LIFE'S EMBARRASSING MOMENTS — Lt. Dan Combs of the Oklahoma Highway Patrol was demonstrating his fast draw technique when his fast got ahead of his draw, or something. The idea was to draw his pistol and hit a falling cigarette package (in front of holster) with the muzzle. But Combs lost control and the gun landed 10 feet away. Looking on is Idaho State Trooper Larry Clott, who is in Oklahoma City studying Combs' technique.

NEW MIGs RATED MATCH FOR PHANTOM FIGHTERS

Russians Build Hanoi Air Force

SAIGON (AP) — The Soviet Union has built North Vietnam's MIG fighter strength to nearly three times its size at the height of the air war three years ago, U.S. military sources say.

The Soviets also have modernized the North Vietnamese air force with strong reinforcements of advanced MIG21 jets, rated a match for America's F4 Phantom fighters.

According to latest intelligence, the North Vietnamese now own more than 225 MIGs. They had about 80 in the fall of 1967.

STILL A CHANCE

Sources said the Hanoi command pulled back its MIGs from forward bases after losing a MIG21 five months ago while it was harassing a U.S. reconnaissance plane over North Vietnam. That was the 111th MIG kill claimed by the United States since the start of the air war in early 1965.

The bulk of North Vietnam's air force now is deployed at four fields around Hanoi and the port of Haiphong.

The remainder—about 70 MIGs—are based in southern China, where much of the North Vietnamese air force took refuge during U.S. air strikes against North Vietnam.

The continued basing of North Vietnamese MIGs in China is regarded as an indication that Hanoi believes there still is a chance the United States might resume bombing of North Vietnam, although from the American side the possibility seems remote.

CONCRETE SHELTERS

Reconnaissance photographs of MIG bases in North Vietnam provide evidence of other precautions. The North Vietnamese have built concrete shelters to protect their planes on the ground.

The Russians, who provide most of North Vietnam's more sophisticated military gear, have improved Hanoi's air force with more than 80 MIG21s. Three years ago, the North Vietnamese had only 17 of these advanced models.

The rest of the MIG force is made up of old MIG15s and MIG17s, plus some younger MIG19s.

U.S. reconnaissance planes keep a frequent watch on forward airfields for any signs of the North Vietnamese moving their MIGs down to contest American jets operating in the area of the demilitarized zone and over Laos.

Israeli Planes Attack Arab Guerrilla Bases

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan today following hostilites on the Lebanese and Jordanian borders in which 10 Arabs and one Israeli soldier were killed and seven Israelis were wounded, the military command said.

The planes bombed and strafed targets about three miles inside Jordan and about 25 miles north of the Dead Sea, a spokesman said.

UNLUCKY SEVEN

In action Thursday night, Israeli soldiers intercepted a group of Arab commandos in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria, killing seven of the guerrillas. One Israeli was wounded in the clash, a spokesman said. The Israeli command said the commando group came from the village of Kafr Shaba, in southeast Lebanon.

Three Arabs and one Israeli soldier were killed in a clash between an army patrol and a band of guerrillas near the Israeli border settlement of Kfar Ruppin, in the Jordan River valley, the military command said.

Another Israeli soldier was wounded near the Lebanese border when guerrillas fired on his vehicle near the settlement of Misgav Am. And in another attack on the Lebanese border, four Israeli border policemen and a soldier were wounded in a guerrilla mortar ambush near the Yiftah kibbutz in Upper Galilee.

RETURN FIRE

The Israelis returned the fire, a spokesman said, but there was no indication of any Arab casualties.

On the diplomatic front, sources at U.N. headquarters in New York said they expected the Arab-Israeli peace talks which opened there this week to go on for months. But an Egyptian spokesman predicted today they would break down before the 90-day cease-fire period ends at midnight Nov. 5.

Egyptian Information Minister Mohamed Hassanein Heikal wrote in his semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram that it is impossible for the Arabs to modify their demand for total Israeli withdrawal from all territory captured during the 1967 war.

"And I can predict right now that the Israelis will say no when the withdrawal question comes up," Heikal declared.

CAN NOT AGREE

One reason Israel could not agree to complete withdrawal from the occupied territory, he wrote, "is its knowledge that it will be leaving a fully rebuilt Egyptian army standing on the threshold of the electronic age, as well as Palestinian forces in possession of a new offensive weapon," the Soviet Katyusha rocket.

One diplomatic source at U.N. headquarters in New York estimated the talks would continue at least until the coming General Assembly session ends about Dec. 15, more than a month after the end of the cease-fire period.

Another source said the main effort now is to get the peace talks going well enough so that by the end of the 90 days, the truce will be extended.

Nab Suspected Cop 'Killer' Peak In Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Sixteen-year old Duane Peak, who was sought on a warrant charging first degree murder in the death of an Omaha patrolman, was apprehended today.

Deputy Omaha Police Chief Glen Gates said the Federal Bureau of Investigation and investigators of the Omaha Police Division arrested Peak about 2:55 a.m., acting on a tip developed by the FBI.

Peak was booked on a state warrant charging murder in the death of Patrolman Larry D. Minard.

Minard was killed, Aug. 17 when a suitcase he found in a vacant house exploded in his face as he and seven other officers responded to a report that a woman was screaming at the address.

More Chants For Panther

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Jury deliberations in the kidnaping trial of Black Panther Lonnie McLucas went into the third day today.

About 100 singing, chanting youths kept up the vigil for McLucas into the early morning hours outside the courthouse. They broke up before dawn but said they would resume the demonstration later and carry it on until a verdict is reached.

McLucas is charged with kidnaping in the death of Alex Rackley, a fellow Panther, and with conspiracy to kidnap, conspiracy to murder, and binding Rackley. Police say Rackley was tortured and killed in a Panther plot to punish him on the suspicion he was a police informer.

West Texans Rush To Aid Ill 'Doctor'

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — West Texas residents rushed to the aid Thursday of critically ill Francis Dalgleish, 27, who a month ago was charged with illegally practicing medicine in the nearby town of McCamey.

Ian Dalgleish, brother of the former "mystery doctor," now suffering with a terminal kidney ailment, arrived here Thursday in hope of arranging passage home to Australia so Francis could be reunited with their parents.

McCamey residents have donated about $300 toward air fare and Odessa lawyer Warren Burnett has offered to post the $3,500 bail.

Dalgleish also is charged in Anchorage, Alaska, with obtaining money under false pretenses.

"He was always impetuous," said Ian, "but he loves medical work."

He said his brother was qualified in Australia as a veterinary technologist and has a diploma in animal husbandry.

Asked if he knew why his brother went to McCamey, Ian said he felt sure it was because the small, quiet town was a place his brother could do the type of work he had always wanted to do.

Ian said besides generous contributions from McCamey and Odessa residents, a representative from the Sydney Australia Morning Herald telephoned from New York to say that newspaper would help.

Joe Collins, the McCamey hospital director, said of Dalgleish, "I couldn't fault his work." He is aiding Ian in efforts to raise money and cut through red tape.

In the 17 days he served as the hospital's only doctor, Dalgleish admitted 18 patients to the hospital and treated 47 persons in all, including victims of car wrecks.

Collins said that reservations have been confirmed for Sunday for a return flight to Australia. Dalgleish is undergoing a dialysis process that will be completed early Sunday morning.

Army Arsenal Blast Kills

RADFORD, Va. (AP) — The Radford Army arsenal was rocked early today by an explosion that killed two employes, injured four other persons and caused an estimated $200,000 damage.

The explosion and fire occurred shortly after the third shift had gone on duty at midnight.

Officials said a 25-by-60-foot building was destroyed.

The plant is operated under government contract by Hercules, Inc. Plant officials said an investigation is under way to determine what caused the explosion.

The arsenal is six miles from this southwest Virginia city. Hercules operates the facility under the Army's jurisdiction.

Drivers Gun 'Fresh' Cars Near Odessa

CHICAGO (AP) — Student auto makers gun their specially-designed and fueled machines over the hot Southwest flatlands toward Odessa, Tex., today in a coast-to-coast race to show that present know-how can produce practical low-pollution cars.

Stragglers in the 1970 Clean Air Car Race were strung out along the road from Toronto to Oklahoma City, their exotic autos stymied by such problems as frozen engine rings and battery chargers on the blink.

But the bulk were ready for the fifth-leg run to Odessa, where a group of businessmen, "The Chuck Wagon Gang," promised to treat them to a barbeque.

The goal of the 3,600-mile Cambridge, Mass., to Pasadena, Calif., race is to perform efficiently and pollute the air as little as possible. Crossing the finish line first is not enough to win.

Of the 42 official entrants, the best performers to date have been those that used internal-combustion engines, some burning kerosene or unleaded gasoline. Those that fared the worst were the electricity-driven cars. In the middle were hybrid models powered by a combination of the two systems.

A contingent from race headquarters in Chicago set out for Gary, Ind., to intercept the Georgia Tech car and offer moral support.

Vice President Claims No Promises Voiced

BANGKOK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived today in Bangkok, last stop on his Asian tour, after a stopover in Cambodia during which he said he "made no commitments whatsoever."

"My conversation was extremely guarded in that respect," the vice president told newsmen after his visit of just under five hours to Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

Agnew said he made clear to Cambodian Premier Lon Nol that although the United States is willing to give him arms and economic aid, it wants to keep from becoming "militarily involved." But Cambodian officials were reported highly pleased by the visit, even if it results in no major increase in U.S. aid.

HOW MODEST

The vice president's visit was the clearest demonstration to date of American support for Lon Nol's regime, and the Cambodians viewed it as a tremendous psychological boost, both at home and abroad.

Agnew said Lon Nol's requests for additional arms aid beyond the $40 million Washington announced this week were "extremely modest," and he declared: "I see no prospect for our sending military advisers" into Cambodia.

Agnew said Sunday en route to Asia that the United States would do anything it could to help Lon Nol's government. But today he said he told the Cambodians at the start of the meetings "we wanted them to understand we did not want to become militarily involved in Cambodia."

AMAZING PROGRESS

The vice president flew to Phnom Penh from Saigon, where during an overnight stop he talked with South Vietnamese and U.S. officials.

"There is just amazing progress since my last visit," Agnew said, comparing the briefings with those he received on a visit to Vietnam on New Year's Day.

He said he could not state what troop withdrawals might take place after next spring, when the total of U.S. forces is scheduled to drop to 284,000 from a high of 549,000. But he indicated some U.S. troops may be needed in Vietnam for some time.

Reporting on a briefing from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, Agnew said the level of fighting has diminished considerably due to a "diminution of enemy capability."

Hoboken 'Hoods' Roaming Streets

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — Youths roamed the streets near City Hall for several hours Thursday night hurling rocks and bottles following police narcotics raids.

Police said the arrest of about 25 persons in the narcotics raids apparently triggered the disorder by youths described as Puerto Rican.

Another 25 to 30 persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges in connection with the rock and bottle throwing.

After the drug arrests Luis Lopez, leader of the Puerto Rican Youth Movement, went to police headquarters and demanded the release of those arrested. Police arrested him and charged him with interfering and he was held in $1,000 bail.

'X' RATED HIPPIES

SAWYERS BAR, Calif. (AP) — This mountain community's school district has a new bloc of voters — three dozen hippies who dropped back in on the electoral process en masse for the school board election.

Adult members of the Black Bear Mine commune seven miles from town have registered to vote, apparently to bolster the candidacy of commune member Malcolm Terence for a seat on the board of the 13-member Sawyers Bar Elementary School District.

Seven More Big Cities Added To Jobless List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven more major cities have been added to the Labor Department's list of "substantial" unemployment, which means six to 8.9 per cent of the local labor force is out of a job.

The additions, announced Thursday, bring to 31 the number of cities in this category, the highest total in nearly six years.

Added to the list were Detroit, the nation's auto production center; New Orleans; San Jose, Calif., and Spokane, Wash., both home to key segments of the aerospace industry; Bridgeport, Conn.; Battle Creek, Mich.; and Corpus Christi, Tex.

The nation's over-all jobless rate is five per cent of the work force, highest in five years. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO labor federation blamed economic policies of the Nixon administration.

The Labor Department also added 13 smaller areas to the list—Florence-Sheffield, Ala.; Oxnard, Calif.; Bremerton, Wash.; Dodgeville, Wis., and Ada, Altus, Anadarko, Claremore, Cordell, Marietta, Okemah, Tishomingo and Wagoner in Oklahoma.

The Labor Department said business firms in areas classified as having "substantial" or "persistent" unemployment are eligible for preference in bidding on certain federal buying contracts.

The report said 595 areas in the nation now are classified as having either substantial or persistent unemployment including the 31 larger cities and 564 smaller towns.

Substantial unemployment means a jobless rate of 6 per cent or more. Persistent means the average rate has been 6 per cent or more for a year and has been at least 50 per cent higher than the national average for several years.

BIBLE FUND IS STALLED

The Bible Class Fund came to as near a halt Friday as is possible without a complete stall. Only two donors reported, adding $15.

This left the total at $1,746, less than 60 per cent of the way to its objective.

Obviously, the Bible Fund is in trouble unless there is a renewed upsurge of support by friends of this program in the Big Spring High School. You are urged to send or bring your investment in the fund to The Herald for acknowledgment.

'I LOVE IT,' SHE ADMITS

BOSTON (AP) — "I love it," said 18-year-old Christine Gadoury. "All the guys are simply great."

Christine, a senior at St. Clare High School in Woonsocket, R.I., was talking of her summer vacation job as a tool crib clerk at a construction project.

She is the only female and youngest in the crew.

Her father, Thaddee J. Gadoury is project superintendent at the construction of a health laboratory.

"I like working outside with all kinds of people," Christine said. "They treat me like a queen."

Latin Leader Labels Gov. Smith 'Racist'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith heard Mexican-American leaders level sharp criticism at him Thursday.

He also was a target for bluntly probing questions in the course of a one-hour session with a group including legislators, educators, spokesmen for militant political groups, job counsellors and welfare workers.

At one point restaurant operator Mario Cantu, speaking for La Raza Unida, asked if the governor was sincere about improving relations with Mexican-Americans why it took him a year and a half to call a meeting with them.

POLITICAL MOVE

"How naive do you think we are?" Cantu asked. "This is a political move on your part. We know that we have a racist mayor, a racist governor and a racist president.

"Not until you're out of office will we bring a solution to our problem."

Smith said he had an open-door policy and would see any delegation which asks a meeting. He added that it was difficult to serve as governor and not be in politics, because the political process results in a man being elected governor.

He outlined programs he had instituted, aimed to benefit all Texans including Mexican-Americans. He specified the public service careers project to work with the disadvantaged, and he pointed out that the Department of Public Safety had increased its Mexican-American personnel from a handful two years ago to 136.

NEAT DANCER

Smith said he had appointed Mexican-Americans to district judgeships and made four times more Mexican-American appointments to public posts than any other Texas governor.

Richard Teniente, president of the San Antonio Independent School District board, informed the governor, "I feel your visit here has been a harmful one."

Teniente, who had said he considered himself a moderate rather than a militant, accused Smith of having "sidestepped every question in a very sincere manner."

Asserting that discrimination against Mexican-Americans is clear in Texas, Teniente advised Smith he could make a great step forward by taking positive action to eliminate rather than just skirting it.

State Sen. Joe Bernal, who presided for the meeting, called on Mario Compean, state chairman of the Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO), for the first question.

AGENTS TRACKING

Compean started by demanding that the governor apologize for being late. The meeting had been set for 9:45 a.m. Smith arrived at 10:20 a.m.

Compean told the governor that MAYO resented the fact that Department of Public Safety intelligence agents are "tracking us about the state" and giving reports to the governor.

Child Soldier Wounded Two Times In Viet

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP) — Walter Lee Martin is a twice-wounded veteran of two tours in Vietnam and is only 15 years old, says the U.S. attorney's office.

Martin of Dothan, Ala., 6 feet 3 and 198 pounds, joined the Army three years ago under an assumed name and went to Vietnam where he was wounded at the age of 13. His real identity eventually was learned and he was shipped home, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. James Richards.

Now, two years later, the Army has found that Martin somehow got back into its ranks under another alias. And, Richards said, Martin has been married for four months.

Sometime after being sent home, Richards said, Martin obtained the identification and orders of a S.Sgt. Albert Lewis Jr., got back into the Army and was shipped to Vietnam where he again was wounded.

He was sent to Ft. Gordon, Ga., to recover from his wounds. Apparently while on leave from Ft. Gordon, Richards said, Martin—still posing as Lewis—went home to Alabama and married.

Early this month, he was assigned to duty with the military police at Ft. Carson.

The real S.Sgt. Albert Lewis Jr. was in Vietnam where he re-enlisted and requested emergency leave home.

While drawing up a pay voucher for Lewis' leave, the Army apparently learned they were paying two S.Sgt. Albert Lewis Jrs., Richards said. The Army notified Ft. Carson and Martin was arrested by the FBI and charged with a fraud on the government.

Richards said he would request that prosecution be deferred and that the probation department recommend a course of action. He indicated Martin may be placed on one year probation and sent home.

Howling Success

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Police said a Wichita Falls family Thursday stormed the city dog pound and their efforts met with howling success.

About 75 dogs were freed shortly after 8 p.m., witnesses said, when a man, woman and two boys broke into the pound to free their two dogs which had been picked up earlier.

They took their pets and the others apparently saw their chance and made a break for freedom.

Frasher Johnson, manager of the pound, and his "posse" was still out rounding up the scattered dogs late Thursday night.

Police held the quartet on suspicion of burglary. They were identified by neighborhood children who told police they witnessed the entire break.

LBJ Set For Talks With Business Pros

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — A seminar for distinguished Texas businessmen and a gala dedication ceremony for the public highlight the official opening of Lyndon Baines Johnson State Park today and Saturday.

Former President Lyndon Johnson will personally preside at both occasions.

The seminar of 250 specially invited guests meets at 5 p.m. today to sit down with Johnson and discuss the national economy. Other speakers are Dr. Walter Heller, former presidential economics advisor, and Henry Fowler, former secretary of treasury.

'THE YEAR AHEAD'

The seminar — "the year ahead" — will be held at LBJ State Park in Stonewall, 65 miles west of Austin.

The seminar will be followed Saturday afternoon by the official dedication of LBJ State Park, a recreation and entertainment center complete with auditorium and Olympic-size swimming pool just across the Pedernales River from LBJ Ranch, where Johnson spends most of his time.

The seminar guest list includes some of the state's leading industrialists, bankers, businessmen, educators and economists. The business and economics student leaders come from the University of Texas at Austin, Southwest Texas State University, Johnson's alma mater; Rice University, Houston, and St. Edwards University, Austin.

Johnson will act as moderator and will give a five-minute introductory talk on "what lies ahead in the coming year from an economic standpoint."

MONEY CROSSROADS

Keller and Fowler are to talk 20 minutes each, followed by a question and answer session.

Fowler, currently a Wall Street businessman, will discuss "financial crossroads of the next 12 months."

Keller, who presently is chairman of the department of economics at the University of Minnesota, will talk on the economics of the year ahead.

After the seminar the participants will be guests at a barbecue in the park.

On Saturday the special entertainment program will begin at 9 am. with the offical dedication of the 269-acre park set for 2 p.m.

The former President and Mrs. Johnson will speak briefly then Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will be the dedicatory speaker. Pearce Johnson, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be master of ceremonies.

WILD GAME

About 40 Mexican Spanish musical entertainers from San Antonio will appear Saturday along with a dance team from the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation, a German band and bands from the 3rd Armored Division at Ft. Hood and from Blanco and Fredericksburg high schools. The celebration ends with an outdoor dance and a fireworks display.

The LBJ State Park has been open about a year while much of the construction was completed. The facilities include a visitors center with special displays of Indian, German, Latin-American and Western cultures a 250-seat auditorium, an open air amphitheater, a swimming pool complex, a nature trail, numerous picnic areas, and a wild game exhibit of deer, buffalo and longhorn cattle.

'Black Creative Music' Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The Merv Griffin Show was abruptly halted in a taping session Thursday when a group of musicians in the audience began playing their instruments.

The black and white musicians disrupted the taping of Monday night's show about 35 minutes into the 1½-hour session to demand more "black creative music" on television.

Roland Kirk, a blind saxophonist, said the Griffin show typified the neglect of jazz in network programming.

After meeting with Griffin and a CBS-TV official, the musicians left but said they would return if their demands weren't met. A CBS spokesman said the show would be completed later.

Air Fares Turmoil

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board attempt to set air fares has brought a flood of complaints and triggered an industry-wide quarrel over rates.

Even 32 congressmen who won a court order outlawing fare increases earlier this year appear somewhat appalled at the resulting turmoil.

They suggested Thursday it might be best for the CAB to leave the illegal fares in effect long enough to determine what is legal.

LAST FALL

The problem dates back to last fall when the CAB rejected proposed fare increases as excessive. As a substitute, the CAB set a 6.35 per cent rate hike for the 11 trunk lines and 7 per cent for the nine local-service airlines.

The new fares went into effect last Oct. 1.

But the group of congressmen filed suit and the U.S. Court of Appeals invalidated the new fares on grounds the CAB had approved the schedule without due public notice.

Following orders of the CAB, the airlines filed revised fares to be effective Oct. 15. The CAB plans to rule on these by Sept. 15.

The new fare proposals differ sharply, and the airlines are at odds over them.

TAINT FAIR

The group of congressmen charged Thursday all of the new filings are tainted by the illegal CAB order of last Sept. 12.

They said there is a serious question on the manner in which the new fare proposals were arrived at, because letters of instruction from individual airlines to their common agent, the Airline Tariff Publishers, Inc., have been made available to other airlines.

The net result was a substantially similar tariff filing by a number of carriers, thus raising the issue of possible violation of antitrust laws, they said.

The congressmen asked the CAB to suspend its investigation of the new fare proposals while it determines the fares that should apply. Meanwhile, the group said, the CAB either should roll back the fares to the level that prevailed last Sept. 30, or leave the current illegal fares in effect until legal fares have been established.

HCJC Counsellor Earns Doctorate

Nearly a decade of work has been climaxed with the completion of requirements for his doctor of philosophy degree for Wayne Bonner, director of counselling at Howard County Junior College.

The degree has been conferred by North Texas State University, although the formal presentation will not come until the next commencement exercises.

Dr. Bonner was admitted as a candidate for his Ph. D. in 1963, but he had put in two years previous graduate work above his masters prior to acceptance for his work on a doctorate in counselling and psychology.

His disseration dealt with preception of college students on campus as well as those by college bound students and their parents. The standardized studies on five college campuses (two junior and three senior) dealt with conceptions of college, which he found to be somewhat negative at all levels.

He took his academic and master degrees in physical education, recreation, and history, but 10 years ago he switched to counselling. Consequently, he accumulated a substantial number of excess hours in his doctoral studies.

"When I got into couselling, I realized I didn't know nearly as much about people as I needed to know," he said. "So I went back to build up my foundation in psychology."

He also built up a considerable log of travel in satisfying residence requirements. Dr. Bonner estimated he put 15,000 miles on his cars in driving to Denton for certain late afternoon and early morning classes, and rushing back to his office here. Also, NTSTU accepted two semesters of similar work at Texas Tech.

The degree makes the fifth for a member of the HCJC faculty.

Dr. Bonner is a native of the Ben Hur community near Mart. In high school and college at North Texas he played halfback, and after graduation in 1947, he coached at Runge for a year. He came to Big Spring as a coach and teacher, working with Head Coach Carl Coleman through the 1954 season (the 1953 team went to state finals).

(Frank Brandon Photography)

DR. WAYNE BONNER

From 1955-60, he coached and taught at Anson, then went to Seymour for a year as high school counsellor, returning to Big Spring High School in 1961, and accepting appointment at HCJC in 1965.

During World War II, he served in the 552nd Anti-tank battalion in special demolition. He was married to his college sweetheart, Lucy Dale Williams, in Dallas Aug. 28, 1948. They have two children, Gwen, 19, a junior at Texas Tech, and Greg, a ninth grader. He is a member of the First Baptist Church, of the Downtown Lions Club, of Phi Delta Kappa, men's education fraternity, and the usual educational professional organizations.

Pentagon's Pals Attack 'Meat Ax Cut'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of military spending, repeatedly frustrated in bids to cut specific projects, are launching a final attack to clamp a general spending ceiling on the Defense Department.

The Pentagon's defenders quickly denounced the move as a "broad meat ax cut" that would trigger massive chaos and turmoil and imperil national security.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Charles Mathias, R-Md., propose a $66 billion spending ceiling, a 7 per cent cut from the $71.2 billion Pentagon budget asked by President Nixon.

They say such a reduction would match the $1.3 billion already cut from the Pentagon's $20.5 billion military procurement request.

"A thoroughly documented, reasonable and responsible case has been made for cuts totaling $10 billion to $14 billion," Proxmire said.

He and Mathias contend the money saved can be used better to meet domestic needs, and to reduce a prospective $10 billion to $15 billion budget deficit.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and manager of the pending procurement bill, said this year's defense budget is already some $5 billion under last year's.

The Proxmire-Mathias amendment, he said, would require a $10 billion reduction in a year. And because the fiscal year is already two months old, he said, money is still being spent at last year's levels.

Thus a multibillion-dollar cut would have to be absorbed from current programs.

"That's ridiculous," Stennis said. "That's worse than a broad meat ax cut. It would bring chaos. It would cause massive turmoil .... This will push us perilously close to a state of unpreparedness."

'Copycat' Killings Tipped Detectives

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wealthy middle-aged couple, far removed from Hollywood's glittering young social set, read curiously of the Sharon Tate murders before killers stabbed them to death in similar bizarre style, a witness has testified at the Tate murder trial.

A news vendor, John Fokianos, said that the night Leno and Rosemary LaBianca were slain he chatted with them about the Tate killings.

"It was the event of the day," he testified Thursday. "It was big news. They seemed quite interested."

Fokianos told newsmen later that Mrs. LaBianca "seemed quite emotional about it. She seemed quite upset because it was quite gruesome. The details naturally got to her."

Their chat was between 1 and 2 a.m. Aug. 10, 1969. The state says that about 2:30 or 3 a.m., the LaBiancas were killed by intruders.

Police testifed similarities to the Tate killings led them to declare that these were "copycat" killings.

Charles M. Manson, 35, leader of a roving hippie-style "family," and three women followers, Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20, are on trial for murder-conspiracy in the five Tate slayings and the two LaBianca killings.

As witnesses described the death scene, Manson stared at his hands, and the girls whispered to each other. At one point, Miss Atkins held up a trial transcript cover. She had drawn on it in red ink a picture of a clown with balloons.

Charter Panel Opens Studies

A sub-committee charged with making a study of the current city charter of Big Spring and proposing changes has started its work and will continue in a series of meetings until its recommendations are ready for presentation to the full charter commission.

The City Commission some weeks ago named a 20-member panel for the charter study and after preliminary sessions it was agreed that more details study could be handled by a smaller sub-group. This is headed by John L. Taylor and includes D. A. Brazel, Clyde McMahon Sr., John Burgess, Bill Sheppard, R. W. Whipkey and the Rev. Robert Parramore.

Progress has been made on some sections of the charter, said Taylor, and the entire document will be studied with a view of up-dating several provisions and offering some changes. He said persons interested in suggesting charter changes are welcome to contact him.

Bit Warm In Texas

By The Associated Press

Haze and occasional smoke overhung much of East Texas this morning.

Skies were otherwise clear over the state aside from a few clouds around Texarkana and over the Upper Texas Coast. Light breezes from the east fanned southern areas of the state.

It was on the warm side in most sections again Thursday afternoon although the temperature reached 100 degrees only at Wichita Falls. Top marks at other points were mostly in the 90s.

SLAIN — Jose Alonso, a moderate Peronist labor leader, was shot to death Thursday near his home in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Police said the 58-year-old secretary-general of the Garment Workers Union was flagged down in his chauffeur-driven car by four men, two of whom shot him point-blank in the head.

Judge Nips Pay Raise

FORT WORTH (AP) — Dist. Judge Stanley Kirk refused Thursday to order payment of a 6 per cent pay raise to Tarrant County employes.

County commissioners decided July 27, on a split vote, to increase the salaries but County Auditor Jack Benson refused to certify the money was available.

Judge Kirk heard the case because a Fort Worth judge disqualified himself.

In denying a motion which would have forced Benson to certify the pay hike, Kirk held that the county employes' union which filed the suit does not have authority to represent the employes.

It is against public policy, Kirk said, for a labor union to represent employes in county or state governments.

Earmarked For Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas was one of 25 states announced to receive special allotments Thursday under the first $75 million installment of the Nixon administration's special aid program for school desegregation.

Funds earmarked for Texas came to $8,918,750.

The allocations are tentative and based on the estimates of the number of districts eligible for the money. The fund is designed to meet the extra cost attributable to desegregation.

The Shaky Cease-Fire

The so-called "cease-fire" in the Middle East is, of course, in a sense a misnomer. For all "firing" has not "ceased." Rather, only Egypt, Jordan and Israel have accepted the temporary cessation of hostilities — while Palestinian guerrilla groups, with varying degrees of support from Syria and Iraq, fight on against the Israelis.

Furthermore, diplomatic fusillades endangering the cease-fire seem to be flying from all quarters.

Israel has claimed that Egypt took advantage of the few hours just after the cease-fire began, before U. S. surveillance techniques had been fully implemented, to move Soviet SAM2 and SAM3 missiles nearer the Suez Canal. If this is true, Egypt is guilty of a blatant violation of the terms of the cease-fire. Egypt has flatly denied the charges, and the United States, reportedly investigating the circumstances, has avoided a direct judgment.

Late last week Egyptian officials rejected American surveillance of the cease-fire by satellite and U2 spy plane — calling U.S. plans of this nature a "pretext for espionage." This was surprising, to say the least. Though the details of the cease-fire agreement have never been fully and officially disclosed, it had been assumed in this country that Arab approval of such surveillance activities had been won before the beginning of the truce. Some kind of surveillance, in any case, would seem imperative on both sides of the Suez.

Obviously the cease-fire is in a precarious position. And if it fails, hopes for negotiations between the Arabs and Israelis will collapse.

Provisions should have been make — with Arab approval — for immediate U.S. reconnaissance operations along the Suez as soon as the cease-fire took effect. Apparently they were not. The United States now must move very carefully to preserve the precarious temporary truce, while keeping the interests of Israel in mind in the event that the cease-fire ends before a settlement has been achieved.

It was pressure from the United States that has been credited with Israel's acceptance of the cease-fire in the first place. Similarly, the Soviets have been given credit for influencing Egyptian acceptance (and where Egyptian President Nasser, went, Jordan's King Hussein had promised to follow).

Negotiations have started under the auspices of the United Nations, and there exists some basis of hope — however slight — that an accommodation can be completed.

This could take a long time, and both the U.S. and the Soviet Union will have to apply pressures for a settlement before such a thing is lost forever.

There has been a time when it appeared Israel and her Arab foes would never consent to talks. But it should be remembered that, in the context of the heretofore intractable positions on both sides of this turmoil, the "cease-fire" stands as a great step toward peace in the Arab-Israeli conflict. A single misstep could destroy what progress has been made, what progress is now sought through the United Nations. Every world influence should be exerted to see that there are no more violations.

'DON'T LEAVE—THE RUSSIAN S MIGHT INVADE ANYTIME'

David Lawrence

A Special Commitment To Israel

WASHINGTON — Nothing could have been more surprising than the announcement of Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that he not only favors action by the United Nations to impose a settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict — through an international police force, if necessary — but would like, in addition, to have the United States sign a defense treaty with Israel to guarantee its security and independence.

FOR MANY months, the Arkansas senator has been waging a campaign against American "involvement" abroad and has been insisting that there should be no further "commitments" without the consent of the Senate; the implication being that approval would not be forthcoming.

Mr. Fulbright says, of course, that this wouldn't be the first time that an international police force has been brought into action by the United Nations under its charter. But it is unusual for any senator to be suggesting that this country supplement the proposal with a defense agreement.

THE FORMATION of an international police force, as provided for in the U.N. charter, has been frequently suggested for Southeast Asia. The idea has been brushed aside because of a belief that the Soviet Union, as a member of the Security Council, would veto it. Because of Moscow's recent efforts to bring peace in the Middle East, the assumption now is that there would be support from the Soviets for the broad proposal there.

IN THEORY, there will be much support for Mr. Fulbright's recommendation that the United Nations take hold of the problem and assure peace in the Mideast. But it is doubtful whether the mood of the American people at the moment is in favor of another mutual-defense treaty — with Israel or any other country. In fact, the whole basis for the establishment of the United Nations was that this worldwide organization could maintain peace, and there would be no need for bilateral or regional pacts. Unfortunately, this has not worked out as anticipated.

THE SOUTHEAST Asia treaty and the North Atlantic Treaty are both designed to defend members in their respective areas. In the case of the North Atlantic Treaty, the consent of Congress is not required for military force to be instantly invoked by the United States in the event of an attack on any member. As for the Southeast Asia Treaty, no military action can be taken by American forces without the consent of Congress.

There is some dispute as to whether the United States acted with sufficient authority at the outset in the Vietnam war. When the Gulf of Tonkin resolution was passed by Congress in 1964, it was regarded as granting power to carry on the war in the region.

ALL THE DEBATE in recent months has been against further involvement abroad. This is why Senator Fulbright's announcement of a plan to police a settlement in the Middle East through the United Nations — supplemented by a special treaty for the defense of Israel participated in by the United States alone — is a big surprise. It differs from the attitude which he and many of the other critics have taken in the last two years with respect to additional commitments by the United States that might mean military operations in any part of the world.

Billy Graham

Will you please explain the Bible verse Revelation 1:8. I've studied it but I don't understand it. Thank you. G.P.

Alpha is the first letter in the Greek Alphabet, and Omega is the last. If you read the remainder of the verse you will find an explanation. "Saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come." Before the universe existed God was; He is now, at this present time, and always shall be. It is difficult for finite minds to grasp such infiniteness, and for that reason God has given us the supporting statements of Scripture. These are the sure handles by which we lay hold on great, eternal truths.

Thomas Chalmers once said: "The sum and substance of the preparation needed for a coming eternity is, that we believe what the Bible tells us, and do what the Bible bids us."

The more we doubt the Bible the less awareness we have of eternity, and the more we believe it, the more conscious we are of the vast unknown to which no sane man would venture without God.

Bridle Path

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The bridle path along tree-lined Southern Parkway here has been a sore spot with residents for more than 20 years in the Kentucky Derby city.

Those opposing the more than mile-long path that connects with paths in the 740-acre Iroquois Park have lodged complaints of flies, dust, manure and property damage.

The complainers say the riders have enjoyed the bridle path for some 70 years and argue that now it's time to see what it's like without the animals.

'Chicken In Every Pot'

By LINDA RUBEY
(Substituting for John Cunniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — The great genius of American industry is the art of management and organization, almost everyone concedes.

Foreign companies clamor for men with experience in American firms, for American management consultants, for anyone who can teach them the management techniques that have so far sustained the affluent society. And American managers are just as high in their praise when they evaluate the system that has almost put a "chicken in every pot," or translated into modern terms, two cars in every garage.

All of which sounds good until one considers the performance, or rather lack of performance, in the business community in the past year.

The current slump in the business cycle is hardly conducive to bold leaps forward. But if American management is doing so many things right, why are so many things going wrong? Is it perhaps that American management rates star billing only when times are good for selling.

"We Americans have always taken a lot of pleasure in telling ourselves how good we are," observes George F. Lombard, senior associate dean for educational affairs at the Harvard University Business School. "And it's equally true that the American business culture, as are most business cultures, is relatively success-oriented."

Lombard contends that American business would perform better if it attempted to operate with an understanding of broad social problems rather than just concentrating on its own limited area of interest.

To clarify the point, Lombard points to a passage in the book "The Theory of Social Revolutions" written decades ago by a man named Brooks Adams. According to Adams, the American specialty is making money. And he says, most American businessmen are too busy making profits in specialized areas to comprehend fundamental or over-all social considerations.

True administration, Lombard points out, is defined by Adams as the art of generalization. In other words, it is the ability to coordinate many diverse factors into a coherent whole.

Modern management, Adams asserts, has developed in the opposite direction. Specialization is the ultimate end, he says. The problem, according to both Adams and Lombard, is that American business is too specialized to do any good for itself or for the increasingly complex society in which it operates.

The major question for business today, Lombard says, is: How to cope with the diversity and specialization that an accelerating rate of change brings? "This question is open for discussion more now than anytime since the '30s," Lombard adds.

Mighty Mama

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The 50 million middle-aged Americans between 40 and 65 make up only a fourth of the population, but—they earn more than half the national income, own more than half of the stock in all U.S. corporations, account for 40 per cent of the female labor force, and vote more than any other age group.

So how about a National Middle-Age Day to salute them?

One of the most restricted groups of people on earth are the 100,000 Chinese who live aboard fishing and cargo junks in Hong Kong harbor. Many spend their entire lives aboard these picturesque vessels without ever stepping ashore.

Businessmen's conventions are no longer stag sprees. Some 2,825,000 delegates attended 829 conventions in New York City last year, and 60 per cent of the men brought along their wives.

Sleep doesn't come cheap in this country. We now are spending more than $80 million annually for sleeping pills and potions of all kinds—plus millions more for such sleeping aids as ear plugs, eye masks and mechanical vibrating beds.

Never monkey around with a chimpanzee. One of these apes weighing 120 pounds or less, if aroused, could maul a 250-pound pro football tackle unconscious and leave him toothless in less than a minute.

Quotable notables: "Doing well is all that matters."—Poet Robert Frost.

Mighty mama: Nothing man-made approaches the sheer power of Mother Nature. It is estimated that a single tornado can generate 100 million kilowatts of energy—about a third of the capacity of all the electrical power stations in the United States put together.

Worth remembering: "If you can't think of any other way to flatter a man, tell him he's the kind who can't be flattered."

Dobbin returns: Horses, like people, are having a population explosion. The 15 million horses counted on farms in 1915 had dropped to three million by 1959. But now, thanks to a new interest in riding, the number has crept above the seven million mark.

To Your Good Health

Headaches Almost Every Night

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 58, in good health apparently.

But frequently, in fact almost every night, I suffer what I call "night headaches." They awaken me from sleep and often are severe. Often I awaken in the morning with a pounding headache which leaves with aspirin and breakfast.

I must have fresh air and open my bedroom window wide, cold or not. Has this night air any bearing, or what in the world would cause these headaches? —D.C.

While you say you are in good health, there are a couple of matters that would bear investigating. The night (outside) air would have no bearing.

Night headaches can occur with high blood pressure, so I would have that checked.

Another possibility to consider is low blood sugar — suggested by the fact that the headaches disappear with breakfast. If that is indeed the factor which bothers you, a high-protein snack at bedtime (to give a fairly long-lasting boost to your blood sugar) might relieve the headaches.

Since you have your bedroom window open wide, that would seem to eliminate a couple of other possibilities which, however, others with similar trouble might consider. Bedroom air that is too warm or is contaminated by traces of carbon monoxide, as from a heating unit, can contribute to night headaches.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor tells me I have a hiatal hernia. I am 27, and five-feet-three, and weigh 156 pounds. I have had indigestion very badly since my last child was born five years ago. I also get palpitations and my heart seems to turn somersaults, but I had an EKG and it showed nothing wrong with my heart.

Any suggestions you can give me would be appreciated, and I enclose 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." — Mrs. P.E.

A hiatal hernia can cause "indigestion" just as an ulcer can. It, and the conditions that accompany it, also can cause heart flip-flops which can be scary even though not really significant. Nerves can add to the trouble.

For reasons which the booklet will explain, overweight also is important, and losing some excess weight is one of the eight ways to subdue the misery. At 156 pounds and only five-feet-three, you should keep that aspect in mind as well as the others in the booklet.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Mideast Talks Affect U.N. Prestige

NEW YORK — The long, difficult — perhaps impossible — process of unraveling the Middle East tangle is beginning. Any of a thousand and one accidents can blow up the Israeli-Arab talks, and yet an undercurrent of hope is part of the atmosphere as the two sides prepare to meet.

It is hope if only because so much turns on this encounter. If a Middle East settlement is eventually achieved within the framework of the United Nations, the world organization will be greatly strengthened. If the talks fail, the sagging status of the U.S. as a peacekeeping agency will be dealt another blow.

ON ANOTHER and equally important level, the peace initiative launched by the Nixon Administration is a test of the world climate. The belief has grown for some time that the Soviet Union wants to damp down the cold war and find a base for coexistence with the West.

As often before, Moscow's interest in coexistence may be an illusion. But officials both in Washington and the U.N. are convinced that the Soviets want to avoid a confrontation in the Middle East that could lead to a showdown as ominous as the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. Should the two super-powers, standing cautiously in the background, exert their influence for success in the talks, it will be taken as further evidence of the desire to ease tensions everywhere.

THE MAN in the middle of the seesaw in all this is a diplomat of great skill and the essentials of caution and strict impartiality. As the United Nations mediator, Gunnar Jarring knows more about the Middle East dispute than most of the principals.

One factor Western diplomats count solidly on the side of success. That is the conviction that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser wants peace. A strong motivation, according to informed sources, is Nasser's desire to get rid of the 10,000 or more Soviet technicians and pilots in Egypt and, in effect, to regain his independence.

THESE SAME knowledgeable sources believe the interpretation widely put on Nasser's 19-day stay in Moscow just before Egyptian acceptance of the peace proposal was incorrect. He was reported to have had his arm twisted by his Russian partner determined to bring him to the peace table.

In fact, the Kremlin bosses took a detached view of the Middle East crisis and Nasser's position. It would be more nearly accurate to say that Nasser's desire to find a way out of the slide toward full-scale war prevailed, and the Kremlin, concerned about a confrontation with the United States, gave an okay.

ON THE OTHER side of the balance sheet is the quiet influence of the American who has had most to do with bringing about the Middle East talks. Secretary of State William P. Rogers gets the highest marks here for engineering the peace initiative. He achieved the seemingly impossible in persuading the Arabs of his sincerity.

At the same time, beginning with his "even-handed" speech of last December, he has constantly tried to reassure Israel that there would be no change in the balance of military power.

The Method Of Destroying Campuses

(Andrew Tully is on holiday. During his absence his column is being written by various national figures.)

By DANIEL P. MOYNIHAN
Counsellor to the President

WASHINGTON — A good newspaper man is interested in what's new, and Andrew Tully is one of the best. Typically, he spotted the testimony Prof. Sidney Hook presented the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, and wrote about it at the end of July.

The Commission is still at work, and no one would presume to comment on what its findings will be. Its public hearings have produced serious testimony, and the usual amount of showing off. Serious students have said serious things. Others have given the Commission fair warning that unless it, the President, the nation, the world did exactly what they wanted, and did it fast, they would hold their breath until they turned blue.

SIDNEY HOOK took a very different line. He spoke with controlled fury about students whose tactics exhibit "contempt for the democratic process." The problem with many university administrators, he said in effect, is that they are afraid to get beat up. The result as anyone raised outside of deep suburbia knows, is that when other people find this out they push you around. Most importantly, he denounced the "poisoned premise" that the universities can keep order only if the political world does whatever the students and professors think needs doing.

THE PRESIDENT'S Commission which heard Professor Hook, a senior academic with many years and honors behind him, also heard young Steven Kelman, just this year graduated from Harvard College. Hook paid special attention to professors. Kelman zeroed in on the "arrogant elitism" of upper class SDS students who are going to teach the workers virtue, or else.

SCARCELY A MONTH goes by without an important article in some intellectual journal in which men such as Seymour Martin Lipset, Nathan Glazer, Earl Raab, Aaron Wildavsky, Michael Lerner and others take on the authoritarian left and slug it out.

Who are these men? They are not right wingers. Most are men of the left. They have ideas about the distribution of wealth and the elimination of poverty. But they are fundamentally committed to political democracy and individual liberty.

SUDDENLY THESE men appeared as upper class college students waving Mao's little red book and spouting the obscene animal epithets of true believers. Being upper class kids they were certainly not in factories, and assuredly not in the Army, but in the best colleges and universities. With a fairly sure sense of how much adults would put up with, they set out to capture or destroy the campuses.

The administrators could not respond. This was a development entirely beyond their experience. As it happened, however, by the time these events began many of the early anti-Stalinist men of the left had made their way to the elite campuses.

WHEN THE TROUBLES began they recognized what was happening. While the administrators tried to win peace by making concessions, the New York intellectuals started to form ranks and fight back. They demanded logic, reviewed history, insisted on facts. This is what they know how to do. To their great surprise, younger men with the same temperament, the same values joined in.

It is a curious spectacle. The establishment has lost its nerve; in many places it has plain surrendered. The cause of academic law and order, of intellectual freedom, of quiet study and disinterested inquiry is increasingly left to the hands of men who learned street fighting far from those ivy-clad campuses.

It is an irony conservative Americans would do well to ponder.

HCJC Signup Still Growing

Registration totals at Howard County Junior College continued to edge upward Friday, and new records appear a certainty.

Friday morning the head count was 1,063 (the final fall figure last year was 1,068), and at least 25 additional students are in sight Monday morning. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, predicted a final registration well beyond 1,100.

Most heartening, however, is the number of fulltime students. So far there are 682 of them, and the 628 full-time academics constitutes a seven per cent increase over a year ago. There also are 54 full-time students in the vocational-technical field.

Registration continues next week, but Dr. Hunt urged those who possibly can to register Monday to avoid missing classes.

Posse Wins Another One

The Howard County Posse has added another first place to a long string of wins in rodeo parades this season.

Thursday evening, the Posse took first in the Fisher County Rodeo parade at Roby. Fourteen riding groups participated, with Nolan County ranking second and Rockwall third. The Snyder Sundowners won the junior grouping. Thursday's record boosted the season point total to 102, putting the Posse in a good position to bid for the national title.

Several Big Springers participated in the Fisher rodeo.

The Posse's playday, set for Sept. 5, has been postponed due to a conflict with the National Pony Express and polo contests in Sweetwater over the Labor Day weekend.

POSSESSING PORNOGRAPHY PUZZLE

'Sex Re-Education' Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Repeal of all legal restrictions prohibiting adults from buying or possessing pornography reportedly has won final approval from the President's Commission on Pornography despite promised White House opposition.

Recommendations for laws against exposure of children to obscene pictures and a nationwide "sex re-education" program were also approved at a final commission meeting Thursday, a commission source said.

UNSOLICITED SMUT

He said the final report also recommends laws against public display of obscene pictures and their use in unsolicited mail advertisements.

It also calls for broad and open public discussion across the country—"based on facts rather than fears"—to forge a public consensus on the availability of pornography.

The arguments for the most controversial recommendation, repeal of all U.S. adult censorship laws, have been extensively rewritten since the Associated Press disclosed a draft report three weeks ago. But the recommendation is almost unchanged:

"The commission recommends federal, state and local legislation prohibiting the sale, exhibition or distribution of sexual materials to consenting adults should be repealed.

"We believe there is no warrant for continued governmental interference of full freedom of adults to read, obtain or view what materials they wish."

SEX CRIMES

The recommendation is based on commission findings pornography does not cause sex crimes or harm individuals. In addition, the commission reported, there is no public consensus to support such laws and they sometimes lead to suppression of legitimate material.

Repeal would not substantially increase the U.S. pornography industry, the commission said.

The White House disavowed the commission as former President Lyndon B. Johnson's shortly after the draft report was disclosed and said "it is safe to predict" President Nixon would oppose it.

Two commission members, Father Morton A. Hill of New York City and Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati, have already announced they will file dissenting views.

SWITCHING VOTE

The source said there was some final-session vote switching against the repeal recommendation but not enough to alter final approval.

The 18-member commission completed its work with a seven-hour meeting Wednesday and a six-hour session Thursday, the source added, and almost certainly will not meet again although it does not go out of business until the end of September.

The report, plus 10 volumes of supporting research, are to be released in the next two to three weeks.

The recommendation for laws against exposure of children to pornography is reportedly limited to pictures on the finding that it is almost as difficult to define what written material is obscene for children as it is to make such a definition for adults.

NO EVIDENCE

While the commission found no evidence pornography is harmful to children, the draft report said, laws against their exposure to it were recommended because there is less evidence to support that finding and because of a public consensus that children should be protected against such material.

The sex re-education program needed is so massive that only the federal government can finance it, the draft report said, but it said the program should be a joint function of parents, schools and churches as well as government.

"The commission feels," the draft report said, "that sex education may be a powerful tool in coping with both the motivation for interest in explicit sexual materials and the potential undesirable effects of exposure to these materials."

4,152 Americans Die In Lost Helicopters

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S Command announced today that 4,008 American helicopters have been lost in the Vietnam war and 4,152 Americans were killed or presumed killed in them.

Informed sources estimated the worth of the helicopters at more than a billion dollars, based on an average cost of roughly $250,000.

The U.S. Command's weekly summary of aircraft losses said 4,004 helicopters have been lost to all causes in North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia since Jan. 1, 1961. A spokesman said four more were shot down over South Vietnam Wednesday and Thursday, bringing the total to 4,008.

SHOT DOWN

U.S. headquarters said 1,736 of the helicopters were shot down in South Vietnam, 23 in Cambodia, 10 in North Vietnam and nine in Laos. Another 2,230 were destroyed as the result of rocket, mortar and other attacks on the ground, mechanical failures, air collisions and pilot error.

The U.S. Command said of the 43,418 Americans killed in action through last Saturday, 2,368 died in helicopters hit by enemy fire and another 1,748 were killed in helicopter accidents. In the two helicopters shot down this week, six Americans were killed and 30 others are missing and presumed dead.

The Army, Air Force and Marines have more than half a dozen types of helicopters operating in South Vietnam. They range from the tiny OH6 observation craft to the 88-foot-long HH53, the Jolly Green Giant whose primary function is rescue and recovery.

EXPOSED

The command noted that more than 4,000 American helicopters are operating in Indochina, flying an average of 10,000 hours per day and frequently are exposed to both enemy fire and excessive wear.

The summary of aircraft losses also listed 1,388 fixed-wing planes shot down in the war, and another 1,801 lost to other causes. The command said 1,025 Americans have been killed aboard fixed-wing aircraft hit by enemy fire and another 672 U.S. servicemen have been killed in plane accidents.

On the battlefields, the U.S. Command said, action "continued light and scattered throughout the Republic of Vietnam during the past 24 hours, with no major ground contacts involving U.S. forces. Enemy-initiated activity against U.S. forces was confined to light ground action and attacks by fire," meaning rockets and mortars.

14 WOUNDED

The command reported 11 enemy rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. today and said 14 Americans were wounded.

The situation was even quieter in Cambodia, where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew paid a visit of nearly five hours to Phnom Penh. The Cambodian command said the entire country was quiet except for light mortar harassment of Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh which has been under siege for weeks.

Jury Selection Continues In Couple's Murder Trial

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Attorneys questioned nineteen prospective jurors at Colorado City Thursday in the attempt to obtain a jury to try Robert and Judy Monteith of Abilene for the alleged murder last January of their three months old child.

Only two were selected. They were Johnny Grubbs, 48, an employe of the State Highway Department and Fred McKay, 51, Lone Wolf Electric Company employe. This brought the total selected in four days to nine.

The two extremes of punishment are the biggest hurdle in obtaining a jury. Eight of those turned down, said they couldn't, under any circumstances, give the death penalty. Four, on the other hand, said they could not conceive of a murder case in which they could give as little as two years. All twelve were excused, because under Texas law, the juror must be prepared to accept the state's range of punishment for murder, which is from two years to death in the electric chair, depending on the evidence and the jury's feeling in the matter.

None were excused for having a fixed opinion, but the defense cut three and the State two.

Fifty-three persons have been questioned in the past four days. Approximately forty are left on the jury list, and attorneys still feel that a jury can be seated.

The Abilene couple are defended by court appointed defense attorneys Bob Hanna and Nelson Quinn of Abilene and court-appointed Tom Rees of Colorado City.

The prosecution includes Criminal District Attorney Ed Paynter of Abilene, Weldon Kirk, 32nd District Attorney, and Frank Ginzel, Mitchell County Attorney.

Presiding is District Judge Austin McCloud.

China Springs Gym Destroyed

CHINA SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — An explosion and fire destroyed the gymnasium at the China Springs school, northwest of Waco, early today.

Bill Peters, the school custodian, was injured in the blast, which shattered windows in the main building.

He said he smelled gas as he approached the school. The explosion occurred as he opened the door.

Fire departments from seven nearby communities fought the blaze.

New Company To Build TAPS

HOUSTON (AP) — Formation of a new corporation to build and operate the $900 million, 800 mile Trans Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS) was announced today.

The new company is Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., which will be headed by Edward L. Patton, former manager of the new oil refinery complex Humble Oil & Refining Co. opened recently in the San Francisco Bay area.

Government clearance at the state and federal level has delayed start of construction of the pipeline designed to move oil from the Prudhoe Bay area where new oil reserves estimated to be well above 10 billion barrels were discovered in 1868.

A lease sale in the area brought the State of Alaska more than $900 million on bonus payments early this year. Owners of the TAPS line will maintain their undivided interests in the line that will be built and operated by Alyeska.

Tracing Gun Nets Arrest

DALLAS (AP)—Three weeks of tracing an oft-traded gun ended with the arrest Thursday of a man accused in the holdup slaying of Larry Thompson last Nov. 8.

Officers charged Danny Ray Jones, 21, with murder in the killing of Thompson at a gas station in suburban Mesquite.

Acting Sheriff Clarence Jones and Mesquite Police Chief L. H. Limmer said the seizure of a .38 caliber German-made pistol in a narcotics raid three weeks ago provided the first break in the case.

A ballistics check showed the weapon was one of two used to shoot Thompson, they said, and investigators traced the gun through the possession of 12 individuals. They said Jones had it at the time Thompson, an off-duty deputy sheriff, was slain.

Jones denied any part in the $300 holdup or killing, officers said, but two teen-age witnesses picked him from a lineup as one of two bandits who shot Thompson.

Denies Giving Order To Kill Crying Infant

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Pvt. Randell D. Herrod of Calvin, Okla., charged with murdering 16 Vietnamese women and children last Feb. 19, denied today that he gave an order to kill a crying infant during the incident.

The episode was related earlier in testimony by Pfc. Michael S. Krichten, a member of Herrod's Marine patrol.

"No sir, that's where Krichten lied," Herrod said. Asked if he was calling Krichten a liar, the 20-year-old Marine replied, "Yes, sir, if that's what it takes to disprove his testimony."

Krichten, 20, of Hanover, Pa., was a member of the five-man roving patrol led by Herrod which killed the 16 civilians at Son Thang village, 27 miles southwest of Da Nang.

All five originally were accused of murder. Two already have been convicted and one acquitted. Krichten, who was granted immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony against the others, has been the government's key witness.

He had testified that during the shooting of one of three groups of women and children, an infant survived the volley of fire and was crying, and Herrod turned to Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weirton, W. Va., and said, "better kill it."

Krichten said he then heard a shot and the baby stopped crying, but testified that he did not actually see the baby killed.

Under cross examination, Herrod repeated his previous testimony that he thought the patrol had been fired on twice, at the second and third houses the Marines investigated.

The defense contends they drew machine gun fire and reacted by firing their own weapons.

Oklahoma State Sen. Gene Stipe, of McAlester, who heads Herrod's five-man legal battery, said the prosecution had misconducted itself when it quizzed 1st Lt. Louis R. Ambort, 24, of Little Rock, Ark., Thursday.

The prosecution, Stipe complained, asked Ambort whether he ever had been charged as an accessory to the shootings when it "knew that he had not been."

Ambort was not charged but was given an official reprimand for false reporting of weapons seized in the Son Thang patrol.

6,000 Guardsmen Alert For Legion Convention

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Six thousand National Guardsmen were on alert today as Portland prepared for antiwar demonstrations during the American Legion national convention opening this weekend.

Other preparations include giving the Multnomah County sheriff emergency powers and setting up a special round-the-clock command post to coordinate activities of city, state and federal officers.

The antiwar protests are being organized by a group called the People's Army Jamboree, which urged demonstrations against the legion because of its call for military victory in Vietnam.

Late Thursday night, youths were continuing to drift in, congregating at three city parks that have been put aside for their overnight use and at two rock festival sites 25 miles out of town.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, in an unprecedented television and radio address Tuesday, said Portland and the state were prepared to handle any violence.

So far, the nearest thing to a confrontation was the arrest for parole violation of one rock festival organizer. He was quickly released.

The turnout of youths at the festivals had fallen far short of promoters' expectations.

The Sky River Rock Festival and Lighter Than Air Fair, whose backers hope for 100,000 people, has only 3,500 so far. Vortex I, on the opposite side of town, has fewer than 4,000.

Weathermen In Lubbock Singing Blues Over Pay

LUBBOCK (AP) — Personnel at four Texas Weather Bureau offices are upset over a pay increase plan that omitted them.

Del Rio, the Houston Airport station, one of the Fort Worth stations and the Lubbock Weather Bureau were bypassed in the raises.

The federal Environmental Services Administration standards for the dual wage scale were included in an Aug. 21 directive from the national Weather Bureau office in Silver Springs, Md.

In order to qualify for the pay increase, it said, a bureau must meet these standards:

—A public service program, meaning the bureau must issue storm warnings for one or more counties.

—Adaptive local forecasting must be provided.

—The bureau must provide service to special users other than aviation.

Del Rio was disqualified because it has no large public service program or a long range radar, a spokesman said.

Lubbock also does not have long-range radar.

Medical Aid Urged For Teen Addicts

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

If you discover your son or daughter is using drugs, don't turn the youngster over to police or go into a rage and order him out of the house.

"Keep your cool and don't panic."

These tips were offered at a conference on the drug crisis and the church at Glorieta Baptist Assembly grounds near Santa Fe, N.M., last week, sponsored by the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission.

Instead of calling the police, a parent who learns his child is using drugs should call a physician and seek his advice and help, said the Rev. Dr. Henlee H. Barnette, a professor of Christian ethics.

Usually, he said, a physician will be sympathetic and know what further steps to take for rehabilitation.

He said turning a youngster over to police could be one of the most damaging things a parent can do, and might turn the youth permanently against his parents and result in his expulsion from school and imprisonment.

Prison could mean a "post-graduate course in real crime," the professor added.

Dr. Barnette, of Louisville's Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said one of the first things a parent should do is to talk openly with their youngster about his problem—and to listen, as well as give advice. "The victim of drugs needs to be heard rather than harangued and harassed," he said.

"Scare tactics" to try to frighten children off drugs won't work, he added, saying it would only cause them to "turn a deaf ear" because they usually know more about drug effects than the parents.

Such tactics, he said, simply cause "further alienation."

Simpler Language Is Feature Of New Bible

CANBY, Ore. (AP) — Gleason Ledyard gets a lot of mileage out of an 850-word vocabulary.

Those are all the words he needed to do a simple translation of the New Testament for persons anywhere in the world who have trouble reading English.

"The New Life Testament," recently off the presses of the Christian Literatures Foundation in Canby, Ore., is the result of several years work in substituting universally known words for difficult words and passages of the King James version of Scriptures.

Gleason Ledyard and his wife, Kathryn, moved to Canby 3½ years ago—after trudging their way through the deep snows of the Canadian arctic during 14 years as missionaries to the Eskimos.

That experience and other travels in more than 40 countries taught Ledyard that, besides the Eskimos, there are millions of persons for whom English is a second language.

Even in the United States, the former missionary realized, there are people lacking in education who could benefit from a simplified translation of the Bible.

Word by word, Ledyard evaluated how the New Testament might be understood—or misunderstood—by persons unfamiliar with Biblical times and ideas.

A "centurion" became a captain of the army.

"Compassion" was turned into "loving pity."

A "bondswoman" became the phrase "woman who was owned by someone and who had to do whatever she was told."

A "hypocrite" was identified as "you who pretend to be someone you are not."

"Corruptible" became "that which dies," while "Ark of the Covenant" was described as "the special box that held the Old Way of Worship."

The King James version of this difficult passage in Romans 7:23-24 reads: "But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. O wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from the body of this death?"

Bill Harvey To Sing At Phillips Revival

Phillips Memorial Baptist Church located at 5th and State will be in Revival August 31-Sept. 6, 1970, with Richard A. Lunsford as evangelist and Bill Harvey, singer. Services will be at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday thru Friday, and 7:30 p.m. nightly.

Richard Lunsford is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University and attended Golden Gate Seminary. He has pastored churches in California, Alaska and Utah. Richard has been engaged in evangelistic work in Texas this summer.

Bill Harvey is one of the greatest evangelistic singers in America today. He started singing as a five-year old boy in Salvation Army meetings, standing on the drum. His experience brought him through the informality of Salvation Army meetings, the vigor of great citywide tent revivals, campaigns, and two years voice and music training in Southwestern Baptist Seminary.

Dr. R. G. Lee says, "Bill Harvey has the spiritual and scriptural approach to song leading."

Bill Harvey has worked all over America in soul-winning conferences with Dr. John R. Rice. Dr. Rice's comment, "I am happy to have Evangelist Bill Harvey sing often in Sword of the Lord Conferences all over America. Gifted, devoted, Spirit-filled, he blesses all hearts."

Charles W. Corley, pastor of Phillips Baptist cordially invites the public to attend all services. A nursery will be provided.

Church Names Youth Worker

Don Swinney, who is back home after a long absence, will serve part time as associate minister at the 14th and Main Church of Christ, with emphasis on youth work.

A graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard County Junior College and Abilene Christian College, Swinney recently accepted a position as math instructor in the seventh grade at Runnels Junior High. He and his wife, the former Ellouise Carroll, and two children, Kirk, 11, and Lisa, 3, live on the Gail Road.

Swinney was reared in Big Spring where he was a defensive halfback on the 1953 Steer football team that went to the state finals. At ACC he played football and ran track, and during six years of teaching at Silver, he coached. He has served the last four years as minister at the South Side Church of Christ at Robert Lee. Swinney entered the ministry full time in 1966, serving Western Hills Church of Christ in San Angelo, then the Pennsylvania Heights Church of Christ in Albuquerque, N.M. for the past three years.

Youths Tour West Texas

Kentwood Methodist and North Birdwell Lane Methodist Youth Fellowship groups toured various places in the Panhandle on a two day trip. The 22 young people left Aug. 19 and returned Aug. 20.

Lubbock was their first stop. While there, they toured the Methodist Hospital and the First Methodist and St. Mathew Methodist churches.

The tour stopped at Ceta Canyon for a sack-lunch picnic. Some of the youngsters went hiking to the cross erected on a hill while others explored the camp.

Amarillo was their next destination. There, they toured St. Stephen Methodist Church, where they were to spend the night.

St. Stephen's youth were holding a rally and the Big Springers were invited to attend. The program was given by the local Boy's Ranch chaplain. The program featured films of the ranch and a question and answer period.

The group was treated to a performance of "Texas" in the Palo Duro Canyon. According to one member of the group, "Big Spring was mentioned several times which was a thrill to us Big Springers."

The Wesley Community Center was visited next and then the tour pressed on to Canyon where the young people toured the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum.

Adult sponsors for the tour were the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards, Kentwood Methodist, and Mrs. Cleta Britton, North Birdwell Lane Methodist.

Local Baptists Schedule Seminary Level Course

The Big Spring Seminary Extension Center will begin classes Sept. 15 on "The History of Doctrine," according to the Rev. James Puckett, Baptist Temple.

Classes will meet on Tuesday each week at 7:30 p.m. at East Fourth Baptist Church. The Rev. Puckett will teach the course. This is the fifth semester that seminary level courses have been offered locally. Tuition for the one hour college credit course is $15.

Local churchmen and interested residents have been elected by the Big Spring Baptist Association to form a committee to administer the extension center. The center is sponsored in cooperation with the Seminary Extension Department of the Southern Baptist Convention, said the Rev. Puckett.

Members of the committee are the Rev. Puckett, director; the Rev. Charles Corley, Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, registrar; Mrs. Frances Plowman, East Fourth Baptist Church; Mrs. Walter Barbee, Midway Baptist Church; and the Rev. Salvador Rivera, Stanton Mexican Mission. Also on the committee are D. W. Conway, Sand Springs Baptist Church; and the Rev. R. L. Parramore, Mt. Bethel Baptist Church. The committee members were elected in July at the Baptist Association meeting at Salem Baptist Church.

"The Center is set up to provide seminary level education on a local basis for both laymen and pastors. It is especially beneficial to Sunday school teachers. The instruction is on an adult education level. Examinations are de-emphasized," said the Rev. Puckett.

Transcripts of students enrolled in the extension program are kept by the Seminary Extension Department in Nashville, Tenn., according to the Rev. Puckett. A transcript of the individual's grades will be sent to any schoool on request. "Credits for the extension course are customarily accepted by other colleges," said the Rev. Puckett.

According to guidelines of the Extension Department, teachers of the courses must have a college degree and at least one graduate degree to qualify as an instructor. The Rev. Puckett will conduct fall classes, and the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, First Baptist Church, will instruct in a course in the Biblical field in the spring.

Former teachers in the program are the Rev. W. H. Odell, Berea Baptist Church; the Rev. Clyde Campbell, Hillcrest Baptist Church; and Glen Faison, former minister of education, First Baptist Church.

Select The Church Of Your Choice And Be Faithful
In Your Attendance

Joe's I. Q. is 85, Sam's is 150. Alice is fair as a lily; Lynn is ruddy and freckled. Carl plays great football, but Robert writes lyric poetry. Sue likes to cook, and Liz wants to program computers. Bill becomes a detective while Jack flies a plane for his country.

What can all this conglomeration have in common?

Nothing, you may say — no two people in the world are exactly alike!

But they do have something in common, you know — something very important — they are all human beings. No matter how different, the point is they have the same hopes and ambitions and frustrations as you and I.

You and I like to think we are a little different, of course. But you and I share something with all other human beings — something very precious. We are all loved by God, and we should all return a little of that love to Him every Sunday — in the church of our choice.

Something in common

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse and work in a small hospital. Our director of nurses is a young divorcee. Recently, while on duty, I observed this girl "sign out" a narcotic in the name of a patient and disappear into the ladies room with it. Moments later she returned to the nurses' station where she charted the medication on the patient's chart and continued making rounds.

Abby, I know this girl took the drugs herself, but I have no proof. The patient on whose chart she charted the medication is elderly and very disoriented most of the time, so questioning him would prove nothing. I have noticed, more recently, that narcotics have been signed out by this same nurse and charted on the charts of other patients in the same mental condition as the elderly gentleman.

I haven't reported this to anyone as I have no proof, but perhaps I should. Or should I mind my own business, hoping someone else will discover the same thing? "ELWOOD"

DEAR ELWOOD: Report your suspicions to the hospital director, or senior administrator. Independently of what he says or does, also notify the director of the State Board of Nursing. A confidential investigation will be made and the situation will be handled from that point on. You will then have discharged your obligation properly, and perhaps the young woman with the alleged drug problem can be helped.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of a guy you don't care for? LORI

DEAR LORI: Introduce him to a GIRL you don't care for.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is the second marriage for both of us, and it would be perfect except for one thing. My husband wants to go visit his daughter on our vacation and I don't want to go because the last time we went my whole vacation was spoiled by something which upset me.

In the bedroom where his daughter put us there was a large picture of her mother. It was setting on the bureau facing the bed. It could have been placed in another room while we were there. Being a mother myself I thought it would be wrong of me to ask her to remove it, so I didn't say a word.

I can't understand why she would want to hurt me that way. She knows I have been a good wife to her father. Her mother died an alcoholic and gave her father a lot of trouble.

Am I wrong to feel the way I do? Would you go again if you were in my place? SECOND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. But first I would tell my husband what upset me on the last visit there, thus precluding a repeat performance. It could have been an oversight on the part of the daughter. I think you were wrong to have suffered in silence.

* * *

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

School Bus Economy Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economy practices in school bus construction may save $350 worth of nuts and bolts but cost the lives of children, says the National Transportation Safety Board.

The board said the use of too few fasteners causes school-bus bodies to disintegrate in crashes, contributing to injuries and deaths.

The report was based on investigations of fatal accidents at Decatur, Ala., in 1968, Accidents at Waterloo, Neb., and Atlanta, Ga., also were mentioned in the findings.

It said that between two and five times as many rivets, bolts, screws and welds should be used to fasten pieces of school-bus bodies to one another and to the frame.

Such reinforcement of existing buses would cost about $350 each, it said.

The board, a unit of the Department of Transportation, urged manufacturers to "adopt a policy of using fastening methods which inhibit the raising of sharp edges" as well as tightening joints.

The findings were limited to school buses which have the body attached to a truck chassis, a type which makes up about 90 per cent of the 30,000 school buses manufactured annually by 10 firms.

Opening lead: Ace of ♡ South, the declarer at six spades, focused his attentions on the wrong hand and thereby paved the way for his own downfall.

South opened the bidding with one spade and when his partner was able to respond at the two level, he had visions of big things. Observe that South's hand is worth 21 points and North has promised a minimum of 10.

South revealed his strength by making a jump shift to three diamonds. When North confirmed the fit by returning to three spades, South checked for controls by using Blackwood. Learning that the partnership had three aces, he proceeded to six spades.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued the suit, declarer ruffing East's queen away with the five of spades. The ace of spades revealed the bad news in trumps when West discarded a heart.

South decided to establish the diamond suit. He led over to the king and back to the ace. A third diamond was played and when West followed with the jack, declarer ruffed with North's eight of spades. East overruffed with the jack to score the setting trick.

Declarer could have made his contract by establishing the dummy. All that is required for success is for East to have two clubs. After South plays the ace of spades and West shows out, the king and queen of clubs are cashed. With this hurdle surmounted, declarer crosses over to the king of diamonds and leads high clubs from dummy. If East ruffs, South overruffs, with the ten, draws trumps with the king and queen, cashes the ace of diamonds and enters dummy by ruffing a diamond with the nine of spades. The North hand is high with good clubs.

If East refuses to ruff the clubs, South discards his losing diamonds and then picks up trumps by finessing against the jack of spades. In either case, the defense is restricted to the one trick in hearts.

SHADES OF SUFFRAGETTES — Traffic came to a halt Wednesday along Connecticut Avenue in the northwest section of Washington as sign-carrying demonstrators marched on Farragut Square after assembling at Dupont Circle. Hints From Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:
When I was making draperies last week I came across a new idea I think you might be able to take advantage of . . .

I needed some weights to put in the hem. Oh, how I hate to sew the regular ones on! Then remove 'em when it comes time for cleaning and replace when they come back from the cleaners.

Why waste all that time and energy? That's two things that are mighty hard to come by . . .

I bought some inexpensive fishing weights and a package of little safety pins and just used the old-time method (when a button's gone, a pain) of just pinning them on.

Only took a few minutes, no stitches to show and think how easy it will be when it comes time for that cleaning job.

Dear Heloise:
I have a very special way of decorating my pie crust.

I use the grinding attachment of my food chopper and press it into the dough.

The design it leaves looks just like flowers on the crust when it's baked.

Dear Heloise:
Here is an idea I use all the time and hope it may help others.

When you come home with a load of groceries, and the countertop is full or too small, just pull out a drawer or two and put your parcels on this. (If necessary, place cooky sheet over drawer that has been pulled out and put your parcels on it.)

Also, if you are fixing a tray for food or cookies, but have no place to put it, pull out a drawer and set the tray on that.

Really a lifesaver!

J. Howard Jensen

* * *

Dear Heloise:
If you don't like soft, fresh bread, try my method.

Soon as I get home from the store I cut holes through the plastic so air can get in and the moisture out.

When I am in a hurry, I take the bread out of the bag and lay it on the drainboard and later turn it over.

As soon as it's to my liking I put it back in the bag.

Dear Heloise:
An old wooden card table will serve as a frame for making hooked rugs.

Simply cut out the top and tack the rug to the frame.

Two legs can be folded and the table drawn over the lap for easier handling.

Dear Heloise:
When making an arrangement of flowers from your garden, always trim each stem, removing all leaves which will be below the water line in your vase.

Dear Heloise:
I read the article about the borrowing neighbor.

Years ago I had a neighbor who would borrow a cup of ground coffee every Monday morning . . . then return a very cheap blend of coffee . . . and never as much as she had borrowed.

My husband worked for a coffee and tea company, so always brought home the best. He solved the problem by telling me to save the coffee she borrowed and give it back to her next time she wanted some, which I did.

Her comment was, "What kind of coffee was that? It wasn't fit to drink! I replied that I didn't know, as it was the coffee she had returned. She never borrowed coffee from us again!

A LOVELIER YOU

Dieters Need Calorie And Nutrition Charts

By MARY SUE MILLER

Are olives fattening? How many calories in a hamburger? In vitamins? Would-be reducers overflow with such questions. And not knowing the answers is one reason for many diet failures. A pity when the solution — a calorie counter with a nutrition chart — is so readily available.

What's more, armed with that much know-how, fewer reducers would get hooked on faddy regimes. Those no-fat, no-carbohydrate, all-protein and all-liquid meals promise you large, quick and painless weight losses. Admittedly, you may lose a few fast pounds. But the method soon becomes unpalatable and you give up.

What girl or woman could long take dull, repetitious menus? Or could fit the pattern into her family and social life? To stay with it, she'd have to retire to a cave. And be sure to let her doctor know its location!

Your health and vitality suffer from faddy nutrition. Such beauty pluses as good skin and hair are never maintained thereby. Yet there always seems to be a new fad. Sometimes it is well publicized and sometimes passed on in whispers. However it comes to your attention, check with your physician before taking up with it. Ever!

There's a saying that a woman can never be too rich or too thin. Well, she'd better be rich if thinning makes her sick.

POCKET COUNTER

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our booklet, Pocket Calorie Counter, tells the score at a glance. It also gives a diet plan — a way to eat and slim. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller, care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

SPECIALTY CASTING, FAST SERVICE

McMahon Fills Concrete Needs

McMahon Concrete Co., 605 N. Benton, has some concrete suggestions for any concrete need, from precast to ready-mix, made to suit your particular job specifications. And the prompt, friendly service of its employes makes doing business with them a pleasure.

Farmers and ranchers will find long-lasting round or rectangular feed and water troughs at McMahon's in many sizes, while special items needed on the farm or anywhere else can be precast to almost any specifications.

Precast wall panelling like that used on the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center is ideal for barns, homes, shops, or fences, and comes in many decorative styles, either smooth or exposed aggregate. Quartz aggregate, black pebble, or egg-sized pebble panels can be finished with a sealer that gives a polsiehd sheen.

Precast concrete roofing sections are attractive and bring down mainenance and insurance premiums, while providing better insulation against extreme temperatures. Home decoration is also a snap with the classic planters, bird baths, garden benches, and picnic sets cast by McMahon's.

Besides precast work, McMahon also has the proper mixture of concrete for any type of job, including mixes for foundations, bridges, culverts, sidewalks, driveways, curbs, gutters, and street pavement. If concrete can do it, McMahon has the mix.

Huge mixing hoppers on the lot allow trucks to back under and load quickly. Just set your forms and call on McMahon's radio-equipped trucks for fast delivery. Their fleet has enough concrete trucks, dump trucks, flat-beds, pickups, and front-end loaders to get to the job without delay.

McMahon also carries contractors' supplies and implements and for small to medium sized jobs has "instant" concrete sacks. And if the concrete job needs a contractor, McMahon has a list of local construction contractors for your consideration. Call 263-3759 or 267-6348.

Candyce Academy Begins Second Year Of Dance

Summer session recently completed, the Candyce Academy of Dance, College Park Shopping Center, moved into the regular school year this week, offering all types of dance instruction for ages 3 on up. New enrollments will be accepted through the year at 263-4805.

Candyce Bass, known as Miss Candyce by her students, is assisted by Catherine Dawson in teaching hour-and-a-half classes each afternoon after school, except for pre-school children who take one-hour lessons earlier in the afternoon. Miss Candyce, a licensed member of the Dance Masters of America, believes in full dance education, consisting of ballet, tap, modern jazz, and acrobatics.

"They complement each other," she said, "with all phases working together. Ballet tones muscles, develops poise, gracefulness, and coordination. Jazz promotes self-expression and increases self-confidence. Tap helps with rhythm and timing, while acrobatics improve muscle tone, physical fitness, and agility." She also teaches ballroom and discotheque dancing classes.

Her ballet students are allowed to go on toe point only after their back and ankle muscles and bone structure can safely withstand the strain. Uninformed instructors and impatient parents sometimes allow 6-year-olds or students with just a year of ballet to use toe shoes, that can result in permanent damage such as fallen arches or misformed toes due to pressure on growing joints. They could become swaybacked, pushing the abdomen forward, or crippled for life. Miss Candyce, dancing since she enrolled in the Lambert School of Dance in Snyder at the age of 4, was not allowed to go on point until she was 14. Acrobatics should also be taught correctly to avoid crippling, strained muscles, or unattractive bulging muscles.

Miss Candyce has spent the last two years in Big Spring after attending Hockaday School for Girls in Dallas and the University of Arkansas. Like any teacher, she feels the importance of keeping up with the latest techniques through workshops at leading dance conservatories. She will attend weekend sessions in Tulsa and Oklahoma City during the coming year, and has been invited to London next summer to attend classes with the Royal Ballet Company, and to return by way of New York for the national Dance Masters of America convention.

In her 19 year dancing career, she has attended conservatories all over the United States studying ballet with Victor Moreno, former member of New York's Royal Ballet Company, and Enid Ricardeau, ballet teacher of the girl who became Miss Michigan and Miss America in 1969 on the strength of her ballet talent, and studying jazz and tap with Gus Giordano, professional stage choreographer and author of a jazz technique syllabus, and Al Gilbert, choreographer of numberous Las Vegas, New York, and Hollywood productions, who assisted Tom Jones in some of his dance techniques.

"Reviews" during the year give dance students a chance to practice stage presence, such as the end-of-year-review held in May that began with a take-off on dances of the Roaring 20's and continued up through "dance routines of the future." This year's students will put on a show for the American Business Club on September 18, and will begin to prepare routines for the review in May.

LEADER IN DOW JONES
Mike Reasor had first round 66

Palmer Is Trailing By Seven Strokes

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Mike Reasor once caddied for Arnold Palmer and has learned a lot about golf from Billy Casper. But he's beginning his quest for the sport's richest prize by giving both of them a lesson.

Reasor, a 28-year-old former high school teacher in his second year on the PGA tour, fired a six-under-par 66 Thursday to take a one-stroke first round lead in the $300,000 Dow Jones Classic.

That was seven strokes better than Palmer for whom he caddied during the 1966 U.S. Open in San Francisco, and four better than Casper, this year's leading money winner and the sport's third million-dollar player.

"He's been a great help to me," Reasor said of Casper, with whom he played 36 practice holes Tuesday.

HARNEY CLOSE

One stroke behind Reasor were the veteran Paul Harney, a part-time tour player, and Terry Wilcox who shot a 67 over the 7,085-yard Upper Montclair Country Club course. Bobby Nichols, Bruce Crampton, Bob Lunn and George Archer were grouped at 68 with Jim Jamieson and Jim Ferriell, and ten more players had 69's, including PGA champ Dave Stockton.

Most of the pre-tournament favorites were well off the pace. Casper was at 70 with Bob Murphy, who won the last tour tournament here two years ago; U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin was at 71: Lee Trevino at 72: Palmer and Jack Nicklaus at 73; Dave Hill at 75, and Gary Player and Sam Snead at 76.

Reasor, who comes from Seattle but plays out of the PGA player's school at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., has been on the tour for 15 months. But he won less than $3,000 last year and has only $6,400 this season.

His only victory came in the Manitoba Open on the Canadian tour, which earned him $1,200. He can win that much by finishing fifteenth in the Dow Jones, which has a first prize of $60,000.

CLOSE TO PIN

Reasor played an errorless round in carding his 66. He had six birdies and was without a bogey as he consistently hit the greens close to the pin.

His introduction to big-time golf came in 1966 in San Francisco, when he caddied for Palmer in the open in which Arnie lost a seven-stroke lead to Casper and the playoff the next day.

Reasor got to know Casper better the following year while he was a student, a golfer and an aspiring basketball player at Brigham Young.

Sale Of Tickets Down To Trickle

Sale of season tickets to home games of the Big Spring Steers has slowed to a trickle, Don Green of the School Business Office said this morning.

An estimated 750 ducats have been sold, compared to the 1,016 which were distributed last year.

The home opener is three weeks away, however. Green said he expects the demand for seat locations to grow again after August is out of the way.

The five tickets sell for $10. The Steers meet Ysleta Bel Air, Abilene High, Midland High, Midland Lee and San Angelo Central here.

This appears to be one of the best home offerings in years, since Ysleta is highly rated in its district and both Abilene High and San Angelo are rated as championship contenders in 5-AAAA.

Choice seats in Section C, which is located squarely in the middle of the field on the west side of Memorial Stadium, are still available, Green stated.

Green also said he would probably order 500 adult and as many student tickets for the Sept. 11 game with Lubbock Monterey, which will be played in Lubbock.

49ers Need To Improve Defense This Season

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers must put a lot of things together to keep their 25th season from becoming another frustrating football experience.

As usual, the team looks like a contender on paper—at least on one side of the page.

Returning quarterbacks John Brodie and Steve Spurrier gave the 49ers the most productive passing game in the National Football League last season. The team had 3,379 yards passing, and the total offensive yardage, 4,694, was second in the league.

But the 49ers' 277 points ranked 10th among the 14 teams. Despite outgaining their opponents by almost 500 yards, the 49ers were outscored 277-319 and had a 4-8-2 record.

How were all those offensive yards wasted?

"They say kicking and kick coverage is 25 per cent of football," says Coach Dick Nolan. "Last year, it was about 75 per cent for us. I hate to think of the games we could have won."

The placekicking this season will be done by Bruce Gossett, acquired from the Los Angeles Rams in a trade for cornerback Kermit Alexander. Gossett kicked 22 field goals in 1969, compared to the six the 49ers got from the since-departed Tommy Davis and Momcilo Gavric.

There will be a new punter, too, because Jon Kilgore didn't report to training camp. Spurrier and rookie running back John Isenbarger are the most likely candidates.

Bruce Taylor, a first round draft pick from Boston University, should give the 49ers a strong kick return threat. He's also trying to win the cornerback job vacated by Alexander.

The 49ers have one of the best stockpiles of young talent in football, with two first round players from each of the last four college drafts. Nine rookies were on last year's squad.

"It will be awfully tough for a rookie to stick this year," Nolan said as the youngsters began disappearing from training camp.

This year's No. 1 draft pick was Cedrick Hardman, a 6-foot-3, 250-pound defensive end from North Texas State. Nolan says he is capable of winning a starting job.

Ted Kwalick, the former Penn State All-American, is battling Windsor for the starting role.

Cowboy-Houston Tilt To Be Aired

The Houston-Dallas NFL exhibition game Saturday night will be televised live.

The contest can be seen on Channel 5, according to Jim Lancaster, manager of Cable TV here. The contest gets under way at 8 o'clock.

Minor Hurts Cropping Out In Grid Camp

Minor injuries have cropped up in the Big Spring football camp but no serious problems have confronted trainer Doc Aguilara.

Fullback David Stanley has been ailing a couple of days with a pulled groin muscle. Fullback Dick Conley has a strained knee but insists on working out.

Matt Holten is bothered with an uncooperative hamstring muscle. Jumbo Pearce also has a strained knee but the doctors have told him to continue workouts.

Alan Davis is still bothered with the broken wrist he suffered in the spring but has started to come around as a passer the last couple of days.

The Longhorns worked in pads for the first time this morning and it proved a bit strange. It's more difficult to hold onto the football, they learned.

Coach Clovis Hale went back to fundamentals and plans to review what has been accomplished this afternoon and Saturday.

The team will be on the field about 8:15 a.m. Saturday and again at 5 p.m. In the afternoon, they'll work almost exclusively polishing up their offense.

Hale said he was delighted with the progress the team had showed in workouts thus far, that much more had been accomplished than he had dared hope.

Quarterback Dave Duncan is showing to advantage. He's worked very hard, both in the spring and in the brief time he's been out this summer. Reserve QB Mike Adams needs to relax more but Hale says he has no worries about him, that the potential is there.

Nate Poss, a defensive halfback and an offensive end, could be the most surprising sophomore in camp. If he continues to improve, he could wind up playing a lot for the varsity this fall. He weighs 165.

Another soph who has looked good has been running back Rickey Steen.

The varsity line needs experience to become a galvanized unit. Hale said his biggest problem there had been to teach the boys to remain low while charging.

The receivers had a little trouble holding onto the ball this morning but Hale attributed it to the fact that the catchers had slipped into pads for the first time. He's still very high on his passing game.

Center Totes Odd Handle

LUBBOCK — Mark Hazelwood's nickname is "Granny," and it would be hard to come up with a more appropriate title since he is the senior citizen deluxe of the Texas Tech Red Raider offensive squad.

A starter at center for the Red Raiders for the past two seasons, Hazelwood, 6-4, 225, is the veteran of the Tech offensive line. He's looking forward to the opening game against Tulane on Sept. 12.

The big Amarillo native has plenty of fans on the Texas Tech coaching staff as well as in the stands.

"It's important for a team to have a leader in the middle of the line, and we figure Mark is about the best we could have," says offensive line coach Jack Fligg. "He has all the tools necessary to be a fine center, and he does a good job on both blocking and pass protection."

Another man high on Hazelwood's ability is John Conley. Conley, who was retained on Coach Jim Carlen's staff after J. T. King was promoted to athletic director at Tech, has worked with the Amarillo Tascosa product since he broke into the Raider lineup as a sophomore.

"Mark is one of the finest linemen I have worked with," Conley said. "He sets a good example for the other players, too. Every season he reports in good shape, and every year he has shown improvement."

Providing leadership for the younger players on the team is something Hazelwood enjoys.

"I think of it as something I have been preparing myself to do the past several years. I want to be a good leader and set a good example for the other guys. I want to do everything possible to help make us a fine team."

Bearkats, Miles In Scrimmage

GARDEN CITY — Coach Jack Woodley gets his first look at his Garden City Bearkats under fire Saturday when the eight-man team ventures to Miles for a combination six and eight-man drill against that school's team. The two teams have at it at 7 p.m.

The Bearkats will scrimmage Mertzon in a similar kind of exercise in Garden City at the same hour Sept. 5.

Garden City goes to Sterling City Sept. 11 for its regular season debut. The two teams clash twice during the season but only the second will count in district standings.

Dour A's Return, Trailing By 8½

By The Associated Press

The Oakland A's have had their fireworks turned off but they'll have something new when they return home from a disastrous road trip—an explo:ding catcher.

As if things weren't bad enough for the A's, whose 6-4 loss to Baltimore Thursday night was their sixth straight since leaving home and dropped them 8½ games behind Minnesota in the American League West, the Oakland city fire marshal revoked the license of the company that handles the fireworks displays at the A's home contests.

The action was taken because of three grass fires during an Aug. 19 game caused by sparks from the fireworks, set off behind the center field fence.

The frustration of the winless road trip boiled over Thursday night when catcher Frank Fernandez fired his batting helmet onto the screen behind home plate and toward the press box to demonstrate his displeasure with a ruling by the official scorer.

OBVIOUS ACT

Fernandez ripped a smash off third baseman Brooks Robinson's leg in the eighth inning but shortstop Mark Belanger recovered the ball and heaved it past first base. It was ruled a two-base error and Fernandez did his helmet-throwing act as he crossed the plate with the final run of the game.

He was thrown out of the game by umpire Larry Barnett, and, since the A's had used their other two catchers as pinch-hitters earlier, second baseman Dick Green had to finish up behind the plate.

In other American League action, Minnesota downed Boston 5-2 and Milwaukee blasted Cleveland 14-2.

In the National League, the New York Mets beat Atlanta 5-1, the Chicago Cubs defeated San Diego 5-1, Philadelphia turned back Cincinnati 6-3, St. Louis took San Francisco 4-1 and Houston edged Montreal 5-4.

Fernandez' eruption somewhat overshadowed Mike Cuellar's 20th victory for the Orioles and Frank Robinson's emergence from a lengthy batting slump.

Cuellar, who shared the AL's Cy Young Award last season allowed 10 hits, including a homer by Joe Rudi.

Robinson, mired in a .243 slump with only two home runs and 12 runs batted in since suffering a shoulder injury July 9, belted two tremendous homers and drove in three runs. Terry Crowley also homered for the Birds.

TIGHTENS LITTLE

The race in the National League East tightened a bit as the Mets and Cubs won and both gained one-half game apiece on idle Pittsburgh. The Mets trail the Pirates by 2½ games, the Cubs are four back.

Jim McAndrew halted New York's three-game skid by firing a five-hitter at Atlanta. Donn Clendenon gave McAndrew all the runs he needed with a two-run double in the first inning off loser Phil Niekro, 10-16.

Milt Pappas hurled a six-hitter as the Cubs whipped the Padres on the hitting of Glenn Beckert, who had a double and three singles, and Billy Williams, who stroked two doubles and a single and drove in two runs. Nate Colbert homered for the losers.

IN CUP PLAY

Turville Looks For Rough Test

CLEVELAND (AP) — They call one of them "The Sphinx" and the other "Herr Unpredictable" and together they make up West Germany's question-mark Davis Cup team that threatens to wrest the world tennis trophy from the United States in the challenge round starting here Saturday.

"These fellows are complete mysteries to us—we know little or nothing about them. We only know they are going to be very tough," says the U.S. non-playing captain, Ed Turville.

The "Sphinx" Christian Kuhnke of Hamburg, and the erratic one, Wilhelm Bungert of Mannheim, face America's Arthur Ashe Jr., and Cliff Richey in the opening singles matches on the fast artificial courts of the Harold T. Clark Memorial Stadium.

The order of the singles draw was to be determined at a noon drawing today, which offered Turville a chance to change the American line-up if he should so choose.

Strong pressure has been put on the captain to name Stan Smith, the 6-foot-4 mainstay from Pasadena, Calif., but indications were that Turville would be swayed by Richey's superior record this season. There was never any doubt about Ashe, a cup veteran who has an imposing 22-2 record in this international team competition.

Nobody knows how good the Germans really are. The two challengers, each 31, both businessmen who spurn the circuit and play only selected European events, have never faced any of the current members of the U.S. squad.

"They're quiet and like to be by themselves," says Fred Stolle, the three-time Wimbledon runner-up from Australia who coaches the Germans. "But they're terrific tennis players. I think we will win. I feel confident Kuhnke will take both his singles."

Kuhnke is the mystery man of the team. Son of one of Germany's leading industrialists, he got his higher education at Salem—the Eton of Germany—took three years off to get a law degree and returned to the competitive games seriously only a year ago.

Dan Reeves Is Expected To Play In Exhibition

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Note to the Houston Oilers for Saturday night's "Texas Professional Championship" match with the Dallas Cowboys in the Astrodome: Beware of the halfback pass.

The Cowboys haven't used this weapon in their arsenal yet in the pre-season.

It was announced Thursday that player - coach Danny Reeves, who is an ace at throwing the running pass, will be available for duty.

Reeves, a running back and also offensive backfield coach, said "My legs haven't felt this good in a long time."

Reeves, who threw a running pass for a touchdown in the 1968 National Football League title game with Green Bay, has been plagued with knee problems throughout his career. He underwent an operation in the off-season and the knee has been slow to heal.

"I know I haven't taken that real good blow on them yet and that will be the test," Reeves said. "But in my mind there has never been any doubt but what I would be a player-coach."

Reeves has five scars on his knees from operations.

Two Games Tonight Launch Pro Lineup

By The Associated Press

The Buffalo Bills unleash their thundering herd in the Washington Redskins' happy hunting ground and Pittsburgh steels itself for a visit from the New York giants in pro football tonight.

O.J. Simpson and Max Anderson, a pair of foot-loose running backs, will no doubt test Washington's young and inexperienced defense when Buffalo meets the Redskins in RFK Stadium.

The Steelers, playing in their new Three Rivers Stadium for the first time, take on the Fran Tarkenton-less Giants in the other National Football League exhibition game.

It'll be a full weekend of football, with six games Saturday night, two Sunday and one Monday night.

FULL WEEKEND

On Saturday night, it's Chicago at St. Louis; Kansas City at Atlanta; Los Angeles at San Diego; Dallas at Houston; New Orleans vs Boston at Jackson Miss., and San Francisco vs. Denver at Eugene, Ore.

Green Bay plays at Oakland Sunday afternoon and the New York Jets are at Minnesota in a unique Sunday night game. Philadelphia plays at Detroit Monday night.

Washington Coach Bill Austin, hoping to strengthen the upfront defense, said he would start a blend of rookies and young veterans.

"This line is young and has tremendous potential," Austin said. "The big thing is to instill confidence. For years the Washington defensive line has been downgraded so that they've almost begun to believe it."

In three exhibition games, two won by Washington, the Redskins' defense has gotten to the quarterback only three times, and has given up 345 yards.

Simpson is expected to start despite an ankle sprain suffered last week against Philadelphia. He's scored three touchdowns and rushed for 141 yards in Buffalo's three games, two of which the Bills have lost.

Anderson rushed for 66 yards and caught four passes for 84 more in last week's 35-22 victory over the Eagles.

Dick Shiner will probably start at quarterback for the Giants in place of Fran Tarkenton, out with a groin injury.

ALL EVEN

The Giants have a 1-1-1 record and the Steelers are 1-1 in exhibition play.

Pittsburgh bounced back from a 16-10 opening loss to Miami with a 20-13 victory over Minnesota. Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's No. 1 draft pick, went all the way in the Viking game and will start at quarterback tonight.

In off-field activity Wednesday, Green Bay released kicking specialist Mike Mercer, a nine-year veteran and Washington claimed Steve Wright, an offensive tackle waived by the Giants.

The Kansas City Chiefs put eight players on waivers, including defensive end Billy Bob Barnett, a third round draft choice from Texas A&M. Others waived were, defensive end Doug Chatman; wide receiver Len Crowley; tackle Charles Evans; linebacker Rayford Jenkins; running back Steve Kenemore; defensive end Troy Patridge and linebacker Melvin Roges.

New Orleans released two rookies—guard Robert Rash and tight end Fran Pilarcek.

MET OUTFIELDER HURT — Art Shamsky, outfielder for the New York Mets, lies on the ground after running into a fence while chasing a fly ball in Thursday's game with Atlanta. Ken Boswell (12) comes to his teammate's aid. Shamsky, although hurt, finished the game. Felix Millan had hit a fly ball which was caught by Shamsky. New York won, 5-1.

Texas Offense Looks Potent

By The Associated Press

Here's word from University of Texas backfield coach Emory Bellard that should send a chill through Southwest Conference football training camps. "The offense is ahead of previous years at this time."

The national champions worked out twice for 90 minutes without pads Thursday and Bellard noted "We have more experience and know better what we're doing."

He said "The boys have a real positive attitude and are working extremely hard. I know that we are going to find several things that we are doing wrong when we put on pads, but basically I'd say we are pretty sound at this stage."

There was also joy in the camp of the Texas Aggies.

Coach Gene Stallings said "We looked better both offensively and defensively." The Aggies end two-a-day workouts Saturday with a game-condition scrimmage.

Texas Christian's first and second-string quarterbacks, Steve Judy and Busty Underwood, passed well during a 90-minute scrimmage. Judy hit 5 of 10 passes for 48 yards and one touchdown and Busty Underwood connected on 5 of 8 for 56 yards.

The Horned Frogs also will have a full-scale scrimmage Saturday.

The Baylor Bears slacked off on heavy contact work until their game condition scrimmage scheduled Saturday.

Rice worked out in pads, but Ron Waedemon, an offensive guard, did not join the Owls. He's recovering from knee surgery in the off season.

"I hope to put on the pads sometime next week," he said. "I'm just a little out of shape now, but it shouldn't take over two weeks to get back.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Some people thought they'd never make it but the Texas Tech Red Raiders will have completed the tenth season in the Southwest Conference at the end of this year.

* * * *

Earl Stewart Jr., who with his son Chip finished among the also-rans in the Big Spring Golf Open several years ago, is now 48 years of age. He tried a comeback on the pro tour earlier this year but it was too much for him. He threw in the towel recently.

* * * *

Class B Wilson (up on the plains) will field a football line averaging 197.9 pounds per man this fall, bigger than most Class AAAA teams.

Wilson went 9-2 last year but has been moved into the same district with Sundown, which outmuscled the Mustangs in the playoffs last year.

Wilson plays host to Forsan the night of Sept. 25.

* * * *

The near-capacity house the Houston Oilers drew against New Orleans recently sent their home attendance over a million since they moved into the Astrodome. That was 24 games ago.

The Oilers didn't do that well over five seasons in Jepperson and Rice stadiums.

* * * *

Funny thing about football coaches.

They're too seldom given credit when their teams win, but all too often they are the targers of derision when their clubs lose.

Dan Reeves, now a player-coach with the Dallas Cowboys, spoke thusly about his new challenge recently:

"You think you are pretty smart after a few years in the league as a player. But you get into the coaching end and you realize how much work is involved in learning a game. Coaches do most of the work, get little credit, and are like the quarterback — they get all the blame."

* * * *

The NFL isn't pointing with pride to the fact that the St. Louis Cardinals sold 1,126 fewer season tickets than they did a year ago.

The management was shooting for sales exceeding 40,000 but distributed only 38,182. It's obvious the novelty of St. Louis' new stadium is wearing off somewhat. More than likely, too, the missing 1,126 are protesting management's decision to retain Charley Winner as head coach.

* * * *

Get ready for fall. The months have fallen like dominoes. Big Spring's football season opens two weeks from tonight in Lubbock. The Steers will be spoiling for action. The local QBC has been ready a long time. Will you be ready?

* * * *

Cyril B. Busbee, South Carolina's superintendent of education, said it in a recent speech on nutrition:

"It appalls me that supposedly intelligent people take better care of their golf clubs, their cars and their shrubbery than they do of their own bodies."

* * * *

David Baugh, son of the famed Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Sweetwater, TCU and Washington Redskin football fame, is now the head coach at Ralls.

Ralls brought in young David from Levelland about the time it moved from Class A to AA. Ralls won only three of seven starts last year but those three wins came in the Jackrabbits' final four games.

* * * *

Jack Tayrien, the former Big Spring coaching aide, has one of the state's better coaching jobs. He's making more (in his first year there) than several 5-AAAA head mentors.

* * * *

If the Big Spring High School footballers are as prepared to blend their effort as well as the Steer band is, the provincials will easily contain the Lubbock Monterey menace two weeks hence. The musicians were never playing better as a unit and should do the community proud.

CHIEF MAVERICK — Donald Lightfoot (above) is the new head football coach at Goliad Junior High here. He comes from Memphis, Tenn., where last year he was head coach at Harding Academy. He previously coached in Weslaco, Tex.

Desegregation Plans Okayed

By The Associated Press

Desegregation plans were ordered Thursday for two more Texas school districts and opening testimony in a San Augustine suit indicated that school officials there would offer stiff resistance to any federal proposals.

In Austin, U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts ordered Austin officials to rezone the predominantly black Anderson High School District. No seniors will be affected in the move, which involves transfers of 400 to 500 pupils.

BLACK RULES

Government officials withdrew an earlier Department of Health, Education and Welfare plan that would have turned Anderson into a junior high school and moved the high school pupils elsewhere. This would have caused too much disruption with classes starting Monday, they said.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Fisher in Beaumont approved a "neighborhood" school plan for Beaumont South Park that provided for integration of the four remaining all-black schools. Hebert High, one junior high and two elementary schools will be desegregated, but will remain primarily black.

The plan, prepared by the South Park board in a special session, was amended either to eliminate one grade or revise the boundary lines for Blanchette Elementary School.

Fisher heard opening testimony in the San Augustine suit following settlement of the South Park case.

WHY NOT?

San Augustine school Supt. R. A. Cooper was asked by Justice Department lawyer J. W. Vanderhoof why he had never considered rezoning the district.

"I don't want to be shot," Cooper replied.

Cooper asserted that the quality of education in the district would drop if the HEW plan was adopted. The government proposal calls for establishing four grades at each of the three existing schools, with each unit to be fully integrated.

Testimony in the case continues today and a Port Arthur district suit is set for Monday.

The Beaumont South Park settlement sparked a protest from some 300 residents of the South Park Independent School District.

'DIXIE' TALK

The group, identified as the South Park Freedom of Choice Committee, called Thursday night for the resignation of the school board and Supt. Roy Erementer.

"We in the south end are not against integration, but we feel it should have been more evenly distributed," said Gene Fears, vice president of the committee.

War Amendment Backers Eye 40

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says he and other Senate war critics will consider anything above 40 votes a moral victory for the "amendment to end the war."

"I'm hopeful we'll get a majority of votes in the Senate," McGovern said.

But anything above 40 votes, he said, would be a declaration "that for the first time in the history of the United States a very substantial number of senators have voted to terminate a war in the midst of hostilities.

"That would be a remarkable expression, I think, of the discontent and concern in the country about an indefinite involvement in this war," said McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat.

Opponents of the amendment have denounced it as a blueprint for the first military defeat in U.S. history.

A vote on the amendment is scheduled Tuesday.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott has predicted about 35 votes for the amendment, which sets a Dec. 31, 1971, deadline for U.S. military disengagement and withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

"I submit that Vietnamization exposes American men to more danger than virtually any other alternative," McGovern said Thursday of President Nixon's war policy.

"It literally invites the sort of defeat the administration fears so deeply.

"The hard truth is that events in Cambodia have dealt a staggering blow to the whole Vietnamization strategy," he said.

Citing Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's remark last weekend that the United States will do everything it can to help the Lon Nol Cambodian regime, McGovern said:

"It means that we are now, in Cambodia, right back where we started in Vietnam a decade ago.

"The only difference is that thus far South Vietnamese forces are used to shore up the Cambodian government while American manpower takes their place back in Vietnam."

Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., another sponsor of the amendment, said the other half of the issue is the constitutional authority of the Senate to declare terms of war and peace.

Goldwater Campaigns At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The United States is too much of a bureaucracy now and unless it is changed in the next 10 years, neither the Congress nor the President will have say over how the government is run, Sen. Barry Goldwater said Thursday.

Republicans who think right are needed to change it, he said.

The Arizona Republican was in Houston to campaign for State Rep. Bill Archer, who is seeking the congressional seat in the Seventh District being vacated by U.S. Rep. George Bush.

BIGGEST FEAR

Goldwater touched on a number of topics, from the women's liberation movement to the Indochina War.

He said the United States should continue to provide surveillance and arms to the Middle East, but that American troops should not be sent in.

The biggest fear in that troubled spot was the Soviet Union, he said.

"The Russians are not there to help Nasser," he told newsmen. "They're there to take control of the Suez Canal."

Nasser has got to be convinced of this, he said.

Turning to the Indochina War, Goldwater said the military aid which Vice President Spiro Agnew promised Cambodia would be surplus equipment now there and not worth bringing back to the United States.

All new military equipment in Vietnam would be brought home, he said.

'I'M A FEMINIST'

Goldwater is the first national Republican leader to come to Texas to campaign. He said the state was very important to the GOP and others will come. President Nixon and Agnew have promised to campaign in the state also.

He touched lightly on the women's liberation movement, saying he had grave constitutional questions about some legislation in their behalf. It would override state constitutions, he maintained.

"I'm a feminist," he said. "I don't want to go home at night and have dinner prepared by a plumber or a pipefitter."

Asked if he thought Agnew's statements were too caustic, Goldwater said he didn't think the vice president had said enough.

RAPS PRESS

He said he has devoted two chapters of an upcoming book to the press and it was the press in general that he criticized. However, he did mention such newspapers as the New York Times, the Washington Post and the San Francisco Chronicle, he thought were worse than the others in their objectiveness.

RFK's Daughter Plans To Work With Eskimos

NEW YORK (AP) — Kathleen Kennedy, 19, eldest of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's 11 children, says she would "much rather work with Indians or Eskimos—with people—than with ecology."

Because of environmental pollution, "slowly everything's dying out," the Radcliffe College freshmen said in an interview in the current issue of Seventeen magazine. "But I think the people suffering and dying right now are awfully important."

Interviewed before the end of the spring semester, Miss Kennedy spoke of her plans to work with Eskimos this summer. She worked with Indians on a reservation two summers ago.

She said that by continuing to work "in the system" she is keeping faith with the ideals of her father, who was slain June 1968 in Los Angeles.
