HOOKER, OKLA. BANK IS LOOTED

This Territory Needs Two Railroads, Burlington Head Declares

PLAN TO MOVE ONLY CONFLICT NOW PROPOSED

Joint Trackage Held Economical to Systems

WILLIAMSON VISITS PAMPA

Final Inspection of Route Is Being Made Today

That the proposed Fort Worth & Denver Northern Childress-Pampa line and the Rock Island-Frisco extensions would serve two distinct territories and come in conflict over but about 37 miles—from Wellington to Shamrock—was declared here today by F. E. Williamson of Chicago, president of the Burlington system of which the P. W. & D. road is a part.

And the Denver proposal for a joint trackage arrangement between Wellington and Shamrock would remove that conflict while saving each road approximately $750,000, the noted visitor added.

"You people and particularly those of Shamrock and Wellington should have some idea of your territorial potentialities," said Mr. Williamson, "and you should be able to determine better than we whether there would be enough business for two railroads in this big area. I can see no reason why Wellington should not wish both roads, nor why Shamrock should not wish to have three connections with two lines instead of two with one."

F. E. Williamson, president of the Burlington railway system, who visited Pampa early today, is physically and emotionally all that one might expect in so important a person. More than 6 feet tall, heavy but lean, the rail executive is concisely forceful in his well measured utterances. His cool, penetrating gaze precedes his words, and only occasionally relaxes into humorous expressions. His head is somewhat bald in contrast to a youngish face. He is easy to interview. He anticipates questions, he knows what he intends to say, and he says it clearly without innuendo or urging. His remarks here were informal and wholly without argument for, as he said, he "was among friends."

Great Resources

The Burlington system of which Mr. Williamson is head has 28,000 miles of trackage reaching from the Gulf to the Canadian provinces. It has tremendous resources of locomotives and cars. The seasonal demands begin in the South and move northward. Connection with the Burlington here would assure this area of a plentiful supply of cars for wheat shipping, Mr. Williamson pointed out, for the huge system always has ample numbers of cars for moving to centers of greatest demand.

The railroad president believes that, on the basis of the economical joint trackage plan, the Fort Worth & Denver Northern railway proposal is entirely sound and should be granted. It would open the way to an ultimate connection with the parent system in Nebraska through construction of a line northward from Pampa.

Mr. Williamson headed a party of officials which arrived here at 8:30 o'clock this morning. With him were J. H. Barwise, general counsel; R. C. Gowdy, chief engineer; M. A. Staines, engineer of maintenance of way, Pete Briggs, location engineer, and A. E. Drake, traveling freight agent. The party was welcomed here by President F. D. Keim of the Board of City Development, his directors and committee chairmen, and several other business men.

Go to Shamrock

Matters pertaining to the railroad hearings before an I. C. C. director in Fort Worth Monday were discussed at length. From here the Burlington group went to Shamrock, where they were to meet citizens there at noon. The party is making a final inspection of the proposed Pampa-Childress railroad.

Pampa intervenors and witnesses will leave tomorrow or Sunday for Fort Worth, where they have reservations at the Texas hotel. The names of witnesses are not being divulged at this time. Chas. C. Cook, local attorney, is counsel for the B. C. D. Pampa's testimony regarding present and future tonnage from this area is expected to have a strong bearing upon the final I. C. C. ruling.

Since several other rail applications will be heard at the same sitting of the I. C. C., the local hearings may be delayed several days. Taking of testimony is not expected to begin before Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

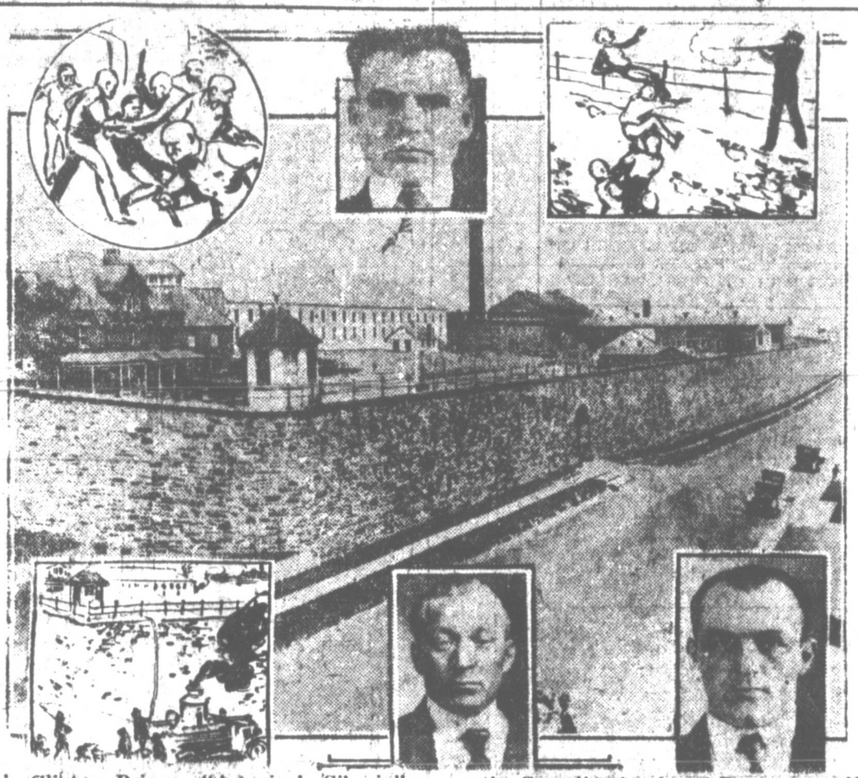

THE WEATHER VANE

EAST and WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy, local thundershowers in south portion tonight and Saturday. Light to fresh southeast to south winds on the coast.

—AND A SMILE

MONTCLAIR, N. J. (AP)—The collar button record is getting to be like those for endurance flights. The other day a fellow in Linden, N. J., said he had worn the same one for 40 years. Along comes Andrew H. Wilson of Montclair and deposes his button's age is 51.

Where 1300 Prisoners Made Break for Liberty

Here's Clinton Prison—"America's Siberia"—near the Canadian border at Dannemora, N. Y., where a revolt of 1300 convicts threatened to become the most serious outbreak in American prison history. Three prisoners were killed and 20 were wounded in a four and a half-hour fight. The carpenter shop, the weaving mill and the engine house of the institution went up in flames. Prisoners who formed human ladders up the 20-foot walls in attempts to escape were shot down by guards. Two guards were set upon by prisoners and badly beaten. At the top is Charles Brunner, a lifer, who was shot to death as he pursued a guard with a knife. Two other convicts slain during the fighting are Clyde Shackelford, below, left, sentenced for the murder of his wife, and Herman Reese, right, who was doing a life term for grand larceny as a fourth offender.

1930 BUICK TO BE PRESENTED ON SATURDAY

The new 1930 Buick line will be presented to the local public tomorrow by the Pampa Buick company at its West Foster showroom. Hugh Johnson, manager, returned last night from Oklahoma City, where he obtained one of the new models. A carload is expected this afternoon.

According to Mr. Johnson, the 1930 Buick will far surpass in power, speed, and beauty any previous creation of the company. Details of the new specifications will not be released until Saturday, but there is more than an intimation that the new Buick will be a bigger and more powerful car when any of its 26 predecessors. Information about the new body lines is even more meagre, but officials say the car will present an appearance differing in many details from the present model.

NEW CARBON BLACK PERMIT IS ASKED IN GRAY COUNTY; WESTERN TO ENLARGE PLANT

Application to erect a carbon black plant and to build an addition to another plant, both in Gray county, has been made to the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

The application for the new plant will be made August 1 at Austin by the Texas Carbon Industries Inc., a new concern in the Panhandle. The request will be made to burn 30,000,000 cubic feet of residue gas from casinghead gasoline plants. The location of the proposed carbon black plant could not be learned today.

The other application, to be heard in Austin tomorrow, will be made by the Western Carbon company, large operators in Gray county. The application will be to build an extra unit to the company's large plant six miles northwest of Pampa. The additional unit would consume 10,000,000 feet of residue gas from the Forest E. Gilmore company casinghead plant.

At present the company's three unit plant is using 25,000,000 feet of the residue gas from the same plant. The company also has a large carbon black plant four miles southeast of the city.

Wheat Soars But Settles Lower

CHICAGO, July 26. (AP)—Grain prices executed a right about face today after running up to record high levels for the season, and closed 1-4 to 3-4 cents a bushel lower for wheat and 3-8 to 1 1-2 cents lower for corn. The last prices for wheat were $1.42 for July futures, $145 7-8 @ $1.46 for September and $1.53 to 1-8 for December.

Wheat here was bringing $1.10 and $1.11 today. Only a few loads of grain were received at the local elevators. Some farmers were bringing in grain from granaries and selling it at today's price, however.

The entire crop has been harvested and either shipped or stored in elevators or granaries.

Houston Plane Needs Change in Flight Ruling

HOUSTON, July 26. (AP)—Fear that a technicality might defeat their attempt to make a refueling flight record beset pilots Glenn L. Loomis and Joe Glass as they swept the endurance plane Billion Dollar City back and forth over Houston today.

Just before the monoplane passed its 203rd hour aloft at 12:49:54 a. m., C. S. T., its barograph ceased functioning. This the fliers had anticipated, and officials in Washington were asked to permit them to take a disinterested third man aboard, in much the manner they take on fuel, or allow the Billion Dollar City to make a dash for another airport in the event of bad weather here. Under the regulations, strictly interpreted, the barogaph being out, no record set would be official should Loomis and Glass depart from sight of the Houston field.

The progress of the St. Louis Robin in Missouri continued to interest Loomis and Glass objectively. In notes dropped they reannounced they would stay up long enough to go beyond any total of hours the St. Louis Robin might reach.

The city's reaction to the flight was illustrated yesterday. During a tense moment in a Texas league ball game here, the Billion Dollar City and the refueling ship, in contact, roared over the stadium. The pitcher forgot to deliver his ball, the catcher removed his mask to watch the refueling high above and the fans likewise craned necks.

NEGRO CLAIMS INNOCENCE

HUNTSVILLE, July 26. (AP)—Maintaining his innocence of an attack on Mrs. Vada Roberts of Greenville last October, Willie Grady, 20, negro, went to his death in the electric chair at the penitentiary.

GAS FLOW IS FOUND BELOW LEVEL OF SEA

Unusual Strata Is Penetrated in Section 58

WELL WILL BE DRILLED MORE

Coombs-Worley Test Now Coming in Strongly

An unusuual gas strata was encountered yesterday in the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Cox- Jackson in the northeast corner of section 58, block B-2, H. & G. N. survey. As far as can be learned, the test is the only one in the Panhandle to encounter a heavy gas flow below sea level.

Some weeks ago the test was drilled to sea level with only a heavy show of oil. Company tools were moved in and the hole deepened. Yesterday while drilling in hard shale formation the bit dropped into a granatie wash formation. Immediately a heavy flow of gas started and was estimated to be 10,000,000 feet.

Today the gas had decreased to 5,000,000 feet. The test will be deepened company officials say.

Geologists who have visited the well since the gas was encountered say that chances for a good producer look good. The gas flow was found at 3,145 feet, 145 feet below sea level. The test is in semi-wildcat territory about half a mile west of production in the Finley-Brown field and more than a mile east of production in the Bowers-McGee pool.

North of the Finley-Brown pool in section 36, block B-2 Texas company's No. 2 Combs-Worley found the pay Wednesday night with very little gas. A swab was used and yesterday a flow of 40,000,000 feet of gas was encountered. the test flowed 500 barrels the first 24 hours after striking the gas and at the close of the 24 hours was steadily increasing its hourly flow.

Griffith Arrives on Braniff Plane

L. C. Griffith, president of Griffith Brothers Amusement company of Oklahoma City, arrived here at 11:20 a. m., today on the Braniff airline plane.

Mr. Griffith is head of the organization which owns the Rex and Crescent theatres here. The Griffith theatres have rapidly increased in number and now constitute one of the largest movie groups in the Southwest.

WITNESS SAYS LEAHY DIDN'T REALIZE WRONG

GEORGETOWN, July 26. (AP)—The opening of today's session of the sanity trial of Harry J. Leahy here was delayed by the slight illness of three jurors, who finally took their places in the jury box after treatment by a physician.

The defendant, under death sentence for the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis, appeared haggard when he appeared in court after a long conference with his attorneys. Shortly after taking his seat, he arose suddenly and walked hurriedly from the courtroom. Rangers sitting near followed several paces behind him. A few minutes in the conference room, and the group returned.

James A. Harley of San Antonio, formerly county attorney and state senator for Gaudalupe county and later adjutant-general and in charge of the Ranger service, testified he had known the defendant several years and had conferences with him.

"Did he seem to appear to understand the seriousness of his situation and the enormity of the crime with which he was charged?"

The answer to this question was delayed by objections from the state. Finally, General Harley said:

Rev. and Mrs. Tom W. Brabham went to Carlsbad, N. M., this week for a short vacation trip.

COACH MITCHELL WISHES TO TALK TO NEW GRID MEN

It is time to talk football.

Coach Odus Mitchell of Central high is beginning to plan the schedule for next fall, and is writing to many class A schools to arrange possible practice games.

Unless considerable strength is derived from new material, the 1929 outfit will have to be developed from last season's reserves.

Coach Mitchell would like to meet and discuss football plans with new boys who will enter school in September. He may be found at Sykes, Merrick & Boyd Lumber company.

FRENCH ACES CRUSH YANKEE TENNIS PLAYERS

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Paris, July 26. (AP)—France blasted America's tennis hopes today by sweeping both opening singles matches of the Davis cup challenge round. Henri Cochet, French ace, crushed Big Bill Tilden in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2, after Jean Borotra had vanquished George Lott, youthful American, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Lott staged a close battle with Borotra losing a golden opportunity to win the fourth set when he led at 5-3, but Tilden never had a chance against the sharp-shooting Cochet.

It was the most decisive beating Bill has suffered in 10 years of Davis cup competition. The result not only gave France a lead which appears impregnable, but settled Cochet's ranking as the world's champion singles player.

A crowd of 10,000 spectators jammed the Roland Garros stadium but was disappointed in its anticipation of a hot fight for honors. The victorious home guard was given a tremendous ovation.

Paul Thompson of Borger Injured in Plane Crash

SAN ANGELO, July 26. (AP)—Harry Wilson of San Angelo, and D. K. (Paul) Thompson of Borger, injured seriously in an airplane crash yesterday at Fort Stockton, were brought here in another plane today. Their conditions appeared unchanged.

Wilson sustained three broken vertabrae and Thompson a broken ankle and severe facial lacerations.

W. A. Flowers, pilot of the plane, also was injured seriously. He was left at Fort Stockton.

Flowers was chief clerk of the Texon Oil & Land company of Texas, stationed at Pyote.

SCHMELING IS SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—The New York state athletic commission announced today that it had revoked the boxing license of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, and the managerial licenses of Joe Jacobs and William McCarney, his American pilots. The sudden and drastic action, which effectually bars Schmeling from any hope of leniency in his dispute with the commission over fight contracts, follows his suspension and a warning to Madison Square Garden against any dealing with Schmeling until he fulfills a contract to fight Phil Scott for the rival promoter, Humbert Fugazy.

POINCARE TO QUIT

PARIS, July 26. (AP)—Shortly after the French senate had approved the Mellon-Berenger debt ratification bill, it was reported tonight in the corridors of the chamber of deputies that Premier Poincare had decided to resign immediately.

BRITISH MARINES KILLED

VALETTA, Malta, July 26. (AP)—Six marines were killed in an explosion in a gun turret aboard the British cruiser, Devonshire, in the eastern Mediterranean today.

YOUNG BANDITS ESCAPE WITH ABOUT $8,000

Unmasked Youths Are Hotly Pursued by Posse

OUTDISTANCE MEN IN CHASE

Customers Are Forced to Lie Down on Floor

HOOKER, Okla., July 26. (AP)—The First National bank of Hooker was robbed today of all its cash on hand, estimated to be between $8,000 and $10,000, by five young bandits.

Fired upon by bank employes after they left the institution, the robbers drove on a state highway leading east through the Oklahoma Panhandle, closely pursued by a posse. They turned south about 20 miles east of Hooker and distanced their pursuers.

C. E. Wilson, cashier, four other employes and about a dozen customers were in the bank when the unmasked robbers entered about 10 a. m. The bandits forced the customers to lie on the floor, and the employes were instructed to hand over the cash.

The robbers were described as being between 20 and 30 years old. One was dressed in overalls, and the others were rough working clothes.

A sheriff's posse from Guymon, county seat, took up the pursuit as soon as its members could reach Hooker.

WICHITA BANK IS ROBBED OF $3,000

WICHITA, Kans., July 26. (AP)—Three masked robbers this afternoon held up the Peoples' State bank of Wichita and escaped with between $3,000 and $4,000 in cash.

Policeman's Car Stolen From in Front of Station

Apparently the law has little terror for the theft ring operating in Pampa and vicinity. Last night, or rather early this morning, Bud Cottrell, city officer, parked his car in front of the police station and went for a stroll to see that everything was all right on the streets of the city.

Upon his return to the police station a short time later, his car was missing. He immediately instituted a search but no trace of the missing vehicle could be found. It could not have been the car the thieves wanted because it was an old model car with many thousands of miles on the speedometer. Therefore it is the conclusion of the officer that the tires were the needed articles and expects to find his car minus tires.

Broad daylight thefts are also becoming the vogue with the theft "ring." Yesterday afternoon a Ford roadster owned by S. M. Whittington, employee of the Texas Elf Carbon company, was stolen from in front of the plant five miles south of here. No trace of the car had been found at noon today.

Wednesday a tire was taken from Dr. W. C. Klein's car parked on Cuyler street. The car was jacked up and the tire removed. Four other cars have been stolen this week. Two have been found stripped within two miles of the city.

UP 317 HOURS

ST. LOUIS, July 26. (AP)—The St. Louis Robin had clipped off its 317th hour of sustained flight at 12:17 p. m., (C. S. T.) today, and the latest word from the pilots, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine, was "it isn't bad at all."

At that hour they had exceeded the endurance record of the "Angelene" by 70 hours.

"It's Like This—"

DEVELOPMENT IN POTTER COUNTY of a supposedly durable road surface costing $10,000 per mile will be of much interest here and in other parts of the Panhandle.

This is especially true because of a growing desire for hardsurfaced lateral, or county highways. Costly concrete roads are essential for designated tourist roads, but the expense is prohibitive for secondary roads. The prime need of this section is cheaper roads. The natural materials so often found adjacent to highways are lacking in this territory. Indeed, practically all of the materials except cement comes from one Amarillo firm.

The asphalt penetration road, using caliche that abounds in West Texas, has its friends and it critics. It is not practical for very heavy traffic. Its maintenance cost is considerable, for it has a tendency to pit. But, on the other hand, it is cheap and more durable than the average graveled road.

No $10,000 per mile road can be as satisfactory as one costing $30,000 to $40,000 per mile. But the difference in cost also is no small difference. It may be argued that maintenance is costly. But so is paying interest on the huge bond issues. The interest on a million dollars will certainly maintain many miles of graveled or penetration road.

Concrete is the best all-purpose road, of course, but the rural districts cannot expect to see a network of $30,000 roads built without state or federal aid. A $10,000 per mile road worth the expenditure would be a boon to the country communities which desire good highways but whose property will not stand the levies necessary for concrete construction.

PHILO VANCE IS NO LONGER A MERE BOOK CHARACTER. He has become a real detective—in fact, he is commissioner of police at Bradley Beach, N. J. He will have a chance to test his skill in real life as well as in books and newspaper serials.

Philo Vance in person is Willard Huntington Wright, who writes under the nom-de-plume of S. S. Van Dine. Readers of The News will recall his "The Canary Murder Case", which attracted so much attention, and which in movie form was shown here not long ago.

* * *

Mr. Wright, art music, literary and dramatic critic, and one-time magazine editor, will have an opportunity to evidence his detective skill and his psychological deductions in the New Jersey city. Bradley Beach has a summer population of 40,000, which ought to furnish a few mysteries.

An ardent follower of chess, Mr. Wright has used the game as an aid to solution of the mystery in his latest story. In "The Canary Murder Case" he used poker. Will this procedure be of value to him as police commissioner? His hometowners do not care particularly, for he is very popular and his new position is more of an honor than a job.

The reader may conjecture what may be Mr. Wright's predicament if some of his suspects play neither poker nor chess.

TWINKLES

It's a lot easier to be air-minded than air-wise, or rail-wise either.

Nature knows her stuff out in the woods where she may have her own way, but have you noticed what an awful dub she is if you leave to her the greening up of cities and towns where her natural tendencies have been altered?

It's singular that just as China gets into the headlines with a war, or near war, one of her old (pajama) customs is being adopted in this country. It must be double action on the part of her Chamber of Commerce.

Just as we were planning to polish up our interest in big league baseball and start remembering the sttaistics of the season we have also to begin membering the statistics of the throwing their hats into the Texas political ring.

Down in Texas a ranchman stopped drilling of an oil well when the bit hit a fine water strata. A thirsty cowhand is not much of a wildcat enthusiast when clear, cold water is at hand.

If Hoover, as it now appears, doesn't go to the W. T. C. C. meeting at El Paso, West Texans are not likely to think much of what relief he may otherwise bring about this year. But the weather and the crop makers still seem to be in league with the G. O. P.

Carbon black is pretty cheap as it leaves the Gray county plants, but by the time it gets back to The News in the form of printing ink it costs almost the price of a subscription for enough of it to print a year's sub.

It is well said that in city building, satisfaction means stagnation. But Pampa isn't satisfied!

Births should be registered. Nothing is more embarrassing than to be called upon to prove you are alive and have nothing to show for it.

Bridge Clubs Honor Departing Members In Farewell Parties Given Thursday

Social activities of yesterday included farewell courtesies for two popular matrons who are to leave the city shortly to make their homes elsewhere Mrs. J. J. Cassidy, who with Mr. Cassidy will leave today for San Francisco, was honored by members of Just We bridge club and other friends at a party given by Mrs. A. D. Johnston. Mrs. James Ensign was the complimented guest at a bridge tea given by Mrs. W. H. Lang for members of Ace High club and others.

MRS. CASSIDY IS HONORED BY CLUB

Mrs. Johnston entertained with three tables of bridge. Club members present were: Mrs. J. H. Lutz, Mrs. L. M. Williams, Mrs. E. Broughton, and Mrs. J. H. Hulme. Other players included: the honoree, Mrs. W. M. Jones, Mrs. J. H. Lavender, Mrs. P. T. McNamara, Mrs. Roger McConnell, Mrs. J. L. Nance, and Mrs. Frank Allison.

Just We club, of which Mrs. Cassidy formerly was a member, presented her a set of salad forks. Other charming farewell momentos were given by individual members and other guests at the party. Mrs. Cassidy, in turn, gave each guest a hand painted card, on which was a verse expressing appreciation for the friendships and hospitalities she had enjoyed during her residence in Pampa.

Mrs. Lutz scored high for club members and received a Japanese tea set. Among the specially invited guests Mrs. McNamara scored high, to win a beautiful rose bowl as favor. Mrs. Hulme was low for club members, and Mrs. Cassidy for other guests. Their favors were a luster-ware dish and a vanity set, respectively.

THREE-TABLE PARTY GIVEN BY MRS. LANG

Mrs. Ensign, formerly a member of Ace High bridge club and other social groups of the city, will leave with Mr. Ensign before August 1, on a motor trip through the Southwest, following which they will visit in Lincoln, Neb.

Club associates paying courtesy to her in the affair of yesterday were: Mrs. Douglas Day, Mrs. Floyd Hollenbeck, Mrs. C. M. Carlock, Mrs. S. A. Burns and Mrs. W. A. Gray. Other friends included in the guest list were: Mrs. E. A. Webb, Mrs. R. T. Shields, Mrs. A. F. Clark, Mrs. Clyde Lyon, and Miss Emma Wade.

Mrs. Lang presented her honored guest a dainty traveling clock, Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Burns, who made high scores of the afternoon, received vases as favors. Cut favors, the daintiest of handkerchiefs, went to Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Burns, and Mrs. Day. Consolation favor was given Mrs. Ensign.

Social Calendar

FRIDAY:

The children's story hour, sponsored by the Twentieth Century club, will be held at 10 a. m., in the room adjoining the reading room of the public library at the First Methodist church. Mrs. W. T. Fraser will tell stories. All children of the city are cordially invited to be present.

An initiation service of the Order of the Eastern Star, scheduled for 8:15 o'clock, has been postponed to a later date, Mrs. Artie M. Shepard, secretary, has announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Duncan and children returned this morning from a trip to New Mexico.

WELLINGTON BEATS GRAYS IN TOURNAMENT, 5-0, AS ERRORS AND POOR HITTING DISPLAYED

Inability to hit the stellar pitching of Jack Knight, and errors caused the downfall of the Pampa Legion Grays in the Amarillo tournament yesterday afternoon. The Wellington T. & O. champions scored five runs in the fourth inning and blanked the Grays 5 to 0.

Williamson, Grays thirdbaseman and Winegardner, shortstop, had off-days both at bat and in the field. Each made errors and failed to hit safely. Williamson fanned on his three trips to the plate. The error that caused the Gray's downfall was by Nell on an easy toss from the pitcher's box. Three runs came in after the firstbaseman had dropped the ball which should have made a third out.

The Pampa nine looked more brilliant than the T. & O. leaguers but the breaks went the wrong way. Then the umpiring came in for a share of the loss. Every member on the Grays lineup kicked repeatedly at the decisions handed out by an inexperienced umpire Wellington also had several battles with the arbiter.

Wellington garnered seven hits off Lefty Graham in the five innings he pitched: Four of them came in the fatal fifth. Malone and French each had a chance on the mound and let the Wellington boys down without a single safe bingle. Slim French fanned the three batters that faced him. The elongated boy pitched only eleven balls to retire the side. Malone also looked good and should win the next game for the home nine.

Of the Pampans' four bingles Nell got two singles. Ed Gober crashed for a double and Roberts got the other safety. Holland was the only Wellington player to get two hits.

Speck Roberts made the most sensational play of the day. The diminutive secondbaseman went deep behind second base to grab a scorching drive and threw McKenna out at first. Winegardner also made a snappy play when he took a hot grounder behind second and threw out Newman at first after a valiant effort to touch second for a double play. The shortstop was traveling at such speed that he was unable to touch second.

Horton caught his usual sparkling game but failed to get a safe hit.

The Pampa Grays played the game under protest but the tournament management stated that a protest was "no good". Manager Gober stated after the game that further action would be taken regarding two Wellington players who are ineligible, he claims.

The Grays will probably play tomorrow but their opponent has not been named.

YOUNG UMP KEEPS UPPERHAND; McGRAW ONE OF HIS VICTIMS

There's no question as to who is running the ball game when George Magerkurth, new National league arbiter, is presiding.

NEW YORK (AP)—Ball players and managers who try to abuse George Magerkurth, serving his first year as a National league umpire, do so at their own risk.

Magerkuth, a six-footer and a heavyweight came to the Heydler circuit by way of the American Association and the Pacific Coast league and he is a hard boiled arbiter.

The young arbiter who came to the National league highly recommended for his work in the Amelcan association and coast loop checks the boys pretty closely on their loose language. He was abused verbally by a big American association player in a game year ago. Magerkuth put the unruly one out of the game and went to his room that night to demand an apology He got it and the player got a sound threshing for not apologizing voluntarily.

A "Pullman" of the Skies

By O. B. KELLER

In the British open championship of 1921 Jock Hutchinson, who won it, clipped four strokes from par on two successive holes, which I had thenceforth considered a record in formal play, or at least the equal of the record. Jock, playing with Bobby Jones, smacked a 1 into the eighth hole and just missed another at the ninth, a short par 4. So he went 1-2 on two holes of which par was 3-4.

But at the Belle Meade country club of Nashville, at the recent Southern amateur championship, Chasteen Harris of Memphis set a new record, so far as I know.

Mr. Harris was engaged in the qualifying round, and he was not doing well. In fact, had Mr. Harris managed merely par at the 14th and 15th holes his total score would have been 82, and that would have been two strokes too many to admit him to the championship division, even in a play-off.

And Mr. Harris negotiated Nos. 14 and 15 so ably that he turned in a card of 77 and was qualified handily.

No. 14 is a par 5 hole of 475 yards, and No. 15 is a par 4 hole of 251 yards—just long enough to be a par 4—with a bald sort of green set up at the top of a rather steep and narrow slope, a pretty sort of novelty.

The perspiring Mr. Harris got away a big drive from the fourteenth tee, the ball running far on the hard turf, and used a No. 3 iron for his second shot, which stopped 18 inches from the flag, the putt dropping for an eagle 3. Encouraged by this turn of affairs, he then applied his brassie to the next drive and saw the ball reach the sloping apron and bound up on the green. At once there was a shout from the 15th tee, overlooking the green. The ball had rolled into the cup.

On two consecutive holes, par 5-4, Mr. Harris had traveled 3-1, clipping five strokes from par. The other would be called a double eagle, I suppose.

Dundee Loses His Crown When He Fouls Fields

DETROIT, July 26. (AP)—Jackie Fields, the shiek of Chicago, ruled today as undisputed welterweight champion of the world.

Fields won the title last night, defeating Joe Dundee, the titleholder, on a foul in the second round of the scheduled 15-round battle. Dundee, knocked down twice in the second, but cut loose with a sweeping right hand punch that landed deep in the foul territory, a minute and 55 seconds after the round opened. Fields collapsed on the canvas, rolled over three times in an attempt to get near his corner, but was unable to regain his feet.

Writhing in pain, Fields was dragged to his corner, but was suffering so intensely he was unable to get on his chair and fell into the rosin. After physicians made an examination, the low blow was pronounced a foul, and Fields was awarded the fight and the championship.

Dundee was guilty of fouling after he had received $50,000 in advance for risking his title against the challenger. He was paid $10,000 at the time the match was made and got the remaining $40,000 before he entered the ring last night. Some of the skeptics advanced the opinion that Dundee fouled Fields when it was apparent he had no chance of winning, and possibly would have been knocked out before the finish of the second round or at least the next, one.

SNOW BEATS DYE AGAIN IN PLA-MOR TILT

A perfectly timed right to the solar plexis in the third round ended a great fight at the Pla-Mor auditorium last night. Speedy Snow of Pampa and Fighting Dye of Phoenix, Ariz., met in a popular return match with Snow again getting the decision. The Pampa man won the first encounter in the sixth with a right to the button.

Two of the best fights of the night were stopped in early rounds. In the semi-final, Kid Duncan of Miami and Kid Arthur of Pampa were standing toe to toe and slugging it out when, during a clinch a deep gash was opened under Arthur's eye when the two fighters bumped heads. The cut was so bad that Arthur's seconds threw the towel into the ring. The Pampa boy was by no means defeated.

Wild Bill Douglas of Arizona and Jack Ash of Pampa were putting up a pretty battle when the referee stopped the fight in the third round as Douglas kept hitting in the breaks. The two youngsters will fight a return match n two weeks, the management says.

Science, speed, knowledge of holds and everything that goes in the wrestlilug game were at the command of Benny Volt, Cincinnati Indian wrestler, ad Jimmie Lewis, Oklahoma sensation, last night. Although outweighed considerably, the Indian had the better of the argument and won with an arm bar in seventeen minutes. The two boys were clever and went from one hold to another with an ease that spoke of long training.

The main event of the evening was the Snow-Dye battle. The Pla-Mor was well filled with exponents of the beloved art who wanted to see the return bout between the two welterweights and they got their money's worth.

The bout opened with both fighting carefully. Neither landed an effective blow until the end of the round, when Dye connected to the head.

Round two saw more action. Dye came out of his corner to finish the fight but he couldn't get the Pampa boy. The veteran Snow just kept away from the fighting Arizonian until he slowed up, and then he stepped in. A right cross to the jaw had Dye on the mat at the bell.

Dye came out fast again in the third and had Snow missing at first. Then the Pampan began using his ring generalship. Dye left an opening and like a streak of lightning Snow sank a right to the solar plexis and Dye went out for the count.

Amarillo Smelter Man Now Endorses It

H. L. HEFLEY SAYS ORGATONE ENDS HIS TROUBLES OF THREE YEARS' STANDING.

"I suffered for three years with rheumatism, kidney and a chronic liver trouble and spent hundreds of dollars for different kinds of medicine, trying to get well, but it only took two bottles of Orgatone to straighten me out and make me feel like a different man," said H. L. Hefley, residing at 116 McMasters street, Amarillo, Texas, a well know man in this section where he has been employed at a local smelter for several years.

"It's an actual fact," he continued, "I was hardly ever free from rheumatism and was so full of misery most of the time I couldn't rest or sleep at night to amount to anything on account of my kidneys. The main trouble seemed to be in my joints and the awful pains were due, I think, to the condition of my liver. I couldn't eat to do any good and had to be very careful about the little that I managed to force down or I would have hours of suffering afterwards. I kept getting worse all the time, and had just about given up all hope of ever getting anything to relieve me.

"But two bottles of Orgatone have done me so much good I haven't had an ache or pain since I finished taking them, and honestly, I don't feel like the same person. I have a good appetite and I can eat anything I want and it agrees with me, too. I have gained back all of my lost strength sleep like a log at night and when I get up in the morning I am full of energy and attend to my work without a bit of trouble.

"My wife was so pleased with the results that I had gotten with Orgatone that she bought some for herself. We know just what it will do and feel satisfied that there isn't another medicine in the world just as good."

Pilot of World's Biggest Airplane

He flew the huge flying boat—largest Wagener, above, is chief pilot of Germany's giant 100-passenger seaplane. He flew the huge flying boat—larger heavier-than-air craft in the world—on its inaugural take-off from Lake Constance, Switzerland, recently. He may pilot the big twelve-motored ship across the Atlantic.

"Woolaroc" Will Make One More Trip, Decision

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., July 26.—The "Woolaroc," the plane that helped make flying history when it won the Dole prize by beating the group of other planes which started from Oakland, Calif., over the ocean to Honolulu, will have one final flight before going into a museum, it was decided here today.

Ten days ago, Frank Phillips, backer of Col. Arthur G. Goebel's flight across the Pacific, announced that he was retiring the plane to a permanent hangar he is building on his ranch outside of the city.

The announcement brought to him more than 200 telegrams from secretaries of Chamber of Commerce, officials of luncheon clubs, city officials and personal friends, all begging him to let the plane make one more flight before retiring it.

Many of the wires and letters said that citizens of the middle west have had little chance to see a trans-oceanic plane. It would be a great thing for them, it was stated, to see a plane so important in aviation history, and with so much romance and human interest attached to it.

Mr. Phillips has acceded to the many requests and has persuaded Colonel Goebel to fly the Woolaroc on a farewell tour.

The original radio equipment and instruments used in flying this ship from Oakland to Honolulu are being reinstalled and the plane will have the exact appearance that it had when it took off for Hawaii on that historic August 17, two years ago. It will have the same engine, a Wright Whirlwind J-5.

Between 50 and 60 towns will be visited between July 31 and August 12 on a set schedule, which will be followed with railroad accuracy. Colonel Goebel and Mr. Phillips both expressed regret that all interested cities could not be included in the itinerary because of lack of adequate landing facilities. The "Woolaroc" being large, and having been built for long distance over-ocean flying, can only be accommodated by large fields which are in excellent condition.

"Minnesota" Is Flying Smoothly

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26. (AP)—Trips to Mason City and Charles City, Iowa, were planned today to vary the monotony of the endurance refueling record seeking flight of Owen Haugland and Capt. P. L. Crichton of Minneapolis in their monoplane, the Minnesota.

The fliers reported their motor was functioning perfectly and had been since ther takeoff from Wold Chamberlain airport here at 6:40 p. m., Monday. Early today the Minnesota passed its eightieth hour in the air.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clayton, Thomas, Jr., and Anne, left this morning for Carlsbad, N. M., to visit the famous cavern and spend a week in visiting other points of interest near there.

YOUTHFUL DAUGHTER IS TO RULE PALACE OF DAVIS IN ISLANDS

Miss Alice Davis will be a 20-year-old "First Lady" when her father, Dwight F. Davis, assumes his duties as governor general of the Philippine Islands.

By SUE McNAMARA
Associated Press Feature Writer

WASHINGTON—A 20-year-old girl is to assume much responsibility for the smooth administration of the new governor general of the Philippines.

It is said in the islands that if the ful, the governor general will be politically successful.

hostess in the palace is socially successIt this is true, Alice Davis, slim blue eyed daughter of Dwight F. Davis, is an important cog in governmental diplomacy.

Because of the illness of Mrs. Davis, Alice is going to the islands with all of the authority of a "first lady." And, despite the fact she only recently was debutante, she has no misgivings concerning the tremendous responsibility she will assume in the old Spanish palace which still serves as the seat of government.

She has been her father's hostess for a year in Washington, where being a hostess requires infinite tact and diplomacy.

She thinks it will be fun. She has not any idea how big the palace is or how many servants there are, but she doesn't believe she will have any trouble.

Alice paused long enough in her job of superintending the packing of trunks to give her views on the subject. She was wearing a black satin coolie coat and blue slippers. She curled up in a big chair to discuss the situation and it was difficult to picture her in the position she is ready to take.

Miss Josephine Shaughnessy, who has lived with the Davis family 15 years and to whom all of the children look for advice and guiding, stood by, smiling. "She can do it," Miss Shaughnessy declared and after Alice had gone to resume packing she continued:

"Maybe I am over esthusiastic about her, but I don't think I am. Alice is not a bit spoiled with all the good times and attention she has had. I never knew a young girl with so much poise. She's quiet, you understand, and many might wonder how so quiet a one could have such charm. But she has it."

Alice's great regret is that she cannot take the loyal adviser with her. Instead, her cousin, Miss Aleta Davis of St. Louis, and one maid, will accompany her.

Miss Shaughnessy will remain here with Mrs. Davis and other children, Dwight, Jr., 22, Cynthia, 18, and Helen, 15, until Mrs. Davis is able to go to the Philippines. That will probably be next January.

As for Alice, there will be tennis and boating in the Philippines and to these she is blithely and sensibly letting like her father. The social problems she is blgthely and sensibly letting go until she gets there.

Markets

GRAIN IS UP

CHICAGO, July 26. (AP)—All grain made an upward jump in price today, wheat, corn and oats overcoming the season's high price record. Persistent unfavorable weather, especially in the northwest, together with sharply advancing wheat quotations at Liverpool, were stimulating, buying orders coming with a rush.

Opening 1 1-2c to 4 1-2c up, wheat afterward held near to the initial figures. Corn started 1-2c to 1c higher, and continued to advance. Provisions were firm.

CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The prophecies of the New Testament have been so written that the greatest scholars have erred in striving to apply them to their day. In no one thing has there been such error as in striving to place the day of the Lord's second appearance.

We are warned in God's word about two classes—the overzealous and the scoffers. The first is forever bobbing up and saying, "Lo, here is Christ!" or "Lo, He is there." Our instruction is "Believe him not."

On the other hand is the scoffer saying, "Where is the promise of His coming?" The Apostle Peter tells us of this class that they overlook the fact that a thousand years is as a day with the Lord. According to such reckoning, two days have almost passed. If in His mercy God grants another such day, or many of them, the church of the Lord should rejoice in its privilege of being allowed further time to win the world.

Sunday morning's message will be from the subject: "Christ Coming—Why Delayed?"

Three services Sunday:
Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Morning worship at 11 a. m.
Sermon, "Live," at 8:15 p. m.

A. A. HYDE, Minister.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

The Poor in Spirit

The attitude of scientific men in the matter of seeking for the truths of the physical world may well serve as a model to those who are seeking the truth of God's word. With what eagerness and patience they search and study; with what submission of private opinion and judgment do they listen to the voice of Nature; how gladly they hail any new discovery of fact or law; how unselfishly some devote their lives to this pursuit, enduring poverty and privation, that only they may read and learn from the book of God!

If just as much loving, earnest work were spent upon that other and greater Book of God; if with as open mind and as selfless spirit it were studied and searched—what blessing and glory would result! Some of the new discoveries have threatened to overthrow old, accepted ideas in physics and chemmistry. But I have not heard that a single man of science became factious and partisan about it, and cast slurs upon the men who made the discoveries or impugned ht eirmotives, or vowed and declared that he was taught so and would stand by it and die by the old flag, and never be a turncoat.

Such things are reserved for religious people to do and say. It has been said that men worship and adore the reformer who led them a step into the light and bitterly hate to persecute him whi would lead them another step "Blessed are the poor in spirit!" And that does not men the credulous; for because a man is poor, he is not a fool. He does not eat everything handed to him because he is hungry, nor accept counterfeit money because he is needy. But the poor in spirit goes to God in self-abandonment to get true food, true riches, and nothing less; he knows nothing in himself, but seeks all from God, and from God alone. "Theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Sunday morning's discourse will be o the theme: "Heaven, Its Happiness." Evening subject, "Be of Good Cheer."

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General topic: The Story of Daniel.

Scripture lesson: Dan. 1:1-4, 19, 20; 2:17-24.

Dan. 1:1. In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2. And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God; and he carried them into the land of Shinar to the house of his god; and he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god.

3. And the king spake unto Aspenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring in certain of the children of Israel, even of the seed royal and of the nobles;

4. Youths in whom was no blemish, but well favored, and skillful in all wisdom, and cnbued with knowledge, and understanding science, and such as had ability to stand in the king's palace, and that he should teach them the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

19. And the king communed with them; and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; therefore stood they before the king.

20. And in every matter of wisdom and understanding, concerning which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in all his realm.

Dan. 2:17. Then Daniel went to his house, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions:

18. That they would desire mercies of the God of heaven concerning this secret; that Daniel and his companions should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19. Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a vision of the night. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20. Daniel answered and said, Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever; for wisdom and might are His.

21. And He changeth the times and the seasons; He removeth kings, and setteth up kings; He giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that have understanding;

22. He revealeth the deep and secret things; He knoweth what is in the darkness, and the light dwelleth with him.

23. I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, Who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast now made known unto me what we desired of Thee; for Thou hast made known unto us the king's matter.

24. Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon; he went and said thus unto him: Destroy not the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will show unto the king the interpretation.

Time: Daniel taken into exile, B. C. 605. Daniel interprets Nebuchadnezzar's dream (Dan. 2), B. C. 603. Jerusalem burned, B. C. 586. Daniel's vision of the four beasts, B. C. 541; of the ram, B. C. 539. Daniel's last vision, B. C. 536.

Place: Babylon.

Golden text: They that are wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever.—Dan. 12:3.

Introduction

We come to the study of a great statesman of Israel who lived through the long years of the Babylonian captivity and served his God with loyalty and faithfulness. His Hebrew name was Daniel, which signifies "the judgment of God" or "God is my judge."

We do not know just how old Daniel was when taken prisoner by the Chaldeans in 605 B. C. He must have been quite young for his ministry in Babylon lasted for 67 years. Daniel and his companions were taken in 605 B. C. Ezekiel and another company were taken in 598 B. C., and the final blow came in 587 B. C., when all the remaining ones who were worth the taking were carried away. "Shinar" is an old word used to speak of Babylon.

Object of the Book

"The book is not intended to give an account of the life of Daniel. It gives neither his lineage, nor his age, and recounts but a few of the events of his long career. Nor is it meant to give a record of the history of Israel during the exile, nor even of the captivity in Babylon. Its purpose is to show how by His providential guidance, His miraculous interventions, His foreknowledge and almighty power, the God of heaven controls and directs the forces of nature and the history of nations, the lives of Hebrew captives and

BIG FLOOD OF CHECKS SEEN AT CITY BANKS

An average of nearly 8,000 checks are cashed at Pampa's two banks daily, and on Mondays the number is much greater, a check at the two institutions showed.

A large per cent of these checks always is for small amounts, according to bank clerks. Many persons write several $1 checks in a day, instead of writing one check for several dollars and then paying cash.

Bromley Ready for Tokyo Trip

TACOMA, Wash., July 26. (AP)—With plane and aviator ready, only a favorable weather report was needed to send Lieutenant Harold Bromley winging his way across the Pacific to Tokyo, Japan.

The take-off was "at least 24-hours distant," Lieutenant Bromley said last night after scanning an unfavorable weather report. A few score persons, however, remained at the Tacoma air field all night on the chance the young aviator might attempt a surprise start.

Food Like So Much Poison to System

"Two years ago specialists in Louisiana, where I used to live, advised me to come to San Antonio to recuperate from the after effects of a bad spell of malaria which had left me in a terrible run-down condition.

"I didn't look like myself at all. My complexion and eyes had turned such an unhealthy yellow color. In place of nourishing me my food was just like so much poison. Constipation kept my system from throwing off these poisons and it just looked like I wasn't going to get any better.

"Sargon did more for me in less than one month than all the other medicines I have used in the past five years. A number of my friends have told me that they had never seen such a remarkable change in any one in such a short time. It is simply wonderful how Sargon brought back my color and benefitted me in so many ways.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are the grandest in the world to overcome a sluggish liver and I don't believe medical science has ever found or ever will find an equal of Sargon."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NAN CARROLL, secretary to JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, successful lawyer, is in love with Morgan. His wife, IRIS, elopes with a family friend, BERT CRAWFORD, for whom Morgan has recently won an acquittal. Morgan does not suspect Crawford and is cast into utter despair.

Though he does not realize it, Nan is indispensable to Morgan both in his practice and in his home. For six months she acts as long-distance housekeeper for him, bringing comfort and health to him and his child, little six-year-old CURTIS. Morgan breaks the news to Nan that he is divorcing Iris and, stressing his and Curtis' need for her, asks her to marry him. She consents.

Their farcical marriage has continued three months when Iris, jilted by Crawford, returns. Feigning illness, she tries to bring Morgan to his knees. Nan, heart-broken, determines to fight and asks DR. BLACK to remove Iris to a hospital.

Curtis goes to see his mother daily. She feeds him forbidden sweets. He awakens Christmas morning with an attack of appendicitis. The doctor says his diet must be watched closely, though Nan knows she is powerless to prevent Iris' interference. Morgan brings WILLIS TODD to dinner. He is a former suitor of Nan's. When they are alone, she tells him of Iris. He seeks to comfort her, placing his arm about her shoulders. Morgan finds them thus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIII

IF NAN CARROLL MORGAN had not been so completely in love with her husband, she would have fallen in love with Willis Todd, out of sheer gratitude for the way he met what might have been a very embarrassing situation. Rather, it was not what Willis did, but what he did not do which Nan, even in her confusion, recognized as the height of tact.

Willis did not remove his arm from about her shoulder; he did not apologize; he did not try to explain to the husband who had halted uncertainly on the threshold of the drawing room. He did not feel guilty. He had done no wrong; Nan had done no wrong. He simply refused to put himself in the wrong by acting like a guilty lover caught by a betrayed husband.

"How's the boy, Mr. Morgan?" he called out, with just the right amount of sympathetic interest. "I'd like to run up and speak to him, if he's awake. You know I used to see him at the office when I called for Nan."

"He's still slightly feverish, and had very little appetite for his milk toast, though maybe that was because he was mourning for the turkey he couldn't have," Morgan answered, exactly as if nothing had happened. "I'm sure he'd be glad to see you, Willis. I told him you were here and he said he had a Christmas present for you. Probably some little trifle he made in his manual training class at school."

"Then I'll run up," Willis said. He rose and not till then did he withdraw his arm from across Nan's shoulders.

"Don't be gone too long. We're going to open Christmas gifts and —there is a Santa Claus!" Nan promised him gaily.

When the young man had left the room, Nan rose from the couch and strolled to the tree. She wondered if Morgan had noticed the still undried tears on her cheeks and what she would say if he questioned her.

"Shall we light the tree now?" she called over her shoulder. "Press the left-hand button for the Christmas tree lights and snap off the others. Now! Doesn't it look lovely?"

"I hope you'll like your presents, dear," Morgan said, in a voice that sounded a little constrained, for all his effort to make it cheerful. "It was hard to know what to get you. Want to open the box now, while we're alone? I'd rather be the sole witness of your disappointment, if you don't like them."

"Them?" Nan repeated, laughing. "This box is pretty small to hold more than one gift. Oh, John! I never had anything so gorgeous in all my life!"

She lifted from their satin bed an antique necklace and pair of bracelets of square-cut topazes, set in exquisitely wrought gold filigree.

"I got them because they're just the color of the highlights in your hair and eyes," Morgan told her, his voice rich with satisfaction. "They're 150 years old, by the way —first presented to a very famous French actress by a royal prince. Full pedigree furnished on request. But there's something else in the box. Lift up the satin pad, dear."

NAN obeyed and drew out a credit memorandum upon the city's most fashionable furrier. The sum staggered her for a moment.

"Why, John, darling, we can't afford—"

"How many times must I remind you that you're only the junior partner in this firm?" Morgan scolded her. "I want you to have a decent fur coat, young woman. I was tempted to choose it myself, but didn't dare assume the responsibility."

"Thank you, John," she said simply, for her voice was too husky with tears to say more. Then, as simply, she kissed her face for his kiss.

The memory of the hard, hungry pressure of his lips was still with her as she watched him fumble awkwardly with the wrappings of her gift to him. She had bought him a wafer-thin, platinum-cased watch. Very plain, very expensive-looking. With it, a thin platinum chain.

Morgan's eyes lighted up with boyish pleasure. "And to think I ever teased you about your woman's intuition! I wonder if anyone else today has said, 'Just what I wanted!' and meant it as wholeheartedly as I do. Thank you, dear, Nan! It makes this old watch of mine look like a turnip. And I thought there couldn't be a finer watch made when my father gave it to me. George! What a beauty it is!" he added, with such naive enthusiasm that Nan laughed aloud, joyously.

That meant another kiss, of course. And this time it was Willis Todd who halted uncertainly on the threshold, unwilling to interrupt an embrace which he knew was giving the most exquisite happiness to the girl he loved.

"We couldn't wait for you, Willis!" Nan cried. "Forgive us, won't you? And come look for what Santa Claus left for you."

She made a great ado of turning her back while he opened the package containing the cravat she had given him, "to allow him time to recover from the shock," as she laughingly warned him.

"The tie I've always longed for! Exactly what I wanted!" Willis announced emphatically and pretended to be very much hurt when his host and hostess exchanged amused, significant glances, then burst into uncontrollable laughter.

"These husband-and-wife secrets," he grumbled. "Anyway, the tie isn't funny! It's a beauty!"

And they laughed at him again. Morgan explained: "The male vocabulary, under certain circumstances, seems to be curiously limited. You've said exactly the same thing about that tie that I've just been saying to Nan about this watch she gave me. What is it, Estelle," he broke off, as he caught sight of the maid beckoning to him from the doorway.

"TELEPHONE, sir," she answered, with an odd note of resentment or sulkiness in her voice.

It required no unusual amount of intuition for Nan to guess that the call was from Iris Morgan.

"Don't look like that, honey," Willis whispered, as Morgan strode across the room toward the library to answer the call. "I'm glad I came tonight. I see now why you feel about him as you do. He's a prince. Fight for him, Nan. He's worth it."

"That's big of you, Willis," Nan murmured huskily. "I'll fight all right, but—so will she. And she has the biggest advantage over me that one woman can have over another."

"And that is?"

"John was mad about her for the whole eight years they were married, and he never really possessed her. Now she pretends she's just as much in love with him as he ever was with her. Can't you see how the thought of possessing her completely, after all those years of frustrated adoration, must affect him?"

"But he loves you," Willis Todd protested. "Not in that insane, slavish way, perhaps, but truly, deeply. You've got to believe that, Nan."

Nan was at the radio cabinet and Willis Todd was relaxed in a big wing chair before the fireplace when Morgan re-entered the room. With a deep sigh, whether of worry or contentment, Nan could not know, he dropped to the couch and stretched his long legs toward the crackling flames of the wood fire.

"Music, John? Or would you rather just talk?" Nan called.

"A sandwich—music, talk, more music. Some carols, if you can find any in the air," her husband answered.

FOUR days later Nan Morgan looked back upon that Christmas evening and tried, desperate with need of its happiness and peace, if only in memory, to recapture every moment of it.

"And I sat there, smug as a pussy-cat, listening to carols and telling myself that I'd been making a mountain out of a molehill; that there was nothing to be afraid of," Nan reflected bitterly, on the day that she knew that Dr. Black's warning had not been the idle meddling of a he-gossip.

She was in her own office, reading a long, telegraphic report from her husband, filed at the state capital, where he was conducting the Bradley defense on its appeal to the supreme court.

Her telephone rang. Absently, she reached for the receiver, her eyes still fastened upon the telegram.

"Hello. Yes, Estelle. What's the matter? Quit panting and try to talk plainly. Is it—Curtis?"

"No'm, it's her!" Estelle's urgent, gusty whisper came over the wire. "Mr. Morgan's other wife, I mean."

Nan's heart lunged, was caught in the grip of a pain so intense that for a moment there was nothing else in the world but that terrible pain. After a bit, when that dreadful contraction of the heart muscles had relented somewhat, she became aware that Estelle's gusty whisper was vibrating against her eardrum. "Mr. Morgan's other wife." So that was how even the servants thought of John Curtis Morgan—a man with two wives. But she must listen, must answer intelligently.

"I don't quite understand, Estelle," she said, and was aware that her voice sounded cold and reproving.

"I said she's here—right here in this house," Estelle repeated, with urgent impatience. "I tried to keep her out till you come home, but I couldn't do nothing with her, ma'am. Honest, I couldn't!"

"What does she want?" But why ask? She wanted her home, her husband, her child. Hadn't Dr. Black warned her that Iris Morgan would stop at nothing?

"She says she wants her own things," Estelle panted. "She brought two men with her and she's going all through the house, gathering up things she says belong to her—"

"Mrs. Morgan may have anything that belongs to her," Nan heard her own voice answering. "Naturally she will want her clothes and other personal belongings. Please give her all the help she needs."

"I ain't going to help her, after the way she talked to me! Treating me like I was dirt under her feet," the maid sobbed. "And if you knew what she's done, you wouldn't ask me to!"

"Estelle!" Nan reproved her sharply. "You must realize I can't let you talk this way—"

"Well, I guess somebody's got to tell you!" Estelle retorted. "She's rented that furnished cottage right across the street, and she's going to live there. She told Curtis so, right in front of me. She said she wanted to be near, so he could spend all his afternoons with her. And she said—"

"Please, Estelle!" Nan interrupted sharply, but automatically.

SHE was not conscious of the act of hanging up the receiver, nor of rising from her chair and walking toward the window of her office. But she must have done these things, for after a while she heard herself whimpering. Somehow, during those first black moments, she had fallen and struck her head against the sharp corner of the radiator cover.

"I must have fainted," she marveled dully. Dizzily, with terrific effort, she pulled her body into a sitting position, then dropped her head into her icy, violently trembling hands.

It was thus that Kathleen O'Connor, bringing in a freshly typed brief which Nan had dictated that morning, found her employer.

"Oh, my goodness!" Miss O'Connor cried shrilly, dropping the brief and sinking to her knees beside the bowed little figure on the floor. "What is the matter, Mrs. Morgan? Has anything happened? Are you sick?"

"I'm—all right," Nan answered, lifting dazed, blind eyes. "Just—a little dizzy. If you'll give me your hand. Thank you. No, I don't want any water. I'm all right. Please go away, Miss O'Connor."

When the frightened secretary had closed the door reluctantly behind her, Nan, at her desk again, lifted the receiver of her telephone and called a number.

"Estelle? Mrs. Morgan speaking. If Mrs. Iris Morgan has not left the house yet, will you please take down her portrait from above the fireplace and [illegible] it to her?"

"She said she wasn't going to take it. She said she wanted it to stay where it is," Estelle babbled. "She's gone now, anyway—"

"Then," Nan said, "please tell Big Pat to take it to her house across the street—and [illegible] it!"

(To Be Continued)

of the mightiest of the kings of the earth, for the accomplishment of His divine and beneficent plans for His servants and people." "One of the most impressive features of the Book is its utter confidence in God and its refusal to appeal to the sword (Ps. 149:6). It counsels to patience (Dan. 12:12). Without human hands, God's kingdom comes (Dan. 2:34), and His enemies are destroyed (Dan. 8:25). In the most skillful way, the Book reaches its splendid climax. It moves steadily on, from a distant past in which God's servants had been rewarded and His enemies crushed, down through the centuries in which successive empires were all unconsciously working out His predetermined plan, and on to the darkest days in history—so dark, because the glorious and everlasting kingdom of God was so soon to dawn."

Four Select Young Men

Daniel and several of the other young men were taken as captives. The king's order went forth to choose out of a picked group of Jews certain ones who should be honored and trained to be members of his group of wise men. These chosen ones must be sound in body and beautiful to look upon. They must have a pleasing personality and a keen, active mind—quick to discern and quick to answer. They were to be "skilful in all wisdom and cunning and understanding science.' They were thus well trained to begin with and equipped with keen minds so that they could take their place alongside the "Chaldeans" or the "wise men." Daniel and his friends were signally honored in being chosen as candidates for this high office. They were picked men who looked to be worthy of standing in the king's court. They were to be the Jewish representatives at the court of Nebuchadnezzar.

The Test

These young men were commanded to eat the food and drink the wine that the king's servants prepared. For three years this was to continue and then they were to be presented before his majesty for the final examination. This, too, was considered a signal honor and a favor to be seized upon with eagerness. Why should they refuse to obey the word of the king?

To partake of the "king's meat" would have involved the risk of eating (a) what was forbidden by the Jewish law; (b) what had not been slaughtered according to the Jewish law, and (c) what had been offered to idols.

Daniel's Fixed Purpose

"But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself." The "purpose" of the heart of Daniel is exceedingly commendable (v 8). He had his heart and mind fixed. He would not defile himself. Fortunately the chief steward was willing to allow the rules to be broken for a short testing time. They were to have "pulse" to eat and water to drink for 10 days. The word translated "pulse" is used for any kind of vegetable. They were to leave off all meats for the period. The story is familiar how at the end of 10 days the steward was convinced of the wisdom of their course and the meat and wine diet is removed. It was a glorious victory and we can well pause for a few minutes in our lesson period to hold up the character of Daniel as worthy of emulation. He dared to do what he knew to be right at any cost. Look at the reward!

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

In chapter two we have the account of a very unusual demand. The king has had a dream and he is greatly puzzled because he cannot recall it. It must be interpreted, but how can it be done? He calls his wise men altogether and demands the interpretation. They must tell him both the dream and its meaning. He declares that dire calamity will come to them unless this is done. It seems to us that he was absolutely unreasonable in his requests. How will the magicians do such an impossible thing? They declare at once that it is beyond the power of any living man. Whereupon the king in a rage orders his soldiers to kill every member of the "Chaldean Society." Daniel and his companions are in this condemned group.

Four Praying Young Men

It is a beautiful picture to see the four Hebrews in a quiet room talking about the strange request and praying quietly but fervently for the answer. They beg that "God of Heaven" may hear them and give the solution. The prayer continued on into the night until in a vision God answered the prayer. God was willing to hear and bless His chosen ones even though they were in a strange land and the request was very much out of the ordinary.

Hymn of Praise

We do not wonder that Daniel broke forth in praise to the God who had given him such a signal blessing. God is the source of all knowledge and light, and it is because of this that He has made clear to Daniel the dream and its meaning. He does not claim any credit for the "discovery" at all. Verse twenty-three is a model prayer of thanksgiving. It is direct and open. He is pouring out his soul to his God for a blessing that he recognizes as extremely valuable. It is a boon too great to expect. He does not intimate that he deserved it at all, but he is rejoicing and praising the name of a good God who has dealt out mercy with a lavish hand.

Interpreting the Dream

The king had dreamed of a great and shining image. It had a golden head, which represented Nebuchadnezzar himself, the mightiest of monarchs. Its arms and breast were of silver, the great stone, cut without any human agency out of a near-by mountain, rolled down upon the statute, and smash the feet. Thereupon the entire image fell and was dissipated into dust which the wind carried away. This stone stood for the power of the one true God, who would destroy the kingdoms of this world in time, and set up central parts were of brass, the legs were of iron, and the feet were partly of iron and partly of brass. These represented the world-kingdoms that should follow the Babylonian, becoming progressively weaker and inferior in every way. Then the king saw a in their place the kingdom of heaven, which is to stand forever.

"This wonderful dream, and the superb interpretation, were at once perceived by the king to be the truth. He proclaimed Jehovah as the god of gods, the lord of kings, the revealer of secrets, and exalted Daniel to be second to himself, the chief administrator of the central province in the realm, containing the capital city, Babylon. Moreover he placed Daniel over all the divisions of the wise men, who would be glad to serve under him, since he had indisputably saved their lives.

CLEARANCE SALE

OF

GOOD USED CARS

We Must Make Room For The New 1930 BUICKS

WE MUST CLEAR OUR FLOORS OF SOME OF OUR USED CARS BEFORE SATURDAY MORNING WHEN THE NEW MODELS WILL BE ON DISPLAY. WITH FOURTEEN NEW MODELS IN THREE SERIES WE MUST HAVE MORE FLOOR SPACE.

We are offering special bargains in used cars for the remainder of this week and we want you to come in and get that car you have been wanting. We have used cars of all kinds, in all the standard makes, at prices ranging from very low on up. We have cars from the cheapest small car to the almost-new higher priced car with only a few miles on it.

Every car has been reconditioned in our shop, new paint and rubber where necessary, and with everything in first class shape for you to drive it out.

Come in—Help us clear our floors—Buy a used car at a big saving—and see the new 1930 Buick Saturday morning.
