easton. Nobody was hurt.

They added that they made the rest of the trip without mishap —by automobile.

Deep Hoosier Accent Saves Man From Drunk Driving Sentence

DETROIT, Aug. 13 (U.P.) — Ozro Thaddeus Bottom, 48, escaped a drunken driving sentence because of a southern Indiana accent.

Mrs. Veda Beattie said he spoke incoherently after a traffic accident involving their cars. But Bottom explained that it was just his deep Hoosier accent.

Judge John D. Watts changed the charge to reckless driving and fined Bottom $50.

Obstetrical Operations Scored By Prominent British Physician

LONDON, Aug. 13 (AP)—One of Britain's top authorities on childbirth warns that unnecessary obstetrical operations cause the death of "many mothers and many more babies every year."

Sir William Gilliatt, president of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists who attended Princess Elizabeth in her confinement, said, "It is not unfair to say that every year many mothers and many more babies pay with their lives for unnecessary interference."

Social Agency Out To Make Life Happier For Old Folks

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13 (U.P.) — While other cities have their day nurseries, playgrounds and 'teen age clubs, a Pittsburgh social agency has acted to make life happier for the oldsters.

The Council of Jewish women opened a recreational center for persons of all races and religious who are 60 or over. Facilities are provided for playing cards, checkers and other games, whittling, craftwork, sewing and just plain sitting.

"The idea is to make them feel they belong," Mrs. Milton K. Susman, co-chairman of the project, explained.

Many of the oldsters are widows and widowers who live in one-room apartments. Some live with children and feel themselves "under foot." Others are handicapped by chronic ailments.

According to the sponsors, the idea is to give the aged something to do beside dream of the past brood about the present or dread the future.

Real Estate Firm Arranges House Exchange For Couples

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Graham, who operate a photo studio here, had just too much space at their residence—eight rooms on two lots with a number of fruit trees. William H. Brown, Florida State theater employe, and Mrs. Brown—on the other hand—thought their new 3-bedroom bungalow much too small.

INTRODUCING LUBBOCK'S MINISTERS — Rev. Karl W. Keller, pastor of Redeemer Ev. Lutheran church, Missouri synod, came to Lubbock in August, 1944, from Clovis, N. M., where he had served as pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church. Before assuming the pastorate at Clovis, he attended St. Paul's college, Concordia, Mo., and completed his theological work at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis. When Rev. Keller assumed the Lubbock pastorate, the church was located at Nineteenth and Ave. R. In 1946, the church purchased property fronting on Ave. W, extending from Twenty-second to Twenty-third streets. The church structure was moved to that location in 1947. The congregation authorized construction last spring of a new church structure at the corner of Twenty-second and Ave. W, which ultimately will cost approximately $60,000. Completion is expected in October. The old church will then be remodeled into a parish hall and educational building. A parsonage was built in 1948. At the time Rev. Keller came to Lubbock as pastor of the local church, there were 162 members. The congregation now numbers approximately 300 members, who come in to services from eight different towns in six surrounding counties. Rev. and Mrs. Keller and two children, Kathleen, 4, and Karl Thomas, 11 months, reside at 2220 Twenty-third. (Staff Photo.)

200-Pound Sturgeon Hooked In Strange Waters By Fishermen

LEWISTON, Ida., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—An eight-foot, 200-pound sturgeon got off on the wrong track and now is being converted into caviar and steak.

Sturgeon usually are found only in the Snake and Volga rivers. The huge fish was spotted by Vern Olmstead, Lewiston sportsman, while fishing from a bridge on the Clearwater River. Olmstead and his son, Gerald, set out a line. The next morning they looked over the hook and found a very tired sturgeon which they landed with little trouble.

It is believed to be the first sturgeon ever caught in the Clearwater River.

Man Found Asleep In Cemetery Given New Berth In City Jail

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Oscar Perry, 52, got 15 days in jail for spending a few nights in a cemetery. He rested better in the cemetery.

After police caught Perry snoring away between two vaults, he explained to Municipal Judge Harold Moore that it was purely a question of expediency.

He said he had a room, but he also had two jobs. During the day he mowed lawns and at night he cleaned a barroom.

"It was hot in the little room and I was always going back and forth to work," he said. "The graveyard is close to my jobs and I could lie out there and think it over.

"I always slept between the vaults. Never right at the foot of one. I got nothing against the people resting there and they don't seem to have nothing against me resting with them. A graveyard is a nice, cool place."

Cock Fighting Is Finally Legalized In Manila Area

MANILA, Aug. 13 (U.P.) — Cock fighting finally has become legal in Manila.

For as long as any living person can remember, cock fighting has been the national sport in the Philippines. It draws bigger crowds than any other sport.

But until a new city charter was enacted, cock fights long had been taboo within the Manila city limits. Thousands of Manilians had been forced to go to the cock pits in nearby municipalities on Sundays.

President Elpidio Quirino has cautioned Manila city authorities to use restraint in issuing licenses for cock pits on the grounds that it would be "unwise."

Tennessee Telephone Lines Damaged By Busy Squirrels

MUAFREESBORO, Tenn, Aug. 13. (U.P.)—Plant Supervisor Forrest Guffee of the local telephone office wishes squirrels wouldn't sharpen their teeth on his telephone lines.

Guffee estimates that half of the complaints from telephone subscribers living along Murfreesboro's tree-lined strees would be eliminated if "I could just get rid of those squirrels."

He said the rodents work out their teeth on the lines, leaving deep groves down to the core an permitting rain water to rot an rust sections of the lines.

25 YEARS... on the job

This month marks the 25th anniversary of the day we first went to work for the folks in the Panhandle-Plains-Pecos Valley area. We say "went to work" because that's exactly what we did.

Our job for the past quarter-century has been to keep pace with the great strides these folks—our customers—have made . . . agriculturally, industrially, commercially.

We've really enjoyed our work, and we're looking forward to many more pleasant years "on the job" for the area we serve.

Our 25th Anniversary

In the years to come . . . as in the past . . . it is our constant aim to keep pace with the ever-increasing power needs of the vast area we serve . . . to provide low-cost, dependable electric service for better living—electrically—for everyone.

Legion To Tax Housing Space

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13 (AP)—The 3,000,000-member American Legion heads into its 31st national convention with "rooms-for-visitors" the biggest problem.

But city officials and Legion leaders expect to take care of everybody. And they'll do it if it means stretching a room or two.

The Legion conclave opens Aug. 29 and runs four days. During that time an estimated 200,000 visitors—men, women and children—will test the hospitality of the City of Brotherly Love.

Actually most people will travel by auto, train or bus to Philadelphia for the day only. They'll spend the nights at home.

Every Bed Assigned

Every available bed in the city's 65 hotels will be assigned. Some ballrooms and auditoriums will be turned into makeshift dormitories.

Vacant apartments, empty homes, fraternity and sorority buildings on college campuses, spare rooms in all sections of town—all will be utilized.

"There's nothing nearly as big," says Charles L. Todd, executive director of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce's convention and visitors bureau.

Hotel Rooms Taken

"If every Legion member decided to attend this convention we'd have to evacuate every Philadelphian."

Some 8,000 hotel rooms have been allocated for Legion use in the Quaker city. This will accomodate about 22,000 persons. Another 2,000 rooms have been obtained in surrounding communities.

"We probably could use several-thousand more," Todd adds.

Legion housing officials maintain official silence. They feel that too much publicity about room shortages will hurt convention attendance. But those who talk off the record, say the housing situation is well in hand.

Contests Are Slated

Just housing the officials, delegates and parade participants is a mammoth undertaking.

There will be 3,339 delegates representing 17,300 Legion posts—plus an equal number of alternates.

Nearly 6,500 youths, from all of the 48 states, will participate in the drum and bugle corps, fife and drum and drill contests.

Then there's the monster parade on Tuesday, Aug. 30. Legion officials expect it to last 12 hours with some 60,000 persons in the line of march. About 1,000,000 people are expected to see the Legion in action.

The convention, first national Legion conclave here since 1926, will mean about $6,000,000 for Philadelphia businessmen.

"And that," says Todd, "is only a conservative estimate."

TO INCREASE COSTS

A recent wage raise in New Zealand will increase dairy production costs above export sales prices charged to Great Britain and an upward price revision is to be asked by New Zealand.

Talks Of War And Bombers Provide Uneasy Background For Life In America, Russia

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—It's a little bit like living in a dream.

Dressed for summer, men and women stroll the streets of Washington and Moscow, talking, looking in the shop windows.

They'd like a little more money, maybe, and some more comforts and they'd like to live a long time.

Particularly, they'd like to live a long time. But somehow they've been caught up in something, an age-old something:

The conflict between people, ideas, desires, politics, economics, power.

Officials Lay Plans

And while they walk the streets, laughing in the sun, their officials are in buildings in Washington and Moscow, talking.

The officials, in uniforms or civilian clothes, are planning and they're talking of death, death that seems remote now, in the future, but still death.

What the officials in the Moscow buildings are saying the people on the streets there don't know. They're not told.

But jet fighters shoot overhead. And you can be sure the things the Moscow officials talk about are not much different from the things the Washington officials talk about.

And here Air force officials tell a committee of Congress about the B-36. . .

Power Of Bomb Stressed

It can travel 8,000 miles, it can fly at 40,000 feet. In an overcast at 40,000 feet jet fighters can't stop it, and it can carry atom bombs.

The beauty of the atom bomb, the Air force men say, although they don't refer to it as beauty, is this:

When planes drop ordinary bombs on a city, they have to go back every few weeks to drop some more to prevent rebuilding. But when they drop an atom bomb they don't have to return for a long, long time.

And there's the little business of arms. Why, yes, a general tells Congress, it's important to equip the French Army in case of attack. Of the utmost importance, the general says.

And the Russians are probably talking about what an atom bomb could do to Washington, or Paris, and they're probably talking about a plane like the B-36 that could carry the bomb overseas.

Only a short time ago they let loose a dazzling pack of jet planes over Moscow. . .

But the sun is shining. Death seems far away. And the men and women, dressed for summer, stroll the streets. Life is a like a tiger in their blood. They hope it never is subdued.

Al Shean, Famous Vaudeville Comedian, Dies At Age Of 81

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP) — Al Shean, 81, famed comedian of the "Gallagher and Shean" act of the 1920's and veteran trouper of the vaudeville stage, died yesterday.

A top star of his era, Shean and his partner, Edward Gallagher, invented novelty verses that swept the country.

"Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher; Positively, Mr. Shean!"

Shean, born in Dornum, Germany, kept on with his vaudeville career after the death of Gallagher in 1929.

He won new acclaim as a dramatic actor in the role of a Catholic priest in the Broadway hit drama "Father Malachy's Miracle" in 1937.

Shean, a German Jew, once told interviewers that many priests had told him of his performance, "You're a better priest than I am."

Between 1929 and 1933, the number of restaurants and eating places in the United States increased from 134,293 to 170,434.

Irish Orphan Boy, Five, Too Sleepy To Greet New Parents

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13 (AP)—A five-year-old Irish orphan boy who was too sleepy to even see his new parents has a new home today.

Blond Michael Richard arrived by TWA plane last night after a 7,000 mile journey in care of an Eire consular official and a stewardess.

Excitement of the journey had worn off and he was sound asleep. He was carried off the plane and snuggled into the arms of Richard L. Johnson, plastering contractor, who with his wife, Kathleen, plan to adopt him. They will live in a new home in the Flintridge section here, where "Mike" will have a swimming pool and a new brother, Timothy, seven.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—Mixup between "Mrs. Mike" and Paramount. Dick Powell sings "Rose of Tralee" in the picture and Paramount just acquired right to the song and announced a film, "Rose of Tralee," for Bing Crosby. Somebody got on the wrong Tralee.

Studio censor at UI had qiute a start the other day when he viewed the day's rushes for "East of Java."

The scene that gave him the start was between Shelley Winters and Frank Lovejoy, playing a ship's doctor. Lovejoy was listening to Shelley's heartbeat with a stethoscope. The scene played well and seemed innocent enough but when viewed by the camera's critical eye, the stethoscope gave a great deal of emphasis to the low cut of Shelley's dress.

Director Bruce Humberstone and the censor agreed the scene had to be cut. But how else could Lovejoy convincingly listen to Shelley's heartbeat? The studio doctor solved the problem:

"It's very simple," he said, turning Shelley around. "Just put the instrument beneath her left shoulderblade." That's the way you'll see it on the screen.

"Dorothy Jaffe, known to millions as 'Miss Lonely Heart,' will offer Hollywood's female population a rapid fire six-hour course to those in search of the elusive male. The course will deal in the fundamental habits of the male's courtship maneuvers.

Berlin Radio Station Warning Germans Of Pro-Red Snoopers

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP) — The American military government radio station in Berlin is now telling 20,000,000 Eastern Germans to beware of pro-Soviet snoopers.

The station, RIAS, claims that Germans working for the Soviet secret police had kidnapped many anti-Communists in western Berlin and denounced others in Russian-occupied territory.

RIAS recently began broadcasting twice weekly the names, addresses and occupations of alleged Soviet-German agents.

The radio said it obtained most of these names from people who fled the Russian zone for political reasons, but double-checked the information before putting it on the air.

One radio official said many letters from the Russian zone had thanked RIAS for its warnings. He said in several cases these warnings had prevented anti-Communists from being duped by the alleged agents.

RIAS is the only American radio station behind the Iron Curtain. The British also have a licensed station in Berlin.

The Babylonians developed banks as early as 2,000 B. C.

KNOWS HER RBI'S NOW—Six months ago, Junior Standish, willowy blonde showgirl with strictly major-league curves, couldn't tell a home run from a foul bunt. But now she can bend your ear with authoritative discussions of inside baseball, comparative batting averages and RBI's. She's especially good on the last item, because, you see, she has made it known that she and Joltin' Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee slugger, are "going steady." She's shown doing "homework" on batting records in her New York apartment.

Congressional Law Causes U. S. Ambassador To Use Old Auto

MOSCOW, Aug. 13 (AP)—A Congressional law is causing the United States ambassador to the USSR to ride around in a pre-war automobile. His car, the official one for ambassadorial functions, is a pre-war model, sent here during the war for the use of Edwin Pauley, then chief of the U. S. Reparations Mission to the Soviet Union.

Last year a post-war car was imported, but Ambassador W. Bedell Smith took one look at it and remarked he would stick to the old one. The law says that not more than $3,000 can be spent for an ambassador's car.

There are reports that various automobile manufacturers in the United States have offered special cars as presents to the embassy, or special-built machines at the $3,000 price. But the Embassy has felt it would be wiser not to accept the offers.

Some of the smallest diplomatic missions in Moscow have cars, long, black and resplendent, and—they are American made.

Australian Doctors Amazed By Survival Of Premature Baby

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Mary Gabrielle McGrath weighed only 26½ ounces when she was born three months prematurely.

Ten weeks later, doctors disclosed the unique birth after the child had thrived and weighed nearly three pounds. They predicted she would develop normally.

The doctor attending the baby explained: "Unless the period of pregnancy is at least 26 weeks, a child's chances of survival are remote.

"Pregnancy in this case was 25 weeks and three days. I know of no other case in medical history of such a premature child, weighing so little, having lived so long.

"I expect the baby will live and grow into a perfectly normal child. She had a normal birth without any complications."

Hospital officials would not give details earlier because survival of a baby born in such circumstances is rare.

The professor of obstetrics at Sydney University, Dr. B. T. Mayes, said:

"I know of only two cases of babies born at 26 weeks who have survived. We never regard a baby as having a reasonable chance unless it has reached 26 weeks gestation.

"Very few survive even at that stage."

The mother of the child, Mrs. John McGrath, has three normal daughters whose ages range from 13 months to four years.

The matron of the hospital where the baby was born said the baby will stay in the premature babies' ward until she weighs five pounds.

The matron added:

"When the baby was born her nails were half formed and she had just a bit of brown hair.

"For three days after her birth she was fed by a dropper with a mixture of glucose, brandy and water. From the fourth day onwards for five weeks she was fed by tube on the small quantity of breast milk her mother was able to give.

"For the rest of the time she has been fed on a complement of cows' milk and water. She takes about a desertspoonful of the liquid, which is given to her by tube every three hours, night and day."

All Four Persons Still Good Friends

California Couples "Swap" Mates In Unusual Action

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13 (INS)—Six months ago the Mayfields and Botsfords, who live near Piru, northwest of Los Angeles, decided that they had the wrong husbands and wives.

Instead of fretting, they decided to do something about it. They arranged a swap.

Women Get Divorces

The two wives, Wilma Mayfield, 20, and Frances Botsford, 28, went to Las Vegas and divorced their husbands, Don Mayfield, 27, and John Botsford, 30.

That was a week ago. The following Monday the ex-Mrs. Mayfield was married to Botsford.

The swap will be completed with the marriage of Mrs. Botsford to Mayfield in Santa Monica on Sunday.

The couple started going on dates a year ago and concluded six months later that they had the wrong mates.

All Are Friends

All of those involved in the strange quadrangle are still friends.

Mayfield gave this version of the mate swap:

"Sure, we're happy. It was a mutual agreement all around. We met at a square dance last year and started going out together.

"We are still the best of friends, all of us. John and Wilma are back in Piru now and after I marry Frances Sunday we're going to move back there into a brand new house."

Mayfield is an oil refinery worker while Botsford is a maintenance man on a ranch.

HARVARD BOASTS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (U.P.)—Harvard never has lost more than four football games in a row in 75 years on the gridiron. Moreover, the Crimson has compiled winning streaks of 24 and 22 games.

Plans Boosted For Unemployment Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Government employment experts stepped up their drive today to whittle down the nation's jobless total of some 4 million persons.

The Bureau of Employment security disclosed that it had sent orders to state and local agencies to report by Monday on the work situation in their communities so that "home front" projects can be drafted with federal aid to relieve hardest hit areas.

The plans were divulged by Robert C. Goodwin, head of the employment security bureau, and his top aid, Louis Levine.

The agencies have been requested to survey their areas and report on any community in which seven per cent or more of the work force is idle.

The bureau, which gets regular reports from 97 areas, disclosed that nine of those already have shown 12 per cent unemployment or more. Presidential assistant John R. Steelman, who heads up the jobless aid drive already has notified government procurement agencies of the need for placing orders in those nine areas.

Czech Workers In Textile Factory Battle For Title

PRAGUE, Aug. 13 (AP) — The Communist rulers of this "People's Democracy" have a sizeable women's Stakhanovite movement going here. Participants are the eager beaver workers who complete in exceeding their work quotas. One woman, in a textile factory, was tending 36 automatic looms. She pledged herself to start work on another 12—or double the normal number.

Later she started to tend 60 looms, said the official Czech news agency. Only a few days later "Rude Pravo," Communist Party organ, announced that a woman in another factory had broken the record and was handling 66 looms.

The first woman then declared she would start work immediately on an additional 12 looms, making a total of 72 and putting her ahead.

New Probe-Type Thermometer Made To Detect Haymow Heat

LAPEER, Mich., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A new probe-type thermometer with sharp cutting blades on the point to detect excessive heat in the haymows has been developed by a Michigan farmer.

Carl C. Tinker constructed a thermometer with sharp cutting blades on the point to enable farmers to go deep into piles of stored hay without digging into them or scattering the hay.

By keeping close watch on haymow temperatures, he hopes to lessen the danger of spontaneous combustion.

Number Of U. S. Cows Declines But Supply Of Milk Increases

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—The number of cows in the United States has been declining at the rate of more than a million head a year since 1945, but the supply of milk is more plentiful than ever.

The bovine population now figures out to one milk cow for every six persons. In 1920, there was one for every five people and back in Grandpa's time in 1870, one for every four. These figures were compiled from various sources by the American Can Co.

The 24,450,000 U. S. cows now give practically as much milk as did 27,770,000 in 1945. The average cow's yield is now about two and a half tons of milk a year, an increase of 10 per cent over 1945. Farmers and dairymen have culled low producers out of their herds.

The average citizen now consumes about 388 pounds of fluid milk and cream each year, along with some 19 pounds of evaporated milk and about 10 pounds of butter.

Lethal Gas Chamber Instead Of The "Chair?"; Chiang Replies To U.S.

SOME THINK SO

Study Is Called For

REGARDLESS of how much individuals disagree as to the necessity and justifications for capital punishment, opinion assuredly is unanimous that as long as the law provides for the death penalty, its infliction should be in the most humane manner possible to devise.

This humanitarian feeling suggests that Texans should consider the substitution of the lethal gas chamber for the electric chair as a means of executing condemned criminals.

For a great many years, most states hanged such persons—some still do. Nearly all, including Texas, shifted to the electric chair as apparently being more humane. The trend now is toward the gas chamber, which several states have adopted for humanitarian considerations.

Many authorities believe electrocution is as swift and merciful as a method of execution as any now known. They contend that the first shock produces instant unconsciousness which frees the victim of any awareness of physical pain. Supporting this view has been the testimony of many persons who have survived accidental high-voltage electric shocks. Usually they recall no pain before being jolted into unconsciousness.

But there is no escaping the fact, and no denial of it, that victims of electrocutions sometimes are burned. Innumerable eye witnesses have testified to the further fact that the first shock usually causes the occupant of the chair to strain momentarily against the fastenings before his body subsides into the limpness of death.

These observations suggest the possibility that, in some cases at least, death by electrocution may be horribly agonizing for an instant.

No normal person would approve anything like that.

The consensus of authorities is that the gas chamber eliminates such a possibility. They say the condemned person simply breathes the deadly gas, which is almost odorless and causes no physical pain, and passes instantly into unconsciousness, followed swiftly by death.

The weight of the available evidence supports the supposition that the gas chamber is more humane than the electric chair and that considerations of mercy argue for its adoption as a method of execution in Texas.

The Fairest Method

CITIZENS of every nearby community, as well as those of Lubbock, should be interested to note that members of the Lubbock City commission are making no secret of the fact that they currently are considering several methods of providing increased revenue for the operation of municipal government here.

We say citizens of nearby communities should be interested along with Lubbock people, because what is done here might very well be done in other places.

These money-raising methods under consideration have been mentioned recently in speeches before local civic clubs by City Manager Steve Matthews. They include a higher tax rate, special charges for sewage, garbage collection and other similar municipal services — and an increase in water rates.

The chief argument for special charges and for a higher water rate has been that such a plan would place a charge directly upon the people for a service they received.

But one argument for an increased tax rate, if more revenue is necessary, seems to have been overlooked. This pertains to the fact that a great many persons residing elsewhere have investments in Lubbock.

The only way these people can be compelled to contribute their fair share toward the expenses of the city government is through direct taxation. The larger the sums obtained for the City from sources other than taxes, the less the absentee owners pay for the services and improvements which enhance the value of their property here.

If expenses of the City government could be financed entirely by methods other than taxes, the absentee owners would get an entirely free ride.

If additional revenues must be obtained, the tax rate increase seems to be the method which would be fairest to the people who live here and have done most to build our city.

It appears to be the plan which would ease their burden somewhat by requiring the absentee owners of property worth millions of dollars to carry a more equitable share of the load.

No Changes Seen In Excise Taxes For This Session

By SARAH McCLENDON
[illegible] Washington Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 — Apparently nothing will be done at this session of Congress on excise taxes, although just about the time President Truman made his recent announcement to this effect from the White House, congressmen on Capitol Hill were becoming more and more concerned about the large volume of mail asking for cuts in these taxes.

Actually, the mail is still coming in. And President Truman did not stop Secretary of Commerce Sawyer from making his swing round the country which is largely for the purpose of tapping public opinion on excise taxes as well as observing unemployment.

A large block of the citizens got nowhere at all in Congress with their efforts to reduce or change the present excise taxes. A total of 140 of the House members thought seriously enough about the matter to put in bills which are still before the House Ways and Means committee and at least 119 others signed the petition offered by Rep. Joe Martin, R., Mass., Republican minority leader, to discharge the House committee from further consideration of the matter so that the subject could be brought to the House floor. Before this can happen, 218 must sign.

Raised During War

Senator Ed Johnson, D., Colo., has been making great efforts to reduce the taxes. He even went so far as to put a rider on an appropriation bill in the Senate. Money bills are supposed to originate in the House. This is why there has been so much reason for opponents of changes in excise taxes to snipe at the Johnson amendment. However, it was voted approval by the Senate Finance committee by 7 to 6 with even Sen. J. Howard McGrath, chairman, of the Democratic national committee, voting for it along with Senator Johnson and the Republicans on the committee. But that was before President Truman said anything about ditching the whole idea for this session.

What are excise taxes? The word excise itself means cut out of. Some of the excise taxes, so claim the writers of letters to Congress, say that these taxes are cutting out a large slice of the people's income. Actually, excise taxes are those imposed inside of the country. During the war, they were raised on transportation and luggage to keep people from traveling on trains and planes. They were put on telegrams and long distance telephone calls to keep people from calling and tying up the lines. Of course the main purpose was to raise money, but there was also a motive in taxing theaters and recreation houses so that folks would stay home more and stop using up power and violating blackouts. Folks were encouraged to buy more war bonds than jewelry, furs and cosmetics.

Taxes Boost Federal Projects

THE Johnson amendment would put the excise taxes back about where they were on a pre-war level.

But now the fur people say the fur tax is putting them out of business. The cabaret tax is putting musicians out of business, even in places as far from Broadway as West Texas. And Rep. Ken Regan, Midland, says the tax on baby oil, luggage and even lipstick is not a tax on luxury items.

One of the interesting things is that this year the excise taxes are expected to bring in only about $550,000,000 whereas before they had brought in considerably more than that. Why? Perhaps business is off.

There again, Congressman Regan, citing conditions in West Texas, says that part of this off year income on the excise taxes is the protest of business and private citizens against buying any item on which there are excise taxes.

But one of the big questions is—if this country has such a big public debt now—and excise taxes supply so much of the income of government—what is going to happen to public works and many other items on which government money is spent which chambers of commerce and private citizens want for their regions.

That is the big question, says Regan. "I believe the citizens of Texas are going to have to realize that they can't have both. They have got to content themselves without eating from the federal treasury if they want to cut out taxes. Some times congressmen get letters one day asking for a boost in the federal money for a certain project, then the next day from the very same person, get letters asking for tax cuts."

Regan says research convinces him that Texans pay about $15 into the federal treasury for every $1 they get back.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

"PARDON me," I said to my wife as I stifled a yawn.

You yawn when you are tired and you yawn when you are bored. Frankly, I was a bit bored.

She had just come home from a wedding.

She was all excited. The bride's lovely dress. The doting father and mother. The pretty bridesmaids. The sweet little flower girls. The black-robed minister. The solemn and sincere "I do."

BRANDEIS

"It was a wonderful wedding," she said.

But I was bored.

Here were two young people who were getting married for the first time, and from what I know about them, will stay married to each other for the rest of their lives.

They were married in a church by a minister, in the same town where they were born, brought up and educated together.

There were no press agents in attendance, no subpoena servers, nothing that makes for excitement and front-page publicity.

Don't you see why I was bored, and stifled a yawn?

Before me is a several-days-old newspaper.

But, although few things look as lifeless and prosaic as a wet newspaper, I can yet see the glory of the front-page picture through the swishiness of the sheet.

Accusations Hurled

(ED. NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The State department is saying nothing about it publicly, but Chiang Kai-Shek has filed a caustic rejoinder to the white paper.

Secretary of State Acheson has replied with the terse statement that President Truman personally ordered the compilation and publication of the blistering document in order to keep the American people informed of what happened in China.

Chiang's communication was delivered by Washington Ambassador Wellington Koo. State department authorities suspect it was written in the embassy, probably in consultation with Madame Chiang. She is still in the U. S., and while keeping in the background is actively directing Nationalist policies and propaganda.

Chiang completely sidestepped the great mass of evidence of widescale corruption, incompetence and betrayal. He was totally silent on the basic white paper contention that these causes were responsible for the tragic Nationalist debacle. Instead, he resorted to the stratagem of hurling counter-accusations.

In a tone of lofty righteous indignation, Chiang accused the U. S. of striking an "underhanded blow." He charged the white paper is certain to prove a big help to the Communists.

NOTE: Deleted from the white paper as published was a State department list of several hundred top Nationalist officials and generals who made millions grafting on U. S. aid. U. S. authorities know the whereabouts of the secret bank accounts of many of these officials. They are in London, Paris, Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Manila and Bangkok. Certain multimillionaire Nationalists in the U. S. are highly fearful the treasury may freeze their holdings. The Nationalist yuan has demanded the return of these private fortunes.

Freedom Of Choice

At an interstate Commerce committee meeting, Sen. Charles Tobey, R., N. H., questioned Federal Communications Commissioner Edward Webster on color television development. Webster was noncommittal.

"Wouldn't you rather have color television to picture the full beauty of a beautiful woman; all the curves and contours?" asked Tobey.

"Yes, I guess I would," admitted Webster.

"But isn't the reverse also true?" chimed in Senator Ernest McFarland, D., Ariz. "Suppose the woman were ugly. Would you still want full color?"

"In that case," smiled Tobey, "I would reserve the right to look the other way."

McFarland is 55; Webster 60; Tobey over 60.

ADMINISTRATION leaders claim they have 47 senators definitely committed to vote to restore the President's big public power program that the Senate appropriations committee ripped out of the Interior department's budget bill.

The House approved the program, but the Senate committee killed it by a close margin under the leadership of Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla. The program was one of the President's major 1948 issues, and behind-the-scenes he has been personally masterminding the restoration battle.

This campaign has been nation-wide in scope, with the administration using private utility tactics.

William Boyle, Democratic national committee executive director, has mobilized party forces in every affected state to put the heat on their senators. Neal Roach, assistant to Boyle, has made more than 300 long-distance calls to state and local leaders to line up Senate votes. The drive has apparently paid off, as the administration appears very confident about the outcome.

Further evidence of this is an amendment produced by Senator Thomas. It is designed to split administration forces by making some concessions to southwestern states.

NOTE: Representative Mike Kirwan, D., Ohio, who led the House fight for the President's program, has served notice he will block a conference agreement on the Interior bill if the Senate does not restore the public power projects. "There will be no bill without that program," Kirwan declared, "and I have the President's backing on that. I am not kidding and neither is he. The private power industry started this fight and we are going to finish it."

American Legion

The election of the next national commander of the American Legion will not be a cut-and-dried "kingmaker" deal if West Virginia's State Commander Donald R. Wilson can help it. The tall, husky young army veteran started his campaign late, but is making up for lost time in sizzling tempo. Backed by a group of states, he is waging a whirlwind pre-convention drive that has rolled up considerable support from anti-kingmaker elements.

One Minute Sermon

And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles. Acts 15:27.

"THE MATURE MIND"

Author Says We Need To Grow Up

"THE MATURE MIND," by H. A. Overstreet; (Norton).

WE are born, this author pessimistically reminds us, "ignorant, irresponsible, inarticulate, of diffuse sexuality, self-centered," and he writes a book to show, with undiminished pessimism, that too many of us carry the burden of this sorry birthright unimproved from the cradle to the grave.

"Not all adults are adult," he says; a man may look 21, be 21, and vote, though in fact he is still in short pants mentally. He is measured by years, not brain pan; and when he misbehaves, it is futile to admonish him to be his age, for he is being his age . . . his mental age. Misbehavior is merely "an immature way of solving a mature problem."

Don't Lack Lofty Ideals

If we are dissatisfied with our world, it is not for lack of lofty ideals: The ideal of one God, the everlasting lessons of the Decalogue, the plea of the prophet Amos for social justice, Christ's imperative to love even our enemies, the Socratic reliance on reason. But these mature ideals have been vitiated by immature minds. One God has become many churches; the Decalogue is for the other fellow; and instead of loving our enemies, we are smarter at killing them in enormous numbers than anybody else has been in all history.

We have allowed ourselves to be muddled by what Overstreet calls the three great strains of influence interwoven in our culture: Authoritarianism, liberalism and, paired, mechanism and antirationalism. And lest we think we are mature, he invites us to consider our reaction to two urgent problems: With regard to the A-bomb, we are tragically apathetic. With regard to foreign affairs, we are so convinced habitually, he says, that if it's American it's good and if it isn't American it's un-American, that as a result we make up our minds even before we bother to ascertain the relevant facts.

Politics Degenerated

Politics has degenerated from a "rational organization of social goods" to a "fight-and-grab game;" society "rewards hostility and penalizes inclusive good will;" in schools "fact is added to fact until the sum of the facts is equal to graduation." Out of the spoiled child comes the obnoxious practical joker, the ranting politician, the erring statesman or the misguided businessman.

"Our obligation," he concludes, "is to grow up," and his astute book is an important step in the process.

"Inherit The Night"

"INHERIT THE NIGHT," by Robert Christie; (Farrar, Straus).

KURT WERDEN, with a forged U. S. passport, an automatic, a temper, a goal and a frequent worried look back over his shoulder, arrives in a sleepy little town high in the Andes. Three people there interest him particularly: Don Diego, the alcalde; El Borracho, a happy-go-lucky peddler and drunkard; and Carlota, very lovely and very accessible.

For the moment she is not accessible to El Borracho, for he is penniless. But Werden, his pockets full of gold, wants the drunkard to guide him to San Cobar, a village up and over the Andean peaks, almost literally out of this world; and perhaps Carlota and Don Diego together can persuade El Borracho to undertake the trip. It's dangerous, but nothing is so dangerous as the fate Werden is fleeing; he cannot be sure how long people back in civilization will believe the newspaper clipping headed: "Enemy leader dies in besieged city."

Calls It A Miracle

The mysterious Werden, accustomed to having his way, has it again, and reaches San Cobar. Quita, daughter of Engracia and Anselmo, and her betrothed lover Pablo, son of Manuel, see the stranger coming from the pass. The priest, Padre Jose, calls the visit a miracle.

Miracle it may be, but not from heaven. Werden is a kind of sinister knowledge set down to fester in a completely innocent, idyllic community. He brings violence, ruthlessness, fear. For the first time men become afraid of what lies beyond the mountains, they challenge the priest's leadership, they begin to doubt their wives, they mistrust one another.

This ingenious idea is developed carefully into an absorbing novel. Christie establishes a credibly quaint and primitive atmosphere and never violates it. His imaginary characters are made up saltily of flesh and blood. You get excited wondering whether this is a Hitler who escaped or, just in general, the serpent in the Garden of Eden or, simply, a tall tale well told. But you get excited.

Coast Guard Story

"RED FLANNELS AND GREEN ICE," by Arthur Pocock; (Random House).

THE Navy, Army and Air Force, not to mention the Marine Corps, have had their books dealing with World War II. Now comes the Coast Guard with Red Flannels and Green Ice, through the eyes and pen of a junior officer on Arctic Duty.

It, of course, in nowise details the multifarious duties that branch of service accomplished but it will serve to get the wearers of the shield into at least a part of their rightful glory.

A Lively Book

"Red Flannels and Green Ice," winner of the Servicemen's Prize contest, is not a dull book. In fact there are delightful passages that will bring a near belly laugh to any salty veteran of the past war.

Especially good is Mr. Pocock's description of an executive officer, "The Exec" to all followers of Neptunis Rex. His humor is not forced and, strangely enough in a new author, is not sarcastic. To find delightful descriptive writing by a new author is, to the literati, like the finding of a new DiMaggio or Ted Williams to the baseball world. Mr. Pocock has filled the bill.

The author gently weaves you through banter and nonsense until he has a grip on your imagination. He then launches into a serious dissertation on the work of the Coast Guard in polar ice.

Salty And Refreshing

From a showerbath during an Arctic storm to "sex life in a deep freeze" you'll chuckle over this rollicking account of the Coast Guard's Greenland patrol.

While "Red Flannels and Green Ice" may not become a best seller it will, to all who wore bell-bottomed dungarees, be on a "best reader" list.

All Others Intruders

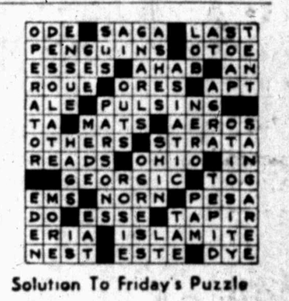

"THEY CAME HERE FIRST," by D'Arcy McNickle; (Lippincott).

SOMEWHERE in the interior of Asia the human race had its beginning. From there little bands moved westward to emerge as the tribes who peopled the Mediterranean basin, Africa and Europe. Other bands moved northward to find the passage now called Bering Strait, and crossed over to a new land. This was 25,000 years ago or, perhaps twice that far back. They moved slowly southward, generation by generation until they had pried into every corner of the two continents. These were the people who were to be called Indians by Columbus.

Such its the version given in "They Came Here First," by D'Arcy McNickle. It seems as likely as any. Whatever the origin of the Indian—and McNickle neatly disposes of other theories—the fact is that "they came here first" and all others were intruders. Their misfortunes since the fateful year of 1942 make up the bulk of this book.

McNickle, since 1936 a member of the Bureau of Indian Affairs pulls no punches in his recording of the mistreatment of the red man by Americans and their government. However, he views the Indian Reorganization Act of 1934 hopefully. He believes it has put the Indian on the road to self-government, security and dignity in the land of his fathers.

VETERANS' GROUPS TO HEAR HST

Truman Reveals Plans For Four Talks During Next Few Weeks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The widely traveled man in the White House is planning to outdo himself in the next few weeks.

President Truman has scheduled four out of town speaking engagements, starting with a talk to the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Miami, Fla., Aug. 22.

He will speak next to the American Legion at Philadelphia, Aug. 29.

Then he'll do an "iron man" stunt on Labor Day Sept. 5. He plans to speak at both Pittsburgh, Pa.—at noon—and in Des Moines, Iowa, late in the afternoon.

Four Talks Unusual

The President has traveled more than 125,000 miles since he entered the White House April 12, 1945, not including his occasional cruises on the Potomac abroad the yacht Williamsburg an da few side trips by automobile in the vicinity of Washington.

The scheduling of four speeches on three successive Mondays in a non-campaign year is unusual.

White House officials explained that when the President decided to speak to the American Legion at Philadelphia after addressing that organization last year at Miami, he did not see how he could pass up invitations from two other veterans organizations.

To Travel By Air

The speech at Des Moines on Labor day will be before the convention of the American Veterans of World War II.

The only non-veteran speech on the schedule is that at Pittsburgh. That will be at the Allegheny free fair under the auspices of the Allegheny county board of commissioners.

All the trips will be made in the presidential plane, the "Independence." It is likely that all will be one-day affairs with the President leaving in the morning and returning to Washington the same night.

He says the testimony being brought out now at the Capital showing the changes in opinion on the merits of this machine, the indecisions, the differences between top military personnel on its advantages could be duplicated, he believes in the B-17, and also in the military aircraft of World War I. It simply means the evolvement of scientific advancement tied to human frailty and the great responsibility of choosing that which is best for the country.

Kilday has an Irishman's wit, and he had some other things to say this week about one John Maragon, especially since Maragon obliged interested reporters by tying up Congressman Kilday's name and his brother, Sheriff Owen Kilday of San Antonio, with Maragon's visit once to San Antonio. He said when he and his banana pedler friends could not find a place to sleep in San Antonio, Sheriff Kilday got them a berth in a public building.

"John Maragon," said Kilday, "was a very good passenger agent for the B. & O. Railroad. It was a pity he could not have stayed that way. He was nice and thoughtful. You could tell Maragon in the morning that you needed a ticket, and he could have you one by afternoon—reservations and all—during the war. Then when you got down to the train to leave, there would be John, to see you off. He would speak to your wife and family and escort you to the train to your berth. And then he'd take you in the dining room and introduce you to the steward and explain to him when you had young children that they couldn't wait in line to eat. Yes, he was a good passenger agent and I am sorry he did not stay in that job."

A young Texan, James Mc. Henderson, Philippine alien property administrator, was here this week on the occasion of the Philippine President's visit. Henderson, from Daingerfield, reports directly to the President. He came over to help make things easier for American officials when discussing Philippine problems with U. S. officials. The president is here to here to secure support for his Pacific union and also to get a loan from the World Bank for hydro-electric power development in the Philippines. He also wanted to talk about the desirability of further war damage aid and help for Philippine war veterans.

Railroad Commission To Study Oil Allowables For September

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. — Texas oil regulatory commissioners take another official look at the industry's supply-demand picture next week. There are indications they will report progress is being made.

There are unofficial reports the state's Railroad commission will restore one of the shutdown days that have accompanied the seven crude oil production cutbacks ordered this year.

The commission, charged with keeping the state's production in balance with demand, meets in Mineral Wells next Friday to determine September's production allowables.

These developments confronted the commission this week:

New Developments

1. Domestic refinery operations showed minor percentage increases a second consecutive week.

2. Standard Oil company (New Jersey) announced it has terminated imports of oil from the middle east.

3. The Bureau of Mines forecast that domestic petroleum demand the second half of the year will be 6.6 per cent over the same period last year. The first six months of 1949 were said to have experienced a 3 per cent decline.

Oil company spokesmen believe such developments will be sufficient to warrant the commission to order at least a temporary halt to the 1949 cutback parade.

Texas now is producing approximately 800,000 barrels of crude daily less than a year ago. The state's cutbacks primarily are responsible for a domestic decline from approximately 5,600,000 barrels daily last December to a daily average of 4,669,700 last week.

Oil Imports Blamed

Independent oilmen have placed most of the blame on unprecedented imports of crude oil. They now are hopeful Standard's halting of middle east imports will lead to sharp cutbacks in receipts of foreign oil and eventually permit them to restore domestic production affected by domestic cutbacks.

Fred W. Shield, San Antonio, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, put it this way:

"If this announcement means a change in policy on imports it is encouraging. If it is nothing more than a shifting of sources and companies little good will result."

The same day Standard announced its new middle east policy, Shield's association released another statistical report on imports.

Crude Imports Increase

IPAA said imports of crude oil and refined products averaged 607,000 barrels daily the second quarter of this year. This, the report said, is the highest three month's daily average in history.

The new Bureau of Mines forecast estimates that 1949 imports will average 570,000 barrels daily, compared to 513,000 last year.

The increase in last week's domestic refinery operations as reported by the American Petroleum institute was only slight—crude runs to stills jumping only about 1,000 barrels daily. A week earlier the daily increase, first in a long while, averaged 39,000 barrels daily.

Again accompanying the crude runs increase, however, were declines in gasoline production and stocks, and increases in kerosene and light and heavy fuels stocks. This indicates a continued swing toward converting plants to production of winter products.

Domestic Demand Foreseen

Bureau of Mines officials said the forecast of a 6.6 per cent increase in domestic demand for petroleum products the remainder of the year hinges on a normal winter season. Another abnormally warm winter would disrupt such a prediction quickly.

The bureau's report said a normal winter will mean a 30-per cent increase in demand for heating oils over the 1948-49 abnormal season. Only about half of the increase would result from 1949 installations of heating equipment requiring petroleum products.

Delta Gulf Drilling company, a new organization, has acquired most of the properties of the Jerry C. Hawkins, Dallas, drilling firm. Value of the properties is estimated at $15,000,000. President of the new firm is Joe Zeppa, Tyler, Tex.

Gas Line Petition Withdrawn

Sterling Oil & Refining company, Houston, has acquired, at an undisclosed consideration, properties of the Coast company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Tennessee Gas Transmission company.

Here and there:

Natural gas taken by pipe lines from Texas fields in May totaled 142,538,883,000 cubic feet, 50.11 per cent of the state's production for the month and 20 per cent above the same month last year. . . . Trans Arabian Pipeline company officials now hope to complete their 1067 mile Persion Gulf-to-Mediterranean line by early 1951 . . . Gulf Coast Northern Gas company has withdrawn a Federal Power commission petition for authorization to construct a 1184-mile natural gas line from Texas to Illinois.

"Drinks For The House" Habit Makes Australian Popular Man

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 13 (U.P.) A prize for understatement goes to C. C. Alexander, bar owner at nearby Blayney.

A local man, Arthur Stammers, has a custom of treating everyone in the house to drinks twice a week or so in Blayny's bars, spending about $1,000 a year in this philanthropic pursuit.

Two Chimpanzees In St. Louis Zoo Sell Souvenir Postcards

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Nero and Mary, two young chimpanzees in the St. Louis zoo's monkey show, pay for their keep by selling postcards to zoo visitors.

After each entertainment act in the amphitheater at the zoo, the two chimps rush out to a stand in front of the ape house to hawk the souvenir postcards.
