LIFE OR DEATH

That's what a simple battery change could mean

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Changing a battery could save your life if that battery is the one operating your smoke detector. As part of Fire Prevention Week, local firefighters are making rounds to schools and talking with students about fire safety. They are also telling the children to remind their parents to change the battery in the smoke detector when Day-Light Savings Time ends Oct. 29.

Fire Prevention Week

Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles said it is important to test your detector frequently but also to change the battery twice a year. The best time to remember to do that is when we either fall back or spring forward for the time change.

Big Spring and Howard County firefighters are taking trucks to the area schools along with booklets containing fire prevention tips. The booklets are sponsored by local merchants and Settles said he appreciates their support and contributions.

"We are teaching the kids the importance of not going back into a home if it is on fire. We tell them not to go back in for their toys or pets. We also stress to them the importance of having a meeting place so their parents can make sure everyone is out of the house," Settles said.

The fire marshal also reminds people not to call 911 from your house if it is on fire. Going to a neighbor's house to call then to the predetermined meeting place is very important.

"The parents should also know they should not go back into the house and wait for us. Because of the location of our fire stations, our records show in the majority of our cases our response time is three minutes or less," he said.

"We are trained to go into a house and look for people. We also have the proper clothing and air pack that allows us to stay in a house longer to look for someone."

At least one fire extinguisher should be a staple in every home and kept in the kitchen away from the stove. A second fire extinguisher kept in the master bedroom is also a good idea in case you need it to put out a small fire in that area of the house.

Having two exit plans is important as well as having a ladder of some sort to use if you live on the second floor.

As the holidays get closer and people start staying at your house, Settles reminds residents to show their guests where the smoke detectors and fire extinguishers are.

It is also a good idea to go over the exit plans and meeting places with everyone, especially young children who could become disoriented while staying in a house they are not familiar with.

Big Spring firefighter Scott Emerson puts a hat on the head of College Heights Elementary School first grade teacher Libby Martin to show her and the students looking on how heavy the equipment is. Members of the fire department have been travelling to different schools this week, talking with the students about safety as part of Fire Prevention Week.

TU looking to acquire two electric cos.

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Utilities Co. is looking into the acquisition of two large electric companies, a deal that could total several billion dollars for the state's dominant power company.

The company — whose TU Electric unit serves more than 2 million customers mostly in the Dallas-Fort Worth area — is considering purchasing Austin's municipal electric utility and an Australian electric company, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The reasons are simple: the growth in demand for electricity in Texas has slowed and the company will have fewer opportunities to raise rates because there's no need to build any big power plants.

But some people familiar with the company's plans told the newspaper it may not complete the deals because Austin's utility may not be for sale and the Australian company has many interested buyers.

Utility executives are concerned that new legislation may force them to compete with independent power producers. As a result, TU and others have turned to foreign utilities and other new areas for growth.

The larger of the two possible acquisitions, the Austin utility, would give the company a stake

Blood bank merges with Oklahoma system after regulatory problems

By MARY McATEER
Staff Writer

STANTON — Permian Basin Regional Blood Center joined the Oklahoma Blood Institute (OBI) system Oct. 1, becoming the Permian Basin Blood Institute.

PBBI serves several area hospitals, including Martin County Hospital in Stanton, providing blood products and related services.

The decision to merge with OBI came after PBRBC encountered some regulatory difficulties with the Food and Drug Administration. Center administrators decided on affiliation with a larger organization for management and cost effectiveness. Four blood centers were invited to offer proposals on the merger - Oklahoma Blood Institute in Oklahoma City; Gulf Coast Regional in Houston; Blood Carriers in Dallas; and South Texas Regional in San Antonio. OBI's final proposal was accepted.

OBI will provide leadership and expertise in all areas including medical, management, regulatory, quality assurance, processing and information systems. PBBI will operate under OBI's federal license.

"What that means for the community is an excellent, readily available blood supply, and outstanding services," said OBI

Sifting through calls, under cars, investigators search for who sent train off its tracks

HYDER, Ariz. (AP) — The FBI called in a crane Wednesday to lift top-coached Amtrak Related story - 4A so agents could look underneath for clues to whoever sent the train off a bridge.

Ninety agents, some on their hands and knees in the dust and creosote bush, searched the gulch around the cars of the Sunset Limited, which toppled from a 30-foot-high trestle early Monday, killing a crew member and injuring at least 78 people.

Agents assigned to Operation

Splitrail also fielded a trickle of calls to a new toll-free hot line, interviewed nearby residents about what they might have seen and checked railroad records for leads to possibly disgruntled employees.

At the scene 55 miles southwest of Phoenix, the search covered one square mile.

"They're in and out of cars, they're on their hands and knees, they're in the railroad cars, they're up and down hills, we're all around the area," FBI spokesman Jack Callahan said.

Seniors encourage to attend special police academy

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Senior citizens who want to learn more about their local police department can sign up for the upcoming Citizens Police Academy.

Big Spring police Lt. Pam Jordan said the seven-week course starts Oct. 17 and it is not too late to register. Howard College's Continuing Education Department is the place to go if you are interested in participating in the free program. The classes are on Tuesdays 9 a.m.-noon at the Spring City Senior Citizens Center.

"We decided to start a senior class because approximately 26 percent of the population in Big Spring is made up of senior citizens," said Jordan.

"This class is different from others we have offered and focuses more on crime prevention and safety. We won't have them involved in the firing range, building search or a tour of the department because it is at the senior center."

The first class will be an introduction to the police department, Police Chief Jerry Edwards, the history and organizational structure of the department and how you can access the different city departments.

Participants will also learn how officers are recruited, selected and then trained through their Field Training Officer program.

Personal safety when traveling, walking, shopping and vacationing will be discussed the second week. How officers enforce the driving while intoxicated laws will also be addressed.

The rest of the schedule is as follows:

•Week three - participants will receive information on the role of a police officer, what kinds of equipment they carry, what effect the job has on the officer and their family. The Drug Free Youth in Texas program and the canine unit will also be discussed.

•Week four - fire safety in the home will be discussed and the second part of the class will deal with the Big Spring Fire Department's ambulance service and the services covered by Medicare.

•Week five - students will learn about fraud which is the number one crime against the elderly. Officers will teach participants how to spot fraud and the different tactics that are used. Home safety, security, neighborhood watch program and the Adopt-A-Cop program will also be featured.

•Week six - state laws dealing with use of force by officers, family violence and its effect on law enforcement and the pressure point control tactics will be discussed.

•Week seven - students will learn about the identification, records, communications and jail departments.

A graduation ceremony will culminate the program and the senior members will graduate with another Citizens Police Academy class currently underway.

in one of the state's most lively economies. Austin's fast-growing technology industry doesn't rely on real estate or oil.

"If the city were to decide to pursue the sale of the electric utility system, we want to be a player," said TU Electric vice chairman Eddie Watson. "We're interested in the whole thing if they want to put it up for sale."

Austin is still determining whether to solicit bids. And residents would need to vote to approve any sale.

TU officials declined to comment on their interest in the Australian utility. But industry analysts confirmed at a regulatory hearing Wednesday that the company was looking at one of several recently privatized utilities in that nation, the newspaper said.

"I think they may look elsewhere. They may look at the U.K.," an unnamed industry analyst said. "They're trying to find more growth."

with. Some other fire prevention tips include:

•Check your heating appliances and have them serviced if necessary.

•If you use a space heater, keep all materials at least three feet away from it. Do not put it near a bed where sheets may fall on it and catch on fire.

•Keep matches and lighters away from children. Kids as young as three years old can operate a lighter.

•Clean the vent-a-hood above your stove.

•If you have to exit your house through a window, close the door to the room before you leave. The outside air just adds fuel to the fire.

•If you sleep with the door closed, check it for heat and to see if smoke is coming from underneath. If so, leave it closed and exit through a window.

president and CEO Ronald O. Gilcher, M.D., F.A.C.P.

"Our goal is to provide the expertise, support and resources needed to enable the Permian Basin Blood Institute to become a premier blood center."

Affiliation with OBI will enable hospitals in the PBBI system access to very high quality blood products in adequate quantities at reasonable costs.

In addition to whole blood, OBI provides other blood products, such as plasma and platelets fractionated from whole blood.

OBI is in the forefront of apheresis technology, which allows capture of plasma and platelets from a single donor. Using previous technology, one unit of fresh frozen plasma or one unit of platelets would require processing six to 10 units of whole blood. Using apheresis, platelets or plasma can be captured from a single donor while red blood cells are returned to the donor's bloodstream, minimizing the risk of incompatibility or infection from multiple donors.

OBI has also done extensive work in peripheral blood progenitor cell collection. Progenitor cells, also called stem cells, are the blood producing cells usually collected from bone marrow. Using peripheral collection techniques, bone marrow transplants, which are painful, can be bypassed, as stem cells present in the bloodstream can be captured for use, Gilcher said. In treatment of diseases such as advanced breast cancer, stem cells can be captured from the patient and stored at -190F before radical chemotherapy is administered. After treatment, the stem cells are replaced, stimulating the patient's bone marrow to resume production of blood cells.

OBI is in the process of becoming The Blood Institute, to comply with federal regulations. The Blood Institute will be the oversight organization for six regional blood institutes, five in Oklahoma and one in Texas. All the regional blood centers will have access to quality and availability they didn't have in the past, Gilcher said.

FBI Director Louis J. Freeh was asked on his way out of a Washington briefing if he anticipated arresting "the guys" responsible for the derailment soon.

"Guys?" Freeh responded, underlining that the bureau has not reached conclusions about whether one or more people were involved or even the gender of the saboteur or saboteurs. "We're going to do the best we can," Freeh added.

A senior Justice Department official in Washington, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that at least three copies had been found of a note interpreted as claiming responsibility in the name of a group called "Sons of Gestapo." The official said more copies may have been found.

The notes mentioned the government sieges at Waco, Texas, and Ruby Ridge, Idaho — both of them rallying cries for right-wing extremists. They also reportedly mention agencies including the FBI, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and an unspecified local sheriff. The FBI's 24-hour hot line is (800) 905-1514.

Testimony shows gun purchased after firing

HOUSTON (AP) — Murder defendant Yolanda Saldívar bought the handgun that killed Tejano star Selena two days after the singer fired her amid embezzlement charges, witnesses say.

"I told her I was going to go to the police and make an investigation of embezzlement," Abraham Quintanilla Jr., Selena's father and manager, testified of the March 9 meeting at his Q Production offices.

The former overseer of the singer's two Selena Etc. clothing boutiques, now being tried for Selena's murder, had been writing business checks for herself, family members testified Wednesday.

On March 31, as Selena Quintanilla Perez met with Ms. Saldívar to retrieve business records, she was shot at a Corpus Christi motel. Ms. Saldívar, 35, admitted to the shooting after a more than nine-hour standoff with police, law enforcers said.

Prosecutors charge that the slaying was premeditated and that Ms. Saldívar, who rose from Selena groupie to founder of her fan club to employee, committed a "senseless and cowardly act of violence."

"The perpetrator of that act, the person sitting in this courtroom, Yolanda Saldívar, shot her in the back," Nueces County District Attorney Carlos Valdez said.

Defense attorney Douglas Tinker insisted in opening statements that the shooting was accidental. He hinted at a conspiracy of law enforcement that kept Ms. Saldívar's entire story from being told in police reports and in her confession.

"There is some camaraderie among law enforcement," Tinker said.

Witness finds doodling trouble on stand

HOUSTON (AP) — A gun shop manager testifying for the state in the Selena murder trial found himself defenseless when upbraided on the stand by defense attorney Douglas Tinker.

Relying on notes scribbled on a piece of a newspaper, Kyle Voss listed for jurors on Wednesday the dates that murder defendant Yolanda Saldívar entered his gun store, A Place To Shoot.

On cross-examination, Tinker asked to see the piece of paper from which state District Judge Mike Westergren had allowed Voss to read.

Prosecutors objected, claiming the notes were only for reference and not a piece of evidence.

Voss blanched and explained that the paper was merely a grocery list and the dates of Ms. Saldívar's visits. Ms. Saldívar is accused in the shooting death of Tejano music star

Selena Quintanilla Perez.

Tinker found something more than a grocery list.

The piece of the newspaper was actually an article featuring a picture of Tinker. Voss had written several snide remarks across the article that joked about Tinker's appearance.

Court observers have noted that Tinker, with his full stomach and white beard, resembles Santa Claus.

Voss was not nearly that kind. He appeared mortified as Tinker read aloud the gun store president's observations.

"Suspenders to keep fat ass from showing," Tinker read. "Cheap-ass watch. Wrist too fat for a classy watch. Protruding belly. Is it a boy or a girl?"

"I was just joking around," Voss meekly explained. "I apologize."

"And I accept," Tinker said and court was recessed for the day.

edged during Tinker's cross-examination that guns can fire accidentally.

Tinker said his client went to the San Antonio store on March 11 to buy a gun to protect herself from the harassment of Selena's father.

Court upholds death sentence

Two judges think wrong man convicted

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld the death sentence of a Cameron County man convicted of killing two men he thought raped his wife in 1991.

But at least two judges said Wednesday they believed the wrong man has been sentenced to die.

Paul Richard Colella, 27, was convicted in September 1992 for shooting David Taylor and Michael Lavesphere on Sept. 12, 1991.

Six judges affirmed the conviction. But Judge Charles Baird wrote in a dissenting opinion, with Judge Morris Overstreet concurring, that an accomplice was the more likely killer.

A roller coaster series of events found Colella and Anthony "Red" Wilson helping the victims free a truck from the sand on South Padre Island and partying with them on the beach. According to court records, Colella later found the victims asleep in their white pickup and shot them.

"The evidence in this record suggests that Red, not appellant committed the murders," Baird wrote in his opinion. "I would reverse the judgment of the trial court and order an acquittal."

According to the majority opinion, Colella's wife, Brenda Bowling, partied with the group on the beach, argued with her husband about his drinking and then left the beach. The victims later found her hitchhiking and picked her up.

Ms. Bowling told her husband that the victims had raped her, but Rick Taylor, brother of one of the victims who was also with the slain men, denied the charge, the opinion said.

Ms. Bowling did not want to go to the police because there was a warrant out for her arrest in Indiana. The couple had recently moved to South Texas from Terre Haute, Ind., the opinion said.

After shooting the men, Colella drove the pickup into the bay and threw the gun in the ocean, court records said. He and Ms.

Bowling then fled to Indiana, where Colella was later arrested.

Baird's dissent, however, suggested that Wilson's testimony against Colella did not jibe with the physical evidence and that none of the evidence served to connect the condemned man to the killings.

For example, Wilson said Colella shot one of the victims in the bed of the pickup and then walked to the driver's side to shoot the second. During the trial, however, a medical examiner said the victims were shot from the passenger side of the vehicle, Baird said.

Baird also questioned whether Colella could have committed the crimes at 2 a.m. Sept. 12, 1991, with enough time to travel from South Padre Island to Victoria where he bought a bus ticket at 6 a.m.

Also, he suggested the local authorities had botched the initial investigation by neglecting to secure the crime scene, among other things.

"There is no evidence tending to connect appellant with the commission of the murders," Baird wrote.

Roxanne visits Texas coast with a load of rain

Texas was feeling the effects of a high pressure ridge in the north and west and of Hurricane Roxanne in the deep south. The Texas coast may see isolated to scattered showers and thunderstorms from the hurricane.

Clear skies continued across North Texas early Thursday as a weak high pressure ridge continued to be the dominant weather force. This ridge bisected Texas from the Big Bend northeast to the Piney Woods in East Texas.

Skies remained clear over West Texas as high pressure continued to build into the region.

Criminal charges won't be filed in bad loan case

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture will not pursue criminal charges against a South Texas family over a string of bad loans, but that doesn't mean an investigation into the transactions is over.

The department's inspector general's office confirmed that federal prosecutors have chosen to drop the case after a six-month investigation of Ira Moczygemba and members of his family.

In the summer of 1994, the office began reviewing a series of loans to Moczygemba, his father and his mother, who live and farm near Poth, about 35 miles southeast of San Antonio.

An unidentified Justice Department official told The Dallas Morning News that "there was not enough to do anything with." However, he said, "it doesn't necessarily mean that's the end of the show."

Moczygemba, whose bad debts to the government total about $1 million, expressed relief at the news.

"That's one piece of good news," he said. Nevertheless, his business prospects remain grim. "It doesn't look good. I don't know where we're going to turn," he said.

The case arose from troubles in the Texas operations of the Farmers Home Administration.

The federal lending agency, which specializes in agriculture loans, has lost more than $12 billion to loans that have not been repaid since 1989.

Deportation order separates 'Thelma and Louise'

TORONTO (AP) — A deportation order has been issued for half of a team, nicknamed Thelma and Louise, wanted for crimes in Texas and arrested in Toronto earlier this month.

Immigration officials on Wednesday ordered Joyce Stevens, 31, deported to the United States. She is expected to be turned over to U.S. authorities in two or three days.

Stevens and Rose Turford, 36, jumped a $500,000 bond set by a Houston court following their arrest in March on charges of assault and robbery. They were arrested in Toronto last week following an anonymous tip to police.

Turford, who is originally from London, Ontario, is in custody awaiting extradition to face robbery and assault charges in Texas.

Stevens, a U.S. citizen, did not contest the facts presented at the deportation hearing.

Immigration authorities say deportation proceedings were held because Stevens lied to get into Canada and was unlawfully employed.

Robert Lambert, an immigration department official, said Stevens used a social security number in Turford's maiden name to get a job as a phone sex operator.

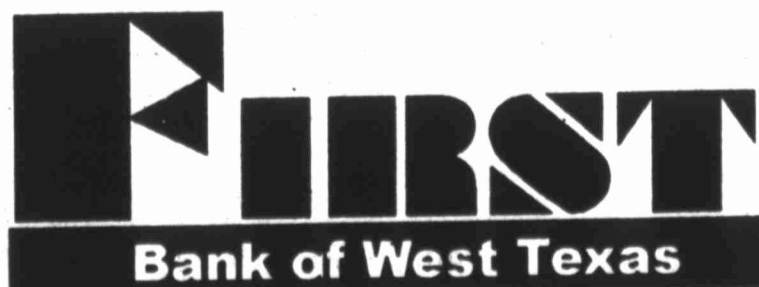

U.S. authorities allege the women devised elaborate schemes, including a fake dating service, to fleece men in Las Vegas, Houston and Galveston.

The two were arrested March 14 at a Houston motel, and charged with three counts of aggravated robbery for holdups at gunpoint of three men who fell for the dating scheme, authorities say.

Quote of the Day

"He who opposes the public liberty overthrows his own."

William Lloyd Garrison, editor, 1835

This weekend offers plethora of things to do

It's often heard around this town there is nothing to do.

But there is plenty to do if you open your mind to something different. Old Sorehead Days opens Saturday in Stanton. The event offers shopping, music and entertainment for the kiddies.

The community effort is expecting nearly 350 vendors to line the street, hawking their wares.

After being on your feet all day shopping, what better way to wind down than with the Big Spring Symphony.

The symphony will be performing at the Municipal Auditorium Saturday beginning at 8 p.m. This is the kickoff to its 16th season with soloist Mike Santorelli.

The theme is "Symphony - it's for Everyone!" this year.

And, if you need a little angst in your life, the Big Spring High School Theater Department is putting on a production of William Shakespeare's "Hamlet" Saturday, Monday and Tuesday at the High School Auditorium with performances beginning at 7:30 p.m. each night.

And, then the Marine Band will be on tap Oct. 23 at the Municipal Auditorium. Tickets for that event are free.

See, there is plenty to do here in Big Spring. The choice is yours.

And, making the choice might be the hardest part of all.

It's time to face the music

The waiting room outside the office of Dr. I.M. Kookie was packed with sad-eyed people.

"Yes, I've never been busier," said Dr. Kookie, the noted expert on lots of stuff. "These are traumatic times for the true-blue dedicated liberals."

These patients are all staunch liberals?

"Oh, yes, unyielding in their devotion, unlimited in their compassion. And they have never been through more difficult times and in greater need of my therapy."

What's wrong with them? "My good man, don't you follow events? There is Newt Gingrich and his congressional followers doing everything but cooking and eating the children of the poor, there is the growing power of religious right, the increasingly conservative national media."

"And now the worst trauma of all - the past week and the O.J. Simpson affair."

Ah, of course. They believed him guilty?

"Some did, but that is only a small part of it, since liberals have never been too keen about tossing people in prisons anyway."

Then what is it?

"It is the emotional pain of the aftershock - the stunningly wide racial divisions. And the pain of looking at the TV and hearing blacks say: 'Maybe you love me, but I don't love you or need you.'"

Ah, rejection.

"Or as Sigmund Freud so accurately put it: 'Get out of my face and - off.'"

Yes, that would be hard to take.

"And it is another reason why it is so much harder to be a liberal than a conservative."

Mike Royko
Columnist

Why? "Because it is easier to give someone the finger than a helping hand."

How true, how true. Especially when someone bites your hand.

"Of course. Just look at that poor devil over there."

He pointed at a gray-bearded man whose dripping tears formed a pool on the floor.

"He did it all - chased by red-neck rustics in Selma and marched with Dr. King to Montgomery. Took a brick to the head in Marquette Park and was tear-gassed in Grant Park. And now you know what he has to show for it?"

What?

"His yuppie son supports Pat Buchanan, his yuppie daughter blames him for her share of the national debt and he was mugged by two guys who offered to clean his windshield. And now the O.J. fallout."

What grief. He must be beyond help.

"Nonsense. I'll have him cured before lunchtime."

Really?

"Absolutely. I have a liberal-pain recovery rate of 100 percent."

Amazing. How do you do it?

"Come here and take a look."

We went to a glass-walled room. Inside were a dozen or so people wearing stereo earphones.

"Look at their faces."

Yes, I see. Some look tranquil. Others are obviously happy, inspired. Is it hypnosis?

"Nah, that's too much bother."

Then what?

"I start them off with some Joan Baez and then move them on to Peter, Paul and Mary doing early Bob Dylan."

Ah, the answer, my friend, that is blowin' in the wind.

"Exactly."

Just then the door to the glass room opened and a woman came out lustily singing: "How many roads must a man walk down before they call him a man? ... many years must some people exist before they're allowed to be free? ... The answer is blowin'..."

She smiled, flashed a peace sign and walked out the door with her head held high.

"See," Dr. Kookie said.

That's it? Some Peter, Paul and Mary?

"Oh, no. They don't all respond like that. Some are too far gone. They require much more intense treatment."

Prozac? Zoloft?

"No, much heavier. 'The Greatest Hits of the Weavers.'"

Pete Seeger and the Weavers?

"Yes, live in concert."

And they follow the drinking gourd and ask Michael to row the boat ashore?

"Yes, hallelujah."

That is very heavy. You mean that if I had a hammer, I'd hammer out danger, I'd hammer out a warning, I'd hammer out love between all of my brothers and my sisters, all over this land?

"Exactly. And remember, it's the hammer of justice and the bell of freedom."

It doesn't get any heavier than that. Unless... no, you wouldn't.

"Yes, I would. Look at them now."

They were all standing and singing and clapping their hands and looking enraptured.

You're actually giving them Pete Seeger and the Weavers doing "This Land is Your Land"? That is beyond heavy.

Aren't you worried about an overdose? They'll be putting up FDR and JFK posters.

The door opened and they marched out, singing: "... from California to the New York Island, from the redwood forest to the gulf stream water ... this land was made for you and me."

Smiling, Dr. Kookie said: "A complete cure."

Amazing. But do you also offer a form of musical treatment for depressed conservatives?

"No."

Why not?

"They just don't have rhythm."

Federal investigators continue to search for clues at the scene of Monday's sabotage derailment of the Amtrak Sunset Limited near Hyder, Ariz. Wednesday. The derailment killed a crew member and injured at least 78.

Psyche of saboteur probed for clues

HYDER, Ariz. (AP) — The FBI is trying to look into the mind of the Amtrak saboteur the way fictional agents probed the psyche of a mass murderer in "Silence of the Lambs."

Experts are conducting a "psycholinguistic analysis" of a bizarre anti-government letter that is believed to have been left by the saboteur.

The FBI acknowledged for the first time Wednesday that investigators found several photocopies of the letter at the scene of the derailment, which killed one person and injured 78 in a desert gulch 55 miles southwest of Phoenix.

Without commenting on the letter's content, Special Agent David Tubbs told reporters at a desert staging area that it had been sent to the bureau's academy at Quantico, Va., for analysis. Experts will study the grammar, spelling, word choice and other aspects to come up with a profile of the writer, he said.

"Silence of the Lambs?" FBI spokesman Jack Callahan said when asked to explain the technique. "That's exactly what it is."

In the book, later made into a movie, an FBI expert creates a psychological profile of a mass murderer using clues.

Passengers and officials who have seen the letter say it is written in a sort of verse, contains gibberish and has references to federal sieges in Waco, Texas, and Ruby Ridge, Idaho. It is signed "Sons of Gestapo" — a group unknown to experts on hate groups.

At the crash scene Wednesday, 90 agents — some on their hands and knees amid dust and creosote bush in 100-degree heat — crawled over an area of desert as large as 2 square miles looking for leads. The saboteur unbolted a rail and sent four cars of the Miami-to-Los Angeles Sunset Limited hurtling off a 30-foot-high bridge and into a dry stream bed before dawn Monday.

Agents peered under rail cars held aloft by cranes and took plaster casts of wheel tracks and footprints.

Agents asked for personnel records of Amtrak workers associated with the train, the railroad said. They also interviewed the few scattered residents of the remote area, where the nearest paved road is 10 miles from the crash scene.

"This investigation is like any other," Tubbs said. "It's a neighborhood. It's just a very large neighborhood."

Tubbs downplayed a report that investigators were focusing on the possibility a disgruntled railroad employee, tampered with the track and tried to cover his or her tracks with the letter.

"We're not able to narrow it down in terms of whether it's suspects that are militia or whatever," said Tubbs, who is in charge of the FBI's Kansas City office and who is part of a special team assigned to the Amtrak case.

In Washington, agents assigned to Operation Splitrail fielded calls — 130 in the first 22 hours — to a new toll-free hot line.

Also Wednesday, agents paid a call on the editor of an obscure magazine for train buffs that published an article last week on a 1939 case of track tampering in Nevada that bears striking similarities to the Amtrak wreck. That act of sabotage killed 24 people.

John Signor, editor of Southern Pacific Trainline in Dunsmuir, Calif., said he gave agents who came to his office Monday night a list of his 1,800 subscribers, including about 30 in Arizona.

Signor doubts his magazine inspired saboteurs. His personal theory: Teen-agers hanging around the trestle did it for kicks.

In Iowa, Randy Weaver, the white separatist at the center of the siege at Ruby Ridge, issued a statement denouncing the sabotage and saying he had never heard of "Sons of Gestapo."

Job training programs to be sent to states

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a new "one-stop" job training and vocational system in a bill that would terminate more than 80 federal programs and turn their functions over to the states.

The bill, passed 95-2 Wednesday, ends such federal programs as the Job Training Partnership Act and the Adult Education Act of 1998, cuts total spending for those programs by 15 percent and turns the remainder, some $5.9 billion, over to the states in the form of block grants.

The Job Corps program for disadvantaged youth is retained as a national program, with the Job Corps and other programs for at-risk youth funded separately at $2.1 billion a year.

Democrats have opposed other Republican plans to turn other programs, such as welfare and federal crime-fighting efforts, into block grants for the states. But this time they agreed that block grants were the way to go.

The bill would retain some federal controls.

Fresh threats come as GOP budget comes step closer to completion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration and congressional Republicans are hurling fresh threats at each other as House GOP leaders prepare to move their budget-balancing package a step closer to completion.

The House Budget Committee planned to vote today on a portion of the Republican plan for cutting spending and taxes and eliminating the deficit by 2002, and there was little suspense about the outcome. The measure, containing about $400 billion of the $894 billion, seven-year savings Republicans say will balance the budget, was expected to pass on a virtual party-line vote.

"I think you have the most amount of change in 60 years contained in this document," said House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, who has helped lead the GOP charge to shrink government.

The measure, an amalgam of cuts approved by other House committees in recent weeks, would carve savings out of Medicaid, housing, student loans and other programs.

For now, it excludes reductions in taxes, Medicare, welfare, farm programs, civil service retirement benefits, and Commerce Department programs, which will be inserted later. Leaders want the House to vote separately on Medicare to blunt Democratic charges that Medicare is being reined to pay for GOP tax cuts; the other items are either not ready or have already been approved by the House.

The full House is expected to vote on the entire budget-balancing bill in two weeks, around the same time the Senate will vote on a similar package.

Meanwhile, the partisan rhetoric grew more heated from both sides Wednesday.

Clinton administration officials accused Republicans of unyieldingly pursuing plans to excessively slash federal spending. President Clinton, who prefers a gentler nine-year path to a balanced budget, has said the GOP proposals to cut the expected growth of Medicare, Medicaid and other programs go too far.

Election-time tax credit benefits those with children

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $500-per-child tax credit would be in many Americans' pockets before next year's elections under a proposal being considered by Senate Republicans.

A tax-cut package to be reviewed in a private meeting today by GOP members of the Senate Finance Committee would make the credit retroactive to Jan. 1, allowing parents to claim it when they file their returns next spring, said Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, a committee member.

Single parents with incomes up to $75,000 and couples with incomes up to $110,000 would be eligible, Hatch said Wednesday.

However, in a cost-saving gesture, the credit in the Senate plan would end after 1999. Conservative senators are relying on Congress and a president they hope will be Republican to renew the credit before it expires.

A bill already passed by the House would start the credit a year later but continue it indefinitely. The income limit in the House version is $200,000 per family, regardless of whether the parents are single or couples.

In a nod to President Clinton, Senate Republicans want to include a tax credit to offset college tuition, Hatch said. However, according to a GOP source, the figure being discussed by senators is $750 — a smaller break than proposed by Clinton.

Hatch and other members of the Finance Committee stressed the package was still being refined and that details could change.

"Everything's on the table," said Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., chairman of the committee.

The panel's task is to shrink the House-passed "Contract With America" tax cut, estimated to cost $350 billion over seven years, to the $245 billion allowed by Congress' budget blueprint aimed at eliminating deficits by 2002.

A week and a half ago, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., had said it might be difficult to get a $245 billion tax cut through the Senate, but he and Roth said the bill being drafted would provide that amount.

According to Hatch, the emerging Senate bill, expected to be voted upon by the Finance Committee next week, also would:

—Offer a new type of Individual Retirement Account. Contributions would not be tax-deductible, but earnings would build up tax-free and withdrawals would be permitted for first-time home purchases, college tuition and medical expenses and in the event of protracted unemployment.

—Cut capital gains taxes for individuals in half, making the top rate 19.6 percent, and reduce the top rate for corporations from 35 percent to 28 percent. The House version would cut the corporate rate to 25 percent and index corporate and individual capital gains for inflation.

—Increase the estate-tax exemption for family-owned small businesses and farms from $600,000 to $1.5 million. The House bill would increase the exemption for all estates to $750,000.

—Extend expiring tax credits, including one aimed at encouraging development of drugs for rare diseases.

GOP wants support for single moms out of bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservative Republicans are demanding that final welfare reform legislation bar states from supporting children born to single mothers already collecting public assistance.

The House included the family cap, as well as a ban on aid to unmarried teen-age mothers, in its welfare bill; the Senate, with the backing of GOP moderates and Democrats, voted to keep them out of its plan.

Lawmakers will begin meeting soon to write a final plan that could be sent to the White House by Thanksgiving. President Clinton has signaled his support for the Senate bill, and has said that bowing to "extremist" pressure could kill reform.

In a letter to be released today, conservative lawmakers warn House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., that it will be difficult, if not impossible, for them to support any compromise that does not address out-of-wedlock births.

By the end of the decade, they say, 40 percent of all U.S. births will be outside marriage, a trend they contend has frightening implications for the country's moral and economic security.

"Many would argue, and with good reason, that illegitimacy is the most significant social problem of our time, in that it fuels our nation's growing problem with drugs, poverty, crime, homelessness and of course, welfare," conservatives wrote.

A Republican moderate, Rep. Connie Morella of Maryland, is taking the opposite tack and urging conference committee members to support key elements of the Senate bill: more money for child care, a requirement that states spend some of their own money on welfare and a promise that foster care services will continue.

GOP Medicare plan heading to House vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — After sailing through two committees with not a single dissenting Republican vote, the next stop for the GOP plan for major reconstructive surgery on Medicare is the House floor.

Despite often rancorous debate and scathing criticisms from Democrats, the blueprint for saving $270 billion from Medicare over seven years while allowing the elderly to switch to private health plans cleared both the Ways and Means and Commerce committees on straight party-line votes.

"We're witnessing history," Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, the Ways and Means chairman, proclaimed Wednesday following the 22-14 vote. "We have saved Medicare. We have preserved it for senior citizens and ... for those who will become senior citizens."

Nine hours later, shortly after midnight, Commerce stamped its approval on a nearly identical bill by a 27-22 margin.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich is expected to bring the measure to a vote in the full House next Thursday. A similar bill is pending in the Senate.

President Clinton has threatened a veto. Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Sha-lala was addressing the House Democratic caucus today to step up the administration's attack on the GOP reductions in both Medicare and Medicaid.

Democrats have claimed some Republicans were getting cold feet about making the massive changes to Medicare, but there was no evidence of that in the House committees.

Rep. Bill Thomas, R-Calif., an architect of the overhaul, said, "We're opening the Medicare program up to all of the exciting changes that are available to most Americans in the health care arena."

Blessings few as more bodies removed from quake-destroyed hotel

MANZANILLO, Mexico (AP) — Lisa Pena beamed as she took down a four-foot poster of the Virgin of Guadalupe from her cracked blue wall.

"Look, honey," she said to her husband. "It's a miracle my virgin was saved."

For many, blessings were few in this Pacific coastal city, where a 7.6-magnitude earthquake hit Monday, wrecking hotels, homes and highways. More than 50 people died.

Late Wednesday, authorities identified two Canadian tourists killed in the collapse of the eight-story Hotel Costa Real as Dirk Jan Boswyk, 58, and Judy Jang, 68, both of Vancouver.

Thousands remain homeless and wait for help.

"Nobody stays in their homes because we don't want to die," said Catalina Figueroa. "If there is any movement, our houses will fall."

In the Salahuia soccer field in this city of 60,000 residents, several hundred people are camped out. Children play ball while adults make dinner and ponder the future.

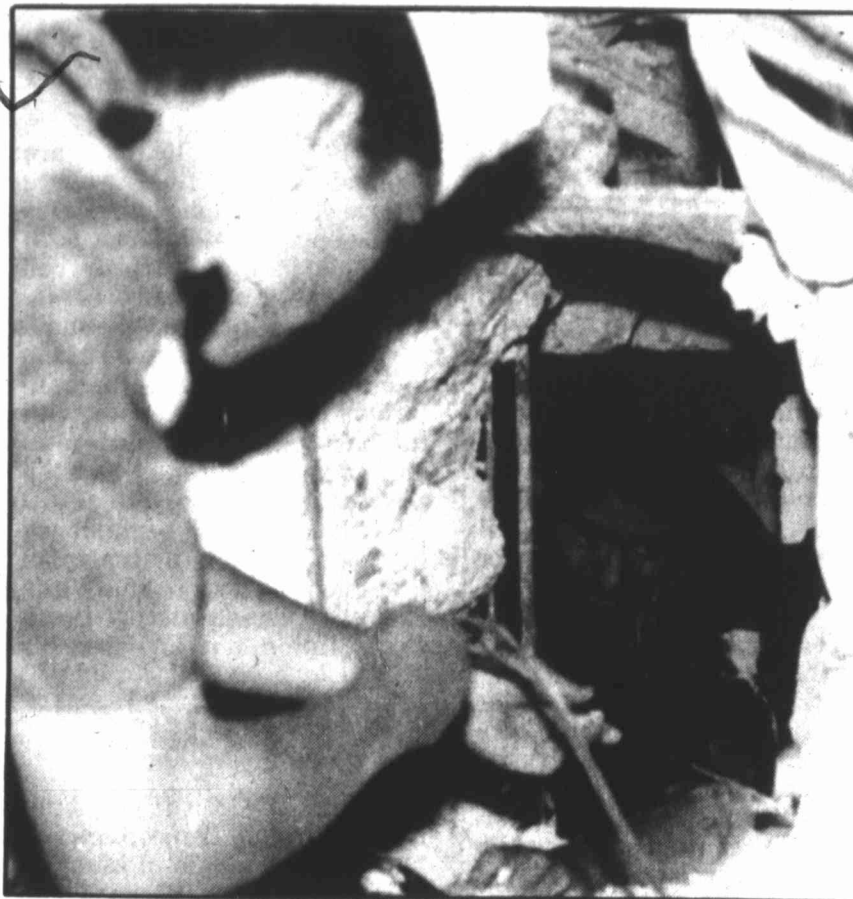

"We don't know what to do, we don't have anywhere to go," said Zulema Barriga, showing a visitor the gaping cracks in the pink walls of her modest home. "We have to tear it down."

"We play football so we don't get scared and feel the ground move," said 14-year-old Jose Alfonso Barriga.

Barefoot children giggled as they scampered across the field, trading stories on where they were when the quake changed their lives.

"I was at school when everything started shaking," said pig-tailed Rosio Gabriela Rincon, 12. "The doors locked and my teacher fell down."

Gulf Coasts prepares for blast from Roxanne

TULUM, Mexico (AP) — Still reeling from the ravages of Hurricane Opal, people of the lowlands of the southern Gulf Coast braced for another lashing today from Hurricane Roxanne.

Roxanne, the 10th hurricane of this exceptionally severe storm season, roared up the coast today after dumping torrential rains on the resort area of Cancun.

The Cancun International Airport was jammed Wednesday with tourists made cranky by how their vacations had ended in shelters.

"Sixteen hours on a dirty gym floor is a bit much," said Oscar Tiberend of East St. Louis, Ill. "We bought up a bunch of liquor and had a hurricane party. Still, I'm ready to go back."

At 1 a.m. EDT, Roxanne's center was about 70 miles northeast of Ciudad del Carmen on the southern arm of the crescent-shaped Gulf of Mexico coast. Authorities declared a state of emergency Wednesday night as roads flooded and electricity became sporadic.

Tropical storm-force winds extended some 200 miles from the eye of Roxanne, knocking down trees and power lines. But there were no reports of deaths of injuries.

Television footage showed people wading through waist-high water, and two rivers in the neighboring state of Tabasco flooded. The U.S. National Weather Service said 5 to 10 inches of rain may fall on the peninsula.

Meteorologists with the service said Roxanne would probably gain strength as it heads west over the Gulf of Mexico and menaces a broad swath of coastline.

The U.S. National Weather Service posted a hurricane watch the Gulf on Mexico's eastern coast as far north as Tuxpan, about 350 miles south of the Texas border. Opal followed a course similar to Roxanne's, then veered north into the Florida panhandle region.

Soldiers, civilians celebrate cease-fire in Bosnia

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The crackle of gunfire could be heard across Sarajevo as soldiers and civilians alike fired in the air in celebration.

The cause? A 60-day U.S.-brokered cease-fire that the world hopes will turn permanent, ending 3 1/2 years of ethnic war in Bosnia.

Fighting for territory persisted in the final hours before the cease-fire took effect just after midnight. U.N. officials said it probably would take hours for orders to reach field commanders.

At the United Nations in New York, U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali urged "the parties to scrupulously respect the cease-fire agreement and to seize this opportunity to advance decisively toward a peaceful settlement."

The truce is intended to foster negotiations to work out difficult details of a U.S.-led peace plan. A peace conference in Paris would follow.

The plan envisions Bosnia as a single country, but would divide it into Bosnian Serb and Muslim-Croat "entities." It also calls for a complex power-sharing arrangement.

Hours before the truce, NATO policymakers meeting in Brussels approved a concept of operations for a multinational force to police a final settlement — a plan that could include as many as 25,000 American troops.

The truce had been delayed twice in 48 hours during feverish work to restore electricity, gas and water service to Sarajevo — a key provision of the accord, which was signed last week.

During the delay, the government and its Croat allies seized two Serb-held towns — Sanski Most and Mrkonjic Grad — in northwestern Bosnia. Late Wednesday, they were reported to be advancing on a third town, Prijedor.

At the same time, Serbs were rushing to expel up to 20,000 non-Serbs remaining in Serb-held areas of northern Bosnia around Banja Luka, aid officials said.

Draft-age men were being separated from families being expelled, U.N. officials said. They expressed alarm at reports of rape, robberies and summary executions.

In a letter to U.S. envoy Richard Holbrooke, who negotiated the truce, Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic said the expulsions were "directly threatening to jeopardize the peace process."

Bosnia's war erupted in April 1992 when the republic's Serbs rebelled at a vote by the Muslim-Croat majority to secede from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. An estimated 200,000 are dead or missing.

The siege of Sarajevo remains far from over because Sarajevans still are unable to travel freely in and out of the city.

But the cease-fire agreement appeared to have secured substantial supplies of gas and electricity to Sarajevo. Water supplies remained short because of electrical problems at the main pumping station.

Another condition of the cease-fire, stable routes to the eastern government enclave of Gorazde, had not yet been met. It could take days for the United Nations to clear mines on the route and arrange to secure it.

In contrast to several dozen previous failed truces, however, all sides seemed serious about this one.

Izetbegovic said his army "will cease all military activities except defensive ones as of midnight tonight."

Big plays UT-OU staple

AUSTIN (AP) — Players can establish themselves with one great game or even one great play in a rivalry with as much intensity and tradition as Texas-Oklahoma.

Such was the case last year when Texas quarterback James Brown sparked in place of injured starter Shea Morenz and noseguard Stonie Clark made a victory-preserving tackle on fourth-and-goal in the final seconds as the Longhorns beat the Sooners 17-10.

Both players became part of the history that surrounds the rivalry, which will mark its 90th meeting when No. 13 Oklahoma (4-1) meets No. 18 Texas (4-1) in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas Saturday.

Brown, then a redshirt freshman, overcame the hype of the annual Red River shootout and an early interception to help Texas rally from a 7-0 halftime deficit.

He completed 17 of 22 passes for 148 yards and a touchdown while rushing for 51 yards and a TD.

It was a remarkable performance considering he had endured a miserable week of practice leading up to the game. His teammates were worried.

"We had some reservations and probably would have preferred Shea at the time," Texas offensive tackle John Elmore said. "James was never known as a good practice quarterback."

"I was surprised at how well he handled the pressure of making his first start in one of the greatest rivalries in the history of college football."

"He was calm."

Brown said he hardly remembers any details from the game and downplays his performance.

"I haven't looked back on it," he said. "The only big thing in my mind was that it was my first start. I got to show people I could play. The year before I

Big Spring's Marc Baker (82) looks for yardage after a pass reception last week against Levelland. The Steers travel to San Angelo to take on the Lake View Chiefs Friday.

Pre-district favorites to meet in San Angelo

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Editor

Now the Big Spring Steers find out if the past five weeks have been worth it.

The Steers (1-4), finally finished with their killer pre-district schedule, jump straight into the fire Friday when they travel to San Angelo to take on District 4-4A favorite Lake View at 7:30 p.m.

Although at first glance the Steers' record is not that impressive, some other factors need to be considered. For starters, the combined records of Big Spring's first five opponents is 20-5. Secondly, drop a 15-point loss to Sweetwater out of the equation and the Steers' have lost three games by an average of four points apiece.

In short, Big Spring has played quality teams, and for the most part, played them closely. A few breaks here or there, and the Steers could be at least 3-2, if not 4-1.

That's what BSHS coach Dwight Butler wants his players to focus on.

"I've really been amazed that we haven't had to get on a lot of the kids," Butler said. "None of us wanted to be 1-4, but we also know the first five games of the season are not where we wanted to be at our best."

"You'd think as a coach, I would be really indignant at the way the kids were playing, but I'm not," Butler added. "I'm disappointed ... but not with their effort."

The majority of district observers pointed to the Lake View-Big Spring game as the one that would decide the league championship. Despite the teams' combined record (4-5-1), few people have changed their minds.

At least, the Steers haven't. "If we lose this game, it'll be just like last year - we'll have to fight every week to make the playoffs," Big Spring quarterback Bucky Crenshaw said. "If we win, we'll still have to go out and play ... but we'll have a good chance of making the playoffs."

The Steers won't be at 100 percent, health-wise. Middle linebacker Gabe Rubio is out with a shoulder injury (he'll be replaced by sophomore Brock Gee), while leading rusher Antwoyne Edwards (568 yards on 102 carries) is questionable with a sore ankle. Fullback

A Coahoma defender crashes into Hawley quarterback Gary Jones (7) last Friday in Coahoma. The Bulldogs open District 6-2A play Friday in Winters.

Can Coahoma keep momentum going?

By DARRELL ERICSON
Sportswriter

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs (4-1) will see if they can continue their winning streak against an undefeated Winters in the District 6-2A opener for both teams Friday in Winters.

Coahoma's head coach Eddie McHugh said he has been working on a 100-percent effort from both the offense and the defense.

"The team better be ready. We are going to have to control the ball on offense and the defense can't allow them to move the ball. Ball control and field position will be a big factor," McHugh said.

Along with effort, McHugh has been working on fine-tuning. "Every aspect of the team has to be fine-tuned and ready to play. Winters have a good ball club and their experience factor is a big part."

"We are going to have to continue doing what we have been doing - throwing the ball. They are going to run a lot of blitzes and try to apply pressure on (Coahoma quarterback Adam) Tindol. We have to be ready."

Travelling to Winters is not a problem for the Bulldogs. "We have to go down, get off the bus, and win, get back on and go home. We are not down there to look good, we are down there to win," McHugh said.

Robin Byrd, head coach for Winters, said, "We have most everybody back from last year. The team looks strong and it will be a tough district."

"We can't let Coahoma get the big plays, we have to apply pressure and be ready in the secondary."

Forsan (2-3)
vs. Stanton (4-1)

FORSAN — It has been Forsan's inconsistency that has brought them to a 2-3 record and it is the consistency which they have been working on.

"We have to play error-free football Friday night. We can't afford simple mistakes like the ones that kept us from scoring (last week) in Sterling City," Forsan's head coach said.

East said his players still have the momentum and intensity, but numbers might be a

Indians even AL series; Braves win again in extra innings

SEATTLE (AP) — Slowly, it seemed the series was starting to slip away from the Cleveland Indians.

The big hit they desperately needed was still missing. Instead, their line drives were winding up in the gloves of Ken Griffey Jr. and his teammates.

The close calls were going against them: On one play, manager Mike Hargrove came out to question the decisions of two umpires.

The fans were rooting against them, and even the scoreboard tried to rob them — Seattle was credited with two runs on the board after the second inning despite not scoring.

"I think there was a certain amount of frustration that was rising," Hargrove admitted.

At least, though, the Indians had two factors in their favor: Orel Hershiser and Manny Ramirez.

Focusing only on his catcher and unfazed by the largest crowd ever to see the Mariners at the Kingdome, Hershiser came through again. He remained perfect in postseason play, pitching the Indians past Seattle 5-2 Wednesday night to even the AL playoffs at 1-1.

At 37, Hershiser looked like the best pitcher in baseball, which he once was, in improving to 6-0 with a 1.47 ERA in 10 career appearances in the playoffs and World Series. He went eight innings and allowed just hits, including Griffey's sixth home run, which matched a postseason record.

"We looked at this as sort of a must-win for us," Hershiser said.

At 23 and already an All-Star, Ramirez became the first Cleveland player hit two home runs in a postseason game and went 4-for-4. Carlos Baerga got the hit that the Indians sorely lacked in the opener, a two-out, two-run single with the bases loaded in the fifth inning that broke a scoreless tie.

"We got a lot of pressure, especially playing here in the dome," Ramirez said. "But now we're going to play in Cleveland, we're going to feel more comfortable. Even with Randy Johnson pitching."

Johnson will start for Seattle in Game 3 on Friday night against Charles Nagy. The Mariners are 28-3 in games Johnson has started this season, and knew they'd be in big trouble if they went home with two losses.

"The prospect of going down 0-2 and facing Randy Johnson is not one that causes your appetite to stay with you very long," Hargrove said.

"Tonight, as far as we were concerned, we had to win this game. I can't emphasize that enough. If this was a test of our character, we passed."

Not that there was any doubt, at least not any going into the best-of-7 series. But after losing the opener to 22-year-old rookie Bob Wolcott and seeing things going against them early in Game 2, it looked the Indians — who won 100 times in the regular season and swept Boston in the first round of the playoffs — might be falling victim to some sort of Seattle dome destiny.

Sanders out for San Diego

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Although the NFL is willing to let Cowboys cornerback Deion Sanders play immediately despite reservations about his $35 million contract, his left ankle will keep him out of action Sunday.

"Deion is working on a limited basis. He's not going to play against the Chargers," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said Wednesday in a conference call.

Sanders is recovering from surgery to remove bone chips in his ankle. He is tentatively scheduled to make his first appearance as a Cowboy Oct. 29 at Atlanta, where he used to play before signing with San Francisco before last season.

Meanwhile, the league has told the team to renegotiate its seven-year deal with Sanders to fit under the salary cap. The deal is conditionally approved.

Baseball ratings climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The first night's games of the baseball playoffs got a 14.6 rating, the highest for a playoff telecast in seven years and up 24 percent from the prime-time ratings two years ago.

The national rating was the highest since Game 1 of the 1988 NL playoffs between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Mets, which got a 16.4 rating.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Harbaugh, who orchestrated Indianapolis' comeback from a 24-3 deficit in Miami on Sunday, heads this week's list of NFL players honored.

The others are running back Barry Sanders of Detroit, linebacker Mike Jones of Oakland and defensive tackle Andy Harmon of Philadelphia.

At some places, they still play the game for fun, love

Within the past week I had the extreme pleasure to see two aspects of football which are lost in the daily run of things.

In the world of sports, college and pros, a love for the game seems to be lost through the race which often follows—a race fueled by greed and satisfaction.

It is nice to know that the realm of professionals has not corrupted our youth.

Playing a sport for the sheer pleasure of it is how games began and how heroes were created.

In an interview, I was reacquainted with a person who plays football just because he loves the sport. There is no concern for recognition or self-gratification. All he cares about is playing the game—being under the Friday night lights, and the thrill of victory or the anguish of defeat. As long as he is on the field supporting his team, he is successful.

Darrell Ericson
Sports writer

Another aspect that I became familiar with is the fact that a sport has goals and the athlete has to find the incentive to achieve those goals.

In another interview, I talked about goals and achievements. Later in the interview I discovered the incentive which fuels the team's desire is a golden football—a district champion trophy.

Everyday before walking out on the field for practice or for games the ball is touched by each player. This unifies the team with the same ambition.

You might ask what benefits can come from playing high school football. Besides the respect and support from family and fans, not much. But the position which should not be overlooked is the fact that the true meaning of sports is not lost.

The type of teams which are present throughout West Texas have student-athletes who are involved in a way not seen in today's professionals. They learn how to achieve goals and dreams, something which can be used in whatever path of life they choose.

Steers

Donny Hill, who missed last week's game, will play but won't be at full speed because of an ankle injury, Butler said.

For Lake View, running back Jay Jordan, who leads the district with 641 yards on 83 carries, has been slowed by a shoulder injury but will probably play.

Statistically, the two teams are the best on offense in the league. Lake View leads with a 361-yard-per-game average, while the Steers are second, averaging 291.6 yards a game.

problem. "We will only have 16 suited up to play, because we lost some to injuries and grades. It will be a big factor if we can physically stay in the game. Adjusting positions on the field, during game time, is hard on the players," East said.

The main concentration for East has been in containing the speed of Stanton. "They are going to line up and march down the field, throwing the ball when they need to."

"Everyone in this district is going to be tough. We are going to have to play the best we can and hope we have a chance to

On the other side of the ball, Big Spring is ranked third on defense, while Lake View is fifth.

But don't try to talk statistics with Butler.

"What are statistics?" he asked. "Statistically, we won two of the games we lost this year, but I don't think they're going to let us have those... The things I feel good about are that the offensive line has come together well, and that defensive tackle has been a stable area for us all year."

With the loss of Rubio coming on top of the season-ending knee injury to strongside line-backer Manuel Lopez, the team's major problem area has to be line-backer.

"The least stable area of the team is line-backer," Butler said. "And that's the part I coach... so I've been eliminated from coaching altogether."

On a more serious vein, Butler admitted the shortage of line-backers has him concerned.

"We thought we had that area solidified... and then Manuel got hurt," Butler said. "Now, we just don't have the natural athletes we had there before."

been doing with little change. They have worked hard and we have worked hard. Whoever makes the fewest mistakes will win."

Cotton said his team has mentally recovered from its first loss last week at Iraan, but physically might be minus a player. Defensive back Jason Hopper is doubtful because of a broken hand he suffered in last week's game.

"The team is ready to play the important games. The player's desire to play is high and we want to win. It's going to be a tough game," Cotton said.

Forsan and Stanton will meet in Stanton Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Baseball

But Herschiser put those creeping worries to rest. Showing the form that made him the 1988 World Series MVP, he simply would not let the Mariners win.

"The whole key in playoff baseball is to stay with your patterns, stay with your pitches," he said. "Don't let the crowd take your adrenaline away from you."

Rather, he fed off the constant racket made by the 58,144 people.

"I like the noise and I like the fans when they rise to a crescendo because it lets you know it's a big game," he said.

"I play mind games with myself on the mound," he said. "I pretend that they're cheering for me, and that I don't want to let them down."

NLCS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The fans didn't come, the hitters didn't hit and the ball kept bouncing the wrong way.

This wasn't what the Cincinnati Reds hoped for on the first two days of their NL playoff series against Atlanta. And to make matters worse, next up for the Braves is Cy—make that Greg—Maddux.

Atlanta beat Cincinnati 6-2 Wednesday night with a four-run rally in the 10th inning, giving the Braves a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series that resumes Friday night at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

No NL team has ever come back to win a series after losing the first two games at home.

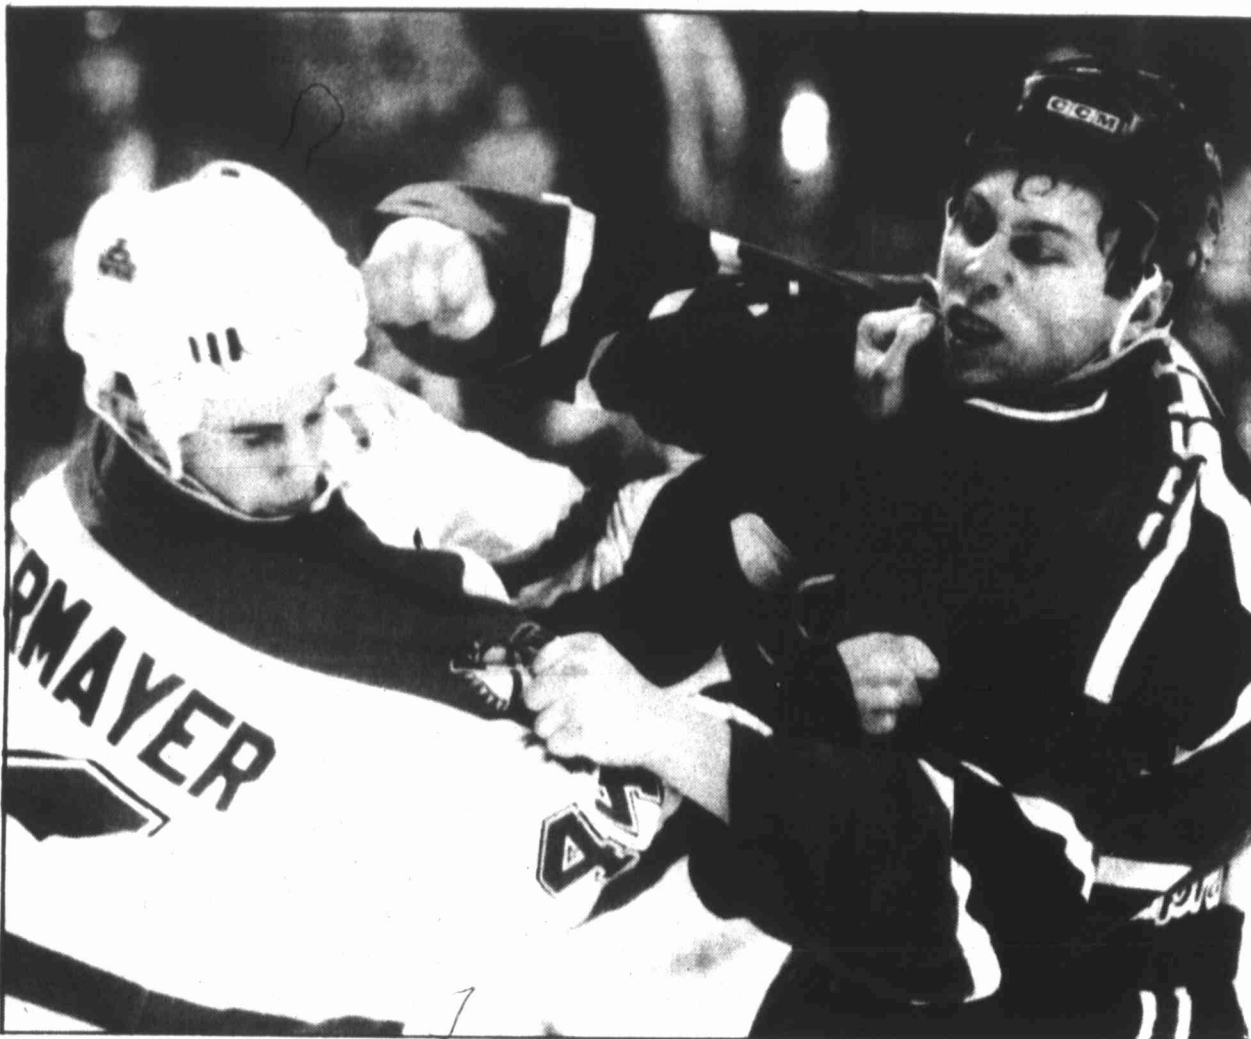

"It's been frustrating so far. We've had two well-pitched games and could easily be up 2-0 right now," said Barry Larkin, the lone offensive weapon thus far for Cincinnati. "Being down 2-0 and going to Atlanta is a tough task. I'm sure people will say this series is over, but this team has been resilient all year."

They'll have to rebound over the weekend to have any chance at coming back to Cincinnati for Games 6 and 7. The first task will be to get past Maddux, who won 19 games this year.

Cincinnati scratched out two runs against Braves starter John Smoltz on a pinch-hit single and a double steal in the fifth inning to tie the game 2-2. But the Reds blew great scoring opportunities in the eighth and ninth innings, then watched Atlanta take control on a bases-loaded wild pitch by Mark Portugal and a three-run homer by Javy Lopez in the 10th.

was just taking stats."

This time, Brown, a sophomore, won't be nervous Saturday.

"I'll be intense until we start blowing them out," Brown said. "I am confident about every game."

Clark, unlike Brown, frequently reflects on his dramatic fourth-down tackle of Oklahoma's James Allen at the goal line with 43 seconds left in last season's game.

"I have it on tape and watch it all the time," Clark said. "It's a great motivational tape for me. I love watching it. Hopefully, I can make a great play like that again. It was the best play that I have ever made."

"He was already going toward the ground. So I just felt like if I could get across him so he could not reach the ball out, I could save the touchdown."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Texas Utilities Electric Company (TU Electric), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act of 1995 (PURA), publishes NOTICE that, on September 14, 1995, it filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) its Statement of Intent to implement proposed Rate WP1 - Wholesale Power Service. The only customers that will be affected by the proposed tariff will be Lyntegat Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Taylor Electric Cooperative, Inc. This is not a "major change" in rates within the meaning of PURA since the charges under the proposed tariff are less than the charges that would otherwise be applicable under TU Electric's existing Rate WP - Wholesale Power Service, the tariff under which Lyntegat Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Taylor Electric Cooperative, Inc., presently receive service from TU Electric. TU Electric's filing has been docketed by the Commission as Docket No. 14716. The proposed effective date of the proposed tariff is October 19, 1995, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law, which proposed effective date has been suspended by the Commission until March 17, 1996. The proposed tariff is expected to reduce TU Electric's annual revenues, based upon 1994 usage and revenues, by $1,195,561, or 0.02%, compared to the revenues that would have been received under TU Electric's existing Rate WP.

A complete copy of the proposed tariff and TU Electric's application is on file with the Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Consumer Affairs Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is 45 days after the date the application was filed with the Commission. The established deadline for intervention is October 30, 1995.

Symphony's 16th season opens Saturday evening

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

"The Symphony - It's for Everybody" is the theme for the Big Spring Symphony's 16th season opening 8 p.m. Saturday at the Municipal Auditorium.

SANTORELLI

Gene Smith, music director and conductor of the San Angelo Symphony, will conduct. The orchestra's performance will feature Michael Santorelli, principal trumpeter with the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra. The program will start with "The Star-Spangled Banner," followed by Leonard Bernstein's overture to "Candide" and the piece featuring Santorelli, "Concerto in E Flat Major for Trumpet and Orchestra" by Alexander Arutunian.

After an intermission, the program will continue with Gioacchino Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra (The Thieving Magpie) Overture," "Dance Bachanale" from "Camille Saint-Saens' Samson et Dalila" and "March Slave" by Peter Illich Tchaikovsky.

Joseph Dawes, in his program notes, explains the title of Tchaikovsky's piece.

It is not about slaves; rather, the march honors a group of Slavic people, the Serbians who fought in the Turko-Serbian war going on at the time.

Tickets for Saturday's performance are available at Blum's Jewelers, the Chamber of Commerce, Dunlap's and the Symphony office at 808 Scurry. Season tickets are $36 for adults and $26 for students and senior citizens.

A reception for concertgoers after the symphony's performance will be at Spanky's Coffee and Company, next to Cornerstone Bookstore on Gregg Street.

The symphony season will continue Dec. 16 with the performance of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker." Students from Laurie Churchwell's Dance Gallery will join the Midland Festival Ballet for the performance. "We'll have even more Big Spring children performing than last year," symphony guild member Suzanne Haney said.

On Feb. 10, 1996, the symphony will once again feature the winner of the Sorantin Award for Young Artists. The Sorantin Award, established in 1959, has become one of the country's most prestigious contests for budding musicians.

The Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra, conducted by John Giordano, will appear March 29, 1996.

In addition to the evening performance, the orchestra will give a free morning performance for area elementary school students.

The symphony will close the season May 4, 1996, with a pops concert featuring music of a lighter variety - the theme will be "Hooray for Hollywood."

The Big Spring Symphony Chorus will join the musicians for the show.

Designer jeans back in for MTV crowd

By SUZANNE S. BROWN
Scripps Howard News Service

Designer jeans were a major fashion phenomenon in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Brooke Shields modeled them for Calvin Klein, while Sassoon and Jordache launched many a model's career with their sexy advertising.

But a more egalitarian mood has prevailed during the last decade, with The Gap and Levi's promoting reasonably priced jeans for the masses.

Now the stage is set for the return of designer denim and three-figure price tags.

Such top names as Gianni Versace, Todd Oldham and Donna Karan have joined Calvin Klein in adding jeans to their lineup of trendy togs.

Helping spur interest is the increasing acceptance of casual clothing and denim in the workplace, says Massimo Iacoboni, fashion director of The Fashion Association, a New York trade group.

"When the industry is concentrating on casual fashion, the next step is for designers to come back into the arena," he says.

Alise Vickers, a fashion director of Saks Fifth Avenue, says denim's popularity with customers is helping create a new market for designer jeans.

"We're seeing a resurgence of interest in vests, shirts, jackets and dresses, as well as jeans," she says.

Figures back her up. Last year, 627 million jeans units (including non-pants items) were sold in the United States, according to The NPD Group, a market research company. That's a rise of 8.7 percent over 1993 figures.

"Designers have tapped into the fact that women wear jeans with all kinds of clothes and all the time," Vickers says.

"You can wear them with a Chanel jacket or an old sweatshirt. And it's not just a young woman. It's for the 40-and-over woman, too."

Designers are tailoring their jeans to fit a variety of body types, Vickers says.

"Customers have gotten away from being concerned with the name written on the hip pocket. The way jeans fit, and if they're the right color and the right cut is much more important. Escada, DKNY (Donna Karan's cheaper line) and CK Calvin Klein have a cut that's flattering to the body."

But the young customer — who wears denim to an even greater extent than most 30-somethings — isn't being forgotten.

Todd Oldham is targeting his new jeans line to all the 18- to 24-year olds who watch him on MTV each week, as well as to the devotees of his trendy main collection.

The designer has taken his experience — his uniform is jeans — and all the comments people have given them and translated them into wearable, fashionable jeans that retail for about $70, says Lisa Silhanek, vice president of sales for the company in New York.

Knowing one's priorities best way to eliminate clutter

By LESLIE RUBINKOWSKI
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Maybe you knew that Get Organized Week was this month. Maybe you thought you could use the occasion to finally pull your life together. Suddenly, seven days passed.

If just reading this makes you feel hopeless, maybe you should listen to M.J. (uncluttered from Mary Jane) Call. This is a woman who thinks that, no matter when you do it, getting organized is fun.

A former construction project manager, Call travels the world helping people put their lives in order. She also employs a technique that often gets lost among the clutter of life.

Common sense. With that in mind, here's an organized look at setting things in order:

Look at your life. What's important? Do you live alone, have children, wear suits or jeans to work? Every question you answer helps you to decide how you need to get organized.

Look at your space. Once you decide how your life works, you may decide your space won't work with it. You may need a trip to an office or kitchen supply store to buy baskets or drawer dividers, or you may need to hire a contractor to build shelves or revamp closet racks. What's important in the end, Call says, is that "you open a pantry, you open a closet, you can see everything you need."

Decide how you want to tackle the job. Do you want to do it in a weekend, or can you stand to take just 10 minutes and one drawer at a time, as many organizers recommend? Call suggests choosing the method that fits with your schedule and personality.

Look at what you've got. Start sorting through things. Avoid the urge to linger. "I always tell people, I want you to handle each piece of paper only once," Call says. If you're cleaning off your desk, pick up a piece of paper, decide if you want to keep it or throw it away. If you opt to discard, do it. If you can't let go, create a file that fits and stash the paper there — immediately. The same thing applies if you're sorting family photos: Buy boxes to store the photos in, deposit them and label the box. Don't linger, don't reminisce. Keep moving.

Ask yourself what you need. Call leaves it to her clients to decide what items they cannot bear to throw away. She does, however, suggest they ask themselves the last time they used or wore an item. If it's been a couple of years, toss it.

"You see a lot of double things," Call says. "Especially in kitchens. Someone gets a new appliance, and they say, 'We'll keep this one — in case.' Well, in case usually doesn't happen."

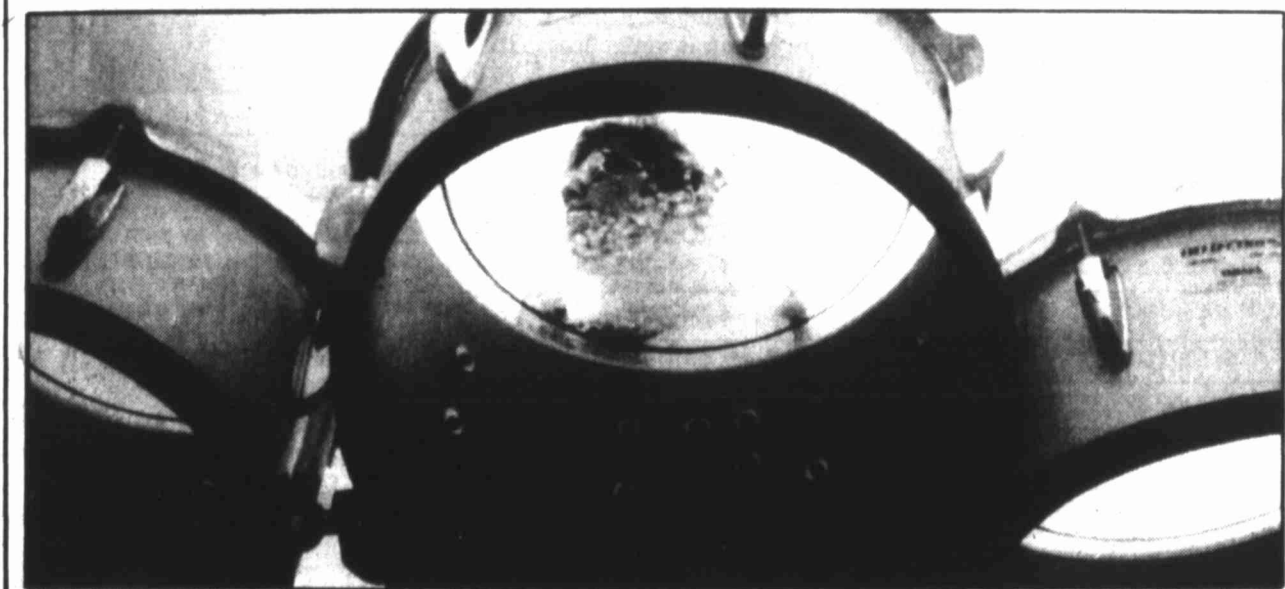

When you're finished, recycle. Just because you can't use something doesn't mean someone else won't need it. Call suggests garage sales for all-purpose items and consignment shops for women's clothes up to 3 years old. She also arranges to donate her clients' furniture to a battered women's shelter or to a program that sets up apartments for the disabled. Once you're organized, stay that way.

Sound too neat? Call insists getting your house in order can work wonders on your head.

Even little ones turn to day planners

By SHERRI VASQUEZ
Scripps Howard News Service

Time management for toddlers?

Don't laugh. It might well be the next subject on the kindergarten curriculum.

Already, thousands upon thousands of elementary school students are penciling in play dates and homework reminders in their daily planners.

"I use my assignment notebook to remind me of things I need to do, like after-school activities or messages I need to give to my parents," says Tasha Gill, a 9-year-old fourth-grader in suburban Denver.

Classmate Andrew Mateskon, also 9, jots down notes in his planner to remind him to bring in a paper bag for religion studies and food coloring for a science project on volcanoes.

Then there's the "stay off floors with shoes on" note, a reminder in deference to his mom's wishes.

Planners and scheduling notebooks have become a staple for students, even very young ones, says Dana Walker of Mead School & Office Products.

"We have developed a variety of personal planners to help students organize their time," says Walker. "In addition to monthly calendars and organizational lists, we include helpful information on everything from studying to tips on how to become a better student."

It's a sign of the times that today's students are so busy they need academic planners.

"Life is getting complicated. Kids are busier than ever with extracurricular activities, community involvement and responsibilities at home, especially if both parents work," says Boulder, Colo., educational consultant Gloria Frender, owner of Brain Power Inc.

Frender teaches time-management skills to both students and teachers — and she says the earlier students learn to manage their time, the better off they'll be.

"Time management is easy to get a handle on if schools require it," she says.

Hmmmm... Rob Gaither of Lawrence, Kan., looks at his car that became a bridge. A passerby stopped by his house to let him know his car had rolled out of his driveway and into a drainage ditch. A tow truck was called to pull the vehicle out.

Paper Money To Get a New Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — American currency is getting a face lift to make it harder for counterfeiters to duplicate. But the changes will have holders of the greenbacks seeing double.

Two portraits of an American historical figure will be on each bill, but you'll have to hold the bill up to the light to see one of them.

It will be the first distinct new look for U.S. paper money in 66 years, a redesign that some experts consider long overdue given the troubling possibilities from foreign counterfeiters.

The changeover will begin early next year with the $100 bill, a favorite of forgers. Existing bills will remain in circulation.

The most visible change will be to shift portraits off center.

An enlarged portrait of Benjamin Franklin will be moved to the left on the $100 bill, making room for a new watermark engraving.

The watermark portrait, visible when the bill is held up to the light, is one of several new security features.

Officials said the watermark is extremely difficult to duplicate.

Eventually, there will be similar redesigns for the portraits on nearly all smaller denominations — Ulysses S. Grant on the $50 bill, Andrew Jackson on the $20, Alexander Hamilton on the $10, Abraham Lincoln on the $5, and, of course, George Washington on the $1.

The exception could be the $2 bill, which bears the likeness of Thomas Jefferson. No decision has been made on whether to alter the largely commemorative bill.

Treasurer Mary Ellen Withrow has said borders on the new bills will be simplified, with geometric designs replaced by an assortment of lines and dots that are intended to foil counterfeiters.

Also, color-shifting ink will be used so that the greenback will take on a different hue when viewed from an angle.

And government printers may use computer-designed patterns that are made to turn wavy when copied improperly.

The last major change in U.S. currency was in 1929 when bills were reduced in size and given a uniform look. Congress added the words "In God We Trust" in 1957.

Some small changes were introduced in 1990, including a microscopic line of type and a polyester thread visible only when a bill is held up to the light.

Use information from the story to answer the following questions:

1. Why is American currency (money) about to get a new look?
2. When was the last time a major change was made in the design of U.S. paper money?
3. Why will the $100 bill be the first to be changed?
4. Why is the portrait of Benjamin Franklin being moved to the left on the $100 bill?
5. Will people be able to see the two portraits on the new currency? Explain.
6. What change is planned for the borders of the bills?

Answer Key: (Wording may vary)

1. American money is getting a new look so that it will be harder to illegally copy.
2. The last time our paper money had a major change was in 1929.

3. The $100 bill was redesigned first because it is the one most often copied by forgers. Benjamin Franklin's portrait is on the front of the bill.

4. Benjamin Franklin's picture is being moved off center to make way for the new watermark portrait.

5. Yes. Both pictures will be on the bills. To see the watermark portrait, the money will have to be held up to the light.

6. The new bills will have simple borders made up of lines and dots.

Exploring Our Neighborhood

The Family of the Sun

Here's a song to help you learn all about the planets. Sing it to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell."

Mercury is hot, and Mercury is small. Mercury has no atmosphere. It's just a rocky ball.

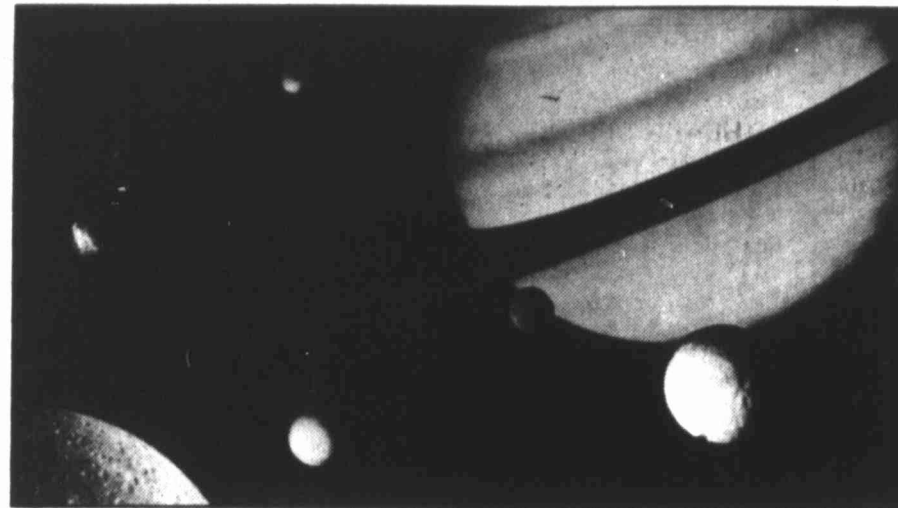

The family of the sun, The family of the sun, Here's another planet in The family of the sun. (Repeat between each verse.)

Venus has thick clouds. That hide what is below. The air is foul, the ground is hot. It rotates very slow.

We love the Earth, our home. Its oceans and its trees. We eat its food, we breathe its air. So no pollution, please.

Mars is very red. It's also dry and cold. Someday you might visit Mars. If you are really bold.

Great Jupiter is big. We've studied it a lot. We found that it has many moons. And a big red spot.

This picture of Saturn and some of its moons was made from several photos taken by the Voyager 1 spacecraft.

Saturn has great rings. We wondered what they were. Now we know they're blocks of ice. Which we saw as a blur.

The family of the sun, The family of the sun, Here are two more planets in The family of the sun.

With atmospheres that swirl, And wispy white clouds too, Uranus and Neptune are So cold that you'd be blue.

Pluto's last in line. It's farthest from the sun. It's small and cold, and icy too. To land there won't be fun.

*Every 248 years, Pluto's orbit brings it inside Neptune's orbit for a period of 20 years. From 1979 to 1999, Neptune is farthest from the sun.

Exploring Our Solar System

The sun's family is called the solar system. There are nine planets in this family.

The inner planets are nearest the sun. All except Earth have a dry, rocky surface. They are: Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars.

The outer planets are farthest from the sun. All but Pluto are huge balls of gas and ice. All but Pluto have rings. They are: Jupiter, Saturn, Neptune, Uranus and Pluto.

Mercury is closest to the sun. It has a lot of craters, just as the moon does.

Venus, our closest neighbor, looks like a bright star to us. It's the hottest planet — 800 degrees F at the equator!

Earth is the only place in the universe where we know there is life. Our planet is the only one with oceans.

People might visit Mars someday. Water might once have flowed above ground there. Now the water could be frozen underground.

Jupiter is the largest planet. This December, after a six-year journey, the Galileo spacecraft will reach this planet. Galileo will send a probe through the atmosphere to gather information.

Jupiter's Great Red Spot is a huge, never-ending storm bigger than two Earths.

Saturn is the second-largest planet, but it is very lightweight. It would float if put in water. Its beautiful rings are made of ice and dust.

Neptune gets little heat from the sun but has its own heat source. Its Great Dark Spot is a storm almost as big as Earth.

Uranus might have been hit by a big object and now is tipped on its side. The gases in its atmosphere make it look blue-green.

Pluto is the smallest of the planets. It's made of rock and ice. Its moon, about half the size of Pluto, is so large it is almost a second planet.

HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 13, 1995

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You need to answer someone in a way that is meaningful to him. Your mood could affect your communications, but once you get over it, things flow easily. Options appear left and right. An associate expresses a new opinion. Tonight: Chat up a storm. *****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Center on what is important, and think through a problem. Money matters are important. Do not count on funds before they arrive, because there could be problems. Examine your pattern of spending. It may be time to cut back. Tonight: Make it a treat. **

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are personality-plus. However, something might be mildly askew. A loved one may be acting weird. Maintain a sense of humor so you can accept other people's foibles. Your creativity is enhanced. Examine your long-term interests. Tonight: Get wild. *****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Look within, and handle a personal matter accordingly. Seek out other people's advice, but ultimately only you can handle the decision at hand. Examine priorities with care. Your sense of well-being is highlighted. Communications are off. Tonight: Soak in a hot, bubbly bath. **

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The emphasis is on long-term goals and desires. Be careful when handling a money matter. Don't assume that the check is in the mail until the day you receive it. A new friend you meet today could play a significant role in your life. Tonight: Hang out with friends. ****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are definitely out of kilter today. Be sensitive to different options and your potential, especially when you feel blocked. Stop and reassess. Don't get caught up in the fray; stay neutral. You might simply need to rethink your choices. Tonight: Go out on the town. ***

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be more analytical about what is bothering you. You can change the situation once you understand how you got into it. Focus on new points of view and a sudden opportunity. A change in plans is for the better in the long run. Tonight: Accept an unusual invitation. *****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Problems arise when you relate on a close one-to-one level. You need to handle an immediate hassle. Your understanding of what works will help a partner achieve his goals. Be supportive. Enjoy being playful. Tonight: Share the evening with a close friend. *****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Defer to others. Your popularity soars, and you might have too many choices. If attached, be careful about your decisions. A loved one is touchy at best. Be honest about your long-term goals. Follow through on your ideas. A friend has good news. Tonight: Go out on the town. *****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You will have to alter plans because of work. Adapt, and you'll have fewer problems. Your openness to change will help you. Express your deeper feelings to a boss; he needs your feedback. Build on a more solid basis. Take time to exercise. Tonight: Work as late as you need to. **

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be careful because partners, friends and loved ones are slightly touchier than you thought. Use your good cheer to help others see the humor in a situation that they usually find difficult. Make play and fun your specialties today. Tonight: Be wild one more time. *****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be more centered as you handle a personal matter. Center on what is happening, and create steadier foundations. Hassles that arise in the next few months help lead the way to get greater stability. Be sensitive to a significant other. Tonight: Spend a night at home. ***

IF OCT. 13 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: It will take time for you to understand and digest much that goes on this year. Think through your decisions with care. Be willing to go through what is necessary to gain more understanding. The possibility of further education or travel is highlighted. Your ability to be flexible can make or break your year. If you are single, you might have a unique opportunity to travel and meet new types of people. If attached, learning to understand each other will help, but also it is important to plan special events together. GEMINI is on your side.

White wedding dress has a short history

DEAR ABBY: My co-workers and I have been reading your column for many years and sometimes discuss the letters over lunch. Today you printed a letter from "Bride-to-Be," who was planning her second wedding. She was worried because she wasn't a virgin and her fiancé wanted her to wear white.

Abby, do you know where the rule that only virgin brides can wear white originated? We all know that rule has been relaxed in recent years. -- THE LUNCH BUNCH

DEAR LUNCH BUNCH: That's an interesting question, and one that has generated a fair amount of mail since I became Dear Abby.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

A few years ago, I asked my friend the late Edith Head (an Academy Award-winning costume designer) that question. She said that the literature concerning proper attire for brides is surprisingly scant -- there's actually NO "rule" which states that only virgin brides may wear white. She then informed me that in ancient Rome, brides were wrapped from head to toe in orange-colored veils, and in medieval times brides wore red. The first white wedding gown was worn by Anne of Brittany when she married Louis XII in 1499.

According to Millie Martini Bratten, editor in chief of Bride's magazine: "Red was the avored color for brides during the Middle Ages, and red is still the preferred color for Hindu, Islamic and Chinese brides. The reason: Red is considered the 'color of celebration.'

"The white wedding dress is a fairly recent tradition. Victorian brides from privileged backgrounds wore white to indicate they were rich enough to wear a dress for one day only -- but still the majority at that time wore only their best finery."

In further researching the modern bridal dress code, my staff discovered that in 1922, Emily Post wrote: "Brides have been known to choose colors other than white. Silver is conventional and so is deep cream. But gold cloth is more suitable for a widow than a virgin maid."

Also, Amy Vanderbilt wrote in 1922: "The formal wedding gown is generally white or ivory, but delicate blue and pink are sometimes seen."

Abby shares more of her favorite, easy-to-prepare recipes. To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, More Favorite Recipes, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Good advice for everyone -- is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)
