Defense Flays Skull Testimony—State Features Motive

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Oct. 18.—The case of Robert Fletcher, charged by indictment with the murder of his father-in-law, W. M. Saylor, and also of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edna Saylor, more than a year ago, and which has been on trial here this week before Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court, went to the jury at 10:30 Thursday night.

Before a crowd of 800 people jammed in the Archer county courthouse auditorium, R. E. Taylor, chief counsel for the defense and C. C. McDonald, leading counsel for the state, made the closing arguments. Seldom has such a crowd attempted to get in the Archer county courthouse for the hearing of case. Following the grueling questionings of state and defense witnesses Wednesday and Thursday, the climax came when the two lawyers eloquently presented their final pleas to the jury last night.

Taylor, closing for the defense, reviewed the testimony and maintained the killing of defendant's father-in-law and sister-in-law was a deplorable accident only. Taylor told of how Fletcher had done everything possible the night the accident occurred to get aid for the two injured. Taylor ridiculed the testimony of local and Wichita Falls physicians who had said the skull of Saylor exhibited in court showed signs of fracture by an instrument.

McDonald in closing for the state, eloquently pictured the night when the father-in-law and sister-in-law were riding in the front seat of the car which was bringing them back from Wichita Falls while defendant was in the back seat. The state attorney brought in the alleged motive for the defendant wanting to get rid of the kinsmen to come into possession of property now being enjoyed. He pictured the whole thing as a pre-meditated brutal murder.

A verdict from the jury is expected Friday.

Clem Gray Case To Jury; Accused Pleads in Tears

By The Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, Oct. 18.—The fate of Clem Gray, charged with the slaying of Otis Ballard, reached the jury about dusk this evening. County Attorney Williams opened arguments for the state, followed by District Attorney Hutchings.

After the noon recess today, Gray, on trial for his life, asked permission to talk to the jury that sits in judgment, and in a voice broken with sobs, stood, with hands handcuffed, before the twelve jurors, picturing his early life in Titus county down to three years ago.

He had been prosperous, had associated with the best citizenship of the county and had enjoyed as good a name as any in the county, he said.

But about three years ago he "began to fool with the whiskey traffic" he went on. Soon he got into trouble and went from bad to worse, he continued. Three years ago he was as happy as a man could be; today he was not the Clem Gray of yesterday, and only asked for another chance to be the old Clem Gray. That he would gladly give his life up to bring that of Ballard back: that it was not he so much who will suffer as his wife and two boys, he explained brokenly.

The whiskey traffic was the root of his downfall, he concluded, asking the twelve men to be lenient.

It was announced today that the negro Burl Kemp, used as a witness against Gray and who Gray testified actually killed Ballard, will be placed on trial Monday and that the trials of George McIntyre and Paul Keith will follow that of Kemp. All three are charged with murder in connection with the death of Ballard. Special venires of jurymen already have been summoned.

At ten o'clock tonight it was stated at the sheriff's office that the jury was locked up for the night, with no prospect of a verdict being announced until tomorrow.

OAKLAND MAN LEARNS LESSON

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—Blaine Kitzmiller of Oakland, California, will be more careful hereafter about accepting "lifts" from strangers.

Kitzmiller's acceptance of an invitation to ride down town in a closed automobile here yesterday cost him $90 and a badly bruised neck. Three men in a limousine drove up to the curb and invited him to ride.

While driving through a traffic jam, two of the men strangled Kitzmiller and robbed him of $90 in currency.

They pushed him out of the car a few minutes later and sped away.

BOOTLEG RING IS UNCOVERED

"Shocking Affairs" Are Discovered Among Politicians

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The federal government today fired a double-barreled charge into wet forces alleged to be drenching New York and New Jersey with illicit liquor.

With one charge agents, working under direct orders from Washington, brought down a bag of eleven conspirators, who, rounded up in the Hotel Pensylvania and elsewhere, are alleged to have been using $80,000 to bribe prohibition agents not to stop the brewing of real beer in New Jersey; not to interfere with the converting of industrial alcohol into strong liquor; and to block the flooding of New York and New Jersey with beer from rival vats in Pennsylvania.

With the other barrel, the government fired a broadside into the first of several thousand saloon keepers alleged to be running wide open in New York city since the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement law. Fifty-four suits were filed in federal court to padlock these alleged "speak-easies" under provisions of the Volstead act and United States Attorney Hayward added that more actions would be brought as soon as complaints could be typewritten.

It was stated that a regular weekly bribe of $6,500 was accepted by one of the agents before making the arrest today.

With the $4,500 received by federal agents today, the total of bribes seized by the government forces and confiscated was $84,500 according to United States Attorney Hayward, who estimated the total given in bribe since the conspiracy originated was about $700,000.

Mr. Hayward said baring of the alleged conspiracy, revealed a shocking and sensational state of affairs in New Jersey and possibly Pensylvania. State and other officials, politicians, and persons high in social standing, he said, were in league with the bootleg conspirators.

LLOYD GEORGE PAYS HOMAGE TO LINCOLN

By The Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18.—David Lloyd-George came here today and paid homage to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

With bared head, heedless of a cold, driving rain, the war-time premier of Great Britain, approached the monument.

Accompanying him were Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd-George as well as members of the official reception committee.

Standing with head slightly bowed below the sarcaphagus and for a moment in deep reverie, the man who also has known the pressure of greatest responsibilities in time of war, said audibly, as if speaking to himself rather than those about him:

"He is the greatest man grown upon the American continent. He is growing, too;—Oh, yes, he grows.

"I've just been reading about the time he had. I read of the most recent ones about two years ago. It was rather an account of the troubles he had in the war with generals and politicians. They were worse than mine."

PLAYWRIGHT DEAD; CHARGES ARE FILED

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Charged with murder and arson in connection with the fire which early last Monday burned to death six persons in a frame house in Brooklyn, William A. Ford, real-estate operator, and son-in-law of George Keim, playwright, one of the victims, was held this evening without bail.

The charges against Ford are said to be based largely on the alleged confession of Raymond Anderson, who was also arrested today and charged with homicide and arson in connection with the fire. Anderson is alleged to have confessed that he drove with Ford and a third man to the house in an automobile, but claimed he did not have anything to do with starting the blaze.

Revenge as alleged by the police to have been the motive for the crimes with which Ford is charged. The police said records showed that three suits were pending between Keim and Mr. and Mrs. Ford at the time of Keim's death.

LEGION ADOPTS ANTI-KU KLUX KLAN PROPOSAL

"Michigan", Resolution Is Adopted After Big Verbal Barrages

OKLAHOMA ALSO LOSES

"Michigan" Resolution Does Not Name Hooded Order Specifically

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—A verbal battle over pro-ku klux klan and anti-klan resolutions in which the press of the country was charged with trying to split the American Legion over the klan question, raged for several hours at the fourth day's session of the fifth annual American legion convention here, resulting in the adoption of the "Michigan" anti-klan resolution, which avoids using the name of the hooded order.

A total of 933 delegates made it known that while the legion objects to the klan order, it will not denounce it through a resolution which calls a spade a spade. With equal force it voted down a resolution the Oklahoma delegates intended to offset a denounce resolution offered by Charles F. Kendrick of San Francisco.

The resolution which was carried by a roar of "ayes" to the weak cry of a score of "noes" was as follows:

"Resolved, by the American legion in national convention assembled that we consider any individual groups of individuals or organization which creates or fosters racial, religious or class strife among our people or which takes into their own hands the enforcement of law, determination of guilt or infliction of punishment, to be un-American, a menace to our liberties, and destructive of our fundamental law and be it further,

"Resolved, that we consider such action by any individual groups or organizations to be inconsistent with the ideals and purposes of the American Legion."

The Kendrick resolution which was lost on a roll call vote was as follows:

"Resolved, that the ku klux klan is an organization which is destructive to American principles and ideals and is unfair to hundreds of thousands of our comrades in arms during the world war. This convention, therefore, most equivocally denounces the ku klux klan as being an un-American organization and unworthy of membership by loyal American citizens."

The "Oklahoma" resolution voted down was submitted by E. W. Whitney, of Oklahoma, who stated he was a member of the klan. The resolution was as follows:

"Whereas, the constitution of the American Legion recognizes the rights of the members thereof to their own free opinion in matters of religion and politics, and,

"Whereas, the basis of membership in the American Legion is service, irrespective of the religion or politics of the members, now, therefore, be it resolved,

"American legion adheres to its original purpose and stands for the service man irrespective of belief in religion or politics and welcomes all such to its fold. That within this fold the question of such belief or affiliation be never raised to the prejudice or hurt of any one, but that the spirit of tolerance and good will be extended to all, irrespective of their belief in or adherence to any society or organization whatsoever, so long as the same does not conflict with allegiance to God and the government of the United States."

Major Kendrick accused the legionaries of "pussy-footing" on the ku klu klan question and announced that he was there "to tear the mask off things and see just where we are."

"Far be it from me to inject into this convention a religious issue. However, much as I desire that such not be the case, there is a religious issue here and there has been one for more than two years. The only way to meet the issue is to meet it squarely meet it face to face, the same as we met other issues in the times gone by.

"You all know just as well as I do what happened in New Orleans. You know perfectly well that Bill (William) Deegan's candidacy, was proposed down there and the most important factor regarding him was his religion."

Major Kendrick withdrew the statement when it was objected by California delegates and continued:

"At Kansas City my name was proposed throughout the convention as probable candidate for commander and on all sides I found my religion was a most interesting matter to men who desired to know whether they should or should not consider me as possible commander.

"Let me read you a telegram I received today from Lindsay Blainey, a good Texan from Houston, Texas, a man who served with me for two years on the Americanism commission and with Commander Whaley. When this issue came before us we recognized it was the most insidious and vicious one, and here is Blainey's message:

"Congratulations in the name of thousands of protestant veterans for your stand against this un-American organization. Former post here of

Sheriff May Tells Details of Escape

Two Prisoners, Now Recaptured, Held Razor to His Throat While Other Seized Gun, He Charges.

Sheriff Ed May of Frederick, Tillman county, Oklahoma, was in Wichita Falls Thursday night, and Gene Dugan and Frank Houston, who escaped from the sheriff after a razor and gun fight in the city limits of Bowie late Wednesday afternoon, are again his prisoners and will be taken to Frederick Friday morning.

Sheriff Ed May, who spent the night Thursday with his cousin Dave May, chief of detectives of the Wichita Falls police force, told his story last night of how Dugan and Houston got away from him after a fight at Bowie.

The sheriff said he left Floresville last Saturday with Dugan and Houston and started back in a Ford coupe for Frederick where the two young men are charged with the theft of the car which belongs to S. W. Patton of Wichita Falls. Sheriff May said on leaving Floresville he told the prisoners that how long a jail sentence they would receive on the car theft charge was dependent on the way they acted on the trip back.

The sheriff and his prisoners spent Sunday in Hillsboro. Traveling slowly because of the condition of the roads due to bad weather, the trio had made their way back as far as Decatur about the middle of Wednesday afternoon. The sheriff said he had been suffering with a severe attack of cholera morbus and decided to spend Wednesday night at Decatur. He said he later decided to try to get as far as Bowie before sun down and spend the night there.

As the three were approaching the city limits of Bowie, Houston suddenly flashed a razor and said "alright sheriff—dama you, throw 'em up." May said the threat took him completely by surprise and he warned the boys not to start anything. May said Houston told him he hated to do it but he would kill May before he would go back to Oklahoma and face trial.

May said he then made a grab at the razor in Houston's hand and the sharp edge cut his right hand to the

DEATH TOLL OF FLOOD IN OKLA. MOUNTS TO SIX

Two More Bodies Are Recovered From City's Stricken Regions

4 FOUND THURSADY

Body of Salvation Army Worker Who Refused to Leave Discovered

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18.—Their devastating force virtually spent flood waters of the north and south Canadian rivers and tributary streams tonight are spreading toward the Arkansas line after wrecking millions of dollars damage in Oklahoma.

The total known death list climbed to six today when two more bodies were recovered from Oklahoma City's stricken regions on the south side and word was received that two boys were drowned near Chickasha late yesterday. Five persons still are missing here.

Overflow waters in the eastern part of the state at Eufaula, Henryetta and Okmulgee, the latest section to be affected, are receding, although thousands of acres of farming lands still are inundated. Tremendous damage was suffered by railroad property and highways.

The bodies of Mrs. Jennie Ellis, a local Salvation Army worker, and an unidentified man, were found by searchers here today as falling waters permitted a further search of the flood swept lowlands. Mrs. Ellis refused to leave when warned of the approach of the torrent and was trapped in her home. The man is believed to have drowned at a point further upstream.

Carl Gray and Ray Reed, residing north of Chickasha, were drowned in overflow waters of the Washita river when the horse they were riding slipped and fell on a submerged road. Their bodies have not been recovered.

A mother and daughter perished here in trying to escape from their water-filled home.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 18. The report of the house committee investigating impeachment charges against Governor J. C. Walton will be presented to the lower house of the state legislature Monday, it was announced tonight by Representative Disney of Muskogee, chairman of the committee.

In making the announcement Representative Disney declared that plans to submit the report tomorrow had been upheld by much additional evidence called to the committee's mention.

"We have received more evidence than we ever dreamed of," he declared. "We feel that the public is entitled to as much information as may be obtained and many important witnesses have to yet be heard.

The report automatically will become a bill of impeachment if the house adopts. A majority vote is necessary. The senate then would have to decide whether the evidence is sufficient to bring the governor to trial.

No less than 12 specific charges against the executive, any one of which would be grounds for impeachment if proven, will be represented by the committee, Representative Disney declared.

The investigating committee is holding night sessions in order to complete its work.

RECALL ENVOYS; GERMANY FAST NEARING CRISIS

Stressemann Coalition Can Now Use Dictatorship Voted

DANGER IS IMMEDIATE

Dollar Now Soaring Around Nine Billion Mark; New Price Chaos

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Diplomatic relations between Bavaria and Saxony have been severed.

Saxony today dismissed its charge d'affairies to Bavaria and announced the appointment of a new minister, whereupon the Bavarian government replied declining to receive the new minister as long as the communist party was represented in the Saxon ministry. At the same time it recalled the Bavarian minister from Dresden.

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—With the situation in the Ruhr and Rhineland rapidly approaching a condition of an acute social and economic crisis, with Saxony's socialist-communist ministry concluding its defiance of the central government, and with Bavaria having severed diplomatic relations with Saxony, Chancellor Stresemann's coalition cabinet is confronted with issues which will afford it an early opportunity to make use of the dictatorial authority voted it by the Reichstag in the emergency power bill.

While these are the outstanding issues which harbor elements of immediate danger, the international situation in its entirety, especially with respect to financial cataclysm toward which all classes of the population are heading through the further depreciation in the value of the mark, is automatically constituting itself a contributory factor which is destined to have a decisive hearing on the further course of events.

With the dollar soaring around the nine billion mark notch today a new period of price chaos set in, and with it the government's helplessness with respect to the adoption of speedy reformatory measures became more emphasized.

The central government's failure to obtain even a small degree of accommodations from M. Poincare, the French premier in connenction with its program for a resumption of the Ruhr industries also has gravely complicated matters for the Stresemann regime and official quarters appear to be wholly without counsel or wisdom with respect to a solution for the problem of the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

Wretched Tale Told of Life In Metropolis

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Stories of whole families suffering from malnutrition because they could not pay the rent and buy food too; of mothers starving that their babies might eat; of tenement districts where the average infant was six pounds underweight; of "safety first" fire escapes and gouging landlords—all because of the shortage of homes and exorbitant rents—were related to the state housing commission today.

Judges, welfare workers, professors, wage earners and mothers with babes-in-arms appealed to the commission to recommend renewal of the emergency rent laws, so that when they expire next February, thousands of families may not be thrown upon the mercy of landlords.

Justice Aaron I. Levy, president of the board of the municipal court justices, asserted that an emergency exists in the housing situation, and there is needless widespread suffering. During the first nine months of the year, he said, landlords brought action to evict 65,000 families who were unable to pay rent increases demanded of them and unable to find other homes.

There were stories of whole sections, hitherto devoted to homes for the moderate salaried man or wage earner, which now were exclusive high-priced district, or rooming house district, herded with humanity, at so much a room a month, after thousands of families had been crowded out.

Greenwich Village, with its antiquated tumble-downs, gas lights and absence of plumbing, has thus become an exclusive residential center for wealthy disciples of "Bohemia," it was testified.

DR. J. B. LEAVELL IN CHALLENGE

Offers to Preach to Any Unsaved Man Until He Is Saved

"I challenge any unsaved man in Wichita Falls to come to this revival set on the front seat two services each day—I will continue to preach until he is saved," said Dr. James B. Leavell, last night at the First Baptist church.

Dr. Leavell delivered a stirring message on "Fishing for Men." Giving the principles of such fishing as specified by Christ in Matthew 4:19, the evangelist said,

"Some people, calling themselves Christians, use more common sense in fishing for speckled-trout than in fishing for men. There are certain conditions to be considered when we go after the lost men of Wichita Falls. With the earth as a sea in which fish of every description can be found the church as a fishing boat which can safely carry those who have been redeemed by the blood of Jesus Christ, the Bible as a tackle which will bring to shore fish of any size; and the gospel as a bait for which all men hunger, God will bless the Christian's effort in fishing for men. The business of the church is not to maintain social organizations or waste strength in trying to purify the world—its work is in bringing men out of the world and leading them to Christ."

A personal workers band has been perfected among the church members and plans put into operation for a strenuous campaign during the remaining days of the revival.

three thousand now a few hundred on account of this issue. America is ready for some other organization standing for fundamentals unless the American Legion gets off the fence."

E. W. Whitney, spokesman for the pro-klan delegation, warned the legionaries that the press of the country was trying to split the legion on the question of the klan, he said:

"This question has been brought insidiously before the convention for two different years. I see in it the life or the death of the legion and my opinion is that we want hands off. Irrespective of what any man may think or believe in religion or politics the basis of this revolution for membership in this legion is service.

"It was service in the world war; it was for service in the emergency and it is service now. We do not raise that question, but since it has been raised in this convention, we humbly submit that this substitution resolution (the Oklahoma resolution) will do away with the question and forever settle it, which is our object and reason for urging it at this time.

"From the beginning of this convention until the present time, certain sections of the press have not ceased to misquote us and to try to divide our forces on this question. I have seen many of these things go disastrously and I warn you that if we do not settle this and say hands off, that the American Legion will be the goat and we will be the ones that will suffer."

Washington Rose.

The Mary Washington Rose is perhaps the most ambitious attempt at floriculture made by George Washington. He made it at Mount Vernon in the last years of his life when he had laid aside the cares of state. He started the rose from seeds brought from one of the older garden in Philadelphia, grafted the young growth on the native sweetbrier and named the result after his mother, Mary Washington. It was probably the first attempt in this country to hybridize the monthly with the yearly blooming rose. The Mary Washington rose became famous; it still adorns an ancient trellis in the family garden at Mount Vernon, but if all the requests for cuttings were granted, there would soon be nothing left of it.—Youth's Companion.

The country is beginning to realize on its saving promised at the disarmament conference. It is reported that a quantity of steel, designed originally for use in battleships, but scrapped by the disarmament treaty, is to be used in a new football stadium at the United States naval academy at Annapolis. But for the disarmament conference we probably would have had to build the battleships and the stadium, too.

LOVE IN COTTAGE

Delora was "keeping house" just as if no millions of dollars were to be hers. She prided herself on being able "to cook a dinner and serve it and wash the dishes just as well as anyone in this town."

Just one faithful servant did Delora have, "Old Chesty," a Swedish servant who had been in the family for years. She didn't want a chauffeur as she "preferred to drive her own car."

But "love in a cottage" didn't fit in with the millions and after the six months were up the young couple realized this. Their friends had predicted as much from the start but the young people "had to be shown."

Now the little house is lonely, bereft of its bright chinzes and "fixin's" and worst of all the bright, happy young voices which recently resounded in its rooms. Dellora and her Lester have betaken their love to a palatial residence in the most pretentious part of town.

The new home bears the imposing title of "Crawfordsburn." It stands on a hill overlooking forty-five acres of landscaped gardens sloping in terraces down to the beautiful Fox river. There are marble fountains, swimming pools, tennis courts, servant's quarters—all that wealth can devise to make a beautiful and stately mansion. "Old Chesty" is still with Dellora, but is rather eclipsed by the retinue of new servants.

And Dellora insists that she has not changed; that down in her heart she is still the simple country girl she was before fortune in the shape of the Gates millions smiled on her. And the love that made their happiness when it was housed in the humble cottage will follow and make the new life joyous in spite of all its duties and responsibilities.

As for Norris, he says he'll still try to pay the grocery bills at least with his drawings.

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. T. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Adv.

Pimples Cause Despondency

Girls and boys, too, who are subject to disfiguring skin blemishes imagine all sorts of weird things. It even causes many to go to extremes in their pitiful predicament.

The worst fault it leads to is using just anything which promises them relief from their condition, which often makes their trouble worse. Never put anything on your skin which has not been proven by the test of time and public opinion to be right. In this connection the phenomenal success of the Ointment which is labeled with the Black and White trade mark of highest quality at low, popular prices, offers sufferers from skin diseases the one reliable and dependable means of relief and restoration of their skin, to that clear, smooth and lovely condition it was in their youth.

Black and White Ointment is economically priced, in liberal size packages. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have it.—Adv.

GOVERNORS ARE IN CONFERENCE

Booze and Agriculture Take Up Most of Sessions First Day

By The Associated Press.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Oct. 18.—Agriculture, prohibition, penal reforms and uniformity of state legislation were considered today by the fifteenth annual governors' conference, here to discuss national problems.

While the formal morning sessions today were given over exclusively to agriculture, the question of prohibition enforcement was the overshadowing topic of discussion among the governors. Announcement of a move by several executives, including Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, P. P. Baxter of Maine, and W. E. Sweet of Colorado, to prepare a memorial to the people of the country urging intensified enforcement activity, put that issue squarely before the conference. Sponsors of the movement declared tonight that when the governors meet with President Coolidge in Washington, Saturday, the views of the conference here would be presented in definite form for the consideration of the chief executive.

The first session today, presided over by Governor J. M. Dixon of Montana, was devoted to a paper on wheat marketing and finance by Governor R. A. Nester, of North Dakota, in which he urged immediate relief measures by the federal government for the exclusive wheat farmer. Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, spoke on agricultural problems with particular reference to those of the southern states. Concluding with the suggestion that unless the present disparity between wheat values and general price levels was soon equalized, the stability of the entire farming industry would be jeopardized.

The afternoon session considered executive clemency, pardons and paroles convict labor and uniform legislation. In opening the discussion on executive clemency, Governor Sweet of Colorado, staunchly defended the parole system, condemned retributive punishment and defined the obligation of penal institutions to encourage inmates to resume normal social status.

Bridges Washed Out.

The only way one can get from Iowa Park to points in Oklahoma either by rail or road is by the way of the Grandfield toll bridge. This is the only bridge left on Red river from Terral, Oklahoma, to the bridge across Red river north of Quanah.

Local Pastor To Conference.

Rev. W. C. Dennis preached his last sermon for the conference year ending last Sunday to a very small crowd on account of the rain which fell continually for seven-two hours ending Friday night. However, the small crowd does not indicate that the work done by Rev. Dennis was not 100 per cent. His work has been very successful. The people of Iowa Park are very anxious that the conference return him as pastor of the local M. E. Church again. Rev. Dennis left Wednesday for Gainesville, where the North Texas conference will be held for this year. This is the old home of Rev. Dennis and he expects to meet many of his old friends whom he labored with for four years as pastor before coming to Iowa Park.

SHERIFF MADE

bone. He said Houston told Dugan to grab the sheriff's gun. May said he then reached to his hip pocket with his left hand, his right being severely cut, for his gun. Dugan grabbed the sheriff's left hand and twisted it back.

While Dugan had May's left armed pinned down, Houston jumped on his chest and cut a razor to the sheriff's throat. "Give me those keys and your gun or I'll kill you" May said Houston told him. In the tussle he had already been cut in the throat, his right hand severely lacerated, and his shoulder cut. The prisoners then took the sheriff's gun.

"They then told me to flag the first car that came by. The coupe had been run into the ditch by the tussle and the windsbield was broken. Houston told me if I made a move or let on like anything was wrong he would kill. Houston at that time had both the razor and gun on me and I was cut up to where my left hand was useless," May said.

"Soon three negroes in a car came by and I flagged them and told them to carry me to Bowie. The negro driver wanted to know if they allowed negroes in Bowie and I told him yes, they would this time. As soon as I got into the car I told the negro driver what had happened and asked him if he could speed up a little. The negro got scared and speeded up to about 40 miles an hour. I lost a $20 hat and the negro wouldn't stop," May said in telling his story.

When he got into Bowie he called for an officer and the crowd tried to get him to go to a doctor. May said he refused to see a doctor until an officer was found. About 40 Bowie men formed a posse and started in pursuit of the youths as soon as they heard what had happened.

May was taken to a doctor and not allowed to join in the chase for the prisoners. The boys wandered on until about midnight and were only a few miles ahead of the posse. About midnight they were captured by the constable of Park Springs. The boys had taken $25 in money and the sheriff's gun and keys.

The re-captured prisoners were brought back to Bowie early Thursday morning. May said when he confronted the boys for the first time after the fight Thursday morning they both appeared apologetic. "Well, sheriff, we certainly double-crossed you after you had been so nice to us and we will get what we deserved," Houston said to May.

Dugan told May that when Houston made May go on to Bowie Wednesday afternoon, that he (Dugan) came very near going on with him "I wish I had," Dugan said ruefully.

Sheriff May took the boys to Montague early Thursday morning where they appeared before the grand jury in Judge Paul Donald's 97th district court on a charge of highway robbery with fire arms. The sheriff left Nocona with his two prisoners Thursday afternoon arriving here at 9:40 last night. Dugan and Houston were lodged in the city jail. Sheriff May spent the night with Detective Chief Dave May.

"They'll not get away from me again," the Tillman county sheriff said last night. The prisoners will be taken in a car to Frederick sometime today.

FORD IS LIKELY DRY CANDIDATE

Henshaw Makes Announcement Upon Return From Mexico

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Henry Ford, in all likelihood, will get the presidential nomination of the prohibition party, according to Virgil G. Henshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, who issued from here today a call for a national conference at Washington, December 12.

"Ford seriously considered our proposal to nominate him in the last presidential election, but eventualy he decided to support President Wilson. This time, however, he is almost certain to be our choice."

The call issued here today by Henshaw who has just returned from a trip into Mexico, fixes the Raleigh hotel, Washington, D. C., as the place of meeting.

Probably it is a good thing, in the interest of humanity, that the succeeding candidates for trials for Jack Dempsey's championship belt are not selected by popular vote.

ELECTRA WILL SOON HAVE GAS

New Company, Financed Locally, to Have Mains in 90 Days

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas., Oct. 18.—Announcement was made Thursday that Electra would be supplied with gas in the course of the next 90 days. The new company will be financed by four local capitalists, A. T. McDonald, D. T. Cross, W. P. Lincoln and R. Y. Smith, and will cost approximately $45,000 before completed.

The actual construction work of laying the gas mains will start next week. All new lines will be laid and those in charge say that they will place between 40 and 50 men on the work at once.

The new company has made arrangements with the Texas company in this field to get an adequate supply of gas. The capacity of the local field according to estimates made was that the Texas company could supply a total of 1,200,000 cubic feet daily and that the maximum need for Electra would not be greater than 400,000 feet daily.

The franchise which was granted them by the city commissioners Wednesday night provided for a maximum charge of $1.50 a month. The franchise gave them permission to lay their gas mains in the city streets and alleys, and also provided that the homes and residences of the city should have preference in the event of any future shortage.

All equipment is practically at hand and this will cause no loss of time in getting the work started. Gas will be brought to the city limits from the Texas company's field under high pressure and will then be reduced by regulators as required for commercial use.

ELECTRA ARREST REVEALS THEFT

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 18.—W. L. Earles who was arrested here Wednesday by T. J. Johnson, deputy constable, is wanted on numerous theft charges all over the state.

He was pointed out to the officer who made the arrest by an automobile salesman from Wichita Falls who identified him as the man who had swindled him out of an automobile sometime ago. When searched he had a ticket for Fort Worth and was with his wife, who was later released.

He is accused of having stolen over $200 worth of furs from McClurkan Dry Goods company of Wichita Falls; of having stolen a car from Hubert & Tolar of Sweetwater and a car from A. M. Works of Vernon. It is claimed that he swindled a bank in Oklahoma out of $1,050.

According to local authorities there are rewards for the arrest of this man in excess of $500. He will be held here temporarily pending further investigations.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ed D. Sanders whose death occurred at the local hospital Monday will be preached here by Rev. B. R. Robinson at the Collier Bros. Chapel Wednesday and the interment will take place in the Wichita Falls cemetery later in the day.

Strand—Mae Murray in "The French Doll."

Olympic—"Ruggles of Red Gap." A James Cruze production.

Empress—Wesley Barry in "The Printer's Devil."

Gem—Anita Stewart, Noah Beery in "The Fighting Shepherdess."

New Foyer for Strand

The management of the Strand theatre has redecorated and refurnished the foyer of the show house using a color scheme of soft grays and browns with a touch of old blue.

Tall wicker baskets filled with bright fall flowers and a warm color note as to the blossoms that spill over the edge of a gold flower box near the stairway.

Rugs and draperies are in gray and blue, and a deep mahogany lounge and rockers overstuffed in gray and sepia plush are made inviting by piles of comfy cushions.

The new foyer only adds to the prestige the Strand has always claimed as one leading picture houses in the city.

Charles Chaplin, Director

In Charles Chaplin's new picture "A Woman of Paris," which was viewed at an advance showing at the Strand, Chaplin's name does not appear on the cast, instead, one reads Charles Chaplin, director. The king of comedians is as much a genius in back of the megaphone as he is in front of it.

The United Artists are not trumpeting the values of the picture, rather they are using the soft pedal so as to give the jaded public the surprise of its life. Critics, however, are saying great things about it. Chaplin depends almost entirely on subtleties and innuendoes to establish his points. It is a picture of suggestion—a picture not dependent upon massive scenery or whirlwind action but on the contrary a true-to-life portrayal of human nature.

It is said that "A Woman of Paris" will revolutionize the technique of the photoplay. It is even said that Chaplin is so elated over his achievement that he is contemplating a life of permanent retirement from film pantomime.

Artist that he is, the screen could ill afford to miss him, but if he is destined to lead the motion picture out of its conventional groove—away from its stereotyped channels—his place in the sun will be just as secure as a director. He has been the screen's salvation as an actor. If his directorial plans prove sound and are adopted, it is reasonable to believe that he will establish it as one of the fine arts.

Here's one that pierces the depths of zero in blue law propaganda, as told in an excerpt from the Kansas City Star:

"For cautious and painstaking vigilance against possible dangers to the moral welfare of the Kansas public, A. B. Carney vice-chairman of the board of administration wins the gravy bowl. Mr. Carney, it is reported, has written to the state board of film review asking them not to permit the exhibition in Kansas of the film showing the athletic activities of the young inmates of the Boy's Industrial school near Topeka. He gave as his reason that the athletic activities as shown in the film might lead the boys to commit crimes in order to be sent there."

Pictures and People

It is said that Mrs. John Barrymore, professionally known as Michael Strange when she wrote the play, "Claire de Lune," will support her husband in the screen version of "Beau Brummel." While in France with Lin recently, a producer was struck by her personality and offered her a part in a production.

The national board of review lists three pictures as meritorious enough to win the much-coveted asterisk for the week. The board presents "The Cricket on the Hearth" (Selznick), "Little Old New York" (Goldwyn—Cosmopolitan), and "Scaramouche" (Metro.)

Comes word that Larry Semon as soon as he completes his last two-reeler for Vitagraph, will take a flier in vaudeville before he signs his contract with M. H. Hoffman. Other film luminaries who have returned to the two-a-day for a brief respite are Bert Lytell, Theodore Roberts, Nazimova, Ruth Stonehouse, Enid Markey and Ruth Roland. It is rumored that the Carter De Havens are likewise planning to return to vaudeville.

Rumors of engagements (romances, not pictures), are coming in from our coast spies. We have it that Richard Dix and Lois Wilson may soon walk to the altar—and that Edmund Lowe and Lilyan Tashman expect to answer "I Do!" when the minister pops the questions at them in the near future.

The costume dramas having come into their own the past season or two, with plenty more to follow, Griffith is stealing a march on his rivals by producing one entitled "America." Most of the costume pictures are laid against English, French and Italian backgrounds—the only exceptions being "The Birth of a Nation" and "The Covered Wagon" two features which are not strictly of "costume" character.

Griffith's "America" with Washington at Valley Forge or leading his army—with Major Andre being caught as a spy—with the battles of Saratoga and the storming of Ticonderoga and the surrender of Yorktown should make mighty interesting drama.

We have been shown how France won her independence—we have viewed the rise and fall of kingdoms of Europe. The filming of our own high spots of history will be an achievement which will enliven the interest of every American.

Bill Hart having returned to the screen, is surrounded by his old staff showing that the star who made the good-bad man famous possesses a fine streak of sentiment. Cliff Smith, who directed Bill is no less than 45 pictures is with him again for "Wild Bill Hickok," written by the star himself and adapted by J. G. Hawks. His erstwhile cameraman, Dwight Warren, is also on the job.

Let us catalogue this fact that Hart has really had but two directors in his entire screen career, the other being Lambert Hillyer. Which is something of a record.

George Melford, producer of the Paramount picture, "The Light That Failed," says his six favorite pictures are: "Birth of a Nation," "The Miracle Man," "Robin Hood," "Joan the Woman," "The Four Horsemen," and "Tol'able David."

GERMANY BEST COTTON BUYER.

Germany is a puzzle to all the nations of the earth. Germany is said to be facing a famine. Germany has a paper currency that is said to be of less intrinsic value or purchasing power than waste paper. Germany is said to be in the last ditch of financial ruin and abject poverty.

Despite the fact that German currency is practically worthless in all markets, having sold in New York Tuesday, October 9, at two billion marks to the dollar, the Times of that city declares that Germany continues to be one of the United States best customers for cotton, copper and meat products, and that in the last six months Germany has bought approximately ten million dollars more cotton than any other country, and in the same period her copper purchases have greatly exceeded those of any other one country.

Now the federal department of commerce is anxious to know how Germany has been able to finance these tremendous shipments of raw materials. In August, shipments of raw cotton to Germany were 75,290 bales, valued $9,534,187. The next customer was England, whose purchases totaled 46,370 bales, valued at $5,990,728.

For the eight months, ended with August, Germany took 590,044 bales, valued at $72,566,183. The next highest purchaser was England, which took 443,343 bales, valued at $62,352,491. In this connection it is interesting to note that German imports during that period were approximately double those either of France or England.

August shipments of copper to Germany were very large and for the first eight months of the year, Germany's import of copper from the United States was considerably larger than the value of copper shipped to any other country. It is said that Germany's exports are greatly in excess of her imports.

According to the New York newspapers bankers of that city familiar with international trade conditions admit their inability to ascertain just how these large shipments of American raw materials, have been financed. They are of the opinion, however, that Germany has been able to finance the purchases by recourse to credit reserves established in the United States over a long period of time.

It may be a mystery to the New York bankers, but the southern cotton growers and the producers of American copper have the raw materials to sell, Germany is in the market, the sellers get their price and they are neither worried or mystifid.

It is admitted by all the financial experts that the mark is worthless; it is predicted that the German government will repudiate its billions or trillions of marks some day, but this year Germany has been the best foreign cotton buyer in American markets, the best copper buyer and the large buyer of American meat stuffs.

Business is business. Americans have the raw materials and food stuffs for sale. If Germany has long established credits here or the cash to buy, so much the better for the American producers.

CAPPER AND HIS RELIEF PLAN.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas demands a 25 per cent freight rate reduction on agricultural products intended for export. Julius Kruttschnitt of the Southern Pacific company ventures the opinion that the Capper plan would bankrupt every railroad in the country.

Well, why should Capper worry? He doesn't own a railroad, he does own a daily newspaper, eight farm weeklies, blocks of bank stock and a seat in the senate of the United States. A large majority of his constituents are farmers. They are voters. Their votes placed Capper in the senate. Their votes may keep Capper in the senate.

He is a patriot as well as a publisher and he has pledged the tillers of the soil to bring about a sweeping reduction in freight rates on the products of the farm. Give a "plain man of the peepul" a chance.

RATTLING THEIR BONES.

French scientists have excavated three skeletons of a race that lived 15,000 years ago. Thy are of men between 20 and 30 years of age and of great stature. The skull in each case is well developed, but not of great length; the nose is long and the jaw high. Bones of historic horses and buffalo were discovered at the same time by the French scientists. Then the man ape was not running at large in France 15,000 years ago. Pass it on to W. J. B.

Black Money

BY J. S. FLETCHER AUTHOR OF "SCARHAVEN KEEP" "THE BOROUGH TREASURER," ETC.

That Granett's sudden death had followed on Hannaford's seemed to Hetherwick a sure proof that there was more behind this mystery than anybody had so far conceived of: personally, he had not the slightest doubt that whoever poisoned Hannaford had also poisoned Granett.

And he was not at all surprised when next day Matherfield walked into his chambers with a face full of news.

"I know what you're going to tell me, Matherfield," said Hetherwick. "The doctors have held a post-mortem on Granett, and they find that he was poisoned."

"Well, and that's just what I was going to tell you," he answered. "As in Hannaford's case, they're not yet certain of the particular poison used. However, I believe we've got a clue about it."

"A clue?" exclaimed Hetherwick.

"Well, this," answered Matherfield. "I found a medicine bottle and a glass tumbler in Granett's room. There was about an inch of whiskey in the bottle, and I should say by the smell, whiskey of very good quality. But I noticed a trace of sediment at the bottom. Just as I mean to trace that five-pound note, so I mean to trace that bottle!"

"How?" asked Hetherwick. "There are hundreds of chemists in London!"

"It's going to be done, anyway," asserted Matherfield. "And it mayn't be such a stiff job as it at first looks to be. See here!—there were labels on that bottle, defaced, it's true, but still with enough on them to narrow down the field of inquiry. I've had the face of the bottle photographed."

He brought ou a photographic print. It showed the front of the medicine bottle, with a label at the top and another at the bottom. A good deal of the lettering was left.

C. A. .....Esq.,
The mix..re as before
No. A. 1152

Note—This medicine has been dispensed by a fully qualified chemist with the

.....to possible drugs
.....and is guaranteed
.....the wishes of
.....the Pres-
.....M. P. S.
.....St. W. C.

"That bottom label's the thing, Mr. Hetherwick,' remarket Matherfield. "Let us get that hiatus filled up with the name and address of the chemist, and I'll soon find out who 'C. A.—blank—Esquire' is! The chemist is one in the West Central district; he's a member of the Pharmaceutical Society; he'll have somebody whose initials are C. A., on his books; he'll recognize the number A.1152 of the prescription. It's a decided clue—and even if there are, as there undoubtedly are, scores of chemists in the West Central district, I'll run this one down!"

Hetherwick handed back the photograph.

"Matherfield," he said. "What do you make of this?" I mean—whats your theory? Is it your opinion that the deaths of these two men are, all of a piece?"

"That is my opinion!" answered Matherfield. "Whoever poisoned Hannaford, poisoned Granett! I'll tell you how I've figured it out. Hanaford and Granett knew each other at Sellithwaite, ten years ago. That night Granett met Hannaford—accidentally."

"Why accidentally?" asked Hetherwick.

"Well, that's what I think," said Matherfield. "Of course, it may have been by appointment. But anyway, they met. And here comes in an unknown factor—what about the strange man seen with Hannaford, the man with muffled to his eyes? Did Hannaford take Granett to see the man, or did Hannaford and Granett meet at the man's? For that man, whoever he is, is at the bottom of everything!"

"Why should they meet at that man's?" asked Hetherwick.

"Well," answered Matherfield, "I think that secret of Hannaford's had something to do with it. He had the sealed packet on him when he left Malter's Hotel—it had disappeared after his death. Now, the granddaughter says it had to do with chemicals. Suppose the tall, muffled man was a chap whose business opinion on this secret Hanafonrd wanted? Supposing the muffled man poisoned both of 'em, to keep the secret to himself? Do you see what I'm after? Very well—there you are. The thing is to hunt out that man, whoever he is. I wish I knew what Hannaford's secret was, though—its precise nature."

"Matherfield," said Hetherwick, "I'll tell you! You've been very confidential to me—I'll be equally so with you, on condition that we work together from this."

He went on to tell his visitor the whole details of his visit to Sellithwaite, of the result of his investigations there, and of Rhona's doings and observations at Riversreade Court.

"Lord bless you, they talk about the long arm of coincidence!" exclaimed the officer. "But if Lady Riversreade really used to be Mrs. Whittingham, then I'd like to know all about Mrs. Whittingham until she became Lady Riversreade, and who she was before she was Mrs. Whittingham, if she ever was Mrs. Whittingham!"

"Stiff job, Matherfield," said Hetherwick. "I think we shall have enough to do to keep an eye on Lady Riversreade."

It was decided that Rhona Hannaford should accept the secretarial position at the home and until Sunday succeeding her departure for the place Hetherwick heard nothing of her. Then she came up to town on the Sunday morning, and Hetherwick took her to lunch.

"Anything to tell?" he asked.

"Nothing!" answered Rhona. "Everything exceedingly proper, businesslike and orderly. And Lady Riversreade appears to me to be a model sort of person—her devotion to that Home and its inmates is remarkable! I don't believe anything's going to happen, or that I shall ever have anything to report."

"Well, that'll have its compensations," said Hetherwick. "Leave us all the more time for ourselves, won't it?"

He gave her a look to which Rhona responded shyly but unmistakably: she knew as well as he did, that they were getting fond of each other's society. They continued to meet on Sundays and three or four went by, and still she had nothing to tell that related to the mystery of Hannaford and Granett.

Three weeks elapsed before Matherfield had anything to tell, either. Then he walked into Hetherwick's chambers one morning with news in his face.

"Traced it!" he said. "Knew I should! That five-pound note—brand new. Only a question of time to do that, of course."

"Well?" inquired Hetherwick.

"It was one of twenty fivers paid by the cashier of the London & Country Bank in Piccadilly to the secretary of Vivian's" continued Matherfield. "Date—day before Hannaford's death. Vivian's let me tell you, is a swell night-club. Now then, how did that note get into the hands of Granett That's going to be a stiff un!"

"So stiff that I'm afraid you mustn't ask me to go in at it!" agreed Hetherwick good-humoredly. "I must stick to my own line—when the chance comes."

The chance came on the following Sunday, when, in pursurance of now established custom, he met Rhona.

"News—at last!" she said, as they turned up the platform. "Something's happened—but what it means I don't know."

"There are things to explain; id better explain them first," she went on as they began their lunch. "Our arrangements down there at Riversreade, for instance. They're like this: Lady Riversreade and I always breakfast together at the Court, about 9 o'clock.

"At ten we go across the grounds to the Home. There we have a sort of formal office—two rooms, one of which the first opening from the hall, I have, the other, opening out of it, is Lady Riversreade's private sanctum.

"In the hall itself we have an ex-army man, Mitchell, as hall porter, to attend to the door and so on.

"A good many people, chiefly medical men and folk interested in homes and hospitals, call, wanting to look over and to know about the place.

"I interview them first; if I think it necessary or desirable, I take them in to Lady Riversreade. Well on Friday morning Mitchell came into my room with a card bearing the name 'Dr. Cyprian Baseverie.' Instead of being an engraved card, it was printed—that was the first thing I noticed. We never refuse doctors; so I told Mitchell to bring Dr. Baseverie to me. I want to describe him particularly, and you must listen most attentively. Figure, then, for yourself a man of medium height, comfortably plump, 45 years of age, dressed very correctly, immaculate as to linen and neckwear, with a new silk hat pearl-mounted umbrella."

"Fashionable medico sort," commented Hetherwick. But—himself?

We ventured the editorial prediction some few days ago that something would happen that would wipe Governor Walton off of page one in the newspapers and that he would go the way of all news. We now desire to call attention to the fact that the guv has been washed from page one by a floor in him home town. That's adding insult to injury.

Once off page one it is a difficult matter to get back in that favored place. THE OVERDOSE

(A mentally incompetent in an asylum was restored to reason by an accidental blow on the head.)

We were filled with an eager and earnest delight
When a newspaper item we read
Which said that the dull could be made keen and bright
By means of a clout on the head.
Our old uncle Ezra has failed quite a bit,
And it gave us great pleasure to find
A nice simple method of mending his wit
And restoring a once brilliant mind.

When our plan for his future the old fellow heard
Instead of expressing his joy,
He growled and protested and groused and demurred,
Like a naughty and obstinate boy.
He seemed to regard as a hideous crime
The good that we aimed to bestow.
And rid in the attic for weeks at a time
While we hunted for him, high and low.

But we watched till one night in a quiet repose
The peevish old chap settled down,
And dealth him a couple of violent blows,
With a sledge hammer, right on the crown.
"This will keep him asleep somewhat longer," we said
"But he'll waken next Tuesday, and then,
The sense that we fancied forever had fled
Will return to our uncle again."

Alas for our hope; though again and again
We went to his bedside to call
Our efforts to rouse him were utterly vain
And he never awakened at all.
The cure we are sure would have taken effect
If we'd only been more on our guard;
But thinking it over, we've come to reflect
That maybe we hit him too hard!

IRRIGATION

THE COLONIZATION QUESTIONAIRE

What Crops Should Be Raised Under Irrigation

When water is finally available one of the first questions that every man who expects to farm on the project will ask is "What crop should I plant to bring me the most money?"

Until after irrigation farming has been carried on here several years or unless an experimental farm is established soon the farmers are going to be more or less in the dark as to just what crops will give the greatest money return and how to grow them under irrigation.

One guide, in the absence of more full information, is the opinion of the farmers who have been tilling the soil here under dry farm conditions.

The land owners were asked "What crop do you think should be planted here under irrigation to pay the most money?"

Cotton gets first preference by an overwhelming majority. A number think that long staple cotton will prove very profitable.

Alfalfa has not yet been a success on the lands embraced in the irrigation district yet it is given a close second choice to cotton as being the profitable money crop.

Fruit, corn and feed stuffs are very bad third choice. It is quite a surprise to find so few feel that corn would be successful here.

Maize, kaffir, sweet potatoes, truck, sugar cane, wheat and oats are mention by one or two.

No one says anything about peanuts, sweet clover, strawberries, sugar beets or melons. They are not in the running at all. It would seem they would have as good a chance for being a money crop as wheat or oats.

There is no doubt that the first choice for cotton is correct. Everything indicates that cotton will be the money crop at least to start off with if prices hold up at all.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

LIBRA

You can attend to business or domestic affairs with apparent ease until 3 p. m. but after that time you may as wel close shop and give way to the desire to fool round and amuse yourself, for the aspects are very unfavorable for everything except recreation.

A child born today will be impulsive and erratic and utterly irresponsible.

You should be forewarned if today is your birthday, that there are certain possibilities in your character which should not be neglected. You understand others and their motives better than you understand yourself and unless you cultivate a keen introspection into the working of your own character you will be merely acting for the benefit of others and not realizing your own destiny.

You have an inherent love of drama and adventures and you are just superstitious enough to take encouragement from all trivial mysteries and accidents with the result that you probably often find yourself in a situation which neither demands your presence nor contributes to your welfare. While you are picturing yourself as the man of destiny called by fate, others with less poetry in them may be regarding you as a fooled fool.

You are proud and ambitious, but too vain to work for any great length of time in a position of inferiority. You would rather have less than to feel that you were a subordinate. Instead of this feeling urging you on to better things you often become depressed and pessimistic.

You are sensitive to the opinions of others to a degree which necessitates all your determination not to show. In matters of intuitive judgment you are almost always correct and it would be better for you if you followed your impulses more than you do.

You are diplomatic and tactful when you find it necessary, but rather given to complaining in no dove-like tone when your plans mis-carry.

It might almost be said that you are over-fond of the opposite sex, and strange as it may seem your flare-ups of temper act as a magnet to them, but those of your own sex become disgusted and eventually drop you.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am seventeen years old and a junior in high school. A boy has asked me to go to a party with him and my father says it would be all right for me to go, but my mother won't give her consent. She keeps telling me, "Perhaps."

I have never gone with a boy, but there will have to be some time for me to start. Don't you think I am old enough to go? THEODORA.

It seems to me you are old enough to go to the party. As you say there will always have to be a first time. I would not advise you to over-do the matter and have company and go places night after night, but an occasional "date" would be al right at your age.

Dear Mrs Thompsun: I am a girl of 17 and have been going with a boy for 10 months. The other day was his birthday and I gave him a gold knife with his initials engraved on it. Was I right in giving this? He does not care for books. Please given me your advice as this has been worrying me since I gave him the knife. I have gone with him "steady." DALLEY P.

You have no reason to worry because you gave the boy the knife. I am sure he appreciated the gift very much. Perhaps the superstition about knives is worrying you. Don't be superstitious.

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

The Poet With The Feet of Clay.

I was gifted
I made great flights
Into the clouds of beauty.
And you who misjudged me
Don't you know
The greater the swing of the pendulum
The greater the distance
Between the two points of extremity?
After these flights
I felt sick, nauseated
Like I had lived for weeks
On nothing but cream puffs
That's why I craved the coarseness
Of the food of the beast.
That's why I sometimes
Sank to the depths of depravity
The secret of a well ordered life
Is this—Balance—
A state of mental equilibrium.

Members of the Idle Hour Bridge club were hostesses to their husbands at the home of Mrs. E. O. Ward on Monroe, Wednesday evening, when five tables were arranged for the games. Hallowe'en colors and motifs added to the attractive setting, black cats and Jack o' Lanterns being featured.

In the games, Mrs. James P. Waggoner won the high score favor among the women, a fancy perfume container with bottle of perfume, while H. M. Beverly who made high among the men, was rewarded with a humidor. Mrs. R. B. Parker won in the cut, and was given a novelty deck of cards.

Sandwiches and pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee was served. Favors were black cats standing on top of the pie.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Charles E. Watson, Fred Lane, Dan Blackburn, H. M. Beverly, R. B. Parker, Naylor, Compton Smith, J. Stanley Marlow, Mrs. James Waggoner and Mr. Stallings and Master Kenneth Watson.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

If Back Hurts or Bladder Is Troubling You, Take a Little Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

LONGHORNS LAY FOR VANDERBILT

Entire Student Body Journeys to Dallas for Game Saturday

By MOULTON COBB.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Realizing that they have only an outside chance to win against Vanderbilt university in Dallas Saturday, the Longhorns are being carefully drilled by Coach "Doc," Stewart for the Texas football classic of the month. University athletic officers report an unprecedented demand for tickets for the game. The Longhorn team will be accompanied by the university band, the Cow Boy organization, and more than one thousand students.

The Vanderbilt eleven defeated the Longhorns in 1921 and 1922. This year the Commodores have made a more impressive record than the Longhorns, and individually the Tennesseans are far superior to the Texans. The Vanderbilt team outweighs the Longhorns over 15 pounds to the man. In Lynn Bomar, honored by Walter Camp as an all-American eligible, at end, Tackle Tex Bradford, Guard Fatty Lawrence, and fullback, Tom Ryan the Commodores present four of the greatest football players in the south. Bomar, Bradford and Lawrence each weigh over 200 pounds. The entire line averages more than 185 pounds to the man.

On the contrary the Longhorns have a rather light line. Against Bradford Coach Stewart will have to play Ed Bluestein of Port Arthur who weighs only 160 pounds. Dick Burns of Houston, the other Longhorn tackle, weighs only 175 pounds. Mariam Bradley of Denton, the Texas center, weighs but 170 pounds. Howard Gilstrap of Granger is the only Texas end who can be classed as a big man, while Oscar Eckhardt of Austin is the only Longhorn backfield performer, who weighs as much as 175 pounds.

Besides having a heavy squad the Vanderbilt team is composed of veteran players. Only two members of the 1922 team failed to return this fall. The Commodores have a heavy line and a very fast backfield, which is considered the ideal combination.

Joe Ward of Fort Worth, who received mention by Walter Camp last year, was unable to play against Tulane last Saturday and Coach Stewart does not expect the star Longhorn linesman to be in condition to oppose Vanderbilt. Leon Gorman of Winnsboro, another star linesman, is still on the injured list. He, too, was unable to play against Tulane. Quarterback George Gardere of Marlin has been able to play in but one game this season. Howard Gilstrap of Granger, the stellar Longhorn end, was injured in the Tulane game.

The Longhorns will leave Austin Friday for Waxahachie, where they will spend Friday night. The team will practice in Waxahachie Friday afternoon.

BURK HI SCHOOL SET FOR GRAHAM

Special to The Record News

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Oct. 18. The Burkburnett high school football team will go to Graham Saturday where they will mix it with the Young county boys for honors in the last scheduled preliminary game of the interscholastic league race. A crowd of fans will accompany the team, and with them the odds are in the local team's favor.

Burkburnett lost to Electra 6-3, while Graham last Monday came out at the short end of a 14-0 count with the same team. This gives Burkburnett a shade over Graham, but that team playing at home will probably even this difference.

FERDIE SCHUPP PITCHES HIS MATES TO STRANGLE HOLD ON SERIES; WINDS ARE CHILLY

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—Ferdie Schupp pitched Kansas City to a 5 to 2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles here today and gave his team a three to one lead in games in the inter-league contests. Both pitchers were wild at times, due to the cold northwest wind, which, in spite of brilliant sunlight, chilled the players and spectators, but Schupp had better luck after his wildness than Groves, who worked for Baltimore. Schupp struck out 10 men during the game and pitched shutout ball until the ninth when Baltimore made two runs. Groves gave way to Ogden in the seventh after injuring a finger on his right hand during the sixth.

In addition to contending with the temperature, the players were forced to overcome a very muddy outfield and several weak blows went for hits because the outfielders were unable to move with any speed. In spite of the disagreeable conditions, the crowd approximated 9,000.

The teams will probably open in Baltimore Saturday. Kansas City, with a two game lead, holds a commanding advantage, and on the records of the pitchers to date, is better equipped with battery material for the re-opening of the series than Baltimore. Zinn will probably work for Kansas City in the first eastern games, his one-hit game of last Saturday making him the logical choice, while Ogden who pitched two innings today, looks like Manager Dunn's best bet. The teams will play in Baltimore until one has won five games.

BURK ALL-STARS TO PLAY WALTERS

The Burkburnett All-Stras semi-pro football team which has established quite a reputation among squads of those circles, will play the Walters, Oklahoma, All-Stars at Burkburnett Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Most of these men are former college men, and show a snappy brand of football. Burgess, captain and coach, is whipping his men into shape for the game Sunday, which promises to be a hard fought one for the reason that neither squad has been defeated this year.

The Burkburnett fans are strong supporters of the team, which has arranged games with the best in this part of the country. Following is the schedule for the next few games, the team being open for any other games which may be arranged: Fort Sill 18th Field Artillery, October 28, at Burkburnett; Breckenride All-Stars at Breckenridge, Nov. 4; Fort Sill 1st F. A. at Burkburnett, Nov. 12. This last game will be played as an Armistice day event.

The Breckenridge game is expected to be the best game of its kind in this part of the state this year. Burkburnett barely won the game last year, which was played here, and it is expected that the old rival will put up a stiff fight to come back this season.

"Hurry Up" Yost and Jack Wilce

"Hurry Up" Yost has been head coach at the University of Michigan for over twenty-two years. He was a former footbal star at Lafayette and first coached at Ohio Wesleyan, Nebraska, Kansas and Stanford. Yost (whose real name is Fielding H. and not "Hurry Up") is noted for his famous smile and his never diminishing supply of pep. He coached such stars as Heston, Snow, Garrels, "Germany" Schulz and Craig, and his eleven of 1901 was called the "point-a-minute" team for it rolled up 501 points during the year and was never scored on. It was the first eastern team to play at the Pasadena tournament of roses, beating Stanford 49 to 0.

Next Saturday, Yost's Wolverines entertain the Ohio State squad, and after what Michigan did to the Buckeyes last year in their new stadium they may expect a bunch of wild men, eager for sweet revenge. Dr. Jack Wilce, the gent shown above in the big hat and glasses, has been head coach at Ohio State for over ten years. He was an all-western full back—as well as a star crew man at Wisconsin, and since he took control the Buckeye teams have won three western conference titles. Like Knute Rockne's outfits Wilce's teams are noted for the strength of their aerial offense. Wilce's 1919 team journeyed to Pasadena, for the 1920 New Year's day game but was beaten 28 to 0 by the University of California. (Copyright, 1923, Associated Editors.)

Crack Second Baseman Is Thought Probable Gleason Successor

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Edie Collins, captain and second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, probably will be selected to succeed "Kid" Gleason manager of the club, it was reported in baseball circles, although President Comiskey of the White Sox would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Comiskey said no announcement of Gleason's successor probably would be made until after the annual meeting of the American league to be held in December.

SIDE LINE GLIMPSES

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 16.—Stolz, regular right end of the Varsity, badly injured his leg in scrimmage and will be out of the game Saturday with Penn State. Snapley and Devens are working in the backfield with Barchet and Culleu.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—Tyron, Cornwell, and Redinger, Colgate backfield men who were injured in the Ohio state game will not be able to play Saturday against Cornell. Tyron will be out for at least three weeks.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Ray Johnston, regular Penn State back, hurt his shoulder in scrimmage and will not be able to play against the navy. Buckley probably will play in his position.

PRINCETON.—Cardinal Dougherty Archbishop Hayes of New York, and other prominent Catholic clergymen have been invited to see the game Saturday between Notre Dame and Princeton. Coaches are drilling the squad in defense of forward passing.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Coach Yost is developing a defense which is expected to break up the forward passing attack of Ohio. Each of the backs is receiving individual coaching with stress on Hege Workman's phenominal aerial flips.

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—Beyond a slight injury to half back Dobellit's already injured knee the Buckeyes came out of a hard scrimmage against the freshman eleven, using Michigan plays, without damage. The Ohio fresh idea of Michigan's defense was not at all effective against the Varsity.

NOTRE DAME TO CHANGE COLORS

Will Take Field Against Princeton Attired in Dazzling Green

By The Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18.—"When college tradition interferes with college football strategy, give up the tradition."

Such is the avowed attitude of Knute K. Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, and on Saturday afternoon when he sends his army-conquering eleven against the Princeton Tiger at Princeton, Rockne plans to exemplify that attitude by raising his players in brilliant green jerseys and stockings instead of the traditional dark blue woolens of the Indiana school.

Against the army team last week and on all other occasions when Rockne's charges have thrilled eastern football followers, the Notre Dame players have appeared in the university's color, dark blue. But before leaving New York last Saturday, the Notre Dame coach heard numerous tales of the difficulty of spotting dark jerseyed players against towering stadium walls, especially as the afternoon wears along and darkness descends. And because, in his lightning-like forward pass attack, it is essential that the passer knows exactly the location of the receivers, Rockne has ordered complete equipment of dazzling green and the Notre Dame eleven, for the first time in its football history, will appear against Princeton in this garb.

CARL SIMMONS GETS DECISION

Only K.O. Registered Was Administered By Duke Trammel

To Wichita Falls goes the honors of "Panther City night" at the legion boxing exhibition, for Faith City won two bouts and lost one. It was a strenuous night for all concerned, much and anxious boxing appearing, all off-set by a musical program in between.

Battling Carl Simmons, Henrietta, won the judges' decision over the touted Jimmie Carroll of Fort Worth in their 10-round bout for lightweights. The bout was slow in the opening rounds, and never did reach any extra thrills, being a steady, well matched go between men who were unable to get across the big punch. Simmons made more of his blows than did Carroll, exhibiting a true right besides his regular straight left. Carroll fought a good fight and was at no time in danger but let the Henrietta boy side-step most of his big swings. Simmons showed himself a more clever boxer than previously, leading any mixing, and even once knocking Carroll to the floor with a straight right to the chin.

The only K. O. registered for the night with a hard jolt administered by Duke Trammell of Fort Worth to Alvin Williams of Devol. This proved the snappiest go on the bill, Williams going down in the second under a hard smash while groggy from straights to the face. Trammell is a Riverside Hi football player, and challenged Dago Ryan or Country Boy Lance to meet him here next Thursday.

Kid Snyder ran into foul weather when he met Wildcat Monte of Amarillo. These boys stepped a pretty six rounds, neither having an apreciable advantage. Referee Friedman well named it a draw.

The Rattlesnake Kid is still supreme in darktown circles, for he took the Panther Kid from Cow Town to a mean go, winning, when the Panther unjointed a finger. The Panther put up a hard scrap while there, and promises to return.

The preliminary goes in the paperweight class showed that same class, the Sonny Jackson-Lefty Louie producing much art. This was a draw along with the other minor events, except that the "Blue-trike" beat out the Pink in the opener. The pinweight champion match between Tiny and Midget was a draw, and remains to be decided. These mites put up an entertaining scrap.

Others were a 90-pound affair which came to a draw after two rounds of fierce thwacking mixed with some science, and the free-for-all left four in the ring out of seve... in the fastest one seen here, all boys of the 50-pound class.

"PEP" MEETING BEFORE GAME

Electra to Hold Meeting At High School Friday Night

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 18.—Preparations are under way by local football fans to attend the "pep" meeting which will be held at the high school building Friday night for the game with Wichita Falls on Saturday.

Dr. Kearby who is in charge of the program has made arrangements with a number of speakers to address the students and the public who are expected to attend.

The chamber of commerce has completed arrangements for the Electra band to attend the game. The local business men have provided cars with which to take the band to Wichita Falls.

Without exception, the largest crowd that ever attended an out-of-town game from this city, is planning to see the game next Saturday. Every one is interested and excited about the game and all have a feeling that Electra has a good fighting chance to be returned the winner.

Coach McGlathery has confined the drilling of his men since the Graham game to light signal practice all behind closed gates. With a few exceptions, all of the men are in excellent trim.

The men Coach McGlathery will send in against the Wichita Falls Coyotes will probably be as follows: Turner, center; Bilger, right guard; Martin, left guard; Hays, right tackle; Coolidge, left tackle; Rouse, quarterback; Moore, right half; Walker, left half; Hammond, fullback; Olan Sanderlin, right end; "Bug" Sanderlin, left end; Green, Aven, Bell, Ray, Bickley, Thomas and Johnson are among those to be held in reserve.

Rouse, Moore and Hammond have carried the offense for Electra this year and are expected to stand out in Saturday's game as the big threat to the Wichita Falls goal.

SPRING HILL AND LOYOLA WILL PLAY GAME ON SUNDAY

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—The annual football game between Spring Hill college, Mobile, and Loyola university, of this city, will be played here Sunday as a result of a combination of unusual circumstances. Loyola and Tulane University are adjacent, only a narrow street separating their athletic fields and Tulane is scheduled to meet Louisiana Tech Saturday, Loyola and Spring Hill desired to get together at the same time but the prospect of two sets of battling warriors and two mobs of howling spectators almost within whispering distance of each other was too much to worry over. Then, too, many fans wanted to witness each contest. Loyola and Spring Hill athletic authorities settled matters by scheduling their game for Sunday.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

FOOTBALL.

What are the rudiments of defense against a persistent use of forward passes by the opponent?

Answered by

BILL ROPER.

Coach of football, Princeton University. In 1922 his undefeated team was victor over Yale, Harvard and Chicago.

If the opponents persist in using a forward passing attack, the defensive center should play out of the line. A six man line defense is sufficient against a forward passing attack, and this will permit the center and defensive fullback to play parallel to each other about four or five yards behind the line of scrimmage. The center rush and fullback are then in a position to cover short, flat passes on either side of the center. This permits the two halfbacks on the wings to give their undivided attention to the opposing ends. The defensive center is the key to every effective forward pass defense. When he is in line, the fullback has an almost impossible job in trying to cover flat passes on both sides of the center. It is much safer against a persistent forward passing attack to spot opponents a couple of yards through the line and stop long gains by dropping the center out of the line.

COYOTES DOING FINISHING WORK

Steve West Reported Out and Baldwin Still - Uncertain

Coaches McCallum and Moore are doing the last finishing work for the Electra game here Saturday, whipping their men into shape with all the last minute grooming which comes before the first big tussle. Things are not so bright as they could be, reports being that Steve West, regular center, is out permanently, while Leo Baldwin, star fullback and mainstay in the Wichita scoring machine, has yet to work down a troublesome charley-horse. Just who will be sent in to take the veteran West's place is not fully known, but there is no doubt but that he will be missed. As for Baldwin, that is a problem which must be solved by the ayes, for that man must be in the line-up Saturday by all means. It is probable that he will be able to start, though not yet a settled fact.

Secret signal practice has proven the program for the week, which is being duplicated at Electra, according to reports. That town is coming down en masse to take the game and administer a lasting defeat on the Coyotes, it is said, bringing a band along, also. Wichita will have a band out Saturday and no end of supporters, general opinion being that it will be a game worth seeing at all odds. There are being no odds given, all fans expecting a tight and hard fought game from these old rivals. From the way each has played the season, the large crowd expected Saturday will see a nice brand of football.

No radical changes have been announced in the Coyote line-up which seems to be the case with both teams. Wichita has not been compelled to open up so far, but if this should be the case Saturday, there will probably appear some snappy work.

REV. GRAFTON IS NOT TO LEAVE

A news item bearing a Haynesville, La. date line, and appearing in Thursday morning's Record News, created the impression among some of the friends of the Reverend N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Wichita Falls, that Dr. Grafton had been appointed to a position by the Presbyterian synod, which would cause him to leave Wichita Falls. Such is not the case.

Dr. Grafton has been appointed to the executive board which will direct the work of the synod under the reorganized plan adopted, but this position will in no way interfere with his pastorate. The meeting in Louisiana was of the Texas synod of the U. S. A. church. Under the reorganization, four boards and agencies will direct the work of the church, while heretofore there were double that number. The executive board of which Dr. Grafton is a member, will meet every thirty days in Dallas.

The Reverend Grafton told a representative of the Record News that he wished to express his appreciation of the interest shown by those who thought his position in the work of the church would take him away from here, but declared that he has no intention of leaving Wichita Falls, and will preach as usual Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Grafton's sermon Sunday night will be "The Problem of the Prosperity of the Wicked."

Jesse Livermore has not quit trading in stocks, says a New York dispatch. He merely had the ticker wires removed from his office to save expense while he was in Europe. Nobody in the world can be more economical than a Wall street financier, when it is time to economize.

STOCK MARKET AT LOW EBB

Several New Low Records For Year Are Established

Market Features.

Total stocks sales 453,200 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 87.46 net loss .04

High 1923, 105.38; low 86.92.

Twenty railroads averaged 81.10, net unchanged.

High 1923, 90.51; low 79.53.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK Oct. 18.—Speculative interest in today's stock market was at low ebb with the general list closing slightly lower after a day of backing and filling movements.

Several new low records for the year were established during the session particularly by the tire stocks selling of which was influenced by further cuts in tire prices and the passing of the dividend on Lee rubber, which closed 2 1-2 points lower at 11 3-4.

Additional reductions in gasoline prices were offset, in part, by reports of another reduction in crude production. Persistent rumors of new financing by the Pan-American company, however, had a depressing effect on its issues.

Railroad shares held fairly steady until just before the close when the Northwestern carriers had another sinking spell, notwithstanding the interstate commerce commission's statement that lower rates on grain from primary points should be compensated by increased rates in other commodities or by reduced operating expenses.

Shipping shares improved on reports of a better inquiry for freight space and the belief that lower railroad rates on grain for export would stimulate business. Merchandising and chain store issues also have good demonstrations of group strength on reports of high current earnings.

Steel shares were relatively steady. Willys-Overland preferred was one of the outstanding strong spots, being run more than two points to 65, but easing slightly at the close.

Call money opened at 41.2 per cent eased to 4 1-2 and thence to 4 where it closed. The time money market was quiet on a 5 to 5 1-4 per cent basis.

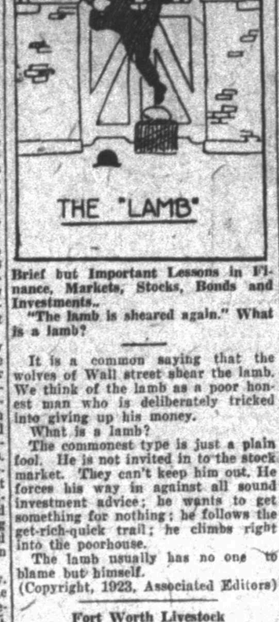

Cabled reports of internal disturbances in Germany sent marks down to a new low of one cent a 100,000. Demand sterling dropped nearly a cent to 4.52 and French francs broke 8 1-2 points to 5.96 cents. Heaviness also cropped out in the Scandinavian rates.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

"The lamb is sheared again." What is a lamb?

It is a common saying that the wolves of Wall street shear the lamb. We think of the lamb as a poor honest man who is deliberately tricked into giving up his money.

What is a lamb?

The commonest type is just a plain fool. He is not invited in to the stock market. They can't keep him out. He forces his way in against all sound investment advice; he wants to get something for nothing; he follows the get-rich-quick trail; he climbs right into the poorhouse.

The lamb usually has no one to blame but himself.

Fort Worth Livestock

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 18.—Cattle receipts today amounted to 4000 head of cattle and 2560 calves. The fat cattle market was a brief affair, prices on all classes holding to a good, steady level. In spots the calf trade displayed strength. Buyers made the rounds early and were anxious to clear the yards, and particularly everything that was here at a sensonable hour was disposed of without peddling.

Not many beef steers were here. Some odd lots were disposed of as cows in carlots were disposed of as high as 4.25. A good sort went at 3.25 to 3.75. Cutters made 2.00 to 2.75, with caners going at 1.50 to 2.00. Bulk sales ranged around 3.00 to 3.75. A car of good heifers brought 8.00. Calves brought 7.25, the top for the week. Bulk sales ranged from 5.00 to 6.00. A few scattering consignments of stockers were shown in the opening, sales being on a steady basis.

Shippers were out early and purchased several cars of hogs at prices that were in line with Wednesday's high level, the top being 8.25. Packers remained idle until late and finally made their selections at rates that looked 50 to 60 cents lower. The packer top was 7.50. Bulk sales on the day's run of 1,500 head made a range of 7.50 to 8.25. Pig prices were also pounded, the loss being around 50 cents. Most of the run had to go at 6.75, although a few lots were taken at 7.00 and 7.25.

Receipts in the sheep division were estimated at 500 for local sales, and the market supply was not very desirable. Trade conditions were quotably unchanged.

60 TRUE BILLS BY GRAND JURY

Seven additional true bills were returned by the 89th district court grand jury Thursday afternoon making a total of 60 indictments in the last three weeks since the body was summoned by Judge P. A. Martin.

In returning the indictments yesterday members of the grand jury said the work of the body was far from completed and that only those cases where the accused were already in jail or on bond has been billed.

Among the bills returned yesterday were Robert Houthens, forgery; Grady Cook, burglary; Robert Brown, auto theft and Chas. Horn, forgery on two counts.

COTTON MARKET LOWER AGAIN

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The cotton market was lower again today as a result of further scattering liquidation or selling for a reaction. The opening was higher but after selling at 29.12, December broke to 28.74 in the late trading, or 21 points net lower, and closed at 28.83. The general market closed steady at net declines of 10 to 32 points.

The market opened at a decline of one point to an advance of 20 points. There was a good deal of scattering southern selling here, which was regarded as indicating freer spot offerings and the market turned easier right after the call. Rumors that between 10,000 and 12,000 bales of cotton were expected here for delivery before the end of the month, brought out some October liquidation, and the break of 29.20 for that position had an unsettling effect on the general list. Trade interests bought January on the decline to 28.85, which checked the decline, and there were moderate rallies during the middle of the day on covering, owing to the forecast for frosts in parts of Texas and Oklahoma and uncertainty as to the further course of the disturbance reported for the gulf. The market weakened again during the middle of the afternoon under renewed liquidation, local and Wall street selling, which was accompanied by renewed talk of an easier spot basis in the south. Prices sold back to about the low point of the morning and closed within a few points of the lowest.

Exports for the day were 86,616 bales, making 1,363,163 so far this season. Port receipts 34,342. U. S. port stocks 613,854.

WALLACE ON WAY TO STOKES TRIAL

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Edgar T. Wallace, the principal co-respondent named by W. E. D. Stokes in the retrial of his divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, was expected to arrive tonight for his second appearance on the witness stand in behalf of Mrs. Stokes. Before leaving San Francisco, Wallace telegraphed instructions to Charles E. Erbstein, one of Mrs. Stoke's attorneys, to take any action he believed necessary in the case before his arrival.

Mr. Eberstein anonunced he had been retained by Wallace after the jury had passed a day listening to emphatic testimony against Mrs. Stokes by Horace G. Knowles, former United States minister to Rumania, Serbia, Nicaragua and Bolivia, and had heard Ezariah Epps, negro witness for the wealthy hotel owner, contradict repeatedly his story of having seen Mrs. Stokes at two of Wallace's apartments.

WHEAT MARKET DROPS LOWER

Reported Arrangement of Russia Grain Brings New Slump

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Reported arrangement by which Russian exports of grain will be financed by leading British firms had considerable effect today in bringing about lower prices for wheat. The market closed weak at half to 1 1-8 cents net decline, with December 1.05 1-2 to 1.05 5-8 and May 1.10 1-2 to 1.10 5-8. In corn the outcome ranged from 7-8 cents loss to 1 3-4 cent advance, oats finished 1-8 to 1-4 cent down and provisions unchanged to a set back of 12 cents.

Forecasts of clear, frosty weather eased the corn market so far as December and later months were concerned, but October and November deliveries showed a decided upward tendency owing to smallness of immediate supplies. Oats lacked aggressive support.

Provisions went lower with hogs.

New Orleans Cotton

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Selling pressure was felt by the cotton market today, after a short lived period of steadiness on the opening during which prices were lifted 15 to 18 points to 28.63 cents a pound for the December position. Following this opening advance heavy offerings came on the market and at the middle of the morning there was rather a sharp break which put prices to their lowest, losses under yesterday's close of 15 to 21 points, which carried December off to 28.28. During the remainder of the session it was a series of minor fluctuations, the market finally closing at losses on the day of five to thirteen points with December at a range of 28.33 to 28.38.

Liquidation from the long side, mixed with hedge selling, seemed to be responsible for the reaction following the early steadiness. New selling increased because of prospects of clearing weather for the western belt and because of less threatening weather in the gulf. A little later selling was stimulated by reports that considerable cotton was moving from the south to New York to go against contracts there.

In the late trading a steadier feeling was acquired an reports of temperature near the freezing point in Oklahoma.

Cottonseed Oil

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK Oct. 18.—With the census figures indicatnig a consumption of only 169,000 barrels in September, crude cottonseed oil market lower, and cotton and lard easier, cottonseed oil dropped 11 to 20 points today. Absorption by houses with southern connections and room covering checked the decline and at the close the net loss was 10 to 15 points. Sales 24,500 barrels.

Prime crude 9.25, sales; prime summer yellow spot 11.00@12.50; October closed 11.85; December 10.50; March 10.63; May 10.50; all bid.

SHIPPING BOARD IS INTO STRIKE

Offers Striking Longshoremen 80 Cents Per Hour

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The shipping board probably will intervene tomorrow in an effort to mediate between the dock workers and shipping firms operating out of the port of New Orleans, it was stated officially tonight. The material interest held by the government in the situation through the several gulf and south Atlantic lines touching new Orleans was declared to warrant intervention.

This was expected to follow the precedure recently taken in a similar interruption of ship loadings at Norfolk, Va. There the dock workers held out for 80 cents an hour, while the owners insisted on 65 cents as a maximum. Through the influence of the board, a compromise scale with 75 cents an hour as a base, was agreed upon.

OIL PROMOTER GUILTY BY JURY

Receives Verdict With No Emotion—Counsel Will Appeal

By The Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 18.—The jury in the case of C. A. Reid Clark, on trial for three days in the federal district court on a charge of using the mails to defraud, returned a verdict of guilty as charged Thursday afternoon at 4:35 o'clock, after deliberating for more than 3 hours.

Clark received the verdict without any outward display of emotion but his wife, who has been constantly by his side during the trial, wept bitterly and buried her face in her hands. At the request of Clark's counsel, Judge Rufus E. Foster released the defendant under his present bond of $1000 until Monday morning when he will be sentenced.

An appeal for a new trial will be made in the case it was stated by W. A. Wilkinson, Clark's attorney. The appeal will be based upon the several bills of exceptions reserved during the trial, Mr. Wilkinson said.

Testimony closed Wednesday and arguments were made by Mr. Wilkinson for the defense and Aubrey M. Pyburn, assistant federal district attorney.

The charges against Clark were brought by federal authorities several months ago. Clark was charged jointly with E. H. Van-Harlingen with whom he was accused of promoting the Clark $100 unit oil company which sold units to many persons in 1920 and 1921. This stock proved to be worthless, according to testimony produced at the trial. Several persons who bought shares from Clark appeared as witnesses and said they had received no dividends from their investments.

Say Doc Cook Flooded Mails

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Virginia Brown of Fort Worth, formerly an employe of the Petroleum Producers association of which Dr. Frederick A. Cook was president, testified this afternoon in the trial in federal district court of Dr. Cook and his 13 co-defendants, charged with using the United States mail to defraud, that some weeks 300,000 pieces of literature were sent out to prospective buyers of the association's stock.

Mrs. Brown said that she was supervisor of the mailing division of the Petroleum Producers association and that on an average about 15,000 letters were sent out each week. She asserted that at one time 53 girls were employed in the mailing division.

F. W. Wimberly, head of the Wimberly Advertising agency of Fort Worth, also took the stand this afternoon. He testified that he handled much of the advertising of Cook's and other of the defendant's companies. Practically all of the advertising issued either by the Petroleum Producers association or the other companies, was approved by Dr. Cook, he said.

Other witnesses called to the stand by the government were Oscar Cole, farmer, of Nevada, Iowa, and T. J. Thompson, also a farmer, of Storey City, Iowa.

ROTARIANS ARE COMPLIMENTED

Coolidge Description Strikes Right Cord At Luncheon

At the suggestion of C. U. Daniels, W. D. Cline, president of the Rotary club, brought up the matter of an article concerning President Coolidge at the noon luncheon Thursday at the Kemp. A certain publication said the president had a "heart of stone, hands of ice, and the mind of a small town Rotarian."

Discussion from the floor took up the hour, and the members agreed that it was a compliment to the Rotarians and to the president to have the "mind of a small town Rotarian."

"A small town Rotarian is the vanguard of civilization and ideals," said Hubert M. Harrison. "They are sheet anchors of our ship of state. The forward looking thought of the little town is the real 'vox popoli" that marks the progress of American institutions."

Dudley Ellis of Burkburnett, spoke in favor of the small town Rotarian, saying that they "help to make the big Rotarian."

J. R. Roberts told of the annual meeting of the Rotarian club which was held at Kansas City while the war was going on. It was the only national convention that received the sanction of the federal government. Patriotic subjects and patriotism were the discussions of the annual convention.

Rev. F. C. Laslette, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian church here, made a fervent talk for the Armenians, telling of the 600,000 Armenians who were in the recent war, and of that number only 36,000 returned. He asked that the Rotarians help them.

W. D. Cline, president of the club, presided. He has just returned from a visit to his plantation in Louisiana. V. H. Roberts introduced the visitors. The luncheon closed with R. E. Shepherd leading the song, "The Old Grey Mare."

YELLOW DOGS TO ENTERTAIN ELEVEN

Forty-five members of the Order of the Yellow Dog met at the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening.

The name "Yellow Dog," though it conflicts with a Masonic degree of that name for men, was voted to stand, and hereafter the organization will be known by that name.

The Yellow Dogs voted to stand behind and support with their presence and influence any entertainment that might be given for the Electra football team when they visit the city Saturday. They will attend the game in a body, all wearing yellow ribbons, and will occupy a specially reserved section of the grandstand.

Plans for a dance were discussed, but were overruled because many of the members have not learned their obligations and are therefore not members in good standing. This, according to the constitution, prohibits them from taking part in any social activities of the Yellow Dogs. One of the requirements of membership in the order is the ability to repeat the obligations of the order of De Molay.

To remedy the situation, several classes were formed for learning the work, and the remainder of the evening was spent in study. As soon as all members are familiar with the required work, a meeting will be called the latter part of the month to discuss plans for a Hallowe'en dance.

Regular meetings are held the first and third Friday evening of every month, and a good program of music and stunts is presented at each meeting. The order claims an active membership of 60 at the present date.

SAN CARLO CO. HERE NOVEMBER 8

Wichitans will have the opportunity of hearing the opera, "Madame Butterfly," very soon. The San Carlo Grand Opera company will present Madame Butterfly in Wichita Falls on the evening of November 8. The company which will visit this city is headed by Fortuno Gallo, "the immigrant boy who made grand opera popular."

Possibly a little over 20 years ago there landed at Ellis Island an Italian boy with no knowledge of English, and with a purse as poor as his English tongue. This boy was Fortuno Gallo. He studied and quickly learned the language and customs of the American people. The lad took a lively interest in ward politics, and he soon was political leader of his fellow Italian-Americans.

His first position was that of a bank clerk, but the life was not interesting to the young Italian. He had rather lead his friends in music. It was not long before he had a brass band organized in his neighborhood, and soon he had a tour booked for the organization. The little company traveled. While on the Pacific coast he met Lombardi, the presiding genius of many ill-fated opera companies. Later he was offered, as a present, the ownership of an operatic company in financial distress, and from it he built the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which is the only grand opera company in America that boasts of a profit instead of a deficit.

The San Carlo Grand Opera company has delighted audiences in Boston, having played a two-weeks' engagement there and it is reported that it attracted those from the most exclusive circles. During a three-weeks' engagement at the Metropolitan Opera House in Philadelphia, the "best people" approved of the performance.

On November 8 the people of Wichita Falls will have the opportunity of hearing the company which has already pleased audiences of the East.

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

A man, evidently feeling good over something, went swinging down Eighth street whistling That Red Head Gal," about 120 beats per. Two business men came out of an office building quite assorted in something they were talking over. They were evidently going somewhere, for they were stepping along, and when the whistler came around the corner, the business men unconsciously fell into step with the music and waltzed along behind him for over a block, keeping time, and talking business all the while. We wonder what company they marched with during the war.

Two small boys came to the Strand ticket window yesterday with a gold beauty pin.

"How much is this worth?" asked the the older.

The girl at the ticket window smiled "Oh, about a penny I guess."

The boy turned the pin over in his hand and looked up hopefully, "I thought maybe we'd get to go in on it."

"Why, we don't buy jewelry here, take it around the corner and see if you can't sell it to Dave Paul," the girl told him.

The small boy grabbed his colleague's hand and they ran around to sell their bill of goods to Dave. They didn't return.

Oil Drilling Now Reported On Up-Grade

That the low tide in drilling curtailment due to the oil slump has been reached and increased drilling will continue from now on is indicated from the records in the office of Thos. L. Coplin, district oil and gas supervisor.

The report in the supervisor's office showed in June 135 drilling applications were filed. This was at the period just preceding the slump and the general cry for curtailment. In July the curtailment program had begun in earnest and only half as many or 67 permits were issued as compared to June.

In August the low tide of the slump graph is seen and drilling was at a practical standstill with but 49 permits issued. In September the situation was better and the supervisor issued 59 permits to drill.

That October will surpass September and show an increase is indicated with 32 applications for drilling having been filed up to October 13. With the big end of the month yet to report it is probable a healthy increase over September will be shown.

THAVIU'S BAND IS ON WAY HERE

Success Is Reported All Along Its Line of Tour of U. S.

Thaviu's band is coming to Wichita Falls. Thaviu's band is not only a regular band, but it also has a troupe of Grand Opera singers and eight ballet dancers.

This band has made a tour of the United States and it is said it has been well received everywhere it has appeared. It has played for more than 70 chautauquas.

On September 4 of this year the band played at Rochester, New York. The Rochester Herald of that city reported this after the performance of the band and troupe: "More than 5,000 persons waited in rain to hear the first concert by Thaviu's band. One of the main features of the day was the gathering of 5,000 persons about the bandstand to hear the first afternoon concert by Thaviu's band. When the acrobatic conductor began his first number, the rain was pouring down, and it was no little tribute to Mr. Thaviu and his musicians that scarcely a person moved from the vicinity until the intermission.

"This is the first Rochester appearance of the celebrated bandmaster, and he was plainly delighted with the reception accorded him. Never before did so many people stand in the rain to hear me," he said. "It is plain to be seen that Rochester likes good music and that is one reason why it makes it so interesting to play there."

"At night the entire second act of Aida was presented by Mr. Thaviu with his own artist and ballet in the leading roles assisted by a large chorus of Rochester voices."

The world famous band with internationally famed leader will be in this city the evening of October 29. The concert will be given at the Maskat Temple.

CITIZENS ARE HEAVY CHEWERS

16,500 Slabs of Gum Bought Daily

An average of 16,500 sticks of chewing gum is sold in Wichita Falls every day. The estimate of 3,500 packages a day has been taken from the reports of sales from 20 drug stores, all the news and candy stands in various places in the city, and the numerous grocery stores and confectionaries.

This means that Wichitans spend approximately $165.00 a day, $1,155.00 a week, and $4,620.00 a month on chewing gum.

The leading drug stores and news stands sell from 150 to 300 packages a day, and men buy the most gum, contrary to the popular belief that stenos support the gum business. Women, boys, girls, and children buy sparsely, and the gum business flourishes best from 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon on into the evening. Many people who want change for a dollar will buy a package or two of gum, to get the desired small change.

Juicy Fruit is the leading brand sold, and is the universal brand of gum asked for first everywhere. Spearmint, Doublemint and P. K. follow about at an equal, and Beech Nut is fairly popular.

People in every walk of life buy chewing gum, have bought chewing gum, and will continue to buy chewing gum, and surely with the plentiful supply of gum in Wichita Falls there is no need for the forlorn maiden's despairing cry, "I've followed you for 30 years, now give me back my chewing gum."

A few persons in New York who wish to see Ireland a free republic threw eggs at Lloyd George in that city the other day. Their cause was not perceptibly advanced by their action, but doubtless they are sure it would have been if the ex-premier had stood still and the eggs had held out long enough.
