GIBSON DUNLAP SENSATION OF NATIONAL MEET

Brilliant 69 Startles Huge Gallery at Pebble Beach, Calif.

10,000 WATCH PLAY

Pacific Coast Players Abscond With Big Share Of Day's Honors

By FRANK G. GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 2.—It seems that Bobby Jones is not the only pebble on the beach, after all.

Along about the time that the folks in the gallery were reaching for their cough drops, after cheering themselves hoarse for the champion when he finished a brilliant round of 70 in the first qualifying round of the amateur championship this afternoon, up stepped a slim, sandy haired, freckled youngster from down state to cap Bobby's performance with a sparkling 69.

Gibson Dunlap is his name, and it leads all the rest.

Student Beats Jones

Playing around behind Jones and quite unnoticed by the record gallery which charged over the fairways at the Atlantan's heels, the 21-year-old Southern California student quietly matched Bobby's best efforts and went him one better in the end.

Four birdies and a screaming eagle soared from the youngster's ably handled woods and irons as he chipped three strokes from par over the championship Pebble Beach course to show the way to all the field of 140 in the 33rd national amateur tournament.

A few minutes before Gibbie ran down a last long putt, Bobby Jones had caused a mighty cheer to go rolling out over the Pacific by completing his own qualifying round of 70. But the echoes of that cheer had no time to die away before they were caught up again for young Dunlap.

History Repeats

Thus history repeats itself. Once more, a golfer heretofore unknown to national fame, leads the field at the end of the first qualifying round.

Amateur championships, of course, are not won by brilliancy in the qualifying text. But this blonde youngster from Los Angeles has had his day in the sun.

Only there wasn't any sun. It was "most unusual weather," with low hanging grey clouds laying the vaunted California sunshine a dead stymie throughout the day.

Otherwise, the first national championship ever held on the Pacific coast got under way with blare and brilliancy. There was a record crowd, estimated at 10,000, by the more optimistic of the local accountants, the largest throng that ever witnessed qualifying play in the annual amateur tournament.

Coast Gets Glory

Of able golfing feats, the day produced its share, with the glory going to the Pacific coast. Don Moe, the likeable young Oregonian and his fellow townsman, the rough and ready Dr. O. F. Willing, scored par 72s, as did Gene Homans of Englwood, N. J., and Harrison R. Johnston, smiling, blonde Minnesotan.

There were others who might have shared attention tonight, had not Bob Jones cut loose with one of his best efforts to card a 70, and had not this freckleface lad from down state come along with his decidedly more startling 69.

For Bobby, at the start, it was just a case of matching par and missing long putts that hight have spelled "b-i-r-d-i-e."

The champion, straighter than than usual through the fairways, matched his only enemy, par, hole

Final Agreement On Cutting Navies Near, Premier MacDonald Asserts

GENEVA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Attending the opening of the tenth annual assembly of the League of Nations here today, Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain discussed in a press conference with optimism and appreciation American participation in the world movement for peace.

The head of the British Labor government announced his expectations that favorable progress of Anglo-American conversations on naval disarmament would be such as to overcome all difficulties and reach an agreement.

America Praised

He said that the great American republic was a friend of all good causes whether connected with the league or not and told journalists representing more than a score of countries that the United States would never do anything to interfere with the purposes of the league.

In his current conversations with American Ambassador Dawes in London regarding sea power, Premier MacDonald said that he had in view a much more comprehensive purpose than settlement of naval strength as between Great Britain and the United States.

Both President Hoover and himself anticipated that their discussions would be preliminary to a conference for a far reaching disarmament agreement among the great powers, settling the problem of armed forces on land as well as at sea.

Visit Reiterated

MacDonald reiterated his plan to visit America "some time this autumn" but said that he was unable at the present time to announce a definite date. He reminded his hearers that the situation in the house of commons, where the Labor party does not have a majority, makes difficult a definite choice of time for the trip. The prime minister declared emphatically that Anglo-American discussions were not designed to present a complete agreement to the other powers. Everything was done, he said, with a view to enjoying the cooperation of other nations in seeking an ultimate solution of the problem of international disarmament.

MacDonald in referring to the British government's negotiations with the United States said: "I believe we are going to find a solu-

45 REPORT TO COYOTE CAMP

New Wichita Mentor Drills Football Squad

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Forty-five candidates for the 1929 Wichita Falls High school football team, a pleasing array of husky lads, started a Spartanlike training period Monday. Under the watchful eyes of Head Coach Barry Holton and Assistant Coach Bill Morris, the Coyote aspirants are undergoing extensive physical and mental preparation for the grid campaign that lies ahead.

"I am well pleased with the turnout for the squad," Coach Holton, who succeeds Bud McCallum as chief mentor, said yesterday. "It is too early of course to hazard an opinion on what sort of a team we will have. But there is some good material there that can be whipped into a creditable team."

Holton faces a difficult task, for not only is he in his first season here, but graduations, ineligibilities and the removal of several players from here have about wrecked the squad of veteran timber. There still are several promising linemen, including Captain Hodgkiss, who apparently is in for a great season. But there is a woeful scarcity of backs.

The squad is under the eye of Holton and Morris every minute of the day and night. The lads arise at 7 o'clock in the morning and after breakfast and cleaning up their quarters, they take the field at 8. From 10:30 to 12 Coach Holton lectures on football. At 12 is lunch, and rest until 2, when there is another lecture period lasting to 3:30. They take the field again at 4, until 6:30. Then is dinner and rest, and at 8 another lecture. They retire at 9:30.

Barry has divided his coaching into two divisions. Namely, in the morning, including lecture and field drill, he takes up the various posi-

STATE JOINS BURKBURNETT TYPHOID FIGHT

50 Cases Reported in Fever Epidemic in Wichita Town

TWO EXPERTS HERE

Infected Water, Milk and Food Blamed for Disease Spread

Organization of state, county and city officials to combat a typhoid fever epidemic at Burkburnett was begun Monday when Dr. J. C. Anderson, head of the state department of public health, arrived in Burkburnett in response to an appeal for aid from local authorities there. Doctor Anderson was informed that 50 cases of the disease have been reported within the town. Two deaths have resulted from the fever within the past two weeks and new cases are registered daily, according to data furnished Doctor Anderson and V. M. Ehlers, state sanitary engineer, who accompanied the physician on his tour of inspection.

Water Also Blamed

At the end of a day spent in consulting city and county officials and in studying conditions, Doctor Anderson declared that the existence of open toilets in an around the town is the primary cause of the epidemic. Certain private water sources were implicated in his survey and he reported defects in the handling of milk and food supplies. But the inadequate sewage system, with the consequent breeding and infection of flies, was declared to be the real cause of the situation. Milk food, and water act simply as agents in carrying the germs already bred, the official asserted.

Doctor Anderson's first move in fighting the disease was a demand for a general cleanup. He called for the construction of "pit toilets" and for the extension of the sewage system through an easy payment plan to be worked out by the city. He suggested improvements in the handling of the dump grounds and the garbage disposal system and suggested the use of an additional amount of chlorine in the public water supply.

Tests of the water at four-hour intervals were urged.

Inoculation Urged

Meanwhile, to check the immediate epidemic, the state official advocated universal inoculation against the disease. He suggested that school children be required to take the serum before starting the term's work and he urged department store heads to encourage their employes to take the precaution. City and county officials have both agreed to furnish the vaccine free of charge to residents of the town and neighborhood who can't afford to pay for the three injections and physicians have volunteered their services free.

Doctor Anderson also advised the people of Burkburnett to stop patronizing any one of three water peddlers who have been selling water from tanks. This supply has been found contaminated, the physician asserted. There are three cases of typhoid fever in the home of one of the former peddlers, officials were told.

Dairymen were urged to take special precautions in handling milk and were advised not to leave bottles in infected homes.

Deputy Sheriff Suffers Mangled Arm When Automobile Overturns

Warren Belcher Seriously Hurt Returning From Central Texas With Prisoner Wanted Here

Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff of Wichita county, suffered a badly mangled arm, cuts on the body, severe bruises and shock when the car in which he was riding overturned a short distance out of Bowie on the highway to Wichita Falls about 12:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Mr. Belcher was brought to the Hargrave-Walker hospital by a passing motorist. Charlie Gant, also a deputy sheriff, and a prisoner whom the two had gone to Hillsboro to take into custody, both of whom were in the car, escaped with bruises and shock. Deputy Gant went with the party to the hospital, delivered his prisoner to the county jail and then returned to the hospital.

The exact nature of Mr. Belcher's injuries had not been determined at an early hour Tuesday morning, but physicians were performing an operation on the broken left arm. Attendants and physicians at the hospital refused to give out information concerning the injured man and official statements as to the nature of the injury could not be obtained.

It was said that a truck with only one headlight, traveling down the center of the road had been the cause of the car running off the pavement. Several other motorists stated that the same truck had narrowly missed hitting them while on the road. The car bearing Mr. Belcher to Wichita Falls made the distance from Henrietta to here in less than 15 minutes.

HEAVY SILENCE GREETS MOTION FOR ELECTION

Amendment Withdraws Action as Commissioners Fail to Give Second

"DEFERRED" AGAIN

City Facing $100,000 Repair Bill on Old Plant, Says Fairtrace

After pending before the city council for more than a month the ordinance authorizing an election on a $1,400,000 bond issue to provide Wichita Falls with pure, soft and adequate water was again deferred for final reading until the next meeting when the aldermen dodged the issue of a direct vote for the second time at their meeting Monday night.

Only Alderman J. W. Hunt's withdrawal of his motion that the ordinance be passed as previously read saved the motion from becoming dead, according to the statement of Mayor J. W. Akin when the motion failed to find a second. Following a complete silence of several minutes after Alderman Hunt had made the motion, Alderman J. H. Patton inquired as to whether action could not be deferred indefinitely.

Motion Stricken

City Attorney Thelbert Martin informed the council that action on the final reading could be deferred from week to week only if definite postponement was made at each meeting. Alderman C. E. McCutchen moved that the ordinance be deferred for another week, but Alderman Hunt requested that his motion, unseconded and therefore dead, be stricken from the minutes of the meeting before a second to the deferring motion was heard.

The only express opposition to the ordinance and the election came from Alderman Patton, who said:

"I don't think it necessary to put the issue to a vote at this time. When people put on their overcoats, they get to feeling better about the water situation and they won't care about troubling to vote for improvements to it. I think we should put it off until next spring."

Repairs Needed

City Manager George D. Fairtrace pointed out that about $100,000 would have to be spent in patching up the old system in case no improvements were made before next summer. The pumping and filtration plans have been running to capacity during the entire month of August, he said, and if no additions and improvements are made in the plant before the next period of strain on the system, there would not be sufficient time to make the needed changes in time to care for the demand during the hot months next year. Patching the old system would be nothing but an ineffective expenditure of money which could well be applied to the provision of an adequate and safe system, it was said.

Aldermen Hunt and Spoonts stated their belief that the issue would pass if submitted to a vote by the people. Aldermen R. O. Harvey and McCutchen, who were

GALES ALTER ZEP'S COURSE

Dirigible Reported 300 Miles From Azores

ABOARD THE S. S. AMERICA at Sea, Sept. 3. (Tuesday) (UP)—The Graf Zeppelin reported at midnight, Greenwich mean time (7 p. m. E. S. T.) that "all's well" as it passed about 300 miles south of the Azores islands.

The America's radio operator picked up signals from the dirigible, giving its position as 35.22 north, 26.43 west.

The message from the Graf Zeppelin was received only after many hours of attempts to get in touch with the dirigible. It previously had communicated with the America's radio operator, giving its position as 38 west, and on a direct line with the Azores.

After that report the radio operator said a dozen vessels in mid-Atlantic were attempting to get in touch with the dirigible to advise Captain Lehmann of increasing gales along the steamer line.

Apparently these gales kept the Graf Zeppelin far to the south and finally prompted Captain Lehman to circle south of the Azores to a point where he is on almost a direct line with Gibraltar.

ALL NIGHT FIGHT WITH STORMS

BERLIN, Sept. 2. (UP)—The Hamburg-American Steamship company announced tonight that the Graf Zeppelin had staged an all-night battle with thunder storms over the North Atlantic ocean.

tion of the problems which up to now defied solution.

"Conversations are going on between Ambassador Dawes and myself. We are examining every proposal that is likely to bring these conversations to a successful termination and in the result of our examinations up to the moment I left London Saturday makes us believe the problems will be overcome and an agreement reached."

The Labor premier made his statements at a press conference to journalists of all nations.

After warning them against the "mischief makers" who might interfere with the success of the disarmament movement by misinterpreting the purposes of Great Britain and the United States, he added, "when an agreement is come to, when we see how we can agree, it will not remain there.

"The problem is not between America and ourselves. If we come to the most magnificent agreement about armies, navies, air forces, etc., the problem of disarmament has just been touched.

World Agreement

"We are not out for that—either President Hoover or myself. We are both out for an agreement that will mean as much to the rest of the world as it does to ourselves.

"Therefore the proposal is that the naval agreement should be pursued with other powers and that anything between ourselves separately is purely provisional until powers have fitted it into their schemes and a wider and more comprehensive agreement has been reached."

Premier MacDonald said that although America was not a member of the league, she was "certainly only too anxious" to advance the good causes the league was interested in.

League Favored

When America talks about disarmament to Great Britain or anyone else America's conversations will never be used by America to hamper or diminish the authority of the league. So it is the hope of both of us that any agreement we reach shall be a help to the league."

The premier praised the Kellogg renounciation of war pact as a great advance towards world peace.

What Great Britain wants, he said, is to cooperate with all nations "as a friend to build up a solid foundation for that pact of peace so that the pact is not merely a paper declaration but is part and parcel of the machinery of peace."

LEAGUE BEGINS TENTH ASSEMBLY

GENEVA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Electing a Latin-American statesman, Dr. J. Gustavo Guerrero of the Republic of Salvador as president, the tenth assembly of the League of Nations today began sessions expected to be historic.

Fifty-three of the 54 nations which are members of the league are represented at the assembly. Argentine being the only country without a delegation.

Six premiers, 22 foreign ministers, four ex-premiers and 15 ex-foreign ministers participated in the impressive opening of the league assembly. Seven women delegates testified womanhood is playing a growing role in international politics. There were two women present from England and one each from Canada, Denmark, Finland, Norway and Rumania.

The women delegates were applauded when Prince Foroughi of Persia, temporary presiding officer, striking the keynote of the assembly declared: "The league is creating the habit of peace." The new president, Doctor Guerrero, said the League of Nations was an immense achievement for overcoming prejudices and settling disputes among nations and consolidating the peace of the world. He welcomed the return to active collaboration in the league's work of the delegations from Bolivia, Honduras and Peru.

In his opening address the temporary chairman, Prince Foroughi, in alluding to the Anglo-American negotiations on naval power, voiced the conviction an agreement would be reached which would allow reduction in naval armaments and afford the League of Nations with fresh possibilities for a successful work in the international field.

PREMIER EXPECTED TO TELL OF AGREEMENT

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

(Copyt. 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, at Geneva, Switzerland, received today through Ambassador Charles G. Dawes an answer from Washington to his recent request that President Hoover indicate how far, and along what lines, he, the premier, might reveal in his speech at the tenth assembly of the League of Nations the progress of Anglo-American disarmament negotiations.

I understand, from the most authoritative source, that President Hoover's message gave Premier MacDonald the widest latitude, and the word from Geneva tonight indicates the premier will make his speech before the assembly at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

When Premier MacDonald left London, he was asked if he would reveal at Geneva the present status of the Anglo-American negotiations, and he replied:

"An announcement will be made as soon as an agreement has been reached."

I learned tonight that when the premier said that he had really in mind that the announcement would be made before the league, if Washington approved his request for such action.

It may be definitely predicted, on reliable information gained by Universal Service, that a practical agreement between Downing street and the White House has now been reached, else the British premier would not sound the White House concerning what he should say at the league meeting, or whether he should say anything. For this reason, the world is likely to hear tomorrow much of, if not all, the delicate negotiations which have been conducted behind locked doors in Downing street and Lossiemouth in the past two months.

WATER PROBLEM MAJOR ITEM HERE, SAYS READER

Editor, The Record News:

I was greatly pleased to read your very sensible editorial in Saturday's Record News, dealing with the water question. It gave me new faith in the leaders of our newspapers at a time when my confidence in their altruism was at a low ebb.

During the last two years our fair city has not built enough to overcome the depreciation on her existing buildings. The cities that have been prosperous during that time are outstanding. What is the reason that San Angelo, Lubbock, Waco, Fort Worth and Austin have had good years during the last two? The reason is obvious. Those cities have been doing extensive municipal improvements, and at a time when prices were cheap, when labor needed the work, and when a dollar put into circulation paid many a debt. And that is why, when their census is taken next year, they will show the maximum possible growth. They will not show any shrinkage.

Why is it that people living in our neighboring cities say that your contemporary has done more to hurt Wichita Falls during the past year than any other one thing?

What Wichita Falls needs right now is a leader with vision. One who will not let prejudice and selfishness so cloud his perceptions that he cannot look forward at all. We need a leader whose penny-wise economy will not defeat the very things that we need to grow normally.

Who ever heard of a city attaining its destined growth until it had first solved its water problem? We have a plan presented that will not raise our taxes but will be a charge against us in accordance with the amount of water that we use. But suppose we were taxed for the improvements! Wouldn't it be better to pay a few additional dollars in taxes and not have vacant rent houses? Wouldn't it be better to pay a few dollars in taxes and save several times that amount every year in the economies that would result from having a first-class waterworks system?

Yours for a better and greater Wichita Falls.

A READER.

SHUTDOWN FOR O. C. POOL LOOMS

Operators to Meet Today in Tulsa for Parley

Special to The Record News

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 2.—A 30-days' shutdown of the 14 oil wells in the new Oklahoma City oil field now averaging around 50,000 barrels a day, but with a potential production of 170,000 barrels a day and with a score of wells on top of the 6200 foot sand, will be urged at a meeting of operators here Tuesday.

All operators but two have endorsed such a proposal, but decision of these two is expected tomorrow.

Should this field be shut down for 30 days it will strengthen the Oklahoma-Kansas crude market now weakened by this new development. Drilling wells shall proceed to the nearest casing point and then shut down. The deliberations will be in secret.

SPUR SCHOOL SHOW GROWTH

Courses Added; Trained Coach Secured

Special to The Record News

SPUR, Texas, Sept. 2.—The growth of the Spur schools has exceeded the expectations of most every one that has been directly connected with them, and with the addition of several strong teachers for the coming year continued growth is expected.

Last year Joe C. Williams, instructor of vocational agriculture, was given a place in the school here, and over 50 boys were given instruction in the fundamental problems of the needs of every community that has as its means of developing a balanced farm program.

This year home economics will be added to the course, and many of the high school girls are planning on registering in this study, which will mean to them just what vocational agriculture will mean to the future farmers fo this community.

Provisions have been made in the school for building up the courses offered, and the coaching of athletics has been left up to the superintendent and other faculty members who did not have enough time to give to coaching. Spur has made a step in the right direction in that one of the best high school coaches in West Texas has been employed for the coming year.

Gene Taylor from Post comes well recommended, and has had several substantial promotions since his graduating from T. C. U. Mr. Taylor graduated from Fort Worth high school in 1923. Entered T. C. U. the fall term of the same year, and played on the freshman football team that season. Taylor showed up well in his "fish" year and played on the varsity team during the years of '24, '25 and '26. He played basket ball with the freshman team in '24, and the next three years he made the varsity basket ball team.

Spur High school is not planning to get away from the well established courses that are taught in her class rooms, but the play side of Spur school life will be stimulated by a trained coach.

Mr. Taylor began training the Bulldogs Aug. 28. The school opens Sept. 9.

Indiana Team Breaks World Pulling Record

PORTLAND, Ind., Sept. 2. (INS)—The world's pulling record for heavyweight teams was broken at the Jay county fair here by a team owned by George Wilcox of Greenville, Ohio, with a tractive pull of 3,500 pounds for a distance of 27¼ feet.

The test was made by Prof. R. B Cooley of Purdue university, using a Purdue dynamometer.

The previous record was made at the Iowa state fair in 1925 by Clarence Buch of Cherokee, Iowa, whose team pulled 3,475 pounds.

Doctor Libby was accused of causing the death of a 15-year-old boy who had contracted blood poisoning after an operation. Doctor Libby was reported to be in Hankow under the protection of the American consul.

SPUR CHANGES FAIR PLANS

Baseball Game to Supplant Rodeo

Special to The Record News

SPUR, Texas, Sept. 12.—The Northwest Texas Fair association has changed the program of entertainment for the coming fair, and there will be no rodeo, but plans are being made to have a real baseball game the afternoon of the first day, Oct. 10. Following the baseball game a rabbit chase, or dog race will be the excitement for the remainder of the afternoon. On the second day a Ford automobile will be given away, and the dog races will continue, and on the third and last day a football game will be played, and a good display of fireworks will close the fair the evening of Oct. 12.

Many extraordinary prizes will be given, and aside from the games and races there will be other entertainment on the midway of one of the best carnival companies, featuring the latest shows and rides to be seen at any fair park in West Texas.

There will not be as good exhibits of field crops as has been at former fairs, but with the number of high quality dairy animals that have been received into the Spur country in the past 12 months the Northwest Texas fair should have an exhibit of dairy animals not to be excelled in the nearby shows.

All committees have been appointed and have begun an effort to make this the best fair thus far held at the Northwest Texas fair park.

CLINE COLLEGE AGAIN OPEN

Heavy Registration Listed At Business School

With an unexpectedly large registration drawn from a territory extending to a distance of 300 miles from Wichita Falls, Cline's Commercial college re-opened Monday morning at its new location, 611 City National Bank building.

Among those registering Monday, several qualified for the new portable typewriters offered to the first 50 students enrolling for the combination course offered by the college, and received their machines Monday morning, it was said.

Three teachers comprise the faculty at present, and classes are to open at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to the management.

As a result of a disastrous fire which completely wiped out the physical equipment of Cline's Commercial college, then at 812 Scott, about two months ago, the new school is equipped with all new and modern classroom equipment throughout.

PAINFUL CASE OF INDIGESTION

Regular Use of Thedford's Black-Draught Relieved This Texas Lady

Beaumont, Texas.—"I had indigestion and a heavy feeling in my chest until I would nearly smother," writes Mrs. J. M. Jones, of 136 DeVilleneuve Street, this city. She mentions having a bad taste in her mouth, noticeable on arising in the morning.

"I had a pain in my chest," she explains, "and it seemed as if a knot were in the pit of my stomach.

"I got so I could hardly sleep at night, my back and legs ached so bad. I was miserable.

"My father had used Black-Draught at home, and my husband had used it all his life, so I knew how good it was. I would rather take Black-Draught than any other medicine, so I got a package and began taking it. After two or three doses, I began to feel better, so I continued taking it regularly until I got relief.

"I keep Black-Draught in the house and take it as I need it. Since I have been using Black-Draught my health is splendid."

STATE JOINS TYPHOID FIGHT

Burkburnett Epidemic Laid To Carelessness

cautionary measures was another part of the preventative program outlined by the official.

The execution of the plans laid down by Doctor Anderson and Mr. Ehlers will be left under the direction of W. N. Dashield, district sanitary engineer, who will come on the field within a few days to take charge of operations during the coming month, Doctor Anderson announced.

Both city and county bodies expect to take immediate steps toward carrying out the suggestions of the state officials. The Burkburnett city commission, which met unofficially with the visiting officers Monday morning, is expected to pass strict sanitary ordinances at its regular meeting Tuesday and to take definite steps toward supplying free vaccine and medical service where it is necessary. Members of the county commissioners court, who discussed the situation with Doctor Anderson at lunch at the Wichita General hospital Monday, will follow the conference with actions during the meeting Tuesday. The commissioners have already tentatively agreed to help in supplying the necessary medicine and paying the expenses of a nurse.

Directors of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce, represented at the general conference Monday, will meet in special session Tuesday with a view to asking all merchants and employers of labor to have their entire organizations inoculated at once.

City Fights Disease

Meanwhile the city manager has already given instructions for an inspection of the open toilets of the town and for the enforcement of the nuisance ordinance. Another and more stringent law will be enacted if necessary, the official has announced. He has given assurance that the water tests suggested will be made and has wired Austin for the necessary equipment. Meanwhile every effort will be made to effect the immunizing of every resident of the town by means of inoculation, the manager added.

The organized battle against the disease began Monday morning in a meeting called by Dr. I. D. Russell, city physician, who called for the aid of the state health department. All Burkburnett physicians, the city commissioners, several dairymen, and members of the chamber of commerce attended the conference. Later Dr. Anderson talked with the commissioners in Wichita Falls while Mr. Ehlers completed his inspection. F. R. Knauth, commissioner from the Burkburnett precinct, introduced the official to the court and later called another meeting of the Burkburnett doctors to complete the move against the epidemic.

The state officials were quoted as saying that the epidemic as it now stands in Burkburnett is on a larger scale than any reported to the state within the past several years. They emphasized to local officials the necessity for immediate drastic action if the situation is to be brought under control.

Dr. Anderson returned to Austin late Monday. Mr. Ehlers will follow him Tuesday.

Both officials were quoted as declaring that there is no doubt about the diagnosis of the fevers as typhoid. The question was raised after Dr. M. A. Beckman, Wichita county health officer, declared that no typhoid fever epidemic exists in Burkburnett. The patients are suffering from malaria, the health officer told a Record News reporter.

John Kendrick, Cattle King, Wyoming Senator, Started as Texas Cowboy

By FRASER EDWARDS

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—To the casual observer, the desert is gray. So is John Benjamin Kendrick, junior senator from Wyoming. The magnificence of the desert burst upon one no more abruptly than to the hidden qualities of John Kendrick when he suddenly opens up like an old umbrella.

In the first place, John Kendrick is a cowman. He has all the modesty, taciturnity and reticence of the real cowboy so seldom found in novels. In the second place, John Kendrick is a Democrat, a congenial Democrat.

Jim Hogg's County

Democracy was bred in John Kendrick's bones in Cherokee county, tucked away in the northeast corner of Texas. That county gave to the Lone Star state such governors as Jim Hogg and Tom Campbell. John Kendrick, however, is the first senator that county ever produced.

But John Kendrick drew sufficient iron from the soil of Cherokee county to sustain him for the rest of his days. He went down to Matagorda for a post-graduate course in cowmanship and then took a herd up the old Chisholm trail to Wyoming with nothing but the stars for his roof for five months. And now to Texans, particularly those from Cherokee county, John Kendrick seems to be almost a traitor when this unschooled cowman becomes poetic over the beauties of Wyoming.

"I've never qualified as an orator," said Kendrick once, "but I've gotten so that I can speak anywhere on any subject except in the United States senate—and nobody there ever listens to what you have to say."

He's No Orator

It is a pity that John Kendrick is not an orator. For he could tell the senate and the country more in a minute about the problems of the West than most of his colleages could in a month.

But John Kendrick never advertises. He won't play politics. He has shaken less hands than any member of the senate. A handshake with John Kendrick is a contract. If he has ever broken a contract, nobody knows about it.

John Kendrick broke a rule in his last campaign. Without any intention of humiliating himself, he shook hands with some constituents. He was riding along in an automobile with his son when he spied a group of men with all the earmarks of the cowpuncher upon them. He halted the machine and walked back. He was received with a scowl.

"I'm John Kendrick," he said.

Knows Many Cowmen

It required a moment for that to sink into the intelligence of the leader. Once conscious of the man he confronted, the big husky turned loose a whoop, threw his arms around John Kendrick and said:

"Why, you old son-of-a-gun."

And that is why John Kendrick is continued as a Democrat from a Republican state. He is a cowman and he knows more cowmen from the gulf to the Canadian line than any other cowman extant.

The antipathy of the cowman for the sheep herder is tradition. Yet there are no better friends in the world or in the senate than John Benjamin Kendrick, cattle king, and Francis Emery Warren, whom the late Jonathan Dolliver of Iowa called the greatest shepherd since Abraham.

Once John Kendrick was asked about his strange friendship with Warren, who, incidentally, is a Republican. John gave this simple explanation:

"Well, you see Warren runs his sheep in Colorado and I run my cattle in Montana. So why shouldn't we be friends."

The friendship between these old stockmen which transcends politics was demonstrated in the last campaign. Warren met Representative Winter, the Republican candidate against Kendrick, one day on a train.

"Have you boys reached the stage of personalities?" asked Warren.

"Oh, no, nothing like that," said Winter.

The nestor of the senate stretched out his hand and patted Winter on the knee. And then he said:

"You know that John Kendrick is one of the finest men who ever lived."

JERRY IVEY REVUE WINNER

Viola Muck, 14 Months, Wins Second Prize

Jerry Ivey, 5, whose home is at 1712 Magnolia street, won first honors in the juvenile bathing revue sponsored by The Record News and held at the coliseum at Lakeside park Monday night in connection with the Labor day festivities. The petit beauty with her abbreviated costume and her poise on the stage won the acclaim of the audience and the decision of the judges with ease.

Second prize went to little Miss Viola Muck, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Muck, 3002 Avenue V. A bevy of 17 boys and girls were entered in the contest and competition was rife as they paraded up and down the stage before the decision was announced.

A crowd of about 10,000 persons thronged the park, enjoying the special events planned for Labor day. A huge fireworks display went off without a flaw, bombs bursting with deafening roar above the waters of the lake and spectacular devices lighting the entire park. Crowds gathered along the board walk and in the pavilion to watch the spectacle.

At the coliseum, a large audience watched the Joe Mullins' musical show. The hit of the evening was the act staged by Cook and Cook, comedians and acrobats. At the pavilion, De Sautelle and his orchestra played for dancing until the small hours of the morning.

Since the mysterious Miss Co-ed had not been found within the period specified in the rules of the contest, she was introduced from the stage at the coliseum and then given time to change clothes and escape. She was later identified by a young man.

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR SERMON

Several Hundred at Junior C.-C. Revival

Several hundred persons heard the Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, in his sermon to young people of the city Monday night at the First Methodist church, where the Junior chamber of commerce is sponsoring a young people's revival.

Using the story of the woman of Samaria as a basis, Mr. Moreland preached on "Living Water."

"It was noontime and the road was hot," he said. "Down the road there came a little band of weary men. One of the men sat down on the well-curb.

"As he sat there, a woman came toward him. As she came her face and figure told her story. Her face had been carved and deeply etched by sin. Her clothes were the cheap finery of the woman of the streets. He spoke to her courteously, much to her surprise.

Race Prejudice

"There was a greater prejudice between Jews and Samaritans than between the white man and the negro today. There has always existed the idea that we are all right and the other fellow is not so good. But the world's greatest gentleman was speaking to the Samaritan woman.

"She came to get a bucket of water but he told her of a deeper thirst that could be quenched only by living water. She came, an alien woman, a scarlet woman, to get water, but she needed a clean heart. She had exhausted the avenues of pleasure. She had gone the limits of sin. There was a fire consuming her soul day and night until Jesus told her how to quench the thirst. As she talked to him, she felt the evil leave her as shadows before the sunshine."

Special choral numbers were presented by the colored choir of the St. John's Baptist church, and W. E. Young, educational director of the First Baptist church, sang "The Ninety and Nine," also leading the congregational singing.

A Bible will be presented to the oldest person attending the Tuesday night service, it was announced by Mr. Moreland, when "Old Folks' night" will be observed. Tuesday night will also be "First Christian Church night," it was announced.

American Woman Cause of Duel

BRIONI, Italy, Sept. 2. (US)—An American woman, Mrs. Lewis Sheldon of Boston, and her young English companion, were the unwilling and unwitting cause of a sensational duel here. The duel resulted in one duellist receiving serious injuries.

Two Italians, one named Luiong, of Florence, and the other Boulante, of Naples, quarreled in the Cafe Fazana, on the mainland, where Mrs. Sheldon and her companion were dining.

Luiong was accused by Boulante of displaying ill manners by engaging in a brawl in the presence of the two ladies. Luiong slapped Boulante in the face and the latter, insisting that his honor had been impugned, insisted upon a duel.

The duel with sabres followed Luiong, an expert with the sabre, slashed the older man in the face, neck and shoulder to such an extent that Boulante collapsed and is now seriously ill in a hospital. Luiong was not injured.

Both duelists belong to high class families. Dueling is not permitted by Premier Mussolini's regime, but Boulante when challenged was faced with the alternative of imprisonment if he engaged in the duel or a charge of cowardice which would cause him to be blackballed at his clubs if he refused.

It is not known yet what steps the authorities will take.

Gangsters Blamed For Sack Murder

MORRIS, Ill., Sept. 2. (US)—The authorities tonight blamed Chicago gangsters for the death of a woman whose nude body was found today wired in a sack just inside the city limits.

The woman had been dead four or five weeks, Coroner T. A. Hoganson declared, but it had been deposited where it was found only a few hours before its discovery.

The body was said to be that of a woman 45 to 50 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing about 120 pounds. Her hair was dark, and streaked with gray, unbobbed and twisted into a knot at the base of the skull.

The sack was found by a party of tourists who had stopped at the roadside to repair a tire. The scene of the discovery is near the local airport.

Coroner Hoganson said that the condition of the body showed that it had been kept in some sort of preservative. That the body had been left where it was found only a few hours before was definitely established by the condition of the grass on which it lay.

Council Again Dodges Issue for Improvement

absent at the first and second readings of the ordinance, did not express an opinion as to whether the issue would carry with the voters, but Alderman Harvey stated:

Vote Favored

"It does not really make such a great difference at the present time whether the issue is likely to pass or fail. The main thing in my mind is that if we put the question to a vote, we shall have done our duty toward those who are in favor of the necessary improvements, as well as toward those opposing it."

City Attorney Martin, in answer to a question, stated that there was no time limit to the formation of a second ordinance in case the present one should be defeated. It was the opinion of Alderman Patton that the council would be something of a laughing-stock in the event that the issue were submitted to a vote and defeated.

Engineers "Through"

In clearing up a prevalent impression regarding Black and Veatch, engineers who were called in by the preceding council to make a survey of the situation and present a recommending report of their findings, City Manager Fairtrace pointed out that the firm was not a contracting company and would have no further connection with the project than that of engineers. Contracts for construction work in the event improvements in the system are authorized would be let to contracting firms and not to Black and Veatch, he said.

In the event the proposed issue passes an election, the firm of Black and Veatch would receive a small percentage of the total as a fee for their survey and recommendations, Mr. Fairtrace said, but if no improvements are made, the firm will receive only such amount as they have already been paid. Their total fee would include the amount already paid them, amounting to several thousand dollars.

The only other action of the council Monday night was the referring of a bid for embankment work on the Scott avenue bridge across the Wichita river to City Manager Fairtrace for consideration, with the authority to let the contract. The only bid for the work was submitted by the Wichita Falls firm of Combes and Glade, at a rate of two cents per cubic yard for 100 feet.

SPEAKING OF DRONES

Daily Editorial

PRODUCE A record, not a checkbook. Show what you've won, not what you own.

You're entitled to no more credit for inherited wealth than for inherited health. It takes no more ability to slip into a million than to trip into a mudhole.

Success figures in big affairs as well as in big sums. Importance registers its weight on achievement's, not social, scales.

Lickspittles and empty-pates may remark upon your dollars, but the mere accident of wealth may never make you a man of mark.

What's your field score? Where did you ever set pace or earn place? With what notions have you sped progress, reduced costs, enlarged employment or stimulated endeavor?

Name your brain children, and identify their performances.

No one expects you to design a derrick or reorganize an industry, but if you can't at least boast of an income-earning suggestion or a spell of constructive service, then garbage-men, street-sweepers, vermin exterminators and dumpcart drivers must precede you under the rules of practical etiquette.

They're driving to the best of limited Opportunity, while you won't even tug the golden forelock she's shoved into your flabby hands.

Democracy is not a hive for drones. And you neither spread pollen nor gather honey. Idlers and wasters are 20th century anachronisms.

Past centuries could have forced you to demonstrate worth or yield what you're worth to superior husk and merit.

When men carried their credentials in sword sheaths; when coats of arms appeared in the lists and not upon stationery; when only the determined and militant could command realms and respect; when caste was the guerdon of valor and rank was an obligation of action, you would have trudged with the sutlers and camp followers.

Join up. Enlist down-town. Send your mind to a practical gymnasium and practice a daily thinking dozen. Nature never intended that man should live by manna exclusively.

The implacable law of survival, the fair test of contest, should long ago have eliminated you.

You're just a puppet, a play actor in the great comedy of sham, dawdling through an infertile career.

If financial disaster confiscated your bank account; if necessity whipped you out of a soft berth and compelled you to make delivery or to take a park bench; if you were faced with the chronic problems that essay the wit and try the grit of self-supporters, where would you turn and how much would your talents bring on the auction block?

If you were stripped, would you be whipped?

Do something useful—give your brains a trade and don't live in eternal doubt of your native competence.

Some recent ancestor of yours must have possessed sufficient energy, tenacity and vision, enough shrewdness and application to amass the estate you're frittering.

Has the family sturdiness so soon petered out—is the breed already running to cur?

Shove a shoulder to the world and help the rest of us to keep it turning.

Restlessness and the March of Progress

A MAGAZINE WRITER recently remarked that the American people have less feeling for their homes than any other people on earth. He developed his surprising theory like this:

Ever since America was settled, the population has been on the move. From colonial times onward, there have been unsettled places to fill up. Individuals and families have kept in motion, swinging from the east coast to the west without ceasing. Today the free land is gone; but the amazing progress of modern industry is providing a similar situation, as cities develop new manufacturing districts and draw thousands from the surrounding countryside to work in them.

The result, he says, is that few families get rooted in one spot. A man may be born and grow to manhood in Philadelphia, for instance; his son, instead of settling down there, moves to St. Louis for his work; and his son, in turn, wanders about and finally establishes himself in Denver. The family that stays in one city, generation after generation, is the exception.

We are so used to this sort of thing that we take it for granted. We are not yet settled into grooves; and while we are considered a nation of conservatives, in a political sense, the truth is that no people on earth is so ready to accept radical changes in its social and economic order.

In other words, we are restless. Most of our troubles and most of our blessings grow out of this fact.

Stability and contentment are fine things. Taken together, they constitute the goal that nearly every man sets himself. Yet no man, once he has attained them, ever amounts to much afterward.

Achievement springs out of discontent. The man who is forever restless and dissatisfied, forever looking for "something better," forever believing that there must be a better way of doing, of living, of creating, then he now has, is the man who accomplishes things. And the same thing is true of a nation as a whole.

Because we are so restless, Europeans who visit us go home shaking their heads and remarking that we have everything but happiness. It is our restlessness that makes young novelists sit down and write books bewailing the fruitless sterility of our "machine civilization." The same thing is responsible for our high divorce rate, our "crime waves," our lack of veneration for law.

And—by the same token—it is our restlessness that causes our progress.

We who are now living probably will not survive to see the goal to which our eternal, restless activity is bringing us. But it will be reached just the same. Something very marvelous lies just over the horizon. Our restlessness will some day be justified—not for us, but for our children.

Speeding Up the Trains

AVIATION has done much in the last few years to provide us with quick transportation over long distances. But the railroads, it appears, are about ready to do a little fast traveling on their own account.

A writer in the current World's Work magazine reveals that the Canadian National railways are about to install oil-electric locomotives capable of speeding regular passenger trains across America from coast to coast in 60 hours without a stop.

Such locomotives, the writer says, if put on the regular New York to San Francisco run, could cut from 24 to 36 hours off existing schedules and come within 12 hours of the time made by the new air-rail services.

There is no doubt but that the next few years will see amazing developments in railroad speeds. Railroad executives are far too wise to let their service fall behind in the modern procession.

Food and Morality

THE IMPORTANCE of proper nutrition in the life of the individual is emphasized in a report just issued by Commissioner John McMillan, who commands the central territory of the Salvation Army.

Commissioner McMillan, pointing out that more than 60 per cent of the unwed mothers cared for in Salvation Army rescue homes, and 53 per cent of all men given aid by the army, were victims of undernourishment in their youth, declares flatly that the majority of these unfortunates probably never would have "gone wrong" if they had always had proper food.

"It is as criminal for a parent to allow a child to choose what he or she wants to eat as it is to allow the child to play with loaded firearms," says Commissioner McMillan. "The boy who is undernourished is handicapped before he starts in the game of life, since he is rendered doubly susceptible to disease of mind and body."

Where the Sexes Are Equal

THE WOMEN CONTESTANTS in the recently completed aerial derby from Santa Monica to Cleveland were unanimous in making one protest about the affair. They object to being spoken of as "women pilots," and to being obliged to race only with members of their own sex.

"Why not just call us 'pilots,' and why not let us race in the men's races?" one fair competitor asked. "A woman can fly a plane just as well as a man. Why pretend that she can't?"

The derby, in fact, laid emphasis on that fact; and that, probably, was its chief service to aviation. The woman quoted here was dead right. There is no reason on earth why a woman cannot be quite as capable a pilot as a man. Aviation offers the two sexes a chance to compete on an even footing if any profession ever did.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N INC, CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, through a wealthy customer gets Chatty a position as telephone operator at the Van Nuys Co., bonds. Chatty, with her incessant chattering and gossip, creates havoc. She falls in love with one of the up-and-coming bond salesmen, David Jordan. He is interested in her, but when her gossip causes Agnes Herford to lose her position David passes her up. Later Chatty listens in on all of David's phone conversations and finally "calls" her down in front of the office people. Chatty's girl friend, Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van's secretary, have some lively parties. Chatty has dates with a newcomer to the office, Bryant Dunning, who is married but says his wife has left him. Chatty goes with Bryant more to spite David.

Chatty overhears a phone conversation, and learns that David is going to leave Van Nuys and go to work at the Midas bank. Chatty believes David is copying the bond buyers' names at Van Nuys' and runs to Mr. Van with the story. Mr. Van knows all about it, and tells Chatty she can apologize to David or leave her position. Chatty quits rather than apologize to David. Later, she meets David as he is leaving, and secretly apologizes to him. Chatty looks for a new position. She discovers, after many calls, that it is not easy to get work when she has so little experience.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XLII

They are all very kind to her at home. Her mother did not criticize her, Billie was all sympathy and interest, and even Pud forbore to "razz" her on her failure to get work.

Chatty suspected her mother had talked to him.

She tried very hard. Every morning she rose early, looked at the paper, made up her list, and sallied forth. But she had "no luck."

Chatty called it "luck," not realizing that lack of experience, lack of proper references and her appearance were all against her.

In a mental reaction against the growing love and longing in her heart for Dave, she painted and powdered and lipsticked more and more heavily, as if it was a symbol that she was free and independent, not concerned with what he liked.

But he was always in her mind. The men to whom she applied for work were "nice" or "not nice," according as they did or did not remind her of Dave. Their voices were pleasant or unpleasant, according as they were or were not reminiscent of the tones of David's voice.

Waking and sleeping, David's face was before her.

At last she could stand it no longer. She ascertained from Billie that it was the Midas National bank in which David had accepted the position of assistant cashier. And then she telephoned him!

Not to talk to him, however. She knew better than that. She chose half past twelve as the hour to call him up, hoping for the very answer she received: "Mr. Jordan is out at lunch. He will return at one."

Chatty smiled with satisfaction. That was what she wanted; to visit his bank when he was out, and to become a depositor in it.

She withdrew her pitifully small capital from the savings bank, and when she walked out from the Midas she had the cold comfort of knowing that there was at least a small connection between David's life and hers. He was an officer in "her" bank. He helped to take care of her money! Perhaps, some day, when she had "legitimate business" in the Midas, she would see him!

Every day after that, she had "legitimate business" in the Midas bank! Today it was to have a quarter changed into nickels. The next day to exchange a five-dollar bill for five ones. The day after to cash a small check—a check smaller than she needed. If she cashed a check for two dollars today, she would need another two or three on the morrow, which would be one more excuse for entering the bank!

She made three visits before she managed to speak to David. Then she almost bumped into him, as he walked rapidly through the huge, marble pillared room.

"Good morning, Dave!" Chatty's voice trembled in spite of her. Would he ignore her? Would he speak to her?

"Why, Chat—Miss Chatterton! What brings you here?"

Chatty couldn't tell whether surprise, relief, pleasure or scorn was in the level voice.

"I—I am a depositor here!" she answered, in a very small voice.

"Is that so! I am too new here to know all our depositors, as yet!" He smiled. "How long have you been with us?"

"Oh, a long time!" assured Chatty, and could have bitten her tongue out the next moment! But the answer was an instinctively maidenly defense against David's knowing that she had just put her little savings in the Midas bank. If he knew that of course he'd know why.

But what a silly thing to say, a needless lie! For David, of course, had access to the books and need only go to them to ascertain that Chatty had but just become a member of the official family of the Midas bank!

"I hope we treat you well?" he asked. "You will excuse me, now?" And he hurried away.

But Chatty left the bank happier than she had been for days!

She had seen him. She had spoken to him! He had not cut her! He had actually smiled at her.

Not the little smile that she longed for, the smile of understanding and sympathy and love, the smile that wrung her heart in dreams and followed her, a pale ghost of a smile, through her waking hours. Oh, no. But still, he had not frowned.

Maybe he would forgive her, sometime—

Chatty spent more and more time at home, and less and less hunting the elusive job, as the days went by. She dressed more and more carefully. A face which is "made up" but which looks as if it was natural, is a difficult feat and takes time.

The ravages of late hours, too much drink, not enough sleep, anxiety and unhappiness had taken their toll of Chatty's freshness. The one time when she never lied to herself was when she looked in her mirror.

Men liked girls fresh, healthy, young, vigorous, peppy.

They didn't like dark circles and haggard cheeks and dull eyes!

But the one man didn't like make-up!

Chatty was between two horns of a dilemma. Make up and look well—and earn David's approval. Fail to look haggard and worn—and he'd guess why and disapprove!

Hence she obtained Winnie's help in learning more and more of the arts in facial camouflage, and spent more and more time over her mirror and rouge pot, her tubes of cold cream, rubbing cream, cleansing cream, vanishing cream and powders.

Every day at 11 o'clock Chatty sallied forth to go to the bank—she had ascertained that just before lunch was the hour when she was most likely to encounter David. She looked very fresh and fair and lovely, and only an expert could have detected the labor and cosmetics which achieved that result.

David, certainly, was no expert.

It did not occur to Chatty that she was but continuing in the practices which had offended David in the first place—deceiving him.

She did not always see him. Some days she drew a blank. He was out or busy, or didn't look up. They were the blue, the hard days.

Other days she received more uplift from a casual smile of greeting than she ever got from a cocktail. Usually it was only a smile, but occasionally it was a word or two. One never-forgotten day he talked to her for almost five minutes—four minutes and eleven seconds, to be exact.

"Do you ever see any of the old crowd?" he asked.

"Oh, yes! Billie, you know, lives right next door to me!"

"And little Winnie and Bryant and Lola?"

"I haven't seen any of them for ages!" answered Chatty. "Oh, did you know? Bryant was arrested for speeding? Yes, he was going sixty-five miles an hour, the cop said, and at the station—Oh!"

Chatty clapped her hand over her mouth. And she had just said she hadn't seen Bryant for ages!

"Yes, I saw it in the paper!" answered David, dryly.

Chatty's cheeks flamed, and she changed the subject. She had seen it in the paper, too. The paper had said forty miles an hour, and joked about the "unknown flapper" riding with Bryant.

Chatty crept from the bank, her feelings a mingling of delight at David's actually stopping to talk with her, of shame that she should have told him a lie.

"Oh, what's the matter with me!" she cried, remorsefully to herself. "My tongue must run away with me!"

It was the first time Chatty had really admitted to herself that she talked too much.

But love works strange wonders, and Chatty was more and more in love with David every day.

The further he seemed from her reach, the more desirable he became. Yet a something in David's eyes, a tone in his voice, told her he remembered that he once cared for her, even if that was all dead.

Chatty sighed. Those were the good days—David and she, Billie and George Mayhew—

By inference the "Famous Four" came to her mind; and then the old devil of perverseness arose. "Those were the good days, too! Why should I waste my heart on a man who—who—who doesn't like me? I haven't seen George Mayhew for ages, and I don't want to! I'll get Winnie to get up a whoopee tonight—"

But it was not Bryant and Winnie that she thought of as she plodded wearily from office to store and factory, hunting a job, that afternoon, but of David.

David, ah, David!

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"I'd get my sticks back from him anyway. He'll think that dinky little club of his is the only place you can go to play golf."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A new game has broken out in what society writers would call the younger set. It can be played only by very wealthy and very well known people who are fond of going places and doing things. All there is to the game is for the men of the party to put on false beards, and the women wigs, and then everybody goes where the world of fashion moves. One attends first-nights, has a late supper at one of society's flashier restaurants, and goes to the best night clubs. One gets a perfect score for not being recognized.

Practical Joke

A certain young novelist who is fond of playing practical jokes had occasion the other day to visit a book store in search of an Arab grammar. He was writing a thriller about the sheiks of the desert, and, never having seen any but our sheikless American deserts, he planned to lift a few picturesque phrases from the grammar.

He went to the woman in charge of the foreign book department—a French woman whose command of English is limited.

"Book-Arab—book," said the novelist.

"What ees eet you weesh?" asked the puzzled Frenchwoman.

"Arab—book—Arab," replied the customer, with all the loquacity of a Sitting Bull.

"Un moment," said the Frenchwoman, who was determined to be as helpful as possible. She dashed off, and returned five minutes later with a very dirty gentleman whom she had found in the janitor's quarters in the basement. The newcomer was a full-blooded Arab, and he shot a rapid line of questions to the customer.

It was the novelist's turn to look puzzled.

"All I want," he finally confessed in English, "is an Arab grammar."

"Well," said the distracted Frenchwoman, "why deedn't you say so!"

Big Profit

A merry little quartet of roisterers boomed out of a speakeasy in the west forties the other evening, and was accosted by a ticket scalper. "Here y'are, boys, four seats down in front for 'Broadway Foolishments.' It's a swell show."

The celebrants had been caught without a plan in their heads. They had paused on the sidewalk to consider where they should go next. The idea of going to a theater was only mildly interesting, but one of the party, more as a joke than anything else, offered the speculator $5 for the lot. They were $5.50 seats.

It was a hot evening, and late. The scalper knew that if he didn't make the sale he would have to "eat" the tickets, and $5 was better than nothing.

"Sold!" he cried.

So the four merry men went to the show. They weren't at all interested in what was going on, and found more enjoyment in a private and hilarious discussion. The rest of the audience was very much annoyed, and finally the head usher accosted the disturbers.

"You don't really want to see this show, do you?" he whispered. The four illuminated gentlemen said no, not particularly.

"Tell you what I'll do," said the usher. "Come back to the box office and we'll give your money back."

So the party left, and was paid face value for the tickets—$27.50 for a $5 investment. The profit was forthwith spent in the same old speakeasy.

Chummy Banks

The newer banks around town are becoming very English and quite chummy. No longer are the tellers locked up in cages, and made to shove money under heavily barred windows. Instead, they stand behind long counters that look more like old-fashioned bars than anything else.

The main Wall street branch of the largest banks in the country is so equipped, and often I have stood watching huge sums of money being slapped on the counter as if it were no more important—perhaps less important—than an old fashioned cocktail.

"What a risk just for the sake of intimate atmosphere," I have thought. But I am assured that the risk is slight, and the newer banks are better protected against robbery than the old teller-in-the-cage kind. Each bank has its own secret protection, and without doubt every teller, with a slight movement of the foot, could press a button that would close all exits, snap a shotgun crew to attention and shoot a photograph of any suspected bank robbers.

The counters are intimate, but bullet proof. All a teller needs do is duck.

The dice game which is furtively conducted on—of all places—a Times Square subway platform. It starts after midnight, when traffic has lightened. The game has been raided twice. . . . The morning auditions for chorus girls. . . . One wonders how they can look beautiful on the stage when they look so frumpy in street attire. . . . The small boy who is invariably to be found on the front platform of a subway train, gloryingin the rush of air through the tunnel. . . . The parachute folder who free-lances at various Long Island aviation fields, making $25 for folding one parachute. . . . It's worth it, for one's life depends upon the work being done properly.

The Vacationists' Relief Fund

With summer on its last lap, this department is pleased to announce that the fund for the relief of summer vacationists is continuing to do splendid work which will go on until well into September. More summer vacations were rescued last week and returned to their own homes than during any other week in the fund's history. They were all suffering badly from a corn-on-the-sob diet. You know how it is at summer hotels the last two weeks in August—corn-on-the-cob for breakfast, lunch and dinner. And pretty terrible corn, too!

PHILLIPS

One of the summer vacations saved last week was a Miss X——, whose case was typical of thousands. She picked a summer hotel through one of those circulars. It looked like a smart, up to date hotel in the picture, but when she got there she found it a merger of an abandoned homestead, a quick-lunchroom and a storage warehouse, combining the worst features of each. Miss X—— had a bathroom in which the water pressure was so inadequate that it took her six hours to fill the tub. She had to get up in the middle of the night in order to get water enough to take the morning bath the following afternoon, and the worry and strain just about killed her. A vacationists' relief fund scout found her in the nick of time and today, back in her own apartment with modern plumbing, she is a new woman.

Then there is the case of Mrs. B——, a mother who went to the shore with her three little children and was run down and trampled on by athletic young men tossing the medicine ball. She was rushed to the first aid tent where the crowd in its stampede to see what was going on, pushed over the tent and trampled her again. When she was rescued a second time the lifeguards assembled for their first aid work, but promptly lost interest in her when they saw that she was over 18 years of age and not very pretty. A vacationists' relief fund agent rescued this mother, but the three children are yet to be located. Remember that $50 will find these three kiddies, or their equivalent.

The following is a letter from a thankful vacationist, which will show what the fund means to sufferers at vacation resorts:

Dear sir:

I happened to pick one of those mountain resorts where there is nothing to do but—

1 Play lawn croquet.
2 Be a fourth at bridge.
3 Go fishing.

I don't play bridge and never went in much for croquet. I had to go fishing. You know what those lakes near summer resorts are: leaky boats, bum oars and a four-inch perch every Whitsunday.

Just as I was about to end it all, one of your relief agents saved me.

—H. L. K.

Have you helped yet? Remember that $5 will be sufficient to save one adult or two children. During the remainder of the season, in fact, six adults can be saved for $25. Do you bit today.

The Fund Standing

(The management regrets to announce that the figures just blew away. They will be announced, if found, in an early issue.)

Back Home

Vacation's over and I am back
Amid the town's congestion
With color, freckles, brand new girl—
And chronic indigestion.

I've stood the summer hotel food,
Survived the owner's shakedown;
I'm full of vigor, full of vim—
And ready for a breakdown.

The ocean air has done me good
From August to September);
And I'll plunge into work again—
But not before December.

September at Forum Will Be Busy Month

Club women of the city look forward each year to the first of September when the clubhouse opens. This year they will find more pleasure than before in the use of the clubhouse because the grounds are so much more beautiful than ever before. Trees given by clubs of the city are growing splendidly and the sod is thick and green. Inside the house, there is little change and will be little until Oct. 1.

On Oct. 1, a Spanish tea room will be opened in a private dining room upstairs, which will be a lovely spot where club members may get lunch or tea every day. Formerly, members dropping in for luncheon, have at times been embarrassed when a party was going on in the regular dining room. Such will not be the case in the future. In this room, Mrs. Kirksey, the hostess, plans to use ambitious college girls who wish to pay their way through school, by allowing them to do the serving in the charming surroundings. The glimpse of the tea rooms in the A. W. A. of New York, in which Miss Deason, (Mrs. C. P. Burton's sis'er) is on the house committee, was said to be an inspiration to Mrs. Kirksey.

Tuesday afternoon, the Junior Forum members have a bridge party at the forum clubhouse. Saturday afternoon they will have a bridge luncheon. Their activities this week are the "rush" activities for new members.

The Garden club is to have a breakfast during the month of September and the writers' department, sponsoring the forum magazine, will probably sponsor a magazine luncheon.

Any member of the forum may, by arranging her breakfast or luncheon with the hostess, entertain her bridge club or a bridge party at the clubhouse. Church organizations or any other organization, when reservations are made by a club member, may have their meeting there. One church has already made its reservations for September.

Hostess days will soon be inaugurated, although the exact date has not been set. Wednesdays will be as usual the hostess days.

With the coming of October, the season starts. After the opening, department meetings and hostess days and added festive occasions will keep the forum clubhouse a busy spot.

The year books will be off the press the latter part of the week and members wishing to secure theirs may do so by paying dues to Mrs. Bernard Martin.

"You never says a word,

O' course you never do.
"I wish 'at you could say

You never, never could,

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Women and Fine Feathers

"The world, if we choose to see it so, is a complicated picture of people dressing and undressing." So said Dion Clayton Calthrop in his classic study of English costumes, and added, truthfully enough, that "the history of the world is composed of the chat of a little band of tailors."

We women are criticised much on account of what we think of clothes; of fashions; of the new styles in textures, pattern and cut and all that. But are we not contributing, by our devotions and our tastes to the progress of mankind?

Women make cloth-makers make new cloths, new designs in weaving, new colors, new combinations all around. We make the tailors change the architecture of the finished product.

Beau Brummel taught men to get rid of dirty wigs, keep their heads and their bodies clean, and to dress right. And he was called a dandy for it. But actually he was a civilizer and knew the tailor's part in these civilizing processes.

William McKinley said "cheap clothes make a cheap man." It is true in a philosophical sense.

Women who dress well dress wisely, for the story of fashion is also the story of civilization.

Nothing in contemporary life is more impressive, or more meaningful, than the changes women have made in the matter of the clothes we wear. Fewer clothes have meant better clothes, clothes made of better materials, and better tailored, and more modish.

The working girls of today dress as tastily and as becomingly as the daughters of the rich. Sometimes it is not easy to tell a shop girl, who is making her own way in the world, from the soft and pampered daughter of the millionaire. And all because of the progress women have made in dress!

Of course our fashions have their oddities, but these are fads, mere whims of the hour, and, as usual, will be succeeded by things more rational, for we women do not stick to things irrational in dress. For instance, the hoop-skirt and the bustle of times past!

Women like fine feathers; but we are discriminating and in the main quite rational in the art of personal adornment and ornamentation.

Miss Brainerd wishes to help her readers whenever possible. Write her, sending stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

PUNISHMENT

There are those who believe all punishment is futile, that it inspires only antagonism and revenge. There are others who would use punishment as a cure-all for every sort of undesirable behavior.

Wisdom lies at neither extreme. Most people tend to use punishment much too frequently and to mete it out carelessly.

Certainly in a home which is wisely governed there should be little of it. When its occurrence is a daily event it is a sign that there is a good deal amiss—and that, not with the child.

Punishment to be effective must come from someone whom the child loves or at least respects; otherwise nothing short of brutality will act as a deterrent to future misdeeds.

Parents who love their children much and who understand them sympathetically need use little punishment. But the fact remains that children vary widely in their natural sensitiveness to correction. One child needs only to sense the disapproval of one he loves to make him at once behave as he should.

Another child who loves his parent equally well has yet such strong drives of his own that nothing except the thought of painful consequences will restrain him. Especially is this true while he is very young. Past the age of 10 there should be little need of punishing even this sort of child.

Punishment is, in a sense, a confession of weakness. It means usually that you have been both thoughtless and inconsistent in training your child. On those occasions when it seems to you the only recourse left, be sure that your child understands why he is being punished. Be sure that you are just. Punish quickly, and quickly clear the atmosphere of the clouds of wrong-doing and disapproval.

Mrs. Lillian H. Kerr Returns to Old Home

Mrs. Lillian H. Kerr, who comes to the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts as "business manager. will be, according to old friends who know her well, an acquisition to the city in every respect.

Mrs. Kerr lived in Archer City as a girl. She and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan were devoted girlhood friends and visited constantly.

Directly after her marriage to Judge Robert Kerr, who had been county judge of Archer county, the couple moved to Colorado Springs where they have made their home ever since.

Mrs. Carrigan describes Mrs. Kerr as a very progressive woman: one who believed in woman's rights before women had suffrage. That she is a good politician was demonstrated by the fact that she was sent into many different states to make the plea for women and ratification never failed after her visit.

Besides this, her friends say, she was an all round home woman; she made and kept a perfect home and looked after its running herself. She is reported to be very brilliant and attractive.

Judge Kerr died about a year and a half ago and Mrs. Kerr has been known since for her classes in parliamentary law and current events in Colorado Springs.

According to all reports, the Academy of Fine Arts secured one of the best business managers possible.

Wife Can't Be "All In All" to Hubby' Says Dorothy Dix

Why No Wife Can Be All in All to Her Husband—Sage Advice to a Neglected Wife—Household Furnishings vs. Other People's Children.

Dear Miss Dix—Why should I give up the love and friendship of all my acquaintances for a woman whose interest in me seems to be only that of a master for a slave? Thirty years ago I married a woman with whom I was very much in love, but as soon as we were married she drove away all of my friends and eliminated everything except money-getting.

I must devote every moment of the day to toil. I must not waste a single thought on anything else but forging ahead in business. I must not spend any time visiting my friends. I must not even devote any time to reading.

If I did, she goaded me. I gave in. I suffered myself to be henpecked. I did everything I knew how to please my wife and keep her from nagging. I was successful in business, but with success came a larger circle of acquaintances and my wife nagged about it until conditions became unbearable, and I left home and established my business where I can enjoy the love and friendship of all my associates. I would like a pleasant home as well as any man in the world and am perfectly willing to be a good and faithful husband to my wife, but I am not willing to give up every other human association for her. What do you think?—A HENPECKED HUSBAND.

Answer—I think that a woman never makes a greater mistake than when she tries to monopolize her husband and to make of his home a place in which he is kept a prisoner practically incommunicado.

Yet, many a bride starts out with the foolish idea that she is going to be all-in-all to her husband and that she is going to supply his every need of companionship and affection. She thinks she is going to be satisfactory substitute for mother and father and sisters and brothers, for old friends and old pals and all the associates of a lifetime. Nothing but the colossal conceit of ignorance could inspire such an egotistic dream.

For we are all many sided and no one person, however versatile, can meet our every need. We want the love that we give to our mates, the thrill and passion of sex love, but we also want the tender, calm, abiding, uncritical love of our fathers and mothers, and the faithful, enduring, understanding love of our brothers and sisters with whom we have grown up and with whom we have every memory in common.

We want friendship to which we can open our hearts in confidence and gay acquaintances with whom we merely pass the time of day. We want those with whom we have worked shoulder to shoulder, our comrades who have fought by our sides and those with whom we have merely trod a measure at a ball. There are times when men want to talk with men and women want to have heart-to-heart talks with other women.

In a word, we want variety in love and in our social relationship just as much as we do in our food, and the most beloved person and the most brilliant conversationalist palls upon us as much as do the 30 quails in 30 days if we are forced to an unrestricted diet of his or her society. They will tell you in the East that no two travelers who ever set out alone to make a journey around the world together ever get as far as Shanghai on speaking terms with each other.

Yet the first thing that most young wives do is to bar their doors to their husband's old friends, male and female. Before he was married John has fatuously told his chums that his house was to be their home and that there would always be a seat by the fire and a place at the table for them and he has assured some old woman friend, who has been like a mother to him, of how his wife will love her and how grateful she will be to her.

But the old friends shake their heads behind his back. They know better. They have had it happen before and they know that when John marries he is lost to them, that when they call the dormat will be frozen to the floor and they will be given such a hunk of cold shoulder that they will never come again. For the bride isn't going to have any old friends with their don't-you-remembers and their talk of adventures and experiences of which she knows nothing. She feels they separate her from him.

But if she were wiser she would know that a wife's best way of keeping her husband is by pailing with him and she could never do that unless she draws interesting people and people he likes about them. And she would know also that other people act as a buffer between husbands and wives and keep them from getting on each other's nerves by furnishing fresh interests. And, most of all, she would know that the only way she could keep from boring her husband and having him bore her would be for them not to give each other overdoses of their society.

And boredom is the real answer to the query of why husbands leave home and why wives hunt up affinities.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married for 24 years to a man who has good habits and a position that pays him $10,000 a year. Out of this he gives me $3,000 a year on which to clothe the two children and myself, keep the table and pay for any help that I need. He keeps himself handsomely dressed and gratifies his every desire. He is out of town about five times a year and while away never writes a line. He is not unkind to me in any way; he is just niggardly to me and neglects me. Now I am wondering if I should go on with this lonesome, loveless life or not.—A NEGLECTED WIFE.

Answer—You know the old proverb, my dear lady, about the unwisdom of jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Consider that for a while. I do not minimize the dreariness of your lot. Certainly it is a heart-breaking experience for a woman to be married to a man who is cold and selfish and inconsiderate, who pays her none of the little attentions that are the very bread of life to a woman's heart, who never tries to make her happy, or shows any interest in her. It is hard to endure loneliness and loneliness.

That is one side of the picture. The other side is that you have a comfortable home. You have an adequate, if not a liberal allowance. You have your children safe with you and you know that they will be cared for and educated and launched in life. Whether he does it graciously or ungraciously you have a man to stand between you and the world.

Suppose you leave him. What will you do? You have no money of your own. You are a middle-aged woman with no trade by which you can earn a living and you would find it practically impossible to compete in the business world with young girls.

How would you support yourself? How would you support your children, for I take it that you would not be willing to give them up? How would you endure the agony of seeing your little ones hungry and cold and ragged, sinking down in the social scale, without the advantages their father could give them? Could you bear it even to have them taken away from you and put in an orphan asylum because you could not provide for them? Such things happen. Often.

So my advice to you is to bear the ills you have rather than fly to those you know not of. There are worse things than grumpy husbands. Fill your heart so full of love for your children that it will suffice you and find interest in study, clubs, in doing good to others, so that your husband's indifference will become of minor importance to you. Just one of the unavoidable pin pricks of life, a disagreeable incident that you meet with philosophy and a shrug of the shoulder.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Am I cranky because I object to children wrecking my house when their mothers bring them along when they come to see me? Don't you think mothers might make their children behave when they are in other people's houses?—E. A. L.

Answer—I do, but if you want to protect your furniture and your rugs when children come to see you, you will have to fight your own battle with the little demons. The mothers consider it a privilege they are conferring upon you to have Johnny etch his idea of a horse with a pin on your old mahogany table and little Mary to take a nick out of your best Sevres vase.

All you can do is to grin and bear it, or make a mortal enemy of the child's mother by correcting it.—DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (US)—You would have to see her to believe she existed in gay New York. I noticed a slim figure standing against the iron light post at the corner of Seventh avenue and Fifty-seventh street, at 9 o'clock in the morning. The post was painted brown and she wore a brown outfit so she was hardly distinguishable.

The very difference between her and the hurrying, scurrying others who rushed past her and fought their way across the street, attracted my attention.

I managed to walk close to her. Her complexion was white, unpainted, unpowdered, but it was as soft as a water lily, and her eyes were very large and very blue.

Believe it or not, her skirt was woolen and escaped the sidewalk by only three inches. It was gathered in back.

Her coat, of a different material, but also brown, had gores, as in the gay nineties. It went in, wasp like, at the waist, and the skirt of it, which came almost to her knees was circular. There were pockets at the side with flaps, edged with narrow black braid.

There wasn't a fleck of dust or the littlest spot of any kind on the fabric. It was perfectly cared for. It didn't even look worn and it was neatly pressed.

I walked close to her. How could she have kept that dress, through all the years in its perfect state of preservation?

Her hat was small and close-fitting, and her hair was gray. It was in fact, almost white. There was a great deal of it, and it was drawn up under her hat. She wore gloves and carried some papers and a purse under her arm.

At each corner this strange figure of other days stood close to a brown electric light pole and waited for the policeman to blow the whistle so she could cross the street in safety. People didn't seem to notice her, and she didn't look at anybody.

The slim lady's face was young. There didn't seem to be a single line of worry. She took on chances, probably that is why. She stood by the brown lamp post at all life's corners, and waited for the whistles. How could anything hurt her?

The last touch was her Buster Brown collar! You know the kind the boys at Eaton wear? With a white tie in front. She didn't wear glasses. She hadn't, I take it, looked at things very closely, and she had not tired her eyes.

You have heard, haven't you, of the women who had a love affair in her youth, and when the man passed out of her life she was unable to believe he didn't care. She thought he would come back to her. She watched and waited for him, and nothing happened to her after he left, except the waiting. She didn't grow old and she didn't change. And 50 years after he went away, she looked as young as she looked the day he left. And she didn't read style books and she did not keep abreast of the times, but she stayed exactly as she was, waiting.

I'd like to know if this slim, unwrinkled lady is like that. But she would be the last one to satisfy my curiosity.

STUDENT FLIER RULES MADE

Basis of Selection Announced by Department

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (US)—Rules for the selection of student fliers for the army air corps were announced today by the war department.

The method of selection and the qualifications necessary for this ever growing popular branch of the army are as follows:

For the March classes on Jan. 15.
For the July classes on May 15.
For the October classes on Sept. 1.

Army regulations prescribe that in case there are more qualified candidates than vacancies, appointments will be made from eligibles in the following order:

Regular Army First

A. Enlisted men of the regular army who at time of application have served at least six months.

B. Other enlisted men of the regular army who at time of application have served at least six months.

C. Officers and enlisted men of the national guard who at time of application have been assigned to air corps units for at least six months.

D. College graduates who are graduates of air corps reserve officers' training corps units.

E. College graduates who are graduates of reserve officers' training corps units of other arms and services.

F. Other officers and enlisted men of the national guard who at time of application have at least six months' service.

G. Graduates of recognized colleges and universities.

H. Students in air corps reserve officers' training corps units who have completed their junior year.

I. Reserve officers and members of enlisted reserve corps who at time of application have served at least six months.

J. Students in good standing of recognized universities, who have completed their sophomore year.

K. Others.

Best Men Taken

As the number of men qualifying for this appointment far exceeds the number that can now be trained with the limited facilities, the best men obtainable must be assigned to flying schools so that the maximum number may be graduated as pilots for the regular army, national guard and organized reserve.

At present, owing to the large number of qualified candidates, it is impossible to select from the eligible list those who have not graduated from college unless they come in higher preference groups by virtue of service in the army or national guard. Furthermore, men who are college graduates, even though placed on the eligible list later than candidates who are not college graduates, are given priority in appointments.

There are 110 graduates of West Point from the June class of this year, who are ordered to Brooks and March fields for the October class. This reduces the number of vacancies available for civilian candidates, and as there are a large number on the waiting list who are college graduates, it is found inexpedient to conduct written examinations for the last four types of applicants listed above.

Father Seeks Custody Of Child in Court

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Sept. 2. (UP)—"This pretty child and her two sisters were carried away from the home of this plaintiff into a far county and this plaintiff searched unceasingly for almost four and a half years, but all efforts were in vain until July 28, 1928, when he learned that the children were in Hominy and that Bessie had been adopted."

Thus reads one paragraph of the petition of P. A. Osburn who has filed a habeas corpus suit to recover his 7-year-old daughter Bessie Lenor Linch from Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Linch, who adopted her in 1927.

Osburn claims to be the rightful father of the child and his petition recites a pathetic story of how his wife took their three children and ran away with another man back in 1924.

A hearing on the petition has been set for Sept. 6.

Horned Toad Race to Be Staged Saturday In Turkey

Special to The Record News

TURKEY, Texas, Sept. 2.—Unusual interest in stirring the town since a decision of the chamber of commerce to stage a horned frog race as a Trades day feature for Saturday, Sept. 7.

Entries which are coming in daily at the chamber of commerce office indicates that a large field will go to the post when the barrier is lifted.

Considerable time is being spent in training of the toads and scouts are finding it difficult to obtain information from rival camps.

Among early favorites are Kernel Tack, King Tut and Brown Boy. Rumors have reached town that several dark horses are beeing groomed to cop the honors. A race course of 30 feet has been laid out and prepared for this feature event.

TARIFF FIGHT LINES DRAWN

Mincrity Member to Seek Consideration

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—Faced with the possibility of another test vote on the question of limiting tariff revision to agricultural products, there was a tightening of party lines in the senate today as that body made ready for opening the battle on the floor.

The measure will not come up for debate before Thursday, but soundings were being made to determine the strength of the opponents with the expectation that Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, minority member of the finance committee, would seek priority consideration of his resolution to inpose the limitation.

A meeting of the finance committee has been called for Wednesday to act upon the formal report, but a Republican majority assures the adoption of a favorable recommendation. The bill is expected to lay over a day under the rules.

There has been no announcement of the method the Republicans would choose to cope with the Thomas resolution if it should be injected into the debate when it opens. A similar proposal by Senator Borah of Idaho came within one vote of being adopted last June.

Under regular procedure, however, committee amendments would be in order for consideration first.

Banker in Record Trip From U. S. to Bombay

BOMBAY, Sept. 2. (INS)—W. J. Manning, of the Calcutta branch of the National City bank of New York, hung up a record in quick travel when he arrived in India recently only 15 days after leaving New York.

He landed at Cherbourg, France, six days after leaving New York by steamer. Three days later he caught a British airplane at Genoa, and six days after this found him at Karachi, just 15 days after he had left New York.

En route he was able to have 14 hours of sightseeing in Paris and 24 hours to spare at Genoa, having arrived at the Italian city ahead of the air liner.

Hobart, Okla., Girl, 8, Wins Swimming Honor

HOBART, Okla., Sept. 2. (UP)—Winning a big swimming event at eight years of age because she learns to swim at 5 by accident, might be Dixie Joe Shatto's story if anyone should ask her how she swims so well for her age. She just won a swimming contest at Bridgeport, Neb., in a water carnival in which about 75 persons were entered.

She learned to swim one day when she was playing with an inner tube in the water and took a sudden notion to jump into deeper water with the tube. She proceeded to do so, but she slipped through and when she came to the surface started paddling toward the shore. As a result she started her swimming experiences young.

SOVIET FEELS NEW TENSION

Revived Crisis Causes Doubt in Moscow

MOSCOW, Sept. 2. (UP)—Members of the Soviet government were fully cognizant today of the danger of a new crisis in Manchuria. The reports of Chinese aggressions against Soviet troops at Suifenho and Manchuli tended to convince Moscow officialdom that the Nanking government may not have been entirely sincere in its acceptance last Friday of the minimum demand for restoration of the status quo on the Chinese Eastern railroad.

"The near future will show," stated an editorial in the Pravda," whether we are dealing with an actual desire to liquidate the conflict or a new provocational maneuver."

In response to the reports of renewed outbreaks on the Manchurian frontier, dispatches from Lenigrad, Odessa and elsewhere told of workers voluntarily forming battalions to go to the front.

The reports from Manchuria, emanating from Russian sources, declared that white Russians and bands of Chinese also raided the settlement of Svobodne Lushki on the Amur river, near Blagovoschensk. Other bands attacked villages in the Nerchinsk region, and the report added that the Chinese fired on the Soviet steamer Karpenko, presumably on the Amur river.

All these reports have caused the Russian Soviet press to conclude that the announced decision of the Nanking government to accept Soviet terms for a pacific settlement of the controversy, could not be taken too seriously.

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 2.—The Wichita county fair held in Iowa Park Sept. 26, 27 and 28 of this month is to have as an added attraction, a dog show, if such an event is possible. The matter has been taken up with a number of dog fanciers throughout the county and Dr. Fred Gross, 1405 Lamar avenue, Wichita Falls, and Mr. N. F. Rudolph are making an effort to get in touch with all dog owners looking to their exhibition at the county fair.

In order to have the opportunity to show Wichita county folk just what they have in the way of dogs, fanciers should get in touch with Doctor Gross or write or call Mr. Rudolph of the chamber of commerce, Iowa Park, it was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Deaton, who spent a vacation in Red River, Santa Fe and Albuquerque, N. M., are visiting in Plainview before returning home.

Criminals are made, not born, avers Mrs. Edith Rynes, amateur criminologist of Dallas.

SPUDDERS WIN OPENER FROM PANTHERS AND FORFEIT SECOND

WICHITA COPS BY 8-6 SCORE

Stalling Claimed by Umpire Grigg in Nightcap

Special to The Record News

FORT WORTH, Sept. 2.—The The Spudders split a double-header today with the Panthers. Or, rather the Spudders and Cecil Grigg split a double-header. After Wichita Falls had won the opener, 8 to 6, Umpire Grigg forfeited the second game to Fort Worth in the fourth inning, with the Cats leading by 12 to 8.

Stalling tactics, as Grigg characterized Manager Jim Galloway's frequent shift of pitchers and other players, irritated the arbiter to such an extent that he called the pastime and handed it to the Cats.

The opener was a free-hitting affair. Steengrafe and Lil Stoner, the starting hurlers, were batted off the hill and Cromer and Payne finished for the Spudders and Meadows for the Panthers.

A home run by Pete Turgeon with one on base was the decisive blow.

Gullic, new outfielder recently obtained from Tulsa, and Johnny Tobin, the outfielder formerly in the major leagues, appeared in pinch-hitting roles and each delivered. Gullic got a hit and Tobin a sacrifice.

The second game was even more of a slugfest. White, Cromer, Payne, Goff, Hopkins and Wiltse were paraded to the hill by Jim Galloway, and Meadows, Haynes and McCabe by Pancho Snyder.

Red Bennett hit his season's 28th home run.

RUGGLES CONSIDERS GALLOWAY PROTEST

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (AP)—The umpire's decision forfeiting the second game of today's Wichita Falls-Fort Worth double-header to Fort Worth because of a Spudder outfielder's alleged stalling was protested tonight by Manager Jim Galloway of Wichita Falls in a long distance converstion with William B. Ruggles, acting president of the league.

Ruggles took no immediate action, saying he wanted to talk to the umpire.

LAPAN'S SUSPENSION STANDS DESPITE PLEA

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (AP)—President Ted Robinson of the Fort Worth Texas league club tried unavailingly today to return the courtesy which J. Alvin Gardner, Wichita Falls president, extended him recently in interceding in behalf of Larman Cox.

Robinson requested William B. Ruggles, acting president of the league, to reinstate Catcher Pete Lapan of Wichita Falls, suspended earlier today for alleged use of abusive language in the first game of yesterday's double-header at Waco.

Acting President Ruggles refused on the ground that the three-game suspension of Lapan did not penalize him as severely as it would any player other than a pitcher or catcher.

SENS BREAK EVEN

BOSTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox divided a holiday double-header here today. The Senators won the first game 10 to 7 and the Red Sox took the second 7 to 2.

Cronin, the Senators' shortstop, gave Washington an edge in the first game by hitting a single, two doubles, a triple and a home run five times at bat.

Gaston, last year with Washington, held his erstwhile teammates to seven scattered hits in the second game and was never in danger. Score:

Strike Jury Lacks Two of Completion

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 2. (AP)—Two vacant chairs were still to be filled in the jury box late today when Judge M. V. Barnhill announced a recess of the court trying 16 defendants on the charge of murdering Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia.

Three jurors were added to the eleven selected last week to make a total of 10 now seated, and attorneys and court attaches tonight were hopeful the jury could be completed early tomorrow.

Lamesa Eleven Must Build Anew

Coaches McCollum and Elms Face Hard Task

LAMESA, Texas, Sept. 2.—The Lamesa High school will build its football squad for the season around new material, according to Coaches F. T. McCollum and Rogger Elms in charge of the team this season. McCollum states that the team lost 11 good letter men with graduation last spring. However, some good, although inexperienced recruits are coming in from the rural schools. With the stiff practice the squad expects to go through, a winning team is expected toward the last of the season.

Games are being scheduled at this time with teams in the section who desire to meet the Golden Tornadoes this season and a full schedule is expected to be completed within the next 10 days, so states McCollum.

PHILS WIN AND LOSE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Giants and the Phillies divided their double-header today. New York slammed out an easy victory in the first battle of home runs, 11 to 4, but the Phillies reversed the decision, 4 to 3, after a 12-inning struggle in the second contest.

Phil Collins provided the outstanding performance of the day in pitching the last five innings of the second game. Only 15 New York batsmen faced him after he relieved Benge. Carl Hubbell was the loser.

The Giants rolled up a long lead in the first contest, scoring seven runs in the fourth inning off Willoughby. This margin enabled Bill Walker to go the route although nicked for 15 hits. The Giants got the same number. Mel Ott's 34th homer of the season started this rally. He added his 35th in the second game. Chuck Klein rapped out No. 37 in the third inning of the opener while Hurst and Lindstrom also got four-baggers. Score:

MACKS ERASE FINAL DOUBTS

Leaders Fall on Yankees in Two Games

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Athletics removed the last lingering doubt about the American league pennant race today by taking both ends of a holiday double-header from the Yankees and running their lead to 13½ games.

The Mackmen fell on George Pipgras in the third inning of the morning game for a six-run rally that brought them a 10 to 3 victory. A rally in the ninth inning of the close afternoon contest decided it by a 6 to 5 score. Today's victory was Philadelphia's first over Pipgras this season.

This afternoon they had to overcome a Yankee lead gained when the New Yorkers drove Rube Walberg from the mound with four runs in the sixth frame. Ehmke stopped the Yankee scoring and the Athletics bunched three hits with an error for a pair of counters in the ninth. Score:

PRODUCERS NIP KELSAY, 14-13

Wichita Wins Amateur Ball Semi-Finals

By JACK ALLEN

A Panther rally fell short by the smallest of margins yesterday afternoon at Athletic park and Producers creamery nine defeated the Kelsay Lumber company of Fort Worth in a 14 to 13 slugfest. As a result of their victory, the Creamery tossers earned the right to scrap it out with Dallas next week for the North Texas championship. The games with the Employers Casualty company of Dallas will probably be played next Saturday and Sunday at Dallas.

Both teams hit the ball hard and loose fielding marked the second defeat in a row for the Fort Worth athletes yesterday. Grable started on the mound for the visitors but was ordered to the showers in the first stanza after he had walked three men and given up one hit. His successor, Millican, could do no better and the Milkers made merry with his offerings for 10 runs.

Kelsay Starts Scoring

The Cowtown boys started off with a bang when they scored two runs in the opening frame. Ryan clouted one of Smoke Luphor's fast ones over the left field barrier with one aboard. Six lumber men spiked the pan in the third, followed by one tally in the following inning.

Luphor grew wild in the late stages of the game and visitors scored two in the seventh and almost tied the game up in the final inning. Luphor fanned one pinch hitter and caused another to ground out to second for the final out.

Practically all the Producers' creamery runs were scored in the first three innings. With the help of Grable's and Millican's wildness the victors scored four tallies in the first stanza, adding four more in the second and enough to total 13 in the following frame. In the seventh Roberts and Francis combined hits to score a tally.

Roberts Leads Attack

Bradley and Ryan each gathered three knocks to lead the attack of the losers, one of Ryan's blows going for four bases. Roberts was the big noise in the attack of the Milkers with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate.

Both teams fielded loosely.

In an exhibition game played by the same two teams the two nines battled to a 4 to 4 draw in four innings. Each team gathered seven hits, Harris hurling for the home team while Garner and Hunter twirled for the Cowtown nine. Score of first game:

COCHRAN TAKES MEDALIST HONORS IN OPENING OF TOURNEY

MUNDAY SHARP PLACES SECOND

Moreland Drops to Third in Afternoon Play

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Refuting that old saw that they never come back, Tommy Cochran yesterday won low medalist honors in the second annual golf tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. Heading the home defense, after a year in which he played little golf, the local expert of the ancient game achieved the form that won him the state amateur title a few years ago. Save for some bits of erratic putting, Cochran's game yesterday was similar to his play when he ruled the Texas links, and his 74 topped by two the next best effort here yesterday.

Munday Man Gets 76

At noon it seemed that an out-of-town player was to win medal honors. Gus Moreland, the sensational, good-looking Dallas youth came in with a 77 at luncheon, which up to that time was the best score registered. Moreland held low scoring honors only two or three hours, however, as Bob Alexander, the big long-hitting sharpshooter from Munday turned in a 76 in mid-afternoon.

Then Cochran, after a rather indifferent out 9, which he made in 39, two over par, got hot on the second nine. He started coming in by shooting two pars and one birdie 3. His play slumped a trifle in the next three holes, however, due to a loss of putting touch, and required 5s. Then Tommy regained his best game, with two par 4s and a birdie 3 for his 74.

Alexander, unlike Cochran, slumped in his second nine, after setting a dizzy pace going out. Bob turned the first nine in 35, two under par, but required a 41 for his second nine for 76. A birdie 2 on the sixth was shot by Alexander. The cards of the leaders:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Par out | 454 | 343 | 456—37 |
| Par in | 334 | 445 | 444—35—72 |
| Cochran, out | 454 | 438 | 556—39 |
| Cochran in | 333 | 555 | 443—35—74 |
| Alexander out | 354 | 445 | 444—38 |
| Alexander in | 435 | 447 | 344—41—76 |

Morris Norton, always to be found among the leaders, struck a near-par clicking stride when he went around the 18 holes in the afternoon, and scored a 77 to tie Moreland for third place. Thus two city golfers vied with invaders in setting the pace.

"Foreign" players and the home guard also were about evenly divided on down the line. Jack Jackson, a Dallas sharp, negotiated a 78, but E. W. Marriott and L. T. "Bobby" Burns, the local stars, crowded up among the leaders with 79 each.

A pair of juniors, T. P. Duncan and Fred T. Couper, shot excellent 80's, as did H. F. Weldon, the left-handed local expert, and Joe Hutcheson, III, of Houston.

87 to Qualify

A stroke behind them were Ed Conner of Dallas and Buddy Raines of Stamford, the former West Texas titleholder. Raines' father, J. A. Raines of Stamford, a familiar and popular figure at golf tournaments in this state, is attending the meet here.

Chick Nolen, Wichita Falls, came in with an 82 and Joe Greenwood, Houston, John Marriott, Electra and C. F. Johnson of Iowa Park with 83's. Orion Daniels of Wichita Falls qualified in the first flight with an 84; Whitney Anderson of Vernon with 85, and Horace Gooch, Amarillo; C. H. Reid, Wichita Falls; W. E. Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls and Jack Parr, Electra, had 86's.

Eighty-seven was required to qualify for the championship flight and there were seven to get in under that figure. They were J. D. Bright, Wichita Falls; George Seelander, Dallas; Bill Rogers, Vernon; R. K. Pond, Wichita Falls; C. O. Davis, Wichita Falls; Norris Russell, Denton, and J. C. Wynne, Wichita Falls.

There also are 32 in the second flight and 21 in the third. Match play will be started today, with the final rounds to be played Thursday.

Excellent golfing weather, save for a brisk wind in the afternoon, helped figure in the high-class play, which was followed by large galleries.

Moreland won the driving contest with smashes of 253, 322 and 316 yards for a total of 891 yards. E. W. Marriott was second with 299, 260 and 279, a total of 838. Alexander whanged the longest drive, for 337 yards, but was out of bounds on his other two attempts. Following are the qualifying scores:

SHOOTING OF GIRL MYSTERY

Shotgun Used to Kill Child Of 10 at Home

MANHATTAN, Ill., Sept. 2. (UP)—Murder of a 10-year-old girl, whose left arm was torn off and whose body was riddled with shotgun slugs, was revealed here today.

Police advanced two theories, one that the girl, Esther Groth, had been slain by a moron and the other that an enemy of her father had killed her for revenge.

A shotgun apparently had been placed against her body and fired. She died in St. Joseph's hospital, Joliet, near here, without revealing just what had happened.

"I don't know, O, I don't know," she said repeatedly when questioned before her death in answer to questions concerning the shooting.

Her parents were away from their home shopping when the shooting occurred yesterday. A brother, Clarence, 15, and a sister, Viola, 16, were at home. Clarence in the barn, and Viola on the second floor of the house.

Both testified that they heard a shot on the first floor and saw Esther run from the house, mortally wounded.

The brother and sister ran to a neighbor for assistance. They found the girl in the yard where she had fallen. Dr. G. H. Brannon, who was summoned, said that the gun had been pressed so close to her side, that her flesh was burned from the powder.

The wounds indicated that she held her hands in front of her face in a vain effort to shield herself from her assailant. Doctor Brannon said that it would have been impossible for her to have shot herself.

Attacks on Jewish Villages Continue

JERUSALEM, Sept. 2. (AP)—Arab attacks on two Jewish colonies in the Tiberias district in the northeast, both of which were repulsed by the inhabitants, were the only occurrences today to break the newly regained calm in Palestine.

One attack was on Hittom, colony of orthodox Jews, and the other directed against Mizpah, where the farm of Lord Melchett, British Zionist leader, is situated.

Holton Opens Training Camp

tions individually. In the afternoon sessions he devotes attention to team work, both on the field and in the lecture room.

Holton is eminently fitted for work on the gridiron and in talking football. The inspiring, driving figure of the big mentor is always active on the field and his keen eyes is ever sizing up the situation. A graphic speaker with dynamic personality, he has the knack of imparting the knowledge of football gained from years as a star at Notre Dame and several years as a coach.

When work started yesterday Holton was greeted with the news that four members of the 1928 team, all linemen, have been lost. Springer Williams, a highly promising guard, recently underwent an operation for the removal of his tonsils and his physicians have advised him that he must forego football for this season. He will act as one of the team managers.

Goodwin Bray, a tackle and Robert Guy, a guard and tackle, have moved to Dallas and Michigan, respectively and Jud Bell is ineligible.

The training camp in the Junior college building, where the squad is quartered, will be continued until the start of school next Tuesday.

Collegian Pounds Out Dozen Consecutive Hits

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 3. (AP)—Ned Nelson, second baseman for the university baseball club in the local community league pounded out 12 consecutive hits, including a home run and one triple, in four games this summer.

Last spring he was on the freshman nine of the University of Washington.

Nelson declined an offer from the Chicago White Sox this season, preferring to continue his studies. After he is graduated, Nelson intends to answer baseball's call.

Atlanta Players Gain Praise From President

MEMPHIS, Sept. 3. (AP)—John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, has publicly commended two members of the Atlanta Crackers for their team spirit.

The Crackers were to open a crucial series here with the Memphis Chicks. Dick Burrus, first sacker, and "Red" Oldham, pitcher, missed the train. They hired an automobile and drove all night to join the team for the opening game.

GIBSON DUNLAP TOPS NATIONAL

Unknown College Boy Beats Bobby Jones

for one, until the eighth, where he took three puts.

Bob Evens Matters

"O, ho," said Bob, "what's this? Am I in the red?"

And he proceeded to even matters at the very next hole where he split the pin all the way and ran down a short putt for his birdie.

At the 11th, Jones dropped a 15-footer for another bird and then hit the old par trial again right up to the home hole, where a 15-footer gave him his third birdie and a total of 70 for the round. And then, along came Gibbie Dunlap. The kid had been burning up the outside nine, and reached the turn in 34, with no whooping, exuberant gallery to reward his efforts with applause.

It was an eagle three at the second hole which started the Los Angeles boy on his way. He hit a tremendous spoon shot 40 feet past the pin and came back with a long, curling put which flopped into the can.

On the three holes was Gibbie over par in each case, he said, it was "my own fault."

He Got the Breaks

"I was underclubbed twice and overclubbed once," the youngster explained. "I was getting the breaks the rest of the way."

Four birdies fell before his crisply hit irons from the sixth hole on in. His approach shots were leaving him four-footers and he was sinking them meticulously.

It isn't every 21-year-old college golfer who could come up to the difficult 18th at Pebble Beach, knowing he needed a birdie on the hardest hole of the lot to beat the great Bobby Jones—and get it. That's the kind of golfer this former Chicago lad is.

He slapped two stiff wood shots down along the ocean, where green waves of the Pacific were tossing spray over the jutting rocks and seagulls swooped and quarreled. Then he chipped accurately to within 15 feet of the pin, and ran down the put with the gallery aghast at the presumption of the slim youngster who was bettering Bob Jones' score before ever it could be chalked up on the scoreboard.

Two Hard Shots

"It was the easiest round of golf I ever played in my life, except for a couple of shots," Dunlap told me when he was through.

"I got the great kick of my life, too, out of my second shot at the 18th. They told me, you see, that I had to get a four to beat Bobby.

"I had just hit a long tee shot, 'way past the trees at the bend,' and I knew I had to stick that second one up close. When I saw it roll up close to the apron, I knew I could get my four and I didn't worry any more."

A kid of 21 who "doesn't worry" about a 15-foot putt in the presence of several thousand gaping spectators, with Bobby Jones to beat, is likely to go a long way in this game of golf.

There were others in this qualifying round, of course, besides Bobby and Gibbie, and some of them may be out in front by Tuesday evening, when the 36-hole test is over and the lowest 32 in the field are named for the match play test to follow.

Johnston, Willing, Moe and Homans with their par figures, are within easy striking distance, while a little ways back are Cyril Tolley, the British amateur champion, George von Elm, the former national titlist and Vincint Dolp, another of Oregon's great golfing gang, each with cards of 75 for the first day. W. K. Lanman, of Columbus, Ohio, another unknown, also had 75.

Dennis Lavender of Texas shot an 83. Lavender bumped into trouble on two holes on the first nine and on the same number on the incoming stretch to spoil his card for the first qualifying round. He had a seven on the par four first hole and a six in the par four ninth for a 42. He was two strokes over in the par four 13th and the par three 17th. The 18th, a great golfing test, proved easy and he posted a birdie four by sinking a 10 footer. His card:

MANDELL WILL BOX VICENTINI

Non-Title Go at Chicago Heads Week's Boxing

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Sammy Mandell's return to the ring will furnish boxing's faithful with their chief enjoyment this week.

Making his first start since he successfully defended his lightweight championship against Tony Conzaneri, Mandell meets Louis Vicentini of Chile in a 10-round bout at the Chicago stadium Friday night.

Mandell's title will not be at stake.

Heavyweights will head a card at Cleveland Wednesday night, Johnny Risko of Cleveland, K. O. Christner of Akron, Ohio, clashing over the 10-round route. The behemoths also will be active at Ponca City, Okla., where Babe Hunt meets Jack Demave of New York in a 10-rounder Monday night.

New York's best attraction in a dull week is a 10-rounder between Pete Nebo, Seminole Indian from Tampa, Fla., and Sid Terris, veteran New York lightweight Tuesday night.

State Engineer To Inspect City's Sewage System

At the request of George D. Fairtrace, city manager, V. M. Ehlers, state sanitary engineer, will inspect the sewage plant the garbage disposal system in use in Wichita Falls on Tuesday morning. Mr. Ehlers, brought to the county to aid in checking a typhoid epidemic at Burkburnett, was asked to stay over long enough to complete the inspection and make his report to the city official.

The adequacy of the city incinerator and the method of garbage and sewage disposal here are in dispute in two damage and injunction suits pending in the district courts. Landowners along the river have claimed that the inadequacy of the incinerator and the offensiveness of the dumping ground have made their property uninhabitable. The city is under an injunction forbidding the dumping of organic matter along the river banks in connection with one of the damage suits yet to be brought to trial.

American Money Dictates Styles

PARIS, Sept. 2. (US)—America has become the true dictator of fashion because of its tremendous buying power, Sidney Blumenthal, president of Shelton looms, told French decorators here yesterday. Blumenthal said America is the battlefield of ideas and what Americans accept becomes the prevailing mode.

Paul David discussed the importance of the new Maison de France being built in New York, and Mme. Alphandery, prominent French writer, spoke on Franco-American friendship. Many well-known French decorators attended the discussion of correlation of fashions in dress and interior decoration.

HUGH BUTLER BROUGHT BACK

Robbery Suspect Returned From Hillsboro

Hugh Butler, former acting assistant manager of the Silver store here, was expected late Monday to be back in the Wichita county jail before morning, brought here from Hillsboro to face trial next week for the theft of $700 from the safe of the store. Butler is also under a murder charge in Hill county and is under indictment for burglary in Dallas county where he escaped from jail several weeks ago. He was rearrested at Shamrock last week and was ordered back to Wichita county on a bench warrant from Judge Allan D. Montgomery.

Hub Stanley, now at liberty under bond, indicted with Butler, is also to be tried in the 89th district court next week.

Bridge Work to Close Old Windthorst Road

The old Windthorst road off the Henrietta highway, leading south, will be closed during the next 10 days to allow the construction of a concrete bridge over a draw about one mile from the pavement, M. A. Bundy, commissioner for precinct 1, announced Monday. Busses and other vehicles will use a detour off the Holliday road en route to Archer City and Olney, the commissioner said. The road will be closed early Tuesday morning, he added.

NUDE SWAMP WOMAN HUNTED

'Ape of Marshes' Mystery Of River Lowlands

LAUREL, Miss., Sept. 2. (UP)—The "ape woman of the marshes" remained a mystery today despite a search by hundreds of men yesterday and today through swamps of the Mississippi river bottoms near here.

The search was organized by P. A. Walker, wealthy plantation owner, who insists he saw and talked with the nude, apparently demented woman last week. No trace of her was found.

For years a tradition has persisted among the plantations and villages that in the swamps the "ape woman" lived. Many persons reported seeing her swinging through the trees.

Walker says he met her in a dense thicket near his plantation. "She was powerfully built," he said, "and her body was covered with long hair. She appeared frightened at first, but in a few words told me she had been living in the same swamp for six years. She said her diet was wild animals and vegetables eaten raw. When I started to question her as to her identity she plunged into the forest."

Ford Overcomes Objections To Buying Landmark

LINCOLN, Ill., Sept. 2. (US)—Henry Ford has ironed out differences over the removal of the Potsville courthouse, where Abraham Lincoln frequently appeared as a lawyer, and will remove it to Dearborn, Mich., he announced today. Mr. Ford came here to inspect the property which he recently purchased from Mrs. T. T. Beach. Citizens objected to losing the landmark until Mr. Ford assured them the old building would be preserved for posterity. He plans a sitting similar to the site it occupies here.

Tension Wire Ignites 14 Cars of Gasoline

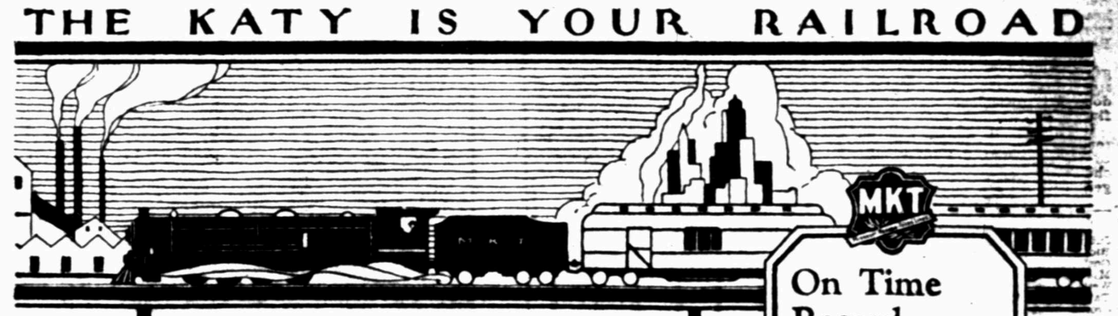

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 2. (US)—A freight car in a train on the Chicago and Alton railroad jumped the track near here today. When it struck a high tension electric cable the gasoline exploded. Fourteen cars burned before the flames were extinguished.

THE KATY IS YOUR RAILROAD

The Train Most Useful

The passenger train is the one indispensable agency on which the American public relies at all times for service which no other transportation agency can supply. Other modes of travel serve public needs partially, but the railroads in all weather and under adverse conditions regularly provide passenger, mail and express service necessary to community contacts and interchanges vital to business and society.

Passenger trains carry an average of two and one-half million passengers daily. While development of other means of travel has naturally resulted in heavy decrease in railroad passenger revenue, passenger train service has become increasingly important to the public because of indispensable service in the transportation of mail and express. Railroad passenger service—in face of decreasing passenger revenues—has been improved constantly until it is now recognized as better than ever before from the standpoint of regularity, punctuality, comfort and safety.

The Katy—pioneer railroad in its distinctive territory and the only railroad serving all the more important centers in Oklahoma and Texas through both the St. Louis and Kansas City gateways—is proud of its position and reputation as an outstanding passenger line with a record for safety of passengers and dependability of service which no American railroad has surpassed. Continued public support of the Katy policies, which make high class passenger service possible, is earnestly solicited.

On Time Record

Despite the decrease of more than 50% in its passenger revenues since 1920, the M-K-T has steadily improved the standard of Katy passenger service. In the year 1928, with passenger service entailing many thousands of train miles daily, 95.9% of all Katy passenger trains equalled scheduled running time.

Reducing the Bust

The question of bust reduction is generally the most active during the summer season when the revealing bathing suit tells all, whether the telling is embarrassing or not. The very modern bathing suit, which consists of one piece, with much of the underarm cut away and with the back as low as possible, tells even more than it has in years gone by.

The size of the breast varies according to the woman's weight, and her type and temperament. The breasts are composed of mammary glands with the addition of fatty deposits. Where the glands are naturally large it is impossible to bring about much reduction in weight in these parts except to harden the surrounding tissues and remove the fatty deposits.

Large deposits of fat on the breasts or any other part of the body interfere with the circulation of blood and are nothing more than so much accumulation of lard or tallow. As a rule, this excessive fat comes entirely from lack of exercise and a fattening diet. As with the reduction of other parts of the body, special kinds of exercises will harden the muscles and tissues in these local parts and then with a general reducing system of diet, a woman can get all the results possible without injury to the delicate mammary glands. Swimming is perhaps the best exercises for bust reduction and swimming in cold water is of added benefit because of the contracting, hardening effect of the cold water upon the tissues.

If ordinary housework is indulged in vigorously enough, the housewife can expect some results from sweeping, dusting, washing clothes, washing windows, waxing floors, or any work which requires reaching and stretching movements.

Tennis is a valuable game, especially if one spends some time practicing strokes with both the right and left hand. Classical dancing which includes the arm movements, and the bending and twisting involved are also helpful. The whole chest can be strengthened through deep breathing exercises. These exercises also have a special effect upon increasing metabolism and burning up fatty tissue.

The average person inhales and exhales 25,000 times every 24 hours. When swimming or walking fast, breathing is, of course, increased to more than the regular rate of 18 times a minute. More oxygen is taken into the body and, therefore, more is available for the oxidation of tissues. The fatty tissues are the first burned up.

Special breathing exercises can be used while taking the daily long walk so necessary in reducing. A good way is to inhale every four steps and exhale the next four steps, keeping this up over a three or four-mile walk.

To summarize, for the reduction of fatty busts: Exercise vigorously with any exercises using the chest muscles—take special deep breathing exercises, and use a carefully planned reducing diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sun Bathing

Question—Mrs. H. G. asks: "Are sunbaths as good as the violet ray lamps? How can I really cure pleurisy?"

Answer—I consider sun bathing to be superior to treatments with the ultra-violet lamps, as the sun's rays doubtless contain other beneficial rays besides the ultra-violet. To cure pleurisy, you must first find the cause, which may be due to tuberculosis, a tight diaphragm, or the irritation from excessive gas pressure.

Neck Snaps

Question—Mrs. A. R. D. writes: "Every time I turn my head to the left my neck snaps. What causes it?" Also my arms at the elbows and legs at the knees become numb and ache if I don't keep them perfectly straight when I sleep. Is it improper circulation, or my nerves?"

Answer—The neck snapping is caused from some faulty position of the vertebrae or ligaments in your neck. This can probably be corrected by osteopathic or chiropractic treatments. The numbness of your elbows and knees may be caused by a mild form of rheumatism or by poor circulation due to insufficient exercise.

Dizziness

Question—O. J. asks: "Will you please tell me the cause of a staggering and dizzy feeling in my head in the mornings, and the remedy? Also the reason for a rash completely covering the body when a person gets excited? I was listed as 50 per cent anemic two years ago. Would this have anything to do with it? My weight is about 170 pounds."

Answer—If you are still anemic, that could account for your dizziness in the morning, and also for the rash on the body. Have a blood count made in a laboratory, send me the report, and I will give you further advice. Be sure to give your full name and address.

Salary of School Superintendents Would Be Raised

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Sept. 2—A bill sponsored by the department of education will be introduced at the next session of the legislature in behalf of the county school superintendents, stated Prof. L. W. Rogers, first assistant state superintendent.

The bill will be designed to provide for the appointment of the county superintendents by the county board of education in the various counties of the state and will leave the question of compensation to be decided by the board of education. Such a bill was introduced at a former session of the legislature, but died on the calendar. Under the present law county school superintendents are elected by the people and their salary ranges from $1,600 to $1,800 a year and a limit of $300 a year is fixed in the law for expenses, the salary being fixed according to population of the county, but cannot exceed $2,800. Professor Rogers claims that this salary is totally inadequate for the proper maintenance of the county superintendent.

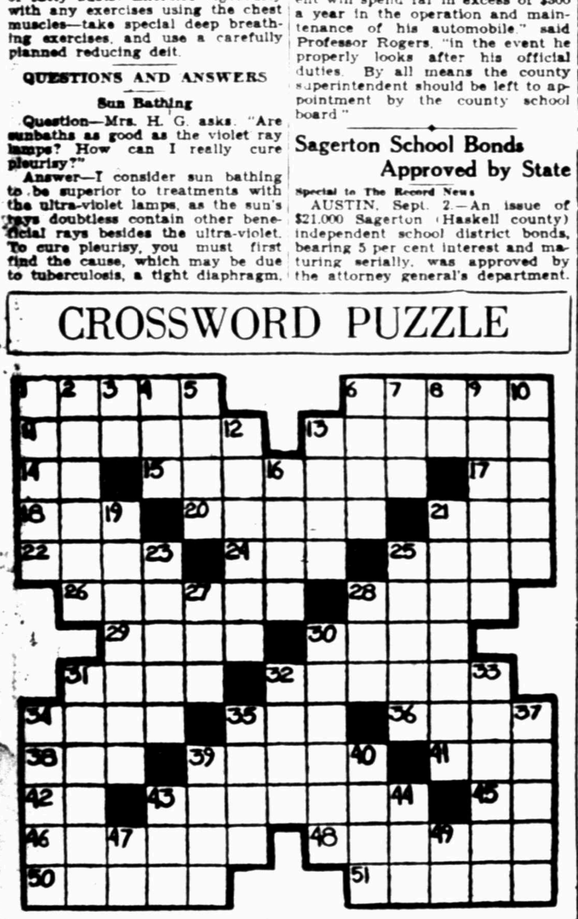

"The average county superintendent will spend far in excess of $300 a year in the operation and maintenance of his automobile," said Professor Rogers, "in the event he properly looks after his official duties. By all means the county superintendent should be left to appointment by the county school board."

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle supplies around the 11-market circuit consisted chiefly of western range offerings today. Packers obtained some concessions on the less desirable grades of western grass steers but otherwise killing classes moved slowly at mostly steady prices. Country demand for stockers and feeders continued slow with buyers centering their interests on the light weights. Strictly choice heavy steers in Kansas City scored $16.50, and $16.25 was realized on choice yearlings. Common light weight grass steers of value to sell around $7.50@8.50 were in more liberal supply. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 66,500 as compared with 94,938 last Monday and 75,360 a year ago. Chicago however was closed for the holiday.

Hogs found a moderately active outlet at prices unevenly steady to 25c higher, most of the advance shown by medium and heavy weight butchers. The day's extreme top of $11.55 was paid at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 44,400, a decrease of 6,600 from a week ago but 7,500 more than the corresponding day last year.

Fat lambs ruled steady to slightly higher and at most points steady figures were maintained on aged stock. St. Louis reported a 50c decline on fat ewes. Choice range lambs in Kansas City made $13.50 while best natives at St. Louis brought $13.25. The supply approximated 58,800 against the 95,285 a week ago and 39,992 a year ago.

LOCAL TRUCK SEASON ENDS

Little Produce Offered by Wichita Growers

With the completion of the harvest of tomatoes and black-eyed peas among local produce gorwers, the supply of Wichita Falls grown vegetables has been practically exhausted, according to local produce houses. Aside from okra, carrots and a few radishes, it was said little remains to be marketed from farms in this area.

Numerous complaints were voiced Monday by dealers here of the importation of low quality and low priced vegetables from other sections with the apparent purpose of cutting market prices below a figure at which farmers near this city can raise the produce in question. It was said that different truck farmers have been much annoyed by having to compete with offers of certain commodities at considerably lower prices than wholesale produce houses here are willing to pay them. Produce on which such public quotations are made, it was said, comes from certain parts of Oklahoma, and in part from trucksters from Fort Worth who dispose of remaining portions of loads when the vegetables are no longer in good condition. The effect of such quotations, they said, is to fix in the mind of the public a price on certain articles which is too low to permit the growth of first class produce.

Wholesale produce dealers pointed out that the practice is prejudicial to the truck-growing industry in the irrigated district here, and works an injustice on the truck grower. Produce wholesalers generally, it was said, are not buying the objectionable imported stuff, the offering of which was said to impose upon local truck growers difficulty in obtaining a fair price for their produce.

Among the items coming in now from distant parts of the country for the local market are fresh prunes and figs, and Tokay grapes. A new carload of Colorado potatoes also arrived at the Wichita Produce company Monday morning. At the Texas Produce company a carload of early red triumphs, also from Colorado, was being unloaded.

BAPTISTS OPEN REVIVAL HERE

Dr. L. C. Wolfe Preaches at South Side Church

Large crowds at both morning and evening services Sunday and Monday marked the opening of a two weeks' revival meeting at the South Side Baptist church under the leadership of Dr. L. C. Wolfe of Muskogee, Okla., general evangelist of the Southern Baptist church, according to Rev. T. J Furniss, pastor.

Dr. Wolfe is accompanied by K. L. Sutter, singer and choir director. A large chorus choir already has been organized by Mr. Sutter and is furnishing the musical service at evening meetings.

The evangelist's sermons were said by Rev. Furniss to be unusually direct treatment of gospel texts. His subject Sunday night was "The Love of God Which Passeth All Understanding." Monday morning he spoke on "Putting on the Whole Armour of God," and his sermon Tuesday night used for its text, "God's Weights and Measures."

Services are being held daily at 10 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Cottage prayer meetings have been organized among the members, and are being held in the afternoons. It was stated that the revival will be be continued for at least two weeks, and possibly longer.

Mrs. H. F. Haley is serving as pianist with Mr. Sutter.

ANTI-THIEF SOCIETY

First offenders will be confined in a separate prison in California now under construction.

"It Certainly Has Proven A Blessing"

Wichita Falls Farmer's Wife Gives Orgatone High Praise. "I'm Now in Perfect Health," She Says

Among the many Wichita Falls people who have recently expressed their hearty and sincere approval of Orgatone, after putting the medicine to a practical test, and deriving convincing results from it, none are more genuinely enthusiastic than Mrs. J. L. Johnson, residing on rural route 1, Wichita Falls, Texas, and the wife of a well known farmer.

"I certainly do give Orgatone credit for my great improvement," said Mrs. Johnson, "for it has helped me over a nervous, run-down condition that has honestly been with me for 15 years, and the last three or four years I had been going from bad to worse until I simply felt like I had no life left in me at all.

"My stomach just seemed to go back on me entirely, for almost everything I tried to eat would ferment and form gas, and give me such a puffed-up, miserable feeling that sometimes I felt like I couldn't get another breath to save my life. The pressure around my heart that came along with some of those attacks would frighten me and make me so weak and nervous I could hardly stand it.

"I couldn't sleep at all well at night and I became so badly run down I was simply not equal to anything, and for a long time it looked like it was almost impossible for me to try to do any of my housework. I had a sharp pain in the small of my back and my limbs would ache something awful and these pains left me in a worse fix than ever, and really if I hadn't heard about this Orgatone and given it a trial I don't know what would have become of me.

"I have taken two bottles of this splendid medicine and I can say positively and candidly that I have gained in strength and my stomach troubles have left me as completely as if I had never suffered with them a day in my life.

"My food agrees with me perfectly now and I am not bothered with gas or nervousness in the least. I sleep just fine and if there's any reason to believe I'm not in perfect health I don't know what it is. I want to recommend Orgatone to my friends for it sure has proven a blessing to me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store, who are direct laboratory agents. —Adv.

MAJESTIC: "The Cocoanuts," with the Marx brothers. We know several who are going back for second helpings. Talking comedy. Movietone news.

STRAND: William Boyd in "The Flying Fool." Lots of airplanes. Raymond Hatton and Sam Hardy comedy. Folk song feature. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: "Sunset Pass," Zane Grey story. Jack Holt in the saddle. Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: West Texas rodeo—cowboys and Indians. "Hell Center," with Irene Sedgwick.

So that's maybe why so many of the Broadway stars and Broadway plays are rushing into the outer provinces via the talking pictures. Morning talk anent the Marx brothers, and other show people both past and coming, brought from Howard C. Federer the remark that the talkies not only will take Broadway stars, but will make them. Nothing paradoxical about that either, viewed from the informed angle of the local Dent manager.

Just a case of picking up the sticks and balls and making the various courses around the country, good and bad, to see if the 72 on the old home course really was good golf, if he survives the deceptive hazards and changing terrain to come back home with a consistently good score, the band will be there to bally-hoo a nationally famous player.

The coming of Harpo Marx in "The Cocoanuts" may have rendered a distinct and conspicuous service to certain of those who saw the show here. The expression of distressing nausea with which he greeted announcements of after-dinner speakers may be precisely the gesture which many will utilize when informed that another back-stage-on-Broadway story is coming. Persons who have been rendered inarticulate by excessive remonstrance may borrow Harpo's unique method of uttering eloquent protest.

The performance of "The Dance of Life," however, which opens next Friday at the Majestic, may be so scintillating with the nimble Hal Skelly and large-eyed Nancy Carroll that we can forget how roughly we have been dragged back-stage in Broadway theaters again. Life probably plays the same waltz, two-step and changeful freak steps for the hoofer and star, take it all in all, that the most of us dance to. And we shouldn't refuse the Broadway boys and girls their hour of self-expression. But we yearn occasionally to see in the talkies how the life insurance agent earned the big trip to the home office. Or, perhaps, how the grocery clerk manages for annual and week-end vacations in a model X-80 h. p. Zippo.

"The Dance of Life" is an all-talking screen dramatization of the play, "Burlesque," which was a ranking favorite in New York two years ago. Although it is a story of back-stage life, the characters have been built to represent universal qualities. Dramatic characterization in "Burlesque" gained as much acclaim for Hal Skelly in his New York appearances as his ingenious dancing. If Nancy Carroll equals the performance she gave in "Abie's Irish Rose," the show ought to pass. Techni-color photography was used for a realistic reproduction of the Ziegfeld Follies' gorgeous settings.

Greta Garbo fans will be given a week's showing of their favorite beginning next Saturday at the Strand when she opens in "The Single Standard," with Nils Asther. From criticisms of the picture, and a perusal of the story on which it is based, it may be inferred that Miss St. Johns, the authoress, invited the great public to witness a demonstration of a new fire extinguisher, but only held them spellbound with the magnificent fire to which she led them.

The story deals with, but in no-wise solves, the much-discussed problem of woman's sex freedom. By a considerable stretch of imagination, it might be taken to imply that woman is not equipped with the smooth-functioning forgetfulness of old loves which is imputed to the male. Such intricacies could not, however, prevent the "felicitous note of domestic happiness" with which the screen story concludes.

Even though the story leaves our heroine hopelessly addled as to whether she should demand a single standard of morals in man, Greta Garbo and Nils Asther will inoculate the production with genuinely good acting. That much goes with their names. The South Seas are brought to Hollywood for the mid-section of the drama.

A half million persons have taken up their residence in Chicago suburbs in the last eight years.

LABOR DAY

Six Alarms Monday Keep City Fire Trucks On Run

Six fires of minor nature kept firemen busy from early Monday morning until late in the evening, according to reports at central station. The first blaze was at 305 Washington street, about 4:45 a. m., where flames which broke out in a garage caused about $40 damage. The origin of the fire was not determined.

A grass fire at Thirty-sixth and Holliday streets about 10 a. m., another on Beverly drive about 12:45 p. m., one at 3209 Milby street about 2:25 p. m., and another on Travis street at the Wichita river about 5:20 p. m., filled the day's quota of grass fires. A small stove which caught fire at 413 Wichita street called firemen out at 3:30 p. m., but the blaze was extinguished before they arrived.

Academy Students To Enroll Today

Registration of almost 300 pupils Tuesday for the 1929-30 school year at the Academy of Mary Immaculate is anticipated by those in charge, it was stated Monday.

Applications already received indicate that the full accommodations of the boarding school will be taxed with about 45 students registering from wide areas in Texas and Oklahoma. Reservations have been made for pupils living as far south as Houston, and from various West Texas cities.

Attendance of students living in Wichita Falls will probably total 250, it was said, about 100 of whom will be boys. The entire day Tuesday has been set aside for registration, and classes are to open at 8:30 Wednesday morning.

During the summer months extensive improvements have been made on classrooms and school equipment at the Academy, it was stated. Of the 12 teachers comprising the faculty, several have spent the summer in post graduate work in different parts of the country. The school is conducted under the supervision of the Sisters of St Mary.

CONFEDERATE GRAVES LISTED

Wichita Woman Completes Identification Work

For the first time in the history of Wichita Falls a complete record of the confederate veterans who are buried in the city has been compiled and made into a permanent record by placing copies of the list in the hands of the cemetery office, the park department and the city clerk.

Mrs. C. C. Hagmann, 1301 Polk street, former president of the local chapter of the daughters of the confederacy, has just completed the work of searching out the graves in the city's three cemeteries and compiling the names and identification markers. The work required more than a year and since there was no record of the graves of the confederate veterans, the only method for making such a record was to inspect the monuments and markers individually by going through the cemeteries. A total of 70 graves were found.

Permanent markers have been placed on the graves of the veterans, each marker bearing the initials C. S. A. Several years ago, the members of the local chapter of the daughters of the confederacy located a number of graves of veterans of the civil war and placed white marble markers on them bearing the initials U. C. V. (United Confederate Veterans). These graves have been included in the complete record made by Mrs. Hagmann.

One grave, that of Adolph Uhlrick, was found in the Sacred Heart cemetery. Five graves, belonging to B. T. Lane, G. E. Holder, S. H. Lewis, W. A. Holt and W. K. Shaver, all veterans, were located in Rosemont Burial park.

The remainder of the confederate veterans buried in Wichita Falls were interred in Riverside cemetery, totaling 64. They were recorded by Mrs. Hagmann as follows: (M indicates white marble marker; Mt. indicates monument; C indicates iron cross): M. Johnson, M; G. D. Allen, Mt; W. G. Carroll, Mt; W. Hall, C; J. W. Richardson, C; J. N. Bryant, Mt; Tom Arther, C; J. T. A. Fleming, C; V. S. Kay, Mt; J. H. Funston, C; Mr. Butcher, C; J. S. Moody, M; W. H. Burgess, M; Elisha Meredith, C; John McCauley, M; Andrew J. # Rider Explains School Registration; New Students Called to Conference

Prospective high school students who have moved into Wichita Falls since the closing of school this year are expected to confer with high school authorities at the Junior college on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, according to an announcement made Monday afternoon by Stephen H. Rider, dean of the Junior college. H explained that the school advisers would see the incoming high school students later in the week but that they are trying to clear up the new registrations as early as possible and are urging the new students to make their plans on Tuesday or Wednesday. The dean explained that students promoted from the junior high schools here last year are not considered "new" students and are not expected at the college until the formal opening of the term on Monday of next week.

All students in the Junior college proper are to register on Saturday, Sept. 7, the dean announced.

Boys and girls ready to enter junior high school, who have come into Wichita Falls during the summer, are asked to discuss their school plans with the junior college principals on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, Mr. Rider added. W. A. Franklin, at Reagan Junior High school, or H. A. Glass, at the Zundelowitz school, will confer with the students. For the benefits of newcomers who may not be familiar with the Junior High school system, Mr. Rider explained that the work in those schools corresponds to the seventh and eighth grades or to the last year in grade school and the freshman high school year. Only students who have entered the school system here since the closing of the last term are expected to hold preliminary conferences with the school principals, it was explained.

225 Bales Ginned On New Cotton Crop

With cotton picking almost one month ahead of last year's season and the crop coming in more rapidly, total ginnings in Wichita Falls have amounted to about 225 bales in two weeks, according to information given Monday.

Picking is just now beginning in the irrigated district, it was said, and by next week the harvesting of cotton will be general throughout this section of the state. Because of the more adequate supply of moisture during the recent weeks, cotton from the irrigated lands is showing a considerably longer staple, ginners said.

Cotton seed is bringing the farmer $30 per ton in this area.

KRUGER TELLS OF 'Y' CAMP

Wichita Boy Back From Trip to Europe

Aaron Kruger, one of the Texas boys representing the Hi-Y in the first International secondary school boy's camp, has returned from a tour of European countries and camp in Holland with an experience not granted many 16-year-old boys.

Counting the leaders there were 23 members in the party in which he sailed in July. They visited Ireland, Scotland and England, Germany, France, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland, and though the countries were extremely interesting and the scenery not to be forgotten, young Mr. Kruger said that the eight days in camp were the invaluable part of the trip to him.

Contacts made with boys from other countries, learning how and under what difficulties they did their work, making friends—these were the things that counted. He spoke particularly of the Russian boys living in France, barred from their own land because they cannot have religion there. Interpreters made contact more interesting.

He spoke also of the advantage the foreigners, who were linguists because it was compulsory in school, had over the Americans.

There were 80 boys in camp and except the one building used for dining room and assembly, they camped in tents. The camp was at Amersfort, about 30 miles from Amsterdam. There was routine rule in the camp. Certain hours for Bible; certain hours for meals, for group discussion, for exercise.
