Germany Makes Move For Revising War Treaty Al Smith Upholds Organized Opposition To Dry Law

Expresses Belief In Enforcement Of All The Laws

Governor, However, Can See No Reason Why Any Group Shouldn't Organize to Advocate Repeal.

BREAKS LONG SILENCE ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

Is First Utterance of Policy Since Smith Has Been Mentioned as Presidential Possibility.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—For the first time since he has been prominently mentioned as a democratic presidential possibility, Governor Al Smith of New York state, tonight broke his silence on the prohibition question by declaring that while he stands for enforcement of all laws, he sees no reason why any group of voters should not oppose the federal prohibition statutes.

The governor's declaration, made at the annual convention dinner of the New York State League of Women Voters, was in answer to a resolution adopted by the assembly county branch of the league condemning organized opposition to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and urging "respect for an obedience to law."

"What's wrong about that?" asked the governor, after he had read the resolution of the prohibition league. "Is there any reason why the opposition should not organize? Is there any question about the solidity, force and effectiveness of the forces on the other side of the question? I have no objection to a group of citizens organizing to oppose the operation of the law in the last few years."

ADVERTISES FOR EAR

Woman Offers $2500 and Has One Applicant

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—A New York and Chicago society woman advertised today for a left ear and tonight she had one applicant willing to give an ear, but the applicant asked $4000 for it instead of the $2500 offered.

The newspaper advertisement offered $2500 through the "Chicago" attorney, "for one left ear to be grafted on client," and specified that the operation was to be performed by a competent surgeon and the matter would be kept strictly confidential.

Applicants were required to be light skinned, not over 25 years old and to submit photographs.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2 (AP)—Decision of the Oklahoma supreme court on the right of the state legislature to convene itself into a special investigating session will not be known before the date of the session—Tuesday, December 6.

SEEK C. O. P. MEETING

San Francisco and Detroit Loom As Favorites

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Activities in behalf of Detroit and San Francisco put them in the front today in Republican convention city speculation as members of the Republican national committee continued to arrive in Washington for their meeting next week.

In the background, but still strongly in favor, are Kansas City, Cleveland and Philadelphia, although Philadelphia's chances appeared to be restricted by a desire of many of the early arriving committeemen to take the convention into the winter.

A noticeable development was the apparent disposition to believe President Coolidge entirely out of the race, the committeemen evidently assured themselves that confirmation of his "do not choose" statement is an early prospect.

SUIT FOR FORECLOSURE AND TWO FOR DIVORCE FILED

One suit for debt and foreclosure and two divorce suits were filed in the office of the district clerk here yesterday.

Mrs. Minnie H. Miller and H. H. Miller are plaintiffs in a suit for debt and foreclosure filed against Herbert Shultz.

MERCURY HITS 20

More Ice, Frozen Pipes and Cracked Radiators

Though not dropping to the low mark of 16 degrees, as registered in the wee hours of Thursday morning, the mercury nevertheless descended low enough Friday morning to produce abundant ice and cause cracked water pipes, and frozen radiators for those who had not heeded the weather man's warning.

Temperatures yesterday were Maximum 60, minimum 26. The forecast for today was warmer.

Dynamite Used By Youth Seeking To Avoid Marriage

Confesses to Planting Stick Of Explosive In Stove At Schoolhouse; Girl Is Badly Hurt.

(By Associated Press) OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 2 (AP)—In order to avoid marrying his school girl sweetheart, Hiram Reed, a wealthy Mossville farmer, confessed today that he planted a stick of dynamite in the stove of the country school where she taught, believing it would explode and kill her when she kindled the fire.

As a result of his act, Miss Lola Bradford is near death and the youth is held pending the result of her injuries and to determine what charges shall be placed against him.

After being with the young woman, who doctors say is soon to become a mother, until 11:30 o'clock Wednesday, Russell O. Hansen, state attorney, said Reed told him that he went to the school house four miles north of Ottumwa where Miss Bradford teaches and placed a stick of dynamite in it.

The dynamite exploded when the teacher started the fire, partly wrecking the building and injuring the girl so seriously that doctors fear she may die.

The authorities said that Reed had been engaged to the girl but had delayed the wedding date several times. The date for the marriage was finally fixed for next Sunday and plans for the wedding had been discussed by the couple a few hours before Reed planted the dynamite, Hansen said.

SOLONS GIVEN SEATS

Smith Assigned Rear Seat Near An Exit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Frank L. Smith of Illinois came to town today to make his fight for a place in the senate and found that the seats assigned to him for use, at least until his name is called for the oath of office next Monday, is on the end of the back row near a rear exit.

While some of the friends of the two senators-elect consider that there appears to be little hope that either of them will be seated, they were taken into the party conference of senate republicans today at which time the organization was re-elected and a candidate for president pro tempore nominated.

DEFENSE REUTES MURDER CHARGES

Mrs. Lillendahl and Beach Are Pictured As Innocent and Injured Persons in Plea of Defense.

(By Associated Press) MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 2.—Margaret Lillendahl and Willis Beach, who for four days were pictured through prosecution witnesses as the murderers of the woman and her husband, were presented to the jury today in the light of innocent and injured persons entirely unconnected with the crime.

Opening addresses for the defense were delivered when court opened and during the rest of the bulk of the defense testimony was presented.

Today's testimony was to the effect that Beach was nowhere near the scene of the crime when Dr. A. William Lillendahl was shot to death, that two negroes were there and fled as if pursued by the shadow of death itself and that there was no motive for the defendants to have committed the crime.

Beach was supposed to present his witnesses first and then Mrs. Lillendahl's were to go on, but so many of the men, women and children called to the stand were witnesses for both defendants that it was decided to let both defense attorneys question any one called in order to save time.

An alibi for Beach was built up from testimony of almost a score of witnesses.

Charges Are Filed Against Five Men Held For Killing

Three Rangers Arrive Here To Assist In Investigation Of Slaying at Flomot Last Monday.

HEARING ON PETITION FOR WRIT IS MONDAY

Motley County Quiet and No Further Violence Is Feared as Aftermath of Slaying There.

With murder charges filed against five of the six suspects brought to the Lubbock jail for safe-keeping, and three Texas Rangers detailed on the case, investigation of the fatal shooting of Constable Lee Stogall of Flomot county, there Monday night, moved forward yesterday.

Capt. Tom R. Hickman and Sergeant M. T. Gonzales, of the 91st North Ranger company and Private W. H. Kirby, of Burger arrived in Lubbock at noon yesterday and immediately went into conference with Deputies Cane, Garrison and R. H. Tanner, of Motley county, studying the case which is thus far surrounded in mystery.

Shortly after midday, Sergeant Gonzales left for Matador and Flomot, where he will investigate the case, Captain Hickman and Kirby awaiting further orders here.

Calvin Balthasar, Adolphus Moore, by Hamilton Mosely, W. P. Allen and Paul Landry, all of the Flomot community, have been charged with murder in connection with the shooting. Sheriff Paul Johnston, Lubbock county, said a sixth man, Scott Knight, who was also arrested, has been released by order of Motley county officials.

He has proved that he was in no way connected with the case, officers said.

A habeas corpus hearing, petitioned by defense attorneys in an effort to get the men charged out of jail, has been set for Monday morning and will be held here.

Telephone reports from Matador said that Motley county was quiet and that there is no indication of further violence and the report was vouchsafed for by Deputies Garrison and Tanner, here.

TERRACING PLANNED

Instruction In This Line Will Follow Soon

Attention to terracing will be given in demonstration held by the county agent after the cotton crop has been gathered, according to statement by County Agent Easton yesterday.

Many requests have been received by him for demonstrations, he said. The county agent pointed out that the chief benefit to be derived from terracing in this region is the holding of rainfall, in addition to the saving of top soil.

Doty Mustered Out of Foreign Legion And Started On Way to United States

Comrades Cry "Lucky Devil" as Man Who Won Medals Was Condemned to Firing Squad and Then Secured Release Is Given Freedom; Merits Praise

(By Associated Press) SIDI BEL ABHES, Algeria, Dec. 2.—Bennett J. Doty, of Biloxi, Miss., was released today from the foreign legion after winning honors and nearly facing a firing squad during his service with the famous organization.

Doty's discharge frees him after serving only 30 months of a five year enlistment. Old timers, hardened by years of service, stood against at the American's luck in winning freedom after courtmartial for desertion in Syria and pardon after serving part of an eight year sentence for the military crime.

Colonel Rollett, commander of the legion headquarters here, informed Doty only yesterday that his discharge had arrived. Doty had made no personal request for his release. When he was discharged from prison he said he expected to go to Morocco and see some more fighting.

The detachment of which Doty was a member, fled past the Fortress at Sidi Bel Abbes on their way to the middle Atlas region as Doty was obtaining his release papers.

Remus Associate Testifies Friday At Murder Trial

George Connors, Now Dealer In Whiskey, Avers Ex-Pal was Insane on Day He Slew Wife.

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Dec. 2 (AP)—George Remus' most intimate associate of the last eight or nine years appeared as a witness for him in his murder trial here today.

It was George Connors, now a legitimate dealer in whiskey, after serving a sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary with Remus for violation of the federal prohibition law who started a revelation of the intimate observations of Remus' mental functions.

Soon after Connors, tall, lithic, curly haired, close shaven and a sartorial perfection, ascended the witness stand he was deep in the narration of the long chain of circumstances which caused him to reach a conclusion as to Remus' mental condition last October 6, when he shot and killed his estranged wife, Imogene Holmes-Remus.

Until he had told of the observations which led him to his opinion as to Remus' sanity or insanity, he was not permitted to state his conclusion. He was ready, however, to say Remus was insane upon the fatal day.

Connors was the last witness for the defense ahead of the defendant himself.

There was but little hope that Remus would be reached before late tomorrow, however, for interrogation of Connors was not completed until late today.

Hint Huge Booze Ring In Chicago

Newspaper Charges Plot By Bootleggers, Politicians, and Police; Authorities Secretive on Matter.

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—A secret investigation which the Herald and Examiner said the government conducted here, connecting bootleggers, police and politicians in a prohibition conspiracy, appear today to be so secretive as to be virtually unknown to the United States attorney.

George E. O. Johnson, district attorney, commenting on the story, said enforcing the prohibition law in Chicago meant a steady grind of gathering facts day by day and cannot be accomplished in a month or two months.

He denies that policemen had been under constant surveillance by federal operatives as the paper asserted.

Evidence obtained by the prohibition department and Johnson's office showed collusion, said the newspaper, adding that indictments were expected soon.

The district attorney professed no knowledge. Michael Hughes, police chief, knew nothing of an undercover operation involving his men.

Johnson expressed the hope that he would soon be able to solve the worst problem in Chicago—overcoming the fear of death which obsessed most witnesses for the prosecution.

Delegate to Geneva Security Meeting Emphasizes Revision of Treaties, As Provided by Versailles Pact Article

Germany Denies Move For Revising of Treaty; Allies Believe Standing Pacts Best Maintained.

REMOVAL OF ALLIED ARMIES NOW SOUGHT

Take Position That Membership in League Should Be Sufficient Guarantee For Good Faith.

(By Associated Press) GENEVA, Dec. 2.—Germany made today what was widely interpreted as a delicate move for revision of the Versailles treaty. This was the conclusion drawn from an address by Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, and now German representative at the preparatory disarmament conference before the security committee.

Real international security which will reduce the possibility of conflicts between nations, implies the fixation of frontiers which all countries can accept, was the opinion voiced in German non official circles tonight following upon Count Von Bernstorff's declaration that article 19 should be given importance by the security committee in the proposed study of the league of nations covenant.

This is the article which says that the league assembly may advise reconsideration of treaties which become inapplicable. The German delegates' insistence on the inclusion of this article was generally regarded as a point toward the treaty of Versailles.

GOVERNOR LOSING

Indiana Trio Seem Due For Trial on Bribe Count

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—Only one chance to escape trial on a charge of attempted bribery through upholding of a plea in statement was left Governor Ed Jackson, George V. Coffin, Marion county Republican chairman and Robert L. Marsh, a local attorney after a series of legal skirmishes in criminal court here today.

Jackson, Coffin and Marsh are accused of having conspired with D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, and now a life prisoner in state prison for murder, to attempt to bribe Warren T. McCray when he was governor in 1923, to name James F. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor.

CAL TO VISIT HAVANA

Plans Address Before Pan-American Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Coolidge has decided to go to Havana in January to address the sixth Pan-American congress. Although it had been expected for some time that he would make the trip, definite announcement of his intentions was not made at the White House until today.

Unless his plans are upset by some unforeseen development, the president will travel by rail to Key West, Fla., and there will board an American warship for Cuba. He is expected to return by the same route.

Although the date Mr. Coolidge plans to arrive in the Cuban capital was not disclosed, it is probable that he will be there for the opening session of the congress January 16th.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Representatives of S. S. Kresge company and S. Y. Drys To Mobilize During January In Fight On Wets

To Devise Uniform Plan for Dry Presidential Candidates at a Meeting In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A nation-wide call to all temperance workers and organizations to meet in Washington January 3 and 4, at a huge mass meeting to devise a uniform plan for dry candidates during the 1928 political campaign was issued here at the final session of the national executive conference.

The conference, representing 31 temperance and reform organizations of the country, first made the call for January 16, but later a change of the date was announced by Mrs. Ella A. Hoole, of New York vice-president. Mrs. Hoole is a national president of the W. C. T. U.

A policy of opposition to any presidential candidate not committed to the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement was endorsed by the conference which also demanded that both Democratic and Republican platforms must assert their respective positions on prohibition.

The storm originated in Alaska the bureau said. It will have passed the western part of the grain belt tomorrow and a rising temperature may be looked for.

$3200 DRAFTS STOLEN

Sheriff Makes Fruitless Effort to Find Thieves

Sheriff H. L. Johnston returned from Littlefield last night after a fruitless attempt to locate the parties said to have stolen checks and drafts amounting to $3200 from a cotton buyer in that town.

Drafts amounting to $2000 were cashed in Lubbock during the middle of this week, but the robbery was not discovered until the drafts had been returned, giving the parties a chance to get away with the money.

Rev. Whiddon announced that there were no workers other than representatives of the Army aiding yesterday.

Pursuing the combination caused by the statement of Count Von Bernstorff, the Germans made efforts tonight to minimize its importance, saying that it would be a mistake to deduce that Germany thereby intentionally had launched a campaign to revamp the treaty.

Seek Revision of All

It was stated that Germany is interested in the possible revision of all treaties found inapplicable and the discontinuance of international treaties which have remained unchanged, might endanger peace.

It was further remarked that it Germany really had any intentions

Many children, who were underweight in that school have been built up through special feeding at the homes. It was found when these mothers met, and physicians have been seen where this was advisable, thus eliminating many corrections, according to Mrs. P. O. Bennett, P. T. A. president. There are no charity cases to be cared for in the Dupre school and most of the underweight children are first graders who go home at 2:30 o'clock, thus eliminating the necessity of feeding the children twice at school, she said.

By Allene Sumner

"An Unmarried Father," by Phyllis Dell, is in one sense a great book but it is worth talking about, just for the novelty of its theme. The unmarried mother is no novelty to anyone. She is known in real life and known even better in fiction. The unmarried father is so unknown both in life and fiction that it's amazing to realize that authors have let him alone so long.

Now comes Dell to tell us what happens when an unmarried father assumes his responsibility, faces the world with his illegal infant, works out the problem of caring for it and making a living at the same time, and meets for the first time all the problems that unmarried mothers have wrestled with for centuries without anyone getting much upset.

The baby's mother in this case will not keep her child. She wants a career and is placing the baby with an adoption society. The conversation between the baby's mother and the father when he offers to "do the right thing by her," only to be refused, is interesting. "I was an awful fool, Norman. You see, I'd always thought of myself as an artist—not a woman. But I found out that this body of mine is a baby-factory, just like other girls' bodies. I'm free now at last, and I'm going to stay free. My body may be a woman's body, but my thoughts are not a woman's thoughts."

The father visits an art museum after his interview, shocked at such unnatural feelings from any mother. He stopped before a Van Dyck. "There leaped out the irrelevant fact that Van Dyck had had an illegitimate child in the Netherlands, the mother being unknown to history. Yes, times were changing. Women were taking the privileges of men. And that careless masculine privilege of leaving behind an illegitimate child or so in the course of one's career—that, too."

"Van Dyck hadn't been stopped in his painter's progress by a mere illegitimate child: why should he be? he and the millionaire who bought Isabel's pictures wouldn't know how cheap they were at any price. He would be getting, not just pain and canvas and a name, but the love that Isabel had kept from her baby, the hope that she had refused to squander on a mere living child—all that she had saved up and put into her masterpieces rather than waste in motherhood."

The story is as funny as tragic, too. One giggles every time the unmarried father grows startled when he comes up against a problem which unmarried mothers have always had to work out. For instance, when the woman of the adoption society is reminding the unmarried father that he must wear a wedding ring.

And we spicker, too, when the unmarried father goes home in a panic at the thought of telling his family the truth and asking them to take him in. Finally he gives it up and runs away and fights to get and keep a job in a strange city just as thousands of unmarried mothers have had to do.

How and Why

LEAD SALTS IN HAIR DYE REQUIRE CARE

By Ann Alysia

Among the chemicals used in the manufacture of the various hair dyes are certain salts of lead. They often are combined with sulphur and in many cases the sulphur content is conspicuously mentioned on the label because most people are familiar with sulphur and so consider the preparation harmless.

The lead salts are dangerous if absorbed by the skin. Another chemical highly favored as an ingredient of hair dyes is pyragallo, an extremely poisonous article of vegetable origin.

So you will see that though the label may state that no poisonous ingredients are used, and that the particular dye is purely vegetable origin, it will behoove the wary purchaser to remember the most deadly poisons the world has ever known have come from the vegetable kingdom.

No manufacturer of repute will deliberately put up a preparation that is harmful, and if, of necessity, he must give you a dye containing an ingredient that under certain circumstances may cause trouble, he will always furnish you with directions, which if followed closely will prevent this. If those who have suffered ill effects confess the truth, they will tell you that they have been careless in applying the hair dye, have allowed some of the irritating liquid to touch the scalp, or have violated the printed instructions in some other equally blame-worthy manner.

Slaton Tigers Claw Over Canyon To Bi-District Title

Lubbock Closes Gridiron Season By Smashing 13-7 Victory Over Plainview

Passing Attack Too Perfect For Canyon Gridsters

Slaton Unleashes Powerful Offense; Hamilton Catches Pass and Races 72 Yards for Score.

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Dec. 3.—The battling and clashing Tigers of Slaton high school passed their way to a decisive victory here this afternoon and defeated the highly touted Purple and White Eagles of Canyon by a 13-7 score for the bi-district championship. The Tigers' aerial attack was too perfect for the Canyon gridsters and leave after leave was completed by the Mitchellmen.

The same combination that won the South Plains title from Floyd was put into use again today and brought about the scoring plays of the five touchdowns made against the Eagles. It was an improved combination of 'Ade' Owens, to his eager forwards, Arns and Nichols, left hander, with his cross-fire passing feature, heaved the oval for long and consistent gains almost at random.

Punt Gave Score.
The only counter scored by the Eagles was a result of a fumbled punt by Bybee, Slaton quarter, which was recovered by the Eagles on the Tiger 4 yard line. O'Donnell, driving and crashing halfback of the Purple and White Eagles, charged the Slaton line with no success and then Wiggins chose to flip a short pass to O'Donnell, which was over the only counter made by the Eagles.

Throughout the game the Tigers fought with a ripping and tearing offense. Every Tiger backfield man gained over the Eagle defense and assisted in the march to touchdowns. Captain Hamilton, the Tiger leader, made the longest run of the afternoon when he pulled down one of Owens' passes as he drove for 72 yards for a touchdown.

More than 200 fans of the Canyon Eagles accompanied the North Plains machine to this city today via a special train.

Plenty Of Speed

FRANK J. CUHELE

Pohl track men often fall as football players. Remember how Pohl kicked? The case of Frank Cuhele, Slaton's line backfield man, is an exception. He is a champion of the line. Ten and anchor on Slaton's mile relay team, was today's best this year. His speed is a great asset.

Long Run by Ater Gives Westerners Early Touchdown

Les Smith, Lubbock Pilot, Is Sensational Star In His Final Game: Dollhouse Springs Feature.

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 3.—Before more than 1,200 fans the Lubbock high school Westerners won the annual football supremacy title over the Green and White Bulldogs here today with a score of 12 to 7. The game was one of the scrappiest and most interesting exhibitions the grid fans have seen this season in Plainview.

The Westerners scored first with a 79-yard return of Ater's kick to Ater. Ater grabbed the kick and raced down the right side of the gridiron for the initial score for the visitors after the second play of the game. The two machines battled in the middle until the near of the conclusion of the first quarter when Schroeder received Magill's pass for 14 yards and then got loose for 45 yards to carry the ball to the Western 34 yard line. After Schroeder and Magill hit away through the Lubbock line, Magill finally put over the counter and Wadell waded through for the extra point.

Les Smith Stars.
The Westerners counted victory in the last quarter when they snapped up a Bulldog fumble and a march over the Bulldog defense by the big Westerner back put over the winning score. Ater's kick was wide and then the Bulldogs started up a desperate passing attack without success.

Morgan, backfield coach for the Westerners, started Les Smith as pilot of the machine and the big husky ran the team to a perfection throughout the afternoon. Ater's long run and Dollhouse's feature in broken field runnings carried out the running attack of the Hub city team.

Even of the Westerners conducted their high school gridiron careers with the final whistle of this afternoon's game. The eleven stars are: L. Smith, Ater, Dollhouse, Parkinson, Dickinson, Kerr, Whitesides, Campbell, Allen, Buckingham, and Williams.

Smith punted 30 yards. A pass, Magill to Schroeder, was good for 25 yards on three attempts to crash through the Western line the Bulldogs kicked out of bounds on the Lubbock 15-yard line. Ater made 1 and L. Smith ripped off eight around right end, and Dowell made one through center. L. Smith punted 35 yards to Schroeder who returned the kick to Lubbock's 45-yard line. Schroeder clipped 45 yards to place the ball on the Westerners' 15-yard line; and again he got loose for 10 yards. GEORGIA TEAMS READY Ancient Contenders for Grid Honors Primed

ATLANTA, Dec. 2 (AP).—Two contenders for Dixie football supremacy—Georgia, and Georgia Tech—having survived three months of campaigning on many fields, have girded themselves for a battle tomorrow that will end Southern conference title hopes of one. And, on top of all title matters is the traditional Georgia-Georgia Tech athletic rivalry that in the past has so high that athletic relations between the two branches of the state's higher educational system had to be severed for several years.

Couch George Woodruff, of the Georgia Bulldogs has completed training in coordinating line smashes. Overhead attack has been brought to what coaches believe is near enough perfection to ride the Golden Tornado to victory and their defense has been drilled consistently against Georgia Tech formations.

A game of intense interest is that of the Forest Lions of Dallas and the Cleburne Yellowjackets at Cleburne. The Jackets are rated heavy favorites, partly by reason of Forest's accession to a place in the pack through disqualification of the Sunset of Dallas.

Jefferson Davis high of Houston which will meet Waco at Waco Saturday is another relief mount, having gotten into the race after a defeat when Reagan high was hamstrung by an ineligible player, and this game is also regarded as more or less of a set-up as the Tigers have been burning up the trail all season. Sherman high advanced to the class A semi-finals Friday afternoon by defeating Athens 20 to 13 at Sherman.

MAGNOLIA LOWERS PRICE OF CRUDE, MEETING CUTS.
DALLAS, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Magnolia Petroleum company today announced a price of 85 cents a barrel for crude oil in the Cotton Valley, Louisiana district, thus meeting the lowered price announced Tuesday by the Louisiana Oil Refining company.

The ball was punted but once during the first three quarters and not a penalty was assessed during the same length of time. Robstown lost a chance to score in the first half when, after having carried the ball to within six inches of the goal line and with two downs remaining to carry it over, the half was called.

The Eagles left for Amarillo Thursday night and "arranged themselves" Friday.

FARM BLOC AGAINST COMPROMISE

To overtures looking to a give-and-take settlement of the farm-relief question the Western radicals are deaf. With the meeting of Congress they declare that they have no intention for the sake of party expediency of yielding an inch of ground. They have nothing to do with any but one plan for farm relief, and that is their own. They will fight, win or die, for the McNary-Haugen bill. No concessions, no compromises, are to be thought of. And back of this aggressive little group of Senators apparently stands a formidable array of farm organizations of the West.

All these preliminary demonstrations of hostility only show how utterly inconsiderate the farm bloc Senators are. At a time like this the one thing of importance as politicians see it, is party peace and persist in airing personal convictions or harmony; no practical politician should principles at the expense of discipline. Yet with Senator Capper and McNary trotting over to the White House and back to the Capitol and babbling of terms of a truce, their Western colleagues call them deserters and come out flat for war. Congress this winter must vote again on the McNary-Haugen bill, even though Mr. Coolidge once vetoed it; they will accept nothing less. For they are confident that both the House and Senate will pass it again, if only because not a few Representatives and Senators with an eye to their own re-election will vote for it while trusting to the President once more for a veto.

Whether the Western radicals are in deadly earnest or are merely playing politics for their ends, they are hardly disposed to change their game in order to save Mr. Coolidge from annoyance.

WETS AND DRY ALIKE ROAR BECAUSE OF PRO. ISSUES

The prohibition question is one of the liveliest facing the politicians of the United States and both wets and drys look upon it as a very important national issue and become incensed because the two leading political parties are possibly not bringing the issue to the front as prominently as they think it should be. Rodney Dutcher, correspondent of the NEA Service at Washington, says one hears and reads biting remarks are made about the "cowardice" and "insincerity" of the parties. Critics on both sides advance the opinion that the party which declared unequivocally for strict enforcement or modification, as the case may be, would ride atop a landslide in November. The ordinary citizen who is either very wet or very dry seems to feel that way. Amid all the hubbub, certain pertinent facts are often obscured. The easiest answer to the whole question, of course, is: What can you expect in a country operated by politicians?

A prohibitionist is a prohibitionist first and a politician afterward. A politician is a politician first and a prohibitionist afterward. If it were demonstrated that there was a strong majority demand in the country as a whole for either strict enforcement or modification, both parties would topple all over each other to prove to the voters that the popular will could find expression sooner and more effectively through one party than the other. It may be that such a majority demand exists. There are many spokesmen for both sides who insist that it does. But no one can prove that the sentiment can be consolidated into voting strength sufficient to insure presidential and congressional victories to the party which might crusade on the strength of it. The most important fact is, to the politicians, that while they know that a strong stand by either party which was not duplicated by the other would affect the ballots of millions of voters, it could not be foretold which side would reap the most benefit. There may be more "drys" than "wets," or vice versa, but who knows which side can supply the greatest number of voters willing to disregard all other issues and vote on the wet-dry issue?

The question already has shown its tendency to split parties. How can the Republicans ride into large, important wet cities like New York, Chicago and Philadelphia on a bone dry platform or, for that matter, into states like New York and Illinois which have voted "wet" in referendums. The same question goes for the Democrats. That, at least, is the way the politicians have to figure. In their own home territories they may be as wet as the town drunkard or as dry as Death Valley, but in national politics the boys must have internal harmony—or else they'll nominate John W. Davis and take a terrible licking. There's something to be said for the boys. Why break up a perfectly good political party? Can't a Bahalist and a Seventh Day Adventist marry and keep peace in the family without either demanding that the other swap religious beliefs? Incidentally, there is more and more demand among Democratic leaders for a harmony program, but one would be quite silly to predict its success at this early date.

Among Republicans, it is noteworthy that Senator William Edgar Borah and Dr. Nicholas Miraculous Butler are out on opposite limbs bawling for firm enforcement and modification planks, respectively—and also noteworthy that neither Borah nor Butler can properly be called politicians.

The logical result of yielding to such extremists would be a new political lineup in which the country would be torn between a Prohibition party and an Anti-Prohibition party. It is true that party lines don't mean much, but perhaps a nation of 120,000,000 persons should not be divided on the issue of some beer or none, especially since even the Anti-Saloon League will not insist on special reference to the Eighteenth Amendment in either party platform.

No one who muses over the present situation, with all its anomalies, should overlook the fact that neither wet nor dry leaders are howling from the housetops for a national referendum. Both sides probably would go into one with fear and trembling.

It's all right to have state referendums, but a national referendum might go either way and no matter which way the cat jumped anything more than the barest majority would affect the issue for a long time to come. The wets may seem to be slightly less certain about the outcome than the drys, but the latter are more opposed than they are to the referendum idea.

WOULD APPOINT COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS

Five thousand teachers attending the State Teachers' convention in Houston the other day applauded vigorously when Governor Moody voiced his endorsement of a proposal to have county school superintendents appointed by boards of education instead of electing them by popular vote. The teachers of the state have been advocating this proposal for a long time, and gradually are winning the support of the people as the many advantages of their plan are explained.

Regardless of the county superintendent's wishes, he is compelled, under the present system, to become a politician and to employ political methods in his work. Since he depends upon popular favor to secure his position and retain it, he must be ever alert for the faintest suggestion of a popular whim or fancy, and must conduct his work in a manner that will coincide with the opinions of influential political leaders. Much or all of this political influence would be removed if the superintendent were appointed; for there would be no necessity for playing politics if the superintendent were relieved of the necessity of seeking popular election.

One never expects the superintendent of a city school system to campaign for appointment, or to use political influence in order to retain his position. He ought to be appointed by the county board of education, paid a reasonable salary, and retained in his position so long as his service is acceptable.

The proposal to appoint the county school superintendent and take his office out of politics is a reasonable one, and commends itself to every citizen who gives the matter serious thought. Undoubtedly, this much needed reform in our public education system will be accomplished within a few years.

RESTRICTIVE POWER

President Coolidge has expressed his doubt that the President and Senate are constitutionally competent to conclude treaties for the outlawry of war, since, by the Constitution, the power to declare war is unequivocally confided to Congress. It is a settled rule that a power given by the Constitution cannot be construed to authorize a destruction of other powers given in the same instrument.

Wherefore, it would appear, that such proposals to outlaw war as those of Senator Borah and Senator Capper, might require, before they could be made effective, a Constitutional amendment qualifying the power of Congress to declare war. And this brings into contemplation a new approach to the peace problem, namely, that of limitation upon the war power laid upon governments by their own people.

In their internal and intra-national affairs peoples everywhere have learned to curb the arbitrary and dangerous powers of government by imposing constitutional limitations upon them. Thus our Bill of Rights is an outstanding example. Yet there has been no similar attempt by peoples to limit the power of government in their relations with other peoples, and particularly that most dangerous and devastating of all powers, the war power. We have limited the power of government to despoil us, but set no limit to its power to despoil another people.

OUT OUR WAY

SO THINK WE

We think a large number of children are reading the newspapers closely these days to see just what is going on in the way of Christmas cheer for them. They are watching the big smiling faces of Santa Claus and many of them will be writing letters soon. The editor of this column will be able to print just a few each day on this page, but we will be glad to have them, and our little friends should begin early for there may be some of them left out if they are not brought in early. And Santa Claus you know will want to do his shopping early too.

We think from the way some of the wives are talking they would not be at all backward in receiving a nice automobile for a Christmas present this year, and some of them would not mind to ride in one of the new Fords, but we are afraid that Henry did not get them on the market soon enough.

We think that the political pot is going to begin to boil very soon. Fact of the business we have noticed that a number of fellows are beginning to bring in sticks to build the fire under the pot. We are sure that there will be a lot more candidates in the race than will be elected, but you never can tell which is going to get the most votes and they all run that way in order that they all may have a choice. It would not be fair to the voters for just one man to run, for it would not be a matter of choice then with many people.

We think that Lubbock is in need of a municipal auditorium about as badly as she once needed a bigger and better hotel, and we are sure that she would have one if it was left up to the voice of the people (give the voters a chance to say that they think at the polls. If the taxpayers want the hall we need of good reason why the commission should object, and we believe they want it, too.

We think it is about time for the blind man to begin sending out his shouting notes, yes. We would warn the people however not to accept them at a dollar per three for they can be bought in Lubbock for fifteen cents per each, which would be only forty-five cents for a fourth of a dozen.

We think that possibly some of the state papers got rather premature in their statements that Governor Moody has sent his rangers out to settle a lot of outlaws in this section. The whole thing seems to have come about over the killing of one man by two or three others. Lubbock seems to have gotten some of the publicity but none of the Lubbock folks were implicated in it.

TUBERCULOSIS CHRISTMAS SEALS

Over $2,000,000 Tuberculosis Christmas Seals have been distributed by the Texas Public Health Association throughout the State," said Dr. Z. T. Scott, Executive Secretary of the Texas Public Health Association.

The sale will open officially Thursday, December 1st, and will close Christmas. The work of the State Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated Associations is entirely supported by the sale of these penny seals. This work includes child health education, school nursing work, clinics, educational literature and health work among all races and creeds.

Dr. Scott also stated that the Christmas Seal this year carries a design typical of the season represented. Santa Claus is shown driving his sleigh across snowy fields, while in the background the Double-

CAN A ROOSTER COUNT?

Experiments in psychology are being carried on enthusiastically with many animals. A recent test reported from the University of Chicago is quite interesting.

Kernels of corn were placed in a row on the floor, with every third kernel tacked down, and a rooster was permitted to help himself. Failing to lift a fastened kernel he would pass on and eat the next. The missing kernels were replaced and the next time he made no attempt to devour the stationary kernels. Then the third kernels were loosened, but he still passed them up until his foot struck one and moved it, then he went back and ate it.

Some who witnessed the experiment believe that it proved the rooster's ability to count, others were skeptical. Possibly he was an unusual bird, or had been influenced by his unsatisfactory environment. The rooster was not the only one who doesn't count for the story, but if you doubt it try the experiment on your own rooster.—Plainview Herald.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN,
Editor Journal of The American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Regardless of the impression that so many have concerning the efficacy of modern research, the evidence seems to warrant the belief that it is devoted for the most part to practical problems of economic interest to the human race.

Germany, particularly, recently have made available the results of a study of the amount of milk obtained from the cow under various circumstances. In the period preceding the milking the cow, some milk collects in the udder, while the milking is taking place, additional milk is secreted rapidly by the glands.

There seems to be a tradition in Germany to the effect that the cows give more milk when the cowherds and the milkmaids sing. It was even reported that some cows would give milk only when they heard a certain song.

Concerts for Cattle.
An investigator in Station-Ayette performed the experiment of giving concerts for the cattle in their stalls and reported that the cows were particularly susceptible to the gramophone and the violin but paid little attention to the trumpet.

On the days when the cattle heard music, the milk was increased by 6 per cent. The amount of solid material in the milk was diminished, but even under these circumstances the total amount of solids was more than on days when there was no music.

The German investigators attempted to apply these observations to human beings in a large hospital for children. The nurses were placed in quiet surroundings and on certain days were permitted to listen to the gramophone previous to and during the nursing period. Previous to the nursing period, the nurses were playing but during the actual nursing lively tunes and marches were played.

Experiment With Humans.
The results showed an increased amount of milk during the entire experimental period; that is on the days when there was music. As soon as the nurses were removed from the experimental rooms to their own quarters, the milk supply diminished.

Although the experiment has in it many of the elements of humor, the actual evidence assembled seems to indicate the necessity for careful study and observation of the effects of emotions on glandular action.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that there are a number of perfectly nice little bull dogs in Plainview today and yesterday. We believe the Westerners can beat any team in Texas. It is possibly the best team that the Lubbock high school has ever produced.

It is reported that the road to perfection is a permanent road and no bonds were necessary to keep it up. We assume it is worked by the concrete, and possibly it is traveled so extensively that it cannot get rough.

It is reported that a minister in a nearby town put a place on his car which read, "Thou shalt not read" and some mischievous fellow drove the old rig off and hid it and the minister had to walk a couple of days, but the car was brought back. It was a practical joke we presume, and possibly the minister has learned that there is not much in signs on the cars any day. We are sure that if there was some of the old heuristics would certainly get offended.

It is reported that there is not a child going to school that could not tell you this morning how many more shopping days there are till Christmas. Just try it on the little one this morning and see.

It is reported that about all some people use a home for now is to have a place to quarrel without quarreling in public, and some of them won't even use them for that.

It is reported that some guy is going to try to run for office and use the Ten Commandments for his platform. We are willing to bet that he will not be elected.

It is reported that Lubbock is the fastest growing city on the South Plains, and she is not overgrown either, like some cities that we have read about.

It is reported that some folks are so much absorbed in their troubles that they are continually telling folks about them. We are pretty sure that they are the only ones that are interested in them.

POULTRY SHOW

Next week, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Dec. 1, 2, and 3, are the dates for the Slaton Poultry Show. When the time comes to open the doors, everything will be ready and the largest display of birds to be seen at any show in this section of the state are looked for here, according to show officials. Great benefit to the poultry industry in this part of the state will result from the show, say leading poultrymen here.

Funds for paying premiums have been raised during the past week, although this work is not yet complete. The estimated total amount of premiums may reach as high as $1,000.00. This is figured on the basis of $24 in awards being paid in each variety, and it is possible that 25 varieties may be entered. The date for entry applications to be in at noon, Nov. 29, which is next Wednesday. All fowls must be in place by 10 a. m. Thursday, Dec. 1, it is announced. Judges have been secured and final arrangements on accommodations for the show are being made. Hundreds of poultry catalogs have been mailed out recently. Next week will probably be a big week for Slaton and this whole section.

Dr. J. D. LeGear, poultry expert, who spoke in Slaton Tuesday and Wednesday night, said this about the show: "You should enter your birds whether you know a good bird when you see it or not. That will help you learn more about poultry. The show is a fine thing."—The Slatonian.

Quick Way Out Of Depression

By THEODORE H. BARRETT

In midsummer of 1925 Atlanta faced a sinister crisis.

Phrased in these words of an official of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce was the summary of a bad situation, a psychological depression, the rueful spectacle of a city whose progress had faltered.

In midsummer of 1926 there was a new atmosphere. The city was then not only holding the business houses and trade that it already had, but new industries were coming in at the rate of about a dozen a month. The Pullman company had decided to locate its gigantic shops there, covering twenty-seven acres. Pay rolls had increased at the rate of $2,500,000 a year. For one week real estate transfers exceeded $2,500,000 with no single item greater than $250,000. Building permits in one day went to $5,000,000. The city was going forward, not in the loose, indefinite words of the "booster," but in concrete ways that are shown on the ledgers, interpreted in terms of dollars and population.

The case was like one of rejuvenation, revitalization, rebirth and monkey glands all in one. The city had awakened. It had grasped a realization not only of the real value of its own assets, but of the means of capitalizing those assets through the immense power of advertising as a modern engine of progress.

Neither resident nor stranger needed to inquire what had happened to Atlanta. They had already been told of her resources and advantages through a $250,000 community advertising program. Few, if any, prospects for what Atlanta had to sell had not been told about the city's commodities, resources and service.

Atlanta's case of arrested development was unfounded and unwarranted. The business men stoutly maintained. Nevertheless, it was there. It was none the less real because psychological. That was indicated in the very certain terms of less construction, less business, and less what was perhaps more serious, in the frank expression of the business men of the city's low volume of trade to come.

In July, 1925, W. R. C. Smith, as president of the Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of a number of the members, presented to the directors a diagnosis of the city's ailment, and, like a good physician, made a proper remedy.

A nation-wide advertising campaign was suggested. It was October of that year before final approval of the plan was given. Discussions were long and laborious. A committee was organized. Subcommittees were named and many reports made. Finally was born the Forward Atlanta movement. It was based upon the following statement of principle:

"If the world knows of Atlanta's business, more of the world's business will come here—and this will not only bring the city's activity and enterprise back to normal, but will send it long strides ahead of any progress it has ever known before."

Organization was then quickly completed. A goal of $250,000 was set, the equivalent of $1 per capita. This was deemed a moderate tribute for Atlanta to pay toward her own advancement.

Hundreds of workers answered the call for volunteers. The response was heartening. In four days Atlanta subscribed $265,000. The city was ready to start on the work of selling itself.

From each group of Atlanta's economic life a representative was chosen to make up the Forward Atlanta Commission. Its task was to sell the advertising principle of the advertising campaign was to "tell the truth about Atlanta, and seek only those enterprises and industries which we know beyond the shadow of a doubt will profit here."

Arrived thus far the Commission was confronted with the question of who could say what industries would prosper and what would not. Information on hand about Atlanta was chiefly of a general nature. No one was qualified to answer, which might be asked by those interested in some highly specialized enterprise. There was plenty of information available for efforts confined merely to seeking to attract tourists, visitors or new population.

That was not the major aim of the campaign. Atlanta was going after substantial growth, industrially and commercially. It was a bigger job than extolling the climate or telling about fine golf courses and hotels. Facts hidden too deep for the casual eye were needed.

There followed a digging in, a scrutiny and tabulation of what Atlanta had and didn't have and the why thereof.

It was confirmed by facts brought out that the chosen goal of industrial expansion was the logical one. A wealth of easily accessible resources insured lower cost of production for many industries. The analysis disclosed that the hand-to-mouth method of buying was coming much into vogue, and decentralization of industry was under way on a significant scale. Confirmation of these deductions was obtained from the United States Chamber of Commerce.

That Atlanta was a logical distribution center for a great area was indicated. It was realized that the proper exposition of Atlanta's transportation facilities would attract concerns whose selling problems had gathered complexities through changing conditions, concerns who were facing a new and growing demand for over-night deliveries.

Selling points were condensed into the following paragraphs: "The South is America's fastest growing market and warrants the most careful working. Industry can no longer serve the entire United States from one point, however centrally located. Because of transportation facilities, Atlanta makes possible efficient routing of men and merchandise and it is the logical point from which to serve the South."

Scarcely had Atlanta's selling campaign gotten under way before results began to come in. During the first ten months of 1926 building permits had reached $16,466,527, compared with a total of $10,462,556 for the entire preceding year. Sears-Roebuck had established a $2,500,000 plant and retail store. For the year the city showed a gain of 165 new industries, employing 4,969 persons with combined payrolls of $7,723,750 a year. Goodrich and Plak, two of the greatest tire manufacturing concerns in the world, began developments which are due, with similar projects, to 60 per cent of the American tire fabric production in the Atlanta industrial area.

The new industries fell in fifty-two classifications, thus giving the city that desirable variation which is said to assure stability.

In January, 1927, the extent of postal receipts for the second consecutive month showed the greatest percentage of increase of any city in the United States.

When the advertising began the city had an office building vacancy of 15 per cent. Despite the heavy construction record this percentage has been held down. In 1927 apartment houses showed vacancies of from 40 to 45 per cent. This has been cut to from 5 to 7 per cent.

Results were attained which marked the high tide in Atlanta's development. The achievements more than doubled any previous year in Atlanta's unadvertised annual.

That such momentum be not lost, the city has decided upon a three-year advertising program to cost $1,000,000. Announcement of this program alone is said to be one of the greatest advertisements of Atlanta's enterprise and progress.

Expect Crowd To Attend C. C. Meet

Purposes of Session Here Are to Promote Fellowship and Conduct Educational Program.

LAMAR, Dec. 2.—According to Wm. A. Wilson, president of the South Plains executives, the one day school to be conducted by Joe Leopold, manager of the Southern Division of the United States Chamber of Commerce which convenes at Lubbock December 3, promises to be well attended by representatives of all chambers of commerce in the South Plains area.

The purpose of the school is to further promote the already existing fellowship of South Plains executives and to conduct an educational meeting of this body as well. Further purpose is to study those things common to the area that an intelligent publicity campaign might be launched in the north and east of the merits of this area.

It is now the plan of this association, according to Wilson, to gather periodically at least each three months for such a meeting where the executives, including chamber presidents, vice presidents and directors as well as secretaries will get together.

This is the first sectional organization of this nature functioning in this manner to be organized in Texas, according to its promoters.

It was organized under the direction of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce last April at the Crosbyton meet of the South Plains district of this regional organization.

Christmas Dance Is Well Attended

Dancing Club Entertained With Brilliant Dance At Hotel Lubbock Thursday Evening.

The first of the Christmas dances was given Thursday evening at the Hotel Lubbock and attended by about thirty couples. Hosts and hostesses were Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Bacon, George Field, R. D. Erwin, Harold Griffith, and Rankin Dow. Guests were members of the dancing club and a few visitors.

In keeping with the pre-Christmas season, lighting was attractive and decorations in the hall centered about a small, tree-encircled house, cheerfully lighted within and sparkling with a snow blanket.

As a feature of the entertainment, each couple had been asked to bring a Christmas bundle, carrying garments for which they had no further use. These bundles were stacked and the couples marched by, each receiving one and subsequently dressing in the clothing found. Mrs. W. B. Powell and Harry Putillo received a prize in this costume parade. Santa Claus called with favors for each one attending.

Coffee and sandwiches were served with Mrs. Nell H. Wright presiding at the table. The Toredors furnished music.

FIREMEN ELECT

Third Terms Have No Tremor for Lubbock Men

Third terms may be taboo for Mr. Coolidge and other presidential aspirants but they're o.k. for members of the city fire department. Officers were elected among the firemen last night and resulted in the following being chosen: Oscar Phillips, president; W. C. Bryan and Robert Ellis, trustees; and Guy Casey, secretary. All of these men are serving their third years.

Mr. Long was elected vice president, Pat Hood, to the trustee board and Alex McDonald as assistant secretary.

MOODY REFUSES TO COMMENT ON BANDITS

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 1 (AP)—The policy of law is to arrest men charged with crime and try them in the courts, Governor Moody said today, declining to comment further on what he thinks of rewards offered by the state bankers' association for "dead bank robbers."

He would not define his statement to be a criticism of the association's plan nor would he uphold it.

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Official gauge of the Yates pool of Pecos county, Texas, taken December 1, by the Pecos pro-ratio committee, shows the field to be actually capable of producing 25,707 barrels per hour or at the rate of 604,968 barrels daily, the Tulsa Tribune says today, continuing:

"This pool now ranks highest of any ever opened in the history of the oil industry, being 17,548 barrels above Greater Seminole field's highest peak of 127,400 barrels, attained on July 29, of this year."

"The two biggest producers of the field, rated good for 65,880 barrels and for 28,000 barrels daily, are respectively located on the extreme southeastern and the northwestern edges of the pool, opening up an underestimate amount of new territory in those directions from the proved area."

Great Ovation Is Given New Ford

Thousands View Car Shown At Lubbock Auto Company; To Be On Display Again Today.

Lubbock gave a great ovation to the new Ford car yesterday when it was placed on display at the Lubbock Auto company.

A crowd at midnight showed that 7,982 people had viewed the new automobile. It was announced by George Benson, local dealer. While no report was available from Abilene and San Angelo at that time, it was believed that Lubbock was leading all West Texas in this respect. The three cities are in a contest to attract the most people to view the auto.

The new car will be on display today and next week. The one here is the only one furnished for display in this section of the state. Many expressions of approval were heard from the crowd which thronged the Lubbock Auto company plant all day. It seemed to the casual observer, that Henry Ford's new product was certainly enthusiastically meeting favor in Lubbock.

Yesterday's registration shows visitors from Borger, Plainview, Hale Center, Abilene, Post, Snyder, Slaton, Southland, Spur, Crosbyton, Dalhart, Dalson, Dalworth, Lockney, Floydada, Muleshoe, Amherst, Littlefield, Lamesa, Tahoka, Brownfield and numerous other nearby towns of the South Plains.

to oppose any part of it I don't like."

Glancing down the copy of the Nassau county league's resolution, the governor then quoted:

"Respect for the obedience of law is vital for the preservation of any form of government."

With characteristic eloquence the governor drove in his own comment:

"This is so fundamental that nobody differs with it. Any well organized government must rest upon that principle."

"And notification is being preached by those in authority," he added. "I would like the specifications of that. It's news to me. I have no record of public expression by any one in this state who has reached a doctrine of nullification of the constitution, certainly I have never preached it—I took directly the opposite view."

Doty Released

you are an extremely lucky man. "You should, according to military law, have been executed in Syria."

Doty's eyes never wavered.

"Doty-mon Colonel," he replied.

The colonel reviewed Doty's services, praised him for gallant conduct in the battles against the Druze rebels, calling him one of the finest soldiers he had ever seen but then reverted to his favorite theme:

"You should have had twelve bullets in your breast."

Doty's only reply was a monotonous steady "Doty-mon colonel."

Then the hard-boiled colonel, who had risen from the rank of corporal after 25 years service with the legion in Africa and Asia, rose shook hands with Doty and said:

"Clear, good bye and I wish you luck."

"Don't think that I am going to burst out crying and start vituperating against the legion," Doty said an Associated Press correspondent after leaving the barracks for the station whence he was accompanied by the correspondent and a motion picture photographer. "I knew what I was getting into when I enlisted. I didn't expect any pink tea party. I think I got better than a square deal. If any boy expects Beau Geste stuff from me he's mistaken."

THE NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

Robert M. Cutting has been nominated for president of the Western Golf Association. We hope it doesn't develop that he has a slice.

Announcement of a $2,000,000 gift from John D. Jr. to the University of Paris was a surprise. We didn't know the French were building football stadiums.

A culture contest between teams of ten men each from Yale and Harvard is proposed. Transferring the emphasis from football to horn-rimmed specs and Latin ponies.

If such a contest were held, the attendance probably would be composed largely of Greek rooters.

But Harvard and Princeton could not even get along in the culture games. Mr. O'Goofy believes. One of them probably would charge the other team's Greek scholars and professional restaurant experience.

Capablanca and Alekhine fought a draw in their thirty-first battle for the chess championship. Somebody ought to tell those fellows this joke has gone far enough.

His skull was crushed and his leg broken, death resulting while he was being taken a mile and a half from the mill to Douglas.

CONFLEET

The Manhunter's Own
True Story
A Story by Gordon Lister

Chapter Forty-eight

I learned to walk in a pained manner, shaking a crotchety cane in my free hand. I cultivated a high tone of voice that thinly screamed and often cracked in the middle of a word.

When Van Cise arrived, I was notified and went directly to see him. He told me his great interest in breaking up the Denver confidence ring. I was victimizing many wealthy tourists and ruining the city's reputation for hospitality. Interested citizens had raised a fund of $15,000 to finance the campaign against the crooks. Impertinent detectives had been trying to get along on business as of a jerk. I told him I was practically a stranger in the city, and that my wife had not come along because she wasn't well. He picked that as a point of coming interest for furthering the conversation. His own wife was in a well-known hospital in Minnesota, he said, and he expressed great concern over her condition. He soon intimated, however, that men must live and make the best of troubles. He had some "lovely lady friends."

"What's that, make the best of things, and get a little joy out of life? What do you say to a little rule tomorrow morning? We might meet the ladies later and have a great time."

It didn't cost anything to make an appointment. If I changed my mind before it arrived, I'd just have to show up. It was agreed that we'd meet at nine o'clock next morning at the corner of California and Eighteenth. We had drifted along while talking until we had reached Seventeenth Street and the Columbia Hotel. I stopped and bade him good-by in front of the Archer Cafe. I must write some letters. I hurried to my room and peeped out through the curtains. Old Sol stood where I had left him, and he seemed to be in a very uncertain mental state. He would look across at the hotel entrance, and once I thought he started to come across. He hesitated, however, wavering as if unable to make up his mind. I drew a deep breath and decided to wait. I was not to do business. At any rate, I'd avoid him in the morning and look for a better opening. If none showed up, I'd take a chance on putting my bluff over on him.

While I watched out the window it grew dark and lightning flashed. In a few minutes a deluge of rain was falling, and the streets were soon running curb-full. The rain helped Solomon to decide in favor of abandoning his watchfulness, and he ran down the street as a down-pour of hail began to pelt him.

I went to the telephone and called the emergency number. Van Cise had given me the party who answered said that Mr. Van Cise was out, but that he would connect up with Kenneth W. Robinson, an investigator, if I had an important message. Robinson's voice spoke to me over the wire and I told him, guardedly, that I had a good trade for him. He replied that he was interested and that there was to be a little party held within a short time at a certain address which he gave me.

PADUCAH DEVELOPS

Get Western Union Service For First Time

(Special To The Avalanche)
PADUCAH, Dec. 2.—Culminating efforts extending over a period of almost half a decade, Paducah is enjoying telegraph service this week for the first time in the history of the town, and has sent its first message to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in recognition of that organization's aid in obtaining a local Western Union office.

Paducah is doing itself proud in improvement projects this week. Monday a natural gas franchise for the city was granted. Tuesday marked the first day of western union service, and Wednesday saw cutting over on a new telephone system underway.

The telegram sent to the headquarters office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Stamford came from the Paducah County Chamber of Commerce of which W. M. Abernathy is secretary, as an appreciation of the regional organization's help in the town's development.

Boost Livestock In Dawson County

Carload of Jersey Cows And Bulls are Shipped Into Lamesa; Farmers Declared "Sold" on Idea.

LAMESA, Dec. 2.—C. B. Martin county agent for Dawson county, has just returned from Fairbury, where he purchased two carloads of pure bred Jersey cows and bulls, that he distributed throughout the county. According to Martin there are now four registered Jersey bull circles in the county and farmers all over the county are stocking pure bred Jersey cows in view of substantially increasing the annual yield of butter fat production in the county. Martin states that the farmers over the county are sold to the idea of breeding up their herds with both stock and increase butter fat production in mind.

It is estimated that Dawson county now has more than 5,000 head of good Jersey milk cows. Martin states that Dawson county will soon be ready to engage to standard dairy type test that will be promoted on the South Plains. Dairy shows will be staged at various points on the South Plains according to plans now under way.

NEW A. M. DIRECTOR

Oscar Martin Succeeds Alvord; Has Experience

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 2.—Oscar Baker Martin, who became director of the Extension Service A. and M. College of Texas, Dec. 1, succeeding Charles H. Alvord, resigned, director since September, 1925, comes to his new post in Texas with a wealth of experience in extension work behind him. At the time of his appointment, he was regional director for the Southern region, comprising the cotton growing states, of the National Extension Office, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington D. C. a post he had held since 1921.

In addition, Mr. Martin in taking over his work in Texas, enters a territorial field of activity with which he has kept in close contact. He is well acquainted with the organization and personnel of the Extension Service of the A. and M. College of Texas.

TO SEND DELEGATES

Ten Will Represent T. C. U. At Detroit Conference

(Special To The Avalanche) FORT WORTH, Dec. 2.—Texas Christian University will send ten student delegates and a faculty representative to the international student Volunteer Convention which will be held in Detroit, Michigan, December 28 to January 2, according to Prof. E. W. McDiarmid, chairman of the committee on appointment of delegates.

Delegates will be chosen by a faculty committee consisting of Prof. McDiarmid, Dean Lee Carter and Prof. H. L. Pickens, who will consult with a representative student group. A committee is now at work to raise approximately $1,000 which is needed to finance the trip to Detroit.

The convention meets once in every four years, with delegates from all over the world in attendance. Four years ago the meeting was in Indianapolis, Ind., with Prof. Raymond Smith, of the school of Education as the faculty representative from T. C. U. and Prof. E. W. McDiarmid went as the faculty delegate to the session in Des Moines, Iowa.

RUSH NEW RAILROAD

Rails Will Be Laid Into Floydada In January

(Special To The Avalanche) FLOYDADA, Dec. 2.—Actual laying of rails on the extension of the Quahab, Acme & Pacific railway into Floydada will begin by January 15, according to Chas. H. Sommer, president of the system, who is in company with A. E. Sommer, vice-president and general manager of the system, was in Floydada this week completing arrangements for the right-of-way into the city. The road will begin by laying out on the extension by the 15th of this month and the laying of the rails will follow immediately.

Working at the rate of 4,000 feet per day the laying of the rails will require about sixty days, is the belief of Mr. Sommer, and indications are that rails will begin running into the city by March 1.

The station that will be built in Floydada will cost approximately $40,000.

FEED COWS AT HOME

Howard County Rancher Shows It Can Be Done

BIG SPRING, Dec. 2.—John Guller, ranchman and capitalist, who owns several sections of good agricultural and ranching lands in Howard county is showing by actual practice that West Texas white face calves can be finished for market on home grown feed.

Two hundred Hereford calves raised on his ranch are being fed a ration of ground milo, cotton seed meal and ground sorghum hulls. These calves are making remarkable gains according to Joe Stokes, who is superintending the feeding.

Guller owns and operates his own feed grinder and gets his cotton seed meal from his own mill. This demonstration is being watched with interest by cattlemen and stock farmers of West Texas. The results may open up a new avenue to market for cattlemen and farmers who grow feed for sale.

Plenty of Money Available For Those Who Keep Cows, Poultry, Hogs, Etc., Along With Cotton.

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Dec. 2.—Lamesa and Dawson county have two banks, the First National and the Lamesa National. The years new in position to take care of the financial needs of the trade territory. With almost two million dollars on deposit at this writing the healthy financial condition of the section is mirrored.

The policies of these two banks are of such as to help keep the section in good condition from now on. In a recent interview with the leaders of these institutions we find that they are doing what they can to encourage a county wide live-at-home, make a living first, and diversified program in the county.

They are glad to loan money to farmers who want milk cows, hogs, chickens, turkeys and want to begin a program of diversification. On the other hand they will hesitate to loan money to be used in the purchase of cars, gasoline or to make a crop where the farmer is not well entrenched behind the balanced farming program. They maintain that few loans have to be made to the farmer who diversifies and tries to make his living at home, and that it is good sound banking to aid the person who wants to get started in this great program of living at home.

On the whole Dawson county farmers are paying the banks what they owe them. They are getting ready to start another crop without the usual West Texas bank note as overhead. Their ability to pay is attributed to good crops this fall of course and the following of a program of diversification as sponsored by the two banks here.
