VET QUARTERBACK
Charley Johnson Facing Surgery

Charley Johnson, veteran quarterback for the Houston Oilers, has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. (Perry) Johnson of Big Spring, that he will undergo knee surgery at the Herman Hospital in Houston Thursday morning.

Charley has been playing under an extreme handicap, having come back following a three weeks' layoff after a shoulder separation.

Despite the fact that he had a hinge in his shoulder, however, he was able to throw three touchdown passes against the Denver Bronchos a week ago Sunday.

Although he was in obvious pain most of the game against the Cleveland Browns, he grimly hung in there through three quarters.

Charley will be replaced in the Oiler lineup for the remainder of the year by Jerry Rhome, who managed to throw a touchdown pass against Cleveland.

The Oilers now out of the division race, play Cincinnati's Bengals Sunday afternoon in Houston.

Most of Johnson's relatives here have managed to see Charley and the Oilers in action at least once this season besides Charley's father. Perry's physical condition has dictated that he do very little traveling.

However, Perry has followed the team's fortunes closely on TV. —By T.H.

Three Miners Are Trapped By Rockfall

ANJEAN, W. Va. (AP) — Rescue crews late this morning moved a giant antomatic mining machine into a southern West Virginia coal mine where three miners—one of whom is believed dead — are trapped by a large rock and slate fall.

Air holes drilled about 1,800 feet deep in the mine produced a tapping noise, a sign that at least one of the three men trapped by the Tuesday night fall is still alive.

More than 40 men scrambled to safety late Tuesday when the 40-foot rockfall rumbled into a section of the highly-automated mine that is only about four feet high.

An eyewitness reported seeing a miner in a shuttle car covered by the rockfall. "It is presumed he is dead," Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. said in Charleston. Officials have refused to release identities.

The continuous mining machine was moved into the Leckie Smokeless Coal Co.'s No. 11 mine near Anjean about noon. This is the same West Virginia hamlet ravaged in the summer of 1969 by Hurricane Camille — spawned killer floods that claimed two lives.

BILL WOULD RAISE BENEFITS FOR 26 MILLION PERSONS
Social Security Boosts Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee completed work today on a bill to increase Social Security benefits $9 billion a year. But the measure is so loaded with extraneous amendments that its fate is highly uncertain.

Senate leaders tentatively scheduled floor debate on the bill to begin Tuesday. But, because they plan to end the 1970 session later next week, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he saw little chance the bill could be passed in the few days remaining.

$100 A MONTH

Even as the committee finished work on the bill, some of its members were saying the unwieldy measure should be dropped and some other plan devised to rescue only the Social Security increases before Congress adjourns, now tentatively scheduled for Dec. 19.

The bill would raise Social Security benefits for 26 million persons by at least 10 per cent, effective Jan. 1. The minimum payment for an individual would be boosted to $100 a month, a 56 per cent increase over the present $64. The House, in passing the bill last May, voted for a 5 per cent across-the-board boost but only a $67.20 minimum.

As its last act today, the committee worked out a new Social Security tax schedule to pay for the higher benefits. Under this, taxes would be increased by about $2.5 billion more in 1971 than present law would provide, more in future years.

The committee struggled through two sessions Tuesday but failed to come up with an acceptable tax formula.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said it had been easy to get votes to raise the monthly payments but that "there seems to be a reluctance now to pay the bill."

However, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said he was hopeful that a formula would be found and the committee's task ended today. And he repeated his pledge that the measure, heavily laden with a variety of riders, would be ready for floor consideration next week.

DOUBTFUL OKIE

Senate leaders have announced, however, they plan to close out the 1970 session at the end of next week.

This led Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., a Finance member, to say that it is doubtful the Social Security measure will be voted on by the Senate this year.

He said some of the riders, such as a quota-setting trade plan, were so controversial that passage in one week seemed impossible.

Backers of the trade legislation talked of trying to get a two-thirds vote to impose cloture, and thus limit debate on the bill. But it seemed unlikely the Senate would vote cloture almost as soon as floor debate started.

The Oklahoma senator, however, said there's another way to salvage the Social Security increase in the current session of Congress.

EXCISE TAX RIDER

He said he had talked with Majority Leader Mike Mansfield about attaching the increase as a rider to an excise tax extension bill that must be acted on before final adjournment.

Bill Designed To Snag Rail Strike Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee approved today a bill to delay a nationwide railroad strike threatened for 12:01 a.m. Thursday until March 1. The vote was 19 to 14.

But Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said after the closed door session that he was not satisfied that the legislation would prevent the strike.

And Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., told reporters: "I think we have voted for a strike. You're just giving it to management. They aren't going to bargain."

NO PAY PLAN

The bill contained no wage raise proposal.

Staggers said the proposal, which represented a longer delay than the 45 days requested by President Nixon, presumably will be brought up in the House later today.

Staggers said the committee rejected an amendment he sponsored to include a portion of the pay increase already recommended as part of the package. His attempt, which will be made again when the bill reaches the House floor, was rejected 16 to 14.

Meanwhile, C. L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, hinted that the walkout could be postponed if Congress included an immediate 13.5 per cent wage hike for 500,000 rail workers as part of legislation forcing a strike delay.

OUT OF TOOLS

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson, appealing for special legislation to head off the strike, told the Senate Labor Committee that President Nixon "has no more tools to avert" a walkout.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Senate committee, opened its hearing by saying that Nixon had failed to use the powers of his office to make collective bargaining work for the railroads.

"Rather," Yarborough said, "he has taken the path of promoting the interests of the railroads who have traditionally indicated they prefer compulsory arbitration to free collective bargaining."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., responded:

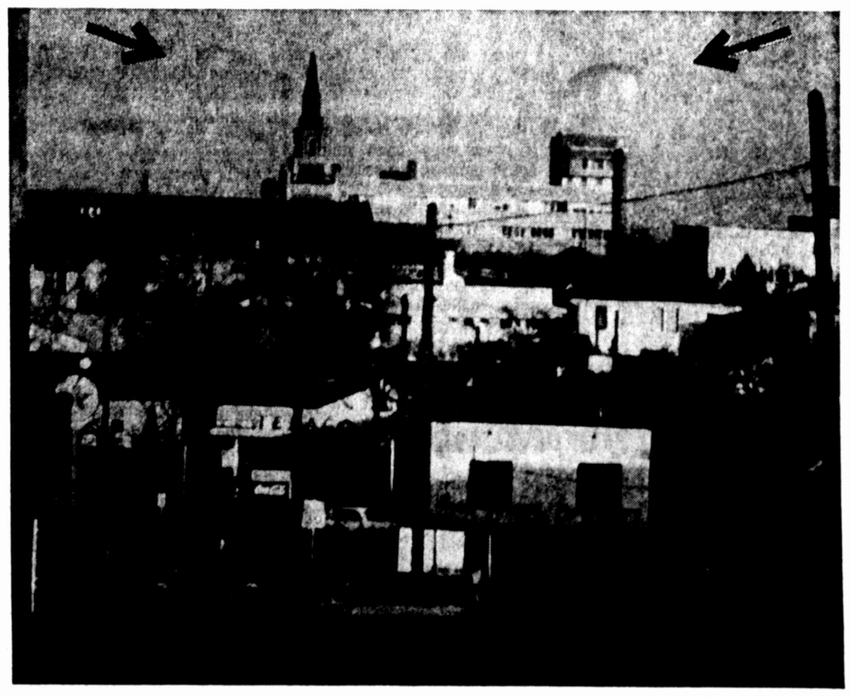

"I do not believe the President of the United States is a party to any conspiracy or partiality to management or anybody else. This is a legitimate labor dispute. The parties are deadlocked."

LETTER FROM NIXON

Javits also read a letter to him from Nixon dated Tuesday.

The letter restated presidential arguments for congressional action to head off a national emergency and concluded by saying, "There is never the right time for a national shutdown. This is an especially wrong time."

Outside the committee, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, said "for the good of the country the Congress should enact the temporary legislation," and the Democrats will be at fault if it does not.

Calley Called Death Dealer By Witnesses

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — From sworn statements of Viet From sworn statements of Viet-first defense for Lt. William L. Calley, the 5-foot-3 platoon leader who has been portrayed at a court-martial as decreeing and dealing death to masses of their countrymen at My Lai.

After its 35th witness testified Tuesday, the prosecution conditionally rested its case, reserving the right to reopen it if two missing witnesses can be found.

Planning to call its first witness Thursday morning, the defense today was to present to Judge Reid W. Kennedy an undisclosed number of the statements taken by Calley and two attorneys in Vietnam just before the trial started.

FREE DAY

No Vietnamese will come to this infantry post to testify about what happened in the village near the South China Sea on March 16, 1968.

The six-officer jury, trying Calley on charges of murdering 102 Vietnamese, was given today off. Administrative business and routine motions were to be taken care of at an afternoon session.

George Latimer, Calley's chief civilian lawyer, said the free day was needed to check the status of witnesses being summoned at a peak travel time.

The prosecution—responsible for arranging for all witnesses —has said the defense has requested the appearance of 57.

Judge Kennedy, a colonel, indicated that unless the trial appears near completion, he will recess for Christmas and New Years holidays after Dec. 18. The jurors return to their homes each night.

In testimony spanning more than three weeks, the jurors—two captains, three majors and a colonel — heard witnesses relate that Calley ordered and participated in the execution of My Lai villagers at two main sites, one a trail intersection in the village, and the other a ditch just outside.

'I GOT SICK'

Four GI's testified they saw Calley shooting people at the ditch and one said he saw killing by the lieutenant at the trail intersection.

James Joseph Dursi, a Western Electric employe from Brooklyn, N.Y., said Tuesday he and Pfc. Paul Meadlo were told by Calley "to start moving them into the ditch."

"Some of them started crying or yelling," said Dursi, the last prosecution witness. "I was ordered to shoot."

"By whom?"

"By Lt. Calley."

Dursi continued, "Then Lt. Calley and Meadlo started firing. Meadlo turned to me shortly after the shooting began and said 'Shoot, why don't you fire?' I just said, 'I can't, I won't' and looked down at the ground."

Dursi said he had helped Calley and Meadlo shove people into the ditch.

Money Bill Advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.525 billion appropriations bill, including $990 billion additional foreign aid, cleared the House Appropriations Committee today.

The measure, scheduled for House debate later this week, is the last of 15 regular money bills considered this year.

The committee cut $176.7 million from White House requests. If the House approves, it would boost to $2.6 billion the total cut from $137.3 billion requested this year. The Senate, which has acted on about half the requests, has added $2.7 billion to bills it has passed.

The $990 million for foreign aid, including $500 million for arms aid to Israel, supplements more than $2 billion voted earlier this year.

This new funds include $340 million for military assistance and $150 million for economic aid. The committee earmarked $85 million of the military funds and $70 million of the economic aid for Cambodia. South Korea would get $150 million of the military aid money.

Midlanders Okay Courthouse Bonds

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A $1.95 million bond issue to remodel and enlarge the Midland County courthouse won approval by a vote of 4,411 to 3,272 in a special election Tuesday.

The building was erected in 1930. A fifth floor will be added and new jail facilities will be installed.

Move To Ban Sale Of Leaded Gasoline

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Common Council has moved toward an eventual ban on the sale of leaded gasoline in this city.

An ordinance passed 13 to 1 requires service stations in the city to have at least one pump selling low-lead gasoline by next Sept. 1.

Fight Police In Courtroom

BURGOS, Spain (AP) — Basque separatists on trial in Burgos demonstrated and fought with police in the courtroom today. When the military trial resumed, the defense refused to call any witnesses.

The defense move was relayed to newsmen by an army information officer. Reporters were barred from the courtroom after the outbreak. The refusal to call witnesses was seen as a protest against the way the trial was being conducted.

Freeze All Prices

OSLO (AP) — The Norwegian Government announced Tuesday a temporary freeze on all prices as part of an "action program" to curb inflation.

U.N. Condemns Portugal For Invasion Of Guinea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Overriding Western objections, the U.N. Security Council condemned Portugal Tuesday night for the invasion of Guinea and rapped Lisbon's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The resolution, put in by the council's two Asian and three African members, was approved by a vote of 11-0 with four abstentions. The abstainers were the United States, Britain, France and Spain, but none of the three NATO members used its veto to kill the resolution.

The Western powers objected to provisions of the resolution that threatened sanctions against Portugal and called on countries to refrain from giving Lisbon any military assistance "enabling it to continue its repressive actions" against Africa. The latter clause was plainly aimed at members of NATO.

LIFE AND PROPERTY

The resolution also called for compensation to Guinea for the "extensive damage to life and property" that resulted from the invasion of the West African state last month.

Portugal has denied any part in the invasion and has rejected the conclusions of a five-nation U.N. mission to Guinea, which Portugal says took testimony from a handful of prisoners produced by Guinean authorities.

The mission concluded that Portuguese troops were used in the invasion, and it condemned Portugal for the attack.

In an effort to avoid running into a veto, the sponsors of the resolution had kept the council members informed step by step as they worked up the proposal.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost hailed the report of the U.N. mission to Guinea and praised the sponsors of the resolution: Burundi, Nepal, Sierra Leone, Syria and Zambia. But he made plain that he thought the draft went too far in dangling the threat of sanctions and even military force against Portugal.

GET OTHER SIDE

Yost was also quick to counter the oblique reference to Portugal's NATO partners in the draft.

"I have already reiterated the well known policy of the United States, in effect since 1961, of providing no arms to Portugal for use in Africa," he declared.

Britain's chief delegate, Sir Colin Crowe, also expressed reservations.

Bid To Safeguard Job Rights Of Young Moms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government and civil rights lawyers are joining in a Supreme Court bid to safeguard job rights of young mothers.

Using the case of a Jacksonville, Fla., waitress as a springboard, the Justice Department and the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund are seeking a ruling that employers may not refuse to hire women simply because they have young children at home.

All this shapes up as the first high court test of a 1964 civil rights law provision guaranteeing women protection against job discrimination.

NO EVIDENCE

Martin Marietta Corp., defendant in the suit, insists there is no real evidence to build a discrimination claim and that the appeal reached the high court too late to be considered.

The case of Ida Phillips, a white woman with seven children, already is well known in the capital. Earlier this year, "sexism" charges were leveled at G. Harrold Carswell by women liberationists because he cast a vote against reconsideration of her suit by a federal appeals court.

The charges did not help Carswell's efforts to win Senate confirmation as a Supreme Court justice. He was ultimately defeated.

SCHOOL KIDS

Mrs. Phillips' case began when a receptionist told her she could not be considered for a factory job because she had children of preschool age.

Both U.S. district and appeals courts found Mrs. Phillips was not turned down by Martin Marietta because she is a woman, but because she is a woman with preschool age children.

The Justice Department and the Legal Defense Fund say this interpretation could imperil job opportunities of the more than 4 million American women in the labor market who have young children at home. Many of these women are black. About one-third provide the sole support of their households or have husbands with incomes below $5,000 a year.

BIG ISSUE

A big issue in the case is whether Martin Marietta hired men with school-age children at the time Mrs. Phillips applied for a job as an assembly trainee.

"To require of prospective women employes that they not have preschool-age children, while not requiring the same of men, is to discriminate against women on the basis of sex," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and Justice Department lawyers said in a brief to the court.

But attorneys for Martin Marietta told the court the record does not show the company's practice at the time and that without such evidence a discrimination argument fails.

Above all, the firm's lawyers are stressing a point that has doomed many test cases before: the technical rule that petitions for review be filed wihin 90 days of the ruling by the appeals court. Mrs. Phillips' petition, they maintain, was filed Jan. 10, 1970—more than seven months after the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans entered judgment against her.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A process for making synthetic wood pulp—from which paper is made—from ethylene gas has been disclosed by Crown Zellerbach.

The company has been working on the process several years.

Crown Zellerbach said Tuesday it had an agreement in Tokyo for a possible joint venture with Mitsui Petrochemical Industries to make pulp for Japan.

Ernest Mitchell, executive vice president, said the synthetic costs more to produce than genuine wood pulp but becomes more competitive in wood-short areas.

School Trustees Again Postpone Appointment Of Board Member

The Board of Education of the Big Spring Independent School District almost took a step Tuesday night to consider the appointment of a board member to fill the term of Grant Boardman who resigned this summer.

With only four members present at the meeting, board member Jimmy Taylor made a motion that the board take no action to fill the vacancy.

"Since the election is only four months away I think that it would be better to let the voters decide who the member will be. We haven't taken any action yet to fill the position and now we only have four meetings before the election," Taylor said.

Taylor's motion was seconded by board member A. K. Guthrie, who withdrew his second a few minutes later when it became apparent that the motion would be deadlocked when members Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper and Roy E. Watkins expressed their opposition.

"If a good candidate comes up and we have all of our members here I think we should move to fill the vacancy — even a little experience on the board is better than none at all," Mrs. Cowper said.

"Voters will be choosing four new board members in April, and I agree that some experience could be of great help — both to the member seeking election and to other new school board members," Watkins said.

Since board members Joe A. Moss and Delnor W. Poss were absent, the board decided to hold the matter until the first meeting in January. "If we have the full membership present for the meeting then we can take the action that agrees with the majority," Mrs. Cowper said.

In other action during the short 70-minute meeting, the board:

— Took no formal action after hearing the appeal of Mrs. June Aaker of an administrative decision denying her daughter admission to the first grade because the child does not meet Texas minimum age requirements. The family had moved to Big Spring from another state where the child was enrolled in the first grade. By taking no action the board upheld the administrative denial of admission.

— Approved without comment of 15 persons to the local multiple list textbook committee which will select texts used in local schools next year.

The meeting adjourned without the board examining reports of a more routine nature from the superintendent of schools and the assistant superintendent for business.

Spending Plans Aired For Leftover Money

Big Spring school administration officials this week are preparing a proposal to spend $2,240 left over from last years' Title 1 budget to aid disadvantaged school children in three schools.

Keith Swim, assistant superintendent in charge of federal programs, said the proposal will be sent to the Texas Education Agency in Austin for approval. If the grant is approved the school district will begin a program in communicative arts in the second semester of this school year.

"Big Spring schools are faced with a larger percentage of culturally and educationally disadvantaged children entering the first grade each year," Swim said. "These children have lived under conditions which have failed to build skills that would allow them to progress at a normal rate in the classroom."

Swim said the children were handicapped in that most of them were learning English as a second language and that the administration hopes the program will allow them to catch up with their classes as rapidly as possible.

If approved by state officials the program would provide for about 60 first grade students to increase their skills in language and reading. Cedar Crest, Lakeview and Bauer elementary schools would be participating in the program.

Swim said that an instructional system — Distar — would be used because it was designed with educationally handicapped children in mind and has been proven in other classrooms nationwide.

"The Distar Language and Reading Systems are complete beginning programs in these basic primary curriculum areas. They are designed to teach basic skills to children who have trouble learning.

"The teacher works intensively with five to 10 children for 30 minutes daily in both the language and reading programs," Swim said.

Airman Guilty Of WAVE Rape

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A military jury of seven officers and enlisted men found Airman William T. Pearson, 20, of Rockdale, Tex., guilty of rape Tuesday.

He was sentenced to 18 months confinement and a bad conduct discharge.

The results of the general court-martial, which was held at the naval air station here, are subject to review by higher authority.

Pearson was charged with raping a 20-year-old WAVE at Padre Island National Seashore last July.

Ordered To Pull Their Rigs Out

AUSTIN (AP) — Shell dredgers have been ordered to pull their rigs out of more than 16,000 acres of north San Antonio bay by Jan. 1.

J.R. Singleton, state parks and wildlife director, said he issued the order because dredging was disturbing the balance between fresh and salt water in the upper part of the bay.

The order covers 25 to 30 640-acre sections of the bay, from the mouth of the Guadalupe River south about five miles, Singleton said.

Oil Shale Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 4 to 2 Tuesday against private claims for up to one-fifth of the government's vast oil shale holdings in the West.

Potentially billions of dollars were at stake in the dispute over the development rights.

The decision leaves room for private interests to continue their fight but the heart of the ruling is a strong endorsement of the Interior Department's position.

Justice William O. Douglas, speaking for the four-man majority, said claims to mineral locations on lands belonging to the United States are lost when token or no improvement work has been done.

The test case involved six groups of claims to oil shale located in Colorado. The claims were canceled in the 1930s by the Interior Department on the ground there had been insufficient work done on the location.

Years later holders of the claims went to court to try to assert rights of possession.

Federal district and appeals courts in Colorado ruled against the government. But the high court reversed their decisions.

The ruling involved interpretation of the General Mining Act of 1872 which provided that until a patent is issued for a mineral location on U.S.-owned lands the claimant has to perform at least $100 worth of labor a year and $500 overall. All the claims involved in the case were canceled by the Interior Department under the 1872 law.

Shotgun Blasts Hit Grid Player

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas Southern University football player was wounded Tuesday by two shotgun blasts fired into the football players' dormitory at the university here.

Wounded was Melvin C. Baker, 19. He was asleep in an upper bunk on the second floor of the dormitory and was hit in the side by blasts apparently fired from the street below, police said. The youth was in fair condition.

Two other athletes asleep in the same room escaped injury. Windows in an adjoining room were hit by shotgun pellets.

Dr. Graville Sawyer, president of the formerly all-Negro university, said the shooting may have been the result of tension between several football players and some other students. He said there was a fight on the campus Monday, but he characterized the fighting incident as "horseplay."

"I have found no political overtones involved," said Sawyer.

School officials and police are investigating.

West Texas C-C Slates Pre-Legislative Confab

Taxation, appropriations and redistricting will be the principal subjects discussed by legislators and West Texas businessmen Dec. 17-18 in the bi-annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce pre-legislative conference in Odessa, according to F. V. Wallace, president of the WTCC.

All members of the West Texas delegation in the Texas Legislature have been invited to the conference. Business leaders of the area will give them the benefit of their thinking on these items.

Beginning with a reception and banquet Dec. 17, featuring an outstanding West Texas businessman as banquet speaker, the conference will convene Friday morning, Dec. 18 in the Inn of the Golden West for a business session and luncheon.

The appropriations panel will be headed by Representative W. S. Heatly, Paducah, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Serving with him will be Rep. Richard C. Slack, Pecos, Sen. J. P. Word, Meridian, and Hermes Miller, staff member of the Legislative Budget board.

Robert E. Johnson, executive director of the Texas Legislative Council, will lead off the panel discussion of redistricting problems. He wil be assisted in the discussion by Rep. Tommy Shannon, Fort Worth and Sen. Tom Creighton, Mineral Wells.

Thought Highest Bail Ever Set

NEW YORK (AP) — A man accused by federal authorities of being the leader of one of the 13 major heroin smugglings in the world has had bail of $1.5 million set for him.

"I believe this is the highest amount of bail ever set in the United States," U.S. Atty. Edward R. Neaher said.

Luis Stepenberg, 45, a naturalized U.S. citizen of Argentine extraction, was assigned the high bail by Federal Judge Orrin Judd.

He is accused, along with two others, in a 36-count indictment of smuggling $9 million worth of heroin into the country. The indictment named Stepenberg as the head of one of the world's 13 major drug smuggling operations.

Texas Cotton Crop Guess

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated Tuesday the 1970 cotton crop at 10,270,100 bales, 2.6 per cent more than last year but 1.5 per cent less than forecast in November.

Texas production was set at 3,247,000 bales.

The average yield of cotton lint per acre was estimated at 411 pounds, compared with 422 indicated last month, 450 in October and a yield of 433 pounds per acre in 1969.

In November the crop estimate was for 10,428,900 bales. Prospects for this year's crop have declined steadily from last summer. In August, when the first estimate was made, the Crop Reporting Board said a yield of nearly 11.1 million bales could be expected.

This would have meant an output this year about 11 per cent larger than 1969 production of slightly more than 10 million bales.

Poor weather in many areas this fall has hampered the harvest and cut into yields.

The December estimated yield per acre and production in bales of 500 pounds gross weight each, respectively, of 1970 cotton by states included:

North Carolina 46 pounds per acre and production of 160,000 215,000; Georgia 366 and 290,000; Tennessee 480 and 390,000; Alabales; South Carolina 356 and bama 453 and 510,000; Missouri 393 and 225,000; Mississippi 659 and 1,635,000.

Arkansas 478 and 1,075,000; Louisiana 559 and 530,000; Oklahoma 197 and 185,000; Texas 321 and 3,247,000; New Mexico 455 and 135,000; Arizona 854 and 489,000; and California 845 and 1,165,500.

No 'Mickey Mouse' Outfit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has announced that henceforth, all an airman will need when he goes off base is his identification card. Passes no longer will be required.

The move is part of the military plan to make life in the service more attractive.

Lt. Gen. Robert J. Dixon, the Air Force, like the Army and Navy, is doing away with the "Mickey Mouse" activities of the past.

Your Barber Passed Test

DALLAS (AP) — Your friendly neighborhood barber may be something of a cross between a neurosurgeon and a pathologist.

He must not only know how to give the latest style cut but by state law he must also study and pass a written and oral examination in physiology, the body's bone structure, nervous system, muscles, circulation, blood and the digestive system.

"This isn't an outgrowth of the old days when the town barber was often the local physician and mortician," says S.R. Owen, who has directed operation of the American Barber College here for 25 years.

"These are today's requirements outlined by the State Board of Examiners in Austin and they keep the monthly tests tough," he says.

DEAR ABBY: My brother got married a year ago, at which time he and his wife moved in with our widowed mother. It looked like a good deal for everyone because Mama owns a big house and was living all alone in it. Well, the three of them lived together for one year, and it didn't work out, so Mama asked them to move.

Now for the problem: My brother and his wife refuse to leave. Last week Mama invited the family over for supper and by brother wouldn't let them in the house. He bolted the door, with my mother on the outside, too.

We went to our lawyer and he says it is a family affair and he can't do much. Right now Mama is staying with one of my sisters and the whole family is very upset about it.

How can we get my brother and his wife out of Mama's house? My brother refuses to talk to any of us, and says he doesn't have a family anymore. I promised my mother I would write to Dear Abby for some advice. Maybe you or one of your readers can help us.

LOCKED OUT

DEAR LOCKED: You say your mother has been locked out of her own home, and your lawyer says he can't "do much?" You need another lawyer. He can do plenty!

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here goes. Being a guy over 21 myself, I know pretty much how guys operate, and my concern at present is my 18-year-old sister who I am sure is being taken for a ride.

She fell in love with this guy who in his quiet, well-mannered way (along with his good looks) made a big hit with all the family. He's constantly unemployed, shifting from one job to another, therefore my sisters stakes him to meals, shows, gasoline for his car and probably other expenses that we don't know about. This guy is smart and could get a decent job if he really wanted to.

The problem: Everybody is on to this bum but my sister. I can't figure it out because she is no dummy. Please give me some advice on how to wake her up! "BRUZZ"

DEAR BRUZZ: If your sister is "emotional" about the bum, she isn't thinking — she's only feeling. Let her continue to shell out until she herself realizes that she's being taken. If she's no dummy, she'll wake up herself.

DEAR ABBY: This is a first for me, since I never before have written to a newspaper column. It is with regard to the reason some women continue to work though pregnant.

When I became gregnant with my first child, I had been the private secretary to a very prominent attorney. I wanted to quit earlier, but he just wouldn't let me go. At about 7½ months, I left the office, but my boss sent a typewriter to my home, and his chauffeur came daily to take me to his home where he dictated letters. Afterwards the chauffeur drove me home. I typed the letters, and the chauffeur delivered them to my boss.

This went on until the day before by baby was born. I told my boss that I wanted to stay home and be a full time mother, but he kept urging me to return, telling me that he would hold my job open "indefinitely" and he wouldn't take no for an answer. I never did go back to him.

That was 40 years ago. I am now 74, and a widow. My children are raised and have families of their own. Can you guess what I am doing? I am a secretary again!

Boxing In Ruby's Club Replacing Bump And Grind

DALLAS (AP) — The striptease stage of Jack Ruby's old Carousel Club, where his girls used to bump and grind, is now a boxing ring.

About 40 boys in the Dallas Police Association Boxing Club have nightly practice bouts there for January's Golden Gloves tournament.

The dressing rooms, where exotic dancers switched costumes until the day Ruby shot President Kennedy's alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, are now used as locker rooms.

New 10-Story Office Building Is Going Down

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP)— A new 10-story office building is going down at Mercy and Castro streets here. Yes, going down.

Three stories are in place—the 10th, ninth and eighth—and a new floor is scheduled to be jacked up into place each week until the last one goes in at ground level.

The contractors, William & Burrows of Belmont, say the construction goes faster working from the top down. Crews work on the upper stories putting in wiring, pipes and finishing, while other crews on the ground get a new floor ready to be raised and fastened to two 10-story high inner service cores.

TEACHER SUSPENDED

'There Isn't Liberty And Justice For All'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A Negro teacher who refused to pledge allegiance to the flag because he asserted, "There isn't liberty and justice for all" has been suspended.

"I don't consider myself anti-American," Leroy Bates said. "The words in the pledge are just untrue. Since I was in the ninth grade I've seen very little justice, very little equality."

"There isn't liberty and justice for all," Bates, 25, said. "As far as I can see there are not even goals people are subscribing to."

Supt. Benjamin Willis ordered Bates suspended.

Bates was scheduled to be charged before a school board meeting Thursday with "gross insubordination" for refusing a direct order to participate in the pledge of allegiance at the school. Bates retained a lawyer and will fight the suspension. He stood outside his classroom when the pledge was recited and during his three years as a teacher he had never recited it.

Last year he taught social studies at then all-black Dillard High School in Fort Lauderdale.

"I guess it surprised my white students this year," Bates said.

THE LONG, COLD WINTER — III

Era Of Cheap Power Is Dead, Heavy Demands

Editor's Note: One price for a cleaner atmosphere consumers are learning, is a bigger utility bill. This article, the third in a series from the AP Special Assignment Team, details the death of an era of cheap power.

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The era of cheap power is over.

It died in 1970, the year that brought unexpectedly heavy demands for power, strict new air pollution laws which require electric utilities to burn only low-polluting fuels, and a serious shortage of fuels that fit the new requirements.

The result has been skyrocketing fuel prices which precipitated widespread electric utility rate increases and promise more to come. However, there is wide agreement between government and industry sources that the situation probably was inevitable and is the price the United States must pay to end pollution.

FOSSIL FUELS

An Associated Press study of the nation's energy crisis has found:

—Government figures indicate that electrical generating plants using fossil fuels, principally coal and fuel oil, account for 50 per cent of all sulphur oxide polluting the air, 25 per cent of the nitrogen oxide pollution and 25 per cent of the particulate matter, the grit that blackens window sills, dulls paint and erodes masonry.

—New air pollution laws have widely forbidden use of dirty fuels and put a strain on supplies of clean fuels. The shortages have increased prices and, in turn, utility rates.

—The one clean fossil fuel, natural gas, is in short supply because government regulation of price rates have, in recent years, not permitted gas producers enough profit to enable exploration for new gas supplies. There is not currently enough available natural gas to fill the fossil fuel gap.

POWER NEEDS

—Nuclear energy, once thought to be the panacea for the nation's future power needs, has fallen short of expectation. Nuclear generating plants seep small amounts of radiation and emit so much heat they could possibly alter the environment around them.

—The need to clean up the nation's air and water and keep them clean is considered at the present time by those in authority to be more urgent than keeping down the price of electricity. Consequently, the conditions which raised electric utility rates are likely to remain indefinitely.

New federal, state and municipal air pollution standards restrict the discharge of sulphur dioxide in urban areas. Current standards call for the burning of fuels with no more than 1 per cent sulphur content. In some areas, local ordinances will drop the allowable sulphur level to .3 per cent next year. Most of the coal mined in the United States cannot meet these standards.

FOOT THE BILL

For fossil-fuel burning plants, the only other fuels available are fuel oil and natural gas. But fuel oil in an unpurified state also has a high sulphur content.

The cost of cleaning the sulphur out of coal and fuel oil is high. An alternative is to clean the sulphur out of stack gases after the high-sulphur fuel is burned but before the pollutants get into the air. This, too, is expensive.

To reduce fuel oil sulphur from 2.5 to .5 per cent cost an estimated 50 to 70 cents a barrel. Reducing sulphur in coal from 3 to 1.5 per cent would run 50 to 75 cents a ton, and to get the sulphur content down to .5 per cent could cost as high as $3 a ton. Scrubbing coal stack gases of 90 per cent of their sulphur oxide would cost between $1 and $2 for every ton of coal burned.

Ultimately, the electricity consumer will foot most, if not all, of the bill.

Natural gas, the cleanest of the fossil fuels, has no sulphur problem. Many utility companies have converted to gas, creating a giant gas demand which further tightened a supply already short due to the decline in exploration for new gas fields.

NEW LAWS

The crimp in the supply of clean fuels probably will get worse when the sulphur restrictions become effective for rural areas and when proposed new laws restrict the discharge of nitrogen oxides, carbon monoxide and particulate matter.

Nuclear powered electrical generating plants also are taking flak from conservationists. Once touted as the one true clean way to generate power, it since has been determined that nuclear plants seep some small doses of radiation. There is little evidence that the leakage is sufficient to present any immediate danger, but radiation doses are cumulative and could possibly have long-term effects.

EXPENSIVE PLANTS

Westinghouse Electric Corp., one of the chief manufacturers of nuclear power plants, recently announced the capability to build a leakproof generating station, but such construction would increase the cost of the already expensive plants.

Another major problem encountered by the nuclear plants is heat. All electrical plants require water to keep their generating cores cool. Nuclear plants require almost 50 per cent more water than fossil-fueled plants, principally because nuclear stations have no smoke stacks to carry off heat.

Before being dumped back into a lake or stream, the water used in the process is heated to 15 degrees by fossil-fueled plants and 20 degrees by nuclear plants. It is estimated that within the next decade, the electric power industry will require one-sixth of the total fresh water runoff in the nation for cooling purposes.

WARM WATER

The danger of sending so much superheated water back into lakes and streams still is being debated. Over a period of time, some scientists feel, the constant discharge of the hot water could raise the temperature of a lake or a stream enough to alter the ecology of the area, wiping out whatever species of life normally lived there.

An alternative to dumping superheated water in lakes and rivers is the use of cooling towers that can evaporate 10 to 20 million gallons of water a day. In some weather, such towers can produce local fogging and icing conditions, but those problems are not considered serious.

One thing is certain: Solving the nation's energy and pollution problems will require acceptance of new procedures, costing money that electric utilities previously have been reluctant to spend.

FIGURES SHOW

In 1968, FPC figures show, electric utility companies spent $38 million on research and development—less than one quarter of 1 per cent of their operating revenues.

There was, according to industry spokesmen, good reason for the low level of research. Rates charged by electric utilities involved in interstate operation were set by the FPC and did not allow for recovery of such expenses.

Last August, the FPC altered it regulations to permit electric utility companies to pass research costs on to customers by including a portion of the expenditures in the rate base.

Some research already is under way. The TVA, for example, is studying a method of cleaning up coal stack gases. Such research will cost TVA's customers. The utility estimates that by 1990, 25 per cent of the consumers' electric bills will go to cover the cost of environmental cleanup.

BRIGHTER SIDE

But some see a brighter side.

"This crisis we're in, well, I kind of look at it as a good thing in the long run," said White House aide Freeman. "It's sort of an early warning system. I'm personally encouraged that we're finally getting some attention paid to the problem of the quality of life, finally beginning to recognize that there is something more to life than to see how many tons of coal we can mine and burn.

"We can develop a technology that is pollution free. The question is now whether we can do it, whether we are willing to accept the inconveniences and the costs of doing it, before we run out of time."

Tomorrow: Schizophrenic government regulation.

BSP Speaker Urges Moral Responsibility

"Every indivilual must have a moral standard to become any kind of person," said Miss Pam Dyer during her program, "Am I morally Responsible?" given Monday evening for Phi Zeta Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi.

Miss Dyer pointed out ways in which a person may make himself morally responsible and committed to certain ways and ideas. She defined the word, moral, as "characterized by excellence in what pertains to practice or conduct; right and proper," concluding by saying that one's morals have a great influence on other people.

Mrs. Joe Schalk announced more details on the annual BSP Valentine Ball to be held Feb. 6 at Big Spring Country Club. Tickets will be $5 per couple. The chapter Christmas party will be held at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 21 at the Spanish Inn Restaurant, when the winner of a blender will be announced. A LOVELIER YOU

Bare Shoulder Dress Takes Special Fitting

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: I have a new evening dress that bares one shoulder. And what I thought was a good strapless bra. On first wearing I was distressed to find that a roll of flesh developed above the bra in back and came into view on the low side of the dress. My back is not fat, just well-padded. But what's to do except reduce?

The Answer: Baretop designs have a tendency to cause a roll. This is due in part to the construction of the bodice along the top line. It has to be snug in order to stay put. Yet, if it is too snug, that pesky roll is sure to form. Obviously expert fitting is required.

Also crucial to a low dress of any sort is the fit of the bra beneath. A dress really should be fitted over it. Both may need adjustments.

Once the garment is perfect, the next consideration is posture. You can never slump and expect the dress to stay on course. If in spite of those measures a roll occurs, reducing is indeed necessary. This is a good routine:

Lie on back with knees bent and soles of feet on floor. Spread arms out at shoulder level with backs of hands touching floor. Now bend elbows sharply and touch fingers to ears. Tensing back and arm muscles, very slowly return arms to extended position. Repeat 20 times.

Cosden Club Use Studied

Chamber Of Commerce Proposal Accepted

The city commission Tuesday accepted a Chamber of Commerce proposal for the "orderly transition of control of the Cosden Counry Club" from its present ownership to the city after Jan. 1.

The facility becomes city property through gift of the Dora Roberts Foundation.

John Burgess, Chamber vice president, presented the plans which call for setting up an advisory board "within three or four days" to assist the city in making the final arrangements for the use of the club as a civic center.

JOHN BURGESS
'. . . right direction'

The Chamber has also agreed to pay for a professional planning consultant to come from Arlington to study possible uses of the club, and will temporarily assume the duty of booking parties and events into the club during the next year.

City Manager Larry Crow pointed out that funds for the development of the club were cut from this year's budget, but a preliminary study indicated a minimum cost of operations of $9,000 a year, not including the cost of keeping the swimming pool open or maintaining a full food service.

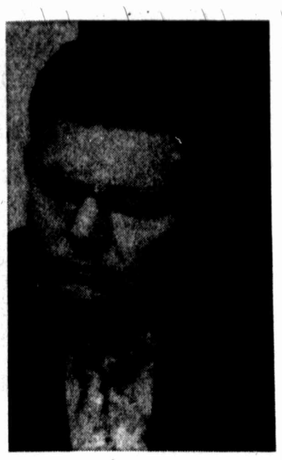

"Everyone knows that Jan. 1 the club will be shut down," Burgess said, "and there is the possibility that an expensive and valuable structure will become an eyesore." He said the Chamber is willing to help with arrangements to keep the club from deteriorating with minimum maintenance help from the city.

Included in the chamber proposal are plans to set a schedule of payments for use of the club and arrange with local businesses to provide regular catering services and other services during the interim period, keeping it open for convention meetings and party use by various organizations.

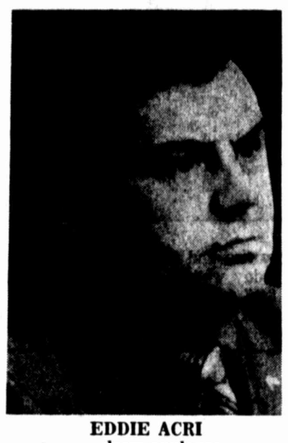

Commenting on the need for a civic center in Big Spring, Burgess said, "We feel that this is a step in the right direction. Of course it would be preferable to choose a layout and draw blueprints for a center to fit the specifications of Big Spring exactly, but a new civic center would call for a bond issue, and we think this is the proper hing to do at this time."

Chamber Manager Tom Eastland said he estimated that the proposed study would take about two months, and the advisory committee representing the interests of various segments of the community would help narrow down the planning time.

Crow said that he is planning to have a policeman live on the premises in the club apartment to help keep the facilities from being vandalized, and Cosden has shown a willingness to work with the city in making the apartment more habitable.

Garbage Collection Plan Is Abandoned

By HOWARD SIMMS

Backed into a corner by organized opposition, the city commission Tuesday abandoned the containerized garbage collection proposal, at least for the present.

Then a 25-cent hike in monthly residential garbage collection fees was deleted from the garbage service charge ordinance, but the remainder of the ordinance was passed, increasing commercial garbage rates.

The petition calling for a bond referendum, certified to contain 70 more valid signatures than the 1,017 required to force an election, left the commission the option of calling the election or dropping the container idea.

"In view of the petition, rather than continue with these proceedings I don't think the city is in any position to jeopardize its outstanding bonds with a $50,000 'Mickey Mouse' bond issue that obviously can't pass," said Commissioners George Zachariah. "I move we withdraw our proposal."

City Manager Larry Crow expanded on the theme, quoting a Municipal Advisory Council opinion that such a small bond issue, whether passed or not, would adversely affect the city's bond rating, and force the city to pay a higher rate of interest on the bonds, not to mention the election costs.

Zachariah's motion was seconded by Commissioner Eddie Acri and passed unanimously.

Acri suggested that an alternative to using containers in plans to improve alley cleanliness would be stricter enforcement of city ordinances against stray dogs and litterbugs. "It's not the cans, it's the people," he said. Zachariah's motion and Acri's comment drew audience applause from a crowd of approximately 30.

Commissioner Garner McAdams suggested that without the containers the garbage fee increase should also be abandoned, since the two had become tied together in the minds of so many people.

An increased scale of commercial garbage rates was approved, varying from an increase from $9 to $11 at the lower end of the scale to an increase from $27 to $32 at the upper end.

Acri and McAdams agreed that this was acceptable, since the increase was not connected to the container proposal and was agreed in budget plans.

Responding to a question from Mayor J. Arnold Marshall on whether "our so-called budget will balance" without the residential garbage rate increase, Crow said it would not balance.

Zachariah said, "The city badly needs income, and we will have to look at other sources," adding that since the garbage collection operation is not losing money the 25-cent increase would not have been justified.

City Dads Dash Through Routine Items On Agenda

City commissioners dashed through most of their agenda Tuesday, approving two certificates of occupancy for taverns, denying a $1,500 claim for damages, granting off-street parking across from the First Church of God, and increasing the water reconnect fee from $1 to $3.

The commission also passed a resolution expressing to the family of J. B. Pickle the commission's gratitude for the former mayor's "outstanding and unselfish service" in leadership and community development.

The commission approved beer licenses for Jean Burleson, who is opening Jeannie's Tavern at 300 N. Benton, and for Della A. Compton, who is the new owner of the Pastime Lounge, 511 W. 3rd.

Ismael Juarez, presented a claim for $1,500 for medical costs resulting from an auto accident near the site of street improvement work on North Runnels. On the recommendation of City Attorney Herb Prouty, the commission denied the claim, leaving Juarez to seek redress in court.

A request from Forest Robinson, pastor of the First Church of God, for permission to take out a curb across the street from the west side of the church for more parking space was approved. Commissioner George Zachariah pointed out that there was a precedent for the action in a similar case on Hillside near Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The commission voted to increase the fee charged for reconnecting water service that has been disconnected due to account delinquency, after deciding that the cost of the three service calls usually involved exceeded the $1 charge. The reconnect fee was changed to $3, and Finance Director Charles Smith breathed a sigh of relief since the $3 change has already been made on the new water bills ordered for use with the IBM computer.

Brady Lands HEW 'Plum'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, announced today that a California businessman will succeed James Farmer as assistant HEW secretary for administration.

He is Rodney H. Brady, former vice president for administration of the Hughes Tool Co., Culver City, Calif.

Brady, 37, takes office Dec. 22, the day after Farmer leaves government to lecture and write. The resignation of the Negro civil rights figure was announced by the White House Monday.

Brady, a white native of Salt Lake City, is a business graduate of the University of Utah and holds a doctorate in management control from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

He will supervise department administration and early childhood development programs.

And he will assume management responsibilities formerly held by Deputy Undersecretary Frederic Z. Malek, now presidential assistant for personnel.

Chapel Lures Former Spy

HOUSTON (AP) — Traditionally, Baptist colleges have required chapel programs with hymns and preachers.

But chapel at Houston Baptist College here, where 1,142 attend have included a U.S. senator and a former spy.

The entire new setup was organized by students who "wanted to raise the quality of chapel programs." The weekly chapel addresses by well-known speakers offers the small church school unusual diversity, they say.

All students taking compulsory chapel must pay $10 a semester to finance the program and for their money have heard Elie Abel, former NBC correspondent and now dean of the Columbia School of Journalism; Sen. Robe Packwood, R-Ore., George Christian, President Johnson's press secretary, William Stringfellow, a liberal lay theologian, Dan Tayler Moore, a former spy, and H. Ross Perot, Dallas millionaire.

Because of the change, Dr. James Massey, dean of student life at the college, says chapel is now attended by students who don't have to be there.

Labor Does Not Deserve Blame For Price Hikes?

DENVER (AP) — Organized labor does not deserve blame for recent price increases for petroleum products, the president of the Denver-based Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union said Tuesday.

A. F. Grospiron accused oil producers of raising crude oil prices for greater profits.

Oil distributors in turn are boosting gasoline prices to meet crude oil hikes, Grospiron said.

"Our union's current contract demands, even if granted in full, would not justify price increases," he said.

The Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union is negotiating for a two-year contract with 90 oil companies and service firms in the United States.

Sixty-thousand refinery, pipeline and marketing employes of most major oil companies are represented by the union.

The current contract expires Dec. 31.

Grospiron said price increases are not justified.

"Threatened shortages of some oil products—notably heating oils in the Northeastern states—are not necessary," he said. "Any shortages which exist are artifically created.

"Plenty mf crude oil is available as well as refinery capacity and transportation facilities."

Union demands in the current negotiations, listed by a spokesman, include:

—A $1 an hour wage boost over two years.

—A health and safety fund, financed by .1 per cent of refined crude oil production from the oil industry and two cents per man hour from the chemical industry

—A uniform hospitalization and medical plan funded entirely by employers.

—Three additional holidays.

—Protection for employes against plant closings.

—Pension improvements.

BOOZE, SEX, GLOOM; 'CHRISTMAS NEUROSIS'

CHICAGO (AP) — The season to be jolly makes a lot of people sad.

They are suffering from what psychiatrists often call "Christmas neurosis." The holiday makes them feel lonely, sad and depressed.

And in reactions to it, some people may drink too much or engage in extramarital affairs of sexual deviancy, or other activities in which they normally don't engage, psychiatrists have reported.

Dr. George H. Pollack, director-designate of The Institute for Psychoanalysis, says, "At times people do various things to overcome a depressed feeling." In an interview, he cited the reputation for moral looseness at Christmas office parties as an attempt to achieve "pseudo happiness."

The Thanksgiving-Christmas period is a time for family-centered festivities, says Pollack, who has made studies of psychological problems associated with anniversaries, and with reactions to mourning.

"Those who might have various kinds of unfinished business with their family — or who have no family — have a greater tendency at this time to experience loneliness, depression, sadness — a missing of togetherness."

There's no way of estimating how many people feel depressed at Christmas, he said, but for those who do, Dr. Pollack advises "doing some soul searching on their own" to try to determine what is making them unhappy. Being aware of a problem can open up mental associations which help to overcome the problem, he said. The holiday neurosis usually ends after the holiday.

And if a friend or relative has the Christmas blues, it doesn't do any good just to tell him to cheer up, Dr. Pollack said. The person has a reason for his depression. He needs to try to understand why.

He's Had Enough Of 'Sex Jungle'

LONDON (AP) — Sir John Trevelyan, Britain's movie censor for the past 12 years, is quitting because he's had enough of sex movies and wants to make way for a younger man.

Trevelyan said today that he'll be glad to be liberated from the "sex jungle" on the screen.

"When I leave this job next summer," he said, "I will have had enough of 'anything goes.'"

Trevelyan commented after the Daily Sketch reported he was quitting and quoted him as saying:

"I'm tired of the stuff we're getting now. I've had enough of American, German, Scandanavian and Italian sex films.

"Sex is a marvelous human activity—but merely to watch other people doing it is not my kind of entertainment."

Trevelyan, who a 67 has twin sons aged 11, took over Britain's Board of Film Censors 12 years ago. A former educator, he quickly won friends in the movie industry with his liberal attitudes to such then-controversial pictures as "Room at the Top" and "Saurday Night and Sunday Morning."

"Nowadays in parts of the world almost anything goes," said Trevelyan.

"Aldous Huxley once defined an intellectual as somebody sometimes occasionally interested in something other than sex. There don't seem to be many intellectuals in Europe by the films I've seen recently. Some of the stuff around London is terrible.

"But it's still not as bad as New York. I hope it never gets like that—it's a jungle."

Trevelyan said he feared sex pictures could destroy the movie industry.

"If the money is going into them there will not be better films," he asserted. "There will be fewer better films made."

Two Goodfellow Airmen Seek Release From Duty

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Legal steps seeking release from the armed forces as conscientious objectors have been taken by two men stationed here at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

Separate suits were filed Dec. 3 by Airman 1.C. Gregory L. Palmer and Airman 1.C. Jonathan O. Lawson.

Palmer first reported for active duty March 17, 1969, according to his petition. He completed his application for separation and discharge Aug. 24 and it was disapproved Nov. 16.

Lawson enlisted Feb. 6, 1969, and applied for separation and discharge Oct. 19. His request also was denied Nov. 16.

Both claim that "certain irregularities" occurred on the part of Air Force personnel who prejudiced them and denied them fair opportunity to be recognized as bona fide conscientious objectors.

The suits ask that the Air Force show cause for its refusal to grant the dismissal applications and that the court issue a writ of habeas corpus granting the petitioners appropriate relief.

They ask further that, pending hearing and disposition of the case, the Air Force be ordered to keep the two men at Goodfellow Air Force Base in their present status and be enjoined from ordering the airmen to participate in any type of training involving the use of weapons, specifically security training.

Both men were ordered to report for security service training Tuesday.

House Votes To Keep SST Program Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has given new life to the American supersonic transport program and in the process presented the Senate with a strong test of its opposition to the SST.

The House voted 213 to 174 Tuesday against accepting the Senate defeat of $290 million to continue development of the 1,800-mile-an-hour aircraft.

The differing versions now go to a conference committee where the House members are expected to fight for a restoration of at least part of the funds.

The Senate turned back the SST program 52 to 41 last week in a surprising show of strength by SST opponents that brought on vigorous criticism by President Nixon.

NO LOWER

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who led the successful Senate fight against the SST, said he would use "all the resources at my disposal" if any of the money is restored in conference. Aides said that could include a filibuster.

Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, where the Boeing Co. is developing the 298-passenger delta-wing jetliner, said he is "cautiously optimistic" the House vote means the plane will be kept alive.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., leader of the House conferees, said they will press for something less than the original $290 million, but named no lower figure.

The seven Senate conferees, though morally bound to press the Senate's anti-SST position, line up 4 to 3 in favor of the SST.

Boland told the House more than $100 million of the $290 million already has been committed through January under interim authority. That is one compromise figure being mentioned. Another is $145 million, half the administration's request.

Either would keep the program alive, but both likely would delay development, which now calls for the first American SST test flight early in 1973 and regular passenger flights in 1980.

HIGH FARES

Opponents charged before the House vote that the plane would foul the atmosphere and ultimately could cost the taxpayers more than $5 billion, while only 2 per cent of them would fly it because of high fares.

But House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said scrapping the plane while a British-French combine readies its Concorde SST for passenger flights in 1974 would be "one of the most serious mistakes in our history."

Ford repeated Nixon's contention that killing the SST will cost 150,000 jobs nationwide. He said the government would lose $1 billion in eventual profit on its SST investment and the nation would suffer a $17 billion balance of payments loss.

But Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., leading the opposition, said the 150,000-job figure is a projection of work SST production would bring, not a reflection of jobs currently held.

Yates said taxpayers would have to pay the plane's $3-billion to $4-billion manufacturing cost, as well as the $1.3 billion in federal money planned for development.

Falcon Reservoir Water Rights Rule

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court upheld today a historic decision determining water rights on the American side of the Rio Grande from Falcon Reservoir South of Laredo to the Gulf.

The court said, without a written opinion, that there was no reversible error in lower court decisions in the case.

The 15-year-old lawsuit affects nearly a million persons and more than 850,000 acres of some of the state's highest-priced farmland in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The Court of Civil Appeals decision called the case unique and noted that it was made more difficult by the fact that "change has been the most constant thing about the Rio Grande since mankind has attempted to put this natural resource to beneficial use."

The court cited a 1906 treaty between the United States and Mexico that apportioned waters of the river. It cited the constitutional principal that treaties are given equal standing with the supreme law of the land.

The treaty gives 58 per cent of the water to American users.

"It is known historically that if one sovereign does not maintain a strict control over its citizens and political subdivisions, seeing that they divert only their share of water and not the other nation's share, then the correlative right of extraction of water by some citizens of the other nation does not invite close supervision or control. Such antagonistic interests feed upon greed and each tries to outdo the other," the court said.

The decision established priority classifications for division of the water, based upon compliance with state law and with previous use of the water.

Amarillo Firemen Sue City

AMARILLO (AP) — Amarillo firemen are suing the city because of a salary dispute which, firemen say, involves channeling half of their cost of living pay increase into a pension fund.

Tom Upchurch, attorney for the International Association of Firefighters Local 542, said the firemen wanted to settle the dispute in the courts rather than by a work stoppage.

The city is paying its employes a 6 per cent cost of living increase, but half of the firemen's 6 per cent is being directed to their pension fund, Upchurch said.

Firemen had voted last December to increase their contributions to the fund from 6 to 9 per cent and by state law the city is required to match he contribution.

The firemen claim they are now being discriminated against because the city is using half of the cost of living pay increase as their matching contribution to the pension fund.

Upchurch filed suit in 47th District Court.

City Manager John Stiff said the firemen received larger pay increases than other city employes in years past.

Aged Witnesses Testify During Vote Fraud Trial

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)— Government lawyers continued today to present testimony from elderly persons as the vote fraud trial of 21 Starr County residents continued in U.S. District Court.

The Mexican-American defendants are accused of conspiring to dilute the vote in the May 2 Democratic Primary election in the border county.

The case is being heard by U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza and is being presented to a jury of seven women and five men. Eleven of the 12 jurors are Mexican-Americans and one of the two alternates is a Mexican-American man.

Testimony got under way Monday afternoon and has been slowed because all witnesses except a government lawyer have required the use of an interpreter as the questions are translated into Spanish and the answers are translated into English. Most of the witnesses had marked their ballot with a "mark" instead of a signature.

The trial comes as the climax of an extensive federal investigation following the recording of a record absentee vote in the always politically volatile county. Out of a total vote of 6,168 in the primary, there were 1,203 absentee ballots cast. Of that total, most cited physical illness as the reason for seeking an absentee ballot.

Starr County Sheriff Rene Solis, a medical doctor and defendant in the case, signed most of the certifications. Asst. U.S. Atty. Ed McDonough of Houston said Tuesday that Dr. Solis made 78 such certifications that he had examined the voters in a single day during the month before the election.

The trial is also slowed down because of the physical conditions of the mostly elderly witnesses. Witnesses appearing Tuesday included a man certified legally blind, a crippled man, two elderly women and a mentally retarded 24-year-old man.

Officers Nab 4 Suspected Black Felons

DALLAS (AP) — Peace officers nabbed four men, all reported by police to be members of the Black Panthers, at or near a South Dallas apartment house Tuesday on charges of unlawful flight from California.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation first picked up Elmer G. Pratt, 23, of Morgan City, La., and Melvin C. Smith, 42, of Kansas City, Mo., on the street.

After nightfall city police joined the FBI men in surrounding the apartment house where they arrested Willie E. Stafford, 18, of Detroit, Mich., and Roland H. Freeman, 25, of Beaumont, Tex.

All the prisoners were accused of fleeing Los Angeles to avoid prosecution on assorted felony charges.

In addition officers jailed two women, 21 and 22, taken into custody on a nearby school known to be companions of the arrested quartet, were trying to take a rifle into the apartment house where two other fugitives were believed to be hiding.

FBI agents said Smith and Stafford, likewise face charges of conspiring to commit murder, conspiring to assault a policeman with a deadly weapon and failing to appear for trial on those complaints.

They reported Pratt is accused also of false imprisonment and assault with a deadly weapon, and Freeman with battery.

Sentiment Against Giving In To Political Kidnapers

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Sentiment is increasing in Brazil's military government against making concessions to the kidnapers of Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher.

Authoritative sources say a growing hard-line faction feels that if the government gives in every time there is a political kidnaping, there will be a spiral of abductions.

BAD EXAMPLE

Another faction, made up mostly of ex-army officers, is said to feel that if the government does not do its best to get Bucher released, it will be "setting a bad example and will forcibly lower its moral standing among other nations."

Brazil has gained the release of three kidnaped diplomats in the past two years by bowing to terrorist demands for the freeing of political prisoners.

In Bern, Swiss government sources said they expect the Brazilian government to meet promptly whatever terms the kidnapers might be demanding for Bucher's release.

Officials said they had no confirmation yet of what the demands were, but that Switzerland will insist that any terms including the release of political prisoners be met.

Police and officials were studying two documents they said were the first word from the terrorists who kidnaped the ambassador.

IN BAD SHAPE

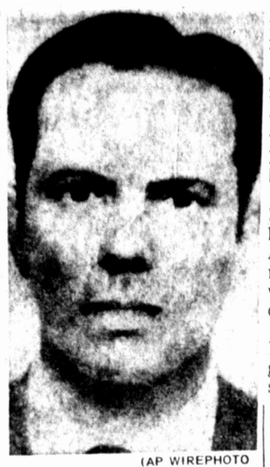

One of the documents was said to be a manifesto from the kidnapers, and the other reportedly was a letter written by Bucher. Both were said to be hand-written in French.

Someone called the Swiss Embassy Tuesday afternoon and said an envelope containing the documents had been left at a Roman Catholic church in suburban Tijuca. Police picked up the envelope and began checking the authenticity of the documents.

Police had received several previous notes purportedly from the kidnapers but had ruled them "unauthentic" because they contained nothing from Bucher to prove that he was being held by the senders.

Bucher was snatched from his limousine at gunpoint while on his way to the Swiss Embassy. A Brazilian federal police agent riding with him as a bodyguard was wounded and was in critical condition in a hospital.

A terrorist group called the Popular Revolutionary Vanguard, or VPR, has claimed responsibility for the kidnaping.

MISCEGENATION LAW ASKED

White Viet Vet Weds Black Fiancee In 'Bama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that an Alabama law against the intermarriage of whites and Negroes is unconstitutional.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Sam C. Pointer made the finding Tuesday in a suit filed against the state of Alabama and a probate judge by the U.S. Justice Department.

The suit came after a Vietnam veteran stationed at Ft. McClellan, Sgt. Louis Voyer, 21, of Hudson, Mass., complained that he and his black fiancee, Phyllis Bett, 17, were denied a marriage license Nov. 10.

The two were married anyway last Friday in Clarksville, Tenn.

Judge Pointer said laws that make it a felony for a Negro to marry a Caucasian and a misdemeanor for a probate judge to issue a license to such persons are in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment.

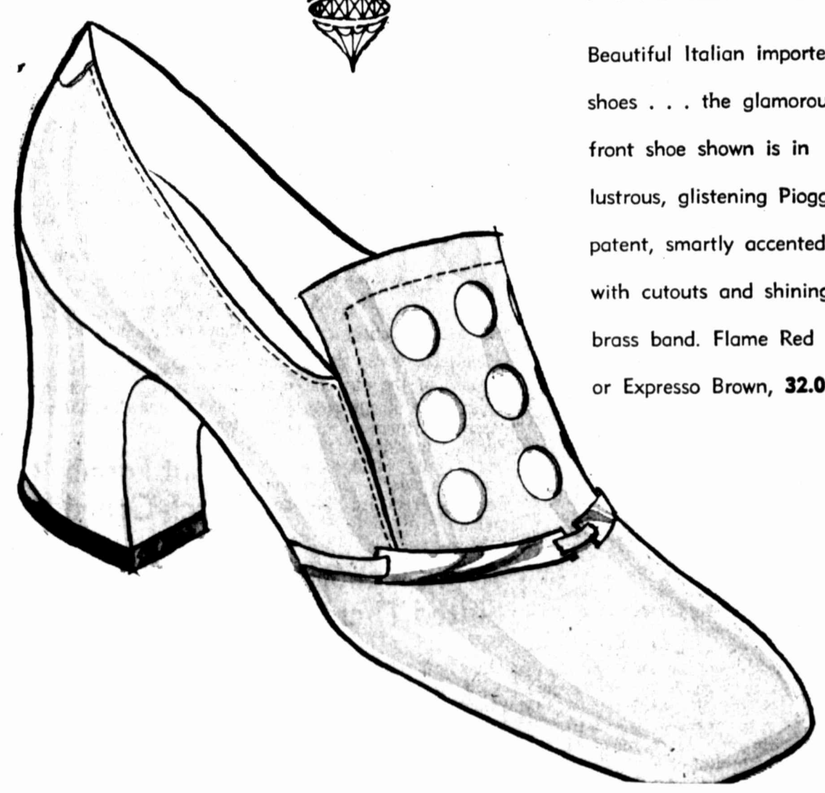

He said such laws were voided in 1967 by a unanimous decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in a similar case in Virginia.

When the suit was filed, John Bookout, deputy assistant Alabama attorney general, was asked whether the court's decision in the Virginia case did not apply to Alabama.

He answered that the decision was binding only on Virginia and the Alabama law was valid until specifically struck down.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1970 SEC. B

(AP WIREPHOTO MAP)

CAMBODIANS ALTER STRATEGY — Map locates the Lon Nol Line, named after Cambodia's Premier and senior general, which the Cambodian general staff hopes to establish to prevent a Communist takeover. Enemy forces control a vast portion of country's heartland (shaded area) and the general staff is willing to concede them more in an effort to prevent an over-all collapse. Kompong Thom, within the shaded area, is still held by the government.

Communists Force Mood Of Realism

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Recent sweeping Communist gains have forced a new mood of realism on the Cambodian General Staff. It has decided reluctantly that still more territory must be given up, at least temporarily, qualified diplomatic sources report.

Present hopes of preventing a Communist takeover are tied to establishing the Lon Nol Line, named after the Cambodian premier who is also the nation's senior general. That means abandoning plans to retake major sections of the nation's heartland. The hope is that the new plan will permit effective defense of the most vital parts of the country, the sources said.

The Lon Nol Line would begin west of Battambang, in the northwest, pass south of the huge lake Tonle Sap, and then turn eastward through Kompong Cham, the present eastern anchor of the high command's shattered northern front.

GREEN ARMY

Although diplomats now credit the high command with making a far more realistic evaluation of the threat to Gen. Lon Nol's regime, some fear that even the modified heartland tactics may prove too much for the burgeoning but largely green Cambodian army.

Western experts now wonder whether the government will be able to put its northern front on Highway 7 back together without massive South Vietnamese intervention. There is some doubt whether long-term and massive South Vietnamese operations will be forthcoming.

Six months ago Lon Nol in effect decided to give up nearly half of Cambodia in hopes of holding the area of the largest population and food production. Since then the Communists have taken all the heartland north of the Tonle Sap, east of Siem Reap and north of Kompong Cham. The new plan would mean abandoning government pledges to recapture this area and would be a major loss of face for the regime.

'Oil' Governors Ask Nixon To Reconsider

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — President Nixon has been asked by governors of four oil producing states to reconsider two orders designed to curtail crude oil and gasoline price hikes.

The governors sent a telegram to the White House after Tuesday's concluding session of the 33-state Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

In a separate action however, the compact commended Nixon for retaining an oil import quota system instead of switching to graduated tariffs as recommended by a presidential task force.

The oil and gas conservationists also called upon Congress for immediate and effective remedial legislation in view of an imminent fuel crisis they said is resulting in part from federal control of wellhead prices of gas sold into interstate commerce.

Last Friday Nixon reacted to a 25 cent per barrel increase in crude oil prices by ordering the Interior Department to take over from the individual coastal states the responsibility of regulating production from undisputed federal offshore leases. He also said overseas import quotas could be used to import more Canadian crude.

Signing the telegram Tuesday were Gov. Dewey F. Bartlett, Republican of Oklahoma, the compact chairman; and Govs. Preston Smith, Democrat of Texas; Stanley K. Hathaway, Republican of Wyoming and David F. Cargo, Republican of New Mexico.

They said they were concerned by Nixon's recent criticism of state regulatory agencies as contributing to higher prices through use of controls that cause artificial market shortages. They expressed concern also that the Office of Economic Preparedness had advised Nixon that such state regulations are not essential to the national security.

Dirty Movies On Way Out?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, says dirty movies are on the way out.

"My judgement is the sexpolitation film, mostly imported rom abroad or made cheaply and quickly in this country, is fading," Valenti said. "The young and educated find this trash unenlightening, and what is more to the point, boring."

Middle East Talks Urged By Russians

By The Associated Press

The Soviet Union called today for the "quickest possible" resumption of Middle East peace negotiations.

It said talks under U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring are the "path to a peaceful settlement" that could "guarantee to all peoples of the Near East . . . an independent, secure existence within secure frontiers."

Israel withdrew from the Jarring talks in August, accusing Egypt of violating a standstill ceasefire along the Suez Canal by installing anti-aircraft missile batteries.

Speaking through a signed editorial in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, the Kremlin said Israel "and its allies in Washington" want to prolong the present "no peace, no war" situation in the region and make Israeli occupation of Arab territories "a fait accompli."

In another development, Tunisian Premier Bahi Ladgham, head of a top-level Arab reconciliation committee to Jordan, arrived in Amman today at the request of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to investigate the past two days of fighting between King Hussein's troops and the Palestinian commandos in Jerash, 24 miles north of the Jordanian capital.

He will study means of implementing the Amman-Cairo agreement, reached between the Jordanian army and the commandos after the civil war in September.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan flew to the United States today for meetings in Washington. Dayan originally was to visit the United States to appear at fund-raising functions for the United Jewish Appeal, but the Israeli government commissioned him to discuss problems of the Middle East while in Washington.

King Hussein of Jordan talked with Nixon Tuesday.

In Cairo, the British government initiated exchanges with Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Yemen, continuing the Conservative regime's policy of closer ties with Arab nations.

And Leave The Driving To Us . . .

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — A duck strolled nonchalantly through downtown Paris during rush-hour traffic a few days ago, disrupting motorists and violating all sorts of laws.

The wayward foul survived, despite running one red light and jay-walking in front of a police car, and was last seen waddling south.

Observers theorized that the feathered pedestrian just decided to walk south instead of flying.

Manpower Training Pay Bill Cut $2.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee has cut $2.5 billion from a public service jobs and manpower training bill in hopes of avoiding a presidential veto.

The conferees first announced a $12 billion bill had been agreed upon Tuesday, but they went back into session and made the cuts after Republicans said President Nixon would be likely to turn back the higher measure.

The bill provides for a major change in operation of the manpower training programs, which have been running for eight years.

Mayors and the governors would take over the programs, shifting federal responsibility to the Labor Department, cutting out the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Also, the manpower programs would be extended three years.

Also in the bill, were special funds for public service jobs.

The public service positions would be designated locally, by mayors and governors, and probably would include positions in schools, hospitals, and police and fire departments, among others.

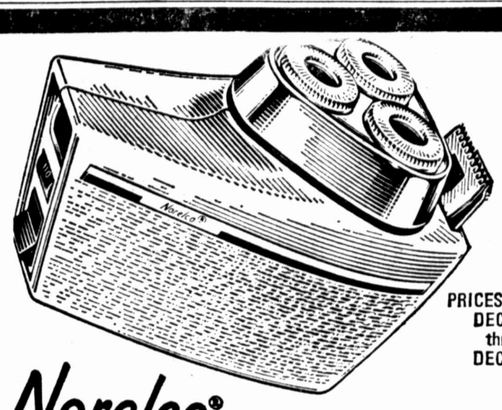

Nelson estimated there would be 150,000 new jobs provided in the first year of the program and 300,000 in the next.

The Bench Hath Spoken

Thank heaven for judicial courage.

Men on the bench are used to handing down decisions when lesser men would quail if not quiver and certainly quake.

And never was a jurist more deserving of praise for his courage than is Chief Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Louisiana.

Judge Dawkins, letting the dictates of prudence go ignored, has handed down a milestone ruling. The judge has dared to enter the mini-midi-maxi-pants suit question, and resolve it.

In an order drawn up in legal form and delivered under court order to The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., for publication in this Washington publisher's information service for business and professional use, Judge Dawkins gives his court's official imprimatur to the pants suit. and he ranks hem lengths in order of preference as well.

Judge Dawkins' rankings of skirt lengths, in descending order of acceptabilty: Mini (but not mini-mini) skirts, knee-length skirts, midi skirts, and maxi skirts — which the judge legally describes as "abominable" and prohibited.

Pants suits he deals with separately, and they receive the judicial stamp of approval thusly: "Especially mindful of their secure protection when Arctic blasts blow enabling BOTH hands to be free for other good and useful purposes, they accordingly are not merely condoned but wholeheartedly approved and enthusiastically supported."

So there it is.The judge has written a legal finis to the skirt length debate. As we said, thank heavens; we'll rest on his authority as precedent, Paris dictates notwithstanding.

Hanoi's Different Values

Washington's concern and Hanoi's lack of conern for prisoners of war is a study in contrasts. We have promised to exchange 35,000 North Vietnamese prisoners of war for all American prisoners. Hanoi hasn't even bothered to acknowledge the offer.

There may be a number of reasons why Hanoi lacks interest. It may fear fifth columnists. It may despise those who failed to die instead of being taken prisoner. It may reckon that a young, trained recruit is much more valuable than an older one who has undergone captivity.

The real reason may be the characteristically Oriental belief that human life is cheap. Of course human life is cheap. But the West has tended to enlarge the worth of the individual, giving him stature and worth, while the East has operated on the belief that human beings are worthwhile only to the degree that they make valuable contributions to the state.

During World War II, for instance, the Japanese exhibited a complete lack of interest in any prisoners of war captured by Allied troops. Part of this was psychological, since troops were indoctrinated to such a degree that death in combat was glorified and being taken prisoner a shame to the individual, to his family, and to his country. But the attitude partook, too, of the Oriental disregard of the worth of an individual.

Thus we can be expected to go to great lengths to exchange, to try to liberate by commando raids, our prisoners of war. Hanoi will continue to ignore theirs.

Social Life Centers Around Nutt House

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

When you're crying great tears about the decline of the small town, buck up your spirits a bit with a look at Granbury.

This town southwest of Fort Worth seems to have come to grips with the inevitable change in America's rural destiny and carved out for itself the kind of life many people would like.

In other words, it is the sort of home town that immigrants to the city believe they grew up in — a sort of return to the dreamland of childhood.

Granbury sits in what once was one of the most important areas of Texas. Among other things, what was to become Texas Christian University was here.

NOW IT IS a town of about 725 persons, centering around a well-kept square which has a well preserved white stone court house topped by a chocolate and whipped cream tower.

There is no evidence of the decay some towns show.

And, since Granbury is not on one of the big super-highways, it has none of the garnishess caused by new businesses catering to travelers.

Newest building in town, a casual inspection indicates, is the library given by Floyd West, a noted Dallas insurance man who owns an extensive ranch a little way out of town. His father and mother settled nearby in what is now Hood County when Indians still roamed there. The library structure is in the architectural tone with the rest of Granbury.

The people are well dressed, busy and seemingly happy.

Generally speaking, the economic health of the area can be measured by the price of ranches. Where land sold for about $20 an acre two decades ago, you'd better start talking around $150 now and expect to go higher.

THE PUBLIC social life of the community seems to center around the Nutt House, a name that may cause some slight smiles to the tenderfoot but one which is sacred to the history of Hood County.

The name first appeared with the arrival of Jesse and Jake Nutt and the establishment of their first store in 1866. They donated 40 acres as the Granbury townsite, along with Thomas Lambert.

Both Nutt brothers were blind. Their store was a 16x22-foot log cabin with an attached wagon yard—to the youngsters reading this a wagon yard was the forerunner of today's parking lot, except with horses, wagons, buggies and usually the traditional town drunk.

THE PRESENT Nutt House was built of hand hewn stone in 1893 and one of its best-patronized sections then was a saloon.

Today the major portion of the Nutt House is the dining room and hotel.

You know peace fills the air when you approach the door, for sleeping just inside in the sun is a big white cat named Mutt. The cat, however, does not sleep on the traditional windowsill. Mutt is a very smart cat. He sleeps on the safe.

Upstairs are 17 hotel rooms that in a way take you back to 1893. Each room has a screen door. If there are any other interior hotel screen doors in Texas today we haven't seen them. The bathroom is conveniently in the middle of everything.

YOU CROSS the polished floor of the lobby with its green throw rugs and are in the dining room with the long tables which contribute to togetherness of the diners. On a recent Sunday, the lobby was filled with persons waiting their turn.

Operator now is Mary Lou Watkins, a personable, youngish woman in partnership with a school friend, Rosemary Gould. Mary Lou is the third generation of the Nutt family in the building.

Church rivalry in Granbury must be intense. The Presbyterians recently advertised in the local newspaper a new service beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Reason, said the advertisement, was so worshippers "can beat the Baptists to the Nutt House for Sunday dinner."

Billy Graham

I am fifteen years old and I lost my mother six months ago. At the funeral the minister said: "This wonderful woman will never have to worry about dying the second death." What did he mean? A.C.

The Bible teaches that the saved people die once, and the unsaved experience two deaths. Someone has put it this way: if we are born twice we die once, and if we are born only once, we die twice. At the sinner's judgment (Rev. 20: 11-15) the wicked dead are raised, judged, and cast into hell, together with death itself. This is the "second death," or eternal separation from God (Rev. 20:14), the final state of the wicked. "And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. THIS IS THE SECOND DEATH. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire."

Obviously, your mother was a good Christian woman, and that is what the preacher meant when he said, she would never have to die the second time.

In these days when many mothers evade their spiritual responsibility, what satisfaction you must have in knowing that your mother was a true follower of Jesus Christ! I would rather have a mother who has gone on to be with the Lord, than a living mother whose life has never been committed to Christ. While you are physically orphaned, spiritually you have a treasure that will endure forever. May God richly bless you and keep you.

Money Misconceptions

NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone has preconceptions and misconceptions about money, especially when it involves their own wages and budgets, but here are a few on a vastly larger scale:

—Corporate gifts to colleges and universities are way down this year because of the recession, student criticism of the establishment and campus disorders.

Far from the truth. The Independent College Funds of America, made up of state and regional fund raising groups, reports that corporate support of higher education continues to increase this year.

Thirteen state associations, for example, report increases for the 1969-1970 fiscal year ranging from 5 to 15 per cent over a year ago, helping to bring the total contributed through such funds to $18 million.

The experience of the more inclusive Council for Financial Aid to Education tends to varify the finding.

"Almost everyone thinks we are doing poorly," a spokesman said, "but things have held up very well." Last year, he said, some $220 million was contributed.

He noted that in 1968, for the first time in years, there was no increase in corporate giving, but that the figures began rising again in 1969 and that "within our experience and observation" there is no marked drop this year.

—Deaths, injuries and economic loss from traffic accidents, as usual, are heading for another record year.

The Insurance Information Institute claims this is not the case. It expects declines in all three categories. The economic loss category is expected to drop for the first time in the 25 years for which records exist.

The institute projects 55,400 fatalities, or 1,000 fewer than in 1969. Injuries are expected to total 4.95 million, a reduction of 60,200. And economic losses are seen dropping $582 million to a total of $16 billion.

The institute notes that "while a continuing and significant downward trend in economic loss ultimately would lead to a reduction in automobile insurance rates, such a reduction would take time in coming because of the many months—even years—it takes for accident experience to be reflected in ratemaking statistics."

—The introduction of minicars by Detroit is finally stemming the tide of imports from Europe and Japan, which had been taking an increasingly large share of the American market.

Early signals indicate otherwise. In December, 1969, foreign cars, most of them small models, accounted for 11 per cent of all U.S. sales. Last month, a Wall Street Journal survey shows, they took 19 per cent of the market.

The General Motors strike changed the figures to some extent by slowing delivery of the new Vega minicar. But Volkswagen sales also may have been less than average because of production troubles.

You're Doing Okay If . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — Most car owners see that their vehicles get a winter checkup to be sure they are in good condition to withstand the rigors of the cold months.

It might be well if everyone also at this time took a personal inventory of himself to see how his status is faring. For without status in this prestige-conscious world, he is lower than a barnacle on a sunken ship.

Here are a few easy ways to tell how you stand in the social and economic pecking order. You're doing okay if—

Bill collectors take off their hats and apologize before asking you to pay up.

You are planning to give your wife a second mink coat for Christmas, and an imported sports car to your son.

The boss asks you to take a winter vacation in Florida with him so you can help improve his golf game.

At the annual officer dinner the young wife of the senior vice president plays kneesie-under-the-table with you.

The bartender who used to call you Jack now addresses you as Mr. Tubbs and always serves you first if you come in with a group.

A parking place with your name on it is reserved for you outside the company plant. The memo pad you doodle on also bears your name, of course.

You have two secretaries—a beautiful Girl Friday to look at and take to lunch and a homely Girl Monday to do all your work.

Your monthly salary is mailed directly to your bank, so you won't have to soil your hands with sordid cash.

Yes, there is no doubt about it, you have become one of the beautiful people of the world. As the vulgar herd say it, you've "got it made."

On the other hand, you've suffered a slide back down the ladder of prestige and success if—

Your hippie daughter hasn't led even one successful riot.

Before the bank will cash your check—even a paycheck—the guard hovers over your shoulder while the teller holds a long whispered consultation with one of the bank's officers.

Your wife buys most of her clothing at a thrift shop.

As you leave the office on Friday, nobody—not even the janitor—bothers to tell you, "Have a nice weekend."

The people next door move away because you're giving the neighborhood a bad name and running down property values. Their own name, by the way, is the Joneses.

What About Sitting In A Draft?

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In an air-conditioned office, is it harmful if the cool air from a vent blows on the side of the neck each day? Or is such a breeze harmful when riding in the back seat of a car?

I have heard that, if one has a good constitution, drafts are harmless, but also have heard people complain constantly about drafts, fearing a stiff neck or cold or something.—E.H.

I'll go so far as to say that cold drafts can produce muscle problems — stiff neck and that sort of thing.

I also have known individuals working in the direct draft of an air conditioner to have intestinal problems which disappeared when they changed location.

Yet if you ask why this is, I have to plead ignorance — nor have I ever read a satisfactory explanation. It just seems to happen in some instances.

Prolonged exposure is usually necessary to produce any ill effect. Gentle breezes should do no harm. But I do have to go along with the idea that drafts can both some people.

I do not, however, credit the commonly-expressed notion that one catches cold simply by sitting in a draft (or from getting one's feet wet). Colds are caused by viruses, and the viruses have been collected and examined in laboratories often enough to eliminate any possible question as to whether they are the cause of colds.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps," for which I enclose 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

I also have trouble with both arms going numb when I am asleep. Would special diet help circulation?—V.T.

No, diet won't help circulation. Leg cramps very often are due, in part or more than in part, to deficient circulation This is seldom the case with arms going numb at night. More likely it is a matter of pressure on nerves or the position of your arms while asleep. A common basis of the trouble often is a certain amount of arthritis in the neck spine, with pressure on the nerves there when you lie down. Changing position of the head helps.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 14-year-old daughter hasn't started menstruating. I am afraid there might be something wrong with her.—Mrs. T.

Not necessarily. If she's healthy, normal, and not overweight, she may be just a slightly late starter. If her general health isn't up to par, though, it's time for a check.

* * *

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Three Native Sons

When Reuben Williams died last week in Dallas, he was the last and perhaps least known of three Big Spring men to whom many natives first pointed as "home town boys who made good." Of course, there were others who had experienced substantial degrees of achievement, and others were to follow, but these three were sort of examples to young people.

THE FIRST to achieve a high mark of distinction, I suppose, was Blake van Leer, who had been befriended here by Mr. and Mrs. John Ward. After graduation from Big Spring High School he went on to earn bachelor and masters degrees in electrical engineering at Purdue, then took a master of mechanical engineering from the University of California before studying in the University of Caen (France) and University of Munich (Germany). He served in both World War I and II (as a colonel). He received several honorary doctorates, headed numerous professional organizations, was a leading authority on hydraulics, was president of the Southeast Athletic Conference and president of Georgia Tech.

IT WAS IN the latter capacity that he was invited back to deliver the commencement address on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the first graduating class for Big Spring High School. A brilliant man, he nevertheless was warm and approachable. A key as to his character was revealed when Georgia Tech was being pressured to cancel a game because there was a Negro on the opposing team. Dr. Van Leer met the criticism head-on, declaring that Georgia Tech had agreed to a game, and an agreement was an agreement and color had nothing to do with principle.

JOHN QUINN was a native son who perhaps did not have the inate ability to grasp as quickly as Dr. Van Leer, but he made up for this dogged determination. His mother, Mrs. Mabel Quinn, told how she frequently went to his room long after midnight, literally ordering him to bed. He protested once: "But Mother, knowledge is so vast. . ."

He acquired his share of it and more. After graduating from Big Spring High, he went to Wentworth Academy to prepare for an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy where he made an outstanding academic record and was captain of a national championship pistol team. He eventually rose to rank of rear admiral in the regular Navy and was an expert in ordinance, although he had many commands at sea, including a cruiser during World War II. He always kept in touch with his home town, contributing to the United Fund, and special projects. He was every inch a disciplined, gracious gentleman.

REUBEN WILLIAMS was younger than the other two, but in state politics he made an outstanding mark. When growing up here, where his father operated a dry goods store and specialized in W. L. Douglas shoes, he made a fine record in high school. Reuben was cast in the shadow of his brother, Morris, whom a Chatauqua speaker once projected as a great lawyer to be, but Morris died as a young attorney, and it was Reuben who went on to achieve distinction. He sensed the popular wave for W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel and managed his historic campaign (that upset every political apple cart in sight) for governor in 1938, again in 1940, and then the O'Daniel senate campaign in 1941. Gov. O'Daniel named him life insurance commissioner and chairman of the insurance commission, then elevated him to highway commissioner from 1941-47.

ONE OF HIS first acts was to help with designation and improvement of the highways to Garden City and then to Andrews, and the groundwork for the direct route to Snyder. Like the others, he was a quiet, yet articulate and sincerely interested man who was proud of his home-town.

More And More On The Welfare Rolls

WASHINGTON — With Swinburne, I eschew "the sexless orgies of morality" for a number of reasons, not the least of which is that the purse-lipped approach seldom works as a practical policy of government. As some anonymous statesman once noted, it is impossible to make sex unpopular with the masses.

But while going along with the premise that fun is fun, the accountant in me whimpers that there should be an official limit to the number of illegitimate children we working stiffs are made to support. Two or three per mother, perhaps? Six? Nine? Realism, I suppose, suggests that we draw the line at the 16 out-of-wedlock tads produced by a welfare mother in Manhattan.

WHAT BRINGS the subject of romance, illicit if sweet, into this space is a report by New York City's Health and Social Services Departments which reveals that more than 60 per cent of that wretched hamlet's illegitimate children are born to women on the welfare rolls. The total of such births has more than tripled, from 5,128 to 16,226, since 1959, and rose by about 12 per cent in 1969 over 1968.

I suggest that these statistics are a matter of economic concern for the taxpayer. These children become wards of the taxpayer from birth and, indeed, usually grow into adulthood to produce more out-of-wedlock offspring for our cities to support.

WELFARE ROLLS across the nation have increased sharply in recent months, and in almost every state aid for dependent children accounted for the bulk of the increase. Almost three-fifths of the increase in this category came in the last half of the fiscal year which ended June 30, during which 1.7 million children were added to the dole to push to total caseload to 8.3 million.

That is perhaps the most unfortunate aspect of this dreary situation. Most of these children are in fact unwanted, and once they are brought into the world they are condemned to the miserable life that awaits the unwanted. In too many cases, they are permitted to be born simply to add a few more bucks to the family income, precious little of which is lavished on the kids.

UNFORTUNATELY, too, most of the out-of-wedlock births occur in black families whose circumstances can least afford it. New York's study showed that the rate of illegitimate births exeeded 40 per cent among nonwhites, 25 per cent among Puerto Ricans and only 6 per cent among whites. Such figures can only reflect the tragedy to Negroes who, with their civil rights now secure, still have the toughest row to hoe of all Americans.

I SUPPOSE the best explanation for the mess was offered to the New York Times by George Murphy, New Hampshire's welfare director. "Where there used to be some shame attached to receiving welfare," said Murphy, "now people are told to 'Go get it, it's yours.'"

The mess is the strongest argument for President Nixon's Family Assistance Plan (FAP), even though it would bring several million more persons onto the welfare rolls, with the Federal government picking up the tab. As suggested here previously, FAP deserves at least a trial run because eventually it would subsidize poor working fathers and force relief recipients to take jobs or job-training courses.

—And The Economy Drifts On

WASHINGTON — Politically speaking, the Democratic leaders who urged President Nixon to impose a temporary freeze on wages and prices took what seemed a popular step, but the proposal calls for "voluntary restraints and guidelines" rather than any mandatory action. The chances are that the President has already decided that the system of "voluntary restraints and guidelines" which has been tried from time to time is not going to change the present trend toward higher and higher wages and rising prices.

MR. NIXON is well aware —as Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, said — that the country cannot afford a nationwide recession or depression and that the economy cannot be allowed to drift on without some measures that will bring national stability.

The administration already has sufficient legislative power to intervene in various ways in the economy to keep prices and wages down, but it has been reluctant to do so because of a belief that the remedy might prove worse then the disease. It is argued that a disrupted economy could develop if the government arbitrarily interferes with industrial operations by fixing prices as well as wages.

TO PUT IT in a nutshell, the administration's plan is to wait out the fight with inflation on the theory that a drop-off in demand for goods will eventually bring prices down. If this forces a curtallment of production costs, it is assured that wage rates will be temporarily maintained in many industries at existing levels, at least until the nation has weathered the storm.

The administration shows no signs of taking precipitate action, and apparently is of the opinion that a slow squeeze will, in the end, keep prices from rising and wage demands from going up, too. The President is hopeful that labor and management will recognize the dangers of the upward movement on wages and prices, respectively.

SENATOR MANSFIELD, incidentally, wants the wage freeze to cover salary increases that have been planned for government employes, who are slated to get a raise of about 6 per cent in January. It is not likely that this will be adopted by Congress, as government workers have been in the main underpaid and the new scales are for the purpose of enabling them to catch up with the cost of living.

THE WHOLE problem ought never to be a matter of politics but of economics. Much can be accomplished by appeals to business and labor to exercise restraint. But if anything mandatory is needed, one wonders why Congress has not acted during the present session and passed a law requiring the President to deal with the inflationary results of the continuing spiral of rising wages and prices. The truth is Congress is willing to let things drift through a recession in the hope that stability will gradually be restored.

THE BEST OF DEAR ABBY

A vintage selection of letters received during 1970 and a sampling of what's in store for next year.

ABBY–A unique combination of wit and warmth whose resolution for 1971 is to spread more love and understanding among all her readers.

DEAR ABBY: A while back a grown man wrote in saying he liked to chew on rubber objects as it relaxed him. Then someone caught him chewing on a rubber duck and he was embarrassed. Well, tell him not to be ashamed as my husband is the best in the world and he has a similar peculiarity.

When our daughter was a baby, I found her pacifier in our bed. I thought it had dropped out of her mouth while she was in our bed, but later I found the pacifier in the drawer of our nightstand table, and I couldn't for the life of me figure out how it got there.

Then one morning I woke up early and saw my husband sound asleep with the pacifier in his mouth! We had a good laugh over it, and that evening when I fixed the baby's bottle I jokingly asked him if he wanted a bottle, too. He said yes, so I fixed him one.

He loved it, so I kept fixing him a bottle right along with the baby's. I took the baby off the bottle when she was 14 months old, but my husband still has one every night, and he is 37. Please don't use our name as my husband is well-known here. He works on the Space Program. Thank you. HAPPY WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Give my regards to your husband. He is out of this world. And so are you.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who publicly refers to his secretary as his "office wife?" HIS HOME WIFE

DEAR HOME: He's either looking for trouble. Or has found it.

DEAR ABBY: After my eighth baby was born, I asked my doctor to "tie my tubes" so I wouldn't have any more children. It's nothing new. Lots of women have it done.

Well, that was two years ago, and yesterday my husband came home and announced that he had gone down to the doctor's office and had his tubes tied! It sure sounds to me like there's another woman in his life.

Maybe I'm just dumb, but I can't understand why HE had to have that done when there was no danger of getting ME pregnant.

Do you think he's off his rocker, or just plain don't like kids. Please don't use my name. Four of my kids can read. "OVER BEARING"

DEAR OVER: No matter what your husband's faults may be, "gambling" isn't one of them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ERNIE IN LEXINGTON: Don't get excited. A "SEXAGENARIAN" means she's from 60 to 69 years old.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of a guy you don't care for? LORI

DEAR LORI: Introduce him to a GIRL you don't care for.

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter, Caroline, has started going with a guy named Angelo. He never takes her any place. He just comes over every night to watch television and wear out our sofa.

When Angelo comes over, the wife and I have to go sit in the kitchen so he and Caroline can have their privacy in the living room. I suppose we could go in our bedroom, but who wants to go to bed at 7 o'clock?

So, every night lately the wife and I sit in the kitchen like a couple of cockroaches trying to watch television on a dinky little portable.

The wife is so happy that Caroline finally has a boy friend she doesn't say a word. I am getting tired of this setup. What should I do? KITCHEN SITTER

DEAR SITTER: Send me a picture of Caroline and I'll tell you what to do.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from "ERNIE'S GIRL"—the one whose fiance wanted her to wear a chastity belt. I sympathize deeply with her because I am 15 years old and my parents make me wear one. I feel like I live in a gas station because I have to ask for the key every time I want to go to the bathroom. And you should see the stares I get from the girls in the locker room in gym class!

Abby, I have tried my best to behave in a way that would show my parents that they can trust me, but they make me wear this thing anyway. I don't think it is fair to be punished for something I haven't even done. What should I do? L. N.

DEAR L. N.: When you are of age you can leave home. In the meantime don't trust a YALE man [a locksmith, I mean]. And to earn a little money in preparation for leaving home, try your hand at some creative writing. You're doing fine!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 55, and thank God he's in pretty good health, but every time he hears that someone he knows under 75 dropped dead, he announces that he is going to "start living." Abby, Harry has been "living" all his life, and if he has ever missed anything, I don't know what it could be.

Well, Harry started "living" again last week after he buried a 57-year-old friend. He is eating all the things he shouldn't [he is supposed to watch his diet because he's inclined to be heavy] and he also drinks more than what is good for him. He quit smoking a year ago, but now he's started again, saying he is not going to deny himself anything, because who knows, tomorrow his number may come up.

So what is a wife supposed to do with a husband like that? I love him. HARRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Hit him over the head with his life insurance policy. If he doesn't get the message, nag him.

DEAR ABBY: In your opinion, is "The Pill" foolproof? CANDY

DEAR CANDY: Nothing is foolproof in the hands of a fool.

DEAR ABBY: Last month I started to work in a large insurance office, and right off the bat I became attracted to a good looking young department head. Not bragging, but I've got a lot going for me, too. I'm 24, single, and a well-built redhead who never lacked for attention.

Well, "Department Head" and I started peeing each other a lot, but always at my place. [He was sort of secretive about where he lived.]

Yesterday he called in sick with a chest cold, so I decided to surprise him with some chicken soup. [I got his address from the office files.]

When I rang his bell, I was the one who got the surprise! A tall, skinny blonde about my age answered his door in a bath towel. At first she wasn't going to let me in, but I pushed her aside and went right to the bedroom to see my sick friend. He was sick all right, and he got sicker when he saw me. The bedroom looked plenty "lived in," if you know what I mean. Her stuff thrown all over the place along with his.

"Department Head" said Blondie was a childhood chum who had come to town to hunt a job, was low on funds, so he was putting her up temporarily. Now, Abby, how does this story sound to you? RED

DEAR RED: Fishy. "Department Head" could have helped the blonde by giving her a few dollars for a pad of her own. [P. S. Too bad you didn't know in advance that you were going to cook his goose. You could have skipped the chicken soup.]

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a minister who stands outside the girlie shows during the week of a local fair to see how many people he knows go in? DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He's not very bright. Some of the people might see him standing there and think he just came out.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment about the middle-aged widower who had arranged for a "cute young doll" to come to his hotel room for some "pleasure—C. O. D."

The doll turned out to be the daughter of a friend of his. He said she held a secretarial job and he had always thought she was a lovely young lady. He said as soon as he opened the door and recognized her, he called it off by saying there had been some "mistake."

Now he wonders how she can face him when he goes to visit her parents?

I would like to ask him how he can face her? What makes him think that he is blameless? Wasn't it a two-sided proposition? What's good for the goose is good for the gander. GANDER AND GOOSE

DEAR G AND G: The young doll was obviously new in the oldest profession. It's hard to say which one has more cause to be humiliated—the buyer or the seller. I suspect if this gander and goose never see each other again it will be ducky for both of them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SWINGING IN THE TOWERS": Your suggested 11th commandment, "Thou shalt not get caught," is very catchy, but if you obey the first 10, you wouldn't need an 11th.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. J.: Your boy friend sounds like the kind of guy who sows his wild oats 6 nights a week—then goes to church on Sunday morning and prays for a "crop failure." Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me where the custom of kissing a lady's hand originated? And why? S. C.

DEAR S. C.: It originated in France. A person has to start somewhere, and I suppose that's as good a place as any.

DEAR ABBY: I know a lot of men go for young girls, but my husband is just the opposite, and that's my problem.

There's a woman in town with one of those long-legged, slim-waisted figures, and she has to be at least 45 years old. Well, my husband can't keep his eyes off her, and he is only 30.

Even tho it's out of his way, he drives by her house every morning on his way to work, hoping to get a glimpse of her. Abby, I'm ashamed to tell you some of the things I've thought of doing to try to get her to move. I know it's not her fault, but I could explode every time I think of how my husband drools over this old lady.

How can a person her age be so well preserved? CURIOUS IN TOPEKA

DEAR CURIOUS: I don't know what kind of "preservative" she uses, but I'm sure she isn't pickled in alcohol.

And what makes you think a woman past 45 is ready for the glue factory? The world is full of women who will never see 60 again who have more pizzaz than dollies one-third their age.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BIG ED": Better start looking around for another job. From too much YESSIR, NOSIR, a man can get an UI-SIR.

DEAR ABBY: Why can't women be as broadminded as men? I really love my wife, Abby. We've been married 15 years and she's doing a super job with our home and children, but now she's letting a small incident she happened to see make a difference in our lives.

Now, you're a businesswoman, Abby, and you know how hard it is to keep a good secretary. Mine has been with me for five years and she does a great job. She's always on time, she's efficient and the price is right.

Well, last week my wife happened by my office and she saw me with my arms around my secretary. I've made friendly gestures like this for some time to show my appreciation to her, but my wife is mad, and she doesn't even want to speak to my secretary again.

Abby, will you please say something in your column about how hard a good secretary is to find? My wife may see it, and understand. TROUBLED IN TUCSON

DEAR TROUBLED: A good television repair man is also hard to find! I mean one who comes immediately when you call him, has all the parts you need right with him, repairs the set and quotes a price that is right. How would you like to come home and see your wife "showing her appreciation" by putting her arms around him?

You will find "sympathy" under "S" in the dictionary, Mister.

And next time you want to show your "appreciation," try money.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CRY BABY": Any woman who can get her way by shedding a few tears has a fortune in liquid assets. Just don't overdo it, Baby!

DEAR ABBY: My brother asked me to write to you to see if you can help him get any closer to marriage with his girl friend of 10 years—I'll call her "Zelda."

Zelda loves the big city and my brother likes the quiet of the countryside. Zelda doesn't come alive until 10 p. m., and at that hour my brother is ready for bed.

Even tho they live 300 miles apart, they see each other on week-ends and holidays. [My brother flies his own plane.]

Zelda is jealous of anyone who looks at him twice, but she doesn't care for sex herself. [She was in a concentration camp when she was young.] My brother would like a family, but since he is 40 and Zelda is 43 and they aren't married yet, that looks doubtful. What do you think, Abby? HIS SISTER

DEAR SISTER: I think if your brother wants marriage, he should look for someone who likes the quiet of the countryside, sex, and won't take 10 years to make up her mind. A 40-year-old man who flies his own plane should have no trouble landing a GIRL.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GORDY: Don't marry for money. You can borrow it much cheaper.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SECOND TIME AROUNDER": Marriage is like the army. Everybody complains about it, but you'd be amazed at the number who reenlist.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved into a nice three-story building in an apartment complex. Our problem has to do with the couple living directly beneath us.

Everything they do is on a fortissimo level. We would not complain about ordinary noises, as both my husband and I teach and are gone during the daytime, but the evening noise is of a very intimate nature and it gets to be very annoying.

I imagine they are newlyweds because we have been disturbed by the sounds of their lovemaking at all hours of the night and early morning. Weekends are unpredictable. It is impossible for us to have guests over since these sounds can be easily heard in our living room.

The apartments are well built, believe me. These people are LOUD! We have never heard any other neighbors.

Moving is out of the question since we have signed a lease, and besides, my husband's library of about 4,000 volumes took considerable time and money to set up here.

Is there a tactful way to deal with these people? "THE PEOPLE UPSTAIRS"

DEAR PEOPLE: The direct approach is the best one. Either ask your husband to have a man-to-man talk with the man downstairs. Or YOU have a woman-to-woman talk with the lady.

DEAR ABBY: There's a man who works where I work. We kid around a lot, but he's not a boyfriend or anything like that.

Well, about four months ago I told him he would be real swell looking if he would lose about 30 pounds. Then he said he'd make a deal with me. He would lose 30 pounds if I would give him an "incentive"—like spending the night with him.

I foolishly said it was a deal—never dreaming he'd lose the 30 pounds.

Well, Abby, he has lost 22 pounds, and I know he'll lose the other 8 in no time at all. I never thought I would ever have to pay off. Now what do I do? BIGMOUTH

DEAR BIGMOUTH: Spend the night with him, and use the time playing records, reading poetry, or just explaining what you meant by "spending the night" with him. If he complains, let him haul you into small claims court.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a man to be in love with two women at the same time? JAKE

DEAR JAKE: Yes. And also hazardous.

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I can't consult anyone else about my problem because it is so embarrassing.

I have been married for three years to a wonderful woman, but she is now threatening to divorce me for what I am about to relate to you. I swear that this will be the weirdest letter you have ever received.

Ever since I was a baby, I liked to chew on rubber things. Toy boats, rubber ducks, etc. It seemed to calm my nerves. All through school I chewed on pencil erasers to relieve tension, and it always worked.

I am now 35 years old, and I always carry an art gum eraser with me in case things get tense. After chewing on it for five minutes, I am relaxed and calm again.

Well, the other night my wife and I were at my boss' home for a dinner party. I felt myself getting a little tense so I reached for my rubber eraser and discovered that for the first time in my life I had forgotten it! I became panicky, so I went into the bathroom in search of a rubber object to chew on. Fortunately, I found a rubber duck belonging to their baby. Not wanting to remain in the bathroom, I took it to the hall closet and started chewing on it frantically.

Suddenly the door opened and I saw my boss standing there! He demanded that I return the rubber duck. I refused. Harsh words followed. Naturally, I lost my job, and now my wife wants to divorce me.

Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist. I can't afford it. I am depending on you, Abby. If you don't help me I will commit suicide. Help! RUBBER CHEWER

DEAR CHEWER: Yours may not be the "weirdest" letter I've ever received, but it could be one of the phoniest. Realizing how costly psychiatric treatment is, I am sending you a check for $10,000. It's rubber! Chew on THAT for a while.

DEAR ABBY: We wouldn't expect you to betray a confidence, but did that letter from THE PEOPLE UPSTAIRS come from New Bedford, Massachusetts! "CURIOUS" IN NEW BEDFORD

DEAR CURIOUS: No, neither from NEW BEDford nor OLD BEDford.

DEAR ABBY: The following letter appeared in your column recently:

"Dear Abby, Is it possible for a man to be in love with two women at the same time? [signed] JAKE"

You replied: "Dear Jake, Yes. and It's also hazardous."

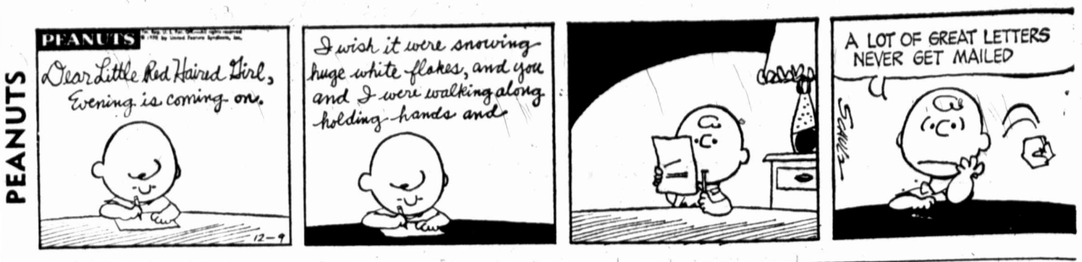

Well, tell Jake that it's possible for one of the women to love him enough to remove the hazard by walking out of his life. I did. "ME" in MOUNT RAINER, MD.

BENITO RUBIO (50) GOES UPSTAIRS FOR TWO-POINTER
He's ringed by Terry Neal and other Golden Cranes

Late Surge Provides Steers With Victory

By TOMMY HART

Jesse Olague and Harry Crosby infiltrated enemy ranks like spies and Mike Randle stuffed the net as Big Spring defeated Crane here Tuesday night, 90-78.

Until the final three minutes of play, however, the issue was very much in doubt. Coach Arlen White of Crane ordered his team to run with the Steers and the visitors showed an appetite for the racehorse style of play.

The win was the sixth in ten starts for the Longhorns. Crane, a Class AA power, is limping along with a 1-5 record but will likely get much better.

The Steers had four players in double figures and Randle led the way with 27 points although he sat out much of the game.

Richard Bullard tossed in 16 points for the locals. Olague had 12 and Benito Rubio, who also played a strong floor game, wound up with 10.

Crane was led by Buddy Ward and Don Hollins, each of whom had 15 points. Terry Neal used his muscle to count 13 for the Golden Cranes.

Crane built up a 23-20 bulge in the first period and still led at half time, 43-42.

Big Spring, however, outscored the guests in Round Three, 22-18, and had things all their own way in the final eight minutes, putting 26 points on the board to 17 for Crane.

Crane managed nine straight points late in the first round and early in the second to go ahead by a score of 27-20. The visitors' biggest load, achieved in the second, was eight points.

Crane's chances for a win diminished in the fourth when Tom Washington fouled out with 5:30 remaining and Ward turned an ankle and was assisted to the sidelines.

Randle speared 15 rebounds, Olague 14, Bullard 12 and Crosby nine. Time and again in the fourth, Olague and Crosby stole enemy passes that interrupted the flow of Crane's offense.

The Steers made 18 of 42 shots from the floor the first half for 42 per cent and 21 of 41 after the intermission for 51 per cent. Their foul goal shooting left something to be desired. They missed 14 of 26.

Coach David Verner got a look at all his Big Spring JV troops as the locals rolled to an easy 102-60 win in the opener.

Rangy Robert Wallace saw only limited action but counted 17 points for Big Spring. Rondel Brock had 15 and Johnny Tonn 13.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

That could be a barnburner here Saturday night, the Western Conference basketball opener between Howard County JC and New Mexico JC.

Coach Harold Wilder of HC reasons the Hawks haven't yet put it all together. He would have settled for a .500 early season record, since the Hawks played 12 of their first 13 games away from home.

No where along the line did the Hawks pick on a patsy. Junior college basketball just seems to get better and better and no school has a corner on the market, when it comes to shopping for talent.

Spencer Haywood proved the juco boys can play with the best of them when he jumped from a Colorado JC to the role of first tenor on the basketball symphony the Americans sang in the last Olympic Games.

New Mexico JC won only three of its first eight starts but the Thunderbirds have been walking among the titans, too. After warmups against a couple of junior varsity teams, the Hobbs-based club took part in tournaments in Levelland and in the Cowboy Classic at Dodge City, Kan.

Willie Banks and Fred Johnson will be back to torment the Hawks but coach Dale Caton is going largely with freshmen this year. Banks has a rare talent for dropping the ball through the hoop. He averaged 19.8 points a game last year. No one else on the NMJC roster did as well.

Johnson stands only 6-4½ but he vacuums the boards with an impressive flair. He pulled down a norm of 8.1 rebounds a game as a freshman.

From here on down to the wire, they separate the men from the boys in the Western Conference trial by ordeal.

* * * *

The four teams which make it to the NCAA basketball finals usually need oxygen and a few prayer sessions after charging up Bloody Nose Ridge and across No Man's Land.

This year's surge into the Valley of Death likely will be more spirited than ever, because more will be at stake.

The semifinalists mass in Houston's Astrodome, where the seating capacity is 52,000.

Each of the competing schools could limp back home with a check for from $80,000 to $100,000. Some of the gung-ho basketball schools use their cage receipts to support their football programs.

* * * *

Mainly because John Edwards had no proven relief, the Houston Astros' backstopping was not one of the club's strong points last season.

That may change. Edwards won't be called upon to work as often as he was last year because the Astros have acquired Jack Hiatt, a 28-year old who has donned the tools of ignorance with the San Francisco Giants, California's Angels, the Montreal Expos and the Chicago Cubs.

While with the Giants in 1969, Jack tied a National League record when he clubbed home seven runs in one game. When Hiatt is playing a hot hand at bat, some of the best arms in the league turn to jelly.

Hiatt takes his job seriously. He sat out some of the 1969 season with a bleeding ulcer. Edwards, no doubt, will be the Astros' leading receiver because he's a wizard at handling pitchers but Hiatt will log a lot of playing time.

One of baseball's more colorful characters was Sunny Jim Bottomly, who went to his reward in 1959 after half a century on this way station.

Sunny Jim moved into the big leagues in '22 and lingered there until '37. In 1,991 big league games, he coaxed a .310 collective batting average out of the cautious pitches visited upon him.

As a callow kid from Nokomis, Ill., in his first spring training with the St. Louis Cardinals, Bottomly consulted the hat rack and was properly impressed with the signatures of big leaguers he saw.

One club in particular impressed Sunny Jim. Said he, after weighing it with his hands:

"I'd sure like to meet the man that swings that funny ol' skinny bat, that Mr. Fungo."

Photographer Danny Valdes had a perfect score on the Daily Herald's football panel last week — 20 for 20. Had he bet that way on the parlay cards, he could have retired the national debt and had enough left over for a Mediterranean cruise.

Celtics Blast Buffalo But Fail To Gain

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics are running faster than anyone thought they would, but they still can't catch the New York Knicks.

The Celtics, picked by many to finish out of the playoffs—behind the Knicks and Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, have run themselves right into second place.

Using a lightning fast break led by perpetually moving John Havlicek, the Celtics have reeled off nine straight victories, the last a 122-102 sprint past Buffalo Tuesday night.

However, the surge still has left Boston three games behind New York, which moves along pretty quickly, too, swishing past running, gunning Portland 139-121.

In other games, Milwaukee pummeled the Atlanta Hawks 125-104, Seattle came back to beat Philadelphia 107-104, the Chicago Bulls held down San Francisco 98-87 and Los Angeles defeated Phoenix 121-112.

In the American Basketball Association, Virginia edged the New York Nets 120-116 and Utah hammered Memphis 125-106.

The Celtics, displaying the type of fast break that helped them to 11 NBA titles in 13 seasons before their decline, rushed to a 59-44 halftime lead, and when the Braves closed to within six in the final quarter, Havlicek turned on the steam again. He finished with 34 points.

Willis Reed did the damage for the Knicks, leading them on a 14-2 run at the end of the first quarter and then to 13 straight points at the end of the second for a 66-48 halftime lead that never was threatened. Reed finished with 37 points.

Jon McGlocklin scored 10 of his 17 points at the start of the third period, lifting Milwaukee from a 58-53 intermission lead to a 75-62 spread, and Atlanta never caught up. Lew Alcindor had 24 points for the Bucks, who won for the 21st time in 24 games. Lou Hudson had 30 and Pete Maravich 29 for the Hawks.

Seattle trailed 70-56 in the third quarter and by seven points entering the final session before Dick Snyder scored 11 of his 21 points, including a basket that put the SuperSonics ahead to stay 96-95.

Bob Love scored a point for each year and then some as he celebrated his 28th birthday by leading Chicago past the Warriors with 30 points. Ron Williams had 23 for the Warriors, who played without Jeff Mullins.

Wilt Chamberlain powered undermanned Los Angeles past Phoenix with 36 points and Jerry West contributed 32. The injury-riddled Lakers used only seven players. Connie Hawkins topped the Suns with 24.

Los Angeles went in front for good in the third period, triggered by a 13-point spurt by West in the quarter. Phoenix cut the deficit to six points in the final minute before Chamberlain clinched matters with a pair of baskets.

Sullivan Honored

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan has been picked by the Southeastern Conference's 10 head coaches as the SEC Player of the Year.

Palmer Tries Again In Final Tourney

FREEPORT, The Bahamas (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who is doing almost everything except winning makes his last stab of the year at winning an individual title in the $130,000 Bahama Islands Open Golf tournament.

The inaugural event is being sponsored by the government to help promote the tourist trade on this resort island. It is the last tournament on the pro schedule for the season.

"I would like to win a tournament," Palmer said last week when he survived a shaky start and finished in a tie for sixth in the Coral Springs Open last week. He filed a late entry for this tournament after shooting a final round 66.

"Despite some poor putting, winning is the only thing that concerns me," said the aging champion whose only victory this year was a shared triumph with Jack Nicklaus in the National Four Ball Championship.

He has three second place finishes and has been in the top 10 bout 60 percent of the time. Palmer ranks in the top five on the money winning list with more than $125,000.

In fact, a first place finish in this one with its $26,000 prize conceivably could make him the No. 1 money winner.

Lee Trevino who was third last week behind Bill Garrett and Bob Murphy moved into the No. 1 spot with over $147,000. Masters champion Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus, the Nos. 2 and 3, are through for the year.

"I'd like to be the leading money winner," Trevino said. "I hadn't been playing very well for a while but it seems to be coming together a little bit now."

He was one of the pre-tourney favorites in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday on the Emerald Course at the Kings Inn and Golf Club. Some other leading candidates included Murphy, Dave Hill, Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron and PGA champion Dave Stockton.

Also on hand are such threats as Julius Boros, Bob Lunn, Frank Beard, and Larry Hinson. Among the missing are U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, South African Gary Player and Australian Bruce Devlin. Bert Greene was a late withdrawal.

Ector Deflates Bobcats, 79-75

SAN ANGELO — Odessa Ector edged San Angelo, 79-75, here Tuesday night. Midway in the fourth quarter, San Angelo trailed by 16 points.

The outcome evened San Angelo's record at 5-5. Ector is 6-5.

Bob Pride led Ector with 19 points. Ricky Childress paced San Angelo with 19.

NAMED — Charlie Coffey, above, was named Tuesday to succeed Jerry Claiborne as head football coach at Virginia Tech. Coffey comes to Tech from Arkansas, where he was head defensive coach.

Jim Lindsey, ACC, Called Top Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Burns, a smashing power runner from Long Beach State—whom his coach says is better than O. J. Simpson and Mike Garrett—was named to the Small College All-America team for the second year in a row today by The Associated Press.

Joining the 228-pound senior in the offensive backfield are three record-breakers—quarterback Jim Lindsey of Abilene Christian and running backs Leon McQuay of Tampa and Joe Profit of Northeast Louisiana.

Two more record-setters are ends John Curtis Springfield and Harold "Red" Roberts of Austin Peay.

Burns runs the 40 in 4.5 and is very strong. He's also 27 years old and that's the only reservation the pros have about him.

After gaining 1,659 yards in 1969, Burns got off to a slow start this season because of an ankle injury. But he wound up with 1,033 yards on 275 carries, caught five passes for 89 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

SCORED 47 TIMES

In a two-year career he gained 2,692 yards and scored 47 times.

Coach Jim Strangeland knows whereof he speaks when he compares Burns to Simpson and Garrett because he coached those two while an assistant at Southern Cal.

Lindsey was called by one opposing coach "the best passer in Texas, including Chuck Hixson." He holds the all-time NCAA career passing record of 8,521 yards—and that includes large and small schools and the fact that he missed the last game with a broken collarbone.

This season, Lindsey completed 198 of 369 passes for 2,707 yards—including 414 against top-rated Arkansas State—and 22 touchdowns.

McQuay, one of two juniors on the first team, set a Tampa ground-gaining record of 706 yards in 1968 and broke it last year with 971. This season, he carried 196 times for 1,362 yards—a 6.9 average, returned 14 kickoffs for 396 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

Profit, a 206-pounder who has 9.5 speed over 100 yards, is the Gulf Coast Conference's all-time rushing champ and was named to the league's Team of the Decade for the 1960s.

NOT MUCH TIME

Browns Toiling For Poke Bout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Coaches and players of the Cleveland Browns reviewed films of Dallas and held a light workout Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's game with the Cowboys.

The contest is important to both clubs, with the Browns tied with Cincinnati for the lead in the American Football Conference's Central Division with two games to go, and Dallas tied with New York, a half-game behind leading St. Louis in the National Conference's Eastern Division.

Tuesday is usually an off-day for the Browns, but the players insisted on sessions because of the loss of time to prepare for the game. The Browns beat the Houston Oilers 21-10 on Monday night and even with Tuesday's workout, have just four days to prepare for the Cowboys.

NFL teams usually have a full week between games.

The Cowboys will have running star Calvin Hill, the NFL's "rookie of the year" last season, ready for Saturday's game, but Hill probably won't be in the starting lineup.

Hill, recovering from injuries, has lost his spot to rookie Duane Thomas, who has picked up 618 yards this season.

Thomas, the Cowboys' top draft choice last year, calls himself a complete runner. "I'm an inside and outside and over (runner)," he said. "Wherever they tell me to go, I go."

"He's the best we've had as far as hitting on all types of plays and being able to break things open for the long gain," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We think he's a natural at halfback but he can play fullback, too."

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, who gained 108 yards in 20 carries at Houston, said he was physically fit for the final two games.

Kelly, who has suffered several injuries this season, said, "The right ankle had been bothering me, but I feel pretty good now."

Fullback Bo Scott still had a swollen left eye Tuesday as the result of a blow he received in the first half against Houston.

"He's got to be listed as doubtful for Saturday's game with Dallas," trainer Leo Murphy said of Sumner.

ACKERLY — Obviously tired from a game played the night before, the Sands girls squeaked to a 34-33 overtime victory over Loop here Tuesday night.

The contest opened league competition for both teams. Over-all, Sands is 8-1. Coach Bobby Cohorn will take his fems to the Garden City tournament this weekend, to Forsan Monday and the Sands club will play host to Union-Terry Tuesday.

A free shot by Jan Nichols with about a minute of play remaining in the overtime gave Sands the win. Jan wound up with 26 points.

Loop was led by Kay Bingham, who settled for 23 points.

In B team action, Sands also won, 34-29. Janie Billingsley led Sands with 14 points while Delia Young counted 12 for Loop.

Mike Smothers, a Webb AFB sergeant wearing the colors of K&K Trailer Service, was the talk of bowling circles at the Bowl-A-Rama here Tuesday night when he put together a 300 game.

It was the first perfect game achieved by a local kegler since Jim Tatum accomplished the feat about three years ago. Mike has a 179 average.

Mike was competing in the Tuesday Couples League. He has a choice of several prizes offered by the American Bowling Congress.

Steer Football Gate Is Down By Over 13,500

Attendance at the ten football games involving Big Spring High School the past season slumped 13,524 from the preceding year — from 55,128 to 41,604.

Bad weather contributed in part to the decrease. The increase in the price of season tickets from $1.50 to $2 had something to do with it. Money was harder to come by.

Receipts slumped a little over $10,000 — from $63,250.25 to $53,163. Big Spring's share of the net proceeds fell off only $3,682.34.

The largest crowd of the season saw Big Spring and Permian in Permian, 5,725. The largest home crowd showed up for the Abilene contest, 5,339.

A total of 21,536 watched the Steers at home, compared to the 20,068 who viewed them on the road.

The smallest throng turned up for the Big Spring-Odessa game in Odessa, when only 2,290 paid their way through the gates.

Turkey Shoot Slated Here

The Western Sportsman's Club will sponsor a turkey shoot Sunday at its gun range nine miles from Big Spring on the Andrews highway.

Turkeys can be won in trap shooting and with scoped rifles. Six-power scopes will be the maximum allowed for any caliber firearm.

Trap shooting will be at 16 yards, with ten shots allowed. Shot guns will be available for those who do not own them.

Those using rifles will be charged $1 for three shots and they will shoot at a target 100 yards away.

In rimfire shooting, entries will be charged 50 cents for three shots. They will shoot at targets 25 yards removed and will be seeking to sever strings for prizes.

Competition will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Certificates can be redeemed at Furr's Super Market.

Buck McMullan will be in charge of the trap shooting phase of competition. Harry Gordon, Bill Crow, Dealon Stanley, H. B. Reagan and Harry Sawyer will direct the rifle competition.

The shooting range will be easy to find, since signs leading to it will be displayed along the highway.

Player Of Year

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Linebacker Jerry Murtaugh of Nebraska was named the Big Eight Conference Defensive Player of the Year today in the voting by sports writers and broadcasters.

Dickey Heads North Squad

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterbacks Lynn Dickey of Kansas State and Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara head up a 29-man North squad announced Tuesday for the Senior Bowl All-Star game Jan. 9.

They will be aided by a speedy corps of receivers led by H.D. Hill of Arizona State and two of the top running backs in the Big Eight Conference, Kansas' John Riggins and Missouri's Jim Harrison.

The North squad for the 22nd annual post-season game was announced by Senior Bowl President Theodore K. Kackson.

He said the South squad will be named within a few days.

A capacity crowd of 40,646 is expected for the 1 p.m., CST, kickoff. The game will be televised nationally (NBC).

Dickey, despite rib injuries during part of the season, passed for 2,163 yards in 1970 and boosted his career total to 6,208 yards on 501 completions.

Pastorini, described by pro scouts as "a real diamond in the rough," passed for almost 4,000 yards for the Santa Clara Broncos.

Other receivers are Kansas State's Henry Hawthorne and Oklahoma State's Herman Eban. At tight end will be Doug Dieken of Illinois.

Other running backs are Fred Willis of Boston College and Clarence Davis from Southern California.

Interior offensive linemen include:

Centers—Tom Beard of Michigan State, 6-6, 252; and Leo Dillon of Dayton University, 6-3, 235.

Guards and tackles—Marv Montgomery of Southern California, 6-6, 245; Bob Newton of Nebraska, 6-4, 248; Larron Jackson, 6-3, 261; and Dennis Havig of Colorado, 6-3, 230.

Defensive linemen are Iowa's Layne McDowell, 6-4, 232; Cincinnati's Bob Bell, 6-3, 245; UCLA's Tim Oesterling, 6-4, 240; Nebraska's Dave Walline, 6-2 238; and Missouri's Jay Wallace, 6-2, 225.

Linebackers Oscar Gibson of Kansas State, Dale Farley of West Virginia and Phil Villapiano of Bowling Green average 6-2 and 230.

Defensive backs include Utah's Norm Thompson, Clarence Scott of Kansas State, Chris Farasopoulas of Brigham Young and Tom Duncan of Toledo.

Clothing Plant To Open In Sweetwater In 1971

SWEETWATER — Walls Industry Inc., manufacturers of light weight poplin coveralls and jump suits, will open a plant in Sweetwater in January.

George S. Walls, chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer of the Cleveland, Tex., industry and W. R. Pennick president of the Industrial Foundation, made the announcement Tuesday.

The company will occupy the International Harvester building which has recently been vacated.

Walls said the plant will operate about 50 to 60 sewing machines and he expects the Sweetwater plant to become one of the company's major facilities within the next few years.

The company has plants in Cleveland, Clifton and Gatesville. Tom Butler, who was manager of Sweetwater Manufacturing Co., will be manager of the new Sweetwater plant.

Working to bring the facility to Sweetwater were Pennick and Wilson Guest, co-chairmen of the Chamber of Commerce industrial contact team, and Charles Griggs, Industrial Foundation attorney.

Police Cars Bids Fuzz(y)

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston police department told the city council Tuesday it does not plan to change specifications for bids on 438 new police cars.

The council had returned four unopened bids last week, requesting that specifications be revised. The request came after councilman Lee McLemore said he believed that Ford and Chevrolet dealers had been written out of the specifications and only Plymouth dealers could meet them.

Auto dealers who object to the present specifications will be heard by the council today before it decides whether to open the bids.

Capt. Earl Maughmer of the police department told the council that the specifications were drawn to provide safety and good performance. "It doesn't matter whether it is Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth, so long as we get the features we want," the officer said.

Ball And Chain Murder Charge

HOUSTON (AP) — Aureliano Silva, 20, was indicted Tuesday by a Harris County grand jury on a charge of murder in the bludgeon death of a real estate saleswoman.

Mrs. June Grove Gleason, 36, was beaten to death Nov. 17 in the model home in north Harris County where she worked. Officers said she was killed with a replica of a medieval mace which was used as a decoration in the house.

Silva is being held without bond.

Farm Bureau Policies Due

HOUSTON (AP) — Members of the American Farm Bureau will set policies here today which will govern operations of the nation's largest farm organization during the next year.

The more than 5,000 delegates from 49 states and Puerto Rico here for the 52nd annual meeting of the organization will study a sheaf of 115 pages of recommendations that have come from various state Farm Bureau organizations.

Members will also be thinking about a new president to succeed Charles B. Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., who resigned Monday after serving 16 years in the post.

William Kuhfuss of Illinois, head of the largest state organization; Jay Merrill Anderson, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau and Allan Grant, president of the California Farm Bureau, have all been mentioned as candidates.

In the second general session of the organization Tuesday Roger Fleming, the national secretary, said that farmers are determined to get their rights in the market place. He also predicted an increase in the number of family commercial farms in the country.

Fleming said he expects the limitation of federal crop payments put into law in the recent farm bill will be reduced sharply from the $55,000 per crop limit that was set.

The convention winds up Thursday with the election of a new president.

IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T

HOUSTON (AP) — A phoney caller warned Tuesday that a bomb would go off at the Humble Oil & Refining Co.'s Baytown refinery.

The bomb threat came in two calls to security police at Humble's main office in downtown Houston before 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Officials said the second call was apparently made to clarify that it was the refinery and not the 44-story office building that was being threatened.

Nothing happened, nothing was found.

Asks Dismissal Of Murder Count

DURANT, Okla. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Wallace Gates Tuesday moved for dismissal of a murder charge against Bobby Cranford, 24, of Denison, Tex.

Cranford originally was accused of killing Dickie Arnold, 22, and Richmond Anaotubby, 16, both of Durant, during a disturbance at Lake Texoma. The accused man was acquitted in 1969 of the murder of Arnold.

Gates said his request was based on a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that a person could not be tried on multiple charges in a crime committed in what amounts to a single act.

Cranford said he and some companions were threatened by the shooting victims.

The bidding:

Pass	4 ♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

Inferences drawn from his opponents' line of defense provided the clues for a successful campaign to South, the declarer at four hearts in today's hand.

North's opening bid of one diamond may appear to be in conflict with the text, inasmuch as he has two perfectly biddable major suits to show. It should be observed however, that his hand is worth 20 points counting high cards and distribution, and even tho the diamond suit is not technically biddable, North's one diamond call serves the purpose of facilitating partner's response. South might have some weak holding with four or five hearts that would produce a game in that suit—yet where he might be reluctant to keep a one spade bid open. Over one diamond, however, South may show either major without increasing the level of bidding.

West opened the nine of spades against the final contract, declarer played the four from dummy and East put up the jack which held the trick. The eight of diamonds was returned and when South followed with the four, West was in with the queen.

West switched back to the eight of spades and declarer put up North's ace. The A-K-Q of hearts pulled the outstanding trumps and a club was led to the ace.

A diamond was led from dummy, East followed with the five and the moment of decision had arrived. South decided, on the basis of East's original lead of the eight of diamonds, to play the latter for a doubleton and he put up the ace of diamonds from his hand.

Declarer's only chance to eliminate one of his remaining two losers was to exit with a diamond and hope that the defender that gained the lead was out of spades. West went in with the king of diamonds and since he had only clubs left in his hand, the forced return permitted South to ruff in the dummy while he discarded the ten of spades from his hand.

Declarer's losers on the deal consisted of one spade and two diamonds.

Death Takes Vet Journalism Prof

DAVE CHEAVENS

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Dave Cheavens, newsman and educator, died here Tuesday after collapsing at the Southwest Journalism Congress last Sunday. Cheavens, 63, had been suffering from a heart condition for some years.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the Department of Journalism at Baylor University, Waco. Earlier, he had been an Associated Press newsman for 26 years and public relations director of the university. He headed the AP bureau in Austin from 1942 after serving for a time as Texas state editor in Dallas.

As chief political reporter for The Associated Press in Texas, Cheavens was on close terms with the state governors and leading political figures for a quarter of a century.

Before joining the AP, Cheavens was managing editor of the Marshall News-Messenger and worked for the Baptist Standard, the New York Morning Telegraph, the Waco News-Tribune, the El Paso Times and the El Paso Herald. He was also a foreign correspondent in Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires.

Among major stories he covered was the New London school disaster in which many children were killed.

He narrowly escaped death himself when a sophomore at Baylor and working for the Waco newspaper in 1927. The bus in which he was riding with the Baylor basketball team was involved in a collision with a train and 10 people were killed in the accident, seven of them members of the Baylor team. Cheavens was able to file his story to Waco and to The Associated Press from the train depot.

The son of a Southern Baptist missionary, Cheavens had long wanted to devote his time to religion writing. He published, with his wife Alice, a book called "As Love Knows How." Mrs. Cheavens was an extensive writer of Sunday School material and a minister's daughter.

Funeral services will be directed by the Wilkerson-Hatch Funeral Home in Waco. The family has asked no flowers be sent. Any memorial contributions go to the Baylor Department of Journalism.

Survivors are, besides the widow, his four children—Mrs. Katherine Hargrove of Bonham, Tex., Mrs. Robert Baird of Waco, Joseph Dawson Cheavens of Houston, and Mary Martha Cheavens of Baltimore, Md.

SANTA'S SUIT IN CLEANER

Youngsters who were shopping downtown Tuesday afternoon may have noticed that Santa Claus looked a bit tired and worn. Santa, however, told The Herald that he felt as good as ever but was wearing an old suit while his regular one was shipped to the North Pole Dry Cleaners.

"The elves promised to have it ready for me today, so I'll be stopping in stores on Main Street from 4 to 6 p.m. in my clean suit to take all the Christmas orders from good little children," Santa said.

Cold Front To Put Dent In 'Hot' Spell

By The Associated Press

One cold front hovering across the Texas Panhandle and another approaching the state from the west promised today to put at least a mild dent into the balmy spell of the past fortnight.

Meanwhile, however, early morning temperatures stayed in the 60s at many points and it seemed more like May than December in most sections.

Skies were at least partly cloudy over the eastern half of Texas and a little rain fell before dawn around College Station. Fog hung low at Victoria. It was generally fair elsewhere.

Forecasters looked for little movement during the day by the weak frontal system stretching across the north edge of the Panhandle.

More noticeable effects were foreseen for the cold air mass due to blow into extreme West Texas by late in the day. It was being preceded by gusty winds and dust promised to fog the sky in the southwest part of the state.

Forecasts called for temperatures as low as 25 degrees by early Thursday in Southwest Texas and 32 in the northwest, but continued warmth was predicted in most other areas.

Top readings Tuesday afternoon reached 86 degrees at Galveston, the warmest spot in the nation, and 83 at Alice, while the high was only 65 at Texarkana.

Former School Supe Appeals His Firing

AUSTIN (AP) — A former Crystal City school superintendent, who was fired after Mexican-Americans gained a majority on the school board, appealed his dismissal Tuesday to state education commissioner J.W. Edgar.

John Briggs' attorney told Edgar the board's action was "patently unjust" and "without basis."

Hired last February, Briggs was notified on Aug. 6 by the school board that he was being relieved of his duties and would be reassigned to other duties. A few days later he was put in the school's agriculture department as a teacher.

The board gave him a written list of 39 reasons for its displeasure with Briggs the day before a Sept. 9 public hearing on his appeal of the board's action. The board dismissed him on Sept. 14.

Among the reasons cited by the board was Briggs' alleged attempt to persuade the top vote-getter in last April's school board election—when Mexican-Americans won control of the board to become its president.

Community Action Group To Meet

The Howard County-Big Spring Community Action Committee will have its regular quarterly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the school administration board meeting room in the portable classroom behind the administration building at Eleventh and Owens.

Chairman D. A. Brazel said the group is expected to hear a report by Bob Green on his trip to Washington recently for the National Ad Hoc Review Committee.
