Clinton reduces forecast

Economic growth is modest, adviser says

■ 1993 growth will likely be short of 2.5 percent, Tyson predicts.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The administration is sharply reducing its forecast for 1993 economic growth to reflect persistent weakness in the recovery, President Clinton's chief economic adviser said Friday.

Laura D'Andrea Tyson, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, told reporters the administration was preparing a midyear forecast, to be released this month, that probably would peg 1993 economic growth at "slightly short" of 2.5 percent. She stressed that no precise new figure had been decided on.

"The pace of recovery is modest and less than we would like it to be," she said.

Ms. Tyson was asked whether downbeat recent figures, including Friday's report of an increase in June unemployment, might be pointing to a significant slowdown in the national economy.

"It's too early to tell," she replied, adding that the administration believed the economy would do better in the second half of this year because some of the beneficial effects of interest rate declines have yet to be felt.

She said the rate of economic activity also was likely to pick up once Congress passed a final budget package, including a version of Clinton's formula for reducing the deficit.

"We have this fertile ground for expansion," she said.

Growth at 2.5 percent or less would be little better than in 1992 when the economy grew 2.1 percent in President Bush's final year in office. Many attributed Clinton's campaign victory to his ability to persuade voters that he would do more to improve economic

Gunman had list of victims, officials say

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When Gian Luigi Ferri strolled into the 34th-floor law offices of Pettit & Martin, he had three guns beneath his suit jacket and hundreds of rounds of ammunition in a briefcase strapped to a dolly.

He reportedly also carried a list of 50 potential victims — and a grudge.

Without saying a word, police said, Ferri opened fire. For roughly 15 minutes on Thursday afternoon, as lawyers, secretaries and visitors ducked for cover, Ferri went down five floors of the 48-story building, shooting.

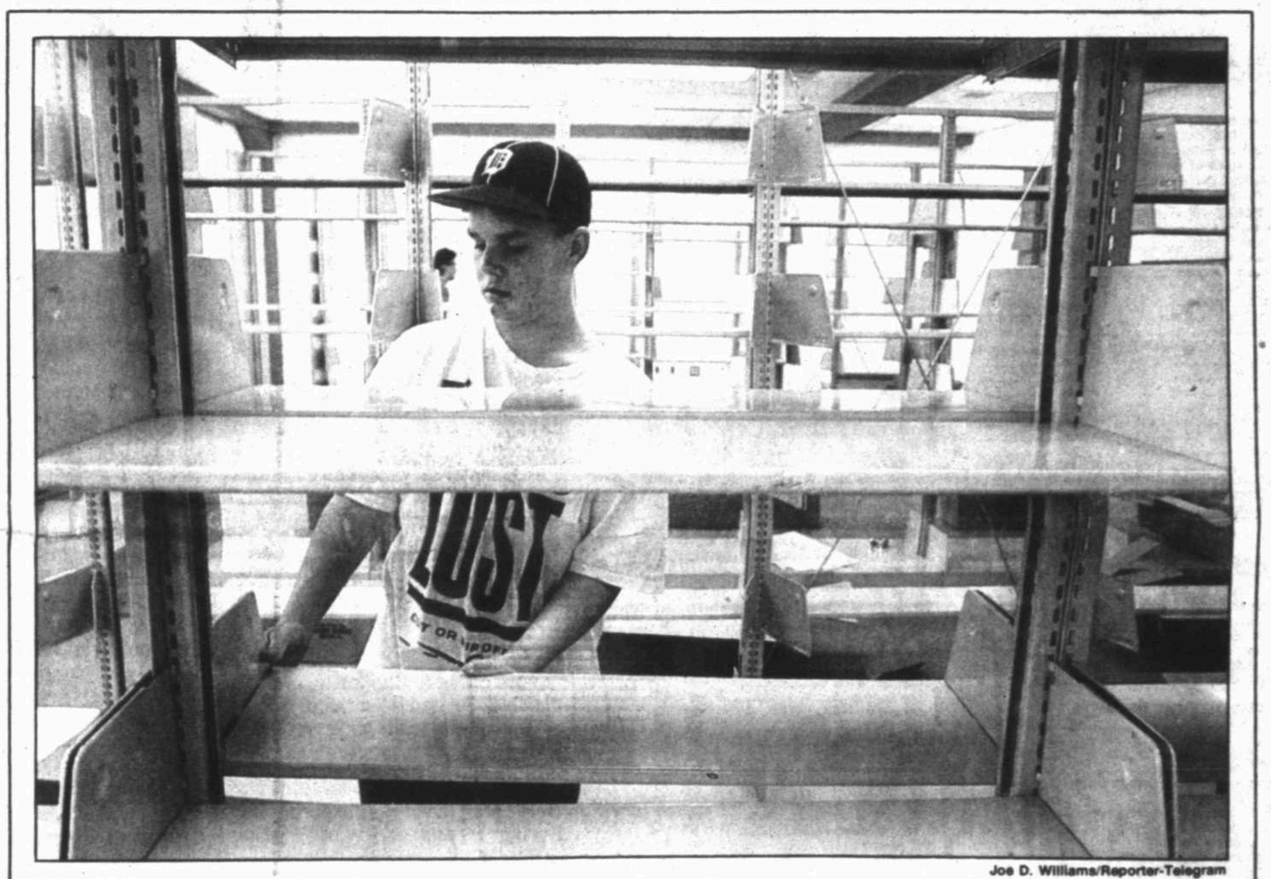

Ferri killed eight people and wounded six before police closed in on him in a stairwell. After making eye contact with the officers, he put one gun to his chin and pulled the trigger, killing himself.

On Friday, bouquets of flowers lay outside the main revolving doors of the building at 101 California St. A recorded telephone message at Pettit & Martin said the firm would be closed until Tuesday; it didn't mention the bloodbath.

Police wouldn't discuss a possible motive, but two newspapers reported that Ferri, 55, was avenging a bad business deal.

Ferri was president of ADF Mortgage and Realty in Woodland Hills and was

Nation needs 'shock' to cure energy addiction

WASHINGTON — It's tough to imagine what it will take to change our nation's energy addiction.

We've sent troops to fight an oil war in the Persian Gulf but have not reduced our reliance on foreign oil. We face the fiscal demands of a monstrous debt yet are unable to reform tax policies that would allow rational pricing and usage of energy.

LULAC lawsuits target area towns

LUBBOCK (AP) — West Texas towns and school districts have become the latest targets of a group seeking better representation for minorities.

The League of United Latin American Citizens filed a flurry of lawsuits in recent weeks to force election changes in several cities surrounding Lubbock.

The new cases are part of LULAC's statewide voting rights battle that is shifting somewhat from large cities.

"We don't want the towns to think we've forgotten about them," said Rolando Rios, the San Antonio attorney who handles LULAC's voting rights cases. "Many of them have asked for our help."

Gun accident

A 4-year-old boy was in critical condition at Midland Memorial Hospital late Friday after apparently shooting himself in the face earlier that day, officials said. Kristopher Patrick sustained the injury from a .380-caliber handgun about 10:16 a.m. at 1113 E. Cowden Ave., police reported. The boy underwent surgery after being transported to the hospital. The weapon belonged to the child's father, police said. Police continued to investigate the incident Friday, officials said.

New 'mess' ad

AUSTIN — A new commercial to prevent litter on beaches was introduced Friday by Texas Department of Transportation officials. In the commercial, a lizard-like monster jumps out of the sea, looks in shock at a beach covered with trash and splashes back into the water. A voice announces: "If we don't stop trashing our beaches, pretty soon nobody's gonna want to come visit." "We're trying to exaggerate the situation," said Don Clark, director of the division of travel and information for the Department of Transportation. "Even someone as hideous as a monster doesn't like litter."

Home explosion

GIG HARBOR, Wash. — A mobile home where firecrackers apparently were being assembled blew up, killing two people. Thursday's explosion killed 16-year-old Brandon James Reid and Quent Belden, who owned the mobile home in a residential development, authorities said. The two apparently were making large firecrackers by putting powder into cardboard tubes, said an assistant fire chief, Fred Ramsdell. The blast destroyed about a third of the 60-foot-long mobile home. Reid died as paramedics took him to a hospital. Belden, 27, was flown to a hospital in nearby Seattle and died there.

WEATHER WATCH

Today's high to hit low 90s

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, a high in the low 90s and south winds 15 to 25 mph, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low in the lower 70s and a 20 percent chance of showers.

Sunday is expected to be partly cloudy with a high in the lower 90s.

After an overnight low of 74, Friday's high was 91 compared with the record high for that date of 112 in 1989. The record low for today's date was 61 set in 1942.

STATE

A low-pressure trough kept winds strong across most of North Texas on Friday, with continued warm temperatures across the state and a flooding advisory for western sections.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms developed over the southern Panhandle, areas of the South Plains and extreme western parts of the Permian Basin, Trans-Pecos and Big Bend.

All precipitation was moving north to northeast around 10 mph.

The National Weather Service posted a flash flood watch until Saturday morning for the Big Bend and parts of the Pecos River valley in West Texas.

The watch included Culberson, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Presidio and Brewster counties.

A high-pressure system over the Gulf of Mexico and upper-level disturbance over northern Mexico pumped more moisture into southern parts of the state, keeping relative humidities high.

NATION

Thunderstorms were scattered from the Plains to the East Coast on Friday, with heavy rain and wind up to 60 mph. Heat and high humidity made parts of the Southeast swelter.

At midday, thunderstorms were scattered across western Texas, the Missouri and Ohio valleys, along the East Coast and across the Florida Peninsula.

Thunderstorms during the night had dumped up to 5 inches in southeastern Nebraska and 3 inches of rain in parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin, adding to already swollen streams and saturated soil.

During the late morning, a thunderstorm in southeastern Kentucky dumped over 2 inches of rain near Signal Knob.

Strong thunderstorms hit parts of Illinois during the late morning, with wind gusting to 60 mph and blowing down trees and power lines near Gridley and Bloomington, the National Weather Service said.

Heat and humidity were both high from the Gulf Coast north into the middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Heat indices — measurements that combine heat and humidity — across parts of Georgia and South Carolina passed 100 degrees.

Actor Fred Gwynne dies at age 64

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fred Gwynne shared the Broadway stage with Helen Hayes, did Shakespeare and Tennessee Williams, earned accolades for his movie roles. But to millions he'll always be Herman Munster.

Gwynne, 66, died Friday at his farm in Taneytown, 40 miles northwest of Baltimore. He had suffered pancreatic cancer.

"Fred will be remembered for giving us all so many hours of laughter and enjoyment with his characterizations," said Joe Pesci, who played the smart-aleck Brooklyn lawyer to Gwynne's sly Southern judge in the movie "My Cousin Vinny."

The film's director, Jonathan Lynn, said he chose Gwynne because "there was nobody else who could give it the same qualities of intelligence and impeccable timing, and weight and strength. It's very hard to find people with that amount of screen presence that are truly funny."

Frederick Hubbard Gwynne was born July 10, 1926, in New York City, the son of a stockbroker. He served in the Navy during World War II and graduated from Harvard in 1951.

Gwynne began his career with the Broadway production of "Mrs. McThing" with Miss Hayes in 1952 and went on to alternate among stage, screen and television for the next 40 years.

His two 1960s television series each lasted just two seasons but have had a long life in reruns and in viewers' memories.

From 1961 to 1963, he played Officer Francis Muldoon in "Car 54, Where Are You," the straight man in a mismatched pair of New York City cops. Joe E. Ross was his short, chubby partner, Officer Gunther Toody, who had a habit of exclaiming "Ooo, ooo!" when excited.

"He was fabulous, absolutely terrific," said Charlotte Rae, who played the wife of Officer Leo Schnauser in "Car 54." "He had a wide range of talent and acting styles."

The following year, Gwynne took up the role of Herman Munster in "The Munsters," playing a comic Frankenstein's monster in the popular CBS series whose two-year run was almost simultaneous with ABC's "The Addams Family."

Herman was the patriarch of a lovably scary family that lived in a cobwebbed mansion and included a vampire for a grandfather (Al Lewis) and a pet dragon named Spot. Gwynne wore green makeup and special boots to boost his 6-foot, 5-inch height.

Lewis, who also played Schnauser in "Car 54," recalled his friend and co-star as a shy, introverted man.

In his varied career, Gwynne also did voices for commercials, which he joked were "the sweetest, most generous thing that could happen to an aging actor."

CURE: Clinton will ultimately get energy plan

excellent opportunities to spur an aggressive assault on the nation's energy ills. Remarkably, both have failed. Together, they are a vivid reminder of how obstinate and entrenched our energy habits (and interests) have become.

Last year, in the afterglow of burning Kuwaiti oil fields, President Bush signed the nation's most comprehensive energy legislation in more than a decade. The need for dramatic action was evident: Three devastating oil shocks within the past 20 years and an unquenchable thirst for oil are driving import levels up from 50 percent today to as much as 70 percent by 2010.

Lost in the hoopla and fanfare surrounding enactment of the energy bill last October, however, was the fact that it will do virtually nothing to reduce oil imports or change significantly the way we use energy.

From the start, the effort was severely constrained by Bush's refusal to acknowledge the impetus for the gulf war — blood for oil — and his equally misleading political pledge, "no new taxes."

Absent White House leadership, the task of altering our nation's energy future fell to a Congress institutionally incapable of resolving problems so regionally divisive. In a classic case of political horsetrading, the principal players on energy hammered out compromise after compromise.

Increased auto fuel efficiency standards were set aside as politically too hot to handle. Efforts to aggressively push alternatives to gasoline, like methanol, natural gas and electricity, were besieged by regulatory exceptions and technical exemptions. These will eviscerate the new requirements, reducing their oil savings to less than 1 percent of current imports.

The lesson was clear: Improving our nation's energy outlook would require bold actions from a committed White House willing to expend political capital. Enter Bill Clinton and his Btu tax.

The much ballyhooed Btu tax would by no means have dramatically affected energy consumption patterns. But it would, for the first time, set in place a pricing preference for lesser polluting fuels. However meager a proposal, it represented a watershed in energy tax policy — a crucial shift from taxing "goods" to taxing "bads." Traditional energy interests were not amused.

They went to work quickly on the president's plan and, joined by other deep-pocket interests, persuaded the House Ways and Means Committee to adopt innumerable loopholes and exemptions. The aluminum industry and manufacturers of chemicals and glass received tax preferences. Farmers won exemptions for diesel fuel and homeowners for heating fuel.

In the most significant change, coal, gas and utility interests successfully assured that consumers, rather than suppliers, would bear the brunt of any new taxes.

By pushing the tax's "point of collection" on to consumers, the industries stripped away the conservation benefits of forcing energy wholesalers to pay a premium for polluting fuels.

For his part, Clinton wheeled and dealed and ultimately retreated in order to keep his economic package afloat. By failing to tie energy taxes more visibly to critical security and environmental objectives, Clinton lost the leverage needed to defend his proposal against the political vultures who picked it apart.

Ultimately, the president will get an energy tax, whether it is an inconsequential transportation tax now favored by the Senate or a slightly broader, face-saving energy sales tax.

Neither offers any substantial improvement in the way we tax and use energy. The greening of American tax policy will have to await a shock larger than the last war and a crisis greater than the current deficit. It will have to await real leadership in the White House and, more likely, a public willing to sober up from its continuing energy binge.

Stolen car crashes into police car

Staff report

Three juveniles were apprehended and another remained at large after a stolen vehicle they were riding in crashed into a police patrol car Friday evening, officials reported.

About 5 p.m., police received a call in reference to Ford Mustang stolen in the 4200 block of Siesta Lane. The car owner told police her car was burglarized, and while looking for the stolen items, the car was stolen.

Police spotted the stolen car a few minutes later and while attempting to stop the vehicle, a pursuit ensued, officials said.

After a minor collision between the police car and the Mustang, four youths fled. Three were caught.

Ages of the youngsters were not available.

Officials at Culver Youth Home refused to disclose whether the juveniles were being detained.

TARGETS: LULAC seeks change

(From 1A)

large method of elections in school districts in Andrews, Bovina, Dumas, Hale Center, Lockney, Lorenzo, Morton and Spur.

LULAC filed lawsuits against many of those cities, too, hoping new election lines could be drawn before May 1994 voting.

Most entities will avoid prolonged fights and opt to draw plans for single-member districts, Rios said. LULAC and others contend single-member districts are more fair than at-large representation.

Most boards and councils — especially in small towns — need only a little prodding to change their election system, he said.

"If LULAC would have presented us with a plan, I don't think there would have been any problem with us adopting it," said Morton Mayor Ray Lewis.

"We are trying to make sure that we have election systems that are fair to everyone in the community," Rios said. "It doesn't have to be single-member just as long as everyone can elect someone of their choice."

Max Joiner, school board president in Lorenzo, 20 miles east of Lubbock, said he first heard several weeks ago that LULAC would target the Lorenzo ISD.

Joiner said he is puzzled by the argument that his school system should move to single-member districts, since Hispanic residents make up more than half of the town's population.

ECONOMY: Administration reduces forecast

(From 1A)

growth of 3.1 percent, but Ms. Tyson said that was scaled back to 2.8 percent after Congress rejected Clinton's proposed economic stimulus package.

The growth figure refers to an increase in the government's Gross Domestic Product, a measure of all goods and services produced in the nation.

Ms. Tyson said she recently had believed that as a result of disappointing statistical reports on the economy for the first three months of the year, the administration probably would have to lower its estimate to about 2.5 percent.

"With the numbers for the second quarter, it is possible it may be slightly short of 2.5 percent," she said.

Ms. Tyson said the new forecast also would revise upward the administration's current estimate that the national unemployment rate would average 6.9 percent this year.

Even the smallest increase, to 7.0 percent, would mean the administration was not expecting any improvement over the remainder of the year.

The Labor Department reported Friday that the jobless rate edged up to 7.0 percent in June from 6.9 percent in May. It had been stuck at 7.0 percent in February, March and April. The unemployment rate started the year at 7.1 percent.

The economy grew in the first three months of this year at a rate of just 0.7 percent, down sharply from 4.7 percent in the final quarter of 1992 before Clinton took office.

Ms. Tyson noted that the administration's projections for the amount of revenue the government will raise this year were based on an assumption of 2.8 percent economic growth for 1993. She said that although growth may be lower than that, revenue losses from weaker economic activity would be offset by reduced costs of government borrowings as a result of lower interest rates.

■ MC extends to Ozona

Beginning this fall, Midland College will offer extension courses in Ozona.

"The addition of Ozona completes the Midland College Southern Triangle area which includes Big Lake and Iraan," said Will Morris, MC division chair of Social and Behaviorial Sciences and director of out-of-district programs.

The expansion of the extension program in this area illustrates the need for college credit courses to be offered closer to home, allowing residents in remote areas to further their educational goals, Morris said.

The courses to be offered include: Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Developmental Studies, English, Government, History, Math and Psychology. Classes will be held in each town's high school. Classes will meet one day a week.

Registration will take place in late August. Students can enroll at any of the extension locations or at the Midland College main campus.

A unified schedule of the course offerings, times and locations will be published in August, Morris said.

For more information, call 685-4640.

Griffin has written three books of poetry: "New Fires," (1982); "The Blue Water Tower," (1984); and "Airspace," (1990). He also wrote "A Gathering of Samphire and Other Stories" (1991) that is a collection of short stories.

■ Child beating

A 2-year-old Midland girl is recovering from injuries sustained after she was beaten 10 days ago, police officials said Friday.

Thomas James Frederick, 34, was arrested on June 23 and charged with felony injury to a child. He was released on bond after his girlfriend — the child's mother — posted the $7,500 bond, according to the child's godfather, who requested anonymity although he appeared on local television earlier this week.

Sgt. John Ingram said the case is still under investigation although he confirmed that abusive incidents have occurred several times in the past.

"The report came through Child Protective Services. The girl was taken to the hospital, mostly for bruises," he said.

■ Drug bust

Nearly 15 pounds of marijuana was confiscated and a 30-year-old man arrested Friday morning in Andrews, according to the Permian Basin Drug Task Force.

Joe Ledesma, who was arrested about 7:30 a.m. at 300 S. Avenue G, remained in jail Friday in lieu of a $35,000 bond, officials said.

Ledesma was arrested after a search warrant was executed by the task force and the Andrews police and sheriff's departments.

More arrests are pending as a result of the search warrant, officials said.

LIST: Gunman enters offices with 3 weapons, grudge, police say

embroiled in a lawsuit in which Pettit & Martin represented his opponents, the San Francisco Chronicle and San Francisco Examiner reported Friday.

Ferri was convinced he was about to lose the dispute and be "cheated out of $300,000," one source told the Examiner. Details of the dispute and the identity of Ferri's legal opponents weren't immediately available.

A partner in the firm told reporters Thursday he saw the man in the offices earlier that day giving a deposition.

Police wouldn't confirm Ferri's name because they had not yet contacted his family and because they found more than one driver license on his body with slightly different names, said San Francisco Coronor Boyd Stevens.

Mayor Frank Jordan identified him as Gian Luigi Ferri. Department of Motor Vehicle records in Sacramento list his name as Gianluigi Ettore Ferri.

At a news conference, police gave this description of the attack:

Just before 3 p.m., Ferri walked calmly through the lobby of the granite-and-glass skyscraper with two semiautomatic TEC-9 9mm assault weapons strapped to his suspenders, concealed by a suit jacket. He also carried a .45 caliber pistol, and had hundreds of rounds of ammunition hidden in the briefcase strapped to a dolly.

He rode the elevator to the 34th floor offices of Pettit & Martin where he "shed his coat and began to prepare for battle," said police Inspector Napoleon Hendrix.

"He walked in without a word and started shooting," he said.

Ferri then worked his way down five floors, firing 50 to 100 rounds. The TEC-9 machine pistols were fitted with an adaptor to increase their rate of fire, but hadn't been converted to full automatic.

Some of the victims were on a list of 50 names he carried with him, according to the newspapers. Hendrix refused to comment on the note, saying it was being analyzed in a laboratory.

Finally, Ferri was trapped in a stairwell by members of a special police team coming up from below. He made eye contact with officers, then continued upward.

But officers were above him, too. That, police said, was when Ferri killed himself. Police found his body between the 29th and 30th floors.

Ferri apparently arrived with his arsenal in a mid-80s black Cadillac found in a nearby parking garage, Hendrix said.

Six of his victims were found dead inside the building. Two others died at San Francisco General Hospital. The bodies were found on the 34th, 38rd and 31st floors, police spokesman Dave Ambrose said.

The wounded were recovering in hospitals.

Ferri purchased two TEC-9 pistols earlier this year in the Las Vegas area, one on April 25 at Nellis Super Pawn and the other May 9 at Pacific Tactical Weapons, according to Marjorie Love of the Las Vegas Metro Police. It wasn't immediately known if those were the guns used in the shooting.

Poor school districts file appeal with Texas Supreme Court

AUSTIN (AP) — Property-poor school districts sought to change the new education finance law before school opens by appealing to the Texas Supreme Court Friday for help.

Attorneys for poor districts seek to overrule State District Judge F. Scott McCown of Austin, who denied them a June hearing on the new law.

The measure, which is to go into effect this fall, gives the state's richest school districts several options for sharing some wealth with poorer ones.

The attorneys say the new law has as many problems as the current law, which has been ruled unconstitutional. They are seeking a court hearing to express their opposition and require a new way of distributing state education aid.

'Under the new bill, poor districts are going to be far behind where they were last year.'

— Al Kaufmann, attorney

"If this plan goes into effect, hundreds of schools are going to have to slice their budgets while the richer schools do just fine," said Buck Wood, who is representing 87 poor districts. "Some school districts are losing 5, 6 and 10 percent of their entire budget."

Wood said he didn't expect any school districts to close because of the new law, and that support staff would be laid off before teachers. But he said the pain is "significant."

"Under the new bill, poor districts are going to be far behind where they were last year," said Al Kauffman of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, representing a separate group of 13 poor school districts in the suit.

State lawyers defend the law as constitutional and say it should be given a chance to work.

The new law is the latest effort to meet a Texas Supreme Court order to even out funding available to school districts that tax locally at similar rates. Schools rely on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Two previous attempts to meet the court order have been found unconstitutional.

Officials have acknowledged that the Legislature didn't put in enough new state money to cover enrollment growth at current per-student spending levels. Poor districts contend that the state aid distribution system hurts districts with little property more than richer districts.

Radical sheik surrenders to federal agents

NEW YORK (AP) — Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman left a mosque Friday surrounded by followers chanting "God is Great!" and turned himself over to immigration officials, ending a tense, 20-hour standoff with authorities.

Abdel-Rahman, whose followers are accused in the World Trade Center bombing and a foiled plot to assassinate political figures and blow up buildings and tunnels in Manhattan, was taken into custody after INS officials revoked his parole on immigration charges.

A group of Hasidic Jews standing behind police barricades shouted "Go to hell!" and "Drop dead!" as the blind cleric, surrounded by aides, walked slowly across the street and into an INS command post.

About 45 minutes later the sheik and his lawyer were taken away in an Immigration and Naturalization Service van.

Sgt. John McCluskey, a spokesman for the New York Police Department, said the sheik was driven to a federal facility in Otisville, N.Y., about 75 miles northwest of the city.

In Washington, administration officials said the decision to revoke Abdel-Rahman's parole status was based on an attempt Wednesday night to elude surveillance.

"The van in which he was riding made evasive maneuvers like they were trying to lose their tail," said one official, who spoke on condition of condition.

U.S. Attorney Mary Jo White in Manhattan called Attorney General Janet Reno on Thursday morning and expressed the fear that Abdel-Rahman might be going underground, the official said. As late as Tuesday, Reno had said it was in the best interest of law enforcement to let the sheik remain free.

The sheik was to remain in federal custody pending a decision on the government's effort to deport him.

Earlier in the day, the sheik gave a "kind of goodbye speech" to several hundred supporters in which he counseled against violence and proclaimed his innocence, according to an observer in Brooklyn's Abu Bakr mosque.

The anonymous observer said the sheik made no direct reference to surrender in his half-hour sermon, but told the congregants, some of whom were sobbing: "I might not stand in front of you again."

Haitian military agrees to tread democratic road

NEW YORK (AP) — Haiti's military leader accepted a U.N. plan to restore democracy to the Caribbean nation and return ousted President Jean-Bertrand Aristide to power on Oct. 30, a spokesman said Friday.

Acceptance of the plan by Haitian leader Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras had been considered the major obstacle in the talks that began last Sunday. Cedras had insisted on retaining a role for the military, at least during a transition period.

He finally agreed, however, that the army high command and the chief of police, Col. Joseph Michel Francois, would step down.

Details were being worked out and official acceptance by the military was expected later Friday, said Serge Charles, a spokesman for Cedras.

"Our conclusion is that it is acceptable, notwithstanding some small details which need to be worked out," Charles said.

Chief U.N. spokesman Joe Sills emphasized the problems on the military side were "indeed, small details, not a cover for real problems." He said the United Nations was preparing for talks over the weekend.

U.N. mediator Dante Caputo met Friday with Aristide delegates in hopes of securing their approval as well.

An Aristide spokesman praised the U.N. plan but said negotiations were continuing over the timing of the military's resignation.

"It contains all of the elements that are necessary for the restoration of democracy in Haiti," said Jean Casimir, Aristide's ambassador to the United States.

In Haiti, there was little reaction to the news broadcast Friday morning. Haitians have seen many fits and starts in the negotiations since the 1991 coup.

A prominent Aristide supporter in Haiti, the Rev. Gerard Jean-Juste, said he was encouraged by the army's acceptance of the plan. But he said the world community would have to keep pressure on Haiti's armed forces.

Towns hit by base closings to receive funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton is promising $5 billion to help communities cope with the economic aftershocks of military base closings, including $1 million or more for each town losing a major installation.

The aim is to "open a new and brighter future for the affected workers and their communities," Clinton said, but he added, "I cannot promise that every job will be saved." He said it would be "a great test for our nation" to stand by the communities that have hosted American military bases for decades.

The president unveiled the community assistance program Friday as he approved an independent commission's recommendation that the Pentagon close 129 bases and realign 46 others.

Clinton called the five-year plan "the least we can do for the communities and the people who supported our troops." All of the money would come from previously announced "defense conversion" initiatives or from other areas of the administration's budget request.

The base closings, part of the U.S. effort to reduce military spending in the post-Cold War era, will become final unless vetoed by Congress within 45 working days.

Health plan still leaves large companies in limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton is still deciding whether large companies should be allowed to out of the regional insurance-purchasing cooperatives envisioned in his health care plan, White House officials said Friday.

But even if big corporations are allowed to keep their own health insurance plans, they still would be subject to some of the same rules as the small businesses in the cooperatives, officials said.

The Los Angeles Times reported Friday that President Clinton had decided that nobody would be allowed to opt out of the national health program.

"There is no decision," said Robert Boorstin, a spokesman for Clinton's health advisers.

Most major companies are self-insured and have lobbied to keep their own employee health plans.

The cooperatives would allow businesses and individuals to choose from a variety of health plans, but all would include a standard, comprehensive package of benefits.

Boorstin said that whether big companies are in or outside the insurance purchasing alliances, they would still have to meet new federal standards. "That doesn't mean they won't have the power to structure benefits for their workers," he said.

Another White House official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said large, multi-state employers may be allowed to serve as their own alliance.

Youths who tried to poison teacher receive sentences

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — They tried to poison their teacher's iced tea and trip her down the stairs, all because they thought she was too strict.

On Friday, seven sixth-graders were sentenced to 48 hours of community service and placed on indefinite probation for their efforts. Juvenile Court Judge Aaron Cohn also forbade the seven from associating with each other.

"If these children had been more sophisticated, I am afraid we could have had a big tragedy in the community," Cohn said.

All had pleaded guilty the day before to reckless conduct, a misdemeanor that's more serious that the disorderly conduct charges filed when they were arrested last month.

On Friday, the three girls and four boys from Georgetown Elementary School filed into the Muscogee County courtroom and sat down facing nine of their parents. Also in the courtroom was the teacher, Sherry James.

One boy, about a foot and a half shorter than the others, had a pixie haircut and was too short to touch the floor with his feet when seated. He was one of two children who apologized.

A girl said: "I'm really sorry. I know what I did was wrong." Her lawyer stopped her when she put her face in her hands and began sobbing.

Adoptive parents lose two-year-old to biological family

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A 2-year-old girl must leave the couple who raised her since birth and go back to the biological parents she never knew, Michigan's top court ruled Friday in an interstate custody dispute.

The state Supreme Court ordered the bright-eyed, brown-haired girl sent back to Daniel and Cara Schmidt in Iowa, saying Michigan courts have no jurisdiction in the case.

The 6-1 ruling gives Jan and Roberta DeBoer of Ann Arbor, who call the girl Jessica, until Aug. 2 to surrender her to the Schmidts, who call her Anna.

"While cognizant of the heartache which this decision will ultimately cause, this court is presented with no other option than that dictated by the law in this state," the court said.

"It is now time for the adults to move beyond saying that their only concern is the welfare of the child and put those words into action by assuring that the transfer of custody is accomplished promptly with minimum disruption of the life of the child," the court said.

Neither family immediately returned phone calls seeking comment.

Muslim rampage erupts in Turkey, dozens perish

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — At least 35 people were killed when Muslim extremists set fire to a hotel hosting leftist writers, including an author who published excerpts from Salman Rushdie's novel, "The Satanic Verses."

The attack, which left scores wounded, was the worst outburst so far of religious extremist violence in Turkey, a predominantly Muslim nation with a secular government.

Most of the victims died of smoke inhalation after the rioters torched the hotel in Sivas, 275 miles east of Ankara, state television reported.

Disclosing the latest toll figure, Interior Minister Mehmet Gazioglu said it was lower than the 40 originally reported. He said 60 people were wounded, not 145 reported earlier by a private television station.

The minister said 14 of the injured were policemen. Thirty-five people were detained, he said.

Gazioglu blamed the left-wing writer, Aziz Nesin, for the rampage, saying he provoked the public by openly flaunting his atheism in a speech Thursday.

The semiofficial Anatolia news agency said an indefinite curfew was imposed, and troops were patrolling the streets of this city of 800,000 people, which has a fundamentalist mayor.

French threaten to kill agreement at trade summit

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — France on Friday threatened to block at next week's summit of industrialized nations any effort to approve a deal aimed at restarting world trade talks.

French Foreign Minister Alain Juppe said his country would oppose any move by world leaders at the Tokyo summit to adopt an agreement to lower tariffs on a wide range of manufactured goods and services.

He also said the European Community would refuse to make any concessions in trade talks as long as the United States maintained punitive duties on European steel.

Juppe spoke to reporters after the 12-country trading bloc held discussions about trade issues that may dominate the summit of leaders of the United States, Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy and Japan.

The United States, Japan, Canada and the community have been trying to negotiate a tariff-cutting accord that could be unveiled at the summit to revive the stalled Uruguay Round of world trade talks.

But France fears that a side deal could be reached on tariffs that it does not like.

Battles explode in several former Soviet republics

BAKU, Azerbaijan (AP) — Azerbaijani and Armenian forces engaged in fierce battles on Friday, and violent clashes erupted in two other former Soviet republics troubled by chronic unrest.

The fighting centered around Fizuli, a city located along a key road to the Azerbaijani enclave of Nakhichevan.

The two countries have been fighting since 1988 over Nagorno-Karabakh, a region located in Azerbaijan but inhabited mostly by Armenians. Armenian forces have scored major victories in the past year, and last week they seized Azerbaijan's last foothold in the enclave, the city of Mardakert.

This freed Armenian fighters to focus on other military goals, and Azerbaijan has been so convulsed by political turmoil that its forces have been unable to stop the latest Armenian offensive.

Armenian troops have long wanted to seize the main road through Fizuli, inside Azerbaijan proper. Control of the route would allow Armenia to further isolate Nakhichevan, which is separated from the rest of Azerbaijan by a strip of Armenian territory.

Azerbaijan's battlefield failures played a role in its political crisis.

Boat sinks during religious festival; at least 141 die

BOCAUE, Philippines (AP) — A floating shrine packed with hundreds of worshipers sank Friday during rehearsals for a religious procession. Police said at least 141 people died.

Officials were uncertain how many people were aboard the shrine, made of three barges with an altar and crucifix mounted on them.

But Mayor Serafin dela Cruz estimated about 300 people were on board. He said about 90 people were listed as missing.

The tragedy occurred Friday evening as townspeople were taking part in a nine-day religious festival in honor of the province's patron saint. The festival ends Sunday in this town about 20 miles north of Manila.

Survivors said a priest was leading the worshipers in prayer when the overloaded shrine began to sink. As the priest shouted for people not to panic, the shrine tilted and capsized.

Marshall an Oiler

HOUSTON (AP) — Three months in football limbo ended for Wilber Marshall on Friday when NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue ruled the All-Pro linebacker has a valid contract with the Houston Oilers.

At the same time, Tagliabue reduced the draft choice compensation due the Washington Redskins for Marshall, ruling his old team improperly interfered in the negotiations.

Orginally, Marshall had been designated a franchise player by Washington under terms of the new collective bargaining agreement between the NFL and its players. When the Redskins could not sign him, they released Marshall from the franchise status, permitting him to talk with other teams. If he signed, a trade would be arranged.

Marshall's talks took him to Houston but on the verge of a contract worth a reported $2.9 million, Oilers owner Bud Adams changed his mind and called off the deal. Tagliabue ruled, however, that the player and the Oilers had reached a binding agreement on June 2.

New trial ordered

DALLAS (AP) — Los Angeles Raiders linebacker Aaron Wallace, who was ordered to pay $225,000 to a woman who claimed he sexually assaulted her, will get a new trial.

State District Judge Eric Moye ordered the new trial Thursday after attorneys for the player submitted sworn statements from jurors who said they had considered some results from a lie-detector test which had been ruled inadmissible.

The civil verdict was awarded after a February trial, during which the woman testified she had passed a polygraph. Moye instructed the jurors to ignore the testimony.

However, jurors interviewed later said the lie-detector results were discussed.

The judge had rejected the same request in March and entered a judgment in the woman's favor, reducing the damages to $18,250.

Aggie scholarships lapse

■ Running back Greg Hill is among a group of seven Texas A&M athletes who may have to foot their own bill for college after receiving improper payments from a booster.

Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION — Seven Texas A&M football players declared ineligible because they accepted improper payments from a booster may have to pay their own way.

Hill

Football coach R.C. Slocum says their scholarships were not renewed Thursday, the NCAA deadline for annual renewal of scholarships.

However, that could change by fall.

Slocum told the Bryan-College Station Eagle that he will consider renewing the scholarships as soon as the school finishes investigating the matter.

The investigation's end is predicted to come just before the 1993 season.

All of the players, including star running back Greg Hill, have admitted Dallas booster Warren A. Gilbert Jr. paid them for work they didn't do.

The other players included starters, wide receiver Brian Mitchell and linebacker Jessie Cox.

Reserves James Brooks, Billy Mitchell, Percy Singleton and Darius Smith also were declared ineligible.

The decision is not a declaration of guilt, Slocum said.

"What we're really trying to do is sort out the individual's involvement and how they responded throughout the investigation — the comments they made and how forthcoming they were.

"I've got no problem renewing the scholarships at the appropriate time, if, when everything is considered, it looks like that is the right thing to do," Slocum

All-American final highlights Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England — Wimbledon will have an all-American final on the Fourth of July.

Pete Sampras and Jim Courier upset two former Wimbledon champions Friday and reached the final of the Grand Slam tournament for the first time.

Sampras, playing flawless grass-court tennis, took apart three-time champion Boris Becker 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, 6-4. Courier, counter-punching from the baseline, came from behind to beat two-time champion Stefan Edberg 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

It's the first all-American final since John McEnroe beat Jimmy Connors for the title in 1984.

"It's particularly special to think I'm there and I'll be playing another Yank on the Fourth of July," Courier said. "It's just really exciting. It's more than I ever expected."

Courier has won the French Open and Australian Open twice but has never had much success on the grass at Wimbledon. He was a decided underdog against Edberg, perhaps the game's most natural grass-court player.

"It feels strange," Courier said. "It feels like the first time I got to the French Open final ... I'm surprised more than anything else. I thought I'd be playing golf tomorrow afternoon."

The biggest surprise was Courier.

He used his attacking baseline game to keep Edberg off balance, not allowing him to control the game with his serve and volley. Courier kept up the pressure on Edberg's serve, winning key points with crushing cross-court returns.

Courier was down a set and 0-2 when he started his comeback. He broke Edberg three times to win the second set and twice to capture the third.

The two were even on serve in the fourth set until Courier broke at 5-4 to finish the match. He squandered four match points before ripping a forehand return winner on the fifth.

Price's 71 leads Western

Associated Press

LEMONT, Ill. — Nick Price finished off his conservative 71 early in the day and retained the lead Friday in the storm-delayed and uncompleted second round of the Western Open.

■ Western Open

The afternoon storm halted play for 3¼ hours and eventually caused 51 players to be stranded on the course by darkness.

They marked their positions on the rain-soaked par-72 Dubsdread course at Cog Hill and were scheduled to return at 7:30 a.m. (CDT) Saturday to complete the second round.

The third round will be played as scheduled Saturday afternoon — weather permitting.

And it very well may not permit. The forecast for the Chicago area calls for afternoon thunderstorms for the next five days.

It will not be a problem for John Daly and U.S. Open champion Lee Janzen. Although the figure for the cut to play the last rounds will not be established until the second round is completed, both are certain to miss it.

Daly included a five-putt triple-bogey on his 15th hole of the day on the way to a 77 and was seven over par at 151.

Janzen, making his first competitive start since winning the Open two weeks ago, had a 74 and was at 147.

Of the players still on the course, Grant Waite of New Zealand, the recent winner of the Kemper Open, and Greg Norman were in the best position to challenge Price's leading total of 135, nine under par.

Waite was four under for the day and eight under for the tournament, one behind Price, with three holes to play.

"Cog Hill is playing about as easy as it can play," said Waite, who did not make a bogey in the 15 holes he played.

Norman, runner-up in this event each of the last two years and four times overall, was another stroke back. He has two holes to go to complete the round.

While Waite said he was looking forward to Saturday's play, Norman had a different view.

"It will be a terrible day," he said. "We've got to be out here at daylight, finish, then leave and come back in the afternoon. It'll be a long, hard day."

Price acknowledged he played a little on the conservative side after opening up with a 64.

Pritchett blast seals Angel win in ninth

■ Midland third baseman Chris Pritchett breaks a 1-1 tie in the bottom of the ninth as the Angels win their third straight.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

It has all the makings of a Hollywood blockbuster film. A young, up-and-coming player striving to make it to the big leagues hits a one-out, two-run home run in the bottom of the ninth for the win. Fireworks could go off as the ball hits the stadium lights. Naturally, Robert Redford could play the lead.

Minus the stadium lights and Redford, and with the fireworks instead set for tonight, the Midland Angels made their own sequel to the baseball lovers flick on Friday night as first baseman Chris Pritchett blasted the first pitch off reliever Renay Bryand with Brian Grebeck aboard for a come-from-behind 3-1 win over the Wichita Wranglers as Angels Stadium.

With the win, Midland, which has won six of its last eight, stays two games behind El Paso, a 4-1 winner over San Antonio. Wichita has dropped four straight and its last five to Midland, dating back to June 10 when the Angels won three from the Wranglers in Wichita.

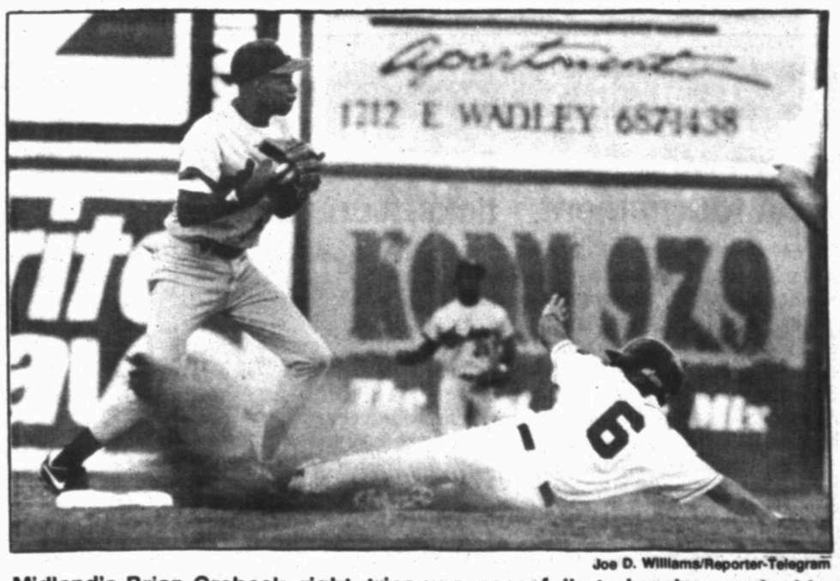

The shot by Pritchett overshadowed a pitchers duel between Midland ace John Fritz and Bill Wengert of Wichita. Fritz, voted into the Double-A All-Star Game, July 12 in Memphis, went the distance for the second time this season, scattering eight hits, walking two and striking out five. His complete game was only the fifth by the Angel staff this season.

"Basically I didn't think about (being in a pitcher's duel)," said Fritz. "I was just trying not to give more than one run.

"Chris Pritchett is the man of the hour. I enjoyed watching him hit a 600 foot home run."

"I've done it (hit a game-winning home run in the bottom of the ninth) a couple of times before, but each time is special," said Pritchett.

The home run in the ninth came after Wichita manager Dave Trembley pulled starter Bill Wengert. Wengert overpowered the Angel bats through the first eight innings, allowing one run, which came in the fifth inning as Emmitt Cohick scored Pritchett from third on a fielders choice.

Young Yanks shout down locals at Wimbledon

By George Vecsey
N.Y. Times News Service

WIMBLEDON, England — Bad day for the European Community. Those Yanks, those crude and violent Yanks, are advancing. Those civilized champions from the Old World are falling by the wayside.

Much will be made in Britain that on the Fourth of July there will be two Yanks in the Wimbledon singles final.

One of them is Pete Sampras, who fired a tennis ball into the stratosphere earlier this week to say a warm and fuzzy and vulgar farewell to the obscurity of Court 14.

The other Yank is Jim Courier, who fires off the odd obscenity in public and kicked a tennis ball like a soccer midfielder and Friday offered to do a little "one-on-one interview" with a persistent questioner.

Let's face it, people expect it of Yanks. This is why they have the "others" passport line at the airport. Soccer hooligans? What soccer hooligans? No wonder they like Stefan Edberg, a Swede, and Boris Becker, a German. No wonder the crowd was mute as it filed out of Center Court Friday afternoon. Bad day for the home boys.

Becker and his black German fiancee, Barbara Feltus, are said to be searching for an apartment in London, where they can escape the racial pressures of a changing Germany. Becker could have squeezed in some apartment-viewing Friday, so rapid was his loss to Sampras: 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, 6-4, in 2 hours and 14 minutes.

Edberg already lives in London, along with his wife, Annette, who expects their first child any day now. Edberg loves the way he can move around without being harassed. He even loves the London weather. Around tea time Friday he surely wished he had the benefit of some of it. He went out to Courier, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, in 2 hours and 40 minutes.

Two champions, one a current Londoner, one a potential Londoner, knocked out by Yanks. It might just be a coincidence, but it could also be a trend.

The generations turn over fast. There hasn't been an all-American final since two particularly crude and violent types named McEnroe and Connors went at it in 1984. Since then it has been the Becker-Edberg era, and that era may have ended Friday afternoon on the scorched earth of London SW19.

Becker was an appealing young lout of 17, bushy-haired and tumbling like a soccer goalie, when he first won Wimbledon in 1985. He didn't know any better. He just lunged at everything. He won it again in 1986 and again in 1989, but now he carries the injustices of the world on his shoulders.

He speaks out against racism. He speaks out against violence. He speaks out against fascism. He speaks out against pollution. He cuts his hair. He changes wardrobes. He is a man trying to grow up in public, and he doesn't take as many pratfalls on the court, even though he had a modest welt on his elbow Friday.

He played a brutal five-set grudge match with Michael Stich into Wednesday evening, and his legs turned up a trifle leaden Friday. Boris Becker is 25 years old. He conceded that he wouldn't have minded another Wimbledon title, now that he is mature enough to appreciate what it all means.

"Well, I was winning as a teen-ager, and now I'm a man," Becker said. "Of course, there's a big difference here, and also the time gap, about nine, 10 years, since I've been playing. Yes, of course, it would have been very different."

Edberg is 27 and he has seen players his age suffer terminal burnout. He won this tournament in 1988 and again in 1990 after a runner-up finish in 1989. Friday he mused, "It's amazing that Borg did it five times in a row."

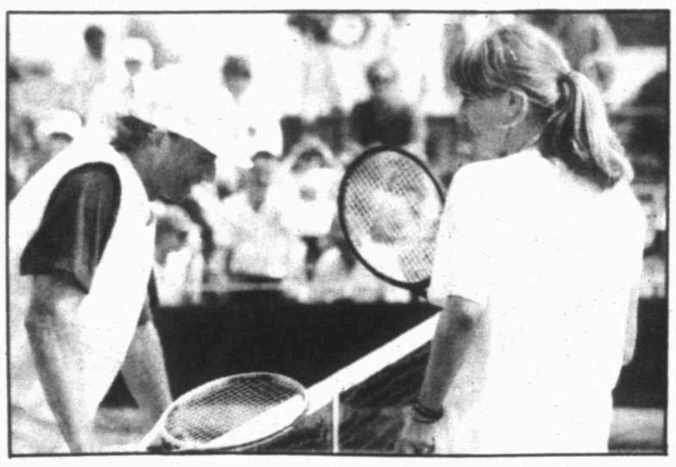

He could feel mortality settling in on him. He netted an easy backhand and an easy forehand while being broken at the end of the third set. Later he said with a rueful smile, "I didn't think those shots existed, but they did."

Edberg is one of the gracious people in sports, not that grace is in style these days. He was given the chance to blame the hard-baked courts Friday and he said, "I wasn't serving well enough."

He has noted that his courtly personality is not exciting fare for the tabloid press. He said he visits a newsstand in Fulham to pick up the Swedish papers to read about himself. Would Edberg go out for papers Saturday? "They are a day late," he said with a grin. "I can't read them Sunday."

Becker and Edberg are both bright enough to wonder if there will ever be another Wimbledon title, now that Sampras and Courier stand in there and whale away at timid serves.

"Perhaps so, but we're not finished yet, Boris and I," Edberg said. The European fans, filing out morosely, hoped he was right.

Novotna has travelled hard road to finals

Associated Press

WIMBLEDON, England — If Jana Novotna manages to win the Wimbledon title, she will have done it the hard way.

To get to Saturday's final, she had to knock out nine-time champion Martina Navratilova.

Now she has the even tougher task of beating Steffi Graf, the world's top-ranked player, the top seed and the titlist four times in the past five years.

According to Navratilova, a 6-4, 6-4 loser to Novotna on Thursday, the No. 8 seed has the game to pull it off.

"If she plays like she did today, she can definitely win in the final," the 36-year-old American said. "I don't think the occasion will overwhelm her. I think she'll put on a really good show."

This is not Novotna's first appearance in a Grand Slam final. In 1991, she was runner-up to Monica Seles at the Australian Open, beating Graf along the way.

But this is a new experience for her at Wimbledon, where she had never previously advanced past the quarterfinals.

"Getting into the final really does mean a lot to me," the 24-year-old Czech said. "I think what means even more to me is this was the first time I've beaten Martina in my whole career. I've beaten her at Wimbledon, at the Centre Court, and I've beaten her on grass, So this is unbelievable."

Right now, beating Graf would be an even bigger achievement.

The German regained the No. 1 ranking because of Monica Seles' inactivity after she was stabbed on court by a fan in Hamburg at the end of April.

■ Wimbeldon Women's Singles Final, Steffi Graf vs. Jana Novotna, 8 a.m., NBC (KTPX-Ch. 9).

Graf's record at Wimbledon shows four victories in five appearances in the final. She is rated the 2-9 favorite to win her third Wimbledon title in a row.

Graf, who just turned 24, has a 16-3 career record over Novotna and has beaten her twice on the Wimbledon grass. Novotna's victories have been on carpet or hard courts.

Graf has won their last five meetings but Novotna has taken a set off her the last four times they played.

If Novotna can maintain the form she showed against Navratilova, it should be a close final. Even Graf thinks so.

"She's got the talent. She's got the game," said the top seed, who beat Conchita Martinez in straight sets in the other semifinal. "We had a lot of close matches last year, and I never could figure why she was unable to get beyond that. But I guess she has figured it out now."

Novotna has an ideal style for the fast grass courts. She has a serve and volley game, makes good use of angles and, against Navratilova, looked solid at the net.

Graf will hope her powerful ground strokes keep Novotna away from the net and she will make full use of her speed around the court.

WIMBLEDON: Former champions fall

(From 1B)

Sampras, meanwhile, rode a brilliant serve-and-volley game to a suprisingly one-sided victory over the man who has virtually owned Centre Court for nearly a decade.

"Today, I thought I played about as well as I could and Boris was just a little bit off on his serve," Sampras said. "I think this was my best match so far on grass."

Showing no signs of the shoulder injury that nearly forced him to skip the tournament, Sampras served 12 aces and never lost serve during the match. He saved six break points, four in the first set and two in the last game.

The match ended in appropriate fashion — Sampras ripping a big serve down the middle and putting away a backhand volley.

Even though he was the top seed, Sampras was not the favorite to win the tournament or to beat the No. 4 Becker, who won here in 1985, 1986 and 1989 and was runner-up three times.

But Sampras put on the performance of a champion today, serving powerfully, volleying cleanly and returning well enough to break Becker twice. He was especially dominant at the net, where he won 24 points, compared to just 10 for Becker.

"Today he played no loose shots," Becker said. "He didn't give me any free points. If he plays the way he did today, he can win the final."

Sampras' superiority had Becker muttering and screaming at himself in frustration. At one point in the second set, Becker lost his temper over a line call and shouted at chair umpire Wayne McKewen, "You have to watch a little bit. You've called them all wrong."

While Becker had 14 aces, his serve also let him down at crucial moments as he hit 12 double faults.

"I didn't have the best timing on my serve today," Becker said. "The problem was my legs. They weren't as strong as they were in other matches."

Becker said he suffered an emotional and physical letdown after his five-set quarterfinal victory Wednesday over Michael Stich, a match which lasted more than four hours.

"I was a step slow today," he said. "I didn't move as well as I have been in the last couple of matches. The match with Stich was too tough maybe. The whole tournament was tough for me. From the first round, I had tough opponents."

Becker said it was "very hard to believe" that Sampras had a shoulder problem. Indeed, the American served at an average speed of 113 mph, with a top serve clocked at 124 mph.

"I was not feeling any pain out there today," Sampras said. "I now know that I'm going to be fine for Sunday."

In the women's final Saturday, top-seeded Steffi Graf will face No. 8 Jana Novotna.

Novotna was a 6-4, 6-4 upset winner over Martina Navratilova, ruining her bid for a 10th title and raising questions about whether she will return next year.

"I'll be back," Navratilova said she told the crowd while walking off Centre Court. "It wouldn't feel right to finish on this note."

NOTE: Andre Agassi may have lost at Wimbledon, but he's still No. 1 in the hearts of British women.

In a Gallup poll of the most exciting sports stars, 25 percent picked the flamboyant American.

Agassi won by more than 2-1 over all British athletes, including race driver Nigel Mansell, boxer Frank Bruno and sprinter Linford Christie.

Agassi is also outselling the rest of the field by more than 5-1 at the Wimbledon book store. Six souvenir postcards featuring Agassi — all taken before he had his chest hair removed — are the best seller at 37 cents apiece.

Stefan Edberg is second, but last year's finalist, Goran Ivanisevic, who was eliminated in the fourth round, is making a run.

"Goran's getting quite a little fan club now," said shop manager Maureen Allen. "A lot of little girls like Goran."

NUMBER ONE: If Jim Courier beats Pete Sampras in Sunday's final, he'll regain the No. 1 world ranking. Sampras has been No. 1 for the past 12 weeks. A win would give Courier 4,024 ATP ratings points, while Sampras will have 4,020, making it the closest margin between the top two players since the ATP "Best 14" ranking system began in 1990.

Sampras has beaten Courier seven of nine times. Another Sampras victory would boost his lead over Courier, 4,197-3,842.

added.

"I couldn't renew them all, and then go back in August and say I want to cancel this one and that one. You're already locked into them for the next year."

Slocum said he told the players and their parents of his decision not to renew the scholarships on Wednesday.

NCAA rules allow players to appeal when their scholarships are not renewed. Slocum said none of the players or their parents mentioned the possibility of appealing.

In an initial report to the NCAA, the university declared four players ineligible. University officials asked the NCAA to restore the players' eligibility on the condition that two players miss at least two games this season.

"This would not absolve any penalties they would get from the NCAA," Slocum said. "I don't think that part of it has changed. There will be some penalties with all of these kids."

It is still possible that some of the players will be able to play, Slocum said, if they have their scholarships renewed and serve any NCAA penalties.

Hill, Brooks, Singleton and Smith were declared ineligible before Texas A&M played Notre Dame in the Mobil Cotton Bowl.

Billy Mitchell was declared ineligible later, and Cox and Brian Mitchell were declared ineligible in May.

All seven players remained on scholarship and participated in spring drills.

Players told investigators that they were paid for work they never did at a Dallas apartment complex owned by Gilbert. One player told investigators that Gilbert gave him $400 for rent and utilities, even though the player could not work for the money.

Gilbert, who denied knowledge of the improper payments, has been disassociated from Aggie athletics by A&M president William H. Mobley for at least one year.

Hill is a two-time all-Southwest Conference running back, the first player in SWC history to rush for more than 1,000 yards in each of his first two seasons. The junior is a preseason All-American this year.

Harrison was second on the team with 22 receptions last season, and he led the Aggies with four touchdown catches. The senior is a two-year starter who topped the squad last season with an average of 20.6 yards per reception.

Cox started the last two games of 1992 at inside linebacker as a sophomore. He led the Aggies with 17 tackles against Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

Trembley inserted Bryand, a left-hander with an 0.59 ERA in nine games against Midland this season. After Mark Sweeney grounded to Bryand for the first out of the inning, Grebeck hit a single down the first base line before Pritchett's homer.

Despite the outcome, Trembley remained firm on his decision.

"(Wengert) was up in his pitch count. He had pitched a great game and Midland had a string of left handers due up," said Trembley. "It was a well-pitched game on both sides. Renay threw a slider that I'm sure he wished he could have back."

Pritchett, who hit .380 during the month of June, went two-for-three with with two runs and two RBI, was looking for a slider from the left-hander.

"I hadn't had much luck against him (Bryand) in the past," said Pritchett. "I knew that the slider was his best pitch and I was looking for it. I've faced him before and I've looked for the slider before and not hit it, but this time I did."

Game three of the series is today (7 p.m.),with Shad Williams (5-5, 4.99) starting for Midland and Andres Beruman (1-0, 1.29) getting the nod for Wichita. Williams was the top starter during the last 12-game road trip, going 1-1 with a 1.80 ERA in starts against El Paso and San Antonio. Beruman will be making his second start for the Wranglers after being sent to Wichita in the Gary Sheffield trade that sent the former Padre to the Florida Marlins.

ANGEL NOTES: Contrary to Friday's pitching gem, the Angels and Wichita are ranked at the bottom of the Texas League pitching category with 4.42 and 4.58 team ERA's. ... Tonight will be the first of two consecutive nights that fireworks will follow the game, approximately 12-15 minutes after the final pitch. ... The Angels added third baseman Todd Claus to the roster, replacing the injured Mark Brakebill. Brakebill suffered a broken left wrist after being hit by a pitch during a game against San Antonio and will be out 4-6 weeks. Claus was called up from Palm Springs, where he hit .190 with one home run, eight RBI's and 25 stolen bases in 42 games.

Young's streak reaches quarter century mark

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Anthony Young's luck continued to be all bad Friday night as he extended his major-league record to 25 consecutive losses for New York, falling to San Francisco 3-1 in a game shortened to five innings by rain.

Manager Dallas Green has said Young (0-11) will stay in the starting rotation until the All-Star break, starting July 12. The right-hander is 0-19 in night games and 0-6 in day contests during the streak.

A rain-shortened loss was a new one for Young, though. The game started in a drizzle and there was a delay of 1 hour, 40 minutes after the bottom of the fifth before the game was called.

It was the first time, however, that the Giants beat Young during the streak. Last Sunday, he broke Cliff Curtis' 82-year-old record with a loss to St. Louis.

Kirt Manwaring and Darren Lewis each had RBI singles in the fourth inning for the Giants. San Francisco increased its lead to eight games over Atlanta in the NL West.

Pirates 10, Reds 9

CINCINNATI — Don Slaught hit a pair of three-run homers and drove in a career-high seven runs, rallying the Pittsburgh Pirates over Cincinnati in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Reds chased winless Zane Smith in the fourth, pounding him for eight hits and a 7-3 lead. But Slaught brought the Pirates back with the second two-homer game of his career.

His three-run homer off John Smiley made it 7-6 in the fourth, and he capped a four-run rally an inning later with another homer off Bobby Ayala (3-4), his sixth of the season.

Dave Otto (3-4) gave up a pair of runs over 2 2-3 innings, including Kevin Mitchell's solo homer that cut the lead to 10-9 in the seventh. Stan Belinda pitched the ninth for his 15th save.

Barry Larkin homered and drove in three runs, and Juan Samuel had a pair of triples and a single as the Reds rolled to the early lead against Smith. It was by far the worst of Smith's four winless starts since returning from shoulder surgery: eight hits, seven earned runs in 3 2-3 innings.

Marlins 4, Braves 2

ATLANTA — Chris Hammond won his eighth straight decision by pitching three-hit ball over 7⅓ innings as the Florida Marlins beat the Atlanta Braves.

Hammond (10-4) struck out two and walked three before being replaced by Matt Turner with Bill Pecota on first base. Otis Nixon hit a double off Turner, and when the ball got by right fielder Darrell Whitmore, Pecota scored and Nixon went to third.

■ NL Roundup

Astros 7, Cardinals 1

HOUSTON — Scott Servais hit a three-run homer to help the Houston Astros cool off the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was only the Cardinals' second loss in their last nine games.

Mark Portugal (6-3) was the winner, giving up one run and eight hits while striking out eight in seven innings.

Joe Magrane (7-7) held Houston hitless until the fourth, when the Astros scored five runs on four hits. Magrane, who had a five-game winning streak snapped, gave up five runs on four hits in four innings.

Craig Biggio opened the fourth with a walk and moved to second on a single by Luis Gonzalez. Jeff Bagwell drove in Biggio with a single and Gonzalez scored from third when Ken Caminiti's grounder forced Bagwell at second.

Servais hit his eighth home run of the season after a walk to Eric Anthony.

The Astros made it 6-0 in the fifth when Bagwell walked, moved to third on a single by Caminiti and scored on a fielding error by center fielder Brian Jordan.

St. Louis cut it to 6-1 in the sixth on an RBI double by Jordan scoring Gregg Jefferies, who had singled to extend his hitting streak to 15 games.

Houston added a run in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Bagwell.

Dodgers 4, Expos 3

MONTREAL — Eric Karros hit a two-run double and Ramon Martinez survived a shaky first inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Montreal Expos.

The Dodgers snapped a seven-game losing skid in Montreal and are 3-19 at Olympic Stadium since 1990.

Martinez (7-4) pitched seven innings and gave up one run on five hits.

Cubs 11, Rockies 8

DENVER — Sammy Sosa went 6-for-6 to tie a club record and he established a Chicago record with nine consecutive hits over two games as the Cubs beat the Colorado Rockies.

Sosa, now just one hit shy of the National League-record for consecuitve hits, also had three stolen bases and two RBIs.

Tigers end Rangers' win streak

Associated Press

DETROIT — Mickey Tettleton's 10th-inning home run gave the Tigers a 6-4 victory Friday night over the Texas Rangers, ending Detroit's longest losing streak in four years at 10 games.

It was the fourth time in the last two seasons that Tettleton had hit a game-ending home run. It enabled the Tigers — who rallied in the eighth to tie the game on a two-run homer by Cecil Fielder — to snap what also was the longest slide in the majors this season.

■ AL Roundup

Fielder walked with one out in the 10th against Bob Patterson (2-3). After Kirk Gibson flied out, Tettleton hit his 21st homer into the upper deck in left field.

Mike Henneman (2-1) pitched two perfect innings of relief.

The Tigers trailed 4-0 in the eighth, but got a two-run double from Travis Fryman and a mammoth homer from Fielder to tie the game.

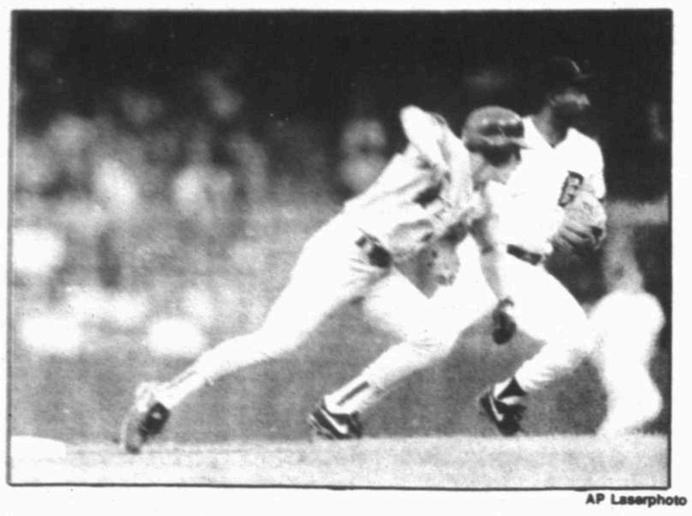

Kevin Brown, who shut out Oakland in his last start, was strong again for Texas. He didn't allow a run through seven innings, but left after Tony Phillips and Dan Gladden led off the eighth with singles.

Fryman greeted reliever Whiteside with a two-run double, and Fielder followed with a 484-foot homer onto the roof in straightaway left to tie the game.

Rafael Palmiero gave the Rangers the lead against Bill Gullickson in the first, hitting his 14th homer with two outs. Former Tiger Doug Strange singled in ther third, moved up on Jon Shave's sacrifice and scored on Dave Hulse's single.

Texas made it 4-0 in the sixth. Juan Gonzalez led off with a single, and after the next two batters were retired, Dean Palmer hit his 17th homer.

Brown allowed just two runs on four hits and four walks, striking out seven.

AP Laserphoto

Texas Ranger David Hulse, left, rushes back to first base while Detroit second baseman Tony Phillips, right, covers Hulse in the third inning.

Detroit's Bill Gullickson gave up four runs on six hits and three walks in eight innings.

The losing streak was the longest by the Tigers since they dropped 12 straight in 1989.

White Sox 12, Orioles 1

CHICAGO — Robin Ventura's grand slam and three other Chicago homers made it easy for Alex Fernandez, and the White Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles to snap a four-game losing streak.

Bo Jackson and Ozzie Guillen — who had four RBIs — added two-run homers, and Ellis Burks a solo shot as the White Sox backed Fernandez (9-4) with 13 hits. Fernandez allowed six hits, walked three and struck out three in eight innings.

Ventura's third career slam and 14th homer, and Jackson's sixth homer highlighted a seven-run fourth inning against Mike Mussina (9-4).

Guillen's second homer of the season came in the fifth off Alan Mills after Mike LaValliere had singled. Guillen also drove in runs with singles in the second and fourth innings. Burks hit his 10th homer in the sixth.

The Orioles scored a run in the second on doubles by Mike Devereaux and Jeff Hammonds. Chicago came right back to take a 2-1 lead on run-scoring singles by Guillen and Tim Raines.

Guillen singled in the first run in the fourth, and walks to Joey Cora and Frank Thomas loaded the bases for Ventura's homer. Burks doubled and scored ahead of Jackson's homer, a 426-foot shot to center.

Royals 3, Blue Jays 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Brian McRae scored from second when third baseman Luis Sojo threw wildly to first in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Kansas City Royals a victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

McRae hit an infield single off Danny Cox (5-4) to open the inning, and went to second on George Brett's walk before Gary Gaetti laid down a sacrifice bunt to Sojo.

Mark Gubicza (1-6) pitched two innings of relief for his first victory since beating the Blue Jays on June 19, 1992. Gubicza, who underwent shoulder surgery in 1991, had lost eight games in a row.

Brett's two-out walk in the first triggered a two-run inning for the Royals. Wally Joyner followed with an RBI triple then scored on Mike Macfarlane's single.

John Olerud walked leading off the Toronto second, moved up a base on Tony Fernandez' single and went to third on a fielder's choice. After being caught in a rundown between third and home, Olerud scored when Macfarlane threw the ball into left field for an error. Both the runs were unearned.

A moment later, Turner Ward's sacrifice fly scored Ed Sprague with the second run.

Royals starter Hipiloto Pichardo went seven innings, giving up seven hits.

Twins 11, Brewers 10

MINNEAPOLIS — Brian Harper singled home Kirby Puckett from second base with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning as the Minnesota Twins rallied for a victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Puckett opened the ninth by beating out a high chopper to short against Mike Fetters (2-1). Puckett took second on a sacrifice by Gene Larkin and after an intentional walk to Dave Winfield, Harper hit Fetters' first pitch just inside the third-base line.

Larry Casian (2-1) pitched two innings of scoreless relief.

Trailing 5-3, Milwaukee sent 12 men to the plate in a seven-run sixth inning.

B.J. Surhoff keyed the ouburst with a three-run double — one of five doubles and sevens hits in the inning — off reliever Carl Willis.

'Skins' name change again an issue

Associated Press

DENVER — Sen. Ben Nighthorse Campbell of Colorado, the only American Indian in Congress, has introduced a bill that could force the Washington Redskins to change their nickname because he says it's racist.

Campbell introduced a bill Thursday that would allow transfer of federal land to build a new team stadium only if those who use the field "refrain from derogatory or offensive ethnic or racial stereotypes."

"Simply put, the name 'Redskins' is offensive to Indian people," Campbell said. "Whether it is considered offensive by non-Indians is not the issue. It is offensive to us, and open-minded, caring people will readily see why."

Speaking to reporters at Stapleton International Airport today, Campbell said Redskins officials understand that their mascot is offensive. "It's going to be a great team no matter what they call themselves," Campbell said.

Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke and general manager Charley Casserly were on vacation today and could not be reached for reaction to Campbell's bill.

However, when the issue was a local controversy last year, Cooke dismissed the idea of changing the team's name and the club said in a statement that "the name was never intended to offend anyone."

"Over the long history of the Washington Redskins, the name has reflected positive attributes of the American Indian such as dedication, courage and pride," the club said.

Campbell, a Democrat, has also taken on other high-profile Native American issues, most recently criticizing New York developer and casino owner Donald Trump for remarks he made about Indian-owned casinos.

If passed by Congress, Campbell's bill apparently would force the team to choose between its nickname and its plans to build the 78,600-seat Jack Kent Cooke Stadium next to existing RFK Stadium, along the Anacostia River.

The freshman senator is trying to amend the federal 1957 District of Columbia Stadium Act, which outlines requirements for sports arenas that sit on federal land.

The proposed stadium would be built on more than 75 acres of government-owned land that would be leased to the District of Columbia. It would be named for Cooke, the Canadian-born owner of the team, who wants the field open in time for the 1995 season.

The stadium has already created a number of controversies, most notably after the D.C. government gave Cooke valuable zoning and parking concessions to dissuade him from moving the team to suburban Virginia.

Campbell said he doesn't oppose transferring the land, as long as the team name changes. He said he also realizes the bill could be unpopular with Washington fans.

"I know how important the Washington football team is to the community and to the team's fans," Campbell said. "But it's time — I could even say it's past time — for all Americans to recognize that names, characterizations and slogans that are disparaging and disrespectful to any racial or ethnic group are no longer acceptable in 1993."

Bringing novel to the screen scares Pollack

By Bernard Weinraub
N.Y. Times News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Sydney Pollack is nervous.

Although he's one of Hollywood's foremost film makers and has a remarkably successful track record as director of movies like "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" "Tootsie" and "Out of Africa," Pollack acknowledges that the failure of his last film, "Havana," several years ago left him reeling and scared. Now he anxiously awaits the reaction to his newest movie, "The Firm," which opened Wednesday, one day before his 60th birthday.

"You would have to be awfully secure for 'Havana' to have no effect on your confidence," said the director in an interview. "It was not successful at all, got terrible reviews. So it creates worries. In this business you earn the right to a certain amount of failure. I'm not saying I'll be drummed out of the business if 'The Firm' doesn't work, but I worry about it. Maybe people won't like it. Maybe people will only go see 'Jurassic Park' for the rest of the summer."

What compounds Pollack's unease is that "The Firm" is a drama based on the John Grisham best seller, and comparisons to the book are inevitable. The film alters the plot of the novel somewhat and changes the ending to make it more "cinematic."

But he adds: "Turning a book like this into a movie scares me to death."

The movie, made by Paramount Pictures, stars Tom Cruise as an ambi-

Top 10 flap

When David Letterman goes to CBS on Aug. 30, his Top 10 list and other "Late Night with David Letterman" tricks won't be going with him, NBC's West Coast president vowed Friday.

NBC owns all 11½ years' worth of Letterman's old shows, "and whatever rights we have, we will protect," Don Ohlmeyer said in a phone interview from NBC headquarters in Burbank, Calif. "We have a library of Letterman tapes that we will protect and use."

Asked whether NBC would go to court over the likes of Letterman's Top 10 List and Stupid Pet Tricks, Ohlmeyer's answer was: "I think we would be foolish not to try to protect our rights, by whatever means are necessary."

Rosemary Keenan, Letterman's NBC publicist who is going to CBS with the comedian, said "The Late Show with David Letterman" on CBS will be the same as the NBC show except for its setting. The new show will be shot at the newly redone Ed Sullivan Theater on Broadway in New York City.

'Firm' proves case as smart, stylish drama

By Bob Strauss
N.Y.Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Smart, stylish suspense — we thought it was extinct in Jurassic summer '93. But "The Firm" reaffirms the notion that there's nothing quite as satisfying as a movie thriller you have to think your way through.

Superbly directed by Sydney Pollack ("Out of Africa," "Tootsie"), with a script by Robert Towne, David Rayfiel and David Rabe that improves upon John Grisham's novel, "The Firm" is a rattlingly good gut-twister.

Some fans of the best seller may consider the film's wholly re-imagined third act sacrilege, but most should appreciate the new surprises offered here. Those who haven't read the novel will doubtless come away from the movie considering Grisham a better plotter than he really is.

The set-up is the same. Hot Harvard Law graduate Mitch McDeere (Tom Cruise) turns down attractive offers from the nation's major attorneying outfits to go with the highest bidder: the small, secretive Memphis, Tenn., firm Bendini, Lambert & Locke.

Though the operation seems almost pathologically paternal — self-made Mitch's raised-with-wealth wife, Abby, ("Basic Instinct's" Jeanne Tripplehorn) notes, with bemused dread, that company wives are discouraged from working and encouraged to breed — grindstone-nosing Mitch is dazzled by the house, car and student loan relief the firm offers.

Mitch is happy to give the expected long hours and legal brilliance in return. But when a hardheaded fed (Ed Harris, playing it bald) informs Mitch that the firm is up to its ears in dirty, mob-money laundry, the materialistic young hustler discovers that his employers also demand loyalty — or his life.

Squeezed by the G-men and his nefarious cohorts, Mitch must think his way out of his untenable position. At the very least, he and Abby will have to completely change their lives in a witness protection program. At worst, they're dead (like every other lawyer who ever tried to leave Bendini, Lambert). If Mitch doesn't play ball with the feds, he faces imprisonment or, best case scenario, disbarment.

The fun is watching Mitch use his extensive legal knowledge to wriggle out of this no-win predicament. Cruise plays an altogether more virtuous fellow than the book's McDeere — though money-hungry, his reputation is ultimately more valuable to him than cash — and while that makes him a little too good to believe, it also makes him easier to root for.

And what Pollack and company have figured out is that we need to root for Mitch wholeheartedly. The book's cynicism, entertaining as it is, undermines "The Firm's" real appeal, that of a great American underdog story. Mitch uses that most individual of anyone's individualistic properties, his brain, against government, underworld and employer — all the forces, in other words, that would cow and conform us. The film celebrates American ingenuity with a vengeance.

Another reason to make Mitch nicer: the rest of the cast acts rings around Cruise, so we'd better like him. This is not to say that the star is ever less than adequate, he's just rarely moreso. (Further evidence of how smart Pollack is: while co-stars really have to emote through the other two of "The Firm's" three expertly intercut, climactic chases, he has Cruise mostly just run).

Jeanne Tripplehorn and Tom Cruise star as Mitch and Abby McDeere in Sidney Pollack's version of the best-selling John Grisham novel, "The Firm."

A half-dozen unforgettable portrayals enrich the movie. Tripplehorn's Abby plays a more integral part in the great escape than the book's wife does, and in the process paints an achingly complex picture of what it must be like to love a lawyer. As Mitch's high timing, self-loathing firm mentor, Gene Hackman is almost as interesting as he was in "Unforgiven," and brings a degree of that Oscar-winning performance appalling contradictions to this one.

ON SCREEN

EDITOR'S NOTE: The rating system for the film list: 4 stars — Don't miss it; 3 stars — worth your while; 2 stars — Has it moments; 1 star — If you must.

N.Y. Times News Service

CLIFFHANGER: Truly spectacular stunts, camerawork and special effects are nearly wasted on this stone dumb, Alpine adventure. Sylvester Stallone battles John Lithgow's murderous thieves at 12,000 feet. Director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2") piles on the virtuoso, ridiculous action, but the effects of oxygen deprivation are only apparent when somebody tries to speak coherently. R. Rating: 2½ stars.

DENNIS THE MENACE: Cartoonist Hank Ketcham's durable 6-year-old is a lot funnier in newspapers than in this latest John Hughes production. Walter Matthau provides a few laughs as the irascible Mr. Wilson, the unwilling object of Dennis' attention, but newcomer Mason Gamble is just so-so and the movie is too sticky sweet to be the social satire it could have been. PG. Rating: 1½ stars.

DRAGON: THE BRUCE LEE STORY: Sometimes silly, overridingly creepy tribute to the evidently cursed, martial arts superstar. Jason Scott Lee (no relation) is astonishing as the late kung fu master — he has Bruce's mesmerizing energy, facial contortions and slide-whistle caterwaul down pat. There's drippy romance, triumphal melodrama and some nonsense with a Chinese demon warrior, too — but, as with Lee's life, the main attraction here is the fighting. PG-13. Rating: 2½ stars.

HOT SHOTS! PART DEUX: A pumped-up Charlie Sheen, a now-presidential Lloyd Bridges and Saddam Hussein are back in this latest action-movie parody. Instead of "Top Gun," they're mostly sending up "Rambo" this time, and the results are arguably funnier than the pretty witty first flight. It's also a good-looking movie — better than most of the allegedly serious "Rambo" knockoffs — if limited, as all these things are, by its barrage of jokes' variable humor. PG-13. Rating: 3 stars.

JURASSIC PARK: Steven Spielberg's dino-spectacular is not the religious experience many expected, but it's a pretty good, sci-fi chase movie. Something goes wrong at an island amusement park whose main attraction is genetically engineered, live dinosaurs. The big lizards, realized by a superb combination of full-sized robots and computer-generated graphics, have infinitely more charisma than their underwritten human prey, played by Sam Neill, Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum and Richard Attenborough. PG-13. Rating: 3 stars.

LAST ACTION HERO: Of all things, an intellectually ambitious satire of Arnold Schwarzenegger action movies — starring Arnold Schwarzenengger. For the most part, it's too loud and, well, action packed to work, though a few scenes are marvels of self-reflexive humor. Austin O'Brien is the 11-year-old fan who enters a movie supercop's fictional world, then brings him back into something like our real dimension. John McTiernan ("The Hunt for Red October") directs with little evident sensitivity to the scenario's comic potential. PG-13. Rating: 2 stars.

MADE IN AMERICA: A one-joke, mixup-at-the-sperm-bank movie should no be as funny as this Whoopi Goldberg-Ted Danson vehicle is. It shouldn't get as sappy in the stretch as this mildly subversive, unfortunately platitudinous social sex farce does, either. Laugh out loud for an hour, then leave. PG. Rating 2½ stars.

MENACE II SOCIETY: John Singleton better watch his back. There are some new boys in the 'hood and they mean business. This shattering debut film by 21-year-old twins, Albert and Allen Hughes, is like the realist's raw, unrelenting reply to the impassioned humanism of "Boyz N the Hood." And in its own despairing way, it's almost as good. The movie's protagonist is a fatherless black teen named Caine (Tyrin Turner), who grew up with drugs and guns in Watts. How he and his homeboy pals make it — or don't make it — through a single long hot summer is pretty much the plot. Told with the kinetic kick of a '30s gangster flick and the scruffily cocky nihilism of a '50s B-movie about juvenile delinquents, "Menace" is a harrowing story of dead-end kids caught up in a deadly cycle of violence, hatred and almost systematic dehumanization. It's a daring, troubling film; take the trouble to see it. R. Rating 3½ stars.

ONCE UPON A FOREST: One of those films that you and the kids could wait to rent on video — and even then, only if they've seen just about everything else in the store. Featuring the voices of Michael Crawford and Ben Vereen, this Hanna-Barbera animated feature follows three woodland cuties — a wood rat, a mole, and a hedgehog — on a dangerous quest to save the life of a baby badger (she's been hit by a human-caused gas leak). The movie's environmental consciousness would be more admirable if it didn't suffer by comparison to last year's similarly- themed — and far superior — "Ferngully." The animation is a step above the usual H-B Saturday morning effort, but a step above schlock is still, well, a step above schlock. Far more troubling is the movie's odd mingling of tepid, tot-aimed quaintness and heavy-duty scary stuff (we see the rest of the badger family gassed to death). My advice: take a child you don't like all that much. G. Rating: 2 stars.

THE SANDLOT: Slackly written and poorly directed reverie over how baseball brings a group of disparate boys together in the summer of '62. Kids may enjoy some of the high jinks, but parents will have to really love their progeny to sit through this. PG. Rating: 2 stars.

SIDEKICKS: Predictable kid stuff, but good-natured and well-intentioned. And given the usual crassness of the kid-flick market, that counts for a lot. Chuck Norris is less the star than a guest star in this agreeable family film about an asthmatic kid named Barry (Jonathan Brandis) who idolizes Norris. Picked on at school and ignored by his distracted widower-dad (Beau Bridges), Barry escapes into eleborate day-dreams in which he teams up with his hero. He gets the chance to learn to kick for himself when a sympathetic teacher (Julia Nickson-Soul) introduces him to her uncle (Mako), a martial-arts expert. Ultimately everyone ends up at the Big Kick-Off, a karate competition that pads out the last half hour. Norris may have snared his 15 minutes of mid-'80s fame playing macho men, but he's a singularly nice guy and "Sidekicks," is a nice-guy's movie. Send the kids. PG. No rating.

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE: Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan star in Nora Ephron's contrived, self-mocking and deliriously wonderful romantic comedy. He's a widowed single father; she's a passion rattled journalist on the other side of the continent. They don't meet until the last scene. In the meantime, Ephron (who wrote Ryan's hit "When Harry Met Sally . . .") hilariously implores us to bury our fake, movie-fed romantic notions — then makes us fall for them all over again. PG-13. Rating: 3½ stars.

WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT: A rock biography that cranks from start to finish, Brian Gibson's (HBO's "Josephine Baker Story") knockout musical is marred only by its insistence that hot-legged blues belter Tina Turner is some kind of saint. Tina herself supplied the singing, but otherwise Angela Bassett gives a house-shaking performance as the queen of erotic energy onstage and the battered, manipulated wife off. Laurence Fishburne is equally impressive as her selfish (tor) mentor Ike — through an epic act of emotional intuition, he makes the monster human. R. Rating: 3 stars.

FIRM: Small roles add charm

(From 1C)

With less screen time, grandfatherly Wilford Brimley, as the firm's security chief, gets across a chilling sense of efficient menace. Holly Hunter is hilarious yet formidable as Mitch's unlikely ally, a truckstop honey turned resourceful, secretarial schemer. And David Strathairn strikes the right pitch of wounded dignity as Mitch's jailbird brother, an embarrassing reminder of the lawyer's trashy origins who can still be loved and love back.

But for all the film's breathing assets, its prime treasure is a complicated script that's just melodramatic enough to keep you interested, clever enough to keep you guessing and informative enough to keep you from feeling too stupid. You'll have to pay attention to everything that's said and done in "The Firm," or you will get frustrated. But the goods are there, beyond any reasonable doubt.

"The Firm" makes its case for intelligent entertainment.

POLLACK: Director looks to bounce back

(From 1C)

tious Ivy League graduate who accepts a job with a law firm in Memphis that turns out to be a front for organized crime. The movie also stars Gene Hackman, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Ed Harris, Holly Hunter, Hal Holbrook and David Strathairn.

"I like Grisham, and I called him and said, 'John, you're not going to like this; a book isn't a movie,' and he said, 'You know, I want to like it, and I know it's not going to be the same," Pollack said.

Early in the film's development, Pollack said, he considered making a major change in the book. That is, add "a terrifically smart, sexy, stylish older woman," perhaps played by Meryl Streep, as a partner in the law firm who would seduce the Cruise character and serve as his foil. In the book, the firm has no female partners.

"It started a firestorm, like we were trying to alter Shakespeare," said Pollack with a laugh. "I thought I was going to be tarred and feathered." So he dropped the idea.

There were two reasons he directed the film, Pollack said last week as he completed final work on it. The first was that his agent, Michael Ovitz, the chairman of Creative Artists Agency, strongly urged him to do it, especially after the "Havana" debacle. The other reason was that the book's theme of enveloping corruption intrigued him.

"Part of the reason the book was so popular is because the '80s set up a real contempt for lawmakers and lawbreakers, and this is the story of a young Everyman, if you will, who gets caught between the two and beats both of them in a way," he said.

A six-foot, curly-haired man who usually wears jeans and boots, Pollack is engaging, enthusiastic and unpretentious. He is widely known as an actor's director, a demanding man who nurtures, cajoles and genuinely enjoys working with performers, some of them difficult and temperamental. His 16 films include "Three Days of the Condor" (1976), "Jeremiah Johnson" (1972), "The Electric Horseman" (1979), "The Way We Were" (1973) and "Absence of Malice" (1981). In 1986, he received the Academy Award as best director for "Out of Africa," whose total of seven Oscars included the one for best picture. For "Tootsie," he was nominated for an Oscar as best director and won the New York Film Critics Award.

Although he has had some mishaps, such as "Bobby Deerfield" his 1977 film starring Al Pacino, nothing quite prepared him — or left him more devastated — than the 1990 box office disaster, "Havana," starring Robert Redford as a gambler struggling to survive in the waning hours of pre-Castro Cuba. The film, like the movie adaptation of "The Bonfire of the Vanities," became a metaphor for big-budget Hollywood productions gone awry.

Pollack, who has worked with his close friend, Redford, on seven films, said simply: "I'll tell you something. If I had to do it again, I'd do it. I loved that character that Redford played.

"I've been making movies about that guy for my whole career: the guy who couldn't deal with the commitment of involvement, the loner, the guy who wanted to make his own rules, the guy who learns to become a real human being through the love of a woman."

"Everyone said Redford looked so old," said Pollack. "Well, it was supposed to be about a guy who was a fading glamourpuss. They said I was trying to rip off 'Casablanca.' I wouldn't go near 'Casablanca,' I'd be petrified. There were really angry reviews. I was really stunned when that happened. If I was supposed to have learned something from that, I didn't. I could go out tomorrow and make the same movie. You're never safe in this business."

In the last few years, Pollack has devoted time to his company, Mirage Productions, which was started in 1985, and has since produced such films as "Presumed Innocent," "The Fabulous Baker Boys" and "Dead Again." Moreover, Pollack has returned to his roots as an actor, appearing in such films as Woody Allen's "Husbands and Wives," as the New Yorker who left his longtime wife played by Judy Davis ("The guy I played was such a jerk"), as well as Robert Altman's "Player" and Robert Zemeckis's "Death Becomes Her." He accepted the parts largely out of friendship with the directors or stars.

Pollack said he has no difficulties working for another director. "Maybe it's because I don't have an acting ego," he said. "My livelihood isn't dependent on acting."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

STONING

STONING WAS THE ORDINARY MODE OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT PRESCRIBED BY HEBREW LAW. THIS ANCIENT METHOD WAS NOT CONFINED TO THE HEBREWS BUT WAS USED BY THE MACEDONIANS AND PERSIANS ALSO. THE PRISONER WAS TAKEN TO THE EDGE OF THE CITY. WITNESSES PLACED THEIR HANDS ON HIS HEAD IN TOKEN OF THE GUILT RESTING ON HIM. THE CULPRIT WAS THROWN TO THE GROUND FROM A SCAFFOLD ABOUT TEN FEET HIGH BY THE FIRST WITNESS. THE FIRST STONE CAST BY THE SECOND WITNESS ON THE CHEST OVER THE HEART. IF IT FAILED TO CAUSE DEATH, THE BYSTANDERS COMPLETED THE EXECUTION. THERE WAS NO REPRIEVE TO THIS CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Methodist clergy may officiate at same-sex unions

POULTNEY, Vt. (AP) — A regional body of the United Methodist Church voted recently to support the right of clergy to officiate at same-sex "covenant unions."

The resolution approved by the Troy Annual Conference was referred to the denomination's Judicial Council to determine whether the action is contrary to church law, according to the United Methodist News Service.

The Rev. Dana Carroll, leader of a conference task force on homosexuality, said the unions would not be considered marriage ceremonies, but would allow the church to bless the commitment of couples.

Do you believe we are capable of self-improvement and are not condemned by "orginal sin?"

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1993

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A seemingly minor opportunity can be turned into something quite significant. A chance to move to another part of the world should not be dismissed out of hand. Good health is linked to good eating habits. A partnership forged next December gives you hope and inspiration at year's end. You gain an exciting new freedom early in 1994. Your self-confidence grows as you reach beyond current limitations.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Tom Cruise, musician Pete Fountain, author Amy Wallace, playwright Tom Stoppard.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You feel vulnerable to someone's romantic overtures. Avoid wasting precious time. Say what you really think. Despite setbacks and disappointments, you always maintain your optimism.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do not let social ambitions get the best of you. Temper your appetite for luxury with practicality. Get out and mix with new people. You will gain both friends and a different viewpoint.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Nothing is likely to interfere with your plans today. Family members are happy to follow your lead. Spend some time alone with a sibling. Romance is more exciting than in the recent past.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Outdoor activities hold special appeal now. Some of you are involved in preparation for a special reunion. A newcomer finds your air of reserve very attractive. Watch out!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may be wondering if anything worthwhile will come your way today. Family obligations or a health matter may weigh heavily on your shoulders. A bright idea makes life easier on the domestic front.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your custodial instincts are functioning at maximum capacity today. You are able to break new ground without risking previous gains. Your suspicions are aroused concerning someone's motives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Allow others to express their feelings this morning. You need to stay open-minded and receptive to change. New developments on the home front are constructive. Love is in bloom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Favorable trends in the morning let you make real headway with a work or home project. If you can, avoid people who like to start arguments. Plan an outdoor barbecue with your neighbors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be prompt in responding to an early-morning opportunity to advance a special career aim. Exchanging ideas with a friend proves helpful. Your social plans may be changed at the last minute.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You and your mate will be in complete accord about a financial matter. A weekend shopping jaunt is favored. Mixing business with pleasure can be profitable tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Call a loved one who lives far away. You learn great news from a sibling. Your efforts to increase domestic harmony will lead to stronger ties with your mate. Count your blessings!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Someone is depending on you for support. Offering a fresh idea could turn a roadblock into a "go-ahead" signal. Try to reconcile with an old flame. Make plans for a vacation.

TODAY'S CHILDREN will be inspired by people who have lofty ideals. They want to make the world a better place and are willing to work long hours to achieve their goals. Although these Cancerians try to hide it, they are basically shy. Count on them to be more comfortable discussing ideas than talking about themselves. Travel holds special appeal for today's children. True romantics, these affectionate Cancerians will not marry until they find their "soul mate."

'Family Matters' star says he's a basketball junkie

DURHAM, N.C. — Jaleel White makes a living playing super-nerd Steve Urkel on ABC's "Family Matters," but this week, the only thing you'd catch the hot young star playing was point guard.

"I'm a basketball junkie," White said Thursday at the Duke Basketball Camp where he spent the week. "Professional and college. I love it."

Between games, fellow Duke campers asked for autographs and photos.

"When you are with him, you completely forget he's Urkel," said Lindy Krzyzewski, daughter of Duke basketball coach Mike Krzyzewski. "He doesn't act famous. He doesn't act like a nerd. He's great."

White said he's also been to the New York Knicks' camp and Michael Jordan's camp.

So why Duke this year?

"Bobby Hurley. I'm here because of Bobby Hurley," he said of the newly drafted Sacramento King and former standout point guard at Duke.

LOS ANGELES — Madonna hasn't even moved into her new Hollywood villa and her neighbors are already seeing red. Red and yellow, actually.

Madonna

Madonna's castle-like mansion in the Hollywood Hills was repainted a few months ago with horizontal red and yellow stripes. The color scheme is meant to evoke a Tuscan villa, but her neighbors say it looks more like a circus tent.

"It's just unbelievable. It looks like something out of Barnum and Bailey," neighbor Christine O'Brien said in Thursday's Daily News of Los Angeles.

The 20,000-square-foot house was built in 1926. It later was bought by gangster Bugsy Siegel, who ran a speakeasy and gambling den there.

Most of the house, which clings to a steep hillside underneath the famous "Hollywood" sign, is painted a rust color. The stripes decorate two towers and a wall that borders the entrance.

"The red and yellow are merely test colors for an undercoating that eventually will make the house look like a rustic Italian villa," explained Madonna's brother, Christopher Ciccone.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Don Gibson, Merle Haggard, Harlan Howard, Willie Nelson and Ray Price are this year's finalists for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The winner, chosen by an anonymous committee from the Country Music Association, will be announced Sept. 29 during the 27th annual CMA awards show on CBS-TV.

Gibson is a singer-songwriter known for writing and singing "I Can't Stop Loving You."

Haggard, who served time in San Quentin Prison for burglary, recorded the hit "Okie From Muskogee" after his release.

Howard is regarded as the dean of Nashville songwriters, with songs including "I Fall to Pieces" and "Busted."

Nelson, a country performer for 30 years, has recorded hits such as "On the Road Again" and "Always on My Mind.'

Among Price's hits was "For the Good Times."

PARIS — Catherine Deneuve, the French actress who has symbolized beauty and elegance for nearly three decades, says she isn't thrilled about growing old.

Deneuve

Deneuve turns 50 in October, her finely chiseled features and milky complexion as perfect as ever.

"It hurts," the actress said of growing old. "You have your ups and downs, days when you feel blah. And any actress who says the contrary is a liar."

Deneuve, who rarely gives interviews, spoke during the taping of a talk show to be aired on French television Monday.

The star of "The Last Metro," "Indochine" and this year's "Ma Saison Preferee" ("My Favorite Season") said she works hard to control her public image.

"I want to choose when, where and how I'm photographed," she said. "After all, I think I have the right to control what belongs to me after 27 years in the profession."

SALT LAKE CITY — The answer is: Alex Trebek and Jeopardy!

Question: Who is being sued by the publisher of a book about the quiz show?

In a $25 million federal lawsuit filed Thursday against Trebek and Jeopardy Inc., Northwest Publishing Inc. of Salt Lake City alleges defamation and intentional interference with its business practices.

The lawsuit, which seeks $25 million, stems from Trebek's reaction to Northwest's publication of Harry Eisenberg's book "Inside Jeopardy!: What Really Goes on at TV's Top Quiz Show?"

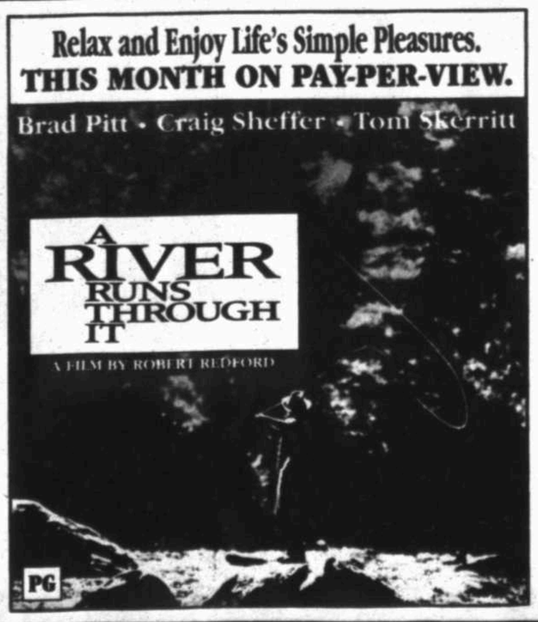

The book includes allegations that last-minute changes were made to several Jeopardy! shows in an effort to help female contestants do better. ____

Episcopal church elects 1st woman diocesan bishop

NEW YORK (AP) — A West Virginia minister was recently elected to serve as the first woman diocesan bishop in the Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Mary Adelia McLeod, rector at St. John's Church in Charleston, W.Va., was elected to the episcopacy by the Diocese of Vermont at a special convention earlier this month.

She said later that the diocese was led by the Holy Spirit in the election, and the fact that "I just happen to be a woman is incidental."

But Presiding Bishop Edmond L. Browning said her election was a new chapter for a church that has been enriched by women ministers.

"We can rejoice as another step is taken toward our episcopal ministry better reflecting this blessing," Browning said, according to Episcopal News Service.

DELIVERY MOONLIGHTING!
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with responsible individuals.

Often Asked ????
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth.

Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have F/T jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
- STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors and friends.

How much money can I make as a distributor?
Depending on the size of distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly!
Some make even more!

How long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subsribers'papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or a family member to substitute a for them!
