Rescuers Near 9 In Mine

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (UPI)—Nine miners entombed in a mountain cavern for the past week reported today that for the first time they could hear the sound of rescuers drilling a shaft above them.

The main drill had dug 140 feet deep—more than halfway to the men—by 8 a.m. when drilling had to be stopped until a broken cooling unit was repaired. Work was resumed before noon.

During the time the repairs were being made, Andre Martinet, foreman in charge of the trapped men, reported over the emergency telephone that had been lowered into the mine, that the sound of the rescue drill could be heard. He said the men slept well during the night.

Once work resumed, engineers at the shaft head said they hoped the drill would shortly reach the 164 foot mark.

The chalk miners have been entombed an estimated 264 feet below Mount Rivel since a cave-in last Monday.

Pierre Aubert, prefect of the Jura Department where the mine is located, conferred this morning with five medical experts from Lyon, an apparent indication that he feared rescue might still be a day or two away. He also discussed the case with two German engineers who told him they had known cases of miners being rescued after 14 days.

Both Aubert and mine officials described the general health and spirits of the nine as "excellent."

A total of 14 miners was buried. Nine were discovered to be alive. They have been receiving food and warm clothing through a narrow tube. The fate of the other five was not known.

'Mods,' 'Rockers' Injure Bobbies In Wild Outbreak

HASTINGS, England (UPI)—Three members of Britain's first airlifted riot squad were injured today in a wild riot of stone-throwing between teen-age "Mods" and "Rockers."

The body of a 15-year-old boy was washed ashore here this morning. Police were investigating whether it was an accidental holiday drowning or connected with the long weekend's brawls.

Another youth, about 20, was found dying on the concrete promenade at Margate, a resort 70 miles from Hastings. He had apparently fallen off a cliff during the night.

He died en-route to the hospital.

Scores of persons, including girls, were roughed up or injured in teen-age fights. Cafe owner Patrick Cozens, 27, needed 20 stitches to close a gash inflicted by a teen-ager with a broken glass.

Twenty-three youths were arrested in the Hastings area alone.

The teen-agers and their "birds," or girl friends, had buzzed in on motorcycles or scooters when word was passed on the grapevine that "Hastings is the place this weekend."

The "Mods" wear long, beetle-style haircuts and velvet collars. This weekend they far outnumbered the "Rockers," who prefer black-leather jackets and blue jeans.

FLEES TO EAST

BERLIN (UPI)—A 23-year-old East Berlin man escaped to the West under bursts of Communist gunfire in broad daylight Friday.

He scrambled and tore his way through three barbed-wire barricades. Communist border guards in a wooden watchtower fired 10 submachinegun bursts but failed to hit him.

Arrest of Negro Woman Triggers Night-Long Riot

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI)—More than 500 screaming, chanting Negroes battled club-wielding police Sunday night and early today in a riot triggered by the arrest of a Negro woman on a charge of drunkenness.

The mob threw bricks, stones, bottles, broken glass, ash cans and garbage at police from rooftops and the street. Police used nightsticks and fired warning shots to bring the mob under control.

Thirty-two persons were injured, including 17 policemen. Fourteen persons were arrested. One of the injured was UPI cameraman John Morrison who was cut on the head by a flying object.

Civil rights leaders pressed to meet with city officials today and prepared to go into the neighborhood to talk with residents.

It was the worst riot in the city's history and the third predominantly Negro neighborhood in the New York metropolitan area to be rocked by riots in the past two weeks.

Scores were injured in riots that broke out in Harlem July 17 and several days later in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

In upstate New York scores were injured and four were killed in riots a week ago in Rochester. A state of emergency was declared and National Guardsmen were called in.

Hours after today's rioting ended, more than 100 helmeted police patrolled the strife-torn area.

During the melee, several stores were damaged and at least one, a grocery, was looted by the rioters.

"They cleaned it out," a police official said.

At the height of the disturbance police fired warning shots into the air and swung nightsticks.

At one point a car full of Negroes tried to smash through a police barricade set up across Grand Street, scene of the rioting.

Some officers and reporters almost were run down by the auto as it crashed into the barricade. Police fired several shots into the vehicle.

The riot was touched off when police tried to arrest Dolores Shannon, 26, in the Booker T. Washington public housing project.

A Negro, Walter Mays, 34, was sitting on his porch nearby and objected to the way the woman was handled.

Police charged he attacked the arresting officer. Negroes charged police attacked Mays.

In any case Mays was arrested and taken to 4th Precinct headquarters while scores of Negroes shouted, "police brutality! police brutality!"

Parolmen at the scene were pelted with rocks and garbage and called for help. More than 100 policemen were rushed to the scene in 30 squad cars and motorcycles.

"We sent every available man to the scene," a police dispatcher said.

News of the riot spread like wildfire, and a dozen Negro leaders flocked to the scene to try to quiet the crowd.

NAACP leader Franklin Williams talked over a loud speaker urging the crowd to "stay cool."

It was the worst riot in the city's history and the third predominantly Negro neighborhood in the New York metropolitan area to be rocked by riots in the past two weeks.

Both Parties Priming 'Big Guns' for Fight

By United Press International
The Democrats and the Republicans are unlimbering their big oratorical guns even before the formal beginning of hostilities in what is expected to be a fiercely fought election campaign.

President Johnson spent a quiet Sunday at the White House, and GOP presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater an equally uneventful day with his family at Balboa, Calif., but others in their respective parties were active.

Republican vice presidential candidate William E. Miller led the GOP attack in a Sunday television interview when he accused "entrenched Democratic political machines" for racial unrest in Rochester, N.Y., and in Harlem.

Miller charged that the machines have stayed in power "by setting class against class and creed against creed and appealing to the Negro vote and promising everything, unable to deliver...creating the frustrations which exist in these large cities."

The New York congressman drew fire from Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey when he said that he and Goldwater refused to reject specifically the support of the John Birch Society or the Ku Klux Klan because "we simply don't believe in indicting people by groups...any individual has a right to be judged on his own philosophy."

Bailey said, "the American people have a right to know if Congressman Miller and Sen. Goldwater intend to keep the Republican party in bed with the Ku Klux Klan."

In New York, Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., considered the leading contender for his party's No. 2 spot, said that not even the so-called civil rights "white backlash" could win the election for Goldwater because the Republican candidate has a "nervous finger on the nuclear (See FIGHT, Page 3)

Singer's Body Found in Woods

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—"Gentleman Jim" Reeves, a leading country music singer, and his pianist, Dean Manuel, were found dead Sunday in the wreckage of a light plane that crashed two days before.

The plane crashed during a thunderstorm only 50 yards from an unoccupied house in a thickly wooded suburban area of this country music capital.

Reeves, a successful recording artist, was until recently a member of the famed Grand Ole Opry, hit hard by a second tragedy in little more than a year.

The deaths raised to eight the number of country and western music artists killed in accidents since four Grand Ole Opry entertainers died in a plane crash near Camden, Tenn., in March 1963.

Reeves and Manuel were returning from a business trip to Batesville, Ark., when the plane faded from a radar screen. Civil Aeronautics Board investigators were investigating the cause of the crash.

R. E. Newton, 28, an Air Force veteran and one of 500 volunteers searching for the plane, said the bodies were still inside the craft when he found it despite the impact that scattered wreckage through the woods.

Joint memorial services will be held here Tuesday. Reeves will be buried in Carthage, Tex., and Manuel will be buried in a local cemetery.

Reeves, 40, was a native of Panola County, Tex., and became one of the most successful recording artists in his field. His best selling records included "Bimbo," "Mexican Joe," "Am I Losing You," "Anna Marie" and "Hell Have To Go," the No. 1 seller of 1960.

Hope for College Placed in Hands Of State Panel

300 Persons Jam Meeting Room For Public Hearing on Issue

Pampa's hopes for a junior college were placed in the hands of five members of the State Board of Education this morning.

The committee arrived in Pampa late Saturday night and toured Gray County Sunday afternoon.

The junior college committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce presented the request for a junior college to the group at 8 a.m. today.

This meeting preceded a public hearing which opened at 10 a.m.

A crowd of some 300 jammed the Coronado Inn's Starlight Room for the public hearing and some dissenting comment was expected. E. L. (Smiley) Henderson, chairman of the Pampa chamber committee, however, asked to hear from those supporting the move first, since no one voiced disapproval in early stages of the meeting.

During the first meeting, Henderson outlined the need for a college in Pampa and what it would mean to the economy.

He pointed to a recent survey of Lubbock which showed that the average person has an 11th grade education. He said that if this level could be raised one grade, it would mean an additional 50 million annually to the economy of Lubbock.

Henderson also emphasized that the principal need of the college in Pampa is to provide an institute of higher learning for the students of the county.

He told the members that it is becoming increasingly harder for students to enter colleges. He said that last year alone, Houston University turned away two out of three college applicants and Rice University turned away 2,000.

Travis Lively, Pampa businessman, said that the request for the junior college in Pampa was not a spur of the moment thing. He said that many long years of study and exploration has been spent investigating the feasibility of a college here.

In the request this morning the members were told the college would have an enrollment of 150 students in 1966-67, and some 600 by 1972-73.

The members were told that approximately $1.4 million dollars would be needed to build the college.

These funds would be derived from a countywide bond issue based on approximately 42 cents per $100 valuation.

If the request is granted, the Military Pondering Meaning of Attack

By CHARLES BERNARD
HONOLULU (UPI)—Top military aides at this Pacific command post today were studying the implications of the attack by three North Vietnamese torpedo boats on the destroyer USS Maddox to determine if the action meant a shift in Communist policy in Southeast Asia.

Military and diplomatic sources here and in Washington made it clear, however, that the United States would continue to meet such attacks with the swift retaliation dealt the Communist torpedo boats Sunday.

U. S. Pacific Commander Adm. Ulysses Grant Sharp Jr. called the attack on the Maddox "unprovoked" in a statement released from his headquarters here. And he warned that "if somebody shoots at us we will shoot back at them."

No Damage Sustained
The Maddox sustained no damage or casualties in the attack which occurred in international waters, about 35 miles off the coast of North Vietnam. One of the boats launched three torpedoes at the destroyer and then opened fire with its 37 millimeter guns.

The Maddox returned the fire with its five-inch guns and four Navy jet fighters from the aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga set down a blanket of machine gun and rocket fire. One of the Communist boats was stopped dead in the water and the other two limped away damaged, but it was not known if they suffered casualties.

Sharp was asked before entering a conference with his top aides if the attack might reflect a possible change in Communist tactics.

"If they are so bold as to shoot at us, it is a change," Sharp replied.

Checking Charges
Sharp and his aides also were trying to determine if the attack had any connection with a charge made by North Vietnam Sunday that four U.S. fighter-bombers from Laos had fired bombs and rockets into a North Vietnamese border village, wounding one person and destroying many homes.

The Pacific commander said U.S. naval vessels had operated in the area of the attack many times and that Sunday's incident marked the first time a ship had encountered hostile action.

Union Employees Go to Work on 'Temporary' Basis

DUMAS, Tex. (UPI)—Union members stayed on the job today at Shamrock Oil Co.'s Dumas plant but only on a minute-by-minute basis, officials said.

Local 4-487 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union is negotiating with the firm in their demand for higher wages and better working conditions. The old contract between the local and the plant expired July 1.

Other OCAW locals at refineries all over Texas have been negotiating the past week and most of them reached agreement satisfactory to both sides.

A midnight Friday strike deadline had been extended by the Denver headquarters of the OCAW.

US Also Increases Air Cover

By ALVIN SPIVAK
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today ordered the Navy to continue patrolling with shoot-to-kill orders the Gulf of Tonkin to join the where the U.S. destroyer Maddox was fired on Sunday by Communist PT boats.

Johnson's office said, he was sending another destroyer to the Gulf of Tonkin to join the Maddox and that he was providing combat air cover for the ships.

The President called reporters into his office to announce that he had instructed the Navy to continue patrolling in the Gulf of Tonkin off the North Vietnamese coast where the destroyer Maddox was attacked Sunday by three Communist torpedo patrol boats.

He said a destroyer would be added to the one already on patrol, thus doubling the force.

He said bluntly there also would be a "combat air patrol over the destroyers" with orders to shoot as needed.

Johnson said he told the Navy to issue these orders to the commanders of the combat aircraft and the two destroyers.

"To attack any force which attacks them in international waters."

"To attack not only with the objective of driving off this force but of destroying it."

The Maddox was attacked Sunday by three torpedo patrol boats but drove them off with the help of four U.S. fighter planes from the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga.

One of the Communist boats was stopped dead in the water and the other two limped away. The Maddox suffered no damage or casualties.

The President said his instructions were "conveyed yesterday to the appropriate people."

The President acted after discussing the situation at the White House Sunday with top military and diplomatic advisers, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance, and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Sharp made it clear that U.S. ships operating in Southeast Asian waters would not be intimidated by the attack.

PRAGUE RADIO 'SINKS,' 'UNSINKS' U. S. SHIP

VIENNA (UPI)—Radio Prag's official voice of Communist Czechoslovakia, "sank" the U.S. destroyer Maddox in seven newscasts, then said it was "strange" the vessel could have escaped undamaged in the attack by three Communist PT boats, Western monitors reported today.

Both radio Moscow and radio Bucharest, the other Communist stations reporting the clash in the Gulf of Tonkin, said the American destroyer escaped unscathed in their first broadcasts.

But Prague radio, ignoring official U.S. reports, repeated in seven newscasts up to 7 a.m. that the Maddox was sunk in waters belonging to Communist Viet Nam.

It did not mention the PT-boat attack on the Maddox until its 12:30 p.m. news cast "unsinking" the destroyer. Then it reported that three North Vietnamese PT-boats attacked the Maddox and said:

"There were some discrepancies in the accounts of the incident and it was strange the Maddox came off undamaged," the monitors quoted radio Prague as saying.

Toyland at B&B Will Remain in Operation

Several months ago, B & B Toyland became the S&H Green Stamp Mail Order Redemption Service for the Pampa area. This made it no longer necessary for holders of these valuable stamps to go to Amarillo to redeem them for the valuable gifts offered by S&H.

However, installing this center in the B & B Toyland has led many people to believe that the Toyland was being discontinued to make room for this new service. The owners of B & B would like to point out that the Toyland is not being discontinued, but that it will be offering the same wide selection of toys. The Toyland has always had the reputation of having one of the widest selections of toys available in Pampa. Be it an inexpensive game or first class doll, B & B Toyland will most generally have it in stock.

Have you taken advantage of the new redemption service? Why not stop in and look over the hundreds of items on display in the store? These items on display are but a few of the thousands available to all S&H Green Stamp holders from the catalog.

If the item you wish to redeem your stamps for is not on display, ask one of the courteous clerks to order the desired items from the catalog. This service is available to you at no extra cost. This is just another one of the fine, free services available at B & B Pharmacy and Toyland.

No arrest was made.

"When a man communes with his own conscience and asks, 'which of these two men is the man that I can trust with the lives of my children, my family, the safety of my country, he'll want a president that is calm, forbearing, sincere, secure and one that understands responsibility,'" Humphrey said.

BOTTLE DID IT—Brian Cole, 33, (top) of Pinchbeck West, England, couldn't find anybody in his town to marry. So he put a love note in a bottle and pitched it into the sea. Brian eventually threw 1,282 bottles in, got 381 replies, including one from Inga-Britt Granberg, 21, of Vaxholm, Sweden. But she had read about Brian's plight in a magazine and wrote him. They plan to marry in six months.

Lobbyists Accused Of Offering 'Gift'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking and Currency Committee charged today that lobbyists once offered a member of his committee $14,000 worth of bank stock "as a gift."

But, said Patman, the legislator "told the would-be donor to get out of his office and stay out..." He did not identify either the congressman or the lobbyists. But he accused the American Bankers Association (ABA) of being "as ugly as any lobby in existence."

The Texas Democrat made the charge in a speech prepared for delivery on the House floor. He described the incident as "one clever means of anti-public action by the bankers' lobby," and said it was "as subtle as a wart on a movie actress' nose."

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Differences in Values

One of the depressing aspects of the American foreign relations picture deals with our tendency to assume that all other persons have the same values we have. The American adventure is noteworthy because of two factors and two factors only: our larger heritage of personal freedom than is ordinary in other parts of the world; our larger reliance upon individual initiative and the private ownership of property.

But, because we believe in freedom and in private property does not mean that other people share this belief. We place material progress at a high level among our values. Many people do not. But our efforts at creating favorable relations among people in other countries are usually based upon these values. This means that in an effort to convince them of the superiority of our ways, we ship them tons of merchandise and mountains of money. Since these people have never earned these things and, in many cases, neither want them nor value them particularly, we are winning a reputation as a prize nobby in our international affairs.

Not that anyone is going to spurn our gifts and largesse. First, that would be bad manners. And second, even if these items are not considered of primary value, the fact is that they are useful. At least the politicians in these far places can detect a practicality appended to the goodies.

But since, alongside our generous, open-handed outpouring, come a horde of bureaucrats who meddle in domestic affairs and strive to "protect" the local citizens in much the same way they "protect" us at home, our reputation as a buttinski of gargantuan proportions is growing.

The cultures and economic climates of foreign nations, particularly in Asia and Africa, are far removed from our own somewhat mundane view. But until we stir up trouble, most of these people never take time to discover that they are "miserable" by our standards. Actually, they are happy enough. Usually, they are far more contented in their somewhat impoverished situation than they are after we have intruded.

Now, we think it is true that a high-voltage economic system is best. We believe thoroughly that the American system as it was originally brought forth in electricity declined from 17 cents in 1900 to 2 cents in a recent year.

Miss Williams concluded: "So, you see, the reason electric power companies advertise is to sell more current. This investment in advertising does not raise the cost per kilowatt-hour to you. It lowers it. That's why the use of part of your utility dollar for advertising is no cause for concern. In the end, you benefit."

In just about every line of industry, increased sales mean lower production costs. And that is as true of electric power as it is of groceries.

No Cause for Concern

A reader of McCall's magazine wrote a letter to the editor asking this question: "Why do public utilities advertise? It seems pointless, since they enjoy monopolies. It bothers me to think that part of my utility dollar is being used to encourage me to spend even more."

The magazine carried an admirable answer by Beth Williams. She pointed out that advertising, generally, is used to stimulate the sale of more electric appliances and the use of more power — and that the more power a company sells, the lower the cost becomes. Increased use is a major reason why the per kilowatt cost of

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Well, we have finally seen a topless bathing suit in real life and talked to it. Consequently, we must admit to having misjudged the whole invention from the start because it seems to solve an old and complicated problem of morality.

We first saw the topless suit when it was inaugurated at a fashion show last spring. And after scrutinizing the model quite carefully, we concluded that it would never work because of the well-known principle that clothes preserve the feminine mystery.

This principle is part of a larger theory which says that beauty is only skin-deep. And whether it is true we cannot say, never having had the courage to skin any girls.

But that the theory and principle worked is beyond doubt. In all our growing up years we never saw a girl go about in public unclothed. But far more important, while there was no axiom to cover how tight the clothes should be worn, it was completely agreed that honor, virtue and morality were one size larger.

Unfortunately, this rule did not hold true at surfside and swimming hole where the skin is usually worn quite close to the apparel. And so it frequently happened that a young fellow would become very interested in a seemingly nice girl in a wet bathing suit only to discover when the sun went down that she was honorable, virtuous and moral.

Well, yesterday afternoon on the beach below Cape Cod Lighthouse we found a lady in a topless bathing suit watching her three young children play in the sand.

She is, she told us, 31 years old and a resident of Philadelphia. She is married to a dentist because her mother thought he was a good catch. He is about 516,000 years old. She is pretty sure she loves him, but in any case she has never been unfaithful to him and does not expect to be.

We do not know her name as there are some questions you simply do not ask a completely half-nude lady. But it does not matter. The important thing, we have concluded after talking with this lady, is that the topless bathing suit is neither immoral nor another chic obscenity of the times as many people think who do not realize what happens to these words in the summertime.

Obscenity is what offends you such as when somebody gets a good job because his father owns the company.

Immorality, on the other hand, is what offends society, as is the case when somebody who is not a doctor gets caught with narcotics in his possession.

Chic is entirely different and means knowing which end is up but not where it stands. For example, it is chic to be against Albert Schweitzer because he is French instead of for the way he plays Bach.

To call the topless bathing suit by these terms, we think, is to confuse the product with the advertising of it.

A girl who values her bad reputation would never put one on. But worn by a girl who does as her mother says, it is merely the application of an easier-to-read label on the competing brand.

Wit and Whimsy

This is a very old story—Irvn Cobb once said he got it from his grandfather. It concerns a minister who had a reputation for being long-winded. On this Sunday he was in especially good form. His topic was the Prophets of the Bible. For more than an hour he droned on.

Minister—And now we have disposed of the Major Prophets. We next come to the Minor Prophets. What place, my friends, shall we assign the Minor Prophets?

From the rear of the church arose a bored-looking stranger. He waved an explanatory arm toward the seat he had just vacated and spoke:

Stranger—Parson, don't worry. One o' them Minor Prophets can have my place. I'm going home.

$7 Billion — Not $3.5 Billion — Real Total Of Projected 1965 Foreign Aid, Bill Admits

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The doughy fight in the Senate to steeply slash President Johnson's $3.5 billion foreign aid budget is seemingly doomed to failure, but it is performing one extremely useful service.

"NATO appears on the verge of complete disintegration," continued the group. "France, a major recipient of U.S. aid, has apparently withdrawn its support while retaining its voice. We have been unable to obtain the cooperation of our European allies to reduce their trade with Cuba in strategic materials."

The little-known fact that actual foreign aid spending is in excess of $7 billion was admitted by Foreign Aid Administrator David Bell under questioning at a closed-door meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He made this highly significant admission in response to a question by Senator Stuart Symington, D-Mo. This was disclosed on the Senate floor by Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, who with Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has been spearheading the determined effort to drastically curtail the President's $3.5 billion budget.

Following is this revealing testimony: "Senator Symington: You present a figure of $3.5 billion. I turn that over to someone trying to be objective and say, 'Give me what the true foreign aid figure is.' He then gives me a figure of some $7 billion as the actual amount of foreign aid we are going to give or loan this year. Is that figure correct?"

"Bell: Somewhere around that, yes, sir."

Caustically commented Gruening, who has been futilely battling to induce the Small Business Administration to grant 4 of one per cent loans to hard-hit Alaska businessmen and other earthquake sufferers. "We have heard much about this being a 'bare-bone' foreign aid budget. That is not quite correct. It now develops that foreign aid spending for fiscal 1965 is to be in the neighborhood of $7 billion and not $3.5 billion."

The Foreign Aid Administration and other agencies in that field have granted hundreds of millions in loans to foreign countries and businessmen at 4 of one per cent interest. But earthquake-stricken American citizens in Alaska are being required to pay 3 per cent interest.

Where the money's going — A detailed compilation of the more than $7 billion the Johnson administration has budgeted for foreign aid is recorded in a little-noticed minority report by the house foreign affairs committee.

Signing this scathing report were Republican committee men E. Ross Adair, Ind.; H. R. Gross, Iowa; E. Y. Berry, S. Dak.; Edward Derwinski, Ill.; James Battin, Mont., and Vernon Thomson, Wis.

They emphatically contended that "our generous, well-intentioned but misguided assistance activities (have) accomplished nothing — and events of the last few months prove that."

"The political settlement in Laos has predictably worked to the advantage of the Communists. The $300 million poured into that country has done nothing more than identify the U.S. with a losing battle. After ten years and $370 million in aid, Cambodia has asked us to pick up our marbles and go home."

"Indonesia with $870 million of our money continues to threaten freedom-seeking Malaysia. And a few months ago, Sukarno announced, 'To hell with U.S. aid.' Yet we continue to give him aid. In fiscal 1965, $10 million is planned for technical cooperation. Our allies in Turkey and Greece are at each other's throat over Cyprus."

Senator Morse, who last year succeeded in lopping $500 million from the foreign aid budget, was equally scathing.

"The foreign aid program has become one of the most stagnant, unproductive and misrepresents of all federal activities," he declared. "It is stagnant because its objectives are still tied largely to American strategic interests of the 1950s; it is unproductive because much of it goes for uses that neither build nor develop; and it is misrepresented because in spite of all the official hand-wringing pleas that we help the underprivileged and deprived peoples of the world, not more than 40 per cent of it goes for that purpose."

Morse is determinedly seeking to cut some $466 million from this year's budget. So far it has been a vain fight against a seemingly irresistible administration juggernaut.

While many senators privately agree with Morse and Gruening, they are not voting that way. Under unceasing White House pressure they are lining up as the President wants. But this isn't keeping Morse from speaking out bluntly and unsparingly.

"I do not know of any federal program of any size," he declared, "where so much known waste of money continues with so little action being taken to stop it."

Foreign aid sparks — Under the foreign aid budget, 90 nations and 9 territories will receive funds in the current fiscal year. . . . A total of 71,416 persons are on the payrolls of foreign aid agencies, a considerable percentage of them foreigners. . . . Included in the foreign aid budget is $6,873,000

WASHINGTON:

Nikita Plays To Squelch His Rivals

BY RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The removal of Leonid Brezhnev as president of the Soviet Union may be part of a cat-and-mouse game Khrushchev is playing to keep any of his lieutenants from taking his crown before he dies.

Kremlologists here think Khrushchev is worried about the growing power of Nikolay Podgorny. Less than a year ago Podgorny was listed as the lowest ranking man on the ruling Presidium. Today he's ranked with Brezhnev as one of the two men most likely to succeed Khrushchev as top man in the Soviet Union.

Brezhnev has been in the news as the likely "crown prince." But Podgorny has quietly been consolidating his power where it counts. He's been slowly but carefully gathering the reins of patronage into his own hands.

Podgorny has been able to capture a goodly part of the patronage because the other members of the Presidium have been sick or busy with other critical tasks.

Brezhnev, as president, has had much of his time occupied with ceremonial jobs. He has had to greet endless numbers of visitors, make state visits. Anastas Mikoyan has been ill part of the time. He has also been occupied with trips to Japan, Cuba and the United States.

A. N. Kosygin has had his hands full with the vexing problems of the Soviet economy. He has also been ill. M. A. Suslov, as the top theoretician, has been preoccupied with the Sino-Soviet dispute. Frol Kozlov has been paralyzed as a result of a heart attack.

G. I. Voronov has been busy running the Russian Republic, largest and most important stage in the Soviet Union. A. P. Kirilenko has been saddled with the problem of getting Soviet industry going according to plan. D. S. Polyansky is charged with getting agriculture on its feet.

N. M. Shvernik has grown old and feeble. Khrushchev has had his hands full with international and domestic crises.

With the rest of the Presidium too busy to spend much time "handling the cadres" (patronage), more and more of this work has fallen into Podgorny's hands. Patronage, of course, means power.

Podgorny has been aided in this growing control of patronage, it's believed, by close connections with V. N. Titov, who is in charge of patronage on the routine working level.

Khrushchev has been burned once before by a protégé who became too strong. He groomed Frol R. Kozlov to be his successor, even announced him as his heir. Kozlov grew ambitious. There were reports he had begun to edge Khrushchev aside. Then came Kozlov's heart attack.

This experience with Kozlov for Cuban refugees; $4,743,000 for "migrants and refugees"; and $3,200,000 for the Japanese Ryukyu Islands.

THREE "R'S" OF HOME EDUCATION

(Christian Economics)

REV. LEWIS W. GIBSON

Pastor, Laurel Baptist Church, Greenwood, S. C.

A revolutionary idea — that we do away with public schools and get back to the original plan of educating children in the home — was recently proposed by a well-known anthropologist.

That is hardly possible. What must be done, though, is to make all other institutions supplementary to, not substitutes for, the real place of training — the home. It stands above Church, school, club, or government as the most influential institution. It is there that personalities are developed, habits formed, and the basic rules of life are learned. Martin Luther called the home a "School for Character."

The child's first teachers, under divine appointment, are his parents. The next generation is being developed right now in our homes, and the right sort of education there is essential to our very survival.

Communists know that the family unit must be discredited or destroyed before children can be taken over mind, body, and soul by the state. In countries dominated by their ideology, the public nursery, communal kitchen, and universal employment of women is part of their strategy to transfer the cultural center from the separate homes to public institutions. Their breakup of family life is not incidental, but planned.

What Communist governments are doing deliberately in certain lands, the people of America could be doing unintentionally — transferring the responsibility of teaching the children from the home to other institutions. According to the Census Bureau, 13 per cent of our children between the ages of six and eleven have mothers working at full-time jobs.

The basic requirements of learning are often referred to as the three "R's" — reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. There are also three "r's" that are basic for home education in character and morals. They are respect, responsibility, and religion.

Respect is giving proper recognition to others, the manner of treating others kindly, and having regard for others' rights.

Each member of the family deserves the proper respect. No child will learn to show respect to others if he is never shown it by the rest of the family. Parental authority must be respected. An atmosphere of complete permissiveness in the home, where no authority is recognized, results in a generation of children who are tion to whom the restraints of society are unbearable. One of the gravest problems facing our police now is the swaggering adolescent with contempt for all law and restraint.

Unrestrained living develops a warped sense of right and wrong, and sends one out unprepared for social living. Therefore, parents must teach children to have self-respect. If youngsters are to grow up with any moral standards for a well-disciplined life, they must have those standards instilled in them in their growing years.

The second "r" is responsibility. Children must learn to be responsible for their actions, and to do tasks which they might not like. Daily chores are called "stepping-stones to maturity."

Parents who assume all child-size responsibilities — which the child should have — are teaching him to throw the load onto others for anything he doesn't want to do. Being allowed to share in the family planning helps a child to learn which are his specific duties. Definite responsibility can give one a goal of achievement. Even a small child's confidence can be bolstered when he can accomplish what he knows is required of him.

The most important of the three "r's" is religion. It is the best insurance of all on a child's future moral and spiritual life. In most public schools, religious instruction is limited or banned. Between the church and home, no definite line can be drawn where one leaves off and the other takes up in religious training. Churches are doing quite well in teaching, considering the time and equipment available. The Sunday School teacher has the child one hour a week. How much more would children depend on parents for knowledge if the public schools should change schedules and teach each subject only one hour a week. God places the primary responsibility for spiritual training on the parents (Deut. 6:5-7; 11:19-21; Ephesians 6:4).

The home is more than a classroom, it is a laboratory where moral and scriptural teachings can be applied and tested daily, and in every sort of situation. In an address on the chirstain home, a minister said, "What your child believes when he graduates from the university, depends greatly on what he learned before going to school. The wrecking of faith at universities depends not so much on what professors teach, as on what parents do not teach."

The longest and the most remarkable of all bird migrations is that of the Arctic tern. Its breeding range extends as far north as land exists and as far south as the Aleutian Islands, Great Slave Lake, Massachusetts and northern Europe. The average Arctic tern travels approximately 11,000 miles during its migratory flight.

Dear Abby....

Be Prepared! Parents Probably 'Had It,' too
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of having my parents on my back all the time. I would like to know when I can leave home.

HAD IT
DEAR HAD IT: Moreover, your parents have probably "had it," too. If you are able to pay for your own lodging, food, transportation, doctor and dental bills, insurance and entertainment, and bail yourself out of trouble of any kind — then you may leave home. (But take a key to the back door when you go.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is between my husband and me over a dog we don't even have yet. We've been married for two years and we have no children. We both work five days a week. I leave for work at 7 a.m. and he leaves at 7:30. We both get back about 4:30 p.m. All of a sudden my husband decides he wants a puppy. I say he's crazy. Who is going to take care of it? Believe me, I am not going to. Our furniture is brand new and I've seen what a puppy can do to things. Besides, it will tie us down and we like to go away for week-ends occasionally. He says, "We'll manage." Can you help me?

MRS. K. A.

DEAR MRS. K. A.: You seem to have all the answers, and they sound sensible to me. Personally, I pity the poor pooch that's brought into a home where he is unwanted by half the household, and left alone all day. (Who will feed him a n d walk him?) Don't give an inch. If your husband wins this one, it shouldn't happen to a dog.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who tell their children that ours are adopted? We had not intended to tell our son that he was adopted until he was ten years old, and able to understand, but the parents of other children have told their children, and, of course, they went ahead and told ours. These people are relatives or we would never speak to them again. Please print this so other parents won't be hurt the way we were.

CRUSHED
DEAR CRUSHED: I am not defending the parents who thoughtlessly told their children that yours were adopted. But adopted children should be told that they are adopted as soon as they are able to understand what the word means. (Ten is too late.)

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
