Mineral Wells Candidate Requests That Name Not Be Considered In Race: Plan Is Offered

BY CHARLES A. GUY Staff Correspondent

EL PASO, Oct. 24.—Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, banker, representative of eastern capital and at present chairman of the directors of the Texas Technological college, today became a "dark horse" candidate for president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the fiscal year of 1929-1930.

The suggestion "let's draft Clifford B. Jones" was voiced this morning and before anyone knew it at least of all Jones himself—the man who served as W. T. C. C. president in a highly satisfactory manner in 1922 was again a candidate, despite the fact that his name was not mentioned in connection with the presidency until the eleventh annual convention of the organization swung into the first of a three day session.

Williams Withdraws

J. Paul Williams, relative of W. O. Stevens, Lubbock banker and former president of the First National bank of Mineral Wells, threw a bombshell into convention machinery today when, in a letter written to Joe Wheat, Seymour, chairman of the nominating committee, he asked that the directors eliminate any further consideration of

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The jury charged with determining Albert B. Fall's guilt of impropriety of bribery was locked up for the night at 11:06 p. m., after deliberating almost 12 hours without returning a verdict.

The eight men and four women, who have been held in seclusion since the trial began October 7, slept tonight in the District of Columbia courthouse. They could not report before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the earliest.

If any decision is reached by the jury in the meantime it will be sealed until Justice Williams His opens court in the morning.

Since 11:30 a. m., today the jury had been going over the case, but no information was forthcoming whether any progress had been made.

All the while the former interior secretary was waiting with Mrs. Fall at his hotel for word to proceed to court. Justice His likewise held himself in readiness at his home since dinner time, in case the jury wished to report.

Selling Stampede Most Terrifying In Mart History

Remarkable Era Of Public Speculation Climaxes In Sensational Tumult As Market Nears Suspension

Traders Collapse

Wall Street Appears To Be Unable To Stand Up Under Avalanche Of Sales During Hectic Sessions

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The remarkable era of avid public speculation in stocks which has swept over the country during the past five years came to a climax today in the most terrifying stampede ever experienced on the New York stock exchange and other leading security markets.

Not since the war panic which resulted in closing the exchange for 17 weeks in 1914 has Wall Street seen such a dark and trying day, and never in financial history have security markets been thrown into such a tumult.

See Ordeal Through

"It appeared for a time that the stock markets would be unable to face the situation and that trading would have to be suspended, but the leading exchanges saw the ordeal through, although a few floor traders collapsed and had to be aided from the trading floor."

By early afternoon, the situation became so grave that a hurried meeting of leading bankers, was called at the offices of J. P. Morgan and Co., and a reassuring statement issued from the conference by Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, that the situation was being handled and that the market would be opened by a complete stoppage.

Stocks Tumble

Scores of important stocks tumbled from $15 to $70 a share, paper values vanishing at the rate of tens of millions of dollars a minute until mid-afternoon, when the bankers' statement prompted large operators who were reaping millions in selling the market short, to cover their commitments, and prices of many issues rebounded substantially.

Total sales of the stock exchange reached the amazing figure of 12,894,080 shares, surpassing by more than 30 per cent the previous record of Subsequently she relapsed, due to the infirmities of old age and had several sinking spells, two of which brought Mrs. Coolidge from the White House to her mother's bedside.

Since her return to Northampton, Mrs. Coolidge had spent two hours daily with her mother. Mr. Coolidge also was a frequent visitor at the hospital.

Brownwood Youth Held By Officers In Bank Robbery

Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Is Arrested And Charged In $8,000 Hold-Up By Three Unmasked Bandits

(By Associated Press)

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 24.—Bill White of Brownwood, a 17-year-old youth, was charged with robbery with firearms here tonight in connection with the $8,000 robbery of the Brownwood State bank earlier in the day. The bank was robbed by three unmasked men who escaped after Earl McClatchy, assistant cashier, had taken a shot at one of them through a porthole in the vault in which they locked him.

McClatchy was alone when the men entered the bank and forced him into the vault. They seized a package of currency in the vault and took the money in the teller's cage. When McClatchy shot they fled, escaping, according to those who saw them, in a small coupe.

Two Bounded Up

Sheriff M. H. Denman rounded up White and another man, who had not been charged tonight shortly after the robbery. The charge against White was entered after McClatchy and persons who saw the robbers leave the bank had been taken to his cell in the jail.

One of the robbers was thought to have left with several bucks in his belt and as only nine of the $8,000 were found in the wall behind the spot the robber occupied.

B. Brown was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years on forgery counts.

YOUTH ARRESTED

Twelve-Year-Old Charged With Strangling

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—A 12-year-old boy was arrested tonight charged with having strangled Mrs. Clara Hewes, 78-year-old widow of "Hewes the Magician," in the bedroom of her West 17th street apartment. Police said the boy, Edward Moon, confessed he killed the woman because she awoke while he was stealing $3 from her dresser.

Vault Closed

Inability of insurance company representatives to open the vault in which was stored many valuable cinema productions caused the delay in establishing the loss. The damage to the building and equipment was computed between $50,000 and $100,000.

Albert Lund, working in the assembly room where the blaze resulted from two explosions, died in a hospital, Albert Walker, Mrs. Irene Beardsley and Mrs. Ada Wilson were slightly burned. The explosion followed sparks developing from a film polishing machine.

Jack Frost Makes Initial Visit To Plains As Temperature Drops To 26

ITS COMING heralded by a sudden drop of temperature, the first frost of the season held Lubbock and the South Plains within its grasp Wednesday night and the lower South Plains crops and leaving in its wake a thin layer of ice.

Farmers throughout Lubbock county have reported some damage due to the freeze though many instances reports stated that benefits would be derived.

No damage was recorded to cotton as the big majority in this section is mature. The frost will remove growing vegetation in the fields making gathering much easier. Farmers believe that with another two weeks of clear weather they will have the bulk of the cotton crop gathered.

The lowest temperature recorded in Lubbock was 26 degrees early Thursday morning.

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Oct. 24.—A light frost blanketed Dawson county and the lower South Plains Wednesday night. Temperature registered as low as 30 degrees, there being a thin skin of ice noticeable Thursday morning. Little damage has been done to feeds and cotton here, it being the opinion that cotton opening will be hastened by the frost.

SLATON, Oct. 24.—A killing frost hit this section Wednesday night, giving the taste of winter. Thin layers of ice were in evidence Thursday morning. Some damage to late cotton and feed crops will result, farmers said, but most crops are mature. The frost is on days ahead of normal time.

Clue To Fate Of Missing Aviator Proves Unfounded

Faintest Hope Is Abandoned For Survival Of Dittman And Tiny Plane In Flight Across North Atlantic

(By Associated Press) A clue to the fate of the midget monoplane Golden Hind was born yesterday only to live a few hours and when it died the plane and its one-man crew seemed beyond even the faintest hope for survival in their attempted crossing of the Atlantic.

The New Foundland government steamer Kyle relayed a report that an unidentified ship had found a description fitting the craft of Urban F. Dittman Jr.—and for a time the flier's fate was tentatively decided. The New Foundland government, however, denied the authenticity of the message, and there were left only the chances that Dittman had landed in Greenland or had been picked up by a ship without wires.

Both these chances were dim. It had been reported that Dittman had ordered a supply of gasoline sent to Julianahat, Greenland, but the governor of Greenland denied that any gasoline depot had been established there. Mrs. Dittman at her home in Billings, Mont., said that while her husband had considered attempting his flight from Harbor Grace, N. F., to London by way of Greenland and Iceland he had decided against it before he took off at 10:45 a. m. Eastern standard time Tuesday with a fuel supply sufficient for only 35 hours.

Trial Halted By Illness Of Juror

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24. (AP)—The closing arguments of the defense in the trial of Alexander Pastengue were interrupted late today by the sudden illness of a woman juror, which forced the hearing to be continued until tomorrow.

Joseph Ford, defense attorney had begun his plea for acquittal of the multi-millionaire theatre man, accused of a statutory offense against Eunice Pringle, 17, dancer, when Mrs. Lotta Steiner was stricken ill.

Mrs. Steiner said she believed a night's rest would enable her to continue in the jury box tomorrow. She was the second juror to become ill during the long trial. Harvey K. Connett previously having been excused.

Superior Judge Charles Fricks announced he expected the arguments to be completed and the case submitted to the jury by tomorrow night.

The arrests were made last night by police who raided a small house 20 minutes after Henry S. Thompson, the child's father, had paid two men $25,000 ransom in marked money.

State Attorneys To Fight Release Of Prisoner On Bond; Preliminary Hearing Expected Today

INTENSELY nervous and apparently brooding over events of the day, Clay Lester, late yesterday afternoon from his cell in the county jail, refused to see anyone, dismissing all visitors and saying that he would "talk tomorrow."

Lester is being held without bond for the murder of his wife, Virgie Lester, 36, yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the family residence, 403 Avenue H. The shooting occurred two hours after the woman had filed a complaint charging her estranged husband with aggravated assault.

Nervous State

The prisoner was in a highly nervous state last night and at times officers stated he talked almost irrationally, lapsing often into periods of silence. He continuously complained of his nerves until officers were forced to seek medical advice and give him attention.

No bond had been set late yesterday and attorneys for the state indicated they would fight his release on bond. A preliminary hearing probably will be held early today.

Lester, just a year older than his wife, returned to this city only recently after a separation of about four months. He surrendered to county officers five minutes after

Petitions To Be Circulated Today

Drawing Up Of Petition Is Delayed Thursday; Will Ask For Road Bond Vote In District No. 2

Petitions will be prepared this morning and circulated today for the purpose of calling an election in road district No. 2, to be held with the Lubbock county commissioners' court Saturday, according to Chas. P. O'Neill, chairman of the Lubbock County Good Roads association. The petition was to have been prepared yesterday afternoon but was necessarily delayed.

The petition, to be drawn up by George R. Bean, will ask for an election to vote bonds of $1,025,000 to cover paving of all state and federal highways in the district, the basis of arriving at the amount being concrete paving. Mr. O'Neill said that the routing of all highways would be left up to the state highway department and that no controversy would be entered into over where highway No. 53 would be routed.

Three were to circulate the petitions are W. R. Blake, J. A. Ris, James L. Dow and Dean J. M. Gordon.

Controversy Over Catholic Church In Mexico Starts

Minister Of War And The Apostolic Delegate Are Principal Actors When On Trouble Resumes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Controversy over the status of the Roman Catholic church in Mexico has begun again, with the minister of war, General Joaquín Amaro and the apostolic delegate, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, the principal actors thus far.

Tuesday night, General Amaro in a long published statement bitterly assailed the church, charging the clergy had opposed the workers in their revolutionary aspirations and wishing the Mexican army would go to its own records and write its own history of the religious wars of the last few years.

Archbishop Replies
Today the arch-bishop replied with a brief statement lauding the desire of the Mexican people to have a true picture of the religious conflict and place responsibilities where they belong.

General Amaro's statement, which asserted the Mexican clergy was the greatest enemy of the Mexican revolution, was played prominently in Mexico City newspapers today as the first pronouncement of a high government official on the religious controversy since partial settlement of the question last June.

Local Man Given Patent On Picker

A patent upon a novel stripper brush for cotton picking machines has just been obtained from the United States patent office by Floyd R. Friend, local banker.

The invention represents several noteworthy improvements. It provides rotating brushes which engage the cotton as the machine passes over it, stripping the mature cotton from the plant and depositing it in a suitable receptacle carried by the machine. The device operates without injuring the leaves or unripened bolls of the plant and thus eliminates a large quantity of foreign matter which is usually stripped from the cotton plant by machines now in use.

His case was filed and prosecuted by Clarence A. O'Brien, Washington patent attorney acting in association with Robert A. Sowder of Lubbock.

Nationalists And Rebels Engage In Indecisive Battle

Warring Continues Through Province As Nationalist Forces And "People's Army" Clash

HANKOW, Oct. 24. (AP)—Continued, but indecisive fighting between the nationalist forces and the rebellious Kuomintang, or "people's army," was in progress today throughout that portion of Honan province west of the Kinhan railway. The opposing armies appeared to be facing each other along a north and south front, fifty miles west of the railway, whereas two days ago they formed an east to west line. The present battle line extends north from the border of Hupoh province to the Langhai railway near Chengchow.

Hankow Objective
At their nearest point the Kuomintang forces still were more than 100 miles from Hankow, their apparent objective. The shifting of the battle line resulted when the right wing of the nationalist forces advanced northward along the Kinhan railway, driving the rebels from the railroad zone, while the left wing of the central government's forces withdrew toward the southeast, permitting the "people's army" to reach the Hupoh border.

The Kuomintang army now is advancing eastward in three columns, hoping to regain railway territory. Kuomintang heads were aimed at Shengchow in northern Honan and Yencheng, in the central part of the province. Both cities are on the Kinhan railway, Yencheng being about 200 miles north of here.

President Of Pennsylvania Group Of Manufacturers Tells Senate Probers He Is Proud Of Increases In Tariff

Joseph R. Grundy Placed On Stand In Investigation Of Lobbying Tells Of Washington Activity

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP) Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania told the senate lobby committee today about his activities in Washington over 32 years in behalf of protective tariff legislation and reflected that if he had helped to get some increases in the pending bill he was "proud of it."

The white haired president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association who helped raise $600,000 for the Hoover campaign in his state and $700,000 for the Coolidge drive four years ago, left his accustomed seat in the senate gallery overlooking the debate on the tariff measure to answer the committee summons.

Answering Chairman Caraway, Grundy said his occupation was manufacturing. He said he paid all his expenses while in Washington but was "too busy" to figure them up, estimating them at $25,000 for this year alone.

"You came here to see that the campaign contributors got their moneys worth?" asked Senator Caraway.

To See Platform "I came here to see that the republican platform which was endorsed by the mandate of the people was enacted into law," was his reply.

It was, then I suppose they got their moneys worth," Caraway concluded.

Grundy, who has been regarded one of the star witnesses in the lobby inquiry, entered the crowded committee room with a lengthy prepared statement and was subjected to a rapid examination by Chairman Caraway almost before he was seated at the witness table.

Remembering his statement some time later and insisting upon reading it, Grundy was informed that no prepared statements were being heard. He was permitted to put it into the committee record.

Was Delegate Relating that he was a delegate to the last republican national convention and that his tariff resolution was a part of the party's platform, Grundy persisted throughout that he was here to see that the party platform was kept.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, read a list of 42 of 65 industries in Pennsylvania which he said received increases in tariff rates under the pending bill and asked if Grundy considered that to be a limitation within the meaning of President Hoover's recommendation.

Grundy refused to interpret the presidential message or to give an opinion on it, but he contended that the bill did provide only limited relief. After reading over the list of tariff increases affecting Pennsylvania industries, Walsh asked: "Am I right in saying that this bill increases the burden on the consumers of Pennsylvania from $2,786,000,000 under the present law to $3,290,000,000?"

"Not at all," replied Grundy. "They will never know there has been an increase in the tariff."

"According to my figures, this bill increases the consumers burden in Pennsylvania by $504,000,000," Walsh returned.

"Important, if true," said Grundy. "The foreigner pays the cost of the tariff."

"That was heard 40 years ago, countered Walsh.

"Probably longer ago than that," added Grundy.

"But the modern theory is that the consumer pays."

continued the Montana senator, "to take into consideration the interests of the consumer?" Grundy replied that consumers were voters and that the majority voted for the republican platform last year, which advocated an increase in the tariff.

Mixes Classical With Jazz Music

William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson of New York, and Major F. B. Ebbert, Los Angeles, will speak in Lubbock on the night of November 12, at the First Methodist church, according to an announcement yesterday by W. C. Johnson, field secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who was in Lubbock conferring with local churchmen. The two distinguished men are to appear here under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League in cooperation with local churches. A united effort will be made by all churches to assure a large attendance to hear the lectures.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, who has just returned to this country from a third trip around the globe, will speak on "Babylon And Way Stations." Johnson is heralded as the "world's greatest salesman of the prohibition idea."

Major Ebbert, who has been on the lecture platform for several years and has appeared in every state of the union, will take the subject of "The Unfinished Battle."

Beethoven to start—and a flourish of jazz as a finale! That is the program planned by the Cleveland orchestra for its twelfth season at Cleveland, O., under the direction of Nikolai Sokoloff, noted conductor. The jazz offering will be Werner Janssen's "New Year's Eve in New York," a symphonic poem for full orchestra and jazz band.

Brady Declares Orgatone Built Him Up Quickly

Amarillo Laundry Driver Gains By Taking Orgatone And All His Troubles Have Disappeared, He Says

It is not what the manufacturer claims for it, but the testimony of the multiplied thousands who have been benefited by it that has made Orgatone the most famous medicine of the day. H. T. Brady, of 701 Carolina St., known to his many friends as "Hot Brady" who has been a driver for the Amarillo Laundry for the past three years, in relating his experience with Orgatone, said:

"For the past year I have had an awful lot of trouble with my stomach. Everything disagreed with me and after meals I would get bilious and have dull headaches occasionally. I was constipated, and my sleep was very poor. My system seemed to be all run down. I felt tired and worn out all the time. I was losing ground all the time and felt that unless I could get the right medicine my troubles would soon become serious."

"I had been keeping up with the Orgatone testimonials and decided to try it, and it has not only relieved me of my troubles but has built me up amazingly. I have just taken one bottle so far and my stomach is in good shape. My appetite is fine and I can eat what I want without feeling a sign of indigestion. My constipation and headaches are gone and I have gained wonderfully in health besides. Orgatone has been a great thing for me and I don't think anybody suffering like I did can make a mistake by giving it a trial."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store, Adv.

A dash of Schilling's Celery Salt to baked or shirred eggs is interesting. In preparing a creamed entree it is better to use Schilling's Celery Salt than the celery itself as the presence of the vegetable in the sauce detracts from the appearance of the dish. A bit of Schilling's Celery Salt improves chicken croquettes. Use Schilling's Celery Salt and Schilling's Paprika as seasoning in creamed ham.

Methods Used To Wheedle Votes From Congressmen Are Shown In Senate Investigation Of Capital Lobbyists

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service Inc.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The lobbies in Washington attract to their ranks the men best fitted to lobby by training, ability, personality and experience and their methods of operation are many.

The effectiveness of the lobbyist may sometimes depend upon his ability and personality, but far more often it is decided by the amount of pressure which he can exert from over the country and bring to bear upon Congress or the government agency which he seeks to influence. Perhaps the three most important weapons of the lobbyist are public opinion and potential voting strength among his constituency and invested wealth and influence of the politicians back home.

Anyone can become a lobbyist and new figures enter the business every year, but most of the successful ones come from a few definite groups.

First, there's the ex-member of Congress who wants to stay in Washington and who is willing to accept large fees from corporations or other wealthy groups for the benefit of such influences as he has retained, his acquaintances and his experience in the art of getting things through Congress and government departments. Often a congressman is able to make such an arrangement as soon as he is defeated in November, though he still has a short session of Congress to serve.

Ex-Officials Employed
His blood brother in the lobby is the ex-government official who can be useful in dealing with both Congress and the department or commission in which he has functioned. Ex-cabinet members have frequently appeared before congressional committees or important federal bureaus in support of certain legislation or official rulings for which wealthy corporations or associations of corporations can well afford to pay them large fees.

Lawyers are hired for their keen wit, their persuasiveness in instilling facts or near facts—and even sometimes partly for their legal knowledge. These men often can do a better appearance at committee hearings than their employers, being better talkers.

Ex-newspapermen are hired for spreading propaganda and working on public opinion, a very important phase of the work of the modern lobbyist.

And of course there are many lobbyists who are promoted to Washington after notable successes in wrangling favorable votes from state legislatures.

Perhaps it should be reiterated here that the term "lobbyist" is meant to apply to all persons who seek to influence Congress or the federal administrative agencies. Only one lobbyist in a hundred admits he is a lobbyist.

Among Their Methods
Now let's describe the methods of the lobbyists. In the following summary, it should be borne in mind that all lobbyists do not use all these methods, although some of them do. These methods are used on legislation and do not refer to the business of influencing the administration of the laws.

The lobbyists often write their own bills. Anti-Saloon League men, for instance, wrote the Volstead act. Senator Hiram Bingham recently put an official of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association on the government payroll to help prepare the textile schedules of the new tariff bill.

They keep constant track of all legislation affecting the interests which they represent, following it closely through all its stages of progress.

They line up groups of sympathetic members and work with them and through them, arming them with information and often writing their speeches and statements.

They present arguments and facts—sometimes very one-sided facts—at the open committee hearings and exert special pressure on committee members in order to obtain the kind of report they want.

Propaganda Campaigns
They facilitate propaganda efforts, sometimes vast in their ramifications. They prepare statements for the press, write pamphlets—and even books, send lecturers into the country, urge members of their organizations to write and write their congressmen and use virtually every means of influencing public opinion for pressure on Congress.

They round up prominent men in the representative's own district or the senator's own state and persuade them to make personal appeals.

They sound the tocsin when reinforcements are needed and bring in potent magnates and lawyers from New York, Chicago or elsewhere to add to the amount of pressure on the spot.

They promise campaign contributions or political aid in return for support. Perhaps this is not common, but it is not as rare as the direct bribe, which is seldom heard of in these enlightened days. Often the interests represented at Washington are able to choose and elect their own men to Congress, which makes it all the easier for some lobbyists.

Watch Congress Closely
They watch the floors of the two houses from the galleries, ever ready to rush down to the ante rooms for conferences with members who signal for aid or to run off and round up other friendly members when the situation requires the latter's presence.

They visit members in their offices, of course, and try to convince or persuade them by various means.

They give expensive dinners and entertain members in order to create a friendly atmosphere for their projects.

They check the votes of individual members in advance and if a certain number is needed concentrate their efforts on obtaining them.

They sometimes combine with other lobbies working for entirely different subjects and exert their combined strength for each other's measure.

If other methods do not work,

Prominent figures in the Senate's investigation of alleged lobbies maintained at Washington to influence legislation are pictured here. No. 1 is William Burgess, legislative agent for New Jersey pottery manufacturers who was accused by Frederick L. Koch, pottery expert of the U. S. Tariff Commission, of trying to get him discharged. No. 2, Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the U. S. Tariff Commission, called as witness; No. 3, Edgar B. Crossard, Utah tariff commission member, called as witness; No. 4, J. A. Arnold, head of the Southern Tariff League which the committee announced it would investigate.

How to Achieve Beauty

Of course, in this very modern age, we all like to think that our methods are better than all that have gone before. We are inclined to look derisively at pictures of ancient methods and implements, and laughingly wonder how people managed to exist in the world before our time. In the field of beauty culture, the observant person soon learns that fundamentally the methods practiced by our feminine forbears cannot be dismissed with a mere wave of the hand.

If only the Egyptians had been more prolific in their writings, or if they had only left us a key to their hieroglyphics, I am sure we would have more very precious information regarding their secrets of beauty. For the Egyptian woman shipped beauty, and from the time of her youth, her energy was expended in exacting the greatest amount of loveliness from herself.

Despite the scarcity of records, the Egyptian lady did leave us one inheritance which has been tremendous value to all women—the Egyptian mask. This mask is one of the most luxuriant and popular treatments offered to wealthy New Yorkers today. Of course, modern science has added to its value, but the old fundamentals embodied in the recipe of these ancient Egyptian ladies still persist.

The treatment preceding the application of the mask is a very complete one, including cleansing, stimulating and nourishing with rich soothing creams. After the surplus creams are finally removed, then the mask, which is a soft clay-like composition, is prepared and applied to the face thickly and evenly with the finger tips, or with a small soft paint brush, care being taken to avoid the eyes and lips. If the skin is oily the mask may remain from one to three hours; if the skin is dry it should be removed after a half hour. The removal is accomplished by the use of a towel which has been dipped in hot water.

The Egyptian mask has remarkable rejuvenating power for the tired, sluggish skin. At the same time, its application is very simple. These two facts may account for its popularity among devotees of beauty culture. At any rate, it makes us wonder whether Cleopatra's international age-old reputation may not be tied up some way in this marvelous beauty aid.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Just because Emily N. Bartlett won a $50 prize for her budget in which she showed how a girl could dress well, have seven dresses, 12 pairs of stockings and $3.30 worth of cosmetics on a $15-a-week salary, I hope employers who pay their stenographers more will not lower the wage scale.

And I hope husbands and fathers will not take his occasion to draw unfavorable comparisons, and to wonder why Emily could not have been in their families instead of the spendthrifts they drew.

Almost any budget looks virtuous and exemplary on paper, but I refuse to take seriously one that does not make some allowance for the elements of chance which must enter even into the most carefully budgeted lives.

Until I find one that makes allowance for stockings that spring a run the first day, the lost compact, the umbrella loaned to a friend, the coffee with cream spilled over the best frock the day it comes back from the cleaner, and the hat you bought but haven't the courage to wear because your best friends tell you just how you look—

Until I find such a one I shall not be relieved of the worry of how to get along on a small income. If education is what remains after you have forgotten all you learned, then management, to me, is what remains after you discard a budget and buy what you have to have.

ALONG THE NILE
Speaking of wages, a distinguished visitor to this country, Sayba Garzout, the only woman lawyer in Egypt, says she considers she has had an off-year if she makes less than $25,000.

But the "fellahs" or peasant of the land of the Pharaohs desperately poor and working with all his strength, cannot hope to earn more than 18 or 20 cents a day, while his wife and daughter, working an equal amount of time, and putting forth all their energy, may earn eight or nine cents per.

These people are so poor that there is no question of budget at all—just a problem of keeping from starving to death. The unbalanced diet upon which they exist is bread and salt, with a little mess of onions now and then. Meat is an undreamed-of luxury.

For the class of workers that includes artisans, carpenters, masons and builders, the average salary is about a dollar a day.

Matty's Lemon Meringue Pie and a pastry short-cut

I call this Matty's lemon pie because a man from Missouri told me it was as good as that made by an old colored cook named Matty—and he once rode 10 miles on horseback and rowed a mile across the Missouri River just to eat her lemon pie.

It's just sweet enough—with an overtone of fresh, piquant fruit, crowned with a pert meringue browned to a golden glow and served in a Crisco pastry shell, as crisp on the bottom as it is around the edge—as only Crisco pastry can be.

- 1 lemon, juice and grated rind
 - 1 orange, juice and pulp
 - 2 egg yolks, beaten light
 - 3 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 1 cup granulated sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons Crisco
 - 1 1/2 cups water
- Beat egg yolks light and stir in mixed dry ingredients. Add liquids, lemon rind and Crisco. Cook in double boiler until thick. Cool. Pour into baked shell. Cover with meringue (2 egg whites beaten stiff blended with 4 tablespoons granulated sugar) to which has been added 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Brown in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes.

Flaker Pie Crust
with a time-saving suggestion

Crisco pie crust is flakier, more tender—sweet-tasting, too, because Crisco itself tastes so sweet and fresh. And because Crisco stays sweet, you can keep this pastry dough, already mixed, in the ice-box for a week and bake a crust just when you need it. The thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives. Add water gradually and only enough to hold mixture together. Roll 1/4 inch thick on floured board. For baked shell, take half of recipe and cover inverted pie plate. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. For two crust pie, bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake until filling is done.

8 cups flour
1/2 cup Crisco
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

3/4 teaspoon salt
6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

HAVE you ever tasted Crisco itself? We suggest that you do so.

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

Crisco is used in the Cooking School now being conducted by this paper

Mrs. Myra Oliver Duggan, in the Avalanche-Journal Cooking School, makes a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

T.C.U. Horned Frogs Arrive In Lubbock Early Today

Second Southwestern Conference Team To Invade Plains Unloads At Station Here At 7:30 This Morning

Twenty-Five Purple Gridsters, Together With Coach Francis Schmidt Take Final Workout On Tech Field This Afternoon

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—The second Southwestern Conference eleven to invade the Plains, the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs unload in Lubbock today morning, ready for their Saturday clash with the Texas Tech Matadors. The Frogs, 25 strong, left Fort Worth tonight, West Texas bound.

Coach Schmidt left one of his regulars behind as he moved his men against Tech. Buster Walker, end, was seized with a mild attack of appendicitis last night and was ordered to stay in Fort Worth and rest. This means McCullough, reserve end who performed stoutly against Texas A. & M. last week, will be in the starting lineup.

Coach Francis Schmidt has not as down on practice sessions this week, and the squad has made the same systematic study of Tech's offense and defense that it has made for every game this year. Schmidt does not intend to get "bumped off" by a non-conference school because of taking the opposition too lightly.

Weather Adds Zip

The sudden drop in temperature this week was a welcome one by the Frogs. The change in the weather has done much toward warding off a serious let-down following the A. & M. game. The crisp air has out a "fire" and "vinegar" into the practice sessions, and Coach Schmidt has been taking advantage of this to work his men until after dark every afternoon.

The starting line-up against the Matadors will probably be composed of Robertson and McCullough, ends; Barr and Moore, tackles; Brumbeled and Handler, guards; Atkins, center; Hinton and Leland, halves; Grubbs, quarter, and Green, full.

Changes In Lineup

This line-up presents two changes from the starters against A. & M.—McCullough at end instead of Walter, and Hinton at half instead of Woolwine.

The T. C. U. mentor does not believe in starting his reserves unless, no matter whom he is playing, other men than these starters, however, will undoubtedly get into Saturday's game.

The ones most likely to see some service in the fray are: Walker and Furry, ends; Elkins, tackle; Martin, Butler and Lambert, guards; Hirsvine, center; Sain, quarter; and Woolwine, Wright, Moore and Snow, halves.

The squad making the trip to Lubbock is composed of the following men:

Atkins, Barr, Baxter, Brumbeled, Butler, Cappelman, Elkins, Furry, Grubbs, Handler, Hinton, Hirsvine, Lambert, Leland, Martin, McCullough, K. Moore, R. Moore, Robertson, Roberts, Sain, Snow, Walker, Woolwine and Wright.

Matadors Pronounced Ready For Battle

An intensive signal drill Thursday afternoon put the finishing touches on the Matadors' attack for their battle here tomorrow with the T. C. U. Horned Frogs.

At the end of the two-hour workout, Head Coach, Gray Higginbotham pronounced the Matadors ready for Saturday's battle and expressed the belief that the majority of football fans were in for a surprise.

The Tech grid warriors take the field this afternoon for a final session prior to their engagement with the invading Frogs. Both the Matadors and Horned Frogs will likely work out on the field west of the stands, as the Lubbock Westerners will use the playing field in their game with Olton.

Dick Green, Matador quarterback, will be unable to get into the game Saturday, it was definitely announced last night. Edgar Cappelman is likely to get the first call for the field general's post.

Co-captain Chubby Dewitt, veteran Tech guard, has shown rapid improvement during the past few days and is practically certain of starting the game in his regular position tomorrow.

A caravan of eight 1929 Buick automobiles will meet the train this morning to transfer the members of the T. C. U. football team from the station to a local hotel. Kent Buick company will furnish the cars.

Split Season To Be Considered In League Meeting

Texas League Moguls Are Likely To Abolish Present Practice For 1930 Baseball Season

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Texas league club owners are expected to abolish the split-season at their annual fall meeting here Saturday and Sunday. Indications are the split will be the only important matter brought before the magistrates.

The league constitutions now provide that the season may be split at any time by a majority vote of owners. It is understood an amendment will be offered at the meeting here making a unanimous vote necessary to divide the schedule.

The owners, influenced by slim gate receipts during the past season, are said to be solidly against another split and ready to vote for the amendment.

Those in close touch with league affairs doubt the subject of electing a new league president to succeed the veteran J. Doak Roberts will be discussed, much less brought to a vote. Roberts is serving the second year of a five-year term, and unless he voluntarily tenders his resignation the problem of a successor will not arise.

The president's health has improved materially in recent months and it is known he hopes to resume his duties at the start of next season. He is at present on a six-months leave of absence due to failing health. The leave expires January 1, when he is expected to reach a decision. Until he does, the league will take no action.

In the event President Roberts decides to give up the post he has held many years, J. Alvin Gardner, former owner and president of the Wichita Falls club, virtually is assured the office. All but one club owner has announced in favor of Gardner.

Large Delegation Follows Bulldogs

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Oct. 24.—A delegation of 300 or more citizens of spur will come to Slaton Friday to witness the clash between the Slaton High Tigers and the Spur Bulldogs, according to telephonic advice received Wednesday from W. B. Lee, president of the Spur Chamber of Commerce.

The game is holding the spotlight this week-end in South Plains football circles, and both elevens are keen for the fray. Both are known to have powerful machines, and neither has been defeated this season in its own class.

In a wordpout, the Spur crew are said to have some advantage over the Tigers, while it is conceded that the Slaton eleven has the Spur aggregation outclassed in some other particulars. The "dope" has it that the two are closely matched, however. The game will begin at 3 p. m.

One of the biggest crowds ever assembled at a football game here is expected to see the game Friday afternoon.

Left Behind

WALKER - END

When the T. C. U. football squad unloads here this morning, one regular will be missing from the list of grid warriors Coach Schmidt has brought to battle the Texas Tech Matadors. Buster Walker, end, was struck by a mild attack of appendicitis Wednesday night and was ordered to stay in Fort Worth and rest.

Local interest is at high pitch, and many visitors are expected from other South Plains cities, besides the large delegation from the Dickens County capital.

Local Crew Gets Final Tuning-Up Combat Today In Clash With Lamb County Aggregation

Another strong Class B football aggregation invades Lubbock today when the Olton eleven from Lamb county takes the field to give the Westerners of Lubbock High their final combat before the Gold and Black crew invades Amarillo on November 2 for their battle with the Golden Sandstorm.

Boasting a well-rounded grid attack, the Olton crew, under the direction of Coach Trilman Carter is rated on a par with Crosbyton and Falls teams which previously this season have held the locals to low scores.

In order to avoid conflict with the funeral services of a well-known local woman, today's game has been moved back from 4 to 4:15 o'clock.

The Westerners spent a full afternoon yesterday in scrimmage against Olton plays and appeared fit and ready last night to give their most impressive showing of the year. In order to see his new defense in operation, Coach Henry E. Frnk plans to open up strong against the invading gridsters today and give local fans a real scoring exhibition.

Today's encounter with the Olton eleven will give Lubbock grid fans their last opportunity to see the Westerners in action before their journey to Amarillo for their all-important engagement with their District One rivals.

Lubbock coaches were uncertain last night of the starting lineup for today's clash but the following are likely to get the call: Price and Rich, ends; Frizzell and Watson, tackles; Welch and Abbott, guards; Crawford, center; Lawson, quarterback; Smith and Teal, halves; Watkins, fullback.

Colleges Raise Howl On Report From Foundation

Various Reactions Voiced Following Sensational Probe Into American College Athletics

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—With reactions ranging all the way from indignation and sweeping denial to outright approval and commendation, the country's colleges today are reacting to a sensational report of the Commercial and Kindred Press in college sport.

At Brown university the report was denounced by Norman S. Taber, chairman of the athletic council, as "a fair and so misleading as to make it impossible to believe the authors could present it."

"Broken faith," was charged by Professor B. W. Griffith, graduate manager of athletics at Bucknell university, where it was declared the Carnegie Foundation's sensational report of the commercialism and kindred ills in college sport.

"The report is unfair," said Professor Giles L. Courtney, chairman of the board of athletic control of North Carolina university. "It is not because of intent but because of the technique of the investigation. If some of the statements which appear in the press also appear in the report, they are absolutely without factual foundation."

"Allegations of an 'intensively organized' and 'sophisticated system' of recruiting athletes at the University of Michigan were vigorously denied by Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics there.

At Holy Cross, the Rev. John J. Fox remarked that "no worthy boy ever was turned away from Holy Cross" regardless of athletic ability and that "many star athletes at Holy Cross have never received anything."

"Only first four stringers on the varsity football team are holding scholarships," said Decca Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia.

Longhorn Executive Agrees With Report

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—While the report of the Carnegie Foundation on American college athletics "only covers the dark side of the picture," Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, director of athletics at the University of Texas, said he "must admit the facts as presented are true."

He said that during his brief occupancy of his present position, he had received many letters from boys indicating "they were expecting pay for athletic participation," but he had never answered these.

He declared either the rules of the Southwest Conference should be modified so as to recognize the kind of professionalism which is practiced by schools, in which case the facts should be published, or "else the conference should enforce the present rules and let the sparks fall where they may."

Promoter Charged With Swindling

New Orleans Authorities Seek Frankie Edwards, Following Departure With $15,000

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—After sparring for a time with Louisiana authorities, Frankie Edwards, ex-boxing promoter, went about his pursuits here late today with his projected return to face New Orleans authorities, who claimed $15,000 in fight receipts disappeared simultaneously with him, still indefinitely.

Edwards wired the New Orleans district attorney that he considered nothing more serious than a civil action could be brought against him and stipulated no definite date for turning back to the scene of his last fight—the Wolfe-Cannoner match. No charges had been lodged against him there.

Meanwhile he faced preliminary hearing on a fugitive warrant here tomorrow afternoon.

Edwards was arrested here last night. He declared he had nothing to be ashamed of; that the fight lacked several thousand dollars of paying expenses. "I took nothing," he declared, "except what belonged to me. Furthermore I have never been in hiding. Everybody knows me in Texas, where I have been for some time, and my arrest could have been made any time the police desired."

He said he had no objection to going back to New Orleans provided no criminal charge was filed. Edwards walked out at the end of the last round of the fight five weeks ago.

Head Of Textile Department Talks At Kiwanis Meet

Ernest Nelson Points Out Lubbock's Need For New Industrial Plants Here; Mills Are Stressed

Declaring that this city is in need of industrial plants of many kinds, Ernest Nelson, head of the textile engineering department of Texas Technological college, was the principal speaker before the regular weekly luncheon of the Lubbock Kiwanis club yesterday.

Most of Nelson's speech pertained to textile mills. He said that because of our climate, location at the seat of raw materials and in the center of the greatest section for the production of wool in the world, there is no reason whatever why Lubbock should not have a number of mills. It was his belief that rayon, woolen and worsted mills could be had here.

Dr. J. B. McCorkle is in charge of the program while approximately 80 members were present. Prof. W. L. Stangor, of Texas Tech, announced Saturday's football game, urging business men to swell the attendance and thus help to prove Lubbock could support a Southwestern conference team.

Moody Smith, star of the Lubbock High School Westerners, spoke at the game with Amarillo high school on Saturday, November 2, declaring that the local team was going to the same "determined" to defeat Amarillo, and be state champions.

Two nominating committees for officers were appointed.

Bottom Drops Out Of Wheat Mart In Frantic Sessions

Grain Pit Scene Thursday Is Reminiscent Of Panic Days In War Time When Selling Orders Overflow

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—The bottom dropped out of the wheat pit today in a scene reminiscent of war panic days. Frantic traders heaped their holdings of wheat into a market already overflowing with short-selling orders, and, under tremendous pressure support crumbled and prices dropped 12 cents a bushel below yesterday's closing levels.

By noon the avalanche had spent its force, and with the stock markets rebounding wheat too came back to finish 4 3-8 to 5 3-8 cents lower than Wednesday.

The final prices were: December wheat 1.30 1-4 to 1-3; March 1.28 1-8 to 3-8; and May 1.31 1-4 to 1-2.

Others Strong

Other grains were strong in contrast, corn recovering from a small decline to end 3-4 to 1 1-2 higher and oats losing only 1-4 to 1-2c.

The wheat pit was a masterpiece of panic as millions of bushels were dumped. Traders swarmed, shook and gesticulated wildly in their effort to unload on the falling market. The pace was too fast to execute stop loss orders. The flying hands and fingers that signal bids and sales on fluctuations of an eighth or a quarter cent, each day were talking of half cents and cents today; and the turn of a finger sealed a million dollars from the wheat crop.

Break Starts Early

The break started early in the day with a drop of five cents. Then as the stock market break grew in proportions, embarrassed traders turned loose their offerings at any price and perspiring clerks chalked down the tobogganing quotations on the big board, a cent, a half, and another cent—as fast as they could write.

The second hour saw the bottom reached, the bottom for the day and the year. December wheat touched $1.13 3-4, March $1.21 1-4 and May $1.24 1-2.

Then came the rebound. Commission houses buying for the east and for Winnipeg were credited with turning the tide and it came in with a rush, forcing quick short covering. More than seven cents of the early loss was wiped out.

The ordinary day's run of news was disregarded entirely in the stampede. Liverpool was heavy, Argentine offerings were liberal and export demand was slack. But the stock market situation was paramount in the minds of the traders, and they scrambled to protect marginal accounts in grain and securi-

Wall Street Alive With Activity

Excitement Reigns As Street, Usually Silent And Deserted After Dark, Becomes Abfaze With Light

BY DEMING SEYMOUR
New York Columnist.
(Associated Press Feature Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Wall Street, normally as silent and deserted after dark as Trinity Church grave yard which faces it, was alive with workers and a blaze with light tonight.

In every brokerage office the office had gone down the line that every employe from junior partners to switchboard girls and messenger boys must be prepared to work all night, so that the tangled affairs of the financial sector, resulting from the busiest day of trading in the street's history, might be set in order before the beginning of another day on the stock exchange.

Food Stored In

Restaurants in the Wall Street district which ordinarily are open only six hours a day and serve no meal but lunch to workers in the brokers' offices, hurried in extra stocks of food this afternoon and got ready to serve and send out meals until midnight or later to the more than 50,000 employes kept overtime at their desks.

The standing-room-only sign went out at all the hotels along the Brooklyn waterfront across the East river, soon after midnight. Brokers rented whole floors in order that their clerks might get some time before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, an hour or two of hurried sleep.

Throngs Gather

Men who have lived and worked in Wall Street all their lives said more people thronged today to the intersection of Broad and Wall streets, bounded by the stock exchange, the Morgan bank and the United States sub treasury, than ever before within their memory.

Most of them were merely curious. Newspaper and motion picture cameramen who sought places of vantage about the tumultuous corner were joined by dozens of amateur camera clickers taking views of the extraordinary scene and occupants of offices in the neighborhood were swarmed upon by visitors asking permission to stand in the windows and look down upon the eddying crowds.

Police On Duty

A hundred uniformed police mounted and afoot, were focused in the district to keep the crowds moving. The force included not only the regular Wall Street contingent of the police department, but an emergency squad whose duty it was not only to prevent any sidewalk congestion but to reroute and keep in order the abnormal motor traffic.

The multitudes heard newboys shouting "stock market crabs," and pleading hoarsely with patrons not to stop to read their papers on the spot—but to move along so others might get close enough to buy.

The crowd in the street grew greatest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon as the market closed, and police gave up their efforts to keep the multitude off the sub-treasury steps, but when nothing happened the gathering dispersed. An hour later the throng was only the normal hurrying one, and the gray fellow who had earned himself the nickname of "Bishop of Wall Street" was preaching his usual afternoon sermon to the usual throng of loiterers catcorner from the Morgan bank. His subject was the evils of smoking.

Local Musicians On Radio Program

Mary Gene Owen And Clare P. Jeffers Compete In National Radio Audition Over Station WFAA

A gala night for Texas music lovers was presented last night when station WFAA, Dallas, broadcast the voices of North Texas participants in the National Radio Audition at 10 o'clock. Lubbock entries in the contest were heard by scores of radio fans of this city together with the voices of others from the northern section of the state.

Local candidates, with Mrs. J. T. Beck, chairman, were: Miss Mary Gene Owen, contralto, and Clare P. Jeffers, tenor.

North Texas listeners may play a deciding part in the selection of the state's winners, since the votes of the radio audience will count 60 points in the selection of the victors, against 40 points allowed the jury of musical authorities who will cooperate in judging. All the contestants are between the ages of 18 and 25 years and have never been heard professionally as singers. Others who were heard last night include:

Dallas Local—Mrs. Eudoxia Butler Bradford, mezzo soprano; Hubert Lowell Woodward, baritone.

Ablene Local—Miss Mona Margaret Jones, soprano; Merkel; Leonard Burford, tenor.

Fort Worth Local—Miss Willy Del Goldsmith, soprano; Cleburne; Joe Vancil, baritone.

Greenville Local—Miss Mary Fletcher, soprano.

Sherman Local—Miss Ruth Marshall, soprano; Whitesboro; John Murray Kendrick, tenor.

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Douglas H. McArthur, of North Dakota, never had much faith in Wall Street and his career has not been of a sort to add to it.

Well, stocks have been having some pretty bad spells of late. At first it was attributed to the Federal Reserve board's policy—in an effort to prevent so much speculation.

Meeting Secretary McArthur down at the Senate Office building, I asked him what he thought about it.

"Did you know," inquired the North Dakotan, rather irrelevantly, it struck me, "that I underwent a surgical operation a few weeks ago?"

"No," I said, "I hope it wasn't serious, and that it was successful."

"You see," he explained, "I'd had something or the other the matter with me for some time and the doctors were unable to account for it with any certainty."

"They had me stretched out on the table," continued the senatorial secretary, "and I'd already taken a whiff or two of the ether, when I got to thinking what a chump I'd been to allow those medicines to persuade me to submit to such a performance simply to satisfy their own curiosity."

"My head was as clear as any man's ever was," I could see perfectly what a sucker they'd played me for.

"I resolved to climb right off that table while I was still conscious, and leave the hospital. I realized that they'd think I was delirious from the anesthetic and try to stop me by force, but I meant to fight my way out, if necessary."

"The North Dakotan is a powerful six-footer, strong enough to deal with any two or three ordinary men."

"My brain," went on the narrator, graphically, "sent out the order to every inch of my body to sit up, throw myself to the floor and make a dash for the exit, lashing out at everybody around me."

"And, do you know?" "I found I couldn't move a muscle."

"The damn anesthetic had got me. I had to lie there and take the rest of it—and be operated on."

"That's precisely like those poor hick investors in Wall Street. They know now what they're in for. They're trying to get off the table. But it's too late. They can't do it. They've got to stay there and be operated on."

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

No doubt, the chief reason for powder on the skin is protection against wind and weather and the removal of the shiny appearance which somehow has been conceived by women to be unfavorable from the point of view of beauty.

Dr. William Allen Pusey says that the powders have an added field of usefulness in the relief of irritation of the skin, in the absorption of moisture and in their cooling effect. A layer of powder over the skin cools it by increasing largely the surface over which perspiration is spread out and from which it is evaporated.

The ingredients of toilet powders vary according to the manufacturer and the purpose for which the powder is made. Powders used to cover up defects or improve the appearance of the skin, says Dr. Pusey, have usually talcum, which is magnesium silicate, or French chalk, or rice powder as their base.

Most powders do not contain harmful ingredients. Occasionally lead and bismuth salts are added to powders. Manufacturers have found that these are unnecessary and add little to the value of the powder for any purpose.

Specialists in diseases of the skin do not urge the avoidance of powder; on the contrary, they are convinced that the moderate use of cosmetic powder helps a delicate skin by protecting it against wind and sun. The ordinary moderate use of powder does not clog up the pores sufficiently to interfere with perspiration, unless the powders are mixed with creams and pastes to make a solid mixture.

It is not believed, however, that any woman with common sense will care to apply a mixture of that type to her face. Powder, combined with greasy applications, causes the collection of dirt and powder in the opening of the sweat glands and leads perhaps to the dilation of the pores and the formation of blackheads.

JOHN DEWEY, of Columbia university, philosopher, educator and social worker, celebrated his seventieth birthday on Sunday. Says he:

"There are two chief sources of happiness. The first is stimulation and congenial personal relations with family and friends. The second is finding a congenial calling."

He might have included health and abiding faith in the future; but, take it by and large, he said pretty nearly all that was to be said, and any exhaustive treatise on happiness would be little else than an elaboration of his two themes.

He adds: "I feel I've been rather unusually fortunate in both respects. Wherein he does honor to his family, his friends, his calling and himself. A world that admires and respects but refuses to follow him extend felicitations."

Anniversary Notes

JOHN HANCOCK HONORED On Oct. 25, 1780, John Hancock was chosen first governor of Massachusetts under the new Constitution.

Election to the governorship was only one of the honors conferred upon Hancock during his many years of service to the state.

Hancock was born in Braintree, Mass., in 1747, and graduated from Harvard in 1764. He was for several years one of the selectmen of Boston and after 1766 was repeatedly elected to the Massachusetts General Court.

After the "Boston Massacre" in 1770, he was a member of the committee appointed to demand the removal of British troops from the city.

He represented Massachusetts in the first Continental Congress and in May, 1775, was elected president of that body.

He was a member of the Massachusetts constitutional convention in 1780 and upon adoption of the Constitution there framed was elected governor and was retained in annual re-elections until 1785. He was again governor from 1787 until his death in 1793.

EARNINGS LISTED NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Net earnings of General Motors Corporation for the quarter ending September 30, including equities, amounted to $70,988,025, as compared with $79,266,559 for the corresponding quarter of last year.

Leadership of the celebrated socialist lawyer Paul Boncour, who has long represented France at the League of Nations, was envisaged today by politicians as a possible solution of the French cabinet crisis.

M. Paul Boncour, one of the picturesque figures of French politics, is considered to have the best chances of succeeding to the office resigned by Briand because socialists are the best united group in the opposition and are better able to keep their men in line.

Today's Poem

A whisper wove the air, A soft, light tone, and low, Yet barbed with shame and woe, Ah! might it only perish there, Nor farther go!

But not a quick and eager ear Caught up the little, meaning sound; Another voice has breathed it clear, And so it wandered round, From ear to lip, from lip to ear, Until it reached a gentle heart That throbb'd from all the world apart.

And that—it broke! It was the only heart it found— The only heart 'twas meant to find, When first its accents woke, It reached that gentle heart at last, And that—it broke!

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Graves AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN PAGE feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. The latter, changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying beggar, NELSON, and tells the girl she is heiress of a millionaire named CUNNINGHAM. Brent takes her to the lonely old man and offers proofs which Cunningham accepts, as he had been searching for his dead daughter's child.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother, ROBERT, who falls in love with her abruptly. But don't tell me that it's all because he is a liar and a cheat. There must be some other reason.

Helen's cheeks flushed uncomfortably as she answered that there might be another girl.

Eva's expression grew accusing though she did not mean it to. "Was it you?" she asked, and then added quickly, "Bob thought it was."

Helen hesitated a long moment before answering. Eva's evidence of painful suspense brought the truth from her at last.

"Yes," she admitted. "I was engaged to him, Eva. But he did not love me. He can't love anyone. He isn't capable of it. He's the most selfish—"

"Then it was your money?" Eva interrupted.

Helen regarded her in complete surprise. Strangely, she thought, she had never occurred to her. Her money! Of course!

"I think so," she cried. "He would be just that vile."

"Perhaps," Eva said, "he needs a great deal of money, Helen."

She had found this explanation of his conduct less difficult to bear than she had thought that he cared more for another girl than he did for her. And her complete obsession with her passion for Brent was driving her to his defense.

"Don't be a fool," Helen retorted a bit impatiently. "He has enough money. Only greed could make him want to marry for more—greed and a heart like a block of ice."

"You seem to hate him," Eva remarked, and the thought at the back of her mind was that Helen too must have suffered through Brent.

"Not on my own account," Helen hastened to assure her, sending, perhaps, what Eva was thinking.

"But I shall always hate him for what he has done to you, Eva."

"Then you do not love him?" Eva's voice was filled with profound relief.

Helen said no in unmistakable negative accents. Eva grasped her hands and murmured an expression of thankfulness.

"Can't we talk about something else?" Helen urged. "Wouldn't you like to hear about Bob and me, Eva?"

She had not intended to bring her newly recovered happiness to Eva's attention at this time but suddenly she was sickened of speaking of Brent. She wanted to brush him aside, put him out of her own life and Eva's too.

"Have you made up?" Eva asked, hesitating a little over the possibility of happiness coming to her dearly beloved brother.

"Made up?" Helen echoed. "We've made up so tight that nothing can come between us again."

"I'm glad," Eva said simply.

Helen leaned over and kissed her, drawn by the wistful smile that hovered on her quivering lips.

"You must let yourself be happy too, dear, she said. "Think of your See INNOCENT CHEAT Page 9 music now, and some day a real love will come to you. That sounds like empty comfort, I know, but it's true, if only you can believe it."

"I must see Leonard again," Eva shocked her by declaring.

"Oh, no!" Helen sat stiffly upright. "Why?" she demanded, but Eva had no answer that she cared, or dared, to give.

"To tell him you're through with him?" Helen suggested hopefully.

"No," Helen said. "I'll tell him whatever you wish me to say. Bob will be furious if you go to him."

"Eva remained set in her determination. 'Don't tell Bob,' she pleaded. 'It would only cause trouble, and I'm going to see Leonard, whatever happens. I must give him a chance to explain.'"

"Eva," Helen said soberly, "why must you be like this? You were ready to give up your life—wasn't it because you knew Brent had deceived you? Nothing has changed that. What can you hope for now?"

Eva sat up higher on her pillows. "I will tell you," she conceded. "I couldn't bear the thought that he was going to marry you, Helena. I knew I should hate you, in spite of all that you have done for me. I didn't want to live, hating you and without Leonard's love."

"If I see him and tell him that I know about his engagement to you and that you are ready to go to marry Bob," Eva said breathlessly. "The may—he may—"

Helen lifted her head. The expression of her eyes stopped Eva from further words.

"Would you marry him after all this?" she asked scornfully.

Eva turned away. A wave of helplessness swept over Helen. "I'm afraid," she said, "that you must find out for yourself how contemptible, how despicable, Leonard is."

She got up to go. Eva did not attempt to detain her. "Please send mama to me," she said, and Helen nodded in silent assent.

Back with Bob she was profoundly affected by the strain of knowing that Eva might yet bring serious trouble upon herself and them.

"I'm tired," she said when Mrs. Emms had gone upstairs. "Do you mind letting me go now, Bob? Eva doesn't need me and I've something to do at home."

"My darling, I'll always mind letting you go," Bob smiled at her. "But I'll have to leave too. I'm no playboy, you know."

His eyes had ceased to smile with his lips. Helen knew by their seriousness that he meant to convey the thought to her that he would not depend upon her money for a living.

She lifted her lips for his kiss, thankful that he did not make an issue of that point at this particular moment. She wanted to forget herself and him and think only of Eva—to try to find a way to help her.

She drove back home alone, and on the way she reached a decision in regard to Leonard Brent. If everything else failed and she could not induce Eva to go away—to Italy to study, or to travel for a while wherever her fancy took her—she would buy Brent off.

Her lips curled in disdain as she rejected the thought that he might prefer Eva to money.

At home she went straight to the telephone and called his apartment. His Japanese servant answered and she said, peremptorily, that she must speak to Mr. Brent.

He did not keep her waiting long. "I want to see you about something very important," she said. "At once. Will you come up to Bramblewood?"

"As soon as possible," Brent assured her, and hung up.

"Well," he mused as he dressed. "I think we've come to the show-down."

New Prison Near Austin Approved

Centralization Committee Recommends Modernized Plant Within 20 Miles of State Capital

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—The prison centralization committee, authorized by the present legislature to recommend to it plans for a modernized and centralized penitentiary plant, voted in favor of putting the proposed new central prison within approximately 20 miles of Austin, the state capital, today.

A minority composed of Representatives A. E. Kings of Throckmorton, E. T. Murphy of Livingston, and Harry N. Graves, of Georgetown and Senator Nat Patton of Crockett met in a determined effort to get the commission to vote for a site on present owned lands.

Senator Patton and Representative Murphy gave notice they would take to the legislature the fight to put the new prison on lands owned at present rather than purchase new acreage.

A committee of five, with W. A. Paddock of Houston, chairman, of the commission, as an ex-officio member was authorized to draw up the report and recommendations to be submitted to the Governor and the legislature. Paddock named the five members as follows: Senators E. E. Witt of Waco and J. W. Stevenson of Victoria, Representative John P. Wallace of Teague, and Dr. A. C. Scott of Temple and Lee Simmons of Sherman, who, with Paddock, are members of the state prison board.

Meet November 5
The committee will meet November 5 in Houston, Paddock announced.

The sub-committee appointed by the commission to inspect land adjacent to Austin and recommend its choice for a prison site, merely reported back a list of 416 properties it had considered and stated that much of the land visited was "suitable and valuable." It said it could be had for from $40 to $125 an acre.

It reported that many of the tracts had both highway and railroad transportation facilities and were accessible to power and gas lines. There were fine water springs on some and also gravel pits the report said.

The commission voted to recommend a tract of approximately 1,000 acres for the central plant. It was recommended that farming activities should be continued and industrial endeavors added for state use only.

It was proposed that the major farming and stock raising activities and such processing of farm products as may be practical be continued to the part of the present owned state land that may be later determined to be the most suitable; that the centralized prison plant be built on the unit plan, part cell block and part dormitories along the line suggested by Dr. F. E. Giesecke, of A. and M. College, in the tentative plans submitted, and that prison labor be used as far as practicable in the construction.

It was recommended that the sum of $1,000,000 be appropriated to start the construction of the central plant and that $500,000 be appropriated annually thereafter for continuing the construction program until the system is completed.

Meets Success
Representative Murphy made an unsuccessful effort to get the commission to instruct the committee authorized to draw the report to make two recommendations: First, the most suitable site of lands now owned by the state, and, secondly, the most practical site on penitentiary lands now owned by the state.

It was agreed however, that the minority would be permitted to employ experts to make a survey and study of present owned penitentiary lands for the purpose of obtaining data to be used in submitting to the Governor and the legislature its report.

Those voting for the Austin site were Paddock, Dr. Scott, Simmons, Wallace, Stevenson, Witt, Joseph Wearden of Goliad, J. B. H. Holderby of Fort Worth, E. H. Astin of Bryan, Fred Horton of Greenville, and Frank L. Tiller of Rosenberg.

Senator Patton charged that the commission had not seriously considered the East Texas prison lands as a possible site for the new prison. Members of the commission made an extensive tour of the eastern part of the United States inspecting prisons, also toured the penitentiary properties at Huntsville and the farms scattered through the southern part of the state.

Governor Moody plans to call a special session of the legislature and submit the commission's report and recommendations to it for action.

Wife Of Missing Flier Is Hopeful Despite Waiting

Mrs. U. F. Diteman Bears Up Although Visibly Worried When No Reports Come From Husband

BILLINGS, Mont., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Borne up by an abiding faith, Mrs. U. F. Diteman, Jr., although visibly worn by the strain of futile waiting for news of her husband's attempt to fly the Atlantic, found reason tonight to believe he may yet be found.

"He was certain of success," she said tonight. "He took no chances. I'm sure he will be found safe."

Mrs. Diteman could suggest nothing that would aid efforts to seek a trace of his ship, last seen when he left Harbor Grace, N. F., Tuesday, leaving behind a note which said he was "bound for London." She is convinced that he pointed his ship direct for London, showing with a map how much faster there would be the distance by way of Greenland.

Precaution Taken
Letters, written a week ago at Harbor Grace, came today, with some snapshots of Diteman and the plane. He assured his wife again that he would not be forced down, that he had taken every precaution to make the journey safely. Diteman had been offered an airplane agency in South America, his wife said, but that had nothing to do with his London flight. Neither did the venture have any other commercial value, she insisted, suggesting that perhaps it was prompted partly by a desire to show what the small plane would do and by a wish to have the personal satisfaction of crossing the sea.

'There is a difference in milk when it comes to cooking'

—Mrs. Myra O. Dougan

If a recipe is to be used successfully, every ingredient must be of highest quality. When milk is used, it must be a high quality milk if the particular cake, bread or dessert is to be really good to eat. I recommend Bell's Milk—for it certainly stood the test at the Avalanche-Journal Free Cooking School.

Slump In Market Will Not Affect Taxes Reduction

Program In View Of Heads Of Treasury Department Not Expected To Be Altered By Stocks Drop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—That recent slump in the stock market will not affect the administration's tax reduction program is the view of treasury officials.

The officials regard the slump as being more in paper profits than in actual values and believe the action was in the nature of a readjustment of the market.

The opinion also is held by the officials that the slump would not affect the revenues. It was indicated, however, that if the trend of the market was unfavorable there would be some hesitancy in carrying out the tax reduction program.

Officials added business was not at its peak, but in their opinion was being maintained on a strong level. It was their belief the slump was due to extension of speculation and technicalities including the taking of profits.

Possibility that the reaction would affect the reduction rates was suggested, but it was said it was too early to state whether there would be a subsequent reduction. It was said the slump might bring about easier money.

Tommy Loughran plans to begin his comeback campaign in New York shortly after January 1.

Cotton Slumps; Wall Street In Panic

Prices Fluctuate In Cotton Market As Stocks Decline

Values Sag $2.50 Per Bale In Sympathy With Near Panic In Wall Street; Prices Rally Late

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24. (AP)—In one of the most active sessions in recent weeks, cotton prices fluctuated violently today sagging 2.50 a bale in sympathy with the decline in New York stocks and rallying later when shorts endeavoring to cover found contracts scarce. December contracts after trading off to 17.70 rallied and closed at 18.11 for a net gain of three points. The general market closed steady at net advances of one to four points. Liverpool cables were relatively steady and as the weather in the belt was unfavorable with frost reported in some sections the market opened steady at an advance of two points. Following a slight recession after the start the market strengthened under buying on the cold weather in the belt and December advanced to 18.11, with active positions generally showing net gains of 10 to 15 points.

Stock Market Is Thrown Into Wild Orgy Of Selling

Gigantic Break Predicted By Enormous Growth Of Speculative Activity Experienced Thursday

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
Associated Press Financial Writer.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Wall Street was thrown into a stock selling panic today of the gigantic and overwhelming proportions that the enormous growth of speculative activity in recent years had predicted.
All trading records on the stock and curb exchanges were smashed, and stock prices tumbled with the most dizzy swiftness yet witnessed, until resounding statements from bankers in the early afternoon checked the drop, and an enormous short covering movement set in which cut in half scores of losses running from $15 to $40 a share in important stocks.
Sales in the New York stock exchange totaled 12,994,000 shares, and the ticker ran for four hours and eight minutes after the closing gong. This turnover exceeds by 50 per cent the previous record of March 24. It appeared for a time that it might be necessary to suspend trading.
This stampede of selling was a continuation of the flood of liquidation which swept into the market in the last hour yesterday, when trading for a brief time was equal to today's terrifying pace. It culminated in a downward movement, which has been growing more and more decisive since early September.

W.T.C.C. Meet

his name in connection with the presidency. The Mineral Wells man, who has large ranch interests near Post and who is also part owner of automobile agencies in Tulsa and Hays, has been a candidate for the 1929-30 presidency for nearly six months. In fact he has already been considered as the only candidate for the post although, since his request for release, the names of Jones, Judge J. D. Hamlin, Farwell; Judge C. E. Coombs, Stamford, and W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls have been frequently heard in the same connection.
No Action Taken
The directors refused to take any action on the Williams letter of withdrawal which came up on the heels of an address he delivered before the board Wednesday, in which he sketched his ideas of future operations of the organization. The W. T. C. C. he said, must first win back the good will which it has admittedly lost in the past year and a half in order that it be reorganized to the best advantage of all concerned. Williams urged that the new president, to be chosen Saturday, be made the active head of the organization and be empowered not only to select the new manager but to reorganize the staff and the methods of financing the regional body. Referring his letter of withdrawal to his ideas of reorganization, Williams said today that his personal business would not permit him to take enough time to adequately handle the position.
The directors did not act upon the letter and when newspapers asked Mr. Williams the point blank question, "if, after taking into consideration your reorganization suggestions and your letter, do directors select you as the 1929-30 president, will you accept?"
"That," answered Williams, "is something entirely different. I should prefer to aid this matter as a private in the ranks instead of as a leader of the army." Although he did not enlarge upon his answer, the consensus of opinion among the directors is that if Williams is elected he will accept.

Rayburn, Slaton, the only Panhandle-Maine entrants in the annual "My Home Town" contest, were disappointed this afternoon when that feature of the convention was postponed until Friday. Both lads, however, were optimistic.
Delegates from Lubbock to the convention arrived here this morning, armed with an eight page letter of recommendations, which includes in its suggestions the fostering of a nation-wide advertising campaign to sell West Texas, incorporation of the regional chamber under the laws of Texas and the adoption of a definite program of work.
The delegation included Senator Pink L. Parrish, A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development; Sam C. Arnett, chairman of the board of directors of the Citizens National Bank; Spencer A. Wells, W. T. C. C. vice president from the Plains capital; T. A. White, telephone company executive, and J. K. Hankins, city commissioner. Mrs. A. B. Davis accompanied her husband and will enter into the women's activities of the convention.
Event Deferred
The Lubbock delegation will exert every effort to have its suggestions officially quoted in the rehabilitation program of the W. T. C. C. The letter upon a board of directors of workable size, not over 30 in number; a business-like organization and a system of financing based upon counties involved, rather than by cities, as has been the custom in the past.
The suggestions further urge that local chambers of commerce cooperating with the W. T. C. C. be given representation on the board of directors or councilors of the parent organization, in line with system of representation practiced by the state chamber of commerce and the United States chamber of commerce.
Norther Arrives
Despite cold norther that swept across the Rio Grande plains and whipped around the base of Mount Franklin this morning, thousands of convention attendants wearing hats and badges displaying insignias of their home towns were enjoying a gala day while Juarez was the scene for hundreds of sightseers.
Other entrants in the "My Home Town" speaking contest, besides the two boys from the Panhandle-Plains, Ernie Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franco Baker, and John Rayburn, hailing from Slaton, are: Walter Ely, Jr., Abilene, whose speech won at Fort Worth in 1928; Curtis Bishop, Big Spring; Elizabeth Jose, Sweetwater; E. D. Fitz, Jr., Weatherford, and Tyne Starvo.

Market Panic

$246,740 reached on March 26. The ticker quotation service fell hours behind transactions, and traders who were unable to get quotations from the floor through their brokers, proceeded blindly, save at intervals when a few stock quotations were sent out through the bond market tickers.
Standard dividend-paying stocks were thrown overboard along with the more speculative issues. Stocks were sold for what they would bring in blocks of from 1,000 to 150,000 shares. Traders on the floor of the stock exchange shrieked and howled their offers for separate minutes before they found takers.
Such a roar arose from the stock exchange floor that it could be heard for blocks up and down Broad and Wall Streets.

Local Shooting

The shooting with the statement that "I had to do it; we couldn't get along."
Later statement said that "I did not intend to kill her, she fell in my way," and hinted of an affair of a triangular nature.
Although officers report that the 38 calibre automatic pistol revealed only two empty shells, the body, taken in charge by Romus Brothers, showed four wounds, two near the left ear and one on each shoulder. She died while en route to a hospital.
O. B. Conley, chief deputy sheriff was searching for Lester on the aggravated assault charge when the shooting occurred.
The body fell in the front yard, near the porch of Mrs. Lester's residence. While Lester was en route to the sheriff's office hundreds of persons had assembled around the dying woman.
Francis W. C. Clark announced that his opinion was she was shot while in the yard while running for safety.
Tells Of Unhappiness
Mrs. Lester's story, at the time of filing complaint, was one of marital unhappiness, poignant suffering, and a laborious task of supporting herself and her 10-year-old son, Roscoe, pupil in the high third grade at the George M. Hunt school.
She related to County Attorney Vaughn Wilson that the husband had beaten her late Wednesday upon his return to the city, following the lengthy separation. "He threatened to kill me," she told officers, "but I do not think he will shoot as long as I am looking him in the face. If he shoots at me it will be while my back is turned to him."
Calm And Unmoved
Pausing in her story she reached for a telephone and a minute later she told authorities at the George M. Hunt school to protect her son and not allow Mr. Lester to take him from the building. The woman seemed calm and unmoved by any fear of impending tragedy.
The son, frantically perturbed over the tragedy which had come into his young life, was turned over to his aunt, Mrs. Noche Newton, sister of the victim of the shooting.
The body was shipped last night to Weatherford, former home of Mrs. Lester, where funeral services will be held probably today or Saturday.

Wheat Makes Big Swings In Prices Both Up And Down

Wild Course Of Values In Stock Exchange Duplicated With Bewildering Swiftness In Market

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor.
CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Giant swings in price both down and up came with bewildering swiftness in the wheat market today duplicating the wild course of stock exchange values. Transactions in wheat amounted far up into millions of bushels, with Europe recorded a big buy of 200,000 bushels of soft wheat after the market had collapsed under panicky selling 1 1/2 to 2 bushel today to the lowest level yet in this season. Subsequent rallies amounted to as much as 1 1/2 to 2 bushels in the accomplishment of such a move, a development that whirled the market upward almost as rapidly as an hour previous it had plunged headlong down.
Close Nervous
On the late rebound, wheat closed nervous, 4 1/2- to 4 3/4- below yesterday's close. Corn showed a 1 1/2- net gain, oats showing 1-4 to 1-2- net decline, and provisions ranging from 12c setback to a rise of two cents.

Although officers report that the 38 calibre automatic pistol revealed only two empty shells, the body, taken in charge by Romus Brothers, showed four wounds, two near the left ear and one on each shoulder. She died while en route to a hospital.
O. B. Conley, chief deputy sheriff was searching for Lester on the aggravated assault charge when the shooting occurred.
The body fell in the front yard, near the porch of Mrs. Lester's residence. While Lester was en route to the sheriff's office hundreds of persons had assembled around the dying woman.
Francis W. C. Clark announced that his opinion was she was shot while in the yard while running for safety.
Tells Of Unhappiness
Mrs. Lester's story, at the time of filing complaint, was one of marital unhappiness, poignant suffering, and a laborious task of supporting herself and her 10-year-old son, Roscoe, pupil in the high third grade at the George M. Hunt school.
She related to County Attorney Vaughn Wilson that the husband had beaten her late Wednesday upon his return to the city, following the lengthy separation. "He threatened to kill me," she told officers, "but I do not think he will shoot as long as I am looking him in the face. If he shoots at me it will be while my back is turned to him."

his name in connection with the presidency. The Mineral Wells man, who has large ranch interests near Post and who is also part owner of automobile agencies in Tulsa and Hays, has been a candidate for the 1929-30 presidency for nearly six months. In fact he has already been considered as the only candidate for the post although, since his request for release, the names of Jones, Judge J. D. Hamlin, Farwell; Judge C. E. Coombs, Stamford, and W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls have been frequently heard in the same connection.
No Action Taken
The directors refused to take any action on the Williams letter of withdrawal which came up on the heels of an address he delivered before the board Wednesday, in which he sketched his ideas of future operations of the organization. The W. T. C. C. he said, must first win back the good will which it has admittedly lost in the past year and a half in order that it be reorganized to the best advantage of all concerned. Williams urged that the new president, to be chosen Saturday, be made the active head of the organization and be empowered not only to select the new manager but to reorganize the staff and the methods of financing the regional body. Referring his letter of withdrawal to his ideas of reorganization, Williams said today that his personal business would not permit him to take enough time to adequately handle the position.
The directors did not act upon the letter and when newspapers asked Mr. Williams the point blank question, "if, after taking into consideration your reorganization suggestions and your letter, do directors select you as the 1929-30 president, will you accept?"
"That," answered Williams, "is something entirely different. I should prefer to aid this matter as a private in the ranks instead of as a leader of the army." Although he did not enlarge upon his answer, the consensus of opinion among the directors is that if Williams is elected he will accept.

Nellie Ross Goes To Washington To Form Activities

Former Wyoming Governor To Organize Women's Activity At Democratic National Headquarters

By BESS FURMAN Associated Press Staff Writer WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, has very decided opinions on the task she came to Washington to begin today—organizing women's activities at democratic national headquarters.

She has christened the subject to her endeavor "the women's arm of the democratic party," because she refused to call it a "women's division," or a "women's organization," or a "women's auxiliary."

Argue Indispensability She does not argue woman's equality in the political field, but woman's indispensability. "Such an organization as I have in mind implies women working shoulder to shoulder with men, and in no sense 'auxiliary,'" said Mrs. Ross. "Women and men bring different assets into the field of politics. Any question of their relative importance is like the eye saying to the ear, 'what need have I of thee?'"

Industry And Agriculture Are Face To Face In Tariff Rate Controversy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Two great divisions of American economic life, industry and agriculture, stood face to face in the senate today in their first conflict arising from the rate schedules of the pending tariff bill.

At the center of the controversy lay the duty to be imposed on casein, product of the farm which finds its consumer in the industrial field. Officially classified as a chemical and incorporated in the section of the measure devoted to imports of that description, it was the first agricultural item to be taken up by the senate in its consideration of tariff rates.

Dispute Bitter. The casein schedule was the subject of a bitter dispute in the hearings of both the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee when the tariff bill was in formulation. The house finally continued the present duty of two and one-half cents per pound but the senate committee proposed that it be increased to three and one-half cents.
