Huge Airliner Strikes Wire Early Today

Motors Blaze Momentarily As Plane Falls But Ship Not Burned; Behind Schedule

(By The Associated Press)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 10—A 14-passenger Eastern Airlines plane crashed into a newly-constructed power line near the airport here early today, fluttered helplessly into a thicket and wrecked, killing three persons.

Pete Dygert, airport manager, said the power line was strung at 11 p. m. last night and that he had not been notified. It was not there last night when another EAL plane took off for Miami at 10:20 p. m. Eastern standard time, Dygert said.

Casualties In Crash

Killed in crash were:

Captain Stuart Dietz of Baltimore, chief pilot.

Robert Reed, co-pilot.

J. P. Philpots, Kingston, Jamaica, passenger.

The injured

E. W. Philpots, son of J. P., not seriously injured.

W. G. Marian, Mexico City, badly injured.

Less seriously hurt:

H. M. Hamilton, Detroit.

P. M. Thompson, Greenville, S. C.

G. W. Dunlap, Chicago.

Bryan Merrill, steward, not seriously injured.

Motors Torn Out

The ship struck earth with such force that its twin motors were torn from the plane.

One wing was found several hundred yards from where the Douglas airliner ploved into the earth.

The plane was running behind schedule.

At the impact the motors blazed momentarily but the flames died down quickly. The wings an dfuselage did not burn.

The accident happened at 4:40 a. m., Eastern standard time.

The plane left Chicago at 6:45 p. m., yesterday, stopped at Atlanta at midnight and took off 10 minutes later. It was scheduled to take off from Daytona at 4 a. m., but murky skies apparently put it behind schedule.

Italy Testing Her Strength

(By The Associated Press)

MESSINA, Sicily, Aug. 10.—Premier Benito Mussolini came to Sicily today to supervise large scale "war games" on this strategic island outpost, hailed America's transplanted Sicilians, and made plans for an important political speech touching on international relations.

The maneuvers are designed to test Italy's strength to resist possible invasion from the western Mediterranean and determine Sicily's qualifications for giving Italy command of the sea lane to the Suez canal.

Tribute Is Paid

Turning from the mock warfare preparations, Il Duce paid tribute to Sicilians who emigrated to the United States, with the declarstion:

"I wholeheartedly return your greetings and I include in you all Sicilians who live in other provinces of the kingdom and the empire, all Sicilians who keep the flame of Italian patriotism lighted on the shores of the Mediterranean and Sicilians who on the other side of the Atlantic—who, displaying the fundamental qualities of our race—have risen even to the highest offices of that great republic."

Mussolini added that he had come to Sicily to "see what has been done and above all to see what remains to be done."

Father And Mother Are Dead As Result Of Feud Shooting

BAXLEY, Ga., Aug. 10 (AP)—The father and mother of one family were killed and the head of another wounded in a cow pasture feud which flared into gunfire late yesterday.

Never Too Hot To Talk About Politics; Demo Senators To Woo Chic "Miss Harmony"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — Democratic senators and Republican women demonstrated today that even in August it is never too hot or too humid to talk politics.

The senators will forget their legislative differences at a stag dinner tonight—in an air-conditioned banquet hall—for Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the new majority leader. They hoped President Roosevelt can attend.

Participants have hailed it as a "harmony" affair to show that the party splits over the court bill and the senate leadership have healed. Vice-President Garner was selected to preside.

Republican national committeewomen were gathering for a conference tomorrow at which they will consider hiring a director to revive the women's division of the party.

It is the first formal preparation for next year's elections by a nationwide group in either major party.

There was talk in the capital, too, of presidential elections. Senator Copeland proposed a constitutional amendment restricting any president from serving more than two terms.

It contains a provision that a chief executive whose first term was less than four years because of the twentieth "lame duck" amendment would be eligible for a second term and no more.

(The "lame duck" amendment cut short Mr. Roosevelt's first term by six weeks, bringing his second inauguration on

Anglo-Nazi Expulsion Row Growing Hotter

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Aug. 10—Nazi expulsion of a London Times correspondent was declared today to be "only the beginning" of sweeping action to be taken against foreign newspapermen for allegedly "meddling in the internal affairs of Germany."

An official inspired editorial in the Boersen Zeitung made this statement.

Chiefs Of Cliques

A number of such correspondents, says the newspaper, are in reality "press chiefs of anti-government cliques and actively cooperate with these cliques and groups.

"A comprehensive investigation of this matter is nearly concluded," the paper declared, emphasizing that it can be regarded as certain that expulsion proceedings will be taken against other correspondents as well.

At the same time the foreign office let it be known that Germany has no intention of relenting in its expulsion of Norman Ebbutt, veteran correspondent of the Times of London.

Three Ordered Out

Ebbutt was ordered expelled in retaliation for the British government's action in ordering out three nazi newspapermen for undisclosed reasons. The Times has refused to accede to a German demand that Ebbutt be replaced within two weeks by a correspondent who writes about "more important" German doings).

This, it was explained, is the German attitude:

Ebbutt has been a "troublesome factor" for some time to the nazis, but the government refrained repeatedly" from resorting to expulsion. Now, however, that the British government feels that German correspondents who have been disturbing Anglo-German relations should be removed, "we are taking the logical step in demanding the removal of the outstanding troublesome factor here."

Crushed Body Of Truck Driver Is Found Near Tulia Today

(Special To The Journal)

TULIA, Aug. 10—The crushed body of Elbert Weeks, 26, of of South Plains, Tex., was found in water under a bridge a mile and a half east of Tulia early today.

He had been driving a loaded oil truck which also was found, wrecked, in the four feet of water near where the bridge had given away.

The owner of the truck, a South Plains oil distributor, was here this morning and said indications were the driver, who had moved to South Plains only a month ago from Turkey, had failed to make a turn from the lateral road leading over the "temporary" bridge, which has been used until bids can be accepted by the state highway department on a new one to be constructed.

The office o fSheriff J. B. Gaylor was informed, said Deputy L. J. McDonald, the young man's body had been mutilated in the crash, that one of his arms had been severed, that his neck had been

Farm Leaders Doubtful Of Any Danger

Recent Price Declines Said Normal Adjustments; Some Congressmen Are Dubious

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Chairmen of senate and house agriculture committees predicted today that bumper crops now being harvested or in prospect will bring no abnormal slump in prices.

The views of the chairmen, Senator Smith (D-SC) and Rep. Jones (D-Tex), were echoed by other committeemen who said recent price declines were "normal adjustments."

To Postpone Action

Both committees have decided to postpone action on price stabilization legislation until the start of the 1938 session. They have agreed, however, some form of legislation will be necessary as a permanent policy.

"If the committee felt there was a danger of a general farm price collapse," said Chairman Jones, "it would be the first to demand immediate action."

Of the major crops, only cotton and tobacco face prospects of prices too low for profitable production, some committee members said.

Shortages Are Sighted

Because of the 1934 and 1936 drouths, corn has been abnormally high, they said. World shortages, they added, promise to keep wheat prices at a profitable level. Hog and cattle prices, they said, are expected to remain good this year.

Outside the committees, however, there remained some sentiment for keeping congress in session until farm legislation is passed.

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) has contended that, because of the relatively small cotton carryover in government hands, there is "no excuse" for 10-cent cotton.

Dubious Over Prospects

Some congressmen from wheat areas said they were dubious about the prospects for wheat prices holding up. They, like a group from the cotton belt, suggested federal loans to help peg prices.

Committee members insisted President Roosevelt already had "ample authority and funds to grant loans and subsidies to cotton farmers to prevent further drastic declines in price, which yesterday dropped more than $2 a bale to 10.42 cents a pound on October futures after the government estimated the yield at 15,593,000 bales.

LOANS ARE FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The senate agriculture committee voted today in favor of 10 cent cotton loans to farmers.

Chairman Smith (D-SC) was expected to name a subcommittee to bring out a resolution providing the mechanics for the government advances. The action was taken, members said to "put a bottom under the market."

Cotton dropped $2 a bale after the crop reporting board forecast yesterday a 15,593,000 bale cotton crop this year.

Jap Force Is Reported Wiped Out In Battle

(By The Associated Press)

PEIPING, Aug. 10. — Chinese sources reported today a Japanese army detachment had been wiped out in battle with Chinese defenders of the great wall pass at Nankow, 30 miles northeast of here.

The unconfirmed Chinese reports indicated a major engagement was being fought in the vicinity of Nankow with the reinforced Chinese divisions effectively defending their positions below the centuries-old wall from the advance of the Japanese army seeking to bring Chahar province under its domination.

Location Is Given

The destruction of the Japanese unit was said to have taken place west of Nankow. Nankow is just north of the Hopeh province border on the highly-important military railroad from Peiping through Chahar to the provincial capital at Kalgan.

Northeastern Hopeh province has been brought under complete Japanese domination in the month-old undeclared war between China and Japan for control of the North China area.

Chinese dispatches for the last two days have reported the Japanese army was preparing for a northward thrust from Peiping through the mountain passes to the broad tablelands of Chahar and Suiyuan provinces on the southern fringe of Mongolia.

Thousands In Area

The main body of the 5,000 Japanese troops said to be moving against Nankow pass was thought to be from the Peiping area. At least 1,000 men, however, were marching toward Nankow through Kupeikow, a great wall pass to the east, from Jehol in Manchoukuo.

An additional brigade of 3,000 men, commanded by Major General T. Kawabe, was stationed in Peiping.

The total Japanese strength in North China was estimated by foreign observers to be about 40,000 or 45,000, including some 30,000 to 35,000 reinforcements rushed here from Manchoukuo, Korea and Japan proper after the outbreak of hostilities July 7.

Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. Benz were sisters of George Strake, wealthy Conroe, Tex., oil operator.

Notorious Georgia Criminal Is Freed In Jail Holdup

MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 10 (AP) — Elo McIntosh, 35, returned to Georgia from Alcatraz federal prison a month ago, was freed from the Cobb county jail today by two men who held up the jailer with pistols.

Sheriff E. M. Legg described McIntosh as one of the state's most notorious criminals. He was under sentence for murder, four kidnapings, highway robbery, car thefts and lesser crimes, the sheriff said.

S. T. Huddleston, the jailer, said two men came to the jail early today and called "open up!" as the sheriff and his deputies are in the habit of doing when they bring in night prisoners.

Entire World Has Grandstand Seats For Sky Show Tonight

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — Tonight and tomorrow night the whole world has grandstand seats for seeing the new Finsler comet. They are virtually the only nights when there is a good chance for the layman to spot this celestial object.

The comet, discovered by the Swiss astronomer Finsler a month ago, is now at its brightest, but even so is unlikely to be seen unless the watcher knows the exact spot.

On these two nights it is passing along the only constellation which every person in the world knows — the big dipper. It is just above the dipper, passing toward the handle. Above means over the side which would be the top if the dipper were full of water.

Look at the star which joins the handle to the bowl of the dipper. The comet tonight, according to the diagrams in popular astronomy, is right above this star. It is exactly the same distance above this handle-

Halls Of Congress Have It On Co-Ed College Campus When It Comes To Real Romance

BY BETH CAMPBELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The campus of a co-ed college doesn't have any edge on congress when it comes to providing background for romance.

A check-up on members who married while in office showed today that bachelors left in the house and senate are few and far between.

Lawmakers marry presidents' daughters, waitresses, models, debutantes, nurses—and daughters of other congressmen.

At least half a dozen married their secretaries. A few have raided offices of other members.

Rep. S. Otis Bland (D-Va) threatened several years ago to employ only men after two of his secretaries in succession married congressmen. Paul Kvale (F-L-Minn) and Frank Murphy, former Ohio representative, were the marauding grooms.

Reuben T. Wood, representative from Missouri, brought his ex-secretary-bride to Washington this year.

Two senators whose wives were once their secretaries are Charles L. McNary (R-Ore) and Robert M. LaFollette (Prog-Wis).

Senator William G. McAdoo (D-Calif) found two of his wives in Washington. He married his second wife, the daughter of President Wilson in the White House. His present wife was

Fast Pace Set For Congress Adjournment

Many Major Bills Are To Be Crammed Through In Final Two Weeks Of Session

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Adjournment of congress by August 21 depended today on the ability of leaders to cram as many major bills through the house in two weeks as in the last seven months.

Three developments strengthened their chances of success:

1. Chairman Steagall (D-Ala) said he hoped to obtain today the house banking committee's approval of a low-cost housing and slum clearance bill.

To Close Hearings

2. The house ways and means committee agreed to end its hearings on proposals to repair defects in the revenue laws which, the treasury says, have permitted tax avoidance totaling millions of dollars.

3. Arrangements tentatively were completed to bring before the house tomorrow a bill to insure wheat growers against crop losses from natural disasters.

The senate, keeping busy with minor legislation while waiting for the house to complete more important measures, helped along the cause of early adjournment when its finance committee virtually agreed on provisions of a sugar control bill.

Two Trouble Spots

General farm and wage-hour legislation still are trouble spots.

More than a score of farm-belt congressmen remained insistent that congress stay in session until it enacts a farm bill. A decision of senate and house leaders, however, to give the bill priority at the next session in January apparently was going to prevail.

The house probably will begin debate on the wage and hour bill Thursday with a final vote before the end of the week.

Four Bandits Sought Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 10—Two Texas rangers and two highway patrolmen were rushed to San Antonio today to aid in the hunt for four armed men reported to have robbed the San Antonio Public Service company of $1,700.

Reports from San Antonio were that the robbers sped away in an automobile in the direction of Johnson City. Officers in all sections of the state were asked to maintain a close watch for the fleeing quartet.

Are Heavily Armed

Ranger Captain R. W. Aldrich, a veteran officer, and Sgt. Bob Masengale of headquarters company were assigned to the case. They were heavily armed when they left. Capt. Aldrich carrying a long range rifle in addition to side arms.

Capt. Homer Garrison, jr., assistant director of the public safety department, said the alarm had been broadcast to all highway patrolmen in Southwest Texas.

Bill Authorizing Subdivisions To Take Bankruptcy Is Passed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The senate passed and sent to the White House today legislation authorizing political subdivisions to refinance and scale down their indebtedness through federal bankruptcy proceedings.

The measure is similar to an earlier municipal bankruptcy law declared invalid by the Supreme court, but Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told the senate the new bill would meet the court's objections.

Doors To City Jail Opened For Drunks

Slap At "Class Legislation And Enforcement" Taken; Others To Be Freed Without Fines

BY R. C. HANKINS
Journal Staff Writer

In what may have been an unprecedented move, Chief of Police H. L. (Bud) Johnston unlocked the doors of city jail this morning, released seven whom he characterized as "poor prisoners who could not pay their drunkenness fines," took another slap at what he termed "class legislation and enforcement" in the office of City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, and reiterated his intention "to give orders as long as I am chief of police."

"The more fortunate economic class has been turned loose by the city attorney in his office—without state witnesses being given a chance to testify—and he arbitrarily has acted as judge, defense and jury," said the chief.

"I Can, Too," Johnston Says

If he can do that (referring to refusal of the city attorney to prosecute three persons recently arrested by police after they had been accosted of drunkenness after a service club picnic) I can, too."

"I turned out seven men this morning at 10 o'clock. One was a Mexican, one a negro and five were whites. I didn't ask anyone else to do it. I am not willing to see anyone else take the rap for what I consider right.

"There is no use of trying to have a dividing social line. If those with money enough to pay fines are to be released, then those who have no money will be released.

Release Them Without Fines

"I have ordered my department to arrest everyone who is drunk — but only to hold them until they are sober, then to release them without fines after they have satisfied those in charge they are not a menace to themselves and to others.

"If the ordinary recognized procedure is to be junked, what is the difference in his scrapping it or mine?"

Johnston, whose resignation had been asked by the city commission in recessed session Saturday and who has announced he will present it at the regular commission meeting Thursday afternoon, talked in clipped sentences that bristled with such modifiers as "biased," "favoritism," "politics" and the like.

No Dividing Line

He said he did not know whether his action in releasing the seven prisoners would do "any eventual good," but that it should serve to exemplify the necessity for realizing "there is no dividing line; what is done for the average man must be done for the poor devil who is thrown in the can without a cent to help him see his way out.

"There's no difference in law infraction—the President can break a law just the same as the lowest nigger. And the person who, in a legal or enforcement capacity, disregards his obligation to all alike is not in his place.

"Those seven I turned out this morning were ordinary drunks; they had no advantages, such as friends or extraordinary employment associations.

They Just Got Drunk

"They had not been speeding on the roads. They just got drunk and thrown behind bars.

"They didn't understand, maybe, what I told them when I turned them out. I tried to explain they had no more right in jail than some other persons.

"They just told me they were glad to get out."

The chief, appearing tired and strained, had one other remark:

"I am to cease being chief of police Thursday. When that time comes, I will cooperate with all authorities as I have done in the past. Until that time, if the rules of procedure are to go haywire, I might just as well act in accordance—just so long as I do what I honestly know is right.

"So, as long as I am chief of police, no one will be held in jail any longer than required to sober him.

"If some can be turned out, then the others can.

"I know—I have the key."

Red Hair's No Sign Of Anger

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (AP)—The popular belief that persons with red hair have a temper is discounted by Dr. D. B. Klein, professor of psychology at the University of Texas.

"No relation has been worked out yet between a certain characteristic and a given bodily trait," he says.

"The average person may remember only the outstanding examples when he forms an opinion. The belief that a person with red hair has a bad temper is a popular one. No doubt every person can think of an example among people he has known. We tend to forget the ones with mild tempers and remember only the hot-headed ones."

Whey, partially condensed and sweetened, can be blended with certain other foods into a nutritious and palatable new series of edibles, Ramsell and Ward report. It can be used in fruit whips, candy and sometimes may be substituted for egg white.

Whey makes an excellent icing with the addition of suitable flavors and colors, and is "tops" when used at the corner drugstore with hot chocolate and sundaes.

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES JUST AROUND THE CORNER

IT may seem unreasonable, but most men cannot understand why a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomfort that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and failing energy. All he does know is that other women seem more cheerful by comparison.

Are you such a three-quarter wife?

Don't let the ordeals that all women face cause you avoidable discomfort or endanger your home. Do as so many wise women have—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Reeder Is Busy Selecting His Force; Announcement Delayed

Don Reeder, whose appointment as police chief becomes effective Thursday, continued today with the task of selecting a police force for Lubbock.

While announcements were withheld as to who will comprise the personnel of the department, he revealed that he has "pretty well decided" upon those who will get the appointments.

Use Present Members

His selections as finally announced will be from among present members of the department and from several hundred individuals who have made applications in one way or another since Chief H. L. Johnston and all members of the department were directed last Saturday to submit their resignations at the regular commission meeting Thursday afternoon.

Reeder made clear that most of his immediate appointments will be made from among members of the police department, but that changes will be made if he feels them justified.

Police Chief H. L. (Bud) Johnston, whom the city commission directed to submit his resignation at the semi-monthly meeting of the commission Thursday afternoon, prepared a letter for that body "thanking each one of you for the position I have had for the past three years and for the courtesies extended to me during this period."

Holds No Grudge Or Malice

"I have no malice or grudge against any of you because of losing this position," his letter continued. "I feel that you were acting in good faith. I feel, from the type of men I know you to be, you would do nothing you thought against the public interest."

The retiring chief, who has been cattleman, Lubbock county sheriff six years, a Texas ranger, a penitentiary guard and head of the police department more than three years, made no recessions from previously voiced grievances. He remained firm in his charges that his removal was the direct result of an unrelenting war waged upon him by an underworld element he antagonized by his continuous and successful war against slot machines, gambling devices and gamblers in general. He reiterated his declarations that his department has not been given the cooperation it has had the right to expect from some of the other officials. He repeated previous convictions that one or two men in his department have shown a complete lack of loyalty to him in spite of his proved loyalty to them.

Of other city officials, Johnston charged specifically that City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley had failed to cooperate with police and that he "seems to have become defender instead of prosecutor on occasions of the cases he is sworn to prosecute."

Commission Misinformed

But in the face of those beliefs, his words or actions were:

"The city commissioners were actuated only by motives of public interest in their decision. "I know they either were misinformed or that they lacked complete information, but at the same time I know them too well to question, even in my own mind, their integrity," said Johnston.

He pledged his cooperation "in every way possible" to those charged with the duty of law enforcement. Of that he remarked that "although I feel I have just cause for grievance against some, I am convinced of the honesty of purpose of all. We may have our personal differences, but insofar as the question of Lubbock welfare is concerned, it is my wish that we work together."

The retiring chief wrote a letter during the day ordering the peremptory discharge of at least one man who has served under him and then, after having placed the missive for delivery, directed that it be destroyed. He accused the particular officer of insubordination and disloyalty and of having been an element so disturbing that it tended toward disruption of morale of the department as a whole.

Of that he said: "While I would not retain this man if I continued as chief, I agree with the commission that the new chief, Don Reeder, should have a wholly free hand in the hiring and firing of men who work under him. No police chief can make a success unless he has a free hand in selecting his men and then has absolute control of the members of his department. He may fail even if he has those powers. But no matter how competent he may be, he cannot succeed without them. The decision as to who works under him should be his. For his decisions he should be held responsible—with proper credit for the good and blame for the bad.

"I believe the commission has made a wise choice in the selection of Don Reeder as police chief. He has been one of my lieutenants for more than three years. He has displayed all the elements which combine to make a good officer, and I feel that I have contributed a valuable part toward his training. He has the qualities to make an excellent chief—one of the best, but he cannot do it unless he has the cooperation of all well meaning citizens and of the officials with whom his duties bring him in contact.

"I would not want to suggest, much less dictate, whom he might appoint on his force. I merely want to assure him of my cooperation in any and every way possible."

Chief Johnston cited from his own experiences the problems that any police department head may encounter. In a dictated statement he recalled his own problems when he became police chief on May 19, 1934. He told of entering office when slot machines and other gambling devices were to be found in "any business establishment desiring them." He related that bootlegging was so general that warehouses for the storage of beer were maintained in Lubbock. He described raids upon places where big scale gambling was the practice, with Lubbock citizens and visitors the victims of crooked practices.

"None of those conditions prevails now," Johnston remarked. "I received plenty of threats as to my political welfare, plenty of offers which might have made my job secure now. But I take pride in the fact that, in the case of slot machines, they went out when I went into office and that they still are out when I retire; that it is probably more difficult to find a bottle of illegal beer or other liquor in Lubbock than in any city of corresponding size in Texas; and that there is no such thing as protected gambling, so far as police are concerned, in this city."

Johnston said that he awaited the return of his attorneys, now on vacation, to consult with them relative to his future actions. He reiterated his previous determination that if investigations show that his honesty as a citizen and an official have been jeopardized that "I shall go into the courts and cram any lies down the throats of those who make them."

"But," continued the chief, "since the Journal of Monday afternoon appeared, I have been assured that the only question has been concerning my efficiency and ability as a chief of police. On that score, I let the record speak for itself—and I am proud of the record.

"If there are those who question my efficiency and ability, that is their privilege. But honesty and integrity are as they say, 'fighting words.'"

Weak, Dizzy Spells Hardly Get Around

Gly-Cas Unfailing: Man In Good Health Again; Stomach and Kidneys Functioning Normally—Aches And Pains Have Left His Body

"I did not realize any medicine could accomplish as much as this new Gly-Cas has done for me," said Mr. G. C. Chambers, Rt. No. 5, Highway 156, Marshall, Texas. "For the past 12 years my kidneys annoyed me with night risings. It was an impossibility to get a good nights sleep. My back hurt so bad I could hardly stand it and I had such pains to run down into my right leg at times I thought they would surely kill me. I had also been badly constipated. Each meal I ate meant suffering afterwards with gas, bloating and sour stomach. My appetite finally failed completely and I would have weak, dizzy spells until I could hardly get around at all."

MR. G. C. CHAMBERS

"But once I gave Gly-Cas an opportunity to help me all my health troubles were soon brought to an end," said Mr. Chambers. "From the first few doses Gly-Cas gave me desired results and now I can truthfully say I have never felt better in my life. I eat any type foods I wish and they do not cause me any suffering afterwards. My kidneys are now regular, bowels corrected and I am a new man in every way it seems. All sufferers should realize there is only ONE GLY-CAS and profit by it."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1919 Broadway, this city, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Why We Get Mad

Scientists, trying to get at the reasons for anger, have conducted some interesting tests, with interesting results—and you can have some fun by trying them yourself

The way people express anger varies in degrees of violence. The usual signs include loud talking, excitable gestures, pacing the floor.

By Madelin Blitzstein

HAVE you ever stopped to wonder just what it is that makes you mad? Have you ever consulted with your friends as to whether they get angry at the same kind of things you do, or whether it is an altogether different array of circumstances and events that makes them dust off their cuss words?

Do things make you angry most of the time, or are you more keenly irritated by people? Can you make a guess as to how many times a day you get sore, or how many times a week something gets on your nerves? Is Monday your worst day or do you get "madder" over the week end?

Are you apt to be more irritable before or after meals; mornings or evenings; when you're sleepy or feeling peppy? And how do you feel after an outburst—sorry for the display you may have made of yourself, or not the least bit penitent?

These and similar questions have been worrying psychologists and sociologists over a long period of years. As a matter of fact, the subject of anger is so deeply controversial that students of the emotions and human behavior are divided into two separate camps.

Some students of the things which make the heart beat faster and the flush of anger come to the cheeks have declared that anger is the worst propensity of human nature. They accuse it of being not only the father but also the mother of intrigue and cruelty, and the chief enemy of public happiness and private peace.

There have been others who look upon the stuck-out tongue, the impulse to swear, and the taut nerves which come with anger, as a "pathological unmasking of primitive behavior," a "psychological manifestation of a bygone age," and a compensatory reaction to try to cover up a feeling of inferiority or of being in the wrong.

IN contrast to these two categories, some students of human behavior side with the Greek philosopher, Plato, who called anger the basis of the state. They agree with Ribot, who declared that anger led to the establishment of justice in the world. They confirm the conclusion of the French philosopher, Henri Bergson, who insisted that society itself rested on the people's anger against vice and crime.

Others of this latter way of thinking feel that the first time people began to get mad it was a momentous day for progress, that making up after a lovers' quarrel only serves to strengthen lovers' bonds, and that anger has served as a great power for good in human life and human history. A few psychologists even find in anger a necessary and important moral force.

Of course, in order to determine whether anger operates for the benefit or the detriment of mankind, it is necessary to know why people get mad and what they do about it when they are mad.

As far back as 1899, G. S. Hall, the scientist, made a questionnaire study to discover the causes and effects of anger; of recent years the diary method has been found to be the best for tabulating why we lose our tempers. From these diaries, which are compiled so that they are controlled in the sense that the differences dependent on sex, organization of home-life and geographical setting are brought out clearly, much can be told about the causes and frequency of getting mad.

At Swarthmore College, in Swarthmore, Pa., there has just been completed, under the direction of Mrs. Gertrude Gilmore LaFore, a specialist in child psychology, a study along these controlled diary lines. As a matter of fact, Dr. Georgina S. Gates of Barnard College conducted a study of 51 girls along these lines a few years ago and, using her study as a pattern, a Swarthmore student investigator, Stanley Lange, worked out the details for using the study on a dozen men at Swarthmore.

LANGE asked each of these 12 male undergraduates to make a note every time he was irritated and to keep up these notes faithfully and accurately for one solid week.

He told them to jot down the intensity of their displeasure, what it was caused by, and the time of its occurrence. The results show that the men were angry only 25 times during the week, or an average of 2.08 for each student.

What's more, as a further tribute to the even tenor of life at the peaceful Quaker college, the angry periods were of short duration. Dr. Gates' study showed that her 51 "guinea pigs" (female) got angry only a little oftener than the Swarthmore males, an average of 2.85 during the week.

One Swarthmore student reported seven annoyances during the week; another reported six; and the rest reported two or three times. An honor student made a particular niche in the psychological hall of fame for himself by proclaiming to an angry world that "at no time could I legitimately call myself angry or irritated."

The students at Swarthmore were much more irritated by persons than they were by inanimate objects. The reasons for their anger ranged all the way from having had a pillow yanked from under the head just when a student was dropping off to a good night's sleep to an intense argument with a fellow student over religious beliefs and prejudices.

One student got very sore because the teacher answered her own question before she gave full chance to the student whom she had called upon for answer to show that he knew the answer; another was annoyed by a foolish remark which he found scrawled in the margin of a book he was reading in the library—what made him even more sore was the fact that he did not have an eraser with him with which to take out the sentence which annoyed him.

A third student got mad because by the time he sat down at the breakfast table, all the biscuits had been taken away and a fourth student was irritated when he got somewhat scalded in a hot shower bath.

Other causes that led to the anger of these college undergraduates were things which made them mad at themselves, like having overslept, or having fallen asleep in class, or having resisted the impulse to tell another guy whose loud laughter disturbed his reading what a weak specimen of mankind he really thought he was.

IN many ways, the conclusions which Lange arrived at after his study of the Swarthmore male undergraduates tallied with those which Dr. Gates came to with her female undergraduates at Barnard. In other ways, the results differed.

For instance, Barnard girls get angrier on Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays than they did during the regular school week. This is true of the Swarthmore boys whom Lange tested.

While the Barnard girls get angry more often before lunch and dinner than after, however, the Swarthmore men were more apt to get sore soon after breakfast, in the middle of the afternoon and before going to bed at night. Whether this proves that an empty stomach is harder on the gentler sex than on the he-men has not been definitely stated by any psychology department as yet.

Both Barnard girls and Swarthmore boys are more apt to get angry when they are tired or sleepy or hungry or headachey, or have a cold in the head, or are worried or discouraged or disgusted or nervous, or in a hurry or restless or despondent or lazy or bored, than when they are feeling healthy and happy to begin with.

The way people express anger seems to run along a similar pattern, except that it varies in degrees of violence. The usual signs are loud talking, excitable gestures, exclaiming instead of restraining, pacing the floor, tossing about, shifting from one foot to another, stamping the feet and sticking out the tongue.

Women are the ones who break into tears. Or, at least, they are the ones who admit that they do, in the notes they make in their diaries.

Verbal outlets are the ones most frequently used. Often, however, when the object of one's anger is an inanimate thing, vengeance is wreaked upon the thing which may be crushed under the heel or torn into tiny bits or smashed on the floor.

After the angry period blows over, the reaction sets in. Sometimes the subjects of the experiment are ashamed of having been angry and exploded into tears or violent language; sometimes they blame someone else for what has happened and, as a rule, the after-effect does not seem to be very pleasant.

IN addition to the present study at Swarthmore and the previous one at Barnard, there was a third study along similar lines conducted by H. Meltzer at the Oregon State College.

There 93 men and women students were experimented upon; they showed 393 anger responses in one week, a much higher average than that obtained either at Barnard or Swarthmore. The men at Oregon were angry from one to 15 times a week, and the women were angry from one to 13 times a week. At Barnard the figures were from nothing to 10 times a week, and at Swarthmore they were from nothing to seven times a week.

The Oregon study showed that fraternity and sorority undergraduates got angry more frequently than non-fraternity and non-sorority people. One young man had a mad on which lasted for five whole days.

The men at Oregon reacted less to persons and more to things than the women did. Women talked about other people more and were much more irritated by them, while Oregon men were annoyed by oil leaking in an automobile, or having a shoestring break on the way to class, or getting one's knees cocked.

Oregon women got sore when a friend was sarcastic or when a suitor called at the house but didn't ask for the student in question. Oregon men were much more prone to get an impulse to kick or hurt or even injure severely the object of their anger, when that object happened to be a person, than were the women.

One great difference between Oregon and both Swarthmore and Barnard is that the westerners get much angrier on Tuesdays and Mondays than they do on week ends. Just what significance this has, science has not as yet finally determined.

Thus far, neither Swarthmore nor Barnard nor Oregon has made up its mind finally how beneficial anger is for the soul. Perhaps they will agree with Henri Bergson that anger is a great moral force; perhaps they will decide that there is righteous indignation and anger over ideas which is something entirely different from getting mad when a girl won't go out on a date with you, a subject mentioned by a Swarthmore undergraduate as a cause for his anger one day.

Longview Asks New Station

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10 (AP) — A delegation of 26 leading business men of Longview, Tex., who came here "ready for a fight," received assurances from L. W. Baldwin, chief operating officer of the Missouri Pacific railroad, that everything would be done to give the city a new $100,000 railroad station.

As a result, the women of Longview may not have to come to St. Louis after all.

Women Are Ready

Longview's male leaders declared on their arrival here that if they failed in their request, the women of the East Texas oil city would call on Baldwin next.

Members of the delegation conferred with the railroad official an hour and a half. He told them he was sympathetic with their demands, but explained the railroad was in the process of reorganization and any expenditure would have to be authorized by the United States district court.

"We came ready for a fight," said Carl L. Estes, publisher of the Longview Daily News, "but found that it wasn't necessary."

The present antiquated station is used jointly by the International-Great Northern, subsidiary of the Missouri Pacific, and the Texas & Pacific, subsidiary of the Missouri Pacific. Baldwin explained the International-Great Northern now is showing a small operating profit, and that he would recommend the station be constructed jointly with the Texas & Pacific in some plan to be worked out.

Erected Years Ago

The delegation was headed by Estes, M. H. Bibins, president of the Longview Chamber of Commerce, and Turpie Slade, president of the Retail Merchants' association.

The Texans told reporters the station is made of wood and was erected about 50 years ago "in the oxcart days."

"That station," said Estes, "is two boxcars long and about as wide. We're not going to stand for it much longer. We're going to tear the thing down and sell it for souvnirs throughout the state. The thing won't burn down; it's been on fire three times."

Bedford Carpenter To Take New Post

Acceptance of one resignation in the county's official family, supplying a replacement and consideration of a consolidation of voting precincts Monday occupied attention of the county commissioners court.

W. Hurley Carpenter announced by letter he was resigning as assessor-collector Sept. 1 to accept employment with South Plains coaches. The commission appointed H. B. Bryan, Carpenter's chief deputy, to replace him.

Bedford F. Carpenter, chief deputy of Tom Abel, sheriff, will become a deputy in the tax office Sept. 1, it was announced. He will be succeeded by Jas. P. Posey, deputy sheriff-jailer. Sheriff Abel said he had made further provision for completing his staff.

The court, beyond accepting the resignation and appointing Bryan, transferred $1,000 from the general to the permanent improvement fund, continued the status of Lubbock National bank as the county repository, opened a one-mile road in the north part of the county near County Line, and defined boundaries of 18 voting precincts to replace by consolidation the 33 now in existence.

To Write Legal Description

County Attorney Robert J. Allen was asked to write legal description of the precinct boundaries and submit it in a recessed session of the court Saturday morning.

An expected consideration of redefinition of justice precinct boundaries to accommodate themselves to voting precincts did not materialize.

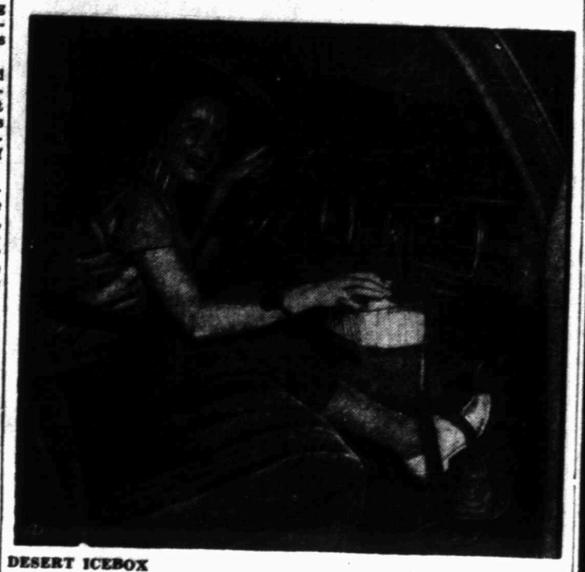

It was pointed out that the change in boundaries, complete announcement of which will be made Saturday, will have the effect of making for more convenience and saving of money in conducting elections.

DEATH VALLEY JUNCTION, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP) — They've put the desert to work fighting its own heat.

From wells far out in the scorching Mojave comes a limitless supply of carbon dioxide. Shipped to Los Angeles and other points, this gas is put under pressure of 275 tons to the square inch to become the "dry ice" of commerce.

Although used for refrigeration since 1925, it is only recently that dry ice has proved a boon to desert travelers. Now autoists put a slab of it in a wire basket, close the windows of their car and travel in air-conditioned comfort. A draft from the cowl ventilator accelerates the spread of cool vapor.

Temperature of the dry ice is 114 degrees below zero. It vaporizes but does not melt.

On filling stations dotting the desert motor roads the sign "Cars Iced" is found almost everywhere.

TEXAS A. & M. (Athletic and Military) College is really serious about this football comeback business. Somebody around, by, for or of that East Texas institution is on his toes.

Consider, for instance, that no less than eight members of the starting lineup of the Northern All-Stars who defeated the Southerners in the high school dream game Saturday night are ticketed for College Station. And that means literally—they have their tickets.

And the joke's on Tulane university, which provided three of the boys with swell vacations this summer.

This information is passed on, probably unwittingly, by our fisherman friend, J. G. "Goober" Keyes, who, when he isn't snaring the wily trouts, is fomenting grid strategy for the Lubbock Westerners.

Goober was a student at the Waco coaching school and an interested spectator at the all-star game last week. Mixing and mingling with 299 other mentors, he should have learned the straight of things.

Even before Goober came in last night we had heard that Tulane scouts, who made a pretty thorough search of the West Texas brush in the search for grid talent last winter and this spring had three of the Oil Belt prides staked out near the Louisiana line. They were John Kimbrough and Odell Herman, the you-know-whats of the Abilene backfield last fall, and Harry Hays, all-round star at San Angelo.

But the Tulane hideout, it seems, was just over the fence from Texas A. & M.'s feeding grounds, and the grass began to look greener there in Aggieland. Aggie friends would have excited a Hollywood movie director with their registrations of come-hither, and so, after fattening on Tulane's green grass all spring and most of the summer, the trio moves westward to Brazos county—for the slaughter, maybe. Som fon, keed!

Tulane probably will be starting a move any day now to put more teeth in contracts. Handcuffs and leg chains may be the solution.

The Aggies, of course, aren't stopping with Kimbrough, Herman and Hays. They're grabbing off a whole raft of other classy graduates.

STORRS, WHO MAY ENTER TECH, SHINES IN GAME

Goober reports that it was a good coaching school that the Texas High School Football Coaches association put on at Waco, that Dana Bible, Bear Wolf and Red Drew lent plenty of color and personality, as well as competent jurisdiction and instruction. Be it known here and now, though, that Weldon Chapman, busy secretary-treasurer of the association who was promoted to the vice presidency, was responsible in a big way for the success of the school. Chapman spent a lot of time and considerable of the association's money advertising the school, getting new members and generally putting the event over.

We were interested, of course, in learning how the lone Lubbock High school delegate looked in the Saturday night game, climax of the school, and Keys said C. L. Storrs, co-captain and general all-round star at Lubbock for two seasons, looked swell indeed.

Storrs, who, Goober believes, will register at Texas Tech next month instead of Tulane or some other foreign port, did not catch the fancy of Raymond Bear Wolf, who coached the victorious North Texas all-stars, at the beginning, and did not start the game. But he went in toward the end of the first quarter and played the rest of the game at right end—and did a whale of a good job at it. Storrs, in the story of the game, was mentioned only as a substitute, but he played three quarters of the ball game, and his defensive work, Goober says, certainly had a big part to do with his side's victory.

It is good indeed to know that Storrs will enter Tech. He's a fine boy, all the way, and no doubt will make a hand here. He'll add more weight, although he's close to 190 now, and probably will be used in the backfield as a blocker and kicker. He can do both with facility and grace, not to mention effectiveness.

You have heard, no doubt, something of Wichita Falls' big Neal, a 250-pound tackle. Goober reports that the boy can really go, that he looked very good in the all-star game. He's very fast and shifty and light on his feet for such a heavy land. Louisiana State has him under a try-out contract, it is believed. "He's the kind of a boy that colleges are looking for," says the Goober.

Robert Clesson, the Amarillo backfield star, did not start in the All-Star game, and was not remarked for any special feat of bravery or offense. He did play some, however, and did very well. He wasn't looking for a job, though, and didn't have to do extra well. He's a cinch at University of Texas, when he's a sophomore.

Baylor university, we fear, reaped little from the coaching school and the skimming of the high school football crop except a lot of congratulations for being a good host. The Goober says Ralph Wolf and the Baylor boys did everything they could to offset the thermometer reading and make the visitors feel at home. Ralph dropped in on us a couple of weeks ago. Shaking his head, "I don't know how we'll come out. There'll be a big gang of coaches there, and their jingle may be louder than mine."

Haven't heard how Rice institute fared. Maybe Blick Stokes, the learned attorney, now visiting here, and Fred Hartman, the printer's devil, who deserted the Brazos for the Bayou, could tell us.

Hubbers Will Tackle Wink

The Lubbock Hubbers break into action again Sunday following the first off-Sunday of the season, when they meet the Stanolind Oilers of Wink, a powerful semi-pro outfit, at 3 o'clock at the local ball park.

The Stanolind Oilers, who vie with Wink's team in the West Texas-New Mexico professional league for home town popularity and who are considered practically as strong as the league club, have beaten several clubs over the section which have given Lubbock trouble. Among Wink's victims have been the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs twice and the Cosden Oilers of Big Spring. The club has become stronger as the season progressed, and is supposed to be at its height here Sunday.

Thompson Makes Debut

Jack Thompson, who replaced Sport Wooldridge as Hubber field manager last week, will have charge of the club Sunday. Wooldridge was forced to resign because of pressing business duties, and Thompson, veteran right fielder and clean-up man in the hitting order, was the popular choice as manager.

Lefty Jerry Blanchard is due to pitch for the Hubbers, opposing a crafty old righthander, Wild Bill Ellis, of many West Texas baseball campaigns.

It will be the Hubbers' first public appearance since they divided a double header with Amarillo's Phillips Oilers here August 1.

All-Stars Begin To Arrive For Game With Green Bay

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Players who will make up the squad of 67 former collegiate grid stars, named to oppose Green Bay's Packers the night of Sept. 1, began arriving today as tabulation of votes in the coaches' poll neared completion.

The first arrival of the 67 players who will make up the all-star squad was Delbert Djork, 215-pound tackle from the University of Oregon. He was followed by Sam Francis of Nebraska, who will start at fullback against the professional champions.

Meanwhile Charles (Gus) Dorais of the University of Detroit apparently was an easy winner of the head coaching job. He had 4,932,337 points to 3,743,744 for his closest competitor, Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern. In third place was Elmer Layden of Notre Dame with 3,723,091 points. Jimmy Phelan of Washington had 2,760,765 points and Bernie Moore of Louisiana, 2,397,566.

Cyclone Comes Back To City

Cyclone Mackey, the ex-barber from Clovis, pays the Lubbock wrestling crowd a visit tomorrow night and, since he is quite a favorite here, probably will be met with considerable acclaim.

Mackey, a husky middleweight with plenty of speed and a lot on the ball, will have to win the hard way, however, if he wins at all, tomorrow night when he offers himself as a semi-final attraction at Sled Allen's Auditorium. Mackey's opponent is the dread Frank Wolfe, a he-man of villainous proportions who made his debut last week in a victorious splurge. Wolfe, one of the craftiest and most heartless of the bad boys, is certain to cause Mackey to do a lot of his feverish jumping up and down. But fans who know him also know that there is a follow-up to his jumping that a lot of healthy grapplers have not been able to withstand.

Weber Meets Johnson

Vic Weber and Gus Johnson are on the main event tomorrow night, and it should be a good fight. Johnson has proved he can take it, as well as hand some of it out, and Weber's style is well known. The New York Dutchman, however, displayed more ambition and speed and strength last Wednesday night in a main event victory over Jack Hagen than he had previously shown this summer.

The show starts with two main eventers doing preliminary work, but for the 20 minutes, or less, they are in the ring, it ought to be interesting. It's Hager and Hagen tomorrow night in the curtain raiser. Tex Hager, who now claims an Oregon address, bumps into Jack Hagen, the Shreveport boy who suddenly has turned villain.

DiMaggio Will Be Aiming At Outer Walls

BY BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

There's an explosion due in Boston any day now and, if the citizens of the hub—especially those in and about Fenway park—haven't taken the proper precautions, then it's all their own fault.

Opening a three-day, four game stand there today with his fellow New York Yankees was Joseph DiMaggio, the stylish San Francisco crab fisherman who also is the major league's most stylish producer of home runs.

Needs To Catch Up

That in itself is not so startling. Everybody knows about DiMaggio, both as a crab fisherman and a home run producer. More surprising is the fact that Fenway park is the only American league ball lot in which DiMaggio has not yet touched off one of his four-base specialties.

He has, in fact, been treated with the utmost lack of consideration by the Fenway park natives—Red Sox to you. In eight games with Tom Yawkey's high-priced hirelings, Joe has hit just one homer.

Besides needing to catch up on that Boston pitching, Joe needs to catch up with his home run production. He hasn't delivered for exactly a week. On this date ten years ago, Ruth clouted No. 36 in his 109th game. Joe, for the 98 games, including two ties, which the Yanks have played, has 32.

Other Scheduled Games

With intersectional competition out of the way for the moment, both leagues today entered on intrasectional series. In the American league, besides the Yanks and Boston, Washington was at home to the Athletics and, in the western division, Chicago was at Detroit and St. Louis at Cleveland.

In the National league the Cubs, six games in front, opened against the Pirates at Chicago.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, took on the Reds, the Giants returned home to meet the Bees and the Dodgers, dropping dangerously close to the cellar, visited the last-place Phillies.

Negro All-Stars Are Victors In Denver Post Tourney

DENVER, Aug. 10 (AP)—The negro all-stars took the second game of a double-header from the Duncan, Okla., Halliburtons 11 to 1 today to win the Denver Post baseball championship—a crown that a negro team won last year also.

Nearly all of the 6,000 fans who saw the Oklahoma team hand the negroes a 6 to 4 defeat last night—their first in the tournament—stayed to watch the all stars put the challengers in complete retirement during the early morning playoff.

The floodlight duel lasted four and a half hours, actual playing time. The second game went only seven innings, by agreement.

Saratoga Horse Sales On Way To Higher Total Than '36

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—The Saratoga thoroughbred horse sales are on their way to a higher total than 1936 with $741,150 already in the till and several big assignments yet to be sold.

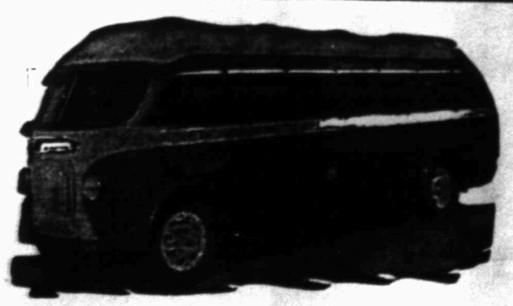

Last night's consignment of 32 yearlings from Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Court Manor farms brought $161,600, topping his 1936 earnings by $45,950, despite the fact that the top price for an individual yearling was $8,000 for a bay colt by Imp. Sun Briar out of Superiete.

The full brother of Sun Beau, a champion money winner by Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady, was sold for only $3,300 to H. L. Hill, Pasadena, Cal. His price just bettered the average of $3,107, however.

Public Links Stars Swing Over Course

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (AP)—America's leading public links competitors swing across the Harding golf course today on the final 18 holes of qualifying play.

Out of a field of nearly 200 entrants, 64 low-scores will emerge by nightfall to go into the tournament medal play starting tomorrow for the national public links championship.

Erickson Heads List

Heading the procession into today's round was Don Erickson of Alahambra, Calif., ex-newsboy of Los Angeles and now a gas company handyman. Erickson went around the long course yesterday in 67—five shots under par.

Erickson was one of six golfers able to improve on par 72. Two strokes back of him was Joe Greene, Philadelphia automobile factory employe and runner-up for the national title in 1936.

Fort Worth's Cats Extend Streak To Seven In A Row

(By The Associated Press)

The third-place Fort Worth Cats extended their winning streak to seven by whipping the Tulsa Oilers, 6 to 2, in the feature contest of three played in the Texas league last night.

Clyde (Lefty) Smoll went the route for the victors while the Felines pounded George Milstead early to run up a safe margin.

Beaumont's Exporters cracked out 13 safeties to set down the Galveston club, 9 to 3. Les Fleming, with pairs of doubles and singles in five times up, led the winner's attack.

The Houston Buffs bunched five hits for as many runs in the ninth to defeat the San Antonio Missions, 8 to 5.

The circuit's leaders and tail-enders, Oklahoma City and Dallas, enjoyed a day of rest.

Titlist Clips Four Strokes From Par

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—The favorite was the pace-setter today as a field of the nation's finest women golfers began another 18-hole round in the Women's Western medal play golf derby over 72 holes.

Miss Marion Miley of Cincinnati, who won the event the last two years, scored a brilliant 78 in yesterday's opening test. She clipped four strokes off par with rounds of 34-42, but her impressive start came a long way from giving her a commanding edge over several other experts in the smart field.

Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia., former Western Junior champion, cracked out a 38-39—77 for second place, while Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, daughter of a Minneapolis professional, stuck in the fight with 41-38—79, being tied with Dorothy Gustafson of South Bend, Ind., who came in with rounds of 37-42.

The Trans-Mississippi women's ruler, Betty Jameson of Austin, Tex., and another Texan, Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, were tied at 80, one stroke better than the opening round performance of Dorothy Foster, the music teacher from Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee had an 82, while Patty Berg, the Minneapolis star, was one stroke back at 83.

Littlefield Wins In Game On Monday

AMHERST, Aug. 10 (Special)—Homers by Manager Dick Ratliff, Chief Hanks and Shortstop Miller featured yesterday's game, the third in the second annual Amherst baseball tournament, when Littlefield defeated Muleshoe, 15 to 2, at Welch Park.

The first round will be completed and the second round started Tuesday when Pep plays the Country Gentlemen and Amherst meets Sudan. The first game begins at 2 o'clock. The Country Gentlemen comprise a team made up of independent players from Amherst territory.

Homer With Bases Full

A home run by Manager Dick Ratliff with the bases loaded in the seventh inning was the high point of Monday's game, and iced the contest for Littlefield.

Littlefield worked over three Muleshoe pitchers, including Tommy Hall, who formerly pitched for Littlefield. Hall was ousted in the third, giving way to Lefty Burns. Lefty Doss Wright replaced Burns in the sixth. Williams caught for Muleshoe. Muleshoe collected seven hits off Duncan, Littlefield pitcher, Ratliff caught for the winners.

They've Got Your Number, Sucker! Take A Look At Policy Game

Indictments Reveal That Huge Racket Pays Promoters Well

BY EDD JOHNSON
Written For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—Come on—let's take a whirl at this policy game. Let's see, first hand, how they work this gambling racket, which some call "policy" and some call "the numbers game". Let's get a closeup of the workings of this gigantic daily lottery, which (special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey says grosses 100,000,000 (yes, millions) dollars a year in New York City alone.

Let's bet our dime, or our penny, or our dollar. Let's become, just for once, one of the countless thousands of suckers who invest their money day after day, to buy limousines for the racketeers and ermines for their molls. It's almost a cinch that we won't win if we play it regularly, because the odds are all against us.

We know that, and so do the myriads of players. But once we're started . . . well, let's take a chance for once, and pretend as if we don't know better.

Placing Bets Usually Is Easy

First, we have to find a runner. He's the small fry of the big racket, the lowest paid of the hirelings. He won't be hard to find. His name is Legion, even today, with the Dewey investigation going on.

See him? He's that fellow, smoking a two-for-a-nickel stogie and leaning up against that pole outside the cigar store. He's our man. Let's go over and see him.

"Hello, mister, where can we get a number?"

"I got 'em. How much you wanna play?"

"We got a hunch for a dime play. Not betting much today, mister. What's it figgered on today?"

"Arlington mutuels. Here, mark your slip. Never mind gawping at that copper. He's all right. He knows one copper can't stop this racket. See, he's ambling away."

We take a small pad of numbered slips of paper that the runner hands us, and we write a number on it. Any number from 000 to 999 is all right. Let's take 934 for instance.

We mark the slip "S" for straight, and we put our initials on it. There's a carbon in the pad, and it makes a duplicate slip. Our runner keeps one, and gives us the other.

Slim Chance Loves Betters

All right, now we're down. We've made our bet that 934 will be tomorrow's winning number. And if our number hits, we'll come back here, and the runner with the stogie will be waiting (we hope) for us.

We stand to win $60, gross, for our dime. We'll have to give our runner 10 per cent of that, though, for such is the unwritten law of the game. If our number comes up, we win $54, minus the 10 cents we played. That makes our net gain $53.90. We will have won at odds of 539 to one. It would be the same if we bet one cent or one dollar.

The odds against our winning are 999 to one, figuring on the total number of combinations possible. The house, which includes the runner and the many greedy hands above his, therefore, gets about 50 per cent of all that's paid in.

Determining Winning Number

How do the numbers turn up? Well, the way of calculating the winning number varies from day to day. It always is announced, usually by the runner, in advance. Then the player knows what to look for in his paper. The runner told us that tomorrow's number would be calculated on the Arlington mutuels. Here's how that is done—by agreement of the policy bankers and the players and now, of course, by established custom:

The total amount of the pay-off on the winning pari-mutuel tickets on the horse races at Arlington Park race track determines it. Let's say that the horse which wo.. the first race paid pari-mutuel ticket holders $5.40 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.20 to show. These figures are added together, making $12.10, and so are the prices paid for mutuel tickets on the horse that ran second and third. It's not hard to do that. Every New York newspaper carries these facts. And that gives us the total for the first race.

Now this may seem complicated for the moment, but stick around a moment longer, and it'll clear up. These figures are just numbers.

Next, the same figures are calculated for the second race and for the third race. For the three races, the total is, say, $23.60. Then a total is cast for the first five races; it is, let's say, $142.60. Then a total is cast for seven races; it is, for instance, $346.90.

The winning number for the policy pay-off is calculated by taking the third digit of each number. In this case, the totals being $63.40, $142.60, and $346.90, the policy pay-off would be 3, 2 and 6, or the number, 326.

The amount of money bet at Arlington Park, or the horses that won, had nothing directly to do with the figure. It was arrived at in strictly an arbitrary manner, and no matter what horse won, the policy player would have no way of calculating his chances of winning on policy in advance.

Now about combination bets. They are made by putting down on the runner's slip three numbers and marking a square around them. That means that if he had put a square around our number, 934, we would bet on all combinations of the numbers 9, 3 and 4. We would then pay six times as much, because any of the six possible combinations would win. But the odds would remain almost 2 to 1 in favor of the policy banker.

Banker Hidden From Underlings

We so far have met only the runner. He is, as we've said, pretty small fry. He may run a cigar store, or be on relief, or be just a congenital ne'er-do-well of the neighborhood. Housewives sometimes are runners in their own neighborhoods. They get a small commission on the bets they take, but their principal source of income is derived from the customary 10 per cent cut they get in case any of their customers happen to win.

Above the runner is the collector. He is sort of boss runner. He collects from the runners in his neighborhood. He takes the slips and turns them over to the comptroller who has several collectors under him.

The comptroller is the only one who sees the policy banker. He turns in his slips to the banker, and he takes the winnings, if any, and starts them back over the route they came to the player.

Mr. Dewey has engineered the arrest of several bankers and of men who he believes overlord the bankers. The arrests may slow down the game, and they may lead to its eventual dissolution. But so far they haven't stopped it.

An obvious change, though, since the arrests, has been noticed on the part of many of the runners. Many don't carry slips any more. They just write the numbers on the backs of their hands in indelible pencil, so they can lick them off if they should be arrested.

Finding True Love

Mrs. Pearl Antibus

When investigators invaded her Los Angeles home, Mrs. Pearl Antibus sued them and Millionaire Thomas Warner, the raid instigator, for $510,000.

Thomas Warner, Jr.

Mrs. Antibus denied she was holding Thomas Warner, Jr., a "love captive." In the bathroom shaving, young Warner clouted the invaders and left protestingly.

Mrs. Jean MacDonald

Lovely Jean MacDonald, divorcee, was there, too. Mrs. Antibus had been hired by young Warner, she said, to get dictograph recordings of Mrs. MacDonald's conversations to see if it was Warner and not his fortune the divorcee cared for. Other than that, Mrs. Antibus' home was a rendezvous for the couple, she said, adding that it was true love, all right.

Grief—And More Grief

CHICAGO—Mrs. Alice Regan's grief over being left a widow with three children was doubled after a visit by a gypsy fortune teller who promised she could restore happiness to the woman's life.

Mrs. Regan told police she removed $500 savings from a bank and tied it in a stocking around her waist as instructed by the gypsy woman. The fortune teller said her "touch" would "charm" away the grief. Days later Mrs. Regan looked in the stocking. She found only a roll of brown wrapping paper.

TEXAS A. & M. (Athletic and Military) College is really serious about this football comeback business. Somebody around, by, for or of that East Texas institution is on his toes.

Consider, for instance, that no less than eight members of the starting lineup of the Northern All-Stars who defeated the Southerners in the high school dream game Saturday night are ticketed for College Station. And that means literally—they have their tickets.

And the joke's on Tulane university, which provided three of the boys with swell vacations this summer.

This information is passed on, probably unwittingly, by our fisherman friend, J. G. "Goober" Keyes, who, when he isn't snaring the wily trouts, is fomenting grid strategy for the Lubbock Westerners.

Goober was a student at the Waco coaching school and an interested spectator at the all-star game last week. Mixing and mingling with 299 other mentors, he should have learned the straight of things.

Even before Goober came in last night we had heard that Tulane scouts, who made a pretty thorough search of the West Texas brush in the search for grid talent last winter and this spring, had three of the Oil Belt prides staked out near the Louisiana line. They were John Kimbrough and Odell Herman, the you-know-whats of the Abilene backfield last fall, and Harry Hays, all-round star at San Angelo.

But the Tulane hideout, it seems, was just over the fence from Texas A. & M.'s feeding grounds, and the grass began to look greener there in Aggieland. Aggie friends would have excited a Hollywood movie director with their registrations of come-hither, and so, after fattening on Tulane's green grass all spring and most of the summer, the trio moves westward to Brazos county—for the slaughter, maybe. Som fon, keed!

Tulane probably will be starting a move any day now to put more teeth in contracts. Handcuffs and leg chains may be the solution.

The Aggies, of course, aren't stopping with Kimbrough, Herman and Hays. They're grabbing off a whole raft of other classy graduates.

STORRS, WHO MAY ENTER TECH, SHINES IN GAME

Goober reports that it was a good coaching school that the Texas High School Football Coaches association put on at Waco, that Dana Bible, Bear Wolf and Red Drew lent plenty of color and personality, as well as competent jurisdiction and instruction. Be it known here and now, though, that Weldon Chapman, busy secretary-treasurer of the association who was promoted to the vice presidency, was responsible in a big way for the success of the school. Chapman spent a lot of time and considerable of the association's money advertising the school, getting new members and generally putting the event over.

We were interested, of course, in learning how the lone Lubbock High school delegate looked in the Saturday night game, climax of the school, and Keys said C. L. Storrs, co-captain and general all-round star at Lubbock for two seasons, looked swell indeed.

Storrs, who, Goober believes, will register at Texas Tech next month instead of Tulane or some other foreign port, did not catch the fancy of Raymond Bear Wolf, who coached the victorious North Texas all-stars, at the beginning, and did not start the game. But he went in toward the end of the first quarter and played the rest of the game at right end—and did a whale of a good job at it. Storrs, in the story of the game, was mentioned only as a substitute, but he played three quarters of the ball game, and his defensive work, Goober says, certainly had a big part to do with his side's victory.

It is good indeed to know that Storrs will enter Tech. He's a fine boy, all the way, and no doubt will make a hand here. He'll add more weight, although he's close to 190 now, and probably will be used in the backfield as a blocker and kicker. He can do both with facility and grace, not to mention effectiveness.

You have heard, no doubt, something of Wichita Falls' big Neal, a 250-pound tackle. Goober reports that the boy can really go, that he looked very good in the all-star game. He's very fast and shifty and light on his feet for such a heavy hand. Louisiana State has him under a try-out contract, it is believed. "He's the kind of a boy that colleges are looking for," says the Goober.

Robert Clesson, the Amarillo backfield star, did not start in the All-Star game, and was not remarked for any special feat of bravery or offense. He did play some, however, and did very well. He wasn't looking for a job, though, and didn't have to do extra well. He's a cinch at University of Texas, when he's a sophomore.

Baylor university, we fear, reaped little from the coaching school and the skimming of the high school football crop except a lot of congratulations for being a good host. The Goober says Ralph Wolf and the Baylor boys did everything they could to offset the thermometer reading and make the visitors feel at home. Ralph dropped in on us a couple of weeks ago. Shaking his head, "I don't know how we'll come out. There'll be a big gang of coaches there, and their jingle may be louder than mine."

Haven't heard how Rice institute fared. Maybe Blick Stokes, the learned attorney, now visiting here, and Fred Hartman, the printer's devil, who deserted the Brazos for the Bayou, could tell us.

Hubbers Will Tackle Wink

The Lubbock Hubbers break into action again Sunday, following the first off-Sunday of the season, when they meet the Stanolind Oilers of Wink, a powerful semi-pro outfit, at 3 o'clock at the local ball park.

The Stanolind Oilers, who vie with Wink's team in the West Texas-New Mexico professional league for home town popularity and who are considered practically as strong as the league club, have beaten several clubs over the section which have given Lubbock trouble. Among Wink's victims have been the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs, twice, and the Cosden Oilers of Big Spring. The club has become stronger as the season progressed, and is supposed to be at its height here Sunday.

Thompson Makes Debut

Jack Thompson, who replaced Sport Wooldridge as Hubber field manager last week, will have charge of the club Sunday. Wooldridge was forced to resign because of pressing business duties, and Thompson, veteran right fielder and clean-up man in the hitting order, was the popular choice as manager.

Lefty Jerry Blanchard is due to pitch for the Hubbers, opposing a crafty old righthander, Wild Bill Ellis, of many West Texas baseball campaigns.

It will be the Hubbers' first public appearance since they divided a double header with Amarillo's Phillips Oilers here August 1.

All-Stars Begin To Arrive For Game With Green Bay

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Players who will make up the squad of 67 former collegiate grid stars, named to oppose Green Bay's Packers the night of Sept. 1, began arriving today as tabulation of votes in the coaches' poll neared completion.

The first arrival of the 67 players who will make up the all-star squad was Delbert Djork, 215-pound tackle from the University of Oregon. He was followed by Sam Francis of Nebraska, who will start at fullback against the professional champions.

Meanwhile Charles (Gus) Dorais of the University of Detroit, apparently was an easy winner of the head coaching job. He had 4,932,357 points to 3,743,744 for his closest competitor, Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern. In third place was Elmer Layden of Notre Dame with 3,723,091 points. Jimmy Phelan of Washington had 2,760,765 points and Bernie Moore of Louisiana, 2,397,566.

Rip Glad When Experiment In Chair Ends

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP) — Rip Collins, Chicago Cubs' first baseman, went to the electric chair Monday — and walked.

Rip Collins

Collins, Stan Hack, Bill Jurges and several other Bruins were county jail guests of Sheriff John Toman. When the group decided they would like to see the chair, Collins was hustled into it as the experimental subject, with his mates going through all the motions up to throwing the switch.

"Whew-w-w," breathed Rip as he scrambled out of the seat. "That's like dreaming a fast one's coming at your head — and you can't duck!"

Cyclone Comes Back To City

Cyclone Mackey, the ex-barber from Clovis, pays the Lubbock wrestling crowd a visit tomorrow night and, since he is quite a favorite here, probably will be met with considerable acclaim.

Mackey, a husky middleweight with plenty of speed and a lot on the ball, will have to win the hard way, however, if he wins at all, tomorrow night when he offers himself as a semi-final attraction at Sled Allen's Auditorium. Mackey's opponent is the dread Frank Wolfe, a he-man of villainous proportions who made his debut last week in a victorious splurge. Wolfe, one of the craftiest and most heartless of the bad boys, is certain to cause Mackey to do a lot of his feverish jumping up and down. But fans who know him also know that there is a follow-up to his jumping that a lot of healthy grapplers have not been able to withstand.

Weber Meets Johnson

Vic Weber and Gus Johnson are on the main event tomorrow night, and it should be a good fight. Johnson has proved he can take it, as well as hand some of it out, and Weber's style is well known. The New York Dutchman, however, displayed more ambition and speed and strength last Wednesday night in a main event victory over Jack Hagen than he had previously shown this summer.

The show starts with two main eventers doing preliminary work, but for the 20 minutes, or less, they are in the ring, it ought to be interesting. It's Hager and Hagen tomorrow night in the curtain raiser. Tex Hager, who now claims an Oregon address, bumps into Jack Hagen, the Shreveport boy who suddenly has turned villain.

DiMaggio Will Be Aiming At Outer Walls

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's an explosion due in Boston any day now and, if the citizens of the hub—especially those in and about Fenway park—haven't taken the proper precautions, then it's all their own fault.

Opening a three-day, four game stand there today with his fellow New York Yankees was Joseph DiMaggio, the stylish San Francisco crab fisherman who also is the major league's most stylish producer of home runs.

Needs To Catch Up

That in itself is not so startling. Everybody knows about DiMaggio, both as a crab fisherman and a home run producer. More surprising is the fact that Fenway park is the only American league ball lot in which DiMaggio has not yet touched off one of his four-base specialties.

He has, in fact, been treated with the utmost lack of consideration by the Fenway park natives—Red Sox to you. In eight games with Tom Yawkey's high-priced hirelings, Joe has hit just one homer.

Besides needing to catch up on that Boston pitching, Joe needs to catch up with his home run production. He hasn't delivered for exactly a week. On this date ten years ago, Ruth clouted No. 36 in his 109th game. Joe, for the 96 games, including two ties, which the Yanks have played, has 32.

Other Scheduled Games

With intersectional competition out of the way for the moment, both leagues today entered on intrasectional series. In the American league, besides the Yanks and Boston, Washington was at home to the Athletics and, in the western division, Chicago was at Detroit and St. Louis at Cleveland.

In the National league the Cubs, six games in front, opened against the Pirates at Chicago.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, took on the Reds, the Giants returned home to meet the Bees and the Dodgers, dropping dangerously close to the cellar, visited the last-place Phillies.

Negro All-Stars Are Victors In Denver Post Tourney

DENVER, Aug. 10. (AP)—The negro all-stars took the second game of a double-header from the Duncan, Okla., Halliburtons 11 to 1 today to win the Denver Post baseball championship—a crown that a negro team won last year also.

Nearly all of the 6,000 fans who saw the Oklahoma team hand the negroes a 6 to 4 defeat last night—their first in the tournament—stayed to watch the all stars put the challengers in complete retirement during the early morning playoff.

The floodlight duel lasted four and a half hours, actual playing time. The second game went only seven innings, by agreement.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10. (AP)—Film Actor George Raft will fly east within 48 hours, an unconfirmed report said today, to seek Babe Ruth's contract as manager of a Hollywood club in the Pacific coast baseball league.

Raft will sponsor the club, if Ruth signs, the report said. The Hollywood franchise was shifted to San Diego in 1936.

A former boxer, Raft is known as an all-round sports fan.

Saratoga Horse Sales On Way To Higher Total Than '36

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—The Saratoga thoroughbred horse sales are on their way to a higher total than 1936 with $741,150 already in the till and several big assignments yet to be sold.

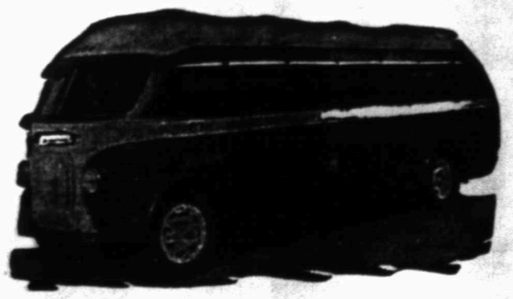

Last night's consignment of 32 yearlings from Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Court Manor farms brought $161,800, topping his 1936 earnings by $45,950, despite the fact that the top price for an individual yearling was $8,000 for a bay colt by Imp, Sun Briar out of Superlete.

The full brother of Sun Beau, a champion money winner by Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady, was sold for only $2,300 to H. L. Hill, Pasadena, Cal. His price just bettered the average of $2,107, however.

Public Links Stars Swing Over Course

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (AP)—America's leading public links competitors swing across the Harding golf course today on the final 18 holes of qualifying play.

Out of a field of nearly 300 entrants, 64 low-scores will emerge by nightfall to go into the tournament medal play starting tomorrow for the national public links championship.

Erickson Heads List

Heading the procession into today's round was Don Erickson of Alahambra, Calif., ex-newsboy of Los Angeles and now a gas company handyman. Erickson went around the long course yesterday in 67—five shots under par.

Erickson was one of six golfers able to improve on par 72. Two strokes back of him was Joe Greene, Philadelphia automobile factory employe and runner-up for the national title in 1930.

Pat Abbott, defending champion from Pasadena, posted a 70, while three others, Van Hall of Long Beach, Calif., Robert Abeles, jr., Santa Monica, Calif., and Paul Genung, Dayton, O., completed the par-cracking brigade with 71's.

Fort Worth's Cats Extend Streak To Seven In A Row

(By The Associated Press)

The third-place Fort Worth Cats extended their winning streak to seven by whipping the Tulsa Oilers, 6 to 2, in the feature contest of three played in the Texas league last night.

Clyde (Lefty) Smoll went the route for the victors while the Feltnes pounded George Milstead early to run up a safe margin.

Beaumont's Exporters cracked out 13 safeties to set down the Galveston club, 9 to 3. Les Fleming, with pairs of doubles and singles in five times up, led the winner's attack.

The Houston Buffs bunched five hits for as many runs in the ninth to defeat the San Antonio Missions, 8 to 5.

The circuit's leaders and tail-enders, Oklahoma City and Dallas, enjoyed a day of rest.

Titlist Clips Four Strokes From Par

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—The favorite was the pace-setter today as a field of the nation's finest women golfers began another 18-hole round in the Women's Western medal play golf derby over 72 holes.

Miss Marion Miley of Cincinnati, who won the event the last two years, scored a brilliant 76 in yesterday's opening test. She clipped four strokes off par with rounds of 34-42, but her impressive start came a long way from giving her a commanding edge over several other experts in the smart field.

Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia., former Western Junior champion, cracked out a 38-39—77 for second place, while Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, daughter of a Minneapolis professional, stuck in the fight with 41-38—79, being tied with Dorothy Gustafson of South Bend, Ind., who came in with rounds of 37-42.

The Trans-Mississippi women's ruler, Betty Jameson of Austin, Tex., and another Texan, Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, were tied at 80, one stroke better than the opening round performance of Dorothy Foster, the music teacher from Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee had an 82, while Patty Berg, the Minneapolis star, was one stroke back at 83.

Littlefield Wins In Game On Monday

AMHERST, Aug. 10 (Special)—Homers by Manager Dick Ratliff, Chief Hanks and Shortstop Miller featured yesterday's game, the third in the second annual Amherst baseball tournament, when Littlefield defeated Muleshoe, 15 to 3, at Welch Park.

The first round will be completed and the second round started Tuesday when Pep plays the Country Gentlemen and Amherst meets Sudan. The first game begins at 2 o'clock. The Country Gentlemen comprise a team made up of independent players from Amherst territory.

Homer With Bases Full

A home run by Manager Dick Ratliff with the bases loaded in the seventh inning was the high point of Monday's game, and iced the contest for Littlefield.

Littlefield worked over three Muleshoe pitchers, including Tommy Hall, who formerly pitched for Littlefield. Hall was ousted in the third, giving way to Lefty Burns. Lefty Dow Wright replaced Burns in the sixth. Williams caught for Muleshoe. Muleshoe collected seven hits off Duncan, Littlefield pitcher. Ratliff caught for the winners.

They've Got Your Number, Sucker! Take A Look At Policy Game

Indictments Reveal That Huge Racket Pays Promoters Well

BY EDD JOHNSON
Written For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—Come on—let's take a whirl at this policy game. Let's see, first hand, how they work this gambling racket, which some call "policy" and some call "the numbers game". Let's get a closeup of the workings of this gigantic daily lottery, which Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey says grosses 100,000,000 (yes, millions) dollars a year in New York City alone.

Let's bet our dime, or our penny, or our dollar. Let's become, just for once, one of the countless thousands of suckers who invest their money day after day, to buy limousines for the racketeers and ermines for their molls. It's almost a cinch that we won't win if we play it regularly, because the odds are all against us.

We know that, and so do the myriads of players. But once we're started . . . well, let's take a chance for once, and pretend as if we don't know better.

Finding Bets Usually Is Easy

First, we have to find a runner. He's the small fry of the big racket, the lowest paid of the hirelings. He won't be hard to find. His name is Legion, even today, with the Dewey investigation going on.

See him? He's that fellow, smoking a two-for-a-nickel stogie and leaning up against that pole outside the cigar store. He's our man. Let's go over and see him.

"Hello, mister, where can we get a number?"

"I got 'em. How much you wanna play?"

"We got a hunch for a dime play. Not betting much today, mister. What's it figgered on today?"

"Arlington mutuels. Here, mark your slip. Never mind gawping at that copper. He's all right. He knows one copper can't stop this racket. See, he's ambling away."

We take a small pad of numbered slips of paper that the runner hands us, and we write a number on it. Any number from 000 to 999 is all right. Let's take 934 for instance.

We mark the slip "S" for straight, and we put our initials on it. There's a carbon in the pad, and it makes a duplicate slip. Our runner keeps one, and gives us the other.

Slim Chance Lures Betters

All right, now we're down. We've made our bet that 934 will be tomorrow's winning number. And if our number hits, we'll come back here, and the runner with the stogie will be waiting (we hope) for us.

We stand to win $60, gross, for our dime. We'll have to give our runner 10 per cent of that, though, for such is the unwritten law of the game. If our number comes up, we win $54, minus the 10 cents we played. That makes our net gain $53.90. We will have won at odds of 539 to one. It would be the same if we bet one cent or one dollar.

The odds against our winning are 999 to one, figuring on the total number of combinations possible. The house, which includes the runner and the many greedy hands above his, therefore, gets about 50 per cent of all that's paid in.

Determining Winning Number

How do the numbers turn up? Well, the way of calculating the winning number varies from day to day. It always is announced, usually by the runner, in advance. Then the player knows what to look for in his paper. The runner told us that tomorrow's number would be calculated on the Arlington mutuels. Here's how that is done—by agreement of the policy bankers and the players and now, of course, by established custom:

The total amount of the pay-off on the winning pari-mutuel tickets on the horse races at Arlington Park race track determines it. Let's say that the horse which wo. the first race paid pari-mutuel ticket holders $6.40 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.80 to show. Those figures are added together, making $12.10, and so are the prices paid for mutuel tickets on the horse that ran second and third. It's not hard to do that. Every New York newspaper carries those facts. And that gives us the total for the first race.

Now this may seem complicated for the moment, but stick around a moment longer, and it'll clear up. These figures are just numbers.

Next, the same figures are calculated for the second race and for the third race. For the three races, the total is, say, $73.60. Then a total is cast for the first five races; it is, let's say, $142.60. Then a total is cast for seven races; it is, for instance, $348.90.

The winning number for the policy pay-off is calculated by taking the third digit of each number. In this case, the totals being $63.60, $142.60, and $348.90, the policy pay-off would be 3, 2 and 8, or the number, 328.

The amount of money bet at Arlington Park, or the horses that won, had nothing directly to do with the figure. It was arrived at in strictly an arbitrary manner, and no matter what horse won, the policy player would have no way of calculating his chances of winning on policy in advance.

Now about combination bets. They are made by putting down on the runner's slip three numbers and marking a square around them. That means that if he had put a square around our number, 934, we would bet on all combinations of the numbers 9, 3 and 4. We would then pay six times as much, because any of the six possible combinations would win. But the odds would remain almost 2 to 1 in favor of the policy banker.

Banker Hidden From Underlings

We so far have met only the runner. He is, as we've said, pretty small fry. He may run a cigar store, or be on relief, or be just a congenital ne'er-do-well of the neighborhood. Housewives sometimes are runners in their own neighborhoods. They get a small commission on the bets they take, but their principal source of income is derived from the customary 10 per cent cut they get in case any of their customers happen to win.

Above the runner is the collector. He is a sort of boss runner. He collects from the runners in his neighborhood. He takes the slips and turns them over to the comptroller who has several collectors under him.

The comptroller is the only one who sees the policy banker. He turns in his slips to the banker, and he takes the winnings, if any, and starts them back over the route they came to the player.

Mr. Dewey has engineered the arrest of several bankers and of men who he believes overlord the bankers. The arrests may slow down the game, and they may lead to its eventual dissolution. But so far they haven't stopped it.

An obvious change, though, since the arrests, has been noticed on the part of many of the runners. Many don't carry slips any more. They just write the numbers on the backs of their hands in indelible pencil, so they can lick them off if they should be arrested.

Finding True Love

Mrs. Pearl Antibus

When investigators invaded her Los Angeles home, Mrs. Pearl Antibus sued them and Millionaire Thomas Warner, the raid instigator, for $510,000.

Thomas Warner, Jr.

Mrs. Antibus denied she was holding Thomas Warner, Jr., a "love captive." In the bathroom shaving, young Warner clouted the invaders and left protestingly.

Mrs. Jean MacDonald

Lovely Jean MacDonald, divorcee, was there, too. Mrs. Antibus had been hired by young Warner, she said, to get dictograph recordings of Mrs. MacDonald's conversations to see if it was Warner and not his fortune the divorcee cared for. Other than that, Mrs. Antibus' home was a rendesvous for the couple, she said, adding that it was true love, all right.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

Grief—And More Grief

CHICAGO—Mrs. Alice Regan's grief over being left a widow with three children was doubled after a visit by a gypsy fortune teller who promised she could restore happiness to the woman's life.

Mrs. Regan told police she removed $500 savings from a bank and tied it in a stocking around her waist as instructed by the gypsy woman. The fortune teller said her "touch" would "charm" away the grief. Days later Mrs. Regan looked in the stocking. She found only a roll of brown wrapping paper.

* * *

Well, this summer has at least seen the blasting of a couple of superstitions that Mae West is in her thirties—and that Supreme court justices ought to be.

* * *

THE PLAINSMAN has no desire to take sides in the personal squabbles which have preceded and followed the recent police ouster.

Both Bud Johnston, the outgoing chief, and City Attorney Durwood Bradley are old personal friends of this writer, who regrets the break which has come between them but who, never-the-less, hopes to retain the friendship of both down through the years.

We do wish to join everyone else in town, however, in commenting upon the typhoon which has arisen since the police shakeup of last Saturday and in doing so will steer away from personalities while bringing out a few thoughts and observations upon the situation.

Therefore:

First, here's hoping Don Reeder will have better luck pleasing the public and shifting city commissions than any of the seven or more chiefs Lubbock has had—and dismissed—during the past 13 years. Don is a fine, clean, young fellow who has made good from "harness bull," through the ranks, to assistant chief and identifications officer. He is intelligent fair and since the commission insisted upon making a change, this column can't think of an appointment that would have been half as logical.

* * *

Second, it is to be hoped that the commission will insist upon other departments and executives giving the revamped police department under Chief Reeder more than an outward semblance of co-operation and put a heavy foot down on stubbornness and needless argument. Members of the commission, themselves, know that there has been too much lack of co-operation between "upstairs" and "downstairs" at City hall. If they do not insist upon a change in conditions the promising career of Don Reeder will be needlessly wrecked and the city will be run through another meat grinder such as the one brought about by the recent ouster, and others preceding it.

* * *

IN turning over to Chief Reeder the responsible job of policing the city, The Plainsman hopes further that the commission will give consideration to the need of more manpower on the force.

When the Tech students arrive in another month, when the fall influx of cotton pickers reaches us and as Lubbock naturally grows between now and then, there will be 30,000 to 31,000 people living within our gates—not to mention the many out-of-town folks who are always coming in and out. To continue to attempt to police a community of that size with 15 policemen, including desk men and executives, is false economy.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, which makes a study of such things and which certainly should know, insists that no city can be policed under one patrolman—get that "patrolman" not executive, etc.—to every 1,000 residents.

That being the case, Lubbock should have at least 20 to 25 men in all tasks of the department, which, in addition to giving the city more adequate police protection, would make it unnecessary for officers to work 12 hours a day, six days a week.

* * *

But enough of unpleasantries. Here's a new joke:

An old lady who was about to die told her niece to bury her in her black dress, but to cut the back out first and make herself a gown.

"Oh, Aunt Mary," protested the niece, "I don't want you to do that. When you and Uncle John walk up the golden stairs, I don't want the other angels to see you without any back in your dress."

"Don't worry about that," returned the old lady, "they won't be looking at me. I buried your Uncle John without any pants!"

That Man on Avenue Q says it's most always a tie between father and son—and the son usually wears it.

A Lubbock father, irked at his daughter's return from a date at 3:30 a. m., demanded of her young escort:

"What do you mean by bringing my daughter in at this hour of the morning?"

"Sorry," said the bright young man, "but I've gotta change clothes and get to work by 6:30!"

* * *

CLAP hands, clap hands, Missus Roosevelt is coming to Lubbock! Yep, that's right—and no foolin'.

Of course, it was just a matter of time until she'd get here on one of her lecture tours.

After all, there are only so many towns in the U. S. and one can't keep going to the same towns all the time.

"Flame Trail"

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD
(Copyright, 1937, Marie De Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine impulsively hires Ted Gaynor, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor who wants to buy her ranch and marry Kay. Ted pummels Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. A girl named Marion finds Ted and her nursing saves his life. The sheriff arrests Ted on a tip unconsciously given by Kay. The cards are stacked against him at his trial for Scrap's murder. The sheriff is charging the jury when Kay protests the trial on a technicality.

Chapter 40
Kidnaped!

A confused hubbub broke out in the court room, and through it, Tom Runyon and Josh Hastings both tried to force their way to Kay's side.

The sheriff's pounding fist proved futile to stem the uproar. Pulling out his gun, he sent a shot shattering through a window.

"Silence!" he yelled.

In the stupefied moment that followed, Josh Hastings called out, "Don't listen to her! She's been suffering concussion of the brain, and she's not right yet. She doesn't know what she's talking about."

"I do know what I'm talking about," Kay declared, "and I've brought my proof."

"You're crazy," Sam Cutter broke in. "Scrap Johnson was murdered a half a mile this side of the line. The monument's right there by the trail, on the way up to the summit."

"I know it is." Kay brought out a pamphlet, and held it impressively aloft. "But what you evidently don't know is that the summit where Scrap Johnson was murdered is a migrating divide. Wait! I'll read it to you from the latest U. S. geological survey."

In the stunned silence that followed, Kay read in a clear voice:

"The summit is known as a retreating or migrating divide. Waters tributary to the Bitter Root river in Montana are capturing by evasion those of the Clear Water river in Idaho, so that the divide is slowly being shifted westward, adding to the territory of Montana, and diminishing that of Idaho. The existing divide is six to eight miles from the irregular line representing the original divide."

Kay looked up at Sam Cutter's baffled and astonished face. "That monument you spoke of marks the original divide. Actually, it is six to eight miles on the Montana side, and as Scrap Johnson was murdered only half a mile west of it, there's no question but what the killing took place in Montana."

"Let me see that book!" Sam Cutter demanded hoarsely, as a flood of excited comment broke out, everybody talking at once.

The only quiet person in the courtroom was Ted Gaynor, who sat, momentarily stunned at the unexpected turn of events. Relief at the delay and change of venue of the trial mingled with amazement that it was due to Kay.

Ted reproached himself for his aloofness that morning. She evidently wanted to atone for her betrayal of him, and while he could never forget that treacherous act, he at least should have seen her.

A sudden tense silence in the room brought Ted's eye back to Sam Cutter's face. Everyone was watching him as he read the pamphlet Kay had quoted from. With an abrupt movement, Sam Cutter threw the booklet on the table and crashed his fist down.

"This trial is adjourned," he announced in acid tones. He glanced over to where Zeke Farley was seated, gazing at him in stupefaction. "I'll turn the prisoner over to you whenever you are ready."

Totally disregarding the uproar that followed his words, he wrenched open the door of his office, which gave off the back of the room, strode in and slammed it.

Collapse In The Street

Kay pushed her way out through the excited crowd, pretending not to see Tom Runyon and Josh Hastings, as they tried to fight their way to her.

A sudden exhaustion flooded her as she gained the front door, and came out into the fresh air. She simply had to be alone to take stock of the situation!

Glancing over her shoulder, she saw Josh Hastings appear at the door. Tom Runyon was in the background, talking excitedly to two men who had buttonholed him, and were apparently giving him some unwelcome news.

Thankful that his attention, at least, was diverted from her for the moment, Kay started to run down the street toward the hotel, her one thought being to reach her room before a threatening dizziness overcame her.

At the far end of the practically deserted street, stood the rambling two-story wooden hotel, where she had taken a room, and Kay sped toward it.

Halfway there, the buzzing in her ears increased to a deafening roar, and in enveloping blackness sent her staggering ahead a few more steps before she fell in a dead faint.

A second later, Josh Hastings was beside her. Picking her up, he carried her a few yards to where he had left his car parked. He put her hastily and none too gently on the back seat, sprang in and drove off at high speed.

Black Prison

When Kay came to, her first impression was that the blackness which had overcome her was still around her. Then, as consciousness gradually came back, she realized that she was in a totally dark place of some kind, with a dank, unpleasant odor.

A nameless terror brought Kay to her knees, on the damp floor where she had been lying. Groping about her, her hand came in contact with a cold piece of iron. She ran her hand along its surface. It felt like an old forge.

She grasped it to steady herself, and got to her feet, fighting with all her might not to give way again to the surging rumbling in her ears and the wild beating of her heart. At least, she wasn't bound and gagged!

She shouted aloud, and her voice resounded with a muffled roar against the low ceiling.

As her eyes gradually became accustomed to the dark, she reached out toward the wall, taking a few experimental steps away from the prop that had been supporting her. Her foot hit against a hard obstruction, and stooping down, she felt some pieces of scrap iron. She realized that she must have been brought into the cellar of some blacksmith shop.

Kay called again as loudly as she could. This time, heavy steps overhead responded to her call, and with mounting excitement she heard the thumping of feet descending some stairs. A moment later, a door some 10 feet way from her was pulled open. Josh Hastings appeared, framed in the dim light that penetrated through that doorway.

Kay receives a proposal of marriage, tomorrow.

THE TIME FOR HOLDING REUNIONS

This is the reunion season when those who came to this section thirty, forty, fifty and even more years ago than that, are wont to gather and recall those stirring pioneer days. It is a joyous time, when men and women, now bent with age and gray from the cares of a busy life, like to sit and recall their youth.

One such occasion is scheduled for Thursday and Friday at the Old Rock House north of Crosbyton. It was the first permanent residence on the South Plains, built by Hank Smith.

Another was scheduled for yesterday and today at Dalhart, when former riders of the XIT ranch are holding their second annual reunion.

Both affairs draw people from wide territory. The younger folks come to see how the older folks used to act and the older ones try to show the rest of the bunch how young they feel. Both young and old get a "kick" out of it and life for the next few months is always more enjoyable.

It does one good to get out of the beaten path for a day or so, so if you're just a bit jaded, or tired of life, trip along to the Old Rock House gathering Thursday or Friday. There you will see how things were done a generation or two ago—and will feel better for it.

Muralist Views Sanity As A Threat For Painters

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 10 (AP)—There is, hope for the younger group of American mural painters if they do not become too sane, says Eugene Savage, one of America's leading muralists.

"There is danger in too much rationalism in art," he said. "We may become too rational in our monuments and too sentimental in our laws."

He believes the older group of American mural painters lost its vision but that the free-lance mural painter promises a vital American epic spirit, strong in the belief that the commonplace should be made significant.

A girl tourist crashed the gate at Paramount the other day, right on the heels of Gary Cooper, who also was only a visitor at the studio. She followed him into the cafe, and in her blind pursuit crashed headlong into a heavily loaded tray carried by a bus boy and was knocked cold.

A few minutes later she was revived in the manager's office and began moaning about missing Cooper.

"Why, dearie," soothed a waitress. "He was the guy who carried you in here!" At that, the girl swooned again.

Germans Open Drive To Eat More Fish

BERLIN, Aug. 10 — Germany's economy campaign has led to the opening of kitchens in many cities to teach women how to cook fish.

"Germany must become a nation of fish eaters," the newspapers

But unless hausfraus can serve up fish in a variety of delicious dishes, officials fear that this aspect of the large-scale drive to make the reich self-sufficient may fail. Hence the kitchens.

The Personal Note In Foreign Affairs

Byrd's First Defeat In Virginia Is Puzzling To Political Seers, Rodney Dutcher Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Every ballot box test which can be construed as a measure of Roosevelt's popularity or unpopularity is being scrutinized here with utmost care.

At first glance it might seem that Senator Harry F. Byrd, persistent critic of the New Deal and heretofore undisputed political boss of Virginia, had just suffered a crushing defeat in the nomination for governorship of Lieut.-Gov. James H. Price by a vote of 8 to 1. (Democratic nomination in Virginia means election.)

* * *

Byrd's First Defeat

Price entered the contest as an avowed anti-Byrd machine candidate, and Byrd scoured the state for a man strong enough to oppose him. Price also publicly endorsed Roosevelt and his record, as did most other Virginia candidates. There is no question that Byrd hated to see Price win and that Price is a somewhat more liberal, definitely more pro-Roosevelt man than Byrd.

Dutcher

But the picture is more complicated than that. Byrd never could find a man, although he tried out several, whose candidacy he could get off the ground. Many voters who ordinarily would have voted with Byrd's machine voted for Price because his opponent, State Senator Vivian Page of Norfolk, obviously couldn't win or because there was no Byrd-endorsed candidate. Voters who always want to be with the winner piled on the Price bandwagon.

Byrd himself kept quiet after he realized that Price's election was a certainty. Presumably he will in any event have to share power with Price if he is to preserve any power at all.

But Byrd is now expected to approach Price and urge an alliance which will still leave the senator a political dictator in Virginia. The definitely anti-Byrd and pro-New Deal forces, which furnished the big push in Price's campaign, are not any too certain that Price will not make a deal with Byrd. The test will come when Price takes office.

Meanwhile, however, it can be reported that Harry Byrd and his machine have been beaten for the first time.

Reed Still Best Bet

Solicitor General Stanley Reed is still the best bet as the next presidential appointee to the Supreme court. Reed comes from Kentucky.

But Roosevelt may decide to play politics with the appointment and if he does he will not appoint Reed. If he decides he wants to make a bow to his Senate enemies he will pick Circuit Judge Sam Bratton of Albuquerque, a former senator with liberal leanings.

Donald Richberg, who still remains in the White House inner circle of advisers, is by no means an impossibility. This correspondent's judgment is that he has about the best chance next to Reed.

Your correspondent, who last February named Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., of Houston, Tex., as one of the six men Roosevelt would name to the court if he had the opportunity, has some new impressive dope to the effect that Hutcheson hasn't a chance now. The White House thinks Hutcheson has been lobbying for the job. When Senator Tom Connally of Texas publicly urged Hutcheson upon Roosevelt, he just about cooked Hutcheson's goose. Connally helped conspicuously to defeat Roosevelt in the court fight.

* * *

Many Claims Urged

All sorts of candidates, many of them preposterous, are being urged on Roosevelt—some by men who may or may not know how bitterly Roosevelt hates them. A correspondent in Georgia writes that all of Senator Walter F. George's friends are advocating Judge Gordon W. Chambers of the City court of Richmond county, a resident of Augusta, as the best man to succeed Justice Van Devanter. Judge Chambers is said to be well pleased with the idea.

Thus far the chief reason behind the movement for Judge Chambers is said to be the fact that if he doesn't get the appointment he will run for the Senate against George, an anti-New Dealer, next year. Chambers won't be appointed.

Birth Control Advocates Are Shuddering At This City

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 10 (AP)—Birth control advocates shudder at Shanghai, where every three minutes a baby is born. A conservative estimate puts the annual total of births between 150,000 and 200,000.

The number only can be estimated because most births are never registered and the statistics must be made up on the basis of figures given by a few leading hospitals and the number of babies, usually about 30,000 picked up alive and dead on the streets.

Walking Sticks Are Attractive To Eye

ROME, Aug. 10 (AP) — Roman merchants have reaped a commercial harvest of the new Ethiopian empire from the money sacks of the native soldiers.

Ten thousand native troops were brought here to celebrate the anniversary of the occupation of Addis Ababa, May 9, 1936. They included spahis from Libya, askaris from Eritrea and dubats from Somaliland.

Merchants estimate that each of the colored troopers had saved, borrowed, or begged at least 50 lire with which to buy something to take home. They figure the total expenditures at about $25,000.

Crusty-footed dubats went home with strings of cow-hide boots bought as household ornaments. Hard-riding spahis and camel corps men dug deep for sheaves of umbrellas and walking sticks.

Toughened veterans of many a desert safari bought aluminum cook pots for the women back home. And there was quite a run on wool mattresses an dfeather pillows, especially by dubats, who from time immemorial have done most of their resting standing on one leg with the flat of the other foot pressed akimbo fashion into the supporting thigh.

Tiring, Aching, Perspiring Feet
Relieves Pain And Soreness And Banishes Offensive Odors

In just one minute after an application of Moone's Emerald Oil you'll get the surprise of your life. Your tired, tender, smarting, burning feet will literally jump for joy.

No fuss, no trouble; you just apply a few drops of the oil over the surface of the foot night and morning, or when occasion requires. Just a little and rub it in. It's simply wonderful the way it ends all foot misery, while for feet that sweat and give off an offensive odor, there's nothing better in the world.

For quick relief from the itching and torture of athlete's foot, itching toes or feet or other externally caused skin eruptions, use Moone's Emerald Oil. John Halsey Drug and all good druggists will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

Third Term Is Again Talked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — Senator Copeland (D-NY) proposed today that presidential third terms be prohibited by constitutional amendment and revived a subject which has been almost dormant in Washington for a month.

Governor Earle of Pennsylvania started a flurry of discussion late in June when he declared for a third term by President Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt refused to comment on Earle's suggestion. When a reporter brought it up at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt laughingly suggested his questioner put on a dunce cap and stand in a corner.

The president in his "victory dinner" speech of March 4 said his great ambition was to turn over to his successor on January 20, 1941 a nation intact, peaceful, prosperous and clear in its knowledge of what powers it has to serve its citizens.

Wants No Third Term

Mrs. Roosevelt, however, expressed hope her husband would not seek a third term. She commented during a question-and-answer session following an address at Ryde Park, N. Y.

Another intimate of the president, Senator Wagner (D-NY) was quoted in the New York Evening Journal as saying the president will not seek a third term.

Gov. Allred of Texas, discussing a third term, said in Mexico City, Aug. 5, that if Mr. Roosevelt "is available for office and wants it, then I am for him."

Minnesota's Governor Benson Saturday declared himself in favor of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 7 to 12 lower on easier Liverpool cables and under foreign and southern selling. Oct. 10.30; Dec. 10.37; Jan. 10.30; March 10.41; May 10.40; July 10.50.

Possibility of action by the government to check the decline in cotton through the medium of a loan to farmers acted as a sustaining influence in the market after the opening and there was a partial rally on covering and trade buying.

The December position rallied from an early low of 10.29 to 10.37 and at the end of the first hour the list was 6 to 11 points net lower.

Texans Protest On Action From PWA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two Texas congressmen protested today to President Roosevelt against the Public Works administration's failure to allot funds for projects in their districts.

Representatives Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi and Nat Patton of Crockett wrote to Mr. Roosevelt that they believe the government is "morally obligated" to grant the funds.

Each recalled he had voted originally to earmark the $1,300,000,000 relief appropriation, but had dropped this demand when Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Texas, "urged congress not to earmark any funds for the PWA at this time as it was your intention, Mr. President, to approve the PWA projects wherein public bond elections had been held and where the government is thought to be morally obligated to carry these projects through."

Kleberg cited a Nueces county, Texas, road project, for which the county sold bonds expecting the federal government to participate.

Patton told the president his district has several projects of this nature before the PWA, and "inasmuch as several weeks have elapsed since the final passage of this bill, I would appreciate it if you would advise me as to when your PWA program will be put into effect."

Funds For Conchas Reservoir In New Mexico Are Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — President Roosevelt has approved allocations totalling $44,437,700 for 46 flood control projects congress authorized in June, 1936.

The president approved $8,000,000 for the Conchas reservoir in New Mexico.

During 1936, 68,100,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical power were produced by means of steam in the United States, as compared to 555,197,445,000 kilowatt hours the preceding year.

Car Production Started Again

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Aug. 10—The motocar industry swung back into a production program promising close to 100,000 assemblies this week with the reopening of the Plymouth division of the Chrysler corporation, closed last week because of labor troubles, and the approximately two score branch plants of the Ford Motor company which had been closed for three weeks for inventory taking.

The resumption of assemblies by the two large volume producers brought close to 110,000 workers back in Detroit alone. About 60,000 workers in Ford branches of other cities were affected.

Suspension of operations by the Plymouth plant last Wednesday resulted from a fight involving members of the United automobile Workers of America and of the Independent Association of Chrysler employes.

Hearing To Be Held

In the settlement agreement, approved by the U. A. W. yesterday, four of its members discharged for alleged participation in the beating of two independent association members within the Plymouth plant, are to be given a hearing beginning tomorrow, before representatives of the company and the union, with attorneys for both sides participating.

It was dismissal of the four men that precipitated the plant closing. At least nine men were injured in the clash that followed.

The Times was informed by the British foreign office that the German government wanted its correspondent in Berlin to be a man "who will pay less attention to work considered here as trivialities and more attention to what is wanted."

Immediately a spokesman for London's famed "Thunderer" replied:

"We are not going to send a man to Berlin at dictation of the nazis. Unless the Germans suffer an attack of sense within the next few days and keep Ebbutt we shall leave the Berlin post vacant.

"This case is very understandable. The Germans want the case of their men reconsidered by Britain—which it won't be."

Tomorrow night will be even easier to fix the comet's position. Look for the outermost star in the dipper's handle. Count one star inward along the handle. This is the star, Mizar, very distinct, where the handle makes its familiar downward bend.

Sometime during the night, rather late, the comet will pass directly under Mizar. It will cut the dipper's handle about one-third the distance between Mizar and the next "handle" star, the third one, counting the outermost handle star as one.

Wax Models To Stand In For La Dietrich

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 (AP) — A life-like, life-sized figure of Marlene Dietrich—legs and all—is speeding across the country today.

The movie star is in Europe and a magazine needed pictures of her wearing some new hats. With its deadline approaching and Marlene not, editors of the magazine order a Hollywood sculptor to do Dietrich for them.

The wax Marlene was propped up in a seat in an (American Air Lines) airplane this morning and a regular full-fare ticket was bought for her.

John Whitehead, who is accompanying the figure, said he hoped he didn't run into hot weather. Doesn't want Marlene to melt and get herself all messed up.

Well In Brown County Area Has Promise Of Heavy Production

BROWNWOOD, Aug. 10 (AP)—The R. M. Ragsdale No. 1 John Tabor oil well, 20 miles north of here, today proved the largest producer from a lime formation ever drilled in Brown county.

It flowed 750 barrels of 43 gravity oil daily after treatment with 3,000 gallons of acid. It was brought under control after tank connections were broken during a scheduled 12-hour railroad commission potential test.

In five hours of the test preceding the break, the well flowed 283 barrels in tanks. It was thought to have opened six to eight miles of new territory.

The well topped ranger lime at 2,442 feet and bottomed in lime at 2,461 feet. It is located in the northwest quarter of the H. T. & B. Railway survey No. 87.

Tattle-Tale Professor Tells Why Profs Such Funny Guys

By AURELIUS KINSEY
AP Feature Service Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 — "For three centuries we have been hoodwinked by college professors who harp on culture.

Dr. George Crane

"Most of them neither know what the word means nor demonstrate cultured personalities.

"College professors, as a class, are second-raters."

Well! Now that he has that off his chest, let's take a look at this fellow. Sounds like somebody who's just gulped a couple of portions of sour grapes.

It isn't, though. It's Dr. George W. Crane, of Northwestern university. He's in the way of being a professor himself; been on Northwestern's faculty for a number of years. He's listed as a lecturer in the psychology department.

Now, Dr. Crane, just what's the trouble with our college professors?

"You've heard the adage about when a man can't make a living practicing a subject he becomes a teacher in that field? That's your college professor.

"Here is the typical development of such a person. In high school and college he is a shy introvert who cannot sell brushes or be a football star.

"After three years of postgraduate study and a thesis on some such profound topic as 'The Love Life of a Goldfish' he blossoms out with a Ph.D. and a teaching job.

They Dare Not Argue

"Intoxicated with his sudden position of authority over a group of co-eds he begins to disclaim positively about advertising and selling, religion and economics, politics and international relations.

"All he really knows is the love life of a goldfish but he is very brave since his students dare not argue with him."

Pause by Dr. Crane. Gasp by interviewer.

In the midst of the gasp, the doctor burst out anew, this time about housecleaning, a thorough housecleaning, of high schools and colleges so that they'd have less Latin, geometry and "other impractical subjects." Dr. Crane would train high school students "for life instead of for college."

Recommends Four M's

Not the three R's, but the four M's—"music, marriage, money and mechanics."

"Every high school student should be able to play one musical instrument.

"Young people ought to know how to play at least one athletic game reasonably well and be able to discuss the rules of several others.

"Every youngster should know how to render first aid, drive a motor car wisely, know how to swim and perform a few parlor tricks or sleight-of-hand.

"Tap dancing would do more to build up physical and social poise than four years of high school Latin.

"If we built a high school curriculum to fit boys and girls for life instead of college we would immediately include a course on marriage problems and psychology."

Start With Teachers

Well, uh, where would you start all this, Dr. Crane?

"With the teachers. The high school teachers would gladly alter the curriculum if it were not for the autocratic and antiquated domination by the colleges."

Dr. Crane was worried about students who put in four years of high school and then did not go to the university. For four out of five of them it was time wasted, he remarked sadly.

"If only they could have learned the four M's instead of the 'culture' attributed to the study of Aristotle, Plato, Shakespeare."

"And," he added as the interviewer left, "to the love life of the goldfish."

Queen Mary's Commander Views New Mark Of Normandie In Disdain; "You Can't Eat A Record," He Quietly Remarks

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The French liner Normandie's new trans-Atlantic record was regarded with something approaching quiet disdain by the commander of the British liner, Queen Mary, today.

Capt. J. C. Townley, who docked the British ship at 8 a. m. observed: "You can't eat a record. We are not going to attempt to take the record from the Normandie; this company is not interested in records.

"They are not much use when you have to anchor in the harbor for five six hours, anyway, before going up to the pier. The passengers are only interested in what time they go ashore."

Last year the Queen Mary broke the Normandie's previous record, but yesterday the Normandie sewed up trans-Atlantic speed supremacy for both directions by completing an eastward crossing in three days, 22 hours, seven minutes following a western trip of three days, 23 hours, two minutes.

Protest Is Made On Purchase Of Land

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 10 (AP)—The Tribune says today that a petition has been submitted to President Roosevelt protesting sale of the 216,000 acre La Joya land grant to John J. Raskob of New York and Thomas W. Campbell, Montana wheat king.

From its own sources, the Tribune says it learned the protest was based on the contention that the land—from an old Spanish land grant—is tax free under terms of the Guadalupe Hidalgo treaty with Mexico, and therefore Raskob and Campbell were unauthorized to obtain title by payment of $76,000 back taxes at county tax sale.

According to the petition, 1,700 inhabitants of the grant will be thrown onto federal relief by the purchase.

In past statement, Campbell stated he did not plan to move the residents off the grant.

Copies of the petition were sent to members of New Mexico's congressional delegation as well as the president.

Russia Follows Canada's Plan On Babies

MOSCOW, Aug. 10 (AP) — Dispatches from desolate Sakhalin, Russia's subarctic island off the Siberian coast, said today the Soviet government had intervened to save the lives of girl quadruplets born to the wife of a worker in the Sakhalin oil fields named Yashin.

The babies were born prematurely last May in the village of Katangli, and Soviet health authorities, following Canada's example in the case of the Dionnes, immediately took charge. Powdered milk was rushed by airplane from Alexandrovsk, on the Siberian mainland. A physician and nurse were appointed to care for mother and babies, all of whom survived.

Then, the dispatches said, the family was presented with a cow and a year's supply of fodder by local public organizations.

Germany Ready To Make Flight

(By The Associated Press)

LUEBECK, Germany, Aug. 10—The takeoff of the Lufthansa seaplane Nordmeer on the first of a series of German north Atlantic survey flights was set today for 6 a. m. Wednesday (midnight Tuesday, eastern standard time.)

The ship, which with her sister craft the Nordward is to make eight flights to New York, took two trial hops today with airline officials aboard to inspect the instruments.

Flight Captain Joachim Blankenburg expected to make the first leg to Lisbon, Portugal, in about 13 hours.

The next stop will be Horta, the Azores, where the catapult ship Schwabenland waits to launch the seaplane on its flight to New York. The final leg is expected to take about 15 hours.

British Imperial Airways and United States Pan American Airways already have made experimental north Atlantic flights. Awaiting such a test are both the Lufthansa and the French "Air France" lines, both now operating across the South Atlantic.)

103 DOWN, 17 TO GO

HOGANSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—Henry Besio, in "excellent" health at 103, still has seventeen years to go if he is to equal the record of his maternal grandmother. She lived to be 120. Besio has outlived three wives.

No fewer than 1,000,000 street accidents, 40,000 of them fatal, occurred in England in the 10 years from 1918 to 1928.

Early Start Of Work Awaited

(By The Associated Press)

TEMPLE, Aug. 10 — Sponsors eagerly awaited today an early start on the $50,000,000 Brazos river flood control program, basing their hopes on President Roosevelt's allocation yesterday of $4,500,000 for the Possum Kingdom dam.

Congressman W. R. Poage wired the Temple Telegram he believed the president's action assured "the immediate construction of this dam and ultimate construction of the entire project."

Surveys Have Been Completed

The entire project consists of 13 dams thrown athwart the troublesome Brazos River. Surveys have been completed on all 13 units in the district's flood control program and mapping has been completed on eight.

John A. Morris, general manager of the Brazos River Conservation and Recla mation district, said the Possum Kingdom dam would be built by the district with its own engineers. That meant the U. S. Army engineers originally commissioned to build the dam would step aside.

Work on the dam could begin immediately because all preliminary surveys have been made. The preliminaries already have cost $600,000.

The $4,500,000 represents the amount of increased costs since the president approved the project in 1935.

Plans For Lions Convention In City Discussed Monday

Directors of the Lubbock Lions club discussed plans for the 1938 District 2-T convention of Lions International to be held next spring in Lubbock when they met Monday noon at Hilton hotel. W. H. Evans, president, was in charge.

It was decided to have the general convention committee, of which Robert H. Bean is chairman, meet once a month to work on plans. District Governor Joe Pond of Colorado is to meet with the committee at its next meeting, the first Monday in September. Monthly meetings are to be on the first Monday.

Several other matters were discussed.

There is a burying ground near Webster, Mass., in which the graves are marked with field stones; large ones indicate old men and the small ones young men.

Relieve Dizzy Spells Or Money Back

She gives wonderful advice to women passing thru those 40 to 50 "critical years."

Mrs. L. B. writes: "I'm going thru change of life and been having hot flashes, blood rushing to head. Also such sweats, perspiration would run from my body. After first few days of taking Kruschen I noticed a difference in my head, after I finished the first bottle, the flashes were getting further apart and the night sweats less. I and my friends swear by Kruschen."

If you want to help avoid headaches, dizziness, smothering spells, weakness, fits of depression—if you want to keep feeling more healthy and happy—up and about your work—take a third teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning.

Kruschen is a superb blend of 6 mineral salts, each with its own special work to do—kidneys, liver, gall bladder and bowels are helped kept functioning normally and when important body organs are working properly you may be sure there will be less constitutional agitation. It costs but little and if it doesn't help you wonderfully in a month—money back.—Adv.

Story Of Murder Is Told By Captive

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 10. (AP)—Police Inspector A. E. Crawford said last night he placed little belief in the story of a suspected deranged white man arrested on a burglary charge here who said he was accused of "killing four people in Texas."

The suspect told Inspector Crawford that he escaped from an insane hospital at San Antonio, Tex.

"He said he had been sent there," Crawford asserted, "after Texas officers accused him of murdering four people who were killed on the plains."

Crawford said the man was "badly afflicted with a disease."

The police official wired a San Antonio hospital authority for information concerning the man but said he had received no reply.

Police Have No Record That Man Is Wanted In Murders

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Officials of the state hospital here said last night a man registered under the same name as that given by a burglary suspect arrested in Jackson, Miss., walked away from the institution July 18. He was admitted to the hospital last November. Police here had no record of his being wanted for murder.

Building Work Starts Soon

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Preliminary work has been started on Texas' broad program of providing better facilities for its insane.

Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, said here the city of Big Spring had telegraphed it would make good on the proposals which led to its choice as the site for a new state hospital for the insane and architects would draw up plans for the institution this week.

Bids To Be Let

Bids for construction probably will be let in from 30 to 45 days and it is possible actual ground work will begin in 60 days. The hospital will cost $817,000.

Teer said the new institution, which will take care of 540 patients, with construction at existing institutions, also authorized by the legislature at its last general session, would go a long way toward solving the problem of housing the state's feeble-minded.

Contracts for two buildings at the hospital near Austin where adult feeble-minded males are maintained will be let August 27. Plans for nearly all the other structures will be completed in 30 days, and bids will be called for later.

Removal From Jails

Teer estimated the building program for the biennium would mean the removal of an estimated 200 persons from jails where they have been incarcerated pending admittance to the crowded state hospitals. He also said it would provide hospitalization for an estimated 500-600 on the waiting list but not in jails and for an anticipated annual increase of 500 in new cases.

The population in state institutions for the insane now is approximately 13,500 and for the last several years has been increasing at the rate of 500 a year, Teer said.

"The building program will just about catch us up with the current demand," he said.
