Connie Mack Fails to End Series in Four Consecutive Wins

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—"Swing, sucker, you might have luck."

Thus bawled a slightly irritated Chicagoan from the upper tier of the stand in Shibe park at "Kiki" Cuyler this afternoon, when "Kiki" was down there at the plate in the sixth inning, peering earnestly at the pitching of George Livingstone Earnshaw.

Maybe "Kiki" heard him. Maybe he didn't. But he swung just the same, and the result of the swing was a single that scored two runs for the Chicago Cubs and gave them the margin in their 3 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the third game of the world series of 1929.

Chicagoan Weary

Probably the Chicagoan in the upper stand was one of many of Chicagoans who have grown very tired of hearing the granite voiced umpires growl "heez zout" at the Cubs in the past few days. He looked as if he might be tired of something.

The Athletics were a tally ahead when the sixth opened and the Chicagoans didn't seem to be able to find much of George Livingstone Earnshaw's pitching with their poking sticks. Then Guy Bush, the

Showers Fall In Scattered Areas

The clouds which hung over Wichita Falls Thursday and Friday failed to bring heavy rains, but good showers were reported at several points in the Panhandle and in Oklahoma. Despite the delay to cotton picking, farmers at most points were highly pleased over the showers.

Memphis reported almost an inch of rainfall Thursday night. No material damage to cotton was noticed and ranchers welcomed the rain because of the dryness of their ranch grass. Lockney reported about half an inch of rain Thursday and farmers in that vicinity stated that they were willing to accept a delay on cotton picking and feed harvesting because of the benefit to the large wheat acreage.

Cotton picking will be delayed a day or two longer at Childress because of showers which fell there and over the surrounding country late Friday. L. P. Hammond, who returned by air from Oklahoma City Friday morning, reported good rains along the southern part of Oklahoma. He was forced to fly far to the east to avoid the rain clouds.

NEW ORLEANS, La. Oct. 11. (US)—Jack Kraft, internationally known fencer, and former New York newspaperman, today committed suicide by leaping overboard from the steamer Creole in the Mississippi above Buras, La.

Kraft's act was alleged due to the refusal of Miss Ione Orde, 25, also of New York, to marry him. The girl was restrained from following Kraft overboard by the ship's crew.

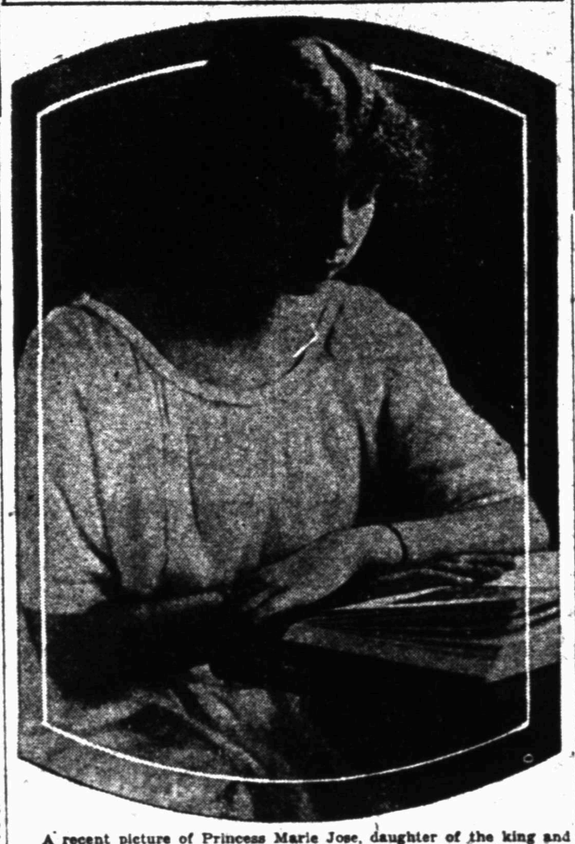

Kraft and Miss Orde were en route to San Francisco from New York and the girl was registered on the ship's list as Kraft's foster-sister.

Licenses of All Wichita Headlight Stations Cancelled at State Request

Texas Engineer Demands Stricter Tests for Automobiles, and Raps "Deplorable Night Driving Conditions"

Cancellation of the permit of every headlight testing station in Wichita county, effective Oct. 19, as a first step in combatting "deplorable night driving conditions" was requested by the state highway engineer in a letter received Friday by John P. Marrs, county judge. Judge Marrs said he expected to comply with the request immediately. Notices of the revocation of the present arrangement between the county and the stations will be mailed out at once, the judge declared.

New Regulations

In asking for the clearing of the grounds for a new beginning, the headlight engineer, working in the highway engineer's office at Austin, explained that the plan was designed to "weed out undesirable stations." The testing stations which comply with all state regulations and are giving the necessary service can be re-employed, he explained. His communication contained a supply of new contract blanks to be signed by the county commissioners and the managers of the newly designated stations. The new blanks include stricter and more binding provisions, it was explained.

The official letter also contained a chart, showing the apex of automobile accidents in November just before the annual drop which follows a new period of headlight testing. The letter expressed dissatisfaction with the way the present laws are being enforced all over the state, describing the night driving conditions as "deplorable" and asking cooperation in improving them.

Between 10 and 12 official testing stations will be involved in the change in Wichita county Judge Marrs said Friday. He expressed enthusiastic approval of the new campaign against dangerous lights and declared that lights should be tested at least every 90 days to insure safety. Under the existing arrangement here, the stations are allowed to retain 20 cents of the 25 cent fee charged for the official headlight test required before new licenses are issued.

NEW RAIL LINE IS FORECAST

Santa Fe to Seek Texas-Colorado Permits

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—The San Angelo Standard today said the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad will file a series of applications with the Interstate Commerce commission tomorrow or Monday asking permission to build a line from Amarillo north to Las Animas, Colo., which would give it a new short line to Denver and a shortcut for freight and passenger service connecting Texas with Colorado.

In adidtion it would intersect a number of branch lines and feeder spurs on the arious Santa Fe systems and would seek at the same time to build two additional spurs off the new line.

Run Straight North

The Panhandle and Santa Fe, the publication continued, expects to ask permission to build straight north from Amarillo via Dumas and Stratford through Potter, Moore and Sherman counties to a point about five miles from the northeast corner of Dallam county.

Another application, the Standard said, will be filed for the Elkhart and Santa Fe to build from a point five miles from the northeast corner of Dallam county on the Texas-Oklahoma line to a point of the Oklahoma-Colorado line about 27 miles west of the northeast corner of Cimarron county, Oklahoma.

This would be followed by another application, according to the newspaper, by the Dodge City and Cimarron Valley Railway company to build a line from the point last mentioned in the application of the Elkhart and Santa Fe Railroad company to its own main line at Las Animas, Colo., just east of the Lajunta. This line would pick up a spur of the Santa Fe out of Dodge City, Kan., at Pritchett, Colo.

Open New Field

This extension, the newspaper said, would give the Santa Fe a commanding position in a great territory between Amarillo and Lajunta and would traverse a territory from North to South that at present has but East and West lines.

The Panhandle and Santa Fe application, the Standard said, will include a petition for a line from Dumas to Spearman and the Elkhart and Santa Fe application for a line from Felt to Colmor, N. M.

All of the companies are owned by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

"Was that the truth?" District Attorney Buron Fitts asked.

"No sir," the girl answered in a trembling voice. "Mr. Pantages showed her to a seat in my section and he came and got her after a while. It seemed like the screams came a half hour after she left."

BORGER, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—Borger today began waiting for the grand jury to convene Monday, investigate city and county officials and return indictments against members of the "entrenched criminal ring" which led Gov. Dan Moody to declare martial law.

50,000 POUNDS OF MILK DAILY SET AS GOAL

Southwest Dairy Products Company Purchases Cheese Plant

MACHINERY ORDERED

Firm to Produce Powdered And Condensed Milk, Cottage Cheese

Following a program announced recently for extensive dairying development in this community, the Southwest Dairy Products company will take over the plant and equipment now being used by the Kraft Cheese company on or about Nov. 16, for manufacturing of powdered and condensed milk, according to P. E. Freeman, local manager of the purchasing company's interests.

Possession of the modern milk-products manufacturing plant built about two years ago at Sibley and Broad streets for the Kraft Cheese company's use will be given on or about Nov. 16, according to terms of the transaction as described to The Record News. Acquisition of the plant will include the vats, refrigeration units and other machinery used during the past 20 months in the manufacture of cheese.

New Industry

Installation of the new manufactory here will give Wichita Falls the only milk powder and condensing plant in this section of the country, it was said, and will offer local producers practically an unlimited local market for whole milk. A campaign for the material increase of milk deliveries from the territory surrounding Wichita Falls will be launched at once by the Southwest Dairy Products company, Mr. Freeman stated.

Conversion of the plant into a manufactory of powdered and condensed milk will occasion the installation of a large amount of new equipment, including three condensing pans and extensive additions to the present refrigeration units. Much of the cheese manufacturing equipment will be utilized for various processes in the new industry, however, it was said. The cheese vats probably will be moved to the company's creamery at 809 Virginia street, formerly the James Brothers' creamery, for the manufacture of cottage cheese on a large scale.

The handling of enormous quantities of whole milk for the production of the condensed and powdered commodity is made possible by the fact that in condensing the bulk of the stock is reduced to about 20 per cent of its original volume, and in powdering to about nine per cent, it was stated. With a sufficient volume of milk available, the plant will operate on a 24-hour daily schedule, Mr. Freeman said.

KRAFT CHEESE PLANT SOLD

Southwest Dairy Products Company Is Buyer

Survey Made Here

Following a survey made of the Wichita Falls territory recently by the company's production engineer, it was said that he expressed confidence that 50,000 pounds of whole milk daily will be available to the condensery within a few months. He is moving to this city, and will begin within the next few days an intensive campaign among farmers and dairymen of this and surrounding communities for the increased production of higher grade whole milk, it was said.

Powdered milk is in great demand in many sections of the country by various manufactories for which sufficient supplies of raw milk are unavailable, according to Mr. Freeman. It is used in large quantities particularly in the East, it was said, where consumption of milk products so far exceeds the facilities for milk production. There is now an unsupplied outlet for much more powdered and condensed milk than can be produced in this territory, according to the statement given.

Higher Price for Producers

A scale of prices to the producer equal to or higher than that possible with the manufacturing of cheese will be afforded by the new industry, Mr. Freeman stated. In the building up of a larger production for its uses emphasis will be placed upon high grade milk, from both butterfat and sanitation standpoint, as well as quantity.

As a part of the plan for supplying at least 50,000 pounds of milk daily to the plant, as soon as it is placed in operation, a herd of about 21 registered Jerseys belonging to Mr. Freeman will be brought to this city sometime in November, it was said. They are now being exhibited at various fairs in South Texas. The herd has been developed through careful selection and breeding during the past six years. Mr. Freeman said, and contains about 10 animals wearing blue ribbons from some of the largest stock exhibits in the Southwest.

The Southwest Dairy Products company, which took over the James Brothers' creamery several weeks ago, has its headquarters in San Antonio. Numerous officials of the concern have spent considerable time here during the past month investigating the possibilities of extensive development of milk products here. Assumption of the creamery and cheese plant are the first major steps in the program outlined for activity in Wichita county, it was said.

Airport Notes

W. Bland Omohundro, of the firm of Riner and Omohundro, Wichita Falls oil operators, made his first solo flight at the Municipal airport Friday afternoon after a course of instruction under Pilot Fred Ridenour of the Lone Star Aviation company. Mr. Omohundro is one of several Wichita Falls business men who are taking flying instructions at the Municipal port under Pilot Ridenour. His landing was a good three-point touch and his flying steady despite gusty winds.

Roy Riner, Mr. Omohundro's associate in the oil business, has just purchased a Stinson Junior cabin monoplane and is now en route to Detroit to fly the ship back to Wichita Falls, adding another local business man to the growing ranks of aviation enthusiasts.

L. P. Hammond of the Lone Star Aviation company took off from the Municipal field at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning for Oklahoma City on a business trip. He returned about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, reporting that he had made the trip north in 58 minutes, from field to field. The return trip required longer due to the fact that he was forced to fly far to the east to avoid rain storms in central and southern Oklahoma.

For the first time since the establishment of air passenger service in Wichita Falls, the Safeway airlines reported they flew a double-header Friday afternoon from Oklahoma City to Wichita Falls, 24 passengers being handled on the afternoon schedule at the Municipal port. Several double-headers have been flown from here to Oklahoma City. Three of the huge Ford tri-motored ships were on the Municipal field at one time Friday. On the morning trip northward, nine passengers were reported, six of them having boarded the ship here. The Braniff lines reported 12 passengers Friday, capacity on both trips. The total number of passengers through the port Friday was 45, a record for both lines.

Sir Hubert Wilkins on Way to Antarctic Wastes

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 11 (UP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, arrived here yesterday aboard the steamship Northern Prince en route to Montevidio, Uruguay, where he will board the steamer Melville, which will take him into the Antaretic to resume his exploration of that region.

Sir Hubert said that the general headquarters of his expedition would be established at the Falkland islands, but that the actual base of operations would be at Deception island, where his airplane equipment has been stored. The exploration trip will start early in December, he said, and will work jointly with that of Commander Richard Byrd, if they should meet in the Antaretic wastes.

HOOVER MAY VISIT BRITAIN

MacDonald Invites President to England

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (US)—President Hoover may go to London to return the good-will visit of Premier Ramsay MacDonald, it was intimated today.

On the eve of his departure from Washington, it was learned, Premier MacDonald invited him and Mrs. Hoover to be their guests in England, if they could get away for a few weeks.

Both wish to do so, it was learned but it is problematical if the president will be able to absent himself from the states for any prolonged period. It is known, however, that in his interest for the promotion of world peace, he would be more than willing to make the trip in much the same way that Premier MacDonald made his trip here.

The two leaders are determined, it was learned, that nothing may upset the preliminary work they have done here to make war difficult and materially reduce the navies.

MACDONALD SPEAKS TO NEW YORKERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's prime minister, extended to New York his message of friendship and good will today.

At a luncheon, again at a reception in late afternoon and in private meetings first with representative Jewish leaders and later with Socialists, he continued his mission of fostering world-wide good feeling.

The luncheon given by British societies of New York and by the English Speaking union was attended by more than 4,000 persons. It was held in the grand ballroom of the Astor hotel.

MacDonald was introduced by John W. Davis, former United States ambassador to Great Britain. The tone of the meeting was one of friendliness, and the prime minister seemed glad to have finished the heavier burden of his negotiations in Washington and be permitted to speak in perhaps not such a serious vein. He indulged in pleasantries, paid glowing tribute to Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, who soon is to retire, pronounced himself a Baptist and an Internationalist, and found time to speak good words for the 19th century school of New England writers.

Girl Usher Tells Of Framed Story

there," Courtney said. "The girl shouted that she wanted justice and Pantages told me: 'I want you to keep this quiet and I want no publicity or newspaper stories'."

"What did you answer?" Deputy District Attorney James P. Stewart inquired.

"I told him I couldn't help it if the newspapers got it."

The officer testified that he was directing traffic on the busy corner outside the theater about 5:15 p. m. when he suddenly heard a girl's piercing scream. He looked toward the theater and saw a crowd gathered at the foot of the stairway leading to the offices.

Found Sobbing Girl

"I rushed over there and I saw a girl there sobbing and screaming. I knew now that she is Eunice Pringle. I took hold of her and when I asked what was wrong she said that she had been attacked.

"A man named Fred Wise and I took her up to the second floor in an elevator and then we went into the Pantages theater offices. Pantages was in his inner office, straightening his dishevelled clothing.

"'I asked him what was the matter and he turned and told me: 'This is a frameup; this girl is trying to blackmail me.'

"Miss Pringle cried: 'There's the dirty brute; don't let him talk like that about me; it's not true'."

"Did Pantages make any reply to that?" Stewart asked.

"Yes, he said 'I want you to keep this quiet and I want no publicity or newspaper stories'."

Clothing Torn

Courtney said that he had an opportunity to observe the condition of Miss Pringle's clothing and that it was dusty and torn. He testified that there was a large rip under one arm and that one of her stockings was ripped.

The trial will be resumed Monday morning.

Quick Arrests Follow Return Of 24 Indictments by Grand Jury

All but three of the defendants named in 24 indictments returned by the October grand jury Thursday afternoon were either in jail or under bond late Friday, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley, who received the warrants. In all but one of the cases, the defendants Friday made new bonds after the indictments, the sheriff said. The remaining three arrests are expected within the next few days, the whereabouts of the defendants being known, Mr. Bralley declared.

Among the new bonds made Friday was a $2,500 surety given by John J. Bartlett, former deputy United States marshal, charged with criminal assault upon a 7-year-old Wichita Falls girl. Alfred Jennings, charged with driving while intoxicated was held in the Wichita county jail; Clyde Rose, accused of burglarizing the Evans pharmacy asked for bond; LeRoy Williams and Eddie Hall, both negroes, charged respectively with burglary and driving while drunk were in custody, along with Otis Akers, Earl Freeman, P. E. Wood, Jack Hollis, and Frank McDaniel, all in jail Thursday when the indictments were returned.

SCOUTS OPEN FALL ACTIVITY

Troops Gather at Church For Rally

Boy Scout activities for the fall season were opened Friday night with a joint meeting of all troops in Wichita Falls at the First Christian church when stunts were presented by several of the troops, and games, in which teams from rival troops were matched, featured the evening.

A large attendance was reported, several of the scouts bringing friends who did not belong to the organization. It is hoped, according to Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, that boys who do not now belong to the Boy Scouts can be interested in the work of the world-wide organization and can be given an idea of the advantages to be gained from membership. A knowledge of scoutship would be to the advantage of any man and especially to the boys who will later become the men of Wichita Falls, Mr. Creighton pointed out to the boys.

Handicraft, hikes, trips to interesting points, courtesy, cooperation, fellowship, a knowledge of the outdoors and self dependence are only a few of the many things to be gained from membership in the Boy Scouts, he said.

Housework A Drag

"SHORTLY after I was married," writes Mrs. Harry Cole, 1712 Valley St., Portsmouth, Ohio, "I became bothered with weakness. I tried a remedy that was recommended to me, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine told me about Cardui, so I began taking it. After taking a few bottles, I began to feel better. My appetite came back to me and I felt stronger.

"When I first began to take Cardui, I was pale and run-down and thin as I could be, and my weight went down to 98 pounds. Frequently my sides hurt and I was not able to do much. My housework was a drag.

"After I had given Cardui a trial, my weight went up to 126 pounds, and I felt like a different person. I believe Cardui saved me some serious trouble. I hope these few lines will encourage some other sickly woman to give Cardui a trial."

IKE WALTONS STOCK LAKE

2,000 Fish Added to Lake Wichita Friday

Through the efforts of the Izaak Walton league in Wichita Falls, headed by Ben G. Oneal, Lake Wichita was stocked with 2,000 young fish Friday morning. About half of the young fish, all of which measured about four inches in length, were bass and the remaining half were crappie and perch. They were sent from Fort Worth by the United States fish hatchery in response to a request made last summer by Mr. Oneal who asked Henry O'Malley, United States Fisheries commissioner, to aid him in stocking the lake here.

The fish arrived in 20 cans about 1 a. m. Friday from Fort Worth and were taken directly from the train to the lake, where they were placed in the water during the early morning hours. The cans were unloaded onto a Noble-Little Hardware company truck manned by James King, James Robertson and J. H. Castledine, all members of the Ike Walton league here. Accompanied by Mr. Oneal, the party opened the cans at the lake and dumped in the fish.

Pistol Stops Car Which Menaced Children

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (US)—An automobile that endangered the lives of a group of school children was stopped by pistol fire today.

Edward Moore, police officer, was escorting the children across the street. He signalled the drive of an approaching car to stop. The car sped on, passing between the officer and his little charges. Moore fired after the fleeing automobile. One bullet struck Charles Sharp, driver, in the shoulder. He stopped. Sharp, an executive of a local manufacturing company, will recover, it was stated tonight.

SUCH BLISS

Texan, Unaware of Dry Laws Being Passed, Orders Shipment

MONROE, La., Oct. 11. (AP)—One Texas man has thus far evidently failed to learn of the meaning of the Volstead law. In today's mail, addressed to "J. Y. Covington, P. O. Box 689, Monroe, La.," came an order for four quarts of "Murray Hill Club" at $9, to be sent C. O. D. The letter was turned over to Albert Horuff, who years ago was associated with the firm named.

Covington died many years ago. Although prohibition went into force July 1, 1919, the Texan had evidently not been appraised of the fact. The receipt of the "order" caused much amusement at the Central Savings Bank and Trust company of which Mr. Horuff is vice president.

'WICKED' BOOKS ARE DEFENDED

Scholar Addresses Sheepish Senators

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (US)—Guilty school-boyish grins crooked the corners of senatorial mouths yesterday as usually staid and dignified solons crowded around Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, while he gave a scholarly dissertation on obscene literature and government censorship.

The young New Mexican, a blue-blooded Harvard graduate, made an earnest and eloquent plea for freedom of thought in demanding the elimination of a section of the tariff bill banning literature deemed by the customs service to be obscene, indecent and immoral.

With subtle but effective irony, Cutting revealed himself as a genuine dilettante as he ridiculed bureaucratic censorship of ancient and modern classics which he said were on the shelves in nearly every senator's library.

Seldom has the senate listened with such rapt attention to a speech. The Democrats deserted their side of the chamber to listen and the Republicans hitched their chairs around to face Cutting speaking from his place in the back row. The slightly deaf cupped hands behind ears so as not to miss any of the details.

Cutting presented a "blacklist" of 739 books prepared by the customs service, but declined to read it to the senators "because I refuse to take the responsibility for influencing their future lives." Of the books on the blacklist, 379 were in Spanish, 281 in French, 5 in Italian and 114 in English.

"One clerk in the service spends all his time reading immoral, indecent and obscene literature," said Cutting. "He must be the wickedest man in the world."

"Square Shootin" Texas rewards Square Dealing

— — so we lay our cards on the table to the people of the Southwest

OVER A HALF CENTURY ago, when six-shooters and longhorn cattle were in vogue, the Waples Platter Company started the distribution of coffees and foods, housed in a tent on the banks of Red River in Indian Territory. Shortly thereafter the business was moved to Denison, which was then the terminal of the Katy Railroad.

Texas is a big state. Technically it is one state, but geographically she is a half dozen. To those who think a trip through seven states from Boston to St. Louis is never-ending, this same distance can be covered without leaving the borders of Texas.

The grit and courage of the people of the great Southwest is reflected in the development of its vastness, laying the foundation for the homes of great industries and enterprises which have today materialized.

During the forward march of Texas, more than 1,000,000 loyal people of the Southwest have made the Waples Platter Company one of the largest food distributors in the United States. That is important. Not just because it is now a big business—but because it presents an obligation which must be discharged in full to deserve the continuance of your patronage.

Naturally, you haven't realized the business you were building. Waples Platter Company is merely a name to many of you. But in thousands of households White Swan Coffee, Wapco Beans and many other Waples Platter products mean the finest quality that can be placed on a table.

Goodwill is the most precious asset of any company. It cannot be bought like a commodity. But can be established only by insuring the lowest price consistent with the highest quality.

By going to the very source for its products, by controlling every step of their preparation and distribution, it makes sure that no finer foods can be brought into your home for the price you are asked to pay.

To guarantee this, the Waples Platter Company has become far more than a distributor of foods. It is importer, roaster, packer and preserver, selecting crops direct from the world's finest farms and plantations.

Every step from raw materials to the finished product is now supervised and packed under their own roofs. Twenty-five acres of land accommodate the many modern plants which our customers made possible to erect, and stand today as monuments to their patronage of this Texas institution.

This assures the permanency of a quality that has won your favor and acceptance, and at the same time bringing it to you at lower cost through more than 10,000 dealers who are freshly supplied from 22 Waples Platter Houses strategically located throughout this territory.

And now, with greater resources combined with facilities for greater economies, Waples Platter will endeavor to reward your loyalty with even higher quality and service.

Plants and houses of the Waples Platter Company situated at various points, grouped in one picture. In these plants and houses, White Swan Coffee, Wapco Beans and many other products are produced, packed and distributed.

MR. MACDONALD'S MAGGOT

Daily Editorial

THE LITTLE cabin on the Rapidan now claims kinship with the Field of the Cloth of Gold, and becomes a ward of history.

On that humble conference ground, the chief executives of the two greatest powers on earth met in homespun to interchange proposals from which may date the most significant chain of events since the Lutheran schism.

Diplomatic tradition may cry aghast at such short cuts to understanding and action.

But international negotiation through subordinate authority was destined for short shrift, long before Ramsay MacDonald discarded the gold braid of formality for the brass tacks of efficiency.

Transatlantic telephones and television are much abler—and far safer—plenipotentiaries than present go-betweens.

The involved and tortuous system through which powers maintain relations, invites misinterpretation and leaves responsible heads of government too much at the mercy of proxy judgment.

A straight line is the shortest distance to any objective—and so is a straight talk.

Had Wilhelm the First compared notes with Napoleon the Third, instead of reading doctored telegrams, the crisis of 1870 might have passed without leaving the suppurating wound which burst anew in 1914.

Logic, enlightened selfishness and humanity endorse the abolition of war.

Civilization cannot afford to draw the ghastly weapons shaping in the smithies of aviation and chemistry.

War holds no winning hands nowadays. Invention has stacked the cards against conqueror and loser alike. The expense of modern conflict and the range of lethal engines, warn that the cost of victory will be as heavy as the price of defeat.

BALANCE sheets deny that the allies triumphed over Prussia. Britain's ledgers are thirty-eight billions in the red. France staggers under an eleven and a half billion obligation; while Germany's public debt—reparations excluded—is a trifle over two billions.

Each man, woman and child in the United Kingdom bears eight hundred and nine dollars' worth of Imperial burden.

Contrast that with Germany's pro rata of thirty-three dollars, and you'll begin to understand why John Bull is so anxious to beat swords into plowshares, and devote his revenues to productive tasks instead of doles, interest charges and competitive armaments.

The British premier, standing where British troops once brought flame and destruction, fires congressional imagination instead, with a plea for Anglo-Saxon unity—the abandonment of secret agreement and an offer of naval parity, "without reserve, heaped up and flowing over."

Ramsay MacDonald feels certain that the United States and Great Britain will abide by the stipulations of the Kellogg pact, but wonders how many other signers will remain pledged.

Which particular maggot tends to destroy confidence in the best-laid peace plans, and provides the militarist with his most convincing arguments.

No sane man discards his artillery until certain that the other fellow isn't hiding a spare gun up his sleeve.

Today in Texas History

OCT. 12

1835—Austin completed organization of his staff for Texas army of volunteers.
1836—Marriage of George B. Slaughter and Miss Sarah Mason, first ceremony under sanction of newly organized government of Texas republic.
1862—Brigadier-General Slaughter was ordered to command western sub-district of Texas.
1871—Reconstruction difficulties with four state police in jail at Groesbeck.

Al Smith says that women are just as much interested in government as men are and just as intelligent. Surely conditions are really not so hopeless as all that!

If you din't send your children through college, you wouldn't have anybody around to correct your grammar.

Folly and the Censor

THE CHIEF TROUBLE with censorship is that it so often works backwards. For some reason it seems impossible to enforce a censorship without doing things that are just naturally ridiculous.

Some months ago the papers were full of the case of a New York grandmother who was convicted in federal court of sending obscene literature through the mails. She had written a sex education pamphlet and had mailed it to various people. One of these people appointed himself a censor and had her arrested. Her appeal from her jail sentence is now pending.

More recently the play "Strange Interlude" came to Boston. A number of Bostonians felt that the play was too improper to be allowed on the boards of any theater. One man felt so deeply about it that he got a copy of the play and went through it looking for passages that were over-strong for the public morals.

Having found a number of passages that seemed to him to be off color, he copied them, and mailed these copies to all the clergymen in the city, asking them to read them and denounce the play.

Now here is the funny thing about these two cases.

The New York woman mailed out literature that she believed to be perfectly proper and decent. Some easily-shocked recipient of her wares had her arrested and the courts ruled that she must go to jail—despite the fact that she did what she had done in the belief that the material was eminently moral and wholesome.

The Boston man mailed out literature that he believed to be indecent. Indeed, he was so sure that it was indecent that he felt no play which contained such writing should be allowed to be presented. Yet, thus far, no one has taken any action against him.

In one case, in other words, a woman was arrested for mailing matter that she believed to be entirely innocent. In the other case a man mailed matter that he believed to be obscene—and he was not arrested.

Those two cases don't jibe, somehow.

They are only made more puzzling by the fact that each of these people was working in the interests of good morals. Neither had any improper motive. Yet it would seem to any casual observer that if the woman violated the law, the man certainly did.

Censorship is like that. There isn't much rhyme or reason in the way it works.

Which, of course, is the greatest of all arguments against censorship.

Quality, Please!

EVEN the greatest medium through which rapidly changing song hits reach the public abandons that field when engaged in a test of musical ability, as many prospective entrants in the local Atwater Kent audition last Wednesday night learned with varying disappointment.

Regardless of whatever commercial aspects the national amateur singing contest may have, the fact remains that from the standpoint of judges and performers, it is strictly a test of musicianship. Musicianship based upon natural talent and its intelligent cultivation.

Numerous young men and women with unusual endowments for singing found that the type of singing to which they have given all their attention is not even considered when qualified authorities seek material in which to invest valuable training. Compositions which are entirely devoid of depth musically, and which have words remarkable only for the inane texts which they compose, have nothing in common with that type of musicianship which creates for coming generations.

It is regrettable that the flare for temporary jazz hits should bar genuine talent from any worthwhile opportunity for proper development.

A Highway Nuisance

ARTHUR NEWTON PACK, editor of Nature Magazine, recently made an automobile tour of some of Virginia's most scenic and historic highways. He returned mad—mad clear through, as the saying is. For he found that Virginia's lovely highways were flanked, from one end to another, with innumerable billboards.

"The billboards," he writes, "dance up and down the valley pike and the Lee highway is a delirium of misplaced color. They cut off view after view. Even the battlefields, sacred to southern memory, are not sacred to the invading army of billboard builders. Great glowing signs stand watch beside the Manassas battlefield and blazon out their messages close to where the South's heroes lie."

This state of affairs, of course, isn't peculiar to Virginia. Every other state offends just as badly. Mr. Pack's angry protest, however, ought to find a ready response in the hearts of all tourists, all nature-lovers. The billboard is a nuisance on any country highway. Some day, let's hope, we can eradicate it.

Sacred Duty of the Citizen

AN IMPORTANT election will be held in 1930. A United States senator will be elected. A governor and all state officers will be elected. A legislature will be elected. All district and county officers will be elected. Municipal officers will be elected. There are 2,000,000 adults of voting age in Texas. There should be a registration of at least 1,500,000. A poll tax receipt is the requisite. Pay your poll tax.

By These Idiosyncrasies Shall Ye Know 'Em

Between routines of the new Cotton club show, which he produced the other night, Dan Healy, one of Broadway's favorite sons collaborated on these observations concerning the better knowns who frequent New York's stay-up-late places. Healy is one of the reliables along the grandest canyon and even when he gracefully contributed to a Ziegfeld "Follies" he managed to find time to sponsor the floor productions for the Chateau-Madrid, Cotton club and other local hot-spots. They are jotted down here for your diversion so that when you visit the night clubs with your autograph album (you, pest, you!) you will recognize your heroes and heroines by these signs:

If she is wearing a Spanish shawl, it is Estelle Taylor.

If he yells for hot dogs, he is Johnny Weismuller, the swimming champ who came home with Olympic honors.

If she breaks right out into the dance floor to greet a friend with a cigaret drooping from a corner of her mouth, it's Clara Bow.

If she climbs on a piano to sing, she's Helen Morgan, of course.

If she is eyeing the crowd through a lorgnette (and she is located at a corner table), she is Elinor Glyn.

If you hear a plump man shout "Hello Pal!" it's P. Whiteman.

If they are wearing large open collars, it is either Rudy Vallee or Ted Healey, and if he dances on his toes, he is Georges Carpentier.

The flashiest dressed woman in the place would be Peggy Joyce.

If he sits with an arm on the back of his chair and breaks matches with one hand, it's a safe bet to wager he is Irving Berlin.

If a curly-headed man insists upon reciting something, or telling one of those jokes from the center of the floor, it is Alex Carr.

If they are getting more attention and service than Pershing, Hoover or Jimmy Walker, then they are columnists.

If she has a mother with her, it would be "Peaches" Browning.

If he talks about Chicago, it's Ring Lardner.

If they are behaving themselves, they are West Pointers and pay their checks without a complaint.

If the most beautiful woman in the place is with a man, that man probably is Enoch Johnson of Atlantic City or Red Grange.

Army officers are usually in mufti and always keep quiet.

Naval officers are in gold braid and demand many songs.

If after two bottles of ginger ale they start throwing clackers at the girl dancers in the revue, they are collegiates (ugh!).

If they flirt with the other feller's girl (when he isn't looking, of course), they must be collegiates!

If they squawk about the bill and tip the hat check girl a dime, they are positively collegiates, and if there is a fist fight in the place, it isn't a Broadway gunman, but a collitch itch.

If she sprays you as she talks, she is Texas Guinan.

If he is getting the biggest laughs, he is Jimmy Durante.

If she displays a red spectacle case, she is Emily Vanderbilt.

If he is the only colored patron, he is Bill Robinson.

If he says he is bashful, but will sing, if you really want him to, then it is Sammy Mandell, the boxing expert.

If you see a man who just sits and listens and never smokes or sips (unless it is coffee), then it is Damon Runyon.

If you hear a good looking brunet with a lot of beautiful large molars shout to Lou Holtz: "Ha'ya, Roy!" she is Frances Upton.

If you see a tall attractively gowned blonde giving a certain Broadway paragrapher a doity look, she is Edna Leedom.

If she has a stone on her hand that resembles a hunk of cracked ice, and keeps flashing it, it certainly is Mabel Boll.

If she is a brunet and is sitting with a different fellow every night, she is Agnes O'Laughlin, Rudy Vallee's pash (when he is here).

If he passes his glass of brandy under his nose eight times before he drinks it and is busy getting other people piastered, it is Mark Hellinger, who this very moment is going crazy striving to think up a snappy comeback.

"All Quiet on the Western Front"

By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE

CHAPTER XXV

It is early morning, clear and gray. The gurgling continues. I stop my ears, but soon take my fingers away again, because then I cannot hear the other sound.

The figure opposite me moves. I shrink together and involuntarily look at it. Then my eyes remain glued to it. A man with a small pointed beard lies there, his head is fallen to one side, one arm is half bent, his head rests helplessly upon it. The other hand lies on his chest; it is bloody.

He is dead, I say to myself, he must be dead, he doesn't feel anything any more; it is only the body that is gurgling there. Then the head tries to raise itself, for a moment the groaning becomes louder, his forehead sinks back upon his arm. The man is not dead, he is dying, but he is not dead. I drag myself toward him, hesitate, support myself on my hands, creep a bit farther, wait, again a terrible journey of three yards, a long, terrible journey. At last I am beside him.

Then he opens his eyes. He must have heard me and gazes at me with a look of utter terror. The body lies still, but in the eyes there is such an extraordinary expression of flight that for a moment I think they have power enough to carry the body off with them. Hundreds of miles away with one bound. The body is still, perfectly still, without sound, the gurgle has ceased, but the eyes cry out, yell all the life is gathered together in them for one tremendous effort to flee, gathered together there in a dreadful terror of death, to me.

My legs give way and I drop on my elbows. "No, no," I whisper.

The eyes follow me. I am powerless to move so long as they are there.

Then his hand slips slowly from his breast, only a little bit, it sinks just a few inches, but this movement breaks the power of the eyes. I bend forward, shake my head and whisper: "No, no, no." I raise one hand, I must show him that I want to help him, I stroke his forehead.

The eyes shrink back as the hand comes, then they lose their stare, the eyelids droop lower, the tension is past. I open his collar and place his head more comfortably upright.

His mouth stands half open, it tries to form words. The lips are dry. My water bottle is not there. I have not brought it with me. But there is water in the mud, down at the bottom of the crater. I climb down, take out my handkerchief, spread it out, push it under and scoop up the yellow water that strains through into the hollow of my hand.

He gulps it down. I fetch some more. Then I unbutton his tunic in order to bandage him if it is possible. In any case I must do it, so that if the fellows over there capture me they will see that I wanted to help him and so will not shoot me. He tries to resist, but his hand is too feeble. The shirt is stuck and will not come away, it is buttoned at the back. So there is nothing for it but to cut it off.

I look for the knife and find it again. But when I begin to cut the shirt the eyes open once more and the cry is in them again and the demented expression, so that I must close them, press them shut and whisper: "I want to help you. Comrade, camerade, camerade, camerade, camerade——" eagerly repeating the word, to make him understand.

There are three stabs. My field dressings cover them, the blood runs out under it, I press it tighter; there; he groans.

That is all I can do. Now we must wait, wait.

These hours—the gurgling starts again—but how slowly a man dies! For this I know—he cannot be saved. Indeed, I have tried to tell myself that he will be, but at noon this pretence breaks down and melts before his groans. If only I had not lost my revolver crawling about, I would shot him. Stab him I cannot.

By noon I am groping on the outer limits of reason. Hunger devours me, I could almost weep for something to eat, I cannot struggle against it. Again and again I fetch water for the dying man and drink some myself.

This is the first man I have killed with my hands, whom I can see close at hand, whose death is my doing. Kat and Kroop and Muller have experienced it already, when they have hit someone; it happens to many, in hand-to-hand fighting especially—

But every gasp lays my heart bare. This dying man has time with him, he has an invisible dagger with which he stabs me: Time and my thoughts.

I would give much if he would but stay alive. It is hard to lie here and to have to see and hear him.

In the afternoon, about three, he is dead.

I breathe freely again. But only for a short time. Soon the silence is more unbearable than the groans. I wish the gurgling were there again, gasping, hoarse, now whistling softly and again hoarse and loud.

It is mad, what I do. But I must do something. I prop the dead man up again so that he lies comfortably although he feels nothing any more. I close his eyes. They are brown, his hair is black and a bit curly at the sides.

The mouth is full and soft beneath his moustache, the nose is slightly arched, the skin brownish; it is now not so pale as it was before, when he was still alive. For a moment the face seems almost healthy; then it collapses suddenly into the strange face of the dead that I have so often seen, strange faces, all alike.

No doubt his wife still thinks of him; she does not know what has happened. He looks as if he would often have written to her—she will be getting mail from him—Tomorrow, in a week's time—perhaps even a stray letter a month hence. She will read it, and in it he will be speaking to her.

My state is getting worse, I can no longer control my thoughts. What would his wife look like? like the little brunette on the other side of the canal. Does she belong to me now? Perhaps by this act she becomes mine. I wish Kantorrock were sitting here beside be. If my mother could see me. If my mother could see me— The dead man might have had 30 more years of life if only I had impressed the way back to our trench more sharply on my memory. If only it had run two yards farther to the left, he might now be sitting in the trench over there and writing a fresh letter to his wife.

But I will get no further that way; for that is the fate of all of us; if Kemmerich's leg had been six inches to the right; if Hale Westhus had bent his back three inches further forward—

The silence spreads. I talk and must talk. So I speak to him and say to him: "Comrade, I did not want to kill you. If you jumped in here again, I would not do it. If you would be sensible too. But you were only an idea to me before, an abstraction that lived in my mind and called forth its appropriate response. It was that abstraction I stabbed. But now, for the first time, I see you are a man like me. I thought of your hand-grenades, of your bayonet, of your rifle; now I see your wife and your face and our fellowship. Forgive me, comrade. We always see it too late. Why do they never tell us that you are just poor devils like us, that your mothers are just as anxious as ours, and that we have the same fear of death, and the same dying and the same agony—forgive me, comrade, how could you be my enemy? If we threw away these rifles and this uniform you could be my brother just like Kat and Albert. Take 20 years of my life, comrade, and stand up—take more, for I do not know what I can even attempt to do with it now."

It is quiet, the front is still except for the crackle of rifle-fire. The bullets rain over, they are not fired haphazard, but shrewdly aimed from all sides. I cannot get out.

"I will write to your wife," I say hastily to the dead man, "I will write to her, she must hear it from me. I will tell her everything I have told you, she shall not suffer, I will help her, and your parents, too, and your child—"

His tunic is half open. The pocketbook is easy to find. But I hesitate to open it. In it is the book with his name. So long as I do not know his name perhaps I may still forget him, time will obliterate it, this picture. But his name, it is a nail that will be hammered into me and never come out again. It has the power to recall this for ever, it will always come back and stand before me.

Irresolutely I take the wallet in my hand. It slips out of my hand and falls open. I gather them up and want to put them back again, but the strain I am under, the uncertainty, the hunger, the danger, these hours with the dead man have confused me, I want to hasten the relief, to intensify and to end the torture, as one strikes an unendurably painful hand against the trunk of a tree regardless of everything.

There are portraits of a woman and a little girl, small amateur photographs taken against an ivy-clad wall. Along with them are letters. I take them out and try to read them. Most of it I do not understand, it is so hard to decipher and I know scarcely any French. But each word I translate pierces me like a shot in the chest—like a stab in the chest.

My brain is taxed beyond endurance. But I realize this much, that I will never dare to write to these people as I intended. Impossible. I look at the portraits once more; they are clearly not rich people. I might send them money anonymously if I earn anything later on. I seize upon that, it is at least something to hold on to. This dead man is bound up with my life, therefore I must do everything, promise everything, in order to save myself; I swear blindly that I mean to live only for his sake and his family, with wet lips I try to palaete him—and deep down in me lies the hope that I may buy myself off in this way and perhaps even yet get out of this; it is a little stratgem; if only I am allowed to escape, then I will see to it. So I open to book and read slowly—Gerard Duval, compositor.

With the dead man's pencil I write the address on an envelope them swiftly thrust everything back into his tunic.

I have killed the printer, Gerard Duval. I must be a printer, I think confusedly, be a printer, printer—

Too Many Churches, Texas City Protests

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Too many churches make a neighborhood an "intolerable place in which to live," according to a petition filed with City Clerk Fred Fries Thursday by residents of Iowa and Driess streets. The city was requested to prevent the construction of another church in the neighborhood, claiming that four are sufficient.

The petition sets forth there are two churches on the block in which the petitioners reside and two more less than two blocks away. It is proposed to construct a third on the block in which the petitioners reside and the city is requested to deny a building permit.

"If a third church is built in the block the noise and the overflow crowd would make it an undesirable place in which to live." The petition concluded with the prayer that the commission grant the petition "that the petitioners may get some rest at night.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We would like to know how much truth there is in the story we read, told by Rancher Al Gottlieb in Wann, Okla., of how his pastures grew parched and yellow in the draught and his 500 steers would not eat, so he went to Kansas City and bought 500 pairs of green goggles, fitted them on the steers and they ate ravenously and grew fat.

That shows how easily dumb brutes can be influenced. People are not so easy to deceive. They pride themselves on not "biting" at a practical joke. A drug store in Peoria, Ill., put dollar bills on sale for 89 cents each and people read and passed by, laughing up their sleeves, we suppose.

It took a Scotch barber, after four hours' fruitless advertisement, to go in and buy up the entire stock.

We understand that Colonel Lindbergh's new book, "We Fly" is now in the hands of his publishers. In it, he expresses, among other things, his attitude toward public idolization. It looks as if Colonel Lindbergh is really one genuinely modest man in public life.

Flying must have been the end of a dream with the young Lindbergh. Visions and dreams must be protected to keep them alive. Solid things can cope with a rough old world and go just the same.

We might moralize for a long time on that subject, but we have learned that not many grown people like moralizing. Children eat it up. That's why, we suppose, the little Sunday school books have such terribly pointed morals.

People who do like moralizing would differ with us when we say that one of the pleasantest passages to us in Ellen Glasgow's "They Stooped to Folly," was that about Mrs. Dalrymple, the scandalous divorcee of the nineties, who found many love affairs and, of whom is said, "she was blessed with sex attraction, but would have preferred, as she grew older, a moderate amount of card sense or even a strong religious belief."

That was a witty prisoner in a New York reformatory for women who, when she heard they were adding tear gas to the arsenal equipment, said, "They're going to make sob sisters out of us."

New Century Club Studies French Novel

Mrs. C. J. Barnard was hostess to the members of the New Century club in the regular meeting Friday afternoon, when "A School for Women," by Andre Gilde, was the topic in study of feminine revolt in France.

Mrs. Luke McCrory was director for the afternoon and gave a review of the book.

The club members gave individual estimations of the novel in a club discussion. Mrs. Fred T. Couper was leader in the technical club drill and Mrs. J. C. A. Guest talked on the origin and advantages of the autobiographical novel.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (US)—She's one of these independent, big strong women, with ideas of her own. The men like her, pal with her, eat dinner with her (and let her pay the check), and other women say "isn't she grand!"

But every now and then one of the men who go to lunch with her, and all but slap her on the back, steps out and marries a nice, sweet, feminine little thing, all ruffles and pink ribbons and dimples.

And that's what's the matter with this boasted independence. It makes it so easy for the few girls who stick to their feminine foibles and remember how to cry and pout and simper.

It's playing straight into their hands. The business women go out and mix with the men and the others stay at home and let the men come and get them. And the home girls continue to retain altar privileges in spite of the talks by women in current magazines, about how women's minds stagnate cooking steaks and pies. How they must be active in big business and come out of the kitchen.

A successful wife tells me: "The reason we are so happy is that I manage to get lost when we come out of big buildings, and ask where we are, and I let hubby lead me, and think he's a big strong man while I am entirely dependent upon his strength and superior intelligence. And how men eat that up! He thinks I'd get lost going to Forty-second street from Central park. Fancy! And I used to be a reporter and climb stairs in dark tenements at all hours, alone, and go home at 2 a. m. alone, and I've suddenly gone blah! A poor little afraid thing, leaning on a great big he-man! That's all I do. It's a miracle worker."

You can take it or leave it, but the advice is sound. I have seen the lady work.

Sugar's five uses in the diet . . .
Authority explains this delicious food

WE RECENTLY asked the food scientist at one of the great universities to describe the rightful place of sugar in the diet.

"Sugar has five distinctive uses," he said. "1. A conserver of foods. 2. A flavoring substance. 3. A satiation factor. 4. A staple fuel. 5. An emergency fuel."

The scientist showed that sugar is used as a conserver of many foods, especially fruits.

Discussing sugar as a flavorer, the scientist said: "One of the most praiseworthy developments of the modern diet lies in the expansion of the use of fresh fruits . . . contingent on the free availability of sugar."

Discussing sugar as a satiation factor, he said: "Topping off the meal with a sweet dessert gives a sense of satiation . . . an important item in the diet."

The scientist pointed out that "Sugar as a staple fuel ranks with starch . . . sugar is more rapidly digested than starch; otherwise they are entirely comparable fuels."

He then defined the use of sugar as an emergency fuel. "The process of resorption is so rapid," he said, "that sugar appears in the muscles (the fire-box of the body) within a few minutes after ingestion."

So it is that sugar is one of the most useful and least expensive of foods. As a flavorer alone, it deserves a place in every diet for making other healthful foods delicious.

Eat all kinds of healthful fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, sweetening for pleasure, remembering the satiation value of ice creams, cookies and cakes for dessert. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute

Gains Recognition as Artist

Mrs. Luther Hoffman has sold her picture, "Texas Wild Flowers" to a collector of paintings in Alabama. The picture has created wide and favorable comment in exhibitions over the South.

Art League Sells Canvas by Wichitan

Critics Praise Mrs. Hoffman's Work

Mrs. Luther Hoffman, known to friends and to the artist world as "Polly Hoffman," received Friday morning a generous check and a letter from the Southern States Art league, asking for another canvas immediately to replace her painting that had just been sold.

The picture was a study in oil of purple thistles and white poppies, called "Texas Wild Flowers." It was purchased by a collector of Montgomery, Ala., a connoisseur in flower paintings.

The Southern States Art league carries an exhibit of paintings by southern artists which they exhibit all over the United States. Their selections are only from genuine artists.

Mrs. Hoffman has an exquisite still life in zinnias and gold fish, which she will send to replace the study sold. Her flower pictures and Texas scenes are said by authorities, to carry the real color and atmosphere of the state.

EASY--The Love Story of a Modern Girl--

By Beatrice Burton

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Unlike her bold and modern flapper sisters, Jeanne and Alice, Ann Marie Macy refuses to compromise her high ideals by petting. Ann Marie has more serious ideas. She saves the money she earns in her father's bookstore to study art. When John Lawler catch-of-the-town, invites her to the Christmas dance, her happiness is short lived as Alice selfishly requests Ann Marie to stay home while she attends the party in her place. Alice and Jeanne further infuriate Ann Marie by pilfering her Christmas bottle of rare perfume. When Florence Lawler brings her visiting cousin, Neal Forsythe, and his friend Jim Goodwin, to the Macy store, Ann Marie secretly falls in love with the fickle Neal. It is the more serious Goodwin, however, who is enamored of Ann Marie. He leaves the dance to visit her in the bookstore. Ann Marie belatedly attends the dance at his suggestion. She really wants to see the handsome Neal Forsythe. In the cloak room, she discovers Neal embracing Leota Ingram, notorious town character. She forgives Neal, but later he humiliates her by leaving her outside the clubhouse in a parked car. After the dance, a gay party is held in the Macy home for which Ann Marie is requested to make waffles. Later in bed tired and feverish she is roused by the housekeeper's screams.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER X

Ann Marie did not stop to put on her kimono or slippers.

In three seconds she was out of bed and running down the stairs on her bare feet.

The house was dark and "spooky" at this hour. But there was a lamp lighted in the front parlor, and on the floor near it Mrs. Leasure was bending over the prone figure of a man.

She was crying and the face that she raised to Ann Marie was colorless with fear and horror.

"Who is he—and what's happened to him?" she blubbered, "He looks as if he's dead, doesn't he?—He is dead, isn't he?"

Ann Marie shook her head and dropped down beside the housekeeper. "N-no, he's just 'passed out,' I think," she answered slowly, full of the wisdom that the very young have in these days of hip-flasks and wild parties. "See?—He's breathing Mrs. Leezy, can't you see him breathe?"

Mrs. Leasure nodded after a minute. "But how did he get here?" she wanted to know. "I heard a hubbub downstairs last night . . . Did the girls bring some people back with them?"

Ann Marie nodded. "Yes—and this man is one of the Lawlers' house guests," she said. "His name is Forsythe, and he was pretty wobbly last night when I left them all and went to bed . . . We'll have to give him some black coffee and make up a bed for him here on the couch, won't we?"

Together they lifted him on to the couch, covered him with a blanket and loosened his collar and necktie. And through it all he never opened his eyes or made a sound . . . he was dead to the world.

"No use trying to make that one take black coffee!" declared Mrs. Leasure. "Stiff as a corpse he is!—And we could no more get him to drink coffee than we could get a corpse to swaller it!"

The room reeked with the smell of tobacco and gin.

She threw open the windows and let in the cold fresh morning air, emptied the stinking ash-trays into the grate, and began to pick up the tall sticky glasses that were scattered here and there in the room.

"Sometimes it seems to me that I'm jes' bringing up a gang of hoodlums in this house!" she said with a snort. "Look at this place!—It looks more like the backroom of a saloon than the inside of a decent house."

Ann Marie wondered how Mrs. Leezy knew how the backroom of a saloon looked.

"Here I am up at the crack of dawn to put on that turkey for a 1 o'clock dinner!" the housekeeper's angry voice ran on. "And who'll eat it? Not one of them three no-goods upstairs, you can bet!—Lyin' up there, too full of drink to know there's a stranger half-dead downstairs!—It's icewater they'll be yellin' for pretty soon, and bakin'-soda to sweeten their stummicks!—If I was your father I'd put a stop to some of the goings-on in this house, I'll bet!"

She stopped suddenly and leaned over the unconscious man on the couch.

"Look at him—all broke out with cold sweat now!" she said, and lifted a pair of anxious eyes to Ann Marie. "Ain't that funny?—I jes' guess you and me had better call Dr. Proctor, Ann M'rie! It'd be terrible if he died here on our hands!"

"Oh, he's not going to die!" Ann Marie answered impatiently. "I've seen Howdy almost as bad as this once or twice—but I'll call the doctor anyway just to be on the safe side."

She went, shivering with cold, into the hall and telephoned him. He said he would be right over.

When he arrived, 15 minutes later, she was in her kimono and had put on some stockings and slippers, but she was, sneezing and her eyes had begun to water.

"You look as if you needed a doctor, yourself," he told her in his brisk kindly way when she let him into the house. "You aren't getting the flu, are you?"

It was Mrs. Leezy who answered him. "Nah, she's just a bit of a cold," she said. "A mustard foot-bath will fix her up . . . But come in here and take a look at this friend of Mr. Howdy's! The two of them must have sat up, celebratin' Christmas, most of the night—and this one is as drunk as a lord, to put it plain! And he's so cold it worries me—"

She was very careful to keep the names of Alice and Jeanie out of the disgraceful affair . . . She took better care of their reputations than they did, themselves. Far better.

Dr. Proctor went into the parlor, shutting the door behind him.

"I'll go in after a minute, and see what's what," said Mrs. Leezy. "But you go upstairs, and if he comes up to give you something for your cold, you're to keep your mouth shut . . . He'll probably want to know where this no-good in here got his liquor, and it's better for us to know nothing! . . . Only you tell everything that anybody asks you! You're like an open book to the hull world!"

Ann Marie was glad to go upstairs and climb into her bed once more . . . Her head ached and her bones ached. Her whole body was one big ache, and, oh, she was so sick!

She was so sick—and the room seemed to be getting darker as she lay there, wondering if the doctor was coming up to see her or not . . . Not that she needed him. She was just sick and she ached and she was ever so hot. Her tongue was dry, too . . . It would be nice to have a lump of ice to hold in her dry burning mouth, wouldn't it?—She tried to get out of bed—but she was too tired. Too tired—

It was the day after Christmas when Ann Marie came out of her stupor.

There was no one in the room, and a broad band of late afternoon sunlight lay across the floor.

She thought it must be Christmas, and wondered if Neal Forsythe was better and if he had gone back to the Lawler's house.

She lay there, thinking about him for a long time. Then she closed her eyes again, for she was still dead tired—

When she opened them again the lamp on her bedside table was lighted and Mrs. Leezy was in the room. She was standing beside Ann Marie's work table, putting a great sheaf of long-stemmed roses into a glass vase.

"Where did you get those?" Ann Marie asked slowly. It was very hard for her to speak, somehow or other.

Mrs. Leezy turned quickly around. "Land's sake! You awake?"

She came over to the side of the bed and stood there, looking down at the girl.

"Is Mr. Forsythe better?" Ann Marie asked. "What did the doctor say about him?"

"Haw?" Mrs. Leezy gave a disgusted snort. "Of course, he's better! He slept it off by noon yesterday, and went back to the Lawlers' for dinner. And now the whole kit and kaboodle of them are out somewhere again . . . and Alice has on your white wool dress, if you please! I tried to stop her wearing it, but I might jest as well have tried to stop a wild tiger from wearin' its own skin—"

"He went back to the Lawlers' yesterday?" asked Ann Marie, thinking only of Neal Forsythe. "Then what is today?"

"The day after Christmas," Mrs. Leezy said. "You've been real sick, Ann M'rie. You had a fever like sun-scorch 'till a couple of hours ago . . . We been sweatin' it out of you, Dr. Proctor and I."

She crossed the room and came back with the vase of roses in one hand and a little card in the other. "This came with the flowers jes' now," she said, and Ann Marie took it, hoping that Neal Forsythe's name would be engraved on it.

Mr. James Meade Goodwin," she read aloud.

Two days later, when she was better, she telephoned the Lawler house to ask if he was still in town.

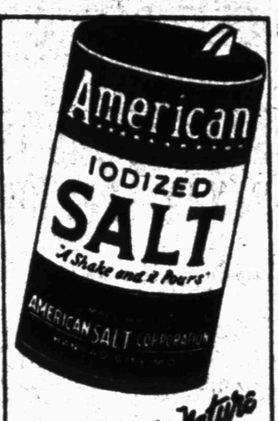

The house-man, who answered her, told her that he had gone back to New York.

She did not ask about Neal Forsythe.

But that night at supper she heard that he had gone back to the big city, too....and, oddly enough, the news made her blue and melancholy.

"I hate him," she told herself, brushing her hair that night before the mirror in her room, "and yet—I'm sorry he's gone."

COYOTES HOLD VAUNTED SHERMAN JUGGERNAUT TO 14-0 COUNT

INDIAN - EAGLE GAME PROMISES SURPRISES FOR FANS

HEAVIER TEAM DEFEATS PACK

Holton's Eleven Puts Up Game Battle

By W. G. CHAMBLESS
Record News Sports Editor

SHERMAN, Texas, Oct. 11.—Doped to lose by overwhelming odds at the hands of a more powerful team, the Wichita Falls Coyotes staged a determined battle Friday afternoon and held the Sherman high eleven, pre-game favorites, to a 14 to 0 score, allowing them two touchdowns only after a grim fight. The game was witnessed at Fair park by a crowd of almost 2,000 persons. The Sherman attack, led by Quarterback Grinnell and Halfback Sollis, which was doped to crush the Coyote line, pushed over only two tallies and almost wavered under a flashing aerial attack begun by the Coyotes late in the game.

A great Coyote rally in the closing minutes of the final quarter, an intercepted forward pass on their own 11-yard line by Grinnell and his sensational dash for 86 yards to the visitors' 3-yard line provided the high spots in a game replete with thrills.

Coyotes Halt Advance

The Wichitans had stemmed a Bearcat advance down the field and held them for downs on their 20-yard line. The ball went over and Holden punted out of danger for 50 yards to Sherman's 30-yard line. A blocked punt then gave the Coyotes possession of the ball on the Bearcat 40-yard line.

A forward pass for 10 yards and Smith's run around right end for nine yards placed the ball on the 11-yard line and the Coyotes within striking distance of the goal line with but a minute to go when the intercepted pass came.

The Wichita Falls eleven was outplayed by their stronger and more experienced opponent and the ball game took place chiefly in the visitors' territory.

Pack Smothered

The Coyote back field had little chance to display their stuff for they found their plays smothered before they began by the mighty Bearcat line. On the other hand the opposition found the Wichita Falls forward wall vulnerable and time and again penetrated for five, 10, and 15 yard gains.

The game started off with both sides erratic and fumbling. Over-anxiety and fumbling cost both teams possession of the ball several times in the first quarter. The aerial attack opened early and continued as a spectacular threat to the finish of the game.

Sherman Gains in Air

Sherman had the better of Wichita Falls in the aerial department and the first touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from Grinnell to Sollis who raced 10 yards and across the goal line. Sherman completed four out of 13 passes attempted for a total of 69 yards while Wichita Falls completed five out of 16 passes attempted for a total of 60 yards.

Both sides punted freely and often. Holden outkicked Grinnell and Wichita Falls gained ground on practically every exchange.

The Sherman eleven made nine first downs to Wichita Falls' four.

Carstarphens Shine

The good work of the Carstarphen brothers, playing the two ends of the Coyote squad and the hard tackling and blocking of Holden presented the noteworthy performance of the visiting team. For Sherman Grinnell and Sollis were individual luminaries. Coker also deserves worthy mention for off tackle plunges and end runs netting sizeable gains.

The lineup:

WICHITA FALLS	Position	SHERMAN
J. Carstarphen	Left End	McConnell
Holden	Left Tackle	Owens
Beaty	Center	Tribble
Skeen	Right Guard	Russell
Hodkins	Right Tackle	Castesl
B. Carstarphen	Right End	Mitchell
Dickens	Quarter	Grinnell
Elliot	Left Half	Sollis
Lee	Right Half	Boaz
J. R. Holton	Fullback	Coker

Officials: Pete Cawthon, Southwestern, referee; Jack Mahon, Texas A. & M., umpire; Joe Ward, Texas university, head linesman.

Substitutions: Wichita Falls—Smith for Elliott; Allen for J. Carstarphen; Ray for Elliot; Norwood for Holton; Watson for Skeen. Sherman—Olsen for McConnell; Wilkinson for Cook; Evans for Snow; Brown for Owen; Ellis for Russell; Glaunch for Brown.

Quanah and Plainview Play Scoreless Game

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 11.—Plainview Bulldogs and Quanah Indians played a scoreless tie here Friday afternoon. The Bulldogs' quarterback and Rudy Hall of Quanah were the most consistent ground gainers. Plainview held Quanah on the goal line for no gain on four downs. This was Quanah's third clash A game and number one for Plainview.

WHO WON?

Shamrock-Childress Tilt Undecided Through Official's Error

Special to The Record News.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Shamrock Irishmen battled the Childress Bulldogs to a scoreless tie here Friday on a muddy field. The failure of the officials to keep a record of the 20-yard line penetrations or first downs made it impossible to determine the winner under interscholastic league rule No. 13.

The playing of the entire line on both teams was a feature of the game. Williams, Childress left end, was the outstanding individual player of the game with Taylor, Childress half, running him a close second. For Shamrock, Holmes was the star at punting. Closes at the return of punts and Blake at defensive work.

Texas-Kansas Aggie Clash Vies With Steer-Porker Season Opener

College Station Farmers Meet Bo McMillan's Club at Dallas Fair Stadium; Frogs at Shreveport

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 11.—Two outstanding combats, one marking the first clash of Southwest conference rivals and the other an inter-sectional game of rare promise, will hold the interest of Texas gridiron fans tomorrow.

The Texas university Longhorns, 1928 conference champions, were billeted tonight at Fayetteville, steeled for tomorrow's important bout with the Arkansas university Razorbacks. The two big elevens, having waded through the preliminaries with ease, were expected to wage a tight battle. It will be homecoming day at Fayetteville.

Kansans Arrive

Coach Bo McMillan's Kansas Aggies arrived here early today and went through a brisk workout in preparation for tomorrow's fray with the Texas Aggies. Coach Matty Bell's Texas eleven was to spend the night at Corsicana and reach here tomorrow. They will supply the feature of the opening day's program of the State Fair of Texas.

Three other conference elevens meet less critical opposition, preparing for their entrance into the title scramble next week. Baylor university, scheduled to play Arkansas next week at Waco, will taper off against St. Edward's university Saints at the Waco Cotton Palace. The Saints lost to Texas, 13 to 0, two weeks ago.

Texas Christian university, slated to meet the Aggies only a week hence, was at Shrveport for a tussle with the Centenary Gentlemen. Coach Francis Schmidt's speedy vehicle, victorious over Simmons, 20 to 0, was doped to down the Gents, probably by a similar margin. Shreveport fans will see some stout offensive football when Leland, Grubbs, Green, Wright and the other Frog ball toters cut loose.

Owls in Doubt

There was some doubt that the Rice Owls, weakest of the conference members, would fare so well against the Southwestern university Pirates at Houston. Coach Meagher's eleven barely nosed out the Sam Houston Teachers last Saturday, 7 to 2. Southwestern is weak this year, however, go the Owls might ring up their second victory. Last year it was Southwestern 14, Rice 7.

Southern Methodist jumped the gun by playing Austin college here today.

While a strict comparison of playing talent would appear to give the Longhorns an edge in the fray at Fayetteville, the fact the Razorbacks are on their home gridiron and determined to send the homecomers away happy has made the prognosticators wary of the opening conference battle. Those who saw the Porkers crush Henderson-Brown last week declare it will be a tossup, despite Texas' superior backfield. Longhorn hopes are centered largely around Dexter Shelley, its brilliant 190-pound halfback. The Razorbacks were expected to seek victory through the air, with the towering Wear Schoonover on the receiving end.

There was no way of comparing the two Aggie elevens that tie up here. Both lost last week, the K-Aggies to Purdue, a powerful Big Ten outfit, and the T-Aggies to Tulane on a muddy field at New Orleans. Both are strong, however, well capable of representing their respective sections. They last met here in 1912, with the Kansas team victorious.

REAGAN DROPS TILT TO BOWIE

Montague Lads Win by Narrow 6-0 Margin

By the bare margin of an intercepted pass on the first play of the game Friday afternoon, the second team of Bowie high school defeated the Reagan junior high eleven by a score of 6 to 0 on the field at the Junior college campus.

Reagan received on the kickoff and on the first play attempted a pass which was intercepted by a Bowie player who ran for an unhindered touchdown. Both teams played bang up football following that break and neither could muster the strength to push over another touchdown. The Reagan team came within the shadow of the Bowie goal on several occasions but the opposing line held stiffly each time.

The cooperation of the Junior high squad was excellent in view of the fact that 10 out of the 11 on the team never before played football. The limited time for training the squad allowed only time for the perfection of three plays, an end run, a pass and a punt. The boys, sticking to these three, held the superior trained Bowie team to a small score and would have tied them but for an unexpected break at the opening. The local boys have been coached mainly on fundamentals.

Harry Williams and Capt. Jack Cossey were outstanding for the Reagan Junior high team.

Crowell's Tigers Trim Archer, 25-0

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Oct. 11.—Crowell high school's Tigers overpowered the Archer City Wildcats in a hard fought football game here today. The score was 25 to 0. Crowell's outstanding performers were Gann, right half, and Spears, left half. Archer City's losing battle was illuminated by the playing of Horaney, left half, and Wiggenton, right end. Crowell played with an advantage in weight.

The lineups:

CROWELL (25)	Position	ARCHER CITY (0)
Gann	Right Half	Hagood
Oswalt	Fullback	G. Wright
G. Todd	Quarter	Strahan
Burrow	Center	Maney
D. Todd	Right Guard	H. Wright
Horn	Left Guard	Hays
Womack	Right Tackle	Wilson
Patton	Left Tackle	McDonald
Bell	Right End	Wiggenton

Power Shown in Nocona Victory Over Bellevue

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Oct. 11.—Opening up with a powerful attack which the opposition could not overcome, the Nocona high school team swamped the Bellevue eleven here Friday afternoon to the tune of 54 to 0. The locals made four touchdowns in the first quarter and did not let another period end without pushing over one or more tallies. Zachery made Nocona's first touchdown when he ran from the 20-yard line for a touchdown in the first minute of play.

Paducah Takes Opener From Roaring Springs

Special to The Record News.

PADUCAH, Texas, Oct. 11.—In their first conference game of the season the Paducah Dragons smothered the Roaring Springs Yellowjackets 40 to 0 here today. Beason's passing and Tippen's receiving for Paducah were features of the game. Crittenden and Burkett also starred for Paducah, Cooper Hoyle and Bigham were outstanding on the Roaring Springs defense.

Turkey Takes Tough Battle From Silverton

Special to The Record News.

SILVERTON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Silverton Owls lost to Turkey here this afternoon by a score of 7 to 0. The visitors made their lone touchdown within the first four minutes with a long pass and a dashing run. The Owls were rushed off their feet from the starting whistle and did not settle down until the marker was counted. Remainder of the game the teams played each other to a standstill, showing a fine exhibition of real football.

Levelland First To Cross Lamesa Goal

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 11.—In the stiffest grid battle of the season, the Golden Tornadoes forged a victory of 26 to 6 against the Levelland eleven here Friday. To Levelland goes the honor of first penetrating the Lamesa 30-yard line and of course scoring. Levelland showed well at defense and Lamesa demonstrated her usual ability at offense.

BAGGETT'S MEN TO SHOW STUFF

Denton Frosh Expected To Test Tribe's Worth

Watch those Indians!

Since the very first day early this fall that maroon and gold jersied athletes began scampering around the Wichita Falls Junior college training field, grid fandom here has been slowly opening its eyes in amazement at the possibilities of the 1929 tribal stalwarts.

And Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the above mentioned fandom will be given its first opportunity of the season to judge for itself just what the possibilities of Coach E. A. Baggett's fast stepping charges are. The Indians meet the freshmen team from North Texas Teachers college, Denton, today at Athletic park in what promises to be one of the most interesting battles of the year.

Battle Expected

While Indian followers expect a battle, Coach Baggett has drilled the Redskins more intensely this week than in any period since the season opened, indicating he expects the best the Indians can offer will be none too convincing for Jack Sisco's growing young Eagles.

Adding interest to Saturday's tussle is Coach Sisco, himself. A high school star of the highest caliber while playing under the famous Paul Tyson at Waco, Sisco later was a Southwestern conference luminary at Baylor during the reign of Frank Bridges. Hence some of the dash of a Bridges-coached eleven may be expected in the first year normalites.

Little is known here of the Denton team, individually or collectively, but with reserves from the varsity squad available for duty Saturday, the Eagles are expected to be even stronger than the freshman teams of past years which have always given highly creditable accounts of themselves against the strongest of Texas junior college and high school aggregations.

Indians Show Fight

Observers of the Indians' training efforts the last week declare they have noted an improved spirit on the part of the players. Although bordering on staleness a time or two, the warriors wound up the week apparently ready for any kind of opposition. They ran off their plays with snap and precision and performed generally like college performers are expected to do.

Whether Luttrell, Indian quarterback, will start Saturday's game or stay on the bench to allow an injury additional time to heal, was not definitely announced but it was believed the former Vernon star would direct his team. Otherwise the Wichita Falls lineup will read much the same as it has in the Decatur Baptist and Cameron Aggie clashes, both of which the Indians lost by close scores.

Big Crowd Expected

A sizeable block of tickets was reported already sold late Friday and a record early season attendance was looked for in view of the fact the Indians will not play at home again until Nov. 20 and only twice again this season.

If the going against the Eagles is not too rough, Baggett probably will give some of his younger aspirants their baptism during the encounter but the players most likely to see service are Luttrell, Black, Cox, Allred, Smith, Fudge and Davis, backs; Waggoner, Hutto, Ramee, Barton, Parker, Hindman, Habern, Tiffin, Price, Hutcherson, Larkin and Anderson, linemen.

Hollis, Okla., Eleven Trims Frederick Team

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 11.—In a brilliant passing attack against which the opposition played straight football, the Hollis high school team defeated the Frederick high eleven here Friday afternoon 19 to 7. The Hollis squad scored two of its tallies in the second quarter, both by long passes. The third score was also made by a long pass in the last period. Frederick's lone score was made by a powerful line plunge. The game was almost evenly divided, Hollis carrying off honors in the first half and the Frederick eleven starring in the last half. Frederick's next game will be with Carnegie a week from next Friday.

Hobart Takes Erick Under by 13-6 Count

Special to The Record News.

HOBART, Okla., Oct. 11.—The light Hobart high eleven defeated the Erick high school team here Friday afternoon by a score of 13 to 6 in a game which was hard fought from kick off to final gun. McFall made the first touchdown for Hobart by a line plunge. The next score of the game came when Cornelison intercepted a Hobart pass and ran 40 yards for the lone Erick touchdown. The final score came when Straw broke through the line for Hobart's second tally. The game was featured by hard, clean fighting throughout.

Jacksboro High Tucks First One Under Belt

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, Oct. 11—The Jacksboro high school eleven won its first conference game here Friday afternoon by defeating the Decatur team by a score of 12 to 0. The Decatur boys were easily outplayed from start to finish and the ball was in Decatur territory throughout. Both teams played excellent football, but the local team seemed to possess the greater punch. Petty was outstanding for the Decatur squad while Capt. Myers, Martin and Black were stars for the Jacksboro eleven.

LEARNED LESSON

Goal posts at Iowa U. are of steel, anchored in six feet of concrete. A visiting team, celebrating a victory, once tore out the goal posts and took them home.

VERSATILE MENTOR

Campbell Dickson, end coach at Wisconsin, has been a lawyer and teacher and besides his gridiron job is doing research in the experimental college there.

PONIES WIN IN FINAL PERIOD

Austin Kangaroos Hold S. M. U. Till Last

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—Fought to a standstill for three quarters, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs pulled themselves together in the last 10 minutes of play here today to pound out a 16 to 0 victory over a spunky Austin college eleven.

Figured to win by five or six touchdowns, the Ponies were hard pressed to win by any margin over the scrapping Kangaroos. A second Mustang team did no good at all during the first quarter, and it took the Methodists' strongest combination almost three periods to cross the visitors' goal line.

Ponies Tally Late

Less than 10 minutes of play remained when the conference eleven scored its first points. The Kangaroos held S. M. U. for downs on the one-foot line. Lillis, Austin college halfback, got off a long punt, but in so doing stepped beyond the end zone, automatically handing the Mustangs two points.

Within three more minutes the Ponies rushed over a touchdown. Starting from Austin's 38-yard line, Maron, Davidson and Kattman smashed straight down the field. Mason fumbled as he crossed the goal line and Hopper recovered for the score. Mason converted.

Mason paved the way for the second touchdown when he intercepted a Kangaroo pass and returned to Austin college's 25-yard mark. Bob Gilbert went in for Mason at that point, and on the second play heaved a long pass to Johnson across the goal line. Kattman kicked the extra point.

Austin Threatens

Austin college made its strongest bid in the second quarter, shortly after Coach Ray Morrison had inserted his first Mustang eleven. Starting on their own 30-yard line, the Kangaroos went to their opponents' two-yard marker before a fumble broke up the march. A long pass to Henderson carried the oval to the Mustang 38-yard line. The veteran Ira Hopper, inserted at this point, talked out of turn, and the resultant 15-yard penalty planted the sphere on the Ponies' 23-yard stripe. Henderson then broke loose and sprinted 21 yards around left end. He fumbled on the next play and Southern Methodist recovered. Mason booted a beautiful spiral that came down past the 50-yard line, and the danger was averted.

Burk Bulldogs Bow To Chillicothe, 20-0

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Chillicothe High school team defeated the Burkburnett eleven here Friday afternoon by a score of 20 to 0 before a large crowd at the local field. Creighton, Chillicothe back, made two of the touchdowns, one in the third quarter by a pass and the other in the last period by a line plunge. Hughes, quarter, made the third Chillicothe score by a powerful line plunge. Harrison and Captain Green were easily outstanding for the Burkburnett team.

Estelline Cubs Cop Over Memphis Cyclones

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Estelline Cubs defeated her old rivals, the Memphis Cyclones, by a score of 30-2 on the Estelline gridiron today. Baccus and Ferrell were outstanding for the Cubs and Martindale starred for the Cyclones the lone two points made by the Cyclones came in the first quarter as the result of a blocked punt and they scored a safety. The crowd was estimated at more 1,000. This was the fourth conference game and the third win for the Cubs.

Graham Steers Down Bridgeport 27 to 26

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Graham Steers defeated the Bridgeport football team in the first conference game in district four before a good crowd today with score of 27 to 26. Carl Ramsey of Bridgeport starred in making three touchdowns for his team, one in an 80-yard run. Graham stars were Captain Kermit Curtis, Robert L. Price and Billy Tuney. Graham plays Putnam team next Friday on the Graham field in a non-conference game.

Floydada Defeats Lorenzo by 32 to 8

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Oct. 11.—Floydada high school easily defeated Lorenzo here today, 32 to 8. Floydada used second team players during most of the game. Mack, Lorenzo's fighting quarterback, made most of his team's gains and tackles. Welborn was Floydada's outstanding player.

Two Series Rivals Not Bat Champions

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (UP)—Although the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago Cubs, rivals in the present world series, have been described as the most powerful offensive clubs of recent years, final United Press averages for the 1929 season show that neither team lead its league in team batting.

The Cubs finished the season with a .303 average to tie Pittsburgh for second place, six points behind the Phillies, who topped the National league with a .309 mark. The Athletics complied an average of .295 and finished behind Detroit and New York, which took the first two places with averages of .300 and .296 respectively.

Strangely enough the two pennant winners—said by critics to be the weakest defensive teams which have competed in a world series during the past decade—topped their leagues in team fielding with identical averages of .975.

Knute Rockne Laid Up With Bad Leg

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 11. (UP)—Notre Dame will meet the Navy in an important intersectional clash at Baltimore Saturday without the presence of their guiding genius, Knute Rockne, on the side lines.

The Notre Dame coach was laid up in a wheel chair at his home when the team entrained for the Navy game in charge of Assistant Coach Tom Lieb. A blood congestion in his right leg was the cause of Rockne's ailment.

Early this week he had to limp onto the playing field to tutor his charges in Navy formations, and Tuesday and Wednesday when the elevens drilled indoors, Rockne sat in a chair, undergoing pain, gamely barking his instructions to the players.

This is the first time that Rockne has missed a game since 1926 when Notre Dame was beaten at Pittsburgh by Carnegie Tech.

VALLEY VIEW GIRLS WIN

The senior girls of Valley View school defeated the Fairview girls in a volley ball game at Fairview Friday, 34 to 28. The teams played under the 1928-29 rules. Wichita county teams having played under the 1923 rules until Friday.

CHICAGO TAKES LISTLESS GAME

Cuyler and Hornsby Knock In Winning Runs

man from Mississippi, who was doing a fair job of pitching for the Cubs, got a base on balls out of Earnshaw, and turned it into the tying tally by some furious footing from second on Rogers Hornsby's single. Guy was running in a big sweater and had all the worst of the going, but his long legs straddled the ground so rapidly that he was able to score standing up. English got aboard the bases on an error by Jimmy Dykes, the Philadelphia third baseman, so there were two on, and two out when Cuyler stepped to the bat.

Applause Lacking

Also there were three balls and two strikes on "Kiki" when the Chicagoan in the upper stand brawled his advice. It would have been a much neater situation had it been placed in Chicago. They didn't really rise to the occasion in the matter of applause when Cuyler connected, though the Chicagoan in the upper stand seemed on the verge of a stroke of apoplexy.

Of course, much of what I have related is largely technical, and you can find it all in the play by play account of the pastime, but the point is those Cubs weren't dead, after all. They were merely slightly comatose. In fact, they were still snoring up to the sixth frame this afternoon, when they finally opened their eyes and staggered to their pins.

Mackmen Count

An infield hit by Mickey Cochrane, one of the greatest catchers that ever peered through a mask in a world series, Foxx's infield out and Miller's single, all in the fifth frame, gave the Athletics the jump and somehow the Cubs didn't act as if they meant to make it a tussle.

Guy Bush pitched good ball. It wasn't fancy ball, but it was good ball. The Athletics pegged him for nine hits. However, he didn't let 'em connect up these blows, and he showed plenty of what the boys call "moxie" or heart in the right spot. Earnshaw, the Swarthmore man, pitched more effectively as far as hits are concerned, but he made a bad break when he walked Bush.

It wasn't a game to stir the 30,000 spectators to any great transports of joy, or fury, either. In the language of the profession it was just a baseball game. Only the Chicagoan in the upper stand seemed to find it stimulating after the sixth inning.

Old Philly "Dead"

The reformers have knocked Philadelphia bow-legged, and probably no city that has surrounded a world series in the past 10 years showed less "night before" temperature about the matter than this once lively burg. By 2:30 o'clock the hotel lobbies were silent and you could fire a cannon down Broad street and not hit a soul.

If the citizens of Philadelphia want a quiet town they've got it. In fact, a grave yard at midnight is a scene of disorder compared to this man's town.

'Tis whispered about that the inmates of Philly go over to Camden when they wish to cut up a little. Ye scribe is informed that one may find wassail there, and company, a report which will be duly investigated. It is a sure thing there is nothing stirring in Philly.

The speculators had to "eat" a few tickets today, because the two game triumph of the Athletics in Chicago took a little gimp out of the local bugs.

The selection of Earnshaw to pitch this pastime was something of a surprise but indicated that Connie Mack was out to close it up as quickly as possible.

OLNEY CUBS SWAMP HAWKS

Iowa Park Loses Game by 43 to 0 Score

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Iowa Park Hawks were severely outclassed Friday afternoon when the Olney Cubs took them down for a score of 43 to 0. The Olney attack was much too powerful for the Hawk line and great holes were torn time and again by the Cubs. The Hawks fought valiantly but against too great odds, the opposition scoring seven touchdowns and one extra point. The Cubs made 14 first downs against seven for the Hawks. Most of the gains were on line plunges. Goode made a brilliant 40-yard run for the Cubs after he had intercepted a long pass. Greer and Goode were outstanding for the Olney eleven while Cunningham, Cobb and Golden starred for the Iowa Park team.

The lineup:

IOWA PARK (0)	Position	OLNEY (43)
Monroe	Left End	W. Gibson
Cowart	Left Tackle	B. Allgaier
Baxter	Left Guard	G. Kluth
Barney	Center	Cobb
Davis	Right Guard	Wright

Golden	Right End	B. Gibson

Vernon Lions Take Bowie Down, 24-12

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Playing unimpressive football for the most part, the Vernon Lions defeated the class B Bowie Jack Rabbits 24-12 here this afternoon in a practice game. Vernon apparently lacked scoring punch after carrying the ball down the field, failing to count three times when within a few feet of the goal. The Lion passing game was far below standard, with only two completed, three incomplete and three intercepted. The visitors completed nine, failed on 17 attempts and lost the ball twice.

Vernon was outplayed during the first and early part of the second quarter. The entrance of Lawrence into the game seemed to enliven the squad and it swept down the field for a touchdown and looked much better during the remainder of the game, although Lawrence, who has been out four weeks because of injuries, was pulled immediately after the touchdown.

Murphy, elusive left half, was the outstanding star for the visitors. He was hard for the Lions to down.

Health and Diet Advice

KEEPING BABY'S BED DRY

Babies by living on an exclusive milk diet, receive such an enormous quantity of liquid that the bladder is really overworked all the time. Every time the bladder fills up to any extent, the baby will urinate in order to relieve the pressure. Some infants learn to control this after a few months, but a lack of control cannot be considered really abnormal before the second year.

As the child grows older it will learn to avoid wetting its clothes during the daytime because of the scorn it receives from its companions and from its parents, but the bed-wetting often continues for a much longer period. The bed-wetting is often exceedingly exasperating to the child, and criticism does not usually accomplish much. Encouraging the child to overcome this disorder helps better than punishment.

The three principal causes of bed-wetting are: First, an overdistention of the bladder from drinking too many fluids during the latter part of the day and just before retiring; chronic or acute bladder inflammation; third, lack of subconscious mental control.

Usually, after child changes from the milk diet to solid food, it is a good plan for these children to avoid liquids after 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Children fed on improper food combinations may develop a chronic inflammation of the bladder. This can usually be corrected by a few days exclusively on acid fruit, followed by a diet of the right food combinations. Where neither of these two conditions are present, the habit can sometimes be stopped by making mental suggestions to the child while it is awake.

It is a good plan to offer some little reward to the child if it has a dry bed in the morning. For example, take him to a picture show or to a picnic in the park if the bed is dry every night during the week.

The bed-wetting often takes place at night because the child actually dreams that he is going to the toilet, and usually the child is very embarrassed upon awakening to find the bed wet. This is most apt to occur on cold nights.

If the child is a sound sleeper, good suggestions may sometimes be given to him when asleep. After the child is asleep, the mother may sit at the side of the bed and talk to her child in this manner: "When you wake up in the morning, your bed will be perfectly dry," or, "Mother will be so pleased to find the bed perfectly dry in the morning." Use the word "dry" over and over again, but in giving this mental treatment, never at any time use the word "wet." This treatment may seem too simple to be true, but I urge you to try it for a few times, as children are very sensitive to positive suggestions.

There is abundant evidence to believe that when a person is asleep the mind can be educated and influenced by someone giving instruction and suggestion in a low tone of voice. With children, this method of giving suggestions is especially valuable, as their minds are more elastic. When the mind receives suggestions during sleep there is very little resistance to the ideas given, and they continue to assert their effect when the child is awake but without any conscious remembrance of the suggestions given.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rapid Heart

Question—Mrs. O. L. writes: "My daughter of 16 has a very rapid heart, and I have been told that her tonsils were decayed and sending poisons through her body, causing her heart to beat faster than it should. Do you advise removing the tonsils? You have spoken of another method of getting rid of them. Would you kind explain this through the column of The Record News as soon as possible. I have received a great deal of good from your department."

Answer—It is doubtless true that heart trouble often develops from diseased tonsils, but the tonsils can be cured without removing them. A short fast followed by the proper diet will create a condition in both the blood and lymphatic system so the tonsils can cure themselves of any pus condition which may have developed. Send for detailed information, asking for the article called "Save the Tonsils."

Olive Oil

Question — T. R. E. writes: "Please advise if a tablespoonful or two of olive oil can be used on lettuce, tomatoes, etc., when meats or nuts are used at the same meal."

Answer—It is perfectly safe to use olive oil with any other kind of food as it is a wholesome hydrocarbon, and unless used in excess does not interfere with the digestion of other foods.

Hepatic Disorders

Question—Mrs. K. J. asks: "Will you please state what are the hepatic disorders?"

Answer—Such disorders are derangements of the functions of the gall bladder or liver, such as gall stones, gall bladder inflammation, enlarged liver, cirrhosis, cancer of the liver, etc.

Plot to Thwart Mexican Election Is Charged

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11. (UP)—Charges that "a subversive movement is under way in some states to prevent the presidential election being carried out" were made yesterday to the anti-reelectionist party.

The anti-reelectionist candidate for president is Jose Vasconcelos. The election is only five weeks away.

The party statement said that it possesses concrete proof that certain elements which are pretending to belong to the anti-reelectionist group are participating in the subversive movement.

"The truth is that the anti-electionists were strictly enjoined from taking part in such plans," the statement said.

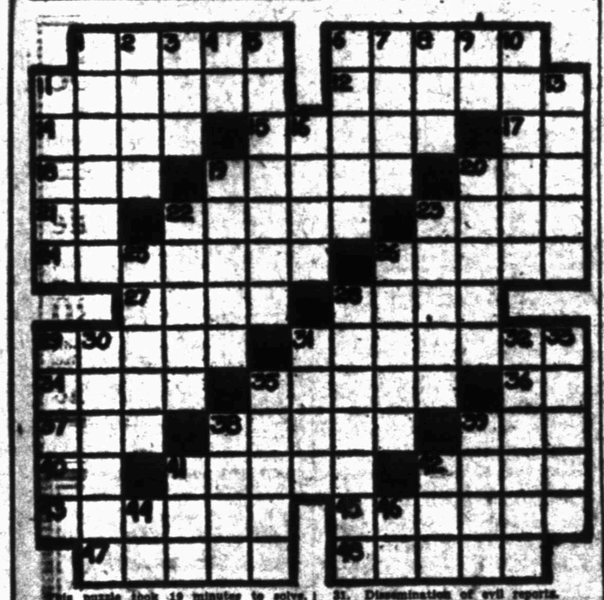

Several minor disturbances in outlying states have been reported in connection with election campaigns recently.

John's Wife to Write Of Her Ambitions

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Cosmopolitan Magazine announced today that Florence Trumbull Coolidge, wife of John Coolidge, has written an article for the January issue under the tentative title of "What Kind of a Wife I Want to Be."

The magazine said she places her choice of housekeeping as a "career" to the example of her mother. She aims to live on her husband's income and by making a successful home enable him to have a successful career.

Fire Damages Goods In Littlefield Store

Special to The Record News.

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, Oct. 11.—Fire broke out in the rear of the T. & P. Grocery and market yesterday. This stock of goods, located on the east side of Main street, was just last week opened up. Fire originated from a gas stove in the rear of the building. No material damage was done by the fire, but the entire stock was considerably smoked.

WELLINGTON GINS RUSHED

12,952 Bales Turned Out So Far

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 11.—With all gins in Collingsworth county showing increased activity in the past two weeks, the total number of bales ginned in this county in the past season had reached a total of 12,952 by Wednesday morning of this week, a survey revealed.

A similar survey, taken two weeks ago, showed that this county had produced only 3,483 at that time, indicating that the gins have handled 9,469 bales in the past two weeks.

Ten gins in Wellington have contributed 6,826 bales to the total figure, the survey shows. The four gins in Dodsonville ginned 3,116 bales, and the remainder of the present number comes from the various gins located over the county.

Many people are of the opinion that more cotton has been handled in the past two weeks than will be handled during any other similar period during this year. Less cotton is coming to the gins at the present time than was being received a week ago, and it is doubtful if any gin in the county will be rushed from now until the end of the current season.

SOUTH VERNON BUY

The Hi-Land Oil company and associates purchased from Schoonover and others' lease of 40 acres out of the northeast 80 acres of the M. J. George farm in the J. Pointevent survey, Wilbarger county. The consideration was $25,000 of which $15,000 was in cash and the balance in oil. The tract is an east offset to the Zenith Oil company's No. 1 producer on the same farm.

CLAY COUNTY PRODUCER

The Merrick-Goldsmith producer on the Byars land east of Petrolia in Clay county is being equipped to the pump and is still flowing at the rate of 100 barrels from the new shallow pay at 1017-19 feet.

L. P. HAMMOND LOCATION

L. P. Hammond has made location and is moving in for his No. 1 Dill test to be drilled 150 feet each way from the southwest corner of southeast quarter of southeast quarter of section 82, block 14 H. & T. C. R. R. survey, a diagonal offset to the northwest of the Zenith Oil company well on the George.

SOUTHWEST YOUNG COUNTY

Liedecker Brothers No. 1 Whaley Brothers (formerly G. Flutey) located a short distance southeast of the Lindsay, Bolin and Graham producer on the Mrs. Seddons land, north of South Bend in Young county, is running a string of five-inch and the well made three flows of oil to the top of the derrick from the pay at 4160 feet.

NORTH OF BRYSON

Woody, Peery and Beller No. 1 J. Raley in the Isaac Hughson survery, north of Bryson in Jack county, is standing with considerable oil in the hole from the sand at 3088 to 3100 feet and will drill in sometime in the coming week.

Ector Well Goes Deeper

Major Company Scouts Watch New Wildcat

Special to The Record News.

ODESSA, Texas, Oct. 11.—Testing the R. R. Penn No. 1 Kloh-Rumsey, Ector county, 14 miles west of Odessa, for further production the well was developed six feet farther into the pay today making a total depth of 3742 feet. No noticeable change was made in the well. Except at the heads which had been coming at intervals of approximately four hours came closer togetner today. They are now drilling in pure Gray lime with no showing of water. The well made two heads last night, one at 8 o'clock and one at 12. Both of about 15 minutes, this morning at 8 it flowed again. And at noon made 85 barrels in a 20-minute flow. The well was on a gauge and connected with storage in time for the flow at noon. Again at 2:35 this afternoon immediately after being bailed the well flowed for 17 minutes; stopped four or five minutes and flowed again for 10 minutes with a total flow of 65 barrels. Since geologists say that they are not in danger of striking water for some 52 feet yet it is probable that the well will go on down some distance yet. The scouts of all major companies operating in this territory are on the ground and the well is being watched closely for further developments. Two 1,000-barrel storage tanks are now up and the well is connected and on a gauge.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under southern selling and a renewal of liquidation which appeared to be promoted by the proximity of the holiday, reports of favorable weather for picking and ginning in the south, and the week-end statistics showing a continued free movement of cotton into sight. December contracts sold off to 18.41 or back to the low level of last Tuesday and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 18 to 27 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 6 to 13 points. Initial offerings were fairly well taken and after showing net declines of about 6 to 9 points prices steadied a few points on covering and trade buying. The demand soon tapered. Offerings increased. The lowest prices of the day were reached at the close with October selling at 18.31 and March at 18.77 or about 21 to 25 points net lower on the more active positions.

Week-end figures showed that 884,959 bales had been brought into sight for the week compared with 802,973 the previous week and 873,888 last year. Spinners takings were 395,530 for the week against 479,324 last year.

The New York cotton exchange service issued a report estimating domestic consumption for September at 454,000 bales compared with 558,000 for August and 492,000 for September last year. Liverpool reported covering receipts were 99,938. U. S. port stocks 1,596,814. Exports 32,673, making 1,212,113 so far this season.

Stocks Sell Off After Rally to End Day Practically in Same Position

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (US)—Stocks sold off in late pre-holiday selling today, and closed practically unchanged on the average. Trading was highly professional throughout. The splendid showing in the federal reserve statement caused some spectacular advances and strength through the list early in the day but increasing profit-taking and some short-selling wiped out advances by the close. Steel finished fractionally higher, while American Can declined 3¼, General Electric sold off a half point, Johns Manville gained 6, Radio advanced 2¼ and Columbia Graphaphone gained 5½. American Tobacco featured a strong tobacco group with further advance of 10¼ points. Rails were firm but very quiet while Oils and Coppers remained rather dull. Call money eased again from renewal of 6 to 5 per cent with some loans being reported outside at as low as 4 per cent. Time loan rate dropped to 8 per cent. Turnover remained just below the 4,000,000 share level.

Reduction in the local rediscount rate is not a possibility—it's a probability. The remarkably good showing in the reserve statement not alone proves there was no real reason for the last advance in the rate, as has been maintained here, but gives more than sufficient warranty for a reduction. It is expected that change in the rate will be held off until the stock market quiets. A lower rediscount rate not alone would give added influence to keeping funds of out-of-town banks out of the stock market but it would be another lever toward forcing reduction in the "bootleg loans" which have been most responsible for encouraging speculative pool manipulation of stocks. Lower rate in New York also would assist the international activities of the banking powers. In as much as substantial easing in money is experienced coincident with the Hoover-MacDonald agreement, official notification that Secretary Mellon will not resign and a stronger market for sterling and other European currencies it should be apparent that there have been important developments behind the scenes of finance and government recently.

If the reputed Mellon money policy is carried out it is expected that lower money rates here will result in a larger amount of money being made available for the construction industry. This not alone will help the building trades but will add to the demand for Copper, electrical equipment, etc., as well as increasing the business of utility companies and Railroads. Electric Bond & Share interests never have worried much about the reserve and its money manipulation. When they combine their company with Electric Investors they will have the greatest investment trust of its kind in the world. Buying of water works recently has been based on expectation that merger with Standard Gas would be closed soon.

There is growing realization that earnings ratio to selling price of many industrials will be lowered in the near future and that actual return on money invested will prove a more dominant speculative influence. Some liquidation of Montgomery Ward, Carbide and other of the "blue chip" stocks has been based on such belief while there has been accumulation of Motors, Oils and some Steel shares because of similar influences. General Motors Chrysler, Hudson and a few others are expected to show better earnings for the last quarter this year, than they did in the closing months of 1928 while a good part of current falling off in sales has been discounted marketwise.

First flush of enthusiasm over easy money is likely to fade out early next week and in that event a fairly substantial shakeout could be experienced. The "new era" speculators have witnessed stocks skyrocket on dear money but they are inexperienced with a corrective market in time of low rates. In such a period actual investment position and return are the dominant influences to purchases and while some stocks advance to warranted high levels many others experience drastic declines. The next week or so should prove conclusively whether such a period has set in. If it has, stock investment lists should be carefully studied and corrected.

Farm Exhibits to Be Shown at Dallas Fair

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 11. (AP)—What Texas farm women are doing to reinstate some of the familiar home industries of an earlier day of American history into the farm home will be shown in an exhibit booth of the home demonstration forces of the A. & M. college of Texas extension service at the state fair of Texas at Dallas this month.

Not only will the scope and growth of such remunerative work be pictured, but a group of outstanding farm women will demonstrate the making of braided and hooked rugs, leather products, colonial braided silk mats, household colonial braided silk mats, household rush chair bottoms. This work is under the general supervision of Miss Mayme Lee Hayden, home industries specialist of the extension service.

Nearly 1,500 containers of fruit, meat and vegetables will help to visualize the canning activities of more than 30,000 home demonstration women and girls over the state, these to be winning products at county fairs.

OUR MANIA FOR LAWS ASSAILED

Overladen Statute Books Are Menace, He Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (INS)—America's "mania" for putting new laws on the statute books was assailed today as a menace to sound government and a financial burden to business.

The speaker was Michael J. Hickey, secretary of the National Industrial council, which is holding a two-day session here, attended by executives of manufacturing associations from all sections of the country.

Can't Stop 'Em

"The merry whirligig of American lawmaking goes on apace," declared Hickey.

He pointed out that 32,017 measures were introduced in the various state legislatures in the current yearly sessions; that 16,921 new laws were enacted in 43 out of the 48 states—or nearly 46 new laws for every day of the year. This does not include the laws enacted by congress.

President Hoover's law enforcement commission might well study this situation, in Hickey's opinion.

"It is not the fault alone of our lawmakers, por our political systems, said Hickey. "It is mainly due to misguided individuals, groups, societies for or against this or that, who foolishly or maliciously endeavor to solve real or alleged social, political or economic differences or issues, by legislative fiats."

Enforcement Wanes

Hickey said that long and close observation leads to the conclusion "that so long as we continue to indulge our American passion for mass production of legislation, we cannot hope to attain or restore general public respect for law, nor expect effective law enforcement.

"The sadly confused state of our American law is largely traceable to our perennial mania for new laws," he asserted. "In my opinion this is today threatening to undermine the continued permanency and soundness of our principles and our methods of government."

North Carolina led the states in the number of new laws enacted with 1,114. California with 1,110 was a close second. Pennsylvania was third with 964.

COURT ORDERS TRIALS FOR 5

Speedy Hearing to Follow Jury Indictments

Trials of five defendants named by the October grand jury Thursday have been set in the 30th district court for the coming week, according to a revised docket announced Friday afternoon by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. The additions to the docket already announced include the names of P. E. Wood, under two indictments for forgery; Frank McDaniel, charged with stealing chickens; Jack Hollis, under a forgery count; Willie Jones, negro, charged with attempted burglary, and Leroy Williams, negro, indicted for burglary.

Docket Increased

The new names are added to a list headed by Hugh Butler, who is charged with burglarizing the Silver store here several months ago. Other defendants to be tried during the week, with the charges against them, are as follows:

Bailey Craig, criminal assault; Hub Stanley, theft and burglary; Jesse Byrd, transportation of whisky; Douglass Harvell, theft; Louis McBride, possession and transportation of whisky; Alfred Jennings, driving while intoxicated; E. E. Mosley, false entry; A. D. King, burglary.

Mr. Anglin also announced additions to the criminal docket for the week beginning Oct. 28. The docket calls for the trials of T. R. Glass, Wichita Falls business man charged on three counts with embezzling funds from the Peoples Ice company; and of P. B. Roberts, editor of the Free Press, indicted on a perjury charge after a recent garnishment hearing in the county court at law.

Wright Trial

Clyde Rose, indicted Thursday on a charge of burglarizing the Evans pharmacy, will also be tried during the week of the 28th. The docket as previously announced held the name of C. A. Wright, under a third offense indictment charging burglary. The charges against Wright involve the Texas habitual criminal act under which a conviction could mean a life imprisonment sentence, the attorney explained. Wright, indicted here after a series of robberies early in 1929, will be brought from the Dallas county jail on a bench warrant, it was announced.

MAJESTIC: Walter Huston in "The Woman Lies," with Claudette Colbert and Charles Ruggles. E. E. Horton talking comedy "Prince Gabby." Comedy playlet, "Cow Camp Ballads." Paramount sound news.

STRAND: "Divorce Made Easy." Douglas MacLean and Johnny Arthur making life more pleasant. Vitaphone vaudeville acts. Movietone news.

OLYMPIC: Lillian Murry company on stage. "The Charlatan," all star cast. Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: Buzz Barton in "Pals of the Prairie." Chapter two of "Queen of the North Woods." Comedy.

If talking pictures should disappear more or less completely within the next yea: or so, as certain critics have vehemently declared they will, it will be due to a dire shortage of patrons capable of appreciating the high type of comedy drama offered during the past few days at the Majestic and Strand theaters. As photographed plays of high caliber, "The Lady Lies" and "Divorce Made Easy" left little to be desired.

No alterations in acoustical equipment of either house entered into the vastly improved sound projection which featured both performances, and both films demonstrated the correctness of their sound recording elements when the house was practically vacant, as well as when crowded—which is a test. Perhaps the Majestic attraction registered a slight superiority over the other, but it required a near-perfect reproduction. When young Bob Rossiter warmed up to the job of getting Bob Sr. "told," even the sound of his wildly jumping eyebrows could be heard.

Enthusiasm over talking-plays requires that one go to see a stage play, rather than the rapidly moving spectacle of action which carried the silent film to its admitted artistic heights. That synchronized sound-picture recording has accomplished much toward satisfactory production of spoken drama is definitely proven by Walter Huston's and Douglas MacLean's exhibitions this week.

"The Lady Lies" cast is made up entirely of talent drawn from the legitimate stage, and makes its appeal through their skillful interpretation of interesting types. It contains such vital material as the interest of a widower's children in their father's obvious intentions toward a second matrimonial alliance, the love of a father for children who have no mother, and the attraction of two lonely adults to one another. The relation of social standings to marriage, the fallacy of love based on financial advantage, and the michievous influence of prying, moralizing but unsympathetic relatives also assert themselves vigorously in the lines of "The Lady Lies." There is an air of pending explosion throughout the piece which almost places it in the class of problem plays.

Walter Huston and Claudette Colbert share starring honors with Charles Ruggles, who will be remembered as the perpetually "tanked" reporter in "Gentlemen of the Press."—a performance in which Huston was first seen here. Paired with the blonde counterpart of Kay Francis in her more boisterous moments, this one being Betty Garde, the ticklish Mr. Ruggles supplies ample comedy to relieve the ultra-heavy spell of the Huston-Colbert theme of near-tragedy.

Tom Brown and Patricia Deering supply the pleasing innovation of young adolescents' voices speaking up in strictly modern roles. Their independence was as truly typical of young folks you know as the squawky duet with ukulele accompaniment. It will take very, very good silent films to chase such pictures as this from the screen.

Fall, Ill but Fiery, Returns to His Trial

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (UP)—Albert B. Fall, old and ill with bronchial pneumonia, but still fiery and determined, braved the opinions of five doctors and his friends today to return to his trial on a charge of bribery, thereby averting a mistrial and insuring continuance of the hearing.

A few hours after four physicians appointed by the court reported that Fall's lung attack would preclude him from appearance for at least a week, perhaps for three weeks, Fall had himself wheeled into court, where Justice William Hitz was about to rule on the government's motion for a mistrial.

PULASKI HONORED

Hero of Revolution Given Recognition Here Friday

The flag of the United States was flown at half mast at the postoffice all day Friday in commemoration of the valiant death of Brig.-Gen. Casimir Pulaski, who died on Oct. 11, 1779, from wounds received in the battle of Savannah while in the service of the American revolutionists against England.

In American history classes in Wichita Falls schools the name of Pulaski was recalled Friday and the history of his exploits reviewed. He was a Polish soldier who was driven from his country following a revolt against royal power. He fled to Paris where he met Franklin, who gave him a letter to Washington in America. He served with the revolutionary forces and was in command of the French and American cavalry at the seige of Savannah, when he was fatally wounded.

C.-C. CLOSES FIRE PROGRAM

Junior Group Hears Talk By Safety Council Head

Observance of Fire Prevention week by the Junior chamber of commerce was concluded Friday noon at the weekly membership luncheon at the Kemp hotel when Lester Jones, president of the safety council, H. J. Bruce, and Jack Lee, president of the Bowie school safety council, made brief speeches on that subject.

Illustration of 67 different fire hazards in a miniature house constructed by Bowie school students and placed in the window of Greever, Kemp & Co., was discussed by Jack Lee, who is a fifth grade pupil in that school.

The study of fire prevention in the schools of the city was described by Mr. Jones, who also spoke in favor of early remedies for serious traffic problems here. Mr. Bruce supplied the comedy on the program with a humorous discourse on fire prevention.

Appreciation for the cooperation of many local organizations and individuals in completing the week's program for fire prevention was expressed by Wilson Reedy, chairman of the Junior chamber of commerce committee for that observance.

The Bluebird orchestra of the KGKO studio furnished luncheon music.

Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Friday morning awarded a judgment for $2,807, the full amount of her claim, to Mrs. Ada Underwood, former laundry employe, against the Casualty Reciprocal Insurance company. The plaintiff claimed to have suffered total, permanent injuries from lifting a basket full of wet clothing in the course of her work in a local laundry several months ago. Her former wages totaled $11 a week, Mrs. Underwood told the court, and her compensation petition asked for $7 a week for a period of 401 weeks. Mrs. Underwood was represented by John Davenport, attorney.

$90,000 ASKED IN OIL SUITS

Use of Vacuum Pump Involved in Action

Damages totaling $90,528.45 are asked in two suits filed Friday afternoon against Ed Peterson, J. A. McCarty, and F. B. Jackson Jr., local oil operators, in connection with the alleged use of a vacuum pump on a Wichita county oil lease during the months between April 1 and July 1, 1929. The state of Texas, acting on a recommendation from the railroad commission, recently entered suit for penalties against the same defendants on similar charges, alleging the violation of commission regulations.

The Grayce Oil company and J. H. Cottom are the plaintiffs in the first of the two suits filed with Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, Friday afternoon. In the petition the plaintiffs allege that they hold a lease on land contiguous to property operated by the McCarty Oil company and F. B. Jackson Jr. Because of the alleged use of a vacuum pump on the defendant's lease, the adjoining property lost 1679.56 barrels in production between April 1 and July 1, the petition sets forth, involving a loss of $2,667.28 to the plaintiffs. The cash market value of the lease simultaneously and for the same reason dropped from $75,000 to $45,000, the papers further assert, bringing the aggregate loss of $67,667.29.

In the second of the suits entered in the 78th district court Friday, the plaintiffs, Grayce Oil company and J. H. Cottom are joined by Alvin A. Horwitz and wife.

The allegations in the petition are largely the same, the alleged production loss on the second lease amounting to 544.48 barrels, valued at $861.16. The plaintiffs in the second suit aver that their property dropped in cash market value from $42,000 to $30,000, involving a total damage of $22,861.16 for which they sue.

The state's suit against the operators was filed several months ago by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. It was formerly set for hearing during the week of Oct. 14, but recently passed by an agreement of counsel. No other date for trial has been set.

Modern Conveniences and Training Make Day Nursery Children Happy

Like the newest sport coupe, the 1930 model Day Nursery has all the modern appliances and conveniences. It is not a mere park-your-baby-here service any longer.

"Instead of leaving her child for several hours to uncertain diversions and unsupervised play, the mother who works can now be assured that her baby is probably receiving better home training than he would in his own home," says Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the Community Chest.

The local Day Nursery, under the supervision of Mrs. F. T. Datson, is rated as one of the most progressive and modernly equipped in the United States. Vocational training, rarely offered in pre-school institutions, is at least suggested in the sewing and manual training classes started here recently.

The nursery is operated as nearly like a home as is possible with the 40 or 50 children who stay there each day. Two score little wash rags on hooks in the baths testify to the rule of cleanliness that pervades the home, and mannerly conduct of the little ladies and gentlemen show the diligence of training.

"We learn to do by doing," is a motto that underlies the projects sponsored at the nursery. Little girls learn to sew, and a number made their own dresses last summer. Under the supervision of the Boy Scouts, a number of boys made useful articles with carpenter tools. Others helped to prepare and serve the meals, while still others helped to take care of the babies.

The influence of the training at the nursery has even been carried into numbers of homes. Mothers too tired to be interested in brightening their own homes after working all day have rejoiced in the efforts of their small sons and daughters to clean and decorate their living quarters.

The Day Nursery is one of the 10 organizations comprising the Community Chest, and is supported through that fund. Assistance is also given through the Federated Missionary societies of the city, with Mrs. G. R. Ellis actively heading the work.

Burkburnett Digs Well for Water But Bails Pure Gasoline From Hole

Although their recent excavations on the edge of town were in search of water, employes of the city of Burkburnett were not dissatisfied when they discovered a gasoline well instead, according to information coming out of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce Friday. The water seekers were 25 feet down when they came upon a five-foot gasoline sand, Rex Smith, secretary of the organization was informed. The water, they discovered later, lay underneath, but meanwhile there was the gasoline waiting to be bailed out in buckets and put to good use. It was high grade gasoline, too, Mr. Smith was told.

Investigations disclosed that another water well of similar peculiarities has been furnishing good gasoline to farmers on and near the E. E. Clack property for months. The property, owned in Dallas, is leased by H. L. Welchel, who tried for water and got gasoline last year. The contents of the well has been fueling his car ever since, according to reports reaching Mr. Smith. Neighbors, too, have been filling their buckets and their gas tanks at the well.

Oil operators think the freak wells represent seepage from the surrounding refineries, Mr. Smith explained. The gasoline, he said, had apparently found a crevice where it had been securely lodged until the tools of the well diggers sent it back into carburetors. The city of Burkburnett has gone to another section for its water well, the chamber of commerce secretary added.

Generally speaking, women float easier on water than men. This is because their bones are lighter and a large per cent of their bodies is adipose.

LAWTON JAIL BREAK FAILS

'Boy Bandits' and Fugitive Girls Make Effort

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 11.—Billy Murchisson, James Decamp and Willard Taylor, juvenile bandits who have been held in the city jail since Saturday and who were to have been taken to Pauls Valley Friday, made a bid for freedom last night when they attempted to tunnel into an adjoining cell by the use of window weights.

The bricks and concrete were too resistant for their crude tools, however. An attack upon the steel bars of their window also proved unsuccessful and the boys, none of whom are over 13, were forced to answer the breakfast call this morning.

They will got to Pauls Valley Saturday.

The cell into which the boys attempted to tunnel was occupied by two young girls who had escaped from the Arkansas industrial school at Alexandria, Ark., and who were captured at Hobart Thursday and brought to Lawton. The girls also had the escape idea and tore the boarding and wire screen from above their cell door.

However, this freedom gained only placed them in the runaway, at the end of which they found their pathway barred.

Davis Talks On "Voice of God"

"The Voice of God" was the subject of Evangelist Albert E. Davis at the Wichita Falls tabernacle, 2001 Buchanan street, Friday night. The speaker declared that the Lord spoke to people today the same as He did in the days of the Prophets.

He speaks: In a warning, reproving, reasoning and in a beseeching voice and if we will not heed these voices, He will come to us a rough glove and speak to us through calamity and physical affliction," Davis said.

It was announced that the subject for Sunday night would be "The Great Salvation." It was also announced that Evangelist Davis would speak over KGKO Sunday night from 9:30 to 10:30.

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Childress Motorists in Hospital Here

The condition of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nave of Childress, who were injured when the automobile in which they were riding overturned about four miles from the city on the Henrietta highway shortly before noon Friday, was reported good at the Wichita General hospital Friday evening.

Miss Cecil Roach, also of Childress, suffered minor bruises in the accident. X-ray examination of Mr. and Mrs. Nave revealed no bones fractured and no internal injuries. The accident was said to have been caused by one of the brakes catching, throwing the machine into the ditch on its side. The party was en route to Denton to visit Mr. and Mrs. Nave's daughter, who is in school there.
