BASKETBALL MEET TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Discuss Auction Sales For This County

Citizens Meeting
Is Called Friday
To Discuss Plans
Will Serve Farmers
Of Dawson County

A called meeting of business men and citizens of Lamesa has been called for nine o'clock Friday morning for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of holding regular auction sales in Lamesa for Dawson County citizens.

The auction sales are meeting with much success in other West Texas towns and it is felt by many that such a movement in this county would not only meet with the hearty approval of the entire citizenship, but should prove of much financial benefit as well.

A committee from the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, composed of W. K. Crawley, Carl Rountree and A. G. Bearden, mailed out more than three hundred cards to citizens of the town and county this week, inviting them to the meeting and to join in the discussion.

It is believed by many that this would be one of the greatest things that could be secured for the town and county.

City Secretary's Office To Close At Noon On Saturday

Done In Cooperation
With Utility Concerns

Announcement is made this week by City Secretary Blaine Wiggins, to the effect that the City Office, beginning this week, will close at 1 p. m. on Saturday, instead of staying open until the every day closing hour of 5 o'clock.

This is done as a cooperative move with the utility concerns of the city. Under the new wage and hour law, it will enable the Texas Electric Service Company and the West Texas Gas Company to comply with the law with a great deal less trouble by closing the business offices at noon each Saturday. It was necessary that the city cooperate, before the others could close.

Mr. Wiggins stated that the office would remain open through the noon hour, thus enabling those who only have the noon hour off, to transact their business at that hour.

The cooperation of the people of Lamesa is asked, not only by the city secretary, but by the utilities companies as well.

LINDLEY DRUG ARE TO OCCUPY
NEW QUARTERS

Announcement is made this week by O. P. Lindley, owner and manager of the Lindley Drug Company, of this city, to the effect that they would move their store March 1st, from the Myers Building on the north side of the square.

The Broughton buildings on North First street, which are practically completed will house the store after that date, he said. They will occupy the building on the east.

This store opened for business here about a year ago.

Watch the Courier for more detailed announcement to be released at a later date.

Buster Herndon and Mrs. Mattie Herndon accompanied Miss Mozelle Herndon to Abilene, Tuesday, where she will enroll in a beauty school.

Lamesa Is Offered Chance To Join West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League

DAW-TEX WELL IS DELAYED BY WATER IN HOLE

The Daw-Tex test well being drilled ten miles north of Lamesa is preparing to resume drilling after a shut-down this week due to casing seat failing to hold when the second string of casing was set. The water from below backed up and filled the hole half full of water.

The hole is being cleaned out and preparations are being made to cement the casing at 4369 feet when drilling will be resumed.

They have been drilling in line for the past four hundred feet and have struck no sulphur water, according to G. Lester Guinn, president of the company.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ely and C. E. Lewis of Denver, vice-president and secretary respectively of the Daw-Tex Company, were in Lamesa last week looking over the company's property.

DEMONSTRATION ON FINER FOODS
AT NEW STORE

Sanders Grocery Store, this week are announcing a mammoth food demonstration at their store on the corner of South First and Katherine streets.

They will serve free coffee at their store all day Saturday. Monarch Brand Foods will be demonstrated, according to a large ad they have in this issue of the Courier.

This store has only recently completed a new building at this site. They were formerly in the down-town area, where the store was known as the City Grocery and Market.

Look up their ad and plan now to attend this demonstration.

CARNETT RADIO WILL HANDLE GE
REFRIGERATORS

Announcement is made this week by W. H. Kugle, manager of Carnett's Radio Store in Lamesa, that they are now Lamesa dealers for General Electric Refrigerators.

This firm has stores in Lamesa, Big Spring and Midland, and the GE line has been added at each store, he stated.

You will find their announcement ad in this issue of the Courier.

SICK FARMER
PLOW HIS LAND

When E. W. Reithmayer was taken to a local hospital a few days ago seriously ill, friends and neighbors in the Sparenberg community got together and decided to assist him by taking care of his farm work for him.

Forty men with tractors gathered at the Reithmayer farm Tuesday of this week and put up his land for him.

This is the second event of this kind that has been staged in Dawson county during the past few weeks, and is one of the characteristics of the farmers of this area. When a brother farmer is unable to take care of his farm work, they merely gather with their tractors and do the work for him.

Those who witnessed this event, stated that it was a sight worth while to see forty tractors all plowing in one field at one time.

Mr. Reithmayer is still confined to the hospital here.

Plan Is Offered For Financing Affair

A meeting was called last Thursday afternoon in the District Court Room, for the purpose of discussing the possibility of Lamesa entering the West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League.

Due to the inclement weather, only a small group met. The plan, as explained at the meeting, is for the citizens of Lamesa to erect a ball park and grandstand, put in lights, hire a manager and put up $500 guarantee for players salary. According to figures released at that time, the grandstand and park would cost approximately $2,000, the lights $2,000, only a part of which would have to be put up in cash, and the $500 for the players guarantee, is the necessary amount of cash which would have to be raised by the citizens of the town and county.

The plan suggested to raise the necessary amount, was by the sale of shares in the club at one dollar each, thus enabling anyone who so desired to participate, regardless of how small or how large the amount they wanted to subscribe.

Although as yet no definite sales have been made on the stock, there has been some pledges received and it is understood that a concerted drive will be made within a short time to determine whether the money may be raised or not.

It is pointed out, that Lamesa is welcome in the league and the only restrictions are that a place be provided and this five hundred dollar player guarantee be posted.

If Lamesa enters the League and plans for other entries go through, it will be an eight club league, instead of the six-club affair of last year. The tentative, although not authentic line up of towns is Clovis, Lubbock, Amarillo, Pampa, Lamesa, Big Spring, Midland and Sweetwater.

MAMMOTH SALE
OPENS FRIDAY
AT FAIR STORE

Attention is called to the large ad in this issue of the Courier for the Fair Store in Lamesa.

They are opening Friday morning, what is termed, a terrific savings event and are offering some exceptional values.

The commercial department of the Courier printed several thousand circulars this week for the same firms to be used by their stores at Snyder, Odessa and Monahans.

SISTER'S WAY THRU SCHOOL IS PAID BY LAD

Elwyn Scitern, 12, of the Klondike community in this county, made enough money last year from the sale of cows to send his elder sister to college.

His mother started him in the cattle business when he was only eight years old by giving him a heifer calf. He has been very successful with them since that time.

Although he has only one cow at the present time, she gave birth to twin calves on February 1st.

According to his father he has raised the cattle by himself without any help at all.

Mrs. Bill Upton of Slaton has accepted a position at Ruby's Beauty Shop.

Time for the mobilization is not definitely known, but local scoutmasters will be notified and they will in turn notify the Scouts. At the same hour over the entire United States all Boy Scouts will mobilize. Each troop will be judged on attendance and whether the scout is in regulation uniform or not.

Some of the troops in Lamesa plan to attend church in a body Sunday. Churches which they will attend had not been selected today.

WEAVER'S NURSERY

SIDELIGHTS

By Marvin Jones
Chairman, House Committee on Agriculture

Much has been done during the last six years in behalf of agriculture. The total average farm income has been greatly increased. The farm program is not a bill. It is a movement. It involves the tariff, freight rates, low interest credits, new markets. The various bills are but steps in that movement.

I feel that some improvements can be made in the regular farm program. FIRST. The allotments should be made known much earlier so that the farmer can make his plans prior to preparation for seeding.

SECOND. The payments should be made much more promptly. These two administrative changes would help materially.

THIRD. The benefit payments to farmers might be based on the lease of a definite percentage of the tilled acreage of each farm and conditioned on soil-building crops and practices on such leased land.

The payments might be conditioned on proper diversification rather than the use of the one crop system.

This would place the program more fully on a soil conservation basis. Not only would the leased land thus be treated but the rotation of crops brought about on the remaining part of the land would further conserve and build up and prevent wastage of the soil. At the same time, the farmer would be left free in the pitching of his crops and the operation of the program would be greatly simplified.

More emphasis should be placed upon wider distribution, both at home and abroad, and freight rate discriminations should be corrected.

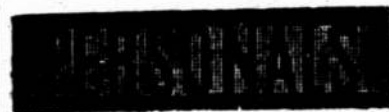

Every effort should be made to secure for the American farmer his just share of the national income.

It is generally agreed that only minor changes will be made in this year's program. However, within the next few weeks, hearings will begin before the House Committee on Agriculture in reference to any major changes that may be found advisable in connection with the long-range program. Such changes will not be made effective before 1940.

These hearings will be thorough. Every member of the committee is anxious to improve the program in every way possible. We hope that from these hearings, definite improvements can be worked out.

We not only expect to devote our time at this session but to continue our efforts in the next and succeeding sessions to bring the farmers returns as nearly as possible to the level of industry.

Much progress has been made, and the movement must go on.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first, by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design which has more than three thousand sharp-edged angles that grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and to assure a safe stop.

Fine Arts Program Monday Night Is Well Presented

On Monday evening the music lovers of Lamesa were afforded the privilege of hearing Alice Mock, lyric coloratura soprano, who proved herself to be an artist of sincerity and intelligence.

Miss Mock was formerly of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and for her operatic arias she chose Puccini's "Musetta's Waltz from La Boheme" and "Ah, fors' e lui" from Traviata. The later was featured by Miss Mock in the screen production "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," with Shibley Boyes who appeared jointly with Miss Mock as an accompanist.

Miss Mock chose for her second group, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Serenade Orientale, The Nightingale and the Rose," which displayed the pleasing lyrical quality of her voice.

"Tes Yeaux," by Rabey, which is always a "sure fire" on the concert stage was well received in this group. It was in "Cadina," by Lenormand, that Miss Mock proved the artist's ability to project the inner meaning of her song.

The fourth and last group of English songs began with Deems Taylor's "Spring in Town" taken from his group of "Scenes in Manhattan." Martin Shaw's "Palanquin Bearers," was given with a charming delicacy. Other numbers in this group were Richard Hageman's "Do Not Go, My Love," and Bridge's "Oh, That It Were So." Strauss' "Vienna Woods Waltz," concluded the artists program to be followed by another waltz as an encore.

Miss Mock was indeed fortunate to have as her accompanist, Shibley Boyes, who proved in every number the ability to perfectly support her, never for one projecting the piano over the voice. Miss Boyes was given a chance to display her artistry as a pianist when she gave a Brahms waltz and two Chopin preludes.

After the program the artists were entertained by Mrs. Noble H. Price who had invited musical friends to meet them.

LAMESA, TEXAS

What Does the Future Hold for The Smaller Towns in Texas?

What must inevitably be the fate of the small towns and communities in Texas?

This question is being asked in literally hundreds of interior places over the state where today "For Rent" signs clutter the windows of numbers of empty business buildings. It is a question of increasingly serious importance not only to these small towns and communities, but to the state as a whole.

These once busy places of community life, around which has largely grown the progressive development of Texas, are being dried up by the operation of heavy trucks over our highways. Their local business firms and enterprises, the dry goods, hardware, drug and fruit and vegetable stores, retail lumber yards, wholesale grocery houses, bottling plants, feed mills, oil mills, grain elevators and cotton compresses are unable to meet the competition of the larger business centers because of the almost unrestricted and promiscuous use of Texas highways in the delivery of goods by trucks from the larger cities holding the quantity-purchase advantage.

The absorption and manipulation, in varying degree, of the cost of transportation by highway for competitive purposes, if not restricted, will inevitably drive dealers and wholesalers in the smaller towns and communities out of business. They must succumb to the inequality of opportunity with which they are burdened and thus contribute further to our growing economic chaos.

The plan now being made by certain interests to increase the load limit on trucks operating over Texas highways will hasten the end of local enterprises in smaller Texas communities. If under the present statutes harm already has been done the small town merchant and property owner, what then must be the effect of any increase in the allowable truck load limit? Certainly the larger the load limit the greater will be the distance over which goods can be hauled from the larger distributing centers, and the greater will be the harmful effects on dealers and enterprises in the smaller towns!

The burden of taxation borne by the business interests of the smaller towns and communities throughout Texas will, as a natural result, be shifted more and more to the shoulders of the remaining property owners. Those who have invested in homes and business buildings must sacrifice their investments to what some might mistakenly call "the march of progress."

The thousands of families, for so many years dependent upon employment by these business enterprises as a means of livelihood, must be forced to the cities in quest of work, and falling in that add further to our burden of relief and unemployment!

Invaded by long distance truck operations on the traffic of the railroads must necessarily result in the abandonment of more and more railroad mileage, with consequent loss of payroll and taxes to these communities and an increase of tax burdens to their citizens.

Texas Railroads, who seek no favors and advantages, but who willingly pay their own way to render efficient, dependable and economical service to Texas communities, have felt the ill effects of unfair and subsidized competition in the same way and measure as the small town business men and, in the interest of our mutual preservation, join with them in urging that existing legal truck load limits be not increased!

FARM INCOME FALLS SHORT IN DECEMBER

Cash income received by farmers of Texas during December totaled only $22,932,000, exclusive of Federal subsidies, as compared with $27,941,000 in December, 1937, Dr. F. A. Buechel, business statistician at the University of Texas said this week.

Income last December was only 86.3 per cent of the average for that month during the five years from 1928 to 1932, inclusive, the economist said. On the other hand, the December, 1937, income was 105.2 per cent of the five year average.

Receipts from farm products increased somewhat in relation to November income, however. The November index was 73.3.

For the entire year 1938, the farm cash income in Texas, computed by the University Bureau of Business Research, of which Dr. Buechel is assistant director, was $403,675,000. This compares with $536,528,000 in 1937. Government payments to Texas farmers amounted to $68,814,000 in 1938, or almost double the $36,010,000 paid in 1937.

COLLOIDS TO BE STUDIED THIS SPRING

Whether you know it or not, you eat colloid particles with every bite of every meal. For colloid particles, tiny organisms which escape even the eye of the microscope, are active in all food.

It is the behavior of these organisms with which a class of more than one hundred students at the University of Texas will be concerned this spring in a new course of Colloid Chemistry, to be taught by Dr. Judson Swearingen, newly appointed professor of chemistry.

Colloids in the human blood stream and those which busy themselves in the making of paper and tanning of leather will be part of the study.

BLACK CATTLE ARE ANCESTORS OF LONGHORNS

Coal black cattle, clean-limbed and with white horns, were the early—and expensive—ancestors of the famed Texas Longhorn, J. Frank Dobie, University of Texas English professor and Southwest lore expert, informs readers of the January Southwestern Historical Quarterly issued at Austin. The black cattle have counterparts in some bull rings today, he points out. The plainsmen, he says, described these black cattle as having horns set forward to kill, like the buffalo's.

The influence of masonry on Mexican history, discussed by Lillian Estelle Fisher, a continuation of Colonel M. L. Crimmin's report of the Military Department of Texas in 1856; an article by D. L. Kokernot on the three-ships navy of the Texas revolution; and a Texas natural history feature describing a 640-acre Wood county pigeon roost of the 1850's are also included.

The annual meeting of the Texas State Historical Association will be held in Austin, April 28-29.

RADIO LIBRARY UNIVERSITY'S SPRING PLAN

Forerunning what is planned as a strong library on radio education, the University of Texas has started a collection of manuals, scripts and other materials on this subject. Courses on radio education will be given in the summer school of 1939 by A. L. Chapman, graduate of the University, who is spending the current year in study at Eastern universities and broadcasting studios as holder of a General Education Board fellowship.

A number of special bulletins from the United States Office of Education, Ohio School of the Air, the radio division of Ohio State University, and the public schools of Chicago and Cleveland has been added to the textbook and curriculum collections of the University School of Education.

EVOLUTION THEORY IS DEBUNKED

The University of Texas anthropology museum has put man and the giant ape side by side and found the fallacy in the doctrine that man descended from the monkey.

Two skeletons, one of a negro man, the other of a chimpanzee, are displayed in the museum on the top floor of Waggoner Hall. The differences between them are pointed out by museum authorities.

"The important differences between man and the great apes pertain mainly to the size of the brain and the locomotor habits," Dr. J. Gilbert McAllister, director, said. "Man is not 'up from the ape' though in bone structure, muscles, organs and pathology, there is but a difference of degree not kind."

Listing some of the differences between man and the chimpanzee, gorilla or other ape, Dr. McAllister pointed out that man has a much larger brain, less facial protrusion, a pronounced chin, a flatter chest.

Man does not have interlocking canine teeth as do the giant apes, his cervical vertebrae do not "bristle," his spinal column has an "S" curve, his leg bones are longer and stronger, his pelvis is more basin shaped, he does not have an opposable big toe.

More conclusive than anything else that man did not descend from the monkey, however, is man's culture, Dr. McAllister declared.

"It is this social heritage of languages, beliefs, customs, morals, techniques, that marks the greatest difference between man and the giant apes," he said.

Both skeletons were reconstructed by Dan Bussey of Timpson, a University pharmacy student, as a National Youth Administration project.

EXHAUST FUMES IS HANDICAP TO USE OF DIESELS

Use of Diesel engines can be expanded greatly if their exhaust fumes can be rid of objectionable odors, it is believed and a University of Texas engineering student has undertaken to do the job.

Rudolph Bodemuller, young graduate student from Nederland, is conducting tests in the University's engineering laboratories to determine what mixtures and treatment Diesel fuel must undergo to allow an odorless exhaust gas. Because of fumes from the exhaust, current laws prohibit use of the engines within many city limits and inside of tunnels.

Young Bodemuller ridiculed the popular notion that the Diesel loses an exhaust gas containing carbon monoxide gas, a poison. If successful, his experiments might lead to popular use of the oil burning engine in automobiles, he believes.

Dr. Cox Says:

Austin, Texas.—Announcement was made today by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, of the twenty-first Annual Water Works and Sewage Short School to be held at A. & M. College February 13 through 17.

The school is held under the auspices of the Texas Division of the American Water Works Association, the State Board of Health and Texas A. & M. College, for the training of water works and sewage plant operators in the technical phases of the professions.

The curricula of the school is divided into three sections, water, sewage, and laboratory.

In selecting lecturers to present the technical lectures special attention has been given to secure men who were best informed and able to present the information in the most beneficial manner, Dr. Cox stated.

The laboratory courses will be under the direction of J. J. Hinman, associate professor of sanitation at the University of Iowa, nationally known in this field. Instruction will be given in the various laboratory tests connected with water and sewage treatment and practical experiments will be performed by the attending operators.

A. & M. College has announced special rates for attending operators whereby they may live in the dormitories and take their meals at the mess hall. Operators may live also at the several Bryan and College Station hotels or tourist camps.

J. L. Horner, of Henderson, president of the Association, predicts that this will be the biggest and best school ever held. "All cities are urged to take advantage of this opportunity of sending their water plant and sewage plant operators to A. & M. College for one week, during which time they will receive instruction that will permit them to serve the city with a higher degree of efficiency," Mr. Horner said.

S.C.S. NOTES

Soil and water conservation practices paid for themselves in increased production the first year they were used on the 180-acre farm of J. W. Duncan, two miles northwest of Shallowater. That was in 1937. Last year, the practices proved to Duncan that it is possible to produce fair crops upon half the normal moisture. Meanwhile, the use of conservation practices is enabling Duncan to place his farm upon a more sound economic basis.

Duncan's farm has been in cultivation for many years. Solid planting of cotton in straight rows had resulted in considerable damage from both wind and water erosion when the Soil Conservation Service CCC camp was established near Littlefield in 1935. Duncan observed the practices being demonstrated closely, and became one of the first cooperators.

In the fall of 1936, level, wide-based terraces were constructed on the 160-acre field to hold the water on the land where it fell. Sudan grass was broadcast on the new structures to strengthen them against damage from wind or water. Border strips of Sudan also were planted around the field as further protection against soil blowing. Duncan then strip cropped his entire field, alternating 32 rows of cotton with 24 rows of grain sorghums. Moisture conditions in 1937 were excellent in the Shallowater area.

"The terraces more than paid for their cost the first year," Duncan declares. "The structures doubled the cotton and grain sorghum yields on portions of the field where water was backed up behind the terraces. My kafir produced 100 tons of ensilage from 15 acres after I had left an eight inch stubble on the field to furnish protection against soil blowing during the period of high winds."

"In 1938, my field received barely half as much moisture as in 1937," Duncan says. "However, moisture stored in the soil by the terraces and contour tillage during the preceding year enabled me to obtain uniform stands and carried the crops through to maturity. I harvested a half bale of cotton to the acre and about six tons of ensilage to the acre from the sorghum strips."

Cotton provides Duncan with a cash crop. In addition, he raises horses, mules and jacks to which he feeds the sorghums grown on his land. This plan, he believes, gives him a greater return for his feed than if it were placed on the market.

While improving his yields, Duncan also has checked erosion on his farm. Protective stubble prevented damage from wind erosion last year and is expected to do the same during the blow season this winter and spring.

In connection with the complete erosion control program on his farm, Duncan planted a field windbreak of Chinese Elms and mulberries in the Spring of 1937. The seedlings were cultivated frequently but did not receive any additional water. By the close of the 1938 growing season the trees had attained an average height of 10 feet and will be of some value as a wind-break next year. Duncan plans to add a row of pine trees to the windbreak in the spring.

Many farmers of the Southern Great Plains expect to improve materially conditions and income on their land this year by development of water resources in connection with the water facilities program of the Department of Agriculture, according to W. R. Watson, water facilities administrator for the Soil Conservation Service.

The program, which is being carried out by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with the Farm Security Administration and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, enables farmers in certain areas to obtain loans and technical assistance in the development of small irrigation systems, small dams, stock water ponds, windmills, water diversion and other phases of water utilization.

Areas for water facilities development already have been set up in the Texas Panhandle on the Rita Blanca-Major Long's Creek drainage basin in Dallam, Hartley and Oldham counties with offices at Dalhart; on Mustang, Monument and Sulphur Draw drainage basins in Andrews, Gaines, Dawson, Terry and Yoakum counties, with offices at Lamesa, and on the Coldwater-Palo Duro drainage basin in Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Moore and Ochiltree counties with offices at Spearman.

Additional areas for such development in Texas now are being planned, Watson reports.

As an example of what may be accomplished through the development of small irrigation projects, Watson cites the experience of Harold Gibson, in the Oklahoma Panhandle where drought has been severe for several years.

Gibson, whose farm is located near Hardesty in the Palo Duro Creek area, where the water level is about eight feet below the surface, has developed his project without aid. In 1936, two wells approximately four feet in diameter were drilled to a depth of 22 feet. Two similar wells were drilled in 1937, but the water bearing sand in one of them was not sufficient to justify development. The three wells have been connected with a battery setup so all can be pumped at the same time. A two and one-half inch centrifugal pump is used with power being transmitted by a flat belt from a used four-cylinder automobile engine. Seven gallons of ordinary gasoline operate the engine for 10 hours. The wells and machinery cost $800.00, Gibson says.

Operation and repairs during the three years the irrigation system has been in operation have totaled $122.

Tomatoes, okra, turnips, cucumbers, watermelons, cantaloupes and other vegetables have been grown on the irrigated plot. Each year the family has consumed about $125 worth of produce grown on the irrigated land. The other produce has been marketed at the farm or through local stores.

In 1936, one and a half acres were irrigated and the income from sales was $200. In 1937, three acres were irrigated and the income was $300 despite a $200 loss from a flood. Last year, the income from five acres was approximately $500.

During the three years, in addition to providing much of the family foodstuffs, income from the project has paid all costs of installation and operation, Gibson declares.

This year, he plans to double the capacity of his 28,000 gallon earthen storage reservoir to permit irrigation of additional land which will be used for growing alfalfa and other feed to be utilized by livestock.

Poultry, hogs and milk cows kept on the farm, with vegetables from the irrigated plot, have enabled Gibson to produce practically all foodstuffs needed and to operate his land at a profit while others in the area were showing a loss during drought years.

Gibson's irrigation project is an example of what other farmers in areas where soil and water conditions are favorable can do through the development of water resources. Watson declares.

Soil and water conservation structures of standard design likely will be made more efficient in their purpose of water retention and diversion within the next few years as a result of rainfall studies now being carried on in the vicinity of Vega and in 19 other areas throughout the country, according to P. C. Bennett, manager of the Soil Conservation Service project at that place.

When the Service started the soil and water conservation program in the Southern Great Plains a few years ago there was no definite information about rainfall intensity and the resulting run-off from various slopes and types of soil, facts which are essential in the proper designing of all water retention and diversion structures. This lack of essential information was due mainly to the small number of recording rain gages in this section of the country, Bennett says.

Much time had been spent in the study of floods on large streams and of run-off from somewhat smaller drainage areas used as a source of water for municipalities. However, little study had been made of run-off on small agricultural areas which directly influences the design and use of storage and diversion structures suited to the average farm.

Since information about rainfall and run-off in this area was only general in nature, it was necessary to combine field observations and logical deductions with the meager available data to obtain a basis for much of the design and construction work. Therefore, it is likely that some of the early conservation structures installed were designed larger, because of this lack of information, than may prove necessary in order that they might be safe, the project manager points out.

Realizing that data in addition to the amount and intensity of rainfall are essential in designing water retention and diversion structures, the Research Division of the Soil Conservation Service has set up the 20 projects to measure accurately rainfall

DR. J. L. McCAMY IS PROMOTED

Dr. James L. McCamy, University of Texas graduate in government, has begun duties as assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace. His appointment became effective the first of this month.

intensity and run-off on small agricultural areas throughout the country. Two of these projects are located in the Southern Great Plains, one at Vega and the other at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Construction of the Vega project, which consists of three study areas, was completed in the spring of 1938. The study areas were selected as representative of various soil and slope conditions in the Texas Panhandle, two being located on grass land and the other on wheat land.

Data from the two range land plots is expected to provide all needed information for designing spillways for stock water dams in the Canadian River breaks and on similar broken land, and on the more gently rolling ranges. Data from the wheat land study is expected to assist materially in designing terrace systems and other water conservation structures on cultivated fields.

Each of the study areas includes one or more rainfall measuring stations and a concrete weir for determining the rate and amount of run-off. The rainfall measuring stations are equipped with a standard U. S. Weather Bureau rain gage and a recording rain gage. The standard gage serves as a check against the recording instrument, so, even though the mechanism might fail to function, the total amount of rainfall is shown.

of Agriculture Henry Wallace. His appointment became effective the first of this month.

SALVATION OF FARMERS WILL BE LIVESTOCK

Raising of livestock or turning the farm into an industrial plant seem to be the alternatives facing Texas farmers, Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas Business Research Director, declared this week.

Industrial wages have doubled in the last 25 years, but prices paid farmers for their principal crops—cotton, corn and wheat—have sunk to less than half what they received a quarter of a century ago, he pointed out.

Cotton, still the South's chief money crop, brings only 54 per cent of the average price it brought between 1909 and 1914, the economist said. Corn is only 49 per cent of the parity price for that five year period; wheat 47 per cent, and peanuts 55 per cent.

The livestock industries have fared better. Beef cattle prices are 96 per cent of the 1909-14 average; hogs, 80 per cent; butter fat, 71 per cent; wool, 88 per cent; chickens, 93 per cent, and eggs, 75 per cent.

"Judged on the basis of prices the major alternative in agriculture seems to be more livestock," Dr. Cox pointed out. "On the other hand, the higher prices in the animal industries are the result in no small degree of droughts."

"The other major alternative is greater industrial and commercial development. Industrial wages are about 200 per cent of 1909-14, and prices of most industrial products are also well above the 1909-14 level."

Texas farmers will receive $300,000,000 less from sale of cotton and cottonseed for their 1938 crop than they did before the depression, he predicted. Exports, which take nine out of ten Texas-produced bales, are only half what they were in 1927-29.

John Allen left Sunday for Amarillo where he will attend a hardware convention.

Six Dawson County Women Are Honored By Farm Security Administration Head

HOMEMAKERS RECEIVE PRIZES

By Ruth Magee, FSA Home Supervisor

Honored homemakers for Dawson County are Mrs. Ora Dunsworth, Star Rt. 4, Lamesa, Mrs. Morris Martin, Mtr. Rt. D, Lamesa, Mrs. T. L. Parker, Mtr. Rt. B, Lamesa, Mrs. V. E. Towns, Mtr. Rt. D, Lamesa, Mrs. Abe L. Furlow, Rt. 1, O'Donnell, Mrs. D. G. Mitchell, Mtr. Rt. D, Lamesa, among the Farm Security Administration borrowers.

They made sixty per cent of their living at home.

They have received certificates bearing red ribbons from the state supervisor, Ruby DeLong Matthews, to attest to their merit.

Eighty-nine families in West Texas reached the blue ribbon class; and 125 the red ribbon of 60 per cent living. Many excellent homemakers were handicapped by lack of sufficient vegetables for canning.

To reach the 75 per cent mark, the homemaker must have canned at least 100 quarts of vegetables per person in the family, Mrs. Matthews says. Other requirements are 20 quarts of fruit per person; two hogs to butcher, one beef to can, 50 hens and the raising of 150 baby chicks, and a good record book of income and expenses.

The 60 per cent mark is reached by those who use 80 cans of vegetables per person, 15 quarts of fruit per person, with other requirements slightly lower.

One of the first avenues toward more secure living for farmers is the building up of a live at home program, Mrs. Matthews points out.

"We hope to have every farm family in West Texas in the blue ribbon class in a few years."

Encouragement of building of cold frames for early spring use is one of the methods by which Mrs. Matthews hopes to raise the number of families with a 75 per cent record of living at home. She gives the following instructions:

Have the frames built on the south side of the house or other windbreak, any length desired, but not over four or five feet wide (this so it can be cultivated without stepping in it.)

The walls should be about 12 inches high, and can be made without cost by using scraps of old lumber, tow sacks, and is for the dual purpose of keeping out the cold and avoiding the hazards of high winds.

Have cover so it will roll back, and on warm days roll it back so the garden may have the benefit of the sun, but cover it again at night.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

There is a new process by which, through use of a supremely thin coating, glass may be made invisible. The only way in which one can tell he is looking through a pane of new-processed glass such as this, we are told, is by seeing the dim outlines of its edges.

Also, which seems more important to us, such glass is reported to be devoid of glare. Now that is something, in this day of long drives against blinding daylight or headlights of other cars.

A laurel crown to the makers of the new transparency! The world moves on—and upward, as well.

Why is it that it is never so easy to learn to sew as one would think from reading advertisements of various sewing schools, sewing machines, and pattern makers? Or maybe we're just the individual whose fingers are more like thumbs than those of the average learner.

Anyway, despite spasmodic fits of industry with the sewing machine extending over a period of years, we still find ourselves far from expert at making those little dresses which the copy writers blithely assure you can be "run in an hour."

The hour usually stretches into three or four days, where we are concerned, and the dress becomes a somewhat blurred copy of the clean-lined garment attempted by the time we've finished the task.

But for all our lack of easy skill, there are times when it is more fun to attempt making a dress or blouse than to do anything else in the world. By which we are convinced that Mother Eve really enjoyed the task when she sewed up those fig leaves.

A GREATER RURAL PEOPLE BY BETTER HOME GROWN DIET

The home demonstration club members have for the past month been studying the nutritional needs of people. Recent studies show that twenty per cent of the white non-relief families are getting very poor diets. Such diets which if sustained over a long period of time will undermine health. Forty per cent of the white non-relief families are getting what is termed fair diets which provides for average day-to-day needs but builds up very little reserve.

There are two big reasons why diets are poor. One is that many families haven't enough money to spend for food to buy a good diet; and the other is that families lack the ability to choose a good diet no matter how much money is available. Club members are working to overcome these two reasons by making plans for gardens and by learning what constitutes an adequate diet.

A plot of ground measuring three by ten feet located near the well with a plank ten inches high around it and a cheese cloth covering affording protection from the wind and sand, may be planted five times a year to small vegetables such as greens, carrots, onions and beets. In this small "frame" garden, there would be thirty feet of row space for vegetables. Multiply this by the number of times it is planted per year, and if it is five, then it would mean 150 feet of row space. Some soils will produce a pound per foot of row space. Then, where this is true, 150 pounds of vegetables could be produced on this small three by ten plot of ground. Producing more food at home is one way which the farm family may have a more adequate diet when the income is not sufficient to buy all the food that is needed.

Another step toward having an adequate diet is learning what the daily needs are. At the meeting during January, club members learned to repeat from memory the food standard for Texas people. This standard per person is: 1 quart of milk, one egg, one serving of meat, one serving of potatoes, one serving of green or yellow vegetables, one serving of other vegetables, one serving of tomatoes or citrus fruits, one serving of whole grain products, bread and butter at every meal, some sweets, and dried beans and peas three times per week.

For the 365 days one person needs: 91 gallons of milk, 30 dozen eggs, 175 pounds of meat (and fat for cooking), 200 pounds of potatoes, 200 pounds of green or yellow vegetables, 200 pounds of other vegetables, 100 pounds of tomatoes or citrus, 200 pounds of other fruits, 170 pounds of grain products, 20 pounds of butter, 70 pounds of sweets, and 15 pounds of dried peas and beans.

If the 2,290,700 individuals living on farms and ranches in Texas produced for themselves to meet the standard mentioned above, it would mean the production annually of 69 million eggs, 360 million gallons of milk, 145 million pounds of vegetables, 68 million pounds of fruits, 23 million pounds of lean meat. The total annual value of all this would be around $200,000,000.

If Texas farm and ranch families chose to fill their pantries—to produce or to purchase a "good" diet—the kind mentioned above—for each individual, of what import would it be to the physical well being of the State? It would, for many children, eliminate stunted growth, ill-shaped bones, poor posture, dull eyes, muddy complexions, and slow mental responses—commonly called stupidity. It would mean the elimination of 10 to 15 thousand cases of pellagra, the 600 deaths that result annually from it, and the new cases that develop.

DISTRICT HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT TO BE IN LAMESA

Miss Ruth Thompson, home demonstration agent for District 6, will be in Lamesa, Saturday, February 11. She will have a conference during the morning and will attend the meeting of the county home demonstration council at 2:30. She will also attend the Valentine tea given by the council in the home of Mrs. A. W. McClintock from 3:30 to 4:30. All home demonstration club members are invited to attend the tea.

The prevention of pellagra by better diets is not the only question to consider. What effect would an adequate diet have on the mental and moral well-being of the people of the state? Can an individual whose body is crying for some fundamental food substance easily learn arithmetic? Or history? Or English? Can a boy or girl who is starving keep from taking something that does not belong to him or her?

"American stamina and health would be raised to definitely higher levels!" "A better rural people!"—Robust, vigorous physical beings, strong bones, firm elastic muscles, well formed cells in all tissues, rich red blood carrying abundant food to all cells, bright eyes, clear rosy complexions, strong people! Strong to resist disease; rapid, skillful, efficient workers; strong for the labor at hand; strong to enjoy life! Bright, happy, cheerful, optimistic, enthusiastic; mentally alert, socially and morally responsible; the greatest value that any farm, that any area, that any state, that any nation can produce!

CENTRAL H. D. CLUB REPORT

Every home should have a windbreak of four or five rows of trees, not to stop sand alone, but to break the cold winds and to give shelter for our birds, said Mrs. J. H. Adkins in her demonstration on trees to the club members in the home of Mrs. Creswell,
Wednesday afternoon, February 1.

To protect the farms of the great Central Plains Area a shelter belt of trees is being planted from North I-kota to Texas. These trees are planted by our government to give work to needy farmers whose land has been destroyed by wind and rain and to protect the land.

The first Arbor Day was held in Nebraska in 1872 when one million trees were planted. J. Sterling Morton started the custom of a tree planting day and his birthday, April 22, was chosen as Arbor Day. Now each of the 48 states celebrates Arbor Day.

For many years trees were cut down without giving thought to the results.
Our farm lands were turning into sandy deserts and were in constant danger of floods and sand storms. Then the farmers began to plant new trees.
They soon learned that trees not only held water and soil in place but were a good money crop. In 1935 two hundred million dollars of trees were cut and sold. As these trees were cut down a new crop was planted.

Trees are the oldest and largest living things in the world. The oldest and largest being the Sequoia trees which are found only on the west side of the Sierra Nevadas at a height of between 5000 and 7000 feet. There are trees growing on the east coast over 300 years old. Some of the historical trees are the Tulip, Elm and Hickory trees.

Mrs. Jack Walls was appointed program and recreation chairman.

There were fifteen members and two visitors present.

CENTRAL H. D. CLUB NOTICE

The Central Home Demonstration
Club will meet in the home of Mrs.
Hayden Barron at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday, February 15.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

We got off to a good start last Sunday. A large number of the young people of the church knelt at the altar
Sunday morning for the Communion.
A splendid congregation at the evening service and our pastor made the "Tumbleweeds" tumble before us, scattering its seeds of good thoughts and helpful suggestions. His subject for next Sunday evening is "Bull Nettles," the stinging weed of the waste places. Be sure and hear him. The Young People's Choir will furnish the music for the occasion, with Mrs. Carl Rountree at the organ and Mrs. Jeff Dean, directing. If you are not going to church elsewhere come and worship with us.
