Johnson Accepts Advice From Ike

By FRANK CORMIER
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)

President Johnson says he has been accepting advice from Dwight D. Eisenhower and is arranging to keep the former chief executive up-to-date on late developments.

Johnson did not specify the terms in his program that were suggested by the 73-year-old Republican leader. But he hinted that Eisenhower urged him to adopt the economy-in-government program that Johnson has claimed as his first new policy.

Dressed in rancher's togs, the President told an informal news conference Friday that he has ordered that Eisenhower be briefed on steps he has taken in response to the former president's suggestions. The briefing will be done by John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

This was one of half a dozen announcements made by Johnson at what presumably was the first presidential news conference ever conducted from a podium erected on two bales of hay.

Johnson met some 200 reporters and photographers under live oak trees at his 400-acre ranch. At the end of the conference, he got on a horse and rode off to tour the ranch.

These were some other highlights of Johnson's third informal press conference since assuming the presidency.

-Mail reaction is running 50-1 in favor of his moves to close, unneeded military bases. Johnson said he is setting up a Pentagon committee to find more installations that are ripe for the same treatment.

-He accused Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona Republican who could be his opponent in the 1964 presidential election, of ignorance in alleging that the President dictated to Congress and violated the spirit of Christmas during this week's foreign aid fight.

-Federal civilian employment dropped by more than 1,000 in November and fell 3,500 short of the year-earlier level. Johnson said that if payrolls had increased as fast as the population, the total would have risen by 400,000 during the year.

Teodoro Moscoso is being replaced as coordinator of the Alliance for Progress and will become an aide with the rank of ambassador to Thomas C. Mann, the newly named assistant secretary of state who will supervise all Latin American policy.

-President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico will join Johnson in receiving an honorary degree Feb. 21 from the University of California at Los Angeles. Then, they will go to Palm Springs, Calif., for two days of talks.

Up to 100,000 Green Stamps NOW

...When you buy a new Butler farm building during special winter offer

For example, a typical 40 x 60 Panl-Frame machine shed can get you about 26,400 stamps. That's 22 complete books! A 60 x 90 Panl-Frame cattle shelter can get you 39,600 stamps, or 33 books. A 40 x 72 Rigid Frame grain storage and machinery building (in color) can get you 60,000 stamps. That's 50 complete books! There's no limit on the amount of stamps you can get. You receive the stamps as soon as you get the building.

Butler Pan-Frame is today's most wanted new farm building

Panl-Frame was introduced in this area less than a year ago and it has already become the farmer's choice for value. Panl-Frame lets you build faster and more efficiently with metal than you ever could with wood. No bulky frames. No trusses. The panels are the building! About all you do is bolt the factory-formed panels together with common hand tools. You can't go wrong because the panels are pre-punched and self-aligning. You can do it, we can do it, or we can do it together... you save money in any case. Right now, we're making deals on Panl-Frame and every other Butler farm building. You get low off-season prices plus S&H green stamps on the price of the steel building alone at no extra cost. Come in and see us today!

Battle Brewing In Cotton Storage

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A legal battle is brewing over the lucrative business of storing the government's surplus cotton or warehousemen supported by stockpiles.

The quarrel among warehousemen has led the American Cotton Compress and Warehouse Association to a move to secede from its parent organization, the National Cotton Compress and Warehouse Association.

American filed a civil district court suit here Friday seeking an injunction against National, plus legal orders smoothing the way of secession.

Judge O. P. Carriere signed a restraining order. It bars National from spending any money to promote the cause of "inter-governmental surplus cotton" warehouses supported by stockpiles.

American advocates more stockpiling business for "concentration" warehousemen and contends its dues are going to help the competition.

American is an association of warehousemen who store cotton. National is an association made up of five such groups as American Cotton Compress and Warehouse Association.

Interior warehousemen want to keep the cotton in storage right where the farmer takes it when he offers it to the government under the price support system.

"Concentration" warehousemen demand a right to bid for storage of the cotton after it comes into the hands of the federal government.

Three hearings have been scheduled for next month to discuss the increasingly bitter quarrel over storage policies.

The first will be in Atlanta Jan. 13-14, then in New Orleans Jan. 16-17 and at El Paso Jan. 30-31.

The suit also asked that National be forbidden to cancel American's membership or forcing it to pay dues until the case is decided.

National is headquartered in Memphis but has agents in New Orleans. American is headquartered in Houston but has offices here.

The suit asked the court to place National in "involuntary liquidation" to dissolve it, or that an inventory of assets be made so American can claim its share and withdraw.

A hearing is scheduled Jan. 3.

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'll take the money and go to college. I'd like to be a doctor."

That's the way Alfred Thurman, 13-year-old newsboy, reacted when told Friday he had been left an estimated $10,000 estate by a customer who died last June. He said he treated his benefactor, William Stovall, "the same as I did all the others on my route."

"I don't know why he left it to me," Alfred said. "Whenever he was sick, I would get water for him a little around the house, but it wasn't anything I wouldn't do for my other customers."

Fair Play For Cuba Group Is Disbanding

NEW YORK (AP) — The Fair Play for Cuba Committee, which the late Lee Harvey Oswald said he was affiliated, reportedly is disbanding.

The New York Times today quoted unidentified persons formerly active in the pro-Castro group as saying they are discussing how the committee's affairs can be wound up. But they said they are finding it difficult getting someone to attend to the liquidation.

The Times said the group had begun disintegrating before the Nov. 22 assassination of President John F. Kennedy, an act charged to Oswald, an avowed Marxist.

Oswald distributed the committee's literature in New Orleans, but after the assassination the organization disowned him as a member, saying his application never had been acted on.

The committee's remaining state of preservation.

3 supporters say the group has been dealt a fatal blow by the disclosure that Oswald had represented himself as one of its collaborators, according to the Times.

The committee was founded in 1960 by Robert Taber of New York. He was succeeded as national chairman, in turn, by Richard Gibson and Vincent T. Lee. The latter resigned when the group began breaking up, prior to the assassination.

Teak, an extremely durable timber, has been used in India for 2,000 or more years. Pieces of teak beams 1,000 years old have been found there in a good state of preservation.

The committee's remaining state of preservation.

War Flames In Southeast Asia

By JOHN T. WHEELER
KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The flames of war burn brightly in Southeast Asia, threatening to kindle the biggest blaze in the area since World War II.

The worst trouble spot is South Vietnam where American backed forces fight grimly with Viet Cong Guerrillas for the future of a violence-ravaged nation. A new coup is not considered unlikely.

Thousands of British and Malaysian troops are on guard in the jungles of Sarawak and Abah (North Borneo) where there have been repeated attacks by Indonesian-based terrorists. Three or more Indonesian battalions are in place on the other side of the frontier. The situation could grow into largescale fighting.

In Burma, Gen. Ne Win's government has broken off peace talks with Communist leaders and triggered one of the most determined offensives against the Reds in the country's 15-year civil war.

Landlocked Laos hovers on the edge of renewed civil war. Communist subversion in its pro-Communist Pathet Lao leaders frustrate efforts of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma to bring effective peace to the poverty-stricken kingdom. Thailand is moving with U.S.

backing to counter the threat of Communist subversion in its impoverished northeast. The death of Premier Sarit Thanarat left a question mark but Thailand's anti-Communist, pro-Western policies appear certain to remain unchanged.

Cambodia has stepped up its denunciations of civil war in neighboring Thailand and Viet Nam in the past three centuries - old wrangling. Prince Norodom Sihanouk's regime chopped off U.S. aid, called home embassy personnel from Washington and 20,314-ton ship for the holiday.

He appears drifting closer to Communist China but in the past Sihanouk has taken tough measures against communists in his own country. President Diosdado Macapagal emerged from Philippine elections with a two-vote majority in the Senate, giving his party undisputed control of Congress for the first time since its election two years ago.

Macapagal's government has formed a virtual axis with Indonesia against neighboring Malaysia, although Manila has steered clear of militant threats like those pouring out of Jakarta.

Probe Opens In Burning Of Lakonia

By CHRIS ELIQU
ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greece's Merchant Marine Ministry opened a preliminary inquiry today into the burning of the Greek cruise liner Lakonia. The Lakonia's skipper, Capt. Mathios Zarbis, 53, was summoned before the investigators shortly after his arrival by air from Madrid. Other officers and crew members also were questioned.

The inquiry is closed to the public. After the investigation the files will be sent to the Ministry of Justice to decide whether the case should be referred to the Commission of Maritime Accidents for further action.

At the airport, Zarbis, tired and drawn, again defended the predominantly Greek crew from the criticism of some passengers.

"We passed through a dramatic crisis so great that it is impossible for me to give a description or statement," he said. "Anyhow, I would like to point out that my crew, in spite of what was written or said, behaved faultlessly."

Latest figures show 91 persons perished and 64 are still missing in the disaster which occurred 180 miles south of Madeira last Sunday night. A total of 1,041 passengers and crew members were aboard the 20,314-ton ship for the holiday.

The British Ministry of Transport plans its own investigation. The Greek Line, owners of the ship, says it will provide documents and witnesses for a British inquiry if the Greek government agrees.

The Norwegian tug Herkules and the Dutch tug Polzee continued their efforts to salvage the burned-out hulk of the Lakonia.

Accuses US Of Mining Bay's Water

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuba accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency today of mining the waters of Sigüenza Bay, off the coast of the Isle of Pines, and blowing up a torpedo boat. Three Cuban sailors were killed and 18 were wounded when the mine exploded Monday, the Cuban Radio said.

A communique of the Cuban Armed Forces Ministry, reported in a broadcast of the Cuban Radio heard here appeared to confirm a claim made earlier this week by a band of anti-Castro fighters who call themselves Commando Mambises. The communique said the attack "constitutes the first act of aggression by the government of the United States since President Lyndon Johnson took office."

In their report of the action, they destroyed a Russian-built torpedo boat in the Sigüenza Bay off the west coast of the Isle of Pines, south of the Cuban mainland. It was the first commando action in Cuba announced in two months.

According to the Cuban communique, saboteurs of the CIA used a submarine to place a mine below the torpedo boat. The mine exploded at 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Another mine was found a short distance from the dock. To provide the supplies United States farmers need, 6 million persons work at various jobs.

Nehru Era Draws To Rapid Close

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
NEW DELHI (AP)—The Nehru era is drawing to a close. Its 100 million people will keep may end in 1964, touching off changes in India that will take years to clarify.

The democratic structure of government, the unity of a diverse nation and the ideology of economic development will all be called into question by the disappearance of Jawaharlal Nehru, by retirement because of health or by death. He is 74.

The failure of the economy to grow fast enough to get ahead, India's 470 millions will force pragmatism into a theoretically socialist system. Externally there is a possibility of gunfire on two fronts. China has been quiet since 1962's one-month undeclared war but no settlement is in sight. India still is too weak militarily to reclaim 15,000 disputed square miles short distance from the dock. To provide the supplies United States farmers need, 6 million persons work at various jobs.

Airman Read Gets New Assignment

LACKLAND AFB. — Airman Clyde R. Read, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rayford C. Read of Rt. 1 Hermligh, is being reassigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., for technical training as a United States Air Force electrician.

Airman Read, who enlisted in the Air Force a short time ago, has completed his initial basic military training here.

The airman, a 1958 graduate of Snyder High School, attended Texas Technological College.

Refuses To Register As Communist

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—John Williams Stanford, slight, bespectacled bookkeeper, says he does not intend to register as a Communist.

The Department of Justice contends Stanford, 39, is executive secretary of the Communist Party in Texas and ordered him Thursday to register as a party member.

Officers from the sheriff's department and the Texas Attorney General's office searched Stanford's home Tuesday and carried away more than 16 boxes of material. Stanford's wife was served the search warrant, signed by Dist. Judge Solomon C. Seeb Jr.

When Stanford returned home, he said the search was unconstitutional because it was based on Texas subversive control laws which he said were unconstitutional themselves.

Stanford has 60 days in which to appeal the order to register as a party member. If he files no appeal, he must register within 60 days or face trial on failure to comply with the order. Conviction of the charge ranges up to $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

In previous interviews, Stanford has refused to comment on being a Communist and says he is a Marxist.

Two FBI informants testified last September at a Washington, D. C. hearing concerning Stanford's party affiliations.

New Session Of Congress To Face Many Decisions On Farm Issues

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The coming session of Congress will have to struggle with a lot of farm legislation.

The Johnson administration wants measures affecting wheat and cotton to have top billing.

The administration will urge speedy action on a wheat bill to eliminate the necessity for a grower referendum, on strict controls on the 1965 crop and provide for supplementary returns—either from the market or from the government—on the 1964 and subsequent crops.

Unless there is legislation on wheat, income from the crop may dip sharply in the 1964 presidential election year. Also the government would have to hold another referendum like the one it lost by a rather one-sided vote last May.

Pending before the Senate is the Cooley cotton bill already approved by the House. It would make payments to domestic users of cotton so they could get cotton at prices on a par with foreign users who now benefit from an export subsidy.

The administration is expected to make another pitch for new dairy legislation that would make use of payments to dairy-men to discourage overproduction.

It will seek legislation extending money authorizations for the food-for-peace program under which U.S. farm surpluses are made available to needy foreign countries.

The administration also is expected to make a new bid for passage of a new cropland diversion program offering payments on land put to non-crop uses other than grass for pasture.

Some farm groups are expected to press for legislation to cut back on imports of beef. The cattle industry is blaming an increased level of imports for this year's decline in meat animal prices.

Some revisions in the Sugar Control Act will be recommended by the administration. This act controls imports and domestic marketings for the purpose of stabilizing prices and supplies.

Congress may get into a fight over levels at which the Agriculture Department resells farm surpluses accumulated under price support programs. Some farm groups and some farm leaders in Congress contend these prices are too low and as a consequence do not permit the market system to operate effectively to provide farmers with better prices and incomes.

The administration is expected also to propose legislation which would permit some tightening of controls over speculative trading in farm commodities on futures markets.

Mancroft Gets Post

LONDON (AP) — Lord Mancroft, the Jew forced out of a big British insurance company because of Arab pressure, is to become chairman of an Israeli travel company.

He told newsmen Thursday he was planning to join the venture before the Norwich Union Insurance Co. dropped

Texas Oil Well Completions Listed

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission said Saturday 63 oil and six gas wells were completed during the week.

Oil completions for the year total 8,180, compared to 10,051 in 1962.

Gas completions total 2,309, compared to 3,335.

There were 106 wells plugged, 72 of them dry holes. One wildcat oil and one gas well were completed.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,947,502, an increase of 8,304.

In 1962, an hour's work in a factory bought 2.2 pounds of round steak, two pounds in 1963 and 1.5 pounds in 1962.

Has Eyes—Sees Self As Nurse

ATLANTA (AP) — Medical science saved Carolyn Purcell's eyes when she was a child. Now at 17 she has 20-20 vision and one major objective.

"I'm going to be a nurse," the slender high school junior said.

Her favorite subject is biology and she's seen so many nurses that the choice of a profession came naturally.

It was Christmas of 1950 that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, realized she couldn't see the toys clearly at their home in the village of Big Creek.

They brought her 45 miles to Atlanta. Specialists made a preliminary diagnosis and said she probably had a rare eye disease. To save her life, her eyes would have to be removed.

Mrs. Purcell couldn't face that and fled the hospital with Carolyn in her arms. A photographer recorded the tearful departure. The picture was published in many parts of the world and brought hundreds of expressions of sympathy.

The Shrine Patrol in Atlanta helped and Carolyn and her anxious parents flew to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

At that time the medical profession had a new drug, ACTH, which was just beyond the experimental stage. Carolyn was among the first to receive it and started to recover.

Indonesians Down Plane

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesia claimed today its troops shot down an "enemy" reconnaissance plane along the Indonesian-Malaysia border on the island of Borneo, killing one of the two crewmen.

The official Antara news agency did not identify the aircraft further.

Quoting a local Indonesian commander, Antara said the plane crossed into Indonesian air space Dec. 18 but went down in Malaysian territory after being hit by Indonesian gunfire. The incident occurred near Kandai, southwest of Sarawak. Earlier this month, Indonesia claimed it shot down three British planes. Britain has admitted the loss of one aircraft.

Britain, sponsor of the new Malaysian federation, has pledged to support the nation militarily. Indonesia has waged a campaign against Malaysia, charging it is an excuse to prolong British colonialism in Southeast Asia.

Eclipse Due On Monday

BOSTON (AP) — The moon starts in a 3½-hour spectacular Monday, an eclipse visible in all North America and along the West Coast of South America.

Watchers in the Eastern United States will have to set their alarm clocks early to catch it for the lunar eclipse begins at 4:25 a.m. EST.

At that hour the Hayden Planetarium explained, the moon will enter the umbra or dark shadow of the earth. Between 5:28 and 6:47 the moon will be completely in the earth's shadow. At 7:50 the last of the earth's shadow will have passed off the moon's face and the eclipse will be ended.

New Polaris Sub Joins US Navy

MARE ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — The nuclear-powered Polaris-firing submarine Woodrow Wilson—capable of remaining submerged for more than two months—joined the U.S. fleet Friday.

The Navy said there is scarcely a point on the earth's surface beyond the reach of her 16 missiles.

The 7,500-ton warship, first to bear the name of the 28th president, seeks "to guarantee the peace, and its range is global," said Chief Justice Earl Warren at the outdoor commissioning ceremonies at Mare Island shipyard.

Lepers Remain In Self-Imposed Exile

By JAMES LAGIER
KALAUPAPA, Molokai, Hawaii (AP) — Sixty miles from Honolulu is a settlement of 208 people who live in self-imposed exile with no desire to join the society that once ostracized them.

Car-Buying Gives Sales Big Push

AUSTIN (AP) — Auto buying has pushed Texas' retail sales for 11 months some $357 million ahead of last year, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Based on the January-November period, the bureau estimates total sales will be 3 to 4 per cent higher than in 1962.

"Of the $350-odd million by which January-November estimated total retail sales led those for the same period in 1962, almost three-fourths was accounted for by durable goods, presumably the reflection of the automobile buying binge which began in 1962 and has not stopped since," says Robert Lockwood of the University of Texas bureau.

This projected increase was made despite a decline in sales from October to November, attributed at least in part by the bureau to President Kennedy's assassination Nov. 22.

"The tragic succession of events which began on Nov. 22 reduced the number of trading days in November from 25 to 24 and apparently had even more pervasive effects on consumers," Lockwood said.

"Reports from merchants around the state suggest that the pre-Christmas buying surge which normally begins during Thanksgiving week was postponed largely into December."

Nondurable goods, bolstered by activity in apparel stores, showed a 1 per cent gain from October to November of this year and a 9 per cent gain from November, 1962, to November, 1963. Durable goods dropped 10 percent from October to November, but showed a 4 per cent gain from November of last year to the same month this year.

This Boy Really Got Himself Oiled!

NEW YORK (AP) — Friday was a real slick day for Howard Blitz, 11, of Brooklyn.

A service station operator Anthony Mancuso, poured two cans of motor oil over the boy's head and shoulders.

Then Mancuso and his assistant, Joseph Bova, yanked Howard free from a 5½-inch-wide space between two Brooklyn gasoline stations where the boy had become stuck while trying to retrieve a ball.

the first group of lepers cast on its shores to die.

Located on a tongue-shaped area of land on the island's northern coast, the village is cut off from the rest of the island by a cliff that rises 1,800 feet.

From Honolulu, Kalaupapa can be reached only by airplane and a steamer which goes into the community three times a year.

But, except for the bane of Hansen's disease, life goes on in the colony as in any normal community.

The patients—72 of them active cases and the remainder controlled—have automobiles, television sets and electric toothbrushes.

They have full civil rights subject only to the mild jurisdiction of the state's resident superintendent, Edward Burlem, a former construction foreman who took over there 10 years ago.

Kalaupapa, which means "leaky plain" in Hawaii, is administered by the state through the Department of Health and by Dr. Ira Hirschy, chief of the communicable disease branch of the department.

Patients are provided homes, food ration tickets worth $10 a week, $10 every three months for spending money, and $40 every six months for clothing.

Many of them work in the colony for about $170 a month.

Medical care is free. They pay no state or federal taxes, except for the few who have civil service status. Most are more than 40 years old.

Six Roman Catholic sisters—four of them nurses, a priest, four State Health Department nurses, and a physician comprise the medical staff. The sisters are paid a nominal salary.

Patients are free to marry, but no children are allowed in the village. When a baby is expected, the pregnant mother is taken to Honolulu for her confinement. The baby is placed in a nursery of a private hospital where it is cared for until sent to a relative's or foster home.

The absence of children brings the biggest void to Kalaupapa. Scores of stray dogs which apparently belong to everybody on the island emphasize Kalaupapa's emptiness of youth.

Medical evidence has proven, Dr. Hirschy said, that the disease is not hereditary. None of the members of the medical and nursing staffs, the administrative staff, maintenance men, cooks and service personnel—62 of them—need fear contagion as long as they take proper precautions and use a common sense program of hygiene.

The normal activities of the group is testimony to the intelligent and humanitarian care in handling Hansen's disease. But it was not always this way.

In 1886, during the reign of King Kamehameha V, a segregation act was passed requiring lepers to be sent to the remote outpost.

In 1873, the first Caucasian to enter the settlement, the Belgian priest Father Joseph Damien de Veuster, went to the village and labored as priest, carpenter, doctor, and gravedigger until Hansen's disease claimed his life in 1889.

"Father is our hero here," one patient said. His death is celebrated each year with a Mass and a picnic.

When Father Damien first arrived, there were 816 patients. All on their way to death with almost no care, less sympathy, and perhaps no understanding at all.

The toll is made plain in Father Damien's own thin handwriting in the parish register now in the safe of the rectory of the present priest, Father Gustave.

This entry was made seven years after Father Damien's arrival:

"Fourteenth February 1880—of the 342 Christians remain only 32 Rest in peace."

Patient With New Kidney Doing Fine

HOUSTON (AP) — A man whose diseased kidneys were replaced by a healthy one from his mother Dec. 18 was doing well at Methodist Hospital Friday.

Doctors said the transplanted kidney was functioning normally.

Lindsey W. Spillman, 38, of Seymour, Texas, entered the hospital nearly four months ago, and had an artificial kidney for 100 days before volunteering for the transplant.

It was the first successful human kidney transplant in Texas.

The kidney disease, which Spillman contracted 10 years ago, had become so advanced that doctors said his life was in danger.

A team of surgeons from Baylor University College of Medicine labored for four hours on the delicate surgery.

Spillman's diseased kidneys and spleen were removed.

Then Mrs. Spillman's kidney was disconnected, flushed clean of blood cells and reconnected, within 13 minutes and 40 seconds.

Since the operation, Spillman has been treated with chemotherapy—primarily with a drug called Imuran, which fights the body's attempts to reject the foreign kidney, and cortisone derivatives.

Doctors said Spillman currently is doing well and they hope he may be able to return to his work as a sales representative in about three months.

Low Divorce Final

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Deborah J. Loew received her final divorce decree Friday in Superior Court from film actor Arthur M. Loew Jr.

Mrs. Loew, 29, widow of film actor Tyrone Power, received her interlocutory decree Dec. 18, 1962, on grounds of cruelty.

The Loews were married in 1959 and have a son, Gerald, 3.

Says Birth Control Could Make Reproduction A 'Fad'

By FRANK CAREY
A.P. Science Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — World-wide application of birth control methods might lead temporarily to a situation wherein many people would have children only when it was considered "fashionable" to do so, a French scientist said today.

And this, and other possible social consequences of widespread control over human reproduction "might lead to a complete revision of our ideas about marriage and family," declared Dr. J. Bourgeois-Pichat, director of France's National Institute of Demographic Studies, Paris.

Saying that if worldwide contraception becomes a reality, people might be left temporarily without specific motivations for planning a family, the researcher told the 130th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Having a child may then become an event following fluctuation of fashion... (and)... there are always something like 20 per cent of people who are ready to follow one way or another, depending on the fashion of the moment."

"We may therefore be prepared to see births fluctuating from years to years, with all the inconveniences that follow on education, employment, and so forth."

Bourgeois-Pichat was one of four panelists appearing on a special symposium on "Biological and Sociological Research on the Effects of Human Reproduction Control."

During the discussions, these predictions were made by one or another of the speakers:

There is likely to be virtually complete control over reproduction available for humanity as a whole "within a century or so."

New, "perfectly safe" and easy-to-use contraceptive devices may become available during the next decade. (Devices presently available were rated, however, as posing only minimal risk.)

It is probably that in the future the sex of the child will be controlled prior to birth.

While economic gains appear likely, some social consequences may be adverse.

New Weather Service Set

CHICAGO (AP)—"How's the weather out," is a question Weather Bureaus have answered for years.

Now it's going to be "How's the weather in."

Beginning Jan. 2, the Chicago Weather Bureau will issue reports on the indoor relative humidity several times a day during the remainder of the cold season.

The new service will be introduced on a test basis as a health benefit measure. Low humidity aggravates the nose and throat and is a source of discomfort.

The reports will tell the relative humidity outside air would have if heated to 72 degrees fahrenheit.

Unless moisture is added indoors, the Weather Bureau said, heated wintertime air has a much lower humidity than the frigid outside air. For example, if it's zero outside and the humidity is 100 per cent, the same air when heated to 72 degrees gives a reading of 6 per cent humidity — drier than average desert air.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The daughter of my husband's boss was married recently and someone in the office decided that a collection should be taken up for a wedding present. My husband said that since we were not invited to the wedding, and didn't socialize with the boss, he didn't want to chip in on the present. The girl collecting the money said he was entitled to his opinion, and she let it go at that. Well, it seems a gift was bought for $90, and through some mistake, my husband's name got on the card. He got a nice person "thank you" from the boss himself, but he didn't tell the boss that his name got on the card by mistake, and he didn't deserve any thanks. The office people think my husband should kick in with five dollars since he got credit for being in on the gift. What do you think?

HIS WIFE:
DEAR WIFE: Having accepted the unearned "thank you," your husband should kick in with the five dollars.

DEAR ABBY: A girl who works with us got a genuine mink stole from her boyfriend for Christmas. What do you think she gave him?

THE OFFICE GANG:
DEAR GANG: It wasn't the cold shoulder.

DEAR READERS: The Houston Police Department prepared Ten Easy Rules for Raising a Delinquent And here they are:
1. Begin at infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe the world owed him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think he's cute.
3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is

21, and then let him "decide for himself."
4. Pick up everything he leaves lying around — books, shoes, clothes. DO everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility on others.
5. Quarrel frequently in his presence. In this way he will not be too shocked when the home is broken later.
6. Give a child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?
7. Satisfy his every craving for food drink and comfort. Denial may lead to harmful frustrations.
8. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.
9. When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying "I never could do anything with him."
10. Prepare for a life of grief. You are bound to have it.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

'Big Three' Face Challenges

Bowl Tilts To Draw 330,000

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas, Navy and Illinois—college football's "big three"—and four others rated among the top eight in the final 1963 rankings will swing into action New Year's Day in four major post-season bowl games.

Approximately 330,000 spectators are expected to be on hand from Miami to Pasadena to watch the athletes, including five All-Americans. And virtually everyone who has the slightest interest in college football likely will be somewhere near a television set tuned to one of the games.

Based on the records, the headline attraction should be the Cotton Bowl game which sends Texas, the undefeated national champion, against an exciting Navy team which still is not convinced that it should be only No. 2. A crowd of 75,000 is expected to jam the Big Dallas stadium for this one.

As a preliminary to the New Year's action, Southern Methodist and Oregon will meet in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Dec. 31.

Here is the New Year's Day line-up:
COTTON BOWL—Texas (10-0 ranked No. 1) vs. Navy (9-1, No. 2).
ROSE BOWL—Illinois (7-1-1, No. 3) vs. Washington (6-4, unranked).

ORANGE BOWL—Auburn (9-1, No. 5) vs. Nebraska (9-1, No. 6).
SUGAR BOWL—Mississippi (7-0-2, No. 7) vs. Alabama (8-2, No. 8).

All four games will be televised nationally. NBC will carry the Sugar Bowl at 1:45 p.m. EST, followed by the Rose Bowl at 4:45 p.m. CBS will show the Cotton Bowl at 1:45 p.m., and ABC will carry the Orange Bowl at 2 p.m.

The Texas-Navy game is intriguing not only because it pairs the first and second ranked teams and two outstanding individuals—Roger Staubach and Scott Appleton—but because the teams have playing styles diametrically opposed.

The Texas Longhorns are a rugged, battering, ball-control team who have lost only two of their last 37 games and who will be playing their sixth bowl game in seven years. Of 10 victories this season, five were by margins of a touchdown or less. That's a sort of tribute to the rugged Texas defense that dares its opponents to try to score.

Navy plays an open, open-point offense that is keyed to the skills of quarterback Staubach, an elusive, annoying scrambler who gets many of his best gains after he appears to have been trapped. Navy averaged 31.4 points a game and ranked sixth nationally on total offense. Staubach's lowest one-game total yardage was 114.

Tommy Ford is the big man in the Texas offense, which gained 2,316 yards by rushing and only 736 by passing. Appleton, a roving middle guard on defense, has been rated near perfect in this department by coaches. Navy's only loss was to another Southwest Conference team, Southern Methodist, 32-28, Texas downed SMU 17-12.

In the Rose Bowl game, oldest of them all, Illinois is expected to show a Texas-style game, based on the theory that a strong, hustling defense paves the way for offensive success. The Illini came through ahead of their rebuilding schedule and won the Big Ten title after a winless season in 1961 and a 2-7 record in 1962. Their outstanding performer is Dick Butkus, an aggressive center and line-backer.

Washington has no statistics to match the Illini, but the Huskies bounced back to win the Big Six title after losing their first three games and after the number of key players by injuries.

Auburn sends its fine option runner Jimmy Sidle against another standout quarterback, Nebraska's Dennis Claridge. That dual alone should make the game interesting.

Nebraska's burly Big Eight champions stress rushing and are strong on defense while Auburn depends on aggressive quickness. The Cornhusker line, which includes All-American guard Bob Brown and tackle Weight advantage over Auburn's.

When Alabama's disciplinary-minded coach, Paul (Bear) Bryant, suspended star quarterback Joe Namath for violating training rules before the season's last game, Bama's hopes apparently tumbled. But Jack Hurlbut directed the Crimson Tide to a victory over Miami.

Alabama is defensively strong and hits quickly, usually on the ground, for early scores. A couple of weak opponents took some of the gloss off Mississippi's impressive statistical records, but the Southeastern Conference champions have a sharp offense, paced by quarterbacks Perry Lee, Dan and Jim Weatherly, and they yielded only 33 points in nine games.

Host OCU In Finals

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Hometown favorite Oklahoma City, averaging better than 100 points in its first two games, meets top-seeded Wichita Saturday night for the championship of the 28th All-College Basketball Tournament.

The high-scoring Chiefs, who came into the tournament seeded No. 4, outran second-seeded Wyoming 99-86 in a semifinal game Friday night as distance shooting Bud Koper poured in 32 points and 7-foot Eddie Jackson pitched in 26.

Koper leads individual scoring in the tournament with 70 points, 10 more than Wichita's Dave Stallworth. If the 6-6 senior can produce another 30-point performance, he will top the three-year scoring mark set by Cornell Green of Utah State in 1959-61.

Wichita had trouble from a pesky Texas A&M team in the semifinals but finally went away 70-56. The Aggies piling up to within three points midway in the second half but faded after floor leader Bennie Lenox fouled out.

Seminole Edges Bengals, 63-56

LUBBOCK — Seminole eliminated Snyder in the consolation semi-finals of the Caprock Basketball Tournament here Friday in a day of heated action which saw favorite Monterey ousted from the championship bracket.

Seminole defeated the Tigers, 63-56, after the Bengals had made a tremendous comeback in the third period, only to see the Indians recapture the lead in the closing minutes of the fourth period.

Next action for Snyder will come Jan. 7, when they travel to Hamlin. The Tigers hold two victories over the Pied Pipers.

Low-Scoring Battle Looms For '64 Rose Bowl Scrap

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—An outlet of the season contributed heavily to three straight Washington losses to the Air Force, Pittsburgh and Iowa.

The fourth defeat, to UCLA in the ninth game of the schedule, was a combination of a tired-up UCLA team and a flat performance by the Huskies.

Illinois, meanwhile, made each week a string of surprises for the Illini faithful. The one loss was to Michigan, and there was a 20-20 tie with Ohio State which the Buckeyes gained in the fading seconds.

Illinois' better runners are fullback Jim Grabowski and halfback Sam Price, while alternate quarterback Fred Custardo also is a strong runner.

Washington may lack the speed in its backs as compared to its two previous Rose Bowl teams. But Dave Kopay, Charlie Browning, Ron McVed and Coffey, if he is healthy, also pose big threats in rushing the ball.

Owens has a perfect Rose Bowl record. His team routed Wisconsin in 1960, 44-0, and defeated Minnesota in 1961, 17-7. Elliott has an unusual Rose Bowl history. He played on the Michigan team which demolished Southern California in 1948, 49-0, and he coached the California team which lost to Iowa in 1959 by 38-12.

Foe Says Rodriguez 'Fast Cat'

By GENE FLOWDEN
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Wilber (Skeeter) McClure, an impressive young middleweight from Toledo, Ohio, has seen enough of former welterweight champion Luis Manuel Rodriguez.

"He is one fast cat," said McClure after his second bruising 10-round nationally televised fight with Rodriguez Friday night. "I'm too big to go messing around with a speedy little guy like that."

Rodriguez won the unanimous decision of referee Mike Kaplan and two judges although Luis lost a point in the seventh for a low blow.

McClure weighed 159 to Rodriguez' 151 pounds and the Ohioan had much the longer reach but Rodriguez hammered at the midsection and shifted his attack to the head to pile up points.

McClure, who has won 14 of his 16 fights while losing only to Rodriguez, had Luis in trouble in the fourth and fifth rounds with lefts and rights to the head but the Cuban native, who now lives in Miami, easily weathered the storm.

A vicious left hook sent McClure sprawling across the ring as the bell ended the sixth but in the seventh it was Rodriguez who lost a point because of a low blow.

Coaches welcomed a forecast of sunny skies for a chance to go for a high-scoring game when North and South all-stars clash today in the annual Blue-Gray football game.

Both squads were primed with excellent passing attacks and hard-driving runners which brought predictions of a wide-open game. Kickoff time was 1 p.m. CST.

Ticket sales were stimulated not only by the weather but also by a ruckus over cancellation of national radio and TV coverage.

The intersectional contest has been aired nationally over NBC television and radio networks for the past several years but the program was cancelled this year because Negroes are not invited to play in the game.

However, an independent network of eight TV and 50 radio stations in six southern states planned to carry the game.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Patriots and Buffalo Bills met for the Eastern Division title today in the American Football League's first playoff game against the backdrop of a frigid field and a heated controversy.

Workers had shoveled snow, pitched hay and sprinkled heat- and two judges although Luis lost a point in the seventh for a low blow.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

IXTAPAN, Mexico — If there's a curious neighborhood anywhere around we will find it with no trouble.

Back in Mexico City there was this professor of sociology who lived down the street from us. And every morning at 4 o'clock he used to drag this huge cannon up to his front door and fire it because it had something to do with his studies on causes and effects.

So now we have this fellow a few doors away who has a spider monkey named Hudson and they are both getting sort of grey haired and like the easy life.

Hudson lives in a Jacaranda tree in the front yard and has made it into a very nice place. He has it well furnished with chains and ropes and the branches are spaced so he can go swooping through the tree like Tarzan, until he comes to the end of his rope.

I forgot to say that Hudson wears a sort of dog collar with a rope tied to it and every time he comes to the end of his rope in mid-air it makes him furious. He begins screaming all sorts of things and the owner comes to the door and says, "When you miscalculate like that it's your own fault so for Heaven's sake quit using that kind of language."

Of course Hudson lives in the house during the rainy season and he and his owner sit by the fireplace and play chess. Actually, this fellow says, Hudson isn't too sharp on queen pawn openings and he gets lost on some of the combinations that arise from the Sicilian Defense but otherwise he manages pretty well.

And if he isn't in a chess mood maybe they just sit by the fireplace and read. This fellow likes the classics but Hudson prefers comic books and his owner feels this type of literature is responsible for a number of unusual things that have happened.

One thing Hudson learned to do some years ago was to tie the rope from his collar so he could go in the house and sleep if it was a little cool at night. But being a dependable person he would go out right after breakfast the next morning and tie himself up again.

But there are all sorts of strange things that go on around the neighborhood. And this fellow said a man came storming to his house about three o'clock one morning with an unconscious cat which he said Hudson had almost killed trying to teach it to hang by its tail from a high tree.

So the fellow said, "Well you can see for yourself that Hudson is tied with a heavy rope and fast asleep in his own tree." And the cat - owner yelled, "Don't avoid the issue! I saw him a few minutes ago carrying my cat up this big tree in my yard and he would wrap my cat's tail around a branch and then let go."

Of course nobody ever moved anything just like the night another man appeared with a shotgun claiming he saw Hudson dressed in a little jockey suit riding his prize greyhound around the golf course until the dog fainted. Always something like that.

The delicate part of the story, of course, is this fellow said his wife ran off several years ago with an aspirin salesman and all he ever heard from her was a post card saying, "I'd rather live with anybody than an ape."

So I mumbled gee, that was a shame and I felt very badly about it. And the fellow said, yes, it had bothered him these many years because he could never figure out if she was referring to him or Hudson.

Of course I don't pretend to understand women and this fellow says he wouldn't even try. And Hudson doesn't seem to care either way so far as I am concerned that puts him several moves ahead of both of us.

Key To City Missing
BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Any distinguished visitors to Bowling Green currently must miss one ceremony. The key to the city is missing.

Mayor Robert D. Graham said the symbolic, foot-long brass key may have been borrowed and misplaced. It hung in the mayor's office in City Hall about 40 years.

Funt's New Show Not All Laughs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — A perennial journalistic device particularly loved by television is the "man on the street interview." Allen Funt, the indefatigable practical joker of "Candid Camera," has now attempted to turn the device into a comedy program.

"Tell It to The Camera" as the show is called, made its debut as a midseason replacement on CBS Wednesday night and proved something less than a barrel of laughs.

Funt crews in such spots as New York and Washington invited the public to face their cameras and tell the world about their pet peeves, favorite food, their own opinion of their looks and other concerns.

Most of the respondents were self-conscious, smirking and thoroughly unimaginative. But there were a few surprise spots here and there.

One woman announced that her pet gripe was "coat hangers, because they tangled up like a nest of snakes."

Funt's other CBS show, "Candid Camera" has sometimes been criticized on the ground that it traps people into making fools of themselves. Funt at least proves in this show that people don't have to be snared—they volunteer for the assignment.

NBC's operatic specialty is the use of an English-language libretto. It helps that large part of the television audience which is unfamiliar with the story.

On Jan. 19, however, the NBC Opera Company will present Donizetti's famous "Lucia di Lammermoor," and finds itself stuck with an Italian title for a musical tale which is English in all respects.

Moved To San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Ronald E. Thompson, night editor in the Dallas Bureau of The Associated Press, will become the AP's San Antonio correspondent, Jan. 1.

Thompson succeeds Charles H. Green, who is being transferred to the AP World Service desk in New York.

Thompson, 25, joined the Dallas AP staff in 1961 after working as a reporter on the Paris Daily News. He was appointed night editor in August, 1962, after returning from service as a lieutenant in the Army.

Green, 26, joined the AP staff at Houston in 1960 after graduation from North Texas State University and worked on the Denton Record-Chronicle. He was named San Antonio correspondent in May, 1962.

Merman, Borgnine Plan Nuptials

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Ernest Borgnine, "I'm tickled pink. What can a fella say when he is as happy as I am."

Singing star Ethel Merman, "There's no doubt about one thing — I'm in love with the guy."

The thrice-wed Miss Merman, and the twice-wed Borgnine, announced Friday they plan to be married next July after their divorce from actress Katy Jurado becomes final in June.

'63 Movies Big And Expensive

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The year's movies...

This has been a big year for American movies, size-wise, at any rate. Never has the public been greeted with so many immense and expensive attractions. The situation is not likely to be repeated, since the film companies have been busy licking their financial wounds.

As for quality, 1963 was not a vintage year, nor was it a drought. On the whole the year represented an awakening of the creative spirit, an attempt to experiment and seek new vistas.

Here is how the top English-language movies stacked up for this reviewer:

1. "Tom Jones" was a rare and imaginative stunt, using every trick in the movie books to bring a literary classic to pulsating life.
2. "America, America" represented the height of Elia Kazan's powers as he depicted his uncle's flight to the land of promise.
3. "Lilies of the Field" boasted unabashed sentiment and an inspired performance by Sidney Poitier.
4. "Love With a Proper Stranger" caught the temper of big-city life.
5. "Cleopatra," for all its immensity, presented a fascinating spectacle.

Frowns On Blackface

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city said Friday it disapproves the use of blackface by Mummers parade marchers. Robert W. Crawford, city recreation commissioner, asked parade judges not to give prizes to anyone considered "offensive" to racial groups.

The announcement came after Magistrate Elias Myers, parade director, had modified his ban on blackface.

Meanwhile, the Philadelphia Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced it would boycott the annual New Year's Day parade.

Myers said last week that marchers in blackface would be removed from the parade, but Friday he amended this by stating, "I'm not going to ban anybody as long as they behave themselves and don't poke fun at anybody."

Acting Dentist Has A Steady Job

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dentistry's gift to acting, Edgar Buchanan, appears to have found a steady job.

"I don't count on anything until it happens," says Buchanan. "But it looks pretty good."

He needn't be so cautious in talking about "Petticoat Junction," the television series in which he is a star. It has scored higher in the ratings than any other new show this season and appears a cinch to continue running.

"If it happens, that's okay with me," Buchanan said, "this series has cured my ulcer. I don't have to worry about where my next job is coming from—not for a while, anyway."

Buchanan acted in 15 or more television series during the year, and he figures he's taking a loss by sticking with "Petticoat Junction." But it's steady, and he's getting more public recognition, and he'll be able to pick up some of that lush personal appearance money available to television stars.

"Petticoat Junction" could scarcely have been made without Buchanan, trafficking as it does in small-town humor. He has played more village rogues and grizzled deputies than he can remember.

The Buchanan saga is part of Hollywood legend—how he took a drama course at the University of Oregon because he needed to raise his grade average, how he got the acting bug and wanted to quit his medical studies, how his father, a doctor, urged him to study dentistry so he would have a profession to fall back on.

Mateos To Tour Europe

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A local newspaper says President Adolfo Lopez Mateos will make an extensive visit to Europe and the Middle East next year.

Although there was no official confirmation for the report, carried in Friday's edition of "Ultimas Noticias de Excelso," the president asked permission from congress Thursday to leave the country twice next year for periods not exceeding 20 days each.

The congress granted the permit Friday and the ministry of foreign relations announced the president will meet with United States President Lyndon B. Johnson Feb. 23-22 in California.

The newspaper report quoted "well informed circles" as saying Lopez Mateos will visit Italy, Great Britain, the United Arab Republic and several countries in Africa, sometime in April.

Lopez Mateos was invited to visit Italy and Great Britain earlier this year, during his visit to France, West Germany and other European countries.

He was invited to visit the U.A.R. and other African countries, in 1962.

Lopez Mateos' talks with the U.S. President in California will be his first state visit in 1964, a year which will be his last in office.

Beauty On Stage Is No Accident

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera singers get lovelier every year.

Why, Gianna d'Angelo was asked.

It may be because they take better care of themselves. They watch their diets, exercise, and feed their skin, says the beautiful soprano.

The statuesque titan-haired American beauty is a perfect example of the new look in opera stars. She resembles a model or movie star more than the hard-working singer that she is.

"Opera singers are women too, one must remember. They want to look pretty for their audiences, because today it is not enough just to sing. The audience expects more, and you feel better if you look good," she says.

Gianna with the Italian name is really of English and Yugoslavian descent, born in Hartford, raised in Bristol, Conn., as Joan Angolevich. She made her opera debut in Italy nine years ago when they were incensed with Yugoslavia over Trieste," she says, so she chose the Italian version of her name.

Sang For President

Since her debut she has been booked up in Europe that Americans have seen little of her. She made her American debut at the Metropolitan Opera two years ago in "Rigoletto," receiving an ovation after her first aria. This season she will do four operas at the Met.

She was chosen to sing for the late President Kennedy at the recent dinner of the Protestant Council of Churches.

Makes Concoction

Her beautiful skin is due to constant care, she says, as "it is so dry I can't even use soap and water on it," she explains. "For years I've been experimenting with different homemade concoctions."

A yummy one made in the blender is a mixture of yogurt and fresh strawberries. Another is a yogurt and cucumber combination. Both mixtures are blended until they are of a milky consistency. She puts them on her skin for one-half hour and wipes them off with tissue.

Gianna is fond of herbs in foods and in cosmetics, and on one trip to Scotland found a herbist who prepares soaps, creams and "energy tonics."

Ingredients sound like a witch's brew. The soaps of slippery elm and marigold are wonderful, she says. The ingredients in other preparations include motherwort and hawthorn. Flowers and herbs are nature's own tonic, Gianna believes, and when she uses these things she "really feels like she has found energy," she says, "though it could be my imagination."

Likes Green, Brown
She makes herself look even taller than her 5 foot 7½ inches and feels tall girls should do that. One way is in the waist-long hair that she winds around the top of her head. She wears high heels except when she sings with certain short men. "But flat heels are annoying on stage as I trip all over my dress," she says.

Her favorite colors, green and brown, are perfect for her coloring — dark eyes, red hair, pale skin.

She never had a weight problem, she says, until about five years ago, and thinks perhaps it is because she doesn't now get enough outdoor exercise at her favorite sports — ice skating and swimming.

"Then I could eat such foods as stuffed cabbage and potato pancakes and never gain an ounce," she says. She is careful to watch her weight now each day.

She does ordinary bend-down routines morning and evening.

Bell-Spittle Wedding Set

Mrs. O. G. Bell, 1007 North Seventeenth Street in Lamesa, has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Ovida Fay, to Ronald Arthur Spittle.

The prospective groom is the son of Paul H. Spittle of Snyder. The bride-elect is a senior at Lamesa High School. Mr. Spittle is a 1962 graduate of Snyder High School and is employed by Highlite Broadcasting Co. in Killeen.

The couple will exchange vows on Jan. 20 in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church in Lamesa.

Carving Tips

When carving any roast, be sure to use a sharp knife. And remember the first rule of carving: Cut against the grain. If you cut with the grain, long meat fibers give an unusual texture to the slice. Steaks are the exception. They are carved with the grain.

If your pie dough cracks at the edge when you are rolling it out, be sure to press the and hawthorn. Flowers and

The Colonial Hill Baptist Church was the setting for doubling rites which united in marriage Miss Judy Ann Kelly and Tommy James Ryan on Dec. 14.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Greenfield of Dermott. Mr. Ryan is the son of Ruel Ryan, 605 Thirtieth Street. Dr. Jimmie Nelson officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length satin gown with chapel train and princess skirt, sweetheart neckline and lace bodice. The long sleeves were pointed at the wrists. A taria of white seed pearls held a waist-length veil of white illusion.

Shakespeare In A New Light

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: A Biography. By A. L. Rowse. Some of the upper echelon literary scholars are going to have fits when they read this book.

Rowse is an Oxford fellow, credited with being the leading historian of the Elizabethan period. Now he has elbowed his way into the jealously guarded precincts of the literary professors. He has the temerity to straighten out their problems for them, and even chides them occasionally for obfuscating matters which he considers simple.

All of the Bard's biographers have had to reconstruct his life from indirect materials, particularly the internal evidence of the plays and poems. Rowse believes the literary scholars have paid too little attention to current events of the era, especially in politics.

He says "scholars have put more energy and scholarship into exploring his 'sources' in his reading, than to giving attention to the personal associations, the events going on around them which provide so much stimulus to a writer," and that the Bard's imagination "operated in and responded to the environment of a real world; and here the historian has something to offer."

Methodically Rowse analyzes all the Shakespeare works, stitching passage after passage into the context of current events, politics, court business, public commotions and even physical phenomena. Not that he ignores the strictly literary factors; but he gives historical and political elements a greater weight than do the literary professors.

Some biographies of great figures are so simplified and popularized that even children can race through them; at the other extreme are the plodding, dusty, academic tomes that even the professionals go to sleep over. Rowse's book is no easy, slapdash story; it is for readers seriously interested in the subject. But fortunately it is pleasantly readable and escapes the academic curse.

The author created a prepublication hoo-haw when he declared he had solved all the problems of the sonnets (except the identity of the Dark Lady) and unequivocally identified Shakespeare's patron as the Earl of Southampton. That is the choice of some biographers, including Peter Quennell, whose biography was published recently by World. But Cambridge University Press has just brought out a book by scholar J. Dover Wilson, who votes for the Earl of Pembroke. His pointed title is "Shakespeare's Sonnets: An Introduction for Historians and Others."

For "something old" she wore a bracelet from her great-aunt. Something blue was a garter, a gift from the maid of honor, and something borrowed was the veil. Something new was the wedding dress. She carried a penny minted on the date of her birth. She carried feathered carnations surrounded by holy.

Sandra Jones was maid of honor. She wore a red velvet dress with bell skirt and carried peppermint carnations. The flower girl, Meny Schkade of Abilene, wore a costume identical to that of the maid of honor and carried a basket of carnation petals. Vivian Schkade of Abilene was bridesmaid. She wore a red velvet dress with bell skirt. Lance Winn of Midland was ringbearer.

Sammy Vaughn of Midland was best man, while ushers were Bobby Brown, Henry Grinslade and Dewey Grinslade.

Mrs. Burton Moore was organist, and Miss Brenda Sellers sang "I Love You Truly" and "Always."

The altar was decorated with poinsettias and holly.

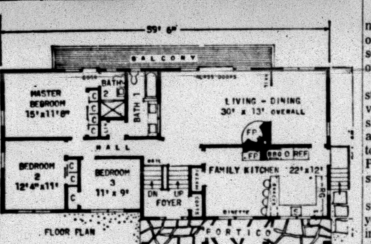

The reception was held at the fellowship hall at the church. Linda Taylor served the three-tiered cake, and Mrs. Chio Anne Lindsey presided at the bride's book.

For the wedding trip the bride selected a two-piece wool suit trimmed in black fur.

The couple will live in Hawaii where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Midland, Fort Worth and Abilene.

Cosmopolitan Describes This Delightful Stew

The word "cosmopolitan" signifies something worldly, with national attachments, something gathered from various parts of the world.

Such a word describes this stew composed of lamb, a convenient can of tomato sauce, sliced onion, frozen lima beans and curry powder. It's pleasing to the taste and simple to make. Prepare it soon for a delightful supper.

Thrifty boneless lamb for stew is frequently available at your meat counter already cut into cubes. You could also purchase lamb shoulder meat and cut the cubes yourself with a sharp knife.

A lamb stew cooks relatively quickly, usually in about 1½ hours, states meat cookery expert Robt Stiggs. Of course the vegetables for a stew are added later, so that the meat and vegetables are done at the same time.

Cosmopolitan Lamb Stew
2 pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 cup water
¾ teaspoon curry powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans
Brown lamb in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add remaining ingredients, except lima beans. Cover tightly and simmer 1 hour. Add lima beans and continue cooking 30 minutes, or until done. 6 servings.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newfeatures

At least once a year, somewhere, somebody makes a speech or writes a magazine article about a diminishing interest in what he calls the do-it-yourself fad.

Don't you believe it! More persons are making or fixing things these days than at any time in the past. And since a fad is something which excites only passing attention, you can hardly call something a fad which began in the 1930s, moved into high gear in the '40s and has been going strong ever since.

Do-it-yourself, indulged in by a small percentage of the population as far back as you care to go, really came into its own during the depression. Everybody was searching for a way to economize. And even though help could be obtained in those days for small fees, householders did it themselves solely for the purpose of saving money.

When things began to get prosperous in the '40s, the necessity to cut financial corners was no longer urgent, but another obstacle arose. Most skilled workers were engaged in wartime activities of one sort or another, and it became difficult to get help at any price.

These days, a combination of factors has kept the average home owner doing-it-himself. He has learned the personal satisfaction of creating and fixing things. And he has discovered, from sad experience, that he can't always get professional help when he needs it. Longer weekends and holidays, plus shorter workdays, have combined to make the professional inaccessible at odd hours except in major emergencies.

Also to be considered in this area is the fact that it isn't easy to get a plumber or electrician or carpenter for a small job. The professionals may deny it, but you simply can not get a workman to give you as quick service on a job that will cost $5 as you can on one that will cost $75. The skilled workers are usually a busy individual these days and he can not spare the time to make a small repair at a small cost. He has to charge for his traveling time, usually referred to as a service charge, and he may feel that he will resent paying for more than just the labor and materials. It isn't his fault; it's merely, as Jimmy Durante puts it, that "those are the conditions that prevail."

It's not difficult to figure out, therefore, why so many persons are doing so many repair tasks around the house. Those who think do-it-yourself is slipping haven't talked to the manufacturers of materials and products used by the householder. They will all tell you — and show you figures to prove it — that the curve on the do-it-yourself chart is still going up.

The Gardeners Corner

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newscaster

RUBBING his magic fluorescent lamp, Christi C. Mpelkas sees the future glowing for farms in loft buildings in the heart of the nation's largest cities.

Mpelkas (pronounced Bally) is a plant physiologist whom we mentioned recently as a gardener who enjoys his perennials longer than most folk, with the help of lights.

Hydroponics is the science of soilless plant growth.

Mpelkas is an expert on hydroponic farming and indoor flower growth. A dozen years after he began his horticultural career, he headed an Army Air Force hydroponic operation in 1942 on Ascension Island in the Atlantic where on less than half an acre he provided salad crops to five big air bases.

With modern hydroponic methods for plant nourishment and special lamps to meet energy requirements, serious indoor flower growers can raise food or prize-winning plants with a minimum effort," says Mpelkas.

The stocky, smiling expert is experimenting with a comparatively new plant-growth lamp (Sylvania's Gro-Lux) at Salem, Mass.

A hydroponic layout is simple and inexpensive — a few plastic flow tanks with weep-holes for chemical run-off, a few inches of sand, gravel or vermiculite on the tank bottoms and easily obtained chemicals.

"Seeds are planted normally," Mpelkas said. "Nutrients in the form of solutions containing potassium nitrate, ammonium sulfate, magnesium sulfate, monocalcium phosphate and calcium sulfate, available in drug or chemical outlets, are mixed with water and supplied to the plant. Once the seed has sprouted, the plant may be moved to a deeper container to encourage root growth."

The feeding run-off is reused, he added, and strengthened as necessary. The most important element in hydroponics is the proper mixing of the chemical, since nutrients must be in perfect chemical mixture.

"Hydroponically grown foods are tasty and colorful," Mpelkas says. "They are not dependent upon weather or sunlight for their growth and are insect free. But they must be raised under close temperature and humidity control to keep their chemicals in optimum availability."

Interest in hydroponics is growing in the commercial and hobby fields.

The combination of hydroponic farming methods and new plant-growth enhancing lamps could ultimately result in high-yield farming operations in loft buildings in business and industrial centers in every area of the country, regardless of climate, Mpelkas said.

Calico Supper Distinguishes Economy Steak

Multicolored to pep up a winter's day and temptingly priced to attract the tightest of budgets, a Calico Steak Supper deserves a whirl in your kitchen.

Beef, vegetables, celery soup and herbs simmer together, mingling their distinctive flavor into a harmonious blend. You save on utensils, too, for everything cooks in the same skillet.

The recipe calls for beef arm or blade steak. These steaks come from the economical chuck section of beef. In fact, since beef is enjoying a plentiful cycle right now, you may find real bargains waiting.

Arm and blade steaks are similar to arm and blade pot-roasts, except that the steaks are cut thinner. Like pot-roasts, they must be braised in a covered utensil to be tender when served, says meat cookery expert Reba Stages.

The size is ideal for small families. If yours is larger purchase two steaks or a pot-roast and double the accompanying ingredients.

Calico Steak Supper

1 beef arm or blade steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1 small onion, sliced
1/2 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed celery soup, approximately 2-3 cup water
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas and carrots
Brown steak in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt, pepper, marjoram and thyme. Add onion, celery soup and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Add celery and continue cooking 15 to 20 minutes or until meat is tender and vegetables are done. 3 to 4 servings.

Moving Paintings Requires Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newscaster Writer

Our cultural fling is likely to create all sort of new problems such as how one transports paintings from one home to another.

Paintings can arrive in top-notch condition if properly packed whether moved in family car or moving van, says Miss Jean Volkmer, who restores paintings for the Museum of Modern Art in New York. But there is another thought — can you move them to the new dwelling?

Matisse's "Dance," which Miss Volkmer restored recently, does not fit into the museum's elevators. The 12 1/2 by 8 1/2 foot canvas must be carried up and down stairs. And it is heavy. In many homes stair landings are narrow, even for the smallest paintings to be moved safely, so it is a good idea to check a new home if paintings are valuable.

Miss Volkmer has just been involved in the movement of many paintings. Recently 153 were shipped to the National Gallery in Washington in three shipments. She was on hand to make sure the painting were still in good condition when they were unwrapped and to dust them with her four-inch badger hair brush, "better than cloths or feather dusters," she says.

"A little bump on the road can do a bit of damage to a painting that isn't packed and placed properly for the trip," she points out. The museum uses the sandwich pack method as a rule—peds made of excelsior in wrapping paper or of foam rubber at the corners to cushion the painting. Fiberboard is completely over the frame in front. "It is anchored with rope that must be snipped in six places to be removed," she says.

The foam rubber is sort of a triangle sleeve that was first noted on paintings arriving from Europe, Miss Volkmer says. A square is folded so that it is sealed over the ends and acts as a good shock absorber, whereas excelsior must be stapled to the frame.

When paintings are being moved from the wall, the wire is excellent for cleaning and restoration. In the museum's case, paintings that may be the heart of a collection can't be moved just any time.

Modern paintings especially require professional cleaning, she points out. It is definitely not a job for amateurs.

"There are many solvents available but tests are necessary to know the paint. We work with the artists and know pretty much what to use. We often use water, but lots of paints, dissolve in water. Then too, paintings take years to dry, even if one feels dry to the touch. There may be parts that are still responsive to solvents," she points out.

That's one reason artists shouldn't varnish a canvas until it is about a year old. Varnish can combine with the paint, she says.

People shouldn't roll paintings to store them. That's what Matisse did to "Dance," and "paint cracked in it in a great number of places," she says.

"We gave it a wax lining, an additional canvas coated with a wax resin, an adhesive that penetrates cracks and paint film."

A fireplace is not good for paintings, something to remember if it is the only likely place for a work of art. Glass could be used over the painting, Miss Volkmer points out, but since some air space is required, glass could act as sort of a flue, and be even worse for the painting.

Books such as Carolyn Keck's "How To Take Care of Your Pictures," available at museums, make ideal references, Miss Volkmer points out.

Older paintings may be cleaned at home without too much risk. Though in Europe people use potatoes and breadcrumbs, "it probably takes a lot of doing," Miss Volkmer says.

At the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where paintings are older, a number of techniques are used for cleaning paintings, says Murray Pease, curator of the Technical Laboratory there.

An effective method for removal of superficial grime may be done with gasoline-type dry cleaning fluid applied with absorbent cotton or a soft brush, tiny area at a time. Or a cream-type good quality wax emulsion furniture polish may be used. If either technique is employed, the cleaner must be wiped off immediately.

He cautions against the home-sprung remedies, such as soap and household cleaners or hampful paintings near radiators.

"While heat itself is not harmful to paintings, dry heat of winter is. A uniform relative humidity of 50 per cent is the most desirable," he says.

"For minor or major repairs, use a museum-recommended professional restorer," Pease says.

Leftover Ham

Leftover ham can be cubed and creamed, then served over biscuits, corn bread, baked sweet or Irish potatoes.

Grind leftover ham and bake in a ham loaf. Ham, cubed or julienne, makes a delicious salad when combined with greens or macaroni, celery and pickles, or a combination of fresh or chilled cooked vegetables.

Mix cubed cooked ham and cooked vegetables, rice or macaroni with canned creamed soup, and heat in the oven as a casserole dish.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

NORMAL 'ABNORMALITIES'—By Kenneth S. Shepard, M.D. Director, Well Baby Clinics

The new mother often will call her pediatrician to report that she's discovered an abnormality in her baby. In most instances, the mother will describe a normal "abnormality," a variation that is perfectly natural in the newborn baby. Here are a few of the more common ones:

Abdominal Breathing—Failure to use the chest and rib muscles in breathing for the first two days of life cannot be considered abnormal. Abdominal breathing is the rule in the newborn until the lungs are fully expanded usually by the fourth day.

"Cat-Back" Posture—When a newborn baby is held in a sitting position, his back usually assumes a severe hump. This is normal until the neck reflexes and muscles begin to strengthen and develop tone.

Swelling of Infant's Breasts—Within a few days after birth the breasts of many infants begin to engorge. Even in the male infant there is frequent milk production. This is due to the crossover of lactating hormone from the mother and its stimulation of the breasts of the infant. This is normal and should clear up within a few weeks.

Two Innate Fears—Infants are born with two innate fears. These are the fear of falling and the fear of loud noises. Shakes and tremors and loud crying may be elicited by shaking the bassinette and by making loud and explosive sounds. Some infants seem to be more sensitive to these fear-provoked episodes than others. Some parents have harsh, explosive speech patterns that may evoke various manifestations of these fears.

Odd Head Shapes—Elongated, lopsided, irregularly shaped heads are the rule in first-born babies. These irregularities are corrected swiftly and naturally. Improvement should be seen by the 5th of 6th day.

Eye Swelling—This is seen commonly in infants born face up and represents no abnormality. It may also occur following the use of silver nitrate in the eyes at birth, a legally instituted procedure as a preventive measure against gonorrhea. This too will clear up.

Position of Cord—Every baby has a "position of comfort." Usually, this is on one side with the legs drawn up and the hands forward, but some may desire another bizarre position. These preferences should be tolerated.

Rooting Reflex—The newborn infant will make rooting motions, trying to dig his face and head into any soft object such as a pillow, breast or soft toy animal. This reflex is related to the sucking reflex and will diminish at about the age of three or four months.

Starts Monday Morning At 8:00 A.M.

Miss Snider, Mr. Clayton Wed In Rites Here Dec. 21

Miss Betty Lou Snider became the bride of Carson Cyril Clayton in doubling rites at the Northside Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Bill) Snider, 2412 Avenue L. Mr. Clayton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Clayton, Moffat, Colo.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. The overskirt of Chantilly lace formed scallops and points accenting the chapel train. The bodice was fitted with a deep waistline and square neckline with lace sleeve-

Sausage Rarbit Will Delight Brunch Guests

Appearing between two meal-times according to the clock and featuring a menu combining the refreshing atmosphere of breakfast and the heartiness of lunch, brunch is indeed a special occasion.

It's a nice meal with which to greet holiday house guests when they arise, or plan a brunch for entertaining friends. Imagination and showmanship at a relaxed pace are the keys to success.

The highlight of the menu ought to be something meaty and savory, like Sausage Rarbit Deluxe. In this entree tasty pork sausage mixed with mushroom sauce rests between corn bread squares, and a parsley-flecked cheese sauce spoons over the top. Your guests will love it!

Sausage Rarbit Deluxe
1 pound bulk pork sausage
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons water
1/2 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed mushroom soup, approximately 2-3 cup

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
6 corn bread squares, approximately 3 inches square

Paprika, if desired
Place sausage, onion and water in cold frying pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly 5 minutes. Pour off drippings. Stir in mushroom soup and heat through. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Stir in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add mustard and grated cheese and cook slowly until cheese is melted. Stir in parsley. Split corn bread squares. Spread approximately 1-3 cup sausage mixture on bottom half of corn bread squares. Top with second half. Spoon cheese sauce over squares. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. 6 servings.

es coming to a point over the hands.

The veil of silk illusion and Chantilly lace was held by a white pillbox hat. She wore "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue," and a 1963 penny in her shoe. She carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations with detachable corsage atop a white Bible with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn Beckham, a student at Texas Tech, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Don Snider, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. They wore dresses of gold peau de soie with sweetheart necklines, short sleeves and bell skirts. Head-dresses were bows of gold material on tulle.

Miss Debra Stephens was flower girl. Her dress was similar to those of the maid and matron of honor, and she carried a basket of rose petals.

Billy Max Snider, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer. Eddie Clayton of Moffat, Colo.,

Spit-Roasted Savory Lamb

1 leg of lamb
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon onion powder
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, crushed
Have leg of lamb boned, rolled and tied so that it makes a compact roast weighing about 3 pounds. Mix together the salt, pepper, paprika, onion powder, parsley, vinegar and garlic, with a small spatula rub this mixture over entire outside surface of lamb roast. Spit-rotate to degree of doneness desired.

Shrimp Cooked In Court Bouillon

2 pounds raw shrimp
1 1/2 q arts water
1 rib celery, sliced
1 carrot, sliced
1 small onion, sliced
Juice of 1/2 lemon
1 teaspoon salt
3 or 4 peppercorns
Wash and drain shrimp. Bring water, celery, carrot, onion, lemon juice, salt and pepper-corns to a boil; add shrimp. Cover and simmer until shrimp are pink and cooked through — 3 to 5 minutes. Remove shrimp, peel and devein; chill; serve with cocktail sauce and salad greens. The liquid (court bouillon) in which the shrimp was cooked may be strained and used as a base for a fish and vegetable soup.

brother of the groom, was best man. Don Snider, brother of the bride, was groomsmen, and ushers were Stanly Martin and Ronnie Suiter.

On the center of the altar were brass candelabra with burning tapers, flanked on either side by an arch of greenery on candelabra. Two baskets of mums and pompons were on either side. Pew bows marked the aisle.

Miss Jackie Dean, organist, played the Bridal Chorus and the Wedding March, and Eddie Skains, soloist, sang "Always" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Snider. The table was laid with a lace cloth over white. Candles were at the center, surrounded by bouquets of the attendants.

The three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom was served by Donna Lenior, and Jackie Dean ladled punch. Sue Wiman presided at the groom's table.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a three-piece suit of beige double-knit with red accessories. She wore a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Snyder High School and attended Commercial College of Abilene. She is employed at Scurry County Library.

Mr. Clayton is a 1969 graduate of Ira High School and attended Texas Tech. He is employed by Ray Taylor Well Servicing Co.

Following the wedding trip the couple will be at home at 2701 1/2 Avenue U.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Abilene, Colorado, Hermleigh, Ira, Lubbock, Big Spring, San Antonio and Alabama.

Cloverleaf Rolls

1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup sugar
2 1/4 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine soft
1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water
5 1/2 cups (about) sifted flour
Melted butter or margarine (extra)
Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and butter until butter melts; cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast over warm water in a large mixing bowl; stir to dissolve; stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Add half the flour; beat until smooth; stir in remaining flour. Turn out on prepared pastry cloth; knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted butter; cover with clean towel. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled—about 1 hour. Punch down dough; turn out on prepared pastry cloth; divide dough in half. Form each half into a 9-inch roll; cut each roll into 9 equal pieces; form each piece into 3 small balls. Brush sides of balls with melted butter. Place 3 balls in each section of greased muffin pans (Each cup 2 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches); cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled—about 1 hour. Brush lightly with melted butter. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven about 15 minutes.

A TEA for ex-members of the Lucky 13 Club was held Friday morning at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with present members of the club as hostesses. Pictured, L to R, are ex-members Mrs. Ellis Huddleston, Mrs. Richard Stoker and Mrs. Herbert Reed. Welcoming the guests are Mary Brice, Jane Boren and Lesa Bowden. Approximately fifty guests were present.

'WHAT A GREAT BOY AM I!'

Tournament Of Roses Is Expected To Be Greatest

By GENE HANDSAKER
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—More than 300,000 baby orchids at a cost of $20,000 flown from Hawaii to help decorate — Sixty graceful floats, covered with flowers, costing sponsors nearly $750,000, interspersed with — Twenty-one selected bands, some of whose youthful tootlers mowed lawns, painted barns or baby-sat last summer to help pay their way here, and — Two hundred twenty-five sad-eyed horses, worth with their trappings — which tournament regulations say must be silver — $3.5 million.

That'll be next Wednesday's 75th anniversary Tournament of Roses parade — the greatest ever, spokesmen say. There'll be 2,900 handsomen alone, a new former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be grand marshal, riding in a rose-festooned car with wife Mamie beside him. Nobody knows for sure, but tournament spokesmen have estimated the number of blossoms to be used in the parades at up to 10 million. Most of them are grown in Southern California. The parade lasts just two hours, but its production is a year-around operation for a small office staff and 1,400 civic-minded volunteers. They pay annual dues of $5 to $10 for the privilege of working for nothing as members of the Tournament of Roses Association.

Like many big things, California's annual New Year's Day gift to the world started small. In 1890 Dr. Charles F. Holder organized the Valley Hunt Club, composed of fellow enthusiasts of riding to hounds. Holder, a writer, world traveler and outdoors enthusiast, next proposed that the club sponsor a floral display on New Year's Day. The first Tournament of Roses, as it is soon named, was on Jan. 1, 1890. Three thousand citizens brought roses and other flowers from their gardens and displayed them in a park.

The next year there was a parade of flower-decorated saddle horses and carriages. Interest grew each year. Rivalry developed between the families in decorating their carriages. Divided skirts, in which women could sit astride their horses, created a stir in 1893. Automobiles — five of them — made their first appearance in 1901, chugging along at the rear so as not to frighten the horses. In the early years there were afternoon foot races, pony, burro and bike races, a tug-of-war and later, for 12 years, chariot races. These events were the forerunners of the inter-sectional Rose Bowl football game, of which next Wednesday's, between Washington and Illinois will be the 50th.

The Rose Bowl was built in 1922 with Tournament of Roses earnings and donated to the city. The bowl later was enlarged to its present seating capacity of 100,531. The tournament gets 15 percent of the Rose Bowl game's net revenue from ticket sales, television rights and concessions. This more than pays the tournament's annual cost of about $175,000 a year. The nonprofit association turns the excess over to the city.

The association, which sponsors the game as well as the parade, was formed in 1896. Its headquarters is a suite of modern, glass-walled offices at the rear of the 27-room mansion of the late William Wrigley Jr. Why are sponsors willing to spend anywhere from about $2,500 to $25,000 to enter a float? Pride, probably, among nations, states, cities, altruism, presumably for service, veterans', community, educational, religious and other groups. For hotels, business firms and business associations, which compete for a separate set of top prizes, it's advertising. In April a theme for the next tournament, solicited from the public is announced. This year 7,500 postcards bearing suggestions came from all 50 states. The prize: Two tickets in the parade's official reviewing stand and two on the 50-yard line at the football game. This year's winner was Henry Ives of nearby Monrovia, who suggested "Symbols of Freedom."

A tournament queen and her court of six princesses are chosen in December. They're picked from among 2,500 coeds at Pasadena City College. By early November, float assembly points — chiefly two enormous steel buildings — are a cacophony of power hand saws ripping through plywood. Heavy I-beams and angle irons are used to build long car frames supporting automobile engines at the rear. Quarter-inch rods become graceful skeletons. These are covered with chicken wire that is then sprayed with the kind of plastic used to mottle Navy ships. On this surface flowers are pasted, pinned or supported in vials of water.

This is the 54th year in which vigorous, white-haired Mrs. Isabella Coleman, "Mrs. Rose Parade," has decorated a float. She has won every prize offered, including, she estimates, 12 sweepstakes.

Christmas Came Late For Orphans

MASSAPEQUA PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Christmas came a day late for four orphans from Chile, but it's one they won't soon forget. They arrived at their new home in this New York City suburb, with their new parents, the William Quinns, and made friends with six new brothers and sisters. Under the Christmas tree they found toys and other gifts the Quinns had wrapped in hopes the orphans would arrive by Christmas Day.

Quinn, 38, a production manager for National Broadcasting Co. news and public affairs, and his wife, Joan, 34, plan to adopt the Chilean children, ranging in age from 1½ to 11. Their six children range from 2 to 11 in age. "We both like children," said Quinn at Kennedy International Airport as the family met the orphans with hugs and kisses. The children's mother, a widow, was killed in an automobile accident last September. Mrs. Quinn's sister-in-law, a Roman Catholic nun in Temuco, Chile, wrote about the children's plight. "My wife and I decided after thinking about it," said Quinn, "that these kids needed a break." The language difference won't be too much of a problem. Mrs. Quinn's mother-in-law, a Quinns major in Spanish in college. Raccoons often dunk their food in water, though they will eat it dry. Some scientists say coons moisten their food because they have poor salivary glands.

Junior Editors Quiz on WAVES

QUESTION: What causes ocean waves to foam?
ANSWER: As wind pushes on sea water and builds up wave forms, wind friction helps to point the top to a sharp crest (A). If the wind is strong enough, it will then blow over the water at the top so that it goes spilling down (B). But the air of the wind will mix with the water, resulting in millions of air bubbles, each surrounded by a thin film of water. As the water film around the bubble is held by the surface tension by which molecules on a liquid surface pull together. When you blow a soap bubble, the molecules in the soapy water are trying to hold together, and a round shape is the smallest one into which they can compress the air inside the bubble. Air bubbles in sea water are formed in much the same way. Millions of air bubbles form the white mass called 'foam,' which is white because the glistening air bubbles are reflecting light from all directions (C). As the foam falls down, it is pushed into the water below and usually comes boiling up onto the back of the next wave. It often remains for quite awhile on the water, forming the streaks and patches called 'spume' or 'spindrift.'
