Heat Wave In East Claims Two Score Deaths County Offers Site On Square for Federal Building

Is Second Offer Of Location For Federal Building

Either Half of East Side Square Will Be Presented To Government If Postal Authorities So Desire.

IMMEDIATE ACTION ON PROJECT HOPED

Big Step Toward Early Beginning of Construction Believed Made With Prof. by Commission.

An offer to the Federal government of either half of the east side of the courthouse square as a building site for the proposed federal court building here was made yesterday afternoon by a unanimous vote of the county commissioners' court.

This is the second building site offer to be made but it is expected that numerous others will be made before the final selection is determined. The other offer was the north part of the city's block near the city hall, by the city of Lubbock.

Final action by the commissioners' court was made after an all-afternoon discussion by the commissioners with a number of interested local citizens.

Acceptance of rejection by the government of this offer will be made for some time, it was said. According to the motion passed by the commission, the government is tendered the choice of the southeast or the northeast corner of the square, with details to be worked out at a later date.

The proposed federal building will be about 175 by 250 feet. Interference of the federal building with the present jail building offers one of the handicaps in the offer made yesterday, but it is thought that the matter can be worked out satisfactorily. It is planned at some time in the future to erect a criminal court building here which will contain a jail. It was suggested that the criminal court building be placed on the corner not taken by the

High School Band Comes Home Today

Boys Are Due In Lubbock About Sundown, Ending 3000 Mile Concert Jaunt Over Western States.

The Lubbock high school band, which has been on a concert tour through several western states will arrive in Lubbock this afternoon about sundown, according to a wire received late last night from Director J. W. Crowley.

The telegram did not specify the exact time of arrival. Last night the band played their last concert of the tour, at Fort Guadalupe, N. M. It climaxed a 3000 mile jaunt, during which many of the principal cities of Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico were visited. Complimentary letters to folks "back home" echoed the visits in many places.

OFFICERS MAKE RAID

Ten Gallon Still Found At Farmhouse Sunday

Officers are still looking for the owner of a ten gallon still and two gallons of corn whiskey which they acquired at a raid of a farmhouse north of Lubbock Sunday.

The owner, probably getting wind of the affair, was not at the house when the raid was made, and the officers were unable to find him.

THERE'S A MORAL TO THIS STORY

There is a moral to this story. Never take a nap by the side of the road.

Grady Newsom, of Tahoka, was walking to his house, out from town, on the right of the Fourth. After a while he got tired of walking, and sat down by the roadside to wait for a ride. Before he knew it, he was sound asleep, with one foot out in the road. Now, he is in the Lubbock sanitarium with a compound fracture in both bones of one of his lower legs, where an automobile ran over him.

"I'll look for a better place to sleep next time," says Newsom.

Minnie Fisher Cunningham, Candidate For United States Senate, Talks Here

Believes She Would Make Good In Big Job At Capital

"How would I feel among all those United States senators?" asked Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, in answer to a question. "Why, I'd feel perfectly natural."

As Lady Vincent Astor feels in Parliament, I've been working with those very same men for years in governmental committees, and we cooperate very well."

Mrs. Cunningham, an attractive, brown-eyed woman in her early forties, impresses one immediately as being thoroughly capable of holding the office which she is seeking, that of United States senator from Texas. If she is elected, it will be quite a step upward for women in politics, for no woman has ever had the honor of being a member of the United States senate.

Born on a farm in Walker county, and a graduate of the University of Texas, Mrs. Cunningham has devoted her life to volunteer service to her state. In doing so, she has traveled widely in it and other states and has studied intensively government and political conditions at Washington.

She Teaches Politics. "One of the most enjoyable phases of my work," said Mrs. Cunningham, "is the teaching every summer of a class of democratic women who come to Washington from all over the United States to be instructed in the principles of government and of party organization."

This latest Texas exponent of women's rights is interesting, not only as a clear-sighted politician, but as a very wide-awake person, with a delightful sense of humor.

"Your West Texas is, indeed, wonderful. To one who has been from the pine woods, it is amazing—all this wide expanse and the straight-up rugged hills, with their tops chopped off, so different from ours," she laughed.

Strong for Tech. "I have just returned from an inspection of the Tech college. It is beautiful and quite different from any other school in the state. Dr.

WASH-HOUSE BURNS

Owner Learned of Blaze In Query at Station

Fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed the wash-house back of the home of E. G. Landt, 1548 Avenue G, at about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The fire started in a trash sack hanging on the side of the wash-house and spread to the building. The fire was extinguished by the time the fire-truck arrived.

Mr. Landt was walking by the fire department soon after the fire had answered the alarm. He asked where the fire was, and when told the address, started out in a dead run, mumbling something about it being his house.

Byrnes will be taken back to San Angelo, according to an announcement by the secretary of E. P. Harrell, warden, although no reason for the transfer has been assigned.

Byrnes had been convicted of murder in the case of Mrs. Schirra's grand daughter, had been given the death penalty and had been in the penitentiary for several months.

Substantial Cut In State Taxes Is Promise of Board

Slash of Seven Cents In Ad Valorem Rate Will Be Made At Meeting, Slaters For Austin Next Week.

(By Associated Press) DALLAS, July 9.—Reduction of the general ad valorem tax in Texas from 25 cents on $100 to 18 cents will be voted by the state automatic tax board at its meeting, probably Monday in Austin, Gregory W. Hatcher, state treasurer, said here today.

The material reduction will be based on the result shown by a new balance sheet on the state's prospective income and expenses, Mr. Hatcher said.

Governor Dan Moody, Comptroller S. H. Terrell and Hatcher constitute the state automatic tax board.

The new rate will be the lowest in a two-year period since the administration of Governor Campbell.

Last change was made shortly after Governor Moody assumed office, when it was increased from 23 to 25 cents to take care of a deficit left over from the previous administration, according to Mr. Hatcher.

REDUCE DEATH LIST

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 9. (P)—An official statement tonight cut down the probable death toll resulting from the wreck of the naval transport Angamos to 209.

The statement confirms earlier reports, that there were six known survivors.

.22 INCHES RAIN

Precipitation Here Extends Over Narrow Area

Yesterday's shower, which netted a precipitation of .22 inches here and thus broke the drought which has existed here—at least in a minor degree—was confined almost totally to the section immediately adjoining Lubbock, telephone reports yesterday showed.

The rain extended a few miles in every direction. Though it brought temporary relief to crops, more rain is needed.

Juvenile Crime Ring Directed By Adult

"Master Mind," Is Alleged By Officers Here

Exposure of an organized youthful theft ring composed of young boys, directed by an adult "master mind," who sends the youths through the acts of crime for his own benefit, was promised by local officers yesterday with the arrest Sunday of six youths on charges of theft and possession of beer.

Technical charges of theft and burglary yesterday were filed against four of the youths, ranging in age from 8 to 13 years. They are being held in jail pending further investigation of the alleged ring.

States Platform And Beliefs To Crowd Of Voters

Declaring that "the people of Texas are tired of candidates standing on both sides of important questions in order to get votes," and following with a direct statement of her platform, which consists of unqualified support for prohibition, farm relief, adjustment of freight rates, food control, reduction in taxes, open form of government and a carefully constructed foreign policy, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, of New Waverly, officially opened her campaign for the candidacy for the United States Senate on the South Plains and in the Panhandle with an address before a crowd of Lubbock citizens in the district court room here yesterday afternoon.

"I realize that to be a United States Senator from Texas is a man's job but I'm not running as a woman," Mrs. Cunningham said. "I'm making my fight on a platform of issues, bringing back one of those good old Democratic principles."

Mrs. Cunningham then took up the issue of her platform, stating first that "the candidate who goes into the second primary with Earle B. Mayfield will be the next Senator from Texas." She was introduced by Dr. John C. Granbery, Tech faculty member.

"I'm strictly for prohibition," Mrs. Cunningham said, "and believe that it can be enforced. I remember the evils of the open saloon days and will do all in my power to see that they do not come back." Questioned a few minutes later, Mrs. Cunningham stated that she thought that the prohibition question would be a paramount problem during the next congress.

She's For Farm Relief. She expressed herself as strongly in favor of farm relief, but stated that she thought the Democratic agricultural plank was too indefinite and not specific enough. "I'm glad that the McNary-Haugen bill was defeated," she said, "for I fear that a great hardship would have been worked off on the cotton states through the bill."

Treating the reduction of freight.

COTTON PRICE BREAKS

Crash of $4 a Bale On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, July 9.—Cotton prices broke about $4 a bale on the New York cotton exchange today when the government report, estimating acreage under cultivation, indicated an increase over last year nearly twice as great as expected.

The report, which placed the acreage at 46,000,000 or 11.4 percent more than the estimate of July 1, 1927, caused general selling. Virtually every contract had opened at a point or two higher in expectation of a small increase and October quickly dropped from 22.46 cents a pound to 21.85, December from 22.23 to 21.90 and January from 22.16 to 21.85. Most positions recovered a point or two at the close on local and trade buying at the low levels.

Suicide Verdict Given In Death Of John B. Reed

Body of Missing Cafe Owner Found by Tourists Sunday In Canyon Northeast Of City.

FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD YESTERDAY

Identification of Body Difficult Due To Decomposition; Carbolic Acid Bottles Found Nearby.

Quiet, simple funeral services were held yesterday morning for John B. Reed, 44, owner of the Elk Cafe, whose body was found Sunday evening in the Yellowhouse Canyon, northeast of the city, after he had been missing for three days.

Sun-baked and badly decomposed, the lifeless form of Reed was found in a secluded canyon by two tourists exploring the country, after friends, relatives and officers had made a frantic but fruitless search for him since Friday. Two carbolic acid bottles by his side told the apparent story of his tragic death.

Streets, alleys, and warehouses of the city and surrounding territory had been combed in a vain attempt to locate the body of the man.

No intimation of the catastrophe had been made and no note was left. Worry over business was the only reason which could be advanced for his action, although the books of the cafe showed no outstanding debts.

Suicide Is Verdict. Suicide was the verdict returned by Justice of the Peace G. R. Scott after an examination of the facts connected with the case. Bynum Brothers funeral directors declared that Reed had been dead since about 7 o'clock Friday morning, which was about an hour after he was last seen by the proprietor of the Tourist Inn, where he had spent the night.

Identification of the body was difficult due to the decomposition during the three days exposure. When they discovered the body, the tourists informed passing golfers who notified officers.

Mrs. Reed had been almost despondent since the mysterious disappearance of her husband.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 9. Smith Promises Speedy Action On Farm Aid Subject

If Elected, Demo Nominee Will Call Farm Conference Before Inauguration; Campaign Mapped.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, July 9.—Governor Alfred E. Smith announced today that if he is elected president in November he will call a conference for the study of the farm problem at once without waiting for his inauguration, so that he will be ready to transmit to congress at its opening session, a definite program of farm relief.

"As to agriculture," he telegraphed W. H. Kettle, president of the Indiana farm bureau federation, who had wired for the governor's "personal position" on the agricultural plank in the democratic platform, "I stand squarely on the pledges given by the democratic party at Houston. I understand and sympathize with the objects which organized agriculture is struggling to attain and which our party has promised to help them secure."

"If the election returns disclose that I have been chosen president, I will not wait until I am inaugurated before acting on this problem. I will immediately after the election call a conference of leaders to commence at once and continue work to assist me to develop a concrete plan embodying the principles of the Houston platform so that I may transmit to congress at its opening session a definite program accompanied by suggestions for the necessary legislation to make it effective."

The telegram from Kettle, which brought forth the governor's reply, follows: "The executive committee of the Indiana farm bureau federation of which I am president will meet in Indianapolis next Tuesday, July 10. Will you wire me at that time."

Woman Judge Says World Needs Training For Happiness

CHICAGO, July 10.—Courses in home life are the crying need of American schools, in the opinion of Judge Mary M. Barthelme of Chicago, judge of America's oldest and largest juvenile court.

"It will be this generation's children who preserve or break up home life, the bulwark of Americanism," she asserted.

"Therefore the children of today should know the economics and ethics of home life. They should realize that beauty, peace and sympathy—the best products of family life—come only through mutual give and take. A thought to others, a sense of responsibility and a willingness to lend a hand or eat are necessary ingredients of home happiness. Schools should teach this."

Fifteen Years of Work Judge Barthelme, white-haired, motherly, has spent the past 15 years untangling lives that have come to grief.

Thousands of delinquent children and hundreds of unhappy women have been rehabilitated through her efforts. She gets them jobs, looks after their clothes so they can have self-esteem when looking for jobs, adjusts them to new environments and often gives substantial financial aid to keep homes together, so firmly does she believe in home life. Last year she administered $2,500,000 to mothers and widows.

"Times are so complicated now that we all need training to insure success. I believe children should be taught that they need training for happiness just as much as for a job. And I believe every child, boy or girl, should feel he must have a trade or profession and work to make a home—the ideal school."

WEDS AT CLARENDON

Sister of Local Couple Is Wed To Idaho Man

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Oressa Estelle Teague of Clarendon, and Roy J. McCaslin, of Boise, Idaho, which took place at the First Methodist church of that city Thursday, June 28 at six o'clock, with Rev. D. B. Doak, and Rev. E. C. Roney, of Perryton officiating, with the ring ceremony.

Mrs. Charles Deah, Jr. played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the wedding march and Men-helshon for the recessional.

The bride's only attendant was her niece, Miss Alice Kliser, Carl McCaslin, brother of the groom officiated as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCaslin left for a wedding trip through Colorado, Kansas and Utah. Later they will be at home in Boise.

Mrs. McCaslin is a sister of J. M. Teague, 222 14th Street and Mrs. D. B. Doak, 1113 Broadway. They together with their families, and Miss Anna Belle Giffin attended the wedding.

The Morning Avalanche

Menu for the Day

LUNCHEON—Stuffed peppers, watercress with chiffonade dressing, cream cheese and whole wheat sandwiches, meringue pudding, milk tea.

DINNER—Broiled halibut steaks, lemon butter, scalloped potatoes, diced carrots, cabbage salad, cherry pudding, milk coffee.

Stuffed peppers offer a suggestion for a bridge luncheon as well as the family meal. They are especially good to serve for a "one-plate" luncheon since the pepper acts as a container.

Four large sweet green peppers, 1 cup peeled and sliced mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 1/2 cups shelled peas, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup cream, 1/2 cup buttered crumbs.

Cut a slice from the stem end of each pepper and remove seeds and pith. Cover with boiling water, let stand five minutes. Drain and rub off thin coating on outside of peppers. Melt butter, add mushrooms and cook five minutes. Add peas which have been cooked in just enough water to prevent burning until almost done. Add cream, salt and a few grains of pepper.

Olive Roberts Barton Says:

Regular Habits Essential For Infants

The first habit of importance to a baby's life is regularity. Regularity of sleeping, eating and eliminating.

A very young baby should sleep from 18 to 22 hours out of every 24. During the second and third months he should sleep from 18 to 20 hours. When he is six months old he should sleep 12 hours at night without interruption except for one evening feeding at 10 o'clock. Even this may not be necessary. He should sleep two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon, but not after 6 p. m. and not disturbed after that except for the 10 o'clock feeding.

Keep Night Schedule

As he grows older the daytime naps may be gradually shortened, but the night periods should not be changed. After he is a year old a nap in the afternoon will be enough daytime sleep, unless he is sick. Even if he does not sleep, he should be put to bed in a quiet, dark room, and if he is under a year old, he should be put to bed at 8 o'clock. Boys and girls under 15 should be in bed by 9 o'clock every night.

Babies never should be taken to rooms. Not only because they are exposed to germs of contagious disease but simply because their sleep is at home and in bed, quiet, and peacefully. Babies who nap no one to leave the baby with safety should have him stay or stay away altogether.

Never give a baby any sort of medicine to induce sleep.

Never wake a baby to show him to company.

Never take a baby visiting to this, that, and the other house and put him down to sleep anywhere that is convenient.

Plenty of Fresh Air

Don't play with him or excite him just before bedtime.

See that he has fresh air when he is asleep. In pleasant weather he may take his daytime naps outdoors in a protected place.

See that the sun never shines in his eyes, asleep or awake.

Accustom him to sleep through ordinary household noises and then he will not be unduly disturbed.

Don't awaken a child in the morning until he awakens naturally.

Weekly Foreign News Review

BY MELVIN E. COLEMAN
Cable Editor, The Associated Press

The Balkan volcano is rumbling and smoking again but whereas a few years ago these symptoms would have sent messengers scurrying among the chancelleries of empires and kingdoms, the democracies of modern Europe seem content to let the troubled governments of that region settle their own affairs.

What started as a party political row in Yugoslavia developed last week into a threat against the entirety of the kingdom. The Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes make up the realm of King Alexander and the Croats are in open rebellion against political domination by the Serbs.
They have uttered a threat through Sefan Raditch that they are about to disregard the ties of the combination.

"If the present coalition continues to govern, a catastrophe is inevitable," said Raditch. "For Croats only two possibilities remain—the king and the people."

Alexander is Puzzled Back of the present scene are the Nettuno treaties granting Italian citizens the right to own lands on the Adriatic littoral of Croatia, for out of the debate over those pacts came the shooting in which two Croats were killed and Raditch himself wounded. The Croats insist now upon dissolution of parliament and they have even refused to accept leadership of a new cabinet under any other condition. King Alexander has about decided upon a non-political combination of educators, technicians and other professional men to bridge the chasm between the rival racial elements.

Austria-Italy Make Up
Austria returned to normal relations with Italy, Mussolini sending the Italian ambassador back to Vienna after an absence of four months. This break arose from complaints of Germanic residents of the old Austrian Tyrol, annexed to Italy after the world war. Chancellor Slepi of Austria ended the affair by assuring Italy that Austria officially realized that the dissatisfied Germans should have appealed to Rome instead of Vienna. But many of his constituents are accusing Slepi of knuckling down to Italy.

Some thrilling drama was recorded in the foreign news. Three hundred lives were lost in the wreck of a Chilean government steamer, Captain Alfred Lowenstein, spectacular Belgian financier, disappeared from a plane that crossed the English channel at a height of 4,000 feet, and the stock exchange of London, Brussel, Paris and Berlin reacted sharply.

Explorers Still Missing
Lieutenant Lumborg, Swedish flier who was marooned on the Arctic ice after he had heroically rescued General Umberto Nobile, was himself rescued by an equally daring Swedish officer, Lieutenant Shyberg. Five of Nobile's men remain on the ice near Foyn Island.
The fates of nine of their companions and of six rescuers headed by Roald Amundsen, are enshrouded in the Arctic silence.

While mariners and fliers of six nations continued their perilous efforts to succor the Italian polar explorers, two other Italians, Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. Del Prete, performed a splendid exploit by flying from Rome to the capital of Brazil. They established a new record for distance on a non-stop flight, taking laurels which had been in the United States since Chamberlin and Levine travelled from Long Island to Germany, in June 1927.

The crew of the plane Bremen, first to span the Atlantic from east to west, received homage and praise in the capitals of Germany, England and Ireland, and then called on Herr Wilhelm Hohenloher at Dorn, Holland.
There the three companions of adventure separated and while Major James Fitzmaurice was heading back to Ireland, Captain Herman Koehl and Baron Von Huenfeld returned to Germany.

Only yesterday, it seems, we read of balloon tires, radio, electric ranges. Today they count as necessities and magic newcomers are knocking at our door-changes its own records.

Even as you read these lines, men in Chicago and Atlanta, Philadelphia and Detroit, are patiently putting together strange devices that, tomorrow, will save labor, cut costs, or give pleasure.

When these inventions become

NUT CRACKER

By Joe Williams

Mr. O'Goofy went down to Governor's Island the other day to see Charley Padlock run. He thought at first he said he was in the wrong pew when he saw Padlock, in gaudy striped habiliments, sit and debate with himself over which of a dozen pairs of shoes he would wear.

Finally, according to operative O'Goofy, he decided on a shiny new pair of white kids, then he actually walked to the track, wearing a felt jacket and loose trousers and trimmings.

With a tape measure Padlock then measured O'Goofy's feet. One had to be nine inches behind the starting line, the other 18 inches. He dug his footholes, showing his virility by declining to accept a towel another runner offered him.

Casting off the felt coat, and trimmed trousers, then, he stood forth in his beautiful striped suit and practiced a few starts. Then all lined up for the gun—but, wait!

Something was wrong with Padlock's shoes. He dropped out of the line of runners. He tumbled with the lace. Ah! It seems a lace was loose. Then they ran. O'Goofy says he wants to be told a couple of days in advance. He wants to look up a good movie show for that day.

DOWNTOWN CLASS

Dozen Towns Represented In Attendance

Representatives from a dozen towns attended the Downtown Bible class lecture Sunday at the Palace Theatre, given by Dr. W. R. White, First Baptist church pastor.

Special music was given by Miss Mary Hope Westbrook.

The session Sunday morning showed how Paul was influenced by the signing to death of Stephen, their meeting resulting in an epoch in religious and world history. Dr. White brought out the fact that, by having another personality may change the entire current of one's life, as it did in Paul's case. And while the ostentatious meeting of personalities has more to do with kings and potentates in the affairs of the world, yet often the meeting of humble and unknown changing the currents of the world's life.

Groundwork Laid by Two Leaders; Jesse Jones There
ALBANY, N. Y., July 9. (AP)—Groundwork of the democratic presidential campaign was laid here today by the two men who will carry the fight—Governor Smith and Senator Robinson. It was their first meeting since they were selected the party's standard bearers at Houston.

The vice presidential nominee stopped off on his way to New York City, where the democratic national committee hold an organization meeting Wednesday. He was met at the station by the governor, who took him to the executive mansion, where for an hour they discussed campaign plans. Neither would disclose later details of their conversation, except to say that it had dealt with the situation.

Jesse Jones Alone
With Robinson, when he de-trained here was Jesse H. Jones, Houston millionaire, who has been a leader in democratic party councils. When they again boarded Jones' special car late in the day for the remainder of their journey, they took with them Norman E. Mack, national committeeman from New York, who had dropped in on Governor Smith earlier in the day. Mack predicted that Smith would sweep New York state in November, and that his views on prohibition largely would be responsible.

The republican nominee will go first to the summer residence of President Coolidge on the Brule river in northern Wisconsin, reaching there Monday morning. government, should it choose one of the two corners offered.

Citizens attending the meeting stressed the need of immediate action on the project.

To exact location and no exact amount of land was included in the offer decided upon although it was thought a great advanced step in getting the ball rolling for a federal building.

Suggestion that the west section of the square bordering Texas Avenue be offered was finally overruled after a lengthy discussion.

Mrs. Cunningham

Horn showed me the plans for the completed campus, and I like them very much. I like to see a school built according to a definite idea or scheme. I am glad that the state recognized the educational needs of West Texas enough to establish such an institution here. I do not believe in providing facilities for one section to the exclusion of others.

"And Texas is growing. Why, one has no idea how it is growing until he gets into his little car and rattles around over the state. It isn't boom development, either. Everywhere I go, I see beautiful homes and splendid school buildings that are better, on the whole, than any I've seen in my travels over other states."

Mrs. Cunningham is accompanied on her tour of West Texas by a young man from Austin, Bill Doon, popular student in the University of Texas.

Said Mr. Doon, "My mother is one of Mrs. Cunningham's most loyal and most active campaigners in Austin, and I myself believe in her ability so strongly that I was willing to give up a vacation trip to come along and do my little bit for her on her tour."

TWO MEN MURDERED

Killings Believed Echo Of Brooklyn Feud

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—Two men were shot to death and two others wounded tonight in a section of Brooklyn where the late Frankie Yale, murdered gangster, was known to have wielded great influence.

Police believed that the victims were mistaken for someone else by the five or six men who opened up on them from an automobile as they stood talking on a street corner.

The four were Porto Ricans and were planning a trip to Porto Rico in a few weeks. Garica told the police. As they discussed their plans, he said, a green sedan drove past and five or six dark visaged men in it opened fire.

rates, Mrs. Cunningham stated that it was largely the tariff which made the freight rates so high, some of them running as high as 87 per cent.

"I believe that the power industry should be developed throughout the country with an attempt to oust the actions of the great power trusts which are networking the nation today. The greatest lobby in Washington today is the electric power group, she said.

Raps Secrecy
"The United States government is our business and should be transacted in the open so that we can see its workings," she said as she struck a blow at secrecy in government, mentioning especially the executive sessions of the United States Senate.

Touching upon the foreign policy of the United States, she declared that a "policy which shall interpret the friendliness of the American people toward other nations" should be adopted and that the present policies especially the one toward Nicaragua should be mended. "I believe in an agency for peace," she said, "and believe that the League of Nations was destined to be this great agency."

Says Her Lot Is Hard
The people of the state are not favorable toward a woman candidate for an office, Mrs. Cunningham said, especially one for a United States Senator. She is receiving, however, she said, marvelous receptions at the places where she is speaking. The rural communities are a little more prone to give a woman more credit, she said, due to the fact that the farmers recognize her ability to share her part of the economic burden more than the city man does.

Mrs. Cunningham left here soon after her address for Plainview where she appeared in another program there last night. She expects to cover the state, she said yesterday, speaking at practically every place that her opponents do.

WOMAN PILOT CRASHES

Endurance Tour Plane Is Smashed In Fall

EL PASO, Tex., July 9. (AP)—Badly shaken up, but uninjured, Mrs. Phoebe B. Omie, only woman pilot in the national reliability air tour, and her passenger, Mrs. Eddie Stinson, arrived here tonight after their plane had been wrecked in landing at Maria, Texas, this afternoon.

"It was all my fault," the pilot told newspapermen. "I just turned too sharply after landing, and tipped my plane over. Don't say anything else—just that."

Undaunted by their experience, the women will take off tomorrow, continuing the tour in a similar plane to the one wrecked, a monocoque.

ANDERSON YET IN JAIL

Writ By Supreme Court Is Not Obtained

DALLAS, June 9. (AP)—The Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Fundamental Baptist church here, prepared to spend his fifth night in jail after his attorney, Henry G. Wells, had failed today to secure a writ of habeas corpus from the state supreme court at Austin.

The pastor was fined $100 and costs, and sentenced to jail for contempt of court for refusing to obey a temporary restraining order against construction of a tabernacle in a Dallas residential section. District Judge Towne Young has expressed determination not to release him until he posts $1000 bond as a guaranty that the injunction will not be again violated.

Maybe one of the reasons why Setchunen live to such a great age is because dying is such an expensive undertaking.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 by NEA Service Inc.

BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD BRYER, receives a sharp-edged paper knife as a gift from LILA MARSH—the prettiest girl in town—who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy.

The feel of the metal chilled her. And she thought that it was a dagger to pierce her happiness flashed across her mind so that her dreaming anticipation turned to miserable foreboding.

But Bertie Lou courageously resolves not to be jealous of Rod's past love affair. His future is in her keeping.

She was beautiful in her wedding dress, but the joyful singing in her heart ceased just before the ceremony when Bertie Lou accidentally overhears one of her bridesmaids ask another if she thinks the bride likes being second choice.

Dazedly she stands before the altar, but when the words of the minister ends and Rod whispers "My wife" with a world of wonder and adoration in his eyes, Bertie Lou knows that she would rather be second choice than to give him up.

Then Lila comes up to offer congratulations.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

"Sure go ahead," Rod replied good-naturedly to Lila's offer to help prepare the housekeeping rooms that he and Bertie Lou would occupy upon their return.

Lila threw a glance at Bertie Lou, who appeared not to have caught the significance Lila had sought to put into her remarks about knowing Rod's tastes.

The young bride was engaged in receiving the good wishes of old friends and thanking them in a slightly tremulous voice.

Others were pushing forward for a word with Rod. But Lila had not finished with him. Stung a trifle by Bertie Lou's failure to show any signs of annoyance, she said suddenly, with a high, tinkling laugh, "Well, I suppose I might as well take my last kiss now while I can get it."

Rod did not realize what she was about before she had flung both arms around his neck and given him a lingering kiss full upon the lips. "For the sake of old days," she added. People stared as she moved laughingly away. Lila's behavior frequently shocked the townspeople but she had always stopped short of getting herself ostracized. But this, they thought, was going a bit too far. Right under Bertie Lou's nose! And the words that had made her and Rod one still echoing in the air!

Bertie Lou took it like a thoroughbred. She acted just like a bride. Perhaps if nothing had happened to mar the occasion she would not have forgotten the mask of the flapper who wasn't really a flapper at all, but just a sweet girl who was trying to live up to what she thought was expected of modern youth.

It had been a blessed relief to Mrs. Ward when Bertie Lou had submitted quietly to being drawn to her new mother-in-law's ample parlor and wept over without protest. She could not know, of course, that Bertie Lou had buried her face gratefully in that broad bosom while she winked away a couple unwanted tears.

But Bertie Lou wasn't going to ignore Lila or passively let matters take their course. Kissing might be in order at a wedding it was true, but Bertie Lou knew perfectly well that Lila's act meant more than a mere kiss. Whether or not it was to be followed by other guest assaults upon her happiness, Bertie Lou could not forget, but Lila must be put right about it at once.

Bertie Lou lived through two honeymoon weeks of never-to-be-forgotten bliss with nothing to mar them but the shadow of a predatory ex-sweetheart that flapped ominously in the background of her consciousness.

Rod, as a husband, was flawless. He's always been the finest looking boy in Wayville. But the best thing about him was his utter indifference to his good looks. Perhaps, in his innermost thoughts, he was pleased to be a tall, clean-cut, clean-ribbed sort of person, but if so the feeling never reached the surface to manifest itself annoyantly to less favored individuals.

He and Bertie Lou thought they had everyone at the Lakeside Hotel fooled about their new status. But that was only because they were too self-contained to see the smiles that followed them everywhere—the revealing, yearning, wistful, envious but good-will smiles.

They had everything. Throbbing youth, rousing health, love of life and love. Bertie Lou even forgot Lila at times. There was that hour on the mossy bank, far back in the hills, under a clump of silver birches where they had lunch and drank from the spring beside the brook.

Bertie Lou's eyes were like summer stars. Rod took her face in his hands. "Oh, Bertie Lou," he said. Her head came to rest on his shoulder and Rod held her like some precious possession he feared to lose. Why, he didn't know it was going to be like this. He was actually blinking tears. Sappy! But he didn't care. He hadn't known what he was feeling at—why, a fellow who wouldn't fall off the sneer wagon at a time like this was dead.

He turned Bertie Lou's face up to his and saw that her eyes, too, were full of tears. They both smiled. "Whose girl are you now, Bertie Lou Bryer?" he said. "With only one man in the world you ought to know."

"Bertie Lou Bryer, you're in love."

"Well, the joke's on you, too," she laughed back at him. "You're just thrilled to death, Mrs. Bryer's husband."

"I know it," Rod returned with mock sheepishness, "but for goodness sake, Mrs. Bryer, don't peddle it."

"Perhaps I will... unless you tell me what I want to hear. You know your declarations have always been vague, Roddy. You've left a lot unsaid."

Rod released her. "Come over to that tree. I'm going to broadcast it."

It was a towering pine tree. They could smell the fresh spicy odor of it as they stood agn in arm and locked toward it.

"Bertie Lou, you're just a girl," Rod said softly. "I thought you were too advanced to want the old stuff, but I guess maybe you won't scold if I tell you something that I've wanted to tell you lots of times before."

Bertie Lou pressed her cheek to his coat sleeve. "Go on, say it, Roddy; I won't laugh."

Rod turned and took her hands in his. "Bertie Lou I love you more than anything else in the world."

They dropped the idiom of the younger set then while they talked of their future. Rod smoked a cigaret, without offering one to Bertie Lou. She didn't notice the omission. There was something about the woods that was out of keeping with a cigaret-smoking, wise-cracking girl. The spirit of the place had got into their blood in peace and serenity. Bertie Lou forgot Lila.

But Rod's vacation came to an end and they left the woods behind them. Bertie Lou winked back a vagrant tear as she took a last backward look at the scene of her recent happiness. Then she laughed at herself. Why, she wasn't giving up anything! She and Rod were merely transferring their beautiful union from one locale to another.

It didn't work, however, her self-encouragement. She had to face Lila now—face people. Lila's kiss had told everyone that she wasn't through—that and her taking a hand in the fixing up of their new home. Bertie Lou would fight but she didn't like to.

If only one could have perfect safety—no fears. She felt already not yet half way home, that some of the bloom of her fairy tale existence had disappeared. Would it all go? People weren't happy. Could she and Rod escape? Live their own lives protect their blessedness?

Bertie Lou sighed. Having to fight somehow detracted from the beauty of her marriage. She had never cared much for things she had had to wring from reluctant givers. She liked people to be enthusiastic over her plans. Highly individualistic, she wanted things whole, entirely unmarred. And she feared sordidness, feared to have her marriage scarred by it. It would hurt her to have Lila intruding upon it, marking it with sordid touches.

They were met at the station by a crowd and escorted to their new home over the grocery store.

Announces New and Radical Changes In Tire Selling Program

Of general interest to the motoring public is the announcement of several very important changes in the tire selling policy of Montgomery Ward & Co., the big Chicago mail order house, which has been a leading factor in sale of automotive equipment for the past 20 years.

New Super Tire

Mr. George B. Everitt, president of the company, in making this announcement said: "Effective with the issuance of our new Fall Catalogue, which will be distributed on July 15th, we are presenting what we believe to be the most complete line of guaranteed tires ever offered, and we are announcing several of the most important developments ever made in the tire industry. Chief among these is the introduction to the public of our new Super-Service Riverside tire which bears an unconditional 30,000 mile guarantee, covering all kinds of damage, including blowouts, rim cuts, stone bruises, rut wear, etc., with no time limit.

"This new super tire will easily outlast fully 90 per cent of the automobiles in the hands of their original owners, because only a small percentage of motorists drive a car more than 30,000 miles, which is the mileage covered by our guarantee.

Mileage Guarantees Increased

"Our revised tire policy provides for increasing our mileage guarantee on the regular line of Riverside tires: from 12,000 miles to 16,000 miles. This guarantee also is unconditional with no restrictions whatever, and this sweeping protection to the purchaser is made possible by new engineering features which provide resistance to wear to a greater extent than ever before thought possible.

Puncture Proof Tires

"Another development of general interest in the tire industry is our offering of a new puncture proof tire and tube combination, the result of a chemical discovery for treating the inner tube so that any puncture encountered on the road is instantly and permanently sealed without the loss of air pressure from the tire. The feature of this puncture sealing method is that it does not interfere in any way with the riding quality of the tires, which are inflated to normal air pressure and should not be confused with solid tires. This product has met the most exacting tests, both of a practical and scientific nature, and we demonstrate our faith in its merits by guaranteeing the Riverside tire and tube combination against punctures for 16,000 miles of service.

Tires On Credit

"For some months we have studied the demand for tires to be sold on a deferred payment basis, and Montgomery Ward & Co. is the first large concern to inaugurate time payment selling for tires and tubes. This plan, which will become effective with the release of our new Catalogue, might be termed a "pay-as-you-ride" plan and carries with it a greater degree of convenience than the motoring public has ever had in the past. This optional credit privilege applies to all of our lines of tires and tubes.

A New Car... A New Car Style... A New Zenith of Low Priced Car—Luxury and Performance

New slender profile chromium-plated radiator—Long, low bodies—Generous room for 2 to 5 passengers, according to body model—Luxurious deep upholstery and appointment detail—New "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, for use with any gasoline—Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour—Chrysler light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes—no other car of this price possesses this feature.

All Chrysler research, engineering and manufacturing have been inspired by the fundamental motive of giving ever greater quality and value for each dollar of car cost. Public recognition of this principle, in four years advanced Chrysler from 17th to 3rd place in sales in the N. A. C. C.

With a new product—the Plymouth—Chrysler is the first to give, at so low a price, the advantages of performance, riding ease, dependability and full adult size which characterize fine cars of higher price.

The new Chrysler-designed and Chrysler-built Plymouth is so revolutionary an advance over other low-priced cars, it is such conclusive evidence that the past year's strides in the science of manufacturing have multiplied the purchasing power of the motor car dollar, that you will surely want to see it and drive it.

And above all, you must see its beautiful lines and finish, and stretch at ease in its deep-upholstered, full adult-size bodies, to comprehend how completely the Plymouth surpasses cars heretofore sold under $1000.

The Plymouth is today displayed by every Chrysler dealer. He wants you to see it and to ride in it.

Please submit the Plymouth to this trial. We believe you will discover there has never been a car anywhere near its price that can approach the Plymouth for power, pick-up, smoothness, easy handling, safety, quietness and roominess—nor that can equal it in beauty and style.

THE INFLUENCE OF PICTURES

Nearly every president of the United States has been compelled to depend for vindication of motive on the perspective of time. And it is a matter of gratification to note that in nearly every instance that vindication has come with the passing of years and an analysis of words and acts. Up to the time of retirement from the position and even afterwards too many people consider themselves licensed to make the most vicious attacks on the occupant of the office of chief executive and follow him after he leaves with unbridled criticism. The avowed enemies of the United States have not surpassed the vituperative expression that which has been a common practice among those who hold themselves up as loyal citizens of the country. During the Spanish-American war the editorial and cartoons of newspapers in Spain did not equal in violent and caustic language and line the brood of male that characterized the offerings of some of the papers in our own country. It is generally accepted as practically certain that the drawings of certain cartoonists, spread in brutal attack in some of the press of the time, was the direct cause of the assassination of President McKinley. Men put into pictures what would not be tolerated in language, and pictures are understood by some minds where reading matter is beyond comprehension. Today there is in Europe a sentiment against the United States, which can be found in every country, and the cartoons of many of the newspapers there present a jaundiced view of America. Yet every one of the cartoons betokening an attitude of unfriendliness towards this country can be matched by equally unsavory caricatures on this side of the Atlantic. The president of the United States is made the subject of many of these in both cases. The office is belittled when its occupant is derided as some sort of an objectionable being whom the people have elevated to the highest place in the gift of the government. If the things are true which have been and are depicted about the presidents who have been chosen to that position in some of the drawings brought into the homes of the citizens, then the United States is, indeed, unable to govern itself. But they are not true, but simply the voicing of the policy of partisanship to discredit an honorable citizen who has taken the oath of office on the suffrages of the electorate to continue as such. These cartoons are not good to look upon in after years and they furnish food for rejoicing when repudiated by the enemies of this country, as indicative of a failure of self-government in its greatest exponent.

THE ABUSE OF PRIVILEGE

The privilege granted legislators to say what they please affecting the reputation of individual citizens of the United States without being held accountable for their utterances, is constantly abused. The safety with which slander can be spoken on the floors of congress has resulted in the publication of many slurs and insults to people who have no means of defense against their assailants. If newspapers were not privileged to print these slanders without being held accountable the damage would not be so great. But the moment the words become public record the press can spread them broadcast and the wrong is done beyond redress.

It does not matter how grossly without foundation in fact the statements may be, or how malicious the attack, the law builds a wall about the traducer against his victim, who is compelled to stand by, powerless to protect himself. Irreparable wrong has been done at times to innocent victims of scurrilous minded, privileged slanderers with their sensation-seeking followers in the press.

Possibly the remedy lies in withdrawing from the press the release from responsibility on the publication of a public record containing untruths. Certainly there should be some protection against the circulation of statements which are detrimental to the reputation of individuals who incur the enmity of a legislator, or of one who is careless of the truth in his arguments on the floor of the law-making body. There has been so much abuse of the privilege that its withdrawal altogether would not seriously affect the work of any body of that character.

The same argument applies to the privilege extended to attorneys in their discussion of evidence in courts, only in a lesser degree, because the statements made are supposed to be on the testimony and the court is clothed with authority to stop unreasonable latitude. In the legislative bodies, however, there is no such power to shut the mouth of the slanderer, and he hides behind his constitutional privilege in the use of his poison tongue.

SPECULATION OR INVESTMENT

Temptation to speculate often extends beyond those who can afford to take chances on the funds which are in their possession. One thing seems to be a settled rule, and that is that the higher the promised returns the more speculative the project. In every offer there should be the closest investigation by those trained in the study of tenders for the use of money. If it be found that there is no reasonable guarantee of the safety of the principal sum, but that its security rests upon conditions which are in any measure visionary, a second question presents itself: "Can I afford to lose the principal or any considerable portion of it?" Upon the answer to this last question rests the availability of the particular offer to the individual. Where is the money to come from to replace that which is lost in the transaction? Is the earning power sufficient to overcome any depletion of the capital sum? Does the amount of money used in the investment (or speculation) cripple the investor in money for immediate use or for the uncertain time in which earnings may begin? These and other thoughts will suggest themselves, if the person approached only stops to think. Many men have dreams of methods by which they can spend other people's money, and it matters not to them that it is money which should in reality be surrounded by safeguards of the most rigid character. Their fingers itch for the wherewithal by which to possibly realize their dreams. On the contrary there are means of investment which possess as much of the element of safety as it is possible to obtain, and which yield a reasonable income. Mr. Gerard, head of the Gerard Trust company, of Chicago, discusses in this issue the matter of determining how to place money, with especial thought to the small investor.

LINING UP FOR HOOVER

Whereas Hoover sees far ahead, Smith has a narrow horizon. Smith is a New Yorker, but Hoover is an American. The roll of States that contributed to the original Hoover column includes the left of the whole 48. The East is for Hoover, and so is the Pacific Coast. The Middle West is surprisingly well represented in his support. The South is for him. The ground swell of today will be a tidal wave by November. The Middle West cannot vote for Smith, a parochial Easterner who opposes the St. Lawrence Seaway and is committed to the impossible scheme of digging a seaway through the rocks of New York state. Nor is Smith a man who by environment and training can sympathize with the desires of the Middle West for other means of farm relief. He is for the Eastern consumer, and not for the Midwestern producer. Whatever he may say for purposes of campaign consumption that is a basic and inescapable fact. Hoover as president will accomplish practical things for agriculture. The silly myth that he is hostile to the greatest of all our industries, will disappear before the sunlight of the facts. Long before election day the Middle West will be for him strong, because it will discover, as so many of its citizens have already discovered, that he is the man from whom it can expect the most. A great fight it will be, that of Hoover against Smith. But its outcome is already as sure as anything human can be, when nearly five months away.

The increasing number of automobiles one meets on the roads at night with only one light burning, prompts us to offer a suggestion to some inventive genius. Why not designate the right and left lenses by illuminated red letters "R" and "L" just above them? In that way, a fellow can tell which way to dodge when he sees a one-eyed lizzie coming. If anybody catches in on this idea, we'll be satisfied with part of the royalty.

According to tabulation by the Associated Press, more than 200 men, women and children lost their lives in celebrating the Fourth of July holiday. That is a terrible toll to pay, but until every person does his utmost to be careful, especially on holiday occasions, human lives will continue to be sacrificed to the Goddess of Pleasure.

If your cranium hits the top of the car about every 100 feet, you are on the right detour.

Someone suggests that it be written this way: "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and run a filling station."

We don't like this new fad of carrying spare tires on the front end of automobiles. One can't tell whether they are going forward or backward.

OUT OUR WAY—

SO THINK WE

We think there are some youngsters in Lubbock who should be denied the privilege of driving an automobile except out in the middle of a big pasture where there is no possibility of doing damage to anyone except themselves. They are reckless in speed and pay little attention to any traffic rules.

We are of the opinion that there are thousands of people who are desirous of remaining in the democratic party, and believe in the principles of the party, who will not vote for the nominee.

We think that life is a peculiar thing anyway. Men who stand up in the face of machine gun fire and cannons, will sometimes not be brave enough to fight the battles of life.

We think that Lubbock is showing more speed ahead than possibly any other city in West Texas. More than a hundred new homes are under construction at this time.

We think that possibly the reason the two candidates are so quiet at this time, is that they are expecting plenty of excitement between now and the November election which will mean that when the first gun is fired, there will be no rest for them until the vote is counted and the results announced.

We think Lubbock is going to have one of the greatest regional fairs this fall that has ever been held, and that is saying a good deal. The people of the South Plains place plenty of confidence in the management of the South Plains fair, and for that reason they are willing to cooperate in making it one of the greatest fairs in this section of the country. It is to be hoped and it is expected that there will be a great improvement in the livestock department, and especially in the dairy industry.

We think that the Lubbock territory has the best prospects for good crops that any section of the west has at this time. The crops are high and a critical point however, and a general rain would mean much to the future and mean a great deal when harvesting time comes.

PRSS COMMENT

THE POWER OF SPEECH
Hartford Daily Courant.

The report from France that an African gray parrot has been sold for $1,000 contradicts the theory that "talk is cheap." Rather does it point to the idea that "money talks." At least it will if the bird lives up to its reputation. It is supposed to speak 150 words in English, French and Italian, or say nothing of its extra accomplishment in being able to whistle the airs of the three countries.

The parrot has had a somewhat checkered career. It lived in the household of an English woman who gave it to a gardener who sold it to a bird fancier for $5. The fancier now disposed of it to an Italian nobleman and makes a profit of $995, he fact that the bird was given away by the Englishwoman must not be considered a reflection upon its linguistic accomplishments. Quite the contrary, its talking was its undoing. It persisted in saying, "You are too fat, woman." Apparently the Englishwoman had not the patience to teach the parrot to say, "You have a beautiful boyish figure."

We can no help wondering how the parrot got along if its new owner takes it back to his native country. It has an extensive vocabulary, as bird vocabularies go and it may get into trouble again if the nobleman is not careful to post it so to the Italian situation. It

DESERVES HIS BEST

Tulla World: Calvin Coolidge has been a pretty hard-working president, and nobody is going to begrudge him the rest and comfort in store for him on the quiet banks of the Brule river, in Wisconsin. Far removed from the feverish activities of a national political campaign, and snug in the seclusion of one of the Northwest's most picturesque spots, he no doubt welcomes the respite from the cares of government.

He may rest content, too, in the contemplation of the laws enacted by the two houses of Congress. On the whole, the legislative branch has done creditable work, although there were, as usual, some things left undone and others that might not have been done, but the trend of legislation was toward that economy which the president preaches early and late.

It is perhaps a good thing for the government that most governments all but shut up shop during the summer months. The people as well as their rulers need a rest, and there is small chance of any grave international crisis arising because there is nobody at home to answer the doorbell.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

More and more medical scientists are adopting the view that the causes of mental diseases are not in most instances single causes, such as seen to be proved in relation to infectious disease, but rather represent the results of many factors working simultaneously upon the human body.

These factors include the hereditary structure of the individual, the various diseases of the various glands of internal secretion, the results of alcohol either in the patient or his parents, the results of other infections, and finally mental stimuli coming from the environment.

This signifies of course, that the person with mental disturbance cannot be placed in a cast iron cage for diagnosis, but that every individual must be studied as an individual if we are to arrive at a solution of his problem.

Individual factors are the factors responsible for the development of mental disturbance in 25 college students. The person who enters college is confronted with a mass of intellectual problems and he is at an age when his emotional adjustments are difficult. He has to free himself at that time from close family attachments.

The nature of his studies brings up many religious questions and his age is associated with an increasing amount of attention to problems of sex.

In many large institutions students are handled en masse and careers are planned without special reference to the capabilities or adaptabilities of the men concerned.

The inevitable result of this mass grinding in the hopper of education is the emotional breakdown of a considerable number of young men and young women. Much of this could be prevented if students were encouraged to make their own estimates of their own capabilities and be urged to adjust themselves to the facts.

DENVER RAILS ARE LAID TO DIMMITT

Rails of the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains Railway have reached Dimmitt and all of the tracks in the city yard have been laid Sunday except a small section of the wye, which must be laid manually. An industrial track has been built up an alley to the Texas Utilities Company's plant. Options on all lots adjacent to the industrial track were obtained by a committee of Dimmitt citizens in order to assure that there would be no speculation on these lots and that good truckage lots would be available for new industries coming to this thriving community, which is the county seat of Castro county.

Castro county farmer, whose mules have never before heard the toot of a locomotive's whistle, said that he had a difficult task handling his teams in a field a mile away from the railroad. When the locomotive whistled the mules were badly frightened and every time the stationary engines for track laying equipment tooted his mules became nervous.

Not so with the cows which run loose on the town section. Dimmitt having no stock law, when the engine tooted its whistle and started to pull out after the first trip with rails into the town the people through fences to follow the train.

COTTON SQUARES 30 DAYS AFTER PLANTING

Cotton with four squares to the stalk on the thirtieth day from planting is being exhibited by Col. R. P. Smyth. He doesn't bring the stalks up town to show them, but takes those interested to his home. They have been irrigated, which accounts somewhat for their advanced stage but squares are forming in the field of N. B. Newler, southwest of Plainview, in the cotton of the same variety.

Col. Smyth will hybridize this cotton with Sea Island, a few stalks of which he has grown in his garden. This cotton is from seed imported from Guatemala by J. E. Pepper of Plainview who has twenty-seven acres of it planted. It is said to produce big bolls of five locks with an inch and a quarter staple that holds to the boll consistently through all weather conditions yet is easily picked. Forty bolls of it produce a pound of lint cotton in its said.

Last year, cotton of this variety planted late, June 17, on account of poor moisture conditions, matured a crop.

Due to its heavy fruiting, hardy nature, large bolls and long staple the cotton is expected to prove a wonderful variety for the Plains section.—Plainview Herald.

Clyde W. Warwick of the Canyon News predicted several months ago that Al Smith would be the Democratic nominee for president, and now that Senator Robinson of Arkansas has been nominated, vice president, Mr. Warwick feels that a winning combination has been selected.

"Uncle Sam might just as well sell as many of these merchant ships as he can," says C. E. Mason in the Roswell Record. Public Opinion

Let those who will denounce the prohibition law but everyday folks, who have lived among the people as well aware of the good that prohibition is doing, has done and always will do. They know what the old saloon was, a legal temptation for those who were too weak to walk straight without the prop they now have. And the saloonkeepers, bootleggers and everybody else in favor of retrogression, know that the young people now growing up have not one-tenth the temptations to drink as they had when whisky was legalized as a public refreshment. For on every corner of every important town in the old days there was an open saloon through which every one who passed along was invited by temptation to enter and quench his thirst.

It is reported that Lubbock is making fine progress toward recreation parks, and they grounds, of course there is much to be done, but the grounds are being put in shape, trees planted, etc., and some day the park commission of the city of Lubbock will have something really interesting to present to the people of this section.

It is reported that the United States spent eight million dollars for explosives and 224 lives were snuffed out in our Fourth of July celebrations and the damage by fire started from Fourth of July celebrations is not included in this amount. This too is in the face of thousands upon thousands of people who are in real need.

It is reported that there is soon to be another big hotel erected in Lubbock. The opening of the big oil field to the Southwest in the Hoobs section, is expected to reflect much business this way, and Lubbock will no doubt be in line to take care of it when it comes, if the report is true.

It is reported that John Coolidge son of Calvin, is almost as brief as his father. Calvin said his son in briefly just a bit. Calvin said: "I do not choose to run," while John said: "I am not running." John's words, "I am not running," were in connection with it. He said: "Thank you very much for your kind offer, but as yet I am unable to accept such an offer." Neither one are as pointed as Crowell, however, who answered a very important question by merely saying "no."

And there is the guttural who raised a big fuss when the law raised objections to the place of setup on he carried in his coat and scabbard wherever he went. Many guns are now sold, but not half as many are carried, per population.

1776—News of the signing of the Declaration of Independence reached New York and a mob destroyed a statue of George III.

1790—Congress voted to hold sessions in Philadelphia for 20 years.

1836—Millard Fillmore inaugurated as 13th president.

1864—Democratic national convention nominated Grover Cleveland.

Here, girls! pin my veil up a little. And see if my train is all right. I wish I'd a little more color. Look like a ghost—all in white.

I wonder when Charlie is coming? I hope that he will not be late. I want everyone to be ready. To go down precisely at eight.

Oh, dear! how I wish it was over! I feel a bit nervous, I own. Do, girls, go and see about Charlie. Don't mind leaving me here alone.

They are gone! and I'm free for a moment! And now I must turn up. I know. This precious old package of letters. He dear, loving ones, of poor Joe!

It Won't Be Long Local Films To Be Shown Here Soon

It won't be many more days until Lubbock can see itself in the movies. Beginning July 12, and running three days, "Us Kids" will be shown at the Lindsey Theatre, and the hundreds of kiddies who played in it may see themselves in the role of real actors and actresses. The High school players, who took part, appeared in the more complicated part of the plot, and are impatiently awaiting the showing of the film.

According to Jack Holman, director, the film is in the laboratory at Dallas, and a communication which he received yesterday states that the Lubbock pictures are among the best which have been made. The film will be received in ample time for the showing Thursday.

Mr. Holman completed work on the movie Sunday afternoon when he made the picture scene of the story, in which hundreds of children appeared, at the Municipal Park. Many children were dressed as Indians and in Boy Scout uniforms, in accordance with the plot.

DAILY MARKETS

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, July 9. (U. S. Department of Agriculture)—Increased receipts of cattle around the midwestern and southwestern market circuit was due to more liberal loading of grass fat steers. Fed yearlings continued to occupy strong positions with price levels working higher. Matured fed steers were less active at steady to 25c lower prices.

Aggregate receipts were estimated at 72,300 as compared with 63,933 last Monday and 79,446 the corresponding day a year ago.

Shipping demand for hogs at a few markets was sufficient to maintain steady prices on the desirable grades, but at most points a 10 to 20c decline was put in force. The day's lot of 11:50 was paid both at St. Louis and Chicago. Total offerings around the loop, estimated at 124,700 were 2,000 larger than last Monday's supply and 11,500 heavier than a year ago.

Fat lambs were tendered a price setback of 25 to 50c, range offering moving to the best advantage. Aged classes were unchanged. Total supplies of around 55,400 were 10,000 short of a week ago, and 6,400 less than the same day last year.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK
FORT WORTH, July 9. (U. S. Department of Agriculture)—The cattle trade today was uneven, steers being 15c to 25c lower. She stock barely steady and other classes unchanged from the closing prices of last week. Steers, sold from 8.25 to 13.00, cows 7.00 to 8.25 and calves 11.00 to 13.25. Hogs were 10c to 15c lower. The top was 11.25 with the bulk selling from 9.00 to 11.15. Sows were steady at 8.50 to 9.00 and pigs weak to lower at 7.00 to 8.50.

The sheep trade was steady to strong. Wethers sold for 8.00 and yearlings for 9.75.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (U. S. Department of Agriculture)—A decline of 35 a bale followed publication of the government's acreage report in the cotton market today. The report showed an increase of 11.4 per cent in the acreage under cultivation July 1. The selling and liquidation that developed carried October contracts off from 22.00 to 20.99, 101 points down. The option closed one point above the low at a net loss of 91 points. The general market closed easier at declines of 11 to 93 points.

The opening was steady despite lower Liverpool cables. First trades were unchanged to 5 points up and prices continued to advance after the start under buying inspired by rains in the belt over Sunday and October eventually traded to 2.00 and December 21.95, or 8 to 9 points above the previous close.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, July 9. (U. S. Department of Agriculture)—The government report showing an unexpectedly large increase in the estimated acreage, was followed by a decline of about 34 a bale in the cotton market today. After selling up to 22.54 at the opening, October broke to 21.59 in late trading and closed at 21.62, the general market closing barely steady at net decline of 78 to 84 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on a moderate demand, evidently promoted by reports of further showers in the eastern and central belts. This bulge met considerable liquidation and prices eased off several points, but the whole held fairly steady on the unfavorable view of weather conditions and the continued bullish average of private crop advices.

The government report, however, placing the acreage under cultivation as of July at 46,895,000 acres, or 11.4 per cent increase, as compared with the revised figures of last year, was considerably above the average of recent private reports and proved the signal for heavy general liquidation. Prices broke very sharply in the market's first response to the report being a break of about 60 to 65 points. As this first flurry of selling subsided, prices stiffened up a few points on covering and trade buying, but almost immediately weakened again as circulation of the acreage figures seemed to bring in selling through wire and commission houses. Local and Wall Street liquidation continued and while there were bulges from time to time during the afternoon they invariably met increased offerings.

The lowest prices were reached in late trading, July selling at 21.40 and December 21.43 or about 78 to 80 points net lower on the general list. The close was within a few points of the lowest.

The trade generally had expected the government report to show an increase in acreage, but was not prepared for such large figures. Recent private reports on the acreage had placed the probable increase at figures ranging from 8 to 10 points net lower on the general list. The close was within a few points of the lowest.

increase of 11.4 per cent made a correspondingly bearish impression on sentiment, although the effect was probably modified to some extent by the official comments stating that the reported stand of cotton is 6 per cent below this time last year.

Exports today 5,135 making 7,562, 417 so far this season. Port receipts 5,832. U. S. Port stocks 508,472.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, July 9. (U. S. Department of Agriculture)—Higher call money rates improved, but failed to check the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. While final quotations showed some irregularity, there was a distinct preponderance of net gains, several of which ran from 2 to 6 points. Torrid temperatures kept down the attendance in the customers rooms of the leading commission houses but trading nevertheless was in fairly large volume.

Marland Again New York To Hear His Plans Soon

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 9.—Today's New York World says an important announcement will be made in a few days concerning the romance of Ernest Whitworth Marland, of Ponca City, Okla., fifty-four year-old head of the oil properties which bear his name, and his twenty-eight year-old former foster daughter, Miss Lydie Miller Roberts.

The World says it obtained its information from Marland Roberts, a brother of the young woman. He described reports of a broken engagement as based on "gossip rumors" and said that the five months' postponement of the marriage has been caused by a nervous ailment his sister suffered after announcement of the engagement.

Roberts declined to give details of the announcement, refusing either to affirm or deny that a definite time had been set for the wedding, or that the ceremony had already taken place. Marland is at a hotel
