845 Planes Wrecked, Luftwaffe 'Dead'

359 Jap Planes Lost In Two-Way Attacks

Total Set At 1,674 Since March 18; Yanks Invade Ie Island Off Okinawa

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

ANOTHER large Japanese air fleet attacked American forces on and around Okinawa yesterday at a cost of at least 250 enemy planes. Doughboys, meantime, invaded tiny Ie island off the west central coast of Okinawa and captured its three-strip airfield.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique today also reported that U. S. carrier task forces attacking Kyushu, southernmost mainland island of Japan, and targets in the Ryukyus from Thursday through Sunday destroyed 109 Japanese planes and damaged 60 more.

1,674 In Month

This meant 1,674 enemy aircraft have been wiped out since March 18 in this area.

Invasion of Ie island, just off the Motobu peninsula, was against initially light opposition which stiffened as the Yanks drove inland. Most of the island was secured.

Nimitz disclosed that 9,108 Japanese troops had been killed on Okinawa and 391 taken prisoner up to Friday midnight. That covered the first 13 days of the Okinawa campaign. The prisoner figure was for military personnel only. Approximately 85,000 civilians have been placed under American military government supervision.

4,099 Since April 8

The new figures thus disclosed that despite the deadlocked ground action on the southern Okinawa front, 4,099 Japanese were killed and 169 taken prisoner since April 8. On the latter date, Nimitz said Japanese casualties were 5,009 killed and 222 prisoners.

Only U. S. casualty figures announced by Nimitz were 432 killed, 2,103 wounded and 160 missing —a total of 2,695—through April 9.

Japan's hard-hit merchant fleet has suffered another serious blow at the hands of American fliers blockading the China sea and adjacent waters.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported late Monday that his Philippine-based airmen, raiding from Formosa to Borneo and along the China coast between Shanghai and Saigon, sank or damaged 23 ships ranging from coastal craft to 7,000-ton freighter-transports and a destroyer.

Jap Cabinet Meets

Meanwhile the Japanese cabinet held another emergency session to talk about the latest devastation left in Tokyo by a very large force of American Superfortresses. Giant fires and explosions were reported in target areas by B-29 crewmen returning from the early Monday raid.

American planes from the Philippines also blasted Formosan airfields, dumped 200 tons of bombs on the Davao sector, southeast Philippines, and unloaded 700 tons on Japanese rear installations and lines of communications in close support of ground troops and guerrillas on Luzon.

On the rugged Luzon Baguio front Yank doughboys were meeting stubborn resistance day and night as they converged on the Philippines summer capital from three directions.

Superforts May 'Rub Out' Tokyo

By ELMONT WAITE

GUAM, Tuesday, April 17—Total elimination of Tokyo's war production became a definite goal today after American B-29s in a Monday pre-dawn mass raid added destruction to the 27 1-2 square miles of the city already in ruins.

Staff officers of Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay's 21st Bomber command here figured all production would come to a standstill without actual destruction of the 65-square-mile urban industrial area.

Tokyo radio admitted the Monday raid on the southwestern section and on adjacent Kawasaki left fires burning for seven hours.

Mediums Said In Action

The Japanese cabinet met in emergency session late Monday to discuss "the latest devastation of the war," radio Tokyo said.

Another Tokyo report, lacking confirmation, said U. S. medium Mitchell bombers and Navy carrier planes, striking Japan for the second successive day, raided Kyushu island Monday.

This was the first report from any source of medium bombers, which could fly from Iwo Jima, attacking Japan's mainland since the Doolittle carrier-based Mitchells' daring 1942 mission.

Twentieth air force headquarters in Washington said 11 bombers (some of which may be reported later) had failed to return from Monday's incendiary raid, the second on Tokyo in 48 hours. Possibly as many as 400 B-29s participated.

Lemay's staff report said reconnaissance photographs disclosed at least 10.7 square miles of the arsenal area was burned in Saturday's raid. This brought the total burned in the two previous big incendiary missions (the first was on March 10) to a minimum of 27.5 square miles. Monday's destruction will boost this figure.

A conflagration, visible from more than 100 miles at sea, raged in Tokyo following the American Superfortress incendiary attack there early Monday (Japanese time), Yank fliers reported. Some crewmen said their plane was 137 miles from the target when they observed an exposion that "illuminated the whole sky over Tokyo."

Giant Offensive Opened By Reds

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Tuesday, April 17—The Germans reported today that Soviet parachutists had landed behind German lines less than 23 miles from Berlin yesterday even as Adolf Hitler was demanding a defensive death-stand against what he called the "last massed" Russian offensive against the Nazi capital.

The Red Army airborne troops dropped in Berlin's defense ring somewhere between the city's eastern limits and heights won by the Red Army 23 miles to the east, the Berlin radio commentator Ernst von Hammer said, as German reports indicated that four Russian armies totalling perhaps 2,000,000 men were on the move.

Blazing 120-Mile Front

The long-expected offensive burst upon the Germans at 3:50 a. m. yesterday, the German high command announced, and drove forward along a blazing 120-mile front at two points 85 miles from the American Third and Ninth armies. Berlin conceded that a rapid linkup was possible.

Hitler, who issued a special order of the day announcing the Russian offensive some hours after the German high command had done so, commanded east front soldiers to "drown the Bolshevik assault in a blood bath" and hinted darkly at German treachery, warning his soldiers to watch for German officers who might give retreat orders.

The deafening fire of 1,000 Russian guns thundered ceaselessly throughout the day in Berlin, the enemy admitted, as Soviet assault units battled into massive, reinforced fortifications under cover of hundreds of planes bombing and machine-gunning German positions on Berlin's eastern approaches.

Speed Into Bridgeheads

All along the front, Red Army engineers were speeding amphibious tanks and armored units into bridgeheads across the Oder and Neisse rivers which were being built up hourly. At least two new footholds across the oder were reported—the latest at the river's elbow east of Eberswalde, 17½ miles northeast of Berlin.

Overshadowed by the great operation, which was not yet officially confirmed by the Soviet high command, were Red Army drives in Austria, Czechoslovakia and East Prussia.

In the Austrian Alps, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukranian Army battered through 1,100-foot hills to within 29 miles east of Austria's second city of Graz by capturing Fuerstenfeld in the Feistritz river valley. Other spearheads battered through the Danube valley to a point 59 miles east of Linz.

Southern Moravia

Farther north, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army ripped a 12-mile breakthrough in southern Noravia and plunged within 18 miles southeast of the Czechoslovak war production city of Bruenn (Brno) by the capture of Horni Bojanovice. In

Truman To Make New Broadcast Tonight

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—President Truman will broadcast to the armed forces and the public at 9 p. m. Central War time tomorrow night.

It will be a brief speech.

Col. Harry Vaughan, the President's military aide, said the speech would be "short and snappy," probably lasting five or six minutes. He added that the President would speak to the troops on every front. The speech will be broadcast, he said, by all the major networks and will be recorded for later rebroadcast at appropriate hours to reach troops at points where the 10 p. m. time might be inconvenient for listening.

Jury Completed For Rape Trial

A 99th court jury was completed at 4:20 o'clock Monday afternoon for trial of a rape indictment naming Alford Homer Keeton, 22, a laundry deliveryman of 1312 Seventh.

Judge G. V. Pardue, warning the jury against the possibilities of innocent misconduct, ordered this morning's proceedings to commence at 10 o'clock.

(Monday morning, he had announced that boys under 17 and girls under 18 would be excluded from the courtroom, and ordered bailiffs to remove promptly anyone failing to observe that order.)

Red-headed Ruth Jameson, 20-year-old Dumas girl who was a freshman student of the arts and sciences division of Texas Tech Feb. 23, when she accuses Keeton of having violated her in a tourist camp here, was not in the courtroom.

The pretty girl, who showed evidence of a severe beating when she gave her statement the night of Feb. 23 and the morning of Feb. 24 to investigators, was said by District Attorney Burton S. Burks to have "kept to her hotel room."

Recovered From Injuries

She had recovered from injuries that tightly closed one eye and mottled her complexion, Burks said he had been informed.

Jurors—all except four were chosen at the afternoon session—are:

M. H. Adkisson, Lubbock appliance agent; W. J. Rogers, farmer of 2105 Ninth; W. L. Hale, employe of West Texas Gas company in Lubbock; T. T. Hughes, barber of 2002 Ave. L; S. J. Nabers, Nineteenth street grocer; Alex Bednarez, farmer of near Slaton; G. C. Davis, farmer of east of Lubbock; T. B. Hilton, Lubbock, grocer; John Denzer, farmer of near Slaton; Earl Martin, carpenter of Lubbock; J. C. Peveto, Lubbock cafe owner; and Cecil Brashear, farmer of 1504 Arnett.

Thirty-four veniremen were examined. Forty-six had reported out of 100 summoned. The defense and the state each exercised eight of the 15 challenges allowed; seven

Hunger Riots In Berlin Recounted

By OLLE OLLEN
(Copyright 1945, by the Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, April 16. — Hunger riots were occuring daily in the northern and eastern sections of Berlin when I left the German capital eight days ago.

On the eve of my departure hungry mothers of starving children stormed food shops in the Alexanderplatz and almost lynched an SA (Stormtroop) guard who tried to quiet them with the suggestion they economize on their bread rations.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Olle Ollen, 32-year-old Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Morgontidningen, has watched the decline of Hitlerism since 1942 and was one of the last two Swedish correspondents in Germany, leaving that capital April 8. He lived during his entire stay in Berlin's west end, one of the city's most heavily-bombed quarters, and once was bombed out).

The population is ripe for rebellion but it will be a hunger revolt, not a fight for freedom.

The Germans have forgotten what freedom is. As long as starvation stays away from their doors there never is any chance of insurrection even though 90 per cent of the capital's citizens heartily wish for a speedy end of the Nazi hierarchy.

Not even the iron grip of the SS (Elite Guard) can prevent hungry mothers from storming bakeries or bread wagons which are not provided with a military guard.

A month ago Berlin was an apathetic city, a city which, compared with Copenhagen, was like dough not yet in ferment. No machinegun pistols battled unexpectedly in the streets. No "freedom fighters" tried to accelerate with bombs the inevitable development. There were no great illegal organizations functioning, only weariness and loquacious hopelessness.

Suddenly the situation grew acute a week or so ago. Now only Allied columns with field kitchens can prevent a "mothers' hunger rebellion."

It is certain that the Nazis' last bastions will be defended by desperadoes who will fight to postpone their own doom and will not hesitate to use all means to prolong the struggle a few days or weeks.

Not all the arms and ammunition depots in the German citadel are emptied yet. There are huge caves blasted into the mountains at positions to which Hitler and other Nazi leaders plan to retire for a last fight.

Next to Berchtesgaden, Hitler's Bavarian headquarters, the most noted mountain fortress is located

Truman Pleads For Full Support In Carrying Out Roosevelt Plans

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 16 — President Truman pleaded with Congress and with all Americans today to help him carry out the war and peace ideals of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and boldly warned the Axis:

1—There will be no terms short of unconditional surrender.

2—No war criminal can hope to escape punishment. None will be permitted to plot future wars in any mountain retreat, such as Berchtesgaden.

Immediate reaction to the speech was couched in the highest of praiseworthy terms. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) called it "a very fine dedication to victory and the public welfare." To Senator Connally (D-Tex) it was "eloquent and forceful."

Many Use Same Phrase

Many House members hit on the same phrases—honest, sincere, reassuring. Soviet Ambassador Gromyko called it "wonderful."

Catapulted to the highest office in the land by the death of Mr. Roosevelt, the President seized his first opportunity to address a joint session of Congress shortly after noon, punctuating a hectic day that started for him in the White house at 7:15 a. m. cwt.

After he conferred with Secretary of State Stettinius and British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, the President came to the capitol at 11:30, took the rostrum of the House at 12:03 and spoke for 19 minutes of his grave duties ahead.

Seventh Enters Nuernburg As Other Units Menace Leipzig And Dresden

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Tuesday, April 17—Three American armies battled possibly 85 miles from Russian lines today, hammering five miles beyond the Elbe river, outflanking the great fortress of Leipzig and driving a steel wedge 30 miles from the enemy's Eastern front base of Dresden.

Yet another American Army, the Seventh, broke into the Nazi shrine city of Nuernberg, 90 miles north of Munich and an outer bastion of the German's alpine retreat, where the final shots in the war in Europe may be fired.

Ninth Hacks Away

The U. S. Ninth Army was 52 miles southwest of Berlin after hacking out a foothold five miles beyond the Elbe, and unconfirmed enemy reports said the Americans had forced a new crossing farther north at Havelberg, 45 miles northwest of Berlin and some 85 miles from Russian lines.

The U. S. First Army cut loose with a 14-mile tank dash that swept into Wurzen, 12 miles east of Leipzig, where an estimated 1,000,000 civilians faced an ordeal of fire and steel because 40,000 German troops are bent on making a Stalingrad of that refugee-swollen fifth city of the Reich. Infantry battled up seven miles south of the city.

The U. S. Third Army as well as the First was 85 miles from Russian lines and slashing into the rear area of German forces on the Eastern front. Both were up to, if not across, the western boundary of German territory marked for Russian occupation.

Third At Chemnitz

The Third Army laid siege to Chemnitz, was seven miles from the border of Czechoslovakia, and shoved a steel fist on northeast of Chemnitz 30 miles from the Elbe and Dresden.

The First Army at Wurzen was 18 miles from the Elbe—along which the Germans may make their final stand in central Germany—and was less than two miles from the river farther north as it opened an attack at the approaches to Dessau, 52 miles southwest of Berlin.

With the British and Canadians threatening the north German ports of Bremen, Emden and Hamburg, and with the Allies squeezing enemy pockets in western Holland, the Ruhr and on France's Atlantic coast, German soldiers were giving up by the thousands.

66,191 Prisoners Sunday

A total of 66,191 prisoners were counted Sunday, most of them from the Ruhr. Equally surprising was the abrupt capitulation of tough German Marines to the Canadians at Groningen, Holland's fifth largest city.

For all that, Gen. Eisenhower dampened any optimism that the end of the war in Europe was imminent.

He told visiting radio correspondents that war probably would not end until Allied troops had completely occupied Germany, and no victory would be proclaimed "until all important enemy pockets on the Western front have been wiped out."

Allied air forces were hastening that day with tremendous blows at the German Air force, destroying 845 additional enemy planes yesterday.

In the north, the British Second Army launched a big assault on Bremen, advancing to within two and a half miles of its southern outskirts and farther east cut loose with a 15-minute surge from its Aller river bridgehead that

'Last Battle' In Italy Launched

By MAURICE MORAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, April 16.—An offensive described by Field Marshal Sir Harold L. Alexander as "the last battle which will end the war" was launched today with American Fifth Army troops joining in the assault begun a week ago by forces of the British Eighth Army in a mighty effort to drive the Germans from northern Italy.

A bombardment by 1,233 heavy bombers of the U. S. 15th Air force preceded the American jump-off in mountainous territory south of Bologna. German defenses were saturated by nearly 25,000 bombs, with the carpet of explosives falling at points within five and a half miles of Allied lines.

Clark Confident

Special orders of the day issued by Alexander and by Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the 15th Army group, expressed confidence that the present attack would attain its objective — complete defeat of some 26 Nazi divisions in Italy — but also warned that there was much hard fighting ahead.

Allied artillery poured 75,000 shells into enemy positions during last night. Many Germans were found in dazed condition when doughboys overran their first objectives below Bologna early today.

By mid-afternoon Allied infantry was locked in savage combat with Germans manning the strongest mountain defenses the enemy ever has thrown up on this rugged peninsula — defenses he has had six months to prepare.

Dominating Peak Taken

In spite of this, Fifth Army troops captured a dominating 2,200-foot peak just east of Highway 64 three hours after the attack began.

Riflemen advancing between highway 64 and a point some four miles east of Highway 65 — the main Bologna-Florence route — found the going extremely rough as they ground out yard-by-yard gains.

The slopes of two heights west of Highway 65, Monte Rumici and Monte Adone, which command the Ravenna valley as well as the Bologna-Florence road, were under bitter attack.

A special fighting unit under Lt. Melvin M. Smith of Waco, Tex., worked through the village of Furcoli and dug the remaining Nazis out of fortified caves on the forward slope of Monte Rumici, establishing a road block.

The American 10th Mountain division, which Marshal Alexander recently nicknamed the "Cat's Whiskers," seized Monte Pienna and Monte Sette Crocci in the first stages of the attack. Casigno, a village a mile east of Vergato, also was taken.

Allied tactical planes continued to give the advancing troops close support throughout the blazing day, but at some points visibility was so poor the planes returned to their fields rather than take chances on hitting Allied forces.

Among the American forces attacking in the Apennines was the 34th Infantry division, which spent its 500th day in the line, the longest combat tour of any American unit.

Strategic Air War At End, Spaatz Says

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Tuesday, April 17 — At least 845 German planes were destroyed yesterday by Allied fighters in a cataclysmic blow against the Nazi air force and last night an observer commented, "the luftwaffe has been knocked out."

At the same time Gen. Carl A. Spaatz issued a special order of the day saying the strategic air war against Germany had ended victoriously and that hereafter U. S. heavy bombers would be used for tactical operations.

6,000 Planes Join Attack

More than 6,000 Allied planes joined in the mighty daylight assault on the enemy, and the German radio reported the air attacks were being continued through the night by both Russian and British bombers. The "achtung" warning service said Berlin had been raided three times before midnight.

The U. S. Eighth Air force, which sent nearly 2,100 warplanes from bases in Britain during the day, reported early this morning eight heavy bombers and 34 fighters were missing.

Approximately 2,000 fighter pilots participated in the history-making blast against Germany's boarded frontline planes, splintering 812 of them on the ground and shooting 33 others from the sky.

Upwards of 40 enemy airfields in the Pilsen-Prague area of Czechoslovakia were strafed by U. S. Eighth Air force fighters which had escorted heavy bombers on a mission against communications targets. Tactical air forces based on the continent fanned out in a series of attacks against enemy airdromes and targets over a wide area.

2953 In 16 Days

This great assaut, overshadowing the previous single day's record of 377 planes destroyed, made last Tuesday, raised to at least 2,953 the number of enemy aircraft wrecked in the first 16 days of April.

One competent air observer who could not be named, said "the luftwaffe has been knocked out. It still has the planes—although the rate of production has greatly diminished while the number of its fighting craft destroyed has greatly increased — but the Germans have not the fuel or the pilots to fly what is left of their frontline

Roosevelt Will Is Filed Monday

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt provided in his will that his widow should have the right to select any and all personal property which she desires and to utilize it during her lifetime.

The will, filed today with the clerk of the surrogate's court of Dutchess county, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and made public here by John C. Farber of the law firm of O'Connor and Farber, also makes specific bequests to St. James church, Hyde Park, N. Y., Georgia Warm Springs foundation and to personal employes and servants.

Value Not Determined

The will was executed Nov. 12, 1941. The value of the estate was not determined.

It provides that after Mrs. Roosevelt has selected personal property, the five children shall each have the right to select one-fifth of the residue of the personal property.

Any property not chosen by Mrs. Roosevelt or the couple's children, the will said, shall be offered by the executors as a gift to the United States government for display in the Franklin D. Roosevelt library or the Roosevelt main house at Hyde Park.

The main house and its adjacent grounds were conveyed to the government last year, subject to certain rights of use reserved to Mrs. Roosevelt and the children.

Wanna Go On A Vitamin Binge?

You'll Be Patriotic If You Take On Brer Rabbit Aspect

LET'S everybody get on a vitamin jag.

That's what the War Food administration is urging.

The country is practically filthy with carrots, beets and cabbage, according to a Mr. Dan L. Boyd of Amarillo, WFA agent. Many people will agree with Mr. Boyd.

In fact, we have just had carrot and beet week in Texas by proclamation of Governor Stevenson. The vote-getting gentleman from Junction has made probably a fatal political error.

"If supplies of beets, carrots and cabbage continue to pile up and consumers do not step up purchases, some of the foods will be wasted this year," fretted Mr. Boyd. If we know palates, he is not scaring anybody.

Note to Editor: You are thinking, no doubt, that this is a very biased article. No jumper-at-conclusions, we went straight to The Man in the Street. "I never let beets, carrots and cabbage see the inside of my mouth," he asserted, neatly sidestepping a Mack truck.

Come closer and we shall discuss these florae.

Carrots are spelled with one "t." They are natives of Europe where they belonged to a clan called Umbelliferae. They came to America on the Cauliflower. They resemble radishes but don't blush as much. However, they're very timid and some people call them yellow.

They thrive best in the rich, sandy loam which abounds in the WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—A State department official said today that private citizens probably would want to fly their flags at half staff for 30 days in respect for the late President Roosevelt.

While President Truman ordered that flags remain at half staff on all public buildings until after Monday, May 14, no official instruction was issued for private buildings.

The State department official said, however, that private citizens probably would wish to follow the example as a matter of courtesy.

President Definitely From Missouri

Reporters Know Truman As Affable, Modest And Humble

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Never forget that President Harry S. Truman is from Missouri.

"Raised" in the rolling farmlands of Jackson county, near Kansas City, the 33rd president still retains the twang of the Missouri valley and the earthy expressions of boyhood in his speech. He was born down at Lamar, Mo., in Barton county, May 8, 1884.

And, he has to be shown.

Missouri's first son in the White House demonstrated that when he headed the Senate's special committee to investigate the National Defense Program.

Reporters in Washington know him as an affable man, one with the modesty and humility of a Missouri farmer, one who likes to talk about the proper way to doctor a sick mule or dispose of a troublesome tom-cat.

Thirty years off the farm has left the President's hands uncalloused but supple from piano practice. His handshake is soft but strengthened by a ready grin and consistent liking for people. He meets them as at a strawberry festival.

But there was nothing soft about the Senate committee which Mr. Truman founded in 1941 and headed until he became vice president. Billions were being spent for national defense.

Were they being spent wisely, efficiently?

They had to show Harry Truman, the inquisitive, well-informed senator from Missouri.

Mr. Truman had been an offi-

SUCCESSOR

THOSE who have been called on to fill responsible places left vacant by someone's death, or other cause, and whether in the home, school, business or politics will understand the spot President Truman is in at present and will have for him great sympathy and constant prayers.

A young wife who steps in to fill the breach left by death of a former wife and called on to mother children will know what it is like to be told "but we are not used to this arrangement."

A bride in her kitchen, chunking the hard biscuits and tough pie crust in the garbage pail and recalling "these don't taste exactly like Mom used to bake," will know.

A teacher taking over a class of youngsters who moan about how crazy they were over their teacher last year will know that feeling.

A stammering younger brother who took over the king's duties of a vast empire, upon abdication of a brother, will know.

And Harry S. Truman, president of the United States, who has been called to fill the office left vacant by a talented, brilliant chieftain will know.

DO you recall that one of the criticisms made of King George before the coronation was that he was no public speaker. He was shy, sensitive of his accursed stammer and apparently content to remain in the background and his elder brother, Edward, have the spotlight; Edward, handsome, public speaker, a popular figure. His magnificent radio voice was one of the first qualities his countryman noted in the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt; a voice that could soothe, sway, arouse the people to anger, bring them to tears, call them to prayer. And adverse criticism you have heard voiced of President Truman is that he is no orator.

A great burden fell on King George and yet he has met it with courage, honesty and uprightness. A still greater load has fallen across the shoulders of President Truman and he promises to meet it with the same qualities. Why? We think it is because the former asked for and got the support, loyalty and prayers of his people and because the latter has asked for the same things and because we sincerely believe the people will support him. And because they are godly men.

KING GEORGE told his people once of a parable of a man in a strange country. It was dark and the traveler came to a gate and he did not know what to do. As he pondered he heard a voice within telling him to put forth his right hand and he would find the hand of God which would be stronger than a light and better than a known way.

As President Truman began his new tasks his plea was "pray for me." And just as God promised Moses when he complained he was not eloquent, we believe He will teach Mr. Truman what he shall say and what he shall do.

Inspired by the faith which our new president has shown, let us turn again to the work that confronts us in this time of national emergency; in the armed forces and in the merchant marine; in factories and offices; on farms and in the mines; on highways, railways and airlines; in other places of public service and in our homes.

SOLDIER'S VIEWPOINT

T/SGT. D. A. WILSON, brother of Mrs. Melvin Harvey, expressed the viewpoint of many men in service on President Roosevelt's death in a letter to his sister which said in part:

"News of our president's death certainly gave me a shock tonight. He was a great soldier and a marvelous man wasn't he? I am sure his spirit shall live long in the history of our nation to which he so faithfully gave his all—even to death.

"The boys certainly are grieved as we know it was a great loss not only to us GI's but to the whole nation and world. You know I thought instantly after hearing of his death how it coincided with what happened to our Lubbock High school football team in 1939. You remember Coach Chapman whom all the boys loved so much? The Westerners were playing Plainview the day he died. They won that game and went on to win the state finals that fall. This game we're in now is a much more vital one of course but I feel that we shall just keep on rolling until Victory day even though we have lost our great coach. After all we haven't lost our No. One Coach who is our Heavenly Father. May He give those boys on the front line, also the ones in the backfield, the spirit and courage to carry on in spite of our loss."

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blost disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

House Passes Bill On Vets

AUSTIN, April 16. (U.P.)—A bill to prohibit discrimination of employment against physically handicapped war veterans and guaranteeing seniority rights of veterans today was finally passed by the Texas House.

By vote of 124 ayes to six noes the bill by Rep. I. P. Hydrick, jr., Marshall, was sent to the Senate.

As finally adopted, the measure is a substitute by Hydrick for his original bill which was weighted down with amendments when the House considered it last week.

The substitute was amended to provide that its provisions shall not apply where an employer does not need additional employes. Some members believed this would weaken the bill.

Seniority Provision Made

If the veteran is reemployed where seniority rights are recognized, the bill specifies seniority shall be computed to include time spent in the armed forces.

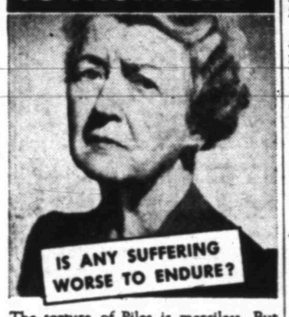

Veterans must give former employers 90 days notice in writing of intention to reclaim their jobs. Unless this is done, the seniority section of the act does not bind.

The veteran is required to obtain a certificate of fitness that he can perform a job from three physicians, one of whom may be the employer's physician.

Penalty from $200 to $500 in district courts is provided for violating the act.

The House refused to adopt an amendment by Rep. J. J. Bell, Cuero, which said veterans could not be required to join a labor union as a condition to employment.

Artist Dramatically Recounts President's Actions And Stroke

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., April 16. (AP)—A dramatic description of how Franklin D. Roosevelt was fatally stricken while sitting silently for his portrait was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Schoumatoff, Russian-born artist, upon her return from Warm Springs, Ga.

"He slipped slightly out of pose . . . his head went down a little . . . he raised his left hand to his temple, then to his forehead . . . Slowly he lay back, reclined in the chair," the artist recounted yesterday.

One Of Last To See Him

She was one of the last persons to see the late President alive—making preliminary sketches of him at his Little White House in Warm Springs. In the room with her and the President were his two cousins, Miss Laura Delano and Miss Margaret Suckley, and his secretary, William D. Hassett.

"He never looked better than when he greeted me," Mrs. Schoumatoff rcalled. "He had on a dark grey suit, and had worn his red Harvard necktie, a perfect blend with his navy blue cape."

She said he was working over some official papers while she painted.

"He became so engrossed that he slipped slightly out of pose," she said. "His head went down a little, but I didn't ask him to look up. He was extremely absorbed.

"I couldn't paint his face while he was out of pose so I was doing this and that, particularly making notes of the color and light on his face.

Raised Hand To Temple

"Then he raised his left hand to his left temple, then to his forehead, and his hand went back to the arm of the chair. Then slowly he lay back, reclined in the chair, slipped slightly to the left, with his head more to the left.

"Then the two cousins rushed to him just as the butler was coming into the room," she said.

Mrs. Schoumatoff said she then asked one of the secret service men to call a doctor. She left the Little White House without knowing how serious was the President's illness.

She said at her home that she would work two more days to complete the unfinished portrait, and expressed the hope that it might be placed in Mr. Roosevelt's library at Hyde Park.

Lubbock Flier First On Recaptured Clark

HEADQUARTERS, 13TH AAF, Philippines — 1st Lt. Truman L. Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Stephens, route 6, Lubbock, veteran pilot in a troop carrier group of the 13th AAF flew the first American plane into Clark Field since its seizure by the Japanese in 1942.

STEPHENS

Lt. Stephens' C-47 was part of a fighter-escorted formation for the first flight into the newly captured field, 40 miles north of Manila. Carrying medical supplies, rations, and Engineers to repair the dromes, the planes landed before the battle for the famous American-built airfield had ended. This first flight to Clark had to circle the area while ground troops cleared the strips of wreckage and patched bomb craters. As the planes landed, American infantry and tank units guarded the perimeter of the field, and Jap artillery in the nearby hills sporadically shelled our forces there.

The landing of the "biscuit bombers" began a steady flow of supplies, equipment and technicians for the rapid re-building of the huge Clark Field air center, a series of strips from which large-scale air operations against the Japs were launched.

Since coming overseas in November 1943, Lt. Stephens has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon with one campaign star, and the Philippines Liberation ribbon.

CENSORSHIP BAN LIFTED

Events Planned For 'Teen-Agers

Coming events planned by 'teen-egers to be held at the Corral, Sixteen and Ave. J, include a program next Saturday night to which Slaton 'teen-agers are invited, a dance at the close of school and a ping-pong tournament.

A committee to plan the entertainment for next Saturday night was appointed at a meeting at the box supper, kid party and dance conducted Saturday night. Members are Jane Lawson, Jim Lowrey, Hardy Matthews, Sylvia Whitacre, Bob Corley, Jerald Davis and Betty Loys Tubbs. The group voted to invite Slaton 'teen-gers and to ask 'teen-agers from other towns of the county to attend later entertainments.

Decision was made to conduct a dance the night of May 19 at the close of school and ask Buddy Arnett's orchestra to play.

Apprcximately 250 persons attended the event. Twenty-eight boxes were sold for a total of $80 which will go into the 'teen-age fund for purchase of permanent recreation equipment for the building.

A. C. Hamilton, city recreation superintendent, has planned a ping-pong tournament which was announced at the box supper. All 'teen-agers, those of Texas Technological college, Lubbock High school and others, are invited to participate, he said. Boys and girls singles and doubles and mixed doubles will be conducted. Entries are to be in by 8:30 p. m. April 28 and may be telephoned to the city recreation department, 9346, or may be called after 4 p. m. daily to the Corral, 7551. First matches are to be conducted May 1 and finals will be played May 11 and 12. Equipment will be furnished by the recreation department. An entry fee for 25 cents, to be applied on tournament prizes, will be charged. One defeat will eliminate a contestant. The best two out of three games will constitute a match.

Post Review Honors Late U. S. President

At 2 p. m. Sunday, when the band played, troops passed in review and General Order 29 announcing the death of the president was read, military personnel at Lubbock Army Air field stood at attention for an all post review on the south end of the ramp for a last salute to their late commander-in-chief, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Because of weather conditions, the review was not staged at 9 a.m. as was scheduled.

Post Adjutant Capt. John E. Greiner read the secretary of war's order which eulogized the late commander-in-chief for what he did for the Army, as well as carrying the announcement of the new chief, President Truman.

The general order was also read to officers at South Plains Army Air field, where there is only a handful of military personnel, all officers. Col. William Q. Q. Rankin, commanding officer, was in charge.

All social activities will be excluded on Army posts during the 30-day period of mourning.

Some Changes Suggested, But:

Little Steel Formula Idea Is Approved By Majority

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—How many people in the United States know what the "Little Steel Formula" is, and what do they think of it?

When VE-day comes there may be a knock-down-and-drag-out fight over this formula which has served to stabilize wartime pay rates. Already union labor is insisting that basic wage rates be increased immediately after the German war ends, to offset loss of overtime pay that will result from cancellation of war orders. But this step would jeopardize the Little Steel Formula.

GALLUP

If the controversy were placed before the people of the nation, two facts about their attitude would stand out.

1. Only a comparatively small number of Americans have any clear idea what the Little Steel Formula is. In a coast-to-coast survey by the Institute just a little over half said they had heard or read something about it, but fewer than one-third could give a reasonably correct indication of what the Little Steel Formula tries to do.

Even among members of labor unions there is little real knowledge of the subject. Fewer than two-fifths of union members polled were able to give an even moderately accurate account of what the Little Steel ruling is intended to accomplish.

2. But while the public may not be familiar with the name or provisions of the formula itself, it has ideas about the principle involved, namely, whether the government should continue to try to keep wages stabilized, or whether it should permit general increases in wages and salaries now.

More people want the present policy continued than want it rescinded. To that extent the weight of opinion is on the side of the Little Steel formula.

But there is also a fairly large group who, although they have no desire to see a general wage increase, and want the government's policy of wage control to continue, nevertheless think the Little Steel Formula should be modified to permit wage raises in certain specific instances, particularly for white collar workers. Other replies which fall under the heading of "qualified" approval of present policy include changing wages to equalize pay for certain groups now underpaid, and permitting special increases for ability, education, training and experience.

The study of opinion on the wage issue was made on the following questions.

"Have you ever heard or read anything about the Little Steel Formula?"

Have heard or read	52%
Have not	48

Those who had heard or read of it were asked, "Will you tell me briefly what it is intended to do?" The number who were able to give a reasonably accurate indication constituted only 30 per cent of the entire sample polled in the survey. In the case of labor union members the proportion indicating correct knowledge was 38 per cent.

All voters, whether informed or uninformed about the Little Steel ruling, were asked the following question:

"Do you think the government's present policy in regard to wage and salary increases should be continued, or should it be changed to permit general increases in wages and salaries?"

Following is the vote of all persons questioned, and also the vote of the "informed" (people who know what the Little Steel Formula is).

All Voters
Continued	42%
Changed	29
Qualified answers	13
No opinion	16
"Informed" Voters
Continued	45%

Qualified	16
No opinion	9

Among labor union members in the "informed" group, the weight of opinion was found slightly in favor of change rather than continuation of the present policy as it is.

Historical Parallel Seen In Positions Of President Truman And Andrew Johnson, Who Succeeded Abe Lincoln In White House

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 16. — Eighty years, lacking only three days after the death of Abraham Lincoln, Franklin Delano Roosevelt died. Immediately after the death of Lincoln there was sworn in as his successor Vice President Andrew Johnson. Immediately after the death of Roosevelt there was sworn in as his successor Harry S. Truman. Lincoln died after the Civil war was over. Roosevelt died just as victory was assured in World War II. Andrew Johnson of Raleigh, N. C., had been a compromise candidate for the Vice Presidency to appease the South. Truman, of Independence, Mo., had been a compromise candidate from a border state to please the South and still satisfy the industrial North.

EDSON

Johnson faced four years of reconstruction as difficult as any the nation will ever face. Truman comes to the presidency facing another four years or more of reconstruction, but there it is sincerely hoped the parallel ceases. In the four years of Andrew Johnson's presidency there was hardly a speech made in Congress, hardly an editorial written in the newspapers, hardly an argument started on street corners, that did not reek of ill-temper, narrow-mindedness, internal strife and dissension.

The country itself was physically wrecked from Gettysburg to Vicksburg and Savannah, but the spoilage of war was nothing compared to the complete intolerance of men's minds.

HARRY TRUMAN doesn't assume the Presidency with his country physically despoiled, but there have been danger signs along the way that the end of the war hates could find the country so divided in its ideas that the bitterest kind of class might follow. The problem of the returning veterans is far from solved. Wage and labor relations policies for the post-war period need much clarification. The whole scope of readjustment to peacetime living and working conditions holds many uncertainties.

All these issues would have seriously tasked the abilities of Roosevelt at his prime. There are many historians who believe that Lincoln died at precisely the right moment to have his fame assured. Had he been forced to weather the storm that Andrew Johnson faced, Lincoln's greatness might not be what it is today. The same thing can be said for Franklin Roosevelt. He, too, may have died at the very peak of his greatness. The Commander-in-Chief of victorious armies, the leader of his people in a war effort so great it dwarfs all previous comparables, a world statesmen in his planning for peace. No one can deny or belittle Roosevelt's stature today, but what it would have been if he had lived until 1949 is a great imponderable.

In this light, what chance has Harry Truman to be a greater man than the President he succeeds?

ONLY in the last few years have the students begun to reappraise the record of Andrew Johnson and his times—admittedly one of the most clouded periods in American history.

"If one looks at Johnson impartially, without prejudice," writes W. E. Woodward in his new American history, "he is seen as an honest, sincere and fearless patriot."

That could be Truman, too. "He never acquired the suavity that comes from breeding and culture," Woodward continues. "The shrewd humility of Lincoln was noticeably absent in his make-up, and he had no funny stories to charm those who came in wrath. His temper had a low boiling point."

Truman to a T. But more of this pen-portrait:

"As soon as he was sworn in, the Radical—(the word meant Republican in those days)—the Radical leaders called on him with congratulations. The country is now in safe hands,' they declared. Bluff Ben Wade—called Bluff because his manners were coarse—slapped the new President on the back and exclaimed: 'Johnson, we have faith in you. By the gods, there will be no trouble now in running the government.'

"How astonished the radicals would have been if they had known that, before three years had gone by, they would be arrayed against Johnson. To the dismay of Thaddeus Stevens and other radical leaders, they realized that Johnson was bent on carrying out Lincoln's policies."

Substitute Roosevelt for Lincoln and Truman for Johnson in that passage and then watch to see if history will repeat itself.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Members and guests at the luncheon of Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday in Hilton hotel were entertained with a musical program which featured the boys' glee club of Lubbock Junior High school under the direction of Mrs. Elois Elliott, with Miss Nell Verna LeMond accompanying at the piano; and Palmer Wheeler, vocalist of Amarillo, accompanied by Donald Kleinschmidt. Jeff Steele was program chairman. Glenn Woody, delegate to the state Jaycee convention in San Antonio last Saturday, gave a report on convention activities. Woody was elected state vice president of region six. President Cliff Cummings presided.

Maj. James L. Monroe, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Monroe, sr., of Hale Center, is expected in Lubbock today to visit his sister, Mrs. James Taylor Smithee, 1708 Twenty-seventh. Maj. Monroe, who recently returned from England and France after 31 months of overseas duty, is in the psychological warfare department of the air corps and on special duty in Washington, D. C. He invented a bomb case used in distributing propaganda leaflets over enemy territory. His invention has received wide recognition in the armed forces.

Big Crowds Will See 1945 Openers

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—The fourth wartime major league baseball season which gets under way tomorrow will provide the biggest opportunity for rookies since the first professional league was organized in 1876.

Approximately 120 newcomers will be trying to make their marks in the big time with about 25 appearing in the opening day lineups. Never before have so many new names dotted the rosters of big league clubs.

Gone are such stars of last year as Stan Musial, Dick Wakefield, Bobby Doerr, Ray Mueller, Pinky Higgins, Stan Spence, Tex Hughson, Gordon Maltzberger, Thurman Tucker, Dennis Galehouse, Ron Northey, Danny Litwhiler, Ken Keltner, Al Zarilla and others. Taking their places will be over-age and under-age players, 4-F's and some discharged veterans.

Obviously, playing standards will be lowered. But that the fans will turn out is evident by the estimated opening day attendances expected to total approximately 150,000 for the eight inaugurals.

Estimated opening day attendances for tomorrow's openings are as follows:

American League — Boston at New York (25,000), Chicago at Cleveland (18,000), Washington at Philadelphia (10,000), Detroit at St. Louis (7,500).

National League—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati (29,000), St. Louis at Chicago (20,000), Philadelphia at Brooklyn (22,000), New York at Boston (15,000).

With every club presenting new faces in the opening day lineups, rookies may play an important part in the pennant races of both leagues. The pennant winning Browns in the American League; favored to repeat, will introduce outfielders Boris (Babe) Martin and one-armed Pete Gray.

In the National League, the world champion Cardinals, favored to gain their fourth straight flag, will have rookie Al Schoendienst in the outfield to plug the gap left by the induction of Musial. Schoendienst, honorably discharged from the Army, led the International League in hitting in 1943.

Browns Open Defense Of Flag, Play Tigers

ST. LOUIS, April 16. (AP)—The American League pennant race will open on a high note here tomorrow with the Champion St. Louis Browns having as their first guests the Detroit Tigers, voted by baseball writers as the club most likely to dethrone the title holders—if they are dethroned.

It will be the first time in league history that the Browns will take the field as defending champions. The 1944 pennant was their first.

The Browns, favored by a slight edge in the balloting to retain their title, will start the season with substantially the same players who won last year's pennant by one game.

Weather Halts League Opener

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Wet, chilly weather forced postponement of today's opening game of the 1945 major league baseball season, dedicated to the late President Roosevelt.

Officials of the Washington club walked out on to the Griffith stadium diamond about noon, faced a chilling mist and decided that it would be too uncomfortable for the fans.

With Speaker Sam Rayburn making the first pitch, baseball's memorial game to Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be played here next Friday between the same clubs that were scheduled to meet today, New York and Washington.

Veterans Hog Places As Opening Pitchers

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Youth must have its fling, but not at tomorrow's major league opening baseball games.

Of the 16 probable starting hurlers, ten are past the 30 year mark, five are past 26 and only one is under 25.

The Methuselah of the moundsmen is Curt Davis, who admits to 40 summers. Old Daniel Boone will be handling his fourth opening day assignment tomorrow when he hurls the first ball for Brooklyn against Philadelphia. Previously Davis had opened the season for the Phillies in 1936, the St. Louis Cardinals in 1940 and the Dodgers in 1942.

Other veteran opening day hurlers past the 30 year mark are Paul Derringer of the Chicago Cubs, 38; Thornton Lee of the Chicago White Sox and Fritz Ostermueller of the Pittsburgh Pirates, each 37; Buck Newsom, Philadelphia Athletics, 36; Dutch Leonard, Senators and Bucky Walters, Cincinnati Reds, 35; Sig Jakucki, St. Louis Browns and Atley Donald, Yankees, 32, and Blix Donnelly, Cardinals, 31.

Detroit's Hal Newhouser, 29-game winner of last year, is the youngest at 24, followed by Bill Voiselle, New York Giants and Alva Javery, Boston Braves, each 26. Ken Raffensberger of the Phillies, Allie Reynolds of the Cleveland Indians and Rex Cecil of the Boston Red Sox are 27.

TEXAS TRACKMEN WIN

AUSTIN, April 16 (AP) — The Texas Longhorns walloped the Texas Aggies, 82-40, in a dual track meet here today.

The well-balanced Steers won eleven first places, with Freshman Andy Shurr, Bob Umstattd, and C. P. Kegans being double winners.

Longhorns Blast TCU Frogs For 10-3 Win

AUSTIN, April 16. (AP)—Pounding out 15 hits, including three doubles and three triples, against TCU's ace southpaw Hubert Walters, the Texas Longhorns walloped the Horned Frogs, 10-3, for their second straight Southwest Conference baseball victory today. Texas is the only undefeated team in the circuit.

After scoring one run in the first inning and then seeing TCU tie the score in the third stanza on successive doubles by Ransom Jackson and Claude Jones, the Longhorns went on a five-run spree in the fourth as shortstop Jack Lindsley doubled two runners home and Leroy Anderson and Bob Horneyer hit successive triples.

TCU pulled up to 6-3 with two runs in the sixth thanks to sloppy Texas playing, but the Steers pushed over four more tallies in the eighth, featuring little Don Wooten's 360-foot triple atop the leftfield fence and doubles by Horneyer and Captain Zeke Wilemon.

James Erwin and Sam Lay scattered seven TCU hits and struck out nine Frogs.

Aggie Swimmers Are Winners Over Texas

AUSTIN, April 16. (AP)—For the first time in 13 years of Southwest Conference competition, the Texas Aggies won the swimming championship leading all the way to emerge victors over the favored Texas Longhorns, 84-80, in Gregory Gym pool here today. A. & M. tied Texas for the title last year, but Texas had won it for eleven straight years.

The Aggies' top performer was Tom Syfan, who upset Texas' star sprinter to win both the 50 and 100-yard free style races and anchored A. & M.'s 400-yard four-man relay team home in front in the final event.

Coach Bob Bollinger of Texas, who captured the 100-yard individual medley and 100-yard breast stroke titles for the second straight year, was nearly 20 yards behind on his leg of the 400-yard relay but gained most of it back and was only one-yard behind when the Texas anchor man took over. But Syfan succeeded in nosing out Stewart Carpenter of Texas, thus spoiling the Steers' hopes for a tie.

Sewell Says His Club To Repeat

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 16.—Luke Sewell, pilot of the St. Louis Browns came out boldly today and predicted that his team was the one to beat in the 1945 American League pennant race, but most of the other major league managers were more cautious in pre-season statements to the United Press.

"We're the team to beat," said Sewell, who led the Browns to their first pennants last year only to lose to the Cardinals in the world series.

"I'll take our pennant chances over any other club providing further inroads of the draft are distributed equally. Our most valuable asset is last year's pennant winning experience."

Here is how some of the other managers sized up their clubs in the United Press poll:

Billy Southworth, Cardinals—"I can't predict because I don't know the assets of the other clubs. Our pitching looks good with the addition of Partenheimer, Creel, Burkhart and an improved Byerly, who will be a starter. Our outfield is shaping up with youngsters."

Charlie Grimm, Cubs—"If our pitching holds up, we'll be up there in the first division somewhere all season long."

Jimmy Dykes, White Sox — "Having lost key men in all departments, it doesn't look much better than where we finished last season, seventh."

Leo Durocher, Dodgers — "I never make predictions, but I will say that the pitching will be better and therefore the club will be better. We'll have a hustling ball club."

Mel Ott, Giants—"I think the club has definitely improved over last year and I think the Giants will finish in the first division."

Freddy Fitzsimmons, Phillies—"We've added defensive and pitching strength and I think we'll give them all a lot of trouble."

Ossie Bluege, Senators — "Our pitching should be strong, our catching adequate, our hitting will improve. I believe we have a chance for the first division."

Bob Coleman, Braves—"If we don't have too many players hurt or drafted I think we have a good chance to end up in the first division."

Lou Boudreau, Indians—"I am confident we will finish in the first division after a long hard struggle."

Connie Mack, Athletics — "Things look pretty bright and we are hoping to finish in the first division.

Frankie Frisch, Pirates — "I'd say we were a cinch to finish one two. Like all other teams we have our problems but we aren't going to be easy to beat."

Joe McCarthy, Yankees—"I'm not concerned about the Browns or anyone else. The Browns are Luke Sewell's worry. My worry is the Yankees."

Patterson Survived Gambier Bay Sinking

NORMAN, Okla., April 16 (AP)—Lieut. Joseph W. Patterson (Billy Patterson to football fans of the Southwest) is the unusual combination of lawyer, professional gridder and Naval officer who survived the sinking of the Gambier Bay in the battle of the Philippines last October.

Lieut. Patterson now is in the physical training department at the Naval Air Technical Training Center here.

He is a soft-spoken Texan from Hillsboro and established quite a reputation for himself in football as a member of the Baylor university team in 1937 and 1938 when he was selected All-Southwest Conference halfback.

Following graduation in 1939 he entered law school and continued his football fortunes with the Chicago Bears in the National Professional League. The next year he played with the Pittsburgh Steelers. In 1942 Patterson received his law degree and joined the Navy, where he again donned his football helmet after a year lay-off to play for the Georgia Pre-Flight team. After a short tour of duty at the Naval Air Station at St. Louis he shipped out on the Gambier Bay and right into the middle of the Pacific war.

The story can be picked up again last October off the Philippines where the Gambier Bay was part of an American Naval force. A potent Japanese force of battleships, cruisers and destroyers had been engaged and apparently driven off but during the night they returned unexpectedly and attacked. The Gambier Bay was damaged by shellfire and forced to drop behind the other American Naval units, where it was encircled by ships of the Jap fleet and literally blasted out of the water.

With the order to abandon ship, Lieut. Patterson jumped off the flight deck into the sea. There were a number of rafts about, but they were mostly occupied by wounded men while the uninjured stayed in the water hanging onto the sides. After 40 to 50 hours, the survivors were pulled out of the water by rescue ships and taken ashore to Leyte.

For his part in this engagement, Lieut. Patterson wears the newly authorized Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star. On his Pacific theater ribbon Patterson has three stars for the Marshalls, Marianas, and Palau engagements.

Right now, Lieut. Patterson is happy to be at Norman, where he can resume family life, become acquainted with his three-month-old daughter and do his swimming in a pool.

Country Club Extends Date For Entering High-Low Play

Because of bad weather encountered over the past week-end, time for turning in qualifying cards for the Lubbock Country club high-low match play tournament has been extended over next week-end, it was announced Monday night by C. M. "Chick" Trout.

Powell McWhirter, activity chairman, appointed J. Ray Dickey and Trout as a committee to handle the high-low tournament, which is expected to draw more than 100 entries into the fold.

A few scores were turned in Friday afternoon, but weather conditions on Saturday and Sunday, when most entries planned to shoot their qualifying cards, made golf a very unseasonable sport, and caused the extension of the time limit.

None of those early scores were announced and will not be released until a final tabulation of entries.

Cooper Boys Back In Fold For Cub Series

CHICAGO, April 16. (AP)—The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, cheered by an 11th hour truce in the salary dispute of the stellar Cooper brothers, open their National League title defense tomorrow against the promising Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Threat of sub-50 degree weather was expected to limit the opening day crowd to around 10,000.

The high-powered battery of Mort and Walker Cooper, temporarily ended a stalemate with Club President Sam Breadon over a demand for $3,000 annual pay hike will be in uniform when the Cards and Cubs square off at 1:30 c.w.t., with Walker Cooper scheduled to catch.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Cardinals, however, tonight nominated Ted Wilks to replace Mort as the scheduled starting pitcher.

Erfurth Shoots For State Mark

SAN ANTONIO, April 16. (U.P.)—New timber-topping records are no novelty to August Erfurth, flashy Brackenridge High hurdler, but next month he's going to make a determined bid for "the one that got away."

And, he can count on two of his teammates to push him to the ultimate he'll need to land that elusive mark—the state schoolboy 120-yard high hurdle mark.

For Erfurth, who has broken records twice in each of the four major meets in which he has participated this year—in the prelims and in the finals—is a member of "The Three Caballeros," comprising Brackenridge's crack hurdling trio.

With Erfurth setting the record-shattering pace, Mack White and Tommy Watt—the other two "Caballeros"—have finished 1-2-3 in their last two meets in both the high and low hurdles (they probably would have done it in all four, but Watt did not compete in the first two).

Since he first donned the shorts and spiked shoes for Brackenridge, the 18-year-old Erfurth has broken the existing record in all but two of the meets in which he has competed, but only one of those rankles him.

That was last year, at Austin, when he failed to even equal the 14.1 second high hurdle mark held by Archie Jones of Longview in the Texas Interscholastic League finals.

He didn't even finish first in the other meet—the National A. A. U. in New York last year—but he blames that on the fact that in the East the hurdles are three inches higher than in Texas.

Best official time for Erfurth this year is 14.3, still two tenths of a second off the record pace, but he's been clocked in practice in 14.2, and his boosters believe that if Watt and White can push him a bit harder May 4 at Austin, amiable August can catch "the one that got away."

LaGuardia To Throw Out First Ball Today

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Mayor LaGuardia will toss out the first ball tomorrow to start the Boston Red Sox-New York Yankee game and inaugurate the major league season in New York City.

Rex Cecil, who joined the Sox late last year, was Manager Joe Cronin's mound selection while Atley Donald, slated to have hurled today's rained-out inaugural, was picked by Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks.

ONION PRICES RISE

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—The OPA today increased the ceiling price for onions grown in Texas from $2.65 to $2.75 per 50-pound sack F.O.B. country shipping point. This will increase the retail price an average of about one-fourth of a cent a pound. The increase is effective until May 15. OPA said the yield of Texas onions has been reduced by blight, hail and storms, necessitating the price increase.

Johnny Lindell of the New York Yankees was the only one to hit a homer in every American League park in 1944.

Germans Being Taken Into Russia To Help Rebuild War-Torn Cities

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 16—Soviet policy declarations calling for transportation of Germans into Russia to help clean up and rebuild war-wrecked cities already have been put into effect in the Balkans.

This became evident today from diplomatic information reaching Washington. It disclosed that:

Actions Disclosed

1. About 70,000 men and women out of the half-million Germans in Romania—where they fought with and supported the Nazi armies — have been removed to the Soviet union. Originally Moscow wanted to take virtually the entire half-million but American and Allied intervention against such a wholesale transfer caused Russia to reconsider.

2. An estimated 100,000 Germans have been removed from Yugoslavia. Presumably they also were sent into Russia, but Marshal Tito handled the operation himself and refrained from reporting on it to his western Allies. All that seems reasonably well established is that they have gone from Yugoslavia.

3. In addition, still another 40,000 persons, who originally lived in Bessarabia, now Russian, have been sent back to that former Romanian province from Romania. They fled from Bessarabia before the Red Army, and the Russian explanation for returning them is that they are displaced peoples being put back into their homes. This explanation has been accepted here.

There have been some signs that able-bodied Germans were being moved out of Hungary, but little information has come through on that.

Problem For Truman

This problem of moving portions of enemy manpower into Russia is likely to be among the first diplomatic headaches besetting President Truman. It may be high on the agenda of any talks Mr. Truman has with Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov.

There is no doubt among diplomats here that Russia intends to use such manpower as she finds desirable.

The subject came up at Yalta but evidently without agreement. Shortly after Yalta the issue was raised at a White House news conference. President Roosevelt said that after seeing the destruction of Crimean cities he thought it might be a good idea to use Germans to clean them up.

Some of Mr. Truman's advisers are known to be opposed to the Russian plan, but the belief among diplomats is that Moscow will not be swerved from its purpose by the western Allies.

Considerable encouragement is felt here that arguments presented by American and other diplomats in the case of the Romanian Germans evidently helped to cut the number transported from a possible half million to 70,000 or less.

The whole issue is part of a much broader question — that of German reparations. Despite the imminent end of the war in Europe virtually no progress has been made on this.

Keeton Rape Case

were excused for opinions or scrupples against infliction of the death penalty.

Council indicated belief testimony of both sides could be completed today without necessity of a night session.

Special Prosecutors Employed

The firm of C. C. Crenshaw and George W. Dupree assisted the district attorney as special prosecutors. J. E. Vickers and W. W. Campbell represent Keeton.

The state had applied for 16 witnesses, the defense 13. One witness for the state and one for the defense had not been served, and another state witness, H. B. McClain, manager of a tourist camp where the alleged offense was said to have happened, had moved to Oklahoma, hence was not available as a witness.

Witnesses were placed under the rule, and Judge Pardue excused defense witnesses until 10 o'clock this morning, state witnesses until 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Keeton Held In Jail

Keeton had been held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond set by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace in binding him over to a grand jury, and later, after the indictment, under bond set by the court.

Miss Jameson, daughter of a Dumas drilling contractor Charles Jameson, left school the morning after the alleged rape, which, she charged, was by "force, fraud and threats," after she was beaten so she feared for her life.

District Attorney Burks said she had related "another especially repugnant indignity."

Girl Allegedly Struck

M. L. Brothers, then a police patrolman, and his prowl car patrolman "partner," L. W. Fristoe, said when they answered a radio call to the tourist camp after a woman's screams had aroused persons in that vicinity that they saw Keeton strike the girl as they ran by a broken blind over a window of the cabin.

Miss Jameson said she had gone out with Keeton only once before the night of Feb. 23, to a show. On the 23rd, she said, Keeton took her into his car, went somewhere and bought a quart of whisky and drove to the tourist camp "to see my boss who is there." She said that another man and a woman companion were in the cabin and that they left. She said she attempted to get Keeton to leave, but that he said he wanted to take a drink first.

The alleged indignities resulted soon afterward, she said.

She was examined by Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, who treated her swollen eye, the district attorney had been informed.

Keeton waived examining trial, and Miss Jameson's testimony was not required at that time.

Missouri's Truman

cer in the first World war and as an ex-farmboy was appalled at the waste he saw. "Let's dig these things up now and correct them," he said.

On top of his artillery-officer background, Mr. Truman knew something about public works from his experience around Kansas City. He had served on the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, had helped to write civil aeronautics legislation.

His committee went at it. Soon after Pearl Harbor it turned in a report which took the hide off the business of government contracts. Word got around that a good many millions of dollars in savings were involved.

People began to listen when the committee spoke.

His reports said there ought to be overall coordination of war production. Creation of the War Production board followed. The committee turned in the facts about the rubber shortage, the raw materials shortage, waste in the Army and lack of ships in the Navy. The spotlight of publicity and the facts caused much talk, frequently followed by action.

The committee went after the facts about rent-gouging, defective ships, airports abroad, lend-lease. High and low were asked what they knew about these things.

The committee headed by the senator from Missouri had to be shown. He was shown, and he did some showing on his own.

This work made him nationally famous, and last summer he was chosen as the Democratic nominee for vice president.

During the election his friends would rush in with returns and predict his victory. Mr. Truman sat down with paper and pencil.

"Thanks," he would say. "Now let's see what happened."

As he rode to the White House for his first day of work after President Roosevelt died, Missouri's Harry Truman said fervently:

"I pray God I can measure up to the task."

He even figures he was to show himself.

NEW RECORD CLAIMED

LONDON, April 16. (AP)—Capt. Robert Ammon, Reading, Pa., claimed a new individual record of 11 enemy planes destroyed after today's tremendous fighter sweep over German airfields. The previous high mark was 10.

Mexican Jailed In Slaying Of Woman

Willie Wilson, 20, a Mexican, was in jail Monday night awaiting arraignment on a murder with malice charge in connection with the fatal shooting Sunday night of Mercey Romeo, 19, at 124 Ave. K.

The woman apparently was hit by a bullet meant for another, officers believed.

According to accounts given by witnesses to District Attorney Burton S. Burks, the police and the sheriff's department, Wilson shot a .32 caliber revolver one time when in an argument with Arthro De Leon, 27, another Mexican, of 1308 Fourth.

De Leon and Mike Ogda, 64, were picked up as material witnesses. Police said last night that Ogda had been released and that De Leon had been charged with drunkenness and fined $50.

The shooting was about 10 o'clock. The woman was taken to West Texas hospital, where she was pronounced dead. The bullet struck her below the right breast and lodged near the spinal column, investigators said.

The charge, signed by Bill Mabray, chief of city detectives, was filed in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of peace. Wilson, of 1501 North Second, had not been arraigned.

Sanders Funeral home said services would be read at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at St. Joseph's Catholic church, by Rev. James A. Noon, and that burial would be in Catholic cemetery.

Only one survivor of the woman, a divorcee, was named by the funeral home — the father, Antonio Romero.

wound up only 40 miles southeast of Hamburg.

Battle of North Holland

The Canadian First Army won the battle of north Holland by capturing Groningen, and fanned out all along the North sea coast to within five miles of the port of Emden.

Farther south, Canadian armor all but pinned four German divisions against the Zuider Zee with a lightning drive that rolled up northwest of Arnhem to within five miles of the old Dutch water line guarding Utretcht, Rotterdam and Amsterdam.

The battle of the Ruhr was almost at an end, and with 176,000 German troops and three enemy generals already captured there, a U. S. First Army officer styled it "the greatest defeat any German Army ever suffered on German soil."

Only Duesseldorf Remains

Of all the great munitions cities that stud that rich industrial region, only Duesseldorf remains in enemy hands, and with the Germans giving up by the hundreds its fall cannot be long delayed.

Even as this pocket was squeezed of almost its last German, another big trap was sprung on the new but rag-tag German 11th SS (Elite) Army in the Harz mountains southwest of Berlin. The trap closed when the First and Ninth armies, the ones which fashioned the Ruhr trap, met four miles north of Kothen, 26 miles southeast of Magdeburg.

The battle to free the Atlantic port of Bordeaux roared into its second day, with 450 Flying Fortresses pounding the enemy positions on the Gironde river after they had been bathed in liquid fire by an incendiary aerial attack Sunday.

The French routed the Germans from Royan, the chief strongpoint on the east bank of the Gironde river, but the Germans still held fast on the opposite side of the stream.

A field dispatch reported that the Second Armored division, which lost one Elbe river bridgehead just south of Magdeburg to a smashing attack Saturday, had joined the 83rd Infantry division in deepening a second bridgehead at Barby to the southeast.

The Americans were about 52 miles southwest of Berlin's Potsdam suburbs after repulsing one small counterattack and deepening the bridgehead to five miles.

German commentators said the Ninth Army was "preparing to cross the Elbe at several points" north of Magdeburg. There was no confirmation that the Ninth had crossed at Havelberg, which is about 50 miles northeast of Magdeburg.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth Army was prying open some of Germany's best kept secrets of war as it swung up to the Elbe river on a front of more than 100 miles.

One prize was a $10,000,000 jet-plane factory hidden deep underground in salt miles in the area of Magdeburg. This factory was capable of producing 700 jet planes a month.

Russian Drive

East Prussia, Russian rearguards thrust within two and 10 miles of the escape ports of Fischhausen and Pillau.

Late German broadcasts asserted that Soviet parachute troops who landed within Berlin's defense ring had been encircled and wiped out. But at the same time, the enemy said that Soviet assault waves had torn a deep breach in enemy lines on both sides of Frankfurt on the Oder, 33 miles east of Berlin, as they battled to break a corridor through to the paratroopers.

Indirect confirmation that the offensive had opened came from Moscow.

"The attack on Berlin from the east and west has started," Soviet historian Eugene Tarlel said over the Moscow radio, while Associated Press correspondent Eddy Gilmore cabled through censorship "there is reason to believe that the offensive of which the Nazis are in such dread is upon them."

According to German reports, the Russian grand strategy was developing into a triple assault that menaced Berlin frontally and threatened to link with American armies both north and south of the capital.

PRICES RISE SHARPLY

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — The stock market today voted approval of the new President by putting on one of the broadest advances in more than three years with activity the most pronounced in 10 months.

Gains ran to better than 3 points for pivotal rails and industrials. New highs, particularly in the utility group, were numerous and blocks of low-quoted power issues ranged from 1,000 to 40,000 shares after the opening. The total of 2,500,000 shares for the full proceedings was a peak since June 16, last and compared with 1,800,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.1 points at 635, highest since Sept. 4, 1937 and the widest move since Dec. 30, 1941. The industrial, rail and utility composites also were at tops since that year. Of 990 issues registering, 779 were up, 84 down and 127 unchanged.

Conspicuous on the sprint were U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, North American, Public Service of N. J., Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil (NJ), Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, N. Y. Central, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical and International Harvester.

Ahead in the curb were Electric Bond and Share, Solar Aircraft, Middlewest Corp., American Superpower and Niagara Hudson Power. The aggregate here was 650,000 shares versus 500,000 in the preceding full stretch.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Board trade and commission house buying rallied cotton futures into new seasonal high ground today after early losses of 40 cents a bale. Final prices were unchanged to 65 cents a bale net higher.

The belief there will be no radical change in farm policy under the new administration and growing tightness in spot cotton accounted for the strength.

There was considerable mill buying against textile awards in the new months.

The bureau of census report of March cotton consumption at 857,693 bales was slightly larger than trade expectations.

son; Basil O'Connor, his former law partner, and Henry T. Hackett, an attorney of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Farber said in a statement:

"No attempt has been made as yet to place any valuation upon the assets of the estate."

Upon the death of Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the late President's mother, on Sept. 7, 1941, Mr. Roosevelt received nine-tenths of her net estate of $1,089,872 and her Hyde Park, N. Y., property.

Mr. Roosevelt bequeathed the residuary estate to the trustees to be held in trust by them.

All income from the trust fund is to go to Mrs. Roosevelt during her lifetime.

Division Beyond Widow

Upon her death, the will stated, one-half of the principal then remaining in the trust fund, together with all accumulations of income, if any, is to be paid in equal shares to the then living children of the late President.

The will provides that upon the death of any of the Roosevelt children, their children shall receive the share to which the parent would have been entitled.

The remaining half of the principal is to be divided upon Mrs. Roosevelt's death into separate trusts, each of which is to be held by the trustees for the benefit of the children and grandchildren.

at Weinboehla, between Meissen and Dresden, where enormous installations have been built.

There will be many a citadel remaining inside zones already militarily liquidated. Hitler himself will observe his last birthday as dictator April 20 in his eagle's nest at Berchtesgaden, perhaps to stay there for good.

Hitler Is Still "In"

Hitler still has not turned everything over to his aides, even if Heinrich Himmler and Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels are now chiefly responsible for the Nazi leadership.

Gestapo Chief Himmler is more active than ever before and permits himself to be seen much oftener. He spends most of his time in his headquarters at Zossen, 22 miles south of Berlin, which is packed with arms and the nerve center of military activity.

Berlin's dictator Dr. Goebbels now lives in his fortress. His beautiful propaganda palace on Wilhelmplatz was completely destroyed by three direct hits during a Mosquito bomber raid.

Key Resistance Points

If Goebbels can hold Berlin, certain key points surely will offer resistance. One of these is the inner city core around the so-called Bendler block. The area also embraces the Reichschancellory opposite the Tiergarten, the Unter Den Linden artery from the Brandenburger gate at the Tiergarten end to the cathedral, the Hallesches gate, Anhalter station, Potsdamer platz and Potsdamer bridge back to the Tiergarten.

In this zone there are many first class barricades built by military experts. The Brandenburger gate is closed except for a small traffic passage. Bridges are mined. Foxholes for rocket fighters dot the Tiergarten. Tanks have been dug in. Trench systems connect camouflaged fuel and ammunition dumps.

Supplies of food, ammunition and medicine are stored in great quantities. The antiaircraft is prepared for a long siege.

The petroleum used in automobiles contains the energy that was stored up by plants and animals thousands of centuries ago.

Truman Pleads For Full Help

the spare, smiling President.

He stood erect until the applause subsided and unused to his role, nervously started his speech before he was presented. Speaker Hayburn interrupted and Mr. Truman started again.

Thirteen microphones picked up the President's soft, steady and slightly high-pitched tones for international distribution. He occasionally tapped his right foot when he came to an emphatic phase.

It was a scene in sharp contrast to the last appearance of Mr. Roosevelt, seated in a wheel chair down in front, when he reported on Yalta March 1.

There was another sharp contrast as President Truman studiously followed the text of his 1,500-word address, unlike Mr Roosevelt's frequently, homey interpolations

Can't Keep Silence

The President said that a more adequate tribute to the fallen leader would be reverent silence but in this hour, silence might give comfort to the enemy. Thus he felt called on, he said, to chart the nation's "forward" course because "our departed leader never looked backward."

As to the conflict itself, Mr. Truman said: "So that there can be no possible misunderstanding, both Germany and Japan can be certain, beyond any shadow of doubt, America will continue the fight for freedom until no vestige of resisance remains."

Much hard fighting still lies ahead, he said, but:

To settle for another temporary respite would surely jeopardize the future security of all the world.

Unconditional Surrender

"Our demand has been and it remains — unconditional surrender."

This nation will not "traffic with the breakers of the peace on the terms of the peace," Mr. Mr. Truman said, and it was at this point that he banged the palms of his hands on the stand from which he read the pen-and-ink address.

In this drive to crush the foe into submission, he emphasized, there will be no change in the military and naval high command. He paid tribute to the "able direction" of war strategy by Generals of the Army George C. Marshall, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Henry H. Arnold and Douglas MacArthur, and Admirals of the Fleet William D. Leahy, Ernest J. King and Chester W. Nimitz.

"I want the entire world to know that this direction must and will remain—unchanged and unhampered," he ejaculated.

Must Punish Guilty

As for war criminals, the President said surely the United States and its Allies do not wish to see "unnecessary or unjustified suffering" but the laws of God and man "have been violated and the guilty must not go unpunished."

"Nothing," he said, "shall shake our determination to punish the war criminals even though we must pursue them to the end of the earth."

The peace to come, he asserted, cannot be secured "if we permit our dangerous opponents to plot future wars with impunity at any mountain retreat — however distant."

He echoed a sentiment dear to Mr. Roosevelt in his long political life when he said:

"Let me assure the forward-looking people of America that there will be no relaxation in our efforts to improve the lot of the common people."

Calls For Hope And Faith

The task ahead calls for hope and faith, the President declared, and at home he asked the people to be as resolute as their armies and navies have been against great odds.

Only a despairing people think that wars are inevitable, Mr. Truman said. The "outlook for humanity is not so hopeless."

Hope bore up the forces of liberation, he said, "but it alone is not enough."

"If wars in the future are to be prevented, the peace-loving nations must be united in their determination to keep the peace under law. The breaking of the peace anywhere is the concern of peace-loving nations everywhere. Nothing is more essential to the future peace of the world than continued cooperation of the nations which had to muster the force necessary to defeat the conspiracy of the Axis powers to dominate the world."

To Serve, Not Dominate

In this sense, he said the responsibility of the great nations however "is to serve—not dominate" the peoples of the world.

The first requisite for international harmony is to have it at home, he said. He himself, as pilot, needs "the cooperation of the crew" and "every individual must do his duty for the benefit of all."

To his old comrades in Congress where he served as senator from Missouri and as vice president, Mr. Truman said:

"With confidence, I am depending upon all of you."

The President closed his speech with a prayer that he be given "an understanding heart" to discern between good and bad "for who is able to judge this, thy so great a people?"

ears of West Texans.

Carrots, eaten regularly, enable people to see their way around better at night. This shows that carrots are up to no good.

If you know a horse, ask him if he likes carrots. He'll say yes.

Beets are things that people say things are as red as. They are consumed by man and cattle and are more tasty than carrots. Cattle do not gag when they eat them.

Housewives boil them, pickle them, salad them, and cook the tops for greens while they listen to "John's Other Wife's First Husband." They are eaten if there isn't anything else on the table. The beets are eaten, of course.

Beets are nearly all water but you can't drink them out of a glass.

Beethoven did not discover the beet.

Cabbages would make excellent basketballs if they bounced. The smell of cooking cabbage is notorious. Guests and mice have been driven out of houses by it.

A cow is very fond of cabbage and her method of eating it intrigues many people. You'll always find someone anxious to tell you how the cow ate the cabbage.

News Briefs

Pleas of guilty were entered by Willie Williams and Frank Perry, Sudan negroes, when arraigned here before Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner, on charges of violating tire ration regulations. Perry was charged with transfer of two new tires without receiving tire rationing certificates, and with illegal possession of an "A" gasoline ration book which had been issued to him for a car which he had sold. Williams was charged with accepting transfer of two new passenger car tires without surrender of certificates. Perry still was in jail last night unable to furnish two bonds of $250 each. Williams posted bond Saturday.

Cleanup Planned Before V-E Day

By JULES B. GRAD
Stars and Stripes Correspondent
Distributed By Associated Press

AN ADVANCED COMMAND POST, April 16 — The war in Europe probably will not end until Allied troops have occupied Germany completely, General Eisenhower told a group of visiting United States radio correspondents today.

The general said he did not believe there would ever be a formal German surrender.

To Give Up Separately

"Nazi units, including divisions, corps, armies and finally Army groups will give up separately as they exhaust their ammunition and gasoline, or find themselves hopelessly trapped by Allied encirclement," he said.

"But there will be no announcement of V-E day until all important enemy pockets on the Western front have been wiped out."

Praising the size and skill of the Russian armies as well as his own, Eisenhower said the Soviet drive from the east could be expected when ground conditions permitted.

As to which Allied Army would finally enter Berlin, the supreme commander pointed out that his single purpose in this war always has been to crush the German armed forces. He said he was not interested in geographical points.

New York Telephone Workers Vote Strike

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—The Traffic Employees association, representing 12,000 operators of the New York Telephone company, voted overwhelmingly tonight to strike in protest against a War Labor board order directing a $3-a-week wage increase.

The local telephone workers, together with 6,000 long distance operators of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, had demanded wage increases of $5 a week. Telephone officials had offered them $4.

The vote was 9,999 in favor of striking, as against 540 opposed.

planes. The luftwaffe now has been reduced to nothing more than a nuisance value."

Spaatz, commander of the U. S. Strategic Air forces in Europe comprising the Eighth Air force in Britain and the Fifteenth Air force in Italy, said in his special order that "the advances of our ground forces have brought to a close the strategic air war" and declared that hereafter the heavy bombers and fighters of the strategic air forces would operate in conjunction with tactical units.

Plan Already Started

Actually, the concentration of the power of heavy bombers in direct tactical support of the ground forces already has begun. In yesterday's operations 450 Flying Fortresses smashed enemy troop positions around Bordeaux for the third straight day and an other force of 750 Fortresses and Liberators attacked rail targets in Bavaria ahead of the advancing ground troops.

Stalin Salutes Truman

Thoughts On U. S. And Russia

DECISION of Marshal Stalin to send to the San Francisco conference his foreign secretary, V. M. Molotov, is both interesting and reassuring from several angles.

In the first place, the Russian dictator's action indicates that he wishes to co-operate with our new President and has gone out of his way to do so at the very first opportunity.

In the second place, substitution of Mr. Molotov for Ambassador Andrei Gromyko as head of Russia's delegation to the conference—after Stalin's earlier refusal to send his cabinet member—is a gesture of good will to the U. S. in particular and to all the United Nations in general.

And in the third place, the action indicates Stalin has decided that, after all, the San Francisco parley is of sufficient importance that Russia be represented by its official who is on a diplomatic par with the top delegates of the U. S. and England, Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden.

Although the grim Russian premier has been pictured to the world as a stark realist and a man almost totally devoid of sentimentality, we like to think that he changed his mind after the death of Mr. Roosevelt because (1) he knew Mr. Roosevelt wanted Mr. Molotov at San Francisco; and (2) because Mr. Roosevelt's successor and warm friend, President Truman, asked him to do so. Apparently, Stalin, like the rest of us, has deep, human feelings even if he does not always choose to parade them.

In securing Stalin's pledge to send Molotov to San Francisco, President Truman has scored heavily and not to be overlooked is the fact that he stepped right out, as President of the United States, and made a straight request to the head of an allied nation.

It is a good start for President Truman in the field of international relations and diplomacy, as well as a generous and co-operative gesture on the part of Josef Stalin.

It all augurs well for continued improvement in U. S.-Russian relations, so well begun by Mr. Roosevelt and carried on by him and Marshal Stalin over the past several years.

ALONG this same line, American newspaper comment is required, we think, concerning a recent radio commentary on the Blue network by the distinguished foreign correspondent, Leland Stowe.

In a broadcast Saturday, Mr. Stowe discussed the effect the death of Mr. Roosevelt might possibly have on U. S.-Russian relations. Stressing the importance of our getting along with Russia, Mr. Stowe proceeded along the line frequently heard for the past severel years—that we must go out of our way to placate the Russians; that we must "play up to them," and at all costs win their co-operation. Mr. Stowe almost suggested that we go to the Russians—especially now that Mr. Roosevelt is gone—with hat in hand, humbly beseeching them to line up and stay lined up with us.

For our part, we do not feel thay way at all.

We agree that the U. S. and Russia—along with England, China and the rest of the United Nations—must stick together; that unless we do there can be no lasting peace.

We agree that we must co-operate with Russia wherever and whenever we can, giving whenever necessary—wherever possible. Both nations will have to "give and take," and we expect to give as well as to take if our relations with Russia continue and are strengthened.

But the United States is the major nation of the world. It is the strongest nation in most respects. While it did not win World War I alone, and is not winning World War II alone, it has been the difference between victory and defeat in both conflicts. It is the deciding factor in world affairs, militarily and otherwise.

It is not necessary for us to go, hat in hand, to Russia or to any other country on the face of the globe. It is necessary only for us to be fair, to be generous, to be honestly and openly co-operative with our neighbors. To do anything less would be indefensible. To do anything more would be craven.

You're supposed to know a person you introduce, but many a Congressman introduces a bill with which he isn't even slightly acquainted.

After weeks of tests an acoustician has found out what everybody else has known all along: That Washington is noisier than New York.

Sam, just as they do to anybody else. If he puts too much on the cuff, he'll lose his shirt.

The One Minute Sermon

Gather yourselves together, yea, gather together, O nation not desired:

Before the decree bring forth, before the day pass as the chaff, before the fierce anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's anger come upon you.

Seek ye the Lord, all ye meek of the earth, which have wrought his judgment; seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger. —Zephaniah 2:1-3.

WOMAN OF DETERMINATION

Madame Sand was saying that for the artist, finding himself pursued, the only escape was to shut himself off from the world. He should live with his own genius, as far as possible. For the crowd is forever pulling a man down to its own level. "And that level, Monsieur Chopin, can be very low."

She had in mind no doubt her own years of struggle in the streets of Paris. Those days were now far off, and the quiet though elegant living room of her Paris apartment spoke only success.

The wine was poured.

Madame Sand raised her glass. "To the future of Frederic Chopin!"

Franz Liszt said: "To the brilliant future of Frederic Chopin."

"Whatever that future amounts to, Madame — I shall owe it all to you—and to Franz Liszt."

They drank. Then Liszt said: "You are too generous, Chopin. You have talent enough in your own fingers without help from me."

"Thank you, Maestro."

They sat down.

"What are your plans?" Madame Sand asked.

Frederic tried to think of Professor Elsner and of the dreams they had had together and of all the things they would do when they had arrived in Paris. And now they had arrived!

"My plans? Well, to give concerts—as soon as possible."

"No."

"Yes, Madame."

"Why so soon?"

He must work, he must give concerts and more concerts, and ever more concerts. He must lose himself in his work. He must do it. It was the only possible thing for him to do. The concerts would make the money to send to Poland to Tytus and to Konstancja for the great cause—

—Konstancja? Symbol of what he was fighting for—not the vision in white with the rose in her dark hair but a girl in peasant dress, her shoes enriched with Polish earth—a girl of the people and a patriot! They were patriots together, and some day he too would return to Poland to hear the singing of free men—

"Yes, Madame—concerts."

Franz Liszt said: "After all, George, artists must live—"

"Not only that, Madame. There are certain causes that must live, too—"

"—Ah, I thought so."

"In Poland, Madame— Well, it is not like France, and when I came to Paris, there was a purpose—"

"Interesting." But she was not concerned with the "causes," or the "purpose" which had brought Chopin to France. He was here, the "causes" were behind, and Chopin's future was ahead, and there was his genius to think of. Causes and purposes were for men without genius.

"I think, Franz, Monsieur Chopin does not have the temperament for concerts—"

"I don't see why not."

George Sand rose. "Look at him, Franz. Look at him." She put her hands to her own cheeks. "Pale. Drawn. That's what purpose can do to a man."

—No, Madame. Not purpose. Not the cause of Poland. Oh, would to heaven it were. That were indeed a blessed purpose.

"Why, in 10 years, Franz, he'll have burned away completely. No, I don't like it at all. He must be mended." And she might have added: "And I will do the mending." Then she said: "I suggest, Franz, that we take him to Nohant for a few days."

"Very good idea! Splendid—"

"And where," said Frederic, "is Nohant?"

"—My dear Chopin!" George Sand studied. "That's the trouble. You must know everything exactly—definite plans!"

"After all, George, Monsieur Chopin is a stranger to Paris." Then to Frederic: "Nohant is a very beautiful place. It is George's place in the country."

"—Oh, you will like it. It's a different world. There are no purposes there—no purposes whatever. Well?"

"Yes, Madame."

"—Then it's settled!"

"I mean no, Madame!"

"It's settled. We leave in the morning—by early coach—"

"—I'd like to, of course. But—"

"You have nothing to say, Monsieur. You hear him, Franz? Not even a few days—to relax—for his soul's good."

"—No, Madame."

"You think, Monsieur Chopin, you have worlds to conquer?"

"—Conquer, Madame? That's hardly the word."

"Monsieur, must you be exact in everything? All right. You are not looking for worlds to conquer, but—" She lifted her eyes to the ceiling. She tapped her lips with her finger. "You have a purpose? Purpose. Yes, that's the word."

"I bow to the word, Madame. I confess my guilt. Yes, I have a purpose—thank God I have it, for without a purpose, Madame, I think—"

She was smiling at him.

"—No, Madame, it is not exactly that."

"Franz, I think it's his teacher. I really do. Monsieur must first ask permission. The Professor, you know, might not approve. Faugh!" She turned sharply. "You will go to Nohant! We leave by early coach. No excuse. We never accept them."

"She's right, Chopin. Never offer George an excuse."

Fliers On Okinawa Down Enemy Planes

KATENA AIRFIELD, Okinawa, April 16. (AP)—One of the captured Katena airfield's most memorable events occurred recently when Marine fliers, harassed by enemy artillery fire, roared down a runway pocked by a bomb crater and downed 15 enemy planes.

Maj. Jack R. Mathis of San Jose, Calif., and Lt. Don Hogue of Aberdeen, S. D., accounted for a Japanese bomber which had bombed the airstrip that morning.

Lt. Frank Goff of Wichita Falls, Tex., a member of the "Cannonball" squadron knocked off one Nipponese plane.

A warning had come that 400 enemy planes were heading for Okinawa, and American interceptors took to the air.

As 14 of the enemy planes zoomed earthward, the remainder of the squadron of 24 turned tail and ran.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

ANOTHER item has been added to my interesting collection of foolish records established by foolish people:

According to a press association dispatch, members of the congregation of a Maine church have beaten by five minutes the record time for reading the Bible from cover to cover.

Starting at 12:02 a. m., the dispatch says, and reading in series, the forty-five persons participating finished the book in 17 hours and 40 minutes.

Hallelujah!

Wonderful, isn't it? To be able to say that you have read the Bible more speedily than anyone else ever did.

BRANDEIS

I have been reading the Bible for thirty-five years and I haven't finished with the chapter of Genesis as yet.

If I ever boast about my reading of the Bible I shall boast about having read it more slowly than anyone else ever did.

What on earth do those people think they have accomplished by breaking the world's Bible-reading record?

To me that seems more like a sacrilege than an accomplishment.

To me, reading the Bible is a little more than a pie-eating contest or a greased-pig race.

Let us forget all about the religious merit of the Bible.

Let us leave out all secular or denominational factors.

Even if you read the Bible for no other reason than for its beautiful spiritualism, its wise philosophy, its depth of human understanding you can never, as long as you live, get through reading it.

In every chapter of the Eible there are hours and hours of thought and a lifetime of inspiration.

The Bible is not something to be read and laid aside.

It is something to be lived and to be felt through all your living days.

I am not what you would call a religious person.

I am delinquent as a churchgoer and I argue with ministers, priests and rabbis, many of whom are among my dear friends.

But we argue about dogma and ritual and theology — never about the beauty of religion and our belief in God.

I wish there were more unity in the church. I wish that all who believe would believe in harmony rather than in division.

Did you read or hear John D. Rockefeller's recent address in which he hoped for a Community church?

LAST Easter Sunday my wife and I were hesitating over what service to attend. As I told you before, she is a Presbyterian and I a Lutheran.

Our only churches here in Brookfield are a Congregational, an Episcopal and a Catholic church.

We finally agreed on the Episcopal service because we knew Dr. Parkes, the pastor, better than the others.

Some of our neighbors went to Dr. Jordan's Congregational service, some to Father Quinlan's Catholic one.

There was Spring in everyone of the three. There were flowers in all of them. There was prayer for peace and understanding in each.

Why couldn't all of us have prayed to the same God in the same building when all of us had the same hopes, the same anxieties, the same joys and the same sorrows?

It's a long way from what I talked about in the beginning.

But that's the way one thought leads to another.

Hopkins "Still Around"

Truman To Use His Knowledge

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON expects that Harry Hopkins will become the immediate power behind the Truman throne in so far as the management of pressing foreign and postwar problems is concerned. No other individual in the capital, not even a cabinet member or the head of an emergency agency, has so full a knowledge of the late President's personal plans and his intimate conversations with Churchill and Stalin.

The only other person equally close to Mr. Roosevelt in the fateful months since the fourth-term election last November is also dead—the late Edwin "Pa" Watson, top White House secretary in that period. Cordell Hull has been too ill to be kept informed of the latest agreements involving the White House, the Kremlin and 10 Downing Street.

Edward R. Stettinius, jr., Secretary of State, and Undersecretary Joseph C. Grew are late comers to the diplomatic establishment. Even if Mr. Roosevelt had taken them into his confidence, the period of their apprenticeship in Washington was too short for the President to have given them a complete fill-in.

TUCKER

James F. Byrnes, although he accompanied the Chief Executive to Yalta, was so occupied with domestic affairs that he paid only scant attention to the formulation of the peace.

Hopkins, however, virtually lived with his old chief and friend even after he moved from his quarters in the White House. To him the President unburdened his deepest hopes and aspirations and told of his efforts to translate them into reality through his conferences with the other two of the Big Three.

Harry has a retentive memory and he is a modern Samuel Pepys in his habit of keeping detailed diaries. Long ago he cast himself in the role of Mr. Roosevelt's biographer. He was almost boyish in his admiration for Churchill and Stalin and he showed his feelings in every contact with them. It is understood that they reciprocated in a fatherly way. So the former head of WPA may become America's Number One diplomat—though unofficially and temporarily.

UNITY: One of President Truman's first important moves may be the creation of a "Coalition Government" in a symbolic effort to convince the Axis, the great Allied nations and the little people of the world that the American will for victory and a genuinely democratic peace has not been weakened by the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

His advisers point out that it will not be necessarily for him to shake up his cabinet by the inclusion of influential Democrats and Republicans. He can obtain the same beneficial effect by organizing a sort of council of elder statesmen to confer with him periodically. Even if they played no active part in governmental affairs, it is believed that this good-will gesture would be sufficient.

Bernard Baruch, now in Europe on a mission assigned to him by the late Chief Executive, may be given an even more prominent part in the postwar period, in the program for control of Europe and at the final peace table.

There is talk that Jesse Jones may be recalled to advise on economic matters of domestic and foreign import. John Foster Dulles, foreign policy counsel to Governor Dewey last fall, has already been drafted and other Republicans are under consideration.

President Truman, it is pointed out in this connection, does not suffer from the complex which prevented his great predecessor from asking for outside assistance. He recognizes his own limitations — one of his best assets—and realizes that his cabinet consists of mediocrities in this gravest of crists. As a result, he may rely on the strongest men he can commandeer from both Parties.

MODESTY: President Truman, himself, is somewhat disturbed by the eulogistic welcome which certain news and radio commentators showered on him on his accession to the Presidency. A modest man, he does not want to enter the White House under false pretenses or glittering advertising.

Nevertheless, although not a dynamic or colorful personality, he probably assumes his great responsibility better equipped than any other man who took office under the same tragic circumstances—Andrew Johnson after Lincoln, Chester Arthur after Garfield, even Theodore Roosevelt after McKinley and Calvin Coolidge after Harding.

Mr. Truman's 10 years in the Senate, together with his political upbringing in Missouri, have made him thoroughly acquainted with legislative processes and persons—an exceedingly valuable resource for the Executive.

His chairmanship of the Truman committee let him in on war secrets that were withheld from his colleagues on Capitol Hill. He will not tamper with the Army-Navy establishment. His kindliness and modesty enable him to begin his Administration with the best wishes of Congress, especially as he is the first legislator to occupy the Executive Mansion since the day of Warren Harding.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

AT a meeting of nationally important business leaders in New York the other day, a speaker made this ringing declaration: "American genius never is so great as when confronted by a great emergency."

We are at the climax of two wars and on the threshold of difficult peacemaking and reconversion. Our Constitution cencentrates vast power in the Chief Executive. For 12 years a giant of iron will, supreme courage and vision dominated the scene. Now an untried—almost unknown—man takes over. This circumstance would appall lesser folk than Americans.

Over the weekend sentiment was unanimous. From the humblest citizen to Herbert Hoover, only living ex-President, came expressions of sorrow and the pledge to close ranks and carry on.

LEMAN

The big industrial executives in New York, on whose shoulders will fall a large share of the postwar full-employment, mass-production program, long ago appraised Mr. Truman and decided that he would do if he should be elevated to the Presidency.

They think it would be unfair to expect of him the same performance as that of his eminent predecessor even though his first public promise was that he would follow the Roosevelt policies.

As the New Deal heads of various home front agencies eventually pass from the scene, Mr. Truman undoubtedly will replace them with his own men. He will be compelled to take his own stand on all future questions here and abroad. He doesn't pretend to be a titan. He has the fine instincts of the common man—to the nth degree.

The business world here believes that in the best sense of the phrase Main Street is now Pennsylvania Avenue. The average citizen feels that the new President is somewhat like himself and wants to help him in a tight fix. The desire for teamwork—expressed everywhere from Wall Street to Union Square—may be of inestimable value in the trying days ahead for all of us. We may be entering into another "Era of Good Feeling."

"Writing for money is a discouraging business," declares an author. Yes; particularly when done by a creditor.

One might think off hand that the Democrats and Republican parties would welcome a third party invariably attracts most of the screwballs, but the fact is that neither major party thinks it can afford to lose its screwball contingency which runs into considerable numbers.

Tom Stokes Surveys The "Forgotten Front"

Fighting In Italy Is Wearisome

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT, — The war here is quite different from that on the Western front in Germany. There you measure in nearly flat miles; here the measure is up and down—up one mountain, down it and up another mountain, and so on.

War here is wearisome, full of toil, and lonesome, awfully lonesome. In Italy, the Allies won their first foothold on the European continent. It was a glorious chapter of the war, but a costly one. Once the front peges were full of the invasion of Italy and the people back home held their breath as they read day by day of Salerno, of Anzio, then at long last of the capture of Rome.

STOKES

This is where the European war may end, where the last shot may be fired. For tried and experienced German divisions, some of the best, are still in the fields here, the field being tall and rugged mountains. The Germans can't get out now. The Americans and British have seen to that. They have pinned them down, kept them from getting to other fronts and have cut off their way of retreat, their lines of supply.

Here the Air Forces have done a great job in these last few months. For some time the war has been fought in these tall and lonely mountains. Until the recent activity in which the Japanese-Americans of the 442nd, now back from France, distinguished themselves as usual, the war in Italy had virtually slipped out of the newspapers. It was stalemated, with little but local action along the front.

The American boys in the Army here have felt it. No full-blood American boy likes to be out of the show. I became very conscious of that feeling of being left out when I came to this front.

It matters little to remind them of all they have done here in the past. They live in the present. Consequently the present stirring along the Italian front had an electric effect through the mountains. The little nests of Americans hidden in the recesses here and there came alive. There were signs of activity on every hand.

THE noise began to roll along the roads. Again the rush and clatter of trucks, of big guns moving up, of tanks lumbering forward. The convoys hurried along the lower roads, preceded in some cases by motorcycle patrols to warn other vehicles out of the way. The roads are narrow. Some vehicles must draw aside so as not to delay the swift movement of men, munitions and supplies.

To understand the lifting effect of action once again, it is necessary to know about this part of Italy and the way the armies live here. It is beautiful mountain country. The mountains are more rugged, more primitive, than the rolling hills farther south, but not so high as the Alps to the north, nor snow-capped like the Alps.

From Florence north, the road winds around edges of lovely valleys and then plunges finally right into the mountains themselves. It is a gorgeous sight of a spring afternoon for a casual sightseer, but mountains can become very lonely if you have to live among them, especially as soldiers.

Boys Live Hard Lives

Every soldier I talked to was thoroughly sick of these mountains. When I commented on the scenery, they would reply in effect, "you can have it, brother."

They live in little camps here and there, isolated with only the mountains around them to look at. Life here lacks the comforts of the bigger camps. Last winter it was very cold and the spring floods now have washed out the roads.

It is due these boys here, veterans of some of the hardest fighting of this whole war in the slow and hard push up the Italian peninsula, to let those back home know about their hardships and difficulties. How it all looks to the outsider will be told in another column.

Ex-Minister Relates Mussolini Decline

BAD BLANKENBURG, Germany, April 16. (AP)—Benito Mussolini spent the days of his decline wagging his hard head and muttering over and over "I am just an empty bottle."

Gen. Vittorio Foschini, former minister of information for the Italian armed forces, gave this picture of a deflated duce yesterday as he told also of corruption, graft and high jinks among his colleagues of the Fascist hierarchy.

Foschini and his wife were found in this resort town by advancing American troops.

The voluble Foschini said that on the eve of the execution of Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, Ciano's wife Edda went to the duce and pleaded for her husband's life.

"There was a terrible scene," said Foschini, "Edda went into hysterics. Duce only threw up his hands and said 'I can do nothing. I am a prisoner of the Germans.'"

Booby traps were used as early as 1630 when baskets of eggs, fruits and other foods, as well as peddler's carts, were made to appear abandoned and blew up when enemy soldiers touched them.

Bright Future In Texas Forecast

DALLAS, April 16. (U.P.) — A bright postwar industrial future for Texas and the southwest was predicted today by Benjamin F. Fairless of Pittsburgh, president of the United States Steel corporation.

In Dallas on an inspection tour of his corporation's holdings in the south and southwest, Fairless said industrialists of the east are "looking more and more to Texas and the southwest."

Praises Texas Prospects

"Your industrial prospects are wonderful," he told Texas newsmen at a press conference.

Fairless, the son of a coal miner and president of U. S. Steel since 1938, said the industrial development of Texas will come "in all lines" and will be aided by export to Latin-American countries.

"The growing demands down here, however, will provide the greatest impetus to Texas industrial development," he said.

"The industrialization of Texas has been swift; it will continue and—after the war—it will be accelerated.

"The Dallas and Houston-Gulf Coast areas have grown faster in the last 20 years than any other area in the nation," he said, and "all you need to do to picture the future is to look at what has happend down here."

Fairless said U. S. Steel will expand in Texas if the market warrants it and will do everything possible to aid steel fabricators in expanding also.

The U. S. Steel executive said that the Oil Well Supply company, one of the nine U. S. Steel subsidiaries operating in Texas, has completed plans for swift expansion after the war. Natural headquarters of the firm are in Dallas.

Fairless said his corporation does not view as "sound" plans of another steel corporation to erect mills at Daingerfield, in Texas. He said ore in this state is of too low quality to compete successfully with rich ore in other parts of the nation.

A huge postwar market for steel, including new types of steel developed during the war, was envisioned by Fairless. He said his company has entered the pre-fabrication of houses, with an eye to bringing down costs through use of steel, and sees a big boom in postwar railroad, car and automobile manufacture. He said steel is not fearful of competition after the war from magnesium and other lighter metals.

Nazis Battered On Every Front

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press War Analyst

The full tide of destruction which the Allies have been storing up for Germany for five years is pouring through the breaches in the Nazi dam. For the first time the Hitlerites are called on to meet full-out offensives not from just two fronts, but along every foot of an almost complete circle.

The months remaining to the Nazi regime have been cut to days, and any day may bring it to a matter of hours. Berlin stands where Warsaw stood in 1939, and the German Army were the French, British, Belgian and Dutch armies stood in 1940. The men of nearly a score of nations have joined for the final squeeze.

Nazi Problem Solved

The beginning of new campaigns at the Oder and in Italy have solved at least one problem for the German generals. They no longer have to worry about shifting troops from here to there. They are all engaged now.

It all adds up to the fact that every stand of the Nazis from now on is a suicide stand.

However, it does not mean that it is all over except the shouting. There is every evidence that these suicide stands actually will be made.

Reorganization of the German command into northern and southern sections is the best evidence of this.

Hitler is down to the bitter dregs. He can't continue to conduct a real war, but he seems determined and capable of forcing both the remaining Germans and the Allies to take the last bitter sips with him.

Seventy-Two Oil Wells Completed

AUSTIN, April 16. (U.P.)—Completion of 72 oil wells during the past week boosted total for the year to 1,119, compared to 921 in a comparable time last year, the state Railroad commission announced today.

Forty-two of the completions were in two West Texas districts, while 15 were in North Texas to lead the list. Also completed were 12 gas wells, bringing 1945 total to 170, compared with 64 for a corresponding time in 1944.

During the week 37 dry holes were drilled.

For the past week total average allowable for 102,280 oil wells was 2,312,910 barrels daily, an increase of 25 wells and 4,291 barrels daily from the preceding week.

Man Feigns Death To Escape Fire

TEMPLE, April 16. (U.P.) — A Texas soldier who feigned death to escape enemy fire so realistically his comrades reported him "killed in action" lived to tell about it today from a hospital bed at McCloskey General hospital.

He is Sgt. James H. Ragle of Aledo, Tex., and he was pinned down by a sudden burst of enemy fire while scouting for his unit in Germany.

He was 20 yards from an enemy machine gun emplacement, he said today, and he lay there—pretending he was dead—for eight hours until darkness came. Then he crawled to a point near the American lines, and lay there all night until, in light of dawn, his comrades — who had reported him dead—recognized him.

Family Seeks Wings Taken From Grave

Maybe someone didn't realize it, but when they recently removed a pair of silver wings from a granite stone marking the grave of Lt. J. G. West, jr., 21, who died in an airplane crash near Tucumcari Sept. 7, 1944, they took something that was of deep sentimental value to the pilot's family.

The wings, which were placed on the stone Feb. 24, were pried off sometime between Tuesday and Thursday—with some sort of a chisel.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. West, sr., of 2630 Twenty-third, informed the Lubbock Evening Journal today that if the person taking the wings will return them, no questions will be asked. They even suggested that the wings be placed in an envelope and sent to them.

Any information leading to recovery of them will be greatly appreciated by the family. The telephone number is 4989.

"Of course we could buy another pair of wings but the ones on the grave belonged to him and they meant so much to all of us," the mother said.

Lt. West was an instructor at the Albuquerque Air field and was enroute to his home base from Chicago when he and 11 others crashed in a plane.

His wife, Mrs. Hazel West of Littlefield, was at the cemetery Tuesday and the wings were on the stone then. The mother returned Thursday and discovered they had been stolen.

Demo Committee To Postpone Meeting

DALLAS, April 16. (U.P.)—Harry L. Seay, State Democratic executive committee chairman, said today that the scheduled meeting in Austin of the committee has been postponed, together with the Jefferson day banquet, until sometime "after the San Francisco conference."

Seay said the date of the future meetings would depend on when Sen. Tom Connally could come to Texas to address the group following his attendance at the conferences at San Francisco.

Jackson Quits Plane, Lands Near Okinawa

OKINAWA, April 16 (AP)—"Nothing much happened to me," drawled the lanky carrier plane pilot, Navy Lt. Frank Jackson, of Lubbock.

"Our Corsair formation tangled with a bunch of Jap planes a few days ago, but it lasted only a minute so far as I was concerned.

"The other fellows saw many different types of planes. But all I saw was about 20 Zeros (fighters.)

"I got a Zero at 24,000 feet. Just then I was rammed and I had to jump. I didn't see the plane that hit me.

"I landed near a small island north of Okinawa. My life vest was ripped off and I didn't have time to get a life raft, I had to swim.

"A destroyer picked me up within 45 minutes. That's about all, except that while I was aboard the destroyer I saw a good air fight, with a Jap plane burned right over our ship."

WIFE LIVES HERE

Lt. Jackson's wife resides at 2618 Twenty-first street. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Kelly.

Humble Sets New Business Record

HOUSTON, April 16. (U.P.) — Humble Oil and Refining company set a new business record in 1944 with a net income of $60,525,774, almost $15,000,000 over the preceding year, the company's annual stockholders report revealed today.

Humble's net crude oil production last year was 112,930,000 barrels, marking a 30-per cent increase over 1943 and 100 per cent over 1942.

Humble Pipe Line company delivered 214,000,000 barrels through main lines, compared with 165,700,000 in 1943 and refinery crude runs to stills totaled 82,600,000 barrels.

Taxes for 1944 totaled $49,300,000.

Levelland Schools Planning Pageant

LEVELLAND, April 16. (Special)—A three-act pageant will be presented about May 4 by Levelland schools and is to depict history of the town, the Levelland of today and Levelland schools of today.

The first act is to present the days when Indians, buffalo and cowboys were numerous. Several old-timers are to be seated on the stage, said Elmer J. Moore, superintendent, who is directing plans for the pageant.

During the second act, depicting the Levelland of today, city commissioners, members of the board of city development and officers of service and social clubs are to be seated on the stage. School men and honor students are to be on the platform for the third act, in which a May queen will preside and students will appear before her presenting skits. Most of the skits have been presented in assemblies during the year.

Hockley county had 130 residents in 1920 and has 25,000 now, said Moore. Schools had an enrollment of 14 in 1923 and have 1,800 students now, said Moore.

Definite date for the pageant is to be set soon.

McKellar's Power In Senate Is Cited

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP)—Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), as the new presiding officer of the Senate, has more power than Harry Truman had as vice president. McKellar can say "no" and it will mean something. Truman couldn't.

It comes about this way:

The Vice President can vote in the Senate only in event of a tie. Yet a motion, amendment or bill loses on a tie vote.

Thus if a tie offers the Vice President an opportunity to vote, a "no" from him means no more than if he had refrained from voting. An "aye" would, however, give approval to the issue before the Senate.

But McKellar, as permanent presiding officer of the Senate now, loses none of his prerogatives as a Senator. His name will be called on all roll calls. If he votes "no" and the measure, motion or whatever it may be winds up with a tie, it is lost — so his negative carries an authority that Truman's lacked.

SHOULD MANAGEMENT BE UNIONIZED?

A Statement by General Motors

THE National Labor Relations Board has ordered a bargaining election among the foremen and other supervisory groups of a Detroit automobile company.

This company is not a part of General Motors, but we are concerned with the principles involved.

This confusing action by the Board means that it is sanctioning and promoting the unionization of management personnel, in spite of the fact that the National Labor Relations Act includes as an employer ". . . any person acting in the interests of an employer directly or indirectly."

We are sure that Congress did not intend to approve unionization of management when it passed the Act.

The results if applied throughout industry would be bad for the management groups involved, bad for industry, bad for labor, bad for America.

THE POSITION OF FOREMEN IN GENERAL MOTORS

In General Motors, foremen are the MANAGERS of their departments. They participate in establishing management policies in both production and personnel matters. They have full authority to approve or disapprove the hiring, to supervise the work, and to make work assignments of the employes under their supervision. They initiate wage increases, transfers and promotions. They are directly responsible for the efficiency and safety of their group. They have full authority when necessary to take immediate, appropriate disciplinary action for violation of shop rules, and other improper conduct of their employes. They are the first point of management contact and make the first management decision on all matters relating to the employes under their direction.

Bad for Foremen

We think it would be bad for foremen if American industry should be compelled to make a change in its proven type of organization, which would unavoidably reduce the foreman's status, diminish his responsibility, authority and influence, decrease his opportunities for personal advancement.

In General Motors, foremen have always had important responsibilities and authority.

We have always guarded the status of our foremen, and have provided special training to improve their abilities, increase their efficiency and enhance their opportunities for promotion to even more important management positions. The great majority of General Motors' principal executives at one time were foremen.

We are convinced that it would be impossible for a foreman to follow both management and union leaderships at the same time, and under those conditions to carry on all his duties as they now exist. All elements of management must have a common objective.

It would obviously be impossible, for instance, for him as a fellow unionist with those under him, to perform his functions which relate to their working conditions, wages, promotions and assignments on the unbiased basis which is essential to good management.

Bad for Industry

From our experience both before and during the war, we are certain that the accepted American method of spreading managerial authority and responsibility among foremen—so that management is in close, direct contact with comparatively small groups of workmen—is the best and only sound method of handling day-to-day relations with the thousands of employes engaged in modern mass production.

Anything which would require a change in this set-up would interfere with employer-employe relations and with production.

For example, there have been many strikes in war production plants, particularly in Michigan. Charges have been made that workmen have been loafing in plants engaged in war production and that they are being paid high wages for not working. We are conscious that the public feels that there must be something wrong. The attempt to tear down the position and authority of foremen and to unionize members of management is importantly contributing to this condition.

Bad for Labor

As a matter of fact, the close-contact method is about the only way that management and labor can work harmoniously together in large organizations.

Much is said these days about cooperation. It would be a serious handicap to any hopes for teamwork and the pursuit of common interests, if anything were done to remove this facility for knowing and understanding each other.

It is our firm, sincere belief that loss of this close contact would make harmonious relations between management and labor almost impossible and would interfere with practical collective bargaining.

Bad for America

The removal of foremen from their present position as a vital, integral part of management would require reorganization of factory management on a basis far more complicated and decidedly less effective. Necessary factory discipline would suffer, worker efficiency would be impaired.

We believe the effect on you—on the public as a whole—would be very real.

It would interfere with the war effort.

It would make war materials cost more.

It would slow up postwar reconversion to civilian production.

It would delay adequate postwar output of cars, refrigerators, ranges, furniture—all the things people need so much and have waited for so long.

Finally—and, in the long run, perhaps most important of all—it would so increase production costs as to boost prices and the cost of living, and make the problem of reasonably full employment much more difficult.

Action Called For

When people have as deep a conviction about anything as we have about unionizing management, they ought to do something about it.

If the meaning of the National Labor Relations Act can be so confused as to promote unionization of management—and thus impair the effectiveness of the American production system of which we are all so proud—then the meaning ought to be cleared up.

General Motors believes—and hopes others will feel the same—that it is a patriotic duty, a duty to the foremen, to industry, to labor, and to the public as a whole—to oppose the unionization of management by every proper and lawful means.

That is our intention.
