Czechs Expel U. S. News Director

Offices Must Be Shut Down By Saturday

LONDON—(AP)—Czechoslovakia Wednesday ordered the expulsion of Joseph C. Kolarek, director of the U. S. Information Services, and demanded an immediate halt to the USIS activities in the country.

At the same time dispatches from Prague said six Czechoslovaks, one of them a woman, went on trial, in Pankrac State Court in Prague, charged with belonging to a spy ring directed by the U. S. Embassy. The Czech defendant, former Army Major Jaromir Nechansky, confessed to charges of high treason and spying.

In a telephone call to Berlin, Kolarek, press attache of the embassy in Prague, said the Czech government accused him of "grossly abusing" his diplomatic office by using Czech nationals for spying and propaganda work against their government. Kolarek denied the charges.

The Czech government last October had announced it had smashed a spy ring directed by six former U. S. Embassy officials. U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson said in Washington at the time that these charges obviously had been "trumped up."

Youth Sentenced

In another development, J. Zastera, 20 years old, was sentenced to 18 years in prison on his conviction on charges of high treason and spying. Zastera, a student, also was ordered expelled from the country, the dispatches say. The indication is that the sentence must be served before the prisoner is expelled from the country.

Zastera was reported sentenced along with 15 Czechs, but details of the accusations against them were not disclosed immediately.

The Czech Foreign Ministry sent a note to the U. S. Embassy demanding that the USIS offices in Prague and Bratislava, Slovakia, be closed down by Saturday noon and that Kolarek leave the country within "an appropriate time." This is another way of saying he is expelled.

Kolarek, 34, comes from Baltimore, Md., has been in Prague since 1935. The information service has directed distributed news broadcasts by the State Department, operated libraries and circulated films and recordings.

Say U. S. Planned Incident

MOSCOW — (AP) — The authoritative Soviet Weekly New Times charged Wednesday that the Baltic Sea plane incident was prepared deliberately by the United States as an international provocation.

The weekly, which comments on foreign policy matters, charged that the United States had rescue planes waiting in Denmark even before the U. S. plane involved in the incident had taken off from Wiesbaden April 8. Thus, it said, "it was a previously prepared provocation."

New Times said the incident was a "plain intentional provocation," and described it as "training in the fabric of international incidents."

Path Of Provocations

"After the American provocation in the Baltic it is evident that Washington has set out upon the same risky path of provocations and instigation of international incidents and conflict along which the German and Japanese Fascists traveled."

The article contended the Americans themselves had disproved their claim that the U. S. plane could not have crossed the Soviet border. This was demonstrated, it said, by the sending of the largest group of American search planes to the Soviet shores of the Baltic.

New Times added that many airmen laughed at the idea that the plane might have gone 350 miles off its course through a navigation mistake.

If the American plane had been in distress, the weekly said, it would have welcomed the Soviet invitation to land. Instead, it said, it fired on the Soviet planes.

Deep Cuts In Mail Services Are Ordered

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Most postmasters over the country got orders Wednesday for a cut in mail service, including a limit of one delivery a day to residential areas.

Further, post office windows are to close earlier where possible, and other economies are in the works.

The orders were announced Tuesday night by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson. Postmasters were instructed to begin putting them into effect as soon as they are received.

The "immediate" order applies particularly to delivery restrictions. A 30-day notice is to be allowed on the curtailment of services which affect business operations, such as receipt of mail at the windows and back platforms of post offices.

Donaldson explained that cuts in service are necessary because post office costs have been outrunning postal receipts.

He has been trying to get Congress to vote more money to his department and to let it raise postal rates by a total of about $600,000,000 a year.

Congress Smells 'Pressure'

In fact, some members of Congress took the view that the mail service curtailment was decided on in order to pressure Congress into giving the Post Office Department more money.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations Committee commented to newsmen that the decision to curb service "seems well-timed."

He added that a storm of protests from mail users probably will follow the department's decision and is bound to be reflected when House members vote on postal funds in

Midland To Feel Cutback

Orders to limit mail service in residential areas to one delivery a day will not slow first class mail service here, Postmaster N. G. Oates said Wednesday.

The new orders, announced Tuesday by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson, will be contained in the weekly Postal Bulletin, which usually arrives in Midland on Thursday.

"Until we get definite orders we do not know exactly what kind of new setup we will have," Oates said.

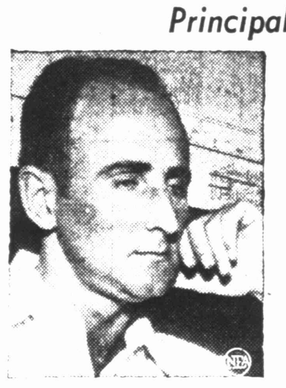

Oates said, however, that afternoon deliveries will be eliminated in favor of the morning runs, and that he probably will be forced to lay off a few substitute carriers.

Twelve substitue carriers and 10 regulars currently are working out of the Midland office on 16 routes.

Most of the first class mail will be delivered on time, Oates said. The morning runs previously contained virtually all the first class mail and the carriers now will wait until later in the morning to begin their routes in order to be sure of getting all the first class matter. The afernoon runs usually contain only second, third and fourth class mail, Oates said.

Two deliveries daily still will be made in the downtown business district, Oates said. Only the residential areas will be affected by the new rules.

Principals In Airliner Bombing Plot

(NEA Telephotos)

Detective C. Edwards assists Mrs. John Grant of Gardena, Calif., and her two children, Mary Anne, four, and Robert, five, into a car at Inglewood Airport after a planned trip to San Diego was cut short by her husband's plot to blow them up aboard a plane and collect $25,000 in flight insurance. Grant, pictured at left above, sits dejectedly in a Venice, Calif., police station after his plot failed. At bottom, left, is red-haired Betty Suomela of Hermosa Beach, Calif., an airline stewardess, in whose car Grant drove his wife and children to the airport for their projected trip. Police absolved Miss Suomela of any connection with the bombing plot.

'Dress Western' Campaign Planned For Midland Rodeo

The most intensive "dress Western" campaign since before the war years will be staged in connection with the 1950 Midland Rodeo, May 31-June 4, if plans of the Retailers Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce are carried to completion.

Plans for the campaign were mapped at a meeting of retailers Tuesday afternoon in Hotel Scharbauer when ways and means of increasing interest in and support of the annual world championship attraction were considered. John B. Mills, chairman of the Retailers Committee, presided.

Enforcement

It was pointed out that the success of the "cowboy costume" program hinges on the enforcement angle, and a subcommittee was named to interest one or more civic organizations in assuming this responsibility. Members are J. M. Cox, H. C. Jones and George McCray. Under the proposal, citizens, both men and women, would be asked to don Western attire 10 days before the show's opening.

Methods of increasing attendance at the rodeo were discussed at length and several suggestions were offered. The Sheriff's Posse will assist in this phase of the overall program.

Downtown store windows also will be decorated for the occasion.

Taft Fires Blast At Diplomatic Officials

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) charged Wednesday that influential forces in the State Department had "refused to regard the delivery of (government) papers to Communists as a serious offense."

Taft fired this blast at unnamed diplomatic officials in a weekly report to Ohio voters in which he discussed the 1945 Amerasia Magazine case and other matters. He demanded also that a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee make "an independent, affirmative investigation" of charges made by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis).

McCarthy has been charging for weeks the State Department is and has been a haven for Communists and fellow travelers.

He especially has tried to link John S. Service, consular officer, and Owen Lattimore, Far Eastern specialist, with the Amerasia case. Service was one of six persons arrested on charges of slipping war secrets to the editors of Amerasia, a publication specializing in articles on the Far East.

Indictment Refused

A grand jury refused to indict Service. Three persons were indicted on lesser charges, two of whom were fined. The case against the third of those indicted was dropped.

Lattimore has denied he figured in getting any secret documents to Amerasia and he also has denied McCarthy's broader charge that he is the top Russian agent in this country. Service likewise has denied any connection with Communists.

The investigating subcommittee has ordered its staff to sift the Amerasia case again while the members themselves go ahead Thursday with hearing Louis Budenz, former Communist and now a Fordham University professor, testify on what he knows about Lattimore.

Pruter Services Slated Thursday

Funeral services for George Henry Pruter, 62, Midland accountant, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel, with Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Following the services here, the body will be forwarded to Dallas for cremation. Interment will be in Orange, Texas.

Pruter died of a heart ailment at his home here Monday afternoon.

He had been a Midland resident since 1941, moving here from McAllen. He was born Sept. 17, 1887, at Carrol, Iowa.

Houston City Official

Pruter served as business manager of the City of Houston from 1929 to 1932, and formerly had been associated with The Texas Company in its producing department. He left The Texas Company about 1919 and engaged in accounting work. He returned to the accounting profession after his years of public service.

He was a past potentate of the Arabia Shrine Temple at Houston.

Survivors include his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Lionel Atwill of Santa Monica, Calif.; a grandson, Lionel Atwill, Jr., of Santa Monica; a step-daughter, Mrs. Allen J. Phaup of Richmond, Va.; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Pruter of Orange; two brothers, Douglas and Leonard Pruter of Orange, and a sister, Mrs. Ward Evans of Tucson, Ariz.

SERVICE INTERRUPTED

A "hot" wire fell to the ground in the 300 block on West Wall Street late Tuesday and interrupted electric service in that area for 15 minutes. Texas Electric Service Company repair crews cleared up the trouble.

Bombs Tossed Into Two U. S. Legation Compounds In Syria

DAMASCUS, SYRIA—(AP)—Bombs were tossed into the U. S. Legation compounds at both Damascus and Beirut Tuesday night. This appeared to be an expression of growing anti-American and anti-British sentiment stemming from Arab-Israel tension. A U. S. Marine guard in Damascus was wounded slightly.

U. S. Minister James H. Kelly in Damascus said the two bombs were thrown at almost the same time.

News of the Beirut incident, where a grenade exploded back of the legation garage, was being telephoned to S/Sgt. Elbert Cassel of Bedford, Va., at the Damascus Legation, when a bomb shattered the glass in the switchboard room where he was sitting. He was cut about the hands and face by glass.

The Damascus grenade was tossed over the back wall of the embassy compound.

It Rained Pelicans At Kermit

KERMIT — Rain in Winkler County is unusual enough, but when rain and pelicans come at the same time—that is something unusual.

Maybe it is partly because there is neither a lake nor a running stream in the county, but Kermit residents were surprised recently when eight full-grown pelicans landed in oil well slush pits while the rainy spell was on.

Where the water-loving birds came from, how they got so far from their native haunts, and—above all—why they chose one of the driest, sandiest and most barren sections of the country to land still is a mystery.

"Maybe," one Kermit resident remarked: "it is because a slush pit in Winkler County looks bigger and wetter than the Gulf of Mexico—where there's already a lot of water."

Two of the birds were brought into Kermit by employes of Standard Well Service. The pelicans were cleaned of oil slush and grime and were given a stirring welcome. There's still one problem.

Where—in Winkler County—are the fish needed for their diet?

Stratojet Bomber Heads Air Force List

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Air Force has put a 600-mile-an-hour jet bomber at the top of its buying list and intends to keep it there next year.

The favored plane is a B-47 Stratajet, which has just begun to come off the Boeing Aircraft Company's production line at Wichita, Kas.

Man Found Slain In Roadside Ditch

ENNIS, TEXAS —(AP)— A man's bullet riddled body was found Wednesday in a muddy highway ditch near Alma, five miles south of Ennis.

He carried a driver's license issued to Edgar J. Lee Crawford, 30, of Liberty, Texas.

Papers found in a pocket indicated the man had been released on bond in Dallas. The sheriff's office in Dallas said an Edgar Lee Crawford was released on bond there March 18 on a charge of passing worthless checks.

The man was shot nine times, the shots ranging from head to foot. He was dressed in a blue shirt and work clothes. There was a tatoo mark on his left arm.

Angelo-Stockton Passenger Train Halt Authorized

AUSTIN —(AP)— Discontinuance of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway Company's two passenger trains between San Angelo and Fort Stockton was authorized by the Railroad Commission Tuesday.

The commission order specified that the company must establish mixed train service between the two points to replace the passenger train service.

The company had asked permission to discontinue the trains on ground they were losing money. Public hearings were held at Big Lake and San Angelo.

In oral arguments before the commission Monday, company attorneys said the loss amounted to $132.32 per day during the last 15 months. Protestants argued that the trains were necessary in the public service and that the company never had submitted its books to the commission to back up the loss claims.

The commission noted that when an out-of-pocket loss is shown in such an operation, law requires that permission be granted for discontinuance.

Texas Breaks Out In Real 'Saucer Rash'

By The Associated Press

Clear skies over Texas Tuesday produced a rash of reports about "strange objects" slithering about the heavens.

The objects were described variously as round, cigar-shaped, saucer-shaped, noiseless, banana-like, silvery and wingless.

Sightings were described as slowly moving, revolving swiftly, moving at a high rate of speed, moving vertically and "not stationary but not moving in any one direction."

Reports placed the objects at estimated heights of 20,000 feet, 60,000 feet and "no telling how high it was."

Before the day was over, everyone was seeing 'em—CAA observers, Air Force and airline pilots, and just the fellow going about his business on the ground.

Convair aircraft officials at Fort Worth might have had one explanation for the activity.

They reported a B-36 with six piston engines and four jet pods had been aloft from Monday midnight until Tuesday at 4 p.m., and had flown all over the state.

Almost everyone in Memphis, in the Panhandle, craned necks skyward about noon Tuesday to watch a strange object. About an hour earlier residents of Clarendon, a few miles west, had watched an object in the sky variously described as round and cigar-shaped and apparently motionless.

Childress, Austin, Sherman, Fort Worth and Dallas also reported something in the sky.

Jack Cox, CAA aircraft communicator at Childress, first reported the object there at 12:45 p.m. Cox said it disappeared in a cloud bank. W. S. Warren, managing editor of The Childress Index, said it reappeared at 3 p.m.

Mrs. P. D. Harrison told of seeing "at least" 18 strange saucer-shaped objects at Sherman about noon.

A CAA official at Fort Worth said CAA stations at Wichita Falls, Childress and Clarendon plotted the location and altitude of a silvery something at about 60,000 feet directly above Memphis.

Police Patrolman James C. Fann at Austin made a report of a "silvery looking saucer-shaped object with no wings traveling oyer at a high rate of speed and very high in the sky."

Two Dallas Air National Guard fighter pilots reported that they flew within 5,000 feet of a strange object hovering about 45,000 feet in the sky northwest of Childress about 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Capt. Carl Gray, Dallas Braniff pilot, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram from Denver he saw an object while on a flight north of Childress. He said there was no telling how high it was.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

James C. Watson, Oil Editor

Magnolia No. 2 Parks Tops Mississippian

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 2 Parks, Central-West Midland County wildcat, 11 1/4 miles southwest of the city of Midland, was making hole below 11,420 feet in Mississippian lime.

Operator has not reported official top of the Mississippian. However, it is understood that the formation has been penetrated only a few feet at the current level of operations.

This project showed for a discovery from the Pennsylvanian lime at 10,398-468 feet, when it flowed 23.38 barrels of oil in two hours, and developed a gas volume of 485,000 cubic feet per day.

Operator is drilling it on down to explore the Devonian.

Location is 660 feet from north and 2,180 feet from west lines of section 10, M. Daugherty survey.

W-C Kent Discovery Gets North Offset

General Crude Oil Company and Percy Jones have scheduled a north offset Caroline Hunt Trust estate No. 1 Young, recently completed Canyon reef in West-Central Kent County.

To be 2,860 feet north of the discovery well, General Crude and others No. 1 J. W. Young will be 660 feet from west and 760 feet from south lines of the northeast quarter of section 166, block G, Waco & Northwestern survey.

Drillsite is eight miles northwest of Clairemont. Slated depth for the reef venture is 6,500 feet.

Hunt No. 1 Young rated a flowing daily potential of 2,184 barrels of 39.2-gravity oil and no water.

Sweetie Peck Offset Is Running Casing

Lewis T. Lohman of Dallas, and associates, No. 1 Peck, one location west of the discovery well of the "Sweetie" Peck field in Southwest Midland County, is at total depth of 10,328 feet in the top of the Pennsylvanian lime.

Operator is to cement 5 1/2-inch casing at the present bottom then core ahead into the expected pay in the Pennsylvanian.

The opener of the Peck field showed for production in the Pennsylvanian, but was drilled on down and completed from the Ellenburger.

It is reported, without official verification, that the Lohman No. 1 Peck might finish as a Pennsylvanian oil well, if it can develop commercial production in that formation.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block 41, TP survey, T-4-S.

Reinecke Outpost Still Cuts Shale

C. H. Sweet and associates No. 1 McNeil, three-quarters of a mile northeast of the discovery well of the North Vincent (Reinecke) Canyon field in Southeast Borden County, had reached 6,728 feet in shale, and was drilling deeper.

At that level the wildcat was on a datum of minus 4,390 feet. The elevation is 2,338 feet. The project is expected to find the Canyon reef at any time.

Location is 330 feet from south and west lines of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 53, block 25, H&TC survey, and about 18 miles southeast of Gail.

Pegasus Exploration Staked By Sharples

Sharples Oil Corporation No. 1-E-37 TXL is to be a new exploration to 13,500 feet to test the Ellenburger on the south side of the original Pegasus field along the Upton-Midland County line.

The project will be 660 feet from north and east lines of section 37, block 41, TP survey, T-4-S. It is one-location due south of Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 2-36 Glass, a recently completed producer from the Ellenburger.

Drilling on the new Sharples development is to start at once.

Plymouth Schedules Benedum Project

Plymouth Oil Company has scheduled a 12,500-foot exploration in the Benedum multi-pay field of Central-East Upton County.

The No. 1-7 W. H. Dixon will be 1,553 feet from north and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 7, GC&SF survey and approximately 2,750 feet northeast of Slick-Urschel No. 1-B Neal, a producer.

C-S Borden Flanker Draws Two Offsets

H. S. Moss of Dallas has staked one-quarter mile and one-half mile east offsets to his No. 1 McAdams, which is on the northeast edge of the Vealmoor-Canyon pool in Central-South, Borden County.

Moss No. 2 and 3 McAdams will be in section 27, block 32, T&P survey. Moss No. 2 will be 1,980 feet from west and south lines of the section. No. 3 will be 1,980 feet from east and south lines of the section.

Both projects are slated to go to 7,900 feet to tap the Canyon reef in that area. They will be approximately 23 miles north of Big Spring.

Moss No. 1 McAdams is reported

New French Bombshell Knows How To Reply In The Negative

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—I wangled the first official Hollywood look-see at UI's new zingy French package, Ann Vernon—"pronounce it Vernoh"—and danged if I didn't hurl the old chestnut about French girls and American men at her before the wrappings were completely off.

Gorgeous Ayn, who looks like Loretta Young with ooh-la-la, fixed a pair of eyes with lots of white space in them on me and confessed she is "ver' worreed" about the local variety of swoon boy.

No gushing about their simple lovability, mind you, and no feminine delight in their ability to pucker up for a low whistle when an international dish passes them.

Ann, who thought she knew all about men, is plain puzzled.

She told me:

"Een Hollywood a beeg star take me driveeing. He try to keess me. I poosh heem away and he say to me, 'Are you MAD?' I don't mind he try, eet ees the job of a man to try to make love, but tell me, why is he offended when you don't want to kees heem?

"I deedn't slap hees face. I only say no. Thees Hollywood men, they are spoiled by women, spoiled. Frenchmen never try first time out to make love. Frenchman talk and talk and talk the first time."

Ann's the kind of French pastry who means it when she says, "Mais, non."

She even said it to Orson Welles in Paris, when he asked her to play Desdemona in his "Othello" film production.

"I was fasceenated by thees man," Ann sighed.

Determined

The French beauty is ready to accentuate the negative right here if her UI bosses ask her to follow up her first assignment in "The Magnificent Heel" with a can-can and the usual skirt-flipping that falls to actresses from Lafayetteland.

"I shall refuse eet," she said. "I theenk the human body ver' eenteresting, of course, but if the part is only to show the boozoom, then I do not theenk that would be ver' eenteresting for oh-dience."

Ann hit the film glitter road when a movie producer spotted her modeling French fashions and dropped the hint that a girl who could say so much with her chassis might end up in the Bernhardt league if she ever decided to open her mouth.

As Edith Vignaud, Ann knocked Paris off its pate de fois gras in stage roles and even had a star nailed to her dressing room door in a South American tour with the Comedie Francaise.

"I have beeg trouble in Buenos Aires weeth a man who sends me flowers all the time," she confessed. "My dressing room was feelled weeth beeg trees of orcheeds. He tell me he is lovaire of last year's star and he ask me do I want diamond reeng, meenk coat, carpets. Why carpets, I nevaire find out. I tell heem please go and he press 100 pesos in my hand. Next day I buy flowers weeth these money and send him as goodbye forever geeft."

Been Around

Ann queened it on sound stages in London for J. Arthur Rank and in Rome, too, but comfortably away from lava-paved islands.

Her latest French film, "L'Affaire"—"They changed the title from 'So End the Night' to make eet more sexy," Ann adds—opens in New York next month. It's her first under her new screen name.

"Thees is delicate story about a wife who have affair weeth a pianist," Ann explained. "We shoot two versions—one with Claude Dauphin and me in the same bed for French oh-diences and one in tween beds for the American market. I theenk eet ees not too bad to be frank on the screen. Eet ees seelly to make stars sleep een two beds. You can not stop the eemagination of oh-diences from working."

UI's Bob Goldstein, brother of producer Leonard Goldstein, ogled Ann in a restaurant when she hit New York for a vacation a few weeks ago and talked her into flying to Hollywood for a test.

Before Ann packed her bags, she was handed some advice about Hollywood from Greta Garbo.

Ann whispered:

"She told me eet ees deeficult to have right parts at first. Then she say that I must expect westerns to begin weeth."

Garbo never found out, but Ann's a sagebrush fan from way back with a childhood crush on Joel McCrea and Gary Cooper. She even gave me the French for "They went thataway." It's "Ils sont passee par la."

NOTICE

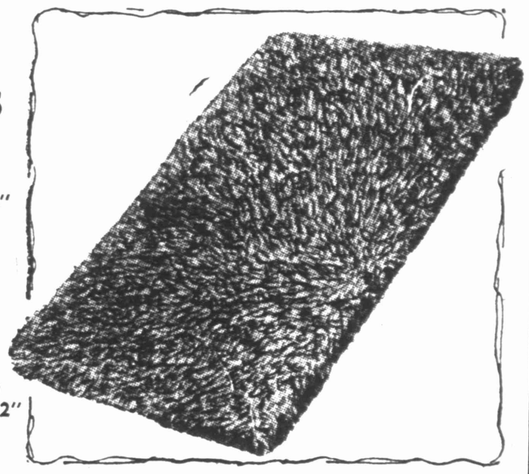

We believe that credit should be given where credit is earned . . . therefore, we'd like to publicly announce that the Howard baby mentioned in Monday's Reporter-Telegram was born to Millie and Ray O. Howard, and not to the Ray E. Howards.

Had this been a girl we'd have said not a word . . . but this is our third boy, and getting three of a kind is rather difficult, especially getting three boys.

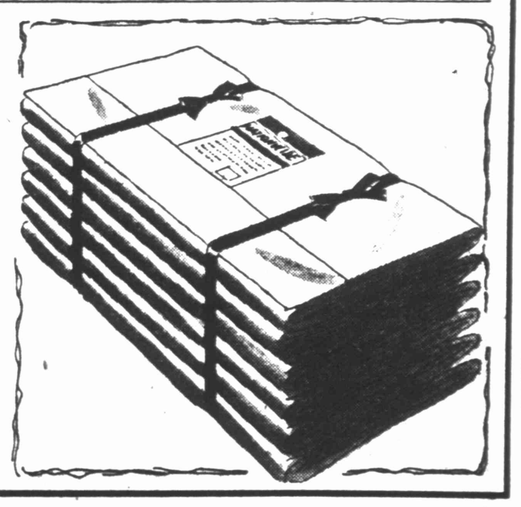

Named "Mark", he tipped the scales at a whopping eight pounds, one ounce. Mother and child are doing fine at the Women's Hospital, while Ray is having a whale of a time trying to care for Zack and Randy, the other two.—(Paid Adv.)

GHQ For Peace

There's good reason to approve Bernard M. Baruch's proposal for a "general staff" for peace to stay vigilantly on the job until the cold war is won.

As Baruch sees such a staff, it would deal continuously with the whole range of peace problems. It would serve as a "central point of decision, weighing all the many commitments pressed upon us, guiding the best disposition of our strained resources, determining where we can achieve a decisive breakthrough—and at what effort."

This looks wise, for one thing, because it might help us Americans face the realities of these difficult times. Baruch points that out:

"Although the cold war is now dragging into its sixth year and despite the enormous resources we have expended, we still have not faced up to what total peace waging requires."

This plainly may mean more than just a wiser channeling of resources into the various cold war theaters, important as that is. To keep pace with Russia may call for far heavier sacrifices than we have yet made or shown any inclination to make.

• • •

In a conflict that is perhaps more dangerous than any hot war we ever fought, there may be no place for the sort of pleasant, even occasionally luxurious living Americans now are enjoying.

For example, many critics have charged that our defenses may actually be somewhat below the minimum safety mark. Whether or not this is true, it is clear the Administration is trying to strike a perilous balance between giving us minimum protection and allowing us to keep on doing very good business as usual.

Naturally a demand for greater sacrifices would be politically unpopular. But we're playing with fire if it is political timidity rather than a sound appraisal of realities that dictates our present policies.

A GHQ for peace, set up as Baurch conceives it, would have the power to wage the cold war on a unified, global basis. With that broad outlook, it would be well equipped to know whether we were at any moment playing with fire by wasting our resources or not expending them fully enough in the right ways.

• • •

No sensible person wants to saddle our civilian economy with crushing burdens which throttle our peacetime growth and progress. Indeed, if we erred too heavily in that direction we might play right into the Russians' hands. But neither must we endanger the survival of our freedoms by coasting along agreeably while the Communists build up an overpowering advantage over us.

The delicate judgments which must be made to keep us on course, with neither too much nor too little given to this tense struggle, seem a fitting responsibility for a group of our highest caliber men. As a general staff for peace, they could keep us all courageously alert to the hard tasks of a cold war.

At the same time they would have to serve as watchful guardians of our peacetime liberties and, too, as energetic promoters of the nation's economic progress.

Letting someone else do your thinking is just thoughtlessness.

Time For Another Bipartisan Tune-Up

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: RFC dollars backtrack into McCarthy pockets; Catholic diocesan paper criticizes McCarthy; Taft's strange stand may reflect Lobbyist Goodwin's influence.

WASHINGTON—Here is more insight into the operations of Wisconsin's mercurial senator Joe McCarthy.

In 1948, McCarthy went on a 30,000-mile tour of the country, supposedly to study the nation's housing.

A few months later, in the Spring of 1949, Senator McCarthy was in need of financial aid, while Carl Strandlund, president of the Lustron Corporation of Columbus, Ohio, was in need of congressional aid.

Lustron, almost wholly financed by the federal government, was having great difficulty launching its prefabricated housing venture despite 32,000,000 RFC dollars. In fact, Lustron was having such difficulty that some congressmen proposed an investigation.

It was about this time that Senator McCarthy and Lustron-Boss Strandlund developed what amounted to a mutual-aid pact. McCarthy dashed off a 7,000-word article on housing, and Strandlund paid him $10,000 for it. The article was based on material McCarthy had obtained in the course of his government-financed trip, and the rate of pay was $1.33 a word, which would make most authors green with jealousy.

Actually, of course, the $10,000 Strandlund paid to McCarthy was part of the RFC millions the government had advanced Strandlund.

Catholic Criticism

Significant development in the McCarthy-State Department red hunt is the recent editorial in the Catholic Review, official organ of the Washington-Baltimore Archdiocese, critical of Senator McCarthy.

Significance of the editorial lies in the fact that though McCarthy's ever-changing charges have been deplored by many lay Catholics, his original campaign was discussed and encouraged by some of the clergy at Georgetown University—acting unofficially and as individuals. He also has received vigorous support from the Brooklyn Tablet and some of the former Coughlinite extremists which do not represent the church.

How much this latter support was inspired by William J. Goodwin, former Coughlinite and Christian Frontier, is problematical. Goodwin is a registered lobbyist and gets $25,000 a year for promoting the cause of the Kuomintang and the Soong Dynasty in Washington. Undoubtedly he has some influence with his old friends of the Brooklyn Tablet.

Regardless of this, Lobbyist Goodwin definitely has an interesting connection with Senator Bob Taft, and this may account for Taft's statements—which have astonished many old friends—supporting McCarthy. Goodwin occupies an office, while in Washington, with Paul Marshall, formerly a member of Taft's staff, and, during the 1948 election campaign, Goodwin was one of Taft's political workers.

Taft's Poor Judgment

Goodwin sold himself to Taft in 1948 on the idea that he could round up Catholic delegates, though actually he was a constant liability. Not realizing that Goodwin's connections with the Coughlinite extremists were not at all representative of the church, Taft sent Goodwin all over the U. S. where he represented himself as Taft's bosom pal, and made outrageous claims of political achievements.

Among other things he claimed responsibility for the 1946 election of GOP senators Ecton in Montana and Malone in Nevada; was supposed to have brain-trusted Revercomb of West Virginia and Robertson of Wyoming; and claimed that he lined up Governor Duff of Pennsylvania for Taft, though Duff was for Dewey in the end.

Despite this, Taft has shown such poor judgment as to spend hours with Lobbyist Goodwin—even today—listening to him boast of his political power inside the church and with old-line Democrats.

This explains how Taft happens to be for McCarthy's grandstanding—despite statements by Governor Dewey and GOP Senators Lodge, Flanders and Ives divorcing themselves from McCarthy's attacks. This also is why the editorial in the Catholic Review is significant at this time.

Note—During the original McCarthy conferences at Georgetown University, some of the clerics were emotional against Secretary Acheson for failing to send an ambassador to the Vatican, though actually it has been Truman, not Acheson, who has held back on this.

Hidden nepotism—The taxpayers still can't find out how much senators are paying their employes. Though the House payroll is made public from month to month, the Senate payroll still is kept strangely secret. Secretary of the Senate Les Biffle promised to tell all in his annual report. But when it was released last week, all he listed were names, not salaries—and only up to Dec. 31, 1949. It's the taxpayers' money, and they are entitled to know how it is spent—but Biffle doesn't seem to realize this.

New drug addicts—An Indian cult of drug addicts, common in the West, now is moving eastward. This is a religious cult built around the use of peyote, a drug revived from the seed pod of cactus. The Indians chew on the drug during all-night rituals around the campfire.

Johnny McCone, onetime aide to Secretary of National Defense Forrestal, has been asked to become undersecretary of Air. . . . The Potomac Edison Company now is spreading propaganda against public power, appropriately, through the Fertilizer News. . . . General MacArthur has urged the Defense Department to support Secretary Acheson's plan to offer surplus American wheat to the Chinese people. Acheson figures the Chinese Communists wouldn't dare accept it and that this would hurt Moscow and boost the prestige of the U. S. A. . . . Ambassador Wiley has cabled the State Department that the new prime minister of Iran may be a Russian stooge and must be watched closely.

Daniel To Testify In Gambling Probe

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Texas Attorney General Price Daniel is scheduled to testify before a Senate Commerce subcommittee this week on a bill designed to ban the sending of gambling information across state lines.

Senator McFarland (D-Ariz) said Tuesday night that mayors, state attorneys general and other law enforcement officers will testify before his group Thursday and Friday.

The bill is aimed primarily against some 150,000 horse race bookies who are reported to be operating illegally throughout the nation.

It is good policy to risk a penalty for a sound reason. For example, when the opponents hold better cards, you will probably lose points whether you bid or pass. In such a case you may lose less by overbidding than by passing tamely.

East had the right idea when he bid four spades. He didn't expect his partner to make that contract, but he felt sure that South could make four hearts and he was willing to pay a small penalty rather than give up the rubber.

East's bid worked out better than he had hoped. South arbitarily decided that he could make five hearts and bid it. Actually, if he had played the hand right, he would have made five hearts. As it was, he went down one trick for a loss of 100 points.

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	3 ♥	3 ♠
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	4 ♠
5 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the king of spades, and dummy's ace won. Declarer took two top trumps and the ace of clubs. He next led a club from dummy and agonized a while over whether to play the queen or the ten. He finally finessed the ten, knocking out West's king.

West cashed his queen of hearts and got out safely by leading a second spade. Eventually South had to lose a diamond trick.

Had South doubled four spades, his side would have scored 300 points. However, South's correct course was to pass. This would put the decision up to his partner. North would either double or bid again, depending on the nature of his hand.

North would have had no problem. With good high cards but poor distribution, he would know that five hearts was a doubtful contract. He also would be certain that he could set four spades. Hence he would double.

The play to make five hearts is difficult, but not impossible for a really good player. South must take the first spade, ruff a spade, cash two high trumps and one (or both) top diamond. West is then put in with a trump.

A spade return at this point allows declarer to discard his losing diamond while dummy ruffs. If West avoids disaster by returning to a club, South wins, leads to the ace of clubs, and gives West a club trick. Now West is forced to lead a spade, and declarer gets rid of his losing diamond.

Presence Of Dropsy Signals Serious Condition Elsewhere

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Dropsy is a condition in which fluids which should have been eliminated accumulate in the body and cause swelling. The medical term for dropsy is edema. Dropsy while not of itself a disease is usually a sign of some serious underlying condition.

One of the most common causes of dropsy is failure of the heart to pump as well as it should. The normally-acting heart pumps the blood through the blood vessels at a fairly even rate. The blood which flows through the kidneys is treated by these organs so that fluids which should not be kept in the body are eliminated. If, however, the heart is not working well, the blood will pass too slowly through the kidneys and too much fluid is kept in the body.

This causes swelling. The most common place for this swelling to appear is in the feet and ankles because these are held down a good deal of the time and the force of gravity aids in the deposit of fluids in these regions.

One of the treatments for dropsy of the feet caused by heart disease is bed rest so that gravity will not work to aid the deposit of fluid there. Of course, the heart itself must also be treated. Rest is good for this organ also since the heart does not have to work so hard when the rest of the body is not exerting. Many forms of heart disease can bring about this type of heart weakness and it is not peculiar to any one type.

There are other conditions which may lead to dropsy. One of the most important is damage to the kidneys themselves. If they fail to remove the fluid and other underisable material from the blood, dropsy may result. In fact, one of the most severe forms of dropsy is that which comes in Bright's disease, or nephritis, which is an inflammation of the kidneys.

Appears In Lungs

Sometimes dropsy occurs not in the legs only but elsewhere in the body including the abdominal cavity or the lungs. Under such circumstances if the fluid cannot be removed by direct action on the heart or the kidneys, it may be necessary to remove some of the excess fluid by inserting a needle and drawing off the fluid through a syringe. This is a temporary measure.

The accumulation of undesired fluid in the body from these two principal causes, or from some of the less common ones, is a serious sign. Recovery often takes place. However, the body ordinarily is so well run that minor difficulties with the heart or kidneys are taken care of and the appearance of dropsy must usually be considered as a sign of something seriously wrong.

Worldwide Union Organizes To Halt Communism Spread

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Oriental traders and businessmen are in for a big surprise and a rude awakening. From the Bosphorus to Bali—all across the Middle East and Southeast Asia—they are about to come up against a worldwide trade union organizing movement.

The blow may not come fast. The punch may be telegraphed ahead for several years before it lands. But when it hits, the result is apt to be loud screams of anguish against the Western European and American democracies for allowing this to happen.

What this amounts to is that something like the American New Deal or the social reforms that preceded it in Western Europe is about to be transplanted into the Middle East and South Asian countries. They are principally Greece, Turkey, Iran, India, Pakistan, Burma, Thailand, Malaya, Viet Nam and Indonesia. The western powers want to see them democratized as a bulwark against advancing communism.

The general formula for this salvation is translated to mean that the peoples of these countries must have more freedom. All vestiges of the old colonial oppression are to be thrown off. The people are to be given a higher standard of living. Freedom and a higher standard of living are being sold, or offered, as something far better than communism.

Handwriting On Wall

The realization that the higher standard of living of western civilization has been won only after years of industrial revolution, collective bargaining, personal sacrifice, high taxes and governmental reform may not have registered on the Oriental mind. But there are signs at hand, if anyone will take the trouble to read them:

1. The sharp note which U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady recently handed to the Greek government bluntly told the Greeks to hold local elections, put their financial house in order and start collecting some taxes, or else. The else was a threat to stop U. S. Marshall plans to build new power plants for raising the living standards of the Greek people.

2. From India come reports that native businessmen and the families of great hereditary wealth are alarmed by the social reforms of the new Indian government. This government is trying desperately to raise living standards for India's wretched hundred millions. Indians with money are refusing to invest their private funds in new enterprises which India needs to develop her own economy. They do not consider conditions safe. The line may have a familiar ring.

3. In Washington, J. H. Oldenbroeck of The Netherlands, secretary general of the new International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, meets with top officials of AFL and CIO. It is announced that ICFTU soon will send a four-man mission to Southeast Asia for two months to study trade union conditions. This mission will make plans for setting up a "trade union college" to teach collective bargaining in that part of the world.

In the Fall a similar mission will be sent to the Middle East. Next Fall there will be a labor union mission to Africa.

Sight-Seeing Tour Planned

Ultimately there are plans to bring native trade union leaders from these countries to Western Europe and the United States, to see how labor organizations are run and what they accomplish in this part of the world.

It is not difficult to imagine the shudders that convulse bankers and employers in these underdeveloped countries as they contemplate such manifestations of progress. Some of these countries, like Turkey, don't have any trade unions at all. In others, only a few crafts are organized.

The choice of capital in these areas, however, is to take more democracy, more social reform, more trade unionism and collective bargaining—or else to take communism, which means confiscation of all wealth. Incidentally the free, democratic trade unions see themselves as the real bulwark of salvation against communism.

Secretary General Oldenbroeck takes what seems to be a rational, experienced, disciplined trade-unionist's point of view on the three-year experimental program his ICFTU is launching in these underdeveloped countries.

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

Copyright 1950 by Hermina Black. Dist by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clemency Norton, nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Jon and Syrie Amberley, had been told politely by Syrie to keep away from Piers Amberley, Jon's brother, at whose luxurious home in Algiers the Amberleys live. But Clemency has not been able to avoid becoming involved in the family's domestic affairs and she is happy to be allowed at last to take a day off in Biskra with the Sandersons, a British-Canadian family. Now Piers is ready to take Clemency home.

• • •

XIV

WHEN they started off a few minutes later the stars were bright and Clemency's quickened heartbeats toned down to the peace which seemed to have fallen over everything.

The town through which they had to pass again, lay glimmering beneath the stars.

The street was narrow, and she judged that it was near the spot where Hamish had spoken to her that morning. They were approaching a small, brilliantly lighted cafe, where under the gay awnings the tables were filled with a cosmopolitan crowd. As they drew nearer, a sudden hubbub started up inside the cafe and died down again as three men in European civilian clothes came out, two of them half laughingly trying to persuade their companion to go along with them, but he was obviously very drunk.

At that moment an Arab, strolling across the road in the casual way of his kind, almost walked in front of the car, forcing Piers to brake sharply; and Clemency found herself looking straight into the flushed face of the man at the table. After an instant's startled amazement she recognized Jon Amberley.

She bit back an exclamation as the car drove on. Had Piers seen his brother? If so, it seemed obvious that he wanted to ignore the encounter. Then as they slipped into the shadows he stopped the car, and without a word opened the door beside him and got out.

"Jules—"

"M'sieur?"

Jules had already joined his employer, and the two men moved a little away from the car.

Piers' voice came back to Clemency, the tone but not the words, curt and incisive. Jules answered in quick monosyllables, and presently went striding back towards the cafe, while his employer got into the car again and drove on.

"Jules is going to spend the night in Biskra," he said.

Resentment against Jon stirred in her. How could he behave like that? Everyone in Biskra must know who he was—how could he let himself and his brother down in such a way? Suddenly things she had not understood and had not let herself think about, feeling they were none of her business, began to drop into place. Jon's moodiness—his excitability, the black depression she had sometimes noticed. His strangeness that first night. Syrie's evident contempt for her husband. Perhaps there was something to be said for Syrie after all.

And then suddenly the soft hum of the car's engine was smothered by a report which made her nearly start out of her seat and sent the car into a skidding spin.

• • •

ONLY the driver's strong wrists and presence of mind could have righted it and brought it to a safe halt about a foot from a solitary palm tree, impact with which would have meant something too ugly to contemplate.

"Are you all right?" Piers looked at the girl beside him, realizing that she had not uttered a sound where nine women out of 10 would have screamed their lungs out, probably have clutched his arm and overturned them.

"Yes. I am all right, thank you."

"That was a darned back tire," he said savagely. "These roads really are fiendish."

"So I—gather." The sound of her own voice did something the blow out had failed to do. She began to laugh hysterically.

"Now!" he warned sharply. "I've got some brandy somewhere—you'll be better when you have had some."

He reached into the pocket beside him and brought out a silver flask and a collapsible drinking cup. He poured a generous measure of brandy.

But the hand she obediently stretched out was shaking too much to be trusted. He put an arm about her shoulders, and steadying her against him, held the cup to her lips. She swallowed and choked as the burning liquid ran down her throat.

"That's better." He tossed away the last few drops, and put flask and cup on the seat beside him, still keeping hold of her. "You can howl now if you want to."

"I don't," she said weakly.

"Then keep quiet for a minute."

• • •

IT seemed perfectly natural to obey him. She closed her eyes, aware of the hard firmness of his shoulder behind her head, of the strength of his arms around her.

The moon was rising and by its light he looked down at her, watching the color steal back into her face—noting subconsciously the shadows her lowered lashes threw on her cheeks.

Lovely, desirable, made to be loved. . . .

He straightened abruptly, taking his arm from about her, breaking the spell before it was too strong to resist.

"Better now? I'll go and look into the matter of that tire."

For a long moment Clemency remained where he had left her while he fixed the blow-out. Half frightened, she strove vehemently to deny that shaken flame in her blood.

Death was not a thing one wanted to contemplate at the best of times, and she was much too young to be a stoic. Least of all did death seem desirable when one had just discovered how terribly sweet it could be to live.

But that knowledge was away in the back of her mind, where she would keep it safely locked. If she could.

Indians Slug Out 9-5 Win Over San Angelo Colts

SPORTSLANTS

BY SHORTY SHELBURNE

As the Midland Indians move into their second week of Longhorn League play, they still look like a much stronger club than the one Webb assembled at the same time last season.

The hitting has been the big factor in the Indian's improvement so far. Pitching has been just about the same. It will pick up with the return of Ernie Nelson to duty.

—SS—

The club, including pitchers, is hitting .306 but there are five men out of the regular lineup who are hitting more than .300. Those regulars will be in most games, so that rightly is the way to figure the club batting.

Taking the eight regulars, the percentage is a lofty .322 for the first week. That's considerably better than the eight regulars we had in the lineup last season at this time.

—SS—

In the extra-base—or power—department, the Indians also have done better than average.

Although some of the power hitters haven't come around yet, the Tribe has racked up 10 doubles, a triple and three home runs so far.

Big Jim Prince is getting his eye on the ball better every day and will add power to the order before long. Anybody who doesn't believe he will—just stick around a few days.

Here are the hitting records of every Midland player to see action so far:

The winner of the Texas State Tournament of the National Softball Congress this year will be assured at least $500 expense money for the World Softball Tournament.

The state tourney will be held August 14-19 at Plainview. The World Tournament is scheduled the week of Septembtr 4 at Greeley, Colorado.

—SS—

Softball is due for a lift in Midland this season. Chances are at least four leagues will be operated.

The City Major League which is forming here and will launch play probably late ths month, also is laying plans for a tournament.

Midland teams also are expected to shift to the "fastball."

Crane Gets Set For Trio Of Ball Games

CRANE — This West Texas oil city is getting set for one of the biggest softball attractions of the season this weekend.

The Deal Motors nine of El Paso moves into Crane for a three-game series Friday and Saturday nights with the Crane Oilers.

A single game, to go nine innings, will be played Friday night at the Crane Softball Park. A doubleheader is scheduled Saturday night.

Deal Motors whipped the Gulfers 1 to 0 in the finals of the state softball tourney last year in El Paso. The Deals are reported to be strong again this season.

Paul Lopez, a softball hurler who has won consistently over the last 10 years, will be on the mound for the El Paso team.

Nolan Weaks, J. W. Teague and Junior Brown compose the Crane hurling staff.

Weaks probably will be the ace of the Crane hurlers. He pitched 10 no-hit games and won 38 for a Fort Worth team last year.

Wearne Hurls Four-Hitter; Tribe At Home Wednesday

The Midland Indians open a three-day home stand at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Indian Park. The Ballinger Cats, winless so far this season, will furnish the opposition.

Manager Harold Webb will start Rookie John Singleton (1-0) in the opener. Ralph Blair probably will go in Thursday night's tilt and Ernie Nelson is expected to be ready for duty Friday.

SAN ANGELO—The Midland Indians brought out another version of their long-range hitting Tuesday night and hammered the San Angelo Colts into submission by a 9 to 5 score. Extra-base knocks, including a home run by Lonnie Balch, were plentiful.

Jim Prince, Lou Dawson and Windy Eldridge racked up doubles for the Indians. Scooter Hughes hit two for three and Balch had three for four, including his homer.

Lonnie Balch

Harold Wearne

In other words, it was "hit" night again for the Indians.

The Tribe jumped on San Angelo's ace, Sam Hunter, for seven runs in the first two innings and sent him to an early shower.

The Indians opened with three runs in the first and were off to a flying start. But Bob Crues homered with two on to knot the count.

Midland stormed back in the second, however, and iced the tilt with five tallies. Six solid smashes and couple of Colt errors accounted for the runs. Four were charged to Lunter and one to Bobby Beall, who relieved him.

The Indians wound up their scoring with Balch's homer in the seventh.

Meanwhile, Harold Wearne was almost untouchable as he elbowed a four-hitter at the Colts. The Indians committed four errors behind him but he was just right and didn't let a little thing like that bother him.

Wearne hurled one of the finest games in the league so far. He walked only two and was exceptionally tight in the clinches.

The win kept the Indians right on the heels of the Roswell Rockets and the Big Spring Broncs, who hold the one and two spots in the standings.

Nervous? No, Says Veteran Connie Mack

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The old gentleman looked startled as he repeated the question.

"Nervous?" he said. "Well, no sir, I don't think I'm nervous." He thought for a moment and then added:

"After 50 years, why should I be?"

Thus did Connie Mack, a spry 87, start Tuesday on his fiftieth year as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

He had fetched his A's to Washington to meet the Nationals in the major league baseball opener. Quite a party had been planned. President Truman had promised to bring his family to the game.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, came out. He waved to Mack to come on over.

Mack came on over and Griffith, a comparative youth of 80, joined with Vice President Barkley, a kid of 73, in the long march to the flag pole.

You should have seen Connie march—head high, feet swinging out, like an Army rookie trying to impress the sergeant.

Only the President got a bigger hand.

Betsy Rawls Earns Medalist Honors In TWGA Warm-Up

HOUSTON —(AP)— Championship flight match play was scheduled Wednesday in the twenty-ninth annual Texas Women's Golf Association Tournament.

Defending Champion Betsy Rawls of Austin toured the long Brae Burn Country Club course in 34-36—70 for medalist honors Tuesday.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth was runner-up with 72.

Other low scores Tuesday included:

Mrs. Betty MacKinnon, Mount Pleasant, 76; Mrs. George Noble, Dallas, 77; Betty Dodd, San Antonio, 78; Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth, 79; and Mrs. H. B. Riedel, Dallas, 79.

Junior Meet Postponed

The annual Junior High Relays, scheduled Wednesday afternoon at Memorial Stadium, have been postponed due to bad weather.

Principal Wesley Martin of John M. Cowden Junior High said the meet probably will be held next week or when favorable weather returns.

The meet, when held, will attract 936 entries for 36 events.

McCarthy Beaten As U. S. Glovers Decision Europeans

CHICAGO—(AP)—A U. S. amateur boxing team whipped Europe's best scrappers 6-2 in the thirteenth International Golden Gloves here Tuesday night but Texas' sole fighter was unlucky.

Pat McCarthy of Amarillo, an 18-year-old cartoonist, lost a crisp decision to Flyweight Pentti Hamalainen, Finland's boxing blacksmith.

The Finn's southpaw style completely baffled the American. McCarthy got a good going over in the second round and Hamalainen wrestled McCarthy to the canvas in the third.

The referee made the American take an eight count before resuming.

The 1950 U. S. Open golf championship is the 50th such event since 1895—there were no tournaments during war years.

Banned Outfielder Plays For El Paso

EL PASO—(AP)—Venturo Morales played outfield for El Paso Tuesday night in a Class C Arizona-Texas League baseball game.

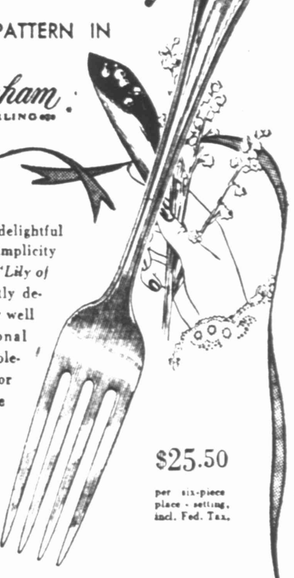

There was no comment from El Paso Club Owner Jack Corbett, but he had said that he would play Morales and he did.

The Mexican outfielder has been the center of a dispute between Corbett, minor league baseball's top man—George M. Trautman, and Mexican baseball.

Trautman found Morales and several other players still had contractual obligations to the Mexican League teams and voided their contracts with U. S. clubs.

Corbett has threatened to sue in federal court over Trautman's ruling. He also has said he has signed Morales to a new contract.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Yanks Blast Bosox; Bums Bow To Phils

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The same old Boston Red Sox have been left at the post again by the 1950 model of Casey Stengel's New York Yankee "team of destiny."

Old Case, reigning miracle man of baseball, has done it again. The Yanks are off a-winging on the strength of a throbbing 15-10 opening day victory Tuesday at Fenway Park.

They did it the hard way, overcoming an early 9-0 Boston lead and winning with nine runs in a shocking eighth-inning revolution. Just like 1949.

Boston, overwhelming favorite to cop the American League pennant and dethrone the world champion Yanks, had company. Brooklyn's National League champs also flopped. They fell before the youthful Philadelphia Phils 9-1. Don Newcombe, pitching ace of the favored Brooks, was knocked from the box in the second inning before 29,074 fans.

All in all, attendance at the eight-game opening show was fine. Of course, there was the added impetus of the first night opener in history—at St. Louis—which added 20,871 to the total. The openers drew 252,700 as compared to 257,459 for a nine-game, two-day program last year.

Real Fireworks

Cleveland drew the best crowd, 60,744. The turnouts ranged all the way down to 9,987 at Chicago, where the youthful St. Louis Browns and White Sox were a doubtful lure.

Getting back to Boston, where the real fireworks exploded, the Red Sox harbored real hopes of blasting their getaway jinx. Instead they lost their third straight opener. Their 21-game carryover win streak at Fenway Park is smashed.

It started like an easy ride for Mel Parnell, 25-game winner of last year. Boston knocked out Allie Reynolds, the Yanks' No. 1 boy, opening up a wide early lead. Nobody worried when Parnell yielded four runs in the sixth. Boston made it 10-4 going to the eighth.

Then it happened. Fourteen Yanks went to bat in the inning. After Parnell it was Walt Masterson, Earl Johnson, Al Papai and finally Charley Schanz. When it was over, the Yanks had scored nine runs for a 13-10 lead. Just to make it sure, they added two in the ninth, off Boo Ferriss.

Tigers Bop Tribe

Detroit spoiled the day for Cleveland's fine opening turnout by edging the Indians 7-6 in 10 innings. The Tigers knocked Bob Lemon out of the box in the eighth and went on to win. Their last four runs were unearned.

President Truman threw out the first ball at Washington, where the Senators knocked off the Philadelphia A's 8-7 before 31,548. Bucky Harris' lightly-regarded Senators knocked out Carl Scheib before he retired a batter.

Rookie Outfielder Ken Wood and Pitcher Ned Garver teamed up to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 5-3 win over Chicago.

Newcombe had nothing but size at Shibe Park, where the youthful Phillies humbled Brooklyn behind Robin Roberts' seven-hit workout. Rookie Second Baseman Mike Goliat broke in with a perfect four-hit day and Eddie Waitkus and Gran Hamner each added three hits. It was Waitkus' first league game since he was shot at Chicago last June.

Cards Win On Homers

In the first night opener at St. Louis, home runs by Red Schoendienst and Stan Musial sent the Cardinals off to a flying start with a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

The battle of the big trade—New York Giants vs. Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds—wound up in an 11-4 decision for Boston. Actually the key men in the most important Winter trade were not important factors.

Eddie Stanky and Al Dark, the two ex-Braves, were in the Giant lineup. Sid Gordon, Buddy Kerr and Willard Marshall, all former Giants, started for Boston.

Andy Pafko rapped two homers and a double in the Chicago Cubs' 9-6 victory before 31,213 Cincinnati fans. Ken Raffensberger, six-time winner over Chicago last season, was belted out early.

Relief Man

Duane Pillette of the Yankees gives relief to the strained muscle in Teammate Allie Reynolds' left arch. Young Pillette also gives relief as a pitcher.

Bulldogs Lose To Odessa

The Odessa Bronchos won a district 3-AA baseball game here Tuesday afternoon but they may have lost the pennant in doing so. The final score was 6 to 1 in favor of Odessa.

Garland Fuqua, ace of the Broncho mound staff, suffered a leg injury when he ran into the fence while chasing a fly ball. He is considered the mainstay of the Odessa hurlers' corps and may be out of action several days. Coaches said the leg might be broken.

Errors afield gave the Bronchos Tuesday's victory. The Bulldogs went to pieces a time or two and it cost heavily.

The ball game was tight in the early innings. Odessa got one run in the second when Beard was hit by a pitched ball, advanced on two consecutive balks by Midland's hurler, Bill Medart, and scored on Frank Gee's single.

The Bronchos added another in the third on a single by Easy Wilkins, a stolen base and an error.

Bulldogs Score

Midland counted one in the third. Medart made an effort to win his own game by clouting a double down the left field line and scoring on a single by Loren Roberts.

The Bronchos iced the tilt in the fourth with two runs on a walk and two errors.

One in the sixth on a single, a stolen base and a wild pitch and another in the seventh on a walk and a three-base error were strictly added attraction.

Medart Effective

Medart hurled a brilliant game for the Bulldogs but the errors got him. He struck out six and walked only two.

Four Odessa hurlers gave up five bases on balls and struck out seven.

Medart, Norman Drake, L. C. Thomas and Loren Roberts collected Midland's hits. Roberts had two singles in three trips.

The Bulldogs meet the Lamesa Tornadoes here Saturday and will complete the season with a double-header against the Lubbock Westerners Tuesday in Lubbock.

PGA Announces Summer Schedule Of 19 Tourneys

CHICAGO —(AP)—The Professional Golfers' Association — proclaiming that "harmony and understanding" exist between the front office and its playing stars—has arranged a Summer program of 19 tournaments carrying $335,000 in prizes.

President Joe Novak said three weekends still are unfilled in the potential record-breaking Summer slate. If they are filled, he said, 1950 will be the PGA's greatest money-posted year—a prize aggregate of more than $530,000 anticipated for combined Winter, Spring and Summer competition.

The latest revolt of the country's top golfers against PGA management was quelled at the recent Master's Tourney in Augusta, Ga. The stars emerged victorious in their efforts to expand the PGA tourney Committee and added to the committee Lawson Little, Jimmy Demaret, Toney Penna, Clayton Heafner and Chick Harbert.

Sport Home Runs Beat Roughnecks; Cats, Buffs Win

By The Associated Press

Shreveport's Sports—for Wednesday at least—could think lovingly of home.

It was at home Tuesday night Vern Petty and Bill White hit home runs to beat Beaumont 4-2 and keep the Sports atop the Texas League standings.

Dallas' luck at home was lacking again. The Eagles blew a slender lead in the ninth inning; Fort Worth won 5-3 and it was the third loss in as many home games for the Eagles.

Houston nicked San Antonio 4-1 and Oklahoma City and Tulsa were weathered out in their tilt.

Both the homers, by White in the first inning and Petty in the sixth, found a mate on base.

Young George Zoeterman protected this advantage well, giving the Roughnecks but five hits, one a home run by Pete Thomas. This bright bit of pitching still wasn't as good as the job turned in by Owens and John Fitzgerald. They held Shreveport to three hits.

Johnny Beazley, the one-time pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, weathered a couple of bad innings but came into the ninth protecting a 2-1 Dallas lead. He couldn't hold it. The Cats scratched out a couple of hits, took advantage of a couple of errors and a walk and scored three runs to win the game.

Pitcher George Condrick spaced six San Antonio hits and batted in one of Houston's runs with a double.

McMurry To Enter Cinder Team In Out-Of-State Meets

ABILENE —(AP)— McMurry College's track men make their first out-of-state trip of the season to the Kansas Relays at Lawrence Saturday.

Coach Vernon Hilliard's Indians also will enter the Colorado Relays at Boulder April 29. That probably will be their final competition before they are hosts to the Texas Conference meet May 11 and 12.

McMurry will enter the sprint medley, mile, and 880 relays, in addition to the low and high hurdles open events, run by Bill Moring of Stephenville.

For the third straight year, only students are being admitted to Penn State's indoor athletic events in 1950.

Elementary Relays Set

The annual Elementary Relays, a track and field meet which attracts probably more entries than any other in West Texas, will be held Friday afternoon at Memorial Stadium. Starting time will be 12:30 p.m.

North, South and West Elementary Schools and Latin American School will send entries to the meet. Both boys and girls will participate.

Principal C. D. Johnson of South Elementary said more than 1,000 youngsters will compete.

Dash events, relays, bicycle races, broad jump and high jump are events to be held. Students in all grades, first through fifth, are eligible to enter.

Roswell Holds Lead As Indians, Broncs, Oilers Notch Wins

By The Associated Press

Longhorn League baseball teams usually score their runs in bunches, but it was a single tally—in the eighth inning—that enabled Roswell to keep a full game's lead Tuesday night.

The New Mexico member of the Class D league needed that run to nudge Sweetwater 6-5. It had spotted the Swatters a four-run lead, erased it with a four-run splurge in the sixth, then had Sweetwater tie the score in the top of the eighth.

Four runs in the third inning proved enough for Big Spring to best Ballinger, but the final score was 5-3.

A five-run outburst in the second inning highlighted Midland's 9-5 win over San Angelo and Odessa capped a 14-5 victory over Vernon with five runs in the eighth.

the omnibus appropriation bill, probably next week.

"There has been an organized campaign to increase almost every allotment in this bill," Cannon said. "The bill already carries more money than the country can afford to spend, and I am going to figure every move to increase its total."

Representative Taber of New York, top Republican on the committee, said he would go further and demand that there not only be no increases but that the bill's total be trimmed "substantially."

No Exceptions

Donaldson made no exception in laying down the one-a-day limitation. He went further and said mixed areas including shops and residences shall not be called as business districts for more frequent service.

On Saturdays, business areas which have been getting three deliveries a day hereafter are to get only two. Those business areas which have been getting two on Saturday will get but one.

Also, only first class mail, newspapers and parcel post will be processed during the night hours, in order to cut down on payroll costs. Nighttime pickups of mail from street boxes are to be curtailed sharply. Post office window services are to close not later than 6 p.m., and by 5 p.m. if possible.

Donaldson said further reductions in personnel are in the offing.

His order brought a prompt protest from the AFL Association of Letter Carriers, which called it "a rape of the postal service" and said it would protest to Congress.

Vaccine Will Whip TB, Doctor Claims

DENVER — (AP) — The vaccine, BCG, will whip tuberculosis, says Dr. Edward J. O'Brien of Detroit, "and somebody has got to raise hell until this country wakes up to that fact."

"I guess," he added in an interview, "that I'm just the guy to do it."

The white-haired Dr. O'Brien, one of the nation's top TB surgeons, launched a crusade for BCG recently in a speech here before the American Association for Thoracic Surgery, of which he is president.

He told the surgeons their present methods of combating TB—some of which he developed himself—"won't solve the problem in a thousand years."

Vaccine 'Only Answer'

BCG is the only answer, he declared, "and it's amazing that the U. S. Public Health Service can't see it."

Dissenting opinions came from Dr. Robert J. Anderson of the Public Health Service in Washington and from Dr. Harry J. Corper, research director of the National Jewish Hospital here.

Dr. Anderson said evidence still is incomplete as to the effectiveness of BCG.

Dr. Corper, while admitting BCG is a preventative, said he didn't think mass vaccinations were justified except in countries like India, or in slum areas of cities like New York and Chicago.

Dr. O'Brien said the TB death toll had been cut 88 per cent in Japan by a compulsory vaccination program ordered by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and similar results had been obtained in other countries.

Maragon's Perjury Trial Centers On Molasses Company

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The perjury trial of John Maragon, who used to flit around the White House, centered Wednesday on a molasses firm that had trouble with the Agriculture Department.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles Murray declined to say whether Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, presidential military aide, might be linked to the Maragon case at this point.

Vaughan was Maragon's friend at one time. And Vaughan testified to Senate investigators last year he couldn't remember for sure but that he, too, might have called the Agriculture Department on behalf of the Allied Molasses Company of Perth Amboy, N. J.

Murray told a reporter the prosecution has no intention of calling Vaughan as a witness. Maragon's lawyer, Irvin Goldstein, says he doesn't know yet whether the defense might want Vaughan to testify.

Maragon is on trial on charges of lying about business and financial matters to the Senate committee that investigated five percenters last year—the committee that quizzed Vaughan. Five percenters are persons who charge a fee, usually five per cent, to handle business with the government for other people.

On a 12-hour flowing test, Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1-B Johnson, west offset to the South Susan Peak opener in Central-South Tom Green County, produced 120 barrels of 32-gravity oil and no water.

Operators were preparing to take potential test through a 12/64-inch choke and complete.

The 1-B Johnson is bottomed at 4,985 feet in the lower Strawn, which yielded salt water.

Five and one-half inch casing is set at 4,984 feet. This upper Strawn extension is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 20, block 25, H&TC survey, and 18 miles south of San Angelo.

The project is to be drilled down to around 6,750 feet to explore the Glorieta lime of the middle Permian.

Operations are slated to start in the near future.

The wildcat is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block D, John H. Gibson survey. That makes it two miles northeast of the Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 Cobb, located in section 381, block D, John H. Gibson survey, which was recently completed as a discovery from the Glorieta in pay at 6,035-6,200 feet.

The Honolulu discovery is two and one-half miles northeast of the Ownby field, which produces from the San Andres lime above 5,350 feet.

Tom Green Pumper Is Re-Completed

On a re - completion potential, Sun Oil Company and others No. 1 M. B. Pulliam, Strawn lime discovery in Central Tom Green County, flowed 138 barrels of oil and seven barrels of water in 24 hours.

Production flowed through a quarter-inch tubing choke from open hole at 5,520 feet to total depth of 5,552 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 716-1. Tubing pressure was 150 pounds, and casing pressure was 850 pounds.

The well was completed some months ago as a pumper for 12 to 14 barrels daily. The well was recently treated with 3,000 gallons of acid; it kicked off after the treatment.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 14, block 4, H&TC survey.

The section at 4,070-4,209 feet was drillstem tested and made water.

Death Sentence For Negro Is Dissolved

AUSTIN —(AP)— The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday dissolved the death sentence conviction of Herman Lee Ross because there was no negro on the Galveston County Grand Jury that indicted him.

The appeallate court ordered the trial court's judgment reversed and prosecution dismissed. Judge Harry N. Graves dissented.

The majority opinion made clear the court's ruling was based entirely on the record of the United States Supreme Court which the opinion said had definitely and positively expressed its view on the question of discrimination."

Ross was convicted in the June 1, 1948, gun slaying of Guido Nesti, a Galveston package store keeper, during the robbery of his store. Court records show a gun battle between Ross and officers ensued. A detective also was killed.

Another 'Saucer,' Another Denial

A weekly news magazine published this picture of a pancake-shaped aircraft model as evidence that "flying saucers" are real aircraft, probably being developed by the Navy. The Navy denied doing any research work with any type of plane or guided missile that resembles a flying saucer. This model is mounted for tests in the NACA laboratory at Langley, Va. A 3,000-pound scale model was flown under radio control in 1948. The full-scale prototype, called the XF5U-1, never was flown, a Defense Department spokesman said.

Freezing Cold Adds To Flood Suffering

By The Associated Press

Freezing weather Wednesday added to the discomfort of the thousands made homeless by flood waters in North Dakota.

The cold air from the Gulf of Alaska and Central Canada spread across the great plains states and upper Great Lakes region. Temperatures were below freezing in some parts of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Meanwhile, additional families were forced to flee their homes as bulging rivers and streams surged to new levels over large areas of North Dakota and Western Minnesota.

The Red Cross has estimated 3,000 persons are homeless in North Dakota.

One high official said the situation was serious.

Home-Made Coffin Too Small For Use

MORPETH, ENGLAND — (AP) — Chimney Sweep Anthony Pape made his own coffin and lived 20 years to admire it.

He made it lovingly from the branches of an oak tree he used to climb as a boy.

Then, when it came time to use the coffin after Pape's death at the age of 83, it had to be discarded. Pape apparently had neglected to measure himself for it. It was too small.

The body of William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody, frontiersman and showman, is buried on Lookout Mountain near Denver.

Midland Kiwanians Travel 370 Miles And Deliver 'Traveling Pig' To Coleman Club

Midland Kiwanians—15 strong—traveled 370 miles to Coleman and back Tuesday to deliver a "traveling pig" to the Kiwanis club there.

The pig, a two-foot pink piggy bank, is a symbol of Kiwanis inter-club relations in the Texas-Oklahoma District 12, and is being passed from club to club in a year-long contest. At the end of the period, the club which has amassed the greatest number of "man-miles" in visiting another club will be awarded the pig and its contents.

The Midlanders rolled up an impressive 5,615 man-miles in their Tuesday trip, and have an excellent chance of winning the pig, Albert Kelley, president of the club, said.

Feature of the program in Coleman Tuesday was an address by Robert Stripling, a member of the Midland Kiwanis Club and former chief investigator of the House Un-American Activities Committee. He spoke on "What Communism Means to Us in the United States Today." The Rev. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was master of ceremonies.

Travelers Listed

The fifteen members, who traveled in an airplane and four cars, were: Lynn, Kelley, Stripling, Herbert Marshall, J. T. Morris, Tom Frick, Dr. L. W. Leggett, Wesley Martin, P. R. Hargrove, the Rev. Robert Snell, the Rev. Edward Murray, J. G. McMillian, Judge Clifford C. Keith and Clifford Cool.

As a part of the ceremonies, Kelley had the pig crated to resemble a live animal, and Coleman Kiwanians met the plane in which the pig made the trip, with a crane-truck and a pickup to transport the "animal" to the meeting, held in the Coleman Hotel.

J. B. McCord, president of the Coleman club, accepted the pig from the Midland group.

82-Year-Old Eaton Is Renominated In Congress Race

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—Charles A. Eaton, 82-year-old Republican congressman and ranking GOP House spokesman on foreign affairs, Tuesday won renomination for a fourteenth term.

The tall, white-haired legislator coasted to an easy win over two opponents in New Jersey's Fifth Congressional District primary election.

His victory was one of eight won by organization-backed candidates in the state's 14 congressional districts. Five of the primary fights were in the Republican column and three in the Democratic.

All nine GOP incumbents were renominated, seven of them without opposition. Four of the five Democratic incumbents were renominated, three of them without opposition. The fifth did not seek renomination.

Senate Republicans Seek 'Cross-Section' Contact On Policies

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate Republican leaders Wednesday demanded "cross - section" contact with the Administration as the price of their party's support for bipartisan foreign policy.

Senators Bridges of New Hampshire and Wherry of Nebraska said flatly that if the Truman Administration wants GOP help in handling international affairs it must be willing to listen to criticism of policies as they are being formed.

Wherry, the GOP floor leader, took the lead in demanding that information on what's going on behind the world's diplomatic fronts be handed to senators representing a "cross-section" of Republican opinion—not just to those the Administration thinks are likely to support its decisions.

Bridges told reporters he had made plain at a White House conference with President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson Tuesday his view that such men as Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, must be included among those consulted before foreign policy decisions are reached.

Taft often is critical of Administration moves in the international field, as well as those at home.

Bridges planned a report to the policy group at a meeting Wednesday afternoon and said he will discuss the matter at a later meeting of all Republican senators.

Rail Board Calls For Information On Oil Import Schedules

AUSTIN—(AP)—Fifteen major oil companies have been asked to give the Railroad Commission information about their domestic and import oil needs for the last half of 1950.

Chief executives of the companies were invited by the commission to present and explain the data at the May 17 statewide oil hearing on which the June allowable production order will be based.

The object is to determine accurately the market demand for Texas crude, Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson said Tuesday night at Pampa, where he disclosed the commission's latest action.

Congress Told U. S. To Get Back Most River Program Cash

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Congress was told Wednesday the federal government will get most of its money back if it spends $85,000,000 on a Canadian River program for West Texas.

Harry P. Burleigh, the Reclamation Bureau's Texas planning engineer, told a Senate subcommittee 94 per cent of the cost would be repaid within 50 years.

Most of the money would come from 13 Panhandle and high plains cities which would get more water as a result of the development program.

The project calls for construction of a dam near Sanford and an aqueduct to deliver water to the cities. It would be authorized under a bill being considered by the committee. The House passed it last year.

In a statement prepared for the committee, Burleigh said the project is economically justified and is feasible from an engineering standpoint.

Burleigh estimated the ratio of benefits to costs at 1.7 to 1.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Ps. 51:1-17.

A SENSE OF UNRESOLVED GUILT

We have looked at four of the 15 enemies of the personality: (1) A lack of faith in and loyalty to something beyond one's self that gives ultimate meaning, coherence, and goal to life; (2) Self-centeredness; (3) Anger, resentments, and hates; (4) Fear, worry, and anxieties. We now continue: (5) A sense of unresolved guilt. A sense of unresolved guilt is destructive to harmonious personality.

The older evangelism threw a great deal of emphasis on "guilt," but it was in large measure connected with what would happen to you after death—how would you be able to stand before God's judgment?—you, a guilty soul! That emphasis ceased to appeal to the modern mind, and was thrown into the discard. But it is now coming back through psychology. Ernest Renan said, "The twentieth century will spend a good deal of its time picking out of the wastebasket things which the nineteenth century threw into it." One of the things now being picked out is just this necessity—that the inner nature be absolved from guilt. We cannot live with guilt, that is, truly live.

It must be acknowledged that a good many ideas in reference to guilt did have to be thrown into the wastebasket. They were false guilts which needlessly tormented many sincere people. A lot of false guilts were fastened on people—these needed to be shed. For example, we know now that sex feelings are not sin; they are a part of our normal, healthy life—everybody has them, saint and sinner. We also know that a normal self-love is right and natural; to act as if you had none is to end in hypocrisy. Every normal person has self-love, and ought to have it. Many false guilts that tormented humanity have been shed, and should be shed. The fear of having committed the "unpardonable sin" is usually a false fear, for the unpardonable sin of which Jesus spoke was saying that Jesus had "an unclean spirit," that the Spirit within Him—the Holy Spirit—was unclean. Seldom is that sin committed. Therefore, do not fear that you have committed the unpardonable sin.

O God, if I have built up within me false guilts which hide my real guilt, forgive me, for I want to be inwardly absolved from all haunting guilts that rob me of my confidence and power. Cleanse the depths, for I cannot live with guilt. I can live only with fellowship and reconciliation. Amen.

MHS Band Concert Slated April 27

The Midland High School Band, recent winners of top honors in Regional band competition here, will present a variety program and concert at 8 p.m. April 27, in the new high school auditorium.

The concert is sponsored by the Band Aides, an organization of band parents and interested persons. Proceeds of the show will be used for the annual band banquet and for the purchase of letter jackets to band members who earn them, said Jerry Hoffman, MHS band director.

Admission to the show is to be one dollar for adults and 25 cents for students.

In addition to band members, the show will feature tap dancing, novelty tunes, solos and ensembles.

O. L. Stalcup, president of the Band-Aides, invites all Midlanders to turn out for the show, to see and hear what a vast improvement the band has made in the two years Hoffman has directed it.

In the recent Regional competition, the Bulldog band earned First Division ratings in concert, sight reading and in marching.

Villalobos Murder Case Transferred

OJINAGA, MEXICO —(AP)— The case of Jose Villalobos, 24, charged with murdering a Texas sheriff, has been transferred to Chihuahua, Mexico.

The mayor of Ojinaga said he received word Tuesday of the transfer from the judge at Juarez, under whose jurisdiction Villalobos has been.

Villalobos will remain in jail here, the mayor said, until the judge at Chihuahua decides on a date of transfer.

Villalobos has been held in the Ojinaga jail since March 16, four days after O. W. (Blackie) Morrow, sheriff of Presidio County, was shot to death on a lonely mountain road between Presidio and Marfa. Ojinaga is across the Rio Grande from Presidio, Texas. Villalobos was arrested in the mountains of Northern Mexico.

Texas is seeking extradition of Villalobos as a Mexican national. Some officers say, however, they may be able to prove he is a United States citizen.

Californian To Face Charge Of Attempted Murder of 16 Persons

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Police said they will seek a complaint Wednesday charging 34-year-old John H. Grant with attempting to murder 16 persons.

There were 16—including Grant's wife and two small children—aboard an airliner Monday when a crude gasoline bomb was discovered in the luggage just before the plane was to take off.

Police Detective Ned G. Logsdon said Grant, an aeronautical engineer, admitted in a lengthy statement he plotted the death of his family to collect $25,000 insurance and pay up his accumulated debts. Detective Jack Gouldstone said he will ask issuance of a complaint charging Grant with 16 counts of attempted murder.

As investigators delved into Grant's tangled affairs—which include another woman who says she loves him—they said he told them his debts include back payments for support of an illegitimate child in New York.

Detectives said Grant had this to say of the New York paternity case:

"The girl was a young widow. x x xWe had been intimate for some time and she was expecting a baby. She brought charges against me. I posted $500 bond and came to California with my family. I had been transferred, but it was routine and had nothing to do with the paternity matter. In March of 1947, on the advice of my attorney, I returned to New York and admitted paternity. I was ordered to pay $10 a week child support."

None For Two Years

Grant said he has not paid any of the support in the last two years.

The other woman who says she loves Grant is Betty Suomela, 31-year-old airline stewardess.

"I was stringing her along. Why, I lied to her so many times that I cannot remember my stories," Grant declared.

Miss Suomela is assistant supervisor of stewardesses for American Airlines' Wetern Division. It was her car in which Grant drove his family to the Los Angeles International Airport for a vacation flight to San Diego.

Both Mrs. Grant and Miss Suomela said they will stand by Grant. Mrs. Grant told reporters, "Perhaps all of John's financial worries have caused something to snap. Maybe he's had a nervous breakdown."

At a press conference Miss Suomela said: "I want to help him if I possibly can." Asked if she had professed love for him, she said she had and that he had asked her to marry him when he obtained a divorce.

Investigators said Miss Suomela had given Grant sums ranging from $50 to $150 on various occasions to help him.

CharacterGrowthBeginsInCradle

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Writer

Character development begins in the cradle. But it is something a child cannot be forced to learn before his growth and maturity make it possible. A parent who does not understand this may be seriously undermining the character growth of his child.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, with over three million members in 3 countries, is about to start a world-wide effort to make a practical application of this principle. The movement is backed by the Palmer Foundation, a philanthropic enterprise established by C. E. Palmer, Texarkana, Texas, publisher, and Mrs. Palmer.

Parents' Responsibility

As a first step, the Federation has just published a study entitled "Parents' Responsibility in Character Development." It was prepared at Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., by Dr. Olive John Morgan, director of the Psychological Clinic at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Dr. Wallis Beasley, acting chairman, Department of Sociology, Washington State College, Louise Arey Esterer, former state supervisor of Special Education, Michigan Department of Public Instruction, Lansing, and Loren Belknap, instructor, Department of Sociology, Washington State College.

Although the program is designed primarily for study groups of clubs affiliated with the General Federation, it should be made a part of the thinking of all parents, school teachers and other persons engaged in work with children, especially those of pre-school age.

The study follows the findings of psychologists and psychiatrists that embarrassments, disappointments and frustrations of childhood often produce emotional scars which may remain in the subconscious mind and later cause trouble.

If a child learns at an early age to express himself without fear, says the study; to develop the impression that he is being loved and accepted; to undergo discipline as a learning process; to make his own decisions and to take the consequences of those decisions, he will be on his way to an enrichment of character as he grows.

Needs Kindness

A child, says the study, "cannot feel kindly toward other people, and want to behave kindly in relation to them, until he has had the experience of kindness himself. One of the ways in which he builds up this experience is through the gentle, loving care he receives from his parents. If his parents leave him feeling insecure, he continues to show his need in shyness or aggressiveness, in being too dependent upon his mother, in homesickness, and in marriage difficulties when he is older."

We can tell when our children are growing toward good character, says the study, when we see that they have a genuine liking for other people, both children and grown-ups, and enjoy being with others. That's an important indication of good adjustment. At the same time they don't need other people around all the time to keep them happy. They can entertain themselves. They are neither over-sensitive or too dependent.

Other signs that our children are adjusting properly, says the study, are: 1. Their respect for other people's property and rights; 2. Their not hurting anyone's feelings purposely for anything; 3. Their getting over having temper tantrums when they can't have their own way. 4. Their ability and willingness to accept responsibility and their ability to face things pretty squarely and honestly.

Above all else, however, says the study, the important thing is for parents to realize what they need is a clear understanding of what makes good character possible. They must realize that they have to create these conditions for themselves, and that they can only help their children by being the kind of people they want their children to become.

Not being able to be perfect people all at once, they must realize that growth should be their goal, not perfection. They can then think of their children as learners, and their mistakes as valuable steps in seeing more clearly the ways of creating the good they are seeking.

Gradually parents will come to know the true meaning of love and the reality of the Golden Rule (Thirteenth Chapter of First Corinthians) the capstone of the Palmer Foundation's objectives—

"... Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; Beareth all things, believeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth . . . And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

Airlines' New Bid For Increased Travel Utilizes Fastest Equipment And Low Fares

Day coach with wings: A choice of 34 flights on six lines

NEW YORK —(NEA)— The airlines are beginning to use their fastest and best equipment in a bold new bid to build up air travel with coach-style service featuring low fares and no frills.

American Airlines is blazing the trail, hoping to revolutionize the industry and create a great mass market for air transportation. United Air Lines plans to follow suit in May on a more limited scale.

The air coach idea isn't brand new. It's been getting a tryout for about a year and a half and has spread to most major airlines. But up to now such service has been chiefly restricted to overnight trips when travel is normally slack. And the lines have relied on 230-mile-an-hour DC-4's for the most part.

Now American has started flying the 300-mile-an-hour DC-6's on a one-stop coast to coast trip that clips nearly four hours off the fastest previous transcontinental coach service.

Luxuries Cut Out

To fit out DC-6's for this run, American stripped them of luxury features and upped seating capacity from 52 to 70. The bigger load will go far toward offsetting the lower fares charged, American believes. By eliminating a second fuel stop, which a DC-4 must make, the line saves around $250 a day in costs.

On this flight you take off from LaGuardia Airport in New York at 10:25 in the morning. Three and a half hours later you're in Chicago, with ample time for lunch at the field. No meals are served aloft —they're part of the fancy trimmings that have been eliminated.

At 1:40 p.m., CST, you board the plane again, span the coastal mountains and land at Los Angeles Airport at 7:10 p.m., just 11 hours and 45 minutes after the take-off at New York.

If you returned the same way, you'd leave the Coast at 9:45 a.m., reach Chicago at 6:10 p.m. and New York at 10:50 p.m. Eastbound, with usually favoring tail winds, the trip takes only 10 hours and five minutes.

The one-way fare all the way is $110, plus tax. Round trip costs exactly double or $253 with tax. That's $92 cheaper than the regular non-coach service.

American thinks this kind of air travel can be self-supporting, can in fact earn as much revenue as the higher-fare standard service using the same planes. If it turns out to be right, American won't worry too much about what happens to its luxury trade.

Some of the other lines aren't so confident. They fear the industry's regular rate structure may be ruined by coach competition if the idea is applied too widely. They'd like to see it limited to older, slower equipment and to the unattractive hours of the day.

Rickenbacker, Too

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, is in this camp. He feels, moreover, that low-fare coach service actually is discriminatory. People boarding planes at cities not on coach routes must pay higher fares.

Capital Airlines, however, is one of the big rooters for air coach. Though its shorter routes from the South and Midwest to Washington and New York make DC-6's uneconomical to use, Capital has been highly successful with DC-4's in that service. The pioneer with air coach, this line now has 10 flights daily at reduced fares. Yet it claims its first class travel hasn't suffered.

Right now you can take your pick from among 34 different air coach flights on six major lines. When United gets going with DC-6's between Los Angeles and San Francisco next month, this total will climb to 40.

The U.S. uses 34,500 tons of paper matches daily.

Father Divine Asks Help In Celebration

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Father Divine wants everyone to help celebrate the fourth anniversary of his marriage to his "spotless virgin bride."

His weekly newspaper, The New Day, has invited the general public to the festivities at "the country seat of the world" on April 29 and 30.

The announcement said no wedding anniversary presents, no gifts, no smoking, no drinking and no profanity will be permitted.

The anniversary will be celebrated in Philadelphia, but there was no definite locale mentioned in the announcement. It did say, however, the celebration will open with a breakfast at 8 a.m. on April 29 and conclude with a banquet at 10 p.m. on April 30.

Rats Dig Burrows, Reservoir Collapses

TOKYO—(AP)—Rats! said the people of Isogawa Village.

The banks of the village reservoir collapsed. So did two houses and a bridge. And water filled 30 houses.

Villagers discovered rats had dug too many burrows in the reservoir banks. Five hundred engineers are studying the problem.

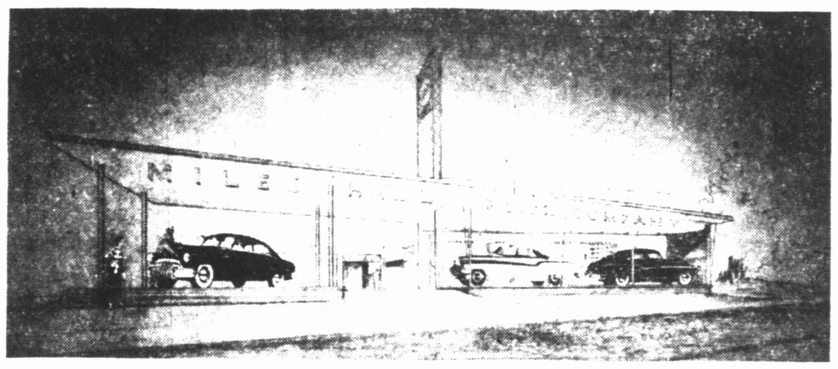

REMODELING CHECK LIST

The foundation, the framing and the roof are the three principal parts of a house which deserve close attention when structural remodeling is being planned.

DOUBLE-DUTY ROOMS

With the trend toward smaller homes and at the same time diversified family activities and interests, architects say that every room in the house should be made to do double or even triple duty. Most folks can't afford a home with all the room they would like to have so this plan of doubling-up is suggested.

Under Construction For Miles Hall

A preview of the modernistic building which will house the Miles Hall Buick Company is given in the artist's sketch above. Construction was started last week and the building is to be completed in the near future. The firm will offer complete facilities for sales and service. Miles Hall Buick Company's temporary locations are at 2501 West Wall Street and at the Boyce Auto Shop. The new building is being constructed in the 2600 block of West Wall Street.

At Plamor Lanes—

It's Time To Bowl, For Your Pleasure, Health

League and open play is going strong at the air-conditioned Plamor Lanes, 111 North Weatherford Street, and new bowlers every day are utilizing these fine bowling lanes, which are the newest and among the finest in West Texas.

A couples league is to be formed soon and Summer league play will get underway shortly.

It is not necessary to join a league to bowl at the Plamor, however, since four of the 12 alleys are devoted to open play.

The Plamor was opened in new and modernized quarters recently. It is equipped with Brunswick alleys, 12 semi-automatic pinsetting machines, 12 electric-eye fouling devices and two shuffleboards.

Rest rooms and lockers are provided for the convenience of the bowlers.

The Coffee Cup is operated in connection with the recreation place and in addition to serving short orders and soft drinks to bowlers, it serves breakfast, lunch and dinner for the general public.

It is open from 6 a.m. to midnight and rapidly is being recognized as one of Midland's most popular eating establishments.

Home-made pies and other well prepared foods are featured by the Coffee Cup.

There always is plenty of parking space available near the Plamor Lanes.

REFRESHMENT CLOSET

A refreshment closet built into living room, dining room or even the hall is a convenient and excellent space saver and keeps everything at hand for entertaining.

Rail Board Orders Three Area Hearings

AUSTIN—(AP)—The Railroad Commission Tuesday scheduled the following public hearings:

May 10—Application of Paul Poe for amendments to field rules now in effect in the Apco-Warner field, Pecos County.

June 7—Application of the Honolulu Oil Corporation for discovery allowable rights, a new field designation and field rules for the reservoir of its Cobb et al well No. 1, Yoakum County.

June 8—Application of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company for an exception to the commission's flare gas prohibition order applying to the Levelland field, Cochran and Hockley Counties.

SPACE SAVER

A space saver as well as a money-saver is a broad hinged shelf in the kitchen that drops down against the hall is a convenient and excellent kitchen work. A variation of this is the shelf that folds up flat against the wall after use.

Miles Hall Buick Firm Is Building

Completion of the new building to house the Miles Hall Buick Company will give Midland one of the finest automobile sales and service establishments in the Southwest. Construction is underway and it is to be completed in the near future, according to Miles Hall, Buick dealer.

It is located in the 2600 Block of West Wall Street. The firm is operating in temporary quarters at 2501 West Wall Street and the service department is located temporarily at the Boyce Auto Shop. The dimensions of the new building are 125 feet by 140 feet.

Complete Buick sales and service, including a complete stock of Buick engineered parts, all will be available in the new building.

Hall invites you to call for a demonstration of the 1950 Dynaflow Buick. The telephone number is 4696.

Hall has been associated with the automobile business the last 25 years, and is well known over the Southwest.

The Buick line of automobiles for 1950 is the most comprehensive since pre-war days. Models are offered from the lower price field to luxury custom models in the upper brackets. The autos are completely new from styling and engineering standpoints, with more powerful engines, new and roomier bodies, greater comfort and sweeping fender lines carried through the entire length of the body.

There are 19 models in the Buick line with seven in the Special Series and six models each in the Super and Roadmaster Series.

A new engine is offered in the Super Series while the Roadmaster and Special engines have undergone changes to give increased performance.

TEXAS TODAY—

Welfare Payments In Texas Are Below Average For Nation

AUSTIN—(AP)—Is Texas spending too much or too little on public welfare?

That's a hot political question which bobs up every election year and in each session of the Legislature.

By constitutional amendment, voters in 1945 set a limit of $35,000,000 a year on welfare spending. It is split three ways:

Thirty-one million dollars for old age assistance; $3,000,000 for aid to dependent children; $1,000,000 for aid to the needy blind.

With the number of people receiving aid increasing, the size of monthly checks for the aged was cut 50 cents recently. It is the first time since September, 1946, checks have had to be reduced below the amount authorized for each individual case. Aid to needy blind had never been lowered before April of this year.

Aid to dependent children had been cut last year, and checks for this group now are 11 per cent below the amount authorized.

Further cuts appear inevitable as the welfare rolls increase.

How does Texas compare with other states?

Figures compiled by the Public Welfare Department for 1949 show Texas payments are considerably below the national average for all three groups. (This includes the federal government's matching funds.)

National average of old age assistance checks, based on July, 1949, payments, was $43.69. Texas checks that month averaged $34.25, which was $9.44 less than the national figure. The Texas payment also was less than that received in 36 other states, but Texas was fifth among the states in relative number of persons receiving aid.

Families of dependent children received $72.73 nationally. The Texas check was $26.38 below that average at $46.35. The number of children aided per 1,000 population under 18 years is less in Texas than in 40 other states.

The average Texas payment to needy blind was $38.62 compared with a national level of $46.54.

Expanding Rapidly

Though the aged population is expanding more rapidly in Texas than nationally, the number of persons receiving old age assistance in Texas increased only 19 per cent from 1943 through 1949 compared with 23 per cent rise nationally, the Texas department reported.

"Present rates of increase in Texas seem destined to continue, based mainly on the inexorable increase in the aged population," the report read.

The number 65 years and over in Texas has surged from 163,000 in 1920 to an estimated 468,000 in 1949. The number of recipients of old age assistance in 1949 was 218,110.

This meant nearly one-half of the Texas population 65 years and over is on the OAA rolls. The national average is less than one-fourth.

Why is the percentage of old people who receive state aid so much greater in Texas than the national percentage? The Welfare Department offers these reasons:

1. The Texas per capita income is lower than the national average. The latest comparison showed $1,128 per capita income in Texas in 1947, and $1,323 nationally.

"Consequently, need may be expected to be somewhat greater in Texas," the Welfare Department commented.

2. A disproportionate burden is placed upon the OAA program because other phases of the general social security program are underdeveloped in Texas.

For instance, Texas has no state-administered general assistance program. Approximately $231,938,000 was spent for general assistance from state and local funds throughout the nation during the year ended June 30, 1949. Thirty-one states which appropriate funds for this purpose accounted for 60 per cent of the total. The total amount spent by Texas counties and cities, individually, for this type of assistance is not exactly known.

3. The scarcity of private company pension plans also means more old people must rely on state aid. The fact that Texas is not as highly industrialized as some other states accounts largely for this situation.

4. Inadequacy of the federal government's old-age and survivors insurance program, which excludes more people in Texas than in the average state, according to the Welfare department. This is true because the OASI program does not cover agricultural workers, shopkeepers and other self-employed persons.

Assistance expenditures of all kinds totaled 96 million dollars in Texas the past fiscal year, with federal grants accounting for 63 per cent.

Texas was exceeded only by California, New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

But on a per capita basis, Texas falls behind 18 other states. If you take away federal funds, Texas drops still lower, trailing 30 other states on the amount spent per capita.

Texas spends $4.83 per capita, this figure including both state and local funds. The national average is $7.16. Colorado leads with $26.01 per capita. The neighboring states of Louisiana and Oklahoma spend $15.24 and $14.80 per capita, respectively.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The George Pond

"Daddy Ringtail," Mugwump said, "if we had a hole in the ground right here by the Elephant Path, and if the hole had water in it to the top—then it would be a George Pond for George to go swimming in."

"That it would," Daddy Ringtail said.

George is a duck. Mugwump is a monkey boy.

But Mugwump was much too little to dig the George Pond by himself, and Daddy Ringtail was too busy to help him. Mugwump was wondering what he should do, when who should come walking along but the Huffen Puffen. The Huffen Puffen is a friendly wolf. Would the Huffen Puffen dig the George Pond?

"Oh no, and no oh!" said the Huffen. "Digging in the ground is work, it is!"

The Huffen wasn't going to do the digging, he wasn't, but Mugwump asked him how he would like to go swimming in the George

Pond, and the Huffen said he would like it fine, and so the Huffen dug until at last there was a very nice hole in the ground that would do for a George Pond.

"I'll fill it with water," Mugwump said, and the Huffen hurried away to his hollow tree house to get his bathing suit.

But Mugwump was much too little to carry enough water to fill the hole in the ground that was going to be a George Pond. While he was wondering what he should do, who should come walking along but the Rainmaker. The Rainmaker knew the magic words to make the rain fall down from the sky.

"Oh, Rainmaker," Mugwump said. "Please, pretty please, say the magic words to make the rain fill up the George Pond."

But the Rainmaker wouldn't do it. He said it was too much work to say the magic words to make it rain, unless—unless he could have the fun of making the rain fall down to get a someone wet—someone like the Huffen.

Oh, but there came the Huffen now, and so the Rainmaker said the magic words, and the rain fell down from the sky, and it filled the George Pond, and it got the Huffen Puffen wet. The Huffen was wearing his bathing suit to go swimming anyway, right there in the George Pond, and he did, and so everyone was happy, and that is how the George Pond came to be, all on a very happy day. Happy day!

NEXT TO FOUNDATION ROOF MOST IMPORTANT

As many Midlanders found out during the recent sand storms here, the roof is one of the most important parts of a house.

Building experts say, next to the foundation—the roof is most important. They advise close inspection of the roof at regular intervals and prompt repair to any defects.

PECOS—Former students of Texas A&M College are planning a steak dinner Friday in observance of the annual college Muster Day celebration, Chuck Norwood, organization president, said. All former students are invited, and reservations are being taken by Kenneth Bond at phone numbers 171 or 432-J.

The Pecos Valley chapter of the American Red Cross may be closed because of lack of funds, Bob Davis, chapter chairman, reported to the board in a recent meeting. The chapter has only $1,600 in its treasury—not enough to pay an executive secretary and meet financial demands, he said.

The Rev. Paul D. Wright, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was to deliver the doctrinal sermon at the Spring meeting of the Presbytery of El Paso Wednesday morning in Colorado City. A. W. Bingham is representative elder of the church at the meeting.

Jim Harber, John Oglesby and Ray Whitely have been elected directors of the Pecos Rotary Club for the coming year. Other new officers who are to take office in July are: Archie Scott, president; Rayman Pouncy, vice president, and Zech Dameron, secretary-treasurer.

More than 125 women, representing 21 Presbyterian Churches, are expected to be present April 23 and 26 for the annual meeting of the Women of the El Paso Presbyterial. The meetings are to be held in the First Presbyterian Church. "Looking Unto Jesus" will be the theme of the meeting.

George W. Moreland, Pecos veterinarian, has been named chief meat inspector of the area, as the result of a recently-passed meat ordinance.

Thomas Martin Kelly, a pioneer Pecos resident, died Sunday at his home here. Services were held Monday at St. Catherine's Catholic Church. Survivors include the widow and nine children; Henry Kelly, Mrs. W. H. Garrett, Mrs. J. D. Nance, Joe Kelly, Lillie Mae Kelly, Billie Ray Kelly and Lenora Kelly, all of Pecos; Mrs. Eddie Tokarcyk of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Gerald Mallett of Mentone. Interment was in Fairview cemetery at Pecos.

Octopus Clambers Into Fishing Boat

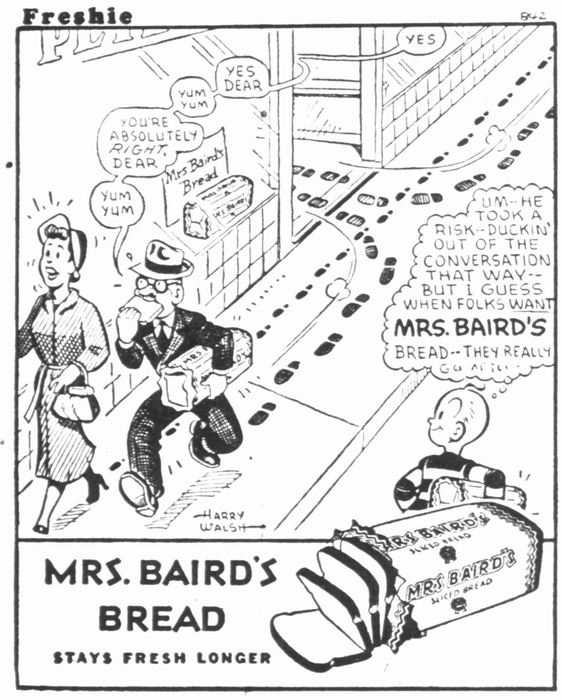

AP Newsfeatures

SYDNEY—A big octopus climbed into the launch of George Miles while he was fishing off Ulladulla, 150 miles south of Sydney. Miles had hooked the octopus, and hauled it to the surface.

Then the octopus took over. It placed tentacles over the side of the launch and hauled itself into the cockpit. It squirted a black fluid at Miles and reached for him with its tentacles. Miles seized a piece of board and fought off the octopus for several minutes. Then he killed it by crushing the board on its head.

The octopus was 10 feet from tip to tip of its tentacles.

Orchid Raiser Finds It's Tough To Outsmart Flower

Harold Patterson and orchid: The satisfaction is in creating a thing of beauty that outlives you.

BERGENFIELD, N. J.—(NEA)—Harold Patterson spends his life trying to outsmart a flower.

His sprawling "Orchidhaven" here houses 500,000 hybrid orchid plants, being pampered in several acres of hothouses.

"We're constantly trying to produce bigger, sturdier and more beautiful orchids," says Patterson. "To do that, you've got to be smarter than an orchid.

It takes from seven to 10 years, plus patience and loving care, to produce an orchid from seed. Every step in the lengthy process must be watched closely.

First Step Told

The first step is to remove the seed from the ripened pod the second it bursts open. This sounds easy. But the seeds are so microscopic that a teaspoon will hold 1,000,000 of them. They are stored at 50 degrees Fahrenheit—no more, no less—until time for planting.

At planting time they are first immersed delicately in a "food solution" of calcium nitrate, ammonium sulphate, iron phosphate, potassium phosphate, Epsom salts and distilled water, plus agar, a nutritive gelatin substance which causes the solution to solidify.

Then the delicate seeds must be sterilized. They are next transferred to a flask in which they grow for one year, in an 80 degree temperature.

"When they are about a year old, the seedlings are planted in rows in soft, yellow peat, in a three-inch "community pot'," Patterson says.

One More Year

Here they spend another year at 65 to 80 degree temprratures and are sprayed three times a day. The orchid's next home — again for a year—is a 1 3 4-inch individual pot filled with osmunda fern, which is similar to its native, tropical vegetation.

They spend another 10 to 12 months in a 2 1 4-inch pot, then a year in three-inch pots, where their roots begin to spill over and dangle in the air. After a year or so in four-inch pots, they are finally transplanted to their permanent five-inch pots.

"A healthy orchid plant will keep blooming annually for more years than there are in our life," Patterson said with a grin. "That's the satisfaction you have — knowing that you have created a thing of beauty that will outlive you."

Developing Hybrids

In developing hybrid orchids, such as Patterson's new "Old Forester," the problem is to choose the right qualities in the parents, and know from experience what the combined qualities may be. For instance, two parents which bloom in September, may produce an offspring which blooms in March and April.

The biggest demand for orchids is at Easter, and a prompt bloomer is the orchid grower's delight. If a new hybrid is a "light lover" it is kept in the dark to delay its bloom until the right moment. The "dark lovers" are bathed in floodlights until the market is ready.

The first bloom is the end of the cycle for the new orchid plant. When it becomes a hardy plant, its back root bulb is removed to form another plant. The root division may be repeated indefinitely.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP newsfeatures

More pen pals are shaking hands across the sea, these days, reports the International Friendship League of Boston, Mass. But the society, which is sanctioned by the State Department, says it still needs 150,000 unofficial American ambassadors. The league has that many letters on hand from young people in Europe, all waiting to be answered by American teen-age pen pals.

The league thinks that through these pen friendships young people here can learn about life in other countries and young people abroad will learn about life, work and play, here in America. Kids are asked to send self-addressed stamped envelopes to keep postage costs down.

Have you ever been a pen friend? I asked Mary Kelly about her experiences writing to people she never had seen and she thinks it is delightful fun. She has struck up a fine acquaintance with two girls —one in Seattle, Wash., and the other in London, Eng., and has been carrying on a correspondence with them for years. It has got to the point where Mary knows their glove and stocking sizes and the girls exchange presents of hand knit wearables and other gifts, and never forget each other's birthdays, Christmas and Easter. Says Mary:

Pen Friendships

"Pen friendships are wonderful for lonely people especially. Sometimes you can pour out your loneliness in a letter and feel so much better. The only trouble is that occassionally it can be embarrassing. For instance when you are asked to describe yourself, it really stymies you. How can you say whether you are homely, gaunt or fat? Once I was asked whether I was pretty or not. I just sent the girl my picture, and let her make up her mind what I looked like."

• • •

As if all teen-agers felt the need to expand their interests, a group of young people in San Francisco are talking about a national get-together, reports Katherine Pinkham.

Actually, says Augie Costa, President of the Northern California Youth Council "it might be too big a proposition although there are lots of kid groups that would like to engage in a big get-together but don't know how to go about it."

California now has some 300 teen centers. Things really are kept humming. Some are boys clubs, some are girls clubs and some are co-ed.

The kids do everything from choral singing for hospitals to helping with the Community Chest drives and collecting books for school libraries.

City Centers

In Fresno, Calif., the YWCA helped start the "Shack," a teen-age center that has 1700 members. It gets an allotment from the Community Chest, a paid activities director and use of the old civic auditorium both days and evenings.

Some of the city centers have started in empty store buildings, old firehouses and other unused rooms. Most of them were born in wartime and although most Californians figured they would die out after the war, actually they have grown.

Augie and his pals think teen-age centers in the United States have a big future, and they are going to continue to work for a national pow-wow. Augie's going to San Francisco State College now, and he'll carry on his activities in the interest of teen-age centers, from there.

You've got to have patience to be a baby sitter, it was voted in a recent poll conducted by the Council Bluffs Nonpareil. Out of 88 girls voting 57 said patience was tops as the most important qulification of a baby sitter, 14 said it was second most important and 12 others placed it third. Next in importance was kindness with alertness third, and calmness a close fourth.

Tucked In

Although 13 of the girls liked to have the babies tucked in when they arrived on the scene, 75 of the girls said they like to tuck the babies in bed themselves. One said, "I like to have the baby up for a while so it knows I am there."

Most of the girls queried had started their pin-money earnings at the age of 12 or 13. The usual charge for baby sitting is 35c an hour for the early evening work, 10 or 15 cents more for every after-midnight hour. A few of the girls charge 25c an hour and some of the real professional baby sitters are up to 75c an hour.

Almost all of the girls are permitted to entertain a date while on guard, and most of them are invited to raid the ice box.

What is the hardest job of caring for other people's children? The girls had different ideas about that, but mostly it boiled down to: "Parents who forget to tell you where things are," "Children not wanting to go to bed," "Finding something to do"—and "questions."

For the second year in succession, Syracuse University's wrestlers and boxers ruled their respective eastern tournaments.

But What If He Should Be Vera Vivian?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth of Britain will have her second child this Summer.

And naturally the parents in Buckingham Palace are wondering what to name the baby. That always is a problem.

They must be weary of naming their offspring George, Edward, or John—assuming it's to be a boy. And royal folk always operate on the assumption the next child will be male.

I've got a free-for-nothing suggestion: Let's call the kid Wichita Windsor. That might bridge him between two worlds.

Because poor young "Wichita Windsor the First" is bound to be a kind of rich sad sack. He will stand third in line to the throne—following Mother Elizabeth herself and his brother, bonny Prince Charles.

The best he can hope for in his native land is a weary dukedom and a life of boredom. This is because, by the ancient law of primogeniture, the oldest brother inherits the family's chief title and wealth.

Lifelong Rubber Stamp

Young Wichita Windsor—let us call him that—cannot, barring accident, become either king or prime minister of Great Britain. He is condemned to a life of being a secondary figurehead, a rubber stamp in lifelong reserve.

But just supposing this second child of Elizabeth should turn out to be one of the great political geniuses of history, In the country of his birth he would have no avenue to exercise his astuteness except by creating a revolution and grabbing top control. And violent revolution no longer is popular in England.

With a name like Wichita Windsor, however, he could emigrate to the United States and become a real power. Mind you, I'm not suggesting that he should.

But if he did, what would be his opportunities? Well, in one way they would be less than those of a son of the most poverty-stricken negro family in the poorest section of Mississippi—or Harlem.

That is, any native-born negro or white American child can be President of the United States, and no son or disciple of a foreign king can. That is decreed in our Constitution.

But that would be the only political limitation upon him. Young Wichita could become mayor of New York City, senator from California, or governor of Illinois.

He could also become the secretary of state or the arbiter of Hollywood's morals. Any of these posts are more important than anything he could aspire to in England.

Flying Lion

George W. Spence, flying president of the Ysleta Lions Club, is a candidate for governor of District 2-T-2, Lions International, to succeed Gov. James L. Daugherty of Midland. He is a cotton farmer and rancher. If elected, he plans to use his private plane to cover the far distances of the West Texas district. The governor election will be a feature of the district convention to be held Sunday and Monday in Alpine.

SIDE GLANCES

"Yes, I'm putting in an extra large garden—symptoms are there'll be a heavy rush of visiting relatives this summer!"

Whooping Cranes Will Get Privacy

AUSTWELL, TEXAS—(AP)—As if Mac the lonesome whooper weren't enough to worry about, there's now the matter of Crip and Josephine.

Crip and Josephine are supposed to be romancing. But what with peeping and prying by a curious public, the romance is getting shaky.

Crip and Josephine—and Mac, too, though he may sometimes wonder—are whooping cranes. If the Fish and Wildlife Service count is right, they and 34 others are the world's last whoopers.

A helicopter picked up Mac from a Louisiana swamp some time ago and set him down in the national game refuge here—to join the 37 other whoopers who spend the Winter here.

Mac promptly violated camp etiquette. He tried to horn in on a mating couple. The other cranes—they stand six feet high and pack a wallop—promptly beat Mac up Now Mac wanders about alone, roundly snubbed.

The Fish and Wildlife Service arranged the romance between Crip and Josephine in hopes they'd do something about the world's whooper population. So far visitors have had them too edgy. Now Julian A. Howard, manager of the game refuge, has clamped down. No more visitors—and a lot more privacy—for the couple.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For NEA Service

The other night I watched a famous radio star mangle a hand. Both sides needed 120 points, and the pile built up to a nice size before my friend managed to take the pile and make a first meld.

Well, you'd think he'd get enough points out of that hand to win the game, but he didn't. The trouble was that he just couldn't keep his fingers off the discard pile.

Each time it came around to him it contained exactly four cards. It always happened that he could make a meld with the top card of the pile, so he picked it up.

After a while his partner began to sweat. He still had his original eleven cards, and it looked as though he'd never get a chance to pick up any more. Whenever the discard pile came around to him it contained only two cards—no bargain.

Finally my friend's partner made a risky discard. There were only three cards in the discard pile, but the opponent swooped down on it with gurgles of glee. He made a meld of 120 points, his partner speedily completed a canasta, and they were out on the next round.

"You may know how to sing," began my friend's partner . . . And any experienced Canasta player can imagine the rest of that discussion!

My singing friend's partner had good reason to be annoyed. When you pick up a big discard pile, don't be a hog. Let your partner get a few cards into his hand. When the next pile, containing only four cards, comes around to you, pass it up. That will give your partner a chance at a six-card discard pile.

You may have a problem if your partner cannot pick up a six-card pile. If you keep letting the pile grow, he may give it away. It is wise to pass the pile up the first time it comes around to you; it is sometimes all right to pass a pile up the second time it comes back to you; but it is foolhardy to let it go by a third time.

When your partner seems to have trouble getting the discard pile, put down a new meld or two. The idea is not to deplete your own hand, but to make it hard for the next player to find a discard that doesn't give the pile to your partner.

Q—Can you ever discard a red three?

A—Never.

Q—When you meld out with three black threes, are you allowed to make a discard also?

A—Yes. When you meld out, you may make a discard or not—as you choose. Black threes do not affect this rule in any way.

One-Legged War Hero Is Good Diver

AP Newsfeatures

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — One might think things have been rather rough for Ex-Marine Fighter Pilot Sam Logan ever since that fantastic June day seven years ago when a Jap Zero deliberately cut off one of his feet as he was parachuting down.

At that time, the Marines rated him as one of the real heroes of World War II. But the glory didn't amount to much when the big show was over.

Logan went broke trying to run a charter air service in Los Angeles after the war.

Today, he figures he has solved forevermore the dilemma of malmed war veterans whose lives—to them—seem hopeless. Simply, his philosophy is:

"Don't let anyone tell you you can't do something just because you're nicked a little. Keep on practicing. Quit coddling yourself, and you'll be better than the average guy."

Kansas Native

Logan, a native of Paola, Kan., is a well-built, good looking man of 29 who has taken up deep sea diving and is making a go of it. He works for his two brothers who operate a diving and salvage business here. Every few days he dons a heavy brass helmet and plummets to the depths of the St. John River and the Atlantic Ocean, wearing a plastic waterproof leg he made himself. He's believed to be the only one-legged diver anywhere.

Logan today displays the same doggedness that carried him through one of the most remarkable episodes of the war.

Flying a Vought Corsair, Lt. Logan was dog-fighting at 20,000 feet, when enemy bullets shredded his plane's tail assembly. Logan kicked himself out of the craft and began to float down. A Zero raced at him. He felt a stab of pain. The Zero's propellor had cut his right foot off.

He was picked up and spent five months in a hospital.

He came to Florida and took up diving. He married a girl he met on a blind date—Mrs. Jacquelyn Tate of Greensboro, N. C., whose first husband, Marine Lt. Donald Tate, was killed in the same area where the Jap got Logan.

PLUM TESTER

Food scientists have tried out a pressure tester on plums to determine the best picking time. A pressure of 10 pounds marks the stage of development when the fruit will ripen satisfactorily after picking. If picked before this point is reached, the fruit is likely to spoil without ripening.

Laugh, Clown—Everybody Else Did

Clown Bernie Griggs, will take his next few meals standing. Bernie was in the midst of his regular act in Los Angeles when another clown hit him with the wrong end of a slapstick. The slapstick, charged with a .38-caliber blank cartridge, exploded, wounding Bernie where he won't be able to sit down. The clown is seen explaining his troubles to police ambulanceman George Marberry and nurse Dorothy Rieth.

20 Million Get Tests To Stop TB

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK—In Karachi, Pakistan, a three-year-old girl held out her arm to a Danish doctor.

The doctor made a skin test for tuberculosis. And a protographer took a picture.

The girl, Zora Mohamood, was recorded as the 20,000,000th child to be tested in an international campaign against TB. Later she received a shot of BCG, an anti-tuberculosis vaccine. About 10,000,000 youngsters throughout the world have received the vaccine so far in the huge drive against the killer disease.

May Save Life

The vaccine may save Zora's life. Her test and vaccination marked almost the halfway point in this TB campaign. Some 50,000,000 children and young adults are to be tested. One-third or one-half of them will be vaccinated.

The skin test shows whether a person has TB, or has ever had an attack. Those who show no sign can often be protected by the vaccine.

The campaign is sponsored by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), the Danish Red Cross, Norwegian Relief for Europe, and Swedish Red Cross.

It has been underway for two years as a joint enterprise. Before that, the Scandinavian agencies had been carrying on mass-vaccination programs in some war-ravaged countries, where TB was especially bad. In the Spring of 1948, UNICEF allocated $5,000,000 to extend and continue the vaccination program.

The tests and vaccinations are completed in Finland, Czechoslovakia and Poland. The campaign still is underway in Austria, Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, Israel, Palestine, Lebanon, Egypt, Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia. It has spread to India, Pakistan and Ceylon, and will move into Syria and Malta. It is starting soon in Mexico, and then later in Ecuador.

BCG is named for two French scientists, Calmette and Guerin, who developed it years ago. It has been used widely in Europe for many years, but only on a limited scale in the United States.

The vaccine is harmless. It apparently protects about 80 per cent of the people who receive it, and the protection lasts from three to five years.

The cost is low. One dollar pays for vaccinating eight children in this campaign. Funds came from governments, and from individuals.
