Saved By U.S. Marshals...

Hinckley Attempts Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the door lock jammed, U.S. marshals reached in the window of John W. Hinckley Jr.'s prison cell and cut down the accused presidential assailant as he tried to hang himself with a rolled-up jacket, the Justice Department says.

Justice Department spokesman Tom DeCair said the lock on Hinckley's cell door malfunctioned and kept marshals from reaching him immediately after they saw him begin the apparent suicide attempt at 4:55 p.m. Sunday.

DeCair credited alert work by the marshals guarding Hinckley in the stockade at Fort Meade, Md., with saving his life.

The spokesman said Hinckley was "semi-conscious" and suffering from hypoxia, or oxygen deficiency, when he arrived at the hospital of the army base but was in satisfactory condition with "no serious injury of any kind."

U.S. marshals are investigating the incident, particulary to determine whether the 26-year-old Hinckley had disabled the lock on his cell door, DeCair said.

Hinckley has been under 24-hour watch since he unsuccessfully tried to harm himself with a overdose of Tylenol, an aspirin substitute, and Valium, a tranquilizer, in a federal prison in Butner, N.C., last May 27. Prison officials said Hinckley wrote of possible suicide after that.

Hinckley pleaded innocent to a 13-count federal indictment charging him with attempted assassination of President Reagan on March 30. His lawyers have told the court they will use an insanity defense and will not contest the fact that Hinckley shot and wounded Reagan, a Secret Service agent, a District of Columbia policeman and White House press secretary James Brady.

While Hinckley awaits the start of his trial Jan. 4 in U.S. District Court in Washington, he has been watched around the clock directly and on television monitors in his single cell at the nearby army base.

DeCair said marshals saw him try to hang himself with a rolled-up jacket wrapped around a bar in the cell window and rushed to stop him. The door, however, would not unlock, so the marshals went outside in the exercise yard and reached through the window to cut him down.

"It was because he was under 24-hour watch that the attempt was unsuccessful," DeCair said. The spokesman said he did not know exactly how long Hinckley had been hanging before he was cut down.

Large Turnout Marks Square Dance Festival

The Scurry County Colesium was a festive scene Saturday night as square and round dancers from across the southwest gathered for the 10th annual Square and Round Dance Festival sponsored by the Sparkle City Squares.

Dancers from as far away as Willcox, Ariz. joined with 275 of their cohorts in the day of festivities capped by a dance, held from 7 p.m. till 11 p.m. in the main arena. Other actitvies included afternoon workshops in the various forms of dance and a dinner served at the conclusion of Saturday night's dance.

Over 30 towns and cities across Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma were represented at the festival. Local interest was good as over 200 spectators drifted in and out over the course of the evening.

During the evening session, dancers were treated to a performance by the Cotton Country Cloggers of Lubbock. The 20-member club, one of 10 such organizations in the state, routinely performs in parades, arts festivals, and other civic events in the Lubbock area. Members of the precision dance troupe range from 16 years of age on up.

Ed and Sharon Campbell of Dallas led a rounds workshop in the afternoon and callers Sleepy Browning of Jayton and Vernon Jones of Arlington led a workshop for the squares. Browning and Jones also served as callers for the evening dance.

Bob and JoAnne Stewart were local chairmen in charge of the festival.

Debriefing Set For Astronauts

By The Associated Press

Astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly began a week of intensive debriefings today on their two-day flight aboard the space shuttle, while technicians prepared the Columbia for its third trip in March.

"There'll probably be a long briefing session on electricity," space agency spokesman Charles Redmond said Sunday at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, noting the flight of the 106-ton winged rocketship was cut from five days to two because a battery-like fuel cell failed.

The Columbia returned to Earth on Saturday, landing smoothly in California's Mojave Desert and becoming the first vehicle to complete more than one round-trip into space.

At nearby Edwards Air Force Base, shuttle test manager and former astronaut Deke Slayton said only about a dozen of the 31,000 heat-shielding tiles that cover the craft's aluminum skin will have to be replaced. Troubles with the tiles had plagued the shuttle project.

Engle and Truly, who talked by telephone with President Reagan, had a preliminary debriefing of sorts at breakfast in Houston Sunday with Vice President George Bush.

Reporters waiting outside during the meal heard about five minutes of conversation via a microphone left turned on in the dining room.

"Can that thing pick up — is it designed to pick up an ailing satellite?" the vice president asked Truly, the shuttle pilot.

"It can," Truly replied.

Later, Bush asked Engle: "Can you really sleep the same way" in weightlessness. "I mean, where you're just out and not aware? Or is it very light?"

"No, you really can," said Engle. "I slept well. The only problem is, you wake up early."

Engle and Truly went home and spent the rest of the day relaxing with their families. They will "pick up on a solid week of technical briefings" today, space agency spokesman Terry White said. "Each system group's engineers will get a crack at them to pick their brains on what works and what needs to be improved."

Redmond said this time experts should be able to produce a thermogram of the shuttle's underbelly during the fiery re-entry — a picture showing the varying degrees of heat buildup.

Officials believe friction created by re-entry generates temperatures up to 2,700 degrees Fahrenheit, but they were not able to compare that estimate with a thermogram during April's maiden flight because of bad weather.

Monday update

FBI Studying Rifle

DALLAS (AP) — Three rifles recovered from a lake east of Dallas are being analyzed by the FBI in Washington as part of the investigation into the 1979 assassination U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr., the Dallas Morning News reported in its Monday editions.

The newspaper quoted a source with the U.S. Justice Department as confirming that investigators believe one or more of the weapons found by Navy divers in Lake Ray Hubbard may have been used in the sniper slaying of Wood.

Divers from the Naval Coastal Systems Center in Panama City, Fla. recovered the weapons two to three weeks ago when they were searching for the barrel of a particular Weatherby hunting rifle, the News reported.

The paper quoted the Justice Department source as saying the murder weapon is the only evidence investigators need before indicting convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson in the Wood slaying.

Report Assassination Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — The government of former French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was planning an assassination attempt on Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy and sought the Reagan administration's approval early this year, Time magazine reports.

Quoting unidentified sources in Washington, the magazine says in its current issue that a high-ranking official in Giscard d'Estaing's government presented the plan to high-ranking Reagan administration officials.

The U.S. would not have been directly involved in the assassination attempt, the magazine says, but the French asked that the U.S. give quick recognition to Khadafy's successor in the event of a coup.

Time says the plan was never approved, although U.S. officials agreed to continued discussions. The plan fell through when Francois Mitterrand defeated Giscard d'Estaing in the French presidential election in May, the magazine says.

3 Doctors Arrested

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Two doctors were arrested on charges of interfering with paramedics treating a heart attack victim at a hotel, officials say. The doctors say they were roughed up by police.

Arrested Saturday night were Dr. Leslie Schoenfield, director of gastroenterology and research at Los Angeles' Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, and Dr. Peter Barret, a physician at St. Mary's Medical Center in Long Beach. Both were attending a doctors' convention.

Schoenfield, whose wife, Connie, also was arrested, says he was placed in a choke hold by police and jammed in the groin. Barret claimed his left arm was nearly pulled out of its socket during the arrest.

Anti Nuke Demonstration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 2,000 demonstrators, mostly youthful, marched past the Pentagon's main entrances today waving banners and chanting anti-nuclear slogans.

The demonstration was organized by a group calling itself The Women's Pentagon Action.

The Federal Protective Service, a civilian government police force, screened the entrances with officers under orders to block any attempts to enter the building.

Members of the demonstrating group said they had no intention of staging any violent actions.

After the march-past, the demonstrators gathered on a grassy parade ground in front of the Pentagon's river entrance, below Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's office. It was not known whether Weinberger had watched the demonstrators gather.

Grocery Clerk Killed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The wife of an all-night grocery clerk killed by a shotgun blast says her husband had been worried about being robbed.

Jerry L. Burdick, 39, a father of seven children, worked alone on the 11 p.m. to 7 p.m. shift. He was fatally wounded early Sunday and four robbers escaped with $50, police reported.

Mrs. Burdick said her husband had expressed concern about being robbed "especially since he was working alone," because another employee had been robbed at the store several weeks ago.

Two customers found the recently retired Air Force master sergeant lying on the flood behind the counter about 5 a.m. Sunday.

Huddleston, Falls Elected To Board

Billy Huddleston and Pat Falls will be new members on the Scurry County Appraisal District's Board of Directors.

County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth this morning announced results of the election to name board members of the next two years.

Re-elected were Ross Blanchard, Pete Hester and Kenneth Wilson. Huddleston and Falls will succeed John Reed and Bill Hairston, both of whom requested that they not be nominated for another term.

Voting in the election were the governing bodies of Scurry County, the City of Snyder and the school districts of Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira. The number of votes allowed each entity was determined by the amount of taxes it levied.

Snyder Independent School District, which had 2,848 votes, cast 712 votes each for Blanchard, Falls, Hester and Wilson. Scurry County Commissioners cast 835 votes for Huddleston and 714 votes for Hester, while the Snyder City Council, with 303 votes, cast 60.6 votes each for Blanchard, Falls, Mike Graves, Hester and Wilson; the Ira School Board, with 220 votes, cast 44 votes each for Blanchard, Falls, Graves, Hester and Wilson, and the Hermleigh School Board, with 80 votes, cast 16 votes each for Blanchard, Falls, Graves, Hester and Wilson.

The vote totals gave Hester 1546.6, Huddleston 835, Blanchard 832.6, Falls 832.6, Wilson 832.6 and Graves 120.6.

48 Killed In Mexico Disaster

MERIDA, MEXICO, (AP) — Part of an old concrete wall surrounding a bullring caved in, collapsing the wooden stands in front of it and killing at least 48 people at a political rally, a Red Cross spokesman reported.

A Red Cross official said 49 people were reported injured and taken to five hospitals. Some of the injuries were said to be serious.

The stadium was three-fourths filled by about 15,000 people attending the closing rally late Sunday afternoon of Gen. Graciliano Puce Pinzon's campaign for governor of Yucatan State. The wall collapsed as the general was speaking, the Red Cross man said in a telephone interview.

"We do not know yet what caused the wall to collapse," he said, "but we have a report that both the police and the district attorney's office have started an investigation."

The duty officer at the central police headquarters confirmed that a "serious mishap" occurred but said he could give no information until later today.

The Yucatan Peninsula in southeast Mexico separates the Caribbean from the Gulf of Mexico.

Prospective Agent Visits

Scurry County Commissioners this morning met briefly with Bill Gunter, district extension agent from Lubbock, and a prospective new county extension agent for home economics.

The home economics agent's post here has been vacant since Linda Haygood resigned in September.

The applicant for the post is Mary Lou Roland of Dallas, a former Nolan County extension agent and a native of Fisher County.

Power Costs Hike CRMWD's Budget

If energy costs were static, the Colorado River Municipal Water District would have the same budget in 1982 as for this year.

But that "if" is so wide of the mark that the CRMWD budget approved by directors will be $9,965,317, an increase of $1,837,481, or 22.61 percent.

Estimated energy costs for the year will be $4,967,646, an increase of $1,835,253, or a whopping 58.59 percent. Electric power costs constitute 49.85 percent of the total budget and 71.92 percent of the operation budget.

Most other expenditures show modest gains and the saving feature of the budget is the $802,892 earnings of district funds, an increase of $123,319 over the current year. These earnings will be subtracted from the $3,861,580 gross debt service expenditure (which, incidentally, is $28,200 less than for this year), yielding an effective debt service cost of $3,058,688. Of this, $2,475,000 is for repaying principal.

One of the chief items of expense, outside of energy, is that of payroll, which is budgeted for $1,097,672, a gain of 9.7 percent.

Administrative and general expense is pegged at $531,944 in the 1982 budget, an increase of $34,604, or 6.96 percent. Recreation expense is put at $130,157, up $32,114, or 32.75 percent, principally due to addition of a patrolman and raises.

The only other major deviations in the new budget will be an anticipated reduction of $30,585 in water royalty payments; $15,000 less for retirement because the actuary overstated the charge for this year; and $9,000 more for vehicle operation.

Not a part of the regular budget is an anticipated $175,000 in capital expenditures, a gain of $31,500 over this year. Most of this is for automotive and maintenance equipment.

The budget anticipates that $10,424,320 revenues will have to be raised in order to achieve the debt service coverage of 1.15. Prime revenues (water sales) will not be determined finally until the rate-setting meeting in January.

Chamber To Count Votes At Session

Results of a directors' election are to be tabulated and a 1982 budget will be discussed at a meeting Tuesday of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Board.

Four places are to be filled in the chamber's annual directors' election. Ballots were mailed earlier to members.

Terms expiring are those now held by Roy McQueen, Joe Jackson, David Thompson and E. W. McCants. Thompson, who was appointed several weeks ago to fill the vacancy created when Joe Flack moved from Snyder, has been nominated for a full term on the board. McCants also has moved, but his post has not been filled.

In addition to Thompson, manager of Thompson's Shoes, nominees are Wedge Turner, local manager for Lone Star Gas Co.; Phil Guerry, president of First National Bank, and Troy Williamson, manager of Williamson Auto Supply.

Also on the agenda are reports on chamber activities.

Ask Us

Q.—Everywhere I go, I see people parked in the handicapped parking areas that are not handicapped. Do the police give tickets for this, and if not, why not?

A.—Police would have no authority to issue parking tickets, unless the parking-for-handicapped designation was set by city ordinance or state law. Shopping centers with off-street parking often designate parking for the handicapped and those large enough to have their own security force may enforce it, but police would not if there was no ordinance, or state law, giving them the authority to do so, says Police Chief Bill Stone.

United Way Reports Due

The Scurry County United Way has scheduled another campaign report session for Tuesday morning.

Workers in the campaign have been asked to get their reports in as quickly as possible. The report session is set for 10 a. m. in the council room at city hall.

Campaign leaders had hoped to complete the drive last week, but extended it for another since it had reached only 72 percent of its goal.

Olympic Film Shows Tonight

The public is invited to see a 50-minute color film of opening ceremonies of the 1980 Olympics tonight at Western Texas College.

The film will be shown at 7 p. m. in the WTC science lecture hall. The film was brought here by James W. Greene, Snyder native who now lives in San Francisco. Greene is hospitality chairman for the National Amateur Athletic Union, and this will be the first time for the film to be show outside the San Francisco area. There will be no admission charge.

School Board Sets Session

Snyder School Trustees have scheduled a special session tonight to discuss details of personnel contracts in accordance with Senate Bill 341.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

The board approved a revision of its contract policy at its regular meeting Nov. 10, and tonight's session will deal with reasons for non-renewal of contracts.

To Determine Agent Orange Defects...

Texas Scientists To Make Tests

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas scientists soon will be examining the sperm of veterans who fathered defective children to see if exposure to Agent Orange in Vietnam was to blame.

A program created by the Legislature to seek answers to the question of whether Agent Orange caused genetic defects, cancer and other illnesses is getting off the ground.

Robert Nimmo, chief of the Veterans Administration, said in July that no medical evidence links Agent Orange to any health problem other than an acne-like skin disease.

"The sperm studies are intended to see if chromosome breakage was related to the birth of children born with defects," said Dr. George Anderson, who heads the Texas Health Department's new Agent Orange program.

Anderson said an estimated 23,000 Texas veterans were exposed to Agent Orange and other chemical defoliants and herbicides while in Vietnam.

"It's a momentous problem," he said.

The department published rules and questionnaires for the program in the Texas Register Nov. 10 and is expected to put them into effect in January after a period for public comment.

"Right now we are very pleased with them ... The only problem is there is not enough money to do what the the bill proposes to do," said Donna Jordan, a co-organizer of the Brotherhood of Vietnam Veterans, which initiated the Agent Orange bill.

The Legislature appropriated $500,000 for the first two years of the program, and Anderson said it will cost $2,000 for a fat biopsy and genetic screening of one veteran.

Fat biopsies are intended to show whether dioxin, an Agent Orange contaminant blamed for cancer, liver ailments and birth defects, remains in a veteran's body years after coming home from the Vietnam War.

Mrs. Jordan said Dr. Robert Bernstein, a former Army Medical Corps general who heads the health department, has "been more than helpful" in moving the Agent Orange program from legislative good intentions to reality.

Bernstein last month said the Veterans Administration had destroyed its credibility by failing to provide information on Agent Orange.

The VA recently announced it will gather statistics on illnesses and birth defects blamed on the chemical defoliant that was widely used in Vietnam.

Anderson, who was in Vietnam briefly as an Air Force medical officer during the evacuation of wounded from the Tet offensive in 1968, said the Texas study will probe deeper than the VA's.

"The federal studies don't include genetic screening and fat biopsies," he said.

In the state's program, the health department will gather data identifying veterans with problems and the University of Texas' medical schools will do the biopsies, sperm studies and genetic counseling.

Linda Mencin, aide to Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, sponsor of the Agent Orange bill, said some UT medical people were lukewarm at first but now seem enthusiastic.

"At our last meeting they sounded pretty excited at the prospect of doing something of national and international importance. There hasn't been much genetic research on this," said Ms. Mencin.

It will be up to veterans who think their illnesses or their children's birth defects were caused by Agent Orange to identify themselves. The first step will be a trip to a doctor, who will submit a report, which the veteran also must sign, to the department.

The doctor's report will list the veteran's symptoms as well as the physician's diagnosis and treatment of them.

After receiving the initial report from a doctor, the department will send the veteran a three-page questionnaire asking about his military assignment, dates and places of exposure to chemical defoliants, symptoms at the time of exposure and symptoms that developed later.

The questionnaire also asks about exposure to agricultural and industrial chemicals as a civilian and about cancer cases in the veteran's family.

"We need to know the full spectrum of exposure to chemicals rather than orient just to some of them," Anderson said.

The department will correlate the data and furnish yearly reports to the governor and the Legislature.

Anderson said only some of the veterans who send in questionnaires will be asked to submit to fat biopsies and genetic testing.

"We will have to ferret out those with known high exposure and medical problems that could have resulted from it," he said.

The Agent Orange bill directs the attorney general to sue when necessary to obtain military records of veterans who claim Agent Orange exposure.

But Anderson says the VA has been "very cooperative" and can be expected to furnish records "except in specific cases where the veteran was on a highly classified mission."

"I don't anticipate that big a problem. The VA is very sensitive to the fact that they have lost a certain credibility with veterans and want to get out of that hole," he said.

Girl Recovering After Transplant

The father of a 2½-year old girl whose diseased liver was replaced in a lengthy weekend operation says he hopes the parents of the donor can feel "some relief" from his daughter's survival.

Lauren Toohey was recovering satisfactorily today following nine hours of surgery to replace her cancerous liver with that of a 4-year-old boy who died of meningitis Friday night, officials said.

Doctors had said the blue-eyed, brown-haired girl would die by Christmas if she did not receive a transplant.

A Children's Hospital nursing supervisor said Sunday night the youngster had improved to serious but stable condition in the intensive care unit. She had been in critical condition after the delicate operation Saturday.

Doctors said if all goes well, the child could be removed from intensive care today, and could be taking a few steps by the end of the week. She would remain hospitalized about three weeks.

Her father, Joseph Toohey of Kinnelon, N.J., had launched an appeal for a donor last summer, and subsequent news coverage was credited with aiding in the search. Beth Israel Hospital in Newark, N.J., coordinated the effort, but the patient's age complicated the search.

Lauren was flown here Friday night after a Wisconsin pediatrician who had seen news stories about her plight notified officials of the potential donor, young Robert Mayberry of Kenosha, Wis.

Dr. Thomas Starzl, a transplant specialist at the University of Pittsburgh, performed the operation.

Toohey, a math teacher, said he was thankful that a donor was found and extended his sympathy to the parents of the youth.

"My wife and I are very grateful for their generosity," he said. "I hope this opportunity gives them some relief, although I realize it can't compensate for the loss of their child."

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP—Beverly Duff Wood, former Snyder High School student, who is now enrolled as a freshman at Howard College in Big Spring, has been awarded a $100 scholarship from the National Guild of Piano Teachers. The scholarship was made possible by Frank Sanucci, a concert pianist and recording artist, after Mrs. Wood earned the Paderewski Gold Medal by playing national programs in Piano Guild Auditions for 10 years. She is working toward a music education degree in piano.

Elks Lodges are more or less significant depending on where you are.

In some towns the Elks Lodge is a hangout for a handful, accomplishing almost nothing.

In some towns the Elks Lodge is the busy epicenter of social activity and a vigorous contributor to philanthropy.

If the 2,260 Elks Lodges ever mobilized themselves to work toward a common objective, they could move mountains.

They're going to try.

President and Mrs. Reagan have been urging a revival of "volunteerism."

The earliest Americans volunteered to stand guard against Indian attack.

They volunteered, as Minutemen, to man the ramparts.

When Ben Franklin suggested the need for organized firefighters, Americans volunteered.

Church members volunteered to feed anybody hungry.

Early farmers volunteered to help neighbors build barns.

It's only in our lifetime that politicians promised and government took over these chores for which our fathers and mothers used to volunteer.

Until the suffocating cost of Big Government became unbearable.

And now our President is urging a return to Volunteerism.

And the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks—Ray Arnold of Jackson, Mich.—has volunteered himself and 1.6 million brother Elks to "volunteer."

Elks have a head start. Last year this fraternal order contributed some $20 million and 3.5 million volunteer hours to charity.

This year the Pennsylvania State Association of Elks increased its contributions of money and time another 25 percent.

Washington State Elks volunteered substantial increases for occupational therapy for handicapped children.

Elks in Massachusetts and Alaska, North Carolina and New York, Oregon and Minnesota increased charitable contributions.

Ray Arnold is traveling other states, mobilizing time and money for veterans, youth activities, community projects...

Picking up where goverment is leaving off in what the bureaucrats like to call "private sector initiatives."

"We're not enough," says Arnold, "but somebody has to get it started."

One member of the Elks, Garner Shipley of Martinsburg, W. Va., has donated 10,000 hours of volunteer time to VA hospitals.

Multiply him by enough—and the jobs Uncle Sam has been hiring done will get done the way they used to.

The Elks have volunteered to volunteer; who's next?

Whatever You Call Slaw, It's Different

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Should cabbage salad be called coldslaw, coleslaw or slaw? An interesting new recipe for this old familiar would be appreciated. — BE CORRECT.

DEAR BE CORRECT: According to Webster, cabbage salad may be called coldslaw, coleslaw or slaw. The following recipe is fine to use at this time of year when those good fresh Bartlett pears are still with us. — C. B.

PEAR HAM SLAW

6 to 8 ounces sliced ham, cut in thin strips
1 cup thinly shredded green cabbage
1 small cucumber, pared and thinly sliced
¼ cup thinly sliced celery
Vinaigrette, recipe follows
1 fresh Barlett pear, cored and sliced

Toss the ham, cabbage, cucumber and celery with enough of the Vinaigrette to suit your own taste. Arrange in a shallow bowl. Surround with the pear slices. Spoon the remaining Vinaigrette over the pears.

VINAIGRETTE

3 tablespoons vegetable oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon celery seed
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Beat or shake together the oil, vinegar, salt, sugar, celery seed and pepper. Makes about ½ cup.

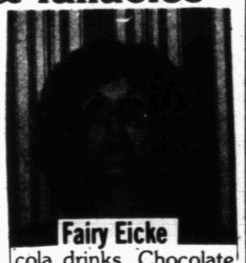

PEAR HAM SLAW—Fresh fruit helps to vary an old-time salad.

Lately, the dangers of caffeine are showing up, and it has been termed a definite "no-no" for pregnant women. Caffeine also has a more concentrated effect on children because of less body weight. It is thought that caffeine may be a factor in heart disease and noncancerous breast lumps. Consequently, heavy caffeine users are being advised to cut down.

Where does that leave the remainder of people who are "occasional or average users?" Possibly, misinformed! Caffeine intake is not only figured from the number of cups of coffee, tea or cans of cola drinks. Chocolate products, many over-the-counter cold and allergy medications, along with some orange, apple and other flavored drinks, are all "hidden" sources of caffeine.

Diet Center recommends when products are bought that the label be examined closely—not only for nutritional information, but also for possible caffeine content. Check with your local Diet Center for more healthful, nutritional ideas.

"The Contract"

Suspenseful Thriller

THE CONTRACT. By Gerald Seymour. Holt, Rinehart & Winston. 304 Pages. $13.95.

Any attempt to escape through the Iron Curtain to the Western World is sure-fire for a thriller, and Gerald Seymour's tale of a bid to breach the barricade that separates the two Germanys is particularly suspenseful.

The plot deals with a daring plan by British intelligence to send someone into East Germany and bring out a Soviet missile expert.

The man given this perilous assignment is Johnny Donoghue, a former British army intelligence officer, who has nothing to lose and everything to gain. His career came to an abrupt end when he mistakenly shot and killed a teen-age girl while on duty in Northern Ireland. If he brings off this coup, Johnny will remove the disgrace from his record and score a resounding triumph for British intelligence.

Johnny knows the assignment will not be easy, but he soon discovers it is more difficult than he imagined. The aged German-born scientist he contacts is reluctant to join him in the escape and to make things more complex, Johnny must also bring out his daughter.

The story is fast-paced and holds the interest, but when the reader pauses to think he may find flaws. For one thing, the East German military and intelligence figures seem too evil to be credible.

In general the book is convincing and effective, however. Especially striking is Johnny's realization that many people living behind the Iron Curtain, whether they be captive scientists or youngsters who have never known anything else, are not necessarily eager to escape to the West. They may hate Red rule but they are not certain they will find peace and security on the other side. TomHoge Associated-Press

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Alan: "Didn't you invent the weak jump overcall for use in the Culbertson-Lenz match back in 1931 or 1932?"

Oswald: "It was 1931. The bid was called 'Psychic' then because in theory all single jump overcalls were very strong bids. Of course, it wasn't psychic since all players at the table were aware of what my weak jump overcalls were."

Alan: "Did you ever try one with just a five card suit?"

Oswald: "Never. It was almost always a six carder if made at the two level and a seven carder if made at the three level."

Alan: "Then you would have simply passed with this South hand?"

Oswald: "Yes. Not only is it the sort of hand that has practically no declarer's advantage, but with two jacks it may produce tricks on defense."

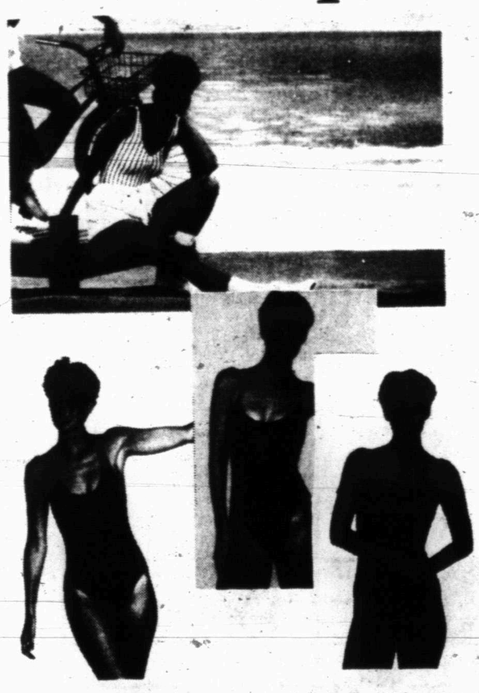

Alan: "I opened one diamond with the East hand in a recent match point game. South stuck in a two spade bid. North continued the preempting with four spades. I doubled."

Oswald: "You had no trouble taking two tricks in each side suit and a diamond ruff for plus 700."

Alan: "No trouble at all. It was an absolute top since we just couldn't bring home a slam anywhere."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

New Blood Renews Old Traditions

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago you ran an article about a woman who never cooked her own Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner. Instead, she went to her mother's or her mother-in-law's. She wrote to say that she wishes now that she had done her own holiday dinners.

That letter was terrific. If you could publish it again, it would be a great help to a lot of people.

I am a grandmother who wishes my married children would cook their own holiday dinners and invite me as a guest!

PAID MY DUES

DEAR PAID: It wasn't hard to find, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, and around holiday time someone always asks, "Should we go to his mother's or to my mother's for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner?" Your answer has always been: "Why not alternate?"

Abby, my husband and I struggled with that problem for years. We resolved it according to your suggestion. Both sets of parents lived nearby, and it seemed the only fair thing to do. So, for 22 years, we spent Thanksgiving and Christmas in their homes instead of our own.

It never dawned on us until this year — now that our children are ready to strike out on their own — that we never developed our own holiday traditions. We always went to Grandma's for the holidays. She insisted on doing all the cooking herself, then complained for months about how much work it was and how tired she got. When we, her daughters and daughters-in-law, asked if we could bring something for dinner, she wouldn't hear of it. When we brought food without asking her, she refused to serve it, so we finally gave up.

I realize now what a high price I've paid over the years for peace in the family. I wish I hadn't.

Abby, please urge young marrieds to dare to have their own holiday celebrations in their own homes. Suggest that they invite their parents and grandparents, who might even be relieved to be finally free of the burden of entertaining three generations.

DOING MY OWN THING

DEAR DOING: Thank you for an excellent letter. Perhaps it will inspire others to do their own thing, too.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that I see only Planned Parenthood mentioned in your column? Why don't you ever mention natural family planning? It is the only method of birth control that has no bad side effects.

Please be fair and answer this in your column.

FOR NATURAL FAMILY PLANNING

DEAR FOR: In order for the natural family planning method to be absolutely foolproof, the couple must recognize indicators of fertility, chart their symptoms and abstain from all marital relations during the fertile phase of the cycle.

Very few women are able to calculate their "safe" periods reliably. Women who miscalculate are called "mothers."

• • •

DEAR ABBY: This is no joke, so please give us a serious answer. Our son is a "Junior," named for his father. He is 35 years old, married and divorced twice, the father of four legitimate children, and three (that we know about) who aren't legitimate. He has made a mess out of his life and has given us plenty of headaches.

Needless to say, our son's reputation is terrible and his credit is lousy. His creditors are always getting my husband mixed up with him because his name is the same and he doesn't always add the "Jr."

My husband would like to change his own name for this reason. Can it be done?

NAMELESS, NATURALLY

DEAR NAMELESS: Yes. He may change his name as long as his intent is not to defraud.

Paisley Ignores Call For Calm

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Rev. Ian Paisley rejected the British government's plea for calm and called for a mass anti-government demonstration in response to the slaying by the IRA of a fellow Protestant member of Parliament.

"It will be Ulster's day of action — we know who we have to deal with," said the militant Protestant leader in calling for the demonstration next Monday to protest the murder Saturday of the Rev. Robert Bradford.

Suspended For Alleged Brutality

Two Texas Officers Could Be Fired

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Two suspended police officers could be fired after city officials meet today to [illegible] the men beat two handcuffed Mexican-American teen-agers and then failed polygraph tests, officials say.

"We messed up, and we're going to get our house in order," said Assistant Police Chief Kenneth Burr. "It's as simple as that."

Veteran patrolman Jim Horrocks and Alan Patton, who has been with the department about a year, were suspended without pay Friday in connection with the Sept. 26 incident. Neither could be reached for comment.

"The police chief, the assistant chief and I are going to get together Monday, and at that time we'll decide what, if any, disciplinary action we'll take," said City Manager Ted Willis, who added the officers could be fired. "We take these things very seriously."

The FBI is investigating whether the officers violated the youths' civil rights during the incident, which occured at a car wash and the city police station, Willis said Saturday.

"The officers submitted false accounts of what happened..." Burr said. "They were involved, and did assault the two juveniles. They used more force than was necessary" to make the arrest.

Willis said he ordered an internal investigation after the youths filed complaints of police brutality on Oct. 1.

He said both officers failed polygraph tests when they denied using excessive force against Ricky Diaz, 16, and Chris Gomez, 15, both of Grand Prairie, between Dallas and Fort Worth. Diaz received a broken nose and several chipped teeth in the incident, Willis said.

Diaz, Gomez and a jailer who verified their charges all passed polygraph tests, he added.

Mayor Pro Tem Phil Duncan said all bookings in Grand Prairie Jail are videotaped and "I believe a portion of this occurred in the booking area and it was (videotaped)."

A sergeant who was absent when the incident occurred and a patrolman who was present also may face disciplinary action, said Willis, who declined to elaborate on the other officers' involvement.

The youths charged that the officers punched them several times after they were arrested and handcuffed about 2 a.m. Sept. 26 while cleaning Diaz's car at a Grand Prairie carwash.

Patton told investigators he saw the teen-agers drinking beer, but both youths deny that allegation.

Gomez said that after he was handcuffed, an officer held him by the hair while Patton punched him in the face, knocking him down and giving him a bloody nose. While he was being led into police headquarters, Gomez said, he was punched in the stomach by Horrocks.

Diaz said he tried to read Horrocks' badge number, but the officer threw him against the wall and punched him twice in the face, chipping several teeth.

Shuttle's Home Rising At West Coast Base

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The military's dream of an orbiting space laboratory is at last coming to life here amid scraggly clumps of desert brush in a $2 billion facility that will be the space shuttle's West Coast home.

Parts of the complex were built more than a decade ago in the arid, rolling hills along the Pacific Ocean. But now it is being remodeled and expanded as a second launch pad for the shuttle, a site from which the reusable ship could be sent off in different directions than from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

To welcome the shuttle home from those flights, the Air Force is adding 7,000 feet to its 8,000-foot runway on this sprawling spaceand missile-oriented base 165 miles north of Los Angeles.

In 1985, if construction and funding go as planned, the shuttle Discovery, now in early stages of construction, will be the first orbiter to be launched here, said Lt. Col. Aubrey Sloan, deputy commander of Vandenberg's Shuttle Test Group.

Sloan said the site, though on military property and under military control, will handle both civilian flights and military ones, the latter to be known as "blue shuttle." Both types of flights will also originate from Cape Canaveral.

Vandenberg was chosen as the second shuttle site because its location allows the ship to be lofted over water and into a polar orbit. Launches from Cape Canaveral send the spacecraft into an equatorial orbit.

Because the shuttle dumps its booster rockets shortly after liftoff, a coastal launch site helps ensure the boosters don't fall on people or property. On the West Coast, Sloan said, "the solid rocket boosters will fall off about 160 miles south of us," where they will be retrieved and towed to the Navy base at Port Hueneme and reused.

The Vandenberg complex will cost more than $2 billion to build and, when completed, it will handle 10 shuttle missions a year — roughly a third of the expected launches, he said.

About 400 military and government workers and 4,000 contractor employees are working at Space Launch Complex 6, known on the base as "Slick Six."

The facility was originally built for the military's Manned Orbital laboratory, a program canceled in 1969 before the site was ever used. The 30-story gantry — a metal building shaped like an upside-down "L" — stood deserted until the Air Force decided in 1975 that $100 million could be saved by remodeling.

Mubarak Has Few Economic Plans

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak has tackled Egypt's most difficult problem — the economy — during his first month in office. But so far he has proposed few specific remedies.

Answering critics who charged that Anwar Sadat's economic programs benefited a chosen elite only, the former vice president told the National Assembly in his first major policy speech:

"Egypt is not a society of a privileged minority which monopolizes influence and good....

"Our first responsibility is to build the Egyptian economy on a sound basis in order to be able to realize the ambitious aims on which we have all agreed so that Egypt may invest her resources and enjoy the stability required for sound economic growth."

After years of isolation, Sadat's opening to the West in 1974 brought a deluge of consumer goods. But the store windows were a dream world for most Egyptians who earn little more than $50 a month.

In what one Western economic expert called a "positive and refreshing change of emphasis," Mubarak proposed a national dialogue on economic problems. He said these included:

— Subsidies totaling $1.5 billion this year to keep down retail prices of food and basic commodities. The cost rises steadily as import prices increase.

— A housing shortage that gets steadily worse as the population increases by more than a million people every year.

— Foreign investment, which he said should be redirected to meet basic needs of the people.

— The huge bureaucracy which he said must be reformed.

He cautiously proposed that subsidies be made available only to those who need them. Several schemes have been discussed in the government-controlled press, including food coupons, increasing salaries or a two-tier pricing system.

Although U.S. aid in the wake of the Camp David peace treaties amounts to more than $1 billion a year, private investment was only a disappointing $400 million last year.

Frank Serpico Fights Unwanted Parenthood

NEW YORK (AP) — Former policeman Frank Serpico is described as a cold-hearted cad by the woman accused of plotting to make him a father. When his feminist lawyer tells it, Serpico shines as an advocate of sexual equality.

At age 45, the man whose expose of corruption in the New York City Police Department became a best seller and a hit movie is involved in a court battle over the right of men to avoid unwanted parenthood.

Serpico, who retired from the force in 1971 and moved to Europe, claims he should not have to pay support for the child he fathered because he was used as "a sperm bank" by a lover who lied about taking birth control pills.

"I don't care if people call me a cad," Serpico said in a telephone interview. "There are a lot of women who get left in the lurch, but this is not one of those cases."

A Family Court hearing resumes Friday to determine whether a flight attendant identified only as "Pamela P.," the mother of Serpico's 18-month-old out-of-wedlock son, is financially able to support the child alone.

Judge Nanette Dembitz ruled Oct. 1 that testimony showed Serpico was tricked into fatherhood, and that Pamela therefore did not have an inalienable right to child support. But the judge said Serpico might have to pay some support if it is proven the child is suffering financially.

If the judge rules he must pay, Serpico said he might appeal — or he might refuse to comply with the judge's order. "I'm willing to go to jail if I have to for my principles," he said.

Serpico's lawyers include feminist Karen DeCrow, a former president of the National Organization for Women, who has long advocated equality for men as well as women.

Ms. DeCrow said that because of Supreme Court rulings allowing abortion, "Women have the right to choose parenthood. That right has never been extended to men until this case."

The ruling that might let men off the financial hook if they are tricked into fathering a child would not apply in cases where a couple used a birth control method that failed, said Alan Levine, Ms. DeCrow's co-counsel. "The decision is rather narrow," said Levine. "It applies in those circumstances where deceit can be proved."

Pamela lived with Serpico in Switzerland in 1973 and 1974 and after that saw him about once a year, the judge said.

Serpico's lawyers said that on the night the child was conceived in 1979, Pamela told him she was "on the pill." Pamela conceded in court that she was in her most fertile phase when the conception took place, but said there was no discussion of birth control.

One witness testified that he broke up with Pamela several months before the child was conceived because she wanted him to father a child out of wedlock. When he refused, he said, she told him she would have Serpico father her child, whether he chose to or not.

The court found that blood tests indicated Serpico fathered the baby, who was born March 15, 1980. Serpico has conceded only that he might be the father.

"If he showed up at my door one day, I'd treat him just like any other child," said Serpico. "I would say, 'What do you need? Are you hungry?' In Europe, I had little children coming to my farm just to talk."

In a telephone interview, Pamela denied the allegation "that there was premeditation in this pregnancy, deceit and fraud. None of this existed."

Responding to Ms. DeCrow's assertion that the case promotes male equality, Pamela said, "Where's the equality? He walks away. I thought this man (Serpico) had some shred of decency. I'm extremely embarrassed that he is the father of my son."

Serpico maintains that Pamela and the baby "are not in a poverty situation...One of the reasons I broke it off with her in Switzerland is because she wanted to live like I was a Hollywood star or something."

Pamela said she is seeking child support because "I'm not a wealthy woman. It's not for me — I'm not asking for palimony," she said. "I'm not asking him to empty out his pockets to me or become a pauper."

"I've been offered money by some publications to have (the baby) photographed, but I'm very protective of him. I'm not going to parade him in the press."

The case has made waves among feminists.

Ms. DeCrow has received "an enormous favorable response from feminist lawyers...who are thrilled with the forward-thinking decision."

But others are not as pleased.

"If he (Serpico) were that opposed to having children, he could have said 'no' or chosen to be sterilized," said Marjory Fields, co-chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Domestic Violence.

"There is always a danger of conception," said Ms. Fields. "This case is almost a classic anti-woman presentation: that women seduce and entrap men with their feminine wiles."

Ms. DeCrow said some women "need to always believe that the man is the villain. In this case, the man is the victim."

Despite the image many people have of him, "Frank Serpico is absolutely not macho," she said. "He is a kind, gentle, sensitive person who espouses many ideas about equality between the sexes."

But answered Pamela's lawyer, Stephen Harnick: "If he were so sensitive and concerned about the possibility of conception, there are a half dozen things he could have done, including abstained."

Texas Democrats...

Not Happy With Proposed Changes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Democrats are not too happy with some of the suggested changes in national Democratic Party rules but feel they can live with most of the proposals.

"The major thing we are interested in is shortening of the presidential election process," said State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle. "It is too damn long now. We think New Hampshire should move their primary back closer to the election rather than us move ours up closer to New Hampshire's."

The primary and caucus season for choosing delegates to the national Democratic convention now stretches from January to June. The party's Commission on Presidential Nominations is now considering shortening the period for delegate selections.

The national Democratic committee likely will make the changes permanent at its mid-January meeting. The proposal is a sure subject of discussion when the State Democratic Executive Committee meets Dec. 5, either in Austin or San Antonio.

"We agree with our sister states that we do not need regional primaries and we do not want any split-day primaries (one for naming presidential selection delegates and one for state and local delegates)," Slagle said. "We think the convention should not be over before we get there. ... In 1980, if we could have picked a compromise candidate it might have been better than choosing between Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy."

Slagle says he understands the national commission has agreed that no more than 60 percent of a state's delegates to national conventions can be named in presidential primaries.

"Most of us do not want delegates named in a primary, but a lot of people do and 60 percent is a lot more palatable than 100 percent," Slagle said.

The national commission also has indicated it is likely to change the old rule that once a delegate pledges to a presidential candidate, he must stay pledged.

"In Texas, most of the opposition is to having the delegates bound," Slagle said. "We think the convention should not be over before we get there. ... In 1980, if we could have picked a compromise candidate it might have been better than choosing between Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy."

The "faithful delegate" rule was imposed in 1980 by supporters of Carter to keep Carter delegates from defecting to his chief rival, Kennedy. The rule grew into a party split that some blame for the Democrats' poor showing in the general election.

Another point of disagreement is giving elected officials guaranteed spots on a state's delegation. Some proposals would automatically add all congressmen.

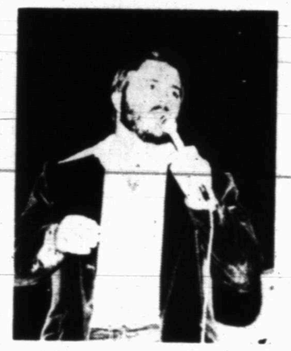

"We just don't think congressmen represent the party in every instance," Slagle said. "We would reluctantly go along with letting a certain percentage of congressmen be delegates if they are picked in House and Senate party caucuses. We sure don't want two-thirds of all congressmen or not even as much as half automatically added."

At a recent session of the national rules commission, one member raised the problem of Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, "on the floor of the convention organizing a Reagan caucus. Gramm has supported Reagan's economic program in opposition to Democratic leaders.

Another proposed rule change by the national commission would require that half of the national delegates be women, to coincide with population figures.

"Our people generally prefer the rule we have in Texas that one-third of the delegates must be women," Slagle said, "but we would not argue if they want to make it one-half for the national convention. We've been trying to get away from the percentage quotas and this just gets back to it."

National party leaders estimate there will be about 4,000 delegates to the 1984 convention, compared to the 3,331 delegates to the 1980 convention and 3,008 in 1976. Texas would have about 150 delegates, he said.

Food can cause headaches

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about migraine headaches. Since the lady in question was on a high protein diet for seven years, it is quite likely that she may have included considerable cheese in her meals. Aged cheeses may cause migraines and you might want to pass on that information to her. People who have migraines because of eating cheese may be completely cured if they will stop using cheese.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your helpful suggestion. Yes, aged cheese can cause migraine headaches in some people. It contains a substance called tyramine which has almost an adrenaline-like action in the body.

The tyramine comes from the bacterial fermentation of the cheese, which is why it is found in cured cheese — as opposed to fresh cottage cheese. Cheddar cheese is a good example of a cheese rich in tyramine. The tyramine comes from one of the natural amino acids, tyrosine, found in the complete protein of cheese.

You are kind to worry about whether the lady found this out or not, but she did. The Health Letter number 16-12, Headaches and What to Do About Them, which I sent her contained that information. I'm sending you a copy and other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. The Health Letters are provided to give such additional information that space does not permit in the column.

Cured cheese with tyramine may also cause a sharp rise in blood pressure in some people taking antidepressants. Tyramine, with the same effects, is found in a number of foods and beverages aged to improve their flavor. To avoid tyramine precipitated migraine a person needs to eliminate sour cream, Chianti wine, sherry, beer, pickled herring, liver, canned figs, raisins, bananas, avocados (particularly if overripe), chocolate, soy sauce, pods of broad beans, yeast extracts or meat tenderizers. People taking antidepressant medicines should avoid all of these unless specifically told otherwise by their doctor.

Other foods that may cause headaches in migraine patients include sodium nitrate in cured meats and monosodium glutamate, commonly used in Chinese cooking.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you please settle a long-standing argument between my sister-in-law and me? She believes that shaving off hair causes it to grow in thicker. I think that although the hair feels prickly when it grows back there are no new hairs that grew as a result of shaving. It won't be too long before her daughters will be asking to shave their legs and underarms. I'd like the matter settled for their sake.

DEAR READER — It has been well established that shaving does not increase the number of hair shafts or make hair thicker. Each hair shaft grows from a single hair follicle deep within the skin where it is not touched by shaving. It is like the bulb of an onion in the ground and each "bulb" only grows one hair shaft above the surface of the skin.

The stubble after shaving feels stiff and hard the same as a freshly mowed meadow provides a stubble. As the shaft grows out its length is softer. But the bottom line is that shaving does not stimulate hair growth.

SURPRISE--One day last week Charles Anderson, principal at Central Elementary, was gone for a day. When he returned he found his office papered with pictures of himself which students had kindly drawn. Since a picture of the principal was not included in the hall portraits, students thought of this solution. Judge Backs Premarital Agreement

BOSTON (AP) — A premarital agreement that cut a husband out of his wealthy wife's estate if the couple divorced is valid, the state Supreme Court says.

Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey, who wrote the 22-page decision handed down Friday, said this was the first time the court has validated such an agreement.

The ruling came in dispute between two physicians — the former Barbara E. Mallinckrodt, who lives in Texas, and David P. Osborne Jr. Married in 1967, the couple divorced in 1975. The court concluded that, under the premarital agreement Osborne signed, he was not entitled to alimony or a share in a $60,000 wine collection, $225,000 in jewelry or $448,000 in art works.

George Washington gave up his commission as general and commander-in-chief of the American Continental Army in 1783.

Cowboys, Oilers Both Take It On The Chin

When the San Francisco 49ers kicked Matt Bahr off the squad a few weeks ago, they never figured he'd kick them back.

Bahr, given his walking papers by the Pittsburgh Steelers during training camp, hooked on with the 49ers early in the season when their place-kicker, Ray Wersching, was sidelined by an injury.

For four weeks, his kicking was an instrumental part of their seven-game winning streak. Then he was traded to Cleveland. And on Sunday his 24-yard field goal with 43 seconds to play ended that streak. It gave the Browns a 15-12 victory.

The loss didn't dent the 49ers' lead in the National Conference West, though. Atlanta was beaten 34-20 by Pittsburgh and Los Angeles fell 24-10 in Cincinnati. The Falcons and Rams remain three games off San Francisco's pace.

In Sunday's other games it was Denver 24, Tampa Bay 7; Minnesota 20, New Orleans 10; Philadelphia 38, Baltimore 13; Detroit 27, Dallas 24; Oakland 33, Miami 17; the New York Jets 17, New England 6; St. Louis 24, Buffalo 0; Kansas City 23, Houston 10; Green Bay 21, Chicago 17, and Washington 30, the New York Giants 27 in overtime. San Diego visits Seattle tonight.

Steelers 34, Falcons 20

Terry Bradshaw was in better than Super Bowl form. The Pittsburgh quarterback, who holds the record of four touchdown passes in a Super Bowl, threw five scoring passes against the Falcons, two to John Stallworth.

Bengals 24, Rams 10

Dan Pastorini was intercepted three times and sacked five times in his second start in Pat Haden's place for Los Angeles.

The interceptions paved the way to Pete Johnson's TD runs of 1 and 3 yards and his 3-yard scoring catch from Ken Anderson.

Broncos 24, Bucs 7

The Broncos survived the loss of quarterback Craig Morton, the NFL's passing leader, and rode Larry Canada's two TDs past the Bucs to remain one game ahead of second-place Kansas City in the AFC West.

Morton was knocked out of action with a bruised shoulder when Dave Logan sacked him shortly before halftime. Steve DeBerg took over and guided Denver to Canada's 1-yard TD run and 3-yard scoring catch. Earlier, Canada blocked a Tampa Bay punt to set up the Broncos' other touchdown.

Eagles 38, Colts 13

"I don't remember a game like this where we could do whatever we wanted on offense," said Philadelphia quarterback Ron Jaworski after he threw for 294 yards and two touchdowns and Wilbert Montgomery ran for two scores en route to handing Baltimore its 10th loss in a row.

Lions 27, Cowboys 24

Eddie Murray's 47-yard field goal on the game's final play propelled Detroit past Dallas.

The Cowboys took a 24-17 lead with 2:37 to play on a 14-yard pass from Danny White to Jay Saldi. But on the Lions' first play from scrimmage, quarterback Eric Hipple and Billy Sims teamed on an 81-yard scoring pass play that tied it 20 seconds later.

Then, after holding the Cowboys and forcing a punt, Hipple threw passes of 15 and 30 yards to David Hill to pave the way to Murray's winning kick.

Raiders 33, Dolphins 17

Marc Wilson passed to Todd Christensen, Bob Chandler and Derrick Ramsey for touchdowns as Oakland, 5-6, continued trying to avoid becoming the first defending Super Bowl champ to fall under .500 the following year since the 1968 Green Bay Packers were 6-7-1.

Chiefs 23, Oilers 10

Rookie Joe Delaney rushed for a team-record 193 yards - one more than Mike Garrett amassed in a 1967 game against the Jets - and scored a TD and Nick Lowery kicked three field goals in Kansas City's victory over Houston. Earl Campbell had 99 yards rushing for the Oilers. Ken Stabler, replacing starter John Reaves, threw a 50-yard TD pass to Kenny Burrough.

Redskins 30, Giants 27

Mark Moseley's 49-yard field goal in the rain forced overtime and his 48-yarder 3:44 into the extra period gave the Redskins their heart-stopping triumph.

Will Defend State Title ...

Tigers Regional Champs

LUBBOCK -- Snyder High School, down 14-7 in the second game of the championship match, fashioned a fantastic rally to win 17-15 and claim its second straight Region I, Class 4A volleyball crown here Saturday.

The Tigers, 33-5, attempt to weld together back-to-back state championships now as they head for the Class 4A State Volleyball Tournament in Austin this weekend.

Snyder had a relatively easy time in winning its round-one match, routing Borger's Bulldogs 15-8 and 15-4 to advance to the finals with Everman.

It appeared the defending champs would have little competition there too, as they ripped the 'Dogs 15-4 in the first game and rolled ahead 6-1 in the second.

But Everman, which had also been in playoffs before, wasn't to give in easily. Behind the serving of Karen Nace, the Bulldogs made it 6-3. Snyder's Shana Koonsman put the Tigers at 7-4, before Diana Kor came on to tie the game at 7-7.

Snyder regained the serve but lost it without scoring a point, and what happened next may be a first in recent Tiger volleyball history.

Teresa Strong, a 5-7 senior, changed the storyline of the contest with low-line, bullet-like spinning serves, that Snyder was unable to control. She delivered seven straight points for the Bulldogs, who quickly gained a 7-14 lead - just a point away from winning the second game.

But the Tigers - district champions seven straight times and deep in experience under fire - rallied back.

Strong finally lost the serve after 7-14 and Becky Harrell got a point for Snyder, 8-14. The serve changed hands again before the Kathy Northcott game the Tigers momentum with a couple of well-place serves and the game began to change again.

Northcott's serving teamed with an accelerating Snyder offense to quickly tighten up the totals. She served up six straight points as the score deadlocked at 14-14.

Everman came back to make it 14-15, but the Tigers regained possession and made it 15-15, then 16-15 as a Snyder crowd of about 75 went wild. As the Tigers went for the winning point it appeared an Everman player hit the ball into the top of the net to conclude the contest, but officials ruled otherwise.

A stunned Snyder team and fans watched as referees awarded the serve to Everman, proclaiming a Tiger player had touched the ball. But the outcome was not to change. Everman failed to turn the opportunity into points, and Snyder regained the serve and clinched the victory with its next try.

Rich served 11 points in the championship match, while Northcott had 7, Becky Harrell 5, and Koonsman, Robinson and Toni Elrod 3 each. Strong's 8 led the Bulldogs. Also serving for points were Kor with 4, Nace with 3, Kim Ethridge with 2 and Holly Hill with 1.

STATE BOUND AGAIN -- Snyder's varsity volleyball team won its second straight Region I Tournament in Lubbock last weekend and will advance to defend their 1980 state championship in Austin this weekend. Snyder To Play Waxahachie First AUSTIN -- Snyder High School's Tigers, Region I champions and defending Class 4A title holders, will play Waxahachie in round one of the 1981 4A State Volleyball Tournament, it was learned today.

Snyder and Waxahachie are slated to take the court at 3:10 Friday in Gregory Gym on the University of Texas campus. The other round-one, Class 4A game will be held at 4:20 with South San Antonio West meeting Beaumont South Park.

Finals in the class will be held at 4:20 p.m. Saturday.

Snyder has won state three times in volleyball; in 1972, 1978 and 1980. The school's 1972 squad, coached by Pam Hess, will be honored here at approximately 5:30 Saturday evening as a regular tradition.

Ticket information and scheduling of the other classes will be released later this week.

SWC Race Reaching Crucial Point Now

by The Associated Press

Four years ago Southern Methodist was in Fayetteville and the Mustangs were pelted by oranges from enthusiastic Arkansas fans.

The Razorbacks soundly whipped SMU and later went on to defeat Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

That memory burns deep this week for Coach Ron Meyer, who takes a talented, Top 10 team to the Ozarks again. Only this time SMU can win its first Southwest Conference championship since 1968.

The Mustangs can't go to the Cotton Bowl because of probation. Should they defeat Arkansas Saturday and Texas beat Baylor the Longhorns would receive the honor of being the Cotton Bowl's host team.

Should Arkansas beat SMU and Baylor upset Texas then the Razorbacks would be in high cotton.

The Mustangs, who downed Texas Tech 30-6 Saturday, are 6-1. Texas Texas is 4-1-1 in SWC play with the Baylor match and a Thanksgiving Day meeting with Texas A&M still on the cards.

Texas whipped Texas Christian 31-15 Saturday but appparently lost All-America defensive tackle Kenneth Sims for the rest of the year with a broken leg.

Tigers Cagers Open Season Tuesday

Snyder High School opens the 1981-82 basketball season tomorrow night in a four-game show at SHS Gym.

Coach Ken Housden's junior varsity girls open the series at 4 as they meet Clyde. Snyder varsity girls test Clyde at 5:30.

The girls games will be followed by two boy's games with Abilene Cooper; junior varsity at 7 and varsity at 8:30.

Snyder is to officially open its season tonight as the eighth and ninth grade girls trek to Rotan for games at 5, 6 and 7:15.

SHS's varsity girls team has been pegged as one of the top clubs in District 2-4A this year. The boys, defending 2-4A champions, were ranked fourth according to a state coaching poll.

Set For Hawk Queens Tourney...

Dusters Pound Cisco

CISCO -- Western Texas College's Dusters locked up the Cisco Classic championship here Saturday night by defeating the host Wranglerettes 78-67.

The Dusters, 5-1 on the season, were behind 33-30 at halftime, but came out in the second period and ran away with the victory. The win sets the team up for the Howard College Hawk Queens Classic in Big Spring this weekend.

"In the first half Cisco concentrated on getting down the floor on defense," said Coach Joe Cushing. "But I think we wore them down in the second half and won it pretty handily."

Cushing made a few offensive changes at halftime and his longball shooters came through to help key the win.

Dorcas Perkins' 14 points from the inside equalled Cindy Goltl's 14 from outside to lead five Duster players in double figures. Cindy Maddox also banged in 13 from a distance, while Valorie Wells hit for 11 and Vicki Teal added 10. Tracey Muehlbrad and Norma Frazier notched 8 apiece to conclude the scoring charts.

"We came out in the second half and shot 64 percent from the floor," noted the coach. "We'd been hesitant to take our shots from the outside in the first half, but Maddox and Goltl hit a few in the second half to motivate us. Dorcas hit a couple of hook shots right over the middle that got us going, too."

In the rebounding department Goltl had 7, and Frazier and Perkins 6 each. WTC also kept is amazing blocked shot figures intact, by slapping away 14 of the Wranglerettes attempts. Wells had 6 blocks while Perkins had 5. In other individual stats, Maddox and Frazier had seven assists; Goltl had 5, and Goltl and Teal had 3 steals apiece.

Peggy Taylor led the hosts with 18 points. Sherri Hill had 12 and Carolyn Cheeks added 11.

WTC will play Ranger JC in the first game of the Queen's Classic at Big Spring, 2 p.m. Thursday.

WTC 78, CJC 67

WESTERN TEXAS (78)-- Goltl 7 0 14; Maddox 6 1 13; Wells 5 1 11; Muehlbrad 4 0 8; Frazier 3 2 8; Teal 5 0 10; Perkins 5 4 14. Totals 35 8 78.

Western Texas Routs Bethany-Nazerene JV

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. -- Coach Larry Dunaway's troops seared the net for 55 second-half points to drill Bethany Nazerene junior varsity here Saturday night, 90-61 and win their third contest of the season.

The Westerners, now 3-2, play host to highly-touted Ranger Junior College 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Western Texas College Gym. Dunaway was urging crowd support for the game.

"We'd sure like to see the gym full," he said. "People will see an excellent basketball team in Ranger. It will be quite a challenge to us (the Westerners). It's a pivitol game for us it we can win because it will be the first really good, talented team we've won against. And we're going to meet a lot of good, very talented teams from here on out."

Western Texas showed its talent Saturday, both offensively and defensively. Darren Lee constructed his all-time high scoring figure at WTC with 30 points, while Derrick Grow added 23. Pete Thomas hit in double figures with 10, while Jerrold Whitmore had 9, Clarence Cephas and Dwayne Hunt had 6 each, Robbie Sumlin 4 and Keary Bolden 2.

"Pete had a real good night," Dunaway said of the 6-7 freshman. "He scored in double figures for the first time and had nine rebounds. That was with playing only about half of the game because he had four fouls in the first half."

"I'm real pleased he finally broke through because we need a big man in the lineup. We put him in as a starter for the game and he responded very well. If he can play with that type intensity and keep out of foul trouble, he'll help us more and more."

Dunaway also heaped the praise on Whitmore, whose 13 assists gives him 53 now in five games, and Grow, who hit 10 of 13 shots from the field. He added, "Darren had an excellent game too. He had 30 points, six rebounds, five steals and six assists. It was probably the best game he's played."

Thomas' nine rebounds led, while Grow had 8. WTC had 40 for the night, and only 15 turnovers.

Rodeo Team Captures Red Raider Rodeo

LUBBOCK -- Western Texas College men's rodeo team wasn't able to collect any first places in individual events here, but racked up enough second places to win the team championship at the Texas Tech NIRA Rodeo last weekend.

With 17 schools competing, WTC scored 315 points to take first place, out-distancing Eastern New Mexico by 83 points.

Sul Ross with third with 208, followed by Tarleton State University with 133.

Team members placing for Western Texas included Dave Appleton second, and James Garlick fourth in bareback. Tim Gradous finished second in saddlebronc, against 25 other riders. James Zant competed with 92 other ropers and managed second with a 9.63 time.

Larry Williams also placed for WTC, tying for second and third in bull riding. Fifty riders competed in the event.

A wrapup of the fall season had the men's team tying with Tarleton for first place at the ENMU Rodeo; winning second at Sul Ross; and taking the Texas Tech championship.

Sul Ross girl's team won their competition here, followed by NMJC and Eastern New Mexico.

The spring season begins February with the Sul Ross Rodeo in Fort Stockton. Western Texas will host a collegiate rodeo April 15-18 in Scurry County Coliseum.

Brothers Mark Rise To Affluence With Items

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Brothers Benito and Matias Montemayor celebrated their rise to affluence by buying diamond-studded watches, thoroughbred racehorses and truckloads of furniture — mostly in cash.

They settled into comfortable houses, back-to-back, in the Parkland Estates subdivision in McAllen. Doctors and lawyers were among their neighbors along the fashionable cul-de-sacs.

Then on April 28, U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents dropped in with search warrants and orders to seize one home and the contents of both houses down to a set of artificial fireplace logs.

The Montemayors, claimed DEA agents in federal court affadavits, had acquired all their personal property by running one of the country's largest brown heroin pipelines from Mexico.

Using a controversial 1978 law, the agents obtained permission from a federal magistrate to seize any property traceable to illegal drug ventures.

Code-named "Operation Cat Claw," the raid was the first under the civil statute. No criminal charges need be filed under the law.

In a test case likely to reach the U.S. Supreme Court, lawyers for the Mexican nationals go to court Monday to try to recover the property and challenge the law.

"Our problem is that the agents have usurped their power," said attorney Michael Guinan of Chicago, lawyer for the brothers.

Federal officials defend the law and a necessary tool to hurt large-scale drug dealers where it hurts — in the wallet.

Matias Montemayor currently is in the Nueces County jail in Corpus Christi on an unrelated firearms charge. He was moved there after the local sheriff feared he would try to escape from the Cameron County jail.

Benito Montemayor has been at large since October, when he and two other brothers were charged in a criminal complaint with conspiring to distribute $3 million-worth of cocaine. He had appeared in federal court in July at a pretrial hearing on the property seizure.

DEA agents claim at least five of the six Montemayor brothers are involved in the "family business" of supplying heroin to Chicago and Detroit. Manuel and Meynardo Montemayor are in custody on the cocaine charge.

Reyes Montemayor has been wanted since 1979 on narcotics charges. Robelin Montemayor is the only brother not currently charged by U.S. officials with a drug violation.

The government requested a jury trial in the property seizure case. The trial before U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela is expected to take between four to seven days.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jose Berlanga of Houson has listed 33 potential government witnesses.

Those subpoenaed include merchants from whom the Montemayors purchased more than $1 million in goods — jewelers, furniture stores, dry cleaners, Oriental rug dealers, realtors and car dealers.

According to receipts and affadavits on file, the two brothers went on shopping sprees to Chicago and Dallas. They bought $118,000 worth of furniture in Chicago, $135,000 in furnishings in Dallas and $8,975 in Oriental rugs beginning in 1978.

Among the jewelry seized was a Rolex King Midas gold watch with 1,068 diamonds set on the face and band, costing $[illegible],000. Agents also found a gold bracelet with "Matias" spelled out in 89 diamonds.

The government seized a total of 256 objects, including a Piper Navajo airplane, six cars, three trucks, two motorcycles and 10 horses.

The official case caption is, "United States versus Ten Horses."

Since the raid, all but 63 items have been returned and the family has been allowed to remain at the seized house. DEA agents must give three days' notice in writing before inspecting the residence.

A filed affadavit from DEA Agent Lex Henderson of McAllen traces the Montemayors' alleged rise from a meager existence in Mexico to the hierarchy of the drug underground.

Scientists Find Earliest Bird

PROVO, Utah (AP) — The scientist who found the world's two largest dinosaurs in a Colorado quarry says he has discovered a fossil of the world's oldest known bird in the same dig.

James Jensen, a Brigham Young University paleontologist, called the discovery of a bird's pelvis and two leg bones in the Dry Mesa area his most exciting find. Jensen discovered what was then the world's largest dinosaur in 1972 and found a bigger one in 1979.

"I've discovered a number of dinosaurs, but there was no controversy about them," he said. "For 120 years, controversy has surrounded the world's oldest bird."

The world's oldest bird has long been considered to be Archaeopteryx, a fossil about the size of a crow that was first found in a quarry in Solnhofen, Germany, in 1861.

Jensen said he and other scientists have challenged whether the Archaeopteryx was a bird, contending its bone structure is that of a dinosaur.

The German fossil had feather impressions but lacked the strong breast bone needed to support flight muscles, Jensen said.

Jensen said a femur taken from a plaster block of fossils from the Colorado quarry is that of a bird. He said bones found nearby are closer in structure to birds than of any other animal.

The German fossil and Jensen's discovery are from quarries dated to about 140 million years ago, he said. But he said the Colorado quarry might be older than the German, based on its geological formations.

Jensen has dubbed the bird that the bone came from Paleopteryx thomsoni. Paleopteryx means "ancient wing."

Band Begins Fund Raiser

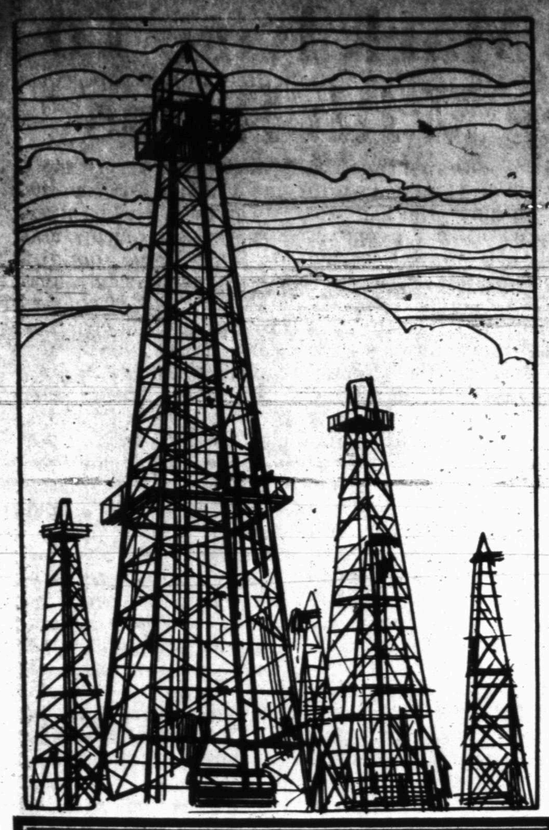

The Snyder High School Band is launching a fund-raising campaign this week. They are taking orders for attractive acrylic ornaments.

The money received from the campaign will be used for the band's spring trip. In order to reach their goal, band members hope to receive the help of everyone in the community. They will be calling on every home, offering an opportunity to purchase one or more of the ornaments. The ornaments are fairly priced and of excellent quality, band spokesmen said. They are suitable as decorative pieces for the home, and they also make excellent gifts.

Dow Mathis Joins Band

ABILENE — Dow Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Mathis of Dermott is a member of the 1981-82 World Famous Cowboy Band at Hardin-Simmons University.

Mathis, a graduate of Snyder High School, is a freshman in the HSU School of Music majoring in music education. He plays tenor saxophone in the band.

Amendments Give Economic Boost

Area oil producing counties should feel an economic boost beginning in 1982 as a result of the recently enacted amendments to the windfall profits tax.

It has been estimated by the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association that a 24-county area will receive $981.9 million in extra revenue because of the amendments. The same report said independents have historically spent the equivalent of 105 per cent of their gross wellhead revenues in exploration and development activities.

There is an established theory that for every dollar invested in an oil venture results in a $3 benefit to the area county. Because of the amendments, the funds in question would have otherwise gone to the federal treasury, the association said.

The new tax rate on new oil will decline from 30 percent in 1981 to 27½ percent in 1982, 25 percent in 1983, 22½ percent in 1984, 20 percent in 1985 and 15 percent in 1986 where it will remain constant. Wells producing 10 barrels or less per day will be exempted completely from the tax beginning Jan. 1, 1983.

In Scurry County, the anticipated benefits to independents is $459.9 million between 1982 and 1986. The benefit to the Scurry County area economy is estimated to be $1.3 billion.

It was noted that these figures do not include the $2,500 tax credit royalty owners will receive in 1981, their two barrel per day exemption in 1982-84 and their three barrel per day exemption in 1985 and thereafter. Scurry County is believed to have in excess of 6,000 individual royalty owners.

To arrive at the calculations, the association used 1980 production figures from the Texas Railroad Commisson, and then estimated the price of oil at $35 per barrel.

The association said 50 percent of the oil produced in West Central Texas is stripper oil, and about 25 percent is new oil. The remaining 25 percent is old oil.
