Spanish Troops Said Wiped Out By Rebel Force

ENTIRE BATTALION ANNIHILATED WITH SEVEN TOWNS SEIZED; COLUMNS OF INVADERS ARE ADVANCING RELENTLESSLY UPON CAPITAL

(By The Associated Press)

SORIA, Spain, March 11.—Three columns of insurgent troops reported today they had wiped out an entire battalion of "red lion" government defenders, seized control of more than 100 square miles of government territory and marched to within sight of Guadalajara, provincial capital 32 miles northeast of Madrid.

Insurgent aviators reconnoitering ahead of the advancing columns wirelessed that government militiamen were fleeing in disorderly retreat toward Guadalajara and Madrid.

Seven villages were reported to have fallen in four days of intensive fighting.

One column was reported officially to have battered its way into Brihuega, an important highway junction about six miles south of the main highroad.

An unconfirmed report placed another column at Torija, only 10 miles above Guadalajara.

Still another column continued to advance along a railroad line to the west.

Twelve government tanks were reported captured.

Besides Brihuega, the towns reported captured are Castilblanco, Bujalara, Jadraque, Villaneuva De Argecilla, Miralrio, Valfermoso De Las Monjas.

Under virtual slaughter, the government resistance appeared to collapse.

Heavy government losses in another segment of Madrid's front were reported simultaneously from the insurgent side of the Jarama river sector, southeast of the capital. Fighting there was preventing Madrid from sending reinforcements to Guadalajara province.

Gains on this, the fourth day of battle, brought the insurgents within sight of Guadalajara. Insurgent commanders claimed their men had carved a sector of more than 100 square miles from the government's central Spanish front.

An official report of the day's action said 400 of Madrid's defenders were killed.

German Attacks Bring Protests

ARTICLES APPEARING IN GERMAN PRESS AND IN WHICH U. S. IS FLAYED CAUSE ACTION

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary Hull today instructed Ambassador William E. Dodd at Berlin to make vigorous representations to the German foreign office concerning recent articles appearing in the German press about the United States.

The secretary of state recently apologized formally to the German embassy here for remarks made by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York in which LaGuardia referred to Chancellor Hitler as a "brown-shirted fanatic."

LaGuardia's statements, made before the women's section of the American Jewish congress, evoked a deluge of criticism from the German press in which LaGuardia not only was attacked but American institutions and Jewish women also were flayed.

This press campaign was called to Secretary Hull's attention by Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, wife of the noted Jewish rabbi and chairman of the women's section of the American Jewish congress.

A formal letter prompted Secretary Hull to dispatch immediate orders to Ambassador Dodd to express "emphatic comment" to the German foreign office and to say the United States government was amazed at the fierceness of the German press attack.

Particularly Offensive

It was understood recent articles published by Der Angriff, a leading Berlin journal, were particularly offensive to American officials.

In responsible quarters, it was explained that the secretary's instructions to Dodd did not constitute a protest but comment which would be calculated to have much the same effect.

Hull tendered to the German embassy this government's apologies for LaGuardia's remarks after Dr. Hans Thomsen, counselor of the embassy, had protested to the state department that LaGuardia insulted Chancellor Hitler.

PRESENT FARM PLAN TOLD

DRASTIC CHANGES IN AGRICULTURE HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Farming has changed both in scope and in methods since congress first appropriated $1,000 for agriculture in 1839. Now the government hires 250,000 agricultural workers and has paid out since 1933 more than a billion dollars a year to the man with the hoe. The following article, first of a series of three, outlines the administration's current farm proposals.)

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—A house committee, wrestling with proposals to convert thousands of the nation's nearly 3,000,000 farm tenants into owner-operators, tentatively has approved a measure to provide $50,000,000 yearly to assist them in purchasing land.

An additional $75,000,000 would be authorized to keep small owners from slipping into tenancy.

Suggestion Rejected

A confidential draft of the bill showed, however, the committee has rejected Secretary Wallace's suggestion for a government land-control policy.

Wallace, who says the land is invested with public interest, urged that the government keep title and control for at least 20 years of farms it might sell to tenants on easy terms.

The committee's proposal would give the tenant-buyer title to his land as soon after a five-year trial period as he could make final payment.

Pay Soon As Possible

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the agriculture committee argued the ambitious tenant farmer would want to pay for his farm as soon as possible and operate it without government supervision.

Fifty years ago, only one farmer in four did not own the land he worked. Today, two out of five are tenants.

The bill provides that part of the money should be used to help the masses of tenants, share-croppers

Hunger Strike By Unemployed Opens

SPOKANE, Wash., March 11 (AP)—Unable to sit their way to victory over the federal government, 88 unemployed pledged themselves to go on a hunger strike today for WPA jobs, after breakfast.

For 15 days they sat and ate in Spokane WPA headquarters in a futile effort to force extension of WPA employment rolls and recognition of the Workers Alliance as sole collective bargaining agency. Now they will just sit, without eating.

Munitions Ship Is Claimed Destroyed

SALAMANCA, Spain, March 11 (AP)—The insurgent Spanish regime officially announced today that the government munitions freighter Mar Cantabrico had been sunk, contrary to previous assertions it had fallen a prize of war to insurgent warships.

No details were given. The vessel carried more than $2,700,000 worth of munitions from New York and Vera Cruz, Mexico, to the aid of the Valencia government.

HOSTILITY TO FDR PROGRAM IS CHARGED

SERIOUS SPLIT NOTED AND LONG DELAYS ARE OCCASIONED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11—Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson asserted today a majority of the supreme court had demonstrated the "great objectives" of the Roosevelt administration "offend their deep convictions."

Appearing before the senate judiciary committee in behalf of the president's court reorganization program, Jackson added:

Frank Hostility

"This frank hostility of these justices has been openly counted on by interested groups to defeat much important legislation."

Jackson—reading from a long prepared statement—said a serious split within the high court leaves the nation governed by "blind fate instead of by human reason."

Calling attention to current delays in handing down decisions, the assistant attorney general said the Washington minimum wage act was argued some three months ago.

Court Badly Divided

"While I can only guess at the cause of the delay," he added, "the difficulties apparent in this case lead to the suspicion the court is badly divided."

Expanding his contention a majority of the supreme court was opposed to Roosevelt objectives, Jackson said:

"The whole program overwhelmingly approved by the people in 1932, 1934 and 1936 is in danger of being lost in a maze of constitutional metaphors."

"Nearly every newly organized institution of the government rests under a legal cloud. This is true

CROWS MAKING LIFE MISERABLE IN OKLAHOMA

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 11.—Vast armies of hungry crows—described as the largest in the nation—raided Oklahoma's freshly planted fields today as embattled farmers pleaded for dynamite bombs to repel the attack.

Game wardens, who had blasted as many as 50,000 crows from their roosts at a single crack, admitted their supply of bombs was "nearly exhausted."

"I believe," said Game Warden L. D. Rickey, "Oklahoma has more crows than any other state in the union."

"Farmers are calling in from all sections of the state asking for help. They say they have never seen crows as bad as right now. The crows are following farmers up and down their fields, digging up oats and corn as fast as they are planted."

He estimated the state had killed 200,000 during the winter.

Rickey appealed to the Oklahoma legislature for help.

(By The Associated Press)

Golden Harvest Of Dollars Envisioned

LEAN YEARS FADING IN MEMORY; PRICES STAGE COMEBACK

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 11.—American farmers and other producers of basic staples envisioned a golden harvest of billions of dollars as predepression prices staged a comeback, under the impetus of a world wide upswing.

The lean years from 1929 to the spring of 1933 when prices skidded to new historical lows fade in memory as the almost uninterrupted rise since last June restores to the boards of commodity markets quotations unseen in eight years.

Losses Are Recouped

Metals, rubber, wheat and other big items of trade between town and country, measured in the American dollar, have recouped, in a four year period, the disastrous losses of the depression.

The story is sharply delineated in these prices—$1.40 a bushel for wheat—14 cent cotton, 16 cent copper—to mention a few.

By one yardstick—the Associated Press index of prices for 35 leading commodities—prices have risen 32 per cent since last May, to a point a little above 94 per cent of the average price in 1926.

Effects Being Studied

The effect of this rise on the cost of living is being studied closely. Many manufactured goods have been marked up but so far, as some statisticians figure it, mounting payrolls and improvement in the buying power of commodity producers have kept a lap or two in

Woman In Red Now Is Asking Return

The 45-year old woman wrote she did not believe the U. S. government, which banished her 10 months ago, would oppose her petition for re-entry.

MAN SEEKS TO KILL LOVE

WOULD GO TO JAIL SO HIS SPOUSE WOULD STOP LOVING HIM

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, March 11—A 30-year-old Fort Sam Houston soldier was in the city jail today, voluntarily, because he wanted to kill his wife's love for him.

The man approached Detective Lee Jones and Policeman W. G. Wissman in a cafe near police headquarters and told them he was a parole violator from the Gatesville, Texas, school for delinquent boys.

He's Grown Up Now

"Why man, you're not a juvenile, you've grown up," Detective Jones said.

"Yes, but I want to go to jail anyway," replied the soldier.

"I was supposed to have reported every month to juvenile officers after I was released from the school in 1923 and I haven't done it."

Detective Sergeant D. E. Kelly sensed domestic trouble right away.

"Come on, tell me all about this woman you're muffy about," commanded Kelly.

No Other Woman

"Well, sergeant, it's like this," the soldier started out. "I am married and have two children. . . ."

"Oh, oh, I knew this was coming," said Kelly. "Who is the other woman?"

"There is no other woman," said the man. ". . . . I decided two years ago that I didn't love my wife any more and I just haven't got the heart to tell her. I hate to keep on lying to her and I thought maybe if I got in jail and it came out that I was a parole violator that it would kill her love for me."

MANY INJURED WHEN FIGHTS BREAK OUT

FEAR OF RIOTING IN DETROIT IS HELD AS COURT ACTS

(By The Associated Press)

The outbreaks of violence heightened tension in the fast moving drama of industrial conflict today.

Nearly a score of persons were injured in a clash between police and pickets at the California Packing corp. plant at Alameda, Calif.

In Chicago more taxicabs were stoned and non-striking drivers pursued and beaten in a dispute that has crippled cab transportation.

Eggs Are Thrown

At the Lancaster (Pa) iron works, scene of a strike, a crowd pelted workers with eggs.

Injunctive proceedings against Chrysler Motor Corp. strikers gave rise to fear of possible violence at Detroit.

The riot at Alameda started when non-union workers tried to pass a line of 200 union warehouseman pickets.

Police released tear gas bombs and firemen shot streams of water at the pickets. Clubs, fists and rocks were brought into play.

Court Order Issued

Circuit Judge Allan Campbell ordered Chrysler motor strikers and union officials to show cause Saturday why an injunction should not be issued. The latter retaliated by announcing sit-down strikers would not permit corporation executives to enter Chrysler plants.

Approximately 55,000 employes were made idle by the Chrysler strike, which started after the corporation rejected the United Automobile Workers Union demand to be sole bargaining agent for the company's 75,000 workers. A dispute at the Hudson Motor Car company kept 10,000 idle at Detroit.

The U. A. W. A. called a strike that threw 2,200 workers out of their jobs at the Reo Motor Car company factory at Lansing, Mich.

Conferees representing the General Motors Corp., and the U. A. W. A. were near a final agreement on Homer E. Thompson, assistant Lubbock county agent, was temporary chairman, succeeded by Ecklund who was elected permanent chairman.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Eve Mannersfield leaned back from her desk alongside the great plate-glass windows. She thrust her brown-gold curls behind her ears, and rapturously contemplated the gorgeous bonfire of all her bridges.

She tried to fix her mind on an uncompleted sheet of neat honeymoon arithmetic, but she was too excited. Next week Herndon and Co. would be short one of their most promising young publicity assistants. It was also her next-to-last week in the tiny apartment where she had spent three hard-working, hard-playing New York years. There had been two years before that in a hall bedroom.

In exactly 14 days she and Denny Carter would be unbelievably, magnificently honeymooning their way round the world. Denny had landed his new job as publicity man for the Southern Star Line. From April first he would be the head of the house, and she would be one more of the pretty idle brides in rough seagoing coats or smart southern clothes, forgetting diligently all she had ever known about layouts. BEAUTY TREATMENTS GO LONG WAY IN AIDING WOMEN IN INSANE HOSPITALS

(By The Associated Press)

NORMAN, Okla., Mar. 11.—Marcels and makeup go a long way to aid women suffering from mental ailments, Dr. D. W. Griffin, superintendent of the Central Oklahoma hospital for insane, said today.

"We teach them how to keep beautiful," said Dr. Griffin, referring to his 1,200 women patients in the hospital which also houses 1,600 men inmates.

"We wouldn't do without beauty treatments for anything in the world.

"When the women get their hair done and their fingernails fixed, you should see the change in them."

Dr. Griffin said most of the women patients were maniac-depressives, suffering mental depression and an apparent loss of hope and interest in their daily lives.

"Of course," Dr. Griffin said, "the beauty treatments are just a part of the general treatment."

Dr. Griffin said one result of the treatments was amusing.

"Some of the farmers in their blue overalls come down to see their wives for the first time, take one look at her and try to take her out of here before she is completely cured," he said.

Singing Mouse Craze Has Hit North Texas

McKINNEY, March 11 (AP)—Chicago's singing mouse? Phooey! Princeton, little North Texas town near here, has one that not only sings but eats bird seed!

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Gantt, Princeton couple, brought the mouse here to exhibit before an audience. In fun, someone suggested placing some bird seed in the tiny mouse's cage.

She stopped warbling, ate the entire lot of feed usually consumed by canaries and picked up the song again.

Mr. and Mrs. Gantt had heard faint sounds which appeared to be musical notes in their home. They were baffled until they discovered the mouse singing in the bathroom.

"Kate Smith"—that's the name it bears now—was trapped but stood the imprisonment in good stead.

A morsel of cheese and Kate is away in a swingy, throaty melody. She is not temperamental and performs readily before audiences.

RAINS BUILD UP BEACHES

SAFETY DRIVE IS PLANNED

CAMPAIGN LIKELY TO BE OPENED IN THIS CITY MARCH 24

Allen Bros. post of the American Legion is starting plans this week for the national highway safety drive, and the campaign will be opened officially about March 24, according to O. B. Conley, chairman of the safety committee.

The campaign will include two motion pictures to be shown at all schools and civic organizations throughout Lubbock county. These films, which will be followed by safety lectures, are being furnished by the state department on safety, and will arrive around April 1, Conley stated.

To Consolidate Patrols

Automobile stickers, window posters, and special advertising will constitute other forms of stressing the drive. School patrols, at one time sponsored by the Legion, will be consolidated and renewed, with special attention given to instructions and enforcement of the groups.

W. T. McKinley of the Lubbock Poster company has donated eight 12x25 feet poster boards around Lubbock for the purpose of impressing motorists with safety slogans and illustrations. These posters will be up for a 30-day period, and possibly longer, the committee chairman said.

"We are asking the cooperation of all citizens of Lubbock for this drive. Their help and assistance will be necessary before the Legion can accomplish its purpose," Conley said yesterday. "This is not a temporary campaign for only 30 days; it is to be continued indefinitely by the post."

Other members of the "safety consciousness" committee include George S. Berry, C. E. Luce, Lester Parks, and William B. Richards.

"Our drive will reach throughout Lubbock county," the group reported, "including Texas Technological college and all public schools. The people must realize the necessity of knowing and enforcing our traffic laws. If we can avoid even one death, our goal will be realized."

Argentina and Brazil are each other's principal fruit customers because crop seasons in the two countries are supplementary. Argentina bought last year nearly 142,526 metric tons of Brazilian fruits and Brazil bought 5,464 tons from Argentina.

Sealing Vow

Wanting to do "something different," Melba Robinson, 18, and Thomas S. Durgan, jr., 21, used a tombstone for an altar at their marriage in a cemetery at Oakland, Calif. Seventy-five guests witnessed the ceremony, which was carried out in full, even to the couple's bridal kiss, above.

Queen Of Juniors Will Be Selected

Junior class members of Texas Technological college are electing the queen of the Junior Prom in balloting today.

Candidates are: Hermoine Holcomb, Quanah; Marian Hurmence, Lubbock; Maxine Fry, Floydada; and Lillian Heard, San Angelo.

The Prom, given by juniors for graduating students, will be held April 10 in the gymnasium. Defeated candidates will serve as members of the queen's court.

A ballot box is located in the east side of the administration building today, George Carrithers is class president.

When a Chicago judge awarded Mrs. Louise Peterson a divorce from Henry Peterson she said it was her fourth and that she had never yet collected a cent of alimony or support—and didn't intend to.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the inflected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Medical authorities have for many years recognized the wonderful effects of Beechwood Creosote for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children. Thousands of doctors now use Creomulsion in their own families and practice, and druggists rank Creomulsion top because in this genuine, original product you can get a real dose of Creosote so emulsified that it goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles, especially those that start with a common cold and hang on and on. Get a bottle of Creomulsion right now from your druggist, use as directed and if you fail to get satisfactory relief, he is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Get Creomulsion right now. Yet—when I am back in my dressing room after I have finished singing, there is nothing I enjoy more than lighting up a Lucky. It is a light smoke—so gentle—so smooth—that it does not irritate my throat in the least. I agree with the others at the Metropolitan that a light smoke is a wise choice."

America Plans the Roads of Tomorrow

Traffic moves smoothly and unhampered by tie-ups on the modern two-way highway, such as the Southboro - Worcester turnpike in Massachusetts, shown here.

The old hit-or-miss days of highway building are gone. Now 40 states are seeking to find out just where their roads go, how much they are costing and what needs to be done to them

By Robert D. Potter

WHEN we consider that 40 years ago our highways were branded as a disgrace to civilization, it is not difficult to understand why we have had to build up our tremendous transportation network without taking the time to record what we have done or to plan the things we have undertaken. The development of the automobile has been so amazingly rapid that we have had almost no time to think about the future.

And so today we do not know definitely how many miles of roads there are, what types of surfaces and structures they comprise, how much they cost, who pays for them, how long they may be expected to last, or how they should be extended and improved to provide a transportation service which will be at once the cheapest and the most adequate for our present and future traffic requirements.

Today, however, the necessity for taking account of our highway investment and for planning our course for the future has led to the undertaking of planning surveys in 40 states to develop the information which will enable us to build roads wisely.

Highway planning surveys consist of a number of interrelated studies from which a fund of information will be obtained to make possible a road system based on necessity and economy.

The first thing to know is the amount of physical property that exists in the system. There are more than three million miles of rural roads in the United States, but no one can say how many more because, until the road inventory studies were started, there had never been an accurate measurement of total mileages.

Scale for measuring the horizontal curvature of a highway. . . . A pointer on the steering wheel is at zero while the car moves forward in a straight line. As the steering wheel is turned for a curve, the degree of curvature is indicated on the scale and recorded at maximum reading.

SOME states are discovering that they own considerably less than they thought, because many roads were built without regard to their need, and hence have been abandoned. In those early days of highway pioneering we were all too anxious to build roads for local pride instead of transportation. We belonged to "road booster" clubs, and were pleased to build roads that went nowhere.

A number of road abandonments have resulted from obsolescence caused by the new requirements of high-speed traffic, and others may be attributed to the shifting of industries and populations, or to the opening of alternative routes which have attracted the motorist away from the older roads. Whatever the reasons may be for road abandonments, it is safe to say that had our early highways been planned even with what limited indications there were of future traffic, we might have salvaged a great deal more of what we have lost.

The surveying parties in the road inventory study can measure distances accurately by the use of odometers, which record to the tenth of a mile. As the surveyors drive along, they make notes of the type of surface—whether it is dirt, gravel, asphalt, cement-concrete, and so on—and of the condition of the road: whether it is good, fair, or poor. Highway properties are inventoried: bridges, culverts, railroad grade crossings, drainage structures, underpasses, intersections, and road widths.

To this information there is added an inventory of all the structures served by or visible from the road: churches, meeting houses, schools, public parks, fair grounds, tourist camps, resorts, factories, mills, mines, stores and railroad stations. The result of this reconnaissance will be the production of the first complete transportation maps of the country ever made.

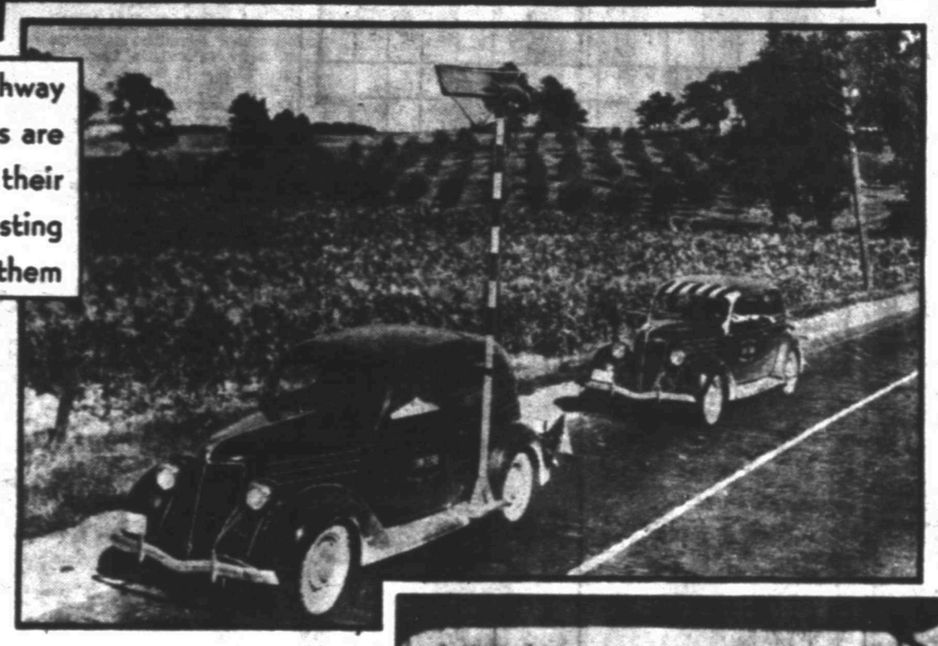

As every driver realizes, one of the foremost dangers on the highway is the lack of adequate sight distance at curves and grades, making an attempt to pass at those points decidedly hazardous, as well as creating traffic congestion.

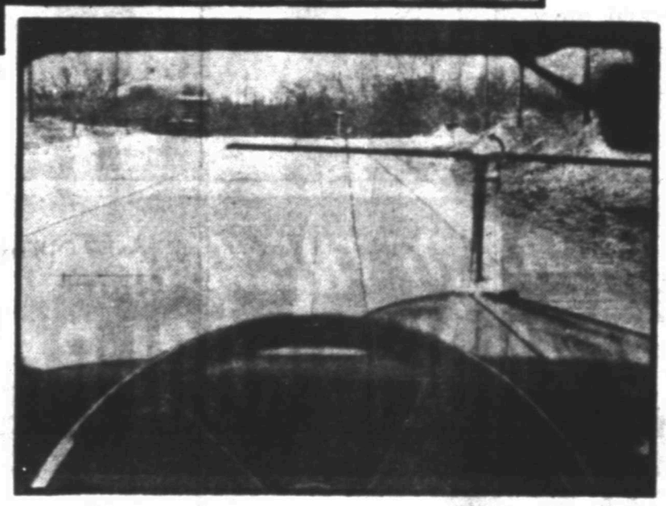

As a first step in the provision of safe sight distances on primary highways, special parties are noting and measuring these danger spots in order to plan a program of removing such obstacles to highway safety. Horizontal or vertical curvature is considered unsafe when sight distance is less than 1000 feet. This is the minimum distance in which a car traveling 60 miles an hour can normally pass another, moving at 40 miles an hour, and avoid colliding with a vehicle approaching at 60 miles an hour in the opposite direction.

TWO cars are used by the surveying party to measure and record sight distances up to 1000 feet. The two travel 1000 feet apart, and when some obstacle, such as the crown of a hill or the bend of a curve, interferes with this minimum sight distance, the driver of the first car proceeds until he reaches a point where he estimates he is as far beyond the obstacle as the second car will be before reaching it at the moment the two cars again are visible to each other.

Here the first car stops, and the second proceeds until its driver can see the top or rear of the first car. A horizontal bar attached to the radiator cap of the second car is placed at the level of the driver's eye, and he sights the painted top of the first car along this horizon.

At this point he records his odometer reading to the one-hundredth of a mile, and proceeds until he reaches the first car, again taking the reading on the odometer. The difference between the two readings is the minimum sight distance for the curve or hill in question.

How a sight-distance party operates. . . . Above, a forward car carries a marked vertical bar, while the rear of its top is striped. The rear car, the front of its top striped, carries a "horizon" bar on its radiator. . . . Below, when the forward car disappears beneath a hill-top, the driver of the second car moves up until he can spot the top of the first car along the horizon sight, and then measures the intervening distance.

ANOTHER hazard known to all drivers is the sharp curve where the centrifugal force of a vehicle is often the cause of running off the road or of skidding when pavements are wet and slippery. Such centrifugal force generated at highway curves may be overcome by proper banking. Thus, for a vehicle traveling at 60 miles an hour, tests show that a curve of approximately six degrees should have a superelevation of 1¼ inches per foot. Accordingly, the surveying party measures all curves on primary roads, and where curvature in non-mountainous areas is greater than two degrees, superelevation is measured to find out whether it is equal to the desirable minimum.

For measuring horizontal curvature, a scale is attached to the dashboard of the test car, under the steering wheel. On the wheel a pointer is marked so that as the vehicle proceeds in a straight line the pointer is located at zero on the scale. Then, as the steering wheel is turned to negotiate curves in the road, the degree of curvature is indicated on the scale and recorded at the maximum reading.

Determination of what our highway properties cost us annually in depreciation, maintenance, and interest, together with information concerning the relative use of the various road systems by rural and urban residents and the payments made by these users, is the task of the financial survey and the road use and road life studies.

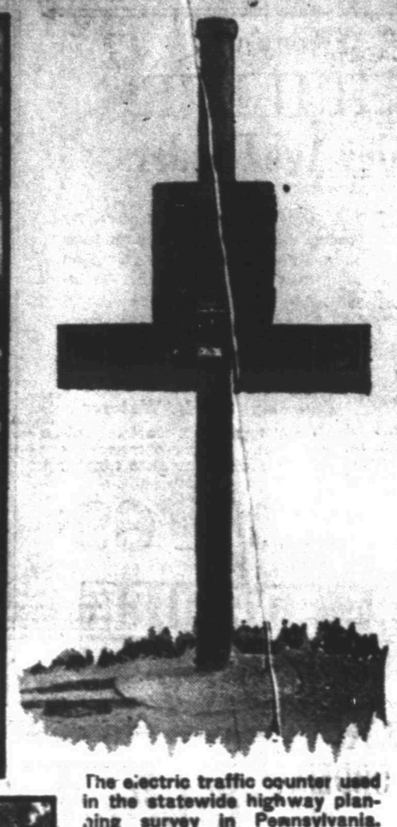

At present we do not know the total annual charge which should be collected, nor the relative amounts to be charged to the motorist,—truck, bus, or passenger car owner—to real estate, or to the general community for highway benefits. The fact is recognized, however, that "there are two classes of people who should pay for highways: first, those who own motor vehicles; second, those who do not." The planning surveys are leading the way to the adoption of an equitable scale of charges which will be based upon economic values rather than legislative whims.

WHILE these various physical inventories and financial studies are being made, the question of what volume and type of vehicles use the highways is being answered in the survey of traffic. Traffic surveys are like the sales records of a department store. They tell how much of our product—transportation miles—we are selling in each department of the highway system, that is, on our primary or state roads and on our local roads.

The purpose of such surveys, then, is to determine the earning capacity of the highways, and to indicate where we should enlarge and improve our roads, and the order of importance for such undertakings.

In these studies, there are two types of counting stations: the key station and the blanket count station.

Key stations are located at important intersections on primary roads, and are operated at each selected location for eight hours at a time 14 different times during the year—twice for each day of the week, and during different hours of the day.

The electric traffic counter used in the statewide highway planning survey in Pennsylvania. Every time an automobile cuts across two light beams, the electric eyes at the ends of the cross-bar record it.

IN addition to the counting of passing vehicles, each vehicle is classified according to type, whether it is a passenger car, truck or bus, and also whether it is of local origin or out-of-state. At the time the key stations are in operation, any peculiar conditions which might affect normal traffic volume are noted. Such might be fairs, ball games, holidays or weather conditions.

To serve as a check on sampling methods, an automatic traffic counter has recently been developed for 24-hour counts. The instrument counts passing vehicles by means of two parallel beams of light which are directed across the roadway onto a photo-electric cell. When a vehicle intercepts the light rays, it is recorded on a time chart. As many as 400 interceptions may be recorded per minute, and pedestrians are not counted by the instrument since both light beams must be interrupted simultaneously that is, the object must be long enough to cover both light sources, which are 31 inches apart.

Second to the key stations are the blanket count stations, most of which are operated on local roads and for only one eight-hour period. These stations, located at thousands of intersections, will be continually relocated in the effort to find positions in the road system where there are distinct changes in the traffic pattern.

THE weights and dimensions of trucks and buses, as well as information concerning the nature of their haul, are a further inquiry of the traffic surveys. Pit-scale stations are operated throughout the year, generally operating on one side of the road for 15 days, then for a similar period for traffic in the opposite direction. Loadometer stations are equipped with small portable scales which are shifted about and operated during 8-hour periods at a given location for 14 or 18 days during the year.

The importance of highway planning cannot be realized unless we are aware of one fundamental truth: that the cost of the highway system is not the amount of expenditures we make during any one year. It is the cost of owning an investment—of maintaining the roads we have built in order to preserve their value, of paying off the cost of those parts of the system we use up yearly, and of creating an earning power or interest, which will indicate that we are economically justified in the magnitude of our highway investment.

Planning, therefore, is the only way in which we can extend our system and improve it with regard for traffic and other requirements. If we shall build roads as we often did in the past, just for the sake of building, we shall soon find that we can no longer carry the terrific financial obligation, and we shall lose much of what we have invested. To construct a transportation system without adequate provision for its proper upkeep is no less an evil than to build a road that goes nowhere.

BROTHER HELD IN SHOOTING

TWO ARE DEAD WITH FATHER WOUNDED AFTER AFFRAY

BEAVERDALE, Pa., March 11 (AP)—A brother and sister died of gunshot wounds and their father was critically wounded Wednesday in their home in Beaverdale, coal mining town 12 miles east of Johnstown.

Constable Howard Plummer, of Beaverdale, arrested Paul Emerick, 22 year-old son of the wounded man.

The dead:

Joseph Emerick, 32, brother of Paul, and Ethel Emerick, 35, partially crippled and housekeeper for the family.

Father Badly Injured

Dr. H. G. Diffenderfer, of Beaverdale, said the father, John Emerick, 64, was in a critical condition in a Johnstown hospital.

Plummer said the sister was killed yesterday afternoon in her bedroom and that the brother and father were shot as they entered the house from their work in the Logan Coal company mines near Beaverdale.

Plummer said the prisoner was being held for questioning, adding no charge had been brought against him.

Dr. Diffenderfer said Paul had been melancholy since separation from his wife several months ago. The physician added he had been treating Paul and had advised institutional care.

ACTION REJECTED BY COURT ORDER

Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court Wednesday denied temporary relief for three Lubbock applicants from orders of Texas Liquor Control board cancelling their permits to dispense liquor for medical purposes.

Hearing of applications for temporary injunctions restraining the control board from interfering with exercises of provisions in the permits was set down for 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Applicants were Lawrence H. Redwine, Oran Wilson and P. E. Carter and Oran Wilson jointly, druggists.

Another Hearing Set

A similar application, filed last week by former Judge Clark M. Mullican for Pope Pool, another Lubbock druggist, was granted at Plainview Saturday by Judge C. D. Russell of 64th district court. Hearing was set for Friday, before Judge Blair.

All applications alleged the control board March 3 had cancelled permits after charging sale of liquor without prescriptions; asked that orders of the board be set aside and that an interlocutory order be granted suspending the board's order in cancelling permits, and that on final hearing the temporary injunction be made permanent.

Interpretation of the law is that district courts have jurisdiction of appeal brought from the board's orders; that there is no further appeal, and that suits be tried de novo.

Bert Ford, administrator of the board, said last week at Austin of 30 suits filed against the board, 28 had been adjudicated, 24 for the defendant and the others for plaintiffs "because of faulty complaints."

Twenty-nine holders of permits in Lubbock area have been cited by the board and eight permits cancelled, Ford said.

Crash "Burns Up The Road"

The accident was enough to 'burn up' the driver, for his car snapped off a gas main, then spun back over a railroad embankment near Great Neck, L. I. But he—and two companions—found themselves in a really dangerous predicament when gas from the broken pipe burst into flames. The three occupants managed to craw from the fiery trap with only minor injuries.

Ralph W. Moore Is Speaker At Meet

Ralph W. Moore, master of the Texas Grange, spoke on grange problems before local grange masters, secretaries, deputies and chairmen of program committees at Lubbock hotel Wednesday afternoon.

Five Granges in Lubbock and three in Crosby county were represented. H. W. Gaulrapp, Dallas, state organizer and Guy Travis, Lamesa, were with the state master.

Matters discussed were: responsibilities of adding new members; details of ritualism; legislative matters, state and national; instructions on familiarization with the Grange program; farm tenantry, farm credit, vocational agriculture soil conservation, both state and national, rural school aid.

Considerable time was given to a discussion of rural electrification.

AUTO CROWD HIGHWAYS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Asher Frank, state safety director, says that in February, peak month of winter travel, there were from 110 to 120 automobiles to the mile on Florida highways.

Hamburg, second only to Berlin as a German air traffic center, is connected by approximately 120 air routes with more than 70 German and foreign cities.

Gly-Cas Succeeds After Others Fail

Kidney Disorder And Rheumatic Pains Over Mrs. Delk's Body Made Her Life Miserable; Gly-Cas Amazes With Its Quick And Thorough Action

"For ten years before I learned of Gly-Cas I had been unable to eat anything without gas and bloating," said Mrs. Julia Delk, Smackover, Ark., (near El Dorado). "The foods I ate did not seem to do me any good, digestion was very poor and attacks of indigestion were entirely too frequent. My bowels were terribly irregular and try as I did I could find nothing to help me—my entire system was clogged with poisons. I lost my appetite entirely and finally my kidneys were affected. Rheumatic pains settled over my body and my hips and limbs were in an awful shape. I could hardly get a good night's sleep and it was almost impossible to walk without help at times. I did not know where to turn next when I was persuaded to give Gly-Cas an opportunity—and found it wonderful."

"This new remedy regulated my bowels almost immediately," she continued. "My stomach is now in good condition, my kidneys no longer bother me and all those aches and pains have left my body. I can eat the foods I wish without any ill effects afterwards, sleep fine and get around with ease. I have taken many medicines in the past few years but never one that can compare with Gly-Cas — it gives REAL results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

ROBBERY SUSPECT TO FACE CHARGES

EMPORIA, Kas., March 11 (AP)—James A. Camp, one of two men captured Sunday in a Lyon county ranch house raid by Kansas, Texas and federal officers, was taken to Chandler, Okla., today to face a bank robbery charge.

Camp waived extradition when officers agreed to release his wife, who with George Dewey Shipley, also was taken in the raid.

Camp is wanted in connection with robbery of the Tyron, Okla., bank in October, 1933.

Shipley has been returned to Texas to face charges of robbing the First Coleman National bank of Coleman, Texas, from which $24,215 was taken February 2, 1936.

The Fidelity and Deposit company of Baltimore, Md., filed suit in Lyon county district court yesterday against Camp and Shipley to recover $15,969 insurance paid the Coleman bank after the robbery.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Sleeping Beauty

McKEESPORT, Pa. — Joseph T. Sullivan fell asleep on a street car, rode past his stop, protested the three additional car tokens assessed.

Magistrate Walter Morgan upheld the extra charge. Said he:

"A car operator's job is to run his car, not keep his passengers awake."

No Bluffing

IRONTON, O. — A woman jailed overnight for intoxication told Judge O. H. Henninger she would rather be spanked than return to a cell.

"It's your choice—spanking or jail," said the magistrate.

She chose the spanking. Police Clerk Charles Cooper obtained a board and the prisoner bent over to receive the sentence. Cooper lifted the board, hesitated.

"You're free to go," said the judge to the prisoner, "why don't you take up poker?"

Simplicity Needed

WASHINGTON — Representative Rich (R-Pa) told the house that income tax blanks ought to be more simple.

"I doubt," he said, "whether even members of congress understand the returns and can make them out themselves."

Barrels Of Fun

TOPEKA, Kas.—The Garden of Eden would have been no place for the Kansas legislature—its members eat apples by the barrel.

Every time a married legislator wears a red tie he is fined a barrel of apples. If the supply is low and no red ties are visible, some bachelor member is fined for not wearing a red tie—the solons must have their apples. So far, the lawmakers have munched 35 bushels of apples, 700 oranges and 350 bananas this session.

A Little Ruffled

OMAHA, Neb. — George Abdouch's auto collided with another machine, rolled over four times and lit upright. Unscathed, Abdouch, 23, opened the door, stepped out and brushed himself off.

Clocked Scythe

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—John Conlon, 77, and John Conlin, 77, friends, served for years in St. Mary's church as collectors of contributions at mass.

Their funeral services will be held from St. Mary's on the same day. They died a few hours apart.

Warm Storage

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — N. P. Stoddard found a hen's nest containing six eggs when he repaired the roof of his home. He did not eat them.

He surmised they probably were laid there when his grandfather re-roofed the building in 1853.

Time Flies

ST. LOUIS — Police Sergeant Reynolds Ferguson answered a disturbance call.

As he reached the scene, an irate wife threw an alarm clock at her husband. The husband ducked. Ferguson took it on the chin.

The couple went to jail and the sergeant to the hospital.

Ten husky bearers were required to handle the coffin of Clark Jette, 700-pound negress, who died at Galveston, Tex.

"—how well I recall the days and long evenings when I felt tired-out and looked it."

SLATON OILERS CLASH WITH LUMBERJACKS IN CITY

FAST TILT IS PROMISED TO LOCAL FANS

TWO CHAMP OUTFITS WILL OPEN UP AT TECH GYMNASIUM

Post-season basketball of popular appeal and statewide significance is scheduled for the Texas Tech gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Playing under the colors of the West Texas Cotton Oil Mill at Slaton, also bearing the banners of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, several former Texas Tech stars and their mates tonight clash with what is perhaps the outstanding college team of the state—the Stephen F. Austin college Lumberjacks of Nacogdoches.

The Oilers from Slaton are champions of independent basketball in Texas. The Lumberjacks are champions of the Lone Star conference. Both have qualified for and entered the national A. A. U. tournament starting Sunday at Denver, in which forty or fifty other outstanding clubs of the country will compete for amateur basketball's richest prize.

Both teams will be on their way tomorrow for Denver. To be admitted to the national tournament, a team must have registered an impressive record for the season, and there is no doubt as to the records made by the Oilers and the Lumberjacks. The Jacks are undefeated in college competition this year. The Oilers have not lost a game in any kind of competition. They won all their scheduled games during the season, captured every tournament they entered, climaxed their Texas tournament campaign last week by copping the Southwestern A. A. U. championship in a field studded with standout teams.

Familiar Faces

Four former Texas Tech captains are regular members of the Oiler club, and all of them are well remembered here. Wilson Gilmore and Alvin Crews, who have graduated to coaching ranks, were outstanding performers on Tech's Border conference championship teams of two and three years ago. Both served as team captains. Leroy Crews, younger brother of Alvin, was captain elect of the 1935 team, after making good on Tech's last championship five. He was a regular on this year's Matador club, along with Hugh Snodgrass, who captained the 1936 outfit. All are with the Oilers, who defeated the hitherto undefeated Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys and then whipped a team largely composed of Southern Methodist university stars, Southwest conference champions, to win the Southwest A. A. U. at Dallas.

Joe Bob Stephens, manager of the Slaton crew, has announced the team will leave early Friday for Denver, where the most brilliant cage aggregations of the country, collegiate and independent, will compete for eight days. Two other Texas Tech stars, Curly Wilkinson, center, and Judge Garrett, high scoring forward, are listed as members of the Oiler club, and may play tonight against the rampant East Texas club.

College Champions

The Stephen F. Austin club, after winning its conference championship and beating the Southwest conference representative, advanced far in the Olympic games tryouts last year. Since the team first started campaigning for conference championships, back in the days of the old T. I. A. A. and up through the recent Texas Conference race, the Lumberjacks have either won, tied for or claimed second place in championship races.

The Oiler lineup tonight probably will consist of Alvin Crews and Pete Burke or Jack Miller at forwards, unless Garrett elects to play; Jim Neely, former Hardin-Simmons star, at center; Leroy Crews or Snodgrass and Wilson Gilmore at guards. Burke is another Texas Tech ex, a transfer from Oklahoma who was bothered with eligibility problems while trying out for the Red Raiders club. Miller, former North Texas Teachers star, has been a valuable asset to the club this season. Neely, well known hereabouts as the Slaton High school coach and as official of most of Tech's home games, is the leading scorer of the club. Gilmore, who joined the club for the A. A. U. tournament, took scoring honors in the final game of the Dallas joust, however. He was leading scorer at Tech while a regular member of the Raider club.

Tonight's game starts at 8 o'clock. Admission is 50 cents "straight." Part of the proceeds go toward defraying expenses of the club to the national tournament at Denver.

REDS WORK IN PIT

TAMPA, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Manager Charles Dressen showed today he was serious in his pre-training camp assertion the 1937 Cincinnati Reds would get long hours of practice in the fundamentals of base running. A sliding pit was opened and the players took turns practicing the fadeaway and the hook. Dressen himself took a couple of dives to show the boys how he did it when he played third base.

Garden Loses Exclusive Hold On Fight Game

Copyright, 1937

THIS BUSINESS COMING up tonight at the Texas Tech gymnasium whips to a frazzle all previous suggestions for a post-season basketball classic.

If there is a college team in Texas that we would even consider taking against the New Mexico Aggies, Border conference champions, it is the Lumberjack outfit from faraway Nacogdoches. Had no idea they would get this far west, and they probably wouldn't were it not for the fact they are en route to Denver and the National A. A. U. tournament.

Our own set of Texas Tech cagers showed up the Southwest conference and broke the Hardin-Simmons bubble. The Southern Methodist team might have been stronger than the Dallas independent club to which three of the Mustangs graduated after the college season. But it is doubtful. Texas Tech's team, of course, was not as powerful as the Slaton Oilers of current lineup, although two of the 1936 hotshots, and maybe more, may be seen with the Slaton team tonight. Addition of Wilson Gilmore, Tech hotshot of a few seasons back, together with the retaining of Alvin Crews, who played with Gilmore, plus Jim Neely, the Slaton coach and former Simmons star, give the Oilers a lineup that isn't to be sneezed at in any company.

The Stephen F. Austin club undoubtedly is one of the better college aggregations of the country, and has been for years. It went almost as high as any other college team in the Olympic preliminaries last year, and its coach, Bob Shelton, says it's a better team now than it was last season.

It's a privilege and an honor to have these clubs playing here tonight. They'll be seen by a lot of citizens at Denver next week in the National tournament. We're lucky to have them with us tonight. It'll be lots of fun to see old Will Gilmore and Alvin Crews back out there, talking a great game as they play. They had a lot of fun playing basketball, which is why they're still playing it.

It's a break for the players, too, all the way around. They'll make new friends and renew familiarity with old ones here. The biggest break, of course, is the trip to Denver and the big tournament. For Gilmore, Neely and Crews, who now are respected and respectable basketball coaches, the visit to the national tournament will be of benefit in their work. Gilmore coaches at Vernon, Neely at Slaton, Crews at New Deal. What they learn by observation at Denver will help them in future coaching efforts.

Berl Huffman, who coached all the Tech boys, is hoping he'll be able to get away for a few days at Denver. Such an experience embodies many of the good points of a coaching school. They'll see the very best in college and amateur basketball at the national tournament.

OUR FRIEND BILL PARKER, of the Abilene paper selling Parkers, dropped in for a how're ya and how's golf. Bill makes most of the West Texas tournaments, has a lot of pals everywhere he goes. Does a lot of missionary work for them all. Handed us a card announcing Sweetwater's first annual invitation tournament, dates of which are April 15, 16, 17 and 18. To be staged at the nine-hole, grass greens Lake Sweetwater Municipal course. A calcutta pool, barbecue, dancing, etc., are advertised on the card. Entries are to be mailed to Luther M. Watson, secretary of the Sweetwater Golf association.

Several local players, no doubt, will attend the Sweetwater tourney.

Announcement of the Sweetwater joust should encourage Lubbock Country club officials to hurry up and set the date for their own invitation tourney, which annually is one of the best in West Texas, if not the entire state.

The Lubbock tournament was held late last year on account of the new greens, which were unplayable before August. They'll be ready with the first signs of real spring this year, and it is suggested the tournament be set for an earlier date.

Charles Akey, the new pro and general manager at the Country club, is in favor of holding the tournament early, before golfers of the section are tournament weary. It's a good suggestion, and this department would include in the motion that various schedules be checked so that no conflict will arise. The West Texas Golf association, if it served its full purpose, would take a hand in the scheduling of various invitation tournaments, see that no conflicts arise, assist each member club in arranging dates, encourage others to attend. There's nothing like golf to cement better feeling between towns, and in this connection the second, third and fourth flighters play more important parts than the championship golfers.

TRACK SEASON WILL OPEN

LUBBOCK HIGH IS TO ACT AS HOST FOR MEET FRIDAY

The Lubbock Westerners officially open the track and field season here Friday afternoon when they act as hosts in a five-cornered meet at the Texas Tech oval.

Teams of Lamesa, Abernathy, Amherst and Anton have been invited to compete with the Westerners here Friday afternoon in a meet starting at 3:30 o'clock. Each school has indicated it will have representatives present for the first public meet of the season here.

Team Shows Promise

Under Coaches Goober Keyes and Weldon Chapman, the Westerners have been working out since the end of the basketball season, and coaches are somewhat optimistic. They do not see a district championship team at the high school, but enough letter men and other experienced athletes have returned to cause a brighter outlook than usual.

In the dashes, Coach Keyes has the speedster from last year's team, Harold Ingley, football flash, who placed second in the district and was a member of the relay team. Other prospects for the dashes are Walter "Jumbo" Webster, Robert Castle, Bill Sessums, Melvin Cooksey, Coulson Paxton, Harold Parsons and Rusty Johnston.

Strong Huddles Team

Jarvis Wright and R. M. Jennings have been showing promise in the half-mile. Earnest Winter, recovering from a knee operation, and Joe Pytell, are leading the milers.

Arvil Lee Oden, Henry Ford and Melvin Cooksey give the Westerners a strong lineup in the hurdles. Oden placed in the district meet last year, and was a member of the relay team. Ford is the pole vaulter and high jumper, placing in these events last year. Dutchy Cawthon, Joe Bob Foster, Othello Upton and Johnston, up from the Cowhand squad, are nice looking prospects for the jumps and pits. Ingley, Cooksey and Ford are leading candidates in the broad jump department.

Virgie Simmons, Rafe Nabors and Webster are expected to handle the weights very handily. Each will try the shot and discus.

Visitors expected to give the Westerner athletes trouble Friday afternoon include Grant, all-round athlete of Anton High, and "Speedy" Houpt, big basketball star from Abernathy.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Friday meet.

DODGERS GET TOLD

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11. (AP)—First Base Holdout Buddy Hassett gave the Brooklyn Dodgers something to think about today. He told the Brooklyn bigwigs flatly he would quit baseball and go into politics in New York if his salary demands weren't met.

POWER SHIFTS TO CHICAGO PROMOTERS

WHAT WOULD OLD TEX RICKARD SAY TO THIS SITUATION

(What's behind the current heavyweight fistic furore? Who's who and why since Tex Rickard ruled the boxing business. The answer to these and other questions arising from latest developments in the science of scrambled fists will be found in a series of Associated Press stories, of which this is the first.)

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, March 11, (AP) — Nothing could reveal more strikingly the shift in heavyweight fistiana's "balance of power" than the present setup for the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis title match in Chicago, with the Madison Square Garden on the outside for the first time since the late George (Lewis) Tex Rickard interested Wall street in pugilistic playthings.

The Garden still has the privilege of tossing a few legal punches in behalf of its contract for Braddock to fight Max Schmeling for the title in New York June 3.

Have Inside Track

Despite the novel efforts of Schmeling himself to promote a title fight with Braddock this year in Berlin, the multiple interests backing the Chicago bout are going right ahead because they have the inside track, and they know they have the biggest heavyweight money-maker available.

Which means that Madison Square Garden seemingly has lost its exclusive hold on the heavyweight industry, including the title-holder.

The blow is more severe to the Garden's pride than its balance sheet. The heavyweight title has been more of a gold brick than a gold mine since Rickard died in 1929. Boxing nowadays comprises less than five per cent of the Garden's financial operations, due not alone to the decline of its fistic interests, but also to a policy of building up prestige in other spheres of sport.

The great Rickard, nevertheless, would have "seed nuthin' like it." If he could return today to find his successors holding an apparently worthless contract for the next heavyweight title fight, while rivals go forward definitely with arrangements for a championship match in Chicago, scene of Tex's greatest extravaganza.

Rickard never lost control of the heavyweight situation.

Frisco To Supply Players To Tucson

MONTEREY, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Five, possibly more, outstanding young baseball prospects of the San Francisco Missions are expected to be farmed out this spring to the Tucson club of the Arizona-Texas league, it was learned today.

The youngsters held mostly likely to go are Pitchers Bill Fleming of Marysville and Al Raimondi, Oakland; Catcher Joe Annunzio, Oakland; Third Baseman Frank Brandi, San Francisco, and Outfielder Bob Mort. Fleming spent last season with Muskogee. Mort is the younger brother of Roy Mort, regular first sacker of the Missions.

Sailor Beats Arch Rival Of The Ring

WATKINS BOWS OUT OF LOCAL PICTURE FOR A TIME WITH VICTORY OVER ROD FENTON

With a final flourish of fists and fury in the old Watkins manner, Sailor Tex bowed out of the local wrestling picture, temporarily at least, by beating decisively his arch rival from the Canadian hills, "Lightning Rod" Fenton, in the main event of last night's show at the Auditorium.

The customers came in droves, anticipating a wild, rough melee, and they were not disappointed. Sentiment wavered in favor of Fenton, but Sailor retained the respect of his fans by his strutting, bluffing, slugging mannerisms.

Fenton, who introduced the drop-kick to this circuit, having learned it as a caulk-fighter in the Canadian wilds, so the story goes, connected with a salvo to the Watkins chin and chest in the first fall to blast all reason from Sailor's mind. He did scram for the ropes, but hustled back in before clearing his fuzzy brain. Fenton met him with two solid kicks to the Adam's apple, and pinned Watkins in 18 minutes.

The slugging, rabbit-punching, biting and slapping continued in the second fall, with Watkins carrying the fight this time. He had faded before Fenton's hearty rushes in the first fall, but met him in the second with a risky attack consisting mostly of jarring punches to the back of the neck. Rodney recovered from a torturous arm squeeze and chased Tex out of the ring with a few weak drop kicks. Sailor came back in, closed with the Canadian, rushed him against the rope corner swivels a couple of times, all but driving Fenton's head back into his shoulders, and won an easy fall in 3 minutes.

They wallowed on the mat with toe-holds and arm busters in the third fall, which lasted 9 minutes, Watkins winning with a Japanese crab after encouraging Fenton's drop-kicks. Fenton connected lightly with one. Watkins stumbled around as if dazed, but alertly caught Fenton's flying heels in his arms, turned him about and pressed down with the crab hold. He was hard to break from it, and they would have been fighting yet had Referee Clements not intervened.

Freeman Wins Opener

The supporting card was packed with action. Nick Bosinis, more vicious and evil-tempered than ever, found a ready taker in Andy Tremaine, but Andy failed to get rough soon enough and stay rough long enough. He held Nick to a draw. Tremaine was a sucker for Nick's headlocks, and took a lot of unnecessary punishment with his right fist swinging free. It was fast and furious.

The newcomers, Abe Freeman of New York and Larry Schaaf of Indiana, both youngsters, pleased the crowd with a 7-minute curtain raiser that saw the huskier and more experienced Freeman win with a flying head scissors and body press. Freeman looks like a comer, and probably will get another chance to show his wares here.

GIRLS' TOURNEY NOW UNDER WAY

HILLSBORO, March 11 (AP) — Plainview defeated Highland 73 to 15 last night in the opening round of the state A. A. U. girls' basketball tournament.

Results in other games of the meet, played here, at Abbott and Itasca, were:

Newsome 48, Mesquite 25.
Bullard 64, Cranfills 20.
Allison 49, Hillsboro 11.
Van Horn 27, Lott 25.
Blum 49, Pearl 47.
Newton 45, Itasca 30.
Munday 33, Barry 26.
Celeste 40, Covington 16.
Porreston 34, Axtell 33.
Abbott 55, Lone Oak 30.

Forfeitures were: West to Blooming Grove, Bedias to Prenship and Bardwell to Irene.

Prizes Are Given For Ladies' Golf

Ladies Day golf prizes went to Mrs. Guy McAfee and Mrs. J. P. Giles yesterday when the firing ceased at Lubbock Country club.

Twelve women golfers participated in the nine-hole event following luncheon at the clubhouse. Mrs. Ford Benham was hostess.

Mrs. McAfee's prize was for lowest medal. She fired a 47 for the nine holes. Mrs. Giles was awarded for scores on blind bogey holes.

Averill Still Too High With Demand

LAKELAND, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers said Earl Averill, holdout Cleveland center fielder, had made an "approach offer" to the Detroit club.

Cochrane said he didn't plan a conference because "Averill wants too much."

Senators Likely To Be Surprise

TEAM STRONGER THAN LAST YEAR; NEED SOME PITCHERS

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 11. (AP)—Give Bucky Harris a well rounded pitching staff and he may come up with the big surprise package of the American league pennant festivities this year.

Bucky's got a big flock of apple chuckers in his hustling Washington camp here at Orlando with Shanty Hogan, the reformer eater, to advise and catch them. They've got to show remarkable improvement if the Senators are to upset the flag fight.

Shapes Up Stronger

The team otherwise shapes up much stronger than the club nosed out of second and third places last year. An infectious spirit has Clark Griffith so delighted with his club that he's got half a notion to make a comeback himself.

"Never saw anything like it," beamed the old fox of the Senators.

Buck Newsom again will head the mound corps and should at least duplicate his 1936 record of 17 victories. Jimmy Deshong, Pete Appleton, and Joe Cascerella are figured to round out the "big four," of the staff.

Most promising of the pitching nominees are Jack Salveson, big right hander from Los Angeles, and Dick Lanahan, a southpaw from Chattanooga.

No Catching Worries

Harris professes no worries about catching with big Hogan behind the plate. Cliff Bolton is slated to play second fiddle to Shanty. The infield of left handed hitters will be unchanged with Joe Kuhel at first, Buddy Myer at second, Cecil Travis at short, and Buddy Lewis on third.

Fred Sington, former Alabama football star, will get a real chance in the outfield. With him as outfield regulars will be Jonathon Stone and fleet Ben Chapman. Jesse Hill and Tat Wright stack up as the garden reserves.

Bob Olin Defeats Barlund In Fight

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Bob Olin, former light heavyweight champion from Brooklyn, last night spotted Gunnar Barlund of Finland 14 pounds and beat him badly in the 10-round semi-final bout at the Hippodrome.

Olin floored the heavily favored Barlund for a count of seven with a left hook and right uppercut in the tenth.

Olin weighed 183 pounds and Barlund 197 3-4.

COLLEGE BOYS TAKE PLACES IN BASEBALL

TIMES HAVE CHANGED SINCE DAD WAS A ROOKIE IN GAME

BY DILLON GRAHAM

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11. (AP)—It's getting so a baseball player can't say "ain't" without some college-bred teammate lifting an eyebrow.

At the rate college athletes have been invading baseball, it apparently won't be long before a majority can tag a degree after their names.

Times Have Changed

Not so long ago players were judged somewhat by the forcefulness of their language and the size of their chew of tobacco. Now managers are interested in their college experience and who coached them.

Several youngsters getting trials at major league spring camps came straight from university campuses.

Ace Parker, Duke's All-America football ace, and Floyd Yount, Wake Forest star, are being inspected by Connie Mack of the A's. Morris Sands, who batted .448 against Southwest conference pitching, is trying for a Pittsburgh outfield job.

Many College Men

Many American league stars are college men. Luke Appling, Chicago shortstop who won the batting championship last season, played at Oglethrope in Georgia.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees got his start at Columbia university. Manager Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane of Detroit played at Boston university. Pitcher Tommy Bridges of Detroit starred at Tennessee, while Charley Gehringer went to Michigan and Hank Greenberg to New York university.

Other former college stars include:

Frank Higgins of Texas with Boston, and Roy Bell of Texas A. & M. with St. Louis.

DAFFY MAY START

DATONA BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals indicated today Paul Dean will be the starting pitcher against the New York Giants in their exhibition game at Havana Sunday.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION PROGRAM IN LUBBOCK COUNTY IS BEING PLANNED

Possibility of an electrification program which would supply light and power and would run appliances and allow better radio reception on the farm was discussed at a meeting of the Roosevelt National Grange chapter and visiting representatives of five other Granges at a meeting in the Roosevelt Rural High school last night.

It was announced that 558 applicants had been contacted and that an eventual goal of 2,000 was envisioned.

The assemblage was informed preliminary work looking toward a county-wide program to take in at least 50 miles of line had got under way Wednesday after conferences with Ralph W. Moore, state Grange master and member of President Roosevelt's national council. With Moore were Harold W. Gaulrapp, organizer of the National Grange, and Guy Travis of Lamesa.

The three men conferred Wednesday with Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division of agriculture at Texas Technological college, and other faculty members; Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president; H. L. Allen, general manager of Texas Utilities company; Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent, and with City Manager W. H. Rodgers. Others in the conference included R. L. Burdette, vocational agriculture teacher at Senior High school, and Harry N. Roberts, an engineer.

A survey of the immediate territory around Lubbock had been made, it was announced, showing approximately 800 farms within six or eight miles of Lubbock.

The plan is for the high line and connections to be financed through federal funds from the rural electrification administration. The city and Texas Utilities company officials said they wished to cooperate to the fullest extent in the program.

Recently, a proposal to include a small group around Lubbock was denied by federal officials as being too limited and not profitable.

Moore has two meetings scheduled for today; at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Muleshoe and at 8 o'clock tonight at Ralls. Friday, he will be at Fort Worth at the state FFA meeting.

Moore said there are approximately 30 Texas counties in which some application of the plan has been tried and that numerous others are interested.

Gin Meeting To Be Staged On Tuesday

Evans, Houston, president Houston Bank for Cooperatives; Roy Saunders, U. S. bureau of plant industry; F. E. Lichte, College Station, gin specialist Texas A. & M. extension service.

Others to speak will include: J. E. Montgomery, president Texas Cooperative Ginners association; J. L. Brooks, vice president and Homer D. Wade, executive secretary.

It's a peculiar thing, but the people who are always insisting that others do their part are the very ones who do not want to hold up their end.

THIS being kind of a dull day and The Plainsman's having little of a local nature to discuss, he's pulling out of the mothballs a contribution passed along about a year ago by Will Rodgers, the city manager.

The Plainsman has been holding the poem for just such a time as today, for it is one of the best he has ever seen.

Written by Phil Braniff and entitled "The Reckless Fool", the poem should be read and digested by everyone.

Here it is. What do you think of it?

Have you ever heard the rattle of a dying man's last breath?
Or seen the look of horror in the stare that faces death?
Have you ever heard a person scream and writhe in sudden pain
And look down at a mangled arm that will not move again?
Or have you heard the moaning and smelled the stench of gin
And seen the gory, bloody gap where once an eye had been?
When your car is doing fifty have you ever felt the yen
To let'r have another notch'n do another ten?
When a pokey guy's ahead of you have you ever had the thrill
Of swingin' out'n passin' him upon a dangerous hill?
Or have you ever felt the old car scream n' lurch 'n swerve
As you let'r have the limit while you took a sudden curve?
Have you ever seen the wreckage of an automobile crash
With flesh and steel made into a morbid, gruesome hash?
Have you ever seen the entrails 'n
the ears, 'n arms 'n hand
'N feet 'n shoes 'n fingers of what once had been a man?
Have you ever seen the jagged bone
stick through a mangled leg
And heard the blood-smeared victim pray'n cry'n beg?
Have you had the keen sensation of a fast car at your bid
'N run up to a stop sign 'n slap 'em on 'n skid?
Did you ever pass a school-yard 'n
give the horn a slam
'N drive close to a gang o' kids 'n
see 'em jump 'n scram?
Did you ever take a quart o' rye
'n swallow four or five
'N take the old bus down the road
'n show 'em how to drive?
Have you ever seen a little child all crumpled up 'n still—
Who tried to run across the street
while a car came down the hill?
Have you seen men's brains on fenders?
Have you seen blood in the street?
Have you seen them stare at the bloody stumps of the things that were their feet?
Have you ever heard the crash 'n
scream 'n seen the ghastly stare
On the face of what had been the driver 'n the rest of the man not there?
Morbid 'n gruesome 'n gory this, I'm sorry, but don't you see,
This was not meant to be read by folks as tender as you 'n me.
It was meant for the thoughtless 'n careless who kill 'n maim 'n mar—
The reckless fool who is to blame—the man in the other car.

SOME people will insist that "The Reckless Fool" is in bad taste, that it is too horrible in part to be printed.

THE other day The Plainsman commented briefly about "hors d'oeuvres", about the search being staged for an American name for them and made the suggestion that we just call 'em "swash"—which is easier to pronounce, easier to spell and fits fine.

However, other people have different ideas and are suggesting all sorts of names for the little dainties. Some are:

App-whet, amerikettis, slapeps, an-che-ca, ancheeviars, R-te, brelishers, bo-zests, canchocheas, cheerbits, clutteruppers, delicianairs, dinasests axidorss, gooseleums, border-ettes, kutiebits, lipsmackers, piscancheesas, pepper-uppers, pri-nuets, sideats, teasers, whippetits and zippybits.

Most of the suggestions we suppose are good, but since we've never had hors d'oeuvres around the house we're willing to let the matter drop as is!

A bit of small philosophy by Thomas Carlyle:

"Show me the man you honor; I know by that symptom, better than any other, what kind of a man you worship. For you show me there what your ideal of manhood is; what kind of man you long inexpressibly to be, and would thank the gods, with your whole soul, for being if you could."

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Dear boyish Denny, with his long, slim body, his slanting blue-green eyes like a sleepy cat's, his slow southern voice and his quick southern pride! He'd hated so her making more money than he did; her having a cubice of her own, while his desk was among the others out on the floor. And small blame to him. It was nice for a man to be that way.

She was so deep in her thoughts, which were a kaleidoscope of the silk bathing suit in Lester's window, the problem of a new suitcase versus another evening frock, and Denny's own laughing voice and last gay kiss the night before, that she jumped at the warm feel of his hand on her shoulder.

"Hurry, my own darling angel!" he said stooping to kiss her. "Let's go to lunch and plan like the devil."

"Right with you!" she said blithely.

She stood up and began setting herself in order. Even the raw light of the floor-to-ceiling Madison avenue windows could find no flaw in her freshness. She had a mannequin's tall, narrow, boneless figure. Her tweed suit with its blue twin sweaters, its funny brown leather beads, was so smartly worn that only a salesman could have guessed how little the whole outfit cost. She pulled a low tweed hat over the gold-brown mop that made piquant her wide-spaced slanted brows and wide-set hazel eyes. She fended Denny off from another kiss, reddened her smiling, generous mouth, snatched her bag and gloves and was with him.

"Almost through with the old dump," Denny said as they crossed the long room with its rows of desks, and passed out into the tiny waiting room with its scattered books and bright-framed "originals," its waiting artists and writers, self-conscious in the tall Jacobean armchairs against the paneled walls.

"I love it here," Eve said impulsively. "It's like home. I'm almost sorry I resigned."

"M'm." Denny was not enthusiastic.

"Just a rover at heart? Or longing for the planter's life of Virginia?"

He shook his head, silent till they got outside. Then he squeezed her elbow closer as they walked; he was never near her long without touching her in some way. "Just down a bit."

Both So Fair And Gay

Eve never much minded Denny's "downs"—they were so little-boyish that coaxing them away rather amused her. Eve herself rarely had causeless moods of depression. She liked life. She had a job she enjoyed, she had lots of friends she adored, she was pretty and popular, and best of all, Denny and she were in love and going to be married and going on a trip.

"Even if there was trouble, there'd be nothing to do about it but to help the ones you can and not brood about the ones you can't," she pointed out to Denny.

He laughed at her earnestness, gay again himself. "All right, Elsie Dinsmore! I adore you when you go sententious, Evy. Where shall we eat?"

"I've been eating on the rich and great till I never want to see a swank restaurant again. The 5-and-10, for all I care. A cup of coffee and you, dear. Have to keep me figger!"

"Oh, for cat's sake don't be tactful," Denny burst out.

Eve, who had spoken in all good faith, looked at her lover in surprise. "I wasn't! If you want to spend on me high and handsome, go ahead, darling. Had a windfall?"

"No, but hang it, a fellow wants to make the grand gesture once in a while. We're going to make the grand gesture today, Mrs. Carter!"

"I love grand gestures." Eve laughed at him over her big furry collar. "In fact, Denny, I even love you when you're grouchy," she said shamelessly. "You must have been on a party and a half last night."

He grinned. "Well, it was, rather. A deb I used to know called me up, little knowing I was now yours alone. Was I low to go, sweet? It was fuller of food and drink than any party I've seen since '29, when I was a mere lad, my girl. I simply made a pig of myself on caviar."

Eve and Denny were modern-minded; all she said was, placidly, "Ah, yes, caviar does give one such a hangover."

They both laughed irrepressibly, there in the crowded noontime New York street. People turned to look at them, both so tall and fair and gay, and so obviously on top of the world.

"Well, lead me to Pierre's or Le Boeuf Sur le Toit, whichever will remind you most of your deb," said Eve cheerfully.

"Always wants to call it the Boof on the Roof," said Denny irrelevantly. "That scratch wasn't fair. Did I yelp when you bear-led your last lecturing Englishman all over the hot spots of New York in January?"

"If you had it would have led to my being fired for maidenly scruples."

"Well, I hated it," he said suddenly. "Hate you to go anywhere with anybody but me." His tweeded arm pressed closer, his voice was husky; Eve felt suddenly warm and thrilled all over. Denny was usually casual or passionate; when he as tender it moved her intolerably. His big bare hand caught her gloved one and pressed her arm high and close against him. He broke the silence. "Come on somewhere. We've only about three-quarters of an hour and a terrific amount to talk about."

"Have we?" Eve said breathlessly.

Denny said, "Yes, my darling." There was an unaccustomed seriousness in his voice.

They went at random into a restaurant door. It opened on a narrow flight of basement stairs, which led to a long narrow room lighted with little high square yellow lamps. The waiter led them to pewlike settle in a corner.

"All by you'selves here," he said with a friendly grin; he knew lovers when he saw them. Denny grinned back appreciately, and eyed the menu.

"Will you still love me if I had a nice little steak with fried onions?" he demanded.

"Not only love you, but have one of my own. Then I needn't bother to have any dinner to speak of tonight. I want to do some digging in the apartment."

Eve smiled across at him. She loved it all: the warm smoky dusky restaurant, with its content, murmuring pairs all about her, its rich color vague on the walls, its eager little tactful waiters, the laughing noise from the bar; above all, Denny's big hand with the fair down on its frankly crisping hers across the table, and Denny's adoring long eyes holding her eyes fast. The waiter broke the perfect moment, bringing their order. They tried to eat, but they didn't get far. Eve had merely cut her nice little steak, and Denny's oval dish of potatoes-gratin sat there, its smoking rough brown surface broken by his nervous fork, when he spoke, a little shyly.

"When we come back we must go apartment hunting. I thought perhaps we might even get it in before we left, so long as you're leaving Saturday."

Eve made herself speak very practically and soberly. "When's your lease up, yours and Dick's?"

"Lease, wench? We haven't any, it's a monthly arrangement as befits our humble condition, and the landlord grateful at that."

"Oh, that makes things perfect. We can do practically anything, because mine's up the first of the month."

"And that's quite close. We're free as air." They shook hands excitedly over the potatoes. "Waiter, get us a paper, won't you?"

The waiter, smiling paternally, presented them with a paper.

"We must be sure to get a place with a cross-draft, and good closets," Eve said.

"By George, Eve, you'll be the perfect wife; you sound domestic already."

"I always was domestic," Eve said. "I was brought up in the Connecticut farming country—how often must I tell you? I helped with the housework and my aunt's home-baking business that kept off the wolf in a genteel fashion, till I went to Smith. Only one year, darling, but don't forget to be impressed."

"Everything about you impresses me to the bone," he said, staring adoringly at her—the hat at the smart angle, the lips with their lipstick matched to her nails, the pretty arrogant face that laughed at him. "You're more of the city than the city itself. It's one of the things I love you for, Precious, sure don't mind chucking the great career and all that, just to go sailing with your Denny?"

"Idiot! I'm not one of these old-fashioned girls that wants self-expression! I'm going to swim and play ring-toss and lie on deck and look at attractive strangers under my eyelashes, and do everything languorous I've ever read about in the glamor advertisements. I've been earning my living ever since Auntie Lina died, at the beginning of my sophomore year. You can just earn it for me, now, you old cave man. Besides—I'm rather for you Den."

If she had a feeling in her heart that she wasn't always going to be able to keep her hands off his work, this was not the time to say so. The two of them would be a grand combination, she thought secretly, and what did it matter if Den got the credit? All the better, poor darling, after having to stand a sweetheart who was ahead of him on the ladder.

"Tell you what," Denny said suddenly, "Let's throw a party tonight and tell the world our dark secret!"

"They've mostly guessed it," said Eve. "But grand!"

"Let's make a list of who we'll call up—"

Denny fell to scribbling and frowning. But Eve, digging in her bag for her notebook and pen, discovered also her morning mail, which she had snatched up on the way out and forgotten till now.

Eve sets the stage for her party, tomorrow.

A HERO LIES IN A HERO'S GRAVE

It is written: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

A few days ago a hero died who once offered to lay down his life in the chance that he might help to save the lives of millions in danger of death from yellow fever. His name was Charles G. Sonntag, a native of South Carolina and a private in the army who among others volunteered to be bitten by mosquitoes to make test of the theory that these insects were the carriers of yellow fever. The experiment was conducted soon after the Cuban war.

In the Spanish-American war, only 266 soldiers were killed in battle, but 3,500 died of diseases, chief of which was yellow fever. After the war an army commission undertook seriously to find the cause of the disease. Mosquitoes were suspected.

Several brave men offered to permit mosquitoes to bite them that the theory might be tested. The experiment was fatal to some; others survived. Sonntag, dying at the age of 64 in his South Carolina home, will rest in a hero's grave in Arlington National cemetery.

And he deserves to rest there, in that hallowed shrine set aside for America's great—deserves it fully as much as if he had been killed on the field of battle while undertaking an act of outstanding courage.

A THOUGHT

But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.—Peter 2:1.

From Hollywood MOVIE SIDELIGHTS

Behind The Scenes With The Stars Of Talkietown

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 11—When pitted against black-hearted villains and wild mustangs Two-gun Buck Jones is dominant and fearless. But in real life he is bossed around by two women.

One is tiny, blond Irene Schreck, production manager of all his pictures. The other is black-haired Frances Guihan, who writes his scenarios.

Miss Schreck has more to do with Jones' western thrillers than anyone else, including himself as president of Buck Jones Productions, Inc. She estimates and governs the cost of production, hires actors and crew, arranges shooting schedules, makes up the payroll, and performs other important behind-the-scenes duties.

Sometimes she calls him to her office and lays down the law on how much he can spend on sets, location trips, and players. Jones usually agrees with her. "Okay, baby," he says, "I don't know anything about business, anyway." He always calls her "baby."

Miss Guihan bosses Cowboy Jones from the story angle. His pictures usually are made from successful western novels, but he wouldn't think of buying a yarn without first consulting her. Once the story is purchased, she writes the screen play and dialog.

Although thoroughly feminine, she's a whiz at inditing such lines as "Git to the horses, Buck — they've got pore ol' Abner again!" or "We'll head 'em off at the divide, boys, an' have every one of the varmints in jail afore nightfall!"

Long In Colony

Long a resident of Hollywood, although born in St. Louis, Miss Guihan started writing scenarios 15 years ago for the Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa. Directed him in one picture, too. Then she became the star serial writer for Ruth Roland.

Birth of the talkies cramped her style for a while, but during the last two years she has written eight screen plays for Jones and two western dramas for another studio.

She bats out her scripts on a portable typewriter in a week or 10 days. Like many film writers she likes to say the lines aloud before writing them, and visitors to her home often are startled to hear her declaiming the dire threats of a dogie-rustler as he trains a pair of six-guns on the hero's pals. Actually, Miss Guihan is scared to death of guns.

She doesn't depend entirely on film work for a living. Owns a profitable anti-gray hair tonic company which she bought from a friend years ago. "You'd be surprised how many stars use the stuff," she says, but doesn't name any of the stars.

Tells 'Em Off

Production Boss Schreck came to Hollywood from Indianapolis in 1915 and has worked at different jobs in several studios. Started as one of D. W. Griffith's stenographers, worked as secretary to the studio manager of the old Metro lot, and helped design scenery for Stanley Laurel comedies at Universal. She has been managing Jones since 1934.

She thinks nothing of working 16 to 20 hours a day, and says that bossing a bunch of men doesn't worry her a bit. "You just have to crack the whip once in a while, and tell 'em where to get off," she explained.

When she is in a pleasant mood Miss Schreck calls Jones "darling" and when she is not in a pleasant mood she calls him by other names. "He likes to be bawled out now and then," she said.

Despite her long association with cowboy films, Miss Schreck still is uneasy about horses. Just doesn't like 'em. Jones played a dirty trick on her once; got her to climb on his favorite nag for a publicity still, and then fired off his revolver.

The horse reared and plunged until Jones told him to stop. "I nearly killed Buck for that," she recalled. "He hasn't tried any more funny business."

Dutcher Gives "Inside Story" Of Factors Which Were Important In Bringing About That Steel-Labor Contract

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11 — The astonishing turn in labor history signified by the steel industry's decision to sign wage, hour and collective bargaining agreements with the John L. Lewis C. I. O., is generally attributed by high government officials here to three chief factors:

1—Conviction among leaders of the industry, and the Morgan-Wall Street interests behind them, that Lewis was in a position to tie up production, and that he could be beaten in a strike only after unprecedented labor warfare.

2—Pressure from a pro-labor administration in Washington, which demanded the 40-hour week and collective bargaining, plus existence of pro-labor state administrations and local authorities in the steel area.

3—Unwillingness to forego the profits which 1937 promises from steel.

It may be that all those factors, and others, combined to bring about this "industrial New Deal." It is commonly suspected here that only J. P. Morgan knows the answer. But everyone concedes the spectacular success of C. I. O.'s organization campaign was the first key to the recent about-face by America's foremost leaders of industry and finance.

Stronger In Steel

Neither Lewis nor Philip Murray claimed to have more than 200,000 of the 550,000 workers in the steel industry as members. But they were relatively stronger in steel than in the automobile industry, where they already had achieved considerable success.

The steel tycoons had applied intense heat on Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins in effort to obtain suspension of the Walsh-Healy law. That act said bidders on government contracts must observe a 40-hour work week, and certain other labor provisions. The issue was fought over more than 100,000 tons of steel the navy needed for battleships.

In secret conferences, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady insisted the steel industry produce that steel in accordance with the law as a patriotic duty to the government. Steel officials insisted they had a duty to their stockholders and couldn't effect a 40-hour week.

The Labor department's reply was preparation of an order dated Feb. 27 for a public hearing, beginning March 5, to which navy officials, steel industry heads, labor leaders and members of Congress were to be summoned. Steel men were given to understand "patriotism" would be the issue. The order was held up because of a report on Feb. 27 that an independent steel company was ready to bid under terms of the Walsh-Healy act. (Willingness of certain independents to "play ball" with the government, plus an implied threat that the government would make its own steel, might also have had a large part in softening the industry's attitude.)

Dutcher

Matters stood thus when, on March 1, big units of the steel industry began to announce 40-hour weeks, the $5 daily minimum wage and willingness to bargain collectively.

Governors On Labor's Side

In the background were such state governors as Earle of Pennsylvania, and Davey of Ohio, politically allied with the Lewis labor group and potential sources of strength for C. I. O. in case of strike. Labor political strength in 1936 also had elected many local officials—including, for example, a sheriff in a steel county, who had once been beaten up by company guards because of union activity.

Meanwhile, the steel industry was running at virtual capacity, with excellent prospects for a big year. Fourth-quarter reports for 1936 had shown the largest profits since the boom. Management could look forward to large bonuses again. Stock prices were being held down chiefly by fear of labor turmoil. Why toss all this away? Announcements of new policy were followed by assurances that steel prices would be boosted $3 to $6 a ton, although there had been a 10 per cent price increase in December. (Consumers will begin to feel the full effect of those price jumps in about six months).

Steel had every reason to expect a national law which would make the 40-hour week a maximum and, perhaps, a fewer-hour week in its own case. It could obtain public approbation by voluntarily consenting to a less rigid schedule. Even a survey at the conservative University of Pittsburgh had deplored steel's labor policies. The LaFollette committee had revealed surprising stories of espionage, arms in plants, and other preparations for war by industry. Some steel officials insisted to their associates that Lewis was a responsible leader. He could be depended on to control labor in numerous situations, they said, whereas dealing with scores of crafts unions was unsatisfactory to the point of headache. And—

Well, anyway, you observed what happened.

GALVESTON, March 11 (AP)—Charges of robbery with firearms against Bernhoff Bidenkapp were dismissed today by Justice of the Peace Randolph Pierson on the grounds of insufficient evidence. Bidenkapp was arrested recently at Lubbock after victims of the $500 carpenters union hall robbery had picked out his picture as that of the robber. When brought here, however, the victims said he was not the bandit.

He's The Real Robert Taylor

To ward off all the pestering he's been subject to during the past year, Robert Tayor of Pittsburgh, shown above with his wife, is thinking of changing his name to Spangler Arlington Brugh, the real name of the screen's No. 1 lover. WALL STREET REPORT

While strength was still displayed by selected issues, profit selling cut down a number of motors, steels, coppers, oils and aircrafts.

An early set-back in Chrysler, as strike complications continued for this company, tended to chill buying sentiment.

Rubbers tilted forward. Futures for this staple established new tops since 1929 and rumors were heard of another boost in tire prices.

Bonds were narrow and wheat and cotton mixed. Spot copper was up in London but other recently soaring raw materials were reactionary.

Shares in demand most of the time for gains up to 2 points or more included Goodyear, Gulf States Steel, St. Joseph Lead, Illinois Central, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, U. S. Leather, and American Hide & Leather.

Inclined to slip were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, Kennecott, U. S. Smelting, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Du Pont and Johns-Manville.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP) — Cotton futures opened firm, 8 to 13 higher, influenced by a sharp upturn in Liverpool and active foreign and commission house buying, March 14.35; May 13.91; July 13.81; Oct. 13.37; Dec. 13.28; Jan. 13.31.

The market advanced into further new high ground on trade price fixing in the old crop positions and Liverpool and continental buying in the new crops. There was also some demand from Wall street and the far east.

As the rally carried May to within 2 points of the 14-cent level, profit taking became a little more pronounced and prices reacted a few points. May sold off from 13.98 to 13.94 and prices at the end of the first half hour were left at net gains of a 4 to 13 points. A morning reaction at Liverpool under liquidation and local selling was followed by a sharp rally on heavy London and continental speculative buying influenced partly by a favorable view of the French loan terms. There were 4 March notices issued at the opening.

The market reacted 6 to 18 points from the early highs under liquidation and profit-taking. Reactionary sentiment was more pronounced and some local and Wall street selling came in on the declines from 13.98 to 13.86 for May contracts. A steadier tone developed toward midday on renewed trade buying and May recovered to 13.93 with prices generally 1 to 10 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 11. (AP)—Brisk buying at the opening lifted cotton 7 to 11 points on the New Orleans market today.

Liverpool was sharply higher and this factor encouraged an extension of the buying operations that have persisted in the staple for more than two weeks.

The March option was relatively inactive, but 14.16 was bid for the month. May was 11 points higher at 13.86. July was up an even 50 cents a bale at 13.70 and Dec. gained 7 points to 13.29.

Commission houses took some of the cotton in early dealings but brokers who ordinarily act for the larger spot firms were the main buying influences.

There was only scattered selling at the first call and this was considered profit taking orders sent into the ring overnight.

The market advanced nearly a dollar a bale during the first half of trading, but when profit taking sales accelerated options eased back a few points. At the half way mark in dealings, active positions were selling narrowly 5 to 10 points above the previous close.

More notices were issued against the March option here and at New York but it held up well, changing hands at 14.18 cents a pound.

Bullish interests were helped by a favorable private estimate on cotton consumption in February. While off a few thousand bales from January because of the shorter month and holidays, this authority placed February consumption at 650,000 bales, compared with 515,977 bales in February, 1937.

New high prices for cotton cloths were reported from Worth St with a heavy buying movement in the print division. Sales in this center on Wednesday were estimated at 30,000,000 yards.

WOULD BAR EXTENSIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Those "extension of remarks" that members do not make on the floor would be barred from the Congressional Record by Representative Hobbs of Alabama. Hobbs has introduced a bill in the house to prevent members from adding to the Record speeches they do not deliver. He would also limit distribution of the Record.

A silver "half-dime," minted 10 years before the Civil war, was found by Will Walchar of Weimar, Tex., while plowing.

LEADERS WILL APPEAR HERE

SIX STATE OFFICIALS WILL SPEAK HERE AT CONVENTION

Six state officers will speak at the semi-annual convention of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association to be held here Friday and Saturday, March 19 and 20, according to an announcement sent today to county officials of approximately 120 counties of West Texas by J. J. Dillard and the Lubbock county commissioners.

Robert Lee Robbitt, chairman of the Texas Highway commission; Claude Teer, chairman of the state board of control; Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, Ike Ashburn, executive manager of the Texas Good Roads association; W. J. Lawson, executive secretary of the Texas Parks board; and William McCraw, attorney general, are scheduled to appear before the convention.

Plan For Session

Judge Dillard and Commissioners P. B. Penney, T. L. Holt, Ben Manker and B. O. McWhorter are in charge of arrangements for the two-day meeting.

Announcement of the speakers was made in invitations and requests for the judges and commissioners to attend mailed today.

Judge Alvin R. Allison of Levelland is president of the organization.

Although the convention proper does not open until Friday, registration will begin Thursday afternoon and a dance will be given for the visiting officials Thursday night.

completing their sample rooms and applying "finishing touches" to their spring displays. Spring shades, brilliant colors, and light weights characterized attractive arrangements of both men's and women's clothing and accessories.

Outstanding among the features of the event is the revue of fashions to be held in the east ballroom of the hotel Friday night. The affair is for retail merchants and their parties only.

Final rehearsal for eighteen mannequins will be held tonight and "all wrinkles will be smoothed" said Miss Marie Tyson, professional model from Dallas, ballet dancer and make-up artist, who has been assisting in training the girls. Rehearsal tonight will be with Larrymore and his orchestra which will play for the revue, stage show and dance tomorrow.

Expect Capacity Crowd

A capacity crowd of 350 persons is expected at the revue with more than 200 reservations already made by out-of-town retail merchants, their buyers and other representatives.

Special dance and song numbers by special entertainers, in addition to the 12-piece orchestra, will be presented between showings of merchandise, said J. H. Brock, director of the show. Lewis Walker and Jack Fuller of Larrymore school of dance are in charge of entertainment and dance.

front of retail prices.

The return of pre-depression quotations is attributed in Wall street to a combination of forces. Mentioned among the most important are world-wide currency depreciation, driving speculation into commodities; government spending for war preparations and relief expenditures during the depression; improvement in buying power of commodity producers as prices went up; a big gain in new gold production and widespread industrial recovery.

FIRST INSTALLMENT

PARIS, Mar. 11. (AP)—The first installment of the new national defense loan, fixed at 5,000,000,000 francs (about $225,000,000) will be issued tomorrow in 98 franc ($4.41) bonds bearing 4 and 1-2 per cent interest and payable in 40 years.

Building Inspector Will Be Appointed

Appointment of a City building inspector to succeed D. A. Forbess, removed by City commission two weeks ago, was to be discussed at a meeting of the commission starting at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Approximately 20 applications have been filed with City officials.

A probability that a fire marshal will be appointed was expressed this morning. Forbess also was fire marshal.

The state fire insurance commission has recommended that the marshal be a member of the fire department.

A protest against odors from Farmer's Refining company, Fourth street and Avenue O, signed by several hundred persons, is expected to be presented to the commission also. City officials have received numerous complaints, it has been said at previous meetings, concerning the odors, which, it was said, carried to south sections of the city when the wind blew from the north.

issues pending since the end of the G. M. strike Feb. 11.

An agreement ended a six-hour sit-down strike that halted operations at the General Motors Chevrolet-Fisher body plants at St. Louis. The company agreed to prohibit solicitation of workers for the anti-union United Chevrolet Workers Guild.

At Pittsburgh the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation announced extension of a general pay raise to more than 20,000 office and salary workers.

A steering committee of the corporation's employe representatives group turned down a proposal to join the American Federation of Labor in fighting John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

New Strikes Started

An agreement ended a sit-down strike that kept 450 motormen and freight handlers idle and crippled transportation in underground freight tunnels at Chicago. Several new strikes started in the city, however.

Approximately 1,500 office employes were made idle at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., at Akron, O., when they encountered a picket line. A dispute over collective bargaining caused the shutdown of the plant, throwing 10,000 production workers in idleness.

Other Acts Clouded

"The acts of congress involving the hopes and fears of a great proportion of the American people are likewise clouded in legal doubt.

Love Letters From Noted Poet Bared

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Love letters of Eugene Field, revealing the gentle poet as an ardently impatient wooer, came to light here today.

Long held in private ownership, the letters show that even Field—a master of lyric expression in verse and prose—struggled and sighed in despair of finding words to depict the tender emotion he felt for his inamorata.

Thus, at the height of one glowing outburst, he lamented:

". . . . How coldly these words seem, upon paper! How I wish I could hold you in my arms and tell you all the deep and strong love I bear for you."

No Developments In Kittrell Case Seen

Two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, who Wednesday joined investigation of the case of missing Burns Kittrell, 25-year-old bank bookkeeper, this morning checked out of the hotel where they had spent the night.

The agents had questioned persons who last had been reported in the company of Kittrell. They assured a reporter that they had made no arrests.

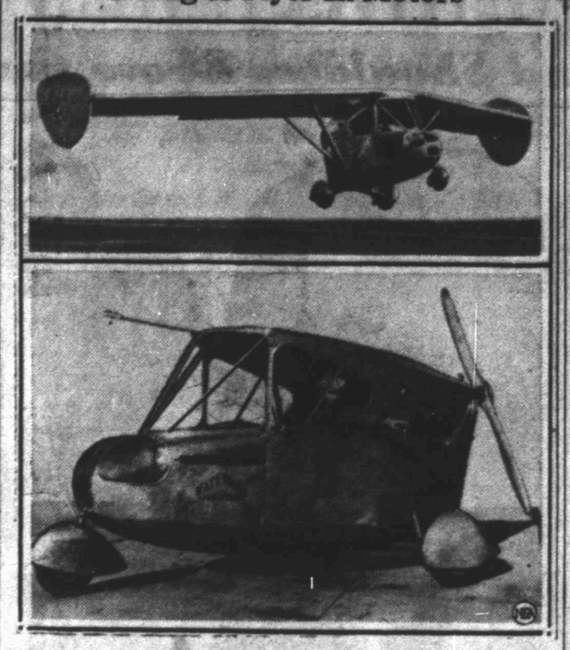

Police, active in the case, reported there were no developments. A report that Kittrell may have gone to Fort Worth was checked there by C. E. Luce, City recorder, who had gone to Dallas on personal business.

The Lubbock group has gone on record in favor of the bill. Settle said that a poll of the committee indicated about two thirds were favorable to the measure. Settle added he would be glad to represent the board before the committee.

On the ground at the airport, Waterman merely parks the wings and chugs away. The craft makes 125 miles an hour in the air, 35 on the ground.

MURDER PROBE IS STAGED

WITNESS IN SLAYING TRIAL IS VICTIM IN SHOOTING

McALESTER, Okla., March 11 (AP)—Three men were held for questioning here last night as county officers pressed an investigation into the fatal shooting of James Davis, Haileyville cafe owner, a slaying trial witness.

W. J. Counts, county attorney, said the slaying occurred near Allerson as Davis and the three men, also trial witnesses, were returning to Hartshorne.

The four men were defense witnesses at the trial of Cleve Sweet, charged in the fatal shooting of Bill Aikens of Hartshorne in 1935.

Produces Gun

From one of the three men Counts said he obtained a statement that another of the men engaged in an argument with Davis, then produced a revolver. Counts said his informant told him he attempted to disarm the second man, but the gun was snapped on his finger and the shooting followed.

The county attorney did not divulge the cause of the argument.

Sheriff H. H. Sherrill said one man left the automobile after the shooting and notified officers, while Davis' assailant fled. He said the fleeing man was captured before he reached Hartshorne.

No charges had been filed.

FATHER SLAIN BY YOUTH

ATTACKS UPON FAMILY BLAMED IN TRAGEDY IN CALIFORNIA

CHICO, Calif., March 11 (AP)—J. A. Shields, whom his 14-year-old son, Sherman, said threatened to kill his family, was shot and killed as he lay asleep in his cabin home at Newhart mill yesterday morning.

Constable W. G. King, took the boy to the Butte county detention home. The constable said Sherman admitted shooting his father because of the threats and because he assaulted his 16-year-old daughter, Florence.

Mrs. Shields, stepmother of Shields' six children, ranging in age from four to 16 years, substantiated Sherman's story. King said Shields several times had threatened to kill his family, she told the officer.

"I told my sister 'it won't happen again'", King quoted the lad as saying. "I went into my father's room where he was sleeping. I shot him in the head."

BAND CONCERT IS HELD LAST NIGHT

Clad in new $33 uniforms, 74 members of the Texas Technological college band presented a concert Wednesday night before an estimated 1,750 persons who enthusiastically applauded every selection.

Unwilling for the band to stop playing, the audience applauded the band to additional selections even after the concert was ended and the audience was leaving.

Preliminary estimates showed ticket sales amounted to about $2,000, or about $400 less than cost of the uniforms. The American Business club and student council of Tech sponsored the concert, to obtain money for the uniforms.

Several soloists played, and comedy and juggling acts were presented.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

JUROR IS GIVEN A JAIL SENTENCE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Mrs. Mary E. Plettner, 45, a juror, was held in contempt of court today and sentenced to serve five days in jail and pay a fine of $100 for becoming intoxicated while deliberating the Helen Wills Love murder case, in which the state had asked the death penalty.

An alternate took Mrs. Plettner's place on the jury, which convicted Mrs. Love of second degree murder in the shooting of her secret husband, Harry A. Love, broker, at a Santa Monica beach club last New Year's eve.

Facing a prison term of seven years to life, Mrs. Love said she would "bet all the tea in China" she would not have to serve a sentence, and again in declaring her love for her dead husband, said, "I still love him, and always will love him—even in prison."

Deputy Public Defender William Neely had Mrs. Plettner plead guilty to the contempt charge, but told the court there were mitigating circumstances.
