Masons Dedicate New Hall Thursday Night

Dedication of the new hall of Wellington's Masonic Lodge No. 763 will be held Thursday, Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m., in an open meeting presided over by the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

Plans for the event, which usually comes once or twice in the history of a lodge, were announced by Jerry Nix, worshipful master, and Jack Davis, district deputy grand master.

John R. Collard, Jr., of Spearman, Grand Master, will be the officiating officer, and said he will bring with him other grand officers, whom he has not named, to the local lodge.

Mr. Collard presided at the leveling of the cornerstone of the Masonic Building last year. At that time he was Deputy Grand Master.

The lodge will be opened by the lodge officers, then turned over to Mr. Collard who will open Grand Lodge. He will call on local members to assist if they are needed, but insofar as is possible, Grand officers will participate, Davis explained.

The dedication ceremony itself will last approximately 30 minutes.

"This meeting is open to the public, and we invite all those who are interested in the lodge to attend," Nix said.

Because of the importance of this event to Masons of the Panhandle, delegations from most Texas lodges of this area and from several Oklahoma lodges will be present.

Elected officers serving with Nix are Russell Yates, senior warden; Tommy Lewis, junior warden; Jimmy Cochran, senior deacon, and Jack Sanford, junior deacon.

The new Masonic Hall is located at 918 West Avenue, a downtown location that members of the lodge felt would best suit their need. Construction came after the original lodge hall was burned.

Much work that went into the building was donated and funds were raised to free the building of debt, a member said.

The lodge furniture was built by Lynn Carter, and members of the Eastern Star, which uses the building jointly with the Masons, provided the carpet and furnished the kitchen. Go-forth Construction Company of Amarillo was the contractor.

Three Youths Wanted In Oklahoma Captured

Three youths, two of them wanted in connection with a jail break in Idabel, Okla., were picked up in an all-night search Tuesday night and early Wednesday about 12 miles south of Wellington and are being held in jail here, Sheriff John Rainey said.

All three, however, may face Federal charges, since the car they abandoned at the intersection of Highways 83 and 62—the Hollis Y—was one stolen earlier Tuesday at Blair, Okla., and driven across the state line.

The boys were identified by Sheriff Rainey as Jim Tom, 17, Jerry Shockley, 15, and Hampton Williams, 17, all of Idabel. As far as is known here, only Shockley has had a prior brush with the law, having served six months at the Helena, Okla., boys school.

Sheriff Rainey said that information gathered by officers shows that the trio was picked up in connection with the burglary of the Idabel school dressing room during a ball game. Tom was released because he had no part in the burglary, and he had no part in the jail break.

Shockley broke out of jail, either Tuesday or Wednesday. "I was standing behind the door and when he (the jailer) opened it, I ran," he said. The youth told a Wellington Leader reporter he hid out in a used car lot until Sunday, living on food brought him by another boy.

According to his statement, he returned to the jail Sunday with a crow bar and pried off a lock on the back door, releasing Williams.

The boys stole a 1961 Ford, officers information continues, drove north in Oklahoma, then south to Blair, where they wrecked the car and stole a 1965 Ford Fordor, which they abandoned at the Hollis Y.

Oklahoma Trooper Bill Lambert of Hollis detected the boys on a radar check between Gould and Hollis.

Rainey said that after the boys abandoned the car Tuesday night, they began wandering in the area. Williams returned to the car and gave himself up to officers about 10 p.m.

The other two were sighted by Jerry Nix, assisting officers in a plane, and an unidentified pickup driver, about 200 yards north of US 62 on the Fort Worth and Denver right of way about 7 a.m. The youths offered

Lubbock Man Hurt in Crash

A Lubbock man was hospitalized, two vehicles were damaged and two calves killed in an accident on FM Highway 338 five miles southeast of Wellington about 12:30 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 5, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

The sheriff said that M. H. Stephens, 2702 East 7th, Lubbock, was driver of a 1963 Falcon when it struck the two calves that had wandered on the highway, as he was meeting the produce truck driven by Roy Melvin Hiller of Mangum. After hitting the calves, the car veered into the side of the truck.

Stephens, who was thrown out of the car, was treated overnight in St. Joseph's Hospital for cuts and bruises. He picks up cotton samples from gins throughout this area for delivery to cotton classing offices. With him was his nephew, Harold Deatrage.

Hiller was identified as driver of a truck owned by the Panhandle Fruit Co.

The accident occurred on a wet road during misting rain, Sheriff Rainey said.

Improved Broncos Meet Rockets Friday

Fired up and ready to win a ball game, the Clarendon Broncos come here Friday night, Nov. 13 for a 7:30 game with the Rockets at Powell Field.

"We understand Clarendon had rather beat us than any team they play this year," Head Coach Don Beck said.

The Broncos are much improved over last year, according to those who have seen them play, and the two teams are about the same size.

In David Moring, Clarendon has an outstanding quarterback who is an extremely fine passer and who also runs well, Coach Beck said.

John Grady is another of the team's better backs and Bell is a good pass receiver.

"They throw better than they run and they play good defensive ball. There is no outstanding lineman — they are all good," Coach Beck declared.

As for the Rockets—"we have many injuries," according to their coach. None of them is serious, but all nagging and enough to weaken the fine Rocket team.

It is still doubtful if Ray Floyd, whose hip is still bothering him, will play.

Last Friday, Coaches Beck and Raymond Kauffman had four ends out. Wednesday, all three fullbacks were out. Neal Roberts is suffering from a pulled muscle and Olan Moore has an ankle injury. Then in practice Tuesday, Tommy Yarbrough injured an ankle.

Roger Weems is still out, Freddy Bobo has an ear infection, Don Sweat is sick and Mike Smith injured a thumb.

So far this year, Clarendon has won three games and lost six. The Rockets this week have a 4-4-1 record.

Rocket B to Close Season With Childress

The Skyrocket B team closes its season Thursday night, Nov. 12 by traveling to Childress to meet the Bobcat B team.

In the first game, early in the season, the Rocket 18-6 victory over the Class AA Bobcats was one of the surprises of B team football, Coach James Stavenhagen said.

"We expect to have a harder time this week, and it should be a real fine ball game," he said.

Wellington will be without two of its key players, both injured in the game with Canadian Thursday night. Randy West received a possible cracked pelvis and Nat Holton a dislocated shoulder.

Time of the Childress game is 7:30 p.m.

FTA Gives Chili Supper Friday

The Wellington high school Future Teachers of America will sponsor a Chili Supper in the school cafeteria Friday night, Nov. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The public is invited to come eat with the group before the ball game Friday night.

Rains Again Halt Area Cotton Harvest

Cotton sample receipts started to increase slightly during the early part of last week, which reflected a step-up in harvesting. However, field operations were again halted by heavy fog, mist, and rain on Wednesday, and the remainder of the week, according to the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service in Memphis.

K. E. Voelkel, in charge of the Memphis Cotton Classing office, stated that the 3700 samples classed during the week ending Friday, Nov. 6, were slightly more than the week before. Total samples classed for the season amounted to about 13,000, which was considerably less than the 37,000 classed as of the same date a year ago.

It was reported that an increased number of farmers defoliated earlier in the week, but the general trend is to wait for a killing frost.

The quality of cotton classed was slightly lower in grade compared with the previous week. White grades represented 39% and 61% were in the colored category. The predominant White grade was Middling, with 21% and Middling Light Spotted prevailed in the colored grades, with 35%. This week 8% of the cotton was Spotted, compared with 3% last week.

The average staple length continued to be 15/16 inch with 55% in this length. Other lengths were: 29/32 inch and shorter, 12%; 31/32 inch, 25%; 1 inch, 6%; and longer than 1 inch, 2%.

Micronaire readings continued to be high in this classing territory. Only 1% read less than 3.5. 91% of the cotton milled 3.5 to 4.9 and 8% was 5.0 and above.

There was no change in the Pressley tests, which showed that 76% of the cotton had a strong and very strong fiber strength or a reading of 85,000 pounds and above.

It was significant to note practically no samples were reduced in grade because of Bark, Grass or Preparation. Preparation is one of three factors considered in grading cotton, and it reflects the smoothness of the sample. The almost absence of reduced grades because of the above reasons can be attributed to good harvesting and ginning practices.

Average prices paid farmers during the week for the main qualities moving into trade channels were: Strict Middling Light Spotted, 15/16 — 28.15; Middling Light Spotted, 15/16 — 27.85; Middling Light Spotted, 31/32 — 28.00; and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16 — 26.60. These prices were based on mike readings 3.5 to 4.9 for cotton uncompressed, mixed lots, in warehouses.

Skyrockets Lose to McLean Tigers 8-0

By JACK FORD

The disabled Wellington Skyrocket football team, plagued by fumbles and a pass interception, lost to a determined McLean Tiger team Friday, Nov. 6 at Duncan Field in McLean, by a score of 8-0.

The Rockets, led by Wayne Barton, made some good gains and penetrated to the Tigers' 11 and 20 yard lines.

It was more a defensive game between both teams than an offensive game. Both teams stopped drives by the opposing teams.

The defensive team of Wayne Barton, Neal Roberts, Chester McLain, Andy Bell, Jackie Needham, Olan Moore, Mike Smith, Jim Rudy, Johnny Maxwell, Skippy Duncan, Lynn Wolf and the rest of the Rockets did yeoman service in stopping a number of Tiger drives and also slowing down Dickie Crockett, a real fine athlete.

It became a game of breaks and it was one of those nights when all the breaks except one were against the Rockets.

In the first quarter, the Rockets, after intercepting a pass on the Tiger 32, drove to the Tiger 11 and tried a field goal that failed. The Rockets also started what looked like another determined drive in this quarter but a fumble stopped it.

The second quarter was the only scoring quarter of the entire game. The Tigers started this drive on their own 46 and in six plays, five of which were carried by Crockett, the Tigers scored. The try for two extra points was good.

Again the Rockets drove the Tigers' defense back. A 41 yard pass from Barton to L. Henard led the way to the Tiger 20 yard line, and with the help of a 15-yard penalty, was stopped.

In the second half the Rockets had a real fight on their hands. Twice they had to rear up and stop determined Tiger drives.

The Tigers started their drive on their own 34, and the Rockets stopped it on their 25.

After gaining possession of the ball the Rockets lost it on a pass interception on their own 28. The Tigers then drove to the Rocket 1. At this point a Tiger fumble was recovered by the Rockets. Two plays later the game ended.

Next week will be last game of this season. The Rockets play Clarendon at Powell Field. Let's all get out and cheer the boys on. A win Friday will still give the Rockets a winning season. So let's go, Wellington.

Future of Bracero Law Still Uncertain

With Public Law 78, the bracero law, expiring Dec. 31 of this year, many area farmers have been asking whether they will be able to get any Mexican Nationals at all in 1965, and if so, how.

At the moment, no one can give a specific answer to this important question.

However, officials of the Department of Labor in Washington have indicated to the National Council of Agricultural Employers that workers from Mexico will be available under Public Law 414 if they are needed and if certain prerequisites are met. No indication was given as to the nature of these prior requirements except that wages and full utilization and recruitment of domestic workers were mentioned.

The National Council of Agricultural Employers is a newly formed national organization through which employers interested in foreign labor are working with the Department of Labor and the Immigration Service relative to the entrance of such workers.

Public Law 414 is cited as the "Immigration and Nationality Act," which is administered by the Department of State through the Immigration Service. There is a provision in this law under which foreign workers may be admitted for temporary employment provided the Secretary of Labor will certify to the Secretary of State and to the Attorney General that domestic workers who are able, willing and qualified are not available and that the admittance of such workers will not adversely affect the employment of domestic workers.

The Immigration Service has advised that so far as they are concerned plans have already been completed for admitting workers under Public Law 414 after Dec. 31. They emphasize, however, that under current regulations the approval of the Department of Labor will be necessary before these plans can be carried out.

The directors and advisory committee of the National Council of Agricultural Employers now plan to meet in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 18 and 19, at

Mill Consumption, Exports Taking Upland Cotton

COLLEGE STATION.—Disappearance of upland cotton during the 1964-65 crop year is expected to reach 14.8 million bales—up slightly from the 14.1 million a year earlier and the highest since 1959-60.

Mill consumption is expected to increase rapidly while exports are expected to be maintained at a relatively high level, reports John McHaney, Extension specialist, Texas A&M University.

An estimated mill consumption of 9.6 million bales tops last year's total by 1.1 million—the highest since 1950-51.

McHaney bases his 1964-65 estimate on an improved competitive price position for cotton and cotton textiles in the domestic market, a continued high level of general economic activity, and some rebuilding of "pipeline" inventories of cotton textiles.

Naylor Press Publishes Selected Editorials of Phebe K. Warner

SELECTED EDITORIALS—by Phebe K. Warner, The Naylor Company, Publishers of the Southwest, San Antonio, Texas—$4.95.

By Deskins Wells

Throughout the twenties and until her death in 1935, The Wellington Leader published an editorial feature by Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude which was warmly received by the readers and read with keen interest through the years.

The thoughts of this high-minded, kindly, vibrant woman became a part of the way of life of Collingsworth county. She wrote with a clarity and insight that all could understand and appreciate for there was great knowledge in her mind and abounding love in her heart for this land and the people in it.

Now the children of those readers who loved Mrs. Warner dearly and followed her writings eagerly can discover her thoughts which are as timely today as they were thirty and forty years ago. This week The Naylor Press of San Antonio is publishing "Selected Editorials" by Phebe K. Warner. It is a publishing venture which should have been consummated twenty years ago; for this is a book that should be in the working library of every editor and every journalism school of the nation.

The foreword is by Loula Grace Erdman, famous creative novelist, who came to the Panhandle to teach at the invitation of Mrs. Warner, and it is an inspirational essay in itself. The introduction is signed by her three children, Kerrick Warner, Victoria Warner Tappan, and Greely Warner, and is a loyal tribute to a remarkable mother.

Mrs. Warner wrote of many things, schools and education, boys and girls, ranchers and farmers, farm women and club women, parks, politics and the natural beauty of a rich and windswept land.

There was something about the workings of her brilliant mind and radiant soul that was and is as fresh as the smell of new turned sod in the spring and as clean as the breath of the first norther in the fall. She was a philosopher, observer, crusader, counselor and a good reporter and all of those qualities are evident in her "Selected Editorials".

Here are a few of Phebe K. Warner's philosophical comments:

"Some of us do not change our thoughts often enough to keep them clean. There are spotless housekeepers in our land who have not swept the cobwebs out of their brains in twenty-five years."

"It matters not how small a man is, there's something good in him. It matters not where you happen to live, there is something good in you. There is not a word of truth in the old theory that the natural tendency of life is DOWN. The natural way of life is UP."

"Most of us are so occupied in studying the weaknesses of others that we seldom have time to study or mend our own."

Mrs. Warner was not only a writer; she was a worker in the vineyard for those movements in which she believed and as a good reporter she became a historian as all good reporters do. Writing about the County Federations she said:

"The first County Federation of Women's Clubs in America grew from a small study club of six members in Armstrong County, Texas. Those members were Miss Laura V. Hamner, president; Mrs. L. A. Wells, secretary; Mrs. E. R. Haynes, Miss Katherine Hooks, Mrs. Baccus and the writer."

She goes on to explain that three of these ladies were teachers and the others were "mothers by profession." Thus her writings make clear one aspect of her view of her role in life. She was a wife and mother first and a career woman second.

In many of her editorials Mrs. Warner wrote with compassion and insight; but she could also write with passion as in her account of the Babbs Switch school fire in Oklahoma: "Twelve minutes from the time the last gift was handed to the last child on that happy night the building collapsed and when the smoke had cleared away thirty-three members of the happy Christmas occasion had perished in the flames, among them the brave little teacher who fought till the last to save her pupils and the Santa Claus whose mission had been to bring joy and Christmas cheer to every child in that community."

"Yes, that was in Oklahoma, last Christmas Eve. But Texas burned eleven schoolhouses in one month last year."

Earlier in this review, we said that "Selected Editorials" should be in the working library of every editor and every journalism school of the nation. It should also be in the home of every individual parent who would like to have something interesting, enduring and inspiring for their children to read.

Your Dollars Do More for You when you put them to work at home

DOLLARS are mighty workers. But they don't care who they work for. Take one of your favorite dollars, that you think loves you, and spend it away off someplace else... it will get you $1 worth of goods or service, maybe, and that's the last you'll see of it.

But, now, if you spend that same Dollar here at home, it will get you about the same merchandise, and also it will go on working for YOU. It will circulate around in your own community, doing a scad of other jobs for you... such as making business better, property values higher, jobs more plentiful... and giving your schools, churches and other civic conveniences more vitality.

The business level, the population level, and the LIVING level of any area depends to a great degree upon how many Dollars are working in it. Let's let as many of them stay here as we can.

The Rev. A. B. Earnest Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated. Only relatives and close friends attended.

The bridegroom, who is serving in the United States Marine Corps, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Barton.

The wedding party stood before an arch covered with foliage, with arrangements of foliage and candelabras at each side.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Karen Richardson.

Mr. Bearden gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white brocade sheath dress accented by a loose jacket, having a low neckline with three-quarter sleeves. Her matching open crown pillbox held her short veil and she carried a bouquet of tiny white chrysanthemums.

Miss Connie Null was maid of honor. She wore a light blue suit and her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums.

The best man was Kyle Lindley. Candles were lighted by Connie Bearden and George Eric Brewer, sister and cousin of the bride.

B&PW Honors Mrs. Charley Starkey, Receives Visit from State President

Mrs. Charley Starkey was presented as the "Woman of the Month" at a recent meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Another guest of honor was Mrs. Modelle Scruggs of Houston, president of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women, and a former Wellington resident. She spoke only briefly.

Entertainment was provided by two other guests, Jan Glenn and Lonetta Neeley, the club's nominees in the Miss Teen Age America Contest.

She has many hobbies, but one that is unusual is her 100-tree orchard. She does not sell the fruit, but gives it to her many friends and enjoys canning much of it.

"I was so much impressed with this woman's charm and the happiness she seems to radiate everywhere she goes, that I asked her for her philosophy of life," Mrs. Keller said. "She told me it was 'Show gratitude to God through Service, and make the most of the blessings He gives us.'"

In presenting the program, Jan and Lonetta gave the talent skits for their Miss Teen Age America Contest.

Jan also presented three of her tap dancing students, Sandra McGill, Kathy Singley, and Carey Lewis, who danced to "Stars and Stripes."

Jan was dressed in a Daisy Mae costume and did a specialty dance, "By Heck." Lonetta presented a humorous monologue.

Mrs. Fred Watkins was at the guest register and Mrs. Byron Duncan, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Judge Templeton Discusses Wills and Inheritances for 1954 Club Members

Mrs. C. T. Hubbard was hostess on November 5 for the regular meeting of the 1954 Study Club.

In the business session presided over by Mrs. Paul Spillman, president, it was decided to bring gifts for Christmas for the State Hospital at Wichita Falls.

City Federation delegates were reminded of the City Federation meeting November 14. An invitation was extended by the 1924 Study Club to attend the art exhibit of Bettie Donahue Moran. An amendment was made to the club constitution.

Judge R. L. Templeton was introduced by Mrs. Leon Hartman, and discussed the validity of wills and inheritances. He brought out that a will is one of the means of property being disposed of as one wishes it to be after his death.

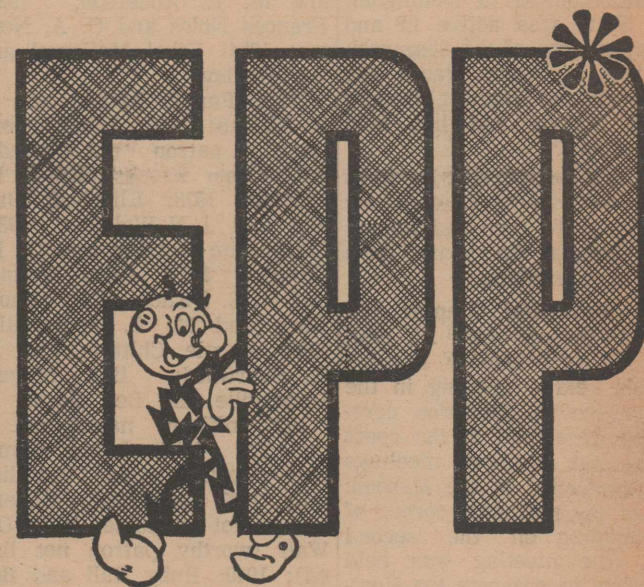

"If you die without a will, then the law of descent and distribution takes over, and your property is distributed accordingly," he said.

Judge Templeton advised that if one has no children and very little property that one does not necessarily need a will, but that if there is property of nominal value and children, then a will should be made distributing the property. He also advised that there could be a Testamentary Deed signed and held until after death and then filed of record transferring ownership of property. A question and answer period followed.

Members attending were Mrs. Calvin Hurst, Mrs. Lynn Courtney, Mrs. L. B. Bratten, Mrs. Sam Adams, Mrs. A. J. Fires, Mrs. Palmer Campsey, Mrs. Denzil Lacy, Mrs. Sam McGill, Mrs. Leon Hartman, Mrs. Paul Spillman, Mrs. E. W. Clement, Mrs. Don Lacy, Mrs. Eddie Slay, Mrs. R. L. Templeton, Mrs. Bill Hatch, Mrs. James Richardson, and Mrs. C. T. Hubbard, hostess.

Eastern Star Observes Sixtieth Anniversary; Honors Worthy Matron

Members of the Eastern Star Chapter, at a recent meeting, observed the sixtieth anniversary of its founding in Wellington, and in the same meeting honored the worthy matron, Eva Starr, on her birthday.

The program was given by members of the chapter. Lee Ella Seale gave a vocal solo "Star of the East," accompanied by Bill Wells.

Mrs. Starr then gave a tribute to the past matrons and patrons, and presented each with a fountain pen marked with the Eastern Star insignia. The remainder of the program was given by Tammie Coburn, Dorothy Parker and Nell and Rosco Land.

The surprise birthday party honoring Mrs. Starr was held afterward.

The Chapter anniversary cake was decorated with sixty candles.

Seventeen past matrons and four past patrons were present: Fannie Pettitt, Ola Wall, Hattie Scott, Ola Parker, Jennie Holcomb, Edna Rudy, Ethel Lowrie, Cora Hurst, Mayme Somerville, Dorothy Davis, Annie Clark, Mayme Lou Denley, Ethel Strong, Lee Ella Seale, Ruby Ball, Susie Chawford of the Dodson chapter, Mrs. Starr, Grover Pettitt, Ben Hurst, Jack Davis and Johnnie Parker.

Other members present were Lee Bishop, Nell Land, Rosco Land, Dorothy Parker, Otha Brewster, Nora Parker, Willie Wells, Tammie Coburn and Mary Sue White.

Both the present worthy matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Starr and R. T. Savage, have held high offices in the lodge.

Before coming to Wellington, Mrs. Starr was active in and worthy matron of the Shamrock Chapter. In recent years she has been the District Deputy Grand Matron and has held state offices.

The list of those who have been active in the Eastern Star is a list of the men and women who through the years have been town leaders.

The Wellington Chapter had its beginning on April 28, 1904, when General Deputy Frankie Households held a meeting in the old courthouse. Initiation ceremonies were held in the court room, but business meetings were conducted in the Masonic Hall in the northeast corner of the building on the second floor. The meeting was held especially to organize the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Households, Miss Ophelia Williams and Miss Maggie Knight came over from Childress to organize the chapter. They left early on the morning of April 27 in a one-horse buggy and arrived just before night.

The first petitions presented to the chapter were R. H. Cocke Sr. and J. B. Curtner, on the night of organization, but the first presented after the organization was that of Mrs. M. J. McCleskey, mother of the late W. W. McClaskey and grandmother of Mrs. Keith Smith. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phipps were the next to present petitions.

These officers were elected Nov. 2, 1904: Nettie Alexander, worthy matron; J. B. Curry, worthy patron; Estrella Williamson, associate matron; John Williamson, secretary; E. W. Cocke, treasurer; Maggie Akers, conductress and Lela Cocke, associate conductress. Other officers were not listed. The chapter had trouble getting members to attend during those early years, and on May 25, 1905 a motion was made that a committee be appointed. The worthy patron appointed "the whole cheese" in the committee.

Sandstorms have played a definite part in the lives of every member, and it is recorded in the history of the chapter that on Aug. 11, 1906, the chapter was holding initiation ceremonies in the second story of the White Hotel for Miss Gussie Sherwood and Elswick Sherwood. The wind blew so hard and the sand became so thick the group adjourned to the ground floor, and when the wind continued, the initiation was finally postponed.

1905: Miss Alexander and A. V. Cocke; 1906: May Godfrey and John Williamson; 1907: records for this year are missing; 1908: Miss Godfrey and Williamson; 1909: Mrs. Anderson and R. H. Cocke Sr.; 1910: Miss Godfrey and Williamson; 1911: Bettie Sherwood and Chas. Jaintier; 1912: Emma Richards and H. B. Worley; 1913: Mrs. Richards and Worley; 1914: Lalla Orr and Herbert Dysart; 1915: Annie Mooney and Dr. W. R. Orr; 1916: Estella Cocke and Dr. Orr;

Plans for Farm Census Announced Here

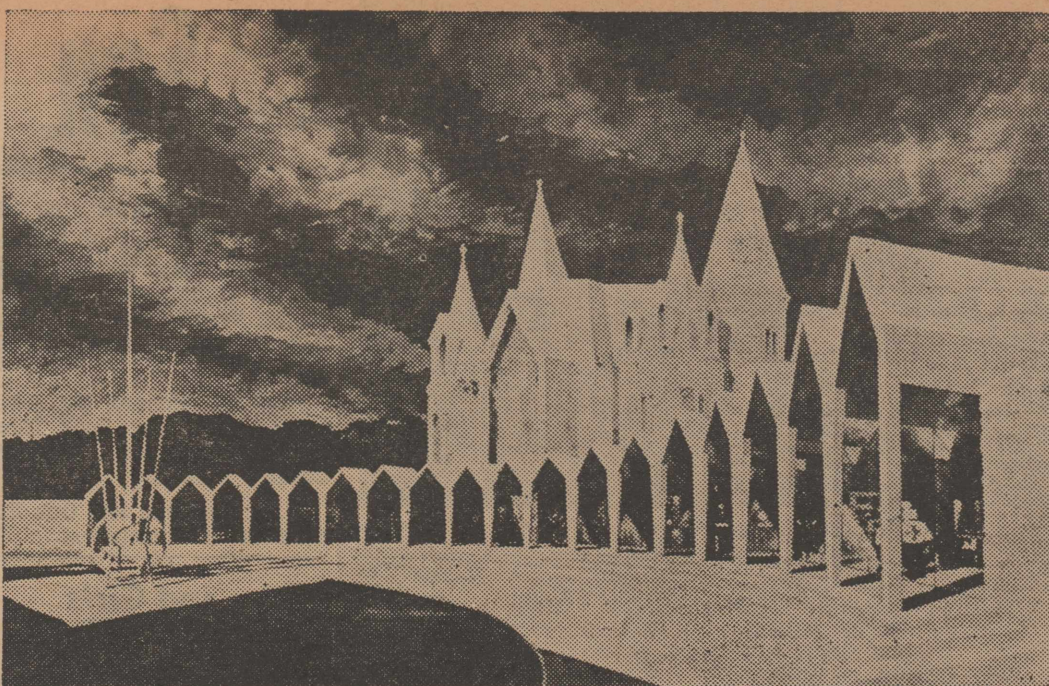

Plans for taking the 1964 Census of Agriculture in Collingsworth county were announced this week by Mrs. Louise Henard, newly-appointed census crew leader for the county.

The job will be done in three stages, the crew leader said. First will come recruitment and training of enumerators to count all farms in the county. About one enumerator for each 150 farms will be needed.

Shortly after Nov. 9 the Bureau of the Census, an agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce, will start the second stage of mailing agricultural census questionnaires to all rural boxholders in the county. This will give farm and ranch operators, who are required by law to fill out the forms, a period of time to consult their records and fill in answers to the questions.

In the final stage, enumerators will visit each farm in the county to collect the questionnaires. At the time of this visit, the enumerators will help farmers complete answers to any questions the farmers may have had difficulty with. Enumerators' visits are scheduled to begin in this county on Nov. 23. Enumerators will take about three weeks to complete their work, Mrs. Henard estimates.

The Census of Agriculture is taken every five years in the years ending in "4" and "9" to gather up-to-date information on the nation's agricultural resources and production. Such information is vital in making decisions affecting the many segments of the U.S. economy. Data gathered include the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock inventory, information on farm equipment and facilities, farm products sold, and use of fertilizers, insecticides, and herbicides.

MILLION SACKS

United States flour mills last year ground an average of a million 100-pound sacks of flour each workday.

Wellington Post Office to Help Count Livestock

Rural mail carriers from the Wellington post office will leave some livestock survey cards along their routes beginning Nov. 13.

"Information reported on the cards is used to set the yearly inventory of livestock and poultry on Texas farms," Postmaster L. B. Bratten explained. Rural carriers distribute the cards at random in boxes along their routes.

"This means that not every box will get a card," Bratten said. "For this reason, it's important for everyone who gets a card to return it filled out so USDA can get a true sample of the state's livestock holdings."

Carriers assisting with the survey are R. T. Savage, Rte. 1; C. N. Savage, Rte. 2; Cal Aaron, Star Route 5; and Rufus Sweat, Star Route 6.

Facts and figures secured in this survey are the basis for Texas and National pig crop report and inventories of livestock and poultry on the farms as of the first of the year. Stockmen and many others use this information in making business decisions.

Survey results will be widely distributed through Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service releases, newspapers, farm magazines, radio and television.

$100 BILLION CAMPAIGN FUND

An incumbent president who has $100 millions to spend, the U. S. News & World Report dryly observed prior to the election, has a lot going for him.

A vote against such a president, it says, would be like taking a shot at Santa Claus.

Santa actually never had that amount of inflated cash to dispense, but the jolly old soul should run for U.S. president if he really believes in giving something to everyone. Not even the taxpayer who foots the bill is overlooked, for after all, he got his tax cut.

The easy rationale of all this is that money talks, and it is hard to beat that kind of sell in the vote-getting business.

Have we taken our wealth so much for granted that we have become callous about the wide public misuse of it? We enjoy a roaring prosperity, but has it made us unthinking materialists so engrossed in living it up that we care nothing about protecting the future of our children?

Are we so indiscriminate with our wealth that we rush about trying to eradicate poverty both abroad and at home, overlooking the ruinous effects of dependency on government that people develop?

Senator Strom Thurmond has recently remarked that what the Administration ought to do is see what can be done for its own "government poverty." Instead, it cuts taxes by $11.5 billion, increases spending by $5 billion over last year, and continues to pay $11.1 billion in interest on the $313 billion national debt, all of which we owe to ourselves.

It would help, therefore, to have a national leadership in the White House whose ideas are not limited to turning off the lights in the executive mansion.

Although the Administration's chief economist, Walter Heller, describes present economic policy as one of moderation, the facts indicate that it is "extremist" in the extreme.

In an orgy of spending, the government urges new programs as if to see what dizzy heights the economy can reach.

Even when the national pump needs priming, the federal government continues to plan annual deficits one after another.

It requires many hundreds of pages just to list the agencies and programs that are embarked on elaborate plans to put borrowed dollars into circulation. Once the voter becomes either a recipient of federal money or dependent for a pay check on others who are getting government funds, a very strong case is established for maintaining the status quo.

Lopping off federal agencies is almost impossible once they are established. What the anti-poverty program will be called when everyone becomes wealthy has not been revealed. But you can count on one school of politics to favor its continuance.

That is the school which believes in encouraging the theory that government can keep on passing out the benefits in order to perpetuate the ruling clique.

The formula for power the New Deal found in the 1930s, is to spend and elect in ever increasing cycles. The immorality of this is obvious to anyone not blinded by the myth of inexhaustible federal resources.

Whether we can keep our republic may depend upon the strength of the people and their willingness to put an end to perpetual deficit spending.

Perhaps the most rampant project at present is the Area Redevelopment Administration, which is by no means limited to depressed areas and easily classifies as super pork-barrel. The agency has been pouring out money indiscriminately, mostly providing unfair competition for existing business rather than new jobs and new businesses. If ARA serves to prove the weakness of socialism, it will have accomplished something.

As long as we allow the government to borrow billions from the people, and give it away in some form of boondoggle, as long as we expect fiscal emergencies to be out-talked by a White House magician, just that long shall we face eventual loss of confidence and the possibility of bankruptcy.

The gravity of this continuous crisis was suggested by Senator Harry Byrd, the leading exponent of fiscal sanity in Congress, when he estimated that it would take 600,000 years to pay off our national debt even if we should start paying $1 a minute. And we haven't even begun to think about starting to pay anything on it.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Doc Turner recently were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Withey of Leadville, Colo. The couple also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Withey in Brownfield and her sister Mrs. Pat Hastings and family at Idalou.

Congress Due to Consider One Price Cotton System

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has made it official that one piece of farm legislation to come before Congress in its next session is the one-price cotton program, which has been accepted as a fact for some time.

The secretary said that the Agriculture Department will ask Congress for an extension of the law, but he also said that any new cotton legislation may have some modifications and that new legislation is not likely to be "precisely the same."

Here lies a danger that Collingsworth cotton growers should anticipate.

It is well known that the new vice president elect Hubert Humphrey prefers direct compensatory payments in farm programs. Growers, fearing this would bring a reduction of acreage, have consistently voiced strong opposition to such a feature in cotton legislation.

Further inkling of this came when Secretary Freeman spoke of "modifications" to come from the Cotton Advisory Committee meeting scheduled in early December. In the announcement of this meeting, Secretary Freeman said there would be among other things, a "discussion of program provisions, ways in which the program may be strengthened, including the need to obtain additional acreage reduction, the support price level, the rate of payment under the allotment program, and other aspects."

Those in the cotton trade and many growers are aware that the one-price cotton is being given credit for the recent upsurge in domestic consumption, and producer organizations across the belt have joined the textile industry in going on record as favoring an extension of the program. President Johnson, in a pre-election speech in Georgia, revealed that the administration favors a permanent one-price cotton program.

Time to Kill Peach Borers

By CECIL REGIER
County Agent

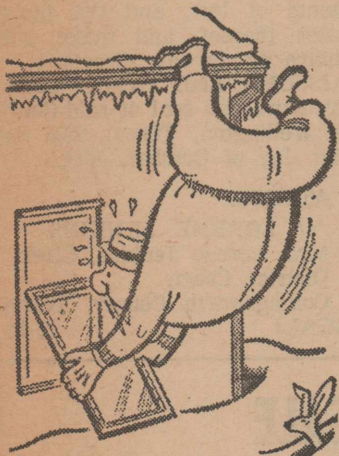

The time is right to kill the Peach Tree Borers that will damage that favorite tree next summer, if nothing is done.

With all the research that has been done there hasn't been a treatment discovered that is as effective as the old Paradichloro Benzene Crystals, P.D.B. if the are applied right.

The P.D.B. crystals should be applied in the next 2 weeks, on dry soil and the temperature at 55 degrees or above. The weeds should be removed and the soil loosened and leveled about a foot from the tree trunk. Place the crystals in a narrow circular band about 2 inches from the trunk. Place several shovels of clean soil over the crystals and mound the earth into a cone shaped pile about 6 inches high around the base of the tree. Avoid pushing any of the crystals against the tree for they will cause injury. Compact the soil with the back of the shovel. Remove earth mounds early next spring.

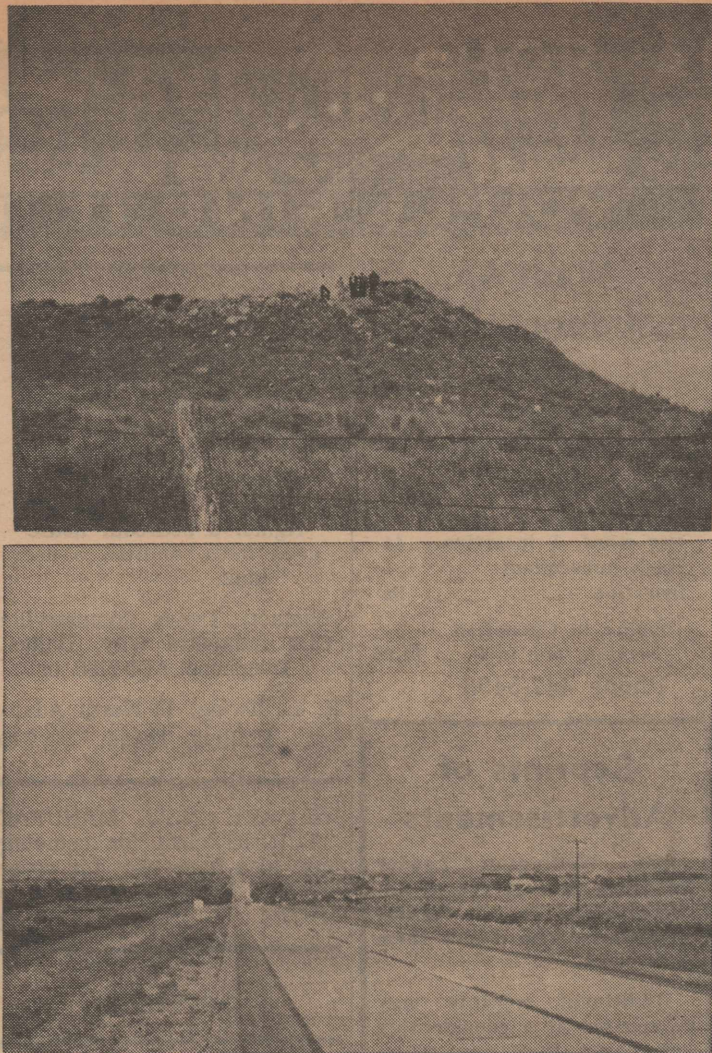

For 2 or 3 year old trees, use ½ ounce of crystals; 4 to 5 year old trees, ¾ ounce; and mature trees, 1 ounce.

Be sure and follow directions

NORWOOD PROJECT WELL SITES

Lone Mound, a landmark in the north part of the county, seen at upper left, is the site of one well that will provide water for the Samnorwood Water Supply Corp., which proposes to pipe water to almost 140 homes in the north-west and north central parts of the county. An above-ground reservoir of 60,000 gallon capacity will be erected here also. At upper right, Don Jennings, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, and John Coleman, stand on Lone Mound and look toward Dozier, one of the communities to be served by the project. Lower left is the end of the line, the highway approaches to the Salt Fork bridge. A group of Wellington men who toured the area to be served by the proposed system are at lower right. From left

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

According to the news surplus, a movement is making headway to take over Alcatraz and renew it into a splendiferous monument to the United Nations.

Which my derisivist neighbor says he is in favor of, on account of it seems highly fitting to make a U.N. temple out of an old maximum security jail.

Says it probably would be hard to find anything that would symbolize a society under world-size bureaucrats any better than a used institution of unfreedom.

Word is that Castro is taking charge of all Cuban children after they are 45 days old, before they get exposed to any Capitalistic ideas.

Which program had ought to produce a much purer type of Communist for the future, by starting early to develop the socialist instincts that babies are naturally born with.

Such as wanting everything they see, no matter who it belongs to, and demonstrating until they get it, and liking to lie around and think deep thoughts while somebody else does the work and feeds them and changes their diapers.

Now that the election ruckus is over, the great War on Poverty had ought to commence, if there is any money left for same after the Poverty War plan makers get their cut.

But my tax sick neighbor doesn't think the campaign against Poverty will be as successful as our wars on other diseases, such as polio and solvency.

On account of the Generals who will be running the War on Poverty look to him like the same fellows who are so busy aiding and comforting Poverty by taxing our poverty antidote away from us.

It is said with a plumb straight face by some folks that our great big national debt is no problem on account of we just owe it to ourselves.

And my veteran debtor neighbor says maybe under the Great Society, the semi-private citizen can run his personal business this same way, and whenever he wishes more money, just borrow it from himself.

Says he is going to be reluctant about making any loans to himself, though, because if you don't ever aim to pay off a debt, it's better business to borrow from somebody else.

Quail Beats Lakeview But Loses to Briscoe

The Quail Quails and Bobwhites took both ends of a double-header from Lakeview there Tuesday night, Nov. 3, and then lost both games to Briscoe at Quail Friday night, Nov. 6. This was the first defeat for the Quails in 6 games and the fourth loss for the Bobwhites. The Quails' record now is 5-1 and the Bobwhites 2-4.

Quail at Lakeview

The Lakeview girls started off good against the Bobwhites but the Quail girls pulled ahead in the second quarter and were never behind again. They pulled 10 points ahead in the fourth period, only to have the Lakeview girls close the gap to 1 point with only seconds remaining and then Shirley Horton hit a field goal to give the Quail team a 3-point victory, 35-32. Horton was Quail's leading scorer with 17 points.

All nine Quails that made the trip to Lakeview got in on the scoring as the Quail boys had little trouble with the young Lakeview team. The starting team played only six minutes in the game in which the Quails won by a score of 75-42. Four Quails tied for high point honors with 12 points each—Dale Morris, Joe Harris, Paul Gollighugh and Don Morris. Bruce Ward and Coy Stephens each had 9 points; Smokey Mitchell 4, Royce Mitchell 3, and Luther Needham 2. Bob Neal had 14 to lead the Lakeview scoring.

Briscoe at Quail

The Briscoe girls jumped to an early lead over the Bobwhites and increased this as

Bobwhites	8	17	25	35
Lakeview	7	12	19	33
Quails	18	39	57	75
Lakeview	7	19	28	42
Bobwhites	10	16	21	27
Briscoe	17	34	45	49

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

All of this column is about a man most of you never knew, but about whom many of you have heard, Dr. D. A. Penick died in Austin last Sunday at the age of 95. He was a professor of Greek and Latin; but his fame was due to his work as a tennis coach.

Dr. Penick graduated from The University of Texas with the class of 1891 and returned there to teach in 1900 after having received his doctorate from John Hopkins University. In 1901 he noted that the student tennis players had to provide their own equipment and pay for the use of the courts. He raised funds to buy land for tennis courts just east of the original campus of forty acres and to provide equipment for the players and in so doing became their unofficial tennis coach.

He was a living legend by the time I was there from 1921 to 24. His trim figure was a familiar sight as he rode his bicycle from class to class with the cuff of his right trouser held neatly by a clasp to keep it from becoming tangled in the sprocket of his vehicle. During classroom hours he wore a stiff collar and a tie, of course, and his impeccably tailored suits were of a conservative style reminiscent of the 1890s. He rode his bicycle to the tennis courts in the afternoon dressed in white as were all his players. You did not appear on Dr. Penick's court in a soiled uniform.

Dr. Penick took his turn practicing with the players and often played for two hours at a stretch. He could hold his own with the top ranked players although he was 55 years old at the time.

When you stepped on Dr. Penick's courts you acted as if you came to play and this applied to the practice bunker as well as the actual games. The practice courts consisted of half a court with a concrete wall twelve feet high with wire netting on top and a black mark drawn across the bottom at the exact height of a tennis net. You warmed up by practicing 30 minutes on this court with emphasis on trying to improve your poorer shots.

One day Dr. Penick walked by while two of the younger players were lazily stroking the ball on one of the major courts. He did not say a word; but the next afternoon an assistant coach called the entire group together to explain some of Dr. Penick's thinking on the importance of diligent practice. He said in a kindly voice: "If you are feeling under the weather or simply have spring fever, if for any reason you are not putting out your very best effort Dr. Penick would prefer for you to return to the showers for that afternoon. He feels that indifferent practice is worse than no practice at all."

I had won the round robin tournament for the Shorthorn tennis players the week before and automatically became captain of that squad. Calling the two boys who had been loafing by name, the assistant coach said: "If you two gentlemen had your strokes and wanted to win as badly as Wells does, you would be a lot better players than you are." From that day on those two "gentlemen" were terribly hard for me to beat.

In sharp contrast to the enormous salaries paid coaches in this day and time, Dr. Penick served as unofficial coach without pay from 1901 until 1940. He lived on his modest salary as a professor of Greek and Latin. He remained the unpaid coach until 1940 at which time he went on modified service as professor of classical languages and received his first pay as a coach. He continued coaching until 1957 at which time he was 88.

Dr. Penick's teams won so many Southwest Conference championships in tennis they would be difficult to enumerate. Five of his doubles teams won the national title and two of his players, Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell won the national collegiate championship at different times.

Norwood School Displays Work for Parents

Patrons of the Samnorwood school on Monday evening went through a typical day's schedule with their children, attending classes of five-minute periods.

This was part of the open house, planned to acquaint the parents and visitors with the operation of the school. The parent-Teacher Association was the sponsor.

During these "class periods" teachers explained the work that group is doing and the goals they hope to achieve by the end of school.

Class work and homework of the children of all grades was on display.

There was entertainment, too, with Ken Baxter in costume, giving a humorous monologue on PTA attendance.

Teachers of the system were recognized and presented with corsages and bouquets.

Mrs. A. F. Wischkaemper, president, reported that almost $1,000 was taken in at the annual school carnival held Oct. 31. Proceeds will go into a fund to buy air conditioners for the school.

Almost all parents having children in school were present, Mrs. Wischkaemper said.

What Would Happen If There Were No Insurance?

What Would Happen?

If the insurance industry were to cease operations for just one week—what would happen? Here's what you might expect:

During that week 119,000 new cars and 300,000 used cars would not be sold; 27,000 new homes and apartments would not be started; one billion dollars in business loans would not be made; 8,100 new businesses probably would not be opened; and 8,000 burned out homes and gutted businesses probably would not be repaired or replaced.

In the area of casualty and property insurance, the bulk of premium payments ($5.5 billion) go for automobile coverage; fire insurance ($2.5 billion); and workmen's compensation ($1.25 billion). The remaining $5.75 billion is divided among surety and fidelity bonds, inland marine, ocean marine, boiler and machinery, plate glass, burglary and theft insurance and miscellaneous bodily injury and property damage liability.

Today property and casualty insurance is sold by about 3,500 companies employing some 350,000 men and women.

Another 350,000 independent insurance agents and their employees also earn a livelihood in the property and casualty insurance industry.

The combined annual payrolls and commissions total about $2 billion. About $7 billion of property and casualty premiums are returned annually to the policyholders in the form of claims payments. Another large amount is spent by the insurance industry for public service programs which include safety drives and safety research. The remainder covers the everyday expenses of doing business, or is held as reserves.

The casualty insurance industry spends some $30 million a year to promote safety in the United States. They were pioneers in accident prevention work and have contributed substantially to the physical and financial well-being of the nation.
