British Capture Caen; La Haye Falls To Yanks

Chain Of Towns Seized In New British Drive

BY WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY Force, July 10. — Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Second army, starting to swing shut the door on Germans still standing across the Orne river in the southern suburbs of captured Caen, seized today a chain of Normandy towns and strongpoints guarding the enemy's imperialed flank.

Striking in typical hard-smiting Montgomery style, the British plunged eastward from their Odon Bridgehead behind the embattled Germans in the suburb of Fauborg de Vaucelles, and captured Bretteville-Sur Odon a mile southwest of Caen.

Eterville, next in the chain and three miles southwest of the city; Maltot, four miles southwest, and hill 112, a bit farther southwest, all fell in quick succession in plunges which took the British within a mile of the Orne river.

Nazis Caught In Squeeze

Montgomery's bludgeon, more than three miles broad, was matched by a British bridgehead across the Orne to the north and east of Caen which also threatened the last-ditch Germans with a squeeze offensive.

The British fought forward two miles in this latest attack with the objective of freeing the docks of Caen from the threat of German artillery fire so that a stream of Allied freight might soon begin pouring in to match the reinforcements from Cherbourg. All the points fell before noon after the initial jump off at 5 a.m.

In the center of American smash into the German lines from the Vire river bridgehead at St. Jean de Daye made steady progress on a seven miles front to depths of more than a mile in hard fighting through difficult low country hidden by fog and drizzle.

Yanks Capture Town

Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley's columns, accompanied by a steady drumfire from artillery, captured Sainteny, six miles south of Carentan and about the same distance from the road junction of Perier.s

Periers is about 5½ miles southwest of Lessay, a coastal road junction bordering a deep inlet from the sea where the Germans might attempt to defend a bottleneck against other Americans roll-

Hitler Planned U. S. Invasion

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP) — Congress was told today by one of the nation's leading aircraft manufacturers, President J. Carlton Ward, jr., of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., that he saw in 1940 a detailed plan drawn by Hitler for invasion of the United States.

Testifying before a Senate military subcommittee, Ward said he was permitted to see the plan while in France at the head of a mission advising on aircraft construction.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont) of the subcommittee described the testimony as "startling."

Attack Through Mexico

"After he brought England to her knees," Ward said, "Hitler planed to attack the United States through Mexico with tanks and other armored equipment that we did not have."

Elaborating his testimony later for newspapermen, Ward said:

"The plan was to make a feint through Newfoundland and then invade us through Mexico. Not only did Hitler plan military invasion but he had a complete plan for economic domination of the world."

England, by the use of approximately 700 well designed planes, and aided by radar, he testified, saved Europe "and probably the world from Hitler domination."

Through Diplomatic Sources

The manufacturer said he got Hitler's plan through diplomatic sources. When he returned from France, he said he found that the State department had complete

Yanks Hammer Wedge In Nazi Line In Italy

U. S. Troops Take Stronghold City Of Volterra

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, July 10—Overcoming dogged enemy resistance, American infantrymen who yesterday captured the German stronghold of Volterra have knifed forward another four miles and driven a significant wedge in the German defenses fronting the so-called "Gothic line," Allied headquarters announced today.

The action of the doughboys in driving the Nazis from Volterra was described officially as a setback to the enemy's intention of imposing the maximum delay on the Fifth army's drive toward the Arno river, in which are situated the cities of Florence and Pisa.

Progress Is Slow

Progress, however, remained slow along the entire Italian front as the Germans continued to mass guns and troops and to fight desperately from every vantage point.

On the west coast, an Allied spokesman said, American troops made an advance of unspecified distance toward Livorno (Leghorn) despite heavy enemy fire of all kinds and widespread demolition. The troops in that sector were last reported only 10 miles from the big port.

Another American force moved up to attack Pomaja, eight miles inland and 14 miles southeast of Livorno. Lajatico, 21 miles east of Livorno, was threatened by another thrust.

Divisions Identified

Elements of eight German divisions have been identified in the line facing the Fifth army. Among them are the 36th SS regiment and the ninth panzer grenadier regiment.

Supported by 20 tanks, the Germans launched a strong counterattack against the French in the vicinity of Ranza, 8½ miles east of Volterra, and heavy fighting raged in that section.

No important gains were reported by Eighth army troops threatening the vital communications center of Arezzo, where the Germans have been digging in for a prolonged battle. The Nazis are counterattacking fiercely in that area, but the British announced

Government Health Clinics Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP) — Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire proposed today that the government provide health clinics to help build up a healthy post war American youth.

McIntire, the Navy's surgeon general and President Rosevelt's personal physician, also advocated over-all medical and hospital insurance in a paper submitted to Chairman Pepper (D-Fla) and Senate subcommittee on health and education.

His prepared testimony asserted that "there are many ways in which the government could help" without bringing about what he termed "the dreaded so-called 'socialized medicine'."

The hearing got underway with a prepared statement from Maj-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, who suggested that the presently recorded physical or mental incapacity of 5,000,000 men between 18 and 37 for military service is due in part to neglect of the educational system.

The system should be adjusted, he said, so that teachers, parents and officials should know a normal child "should reach a standard physically just as much as he should be able at a certain age to add or substract or to read."

Yanks Finish Bloody Conquest Of Saipan

Neomfoor Also Captured; Way Cleared For Direct Blows At Japan's Vitals

BY J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

United States forces have conquered Saipan, clearing the way for direct strikes from the western Pacific into the vitals of Japan's empire.

The capital island of the Marianas fell Saturday after 25 days of the bloodiest, costliest fighting in all of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' drive across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor. Saipan is 1,450 miles south of Tokyo and 1,640 miles east of Manila. The leap from the Marshall islands to Saipan advanced the Americans 1,150 miles westward.

Now for the first time land-based bombers are in position to raid Manila and the Japanese homeland from the Pacific.

CHINESE LAUNCH OFFENSIVE

CHUNGKING, July 10 (AP) — Chinese troops have launched a large-scale offensive in southern Hupeh province, making considerable progress against designated objectives, the Chinese high command announced tonight, without disclosing the area of the new drive.

This push was probably diversionary, to prevent further reinforcement of the Japanese in Hunan province to the south, where bloody fighting still continued in the suburbs of Hengyang.

A communique declared several hundred Japanese were killed south of Liling, 75 miles northeast of Hengyang, where the Chinese sought to penetrate the invaders' flank and strike his overland supply lines.

Chinese troops tightened a clamp on Japanese troops trying to remount their seige of strategic Hengyang in South-Central China. In Burma organized enemy resistance collapsed at Ukhrul, Japanese base inside the northeast India border. The shattered army, foiled in its attempt to paralyze Allied supply routes, was fighting furiously to escape annihilation at the hands of the British.

Simple Rites Set For Dr. Truett

DALLAS, July 10 (AP) — With simple rites, stately in their simplicity, Dallas and the Baptist world today paid funeral tribute to Dr. George W. Truett, famed preacher and international religious leader, who died Friday.

From noon, the doors of the First Baptist church where Dr. Truett preached for almost 47 years were open for the congregation and friends, for the services starting at 4 p. m.

Rev. Louie D. Newton, Atlanta, Ga., pastor was to deliver the funeral oration and Robert H. Coleman, the pastor's assistant for many years, was in charge of the services.

Messages Pour In

Hundreds of letters and telegrams poured into Dallas yesterday as more than 3,000 persons crammed the Baptist church where Dr. E. D. Head of Fort Worth stated: "Our first thought is how we can do without him for we've leaned on him so much."

"But God is not dependent on any one of us," Dr. Head, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary continued. "Dr. Truett would command that we go on. This place is not a place of despair but of glory, so let us go on to victory."

Bearing out the words of one religious leader that Dr. Truett belonged not only to his but to all denominations, churches of many faiths held special prayer services yesterday for the former president of the Baptist World

Gen. Ike Warns Of Optimism

By MERRILL MUELLER
NBC Reporter Representing The Combined American Networks

GEN. EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS, July 10. — The supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary forces today warned against the growing optimism prevalent throughout the world and predicted long and bitter fighting before the final victory in Europe.

Enumerating the long list of Allies successes in Russia, Africa, Italy and France since the fall of Tobruk two years ago, General Eisenhower said the trend toward optimism was understandable. But he emphasized it was the duty of people in responsible position to state the facts.

Over-optimism doesn't take into consideration one main point—that we are now in a position to hit the Germans where it hurts and the Germans will fight back harder than ever.

Internal Collapse Not Due

Thus General Eisenhower made it clear that while the possibility of a crack in German morale was not excluded, he believed gestapo control was so complete over Germany that internal collapse was a false hope. We must be prepared now in all our operations—home front and fighting front—for bitter fighting right around the German perimeter. There will be fighting of the most strenuous character with heavy losses.

The general picture of over-optimism must be sobered by the very definite conclusion that we have really got to fight for every foot we get, both locally and in the general strategic position. The

Unidentified Of Circus Fire To Be Buried

HARTFORD, Conn., July 10. (AP) —Hartford today prepared to bury its six unidentified dead as the death list of the Ringling brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus fire of last Thursday mounted to 158.

The unidentified, three children, two women and one man, will be buried in individual graves in Northwood cemetery, Mayor William M. Mortensen has announced.

The funeral cortege will leave the hospital at 3 p.m. and will stop at the city hall where Mayor Mortensen, members of the board of aldermen and three clergymen will join the procession. Bearers will be policemen and firemen.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen each will perform the rites of his faith at each grave.

Each casket will have sprays of flowers, a final tribute from a stricken and sorrowing city which will pause to honor with dignity and reverence six unknowns who suffered the same fate as 152 other individuals who were restored to their loved ones through modern identification processes.

Hartford was a city of prayers and funerals Sunday.

In every church, amidst, poignant, silent grief, clergymen of all faiths read the names of those in their parishes who had died in the greatest circus catastrophe in the country's history and announced the hours of funeral services.

Meanwhile, investigating agencies pored over reams of testimony taken in hearings, making ready for the coroner's inquest on Tuesday.

Soviets Within 60 Miles Of East Prussia

Forty Divisions Of Nazis Facing Trap In Baltics

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 10 — British press reports placed Russian vanguards within 60 miles of East Prussia tonight while the Red army clamped tighter a death hold on Wilno (Vilna), where the German garrison had been forced behind barricades into the center of the virtually encircled city.

Russian columns racing westward at startling speed stormed past the Wilno flanks to the nearest approach to East Prussia.

Northward, the Soviets ripped through the German Wilno-Daugavpils Loje, penetrating to Utena, more than 20 miles into pre-war Lithuania. The Soviet plunge across the Lithuanian plains toward Memel on the Baltic could cut off more than 60,000 square miles, an area larger than Georgia, garrisoned by a force estimated in London at 40 German divisions.

Reds Cut 70-Mile Gap

Red troops had cut a 70-mile gap in German lines strung down from the Baltic sea and narrowed the land corridor between the breach and the sea to less than 120 miles.

The Moscow radio asserted that German and Lithuanian troops mutinied in Wilno and Kaunas. The latter city, capital of Russia's Lithuanian republic, was menaced by Russians charging less than 50 miles away.

Farther south, the Red Army made fresh progress in a swift advance toward the major railroad center of Bialystok and Brest Litovsk on the Bug river. Both cities guard the approaches to Warsaw.

Evacuation Of Mothers Starts

LONDON, July 10. (UP) — British authorities began the evacuation of mothers and expectant mothers from robot-blasted London today after removing nearly 55,000 school children to the safety of the provinces in the past week.

The German flying bombs, launched from the French coast, continued to fall in London and southern England in daylight today following a night of intermittent attacks. Authorities made their usual laconic announcement that damage and casualties had been reported.

Second "Revenge Weapon" Due

Dr. Rudolf Semmler, radio Berlin commentator, asserted that Germany's second "revenge weapon" — V-2 — "will be more terrible" than the robot bombs and the London Sunday Express speculated the new weapon may be a rocket bomb 36 feet long and carrying 10 tons of explosives. The present jet-propelled robot bombs are 25 feet long and carry a ton of explosives.

Semmler also claimed that the German Navy was using a new secret weapon that has sunk "even strongly armored naval units and . . . quite large ships."

"It cannot presently be stated whether they are explosives, vessels or missiles," he said. "It is sufficient to repeat what Adolf Hitler stated at the armaments conference last week; namely, that we are in the midst of a rapid process of technical evolution."

Censorship authorities finally permitted disclosure that robot

Nelson May Override Military Objection For Civilian Goods

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — Chairman Donald L. Nelson's close colleagues in the War Production board predict he will override military objections and sign into effect his orders permitting limited civilian goods production.

They say, moreover, that Nelson will not "water down" or compromise the announced program, which would let industry start preparations for reconversion and, while the war continues, devote the men, machines and material not needed for munitions to the manufacture of consumer goods.

Ten days to two weeks may elapse, however, associates said today, before Nelson is able to return to duty. He is recuperating from pneumonia which sent him to a hospital shortly after he gave instructions on June 19 for issuance of the relaxed controls.

As well as noses can be counted, the major for-and-against influences in the controversy lined up as follows today:

For Nelson:

FDR Believed Ready To Leave Wallace's Fate To Convention

(By The Associated Press)

The word spread in Democratic circles today that President Roosevelt apparently has decided to let Henry A. Wallace stand or fall on his own record and to leave entirely to the Democratic national convention the choice of a 1944 vice-presidential nominee.

That report, on which most party leaders are proceeding, came as Wallace headed toward Washington to report to Mr. Roosevelt Tuesday and to reappraise the political scene after several weeks in China and Russia. Doubts as to a fourth term nomination for the President are no longer expressed.

Word seeping from inner party councils indicated that if the convention consults the chief executive as to his wishes, he will express a preference for Wallace. He may let the preference be known anyway.

Not To Dictate Choice

But he is represented as not prepared to dictate a choice to the convention, which starts July 19 in Chicago. And if the convention discards Wallace, it would be the party taking the action rather than the President, who is noted for loyalty to the men he places

Dr. William M. Whyburn Is To Take Up Duties Here In September; Is From UCLA

Nationally Known Mathematician, Native Texan Chosen; Was On First Tech Faculty

Dr. William Marvin Whyburn, 42-year old native Texan and nationally celebrated mathematician who has been on the faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles for the past 16 years, today was announced as successor to Dr. Clifford B. Jones as president of Texas Technological college.

Charles C. Thompson, of Colorado City, chairman of the Tech directorate, told The Journal that Doctor Whyburn has been unanimously agreed upon for the position at the board's June 27 meeting in Fort Worth, but not until today had the president-elect's acceptance been assured. Before his acceptance could be made, Thompson said, Doctor Whyburn necessarily had to secure release from a contract at UCLA and also make arrangements with the War department, which he has been serving as a mathematical consultant in manufacture of certain war materials. Both arrangements were completed yesterday.

DR. WILLIAM MARVIN WHYBURN

The new president will not take up his work here until sometime between September 1 and 15, but when he steps upon the campus it will not be as a total stranger. Doctor Whyburn was a member of the original Tech faculty in 1925-26, serving as associate professor of mathematics. He left here in the spring of 1926 for two years of fellowship study at University of Texas and Harvard university, then joined the University of California at Los Angeles where he since has remained.

Jones Stays At Post

Doctor Jones, elected president emeritus on April 15 at the time his resignation, due to reasons of health, was reluctantly accepted by the board, will continue as active president of Tech until the new president arrives. Doctor Jones originally had asked to be relieved of duties at the close of the spring semester in May, but since had agreed to continue serving until his successor could be named and start work.

Dark, compact Doctor Whyburn who will not be 43 until next fall, was born in Lewisville, Texas, November 12, 1901, and is of English and Scotch-Irish descent. He brings to Texas Tech a distinguished academic background as well as a quarter century of teaching and educational administrative work.

With mathematics as his major and chemistry his minor, Doctor Whyburn holds bachelor of arts, master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from University of Texas, the first conferred in August of 1922; the second in June of 1923 and the latter in June, 1927. He was graduate fellow in mathematics at University of Texas in 1922-23; Louis Lipschitz fellow there in 1926-27; National Research fellow and Research fellow at Harvard in 1927-28.

Is Widely Known

Currently the first vice president of the Mathematical Society of America and slated, in 1945, to assume the presidency of that body, Doctor Whyburn is widely known in western hemispheric mathematics circles. While his exact service to the government since the nation's entry into the war cannot yet be described, he has performed outstanding service in connection with mathematical formulas as applied to manufacture of weapons. He is currently on a trip during which he will confer with heads of war plants in the Midwest and, before his return to California, will further confer with War department experts in Washington.

Doctor Whyburn is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married, he has two children, a daughter nearing 16, a son 9. His family will come to Lubbock the first part of August.

Author of approximately 30 research articles in various mathematical journals, he has recently published his first book, in collaboration with Drs. P. H. Daus

Heavy Rains 'Make' Area Cotton Crop

Fall Totals 2.03 Inches Here; Electrical Disturbance Causes Some Damage

Heavy rainfall, amounting to 2.03 inches and accompanied by severe electrical disturbances, fell late Sunday afternoon in Lubbock, the second heavy downpour within a week. Central fire station here reported their gauge registered 2.03 inches, while the gauge at the station three miles east of town recorded 1.80 inches.

Don L. Jones, manager of the experiment station, said this morning that "if the rainfall was general (and it was) we have made a

LIGHTNING HITS RADIO

H. G. Connelly, 1918 Fourteenth street, reported that his radio was struck by lightning Sunday night.

He said he had been listening to the "We The People" program on which appeared a Lubbock boy, Jack W. Cook, son of Mrs. J. W. Cook, 905 Avenue Q, who was wounded on Saipan Island. Immediately after the conclusion of the program, he said, the radio was hit by lightning and caught fire. Nothing else was damaged, he said.

cotton crop." He added that this rain was just what was needed to assure another high yield for Lubbock county and the entire South Plains area.

Electrical disturbances accompanying the heavy rain kept plant and repair crews of communications systems up a great part of the night, and necessitated continued work this morning, a survey disclosed.

Lights flickered, occasionally went out for brief periods as transformer switches were burned out. Several 200-pair cables were wetted, putting out of temporary commission several hundred telephone stations. Some had not been restored this morning.

"Getting cables wet is worse than having a line directly hit by lightning," as one official put it. "Takes time to dry out lines."

Communications traffic among telephone and telegraph companies, especially on trunk circuits, was moving "almost normally," at mid-morning.

There was no early morning flying either because of wet runways or water around hangars, but but there was no damage to planes or hangars of the two commercial flying fields.

VFW Investigating Soldiers' Complaints

KANSAS CITY, July 10 (AP)—R. B. Handy, jr., adjutant general of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declares that some of the men returning from combat duty overseas have complained that:

(A) They have been refused furloughs.

(B) They are given little rest or liberty.

(C) Some of the wounded and ill are being discharged from hospitals "with only perfunctory physical examinations."

Handy said the VFW bureau in Washington had written the Army and Navy about ten days ago for an investigation of these complaints.

"These men are being put through a 'reconditioning' program which does them and the armed forces no good," Handy said in an interview yesterday.

"Some of them are being shunted into the infantry, for which they are not fitted."

Handy said no replies had been received from the letters.

Ward disclosed his experience in Paris in a departure from his prepared testimony before the committee, in which he made a plea for preparedness, including vigorous research in aircraft design, after the war.

Plans for the vast expansion for civilian and commercial flying along with maintenance of a large military air force after the war, were placed before the committee by numerous officials of the aircraft industry.

Urges Civilian Production

Civilian aircraft production should be started "at the earliest possible moment which will not interfere with military needs," the aeronautical chamber of commerce recommended.

As a spur to civilian flying, the chamber proposed that military aircraft, of no commercial use, be turned over to colleges and other schools after the war. This would serve to maintain an endless stream of flying talent as a safeguard against future wars, it added.

The chamber recommended that each company operating in a government aircraft factory be given opportunity to buy or lease the factory "at reasonable terms" after the war.

The complaining witness declined to file charges. Police said Amarillo was offering $250 reward for a model M Farmall tractor stolen there July 4 and seen since in Lubbock and between Lubbock and Southland. It was on a black 1941 or 1942 truck that has a green bed. Its serial number is FBK 17563.

Lieutenant Herndon, completely well after an illness caused by stomach ulcers, is en route to his new station at San Diego, Cal. He previously has been stationed in Hawaii.

Wilson Stallings, 1716 Avenue D, was admitted to Lubbock General hospital Sunday for treatment of injuries received in an accident near Tulia Saturday night. Circumstances surrounding the accident were not known by the hospital early today. His condition was reported to be "fair" by the hospital.

Two police patrolmen and a Lubbock woman were injured this morning when an automobile crashed into a radio prowl car. Victims were listed as Doyle Clark and Henry Smith and, on a police report, Nadean Scott. Lubbock General hospital, where the victims were taken, listed the woman as Mrs. N. M. Scott of 1926 Avenue O. Smith and the woman, hospital officials said, were released after treatment, but Clark, who suffered head injuries, shock and bruises, according to police, remained. There was no official report on file to indicate who was the driver of the other car, but it unofficially was said the squad car was parked when hit, its lights burning. The accident happened somewhere near the underpass on East Broadway, it was announced.

Dr. W. M. Whyburn Is Named As New President Of Tech

and J. M. Gleason. It is "Basic Mathematics for War and Industry," (McMillan, 1944).

Has Many Honors

Tech's president-elect is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the world's outstanding scholastics honor fraternity, to which he was elected at University of Texas in 1923. He also belongs to Sigma Xi, engineering and mathematics honor society; served as council member of the American Mathematical society between 1938 and 1942; was a committee member during those same years of Section A, American Association for the Advancement of Science; and currently is corresponding member of the National Academy of Sciences of Peru.

As he puts it, "a Texas country school teacher before I was dry behind the ears," Doctor Whyburn started in the educational field in 1920, before he was quite 19. He joined the faculty of Beaumont Junior college in 1924; went to Texas A&M college as assistant professor of mathematics in 1924-25, and, when Tech opened in the fall of 1925, came here as associate professor of mathematics. He has done summer teaching at University of Virginia; University of California at Berkeley, and University of Texas.

Heads UCLA Department

In the 16 years he has spent at UCLA, Doctor Whyburn has climbed from an assistant professorship to professor of mathematics and for the past seven years the head of his department. Among his other activities at UCLA, have been:

Chairman of the Committee on Budget and Interdenominational Relations; member of the Emergency Executive committee; committee on Engineering curricula in Los Angeles; chairman of the committee on Committees; chairman, Supervisors' committee, Los Angeles Area Engineering, Science, Management War Training program. In addition, he has served on numerous other California and Los Angeles committees having to do with mathematics, engineering and science.

Doctor Whyburn also has found time to take interest in civic affairs as a member of one of the Rotary clubs in the Greater Los Angeles area.

Although residents of California for the better part of two decades, the Whyburns have continued nurturing their roots in Texas. They still own Doctor Whyburn's parents' farm near Lewisville and the Barfield ranch, near Gonzales. Mrs. Whyburn is the former Marie Barfield, of Gonzales, daughter of Joseph Barfield, widely known South Texas cattleman.

around him.

Wallace has his supporters, but there is a strong element of opposition to him in party ranks, much of it from the South. Virginia emphasized that Saturday by voting to instruct its 24 delegates to the convention to ballot against Wallace for renomination.

The Virginia party convention said formally:

"It would appear from the public utterances of Wallace that he has become a convert to doctrines and ideologies foreign to the faiths and traditions of Virginia."

Wallace For "American Way"

Wallace said in a radio broadcast at Seattle last night that "I am today more than ever an American. The American way of life is the best way for us."

Virginia left her delegates uninstructed on the presidential issue but told them to vote as a unit. The action completed the list of 1,176 convention delegate votes, which are lined up this way on the basis of unofficial tabulations:

Needed to nominate 589.
Pledged to Roosevelt 552.
Claimed for Roosevelt 408.
Pledged and claimed for Former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts 3.
Uninstructed and unclaimed 213.

Freight Inequality Hit

In his Seattle speech, Wallace remarked that "unfair freight rates" had long held back the Northwest. In the same connection Senator Stewart (D-Tenn) said at Washington that he intends to sponsor a platform plank advocating rail rate parity for the South and West with the East.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican presidential nominee, after a quiet Sunday at his Pawling, N. Y., home, returned to Albany to resume campaign talks with Republican leaders in Congress.

The Republicans' congressional food study committee issued a report over the week-end in Washington condemning virtually all the government's wartime food program and charging that inefficiency is to blame for "the insidious illegal black market."

Statements Issued By Whyburn, Jones And C. C. Thompson

Board Chairman Charles C. Thompson, of Colorado City, and President-emeritus Clifford B. Jones today told The Avalanche-Journal of their satisfaction in securing Dr. William Marvin Whyburn as the college's fourth president, and Doctor Whyburn expressed his delight at the opportunity of returning to Lubbock.

The official statements follow:

DOCTOR WHYBURN

"I am grateful, indeed, for this opportunity to return to my native state and to the staff of Texas Technological college. The great progress made by Tech in its relatively short life and the unlimited possibilities for its future development are beyond comprehension. The loyal interest of the people of Texas; the strong support of the board of directors and the wholehearted co-operation of the faculty cannot fail to yield unprecedented growth of the college. It is my happy prividege to become a part of this development and I shall make every possible effort to provide the leadership associated with the office to which I have been entrusted."

DOCTOR JONES

"In my judgment the board of directors has made a very splendid selection of a president. Doctor Whyburn's academic, professional and practical background, coupled with his scholarly attainments and large administrative experience at the University of California guarantee a highly successful administration at Texas Tech.

"I am delighted with the choice, confident that time will but emphasize the board's wisdom. His appointment deserves, and will receive, widespread acclaim. He will serve the college and the state with distinction.

"I bespeak for him the complete and energetic cooperation of faculty, students, alumni and public; and predict that he promptly will be able to win for himself, and to hold, a warm spot in the hearts of us all."

CHAIRMAN THOMPSON

"Dr. William Marvin Whyburn is outstanding in the educational field. His broad experience, sincerity of purpose and high ideals especially equip him for the great task for which he has been selected.

"Dr. Whyburn is a Texan and believes in those fundamental principles which have made Texas great.

"I know he will have the full confidence and co-operation of all the friends of Texas Tech."

Saipan Conquered

final battle on the island's northern tip "was an ugly spectacle of senseless dying" for the Japanese defenders whose doom was sealed days ago.

Probably 95 per cent—or 19,000—of the Japanese garrison perished in defending the island. Civilians surrendered by the hundreds. A stockade also held a crowd of unwounded Japanese soldiers, a rare spectacle in the Pacific war.

Toward the end of the fight, with the Japanese hidden in caves and other defenses, U. S. airmen noted signs of bewilderment and terror among the soldiers and civilians caught in the trap.

"At one place," James wrote, "scores of Japanese swam out into the sea as the battle drew nearer and nearer to them. There was nowhere to swim and they had to swim back or drown. . . Shortly before dark the last organized positions fell to the Americans."

There remained a mop-up job and the islands flanking Saipan, including Guam, Rota, Tinian and Pagan, have to be taken or neutralized.

U. S. casualties through June 28 were 1,474 dead and 8,278 wounded.

Allied reports said Japanese casualties in Burma and India since the start of the year were around 90,000 and possibly 60,000 in the Southwest and Central Pacific in the last seven months.

Lightning hits, in some cases causing high tension power lines to fall across phone wires, caused some of the telephone trouble over the South Plains, and repair crews were kept on the double—sometimes having to retrace their steps because of recurrences of trouble.

The fury of the electrical storm was at a peak about 7, 9 and 10 o'clock communications and utilities companies said.

Telegraph Circuits Out

Telegraph "local call circuits" were put out of commission at one stage of the storm, and some trunk circuits. Some homes in the city still had no lights at mid-morning. Some lines outside the city were reported down.

"Damage was not unusual for such an electrical storm," all agreed.

The Santa Fe dispatcher at Slaton reported that rains were general all along the main lines of that railroad with precipitation ranging from .25 inch at Post and Snyder to 2.50 inches at Hale Center.

Some hail was reported at Levelland and Seminole, but not enough to do any serious damage. Slight damage to gardens was reported at Levelland.

One inch of moisture was reported at each of the following places: Slaton, Plainview, Brownfield and Littlefield. Seminole reported 1.50 inches.

Four inches of moisture was reported in several parts of Dawson county with Lamesa receiving 1.60 inches. Telephone circuits to Tahoka and other points in that area were out of order and no report was received from those points. Ralls reported .25 inch.

Two inches of rain fell near Wellman in Terry county, and heavy rain was reported south of that community. Levelland reported .85 inch Saturday night and .43 inch Sunday. A light sprinkle fell there this morning. Morton received 1.75 inches.

Lorenzo reported .50 inch in town with possibly an inch west of town. Crosbyton reported a quarter of an inch. One-half inch was reported in western Floyd county with only light showers falling in Floydada. Lockney reported .15 inch; Plains .25. The experiment station at Spur reported only a light sprinkle there.

Lines to Muleshoe were out of order and no report of rainfall was received from there.

The weather forecast for this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday was for partly cloudy weather with scattered thundershowers this afternoon and early tonight.

Demos' Battle Near Climax

BY DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 10—Texas Democrats today were headed for a showdown before the national convention in Chicago in inter-party strife over the fourth term issue.

Roy Sanderford of Belton, former state senator and permanent chairman of the regular convention announced yesterday that the convention "re-dedicated its members to fundamental Democratic principles and adopted a program to make these principles effective. Those responsible for carrying out this program will not trade or compromise on these principles or any other part of the program."

Sanderford's statement was issued through Charles E. Simons, secretary of the executive committee. It stated publicly what other regular convention leaders have often said privately since the split May 23. Many felt that any compromise would necessarily entail concessions to the pro-Roosevelt faction which organized its own convention, concessions which they could not make in view of the convention's stand.

Delegation Uninstructed

The regular convention is sending an uninstructed delegation to Chicago, generally regarded as unfriendly to a fourth term for President Roosevelt. It named 23 electors bound to vote for the party's nominee for president and vice president only if the national convention follows its thinking as expressed in several resolutions including one calling for a national platform plank critical of the Supreme court's negro vote decision.

The rump convention's delegates are instructed for Roosevelt, and its electors are unconditionally pledged to vote for the party's nominees. The rival delegations will take their first fight for the privilege of being seated to the credentials sub-committee of the national Democratic committee at Chicago session July 17.

Takes Issue With Jones

Sanderford took issue with Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, for saying in an editorial in the Houston Chronicle July 5 that the convention's action in regard to electors would deprive numerous Texans of the right to vote for the man of their choice for president.

His statement said:

"The editorial of Hon. Jesse H. Jones in his Houston Chronicle on July 5th was in error in charging the Democratic state convention has deprived a majority of Texas voters of a right to vote for their choice for president. No voter in Texas has ever voted directly for any president. Texas voters cast their votes for electors who in turn vote for a president.

Action Held Legal

"The Democratic state convention nominated presidential electors in its customary way and the Supreme court has ruled its action was completely legal. Mr. Jones admits the legality of the nominations. To date, two sets of electors have been nominated. Democrats and Republicans, and their names will appear on the November election ballot.

"Any group of voters who are dissatisfied with these electors can write in the names of other electors or nominate other electors and have their names printed on the November ballot.

"The bolters from the Democratic convention organized a convention, nominated electors, and can have such electors placed on the ballot if they will take the trouble to certify their names to the secretary of state as did the Democratic convention. If this is done, every voter in Texas will have an opportunity to vote as he pleases, and any representation to the contrary is without any foundation. No voter in Texas will or can be denied his right to vote as he pleases on any issue or any candidate."

Willkie Backer Out For Dewey

ALBANY, N. Y., July 10. (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey put the executive mansion latch out for Republican members of Congress bearing presidential campaign advice today as another major backer of Wendell L. Willkie pledged his unqualified support.

Refreshed by a week-end of relaxation at his Pawling farm for today's heavy schedule of conferences, the Republican presidential candidate to Albany last night to learn of his unreserved endorsement by Samuel F. Pryor of Connecticut, eastern campaign manager for Willkie in 1940.

Pryor's statement, which also predicted "a comfortable majority" of Connecticut votes for Dewey and his running mate, Ohio's Governor John W. Bricker, was satisfying news to Dewey leaders who have made no secret of their hopes for Willkie's personal backing. The party's 1940 nominee has congratulated Dewey on his nomination, but has given no indication on whether he will support the governor.

Conferences Set Today

Another of Willkie's long-time supporters, Sen. Sinclair Weeks, is among a Republican group of Massachusetts members of Congress and candidates slated to confer with Dewey late today. Weeks was one of two Willkie backers named to the reorganized Republican national executive committee last week. He said Thursday he "hoped" Willkie would support Dewey but that he knew nothing of the former's plans.

Heading the Massachusetts visitors will be House Minority Leader Joseph Martin and Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, a candidate for the U. S. Senate vacancy caused resignation of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., to enter military service.

Dewey's schedule also listed a conference with three Republican members of the congressional delegation from Vermont, one of the two states to go Republican in the Democratic landslide of 1936. They are Sen. Warren R. Austin, Sen. George Aiken and Rep. Charles A. Plumley.

May Talk Foreign Policy

Possible discussion of foreign policy was indicated by the inclusion of Austin. He helped frame the Mackinac declaration for post-war American participation in international efforts to maintain peace. Dewey conferred Thursday night with Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, another of the Mackinac statement's co-authors.

Dewey slipped back into the exacting role of presidential nominee after a restful interlude at the farm, his first return there since his nomination. About 700 Pawling citizens turned out Friday to give him a warm, neighborly and non-partisan welcome, then left him to the enjoyment of his 150-year old home on Quaker Hill.

Long Losing Streak Puts Leo On Spot

Dodgers Have Lost 13 Straight Games

(By The Associated Press)

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 officially yesterday.

Few managers have survived for long such a losing streak, especially in Flatbush wherg they take their baseball seriously.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's low set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1 in the opener of a double header. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight innings by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be completed later.

Yanks Sweep Twin Bill

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, the New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from the Tigers, 4-3 and 8-2. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox.

The league leading St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators exchanged shutouts. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's two-hit pitching, won the first, 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American league batter to make 100 hits. Pat Seerey of the Indians and Bob Johnson of the Sox each his his eighth homer of the year.

White Sox, A's Split

Frank Hayes banged his 10th homer as the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics divided their twin bill, the White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and brother Walker Cooper combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. Claude Passeau shaded Bill Voiselle in the second game as Andy Pafko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5. Woody Williams made six hits for the Reds.

Aggie Swimmers To Enter Water Tourney

HOUSTON, July 10. (AP)—Texas A. and M. college will enter a crack team of swimmers and divers in the Y.M.C.A.'s centennial water tournament July 18-21, Aggie swimming Coach Arthur Adamson informed meet officials.

Entry of the Aggies brings to three the number of university squads which will compete in the city's first major swimming competition in several years. Rice and the University of Houston announced last week that they would enter teams in the senior men's division.

Adamson, former New Zealand Olympic champion, said his 3-year-old son, Van, would also compete. The meet is open to all boys and men in this area.

Austin Is Contender In Junior Baseball

AUSTIN, July 10 (AP) — Austin became a divisional contender today in the American Legion junior baseball championship race by defeating Laredo yesterday 14 to 8. Austin won from Laredo Saturday 16 to 2.

It was uncertain here if Austin will play Waco for the South Texas title, with the winner to play the winner of a Dallas-Lubbock series, or if Austin, Dallas, Lubbock and Waco will all meet here in August to determine the state title.

Stage Set For All-Star Tilt

Walters Due To Start For Nats

PITTSBURGH, July 10 (AP) — Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National league starting pitcher in the 12th annual all-star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marse Joe McCarthy of the American leaguers expected to choose between Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pilots would lead with the ace righthanders. Walters has a 14-3 win record for the Reds, Borowy has won 11 and dropped 4 and Hughson boasts a fancy 13-3 mark.

With Lefty Max Lanier of the Cards out of action for 10 days due to an arm injury, Southworth is expected to follow Walters with Rip Sewell of the host Pittsburgh club and Nate Andrews of the Braves in an attempt to smash the junior circuits 6-year win streak.

Sell-Out Crowd Due

Bob Muncrief of the Browns and Hal Newhouser of the Tigers are available for late duty with the McCarthy clan and Bobo Newsom of the A's may get a chance to strut his stuff before a sell-out crowd that will approach 40,000 and dump 100,000 into the bat and ball fund for servicemen.

Three American league hurlers, Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Tigers, Dutch Leonard of the Senators and Orval Grove of the White Sox, and two National chuckers, Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Braves, were practically eliminated from consideration by working Sunday games. It is not likely that any of the quintet will be used with only one day's rest in relief emergency.

To Use Right-Handers

Unless Southworth calls in the Phils' Ken Raffensberger the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, McCarthy's lineup may read like this: Lefty McQuinn, Browns, first base; Bobby Doerr, Red Sox, second base; Vern Stephens, Browns, short-stop; Ken Keltner, Indians, third base and Thurman Tucker, White Sox, Stan Spence, Senators, and Bob Johnson, Red Sox, outfield; with either Frankie Hayes, Athletics, or Rick Ferrell, Senators, catching.

Southworth can use Phil Cavaretta of the Cubs at first base when McCarthy is using a right-hander or Frank McCormick of the Reds is a southpaw is one the hill. Connie Ryan of the Braves is the likely second baseman with Martin Marion of the Cards and Eddie Miller of the Reds sharing shortstop.

Elliott May Get Call

Bob Elliott's recent surge may get the Pirate third sacker the call but Whitey Kurowski of the Cards is a better bet for the hot corner. Walker Cooper of the Cards and Mickey Owen of the Dodgers are due for catching duty while the outfield probably will include Stan Musial of the Cards, Mel Ott of the Giants and either Dixie Walker of the Dodgers or Bill Nicholson of the Cubs.

Players trekked into town today following Sunday double-headers as club owners and executives held separate major league meetings to discuss additional night ball, continuation of the office of high commissioner held by K. M. Landis, whose term expires in 1946, and a change in the system of acquiring players. The Cards, Browns, White Sox, Phils and A's are understood to be asking for more "owl" play.

After the big league single sessions the majors will meet in joint conclave tomorrow morning.

A Whirl On The Sports-Go-Round

Ed Stanky, Of Dodgers, Seems To Go With Losing Streaks

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP) — While Ed Stanky was a utility infielder with the Chicago Cubs, earlier in the season, they lost 13 straight . . . Now that Stanky is sparking the Brooklyn Dodgers as their regular shortstop, the Dodgers also have dropped 13 in a row . . . No connection; merely coincidental.

The three Boston Braves' pitchers — Al Javery, Jim Tobin and Nate Andrews — who were selected by National league coaches for possible duty in tomorrow night's all-star game at Pittsburgh, have been shut out in their last starts . . . All by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Writer Has New Son

Glen Perkins, United Press baseball writer, is passing out stogies in behalf of his eight-pound son, Stephen . . . Meanwhile Joe James Custer, U. P. sports writer, who lost an eye as war correspondent when the U. S. S. Astoria was blown up in the South Pacific, has given birth to a book titled "Through The Perilous Night," to be marketed July 18th by MacMillan Co.

The Iowa Seahawks, who lost only to Notre Dame and who were generally rated the nation's second ranking football team last season, will begin practice July 17, according to announcement by Lt. Cmdr. Harvey Harman, athletic director . . . The Seahawks, now coached by Lt. Cmdr. Jack Meagher, will open at Michigan, Sept. 16 . . . They will continue with the "T" formation.

Mauriello Offered $10,000

Larry Atkins, Cleveland promoter, has offered Tami Mauriello, New York heavyweight, a guarantee of $10,000 to meet Middleweight Lloyd Marshall . . . Eddie Borden, former Jacobs Beach price-maker who enlisted in the Canadian army before the United States entered the war, was with the armed forces that landed in Normandy . . . Middleweight Champion Tony Zale is now at the Norfolk Naval Training station, after being transferred from Puerto Rico . . . Marcel Cerdan, Free French middleweight from Algeria, is rumored to have arrived in the United States, enroute to Montreal to open his American leather-tossing campaign.

New Racing Plant Planned

Brass hats of the New York Central railroad are reported to have okayed plans for a huge new racing plant to be erected by the Empire City Racing association in the East View valley sector of Westchester county, N. Y. Construction to begin immediately after the war . . . The reported cost will be about $18,000,000 . . . Accommodations will care for 82,000 fans . . . Apparently the New York Central has decided to compete with the Pennsylvania road in the lucrative business of hauling race goers.

Since Branch Rickey, supposedly smartest man in baseball, traded Fritz Ostermueller and Bob Chipman, the two have won a total of eight games for the Pirates and Cubs . . . If Brooklyn had those eight victories, the Dodgers could be in the first division, instead of in a desperate sixth place and riding a 13-game losing streak.

Summer Grid Drills Open Today At TCU

FORT WORTH, July 10. (AP) — Summer football practice opens today at Texas Christian university with Coach Dutch Meyer optimistic over the outlook for next fall.

Sixteen new men have indicated they will report and Meyer already has a fair nucleus from last year's squad. He also is expecting some high school boys with experience to enroll at the beginning of the fall term.

"All in all, it looks as though we may be able to hold our own," Meyer said.

WAAF STREAK BROKEN

WACO, July 10. (AP) — Waco Army Air field's baseball winning streak was snapped at 16 straight yesterday when Karlen Brothers of Dallas beat the Wolves 7-4. It was the second loss of the season for WAAF. The Dallas team romped on Army hurlers for 14 hits.

McSpaden And Nelson Win

Jug Rated As New Putting Sensation

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 10 (AP) — Being something of a putting sensation is fairly new for Jug McSpaden, who dropped from the winter golf tour three years ago because he couldn't putt.

The Philadelphia pro got the shakes when he got a putter in his hand.

"Hours of practice finally snapped me out of it," said Jug. "And then, too, I patched up a putter with an extra heavy club head —and the weight seemed to help my touch.

Mostly because of his magic putter, McSpaden has cornered the title-winning market this season —taking five tournaments outright and teaming with Byron Nelson, his rival for the 1944 champion of champions honors, to win the Golden Valley four-ball invitation championship yesterday.

Win By Three Points

The Nelson-McSpaden combine finished the 126-hole, match play marathon with a plus of 13 count in the scoring system — a three point edge over the second place team of Bill Kaiser-Bob Hamilton. The Twin Cities twosome of Les Bolstad and Joe Coria finished a surprising third, followed in order by Jimmy Hines-Willie Goggin, Sam Byrd-Johnny Revolta, Pvt. Chick Harbert-Mike Turnesa, Harry Cooper-Ellsworth Vines and Lt. Ben Hogan-Toney Penna.

Nelson-McSpaden had a best ball aggregate for the seven rounds of 447 strokes—64 under par—for an average of 63.8 on each 18 hole trip. Kaiser-Hamilton averaged 65.7.

The winners split a prize of $1,600 in war bonds, McSpaden running his leading bond-tagging total to $18,900 for the season and Nelson increasing his earnings to $16,391.

California occupies more than one-half of the Pacific coastline of the United States.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 300 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include the publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

WRITES FROM INDIA

Dear Plainsman: You probably don't know me from Adam, but I do think you the know folks. I am beginning to get the morning paper with some regularity. I have noticed a couple of things in The Plainsman column.

I have forgotten the date of the issue, but it was around Christmas. You mentioned having a card from Gib Sandefer, who at that time was in North Africa. Well, to make a long story short, I was stationed in New Delhi, India, before moving with SEAC hdqs. to Ceylon, Gib was the head man at the general meeting place for all soldiers in India. He was doing a wonderful job. I had a chance to work with him with Red Cross. There is a fine Texan.

In November two items in The Plainsman column were in reference to short-wave programs beamed to the boys. We don't get them all by short-wave, but every morning I can listen to San Francisco and hear the states. A favored thing with us is a re-broadcast of a big league ball game. That and a good news broadcast. I can say our ace in the hole is transcriptions. There are two GI's stationed in India, and I can pick up a Middle East station in addition to that we have lend-lease transcriptions over the BBC. We get the latest programs and we like them.

I guess that is about my say for this time. We are doing fine, that is all the Texas boys here, and we are well represented in the Hdqs., Bruce Fields, J. P. Smith and myself are the only ones from the plains.

'Till Victory,
Pvt. C. Hubbard,
Kandy, Ceylon.

SINGS POLITICAL BLUES

Dear Plainsman: The Republican convention having closed, we can now listen for the fireworks. What a hard time they had finding a Moses! O yes, two of them. They shall now go forth carrying the flaming banner, shedding crocodile tears, in order that they might save the "dear peepul" from disaster. Dear old Brother Hoover saved us once. People were not starving to death fast enough, so he called in General MacArthur and the Army to hasten the end. But when they started knocking the ragged bonus army in the head, public opinion came to their rescue.

It was then the New Deal stepped in to save them on that occasion. Their leader stopped the measley $10 or $12 per month some of the poor devils (who had done nothing worse than fight for their country) were getting for being disabled. He said they were unbalancing the budget with that heavy outgo of perhaps 500 million per year. He vetoed the bonus bill as too heavy for the nation to bear. It seems real queer that now he wants all the boys fighting on the farflung battlefronts to have such especial care when they return. Could it be election time is just around the corner, or has he really had a change of heart? Then he proceeded to lead the nation in the wildest spending spree in all her history. Instead of balancing the budget, he lulled Congress into a deep sleep, and when they awoke, we owed some 50 more billion dollars with a terrible war staring us in the face. Congress shorn of all its power.

Now comes Brother Dewey to our rescue. With Hoover, Taft, Bricker and their moss-back notions of government hanging on to his coat tail, some of us doubt that we shall be saved from disaster. So you see, we are simply between the devil and the deep blue sea. We forgot, there is a group of fossilized Southerners trying to save us, also. But they are of such ancient vintage that the taste should prove a bit sour.

Now I know you are going to squawk to high heaven when we project the cure, but here goes. Senator O'Daniel's one term idea will go a mighty long way toward healing the nation's wound, caused by too much political demogogery. If we could get a whole new Congress every four or six years, they would not have time to make so many tie-ups, thus perpetuating themselves to a lifetime office. It seems that any fair thinking person could see the beaureaucrats have the upper hand in dealing with the citizens of this nation.

In the seventh chapter of Micah, we find this bit of scripture: "The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait from blood; they hunt very man his brother with a net. That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, the prince asketh, and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up."

We know that good men of whom we have a plentiful supply, could not get to first base against the politicians who tie the hands of our duly elected representatives.

Very truly yours,
L. M. Welch,
Ralls.

That Girl on Broadway says some people who think they have little to worry about simply have little to worry with.

Conspicuous among current bag-holders is the motion picture producer who paid $50,000 for Wendell Willkie's "One World," and has already started work on the film!

DR. George W. Truett, the eminent divine who died in Dallas Saturday, is generally considered to have been the greatest Baptist of his time. Yet the members of his denomination would be the last to claim that he was by, of and for only those who subscribe to his particular theology.

For Doctor Truett, by his life and acts, transcended denominationalism. He was not only a great Baptist. He was a great Christian. And because he was a great Christian, he was respected and revered by men of all faiths, as well as by men of all denominations.

Although of another denomination — and not a stickler for denominationalism in churches — The Plainsman was one of millions who looked to Doctor Truett for religious inspiration and guidance.

We never knew a man we respected more. We never knew a man of the cloth whom we thought could be more sincere.

Because Doctor Truett's greatness was the greatness of simplicity, and because he walked ever humbly in the footsteps of the Galilean, George Truett stood out above most of the men of his calling, just as he towered above most other human beings of lesser calling.

ILL health and the multitudinous tasks which were his to toil at kept Doctor Truett out of this section for the last several years. They kept him at home, mostly, away from people everywhere outside of Dallas.

Yet among our fondest recollections are the quiet talks we had with Doctor Truett upon each occasion of his visits here. Among our keepsakes are the books he has written over the past 15 years, an autographed copy of each — some of them bearing a lengthy, personal message in Doctor Truett's own hand. We have kept —and will continue to keep, too —the personally written Christmas messages, also in Doctor Truett's own hand, which he was wont to send before his strength became so overtaxed that he was forced to curtail the practice.

If he were a young preacher, no matter the denomination, The Plainsman would make a careful study of the life and the practices of Dr. George W. Truett.

We would do our best to follow the trail Doctor Truett blazed, knowing that as we did we'd be on firm ecclesiastical ground.

We would remember that George Truett affected for good the lives of more people than any other pastor in Texas history — yet never raised his voice in doing it.

We would remember that it was not his wont to scourge an audience; to shout, to threaten, to attempt to frighten those who came to sit at his feet; that, instead, he spoke soothingly, directly, substituting logic for sound and kindliness for the invective.

And above all, we would remember how he eschewed argument; that no matter how his soul was tried by those who attempted to build themselves up by tearing him down, he went on his great and good way, impervious to the jealous jabs of lesser men.

MILLIONS today sincerely mourn the passing from this earth of all that was mortal of George W. Truett.

Yet we doubt that among those millions there is a single one who, if he had the power, would bring the doctor back and insist that he again take up the burden which he carried so nobly over his long span of years.

For Doctor Truett has earned his reward. He has earned his rest in Glory. He has completed the good fight and the good race here among men.

Today, he rightfully belongs where he is — one with the saints of all time; at the Throne of Grace; at the hand of Him for whom he unceasingly labored so long and so well.

And no matter what a candidate says, he means 'maybe!'"

HOW, why, where or when is nobody's business, but The Plainsman had an opportunity to spend an evening with Dr. William Marvin Whyburn, newly announced president of Texas Technological college, during the time Tech's directors were "looking the field over;" and before their ideas had crystalized or, for that matter, before the board had seen Doctor Whyburn.

Because we knew that the Doctor Whyburn was one of four or six top-flight possibilities as Tech's fourth president, we studied him carefully and listened to his comments upon various subjects, educational and otherwise.

Although The Plainsman is no expert on educational matters, the doctor's comments along those and other lines impressed us with one thing.

That is, the man is sound.

Physically, at first glance, he is a very ordinary looking guy — no more or less striking than the most of us.

But closer inspection reveals a remarkably open and frank face which bespeaks native honesty. His brown eyes, always wide open, are both friendly and quizzical. His smile is warm and he smiles easily.

Doctor Whyburn is about 5 feet, 9 inches in height and weighs right at 190. He isn't fat, however. He hasn't the slightest suggestion of a "bay window." He is a very compact man, glowing with health. He looks like he would make a swell blocking back if he were about 20 years younger.

WHILE The Plainsman was here, at the same job, when Doctor Whyburn was on Tech's faculty in 1925-26, we did not know him.

That, however, is readily understandable, since everybody on the Tech faculty was new then and we town people met the professors gradually. The Tech folks were busy as bees getting the college started and straightened out and didn't have much time to visit downtown.

However, numerous faculty members still here remember him as a capable and promising young man who never dodged a job of work no matter how unpleasant or difficult it might be.

Dr. William Curry Holden, head professor of history, dean of archaeological research and one of Tech's standbys since its early days, knew Doctor Whyburn well both here and during the time they were students at University of Texas. Doctor Holden, born and fotched up in Fisher county and as typical of West Texas as the mesquite tree, says Doctor Whyburn is 100 per cent o. k., which is enough for us and every other friend of Tech who knows Curry Holden doesn't go around steering people wrong.

IN a nutshell, The Plainsman knows this: The members of the Tech directorate really surveyed the field in seeking out a successor to Dr. Clifford B. Jones. They really studied every promising man they could dig up and while Doctor Whyburn's name entered the picture late, they quickly went for him, lock, stock and barrel. That would indicate that the incoming president has a lot on the ball.

Our guess is, Doctor Whyburn won't come onto the Tech campus like a lion, slam-banging around. He is the quiet, studius, conservative type with a lot of savvy; not the hip-hip-hooray, bowl 'em over kind.

But he looks like a swell bet for a long pull. We have him tabbed as the kind of man who will grow with the job and the years while, simultaneously, respect and confidence grow with him.

"THE famous astrologer you've read about will give a short reading to those who purchase a $500 war bond or more." So promised a New York department store in a war bond advertisement.

That ought to be a cinch. Just think of all the astrologer could say without even depending on the stars for guidance.

MILLETT

For instance, she could say to the motherly-looking matron wearing a pin with two service stars, "Your greatest wish is to have your sons back home once more. And you are doing everything possible to hasten that day."

And she could say to the young couple, proudly buying a $500 war bond, "I see a wonderful trip in store for you—not this summer, for this summer you will want to stay on the job. But when the war is over, you will have a vacation which you have planned for a long, long time."

AND she could quite safely say to the business man plunking down his check for a war bond, "You believe in your country and you are doing what you can now for its present, and at the same time making secure your own future."

She could say to the high school kid, turning a savings account that had grown through the years into a war bond, "You are too young for the armed forces, but not too young to help win this war. It's fine you realize that."

Of course, a famous astrologer could tell the war bond customers much more than that. But that much she could say without any hard brain work at all. In fact she probably thought that predicting the future of war bond buyers was a snap—since they are in a sense revealing their own futures when they buy bonds.

JUST A TROUBLE-MAKING BUREAU

The pretended "report" issued from Dallas regional offices of the President's Fair Employment Practices committee the other day will not ease the tension and dissentions for which the meddlings of this bureaucratic agency have been responsible in Texas and the South.

Actually, reference to the statement as a "report" was a misnomer. On the contrary, it was a propaganda "plug" for the theories of New Deal extremists on the subject of racial relationship who predominate on the payrolls of FEPC.

The statement essentially was a defense of attempts by FEPC—attempts which thus far have failed—to say to prospective employers that they could not advertise specifically for white, Mexicon, negro or any other particular type of help.

Clearly, FEPC has not receeded in the slightest degree from its desire to compel those who hire to accept whatever the bureau might send them through itself or some other related bureaucratic agency. Clearly, FEPC covets power to tell those who prefer white help that they must hire negroes, and vice versa, perhaps—the last statement being qualified with the word, "perhaps" in view of the fact that more than 40 of the approximately 65 people on FEPC executive payrolls are negroes. It is a setup which raises a question, not as to whether negroes will receive fair treatment by FEPC, but as to whether whites could receive justice at the hands of the agency.

This so-called report has further stamped the "committee" as being an agency less interested in questions of justice and racial equity than in serving as an instrument for crusading, at taxpayer expense, in behalf of extremist theories of racial equality. It is not satisfied with seeking a position of equality for negroes. It seems to be working for a position of superiority for negroes over whites. It wants power to tell those who would prefer to employ whites that they must employ negroes —and FEPC is resentful because it does not have that express power.

From the moment of its creation by presidential decree, it has been a trouble-making agency. The recent "report" offered little grounds for hope that it has any intention of mending its ways.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Capital Ponders Jesse Jones' Position
Texas Cabinet Member Goes His Own Way
Has Strength With President's Enemies
Does He Seek Second Place On Ticket?

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Inside the cabinet they are facetiously saying that, for FDR, July is "Jesse Jones Month." Exactly one year ago, the President was confronted with an open, virtriolic row between his Vice President and his Secretary of Commerce which he solved in favor of Jones.

Today he has a Southern revolt on his hands which he has told insiders he blames partly on Jesse Jones. So the question is: What he is going to do about it?

PEARSON

If the President lets a member of his own cabinet get away with what looks like open rebellion, it is a tip-off to other rebels, and revolt spreads. Already the unhappy whisper is going around that "Jesse has something on the President" and that the President doesn't dare fire him.

The whisperers — and some aren't too far from the White House—point out that Jesse got away with the delays on synthetic rubber which set back the entire nation, and that he even had the nerve to make a public statement shifting the blame to the President. They also point out that the Senate Banking and Currency committee, which privately went into the Jones-Wallace dispute over the Board of Economic Warfare, sided with Wallace and were shocked over some of Jones' delays, especially on quinine.

They also point out that, privately, the President obviously doesn't like him, and yet, despite Jones' 70 years and the effective manner in which Governor Dewey has ridiculed Roosevelt's "tired old men," Roosevelt keeps him in the cabinet.

JONES' POWER

THE answer probably is that Jones has more power on Capitol Hill than any other cabinet member—especially among Southern recalcitrants with whom the President needs to get along. Jones has loaned money to the constituents of more congressmen than anyone in history. Just as the one banker in any small town is a potent person, so Jesse Jones, backed by RFC millions, is all-powerful in the little group of men and politicians who control legislation.

For instance, Jesse recently was under fire from Sen. Clyde Reed, Republican of Kansas, in regard to claims that he was controlling the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad by not permitting one group of stockholders to pay up their RFC loan and thus get free of Jones' domination. The Senate probe of the situation was squashed largely by Sen. Ed Johnson, Democrat of Colorado, who quite frequently said:

"Jesse Jones is the only man who does favors for us up here on the Hill, and when he wants a favor, I'm going to reciprocate."

Clayton Offers Resignation

All of this came to a show-down recently when Jones' close friend and associate, Will Clayton, sent to the White House his resignation as Surplus Property administrator. Clayton, also from Texas, and longtime assistant Secretary of Commerce under Jones, had been accused of helping to inspire the Texas anti-Roosevelt revolt through his cotton firm, Anderson, Clayton & Co.

In resigning, Clayton not only said that he did not know anything about the Texas rebellion, but went further and stated that he considered "un-American" the idea of depriving the people of their vote through reversing their wishes in the Electoral College.

The White House, believing in Clayton's sincerity, did not accept his resignation.

The incident was embarrassing to Jones, however, because (1) he did not submit his resignation, and (2) he had not then denounced the Texas revolt.

BYRNES INTERVENES

AT about the time Clayton resigned, Jones had been confined to his bed with an infected kidney. However, Assistant President Jimmie Byrnes, who lives in the same hotel, went to see him. Jimmie is fond of Jones and backed him in last July's showdown with Henry Wallace.

Byrnes went over the whole matter thoroughly, but Jesse stuck to his position that he had known nothing about the Texas revolt.

"All right," replied Byrnes, "nobody called me up from South Carolina, either, to tell me what was going on down there. But I found out about it and sent some of my boys down to straighten things out. Now it's up to you, as a member of the President's Cabinet from Texas, to straighten things out there."

Preferred Not To "Meddle"

However, Jones maintained he did not want to meddle in the Texas political situation.

Later, Byrnes had a second talk with Jones in which he really put the heat on, urged that he denounce as un-American the Texas idea of choosing electors pledged to disregard the wishes of the electorate if they voted for Roosevelt.

This was what finally induced Jones to publish his first-page editorial in the Houston Chronicle frowning on the Texas Electoral College idea but supporting various other ideas of the Anti-Roosevelt group. The editorial was so cautious and so long delayed, however, that it aroused no enthusiasm from the President. Privately, he is just as down on Jesse as ever.

Several around the White House are wondering whether Jones is playing a long shot to be the Vice Presidential nominee. They have not forgotten the balloons he had hidden in the Democratic convention hall in Houston during the Al Smith nomination in 1928. Marked "Jesse Jones for President," they caused smiles by breaking loose and floating over the crowd prematurely.

Nor have they forgotten Jesse's secret moves to be the vice presidential nominee instead of Wallace at Chicago in 1940.

And as he is strong with the conservative and Southern wing of the party, they are convinced that, if the coming convention is deadlocked over Wallace, Jesse figures the whole Southern revolt could be compromised by putting him up as Roosevelt's running mate.

It sounds like a long shot. But Jesse has played the long shots ever since he was an over-invested real-estate operator during the depression, desperate to become Herbert Hoover's RFC director. And the long shots have pulled him through.

"Barber Shop Harmony" Breaks Monotony Of Front At Night

Pyle Describes Action Of Ack-Ack Battery

BY ERNIE PYLE

Special Correspondent

IN NORMANDY — (By Wireless) — The six hours of nighttime go swiftly for our ack-ack battery, which is a blessing. Time races when you are firing. And in the long lulls between the waves of enemy planes you doze and catnap and the time gets away.

ERNIE PYLE

Once, during a lull long after midnight, half a dozen of the boys in our gunpit start singing softly. Their voices are excellent. Very low and sweetly they sing in perfect harmony such song as "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad" and "Tipperary."

There isn't anything forced, or dramatic, about it. It's just half a dozen young fellows singing because they like to sing — and the fact that they are in a gunpit in France shooting at people, trying to kill them, is just a circumstance.

Nights Bitterly Chill

The night grows bitterly chill. Between firings every man drapes an army blanket around his shoulders, and sometimes up over his head, capelike. In the darkness they are just silhouettes, looking strange and foreign like Arabs.

After 2 o'clock there is a long lull. Gradually the boys wrap up in their blankets and lie down on the floor of the pit and fall asleep. Pretty soon you hear them snoring. I talk with the gun commander for a few minutes, in low tones. Then my eyes get heavy, too.

I wrap a blanket around me and sit down on the floor of the pit, leaning against the wall. The night is now as silent as a grave. Not a shot, not a movement anywhere.

My head slacks over to one side. But I can't relax enough to sleep in that position. And it is so cold. I am sleepy, I hurt, and I berate myself because I can't go to sleep like the others.

BUT I'm asleep all the time For suddenly a voice shouts "Stand By!" — and it is as shocking as a bucket of cold water in your face. You look quickly at your watch and realize that an hour has passed. All the silent forms come frantically to life. Blankets fly. Men bump into each other.

"Commence Firing!" rings out above the confusion, and immediately the great gun is blasting away, and smoke again fills the gunpit.

Sleep and rouse up. Catnap and fire. The night wears on. Sometimes a passing truck sounds exactly like a faraway plane. Frightened French dogs bark in distant barnyards.

Things are always confusing and mysterious in war. Just before dawn an airplane draws nearer and nearer, lower and lower, yet we get no order to shoot and we wonder why. But machine guns and Bofors guns for miles around go after it.

The plane comes booming on in, in a long dive. He seems to be heading right at us. We feel like ducking low in the pit. He actually crosses the end of our field less than 100 yards from us, and only 200 or 300 feet up. Our hearts are pounding.

We don't know who he is or what he is doing. Our own planes are not supposed to be in the air. Yet if this is a German why doesn't he bomb or strafe us? We never find out.

Balloon Breaks Loose

The first hint of dawn comes. Most of us are asleep again. Suddenly one of the boys calls out, "Look! What's that?"

We stare into the faint light, and there just above us goes a great, silent, grotesque shape, floating slowly through the air. It is a ghostly sight.

Then we recognize it, and all of us feel a sense of relief. It is one of our barrage balloons which has broken loose and is drifting to earth. Something snags it in the next field, and it hangs there poised above the apple trees until somebody comes and gets it long after daylight.

AS fuller light comes we start lighting cigarets in the open. The battery commander asks over the phone how many shells were fired, and tells us our tentative score for the night is seven planes shot down. The crew is proud and pleased.

Dawn brings an imagined warmth and we throw off our blankets. Our eyes feel gravelly and our heads groggy. The blast of the gun has kicked up so much dirt that our faces are as grimy as though we had driven all night in a dust storm. The green Norman countryside is wet and glistening with dew.

Then we hear our own planes drumming in the distance. Suddenly they pop out of a cloud bank and are over us. Security for another day has come, and we surrender willingly the burden of protecting the beaches. The last "rest!" is given and we put the gun away until another darkness comes.

Caen, La Haye Fall

ing swiftly southeastward from captured La Haye du Puits.

Front line dispatches said the latter drive was breaking through German strong defenses and opening an exit out of the Cherbourg peninsula through the few channels passages between swamps and lowlands. The Germans were said to be falling back to new defenses.

Lessay is about 4½ miles below La Haye.

Montgomery's assault was a typical flanking jab.

It was made while the bulk of the main German forces were engaged by British sweeping through the ruins of Caen toward the suburb of Fauborg de Vaucelles, where the Germans were making a stand.

Key Hill Overrun

In the first two and a half hours of the new attack south and east of the Odon river the British overran key hill 112, three quarters of a mile north of Esquay on the road to Caen, as well as Eterville, three miles southwest of Caen on the same road.

The new attack, flung with a thunderous artillery barrage at 5 a. m., came just 15 hours after British and Canadian forces had taken Caen, 120 miles from Paris, and opened the way to a favorable flat battleground on the plain of Caen south of the port of Falice.

On the western end of the line American forces matched the British offensive with a drive that made progress in all sectors following the capture of La Haye du Puits, bitterly defended German stronghold.

Panzers Badly Mauled

Field dispatches assaying the extent of the British-Canadian victory at Caen said the German 12th SS panzer division and a field division had been badly mauled in trying to hold the town. The 12th panzers were reported whittled to 45 per cent of their normal strength, a loss of perhaps 5,500 men.

The town of Caen was so badly battered that the British had to bring up bulldozers to push the rubble aside because vehicles could not get within 500 yards of the river.

"The Germans have suffered a severe reverse," the supreme command asserted in commenting on the capture of Caen, stubborn bastion on the eastern wing of the bridgehead front, but hastened to add.

"They have not yet suffered a major defeat in the field."

Two Divisions Trapped

The forces of Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel were badly mauled in the fierce fighting for Caen, with the major part of two divisions trapped in pockets north of the river Orne by the swift British advance. But the bulk of the German troops engaged in the area staged an "organized retreat," in the words of the supreme command, and took a new stand along the south bank of the Orne.

The Germans' whole Normandy front was described as in "a state of strain" today.

Gen Omar N. Bradley's American First army advanced an average of a mile along many parts of the Cherbourg peninsula front. In the St. Jean de Daye sector it captured Cavigny, three miles southeast of St. Jean, and also Le Desert, two miles southwest.

"In this fighting American troops occupied the reverse position that the British did in the capture of Cherbourg," the supreme command explained.

Many Nazis Tied Up

"They tied up many German divisions while the British and Canadians attacked Caen. Just as the capture of Cherbourg would have been impossible without British help in the east, so the capture of Caen would have been impossible without American help in the west."

Today Allied troops were on the move everywhere along the Normandy front except in the sector from St. Lo to Caumont. German lines were being bulged to the bursting point.

Field reports to the supreme command early today placed the British and Canadians in possession of all Caen north of the river, although pockets of resistance held out at several points. These were being cleaned up and a steady stream of prisoners was being taken.

Enemy Casualties Heavy

"Reports received indicate the enemy has suffered heavy casualties" in the Caen operation, the supreme command said today in communique No. 89.

Canadian troops took Carpiquet airfield and some field dispatches said they had crossed the river Odon southwest of Caen, but there was no immediate confirmation of such a development at the Supreme command.

While the Germans still held Fauborg de Vaucelles, a suburb of Caen on the south side of the river Orne, their position was precarious on two counts:

1. It was believed the Germans had not been able to destroy all the bridges across the Orne in their rapid retreat.

British Hold Bridgehead

2. The British long have held desperately to a bridgehead across the Orne from a mile north of the suburb to the sea and this now is paying big dividends. This bridgehead threatens the German flank, for an attack south from the bridgehead would cut off all the Germans in the suburb.

With more than 1,000 tanks still at his disposal, Rommel might be planning for a battle to win in the Caen plain southeast of the river Orne.

The use of Caen as a port will be impossible for the Allies until German lines are cleared well south of the Orne. A naval officer said Caen could take ships up to 6,000 tons under the best tidal conditions, but for the most part it could be used only by 3,000-ton coastal ships.

Although the town's docks were destroyed, the canal leading from the sea has been in Allied hands since D-day and is largely intact.

French Capital To Be Moved

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — Gen. Charles De Gaulle, reporting his conversations with President Roosevelt had attained the "principal objective" of creating a better understanding, announced today he would move his capital from Algiers to liberated French territory as soon as possible.

"I had very broad and frank conversations with President Roosevelt," De Gaulle told a press conference, adding that he was taking away with him "the best possible impression from my stay in the capital of the United States."

Explains France's Position

The French leader said he explained to the President "as well as I could, how France, gradually emerging from her temporary misfortune, intends to participate with her Allies, at her rightful place, first in the war and then in the life of the world at peace."

De Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

The general discussed his meeting with Mr. Roosevelt and other American officials just before taking a plane for New York.

Price Ceilings Go In Effect On Used Cars

WASHINGTON, July 10. (U.P.) — Price ceilings on used automobiles went into effect today as the Office of Price administration moved to halt "continued" retail price increases in one of the nation's largest businesses.

Principal pricing stipulations under which the $2,000,000,000 a year industry now will operate:

1. Specific dollars-and-cents prices at January, 1944 levels for all makes from 1937 through 1942. The 1942 models, last to be built before production was stopped, will have a ceiling of the maximum new car price of last February 29. Pre-1937 models cannot sell for prices higher than the comparable models of 1937.

2. Ceiling prices will drop at the rate of four per cent of the "as is" price every six months.

3. Different ceilings will apply for cars sold "as is" and those carrying a "warranty" or guarantee of service.

4. Different prices will prevail according to geographical zone. Region A, covering all states east of the Mississippi, will have the lowest ceiling; region C, comprising Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, and Arizona, will have the highest prices; and region B, embracing all other states, will have a ceiling about average of the other two regions.

5. Ceiling regulations will apply for both private and dealer sales and both the buyer and the seller will be required to file transfer certificates with the local rationing board.

Five More Bodies Found In Wreckage

JELLICO, Tenn., July 10. (U.P.)—Five more bodies have been removed from the wreckage of a troop train, six cars of which plunged into a mountain gorge near here Thursday night, bringing to 32 the official death toll, Army authorities announced today.

The Army announcement said all military personnel now was believed accounted for, though rescue workers continued to carve and burn their way through the twisted wreckage of the fast Louisville and Nashville sleeper.

Two of the 25 soldiers named on an earlier death list were erroneously listed, it was announced. The latest casutlay list, including seven names, thus brought the Army dead to 30. Two trainmen also died.

Woman Found Dead In Bed At Slaton

SLATON, July 10 (Spl)—Mrs. Mary E. Ecker, 89, was found dead in bed Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Elkins, where she had lived the last eleven months.

The body will be carried to her old home in Marquette, Iowa, today and services will be held Wednesday in St. Mary's Catholic church.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Blanche Baker of Lubbock and Mrs. Victoria Baldwin of Rockford, Ill., and one son, John Ecker of Slaton.

Odd-Lot Shoes Being Sold Ration Free

WASHINGTON, July 10 (U.P.)—Odd-lot shoes in limited quantities went on sale ration free today under a new order permitting stampless sales for the three week period ending July 29.

The Office of Price administration said the schoes will be clearance types, broken sizes and "other odds and ends," usually sold at reduced prices, which have not been moved under rationing.

Pfc. B. B. Littrell, Of Lubbock, Dies

Mrs. Belle V. Littrell of 812 Sixth street was informed in a telegram from Camp Maxey, Texas, this morning that her son, Pfc. Bervyy B. Littrell, 36, had died Saturday at Fort Worth en route to Camp Maxey. There were no details.

Ironically, the mother had received a letter Friday from the son asking that she write him. Her letters had been going to an APO box in New York, under her assumption the son had been transferred in preparation for a trip to overseas fighting. He did not receive the letter she addressed Friday night to Camp Bowie, Texas.

The body will be sent to Sanders Funeral home. No decision on further arrangements had been made this afternoon.

Pfc. Littrell is survived by his wife and four children, Dona Belle, Betty Jean, Dorothy Louise and Goldie Lois, all of 1306 Thirty-second street, his mother and four brothers, Ray of Lubbock, Sgt. L. V. of Lubbock Army Air field, Huey of Paris, and Pvt. Irving Littrell of New Guines, and a half-brother J. W. Phillips of Lubbock.

Pfc. Littrell had lived in Lubbock from 1926 to 1940. then moved to California, where he was employed as a bus driver.

Reds Driving On

said. "In the Iasi sector (of Romania), local Soviet attacks have been checked but it is clear the Soviet command soon will stage a big offensive."

Northeast of Wilno, troops of the Baltic front, sweeping up more than 700 towns, captured Druja, little more than a mile from the Latvian border. Also seized was Braslov, southwest of Druja and only 25 miles from Daugavpils, Moscow announced.

Fighting for the second day in the streets of Wilno, the former Polish-ruled city which the Russians transferred to Lithuania in 1940, the Russians appeared to have that ancient center of Baltic civilization on the verge of capitulation, Moscow dispatches said.

Barricaded In City

The German broadcast said the Nazi defenders had "barricaded themselves in the center of the city. House after house was defended the most stubbornly and the Soviets are paying with the highest sanguinary losses for every meter of ground gained in the shattered town."

The Berlin commentator, Walter Plato, said the Russians had reached the Kaunas - Daugavpils road in the neighborhood of Otena where fierce fighting raged.

This was inside Lithuanian borders as they existed before the country was made a Soviet republic and some former Polish territory annexed. It apparently was about 80 or 85 miles from the German frontier of East Prussia.

Rail Line Under Fire

Previous reports said the Russians were sweeping past Wilno to the northwest toward Kaunas, 50 miles to the west, had crossed the pre-war border and had brought the rail line under fire.

Tilsit in East Prussia and Riga, the Latvian port on the Baltic appeared in the path of the offensive.

German underground information received here said the Germans already had declared East Prussia "a rear area of operations" and were planning a swift withdrawal from the Pskov-Narva sector of Estonia in the northern Baltics where their forces were threatened with being cut off from Germany except by sea.

The Nazi plan called for evacuation of all Estonia and most of Latvia in order to conserve forces for the defense of East Prussia, the cradle of Junkerism, these advices said.

Nazi Headquarters Moved

The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen declared Adolf Hitler had moved his headquarters at Lotzen in East Prussia to a point deeper inland and that German army headquarters at Rastenburg and German air force headquarters at Rominten in East Prussia, also were being moved westward.

Virtually encircling Wilno, the Russians also swept around the city to the south, taking 150 towns on a front of more than 100 miles, including Lida on the Wilno-Baranowicz-Luniniec line.

Grodno and Bialystok on the main railway running southwest to Warsaw were in the path of the Russians. Capture of Lida placed the Russians within 60 miles of Grodno and the fall of Dyartlovo to the south placed them within 90 miles of Bialystok.

Travel Is Restricted

Restriction on civilian travel and other activities were reported in East Prussia as the Russian army groups thundered westward at a startling pace. Gauleiter Erich Kpck and the military commander of Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia, were said to have been given dictatorial powers to aid the defense of the province.

The retreat near the Baltic, which may already be started, would move the German 16th army from the Narva area to Talinn, capital of Estonia, for evacuation by sea to East Prussia. The 18th German army was reported scheduled to retreat from Pskov to Riga where it also would be evacuated by sea or land to East Prussia, depending on how swiftly the Russians smash through toward the Latvian capital.

Further accenting the growing German manpower shortage were reports reaching Norwegian circles in London of the withdrawal of Nazi troops from Norway for service in France. Garrisons were reported leaving Lillehammer.

Gen. Eisenhower

general said the taking of Caen was most gratifying and we are on the offensive all along the front.

Yanks In Painful Drive

The continuation of the American push on the western flank is all part of the great plan but there is nothing spectacular in it at the moment. It is slow, painful slugging.

General Eisenhower was greatly pleased with the Russian victory at Wilno. He said that 25 German divisions northeast of Wilno are badly compromised by its capture.

The supreme commander discussed sympathetically the trials London and southern England are going through under flying bomb attacks. He said no military man is taken lightly these experiences. This new weapon and its employment is difficult to analyze. Speculation on it is out of order.

In paying tribute to the remarkable achievements of the air force General Eisenhower got back into his most trying subject —the weather.

Weather Hampered Plans

He said Allied air operations were beyond praise for endurance, skill and enthusiasm, but weather prevented coordination of the huge air power with tactical ground fighting and thus saved the enemy.

The weather was so bad the general said with a grin that even the British admit it was unusual. In fact the British were talking about their weather like Californians.

General Eisenhower was in high spirits today as he lunched with the Earl of Fairfax, the British ambassador to Washington, and Maj. Gen. Bedell Smith, the chief of staff. Lord Halifax paid a great tribute to the general personally. Britain and America, Lord Halifax said, owe many debts to General Eisenhower, but perhaps the greatest is the way he has worked us all into one fighting team.

Double Execution Is Held At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, July 10 (U.P.) — Two negroes were executed early Sunday at the state penitentiary in Texas' first double electrocution in several years.

David Williams, convicted of rape in Travis county, entered the death chamber shortly after midnight. He was followed 10 minutes later by Benny Johnson, who was given the death penalty for murder in Chambers county.

Two prisoner were left behind in death row, awaiting execution later this month.

Tribute Paid In London

In London, Dr. James H. Rushbrooke, president of the Baptist World Alliance, said:

"A prince and great man has fallen in our Israel. Dr. George Truett has for more than a generation held a unique position and influence among Baptists of all lands.

"He was a mighty evangelistic preacher, I think the greatest since Spurgeon. He had a fine presence and voice and the Greek gift of oratory. And above all, his immensity of conviction and deep religious experience was everywhere evident.

"He had built from small beginnings the greatest Baptist church in the southern states and he was honored far beyond the bounds of his own communion. He belonged, in fact, to the whole of the Christian world.

"I would express to my American brethren and especially to his church and family, my profound sympathy at this immense loss."

MOVE FOR MEMORIAL TO DR. TRUETT GAINS IMPETUS

DALLAS, July 10 (U.P.) — A move to erect a memorial tower at Dallas' Baylor university hospital in honor of Dr. George W. Truett, world-renowned churchman, gained impetus today as his body lay in state at the church he served as pastor for nearly 47 years.

Baylor officials reported that contributions toward the memorial tower, already in post-war plans for the institution which Dr. Truett served as an original trustee, had already started flowing in.

Meanwhile, suggestions that the First Baptist church be renamed the Truett Memorial Baptist church were met with the statement of Pastor's Assistant Robert Coleman that he believed that would not have met with the approval of Dr. Truett, since the pastor had never sought such honors.

Week-End Victories Big Boost For Allies

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This has been a gratifying week-end for Allied arms the world around, with substantial victories recorded in Normandy and Russia, and American completion of the bloody conquest of the strategic island of Saipan in the Central Pacific.

The Allies have made important progress in Normandy. They finally have ripped the German battle-line loose from its bitterly defended anchors at both ends. The Canadians and British took the ancient city of Caen on the Nazi eastern flank after 35 days of hell, while the Americans captured La Haye du Puits on the western wing in the face of stubborn resistance.

Caen Is Key Point

The fall of Caen is of particular importance because this inland port and railway center was the key point of the German defense of the peninsula. Had we been able to take this stronghold early in the invasion, it would have made a great difference in our progress in breaking into the French hinterland—progress which the Allied command had hoped would be much further ahead than it is now.

However, supreme Allied headquarters cautions us not to regard the victory at Caen as a major defeat of the Germans in the field, although it is a "serious reverse." The significance of the capture of Caen and La Haye du Puits is that it paves the way for the decisive battle which we must win before we can free the peninsula of the enemy and thereby enable our forces to reach the open roads to Paris and Berlin. This great clash may be expected soon.

'Angels' Of Father Divine By-Pass Ban On Heavenly Names

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Father Divine's numerous "heavens" were moving happily along in their Harlem constellation today. The "angels" had scored a point with local officials by contributing $94,000 to the Fifth War Loan drive—in Philadelphia.

Last night at war bond rallies held here in two of Father Divine's missions a milling crowd of arm-waving angels sang:

"We won't buy bonds in Harlem today
"We will take our millions away
"We'll buy bonds in another state
"Until New York officials do as father says—"

Then they stepped up and placed their money on the line for Police Captain Henry Brown of Philadelphia and Louis J. Amarando of the Pennsylvania War Finance committee, who had set up shop in Harlem for the benefit of the Pennsylvania campaign.

Barred "Heavenly" Names

Postoffices in Harlem had refused to sell the "angels" bonds inscribed with the "heavenly" names they had adopted since joining Father Divine's cult.

But Brown and Amarando sold bonds to Miss Wonderful Sincere, Miss Faithful Child, Mr. Eve Love, Mr. Seven Stars, and others.

Th two Pennsylvania officials, who invaded New York with a suitcase containing 1,300 bonds, left with 350. They had sold the rest—all to be credited toward the Pennsylvania quota. An armored car provided by the Treasury department carried the proceeds back to Philadelphia.

The Quaker City is behind in its quota of bond sales. New York state went over the top in its overall quota of $5,151,100,000 last Friday but has subscribed only 47.4 per cent of its $367,000,000 quota for E-bonds, known as "the peoples' bond."

Sgt. Barney Ross To Referee Houston Bout

HOUSTON, July 10. (AP) — Sgt. Barney Ross, hero of Guadalcanal, who was credited with killing 22 Japs, former holder of the lightweight title and twice welterweight ring champion, will be referee tonight when the Houston boxing club stages its initial show.

Ross will referee the final six round main event between Bernard Docusen, undefeated New Orleans Filipino, holder of the southern featherweight title and Eddie Lee, Houston, Chinese challenger.

Docusen's title will be at stake.

In a ten round bout, Chalky Wright, Los Angeles, and Ruby Garcia, lightweight champion of Puerto Rico, clash. Wright, the No. 1 challenger for the featherweight title in the eyes of the National Boxing association and the New York Boxing commission, will be making his Texas ring debut.

A WPA survey fixed the land area of the United States at 3,022,387 square miles.

OMA, NOVA TO CLASH

NEW YORK, July 10 (U.P.)—Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight, risks his string of 19 straight victories against Veteran Lou Nova at Detroit's Olympia Friday night in the feature bout on this week's national boxing program. State's Cotton Acreage Short AUSTIN, July 10. (AP) — Texas' cotton acreage this year has hit the lowest mark of the century.

The crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture estimated acres planted on July 1, at 7,325,000, seven per cent lower than last year and the smallest since 1890, when acreage was 6,950,000.

Peak planting of cotton acreage in Texas was in 1925, when farmers seeded 18,443,000 acres.

Land once planted in cotton, said the USDA, is now being used for production of sorghums and other foods.

Season Not Favorable

One factor in the situation is that the season was not favorable for cotton this year. Many farmers were not able to put in their intended acreage because of excess moisture at planting time over the central, eastern and southeastern portion of the state, and because of excessive dryness in the South Plains.

Many early fields were taken by grass, were abandoned and later planted to feed crops.

Such cotton as the state had, however, was in good condition July 1, the USDA said. Dry, hot, weather in June permitted field work and most acreage was clean. Cotton was fruiting well with stands generally good.

Woman Is Shot To Death In Amarillo

AMARILLO, July 10. (AP)—A. W. Haight, 67, faced charges of murder today in the fatal shooting of his step-daughter, Mrs. Ruth Waroff, 23, in what Sheriff Bill Adams termed a family quarrel.

Haight, taken to the Potter county jail yesterday, was found with his throat slashed but the wound was not serious, hospital attendants reported.

Adams said Mrs. Haight had come into Amarillo to live with her daughter, Mrs. Waroff. Accompanied by the latter and her 16-year-old son, Hugh, Mrs. Haight had gone to the family residence northwest of Amarillo to pack her things, the sheriff related. It was then that the shooting occurred.
