Reds Capture City In 73 Miles Of Berlin

Mighty Pincers On Capital From North Indicated

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 31 The First White Russian Army thrust within 73 miles of Berlin yesterday when it captured the Brandenburg province town of Stolzenberg in a 20-mile dash down the valley of the Netze river from Driesen.

The capture of Stolzenberg was announced in the regular nightly communique broadcast from Moscow, which made no point of the fact that it represented the Russians' closest approach to the Nazi capital.

In 50 Miles Of Stettin

Early today, the Moscow radio announced that the Red Army was less than 50 miles from Stettin, Berlin's port on the Baltic. Stolzenberg is 52 miles southeast of Stettin.

German accounts of fighting on the East front Tuesday stressed Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's gains on his front farther south in the area west of Poznan and directly east of Berlin. In this sector, the Germans said, Zhukov had come within 80 miles of Berlin.

The Nazi broadcasts said that Kustrin, an important rail center 41 miles east of Berlin was threatened by the Soviet frontal drive from the east. With the penetration farther north, Kustrin also is in danger of being outflanked from the northeast.

The plunge to Stolzenberg was made along the Netze's right bank through comparatively open country.

To Cut Off Pomerania

It seemed clear that Zhukov aimed to cut off Pomerania from the rest of Germany, deprive Berlin of the port facilities of Stettin and thrust around the capital from the north.

"The capture of Stettin," said Robert Magidoff, NBC commentator broadcasting from Moscow, "would expose Berlin to the danger of a sweeping outflanking maneuver which would create a crack more gigantic and of far-reaching consequences for the Germans than even the cauldron of East Prussia.

"The entire Polish corridor and practically all of Pomerania would be in the bag and, with them, fresh scores of Hitler's rapidly van-

Yank Drive Takes On Major Aspects

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The American First and Third armies smashed into the outer defenses of the Siegfried line today in an attack approaching major-offensive scale and gained as much as four miles on the frigid, snow-covered Western front.

Starting as a series of local thrusts, the assault picked up speed and, after several additional divisions had been thrown in, eventually involved well over 100,000 men. It further increased the pressure along a 40-mile front on German military leaders who already are robbing their westwall defenses to bolster positions on the crumbling Eastern front.

Outposts Overrun

The doughboys overran a number of Siegfried line outposts and frontline correspondents said the Germans had previously evacuated the positions.

Two of the American flanks in the new attack in Germany and the center of the line is in eastern Belguim. The front extends from a point just south of the Aachen breach in the Siegfried line where U. S. attacks were launched on both sides of the Roer river, to the Third Army's Welchenhausen bridgehead along the Our river which Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's troops expanded to a depth of a mile and a half and a width of four miles.

French Cross Canal

Meanwhile, the French First Army, incorporating American units, crossed the Colmar Canal at several points in southern Alsace. Front dispatches said Allied troops were engaged in hard fighting around Fort Schwihr about one and one half miles south of Colmar in their drive to encircle the city.

From the Canadian front in Holland there were reports that the Germans apparently were withdrawing troops from the line in order to transfer them to the Eastern front.

American armor and infantry swept forward through waist-deep snowdrifts and a light snowstorm which changed to rain in near-zero temperatures. The First army drove ahead in an explosive nine-hour attack in the rugged forest region east of Monschau and Simmerath, outflanking strong pill-

Aachen Folk Curse Hitler As Worst Ill

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Chief of the Former Associated Press Bureau In Berlin

AACHEN, Germany, Jan. 10 — Adolf Hitler's coming to power 12 years ago today was the greatest ill which ever befell Germany throughout its long history, in the opinion of every inhaitant of the ghost town of Aachen to whom I was able to talk during 6 hours of incessant questioning. Aachen's "celebration" of this day, which in better times always meant flags, music and mass demonstrations, consisted chiefly in cursing Nazism and all its works.

Through the courtesy of Col. Carl A. Craege, Ninth Army man from Madison, Wis., and brother of that city's mayor, I was afforded an opportunity to prowl about in the wrecked city at will, peep into homes, offices, hospitals and pubs, speak privately to whomever I wanted. A mere mention that today was Jan. 30 was sufficient to unloose a series of imprecations on Naziism. Whether it was real or pretended, at least the reactions of all persons questioned indicated a change of heart since I used to visit Aachen as a starting point for traveling on German Army cars into Belgium, Holland and France in the spring and summer of 1940.

"Forgot" Nazi Flag

"Donnerwetter, I quote forgot to hang out the Nazi flag," a waiter at a restaurant said with mock concern when I reminded him this was Jan. 30. After a moment a scowl crept over his face as he said with a gleam of heat in his eyes: "Well, we did not succeed in getting him, (meaning Hitler), but it now looks as though the Russians were going to do that job for him."

Then a former stock clerk of a one-time large department store now levelled to the ground mixed into the conversation. "Ach nein," he said derisively. "The Russians won't get him either. He always runs away when there is trouble. He may be out of the country even now."

Vast Difference Cited

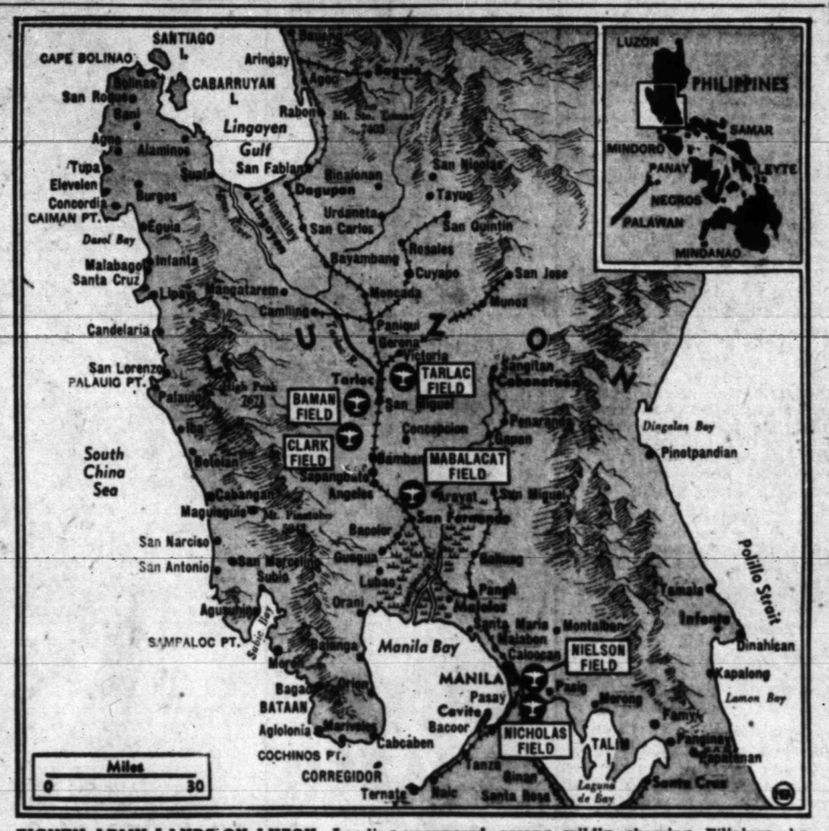

I could not help reflect on the differerice between the pre-Hitler Germany I had known and the ruined state it now is in after 12 years of Nazi misrule. As I now stepped on German soil for the first time since my internment by the Germans which ended in May, 1942, I could not but see in the ruins of Aachen the symbol of Hitler's ruination of Germany and indeed of European civilization.

At the editorial offices of the only newspaper in occupied Germany printed with the permission of American Military government authorities, the "Aachener Nachrichten,' 'the bespectacled editor rubbed his hands gleefully with excitement as he said: "Twelve years I've waited for this day. At last I can write as my heart dictates."

He said he was just composing a juicy editorial showing his readers what misery Naziism had brought to his fatherland, but as it had not yet been shown to American authorities he desired to be correct and not read me the advance copy.

He gave a long recital on trade

EIGHTH ARMY LANDS ON LUZON—Landing unopposed among wildly cheering Filipinos, between San Narciso and San Antonio on the west coast of Luzon, just above Subic bay, the new Eighth American Army under Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger drove rapidly inland in an effort to cut off Japs fleeing madly before the Sixth Army south of San Fernando, toward Bataan.

Japs Caught Asleep, Offer No Opposition

GENERAL MacARTUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Wednesday, Jan. 31—Another American Army was thrown into the battle for Luzon Monday morning when elements of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's new Eighth Army swept to a completely unopposed landing just north of Subic bay on the west coast. By nightfall they drove 11 miles inland toward a junction with the Sixth Army, which is within 30 miles of Manila.

The Eighth Army Yanks, landing at San Narciso and San Antonio to seize five miles of beachhead 60 air miles northwest of Manila, took an airfield at San

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — The War department said tonight American armies are distributed as follows:

Marcelino in their quick drive to seal the fate of the Japanese retreating to Bataan and to capture the vital Subic bay naval base.

Not a man was lost in the amphibious operation, which caught the Japanese completely by surprise. Not a Japanese gun nor plane attempted to interfere or even observe as the 38th and 4th division troops hit the Zambales coast beaches lined with flag-waving, cheering Filipinos.

The American flag, planted by Filipinos, was so clearly visible on the Subic bay shoreline as the convoy of more than 100 vessels approached that Rear Adm. Arthur Struble called off the customary pre-landing bombardment. He was assured there were no Japanese ashore, and had not been for a long time.

General Eichelberger put a sufficient force of his Eighth Army ashore near the base of Bataan to perform a major operation on the peninsular appendix of Luzon.

With Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army already in solid control of the central Luzon plain, including the single road leading westward to Bataan, it now is too late for the Japanese high command to attempt what Gen. Douglas MacArthur succeeded in doing in late 1941—pull back his then dispersed and outnumbered forces into a converging withdrawal to Bataan.

The landing will prevent the

City Given Option On Central Ward

The Board of Trustees of Lubbock Independent School district last night granted to the City of Lubbock a 60-day option to purchase the Central Ward school property comprising approximately five acres of land upon which may be constructed a postwar civic center and municipal auditorium.

The option, unanimously approved with a minimum of discussion, came as a result of a formal request made of the school board by the City commission in the regular semi-monthly business meeting of the latter body last Thursday. The 60-day period lies between the date of the request, Jan. 25, and March 26.

During the 60 days the City will (1) decide upon whether or not it will approve a Kiwanis club plan for the civic center and auditorium; and if so, (2) will call a bond election for the purpose of assuring funds for the purchase of the property. The school board has set a price of $250,000 for the Central Ward property, which includes almost a quarter block facing Avenue Q between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets; and a plot 345 feet on Thirteenth street between Avenues P and Q, and extending 422 feet southward to a point midway between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

Rumors that one or more private business concerns would seek options on the Central Ward property failed to materialize although Sears Roebuck & Co. has evidenced some interest in the ground. The board said it would entertain advances from "any firm or anybody," subject to the city's refusal of the property.

New Contract For Matthews

The school board, holding its regular monthly business meeting in tax collection offices of the district at 1007 Texas avenue, also voted a new three-year contract to Supt. R. W. Matthews, covering the school years of 1945-46 through 1947-48. Mr. Matthews, longtime high school principal, will finish his first year of superintendency here at the close of schools this spring. He was previously acting superintendent for the 1942-43 and 1943-44 sessions during a leave of absence granted Dr. W. B. Irvin, then in the Army. Dr. Irvin now is superintendent of schools at Highland Park, Dallas. No change of salary was stipulated in the new contract, which was satisfactory to both the board and Mr. Matthews.

"The vote on the new contract for Superintendent Matthews was unanimous and was accomplished in a twinkling of an eye," said Dr. J. T. Hutchison, president of the board. "Trustees scrambled for an opportunity to offer the motion becuase Mr. Matthews has done an outstanding job in a very difficult period."

Superintendent Matthews expressed pleasure and satisfaction over the board's action, said "I've been doing the best I know how and will continue to do so." Plagued by teacher shortages which are national in their scope, he said he anticipated even more difficulty in the next several years than in the past. "We'll keep the schools running—and running satisfactorily," he said, then grinned, "but don't ask me how!"

The board spent an hour listening to members of a delegation from the negro section, displeased with centralizing negro education in the newer section of the Carver Heights area. Charlie Deo and

Big Three Believed Getting Set For Momentous Parley

By JOHN A. PARRIS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 30—Statesmen of the United States and Britain apparently were converging on an undisclosed spot tonight for preliminary conferences or even the Big Three meeting itself as British and American leaflets raining on enemy lines urged the Germans to surrender.

Outside of the closest official circles nobody knew when or where President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin were to meet, and those who did know were not giving the slightest hint.

Said Already Started

German and Swiss broadcasts said the Big Three meeting already was underway or about to begin. The best guess in London was that the parley would be held in the Soviet union or close to its borders. Some quarters, however, thought the meeting might be in Italy.

The Germans said the conference would occur "somewhere in the Near East or the Mediterranean." Nazi agencies declared, however, that they had been unable to check Spanish reports that Mr. Roosevelt had left Washington accompanied by a large staff.

There has been some speculation that the Big Three session might produce a joint immediate surrender call to Germany.

Harry Hopkins, the President's personal aide, was in Rome yesterday and today but has left the Italian capital. It was not known whether he still was in Italy.

Two other American officials who might sit in on the conference, Secretary of State Stettinius and War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, were officially announced to have left Washington. Stettinius said Jan. 19 that he had accepted the President's invitation to accompany him to the parley.

Nazis Guess, Too

Claiming that the conference was "only a matter of hours away," the Berlin radio said a high British official, "possibly (Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden) had passed through Paris by plane enroute to Rome.

These signs were observed in London: Churchill, whose movements are guarded by security censorship, did not appear in the House of Commons this morning, Deputy Prime Minister Richard Attlee substituting for him. This, however, is a frequent proedure.

Expansion Set On Tire Output

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP) — The War Production board today announced expansion of three additional tire plants as part of the government's $70,000,000 program to boost military tire output by 25 per cent.

A completely new factory will be set up at a cost of $6,000,000, at the site of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company, Houston.

The other two expansions, which provide additions only, are at the Lee Tire and Rubber company, Conshohocken, Pa., to cost $600,000; and the Lake Shore Tire and Rubber company, Des Moines, Iowa, to cost $775,000.

Two Plants Get Additions

The values set on the Lee and Lake Shore projects are partial authorizations of funds, WPB said, for building additions, wings and extra facilities at existing plants.

The projects are in addition to nine expansions announced last Saturday, and like the earlier ones, are to be financed by the Defense Plant corporation.

WPB rubber bureau reported also that the expansion of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company facilities at Gadsden, Ala., would include a second project in addition to new buildings previously announced. The second project, which will account for $225,000 of the announced $2,000,000 authorization, will be spent for additional machinery as part of the development within the walls of the present factory.

To Be Owned By DPC

DPC will own all the projects but the tire companies will handle actual operations. James F. Clark, director of the rubber bureau, noted that the majority of the new projects had been located adjacent to existing tire factories.

"In a few instances, production of articles other than tires had been shifted to other locations in order to expand tire production at so-called 'company headquarters'," Clark said.

Hundreds of Lubbock citizens danced Tuesday night so that some infantile paralysis victims might walk again.

Approximately $2,000 is expected to be realized out of the three President's birthday balls held at Lubbock and Hilton hotels and the Cotton club, it was estimated late last night by members of the Lions club, sponsoring agency for this year's dances.

At 10 o'clock, ticket sales at the door of the three places totaled $840, according to Walter L. Phillips, chairman of the advanced ticket sales committee. The majority of dancers were admitted on tickets purchased in the advanced sales campaign, Phillips said.

Large Attendance

Attendance was reported large at each ballroom.

The captives were walking along a street in a Mexican settlement.

They carried highway maps and a number of letters written in German.

Earlier in the day the Department of Public Safety in Austin had quoted the Camp Hood provost marshall as saying the prisoners were "considered dangerous."

Only slight difficulty was experienced in their capture.

Nazis Hit Highway Targets In Italy

ROME, Jan. 30 (AP)—The German air force renewed scattered bombings of the vital highway 65 area back of Allied frontlines today after a week of inactivity along the static Italian front. All ground warfare, even patrolling, had slowed.

Adolf Spouts Defiance Despite Dire Situation, Turns Gloomy In Urgent Appeals For Fight To Final Victory

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 30—Adolf Hitler proclaimed to the world tonight that Germany will fight to the finish—"fight on no matter where and no matter under what circumstances until final victory crowns our efforts."

The fuehrer, addressing the German nation by radio from what was described as his headquarters on the 12th anniversary of his ascendancy to the chancellorship, declared that neither the dire military situation on the Eastern front nor difficulties at home would make the Nazis capitulate.

Hitler spoke for 20 minutes. It was a gloomy speech, but delivered with all Hitler's old-time eloquence, his voice ranging from calm tones at the beginning to peaks of intensity as he called upon every able-bodied man and woman, and even the sick and infirm, to give all in the final battle.

Veteran listeners said there seemed no doubt that it was Hitler's voice.

With Soviet armies pouring across the German borders into the provinces of Brandenburg and Pomerania, Hitler declared, "a horrid fate is in progress in the east, where tens and hundreds of thousands of people are being exterminated," but he asserted this fate "will be mastered in the end in spite of all reverses and stern tests."

He called upon divine aid and exhorted his people:

"I expect every German to do his duty to the last. Every fit man must stake his life and body. The sick and infirm or otherwise dispensable must work to the last ounce of their strength.

"I expect from every citizen of our towns that they will forge weapons for this struggle and I expect from every peasant that they provide bread for our soldiers and our workers, reducing their own needs to the utmost.

"I expect from all women and girls that they will support this war with utmost fanaticism as before."

"We will fulfill our task despite almost unbearable suffering and tribulations," Hitler asserted, and then threatened dissenters:

"Whoever stabs us in the back will die an ignominius death."

As if to block a possible appeal by the Big Three for the German people to throw out their Nazi leaders and surrender, Hitler commented that Allied statesmen have "quite openly outlined the fate of the German people" and added:

"As a ruthless national socialist and warrior of my nation, let me tell these statesmen once and for all that any attempts to make an impression on Nazi Germany by using phrases of the kind used by (President Woodrow) Wilson presumes a simplicity of mind which is unknown in the Germany of today."

Hitler, speaking in heavy Austrian accents, but with his words clear and succinct, brought out again his favorite Bolshevist bogey.

"I repeat my prophecy," he said. "Not only will England be

MacArthur Returns To Fateful Crossroad Of Death March Fame

By FRANK HEWLETT
United Press War Writer

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SAN FERNANDO, Jan. 29.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur came back today to the crossroads in San Fernando where he and Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright gathered the remnants of their Filipino-American Army three years ago for the last march into Bataan.

Cheering Filipinos lined the highway and GI's snapped to attention as MacArthur's five-starred jeep breezed past and on into the front lines within 36 road miles of Manila.

Speaks To Troops

The general spoke to members of the 37th division who captured San Fernando yesterday and stopped for a few moments at an intersection where the road signs pointed the way to Bataan, 14 miles to the southwest.

MacArthur, accompanied by his aide, Col. Lloyd Lehrbas, inspected the captured Clark field installations and from a forward artillery observation post watched the bombardment of Japanese positions in the hills behind Fort Statsenburg.

He went on to Cap O'Donnell, where the tragic death march from Bataan ended and examined the graves of the men who died on that journey, as well as the markers erected by the Japanese and Filipinos to the many thousands of soldiers who died in the Japanese prison camp there.

Town Relatively Undamaged

San Fernando itself was relatively undamaged, apart from the scars left by American planes in the last few months and by Japanese bombers that hit the town in 1941.

The provincial hospital in the town remained in operation throughout the Japanese occupation, and the Filipino doctors' star patient was S/Sgt. Willard Bresler, San Antonio, Tex., a survivor of Bataan.

Bresler was evacuated from Nichols field with the remnants of the American air force, but when Bataan fell he and six others eluded the Japanese and fled into the mountains, where they stayed until July 13, 1943.

"I surrendered and was brought to San Fernando and put in the town jail," Bresler told correspondents.

"The warden urged the Japs to transfer me to the hospital because a tropical ulcer on my leg was badly infected. Apparently they thought I was a Filipino, because the request was approved."

Bresler stayed in the hospital from Aug. 3, 1943 until the Americans recaptured San Fernando today. The Filipino doctors and nurses hid him for a long time, telling the Japanese there were no Americans in the hospital. When he finally was discovered, they told the Japanes he had not recovered sufficiently to be returned to prison.

Area Not Affected By Brown-Out Plan

"Brown-out" regulations, which are aimed at saving electricity in many sections of the U. S., will not affect Lubbock and the South Plains area so far as is known now, H. L. Allen, district executive of Southwestern Public Service Co., said.

Allen made the statement when asked for information by The Avalanche-Journal, which had had numerous calls from business people wondering "when or if" they should start "browning out" their electrical signs and display illumination.

The government has chosen some areas to be "browned out," and has exempted others. Most of Texas is outside the ban.

Try sprinkling chopped pickles into soup just before serving. It will enhance the flavor.

Suspension order hearings will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in the second floor courtroom of the courthouse before Harry Hall of Dallas, hearing commissioner for the Office of Price administration. Cases, alleging violation of OPA regulations, against four service station operators, two of Lubbock, one of Floydada and one of Matador, will be heard.

A food bulletin, "Breads from Whole Wheat Sorhums," issued by the division of home economics at Texas Tech, has been requested by the Office of War Information for use in the libraries of the British Empire at London, Sydney, Melbourne, Wellington, Johannesburg and Bombay, according to Dean Margaret W. Weeks.

Instructions for preparation of flours from common grains and recipes utilizing these flours, tested in the foods and nutrition department, are included in the bulletin which attarcted much attention at the time of its release in July of 1942. Grains used for these prepared foods were grown and ground by the plant industry department at Tech.

The bulletin was written by Mrs. Neva Deen Bavousett, former research assistant of the foods and nutrition department, and Miss Ellen Kleppe, former instructor in that department. Additional copies are available in the home economics building for free distribution.

Senate Rule Abolition Efforts Bring Texas U. To Sharp Focus

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. (AP)—A movement to abolish the Senate rule under which confirmations of governor's nominations are considered in executive session brought this matter closely related to the University of Texas controversy into sharp legislative focus today.

Faced with a motion by Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville to amend the rules to throw such sessions open to the public, the Senate finally voted 14 to 11 after considerable parliamentary maneuvering to refer the entire question of rules back to its committee on rules.

Amendment Tabled

The committee, meeting after adjournment, tabled the Morris amendment to its original report, then voted to recommend that the Senate adopt the rules of the 48th session for the current one.

This, however, would not preclude Morris or some other member from raising the question of closed sessions, on the floor. Several members indicated they planned to press the matter immediately.

Speakers for the Morris amendment, which would set aside a longstanding practice of the Senate, argued that the public is entitled to know how each senator votes on such important questions.

The position of the opposition was that such open sessions would not be fair to the nominees considered, since senators would speak under constitutional immunity from legal action.

Character Assassins

"Let's not pass a rule that would permit a man to be castigated and condemned before the public and be helpless to say anything," pleaded Sen. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio.

Spears, arguing that he had no objections to publication of how he voted on any nomination, declared "I do not want to see any character assassination under the protection of constitutional immunity."

"If you will amend the constitution giving an individual the right to sue if libelled or slandered under the guise of immunity, I'll back you," said Spears.

Sen. H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton, chairman of the committee on governor's nominations commented that "this is aimed at one proposition" and Morris replied that he "had no individual in mind." Morris urged the matter be brought to an immediate showdown.

Senate Adjourns

After voting to re-refer the question to the rules committee, the Senate adjuorned until tomorrow, thus shutting off consideration of an attempt by Sen. J. Alton York of Bryan to hold an executive sessions tomorrow.

The House had its first flurry over labor legislation, killing a motion to re-refer from the state affairs to the labor committee a bill by Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio prohibiting employers from discrimination against workers because of membership or non-membership in a union.

Gov. Coke Stevenson in an emergency recommendation, urged legislation to permit Sam Houston State Teachers college at Huntsville to manufacture munitions of war for the federal government. The college is equipped to manufacture tail fins for bombs but may not do so for sale under present statutes.

Gen. McAuliffe Ties Up Germans Again

WITH U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, Jan. 30. (AP)—Brig. Gen. Anthony C. At Bastogne McAuliffe was acting commander of the 101st airborne division. President Roosevelt last week nominated him for a major generalship.

Proposed Water Treaty Assailed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Advising that the State department withdraw from the Senate a Mexican-United States water treaty, Attorney General Robert W. Kenny of California asserted today it would be a "boon to a small group of international financiers."

Declaring this was the first treaty the recently reorganized State department has supported in Senate hearings, Kenny told the foreign relations committee:

"I do not think this treaty can stand the light of day. I am still hopeful that the State department, in the interest of its own lasting reputation, can be persuaded by the testimony of our witnesses to withdraw the treaty promptly and go to work in obtaining a new agreement that both the United States and Mexico can unanimously support.

Economic Benefit Doubted

The contemplated use of the diverted water (from the Colorado river, as provided in the treaty) —the expansion of cotton acreage in Mexico—will not do much, if anything, to raise significantly the general level of the Mexican economy.

"On the contrary, in the light of postwar cotton market prospects, I believe it might very well become a liability, rather than an asset, in the Mexican economy. I might say, parenthetically, however, that the allocation to Mexico of the amount of water contemplated by this treaty will without question be a boon to a small group of international financiers with interest in the area."

"Mexico Will Gain Little"

Kenny claimed that by the treaty "Mexico will gain little—the United States will lose much," adding:

"I want it clearly understood that I am not advocating taking Southern California's postwar prosperity out of Mexico's hide. That portion of Mexico within reach of the waters of the Colorado and its tributaries has a legitimate right to its fair share. More than that, the expansion and strengthening of Mexico's postwar economy is important to the prosperity of this country. This country should give Mexico the requisite technical and financial assistance for the attainment of these purposes."

Kenny maintained the treaty provisions would not create for Mexico any "appreciable national wealth" but merely an "opportunity for a scant few hundred Mexican agricultural laborers to work for the wages afforded by a semi-feudal economy."

PRISONER PROMOTIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Legislation to provide for a one-rank promotion of American prisoners of war below the grade of colonel if they were serving in the Pacific area at the time of their capture was introduced today by Senator Chavez (D-NM).

The art of painting is said to have been introduced in Rome from Etruria by Quintus Fabius 291 years before Christ.

Dream Quickly Comes True For San Antonio Man

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 30. (U.P.)—A dream lost no time in coming true for M/Sgt. Fred W. Bresler, retired, of San Antonio.

Last night he dreamed that his son, S/Sgt. Willard Bresler, had been found by General Douglas MacArthur's forces fighting with guerrilla troops on Luzon. The son hadn't been heard from since he had been reported missing on Bataan three years ago.

So, the retired soldier told his wife at breakfast today that "somehow I have a feeling Willard is going to show up."

Less than an hour later, they learned that he had.

A phone call from a local newspaper informed them that their son had been found in Pampanca provincial hospital on Luzon.

The news that young Bresler had been overlooked or forgotten by the retreating Japs came to the paper through a war correspondent's story.

Gallup Polls Thought On Postwar Problem

Public Greatly Interested In Vandenberg's Proposal

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Senator Vandenberg's much-discussed proposal that the Allies make a definite agreement now to keep Germany and Japan permanently disarmed, has substantial suport from American public opinion, judging by the first representative returns of a national poll by the Institute.

GALLUP

These returns indicate that the country is almost unanimous in wanting to keep the present enemy powers demilitarized for good, and a substantial majority are willing to see the United States commit itself to such a policy now, in writing, with other powers.

Concerning one other important feature of the Vandenberg proposal, however, there is a difference of opinion among the voters as shown in the poll. The Michigan Senator, in his now-famous speech before the Senate on Jan. 10, suggested that if Germany and Japan try to rearm in the future the President should have the power to use force immediately to stop such a move, without having to obtain approval of Congress beforehand.

THIS proposal is acceptable to about two-fifths of the voters polled — a substantial vote considering the novel and far-reaching character of the proposal. Fifty-four per cent think that Congressional approval should be obtained before the President could take such action, while 5 per cent express no opinion.

Sentiment May Change

Only a few weeks having elapsed since Senator Vandenberg made his proposals, the returns in the poll to date can be regarded as only an early test of sentiment, pending further discussion and debate of the subject. This discussion as it continues may alter opinion. The Institute plans to continue polling on the issue at intervals of every few weeks as long as the discussion goes on.

The returns in the poll to date—returns representative of all major sections of the country—follow:

"After the war, should Germany and Japan be kept permanently disarmed?"

Yes	92%
No	6
No Opinion	2

"Should the United States, England, Russia and China make a written agreement now to keep Germany and Japan disarmed, or should We wait until the war is over to make such an agreement?"

Make agreement now	57%
Wait	39
No Opinion	4

"If it becomes necessary to use force to keep Germany and Japan from arming again, should the President have the right to order the use of American armed force immediately, or should approval of Congress be obtained first?"

Give President the Right	41%
Require approval of Congress	54
No Opinion	5

WANTING, China, Jan. 30. (AP)—Chinese soldiers are capitalizing on the desire of American soldiers to obtain Japanese battle flags.

They discovered that reasonable facsimiles could be manufactured from white nylon parachutes, used in dropping cargoes, with red balls cut from bunting and sewed on the white field.

The asking price hereabouts for the flags start at a wristwatch and may be tapered down to a carton of American cigarettes.

Big French Sub Said Sunk By U. S. Ship

MONTREAL, Jan. 30. (AP) — The world's largest submarine, the 2,800 ton Surcouf, whose loss at sea was announced in April, 1942 by the Fighting French navy, was rammed by a United States vessel, it was reported over the weekend in an Ottawa dispatch to the Montreal Standard.

Quoting "usually well-informed sources," the dispatch said the Surcouf, based at Halifax, was engaged in north Atlantic convoy duty when an American ship ripped into her hull and sent her to the bottom with her crew of 125 officers and men.

There was no official confirmation or denial of the story.

Only Rabbit Weed Left In 'Bacco Belt

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 30. (AP) —North Carolina produces most of the country's cigarette tobacco, and also most of its cigarettes.

But a sign in a drug store here says:

"No cigarettes. Rabbit tobacco, 1 cent a stalk."

Rabbit tobacco is an uncultivated weed, common to the South, which children sometimes roll into a cigarette and smoke to imitate grown-ups.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THE deadline for qualifying as a voter during 1945 is today. Is today. Those 21 years or older who have not obtained their poll tax or exemption must do so before midnight tonight if they are to enjoy the full privileges of American citizenship.

The tax assessor-collector's office is on the first floor of the court house, if you don't know where to go.

This is an off-election year and, as usual during such years, the number qualifying to vote will be smaller than on other occasions.

There is already the possibility of a special election being called to determine whether the city shall issue bonds to purchase the property, where Central Ward school stands, which has been suggested as a site for a Civic center to be built after the war.

It behooves us, as good citizens of a progressive democracy, to be qualified at all times to exercise our full rights of citizenship.

CHAPLAIN LEWIS

CHAPLAIN W. Jack Lewis, lieutenant with the Navy and then the Marines and to be assigned to the Seabees after his leave is over, is visiting his wife and three children, Patricia Lee, Andres Lyn and George Mueller, in San Angelo. Friends are hoping they will come here for a visit.

Before enlisting in the service, Chaplain Lewis was associate pastor of the Lubbock Presbyterian church. He has been at sea and overseas the last 20 months. After being attached to the Fleet Marine Force, the personable young man went to the Russell islands in the Solomons for a 18-months stay. When he left he was senior chaplain and senior in service. He designed two chapels, three miles apart, which natives built and which were used by the Navy, Marines, Seabees, the Army and the natives themselves and equipment includes two electric organs which Lewis had obtained in New Zealand and Australia last June.

Those who knew young Jack Lewis (as he used to be called to ditsinguish him from the pastor, Dr. Jack M. Lewis) remember he thought music a vital factor in inspiring worship. One can well believe that he taught carols to natives and surprised the military group at Christmas when he had the natives sing in English and Latin.

Thief Cops Smokes On Dallas Corner

DALLAS, Jan. 30. (U.P.)—Stolen, today, in broad daylight, on one of downtown Dallas' busiest street corners: 10,000 honest-to-goodness, tailor-made cigarets.

While Frank West, driver for a local transfer company was stopped for a red traffic signal, some bold thief jumped from the curb, grabbed a case containing 50 cartons of smokes from the rear of the truck.

A woman in the traffic behind West saw the theft committed. She notified him and drove on. West failed to get any other information, except that the cigarets were stolen.

Now police are seeking the missing man and the missing smokes, working with very flimsy clues.

Poll Payments Here Hit 5,614

At 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon 5,614 persons in Lubbock county had paid poll assessments, according to H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor and collector.

Taxpayers, with a year of unparalelled national income behind them, hurried to state and county, school and city tax collection agencies to pay assessments on current rolls.

Deadline, after which penalties and interest rates apply on delinquencies, is tonight at midnight, and all tax offices plan keeping doors open later than usual. H. B. Bryan, will keep his office open until midnight; A. C. Jackson, business manager of Lubbock Independent School district, until 11:30 o'clock or midnight; Harvey Austin, city tax assessor-collector, until about 10 o'clock. Rural school assessments are paid to Bryan's office.

Reflection of today's economy, percentages of collection of current rolls was "about like last year, perhaps slightly higher." It was estimated — large stacks of mail in each collection agency precluded definite knowledge of how much money in money orders and checks remained uncounted— that 85 per cent of the state's assessments on the current roll had been paid, 88 per cent of county levies, 88 per cent of the city and 83 or 84 per cent of the independent school district. Rural school collections approximated 88 per cent.

Delinquent Taxes Paid

It was noteworthy that delinquent assessments were being retired, where they had not been paid last year — some of them reaching back on the books to 1930.

Valuations in the main approximated those of last year, though the schools had perhaps $3,000 "more on the books," the county approximately half a million dollars more.

Predictions were for the percentage payment of assessments to run perhaps 95 per cent of the assessed roll.

The report recommended that equipment be tagged and a per petual inventory be maintained.

Plainview Mill Man Accidentally Shot

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 30. (Special) —George W. Brassell, jr., 26, cashier at West Texas Cotton Oil Mill company here, remained in a critical condition tonight at a Plainview hospital as the result of a wound he received Sunday when he was accidentally shot.

Brassell was struck in the lower abdomen by a ricocheting bullet fired inadvertently Sunday afternoon in the office of the cotton oil mill.

A report of the accident said Horace Hawkins, manager of the company, was preparing to clean a .270 caliber rifle when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The bullet struck the top of a glass-covered desk, shattered and struck Brassell, who was standing nearby.

An attendant at the Plainview Sanitarium and Clinic said that Brassell had spent a "restful day."

Both Brassell and Hawkins are former residents of Slaton. Hawkins was manager and Brassell bookkeeper of the Slaton Cotton Oil Mill company before their transfer to Plainview.

Critical Supply Shortages Cited In Drive For Manpower Controls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP) — A report declaring there are critical shortages in the Army and Navy munitions and supplies program today refueled the drive in the House for stricter manpower controls in war industry.

A War department document showing that production of such vital weapons as rockets and Superfortresses is far behind schedule was submitted as the House neared the end of debate on limited national service legislation for men between 18 and 45.

Amendments Fought

The report was prepared by Undersecretary of War Patterson and dated yesterday. It was read by Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) as the administration began a fight to stave off amendments that could consign the legislation to the waste basket.

As a part of this fight, the labor committee, headed by Rep. Norton (D-NJ), moved to take some of the heat out of the controversy by arranging to expedite separate legislation making permanent the Fair Employment Practices committee designed to prevent discrimination in employment because of race, color or creed.

The labor bloc is seeking to write an FEPC amendment into the manpower bil. There is another drive to write in a provision under which men assigned to war jobs by their local draft boards could refrain from joining a union despite closed shop contracts.

May Jeopardize Program

Some legislators fear an all-out fight on these amendments could jeopardize the entire bill.

Patterson's report, apparently timed to inject new life into efforts to get the manpower measure expedited, cited shortages in trucks, radar, tires, aircraft, rockets, heavy and light ammunition, tanks and mortars.

The Navy's rocket program for 1944, Patterson said, fell off four percent from requirements and 1945 needs will be tenfold. January production already is lagging "substantially."

Production of aircraft, including the big B-29's, fell 23 per cent below schedule during the last half of 1944, and new requirements are for "sharply increased output."

incapable of taming Bolshevism; her own development necessarily will be more and more that of a body infected by this wasting disease. The democracies will not be able to rid themselves of the evil spirits called by them from Asia's steppes."

Rallying his people to still greater resistance, Hitler declared Germany never would suffer the fate of Bolshevism.

"Whatever our enemies may invent, whatever suffering they may inflict upon German towns and countrysides and especially on our people are nothing beside the irretrievable suffering and misery which would follow victory by the plutocracy-Bolshevist conspiracy.

"In this hour I appeal to the whole people and above all to my old comrades and all soldiers to arm themselves with an even greater and tougher spirit of resistance until, as once before, we are allowed to lay a wreath on the graves of the dead of this immense struggle with the words, 'and yet, you have been victorious.' "

Peaceful Intentions

Professing the peaceful intentions of Nazi leaders, Hitler declared "six years only of peace have been granted to us since Jan. 30, 1933. A gigantic amount of work had been accomplished in these six years and still more had been planned."

The fuehrer contended that resistance the Reich is now offering was made possible "only by the internal transformation of the German people" by national socialism and added, "if the spirit of Versailles still prevailed in Germany today, Europe would have been swept away by the Asiatic springtide long ago."

Hitler described himself as "a ruthless National Socialist and warrior of my nation" as he defiantly cried that Germany would never go down "before the Bolshevists."

Life Matters Little

Again as in previous dramatic utterances he declared that his own life mattered little.

"I do not want to leave any doubt about another matter on this day; my present life is being determined solely by the duties which lie upon me . . . to work for my people and fight for them," he asserted.

Hitler claimed "The Almighty" had saved him from assassination last July and declared he would "therefore continue on my path of uncompromising representation of the interests of my people . . . imbued with the sacred conviction that in the end the Almighty will not let down a man who wanted nothing else throughout his life but to save his people from a fate which they have not deserved."

Groundhog Lodge Bursts Forth In Full Force Friday

QUARRYVILLE, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP)—The Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs, which feels a "patriotic duty to do something about the weather," will march forth Friday to observe the high priest of its annual ritual—the groundhog.

In top hats and long white shirts, the weather prognosticators will await the return of the groundhog to his rightful position in society.

Should the groundhog see his shadow and scurry back into the warmth of his nether dwelling, the ice gnomes will roam the countryside for six weeks yet to come.

If he fails to see his shadow—then take it from hibernating Governor Charles Hess—store away your long woolen underwear. Although the result will not be unknown to all faithful Groundhogs, "we are going to throw up a wall of secrecy," saws W. E. Hansel, secretary and bondless treasurer.

"We are taking no chances with enemy agents who would like to get their hands on our system of long-range weather forecasting—rest assured it will be guarded."

WACO, Jan. 30. (AP)—The Waco News Tribune says that Harry Stiteler, Waco High school coach, after considering the matter for more than a week, yesterday turned down an offer from Highland Park High school to become head coach there to succeed Rusty Russell.

Stiteler was to go to Dallas yesterday to confer with Highland Park officials, but instead remained at home and sent a wire declining the offer, the paper said.

The Waco coach announced that spring football practice would start at Waco High Feb. 15 and that 190 candidates had answered his first call.

Salary Increase Bill Is Passed By Senate

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Senate finance committee, after making sweeping revisions in the salary brackets of the original bills, today approved Senate bills 22 and 23 increasing the salaries of state department employes and those of eleemosynary institutions.

The bills as revised by the committee provides a 20 per cent wage hike for employees receiving up to $1,500 annually. The original bill set the minimum bracket at $2,100.

Continuing its efforts to spread and equalize the increases the committee then provided a 15 per cent raise for all employees receiving between $1,500 and $2,100. Those receiving from $2,100 up to $3,600 were given a 10 per cent increase instead of the original provision of 16 per cent and those being paid in excess of $3,600 were allowed a 2½ per cent hike.

The committee on highway motor traffic formally reported two bills by Senator Penrose Metcalfe giving the State Highway department authority to micro-film old records to conserve filing space and to allow the department to issue a single plate or tag for 1946, '47 and '48.

SCHACHT SAID ARRESTED

Court Visitor Burps Way Into Calaboose

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 30 (AP)—A burp or wisecrack ,whichever it was, cost Fred D. Creasap, 43-year-old Detroit consulting engineer, a $25 fine in circuit court here today on a contempt of court charge.

Mrs. Creasap was testifying before Judge Leland W. Carr in trial of a friend's divorce suit here yesterday when Creasap made a noise. Judge Carr held that Creasap had interjected a "yeah" from the rear of the courtroom to help out his wife's testimony.

Said Creasap to court officers as he was held in contempt and lodged in jail overnight: "All I did was burp once in the court room, and that was a very small burp."

Judge Carr imposed the fine this morning, lecturing Creasap that he had consumed so much beer before the incident that "you were in no condition to be in court."

Reds Trap Many In East Prussia Drive

LONDON, Jan. 30. (AP)—More than 1,500,000 German civilians and soldiers have been trapped or overrun by Russian armies in East Prussia, it was estimated today by London sources in touch with German internal affairs.

These estimates were bolstered by word from Moscow that virtually the entire rural population and more than 80 per cent of the urban dwellers had been swept under or compressed into the bare quarter of East Prussia which still remained in German hands.

ishing divisions."

The Soviet communique showed also that Zhukov's front in northeastern Germany had been extended at both ends to a width of 160 miles, the day's gains reaching 48 miles northeast of previous points to Linde in Pomerania, and eight miles southward to Unruhstadt, just west of the Polish border.

A German Transocean agency broadcast said, without confirmation, that Zhukov's forces had reached a line extending through Zullichau, Schweibus and Meseritz, all west of the Obra river and approximately 80 miles east of Berlin.

In this sector, however, military circles in both Moscow and London said, the Russian armored spearheads might be even closer than 80 miles of the capital.

No Order Of Day Issued

Tuesday was the first day since Jan. 14 that Marshal Stalin issued no orders of the day procalming Russian victories. The only announcement of Red Army progress issued in Moscow was the regular communique.

It indicated that Konigsberg had been closely encircled, stating that Meigethen, three miles west, and Heyde-Waldburg, five miles southwest, had been captured; declared German troops attempting to break through to Elbing, East Prussian Baltic port, had been repulsed; announced capture of Marienwerder on the Vistula estuary near the western border of East Prussia, and told of further advances northeast of Scheidemuhl in Pomerania.

Nothing From Other Areas

There was no news of the fighting in Breslau or any other sector of Silesia in the communique, operations in that sector being cloaked in security silence.

In the Carpathian mountains in southern Poland, it said, Russian forces continuing their offensive west and southwest captured Zakopane and 80 other towns, while in central Slovakia gains of 13 to 18 miles and the capture of more than 100 communities was reported.

West and southwest of Katowice, Poland, more than 60 towns were seized in the Russian mop-up of that territory rich in minerals and other natural resources.

Berlin Drive In Spotlight

The offensive directly east of Berlin, however, held the focus of attention on the Eastern front.

"German border troops bitterly engaged the enemy in heavy battles everywhere," one Berlin commentator reported.

The German broadcasts declared Kustrin, a communications hub 41 miles east of the German capital, was the immediate goal of the Brandenburg invasion.

Luzon Landing

Japanese in the Clark Field-Fort Stotsenburg area from falling back on Bataan and also will trap Japanese in the Zambales mountains of Luzon's northwest coast.

The Yanks moved swiftly to within 10 miles of the big Olongapo naval base on Subic bay.

24th Airfield Captured

The airfield was the 24th which Yank forces have captured on Luzon since the Sixth Army opened the invasion of Luzon Jan. 9 at Lingayen gulf.

The MacArthur move to seal off Bataan meant a bid to avoid a re-enactment by Nipponese forces of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita of the long fight put up on that same rugged peninsula from January to April, 1942 by Americans and Filipinos. It came at a time when Japanese elements which abandoned San Fernando Sunday were reported fleeing southwest from there into Bataan.

While this operation was unfolding, Fourteenth corps Yanks of the Sixth Army mopped up around Fort Stotsenburg in the Clark Field area and First corps troops scored a seven mile gain southwestward from San Quinton on the left flank.

Second Spearhead

The Eighth Army invasion constituted a second spearhead aimed at Manila.

At the new invasion scene again in flat country suitable for mechanized warfare, the Yanks were due west of San Fernando, which units of the Sixth Army captured Sunday morning.

From San Fernando the Sixth Army was driving between swamplands toward the commonwealth capital.

The 24th Infantry division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, took part in the campaign which conquered Leyte, first major Philippine island to be liberated.

First Time In Action

This was the first mention of the Eighth Army in action in the war.

It is commanded by Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, who commanded the Buna campaign on New Guinea's east coast.

General MacArthur reported "the surprise of the enemy was complete both strategically and tactically, and the landing was accomplished without the loss of a man, ship or plane."

Troops drove inland through San Marcelino, which has an airfield, to Castellejos, 11 miles beyong the beachhead and within ten miles of Olongapo, a port on Subic bay.

"This operation," MacArthur triumphantly announced, "is calculated to give us the great Subic bay base to threaten the western flank of any enemy forces in the central (Luzon) plain and to seal off Bataan."

Heavy Jap Losses

MacArthur said in the northern sector, southeast of Lingayen gulf, American troops inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese in mopping up operations.

MacArthur said his forces to date had captured 23 Luzon airfields, including huge Clark Field with its 17 airstrips.

American aircraft supporting the invasion dropped 109 tons of bombs on coastal defenses at Corregidor fortress and the Cavite naval base in Manila bay, causing large fires and explosions.

Long-range bombers attacked Japanese shipping across the China sea at Formosa, probably sinking a 2,000-ton freighter with a direct hit and shot down an enemy transport plane north of Hongkong, China, in a daylight strike.

Bougainville Flares Up

The first ground fighting of consequence in months on Bougainville island, northeast of New Guinea, was reported in MacArthur's Wednesday communique.

Australian troops, which have relieved the Americans in the general area, encountered organized resisfance 14 miles south of the Buka airfield as they advanced porth along the western Bougainville coast.

The Japanese withdrew after sharp clashes, leaving 271 dead and a quantity of artillery and material.

Death Sentence For Nazi Youth Stayed

AACHEN, Germany, Jan. 30 (AP) —The death sentence imposed on blond, blue-eyed Karl Arno Punzeler, 16-year-old German, for supplying Allied tactical information to the Nazis, was commuted to life imprisonment today, "solely in view of his extreme youth."

The boy, advised that Lieutenant General Courtney H. Hodges, commander of the U. S. First Army, had granted clemency, never batted an eye or showed the slightest appreciation.

CALIFORNIA EXEMPTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — California, except for San Diego and vicinity and Catalina island, have been exempt from the nationwide "brownout," the War production board announced today.

Faculty Reaffirms Demand For Rainey

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—The University of Texas faculty in general meeting today reaffirmed its belief that Dr. Homer P. Rainey should be reinstated as president.

The group adopted a resolution declaring: "We believe that the essence of the university controversy is the issue of intellectual freedom, that the University of Texas should not be molded to a single political, and social point of view, and that Dr. Rainey has become the symbol for intellectual freedom. Therefore, we remain steadfast in our deep conviction that the interests of the university require a reinstatement of Dr. Rainey as president."

To help feel your best—

IT'S VITALLY IMPORTANT TO KEEP PROPER IRON LEVEL IN THE BLOOD

One-ounce dish of KELLOGG'S All-Bran gives over ⅓rd your daily minimum iron needs

EVERYONE, young or old, needs iron constantly to help keep up the "iron level" in the blood—to help keep vitality up to par.

The best place to get iron is in foods. But—there are only a few foods that have a significant amount of iron. Thus, your diet can be lacking in iron without your knowing it—and your "iron level" may decline.

Fortunately, there is one everyday breakfast cereal that is a rich, inexpensive source of readily assimilable iron. It's KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, which actually gives you more available iron than spinach. And, in addition to iron richness, this nut-brown, crunchy breakfast cereal is an important natural source of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamins B, B₂ and niacin. That's because ALL-BRAN, produced by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat.

KELLOGG'S All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

You know that the skin of a potato and the peel of an apple are richest in vitamins and minerals. In the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature stores some of the grain's most important nutrients. ALL-BRAN is made of these vital outer layers and is more abundant in many food elements than whole wheat itself.

America's Great Regulating Cereal

And, in addition to being a storehouse of iron and other important elements, famous KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is Nature's great REGULATING CEREAL. Millions eat it regularly. It's America's most widely used regulating FOOD. Just a one-ounce serving eaten daily is usually adequate for satisfactory laxation. ALL-BRAN does not interfere with normal digestion. It is triple-milled for golden softness.

Be sure your family gets a good start on its requirements of iron and other important food elements! Serve KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly.

Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a cereal in muffins, or on other cereals.

DONOR OF 7 PINTS OF BLOOD

MORE BLOOD DONATIONS NEEDED NOW

Miss Edith Jane Meyer, 835 Trinity Ave., Bronx, N. Y., gave her first pint of blood on her 21st birthday, two years ago. To date, she has donated 7 pints. Other patriots are urged to donate blood for urgently needed plasma. Fluid part of the blood is restored in a few hours. Maintaining the body's proper "iron level" helps to rebuild the red corpuscles.

Bill Providing State Censorship Of Movies Introduced In House

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. (U.P.)—A bill to create a seven-member motion picture censorship committee in each state senatorial district was introduced in the Texas House of Representatives today by Miss Rae Files, Waxahachie.

The bill provides members of the censorship board are to be appointed for two-year terms without salary by the governor. At least three members must be women and at least two parent-teacher association members.

Could Demand Preview

The board would have authority to demand a preview showing of any motion picture before it is offered for the public. If the board believed the picture undersirable, it would notify the theater manager he should not show the picture publicly and also would notify the governor.

The governor would have power to order Texas Rangers to enforce the ban on the picture, and the board, governor and rangers would be exempt from damage claims.

Miss Files' bill, in requesting emergency consideration, says teen-aged youth attend theaters "showing lewd and lascivious motion pictures, which tend to break down moral standards.

Two proposed constitutional amendments were also introduced in the House today.

One provided homesteads shall not consist of more than 200 acres of land and not exceed a $5,000 value, and that protection from forced sale shall not apply on total property valuation of more than $10,000.

The other proposed amendment creates a legislative redistricting board to meet after each federal census and revamp legislative districts if the legislature does not enact an act on redistricting.

Bills introduced provide:

Poll taxes shall cost $1, with Indians and physically handicapped specifically exempt from payment.

Would Set License Fees

Motorcycle and passenger car state licenses shall cost $5, and those for motorcycle sidecars $3 a year.

A motor fuel occupation or excise tax of five cents a gallon—the present tax is four cents.

Any surplus in excess of a $3,000,000 balance at the end of a fiscal year in the county and road district highway fund shall be transferred to use for lateral road construction.

Appropriation of $450,000 to staff and equip a state tuberculosis sanitarium, and $100,000 for the state health department to inaugurate a state tuberculosis control program.

JAP LOCOMOTIVES WRECKED

Case Of Man Charged In Swindle Is Set

DALLAS, Jan. 30. (AP)—Hillary Mayen, charged with violation of the national stolen property act, pleaded innocent before Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson today, and the judge ordered Mayen's case set for Feb. 26.

Mayen's attorneys had launched attacks on a new indictment against their client, charged in connection with the 1939 swindle of Mrs. D. B. Flagg, McAllen, Tex., citrus grower.

Defense attorneys Maurey Hughes and Howard Dailey moved to quash the indictment on grounds that allegations were insufficient. Judge Davidson ruled the indictment sufficient, but advised that the government would have to prove the securities mentioned in the indictment were of $5,000 in value.

The new indictment charges Mayen caused bonds stolen from Mrs. Flagg to be transported from Ennis, Tex., to Kansas City, Mo.

Gothamites Eat Eggs On Meatless Tuesday

NEW YORK, Jan. 30. (AP) — There were eggs with broccoli, eggs in cheese and eggs all by their naked selves today as New York had its first official meatless Tuesday since World War 1.

The chefs in the city's 19,000 eating places had a field day disguising eggs so their mothers wouldn't have recognized them.

It was good practice for the future, too. Meatless Tuesdays and Fridays will continue, by order of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, until there is more meat.

Planning Group Files Report

By MARY L. KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 30.—The fruit of nearly two year's labor by the Postwar Economic Planning commission, neatly bound in a bright green cover, was laid on the desk of each legislator today.

This 31-member commission was created by resolution of the House in March, 1943. Gov. Coke Stevenson named Gibb Gilchrist as chairman. Gilchirst resigned at the end of 18 months and A. P. Rollins of Dallas was appointed to his place. No funds are provided the commission for its work.

Apparently the most hopeful plan in the report stems from the Highway department — and was developed independent of the commission. The education committee report was frankly dark. Others have "tentative plans" and "proposals."

Most are admittedly in the unformulated stage and the words: "No definite information," "no survey" and "no plans" recur throughout the 69-page report.

Highways Planned

The Highway department has "plans ready on $60,000,000 worth of roads, and a $30,000,000 nest egg to start work as soon as the war ends." Within three years an additional $56,250,000 is expected to accure from taxes to match the $86,250,000 federal grant which is Texas' share in the recently passed national postwar highway bill."

As for the state's general building plans, the report says: "Planning is being made by major higher educational institutions, teacher colleges, park and recreational groups . . . but we have not progressed sufficiently to report on these yet."

No complete study has been made of "wartime industries" except to obtain a list of 67 wartime plants in Texas.

No progress is reported on a stated objective of the commission to "stimulate production of agricultural, forest and livestock products including the development of processing industries for agricultural and other raw materials."

Of one thing the commission was certain: "Texas should capitalize on its potential postwar tourist business" which will bring an estimated four hundred million dollars per year into the state that will "go directly into business enterprise without any direct investment."

General Finds That He Spoke Too Early

SOMEWHERE IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES (AP) — Troops stationed at this base were considerably upset when the commanding general posted a proclamation declaring the area was no longer considered a combat zone. It meant the soldiers would have to pay for cigarets and canteen supplies.

The general left the base for a few days. When he returned he found a large bomb crater where his living quarters had been.

Educators Advocate Conscription Delay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Twelve university presidents have asked President Roosevelt to delay consideration of the "highly controversial question" of universal postwar military training "at least until complete victory over Germany is achieved."

"We suggest that experience with the prohibition amendment indicates the unwisdom of attempting to determine long-run revolutionary policies in wartime," they said in a letter made public today.

Noting in the letter, dated January 24, that President Roosevelt had told Congress he was convinced of the necessity for universal training after the war and intended to send a special message dealing with the subject, the educators said:

"A continuing program of public education as to the requirements of national defense is certainly in order; but we challenge the necessity of urging the American people to act under the tensions of war psychology in order to bring them to a decision which, it is said, they would not reach under normal conditions."

Signers of the letter are:

Oliver C. Carmichael, Vanderbilt; James B. Conant, Harvard; Edmund E. Day, Cornell; Harold W. Dodds, Princeton; Rufus C. Harris, Tulane; Robert M. Hutchins, Chicago; Frederick A. Middlebush, Missouri; Deane W. Malott, Chancellor, University of Kansas; Robert G. Sproul, California; Donald B. Tressider, Stanford; Herman B. Wells, Indiana, and Henry M. Wriston, Brown.

SUPERVISOR TAKES OVER

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 30. (U.P.) — Tom Grew of Polk county will assume the duties of livestock supervisor for the Texas prison system on Feb. 1, filling a vacancy left by the resignation of R. H. Maxwell, who resigned to enter private business at Madisonville.

GET NEW EQUIPMENT

HOUSTON, Jan. 30 (U.P.)—Patrol cars of the Harris county sheriff's office soon will be equipped with two-way radio communications, operating more speedily on the wave lengths of a 250-watt broadcasting station, it was announced today.

Wallace, Lauded By FDR, Starts Campaign To Gain Dual Positions

By JOAN YOUNGER
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—Backed by a letter of endorsement from President Roosevelt, Henry A. Wallace campaigned for popular support today in his fight for both the secretaryship of Commerce and control of the federal loan agencies.

He told 1,450 labor leaders, liberal writers and pro-New Deal industrialists, gathered in his honor last night, that "while the Senate would relieve me of a great burden by giving me Commerce without RFC (Reconstruction Finance corporation), I feel that from the standpoint of the 60 million workers, the profits of business, the income of farmers, the welfare of the country as a whole, and the protection of the United States treasury, I could do a better job if the two were combined than if they were separated."

Many Good Men

"Undoubtedly many good men could be found to head the loan agency," he said, "but I wish to make it clear to you that if there were serious danger of a 'too little' and 'too late' man being appointed, I would prefer not to be secretary of commerce."

Although his nomination by President Roosevelt to the Commerce post, which presently controls the loan agencies, is under fire in the Senate, Wallace was encouraged by a praiseful letter from the President, read to the meeting.

Existence of the letter was revealed for the first time at the testimonial dinner sponsored by the Union for Democratic Action, presided over by Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic. It was written Jan. 17, five days before Mr. Roosevelt nominated Wallace to the commerce post.

Mrs. FDR Lauds Wallace

Mrs. Elanear Roosevelt addressed the dinner guests, praising Wallace as a "courageous leader."

The President's letter said:

"I was glad to hear of your testimonial dinner to Henry Wallace. I am happy to send a message. Indeed, whenever and wherever men gather to give testimony to the contribution of Henry Wallace to our times and future, I want to be called as witness.

"With other Americans, I am grateful for the things that Henry Wallace has done as a great secretary of agriculture and as a vice president with a clear voice to the conscience and the hopes of men everywhere.

"You and I can be grateful also for what Henry Wallace is in the meaning of things we have been trying to do to make a better America and, in the war we now wage, to make a better world.

New Usefulness Seen

"Henry Wallace comes to the end of his term as vice president, as a man moving to a new usefulness as a public servant and as a first spokesman of faith in the dignity and freedom of man. The occasion of the dinner, I am sure, is not one of farewell.

"America, its people, and its government, need Henry Wallace now more than ever before. I count on his aid, his wisdom and his courage in the difficult ways to the magnificent hopes we hold for a world worthy of his faith in the people and of the struggles of free people everywhere, which have so splendidly justified that faith."

Wallace said his opponents feared the scope of his ideas, rather than any impractical schemes.

INJURED MEN IMPROVE

GALVESTON, Jan. 30. (AP) — Five men injured when 20 parachuted to safety from a Pyote, Army Air field bomber before it crashed and burned at La Marque, Tex., Saturday, were recovering today. The plane was en route from Salinas, Kans., to Galveston Army Air field.

Report Of Probe In New Mexico Delayed

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 30. (AP) The New Mexico Senate today delayed action on the report of its investigation committee, which asked the upper chamber to direct the attorney general to investigate what the committee called a "wrecking project" between the Vallejo ranch and the state asylum for the insane at Las Vegas.

The committee, headed by Sen. Hilario Rubio, (D.), of San Miguel, said that the hospital board's minutes disclosed that J. Garcia, former business manager, and a man named Goodwin, descirbed as an asylum engineer, were to share equally in the cost of the project.

The board has either approved payment or at least permitted and acquiesced in payment of full costs of the project up to Jan. 15, 1945, the committee report said.

The committee said it was unable to obtain proof where the materials salvaged from the project had been delivered.

The senate delayed action until the committee's report could be mimeographed.

The committee also charged that the asylum had exceeded its budget for the present year by $100,000. It was charged also that there were 100 patients in some wards with only two baths available for them and that the building was in danger of collapsing.

The lack of sweaters, hose and shoes prevented some patients from going outdoors except on very sunny days, the committee charged.

Westerners Ease By Tahoka Squad

The Lubbock Westerners snapped the seven game winning streak of the Tahoka Bulldogs here last night, easing out a 44 to 38 win over the Bulldogs by staving off a game last minute rally by the Lynn county warriors. The Westerners won the B game, 27-16, but the Tahoka juniors won the curtain raiser, 20-17.

The two clubs battled on nip and tuck terms through the first half of the ball game, but the Westerners began to pull away in the third period, and piled up what appeared to be a comfortable lead.

Bulldogs Rally

But the Bulldogs had different ideas about the lead, and started with a rally in the final quarter that almost threatened to upset the apple cart. The Bulldogs pulled within striking distance again, but the Westerners protected their fast crumbling lead down to the wire.

The game was fast all the way, and one of the best games of the year. Cecil Dorman, Tahoka guard, gave the fans an early sample when he took the tipoff from center, dribbled a few steps, and sank a quick goal. Charles Pressley tied the game within a minute, and Verdell Turner followed with another quick one.

The Westerners eased under the first quarter wire with a 10-8 lead, and reached the halfway mark with a 22-20 advantage. Pulling into the home stretch, the Westerners began to click, and rolled up a 35-24 lead by the end of the third quarter.

In the final period, Tahoka poured 14 points through the meshes, while the Westerners were counting with nine, but the final gun snapped off the rally.

Jones Tops Scorers

Nolan Jones, who was out of the opener of the series, made a big difference in the Tahoka ball club last night. Jones was high point man of the night, finding the range on the basket for eight field goals and a total of 16 points.

Hanes, his running mate at forward, came in second with him, and fired 12 points through the nets as the two accounted for 28 of the Tahoka points between them.

George Brewer matched Hanes' score for the top figure on the Westerner club, but he was closely pressed by Charles Pressley and Verdell Turner, as the three accounted for 33 of the Lubbock points.

With Bob Galey hitting the basket from all angles, the Westerner B team coasted to victory n the second game on the card. Galey hit the hoop for 15 points. Stoney Wall of Lubbock and Edwards of Tahoka tied for runnerup honors, each getting eight points.

The Westerner B team bounded away to a quick lead, and piled up a 12-2 advantage at the end of the first quarter. The lead was 18-5 at the half, and 21-10 at the end of the third period.

Slaton Cops Pair In Tilts With New Deal

SLATON, Jan. 30 (Special) — Slaton cagers won two out of three basketball games played with New Deal here tonight.

In the first game the Slaton boys' B team chalked up an easy 23-12 victory over the New Deal quintet. John T. Hall scored 9 points for Slaton, and a teammate, Roberts, made 6 more. Bufe of New Deal hit the loop for 6.

The New Deal girls scored the only win of the night against the Slaton aggregations with a 28-14 trouncing of the home team. Kveton and Agnew of New Deal were high for their team, marking up 12 and 11 respectively. Bartley took honors for Slaton with 7 tallies.

Slaton boys A team copped the final game for the night with a 32-23 win over their New Deal opponents. Grady Elder scored 14 points for the host team, but Hall of the visitors stole the show by making 21 of New Deal's 23 points.

Brownfield Nips Plainview, 21-15

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 30 (Special)—The Brownfield Cubs took an early lead in the south half playoff for the basketball title in District 1-AA, by nosing out the favored Plainview Bulldogs, 21-15, here tonight.

The Brownfield B team made it a clean sweep over the visitors by winning the opener, 21-17, over the Plainview B team.

The game was fast and rough all the way, but developed early in to a defensive duel between the two clubs. The Plainview five took a quick 2-0 lead in the ball game, and held this advantage for seven minutes before the Cubs could start clicking.

The Cubs took an 8-6 lead at the half, and pulled through the last half without losing the advantage.

Donald C. Moore of Brownfield and Malone of Plainview shared scoring honors for the night, each getting seven points.

In the B team game, George of Brownfield took scoring honors of the night, dropping in 11 points, while Echols paced the Bulldog five with seven.

The Brownfield five will move into Lubbock Friday night for the second conference game of the year, and the first for the Westerners.

Idalou Cagers Defeat Service Clubs Twice

IDALOU, Jan. 30 (Special) — Idalou emerged as winner in two basketball tilts with Lubbock Army Air field cagers here tonight.

Idalou girls handed the LAAF WACs a 44-28 defeat in the first game, but the game was much closer than the score would indicate. The two teams stayed within a few points of each other in the first half, but toward the end of the game the Idalou group pulled ahead.

Section 1 of Lubbock Army Air field fell before the Idalou boys 34-28 in a close and hotly contested game. LAAF led by a 12-8 score at the end of the first quarter, and had a one point edge at the half. Again it was a late surge of the Idalou team that brought about their triumph. Isom and Becknell of Idalou were high point men for the winners with 10 and 8 points each, and Ellerston scored 8 for LAAF.

Shallowater Ekes Out Win Over Abernathy

ABERNATHY, Jan. 30 (Special) The Shallowater five handed the strong Abernathy basketeers their second defeat in 19 games here tonight, 22 to 20.

However, the Abernathy girls romped over the visitors 25 to 6, with Ann Lutrick leading the scoring parade with nine points. The local juniors boys team shaded its opposition 13 to 12 in a genuine thriller.

In the "A" boys tilt, the teams were deadlocked 6-6 at the end of the first quarter. The half score stood 14 to 13, Shallowater, and the third quarter count was 20 to 17, Shallowater.

Murphy was high-pointer for the victors with 10, while Rhodes was high for Abernathy wth 6.

Mustangs Win Over Horned Frogs, 56-38

DALLAS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Avenging an earlier defeat on the enemy's floor and keeping alive a still faint hope of winning or tying for the Southwest Conference championship, the Southern Methodist Mustangs defeated the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, 56 to 38, here tonight in a rough, fiercely fought basketball game.

There are 22 sets of brothers in one Canadian anti-aircraft battery now in England.

Buffs Win Over Raiders, 66-38

CANYON, Jan. 30. (Special)—The West Texas State Teachers college Buffalos pulled away in the last half here tonight, and defeated the green, but battling, Texas Tech Red Raiders, 66-38, in the opening game of the two-game series.

Two members of the Buff five, the veteran Clark Johnson and the Levelland Flash, J. L. Houser, piled up 43 of the Teacher's points, with Johnson finding the range on the basket for 11 field goals and a free pitch for scoring honors of the game with 23 points.

Houser was a close second, looping in ten baskets, getting seven of them in the last half as he paced a West Texas rally that allowed the locals to pull away.

The Red Raiders were very much in the ball game for the first half, and at the halftime intermission, the Teachers held only a 27-18 advantage over the Lubbuck five.

But the last half was a different story, and the West Texas five began to pile up the lead, and the outcome of the game was never in any doubt.

Jiggs Jackson, Monument, N. M., lad was the big noise for the Red Raiders, looping in 12 points with five field goals and two free pitches. Jay Kerr came in a close second, accounting for nine more points, while another pair of New Mexico lads, Don Grove and Costin Bufkin, each pushed in six points.

The two teams will conclude the series Wednesday night.

Cooper Boys Defeat Cowhands Gold Five

The Cooper High school boys basketball fives won a twin bill over the Cowhands Gold from Lubbock Tuesday night at Cooper, but the powerful Cooper girls team was defeated by the Union of Dawson county five that won the district title last year.

The Cooper B team won a 19-15 thriller in the opener, but scoring honors of the game went to Metcalf of the Lubbock club. Metcalf looped in 12 points, while Elkins paced Cooper with 10.

The strong Cooper A team rolled to a 25-19 win over the Cowhands A team, but again it was a Cowhand who stole the scoring honors of the night, as Jack Alderson looped in 11 points. Henderson was high scorer for the winners with eight.

The Union girls, made up the team from last year, and one of the strongest in West Texas, nosed out Cooper, 19-14 in a well played, and fast battle. Neal of the winners was high scorer of the game with nine points. Webb and Wilke tied for honors with Cooper, each with six.

Three More Athletes Go In Armed Service

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Jan. 30. (AP)—Three major league athletes—two from baseball and one from the gridiron—have pulled on a new uniform and started training for the biggest team of all—the United States Army.

They are Leslie "Bill" Fleming, a pitcher for the National League's Chicago Cubs; Thomas G. Heath, formerly of the American League's St. Louis Browns, and Cecil Johnson of professional football's Brooklyn Tigers.

All three are in the medical training section. Johnson was inducted at Paris, Tex., Jan. 8 and Fleming and Heath at San Francisco Jan. 6.

Heath, now of Clovis, Calif., climbed to the majors via San Antonio of the Texas League and Toronto of the International loop.

Johnson hails from Talco, Tex., and played with East Texas State Teachers college before moving into professional ball two years ago.

Tahoka Entries Give Boost To Golden Gloves Interest

The district Golden Glove boxing tournament, scheduled at the Texas Tech gym for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights began to take on fresh interest Tuesday with the entries of the eleven man squad from Tahoka High school.

Coach Leo Jackson released the list of entries while in Lubbock with his basketball five.

Edwards Not Listed

One tournament favorite was missing from the list as Jerry Edwards, who won the crown in his weight division last year, and made a great showing in the state tournament at Fort Worth, decided to devote his attention to the basketball squad, instead of returning to defend his crown.

Ten of the men on the list are entered in the championship division, and one in the novice class. Seven of the ten entries in the open class are veterans of last year's Tahoka team in the tournament.

Little H. L. McMillan, who made a great hit with the fans last year, will be back, along with Dwayne Vaughan, the hard hitting youngster that has most of the boys easing away from his weight class, and from his dynamite laden right hand.

Jackie Driver and Van Brookshire are entered in the 112 pound class, with Driver a veteran of last year's team. Brookshire is making his first appearance.

McMillan Is Back

McMillan shaved down to the 118 pound class, and is entered along with Bobby Scott and Glen Newton, all of them veterans of the Golden Gloves team last year from Tahoka.

Kenneth Hanes, a newcomer to Golden Gloves, is entered in the 126 pound class with Vaughan, and both are listed as very promising men in this division, with Vaughan's heralded right hand giving him an edge.

Vaughan hammered his way through the ranks of the Tahoka tournament last week, and kayos have become largely pared down the Tahoka squad.

Bill Grider is another returning veteran in the 147 pound class, and another very promising battler with more than an outside chance of "going places" in the tournament here.

Leslie McNeely, a newcomer to the ranks, is entered in the 160 pound class, but comes with the rating of being a dangerous contender.

A. L. Hodge, pudgy built slugger, is back in the heavyweight class this year, and reports indicate that he has added a lot of polish to his boxing since last season.

Dwayne Fleming, a fast moving, hard hitting 126 pounder, has been entered in the novice class.

Fighters will weigh in anytime after 2 o'clock, and before 7 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

Cage Gambling Case Goes To Grand Jury

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, Jan. 30.—A grand jury investigation of gambling on college basketball games—it has been estimated that $300,000 has changed hands on a single game in Madison Square Garden—was ordered today as college officials moved to stamp out the practice.

Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz of the Kings county court instructed the grand jury to "hand up any indictments necessary" only an hour after Harvey Stemmer, described by police as a gambler, was arraigned on a charge of giving $1,000 to five Brooklyn athletes to throw tomorrow night's game with Akron in the Boston Garden. The game was cancelled.

Gambler On Bond

Stemmer was held in $2,500 ball for further hearing on Feb. 5. His companion, Harry Rosen, was arraigned in Manhattan on another charge but Assistant District Attorney Barnard Alderman said Rosen also would be arraigned on the bribery charge.

Asa S. Bushnell, commissioner of Eastern athletics and a member of the NCAA committee which recently investigated betting on college results, said the "athletic directors must now organize in strength to protect college games" and that they must find the means "of eliminating gamblers completely from the picture."

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York asked the aid of the public and press in seeing to it that the bookmakers, "these cheap, tin-horn chislers, these procurers, these punks and thieves," be thrown into jail.

Gambling Takes Jump

Betting on college results, a major activity among the men-of-chance for years, jumped after the close of the race tracks on Jan. 3.

Brooklyn college was the underdog in tomorrow nights game and the alleged arrangements were planned to insure the Kingsmen's loss by a specified number of points.

The five athletes, named by prosecutors as Bernard Barnett, Larry Learlstein, Robert Leder, Jerry Green and Stanley Simon, have been dropped from the Brooklyn squad. Dr. Richard Boyce, director of athletics, said the school would continue its program and play out its basketbell schedule although tonight's game was cancelled.

Edward Hefferman and Louis Andreozzi, assistant district attorneys for Kings county, said the Brooklyn youths told them they already had received $1,000 and were making certain the final $2,000 payment would be made when their conference was interrupted by police. The officers were watching Stemmer's residence on another case at the time.

Germany, before the present war, had the highest suicide rate of any nation.

Lamesa Defeats Midland, 31-22

LAMESA, Jan. 30. (Special) — The Lamesa Golden Tornados opened the District 3-AA cage championship race here tonight by winning a 31-22 decision over the defending champions, the Midland Bulldogs.

Lamesa bounded away to an early lead, and were never headed off as the Tornados set the pace. The locals held an 8-2 advantage at the end of the first period, and were leading 19-12 at the halfway mark. The lead was boosted to 26-14 by the end of the third period, then the locals coasted in through the final stanza.

Roberts and Tabor staged a merry duel for scoring honors with the Lamesa five, Roberts nosing out the finish with 11 points, while Tabor flipped in ten points. Vertrees led the Midland scoring with eight points.

The Lamesa B team made it a clean sweep by taking the opener, 28-14, with J. Dodge setting the pace with eight points. Lamesa led 18-11 at the half.

The Golden Tornados will be hosts to the Odessa Bronchos here Friday night in the second game on the playoff schedule.

The conference openeer drew a good crowd, and boxing bouts staged between halves proved very popular with the fans.

RON NORTHEY INDUCTED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30. (AP)—Ron Northey, slugging rightfielder of the Phillies, became the first major league baseball star to be drafted under the recent ruling on re-examination of 4-F athletes yesterday when he was inducted into the Army.

Levelland Lobos Roll Over Morton, 49-19

LEVELLAND, Jan. 30 (Special) —The Levelland Lobos remained undefeated in conference cage play here tonight, by romping to a 49-19 victory over the Morton cagers for the fifth straight conference victory.

The Lobos bounded away to an early lead, and were never threatened. They held a 29-12 lead at the half.

Four men staged a merry battle for scoring honors with Levelland, and Burl Pierce nosed out for the honors with 12 points. He was closely followed by Euel Palmer with ten, and Jess Clairdy and Joe Garrison tied with eight each. Willis paced the losers with five points.

Levelland gained a cleap sweep of the night, the Levelland B team winning a 21-19 thriller in the opener. The score at the half was 10-8, and the game was close down to the final whistle.

Royce Peterson of Levelland copped scoring honors for this game with 12 points, closely followed by Bobby Hart, who looped in nine points. Bragg and Winder paced the losers with five points each.

The Lobos will battle the Brownfield Cubs here Wednesday night in a game for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

Dodd Takes Post At Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Jan. 30. (AP)—Wily Bill Alexander slipped off the big time collegiate coaching bench today into a double-barreled athletic directorship, handing the Georgia Tech football destinies to his protege, Bobby Dodd of Tennessee.

Alexander—most of his boys call him "Coach Alec" — pulled his fadeout after 25 years in the Yellowjackets driver's seat. His enture didn't set a record but was among the game's longest in a major college. Himself a Tech grad of 1912, William A. Alexander served as assistant coach of the Ramblin' Wreck for eight years before succeeding J. W. Heisman, of the Heisman Trophy fame, in 1920.

Dodd, who came here as Alexander's assistant in 1931 after making a playing name for himself at the University of Tennessee, is Tech's sixth head coach. He is a native of Galax, Va., and attended Kingsport, Tenn., High school before entering Tennessee.

In accepting Alexander's resignation as head coach, Tech's athletic board retained the veteran as athletic director and created for him the new and additional post of director of physical training. Dodd was given the head coach's job with full authority to name his own staff.

the NEWS

brought to you by....

As so many of us wait with anxious hearts, we are grateful for our radios, that help to pierce the wall of silence between the fighting fronts and home.

Most of us could never hear the war's historic broadcasts were it not for dependable electric service that brings our radios to life at the snap of a switch. The same electric service makes the broadcasts possible—for it supplies the power by which your local station flings signals into space from its transmitter.

When seeing the news while you hear it becomes a commonplace, along with many another new appliance, you will be more thankful than ever for dependable electric service. Be sure that your new home can take full advantage of it. Plan now for adequate wiring. Have your contractor see that wiring will handle the electrical load which the many new appliances and lighting will demand.

Taxpayers Are Losers

University Needs House-Cleaning

DR. JOHN ALTON BURDINE resigned the other day as vice president of the University of Texas because he didn't like action of the board of regents in declining to reinstate Dr. Homer Price Rainey, the institution's discharged president. Certainly, Doctor Burdine was right in resigning his post—but it is interesting to note that he held onto his other university job, that of professor of economics.

It occurs to us that if Doctor Burdine was dissatisfied with university policies as vice president, he can't be any more satisfied with them as a member of the faculty. Therefore, in the interests of co-operation and faculty morale, he should either resign, or be removed from the faculty. Human nature is human nature, and applies to doctors of philosophy just as it applies to the less learned as books go. It is not logical to suspect that Doctor Burdine will be able to give his professorial job, and his superiors, any greater degree of loyalty than he could as vice president.

Apparently there are numerous faculty members at the university who are displeased with the Rainey ouster and dissatisfied with the policies instituted by the board of regents of the institution. As malcontents, they cannot possibly give their best in service to their jobs, therefore the taxpayers, who own the university, are not getting value received from the king's ransom they furnish annually to operate the swank college in Austin.

For our part, we'd like to see a thorough house-cleaning at the university—the summary dropping from the payroll of all those who do not like their jobs and who have been spending much of their time making trouble, rather than in teaching that portion of the youth of Texas under their supervision.

Faculty members have no leases on their jobs; they are employes, pure and simple, under direction of the constituted autnorities; theirs is neither the responsibility nor the duty to set policies.

If they don't want to work in harmony with the authorities, they should resign, either of their own accord or by "direction."

A Tip To Wac Recruiters

IT took charges of theft from overseas shipments against five San Francisco longshoremen to bring out that the Army is supplying precious "two-way stretch" girdles to the ladies of the Wac. It occurs to us that recruiting publicist have missed a big bet in not using the fact in efforts to accelerete enlistments of the girls.

The Navy long has done well with the slogan, "Join the Navy and See the World."

For its Wac recruiting the Army might well counter with:

"Join the Wac and get a two-way stretch girdle!"

From what we hear, the girdles are so hard to get that some women would jump off high buildings—let alone join the Wac—in order to secure them!

"Impossible?" Maybe Not

TO be sure, reports from Russia that doctors there have found ways and means of restoring to life individuals whose "deaths" have not been caused by injury to, or deterioration of, hearts, brains, or lungs, sounds very far-feteted. Frankly, we join with most Americans in doubting the claims.

But when we consider other great triumphs of scientists in medicine and many other fields, we are disposed to "wait and see' before flatly saying "such a thing is impossible." Human experience over the past 50 years—and, more especially, over the past 25 years—has been such that many "impossibilities" become everyday occurrences.

If Soviet doctors and laboratory technicians have hit upon strange, here-to-fore unknown ways of "reviving the dead," the postwar era doubtless will find the knowledge seeping onto our own shores and put into practice in the U.S.A., as well as in all other civilized areas of the globe. What Russian scientists and physicians can do, our scientists and physicians can do—perhaps better, because American medicine today and for the past decade has been the world's best.

At any rate, the claims from Russia are interesting to contemplate and if they are found to be no more than claims, they at least will highlight and accelerate efforts along the line to lessen the power of the Old Man with the Scythe.

"It can't be done" is a term no longer safe kindly to accept in the progressive, amazing world in which man lives today.

Curiosity may have killed a cat, but it is causing countless people to hang onto their implausible world long past regular checking out time, just to see what the hell may happen next.

A PURITAN VILLAGE IN 1680
VI

Mistress Rebecca Walling seldom paid any attention to lecture day, but Captain Walling felt that, as a man of public importance in the community, it was his duty to appear. So, fairly early in the morning he left his house, accompanied by his daughters, Harriet and Comfort, and proceeded gravely along the wide street to the village green. Harriet endeavored to look as pale as she could, but without much success. Before leaving home she studied her face in the mirror, and was disappointed when she saw that she still had the ruddy, red-cheeked complexion of a hearty milkmaid. Maybe the milk, vinegar and pear treatmen was not much good, she reflected.

Anyway, Oliver Hillman liked her just as she was, and that was a pleasant thought.

As Waitstill Walling walked slowly toward the meetinghouse he was wondering what he would say when called upon to speak. He seldom spoke on these occasions, for the minister was supposed to do all the talking, but the subject of today's lecture, or sermon, was "Moses as a Lawgiver," and Mr. Goodwin had told him that he would be called on to say something, as the town's magistrate, after the lecture.

What could he say? He realized his own shortcomings; he was not a philosopher, or a deep thinker; he was a doer.

But he would have to say something. The Puritan code was based on the Mosaic Law. There wer only twelve offenses punishable by death in Massachusetts, just the same as in the laws of Moses, while at that very time there were two hundred or more offenses that called for the death penalty in England. That is worth talking about, he reflected.

Lecture day, to his way of thinking, was just a waste of time. The Sabbath was a workless day —a day of rest—and one day a week was enough, he thought. With no work done on either the Sabbath or lecture day, the Puritans had a five-day work week, and Captain Walling thought this pampering of the working class had gone too far.

After the lectures and the Captain's talk in the meetinghouse Harriet and Comfort went walking around the green, while the Captain accompanied the minister into the tavern, where they expected to drink a bowl of punch together and to have some conversation with any of the townsmen who were present.

Harriet, with a calculated sedateness, strolled slowly under the trees, speaking to some acquaintances and bowing to others. She was soon joined by Oliver Hillman. They looked first at the three men in the stocks. One of them had a card which said "Blasphemer" across his breast. The second man was a Quaker who had been sentenced to spend the day in the stocks, then be whipped on his bare back and expelled from the colony. Although there was an official watcher, a constable standing near by to keep watch over the prisoners, small boys in the crowd of onlookers picked up pieces of sod and threw them at the Quaker. He tried to dodge missles by ducking his head, but he had not dodged them all for his hair and clothes were covered with dirt. Whenever a clod hit him in the face there was a roar of laughter from the crowd. The third man in the stocks had no ears; they had been cut off long ago, evidently, as the scars had healed. In the middle of his forehead the letter "P" was burned. It stood for "perjurer."

Harriet turned her head sadly and said to Oliver Hillman, "Oh, it is awful. I feel faint." Young Mr. Hillman took her arm at once to lead her away, and they went along slowly, with Comfort following them. They stopped now and then to see the games and Harriet invited her friend Oliver to come home with them and have dinner. "But you must take potluck," she said. "We have nothing special." In reply he remarked that her company was enough for him, and better than any dinner. After this exchange of amenities they made their way across the green to seek Captain Walling at the inn.

Harriet and her little sister waited in the entry of the tavern while Oliver Hillman went inside to tell Captain Walling that his daughters were outside. Young women, in those days, did not patronize houses of public entertainment except occasionally while traveling. In such cases, women who stayed overnight at inns did not ordinarly take their meals in the public room.

Captain Walling, young Hillman discovered, was listening intently to a stranger who had come overland from New York, and was on his way to Boston. This dusty and road-splashed traveler was telling his audience of the actions of Governor Andros in the New York colony, of the quarrel between New York and Connecticut, of the slightly disguised pirates who made the port of New York their headquarters. Harriet waited many minutes before her father appeared.

The importance of the colonial tavern as a news center can hardly be grasped in our generation of cables, telegrams, radios and printing presses. In 1680 there was not even one newspaper in the colonies. The village tavern, or inn, had the place that is now occupied by the newspaper, the radio and the newsreel. Much of the information that one obtained in such circumstances was ridiculously false, of course, and most of the news, even if true, was vague and uncertain.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A NUMBER of my readers have accused me of being one of those old fogies who think that woman's place is in the home and who object to them having careers of their own.

Nothing could be farther from the truth, although to be perfectly frank, for my own taste I prefer women who retain their femininity and who can put their arms around you (in a perfectly nice way, of course), without first having to dispose of a briefcase.

BRANDEIS

And, do you know, I am just old-fashioned enough to think that even career women are first of all females and that a cradle is more interesting to them than a cash register?

Here is a case in point:

Mrs. Mary Norton, congresswoman from New Jersey, has called a meeting of her eight female colleagues in the House to discuss the diaper shortage.

Congress, as you know, has been in session only a very short time. There are many weighty questions concerning war and international affairs, taxes, economics and what not on the program.

But when there is a diaper shortage, that, in the opinion of our congresswomen, overshadows everything else.

Now I realize, of course, that every baby some day will use a ballot instead of a diaper. But I am sure that time is too far away to have influenced our female lawmakers.

Men might think that far ahead —particularly since the time of office-holding has now became practically a matter of perpetual non-motion — but women aren't built that way.

I don't know anything about Mrs. Norton's family affairs. I don't know how many of her own kin are affected by the diaper shortage.

But I do know that Mary Norton is a woman and that to her a daiper-less baby is much more important than anything that Sewell Avery could possibly cry over.

And I know just as surely that all the other congresswomen will demand prompt action and see to it that every American baby will have its full supply of diapers and safety pins no matter what else may happen.

So you see, that's why I am not so terribly worried about career women. I know a whole lot of them and, without a single exception, every one of them would drop her career in a minute if by doing so she could ease pain and suffering and bring happiness to others.

ONLY the other day I had a little talk with one of the most hard-boiled career women I know. She had done something which I did not consider seemly to a woman.

At first she got pretty tough with me and called me several things and won't stand the light of print. But in the end she cried just like a little girl.

And when I saw the tears I knew that everything was all right.

Because a woman's tears are pearls which, strung together, make a precious necklace that no man can match.

FDR "Shoots Works" On Wallace

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Roosevelt dazed even members of his own household with his exhibition of political hardihood in supplanting the reliable Jesse Jones with such a visionary as Henry Wallace. Had they known of his plans in advance, they would have cautioned against this display of reckless courage at a time when he needs conservative allies on Capitol Hill and elsewhere.

FDR's daring, however, springs from the fact that he has survived more impulsive and seemingly foolhardy acts than almost any of his predecessors. He cannot be blamed if he has come to regard himself as a charmed man. He has always done as he pleased, and he has usually escaped unscathed. It is a trait common to young and old members of both the Oyster Bay and Hyde Park branches of the Roosevelts.

Friends warned him that he would destroy the Democratic party when he introduced his Supreme court packing bill. They begged him not to break with John Nance Garner, Alfred E. Smith and James A. Farley. They predicted that the 1938 "purge" of hostile senators would return to plague him in his relations with Congress. They tried to persuade him to soften the numerous angry messages he has sent to his leaders in House and Senate.

TUCKER

Certain political aides doubted FDR could be re-elected if he defied the two-term tradition, and their concern increased when he determined to try it again in 1944. They felt sure that his tie-up with Sidney Hillman's CIO and other radical factions would seriously endanger his chances, as they had when he twinned along with John L. Lewis in 1936.

The Cassandras raised their voices against his general foreign policy as early as September of 1939, when he consummated the destroyer-bases deal. They thought that he could not afford to antagonize the peace groups, the isolationists and certain racial elements always suspicion of John Bull. More recently they feared that his apparent acquiescent in the Anglo-Russian resort to old-fashioned power politics would cost him prestige at home and abroad.

He listened to these cautious and pessimistic advisers, but he never heeded their gloomy forebodings, and when, as he generally did, he achieved his aims, he always chortled:

"Well, I got what wanted, didn't I?"

CABINET: The President may go far afield from the ranks of organized labor in choosing a successor to "Miss" Frances Perkins," when and if the lady in the tricorner bonnet steps out as a cabinet member. She wants to quit, but has agreed to stay on until FDR obtains the approval of all the squabbling factions for her replacement.

The two men most frequently mentioned for the place are Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina now on leave while serving on the War Labor board, and John G. Winant of New Hampshire, our ambassador to the Court of St. James. Both have backgrounds that should commend them to leaders of the workers' units, especially as the union chieftains cannot seem to come to any agreement among themselves.

Graham has usually sided with the so-called labor group as a member of the WLB. It was he who devised the formula of the "maintenance of membership," which gives the unions a closed shop in war plants without actually using that controversial term. University interests have suggested that he return to his academic post, but they might extend his leave if he were elevated to ministerial rank.

Ambassador Winant won the confidence of the workers as long ago as the time he was governor of the New England state. Subsequently he served as chairman as chairman of the original Social Security board and later as director of the International Labor office in Geneva. He has made numerous studies of Britain's social and labor problems while at the London embassy.

RELIEF: The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration has been ready to function for many months, but so far it has hardly passed out a pound of food or a pair of pants to any citizen of the countries already liberated.

Director Herbert H. Lehman has tried time and again to put his unit on an operating basis, and it is not his fault that UNRRA is all dressed up with no place to go. Italy, France, portions of Holland and Belgium, Greece and Poland are still fighting zones, and the military insists on handling relief problems in those areas.

General Charles de Gaulle wants to supervise the work in restored France. The British demand that they be permitted to feed, clothe and rehabilitate Greece, although they are willing to distribute American-donated goods. Russia does not intend to let UNRRA play a major role in any region that she dominates. As a result, food and clothing for these peoples still clutter warehouses on this side of the Atlantic.

To aggrevate matters, fighting two major wars in such scattered sections of the world as Europe and the Far East has placed a tremendous burden on our own supplies, railroads and vessels. It is virtually impossible for Uncle Sam to perform his humanitarian tasks.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

TO THE public the battles and the territorial gains are the most thrilling features of the great Soviet lunge. Less sensational—but perhaps ultimately more important—are the economic objectives.

A primary purpose of both the Russian and Anglo-American pincers is to throttle Nazi production of coal, steel and synthetic oil and so to deprive the Wehrmacht of the implements of war.

Now that the Bulge has been liquidated, General Eisenhower's forces are again poised on the threshold of the rich Ruhr industrial district only a few miles beyond Aachen. And today Red troops control many of the Silesian factory towns and coal mines.

LEMAN

If Stalin can hold the Breslau region, one of Hitler's pet schemes will come to naught.

Der Fuehrer has been trying to prevent the weakness which proved very serious to Germany in the last war. Then nearly all the kaiser's munitions plants were concentrated in the Ruhr-Rhine zone. As soon as vanguards of Marshal Foch's armies swept through Belgium and threatened this arsenal, Hindenburg and Ludendorff decided that they must cash in, as their chief source of armor was on the verge of capture.

When the Brownshirts came to power, they commenced quietly to remove factories from this limited district. After the outbreak of war in 1939, migration to safe spots in the east became the order, of the day, as everyone knows. Now these hideouts are under Slav guns.

The new industrial empire linked western and eastern Upper Silesia, the Olsa and Polish Dombrova. It was based on coal, iron, steel, zinc and lead. Before the war, about 68 million tons of coal were dug there. Goebbels has since boasted that the quota has been upped to 100 million tons—but New York fuel experts think he exaggerated. Nevertheless, the section turned out nearly half as much coal and lignite and two-fifths as much steel as did the Ruhr.

The district had to import coking coal from other parts of the Reich as the local product, despite the efforts of scientists to purify it, proved almost worthless for coking. But it is especially suitable for synthetic gasoline.

Texas Faces Militia Problem

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN. — Postwar legislation poses a question of what is to be done about a National Guard. The Texas State Guard, which has been built into an highly efficient organization, is created under statute only for the emergency.

The question that legislators may have to solve is whether it shall be continued as the state's militia, or whether a new National Guard organization shall be formed out of the returning Texas veterans who wish to serve.

A proposal to set up a National Guard division for Texas is being delayed due to discussions over the matter.

A number of the officers of the Texas State guard are said to favor withdrawing at the end of the war and turning over their places to officers of the former National Guard of Texas, who were mustered into federal service and have overseas experience.

A fly in the ointment for these former National Guard officers is that if they return to National Guard status they will drop back to the rank they held in the National Guard. Men who went into federal services as lieutenants have won promotions to lieutenant-colonelcies or better in the federal service.

Complicating the situation is uncertainty about what sort of military bill will be passed by Congress after the war.

Texas Has Ghosts

Texas has 24 "ghost" setups according to a compilation made by Dick Smith for the Bureau of Municipal Research of the University of Texas.

The ghosts are agencies provided for by statute that in fact are non-existent.

Three of them are institutions—a Soldiers' and Sailors' home; a Colored Girls' Training school and the Galveston State Psychopathis hospital.

Ghost offices and boards listed by Smith are:

Advisory board for Colored Girls Training school; State Mining inspector; Board of Managers for State Iron industries; Board of Equalization for Unorganized counties; Special Land board; Trustees for Texas School for Blind; Lease board for Eleemosynary and State Memorial Park lands; Lease board for Camp Hulen; Texas Bond commission; Texas Naval board; Anti-Cancer and Pellegra commission; Advisory Board of American Legion Memorial sanitorium; Bureau of Child and Animal Protection; National Guard Fitness board; National Guard Dismissal board; Industrial commission; State Mining board; Local Board of Managers of North Texas Agricultural college; Goliad State Park commissioners, and Board of Chiropractic examiners.

Strangely enough appointments to the non-existent Chiropractic board had to be sent to the present Texas senate for confirmation. Members of the board were named before a court decision held that act creating the board was invalid.

As interim appointments, the governor had to send them to the Senate within the first 10 days of the present session.

The policeman arrested a man for being drunk and disorderly, and while enroute to the station with him, was grabbed by the tie and choked. The policeman stopped the car and got out, with his man on top still pulling at the tie.

As he was losing consciousness, the policeman reported, a taxi driver came to the rescue.

No sooner was he on his feet, however, than the man grabbed his handcuffs and started striking him with them, at the same time securing the officer's pistol from his holster. The officer wrested the gun from the man's hand and shot him twice. Neither was seriously hurt.

The sergeant found his car, which had disappeared on December 15, 1944, the same day he bought it, after civilian and military police had vainly searched for the missing auto about a month.

When the sergeant found his car, it was parked at the same field from which it disappeared. On the windshield were two tickets for overtime parking. One was dated December 18, three days after the police began their "earnest search," and the other was dated December 27.

The diligent police and M.P.'s were not surprised—even though their faces were red—when the sergeant objected to the tickets.

STOCKS TURN NERVOUS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—A revival of war nervousness touched off selling in today's stock market and while scattered peace-rated issues managed to remain in the plus column, rails and other armament-class issues led a retreat that ran to more than 2 points.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .4 of a point at 58.6, widest setback since Jan. 20. The market was broad, 957 issues registering. Of these, 478 were down, 255 up and 224 unchanged. Transfers of 1,529,458 shares compared with 1,374,050 Monday.

Prominent losers included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Texas Co., and General Electric. Ahead were International Harvester, Johns-Manville, Goodrich and Philip Morris.

Secondary railway bonds stumbled.

Improved in a spotty curb were Ainsworth and National Bellas Hess. Decliners were Creole Petroleum, Argus Inc., and Colon Development. Turnover here was 508,250 shares versus 522,460 yesterday.

Aachen And Adolf

union leaders who have been executed by the Nazis. In his opinion there still are some Nazi sympathizers left in Aachen but the great majority of the population declined to obey German orders for the evacuation because they were through with Hitler.

"We had literally to gag our children or grandchildren during the hours when the Gestapo searched for citizens who were unwilling to leave, so they would not betray us by speakng or crying," he said.

Aachen's acting chief burgomaster, whose every act of course is supervised by American military authorities, felt confident that all 14,000 Aacheners who have found their way back to the city were through with Naziism and want some form of democratic regime. He, as well as the president of the handicrafts guild, felt, however, that the military authorities must guide the country slowly and firmly into democracy since Germans have been deprived of freedom for so long they don't know what to do with it.

Large Refugee Camp

At the end of town in a large hospital some 600 men, women and children live in a sort of refugee camp. I entered numerous rooms and spoke to many families. They were practically all Catholics and said they were cheered that the priest had started religious instruction for the children in this compound.

One rather portly and rotund hausfrau looked up from her sewing machine where she was making a dress for an eight-year-old girl and said: "Rather a Belgian concentration camp than another nightmare of Gestapo rule—that's how we felt when Aachen for a while was threatened by the Rundstedt offensive. We were ready to take our few belongings once again and move on." Other women who were standing around minding their children vigorously endorsed this woman.

BORDER BUSINESS BOOMS

DETROIT, Jan. 30 (AP)—U. S. customs officials disclosed today that there has been a "tremendous increase" in the number of American shoppers, who cross into nearby Canada to purchase meat and other items which are rationed in this country, but not in Canada.

School Board

Will Sedberry, spokesmen for the group, also asked the board to look into claims that the negro schools here are not as proficient as they should be. Chairman Hutchinson appointed Trustee Chas. A. Guy to represent the board in a study of the situation and report his findings to the board at the next meeting on February 27. Guy asked Charlie Sedberry, president of the Lubbock Negro Chamber of Commerce, to appoint a committee of three men from his organization to meet with Superintendent Matthews, Ed Struggs, principal of the negro schools, and a three-man negro committee named by Guy. The trustee said he would ask Dr. Joe Chatman, physician; Dr. C. H. Lyons, dentist, and Dan Jackson, undertaker, to serve as his three committeemen. He said a joint meeting—a series of them if necessary—would be called to thresh out the situation. Sedberry said he would name his group at a later date.

A. C. Jackson, schools business manager and tax collector, was named as trustee for the annual school census to be taken in March and a report of the auditors, Condray & Hallmark, was accepted.

Five Teachers Added

Upon recommendation of Superintendent Matthews, the employment of Miss Dorothy Weiss, at K. Carter; Mmes. Dorothy McGregor, Faye Mann, and Delise Kronenberber, of Sanders; and Mrs. Willie Belaska, Dupre, was approved. Resignations of Mmes. Paul Felty and Ruth Simning, both of Sanders, were accepted.

The superintendent also reported that Lovic Liston, former faculty member, had been honorably discharged as a sergeant in the Army Air Forces and had rejoined the faculty in the capacity of assistant book custodian and director of that portion of physical education which has to do with classroom games and exercises.

Present at the meeting, in addition to Jackson, Matthews, Trustees Hutchinson and Guy were Trustees R. F. Bayless, H. L. Allen, E. J. Parsons and Paul Hardwick.

Many Women Plan To Retain Jobs

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 30. (UP)—Several factors non-existent in 1918-20 may help the seven of 10 women now employed to realize their aim of continuing work after the war, says the family economics bureau of the Northwestern Life Insurance company.

The company, whose survey disclosed the high percentage with intentions of remaining on payrolls, notes that women now are voters, whereas they were not immediately after World War 1. Consequently, their needs and economic demands now command greater political attention.

Discounting the great number of women who have undergone "quickie" job training, it is estimated that by the end of the present war, 200,000 will have received technical training in course of six to 12 months' duration at college levels. The survey report points out that such women are unlikely to junk their training with the conclusion of the emergency.

The feeling of many that they have disrupted their personal lives and habits to serve in the war emergency and thereby have earned the right to a permanent place in the nation's working force is another factor cited.

Probability that many veterans will take advantage of their rights to free college training after the war will keep them out of the job competition for a year or more after the war's end, and leave many more places open for women workers.

Still another factor is the nation's casualty total, already considerably higher than that of 1917-18. More women will need to support families after this war, says the report, and these will be considered as replacements rather than additions to the labor force.

New Plastic Eyes Difficult To Detect

TEMPLE, Jan. 30. (AP)—The new plastic eyes being made in the artificial eye laboratory at McCloskey General hospital are so realistic that it is difficult for even a close observer to tell which is the patient's real eye.

T/Sgt. Weldon E. Falkenbury of Austin, who lost his right leg and right eye while serving as a foreman mechanic with an engineers combat battalion in Italy, is the first patient at McCloskey to be fitted with a new plastic eye.

Falkenbury wears the Purple Heart with oak leaf clusters, the Italian campaign ribbon with one battle star, and the Bronze Star for "meritorious service in combat in Italy from March 5, 1944 to Sept. 23, 1944.

Heckler Breaks In On Adolf's Speech

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—A heckling ghost voice broke into Hitler's anniversary broadcast tonight with repeated sharp jabs.

Early in his speech Hitler boasted that National Socialism had built up Germany "after the Versailles treaty destroyed the German republic economically—leaving seven million jobless, farmers ruined and artisians wiped out."

Here the ghost voice interrupted: "And look how you've ruined the country now."

Money Hid In House Spared In Bombing

LONDON, Jan. 30. (UP) — When A.R.P. workers combed the debris of a house in southern England, wrecked by a fly-bomb, it yielded a sizable sum in one-pound notes still hidden. There were 600 of them, about $2,400, cached under the floor, stuffed into furniture, uphoustery, even concealed behind the wallpaper. Some of the money was in unopened pay envelopes dating back to July, 1943.

The owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Burdin, a middle-aged couple, were killed.

box defenses and advancing up to four miles into the face of the Siegfried line against spotty enemy resistance.

Attack Going Well

One American corps officer was quoted as saying, "the attack is going so well that we are going to accomplish in one day what we had hoped to do in two."

The action took place in the same area where two months ago the Germans had smashed two U. S. infantry divisions in some of the heaviest fighting on the Western front. Today the doughboys encountered only reluctant defensive troops.

One Third Army division drove a quarter of a mile east to a point three quarters of a mile from Welchenhausen which is 8½ miles south of St. Vith. The drive put the doughboys three quarters of a mile inside Germany at this point.

Other units of the same division pushed about a half mile to the east and reached the Reich frontier just south of Diepert, 7½ miles below St. Vith. Farther north they edged one-quarter of a mile east to Steffhausen which is a mile west of the German border.

River Reached At Seven Points

Front dispatches said patrols of the 17th Airborne division and elements of the Sixth Armored division had reached the Our river in seven places over a six-mile front from points five miles northeast of Clervaux to points 5½ miles southeast of the town.

Associated Press correspondent Edward D. Ball reported from the front that the U. S. Ninth division had captured Rohren which is just south of the Roer at the edge of the Monschau forest, two miles south of the town of Monschau. Other divisions occupied a string of villages in the last German-held strip of Belgian soil and smashed on to within sight of the Reich frontier.

The towns of Murringen and Hunningen fell to the First division which pressed on to Honsfeld and Lanzerath almost on the border. Other troops, of the Second and 99th divisions, reached the edge of the Monschau forest, Ball said.

Six Divisions Identified

Six divisions of the First Army were named as being in action today including the First, Second, Ninth, 78th, 99th, and one other not identified.

The Second division took Krinkfelt and Rocherath, scenes of the Second's epic stand to hold the northern shoulder of the German breakthrough into Belgian in December.

So heavy was the snow that bulldozer tanks in some cases had to break paths for the infantry. Prisoners were being taken in steady but undisclosed numbers.

The Berlin radio, asserting that German Western front lines were "wavering" in several sectors as a result of the new American attacks, said all available reserves were being thrown into the fight to try to stabilize the front but that the Americans had advanced "several kilometers."

French Troops Advance

In Alsace the French, supported by American units, crossed the Thur river on both sides of Cernay, occupied the villages of Enchenberg and Sadozwiller, two miles west of Cernay, and made local advances in the Nonnenbruch forest north of Mulhouse.

The U. S. Seventh Army front generally continued quiet although there was a small-scale action near Reipertswiller in which the Germans gained some ground and then were pushed back to their starting points.

Bacon Eating Bobcat Is Killed By Rancher

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. (AP)—Too bad bobcats aren't edible.

C. N. Freeman of Alice, visiting his ranch house found one inside the building and killed it.

The cat had shinned a mesquite tree, jumped to the roof and slithered down a small mud chimney —and eaten a pound of bacon.

The story is reported by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service.

TWO HURT IN WRECK

COLLEGE HEAD DIES

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 30 —Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, 57, Union college president, author and editor, died suddenly tonight in Ellis hospital of a heart attack.

War Bride Of 1919 War Widow Of 1944

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 30 (UP)—The first world war brought Roland H. Wickland to Mlle. Rachelle Bernard of Bordeaux, France. The second took him away as he fought for the liberation of her beloved homeland.

They met on Armistice Day, 1918, at the wedding of another French girl and an American soldier. The Wicklands were married on May 3, 1919, and came to Milwaukee, where Wickland worked as a printer. He wasn't satisfied to stay out of the fight when France again was subjected to oppression, and re-enlisted Jan. 24, 1942, she explained. Serving as staff sergeant with an engineers' unit in an armored division, Wickland was killed in action in France on Sept. 27, 1944. He was 47 years old.

In a recent letter to his dark-haired wife, whom he addressed as "Petite," Wickland had written:

"Still very busy with this war. Am sure of seeing a lot of France. I hope my arm holds out from shaking hands and waving at the people over here. They sure are glad to see us."

Mrs. Wickland said she plans to return to France.

"I have not heard from my parents for five years," she explained." And, of course, I want to see where my husband is buried."

Bataan Situation Reversed On Nips

By RAY CRONIN
Chief of the Former Associated Press Manila Bureau

When Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent a new American Army driving eastward through Luzon's Zambales province he strongly indicated that history may repeat itself in another battle of Bataan.

Manila is the main objective of the Yanks rolling down the central Luzon plains but the new Army—the Eighth—is definitely headed for the mouth of historic Bataan peninsula. On the way it wil ltake the pre-war naval base at Olongap on Subic bay. This base poses a decided threat to the Japanese hold on Manila bay and its guardian fortress of Corregidor. The latter island is but 50 air miles from the new Zambales beach-head.

Through Backdoor, Too

The doughboys are headed for Bataan from the west—the backdoor. In the dark month of January, 1942 the Yank-Filipino line of retreat to Bataan was down the central Luzon plains and through southwestern Pampanga province to the front door of bloody Bataan.

The Yanks and their Filipino compatriots fought desperately at the mouth of the Bataan peninsula against overwhelming odds but they held out until early April when the Japanese were forced to throw in fresh shock troops. Bataan fell April 9, 1942. Then began the infamous death march from Bataan — a march during which the Japanese, drunk with a victory that was costly, vented their spleen upon the helpless Americans and Filipinos, who, before the surrender, were told in Japanese leaflets that they would be treated "honorably" by the imperial army.

Beaten By Disease

While in an internment camp at Manila I talked with a few of the Americans who survived the death march. And they were emphatic in their declarations that Japanese bullets and planes did not win the battle of Bataan. Broken American-Filipino supply lines and tropical disease beat them, the Yanks said.

The Bataan penisula, 19 air miles long north and south, is an unbroken chain of mountains, with some of the peaks rearing to a height of more than 4,000 feet. The entire area is thickly jungled. The only road hugs the Manila bay coastline on the east, with one branch cutting through the center of the peninsula to the China sea on the west. The mountains of Zambales hem in the peninsula on the northwest.

Early Major Smash In West Seen As Snow Slows Offensive Plans

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

First stirrings of a potential Allied major offensive in the west to match onrushing Russian columns are adding to Nazi worries, but with little indication that General Eisenhower is yet ready to resume full scale his march to the Rhine. His rear communication lines as well as the actual fighting front are too heavily clogged with snow drifts to permit fast concentrations of power on selected sectors.

SIMPSON

There remains small doubt, however, that it is along Roer-Maas - Neder Rhine that the enemy expects the storm in the west to break; nor that he is preparing to abandon his grip on that part of Holland north of the Schelde drainage basin and west of the Zuider Zee to shorten and strengthen his lines. That means prospectively early Allied occupation of Rotterdam, The Hague and Amsterdam, although only the first two offer possibilities of quick amplification of supply lines to support an expected Allied major offensive along the extreme northern flank of the west front.

Nazis Paint Dark Picture

In the east, German broadcasts draw a darker picture than do Moscow advices of the plight of Berlin. They disclose a broad-fronted Russian advance south of the main Warta valley corridor leading to Berlin to what is described as the Zullichau-Schwiebus-Meseritz line west of the Obra river. If that is true there remains no formidable defensive position between Russian vanguards and Berlin except the westward loop of the Oder.

The Russian drive across the Obra appears aimed directly at Frankfurt, less than 60 miles from the heart of Berlin. The three towns mentioned, Zullichau, Schwiebus and Meseritz, are all key junctions on the road and rail network converging on Frankfurt.

Frankfurt and Kustrin are in deadly danger and the fall of either must see the Russian juggernaut pour through the Oder breach to overrun the broad plain in which Berlin itself stands and bring the city under fire of Russian siege guns. The battle of Berlin seems likely to be won or lost on the Oder at that point.

New Gas Tax In Texas Proposed

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. (U.P.)—Rep. Pat Wiseman, Jacksonville, today said he would introduce in the Texas House Wednesday a bill providing taxes on natural gas production, processing and distribution.

The bill provides a tax on production of sweet gas of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet, one-half cent per 1,000 cubic feet on sour gas and casinghead gas.

Excepted from the tax is gas injected into the earth for storage, recycling and repressuring and the tax will not apply to gas severed in lifting oil and gas lawfully vented or flared in connection with oil production.

Natural Gas Processors

On owners and operators of all plants processing natural gas an occupation tax of one-eighth of a cent per gallon of liquid hydrocarbons recovered is imposed. On condensates, distillates and other liquid hydrocarbons recovered without mechanical processes the bill levies a tax of one-fourth of a cent a gallon.

In addition, the bill levies an occupation tax on all gatherers or pipelines for natural gas of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet. As in the production tax, excepted from the gathering occupation levy is gas injected for storage, recycling and repressuring and that used in lifting oil and vented or flared legally in oil production.

Penalties Are Set

Wiseman's bill fixes penalties of 10 per cent of the tax plus six per cent interest for delinquent reports and payments to the state comptroller. Fines and jail sentences are specified for violating provisions of the measure.

Wiseman could not estimate how much revenue his bill would bring the state. He said the bill is similar to one which failed to pass the legislature in 1941.

Presently the state does not have occupation taxes on gathering systems and processors of natural gas. There is a state production tax based generally on 5.2 per cent of the gas value.

Deferment Plan Discussed Here

Methods of keeping up with men in occupational deferment classifications so that their employment may be utilized to utmost advantage were discussed Tuesday afternoon when War Manpower commission representatives met with selective service, U. S. Employment service, Army and Civil service representatives.

Similar meetings to that conducted in Lubbock hotel will be called on the South Plains today and Thursday.

Efforts to establish more liaison between those who are responsible for recruiting men into armed services and into industry keynoted Tuesday's meeting. Those in attendance said they sought to lay predicates for placing men where they belong best; in the alternative shoving nonconformists into uniform.

Those Attending

Present were O. G. Evers, who presided as representative of the area director of the WMC; T. T. McDermitt, chairman of the Hockley county Selective Service board; J. C. Young, regional representative of the U. S. Civil Service commission; Capt. C. H. Purrington of Lubbock Army Air field, civilian personnel officer; R. C. Evers will conduct a similar meeting at 10 o'clock this morning in Littlefield, for Lamb, Bailey and Parmer county representatives of the agencies named above, and Waldron will go to Brownfield for a 3 o'clock meeting this afternoon of Terry, Cochran, Yoakum and Gaines counties, to Dickens at 10 o'clock Thursday morning for one embracing Motley, Dickens and King counties.

Mexico To Recruit Farm Labor For U. S.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30. (AP)—Active recruiting of farm labor for the United States will start later this week and the first trainload of about 850 men will leave here Feb. 10 for California via El Paso. Trainloads will go every few days until there are about 70,000 to 75,000 workers in the United States.

Of the 73,000 agricultural workers sent last year, according to U. S. embassy reports here, nearly half have renewed their contracts or will do so.

California is expected to take 30,000 workers. Men will be sent to other states as the need for them develops.

All the farm workers from Mexico this season will be sent from Mexico City. The trip to the border will take about two days.

Foxhole Fun Brings Out Varied Styles In Combat Hairdos

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY, In Belgium, Jan. 22. (Delayed) — Foxhole fun:

The reaction of the average Belgian barber on seeing frontline doughboy haircuts is a startled exclamation:

"Mon dieu! Est un massacre!"

This scalped look on most infantrymen results from trusting their skulls while on line duty to amateur barbers in their own ranks whose ambition is to make the top of the head look like a billiard ball.

Avid Tonsorial Student

One of the most avid students of frontline tonsorial architecture is Pvt. Bradford McCuen of Chazy, N. Y., who has tabulated the varieties of standard soldier haircuts developed by First Infantry division clipper artists.

"On a foggy day," McCuen wrote, "it is possible to observe the following styles readily:

"The soupbowl hairdo—there is always a ragged wisp of hair at the nape of the neck indicating where the bowl was chipped.

"The Hairy James special—beginning at a high pitch around the forehead, it hits bass at the back of the skull and then climbs the ladder in sharp progressions.

"The Wall St. Bull and Bear—this one is especially bare. It has contrasting ups and downs almost as though the victim was eating an apple while being shorn.

The Incoming Mail

"The Incoming Mail Surprise—this startling effect is the result of enemy shelling of the immediate proximity of the barber shop. Little, if any, hair survives.

"The Jekyll and Hyde haircut—this is created when the barber has completed one side of the head and then is called away on another job. He never comes back and the victim sports a split personality.

"The Cueball Cutup—probably the most popular among beginners. This consists of best intentions on the part of the barber but usually winds up with a razor and a bald pate.

"Drop around for a haircut anytime the barbers aren't fighting," McCuen concludes, "and we can guarantee that your best friend won't tell you—he won't even know you."

You will get more vitamin C from an orange by eating it whole than you will extracting the juice.
