Louisiana serial killings suspect arrested peacefully in Atlanta

By KRISTEN WYATT
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

ATLANTA (AP) — A man suspected in the killings of five women was arrested peacefully outside a tire store and agreed Wednesday to be returned to Louisiana, ending a months-long manhunt in a case that terrified women across that state.

Derrick Todd Lee was taken into custody by three police officers Tuesday evening, Atlanta Police Chief Richard Pennington said. Authorities had just missed apprehending Lee at a homeless shelter and then at a motel.

"We have taken a very dangerous person that is a serial murder suspect off the streets," Pennington said.

Lee, 34, appeared in court Wednesday and waived extradition.

Lee told Fulton County Superior Court Judge Richard Hicks in a quiet voice that he understood the charges and would not fight the transfer to Louisiana. Louisiana officers were in the courtroom during the brief hearing.

"I understand they are here and ready to take you back, so have a good trip," Hicks said. He was handed over to the officers for a flight back to Louisiana on Wednesday.

In Baton Rouge, La., officials gathered to praise the task force of local, state and federal officials that worked for months to crack the case.

"I frankly think this group has written the book" on how to investigate serial killings, Louisiana Gov. Mike Foster said.

Over the last few weeks, Lee traveled by bus from Louisiana to Chicago and then to Atlanta, said U.S. Marshal Richard Mecum. Lee has been in Atlanta at least a week, and may have been working construction or concrete contracting jobs that pay cash, authorities said.

Acting on tip received by the FBI, the Atlanta officers found Lee wandering around a tire shop in northwestern Atlanta. They approached him and asked for identification, which Lee produced without incident. He was unarmed, Pennington said.

Lee is suspected in the deaths of at least five southern Louisiana women since September 2001. He is also a suspect in a sixth death more than a decade ago and the disappearance of another woman in a Baton Rouge, La., suburb. It was those two cases that led police to Lee.

Ed White, brother-in-law of Pam Kinamore, the serial killer's third victim, said his family was relieved to hear that a suspect was finally in custody.

"We're ecstatic. This part of the nightmare is over," White said Tuesday night.

Lee was charged Monday with murder and aggravated rape in the killing of Carrie Yoder, 26, a Louisiana State University student who became the serial killer's fifth suspected victim in March. A fugitive warrant issued for Lee before his arrest says DNA evidence indicates the same person who killed Yoder killed four other women starting in September 2001.

Although the warrant accuses Lee only of Yoder's murder, it says DNA evidence removed from her body matched that taken from the other four victims.

"We knew this day would come, and last night was the day," Yoder's father, David Yoder, told CBS' "Early Show" on Wednesday.

Police in Zachary, La., a suburb of Baton Rouge, said a DNA sample from Lee linked him to the five slayings. It was obtained in their investigation of the disappearance of Randi Mebruer, 28, who vanished from her home in April 1998, and the murder of Connie Warner, 41, who was found killed in September 1992.

In 1998, Zachary police asked Louisiana attorney general's investigators to help search for a man they believed was connected to both Mebruer's disappearance and presumed murder and Warner's death. The two women lived in the same Zachary subdivision.

The link came when the attorney general's investigator, Danny Mixon, heard Lee was talking about Mebruer's disappearance, Zachary Police Chief Joey Watson said. Mixon looked at Lee's criminal history, including arrests for stalking, peeping into homes, burglary and attempted murder, and got a court to order a DNA sample from Lee, Watson said Tuesday.

On May 5, the same day Lee voluntarily submitted the DNA, he abruptly pulled his two children out of school, saying he was moving to Los Angeles, according to Lloyd Lindsey, superintendent of West Feliciana school system. Authorities said they do not know the whereabouts of Lee's wife and children.

Residents at Atlanta's Lakewood Motor Lodge said Lee had spent at least the last week there.

omy, which over time will make that deficit disappear."

Democrats also have criticized the package as a giveaway to the wealthy, stressing its cuts on taxes on capital gains and corporate dividends rather than its lower income tax rates and increases in the federal child credit. Frist dismissed that emphasis as "the old, worn-out, tired, class warfare issue."

As Bush traveled widely to sell his package, he portrayed the ailing economy as something he inherited, taking care to mention that the recession took place in 2001's first three quarters — the beginning of his presidency. That period of negative growth was then exacerbated by that fall's terrorist attacks and corporate corruption scandals, he often said.

The intent was to place the problems' creation outside the president's control, while positioning him to gain credit for trying to fix them.

After a $1.35 trillion tax cut in 2001, a $96 billion stimulus last fall and the new $350 billion package, it is widely agreed that Bush now has ownership of the economy for better or for worse.

Democrats hope the economy will help them score politically. They repeatedly highlight the job losses over Bush's term — 2.7 million private sector jobs.

White House press secretary Ari Fleischer said Tuesday the new measure would create "more than one million jobs," but even that figure would amount to a net loss without other developments.

The bill accelerates several income tax cuts previously scheduled to take effect later in the decade, including rate cuts and the federal child credit; lowers taxes on many married couples; eases levies on investors; and allows bigger write-offs for small businesses.

Bush first forwarded his tax-cutting blueprint in January — a $726 billion tax cut that exposed divisions among Republicans and drew skepticism from Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan.

The GOP-controlled Congress then scaled it back, with the House setting a $550 billion maximum and the Senate backing no more than $350 billion.

open this year if they don't get volunteers to help with the program. And soon.

Middleton said volunteers do not have to commit to be at the feeding sites on a daily basis.

"Many volunteer just one time," she said, "while others want to participate on a frequent basis. As many times as a person can volunteer will be appreciated."

Locations where the meals will be served will be Marcus Sanders Swimming Pool, Central Park, Optimist Club, and the Horace Mann building as well as Lamar Elementary School and Lions Club Park.

The innovative program was begun last summer by the Pampa Independent School District and Harvest House with the six feeding locations for children from age 1 year to 18 years.

Volunteers are desperately needed for the Lunch in the Park program, she said, if the program is to get off the ground this year.

Lunch in the Park is scheduled to begin June 3 and go through July 25. Serving times at the sites are Monday through Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

A free hot meal will be served daily from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., also Monday through Friday, at Wilson Elementary. Breakfast will also be served five days a week at Wilson, 801 E. Browning. Hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m.

Harvest House is coordinating the volunteers for the special nutrition program, said Middleton. The federally-funded program served 6,600 lunches to children in 2002.

Middleton said each meal consists of an entree, milk, fruit and vegetable. She said the program is through the Texas Department of Human Services.

Anyone wanting to volunteer should call 665-4042.

voter may vote in the mayor's runoff. The runoff is not limited to those, who voted in the May 3 election.

"If early voting is an indication, the turnout Saturday will also probably be heavy," said Jeffers.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. at M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

guided by state law and court cases in making their decision. He said according to court interpretations, the permit must be issued, but the governing body is allowed to limit the scope of the permit.

After the meeting, Commissioner Faustina Curry said she felt the commission had done its best to address the concerns of the residents, while still supporting local businesses.

"It's a difficult balance," she commented.

In other action Tuesday, commissioners unanimously adopted on final reading ordinances requiring annual rabies vaccinations for pets, and amending the 2002-2003 operating budget.

Commissioners approved first reading of an ordinance providing for payment by credit card or debit card for city services and allowing a charge up to 5 percent for using the cards to make payments.

A special meeting to canvass the votes for the May 31 mayoral run-off has been set for 10 a.m., June 3.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

Man Carries Torch For Woman Who's Hot For Someone Else

DEAR ABBY: I am still madly in love with my ex-girlfriend, "Holly," but all she feels for me is friendship. We talk on the phone daily, and she confides in me about her "guy trouble." I should tell you, she dumped me for an older guy. He has strung her along for months, and according to what Holly says, she's afraid he's about to blow her off.

Holly is in a lot of emotional pain right now. I'm trying my best to console her, but this situation tears me up. I'm so in love with her, I'd do anything to be with her—but she's made it clear she's got it bad for the other guy.

Should I continue trying to be Holly's friend and advise her how to "hold on" to this guy? Or should I hang on and hope that she'll see the light? I'd be grateful for any advice.

LOVESICK
IN NEW ENGLAND

DEAR LOVESICK: If she's asking you for advice on how to hang onto another man, it's safe to conclude that your romance is over. Accept it, extricate yourself and move on. Unless you like having your molars drilled without anesthetic, to continue with Holly would be folly.

know existed or was not a signatory on. He abandoned me for months on end, locking doors and sneaking out of the house. He called me filthy names and told me I was hideous.

At the time, his physician said his behavior was normal. Three years later, after a divorce, loss of home, friends, status, club memberships and financial assets, my husband is in assisted living—diagnosed with Alzheimer's and a rare bone cancer.

I miss certain aspects of our marriage. It is lonely being single. But I did not recognize, nor could I have known, what caused the disintegration of his personality.

ROBERTA
IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR ROBERTA: You have my sympathy, and so does your husband. I advise readers whose family members exhibit a sudden change in personality or behavior to notify their doctors so the person can be physically and neurologically evaluated. However, in your case the physician missed the warning signs.

Yes, being single can sometimes be lonely. But it is better than living with the abuse you described.

PENNY IN SILVER LAKE, CALIF.

DEAR PENNY: Tell your children you don't want to be a "Hard-Hearted Hannah," but "You Can't Give Them Anything but Love." It's the truth—so stick by it. It's time for your "children" to change their tune and accept the fact that they are adults and should stand on their own two feet.

Mavs stun Spurs, 103-91

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The arena was quiet late in the fourth quarter after the San Antonio Spurs had not only blown a huge lead, but also fallen hopelessly behind.

Suddenly, a shout of "Shut up! Shut up! Shut up!" was heard from the Spurs bench. It was coming from Bruce Bowen, who was trying to silence a heckler telling the home team how terrible they were.

The heckler was right.

Michael Finley, Nick Van Exel and Steve Nash wouldn't let San Antonio clinch a spot in the NBA Finals on Tuesday night. And given the way the Spurs played in the fourth quarter, they didn't deserve one.

The Mavericks fell behind by 19 points early but never quit, staging a comeback that culminated in a stunning turn of events in the fourth quarter as Dallas defeated San Antonio 103-91 on Tuesday night.

"I feel like the luckiest guy in the world," Mavs coach Don Nelson said. We hung around. We kept trying. It didn't look good. In the fourth quarter they went cold, we were hot and we won our second game."

The Mavericks cut San Antonio's lead to 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, with Game 6 Thursday night in Dallas.

Finley scored 31 points and got huge help in the fourth quarter from Van Exel and Nash — the two starting point guards in the small-ball lineup Nelson was forced to use as Dirk Nowitzki (knee injury) sat out his second straight game.

Dallas used an 11-2 run to tie it early in the fourth quarter, went ahead with 7:34 left on a dunk by Raef LaFrentz and then used a 16-4 run to turn it into a humiliation for the Spurs.

"We were creeping, and you could feel the energy in the building was, 'Uh-oh.' Once we tied it, that was it. The momentum was all ours," Dallas guard Raja Bell said.

Dallas outscored San Antonio 29-10 in the fourth quarter as the Spurs missed their first eight shots, 11 of 12 and 14 of 17 overall.

Hawk Tucker (above) of Pampa is entered in the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association Finals June 1-3 in Vernon. Tucker goes into the finals ranked fourth in bull riding.

Rangers beat Devil Rays, Palmeiro hits homer No. 503

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Carlos Reyes sat in front of his locker, claiming responsibility for another Tampa Bay loss.

"I'm not happy," the pitcher said Tuesday night after losing 4-2 to the Texas Rangers in his first major league appearance in three years. "I don't feel I gave the team a chance to win."

The numbers don't necessarily support Reyes, whose break from the big leagues included a stint as a minor league pitching coach last season.

Although he gave up three homers, including No. 503 for Rafael Palmeiro, the 34-year-old right-hander pitched well enough to keep the Devil Rays in it until Juan Gonzalez led off the seventh with a solo shot to make it 4-1.

Reyes allowed four runs, six hits and no walks in seven innings. Still, he expected more of himself.

"I'm not that kind of person to be satisfied with that. I know myself and what I am capable of doing and I didn't do it," Reyes said. "Yes, I put pressure on myself, but I know I'm better than that."

Palmeiro homered in the second, moments after the Devil Rays honored him with a video tribute for being the newest member of baseball's 500 home run club. Mark Teixeira also hit a two-run homer in the inning, giving the Rangers a 3-0 lead.

It was No. 13 of the season for Palmeiro, who has homered in three of his last four games to move within one of Hall of Famer Eddie Murray — a former teammate in Baltimore — on the career list.

"He was one of my favorites. I learned a lot from Eddie," Palmeiro said. "To be able to catch him and pass him, it's unbelievable really."

Colby Lewis (4-3) allowed one run on four hits in five-plus innings to win for the first time since beating Oakland 2-1 on April 20. The right-hander was 0-3 with a 12.31 ERA in six starts between victories.

The Devil Rays trimmed their deficit to 3-1 on Jared Sandberg's RBI double in the fifth. But they wasted an opportunity to pull closer when Lewis struck out Julio Lugo and got Carl Crawford to ground to first to end the inning with runners at second and third.

"I spoke to Colby a couple of days ago about this outing, just to see what his thinking was, what he was feeling and what he felt like he had to do to continue to get the opportunity he's getting," Rangers manager Buck Showalter said. "It was more a show, don't tell, me. And he did."

Ugueth Urbina pitched the ninth for his 17th save in 18 chances, allowing Aubrey Huff's 14th homer — and 10th in May.

Reyes, called up from Triple-A Durham, had not started a big league game since Aug. 12, 1997, for Oakland at Baltimore.

Softball deadline extended

Bagwell leads Astros by Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A rare early batting practice session might have helped Jeff Bagwell snap the longest RBI drought of his career.

Bagwell had four hits and drove in his first run since May 8, helping Jeremie Robertson beat the St. Louis Cardinals for the second straight start in a 7-4 win Tuesday night that snapped the Astros' three-game losing streak.

He downplayed all those early swings, though.

"To be honest with you, a lot of times that really doesn't make a difference," Bagwell said. "Once you get in the batter's box, everything changes. Then you're in for a battle."

"It's easy in BP to do what you're trying to do because you know what's coming, there's no fielders out there and you just kind of work on stuff."

The Astros' No. 3 hitter needed 75 plate appearances and 69 at-bats to get his 25th RBI of the season with a single in the ninth inning.

Jeff Kent homered and had three hits for the Astros, who rallied from a 3-1 fourth-inning deficit. Kent, Craig Biggio and Bagwell combined for 10 hits and four RBIs, and the go-ahead run scored on a seventh-inning groundout by Morgan Ensberg, who is in an 0-for-11 slump.

Robertson (3-3) lasted six innings, giving up three runs on seven hits.

"Back in the day, I didn't really like facing a team twice in a row, but that's something that happens quite a bit in the major leagues and it's just a matter of mixing up pitches," Robertson said. "Obviously they know your velocity and your pitches and what you do, but they don't know what you're going to throw and when you're going to throw it and where you're going to throw it."

Robertson escaped a potentially damaging second inning with only two runs on four hits as Edgar Renteria ran through a stop sign at third and into an out at the plate on pitcher Brett Tomko's RBI single.

Kent had an RBI single in the fourth, singled and scored in the sixth and hit his eighth homer off Kiko Calero leading off the eighth for a 5-3 lead. He leads the NL in doubles (20) and leads the Astros with 36 RBIs and a .333 average.

Kent also made a couple of nice over-the-shoulder catches at second base, one in the second inning and another in the third.

Esteban Yan, acquired by the Cardinals from the Rangers earlier in the day, gave up Bagwell's RBI single along with a run-scoring double by Biggio in the ninth. Biggio was 3-for-5, giving him seven hits in the first two games of the series.

Billy Wagner worked the ninth for his 14th save in 15 opportunities and 10th in a row. Wagner's last blown save was April 19 against the Brewers.

Renteria added an RBI double in a two-run second for St. Louis and Chris Widger's RBI single made it 3-1 in the fourth.

But Tomko (2-4) gave up three runs on four hits in his last two innings, losing to the Astros for the second straight start.

Tomko, who entered with an NL-best 1.32 ERA at home, allowed four runs on eight hits in seven innings. He improved over his last outing, also against Robertson, when he allowed five runs on eight hits in 4 1/3 innings — his shortest outing of the season.

"I felt like I had a lot better stuff than I did five days ago, I just made a few mistakes," Tomko said.

"Walking the leadoff guy in the seventh inning, you just can't do stuff like that."

Notes: Kent is batting .371 (33-for-89) in May with four homers and 21 RBIs. Widger threw out two runners attempting to steal, catching Biggio in the fifth and Orlando Merced in the sixth. Bagwell's previous career-long RBI slump of 70 plate appearances was in June 1992.

Devils claim Stanley Cup opener

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Jeff Friesen scored the goal against his former team that Petr Sykora nearly got for his.

That went a long way toward giving the New Jersey Devils a win in the opener of the Stanley Cup finals.

Friesen scored the first goal and the last goal to lead the Devils over his former Anaheim Mighty Ducks teammates 3-0 on Tuesday night. He has four game-winners in seven games.

Sykora, dealt to Anaheim

That wasn't one of the Mighty Ducks' paltry 16 shots on net, but it might have been their best chance to get a puck past Brodeur.

"I thought in the first period we had some pretty good jump, but we didn't execute," forward Paul Kariya said.

If executing means recording shots on goal, he couldn't have been more right. The Ducks had just four shots in each of the first two periods and only two came from players counted on for offense.

And even that is questionable, as Rob Niedermayer had those. Niedermayer was a trade-deadline castoff from Calgary and has only accounted for eight points in these playoffs — good enough for a second-place tie on his team.

"We not only need shots, we have to put more pucks at the net," Niedermayer said. "We have to get some people in front of Marty, too. They're doing a good job of boxing us out and we have to fight through that."

Brodeur went long stretches without much action. His busiest time was in the third period when the Ducks sent eight shots his way. But it was in that period that Grant Marshall stretched New Jersey's lead to two goals, and Friesen sealed the win with an empty-netter.

"You just want to keep them down," said Brodeur after his fifth shutout of these playoffs. "It's important that we didn't give them any life late in the game."

Rockets talk to Brown

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets owner Les Alexander and general manager Carroll Dawson continued their coaching search Tuesday by dining with Hall of Fame coach Larry Brown and his wife in New York.

"It went very well, we talked a lot of basketball and exchanged ideas," Dawson told The Associated Press by telephone late Tuesday. "We're just in the second day of this process and he just resigned yesterday, but it was a good get-together. It was enlightening to us all."

Brown, who resigned Monday after six years as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers, was the third coach interviewed by Dawson and Alexander in their search to replace Rudy Tomjanovich, who stepped down last week after 12 seasons as head coach.

"I don't think he's (Brown) ready to say what he's going to do and we're not ready make that decision," Dawson said. "We didn't get into that. There's a lot of people out there looking for coaches."

The Houston Chronicle cited unidentified sources in a story in its online edition as saying Alexander had not decided going into Tuesday's interview in New York that Brown was his favorite to succeed Tomjanovich and he also was considering Mike Dunleavy and Jeff Van Gundy, whom Alexander and Dawson met Monday.

Texans pick up defensive tackle

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Texans Tuesday claimed defensive tackle Alonzo Schuler off waivers from the New York Jets.

Schuler signed with the Jets as a rookie free agent May 2. He finished his career at Benedict College with 29 tackles and six sacks in 11 games.

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Thursday, May 29, 2003.

You have the ability to sleuth through nearly any problem if you so decide. Your ability to have conversations and gather information highlights you. Your gains could be enormous if you're willing to do the needed research. Don't kid yourself about your directions and choices. You will need plenty of downtime to think and evaluate. Often, you might be more comfortable alone this year. If you are single, you are in a very special period where meeting someone could easily happen. This person could light up your life. If you're attached, scheduling frequent getaways together might be instrumental to keeping the balance in your relationship. TAURUS reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** Friends have definite ideas, which could cost you. My, my — now what? You might be causing yourself a lot of angst by saying "no." Still, taking a strong stand might be absolutely necessary. Emphasize your security. Set your limits, and let others know. Tonight: Treat yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

*** A boss challenges you in the most unexpected manner possible. Examine what might be going on within the dynamics of family and work. Not everything is as clear as you would like. Be careful with a hot tamale that you're dealing with right now. Tonight: As you like it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

*** Knowing when to back off could make or break a situation. Examine what might be necessary to calm down a situation. If you must, reach out for other sources, new information and different perspectives. You'll like what comes up. Tonight: Take a break.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Know what you want, be it through groups or networking. You'll gain as a result. A partner might be on the warpath and difficult at best to work with. Do not lose sight of your long-term goals and desires. Be explicit with others. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

*** Take charge at work, especially if an associate has a way of tossing chaos in your path. You could be distracted by a personal situation, making you most uncomfortable. You cannot change anyone. Tonight: A must show.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

*** Your energy powered by irritation will help you get past an immediate problem. Don't lose sight of the big picture. Your ability to get past problems makes you the office star. A little humility goes a long way. Tonight: Hop on the computer or rent a movie.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

*** Give each person your attention. Someone you care about — a child or loved one — could be on the warpath. Do you want to appease this person? Only you can answer this question. Do something that will make you happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

*** Someone is in the mood to rock and roll. You could come to an understanding if you defer to a partner, but that might not be the easiest thing to do. Wildness comes from different sources, especially around the home front. A family member could create his or her share of uproar. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

*** Make a list of what you must do, and do it. You could appear overly serious or busy to some, but you get much more done than usual. Others could be surprised by your efficiency and devil-may-care attitude. You know what you want. Tonight: Let go of the hard pace.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

*** Someone has great ideas on how to spend your money. Are you willing to take unusual risks? Only you can answer this question. Take your time with the decision-making process right now. You're capable of finding creative solutions. Tonight: Let the wild thing in you out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

*** Your fiery nature and willingness to tell it like it is can cause problems — as if you and others didn't know that. Stay in touch with your long-term desires, not creating uproar where you don't need to. Make security your highest priority. Tonight: Your home is your castle.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*** Reach out for those you need to talk to, although you might not be 100 percent sure about what you want. You need to factor in some frustration on your part. You might be unusually impulsive; just keep talks open and directed. Tonight: Hang at a favorite spot.
