United Nations' Control Of Atomic Force, Sharing Of Secrets Urged

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—President Truman and the leaders of Britain and Canada today offered the secrets of atomic force to Russia and the rest of the world on two main conditions.

Those conditions are:

1. That nations which get the atomic secrets must equally share their own scientific secrets now and in future, when other new and terrible weapons of mass destruction may be invented.

2. That the United Nations devise and establish world-wide means of inspecting atomic plants in all countries to help prevent the use of the atom for war purposes.

Can Control Atom Bomb

The conditions were set forth in a sweeping declaration on atomic policy issued at the White House today by Mr. Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

This said the atomic bomb and other terrible weapons can be completely controlled only by banishing "the scourge of war from the earth" and it called for building up the United Nations to that end.

A short time before, the declaration had been cabled to the foreign ministers of Russia, France and China—all permanent members of the United Nations security council—by Secretary of State Byrnes.

Russia is the only other nation in the world today regarded by

GM Wage Proposal Rejected; Ford Asks Union Guarantee

DETROIT, Nov. 15. (AP) — The United Auto Workers (CIO) today flatly rejected a general 10 per cent wage rate increase offered by General Motors as a compromise on the union's demands for a 30 per cent boost.

The action, announced by Walter Reuther, UAW vice president in charge of General Motors negotiations, came a short while after the company increased its previous offer of eight to ten per cent increases for the majority of the company's workers.

Said Inflation Approach

Reuther, terming the latest company offer "a streamlined approach to inflation" declared that if General Motors "raises its auto prices one cent, the UAW will go into court and get an injunction to stop such action."

Harry Anderson, General Motors vice president, commenting on the threat of court action, said, "if the OPA sets up prices, I don't see how any court could take seriously any injunction request from the union."

Anderson said the 10 percent wage increase would be presented to the OPA as part of the production cost data being compiled to aid the OPA in setting new car prices.

Reuther asserted, however, that "every possible effort will be made to settle this thing across the conference table."

In another major development on Detroit's auto front, the Ford Motor company demanded that the union offer it guarantees against work stoppages and assurances of increased productivity by union workers.

The Ford proposal, made in advance of the opening of similar negotiations next Tuesday, demanded assurances of "company security" equal to that given the union in the four-year-old con-

Peace Parley In Java Fails

BATAVIA, Nov. 15 (AP)—British planes, tanks and artillery blasted anew today at 15,000 Indonesians resisting stubbornly at Soerabaja, while the first attempt at negotiations between Premier Sutan Sjahrir's Indonesian cabinet and the Dutch collapsed without explanation.

The 123rd Indian Infantry brigade seized the justice and government buildings yesterday in bitter battle against Nationalists using light automatic weapons, machineguns and some armored vehicles.

Buildings Smashed

Public buildings and homes were being reduced to rubble by the fierce struggle in the Java naval base.

Indian infantry has been limited to gains of mere yards in the heart of Soerabaja in the past three days. The British say they are not using their full strength.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haughland in Soerabaja said the Indonesians had at least 12 captured Japanese tanks, one of which was knocked out in today's fighting. The Dutch news agency Aneta said Indonesians were getting the range and were dropping shells from Japanese 75 millimeter guns within 20 yards of British vessels in Tandjungperak harbor.

The meeting between the Netherlands and Indonesian representatives was cancelled at the last moment, Aneta said.

Youthful Sjahrir, with whom the Dutch might negotiate, said he understood it was the British who cancelled the meeting, scheduled at the home of Lt. Gen. Sir Phillip Christison, British commander in the East Indies.

Netherlands officials said they were not at liberty to state why the meeting had been cancelled. The British promised "a full statement" tomorrow.

Senate Sidetracks Solons' Pay Hike

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The presidentially backed move to raise congressmen's salaries from $10,000 to $20,000 went onto a senate sidetrack today.

The Civil Service committee decided to take no action on it at this time, but it approved a measure raising the pay of civil service employes 20 per cent.

STASSEN IN CIVIES

Weird Informer Marks Filipinos

MANILA, Nov. 15 (AP)—The nodding head of a weird, black-hooded informer known as "The Magic Eye" chose 400 Filipino villagers for slaughter at the hands of the Japanese after they had been caught by bloodhounds last Dec. 11, a witness testified today ta the war crimes trial of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashia.

Another witness, a Japanese-American U. S. Army sergeant who had been pressed into service as an interpreter at Yamashita's headquarters, after capture at Corregidor, testified that during a single month of the Japanese occupation 1,800 persons were executed at a single cemetery in Manila after courts martial. Six or seven of those slain were Americans, said the sergeant, who related that he witnessed numerous executions.

Part Of Omnibus Charge

The testimony was part of the prosecution's omnibus charge that as commander in the Philippines Yamashita was guilty of "deliberately undertaking to terrorize, brutalize, massacre and exterminate noncombatant civilians" and to destroy towns and property.

System-Wide Expansion Program Under Way

Two School Contracts Are Awarded In City

Trustees of Lubbock Independent School district last night let two contracts, totaling $179,038.96, for construction of a new ward school building located approximately one-half mile south and one-half mile east of the Slaton-Tahoka "Y" on South Avenue H; and for an addition of six classrooms, and toilet facilities to McWhorter ward school in Arnett-Benson addition, adjoining Lubbock's corporate limits on the northwest.

In all contracts—general construction, plumbing and heating, and electrical—winners were those concerns submitting the low bids.

General construction contracts went to Sampson Bros. Construction Co., Lubbock, in the sum of $147,985; plumbing and heating was awarded to Roche Newton Co., Lubbock, in the sum of $27,265; electrical contracts went to Anthony Electric Co., Lubbock, for $3,788.96.

Ready For Next Fall

In the contracts, Sampson company agrees to finish both general construction jobs in 285 days after work can be begun; Newton and Anthony will complete their work within 20 days after the general construction is completed. Trustees estimated last night that construction would start in mid-December and the jobs finished about one month before the opening of the 1946-47 school year.

Three other general bids were offered, as follows:

Bennett, Moss, Fulton and Padgett, Lubbock, $153,000; Tom McAbee, Lubbock, $165,463; and Harmon Construction Co., Oklahoma City, $179,660.

Losing plumbing and heating bids were: Bell Plumbing Co., Lubbock, $35,416; Herman Greer Co., Big Spring, $35,650; Anthony Co., Lubbock, $31,415, and Samson Plumbing and Heating Co., Lubbock, McWhorter job only, $7,700.

Offering unsuccessfully for the electrical contract were Fletcher Electric Co., Lubbock, $4,839.46; J. D. Nelson, Lubbock, $5,100; Lowrey Electric Co., Lubbock, $4,800.

Two Score Present

All bids were publicly opened and read by W. T. Strange, member of the firm of Haynes and Strange, architects, in charge of the school expansion program. Approximately two score interested representatives of the various bidding firms were present at the school board's special meeting, held in the district's business and tax offices at 1007 Texas avenue.

Letting of contracts on the Southeast ward and McWhorter addition jobs signaled the kick-off on a district-wide expansion program for which voters recently approved, by 49½ to 1, a bond issue totaling $1,500,000. School officials said last night that architects are busy on plans for other new buildings and additions and it is hoped that contracts soon may be let on a new Junior High, lying between Avenues P and Q and between Twenty-ninth and Thirty-second streets; and on remodeling of the present Junior High building on Fourteenth street, which will be fitted to serve Junior High student in the south wing and ward

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War

Published by NEA Service, Inc., in co-operation with the War Department

(This is the fourth of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II).

THE ATOMIC ERA

ON 6 August the entire world learned from President Truman's announcement that man had entered into a new era—that atomic power had been harnessed.

MARSHALL

This discovery of American scientists can be man's greatest benefit. And it can destroy him. It is against the latter terrible possibility that this nation must prepare or perish. Atomic power will affect the peaceful life of every individual on earth. And it will at the same time affect every instrument and technique of destruction. But the atomic bomb is not alone among the scientific advances that make the possibilities of the future so terrifying. The development of aircraft and rockets and electronics has become equally incredible. In order to prevent any possible misconception of the terrible potentialities of the future, I asked the Commanding General of the Army Air forces to prepare an estimate of the capabilities of other modern weapons. His report is confined to the certainties but, as is obvious from the atomic bomb, the developments of the war have been so incredible that wildest imagination will not project us far from the target in estimating the future. Much of the information has until now properly been classified highly secret in our development research laboratories, at our testing establishments, or in the combat units. However, it is now so

Eva's Treasure Chest Is Found

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 15. (AP)—Eva Braun's treasure chest was found today and American intelligense officers discovered beneath its hoard of jewelry and money dozens of photographs showing family pictures of her and Hitler and a mysterious baby girl called "Uschi."

Hitler, it seems, was quite generous with Nazi loot to the woman, who is believed to have died with him in the gloom of the Berlin chancellory while Berlin burned.

The pictures of the baby were in Eva's personal album.

Contains Her Diary

The treasure trove contained the woman's diary, which employed every other sentence to tell of "my undying love."

Thousands of dollars in American bills in varying denominations and a brooch set with 50 diamonds and valued at $15,000 were found. The prize treasure, however, was an 18th century silver set bearing the royal emblem of the Polish crown and valued by American officers at between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

Precisely where the treasure was found is still a secret; American intelligence officers hinted that the full story was not yet told. Information leading to the discovery was obtained in a routine investigation.

The announcement called Eva Hitler's "supposed wife."

There had been various reports that the couple had at least one child, although British intelligence

Reds Bow To Chinese Plan

CHUNGKING, Nov. 15 (AP)—Partial Chinese sovereignty over Manchuria was restored by the Russians today as both sides in China's civil war maneuvered for position in strategic Shantung province to the south.

An official dispatch said the Russians turned over postal and telegraphic services at the Manchurian capital of Changchun to Chinese authorities, whose troops still are blocked from the long Japanese-dominated area by Chinese Communists.

The official account added that under the agreement—one of those sought by Chungking in its attempts to reoccupy Manchuria

HURLEY STATEMENT PLAYED

CHUNGKING, Friday, Nov. 16 (AP)—A Chinese Communist spokesman said today that U. S. Ambassador Patrick Hurley's interpretation of Communist objectives serves "no other purpose than to spread and prolong civil war in China."

Taking note of Hurley's statement Tuesday at Santa Fe, N. M., the spokesman objected particularly to the ambassador's assertion that the Communists sought Japanese arms with which "to set up a separate government in China or destroy the government of the republic of China."

Flying Of Troops

There still was no word on the outcome of Russian-Chinese negotiations for permission to fly Nationalist troops to Changchun.

But while the Manchurian situation took a more favorable Nationalist turn, the Chinese Communists struck swiftly in the rich coastal province of Shantung.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported they ripped up sections of the railway leading into the interior in an attempt to seal off thousands of Nationalist troops landing from the sea at the big port of Tsingtao.

New Price Schedule On Autos Delayed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Acceeding to dealers' demands, the OPA today again postponed announcement of price ceilings for new automobiles.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles had said previously that ceilings on some makes of new cars would be made public today.

The postponement, the second in a week, is to permit OPA to examine new financial information submitted by dealers to the House Small Business committee, the agency said in a statement.

Trial Of Dachau Butchers Opens

DACHAU, Germany, Nov. 15. (AP) — The Nazis carried out a "planned scheme of extermination" at the infamous Dachau concentration camp, the prosecution declared today at the opening of the trial of 40 Germans charged with killing and mistreating prisoners there.

About 400 spectators were in the court, including some 100 German civilians and many American soldiers. The trial opened in the center of the former prison camp, where, the prosecution estimated, 2,000,000 bodies were cremated. The defendants answered questions defiantly and even antagonistically. Judges and counsellors wore sidearms.

Jurisdiction Challenged

The defense, handled by four U. S. Army officers and a German civilian, challenged the court's jurisdiction on grounds the prisoners never were discharged from the Germany Army, and were entitled to treatment as war prisoners instead of being tried as war criminals.

The court overruled the challenge, after Denson argued that the defendants had forfeited their rights as war prisoners through violation of the rules of war. The court also overruled a motion to quash the indictment because it was not specific as to alleged offenses, and denied a plea for separate trials of each defendant.

All the defendants admitted membership in the German Army except four, whose defense was understood to be based on contentions that they were prisoners at Dachau and not members of the camp staff.

Jap Messages Decoded Many Months Before Pearl Harbor

Officials Knew Of War Threats

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The United States government was translating Japan's coded messages months before Pearl Harbor, knew she was spying on Hawaiian, Philippine and other defenses, and knew—well before the Dec. 7, 1941, raid on the Pacific base—that war was threatening.

Exhibits disclosed this officially today when put before the congressional committee investigating the disaster which plunged this country into war and temporarily broke the backbone of its Pacific fleet.

The exhibits, consisting of translations of coded messages, also revealed that Japanese envoys in Washington reported to Tokyo the day before Pearl Harbor that they had been working with "influential" individuals behind their "frontal negotiations" with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

These "influential" individuals were not named. An "urgent" message sent to Tokyo stated:

"In addition to carrying out front negotiations with the President and Hull, we have worked directly and indirectly through cabinet members having close relations with the President and through individuals equally influential (because of its delicate bearing on the State department, please keep this point strictly secret.)"

"On the fourth," this message said, "those engaged in plan 'A' dined with the President and advised him against a Japanese-American war and urged him to do the 'introducing' at once between Japan and China. However, the President did not make known what he had in mind."

William D. Mitchell, the committee counsel, put the message into the record as the committee moved haltingly through its first open session.

Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, who were in command at Pearl Harbor when the attack was launched, were among the audience today.

One exhibit, of 253 printed pages, was comprised of translations from intercepted diplomatic messages sent by Japan between July 1 and Dec. 8, 1941. The earliest was marked translated on Aug. 8, 1941, showing the diplo-

Texas Solon Would Place Quotas On Imports Of Wool From British

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Armed with statistics and data obtained from the U. S. tariff commission, Rep. Fisher (D-Tex) today set about drafting legislation to impose quotas on the imports of British wool.

Fisher plans to seek support for his proposal when western producers gather here for hearings to open next Monday before the special O'Mahoney Senate wool investigating committee.

In its final form, said Fisher, his measure will specify that the tariff commission fix quotas on the basis of domestic production and domestic requirements, with the existing stockpiles of surplus wools owned by both the United States and Great Britain taken into account. Although it would provide a flexible formula, the imports of British wools probably would be limited to about 300,000,000 pounds per year, he said.

Figures Are Cited

Here are some figures which Fisher contends justifies the levying of import quotas on wool, as exists now on cotton, wheat, sugar and other commodities.

The normal world production of wool is 4,000,000,000 pounds. The production of the United Kingdom primarily Australia and New Zealand, is 1,668,000,000 pounds. The American production is 450,000,000 pounds.

The British now have a stockpile of 5,000,000,000 pounds. The U. S. government, which has bought all the domestic clip for the past three years through the Commodity Credit corporation, has a 5,000,000-pound stockpile. These stockpiles were built up early in the war as a precaution against the possibility that the Japanese would cut off the shipping lanes to Australia. Much of the British stockpile is held in bonded storage in warehouses in this country, and was placed here with the understanding that it would not be dumped on the American market. Nevertheless, its very presence worries American producers. In addition to these supplies, manufacturers in the United States have stocks aggregating an additional 200,000,000 pounds.

U. S. Consumption

The post-war annual consumption of wool in the United States, the U. S. Tariff commission estimates, will be about 750,000,000 pounds yearly. This compares with a war-time domestic consumption of slightly over 1,000,000,000 pounds annually, but is almost 25 per cent greater than the pre-war yearly consumption.

The British, on the basis of their own demands and taking into consideration current production and the 5,000,000,000 stockpile, are estimated to have an exportable surplus of about 1,440,000,000 pounds annually. This surplus is to be disposed of by the British government, Fisher said, adding he has information the "issue price" on British wools soon is to be reduced from its present figure of $1.05 per pound, clean basis.

Price Differential

The CCC now pays the OPA ceiling price of $1.18 for American wools. The domestic clip has continued to move, despite the difference, partially because the U. S. government in ordering its uniforms and blankets requires that a certain percentage be made from American-grown wools.

The British wools now undersell the American clip by 13 cents a pound, in spite of the fact that a tariff of about 30 cents a pound is paid.

"In view of the tremendous world stockpiles of wool," concluded Fisher, "it is imperative that some steps be taken to protect the American wool growers. These stockpiles constitute a continuous threat."

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—It probably won't settle any arguments but at the University of Texas sorority members are smarter than fraternity members.

Lambs Eat Onions, Thrive And Gain

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 15. (AP)—Little lambs eat onions, and thrive on them, Robert F. Miller, professor of animal husbandry at the University of California reported today.

Announcing results of a test, Prof. Miller said a group of lambs fed on onion waste from a packing plant made average daily gains as high as 18 pounds as against only 13 pounds for another group fed on barley.

The flesh of the onion-fed lambs retained a herb-like flavor when slaughtered 12 hours after being taken from the pen, but those taken off the onion diet 60 hours before slaughtering had no trace of the flavor in their meat, Prof. Miller reported.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15 — The United States, Britain and Canada propose to keep their atomic powder dry until they can be sure it won't be used against them and humanity.

That seems to be the gist of the joint Truman-Attlee-King statement issued at the White House today.

WHITE

To Anglo-Saxon ears, there is little in this statement which can be interpreted as a threat to anyone. It assures responsibility for taking the initiative in seeing that the divided atom is used for humanity instead of against it, and proposes to set up a United Nations commission through which four things would be done:

1. Exchange basic scientific information for peaceful ends. This apparently doesn't offer too much in the immediate field of atomic knowledge.

Problem of Patents

However, in the long run it may be interpreted to hold great promise in this and other scientific fields, but one wonders how the various nations—including ourselves—will deal with the problem of patents which may be affected by such a program.

2. Control atomic energy to ensure its use only for peaceful purposes.

3. Eliminate from national armaments atomic and other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

4. Set up a system of inspection to protect complying states from violations.

Russian Attitude

Russia is the largest power outside the atomic inner circle, and Russian reaction to these suggestions (including the one about inspection by UNO) will be watched with consuming interest. This early there is little to indicate what it will be.

Meanwhile the White House statement does not make clear how the proposed atomic control commission is to be fitted into the United Nations organization — whether it will be subject to the veto-hobbled control council or to the assembly, or both, or whether it will itself be saddled with the veto rule whereby the delegate of one great power can stymie any proposal by vetoing it.

Watch Our Actions

Russian reaction also may be determined to a certain extent by the way we ourselves respond to these proposals. The idea of eliminating atomic and other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction is a disarmament proposal which can be expected to run into the same roadblocks of thinking and definition which have confronted earlier efforts of the same nature. The Russians will watch closely what we have to say on this.

They may be expected also to watch carefully the reaction of the United States Senate, which must approve by a two-thirds majority vote all American foreign policy commitments.

Would the Senate vote to open this country to United Nations inspectors? Would the House of Representatives vote the necessary appropriation to finance this country's share of the cost?

Aubrey Fawver Quits City Detective Post

Aubrey Fawver turned in his badge as captain of city detectives Thursday after eight and a half years as city patrolman, assistant identifications officer, acting assistant chief of police and as a detective officer.

He, Mrs Fawver and their 9-year-old daughter Nancy have sold their residence at 1726 Twenty-fourth and bought a modern suburban grocery store in the new Rockwood residential addition in Fort Worth.

Fawver moved to Lubbock in May of 1936 from Floydada, where his parents live. He joined the police department in April of 1937, was soon made assistant identifications officer, and was acting assistant chief from January of 1941 to November of 1944, when he was made captain of detectives.

The Fawvers plan to leave for Fort Worth this week-end or the first of next week.

Chief of Police Don Reeder and City Manager Marlin R. Smith, Jr., said their appreciation, and that of the police department, for Fawver's conduct of official duties over the years.

Police Hunting Car With Blood Stains

HOUSTON, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Police searched today for a late-model automobile containing a blood-stained hammer and bloody upholstery.

A service station attendant reported the car drove into his station at midnight and the driver, a well-dressed young man, asked the route to San Antonio.

The attendant noticed fresh blood on the front seat and the hammer and questioned the driver who said he had been attacked by a hitch-hiker near Beaumont. The driver said he beat the attacker with the hammer and dumped the body along the Beaumont-Houston highway.

Then he drove off into the night leaving the filling station attendant open-mouthed.

Veterans Laud Dutch Doctor

DALLAS, Nov. 15, (AP)— Veterans of the famed Texas "Lost Battalion" are seeking the man they call their 'saviour," a Dutch doctor who outwitted their Japanese captors and the effects of the Burma jungle to save the lives of several hundred war prisoners.

The Texas field artillerymen now home say if the government won't honor the heroic Dr. Henri Hekking with a medal, they'll pitch in and present him with something ourselves."

Prisoners Long Time

Sgt. H. T. Wright of Corpus Christi, now in Dallas on a visit, acted as spokesman for the battalion, officially known as the Second Battalion, 131st Field Artillery, 36th division. The unit was captured on Java in early 1942 and the men were kept Jap prisoners for three and a half years, before being liberated in Siam.

Wright said that the doctor "rates the highest medal this country can give."

The sergeant said that after the battalion was captured and moved from Java, most of the men were down with dysentery.

"Dr. Hekking joined up in Burma, immediately took over and commenced pulling us through," Wright related.

"He picked herbs in the jungle and made medicine out of them. He stole medicine for us from the Japs. He was constantly at the side of the sick—and there were plenty of them. All of us came down with various jungle diseases, and it was only Dr. Hekking's cheerfulness and determination that pulled us through.

Despite the Dutch doctor's efforts, Wright said, a third of the "Lost Battalion's" approximately 500 prisoners died.

Texas Oil Boost Is Tops For Industry

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 15 (AP)—A 104,200-barrel increase in Texas led daily average crude oil production up 145,200 to 4,459,150 in the week ending November 10, the oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The Texas gain, general except in the Panhandle, brought that state's average for the week to 1,894,200, still far ahead of second-place California, which slumped 4,500 barrels to 835,250.

Oklahoma, reflecting a higher allowable in the west Edmond field, climbed 27,350 to 390,150, while Illinois increased 1,00 to 206,300 and the eastern area came up 3,450 to 66,300. Louisiana gained 5,650 to 367,800 and Arkansas inched up 50 barrels to 76,100. Mississippi was down 350 barrels to 53,500. Kansas' 243,800 was 1,950 under the figure for the previous week.

The Rocky mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming gained 4,700 barrels to 133,350.

Winston Churchill was a professional soldier in the British army and fought with the Bengal Lancers in India.

Cattle Said In Good Condition For Winter

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Except in parts of South and West Texas cattle were going into winter in good condition on Nov. 1, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today.

The condition of cattle at 85 per cent of normal was an improvement of three points over a month earlier and two points higher than the 20-year (1924-43) average. Sheep and lambs showed a marked improvement during October and generally were in good flesh. The condition of sheep was 87 per cent, an increase of five per cent from a month earlier.

The department said range seeds and pasture grasses showed much improvement on Nov. 1 and at 84 per cent was eight points higher than a month earlier and four points above the 20-year average.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN

DANCE producer Le Roy Prinz, Hollywood, says the most attractive women in America today are between 24 and their early thirties. After all, Mr. Prinz picks girls for movie glamor roles and he should know.

When he interviews a girl he seats her 25 feet from his desk and studies her poise before he chats with her. However, he never makes a decision about her until she is walking away from him because he believes that: "when a girl walks toward you she is completely conscious of your attention. It's when she walks away from you and feels you are no longer aware of her that she collapses and is apt to give a truer picture of herself."

By the way, Mr. Prinz is firmly in favor of the high heel which encourages a woman to walk on her toes. There is nothing less appealing to him than a barefooted woman because:

"Her arches collapse and the rest of her body sags, throwing her completely out of line.

LIKE ENOCH ARDEN?

A STORY out of Hollywood the other day smacked of the touch of a press agent who had not checked his facts before writing his news. It concerned one Lt. Kenneth G. Schacht, submarine officer who spent more than three years as a captive of the Japs, who, according to the story, returned to the United States the other day to find his actress wife, Marjorie Weaver, had divorced him while he was a prisoner of war.

He came to Hollywood hoping to win her back, but gave up when he learned that she had remarried one Lt. Donald Briggs and is expecting a baby.

"He understood perfectly and agreed to walk right out of our lives," was the flippant manner in which the actress dismissed the matter.

AS WE understand it from a course in home service in the American Red Cross, it is impossible for a woman to divorce a man in service unless he signs papers of consent. We have heard of several cases, and there must have been hundreds, even thousands, of wives asking for and being granted divorces from overseas servicemen, even POW's, but in no case did a man return and find he had been divorced in his absence.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Beats Them All
So Easily Mixed! No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars. Real Relief.

Yes indeed, this home-mixed cough syrup, made in your own kitchen, is one of the most effective things ever found for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. And it saves good money, too.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from your druggist, and put it into a pint bottle. Then fill the pint with your syrup. Thus you make a pint—a family supply—of really excellent cough medicine. It gives you about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

The way this simple mixture takes right hold of a cough, is truly surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritation, eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you get restful sleep. You'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, known for its quick effect on throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased in every way, your money will be refunded.

PIN-WORM ITCH MAY THREATEN YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH
Don't let your child suffer a single needless minute of distress with Pin-Worms!
Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grown-ups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong. So watch out for the warning signs—especially the tormenting, embarrassing rectal itch. Because now you can and should do something about it!
A highly effective way to deal with this ugly infection has now been made possible. It is based on the medically recognized drug known as gentian violet. This special drug is the vital ingredient in P-W, the Pin-Worm tablets developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son.
P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms. So, if you suspect Pin-Worms in your child or yourself, get a box of JAYNE'S P-W right away, and follow the directions.
Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

Voters Would Authorize Change In Veto On Appropriation Bills

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Americans ordinarily take a very cautious attitude toward changing traditional procedures of government, but there is one reform proposed by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan which appeals to a substantial majority of voters.

Sen. Vandenberg's proposal would authorize a President to veto specific items in appropriation bills.

At present, under the constitution, the White House must approve or veto any bill as a whole. This makes Congressional log-rolling combinations possible and enables members to get their pet schemes adopted by tacking them onto appropriation bills as riders, since the President cannot veto parts of a bill.

The Vandenberg proposal to change this system was put before a cross-section of the voters of the country in an Institute poll as follows:

"At the present time when Congress passes a bill to spend money, the President cannot veto parts of that bill but must accept it in full or veto it. Do you think this should be changed so that the President can veto SOME items in a bill to spend money without vetoing the entire bill?"

The vote of the public follows:

Yes	57%
No	14
No Opinion	29

The Vandenberg proposal, introduced in the Senate and now pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee was in the form of a resolution to submit to the states a constitutional amendment authorizing a President to veto parts of appropriation bills.

Many students of government have long felt that the system was in need of reform. The principle of the Vandenberg proposal has been in effect for some time in several state governments, including New York.

The idea is a non-partisan one, so far as voters themselves are concerned. Both Democrats and Republicans polled in the sample support the proposal reform, by about the same majority.

Overwhelming approval is found among voters with opinions in every education group.

An analysis of attitudes by political party and by education follows:

By Party	Yes	No	No Op.

Japs Operated Model Prison In Shanghai For Investigations

GALVESTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Japs operated a model prison camp in Shanghai during the war, apparently for the benefit of probing committees from the International Red Cross and the Geneva convention, Lt. Comdr. G. Mason Kahn, U. S. Marine corps reserve, said here today.

Commander Kahn was the first Galveston man to be captured by the Japs. He was one of two doctors on Wake island was was taken prisoner with the fall of the island Dec. 23, 1941.

Had Adequate Supplies

At the Shanghai prison camp, Kahn said the prisoners were supplied with an "adequate diet and adequate supply of medicine, a complete library containing about 5,000 volumes" and other facilities.

"All in all, it was not too bad," he commented.

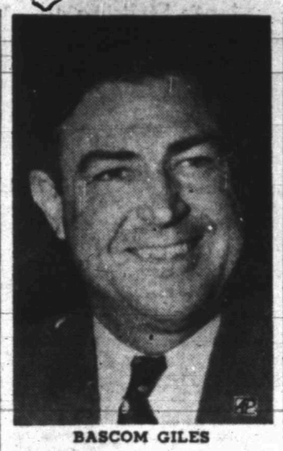

That the Shanghai camp was not representative of all Japanese prison camps quickly became evident to the former Galveston physician when he was transferred to Hokkaido in the north central portion of Japan.

"The picture in prison life changed then," Kahn said. "There was a great insufficiency of food, their daily rations consisting of one cup of rice three times a day, sea-weed kelp and mildewed dry fish."

When he performed surgery on fellow prisoners, Kahn was forced to carry his patient for two miles and back after the operation was completed.

GRAPE PRICES CUT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The OPA today cut the retail price of juice grapes by about 15 per cent. The lower price results from a reduction of retailers' net mark-up over cost, OPA said.

Firemen Help Woman Twice With Lockout

HOUSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—City firemen last night twice raced to the rescue of a woman who locked herself out of her home.

Mrs. J. L. Timmons first called when she left home without her key and locked the door behind her. Firemen responded and opened the door with a pass key.

Hardly had they gotten to the station when Mrs. Timmons called again. She forgot to get the key when they let her in. Would they mind coming back—please—and let her in.

They did.

Plans Under Way To Buy AAF Facilities

MISSION, Nov. 15 (AP)—Negotiations for the purchase of all fixed facilities at Moore Field will be started soon with the U. S. government by the tri-cities of Mission, Edinburg and McAllen, the cities have announced.

A committee of 15 men from the three cities, headed by Chairman D. F. Strickland, announced after an inspection trip to the field that the cities will make an effort to acquire all buildings at the 1,000-acre air base now in the process of temporary deactivation.

Students Of Dupre School Are Versatile; Dogies Have Won Touch Grid Title Second Year

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

DUPRE school, located between Twentieth and Twenty-first on Ave. T, is rounding out its 20th year in the Lubbock Public schools system and today stands as one of the city's most versatile elementary schools.

In fact, the pupils at Dupre can do almost anything you want done.

Heading the list of accomplishments of the schools, in the eyes of the students and many of the parents, at least, is the fact that the school's touch football team, the Dupre Dogies, has come through its second season undefeated and undisputed champions of Lubbock. The school also has been a leader in other sports.

Thirty-two per cent of the school's pupils are taking private lessons in piano, violin and voice and in art exhibits, Dupre has always been among the high-ranking exhibitors.

EDWARDS

One student, Billy Troy Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Edwards, 2117 Thirty-first, is one of the city's outstanding art students, having won the grand prize in the children's art exhibit at Texas Tech in 1943, and state recognition in the State fire prevention poster contest last year.

Fifteen per cent of the fathers of children in the school are in service, a check of the enrollment reveals.

As an example of how the war affected the lives of many people the nation over, one Dupre student, Gerald Stanley Smith, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Smith, 2012 Twenty-fourth, has attended eleven different schools in the past three years while his father has been in service. He first started to school at Dupre before the outbreak of the war.

SMITH

Then his father was called into service and the family moved first to Lockhart, where young Smith entered a Lockhart ward school. Later, his father was assigned to Barksdale field, La., and the family moved there and Gerald enrolled in the Bossier parish school near the field. Later he attended Fairfield and Highland schools in Baton Rouge, La., after his father was transferred there.

From Baton Rouge, the Smiths went to Birmingham, Ala., but it was during the summer and by school time they were in Memphis, Tenn., where young Smith enrolled in Messick school. His father was then sent overseas and we next find him in San Antonio, where he attended Travis school, but his mother soon moved back to their old home at Lockhart and he was put back in school there. During the next year, the family spent part of the year in San Antonio and Gerald attended Travis school again, later enrolling again in Lockhart when Mrs. Smith moved back there.

He re-entered Dupre school several weeks ago after his father received his discharge after serving 18 months in Africa and returning to the staff of Lubbock Memorial hospital.

Fifteen Per Cent Only Child

Of the students enrolled in Dupre this year, 27 are from out-of-state, who recently moved to Lubbock. Eight of the group are boys and 19 girls.

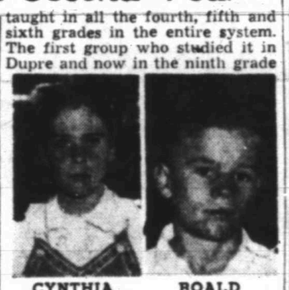

Fifteen per cent of the Dupre students are the only child in their families.

Only fourteen students in the school are children of former Dupre pupils.

Citizenship clubs are active in the school and two students, Cynthia Loveless, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roy G. Loveless, 2434 Twenty-second, and Roald Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Johnson, 2018 Twenty-third, are presidents of the clubs.

Spanish Study Featured

Study of Spanish in its conversational form is one of the featured classes of the school and the course was started in one third grade room in the school in February, 1941, and the following September was inaugurated in all third grade rooms in the school. It is now taught in all the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the entire system. The first group who studied it in Dupre and now in the ninth grade in Junior High, where they are among the highest-ranking students in the study.

When first started in Dupre, 40 students studied Spanish; now there are 280 taking the course and the number has averaged 300 for the past five years. Main objective of the course is to create a friendlier feeling between Anglo-Americans and Latin-American students and to help children understand people who speak a different language.

The school was named after the late M. M. Dupre, who served as superintendent of Lubbock schools from 1914 until 1923.

Mrs. Guy L. Trow is principal of the school and members of the faculty are: Miss Annie L. Burgess, Mrs. R. A. Metcalfe and Mrs. Jennie B. Terrell, first grades; Miss Margaret Bell, Mrs. Madge P. Berry and Mrs. Fred Nelson, second; Miss Marian Bray, and Mrs. Elliott A. Murray, third; Miss Bonnie Fay Cogburn, Mrs. Verlin Cooke Wheeler, and Miss Vinetta Parker, fourth; Miss Lorene Silman, Mrs. Gertrude Waggoner and Mrs. David E. Smith, fifth; Mrs. Eric Ming, Mrs. R. E. Key, sixth; Mrs. D. M. Howell, Spanish and Miss Dimple Watson, music.

Mrs. R. L. Hooten is president of the Dupre Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. D. M. Beach, jr., vice president; Mrs. Wilbur Cooper, secretary and Mrs. Jarrell Rhea, treasurer. Committee chairmen are: Mrs. Beach, program; Mrs. C. W. Ratliff, membership; Mrs. Russell Hardin, and Mrs. R. A. Metcalfe, hospitality; Mrs. J. O. Morgan, publications; Mrs. Guy Wheatley, study course; Mrs. H. N. Wood, war; Mrs. June Roberts, summer roundup; Mrs. E. E. Key, radio; Mrs. R. H. McCarty, historian; Miss Marian Bray, publicity; Mrs. C. M. Finley, council representative; and Mrs. Howard Logan, goals.

The association prepares one of the most complete publicity books in the city and last year it was entered in the state exhibit.

Dupre's gross enrollment for the year totals 635 but withdrawals have brought the figure to 613 at the last monthly report.

Safety patrols constitute one of the most active groups of the school and patrol members serve terms of six weeks. Present patrol members are: Chas. Brewer, Paul James, Bill Smith, O. H. Kyle, Margaret Marquart, Nancy Wilson, Bill Waters, Jno. Harvey Austin, Virgie McKinley, Gloria Thomas, Don Lee, La Faun Edwards, Joe Lon Teal, Sammy Hallmark, Johnny Tatum, Bruce Martin, Mary Beth Toles, Shirley Calhoun, Clara R. Hooten, Mary Lou Sanders, Jessie Walkup, Tommy Wynne, Wanda Robert, Ann Bondurant, and Grey Lewis.

British Offer Plan To Conserve Wheat

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The ministry of food, reporting a world shortage of wheat, said today thousands of tons of flour could be saved through the use of a darker loaf of bread. It also urged such measures as substituting potatoes for bread, serving bread in restaurants only when customers asked for it, and serving half rolls instead of whole ones.

Delay Granted In Von Halbach Trial

NUERNBERG, Nov. 15 (AP)—The international war crimes tribunal today postponed the trial of Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, Germany's ailing armaments maker, and heard a surprise defense request for an immediate psychiatric examination of Julius Streicher anti-Semitic propagandist.

The court still is considering an American-Russian-French demand that Alfried Krupp, the industrialist's eldest son, be substituted for his father as a defendant.

When the defense requested a psychiatric examination of Streicher, Col. Yuri Pokrovsky, the Soviet prosecutor, proposed an immediate physical and mental examination for both Streicher and Rudolf Hess, once Adolf Hitler's deputy, "rather than wait and cause a delay later."

An official pronouncement on whether Hess—who contends he remembers nothing—is too sick to face trial waited only on the word of the French psychiatrist, Dr. Jean de Lay, a Paris university professor.

Two Freed On Bonds In Shooting Case

MARSHALL, Nov. 15 (AP)—Herman Wilson, invalid estranged husband of Mrs. Sybil Wilson, Linden beauty shop operator, and his sister, Mrs. Jewell McDonald of Mt. Pleasant, were bound over to the grand jury and freed under $2,000 bond each at an examining trial yesterday before Justice of the Peace W. C. Blalock.

The charges grew out of gunshot wounds received Nov. 6 by Mrs. Wilson at her beauty parlor.

Wilson was charged in Cass county with assault to murder, and Mrs. McDonald as his accomplice.

Students Striking In Mexico Over Demands

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15 (UP)—More than 10,000 students of 14 schools in the National University of Mexico went on strike today in support of medical student demands for conditional examinations.

Three thousand medical students seized control of the medical school yesterday, forcing the director, Genaro Fernandez Macgregor, to set up temporary headquarters in the national library.

Fernandez MacGregor last night sent an ultimatum to the striking students giving them 24 hours to relinquish control of the medical school and its facilities. The students retaliated by sending the director an ultimatum giving him 24 hours to resign.

The strike began over "irregular" medical students' demands that they be allowed to take examinations in advanced courses before they successfully finished courses in the same subjects of a lower rank.

The Federation of University students has asked President Avila Camacho to intervene in the dispute and set up a board to study the question. Meanwhile, classes in all schools of the university are being attended by a small fraction of their enrollments.

Laval's Body Taken To Family Mausoleum

PARIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—The bullet-pierced body of Pierre Laval was moved today to the mausoleum of the Chambrun family in Montparnasse cemetery from an unmarked grave in Thiais cemetery, where it had lain since the former premier was executed as a traitor a month ago.

Laval's American-educated daughter Josee is married to Count Rene De Chambrun, who claims honorary American citizenship as a lineal descendant of Lafayette.

Out-Of-State Travel Ruling Is Reversed

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Advance written consent for out-of-state travel by school officials is not required of the board of regents or directors of state colleges and universities, the attorney general's department said in an opinion today.

The opinion, overruling a previous opinion by the department, was given to the state comptroller on the suggestion of acting President T. S. Painter of the University of Texas.

Eisenhower Urges U. S. To Stay Strong With Training Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told Congress today there is hope for perpetual peace, but America should keep her young men trained for war lest she be left "defenceless and naked before a future enemy."

A year's peacetime training for every youth of 18 is "imperative" for the safety of the nation, the five-star European commander testified to the House Military committee.

"If I didn't have hope for peace I wouldn't be here—I would have jumped out of my plane over the Atlantic," the general declared.

Hope Not Enough

But, he said, hope isn't enough. The next aggressor will smash first at the United States from far away, he said. "We will not have time to train units before we are faced with the final issue of defeat or victory."

Eisenhower wouldn't say who he thought the next aggressor—if there is one—might be. In answer to questions by Rep. Thomas (R-NJ), he said:

Britain will never go to war against the United States.

Russia has "not the slightest thing to gain" by attacking this nation and moreover "I'm convinced her policy is one of friendship with us."

Training Said Key

This pool of trained men is a key to world peace, Eisenhower insisted. He said the world would note and remember that the U. S. is ready and that alone would give backbone to the United Nations organization for peace.

This war might never have happened if America had followed a peacetime military training plan, the general testified.

His appearance packed the big, roomy Ways and Means committee room. The audience applauded frequently as Eisenhower turned on his famous smile, strode up and down, and drove home his points in biting style. Invited to sit, he said he could think better on his feet and he remained militarily erect almost three hours.

Would Serve Notice

Several opponents of the bill contended that the United Nations organization and atomic warfare, diminished the need for many soldiers. Eisenhower said it was just the contrary.

Other nations fear now that this country may "go back to what they call isolation," he said. "A training program would spike that."

As for the world peace organization, Eisenhower commented:

"I don't challenge the good faith of any member of the United Nations but the organization hasn't been set up yet, it isn't ready."

Oil Allowables Are Set For December

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Allowable production of Texas crude oil during December today was set by the state railroad commission at 2,029,706 barrels daily, based for the state generally on 25 producing days for the 31-day month.

The commission calculated that there would be underproduction during the month of 4.5 per cent, or 91,337 barrels daily. This would fix the state's production at 1,938,369 barrels daily, which is 1,631 barrels daily below the U. S. Bureau of Mines certification as December demand.

For this 30-day month, the net allowable as of Nov. 10 was 2,026,572 barrels daily, based on 24 producing days.

The Panhandle was continued exempt from shutdown days and East Texas field was retained at 20 producing days. KMA field in North Texas was placed on the exempt from shutdown list instead of 22 producing days as now.

Production of distillate and natural gasoline was estimated at 163,000 barrels daily.

The commission's next statewide oil and gas proration hearing was scheduled for Dec. 18 here.

By districts, December net allowable and the increase over Nov. 10 net will be:

District one, 20,926 barrels daily, up 27 barrels daily; two, 132,709, up 939; three, 453,337, up 3,759; four, 217,299, up 1,627; five, 37,917, up 513; six, 99,535, up 453; East Texas, 308,748, down 9,706; seven-B, 34,851, up 126; seven-C, 25,505, up 194; eight, 465,799, up 4,607; nine, 135,813, 70,683, and 10, down 9,706; seven-B, 34,851, up 126; seven-C, 25,505, up 194; eight, 465,799, up 4,607; nine, 135,813, up 683, and 10, 97,267, up two.

Pizzo Picture May Be Used On Stamp

HOUSTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — A movement looking toward the use of a picture showing the return of Lieut. Earl Pizzo to his family here on a stamp commemorating the return of soldiers and sailors to their homes has been started by Ann Singleton of Washington.

Miss Singleton, writing the postmaster general in this connection, believes the Pizzo picture, taken by photographer Caroline Valenta of the Houston Post and distributed nationally by the Associated Press, is a natural complement to AP photographer Joe Rosenthal's immortal shot of the flag being raised over Iwo Jima.

New York Boy Won't Talk After Praying At Bronx "Shrine"

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Young Joseph Vitolo's reported vision of the Virgin Mary in a Bronx lot and what she told him remained the nine year old boy's secret today.

"I won't tell you what she told me," he shouted at reporters last night. "She told me not to tell."

"Shut up, Jo-Jo," his sister ordered. Beyond that the boy refused to talk.

Was 16th Night

It was the 16th night since he claimed to have seen a vision of the Virgin. Approximately 30,000 people stood in a drizzling rain in the streets, surrounding the rock-littered vacant lot to watch him pray.

It was the night, he had said, "when the "Blessed Lady" told him "something wonderful" would happen.

Young Joseph prayed before an improvised altar in the lot. Many in the crowd repeated the words of the prayer "Hail, Mary" after him.

Would Not Return

Through his sister, Mrs. Theresa Campone, the boy said, after he was returned to his home, that he definitely would not return to the field again. It was his last night.

"He will not disobey orders," Mrs. Campone said. "The virgin appeared tonight and told him, 'I'm not coming any more. I did my work. And you should answer no questions.' "

The boy stood beside his sister, alternately smiling and scowling.

Chichi Huffino, a husky neighbor who always escorted Joseph to the shrine, explained, "He is very mad, I think. They took pictures while he was praying. They took flashlights. He is very mad."

"Jo-Jo will return to school tomorrow," Mrs. Campone said.

Governor Threatens Action After Riot

HONOLULU, Nov. 15. u—Territorial Gov. Ingram Stainback, taking cognizance of Monday night's riot in the Damon tract residential district, declared in a statement today that if Honolulu police and the Navy shore patrol were unable to handle the situation involving clashes between civilians and Navy men, the territory's officials would act.

Police Chief W. A. Gabrielson of Honolulu declared there had been "no new riots, and there won't be any," while Lt. Cmdr. Ernest Morris, head of the Navy shore patrol, said, "naval air station men were given liberty last night and there were no repercussions."

Shore patrol records showed that seven Navy men were beaten last night in altercations with civilians, but Eugene Kennedy, captain of detectives, said this was a normal night.

The Navy announced it had declared the Damon trart off limits, while the Army issued a statement that it had taken similar action some time ago.

Plan To Share Atom Outlined

American officials as having the industrial and natural resources capable of atomic developments and diplomats said that the pronouncement in effect puts the issue of atomic secrecy now squarely up to Moscow.

Was U. S. Proposal

This afternoon the statement was communicated officially to all the rest of the 51 members of the United Nations. One purpose of the Truman - Attlee - Mackenzie King plan is to hand over to the United Nations responsibility for carrying out their atomic-control proposals.

In final form it was the result of suggestions made by Truman, Attlee and Mackenzie King, but Allied officials in on the talks said that it really was based on an American proposal submitted at the outset of the conference last Saturday. Here are the main provisions of the document, as elaborated by officials in talks with reporters:

Would Start Immediately

1. The three leaders are willing to start exchanging immediately with other government basic scientific information and scientific literature in all research fields, including the atomic. The United States has already given out basic scientific information essential to the development of atomic energy for "peaceful purposes," it is stated, and official said that together with Britain and Canada the country now stands ready to release remaining basic scientific information thus far withheld because of its possible military applications. This first step does not have to wait on action by the United Nations.

2. Detailed information "concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy will be given to other United Nations if and when the United Nations organization has worked out "effective enforceable safeguards" against its use for destructive purposes.

Commission Is Urged

3. In order to set up these safeguards the United Nations should organize at their London meeting in January a special commission —either under the general assembly of 51 members or the security council of 11—to plunge into the whole problem of atomic energy and atomic explosives and come up with control and development recommendations.

4. The commission should try first to promote a full and free flow of scientific information among nations, and, second, full information on resources of atomic energy raw materials. Its main jobs would also include devising means to keep the uses of atomic energy peaceful, to ban the manufacture of atomic and other mass-destruction weapons and to evolve the systems of inspection.

5. Beyond these specific steps Truman, Attlee and Mackenzie King declared that every nation now must realize "the overwhelming need to maintain the rule of law among nations" and to banish war. To that end they called for supporting, consolidating and extending the United Nations organization, "thus creating conditions of mutual trust in which all peoples will be free to devote themselves to the arts of peace."

Wage Controversies

tract that provides for a union shop and check-off of union dues.

Also contained in the Ford proposals addressed to Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO director for the Ford company, was a suggestion that the union be required "to reimburse the company for any damages it may suffer by reason of violations of the provision prohibiting strikes and other interferences with production."

Time Said Not Right

The company also asserted that it does not believe the present "is the time to attempt to settle on general wage increases."

Leonard assailed the Ford statement as a "union-busting and strife-provoking document."

"The company's statement," he said, "makes it clear that the Ford company has joined the conspiracy of profit-swollen corporations to perpetuate present starvation wages or open the gates to inflation through unjustified price increases.

"We had hoped our differences with the company could be peaceably adjusted during negotiations.

"This is certainly not bargaining in good faith. The only interpretation we can put on the statement is that the company is anxious to provoke a strike."

The General Motor wage offer was based, a company statement said, on President Truman's executive order 9651.

CHINESE TO SUPPORT AGREEMENT ON ATOM

CHUNGKING, Friday, Nov. 16. (AP) — The Chinese government is expected to give its full support to the Truman-Attlee proposal to create a United Nations commission to control the destructive forces of atomic energy.

During the discussions between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee, a high Chinese government official told the Associated Press that China believed the United Nations should share the atom bomb secret "because permanent peace can be insured only through the closest world cooperation."

Air Field Raided

They also raided Liuting air field, 12 miles north of Tsingtao, but this proved a diversion.

Travelers returning from Tsinan told Bergholz the capital was under virtual siege, with Communists controlling routes leading into the city and the population and garrison running short of food.

These sources said the Japanese 47th division and several mixed brigades, still not disarmed, guarded Tsinan's outer defenses while the Nationalist garrison of 20,000, mainly former puppet troops, were in reserve.

Jap Code Messages

matic code was "broken" at least by that date.

The other, of 126 typed pages, was comprised of military messages, the earliest dating back to Dec. 2, 1940, and marked translated on Jan. 14, 1941.

As its initial witnesses, the committee heard Rear Admiral T. B. Inglis and Col. Bernard Thielen in what Mitchell termed a "narrative statement" concerning the military dispositions in Hawaii and what happened there on Dec. 7, 1941.

For the most part this was a summary of what had been made public previously in longer form in the reports from the Army and Navy boards which made investigations.

Neither witness was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack. They prepared their summaries from the records.

But even this non-controversial matter, as most of it was, brought a clash between Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) and the Democrats.

The thread of imminence of war ran through all the intercepted diplomatic messages in the days immediately before the Japanese attack.

Included were communications to and from caiptals all over the world.

One, sent from Rome to Tokyo on Dec. 3, 1941, and translated here on Dec. 6, showed the Japanese ambassador had got down to "brass tacks" in an interview with Mussolini.

The ambassador reported:

"Should Japan declare war on the United States and Great Britain, I asked, would Italy do likewise immediately? Mussolini replied: 'Of course. She is obligated to do so under the terms of the tri-partite pact. Since Germany would also be obliged to follow suit, we would like to confer with Germany on this point'."

Yamashita Trial

can military tribunal tonight viewed a motion picture entitled "Orders from Tokyo," made up of captured Japanese newsreels and other atrocity pictures.

Mrs. Felicidad Manuel, mother of two of the victims, testified to the operations of "The Magic Eye" in the villages of Polo and Obando just north of Manila, describing a macabre parade in which the hooded figure dealt out death by a nod or life by a slight shake of the head.

Questioning Halted

Yamashita's American defense counsel asked if the roundup and slaughter followed the Japanese arrest of a certain Filipino captain who had been on Bataan, but the court halted the questioning.

Testimony of the interpreter, M/Sgt. Richard Sakakida, was stressed as tending to link Yamashita more directly with atrocities. He testified that he frequently saw Yamashita at headquarters in Baguio last December and subsequently and that executions were ordered on mimeographed headquarters forms which had blanks for the name and date.

Our Roots Are in This Land...

HOW often you hear a man say of the land he owns . . . "When my son takes over, this will be a better place than when I got it!" Such a desire is natural to a father and splendidly American! Along with the expressed thought, there is a deep-rooted pride in continuous family ownership of productive land. So long as this ideal lives, agriculture will continue to be "the broad, enduring base upon which the entire U. S. economy rests."

There are many farm and ranch sons who stay in their families' business on the land. Some who do leave, however, might also stay, were there written business agreements between father and son. Such agreements insure a fair return to both "partners" for the labor, capital and ability they contribute to their joint enterprise.

Practical father-and-son farm business agreements have been worked out and are proving their worth in actual practice on many of the nation's farms and ranches. The various forms of these agreements cannot be explained in detail here, but they are available and worth study. Excellent bulletins on this subject may be had by writing to the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois, for Circular No. 587; or to Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan, for Special Bulletin No. 330.

We, at Swift & Company, know that a prosperous agriculture is the base of our prosperity and we are proud to say with you . . . "Our roots are in this land."

Soda Bill Sez:

. . . That a steer is like a sofa. His frame is built on the range, his upholstery is put on in the Corn Belt, and he is often polished off in the city.

. . . That the important thing about a water-hole is water, and the important thing about a good farm is good farming.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

The livestock-and-meat industry is like an endless chain. The meat travels in one direction; from livestock producer to meat packer, to retail dealer, to consumer. And coming back in the opposite direction is money; from the meat purchaser to the storekeeper, to the meat packer, to the man who grows the livestock.

There must be motive power to keep that chain running, and that motive power is profit. It is profit that keeps ranchers and farmers producing livestock; profit keeps meat packers slaughtering, dressing and delivering meat to retailers; profit keeps retailers selling meat in their stores.

We at Swift & Company well know that a continuing loss anywhere along the line would mean that all of us would suffer. Thus, it is clearly to our own advantage to operate our end of the livestock-and-meat industry so efficiently that the money the consumer pays for meat shall cover all costs plus a sufficient profit for retailers and livestock producers, as well as for ourselves.

F. M. Simpson

Agricultural Research Department

Have you heard about the new improved lard? Swift & Company, after ten years of research and consumer tests, has developed a brand new product—Swift's Bland Lard. It has all the advantages of other high grade shortenings, plus the important qualities found only in lard. It will cause millions of American housewives to use more lard, and that's mighty important to hog producers.

Any improvement in pork products which boosts consumer demand (such as a superior lard) will have a supporting effect on live hog prices, because the price paid for livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and by-products.

PHENOTHIAZINE FOR FARM FLOCKS

By RICHARD C. MILLER
Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station

All sheep in farm flocks—ewes, rams and lambs—should be dosed late this fall or early winter with phenothiazine and again in the spring after lambing time. From at least May 1, through September, the one-to-nine phenothiazine-salt mixture should be accessible in a covered feeder that protects it from the weather.

In Kentucky tests during the past three years, involving 30,000 breeding ewes, this program (in connection with generally recognized good farm flock practices, such as pasture rotation), eliminated the dosing of any lambs in more than 90 percent of the flocks, and made possible the growing out of even the latest lambs to good market weights and finish. The average increase in weight per lamb was nearly 12 pounds above normal prewar average. The average annual cost for phenothiazine was less than 30 cents per ewe.

Farmers and ranchers in doubt as to time and frequency of treatment best suited to their conditions and purposes should consult their state agricultural college.

Permanent Amusement Area For Mackenzie State Park Planned

A ten-year sub-lease of grounds in Mackenzie State park has been approved by the Lubbock Parks commission in a Wednesday night meeting, the lease going to a corporation composed of 13 Lubbock men for proposed construction of a permanent amusement area. The State Parks board had previously approved the lease.

The amusement area, which will cost between $50,000 and $75,000, will be housed in permanent buildings and will be located on approximately 30 acres of land immediately due east of the present children's amusement area and wading pool.

Have Many Attractions

Attractions in the amusement center will include a skating rink, miniature golf course golf driving range, merry-go-round, moon rocket, looper, merry mixup, kiddie car ride, Link trainer, Shetland pony ride for children, miniature train and concession stands for refreshments and food.

A bingo game concession is also planned in the area to be operated by some local charity, like the American Business club's Boys' club project.

The entire area will be connected with caliche and asphalt walks and buildings will be of permanent construction. Ample rest room facilities will be provided.

Ten-Year Option Included

A percentage of the profits of the center will go to the parks commission to be used in maintenance of the park. A ten-year option was included in the ten-year lease. Bates Witt, local accountant, represented the local corporation in negotiations for the lease.

The amusement center will be operated from about April 15 until October of each year, Witt said.

Last night's meeting of the parks commission was held in the Chatman hospital and clinic in Carver Heights with Dr. Joe Chatham host at a sumptuous dinner.

Other Business Transacted

Business transacted included approval of the amusement area lease and renewal of the State Park board's lease to the city for Mackenzie State park, both being passed to the city commission for approval. The commission also accepted and passed for further study suggestion of Parks Superintendent C. D. McGeehee that the City regulate and assist in upkeep of shade tree street and parkway plantings.

Attending the dinner were: Mesdames Lou Stubbs and Clark M. Mullican, Altus Sansom, K. N. Clapp and Supt. McGeehee of the parks commission, and Mayor O. W. Ribble and City Manager Marlin R. Smith.

HEADQUARTERS, 13th Air Force, Leyte—Two Texans formerly stationed at air fields near Lubbock and now combat correspondents for the 13th Air force were present at the huge celebration at Tacloban, provincial capital of Leyte, recently, marking the first anniversary of the landing of General MacArthur's troops on Leyte in 1944.

Sgt. Thad B. Ricks was on duty in the public relations office at South Plains Army Air field for nearly two and a half years, while Sgt. James W. Brazzil entered the air force at Lubbock Army Air field and was stationed there for a short time.

Ricks is from Waco and is married to a former editor of the Texas Tech Toreador, Betty Davis Ricks, now on the publicity staff of the Dallas Community War Chest. Brazzil, from Gatesville, has worked on the Lamb county Leader in Littlefield and the Brownfield News.

France Is Criticized For Failure To Aid In European Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15, (AP)—Byron Price said today that France is "almost entirely responsible for failure to preserve Germany as an economic unit" as promised in the Potsdam agreement.

The former chief censor, who investigated relations between the military forces and German civilians for President Truman, talked to reporters after a call at the White House to discuss his formal report.

Price said France contends that Germany "is not ready for any sort of central government" and asserted her position is leading to the "economic dismemberment" of Germany.

"As long as you are not going to have central government in Germany," he added, "there is not going to be any economic unity."

France, Price said, has objected to an over-all system of transportation, postal service, and crop control in Germany and will not agree to any kind of central planning.

Price said the four-power control council in Berlin operates on a unanimity rule and any one country can veto a proposal. France did not sign the Potsdam agreement, he added, but has adhered to it.

Braniff's Passenger Traffic On Increase

DALLAS, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Passenger traffic during the third quarter of this year jumped nearly 49 per cent over a year ago, Braniff airways President T. E. Braniff reported today.

A total of 108,940 passengers were carried as compared to 74,189 last year, Braniff said, pointing out that an average of 18.48 passengers per mile of 41,845,158 passenger miles were flown during the quarter.

Third quarter revenue was up 27.78 per cent to $2,237,646, Braniff said, while net profit was up $56,746 to $376,547.

Forrestal Planning To Quit Post Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal plans to resign from the government "within two or three months," a close associate said today.

Forrestal, this friend said, feels that he has completed his job but plans to stick to his post until the fight over unification of the armed forces is ended "provided it doesn't go beyond two or three months."

Meanwhile, there was renewed speculation here about the retirement of Gen. George C. Marshall as Army Chief of Staff. One report said President Truman may announce his retirement this week and name Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who is now in the capital, as his successor.

Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, former deputy chief of staff, is among those mentioned as a possible successor to Eisenhower as chief of American forces in Germany.

Hitler's Silverware To Be Seen In State

(By The Associated Press)

Victory Loan Train No. 6 will visit 14 Texas cities Nov. 21 to Dec. 3, carrying a special exhibit of Adolf Hitler's collection of silverware.

The collection, taken from Hitler's house at Munich, was loaned to the Treasury department for the current Victory Loan drive. The train also will carry facsimiles of the Japanese and German surrender documents.

An Army Air Forces airmada of 12 planes comprise another Victory Loan incentive, "Wings of Victory," to visit Texarkana Dec. 1-2 and Longview Dec. 4. The planes, which include a B-29 Superfortress, a B-25, P-38 and a glider, will be open for inspection. Pilots and crew, comprised in part of overseas combat veterans, will conduct tours and explain the operation of the ships.

Meanwhile, Nathan Adams, state chairman of the drive, announced that Texas has met 16.6 per cent of its 90 million dollar E bond quota, or $14,839,996.25.

Tech Leaves Today For Big Tilt With Aggies Saturday

The Texas Tech Red Raiders start the long trek to Stillwater, Okla., this morning, where they battle the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday afternoon in the toughest test faced by any college grid machine in Texas this week-end.

Illness that struck into the ranks of the club during the week has taken a big toll, and Coach Dell Morgan indicated last night that the only member of the sickbed brigade that was likely to make the trip will be Doug McSwane, big tackle from San Angelo, but how much action he will be able to see remains a big question mark.

McSwane was out with the club Thursday afternoon for the first time this week, but was taking very little active part in the final home workout for the squad.

The Red Raiders leave this morning by bus, and will eat lunch in Vernon, then move on to Edmond, where the team will hold its final workout of the week.

The Cowpokes of Oklahoma A. & M., headed by All-American Bob Fenimore, have piled up a record of 16 straight wins over college elevens, and will be shooting the works to get by the last two foes on the schedule with a bowl bid in the eyes of Coach Jim Lookbaugh's lads.

Battle Of Backs Seen

The battle is expected to develop into a duel between the Cowpoke star and Walt Schlinkman, the Crippled Wreck of Texas Tech, who last week topped off his great season with the feat of scoring one touchdown against the Texas Christian club, and personally accounting for 137 of Tech's 138 yards rushing.

The Aggies, too, will be remembering last year when the Red Raiders gave them the biggest scare of the year, and came within the matter of almost seconds of holding the mighty Aggies to a 7-7 tie, but lost in the fading minutes, only by a 14-7 count.

Morgan was very much in doubt of his starting lineup on the eve of his departure, and indicated that he would not know the starters until after the final workout this afternoon in Edmond.

GERMANS TO HANG

LONDON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Two German prisoners of war will be hanged tomorrow morning at Pentonville prison for killing a fellow prisoner who whispered their escape plan to a British guard. The two men—Emil Schmittendorf and Armin Kuehne—were convicted by a court martial last August.

Larkin-Moran Bout On KFYO Tonight

Tippy Larkin, the Garfield, N. J. gunner, meets Nick Moran, the Mexican marauder (above), in a welterweight ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden in New York tonight!

Sharp-shooting Larkin, kayoed Freddie Archer and licked Willie Joyce in his last two Garden appearances. Tippy, strictly a boxer, has a dazzling left and a Sunday sock in his right that's a real convincer.

Moran became a hero in Mexico by defeating Bob Montgomery last spring. His only Garden fight — a crowd-pleasing shindy—was against Ike Williams in September. He battled ably but lost to the NBA lightweight champ. Moran's style is basic. He fights, throws punches in bunches, keeps boring in.

Enjoy the excitement, blow by blow on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and KFYO (1340 on your Dial) at 9 P. M.

Crosbyton, Floydada Tangle Tonight For District 4-A Honors

From the Crosbyton Chief-Floydada Whirlwind game in Floydada tonight will come the champion of District 4-A according to district headquarters at Lockney.

Crosbyton heads the list with five wins against no conference losses and the Floydada game will end their league football. A previous report had the Chiefs playing Ralls at a later date, but the Floydada game will end their season.

Spur Out Of Race

Floydada is tied for second with four wins and no losses. Spur has three wins on their record against one loss, (to Crosbyton), and one tie, (with Paducah). Spur and Floydada will play Thanksgiving day. If the Floydada eleven comes out against Crosbyton with a victory they can win the title by beating Spur, while a loss to the latter will throw the race into a tie with the Chiefs. Spur is out of the running as a result of their tie game.

Paducah ranks fourth in the league with one win, three losses and a tie. Matador is fifth with one win and two losses, Lockney comes sixth with one win and three losses. Ralls has played five games in the conference circuit, losing all and occupying the cellar post.

This week-end, other than the top game at Floydada, Spur meets Slaton at Slaton in a non-conference joust, Matador plays at Lockney in a league game with no bearing on the title, and Ralls goes outside the league to play Petersburg at Ralls.

Sudan, Olton Tangle In Afternoon Tussle

The football week-end in West Texas will be the lightest of the season, with Districts 5-A and 6-A playing but two conference games each, with only one game having any bearing on the outcome of the race in each loop.

The undefeated, untied Sudan Hornets battle the Olton club at Sudan this afternoon, with their title scrap with the Littlefield Wildcats another week away. The only other game in the league will send Morton to Muleshoe.

Headlining the District 6-A card will be the tilt at Andrews, where Coach Prentice Walker's fast improving Bulldogs will battle Andrews, a team with only one conference loss for the season, and clinging to a hope of getting back in the running. Seminole, a team making a late start this season, anw now rated as one of the toughest in the district, will move into Post to battle Lefty Sollis' Antelopes.

Dupre And McWhorter Win Touch Grid Tilts

Dupre and McWhorter schools won touch football games in the grade school touch grid competition Thursday afternoon.

Dupre's undefeated and untied Dogies chalked up the most impressive decision in rolling over Sanders, 25 to 0, with a big second quarter accounting for two of the winning touchdowns.

McWhorter scored in the last minute of play to edge out K. Carter, 6 to 0.

In the Dupre game, Fullback Johnny Tatum passed 20 yards to End Randell Rieger for the first tally. The try for extra point was missed. In the second stanza, Tatum uncorked another pass, this time for 30 yards, to Quarterback Dick Lowrey for the second touchdown. Again the extra point was no good. Then just before the half, Jimmy Higgins recovered a blocked Sanders punt in the end zone for another counter. Tatum kicked the extra point for a 19 to 0 lead at halftime.

The third period was scoreless. Then in the fourth quarter, Jerry Davis caught another Tatum heave for 20 yards on the one-yard line, then plunged over for the fourth touchdown.

In the McWhorter game, Fullback Henry Ussery passed 30 yards to End Jerrell Young for the last minute, game winning tally. Both games were played at the Dupre grid.

Meadow Keeps 1-B Title In Fast Duel

Meadow Rally Noses Hale Center, 14-13

By MACK TURNER
Avalanche Sports Editor

Jack Barnes' educated toe spelled the difference between a district champion and a co-champion Thursday night at Texas Tech stadium, and the grid crown of District 1-B was again placed on the heads of the Meadow Bronchos after taking a 14-13 thriller from the battling Hale Center Owls.

The once beaten, once tied Bronchoes put on a great comeback drive to snatch the ball game out of the fire in true story book fashion. The thrice beaten Hale Center club uncorked a fast striking attack, built around H. A. Caraway, a rangy, hard running star, and pulled out into a 13-0 lead that looked headed for an upset of the champion Bronchos.

But Meadow refused to be licked, and after the second Owl touchdown began to click and launched a drive that rolled 65 yards after the kickoff, and hit pay dirt.

And from that time on, the battle favored the Meadow club, although such a margin was slim.

Hale Center kicked off, and the Meadow offense sputtered, and had to punt. Jackie Caudle, a hard running youngster, tucked in the kick on his own 48, and smashed down to the Meadow 36. On the second play, big Bobby Landers galloped to the Meadow 16. Caraway knifed to the ten, Caudle went to the four in two more plunges, then Caraway smashed over to score, and kicked the extra point for a quick 7-0 lead.

Supt. Hamilton Still of Meadow met with officials of the Rochester High school last night at the Hilton hotel, following the Meadow victory over Hale Center for the District 1-B championship, and it was decided that the bi-district battle between the two schools would be played next Friday night at Haskell. Rochester needs one more victory to win the District 2-B title, playing Weinert tonight, and is heavily favored to win. Plans for the game, however, are tentative, pending the outcome of the Rochester-Weinert game.

Meadow struck right back and taking the kickoff on its 15, ran it back to the 34, and from there marched to the Hale Center 21, but failed when taking to the air, and Caudle knifed through to spill Barnes back on the 28, and take over the ball.

Owls Roll Again

Just before the quarter ended, Meadow fumbled on its 40, and Hale Center drove to the 23 before being stopped, and Meadow kicked out to its 48, from where Hale Center launched its second touchdown drive.

It was Alva Haston, a little speed merchant who was a constant thorn in the sides of the Bronchos, who set up the touchdown. Hale Center worked the ball down to the Meadow 36, and from there Haston broke into the yard line. On the next play, clear and stormed down to the 8 Haston went to the one, and Caraway smashed over for the touchdown, but Caraway's kick was no good.

Meadow Strikes Back

Young took the following kickoff on his 16 and ran it back to the 35. Young went to the 40, then after an incomplete pass, Barnes smashed over to the Meadow 48. After another incomplete pass, Barnes started roaming again, bulling his way down to Owl 34. Young picked up three, and Barnes smashed through for five, then made a first down on the 20 with a six yard blast.

Young picked up two, then little Paul Nettles raded back, and dropped a long pass into the eager arms of Joel Ray Locke over in the endzone. Barnes then kicked his first of two perfect conversions.

The third quarter was scoreless, but full of threats. Late in the period, Hale Center gambled on a fourth down play, and Meadow took over on the Owl 31. Barnes smashed to the 28, then Young passed to Nettles to the 16, and Nettles bucked the line to the 11 as the quarter ended.

Barnes Delivers Goods

Barnes smacked into the line for five, lacking inches of a first down on the six. Barnes made it first down on the five, then Young went to the three, and Barnes went over from the one, two plays later. Barnes then booted the second extra point, and the victory margin, kicking against the stiff wind.

But Hale Center never gave up, and two costly Meadow fumbles late in the ball game had the Owls going once to the Meadow 17 and again to the 27.

Most of the offense was on the ground, and both clubs showed well coached elevens as Meadow rolled up 264 yards rushing and Hale Center countered with 241 yards on the ground.

Line play was sharp and hard, with both clubs playing the game like championship elevens.

Tickets Go On Sale For Sandie-Lubbock Turkey Day Tussle

Tickets for the Amarillo-Lubbock football game Nov. 22 at Amarillo's Butler field arrived in Lubbock Thursday morning and go on sale this morning at the athletic office at Lubbock High school, it was announced by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director.

The game will close the season for the Westerners, but will leave the Sandies with one more game to play, Pampa at Pampa on December 1.

Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick gave the Westerners a holiday early in the week, with no workouts Monday or Tuesday, but the work has been resumed and the club is busy setting plans for the invasion of Butler field.

Crucial Games Hold Spotlight For SWC

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The pieces start falling into place in the jigsaw of Southwest conference football this week-end.

Barring ties, things will simmer down to a couple of teams. There's bound to be clarification of the situation since the four leaders battle each other Saturday.

TCU Meets Texas

Texas and Texas Christian play at Austin and Rice and Texas A. and M. tangle at Houston. Should Texas and A. and M. come through it would all be over except for the clash of the Longhorns and Aggies at College Station Nov. 29. Each would have won four games and lost one with one game to go and no other team could possibly overtake the winner of the traditional battle.

But, on the other hand, should Rice and Texas Christian win, it would require at least another week to cut the contenders down since both Owls and Christians have two more games after Saturday.

SMU Plays Arkansas

While the four top clubs are matching touchdowns, Southern Methodist, retaining only an outside chance at the title, will be playing the eliminated Arkansas Razorbacks at Dallas and Baylor will step out of the conference for an intersectional tilt with Tulsa at Tulsa.

Favorites in Saturday's games are Texas A. and M., Southern Methodist and Tulsa. However, each game could go the other way and occasion no great surprise.

Owls, Frogs Threats

Texas Christian didn't look so good last week in losing to Texas Tech but the Frogs are always loaded for bear when they meet the Longhorns whom they have been beating quite regularly. Rice coming on fast after a poor start, already holds a victory over Texas, the title favorite, and there are a number of critics who figure the Owls can take A. and M.

Baylor, loser of two close ones the past couple of weeks—to A. and M. and Texas—does not appear to pack the power to beat Tulsa but if the Bears did it would be quite welcome to the conference as a whole. Thus far this season the circuit has been able to break even only in intersectional games.

Downtrodden Arkansas, apparently without the kind of a line it takes to win in this conference, faces another beating from SMU with its powerful forward wall and fine passing attack.

Deer, Turkey Season Opens In State Today

The opening of the whitetail deer and turkey season east of the Pecos river today will find many Lubbock marksmen with itching trigger fingers, and keeping a sharp lookout for the game in their favorite hunting retreat. During the week a score of parties have made their exodus from the city.

The report from the deer country indicates that game is plentiful and in good shape. Turkey is reported more numerous this year by the State Game, Fish and Oyster commission with the kill estimated to be as much as 15 percent greater this season, which ends Dec. 31.

The limit is two whitetails and three turkeys. However, only two turkeys are allowed in 16 counties, and hunters would do well to check their county law on the question before starting their hunting.

West of the Pecos, the season opens Nov. 19 and runs only through Nov. 24, with the larger blacktail in prospect there. In that region, a hunter is allowed one blacktail and one whitetail.

Schoolboy Grid Leaders Meet In Top Tilts During Week-End

(By The Associated Press)

Longview plays at Marshall Friday night in the top game of the week-end in Texas schoolboy football with the championship of District 11 riding on the result.

Unbeaten Marshall can virtually sew up the title by downing the Lobos who have one tie on their record but have defeated Tyler, the only other team still retaining an outside chance at the championship.

There are important games in other districts. Odessa, playing its second time this week—the Bronchos beat Sweetwater for the District 3 leadership Monday — takes on downtrodden Lamesa Saturday. By winning this game Odessa would clinch at least a tie for the title. Waco meets Cleburne at Waco in the drive to eliminate one of the two remaining teams in the Tigers' way to unblemished laurels in District 10 while down in District 15 Austin and Corpus Christi, two of four teams tied for the lead, battle it out at Corpus Christi.

The week-end schedule:

Friday — Pampa at Borger, Plainview at Brownfield, Childress at Olney, Graham at Vernon, Cisco at Midland, Big Spring at Abilene.

Idalou Defeats Bean Grid Squad, 6 To 0

IDALOU, Nov. 15. (Special)—The Idalou grade school touch football team punched over a third quarter touchdown here this afternoon to defeat the Bean Bronchos from Lubbock, 6 to 0.

Marcus Duran circled end, broke into the clear and galloped about 15 yards for the only touchdown.

The first glider built by Wilbur and Orville Wright had no engine, no body and no tail, and cost $15.

Plans Are Made For Second Big Youth Rally For City Sunday

Youth of Lubbock will be presented an unusual musical program Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist church, beginning at 3 p. m., at the second youth rally being held under Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship with Rev. Jimmy Bell, Clovis, N. M., youth evangelist, directing the meetings. The first of the scheduled four rallies was held last Sunday.

A 60-piece band under the direction of Prof. D. O. Wiley band director at Texas Tech, will be present from the college playing several religious numbers. Mrs. John Watson from the First Baptist church will direct an 80-voice youth choir in a second feature of the day's meeting.

Rev. Bell To Talk

Tentative plans include a quartet from Tech that will present two numbers. The names of the members of this group has not been announced.

Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, will give the invocation. Rev. J. M. Lewis, First Presbyterian church pastor, will give a brief talk. D. Orvil Strong, Tech student and vice-president of the Northwest Texas Methodist Youth Fellowship, will lead the group singing.

Rev. Bell will deliver the principal talk to the gathering.

Youth Of City Invited

One thousand letters have been mailed by the Jaycees and the Lubbock High School Religious council urging local youth to attend the meeting.

One of the largest gatherings of its type ever held in the area is anticipated for the Sunday rally, Bell said. Ice cream and cake will be served to those attending the rally at the Corral, youth recreation center at Sixteenth and Ave. J. The refreshments will be served following the meeting.

The third meeting will be held Sunday, Nov. 25, at the First Christian church, and the fourth and final meeting is set for the First Baptist church on Sunday, Dec. 2. All youth of Lubbock are invited by the Jaycees and asked to bring some young person not a member of a church.

Woodville Woman Is Charged With Bigamy

WOODVILLE, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—A thrice-married mother of two children today was released on $500 bond after being indicted for bigamy by her second husband, an ex-paratrooper.

A grand jury indicted Mrs. Juanita Raimer for "unlawfully marrying Joe Coker." And she was arrested in Houston yesterday. Upon her arrival at Woodville she posted bond and was released.

Charges were filed by her second husband James M. Ramier who returned from overseas duty to find her living with Coker. She claimed that Raimer had written her that he had obtained a divorce before she married Coker.

Coker, 18 years old, said he did not know she had been married previously or had two children when he married Juanita in August. "I would not have married her without her first getting a divorce," he said, "but I would certainly have married her after she got a divorce."

Ramier reported she had written frequently until last December and after that her letters were "fewer but nice."

Ramier said his wife was 26 years old, Coker said his was 20. Juanita didn't say.

Byron Price Flays Policies Of French

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Byron Price, President Truman's special investigator, said today that French policies are leading to the "economic dismemberment" of Germany, contrary to the aims of the Potsdam agreement.

Price told White House newsmen, after a call on the president, that France had refused to agree to any plans of the control council to keep Germany as an economic unit. As a result, he said, critical conditions can be expected this winter with starvation riots and disease a distinct possibility.

Price gave his informal summary to reporters as it became known that the United States and France have begun conversations here on France's proposal to strip Germany of control over her industrially rich Ruhr and Rhineland.

Independent Leaders Hint Plans To Form Third Labor Group

By FRED W. PERKINS
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Tentative plans for organizing a third national labor federation of unions not now a part of either the AFL or the CIO were announced here today.

If the new body becomes a reality, it will be an unanticipated by-product of the national labor-management conference.

Walter W. Cenerazzo, of Boston, mainspring of the American Watch Makers union, said he would ask all independent bodies to send spokesmen to a meeting here within the next two months.

To Seek Representation

The purpose will not be to form a national organization of the same form and functions as either the CIO or AFL, but to provide a mechanism through which independents can get representation in such bodies as the expiring War Labor board and the labor-management conference.

After the conference was picketed by a dozen men and women members of New Jersey independent unions, it decided to set up a special committee to hear these and other non-affiliated groups. The committee has received estimates of total membership of independent unions ranging from four to ten million, which compares with the five to seven million members each claimed for the CIO and AFL.

Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and chairman of the special hearings committee, brought up the question regularly fired at the independents—how can they choose representatives when they are so widely separated? Edward G. Wilms, chairman of the New Jersey independents, responded that since representation had never been offered there had been no call to select spokesmen for the non-affiliated groups.

Mr. Ceneraggo suggested the way to get representation in the future is to "organize a third federation of labor, dedicated to union democracy and labor-management co-operation."

He continued: "Let us demand that every one of our affiliates practice the fundamentals of union democracy and that they recognize the rights of management in collective bargaining.

Must Be Certified

"Let us work out a program dedicated to free enterprise, barring from membership all those following the Communist party's philosophy. Let us demand that any union which is affiliated with us be first certified by the National Labor Relations board or by a corresponding agency as the free choice of the employes."

Charges that the major labor bodies use their monopoly in representation to drive the independent unions out of business have been made frequently by independent spokesmen.

Mr. Wilms charged that exact information on the number of independent union members is not available because "the labor department does not dare to tabulate them." He asserted also that the lack of such official statistics "indicates that the government has brushed aside this important segment of working people."

Only Few Highway Employes Returning

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Of 1,356 state highway department employes given wartime leaves of absense to serve in the armed forces only 172 have returned to the department.

State highway engineer DeWitt C. Greer said 46 additional men lost their lives while in the service of the nation and 107 who have returned from service have accepted employment elsewhere.

Vote Unanimity Plan Defeated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Industry and the CIO teamed today to beat down an attempt by the AFL and John L. Lewis to require all labor-management conference decisions to be unanimous.

The AFL-United Mine Workers' proposed voting procedure would have allowed a single delegate to block conference action.

Pre-Conference Plan

Instead, a plan drafted before the conference began, with the AFL's apparent assent at that time, was adopted by the rules committee. This provides that 15 votes each of labor's 18 and management's 18 delegates, or 30 in all of the total 36, will be needed for the conference to approve any proposal.

Lewis had contended he could not be bound by any conference vote to which he might disagree. This led to a question whether the UMW president might refuse to follow any conference plan he might personally disapprove.

Lewis and the AFL argued that any conference action should be without a single dissent in order to have compelling weight. But the CIO, together with the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, argued the public had a right to know "the overwhelming sentiment of the conference."

Meanwhile, a decision neared on the CIO proposal calling for collective bargaining within the administration's wage-price formula. This calls for higher wages without materially increasing prices. CIO President Philip Murray asked for action in the conference executive committee today but management members said they would be ready for a showdown tomorrow.

RESTRICTIONS LIFT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Civilian Production administration today revoked restrictions on the manufacture of asphalt roofing products and asphalt shingles. The agency said this will allow an increased variety of such products for home construction and repair.

Government Is Asked To Quit Oil Business

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—An oil industry representative told a Senate committee today the government should get out of the business of operating refineries, pipelines and other federally-owned oil facilities.

All such surplus property commercially usable should be sold, said W. Alton Jones, president of War Emergency Pipelines, Inc., in a statement prepared for a hearing by the special Senate committee investigating petroleum resources.

Emergency Pipelines, Inc., operates the government-owned "Big Inch" and "Little Big Inch" pipelines running from Texas to New York and Philadelphia. The question of whether these should be shut down, leased or sold has caused considerable debate in Congress.

Jones, who also is president of Cities Service company, suggested "the money expended by the government for constructing such lines could well be charged to cost of conducting the war. Their costs have been more than recovreed by savings to the government in cost of moving oil delivered to the east coast."

He spoke as chairman of an industry committee appointed by the National Oil Trade association.

Leading With The Chin

But Chester Bowles Has Courage

PRICE Administrator Chester Bowles may be lacking in some traits, but deep-chested courage is not among them.

Bowles has demonstrated boldness upon several occasions since taking over the hot reins of the OPA, but the other day, when he made it known the OPA was rejecting the demands of automobile dealers for higher retail prices on new cars, he showed his ability to "lead with his chin" without flinching.

Probably, as Bowles said, no other issue in a long time has brought as much pressure on the government as the question of higher car prices. The automobile dealers over the country are tightly organized on this question and have constituted a lobby of powerful influence. More than 5,000 telegrams were sent to members of Congress protesting the rumored stand of the OPA against increased car prices, Bowles said, speaking before the House Small Business committee in the presence of several hundred auto dealers, in Washington to present their case in person.

Bowles, at the same time, cited a serious affliction of our government, "government by lobby pressure," as he put it. He expressed alarm at the tendency on the part of some to feel that Congress and governmental officials should base all decisions, not on the validity of a particular issue, but on the measure of pressure exerted for or against it.

"It is a threat to the democratic rights of all the inarticulate, silent, little people of America," he asserted.

Undoubtedly, the dealers have a good case for some rise in their prices. They, like almost every other business man, have seen their operation costs rise in the last several years. Bowles doubtless realizes this fact. But he also realizes that a price line must be set somewhere, that an increase in automobile prices would be taken as a precedent for higher price demands in other fields.

Bowles now stands almost alone as an active exponent of holding down prices. The average citizen may not be aware of it, but Bowles, at the moment, has more consideration for his pocketbook than possibly any other man in Washington. There is strong pressure on him from both the White House and Congress to let up a little on prices. Some important Congressmen and high officials have hinted he is delaying reconversion by his "hold the line" policy.

We think Bowles is correct and well justified for his stand on prices. They must be kept as low as possible until supply and demand meet on the same level, which will take several months yet, at the least. And we salute him for taking a swing at pressure groups. Price control policies, like other national policies, should be based upon the needs of the country, not upon the measure of personal lobbying and the number of telegrams and telephone calls that pour into Washington. And his readiness to fight for his beliefs, in the face of formidable opposition, is indeed commendable.

"Good, Old Days" Stuff

NEEDLESS to say, the way of war has undergone an almost unbelievable change in the last three months. We are talking of World war II methods much as we discussed the obsoleteness of trench warfare a few years ago.

The bomber, which only came of age in the war just ended, may already be out-dated for initial attack.

Some persons, with scientific bent and a tendency toward the macabre, are dreaming up a war launched by the slightest touch on a push-button or by a mere flick of a switch. This act would follow the placing of atomic missles in key areas of the victim nation. The capsules of power would be exploded simultaneously by use of radio-controlled fuses at far distant points.

Though most of us dislike to speculate on how another war might be fought, no one can doubt the practicability of such a plan, not in this day of robot ingenuity. It would be the safe, if cowardly, way of attack. The world's most razor-sharp gumshoes would be unable to prevent the bombs from being planted.

Oh, for the old-fashioned days, when enemy nations bowed and scraped and cut polite red tape before shooting at each other!

"Members of a certain savage tribe in interior New Guinea can count only to 100."—Newspaper filler. That's 20 more than many wild men who frequent the golf courses in this country can count.

We overheard a man say he was going to do a certain thing "in spite of hell and hay fever." He doesn't know much about hay fever.

If a person is as old as he feels, there are Monday mornings when we could write "B. C" after our birth date.

CIRCUS IN AMERICA
XXIX

A RESTLESS desire to leave France now haunted me, and I decided to try my luck in the United States. As yet America was an unknown field for me in aerial work. But first, I contracted to play that Mecca of summer circuses, Holland. This enabled me to embark at Rotterdam for the States, thus escaping the wrench of leaving Paris.

I arrived in August, and the heat, after Europe, was the first thing to attract my attention. I moved into the nearest hotel I could find to Central Park, the Hotel Wellington on Seventh Avenue, and began my acquaintance with New York.

I wanted to see the city for myself, in my own way, so did not look up any of father's relatives or get in touch with performer friends. I visited, together with other tourists, the famous Chinatown, Harlem and the Bowery, then took a taxi to Poe's cottage, with its bitter-sweet fragrance of bygone days, which I loved, and after that, I inspected Grant's Tomb from the outside. From these sacred precincts I transferred my curiosity to the theatrical agents of Broadway and met many strange and rare creatures among them.

After a lot of hunting around, I found a little gym tucked away on West 47th street, between Ninth and 10th Avenues, where I could just manage to hang my rigging and practice. The proprietor was an old German who ran a bar in the front of the establishment, with the universal circus atmosphere that reminded me of the Gymnase Pons on Montmartre. The first time I worked the roof nearly caved in; nevertheless, it was the only place to be found in New York where aerial acts could rehearse, and gradually I met the best talent in town practicing there. It took several weeks to find a suitable rigging man as assistant, but I finally ended up with a well-meaning man of German extraction called Hermann. (German riggers are always named Hermann. I don't know why.)

AS in Paris, the agents wanted to see how the act impressed the public and insisted I break in at a theater with atrocious lighting in Brooklyn.

My opening there was not what I would describe as a happy one, for the orchestra leader was allergic to rehearsing, and on opening night Hermann lost his head completely upon receiving the news of the wreck of the Graf Zeppelin. America had a completely different atmosphere from Europe, and gradually I began to realize that circus performers are regarded by most Americans as a type of exotic freak, who lead a charmed life amid reckless and chaotic disorder. To a certain extent this is true, for there is a lack of care in rehearsals and an almost offhand method of presenting an act that is hard to get used to. America, like all the wrold, loves a circus, but Americans do not have, I think, the deep respect for the artists' talents that is shown to a good performer in Europe.

As in Europe, I found the difficulty of securing a responsible property man for my act very discouraging. Hermann was an honest and willing person but simply could not get the hang of things, and after two or three mishaps in which I nearly broke my neck, I decided to get another man. Since I had engagements with the Frank Wirth and Shrine circuses in which I used high rigging, I finally employed a Russian named Stephan, who appeared to be excellent during rehearsals, was a hard worker and very enthusiastic about making good. When we finally started working, however, I discovered that after 6 in the evenings he developed a thirst that simply could not be controlled, and he would go through the entire act with a drunken dignity and glassy stare that terrified me.

THE climax came when I worked a date near New York and had the stupidity to call on my cousins and a sister of my father's. They were, I could see, curious but dismayed when I extended an invitation to them to run down by car and see me work. Evidently a cousin in the circus was not a very acceptable addition to the family, and I never should have asked them to visit this skeleton in the cupboard in its natural surroundings. I had almost forgotten about it until one Saturday matinee, when they arrived in an enormous limousine.

There were two dignified old maid cousins and my aunt, her nostrils quivering at the smells encountered on the way to my dressing room. Mercifully, Stephan, the rigger, headed them off with a savoir-faire unusual in rigging men and did his best to deter them from penetrating the area around the dressing rooms, where the parade was just lining up for the "spec." Stumbling over ropes and tackle on the ground, despite Stephan's guidance, they managed to get inextricably mixed up with the elephants and some performing seals.

My relatives were nearly hysterical by the time I had thrown on a robe and steered them out of the melee, sending Stephan with them to obtain seats. When I entered for my act I didn't see them anywhere, and later on I received a little prim note thanking me for the tickets but saying they would return to see me again when I "played Radio City."

AUTHOR BURNS TO DEATH

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 15 (AP)—Alfred Shak, 46, author of the World War 1 novel, "Soul Wounds," was burned to death in a fire which damaged his home last night.

During 1944, the United States produced as much oil as the whole world did during 1935.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

I ATTENDED a luncheon a few days ago given by my syndicate so that the new writers and artists might meet the veterans of the pencil and the typewriter.

"Bugs" Baer, the noted humorist, was the toastmaster and, in his introductory remarks, said something which all of you may well remember.

"You fellows," he said to the newcomers, "are on the way to success. Soon your work will appear in many newspapers all over the country.

"At first success will be a wonderful feeling. You are on top of the mountain and the view is glorious. But after a while you get used to success, and you will begin to realize that there is monotony to success.

"Because success is nothing stable. Success is a constant repetition of performance. Day after day you have to stay on top of that mountain, and once you begin to slide you don't stop until you have reached the bottom.

"It may have taken you years to reach the top. You can fall to the bottom in a week of bad performance."

How right "Bugs" Baer was!

Oh, yes, he said something else in connection with it:

"The thrill of success is not in having reached it but in trying to reach it. Every step of achievement is exciting and exhilarating.

BRANDEIS

"Even the failures on the way spur one on to new effort.

"Even if you never reach success you can always try again.

"But when you have once reached the top of your profession or have achieved what you set out to do there is only one thing to do—hold on.

"And holding on can become very monotonous, and it becomes harder as you get older—until finally you have to give way to someone else."

DON'T let "Bugs" Baer's remarks discourage you. He has been on top of that mountain for a good many years and will probably stay there for quite a few more.

But don't envy "Success" too much.

The very man or woman whom you are trying to emulate may be scared to death of that slide down the mountain. Theirs is the fear and the monotony of success. Yours is the excitement of the race, the climb to the top, the expectation and the hope.

Do you remember the thrill of your first fur coat or your first automobile? Maybe you haven't got it yet. That is even a greater thrill, the thrill of anticipation.

Do you remember that 86-year old fellow who operates a gasoline station nearby? I have told you about him several times. He still operates an old-fashioned hand pump and has to turn the handle many times to give you your ten gallons.

"Now that the war is over I'll soon be able to get a power pump," he said to me yesterday, "Gosh, won't that be great!"

"Full Employment Bill" A Boner?

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CONSCIENTIOUS students of legislation cannot understand why President Truman's smarter advisers have permitted him to headline the Full Employment bill as even a partial guarantee of continued wartime prosperity, a preventive measure against possible depression and a symbol of his sympathy for the workingman.

The bill may eventually become law in compromise form as a consequence of the pressure which the White House has brought on Carter Manasco's Executive Expenditures committee. Enactment will be hailed as a splendid triumph for high-pressure CIO groups and the administration. But Mr. Truman's own friends on Capitol Hill fear, and forecast, that its evenutal operation will prove a disappointment and a boomerang.

TUCKER

The inside story behind the demand for this legislation is that the sponsors do not expect that any artificial stimulation of employment will be needed before the 1946 Congressional elections or the Presidential contest in 1948. It will never be put to a test before those important dates on the political calendar.

In the meantime, however, the Party in power will be able to advertise this misunderstood statute as evidence that its heart beats for the man in overalls and the women in slacks. The Sidney Hillman-Philip Murray forces will announce that they have won a great victory on Capitol Hill and round up more dues-paying members.

The Democratic party will incorporate in its 1948 platform the title of the bill as its principal vote-getting plank. But the more sincere friends of Mr. Truman and of the workingmen deplore the deception and the inevitable indignation.

JOBS: The only faint resemblance between the original House version as introduced by the opportunistic Wright Patman of Texas and the measure passed by the Senate is the title. It reads as follows:

"To establish a national policy for assuring continuing employment in a free competitive economy, through the concerted efforts of industry, agriculture, labor, state and local governments and the federal government."

The Patman proposal had teeth in it; it committed Washington to a spending program that would employ all who had "finished their schooling and did not have full-time housekeeping responsibilities." Everyone would be entitled to be on a pay roll save those who had to make the beds, wash the dishes, dress the youngsters and send them off to school.

The House bill, which is still stymied in the Manasco committee, declared that every able American "has a right" to regular, full-time employment. It proclaimed that "it is the policy of the United States" to provide jobs in good times and bad times, if private industry could not do so.

MANDATORY: Under Patman's scheme the President would submit a National Economic budget estimating the amount of Federal money that must be spent to take up any slack. A new 30-man committee would study this document and propose periodical recommendations to Congress for carrying it out.

The committee would also prepare a joint resolution binding Congress and governmental departments to appropriate and spend whatever sums are required for the basic purpose of keeping everybody at work.

There were no "ifs, ands or buts" in this decree. It was mandatory upon the White House and Capitol Hill, regardless of its effect upon taxation or the public debt. It was a straight-out proposition combining all the golden features of WPA, PWA, AAA and other spending agencies of the early New Deal.

GRANDIOSE: The Senate Finance committee ripped this bill (HR 2202) to ribbons when it considered it. It was reported to the floor so watered down that even the reactionary Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio voted in the affirmative. It will be diluted even more thoroughly when and if the Manasco crowd acts on the House side.

The upper chamber's concoction (Senate 380) does not say that every American "has a right" to work. It suggests that he is "entitled to an opportunity." It does not impose on the federal government the responsibility of making that "opportunity" a reality. It simply says that Washington should try to "assure the free exercise of that opportunity."

The Senate measure retains the form of the Patman version in providing for Presidential framing of a national budget and creation of a Joint National Budget committee. But it has no clause for a binding and arbitrary joint resolution enjoining Congress to assign funds for execution of the grandiose Patman program.

SOCK: When the Budget committee has studied the Presidential proposal, it will forward the recommendations to the various committees that pass on different expenditures — Banking and Currency, Rivers and Harbors, Agriculture, Public Buildings etc. These are fairly hard-boiled and conservative groups not given to extravagance. But even if they approve the White House plan, their action must be okayed by such tightwad groups as the Ways and Means, Appropriation and Executive Expenditures committees.

But Senate 380 sets up an almost insurmountable barrier to practical operation of the Full Employment bill along ballyhooed lines. It requires that, if the proposed amounts for making work should necessitate an increase in the public debt, Congress must raise additional taxes by as much as it votes for employment purposes. A five-billion job-giving outlay would mean a five-billion boost in tax rates.

If anybody believes that political-minded MC's will commit suicide by raising individual or corporation taxes every so often, or that a President will assume responsibility for a pocketbook sock, he doesn't know the American Congress.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN.—State Rep. Claude Calloway, of Crowell, who visited the state capitol on business last week, has a nifty way of determining when his hogs are ready to be made into hams, bacon and sausage.

There are three steps (or actually three kicks) to the process and no scales are involved. In Farmer Calloway's words, here's how it is done:

"You walk up to the hog all stretched out on the ground. You take your toe and nudge him in the side. Then he grunts. You're supposed to nudge him again. This time the hog gets up on his rear haunches.

"Then the third time you kick him, he'll get up. That means he's ready. Hogs that run off squealing the first or second time you kick them aren't fat enough for killing."

And people who've eaten Calloway's hogs agree his formula certainly is a good one.

HOLIDAY: Marshall, Texas, city fathers aroused ire of the American Legion when they suggested that Armistice Day, November 11, be abandoned as a holiday.

Presuming one holiday will finally be settled upon to keep fresh the memory of some event or the ending of World War II, the state may have to consider abolishment of one of its present 11 authorized holidays.

A public opinion poll on which should be eliminated might be helpful to legislators.

Those now officially designated as state holidays by law are: Jan. 1, New Year's Day; Jan. 19, Robert E. Lee's birthday; Feb. 22, George Washington's birthday; March 2, Texas Independence Day; April 21, S. Jacinto Day; June 3, Jefferson Davis' birthday; July 4, Independence Day; First Monday in September Labor Day; Octo. 12, Columbus Day; Nov. 11, Armistice Day and Dec. 25, Christmas.

Perhaps right always triumphs in the end, but in so many cases it's too little and too late.

HST, Attlee Represent Democracy At Work

Era Of Common Man Arriving

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—It was somehow ironic that Clement Attlee, British prime minister, had to take a half hour off and go before Congress to try to "sell" that body on England's Labor government.

STOKES

It speaks little for our tolerance.

It speaks less for our plain common sense.

It showed a lack of appreciation of our own heritage of Democracy. For we owe so much of it to England—in our institutions, our common law, our common standards of honor and decency—and the tradition seems still to survive nobly in England as it does here.

Mr. Attlee gave a symbol of this, though not consciously, when he told of attending Armistice Day ceremonies with President Truman and recalled that "we were both fighters in the first World war."

"I do not think," he said, "that either of us then thought that we, out of the millions of our fellow soldiers, would be called to shoulder the great responsibilities of high office."

Both Help Little Man

Harry Truman came back from the war, followed a business career briefly and unsuccessfully, and then went into local politics. Clement Attlee, a young lawyer with an Oxford background, visited Limehouse in London's East end and seeing "the facts of poverty in our great cities" thereupon became convinced "that we must build our society on a juster foundation."

It is the very essence of our common Democracy that these two men could rise to their present high positions.

It is also a part of the story of the era which both represent so well that each was caught up, when he came to high office, in a great world movement which has as its object the better accomodations of the average person to the machine civilization that has developed faster than our political institutions.

OF themselves, the two men do not weigh so heavily. They are only instruments. Each has recognized that.

It was not by accident that Harry Truman accepted the program of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who also was moving with the tide, however ineffective Mr. Truman has been in carrying it forward. It is not so different from that espoused by Clement Attlee and the British socialists, only in degree. Both are trying to adapt our Democratic procedures to the new world opened by science.

That's plain common sense.

Mr. Attlee sounded, as a matter of fact, a good deal like the late President Roosevelt, especially when he said:

"Sometimes the battle of freedom has had to be fought against kings, sometimes against religious tyranny, sometimes against the power of the owners of land, sometimes against the overwhelming strength of monied interests. We in the Labor party declare that we are in line with those who fought for Magna Charta, and Habeas Corpus, with the Pilgrim fathers and with the signatories of the Declaration of Independence."

Attlee Does Good Job

The British prime minister did a good job. He did not appear at all ominous or threatening or sinister figure. He looked like the amiable, pleasant little druggist you can meet in so many of our small towns. His sincerity was impressive. So was his frankness. He looked far less dangerous than some of those who sat there before him in the House chamber.

He had, of course, to do this little chore. Great Britain needs help. She is negotiating for a loan. He abased himself so far as to hail the United States as "the mightiest power on earth" which is rather far for an Englishman.

NOT so many weeks ago, in this same House, a few Republicans complained bitterly about lending money to England on the ground it would go to build up her Socialistic government. It is highly doubtful that withholding help would hinder what England is doing, for the people demanded that at an open and free election.

That will go on anyhow, no matter what we do, just as it will go on over here, no matter what some of the men of Congress who sat before Mr. Attlee are doing to block President Truman's milder program. The people have something to say about that, too.

Somehow the performance reminded the observer of a neighbor calling over the back fence for help in a family emergency to another neighbor, and the latter insists first on catechizing the man next door about his political beliefs or religion.

Britons Urge Private Dealings In Cotton

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Liverpool and Manchester cotton associations have told the government that private cotton marketing must be restored if Britain's textile industry is to regain and increase its export trade.

In a memorandum to Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the board of trade, the associations submitted arguments for reopening the Liverpool cotton futures market, closed during the war and reportedly due to remain closed under the government's plan to continue bulk buying of cotton.

The memorandum declared there are "already complaints of shortage of American cotton, particularly of twist qualities.

STOCKS SWING UPWARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Southern Pacific, buoyed by a dividend boost from 75 cents to $1, jumped 6⅞ points to a new bull market high today and led other rail and industrial stocks on one of the widest recovery swings of the past month with numerous favorites touching peaks for almost nine years.

At the start gold mines attracted the principal buying on hopes for the resumption of the minting of gold coins and a possible life in the price of the yellow metal. This group took a back seat after midday, however, when the good railway news arrived. Transfers amounted to 2,010,000 shares compared with 1,610,000 Wednesday.

In addition to optimism over the S. P. payment, customers added to their rail accounts on reports other roads might lift year-end disbursements.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose one full point to 75.1, a top since March 10, 1937, and the best day's upturn since Oct. 31. The 15-rail composite was up 1.7 points at 47.6, a high since March 31, 1937. The market was fairly broad, 962 issues registering.

In the "new high" category with gains of fractions to four points were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Dome Mines, Alaska Juneau, South American Gold and Platinum, American and Foreign Power 2nd preferred, R-K-O, Texas Pacific Land Trust and American Water Works.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Cotton futures, after reaching gains of 55 cents a bale at new seasonal highs in some deliveries, turned reactionary under commission house and local liquidation today.

Selling was induced partly by postponement of action on the Pace bill in the House and growing opposition to parity boosting legislation. Near months were relatively steady as mills turned fair buyers on the decline.

Heavy bidding was reported for approximately 75,000 bales of purchase program stocks offered by the commodity credit corporation. More than 7,000 telegrams were reported submitted reflecting pressing trade needs of better grades of cotton. Final prices were 2 oto 85 cents a bale lower.

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War

Published by NEA Service, Inc., in co-operation with the War Department

important that the people of the United States realize the possibilities of the future, that I here quote from General Arnold's report:

"At the start of this war we had bombers capable of 200 miles per hour with a combat radius of 900 miles, effective operational ceilings of 24,000 feet, and bomb load capacity of 6,000 pounds. Today our development of this type aircraft has given us bombers capable of carrying 20,000 pounds of bombs to targets 1,600 miles away at speeds of 350 miles an hour and altitudes of over 35,000 feet. Radar has improved our bombing technique so that we can now attack a target effectively even though it be obscured by weather or darkness. We will produce within the next few years jet-propelled bombers capable of flying 500 to 600 miles an hour to targets 1,500 miles away at altitudes of over 40,000 feet. Development of even greater bombers capable of operating at stratospheric altitudes and speeds faster than sound and carrying bomb loads of more than 100,000 pounds already is a certainty. These aircraft will have sufficient range to attack any spot on the earth and return to a friendly base.

Aircraft Speeds Unlimited

"In 1941 our propeller-driven fighters were limited to speeds of 300 miles an hour, a range of 200 to 300 miles, and effective ceilings of 20,000 feet. Today our conventional fighters have speeds of 500 miles an hour, combat ranges of 1,300 miles, and effective ceilings of 35,000 feet. Improvement of our jet fighters may well produce within the next five years an aircraft capable of the speed of sound and of reaching targets 2,000 miles away at altitudes of above 50,000 feet. When the barrier of compressability has been hurdled, as it surely will be, there is no practicable limit to the speed of piloted aircraft."

"At the onset of this war demolition bombs ranged in size from 20 to 2,000 pounds with a few light case 4,000 pound blast bombs. The explosive filling of these bombs was standard TNT. During the war, new bombs have been developed the entire range from small 4-pound antipresonnel missles to 22,000 pound deep penetration city smashers. At this very moment we are making a single bomb weighing 45,000 pounds to keep pace with the bomber, already under conscruction, which will carry such a load. Air ordnance engineers have blueprinted a bomb weighing 100,000 pounds.

"When World War II began we had no rockets. So far the most spectacular rocket of the war has been the V-2. This weapon has extended artillery range to 200 miles with little sacrifice in accuracy. Defense against such weapons requires piloted and pilotless aircraft capable of fantastic speeds, or powered missles capable of finding, intercepting, and destroying the attacker in the air and at his launching sites or by methods and devices as yet undeveloped. We can direct rockets to targets by electronic devices and new instruments which guide them accurately to sources of heat, light, and magnetism. Drawn by their own fuses such new rockets will streak unerringly to the heart of big factories, attracted by the heat of the furnaces. They are so sensitive that in the space of a large room they aim themselves toward a man who enters, in reaction to the heat of his body.

American Cities May Be Bombed

"All of these weapons and their possible combinations make the air approaches of a country the points of extreme danger. Many Americans do not yet understand the full implication of the formless rubble of Berlin and of the cities of Japan. With the continued development and techniques now known to us, the cities of New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, or San Francisco may be subject to annihiliation from other continents in a matter of hours.

"The Navy, now the strongest in the world, will protect our shores against attack from any amphibious enemy who might challenge through the sea approaches, but we must also now be prepared to oppose stratospheric envelopment with the techniques and weapons discussed above. It is clear that the only defense against this kind of warfare is the ability to attack. We must secure our Nation by ourselves developing and maintaining these weapons, troops, and techniques required to warn aggressors and deter them from launching a modern devastating war against us."

Nothing will contribute more to an understanding of the needs of future security than a clear understanding of what has occurred in this war, the strategic decisions, the reasons for them, and the operations by which they were executed. The press and radio have given the American people a thorough day-by-day account of the progress of the war within the limitations of necessary security; never before have the details of military campaigns been so quickly, so accurately, and so completely reported. Yet because of the very bulk of the information plus the blank spots of essential secrecy it has been difficult for the public to place the developments in their proper perspective. It now becomes possible to examine them in retrospect with an emphasis more nearly approaching that which history is likely to give them.

(NEXT: The Strategic Concept)

School Contracts

school youngsters in the north wing.

The new ward school in the southeast area will be built on the same general plan of Roscoe Wilson, McWhorter and Bean schools. It will have 12 classrooms, a principal's office, a cafeteria and a workroom. Since the new building is outside the city limits, the contract price also was made to cover water and sewage disposal systems and essential grading of grounds.

The addition to McWhorter—a school that was outgrown before its doors were opened last spring—will make that structure a 14-classroom affair. It also has a cafeteria, a workroom and a principal's office.

School trustees observed last night that the new construction will cost slightly over 50 per cent more than similar construction of Wilson and Bean schools several years before the war. Higher costs of materials and labor exact the difference, they said.

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, board chairman who has "seen every brick laid" in the Lubbock system since becoming a trustee more than three decades ago, presided at the meeting and thanked all contractors for offering bids. Others present were Trustees W. G. Alderson, H. L. Allen, R. F. Bayless and Chas. A. Guy, and Schools Business Manager A. C. Jackson.

The board also transacted routine business covering the resignation of faculty members and election of new teachers at the request of Supt. R. W. Matthews, who was not in attendance at the meeting.

Upon recommendation of the superintendent, the board accepted the resignations of Miss Marjorie Oliver of Junior high; Mrs. J. J. Bonner of McWhorter; and R. L. Carmical of Dunbar. Carmical, who is on leave for military duty, has written that he does not intend to return to Lubbock.

Election of teachers included Miss Polly Silman, Wilson; Mmes. Lennon Hill and Audrey Quest, both of McWhorter; and Gordon Thompson, Junior high. Thompson rejoins the Junior high faculty after being on leave with the Navy.

Matthews is in Austin attending a meeting of the administrator's section of the Texas State Teachers association.

Sight saving classes have been established in many cities for students with serious impairment of sight.

Japs Cut Down Famed Gen. Grant Landmark

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAGASAKI—Today we have bad news for General Grant. Some Japanese scalwags cut down his old banyan.

They not only cut it down—they piled the site high with stone and rubble. So if any member of the Grant fan league planned to come to Japan next year to pluck a memorial twig from the Grant banyan tree he may as well save himself the passage money. Twigs, leaves, trunk and memorial tablet all vanished—the Grant banyan tree is gone, a casualty of the second World war.

Story Goes Back 66 Years

The story goes back 66 years. Our emissary to this Japanese port city in 1879 wes Gen. Ulysses Simpson Grant. He came as an unofficial ambassador of peace. Two years before, he had been released from further White House duty by a grateful citizenry who then thought two terms as President were enough.

The general and Mrs. Grant called at Nagasaki on a world tour. He was feted and hailed as "Grant-shogun" and local Japanese dignitaries took him out to Suwa park and asked him to plant a souvenir tree.

Was Tourist Attraction

He planted well. Long after the general and his tomb had become the chief tourist attraction on Riverside drive, his banyan tree still flourished in Nagasaki.

As late as 1941 the official guide to Japan put out by the Japanese government railways still listed the banyan tree as an attraction "of special interest to foreign visitors."

Realizing that many Grant students back home must be worried over whether the renowned banyan tree had weathered the atomic bomb blast, we led the first American expedition to determine its fate.

Mass of Rubble

A middle-aged Japanese civilian agreed, with many gold-toothed grins, to show us the banyan tree of "Grant-shogun." Mopping perspiring faces we followed him around a winding path to a clearing among the trees where stood a great mound of stone and rubble.

"Grant-shogun banyan tree there," he said, pointing to the mass of stone. But there was no banyan tree, no tree of any kind.

Chopped Down

"Where?" we asked.

"Chop down. Chop-chop," he grinned. His smile faded, however, when we turned accusing looks on him.

"Not me!" he exclaimed in perfect broken English, and left hurriedly.

Questioning other Japanese, Glenn Babb, Associated Press foreign editor, learned that Grant's banyan memorial had been cut down with several other trees three years ago to make space in which to dump dirt and stone from air raid shelters dug in the surrounding hills. Neither park nor adjoining temple shrine were affected by the atomic bomb, which exploded several miles away.

Government Moves On Sugar Diversion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The government today brought under its control the imports on all products containing sugar.

This action, taken by the Agriculture department, is designed, in effect to prevent diversion of sugar into such products at the expense of imports of it for direct consumption.

At the same time the department removed several other food and agricultural products from import controls. They included certain vegetable oil, oil seeds, cereals and meats.

HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE IS FEATURED—It will be like old times—the times before Pearl Harbor—in Lubbock today when the new Oldsmobile goes on display at the Western Olds Co.'s showrooms, 1301 Ave. H. Improved hydra-matic drive, which eliminates the clutch pedal, is a big feature of the 1946 models.

New Oldsmobile With Hydra-matic Drive Is To Be Displayed By Western Olds Co. Today

The brilliantly styled new Oldsmobile, incorporating a long list of many new features and advancements resulting in improved appearance, performance and driving ease, will be shown for the first time in Lubbock today in the showrooms of the Western Olds company, 1301 Ave. H, Tom Swanson, manager, announced Thursday.

When peak production has been reached, an even dozen smart new body styles will complete the 1946 offerings. These will offer a wide selection in three series— the "66", "76-78" and "98", on 119-inch, 125-inch and 127-inch wheelbase respectively.

Offered In Three Series

The "66" Series, in the low-price field, will include the club sedan, four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible coupe and station wagon. All are powered with six-cylinder engines. The "76-78" Series in the medium-price range, will offer the club sedan, deluxe club sedan, four-door sedan and deluxe four-door sedan. Both six and eight cylinder motors are available in this series. The "98" Series in the medium-price field will offer three body styles—the club sedan, four-door sedan and convertible coupe—each of which will be powered with Oldsmobile's eight cylinder 110-horsepower engine.

General Motors Hydra-Matic drive, which affords fully automatic shifting through all four forward speeds and eliminates the clutch pedal, has been extensively improved during the war years and remains one of the most important features of the new cars. Hydra-Matic drive, of a type identical in principle with that employed in Oldsmobile, underwent rigid Army tests and proved its stamina and durability. By reason of this excellent performance, it was adopted for use in tanks, "aligators," armored cars, trucks, "ducks" and other military vehicles.

Many Styles, Colors Offered

Of all the cars produced by Oldsmobile in its 48-year history, the 1946 models are the most colorful, literally and figuratively. Many body styles and options are scheduled to become available at an early date in a wide range of color choices. Options in solid hues include black, greens, reds, ivory, blues, beige and grays. Available in two-tone combinations will be beige-ivory, blues, grays and greens, in addition to many variations of these colors.

Interiors of the new Oldsmobiles are triumphs of the expert body-builder's art. Skilled Fisher body craftsmen, using only the finest materials, have created in the new Oldsmobile for 1946 the most appealing interior ensembles ever offered by this division of General Motors. Beauty, convenience, durability and comfort all are stressed in the various appointments.

Seats Are Wide

Both front and rear seats are wide. Window areas are large and afford good visibility. Instrument panels group proper dials directly before the driver's eyes, contributing both to convenience and safety.

Many improvements, contributing to longer engine life and smoother and quieter car operation have been incorporated in the new 100-horsepower six-cylinder engines and 110 horsepower eights that drive the 1946 Oldsmobile. Both now employ electro-hardened aluminum alloy pistons.

The 1946 engines have new synthetic rubber mountings that are coated with a material that is impervious to oil and, for that reason, superior to natural rubber. Every mounting is rigidly tested to assure finest quality.

New Intriguing Development

Exterior beauty of the new Oldsmobiles is enhanced by a number of intriguing developments. The radiator grille, for example, is entirely different from any previous design. It combines beauty and sturdiness with utility. It is made up of five different diecast sections—the four horizontal bars and the base—all, in gleaming chrome.

The chassis, too, has been developed to give the 1946 Oldsmobile offerings greater durability. Frames are heavy and strong and contribute to long car life. A sturdy cross member at the front of the frame serves to give stiffness to the frame and additional stability. Oldsmobile's super-hydraulic brakes provide ample stopping power and increased braking area adds to the life of brake lining. Widely spaced "sealed beam" headlamps are recessed in the front fenders of the 1946 Oldsmobiles and give maximum road illumination. Quadricoil springing and four-way stabilization combine to give the passengers in the 1946 Oldsmobile a smooth, restful and rhythmic ride over all types of roads.

Bumpers of the new Oldsmobile are of the "wrap-around" type, curving gracefully and sturdily around the fenders and affording maximum protection against damage.

Brilliantly new in many features are Oldsmobile's bodies by Fisher for 1946. In addition to incorporating the most modern appearance developments, their utility and long life have been greatly increased. They are now completely bonderized—inside and out. Bonderizing affords greater possible protection against corrosion and wear. At many points in the bodies where exposure to the effects of weather is greatest, thickness of the metal has been increased by one-third.

While a few birds have become extinct and many have dwindled in numbers since the discovery of America, still others have greatly increased.

Russians Report Major Findings In Experiments With Cosmic Ray

MOSCOW, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Soviet scientists have reported major cosmic discoveries which they said should greatly aid development of atomic power as a result of greatly expanded experiments undertaken concurrent with the dropping of the first atom bombs on Japan.

The Soviet press reported the new discoveries as a result of experiments undertaken by Prof. Peter Kapitza, one of the world's leading physicists and a long-time experimenter with atomic problems.

Went From Cambridge

Kapitza, a native Russian, went to the Soviet about 10 years ago after spending nearly 15 years at the Cambridge university physical research center.

The Soviet press reported that the discoveries were made possible through the delivery of 50 tons of special equipment to a special laboratory erected at a 10,000-foot elevation on Mount Alagez in Armenia. A special 20-mile road was built to deliver the equipment last August.

Kapitza constructed a three-ton magnet at an elevation of about 10,000 feet. The strong magnetic field enabled the scientists to separate the component parts of the cosmic rays and measure their energy.

Long Under Study

Study of cosmic rays had been under way some time, the report said, but was accelerated last August when the academy delivered 50 tons of scientific equipment to the laboratory over the specially built road.

(Acceleration of the study apparently coincided with the dropping of the first atom bombs on Japan last August.)

Leader of the Soviet expedition was the Armenian Academician Alikhanyan.

He reported that in addition to two well known components of cosmic rays, mesotrons and electrons, there is a third component which possesses special properties.

This third component is broken up into charged particles, the article said, which are similar in nature to protons.

Photographed Particles

By observing these particles through a proportional telescope the Russians reported they were able to photograph them. They said that it appeared that under the impact of cosmic rays on a thin zinc plate a large number of heavy patricles of protons of the hydrogen atom were created.

The report said that several types of cosmic ray showers were discovered.

The Moscow institute on problems of physics reported that a special laboratory has been built where physicians are continuing their study of the findings of the Mount Alagez observatory.

Commands Of Noted U. S. Fleets Change

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—New commands for the Third, Fifth and Seventh fleets were named by the Navy today in the first reshuffling since the end of the war.

Rear Admiral Howard F. Kingman, formerly commander of Battle Division nine, Pacific fleet, was named commander of the legendary Third, made famous by Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., who has requested retirement "to give the young fellows a chance."

Vice Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, who as commander of the amphibious force, Seventh fleet, spearheaded Gen. Douglas MacArthur's advance through the Southwest Pacific, was named to command the Seventh, succeeding Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid.

Vice Admiral John H. Towers, who succeeded Vice Admiral John S. McCain as commander of a fast carrier task force earlier this year, succeeds Admiral Raymond A. Spruance in command of the Fifth fleet.

Admiral Kinkaid was named commander of the Western Sea frontier, with headquarters in San Francisco, succeeding Admiral Royal E. Ingersoll, whose new billet has not been announced.

Admiral Spruance was assigned duty as deputy commander in chief, Pacific fleet, and deputy commander in chief, Pacific Ocean areas, succeeding Vice Admiral John H. Newton, who was called home to await further orders.

State Cannot Build New Building Now

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Because the state has purchased the Tribune building in Austin as a state office building it cannot, under present law, construct a second office building

This is the opinion of the Attorney General's department which said further that the state may construct a courts building.

Laws passed at the last general session of the legislature permit the state to acquire two buildings, one for state offices and another for courts. The state recently purchased the Tribune building for office purposes. Sinse its purchase the state has received opportunities for resale at a profit. It was proposed that if sold the profit could be used toward construction of a state office building.

Whether the state may sell the Tribune Tower was not determined by the attorney general since that question was not asked specifically.

Mysterious Epidemic Closes Maine School

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 15 (AP)—The schools of this mill city of nearly 17,000 inhabitants were closed today by a mysterious epidemic which has taken four lives.

Dr. Arthur R. Daviau, city health officer, attributed it to "diphtheria and something else" which had not been identified.

The doctor made no estimate of the total number ill, but said that 500 children were absent from classes yesterday.

Try Hot Water Plus If Stomach Pains You After Eating--

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer from so-called dyspepsia, acid indigestion, food fermentation, sour stomach, acid stomach, flatulence, gas pains and other stomach distress brought on by excess acid.

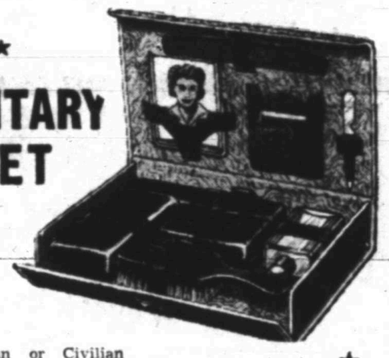

If these people would try drinking slowly after each meal half a glass of real hot water containing a spoonful of Neutracid, they can usually get blessed relief from distress within a very few minutes.

Neutracid will quickly help to neutralize this excess acid, and thus help more rapid digestion. You get quick relief from the acute distress and discomfort.

Cook Turkey To Perfect Turn

TURKEY'S the bird for Thanksgiving. During the war years we "made do" with substitutes and it was no great hardship to do without turkey because we knew they had gone to the armed forces.

With a bumper crop of the traditional bird expected, perhaps a reminder is due as to how to prepare a big, crisply browned turkey.

First, stuff the bird the day before and store it in the refrigerator. It can then be pulled out and put in the pan with no more ado. Too much stuffing may make the skin pop during roasting. Truss to hold the legs and wings close to the body.

Place turkey in an uncovered roaster, breast side up. Roast following the chart given in the next paragraph. Add no water—do not baste—do not turn. The addition of water tends to change the cookery process from roasting to steaming — which is desecration for meat so tender.

Roasting Chart: Drawn weight (minus head, feet and organs): 10-15 pounds, temperature, 300 degrees (F), bake approximately 20 minutes per pound; 15-20 pounds, temperature 300 degrees (F), bake approximately 18 minutes per pound.

TO MAKE GRAVY

For a rich, velvety gravy, smooth as damask and full-flavored pour the drippings from the pan, then measure back into the roasting pan 2 tablespoons of them for every cupful of gravy. Add the same amount of flour and cook stirring constantly until the mixture is well blended and a good brown. Add 1 cup of water for each 2 tablespoons fat and flour used. Cook until gravy boils, stirring constantly. Then add salt and pepper to taste.

To make giblet gravy, cook turkey giblets (and neck, if desired) in water to cover until tender. Add liver during last 15 minutes of cooking. Cool slightly and chop the giblets and liver. Measure liquid left in roasting pan. Add enough of the stock in which giblets were cooked to make one quart of liquid. Bring to boiling point. Add three-fourths cup cold water to one-half cup flour and shake in a covered glass jar until water and flower are well blended and smooth (or beat with a rotary beater). Add to hot liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Add chopped giblets and hard-boiled egg, if desired. Season gravy to taste.

Serve Sweet Potato Pudding At Dinner

This sweet potato pudding will be enjoyed by young and old alike. Serve with coffee for your Thanksgiving dinner or on other fall occasions.

- 1½ cups riced sweet potatoes
- ¾ cup hot coffee
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup top milk or cream

To riced potatoes, add hot coffee, and sugar mixed with salt, cinnamon and orange rind. To beaten egg, add milk and combine with first mixture. Bake in 8-inch pan 1½ inches deep. Set in a pan of hot water and bake about 45 minutes in moderate oven (450° F.) Yield: 6 servings.

In canning fruit do not use molasses or brown sugar as a substitute for white. The flavor overpowers the fruit, gives it a dark, unattractive color, and may cause spoilage.

A banana is fully ripe when the skin is a golden rich yellow flecked with brown. For cooking purposes it is best to use the banana when the skin is all yellow or yellow tipped with green.

STUFFED CRANBERRY PEARS . . . For salad or dessert . . .

Highlight Your November Menus By These Cranberry Desserts

THERE'S a good crop of cranberries coming up this year. Sixty-six million pounds, or almost twice as much as last year, is the estimate of the cranberry growers. This is good news for those of us who love that truly American fruit. It'll mean, for one thing, the proper sauce to go with those turkeys we'll also be able to get.

Cranberries can be used most effectively for desserts and dessert-salads. Here are a few ways.

Stuffed Cranberry Pears

Pare medium sized pears; halve them lengthwise and core. Do not remove stems. Boil together ½ cup sugar, ½ cup corn syrup and ½ cup water. Add pear halves and cook gently for five minutes. Remove pears from syrup and chill. When ready to serve, fill centers with the following sauce.

Cranberry Sunshine Relish

- 4 cups fresh cranberries
- 1 whole orange, quartered and seeded
- ½ small grapefruit, quartered and seeded
- 1 cup corn syrup (dark or light)

Put cranberries, orange and grapefruit through the food chopper. Add sugar and corn syrup and mix well. Chill in refrigerator a few hours before serving. This makes a quart and a half.

NOTE: A cup of maple syrup or a half-cup of honey may be substituted for the corn syrup.

Cranberry Sunshine Relish is also good with meats or fish, and particularly with duck. Try freezing the relish to a mush and then serve it over a fruit cup. This relish goes beautifully on a salad plate with stuffed eggs, pickled whole beets and cottage cheese.

Jellied Cranberry Fruit Relish

- 2 cups fresh cranberries
- 1 lemon, quartered and seeded
- 1 apple, peeled and quartered and seeded
- 1 cup orange marmalade
- 2 teaspoons horseradish
- 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
- 2 tablespoons cold water

Put cranberries, lemon and apple through food chopper. Combine with marmalade and horseradish; let stand a few hours to blend. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over steam; fold into cranberry relish mixture. Fill individual molds or fill shallow square pan to a depth of one inch. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with lettuce or watercress as a salad. Or cut into squares; place one each on round of thinly sliced orange, and arrange as a garnish around a serving platter.

Cranberry Ginger Sauce

- 1 cup corn syrup (dark or light)
- 1 cup sugar
- 1¾ cups water
- Root ginger
- 4 cups fresh cranberries
- 2 tapples, peeled, cored and diced
- Grated rind 1 lemon

Boil corn syrup, sugar, water and a small piece of ginger root together five minutes. Remove ginger. Add cranberries and apples and cook slowly, without stirring, until cranberry skins pop open (about ten minutes). Cool. Just before serving, sprinkle with grated lemon peel.

Cranberry Ginger Sauce is good over baked custard—gives zip to the bland flavor. It's also wonderful with hot cornbread. And just try it sometime on waffles—with the sauce hot too. And last of all, fill a baked cookie-crumb pie crust, fill it with prepared vanilla pudding and serve topped with Cranberry Ginger Sauce — the whole very cold. Good, good, good!

Sugarless Open Cranberry Pie

Two cups orange marmalade, 4 cups fresh cranberries, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 baked pie shell (9-inch), ½ cup orange segments.

Heat marmalade; add cranberries and cook gently until cranberry skins pop open — about 5 minutes. Stir in butter, blend cornstarch and water to a smooth paste; add to cranberry mixture; cook, stirring constantly until filling is slightly thickened and clear. Cool; pour into baked pie shell. Decorate with orange segments and baked pastry ring cut-outs, if desired.

The best way to clean silver is with a sponge with is dipped into silver polish and rubbed quickly over the stained silverware to remove tarnish in a jiffy.

KITCHEN KORNER

If you have left-over potatoes, save them to start a good dish for another meal. Be sure to keep them covered and in a cold place till you are ready to use them.

Short Rib Crowns

(Receipes Serve Four)

- 2 stripes short Ribs, 3 inches wide and 6 inches long
- 4 slices bacon
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ginger
- ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 3 cups bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 3 cups mashed potatoes

Sew or skewer the ends of the short ribs together. Dice bacon. Add onions and cook slowly until tender. Add seasonings. Combine mixture with bread crumbs, then add lightly beaten egg and mashed potatoes. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Place short rib crown on rack in roasting pan and fill center with potato dressing. Season. Cook uncovered at 300° one hour. Add a little water, cover pan and continue to cook for one and one-half hours, or until tender.

Atomic Bomb Jolts Americans' Thinking, Brings Suggestions

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—A reader, unless he kept score, might be astounded at the mass of comment on atomic energy, piled up in newspaper files, since the bomb hit Hiroshima last August.

That bomb jolted American thinking. It seems now that everyone has an idea on how the world should be run and atomic energy controlled.

Some Would Keep Secret

The ideas range like this:

Set up a world republic, keep the secret, outlaw the bomb, let the United Nations organization (UNO) handle it, furnish UNO with a task force of atomic bombers, let the international court of justice solve international disputes, its word to be final.

Senator Glen Taylor, Idaho Democrat, proposed in a Senate resolution that a world republic be set up.

Would Be World Setup

Men have long dreamed of the time when all nations would be part of one government. But this would mean the end of national independence as we know it.

Taylor told the Senate he's disappointed that his suggestion hasn't received more notice. He added that when he first came here and sang on the capitol steps he got a lot of attention.

The suggestion that we keep the secret and supply the UNO with a task force of atomic bombers to keep world peace may seem all right to Americans, but other nations are apt to be a little worried.

Not Possible To Outlaw Bomb

The secret of making the bomb won't be a secret very long and an American task force of atomic bombers would mean America need not fear atomic bombing, but America only.

Outlawing the bomb might not work. People point to the fact that poison gas wasn't used in World War II as an example of how nations can get together to outlaw a vicious weapon.

But poison gas works two ways and it was good policy for Germany not to try to use it in the war just ended. The Allies would have been able to bomb Germany with gas, probably with more disastrous results.

Because poison gas wasn't used in World War II is no guarantee, in spite of any promises made about World War III, that it wouldn't be used. One good atomic bomb raid might make it impossible for the bombed nation to retaliate.

Many Indicted For 'Racket' On Limbs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — Forty-five corporations, 34 individuals and a trade association were charged today with violating the anti-trust laws in the manufacture, sale and fitting of artificial limbs for amputees, including war veterans.

The Justice department announced that the indictment, returned by a District of Columbia grand jury, charged the group with conspiring to fix unreasonable and non-competitive prices throughout the United States.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said in a statement that one effect of the alleged conspiracy was to "deprive the United States Veterans administration of the opportunity to make artificial limbs for veterans."

The indictment asserted that artificial limb sales total about $10,000,000 annually, that about 75 per cent of the total volume of such was done by the manufacturers named as defendants and that about 90 per cent of the parts business was done by 10 supply dealers named.

Shipments Of Cars To Be Stepped Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors corp. said today that barring further delays, shipments of cars begun early this month would increase rapidly.

In a report to stockholders, Sloan said physical reconversion in more than 100 plants was progressing rapidly.

Scores Of Kidnap Suspects Are Held

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15 (AP) — Scores of kidnap suspects have been rounded up by the police but only a dozen have been held for investigation.

The campaign that started last week when 56 children were reported missing has brought no new clear cases of kidnaping to light.

The police insist there have been only two kidnapings in six weeks. They assert the other supposed cases were children who ran away or were lost and that 54 of 56 have been accounted for.

Nevertheless parents associations, the pubic prosecutor's office, senators, deputies and newspapers insist there have been unexpained disappearances and that a dangerous situation exists.

LORENZO BOY WINS CALF—At the Greater Pan American Hereford Exposition held in Dallas, November 9-16, James Carrol Overman of Lorenzo, won certificate presented by Safeway Stores, Inc., which entitles him to a pure-bred Hereford calf. James had three entries in this year's show which were sold in the auction arena. Shown in the picture are James Carrol Overman, Les Harris, Public Relations Director for the stores, and one of James' entries in this year's show.

Man Records 'Diary' Of Slow Death As He Lays Trapped

GOLD BEACH, Ore., Nov. 15 (U.P.)—The diary of a fatally injured motorist told in mute detail today how he lay pinned for nearly two weeks in his wrecked car only 100 feet from a highway and waited for death to release him.

Written on the back of a much-thumbed highway map, the diary related poignantly how Earl Stilson, 78, Gold Beach, prayed for rescue, then calmly resigned himself to death.

Wreckage Is Hidden

Police said Stilson's car plunged from a curve into a woodland depression and overturned at least twice when he lost control. The wreckage was hidden by giant trees and bushes.

Many automobiles passed on the busy Oregon-California coast highway but they apparently moved so fast that their occupants could not see the smashed vehicle, which Stilson was driving north from Eureka, Calif.

Needed Food

The first notation on the diary-map, found on the floor of the car, was pencilled Oct. 26. It read:

"Am suffering for food and drink. Why can I not be found? Not far off the road. I fell asleep. Not a bit of warning. . . .

Resuming his tragic chronicle the next day, Stilson wrote:

"All sunshine. Satan's mockery. But He (God) will not leave me here."

Could Hear Cars

On the evening of Sunday, Oct. 28, Stilson scrawled shakily:

"Will write this tonight as may not be able to go through another. Can hear cars go by but seem to be hidden from them. Have used up my battery signalling with lights and horn. Cannot understand when my trip can be easily verified. I need water most of all. With it (rain) falling most of the time, I can get little by any device. I can hardly move without agony."

He wrote the following Tuesday night:

"It's beginning to rain again. Why?"

Notation Is Given

Finally, weakened by cold and exposure, Stilson recorded his last day alive with a plea for life and resignation to death.

"Still alive," he wrote in the diary of death. "Ought to be dead. I am near today to go into His rest if it His will."

And, apparently a little later: "Water!"

Oregon and California state police abandoned the search last week only a mile and a half from the spot where the aged man's body lay four or five days before it was discovered last Saturday by a passerby near Crescent City, Calif.

The body of Stilson, a retired contractor, was to be taken to Jamestown, N. Y., his birthplace, for burial. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ball, New York City.

ROME, Nov. 15. (AP)—Police announced 300 persons were arrested today and hundreds of thousands of domestic cigarettes were seized in a series of raids on Rome's tobacco black market.

Senate Session Set For Jan. 8 Watched

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—More than 50 persons appointed to state offices since the last session of the Texas legislature await scrutiny of a threatened Jan. 8 session of the Texas Senate.

Sen. Weaver Moore, Houston, author of the Senate resolution convening the Senate Jan. 8 to pass on interim appointments, was here today. Friends say he is confident there will be a quorum of the Senate here for the session. Attendance of 21 is required. Twelve voted for the revolution calling the session and 10 against it out of a membership total of 31.

Those expecting a quorum say senators will be afraid to stay away because they will want either to vote for some appointee or oppose confirmation of some.

Any number of senators meeting on Jan. 8 can send out summons to force attendance of others. This might result in an immediate court test of the validity of a Senate session without the House being in session.

Another test might come if the governor declined to submit his appointments made since the last session of the legislature. He could not be mandamused. But Moore said the secretary of state could be mandamused, if necessary, to present the list of appointees as certified to his office.

Wallace Scores Plan To Give Up USES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace declared today it "would be particularly unfortunate" to over-hasten the return of the United States Employment Service to the states.

"I believe we need to get away from the atmosphere of political bickering which has tended to invade this discussion and look at the matter afresh," he told a Senate Labor subcommittee.

The group is considering a bill to return the service to the states by June 30, 1947. That's the date asked for by President Truman.

WHITE IS ELECTED

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15. (AP)—Rev. W. R. White, pastor of First Baptist church at Austin and former pastor of Broadway Baptist church here, was elected president of the Baptist Seminary Alumni and Former Students association last night.

Java Serves As Major Test For Big Powers To Maintain Peace

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

Java has developed into a sort of test case of the ability of the big powers to hold things together in this war-torn world until a just balance can be achieved through the United Nations.

Java is not the only place where shooting is in progress despite the supposed coming of peace. The resort to arms, or the threat of it, exists in China, Indo-China and the Near East. But Java is the most shocking, for there is seen the actuality of British troops, planes and warships killing natives who are demanding independence from foreign rule.

British Give Reasons

The British, and the Dutch whom they are supporting, advance justification for their course. It is obviously impracticable, in a land still infested with armed Japanese, to turn over responsibility for preserving law and order to a native group which claims to be a government but has neither the organization, power nor ability to function as one.

Nevertheless, Indonesians are being shot down by foreign arms. Some of them may be lawless elements who are taking advantage of a chaotic situation to go on the rampage. Others unquestionably are guided by patriot motives, in the same spirit which led to the American revolution.

Not A Pretty Spectacle

The spectacle is not pretty in either event. Public opinion abroad is apt to veer between tearful sympathy for the "downtrodden natives" or the unjustified conclusion that those in revolt are riffraff who have to be dealt with sternly by the white man.

Neither is true. The core of the matter is that a difficult situation is being dealt with by force instead of reason. The effect is bound to be adverse among the peoples who aspire to a new world and a new freedom throughout the far, middle and Near East, from the Dutch Indies to North Africa.

Action Is Scored

British and American opinion is not insensitive to the dangerous precedent which is being set up. A forthright view was expressed in a London speech last night by Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the British Labor party and one of the guiding men during the Attlee government's rise to power.

Deploring the use of empire troops to quell the popular movements in Java and Indo-China, Laski said:

"It is a matter of regret and bitter shame that British and Indian troops should be used to restore tyranny in the Pacific area."

Laski remarked furthermore that the pretext of restoring law and order is a worn-out catchword under which more crimes have been committed against the free peoples of the world than anything else.

There is no immediate answer to this obvious bungling by the great powers in the far corners of the earth except to hope for the speedy setting-up of the United Nations organization. The Indonesians in Java have shown a strong inclination to trust their fate to the United Nations, so long as it is not under a Dutch-dominated trusteeship. Some other small nations also appear willing to try out the one-world idea.

It is the Big Three themselves who are delaying the United Nations set-up. There seems some prospect that after the atomic conversations have been finished in Washington, an effort may be made to get the Big Three around the table again. Until that happens, there is not much use in looking forward to a United Nations organization that will function.

OPTIMIST — Edgar E. Shukraft, above, is the first Republican to seek the office of mayor of Atlanta, Ga., since the Civil War. He is a flower grower and wholesaler. Election is scheduled next month.

Church Of England To Launch Big Drive

LONDON, Nov. 15. (AP)—A four million dollar advertising program was adopted unanimously by an assembly of the Church of England today, after a warning from the Bishop of Rochester, England, that the clergy's "spiritual anemia" had left half of Britain "worse than heathens."

Calling for a revival of religious life, a 172-page report submitted to the assembly recommended a "missionary invasion of the modern agencies of propaganda," in a five-year publicity program.

The campaign contemplates an eight-point program utilizing motion pictures, theater, radio, television, press, literature, information centers and paid advertising.

Cotton Shipment To Move Out Of Gulf

HOUSTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—First shipment of cotton to be moved from west gulf ports to Shanghai since 1941 has been booked to move from Houston early next week, it was learned today.

The consignment, 10,000 bales, will be lifted by the steamer Red Gauntlet and will be the first of a 30,000 bale lot booked to move from this port prior to the middle of December.

The remaining 20,000 bales will be loaded aboard the steamer Norman Lykes, due here early next month.

Long, Tough Training Preceded Dropping Of A-Bombs On Japan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — "Stiffer training than they ever imagined existed," it was disclosed today, whipped Uncle Sam's atomic bomber teams into shape for their historic missions.

The Army made public sufficient details of the eleven-month training grind to indicate the gruelling schedule of the group selected to handle the new weapon.

At Wendover Field

The men to be wielded into the "509th composite group" were brought together at Wendover Field, on the barren waste of the Salt Lake desert, 127 miles west of Salt Lake City, Utah. Before Col. Paul Tibbets, jr., of Miami, Fla., arrived at the field in September, 1944, it had been used to train bomber crews and fighter pilots.

"I told the men at the start of their training," Col. Tibbets related, "that new faces would replace the old ones daily, if necessary, unless they met the requirement. Our goal was perfection and we got as near that mark as was humanly possible."

"Give those kids full credit for Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They've got it coming."

Among them were Capt. Kermit Beahan, Houston, Tex., navigator on the Hiroshima mission.

Eight Distinctive Units

The 509th was divided into eight distinctive units, each with a major function. The group was so constituted that it could operate independently wherever it was based. No one knew its destination and it was necessary to prepare the group for all eventualities.

Morale of the crews was described by an Army spokesman as "extremely high," despite their lack of knowledge of their ultimate goal. The crews went through entire training and combat tours without loss of an airplane or injury to a single individual.

Gas Conservation Is Studied In State

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—A preliminary report of an industry engineering committee on Texas natural gas uses and wastage together with recommendations for improved conservation will be made public in about 30 days.

It will be presented at the next statewide proration hearing by the Railroad commission in mid-December, based on developments yesterday when the report had been scheduled for initial presentation.

This was to have been in connection with a hearing on the Heyser field, Calhoun county, but that hearing was reset after field operators asked permission to name their own group to make an exhaustive study of the field. Subject of the hearing was whether gas produced coincidentally with oil in the field should be returned to the producing horizon.

The industry-wide engineering committee was appointed a year ago to make a statewide survey of natural gas. Its preliminary report is completed and is now in the hands of an advisory committee, also appointed last year, which is studying policy recommendations made by the engineering group before the commission receives the report.

Chairman of the engineering committee is W. H. Murray of Houston. Jim Nash of Austin is chairman of the advisory committee.

Railroad Wage Talks To Open In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—Labor-management negotiation conferences on wage-hour demands by the country's railroad workers will open in Chicago on Nov. 27, a railroad management spokesman said yesterday.

Participating in the conference will be committees representing the eastern, western and southeastern railroad groups and heads of 20 Railroad brotherhoods.

Soviets Withdrawing From Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Russian army started withdrawing today from its occupation zone.

Cannon, trucks and armor were covered with flowers and cheering crowds bid Red Army troops goodbye. Traffic was snarled.

THEY'RE WAITING—Mrs. Emilie Hahn and her daughter, Carola, now four years old, wait in New York while Maj. Charles Boxer hastens to them following his release from Jap prison camp. Mrs. Hahn, a former resident of Winnetka, Ill., named the British officer as the father of Carola in her recent book, "China to Me." Major Boxer has declared that he and the authoress will be married soon after his arrival in New York, where she lives.

TO CONTINUE CEILINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) — Current price ceilings for dry edible beans will be continued until next June 30, the OPA and the Agriculture department said today.

The agencies, in a joint statement, said the announcement was prompted by "speculation in dry beans caused by short supplies and rumors that ceilings will be removed."

STASSEN IS RELEASED

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 15. (AP) —Capt. Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and for two and one-half years chief of staff to Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey, jr., was released from the Navy today.

Texas Group Proposes Purchase Of Two Pipelines To East Coast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.(AP)—Purchase of the "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" oil pipelines which run from Texas to the east is proposed by a group of Texans who have arrived to see what can be done about it.

Headed by Harold Byrd of Dallas, they planned conferences with congressmen and with federal officials charged with the responsibility of disposing of the government's holdings in the wartime projects, built when Nazi submarines were exacting a heavy toll of tankers.

While the proposal still is in a tentative stage, the potential purchasers are in a position to put up as much as $100,000,000 for the facilities, they said. The "Big Inch" line cost approximately $79,000,000 and the "Little Inch" about $67,000,000.

The Texans propose to transport Texas natural gas to eastern markets in the lines.

The prospective buyers have incorporated under Texas laws as the Independent Petroleum Cooperative association. There are three incorporators, W. L. Pickens, G. M. Glasco, and E. B. Germany, all of Dallas.

Questioned about the possibility that some legal restrictions might be imposed against the use of the pipelines for transporting gas in view of the protest in that regard that had been raised at the time the lines were built, Byrd said tonight:

"We think we can use them for transporting gas. We've got the gas, and we've got the sale for it.

"I understand that Olin Culberson, our state railroad commissioner, is against transporting the gas out of the state, but we can't eat the stuff. We are in a position to pay the producers 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and that is more than they can realize if and when industries should consume it locally in Texas."

Byrd said he would appear before the O'Mahoney committee of the Senate tomorrow to discuss the proposal.

The Texan said the lines would be operated as a public carrier. The "Little Inch" would be used only as a stand-by facility, especially near river crossings. In other sections it might be torn up. Keeping the pipeline in operation, Byrd contended, would be insurance in case of any future emergency.

Near Record Seen In Cattle Feeding

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—The agricultural department said today the number of cattle on feed for fattening to heavier weight and better quality on January 1 may be near a record.

It said there was an unusually keen demand for feeder cattle during October, adding that this is expected to continue through November and December if the cattle are available.

Cattle fattened during fall and winter usually find their way to consumer markets during the late winter, spring and early summer. Thus the more cattle fed this winter the larger will be the supply of better grades of meat from next March through June.

A factor contributing to heavy demand for feeder cattle is the fact that a considerable portion of this year's corn crop is of high moisture content due to early frost.

Such corn cannot be stored long. Hence, one of its best uses is quick feeding to cattle.

The department reported also that about as many lambs will be finished in feed lots during the 1945-46 lamb feeding season as in the past season. It stated however, that there will be a rather sharp reduction in the number finished on wheat pastures.

MEXICAN WAGES BOOSTED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—President Avila Camacho today announced that government workers' salaries will be increased $3,300,000 during 1946 as a relief measure against living costs which have more than tripled during the war.

NEW SENATOR?—Conservative Charles C. Gossett, above, Democratic governor of Idaho, may resign to clear the way for his appointment to the U. S. Senate vacancy caused by the death of Sen. John Thomas, Republican.

San Antonio FEPC Office To Close

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Fair Employment Practices committee office here will close Dec. 15, Dr. Carlos Castaneda, director said today.

The office has handled between 500 and 600 job discrimination cases in its three-state area since March. States included were Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Dr. Castaneda will return to the University of Texas the second semester to his post as associate professor of history and librarian of the Latin-American collection.

Penicillin Helps In Scarlet Fever Fight

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP) — A successful seven-day treatment of scarlet fever with penicillin was reported today in the Journal of the American Medical association.

The treatment, consisting of injection of 10,000 units of penicillin into the muscles every three hours, is effective in rapidly eliminating the germ-causing infection from the nose and throat within 48 hours, the report said.

Drs. Manson Meads, M. Eugene Flipse, jr., Maxwell Finland and Mildred W. Barnes, with the collaboration of Ruth Drew and Alice Northrop, Boston, studied four groups of ning patients each who were admitted to the south department of the Boston City hospital between January and May, 1945.

The authors emphasized that their conclusions were "only tentative" because they were based on a "very small number of cases."

Reported Death Of Rancher Erroneous

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Government agents branded as erroneous today a report that George Lohman, A Texas cowboy who became fabulously rich in Paraguay, had been killed by rustlers at his isolated ranch near Chaco.

Two government planes flew to the ranch after a report of his death had been bannered in Asuncion newspapers. Agents said they found Lohman alive, but they did not report whether he had been wounded.

The earlier report said Lohman, riding alone, found rustlers attempting to steal some of his cattle and began shooting. He was said to have been killed by return fire.

Lohman came to Paraguay 33 years ago and built up a ranch of 500,000 acres and one of the largest cattle herds in the country.
