Teaff to speak at SHS baccalaureate service

GRANT TEAFF

One of Snyder's finest will be the guest speaker Sunday evening for Snyder High School's baccalaureate service at Worsham Auditorium.

Grant Teaff, one of college's most respected coaches and motivators, will address graduating seniors at the 7 p.m. service. Teaff, who has guided Baylor University's football team for 20 years, is a local native and a graduate of Snyder High School.

SHS Principal Gary Patterson will give the welcome for Sunday's service. Soloist for the evening will be Stacy Harris.

Amy Ramirez will give a scripture reading and David Cozart will lead a congregational hymn. Pam Gibson will play the processional and will represent the SHS faculty.

Eric West, representing the Class of 1992, will give the invocation. The benediction, "Pray For Me," will be sung by Erin Rambo and Sherry Smith.

A senior brass quartet composed of David Patrick, Benjamin Felan, David Cozart and Chris Gober, will play the recessional.

Teaff, 59, is the son of Bill and Inez Teaff of Snyder. The Baylor Bears' coach for 20 years, Teaff was named as the university's new athletic director earlier this month.

He has compiled a record of 121-100-6 at Baylor, with Southwest Conference championships in 1974 and 1980. His teams have appeared in seven bowl games.

His inspirational books, "I Believe" and "Winning, It's How You Play The Game," are considered textbooks on life.

Teaff is well known for his ability to inspire others. In 1974, with his underdog team facing powerhouse Texas, Teaff ate a worm to inspire his troops. They went out and defeated the Longhorns, and won a conference championship.

When he coaches his final game against Texas next November, his tenure will be the second longest in SWC history as a football coach.

Teaff is a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, the highest honor given by the Texas High School Coaches Association. Baylor honored him in 1986 with the Alumnus Honoris Causa Award, given only to a fraction of one percent of those associated with the university.

He has coached in numerous bowl games and all-star games, including the East West Shrine Game, the Blue-Gray Game, the Japan Bowl and the Hula Bowl.

He had been a member of the NCAA Football Rules Committee and a trustee of the American Football Coaches Association Ethics Committee. He has also been named Southwest Conference Coach of the Year and National Coach of the Year and has served on the national board for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Teaff was an all-state center in 1950 for Snyder High School. Before taking the job at Baylor, he was a head coach at Angelo State and McMurry, and an assistant at Texas Tech University.

His wife, Donell, is a former Texas Tech cheerleader. They have three daughters.

In Brief

Clemency

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's king sought to speed the resignation of Prime Minister Suchinda Kraprayoon, granting him clemency from any wrongdoing in a bloody military crackdown earlier this week, officials said Saturday.

The move came a day after coalition partners withdrew their support of Suchinda and backed a proposed law that would force him to step down.

Suchinda has come under increasing attack because he was not elected to the parliament, was leader of last year's coup and allowed soldiers this week to fire on demonstrators. At least 40 were killed.

Suchinda met with King Bhumibol Adulyadej Friday night, when it was agreed the prime minister should resign in response to mounting pressure from the public and factions in the military, sources said.

Rains sweep county

From local, wire reports

Fluvanna residents were hoping to dry out over the weekend, following rains in excess of three inches.

A funnel cloud was reported north of the community about 7:30 p.m. Friday. No damages from the storm have been indicated, however.

Fluvanna residents reported receiving 3.25 inches of rain Friday evening and before daybreak Saturday. Light rain was still falling at mid-morning Saturday.

Residents at Polar reported 2.6 inches there since 5 p.m. Friday. Dunn had 1.5 inches. Most other areas of the county reported lower, although substantial, rainfall amounts.

In Snyder, the water pump and filter plant reported eight-tenths of an inch by 7 a.m. Saturday and an additional .53 of an inch at noon for a total of 1.33 inches. The 1992 rainfall count for the city stands at 10.93 inches.

Ira and Dunn residents called in reports of 1.5 inches Saturday morning while Hermleigh indicated 1.1 inches. Out Highway 180 toward Roby, 1.5 inches fell.

Loyd Mountain reported 1.1 inches and the Camp Springs area indicated just six-tenths.

A rainfall report from Lake Thomas was unavailable Saturday morning.

The area forecast calls for scattered showers and thunderstorms. Some of the storms could be severe from the far west portion of the state through the Permian Basin. Locally, heavy isolated thunderstorms are possible through Sunday.

South and North Texas skies remained cloudy Saturday as a moist, unstable air mass hovered over West Texas, keeping a flash flood watch in place.

An upper level low pressure system moved slowly toward West Texas from the southwest and a cold front moved down from the north.

SISD trustees to discuss Stanfield

Snyder public schools trustees will meet at 7:30 a.m. Monday to discuss a renovation project at Stanfield Elementary.

The meeting will be held in the SISD administration board room.

At issue is a proposal under the elementary school reorganization plan which would divide the music room at Stanfield into two smaller rooms. One of the rooms, 384 square feet, would be used as a bilingual classroom for approximately 13 students. The other 420 square feet would contain a music room for approximately 22 students.

A week ago, trustees decided they needed more information before making a decision on the project. They asked administrators to further research the pros and cons of placing the second grade bilingual program at Stanfield. They also asked for more information

Memorial Day services slated

Monday's Memorial Day services will begin at 9 a.m. with flag raising ceremonies at the Veterans of Foreign Wars post home.

Ceremonies will proceed to the American Legion post home, Snyder Cemetery and Hillside Memorial Gardens.

At 10:30 a.m., the public is invited to attend a memorial service and a ceremony honoring Gold Star mothers at the north side of the courthouse.

Dinner will be served at the VFW post home for members of the VFW, American Legion, Disabled American Vets, National Guard, active duty and reserve duty personnel and their families at 6:30 p.m.

Women who plan to attend are asked to bring a dessert.

Veterans of Foreign Wars have been selling "Buddy" Poppies at local businesses, a traditional fund-raising project. The "Buddy" Poppy has been the symbolic flower of Memorial Day since its first sale by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in 1922. The poppies are assembled by disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the United States.

In observance of Memorial Day, all local financial institutions and county and state offices will be closed Monday.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "In relationships, some people wear well while others just wear out."

The tornado season has just about passed, but no doubt everyone is aware of the destructive path one can leave. A twister can also perform some mysterious things, and we ran across these unusual occurrences.

In Kansas, a tornado passed close to a farmhouse and slid the bedclothes and mattress from under one of the farmhands, leaving him safe and sound, still asleep in his bed.

An Iowa twister popped a full-grown rooster into a narrow-necked two-gallon jug. The rooster was stunned, but alive and well without a feather ruffled.

In 1955, a nine-year-old was riding her pony in South Dakota. A tornado suddenly sucked the girl and pony into the sky, carried them for a mile and set them down unharmed. The girl was still on the horse, sitting square in the saddle.

A tornado once sheared the wool off an entire herd of sheep, leaving the animals grazing in the pasture.

Can't blame these newspaper miscues on the weather:

--Bill Jones returned home from the hospital where his left leg was placed in a cast following a fracture of a right ankle.

--The man seeking a divorce asked the court for a change of Venus.

--The general will remain unequaled in history for his accomplishments on the bottlefield.

--Mrs. Robbins, president of the club, announced that on June 15 the final meeting of the year will be hell.

--The next meeting of the American Legion will take place April 25. Every man who died for his country is invited.

Theatre appreciation course slated at WTC

Appreciation of the theatre will be stressed during a three-hour class offered through Western Texas College this summer — a class which will see students attending area play productions as part of their classroom instruction.

The course, Drama 131, Introduction to the Theatre, will be offered as a seminar type class. Discussion will center around what constitutes "excellence in theatre," according to instructor Jim Rambo.

He said the class will travel to see productions in several cities, possibly including Lubbock, Fort Worth and Dallas. The field trip to these performances will count as class time, he said.

The regular class meeting time is listed as Thursday nights from 6:10:10 p.m.

Rambo noted the class will count as three hours of academic credit. For those preferring this option, it can also be audited with class participants receiving a non-credit "P" grade.

For more information, contact the college at 573-8511 or 573-6796. Registration for WTC's summer school will be Monday, June 1, and classes will begin the same say. The regular signup period will be from 8 until 11:30 a.m.; from 1-4:40 p.m.; and from 5:30-6:30 p.m.

First time students enrolling at WTC are required to take a placement test. This will be offered during two time periods prior to registration, on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. and on Wednesday at 9 a.m. There is a $10 fee to take the placement test.

The last day to register or change class schedules will be June 3.

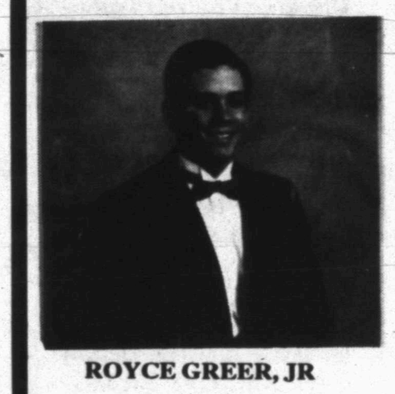

Senior Center activities announced for next week

The Senior Center will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day. The Monday Game Day has been moved to Tuesday, and dominoes will be the featured game starting at 9:30 a.m.

Tuesday will also be the last chance for senior citizens to vote in the 1992 Silver Haired Legislature (SHL) election. Ruth West of Snyder is seeking her second term in the SHL as the representative from District 3 which includes Scurry County. Mrs. West is running unopposed but encourages all senior citizens to cast ballots to show their interest in the Silver Haired Legislature and its programs.

All county residents over 60 years of age who are registered voters are encouraged to vote in

HISD expects a $90 million shortfall; tax hike expected

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston school officials say a loss of state funding and dwindling property values will leave the district with a $90 million shortfall.

"We have to start our budget cycle this year digging ourselves out of a $90 million hole before we can even begin to explain to the public what we need to do to give kids educational excellence," said Frank Petruzielo, superintendent of the Houston Independent School District.

Petruzielo told trustees Thursday the district received $23.5 million less than projected from the state this spring. In the coming year, the district is expected to lose $50 million, he said.

At the same time, decreased property values will likely cost HISD about $15 million, he said.

HISD trustee Paula Arnold said a "substantial (tax) increase" may be unavoidable.

"I think we're in a crisis," she said.

To make up a $90 million loss with local revenues, the district would have to raise taxes at least 20 cents, from its current rate of $1.05 per $100 valuation.

HISD — with nearly 200,000 students, the largest district in the state — is expected to spend the next two months devising next school year's budget.

Dallas' upper, lower classes draw farther apart in 1980s

DALLAS (AP) — Austin had the lowest poverty rate among Texas' five largest cities, El Paso had the highest unemployment, and Dallas had the highest median household income, according to new census data.

Austin's poverty rate was 17.9 percent, compared to 18 percent for Dallas, 20.7 percent for Houston, 22.6 percent for San Antonio and 25.3 percent for El Paso.

While Dallas' median household income of $27,489 in 1989 was more than $1,200 higher than Houston's, which was second among the five cities, Dallas also had the highest high school dropout rate.

The figures indicate a city whose upper and lower classes grew farther apart during the 1980s, said experts who analyzed the data.

Gressett to end 22 years as teacher

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Sue Gressett always wanted to grow up and become a teacher just like her mother. And that's just what she did.

During 22 years in the classroom, including 20 in Snyder, she always tried to be the kind of teacher she wanted her two sons, Randy and Tommy, to have when they were in school.

Reflecting on her teaching career, Sue said it "has been the most rewarding experience of my life. I have always wanted to make a difference in my students' lives."

There are many who would say she has accomplished her goal, including former students, the community and professional organizations.

Sue always keeps up with her former students. When they graduate she drops them a note along with some work they had done in her classroom which she has saved. She does this because she "enjoys reliving the memories with them," she said.

The community has also recognized Sue's efforts in the classroom. She was awarded the 1991 Educational Excellence Award bestowed by the chamber of commerce and was named an Outstanding Conservation Teacher in 1985. She has also been listed in the 1990 and 1992 editions of "Who's Who Among American Teachers."

Sue has taught fourth grade at Stanfield for four years. She also taught third grade at Northeast for 16 years. But this will be her last year to teach. She has decided to join her husband, Don, in retirement. A former Snyder teacher, he retired two years ago.

Throughout the years, Sue has sought to challenge her students "to learn to the best of their ability to do so." She wanted each one to "feel special" and to discipline them in a "loving way."

"I cherish my relationships with my students and over the years have shared their hurts, sorrows and joys with them," she said. "I never knowingly betrayed their trust in me. And I will miss them very much in the fall."

Sue also likes students to have fun and enjoy learning. She usually wears her "TGIF" button to class everyday, but on the days she forgets she owes her students a treat.

Another favorite is her jelly bean machine which students like to earn trips to. Every year her class puts on a play and they always enjoy the funny mishaps which happen along the way.

The rapport Sue has built with her students works both ways. A few years ago, when she was to take the state-mandated TECAT test, her students wrote her letters of advice.

Reflecting on her years as a Snyder teacher, Sue expressed appreciation to the four principals she has worked under, Charles Anderson, Gerri Parker, Wayne Kennedy and Bob Travis, her coworkers at both Northeast and Stanfield who "helped me through good and bad times," and her students and their parents.

A daily goal has always been to want to make a difference in someone's life.

Sue is a member of the National Education Association, Texas State Teachers Association and Texas Classroom Teachers Association. She is also a member of the Association of Curriculum Development for the First Baptist Church where she teaches preschool, young people and adults GAs (Girls in Action).

Sue's "calling" to become a teacher was natural since teaching seems to run in her family, she said. Her sister, Faye Cook, also a Snyder teacher, is retiring this year as well. Her mother was "the best teacher I ever knew," she said, and she strived "to be just like her." She also has a brother who is a former teacher and school administrator."

Sue began her teaching career in Silver, a small oil community in Coke County. For two years, she served as a combination teacher and secretary at the only school there. When the community was sold, the school closed and Sue and her family moved to Snyder in the middle 1960s. While Don taught, she said she stayed home for a few years until her youngest son entered school.

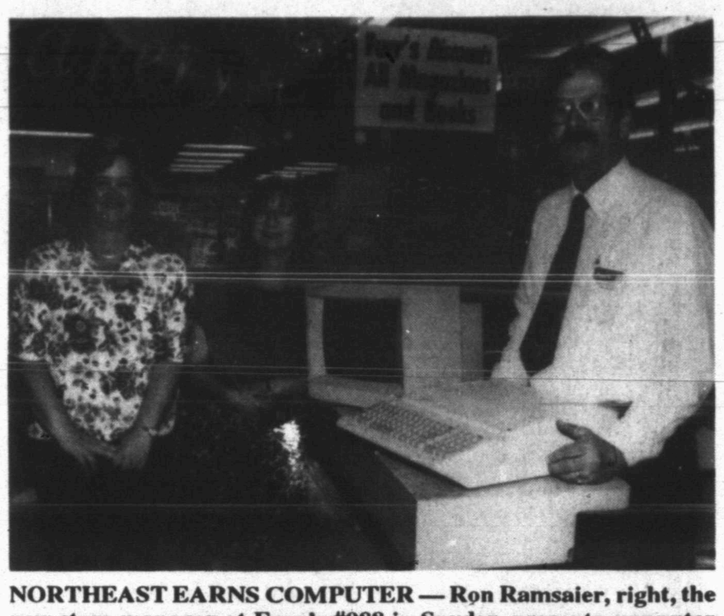

One son, Randy, is married to Teresa and serves as the youth minister for Plymouth Park Baptist Church. Tommy and his wife, Michelle, live in Irving where he is a member of State Farm Insurance Management.

A native of this area, Sue was the valedictorian of her senior class at Westbrook High School. She graduated magma cum laude from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene where she obtained her bachelor's degree.

Both her sons were honor students and athletes at Snyder High School.

HAPPY TO TEACH — Sue Gressett has devoted her life to teaching, something she had always wanted to do since she was a young girl. But after 22 years in the classroom, including 20 in Snyder, she has decided to retire at the end of this school year. (SDN Staff Photo)

NORTHEAST EARNS COMPUTER — Ron Ramsaier, right, the new store manager at Furr's #988 in Snyder, presents computer equipment to Billie Abel, the school's coordinator who conducted the campaign and parent council president, and Cris Benitez, parent council vice president. This is the first computer Northeast Elementary has earned since Furr's introduced its Apples for Students/Computers for Classrooms Program. (SDN Staff Photo)

Northeast buys computer with receipts from Furr's

Northeast Elementary School has collected enough receipts in the Furr's Apples for Students Program to receive an Apple computer and two disk drives valued at more than $1,600. The school will receive an Apple IIe Color System 128K CPU with a color composite monitor that comes with an Apple 5.25 inch disk drive. The school also will receive two extra Apple 5.25 disk drives and more than $180 in software.

This is the first computer Northeast Elementary has earned since Furr's introduced its Apples for Students/Computers for Classrooms Program.

This is the second computer awarded to Snyder schools through the program. Stanfield Elementary received the first computer, an IBM PS/2 with a printer, in May of 1990.

Furr's has offered the Computers for Classrooms program to schools since January of 1990. This school year Furr's is giving schools a choice by offering both Apple and IBM hardware and software, as well as audio/visual equipment, encyclopedias and calculators. The Apples for Students/Computers for Classrooms programs encourage schools to save Furr's register tapes to trade for free computer equipment.

Since the program's inception, Furr's has given away more than 800 computers and thousands of dollars in software worth more than $1 million. This year's program was launched on Sept. 4, 1991, and ran through March 6, 1992. Furr's welcomes any school in its trade area to participate in the program. ACS "Lights" crusade said successful here

The Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society met in its regular monthly meeting Monday in the boardroom at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Vice President Lavada McDaniel presided.

The minutes of the April meeting were read by unit secretary, Leona Wiggins. Treasurer H.W. Cargile presented the treasurer's report. He also reported that eight teams participated in the Willie Bigham Memorial Golf Tournament held at Western Texas College.

George and Shirley Stewart, co-chairmen of the Residential Crusade, reported that 146 workers participated in the "Lights on For Cancer Control" blitz which was held May 7.

Stewart said that the crusade was a tremendous success, both from the standpoint of monies raised, and also in the number of cancer prevention materials distributed. A primary goal of the American Cancer Society is to educate the public in the prevention and early detection of the disease.

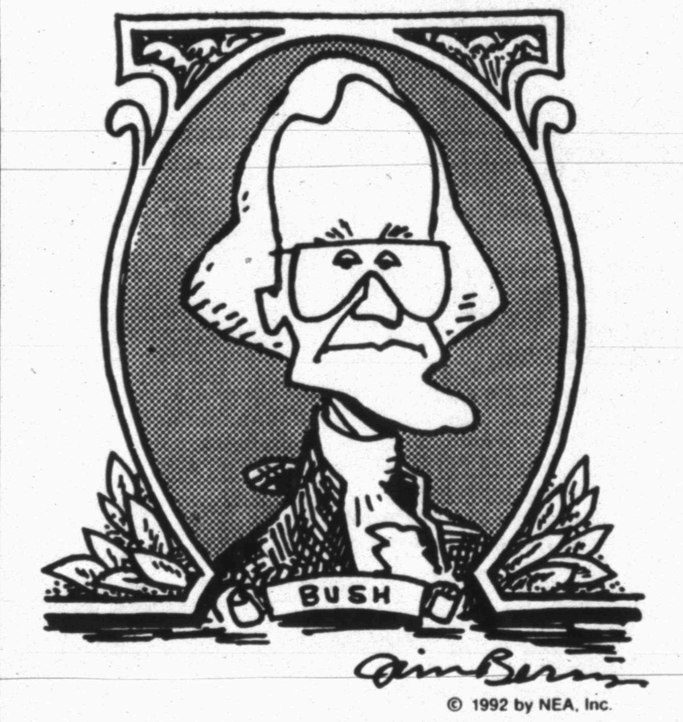

Nancy Wilson, public education chairman, reported that the Health Fair planned at Cogdell has been postponed until this fall. She called attention to the Guest Room program sponsored by ACS which was established for the use of cancer patients receiving outpatient treatment. Hotel rooms are available in Houston, Dallas, Lubbock and Abilene and other major cities for patients undergroing treatment. Mrs. Wilson can be contacted at 573-3234 for further information about this service.

Martha Schiebel reminded local board members of the large number of organizations who "copy" the American Cancer Society in an attempt to soilicit donations under false pretenses.

IN LOOKING PRESIDENTIAL
WE TRUST

THE CREATION
By Homer Anderson

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Genesis 1:1). The word translated into English "created" means to make something out of nothing. Therefore, God is placed permanently at the center of creation. No man anywhere can take nothing and make something out of it. Man has become very adept at taking matter that already exists and changing the form of it, but that is not creation. Only God can create in the sense the Bible speaks of creation.

God made the heavens and the earth, then He made the vegetable kingdom, the birds and fish, the animals, then God said, "Let us make man in Our image..." and "Then the Lord God formed man out of the dust from the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul" (Gen. 1:27; 2:7). A part of man is made in the image of God. This part is a living soul and will live forever. Your soul is indestructible. At "death" your soul will leave your body; the only part of "you" that really matters will go on. You will find that you are still very much alive. Where will you spend eternity?

Shock commercials used in campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two U.S. Senate campaigns have taken a graphic turn — one candidate's advertisement shows a white trucker being beaten by blacks during the city's riots and another candidate uses footage of an abortion.

Consultants say the ads help longshot candidates break through crowded fields for the June 2 primaries at a time when they are forgoing stump speeches and handshaking for TV advertising. Some ads are so shocking that television stations are uneasy about airing them.

Both of the state's U.S. Senate seats are up for grabs, with the retirement of Alan Cranston and former Sen. Pete Wilson's election in mid-term to governor. There are 11 major candidates for Senate.

Candidates contend they have been forced to rely heavily on television advertising because of the state's large size, recent diversions such as the riots and the lack of campaign news coverage.

Mel Levine, a relatively unknown Santa Monica congressman, surged in the polls on the strength of a multimillion-dollar commercial campaign.

"Mel Levine could have shaken hands from the day he announced on March 2 to Election Day, and he wouldn't have reached a fraction of the people who would be voting in the Democratic Primary," said campaign manager Hope Warschaw.

State Controller Gray Davis, running in the Democratic primary for Wilson's old seat, aired a 30-second commercial this week showing scenes of the Los Angeles riots. His ad included footage of the April 29 beating of white trucker Reginald Denny by black men.

The announcer says: "It's not white people's fault there were riots in L.A. It's not black people's fault there were riots in L.A. A few thousand thugs terrorized all law-abiding citizens."

Davis' Democratic primary opponent, Dianne Feinstein accused Davis of pandering to the far right.

She also said Davis' ad might pit white voters against minorities.

"I think that's part of what happens if we let ourselves succumb to this," she said Friday.

"My message is that there were some very bad things that happened that cannot be tolerated but must be punished," Davis said. "My message also is that communities pull together ... and that is something for us to build on."

The most controversial campaign to date was produced by conservative Bill Allen, who has been languishing at the bottom of the polls. He released a 30-second spot Friday that features a graphic eight-second scene of a second-trimester abortion in progress.

Allen is running for Wilson's old seat in the GOP primary against Wilson's appointee, John Seymour, and conservative Rep. Bill Dannemeyer.

The ad was being sent to about 425,000 subscribers who receive the Cable News Network from two San Diego County cable companies.

One of the companies, Cox Cable, didn't want to air the ad, but said government regulations prohibit licensed broadcast stations from rejecting or censuring federal candidates' ads.

Although the rules don't apply to cable companies, Cox decided it would be best to run the ad, said spokeswoman Kimberly Kasitz.

"We understand that it may disturb some of our viewers," she said. "We spent a lot of time with our lawyers, and we can't refuse it."

"We think this is the most effective," said Allen's political director, David Warnick. "When the most common surgical procedure in the United States has not been shown on TV, it seems obvious there's reasons."

Two accepted as BBU members

Luke E. Lewis and Abby L. Lewis, both of Scurry County, have been accepted as junior members of Beefmaster Breeders Universal (BBU).

The Beefmaster breed of cattle, founded in South Texas in the early 1930s, was developed on selection for traits of economic importance which have become known as "The Six Essentials." These traits are fertility, milking ability, growth, conformation, hardiness and disposition. Beefmasters were recognized as a pure breed by the USDA in 1954.

BBU, headquartered in San Antonio, is the national breed registry for BBU Beefmaster cattle and was chartered in 1961. Since that time, it has grown to rank as the largest of the American Breed registry associations.

With membership in BBU, Luke Lewis and Abby Lewis join more than 5,000 cattlemen in 38 states and seven foreign countries who hold membership in the association.

Celebrations differ

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-songwriter Bill Anderson said country performers celebrate a No. 1 record differently than during his heyday 25 years ago.

Anderson wrote the recent No. 1 song, "Tips of My Fingers," recorded by Steve Wariner. To mark the achievement, Anderson and his wife took Wariner and his wife out to dinner.

Portland leads series 2-1...

Utah rallies to drop Blazers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Karl Malone scored 25 of his 39 points in the second half as the Utah Jazz rallied from a 10-point deficit to defeat Portland 97-89, cutting the Trail Blazers' lead to 2-1 in the NBA Western Conference final series.

John Stockton had 14 points and 10 assists, and Jeff Malone and Mike Brown added 11 points each for the Jazz. Utah has won seven straight playoff games in the Delta Center and can even this series 2-2 with another home victory on Sunday. Game 5 is at Portland next Tuesday.

Clyde Drexler and Jerome Kersey each scored 26 points for Portland. Terry Porter was held to 13 Friday on 3-of-13 shooting.

Portland, which led 55-45 early in the third quarter following two straight baskets by Kersey, watched its lead disappear under a 21-8 Jazz run. Karl Malone, who made 14 of 23 shots in the game, scored 11 points during the spurt, which gave Utah a 71-69 lead going into the fourth period.

The Mailman added 8 points over a seven-minute span of the final period to push the Jazz lead to 83-75. Portland got no closer than 91-87, on Kevin Duckworth's jumper with 2:04 to play.

From the start, the game pitted Utah's inside attack against Portland's perimeter shooting. Karl Malone repeatedly drove to the basket on the way to scoring 10 points in the first quarter, but Drexler answered by popping jumpers from the perimeter for 10 points of his own.

The Jazz led 20-19 with two minutes left in the period, but two baskets by Danny Ainge and Drexler's fast break layin off Buck Williams' steal from Utah's Jeff Malone gave the Trail Blazers a 25-20 advantage.

Mike Brown's two foul shots closed the gap to 25-22 at the end of the quarter, and Brown's three-point play seconds into the second period tied it.

Portland answered with a 14-6 run, keyed by 4 points each from Porter and Kersey, to lead 39-31 with 5:34 remaining before intermission.

The Jazz rallied with a 12-3 spurt of their own, Stockton and Jeff Malone each getting a pair of baskets to pull Utah within 43-42.

Drexler and Kersey had 4 points apiece as the Trail Blazers outscored the Jazz 8-1 over the final two minutes to lead 51-43 at halftime.

Pavin claims Colonial lead

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — When it comes to high adventure, Indiana Jones is no match for Corey Pavin.

The slender Californian humbled the ''Horrible Horseshoe'' with birdies at four of the first five holes, survived a serious sinking spell, holed a bunker shot, missed an eagle deuce by an inch and knocked in a 30-foot birdie putt at the final green Friday.

''Interesting,'' he smiled.

Pavin surfaced from the misty moors of the Trinity River bottoms with a 6-under-par 64 that earned him a 1-shot lead at the midway point of the storm-threatened $1.3 million Colonial golf tournament.

His 36-hole total of 132 was 8-under-par and a shot ahead of Craig Stadler, who finished a rain-delayed first-round 66 Friday morning before posting a 67 in a windswept afternoon excursion.

''A beautiful day,'' grinned Pavin. ''When you shoot 64, it's always a beautiful day.''

Pavin is bidding for his second PGA title this year and a companion Colonial trophy for the one he captured here in 1985. His 266 that year remains the lowest winning total in Colonial's 46-year history.

For perspective, consider that Ben Hogan won the Colonial five times and his best winning scores were 279, one under par.

''It's been seven years since I shot a 64 here,'' Pavin said. ''It's kinda fun.''

Despite his heroics, 11 players were within three shots of the lead and another dozen were lurking no more than five strokes back.

Blaine McCallister, one of 25 players chased from the course by Thursday's thunderstorm, posted a pair of 67s Friday and was tied at -134 with first-round co-leader Davis Love III and Fulton Allem.

Possibilities abound at Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's a race with a lot of favorites. And that makes Sunday's Indianapolis 500 a race with no favorites but a lot of possibilities.

It's a lineup that includes the fastest qualifier in the history of the Speedway in Roberto Guerrero, driving a still-unproven car with an engine that has never won a race. It's a lineup that includes the most consistent driver this season, Bobby Rahal, starting from the fourth row.

It's a lineup that has a record 10 former winners, including the first trio of four-time winners, none of whom was within 8 mph of Guerrero. It's a lineup in which the winningest team in Indy history, Penske Racing, was shut out of the first two rows.

It's a lineup with seven rookies, including four who have never driven an Indy car race. And there's Lyn St. James, the second woman starter.

''It makes a very interesting field,'' said former winner Emerson Fittipaldi, one of the trio of Penske drivers.

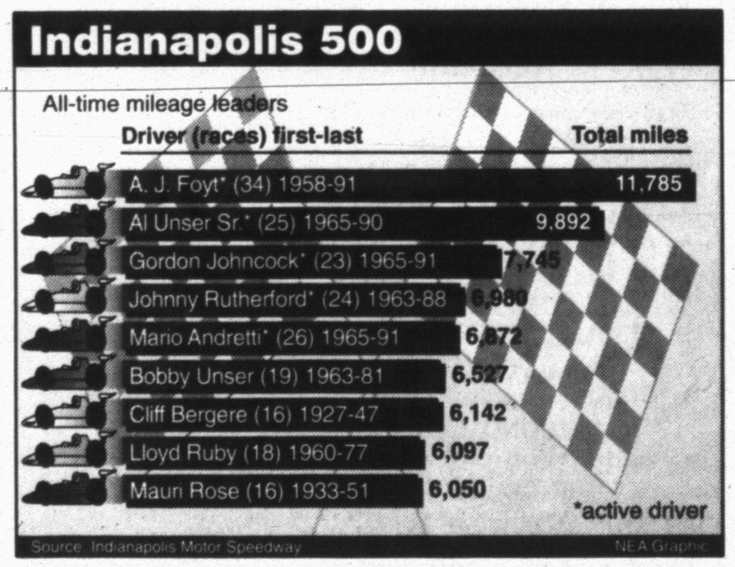

''It will be I'm sure the quickest Indy 500 in history, and it will be very competitive. But I can see a lot of track problems happening,'' he said after Thursday's final two-hour practice. ''The difference between the leaders and the back is great. I think that'll make a lot of moving and overtaking situations critical in the race.''

Guerrero qualified at a record 232.482 mph, breaking the record of 225.301 set by Fittipaldi two years ago. But Guerrero and teammate Jim Crawford, who had the fastest unofficial lap in Indy history at 233.433 mph during practice, are using the unproven Buick, whose reliability is still in question.

The most popular engine still is the Chevrolet, which has won 39 consecutive Indy car races over the past three seasons. But Fittipaldi and his Penske teammates Rick Mears and rookie Paul Tracy are using the new Chevy-B engine, and their speeds have been nowhere near as competitive.

Mears, last year's winner, qualified on the outside of the third row, only the second time since 1981 he hasn't been on the front row. Fittipaldi will start on the fourth row, and Tracy will be on the seventh row.

Car owner Roger Penske has fielded a record eight Indy winners.

Thirty-four Indianapolis 500s. That's how many of the races A.J. Foyt has driven in. His 11,785 miles is the most logged by any driver who has put the pedal to the metal at the old Brickyard. That's like driving from coast-to-coast across the United States four times. Bobby Unser, sixth on the list of miles driven, will drive the pace car at this year's Indianapolis 500.

Relievers give up four runs...

Texas hangs on for 10-7 win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Ranger fans greet their team's relief pitchers with lengthy choruses of boos these days.

That's understandable. Texas' bullpen is among the worst in the major leagues.

On Friday night the Rangers' relief corps almost blew another game before the Kansas City Royals' ninth-inning rally ran out of steam in Texas' 10-7 decision.

Rangers starter Bobby Witt was hooked after eight innings and Texas relievers, battered for six runs in the final two innings of a 7-5 defeat to Kansas City on Thursday night, yielded four runs in the ninth.

Ranger relievers Floyd Bannister and Jeff Robinson were touched for the ninth-inning Royals rally.

Texas manager Bobby Valentine, trying to put an optimistic spin on a near-disaster, claimed he was never worried in the ninth.

"The guys have got to pitch and they have to work," Valentine said. "I want them (the fans) to boo me, not the players. I don't want them to boo someone coming into the game."

Texas relievers spoiled the one-hit pitching of Nolan Ryan on Thursday.

Witt, 4-4, threw eight-hit ball over the eight innings and Ruben Sierra went 3-for-5 with a two-run homer and a double as Texas won for the fifth time in its last six games.

Witt threw 30 pitches in the eighth, giving him a total of 121.

The Rangers entered the game with the major leagues' fewest home wins (five) and worst home winning percentage (.277). Texas' 17-8 road record is the best in the majors and the best in team history after 25 games.

Kansas City had won four of its previous five.

Texas battered starter Mark Gubicza, 4-3, for seven runs and 11 hits over 4 2-3 innings. Gubicza had won four straight, three on complete-game performances.

"I thought I was going to be able to do the job tonight," Gubicza said. "But they have a good hitting team, we made some mistakes and they capitalized."

In the ninth Terry Shumpert had a two-run double, Gary Thurman contributed a run-scoring single and Chris Gwynn produced a run on a fielder's choice before Robinson was able to retire Gregg Jefferies on a ground-out to end the game.

"We haven't quit," Royals manager Hal McRae said. "That was good to see."

The Rangers won at Arlington Stadium for the first time since May 9.

Coaches to host baseball camps

Snyder High School coaches Roland Herrera and Levon Webb will conduct a pair of summer baseball camps.

Players from 8 to 11 years of age may register for the coaches' June 1-5 clinic at SHS.

Campers from 5-7 will be instructed from 8:30 to 10 a.m. while the 8-11 group will take the field from 10 a.m. to noon.

Cost of the camp, including insurance, is $40 per player.

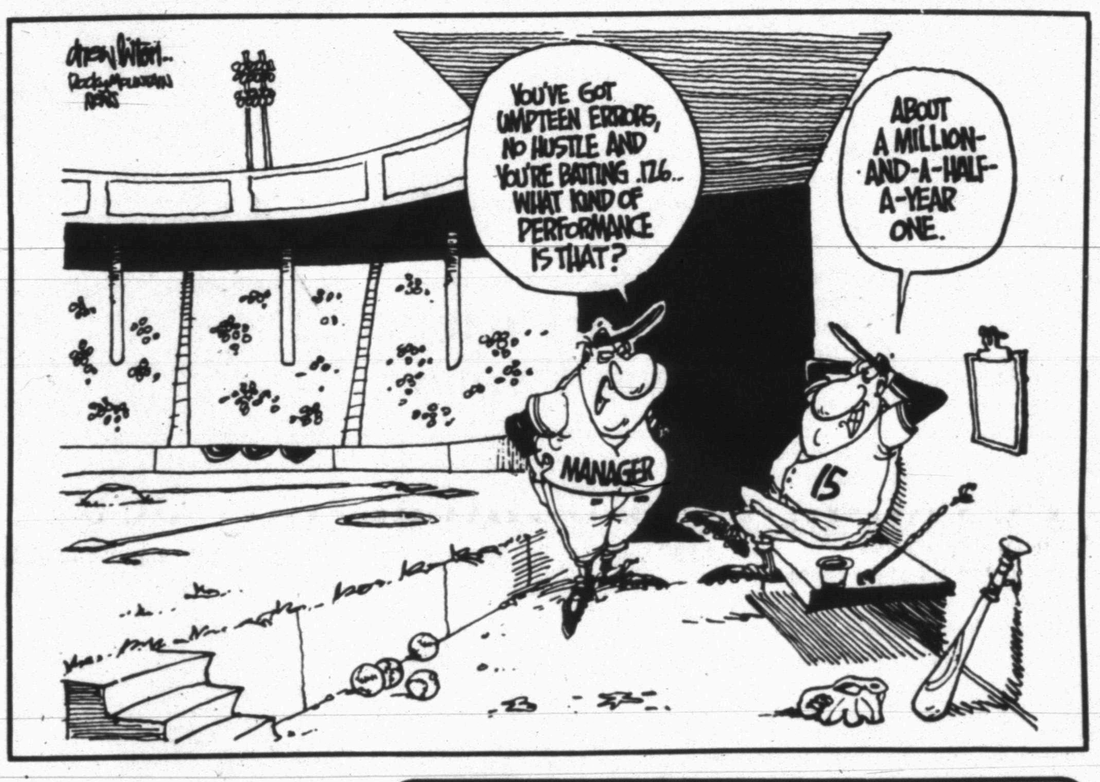

A hitting camp will be hosted by the coaches June 9-11 for area players 12 years and older.

Entrants in the clinic need to bring a bat and a video cassette. Players will be instructed and their progress recorded on tape.

Cost for the hitting camp will be $25.

To register for either session, call Herrera at 573-1355 or Webb at 573-9752.

Loraine advances in Class A

The Loraine Bulldogs scored 12 runs on just five hits Friday, slamming District 4-A runner-up Eula, 12-0, in bi-district baseball playoff action at Moffett Field.

The District 3 champion Bulldogs, 12-3, carried a 4-0 lead into the fourth frame, and exploded for four runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth.

The game was called on the 10-run rule after six innings.

"All we wanted to do was come out here and be consistent," said Loraine coach Bob Loy. "We got outstanding pitching and played good defense, and that was good enough."

Loraine pitcher Chris Phillips was Friday's winner, giving up just one hit and striking out nine.

The 'Dogs advance to the area round of the playoffs against Bovina at a time and site still to be announced.

Eula, a state tournament team a year ago, was picked to be in the thick of the Class A title chase this year with seven starters returning, but disciplinary action and grades claimed five of the returnees, leaving EHS with a 2-13 record.

In other playoff action Friday, District 2-4A runner-up Lamesa nipped Sweetwater in their area game at Big Spring behind left-hander Michael Lucio, who gave up just one hit in five innings.

With the win, Lamesa (22-6) advances to the Region 1-4A semifinals against the winner of Saturday's Azle-Saginaw Boswell contest.

District 2-4A champion Frenship had its Friday area tilt against District 3 runner-up Big Spring in Lubbock called off for the second straight day due to rain.

The Tigers and the Steers rescheduled their meeting for noon Saturday in Midland.

Portugal two-hits Cards for Houston

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mark Portugal thought he pitched the game of his career.

"I've been luckier before but never better," said the Houston Astros pitcher, who allowed only two hits in 8 1-3 innings in a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday night.

Portugal (4-1) struck out five and walked one, retiring the side in order in every inning but the fourth, when the Cardinals scored, and the ninth, when he was lifted after a single by Ozzie Smith.

Doug Jones got the final two outs for his ninth save, and Eric Anthony keyed Houston's offense with three hits, the first a two-run double.

"I was throwing everything for strikes," Portugal said. "I was only in one jam, and I got out of that with just one run. I was able to work ahead of all the hitters, and keeping those guys off base is the key.

"This is a good ball park to pitch in ... if you keep the ball down in big parks, you'll be successful."

The Astros are 7-2 in Portugal's nine starts. He has worked six or more innings and allowed three earned runs or less in eight of his nine starts.

"He's been our most consistent starter," Houston Manager Art Howe said "Tonight, he was pretty dominant. He had great stuff. He was throwing everything for a strike and staying ahead of the hitters.

"It seems like every team we play has something good to say about him."

Patrick named award winner

Snyder High School student Mary Jo Patrick, daughter of Virdie and Sandra Patrick, has been named a United States National Award winner in science.

Patrick was nominated for the award by Melanie Owens, science teacher at SHS.

The academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Patrick's grandparents are the late M.O. and Willie Patrick of Snyder and W.M. and Mary Hill of Joliet, Ill.

Haitian boats pass

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard let boatloads of Haitian refugees sail on toward Florida on Friday, and a Haitian human rights leader denounced the new policy as "let them sail, let them sink."

U.S. officials hope the new policy of rescuing far fewer boat people will discourage Haitians from taking to sea. A Haitian human rights activist said the Haitians would continue to flee.

U.S. cutters patrolling the Windward Passage off Haiti's coast on Thursday night encountered the first refugee boats since the change in U.S. policy.

Bodies found

ARCADIA, Okla. (AP) — Relatives of one of five women found fatally stabbed in an Oklahoma City house are in the same state as police — wondering who did it, and why, a cousin says.

Sandra Thompson was buried in Arcadia on Friday. The four other women found dead at her northeast Oklahoma City house May 16 were to be buried

Financial Focus

Some mutual funds offer shareholder benefits that are often overlooked. One such benefit is the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. This allows your investment to compound during a time when you may prefer to delay receiving the income.

Consider, for example, a $10,000 investment in a diversified portfolio of common stocks from Dec. 31, 1974 through Dec. 31, 1991. As measured by the Standard & Poor's 500 Index, the investment would have earned more than $29,000, and the number of shares would have grown from 146 to more than 300. For those who elected income reinvestment, however, the total investment would have compounded to more than $125,000.

Many investors, however, prefer to diversify their income rather than reinvest it in the same fund. Until recently, the only way to do this was either to call or write the fund company at the end of each distribution period and specifically request a transfer of shares to another fund. Today, some funds allow shareholders to pre-select a fund or funds, within their group into which distributions from another fund can be reinvested automatically. This benefit allows you to deposit principal as conservatively as you wish and use only the income or profits to reinvest in another fund, one possibly more growth-oriented.

Another mutual-fund shareholder benefit that often goes unnoticed is lump sum dollar-cost averaging. Seldom can anyone accurately predict market tops or bottoms. For this reason, one might be uncomfortable investing large lump sums into any mutual fund when the market has shown a prolonged uptrend. After all, it might drop. If not, when do you invest? A higher market offers even more risk, you may reason.

A simple solution that lets your money go to work immediately is to deposit the lump sum into a fund with a history of the least market fluctuation. Most fund groups offer a money-market fund or U.S. Treasury money fund that has no fluctuation of net asset value. This eliminates the anxiety of perfect timing. Next, instruct the fund to automatically transfer a stated dollar amount into your pre-selected long-term mutual fund at specified intervals--monthly, quarterly or semiannually. This way, you hedge your investment timing. If the market does decline, you benefit by buying at lower prices. If it continues an upward trend, your ultimate profits will probably not be as much, but you are entering the market progressively as it rises.

Shareholder services and benefits have become nearly as important in selecting a mutual-fund family as performance. When properly used, the investment flexibility and convenience of these services can enhance your fund's performance.

Beginning photography class set

Introduction to photography will be taught this summer at Western Texas College as a night course meeting Tuesdays from 6 to 10:10 p.m.

The class will equal three hours of academic credit. It is offered both as JOU 130 and as ART 139 and students may enroll in either class. Instructor will be Donny Brown, who notes WTC students wishing to fulfill their art class requirement for graduation from WTC might choose to enroll in the ART 139 option.

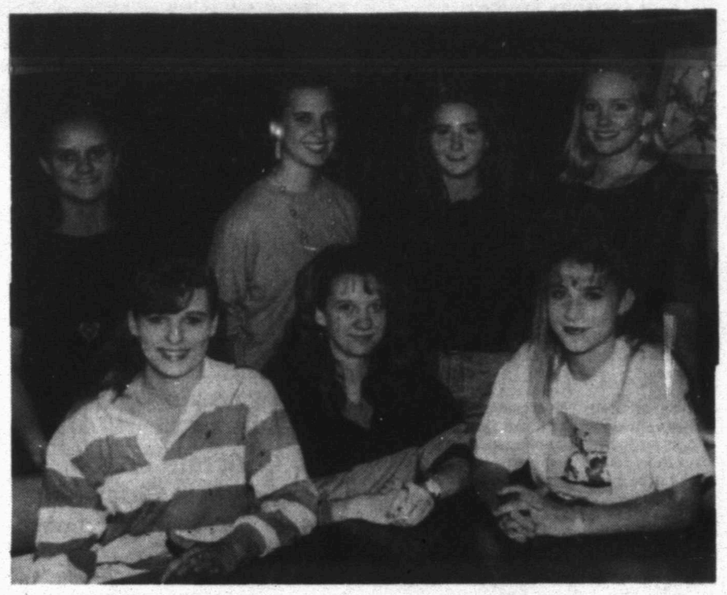

"It's also a class for someone who just wants to learn how to operate a manual 35 mm camera as opposed to those automatic jobs everyone else uses as snapshots," said Brown.

Class instruction will include a wide range of uses of the camera in addition to developing and printing 35 mm black and white rolls.

The college has "loaner" cameras for persons who do not own ther own. "There are four photo assignments in the class and I think most people will be able to actually take these photos and print them during class," Brown said.

For more information, contact Brown at 573-8511, ext. 273.

Registration for WTC's summer school will be Monday, June 1, and classes will begin the same day. The regular signup will be from 8 until 11:30 a.m. and from 1-4:40 p.m. and from 5:30-6:30 p.m.

General swimming classes will be infants/toddlers, teenage springboard diving and aqua aerobics.

The infant/toddlers class will be for those six months to six years old. Those not yet potty trained must wear rubber pants over swim suit or diaper. Emphasis of this class is water adjustment and interaction between parent and child. Older children will be progressed through swim skills. Cost is $15 for classes of 30 minutes each.

YOUNGEST SOLDIER ...
The 18-minute battle of San Jacinto won Texas its freedom from Mexico in April 1836. Sam Houston's army was composed of men of all ages and from many walks of life; few were professional soldiers. The youngest soldier on that victorious day was 17-year-old Josephus Irvine. He served in a company commanded by Captain Benjamin Franklin Bryant. Irvine later served as a major in the Civil War.

Many Thanks
To our friends who expressed their kindness and thoughtfulness on our loss of Maria Louisa Rodriquez, sister of G.G. Rodriquez.
From G.G. Rodriquez and Family

To the host of friends who came to us with love and sympathy, to those who could not come but sent flowers or messages of condolences; we want to express our deepest appreciation, we are indeed grateful for the beautiful flowers and for the food that was served. May God's blessings be upon you is our prayer.

PUBLIC NOTICE

For the past two years, Anhydrous Ammonia has been used in the chemical treatment process at the W.S. Bigham Water Treatment Plant in Snyder, Texas. Anhydrous Ammonia is used for the reduction of Trihalomethanes which occur when free residual chlorination comes in direct contact with organic matter naturally present in our lake. Every city in Texas with a population over 10,000 residents who operates a public water supply is required by the Texas Water Commission to treat for the reduction of Trihalomethanes.
Recently, we have received calls from some of our customers with complaints of a definite change in the taste and odor of their water. The complaints have ranged from an earthy taste and odor to a sewer taste and odor. Well in advance of the start date for the usage of this chemical two years ago, a series of public notices were published in our local newspaper explaining our intentions to begin utilization of this chemical. The notification contained information which we felt our customers should be made aware of. Based on the recent rise in customer complaints, we feel it is necessary to republish this information.
Anhydrous Ammonia is fed in conjunction with chlorine for the purpose of eliminating any bacteria, whether harmful or not, that could be present in our water. In years past, we have only been required to treat with chlorine as a means of disinfection. It is the belief of our Regualatory Agencies that by adding Anhydrous Ammonia to the disinfection process, the chemical reaction which occurs between these two chemicals creates a longer disinfection process thus assuring that our water is exposed to a means of disinfection for a longer period of time. The addition of this chemical is in no way harmful to our customers although it does create a problem with the taste of your water. Unfortunately, this chemical gives water an earthy taste. As most people associate their drinking water as being odorless, and tasteless, as was the case with our water before the additon of Anhydrous Ammonia. It is logical for one to suspect that something may possibly be wrong with their water if an odor or taste is detected. Please be assured that your drinking water is tested hourly here at the water plant, and a monthly sampling is collected throughout the City and tested by the Texas Water Commission. For the past nine years, all of our samples have surpassed the minimum requirements set forth by our Regulatory Agencies. The taste and odor, although present year round, is more noticeable during the summer months. This stems from the fact that during warmer weather the temperature of the water coming in from the lake rises. As warm water intensifies odors, the taste is more detectable during the summer months.
Another problem associated with Anhydrous Ammonia relates to owners of tropical fish. Exposure of tropical fish to water containing Anhydrous Ammonia is unadvisable as these fish cannot tolerate this chemical. We strongly advise tropical fish owners to consult their pet store as chemicals are available to remove Anhydrous Ammonia from the water, or either utilize a distilled water.
Our water plant personnel are required by both the Environmental Protection Agency and the Texas Water Commission to be fully trained and licensed in the production of drinking water. All of our personnel either meets or exceeds the licenses required by these agencies. It is our gol to produce a quality water that not only meets the requirements set forth by these agencies, but to exceed them. Please be assured that the safe production of your drinking water is not only a law, but a dedication that each of our water plant operators maintain.
If you have any questions concerning Anhydrous Ammonia or ever suspect that there may be something wrong with your drinking water, please do not hesitate to contact the W.S. Bigham Water Treatment Plant at 573-3782 or Customer Service at City Hall at 573-4969.

More fighting opens along new front

ARMASH, Armenia (AP) — Armenian and Azerbaijani fighters traded gunfire under the shadow of Mount Ararat on Friday in a widening of their four-year ethnic conflict.

Turkey denied reports that it was massing troops to intervene in the fighting. The denial came as Azerbaijani officials said they were ready to request Turkish help.

"If events continue the way they are, Azerbaijan will apply to Turkey to intervene," parliament leader Tamerlan Karayev said in Moscow.

The battles were raging around Armenia's border with Nakhichevan, an autonomous region of 300,000 people, mainly Azerbaijanis, that also has a 90-mile border with Iran and a seven-mile frontier with Turkey.

At least 16 people have died there this week.

Armenians accuse Azerbaijan of starting the fighting in Nakhichevan to draw Turkey into the war against Armenia. Azerbaijan claims Armenia attacked Nakhichevan in a land grab.

"We haven't stepped one foot on the territory of Nakhichevan," said Col. Mikhail Arutunyan, the Armenian official coordinating the forces around the territory. "The Armenian watch posts are all on Armenian territory."

Turks and Armenians have long been foes; Turkey massacred 1 million Armenians during World War I. Turkey and Azerbaijan share a language and the Islamic faith while Armenia is predominantly Christian and its language is unrelated to Turkish.

Earlier this week, Armenia seized the town of Lachin, Azerbaijan, in its campaign to wrest control over the enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh, where an estimated 1,500 people have died in four years of fighting.

Armenian refugees began returning to Nagorno-Karabakh after fighters gained control over a road that passes through Azerbaijan into the disputed territory, the nationalist Karabakh Committee said. Four busloads of refugees arrived Thursday and Friday from the Armenian capital, Yerevan, it said.

A team of U.N. observers postponed a fact-finding trip Friday to Nakhichevanbecause of the fighting there.

Nakhichevan-based troops of the Commonwealth of Independent States were on alert, officials said. Iran offered to send observers to the region.

Armenian and Azerbaijani fighters traded machine gun and rocket fire across a Armenian-Nakhichevan border area streaked with tall ridges and green valleys. Ararat, the mountain where Noah is said to have landed, towered behind them.

Floyd graduates from Oklahoma

Chris Floyd, a Newcastle, Okla. resident, graduated from the University of Oklahoma on May 9 with a bachelor of science degree in zoology.

He was the recipient of the 1992 George Miksch Sutton Scholarship in ornithology. He will pursue a year of research at the Rocky Mountain Biological Laboratory in Colorado beginning June 1, before entering graduate school in 1993.

Floyd is the son of Phil and Sue Ann Floyd of Newcastle and the grandson of the late A.C. and Opal Floyd, and Roy and Janella Burgess of Snyder, Texas.

about the cost of a portable building, as an option to dividing the music room.

In the past, bilingual studies have all been taught at Central Elementary. However, the reorganization plan calls for second grade bilingual students to be taught at Stanfield next year, with all of the other second graders.

According to administrators, some teachers believe that the second grade bilingual students should be with their peers. Others, however, feel that the students would have better support at Central, with first and third grade bilingual students.

If the second grade bilingual students are located at Central, it could cause some problems with overcrowding there as well, it has been noted. One solution would be to utilize the teacher workroom for a bilingual classroom. In such a case, teachers would probably use the stage area for a workroom.

Another solution would be to purchase a portable building for use at Central.

If bilingual students are taught at Stanfield, the board could accept plans to divide the music room there, or purchase a portable building.

Cost estimates of two-classroom portable buildings have been projected at $60,000, including electricity. However, trustees have commented that the cost appears excessive.

Police note three arrests

Snyder police made three arrests Friday afternoon and early Saturday morning.

Officers arrested a 27-year-old man at 3:57 p.m. Friday in the 1800 block of U.S. Highway 84 on an outstanding DPS warrant.

At 2:10 a.m. Saturday, police arrested two men, ages 20 and 38, in the 3500 block of Avenue M for public intoxication.

Police also issued a citation for minor in possession at 10:16 p.m. Friday in the Sonic parking lot.

Officers responded to several domestic disputes, a report of a fight and complaints about excessive noise. All were handled without incident.

Man with gun arrested by SO

A 44-year-old Snyder man was arrested in Hermleigh Friday for unlawful carrying of a weapon on school property.

At 9:32 p.m., Hermleigh School Superintendent Jerry Church contacted the sheriff's office to report that a subject was possibly carrying a gun at the school's graduation ceremonies.

The man, James Hazlewood, was contacted by law enforcement officers, and arrested for carrying a .22 caliber pistol inside the school building.

According to deputies, the gun was never displayed openly or in a threatening manner.

Hazlewood, whose address is listed as the Beacon Lodge, was released from Scurry County Jail on $3,000 bond.

Retiral moved back to L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge believes impartial jurors can be found in Los Angeles County to retry a white policeman in the beating of black motorist Rodney King, but agreed a cooling-off period was needed before retrial.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg on Friday ordered police Officer Laurence Powell's retrial moved back to Los Angeles County despite three days of deadly rioting after the first trial.

He set a cooling-off period of nearly five months, scheduling retrial for Oct. 19.

Michael Stone, an attorney for Powell, argued against moving the retrial back to the county where the beating occurred. He said fear of more riots would lead Los Angeles jurors to deliver a "politically correct" verdict and find his client guilty.

Prosecutors hailed Weisberg's ruling as a victory.

"We're going to put on the evidence as we did last time and we think we will have better results," Deputy District Attorney Terry White said. "We think the evidence is strong enough that we're going to get a guilty verdict."

In his ruling, Weisberg noted the county has the state's largest jury pool. He also cited statewide news coverage of the April 29 acquittals of Powell and three other officers as well televised images of the subsequent rioting that killed 52 people.

AuCoin finishes narrowly ahead

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Congressman Les AuCoin, who had been hurt by the House check overdraft scandal, finished 248 votes ahead of businessman Harry Lonsdale on Friday in the final, unofficial tally from Tuesday's Democratic primary for U.S. Senate. The narrow margin appeared to trigger an automatic recount.

Producer searches for new Dennis

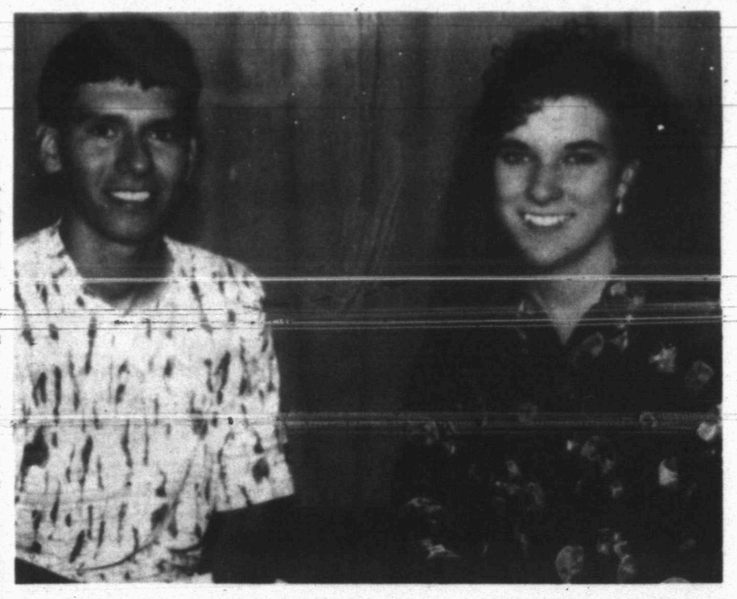

CHICAGO (AP) — A nationwide search is on for a "real kid" to play 5-year-old Dennis the Menace opposite Walter Matthau's curmudgeonly Mr. Wilson.

Movie producer John Hughes said he doesn't want another McCauley Caulkin, whom he made famous in "Home Alone."

"I don't want somebody who has learned how to act yet," Hughes said Thursday in announcing the search. "I want a kid who's learned how to be a kid. We'll take care of the rest."

Producers of the Warner Bros. movie want boys ages 5 to 7 who are asked to submit videotapes up to five minutes long with a photo. Hughes and producer Dick Vane will choose children for auditions.

"It would be much easier for us to get a small 9-year-old," said Hughes.

Beeks and Ramey continue Hermleigh School tradition

The tradition of education which Sarah Beeks valued so highly, lives on in the Ramey and Beeks families.

Sarah knew the value of a good education, and throughout her life she insisted that daughter, Jane Beeks Ramey, and son, Neil Beeks, graduate from college.

Before she died, she gave Jane her diamond ring. She asked her to have it made into two rings, to be given to her four-year-old granddaughters, Rebecca Ramey and

Throughout the years, they said they have enjoyed the small, friendly and close-knit atmosphere which Hermleigh has always maintained. (SDN Staff Photo)

FAMILY TRADITION — Kory Clark's graduation Friday night at Ira marked the 45th consecutive year that a Clark has attended the school. The tradition began in 1902 when Kory's great-great-grandmother, Ida Autry, graduated. Family members pictured who have graduated from Ira also include, from left, back row, Kory, his parents, Lena and Kelton Clark, Carolyn Barbee, aunt; Chuck Barbee, cousin; front row, Jay Clark, cousin; J.L. and Nora Lee Clark, grandparents; Kaila Barbee Lunsford, cousin, and her son, Brandon. (SDN Staff Photo)

Clark family tradition ended with Kory's IHS graduation

For the past 45 years, J.L. and Nora Lee Clark have had either a child or grandchild at Ira schools. That tradition ended — at least for the time being — Friday night when their grandson, Kory Clark, graduated as the top student in his class.

The Clark family's long association with the school began 90 years ago with J.L.'s mother, the former Ada Autry, who was a member of the first graduating class in 1902. She was 13 years old and the school consisted of a single room which housed seven grades.

Except for a brief period from 1942-1947, one of Ada's descendants has attended school in Ira continuously.

After graduating, Ada went on to become a music teacher by studying with another music teacher to earn her certification. She also taught organ and worked in Ira's post office under Postmaster Ira Greene, for whom the town was named.

Alison Beeks, when they graduated from high school.

Both girls graduated with their senior class Friday night during commencement ceremonies at Hermleigh.

Jane graduated from Hermleigh in 1960 — the valedictorian of her class. A son, Daniel, graduated in 1989. He was also valedictorian of his class. Rebecca and Alison were also the top two students, respectively, at Hermleigh for the 1991-92 school year.

Both girls were valedictorians of their eighth grade classes as well. Rebecca was at Hermleigh, but Alison, who started to school in Hermleigh as a sophomore, was attending Highland schools at the time.

Jane is also the oldest charter member of the Beta Club chapter at Hermleigh. She was one of four students in her class whose grade point average was high enough to join.

Daniel, Rebecca and Alison were also members of the Beta Club.

Neil graduated from Hermleigh in 1963.

He participated in track and football and made one trip to state while in track.

Both families have also had a long association with McMurry University in Abilene. Jane and Neil received undergraduate degrees there. Jane earned her master's degree at Hardin-Simmons University.

Both are teachers today. Jane has taught English at Hermleigh for the past 13 years. Neil teaches in Sweetwater. Previously, he taught in Loraine and Lamesa.

Daniel has just completed his junior year at McMurry.

Rebecca will study bilingual education at McMurry.

Alison, however, will break tradition next fall when she enrolls at Western Texas College. She intends to study management development.

Since her daughter and niece have been in school together, "they have always helped each other and have never been in competition against each other," Jane said.

Jane and the others said they have always liked the close knit atmosphere at Hermleigh. "When I look down the halls I like to know everyone I see," Rebecca said.

"I'm glad that Hermleigh doesn't have cliques. No one looks down on you if you don't wear the right clothes," Alison said.

Besides being honor students, Rebecca and Alison have another distinction. They are the only two girls on Jane's side of the family. Alison was the first Beeks girl to be born in 31 years.

Sarah Beeks never attended Hermleigh schools. Instead, she went to the Gannaway School which was later consolidated with Hermleigh.

Jane said her mother always stressed the importance of education. "It was not a matter of whether we went to college, but what college we would attend."

Jane's father, Orval Beeks, who also attended Hermleigh school, died in October of 1991. While there, he played baseball, tennis, basketball and track. A favorite golf story often told in the family is that Orval was good enough at tennis to beat everyone he played except one doctor's son.

Orval came to Hermleigh in a covered wagon with his famiy when he was only 11 years old.

Before moving back to Hermleigh, Jane taught at the Jim Ned School in Abilene. She also worked for the Bureau of Indian Affairs in New Mexico and Arizona. She was also a pilot teacher at UCLA and served for a year as a consultant for a program which was developing material to help Navajo Indians learn English. She also taught at a private pre-school in Gallup.

A cake to score big

By The Associated Press

Score a hit with this easy-to-make baseball cake. Use commercial cake mix and bake in an ovenproof bowl with a rounded bottom.

Ice the cake with canned vanilla frosting. Use red licorice for the laces. Serve on a field of "grass," made with coconut that's been tinted green.

BASEBALL CAKE

One package yellow cake mix

One 16-ounce container vanilla frosting

Red licorice

Coconut, tinted green

Grease and flour a 21/2-quart ovenproof glass bowl with a rounded bottom. Prepare yellow cake mix according to package directions. Pour into the prepared bowl. Bake according to package directions. Cool in bowl on cooling rack for 15 minutes. Invert onto cooling rack. Cool completely.

To assemble, place cake on serving plate. Frost with vanilla frosting. Apply red licorice to resemble laces on a baseball. Arrange green-tinted coconut around the base of cake, if desired. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

Note: To tint coconut, combine several drops green food coloring and 1/2 teaspoon water in a small bowl. Add 1 cup flaked coconut. Toss with fork until evenly tinted.

MRS. JUSTIN LANE WEBB

Wyatt, Webb marry in garden setting

Elizabeth Anne Wyatt and Justin Lane Webb, both of Brownwood, were married at 11 a.m. on May 16 at the A.P. Thompson Center in Atlanta, Tex. J. Kirby Sutterfield officiated.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wyatt of Queen City, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Levon Webb of Snyder.

Spring flowers, tables covered with ivory lace cloths, and raspberry accents furnished the setting for a garden wedding. Vows were exchanged under an arch of fresh spring flowers entwined with ferns and a matching unity candelabra.

Seating guests were Zachary May of Early, Chris Caronna of Abilene, David Wyatt of Queen City, brother of the bride.

Orchestral music included "Elvira Madigan," "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring," and "Everthing I Do, I Do For You." Vocalist sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The father of the bride presented her in marriage as she was attired in a gown of ivory satin and hand-clipped Alencon laces clustered with pearls and crystals. It was designed with a fitted basque waistline, scalloped lace neckline and sort puffed, angel sleeves, accented with silk blossoms at her shoulders. The softly gathered skirt, featuring a wide butterfly bow edged with Alencon lace, fell into a chapel length train, also edged in lace. Sam Wyatt of Queen City, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Angel Herring of Lubbock and Karen Roberts. All attendants wore two-piece, raspberry embroidered suits by Kathie Lee from Plaza South. They wore cream shoes and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Jade Ferguson of Queen City and Kelcey May of Early were flower girls. They wore ivory satin tea length gowns, matching shoes, and a halo of spring flowers as their headpieces.

Best man was Jimmy Hunter of Taft, Calif. Dean Belisle and Randy Strickland, both of Brownwood, were groomsmen. Male attendants wore grey Pierre Cardin, vested tuxedos with ivory shirts.

A reception was held in the A.P. Thompson Center. The bride's three tiered cake, displayed on pedastals, was decorated with spring flowers. The groom's cake, shaped into two hearts joined together, was chocolate.

Their honeymoon trip was to San Antonio.

The couple are at home in Brownwood where the groom is an independent construction contractor. A 1986 graduate of Snyder High School, the groom is currently attending Howard Payne University.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Queen City High School and a 1992 graduate of Howard Payne University.

Nuptial vows pledged

Lydia Albarez and Michael Moreno, both of Lubbock, were united in marriage at 4 p.m. on March 14 at the East Side Church of Christ. Tom Holcomb, minister, officiated.

The bride's parents are Joe and Elecia Albarez of Snyder and the groom's parents are Eustolia O. Moreno of Lubbock and Tony Moreno of Carlsbad, N.M.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered by a brass arch, flanked by seven-light candelabra. Each was entwined with silk foliage and adorned with multi-loop teal and mauve satin bows. Pews were decorated with matching ribbons.

Candlelighter was Lee Minyard of Odessa, cousin of the bride.

Edward Albarez, brother of the bride, sang "There is Love" as the wedding party entered. The traditional "Wedding March" was played as the bride entered, and the recessional was played as the couple left the altar area.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a formal gown of candelight taffeta by Jasmine. Her sweetheart neckline, heavily appliqued with lace, was trimmed with pearls and iridescent sequines. The basque bodice featured pearl dangles which enhanced the romantic style.

Her large, pouf sleeves were decorated with lace appliques, pearls and iridescent sequins. A double bow, centered with delicate lace, was attached under the pouf of her leg-of-mutton sleeves.

Elegant designs of lace appliques studded with pearls and iridescent sequins adorned the bouffant skirt. Her center back featured a candy box bow. The cathedral length train, with lace appliques, was edged in lace.

In keeping with tradition, something old were pennies minted in the couple's birth dates that she carried in her shoes; something new was her gown; something borrowed was a set of pearl necklace and earrings, borrowed from Rachel Minyard, her cousin; and something blue was her garter.

The bride carried a large cascade bouquet of mauve and teal dry-look silk roses, ivory rosebuds accented with ivory pearls, ivory baby's breath, streamers of ivory lace and mauve and teal satin ribbon.

Bouquets and boutonnieres were designed by Dora Romero, aunt of the bride.

Maid of honor was Rachel Garza of Austin. She wore a mauve dress. Bridesmaids were Rachel Minyard of Odessa, cousin of the bride; Priscilla Alarcon, cousin of the bride; Jennifer Moreno of Lubbock, cousin of the groom; and Diana Molina of Lubbock, cousin of the bride. Their dresses were floral cotton prints of mauve and teal. The sleeveless, drop-waist bodice featured pleated collars. They each carried one large mauve, dry-look rose surrounded with baby's breath with streamers of mauve and teal ribbon.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL MORENO

Flower girls were Shahala Mata of Odessa and Karrah McCrary, cousins of the bride. They were dressed identical to the bridesmaids and carried ivory lace baskets decorated with matching bridal flowers.

Ring bearers were Ashton Minyard of Odessa, second cousin to the bride, and Derrick Garcia, another cousin.

Omar Spencer of Odessa served his cousin as best man. Other male attendants were Alejandro Aquilar of Las Cruces, N.M.; Alex Rodriquez of San Angelo; the bride's brothers, Sebastian Albarez and Edward Albarez.

The groom was attired in an ivory Dynasty fulldress tuxedo with a satin inset, matching pleated trousers and an ivory vest and tie. Groomsmen wore matching Bill Blass pearl grey fulldress tuxedos with satin faced lapels. Their mauve cummerbunds and ties, matching the bridesmaids dresses, completed their attire.

Dina Arredondo of San Angelo registered guests.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Latin American Center. The bride's table, covered with a mauve cloth, overlayed with lace, held the five tiered cake set on individual white graduating cake stands. Each Janke stand held a heart-shape cake with the top cake displaying a Rhapsody contemporary, belled arch dotted with flowers and tulle.

A miniature porcelain couple stood on a crystal base, trimmed with tulle pouf and floral spray in pink and mauve shades. A mauve satin ribbon adorned each center pole. Each cake was decorated with a ruffle design and iced in white with pearl drapes and held bouquets of the bride's chosen colors.

Serving were Dora Romero, aunt of the bride, and Dina Arredondo.

The groom's cake was on a table draped with mauve and overlayed with lace. The two-layered chocolate cake was filled with German chocolate and frosted with chocolate cream. The cake was decorated with a path holding a hesitant groom dragging a ball and chain.

Reta Graham designed and baked the wedding cakes.

The couple is at home in Carlsbad, N.M., where the groom is employed with New Mexico Potash and the bride plans to attend New Mexico University. The groom is a graduate of Monterry High School in Lubbock and the bride is a Snyder High School graduate and attended Angelo State University for two years.

Is your vision 20/20?

By Phillip Alder

For most players, bridge would be much easier if they could use a pen and paper at the table. They could note the cards as they are played; they could write down the possible hand layouts and analyze ways to make the contract. But in the real world, we all have to rely on our mind's eye to visualize the full deal.

Can you see how to make today's contract? Cover the East-West cards. Against three no-trump, West leads the heart king. How do you plan the play?

This auction is one of the worst for a natural system. South has no other way to show a balanced 25-27 points. But it is so space-consuming. There is no room to investigate a major-suit fit below three no-trump. Here, luckily, North-South didn't miss a fit.

If the clubs are worth four tricks, there appear to be nine top tricks: three spades, one heart, one diamond and four clubs. However, there is a mosquito in the moistener: How do you get into the dummy to cash the spade king?

You don't need to as long as West must win the fourth round of hearts. Duck the first two rounds of hearts and win the third with the ace, noting that West cannot have more than five hearts. Next, cash your four club winners and the A-Q of spades. Finally, cast adrift with the heart seven.

After West has taken his two heart tricks, he must lead either a spade to dummy's king or a diamond into your A-Q tenace. Either way, he must concede a ninth trick to you.

Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper. They can be answered only through the column.

Man bites gator

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (AP) — Chefs from hotels and restaurants throughout the southeastern United States will take part in a "National Gator Cook-off" to be held here June 21.

The chefs will use alligator meat to create hors d'oeuvres. These hors d'oeuvrs, called Gator Bites, will be available for sampling.

The cook-off is part of "A Sea Island Celebration," a weekend festival based on South Carolina's low-country history, culture and ecology. The Museum of Hilton Head Island is one of the celebration's sponsors.

Napoleon Bonaparte defeated Austrian forces at the Battle of Marengo in 1800 to reconquer Italy.

Born in 1889, Ada married Drew Clark in 1908. They had six children, including J.L., Kory's grandfather, who also attended school in Ira for 11 years, the only grades then available. J.L. farmed and married Nora Lee James of Snyder in 1939. They live on his parent's original homestead. All four of their children graduated from Ira.

J.L. and Nora Lee's eldest son, Kelton, started school in Ira in 1947. He graduated in 1960 and his wife, Lena, graduated in 1961. He farmed and ranched for 18 years and is now an oilfield contract pumper.

A daughter, Carolyn Barbee, graduated in 1964. She was class valedictorian. She works for Dr. Bid Cooper and was recently elected to the Western Texas College board of trustees. Her husband, Bob, is an electrical maintenance foreman for SACROC. Bob is a former WTC teacher.

Carolyn said Ada, whom she affectionally called "Momma Clark," instilled in them a deep love for their church, school and community.

A son, Drew, graduated in 1968. A former farmer, he now lives in Eden and is a pumper for Wiser Oil Company.

Another son, Jay Lynn, who graduated in 1975, lives in Midland and is employed at Sun Oil.

Several of J.L.'s and Nora Lee's grandchildren also graduated from Ira.

Kelton's oldest son, Jay, is a 1986 graduate. He currently lives in Midland and is employed by ESP.

Kory, the latest graduate, will attend WTC for one year before tranferring to Tarleton State University, where he plans to study agriculture finance.

Carolyn's two children are also Ira graduates. Kaila Barbee Lunsford graduated in 1987. She and her husband, Jacky, live in Midland. They have one son, Brandon.

Chuck Barbee graduated in 1989. He will be a junior at Tarleton next fall where he is majoring in ag education.

Drew and Teresa's children started school in Ira but were transferred. They are Jennifer, who attends Tarrant Junior College; Angela, who will be in junior high school; Drew, who will be a sixth grader; and Cody, 5, who hasn't started school yet.

Jay Lynn and Jill's daughter, Terrin, started school in Ira but now lives in Midland. She is a first grader. Her brother, Eric, will be in kindergarten.

J.L.'s three sisters also graduated from Ira, but the family is not sure of the exact dates. Leona Smallwood lives in Ira and Anice Wallace lives in Snyder. Leola Brocat is deceased.

A brother, Jack, also graduated from Ira. He now lives in Dallas.

When J.L. and Nora Lee's last child graduated from Ira, their first grandchild started to class there.

In all, J.L. and Nora Lee have bought a total of 52 Ira school annuals.

That first year J.L. attended school in Ira, he only got to go for two weeks because there weren't enough seats and he had to wait until the following school year.

He remembers that the school building burned down in 1943 and that his parent's home burned down two weeks later.

When J.L. was a boy, he walked to school usually, but sometimes he rode a burro. After the family bought a rubber tire buggy they traveled "first class," he said.

Nora Lee was an active PTA member for 26 years. During all the years she had children in school she missed only one first day of school assembly, and that was because J.L. had been hospitalized.

When Nora Lee's son Drew was in school, one day the superintendent called to say he was "missing." He had apparently shown up for class that morning, but no one could find him later in the day.

She said she got her husband, who was plowing in the field, and they went to the school. Much to their relief, they found Drew asleep in his car. Apparently, he hadn't been feeling well and had gone to his car to rest.

During the early 1950s, Nora Lee said they started a community canning effort to benefit the lunchroom. At that time, the lunchroom was located in what is now a storage shed north of the new gym.

That first year, they all donated jars. As the word spread, people began arriving at the school with pressure cookers and pickup loads of vegetables. They saved the jars so that in subsequent years they didn't have to buy anymore.

All the canned foods were donated to the school's cafeteria, she said.

Bob and Carolyn and Kelton and Lena were charter members of Ira's Booster Club. Lena and Carolyn were also active in the PTA.

Several members of the family shared the same teachers. They include Roy Sallee, long time Ira coach; Betty Burrow, who is retiring after 23 years in the classroom; and Sue Parham, who has directed one-act plays for the past several years.

Both Carolyn and Lena played on the same basketball team coached by Sallee.

Due to Ira's size, their graduating classes were usually small and, for the most part, they usually had the same classmates over the years.

Kelton attended the third grade in a two-room house which did not have indoor plumbing because there wasn't enough space. Later, the house became a teacherage.

While the kindergarten room was under construction, first grade and kindergarten shared the same room, separated by a partition.

When Carolyn and Lena were in school, Ira had a very strict dress code which did not allow girls to wear pants unless the temperature was quite cold, they said.

Boys could not wear shirts without collars and all shirt tails has to be tucked in.

Jay said his graduating class had only one girl in it. Kaila' s class had the first girls (including Kaila) to enroll for ag classes, she said.

Kaila and two friends, Lana Bedell and Susie Foster, were also responsible for Ira's annual prom. She said the three of them met with the school board one night, Bibles in hand, and presented their request. Ira residents had also signed petitions in favor of the prom. Kaila said they found out about midnight that the school board approved their request.

Ira had not had a school sponsored dance prior to 1986, but the prom has since become a tradition.

Kaila and Chuck both remembered schooldays that started at 7:30 a.m. with an "0" period class and concluded about midnight. She said her mom often brought them sandwiches in the evening. Their days were so lengthy because they were also involved with basketball, ag, and drama practice.

Kaila said members of her graduating class were "the most smart alecks on stage" because they had decided in advance to cross and recross their legs repeatedly on cue. She said they did this because the superintendent, Jay Martin, had told them not to cross their legs on stage.

She said they also paid someone $5 to crank up the volume on graduation night when the rock song they had chosen as their class song was played.

Chuck said all but two in his graduating class skipped school the day of graduation. They were told that unless they were back in school by 3:30 p.m. they were going to get licks. Not everyone returned, but no licks were given, he said.

Chuck also remembers never being absent one day while he was in kindergarten and breaking his arm while go-carting in the fourth grade. He missed three days of school.

He said his class was also the largest graduating class at Ira.

The Clark family has also been involved with Ira sports. Chuck, Kory, Jay, Kaila, Lena and Carolyn were all named to all-district basketball teams.

Kory has accumulated many honors and recognitions at Ira. In addition to being the valedictorian, he was also voted most popular by the student body and he received departmental awards in Spanish, English, ag and math.

He also served as the first president of Ira's newly organized National Honor Society chapter.

He played baseball this year, Ira's first year to field a team in many years.

In basketball he received second-team all-area and all-state honors. As a freshman, Kory was a member of the junior chapter conducting team which won state. In 1985 and 1986, he played on the football and basketball teams which each secured a state playoff berth.

As a sophomore, he was a member of the basketball team which won bi-district and competed in area competition.

Kaila, Jay, Chuck and Carolyn have all attended WTC. It's a family tradition that Kory will continue this fall. Chuck, who is now at Tarleton, will be the first one in the family to graduate from college.

Limits of growth?

In the 1970s, a relatively U.S. sluggish economy, energy and resource shortages (natural gas crunch of '75; gasoline shortage of '79) and environmental problems contributed to the "limits of growth" philosophy. Suspicion of science and technology killed or delayed major projects (supersonic transport dropped in '71; DNA recombination curbed in '76; Seabrook A-plant protests of '77-'78); it was fed by the Three Mile Island nuclear reactor accident of March 1979.

College students look for overseas jobs

By The Associated Press

Colleges across the United States are offering courses in international business to help graduates find jobs in foreign countries.

These programs are called by various names — International Business, Multinational Corporate Studies, International Business and Language Area Studies. But the goal is the same — to prepare graduates who will be involved in some aspect of international business.

"Most corporations realize the importance of international trade, even those not directly involved in it," says Hossein Varamini, director of International Business and Language Area Studies at St. Norbert College in De Pere, Wis.

"Many businesses are finding the market tough, and some will want to expand their overseas operations," Varamini says. "Students with an international background will have an edge over other students."

St. Norbert's business students study abroad, work in internships with local companies involved in international business, and conduct research projects for firms interested in expanding into foreign markets.

"Everyone is having trouble getting jobs in today's market, but students with international experience will definitely have an advantage, not only with companies known to be international but with the rapid growth in foreign sector here and abroad" says Guy Tiene, director of placement at Upsala College in East Orange, N.J.

Coursework for Upsala's Multinational Corporate Studies program includes facets of business, language and international culture.

Joseph LeMay is program coordinator for International Business, a new major offered in the School of Administration and Business at Ramapo College in Mahwah, N.J.

He says, "What's exciting about international business is that it takes a liberal arts education and brings home the importance of being able to relate to people from other countries on the job."

Created in 1990, the major includes a language requirement, courses in social studies and humanities, and development of a business skill.

"The thinking behind the major is that, over the course of their career, most graduates will be involved in jobs that involve some international business responsibilities," LeMay says.

He says the liberal arts courses are designed to reflect an understanding of the global marketplace, including the history, politics, culture and geography of other parts of the world.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

Yesterday evening, after supper, my husband and I took a walk down the road. It was that time of day when the sun dips toward the horizon in such a manner that all the colors of the countryside appear brilliant and gilded with gold. The greens were emerald, the yellows golden, the reds ruby. There wasn't a whisper of wind, no interrupting sounds of civilization; just two fortysomething folks, walking down a country lane, holding hands.

We spoke quietly about how all our animals are aging. Poor old Bobbie Jo, the sheep, wanted to follow along behind like she always used to do, but she's too stiff now with arthritis, and so waited sad-eyed on the hilltop in front of the house. Old dog Fibber, who used to race ahead after rabbits and whatnot, trailed along so far behind we had to stop and wait for him every now and then. I said that I wanted to ride our big black, Sox, as much as possible this summer because he's 22 now; we never know when that persistent winter cough of his will catch up to him. In my heart I fear that they will all leave us at the same time, and there just won't be any way to fill those gaps.

When we got back, we stood at the rear of the house and built on a handsome addition: a big den with a fireplace, a large master bedroom upstairs with a deck overlooking the valley, an office for me and downstairs, one for him. We remodeled the kitchen while we were at it and completely redid the ancient bathroom we all share. Then we put in a patio and a carport.

Standing in that scruffy country backyard, I had a hard time picturing everything. It all seemed like such an elusive dream, like trying to catch a little floating bug in a bathtub — every time you reach for it, it shoots out of the way. If I get a good (really good) offer on "Copycat" and If they make the movie and if...

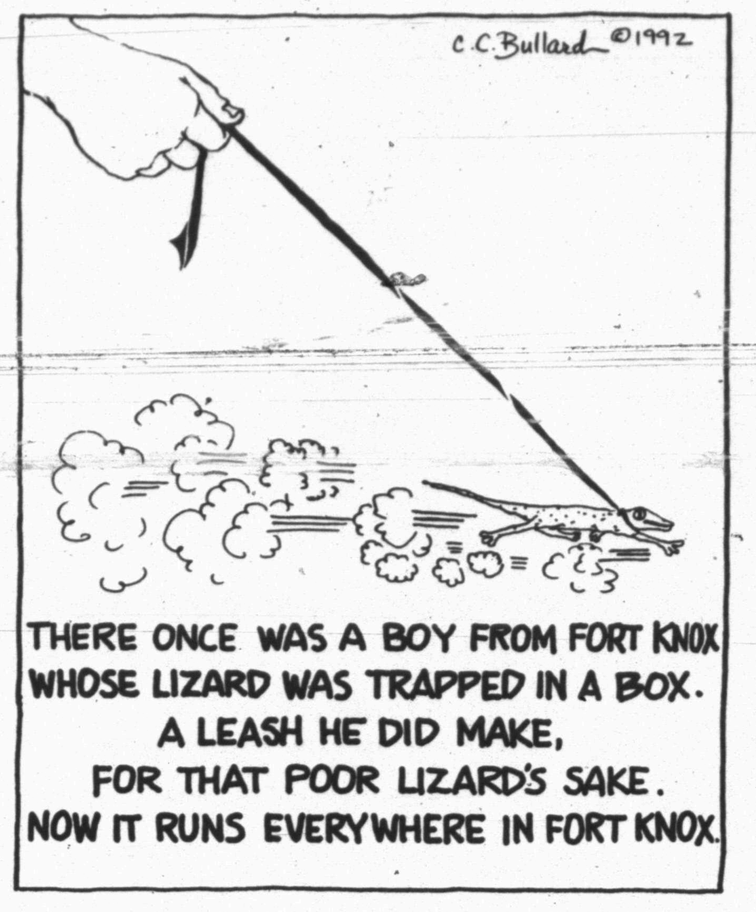

It reminded me of when we first saw this place, a twentysomething couple with one baby and one on the way. This old rock house stood at the top of the hill, deserted and lonely. The front door had blown open and there was an inch of red sand piled up in every window sill and layering every floor. A lizard lived in the kitchen sink. Rumpled kitchen linoleum peeled up and there was old fire damage in the kitchen on the dingy pink walls. (Yes, pink.) A series of renters had trashed the place and left behind their debris in every room. There was even a cannabis plant growing in the front yard! (Translation: marijuana.)

And the outbuildings, well, you never saw a more tumbledown, ramshackle bunch in your life. Everybody thought we were crazy to buy this place, but most were too polite to say so right out to our faces. But we were dreamers; what we saw was in our minds, you see.

And now here we are, twice as old with kids half grown and pets tottering around on their last legs and what are we still doing? Still dreaming. We still picture the future in our minds; we are still building it; and we know that if we don't grow weary and give up, we can make it happen.

After all, who said that dreams are only for the young? And how better to stay young then to continue to dream?

Last night, I saw the sun turn the grass into emeralds and the flowers into jewels. The time had to be just right, but it happened. I don't see how we can do any less.

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

If you've got a beef, you may want to take it to the president.

'Cuse me, that's the president. As in George Bush.

You won't get to talk to George personally, of course. But somebody will pass along your thoughts.

There are only two drawbacks: First, it may take awhile to get through. A lot of people have advice for their president, and the phones are frequently jammed. Second, you pay for the call.

The number? It's 202-456-1111. Try it.

You don't have to give your name; in fact, you probably won't be asked.

Asked?

Oh yeah. Believe it or not, you won't be talking to a recording. You'll be talking to a real person in a real building right next to the White House.

Oh, but be sure and call weekdays, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. That's 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. our time.

The comments line has been in operation since Nixon was in office. It started out with a single telephone and one operator. Now, there are 20 phones and a staff of volunteers, mainly senior citizens.

You can call about anything you'd like. You can air your feelings about the Los Angeles riots, health care or any other issue.

Most people, it seems, call about current events. The Persian Gulf War, Senate confirmation hearings of Judge Clarence Thomas and the recent rioting in Los Angeles have kept the volunteers working extra hours, even through the weekend.

One word of advice, however. If you believe the president is a jerk, fine. Let 'em know. But don't make threatening comments.

Though most of the people who threaten the president's life are joking, inebriated or just really, really, really ticked off for a few moments, the Secret Service does not take it lightly.

And the volunteers are required to call in the Secret Service when threats are made.

According to the director of the comments line, the president is given a daily digest of the calls. He also receives a capsule version twice weekly, which includes statistics such as how callers stand on a particular issue.

Who knows? Maybe out there someone is listening. It's worth a try.

AT ISSUE

U.S. Sen. David Pryor (D. Ark.) has served in the U.S. Senate since 1979 and is a member of the Senate Agriculture, Finance, and Governmental Affairs committees. He also is the chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

YES

Should the Electoral College be abolished in favor of electing the president by direct popular vote?

Yes. Three times in America's history, we have put in the White House a "minority president" — that is, a president who received fewer votes than his opponent. That was due to the Electoral College system, which allocates each state's vote on a "winner-take-all" basis according to the size of its congressional delegation.

Each time this has happened, it has resulted in widespread outrage from those who thought democracy had been turned on its ear. Even in recent years, we have had some close calls. For example, a shift of merely 10,000 votes in Hawaii and Ohio in 1976 would have given Gerald Ford the presidency, even though Jimmy Carter received nearly 2 million more popular votes nationwide.

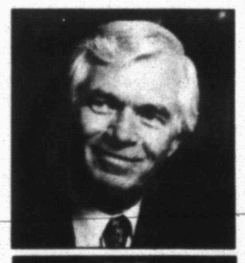

What effect would eliminating the Electoral College have on presidential campaigns?

It would avert any potential constitutional crisis that would result in the future if we again select a minority president. Abolishing the Electoral College would help preserve faith in our system among the American electorate.

The Electoral College may have made sense before the advent of television, radio and daily newspapers. However, the miracle of modern communication now enables every citizen in this country to be well-informed enough to directly elect their president and vice president.

What impact would abolishing the Electoral College have on our system of government?

Direct election of the president will give every man and woman in every state an equal voice in the election of our two highest national officials. It is time for our country, which believes in the equality of all citizens, to adopt an election framework that ensures this same equality at the voting booth.

U.S. Sen. Thad Cochran (R.-Miss.) is serving his third term in the U.S. Senate and is a senior member of the Senate Appropriations, Agriculture, Labor and Human Resources and Indian Affairs committees. He also is chairman of the State Republican Conference.

NO

Should the Electoral College be abolished in favor of electing the president by direct popular vote?

No. The intent of the framers of the Constitution was to give each state a voice in selecting the president. Requiring the states to choose electors who cast the votes to elect the president keeps the elections from being dominated by the most populous states.

Direct election would dilute the power of smaller states and would increase unfairly the influence of large cities, and population centers in presidential politics.

What effect would eliminating the Electoral College have on presidential campaigns?

Presidential candidates would tend to ignore smaller states, or even regions with fewer voters, and concentrate their time, or organizational efforts and appeal for support in the most populous areas. Entire sections of the county could be overlooked or ignored as the candidates designed their campign strategies to gather votes in the more densely populated sections of the country.

What impact would abolishing the Electoral College have on our system of government?

Farmers and rural landowners would become politcal outcasts. It would be likely for the president to pay much more attention to the interest of the cities than the problems of rural America. Political power in our federal government would shift away from small towns and rural communications to the urban areas. Those states without large population centers would be effectively disenfranchised.

The U.S. Senate would be the only institution left in our federal system to guarantee equal consideration of the interests and well-being of the smaller states.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

Yesterday, I went back to the Hodges Cancer Center in Lubbock for a check-up and came home with a lot of emotions.

I spoke with the radiaton technicians about Andy Anderson, who was chief deputy in Snyder. We spoke of the local people that took turns bringing him in for his treatments and coming with him every day until his death.

I only knew Andy for about six weeks, but he became very special to my husband and I. Our treatments were at noon, five days a week. This gave us a chance to compare notes with Andy and become involved with everyone that came with him.

As people are respresentations of a town, I will alway have a warm spot for Snyder.

To his wife Gail, Keith Collier, the police department, sheriff's department, people from his church, his lawyer friend who celebrated his birthday on one visit, people who worked at the prison and many others too numerous to mention, I want to say thank you for being so nice. Not only to Andy but also to me.

My husband and I drove down for his funeral on Valentines Day and experienced again how special he was to many people.

Sincerely,

Robert "Buck" Taggart

To the Editor,

I hope that your newspaper can find someone in Snyder who would like to have this picture of Robert "Buck" Taggart.

He was from Snyder and in the Army at Ft. Hood in 1941 and 1942.

He gave this photograph to my mother and she never had a chance to return it as she moved to San Diego, Calif., and lost his address. He never had her address. It was just General Delivery, Colorado City. And if he wrote to her, which I am sure he did, it was returned.

They were just good friends, nothing more.

She married my father, a captain in the Naval Air Force at Miramar, Calif., near San Diego. I was going through her things and found this picture. I am sure his family would like to have it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Richards

Dear Abby

Family's Abortion Argument Takes On a Life of Its Own

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1992 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: It all started Christmas Day, 1981, over a family discussion about the abortion issue. A dozen of us were present, including "Amy," her psychologist husband and their two young children. (Amy was three months pregnant at the time.)

On Monday morning, Dec. 27, we found all the Christmas gifts we had given Amy and her family in two plastic bags left on our doorstep with a note stating, "Don't contact us, we will contact you."

Imagine the shock! I cried for days. Later, I learned that Amy's husband had understood me to say that I wanted Amy to abort her three-month pregnancy! Abby, I am of a conservative nature, and would never even think of aborting a grandchild unless the pregnancy threatened our daughter's life.

Eleven years later, after many letters, I am still trying to convince them of the truth. Amy now has six children. We hardly know the last three because she refuses to contact us, except through letters. They live only 130 miles away. We send their children birthday cards and gifts that are "put away" — still gift-wrapped — and not given to the children.

Communication with them in the past 11 years has been minimal. We finally wrote to tell them that we had to get on with our lives as we are approaching our 70s, and if they want further contact with us, they owe us an apology. It appears this was a mistake, as there has been no response.

Our relationship with Amy until 1981 seemed normal and happy. Perhaps you can give us some advice as to how to proceed. We are baffled, as Amy has always been a very religious person.

FRUSTRATED
BEYOND BELIEF

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You say that Amy has always been a "very religious" person. What kind of religion permits a daughter to damn — and disown — her parents without proof of wrongdoing?

Your daughter's behavior is not normal. Something — or someone, imagined or real — appears to be controlling her. Unless you have a clergyperson, physician or very close mutual friend who will intervene on your behalf, you may have to write off Amy and her family.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: How would you like to have dinner at a relative's house, and later see the hostess drying dishes with her husband's undershorts?

Well, that happened to me, and when she saw the look of horror on my face, she said, "Oh dear, I must have grabbed these shorts out of the dryer by mistake!" I was speechless. Then she said, "What difference does it make if you dry dishes with a dish towel or undershorts? You throw them all in the washer together anyway."

Abby, would you eat in a restaurant if you knew that the cook threw the napkins and kitchen towels in with undershorts and socks?

DISHRAG DAISY IN WILLOW CREEK, MONT.

DEAR DAISY: No. Even though the washer-dryer process sterilizes the garments, the thought of eating off dishes that had been dried with a man's undershorts is apt to depress a person's appetite.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because of your reference to "a highfalutin' rootin' tootin' sonuvagun from Arizona, named Ragtime Cowboy Joe" — a song that was popular in the '50s.

It reminded me of a story I heard a long time ago about some trouble that occurred in Israel.

It seems that in the city of Haifa, a man went on a rampage and shot and wounded the mayor whose name was Newton. He then proceeded to ransack all the shops in the downtown area. Little was known about this man except that his name was Joseph, and he was a part-time farmer whose mother had joined a religious order in Spain. Because of the aforementioned facts, an all-point bulletin was issued for a Haifa-lootin' Newton shootin' son of a nun from Barcelona, part-time plowboy Joe.

JOHN H. SKELTON, HOUSTON

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Four days ago, my father told me that he has lung cancer. I am devastated, sad and very angry all at the same time. I want to shake all those selfish smokers of the world and scream at them: "How dare you take the love of your family so lightly! Wake up — you are killing yourself!"

My father will never be able to apologize enough to his family to make up for the pain we are going to feel as we witness his painful end, and bury him before his time.

Abby, this is my message to all your readers who smoke: The next time you light a cigarette, imagine yourself telling your children that you are going to be dead in six months. Imagine telling your only daughter that you won't be alive to see the birth of her first child. And telling your son you won't be there to see him graduate from college.

That is exactly what my father will have to tell us, his family. Imagine knowing that you caused your loved ones all this pain, because of your selfish habit and wanton disregard for your health.

Your family loves you enough to forgive you — but how will you ever forgive yourself?

GRIEVING DAUGHTER

P.S. Abby, you help so many people every day. They listen to you. Even if you don't publish this, it has helped me to write it. Thank you.

DEAR GRIEVING DAUGHTER: Not all people who are diagnosed with lung cancer are destined to die from it. Many have been helped through surgery and subsequent treatment. Although your anger is understandable, please don't be so judgmental and unforgiving. Your father needs your love and support now.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 33 and recently married a most wonderful man. So far, we have been able to sit down and talk about anything. But ...

His mother is the beneficiary on his second insurance policy. (I am on his first.) Last year, when the payment was due, he said he'd change it "later." It is due again, with his mother being the "chosen one."

I don't want to nag, but this really bugs me because he thinks I am being selfish. Am I? Doesn't he trust me enough to know that I will take care of his mother in the event of his death?

I love this man with all my heart, so how do I bring this up without his thinking less of me?

ON A MOUNTAIN (OR A MOLEHILL) IN MISSISSIPPI

DEAR ON: For your husband to want to provide for both you and his mother in the event of his death is commendable. According to his plan, if he precedes you in death, you can go on with your life without inheriting the responsibility of his mother's welfare.

If you love him with all of your heart, let him decide when, if ever, to change the second insurance policy.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband let a neighbor borrow our power lawn mower. It was returned filled with a cheap gasoline mixture, which clogged the mechanism. We had to take it in for repairs that came to $35.

Should we say nothing, and write it off as a "learning experience"? The bill has already been paid.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS

DEAR FRIENDLY: No. Tell your neighbors what you have told me, and ask them to reimburse you for the repairs. It will be a good "learning experience" for them, too.

This one's for everybody, from teens to seniors! To purchase Abby's new booklet, "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It," send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Sanctions imposed

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge has imposed sanctions of nearly $1 million against a Houston man and his attorneys for filing a lawsuit the judge found frivolous.

State District Judge David West on Thursday entered a judgment for sanctions of $994,000 against Mark Metzger and his attorneys, L.T. Bradt and Joe Izen Jr.

The five-week trial ended with West granting a directed verdict favoring the parties Metzger accused of conspiring against him: Baylor College of Medicine, Depelchin Children's Center and prominent divorce attorney Earle Lilly. Attorneys for the defendants then requested the sanctions.

Metzger claimed that a conspiracy led to criminal child abuse charges being brought against him to extort his property during his divorce from his wife, Judy Metzger. The charges later were dropped.

West awarded the directed verdict after finding that Metzger had presented no evidence to support the allegations in his lawsuit.

"This has got to be the grand champion sanction award in Texas state court," said attorney Bill Pakalka, who helped represent Baylor and four of its physicians implicated in the lawsuit.

"This sends out a pretty clear message that frivolous lawsuits are not welcome in the Harris County courthouse," he said.

However, Bradt and Izen both criticized the judge for issuing the sanctions, and Bradt vowed to appeal.

"This case and the way it was handled by Judge West was the grossest miscarriage of justice I have ever seen," Bradt said. He also suggested the judge had his own agenda in the case, noting that West's son works for a law firm that was involved.

"He discharged the jury and decided the case himself," Izen said. "If the guy can't sue to clear his name, Judge West's ruling is ludicrous. All I wanted was a jury to tell me who was right or wrong."

Help proposed for displaced workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats, accusing President Bush of doing nothing to help 1.4 million defense workers facing loss of their jobs, plan to start adding measures to various bills next month.

Citing the $85 million in technical aid the administration is sending the former Soviet Union to help its post Cold War conversion of swords into plowshares, the lawmakers Thursday unveiled a $1.2 billion plan to assist the same transition here.

The plan was developed by a 21-member task appointed by Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, after several senators complained that entire communities in their states face being wiped out by the $50 billion in defense cuts Bush is proposing over the next five years.

Citing assessments by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment, the task force said one-fourth of the 6 million Americans employed in the defense industry can expect to lose their jobs at a rate of 1,000 a day between now and 1995.

"It should be unacceptable to Americans that their government has a plan to help convert the economy of the former Soviet Union from defense to civilian production but has no comparable plan for our own country," Mitchell said.

Senate Republicans have put together a similar task force under the direction of retiring Sen. Warren Rudman of New Hampshire, but it has just started work.

In the House, Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., is working with Republicans to use $1 billion of next year's Pentagon budget to fund grants to small businesses, GI Bill scholarships and support for state and local diversification assistance programs.

The Senate Democrats' task force chairman, Sen. David Pryor of Arkansas, said his panel determined it was more politically viable to legislate the aid on a piecemeal basis. But he acknowledged that no plan will accomplish much without administration support.

"We can set out all the goals and rearrange the programs, but there's only one person who can make it work, and that's the president," he said.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee the administration is "already doing a lot." But he withheld judgment on the Democrats' plans until he sees "what kind of specific proposals people have."

Democrats, however, complained that until last October, Bush didn't begin letting go of the $150 million that Congress earmarked in 1990 to begin assisting displaced defense workers. So far, only $22 million of that money has been sent from the Pentagon to the Labor Department.

The Democrats said the White House also did not release any of the $50 million Congress targeted the same year for communities "economically devastated" by military base closings and defense cutbacks until Bush faced a challenge from Patrick Buchanan in the New Hampshire Republican primary.

Only $100,000 of those Economic Development Administration grants Bush announced in February for New Hampshire and Maine, in March for Texas and in April for Arkansas, has actually reached the affected communities, they said.

Diabetics need facts about disorder

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been a diabetic for about two years and do not fully understand my condition.

DEAR READER: Diabetes is a disorder of metabolism, marked by abnormal insulin secretion, elevated blood sugar levels and a host of consequences, including hastened arteriosclerosis, heart disease, retinal disorders and renal disease.

Regardless of whether a diabetic needs insulin injections (type I) or can be managed by eating prudently and possibly taking anti-diabetes pills (type II), he or she still needs to follow a diet without sugar. Basically, for diabetics, sugar is poison.

The complications of diabetes can be delayed — but not avoided altogether — by efforts to keep the blood sugar in line. Thus, diabetics require close monitoring of sugar levels, strict attention to diet (and weight loss, if appropriate), supervision of prescription drugs (such as insulin and pills), and as much information as the patients can assimilate.

It's this last point that has me concerned in responding to your question. You seem to have been given little education about your disorder. In my view, it's your responsibility and your doctor's obligation to correct this.

You should return to your physician for educational sessions detailing the facts about diabetes, the rationale behind your therapy and the potential consequences you may suffer in the future. In short, you must become a more active participant in your ongoing treatment; for this, you need more information.

In addition to your doctor, other resources are available. Check out your local library for books, written for laymen, that will help you. Furthermore, many hospitals and clinics offer diabetes education courses. Finally, the American Diabetes Association, 2 Park Ave., New York, NY 10016 will send you information about your disease, including tips about other educational services in your community.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Insomnia is one of mankind's oldest afflictions. Recently, in the medical journal American Family Physician, Drs. Andrew Jamieson and Philip Becker (of the Sleep/Wake Disorders Center, Presbyterian Hospital of Dallas) reviewed the 10 most common causes of sleeplessness, which I have extracted and modified.

The most common is "adjustment sleep disorder," which occurs in 35 percent of Americans. This type of insomnia is usually temporary and is caused by the stress of illness, emotional upset or environmental changes (such as a move to a new location). It ordinarily responds to alleviation of stress: analgesics to control physical pain, counseling or eventual adaptation to the environmental factors. Sleeping pills are appropriate for short-term management. However, many such medications can affect performance and cause other side effects, notably daytime sedation and anterograde amnesia (forgetting what happened BEFORE the drugs were taken). Some sleeping pills are addictive.

Anxiety is severe enough to cause insomnia in about 12 percent of patients. Anxiety states customarily require professional help, such as counseling, as well as the use of sleeping pills or anti-anxiety agents for brief periods.

Between the ages of 40 and 65, about 60 percent of men and 40 percent of women are habitual snorers. The condition worsens with age. Snoring may awaken the patient — and, obviously, the bed partner. Although snoring may not require therapy, severe cases may need anti-depressant drugs to increase muscle tone in the upper airway or surgery (to remove excess, flaccid tissue).

"Inadequate sleep hygiene" characterizes up to 20 percent of adults and includes bedtime stimulation (from TV), daytime napping, "clock watching" and working late in the evening — all leading to preoccupation with insomnia, which perpetuates the pattern. Sleeping pills are contraindicated for this condition; rather, patients are encouraged to understand and modify their poor sleep habits and behavior.

Although mood disorders (especially depression) affect about 6 percent of adults, 90 percent of those afflicted have trouble sleeping. Treatment consists of prescribed medication, but care must be exercised in choosing anti-depressant drugs, as many cause insomnia.

In fact, people may experience insomnia from many drugs — in particular, alcohol and caffeine. Also, many sleeping medicines lose their effectiveness over time: The beneficial effects may evaporate. Moreover, when patients suddenly give up these medicines, they may develop "rebound insomnia." The most common drugs causing insomnia are alcohol, caffeine, amphetamines, certain narcotics and thyroid pills.

Psychophysiologic insomnia, a chronic and resistant sleeplessness, usually begins during times of stress. Patients then become "conditioned" to staying awake. Once this pattern becomes established, they approach bedtime with dread and apprehension. Behavioral "deconditioning" is more effective (and safer) than sleeping pills for treating this condition.

Shift-work syndrome refers to sleeplessness caused by a rotating work schedule. Treatment consists of enforcing a new sleep schedule and avoiding frequent, sudden alterations in working hours. Drugs are not appropriate therapy. Recent studies suggest that daily exposure to five hours of bright light may rapidly reset the brain's sleep center.

The cause of "restless legs syndrome" is unknown, but it certainly can spoil a good night's rest. Periodic rhythmic jerking of the feet and an irresistible urge to move the legs are the hallmark of this condition. Treatment with Sinamet or Parlodel (drugs used for Parkinson's disease) sometimes helps.

Obstructive sleep apnea is generally a disease of the elderly. Marked by periods during which the sleeping person stops breathing, the affliction may appear in 50 percent of older men; women are affected less often. Sleep apnea is associated with a higher incidence of stroke and heart attack; rarely, it can cause death. Patients must stop taking any drug (such as alcohol and sleeping pills) that could cause sleep apnea. They may need to use a nasal mask and supplemental air under pressure while sleeping. Surgery to remove obstructing tissue is a last resort.

For patients with chronic insomnia, evaluation in a sleep laboratory may be extremely helpful. Such facilities are available in most large hospitals.

To give you more information on insomnia and related disorders, you can request a copy of my Health Report "Sleep-Wake Disorders." Simply send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to my attention at P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Astro-Graph by Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

May 24, 1992

Advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is likely in the year ahead, provided you've kept current with all the knowledge required of you for the position.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rid yourself today of inclinations that make you feel superior to others. Looking or talking down to friends could provide you with a rude awakening. Gemini, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Gemini's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Flattery is an ineffective tool today. The object of your blarney will quickly sense your insincerity and be annoyed rather than pleased by your comments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you run a little short of cash by the end of the week, it could be traced to today. Subdue those tendencies to spend money like it's going out of style.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your judgment might not be up to its usual high standards today. Don't compound matters by bragging about your decisions; you may have to retract them later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Instead of tackling your responsibilities today, you may spend more time rationalizing why they can be put off until later. This isn't a good way to run a railroad.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Wishful thinking will temporarily insulate you from mundane circumstances. It's OK to indulge your imagination, provided you don't confuse it with reality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a chance you might go out of your way today to make a big impression on the wrong people. Unfortunately, those you want to influence may be the ones who can't — or won't — help you anyway.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before you discuss with others some news you'll hear today, it's best to check your sources for accuracy, especially if the information is detrimental to another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you become involved in an arrangement where money is an issue today, be doubly careful. Someone might get hurt in the process if everything isn't handled properly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might be inclined to do what is most expeditious as opposed to what is most essential. Shortcuts will have a way of backfiring.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility this might not be a pleasant day for you. There may be a shortage of volunteers for hectic assignments, leaving you to do them yourself, chafing at the bit along the way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is not a day for you to take chances on what could happen. You might enjoy momentary success, but you'll be toying with a thin-skinned bubble — that's ready to burst.

Your Birthday

May 25, 1992

Several important objectives that could improve your lot in life will be achievable in the year ahead, provided they are clearly defined at the outset.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions, where joint ventures are concerned, are conducive to success today. You will have to be the initiator, however, and let others serve as the back-ups. Major changes are ahead for Gemini in the coming year. Send for Gemini's Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Allies who have historically proven themselves loyal will continue to be steadfast again today. Obstructionists aren't apt to change their colors either.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to feel truly gratified today, you'll have to be involved in constructive endeavors that not only serve your interests but the interests of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're in a very interesting cycle where romance and popularity are concerned. If you're unattached, you may suddenly have more than one suitor to choose from.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Two very important matters can be completed to your satisfaction today — if you make them priorities. To be in the thick of the action, though, strike the less significant from your agenda altogether.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a gift today for lifting the spirits of others by revealing optimistic probabilities they've been shrouding in despair. Your perceptions will be accurate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something good you have going could produce greater rewards than you initially anticipated. Proceed with your present course of action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The plans you devise for today might not come off exactly as you envision them. However, these variations could work out better for you in the long run.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be lucky today in things that affect you financially or in your career, but not in frivolous interests. Play won't pay; productivity will.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Timing is extremely important today in turning expectations into realities. Take small steps before breaking into a trot.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your objectives can best be accomplished today by not being too obvious about your intentions. This will help you avoid negative influences that are not in accord with your ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your present procedures have not produced the desirable results you've anticipated, begin a new approach today.

More questions raised about Erdmann

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An indicted Lubbock pathologist may have broken federal law by accepting military pay for time he spent performing civilian autopsies, according to papers filed with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Two pages of a U.S. Army report stemming from a 1989 investigation of pathologist Ralph Erdmann were included in a motion filed Thursday by Lubbock attorney Rod Hobson.

Hobson is appealing the capital murder conviction of Jack Wade Clark.

Clark was sentenced to death for the Oct. 16, 1989, rape and stabbing death of Melissa Ann Garcia, 23, in Lubbock.

Erdmann performed the autopsy on Garcia and was a witness in Clark's trial last year.

Erdmann has been under attack since Feb. 24, when he was indicted in Hockley County on charges of theft by a public servant and tampering with a government record.

Hockley County officials accuse Erdmann of charging them $650 for an autopsy he never performed.

Questions also have been raised about other autopsies by Erdmann in 41 West Texas counties.

Erdmann said Thursday's filing was part of an effort by criminal defense attorneys to "smear" him.

"They're just trying to throw mud and discredit me," Erdmann told the Morris News Service.

Erdmann said he was "cleared of all charges" during an investigation by the Army. Erdmann claims the investigation was prompted by two disgruntled servicemen. He said he was honorably discharged from the Army Reserves in 1990.

Special Agents David Garrett and Joyce Gaines reported that Erdmann, then a colonel in the Army Reserves, performed three autopsies for Lubbock, Potter and Briscoe counties while on military duty.

Erdmann maintains he performed the autopsies after 4 p.m., when he was off duty.

Hobson asked the criminal appeals court to unseal military records dealing with the Erdmann investigation. The records were quashed during Clark's trial.
