

Parking Meters Go Down For Free Parking Trial

New Faces For Council, School Board

These two young civic leaders have accepted appointments to important community governmental bodies. Eddie Piland, left, joins the City Council and Tom Rees, right, takes a place on Colorado Independent School District's board of trustees.

Colorado City's up again, down again parking meters are back in storage.

The meters came down Tuesday and Wednesday after City Council voted Monday to remove meters for another trial period.

Representatives from Chamber of Commerce retail merchants committee proposed that the meters go.

"We are not here to jump down your throats," said Ed Thrift, J. C. Penny manager and merchants committee chairman, "we are looking for a solution."

"We have to compete with towns around us that do not have meters."

With Thrift were Willie Landau, owner of Landau's specialty shop; Mrs. Lacy B. Landau, manager of Sears Catalog Store; Billy Wood, owner of Wood's Boots; Bim Carlock, assistant manager of Western Auto Store; Max Berman and Philip Berman, business property owners.

Patrolmen Selma Q. Dickson and Mardell Sheppard began removing heads of meters Monday and concluded the job Wednesday morning on the 14 blocks of controlled parking area downtown.

It was the second time within two years free parking without time limit enforcement has been instituted for previously parking meter areas.

In October of 1965 City Council okayed a trial period of meterless parking, then in spring of 1966 returned meters to a large part of downtown.

However, angle of parking and spacing of meters for previous parallel parking reduced actual parking space with wide gaps between parking angles.

Chamber of Commerce conducted a poll of citizens in March 1966 to determine public attitude about parking. Five hundred eighty-six persons marked ballots in the straw vote with 223 favoring meterless parking with two-hour time limit, 181 favoring reinstallation of meters and 177 for continuance of free uncontrolled parking.

Despite the big majority voting for meterless parking, council in 1966 voted to re-install the meters.

Thrift, asking Monday night for new council action, pointed to the fact that increasing number of area towns were doing away with metered parking. He reported also on the trend for off-street parking areas in business areas.

Locally, he told councilmen that numerous merchants come in contact with customers who have tempers aroused because of having to pay a meter.

"It is peculiar, but a fact," Thrift said, "that many persons will not even bother to stoop and pick up a penny they drop on the street, but are reluctant to

Taking 'em Down

Patrolman Selma Q. Dickson left, and Mardell Sheppard take the 108th meter off its standard as they proceed to clear the downtown area Tuesday and Wednesday of parking meters. The new trial period of no-meter, no-limit free parking will continue to Jan. 2.

Young Leaders Appointed Rees to School Board -- Piland to Council

Two young men in Colorado City's business and professional field moved into public service Monday night.

Attorney Tom Rees, 27, partner in the law firm of Thompson & Rees, was appointed to board of trustees, Colorado Independent School District.

Druggist Eddie Piland, 28, owner of Eddie's Pharmacy, was named in similar manner to City Council.

Both fill vacancies created by recent resignations. Bennie Franks, school trustee transferred to Dallas by Sun Oil Company, and Henry Lewis, councilman, who gave up council duties to resume college studies while also continuing his tax-accounting office here.

The appointments were made during regular meetings of the school board and council.

Both accepted their appointments with attitudes for serving their community.

"I believe a person should not be taking away from his community," Piland told The Record, "but should be giving something back to his community in time and service."

"It is with recognition of this responsibility that I accept the responsibility for service on our City Council."

Rees voiced a similar belief that "everyone has the responsibility to serve his community as well as his business."

"I have worked with the schools as their attorney for some time and I feel close to the schools and their administrators . . . and I look forward to working with them in this new capacity as a school trustee."

Rees, originally from Big Lake, has B.S. and B.A. degrees from Rice University in Houston, where he was a varsity football player for two years. He received his law degree from Baylor University School of Law, where he was on the staff of the Law Review.

The new school trustee is the father of a son, Tom Jr., 2, teacher of the high school seniors' class and a member of the board at First Methodist Church, director for Jaycees and Colorado Country Club as well as scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 20.

He moved here in October 1965 to become a law partner of Charles C. Thompson.

Piland, the new councilman, moved here from Snyder 2 years 4 months ago to own his own pharmacy.

He is a native of Memphis, Tex., and a graduate of University of Oklahoma.

He is a director for both Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees, teacher of high school senior boys class at First Baptist Church and chairman for the upcoming community survey.

Piland, father of two sons — Mark, 4, and Jay Lynn, 6 months, is a member of National Association of Retail Druggists, American and Texas Pharmaceutical Associations.

He has been a career Marine for 13 years and on his second Vietnam tour has been in the Dong Ha section. In 1962 he served 13 months in the same country.

Shepherd is a tower operator in Marine communications — who was graduated from Loraine High and attended Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons University.

Shepherd, whose father is a salesman for Frank Motor Company, told his parents he was in Okinawa and would return to the U. S. by plane.

ANNUAL CALF ROPING SCHEDULED SEPT. 23

Mitchell County's annual calf roping is scheduled for Saturday night, Sept. 23.

The event, which offers an Elmer Pickens' hand-tooled saddle to the champion, will be open to Mitchell County residents with membership in Western Riding Club.

Sponsored by Western Riding Club, the calf roping will be another major event during Mitchell County Fair week.

Already on tap are the fair, Sept. 21-22-23, with parade, exhibits and carnival rides; Mitchell County's Old Settlers Reunion, Sept. 22, and Western Riding Club's 2nd Annual Appaloosa Horse Show, Sept. 23.

Contestants in the roping will decide in a special meeting before the event how to disperse fee money remaining after payment for the champion's saddle, according to Mrs. Dolores Wood, Western Riding Club secretary.

Marine Wounded 2 More Medals For Davis

Parents of a Mitchell County Marine learned their son had been wounded a second time in Vietnam fighting while another father and mother prepared to accept two more medals for their dead boy.

New casualty in Vietnam is Marine Gunnery Sergeant Max Shepherd, who talked via short wave radio Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Bud) Shepherd.

Scheduled to receive medals in ceremony Thursday (today) awarded posthumously to their son, Private First Class Robert O. (Tiger) Davis, are Mr. and Mrs. George E. Davis.

The awards are Republic of Vietnam's Military Merit Medal and Gallantry Cross with Palm.

Col. Philip J. Moore, commander of New Mexico-West Texas Sector Command with headquarters in Albuquerque, N.M., will present the medals to the soldier's parents at 5 p.m. in front of Mitchell County Courthouse.

Previous posthumous awards to Davis, killed in the summer of 1966 in Vietnam, were the Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

Shepherd notified his parents himself of his injuries — two wounds in the back — when he talked with them Saturday night.

He asked them to notify his wife, Carolyn, and six children who are residing in Pine Bluff, Ark.

The Marine gunnery sergeant, who has been in Viet Nam since April 29 with third Marine Air Wing, is on his second tour of combat duty there, received the Purple Heart last July 3 for wounds received earlier in action.

Shepherd, whose father is a salesman for Frank Motor Company, told his parents he was in Okinawa and would return to the U. S. by plane.

3 Games to Keep Home Fans Busy

Colorado High Wolves Friday night go after victory No. 2 of this young football season before the home folks.

The encounter with Class 6-A Roscoe will climax a busy week-end of football for local fans.

Coach Truman Nix's team decisive winner 25-8 over Class A Coahoma in their opener last week, will be heavy favorites against Roscoe, loser 6-14 to Stanton in their 1967 inaugural.

The 8 p.m. clash in Wolf Stadium will be the third game in two days on the Colorado City turf.

Colorado High's B-Team meets Ballinger B here Thursday evening at 7 p.m., immediately following the 5:30 p.m. contest between Colorado's and Ballinger's Freshmen.

Scheduled in Ballinger at 5:30 p.m. also Thursday is a fourth encounter between Colorado and Ballinger's 8th graders.

The Wolves will start practically the same eleven which opened last Friday against Coahoma. Only change will be the moving of Keaton

Grubbs to slot back, a change that has been in the mill for some time, but is definite this week with Benny Lamb still likely to be held out of rough action for another week to fully recover from a shoulder injury, and little Arthur Molina, the 128-pounder, shaken up in the Coahoma action.

Badly Burned Boy Improves

Reports of the condition of three-year-old Jesse Hernandez, patient in Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, Burns Institute Galveston Unit, are that he is making progress.

Jesse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcelino Hernandez, was seriously burned August 25 at his home, route 3, in the Pete Barkley Ranch, when leaking liquid gas became ignited, apparently from a hot water heater pilot. The boy's mother also suffered burns when she rushed to his rescue.

After treatment by a Colorado City physician who administered first aid, Jesse was flown by Colorado City Flying Service, with J. O. Dockrey Jr. as pilot, to the Shriners Burn Center for Children.

L. B. Elliott, member of the Suez Temple, arranged for his admission at the center, located at 610 Avenue E., Galveston. Mitchell County officials arranged for the emergency ambulance flight.

The boy suffered burns over about 90 percent of his body, Elliott said, but not all the burns were second or third degree.

Appaloosa Show Sept. 23

12 Halter, 15 Performance Classes

Western Riding Club will stage its second annual approved Appaloosa Horse Show here Saturday, Sept. 23.

Twenty-seven judging classes were announced Wednesday for the show by Leo Thompson, president of the Colorado City club.

Twelve of the classes will be in halter judging and 15 will be in performance.

Trophies will be awarded all first place winners in each class and to grand champions — for both halter and performance. Ribbons will be awarded also through five places in each class.

Western Riding Club's Appaloosa Show is approved by Texas Appaloosa Horse Club and The Appaloosa Horse Club, Inc. Rules of the Texas club will apply through the show.

Thompson will be arena director for the show, which will start at 9 a.m. Sept. 23, and Mrs. Dolores Wood, Western Riding secretary, will be show secretary.

All horses entered in the show must be registered in either the tentative or foundation listings of The Appaloosa Horse Club, Moscow, Idaho, according to Thompson. In addition, the animals must have required Appaloosa characteristics and sufficient color to be easily recognized as an Appaloosa.

Thompson said registration certificates for all horses must be submitted for inspection. There will be no limit on number of entries, however, a rider may ride only one horse per class.

Entry fees will be $6 per horse per class in halter and $11 per class in performance with $5 jackpot.

Exceptions for the general entry fees will be for cutting and roping classes, which will be $16 with $10 jackpot, and youth classes, which will be $3.

DURING FAIR

Pioneers Get Ready For Old-Timer Day

The 1967 version of Old-Timer Reunion will start with registration in Civic House, downtown Colorado City, from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 22, second day of Mitchell County Fair.

Celebrated here for more than three decades, the Old-Timer Reunion was first organized by the late Mrs. E. A. Barcroft who began the pioneer parties in the early 'thirties. Later on, the late Harry Ratliff served as chairman of plans for a number of years.

This year's plans are being made by a number of long-time residents of Colorado City and Mitchell County.

Program is set to start at 9:30 a.m. with County Judge Elmer Martin as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Lois (Douglas) Burns will be in charge of registration and identification cards for guests.

Mrs. Edgar Malors is official hostess, Mrs. Ed Richardson, hostess for the refreshment period. Both will be assisted by a number of members of pioneer families.

Mrs. James V. Payne will direct the program of entertainment features.

Austin McCloud, 32nd District Judge, will pay a memorial tribute to Mr. Ratliff, who was chiefly responsible for the founding of the historical museum here and for the continuation of Old-Timer celebrations.

Chief speaker will be Johnny Moore, attorney of Sweetwater, formerly of Colorado City. Mrs. Witt Hines will also speak as chairman of the Historical Survey Committee.

Immediately after the Old-Timer program the museum will be opened for visits by pioneer guests and home towners.

Miss Martha Earnest and Mrs. Burns will be museum hostesses, beginning at 11 a.m. and continuing through the day.

J. Ralph Lee is serving as finance chairman for the reunion this season.

Porter Richardson will be announcer and will conduct the awards session. Awards will go to oldest pioneer present, oldest native Mitchell Countyman, pioneer who travels longest distance to attend, youngest pioneer, and to the couple longest married.

All town and county citizens are invited, said Miss Earnest, whether they consider themselves old-timers or new-comers in Mitchell County.

Ed and Miss Violet Mosser are in charge of invitations to out-of-town pioneers.

Meters

place a penny in a parking meter."

The Chamber of Commerce group made it plain that no single parking plan will please all citizens, but that removal of meters possibly could be a step in the right direction.

Mayor John Chinn asked if the group had an alternate plan, but the business delegation said they had no pat solution, although Snyder was providing municipal parking area adjacent to downtown business area.

Councilman R. J. Hoback, pointing to previous inability for solid front either for or against meters, suggested that maybe the city should cut down the metal standards this time as well as removing the meter heads.

"Cut 'em down," Thrift said.

Council reserved the right to reappraise the parking situation with this trial free uncontrolled parking to continue until Jan. 2.

DeLaney Wins First Grid Prize

Rickey DeLaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don DeLaney, won $10 first prize in the Record's opening football guessing contest.

In second place with $8 cash award was Frances Petty of Roscoe.

Third prize of $5 went to Orvel Gilliam, 300 Rusk.

All three tied in selecting winners — missing only five games each. But DeLaney won first with his prediction of a 27-8 score for C-City in its game against Coahoma.

Games

than 200 yards on the ground last week — will again be Randy Parker at quarter, Co-Captain Ralph Lindsey at fullback and Dan Steakley at halfback.

Expected starters in the line will be ends Kerry Campbell and Kenny Key, tackles Sam Farham and Leslie Ellis, Guard Glenn Hunter (with Sammy Majors dividing time), and dual centers Jerel Graves and Johnny Paul Matthews.

C-City's speed is expected to be the deciding factor against Roscoe, a big, tough team anchored in the line by 225-pound Walter Clements and 230-pound Freddie Freeman at tackle slots.

Roscoe also has lettermen guards in Elgin Rannefield, probably their standout lineman, and David Tomlin and Billy Arpe. However, Rannefield was hurt in the Stanton game and may be hampered here Friday.

Stanley Holderman is an 185-pound letterman center that also gives strength to Roscoe line.

Quarterback David Pitts ran 55 yards for Roscoe's lone touchdown against Stanton. He is joined in the backfield by two-year lettermen Ken Welch, 155; Wayne McFaul, 155, letterman fullback, as the main offensive threats.

All four gates will be open Friday night for ticket purchasers at the stadium with home towners entering at the northwest and southwest gates, out of towners at northeast and southeast gates. Season ticket holders — and there are 213 of 'em this year — can enter at any of the gates.

Tickets for the C-City and Roscoe game can be purchased downtown at Landau's — both student and adult. The pre-game sale of tickets at Landau's will continue through Friday afternoon.

CONVERSATION CORNER

EVER have urges? You know . . . the urge to make a sassy or snappy comeback to your elders? (Elders for the this department are growing fewer and fewer, of course, but there are still some around.) Ever get the urge to giggle on some solemn occasion when all the other faces are like stiffly starched masks? Ever feel like shaking some practical joker . . . or walking out on the chronic (repe-hanger type? To each his own urge. Just so each learns to fight and conquer the urge to say the unwise, do the unkind thing on impulse.

URGE that sometimes catches me with defenses down is the urge to scream and yell at commercials that seem designed on purpose just to annoy and infuriate. Once in a blue moon there even comes the urge to write a mean letter of protest.

Right now it would be a protest about one in the Keep America Beautiful series (a public service announcement) which records sob's of a little boy named Timmy over his bad dream wherein "Little boys had no place to play because of all the ugly litter."

Because anonymous letters rate in my book right along with arson, there would be the honorable urge to sign it "Love and kisses, Ruth Coffey." And that wouldn't do, now would it?

URGES, like just about every other human trait, come in two categories — the good, the bad, the naughty, the nice . . . the fine, the foolish, the warm and generous, the cold and cruel.

With urges, as with all natural feelings, there must be choices, discrimination, decision, restraint.

Some of life's most shining moments come with the impulsive demonstration . . . touch of a friendly hand when the heart is fit to break . . . loving arms of children thrown hard around the neck when the spirit is tried . . . grin across the table from the man-or-woman-most-important . . . forgiveness, appreciation, affection, admiration, openly acknowledged. On impulse. Or sudden urge.

URGES and their effect depend always on the motive. Everybody has 'em — urges, impulses. It simply isn't normal never to have the urge to smash something . . . bang up the phone . . . scribble a nasty note . . . slam the door. Giving in to the urge is another matter.

Everybody is also blessed with kindly little impulses, too. Sometimes the impulse is more expressive of the real you than any considered, rationalized act.

What a terrible, frustrating world this would be if nobody ever learned to curb the destructive urge!

And what a wonderful respite it would be if everybody even just once a year . . . could celebrate one day indulging whimsical impulses . . . like wading barefoot in the rain flooded streets . . . shouting Hello to a perfect stranger . . . and calling long distance all the people in the world you like, wherever they are . . . collect.

TOOK advantage of a sudden impulse to jump up from the typewriter and go admire Brad Ratliff, two-month-old son of the Hubert Ratliff's of Houston, ready to sleep his way back to Houston with his parents. He's a beautiful baby.

Saw Amorla and Rusty Lee at lunch. . . Myrtle (Mrs. Sam) Wulfjen and her nephew from Abilene together . . . Ruth Barnett, wife of Joe . . . Ruth Dozier back in her office at County Library . . . Lillian Thomas, wife of Glenn, scanning new books on the rental shelf.

Ben Wilkinson was one of a lunch hour threesome . . . Martha Earnest was office visiting with more news of the '67 Old Timer Reunion, coming up Sept. 22.

FAMILIAR FACES here and there places belonged to Sims Palmer . . . L. J. Taylor . . . Brunet Mrs. A. W. Phillips getting ready to help her husband's parents celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary, Sunday.

Pioneer Spirit —

Our traditional old settlers reunion is only a week away on the calendar.

Of course, one of the driving forces behind this annual event, the late Harry Ratliff, will be missing this year. But other fine citizens who worked with him in the past are energetically moving ahead with plans for this 1967 reunion.

It is good every now and then to revitalize our link with history and the pioneers who first shaped this great area.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not for hanging on to yesterday, so to speak. I am, however, for programs like our reunion which pays tribute to sturdy pioneers and their spirit — which, in the finest sense, was for progress.

Chrysler Display

New '68 Models At Frank Motor

Chryslers for 1968—with improvements in the pattern styling which have characterized Chrysler for several years—go on display Thursday (today) in Colorado City at Frank Motor Company.

Styling improvements have been made to the front and rear, a new roof is provided for three different hardtops and several convenience features have been added to the Chrysler line.

Refinements which make each of the 15 models more luxurious and the styling changes establish strong identity for each of the five series: Newport, Newport Custom, 300, New Yorker, and Town & Country Wagons.

"In planning the 1968 Chrysler the company has followed the pattern which for the past several years has contributed to the increasing popularity of these cars," said Frank Deregibus, Frank Motor Company owner. "The changes have been made only when they improve the overall appearance or performance of a particular model."

The sporty 300 series, available in convertible, two-door and four-door hardtop models, offers for the first time headlamps which are concealed behind movable doors which match the rest of the grille. The 300 four-door hardtop has a new roof as do comparable models in the Newport and Newport Custom series.

Although the over-all sculptured metal appearance which has made Chrysler distinctive is retained, the styling changes to front and rear fenders, grilles, and rear deck areas provide strong model year and individual series identification.

The high-speed performance of the 4-barrel 383 cubic inch V-8 engine, an option available on Newport, Newport Custom and Town & Country Wagons has been increased by adding a new intake manifold, and air valve carburetor, a low-restriction dual exhaust system, and cylinder heads previously used only on the high performance 440 TNT engine. Combustion chambers have been modified to reduce exhaust emissions.

There are similar combustion chamber improvements on the 440 cu. in. engine, which also incorporates the 440 TNT cylinder heads. The 440 is standard on the 300 and New Yorker models, and optional on Town & Country Wagons. The high performance 440 TNT engine, an option available on Newport, Newport Custom, 300 and New Yorker, incorporates an air valve carburetor, an oil pan windage tray and combustion chamber modifications to reduce exhaust emissions.

An optional automatic speed control unit, vacuum-actuated, is controlled by a pushbutton and knob on the end of the turn signal lever. It enables the driver to maintain a constant speed. The unit disengages automatically when the brake pedal is depressed. Rotation of the resume-speed knob after the brake is released automatically returns the car to its previously set speed.

A new standard item on wagons is the wood-grain body side ornamentation, and an optional wagon tailgate window wiper/washer is offered for the first time.

Added to the 14 safety items introduced on all models last year as standard equipment are nine additional items or improvements in equipment for occupant safety, which will be standard in 1968. The Cleaner Air System is also standard on all 1968 models.

Chrysler Styling For '68

This sporty 300 series exemplifies the styling Chrysler automobiles have in their 1968 models, which go on display Thursday at Frank Motor Company. Styling improvements have been made to front and rear, new roof provided for hardtops and additional features added.

Senator's View Saving Our Wildlife

By RALPH YARBOROUGH
United States Senator

Last week in the United States Senate I introduced a resolution urging the United States to speak out for the welfare of wildlife around the world.

Through carelessness and neglect, and sometimes through criminal acts, man has already exterminated 250 species of animals. Such animals as the beautiful African leopard and the whooping crane which winter along our Texas coast are threatened with extinction.

My resolution calls on the United States to take the lead in arranging a world wildlife conference, to protect and control birds and animals which are becoming dangerously rare.

Not long ago in the United States there were great herds of buffalo, and millions of birds like the passenger pigeon traveling over our United States. They were a part of the land, a sign that ours was a fertile, healthy nation. They are gone now. The passenger pigeon is extinct. Except for a few game preserves and zoos, buffaloes are lost to Americans.

This same tragedy is occurring all over the world. Because of uncontrolled hunting and lack of concern, some 250 additional animal species face bleak futures. The leopard, the polar bear, the orangutan, the blue whale and the American alligator are just a few of the species that are dying out. Newsweek magazine, in an article entitled "Can Africa's Wildlife Be Saved?", notes that in 50 years man has killed off 90 per cent of the game population in East Africa. The New York Times of August 30th warns that the American alligator is in danger. The article says illegal poachers in Florida, Texas, Louisiana and elsewhere are slaughtering alligators before they become half grown to sell their hides. These poachers are out to make a fast buck. They do not care a bit about beauty or natural history, or extinction of a whole species.

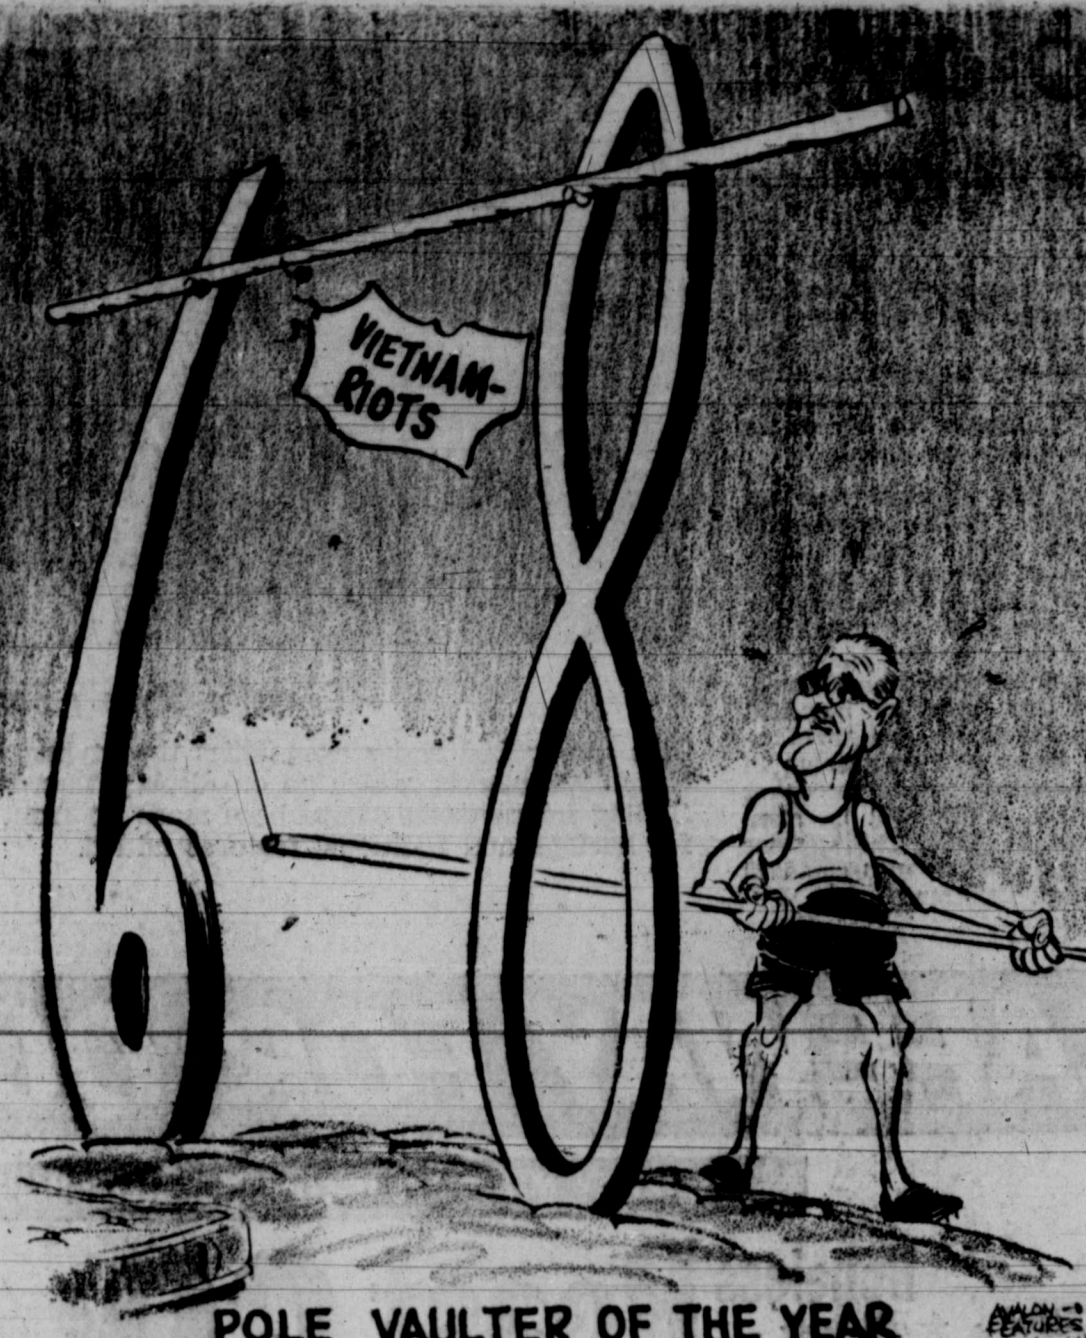

The Texas Legislature this year passed four new laws to protect our Texas wildlife. The horned frog, the Texas tortoise and pelicans and duck hawks were brought under state protection from hunters and poachers.

State Representative Otha Barker of Matagorda County fought to protect the alligator in Texas, and he succeeded in getting a law covering Matagorda, Wharton, Brazoria and Galveston counties. I hope this law will be strictly enforced to protect our Texas alligators. Alligator hides are selling for as much as $6.50 a foot for shipment to tanneries today, and poachers are preying on the remaining alligators in Texas every day.

A world wildlife conference should establish international controls on trade in fur and animal products. Hunting should not be abolished, but it must be controlled.

Prosperous nations like the United States should also help the developing countries set up conservation programs. And we must educate the public, both in the United States and abroad, on the need for wildlife conservation. This is no mere sentimental question. It is a question of economics as well as morality.

Man has shown an infinite capacity to destroy. Let us foster a desire to preserve, before it is too late.

POLE VAULTER OF THE YEAR

State Capital Highlights Can Board Be $90 Million Wrong

By VERN SANFORD

Texas Press Association
Texans will face a $192,900,000 new tax bill before the 60th Legislature gets through with its work next year, Legislative Budget Board staff predicts.

Gov. John Connally and Speaker Ben Barnes contend the Board's figure is far too high. Barnes says the estimate is "wrong by $90,000,000."

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, on the other hand, feels the staff not only is within the ballpark but is actually conservative.

"I would not be surprised to see the new revenue need soar to over $200,000,000 by the middle of next year," says Smith.

Connally made clear he will not call lawmakers into special session to appropriate funds for the second half of the biennium and pass a tax bill until next year. He refused to state what date he has in mind, although speculation persists that there will be no tax session until after June primary elections.

At the first budget board meeting since the Legislature adjourned last spring, staff members predicted the present general fund spending level will jump from $452,800,000 to $470,300,000 next fiscal year.

Staff projections see need for a $600,000 increase in funds for health, hospitals, special schools and youth council facilities; a $5,600,000 cut in executive and administrative agency spending; $15,800,000 for education; and $1,000,000 more for the Legislature.

Administrative agency spending: $15,800,000 for education; and $1,000,000 more for the Legislature.

SMITH ANNOUNCES — Four days after Governor Connally returned from an African hunting safari, Lieutenant Governor Smith told him of his plans to run for governor. He asked, but did not get, Connally's pledge of support.

Smith then released his official announcement, which contained a criticism of the Connally fiscal policies and complained of too much power centralized in the governor's office.

Connally said he will decide whether to run again himself or not after swapping talk with Texans in all areas and figuring out "what is in the best interests of the people and the state." As for supporting Smith, he commented: "You are not ever very enthusiastic about supporting anybody who announces against you."

Speaker Barnes told voters in his home district (Brown, Coleman, Comanche and Runnels Counties) that he probably is going to run for lieutenant governor, although he might still be a candidate for governor if Connally retires. The speaker will not make a formal announcement before next month.

OIL OUTPUT CUT — Railroad Commission ordered a big whack in the Texas oil production allowable for September.

Slacking off of Mid-East tensions will mean more oil than Texas can use, Commission found. Its order reduced the 54 per cent of potential allowable factor to 46.7 per cent. Net effect is that production was at old high figure for first week of the month and will be some 44.5 per cent for the remaining 23 days.

Cut is about 180,500 barrels a day or 5,415,000 barrels for September. Slated-down allowable will amount to 3,133,500 barrels a day.

DRAFT QUOTA CUT — Texas draft boards are being called on to provide 977 men for induction in October. This compares with quotas of 1,180 for September and 1,421 for August. Quotas for July and June were 974 and 975.

The 155 boards are scheduled to send 4,000 for pre-induction mental and physical examinations during October, according to Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director. The same number was forwarded for the pre-induction exams in September.

Quota is the state's share of a national call of 17,000 men for the Army in October.

STATE JOBS UP — Tex

Voice At Home Congressman Reports

By OMAR BURLINSON
U. S. Congressman
17th District

Because of Labor Day, most members of Congress visited their constituents this past week.

Many of them probably heard that the American people are dissatisfied today about many of the things the Government is doing or failing to do.

What are the people saying? What do they want?

If our area is representative, people are tired of the state of fear and uneasiness which has enveloped them. Extremists in our midst, both whites and negroes, have resorted to a process of intimidation and blackmail commonly called "protests" and "demonstrations."

PEOPLE WANT the agencies of Government, particularly the courts, to recognize the difference between "freedom of speech" and incitement to riot. Especially do they want to see more courage shown in high places in dealing with disorders. Living conditions should be improved, but people do not believe that criminals and distributors of peace should go unpunished, nor these circumstances be the sole excuse for lawlessness.

People are tired of reading what the Stokely Carmichaels and the Rap Browns say in rallies as they openly preach rebellion. They want to see such persons prosecuted. If existing laws are inadequate, they want Congress to strengthen the statutes. Most of all, they want to see law enforced.

IT IS HOPED that members of Congress get the message that people are tired of political legerdemain. A lot, if not all, are fed up with attempts to curtail favor with groups by the use of taxpayers' money.

People have the right to know why Congress has not exercised a closer check on all Government spending. They are tired of seeing big deficits pile up year after year and to be told that deficit spending can go on indefinitely and that confidence in the future of the dollar can still be preserved.

Public officials in Washington should be getting the message that people are tired of the handling of the Viet Nam war. They want to know, and rightfully so, why our military men are not given a free hand to do what is necessary to get it over. Many have the feeling that we are playing "chicken," which involves the lives of American boys. They want to know why we do not bomb every enemy base and supply line, as well as blockade the ports of North Viet Nam.

PEOPLE are tired of reading that their money has been used to make loans to some governments to help them buy arms and then lining up in the United Nations against us.

People have the right to complain of being told that big deficits are due solely to the Viet Nam war. They are tired of being told that the country can afford to spend unprecedented billions on doubtful programs.

People are not happy with the prospect of having their taxes and mail rates increased when they feel that Washington is not spending their tax money wisely.

THERE IS REASON to complain about the increase in the cost of living while strikes and the threat of strikes continues.

People want a peaceful society, a decent society, a society in which a fair deal for everybody transcends political deals in the use of governmental power at the Federal, State and local levels.

Maybe official Washington has gotten the word that "you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but you can not fool all of the people all the time." To sum up, our people want courage, integrity and a conscience that overrides the temptations of pure old politics.

Sermon Of The Week 'God Takes The Care'

By FRED BREWTON
Pastor, First
Presbyterian Church
Text: "Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication let your requests be made known unto God." Philippians 4:5.

Near the close of his life Paul tells us how to carry out the Lord's work with out worry, anxiety and petty care. Paul writes, "Be careful for nothing."

He does not mean that we are not to be concerned about doing our responsible work.

This is not an excuse for laziness. It is an order to get rid of useless anxieties and worries.

How is an order to be carried out? Paul gives the plan simply and clearly, "in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God."

FIRST THERE is prayer. Remember, prayer was the first thing in Paul's Christian life. Prayer is the practicing the presence of God. It needs not consist of a single uttered word.

It is a mood, an attitude of spirit and mind. It is developed so that the spirit becomes receptive to the will of God.

Prayer is the healing medicine for the disease of anxiety. When the habit of constant communing with God is established it throws out the old habit of worrying over everything in life. This prayer life is the true sign of the Christian that shows he does have faith in God, that he does believe in the power of Jesus Christ to save.

How can the Christian believe in the power of Christ to save him from his greatest sins, if first he does not take these lesser troubles to Christ for him to shoulder and take care of? To free oneself from the net of frustration in this world one must make the effort to build a consecrated prayer life.

NEXT, SO THAT we will not turn our backs upon the work that needs to be done, Paul instructs us to "be cheerful in the Lord." God help in everything we do, "by . . . supplication let your requests be made known unto God."

It is now, in God's plan, after the habit of prayer is faithfully established that we come to God and ask him to help us with our daily needs.

Our God who is able to create heaven and earth is very able to govern our lives no matter how complex they may seem to us. He is able! He has given us life itself, let us honor him with our trust that he is able to care for his own creation.

THE THIRD STEP in God's plan as written by Paul is: "with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God."

This modern civilization which upsets us so much at times is certainly a blessing of God if we will only accept it as such. One reason we do not see ourselves in harmony with our surroundings is that we have not thanked God for his bountiful goodness.

God is good, his creation is good, and by looking upon life as being God's gift on life as being God's good ways to do away with gloom and our anxiety.

Let us never forget the third and last step in God's plan to care for us is our own thanksgiving for all his blessings.

Outdoors In Texas Blow-up From Mixing Cartridges

By VERN SANFORD

Accidental mixing of cartridges is the most common cause of gun blowups.

Usually, this happens when a gunner grabs a handful of hulls and crams them in his pocket without looking. If he is shooting a 12 or 16-gauge shotgun and slips in a 20-gauge shell, he is headed for trouble.

Some hunters who are affluent enough to own two guns of different gauges long have recognized this. They have been buying different brands or at least checking over their supply of cartridges before going. If you load your gun slowly, you can tell by the feel whether it is a 12 or 20-gauge. But if you are on a pass, shooting doves or ducks, lots of times you'll reload without ever giving a thought to fingering the shell for size.

Although ammunition makers long have recognized this hazard and printed notices on their boxes, it remained for Federal to really pioneer in the field of coloring.

You can immediately distinguish the gauge of the shell by its color. So instantaid.

ce, the 12 gauge in all load now is a deep purple. There is no mistaking it.

The 16 gauge is loaded in a bright yellow case; the 20 is in a deep red.

Thus a shooter can tell at a glance whether his shells are mixed. Perhaps others in the industry will follow a similar plan.

Many reloaders have been doing this for a long time. Some of them swap among themselves, getting all empty in the same color for each of the three gauges.

Reloading also has picked up immeasurably since the major manufacturers have started selling components. For a long time reloading was practiced only by a few who did a lot of shooting. Now there are reloading clubs. Three or four men will get together and buy first class automatic equipment. None of the individuals may have the necessary cash to buy the more expensive equipment. But jointly they can.

With the automatic equipment they are assured of both speed and safety. When the reload is set up it will decap size, insert the new primer and add the uniform powder and shot charges according to the measuring bar and every shell then will be crimped with a uniform load.

Shooters feel, even with amortizing their equipment, they can save upward of 50 percent on the price of a box of shells. This, of course, is provided they are able to get their empties without cost, or at a minimum of one cent each.

Getting empties today, however, isn't as easy as it used to be. So many shooters are saving them. This is especially true around the ranges.

Where shooters congregate in certain places, like the white-wing hunt in the Lower Valley, there is competition for the empties. If a shooter doesn't want them himself, the man standing next to him probably will pick them up. And if not, small boys follow close behind the shooters, gather up the empties and sell them for $1 per hundred.

It also is possible to buy empties from the manufacturers. However, this increases the price somewhat, and lowers the saving on reloading.

But at the same time, the major manufacturers are assisting in holding down the prices of other components. For many years shot, powder and primers were not readily available in many places. They were produced by a few smaller companies, or perhaps bought wholesale from the majors and resold.

Now you not only can get components produced by the two big companies — Winchester and Remington — but from many others.

And there is a wide choice of reloading equipment available at prices ranging from $9 up.

Taxpayers Quiz For Income Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — My wife and I both work. Can I claim her exemption for income tax withholding purposes?

A — Yes you can if she does not also claim her exemption. The law does not permit two taxpayers to claim the same exemption.

To make a change in the number of exemptions claimed, file a new withholding certificate, Form W-4, with your employer. If you decide to take your wife's exemption, she must file a Form W-4 to drop her exemption with her employer.

Q — Do I have to keep track of the value of our wedding gifts for tax purposes?

A — No, these gifts won't be taxable to you.

Q — Are there any booklets that explain the federal tax on trucks?

A — The highway use tax on motor vehicles is explained in Publication No. 349, Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck Tractors, and Buses. Send a post card to your district office for a free copy.

Those liable for this tax must file Form 2290, Federal Use Tax Return on Highway Motor Vehicle, by August 31 to cover the tax period beginning July 1.

Q — Is a foreign exchange student taxed on income earned in the U. S.?

A — Money earned in this country will most likely be taxable. Details on what U. S. taxes a foreign student may be liable for are contained in the booklet, Document No. 5588, "Tax Advice for Foreign Scholars and Visitors on Official Educational and Cultural Exchange Programs," available at IRS district offices.

Expanded Plymouth Line Has 64 Models For '68

The 1968 Plymouth line of cars goes on display here Thursday (today) celebrating Plymouth's 40th anniversary with fresh, modern styling, new models, engine improvements and new luxury options.

Premier showing of the '68 models is at Frank Motor Company, Plymouth dealer.

The Plymouth lineup of standard-size Fury, an expanded list of intermediates, Barracuda, sports cars and the compact Valiant brings 64 models to market for 1968.

Frank Derogibus, owner of Frank Motor Company, said the new Plymouth line is the most complete and varied ever offered by Plymouth.

"We can offer smartly designed models ranging from the most economical compact to the most luxurious standard-size cars we have ever built for the lower-price field," he said. "In addition, we have completely new styling for our intermediate-size cars, special sport models, and a wide choice of station wagons for buyers who want more competitive performing cars or greater utility."

THE INTERMEDIATE line has been restyled and is an all-new car, featuring flowing body lines and a lower silhouette. There are 23 models in the intermediate lineup, which includes Belvedere, Road Runner, Satellite, Sports Satellite and GTX.

Intermediate station wagons have been upgraded and the top-of-the-line Satellite Sport Wagon offers wood-grained body ornamentation on the sides and rear. All Plymouth wagons offer as optional equipment for 1968 a squeeze washer/wiper concealed inside the tailgate to clean rear windows on station wagons.

Intermediate wagons for 1968 have a double hinged tailgate which doubles as a door. When the handle is pushed in one direction, the tailgate opens to one side. When it is pushed in the opposite direction, the tailgate drops down.

PLYMOUTH FURY, which has enjoyed the largest increase of any volume car in the industry during the 1967 model year, brings forth an expanded lineup with 27 offerings for 1968. New are two-door fasttop models in the Fury III line.

Styling has been refined in the Fury with main appearance changes at the front and rear. There is a new grille designed around thin-line horizontal bars which adds to the low, wide appearance. An all-new rear end emphasizes the wide, big car value of the Fury.

Vertically stacked headlamps are retained and identifying name plates are flush on the front fenders.

Fury station wagons have been upgraded and three different selections are offered.

The Suburban, the Custom Suburban and the Sports Suburban. Both the two and three-seat Sport Suburban wagons feature wood-grain exterior trim.

BARRACUDA, WHICH was successfully expanded to a full three-car line in 1967, offers styling refinements in the front and rear and increased engine availability.

An all-new, high-winding 340 cubic inch engine will replace the 273 four-barrel powerplant as the basic performance engine for the Formula "S" Barracudas. The 383 cubic inch engine also will be available in the Formula "S" package.

The 273 cubic inch engine has been dropped from the line and the standard V-8 is a 318 cubic inch powerplant, previously available only in intermediate and standard sized Plymouths.

The Barracuda hardtop has a new backlight. Both the convertible and sport fastback continue to be available in '68.

VALIANT, AN ECONOMY leader of American compact sedans, offers styling refinements and increased engine availability for '68.

In addition to the 170 cubic inch six and 225 cubic inch six cylinder engines and the 273 cubic inch V-8 that were available in 1967, Valiants can be equipped with the 318 cubic inch V-8 in 1968.

Eight models of Valiant are available for the model year.

Appearance changes center around the front and rear, with a new divided grille of horizontal design outlined by a bright metal moulding.

Added to the 14 safety items introduced on all models last year as standard equipment are nine additional items or improvements in equipment for occupant safety, which will be standard in 1968. The Cleaner Air System is also standard on all 1968 models.

New Luxury For '68 Plymouth Fury

Plymouth sales success in 1967, the Fury, increases its appeal for 1968 with styling refinements, increased models and additional comfort options as evidenced by the four-door hardtop above. The '68 Plymouth models go on display here Thursday at Frank Motor Company.

What's To Blame For Lower Crop Production

How many farmers in Mitchell County are not getting the production from the land which they did in the past?

Most of the time it is blamed on rainfall but maybe it should be blamed on soil condition.

Many farmers think that if they put terraces across their fields they are really practicing soil conservation. "This is a start but only a start," states A. K. McCarty Jr., supervisor of the Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District.

How many years have farms had crops planted on them and nothing put back into the soil? Soil cannot maintain itself over a long period of time by taking all of the production off the land each year.

A faster and easier way to build up soil is through a conservation cropping system which means the use of crop rotation, crop residue and fertilizer according to John L. Kazda of the Soil Conservation Service.

It takes about 2,000 pounds of dry residue turned back to the soil each year to maintain soil condition and production at the present level, Kazda reports. In many cases, this production has dropped to a very low level and will require more than 2,000 pounds of residue to maintain production and build up the soil for higher production.

"The use of a conservation cropping system can do much to open up the soil to where it will take in rainfall that the terrace holds," states Kazda. Decomposition of crop residue to form soil organic matter will improve the soil and production from the land.

This is the 1968 Plymouth Fury.
It still looks long and low and wide. Only richer. And much more beautiful.

We made our 2-door sedans look like hardtops.
And we created a new low-cost high-performance car called the Road Runner.
Its horn goes "Beep-Beep!"

The right
answer...

Proper light at the study table

Proper light for home study makes learning easier, helps prevent eyestrain, leads to better grades. You can make sure you have the right answer to your child's home study needs if you choose a study lamp that provides plenty of good light. The lamp should be tall enough to spread light evenly over the work area and properly shaded to conceal the light source from the eyes. A diffusing bowl is recommended to soften the light and prevent glare.

See your dealer soon for a study light that's right.
