80 Mexican Laborers, Marooned Here Are Bemoaning Their Fate; Officers Puzzled

The approximately 80 Mexicans, who were marooned here Monday after their arrival on a purported mission to construction work on a portion of the Denver railroad project near Lockney, today were taking advantage of the warm sunshine, and bemoaning the fact that they apparently had been led astray by false rumors of jobs that were available.

In the party were individuals who have had scarcely nothing to eat since leaving Fort Worth Saturday, according to reports to police headquarters, and officers today were seeking ways and means of caring for the stranded party until transportation can be secured for them to their homes.

Members of the party claim to have been enticed into the jaunt by a Mex can employment agency in Fort Worth, who pictured almost utopian conditions in this section since beginning of negotiations by the Denver, and it was first thought that the party had merely been routed to the wrong place. It was understood Monday that the laborers should have gone to Lockney instead of here, but this was also checked up in error, when Denver officials and police in Fort Worth, from where the party came, denied that the Mexicans had been employed and that no employ-

Women workers, wives and daughters, have become the collaborators of their husbands and fathers in so many instances in Paris government offices that Premier Poincare has had to stiffen the requirements for their employment. Another row occurred when a husband was transferred to an office where he came under the orders of a woman. His wife wouldn't allow another woman to boss her husband.

Missouri Pacific And Rival, Southern Pacific, Both Needed, Is Claim

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Both the Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific systems should be allowed to proceed with railroad construction which they have projected in the Cameron county district of Texas, the Interstate Commerce Commission was advised today by C. V. Burnside, its assistant director of finance, who has completed an investigation of the situation.

The Missouri Pacific, through the San Benito and Rio Grande company, one of its subsidiaries, plans to build eastward from Permian, a distance of six miles, and to build a second line eastward from San Benito, for 18 miles. These branches will serve truck, gardening territory, though they will touch no incorporated town.

The Southern Pacific, through the San Antonio and Aransas passes, desires to build 20 miles of new line from Harlingen to Brownsville, at a cost of about $1,500,000. This route will both parallel and cross the Missouri Pacific lines existing and projected, and the Missouri Pacific protested. The investigator, however, concluded there was sufficient business in the territory for both railroads and advised the commission to allow both to proceed. The commission itself must now pass on the finding.

MEXICANS END LONG QUARREL

Two Wanted At Brownsville On Murder Count, Shoot Out Their Difficulties

(By Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Feb. 1.—Quasimodo Garcia, confessed slayer of Jesse Billings, La Feria constable, who escaped from the Cameron county jail on the night of January 10, with three companions, was shot through the foot and probably permanently crippled in a gun battle with Juan Hinojosa at a ranch on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande south of Santa Maria.

Reports reached Brownsville yesterday that Garcia had been killed, but an investigation disclosed that his wound will not prove fatal.

Hinojosa Also Wanted

Juan Hinojosa, also wanted on the American side of the river, was alleged by Garcia to have paid him $300 for the slaying of Billings. Garcia made this statement to American officers shortly after his arrest. After Garcia's escape from the jail and subsequent crossing of the river Hinojosa learned he had taken refuge at the Mexican ranch. Hinojosa charged Garcia with having made the statement to American officers, and when the latter admitted he had done so the gun battle followed in the streets. The body of Ben Harris, negro, convicted of murdering his small stepson and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary, who escaped with Garcia, was found in the Rio Grande last week by Mexican river patrol officers. American officers believe Harris shot by Garcia.

J. Speckles, and William S. Ahrendale, all of Somerville.

McINNIS OPTIMISTIC OVER HIS PHILLIES

SAYS HE THINKS TEAM TO FINISH HIGH THIS YEAR

VETERAN STAR ASKS FOR GOOD THIRD SACKER TO BOLSTER CLUB

(By The Associated Press)
 PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—John Stuffy McInnis, newly appointed manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, says he needs only a smart and active third baseman to lift the chronic second division Phillies out of the National League mire in 1927. "Give me a good man and watch our smoke," his prediction.

Returning to the scene of his former triumphs as a member of the championship Philadelphia Athletics of more than a decade ago, McInnis already has bargained and bought new strength in almost every department.

The most notable acquisition is Gene Tompkins, leading second baseman of the International League last season. He came to the Phillies from Buffalo by way of the Giants in the trade that sent Chetler, Butch Henline and Outfielder George Harper to New York.

Tompkins, a .309 hitter, had 26 home runs to his credit last season, and is known for regular guard duty at the middle station.

McInnis To Play
 McInnis will play first base when outside flingers are in the box for opposition, he says. At other times, from Norfolk in the Virginia league will get the call. Henline Sand will be back at short stop with Frisberg, or the much-sought new comer, a third. General utility work will fall to Russ Wrightstone, a holdover, and possibly Joe Buskey, a recruit fromumberland, Md.

McInnis has a quartette of slugging stars in the outfield with Cy Williams in right, Fred Leach in center and Johnny Mookan and Al Nixon alternating in left. Deny Sothorn, who joined the club late last season, displayed tough prowess with his war clubs toarrant retention this year.

Three Pitchers Ready
 The Phillies have three back stops, the veteran Jimmy Wilson, will bear the brunt of the catching burden with the aid of Clarence Jonnard, a holdover, and Harry O'Donnell, up from the International League.

The pitching staff has been strengthened by the addition of Alex Fergu-son, one time hurler for the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators in the American League, and Jack Scott, secured from the Giants. Hall Carlson, right hand ace, again leads the staff, which includes Ulrich, Willoughby, De-stur, Dean and Becht, all right-handers. Two south-pawed Mitchel, a star, and Herb Priest, brought back to the majors from the Pacific coast League, will be among the pitchers who leave February 27 for the spring training camp at Bradenton, Fla.

Westerners Ready For Lobo Quintet
 The local high school basketball team will meet with the Lamessa quintet tonight at the new Tech assembly hall at eight o'clock. This is the first attempt of Von Tungen men have made against the floor machine of the Downey county center. Under the supervision of Bill Stevens, former Wildcat of the Abilene Christian College, the Lamessa five has chalked up an excellent record for the present season.

Coaches L. J. Von Tungen and Hen-ryka, Westerner mentors, are looking for a scrappy battle this evening and plan to play their strongest combination. The probable line-up for the Westerners is: Hoye and Beakley, guards; Smith, center and Atar and Reynolds, forwards.

MANY MEXICAN REBELS SLAIN
 7 Men, Held Responsible For Recent Butchery, Killed By Federal Troops

(By The Associated Press)
 MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—Twenty-seven rebels have been executed by military authorities in Oaxaca City reprisal for the massacre of a small federal column which was annihilated by rebels in San Miguel El Grand on January 12.

The inhabitants of San Miguel resisted and prepared to defend the town against the federalists, who were sent on Oaxaca. When the federalists rushed the rebels barricade, however, the rebel leaders hoisted a white flag, declaring there had been a mistake and that they were supporters of the government.

The unsuspecting soldiers later were attacked while at rest in their barracks, forty men being mercilessly butchered, and only one escaping. The surviving succeeded in communicating with Caraca and a strong military column was sent to San Miguel.

Thirty-two rebel leaders were taken Oaxaca and summarily court-martialed. All were executed but five, who are spared because of their ages, four are 60 and one under 20.

Women Are Not Good Sportsmen

But Nasty, Jealous Creatures, Says Molla Mallory, Tennis Star

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1.—If you ask Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, women are not good sportsmen, and never will be. They are not good losers and won't pretend to be. And they'll never behave in competitive sports as the traditions of sportsmanship rule they should.

These are the opinions of the former national women's tennis champion, whose pursuit of Suzanne Lenglen for the world's title furnished some of the most interesting news in tennis and the most of which was in temperance.

"Women are not suited to tennis," was the frank declaration of the woman who for several seasons was rated the greatest of her sex in this country and the one who had a chance to dethrone the mercurial Suzanne before that lady turned pro.

"Women are nasty, jealous creatures," said Molla, as she rested after a hard practice set on the Flamingo courts. "Their natures are bound to come out. They will not or cannot mask their feelings. And so tennis, which is hot and fast competition, is not suited to the feminine temperament, or rather, the feminine temperament is not suited to tennis."

"When I lose, I'm furious," she continued. "I have been rated a good loser because I cover it up. But I don't like it, not a bit. Here in America, you've got to be a good sportsman. But why? Why must you pretend to take the sporting attitude? Women won't."

Hardly a feminist argument, it was suggested, but then Mrs. Mallory is happily married to Franklin I. Mallory, New York broker, and has been for seven years. With Mr. Mallory she is in Miami Beach for a month, arriving in mid-January, to enjoy the surf bathing and golf, watching the polo games, and, incidentally, to refresh her court game.

"I don't know anything about tennis," declared Mrs. Mallory, when someone expressed the wish to talk with her about the game at which she excels. Her listener wore an incredulous look.

"I never have read any of the texts on the theory of the game, nor studied the technique of the good players with whom I've been matched. I just play tennis."

"Did you ever study one of your own strokes which you thought might be improved, with a view to strengthening it?" she was asked.

"Just once," she confessed. "Several years ago, when all the experts said I had no backhand, I went out every day and played with a professional until I developed a backhand.

"But this question of temperament you were asking me about," Mrs. Mallory said. "Did you ever see a woman who answered the American definition of a sportsman?"

Her listener remained tacitly silent.

"I thought not," said Molla.

STAR OUTFIELDER SIGNS WITH SENS; SALARY IS KEPT SECRET

(By The Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Tris Speaker, gray-haired veteran of twenty major league baseball campaigns, who still packs a powerful punch in his war club, has turned in his 11 year old Cleveland Indian uniform for the toga of Washington Senator.

Word that the stock "Spoke" had agreed to play centerfield for Clark Griffith this coming season was received here last night by long distance telephone from Tampa, Fla., where the Washington club president is taking a rest.

Terms Kept Secret
 While neither Griffith nor Speaker, who reached the agreement in a telephone conversation between Tampa and New York, would divulge the salary to be stipulated in the contract, it was understood to be a fancy one.

"I was determined to get Tris," Griffith said, "and it would have taken a neat pile to get him from me."

Speaker, recently exonerated by baseball Commissioner Landis along with Ty Cobb with charges of "fixing" a game played several years ago, said he had talked with Huggins and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, but "not with an idea of creating any bidding."

He said negotiations leading up to his acceptance of the Washington offer began in Chicago a week ago when Griffith came to him before Landis announced his decision and said:

"Tris, when Landis clears you I would like to be the first to do business with you."

"That suits me," Tris replied.

Closed Over Phone
 He said that Griffith called him on the telephone last night and said he

A. C. C. FIVE BEATS TECH COMBINE 45-30 IN FAST CONTEST

(Special To Daily Journal)
 ABILENE, Feb. 1.—In a fast exhibition at the Wildcat gymnasium here last evening the flashy jerseyed Matadors of Texas Tech were defeated by the mighty offensive machine of the Abilene Christians with a final count of 45 to 30. It was a fast passing combination of Powell, Coons, and Hill, of the Pather crew, that kept the Scarlet and white quintet guessing during the initial period. The first half ended with the count standing 24-14 with the Mor-riemen holding the bigger end.

Captain Vincent and Hunter were the outstanding stars for the visitors. Hemphill led the visitors in scoring with 11 points and was closely followed with Pace's low points, Hill and Coons topped the field with 15 points each.

Smooth running combination of the A. C. C. five in their offense attack proved fatal for the Higginbotham team. The stellar defense work of Captain Vincent and Hunter was offset by the fast foot work of the Pather. The teams met again to night at the Wildcat gymnasium.

No better tobacco ever smuggled in a makin's paper

THERE'S no deep, dark secret about it. P.A. makes a better home-rolled cigarette because it's better tobacco. You can figure it out on your fingers, if you get what I mean. Just wrap your fingers around a makin's paper filled with P.A. Light up. . . .

You'll start rolling them the minute you roll out in the morning, with time out for meals. End on end. How easy they roll. That's because P.A. is crimp-cut, the ideal form for cool-smoking cigarettes. Try this better cigarette tobacco today.

Pull that cool, comfortable smoke into your system. What a wonderful taste! Mild. Mellow. Fragrant. Exhaust the adjectives and you are still a mile from describing the taste of a cigarette rolled with Prince Albert. Experience alone can give you the picture.

Prince Albert is a double-barreled tobacco that hits your smoke-spot either way—cigarette or pipe. Lots of fellows tell me they never could smoke a pipe before they discovered P.A. I know what they mean. The tobacco's the thing. And P.A.'s the tobacco!

Where Lies the Blame?

It's nice to be an optimist and to see the brighter side of everything, but every so often some little thing happens that makes you stop and wonder if our "civilization" couldn't be greatly improved somewhere.

In Ingersoll, Okla., there lived an odd hermit. He inhabited a sort of shack and cave on a vacant lot, earned five dollars a month as night watchman, and raised "karden truck."

He was quiet, rather queer, but harmless. He had two cats and a dog, his only friends. His sole recreation consisted in scraping away on a violin.

The boys in the neighborhood used to tease the old fellow. It seems just how it is not clear, but apparently they found several ways in which they could show their boyish disapproval of so strange and queer a person.

Last fall he fell on hard times. He had to sell his violin. Then he found his pet cat poisoned. A little later someone enticed his dog away. For a whole day he hunted the dog. At last he found it—shot to death.

The hermit then put a gun, hunted up a 12-year-old boy who, he believed was responsible and "killed" him.

He pleaded guilty. The judge, struck by the tragic aspects of the case, offered him a life term.

"No," said the hermit. "Life is no use to me. I'm old. I'm falling in strength. I'm getting blind and life is a burden to me. Electrocute me and get it over."

So the sentence was pronounced. On March 15, in the Oklahoma penitentiary, the old hermit will shuffle down a corridor to the death chamber and part with the life he no longer wants.

There's the story. It is, if you please, a tragedy as bleak as any of the dark outpourings of the Russian dramatists. Tragedy for the boy, possibly innocent, tragedy for his mother and father, and tragedy, simple, dumb and poignant, for the pestered, lonely old hermit.

The only solution that our civilization can find is to electrocute the pathetic old man!

What is the solution, anyway? It's hard to tell. But somewhere in our vaunted social fabric—the same fabric that is interwoven with gorgeous robes of might, cities, brave heroes, high ideals and shimmering hints of dimly-dimensioned righteousness—there is something tragically wrong.

The Giant-Killer

Henry J. Steen is 10 years old. Just a silver of a boy—but he's a man for a that.

Down in Austin a couple of days ago Henry applied for a job as page in the state legislature. The committee looked him over, admired his nerve, but got a good laugh because he was such a tiny little chap.

The member of the committee who was the "life of the party" wanted witty and told Henry he wasn't fitted for the job because his legs were not long enough.

Then, after the manner of Patrick Henry, Nathan Hale, Kit Carson, General Grant and Mussolini, young Mr. Henry J. Steen replied:

"Gentlemen, want this legislature needs brains, not legs."

"What if Henry is only 10 years old? He's a man!"

And he got the job.

Lighting Farms on Air

The air has been regarded as a fine medium for aviation, but looked upon skeptically as too fickle a source of power. The old ideas of the wind rapidly are changing.

The national aviation bureau, cooperative with the Nebraska state agricultural college, has found a practical way of lighting the farm.

Old Master's

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest. By all their country's wishes blest! When spring, with dewy fingers cold, Returns to deck their hallowed mould. She there shall dress a sweeter sod Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairly hands their knell is rung. By forms unseen their dirge is sung: There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,

To bless the turf that wraps the clay; And Freedom shall awhile repair To dwell a weeping hermit there!

—W. Collins: Ode Written in 1746.

IN NEW YORK SEE SAWING and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A bright young man I met the other day is just about to make a comfortable fortune by showing the vast army of apartment dwellers how to exercise their dogs without taking them outside the house.

However funny this may sound, please don't laugh! The predicament of a poor pup in New York is no laughing matter. Dog lovers will have dogs, although there is no place to park them, and many a prize winning Alpedale must share basement quarters with alley cats.

Along the Riverside drive, Fifth Avenue, Madison and Park avenue belts many comfortable incomes are made by men of all ages who play nursemaid to fine blooded dogs, taking them for their daily walk in the park and looking after their meals.

Just after the evening meal, apartment dwellers by the hundreds may be seen emerging with their pet poochies, and by the evening blizzard or humid, the pup must get the air.

It was inevitable that someone would try to find a way out. So up sprang a young man with a bright idea. It is a revolving platform, such as was made famous by the Ben Hur chariot races. It operates by electricity and the family pet can take a run of several miles without leaving the front bedroom.

Pet stores thrive in New York. London is, to a great extent, representative. The tight fitting sport coats and suits which humans must squeeze are made gayer by the presence of a chary, a couple of parakeets or a parrot.

One place on Fifth avenue specializes in queer birds and animals and fish, from baby alligators to gay-plumaged songsters from the African jungles.

Why people buy them not even the proprietor has ever completely figured out, for the days of such pets in modern apartment houses are short.

Almost any day when the weather is pleasant an entire neighborhood may be seen pursuing a pet monkey up a fire escape.

And a young cartoonist of my acquaintance, who has a humble room in the Bronx, became so lonesome he adopted as pets a couple of mice he had trapped.

He tamed them and gave them a cage and the other day I found him greatly dismayed. They had presented him with a family of little mice and he didn't want to keep them, nor did he wish to kill them.

Late in the spring, coast guard cutters in Alaskan waters—probably the Haida, Algonquin and Umbah—will make their annual visit to Vest-Bogostov Island. In the Berlin sea north of the Aleutian chain, Bogostov is Russian for "Love of God." Sailors have been known to emit a similar expression of profane amazement on sighting it for the first time.

Bogostov is a volcanic formation which has furnished the Aleutian natives with many legends. It changes its entire shape during the year, sometimes submerging completely, sometimes reappearing as a single island and sometimes as two or three. Sometimes it gives off a volcanic steam and sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes the water surrounding it boils and dead sea lions and fish float upon the surface for miles around.

The coast guard's annual visits are to study the changes in contour and the changes in the ocean bottom which this phenomenon produces. One of these latter changes caused the loss of the Cutter, Tahoma, in 1914. Eighty-five miles from the nearest land pinnacles of volcanic rock shot up unexpectedly from the bottom and the Tahoma struck them.

WASHINGTON LETTER

NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Davey Jones has taken away the ideal sailor of the coast guard—one who had helped rob this same Davey Jones of many another prospective victim.

When the coast guard supply schooner Lincoln burned and sank off the North Carolina coast recently with a loss of four men, she carried with her Coxswain William H. Allison. Rescued by profession, he found none when his own hour of need arrived.

You may have seen his picture on posters used for recruiting purposes. As the navy and the marine corps have selected their ideal gobs and devil-dogs for exhibition purposes, so did the coast guard pick Allison.

Allison is a tall, thin, well-proportioned man, with a fine physique and a keen mind. He is a native of New York and has served in the navy for many years.

He was the only survivor of the Lincoln when she was wrecked. He was picked up by a fishing boat and taken to a nearby shore. He was then taken to a hospital and treated for his injuries.

He is now recovering from his injuries and is expected to be discharged in a few days. He is being cared for by the navy.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

STEPHEN CHURCHILL'S fame and prosperity as a criminal lawyer were attested by the splendorous and luxurious furnishings of his suite of offices in the Prudential Building. A grim-faced, efficient looking woman of middle age, who introduced herself as Mrs. Soames, Churchill's secretary, received Bob and Faith and conducted them to Churchill's private office. The lawyer's leonine head was almost concealed behind dense layers of clear smoke, which lay like a pall above the massive mahogany desk at which he worked.

"Glad to see you," he said briskly rising and thrusting out a hand first to Faith and then to Bob, and indicating chairs drawn close to the desk. "I've got an important case coming up for trial day after tomorrow, and I'm snowed under with work, so we'd better get down to brass tacks."

Faith nodded, her eyes seeking his through the fog of smoke. He seemed disarmingly formidable, even here in his own luxurious quarters—luxury bought by the successful defense of those accused of crime. She told herself that she should take heart by that very fact—that his success was so great as to be almost a legend in criminal court annals.

"In the first place, Miss Lane," Churchill waved a big hand in a futile effort to clear the smoke. "I think you will agree with me that circumstantial evidence is very strong against your sister."

"She is innocent," Mr. Churchill. You must believe that!" Faith flared forward in distress, her eyes pleading with him. "You are to be her counsel, Mr. Churchill. You, of all people, must believe she is innocent."

"I have defended a good many people—successfully—of whose innocence I was not entirely convinced," Churchill retorted. "Now, don't jump to conclusions, Miss Lane. And you, Hathaway—!" he turned to Bob, who was indignantly trying to interrupt—"keep your shirt on. What I say in the privacy of this room will have nothing to do with my conduct of the case. That is, say, doubts I may have of Cherry's innocence will not interfere in any way with my efforts to free her. That understood?" he barked.

"I don't like the way you put it, Mr. Churchill," Faith protested. "But—"

"All right. Now let me have my say. I think Cherry's best bet is self-defense. I can clear her—a pretty girl like Cherry—before any male jury in the land, if she'll tell a straight-forward story of what took place in Chay's bedroom that night. Wait—" he commanded them both—"Cherry goes to break her engagement with an old man so that she can marry a young one. She tells the old man that she's made a mistake, begs to be let off. He is furious with her, insane with anger. He locks her in the room, tells her she can't leave until she promises to go quietly with him to the church. They struggle. He strikes her. To protect herself, she hurls the vase at him, not intending to kill him, of course, but in anger at him for striking her and for his attempting to force her into a marriage which she has determined not to go through with. Unfortunately the blow kills him. He falls. She runs from the room in a panic, not even realizing that he is dead. She makes her escape, joins her lover, they speed away and are married. Fever keeps her from telling the truth before the coroner's jury, but on the witness stand, under oath, she decides to tell the truth, throw herself on the mercy of the judge and the jury. Result—another beautiful girl is acquitted of justifiable and unpremeditated homicide." He spread his big hands with a gesture of satisfaction.

Faith rose, trembling so that she could hardly stand. "Cherry is innocent, Mr. Churchill. She will never in the world consent to such a defense. She would rather go to the gallows or to prison for life than to secure her freedom in the way you suggest. We'd better go Bob," she turned to Hathaway who had risen too. "Surely we can find a lawyer who will believe in the innocence of an innocent girl!"

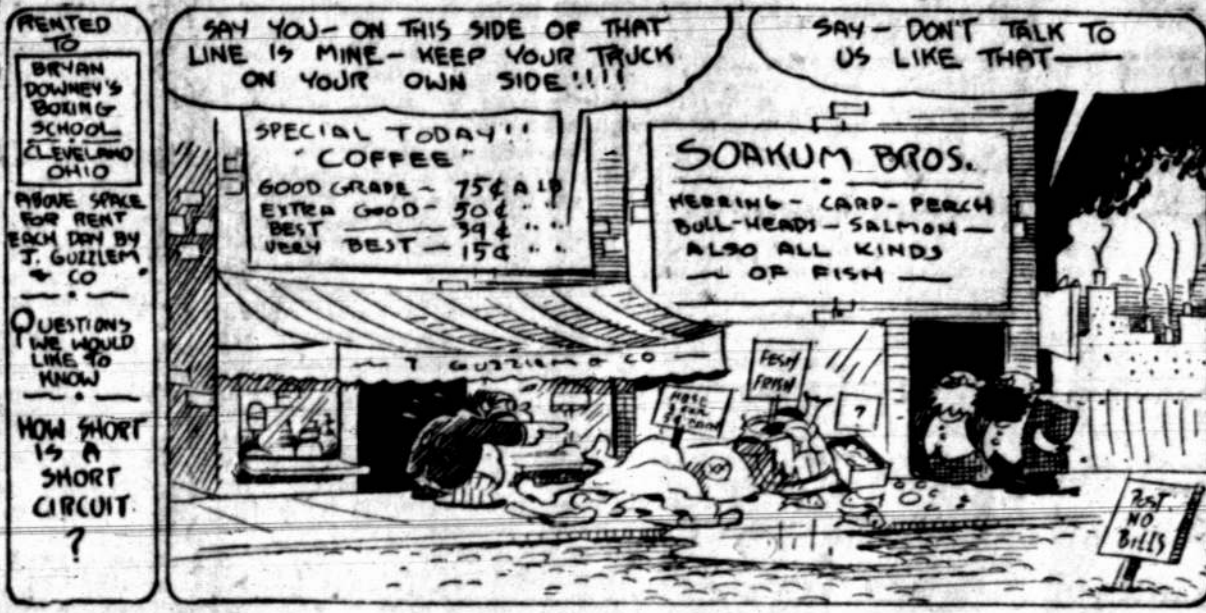

TOMORROW: Faith wins a victory over Churchill's skepticism.

Plumber A Doctor, Too

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

THE remains of sewers in the cities of the Assyrians, built in the year 900 B. C., indicate that the disposal of waste has always played an important part in the life of man.

Without any apparent knowledge of bacterial infection, the ancients nevertheless saw the necessity of proper removal of such wastes for a continued physical existence. However, sanitary engineering as known today is of recent origin.

Dampness and Fever

A special bulletin on the subject, prepared by the department of health of Newark, N. J., points out that in 1884 at least 18,000 people lived in damp basements in New York city without proper means for disposal of wastes. In fact, in places where sewages from other places seeped into these basements. During a period of two weeks investigators found 1200 unreported cases of typhus fever.

Today, as a result of modern plumbing, any place may be kept clean and dry, and waste disposed of without the slightest possibility of contamination to the surroundings. Practically every community now has a sanitary plumbing code which describes methods by which food and body wastes are to be removed.

Modern Problems

The building of vast apartment houses and skyscrapers has brought about other problems of plumbing and water pressure, in the solution of which engineers of all types have combined for promoting human health.

The City of Chicago last year had fewer than 200 cases of typhoid fever and fewer than 20 deaths from this disease. If the rate prevailing 50 years ago still persisted, there might have been expected 20,000 to 40,000 cases of this disease.

The diminishing rate has been the result of providing proper water supply, of proper disposal of sewage, and constant attention to cleanliness, particularly of milk, and finally to some extent of the use of anti-typhoid vaccination in the presence of known cases of the disease.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

HITTING A STRIDE

MRS. BROWN called out from the kitchen where she was mixing buckwheat cakes for breakfast. "Well, who won?"

John's face looked as fallen as Pompeii as he strode and draped one long leg over the corner of the table. "Not us!" he said gloomily.

"What was wrong? Other team too strong for you?" asked his mother, briskly beating up the batter.

"No! We were better than they were. We're just hoodooed and I'm the hoodoo. Everything I go in for goes pop. I'm a jinx. I tell you—the original little cross-eyed, black eye! I couldn't make good on the hockey team and now it's the same with basketball. I don't make good marks in school and I can't do a darn thing and you know it. I'm a complete, absolute, unutterable failure, so I am. Here's the adhesive tape!"

Mrs. Brown was inclined at first to say, "Oh, go on! Don't be silly! If you're going to talk that way, don't let me hear you."

But there was a look of such real tragedy on her son's face that she said nothing. She set the bowl back and folded. She had a book in her hand and was hunting for something. She said presently: "Listen, John! Here is the book 'Lullaby' and she read: 'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour, I've seen my fondest hopes decay; I never loved a tree or flower, but 'twas the first to fade away I never nursed a dear gazelle, to glad me with its soft, black eye, but when it came to know me well, and love me, it was sure to die!'"

She closed the book quietly, "John, I always wanted to be a great singer."

John jumped to his feet. "Mother, I'm a quitter," he cried. "You'll never catch me leaving again. I guess you mean I haven't just struck my stride yet. That's it, isn't it?"

"Yes," said his mother.

Lubbock National Bank To Handle Veterans' World War Certificates But Legion Will Aid In Loan Work

Due to the widespread interest of veterans of the world war in loan value of their insurance certificates issued by the government as an outgrowth of the service during the war, negotiations are now under way by the Lubbock National bank here whereby money will be advanced on the certificates. Bank officials and American Legion leaders, however, are discouraging use of the loan feature of the policy.

The local banking institution at the urging of American Legion officials, has just about completed arrangements to handle the policies, according to L. C. Ellis, vice president of the bank. A few days, however, will be needed to complete final details of the negotiations, Mr. Ellis said.

Most Banks Adament Banks generally over the country have looked askance on the loan feature of the policies, and in many instances have refused to handle the paper "due to the low rate of interest and other objectionable features of the requirements in connection with the loans," but the demand of veterans for assistance have grown to such an extent that Legion officials here opened negotiations to aid in the situation.

The bank is not yet in position to handle the paper. It was said, but will have final details completed shortly. Bank officials said, however, that all applications for loans must be handled through Legion officials. To this end, Chas. Whitacre, who has an office in the Lubbock National bank building has been named by F. D. Rupe, commander of the legion post to have charge of this phase of the work. It is estimated that there are approximately 2,500 ex-service men within a fifty mile radius of Lubbock, many of whom are now in great need of financial assistance, but an appeal is going out from legion officials and bankers that the loan feature of the policy not be used unless it is an absolute necessity. Mr. Whitacre said today that he would be glad to confer with any war veteran regarding the matter.

TO WORK WITH MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—The house foreign affairs committee today ordered a favorable report on the Garner resolution to authorize an appropriation of $50,000 to cooperate with Mexico in a survey of the lower waters of the Rio Grande and Colorado rivers. The report will stipulate that the secretary of state must concur in the plan.

Americans, says A. R. Fowle, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, are buying more and more of England's beautiful old houses.

HIGHWAY MEETING CALLED

The proposal to change the designated highway No. 52 from Lubbock to Idalia as recently established by the highway department, will be discussed in open session at a mass meeting of property owners of the country tomorrow night in the court house. Proponents of the Broadway route announced today. Backers of both routes are invited to the meeting but no argument will be indulged in. It was said.

Flashes Of Life

(By The Associated Press)

Out Of Order

NEW YORK—Frank Geppert, who is serving on juries in civil cases, has decided views as to women's clothes. Called to sit on case involving a woman tripping and being hurt, he addressed his honors: "No wonder women have accidents. Look how they dress! How do they expect to walk with those high heels?" The court readily granted his request to be excused.

Ho-Hum!

HARRISBURG, Pa.—One woman objects to men in high hats, striped trousers and snats, under some circumstances at least. A man's request for such dress, for male legislators, caused so much objection by Representative Helen Gimes that nothing was done about it.

A Good Move

TRENTON, N. J.—Miss Agnes Jones, member of the state assembly, as a winning way with her, she pointed machine guns at assembly men in successful advocacy of a bill to prohibit the sale of such.

Cut Rates

WASHINGTON—Representative Hull of Illinois, former distiller, has a bill pending under which he thinks legal medicinal whiskey would retail at 80 cents a pint.

Not So Bad

NEW YORK—This country leads the world in possession of diamonds. A survey by jewelers indicates there are ten million carats valued at four billion dollars here. And a Wall street compilation is that a total of twenty billion dollars in securities is held by American banks and insurance companies.

Paroled

MONTE LAC, Wis.—Old Bill Maxwell, presumably the oldest convict in the world, is dead at 92. A model prisoner, he had refused a parole for years. He was in the 58th year of a life sentence for murder.

New Record

NEW YORK—There's a new record for the climbing of Mount Woolworth. Leon Avazian, high school athlete, who does not smoke, ran up the 58 flights of stairs in the 322 foot building in nine minutes flat, cutting the old mark by three minutes.

Fairchild Bill To Be Reported Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—By a vote of nine to five, the house foreign affairs committee voted today to report the Fairchild resolution affirming the position taken by President Coolidge in the Nicaraguan-Mexican situation.

The vote was on party lines, except that representative Connally, Democrat, Texas, joined with eight Republicans in the affirmative. He said he was opposed to the resolution and voted as he did because it would enable him to move to reconsider. He then made a motion that the vote be reconsidered and the committee became involved in a discussion over the matter.

The Fairchild resolution would place the house on record as expressing "its full concurrence" with the president's position.

Armed Men Called Out In Louisiana Rumpus GOVERNOR'S FORCES BACKING ONE OF TWO MEN As Commissioners Row Over Who Is Official

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—The Orleans parish court house seemed an armed camp today as two conservation commissioners set up separate offices in the building, each guarded by armed deputies and policemen.

While armed men strolled through the building and crowds gathered outside, Governor O. H. Simpson, at Baton Rouge, threatened to call out the militia should such step be necessary to insure the retention of offices by his appointee, Major Frank T. Payne, a former chief engineer of the department.

Hostilities this morning had been confined to a cross fire of statements, with Governor Simpson's forces laying a legal barrage by procuring a restraining order which forbids Dr. V. K. Irion, conservation commissioner whom the governor has been endeavoring to oust for several months, from interfering with Major Payne in the discharge of the duties of the office.

Major Payne, appointed yesterday by Governor Simpson, took possession of the office by force last night with the aid of a squad of deputies. Dr. Irion, appearing at the office, was refused entrance and today set up quarters in a different section of the building, guarded by policemen.

Troubles in the conservation department date back to a short time after Governor Simpson assumed the gubernatorial reins after the death of Governor Fuqua.

Claiming inefficiency in the administration of the department's affairs and maladministration, Governor Simpson instituted ouster proceedings which still are pending.

Innes Released On Mail Fraud Charge

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1 (AP)—Victor E. Innes, who was ordered acquitted by the judge in San Antonio, Texas, after he had been arrested in connection with the disappearance of the Nelms sisters in 1914, has been released from the federal prison here after serving a term for using the mails to defraud.

Innes was released Saturday night after a friend appeared at the prison and paid his $1,000 fine. Earlier in the day Innes had taken a pauper's oath and began a thirty day sentence necessary in such cases. The fine was not remitted federal officials in the federal building until today.

Prison officials refused to say who the friend was.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Minimum rates from the Gulf to foreign ports were approved by the shipping board in sanctioning agreements between Gulf and South Atlantic ports. The agreements established a general minimum on a parity with rates from North Atlantic ports to Europe.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

But once, ages of the past ages have concluded, and if you have a feeling that you can dispose of that discarded piece of furniture, or if you have an extra room you would turn into profit through rent, that opportunity may be waiting for you, but will be gone if you don't make up your mind. There is nothing easier than calling up the Avalanche-Journal, dictating your ad, and then wait for the prospective customers. They are somewhere waiting for your announcement. Let them have it before it is too late.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (AP)—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone at the opening of today's market. The decrease of over $38,000,000 in brokers' loans last week, bringing the total down over $86,000,000 below the peak of the month coincident with an increase in commercial loans, had a bullish effect on sentiment. General Motors and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, each showed initial gains of 1 1/4 points. The upward movement became more pronounced as trading progressed, with pools again resuming operations in a number of specialties. Motors, oils, rubbers and "merger rails" gave the best exhibitions of group strength in the early trading, but there were several laggards in each group. The optimistic tenor of the monthly bank reviews and the continued ease of money rates had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment. Canadian Pacific, Houston Oil, Colorado Fuel, R. H. Macy and National Supply sold at their highest price in years. Large overnight buying orders were executed in Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies. Nash Motors, Western Maryland common and the Wheeling and Lake Erie issues. Pullman quickly sold off three points on the tradition "selling on good news" following announcement of a proposed recapitalization plan. Resumption of the advance in Spanish pesetas, which touched another high since 1920 at 16.79 cents featured the steady foreign exchange markets. Demand sterling ruled around $4.8 1/2.

DENISON GUNFIGHT HAS FATAL END

(By Associated Press) DENISON, Texas, Feb. 1.—An unidentified burglar was shot to death and Patrolman T. W. Price, 56, was probably fatally wounded here early this morning when officers found two men looting a store in a residential district. The other burglar escaped into the darkness as the patrolman, barely able to stand, steadied himself against the wall and fired several shots at the fleeing man. The man shot by the officer fell dead while he stood crouching a smoldering revolver in his hand. A bottle of liquor, several pennies, some pecans and a rabbit's foot, were found in the dead man's pockets. The injured officer was rushed to a hospital where he was given attention. A roadster, said to have been stolen in Dallas, was found near the store. The license number was 265-581. Officers this morning declared the robbers may have been the same who killed and robbed a Fort Worth theater man yesterday.

of my own. I knew I was getting on in years. My wife gave several reasons why she did not want children."

Gave Up Everything Browning described his attentions to his wife which, he said, included many theater parties and the birthday party on which latter occasion he said he had given her a valuable gift of jewelry. "I used the subway and my wife used the car," he said, "when she told me the doctors had told her she needed to get our doctors more."

Denies He Got Drunk Browning declared he never was drunk in his life. He laughed and said "No" when a story he heard he had threatened to shoot Mrs. Browning, and her mother.

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 1. (AP)—Despite the fact that Edward W. Browning himself was scheduled to take the stand in his separation suit today, crowds at the White Plains court house were thinner and more orderly than yesterday. Elizabeth D. Farney was the first witness called. In August, 1926, she said she met Browning and his wife, and spent much of her time in their company. "I wouldn't care if I never dined with anybody but you, Peaches," the witness said Browning once remarked.

Money Found on Them DALLAS, Feb. 1 (AP)—Dallas police today received word that two youths answering the description of the pair who yesterday killed Roscoe Wilson, Majestic theater treasurer, at Fort Worth, have been arrested in Sulphur, Okla.

Reward Is Posted AUSTIN, Feb. 1 (AP)—On the condition they are not now under arrest, Governor Don Moody Tuesday posted a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons who on Monday killed Roscoe H. Wilson, treasurer of the Majestic theater, Fort Worth, and fled with $4,000.

PHILISFISING AROUND IN LOS ANGELES

This modern Babylon by the Sea is not so lively as when I was here in 1922; however, it is yet almost fast enough to keep up with Lubbockite. Pet poodles and long haired cats still hold first place in society in some places here. Japper-actresses come second. Dudes and Dudenes third, and human beings fourth. While out rambling this morning, I saw a hole in the ground and a sign near it reading: PEDESTRIANS MUST GO THROUGH TUNNEL AFTER LOOKING CAREFULLY. I failed to see where that hole came out, so I walked across on top. A traffic officer ordered me to get back and go through that hole. I have not done it yet and do not intend to.

There are lots of good free things here. I mean that they are free at the start, but at the wind up, Oh Boy. There is a very large single barrel shot-gun—mounted on a Mount Wilson. Here, through which one can see another world, I am going to take a peep through it tomorrow night. If I discover any Wild Turkey sign on it, I will tell Doctor Hall and Roch Newton about it when I return to Lubbock.

The unpardonable sin of commission here is to say one word against Los Angeles. That of omission is, to fail to boost the City when opportunity offers.

Popular Texan Praises Tanlac Patrick Dougherty New Man Now

Widely and well known in Southern states, Mr. Dougherty had had breakdown due to stomach trouble of 10 years' standing. Tried Tanlac and felt improved; persevered and fully overcame distressing symptoms

In his active outdoor life as a dealer in horses and mules, Mr. Patrick Dougherty has traveled all through the South, making and keeping a host of friends. His home is now at 203 West Central Ave., Fort Worth, Texas. For ten years stomach trouble afflicted him. "I suffered untold agony," he said recently. "The very odor of food sickened me and what little I could eat lay like a stone in my stomach. Each morning I would rise with an awful pain inside me, and I had no heart for the day's work. Life was a dreary drudge to me then. I grew weak and sorrow, lost weight and was easily exhausted. I grew discouraged and depressed. "Somehow what it had done for other sick folks, I gave Tanlac a trial and, can truthfully say it gave me relief. Three bottles convinced me of its value so I continued till six were finished. The awful weight and pains in my stomach soon disappeared and my appetite came back. I was able to sleep naturally again for the first time in years. Now I'm strong and well; nothing bothers me. Tanlac will always have a warm place in my heart! What Tanlac did for Mr. Dougherty it has done for many thousands of others. Over a hundred thousand grateful friends have written to tell us so. If you're in poor health, try Tanlac. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

Full Agreement Reached By Allies And Germany Over Disarmament And Working Out Of Details Next Move

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Feb. 1.—Full agreement on the disarmament questions which have been the subject of protracted negotiations between the allies and Germany was reached today. The allied council of ambassadors is working out a few remaining details, but all pending differences over the military control of Germany have been settled, and there are no problems to be turned over to the League of Nations.

Military Control Mailed The inter-allied military control commission now ceases to function, the league taking over the work of seeing that Germany complies with the disarmament provisions of the Versailles treaty.

In broad lines the agreement calls for the destruction of the fortifications at Kaestrin and Glogau, in Prussia, and 12 fortified works in the vicinity of Koenigsberg. The German government solemnly affirms that no other fortifications exist, except those expressly recognized by the allies, and engages not to construct others.

Some of the members are practically on starvation, police said, in seeking to find ways to arrange for provisions.
