Final Assault Expected...

British Shelling Stanley

By The Associated Press

British artillery hammered Argentine positions in the Falkland Islands capital of Stanley today and commandos closed in on the Argentine garrision by pushing to within seven miles of the Argentine defense perimeter, battle reports said.

Britain's land commander in the South Atlantic territory, Maj. Gen. Jeremy Moore, said British ground troops had begun shelling Argentine positions around the heavily defended capital.

"We have got very close in and we are beginning to apply pressure to the main enemy positions throughout Stanley," Moore said in an interview carried by the British Broadcasting Corp.

The British troops who captured the high ground overlooking Stanley on Tuesday were expected to launch a final assault unless the Argentines surrender.

British war correspondents, in censored dispatches, said some Royal Marine commandos and paratroopers were within seven miles of the defensive perimeter established by an estimated 6,000 Argentine troops around the capital.

The British Defense Ministry had no comment, but said two of its Harrier jets, hit during attacks on Argentine military installations in the Falklands, have been lost "over the last few days."

The ministry said the pilots of both ditched Harriers ejected and were recovered safely by the British. The ministry also said an undisclosed number of Harriers had flown to the war zone to reinforce the 30-40 British jet fighters there.

Sources in London had said earlier the British troops outside Stanley might delay their advance for two or three days, until troops moving up from the west and southwest bring the assault force to some 4,000 men.

Argentina's ruling junta dispatched a military delegation to U.N. headquarters in New York to try to make peace. But Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said they "aren't carrying any new proposals." And Gen. Mario Menendez, the Argentine governor of the Falklands, delivered a rousing martial broadcast to his estimated 6,000 troops, calling them "To arms! To combat!"

Correspondents with the British forces reported the capture Tuesday of 1,535-foot Mount Kent 12 miles west of Stanley, and Bob McGowan of the London Daily Express said marine commandos stormed the strategically vital Two Sisters ridge three miles closer to the town.

"Opposition throughout was slight," McGowan reported. "We found enemy trenches with boots, ammunition and clothing still in them, indicating that the Argentines ran when they saw the British sweeping in on them."

The Argentine junta acknowledged indirectly that the British had taken Mount Kent but claimed they were unable to advance. A spokesman for the joint chiefs of staff said as a result of Argentine bombing, "British forces stayed on Mount Kent. They have not passed Mount Kent."

Another 3,500 British troops are reported to have landed north of Stanley, but the Defense Ministry has not confirmed this and there has been no mention of their location in correspondents' reports from the British task force.

First Trip...

Reagan Leaves For Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan set off today on his first European trip since taking office, declaring himself proud to represent the United States and promising to try to bolster the unity of the major industrial democracies.

Embarking on a 10-day tour, Reagan made a farewell speech to 200 top-level government officials, including members of the Cabinet, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and members of Congress who gathered in the White House East Room.

"I can only tell you that I shall be more proud than I've ever been of anything to be there representing the United States, with an opportunity once again to express to all of the world what it is we think we represent, what it is we want for all the people of the world," he told his cheering audience.

Reagan then headed for Andrews Air Force Base, Md., by helicopter for a flight that will reach Paris about midnight in the French capital.

The trip includes visits to four countries and two summit meetings — an economic conference in Versailles outside Paris and a NATO meeting in Bonn, West Germany.

Reagan said the United States and its allies had "weathered threats of aggression and internal disagreements, but we've maintained a sense of unity and a commitment to freedom and we're still being tested, possibly more now than ever before.

"It's important for that reason to meet and renew our bond," Reagan declared.

He said that at the first summit, the Versailles economic conference, "we should see more clearly where and how we mean to have a better economic future."

At the NATO meeting in Bonn, he said, the United States "will have a chance to explain in detail plans for engaging the Soviet Union in realistic arms reduction talks." He had announced last week those talks would begin June 29.

The president said Tuesday that U.S.-European ties are closer than they have been "for some years." He added: "I think we're seeing much more eye-to-eye than we have in the past."

But he told European reporters in a live television interview that he wonders whether opponents overseas "think I am a threat to peace" as a result of "some imagery that has been concocted for them."

The president, who is scheduled to leave Washington this morning and arrive in Paris shortly before midnight, Paris time, said he would seek to portray himself "as someone who believes very much" in the U.S.-European alliance.

The president's aides have emphasized efforts at winning popular support in Europe almost as much as they have stressed the substantive issues of high interest rates and protectionism, key topics at the economic summit conference that is the first major event on the president's schedule.

The interview with European reporters on the eve of Reagan's departure was the latest in a White House effort to soften the president's image in Europe.

Reagan spent much of Wednesday in a series of interviews on the trip.

15 Absentee Ballots Cast

Only 15 persons cast absentee ballots here for the Democratic Party runoff election scheduled for Saturday.

The absentee voting period ended Tuesday.

Only four state-wide offices will be listed on the ballot for most Scurry countians -- attorney general, land commissioner and two court posts--except for the Hermleigh precinct which will nominate a justice of the peace. All voters except those in the Hermleigh precinct will cast ballots in polling places located in Snyder, and paper ballots will be used instead of the punch card voting machines.

Ask Us

Q.—I notice some places where Snyder's population is listed as 12,671 and others it say 12,705. Which is right?

A.—The Census Bureau issued some preliminary reports following its count in 1980 and the 12,671 is the last preliminary total. The final total and official 1980 population is 12,705, according to figures furnished city hall.

Report Cards Go Into Mail

Junior high and high school report cards were mailed today, school officials reported, and students should receive them within the next day or two.

However, cards were not mailed to junior high students who owe charges. These students should pick up their report cards at the junior high school before June 11.

Wednesday update

Cryts Freed From Jail

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Missouri farmer Wayne Cryts planned to return today to his farm in Puxico, more than a month after a federal bankruptcy judge had jailed him in Arkansas for contempt of court.

Cryts, 35, had been incarcerated April 28 when he refused to say who helped him take 33,000 bushels of grain from an elevator at Bernie, Mo. U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Charles Baker ordered Cryts freed Tuesday because the record of the proceeding during which the farmer refused to answer questions was closed.

Hostile Reception Expected

BONN, West Germany (AP) — President Reagan's visit to Western Europe is going to bring hundreds of thousands of Europeans into the streets to jeer at him and protest the deployment of U.S. nuclear missiles in their countries.

West German terrorists gave Reagan a taste of the sentiment against him when they bombed four U.S. military installations in the Frankfurt area Tuesday and said the attacks were "a prelude to a hopefully loud, eventful and unforgettable reception" for the president.

Two other bombings caused at least $50,000 damage to the Duesseldorf offices of two U.S. computer firms. Police said they might be connected with the Frankfurt bombings.

Baker Intercedes

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker said today he has appealed to Chinese officials to release an American woman who has been detained for alleged espionage.

Baker said he hopes that Lisa Wichser, 28, will be able to leave China by Friday. "I am confident the case can be satisfactorily resolved," he told a press conference after two days of meetings with Chinese leaders, .

The Tennessee Republican said he raised Miss Wichser's case in a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin.

Quarantines Lifted

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Satisfied with the success of its $80 million campaign against the Mediterranean fruit fly, California has lifted fruit and vegetable quarantines in three counties and may declare two more counties medfly-free next week.

At the same time, the Agriculture Department in Washington said it was launching a precautionary program to prevent potential medfly infestations in other parts of the nation.

"We're putting about 35,000 traps throughout the United States ... concentrating them in the Southeast, the Gulf Coast states and other areas with favorable climates, heavy international traffic, produce terminals and a variety of medfly hosts," said Harvey Ford, deputy administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Ventilation System Blamed

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A faulty water heater ventilation system blamed for the death of one woman and illnesses of 13 other motel guests had been approved by a city fire inspector, a fire department spokesman said.

Odessa Fire Marshal Wayne Coogins said Tuesday he believed carbon monoxide fumes from one of two water heaters backed up Sunday into eight rooms at the Imperial Motel.

Coogins said Tuesday that fire inspector Marion Sims on May 21 had approved the ventilation for the heater blamed for the death of Bernice Connery, 27, of Midlothian.

The heater was vented to a window, so that wind could have blown fumes back into motel rooms through a plumbing passageway, Coogins said.

Petitions Seek Liquor Election At Hermleigh

Petitions were being issued today calling for a liquor election in Justice Precinct No. 4 (Hermleigh).

An application with signatures of 15 voters in the precinct was presented at the county clerk's office, and County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth said the petitions would be issued late this morning. An application with at least 10 valid voter signatures makes it mandatory that petitions be issued.

The application asks for petitions for an election to legalize the sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption.

Only the Hermleigh voting box is located in Justice Precinct 4. Petitions mandating the election must have signatures of 35 percent of the number of voters who cast ballots in the governor's race in the last general election. Mrs. Ainsworth estimated that approximately 90 signatures would be needed, since there was a light turnout in the Hermleigh voting box in the 1980 general election.

The petitioners have 30 days to get the required number of signatures. Then, the petitions will come back to the county clerk where the signatures will be checked against voter registration lists. If the required number is certified, the petitions then will go to the county commissioner's court, which will set the election date no less than 20 nor more than 30 days from the date the petitions are presented.

Thus, the election could come in late July or early August.

Those signing the request for the petitions include E. J. Stevenson, Rodney Darrell Mayo, Edwin Kuss, Clarence Airhart, Leon Mireles, Aurora Mireles, Harold Lynn Bratton, Fredda Sue Bratton, Modesta Sanchez, Louis Sanchez, Boyce Doug Jones, Lorena Burleson, Ralph Tuget, Mrs. L. Boyce Jones and Julie Reese.

Board Studies School Budget

Snyder School Trustees last night took a long look at a proposed 1982-83 school budget that still has a few adjustments pending, but appears certain to go beyond the $10 million mark.

The biggest item, of course, is salaries, and the board already has approved an increase putting the local salary scale at 27 percent above the state minimum. The current level is 20 percent above the state minimum.

The salary increase is the major factor in hiking the instruction budget by more than $900,000.

Increases also are certain in transportation and plant maintenance. These will include anticipated increases in the cost of electric power, natural gas, etc.

Still under consideration are some repairs and improvements to facilities. The board launched a program the past year to try to keep buildings and other facilities up to date, and work is now underway at East Elementary and Central Elementary Schools. Priorities for repair work at other schools during the coming year were discussed at last night's budget work session.

In the only action item last night, the board approved continuation of a summer work program in the athletic department. Two members of the coaching staff will repair equipment and help maintain facilities during the months of June and July. They will be paid the minimum wage.

Board members attending last night's session were Mike Reed, president, G. A. Parks Jr., Dr. Leslie Butler, J. D. Hinton and Jerry McWilliams. Lillie Sullivan was absent.

Held On Traffic Warrants...

Teen Tortured, Killed In Jail

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A teen-ager jailed on warrants for $60 worth of traffic violations was tortured and killed in a jail exercise yard, and the assault went unnoticed for hours because the jail was low on staff for the Memorial Day holiday, authorities said.

Christopher Peterman, 17, died Monday of head injuries, said Ada County Chief Deputy Coronor Erwin Sonnenberg. He had been put in the county jail for the outstanding traffic warrants after his parents decided he should take responsibility for his actions.

Five 17-year-old inmates who had shared a cell with Peterman were charged Tuesday with first-degree murder in his death. The youths — Randall McKeown, Sean Matthews, Andy Anderson, Joseph Krahn and Richard Engie, all of Boise — were charged as adults and scheduled for arraignment today before Magistrate George Carey.

Assistant Ada County Prosecutor Greg Bower said Peterman, of Nampa, was repeatedly "kicked, gouged, beaten and burned" over a 4½-hour period Monday. He was revived by paramedics at 2 p.m., but died four hours later of head wounds in the St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center emergency room.

The injuries included burns to his feet, Bower said. Ada County Sheriff E. Chuck Palmer said the youths rolled up pieces of toilet paper, stuck them between Peterman's toes, and set them on fire.

"I guess (someone) got mouthy," said the victim's mother, Janice Peterman. "Two or three boys beat him up.

"He was beaten horribly," she said, "his head was nothing but mush."

Palmer said no weapons were used. He said none of the youths had previously faced charges involving violent crimes.

Authorities said they knew of no motive for the slaying.

Peterman had been arrested Friday on a bench warrant by an Ada County Magistrate Court marshal for failing to appear in court on warrants charging him with speeding and driving without a license.

Mrs. Peterman said she and the victim's father, Lloyd Peterman, could not afford to pay the fines. The parents are divorced.

"He was overdue for quite a while. We felt as parents it was his responsibility to take care of the tickets, unfortunately," Mrs. Peterman said. "When it comes to this, you wonder if it was the right thing to do."

The United States has been invaded already.

A million a year, outsiders are swarming ashore in the United States.

Most of them are uninvited, unwanted, illegal.

Other nations are closing their doors, locking them; Britain, West Germany, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy, Japan, Australia.

But the United States continues to let in twice as many foreigners as all other nations combined.

When you read that our nation's unemployment continues to increase — now 9.4 percent — that's because there are more of us; more home-grown Americans and more immigrants seeking employment or unemployment pay.

It used to sound un-American to suggest that our melting-pot country, built on the sweat of those from other lands, should now withdraw its historic invitation — but Miami has given the rest of us a good look at the price we pay for an open door — in unemployment, crime, disease, higher taxes, ethnic friction and subversion.

Why are we letting in millions when millions are out of work?

Because we don't know how not to.

Attorney General William French Smith says, "We have lost control of our borders."

We would never let an invading force storm ashore but we are letting these sneak ashore, and in enough numbers that they can pillage our society and our economy quite as surely as though they had shot their way in.

They use and abuse welfare.

As to the argument that they perform only border-states farm labor, the Department of Justice says only 15 percent do. Eighty-five percent are in cities, costing taxpayers an estimated 13 billion dollars a year.

Former director of the Passport Office, Frances Knight, says the one thing we can do now to retard the tide is to make it illegal for any business intentionally to employ an illegal alien.

Double the understaffed border patrol by charging travelers a surtax on visas.

And do whatever we have to do to prevent the use of forged identification documents.

We're being invaded. And jobless Americans are already the first victims of the invading force.

V-P Receives 5 Year Term

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — A former University of Illinois vice president who admitted embezzling $600,000 from the school and spending much of it on female companionship has been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $10,000.

Moments before sentencing Tuesday, Robert Parker wiped tears from his eyes and told Circuit County Judge Harold Jensen he was sorry for his actions, but still did not understand them.

Parker, 60, admitted taking the money during a 2½-year period ending in May 1981 and spending much of it at a Chicago-area nightclub and on women he met there. He resigned from the university in June 1981.

During his two trials — the first ending in a hung jury in February — the defense contended the Parker was insane that responsible for his actions.

Auto Burglaries Reported Here

Snyder police officers are investigating two auto burglaries reported Tuesday.

Martin Hernandez of the Travel Inn called police and reported the burglary of a 1980 Chevrolet Truck owned by Snyder Sandblasting. Tools and clothing valued at $250 were apparently taken from the truck sometime between 11 p.m. May 30 and 8 a.m. May 31.

The truck was parked at the Travel Inn at the time of the burglary.

Judy Hall of 210 38th St. reported the burglary of her 1982 Ford at 7:34 p.m. Tuesday. According to reports, her billfold and a calculator were taken from her car while it was parked at Cogdell Memorial Hospital between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

No dollar value was set for the items reported missing in this incident.

Three minor traffic mishaps also required police attention yesterday.

The first mishap was reported in the 2100 block of Peyton Avenue around 6:57 a.m. According to reports, an unidentified vehicle struck three mailboxes belonging to M. E. Tierce of 2110, Harold Douglas of 2105 and Jewel Williams of 2106 Peyton. Damages to the mailboxes were estimated at a total of $30.

A minor two vehicle mishap was reported near the swimming pool in Towle Park around 2:20 p.m. Involved in the accident were a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Jerry Dennis of 3505 Kerrville and a 1969 Chevrolet pickup driven by Daryl Joe Nachlinger of Hermleigh. Only minor damages were reported to both vehicles.

The third accident of the day occurred around 11:20 p.m. in the 300 block of 28th St. A parked 1979 Oldsmobile owned by Beth Mitchell of 306 28th was struck by an unidentified vehicle which fled the scene of the mishap. Moderate damages were reported to the Mitchell vehicle.

Aregntina Asks For Support

HAVANA (AP) — Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez faced a mixed reception today from the non-aligned movement as he prepared an appeal for support in the Falkland Islands crisis.

Costa Mendez was due here this evening after the formal opening of a three-day meeting of the non-aligned foreign ministers. More than 40 foreign ministers from the 94 member states were expected to be on hand for an opening address by Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca.

Costa Mendez planned a 36-hour stay here that included a meeting with Cuban President Fidel Castro, whose government has emerged as one of Argentina's most vociferous backers in the South Atlantic crisis.

The United States, which looked to Argentina earlier this spring as a potential key ally in its efforts to halt Cuban-backed communist expansionism in Central America, is now worried that the Falklands crisis could lead to increasing Argentine cooperation with the Soviet bloc.

Some diplomats here speculated that Costa Mendez' decision to meet with Castro could add to the Reagan administration's sense of uneasiness.

Cuba, during two days of preparatory meetings, has circulated a draft resolution proposing that the non-aligned movement go on record condemning British "colonialist aggression" against Argentina and denounce the United States for backing the British.

Arrayed against Cuba and its allies are most members of the British Commonwealth represented here. They are seeking non-aligned support for Argentine compliance with a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for a cease-fire and Argentina's withdrawal from the islands.

Truck Fire Extinguished

Units of the Snyder Fire Department extinguished a truck fire in the 3200 block of 23rd St around 6:53 p.m. Tuesday.

Firemen reported moderate to extensive damages to the 1977 GMC truck owned by Wayne Merritt.

Hinckley's Brain Is 'Abnormal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A radiologist who studied X-rays of John W. Hinckley Jr.'s brain says it is "abnormal" for a man his age but acknowledges the pictures don't reveal anything about the defendant's behavior.

A federal jury saw the X-rays Tuesday as the presidential assailant's trial resumed after the long Memorial Day weekend.

Hinckley has admitted shooting President Reagan, but he has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

"Absolutely, this is an abnormal brain," said Dr. Marjorie LeMay of Harvard Medical School, who testified the X-rays show Hinckley's brain is slightly shrunken for a 27-year-old man.

Today, the defense will ask Dr. Daniel R. Weinberger of the National Institute of Mental Health to explain his research findings, which statistically link brain shrinkage to schizophrenia.

Defense psychiatrists said Hinckley suffered from severe schizophrenia, a disorder characterized in part by a withdrawal from reality.

Miss LeMay described the abnormalities in Hinckley's brain while standing alongside slides of his X-rays that were projected onto a white screen.

As the medical school professor faced the jury with a microphone clipped to her lapel and a wooden pointer in her hand, several jurors shifted restlessly in their seats.

But Hinckley sat transfixed, staring at the screen.

Interest Rates Have Increased

Interest rates on all Land Bank variable loans increased to 11½ percent on farm loans and 12 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans, effective June 1, said Michael W. Smith, president of the Federal Land Bank Association of Colorado City.

According to Land Bank President Thomas H. Benson, "Marketing conditions have prompted the bank, with full cognizance of the problems facing agriculture, to recommend the increase.

"Refunding maturing bonds having a face rate ranging from 6.65 percent to 8.70 percent, with new ones in the 14 percent range and continue to cause obvious pressure on the bank's earnings," Benson said.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Colorado City makes a long-term real estate loans on farm and rural residence property in the counties of Mitchell, Scurry, Borden and Kent.

More and more companies are becoming the targets of international terrorists, according to Paul T. Hilf, director of investigations for Advance Security, Inc., of Atlanta. Hilf says almost one-third of terrorist attacks are aimed at companies or their employees.

Fairbanks Pro Again

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) - Chuck Fairbanks, who amassed a dismal 7-26 record during his three years as head football coach at the University of Colorado, has resigned to return to professional football.

Eddie Crowder, athletic director at Colorado, told a news conference Tuesday that Fairbanks has submitted his resignation earlier in the day and left immediately for New York City to begin formation of the New York franchise in new United States Football League.

Fairbanks was scheduled to appear at a news conference today to announce that he will be president and coach of the franchise.

Jim Valek, director of development for CU's football program, also resigned to serve as general manager of the new team which is owned by oilman J. Walter Duncan.

Fairbanks coached the New England Patriots of the National Football League immediately prior to taking job at CU.

Crowder and several other university officials met with CU President Arnold Webber Tuesday night but there was no announcement of a replacement.

"We bandied about several names and I will be on the phone early in the morning," Crowder said after the meeting.

Duncan, contacted at his office in Oklahoma City, would not confirm Fairbanks's selection as president and coach of his team. But he said he and Fairbanks have been friends for years.

"I've known Chuck since he was at Oklahoma, when he went away to New England and then when he went to Colorado," Duncan said. "I don't know why he wasn't successful at Colorado."

Duncan flew to New York Tuesday and said he was negotiating for a home field for his team. He said it would be Shea Stadium, Yankee Stadium or Giants Stadium in New Jersey's Meadowlands Sports Complex.

Crowder said he first learned of Fairbanks' interest in the USFL last fall and began pursuing a new coach at that time.

"Both Chuck and Jim have kept me informed as to their status," Crowder said. "We will move quickly to have replacements appointed."

Lakers Take No. 3, 129-108

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Perennial all-pro center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar missed the final 14:15 of the first half Tuesday night but it didn't stop the Lakers, who rolled to a 129-108 triumph over Philadelphia in Game Three of the 1982 National Basketball Association Championship Series.

Los Angeles, which never trailed in taking a 2-1 lead over the 76ers in the best-of-seven series, led 24-17 with 2:15 to go in the first quarter when Abdul-Jabbar was saddled with his third foul.

If anything, that served as an inspiration as the Lakers scored 16 of the game's next 19 points to take a 40-20 advantage. The 76ers weren't closer than nine points after that.

Bob McAdoo, who played center most of the time Abdul-Jabbar was watching Tuesday night, was a key factor in keeping the Lakers on top as he scored all 14 of his points in the first half.

While the Lakers got fine efforts from just about everyone who played, the 76ers were generally unimpressive outside of guard Andrew Toney.

Toney scored a game-high 36 points, connecting on 13 of 21 field-goal attempts and nine of 10 free-throw tries. The other 76ers combined to make just 26 of 67 floor shots and 20 of 30 from the foul line.

Overall, the 76ers made only 44.3 percent of their floor shots to 54.9 percent for the Lakers. Including team rebounds, Los Angeles outrebounded Philadelphia 66-54.

Three other 76ers scored in double figures; Julius Erving had 21 points but pulled down only three rebounds; Maurice Cheeks had 17 points and nine assists, and Darryl Dawkins had 14 points and a game-high 13 rebounds.

Norm Nixon led the Lakers with 29 points, all but eight coming in the second half. Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 22 points, making eight of his nine field-goab attempts. He also led his team with nine rebounds and eight assists.

Jamaal Wilkes and Abdul-Jabbar added 17 and 16 points, respectively, for Los Angeles.

Opening lead: ♥K

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

It takes a good defense to defeat South's four-spade contract.

It starts out at trick one. West opens the king of hearts. East follows with the deuce and South drops the jack.

If East and West are experts, West will cash his ace of hearts right away. He will know that his partner has shown an odd number of cards in the suit. A high card would show an even number here since it could not be read as an echo to show ability to ruff the third heart. South's bidding had shown 11 cards in his own suits.

Even in a non-expert partnership, West would lead out his ace of hearts. If South held just one heart he would ruff. But he wouldn't find any use for an eventual discard on dummy's queen.

The ace of hearts would stand up and now it would be up to West to lead a low diamond. Dummy's king would hold the trick and a trump would be led.

It would be up to West to take his ace right away and lead another diamond. East would score his nine of trumps and South's 100 honors would make up for the one trick penalty.

How do you know that your partner holds a higher trump than dummy's seven spot? You know he started with two since South has five. He has played the four spot on the first trump lead. His other trump must be higher than the seven since you have seen all lower trumps.

Too much vitamin A?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A family member of 65 years who felt low on energy became involved with a "nutrition program" about a year ago. They recommended large doses of vitamins and minerals, one of them being 25,000 IU of vitamin A daily.

Several months after starting the program she started to suffer severe distress in the back of her legs and burning of her feet day and night. Also the inside edges of the entire shinbone were sore to touch, as in a bruise.

She discontinued the large amount of vitamins a couple of months ago and the legs are much improved, but she still has some burning of the feet.

In the past years she has felt better when taking a daily all-purpose vitamin but is afraid to do so now. How soon might the body be normal again from too much vitamin A? How soon can she safely take a good vitamin? She lives alone on a limited income and sometimes fruits and vegetables are not plentiful in her diet. She uses lots of fresh carrot juice.

DEAR READER — She should see a doctor. You do not know that her difficulty was caused by too much vitamin A, although that can cause pain in the ankles, feet and muscle pains. A doctor can check her blood level for vitamin A. Usually most of the symptoms from excess vitamin A will disappear in a week or two but increased bone deposits (hyperostoses) may persist for months.

Adults are known to develop vitamin A toxicity if they take 50,000 IU a day for several months. Because there is vitamin A in milk, milk products and many foods, the National Academy of Sciences recommends that adults should not take more than 25,000 IU a day, about the level your relative took. So her intake is marginal in terms of causing vitamin A toxicity. But carrot juice is loaded with carotene which the body converts to vitamin A.

If her blood level of vitamin A is OK she could take a daily all-purpose vitamin without fear of harm, one with about 5000 IU in it and not massive doses of any vitamins.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 19-2, Vitamin A: An Essential Hazard, which includes information on why you need it and what happens if you take too much. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a middle-aged woman and for the past 20 years I get a swollen eye or lip about three times a year. I do not feel sick before and have no idea why I get this.

I look awful when it comes on me and I will not go out. It starts with a tingling pinchy feeling and the swelling lasts a half day. I have mentioned this to doctors when I have had checkups and they have said my blood is OK. What do you think is the cause of this?

DEAR READER — You probably have an allergy. Think of it as a giant hive. The difference is that a hive involves the superficial part of the skin and your condition involves deeper structures. We call these reactions angioedema.

Try to find out if you are exposed to something that precipitates the attacks. It may be something you eat that you react to, such as shellfish, chocolate, nuts, tomatoes or even some fresh fruit. If you can identify something that seems to be associated with the attacks you can avoid it.

And if you should have any swelling of the throat with such an attack, please see a doctor at once.

Woman Held In Daughter's Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman who said the Holy Spirit and demons told her to bite her 1-year-old daughter and put a plastic bag over her head has been charged with murdering the infant and endangering the welfare of her other two children, authorities said.

"Demons told her to do this," Deputy Inspector Roy Richter said after the woman's daughter, Melinda, was pronounced dead at Booth Memorial Hospital early Tuesday. Melinda's older brother and sister, found alive in a closet in their apartment in the borough of Queens, had bite marks on their bodies, police said.

The woman also said "the Holy Spirit told her to do it," said detective Owen Kelly.

Jeanette Hernandez, 27, was arraigned in Queens Criminal Court before Judge Nicholas Tscoualas late Tuesday. She was ordered held for psychiatric examination.

More New Residents

DALLAS (AP) — Texas got more new residents last year than the nation's largest state, California, adding 450,000 to its population.

California posted growth of only 425,000.

"It must mean that Texas is right up there with California in production of new jobs," said Steve Levy of the Center for Continuing Study of the California Economy.

Dope Dog Searches OK, Court Rules In Baytown

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court said marijuana-sniffing dogs cannot be used to search students, but can still be used to find illegal drugs in cars and lockers at a public school.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Tuesday ordered a Houston judge to grant an injunction against sniff-searching of students.

The ruling came in an appeal filed for three students at Goose Creek Independent School District at Baytown, Texas, near Houston.

"The Constitution does not permit good intentions to justify objectiively outrageous intrusions on student privacy," the 5th Circuit said, reversing U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor Jr.

The earlier decision had held that a program to sniff-search students' outer garments subjects them to minimal intrusion, humiliation and fear and thus does not violate the due process clause.

The 5th Circuit ordered him to certify the suit as a class action case applying to the 15,400 students in the district.

A company provides the district and 59 others in Texas with dogs trained to alert their handlers to the presence of any one of some 60 substances.

"We don't necessarily make sniff searches of students, so it came out OK for us," said Rick Newman, owner of Securities Associates International Inc. in Houston.

O'Conor also was ordered to determine whether the dogs are actually reliable detectors. The suit contends that dog noses are too erratic to provide sufficiently strong basis to warrant a further search.

Signs Given For Drug Use Symptoms

(Editor's Note: The following article is a public service by the Snyder Daily News through the cooperation of Pete Greene, Scurry County district attorney and the Prosecutor Council.)

The problems of identifying drug abuse and what to do if drug involvement is suspected should be of special interest to parents and teachers. Early detection of a drug problem is vital to preventing serious damage to the emotional well-being of the abuser and those close to him. Drug abuse is often a systom of a deeper problem.

Chronic abusers often exhibit three traits. First, they have low self esteem. They don't feel good about themselves and are dependent on others for their self-worth. Second, they lack emotional control. They allow negative feelings to drag them along and feel chronically miserable. Third, they have difficulty establishing close relationships.

Some common physical sysptoms of student abusers are: a. changes in school attendance, discipline and grades; b. changes in character of homework turned in; c. unusual flare-ups or outbreaks of temper; d. poor physical appearance.

Other symptons are: e. secretive behavior regarding possessions; f. wearing sunglasses at inappropriate times; g. long sleeves shirts worn constantly to hide needle marks.

Also: h. association with known drug users; i. borrowing money from students to purchase drugs; j. stealing small items; k. finding the student in odd places, such as closets and storage rooms.

If you discover a child is using drugs, calling the police isn't the answer. You may be relinquishing responsibility when the child needs your support the most. Also remember that some young people experiment with drugs in reponse to peer pressure without developing a serious problem. But don't ignore the situation. Get outside help quickly.

Check with the local mental health and mental retardation center or family service center for drug problems. For problems with alcohol, Al-Anon Family Groups are listed in most telephone directories.

Call 800-252-9642, a toll-free number of the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs if you don't know the location of a drug treatment service in your area. Or write Drug Abuse Prevention Division at: P. O. Box 13155, Capitol Station, Austin, Tex. 78711 for films and other information.

Court Broadens Search Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is stripping away more of the protections motorists enjoy against searches of their cars by police acting without a warrant.

The court ruled 6-3 Tuesday that police do not need a warrant to search closed bags and other containers found in a car — if they have reasonable grounds to believe the objects contain illegal drugs or other contraband.

The ruling overturns the court's 1981 decision in an unrelated case that police needed warrants to search closed parcels and containers found in a car trunk.

Since 1925, the high court has ruled that police have much more freedom to make so-called "warrantless" searches of cars than of homes and other buildings.

All police need to justify searching a car without a warrant is a reasonable factual basis — or "probable cause" — to believe that illegal items will be found.

Tuesday's decision is designed to clarify power of police to search through closed containers or bags located out of sight somewhere in the car.

The opinion by Justice John Paul Stevens makes clear that police, acting with probable cause that they will find illegal items, now have the power to search through containers found anywhere in the car.

All police need, Stevens said, is the same degree of certainty that would allow a judge or magistrate to issue a warrant to search for illegal objects.

"If probable cause justifies the (warrantless) search of a lawfully stopped vehicle it justifies the search of every part of the vehicle and its contents that may conceal the object of the search," Stevens wrote.

The justice warned police that there are limits to their powers to search cars without a warrant.

Tuesday's decision reinstated the heroin-possession conviction and prison sentence of Albert "Bandit" Ross Jr., arrested in the nation's capital four years ago.

In other action Tuesday, the Supreme Court:

—Ruled that a company that wins an unfair labor practice complaint against a union is not entitled to recover the cost of lawyer fees.

—Agreed to decide whether individuals can serve simultaneously as directors of a bank or bank holding company and an insurance company.

—Refused, without comment, to let New York authorities ban the use of topless waitresses and topless female dancers in liquor-serving establishments such as bars and nightclubs.

Regulations To Be Eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some potentially dangerous conditions could go unchecked under the Reagan administration's plan to relax nursing home inspection standards, critics of the plan say.

Barbara Frank, program associate with the National Citizens Coalition on Nursing Home Reform, said Sunday that the current program for once-a-year inspections already is minimal.

The administration proposals outlined last week would reduce the number of reviews required of facilities with good compliance records. Annual inspections would be dropped for all types of institutions serving Medicare and Medicaid patients except those serving the mentally retarded; and so hospitals might be checked as infrequently as every three years.

Walesa Is Living Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa is living in "exceptionally good conditions" in southern Poland and soon will "return to a normal life" in Gdansk, Polish Deputy Prime Minister Jerzy Ozdowski says.

"He isn't interned in the strict sense of the word," Ozdowski, speaking via satellite from Warsaw, said Sunday.

Appearing on a Cable News Network program "Warsaw Live," the Polish official said, "The moment will come soon when he will return to normal life among his friends and colleagues in Gdansk." And there, Ozdowski said, Walesa "will still play a role in the trade union movement but to a great extent it will depend on him what that role will be."

Court Reverses Conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Corpus Christi man cooperating with law enforcement officials did not intend to steal a miniature tape recorder used by undercover agents, a federal appeals court has ruled.

Thomas P. Shackelford had been convicted in the theft of an FBI Nagra tape recorder, valued at over $2,000.

However, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction Tuesday. The court said the recorder had disappeared after Shackelford talked with another man who wanted to avoid arrest.

He had met with Timothy Bielert of Corpus Christi on Oct. 20, 1980, to discuss how Bielert could "get off the hook" of a couple of arrest warrants by paying $350, the court said.

The justices said Shackelford was acting as a cooperating individual for Nueces County deputy constable Rick Miller.

And Bielert actually had contacted the FBI about Shackelford's $350 proposal and carried a brief case with the Nagra concealed beneath the lining, the court said.

"The scheme quickly went awry" after Bielert got into Shackelford's car, the court said.

In the course of the conversation, Shackelford asked Bielert to submit to a "pat down" search.

Bielert agreed and Shackelford opened the brief case, pulled back the lining and exposed the Nagra.

But Bielert then scrambled out of the car, leaving the Nagra behind, and fled, jumping over a fence.

Police made an investigation. The FBI's tape recorder was not found. Shackelford was charged with stealing it.

The 5th circuit said U.S. District Judge Owen D. Cox erred when he refused to instruct the jury on a defense claim that the Nagra was abandoned and there was no intent to steal.

Cox now gets the case back for whatever proceedings the government may deem feasible.

Berry's World

The International Red Cross was established at Geneva in 1864. The organization owed its founding to Jean Henri Dunant, a Swiss banker. Dunant was so moved by the suffering he witnessed at the Crimean War Battle of Solferino in 1859, that he urged the formation of a voluntary aid group.

Dear Abby

Toddlers Who Test Water Get in Over Their Heads

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure everyone has heard of people who have found superhuman strength or courage in times of extreme emergencies.

I just want to write and tell you about my daughter, who is 2 years old. Her best friend is her cousin, who is also 2.

One day while I was on the phone, the two little girls wandered out in the backyard where there is a 10-foot-deep swimming pool. Before I could get off the phone, my little niece had fallen into the deep end of the pool. Before I could get to her, my little 2-year-old girl had already jumped into the pool and pulled her cousin out! It was a miracle. I didn't even know my child could swim, let alone rescue someone. That just goes to show you what a 2-year-old can do.

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think it is indeed wonderful that your 2-year-old child could save another child's life as yours did, and you have a right to be proud. But I am wondering, "Proud Mother," why two 2-year-olds were allowed to wander unsupervised in the backyard where there was a 10-foot-deep swimming pool?

I'm glad you wrote. It gives me another opportunity to warn parents, grandparents, baby sitters — anyone who is in charge of children: Do not take your eyes off them for 5 seconds! Their lives are in your hands.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 60-year-old single male. I never married because I never met a woman I wanted to spend the rest of my life with. I am not bad looking and don't look my age.

The problem is with a young woman in her early 20s who lives near me in this small town. She has indicated to me many times that she would like to go out with me, but I've pretended not to notice. Then her parents started to put some pressure on me to take her out. I did nothing about it, so now they are very unfriendly to me. I do not want to lose their friendship, but I am not going to date their daughter just to please them.

How should I handle this situation?

BACHELOR BY CHOICE

DEAR BACHELOR: If you lose their friendship because you refuse to date their daughter, you haven't lost much. Clear the air by telling them that you would not feel comfortable dating a girl who is young enough to be your daughter.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: So many women write to complain that every man they meet expects them to go to bed after the first date. Thanks, Abby, for saying that all men are not alike, that there are plenty of gentlemen around who respect a woman for saying no. I know, I married one.

We met on New Year's Eve, 1976, at a singles club. I was 56 and had never been married. He was 59, had been a widower for nine years and had five grown children. We started dating, and after we got to know each other better, I told him that I was still a virgin. At first he couldn't believe it, but said it was refreshing to find a woman who could hold out as long as I had.

I was no prude, and I wasn't ugly. I had plenty of dates and plenty of chances. I didn't condemn unmarried women who weren't virgins, but I had my own standards and wanted to save myself for the man I married.

On June 30, 1979, we were married, and I'm proud to say I was a 58-year-old virgin. I am signing my real name, but if you print this, please sign me . . .

GLAD I WAITED IN PA.

Judge Orders Halt To Inmate Guards

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge who approved an agreement prohibiting Texas prisons from using inmate guards hailed the pact as "a real turning point" in the fight over court ordered reforms in the Texas Department of Corrections.

The U.S. Justice Department, lawyers for inmates and the TDC reached the agreement April 23, but U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice withheld his approval until Tuesday to give inmates a chance to respond to the proposal.

Justice ordered sweeping reforms in the state prison system in 1981. Among other things, he ordered restrictions on inmate population that forced prison officials to house some inmates in tents, release some inmates early and at one point to refuse to accept new inmates from county jails.

The agreement ended the fight over whether the state could use inmates in supervisory roles. The agreement allows inmates to serve as orderlies, clerks, field-service workers and turnkeys so long as they do not excercise authority over other prisoners.

"I think this is a real turning point in this case," Justice said Tuesday.

Donna Brorby, attorney for the prisoners, said 340 inmates had signed objections to the agreement.

Going Off The Welfare Roles In Dade County

SWEETWATER, Fla. (AP) — Alberto Morales hiked up his pants and waded through the rain-soaked high grass to busy Flagler Street, then patiently dangled a freshly caught red snapper toward the passing cars.

With luck, a motorist would stop to buy the fishmonger's catch for a few dollars.

For the 34-year-old Morales, a Cuban auto mechanic unable to find work in the United States, it is his only income.

The poorly dressed men hawking fish, oranges or apples along Miami-area streets — not an uncommon sight since the 1980 Cuban boatlift that brought nearly 100,000 refugees to Dade County — had new urgency Tuesday.

For some 32,000 Cubans and Haitians, it was the day their names were taken off federal welfare rolls.

Since 1980, the refugees have depended on cash payments of up to $119 a month to pay for housing and other living expenses. However, the Reagan administration this year halved the eligibility for the special cash assistance from 36 months to 18 months.

Florida, like most states, doesn't have its own cash-assistance program, other than Aid to Families with Dependent Children. It paid out $10.1 million in the last two months, but stopped after a federal judge declined to order the federal government to reimburse Florida and to resume the monthly payments.

State officials said Tuesday they will continue to seek relief in the courts, but are concerned about the impact on crime in Dade County — fueled to record levels in 1980 and 1981 by Mariel refugees — for jobless refugees suddenly unable to pay for a place to live.

"It's a shame, because of the inroads we have been making in controlling the crime problem in Dade County. You have to be concerned about this large number of jobless refugees being put into the streets," said Gov. Bob Graham.

"I can't predict the impact on crime, but I can say that of all the refugees we've talked to who were receiving the payments, only three have told us they have found jobs....when you have such a large number of jobless people suddenly with no money, there are going to be problems," said Linda Berkowitz, refugee coordinator for the state's Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Another 6,000 refugees will lose their eligibility Aug. 1.

The aid cutoff may hit hard in this heavily Latin, flood-prone East Everglades town of 8,000 residents. Local officials estimate between 1,000 and 2,000 refugees here had been receiving an average of $98 monthly in federal assistance.

"It may mean some stereos are taken and hubcaps are stolen so they can pick up $30 here and $30 there," said Ana Perea, social services director for the city. "This could lead to chaos."

Florida last month caused an uproar among welfare officials in other states by sending letters to the refugees advising them of 10 states from Massachusetts to Hawaii where they could continue receiving welfare for up to 18 months.

But officials say few refugees show any interest in leaving the Miami area, and that the state hasn't organized any effort to move them from Florida.

"The state wouldn't put them on a bus and let them fend for themselves," says state HRS spokesman Danny Pietrodangelo in Tallahassee. "That would be morally wrong."

Officials expect that more refugees now will ask about moving to other states.

Stephene Altone, one of several thousand Haitian refugees affected, earlier sent his wife to Chicago to join a relative there who has a job. The 36-year-old man said he may soon move to Georgia, not for welfare, but to look for a job.

He said he and his wife have lived in Miami's Little Haiti area for a year, sending part of his welfare check to 14 children they left behind.

"Here I am, a young man, I left my kids, looking for a better life for them and for myself, but things have gotten worse. I can't look back, though, because it is too late for that," said Altone, who said he has been unable to find work.

Ms. Berkowitz said the Cuban refugees are victimized by a much-publicized minority of hard-core criminal refugees who arrived during the 1980 boatlift.

The Sioux Indian War began in 1862 when forces under Chief Little Crow massacred whites at Yellow Medicine, Minn.
