Death Relieves Pioneer Citizen From Suffering

Mr. J. W. Ragland, a pioneer citizen of Kimble County, died at his home in Junction August 13, 1930. The funeral services were held on the next afternoon at the Junction Methodist Church, the Rev. Milton F. Hill of Junction and the Rev. J. Virgil Davis of Austin officiating. It was a beautiful service and the floral offering was profuse. The body was laid to rest by the side of his wife in the Junction Cemetery.

Mr. Ragland was born in Yalobusha County, Mississippi, January 24, 1853. He came to Texas in his early manhood. On May 20, 1875, he was married to Miss Annie Plozman and to this union nine children were born. The wife and three children preceded him. One son, Matthew, died at an early age. Another, Jim, died in 1923, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Williams, died in 1927. The following children survive him: T. W. Robert, and B. B. Ragland and Mesdames Dora Wright, Maggie Lowry and Annie Highsmith. He is also survived by 35 grandchildren and 6 great grandchildren.

For more than fifty years Mr. Ragland was an active member of the Methodist Church, being a steward several years. He served as Tax Assessor of Kimble County for eight years, and owing to blindness overtaking him he retired from business eight years ago. During these eight years of blindness and the past many months of illness he was patient, and his Christian hope and faith made life bright for him.

His influence for good lives after him in this and other counties. He left many friends who mourn his home-going.

The following served as pall bearers: Joe Bissett, Leslie Beasley, J. R. Martin, J. N. Hodges, Felix Watson, W. B. Buster, Robert Bissett and Cleve Stephen. Among those from out-of-town to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Plozman and daughter of Gonzales County, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barder of Austin and Jim Freeman of Pilgrim.

WEATHER REPORT

Scattered showers have fallen in Kimble County since our last issue. The government rain gauge kept by Mr. E. Hokekamp registered .48 of an inch last Friday and on Saturday 1.0 of an inch. Some parts of the county had more and others less. On Sunday more than an inch fell in the Copperas community, and other sections reported showers. These local showers are not bringing the needed relief. The fact that the drought is almost nationwide does not bring consolation to our people who are needing rain and then more rain.

MARY HAL HOLLAND IS OWNER SHETLAND PONY

Mary Hal Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal F. Holland, is the proud owner of a fine Shetland pony, a gift from her Uncle John Treadwell. After receiving the pony, Mr. Roy Blackburn presented her with a saddle. She enjoys horseback riding and is now equipped to head the parades on her two-year-old Shetland.

ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM

At the regular meeting of the Junction Chapter of the O. E. S. in the hall at eight o'clock on the evening of August 28, a special program will be rendered celebrating the anniversary of Rob Morris. Every member of the chapter and all visitors are invited to hear this program.

Miss Maud Boone is visiting Katherine Johnson this week.

Pioneer Citizen Is In Junction Tuesday

Mr. John Menges, a former citizen of Kimble County, but now residing temporarily in Menard, was here Tuesday meeting with his old friends. He was born at Fredericksburg 77 years ago and has spent most of his life in this section. He still calls Kimble County his home. At the present time he is interested in securing his part of a large estate that is due him in Germany.

In talking with the Eagle man, Mr. Menges says that he saw the "flat" on which Junction is located under water in 1868. He has killed deer where Junction now stands and killed a bear on North Llano in 1869. He believes in Kimble County and enjoys talking about the early history.

Football Team Enters Ten-Day Training Period

Coach Earl Bowers announces that all football boys will assemble at the high school building early this (Thursday) afternoon to receive equipment, after which they will go to camp for ten days training before the opening of school. Prospects are good for a winning team this season with nine letter men back and several other good men from the second string and some promising new material.

The following are the last year's letter men: Harry Witt, Leonard Dunbar, Gordon King, Sherman Hendricks, Lawson Johnson, Wilbur Jeter, L. E. Dunbar, Denman Ake, Richard Coleman, Jordan, not have a complete list of the men before us and may miss some of the names, but the following are some of the other men who constitute the players this season: Rufus Smelser, Sloan Davis, Arthur Stockton, T. M. Tomberlin, James Hodges, A. J. Hendricks, Raymon Schneider, Gerald Ragland, John Lewis Weaver, Aubrey Winkel, Joe Roberts, Harold Ramsey, J. R. Dunbar, Ake, Richard Coleman, Jordan, Leslie Fish, Howard Lister, —Jobs and others. Coach Bowers says that he is expecting a string of about forty men out this season.

Coach L. B. Martin of Marfa is expected to go into a ten-day camp here with his team. If this aggregation of boys come, the two teams will play a game at the end of the training period. The good record of our team last year is still fresh in the minds of everyone and that record is expected to be duplicated again this season.

BANK WILL CLOSE ON SATURDAY, ELECTION DAY

Next Saturday, August 23rd, is election day and the Junction State Bank will be closed all day. The people are urged to attend to their banking business on Friday and to provide themselves with sufficient change to take care of the business needs on Saturday.

Mrs. R. J. Felps and son, Flem, left last week for Kingsville to be present at the graduation exercises of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Felps. It is unusual for a man and wife to receive degrees at the same time. The many friends of Ernest and his wife congratulate them on the success attained in the educational world.

Dr. J. S. Wright and family of Austin were week-end visitors with Dr. H. E. Wright. They were successful in landing a string of fish.

Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Standifer returned Wednesday from a vacation trip to Corpus Christi.

Second Primary Election Will Be Held on Saturday

County Chairman Howell Wright states that the same presiding judges will be in charge of the second primary Saturday, August 23, that presided over the first primary. The polls will open at eight o'clock Saturday morning and will remain open to voters until seven o'clock that evening. Every qualified voter may cast his ballot in the box of his residence on that day.

The question of residence is often one of the problems on election day. The law says that the residence of a single man is where he usually sleeps at night; that of a married man is where his wife resides. Visitors must take advantage of the absentee voting law to cast a ballot while away from home.

Judges of the election are authorized to administer oaths to ascertain facts necessary to a fair and impartial election. Every effort will be put forth to see that the election in Kimble County is fair to all concerned.

No local contests enter into any boxes except Junction and Evergreen. In the Junction box the names of E. M. Burt and Walter Buck will be found on the ballot for justice of the peace, and in both the Junction and Evergreen boxes A. B. Hodges and J. L. Wright are in the race for commissioner of precinct No. 1. All other boxes have only State races.

Dick Coleman Wins $350.00 Buick Prize

A large crowd gathered between showers at the Highland Chevrolet Company Saturday afternoon at six o'clock to see who would be successful in getting a $350 Buick automobile absolutely free. There were no strings to the proposition. The car had been offered without cost to some one in Kimble County over 18 years old who did not own a car.

County Agent R. E. Homann was master of ceremonies. He selected W. C. Swinney, London, Edgar McLendon, Junction and Miss Josephine Urbon of Junction who assisted him in awarding the car. Warren "Traley's" name was called as the winner of the prize, but as he was out of the city, his name was discarded and Dick Coleman came second and was declared the fortunate owner of a good Buick car. The Highland Chevrolet Company put on a vacation sale of used cars during July and gave away absolutely free the Buick. It was a free gift as it was not necessary to buy anything to enter the contest. While the crowd was gathering for the occasion Mr. Farmer states that two sales of used cars were completed.

Dick is counting on using the car in helping the winning high school football team make the various towns this fall. Dick himself being one of the stars on the team.

LOCAL P.-T. A. WILL MEET 4 P. M., MONDAY, AUG. 25

Mrs. George R. Pepper, president of the local P.-T. A., announces that the local organization will hold its first meeting of the present school year at the high school building at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, August 25.

All the membership are urged to attend this meeting and a cordial invitation is extended to visitors to be present.

A letter from Mitchell McLendon from Paris, France, states that he sailed for America on August 15 and that he would reach home about the 5th of September. He stated in his letter that he has had a great trip and enjoyed every minute of it.

Kendall County Fair Scheduled For Aug. 29-31

Plans are being made to hold the 25th annual Kendall County Fair at Boerne on August 29, 30 and 31, and to commemorate this 25th anniversary. The 1930 Fair will officially be opened with a grand parade on the morning of August 29, starting from the Plaza in Boerne at 9:30 a. m., winding its way to the fair grounds for this looked forward to celebration. Many social and every civic organization of the county will be represented with beautiful floats.

The exhibits in all departments will be bountiful. Arrays of beef and dairy cattle, horses, mules, hogs, sheep and goats can be seen in the live stock department, while in the exhibition hall will be displayed wonderful lines of agricultural and garden yields. In the ladies' department the finest of art, embroidery, handicraft and needlework will be found. The school exhibits will be interesting as well as educational.

For the amusement of the vast crowd that is expected to attend this annual event, the fair association has arranged for gala amusements daily, consisting of thoroughbred horse racing, ball games, show and carnival attractions. The 25-piece Lone Oak Concert Band of New Braunfels will furnish concert music every morning and each afternoon. Every night the school exhibits will be interesting as well as educational.

Election Will Be Held on Saturday

Only two more days and the election will be over and everybody can settle down to work again. Only a few here are showing any undue interest in the heated campaign for governor. Some want Sterling and some want Ferguson, but our people are not letting the campaign disturb friendships, and it is hoped that Saturday will close without anyone losing his temper and saying and doing things that he will regret. It has never been the policy of the Eagle to take "sides" in political controversies. Most people know how they want to vote and it would serve no good purpose for a weekly paper to be "mixed up" in politics.

The only admonition of the Eagle is for the people to go to the polls and vote. The ballot will be cast Saturday and found elsewhere in this issue. Junction has two local contests — Commissioner and Justice of the Peace. The Telegraph box will vote on the commissioners' race, but all other boxes will vote only on the state races. Look up the ballot and remember that there are six state races that should be given careful consideration.

GROUP 23 OF LIONS WILL MEET IN SONORA ON MONDAY, AUGUST 25

A letter from Sonora states that Group 23 of the Lions will meet in Sonora on Monday, August 25, and a special invitation is extended the Junction Lions to be present. The Sonora Lions will observe their annual Pajama Day on the 25th and visiting Lions are invited to join in the parade.

Mrs. Carl Glossbrenner and daughter, Juanita, and Miss Maurine Howard of Uvalde, niece of Mrs. Glossbrenner, have returned home after a two-month stay at Long Beach, California, with Mrs. Earl Glossbrenner, who is there under treatment. She is doing well, but will be there some time yet. These ladies made this round trip of 3,600 miles in an auto with very little trouble. They were water-bottle five hours on their return.

County Agent Retained For Another Year

In a meeting of the commissioners' court last week Mr. R. E. Homann was elected county demonstration agent for another year. He recently returned from College Station where he attended the Short Course and was one of the instructors. He presented the court with a picture of the projects the boys have been working with the past year.

Mr. Homann is now busy with plans for the coming year's work. The continued dry weather hinders some of his work, but he is lining the boys up on feeding projects and will have something to show the people before the year is out, unless conditions continue to grow worse. He hopes this year to continue the work of terracing in the farming section of the county. The pecan industry will also come in for considerable attention as well as all phases of the livestock industry.

Jury Is Unable To Agree In The McIntyre Case

After a trial of five days with night sessions, the jury in the case of the State of Texas vs. S. H. McIntyre, charged with cattle theft, were unable to agree and were discharged. The case was brought here on a change of venue, having been tried once in Pecos County with the same result. This was one of the hardest fought cases ever tried here with District Attorney Ed Yarbrough, Henry Russell of Pecos, and Stevenson, Baker & Knetsch of Junction representing the State, and Will A. Morris of San Antonio and M. E. Blackburn of Junction for the defense.

More than one hundred witnesses were summoned in the case, and with a large number of people in attendance at both the day and night sessions, the court house was a busy place during the trial. The bringing of this important case to Kimble County is a result of the new court house and is another evidence of the necessity of the new building. The case could not have been handled in the old building and it would not have been safe for the large number of people to have attempted to assemble in the old building.

Two pleas of guilty in pistol cases, the settlement by agreement in several civil suits, an instructed verdict in a burglary case were among the other cases handled in the term of court.

GRADY KINDRICK BUYS THE JUNCTION MARKET

Mr. Grady Kindrick has bought the Junction Market and will open Friday with Mr. W. M. McDonald in charge. Mr. Kindrick states that he will keep in stock only the best grade of fresh and cured meats. He will use only packing house meat. He asks that his friends call at the Junction Market on the west side of the square where good meat, milk, butter and eggs will always be found.

Misses Brownie and Blackie Motley had as their guests last week Misses Ruth and Pat Lambert, "Son" Vaughn and Miss Doris Vera Wheeler of Menard.

Miss Margaret Oliver will receive her degree from the North Texas Teachers' College next week. She has been employed as physical education teacher in Beaumont for the next session.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hathaway and two children, Mrs. C. P. Sparkman and daughter, Mrs. Marvin J. Nutt, all of Beville, and Mrs. F. E. Hathaway of San Antonio, returned to their homes last Friday after a pleasant vacation on the Llano.

Death Claims One Of Kimble Co's. Best Citizens

Mrs. Mary Emma Stevenson died in San Antonio Tuesday, August 19, and the body was brought to Junction for burial. The funeral services were held at the Junction Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. G. W. Crabb of the Baptist Church and the Rev. Milton F. Hill of the Methodist Church officiating.

Mrs. Mary Emma Pickett Stevenson was born in Cooper, Texas, June 6, 1892. She moved with her family to Pickett, Texas, where they resided some time, before moving to Kimble County in 1914. She was married to Roscoe Stevenson in 1923, and to this union was born one son, who was only six days old when his mother died. In addition to her infant son, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Kate E. Pickett, four sisters — Mesdames Lillie Hickerson, T. C. Dodson, Vara James Stephen, Ora Isbell, and two brothers — C. H. Pickett and Lee Pickett, besides many other relatives.

When fifteen years old she united with the Baptist Church at Pickett, Texas, and lived a devoted and consistent member until her death. For several years she was a teacher in the Junction Sunday School. She was also a member of the O. E. S. She was truly a good woman and her untimely death brings sorrow to all who knew her.

The following out-of-town people were here to attend the funeral:

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pickett, Mercedes; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Dodson, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Isbell and daughter, Rockwall; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Motley, Ballinger; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Herring, Mason; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stevenson and family, Longrove; Mrs. W. D. Randolph, Menard; Mrs. Pearl Osborne, Longrove.

Junction Men Hear Moody In San Angelo

Messrs. Emil A. Loeffler, W. P. Riley, Conrad T. Hokekamp and Edgar McLendon attended the Moody speaking in San Angelo last night. All four of the visitors state that it was one of the largest and the most orderly political meetings they ever attended. The large municipal auditorium was literally packed and for two hours they listened to Dan Moody tell of the campaign.

Governor Moody read from the record many of the things done during the tenure of office of both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. He was not necessarily bitter in his denunciation of the Ferguson record but confined himself to the records made by them. He told of the misappropriation of funds and the impeachment of Jas. E. Ferguson. He read from the records many of the things for which Ferguson is criticised.

He criticised Mrs. Ferguson's highway policy and pardon policy. He says that Ferguson is going up and down the country telling that he turned the penitentiary over to him (Moody) out of debt when it was nearly two million dollars in debt.

Moody compared the characters and achievements of Sterling and Ferguson and asked the people to choose which one was best to vote for for Governor.

Mr. Leon Durst, manager of the Associated Press for the state of Oklahoma, arrived Monday for a vacation visit with his vacation they will drive back. His wife and daughter have been here some time. After his vacation they will drive back to Oklahoma City. Leon has many friends in Junction and Kimble County who are always glad to see him.

Grand Jury Submits Report

The following is a copy of the grand jury report submitted to Judge Joe G. Montague upon adjournment of the grand jury last week:

We, your grand jury, beg leave to submit the following report and recommendations because we believe that such recommendations will be of material benefit to the officers of this county as well as beneficial to the entire citizenship of the county, same being as follows:

We have examined many witnesses pertaining to the moral condition of our county and while we find that the general conditions along that line are not so very serious yet it is our opinion that many parents are too lax on their children, especially young girls, and fail to keep in close touch with them so as to know in what kind of society they are or where they go or what they do and the result is that many parents are being publicly criticised and damaging reports are being circulated about their children. Of course we realize that it is useless for the grand jury to make any recommendations as to what parents should do and we only call attention to this matter so that parents may know that such conditions exist in this county and that they might check up on their children and see that everything goes well with them.

We also find that the prohibition law is being violated and that it is hard for our officers to enforce this law because many people who know of such violations shield the violators of the law and many, perhaps, refuse to report such because they do not want to be entangled in court with such matters.

We wish to call the court's attention, as well as the attention of all other enforcement officers of the county, to the fact that it is our opinion that too much negligence has heretofore been permitted in taking and approving appearance bonds for parties who have been arrested, or indicted, in this county for law violations. We have examined a number of bonds in both misdemeanor and felony cases and we find that practically all that we have examined are worthless and that the State is helpless in case such party fails to appear and it has no remedy whereby the sureties can be made to pay the amount of the bonds. We also examined one bond in a capital case, where an indictment was returned against the party and his bond set at $5000 which we believe was a reasonable and fair bond for the offense charged in the indictment but later the bond was reduced to $750 which we do not think was a sufficient amount for such an offense as that charged in the indictment. This bond was signed by the defendant but was not signed by the sureties but was approved and the defendant released.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turner visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davis in Sonora Sunday.

It is our opinion that no bond should be approved, in a felony case, without same was first presented to the district attorney and approved upon his recommendation that same was a good and sufficient bond, or disapproved should the district attorney not recommend that same be approved. We do not deem it necessary that the district attorney should have the right to say who are good and sufficient sureties but that he should have the right and be requested to pass on the legality of the same before it is approved for the protection of the State. We, therefore, recommend that hereafter adequate bonds be required of each and every person charged with an offense in this county and that it be seen to that no bond is approved unless same is in legal form and sufficient to protect the State in case the defendant fails to appear. We suggest, therefore, that Your Honor call attention to the proper officers of this county to these suggestions and have them see to it that such negligence does not occur again.

We also find that certain persons have been promised immunity from prosecution, in examining trials in this county, provided they would make a confession and tell all they know of the offense committed and we find that some of the officers of this county entered into such an agreement, in writing, with such parties and we fail to see whereby the State could gain anything by such agreement, even if such an agreement is not binding on the State we do not see the need of such practice and recommend that such do not occur again.

We do not submit the foregoing for the purpose of criticizing any particular official of this county but we submit the same for the purpose of trying to correct a condition that we believe is harmful to our county and one that should be remedied by pursuing a different method from that heretofore pursued.

We deem it a great privilege to have been members of the first grand jury to serve in the new court house recently erected in our city and county and it has been a pleasure to us to work in same. We feel that every citizen of the county should be proud of this building which would be a credit to a city many times the size of ours and we commend those officials who had charge of the construction and furnishing the same and feel that they should be congratulated for their accomplishment.

We wish to thank the court and all the officers of the court in the assistance that we have had in pursuing our work and trust that it will be as pleasant for the grand juries in the future, in performing their duties, as it has been with us.

Respectfully submitted,
Arthur L. Mudger,
Foreman.

Mr. C. W. McCarroll and son, C. W. Jr., left San Angelo Sunday for a visit with relatives in California. They were accompanied to San Angelo by C. W. and Arthur Lee.

SNOW KEEPS ARGENTINE VOTERS AWAY FROM POLLS

San Luis, Argentina, Aug. 18.—A snowstorm kept many voters from the polls Sunday as the gubernatorial election of San Luis Province was held.

We drove over part of the farming section Sunday and must confess the cotton crop is nearer a failure than we ever saw it. In general it is too far gone for rain to help the short crop. The low price of live stock and the scarcity of money all combined creates a condition next to distressing, but with all this we will pull through all right. We may not have as much paint and powder, style and stiffness—in fact we may not look as elegant and handsome but I believe we will pull through these hard times with more common sense and a better understanding of our smallness, realizing more fully our insignificance than before it came upon us, and if changes come about we will be better men and women and more worthy American citizens and more entitled to the claim of being highly civilized and cultured, don't you?

The Christian revival conducted by evangelist Fisher is in progress. Brother Fisher is an interesting talker and judging by the two sermons I have heard him preach, he is a real preacher. He simply draws the line and tells all present where they stand, either on the right or on the left side. We need just such preaching. We have had little, narrow, denominational stuff so much and so long that many think that is all, that the Bible only teaches these narrow beginnings, but this man Fisher is able to lead you out into the Christian life, giving parallel scriptures of both old and new Testament teachings. He has not skinned me personally but he has already placed me on the wrong side of the line, but still I am not lonesome. Give us more such preaching and I will guarantee more powerful influence for good by those who wear the name of Christian. Stand to the rack; he'll do you good!

Ferguson Pardon Record Recounted By Sec'y of State

Austin, Aug. 14.—The pardon record of former Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson was discussed by Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, Secretary of State, at precinct rallies in Travis County Tuesday.

"Practically all State papers have quoted Jim Ferguson's promise in case of his wife's election to release immediately 2,000 convicts," Mrs. McCallum said.

"In this connection and as my conclusion I have reserved some heretofore undivulged facts. They have not been divulged before because they were compiled only this week. They are indisputable, sworn facts that are of record in my office and I believe are without parallel in the history of any civilized Government. SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS BEATRICE WILLIAMS

On Wednesday evening at 1532 North Seventh Street, Mrs. W. E. Evers of Pyote, Texas, and Miss Ina Hooten were joint hostesses at a surprise shower honoring Miss Beatrice Williams whose marriage to Mr. Dan Newton will be solemnized on Sept. 18.

The Hooten home was decorated in pastel shades of pink and green, and lovely flowers adorned the rooms where the guests assembled to register in the bride's book. After a meek wedding ceremony in which Miss Christine Schraub of Junction, Miss Doris Ward, Miss Alline Ford and Miss Ina Hooten participated, little Bobbie Dee Hooten entered with a heavily laden carriage which was found to contain many lovely gifts for the bride-to-be.

iced refreshments were served to the honoree and Mesdames Boyd, Morris, Agee, Edmondson, Sheppard, Bacon, Hooten, Ford, Williams and C. T. Framell of Pyote, Misses Alita Hunter, Doris Ward, Alline Ford, Marie Harrison, Dorothy Ward, Lamoine Edmondson, Erma Lee Graham, Christine Schraub of Junction, Vera Maude Williams and Lena Grace Sanderson of San Saba.

Miss Williams is well known in Junction, having been a frequent visitor here with Miss Christine Schraub.

LITTLE CLUB

Mrs. Watt Turner was hostess to the members of the Little Club Wednesday afternoon, August 13, at her home.

Pot plants and cut flowers were placed about the rooms. Mrs. Rudolph Tatum made high score and was rewarded with a pair of hand embroidered tea towel. The high cut prize, a wood salad set, went to Mrs. Guy Moses.

Sandwiches, potato chips, olives, iced tea and cake were served to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Tatum, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Jarvis, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Standifer, Mr. and Mrs. Joy Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Moses, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hamer and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Borden.

Zinnias and fern provided decoration. Colorful Japanese lanterns were used for lighting. Mrs. Pierce Hoggett made ladies' high score and was presented with a crystal lotion set. A clothes brush, the men's prize, was won by Mr. V. P. Emmons. Mrs. L. D. Borden and Mr. Watt Turner made low scores and received respectively, a deck of cards and a cartoon of cigarettes.

Pineapple ice and cake brought the evening to a pleasant close. Chocolate cigarettes provided amusing favors for the ladies and cigars were given as favors to the men.

LINEN SHOWER GIVEN TO MRS. WM. R. McKEE

Tuesday evening Mesdames W. P. Riley and A. L. Mudger and Miss Mary Spiller were hostesses at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Riley in honor of Mrs. W. R. McKee, nee Miss Tottie Martin, a bride of the spring.

The guests assembled in the spacious living room and with Mrs. O. D. Nance at the piano, playing Spanish melodies, the crowd marched to the lawn where inviting chairs and seats covered with Mexican serapes were placed. Vari-colored lights were strung overhead and an atmosphere of old Mexico pervaded the scene. At the rear of the lawn was a sign "Mexican Border," and later in the evening the guests were invited to cross the border.

The guest book was under the care of Mrs. Fred Felthouse of San Antonio, who requested each guest to draw a picture of a pig in the book and sign her name. The book was later presented to Mrs. McKee. A china pig was awarded Mrs. O. D. Nance for drawing the best pig.

Mrs. Trevor Whyne of San Antonio won a pretty flower-filled vase in the flower contest. Mrs. V. P. Emmons won the next contest and received a similar prize.

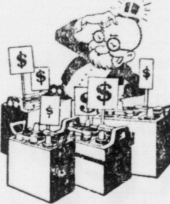

Mrs. Guy Wynne graciously rendered a vocal solo. Miss Jewell Riley, charmingly costumed as a Mexican senorita, and Mrs. R. E. Homann masquerading as a dashing senor, presented a Mexican dance with Mrs. O. D. Nance playing the piano accompaniment.

After the trip into Old Mexico the handsome senor trundled a much labeled trunk across the lawn to Mrs. McKee, declaring that she had left the trunk in Mexico. When opened the trunk proved to be full of beautiful linens, the gift of Mrs. McKee's friends.

At the rear of the lawn in a charming nook, on a table spread with a Mexican drawn-

Geographies Are Unfair To Texas Says Committee

The publicity committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which met in Abilene last Friday petitioned the executive board of the organization to file damage suits for at least one million dollars against textbook publishing houses for their "scandalously untrue" descriptions of the West Texas territory in geographic studies in public schools of this and other states.

The committee submitted a brief filled with quotations from geographies, many of them published as late as 1929, in which West Texas was described as semi-arid, unfitted for agriculture, swept by piercing winds and having no oil, wheat or cotton production.

"A child studying these texts," the brief continued, "would never know that West Texas in 1929 produced 40 per cent of the state's cotton, one-seventh of the entire nation's oil and four-fifths of its mohair."

"If West Texas is to secure her rightful place in the sun these untrue statements must be corrected, and the impressions now being created in our geographies upon the plastic minds of the school children of the nation must be corrected to conform more nearly to the facts," the report continued.

Other sections of Texas also were defended in the report. Attention was called to the statement in one geography that "the whole course of the Rio Grande lies through arid country," making no mention of the lower valley. Another informs the school boy and girl that "sulphur mining is an industry of great importance in Louisiana," entirely passing up the facts that Texas produces 99 per cent of the world's supply.

New Endurance Record Is Made; In Air 4 Weeks

A new endurance air record was made Sunday when Jackson and O'Brine were forced down after having been in the air 27 days—93 hours and 47 minutes longer than Hunter Brothers, who made a new record on July 4.

Motor trouble and oil leakage caused the pilots, Oale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine to unexpectedly end their long grind, to insure safety. The motor had been missing and throwing oil during the night and the flyers said they thought there was a crack in the crank case.

A preliminary inspection by mechanics failed to reveal any crack in the crank case or to accurately determine the cause of the trouble. The plane and the motor were badly smeared with oil.

The sudden descent startled a crowd of about 500 sleepy-eyed observers, including a flock of camera men and reporters who had been sleeping on improvised beds on the field for several days. The flyers had radioed the ground crew a few minutes before the landing that they were coming down.

O'Brine was at the controls as the plane swooped down for an easy landing and taxied to a hangar. It was several minutes before the dazed crowd could fully realize what had occurred and there was only a flutter of a demonstration, contrasted with the wild scene staged on the same field in July, 1929, when the same air-men landed with a 420-hour record with 25,000 looking on.

Jackson and O'Brine said the plane's motor first began showing signs of weakness Saturday night. The flyers managed to keep it going until dawn, hoping that an inspection by daylight would enable them to make repairs and keep the ship aloft. At dawn Jackson crawled out onto the catwalk, he said, and observed the situation.

Deciding it would be impossible to make repairs, the flyers waited until their fuel ran low and then came down.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Standing on a New York street corner a young woman suddenly discovers that she does not know her own name nor how she got there. Everything in her past is a blank. She knows only that her name is "Eric." She meets a man who lives at the hotel where she is registered as "Miss Nobody from Nowhere," which she has written in French. Eric Hamilton calls in a nurse specialist, but Eric slips out of the hotel, goes to a little apartment house, where she meets a professional dancer who gets her a job in a cabaret.

As a cabaret business she meets many curious people. Then, one night, a man who claims to recognize her comes in. She is afraid of him and runs away, back to the hotel to Eric Hamilton. She has her hair dyed and changes her manner of dress, so that the stranger out of her old life will not recognize her. Then Hamilton persuades her to go through a marriage ceremony with him. As they return to the hotel the man she fears is waiting. Hamilton sends her to the rooming house to the other man, who says his name is now GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Thank you, Mr. Henderson. My name is Eric Hamilton, and I'm from Chicago, too. That ought to be a head."

"Thanks. And now," Henderson added in a level tone, "I'd like to have you tell me what you meant by speaking of Miss Carrington as your wife."

Eric permitted himself a glance of surprise, while mentally he registered the name.

"I meant that the lady and I are married," he suavely informed the caller.

"Since when?"

"Oh, for some little time."

"The hotel people didn't seem to know anything about it. They called her Miss Parsons."

"One doesn't confide all one's affairs to the hotel people, you know," Hamilton mildly pointed out. "And I admit we're newly weds. Still," he added, "we meant to tell them tonight."

"They call Miss Carrington 'Miss Berson' uptown and 'Miss Parsons' at this hotel. I can't understand," Henderson went on as Hamilton took this in silence.

"Why she changed her name after skipping out the way she did. But why the devil should she have two names?"

"Four," Hamilton corrected: "Carrington, Parsons, Berson and Hamilton. But Hamilton is the real one. Berson is the result of a blunder. Someone uptown twisted Parsons into Berson and the habit spread."

"Damn queer, I call it," Henderson muttered. "And cutting me dead when I finally found her," he ended. "That's beyond belief."

As Hamilton made no comment on this outburst, Henderson added with an evident effort at self-control:

"Wasn't this marriage of yours rather sudden?"

"I suppose you might call it so," Eric conceded. "But we've known each other more than a fortnight, and lots of couples don't wait that long. Strangers in the same town get better acquainted in a few weeks of vacation, you know, than they ordinarily would in a year," he bromidically pointed out.

"Vacation!" Henderson broke out, so loudly that his companion had to remind him of the time and place by an apprehensive look around the room. It worked. Henderson lowered his voice.

"Do you realize, young man, that this bride of yours skipped out, without warning, a week before she was billed to make her first American appearance at the most important musical event of the year—the big Chicago benefit for the flood sufferers? . . . And that isn't all she's done," he ended with a groan.

"No," Hamilton slowly admitted, "I didn't realize that. What else has she done?"

Henderson sent him a sudden peering look from his near-sighted eyes, but he was too full of his own troubles to be analytical.

"She's wrecked half a dozen October concert engagements, that's what she's done," he bitterly announced, "including one with the Chicago Orchestra and another with the Philadelphia Orchestra. And she has knocked on the head the prettiest autumn recital ever planned for an artist. It was to come off early next month. That was bad enough; but of course we all made allowances for her because of the awful shock she'd had—"

"She hasn't said much about that shock," Eric confessed. "I wish you would tell me the whole story."

Henderson leaned nearer and peered into his face again, this time more closely.

"See here," he suddenly demanded. "Why should I talk over Miss Carrington's affairs with you? I don't know anything about you."

"We're fifty-fifty on that," Hamilton reminded him. "But I'm her husband."

"I've only you word for it," "I can give you proof any time it's necessary. But first I want to know a whole lot more about you. Where do you come in on Eve's affairs?"

Henderson turned squarely and stared at him. He seemed unable to speak.

"Do you mean to say," he inquired at last, "that my name doesn't mean anything more than a name to you, and that Eve Carrington married you without telling you about me?"

"Not a thing. Not a word," Henderson hunched forward, eyes on the rug at his feet.

"Well," he muttered, "that certainly ties up the package . . . with a string! I thought no musician could surprise me, for the Lord knows they're a crazy lot. But this!" He met Hamilton's sympathetic eyes.

"You see," he added deliberately, emphasizing every word. "I happen to be Eve's dead father's lifelong friend, and her guardian, and her manager, and the man she was going to marry!"

Hamilton's breath caught under the blow, but he took it with outward calmness.

"Now that we understand each other, suppose you tell me about the shock my wife had before she left Chicago," he suggested. "She doesn't even mention it."

"That's easy, though I guess you've read most of the details. You know all about the drownings, of course."

"I don't even know what you mean."

Henderson took out his handkerchief and wiped his moist face.

"It's very odd you don't know," he muttered. "Hasn't Eve told you anything at all?"

"I've admitted that she hasn't discussed the shock."

"I suppose that isn't strange, really. She was shot to pieces by it, poor girl."

"Eric caught his arm. "Mr. Henderson," he cried, "I wish you'd stop beating about the bush and tell me that whole story from start to finish."

"All right," Henderson agreed. He went on with increasing seriousness:

"I'll start at the beginning. Eve was pretty tired when she got back to America the first of July, after her European tour, and the year ahead of her here was going to be just as strenuous as the past year. She's a genius, you know . . . a wonder. Even now there isn't another American pianiste who can touch her. She'll head all the worn players of the world in a few years more. You don't need to know anything about music to realize she's a genius," Henderson was saying. "You have only to hear her play."

"I've never heard her play," Hamilton spoke absently, irritated by the departure from the main theme. He immediately regretted his words, for Henderson was plainly amazed by them.

"What!" he gasped. "You've known Eve Carrington more than two weeks and haven't heard her play! Still," he now remembered, "she had turned from her music completely during that last week in Chicago—"

"You were talking about the Heckner drownings," Eric reminded him.

Henderson shook his gray head.

"It doesn't seem possible," he brought out. "I can't imagine Eve away from a piano that long, even in the nervous state she was in. But I suppose it's no more impossible than the rest of this business."

"Eve went to Mackinac early in August, for a fortnight's rest. She was the guest of the Heckners, in their summer home there. She's an intimate friend of Mrs. Heckners, who is devoted to her and was doing everything she could to make Eve's first American season a big success.

"Eve is strong for boating and swimming and every sort of outdoor sport," Henderson went on, having replaced the spectacles. "I learned 'em when she was a kid, and keeps herself fit that way. The Heckner children (there were four of them) were crazy about her, and spent most of their time at her heels. They were just learning to row and swim, but of course they were never allowed to go off by themselves. However, they knew there was an old boat a mile or so up the beach, and they sneaked off alone one morning and got that boat into the water and pushed out in it. Their governess thought they had merely run away from her to play on the sand, but, just the same, she chased along the beach, looking for them, and on the way another child met her and told her what the youngsters had done. They were pretty far out by that time."

"Yes. Go on."

"It was early and the shore was almost deserted; but Eve had happened along with two women she walked with every morning. She and her friends had been standing for a few minutes watching the rowboat and wondering why the devil it was acting so queer. Suddenly they saw it capsize . . . and at the same time the Heckner governess came running toward them, off her head with terror and shrieking that all the children had been in that boat."

Henderson stopped again.

"Eve took just time enough to kick off her shoes before she raced into the water and started for the kids. She realized that it was all up to her, for most of the men were away that day, and the governess and the other two women couldn't swim a stroke. One of them had sense enough to rush back toward town for help, and the other raced around on the sand, yelling."

He stopped again, took the big cigar from his lips, and looked at it as if wondering how it got there.

"I knew those kids, myself," he explained. "I'd been at Mackinac over the previous week-end and I had taken the twins out rowing. Oh, well . . . He restored the cigar to his mouth, puffed at it fiercely for a moment, and resumed:

"Eve's a good swimmer, but it was a hard pull, for the boat had upset almost a quarter of a mile from shore and her skirt was heavy and the lake was rough. All four youngsters were clinging to the boat when she got out to them, and when they saw her, the twin boys—ten, they were—began to laugh. They thought it was all over now but the fun of the rescue. They told her to take the girls first, which of course she'd have done anyway, so she took the youngest, little Nancy Heckner, who is only seven, and brought her in all right. She flung Nancy to the woman on shore, to be looked after, and she tore off her soaked skirt and went right out again for the next girl, Mary, who isn't quite nine. Mary was about ready to go under by this time, and the twins were trying their best to help her.

"There wasn't any smiling now, but the boys bucked up when their sister was taken off their hands, and promised Eve they'd hold on till she got back. But Herman said goodbye as she started off, and she didn't like that indication or the way he had looked. It rattled her and she had an awful time getting Mary to shore, for the kid was in a panic. The newspaper men did a lot of fancy writing on that second rescue. She got Mary to shore, though, and started back a third time. The women tried to hold her then, for they saw she was about all in, but she went. "She went," he repeated softly. "The twins sank before she reached them, so she started diving . . ."

"Go on!" Hamilton begged again, and the big man obeyed after a glance at him. It was clear to each of them now that the other loved the girl they were discussing.

"The woman that ran back to town had found some men in a field," Henderson continued. "and they finally got a boat and reached Eve just in time to save her. It took almost an hour to bring her to consciousness after they got her to shore. They brought back one of the twins, Herman, with her, but he was dead when they got him to the surface. Henry's body wasn't recovered till that afternoon. It was a ghastly business . . . but Eve had saved the two little girls."

"That was stunning!" Hamilton said on a choked breath.

"Of course it was stunning," Henderson agreed.

IT'S WISE TO CHEVROLET CHOOSE A SIX

Announcing a new production record

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder engine—the comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil, tire and upkeep economy is unsurpassed. And

Are There 2 Types Angora Goats

(By J. D. Cowser)

In recent years some of the breeders of Angora goats in the United States have been trying to distinguish them by type, with little success, according to my judgment.

In some of the shows prizes are offered on "B" type and "C" type goats in separate classes. The question is, where is the line between the two types? And is it characteristic with goats to be "C" type at one age and "B" type at another? Can a breeder go into his flock of goats and take out all of the animals of a single type, place them on a separate ranch and expect them to remain a flock of that special type? If not why try to make a distinction between "ringlet fleecce B type" and "flat lock fleecce C type"? I think the majority of the best goats we have in this country finally develop what is known as a flat lock fleecce however they may show more or less ringlets in the fleecce earlier in life, say as kids or yearlings.

conducted shows. I am not an owner of goats, and therefore, it might be understood that the subject of this article is not a personal complaint, but a fight for the future of the goat industry. (which holds great interest for me in a general way.)

Is it not correct that what is known as a "C" type goat, either develops into a "B" type (so called) by the time it is five years old, or into a "has been" at about the same age? Is it not true that the so-called "B" type goat has a tendency to become rather coarse and greasy fleeced at mature age?

You would not want your flock known as "C" type because that would signify that they were rather light shearers, or their shearing quality would fade like a dream.

And you would not like for anyone to mention your flock as "B" type because that would signify that they were coarse and greasy, and not desirable because the mohair buyers want fine fiber, and the grease all washes away in scouring.

We should not overlook the fact that it absolutely is not necessary to have coarse hair and extreme grease to get weight. Why can't all breeders recognize this fact?

What we want is denser fleeces with more uniform length and covering together with enough oil to preserve the hair only, and not so much of the disguising grease and dirt.

The goat raising public is fast educating itself on this particular subject, and sooner or later we will be unable to fool them with a lot of grease and dirt, and just some mohair.

Let's put all the desirable qualities in one animal instead of two or more, and forget this type business, because the fleecce from neither would bring the maximum price.

This article is not meant to criticize any individual's work of ideals, but just to put a question in your mind that might be worth a little consideration.

I admire a man who has put enough time and thought into his business to run a true, distinct, and uniform type of angora goat, whether it be the correct type or not.—Sheep and Goat Raisers' Magazine.

Does making this distinction help the industry in any way? Does it simplify the difficulty of holding a show that is honest, just, and satisfactory to everyone concerned? Do show officials have less trouble in placing the animals correctly? If all these things are not true, why whip the devil around the stump.

There cannot be but one type of Angora in the United States and that is the type that puts more figures in the return book.

Of course there are several classes of them, among them are, good, better and best, the three principal classes.

It will be discouraging to a breeder to ship his show stock a long distance to enter a show, not knowing whether or not he will have a chance to compete with all the best animals in the show, and not knowing in which type his animals will be placed for the show, by the committee for that purpose. And probably the committee will not be able to agree on which type they are.

Every one knows that there is nothing better for any industry than keen competition among the producers, and there is nothing better to keep competition strong than plenty well

MISSOURI PACIFIC EMPLOYEES OPERATE BIG BUSINESS

RAILROAD WORK naturally attracts the finest men and women in America, primarily, I believe, because it offers the greatest opportunity for service. And there is no happiness that can equal the satisfaction that comes to an individual with the knowledge that some worthwhile service has been achieved to make the world a better place in which to live. This is one of the reasons the Missouri Pacific Lines is a genuine "Service Institution."

The wonderful morale of the Missouri Pacific organization has been remarked throughout the industrial world. Many have believed there is some mystery in it. Some suggest it is the result of lucky accidents. It is neither. But it is worthy of note and comment. Because railroads generally and the Missouri Pacific particularly have drawn into their ranks the best of the citizenship and because once engaged in it few ever leave railroad work. As a result there has been built up over a long period of years a great industrial family.

Missouri Pacific men and women are good citizens as well as good railroaders. They are valuable assets to every community in which they work and live. And their abilities are not limited to the field of transportation. Among other things, the employees of the Missouri Pacific, themselves, own and operate a hospital system that comes within the classification of "Big Business."

This "business" with revenues of $15,000,000 in 1929 and operating expenses of $92,000,000 and with buildings and other assets valued at $1,942,522.11 cared for 3,311 patients last year, with an average of 140 patients a day and an average of 15 days hospitalization per patient or a total of 49,982 hospital days. The entire institution is owned, governed and operated by the employees and their representatives and this is only one of many reasons for the magnificent morale and esprit de corps of the Missouri Pacific family of railroad workers.

The management of the property maintains a liberal pension system for employees incapacitated through illness, injury or age and this, also, is another reason for the wonderful feeling of loyalty that makes the Missouri Pacific organization an outstanding one.

Both the management and the Missouri Pacific family have complete realization of their duties and responsibilities as citizens and human beings as well as railroaders and both are striving to live up to the highest ideals and traditions of our country as well as those of our railroad. These are only a few of the reasons the public gets "super service" from the Missouri Pacific, "A Service Institution."

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

State Dept. of Agriculture reports a possible yield of less than one-fourth normal crop of pecans in Texas this year. In Kimble County there is indication of a fair yield, with the quality first class. . . . Kimble County growers have taken preliminary steps to become a unit of the national pecan marketing association.

Fall shearing of goats is getting well under way in Kimble County and numerous clips have already been received at Junction wool warehouse. . . . Advances on mohair by the Nat'l Co-Op this fall were recently announced as 30c on grown hair and 40c on kid.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Wright, in town Wednesday from Watson Divide, reported a two-inch rain Saturday over most of their range and grass green all around. Saturday's rain in the divide section was confined principally to the ranges of the Bundys, Tommy Conwersets and Wrights.

Hundreds of vacationists, seeking relief from the humid heat of the southern country, have thronged the tourist resorts of the classic Llanos this year; in fact most every camp has been running full-house since the opening of the summer season. . . . San Antonio Express, in a recent editorial on vacation season, said: "The long hot, dry spell has set in relief the Hill Country's deep-shaded, unfauling streams, its mild temperature and cool nights."

A Washington survey notes that retail food prices, in most instances, show a marked decline over a year ago, with the possible exception of corn, tomatoes, cheese and pork products, on which prices have maintained fairly level due to drought conditions across the United States. . . . Practically all food products in our stocks show a decline of 15 to 25% over a year ago, excepting the items enumerated above.

Sheep seldom make profitable use of grain when good grazing is available. One hundred pounds of grain in a year for one ewe and her lambs is usually the maximum that can be fed profitably. Under some conditions, flocks keep in good condition and lambs may be marketed without any grain.

You can read in any part of the room with this wonderful kerosene mantle lamp. The beautiful design of the satin white shade conforms with the design on the bowl in such a way as to produce a very artistic effect. It's a pleasure to do evening reading, writing or sewing under the white, soft mellow light of this new modernized Aladdin Table Lamp.

No Generating; Waiting; Pressure; Noise; Smoke; Odor; or Trouble

Feed and Cattle

Recent rains have enlivened the country and prospects are good for more rain. A fair corn crop has been made and much hay has already been baled. The rains will cause much of the feed to put on a second crop. Everyone who has any kind of stubble land should put forth every effort to get a second crop of hay this fall.

Feed can be marketed for a good price when fed at home. A recent demonstration in Mitchell County when eight calves were fed shows that the farmer received full market value for his feed and also a profit of $45.50 on each calf. In addition to the value of the feed and profit on the calves, the land is enriched by feeding at home.

We believe in a policy of living at home and encourage the production of feed on the farms and ranches.
