Tom Hunter Announces Platform in Race for Governor

WICHITA FALLS CANDIDATE FOR TEXAS' CHIEF EXECUTIVE POST PLEADS FOR RIGHTS OF MASSES

Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man, attorney and civic leader, who was drafted as a candidate for governor by petitions bearing more than 15,000 names, Saturday announced his platform as a champion of the common people and a return to government by and for them.

In his platform the candidate offers a solution for the alleged evils he attacks and stresses the need for easing the tax burdens on home owners and farmers. He also favors a simpler and more economical government.

Mr. Hunter is self-educated and has battled his way upward from the life of a poor farm lad to a position of national recognition as a defender of the independent oil interests. During the past 12 months he carried this fight to the state legislature and to congress and was the spokesman before the president of the 14 governors of oil producing states.

After educating himself Mr. Hunter taught school several years, studying law at the same time. He has been a practicing attorney in Wichita Falls for the past 18 years and has been an active civic worker and philanthropist during that time.

Issues Outlined

In outlining the issues of the campaign, Mr. Hunter says:

"A government derives its just powers from those governed. The masses of Texas no longer control our state government. Certain types of big business, not recognizing the fact that equal rights should be given to all and special privileges to none, have by skillful manipulation, through organized combines, placed their emissaries at the helm of the 'ship of state' and are guiding its course without regard to the rights and interests of the great majority of our people.

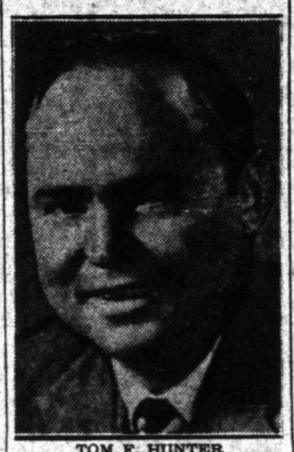

"Believing that some one of courage, who has and does live the life of the many, should assume the leadership to regain control and restore to our people their powers and rights that have been gradually usurped, that our self-government may be perpetuated, I announce my candidacy for the office of governor of Texas. I will recognize no 'ism' as an issue.

"The common people are and may well be alarmed over the trend of our affairs. The physical welfare of the people must receive immediate consideration. No one is capable of self-government unless he is assured of the privilege of providing himself with the necessities of life.

"Public utilities are taking from the citizens of this state every year some $70,000,000 in excess profits. Charges collected by these concerns for service are exorbitant and outrageous. In many instances during

Philippine Native Thanks Ex-Soldiers for Freeing Islands From Spain

By LOUIS T. HAMLETT

Veterans of the Spanish-American war in annual banquet here Friday night heard the thanks of a Filipino world war veteran for their aid in freeing the Philippine Islands of Spanish rule.

More than 200 members of David C. McCaleb post and of the woman's auxiliary attended the meeting in the parish house of the Church of the Good Shepherd and both organizations installed new officers for 1932.

The Filipino was Sergt. P. M. Giron of the United States army, recently transferred here to serve as an instructor for local national guard units. He made a short talk explaining that he was born in the Philippine islands and came to this country 17 years ago.

Giron was a student in the state normal at Weatherford, Okla., when the war broke out and he immediately enlisted. He has been in the army 14 years, the last eight of which he has been a sergeant instructor.

A man of rather small stature, the Filipino wears on his chest badges showing that he is an expert with rifle, pistol, auto-rifle, and bayonet. On one sleeve appears a wound stripe, the result of a bullet in one leg, received while leading a platoon of American soldiers against a German machine gun nest.

W. S. Langford, toastmaster, gave a brief history of the local Spanish War Veterans camp. Mike Newman, outgoing commander, thanked the

M. D. Fitzwater, oil operator, faced the court today on a charge of stealing a rig. The charge was dismissed when the complaining witness failed to appear.

"I don't believe you stole the rig," the judge said. "It would be impossible for any one to steal anything that big without being caught."

VALLEY VIEW MAN STRUCK BY TRAIN DIES IN EL PASO

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—A story of how a man mangled by a train lay for two hours on the outskirts of El Paso early today while his companion vainly tried to stop passing motorists for help was told here tonight.

The injured man, Homer Berryhill, 29, of Valley View, Texas, died from loss of blood after he was taken to a hospital here. His leg was amputated before he died. His companion, Dalby Martin also of Valley View, said automobiles and street cars passed him by despite his efforts to stop them. Finally a police scout car happened by and took the pair to a hospital.

The two men had been picking cotton in the El Paso valley. Their former employer gave a pint of blood for a transfusion in an effort to save Berryhill's life.

FRANCE TELLS GERMANY SHE WILL NOT ACCEPT REPUDIATION PAYMENTS

PARIS, Jan. 9. (INS)—France served notice upon Germany tonight that under no condition will she accept Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's repudiation of this country's "sacred right" to reparations payments.

Branding Bruening's announcement as denunciation of the Young plan and of the treaty of Versailles, Finance Minister Pierre Flandin voiced France's unalterable opposition to the repudiation in an official statement to the press.

Plead Payments Impossible

BERLIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening declared today that the continuation of reparations payments is impossible and any attempt to maintain them "must lead to disaster not only for Germany but for the whole world."

This declaration was included in an interview with the chief editor of the semi-official Wolff News agency. The chancellor said that at the impending Lausanne conference Germany would urge the abandonment of reparations.

RAIL COMMISSION ADVISED TO DRAFT EAST TEXAS RULES

PREPARES FOR ADVERSE MARTIAL LAW OPINION

Attitude of Federal Court At Houston Responsible For Suggestion

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—Fred Upchurch, assistant attorney general, attached to the railroad commission, today advised the commission to call a hearing at once of operators in the East Texas oil field, with a view to promulgating conservation rules.

The hearing would be held to gather data so that orders governing production in the area could be issued immediately should the commission be called upon to take over the field, which has been operating since Aug. 17 under martial law and the personal control of Gov. R. S. Sterling, as commander-in-chief of the militia.

Upchurch said his advice was given to the commission in view of the attitude of the federal court at Houston in which the court indicated it had serious doubts concerning the authority of the governor to maintain control over the field through martial law.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, concurred in the view that a hearing should be called immediately, Upchurch said.

The commission is required to give 10 days' notice of a hearing. Upchurch said he expected the commission to act early next week.

NO CLUES UNCOVERED IN DEATH OF MAN ON HIGHWAY NEAR DENTON

DENTON, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—The body of a man known here as R. L. King, was still being held tonight in a Denton morgue. King was found dead at the side of a highway near here last night with his skull crushed. Officers believed he had been beaten to death elsewhere and his body taken to that spot in an automobile.

Messages sent to Glencoe, Ark., where King was thought to have relatives, had brought no response.

Officers reported tonight they had uncovered no clues in the believed slaying.

King was jailed at Gainesville Dec. 22 as a suspected parole violator from Kansas but was released Thursday when authorities were informed he had finished his sentence.

FORMER POLICEMAN AT TEXARKANA DIES FROM BLOOD POISON IN WOUND

DOORS LOCKED HAWAII HOMES TROOPS READY

POSTPONE HEARING TO GATHER MORE EVIDENCE

Weeks of High Feeling as Result of Recent Attacks on Women

HONOLULU, Jan. 9. (AP)—Nervous women kept the doors of their homes locked here today and reliable reports said the army was ready to send troops into the city in case of emergency as battle lines were drawn in the case of Mrs. Granville Fortescue and two men of the navy charged with the abduction and murder of one of the suspected attackers of Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Mrs. Thomas H. Massie.

Mrs. Fortescue, wife of a widely known soldier and author; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and E. J. Lord, an enlisted man of the navy, were accused of yesterday's spectacular kidnaping and slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, a young Hawaiian lured from a court room and shot to death.

Hearing Postponed

The accused trio had been ordered to appear in court today for a preliminary hearing but City and County Attorney James Gilliland obtained a week's continuance to gather evidence for the prosecution. The accused three remained in custody of naval officers at Pearl harbor.

Weeks of high feeling, starting last Sept. 12 with the attack on Mrs. Massie, wife of the accused lieutenant, by five men reputedly of mixed blood, and a similar crime later against another white woman left the city's populace outwardly quiet but inwardly viewing the sit-

Democrats Advise Hoover to Employ His Own Doctrine

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—A Democratic reply today to President Hoover's latest call for governmental economy was, in effect, that Mr. Hoover should practice what he preaches.

Commenting that the chief executive already had recommended appropriations totaling $7,500,000, Senator McKellar Tennessee said Mr. Hoover "has fallen into the error that he is warning congress against."

President Hoover's statement late yesterday that measures introduced in congress called for expenditures of $40,000,000,000 over a five-year period aroused McKellar.

"We cannot squander ourselves into prosperity," Mr. Hoover said in asking sectional interests to withdraw pressure for relief.

The Tennessee Democrat said the last congress appropriated $28,000,000 less than the amount recommended to congress by the budget bureau.

McKellar said Mr. Hoover had advocated "the most extravagant appropriations ever asked for by any president."

PAUL YOUNG CHARGED WITH AUTOMOBILE THEFT IN HOUSTON COMPLAINT

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—Paul Young, brother of Harry and Jennings Young, who killed themselves when they were trapped by police in a residence here Tuesday, this afternoon was charged before Justice Campbell Overstreet with automobile theft.

The charge, filed by City Detective Tom Eubanks, accused Paul Young of taking an automobile belonging to E. H. Lang on Dec. 25, 1929. The car, according to Eubanks, was recovered yesterday at Dayton, Texas.

Young surrendered to police here yesterday.

Harry and Jennings Young were the slayers of six peace officers near Springfield.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9. (UP)—C. D. Coppeler, sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary from Alfalfa county on a grand larceny charge today was granted a reprieve by Gov. W. H. Murray until May 1, 1932, to take care of his family.

DEMOCRATS WIN FIRST VICTORY SESSION ON PARTY LEGISLATION IN PASSAGE HOUSE TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—The scant Democratic majority scored its first victory over the administration forces on a major political issue today by forcing a party tariff bill through the house.

It voted 214 to 182 to revamp administrative features of the Hawley-Smoot law dealing with the flexible tariff powers of President Hoover and went on record favoring an international conference to revise tariffs downward.

The bill now goes to the senate, where passage is probable. However, congressional administration followers are convinced if the measure is sent to the White House it will be vetoed.

Twelve Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite, Representative Kvale of Minnesota, voted with the Democrats. Not one Democrat voted against the bill.

Amendment Accepted

Before sending it to the senate, the house adopted an amendment by La Guardia of New York, a Republican independent, and Canfield, Democrat, Indiana, requiring any agreement reached by the international conference be approved by both branches of congress. It was accepted by Representative Crisp of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the house ways and means committee.

It also prevents any possibility of discussion or consideration of reduction or cancellation of intergovernmental debts by the United States representatives at the conference.

The bill removes from the chief executive power to change rates on recommendation of the tariff commission and gives that authority to congress.

This provision was amended by the house to require congress to act

ATTORNEY GENERAL AIDS OIL COMPANY IN FIGHT AGAINST FEDERAL TAX

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9. (UP)—Atty. Gen. J. Berry King will leave tomorrow for Washington to answer a suit in the U. S. supreme court involving the government's attempt to collect about $1,000,000 in school land income taxes.

The case is the appeal of the Coronado Oil and Gas Co. against federal revenue petitioner, David Burnett. Hearing has been set for next Thursday.

King will be aligned with the oil company not to enrich private losses but to increase the value of school land, he explained.

Several cases are pending before the supreme court against collection of the federal tax on school lands. E. W. Mariand has a similar suit pending which, officials said, would restore a large part of the Maryland fortune if won.

TEXAS WILL HAVE SIX ADDITIONAL DELEGATES

Set Date Two Weeks After That of Republican Convention

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Democrats today chose Chicago for their convention city and in a session as harmonious as their last gathering was turbulent referred the prohibition issue to the national meeting.

Chairman Raskob and Vice Chairman Byrd of Virginia, representing conflicting groups which clashed in the March session put through a smooth working program without a hitch. June 27—two weeks after the Republicans meet in the same state—was chosen for the convention date.

The mild mannered and soft spoken Raskob unloosed an opening blast against "propaganda" that a "Smith-Raskob-Shouse" machine was working in opposition to the forces favoring Governor Roosevelt of New York for president. Mr. Raskob heatedly denied any "oligarchy" of this kind or any other kind.

Lehrack-Ferguson to Give 20,000 Bottles of Milk to Lunch Fund

Every child now receiving aid from the P.-T. A. school lunch fund is assured of a bottle of pure, wholesome milk each day for lunch until the end of the school year.

This provision for more than 200 hungry and under-nourished children has been made possible by the Lehrack-Ferguson Dairy Products company, which announced that it would deliver to each school cafeteria each day the number of bottles of milk needed to provide for the children on the school's list.

The gift is one of the most generous of the many fine gifts received since the appeal four days ago for public contributions. There are nearly 100 school days left in the year and nearly 20,000 bottles of milk will be required to give each child a bottle daily. If the same amount of milk were purchased for the children, it would require nearly $1,000 of the P.-T. A. lunch funds.

Receipts Saturday aggregated $52, bringing the total of the Times and Record News school lunch fund to $932.50.

INJUNCTION PREVENTS POLICE INTERFERENCE WITH LOS ANGELES PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. (AP)—Los Angeles' police vice squad was powerless today to enforce its censorship of the modernized Greek comedy, "Lysistrata," which stars Nance O'Neil, famous New York stage actress.

A temporary restraining order issued by Superior Judge Walter S. Gates prevented the city from interference with the show.

Fifty-four players, including Miss O'Neil, were arrested at the close of Thursday night's performance. They are to be tried Jan. 18 on charges of violating a city ordinance which prohibits "lewd and obscene" shows.

FARM ORGANIZATIONS URGE STABILIZATION OF AMERICAN CURRENCY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (INS)—Stabilization of American currency, with commodity prices, rather than gold, as an index, was asked of congress today by three leading farm organizations.

John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers' Union, hurled a challenge at the 40 representatives attending the meeting in the house office building.

"Many senators and representatives are unafraid of the power of the railroads or the power trust," he said, "but it is a rare senator or congressman who has the courage to tackle the international bankers."

Thieves Spend Quiet Evening With Family Before Ransacking Home and Locking Five Victims in Closet

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—All in all, the three thieves who visited the home of Harold R. Goodheart last night, had a good time.

Mrs. Goodheart was alone when one of them rang the door bell.

"Now just sit down," he said, "and make yourself at home. We'll wait for the others."

One got her a glass of water. Another turned on the radio, and all chatted amiably until Mr. Goodheart arrived.

"Hello, Harold," said the leader. "Take a seat, old man."

Goodheart's daughter, a physical education instructor, was the next to arrive. She was greeted with "Good evening, Adelaide." Dorothy Fraser, a teacher friend of Miss Goodheart, dropped in and was made at home.

By the time Mr. Goodheart's grandfather, Raphael, 74, reached the house the robbers were on even more familiar terms. They greeted him as "Grandpa."

After two and a half hours of visiting the trio took the silverware, $150 in cash, locked the five in a closet and bid them goodnight.

Wichita County Farmers Will Meet To Discuss Taxation and Promote Candidacy of Hunter for Governor

A meeting of the farmers of Wichita county will be held in Iowa Park next Saturday, Jan. 16, at 2 o'clock p. m. to discuss matters of interest to agriculture, including taxation and promotion of the candidacy of Tom F. Hunter for the Democratic nomination for governor, a Wichita county citizen in whom the farmers are very much interested on account of the service he has rendered during the many years he has resided in Wichita Falls.

A Hunter for Governor club will be organized at the meeting in an effort to put the agricultural interests of the county solidly behind him in the campaign being waged in response to a petition signed by 15,000 voters of this and adjoining counties.

Taxation will also feature discussions at the gathering. The Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce at a banquet held last Tuesday night incorporated as one of the objects of that organization for the coming year, to strive for lower taxes and a more simplified government.

A large attendance of farmers is urged, regardless of political preferences, as the meeting will cover a variety of subjects of vital importance to the citizenship of the county.

In connection with the call the following petition has been signed and issued by 15 of the leading farmers of the county:

"We, the undersigned farmers of Wichita county, join in a call for all citizens to meet in Iowa Park, that town being centrally located, on Saturday, Jan. 16, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of discussing matters of taxation and giving further impetus to the candidacy of Hon. Tom F. Hunter, a Wichita county citizen, in his race for the governorship:

FURTHER SLASH OKLAHOMA CITY OIL PRODUCTION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—The mid-continent's oil production was further slashed here today as the Oklahoma corporation commission reduced daily allowable flow from the big Oklahoma City pool to 120,000 barrels, a decrease of 40,000 barrels.

Protests to the order will be heard and possible revision of pipe line nominations and allowables made at a hearing Jan. 22. Today's action followed a brief emergency hearing.

Under-produced and under-run oil will be taken at the rate of 46,000 barrels daily instead of 16,000 barrels and the current allowable will be fixed at one per cent.

Pipe line nominations for the rest of this month total but 109,085 barrels daily, as compared to 170,000 barrels nominated at the last hearing.

CHICAGO WINNER DEMOCRATIC MEET

field for president so far. But there was no discussion of candidacies or personalities after Mr. Raskob's firm declaration.

Chairman Raskob upset some calculations when he opened the convention city contest to the "highest bidder." New Jersey promptly followed with a $200,000 bid for Atlantic City, presented by Mayor Harry Bacharach, a Republican.

San Francisco, Chicago and Kansas City followed, in turn, with their $150,000 offers, but just as the bidding drew to a close, Chicago jumped her offer, presented by Mayor Cermak and Edward N. Hurley, to $200,000.

First Roll Call

The first roll call gave Chicago 59 votes; San Francisco, 20; Kansas City, 19; and Atlantic City, 4. As delegates began shifting their votes to the winning city, the selection of Chicago was made unanimous. Only the committee representatives from New Jersey and Rhode Island voted for Atlantic City.

The motion of Vice Chairman Byrd, referring to the convention the Democratic platform recommendations including prohibition submitted to the committe by Chairman Raskob at the March meeting, went through without a ripple. There was no discussion.

But the resolutions committee at the next Democratic national convention will have before it Raskob's proposal that the party pledge its members of congress to vote for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people, the questionnaire giving the states the right to control liquor.

Delegation Increased

The committee approved a resolution by Byrd proposing that those states which gain increased representation in congress by the 1930 census receive proportionate increase in delegates to the convention, but that no state, losing under the new census, would lose delegates.

This added 54 delegates to the 1932 convention roll call. The increases were as follows: California 18; Connecticut 2; Florida 2; Michigan 8; New Jersey 4; New York 4; North Carolina 2; Ohio 4; Oklahoma 2; Texas 6; and Washington 2.

Jed Adams of Texas proposed a substitute taking away delegate strength from those states losing under the 1930 census, but his motion was defeated.

Raskob tonight named Jouett Shouse, executive director of the national committee, as chairman of the committee on arrangements for the national convention.

Favorite Son Booms

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—T. Whit Davidson, president of the Texas Roosevelt clubs, said today that in his opinion favorite sons booms for John N. Garner and Melvin Traylor would not prejudice the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Traylor and Garner are both friendly to Roosevelt," said the former lieutenant governor, "and in the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention there will be Roosevelt delegates friendly to Garner and Traylor and men and women supporting each of these favorite sons who are friendly to the New Yorker. The danger of a bitter partisan fight in the convention is now remote, for the favorite son movement, interpreted by some as a 'stop Roosevelt' scheme, will in reality rebound in his favor, for in most cases these favorite sons are friendly to Roosevelt."

Davidson's statement was issued after a meeting of Roosevelt leaders.

Priest Threatens To Lead Jobless To Conventions

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9. (INS)—Unless President Hoover and congress come to the aid of the nation's unemployed, Rev. James R. Cox, who led 12,000 jobless to Washington with a petition for relief, will lead millions of men from every city, town and hamlet in the country to renew his demands at the Republican and Democratic national conventions, he announced here today.

And unless the two major party conventions pledge themselves to a program of tangible unemployment relief, the militant Catholic priest declared he would lead a national movement for the election of an independent candidate as president.

"This is no threat," Father Cox explained as he returned to the duties of his parish," but if they do not act, we shall call on the unemployed in every city, town and hamlet to march in all their millions on the two national conventions, to impress upon political leaders the necessity for employment."

Conclude Committee Hearings on Proposals Unemployment Relief With Scores of Recommendations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—A senate committee today concluded hearings on proposals for direct federal unemployment relief with scores of recommendations for government aid, but with the word of Walter Gifford, President Hoover's relief director that it is not necessary.

Two weeks of hearings before a manufacturers' subcommittee were concluded with the submission of a referendum taken by the United States chamber of commerce showing local trade associations throughout the country voted 2,479 to 194 against federal appropriations.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross announced "all available resources" would be used by the national organization to meet four present relief emergencies, including that of jobless miners.

Commenting on Gifford's assertion before the committee that the organization was devoting $1,000,000 to the prevention of suffering in the coal fields, Chairman Payne of the Red Cross said today it was "impossible" to allocate any specific amount to any one emergency. He listed the current problems of the Red Cross as unemployment, the Tallahatchie river floods, needy Indians in the West and drouth relief in five northwestern states. He added that 88 Red Cross chapters are at work in mining districts, an increase of 20 in a few weeks.

As the hearings were concluded, Chairman La Follette, sponsor of one of the measures under consideration, took the view the need for federal help had already been proved by the testimony.

"The testimony is overwhelming that the need is growing and resources are diminishing and that we need to act if there is not to be unprecedented suffering in the next few months," he said.

COMMON SCOLD SENT TO PRISON

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9. (AP)—A law that silenced housewives in the days of Shakespeare was invoked to jail Charles Rizzo.

Rizzo was convicted under an old common law of being a common scold. The court paroled him.

Neighbors said the parole was a mistake, for Rizzo kept on using annoying language. He was sent back to jail to serve the remainder of the parole period.

Reconstruction Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Through a torrent of oratory and a profusion of amendments, the two billion dollar reconstruction finance corporation moved ahead today toward a certain vote in the senate Monday.

After five hours of debate which once wandered off into a heated discussion of prohibition, the senate agreed to act on the mammoth economic rehabilitation measure before the end of its next "legislative day."

At the other end of the capital the measure made definite progress with the final approval by the house banking committee and decision to bring it up for debate Monday.

Relief Program Broadened

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (UP)—President Hoover's financial relief program was broadened today by introduction in the house and senate of a bill setting up a $150,000,000 corporation to advance loans for payment of depositors of insolvent banks.

This measure was recommended by the treasury and approved by the president. It provides separate relief for depositors beyond that authorized in the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction bill now before congress for action.

The bill was introduced in the house by Representative Beedy, Republican, Maine, and in the senate by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES MARION COUNTY LAND INUNDATED BY FLOOD

MARSHALL, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—Thousands of acres of farm land have been inundated in Marion county by the Big Cypress, Little Cypress and Black Cypress bayous.

After torrential rains, the Big Cypress stood at 23.9 feet at 3 p. m. at Jefferson. A disastrous flood occurred two years ago when the water reached 25 feet.

Although observers expected the water to recede during the night, residents in the low sections of Jefferson moved to higher ground.

Sand bags were used to protect a highway bridge from the sweep of the waters.

ution with mingled fear and nervousness.

Women in some of the residential districts resorted to locking their doors, fearing possible attack because Daniel Lyman, convicted murder who escaped from Oahu prison several days ago, remained at large. The bolting of doors was unusual for Honolulu. Lyman escaped with Liu Kaikapu who was captured and identified as the attacker of the second white woman and was returned to prison for life.

Reports said the army was ready to send troops to the city in case any widespread trouble. The troops are stationed at Scofield barracks, 22 miles from here.

The navy department issued orders forbidding its personal from going ashore in Honolulu during the visit of the Pacific fleet next month for maneuvers.

Former Gov. Wallace R. Farrington issued a statement denying there was a "race war" on any racial feeling in Honolulu.

Reconstructing yesterday's abduction and slaying, police said they were convinced Kahahawa was killed in a house rented by Mrs. Fortescue.

A blood-stained towel, two automotic pistols, a bloody shirt and the torn wrapper of a woman were found in Mrs. Fortescue's bedroom. Officers said there were blood stains on the bedroom floor and the door. The door had been damaged, they said, indicating a struggle had taken place there.

Officials said they believed Kahahawai's slayers stripped his body of clothing there and washed the clothes in an attempt to erase evidence of the crime. Laundry marks had been removed from the sheet in which the body was wrapped.

Police also held Albert O. Jones, a sailor on the submarine S22, and D. E. Gilkie, another sailor who allegedly rented the death car from a garage. Jones was found in the Massie home before it became known the Hawaiian had been slain. Jones said he had been placed on duty as a guard and had been at the Massie home all night.

At the hospital it was said Major Fortescue was depressed over news of his wife's predicament, but had heard nothing officially beyond what had appeared in the newspapers. Reporters were forbidden to see him.

ROOSEVELT NAMED GOVERNOR GENERAL PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico was promoted today by President Hoover to America's highest colonial office upon the resignation of Dwight F. Davis as governor general of the Philippine Islands.

Davis presented his resignation to the chief executive at the White House. Secretary Hurley of the war department, who controls affairs of most of America's insular possessions, accompanied him to the White House for a final conference before his retirement from office.

The announcement of Davis' resignation was followed immediately by one naming the son of the late president to govern the millions of people his father fought to free from Spanish rule.

Davis was sent to the Philippines from the position of secretary of war.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT LEGION TO LAUNCH EMPLOYMENT DRIVE

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (INS)—An extensive unemployment relief program to be put into effect this month by the Texas department of the American Legion has been projected by State Commander V. Earl Earp of Sweetwater, it was announced here today by Major Paul L. Wakefield, a member of the governor's secretariat and chairman of the legion publicity committee.

Earp is making an appeal to each legion post to form an employment committee of legionnaires and citizens "for the purpose of relieving the unemployment situation in your locality."

"This committee," declared Earp, "should immediately call upon every employer in your locality, and regardless of the size of his business or employe personnel, urge him to increase his present number of employes at least 10 per cent before Feb. 1."

The commander is also urging the adoption of a "pay your poll tax campaign" by each legion post, said Major Wakefield.

"Your department officials are doing everything in their power in support of the proposal to pay off the balance of the adjusted service certificate at once, believing firmly that this would bring relief to every community in the nation," Earp has reported to the legion posts.

W. D. McFarlane Attacks Legislation For Special Interests in Announcing Platform as Candidate for Congress

Declaring that present conditions are the result of 50 years of Republican misrule and legislation for special interests, and that party must be driven from power and the rights and privileges of the people restored, Hon. W. D. McFarlane of Graham Saturday gave out a statement announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 13th Texas district. Mr. McFarlane is an attorney of Graham, Texas. He is a world war veteran and has served eight years in the Texas legislature, first in the house of representatives and later in the senate.

Mr. McFarlane is a vigorous campaigner and expects to visit every community in the district during the campaign.

Graham, Texas, Jan. 9, 1932.

Fellow citizens of the 13th congressional district:

In announcing myself a candidate for congress of this district, I do so with a full realization of the responsibilities of the situation confronting the people of America today. I announce myself a candidate thus early that you may have time to study, not only the requirements of the position, but that you may study me as a citizen, and my record of service heretofore rendered in your behalf, for any one can promise. How they keep these promises when made is more important than the promise.

The Republican party has controlled this government for more than 70 years, except eight years under Cleveland and eight years under Wilson. During that time we have had two major panics, or nation-wide depressions, and many minor ones, all while the government was under Republican control. Mr. Otto Kahn of the great banking and railroad banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. said, when it was charged that "big business" had failed in leadership, that he did not intend to belittle their responsibility, but that the government and the legislative and executive departments thereof were the only powers capable of controlling those unjust and burdensome conditions and that they should be held responsible. Then it is up to you to select your representatives in that government to see that you are correctly represented therein, for your elected representative is your only representative. If you permit the allied bankers and big business to select your representative, they are doubly represented and you have none.

Republican Theory

At the same time, the allied bankers and big business inveigh against the government taking any hand in the conduct of business. It is the theory of the Republican party that the government allow them to conduct the country's business as they see fit, and that they will provide a "full dinner pail" for the toilers.

Four years ago they "pointed with pride" to conditions and made rosy promises for its indefinite continuance and the result—20,000,000 of our fellow citizens, the unemployed and their dependents, in the breadline, and for their relief they only offer private charity. Charity for the people who builded this nation when the only thing they ask is an opportunity to provide for their loved ones by honest employment.

The senate investigating committee has already shown that in the last three years the allied bankers and big business have sold to the world borrowers about $5,000,000,000 of world securities, to American small banks and investors, and they admit now that these securities are not worth more than 20 per cent of their cost to American investors, while they admit that they made hundreds of millions by the sale. They admit a loss to American investors on their recommendation of more than $36,000,000,000, about one-tenth of the property value of the nation.

At the close of the world war our government generously appropriated $100,000,000 to feed devastated Europe, then in adjusting their indebtedness to us canceled practically all debts contracted during the war and accepted their promise to repay what we advanced them after the conflict (not including the $100,000,000) at from nothing to 3 per cent interest payable over a period of 62 years while the American taxpayer shouldered this load of debt payable at 4¼ per cent interest. Added to that, in the treaty of peace we asked and received no indemnity for the conflict, permitted our allies to collect such indemnity as they could, and we got none. It was certainly a generous settlement, unheard of among nations. Yet, with this they are not satisfied and our allied bankers, to aid them to collect their private loans made to Europe, join in with them and ask for the cancellation of the remaining debts. One-half of the money spent by our allies since the conflict on armaments, if paid on their just obligations to us, would have paid the whole debt, interest and all, and more.

Served Eight Years

Texas today has more people and more wealth than had the original states at the foundation of our government.

Space forbids that I discuss all these matters here; I will discuss them in your hearing during the campaign.

I have served you in the Texas legislature eight years, from 1922 to 1930. In that time, I made a record of service in your behalf. In my first term, I joined those who favored a reduction of the burdens of government, taxation, and we reduced the expenses of the state more than $12,000,000 from the appropriations asked. I continued that alignment during my terms of service with like result. At the end of four years in the house, in my race for the senate, I opposed the tax remission bills, an unjust placing of tax burdens on part of our people to the detriment of the rest of the state; the enactment of a gasoline tax as the best way to promote road construction; the increase of our per capita appropriation for rural schools and a reduction of taxation, among many others. You approved my platform and thereby strengthened my efforts in that direction, and, with the aid of the other members of the legislatures, we enacted into law all these measures. In my tax remission bill fight and the fight to save the 78,000 acres of state owned land for the penitentiary, I printed speeches and circulated them at my own expense. The press and you citizens came gallantly to my aid and we won. The same industry and energy in your behalf in congress will produce like results.

"Bread and Beans"

I favor restricted immigration and am strongly in favor of upholding our anti-trust laws. I am a world war veteran and favor veteran legislation for the ex-service men.

I am dry from principle and practice and believe it the correct principle economically and otherwise, and believe that the 18th amendment has settled this question as no constitutional amendment has ever been repealed. "Bread and beans" and not booze is now the crying need of the masses.

I offer myself a candidate upon my record of ability and capacity to serve you. If you think me competent and worthy, it will be the pride of my life to give you that courageous, careful and conscientious service. Prosperity will be restored when unjust burdens are raised from the shoulders of the producers and the buying power of the masses is restored and not until then. It will take patient, courageous, thoughtful and persistent effort in your behalf to bring about that result. I ask you to commission me, as your representative, to aid to bring this about. If you give me your commission, I promise, as in the past, to give you all that is in me of ability, courage, patience, honesty of purpose and energy to faithfully represent you.

W. D. M'FARLANE.

H. W. FILLMORE TO MAKE RACE JUDGE CO. COURT AT LAW

Basing his candidacy upon the promise of giving conscientious, whole-hearted and efficient service to the people, generally, and being ever mindful of the taxpayers' burdens, H. W. Fillmore, a resident of Wichita county since his early boyhood, announced Saturday that he would respectfully ask, at the hands of the Democratic voters of this county, to be nominated for the position of judge of the county court at law.

Mr. Fillmore is one of the younger attorneys of the Wichita county bar, and has resided in Wichita Falls for the past five years. Prior to coming to this city, he lived three years in Iowa Park, one year in Burkburnett, and three years in the Fairview community, located in the northwest oil fields, and for more than three years he was employed in various capacities by one of the larger oil companies in the producing fields of this county, during which time his ambition to become an attorney prompted him to devote his spare time in the study of law.

Mr. Fillmore stated, in discussing his candidacy, that he expected to make a very active campaign, and would do his best to personally see as many voters as possible, and earnestly solicit the vote and active support of every taxpayer and voter in the county.

"I am mindful of the fact," he said, "that the duties of the judge of the county court at law require whole-hearted, conscientious and honest work and study, and if nominated and elected to the office, I will devote my entire time and effort toward fulfilling the duties thereof in an efficient, intelligent and economical way.

"Prior to the time that the supreme court of Texas issued a license to me to practice law, I found it necessary, in order to realize my ambition, to put forth concentrated effort during my leisure time after long working hours, and through that experience forcibly learned that in order to be successful in any undertaking it is essential that one occupy his spare time in studious endeavor.

"It shall be my watchword to be a servant of all the people and not of any special class. Justice shall be meted out in both civil and criminal proceedings without regard to the station of the litigants, and I shall especially guard the rights of the people by not permitting the collection of debts through the criminal branch of the law.

"The business of the court will be conducted speedily, as practicable with the proper administration of justice in mind, eliminating all unnecessary delays, and at all times conduct the affairs of the court in such a manner that the purses of the taxpayers will not be unnecessarily drained.

"All that I ask is an earnest consideration at the hands of the Democratic voters of the county, and if nominated and elected, I shall express my sincere appreciation by being mindful of the fact that I am an employe of the citizenship of Wichita county, and giving that kind of service to which the public, at all times, is entitled."

BENCH CANDIDATE

JUDGE W. W. COOK

JUDGE W. W. COOK IS CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION HERE

Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court Saturday announced his candidacy for re-election. He has served one full term in office and about two years of the unexpired term of Judge Guy Rogers, who resigned from the bench six years ago.

Judge Cook's announcement follows:

"I announce for re-election to the office of judge of the 78th district subject to the action of the Democratic primary. I thank the people of Wichita county for the vote they have given me heretofore, and I believe they will find that my record has justified the confidence they have reposed in me.

"During the time I have served in that office I have been attentive to the duties of the office and have disposed of such business as came before me impartially and faithfully, with such dispatch as thoughtful and careful consideration of the issues raised would justify. As to this I invite the inquiry of any person who has had business with my court or has had occasion to observe its functioning.

"I promise that if re-elected I will give my very best service in the future as in the past to the discharge of the duties of the office."

Wife of Quanah Blind Man Dies After Home Burns

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 9.—Losing their home by fire Sunday night, and his wife dying of acute indigestion on Tuesday night, after an illness of only a few minutes, is the double dose of trouble which has come this week to "Uncle Henry" Brandon, aged blind man, who has lived since 1907 in Quanah.

The aged couple had just returned from a holiday trip to Oklahoma last week, Sunday night fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed their two-story house and contents.

Tuesday Mrs. Brandon had made several trips to town and was apparently in the best of health. She was stricken about 9 o'clock with an attack of acute indigestion, dying before medical aid could reach her.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter and four sons. The chidiren are J. J. Brandon, Z. C. Brandon, O. E. Brandon, J. E. Brandon and Mrs. Lizzie Lee.

HIGH VATICAN HONOR BESTOWED ON MUSSOLINI

ROME, Jan. 9. (INS)—Pipe Pius, through Papal Nuncio Borgangini, today further cemented the bond between the Catholic church and the Italian state by conferring upon Premier Mussolini insignia of the Equestrian Order of the Golden Spur, high Vatican honor.

After visiting the premier, the nuncio then went to Chigi palace, where he presented Foreign Minister Dino Grandi with the great cross of the "Ordine Piano."

Several days ago the pope conferred upon King Victor Emanuel the insignia of the Supreme Order of Christ, highest honor the Vatican can bestow.

the past few years their charges have been increased on watered stock from 100 to 200 per cent. The monies paid to this and other unfair profits must remain with our people and with a maximum charge for utility service fixed so that it cannot be passed to the consumer, an adequate tax levied upon them.

Independents Perishing

"Although the Standard Oil interests were once ousted from this state and enjoined from doing business in it, this octopus has again fastened its tentacles upon every root and branch of the oil industry. The independent who lives in Texas, spends his profits in Texas and who made the oil industry in this state is fast perishing. Without independent competition, the price of a gallon of gasoline or a quart of lube will be 200 per cent of the price of a barrel of crude oil, as it has been in other nations with an over-supply and without independent competition. They have already ceased to pay farmers a fair portion for their leases and royalties. Lease monies and bonuses last year in Texas were several million dollars short of the average. They are taking from our citizenship, and our state and public school system, fabulous sums. These interests must be subdued and the right of the individual to pursue that business must be restored.

"Eastern capitalists own our sulphur deposits. Some 80 per cent of the world's supply of sulphur is produced from Texas. This sulphur, though consumed by the world, pays a tax of only 75 cents per ton. Citizens of Texas pay a tax equal to 16 times that amount on products of oil. These interests carry to the East exorbitant profits from this natural resource. The states of the nation and the nations of the world shall pay a just tax on our sulphur. Provision must be made, however, to refund taxes collected on sulphur used to fertilize Texas soil.

"Texas is rich in natural gas. The gas companies, through monopolistic control, buy their gas as low as two cents per 1,000 cubic feet and in most instances sell it at 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Yet they pay only a fraction of what they should pay toward the support of the state government. A great portion of the gas produced in Texas is transported to other states for consumption. We must not permit this gas to be exhausted for transportation throughout the nation without making it pay its share of the taxes. It should not be said that Texas, the richest state in the union in natural resources, has permitted her laborers to be pauperized, her farmers made destitute, and her merchants and bankers seriously crippled financially by an unbearable ad valorem tax rate.

Shift Tax Burdens

"There must be a re-allocation and redistribution of the tax burdens in Texas. More than two-thirds of our wealth is now and has been for years permitted to escape taxation, while the tax burdens have been borne by the city and farm home and land owners. This unfair burden has destroyed both the loan value and the sale value of our basic wealth—real estate. A man should not be able to rent cheaper than he can own. Home ownership has been and always will be the criterion of our social progress.

"Mortgagors must have a reasonable time after foreclosure to redeem foreclosed real estate by doing equity. Tax foreclosures should be simpler and less expensive. Property sold for taxes should be redeemable for less penalties. Home equities must be safer.

"Chain stores are an ever-increasing menace to the commercial progress of our state. The profits earned by these chains go East never to return. We must protect our citizenship from this evil. It can be done by placing a sufficient graduated tax upon each store owned by these chains. This law should be so constructed that it could not be evaded by using foreign corporations as holding companies for these concerns. Foreign corporations must be prohibited from controlling stock in a domestic corporation. One who is not amenable to our laws, who does not pay taxes in our state, and who does not share our responsibilities, must not profiteer upon us.

"The products of our soil must be protected by a substantial sales tax on products not produced in Texas, but sold in competition with the products of our farms. For example, we should encourage the use of products of cotton seed oil by imposing a sales tax on lard substitutes made from imported oil, the soy bean or cocoanut oil, and sold in competition with the products of cottonseed. Many other examples by which aid could be given Texas products could be cited.

Serving Two Masters

"It must be made a penal offense in this state for one who receives compensation from the state to be on the pay roll of or to receive pay from a corporation. One cannot serve two masters.

"Our antitrust laws are antiquated. They should be simplified, made plain, yet strengthened so as to safeguard our people against the evils of monopoly and powerful combines. It is manifestly unfair that an individual of only 20 years of business life should be forced on a parity in business with combines that never die.

"The poll tax levy should be reduced to 50 cents. All war veterans and their dependents should be exempt from poll tax payments.

"Education is a necessity. Without it our form of government would be of little value. Specialization should be encouraged. Our public schools should be state supported and carefully graded into one complete affiliated unit. Our boys and girls of the rural districts must have the privilege of public schools, with recognized credits in our larger units.

"Care must be used to effectively operate our schools and all eleemosynary institutions for the greatest efficiency, though they must be systematized for the greatest economy.

"Credit must be given Lee Simmons for the improvement in the operation of the penitentiary, though it can yet be much improved with the proper cooperation. There is no reason for a group of men, without dependents and without taxes, failing to support themselves. They should in fact largely furnish and support other state wards.

Must Reduce Taxes

"We must reduce taxes. To do so, governmental expenses must be reduced and the tax burdens redistributed. We have a multitude of expensive duplications in offices, departmental bureaus and commissions that must be eliminated or consolidated to secure more efficiency at less cost. The state rangers force, the state motor squad and the militia are largely duplications of each other and also of the sheriff's, constable's and police departments. Neither of the state forces is needed except where the civil authorities break down. Either may be used.

"Our highway department is so operated that less than half of our state highway funds actually goes into the roadbeds. This department has degenerated into an expensive political machine. It has wasted millions of dollars, partially by such useless practices as erecting pretty signs to name the gulleys and creeks at crossings and by placing concrete markings every thousand feet on each side of the highway that serve no purpose other than to show the traveler where the road stops and the pasture begins. Too much authority is centralized in the commission at Austin. Details of the roads as to maintenance must be restored to the counties and the commission's authority limited to general state supervision. It must be so organized that our dollars will do their duty. Taxes collected by the state should be allocated and expended fairly and justly between the counties.

"Public highways should not be constructed and paid for by levying and assessing ad valorem taxes. Those who use the roads should pay for them.

Tax on Utilities

"We shall levy an adequate tax upon the utilities; upon the world commerce for our sulphur; upon the nation for our natural gas; upon the purchasers of luxuries, and a levy upon like sources of our wealth heretofore escaping taxation; then with a part of the gasoline tax and by a retrenchment in state expenses exempt to the city and farm home owners a $3,000 valuation; absorb the state ad valorem tax; absorb a sufficient amount of the county ad valorem to discharge the indebtedness of the counties bonded; absorb the dollar school district tax; provide a method for the absorption of the city ad valorem tax, to the end that at least 70 per cent of the taxes now levied upon real estate may be levied upon that part of our wealth heretofore escaping its portion of our burdens. We shall not confiscate, though we must require the powerful combines to treat fairly with the masses.

"Our fight is and must be one of man power and not money power. The people have realized that the depression is no accident; that we as other states similarly situated have gulled in the propaganda fed us by those in control; that we have been for or against 'isms' while fundamental principles were neglected; that we have divided on lines of prejudices until it but remains for us to "fiddle while Rome burns." I have faith in the people. The red blood of Texas has asserted itself in every crisis; it will now assert itself. This generation will not rest its burden upon the shoulders of its posterity, but will bequeath to them the same individual freedom that we received from the fathers of Texas. This freedom was gained on many battlefields at the cost of blood and treasure. We must at all odds retain it. As we go forward together in this fight, let our slogan be, 'The people will take charge.'"

Dr. W. C. ROUNDTREE of Ft. Worth, Pellagra Specialist, will be at the Texan Hotel, Monday, January 11. Examination Free.

L. V. ABERNATHY TO SEEK RE-ELECTION COUNTY ATTORNEY

L. V. Abernathy, who is now serving his first term as county attorney, announces his candidacy for a second term.

Mr. Abernathy was assistant county attorney prior to his election as county attorney. He is a native of Texas, a graduate of law school and has resided in Wichita Falls since 1917. He has made a high record for convictions during the short time he has been county attorney in the prosecution of misdemeanor cases and has been active in handling all county matters.

Mr. Abernathy in announcing his candidacy for a second term, states: "I will continue to attend personally to the duties of the office and continue to be courteous, fair and impartial in the performance of that duty. During the past year I have colected $58,000 in delinquent taxes by letter without the necessity of filing costly delinquent tax suits and burdening the taxpayer with additional costs. And I want to thank the delinquent property owners at this time for the prompt and patriotic response that was given to these letters. I will continue in the economical handling of these tax matters and strive earnestly at all times to perform the duties of my office to the very best of my ability."

CROP PROSPECTS IN MUNDAY AREA BEST ON RECORD

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Munday farming territory enters the new year with probably the best moisture seasoning stored in the ground in history, according to the report Saturday of A. E. Whittemore, pioneer citizen who has kept official weather records here for 16 years.

Never, according to Whittemore, who is a practical farmer of 40 years' experience here, have so many favorable conditions combined to contribute to an approaching season's crop outlook as at present.

Of the 22.54 inches of rainfall during 1931 here, he reported, 12.54 inches were distributed over the last three months so evenly that a maximum quantity went into the soil. The precipitation during the last quarter of the year was greater than for any similar period during the years he has kept records with government supplied and tested instruments. Rainfall here during 1930 totaled 34.09, more than half of it in June and October deluges which brought damaging floods.

Agriculture's history here has been, Whittemore said, that fall and winter rains tend to insure the next year's crops regardless of whether spring and summer moisture is received. If the fall seasoning has been poor, he added, any advantage resulting from abundant spring and summer moisture has been offset largely by insect damage. In the past, Whittemore continued, autumn seasoning has had the effect of reducing such damage to a minimum, even if spring and summer rains follow.

DRUG STORE CLERK SUES DALLAS COUNTY SHERIFF RESULT OF LIQUOR RAID

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (INS)—Wayne Peterson, soda clerk in a Dallas drug store, today filed suit for $15,000 against Sheriff Hal Hood, two deputies, Bud Walker and J. W. Fuller, and the National Surety company, the bonding company for Sheriff Hood and the deputies.

In his petition, Peterson charged the officers recently entered the store where he was employed and accused him of selling liquor. He also charged the sheriff drew a gun and attempted to hit him on the head but he warded off the blow with his arm.

No liquor was found in the ensuing search of the store, the petition stated.

DANDRUFF Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

PERSONNEL OF WORKERS IS READY FOR ACTION

Drive to Begin Jan. 13 and To Continue for Three Days

Charles H. Featherston, general chairman of the annual membership drive of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, announced Saturday afternoon that, with the personnel of campaign members complete, final preparations for the drive, to start Jan. 13, are being made.

Because of continuous memberships held by several, the drive will feature an attack on non-members and members who have dropped out.

A breakfast at the Wichita club at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning will formally open activities, which will continue for three days. A sum of slightly over $35,000 for the 1932 budget is desired. Mr. Featherston urges that all drive members be present at the breakfast.

Four major chairmen are listed as aides to Mr. Featherston. They are C. E. McCutchen, A. E. Kelly, Horrace Robbins and Dr. J. H. Massie. Each major is to be assisted by five captains, who in turn supervise activities of squads of lieutenant workers.

PATHOLOGIST FINDS YELLOW-MEATED HOG VICTIM OF JAUNDICE

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 9.—A. B. Fletcher, who killed a 500-pound hog last week at his home in Quanah and found the meat yellow instead of white, notifying the county agent, Luther T. Hunter, who sent a specimen to A. E. Whorton, pathologist, A. & M. college, is loser of the hog.

Report from A. E. Whorton, pathologist, to County Agent Hunter reads:

"I do not recall seeing a better example of icterus or jaundice in swine than the piece you sent us. According to meat inspection ruling meat of severely icterus animals is condemned as unfit for human food.

"I know of no specific danger that might ensue upon consumption of this pork, properly cooked, nor following the use of lard. Nevertheless such meat is either condemned or rendered for fat in inspected slaughter houses. If the owner wishes to use lard rendered from this animal it probably would be safe, but I would not advise him to use any portion of the carcass."

There was a smaller hog kept in the same pen and fed the same ration of skim milk and wheat which proved to have snow white fat and be entirely normal in every way.

Uniforms of Pilots Result in Humorous Mistakes by Public

While the serge naval uniforms of American Airways pilots who daily fly in and out of here are snappy and effective for the purpose of standardized appearance, the same uniforms at times bring a certain number of embarrassing moments to the wearers, in that they are not infrequently mistaken for naval officers, policemen, sometimes bus drivers, street car conductors, and at intervals hotel bell boys.

In fact, not a few complaints have been made by pilots, and as a result uniforms were changed upon occasion, but the humorous mistakes still occur.

Last week while W. J. Fry was driving from English field at Amarillo, to that city, a motorist, about to pass his car at rapid speed, slammed on his brakes and burned up no little rubber when he caught sight of what he believed to be the "law," and then placidly drove behind the inoffensive though amused pilot to town. Almost regular occurrences are on motorists who change their intention to run a signal light or boulevard sign upon sighting pilots.

S. D. Page recently was importuned by a feminine offender to please tear up a traffic tag on her car, and when Page was adamant, the lady sought to tender the amount of the fine. Page, assuming dignity passed the buck to the desk sergeant, holding out the hope that such officer might be able to act in the case.

Fine Service

Leaving caps in their hotel rooms occasionally has proven more embarrassing to pilots than otherwise. Recently while Sherman Willard was standing capless at a hotel door, a taxi drove up, a large man alighted with more than ample luggage. He glared at the pilot standing nearby. "Fine service you give here," he snapped. "Grab those bags, boy, and take 'em in."

Half amused and half angry, Willard carried the luggage to the hotel desk, but when the patron offered a piece of silver, the embarrassment shifted as the pilot disclosed his identity.

Another instance of a similar type occurred recently when Fry was accosted as he passed along the corridor of the hotel by a guest who ordered, "Here, boy, take this suit and get it pressed."

Sailors constitute a problem of their own to American Airways pilots in Galveston, Houston, New Orleans, Brownsville, Los Angeles, New York and other port cities served by American Airways. The usual procedure is the smart salute commenced at several paces by the approaching sailors, an unusual delay in holding the salute while awaiting its return, the denouncement of "Aw, hell!" coupled with a dirty look when the well drilled gobs made out the words "American Airways" on the cap and snatch down the tense hand. Upon at least one occasion an opportunity to do battle was offered.

Recently at a railroad station a pilot with his blue overcoat collar turned up in the chilly night air was accosted by a stranger. "Say, chief," the stranger said, "I'm trying to get my friend home. Be a good scout and help me put him on the train. He's just a little noisy, you know. Not drunk. See." Assuming a stern air, the pilot carried on and safely got the inebriated one on his train.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS AT QUANAH ENJOYS DINNER

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Men's Bible class of the First Christian church feasted on "roast beef and brown gravy" in the class room at the church Friday night, Jan. 8, through the generosity of Luther T. Hunter, Hardeman county agent, who furnished a young beef which was prepared by the women of the church. About 50 men attended the get-together meeting and enjoyed the bountiful spread, and the splendid program arranged.

SOUND SLEEP

Instantly Tonight, Without Drugs

Stop Tossing and Lying Awake Like This

Fall Asleep as Soon as You Go to Bed Feel Like a New Person Tomorrow

THOSE ghastly hours of night-time tossing! Those exaggerated worries that loom like mountains when you cannot get to sleep. How they sap your strength—unstring your nerves—and unfit you for your work.

Why suffer them any longer? Why endure the physical and mental handicaps they inevitably bring?

For 20,000 doctors will tell you that sleeplessness is needless folly now. Will tell you there is now a drugless way that brings you sleep—naturally, quickly.

It is a delicious food-drink that you take before you go to bed. As free from drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you give your child.

You fall asleep almost as soon as you touch the pillow. And you get 8 hours of sound, natural sleep.

Next morning you notice the difference the instant you arise from bed. You feel refreshed—rejuvenated. Nerves calmer—mind clearer by far. No longer a prey to the worries that always seem so mountainous when your system is starved for sleep.

For this new way does more than induce sound sleep. It rebuilds your nerves, your body, your tissues—during the hours you sleep.

Millions are now using this remarkable discovery. Millions are turning to it largely on doctors' advice. In fairness to yourself, your health, your nerves—try it without fail. See how quickly you fall asleep—how vastly refreshed you feel next morning.

What It Is—How It Acts

It is called Ovaltine—a pure food-drink you take at night with warm milk. During the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. They found it does 3 things no other food in the world will do.

First, it induces sound, restful sleep by a wholly natural process.

Second, it rebuilds worn-out nerve and body cells. For, in addition to other valuable food elements, Ovaltine contains (in concentrated form) a natural vital property called "lecithin" which is an important part of nerve and brain tissue. And these special food properties rebuild worn-out nerve, brain and body cells as you sleep.

Third, Ovaltine aids digestion. This is because it contains a high proportion of a food element known as diastase—an element which has the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach. Thus it lifts a great burden from your digestive organs—and helps your stomach "rest." And in this way combats digestive unrest—one of the main causes of sleeplessness.

At the same time—by stimulating and aiding digestive processes—Ovaltine tends to draw excess blood away from the head. And helps reduce the congestion that is present in brain capillaries when a person lies awake at night thinking and worrying instead of sleeping.

Thus a state of mental calm is induced. And normal sleep follows quickly.

You'll Sleep Tonight!

Don't judge Ovaltine merely by what users claim for it. Even disregard, if you wish, the fact that it is endorsed by 20,000 doctors. Forget the fact that its use has spread to 54 different countries . . . Try it and see for yourself.

So start tonight! 'Phone your druggist or grocer for a tin of Ovaltine. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls in a glass of warm milk and drink it just before you go to bed. You will sleep more soundly than you have, probably, in weeks and months. You'll be delighted with the sound, refreshing sleep you get and the redoubled energy that's yours next day.

(Note) Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, underweight children—nursing mothers, convalescents and the aged. 874

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writings around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

A summary of the year's output in southern books is the Lantern's customary way of beginning the new year. As usually happens with this seasonal stock-taking there remain important items as yet unnoticed in these columns—such books as Evelyn Scott's weighty two-volume novel, "A Calendar of Sin"; Paul Green's "The House of Connelly and Other Plays," Du Bose Heyward's "Jasbo Brown and Selected Poems," Edwin Greenlaw's "The Province of Literary History," "Southern Labor in Revolt," by Meiklejohn and Nehemkis, Vance Randolph's study of "The Ozarks," Andrew Nelson Lytle's "Bedford Forrest and His Critter Company," and M. C. S. Noble's "A History of the Public Schools of North Carolinan"—recently awarded the Mayflower cup for North Carolina.

Of the various forms of literature published in 1931 fiction leads, as usual. The most important literary development of the year, it seems to us, is William Faulkner's powerfully individual work in two novels, "Sanctuary" and "As I Lay Dying," and in numerous short stories published in magazines and in a collection, "These 13." Other young novelists have done important work. Hatcher Harlan with his stinging realism gives us "Tunnel Hill," a picture of Kentucky laborers, his over-satirical treatment of religious activities marring an otherwise balanced portrayal. In this connection John Fort's "God in the Straw Pen" stands out by contrast, for its restrained and humanly sympathetic study of a mountain revival.

The most significant first novel published last year is undoubtedly Caroline Gordon's (Mrs. Allen Tate's) "Penhally," a work of fine imagination which is written with sensitive and individual style. "The Making of a Lady," by Sara Haardt (Mrs. H. L. Mencken) contained wonderful material for a satire but somehow failed to achieve the bite and finesse one expected from the first novel of this talented young writer. Gerald Johnson came into the field of fiction with a strong portrait of a Scotch pioneer woman, "By Reason of Strength." Katherine Bellamann contributed a deeply introspective and psychological study, "My Husband's Friends"—a book remarkable for its feminine insight. "The Cabin in the Cotton" showed Harry Harrison Kroll to be a workmanlike builder of plot, but his execution seriously marred this dramatic tale of conflict among tenants and landed plantation owners. For its treatment of a knotty social problem this work is important, as is Mary Heaton Vorse's "Strike," a story out of the recent Gastonia cotton mill troubles. The "Green Bondage" of which Frances Ogilvie writes is the enslaving of southern tobacco farmers in the Dark Leaf belt. Her work avoids the temptation to propaganda and is sympathetically conceived.

Detached entirely from any problem study is Charles Morrow Wilson's sensitive prose-poem of the Ozark mountains, "Acres of Sky." A sort of homespun poetry builds itself through the homely speech of Alberta Pierson Hannum's "Thursday April" and her characterization of a Blue Ridge mountain woman is quietly distinctive. The poetry of Samuel Milton Elam's "Watch the Stars Immortal" shines dimly through a confused welter of incidents, but his possession of imaginative gifts marks him as another first novelist to be watched in the future.

So much for the newer novelists. From those already well-established in reputation we have four significant works—Isa Glenn's "A Short History of Julia," Elizabeth Madox Roberts' "A Buried Treasure," Struthers Burt's "Festival," and Joseph Hergesheimer's Kentucky saga, "The Limestone Tree." T. S. Stribling publishes "The Forge," first of a trilogy planned to show the upheaval of the South from civil war times on down.

In the field of the short story we have two distinguished volumes by younger writers, "American Earth," by Erskine Caldwell and "Oklahoma Town" by George Milburn. Faulkner's stories we have mentioned. John Peale Bishop's volume of long short stories, "Many Thousands Gone," won the Scribner's contest and much critical acclaim on account of its realistic and suggestive treatment of the civil war period. A series of four long short-stories, "Old New Orleans," by Edward Laroque and Frances Tinker, are flavorous romances in the old style. Agnes Rothery has a whimsical fantasy, "Into What Port?" less than a novel and more than a story in length.

Southerners are represented in numerous volumes of American short stories and there are two important collections devoted to our regional fiction, Addison Hibbard's "Stories of the South" and May Lanberton Becker's "Golden Tales of the Old South."

A consciously regional movement emanates from the Southwest where "Folkasy: A Regional Miscellany" is published yearly at the University of Oklahoma and where Texas contributes its "Southwest Review" and nourishes a West-South Book club and an up-and-coming publishing house. The latter, the Southwest Press, has the distinction of the first selection by a major book club from any out-of-New York (and Boston) publishing house. The book so honored was J. Frank Dobie's "Coronado's Children." Other important books in a field which we cannot cover adequately here are Mary Austin's "Starry Adventure" and Charles Finger's "Adventure Under Sapphire Skies." There are many books about the cattle industry, cowboys, bandits and border rangers, W. C. Holden's "Alkali Trails" being among the best.

In the writings about the negro we find the best volume of creative work written by a negro—Arna Bontemps' novel, "God Sends Sunday." Negro poets are strangely silent, and all other worth while negro novels are the work of white writers, notably Roark Bradford's epic tale of "John Henry" and "Po' Buckra," a first novel by Gertrude M. Shelby and Samuel Gaillard Stoney. The late Fernet Patterson is author of a volume of short stories, "The Road to Canaan," and Octavus Roy Cohen cheered us once more with a series of outlaws in "Allies of the Alley." Straddling the fields of sociology and fiction is the Mark Lipman folklore by Howard W. Odum, completed this year with a narrative of the old South, "Cold Blue Moon." Of the many social studies of the negro probably the best of the year are "The Black Worker," by Spero and Harris; and "A Social History of the Sea Islands," by Guy B. Johnson.

The scholarly and technical studies written by experts in their various fields have been numerous enough to make up a large library. An adequate summary is impossible here, but a selection of five important titles will give some idea of the work done: Hasseltine's "Civil War Prison," Wilson Gee's "The Place of Agriculture in American Life," Whitfield's "Slavery Agitation in Virginia," Owsley's "King Cotton Diplomacy," and Fletcher M. Green's "Constitutional Development in the South Atlantic States." The last-named book is one of a valuable list published by the University of North Carolina press, which continues to add to its prestige in publishing circles.

The most beautiful volume of southern material printed during the year is a facsimile of "Hariot's Virginia," published at Ann Arbor, Mich. The most beautiful book from a southern press is Paul H. Burrough's "Southern Antiques," from the firm of Garrett & Massie in Richmond.

Books descriptive of interesting places in the South include the attractive volume, "The Carolina Low Country"; Harriette K. Leiding's interesting account, "Charleston: Historic and Romantic"; Annie L. Sioussat's "Old Baltimore"; J. T. Wertenbaker's "Norfolk, Historic Southern Port", and "Homes and Gardens in Old Virginia" by Massie & Christian. Dr. Janet Miller's "Jungles Preferred" is the best travel book of the year by a southern author.

Two war books appeared by southern authors: Pohn L. Barkley's "No Hard Feelings" and Paul Ayres Rockwell's "American Fighters in the Foreign Legion."

Irvin S. Cobb's "The Incredible Truth" and T. Swann Harding's "Fads, Frauds and Physicians" are books of general interest, the one a collection of truthful record of unbelievable fact, the second an often amusing indictment of the medical profession. Emily Clark chronicled the literary adventures of "The Reviewer" in her "Innocence Abroad." Frances L. Goodrich told of some Blue Ridge school and settlement work in "Mountain Homespun."

The most important biographies by southerners are Maristan Chapman's "Imperial Brother," John D. Wade's "John Wesley," Lyle Saxon's "Lafitte the Pirate," Hermann B. Deutsch's "The Incredible Yankee," and Archibald Henderson's "Contemporary Immortals."

Juveniles of the year which stand out in our mind are Elizabeth Madox Roberts' volume of poems, "Under the Tree"; Laura A. Armer's Indian book, "Waterless Mountain"; "Pearls of Fortune" by Lide & Johansen; Mary Johnston's "Hunting Shirt"; and Julia O. Adams' "Stonewall."

Lynn Riggs' Oklahoma play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," was practically the only southern drama produced and published last season. It narrowly missed winning the Pulitzer prize and, in published form, received enthusiastic book reviews. A treatise valuable to the worker in dramatics is "Stage Scenery and Lighting" by H. D. Sellmann and Samuel Selden, the latter technical director of the Carolina Playmakers.

Two very fine musical volumes are "More Mellons" by R. Emmett Kennedy and "Singing Cowboy" by Margaret Larkin.

Conrad Aiken, our most prominent southern poet, published a long poem in experimental form, "The Coming Forth by Day of Osiris Jones." David Morton, with "A Man of Earth," Lynn Riggs with "The Iron Dish," and Lindley W. Hubbell with "The Tracing of a Portal" showed themselves to be possessed of authentic poetic spirit. Roy C. Helton's ballads and songs of Kentucky, "Lonesome Water," are worthy of first rank. Minor poetry of promise is found in "Leceed and Other Poems," by Vaida S. Montgomery; "Green River," by James Whaler; "By Way of the Sky," by Elizabeth Warren Jones, and "The Flame in the Wind," by Margaret Steele Anderson. The many southern poems published in magazines all over the country and the continued existence of numerous southern poetry magazines, together with the steady interest among general readers—all these things lead us to the conclusion that 1931 has been an unusually fruitful, even if not a spectacular, poetic year.

A Sea Faring Writer

The first impression you get of William McFee is of his tremendous vitality—and that shines through in his novels. The next is of his unfailing good humor, his ability to speed an ironic shaft with a smile lighting up his eyes—and that is not always so perceptible in his writings. For he is forever berating gentleman travelers who don't get their feet wet and aspiring authors who think that a typewriter and a pound of paper are sufficient preparation for a career.

Once William McFee was a seafarin' man, a chief engineer who was on call 24 hours a day and might be routed out of his berth at any time to soil his hands with a piece of broken machinery. He had his fill of experience amid the din and clatter of engine rooms in the bowels of ships—dingy merchantmen that carried coal to Las Palmas and case oil to Kobe and sugar from Java to Boston and cotton from Boston to Liverpool. Then came the war and service in the auxiliaries of the British navy, and after that trips to the Caribbean in resplendent white steamers carrying bankers, school teachers and bananas. There was so much crude drama around him that he read deep in the pages of life and came to despise the sedentary writers who use their craft merely to acquire motors, yachts and country houses.

When William McFee is really moved by anything he turns and writes a letter to the paper. He writes some of the best controversial letters that see print. He knows no reason why an author should keep silent when a spurious book gets the big bulletins, or why pretense should be applauded. He despises authors who are ignorant of how people live, who have never been outside of drawing rooms. "I love the men and their ships," he wrote once, "I find in them a never-ending panorama which illustrates my theme, the problem of human folly."

If one observes human nature better at sea than on land, then William McFee must have started early, for he was born in 1881 at sea on the three-masted, square-rigger Erin's Isle, of which his father, John Henry McFee, was designer, builder, owner and master. His first writing was done after he broke with living in a London suburb and shipped on the Rotherfield in 1907. "Letters from an Ocean Tramp" was the result, and for this he received 25 pounds. But the publisher refused to try again and it was seven years before his next book, "Aliens," appeared. It is perhaps worth noting that it was in 1920 that the American reading public first became acquainted with Mr. Spenlove, who appeared in "Captain Macedoine's Daughter," and who is back again, as chief engineer, telling the story of Mr. McFee's new novel, "The Harbourmaster."

"The Harbourmaster," published Jan. 2, was the January selection of the Literary guild.

—HARRY HANSEN.

For the Children

Margaret Van Doren, 14-year-old daughter of Carl Van Doren, editor in chief of the Literary Guild, has made the end-paper design for the Junior Literary Guild's January selection, "Dick and Tom," a story about ponies, written by her uncle, Mark Van Doren. She has drawn rather sculpturesque horses, singly and in groups, and she says: "I had a grand time doing the end-papers for 'Dick and Tom,' and wish that I could have done it all as the end-papers took such a short time." The book itself is illustrated by George Richards.

"Dick and Tom" was inspired, more or less, by the old work horse on the Van Doren farm in Illinois, where the author spent his boyhood. After 20 years of strenuous service, the horse was retired on a pension of hay because it was feared he could not live much longer; he lived another 15 years. Mr. Van Doren points out that his sons sees more horses in New York City than they do in the country, where everybody uses motor trucks, and they prefer stories about horses to stories about any other kind of animal. "Dick and Tom" is published by the Macmillan company for children of 6, 7 and 8 years.

One of the most important books of the winter, published by the John Day company as an adult title is "Old Man Coyote" by Frank B. Linderman, select as the Junior Guild's choice for its intermediate members. Mr. Linderman's book has been as widely acclaimed as one of his previous books, "American." Herbert Morton Stoops has made many drawings of Indian life for "Old Man Coyote." For many years Mr. Linderman has been the intimate friend of the Northwestern tribes. He took the Crow legends straight from the lips of the native story tellers and added his own sure instinct for selection, his skill in bringing into English prose the color and beauty of the Indian tongue and his devotion to the pattern of Indian thought.

Mr. Linderman says of his book: "All the Indians of the Northwestern plains and mountains have tribal tales which have been preserved by word of mouth through generation after generation. Old men tell them beside their lodge fires in the winter time when the nights are long. The stories in "Old Man Coyote" are of the Crow Indians who live in Montana. They are written faithfully just as I got them from Cold Wind, Walks-With-the-Wolf, Short-Bull, Bird-in-the-Ground, Plain Feather and other old warriors of the tribe whom I have known for more than 40 years. The Crows are essentially a plains people. They are comely and intelligent."

The South pole figures as the background for a youthful adventure story, "South of Zero" by M. I. Ross, the choice for older boys, illustrated by John D. Whiting and published by Harper and Brothers. The young hero of the book is John Hale Meredith who stowed away in a ship which sailed from New Zealand and brought his own rations and supplies. Before long he was invited to become a member of the expedition as second-assistant dog driver, head puppy trainer, aide to the meteorologist and chief of the rescue crew. In exercising the last named of his responsibilities, Jack entered into many thrilling and courageous expeditions in the icy wilderness of the antarctic.

Caroline Dale Snedeker, whose great grandfather, Robert Dale Owen, founded the community of New Harmony, Ind., "not for livelihood or gain but for and upon an ideal," has written a romance about the midwestern Utopia, "the town of the Fearless," which the Junior Guild has selected for its older girls' group. It was Richard Owen's dream to make New Harmony a social experiment and Mrs. Snedeker presents the history of the town and its inhabitants gracefully and sympathetically. An earlier book, "The Beckoning Road," also with New Harmony as the background, was one of the earliest selections of the Junior Literary Guild. "The Town of the Fearless," like "The Beckoning Road," was illustrated by Manning de V. Lee. The book is published by Doubleday Doran & Co.

The BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

To set down a list of the "best books" of the year is to display one's self as an ass. The most that can be done is to recite one's own preferences; and since 1931 brought a lot of excellent books, even that job isn't easy.

The 10 books named here are the ones I enjoyed most; the ones that seem to me the most fully to deserve keeping and rereading from time to time. Probably no other mortal on earth would choose the same 10; probably some of these books will be forgotten forever in another 12 months. Any way, here's my selection, and you may make of it what you will.

First of all, by a wide margin, is Lincoln Steffens' "Autobiography." To me this is the best book, not only of 1931, but of 1930 and 1929 as well. The veteran "muckraker's" story of his life is a liberal education. It will tell you more about your country than a dozen histories, and tell it more truthfully. Here is a man who has worked his way through disillusionment, past cynicism, to a tolerant wisdom that is like a great tonic. If you missed this book during the year, go and get it at once.

The list also must include "The Road Back," by Erich Maria Remarque. This novel of the German army's return to a war-smitten, revolution-torn land is a worthy successor to the famous "All Quiet." Both as a novel and as a study of German life in the years following the armistice it is an exceptionally fine book.

"The Epic of America," by James Truslow Adams, also deserves inclusion. Here is American history as it ought to be written; not a mere record of events, but a survey of the growth of that vision of a better life which has always, seen or unseen, motivated the profoundest currents in American life.

Then there is "Mary Lee," by Geoffrey Dennis; an imperfect but powerful novel in the old tradition about a girl who grew up in a gloomy, abnormal household in England a century ago. It goes back to the Dickens school—if there is such a thing—and it's a book you'll not soon forget once you have read it.

Stuart Chase's "Mexico" is another exceptional book. In his study of life below the Rio Grande Mr. Chase not only makes Mexico comprehensible; he contrives a subtle and penetrating criticism of the major weaknesses of life in the United States.

"The Everlasting Struggle," by Johan Bojer, is worth keeping, too. It is a tragic story of life in a poverty-stricken Scandinavian fishing village, told with a sympathy and an understanding that somehow make it hopeful and reassuring.

One of the best of the year's biographies seemed to me to be "Clarence Darrow," by Charles Yale Harrison. Mr. Harrison has quoted liberally from Mr. Darrow's speeches, and has made his biography an account of the development of liberalism in this country during the past half century.

Another book worth rereading is "Only Yesterday," by Frederick Lewis Allen. This objective account of American life from the armistice to the stock market crash is as good a summing up of those hectic years as you could wish. Its account of the oil scandals is exceptionally good.

"Society at War," by Caroline E. Playne, is a very devastating survey of the way in which a modern nation systematically poisons its intellect in war-time. It will give you a lot of light on some of the most disturbing phases of the whole war period.

Last of all I am going to include "The Lady Who Came to Stay," by R. E. Spencer. Here is a ghost story without shudders; a delicate and skillfully-handled story of a child's adventures on the borderland of the unseen world that assails your heart strings precisely as Kipling's "They" assails them.

And there's my list. It fails to mention a number of the most talked-of books of the year; it includes some that many people, probably, couldn't be hired to read twice. I can't help it. As far as I'm concerned, those books are the best of the year's crop of reading matter.

I'd like to make a supplementary list, if I had space. It would include, for instance, "The Ring of the Lowenskolds," by Selma Lagerlof; "Wellington," by Philip Guedalla; "Fiddlers' Green," by Albert R. Wetjen; "The Colonel's Daughter," by Richard Aldington; "The Cross of Carl," by Walter Owen; "All Ye People," by Merle Colby, and "Men of Art," by Thomas Craven. All of those books seemed to me to be better than average—some of them much better.

At any rate, 1931 brought a lot of good books. Maybe none of them will be alive 75 years from now—but then, you and I won't be either.

ERNEST HUTCHESON TO GIVE CONCERT RECITAL ON PIANO

Ernest Hutcheson, internationally known concert pianist who has become a favorite with nation-wide radio audiences through his weekly concerts, will feature a solo presentation of three short program pieces during his recital on Sunday, Jan. 10, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network. The first will be a delicate and imaginative work, "Fairy Tale," by Medtner, a German-Russian modern pianist and composer; the second, a descriptive piece, "At the Convent," by the brilliant composer, Borodin; and the last, the ever-popular and stirring "Prelude in G Minor," by Rachmaninoff.

Accompanied by the Columbia Concert orchestra, Hutcheson will open the program playing the second movement from Tschaikowsky's "Concerto in B Flat Minor." This excerpt from the writings of the Russian composer has been chosen because it so admirably illustrates his gift for melodic invention and orchestral color.

The closing offering will be an interpretation by Hutcheson and the "Orchestra of the Concerto in D Minor" by Rubenstein.

RADIO BROADCAST OF METROPOLITAN OPERA IS SUCCESS

Radio is in the Metropolitan Opera House to stay. During the holidays three operas, representing widely separated schools of musical technique, were broadcast by the National Broadcasting company, and thousands of letters from radio listeners and musical authorities testified to their artistic success.

But behind the voices of the singers and Deems Taylor's running account of the stage action, stands a little group of unsung men who made the broadcasts possible—the engineers and technicians of NBC.

Chief credit for the engineering achievement goes to O. B. Hanson, manager of plant operation and engineering for NBC, and Gerard Chatfield, technical art director. Between them they drew the plans and arranged for the installation of the equipment which convinced Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the opera company, and his assistant, Edward Siegler, that Metropolitan Opera could be faithfully and accurately transported over the air.

A Bizarre, Fascinating Country

MALAISIE, by Henri Fauconnier, the Goncourt prize winner of 1930. Translated by Eric Sutton and issued by the Macmillan company in 1931, $2.00.

From the time one opens the beautiful piece of work put out by the Macmillan company with is suggestion of the South Seas on the jacket and the bizarre lining and fly leaves, he is intrigued by a piece of work of quite fresh interest.

Henri Fauconnier, unknown as a writer before this book won the Goncourt prize, knows whereof he speaks; for 15 years he was a rubber planter in Malay. We cannot help but feel that we see his characters through his own eyes for never was a more vivid tale told in the first person.

Lescale, the planter who tells the story, is delightfully human. From the moment in which with him, we experience that armistice anniversary celebrated in Kuala Paya by a two-minute silence and a two days' orgie, we follow his days with keen interest. We feel the immensity of that mountain jungle almost ready to swallow Rolain's plantation, and realise that "a few years of neglect and the jungle would confiscate the stock in trade of man."

There's the lure of mystery in every page and there's a knowledge we'd have never acquired, save through Lescale, of tri-colored squirrels and troops of monkeys and hunting panthers and sweet-toothed tapirs. One hears the clatter of the cocksure yellow-hammer "who thinks any absurdity can be proved if it is only repeated ten times over"; one learns of black and white merles that look like little magpies, and great hornbills, and one will feel forever the arabesque of a voice traced by the Tet-te-goh, the bird of morning and evening twilight—so happy that he must sing in the only time in which he may hunt.

People of Malaisie

There's Joseph, the half caste bookkeeper, always in a "misery" and telling it natively; there are the Malays with their faith that life is long—so why hurry? Malays with three soul coatings, "animism, Hinduism and Islam." Because of Allah being very merciful, they remind him of it daily. There is Ha-Hek, for a time the Chinese cook, with his moon-faced smile compounded of servility, astuteness and contempt. He fed his master on pork, being wise enough to know that no good Moslem police would touch the pork in which he smuggled home his opium. There is the Englishman, Potter, with his conviction that "the government is always blocking the traffic." There is Palanial, most engaging little courtesan whose pretty sex and unfathomable faithfulness in love to her husband, intrigues Lescale.

The reader finds a real philosophy in this tropical country, where winter has a thermometer standing at 90 degrees, and where Malays, Tamils, Chinese, English and French fill the stage.

"As soon as fighting begins, justice yields to patriotism," says the young Frenchman, given to statements of his opinions which at one time were subdued by Rolain's "A fit of hysteria is not an opinion." "That I might hear" is the thought suggested by the elder Frenchman's idea that Wagner must have been transported in spirit to the Malay mountains before he wrote "Forest Murmurs," as there he would only have to copy what he heard—only to note the pattern of bird-song against the vibration of the cicadas. Even cadences of names fall their music in a land that is all music and mystery; around which the seas are deep purple and jade green.

Then—when absorbed with the beauty of Fauconnier's story, comes tragedy. He writes "If dream sets the course of life, literature awakes the dream," and "Fate is stronger than the human will."

The kris that rusted when it was thirsty for blood led Smail, after he had been possessed by devils by Malay tradition and fed with quinine, by his master's wisdom, into the cry of "Amok" that brought about the end.

The book is one of rare beauty. Only reading can give the sense of its pagan magnificence and human philosophy. —L. N. C.

With the Magazines

By L. N. C.

The January 9 Saturday Evening Post is worth its price to a frivolous mind because of the cartoon of the small boy who played Indian with the plumber and the tale of the Bullfinch anniversary. Sportsmen will find zest in C. B. Ruggles' Yukon story, "Neighboring With Wolves," while it is food for real thought that, according to Mr. Marcosson, "if a deluge should again inundate this world, sparing only Brazil and the United States, the two countries could still carry on their lives and industries with one supplementing the other.

We heard a studious man say the other day that "A Search for the Centre," by Charles Beard in the January Scribners, should be read by every thinking American, so we started out to read it. Dr. Beard defines the historic scheme of ethics as that of "Absolutism" and "Ethical Naturalism or Relativity," and condemns both as "closed schemes of thought." Then he urges finding an ethical system that offers the least strain to credulity. And at this point our mind quit on us; we left the article to "thinking Americans," and drifted back to the theory of relativity, which was easiest to consider.

Faulkner of Mississippi, by Marshall Smith, is the title of a story in the January Bookman. The writer visits Faulkner in his Mississippi home; the 34-year-old author of "Sanctuary" and "Sound and Fury," neither of which we have read, was found bottling home brew. From what we learn of his stories (which we intend to read when some publisher sends one in), they are in line with this bottling. Mr. Faulkner is from his pictures, a good looking young fellow; from his utterances, he appears thick-skinned—cynical. We have just learned he is grandson to that William Faulkner who wrote "The White Rose of Memphis," a novel that certainly depicted the Victorian triumph of virtue over evil. This William Faulkner—one the participants in the late war, tells of a decadent people—using his neighbors as his models. We wish we knew what our old Mississippi friends think of him.

Hilaire Belloc, being one of our favorites, we read all we find concerning him. He has written some 70 or 80 books, three during the past year, we read in the Bookman. "A Conversation With a Cat" is the type of his story which we enjoy. In it, a writer tells us, the story is told of "The Death of the Ship," that ship being the scene of "The Cruise of the Nona,"—one of the most delightful tales we ever read. For that and "The Path to Rome," the name of Hilaire Belloc is dear to us.

There is in our esteem, real commonsense in at least one of the statements in the January American Mercury—though we have not grown quite bitter enough over our country's state to sympathize always with the acid editor. In "What Is Going on in the World," he says "In 1910, most Americans of tender mind thought of them (the French) as a race of Galahads and multitudes of English men took the same view, but today, as Marshal Petain was lately complaining, they are generally put down as little better than a gang of international banditti."

We leave to other more tender mercies that "Our Backs Are to the Wall," by Oswald Spengler in the same issue. Never yet was such a misanthrope. He is an orator of doom. "Only dreamers," he writes, "Believe that there is a way out. Optimism is cowardice—" We are quite content to be cowards.

Some months ago we received the first book issued by the new partnership of Ray Long and Richard R. Smith, by one Harry Harrison Kroll—"The Cabin in the Cotton," which we reviewed unkindly. The story was laid in the Mississippi delta in that land lying between Memphis, Tenn., and Clarksdale, Miss.—which we knew and loved—and it was untrue in every sense. So to find Mr. Kroll lampooned under Tennessee in the American Mercury Americana, was balm to our souls.

Edgar Lee Masters writes "A Democrat Looks at His Party," in the American Mercury. He states, "Taft flouted the idea of the virgin birth and yet a Christian electorate lifted him over Bryan who accepted that doctrine with the heart of a little child." His article is pleasantly readable. "If the Democratic party could get back its primal vision and destroy the Republican party, a new America would rise," he says, "a world power which would be a leader and not a driver."

The January Review of Reviews has an article by Keith Henney on the coming of television; the great impression made on our mind was that television to any great extent is delayed because the ether space is all in use. We have a confused sort of idea that there's too much traffic in the navigable currents of the air.

In the same magazine, "Man and the Machine," by Myron C. Taylor, is a splendid defense of machinery. Mr. Taylor uses illuminating statistics to prove his argument.

British Peer to Give Broadcast Across Atlantic

Sir William Henry Beveridge, director of the London School of Economics, and one of the foremost economic advisers of British governments since the beginning of the war, will be heard in the international broadcast from London through the WABC-Columbia network at 11:30 a. m., central standard time, Jan. 10, speaking on "The Economic Outlook for 1932."

Born in India and educated at Oxford, Beveridge is an attorney, although he has been occupied most of his life with other than legal activities. For two years he was an editorial writer on the London Morning Post, a position which he left to become chairman of the unemployment exchanges committee. For eight years he was a member of the board of trade as director of labor exchanges, and during the war he took several important offices in emergency ministries, such as munitions and food.

One of his earlier publications on economic subjects, "A Problem of Industry," first issued in 1909, has been recently revised, and he is noted for far-seeing and well-informed articles in various economic publications.

GABRILOWITSCH LEADER NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, equally celebrated as piano soloist and as conductor of the Detroit Symphony, will wield the baton when the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra broadcasts through the WABC-Columbia network between 2 and 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Jan. 10, from the Metropolitan Opera house.

Third of the guest conductors engaged to lead America's oldest symphonic organization during the interim between Toscanini's departure for Europe, owing to trouble with his arm, and Bruno Walter's arrival, Gabrilowitsch has been widely known in America for more than 30 years. From 1900 to 1914 he made wide concert tours as a pianist, and in 1909 he married Clara Clemens, daughter of Mark Twain.

8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

No one who makes it a rule to attend the annual meetings of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce could fail to observe how unfailingly they engender a new faith and a new courage in those who participate. It never seems to matter how tough the preceding year has been or how devoid of encouraging features the new year seems to be. Whatever the retrospect or the prospect, the citizenship invariably finds, in the annual meeting, the inspiration and the stimulus that the civic spirit needs. We have been told that the local organization is exceptional in this respect. We doubt if any other city has developed to such a degree the knack of rallying its forces at the dawn of the year. There is something almost pentecostal in the atmosphere of such occasions.

Friday night's meeting saw no departure from the tradition. It was all that such an occasion ought to be. The size and the spirit of the crowd held out the promise that the slogan for 1932 will be no idle one, that Wichita Falls is ready to MAKE this a better year.

During the next few days the membership campaign will be in progress. It affords the first opportunity for the manifestation of the decision voiced Friday night. The organization is faced by many challenging tasks this year, tasks that are vital to our city's future. The campaign is deserving of the last ounce of support that the citizenship can give it.

If this is going to be a good year for anybody, it is for those who do their utmost to help themselves. Full and hearty support of the chamber of commerce is the best means to self-help, for Wichita Falls.

THE AVERAGE AMERICAN AND THESE TIMES

America has been finding out some things about itself, these past two years, that furnish much food for thought for philosophers. Nobody has said or written much about these things, because of the difficulty of getting the true perspective upon them, but every now and then you may read or hear some expression of wonder that, in the midst of all the suffering that people have known, there has been so little crying out. Some voices have been raised, it is true, but mostly they have been the voices of politicians and professional agitators.

When the full story of this depression has been written, we hope its author is one who had the insight to see and to appraise the spirit of the great majority of those who have tasted the full bitterness of these times and yet did not flinch or cry aloud. There is a theme there that awaits a master to play upon it.

The other day, in one of the local schools, a member of the parent-teacher association was puzzled by the fact that a child seemed under-nourished although it apparently brought a lunch to school each day. The package that the child had brought was quietly opened; it contained pieces of wood, wads of paper, wrapped up to resemble a lunch. Rather than become an object of pity, or of the unthinking scorn of its playmates, the child had faked a lunch—and gone hungry.

Up at Amarillo a man refused to let a welfare organization deliver the supplies which it had been told his family needed. He sent the workers elsewhere. Next day he went to the welfare headquarters to protest against being considered an object of charity—and fainted, from hunger, in the very midst of his expression of resentment.

Incidents such as these two illustrate the spirit that animates many of those who are feeling the pinch. These two happened to get into the newspapers. Who doubts that there are thousands of others, equally pathetic and equally splendid, that could be told if some observer had the gift of invisible omnipresence?

One might discover much on the other side of the canvas, much of selfishness and cowardice and meanness, but there is far more to be seen that is fine.

In the New York Times Magazine of last Sunday, Anne O'Hare McCormick wrote of that mysterious individual, the average American, and how he is standing the gaff in times like these. She had just made a coast-to-coast trip when she wrote it. She found that, in spite of everything, the average American was still carrying on, and trying to laugh at his own troubles. She wrote:

I refer, of course, not to the prominent citizen but to the little fellow—the small manufacturer, the independent merchant, the farmer, the country doctor, the school teacher in a bankrupt city, the mechanic, the corner grocer, the mother keeping the children in school on next to nothing.

Maybe this American is not the brains of the country, wherever they are. He understands little of the world-wrecking transfer system of international bankers or the spreading spider web of big holding companies. His ideas on planned economy are desperately personal. But he is just as confused as if he were an expert on these intricate matters. He has the haziest notions of the epoch-making changes in which he is involved. For the most part he is looking backward rather than forward. You'd be surprised to know how many millions in this progressive nation are homesick for the past.

If there is a hero of this hour, however, it is he.

If the country weathers crises, it is because he keeps his head and holds on. For two years he waited, hoped, temporized, refused to believe that conditions would not better themselves. He was like a passenger in a ship keeled over by a big wave who holds his breath until another big wave restores the balance. Now for the first time he realizes that he belongs to the crew.

All over the country you feel the stirrings of that rising spirit which means the recognition of an emergency.

"If there is a hero in this hour, it is he." A child in Wichita Falls camouflaging a package of nothing to hide its distress. A father in Amarillo collapsing from hunger rather than admit he needed help. And the thousands and thousands of others of like courage whose stories have not found their way into print. These are writing an epic that awaits its Homer.

When the story of these times is written fully, we shall know much more than we do now, of the soul of America.

Soviets have invited unemployed engineers to come to Russia for jobs. Probably will put them to work on the steppes.

Auditing Our Illiteracy

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

My morning mail brings me a letter from a reader asking me to state the scope of the problem of illiteracy in the United States.

I am glad to do this because I consider the conquest of poverty and illiteracy as important to the economic stabilization and enrichment of the nation.

Some later day I shall speak in detail of the importance of the conquest of illiteracy to national economic welfare. Today I shall simply present the facts of the problem. I give below the number of illiterates state by state:

This list might look more staggering if to it were added the record of the political, social, and economic illiteracy of the nation.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16:13.

Ever keep thy promise, cost what it may; this is to be "true as steel."—Charles Reade.

Hopes

We Democrats know we're going to win,
There's no doubt or dejection,
It's the same state of mind we're always in,
Ten months before election.

But if it weren't for the hopes the party has, in between election days, there wouldn't be any party.

The Japs have apologized for beating up an American consul and promised not to do it any more, but they made it all sound as if they thought the consul was trying to hurt the Jap soldier's fist by hitting his face against it.

Carrying It Too Far

Borah would cut the senators' pay,
And they're not much pleased
thereat,
They know it's a tough depression,
they say,
But not tough enough for that.

But if Mr. Ritchie had any real regard for the public, he wouldn't blurt right out and startle it the way he did.

Rules

There was a distressing little item in the paper the other day about a woman up in New Jersey who sat down and wrote out 47 rules for her husband to observe. It was distressing in that, if she had gotten by with it, other wives might have adopted the same plan. Its possibilities were disturbing.

However, the husband, instead of agreeing to abide by the rules, sued for divorce, and the judge promptly gave it to him. The dispatches didn't say so, but the judge probably was a married man himself.

The rules got into the papers and we read them. We can't remember more than a few of them, but we do recall that they covered the ground. They were comprehensive and explicit. They dealt with such matters as table manners, money, references to wife's relatives, amusements, putting bedroom slippers away, and all that. It would have been a most unhappy thing if the rules had been judicially upheld.

Not that there shouldn't be rules for the guidance of married couples. We have often thought that the matrimonial craft might be steered more safely and pleasantly, if all the questions that arise were settled in black and white. Once or twice, in our idle moments, we have done some work along that line, with the idea of working up a suitable code of such rules and publishing it. While we have never gone into the task in a big way, we have made some progress. Our code, of course, will not be a one-sided one; it will be for the guidance of both husband and wife.

Rule No. 1

What has delayed us in the task is the fact that we set down the first rule, and then couldn't think of any others. We were so impressed with the rightness and wholesomeness of rule No. 1 that we just about decided not to try to add any more, because this rule, it seems to us, is sufficient, if properly enforced. Here it is:

"Neither shall engage in conversation when it is his or her turn to be listening."

The more we ponder that one rule, the prouder we are of it. It is so derned comprehensive. It takes in so much territory. It covers so many situations. It sums up so much of the philosophy of marital happiness.

We realize, however, that it doesn't suffice, just by itself. It requires some amplification and emendation. There must be an accepted way of determining when it is his turn to listen and when it is hers. We are working on that phase of the subject and just as soon as we finish, we shall give our readers the benefit of our labors.

Another Item

There was another item in the papers recently that caused us some distress. It had to do with next summer's styles in bathing suits for women. The proper outfit at the pool and the beach this year, it seems, is to be a brassiere and a pair of shorts.

The item that told about it said this new style promised to be very chic. That sounds like the right word to use. In some respects it hardly seems an adequate word, but probably it is the best to use, everything considered.

What distresses us about it is that we like to go swimming in warm weather, that we go every day if possible and that when we do go, we want to swim. The exercise is both healthful and enjoyable, and we go in for it strong when the weather permits. And we are mightily afraid that when we journey to the pool next summer, and somebody is there with one of those chic, parted-in-the-middle bathing outfits on, we are not going to do any swimming that day. We do not know what we would do, but we just can't believe we could do much swimming. We might rush blushingly back to the car and hide our face in the cushions, or something like that, but we doubt if we would swim.

The Philosophical Viewpoint

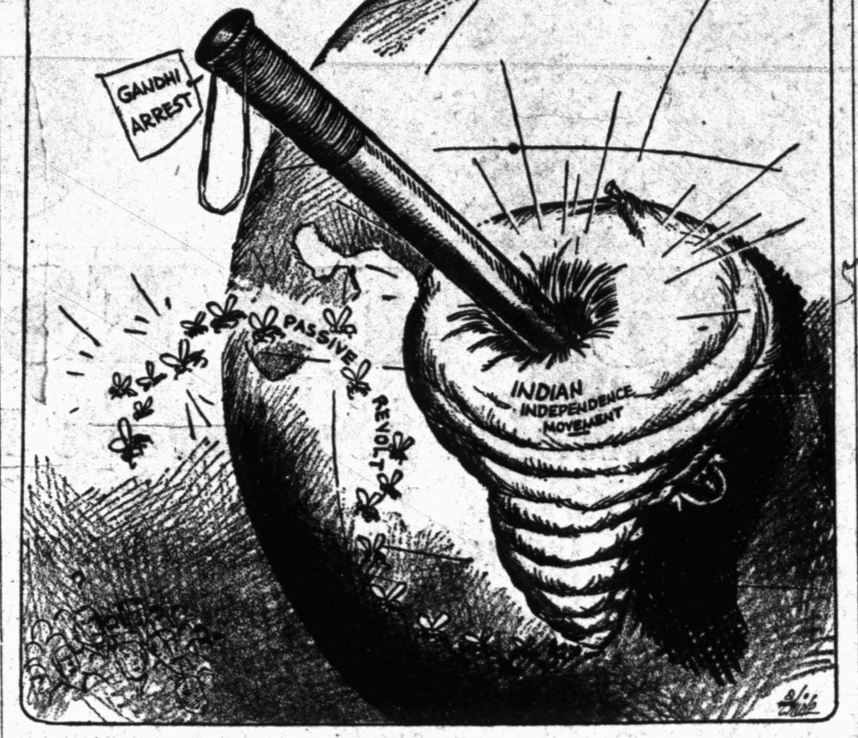

Still and all, we would try to deal philosophically with the matter. It would help us, in that respect, to recall some earlier experiences. When we first started going to places where folks wore bathing suits, women appeared in outfits that looked like Mother Hubbards that had started out to be overalls. Time went by, and the costume became less cumbersome. Some more time went by, and it became still less cumbersome.

Each successive change has been something of a shock to us. We don't recall just now exactly how much of a shock it was; we do recall that after recovering, we kept right on going in swimming. Our love of the water would triumph over other things, and in due time we would be enjoying it as much as ever.

Perhaps the philosophy that inured us to the previous changes will sustain us next summer. We shall try it out, hoping for the best. But we can't make any promises of what our attitude will be if there is still a farther swing away from cumbersomeness and toward chicness. We doubt if our philosophy would be equal to the next logical move, along that line.

If this country only had optimism in proportion to the number of optimists!

A Hornet's Nest

IN NEW YORK
with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—While J. Pierpont Morgan possesses invaluable treasures from every section of the globe and while his museums bulge with the world's rarest objects, I am told that the internationally famed Croesus gets his greatest personal enjoyment out of two possessions.

First—the Morgan collection of books includes the original manuscript of Dickens' "Christmas Carol." One hears that, when the yule season approaches, the great financier rings for one of his librarians and asks that the most famous of Christmas tales be produced. Then he sits back to read, preparatory to his holiday pilgrimage to Glen Cove for a visit with his grandchildren.

And that is No. 2 on his holiday schedule.

For not only is there the relaxation of companionship with the youngsters, but also on this Long Island estate are his beloved tamarack and tamarisk trees. Few trees are more closely associated with the background of the Holy Land—a check on the Bible will reveal reference to both the tamarisk and tamarack, and Morgan has fine specimens of both. The tamarisk is indigenous to the African and Arabian desert, growing in the Holy Land and on Mount Sinai.

On the other side of the holiday season picture are the long lines of hungry men to be seen waiting hour upon hour for the food that is invariably plentiful in a dozen sections of New York.

New York City provides a huge pier, where thousands can be served at a single sitting.

One day recently, 10,000 men stood in line waiting for this gesture of municipal charity.

Now 10,000 persons can appear to make up about the largest crowd one has ever seen, particularly when they are strung out along the streets in files of two or three.

Going about the seemingly endless line, asking questions here and there, I learned that most of them had but recently drifted into New York. They had come from Iowa and Kansas and Dakota and Minnesota and elsewhere. Most of them were from small towns.

"Why did you leave? Did you hear that there was work for you in New York?" I asked.

In almost every instance the answer was: "No, not particularly. But the word has gone out that if you can't get work, New York is more generous to the poor than any other town in the States."

Just a big, hard-boiled town—this Manhattan!

And, oh yes, if you'll forgive one final comment on the recent Christmas season: Louis Liebes is the gent who provides the big town with most of its Santas.

They are hired, not to appear in stores or at parties, but to make personal deliveries of presents intended for children. They get $5 a day. Liebes started the idea himself, and still sets forth in the well known costume. But it grew to such an extent that he had to take on a staff of assistants.

Health and Diet Advice

Flaming Youth vs. Smoldering Age

Parents have always been willing to blame the incorrigible characteristics in their children on some inherited influence—always from the other side of the family tree. Science now believes that "bad" boys are developed by the environment and training after birth. They are only badly trained. It is the undernourished, undersized, unhealthy children who form the potenetial criminals and social delinquents.

Children are never good children when they are suffering from enlarged tonsils, adenoids, bronchitis, colds, catarrh or any one of the multitude of other disorders to which children are subject. There is no doubt that these are the usual cases of many mental and moral defectives. As soon as the child has been cured of these definite physical defects, there is an immediate improvement in his mental and moral attitude. This has taken place without an exception in every case of this type that I have had under my supervision.

The responsibility for the growing child lies with the parents, who should make a thorough study of child training and diet. Some of the cases where the children are supposed to be incorrigible only indicate that a child has a will of its own. This is a good quality which should really be encouraged. Parents often make the mistake of trying to force children into being miniature examples of themselves.

It seems to me that most of the criticism of the youth of today arises out of a kind of an envy. Intelligence tests taken with a great number of people show that the average adult only equals the mentality of the average child of 14 years. There is no question that the children of today, who are properly educated, are much more advanced than the children of the same age of a generation ago.

The motion picture, radio, newspapers and magazines are building such a different concept of life that it is almost impossible for middle-aged parents to understand the new viewpoint. Children are not being as repressed emotionally now as they were at the beginning of this century, which is good as there can be no question that many of the disorders of old people actually originated from these repressions.

I do not believe that any good results will come from the efforts of the so-called "reformer" who attempts to suppress true facts about life. If these facts are introduced truthfully and naturally from infancy, there is very little tendency toward morbidity.

We know that the problems of the emotions cannot be lightly cast aside, nor puffed out by the mere breath of the censor. The child must be properly and correctly educated if he is to forge a place for himself in this world of opportunity. A plentiful supply of wholesome food, exercise, responsibility and a useful trade are of far more value for keeping a child straight than is punishment.

Children who are trained to help others do not become criminals. It is a well recognized fact that boy scouts, for instance, rarely if ever become members of criminal gangs.

A child's waking hours should be balanced between play and helpful recreation. A vigorous participation in competitive games is the best preventive against morbid thinking or vicious practices.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rheumatic Heart

Question—Mrs. J. writes: "I have a boy 12 years old who is very delicate and complains of pains in his legs and walks stiffly. Now he has heart trouble. The doctor says he has a rheumatic heart. How could this be if he has never had rheumatism?"

Answer—Pains in the bones and legs of children are often an indication of rheumatism and may be unrecognized as such as parents often dismiss the symptom by saying they are just growing pains. Probably the heart became affected because of the existence of rheumatic trouble for some time. Send me your full name and address and a stamped envelope and I will be pleased to send you my article on rheumatism, which should be helpful in arranging the home treatment of your little boy.

Potatoes With Meals

Question—Y. N. asks: "Is it all right to serve potatoes with every meal like so many people do?"

Answer—Potatoes are the least starchy of all the so-called starchy vegetables, and may be used with a protein meal with less harm than that caused by the indiscriminate use of other starches. Still, an ideal protein meal would exclude potatoes. The best way to use potatoes is to make them with the skins on and use them as the principal part of a meal, combining with them some of the cooked and raw greens.

Wen

Question—Mr. S. writes: "I have a wen on the left side of the neck just back of the ear. How can I get rid of it?"

Answer—It will probably be necessary for you to have the wen removed by a plastic surgeon. The operation is quite harmless and should leave only a small scar.

Twenty Years Ago Today

From Files Wichita Times

Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1912

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Democratic national convention will be held at Baltimore on June 25, just one week after the Republican national convention, which convenes at Chicago on June 18.

Mrs. Ada Scott of Fort Worth is here as the guest of her brother, T. E. Roberts, on Burnett street, for a few days.

Prof. Ernest Katz, accompanied by his orchestra, left this afternoon for Quanah, where they will furnish the music for a dance to be given at that place tonight.

FOOD PRESERVING INTEREST GROWS IN KNOX COUNTY

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 9.—With food preservation records for all previous years in Knox county broken during 1931, the next year is virtually certain to see an even greater practice of the live-at-home theory, according to the declaration of Miss Grace Nelson, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Nelson has completed her 1931 report showing that approximately three times as much foodstuff was either canned or cured in accordance with home demonstration methods during 1931 than was the case in 1930. Foods preserved during 1931 were valued at $31,063 as compared with $12,568 in 1930, her report shows, in spite of the fact that values of individual items were reduced in reaching the 1931 total.

The next year, Miss Nelson predicted, will see several hundred more gardens planted than ever before, with the objective of supplying fruits and vegetables to be used fresh or to be preserved. The quantity of meat preserved by canning and curing likewise is likely to be far greater than ever before, she said.

One new club was organized during 1931, the membership in home demonstration clubs increased from 114 to 180, 60 new pressure cookers and 48 new sealers were purchased by demonstration cooperators, and more than 500 women who are not club members were assisted at various demonstrations in carrying out a food preservation program.

Speaking of the Weather—

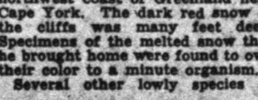

by Charles Fitzhugh Talman of the U.S. Weather Bureau

WRITTEN EXCLUSIVELY FOR NEA SERVICE

The discovery of red snow is reported from time to time and is a subject of unfailing popular interest. Such snow occurs chiefly in the polar regions and among the snowfields of high mountains, though it has been observed occasionally at low levels.

De Saussure, in the 18th century, described its occurrence in the Alps. In 1818 Sir John Ross discovered the Crimson cliffs on the northwest coast of Greenland near Cape York. The dark red snow of the cliffs was many feet deep. Specimens of the melted snow that he brought home were found to owe their color to a minute organism.

Several other lowly species of plant and animal life impart to snow different shades of red, as well as green and yellow. Broad stretches of yellow snow were found on the ice of the Kara sea by the arctic expedition of the Duc d'Orleans; green and blue varieties have been encountered elsewhere.

Snow colored by dust is another story. Showers of reddish dust, to which southern Europe is much subject, are blown from the Sahara, and explain some cases of red snow in the Alps.

Patches of red snow sometimes occur in the mountains of Washington and Oregon. In July, 1911, vast fields of it were found in the Yosemite National park. The snow looked as if carmine ink had been spilled over it. Elsewhere in the same region a white snowfield was reddened, as if with blood, wherever the hoofs of the pack mules broke through the crust.

Apart from the various coloring organisms, snow is known to have extensive flora and fauna. Among its most remarkable inhabitants are the so-called "s..ow worms" that are sometimes strewn by the millions over the snowfields and glaciers of high mountain regions.

They dislike warm sunshine and burrow deep in the snow in the middle of the day. Tiny insects known as springtails may be seen—by anybody who looks closely for them—on the surface of melting snowfields in any part of the northern United States.

Tomorrow: Farmers' almanacs and the weather.

SOCIETY

Blue Curtain Club to Show Clever Comedy

"Kempie," a three-act comedy by Nugent, will be the vehicle for the Blue Curtain club of the Junior college when the clever play is presented at the school Thursday evening, Jan. 14. Miss Juanita Kinsey, head of the high school and Junior college public speaking department, is directing the production. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the inter-collegiate and inter-scholastic meet.

Names that have guaranteed success in other productions of the Blue Curtain players are included in the cast of "Kempie," which with its vivid comedy, human interest and clever lines, will keep the audience keenly interested.

The play might be called a modern comedy of errors. Kate and Ruth Bence, second and third daughters of Dad and Ma Bence, are quite different characters as are Duke Merrill and Kempie James, the two men who play leading parts in their lives. Duke Merrill plays his card so that he wins in the long run, but the audience has many a breathless moment.

Jane Wade is the oldest daughter, quite satisfied with her marriage to the rising young real estate man, Ben Wade, and with the "city frocks" with which she won him. Dad and Ma Bence are sterling characters with all the old fashioned foibles of a past generation which their modern daughters are striving to forget.

The cast includes Bryant Creighton as Dad Bence; Billie Leslie Stinson as Ma Bence; Kay Cason as Jane Wade; Cecelia Terrill as Kate Bence; Charlotte Joiner as Ruth Bence; Jerome Allen as Ben Wade; Fred Barron as Duke Merrill and Wilmont Hunt as Kempie James.

Members of the Blue Curtain club and the high school and Junior college P.-T. A. are in charge of the tickets which are on sale.

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

SOME folks hunt for big game for excitement. Others dig among ruins for prehistoric relics. But it remained for a Wichita Falls woman to do the unusual, go fishing last summer while on her vacation at her cabin among the Ozark hills in Northeast Oklahoma, and instead of catching fish, write a brilliant collection of feature stories. They are about the Cherokee Indians who live in that section of the country, their customs, and delightfully quaint legends. Many friends in the city of Mrs. James P. Bowen are enjoying these stories entitled "Sagas of the Spavinaw Hills," which are appearing in the Tulsa World in the Sunday magazine section, and members of the writer's department of the forum heard the inside "dope on how come them to be written, when Mrs. Bowen told them at the meeting Thursday, that her favorite sport is fishing, and that when she made her usual expedition to her cabin in the hills last summer to enjoy that sport and recreation, and the fish failed to bite, she became discouraged, and commenced to look around for some other way to spend her vacation.

HIKING around among the beautiful hills, and following the trails leading through woods and along clear blue streams, the writer found a wealth of interesting unexplored material that she had never thought of before. She thought that where there was so much beauty collected together, the lives of the people were bound to reflect some of it in one way or another, and so she proceeded to make the acquaintance of some of the natives —to make friends with them, the Cherokee Indians, said by students of Indianlore, to be the most intelligent of all the Oklahoma tribes, and from these friends, Mrs. Bowen learned that these hills, her summer rendezvous for years, abounded in quaint legends and historical characters whose lives have left an indelible imprint in the Spavinaw hills. And writing these features, was not work at all, Mrs. Bowen declares, just another form of exceedingly pleasant recreation, with the satisfied feeling of a summer well spent.

AFTER all, if we could all just see the possibilities of beauty about us, and could collect some of it as we go along, and pass it out to others, do you think we could ask for much greater talent?

Sometimes it takes awhile for one to realize that others would be interested in the things that have become ordinary to us, but once we awaken to the fact that many ordinary things in one section of the United States, is filled with interest for those in other sections, and if we will just stop long enough to gather up some of it on our way, the happiness it might give others is hard to overestimate.

TOO, girls I have been reading about, capitalized on what started out to be a hobby. The collection of folk songs. The girls, Margaret Larkin, whom Julia Blanshard writes about in NEA Service, is western born and western bred, and the other, Helen Black, a New Yorker, who lived out west, have written a new song book, "Singing Cowboy," with 42 colorful, plaintive songs of the range. "Its unusual reproductions of old pictures of the old west and its glossary, which is itself a real contribution to folk lore, took them on real adventure before they published it," the writer says.

WHEN Margaret Larkin had serious thoughts of publishing her cowboy songs, she and Helen, whom she asked to write the music for "Singing Cowboy," started west again to scour the cow country for new songs to add to hers. They spent two whole summers on the ranges, in New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and other western states. By auto, foot and horseback they trailed rumors here and there of a song they had never heard usually to find that Margaret, born and

Question Mark Emphasizes First Forum Social Event of 1932 to Be Featured Tuesday at Lunch

With the social calendar of the Woman's Forum stressing a luncheon shrouded in mystery Tuesday, and with the interesting program offered by the literature department Thursday, novelty in entertainment is offered to members of the forum and their out-of-town guests during the coming week. Mrs. Henry Crain of 2000 California street, who has been ill at the Wichita General hospital, was able to be removed to her home Saturday.

George Washington's 200th Anniversary Noted in 1932

By MRS. GROVER C. JOHNSON

Every home in the first district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, is requested in the year of 1932, when the United States of America will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, to display the American flag and a picture of Washington in the home. Every school and every public and private office is requested to do likewise and it is hoped that every club will have at least one program on some phase of George Washington's life. The Woman's Forum will feature the anniversary in the George and Martha luncheon to be given on Feb. 18.

George Washington's 200th anniversary is a momentous event in the nation and one in which women should play a major part. In his lifetime, George Washington was known as the "Defender of the Mothers," and the "Protector of the Daughters"; for this it is specially fitting that women pay him honor on this occasion.

The women of the United States have an opportunity to render a distinct patriotic service during this year, and their help is manifestly needed to see to it that this opportunity to give the entire American people a new inspiration, an added impulse in the right direction is grasped, and that the children of the coming generation shall have George Washington's true character and example so impressed upon their minds that they will grow into Americans such as he would have had them.

Surely we are convinced that by taking full advantage of this great occasion we will do more for good government and civic righteousness in our land than can be effected by any number of new laws and millions of dollars expended on their execution.

February 22 will mark the beginning of the nation-wide celebration, and Thanksgiving day, Nov. 24, will close it. It is hoped that every city and community, every home, every man, woman and child living under the Stars and Stripes will pay tribute to the man who brought this great nation into being.

We want to make Washington live anew in the hearts and minds of the American people, especially the children, so that the glory of the man may pass on from generation to generation.

Educational and spiritual values will dominate the program for the celebration. It will be different from any celebration the world has ever known. It will not be a world's fair, nor like any jubilee or centennial ever before planned. The keynote of every effort should be to depict and present Washington's super qualities in his services to the nation and to his fellowmen during each phase of his public and private life.

The nation hopes to bring the real George Washington from the too far receded past, from the toplofty pedestals of vague memory and the shadowy mists of legend, to a revivified glowing human figure of vigor and power; to help Americans visualize the man who worked, struggled, studied, suffered, sacrificed, fought, played and lived much as other people of his time and position, and yet proved himself the man of destiny to foster the infant republic into being, and by his staunch faith in its place in the scheme of world affairs, to wrest from that world at large a respectful recognition, and an immunity from attack during his lifetime.

Last, but not least, unite in a plan, in addition to all other plans, for tree planting; have a tree planted on the grounds or near every school in the United States during 1932, which shall be called the "George Washington tree."

Ten million monuments to a great man! Ten million tributes, enduring and straight growing, which will be as evergreen as is the memory of George Washington in the hearts of 120,000,000 people, receiving the fact that he is ever the "first in the hearts of his countrymen."

"WHEN we were in Las Vegas there was always some 'mighty fine singer over to Cimarron,' some cowboy there would tell us," Miss Black explained the elusive quality these folk songs have. "When we'd get to Cimarron, we'd find someone who told us that the singer we had in mind must be a man in Taos!

"THE few we did get that Margaret didn't know always were adventures. We spent two whole days hanging around headquarters at the cowboys' reunion in Las Vegas without getting a single song. Just as we were leaving the last night, an old man came up who apparently had been waiting two whole days to talk with us. 'Have you ever heard California Jo?' he asked. We hadn't, so we sat down on the running board of the car, and by the dim street light, Margaret and I outdid each other taking down 24 verses of it. Worn out, we were just thanking him and getting ready to go when he said, 'Do you know the Blacktail Range? The boys made it up in a camp I was in back in 1903. Everybody who didn't make up a verse had to cook.' So he sang it for us and we sat down again and took all of it."

SHE studied singing in college and with Sergei Radamsky in New York. She sings her cowboy songs with the same mournful zest that cowboys sing them, to the tune of her own guitar. That is why they have made such a tremendous impression everywhere she has sung them, to children, at parties, to women's clubs, to longshoremen, sailors, foreign workers. It was only when Carl Sandburg and others insisted that she make a collection for publication that she started this amazing book.

WHEN lazy glands won't open, the hair is starved and faded.
WHEN lazy glands don't close, scalp is fouled by secretions.
LAZY GLANDS
Foul the Scalp!....
If the tiny glands in your scalp are asleep look out! The consequences won't end with just dandruff! It may take a year or more for all the pore-filth to reach the surface.
Scaly scalps that make you turn away in disgust began with "just a little dandruff."
The next commonest sign of gland trouble is when the color of the hair begins to fade, or becomes streaked with gray.
There is only one thing that will ever help heads in this state of stagnation: you must stimulate the tiny glands that feed the hair and give it color. Massage will do this. Use the fingers, dipped in Danderine to cut through that hard crust and penetrate the pores—and do this daily. One treatment will settle the dandruff. One week will find your scalp as clean and wholesome as a little girl's. The second week will have the glands wide-awake and working. That is when your hair begins to live and begins to grow!
Remember, it's massage that does it. And it's Danderine that gets through to the glands. Just rubbing any old thing on the head won't stimulate lazy glands! Go get a bottle of Danderine today, and start your treatments tonight, and see what happens when lazy glands come back to life!

Class Home Economics Girls Receive National Prominence

A class of 14 girls in the home economics department of the high school and junior college of Wichita Falls, has stepped into national prominence. Their photographs and photographs of the windows they have furnished are to be used in a booklet, issued by the department of commerce, starting a national program of such work.

Mrs. Roy J. Daniel, head of the department of home economics, is directing this class in the study of house planning and furnishing as one unit of their year's work. Ivan Murchison of the firm of Freear's Furniture company has shown his interest in the future of real furniture by giving lectures to home economic classes in the local schools and in those of adjacent Oklahoma and Texas cities on quality and period in furniture and on correct room arrangement and color harmony. When he had notice in the early autumn of a book, "Furniture, Its Selection and Use," printed by the national committee on wood utilization of the United States department of commerce, he immediately ordered 200 of them, writing the department that he intended to give them to students in home economics classes and then extend them the privilege of decorating two of Freear's show windows.

Was the department of commerce interested. They answered almost immediately, expressing their interest in the plan and requesting photographs of the windows and of the members of the class who dressed them to be used by the national committee on wood utilization for a national program along the same line.

Government Catching

When the windows were not decorated quite as soon as Freear's Furniture company had stated they might be, a letter came reminding them of the plan. The national committee on wood utilization earnestly desired to give publicity to the efforts of the organization.

Meanwhile, under Mrs. Daniels' supervision, 14 girls were continuing their study of house planning and furnishing as a branch of their home economics, using the booklets given them by Mr. Murchison with other text books from the school library.

With the semester drawing near the close, they took advantage of their last period class and began on Tuesday, Jan. 5, spending that hour in Freear's store, examining and selecting furniture, draperies and every item that would make their rooms livable. They had decided on a bedroom and a living room. Mr. Murchison grouped furniture for their selection, Mrs. Daniels gave them budgets to choose from and the battle was on.

They had a picnic which alternated with thrills and disappointments. They decided to use furniture that should be chosen for its quality, beauty and its durability, according to the budget of an average income, setting the limit for the bedroom at $435 and that of the living room at $720.

Surprising Taste

A woman usually profits by the experience of furnishing several rooms to finally develop a home in good taste; rooms that are restful with furniture that is livable. These 14 girls, making themselves into a jury, took into consideration their wall background, their floors and the limit of their budget.

The bedroom would be a joy to any girl. The twin beds, dresser and desk are of the Hepplewhite period in walnut inlaid with ebony. The soft green background is relieved by the touches of orchid and luscious rose used in lamp shades and draperies, and the gray background of the axminster rug, sprinkled with flowers in an early American chintz pattern is a perfect floor covering. Books and lights and the chintz covered chair with its reading lamp complete a charming picture.

But the living room is most astonishing. Most girls have a flair for live and brilliant colors. Home economics classes have taught these girls the value of quiet rooms, and the living room with a gold background, is exquisite in soft shades of green and mulberry. Bookcases, suggestions of music, the coffee table and touches of color in occasional pieces complete a room that would never tire its occupants.

The class of girls who arranged the rooms includes Misses Maude Naylor, Delia Parker, Elaine Rogers, Lorene Smith, Audie Mae Mc-Whorter, Elva Jo Young, Myrtle Stone, Kathryn Haggard, Kathryn Green, Hazel Andrews, Eugenia Staber, Jonnie DuBose, Georgia Howle and Irene Parham.

The windows at Freear's Furniture company will be on display during the coming week and will be lighted in the evening. The two first windows on Eleventh at the corner of Lamar were arranged by Mrs. Daniels' class.

POLLYANNA CLASS HAS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Members of the Pollyanna Sunday school class of the First Baptist church celebrated the birthday of the class at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Ralph Hines Thursday evening.

During the short business session, the class was divided into working groups for the next three months.

Clever puzzle games followed and at 10 o'clock the members and their guests gathered around the dining table, which was beautifully decorated to represent a winter landscape scene, in the center of which was a handsome three-tier birthday cake, ornamented with snow birds and white roses.

After wishes were made for the year of 1932, the 11 candles, representing the 10 years of organized class work, were blown out, and the following members enjoyed delicious refreshments, served buffet style: Misses Zora Lee White, Ziddie White, Fern Kolb, Maurine Scott, Iris Gebert, Ray Holland, Allen Woodward, Marguerite Baker, Sybil Hays, Emma Zihlman, Ellen Hooker, Alyene Arnold, Hattie Stinnett, Francis Tatum, Mrs. Aleda Mae Zihlman and Mrs. Ralph Hines.

Scene from "Flying High," with Charlotte Greenwood and Bert Lahr, showing at the State theater Sunday for three days.

"Frankenstein," the man who made a monster, comes to the Majestic midnight matinee Thursday, Jan. 21, with regular run starting Friday.

'Mata Hari' Showing at Majestic 'This Reckless Age' Comes Tuesday 'Flying High' Featured at State

"Mata Hari" with Greta Garbo, Ramon Novarro, Lionel Barrymore and Lewis Stone is the attraction at the Majestic.

Not content with placing two of the screen's greatest drawing cards in the leading roles of this remarkable production, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer assigned prominent supporting parts to Lionel Barrymore, who recently won the academy award for the finest masculine performance of 1931; Lewis Stone, C. Henry Gordon, Karen Morley, Alec B. Francis, Blanche Frederici, Edmund Breese, Helen Jerome Eddy and Frank Reicher.

The story of "Mata Hari" is based on the life of the notorious dancer whose intrigues as a spy during the world war resulted in her execution by a French firing squad. This famous woman was as well known for her love affairs as for her espionage maneuvers and it is on this aspect of her life that the plot of the picture is centered. Garbo, of course, plays the dancer, while Novarro is seen as a young Russian flyer whom she betrays.

To add to your enjoyment you will see, "High School Hoofer," an act; "Beach Party," a Micky Mouse cartoon and Fox news in sound.

"This Reckless Age"

Charles "Buddy" Rogers, America's boy friend, opened up with a new, more realistic brand of acting in "The Lawyer's Secret" and "Working Girls." He is even more intriguing as the son and lover in "This Reckless Age," coming to the Majestic Tuesday for three days. Charles Ruggles, who has been a bachelor in film after film, and an amusing one at that, is a bachelor again in this picture—even more amusing, and he gets married, right before your eyes. Peggy Shannon, who was Rogers' sweetheart in "The Road to Reno," is his lady-love again in this show. Richard Bennett, distinguished stage veteran who in real life is the father of those famous Bennett girls, Constance, Barbara and Joan, portrays an indulgent dad who stakes his good reputation in the community in order to get money to help his children enjoy life. Frances Dee portrays a dance-dizzy daughter of a middle-class family who finally falls soberly in love with a substantial, wealthy bachelor and reforms to a saner, calmer woman.

In addition you will see "Mama Loves Papa," a comedy; "Little Annie Rooney," a Paramount sing song and Paramount news in sound.

"Frankkenstein" Coming

Here comes the world's most famous shocker.

Just a word of friendly warning: If you have a weak heart and cannot stand excitement or gruesomeness, Majestic management advise you not to see this production. Take his word for it, it will thrill, will shock, it may even horrify you. But if your nerves can stand electrifying drama, you will find it in "Frankkenstein," which opens Friday, Jan. 22, with midnight matinee Thursday.

"FLYING HIGH" FEATURED STATE STARTING SUNDAY

"Flying High" opens at the State Sunday, featuring the celebrated Bert Lahr co-starring with Charlotte Greenwood, a queer new kind of plane, a dumb inventor and a waitress who has a "yen" to marry an aviator are tossed together in this much talked-of attraction. The balance of the cast includes Pat O'Brien, handsome young leading man of "Front Page," and Katherine Crawford, who make up the romantic angle, and Hedda Hopper burlesquing the role of a society matron.

"Flying High" is an adaptation of the successful Broadway play by the same name, and the principal role is played by Bert Kahr, who was so enormously funny in the some role on the stage. To tell you the story would spoil your complete enjoyment when you see the picture, but you can imagine what happens, when long-legged Charlotte Greenwood sets out to get her man, and in the final struggle finds herself far above the earth in this queer aerocopter.

"Suicide Fleet"

"Suicide Fleet" starts Wednesday, featuring Bill Boyd, James Gleason, Robert Armstrong and Ginger Rogers.

"Suicide Fleet' tells a dramatic story of America's conquering the submarine menace during the world war. It dramatizes a group of sailors who were told to "get torpedoed" if necessary to find the hiding place of the U-boat.

Chapter five of the serial picture, "Red" Grange in "The Galloping Ghost" will also be on this program. Saturday for one day only the State will feature "Pocatello Kid," starring Ken Maynard.

Four great stars, a cast of notables—a story to thrill you with its tense drama of a woman who lured many men to doom, only to fall into the snare of love herself!

'The Apple Cart' Coming on Monday Shaw's Latest and Best Play With Plenty Comedy of Refreshing Kind

Of vastly more than usual interest and importance in the presentation of George Bernard Shaw's latest play, "The Apple Cart," at Memorial auditorium, Monday night.

Not only is "The Apple Cart" Shaw's latest play but it is generally conceded to be his greatest. It also marks an about-face in the aim of his barbed wit, for here the mischievous shafts, which fly thickly throughout every moment of the play, strike squarely at the highest personages of the English cabinet, although conditions in general are railed against with merciless vigor.

One of the strangest features of the piece is the attitude the famous Irish author takes toward communism, of which he has been one of the foremost proponents for more than 40 years. In "The Apple Cart" he reserves himself and takes the stand that a government cannot exist without a king.

The story has to do with British politics some 30 years hence and all the Shavian satire is brought into play in deriding present day conditions under the guise of future happiness. The inefficiency and vanity of the cabinet ministers as represented by a labor government which badgers King Magnus unmercifully, are satirized in no uncertain terms as are those leaders of industry who subsidize government officials.

"The Apple Cart" had its first showing in Warsaw, Poland, a notable tribute to Shaw as a universal dramatist. The production attracted world-wide attention. Following the presentation there the play served to open the Shaw festival at Malvern, England. It came to New York in February of last year where it was produced by the Theater Guild and became the outstanding success of the season. Big audiences paid tribute to the play and its author in Los Angeles and San Francisco last season, the only two cities on the Pacific coast to have seen the play.

"The Apple Cart" is brought here by H. C. Cheshire by special arrangement with the Theater Guild. The cast, which is headed by the eminent English actor, Boyd Irwin, is made up entirely of players well known to the London stage and carefully selected for their respective parts. The production will be an elaborate one. The costumes, stage settings and furniture have all been designed in a mode that might be imagined to be in vogue 30 years hence and will be as interesting, almost, as the idea of the play itself. A company of 20 experienced English actors and actresses of wide experience in the enactment of the Shaw drama comprises the entourage which makes up the largest dramatic show on the road this season. The company is under the national management of A. M. Oberfelder by special arrangement with the Theater Guild, Inc., of New York City.

'Dirigible' Comes To Gem Theater For Three Days

"Dirigible," enjoying the stellar services of Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, will open an engagement at the Gem theater Sunday. It is an air special with a background of human drama.

Fay Wray plays the leading feminine role and others of importance in the cast are Hobart Bosworth, Roscoe Karns and Clarence Muse.

The principal characters, Jack Bradon and "Frisky" Pierce, are played by Holt and Graves. Bradon is the commander of a huge navy dirigible and Pierce is the navy's foremost flying ace—a daredevil for whom no risk is too great. Miss Wray plays the role of Pierce's wife.

The plot swings into action when Rondelle, an English explorer, who has attempted several times to reach the south pole over the ice, conceives the idea, at a navy day celebration of making the trip by dirigible. Bradon is to pilot the expedition and Pierce is to accompany them. Helen, Pierce's wife, appeals to Bradon, who secretly loves her, to prevent Pierce's participation.

Conclusion of the story provides a thrilling climax.

Alamo Mothers Hear Talk by Lester Jones

"Visualizing how the masses were living a few years ago, living for the day and the day only, extravagant and heedless, Lester Jones talked interestingly to members of the Alamo P.-T. A. at the meeting held at the school Friday, stressing "Thrift."

"Men are under a continuous nervous strain through such a financial depression as we now have, and should have the constant cooperation of their families in the practice of thrift," Mr. Jones said.

Mrs. Clifford Deaton, parliamentarian, gave an instructive talk on parliamentary usage, and Mrs. E. C. Stirman, welfare chairman, reported that 16 children are being fed at the Alamo school from the lunch fund this month. She also made a call for suitable clothing for the needy children of the school, particularly for one 13-year-old boy.

Mrs. Val Land gave the devotionals, and a vote of thanks was extended to C. H. Stewart, manager of the Majestic theater, for his kindness in furnishing the theater film, "The Hidden Adventure," for the benefit of the City Council P.-T. A. lunch fund, and for the services of employes of the theater.

Mrs. Herbert Gray presided at a brief business session, when splendid reports were given by officers and committee chairmen. It was announced that Mr. Stewart donated $250 to the city council lunch fund, from the benefit performance at the Majestic for the unemployed.

J. C. Park, principal of the Alamo school, introduced two new teachers, Miss Cora Lee Roberts and Miss Sadie Fisher, and Mrs. Ralph Pond announced the meeting of the Alamo Study club to be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Jones, 707 Baylor street, and urged more mothers to attend these instructive lessons on child training.

The first prize for the largest room attendance was won by Miss Fisher's room, and Miss Mounts and Miss Woolsey's rooms tied for second prize.

The nursery was in charge of a paid attendant, with a group of the sixth grade girls assistant.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Misses Mildred Roundtree, Ila B. Cook, Cora Lee Roberts and Mesdames Joe Emold, E. L. Fulton and T. R. Boone.

PRESBYTERIAN AND JEW TO HOLD SERVICES ON COLUMBIA AIR CHURCH

Services of the "Church of the Air" on Sunday, Jan. 10, to be broadcast through a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting system, will be in the hands of the Presbyterian and Jewish denominations.

Dr. Donald Grey Barnhouse, pastor of the Tenth Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, will preach in the Protestant period broadcast at 9 a. m., central standard time, from Philadelphia, and will be assisted by the organist, chair and congregation of his church. Dr. Barnhouse's service is the one heretofore broadcast at 4 p. m., central standard time, on Sundays.

The Jewish period in the afternoon from 1:30 to 2 o'clock, will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Nathan Stern, rabbi of the West End synagog in New York. Dr. Stern will speak on the theme, "What Is My Faith?", and will be assisted by the cantor and the choir of the synagog. All the music to be rendered during the service has been composed by the cantor, the Rev. Max Grauman.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

1932 Birthday

Camp Fire guardians and older girls in the Wichita Falls council district met Saturday afternoon at Freear's Furniture company to work out plans for the 1932 birthday which centers around the home.

Each year the projects seem more interesting than the past one. Last year we took trips to foreign countries, comparing their customs to those of our own. This year we are to enjoy a year of discovery in our own homes, finding out ways to make our homes more attractive and to cultivate the art of home making. The Freear Furniture company has offered us just about every opportunity imaginable to enjoy our birthday to the fullest. We see no reason why Wichita Falls district groups cannot come in for some of the prizes offered by the Grand Rapids Furniture company, which range from $100 to $1 for groups, and $75 to $2 for individual count books. We have just as bright girls in Wichita Falls as in other cities and now that we have this splendid cooperation we expect to see some of our groups and some of our girls bring home some of the high rewards. Full details will be announced in later reports.

Correspondence

The following letter has been received at local headquarters: "Dear Camp Fire Girls: I saw a picture of your group in the Everygirls magazine in the November monthly and of the good times you have. The Camp Fire group to which I belong are all writing to some other member in another state. If there is some one in your group who would like to write to me, will you please give them my address. Thanking you in advance, sincerely yours, signed: Darlyne Balius, 1103 Adair street, Creston, Iowa." Local headquarters hopes that a number of girls will write to Darlyne and tell her of the many good times Wichita Falls girls do have in Camp Fire. Wouldn't it be interesting to start a network of correspondence in Camp Fire? What interesting count books could be made through an exchange of ideas with other groups in other states.

Mankilo Group

Members of the Mankilo group found out how much fun it is to play with Indian symbols at the meeting on Wednesday afternoon, in their clubroom at Crockett school. Miss McIlheran put about a dozen Arapaho symbols from the Camp Fire Girls symbol book on the blackboard, explaining the meanings. Each girl copied the symbols and then tested their knowledge with a "spell down." Later the girls passed the test for knowing 10 of the symbols and thus earned the citizenship honor 706. Each girl was then permitted to go to the blackboard and combine two or more of the symbols into a border design expressing some idea of her own.

Election of officers will be held at the next meeting. Those attending were Hazel Kent, Mary Katherine and Ann Tarry, Johnie Evans, Norene Eason, Elsie Ruth Ross, Helen Benninger, Elaine Steinkoenig, Miss McIlheran, and Mrs. Maude Bartholomew, guardian.

Acancan Group

The Acancan group met at Reagan Junior high on Wednesday morning at the regular club period. Miss Leska Howard, guardian, explained points on the health chart and asked girls who have kept their charts for a month to let her check them and turn them in to local headquarters. The charts were recommended as the best recipe to produce charm, beauty and popularity through the establishment of good health by normal, healthful habits.

Most of the period was spent in learning 10 Indian symbols in fulfillment of citizenship honor 706, as a basis for designing with symbols.

Bernadine Arnold, president, will leave the group at promotion to go to the senior high. The morning meetings will be discontinued until after promotion but the group will meet each week in the afternoon, with Miss Howard and Dorothy Gothard, assistant.

Those attending the meeting were Mary Love Appleby, Mary Cantrell, Bernadine Arnold, Leora Burgess, Johnnie Taylor, Mary Lou Shields, Lois Holder, Ruby Kennett, Lariene Grantham, Katherine Campbell, Elma Catlin, Mildred Sim, Esther Rose Ogutsch, Helen Krebs, Gertrude Rumbaugh, Dorothy Michael, Nathalie Moore, Laverne Pyle, Oleta Osborn, Ruth Terry, Adella Taylor, Misses Howard and McIlheran.

Tanokiwin Group

Members of the Tanokiwin group will meet at Austin school at 3:45 on Tuesday afternoon with the guardian, Mrs. S. L. Conn.

Nowetompatimmin

The Nowetompatimmin group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. O. M. Pierce, 1710 Pearl, on Tuesday afternoon. Plans for the year were discussed, including earning of needlework guild honor and birthday. The group will begin work on article for needlework guild honor at the next meeting to be held at the home of Dorothy Lee Reeder, 1720 Pearl street.

Oawakiya Group

Members of the Oawakiya group indulged in the fun of smoke printing leaves at their meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Frank Schram, 2001 Pearl street. After a short business meeting the torches and candles were lighted and papers began to take on blacker and blacker tints to serve as carbons necessary for smoking leaves to reproduce on clean, white sheets of paper. The following girls earned the nature honor for making 10 successful prints: Mildred Fisher, Evelyn Howard, Leonida James, Ruth Van Wormer, Ethel Ranbarger, Maurine and Willie Mae Brailey, Lois and Mrs. Schram. Others attending who will complete prints and turn them in are Patsy Ruth Dale, Ina Jo Ogle, Margaret Hutchinson, Annette Adair, Lorita Tanner and Dorthea Whitehead, Lorita and Mildred were hostesses for the afternoon, serving refreshments to the group. The next meeting will be at the home of Ethel Ranbarger, 2408 Roberts. Miss McIlheran will meet with the girls to discuss symbolism.

Better Than We Ever Dreamed Of!

Thursday, the opening day of our Silver Anniversary Sale far exceeded our fondest expectations. We never dreamed such a thing was possible during times like these. The store was packed throughout the day. It was a celebration we'll never forget.

We are proud of such an accomplishment . . . Our most conservative estimates disclose a gain of at least 25% in unit sales. Such a hearty response is certainly an indication of the great faith imposed upon this fine old store by the people of Wichita Falls and surrounding territory.

The Right Way to Reduce

If you are over-fat, do what doctors the world over now are doing. They supply a lacking gland secretion which helps turn food to energy, rather than to fat. The results are seen everywhere. Without starvation, multitudes of people have gained new beauty, youth and vim.

That right method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in every circle you see slender, happy people who can tell you the results.

Go do what they did. Ask your druggist for Marmola. A book in the box will tell you all about it. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, and vim comes back. Start Marmola now.

COYOTES ROLL UP FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY DURING WEEK

The "big five" of the minor leagues holds its first meeting Sunday at Louisville, Ky., and the baseball world, particularly that represented by the minor leagues, is anxiously awaiting the result. The five men appointed at the December minor league meeting were given complete control of the big organization when the office of president was abolished. Minor league baseball men are looking to the committee for big things at a time when there happens to be room for real accomplishment. The committee has had only a month to review the situation and to formulate plans for its initial action, but the five members, which include J. Alvin Gardner, the Texas league president, have been busy gathering data on which to base their initial action and undoubtedly will be armed with a clear picture of what the minor leagues need and want when they go into their initial session.

Undoubtedly one of the most important moves of the committee will be an effort to rehabilitate the smaller leagues, particularly the class D circuits. Whether they will be able to produce a workable plan that will prove of real benefit along this line remains to be seen. It will be easy for the committee to recommend that these league be formed and to lend its moral assistance, but something more definite will be necessary to accomplish the desired end. It is likely that a full-time paid organizer will be employed to carry out the actual organization of these leagues. At least, that is one of the projects the committeemen have been considering since their election last month. Such a move might be a step in the right direction, and again it might not result in the formation of a single new league.

The class D leagues have gone almost out of existence for the one reason that their operation has been unsuccessful from a financial standpoint. Individual clubs always have been financed mainly by local capital, and more often than not that capital is invested purely from a standpoint of civic pride, rather than with a thought of collecting annual dividends. In these times it is not half easy to find enough civic spirit to see class D leagues through, and when the "big five" goes into conference on this point it must devise a means of financing the little leagues. Many of baseball's deepest thinkers believe the one and only solution is to come from the major leagues' financing the class D circuits.

The committee at Louisville might easily recommend that the majors get behind the D leagues in a financial way, but until the big leaguers are sold on the idea there can be no definite action. The major leagues will get into it no sooner than they are convinced that in the end it will be a good investment. We believe they will have to be driven to it by a shortage of players more acute than that which exists at present. That there is no money to be made from the operation of class D leagues has been proved over and over again, and the major leagues will become financially interested in the little fellows only when they think it is absolutely necessary from a standpoint of player development.

The Pacific Coast league, one of the class AA circuits—the highest ranking of the minors—is giving serious thought to sponsoring a class D California state circuit. The theory, of course, is the development of material for the parent clubs. Each coast league team would operate an entry in the smaller league, bearing the expense and reaping the benefits accrued in the way of young players developed. If the coast league should go through with that scheme and show the rest of the leagues just how it is done by a season of successful operation, then the other larger minors and possibly the majors would fall in line. If each of the double A circuits and each of the big leagues would father a class D circuit in that manner, five new leagues would be formed. That would mean that several hundred additional jobs would be made available for the youngster seeking a start in professional baseball. It would all but solve the problem that is now causing baseball generally so much worry—that of player supply.

The St. Louis club, through Wichita Falls, operated the Abilene club in the West Texas league for several seasons. The books show that the experiment cost the parent club several thousand dollars. The Browns still own a piece of land out at Abilene that is dead expense and to all outward appearances the venture was unsuccessful. But when the value of such players as Lin Storti and Ash Hillin, distinct Abilene products, are balanced against the red ink, it will show a far different result. It is a good guess when the final balance is taken in the Abilene deal, the Browns will have been a winner.

Incidentally, the Wichita Falls club would be in a much better position if the Browns at present owned a club or two in the lower classifications. The Spudders are the baby of the string and it falls to the lot of the club to give initial trials to the bright youngsters plucked by the St. Louis scouting system from the sandlots and college ranks. These youngsters turn up in camp and though some of them may be true Texas league players, the majority cannot hope to play class A ball without experience in the lower leagues. Only a small percentage of these can be optioned out in smaller leagues. A few may show exceptional promise of future development, and it is up to the Wichita Falls club to bring them through. It may be said for the Browns, however, that little of that has been in evidence in the past, and Wichita Falls fans have not been forced to suffer from mediocre baseball clubs since the Browns took command. Nevertheless, we'd like to see the parent club fall heir to a class D and a class B farm to complete the string.

Pack Bests Bowie Rabbits but Only After Hard Fight

Invading Passers Rally in Last Half to Make Contest Lively

Wichita Falls High school's white-shirted Coyotes finished up a busy week of basket ball Saturday night with their fifth successive victory. The Bowie Jackrabbits were the victims, but not by so decisive a margin as in their first meeting several weeks ago, and the Pack had to stage a strong finish to win, 37 to 27. Four games earlier in the week had been won from Cashion, Petrolia, Fairview and Randlett, Okla.

Coach Barry Holton started Saturday night's game with the two guards the only regulars on the floor, but the combination clicked to the extent of a 12 to 4 lead at the end of the first quarter. Brandon and Presley at forwards and Reeves at center went into the game a minute before the end of the half and helped to run up the count to 20 at the half.

Pack Changes Defense

The invading Bowie tossers had the best of the argument throughout the last half, the Coyotes switching from zone defense to a man-for-man, which the Rabbits found much easier to evade. In the third quarter Bowie outscored a team made up largely of reserves, 6 to 3, and continued to hold the upper hand after the first line had been sent in for the final period. Both teams scored heavily in the fourth quarter, Bowie gaining a 17 to 15 edge.

Inaccurate passing proved the Pack's greatest obstacle in running up a heavy score, and the Holton charges also missed many chances to bag points by the free throw route.

Overstreet Stars

An outstanding performer in the Coyote ranks who is rapidly developing into a genuine threat for a first string job was Henry Wininger, who has been forced to understudy Harold Reeves at center thus far. Wininger registered six points during his stay in the game and turned in a splendid game in every respect.

The Coyotes divided the scoring chores throughout the lineup. Brandon and Reeves each registered seven points and the diminutive Presley and Janeway six each.

Bowie's pace setters were Overstreet and Riley, listed in the lineup as guards but bearing the scoring burden for the invaders. Overstreet was high scorer for the night, with 11 points, and Riley squeezed in seven. Both were busy passers and key men in the Jackrabbit passing game.

The Coyotes are planning another busy week of practice this week, according to Coach Barry Holton, in preparation for the round robin competition with Electra, Vernon, Quanah and Childress that probably will get under way next Saturday night.

The score:

ELECTRA VOLLEY BALL TEAM BEATS FAIRVIEW

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Electra High school Tiger girls Friday night defeated the Fairview sextet in two hard fought volley ball games, 15-2 and 15-11. The girls will meet the Valley View six Wednesday night at Valley View and will play the girls from Clara Friday night on the local courts.

The Electra girls have been playing an excellent game and use good team work. Miss Ethel Varnell, coach, has been putting them through various drills which are proving beneficial. Eighteen girls are working out daily. Capt. Ruth Jones is playing her second year on the team and is considered the best jumper. She has a hard service and is especially good in killing balls. Catherine McClure, a second year player also, teams with Jones. She sets the ball up for her teammate and is a sure player. Opal Greer is one of the best fighters, with a never-say-die spirit and is playing her second year. Ozie Chesher is one of the smoothest players and serves a hard ball. She was a member of last year's team. Ruby Mae Flippin is playing her first year on the senior team and is quick in rescuing balls from the net. Agnes Brashear, a first year player, has a hard drive, as does Mary Helen Boutwell, another first year girl. Carrie Mae Dees is good in team work, especially in passing balls from the back line to the front. She is playing her first year. Lillie Parsons, a second year player, has a smooth game. Oleta Shepherd has shown greater improvement during the season than any other player.

SIX SCHOOLS IN LINE FOR MUNDAY TOURNEY

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 9.—Six schools already have accepted invitations to participate in the second annual invitation basket ball tournament of the Munday High school to be staged here Jan. 22 and 23, according to the announcement of H. H. Riley, city school superintendent.

Acceptances have been received from the Bomarton, Rochester, Sunset, Truscott, O'Brien and Moren High schools. The entries, Riley said, insure a bigger tournament than last year, as at least 10 other schools in territory more convenient to Munday are regarded as virtually certain competitors.

Special invitations to the Abilene and Wichita Falls High schools to enter were added to the list of 19 previously invited, Riley announced Saturday. Entries thus far insure that the event will provide the opportunity to observe some of the fastest quintets in this section of West Texas in action.

The first three games on the 1931 Missouri College Athletic union schedule left every team in a .000 standing. All the games were ties.

Longhorns Upset Arkansas, 27 to 25, to Even Series

Francis Ouimet Heads U.S. Walker Cup Team

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Francis Ouimet, the bespectacled Boston veteran who came back after 17 years to recapture the national amateur golf crown in 1931, will captain the United States forces against Great Britain's best in the Walker cup matches next summer, providing the matches are held.

England, however, has not yet notified the United States Golf association whether it will send over a team this year, it developed at the association's annual meeting here Saturday.

Bobby Jones led America's victorious invasion of England in 1930, shortly before his retirement from amateur ranks.

Herbert H. Ramsay, New York, who was re-elected president of the U. S. G. A., said at Saturday's meeting he still expected to hear favorably from England about the Walker cup matches, despite economic complications.

Feminine Team

Six of America's leading feminine stars, with two alternates, were named to represent this country in a series of international team matches against England in May. Miss Helen Hicks, New York, national champion, heads a squad that includes Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia, five times champion and runnerup in 1931, Mrs. O. S. Hills, Kansas City, Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, Maurice Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., and Mrs. Leona Pressler Cheney, San Gabriel, Calif. Marion Hollins, Los Angeles, former national champion, was named non-playing captain. She was named an alternate, however, along with Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit, in case a substitution is necessary.

Like Walker Cup

The matches, to be conducted along the lines of the Walker cup, will be held at the Saunton Golf club in England.

It is hoped to play the matches every two years, the site alternating between England and America.

The date for the national open tournament, first of the country's four major tournaments this year, was set for June 23, 24 and 25 at Fresh Meadow Country club, Flushing, Long Island. Hereafter, it was announced, playoffs in the open will be at 18 holes instead of 36, as formerly.

Dates for the other big events are: National amateur, Sept. 12 to 17, at the Baltimore Country club; women's national, Sept. 26 to Oct. 1, at Salem, Mass.; public links, starting July 19, at Louisville, Ky.

N. B. A. PLANS TO TAKE NO IMMEDIATE ACTION IN BATTALINO'S CASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Bat Battalino can grow into another Primo Carnera, if he wants to, but he will be recognized as world's featherweight champion by the National Boxing association for another four months at least.

If by the end of that time he cannot make the class limit of 126 pounds, something will have to be done about it.

This was the attitude of Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association Saturday in refusing to recognize the action of the New York State Athletic commission in stripping the rugged Hartford, Conn., Italian of his crown because of his failure to make the weight for his title bout with Lew Feldman in New York Friday. Battalino, when he showed up to weigh in, astonished everybody by scaling 135¾ pounds, near ly 10 pounds over the featherweight limit. The bout was called off.

General Clinnin understands Battalino was unable to train properly due to injuries, and therefore was unable to go through the grind of making weight.

TEXAS TECH ADMITTED TO BORDER CONFERENCE

EL PASO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Effective Sept. 1, 1932, Texas Tech of Lubbock will become a member of the Border Athletic conference, officials of that organization decided at a meeting at Las Cruces, N. M., Saturday. The Lubbock school was admitted to membership after President Paul W. Horn, Coach Pete Cawthon and W. T. Stangles, chairman of the Tech athletic committee, had reiterated the school's desire to enter the loop.

Tech was invited to participate in the spring track and field meet to be held at Tucson the second Saturday in May and to have representatives at the spring meeting of the conference.

The College of Mines and Arts, El Paso, informed conference officials it would make formal application for membership in the conference at the spring meeting.

OLNEY BEATS JEAN FOR THIRD LEAGUE VICTORY

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Olney High school Cubs rang up their third successive victory of the week to take command of the Young county interscholastic league play by defeating Jean here Saturday night in comparatively easy fashion. The score was 43 to 17.

Pratt and Wright led the effective Olney scoring machine, with 20 and 13 points, respectively, while the all round play of Gilmore was one of the outstanding features. Biggers, scoring six points and playing a generally fine game, was the leader for Jean, with Griffith also bagging six points.

The Sunday School Basket Ball league clubs will swing into action again Tuesday night with three league leaders meeting the three underdogs in the race. The games will start at 7 o'clock on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church court. In the first game of the evening the flashy First Christians meet the Floral Heights Presbyterians. Temple Israel meets the East Side Presbyterians in the second game. The nightcap brings together Highland Heights Christian and Floral Heights Methodist.

The question now rests in the three teams who went down last week being able to come back and stop the leaders. All of the teams showed some flashy basket ball in their opening game and this early in the season any one of the trio is likely to get started in spite of the early setbacks.

While the scoring in the opening games was comparatively light, Jim Janeway, First Christian center, got away to a flying start in the scoring department by flipping in 10 baskets from the court for an impressive lead. His closest rivals, Monty Griffin, a teammate, and Creighton of Highland Heights Christian, have 14 points to their credit in the scoring column. Griffin holds a comfortable lead in the free throw department with four to his credit, three more than any other player.

The scoring in the first three games of the league was supplied by 21 men to amass a total of 122 points on 56 field goals and 12 free throws.

Coyote Team to Be Honored Tuesday Night At Annual Event

Twenty-one players and two student managers, representing the largest letter winning squad of recent years, were named Saturday by Coach Barry Holton of Wichita Falls High school as winners of the coveted awards for the season of 1931. These letter men are to elect by ballot a 1932 captain immediately following the annual football banquet to be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock at the Woman's Forum, according to Holton's announcement.

The letter winners announced by the Coyote coach are as follows:

Ends—Raymond Allen, Bob Brandon, Ed Greenwood, H. R. Hanks and R. J. Anderson.

Tackles—William Huff, Harry Lucius and Leroy McBride.

Guards—Max Sepkovitch, Malcolm Mauldin, Bill Reynolds and Malcolm Vordenbaum.

Quarterback—J. Z. Powell.

Halfbacks—Capt. Bennett Withrow, Burns McKinney, J. R. Holton and Jasper McBride.

Fullbacks—Bob Daugherty and Harry Shain.

Banquet Plans

While many coaches award letters entirely on the number of minutes the players participate in regularly scheduled games, Coach Holton measures his squadmen by their general value to the team and their attitude through the season, as well as by the amount of actual playing time registered. Several players honored for the past campaign could not have qualified if the awards were made strictly on a time basis. Bill Reynolds, guard, is pointed out by Holton as a player awarded a letter almost entirely on his splendid team spirit. Reynolds was injured early in the season and saw little action in interscholastic league games. He continued to come out for practice regularly and aided the team in every way possible, even after it became certain he was out of action for the remainder of the campaign.

The 23 letter men will elect the 1932 captain and successor to Withrow at the annual banquet Tuesday night.

Dinsmore to Speak

The banquet again this year will be open to the public and all fans are invited to attend. However, reservations must be made at the Woman's Forum not later than Monday night. The price is 50 cents.

Honor guests will be the members of the Coyote A squad, as well as the letter men, and other guests will include members of the board of education, the coaches and the stadium committee.

J. Wilkie Talbert will act as toastmaster and the principal address will be made by B. M. Dinsmore, superintendent of schools at Electra. Rev. J. E. Montgomery, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, will ask the invocation.

CALIFORNIA NETSTERS IN STAND AGAINST 'PROS'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. (AP)—A stand was taken by the Southern California Tennis association in its annual meeting last night against permitting barn-storming professional players use of "facilities built up by amateur players."

William M. Henry, president of the organization, said: "Professionals who wish to exploit the facilities built up in Southern California by amateur players only to repay our hospitality by tempting our amateur players to turn professional are decidedly not welcome."

While no name was mentioned, it is known that William T. Tilden once negotiated for the use of the Los Angeles Tennis club courts and later made a professional offer to Ellsworth Vines Jr., national singles champion.

HOLLIDAY SCORES OVER DUNDEE CAGERS, 37-21

HOLLIDAY, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Holliday High school basket ball team opened its drive for the Archer county championship by defeating Dundee here Friday night, 37 to 21, in the opening game of the round robin schedule being played by the six Archer county teams.

MANKINS, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Mankins Owls won their second game in the Archer county scholastic league basket ball competition here Saturday night by defeating Archer City High, 20 to 4. Parks and Lindenborn were high scorers for the winners with 11 and 8 points, respectively. Larkin bagged the only field goal credited to the Wildcats.

CLARA MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF FOUR GAMES

CLARA, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Clara High school Greyhounds won their second interscholastic league contest of the season here Friday night by defeating Valley View in surprisingly easy fashion, 36 to 8.

Prize Rookies Listed On Spudders' Roster

Times Sports Editor

The football season stowed away until next September, fans are beginning to turn their attention to baseball, and a consultation Saturday with Secretary Guy Airey of the Spudders revealed that the club is planning to bring in a squad of first-year youngsters next March that will be the best in the history of the club, but that several important moves are yet to be made before the club that represents Spudderville is truly ready for the pennant race of 1932.

In playing strength the club has lost at least half its offensive and defensive punch, and thus far no definite moves toward replacement of the departed men have been made. Buck Stanton's absence from the attack, Bud Hungling's departure from the catching staff, Bear Allday from the infield and Bob Cooney and Ash Hillin from the mound forces leaves only the outfield undisturbed since last season.

While club officials confidently expect to plug a gap or two with the youngsters from the sandlots and college ranks that have been snared through the efforts of the St. Louis Browns' extensive scouting system, it may be taken for granted that important additions to the squad will be made before the start of spring training early in March.

Southpaw Is Prize

A host of young pitchers will be turned over to the new skipper, Hank Severeid, at the start of training in the hope that one or two winners can be developed for Texas league duty no later than this season. The prize of the crop, the Brown chieftains believe, is Floyd Isekite, a mammoth left-hander who is putting in a busy winter in the Pacific coast winter leagues. He won 19 out of 21 games in the semi-pro Timber league of the Northwest and has been almost as successful in the faster California winter leagues. At present the Wichita Falls club is figuring this youngster as a sure bet to fill the need of a winning southpaw pitcher. Jumping from semi-pro rating to that of class A is quite a leap, but that is exactly the status of this pitcher with the queer name.

While Isekite is rated the standout of the entire gang, there are several others designated above the rank and file of first year prospects. One of these is Tom Conlan, who has had a bit of experience in organized baseball. He is a product of St. Mary's university and a one-time teammate of Larry Bettencourt, who was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals last year, taken to spring training and farmed to Springfield in the Western association. Here Conlan served as the iron man of the pitching staff, winning eight games and losing three in exactly 28 days. The upshot of it was that he was soon forced out with a sore arm and was given his outright release. On the recommendation of Bettencourt and others, the Browns got busy and signed him to a contract for 1932 duty. Since that time he has been assigned the Spudders.

Colorado Collegian

Another pitching collegian is Harry Saller, another lefty, late of the University of Colorado. He reported to the Browns late last season and was used in bull pen work enough to warrant his issuance a contract for the 1932 season.

Dorris Byram is a right-hander, six feet in height and 180 pounds in weight, whose home is in Ringling, Okla., but whose pitching reputation, as well as experience, was accumulated in California semi-pro circles. Secretary Airey is authority for the statement that this particular flipper was much sought by various clubs in organized baseball, but selected Wichita Falls because of this city's proximity to his home.

Iseksite, Saller and Doyle Taylor, the young Californian who returns for another trial after failing to make it last spring, make up the complete stock of left-handed mound talent. Other right-handers hardly as well known as those mentioned, but all products of the Browns' scouting organization are Donald Bass, Paul Spencer, John Volsoano and Frank E. Smiley.

Steengrafe Goes

Probably of more interest to the fans than the newcomers is the promise of Airey that Milt Steengrafe, ranking veteran of the staff, will not be back. Steengrafe has been granted permission to make a deal for his service and whether the pitcher is successful or not, the Spudder secretary gives assurance that he will not return to Wichita Falls.

The holdovers are Roland Flinn, Dick Fiorrid, Fred Vincent, Lester White, Forest Pressnell and Howard Taylor, all of whom, as far as is known now, will be brought back.

No less than six catchers, including Severeid, are on the roster, but the most important addition is Firman Owens, a fellow who socked the ball at a .303 pace in 62 games with Greenville in the Palmetto league. After the Palmetto league disbanded Owens was signed by Charlotte of the Piedmont, but the Spudders won a claim for his services by virtue of having made a deal with Greenville at the start of the season for the pick of the club.

Art Bradbury and Herb Bryant are the holdovers and Walker Taylor and James Powell are inexperienced rookies signed.

Only One Infielder

Only one experienced infielder is on the Spudder roster now. Art Scharein, the young man who did such a neat job of shortstopping last season, will be back for that post, but the occupants of the remaining three positions are very much in doubt. Walter Euller may be back from Milwaukee, and from a quartet of inexperienced youngsters, Harlan Clift, Arthur Garbark, Roy Sabine and Gerald Levey, the latter a younger brother of the celebrated Jim, the Spudders might be fortunate enough to uncover one real infielder, but certainty not two or three.

The holdover outfield trio of Debs Garms, Red Badgro and Bob Fuss are rivalled at present only by a brace of rookies, Treaber Douglas, and Fred D. Baldwin, both of whom were caught in the net of the Browns' scouts and forwarded with little introduction to Wichita Falls.

As may be seen readily, Spudder officialdom still has considerable building to do before the dawn of another pennant race, but the club's connection with the Browns and the Milwaukee Brewers provides a ready source of supply and it is not likely that Secretary Airey or Vice President William E. Huff is losing any sleep over the present outlook. Major re-enforcements are likely to be made when the Browns and Brewers start cutting down some weeks hence.

The Oregon State college beaver, a bronze mascot weighing nearly 1,000 pounds, a dymbol of the college spirit since 1894, was stolen from the campus at the start of the football season.

Definite Signing For Bout Held Up By Legal Tangle

Lawyers Expected to Be Winded by Monday; Final Action Likely Then

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Sooner or later, half a dozen attorneys are going to stop arguing, get down to signatures, and Max Schmeling's 15-round title defense against Mickey Walker in Miami Feb. 25 will be something more than a topic of conversation.

It has got so now, what with the tremendous monetary value of the heavyweight championship, that the owner, before taking it into the ring, needs more lawyers to keep him free from entangling alliances than he does trainers and sparring partners to condition him for the battle itself.

Battle of Lawyers

The complicated situation as far as Florida is concerned, has one encouraging factor. The lawyers interested in this match, the second heavyweight title fight in the history of that state, are camped in the spotlight before the struggle takes place.

There were hopes Saturday, but not enough to guarantee that the lawyers, who seem to be holding more of a filibuster than a series of conferences, will have talked themselves out by Monday.

The attorneys for Madison Square garden of Florida have drawn up one set of contracts, Walker's legal advisers another, and the representatives of Schmeling, the champion, still a third.

Complicated Situation

Most of the variances seem to lie in the delicate shades of alliance between the Madison Square garden of New York and its extensive system in Ohio, Illinois and Florida. The match will be promoted under direction of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Florida, but both warriors must be bound for future fights, in which the Florida garden may not have a hand.

And in the meantime interpretation of every phase of the contracts, the position of every comma, is being argued. But luckily all the bills are beyond the third reading, the debate has passed the 72nd hour, and there is scarcely wind enough left for another full day.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. (AP)—MacDonald Smith, a silent Scot from Carnoustie by way of New York and San Francisco, steped out in front of 131 of his fellows Saturday to lead the first round of the Los Angeles open golf championship with a sparkling 69.

The veteran, who tied for the open championship of the United States more than 21 years ago, gave no suggestion early in the day he was about to take the Hillcrest Country club's golf course apart later on. He was out in 37 strokes, two over par and good enough for an ordinary performer, but nothing to grow enthusiastic about.

Coming back, however, he took an amazing 32, four under par.

Just behind the great Scot, Abe Espinosa, Chicago, Ky Laffoon, Denver, Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, formerly of Texas, Dallas Jeffers, Santa Anna, Calif., and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., were bunched at 70, a stroke better than par.

Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Larry Gleason, Long Beach, Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, Walter Hagen and Willie Hunter, once British amateur champion, matched old man par blow for blow and finished with scores of 71. Diegel took his 71 by scoring an eagle at the home hole and Hagen bagged a birdie.

Baylor Five Off To Speedy Start By Beating Frogs

Owls Open New Campaign With Victory Over Aggie Quintet

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 9. (AP)—Staging a bewildering passing and scoring attack in the final minutes, the University of Texas cagers beat the University of Arkansas Saturday night, 27 to 25. Arkansas had won the first game of the series Friday night, 24 to 21.

The Longhorns Saturday night overcame an eight-point lead late in the last half primarily as a result of the accurate shooting of Kubricht, lanky Texas center.

Arkansas wiped out a five-point lead to hold a 15 to 13 margin at the halfway mark. Clifton sank a couple of long ones and Sexton connected with the basket to increase the lead. Kubricht scored two field goals and five free throws in the last 10 minutes. He took scoring honors with 11 points. Sexton, Raborack center, left the game on personal fouls, but not until he had accounted for 10 points.

The Porkers scored one more field goal than Texas, making 10 to nine for the Longhorns, but failed to make free shots count. Their floor work was erratic.

Bears Whip Frogs

WACO, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—The Baylor university Bears defeated the champion Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, 32-24, in a Southwest conference basket ball game here Saturday night.

Some observers called it the greatest court contest ever played in Waco. Certainly for thrills it had seldom been equaled here. For three quarters the teams virtually matched point for point, with never more than three points between their scores.

At the half, the score was tied, but the ball was in the air. It was Raymond Alford's first shot, and it whipped through the basket.

Raymond Strickland of Baylor, called upon to guard Ad Dietsel, T. C. U. star, went out of the game on personal fouls with seven minutes to play, but at that time Dietsel had been held fairly well in hand.

Sumner of T. C. U. and Alford of Baylor tied for high scoring honors with 12 points each.

Owls 40, Aggies 29

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—The smoothest team play a Rice basket ball team has exhibited in many a game carried the Rice Owls to a 40-29 victory over the Texas Aggies here tonight.

Coach Daugherty's men held the whip hand all the way, with Capt. Jake Hess and Virgil Dixon turning in an artistic exhibition at forward.

Melton Koch played a great all-around game for the victors, scoring three field goals.

Howard Thompson and Lawrence McCullough, sophomores, made their Southwest conference debut a memorable one. Although off in his shooting, Thompson jumped remarkably well against the taller Dawson, and fought hard all the way.

McCullough's splendid work under the basket was a major factor in Rice's victory.

Capt. Charlie Beard was just about the whole show for the visitors. He shot four baskets from the floor and made good on 10 out of 14 tries from the foul line. The Aggies missed the services of Veltman, stellar guard, who did not make the trip because of an injured ankle.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

Cantaloupe Sign-Up Bow 407 Acres, 1,000-Acre Goal Still Being Sought, Recommendations Given to Growers

The 1932 cantaloupe signup has now reached 407 acres, with 60 farmers participating, according to a recent compilation at water district headquarters. The signup campaign, after being halted by the holidays and by bad weather, is now being renewed, in the hope of reaching the 1,000-acre mark by planting time.

Additional signers since the last report have increased the total by 150 acres, as follows:

W. L. Hodges and J. L. Case, 10 acres; J. W. Yarbro, O. D. Childers, D. E. Hooks, J. E. Rudder, J. H. Craft, J. T. Hogan, Mrs. Emmet Johnson, J. H. Watts, M. J. McDonald, H. E. Blackwell, J. A. Churchman, G. W. Thomason, J. A. Willingham, E. B. Glasgow, L. B. Gilbreath, C. C. Bearden, J. C. Pinson, E. R. Williams, J. T. Lobban, Ben F. Greer, J. L. Crawford, W. E. Vest, five acres; T. L. Jones, four acres; Ed Richter, J. M. Blagg, Lum McBride, T. F. Carter, three acres; J. G. Childers, C. C. Bailey, two acres; total, 160 acres; previously reported, 257 acres; grand total to Jan. 7, 407 acres.

In connection with plans for the season, G. A. Remington, general manager of the district, said:

"The cantaloupe acreage signup has now reached a total of 407 acres. The directors of the growers association are very anxious for all land owners who desire to help develop the cantaloupe industry in the irrigated valley near Wichita Falls to signify their intentions as to the acres that they wish to devote to this crop at the earliest possible date. The signup that they have in mind is 1,000 acres and they feel that just before planting time next spring this acreage will be signed up after the opportunity to purchase select seed is past, with a shorter time in which to make the proper marketing connections and with a much shorter period in which to purchase the crates and at the same time without giving the grower a fair opportunity to have fertilized and otherwise prepared his land to grow a maximum crop. Every one connected with the cantaloupe deal this year realizes the importance of the necessary signup to insure having our brand of cantaloupes on the market continuously throughout a long period next fall and the necessity for getting this signup completed now.

"The growers association is grateful, of course, for all those growers who have cooperated in the signup to this time and there are others who contemplate signing up but for one reason or another are just delaying getting their signature on dotted line for this year. The production of new crops and finding markets for them must always depend upon some guarantee that that crop is going to be planted and cared for the following year, and the sooner that our farmers and growers realize the importance of an early signup each year, the more progress we are going to make.

"The growers association has prepared a set of instructions for our cantaloupe growers and has had them criticised by cantaloupe growers of 30 years' experience near Rocky Ford, Colo., and we feel that with a few minor changes from time to time these instructions will be found practical.

"Nothing will please the management of the water improvement districts more than to see this valley develop into the production of such fruit and vegetable crops as we can grow so abundantly here and have every land owner and farmer in the valley as a member of the Wichita Valley Growers association, thus helping to get the necessary markets for these crops. The people in a city or country where the agriculture of the immediate vicinity includes crops that can be used for food will not hunger for the necessities of life even though markets are slow in developing."

1. Select your best land with good drainage for 1932 cantaloupe crop.
2. Flat break land deep. Fall and winter plowing is best.
3. Open up deep furrows six or seven feet apart with lister. Locate furrows across fields so that irrigation water will follow them. Place well rotted manure in furrows. Do not use straw for this purpose. Use poultry or sheep manure sparingly and mix thoroughly with soil. Cover manure in furrows immediately with turning plow and 20 or 30 days prior to planting time.
4. If commercial fertilizer is used follow directions in U. S. bulletin 1468.
5. When manure furrows are back-filled replow the field by leaving back-furrows where manure was placed and dead-furrows in between.
6. Thoroughly harrow and cultivate field lengthwise of furrows following replowing and prior to time of planting.
7. Immediately prior to planting prepare best possible seed bed 30 to 36 inches wide over manure trench by plowing two furrows toward each other and dragging bed with light harrow.
8. Wait for good warm weather before beginning to plant.
9. Divide your field into three or four plots and plant each plot about 10 days apart.
10. Plant seed furnished by the association to insure uniformity.
11. Plant on beds in hills four or five feet apart or drill and thin to one plant ever two or three feet and about one inch deep.
12. Cultivate often but lightly after crop is up and between irrigations until vines make further tillage impossible.
13. Use plow furrows on each side of beds for irrigation. It will be necessary to plow new water furrows further away from plants as the vines grow.
14. When irrigating do not flood the beds between the water furrows. Continue irrigating after gathering begins to bring late melons to full maturity.
15. Examine your crop often for melon aphids and dust entire field carefully with a mixture of nicotine and lime should the lice appear.
16. Gather crop under instructions from the association and deliver same to nearest packing shed for shipment.
17. Read carefully your copies of United States farmers' bulletins No. 1468 and 1499.
18. Select your cantaloupe field for 1933 early in the spring of 1932 and sow the same to some soil-building crop such as cane, sweet clover, cowpeas or alfalfa.

CROPPING PROGRAM FOR DAIRY COWS IN TEXAS IS OUTLINED

COLLEGE STATION.—Declaring that 40 per cent of the diet should consist of dairy products and pointing out that home dairies of two or three family cows comprise the most important part of the dairy business in Texas, J. Lynn Thomas, dairy specialist in the extension service of Texas A. & M. college and the United States department of agriculture, shows that the cost of feed and care for a few cows is less per cow than in larger dairies. "If the million dairy cows in Texas were distributed two to a farm there would be just about enough milk products to feed the half million Texas farm families," he says. "Every farm needs two cows, one to fresh in the spring and one in the fall. The cost of feed is not great, as every farmer has some grass and fodder that would be a total loss were there not some livestock to consume it."

Cropping systems worked out for dairy herd demonstrators are regarded as helpful to the owner of only two or three cows, and Mr. Thomas outlines the requirements for five-cow dairies in East Texas and in the blackland and western portions of Texas. Under average conditions at least six acres of feed and pasture per cow are needed, he states, although only four acres per cow are needed at any one time because summer crops may be followed by winted grazing and cover crops.

For five cows in East Texas (1) five acres in permanent pasture, (2) two and one-half acres of sudan grass, (3) five acres of soy beans or cowpeas for a legume hay, (4) two and one-half acres red top sorghum, sudan grass, soy beans, cowpeas or alfalfa for roughage, (5) five acres of wide-row corn with velvet beans down the middles for winter pasture, and (6) 10 acres of a mixture of oats, barley or rye, and winter vetch for winter grazing.

Farther west Mr. Thomas suggests for five cows (1) five acres in permanent pasture, (2) five acres sudan grass for summer grazing, (3) two and one-half acres hegari or blackhul kafir for a late summer soiling crop to be fed direct from field, (4) two and one-half acres red top sorghum, sudan grass, soy beans, cowpeas or alfalfa for winter hay, (5) 10 acres for winter grazing of oats, barley, rye or wheat; or oats, barley and hairy vetch; or oats, rye and hairy vetch, and (6) five acres of corn or grain sorghums for grain.

UNFILLED ORDERS FOR STEEL SHOW DECREASE DURING PAST MONTH

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation decreased 198,538 tons in December to a total of 2,735,353 tons Dec. 31. The backlog dropped 185,501 tons in November.

Nov. 30 unfilled orders amounted to 2,933,891 tons. As of Dec. 31, 1930, the total was 3,943,596 tons.

Persons familiar with the industry had been uncertain as to what today's figures would show, but there had been some expectation of a rise. Since 1921 the backlog always had increased in the last month of the year. The corporation's mills operated at a low rate during December, but it was believed that several fairly substantial lorders had been received toward the year-end, although looming business over the greater part of the month was small.

NEW GARDEN IRRIGATION PROVES GOOD METHOD

COLLEGE STATION—Lathe tile garden irrigation systems have been found very successful by home demonstration club women in West Texas the last two years. At a cost of about one cent per foot, gardens have been given underground irrigation that hastens the maturity of the crops with a decided saving in water and labor. Home demonstration agents predict a great increase in the use of the new system in garden demonstrations next year.

One of the latest examples reported is that of Mrs. L. M. Wood of the Dodge-Nine Home Demonstration club in McCulloch county. The system was installed last Sept. 10 by Miss Bessie L. Vogt, home demonstration agent, with the help of J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist in the extension service, Texas A. & M. college. The garden was planted Sept. 14 after a thorough watering. Three weeks later the family enjoyed turnip greens, 30 days later crisp radishes, in six weeks the mustard was large enough to eat, and in five weeks the beans were in full bloom. The garden was irrigated once a week. Mrs. Wood simply put the hose in a feeder pipe, turned on the water and went about her household work. The water was allowed to run six hours in each feeder pipe.

Undismayed by low egg prices, two Howard county poultry demonstrators have carved out profits of $2.28 per hen above feed cost for the year ending Oct. 31. They did it by cutting production costs 40 per cent and increasing production 12 per cent through close culling, and feeding home-mixed mash and skim milk. It cost them $1.03 to feed a pullet a year and seven cents per dozen for the feed to produce one dozen eggs.

After two years of partial faculty control, selection of class officers at the University of North Dakota has been placed entirely in the hands of students.

Possibilities of Tung Oil Tree as Factor in Valley Being Investigated; Now Grown in Other Southern States

This tung oil tree is about a year and a half old and is one of the many on the 6,000 acres owned by Lamont Rowlands, inset.

The possibilities of the tung oil tree, grown for centuries in China and now being extensively planted in the South, as a factor in the irrigated valley's agriculture, are being investigated. Efforts are being made to obtain several specimens of the tree for planting here.

Although this tree is comparatively new in this country, it is already yielding products valued at $15,000,000 annually, according to a dispatch from Washington. Its adaptability to the valley will be investigated by tests here.

These "oil orchards" are comparatively new—the tree was not introduced in the United States until 1869—but it is expected that when the value of the oil taken from the fruit is fully realized many farmers will adopt cultivation of the tung oil trees.

Tung oil is little known to the American public. It wasn't until 1905 that industries realized its worth. China for a long time had been using the oil for waterproofing paper, silks, boats and other materials. American manufacturers today are using it as an ingredient in plastic, paints, varnishes, lacquers, enamels, insulating compounds and in waterproofing all sorts of materials.

The use of oil in America today is so varied that of the 155,600,000 pounds exported from China in 1930, 126,322,600 pounds went to the United States.

Started by Government

The use made of this oil in this country has caused government officials to consider the domestic production of the oil. For this reason thousands of trees have been distributed and planted in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Texas and California, and results have been carefully watched.

That the South has fostered the growth of these Chinese trees is witnessed by Lamont Rowlands, lumber man of Mississippi, who has planted a tract of 8,000 acres of them near his home at Picayune, Miss. Tests taken by him and scientists prove that this region has climatic and soil conditions which measure up to the Chinese standard for these trees.

Tung oil is Rowlands' hobby. He spends hours studying the process of his trees and is conversant with the commercial demand and its effect upon the country.

Trees Are Very Hardy

The Tung oil tree, according to the U. S. department of commerce, attains a growth of from 10 to 30 feet in height and a diameter of 6 to 10 inches. It is deciduous, shedding in October and November, is low spreading, and produces a profusion of long, white bell-shaped blossoms.

The tree begins to bear fruit when from 3 to 6 years old, each tree being capable of a yield of five pounds of nuts in its third year to 75 pounds the 10th year. Under usual planting conditions this would give a yield of 100 pounds of oil an acre the third year and 1,500 pounds of oil the 10th year.

Because of the little care the tree requires and the cheap land on which it can be grown, its cultivation is exceedingly profitable. The trees are long lived, hard and are subject to no blights or attacks by insects. The nuts containing the oil are not perishable and cannot be damaged in shipping.

WATER DISTRICTS WILL NAME BOARDS IN VOTE TUESDAY

Water improvement districts one and two will hold their biennial elections of directors Tuesday.

In district No. 1 a practically new board will be chosen. Four of the old board's members are retiring. J. T. Harrell, who was elected last year to fill the vacancy caused by J. A. Kemp's death, is the only one of the present board to remain. The four others mentioned for the four remaining places are H. A. Gray Jr., Homer Lee, Rhea Howard and Orville Bullington. There will be one voting box, at the courthouse.

In district No. 2, there are six nominees for the five places to be filled. W. L. Hodges, D. E. Hooks, W. R. Davis, T. J. Pace, J. C. Burks and B. F. Greer have been nominated. Of these Messrs. Hodges, Hooks and Davis are on the present board. C. H. Clark and J. D. Overbey, two members of the present board, are not candidates for re-election. District No. 2 will vote at Valley View, City View and at the Bartosh filling station on the Seymour road.

1931 FARM PRICES CONTINUE DECLINE STARTING IN 1929

Average prices for practically all farm products were lower in 1931 than in 1930, the decline which started in 1929 continuing through the year, according to state department of agriculture figures recently compiled. The figures for the three years follow:

By spending $4.25 an acre for fertilizer, Edgar Cruse of Colmesneil, Tyler county, got 45 bushels and 40 pounds more corn per acre than he would have without fertilization, a demonstration reported by the county agent shows. A yield of 75 bushels and 50 pounds per acre was made on land well-filled with humus from a crop of cowpeas turned under, and fertilized with 100 pounds of acid phosphate and 150 pounds nitrate of soda.

Ed Richter, Nueces county 4-H club boy has crashed the feed market by selling 20-cent corn to 14 hogs for $1.18 per bushel, and 50-cents-a-hundred maize for $1 per hundred.

Irrigation Districts Will Elect New Boards of Directors Tuesday Four Polling Places Designated

Five directors for each of the two local irrigation districts will be selected at an election to be held Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Each district has five directors who serve two-year terms. The directors of each district will meet on the first Monday in February to elect officers.

The nominees in Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 are Orville Bullington, H. A. Gray Jr., J. T. Harrell, Rhea Howard and Homer Lee. As there are only five nominees all are certain to be elected unless voters write in the names of someone else on their ballots. The five outgoing directors are J. S. Bridwell, president; J. T. Harrell, vice president; N. H. Martin, secretary; J. M. McFall and J. M. Baber.

There are six nominees for directors in Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 2. Five will be selected. The nominees are W. R. Davis, D. E. Hooks, Ben F. Greer, W. L. Hodges, J. C. Burks and T. J. Pace. The outgoing directors are C. H. Clark, president; W. R. Davis, vice president; J. D. Overbey, secretary; W. L. Hodges and D. E. Hooks.

Any qualified voter living in the district can vote at this election and property ownership is not a requirement.

In Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 there will be only one polling place and the box will be located at the courthouse. Election officials have been named as follows: G. D. Anderson, presiding judge; W. S. Curlee, judge; E. C. Buelteman and S. M. Gose Jr., clerks.

There will be three election boxes for Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 2. Precinct No. 1 includes that portion of the district lying south of the Big Wichita river and west of the Iowa Park-Holliday road. The polling place will be at the Valley View schoolhouse. Officials will be Gail V. Mitchell, presiding judge; W. Lee Warren, judge; and J. C. Craig and Mrs. Gail Mitchell, clerks.

Neighboring Counties Expected to Be Represented at Demonstration of Pork Curing at State Farm This Week

County agents, home demonstration agents and farmers from a number of Northwest Texas counties are expected next Thursday and Friday for the demonstration of pork cutting and curing to be held at the state experiment station near Iowa Park.

E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine husbandman at A. & M. college and Roy W. Snyder, extension meat specialist, will be in charge. The public is invited to attend.

The newest methods in cutting and curing will be demonstrated.

This demonstration follows a number of community demonstrations in beef cutting in this county.

County agents and others from several neighboring counties have indicated their intention to attend.

GIRL PROSPERS IN SERVING HER FAMILY

PARIS.—A profit of $1,056.10 in four years of 4-H club work is reported by Cora Lee Stevens of Lamar county, who declares that "without club work I think I would have made a failure in caring for a home." She has raised poultry valued at $466.50, preserved food worth $258.10, made her own clothing listed at $135, earned $175 in outside farm work, and taken in $7.50 from a calf and $15 in prize money during these four years.

Her garden supplied the family with fresh vegetables from March until frost this year, and of the 440 quarts of vegetables, fruits, and meats canned by her in 1931, 200 quarts were raised in the garden. Cora Lee has also improved the rooms in her home and beautified the yard with screenings and plantings of flowers and shrubs.

FEED PRIZE WINNER BUYS GRINDER WITH HIS PREMIUM CASH

Edwin Muller of Burkburnett, winner of first prize in the dry land division of the feed-growing contest, has put part of his prize money into a secondhand feed grinder. He will grind part of the crop he has raised and feed it to calves.

Most of the boys who won prizes have written letters to the chamber of commerce and to N. H. Martin, expressing their appreciation.

Mineral production poured more than $38,000,000 into the pockets of Iowa operators in 1930.

Six European Nations Will Listen To Broadcast by Group of Popular Radio Entertainers United States

Performances of outstanding artists who have been elected to fame by the radio audience of the United States will be presented to six nations across the Atlantic in a program entitled "Hello Europe!" which will be broadcast from 3:15 to 4:15 p. m., central standard time, Monday, Jan. 11, being heard simultaneously in the United States through a WABC-Columbia network of more than 50 stations.

This will be the second in the series of typical American programs which the Columbia Broadcasting system is transmitting to Great Britain and to Continental countries, as a result of the visit to Europe last summer of William S. Paley, president of the system, and Lawrence W. Lowman, vice president in charge of operations.

The program will be heard in Great Britain through a network of the British Broadcasting corporation's stations, probably 16 in all; in France through the ministry of posts, telephones and telegraphs chain, with about 12 stations hooked up; seven stations of the Italian government system, and transmitters in Vienna, Prague and Budapest. No program originating in the United States ever before has been so widely distributed in other countries.

Freddie Rich's "Columbians," in their symphonic jazz setting of "Way Down South in Heaven," will open the program, which will continue with the Morton Downey—Tony Wons—Jacques Renard combination in a presentation similar to those regularly given Columbia audiences.

VERNON PREPARES TO ENTERTAIN 250 AT C. C. BANQUET

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 9.—An attendance of 230 is being prepared for the annual Vernon Chamber of Commerce banquet on Jan. 12, at the Wilbarger hotel dining room. President J. L. WINDTHORST MAY SEND FARMERS TO IRRIGATED VALLEY

The Windthorst and Scotland communities in Archer county may furnish some new farmers for the irrigated valley. J. F. Meurer of Windthorst, veteran farmer of that region, told the directors of the Wichita Valley Development association at the last meeting that several of the younger members of the Scotland-Windthorst communities were interested in locating in the valley.

Some of them, Mr. Meurer said, took jobs in Wichita Falls, but became jobless recently. The fact that all have had farming experience in one of Northwest Texas' best farming sections would make them valuable additions to the valley, Mr. Meurer pointed out.

Every effort will be made to bring some of them into the valley, the directors indicated.

The association has adopted its constitution and bylaws and also approved the form of sales contract under which colonization of the valley will be facilitated.

The old story of how terracing improves yields is found again in the experience of Roy Easley of Bremond, Robertson county, who gathered 1½ bales of cotton this fall from three worn-out acres terraced two years ago.

WEARS SAME SUIT QUARTER CENTURY

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 9.—E. W. Reeves, for many years county jailer of Greer county, is believed to hold the county championship for getting the longest service out of a suit of clothes.

Away back in 1907—the year Oklahoma became a state—"Lige" spent $30 for a blue serge suit. The suit is still being worn daily, with the replacement of new trousers. In one vest pocket is a ballot of the general election held in 1907, which contains the names of two county officers who were elected 24 years ago and are still serving. They are Jarrett Todd, county judge and S. H. Tittle, county sheriff.

Search Warrant Brings to Light Additional Loot

Additional loot, allegedly taken recently in a series of clothes line thefts, was found at the home of a negro Saturday afternoon by F. M. Dowdy, city detective, and Herbert Pogue, motorcycle officer.

As yet the loot, mainly clothing, has not been identified.

Burglary charges have already been filed against the negro, who was arrested last Tuesday by city officers who, in a second trip to his quarters that day, found five casings and a trunk full of clothing. Friday morning Detectives Luke Hart and Noah Daves found more goods. Two misdemeanor charges also face the man.

The felony charge was filed Friday by Lewis Kro, living on the Wichita-Archer county border, after he identified two of the casings, said to have been taken from his garage Jan. 2.

OIL INDUSTRY FACES BRIGHTER PROSPECT FOR NEW YEAR

Indications Point to Improvement in All Phases of Petroleum Production Business Throughout United States

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

With a rapid decrease in the district's oil production, brought about by voluntary as well as forced curtailment, the oil industry entered into the first week of the new year with brighter prospects for improvement than it had faced with the dawn of 1931.

The beginning of 1931 found the country with enormous stocks on hand. Extensive drilling campaigns under way were factors in opening up new pools, which continued to pour their thousands of barrels of flush oil on an already overloaded market, resulting in the purchasing agencies administering a series of reductions in price.

The discovery of the East Texas pool, which after a few months was producing 500,000 barrels per day, was the straw that broke the camel's back, and in a short time the entire price market had collapsed and millions of barrels of the state's richest asset was going begging at from five to 10 cents per barrel, with few takers. East Texas landowners continued to sell their birthright for a mess of pottage for several months, when the governor stepped in and declared martial law as the final gesture to stop the unwarranted waste.

No such conditions face this year's activities. A glance at production sees the oil men and producers using methods for abatement of production, not only in Texas but throughout the country at large, with the result that each week these reports show substantial decreases of many thousand barrels of crude daily in their immediate sections.

In the Wichita Falls district, since the inauguration of the Sunday closing plan Dec. 27, the runs from the various pools have dropped approximately 5,000 barrels per day, and mind you these figures show about 70 per cent of the operators adhering to this voluntary policy. With the rest of these producers on the outside falling in line with this curtailment, this section's output would in a short time show a figure far below the amount of oil already allowed by the railroad commission, and unless a further reduction in the output is forthcoming, present price structure may expect to receive with a short time another disastrous jolt.

Operations throughout the pools of the district during the week were started with the usual number of tests drilling. Several wells that had been drilled to the sand before Christmas were drilled in and completed. These were located in the proven areas. Eight locations were staked out in the different counties, four in Young, one in Wichita, two in Archer, one in Jack county.

Pipe line runs for the week ended Saturday, Jan. 9, 1932, averaged 47,829 barrels, a drop of 1,787 barrels daily as compared with the previous week's run. Sunday curtailing of the output from the wells of one-seventh of the oil and proration were responsible for the drop.

JOINER AREA IS WIDENED THREE MILES TO S. E.

HENDERSON, Texas, Jan. 9.—Peyton Brothers No. 1 Perry, 12 miles south and a little west of Henderson, blew in unexpectedly at 3 o'clock this morning and turned wild with 15 to 30 million cubic feet gas, assuring three miles southeast extension Joiner area.

Luther Swift, chief supervisor railroad commission, with headquarters here, sent two deputy supervisors, H. L. Williford and S. R. Barber, with a representative of the Halliburton Cementing company to assist in an effort to control the well. Capt. A. B. Capers is on the way from military headquarters this morning.

The drillers started Friday afternoon to drill the plug but shut down last night awaiting daylight to resume operations. The well broke loose early this morning. The well is located in Sparks survey, Rusk county.

Half Mile to West

TYLER, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—The Joiner area of the East Texas oil field has been extended one-half mile to the west by conversion of the Sinclair No. 1 Wiley well into a producer.

When completed last April, the well made about 80 per cent salt water. Cement was used to plug it back and an oil flow of between 30 and 40 barrels an hour was developed. The cement was holding and the Sinclair company prepared to erect storage tanks.

CHILLICOTHE VALLEY POULTRY SHOW TO BE HELD JANUARY 28-30

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Jan. 9.—Chillicothe Valley Poultry show, scheduled to get underway here Thursday, Jan. 7, has been postponed until Jan. 28-29-30, it was reported by Secretary W. M. Gourley. Rain and bad weather have played havoc with the dirt roads recently in the Chillicothe vicinity, which would prevent many of the poultrymen from attending, and which would have held down the interest. Rather than go ahead without a full entry and not disappoint those who would not be able to attend, the poultry officials believed a postponement was necessary.

Mr. Gourley announced there would be at least 60 prizes and premium ribbons offered at the show.

Prizes and ribbons will be offered on first and second winning pens, both young and old, on the following breeds and varieties: White Leghorn, Buff Orpington, Rhode Island Red, Rhode Island White, White Rock, Barred Rock, Buff Leghorn, Brown Leghorn, White Minorca, Black Minorca, Silver Lace Wyandotte, White Wyandotte, Ancona, Light Brahma, Autralorp, Bantam, Jersey Black Giant, Dark Cornish, White Cornish, capon and turkey.

FIGURES SHOW OKLAHOMA OIL MORE ACTIVE

OKLAHOMA CITY FIELD OVER NEW ALLOWABLE

Ask That Figures Be Lowered 40,000 Barrels for Each Day

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 9.—The drill was only slightly active in Oklahoma in 1931 in comparison with 1930, revised figures on development work for the Sooner state indicate. A total of 848 wells were started during the year, just 1,942 less than were begun in 1930.

Seventy-nine test wells were launched in December, the revised figures adding the following to the December list of first reports:

Carter County—Frank Lundy and others No. 1 Spragins, in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest of 8-1s-2w.

Coal County—Midwestern Oil and Gas company No. 1 Barnett, in the center of the southeast of the northeast of 25-5n-9e.

Muskogee County—G. S. Wilson No. 1 Barnett, in the northwest corner of the southwest of 35-16-15e, and W. F. Simpson and others No. 2 Cobb, in the center of the south line of the southeast of the northeast of 6-14-17e.

Pottawatomie County—Gypsy Oil company No. 5 Horn, in the northwest of the northeast of the northeast of 23-6-3e.

Wagoner County—Marr and others No. 1 Snake, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the northwest of 26-18-15e.

There were six official completions during the fiscal week just ended as follows:

Muskogee County—Mack Drilling company No. 4 Peterson, in the southwest corner of the northwest of the southwest of the northwest of 34-16-15e, a 50-barrel well at 1195 to 1220 feet; J. V. Dunbar and others No. 1 Spaulding, in the northwest of the southeast of the southwest of 4-15-18e, a 40-barrel well at 1003 to 1013 feet, and T. E. Wheeler No. 1 Field, in the southeast corner of the northwest of the southeast of the northwest of 18-15-18e, a failure at 1343 feet.

Okmulgee County—Penrod and Thompson No. 4 Sheppard, in the northwest corner of the southwest of the northwest of 29-12-14e, a 1,000,000-foot gasser at 3050 to 3064 feet.

Pawnee County—Gus Beagle No. 1 Duck, in the center of the east line of the northeast of the northeast of 30-20-10e, a 185,000-foot gasser at 2045 to 2092 feet.

Wagoner County—Braman Oil company No. 1 Andy, in the southwest corner of the northwest of 32-18-17e, a 500,000-foot gasser at 1015 to 1044 feet.

Drill Out Plugs

The Empire Oil and Refining company and Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation No. 2 Fish, in the southwest of the southeast of the southeast of 19-7-8, in the Fish pool south of Wewoka, in Seminole county, drilled out the plugs from 2967 to 3033 feet in the Wapanucka lime and it flowed 238 barrels the first four hour and 480 barrels the next 12 hours, and the gas flow was estimated at 3,200,000 cubic feet.

Mid-Continent's No. 1 Bruner, in the northwest of the southeast of 9-7-8, drilled out the plugs at 2835 to 2937 feet, and the gas flow blew the tools up the hole, snapped the drilling line and lodged the tools in the hole. A cleanup job is on.

Tubing the well of Conservation Oil company No. 1 Hart, in the northwest corner of 27-5-8, in northern Pontotoc county, at 1693 to 1700 feet, caused the well to head up and flow 102 barrels in 12 hours.

Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation No. 1 Farmer, in the southeast of the southwest of the northwest of 2-6-4, south of St. Louis pool, in southern Pottawatomie county, is shutdown at 4385 feet. The six-inch casing may be set to case off water and so drilling can proceed to the Wilcox sand.

The Tulca Oil company is building rig for No. 1 Semele, in the northeast corner of the southwest of the northeast of 30-7-8, in the Fish pool. The rig was originally erected in April, 1931, for Gypsy Oil company No. 1 Halsey, in the northwest corner of the northeast of 17-9-6, in the West Seminole City area, but never spudded.

Oklahoma City oil field went above the new allowable for the first quarter of 1932 the first time this year yesterday when the 176 wells on production made 166,728 barrels of oil.

Operators committee there has recommended to the corporation commission that as pipelines only want 120,000 barrels a day from the capital field that the allowable figures be reduced from 160,000 barrels a day to 120,000 barrels a day.

Daily potential of California has been computed at 1,074,700 barrels for January, 1932, by Umpire Neal Anderson. In December, 1931, it was 1,858,700 barrels a day. Daily allowable continues at 456,700 barrels. In December it was 487,850 barrels a day. Naw allowable is 42.50 per cent of potential, against 46.05 per cent for December.

The dinner will begin at 7:30 o'clock and the talk at 8:30. This is the second of a series of talks on different areas in Texas and Oklahoma which are to be given this winter.

STRIKE OF NEW YORK TRUCK DRIVERS ENDED

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Nearly 500 union coal truck drivers in Manhattan, the Bronx and New Jersey returned to their jobs today, ending a strike which began Monday.

The union men were given back their jobs under an agreement which provides for the arbitration of a proposed 10 per cent wage cut.

With Only One Friday the Thirteenth An Extra Day and Prosperity at Hand Nineteen Thirty-two Promises Well

By GREGORY EWING

The year 1932 should be kind to a number of folks.

To be truthful it should be exceedingly decent to every one in the world—decent in one way to every one, decent in two ways to a fair percentage of the world's population and decent in three distinct manners to a third group.

It all just depends.

Class 1—The entire world.

Class 3—All superstitious persons, including superstitious husband-hunters, in the world.

The initial group contains all the world, every living person on the globe. For it's this way: The personnel of the world is anxiously gazing through 1932 in search of prosperity. For prosperity is reported "just around the corner," and every one—from granddad on down—is developing grabhooks on the ends of the wrist in order to clutch it as it appears.

Group two concerns the fact that 1932 is leap year. Although the modern miss seldom waits for the year of the extra day to propose a double harness, nevertheless there are a few mid-Victorian souls who hesitate until the new year comes around. And so 1932 holds an extra bit of good fortune to the modern Eve with prosperity en route and leap year at hand.

Best Chance of All

For they get prosperity, a chance at a husband and only one bad-luck day in 1932!

The present year has but one Friday the thirteenth—in May.

Last year held three of the hard spots—in February, March and November, which may have been the reason for the continued depression.

But just think of it, you superstitious hunters of males—prosperity is at hand, you may grab a meal ticket and only once during the year need you fear bad luck omens.

Here's the only drawback—maybe you never knew of it.

Friday is always regarded as an unlucky day among superstitious folk, probably because of public mind association with the execution of criminals, which usually took place on Friday, commonly called "hangman's day."

Incidentally, Friday was so named from the Anglo-Saxon Frigeday, the day of Friga, the wife of Odin and the Teutonic goddess of love. It corresponds in Latin to Dies Veneris, day of Venus, and to the French Vendredi.

Friday's religious associations are varied. According to the Mohammedans it was the day when Adam was created, entered paradise, was expelled therefrom, the day of his repentance, of his death and is to be his day of resurrection. It is the Moslem "day of assembly" or Sabbath.

In the Greek, Latin and other Christian Episcopal churches it is regarded as a fast day, except when Christmas falls on a Friday and is especially observed on Good Friday.

But just the same, with only one Friday the thirteenth, leap year and with prosperity but next door, 1932 should be a mighty good year.

DISMISS JURY IN CASE OF RUFE LANGFORD IN COURT AT GOLDTHWAITE

GOLDTHWAITE, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—Jurors trying Charley Langford on a charge of murder for the death of his father, Rufe Langford, were dismissed last night when they failed to agree. The defendant was remanded to jail in default of bond.

Rufe Langford was killed east of Goldthwaite last February, the state alleging he died from a blow. The defendant claimed he was crushed to death when an automobile on which he was repairing a tire ran over him.

Sunday Shutdown Big Cause Lessened Runs

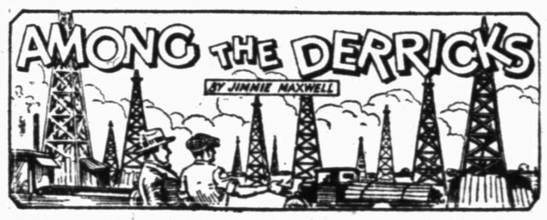

The action of the pipe line companies in running only six-sevenths of the allowable oil, coupled with the voluntary shutting down of the greater portion of the district's leases each Sunday, is the direct cause of a substantial decrease in the district's runs each week. Last week the continued curtailment reduced the runs from the nine counties to a new low figure of 47,829 barrels daily, a decrease of 1,787 barrels under the week of Jan. 2. At present about 70 per cent of the operators in the local fields have joined in the Sunday movement, and hopes are held that within a few weeks the other 30 per cent will fall in line to further reduce this output. Below is the run by pools.

LOCATIONS FOR TWO NEW TESTS AT SAN ANGELO

SAN ANGELO 1932 WORK INDICATES NEW REVIVAL

Interest Surpasses Other Developments in West Texas

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 9.—Indicative of a revival of drilling, locations for two important tests were staked and a wildcat, shut down since February, 1931, resumed operations this week, surpassing in interest other oil developments in West Texas during the first week in the new year.

Corvette Oil company's No. 5-B Monroe in the Toborg-Tippett shallow pool in Pecos county became one of the first new producers of 1932, initially pumping 265 barrels of oil in 18 hours at 538 feet. Production by Gulf's No. 9 O'Brien in Ward county increased at 2610 feet and flows by John F. Shipley and Byrd & Harmon's No. 1 Monroe, northwestern Ward county discovery well, became more frequent after 4¾-inch casing was reset. Texon's No. 3-B University, one of the world's nine deepest oil wells, in Reagan county, added 30 feet to its record depth by drilling to 8970 and began testing again.

Fuhrman Petroleum corporation began digging slush pit and cellar for No. 1 F. Boner and others in Andrews county, 1320 feet from the north line and 440 feet from the west line of section 24, block A-43, public school land. It will be one-half mile plus two locations east and a quarter-mile south of Fuhrman's No. 1 W. T. Ford, largest of five Andrews county producers and the highest test structurally yet drilled in the county. No. 1 Ford is six miles south of the discovery well in the county. It was completed by shooting twice late in 1930 below 4300 feet for initial yield of 235 barrels daily, flowing. For lack of a pipe line outlet all the Andrews county wells are shut in.

B. C. Mann of San Angelo and Steve Currie of Garden City began moving in materials for a test on their ranch in north central Glasscock county, 330 feet from the north line and 1980 feet from the east line of section 27, block 34, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. They own nine sections in fee. Grover Parish and Chas. Hagerty of San Angelo will drill the wildcat to 3000 feet, unless production is obtained shallower, in part consideration for a half interest in 80 acres—the west half of the northeast quarter of section 27—on which location has been made. It is about five miles south of the McDowell pool.

To Deepen Test

Mintex Oil company of Duluth, Minn., and San Angelo began rigging a National machine to deepen to 2900 feet the test on the Sam Waring ranch in Concho county which W. C. Beesley of San Angelo drilled to 267 feet in shale early in 1931. Location is 400 feet from the north and east lines of section 163, T. & N. O. Ry. Co. survey, six miles south of Eden. Several tests drilled in the area had oil shows but none developed production.

Adams & Bradley's No. 1 Wheat, in section 89, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, latest test to spud in the Wheat field in Loving county, ran 12¼-inch casing at 280 feet in redrock and drilled ahead. Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Wheat in section 85, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, was rigging up. The next test scheduled to reach the producing horizon in the Delaware sand was F. S. Tennant and others' No. 1 Martin in section 66, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, in the southern part of the pool. It had drilled past 4200 feet without running six-inch pipe.

Weekley Oil corporation and Casteel & McCurdy's No. 1 E. F. Cowden, Ector county wildcat gasser and most closely watched test, was scheduled to resume fishing for tools late in the week after changing from cable to rotary tools during a three-week shutdown. An increase in gas Dec. 13 at 3795-97 feet blew tools up the hole and in attempting to recover them fishing tools were lost. Before beginning the change in equipment a 10-inch hole was straight-reamed to the top of the fishing tools at 3080 feet. An estimated 500,000 cubic feet of gas was struck at 3790-95 feet and the increase was estimated as high as 5,000,000 feet.

No. 1 Cowden is in section 33, block 43, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, about eight miles northwest of the Penn pool. Humble was reported to have bought from E. F. Cowden leases on the west half of section 21, the east half of section 20, the northeast quarter of section 29 and the northwest quarter of section 28, all in block 43, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, at $37.50 an acre. The tracts are north and northeast of the wildcat gasser from one-half mile to two miles.

Shuts Off Water

Corvette's No. 5-B Monroe, new Pecos county producer, in section 39, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey, topped the oil sand at 488 feet and had increases to 545 feet, where water was struck. It plugged back to 538 feet, shutting off the water before going on the pump.

Producing through 4½-inch casing which was reset at 4555 feet, Shipley and others' No. 1 Monroe, in section 3, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, in northwestern Ward county, was flowing an average of 100 barrels of oil every other day from 4666 feet, three feet in the Delaware sand.

Gulf's No. 9 Hutchins, in section 5, block F, G. & M., M. B. & A. survey, in northern Ward county, which sprayed an estimated 15 barrels of oil daily at 2600 feet, obtained an oil increase at 2610 feet and flowed 125 barrels in one 24-hour period. Stanolind's No. 1 Brown, in section 26, block B-29, public school land, shut off a hole full of water from 2757-62 feet by plugging back to 2390 feet, where it was to be completed in the upper pay. Before deepening from 2558 feet it sprayed as high as 17 barrels of oil daily with around 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The last increase was at 2365.

Deep Well Deepened

Beginning testing at the eighth level since it started deepening at 8633 feet, Texon's No. 3-B University in Reagan county flowed 1695 barrels of oil the first 17 hours ending Wednesday morning. Last week-end it deepened from 8940 to 8970 feet. Texon's No. 1-B University, the discovery deep well, which killed its production at 8525 feet, was unable to recover some pipe and began making new hole at 5090 feet, had drilled to 8235 feet in shale. Texon's No. 2-B University continued rigging up to deepen from 8667 feet, where it became the largest gusher in the pool before being shut in April 6, 1931.

Shut in since June 18, 1931, at 8609 feet, Big Lake Oil company's No. 2-C University tested briefly before drilling ahead, making 1470 barrels in 24 hours, and had reached 8652 feet. Big Lake's No. 1-C University was waiting for cement to set after plugging back from 8909 to 8715 feet to shut off a small amount of water, the first to show in any of the deep wells. Big Lake's No. 6-C University, bottomed at 4810 feet, continued efforts to recover drill pipe below 2300 feet. Four of the deep wells on steady production during the week ending Jan. 2 gauged 103,126 barrels, 7,124 barrels more than during the week before.

Irion county's two wildcats that will seek the Ordovician, from which the deep wells in Reagan county flow, were cleaning out to resume drilling, Stanolind's No. 1 Williams with a rotary at 6795 feet and Plymouth-Benedum's No. 1 Sugg at 5627 feet. Ellis-Flanery corporation's No. 1 Nutt in section 694, H. W. Krekenbohn survey, a short distance northwest of Sherwood, was abandoned dry at 3202 feet in blue shale, Straughn and Adkins Bros.' No. 1 Lee in section 792, C. Kaiser survey, had drilled to 1360 feet.

In Schleicher county J. D. Wesner's No. 1 Nicks was repairing engine at 5400 feet in sand. Eastland Oil company and others' No. 1 Tisdale was completing cleaning out and landing of 6¼-inch pipe to resume drilling at 4510 feet.

Castor Bros'. No. 1 Dean in Johann Hiel survey No. 419 in Runnels county, three miles southwest of Ballinger, shut down at 3600 feet in lime after encountering salt water. It had a showing of oil slightly below 3400 feet.

Army's Good Year

LONDON.—The year ending Sept. 30, 1931, was a good one for England's army, considering the number of enlistments. Total enlistments were over 34,000, as compared with just over 26,000 last year.

NEW TEST WILL BE STAKED IN CARTER COUNTY OIL FIELD

South Side Tatums Field Site of Additional Layout

FOLLOWS COMPLETION OF PRODUCERS OF LAST WEEK

Work Not Yet Finished by Surveyors; Have Run New Lines

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 9.—The Carter Oil company was preparing to stake location for a new test on the south side of the Tatums field, in northwest Carter county, following completion of a producer brought in last week.

Surveyors were running lines for the new location but had not completed their work and exact 10-acre location was not available. However, it will be located in the south part of the field, near the Frank Gouin test in the center of the southwest of the northwest of 30-1s-2w, three-eighths of a mile south of production.

The Tatums Oil company No. 1 J. C. Carter in the southwest corner of the northwest of 13-1s-3w, approximately a half mile north of production, was still a derrick. Operators expect to move in tools and start drilling within the next few weeks.

Schermerhorn-Ardmore company No. 1 Bourland-Howard in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest of 1-6s-1e, on the north edge of Love county and about two miles southeast of the old Brock field in southern Carter county, was underreaming 10-inch casing to shut out water with total depth at 224 feet in the Simpson formation.

Charles Van Vleck No. 1 Sheldon in the center of the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 14-8s-2w, near the town of Jimtown in southwest Love county, has been shut down for some time with total depth at 2100 feet and is reported as having been abandoned.

ASK FURTHER LIMIT PRODUCTION FLUSH OKLA. CITY FIELD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9. (UP)—Oklahoma City operators went before the corporation commission today with another request to further limit production from the flush Oklahoma City field.

Accumulation of storage which has but little market during this period of seasonal slump in consumption prompted them to request a 40,000-barrel a day reduction to a daily average flow of 120,000 barrels.

Although opposition to the proposal was heard from some operators, it was believed the commission would issue a new order incorporating the recommendations.

If this proposal is made effective, domestic production virtually is certain to register another week or two of declining yield, a development hoped for by oil leaders. The experts wish to get production and refinery operation to a low level for the first quarter of 1932 to clear the way for active operation and market when the high demand season starts.

Field work was slow throughout the mid-continent. Only six new stakings were recorded the past week in Oklahoma. Drilling in Oklahoma declined sharply in 1932, estimates said. Last year's first report totaled 848 compared with 1,892 for the preceding year. Texas, however, made up for this deficiency. Within 15 months after its discovery, the East Texas field alone had 3,705 producing wells.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 9. (AP)—D. C. Warren of Alameda, Calif., and his pilot, Robert Smith, were killed last night in the crash of their plane near the St. Helen's air beacon, about 35 miles north of Portland.

Coroner T. S. White said the plane apparently stuck a tall snag on a logged-off hill in the mountainous country not far from the beacon.

JANUARY INCREASE IN ACTIVITY REVIVES BUSINESS SPIRITS

Sharp Pick-Up in Industrial Lines With Advance in Security Prices Creates Better Tone in Business

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (UP)—Business spirits revived this week with the usual January increase in activity and the first sustained advance in security prices since early November.

Industrial lines like iron and steel, transportation and automobiles showed a marked pickup from the abnormally dull year-end holiday season. Many manufacturing plants stepped up production to early December levels.

The better feeling coincided with the progress of the president's reconstruction finance corporation in congress. It is designed to cope with unwarranted deflation by the means of mild, controlled inflation. It will augment the National Credit corporation in assisting banks and will go further in aiding railroads and export trade.

Construction Planned

Meanwhile various industries, utilities and municipalities are planning construction that will tend to alleviate the employment situation. According to F. W. Dodge corporation, new construction activities in the United States in the first quarter of this year will exceed $600,000,000. Utility construction programs will swell this total.

The automobile industry entered its busy season confident this year will exceed or at least equal the 1931 sales. December production by a few leaders like General Motors and Chrysler was high.

More activity in automobile lines has given impetus to steel production, operations during the past week reaching 24 per cent of capacity, compared with the year and low of approximately 15 per cent.

The oil industry has improved after the past four years to painful readjustments, stimulated by the success of the current Sunday shutdown movement. The tide of oil dividend reductions and omissions is expected to turn soon.

Even the hard-pressed railroad industry is encouraged by moves to restore railroad credit.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 9. (UP) Steadying prices in grains, livestock and oil products featured this week's activity in southwestern business circles.

In sympathy with the break in stocks and commodities early in the week, wheat prices slumped but reacted favorably to regain the loss.

The livestock industry was steady, with prices of most classes of killing animals around levels of the previous week. Shipments of livestock, though larger than the past few weeks, were below normal for early January, except for lambs, which were shipped freely.

More wheat was fed to livestock in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas during 1931 than any previous year, a local authority reported.

Oil operators were optimistic about the drastic crude oil production curtailment effected last week. A drop of about 90,000 barrels in the daily average production was considered a favorable start for the new year.

Oil Market Steady

Work in the Oklahoma City field was slow due to inclement weather conditions. Crude and refined oil transactions continued steady and oil financial markets advance.

Annual "January clearance" sales were in progress in most of the large department stores in the district. Wholesale and retail trade were running about normal.

Dec. 31 statements for banking institutions in the southwest were published this week. Reports from the large cities indicated loans and discounts were holding up with little change occurring during the past three months, while deposits dropped.

Deposits of 10 national banks in Kansas City, Mo., showed a decrease of $26,000,000 over that of last year, or a decline of 16 per cent, which corresponded with the general drop over the country. Cash holdings and discounts dropped $19,000,000 and $10,000,000 respectively.

The metal market last week in the tri-state district, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, was steady, and an increase was noted in lead prices.

MODERATE LOSSES FOLLOW ADVANCE IN GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Steering almost parallel with the New York stock market, grains at first advanced today and then receded, with moderate losses the net result.

Contributing to late setbacks in wheat values were indications of immediate heavy shipments from the southern hemisphere with Argentine offering wheat to Europe much cheaper than North America. Price upturns earlier received impetus from reports that Greece was negotiating for 12,000,000 bushels of United States farm board wheat, and that France might soon relax her wheat import restrictions.

Wheat closed unsettled ¼@⅜c under yesterday's finish, corn 1@1¼c down, oats ¼@⅛c off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Predictions that corn receipts would be augmented by colder weather tended to minimise purchases of corn and oats.

Provisions averaged lower with hog values. January lard was offered at 4.97, the bottommost price since 1899.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 55⅝@¾c, 57c; July 55@55¼c, 56¼@½c; Sept. 56½c, bids. Corn—May 39½c, 40⅝@½c; July 40⅞c, 42c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—(USDA)—Most killing classes of cattle except short fed steers with weight opened the week at prices strong to unevenly higher with light weight steers, yearlings and she stock generally 25@50c up. Receipts on late sessions, however, exceeded expectations and the markets lost its edge.

Several points reported most of the early upturn erased. Short fed medium weight and heavy steers were under pressure at all times and are weak to 50c lower with last week's close. Stocker and feeder classes were offered in only meagre numbers and prices were firm to 25c higher. Aggregate receipts at 11 markets totaling around 155,000 were 50,000 heavier than last week and 25,000 more than the corresponding period a year ago.

Hog prices are generally 10@30c under a week ago with St. Louis having a closing top of $4.60. The week's supply approximating 700,000 was 144,000 heavier than last week but 38,000 short of a year ago.

Sharp price upturns the fore part of the week placed fat lambs prices at the highest levels since October. The advance, however, was generally erased on declines on Thursday and Friday. Mature killing classes of sheep retained the early advance of 25@50c while some strength also developed on feeding lambs. Total offerings for the week were around 277,000 against 283,863 last week and 353,371 a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs—Receipts 1,500; steady to 10c lower; top $4.10 on 180-210 pounds; bulk good to choice 180-280 pounds $3.80@4.00; sows $3.00@3.25.

Cattle—Receipts 250; calves 50c; for week: Better light weight steers strong to 25c higher; others weak to 25c lower; light yearlings and she stock steady; spots 25c higher on light yearlings under 700 pounds; vealers and calves strong to 50c higher; stockers and feeders strong to 25c higher. Week's tops: Yearling steers $9.25; heavy steers $8.75; mixed yearlings $8.50; bulk short fed steers $4.75@7.50; short fed heifers $5.00@6.50.

Sheep—No receipts; for week: Lambs 25@40c lower; sheep 25@50c higher; week's top wooled lambs $6.35, closing top to shippers $6.10, to packers $5.75; week's bulk wooled lambs $5.75@6.15; shorn lambs $4.75@5.25; top $5.40; sheep scarce; slaughter ewes downward from $3.00.

Bright Spots in U. S. Business

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—New construction projects in the United States for the first quarter of 1932 amounted to more than $600,000,000, with 250 jobs now under way at $1,000,000 or more each, F. W. Dodge corporation reported.

CLEVELAND.—Shipments of Lake Superior iron ores from Lake Erie ports during December totaled 174,885 tons, against 137,299 tons in December, 1930.

NEW YORK.—Lerner Stores corporation reported for the year 1931 sales of $26,067,607, against $25,291,307 in 1930, a gain of 3.1 per cent.

DETROIT.—Production schedule of Pontiac cars by General Motors corporation for January shows an increase of 26 per cent over original output decided upon, it was reported.

NEW YORK.—Business failures during the past week numbered 739, against 972 in the corresponding week of 1930, Bradstreet's reported.

AUSTIN.—The 2,116 companies incorporated in Texas in 1931 had a total capitalization of $86,096,000, an increase of $12,000,000 or 16 per cent over the total capitalization for 1930, the bureau of business research of the University of Texas announced today.

REALIZING CHECKS THREE-DAY RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—The stock market's rise was halted by profit-taking today, but domestic corporation bonds plugged away at the advance.

Week-end realizing sales affected shares rather generally, as was probably to have been expected after the three-day rally, although the market did not sell off until further gains had been made in the first hour. Net losses for leaders ranged from a fraction to two points, and brokers went home well satisfied with the week's result.

Germany's decision to notify the powers of her inability to continue reparations payments caused little or no surprise in banking circles here, for such a step has been regarded as inevitable. Her announcement, well in advance of the Lausanne and Geneva conferences, finds representatives of France and Great Britain conferring on the problem; private advices have indicated that they were nearer an agreement on extending the moratorium and that France was ready to take a more conciliatory attitude. German bonds declined on the morning's news, but otherwise markets seemed unaffected by it.

Declines in stocks amounted to roughly a point for Bethlehem, General Electric, American Can, Woolworth, North American, Consolidated Gas and International Telephone. U. S. Steel, as is usual when the tonnage report is hanging fire, was hesitant, up a point net at the best and off a point net at the close. American Telephone and Allied Chemical each lost 2. Rails were quiet. Sales totaled 1,154,330 shares.

Foreign currency fluctuations were uninteresting. The pound was very steady, likewise the reichsmark. French banks eased a trifle but the yen and Canadian dollar firmed.

COTTON ADVANCES ON CONTINUATION OF RECENT BUYING

NEW YORK, Jan 9. (AP)—A continuation of the recent buying movement promoted by the more optimistic view of the general economic outlook sent the price of March contracts up to 6.55 in the cotton market here during today's early trading or about 7 points higher.

This price seemed to attract southern selling and most of the advance was lost in the later trading under realizing or liquidation influenced by reactions in the stock market. March sold at 6.49, with the general market barely steady, net unchanged to 3 points higher.

For a time trading was fairly active with May selling up to 6.72 and July to 6.90, making net advances of about 7@10 points on the active months and carrying prices slightly above the best figures reached on the December rally. The market reacted in the late trading. Closing quotations were 6@9 points off from the best.

Traders still appeared to be watching the stock market. Buying appeared to be encouraged by reports from Washington pointing to a possibility that the financing corporation measure would be enacted in the near future. There were also reports of a continued steady spot situation in the South and some further buying here supposed to be for Japanese or other Far Eastern interests.

Liverpool cables reported that Bombay liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in that marekt and said that business in cotton cloths in Manchester was inactive with producers losing ground. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 152,000 bales against 116,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9. (AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today for a short week-end session. Prices showed an upward tendency due to good cables and to early firmness in stocks. After advancing 15@17 points above the previous close, the market eased off 6@9 points near the close to a late break in stocks. The close was steady and showed net gains for the day of 8@9 points.

The market opened firm as Liverpool came in 2@4 penny points better than due and there was also a readjustment of prices to meet yesterday's advance in New York while the market here was closed. Private cables from Liverpool stated that the trade called and shorts covered. Manchester cabled that cloth and yarns were inactive and that producers were losing ground.

March closed at 6.47, May at 6.62 and July at 6.80, these active months showing net gains of 8@9 points.

Port receipts 36,176; for the season 6,723,720; last season 7,221,699. Exports 12,616; for season 4,197,326; last season 4,081,689. Port stocks 4,812,921; last year 4,184,328. DAWES LOOMS AS HOPE G. O. P. NEXT CAMPAIGN

Hoover Opposition Declines To Accept Discouraging Statement

BLUNT RECEPTION GIVEN SUGGESTION OF FRIENDS

Republicans Stage Assault On Jackson Day Speeches

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—The whirlpool of presidential politics gathered force today with the fortunes of Herbert Hoover as its center.

Among Republicans a positive declaration by Senator Moses for renomination of the president divided interest with conjectures on what the future holds for Charles G. Dawes.

Regardless of what he may think about it, the terse Dawes statement

> CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (INS)—La Salle street reacted bullishly today to the announcement that Gen. Charles G. Dawes would return to banking circles in Chicago.
> Stock of the Central Republic Bank and Trust Co., of which General Dawes is honorary chairman of the board, advanced from a close of $82 yesterday to $110 today.
> It is expected General Dawes will become active in the affairs of the bank after he retires as ambassador to Great Britain.

in resigning as ambassador to Great Britain has left his personal and political associates here perplexed.

For a time speculation as to his possibly being headed toward a place on the Republican ticket in June was stemmed by the characteristically blunt reception he gave it in Chicago this morning.

"It's all damn nonsense," he said. "I won't even discuss it."

But with hints tonight of further moves contemplated by opponents of Hoover and calls to combat from his supporters, there was a disposition to believe Dawes had left the door open.

Along with discussion of possibilities in the Rpueblican fold went talk of the denial today by John J. Raskob, Democratic chairman, that there is any "Smith-Raskob-Shouse" agitation against nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

He called stories to that effect false, but some tension between backers of the New York governor and others persisted at the national committee meeting nevertheless.

An early meeting of the state committee in North Dakota is expected to result in the Roosevelt candidacy being brought more into the open than ever before. Governor Ritchie of Maryland is an avowed candidate.

Moses Defends Hoover

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, announced himself as a "pledged to Hoover" candidate for delegate at large to the Chicago convention. Addressing the Concord Monitor in a public letter, he said "It is time for the Hoover men to stand up and be counted, to make their opinions known and to fight for them."

In New York, meanwhile, Secretary Hyde paid high tribute to the president and his program. Mrs. Hoover stood by his side.

It was at a luncheon of Republican women, who also were told—by Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Pennsylvania committeewoman for the party—that the Republicans "know we shall have the fight of our lives" next fall.

President Hoover had politics up today with C. Bascom Slemp, a power in southern Republican ranks.

Republican assaults on the Jackson day dinner speeches included one tonight by Representative Snell of New York, party leader in the house. In a statement he said the Smith, Davis and Cox suggestions "constitute but a mere fraction of the constructive steps" the Hoover administration has taken to relieve the present situation.

CHARGE SHIPPING BOARD SQUANDERS FUNDS OF PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (US)—Congressional investigation of charges that the shipping board has squandered public funds is called for in a resolution filed today by Representative Ewing Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee.

The resolution was introduced upon instructions of the committee on merchant marine, which would conduct the investigation.

Investigation of ocean mail contracts also is provided for in the resolution, adoption of which appears certain.

Action of the Democratic-controlled committee followed charges by Comptroller General McCarl that the shipping board, through the merchant fleet corporation, had given away hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of supplies and equipment to purchasers of ships from the government.

The Davis resolution gives broad power to investigate all sales and activities of the merchant fleet corporation as well as the shipping board.

McCarl reported that his office has been unable under existing law to obtain details of the transaction by which the United States lines were sold.

> UNDERGRADS TO HAVE THEIR DAY
> EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 9. (AP)—A great day is coming for undergraduates of Northwestern university.
> For years the professors have been grading the students, but now the undergraduates have decided to grade the professors.
> "We are asking the students to grade course and instructor in the regular fashion—from A to F," said Robert Palmer, managing editor of the Daily Northwestern, student publication.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Sue, watching Sally avoiding the answers to the questions that were being asked her, wondered if Sally didn't realize just how completely she was giving away the fact that she was trying to screen someone. Ruth had sensed it, too.

"Why not name the man, Sally?" she asked. "It can't do any harm. If he's innocent he's clear. If he pulled off some crooked deal while he was with you, then he deserves all that he's going to get."

"But he didn't pull off anything at all!" Sally insisted. "I was with a friend of mine from out of town, and I'm not going to get his name mixed up in anything." She bit her lips until they were a slender, fierce red line. "Just because a car disappeared and then came back doesn't mean that we had it."

"But you left in a car, and the man who was with you didn't call for you in one," Jack volunteered. "That car must have belonged to some one at the party. Later a car came in. Some one sat in it, then disappeared. The gardener thought the man had gone into the house. Apparently my car was being returned. If you would help us clear up your angle of it, Miss Bradley, we could forget that and go on to the next clue. But as long as it's there, it balks us."

"I'll say nothing," Sally answered in a hot, strained voice.

"You had better talk, Miss Bradley," an officer's tones, cool, suave, but with a metallic undercurrent, answered. "At once."

"But if I do you will broadcast the name of the man to the papers and everywhere else when he's really innocent. You'll name him as a suspect or something!"

"If he isn't guilty, as you say, we'll not let his name be mentioned in any way at all," the officer promised.

"All right then. The man with me was Hal Pritchard!" Sally flung the words defiantly.

"Hal Pritchard?" Ruth's voice slipped into the silence.

"Yes. What is he to you?" Sally asked her harshly.

"Nothing at all, of course."

"You all are acting as though you expected me to say that name," Sally went on. "Nodding your heads and exchanging glances. I think I have a right to an explanation."

"You do," Jack answered. "You were at the hotel, near the rear entrance last night, around midnight, weren't you?"

"Why, yes. I was waiting for Hal. That's when he had his business to attend to."

"I thought you were. My car—at least a car that looked like mine—came along, evidently waiting for some one. It speeded up and got away when it saw people coming. You admit that you were waiting there for Pritchard."

Sally's eyes were scornful, although her voice shook a little.

"You ought to know all about the man. You were with him, earlier in the evening, had him dated up with my sister. You haven't much room to object to my friendship with him."

"No one's objecting," Ruth interposed. "Nobody else wants him. But somebody has to be arrested and we would sort of like to get the right person."

"Then call him! Arrest him! Do it now!" Sally said angrily.

"That is exactly what we intend to do, Miss Bradley," an officer answered. "In fact, some men are bringing him along now."

Sue saw Sally gasp. She knew very well that there was something else the other girl was trying to hide. But what?

Next—Questioned.

TRAYLOR BOOM SPREADS OVER TEXAS AS FRIENDS EXTEND ORGANIZATION

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (UP)—A movement that started last summer in his former home at Hillsboro today was spreading to every corner of Texas to place a former Texan, Melvin A. Traylor, now a Chicago financier, in the presidential chair as a Democratic candidate.

A series of conferences to bring together the forces of Traylor was planned at a meeting here yesterday. The executive committee of the state Traylor organization is to be increased from 40 members to more than 60 prominent Texans in an effort to penetrate every corner of the large state in which Traylor obtained his first banking experience.

Leaders of the Traylor boom declare it is not an anti-Garner movement. Should John Garner, Texas Democratic speaker of the house, gain the support of Texans at the Democratic convention, the Traylorites will join in trying to nominate him. But if Traylor leads in the convention, Garner forces will join with the Traylor organization, it is explained.

LIDO-WAGGONER SUIT SETTLED AFTER 8 YEARS

LESSEES GET TITLE TO 3,000 ACRES OIL LAND

Lido Company Originally Owned by Late Senator W. H. Reynolds

Eight years of litigation surrounding 3,000 acres of oil leases, including the discovery well of the East Vernon pool, was closed Friday when Judge W. W. Cook, of the 78th district court in Wichita Falls, handed down a judgment as special judge of the district court in Wilbarger county, settling this long drawn out suit in which the W. T. Waggoner estate was seeking to cancel the Lido company's lease.

This judgment, following rulings by the supreme court of Texas, established the principle of law that the lessor is not entitled to cancel or forfeit oil and gas leases merely on the grounds that the lessee failed to use reasonable diligence in developing the property and sets out that the legal remedy of the lessor is to sue for damages or for specific performance of the contract.

The litigation in this case began Jan. 29, 1924, when the Waggoner estate sought to cancel the Lido company's lease. The Lido company had drilled and brought in the first well in Wilbarger county outside of an extension of the Electra field, into a small portion of Wilbarger county.

The trial court confirmed the Lido company's lease to 1,700 acres. The case went to the supreme court, which rendered a decision canceling all of the Lido's lease except as to 10 acres. A rehearing was granted and the supreme court rendered a decision announcing the principal which later established Lido's title to 3,000 acres.

When the case was reversed and remanded the second trial in Wilbarger county resulted in Lido winning title to 2,000 acres. Lido and Waggoner both appealed. The court of civil appeals reversed and held in effect that the decision of the supreme court on the first appeal gave Lido title to all of the 3,000 acres.

Pending litigation the Waggoner estate developed outside acreage through its own efforts and by leases executed by it.

Establishes Title

The judgment entered Friday established Lido's title to 3,000 acres in Wilbarger county on which the discovery well had been drilled and gave Lido title to the 18 oil wells drilled by Waggoner and his lessees and a cash settlement of approximately $75,000 for oil sold by Waggoner and his lessees.

The litigation was started when the late Senator William H. Reynolds of New York was president and principal stockholder of the Sigler Oil company, which name was later changed to the Lido Oil company. Senator Reynolds was well known in oil circles. He died last October in New York City. The name of the Lido company is taken from his pleasure resort, Lido beach on Long Island. Senator Reynolds sold the lease to the land in New York City on which the Chrysler building was erected.

The Lido company was represented by Bullington, Humphrey & King of this city, Cecil Storey of Vernon and Charles L. Black of Austin. The Waggoner estate was represented by J. H. Barwise, of Fort Worth; J. T. Montgomery of Wichita Falls, and W. D. Berry, of Vernon.

George W. Johnson of Lido Beach, New York state, was here during the past week as representative of the Lido Oil company, during negotiations which resulted in the final settlement of the suit.

RED CROSS JOINS RELIEF WORK IN FLOOD DISTRICTS

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 9. (AP)—Carcasses of horses, mules, cows and hogs floated out of the Tippo basin of the Tallahatchie river flood ravaged valley on the east as Red Cross workers set out today by boat on the western side to determine relief measures.

Dogs barked from the hill crests as three feet of water continued to swirl past their havens from the nearly 200-foot crevasse still swelling in the eastern Tallahatchie river levee near Sharkey.

Cotton sheds were torn down in Glendora, Philipps, Charleston and surrounding plantations to build flat-boats and skiffs with which to carry aid to many small tenants still marooned from the break of two days ago.

Hundreds of refugees were housed in railroad box cars up and down the Yazoo and Mississippi valley railroad sidings through Tallahatchie valley. Many hundreds more were assembled in concentration camps in the towns of Glendora, Charleston, Webb, Marks and Swan Lake. These were being added to hourly as boats brought out additional refugees.

One More Story

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—City Fireman Richard T. Hickman was reluctant to tell the following fish story for fear his friends wouldn't believe it, but here it is: Hickman, flushing a fire hydrant in front of the fire station, was surprised to see an eight-inch bass splash out of the pipe. He captured the finny prize. The water department has no solution of the problem of the fish being in the water mains.

Mrs. J. M. Brown, route 1, is a patient in the Wichita General hospital.

Miss Mary Louise Wynn, 1615 Fillmore, and Mrs. Robert McCleskey and baby, 1901 Fillmore, have been released from the Wichita General hospital.

A farmer should be straight in business but crooked in farming, says C. E. Harris of Whitefiat community, Motley county. For two years he has followed crooked terrace rows to find that he gets one-third of a bale of cotton to the acre, maize that outyields his neighbors' 300 pounds to the acres, gullies that are filled up, and land that doesn't blow so badly.

Only 2,500 Poll Taxes and 2,000 Auto Licenses Sold by Tax Collector Here Expect Sell 15,500 More Car Licenses

Only 2,500 poll taxes had been paid by Wichita county citizens when the tax collector's office closed Saturday afternoon. Normally, during a general election year, more than 10,000 poll taxes are issued in this county.

Automobile license plate sales are also far behind the average year's sale. Through Saturday approximately 2,000 plates had been issued and last year the total was 17,500. This means that 15,500 plates remain to be sold in the 18 more working days of this month, an average of about 860 per day.

Arthur C. Howard, tax collector, said that unless motorists started coming in and getting their license plates immediately the courthouse would not have enough room to accommodate the last minute rush, which appears certain to be the worst in history this year.

Mr. Howard also stated that he called the attention of citizens to the fact that this year will be an important election year and that poll taxes should be paid.

MERGER WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS GARNER SUGGESTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Speaker Garner today said he favored consolidation of the war and navy departments into a department of defense because it would help economy in government.

The Texan said hearings would be held by the house expenditures committee on the bill introduced by Chairman Byrns of the house appropriations committee to consolidate the two departments.

The measure would provide for a secretary of defense to be a cabinet member.

"While the measure is opposed by some of those in the army and navy, practical students of the question consider it feasible," Garner said today.

"The consolidation would result in a vast saving, through the elimination of duplicate work of the army and navy and their aviation branches."

After a break in relations since 1929, Washington university and the University of Missouri have signed a four-year football contract.

U. S. Court Denies Exclusive Right To Dry Ice Name

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9. (AP)—The U. S. circuit court of appeals today denied the contention of the Dry Ice Corporation of America that it held exclusive right to the use of the term "dry ice" in advertising and selling its principal product, solid carbon dioxide, a refrigerating substance.

The ruling, handed down in appeals from consolidated suits by the Dry Ice corporation against firms in Louisiana and Texas, reversed decisions of the federal district courts for Western Louisiana and Eastern Texas which had enjoined the defendant firms from use of the term "dry ice" in advertising, labels and sales of stock, except with the printed notation that the product and stock "was not that of the original and pioneer Dry Ice Corporation of America."

The plaintiff corporation based its claim on three registered U. S. trade marks covering the "dry ice" products but the circuit court held the term had come into such common usage as a descriptive for solid carbon dioxide, that there was no basis for a court order to prevent other firms from using it "unless proof was established that other firms had attempted to falsely represent their product as that of the Dry Ice Corporation of America." There was no such evidence of misrepresentation in the suits involved, the court said.

The Louisiana Dry Ice corporation of Louisiana and the Joseph S. Belt Helium interests of Texas were the principal defendants in the suits who won the decision in the circuit court.

CHALLENGES FOR TWO DUELS ISSUED IN ROW PERUVIAN LEGISLATURE

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 9. (AP)—Challenges for two duels were issued today as a result of disorders in the legislature last night during debate on the government's emergency bill for suppressing radical agitators.

The excitement in the chamber rose to a high pitch as government supporters and members of the Aprista party spoke heatedly on the bill. The speaker's attempts to restore order were unavailing. Spectators in the galleries finally began to participate in the discussion and the galleries were ordered cleared.

Afterwards Manuel Seoane, an Aprista, issued a duel challenge to Domingo Sotil, a follower of President Sanches Cerro, and Helio Dalmau, decentralist, challenged Carlos M. Cox, an Aprista.

The challenges grew out of personal remarks during the debate. Seconds were reported conferring today over locations for the duels.

FIND CLUE TO ALLEGED KANSAS CITY KIDNAPER

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 9. (AP)—Martin Depew, sought by authorities at Kansas City, Mo., for the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnally, wealthy garment manufacturer there some weeks ago, has been making his home here for the last week or more, police said today.

Clues picked up today led R. K. Cole, Kansas City detective, and Scranton police to a local rooming house where Depew had been staying. Depew's trunk was found but there was no trace of him. Police said they believed Depew was not far from this city.

An Upshur county farmer, boasting to the county agent of making six bales of cotton on 7½ recently terraced acres for a profit of $119, had to confess that he had dropped the poultry demonstration because "there is no money in chickens." Whereupon the agent pulled out the records of another demonstrator who cleared $232.40 from a start of 386 hens last year. With a poultry calendar under his arm the owner of the prize cotton patch went home to start another poultry demonstration.

FLIER WELL KNOWN HERE VICTIM OF PAMPA EXPLOSION

PAMPA, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—R. W. (Dutch) Bartgis, 43-year-old flier, was killed today when a gasoline tank in the wing of an airplane he was painting exploded, hurling him to the ground from the wing and breaking his neck.

The accident occurred in a Pampa hangar. It was believed the wing paint he was using ignited gasoline vapor from the tank, causing the explosion. The ensuing fire destroyed the plane. Bartgis' body was pulled away from the fire by his son, Raymond, 17, before it was burned.

Bartgis was an experienced flier with thousands of hours in the air to his credit. He was well known in Fort Worth and had been flying since 1921. He had toured the country with an aerial circus. He came to Pampa two years ago from Borger to pilot a private plane for the Cree-Hoover Drilling company.

He was survived by his widow, one son and a daughter living in Wichita, Kan.

Well Known Here

"Dutch" Bartgis, killed in a plane explosion at Pampa, was well known among local fliers and had landed on the Municipal airport many times, officials of the field said Saturday night.

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Now the Democrats are all right if they don't fight themselves out agreeing with each other.

They've had their victory dinner from soup to nuts.

Sometimes we wish they would run the menu the other way and wind up with the soup.

Three ex-presidential candidates made great speeches telling what they would do if they were president.

Seems we heard those three boys make those speeches before.

Toastmaster Bowers had the right idea for Democratic propaganda when he read a 1928 Republican prosperity poster predicting dividends to the land and bonds to the inhabitants thereof.

The dividends have been skipped and the bonds are foreign.

The Republicans don't have to make many changes in their "vote for Hoover and prosperity" banner of 1928.

Just change the "and" to "or."

FAMOUS ASTRONOMERS OF WORLD TO MEET AT MT. WILSON IN FALL

MT. WILSON OBSERVATORY, Calif., Jan. 9. (AP)—This mile-high spot from which man gazes through a 100-inch telescope in an effort to solve the universe's secrets will be the gathering place in September of many of the world's most famous scientists.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the observatory, said today plans are under way to bring virtually the entire membership of the International Astronomical association, which meets every three years, here after its gathering early in September at Harvard university.

The gathering will be in the nature of a "scientific Olympiad," the scientists coming to exchange views as well as to gaze into the skies through the world's largest telescope.

NEGRO CLUB TO HONOR MEMORY OF FOUNDER AT MEETING THURSDAY EVE

Members of the Negro Community club will honor the memory of the club's founder, Ella Duckenfield, deceased, at a special meeting at St. John's church, 301 Park, Thursday night, Jan. 14. A special section will be reserved for white people, President E. B. Jeffrey said.

At the club's first meeting of the year last Thursday night, Clara Pointer, president of the Federated Missionary societies, spoke briefly on the club's program and other points of interest were discussed. A report for Zenobia Trimble, nursery welfare worker, showed that more than 300 children were cared for at the negro nursery during the month of December.

YOUTH TELLS OFFICERS FATHER KILLED MOTHER SAN ANTONIO HEARING

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Nine-year-old Rudolph Matthew Jr. sat in Justice of the Peace Shook's court this morning and between sobbing spells testified his father shot his mother, Mrs. Maude Matthews, who was slain at the family residence Tuesday.

Matthews was charged by complaint with the slaying of his wife and has been in the county jail since her death except for a brief period when he was removed to the San Antonio state hospital for observation at the instigation of the district attorney.

The preliminary hearing was requested by the state and was vigorously opposed by defense attorneys who wanted it postponed.

GREAT BRITAIN REFUSES PLAN PLEAD TREATY

Declines to Join United States in Manchurian Move

JAPANESE TO CONTINUE AN OPEN DOOR POLICY

May Try to Revise Nine-Power Pact Through Conference

(By The Associated Press)

Great Britain refused yesterday to follow the lead of the United States in invoking the nine-power treaty in the Manchurian conflict.

The British foreign office announced that there appeared to be no need for sending a note to Japan similar to the one sent by Secretary of State Stimson, because the Japanese government has given assurances of its intention of continuing the open door policy in Manchuria.

The Stimson note resulted in an authoritative statement in Tokyo that Japan might try to revise the nine-power pact through the conference method. The purpose of the revision would be to define the "administrative integrity" guaranteed by the treaty to China.

At the urgent command of the emperor, the Japanese cabinet, which had resigned en bloc because of the bombing attempt Friday on the emperor's life, decided to remain in office.

At Mukden, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, bound for Tokyo to take over the duties of foreign minister, averred his government had no intention of "interferring with any American or other foreign rights in Manchuria."

Cabinet Stays in Office

TOKYO, Jan. 9. (UP)—The cabinet of Premier Inukai decided to remain in office today as Emperor Hirohito refused resignations submitted after a young Korean threw a bomb at the Japanese ruler.

It is traditional for the government in office to offer to resign when an attack is made on the emperor, on the grounds that the ministry is responsible for the emperor's safety.

The ministers decided to remain in office, however, and therefore had to plead guilty of carelessness.

Control Chinchow

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Jan. 9. (UP)—Chinese leaders pledged to a pro-Japanese administration were placed in nominal control of Chinchow and Liaoning province today.

Tsang Shi-Yi, chairman of the province, appointed Ku Shin-Sheng governor of the Chinchow district, now in the hands of Japanese troops, and a new police chief was named in the city to organize a peace preservation campaign.

Chinchow, last Chinese stronghold north of the great wall, fell before an advance of troops under Gen. Jiro Tamon last week, placing Japanese in complete control of all Manchuria.

HIJACKERS TAKE EVANS DRUG STORE FOR SMALL SUM IN DARING ROBBERY

Braving contact with late night trade, hijackers held up and robbed the Evans Drug store, Ninth and Broad, Saturday night at 10:10 o'clock of a small sum of money.

Four men were "in on the hold-up" but only two entered the store, Motorcycle Officers C. S. Carlisle and Frank Warfield said. The other two waited in a Chevrolet sedan, ready for the hurried getaway.

One of the two to enter bought a package of cigarets and as his partner entered to make a similar purchase, shoved a gun at the girl on duty, Mary McWorter, saying "You know what I want." Roy Sonmacher, clerk, was also on duty. The pair passed up all checks in the cash register and neglected to take $1.05 in change. The second hijacker left a dollar bill after ordering cigarets.

The store is owned by Marshall Evans.

Regardless of efforts made to prevent them —FIRES WILL CONTINUE—You'll agree this is a fact. Then, why not face it in a sensible manner by taking our Fire Insurance NOW?

CLARENDON VETERAN CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

CLARENDON, Texas, Jan. 9.—Battles were fought and military engagements were won and lost as four of the South's most valiant sons of the old Confederate army retold their numerous fearful experiences against the Yankees in the civil war. The occasion was in celebration of Col. R. S. Kimberlin's 88th birthday, and was given by his granddaughter, Miss D'laurel Beville, at her home in Clarendon. The birthday event was a complete surprise to the old veteran. Upon entering the room he was greeted by three comrades of that great internal strife, T. J. Roberts, J. M. Middleton and W. H. Martin, who had gathered to help him enjoy his passage of another milestone in his colorful life.

Each of the old soldiers of the blue and gray lived in the past once again as they related with voices filled with passion the experiences in the outfits with which they fought. Two of the group had been wounded in action, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Kimberlin, but were disabled only a few days and were back again giving the Yanks "hell." Mr. Roberts was later captured and placed in the penitentiary at Alton, Ill., remaining there a number of months until he was taken with a number of other Confederate prisoners to Richmond where an exchange was made for federal prisoners.

Colonel Kimberlin was wounded twice during his tenure in the southern forces. He enlisted in the Confederate army on the 8th of May, 1861, serving four years, one month and five days against the federals under General Shelby, one the great leaders of the lost cause.

Recall John Brown

At the family home in Kansas, Jim Lane, who had succeeded John Brown after he was hung, noted and hated for "John Brown's raid," directed a message against the southern people. Colonel Kimberlin's father was murdered and his mother and sisters were driven into the snow while their home, together with many others were burned and property destroyed. He and his brothers, I. J. and W. G., were locked in an old blacksmith shop but escaped.

Lane's men burned Kansas City, leaving only three houses standing in the entire city. In 1863 Colonel Kimberlin joined with a group under Quantrell, who started out to avenge the savage insults received at the hands of Lane. The Yanks were camped near Pleasant Hill, Mo., with a force of 1,000 troops. Quantrell's band of 350 met quietly entered the town and when the leader gave the signal fell upon the unsuspecting federals, carrying out Quantrell's command to "kill every man with hair on his face!" Only one southern soldier lost his life and that due to an overdose of liquor. Lane escaped.

Several weeks later Quantrell's band was pursued by a large force of union troops and the forces met just as the sun was sinking behind the hills. The lines were drawn facing each other across a deep ravine. Entering the gully under the protection of night the Confederates escaped unnoticed and took up camp in a densely wooded section through which passed a highway. The federals were ambushed as they marched along the road, resulting in a heavy loss. Retreat was made and a long rest was taken by the Confederates.

Never Surrendered

After Jim Lane's escape he formed another outlaw band and continued his harassing raids upon southern property and citizens. However he was captured at Baxter Springs and he and his band later faced a firing squad. Colonel Kimberlin and a number of others came to Texas soon afterwards and were here at the close of hostilities.

Colonel Kimberlin declares he never surrendered and never will.

One of the features of the afternoon was the beautiful and delicious birthday cake prepared for the honored guest by his admirers boasting of 88 candles. Ice cream was supplied and a truce was declared from the engagements for a time while the hungry soldiers consumed refreshments.

Although the infirmities of age are showing unmistakably in the once strong strides of the group as they walk, and perhaps the eyesight and the hearing of each is not as good as it once was, but still there is a happiness and sparkle of wit in the conversation of the Con federates. It was a touching scene when the band separated at the end of the party wishing each other health and prosperity—perhaps for the final time before they are drafted from the ranks of the mortals into that happy army, when their battle scarred memories shall be laid away forever in eternal peace.

GOODNIGHT RANCH TO REMAIN HOME BUFFALO HERD PENDING RESULT STATE PURCHASE PLAN

The famed Goodnight ranch, a mortgage on which was foreclosed last week, will remain the home of the last big buffalo heard for the time being, it was learned here Saturday night.

The City National bank of Wichita Falls, which holds a mortgage on the herd, has not foreclosed and will probably wait a reasonable time in order to give the state an opportunity to carry out its plans for placing the herd on a state park range, it was explained.

The herd of bison was not included in the mortgage held on the ranch by the Great Southern Life Insurance company and foreclosed recently. The local bank holds the only mortgage on the herd.

Both herd and ranch were the property of J. I. Staley, Wichita Falls oil man.

Disposition Uncertain

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Disposition of the herd of 242 buffaloes on the former Goodnight ranch, near Palo Duro canyon, remained undecided today and an official of the Great Southern Life Insurance company, which foreclosed a mortgage on the ranch property, declared he did not know who owned the buffalo herd.

Furthermore, the insurance company official declared published reports of a meeting to be held here today to decide what should be done with the herd were erroneous and he knew nothing of any such meeting.

The ranch, established more than 50 years ago by the late Col. Charles Goodnight, formerly was owned by J. I. Staley of Wichita Falls who acquired it after it had been sold by heirs of the Goodnight estate.

The legislature last summer authorized purchase of the buffalo herd, the largest remaining remnant in Texas of the many thousands that once roamed the plains, provided a refuge was obtained for the shaggy beasts. Panhandle citizens thus far have been unsuccessful in raising funds to buy land for such a refuge.

Re-Legalization of Beer Urged as Impetus to Economic Recovery by Business Men and Agriculturalists

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (INS)—Business, politics and agriculture joined in a forceful demand before the senate manufactures committee today for the re-legalization of beer as a powerful impetus to economic recovery.

Representative William Hull, Republican of Illinois, asserted the restoration of 4 per cent beer would not only yield the government an initial tax revenue of $330,000,000 a year but would open a 120,000,000 bushel barley market for the American farmer.

Frank J. Delany, representing the Chicago board of trade, asserted that agricultural difficulties began with the coming of prohibition 12 years ago. In the five years preceding prohibition the farmer was never more prosperous, he declared.

John R. Mauff, representing the Barley Growers association, testified the restoration of beer would not only revive barley growing but by removing tens of millions of bushels of this grain off the market, would open the way for the use of that much wheat and corn for purposes of which barley is now used.

Conclusions Submitted

Hull submitted the following conclusions:

1. "That beer made in a proper way, containing 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight or 4 per cent by volume will not intoxicate.

2. "That it would be largely beneficial to the farmers, to the laborers and to the general business of the country if the breweries were opened in a proper way and properly managed.

3. "That it would do away with an improperly brewed product sold at an exorbitant price and delivered surreptitiously to the most undesirable citizens in this country.

4. "It would bring into the government treasury $330,000,000 per year which would in a large measure help to defray the expenses of the government."

In the five years preceding prohibition, Delaney stated, producers of malt berverages consumed an average of 10,000,000 bushels of corn per year and 50,000,000 bushels of barley a year. With the coming of prohibition this enormous market was wiped out without any provision for the relief of the grower, Delaney declared.

The result has been that agriculture went into a decline, Delaney said.

THIEVES STEAL CAR OF DETECTIVE ATTENDING SCHOOL ON AUTO THEFT

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Detective P. H. McInerney went to school last night, parking his car nearby.

The lecturer was Lieut. Maurice Wall, who spoke an hour to Detective McInerney and other officers on the subject, "how to prevent automobile thievery and how to catch thieves."

The lesson over, Detective McInerney returned to where he had parked his machine, but went back to Lieutenant Wall a few minutes later.

"Please," he said, "give me that lesson all over again, particularly that part referring on how to catch auto thieves. Someone just stole my car."

AUTOMOBILE SHOW NEW YORK OPENED MANY NEW MODELS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—They whisked dust covers off 300 bright new automobiles at Grand Central palace today and the 32nd national automobile show was on.

Cars, ranging in hue from a hilarious yellow to a high-hat black, nestled against a richly bright background, with eager young men everywhere ready to explain everything.

New departures such as an extension of free wheeling and striking changes in frontal aspects of many makes created interest. Free wheeling, which made its bow last year, has become standard equipment on most models. Many new applications of this feature are disclosed.

Increased stress on bullet-nosed fronts, with some manufacturers favoring the flat radiator with a narrower profile toward the bottom and others the V and the sloping, started a lot of comment. In the case of several cars, all you have to do to start the motor is turn the ignition key.

A device to enable the driver to adjust shock absorbers for varying travel conditions without leaving his seat was among the comfort wrinkles.

SENATE COMMITTEE CONTINUES PROBE OF LOAN TO PERU

Representative of Company Arranging Loan Called To Testify

PRESIDENT'S SON GETS $415,000 COMMISSION

Peruvian Press Criticizes Loans as Political Instruments

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—The senate finance committee moved today to investigate further into the payment of $415,000 to the son of a Peruvian president for arranging $100,000,000 in loans with that government.

The committee wired to New York to have a representative of the F. J. Lisman company appear before it Monday when the investigation is resumed. That company, according to the testimony received, arranged the loans with Juan Leguia, son of the former president of Peru.

Frederick Strauss, of J. & W. Seligman Co., told the committee Friday his firm had paid the money to Leguia after taking the bond deal over from the Lisman company.

The committee also summoned Lawrence Dennis of New York, a former government official, in connection with the testimony that the state department in considering foreign loans ignored financial reports from the countries concerned to the commerce department.

Loans Criticized

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 9. (AP)—The newspaper El Comericio, commenting today on the United States senate inquiry into South American loans, said debtor nations were unable to meet their obligations in this period of depression because their principal sources of income had decreased to unbelievable low levels.

"Loans as political instruments have been most harmful," the editorial said, "and if the United States believed that loans would tighten the links of friendship with South American nations, experience is proving that this was an error."

The editorial expressed regret that the state department yielded to the pressure of diplomats despite its knowledge of conditions below the Rio Grande. "With borrowed money," said the article, "it was easy for the Latin governments to remain in power, depriving democracies of civic rights."

The senate investigation, said the editorial, "proves that the state department bears the moral responsibility for every dollar American citizens lost in buying South American bonds."

Most of the borrowed money was not used for public improvements, but a good portion was retained by the lenders to keep the international exchange of the borrowers at a convenient level, the newspaper said, adding that the Seligman report of Peruvian loans "frankly confessed that there was a bribe, since Juan Leguia, son of the ex-president, received $415,000."

"It is regrettable that the national interest was betrayed by that president's relatives," the editorial asserted, "but the speculation charge against them is confirmed now."

Evangelistic services are being held each Sunday evening at the First Christian church until Easter. This is in keeping with all Christian churches in America. This communion has as their goal the winning of 100,000 new converts during the year. Large audiences have been attending these services, it was said.

Sunday evening at 7:30 the pastor, Dr. Howard T. Wood, will speak on the theme, "The Liberty of the Spirit." R. E. Shepherd will lead in the singing of old hymns. Echo singing, so greatly enjoyed one week ago, will be continued.

The Sunday morning sermon will be "What the Church Means to Me."

One week from Sunday the commencement sermon for the graduates of the high school will be held in this church.
