New Signs Point to Tourist Attractions

Signs pointing out individual tourist attractions in the immediate area have started springing up all over West Texas, according to the Tourist Development Department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Three-color, 4' x 5' signs are being erected near the city limits of many area towns, each sign bearing a distinctive symbol signifying "This Is West Texas." Listed are special tourist attractions in the city, as well as the local chamber of commerce telephone number, which can be called for more details.

These signs are the third phase of the tourist development program of the regional chamber. The first was the new magazine devoted to the attractions of West Texas and called "This Is West Texas."

The second phase was the displaying of 100 billboards throughout the 132-county area showing the parks, lakes, museums, etc., for the tourist to visit while in West Texas.

Mounted on 12-foot steel poles these signs are weatherproof and attractive. They have been ordered and are being erected

First wheat checks arrived Friday, July 21, at the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office and totaled $45,561.11, Millard Brown, manager, has announced.

These checks went to 65 farmers who have wheat allotments but do not have feed grain allotments, Mr. Brown explained.

Operators with feed grain allotments will be paid after Aug. 28, and will receive their checks for both wheat and feed grain.

The wheat checks received Friday were figured at a rate of $1.36 per bushel times the normal yield for the farm, based on 35 percent of the wheat allotment.

Mr. Brown said the county ASCS has been authorized to send data sheets to the New Orleans office, where they will be data processed, and the sooner farmers get their re-

Hunting Seasons Listed for Panhandle Area

AUSTIN.—The most comprehensive wildlife harvest plans in Texas history have been mapped almost in their entirety by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The 1967 big game season has expanded opportunities for the sportsman, especially the deer hunter who will have an extra day's hunting in many counties.

Shotgunners can look ahead to generous mourning and white-winged dove hunts. The north zone mourning dove season begins as usual at noon Sept. 1 Central Standard Time, (1 p.m. Daylight Saving Time) and continues through sunset Oct. 30 with a daily bag limit of 12 and possession limit of 24.

The south zone mourning dove season begins on Sept. 23 and continues through Nov. 21 except in 21 counties have a concurrent whitewing and mourning dove season. In these counties, the mourning dove season will close four days earlier.

The whitewing season was cut back to four days this year, Sept. 2-3 and Sept. 9-10, but Commission action opened up the area along the Rio Grande River formerly designated a nesting sanctuary. Bag limits will be 12 per day and 24 possession limit.

Waterfowl enthusiasts will have a nine-day warmup period in the third and final experimental teal hunting season Sept. 22-30 provided they apply for a special teal hunting permit prior to Aug. 18.

Final decision on the duck and goose season cannot be made until late August to climax conferences on the regional and national level.

Following is a summary of major harvest stipulations in the various state regulatory authority areas:

The Panhandle Area southern boundary is the south side of the tier of counties including Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley and Cottle, then along the east side of Cottle and Childress Counties to the Oklahoma line.

The seasons include:
Deer — open season Nov. 11 through Nov. 26; bag limit one deer. Antlerless deer may be taken by permit only. Archery season — Oct. 1 through Oct. 6 in Gray, Potter, Randall and Wheeler counties.

Antelope — by permit only,

Sept. 30 through Oct. 3; bag limit, one per season.

Squirrel — open season, May 1 through July 1, Oct. 1 thru Dec. 1; bag and possession limit, 5 per day.

Aoudad sheep — by permit only, open season Jan. 6 to 10, with limit of one per season.

Quail — open season, Nov. 11 through Jan. 31, except in Briscoe, Childress, Cottle, Hall and Motley counties the season will be Dec. 1 through Jan. 31; quail season in Lamb and Hemphill counties by statute. Bag and possession limit, 12 and 36.

Turkey — open season, Nov. 11 through Nov. 26. Archery season, Oct. 1 through Oct. 16 in Gray, Potter, Randall and Wheeler counties.

Pheasants — open season, Dec. 1 through Dec. 7; bag limit, 2 cocks and possession limit 4 cock pheasants.

Prairie chicken — open only in Hemphill, Lipscomb and Wheeler counties, Oct. 14 and 15; bag limit 2 per day, 4 in possession after first day.

Tractor Upsets on Level Ground

AUSTIN.—The Texas Safety Association and the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council report that tractor upsets on level ground occur much more frequently than many farmers realize. Speed "too fast for conditions" is the chief factor in most cases. Tractors have been known to tip on level ground at only eight miles per hour — just half the top speed of most tractors in use today. High hitching and hidden obstacles also rank high on the list of tractor upset causes.

Texas Horse Population Up

The horse population of Texas is expected to increase by 10 percent annually over the next 10 years. The prediction, according to Dr. O. D. Butler, head of Texas A&M University's Animal Science Department, is based upon continuing prosperity, shorter work week, and a stronger trend toward outdoor exercise for health as well as wholesome recreation purposes. He added that the value of horses in Texas is now estimated at $100 million.

'54 Study Club Children's Books Now in Library

A large group of children's books have been placed in the Collingsworth County Library, made possible by a $100 gift earlier this year from the 1954 Study Club.

A committee from the club made the selection, and its members were Mrs. A. J. Fires, Mrs. Eddie Slay, who is a former teacher, and Mrs. Virgil Patterson.

The club plans to get a few more books for the children's section of the library, Mrs. Fires said.

The books already placed in the library, along with the authors, are:

Margurite Henry: "Born to Trot," "Misty of Chincoteague," "Brighty of the Grand Canyon," "Stormy, Misty's Foal," and "King of the Wind."

Elizabeth Enright: "The Saturdays" and "Gone Away Lake."

Deferments Due for Graduate Students in Health Categories

Dr. and Mrs. David Fried and their son, Vance, will leave Saturday, July 29, for Nigeria, where Dr. Fried will assist with medical mission work.

He has been on the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital as surgeon. He submitted his resignation at the last staff meeting, said Sister Mary Adelle, administrator. A successor has not been named.

The Frieds' two older children, Bruce, 19, and Martha, 18, will stay in the United States to continue their education.

Dr. and Mrs. Fried served in the Baptist Medical Mission in Nigeria before, so this tour of less than a year will not be entirely new to them.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. Fried is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical School and has practiced in Oklahoma since 1946. Mrs. Fried was born in Texas but grew up in Olustee, Okla.

Succeeding Dr. Fried at Hollis is Dr. C. C. Pittman, who practiced there two years ago while his wife recovered from a lengthy illness. Since then the couple has also lived in Nigeria, where he did medical mission work.

FAST FILL-UP

During a typical air-to-air refueling operation, a KC-135 tanker can transfer almost 20,000 gallons of fuel to a B-52 jet bomber in about 21 minutes.

LONGER PITCHES

The distance between the pitcher's mound and home plate before 1884, when hurling was underhand, was only 45 feet. It is now 60½ feet.

Truth in Packaging and Labeling

If you have been buying the "extra big pound" or the "giant sized quart," you may have been falling for a clever advertising gimmick.

Since July 1, however, no adjectives which mislead the consumer may be used, due to the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act passed by Congress last November. Meat and chicken are already covered by existing laws.

Here are some of the key provisions of the new law.

Contents must be double labeled. A label which now says "one pound, 12 ounces" must also say "28 ounces."

The number of ounces in a package must be prominently exhibited on the display side, easy to read and stated in simple terms.

When a package promises to serve four, its label must give the weight of each serving in ounces. This information, according to the Food and Drug Administration, will enable a consumer to determine if she is buying enough for her family.

"Bargain price" promotions will be regulated, too. For example, a manufacturer may label his products so many "cents off" only if he is offering it at a price lower than the regular retail price. In other words, so many "cents off" what?

Dry Your Own Fruit

Home dried peaches, apricots and plums will keep a year or so when stored in a dry, cool, dark place. Here are some food preservation tips:

Select about 6 lbs. fresh, ripe and firm fruit. Wash and drain. Peel if you wish. Cut in halves and remove pits. To remove discoloration, soak fruit for 15 minutes in a solution of 3½ tsp. sodium sulfite to one gallon water. A druggist can supply this chemical. Arrange the fruit on trays and place in a 150 degree oven with the bottom tray 3 inches from the oven floor. Do not use the top unit in an electric oven. Prop the oven door open ½ inch if your oven is electric or 8 inches if it is gas to let the moisture out. Alternate the trays every 1 or 2 hours. The fruit is dry when pliable and leathery. Usually about 6 hours is required. Pieces around the edges of the tray will dry first. Remove them as soon as they are dry. Cool the fruit and package at once. Pack in glass jars, plastic, metal or heavily waxed cardboard frozen food containers. Use a tight seal.

Tomatoes

Tomatoes have been fundamentals of the Mexican diet for centuries.

It seems likely that the tomato is native to the Andes mountain area of South America. It was probably carried northward into Central America and Mexico by prehistoric migrations of Indians. It was called tomati and was sown among maize by the ancient Mexicans.

Although Spanish explorers found the tomato being used as a food, there was considerable reluctance in most of Europe and in the United States to use it as anything but an ornamental. It was frequently said to be poisonous.

Nowadays there is certainly no hesitancy toward eating tomatoes. We usually eat over 12 pounds per person each year, here in the United States.

Nutritionwise, tomatoes are low in calories, yet contain important vitamins and minerals.

A tomato has about half of the vitamin C you need each day and one-third of the vitamin A.

It is a good time to enjoy lots of tomatoes. They are among the plentiful supplies of summer vegetables available at local markets.

Baked tomatoes are excellent cooked on the outdoor grill. Simply slice tomatoes into foil pan and sprinkle with diced onion, salt and a bit of nutmeg. Add about ½ cup of heavy cream (allowing ½ cup per 4 large tomatoes) and dot with butter. Place foil container on cookout grill over hot coals. Allow about 15 minutes for the tomatoes to "heat" and become serving perfect.

Home Economics Briefs

• To heat muffins, biscuits, or rolls, place them in a paper bag and twist the top lightly. Moisten the bag, then heat in the oven.

• Total supplies of canned fruits are expected to be about five percent above those for last year. Increases in current supplies will be appreciable in canned peaches and pears. The current stock figures are available for only a few items at this time. Stocks of canned apple slices and apple sauce are up significantly, while red tart cherries are down.

Successful Farming Must Be Safe Farming

FARMERS of this area are quick to adopt new methods of operation to increase production or cut work and costs. Each advance brings its own inherent dangers, adding to those that already make farming one of the most hazardous of all industries.

This bank believes that Farm Safety is part of sound, business-like farm operation, just as we believe that increased mechanization and chemical farming will be further intensified.

We urge our customers to be alert, both to the dangers that are always part of farming and to those that grow out of our new ways of agriculture.

Yarbrough to Play in Bowl Game August 12

Coo Count Shows Dove Census Same

AUSTIN—Recently completed mourning dove call or coo counts indicate virtually no change in the breeding population from last year, according to Ted Clark, state-wide dove project leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The dove call count, taken on 91 census lines scattered widely over the state is one of three annual surveys. Two other similar counts will be taken over the same 20-mile long lines just prior to and following the annual hunting season.

Clark emphasized that the spring coo or call count gives only a relative index to the breeding population and not nesting birds.

Whether this means the dove crop for the fall hunter will be the same as last year is difficult to determine, Clark said. There's still many days before the season opens and many things could happen in the meantime.

Excessive heat and lack of rain could cause native grass and weed seed to mature early and be used up before the yearly hunting season is over. And by nature, the dove goes where the food and water supply is, Clark continued.

On the other hand, general rains state-wide could prolong the maturing of dove foods and therefore hold the dove in the state longer. Since the dove is migratory, out-of-state doves could come to Texas earlier if a drought hit in the central fly-away area north of us.

All in all, Clark said, this year's crop of birds will be determined by the weather — both in Texas and in the mid-west states to the north.

Draft Board Continues to Defer Students

AUSTIN.—Under new draft board policy, students taking commercial or vocational courses not leading to a baccalaureate degree may still be deferred for their activity, but this deferment is not mandatory.

Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Thursday that he is continuing to recommend that local boards give "serious consideration" to deferment if the students are "receiving instruction a minimum of 25 clock hours a week, either day or night classes."

The state director said "deferment will be by local board judgment of the merits in each individual case and may be denied on the basis that it is not in the national interest."

Col. Schwartz said he had advised local boards that, under present policy, the commercial college or vocational school student would now be classified in Class 2-S instead of Class 2-A, if deferred.

The reason for this change, he explained, is that Class 2-S now deals with the deferment only of students working toward a degree. Class 2-A deals with deferment because of civilian occupation, except agriculture and study for a degree.

This type of deferred student may expect to have his classification changed from 2-S to 2-A in the future.

Luck Is Out of the Picture When It Comes to Farm Safety

Few areas are quicker than Collingsworth to adopt new and more efficient farming and livestock practices, whether it concerns horsepower, fertilizer or chemicals. We keep pace in irrigation methods and in adopting new crop varieties.

But when it comes to farm safety, many of us are likely to trust to luck. We do not plan accident prevention.

Technology changes the ways of farm safety, just as it changes farming procedures.

The hazards of farm chemicals are well known. A few years ago, roll bars and seat belts were for the tractor operator — one more step in the effort to cut down the number of deaths from farm accidents.

It is in view of the costly loss to the farming economy and the tragic loss of life that Farm Safety Week is observed. It is a matter not only for July 23 to 29, but for every week of the year.

According to the National Safety Council, accidents kill some 8,000 farm residents each year and an additional 750,000 are victims of disabling injuries — an all time high. The economic loss to the nation is some $2 billion.

When one of these accidents happens to us, or a member of our family or a friend, that statistic becomes highly personal, in grief, in pain suffered, or in expense. One accident, whether or not it involves loss of life, can cost more than a whole year's profit on a Collingsworth County farm.

Getting on the Air Map Is Vital

Small Texas communities need to be on the air map, or get on it, to be able to compete for new industry and the prosperity and growth which accompany it.

Fortunately, there is a program in the state which can help these smaller cities build and develop airports intended primarily for interstate traffic. There is little federal money for this purpose and the indication is that less will be available in the future. Apparently, federal efforts and spending will be concentrated on the large metropolitan airports.

The state program for smaller airports is administered by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. In the current biennium it has made grants totaling $200,000 to 26 communities. As a minimum, these communities have matched the amount granted by TAC.

After a community airport is constructed with the help of a state grant, it is the responsibility of the local community to maintain and operate the airport. The state does require that Federal Aviation Administration safety standards be adhered to.

Some other states are ahead of Texas in the development of smaller airports and are in a better position to snare the light industries which are migrating from one area to another.

It would be in the best interest of the state and small communities if we move a little faster in this area.

Our Fair Capital

Washington Report

From Congressman

BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1223 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3706

I had the honor, along with other freshman Republican Congressmen, of being a guest of President Eisenhower at his Gettysburg farm last week.

General Eisenhower had some very sound advice about some of the nation's problems and particularly about the war in Vietnam, a subject on which he should certainly be an expert.

Our former President believes it is high time that Congress takes a better look at the Vietnam war and decides whether it is a war or not or what, if any, additional authority President Johnson may need to bring this bloody conflict to an honorable end.

General Eisenhower believes that when a nation applies force, as we have in Vietnam, then the force should be overwhelming. This nation has the capability of applying such force and should have done so two years ago rather than allowing the Communists to counter each move we have made by infiltrating more troops into South Vietnam.

We have allowed them through the sanctuaries of their ports in North Vietnam to keep their ground forces supplied with all the essentials of warfare including the newest and most modern weapons. We have also allowed them to build up a deadly and effective concentration of anti-aircraft defenses around their military bases, airfields, Russian-built missile sites and other strategic points.

It is a sad commentary, as far as I am concerned, to learn from the Department of Defense, that free world shipping, principally British, to North Vietnam during the first six months of this year has almost doubled over that carried during the previous six months. This seems utterly ridiculous in view of U.S. cooperation with Great Britain in her embargo against Rhodesia.

Of 28 free world ships arriving in North Vietnam during the first five months of this year, 23 flew the British flag, and of 74 last year, 50 were British.

We now have a cargo ban on ships trading with Cuba and I fail to understand why we should not maintain a blacklist against ships aiding a Communist regime that is daily killing more and more American boys.

Saigon through which the bulk of U.S. supplies reach our forces in South Vietnam is no sanctuary as far as the Communists are concerned. Those waters have been mined and American merchant seamen killed. Yet we balk at using the economic weapons available to us to stop free world trade with North Vietnam. As long as Americans are fighting and dying in Vietnam, no nation of the free world should be permitted to send supplies to their killers.

The Congress has for too long allowed the Executive Branch to chip away at its rightful areas of authority set aside under the Constitutional separation of powers of the three branches — legislative, executive and judicial.

Under the guise of Presidential emergency powers, mandates contained in Congressional legislation have been ignored. The Secretary of Defense has refused to build the B-70 strategic bomber or to use funds appropriated for the Nike X antiballistic system.

The same controversy has occurred over Congressional urging of an all-nuclear powered Navy but the recently launched super-carrier Kennedy is conventionally powered and according to Naval experts, obsolete even before it was commissioned.

The President ruled the last Congress under its 2-1 Democratic majority with an iron hand and railroaded his Great Society programs through with ease.

But the new Congress, although still 3-2 Democratic, is beginning to conduct itself as a separate branch of the government and to reassert its rights.

Both House and Senate committees are now questioning the growing authority of the President at the expense of Congressional power. The status of our involvement in Vietnam and the future course of action should now be thoroughly investigated by Congress.

When a nation fights a war, it must take risks, but this Administration has been unwilling to take the risks to win. I believe it is past time that Congress assert its rights to declare war or do whatever is necessary to win.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

In the papers it says a famous artist named Rockwell Kent is bragging about giving $10,000 to the North Vietnamese to help them make life shorter for U.S. soldiers.

My non-famous artist neighbor says the courts can probably find where U.S. citizens have got a civil right to be against their country, yet some ultra-patriots are saying the great painter had ought to be judged for treason.

But, of course, treason consists of giving aid and comfort to an enemy, and North Vietnam is not an official enemy. We're just bombing and shooting at them to sell them on getting into our foreign aid line.

Army Seeks Copter Pilots

The U.S. Army is currently seeking men desiring training as helicopter pilots for its Warrant Officer Flight Training (WOFT) Program, SFC Humberto G. Pinales, local Army recruiter, announced today.

"The mobility which helicopter transport provides is essential to the Army's ability to conduct prompt and sustained combat in conjunction with land operations. More helicopter pilots are needed to move men rapidly over rough terrain, to speed supplies and ammunition to men in isolated places and to swiftly evacuate wounded soldiers," SFC Pinales said.

After basic training, men who enlist under the WOFT Program undergo four weeks of pre-flight instruction and 16 weeks of primary training at Fort Wolters, Texas, followed by 16 weeks of rotary wing (helicopter) training at Fort Rucker, Ala. Upon completion of training they are appointed Warrant Officers and are qualified to fly cargo and passenger type helicopters.

"Warrant Officers are highly skilled technicians who fill duty positions above the enlisted level. Pay and prestige levels correspond to the first four commissioned officer ranks," said SFC Pinales. Warrant Officers live in officers' quarters and can belong to clubs and other organizations open only to Army officers.

Helicopter pilots receive bonus flight pay in addition to basic Warrant Officer salary and quarters and subsistence allowances.

Qualified men who enlist under the Army Aviation Plan receive a written guarantee of helicopter pilot training before they enlist.

Applicants for the WOFT Program must be high school graduates and must meet rigid mental and physical standards. They must also be between 18 and 30 years of age, be between 5'4" and 6'4" in height and not weigh over 200 pounds.

Men desiring additional information about the Warrant Officer Flight Training Program, its benefits and its requirements, may call SFC Pinales at Amarillo, Rake 3-4214 for an appointment. His office is located in Amarillo at 114 East 9th Avenue.

Farm Safety Is Like Having Money in the Bank

FARM SAFETY PAYS . . . first and most important, in life itself, in freedom from injury. Agriculture is among the most hazardous of all industries and it grows more dangerous as mechanization increases.

FARM SAFETY PAYS in the life of machinery. Equipment handled safely is kept in good repair. It is used in a manner to make it last longer.

FARM SAFETY IS ESSENTIAL in the new ways of Agriculture—chemical farming with its insecticides, defoliants and weed killing chemicals. Handled properly, they are a basic part of our farm operation.

Deferments Due for Graduate Students in Health Categories

AUSTIN.—The deferment of graduate students in medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy, or optometry is mandatory under new amendments to the Selective Service regulations, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said last week.

"When the Director of Selective Service identifies other studies necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest upon the advice of the National Security Council," Col. Schwartz said, "deferment for advanced study in these subjects also will be mandatory."

Post-graduate study in other fields may be allowed under the new regulations, within certain limitations, the state Selective Service director said; but deferment is not mandatory in these cases.

"Consideration can be given by local boards to any case," Col. Schwartz said, "regardless of class standing or Selective Service test score; but there is a limit to the time the student can be deferred."

The new regulations provide that a student who is entering, on Oct. 1, 1967, his second or subsequent year of post-baccalaureate study without interruption—outside the field of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy, optometry, or field that may be identified by the Director of Selective Service upon the advice of the National Security Council—may be deferred in Class II-S if his school certifies that he is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction leading to his degree.

"The regulations say he 'may be,' not he 'shall be,'" Col. Schwartz pointed out. "This means that it is up to the local board in each case outside the fields covered by mandatory deferment."

This student entering his second or subsequent year next fall can not be deferred under the new regulations for more than one additional year in the case of a course toward a master's degree. He can not be deferred for more than five years for a doctoral or professional degree or the equivalent, or a combination of master's and doctoral degrees, including the years already used in the course of study, except that, if he already has spent five years in such study on Oct. 1, 1967, he may be deferred for one additional year to complete his degree.

The state Selective Service director pointed out that these time limitations are mandatory.

A graduate student outside the mandatory fields who is enrolled for his first year of study Oct. 1, 1967, or accepted for admission on that date, may be deferred if he has entered the first class commencing after the date he completed the requirements for admission, the new regulations provide. But his deferment is not mandatory. It is up to his local board.

The graduate student outside the mandatory fields who begins, or is accepted to begin, his study next fall, can be deferred for one academic year only, and this limitation is mandatory, the state Selective Service director pointed out.

On St. Joseph's Staff

Dr. Fried Leaves for Mission Work in Africa

Dr. and Mrs. David Fried and their son, Vance, will leave Saturday, July 29, for Nigeria, where Dr. Fried will assist with medical mission work.

He has been on the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital as surgeon. He submitted his resignation at the last staff meeting, said Sister Mary Adelle, administrator. A successor has not been named.

The Frieds' two older children, Bruce, 19, and Martha, 13, will stay in the United States to continue their education.

Dr. and Mrs. Fried served in the Baptist Medical Mission in Nigeria before, so this tour of less than a year will not be entirely new to them.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. Fried is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical School and has practiced in Oklahoma since 1946. Mrs. Fried was born in Texas but grew up in Olustee, Okla.

Succeeding Dr. Fried at Holis is Dr. C. C. Pittman, who practiced there two years ago while his wife recovered from a lengthy illness. Since then the couple has also lived in Nigeria, where he did medical mission work.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Parsons, Jr., and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel McDowell of Hereford, left Saturday, July 22, for Rochester, Minn.

Both couples will have check-ups in Mayo Clinic. These were due to have started Monday.

Grass Center Dedication Set

Dedication of the Soil Conservation Service Plant Material Center at Knox City will be held Thursday, Sept. 7.

Plans were announced in Wellington this week by Gary Reed, SCS work unit conservationist.

A field tour at 8:30 a.m. will start the day's activities. The dedication will be at 11 a.m., followed by a dutch treat lunch sponsored by the Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District. There will be additional field tours in the afternoon.

All Salt Fork SCD co-operators and Wellington and Dodson business men interested in grass seed production are urged to go down. Most of the SCS working personnel will attend, Reed said.

Those planning to go should notify the local SCS office.

This field station, specializing in grass seed preparation, belongs to the Soil Conservation Service and is operated by it.

Thomas Proclaims This As Farm Safety Week

County Judge Zook Thomas has officially proclaimed July 23-29, 1967 as Farm Safety Week in Collingsworth County, according to L. A. Davis, president of the county Farm Bureau. The local farm organization is coordinating activities for the special farm safety campaign.

President Johnson and Governor Connally have previously designated that week on national and state levels as the period to call attention to worthwhile safety practices that can reduce disabling injuries and death.

The county farm leader said that the accidental death rate for farm residents has increased since 1961. "If this trend is to be reversed and the needless suffering and losses substantially reduced, each of us must have a renewed effort," Mr. Davis continued. He emphasized that farming remains one of the most hazardous occupations in America today. He also said that farm and ranch families can reduce these costly farm accidents by using some of the tools of safety, such as seat belts, fire extinguishers, and SMV emblems.

In his official proclamation, Judge Thomas said: "All the citizens of Collingsworth County are deeply concerned about the safety and well-being of farm families from whom we receive our abundance of food and other essential agricultural commodities."

"Farm and ranch accidents reap a grim harvest of approximately 150 fatalities and thousands more suffer painful disabling injuries each year in Texas, plus the great economic loss, causes profound physical and psychological damage suffered by members of farm families that are involved."

"During this special week, a statewide farm accident prevention education program will be undertaken by the Texas Farm Bureau, the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, 4-H Clubs, the Texas Safety Association, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America, Young Farmers and Young Homemakers of Texas and the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau, with the theme "Think and Act Safely."

County Farm Bureau President Davis said that a different phase of safety would be emphasized each day during the week: Sunday, reverence for life; Monday, safety begins at home; Tuesday, agricultural chemicals; Wednesday, prevent falls; Thursday, rural highway safety; Friday, farm machinery; Saturday, recreation safety.

Farmers Are Urged to Add Roll-Over Bars to Tractors

AUSTIN.—The Texas Safety Association and the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council join in urging farmers to add protective frames or crush resistant cabs to guard tractor operators in roll-over accidents. Recent studies reveal it takes only two-tenths of a second for a tractor to tip; seven-tenths of a second to complete a roll-over.

Post Safety Tips Around Farm Ponds

AUSTIN.—Farm owners who allow swimming in their ponds should post safety instructions, according to the Texas Safety Association and the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Also, mark safe swimming areas and provide lifesaving devices, such as ring buoys, long poles or ropes.

SMV Emblem Warns Drivers

AUSTIN.—Many farmers are now using the new Slow Moving Vehicle emblem on the rear of farm vehicles to warn motorists of their presence. The emblem, a 14-inch high triangle, glows orange by day, red by night and is visible in most cases for at least 500 feet. The Texas Safety Association and the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council warn drivers to slow down when they see the emblem. It indicates the equipment ahead is traveling at less than 25 miles per hour.

The life of a dollar bill is 13 to 14 months.

Fire Loss Greater on Rural Property

AUSTIN.—When fire occurs on rural property, damage is three to six times greater than in the average city fire, the Texas Safety Association and the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council report. Two-fifths of all damage is to dwellings and their contents, another third to barns and their contents. The remainder of the losses is to outbuildings, machinery and equipment, livestock and produce. The economic loss of the nation's rural residents from fire is approximately $193 million a year.

Your Safety

In Using Electricity Is Greenbelt's Concern

*In Farm Safety Week
We Send This Message to Our Many Valued Members . . .*

You cannot afford to be careless with electricity. Don't try to repair outside lines. It is most dangerous. Instead, call us — 447-2536 day or 447-2556 night, and we will be out immediately. Then ask yourself these questions:

- Are all electric circuits equipped with proper fuses?
- Do you cut off current when working on electric equipment?
- Are you using approved commercial electric fence controllers?
- Is the pathway to the main switchbox clear of all obstructions?
- Do you use moisture proof cords for outside and heavy cords for motors and motor-driven appliances?

If you have one or more of these hazards on your farm we urge you to correct them now.

Safety Pays Off in Bigger Farm Profits

KNOW THESE SAFETY PRECAUTIONS . . .
BE SURE YOUR FAMILY KNOWS THEM!

The more we mechanize our farms, the greater the dangers we face. More and more safety precautions are required. Be wise—follow these 6 safety rules:

- 1 Keep all equipment in good repair. know and use the safety rules in operating machinery on farms and highways.
- 2 Eliminate all fire hazards around your farm . . . and beware of fire dangers at all times. Don't smoke in barns.
- 3 Be careful around water holes, wells and lakes. Learn how to swim and never go out, in or on water by yourself.
- 4 Treat animals with caution — always speak to an animal as it is being approached. A frightened animal may be dangerous.
- 5 Many accidents can be eliminated by keeping your farm clean and neat. Keep buildings in sound condition.
- 6 Learn the methods of first aid — keep a safety kit handy — and always apply first aid promptly when an accident occurs.

Cotton is our way of life, but it is highly mechanized and it is dangerous business, operating as it does with large tractors and equipment, defoliants, chemicals to control insects and weeds, and finally, mechanical harvesting. We urge every customer to observe the rules of safe farming in every step of farming operations.

How much the actions of the Supreme Court and the Administration in former years may have had in laying the foundation for the race riots in the larger cities this summer cannot be evaluated exactly. Nevertheless there is a firm conviction in the minds of many people that there is a definite connection between the two and that the responsibility of suppressing the riots should rest with the Federal Government as well as the states and cities.

While the fundamental causes of the unlawful outbursts of violence are many and complex, it is obvious that the immediate cause of the riots are the professional agitators who have a habit of being seen in the troubled areas just before or at the time of the deadly looting, burning and killing. It amounts to insurrection and war in the streets and the leaders who start the trouble should be tried for inciting a mob, murder and arson.

These professional agitators are enemies of society, in a much larger and more dangerous sense than any of the individual criminals that you see listed among the ten most wanted men. Acts of high crime have been tolerated too long simply because the men who led were operating under some slogan such as black power, civil rights or some other wording designed to impress the politicians. These men should be treated for what they are—criminals.

Never in the long history of our nation have we needed wise and firm leadership in high places as much as we need it today.

This is Farm Safety Week and is an appropriate time to remind farmers that they are engaged in one of the most hazardous occupations in the nation and the most dangerous single machine on the farm is the tractor. It is also dangerous enough on the highway; but proper lights and symbols such as the SMV (slow moving vehicle) have removed a part of this danger.

Mechanical failure is not the cause of most tractor accidents. The careless operator is the number one cause of tractor accidents. Driving up too steep a grade, working too close to embankments and operating a tractor without proper safety equipment are some examples. Now they are recommending that roll bars like you see on some drag racers as well as crush-proof cabs be a part of the equipment. This sounds sensible but no amount of mechanical devices can substitute for a careful driver using common sense and caution at all times.

Increased postal rates plus Zip code costs have plagued weekly newspapers for the past ten years; but now a subcommittee has proposed an increase in county postal rates that would be four times as high as at the present time. This is causing more and more weeklies to start figuring on other ways of delivering their papers and all of these are expensive.

Three weeks ago I wrote of hearing Lt. Comdr. Don Walsh, who is continuing his advanced studies in Oceanography at A&M University, speak before the Texas Press Association convention. Today I received a letter from him which he concluded by saying: "Thanks again for a very accurate report of my remarks at the TPA convention." The letter was not all. He sent a booklet entitled: "The United States and the World Ocean" which he wrote some two years ago. It is a fascinating exposition of the nature and contents and importance of the oceans that constitute 71 percent of the surface of the earth.

Here is one of the many eye-openers in this interesting booklet. "... Very few of us have any real appreciation of how very important seaborne products are to the well-being of our nation. At this point I would like to ask each of you to guess approximately how much of the world's total trade is carried by ship. Consider your own experience — how many trucks, trains, airplanes that you have ever seen — and use this as a basis for your

For the first time in the Buck Creek community, early morning weekday services will be held, beginning at 7:30 a.m. The evening services will be at 8 p.m. Sunday services will be at the usual hours, 10 a.m. and 8:30 p.m., said J. C. Hartman, Jr., who is helping with arrangements.

Bro. Jenkins, whose home is in Wellington, teaches in the Harmon County, Okla., schools and two nights each week he teaches English to Spanish-speaking people at Hollis.

He had served as pastor of churches for a number of years before accepting the Friendship Church.

The public is invited to attend these services, Mr. Hartman said.

During the business session, Wellington was selected for the next work forum, which will be Aug. 17. Detailed arrangements will be announced later.

W. E. Burden of Amarillo, a state Jaycee director, was the speaker, and Glen Warrick, Wellington president, reported on this club's activities.

The West Texas State University Opportunity Plan was discussed.

Attending from Wellington were Mr. Warrick, Ralph Owens, Herman Childress, Jr. Bill Spillman, Don Settle, Jesse Hernandez, Carl Daves, Bill Wilkerson and Duggie Jameson.

Horns of Plenty Audition July 29

Fresh from their selection as the Talent Find of the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau, the Horns of Plenty will play in the Texas Youth Conference auditions in Austin Saturday, July 29 at 4:30 p.m.

If they win that event, they will receive an expense paid trip to the Texas Youth Conference in August, to which several of the group are already delegates.

Playing with the Horns of Plenty are Barry Johnson, piano; Jamie Johnson, drums; Billy McAllister and David Groves, cornets; Chris Hubbard, trombone; and George Alex Kopp, electric guitar.

They will leave Wellington Friday and after a practice session in Austin Saturday morning, they will tour the State Capitol and other points of interest in Austin.

Young Sent To Libya

Glen Young, an employee of Mandrel Industries, with headquarters in Houston, has been sent by his company to Tripoli, Libya, for five weeks.

An accountant, he was sent to get the company's books in order following the recent Middle East Crisis and Arab-Israeli War. He is in charge of foreign accounting for gas and oil for Mandrel Industries.

While he is in Libya, Mrs. Young and their two small daughters, Glenda and Carla, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin Young. From here they will go to Hereford to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Burrus.

guess. The figure is over 99 percent."

Here is some more startling information from Comdr. Walsh's booklet — the capitalization for emphasis is my own: "Today we are faced with a Soviet submarine force that is the largest in the history of submarine warfare and that includes both missile-launching and nuclear submarines. Also one must not forget the Red Chinese submarine fleet, which is the Fourth Largest in the World."

Valances Here From Japan

Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Henry Vallance, Kenneth, Wesley and Valeria Ann visited here recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Vallance and family.

He was here on leave after a three-year tour of duty in Tokyo, Japan.

At the end of his leave, Vallance will be stationed in Washington, D.C. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Joe Terry and daughter of Amarillo visited with the family here Friday.

More Women Sought for LVN Training

The campaign to recruit women for training as licensed vocational nurses continues.

An application blank is published in this week's issue of The Wellington Leader, and women interested can fill it in and take it to the Chamber of Commerce.

If there are enough enrollees, a class can be arranged in an accredited hospital for the one-year course.

There is a demand for licensed vocational nurses both here and throughout the country and the pay is good.

A licensed vocational nurse has professional status, it is pointed out by the Chamber of Commerce, and women up to 55 years of age may enroll.

The LVN training will consist of four months classroom study and eight months combination class work and on-the-job training.

Holland Attends Legion Conclave

This course took up city management and administration and the business of operating other phases of city government. It also covered public relations, combustible material, and handling LP gas.

The section for firemen, which Cagle attended, covered pump maintenance, as well as various phases of fire fighting. This is the third year that Chief Nunnelley has attended and the sixth for Mr. Cagle. The City of Wellington has been represented at the school each year for approximately 30 years.
