

Bilingual-Ed Director Quits

By PAUL SIMS

Hereford Independent School District bilingual education director Louis Montano resigned Thursday night during a school-board hearing on his alleged mishandling of federal Title VII funds.

Montano's resignation, effective immediately, apparently came as a surprise to board members, who had not yet reached the vote stage in the employment-termination hearing.

Earlier in the hearing, Montano had asked the board to accept his resignation as bilingual-education director and reassign him elsewhere in the district until the end of the current school year.

"I decided to go ahead and resign from the school district, effective now, after Dr. Holder (Superintendent Harrell Holder) asked me to go home and get some materials which had to do with the case. I just did some thinking while I was driving home and decided it would be in the best interest of the school district to resign," Montano told The Brand this morning.

"I regret having to resign because the school system has been good to me. But, I felt that the school board could not tolerate inefficiency in office.

"I have paid a heavy price for having made the mistakes that I did."

Montano requested an open meeting, although he had the right, under the Texas Open Meetings Law, to have the hearing closed to the public.

"What the paper is going to say is what people are going to believe, so I wanted you there," Montano said. "I don't want people in the background making a big thing of this."

Holder charged Montano with inefficiency in office and insubordination in regard to the expenditure of Title VII funds for expenses incurred prior to the effective date of the federal grant.

Federal regulations concerning Title VII funds do not allow grant money to be used for expenses which occurred prior to Oct. 1. Montano allegedly used federal funds to further his education at Western Colorado University by paying for college expenses incurred last summer—prior to the effective date of the grant.

Funds may be used for training and education purposes, but only expenses which occur after Oct. 1 may be paid out of Title VII money.

IN VIEW OF SOARING INFLATION and unbelievably high interest rates, the risks of a business "crash" are being talked all around the nation. But most top economists are still predicting an "average" recession, not a deeper one.

Despite the tightening of credit and government's lack of a sound fiscal policy, many business writers see some bright spots in the economic situation. They point to factors such as modest capital expansion by business, exports staying strong, inventories are being kept in line in most business areas, and the defense buildup will begin to be a plus factor.

WHAT IF THE CURRENT INFLATION were to continue for 20 years?

Well, it would take a calculator and a big wheelbarrow just to go shopping. A grocery bill of $50 now would cost $1,369.50 then. A $60,000 residence would have a value of $1.6 million.

John Cuniff, Associated Press business analyst, has come up with some of these interesting, but scary, figures. It wouldn't be so bad if your income rose at the same rate. For example, a $20,000 man would be getting $547,860 if the inflation continued for 20 years. If experience is a guide, however, incomes rise at about half the rate of inflation.

You think 20 years is too distant? Try five years. That $50 tab on groceries would be up to $144; a $60,000 house would sell for $136,800.

To indulge in such numerical projections is shocking almost to the point of unbelievable, especially when "experts" sometimes miss projections just a few months ahead. But sometimes fantasies come true. You can look at the past and use numbers to see where we've been.

The gross national product was growing at a rate of 4.7 percent a year in the six years ending with 1968. In the next six years it fell to just 3.4 percent. And in the most recent six years, it was 2.5 percent. That's a deterioration of 46.8 percent over the 1968-1979 period.

Inflation averaged just 2.4 percent in the six years through 1968, more than doubled to 4.9 in the six years through 1973, and leaped to 8.5 percent in the latest six years. The total worsening in the 1968-1979 period amounted to 254.2 percent.

KENNETH W. FRICKE

The Texas Rangers—the country's oldest law-enforcement agency—are alive and doing quite well, though they've changed their image from the days when they shot up Indians and Mexican bandits.

But, says Kenneth W. Fricke of Canyon, the prestige is still there, and he's proud to be a Texas Ranger.

"You bet, I am. We're as famous as Scotland Yard or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. That has happened because of the tails and trails of the old West."

Fricke, who works in Potter, Randall, Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties, is one of 94 Rangers in the state. Rangers investigate major crimes, such as murder, armed robbery and burglaries, working closely with local officials.

"I depend heavily upon local officials for information. City policemen and deputies have a vast amount of information," Fricke said.

But, they also have limitations, and that's why the Texas Rangers are still around.

"Local law-enforcement officers have certain responsibilities which keep them confined to a certain area. I have no problem crossing lines," Fricke said.

"The Rangers, since we are now a Texas Department of Public Safety branch, have access to more equipment than sheriff's deputies or police. We can disseminate information to law officers statewide. Even Department of Public Safety troopers are confined to a certain area.

"As an example, Sheriff (Travis) McPherson (of Deaf Smith County) has a limited amount of funds to function with. If he has an investigation that extends to Brownsville, he might send me along with a deputy because of my authority and our (DPS) resources."

The Rangers were started by Stephen F. Austin in 1823 at San Felipe, 50 miles west of Houston. Through the years, the agency has gone from scouting and fighting Indians to

Militants Reiterate Demands

By The Associated Press

The 50 American hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran will get Iranian new year treats but not their freedom until the shah is returned, a spokesman for the Moslem militants said today.

"We will give them goodies and cookies," the spokesman, reached by telephone from The Associated Press office in Nicosia, Cyprus, said. "It will be a simple ceremony."

"Tonight you will understand what we will do. We will give prizes to a couple of them." He did not describe the prizes.

Asked whether this meant some of the hostages—who began their 139th day in captivity today—might be freed, the captor said:

"No, none of them will be released. They will not be released until the criminal shah is returned to Iran."

As freedom for the hostages looked farther and farther away, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim cautioned the United States against military action in Iran.

"If you think you can solve this problem by force you are wrong" because that would jeopardize the lives of the captives and "create an explosion" in the entire Middle East, Waldheim told a news conference Thursday.

Waldheim, in Washington for a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, was concerned about a call by Senate Republicans for the Carter administration to consider a naval blockade and mining of Iran's ports.

Waldheim praised President Carter's "restraint and firmness." He said he was confident "patience and perseverance" will lead to the release of the embassy hostages and the three American diplomats who are prisoners at the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

Waldheim said he was hopeful the U.N. investigating commission will be allowed to return to Iran after the new parliament is elected. And he said he had received indications recently that the crisis will end regardless of who wins the election.

He did not say what the indications were. But the U.S. government told the International Court of Justice Thursday the signals coming from Iran suggest the hostages may be held "indefinitely."

State Department legal adviser Roberts B. Owen ended a three-day appearance before the world court at The Hague with an appeal for a speedy final judgment against the Iranian revolutionary regime. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime, has said the 270 members of the new Majlis, the Iranian Parliament, will decide whether to free the hostages, and Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, first secretary of the ruling Revolutionary Council, has said the Majlis couldn't discuss the issue until mid-May.

Feds Set Gas-Saving Targets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government wants you to drive less during the next three months than you've been doing. But it's being left to the states to set actual guidelines for reaching gasoline conservation targets.

The Energy Department announced the targets Thursday, calling for a nationwide reduction of 6.7 percent in April, May and June compared to the same period in 1979.

The targets for each state are only voluntary and it's up to each of the 50 states to decide how to meet its goal, according to the Energy Department.

Each state will submit a plan to the federal government and thus a motorist won't know what to expect until his or her state lays it out, according to Maria Charenko, an Energy Department spokeswoman.

Proposed reductions range from 1.1 percent in Wyoming to 17 percent for Alaska.

The targets are part of President Carter's goal of cutting average daily gasoline use to 7 million barrels, compared to a 1979 average of 7.4 million.

The 7.4 million average has continued for the first three months of 1980, the department said.

Coke Pulls Out Of Olympics

ATLANTA (AP) — Coca-Cola Co., makers of the soft drink almost synonymous with America, says Coke won't be offered as an official thirst quencher of the Summer Olympics for the first time in half a century.

But the company is not abandoning its toehold in the Soviet Union — and athletes and spectators at the Moscow Games may end up drinking Coke anyway, company officials say.

"The Coca-Cola Co. will comply with President Carter's appeal for non-participation by U.S. companies in the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow," J. Paul Austin, Coke chairman and chief executive officer, said in a prepared statement Thursday.

Carter called for the boycott when Soviet troops failed to withdraw from Afghanistan and the International Olympic Committee voted to hold the Games in Moscow as (See OLYMPICS, Page 2)

From Carter Budget

Panel Cuts $16.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — House budget-writers, chopping $16.5 billion from President Carter's original 1981 budget, are recommending that the full House approve the first balanced federal budget in 12 years.

The House Budget Committee approved the package late Thursday night on an 18-6 vote that pitted Republicans and moderate Democrats against liberal Democrats who were upset with cuts in social programs.

Although Carter called last week for a balanced budget, the president has yet to submit a revised version of his 1981 spending plan. The budget he proposed in January called for a $15.8 billion deficit.

Buoyed by the unusual show of Republican support, Rep. Robert N. Gaijardo, D-Conn., committee chairman, said Thursday he hopes to bring the budget to the House floor next week.

The committee-backed 1981 budget, covering the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, recommends $611.8 billion in spending, $613.8 billion in revenues and a $2 billion surplus.

The proposed budget calls for sharp cuts in many social programs, including urban aid and jobs programs. It also calls for a $1.4 billion cut in Carter's proposed level of defense spending and an end to Saturday mail deliveries.

The Carter administration has voiced general support for the cuts, many of which also were endorsed by congressional leaders in meetings earlier this month.

Several liberal Democrats charged that the committee balanced the budget largely at the expense of the poor while demanding little sacrifice from the wealthy.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., complained that the committee was willing to make "painful spending cuts" in social programs but was unwilling to make

Mexico Plans Grain Imports, Brown Says

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said today Mexico has agreed to import 90 percent of its vast needs of grain from the United States.

Brown said in a telephone report to Austin, Texas, Mexico will import 5.5 million metric tons of grain in the next few months.

The grain imports will include 2.3 million metric tons of corn, 1.8 million metric tons of sorghum and 1.2 million metric tons of wheat.

Brown, here with a trade mission of 12 Texas grain producers, said Mexico has been importing only 32 million metric tons of grain a year from the United States.

Brown said he and the grain producers had met "eyeball-to-eyeball" with Mexico's Secretary of Commerce, Jorge de la Vega, and also with Juan Salazar, director of Mexico's grain agency.

Afghan Rebel Flock

Toward Pakistan

BAJAWOUR, Pakistan (AP) — As gunfire rumbled over the Hindu Kush mountains in Afghanistan, a new wave of Afghan rebels fled to sanctuary in Pakistan and said Soviet helicopter gunships dogged their trail across the rugged mountain frontier.

"Russian helicopters flew overhead constantly trying to kill us, but most of the time we managed to hide amidst the boundaries of the mountain slopes to avoid detection," said Shakir Brasul, a young Afghan rebel from the village of Kotapur in Konar Province on the other side of the mountain border.

"More than half the people in my village were killed," Brasul told a reporter Thursday after he and 60 other Afghan refugees, including women and children of all ages, made the four-day mountain crossing.

"It was so cold coming over the mountains that four children in our group died of exposure," he said.

They fled an offensive against the rebels by Afghan government troops and their Soviet allies in Konar Province.

Colombian Negotiations

Postponed Until Monday

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The 32 hostages in the Dominican Republic's Embassy faced another weekend of housekeeping chores and games of cards and dominoes as the resumption of negotiations for their release was postponed until Monday.

The Colombian government agreed Thursday to a request from the hostages and the M-19 guerrillas holding them to resume direct talks. The sixth negotiating session was set for today and then postponed until Monday afternoon.

The fifth meeting ended March 13 with a masked woman guerrilla leaving the van shouting to reporters that the guerrillas were prepared to die before abandoning their demand for the release of imprisoned leftists. But the guerrillas have reduced their list of those whose freedom they demand from 311 to 28.

The government has said it will not free any prisoners because that would violate the constitution. Officials say it would also encourage leftists to seize more hostages.

Bani-Sadr Wants

Crisis Commission

By The Associated Press

Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr today disclosed that he had proposed setting up a five-nation commission to investigate the crisis in Afghanistan last month, but the Soviet Union rejected his secret initiative.

Bani-Sadr, addressing a huge crowd in Tehran, said his proposal was relayed to the Kremlin through Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The Iranian president said the suggestion was prompted by Moscow's claims that it sent Soviet troops into Afghanistan three months ago because the Americans, the Chinese and the Pakistanis were plotting against Marxist regime in that central Asian nation.

Bani-Sadr said he told the Soviets they should allow the commission to try to determine whether U.S. and other foreign subversives were at work.

Severance Taxes

Blasted by White

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Attorney General Mark White today said the high severance taxes that Montana and Wyoming place on coal threaten the Texan economy.

The taxes also place a multi-billion dollar burden on Texas consumers, White said in testimony before a House subcommittee considering a proposal to restrict severance taxes to 12.5 percent.

Montana levies a 30 percent tax on coal mined in the state while the severance tax in Wyoming is 17 percent.

"In the Houston area alone, electric rate payers will pay one-half billion dollars over 25 years to the Montana treasury through fuel adjustment pass throughs," White said.

He cited a Department of Energy study that found Texas industries will bear one-half of the cost of converting boilers to coal to meet new power plant and industrial fuel use laws.

"These costs alone are substantial, but when an exorbitant surcharge for the use of fuel is added, the result cannot help but be adverse to our economy," White said.

Weather

West Texas — Fair and warmer through Saturday. Highs 60s north to 80s extreme south. Lows 40s.

Cold Prompts Moves

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The freezing temperatures outside may be doing more than nipping your nose — they may be driving people away from your community, says a new study.

The study by two economists at Wright State University in Dayton found that weather — cold temperatures to be specific — is a significant factor in determining where people decide to move.

"It is no longer conjecture, it is based on a scientifically conducted statistical test," said Stephen Renas, one of the associate professors of economics.

The researchers cautioned, however, that good climate doesn't always attract people, while cities in unfavorable climates — such as Minneapolis — can provide attractions to offset the chill.

The professors surveyed 34 major cities, taking into account factors such as the cost of living, income growth, educational levels, climate and unemployment.

"Our findings indicate that the most important determinant of migration is a climate-related variable — specifically, how cold the area gets in the winter," the professors concluded.

The winter chill was followed in importance by an area's income growth, education levels, how hot it gets in summer and the cost of living — exclusive of energy costs.

Climate, of course, affects the cost of living because of the expense of heating and cooling buildings.

In the study, climate desirability was determined by measuring how far daily summer and winter temperatures deviated from 65 degrees.

The resultant degree-day measurements — the sum of all degrees above or below this comfortable level — provided a more "appropriate measure of weather discomfort" than simple winter and summer temperature averages, the researchers said.

The coldest metropolis was Minneapolis-St. Paul, with 8,310 winter degree heating days. The twin cities' climate was 32nd overall. However, this prosperous Midwest cultural center ranked 14th in in-migration with a rate of 6.7 percent.

Orlando, Fla., had the hottest summer climate with 3,226 cooling degree days. But its climate ranked eighth overall and the home of Disney World tied with Atlanta for fifth in in-migration at a rate of 19.7 percent.

Orlando and Minneapolis-St. Paul show that cities with climate extremes can overcome adverse climate — most readily if the problem is heat, the researchers say. But there is a general rule:

"People don't want to be in places where the weather will make them uncomfortable," said associate professor Rishi Kumar. "They tend to avoid living in extreme climates."

Some Sunbelt cities received middle rankings because they were considered too hot in the summer, he said.

The researchers also considered summer heat, winter wind chill and summer humidity — but found the last was not statistically significant. They based their migration percentages on 1960-1970 figures, the most reliable available.

Overall, the researchers said, the most attractive climate was found in San Diego, neither too hot in summer nor too cold in winter. Its summer cooling and winter heating needs deviated least from 65 degrees — 1,439 degree days in winter; 722 in summer.

San Diego's actual average summer temperature was 67.7, while the winter average was 56. And the city's in-migration rate of 16.4 percent was eighth best among the 34 cities rated.

Buffalo, N.Y., known for its rough winters and heavy snowfall, had the least desirable weather in the survey — an average 68 degrees in summer and 26 in winter. Net in-migration was minus 6.4 percent.

Buffalo's summers are far from hot — only 437 cooling degree days — and its winters are bitter cold — 7,062 heating degree days.

Unlike the young, growing Minneapolis-St. Paul area, where unemployment is traditionally low, Buffalo is an aging industrial city. Unemployment in January was 10.7 percent, for example.

Houston led in in-migration — 21.9 percent. Its climate ranked sixth overall, the researchers said, with 1,434 heating degree days and an average winter temperature of 54.4 degrees, and 3,226 cooling degree days and an average summer temperature of 81.2 degrees.

The greatest rate of out-migration was for Pittsburgh — 7 percent. The Pennsylvania city has been refurbished, but its central industry — steelmaking — has been troubled by layoffs and plant closings.

Pittsburgh, with the 23rd-ranked climate, like Buffalo is cool. But it is comfortable in summer, with 948 cooling degree days and an average 70.4 degree temperature.

Woman Kidnaps Baby As Gift to Boyfriend

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hilda Jean Lawson, left sterile by earlier birth complications, promised her boyfriend she would have a baby for him — and delivered, officials say. She's charged with kidnapping a 5-day-old girl as the infant was nursed in a hospital maternity ward.

Curly-haired Erica Elaine Adams was back in the arms of her mother at University of Tennessee Hospital on Thursday, 22 hours after a woman took her away to change her diaper.

Police said they recovered the child after getting a tip that Mrs. Lawson had taken a baby to the home she shared with her boyfriend, Freddie Bennett, and told friends she had given birth Sunday.

Bennett and Mrs. Lawson were met by police at the home of Bennett's mother, Jean, who said her son had told her: "Monna, look here. Hilda finally had her baby. Ain't she beautiful? We've named her Misty Dawn 'cause you always liked that name."

But when Knox County Detective Larry Davis arrived, she said, he told them, "Freddie, that's not your baby. Hilda stole her from the University Hospital yesterday. That baby doesn't belong to you."

Mrs. Bennett said Mrs. Lawson had said several weeks ago she was expecting at any time.

"I told Hilda, 'Honey child...you're not pregnant. You're not even showing and your stomach is flat as a pancake,'" she said.

Mrs. Lawson, 26, apparently took the child because she was unable to have her own baby, said Sheriff Joe Jenkins. Police said she had two children by an earlier marriage but was infertile as a result of complications from the last birth.

She had been a patient recently at the Helen McNabb Mental Health Center, according to authorities.

"She told me she had an obligation to her boyfriend that she would have him a baby," Detective George Hipshire said, "that she went to the hospital to get a baby and that it didn't matter whose baby or what sex it was."

Hipshire said Mrs. Lawson, apparently posing as a nurse, walked into Connie Adams' room hospital room as she was nursing Erica on Wednesday. He quoted Mrs. Adams, 23, as saying the woman had told her the baby's diaper needed changing and had walked out with the child.

Mrs. Adams became worried and called the nurse's station about 15 minutes later, officials said.

Mrs. Lawson was being held in the Knox County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond pending a hearing set for March 31.

Bennett, 20, was not charged, Hipshire said: "I don't think the boy was even aware of what happened."

U.S. Steel Rips 7 Countries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp., saying that unfair competition from foreign mills has hurt its business, cost 100,000 American jobs and harmed the U.S. economy, today is launching anti-dumping actions against producers in seven European countries.

Eighty cartons of documents to support its case were being delivered today to the Commerce Department and the International Trade Commission, U.S. Steel officials said.

The complaints are being filed over the objections of the Carter administration, which fears the action could lead to a trade war.

The move is likely to end the administration's controversial trigger price mechanism, designed to protect the domestic steel industry by setting minimum prices to limit cheap steel from abroad.

U.S. Steel's announcement came less than 24 hours after the Commerce Department said it would leave the so-called trigger price unchanged for the next three months. The department also warned that the triggers may be suspended if the complaints are filed.

"Unfairly priced imports over the years have had, and are having, serious adverse effects on American steel producers," U.S. Steel chairman David M. Roderick said Thursday.

Beside the loss of jobs, "the economy as a whole has been injured through lost taxes, added unemployment, and additional welfare costs," he said.

The complaints involve a variety of products exported from France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands and West Germany.

The domestic steel industry has long complained that the government has not enforced trade laws, allowing foreign steel to be dumped here — sold below the cost of production. U.S. Steel's complaints allege that 75 percent of the 5.4 million tons shipped by European steelmakers last year, valued at $1.5 billion, was dumped.

When U.S. producers were ready to file similar complaints in 1977, the administration averted the actions by establishing the trigger price mechanism. It sets minimum prices for foreign steel here, triggering an investigation when there are violations. The prices are based on Japanese production costs, the world's most efficient, according to the government.

But domestic steelmakers argue Japanese costs are not accurately calculated, making the trigger too low. They also say the government doesn't adequately enforce the mechanism. A General Accounting Office report not yet published says as much as 40 percent of imported steel lands here under the trigger price.

Kurt Orban, president of the American Institute for Imported Steel, said with total steel imports down 17 percent in 1979 from a record 21 million tons in 1978, damages will be hard to prove.

Kansas Firemen Issued Citations

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)

— Strikers crowded city jails today as officials battling the second firefighters walkout in three months issued contempt citations to 700 union members and pledged to start firing dozens more unless they returned to work.

"We're going to go after them all," announced Special Prosecutor John R. Gibson, saying he would seek court sanctions against every firefighter in the 900-member union.

"That's the way it should be done. For the firemen this time, it's a hopeless proposition."

Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale called heads of the Missouri National Guard, Highway Patrol and Department of Public Safety to meet with him today, saying he was concerned about the effects of any firings.

"The threat to the public health and safety will be increased," Teasdale said. "I am prepared to use all the powers at my disposal to protect the lives and property of the people of Kansas City."

He said he would "push all day" for a settlement in the strike, which began Monday when the city refused to reinstate 42 firefighters dismissed for participating in a December work slowdown.

opened four "life safety stations" to monitor calls, and International Association of Firefighters representative Al Goodfader said the union may place small squads around the city using private cars and firefighting gear.

Fire Chief John Was said he would release equipment to any striker who wanted to help at a serious fire, but city officials said they wanted to know more about the plan.

The citations were issued after a fruitless day of negotiations between city and state officials and union leaders.

Rangers

he was promoted to narcotics agent in Houston.

As a narcotics agent, he worked in an undercover capacity. "I had shoulder-length hair and a full beard. I didn't enjoy the hair, but I enjoyed the work. It was a great challenge for me," Fricke said.

It was also a life-endangering job—another reason Fricke is happy to be a Ranger today.

On Christmas Eve in 1975, Fricke and four other undercover agents purchased a pound of cocaine from three drug dealers in a Houston parking lot.

Three of the dealers were immediately arrested. The fourth didn't give up so easily.

"We were involved in a real Mexican standoff. He had his gun aimed at me, and mine was aimed at him. But, he finally threw his down," Fricke said.

In another parking lot a year later, Fricke and other undercover agents were involved in a gunfight. An officer was shot in the hand, and a suspect was shot between the eyes.

"I guess I'm lucky to be here today," Fricke sighed.

Fricke, 30, qualified for the Rangers because he had eight years law-enforcement experience in Texas, 60 hours of college and an advanced certificate from the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officers and Education.

The Ranger praised Sheriff Travis McPherson—"one of the finest lawmen I've had the pleasure to know."

He added: "I have a very close working relationship with the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office. They're one of the finest in the state, and I say that with all sincerity. They help me as much as I help them."

"The whole idea behind the Texas Rangers and law enforcement is it's not the color of your uniform or whether you even wear a uniform that makes any difference, but we're all police officers working for the same thing."

Montano

Inc. in Canyon for his tuition to Western Colorado University prior to the effective date of the grant.

Holder, who presented purchase orders to the board as evidence against Montano, said that the bilingual-education director also reimbursed a Hereford teacher $101.15 for college expenses incurred at West Texas State University prior to Oct. 1, 1979.

The superintendent charged that Montano was insubordinate because he had denied using Title VII funds for expenses which occurred prior to Oct. 1 in several previous conversations with Holder.

Holder also charged that Montano was improper in submitting a request for payment of $1,500 to Western Colorado University for additional tuition, $125 of which had been for Montano's doctoral studies prior to the effective date of the grant.

"In my 16-year career as school superintendent, this is one of the most difficult tasks I've had to undertake," Holder told trustees.

"Louis is a very close, personal friend of mine and has made a name for himself in educational circles in this area. He has made many accomplishments for the school district in the area of bilingual education. He has assisted the school district in the development of its bilingual philosophy."

"I am charging Mr. Montano with two points—inefficiency and insubordination."

Montano told the board that his defense would be in form of a "plea of mercy." He added that he had made "poor" administrative decisions in utilizing Title VII funds.

He said that he had been "one trimester behind in my thinking" and that expenses paid for out of federal funds were for tuition for the college trimester which fell within the grant-contract period.

Montano said that he had believed that all but $250 of the $1,500 tuition charges was eligible for payment out of Title VII funds. Of the $101.15 reimbursement to the teacher, all but approximately $13 was a legal Title VII expenditure, Montano said.

"I believe that I was inefficient to the extent of $263," Montano said.

Montano added that he had not been insubordinate to the school district.

"Dr. Holder and I just failed to communicate. I do not wish to be looked at as lying to the district," Montano told the board. "I regret that you have lost faith in me."

Budget

"painful cuts" in tax breaks for the rich.

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, one of the panel's two black members, said the proposed budget made him "ashamed of the Democratic Party." He vowed that all 17 members of the Congressional Black Caucus would oppose the package.

Giaimo assured Republican support for the budget when he and other Democrats "ported a GOP plan to earmark the $10.3 billion from Carter's import fee on gasoline for a $20 billion 'productivity' tax cut, to take effect Jan. 1, 1981.

Republicans described the tax cut as likely to permit businesses to more quickly write off the cost of new buildings and machinery. But Giaimo said the money could also be used to defer scheduled Social Security tax increases.

In its final hours of debate Thursday, the committee agreed to restore $100 million for aid to workers hurt by foreign competition and $50 million for training the handicapped.

However, with those two exceptions, the panel turned back every effort to increase spending and even cut more deeply than its chairman recommended. Giaimo had proposed $15.9 billion in cuts.

On a 12-12 vote, the committee defeated a liberal-backed move to add $500 million to aid cities particularly hard hit by the panel's proposed end of the $1.7 billion federal revenue sharing program for states.

In addition, the panel urged an end to the $1 billion program of anti-recession aid to cities.

The committee also voted to cut all $200 million that had been included for government furniture as a protest against the storing of millions of dollars in usable furniture in government warehouses.

In addition, the panel recommended a $200 million increase in airport fees for private planes and a $150 million boost in fees for Coast Guard services.

The panel recommended saving $836 million by ending Saturday mail deliveries and reducing subsidies for bulk mail. But the vote does not necessarily mean Saturday mail deliveries will end. The U.S. Postal Service could raise rates or make other cuts.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that tax cuts would be in order in the future, but not now. Instead, he urged budget austerity and continued monetary restraint.

"To get through this period as quickly as possible, you've got to stick to your guns and we've got to stick to ours," he said.

still be served at the Games.

A separate contract with the Soviets to sell Fanta orange drink remains in effect despite the Olympic pullout, Pruitt said.

Pruitt said the company, which said in 1978 it was paying $3 million for the concession, "would not lose money as such" because "it is not anticipated that selling at the Olympics was a profit-making situation."

He said the company had not shipped any Coke concentrate since last year and would not ship any in the future, but added the "Coca-Cola concentrate and Fanta beverage base already available at the Moscow plant...is beyond our control."

Pruitt said the company recognized the possibility that Coke and Fanta would scheduled.

The U.S. Olympic Committee, responsible for fielding the American team, has not voted on a boycott, but has said it will comply with the president's wishes. Carter, meanwhile, invited 100 athletes to the White House today to try to sell them on the idea.

Coke had been under contract with the Soviet Olympic organizing committee to supply soft drinks to the Games as well as to last summer's Spartakiada sports festival. A bottling plant began operations in Moscow in July.

"A considerable quantity of Coca-Cola concentrate was not used during the Spartakiada and was stored in Moscow anticipating use at the Olympic Games under the Olympic contract," Austin said.

LAE Club Women Discuss Policies

The Women's Forum, club policies, and a May luncheon were among the topics discussed Tuesday afternoon in the home of Ira Ott by La Afflatus Estudio club members.

Co-hostess was Mary Williamson.

Club members opened the afternoon meeting by answering roll call with a quotation, fact or other interesting topic. The short business meeting was conducted by Alberta Higgins, president.

A policy committee was appointed to revise and present a list of club policies for future use by members. A limited discussion was held on whether or not to disband the Women's Forum, then a program was given by Lydia Hopson.

She read from the book, "So What's The Difference?" by Fritz Redenour. This was a comparative list of one religion's belief to another. Mrs. Higgins finished the program with another reading from "Hold Me Up a Little Longer Lord," by Margorie Holmes.

The next scheduled meeting of LAE will be April 1 in the Medallion Room of the REC Building. A program on Laws will be given by Tresa Hale. Jennie Terrell and Mrs. Higgins will serve as hostesses.

Home Buyer Tips

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently a reader sent you a list of things to look for when selecting a permanent home for an aging parent. You thanked her and printed it.

That list wasn't half as good as the one you ran a while back. For heaven's sake, girl, run yours again!—Faithful Reader With A Good Memory

DEAR FAITHFUL: Your memory is better than mine. Thanks for the reminder. I agree with you. Here's my list. It was compiled by the Illinois Council for Long-Term Care:

1. Is the home licensed? Ask. If the answer is yes, ask to see the license.
2. Does the administrator have a current state license? Again, if the answer is yes, ask to see it.
3. Is the nursing home

Medicare-and Medicaid-approved?

4. What other insurance plans are accepted?
5. Are there additional charges for personal laundry? Does therapy cost extra? If so, how much?

6. Are residents allowed to furnish their rooms with their own furniture? Can residents have their own radio or television?

7. Can a husband and wife share the same room?

8. Can residents have alcohol? Can they smoke in their rooms if they are able to do so unsupervised? Are there other convenient places where smoking is permitted?

9. Are there restrictions on making or receiving phone calls? Is a phone readily available?

10. What are the visiting hours? Is the resident allowed to visit friends and relatives outside the nursing home?

11. Where is the resident's money kept? Are there provisions for personal banking services? Are accurate records kept of residents' financial transactions?

12. Does each resident have his own closet and chest of drawers?

13. What is the capacity of the home? How many residents are presently there?

14. Are the residents encouraged to leave their rooms when able?

15. When was the last state or local inspection? You may want to see the most recent inspection report.

16. How often are fire drills held for staff and residents?

17. What types of activities are available to residents? Don't hesitate to ask to see the schedule of activities.

Easter Seal Campaign To Be Conducted Here

Television viewers tuning to KFDA Channel 10 on Saturday night, March 22, are in for an eye-dazzling introduction to Springtime, 1980, when Somers (Suzanne, that is) bursts forth as hostess of the National Easter Seal Telethon.

The blonde star of "Three's Company," the hit ABC-TV comedy series, went before the motion picture cameras in 1979 for her first two big screen starring roles. She did "Yesterday's Hero," then costarred with Donald Sutherland in "Nothing Personal," scheduled for release this spring.

The Easter Seal Telethon takes to the air the day after Suzanne completes filming of this year's episodes of "Three's Company," and precedes her first appearance in Las Vegas at the MGM Grand.

and continues until 6 p.m. Sunday.

KFDA's Tom York and Jody Carter, morning D.J. on Radio Station KIXZ will emcee local segments of the television spectacular for twenty minutes each hour, presenting important information on Easter Seal services in the Panhandle area.

In Hereford the Easter Seal pledge center will be set up at Lone Star Insurance Agency on Main St. Volunteers from the VFW, VFW Auxiliary, and Key Club will be answering phones and accepting pledges for the full 20 hour period. The pledge phone number in Hereford is 364-0555.

In the Panhandle area Easter Seals serves anyone with any kind of physical disability, regardless of cause. Services include purchase of orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, braces, and walkers; physical, occupational and speech therapy; and payment for transportation to therapy centers. A screening committee of health care professionals and volunteers from throughout the Panhandle meets monthly in Amarillo to determine patient services.

Deserted Pups Need New Homes

Six tiny five-week-old puppies, abandoned on a road south of Hereford, would have succumbed to a slow death by starvation if not found earlier this week by two Hereford women who were riding horses in the area.

Now, Diette Gillespie, 21, and Marji Johnston, 27, are trying to find homes for the abandoned pups. The five males and one female are Heinz 57 varieties, or "Hereford specials," as dubbed by one of their rescuers.

"They were all so weak from hunger that they could barely move when we found them," the young women said. "We feel like they were abused before they were abandoned." One of the puppies had small puncture wounds in his side, according to the pair.

The two who are now caring for the dogs cannot keep them permanently and will be forced to turn them over to the City Shelter if no one else wants them. Dogs given to the shelter are destroyed if not claimed or adopted within a limited time period.

The abandoned pups are understandably frightened after the "pure cruelty" inflicted on them, stated their protectors. "They need to go to good homes where they will get lots of love and attention."

Individuals interested in "adopting" one of the puppies are asked to call 364-6013 or 364-1356.

ACS Gives Revised Recommendations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Cancer Society, modifying its recommendations for cancer detection checkups, says annual chest X-rays, Pap tests and breast examinations no longer appear necessary for most people.

In announcing the changes Thursday, the society said it has determined the public can get the same benefits with greatly reduced costs and health risks by using the revised recommendations.

However, the society cautioned that the guidelines do not fit all individuals and urged people to consult their doctors about how the new suggestions relate to them.

Many doctors and patients have long used the private group's guidelines in scheduling checkups for the early detection of cancer. No other group, including the federal government, issues such guidelines.

Announcing the revised recommendations in New York and at a news briefing here, society officials stressed that the guidelines apply only to people with no cancer symptoms. Those with symptoms should see their doctors immediately, the officials said.

"These changes are based on updated information on the effectiveness, costs and risks of tests used for early detection of cancer," Dr. LaSalle D. Laffall, the immediate past president of the society, said at the briefing in Washington.

"About three years ago, the society was asked to update its recommendations because they didn't seem to be current based on the latest clinical and epidemiological data," said Laffall, chairman of surgery at Howard University Medical School.

The society revised its recommendations for tests for cancer of the lung, cervix, colon, rectum and breast after a study by Dr. David Eddy of Stanford University, which reviewed data on cost and effectiveness.

As a result, the society dropped its recommendation that people with a higher-than-normal risk of lung cancer get annual chest X-rays. These are people over age 40 who are heavy cigarette smokers or who work with known inhaled carcinogens, such as asbestos.

X-rays and sputum cytology tests, which look at mucus from the lungs, do detect lung cancer early. But studies indicate this early notice does not reduce mortality because present treatment isn't very effective, the society said.

Be a Friend, Have a Friend Love Overdone Smothers Child

By JOAN DWYER
Executive Director
Big Brothers-Big Sisters

Love should be a teaching, nurturing contribution. If, in fact, it is confused with protection the development of a child and his self-image will be smothered. If you try to do too much you can rob your children of his independence and cause him to be an emotional, and sometimes physical, cripple.

Knowing when and how to let go of your child and help him become independent is probably the most difficult task associated with being a parent.

Small beginnings (like not watching while they play on the "jungle gym") are important in paving the pathway to independence. Chore and specific responsibilities around the house, along with trust in their abilities to accomplish these are musts.

Let a kid make mistakes! All of us have a fear of our children getting hurt, but the only real way to learn is by experiencing life.

Do not interfere in their problems with other children or other authority figures. These will be taken care of quite well without you.

When a child makes a wrong choice, be available to help him understand what he could have done instead.

You can pick up clues as to how well you're doing in "loving" by asking your child what it is they do well and what they like about themselves. Hopefully, you'll discover that your child is not smothering.

Texas Briefs

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — An eight-year-old girl who had been sexually assaulted and left under a pile of rocks on a beach was in guarded condition at a hospital after her ordeal, police said.

Sgt. Howard Picard said Thursday the girl had been reported missing late Wednesday by her parents after she had gone to the beach to play.

Police searched the area Wednesday, Picard said, then returned Thursday morning and found the girl under some rocks after they heard her cries for help.

Three suspects are being questioned in connection with the incident.

HOUSTON (AP) — One of three doctors charged with illegally prescribing depressants has been sentenced to 120 days in prison and had the rest of his three-year prison term probated.

Dr. Luis E. Guerrero, 39, was sentenced Thursday after being indicted by a federal grand jury last August along with two other doctors.

Guerrero was convicted Feb. 19 on 12 counts of writing prescriptions without legitimate medical reasons. He was also ordered to perform community service for eight hours a week after serving his 120-day sentence.

Dr. Ben L. Lerner, 70, was sentenced to five years in prison on the same charges and Dr. William H. Andrew Jr. is awaiting trial.

HOUSTON (AP) — An incumbent state representative has filed a suit against his Republican opponent that alleges a corporation headed by the GOP candidate paid for his political ads.

"This is nothing but a bunch of political mudslinging," said Roland R. "Randy" Pennington of the suit filed by State Rep. Bill Caraway, D-Houston.

Caraway's suit claims Pennington violated state elections laws when Control Specialties, a business headed by Pennington, paid for radio campaign ads which have since been suspended.

The suit also alleges the company loaned Pennington $89,000, a claim Pennington denies.

The GOP hopeful for the Harris County District 100 seat says the radio ads were "public service announcements," not campaign ads, because his name was never mentioned.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 40-year-old woman fell to her death Wednesday from the 10th floor of a downtown office building.

A medical examiner pronounced Priscilla Young dead at the scene after she landed on a second floor overhang.

A construction worker across the street said he had seen the woman sitting in the window sill before the fall.

"I didn't think anything of it. I see people leaning but windows all the time," said Tom Marshall. "She leaned way out, then got up, came back, leaned out again and just let go."

The woman worked for a banking service in the building. Police said she was divorced.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Food and Drug Administration inspector says it is "probable" Mexican cucumbers sprayed with a toxic pesticide have entered the United States.

"It's probable because we can't check every load," FDA investigator Paul Thomson said four truckloads of cucumbers treated with the chemical EDRIN were stopped at the border almost a month ago.

The pesticide is banned for use on vegetables both in Mexico and the United States. Minute traces of the highly toxic chemical were discovered during laboratory tests in Dallas.

Further shipments have been halted from the suspect grower in the southwest Mexican state of Guerrero.

Possible dangers to consumers and markets possibly selling the treated cucumbers have not been determined.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tracor, Inc., has received a $5 million contract to continue its work on sonar and fire control systems for nuclear submarines and surface ships.

The contract came from Naval Sea Systems Command, Department of the Navy.

Approximately 85 Tracor sonar scientists, engineers and managers in five states — Texas, Maryland, Virginia, Connecticut and California — are involved in the program.

Headquarters for the work is Tracor's facility in Rockville, Md.

Tracor has headquarters in Austin.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has approved the sale of the locally owned Bank of Austin to a Dallas bank holding company.

Bank of Austin, the city's seventh largest financial institution, will become part of the Republic of Texas Corp. after a stock exchange worth about $7.6 million. Bank of Austin has deposits of $71 million.

The merger is subject to approval by Bank of Austin shareholders and regulatory authorities.

Republic already owns Texas Bank here, Austin's fifth largest bank.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rod Davis, former reporter for The Associated Press, KDFW-TV in Dallas and the Rocky Mountain News in Denver, has been named editor of the Texas Observer, a political journal.

Davis, 33, succeeds Jim Hightower, who resigned to run as a Democratic candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan will campaign in Dallas-Fort Worth and Longview on Tuesday.

Reagan's schedule calls for him to speak at a Dallas-Fort Worth airport rally at 1 p.m., with a 16-minute press conference to begin at 1:24 p.m.

At Longview, he will appear for 10 minutes at an airport rally at 4:30 p.m.; go to the Holiday Inn for another 10-minute rally at 4:50 p.m.

hold a 15-minute news conference beginning at 5:25 p.m.; and address the Longview Chamber of Commerce at 7 p.m.

Reagan's daughter, Maureen Reagan, will campaign for her father Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday she will be in Houston, Corpus Christi, Harlingen and San Antonio, and on Sunday she will be in New Braunfels, San Marcos and Austin.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Thursday Chevron Resources Co. has asked for permission to expand its Panna Maria uranium mining operation in Karnes County by 87 acres.

The commission said Chevron plans to construct two small ponds. Its surface mining permit now covers 2,900 acres.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Steve Robinson, former superintendent of Salado House in Austin, has been named administrator of the Texas Youth Council's Halfway House Program.

The program includes six facilities, with a seventh under construction in San Antonio and an eighth planned for East Texas.

The halfway houses are for delinquent youth committed to the council who do not require placement in an institution. The youth who reside in halfway houses attend public schools in their cities and are employed in the community.

Ghana

The African nation of Ghana is named after an earlier state that flourished along the Niger river between 800 and 1076 A.D. The modern nation covers 92,100 square miles, slightly smaller than the state of Oregon, with a population of some 10 million, principally members of the Adansi, Akwamu and Ga tribes. Ruled by Great Britain as the Gold Coast for 113 years, it was the first British African colony to be granted full independence, in 1951.

Sandies Rout Herd Unranked UCLA Pairs Off Against No. 20 Boilermakers

AMARILLO (Special) -- There was a lesson in futility in store for the Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team here Thursday as the Amarillo Sandies shed their moorings and cast off a four inning 17 hit attack which floundered the Whitefaces with a 23-2 defeat (its first loss in a three game winning streak).

"It was just one of those days--the kind you'd like to forget," said head coach David Ashby. "The Sandies are a good team and their record indicates that, but I don't feel like they were so good that we couldn't have beat them had we played like we're capable of." "It was just one of those times when we were at the wrong places at the right times for them, and they hit everywhere we weren't," he remarked.

Loss Ends Streak

The only two scores the Whitefaces were able to generate off Amarillo Pitcher Lester Scott (now 4-0 and with six HHS strikeouts to his credit in the five inning contest) in the lopsided contest came in the first and fourth stanzas.

Norman Hill landed on base after a Sandie error and then was batted in with a triple provided by hurler Ernie Suarez who in turn was thrown out as he tried to out-pace outfielders for another score.

The second and final HHS scoring display arrived in the fourth as the Sandies attempted a double play of a Whiteface grounder with the bases loaded and could only manage a force out on second.

But the two Hereford runs only teased the Sandies because at the close of the first, the Amarillo squad had compiled a tally of six runs across the plate, it followed with six more in the second, one in the third, and the game was put out of reach for HHS in the fourth after the Sandies delivered 10 more in that frame.

Sandie catcher Bill O'Neill and Todd Gower turned out to be the most hazardous Amarillo elements to Hereford's health in the feud as O'Neill drilled the Herd for two doubles, a triple and four runs batted in; while Gower did a little batting practice of his own with a triple and three singles good five runs knocked in.

The loss drops the Whitefaces to an overall 6-4 mark for the season.

"They just started drilling us with loopers right from the start and the more the game went on, the harder they hit," said Ashby. "We're just going to have to bounce back and win our next one like we were doing before."

The Whitefaces will pair off against the Palo Duro Dons Saturday at 1 p.m. and then are scheduled to meet Pampa, Tascosa and Canyon before the squads first district ballgame of the year against the Plainview Bulldogs Tuesday, April 1.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- UCLA Coach Larry Brown knows the tall task facing his Bruins if they plan to write another chapter in their Cinderella success story: Stop Joe Barry Carroll.

"Carroll is a dominating player, certainly the key man on their team," Brown said of Purdue's 7-foot-1, 245-pound All-America center. "The only player on the West Coast who compares to Joe Barry performs for the Lakers."

It may be exaggerating to rank Carroll alongside Los Angeles Lakers pivotman Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. However, how well the young Bruins meet the challenge Carroll presents will go a long way toward determining the outcome of Saturday's semifinal of the NCAA basketball championship between unranked UCLA, 21-9, and the 20th-ranked Boilermakers, 22-9.

No. 2 Louisville, 31-3, takes on unranked Iowa, 23-8, in the opener of Saturday's doubleheader before a sellout crowd of some 17,000 at Market Square Arena and a national television audience. The winners will meet for the title Monday night.

The first game will feature two of the premier guards in the nation, Louisville's Darrell Griffith and Iowa's Ronnie Lester.

The spotlight in the second game will be focused squarely on Carroll, who is regarded by most scouts as the one college senior capable of stepping into the pro ranks and turning a team around. He averaged 22.1 points and 9.1 rebounds per game during the regular season, and has picked those numbers up to 26.5 and 9.8 for his four NCAA tournament games so far.

Ex-Marquette Coach Al McGuire calls Carroll "an aircraft carrier." DePaul

Coach Ray Meyer describes him as "a skyscraper, the kind of guy who scores more points by accident than those little guys score on purpose."

And St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca, whose team was beaten by Purdue 87-72 in the Midwest Regional, says Carroll will need "a Brinks truck" when he turns pro. "Once he gets the ball down low," adds Carnesecca, "he's unstoppable."

Brown knows that all too well, and has designed his game plan accordingly.

"There's no doubt in my mind what the key to stopping Purdue is," he said. "We have to keep the ball from Carroll. Once he gets it, there's not much chance for us to stop him."

The problem is particularly acute for UCLA, whose starting center is 6-foot-6 sophomore Mike Sanders, one of the shortest regular pivots in the major college ranks.

But it was Brown's midseason decision to move Sanders, as well as freshman guards Rod Foster and Michael Holton, into the starting lineup that turned UCLA's season around. The Bruins, who struggled to an 8-6 start, went 13-3 with their new lineup of the young trio plus senior forwards Kiki Vandeweghe and James Wilkes.

"We went through some difficult times," said Brown. "We played a lot of people early. When we were 8-6 it was time we started building a foundation for the future. I decided to go with the kids because they deserved a chance to play."

And play they have, knocking off top-ranked DePaul in the second round of the tournament and outrebounding their four opponents 150-142.

"We've rebounded well all year," said Brown. "We have tremendous quickness and jumping ability inside. Our man-to-man defense gives each guy the responsibility for working hard on his man and blocking him out."

"But no one we've faced this year compares to Carroll."

Nevertheless, Purdue Coach Lee Rose isn't taking anything for granted. "I'm very impressed with their quickness, especially when they go to the boards," he said.

seek to extend its unbeaten streak against opponents from outside the Big Ten Conference. The Hawkeyes, who tied for fourth place in the conference with a 10-8 record, were 13-0 against outside foes.

Their success may hinge on the health of Lester, their 6-2 senior guard who missed 15 games because of a knee injury that still bothers him. Iowa was 15-1 this season with Lester, 8-7 without him.

"Our team plays well without Ronnie, but we play better with him," said Iowa Coach Lute Olson. "There is a feeling of security knowing No. 12 is out there. He is like a security blanket."

Louisville has a similar player in Griffith, an All-America who like Lester is his school's leading scorer. The 6-foot-4 Griffith averaged 22.6 points per game on .549 shooting and had 40 dunks, many of them flashy enough to explain the nickname Dr. Dunkenstein.

Celtics Beat Detroit, 124-106

By The Associated Press

Pete Maravich says, "I'm enjoying the game again," and that would seem understandable. The 31-year-old veteran has moved from the team with the National Basketball Association's third-worst record to the club that leads the pack.

"All I ever wanted to do was play basketball the way the Boston Celtics play it," he said Thursday night after scoring 20 points and helping the Celtics to a 124-106 rout of the Detroit Pistons.

"When I got here (from the Utah Jazz), I was physically and mentally exhausted. I wasn't really into the game of basketball very much."

But now, things are different. They were very different in another way Thursday night: rookie Larry Bird was not his usual sensational self in the Celtics' fourth consecutive victory.

"Of all the games this season, this is the one I'll remember because Bird proved he's human," observed Boston Coach Bill Fitch after Bird made just four of 14 field goal attempts, scored 11 points (10.5 under his average) and made eight turnovers.

"It wasn't his shooting, it was his passes, decisions on the floor, everything," said Fitch. "Until tonight, I had never seen him play a bad game. It was disappointing to see the fairy tale end."

In other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Houston Rockets 109-96, the Kansas City Kings beat the Denver Nuggets 121-105 and the Washington Bullets beat the Philadelphia 76ers 119-113 in overtime.

Boston's Dave Cowens scored 15 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and late in the game recorded his first career three-point basket.

The Celtics had eight players in double figures. Rookie Greg Kelsey scored 24 points for Detroit, which trailed by 18 after one period and never came closer than 12 the rest of the way.

Cavaliers 109, Rockets 96

Mike Mitchell scored 24 points, Randy Smith added 20 and Cleveland kept its playoff hopes alive by running its winning streak to seven games with the triumph over Houston.

The victory pulled the Cavaliers within three games of the Rockets in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot.

Robert Reid and Moses Malone led Houston with 19 points.

Kings 121, Nuggets 105

Phil Ford scored 25 points, all but two of them in the second half, to power Kansas City past Denver and lift the Kings within one-half game of first-place Milwaukee in the Midwest Division.

Haney said that Regional FCA Director, Mark Julian, is slated to attend the meeting and will help organize the adult FCA chapter.

In addition, plans will be discussed concerning the presentation of speaker Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, at the Regional Fund Raising Benefit which is scheduled for April 18th and which will be presented by all areas and regional FCA chapters.

Dallas Griddler Accused of Forging Roommate's Checks

DALLAS (AP) -- An attorney for Dallas Cowboy Mike Hegman will try to reimburse a bank for more than $10,000 the linebacker is accused of forging from a roommate's checkbook after four teammates chipped in $8,000.

But Hegman's playing future still remains up in the air and prosecutors say they will not dismiss forgery charges even if the money is repaid.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, middle linebacker Bob Breunig, safety Cliff Harris and running back Tony Dorsett each loaned Hegman $2,000 to help repay the bank.

Attorney Spencer Kopf said Breunig gathered enough from other sources to meet the $10,534.78 due the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

Hegman was indicted

Monday on charges accusing him of writing 27 checks for a total of $10,534 on the account of Chuck Mayhew between last September and last December. Hegman had shared a Dallas townhouse with Mayhew while Hegman and his wife were getting a divorce.

The indictment accused Hegman of forging Mayhew's name on 27 checks drawn on Mayhew's account.

Looking For A Job?

Pitching Salaries Make Job Appetizing

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Every kid at one stage in his life dreams of being a sports hero. America is full of Walter Mittys. Suppose you could rub an Aladdin's lamp and -- presto! -- be transplanted into the sports star of your wildest imagination, who would it be?

Would you want to be a Bjorn Borg, young and handsome, touring the tennis world at someone else's expense and accompanied by a harem? Or a Terry Bradshaw, with a pretty Olympic figure skater for a wife, throwing touchdowns for the champion Pittsburgh Steelers? Or a Jack Nicklaus, following the sun on a trail of golf birdies. Or a Muhammad Ali, winning the world with your fists and charms?

Take your pick -- then reconsider. The best job in the world must be that of a star relief pitcher in baseball.

Take Bruce Sutter... Just about the time spring training started, the 28-year-old "fireman" of the Chicago Cubs got an arbitration ruling in a salary dispute that raised his pay from $175,000 a year to $700,000.

Sutter is a short reliever. That means he comes into a game when there's little time left. In 1979, he pitched exactly 101 innings. If he does approximately the same amount of work in 1980, he will be paid at the rate of $7,000 an inning, give or take a few bucks.

Two pop flies to center and a ground out to short. "Okay, gimme $7,000." A strikeout, a walk, lineout to left and a fly to center. "Another $7,000, please." It's like working the night shift at Fort Knox without guards.

Take Al Hrabosky... Hrabosky works even shorter hours than Sutton. He hasn't pitched 100 innings a season since 1972 when he was with Arkansas. Last year his work sheet showed 65 innings pitched, the year before 75, the year before that 86.

His salary: $1.180 million a year. By recent standards, he will be earning between $13,000 and $17,500 an inning this year. This, statisticians say, makes the Mad Hungarian the highest paid, least worked and most overpaid varsity man in the game.

Hrabosky's contract accounts some of the financial peculiarities that have resulted from baseball's loss of the reserve clause and the advent of harrowing free agency.

The document is for $5.89 million, which assures the mustachioed reliever an income until 2014 although he is only committed to pitch five years.

Hrabosky has never in his life won 20 games and only once more than 10.

Carter Tries To Convince Athletes Boycott Is Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Carter has been trying to convince the nations of the world for the past two months that they should boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer. Today, he attempted to sell the idea to American athletes.

Carter has invited 100 athletes to the White House to discuss the reasons for his proposing the boycott and plans for alternative international games.

The athletes say they have been promised they will not merely be briefed on a boycott decision, which the administration said is "final and irrevocable."

"We understand that we will be given an opportunity to ask questions and express views...It is very important that this is not just a showcase for the administration to say, 'This is the way things are,'" said Anita De Franz, a 1976 Olympic bronze medalist who is a member of the Athletes Advisory Council of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"Since this thing began," she told the Washington Post, "why don't you talk to us?" This is our opportunity.

Edward Williams of New York, chairman of the 47-member council, said the regular meeting of the group was to be held in Chicago, but when the athletes asked the White House to send representatives, they were invited to Washington. "We accepted readily," he said.

In addition to the advisory council, representatives of national governing bodies of the various Olympic sports and several gold medal winners such as Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and television personalities Bruce Jenner and Donna de Varona also were to attend.

President Carter called for the boycott of the Moscow Games on Feb. 24 because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and has been trying to sell other nations on the idea.

The Carter administration's count of countries supporting the boycott has varied from week to week. There always have been more countries that have "indicated support privately" than endorsed the boycott publicly.

Despite the Carter administration's call for the boycott, the U.S. Olympic Committee has not formally voted to support the president, although USOC officials have said they will go along with his wishes.

A decision on sending American athletes to Moscow will be made by the USOC before May 24, the deadline for entries to the Games.

Fem Cagers Eye Crown LPGA's Carner Says She Still Has Chance In Tourney

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Four women's basketball teams from down South are "up in Michigan" and ready to start fighting tonight for the national collegiate championship.

Central Michigan's Rose Arena is the unlikely site of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women basketball finals.

"We've played all over the United States," said coach Pam Parsons of South Carolina, acknowledged underdog of the AIAW final four.

"We're not picky," Parsons added. "We'd play anywhere for the national championship."

The Lady Gamecocks, 29-5, will meet Tennessee, 32-4, in the opener.

Virginia's Old Dominion, defending champion and tournament favorite with a 35-1 record, a 25-game victory streak and three of the nation's top players, meets Louisiana Tech, 40-3, in the nightcap.

The two losers will meet in a consolation game Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Eastern time, followed by the title game at 4 p.m. to be televised nationally by NBC.

The skip-a-day scheduling avoids a conflict with the NCAA men's semifinals and finals, which will be staged Saturday and Monday in Indianapolis.

Central Michigan, located in a city that bills itself as "The Oil Capital of Michigan," was awarded the title tournament last year.

"I think it (the location) is inconvenient for the teams," Parsons said. "But I don't think anybody could predict that four teams from the southeast would get here."

The final four have survived a 24-team one-loss elimination tournament, with South Carolina the only member of the quartet not awarded a first-round bye.

Parsons, who once coached Old Dominion and recruited some of the Lady Monarchs' big stars, said she never figured to reach the finals with South Carolina, "but my players did."

"We've done some phenomenal feats this season," she said of her team, which has beaten Tennessee and Old Dominion once each.

South Carolina's second-leading scorer is freshman Evelyn Johnson, a native of nearby Lansing and the sister of Los Angeles Lakers' rookie star Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who led Michigan State to the NCAA basketball title a year ago.

Old Dominion is led by Nancy Lieberman, a 5-foot-10 point guard regarded in some quarters as the nation's top female player; 6-foot-5 center-forward Inge Nissen, a Dane with a 16.8 scoring average, and 6-foot-8 freshman center Anne Donovan, who averages 17 points and 18 rebounds a game.

Tennessee is making its third appearance in the final four but has lost twice this season to Old Dominion.

Louisiana Tech reached the finals with comfortable victories over Kansas and Long Beach State.

Freshmen Gain Starting Berths

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Two freshmen — Donald Sirles and Dewey Turner — have moved into the Texas starting lineup during spring football practice.

With the shift of Les Studdard to left tackle, Sirles, 6-foot-1 and 255 pounds, has moved up to No. 1 offensive right guard. Turner, 6-1 and 225, is at left defensive end.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — She may be tied for 45th and eight strokes back of leader Jo Ann Washam after 18 holes of the $200,000 LPGA National Pro-Am tournament, but JoAnne Carner is hardly counting herself out.

"There's still a lot of golf to be played, and eight shots isn't a lot to make up over 54 holes," Carner said Thursday after she struggled to an opening 76.

There might be a tendency to dismiss such optimism, but Carner has made the LPGA tour her own so far this year, winning four of the five tournaments she's entered — including the last three ladies' events.

Washam grabbed the first-round lead with a 4-under-par 68, followed by Janet Coles and Hollis Stacy at 70 and Cathy Morse and Donna Caponi Young at 71. Defending champion Nancy Lopez Melton was five strokes off the pace with a 73.

The first two rounds of the 72-hole event are being played on two courses, the 6,237-yard Desert Inn course and the 6,134-yard Paradise Valley Country Club course, both with par 72. The final two rounds on Saturday and Sunday will be played at the Desert Inn layout.

Only five of the 90 pro competitors were able to better par Thursday, as winds gusting to 40 miles per hour sent scores soaring in the afternoon. Eleven of the 13 scores at par or better were recorded at Paradise Valley, but most of the frontrunners shifted to the tougher Desert Inn course for today's second round.

Washam started early, missing the afternoon winds, and played Paradise Valley.

Casualties of the high winds included tournament favorites Carner, Amy Alcott and 1979 LPGA Rookie of the Year Beth Daniel. Alcott had a 79 and Daniel an 80 and both needed good second-round scores to make the cut.

Washam said she got an indication it might be a good tournament for her when she had a lucky streak at the gaming tables.

"I should have known I was going to have a good round," she said with a grin. "I kept hitting on 15 and 16 at blackjack, and I kept winning."

Melnik Co-Leader With 67

Erwin Ties for Lead In Tournament

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Hale Irwin, in a slump since winning the World Cup individual title last fall, says he has "bottomed out and I'm on the way up again."

He took a big step in the right direction Thursday with a wind-blown, 5-under-par 67 that put him in a tie for the lead with Steve Melnik after the first round of the Tournament Players Championship.

While their scores were the same, there was night-day difference in the conditions under which they were compiled.

"All I can say is that the fellows who played in the morning got one hell of a break," said Irwin, the U.S.

Open champion, who played the tough Sawgrass in afternoon winds that gusted to 20 mph.

"The conditions really were very difficult," he said.

But the morning half of the field — which produced 10 of the top 12 scorers for the day — played in absolute calm, which robbed the 7,000-yard Sawgrass layout of its traditional defenses — howling winds.

"Conditions were virtually perfect," Melnik said after completing his no-bogey morning round. "It was delightful. Obviously, it was not a Sawgrass day. The red numbers (indicating scores below par) just kept popping up."

But they popped up with much less frequency in the afternoon.

Danny Edwards shot a 68 in the afternoon winds. The other nine players at that figure all played in the morning calm. They were Lee Trevino, Ed Sneed, Ron Streck, Joe Inman, Mike Morley, George Burns, Curtis Strange, Bill Calfee and Peter Jacobsen.

Jack Nicklaus, a playoff loser to Ray Floyd last weekend in Miami, topped a group at 69.

"That's probably the best ball-striking round I've had this year," said Nicklaus, who is attempting to break a 20-month non-winning string. He's a three-time winner of this event that is billed as the annual championship of golf's touring players. The tournament, richest on the PGA tour, offers $440,000 in total prize money, with $72,000 to the winner.

Also at 69 were defending title-holder Lanny Wadkins,

British Open champion Seve Ballesteros and Tom Watson, the outstanding player in the game over the past three years and the only two-time winner this season.

Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller had a lost ball on the way to a 79. Veteran Don January scored a 9 on the fourth hole and finished with a 77. Andy Bean had a share of the lead until a triple-bogey 7 sent him reeling back into the pack. He finished with a 71.

Netter Friendship Ends At Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova and Billie Jean King are the best of friends, despite what happened Thursday.

"We are friends, but once we do play, we're out there for killing," Navratilova said after dissecting King 6-2, 6-1 to advance to the semifinals of the $300,000 women's tennis championships at Madison Square Garden.

Tonight, they will be on the same side of the net as they take on Kathy Jordan and Anne Smith in the doubles semifinals. The other doubles match will send Laura DuPont and Pam Shriver against Rosie Casals and Wendy Turnbull.

In singles, King attempts to remain in the battle for the title tonight when she meets Turnbull, with the loser being eliminated. Battling for the remaining semifinal spot will be Australia's Evonne Goolagong against Jordan.

Thursday night, Tracy Austin advanced to the semis by outlasting Goolagong 6-1, 4-6, 7-6; Jordan eliminated England's Virginia Wade 1-6, 6-3, 6-0, and Turnbull scored a walkover when South Africa's Greer Stevens had to withdraw with a severely sprained ankle.

Only Navratilova and Austin are undefeated in the double-elimination tourney.

King was in the match with Navratilova in only the first game, breaking the defending champion when Navratilova hit a forehand into the net.

"Plan A" was good," King said, "but Plan B was horrible."

"Plan A" was to receive after winning the toss and break Martina immediately. She accomplished that. "Plan B" was to hold her own serve and go up 2-0. That she failed.

It took Navratilova only 59 minutes to get revenge for her only defeat this year.

"I was really nervous tonight, especially after the way she cleaned up the court with me last time," Martina said. "I haven't been this psyched up for a match in a long time."

Austin and Goolagong clashed in the longest and best match of the tourney. It took the 17-year-old Austin 2 hours, 20 minutes to overcome the Australian.

Austin, runner-up in this tourney last year to Navratilova, easily won the first set. Then Goolagong's booming serve and spectacular retrieving allowed her to even the match.

In the third set, Goolagong went ahead 3-1 before Austin tied it 3-3. Each broke service to 4-4 before both held service, forcing a tiebreaker.

In the tiebreaker, Austin jumped in front 3-0, but Goolagong came back to tie it 3-3. Austin went ahead 6-3 and Goolagong fought back once again, narrowing the score to 6-4. But Austin finally closed out the match with a forehand that Goolagong never bothered to chase.

Jordan shook off her first-set 1-6 defeat to thoroughly dominate Wade in the next two sets. She needed only 23 minutes to take the deciding set 6-0.

FAITH DEFLECTS US FROM THE EVILS OF GOSSIP

Everyone is aware of the irreparable harm that can be caused by the spreading of tales about our neighbor, and yet the temptation to do so is often difficult to resist. It is an unfortunate facet of human nature to relish any kind of scandal or sensational story, even though it may be entirely untrue or, at best, greatly exaggerated. However, faith leads us away from this ugly habit, and encourages us instead to look for the good in our fellow human beings. Go to your Church, where you will learn that telling the good things about others will make you look better, and you will be a lot happier as a result of it.

"The words of a talebearer are as wounds."
— Proverbs 26:22

We should say nothing of a person in his absence that we should be unwilling to say if he were present.

— Noah Webster
