GOP whip to help Demos in battle

President vetoes public works bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's veto of a job-creating public works bill is expected to draw heavy opposition from congressional Democrats and at least one key Republican, the Senate GOP whip.

Democratic leaders predicted the veto will be overridden.

Senate GOP Whip Robert Griffin, a leader last winter in the successful campaign to sustain Ford's veto of a bigger public works bill, cited a 9.7 per cent jobless rate in his home state of Michigan and 13.4 per cent in Detroit in declaring his support for the bill.

House and Senate leaders say they believe Congress will override Ford's veto Tuesday of the $3.95-billion bill, designed to create or preserve 400,000 jobs.

Rejecting bipartisan pleas to sign it, Ford said: "This bill will not create lasting jobs but instead will create more inflation."

The veto and rising unemployment have set up the jobs situation as a campaign issue. Ford and several Democrats traded salvos Tuesday.

Ford said Congress "clearly established the direction they would have our nation go — toward more federal spending, higher taxes, larger deficits, more people on the federal payroll and higher inflation."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted Congress will override "this shameless veto." He said Ford's move was "bad economic policy, callous social policy and an apparent attempt to woo conservative delegates to the Republican National Convention."

The bill is a scaled-down version of a $6.2-billion program Ford vetoed in February. The House voted to override that veto but the Senate vote fell three short of the required two-thirds.

House Democratic Whip John McFall of California said he is confident the House will again vote to override. Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill Jr. said when the bill was passed, "We are going to make this bill law, either with the President's signature or over his veto."

The override attempt is expected soon after Congress returns July 19 after the Democratic national convention.

Griffin, who worked hard to sustain the earlier veto, told the Senate that if Ford disapproved the scaled-down measure, he would vote to override because unemployment remained too high.

The nation's jobless rate rose slightly from 7.3 per cent in May to 7.5 per cent in June.

The bill would authorize $2 billion through Sept. 30, 1977, for public works projects run by state and local governments, $1.25 billion for grants to maintain essential state and local services during times of high unemployment. In addition, $700 million would be provided for construction of public-owned waste water treatment plants.

The veto was the 52nd since Ford became President in August 1974. He vetoed two others within the past four days, a $3.3-billion military construction bill that limited his authority to close military bases, and a measure that would have increased Western states' share of royalties from oil and coal leasing on public lands.

EXPLORING A LIVING SPRING — Aubrey Weaver and Aubrey Weaver Jr., son and grandson respectively to C. M. Weaver, walk down a ravine that is on the elder Weaver's farmland that is the unusual site of a free-flowing spring.

NATURAL SPRING — C. M. Weaver's ranchland, northwest of the city, is the scene today of a natural running spring. Here, Weaver's son and grandson and an interested observer inspect the pleasant-tasting liquid that flows from out of the creekbed.

Ruling suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration on Wednesday suspended a ruling that father-son or motherdaughter school events violate civil rights sex discrimination laws.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford reacted with irritation when he read of the ruling by the Office for Civil Rights and said, "This is counter to the kind of traditional American values that he believes in."

On Ford's instructions, the Department of Health Education and Welfare suspended the ruling pending further research by lawyers on whether the practice violates Title IX of the Civil Rights Act.

Wildlife finds refuge

Rains uncover new spring

By DANNY REAGAN

C. M. Weaver, long-time farmer and rancher in Big Spring, possibly has the only living spring in the county that is currently bubbling forth fresh underground water. At least, no one can think of a natural spring that has cropped up in many, many years.

During the rains of the past weekend Weaver's property was set awash with a 3½-inch cloudburst. A gully that snakes across his field, just a mile northwest of the Big Spring State Hospital campus, was cut about five or six feet deeper by the raging waters.

THAT FLOODED CREEKBED, about half a mile from Weaver's ranch, was carved down more than 25 feet into the ground, and was trenched out about an equal amount horizontally.

When the waters subsided, flowing down into Mill's Creek and eventually finding their way into Lake Spence, the land had been roughhewn below the water table, exposing a living spring, generating from some unknown subterranean source below the rich farmland.

THE SPRING WATER, which emanates from about five or six places in the gulch, runs down the sandy bed of the scarred land for about half a mile, into Dr. Roscoe Cowper's acreage, and is not of sufficient volume as yet to carry farther.

The spring produces very pleasant-tasting water, and most samplers agree that there isn't any gypsum (a hydrated sulfate of calcium) in the liquid wonder.

AN ACCURATE estimate of the volume of water that issues from the ground is hard to calculate, as much of it sinks back into the sandy bottom of the ravine, but one observer remarked that it would take "10 or 12 windmills to pump that much water."

As Mother Nature utilized her watery tools to cut down into the earth and strike a vein of water, she also left a Gulf Oil Co. 21"-high pressure pipeline (once buried) hanging 15 feet up in the air, looking like a gigantic cigar bridge, spanning the gap above the stream.

BOB WESTBROOK and Coy Gilliland, claim representatives for Gulf Oil, were at the scene Tuesday to inspect the exposed line, and view the unique spring.

The pipeline is part of a system which carries oil that originates from the major Permian oil fields of Midland, and eventually flows into the Gulf Refinery at Port Arthur.

Crews began work today building a support bridge for the exposed pipeline that was originally laid in 1951 when C. M. Weaver and his son Aubrey once drove their tractors across the then flat farmland.

Bob Westbrook indicated that there was no danger of the stout pipeline rupturing, and that piledrivers should rectify any support problem that might exist.

The Weaver Spring is located in just a small portion of the creek that runs all the way through the Fairview community. Its waters swell in size to resemble a small version of the Mississippi when the rains come, and dry into a ditch of blowing sand during other parts of the year.

C.M. HAS farmed his land for 40 years, and he and his son Aubrey discussed the situation that eventuated in the discovery of the spring.

"The farmers divert their runoff into the creek," said Aubrey Weaver, "and the general condition of the land is such that it is easily washed away."

"Yes," continued C.M., "when the land is used exclusively for growing cotton, it just won't hold water anymore. The country is just washing more than it used to.

"The water table was a lot better in the early days," he continued, "when the land was grassier, and the rain soaked in and didn't get pumped away by irrigators."

But the flow from the existing water table (its strength unknown) seems to be getting stronger, and continues to deliver "real good soft water."

Weaver has posted the land on which the spring was found. He said he will do all he can to keep the hunters out of the area where the doves, pigeons, quail and other wildlife have already found a watering hold and refuge.

C.M.'S WIFE, ETHEL, is an ardent bird lover, and would like to set up her own small reserve for them around the spring. There is even talk of constructing a small one or two-foot dam somewhere along the flow to create a pond, with the excess flowing over the dam to find its way elsewhere.

Weaver has placed two rails along the west edge of the cliff looking down upon the picturesque spring, to accommodate any sightseers, but he urges them to be careful, as sections of the sides of the walls break off from time to time, falling 25 feet straight down.

The Weaver Spring is real, and until someone discovers or reports another one, it is the only active spring in a community that was long ago named after one of the biggest.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Gasoline alley

Q. Why does gasoline cost more in Big Spring than in the metropolitan areas nearby? We are a refinery town. Why isn't gas cheaper here instead of more costly?

A. Actually, Big Spring gasoline prices at this time are comparable to prices in Odessa and Midland. Even within the city of Big Spring, prices range for regular gasoline from 49.9 to 57.9. At one station near Odessa, they are as high as 61.9 and as low as 48.9. Nobody seems to have an answers as to why the prices fluctuate as they do. The refinery sells oil to the transport trucks at the same price for all. The difference comes after the gasoline leaves the refinery and seems to be up to the individual oil companies and stations.

Offbeat: Stillness Saved Jose's Life

HOUSTON (AP) — Jose Guadelupe Adame awoke Tuesday morning to the thundering of a 44-car freight train passing inches above him as he lay flat on a railroad track.

His brother, Silvestre Adame, 22, was not as lucky. Silvestre died after being struck by the train.

Jose, 18, said he and his brother entered Texas from the border town of Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, to seek work.

"We rested on the tracks Monday," he told investigators. "We had been looking for work. We were asleep. We didn't hear the train until it was on top of us."

Jose said he did not move from inside the steel tracks until the train halted 250 feet down the rails.

Deputies said his stillness saved Jose's life.

Kelley claims COINTELPRO discontinued

FBI director testifies at AIM murder trial

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, testifying at the murder trial of two American Indian Movement members, said the FBI counter-intelligence program against domestic dissidents has been discontinued and no other program has replaced it.

Kelley is the first of a series of prominent personalities expected to testify in the trial of the men charged with 1975 slayings of two FBI agents on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota.

Actor Marlon Brando, an advocate of Indian rights, is expected to testify later.

Kelley was subpoenaed to testify Tuesday, but he did not show up. He arrived in Cedar Rapids Tuesday night after U.S. District Judge Edward J. McManus ordered him to appear in court Wednesday to explain why he should not be held in contempt.

Defense counsel William Kunstler questioned Kelley about the counterintelligence program — COINTELPRO — and whether it still existed.

"I have made repeated inquiries about it," Kelley replied. "Not, certainly, has anything of this type been revealed to me."

Kelley testified that COINTELPRO was started in the late 1950s and was discontinued later. He did not give an exact date.

"It was to still efforts toward violence and acts that might lead to violence in extremists and New Left organizations," Kelley said.

The FBI has said the two agents killed on the reservation near Oglala, S.D., were ambushed. The defense has sought to show that the FBI was responsible for the climate in which the slayings occurred.

Robert Robideau, 29, of Portland, Ore., and Darelle Butler, 34, of Rogue River, Ore., are charged with killing agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both 28, on June 26, 1975. The FBI agents were on the reservation to serve arrest warrants.

The defense has sought the testimony of a number of Washington politicians and officials.

Also named in subpoenas were Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho; Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y.; and FBI Public Information Officer Thomas Coll. They were ordered to bring whatever documents they possess which relate to the defendants or to AIM. There was no indication whether they would comply with the subpoenas.

Church and Pike were involved in congressional investigations into FBI operations.

Defense attorneys juggled their schedule of witnesses Tuesday because of Kelley's absence. William Kunstler said he and other defense lawyers were "all ready" for Kelley.

Kunstler said he wanted Kelley's testimony in an effort to show that FBI agents were responsible for the atmosphere in which the killings took place.

He said Kelley's absence forced attorneys to question FBI Agent Joseph Trimbach first about the agency's activities regarding AIM. Trimbach was the special agent in charge of the Minneapolis FBI division when the shootings occurred.

Under questioning by Kunstler, Trimbach said the FBI did not "target" AIM for surveillance as a group. But he said he did know that an informant was planted in AIM.

Trimbach also said he did not know of any counterintelligence program and said there were no counterintelligence agents in the Minneapolis division while he was there. The FBI agent said he did not believe there was an FBI section dealing with American Indian extremist groups.

Also in town Tuesday were comedian-activist Dick Gregory and actor Marlon Brando.

DA working on murder, court's activity slows

With the district attorney prosecuting a Glasscock County murder case transferred to San Angelo, criminal case activity reached a lull in 118th District Court during June.

There were three cases filed against defendants waiving grand jury consideration and five guilty pleas entered. County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eyssen Jr. prosecuted during the absence of District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III.

District Judge Ralph W. Caton granted probation in four cases and ordered one man sentenced to prison. Moore filed three motions for revocation of probation, but probation was not revoked in any case.

Pending at month's end were 214 criminal cases.

In the civil docket, the caseload grew from 1,303 to 1,332 during the month.

Attorneys filed 91 new cases, and 62 cases were disposed of. Writs of habeas corpus were sought by three and granted to two.

Presiding over juvenile court, Judge Caton saw two delinquency petitions filed, and disposed of two juvenile cases. This left three pending.

The district judge and district attorney have jurisdiction in three counties: Howard, Martin and Glasscock.

These statistics for Howard County are prepared by the Howard County District Clerk's office for the Texas Judicial Council.

Tire thieves get probation

Defendants accused of stealing one truck tire each from Montgomery Ward & Co. were granted 10 years of probation by 118th District Court Tuesday afternoon.

They are Raymond Arellano, 30, 4101 Muir St., and Pete M. Maldonado, 40, 1210 Blackmon Ave.

Court throws out assault conviction

A decision which nullifies one of three concurrent convictions being served by Jodie A. D. Hilliard III, 24, was returned by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today.

Hilliard is still serving two 18-year sentences for robbery of two Big Spring service stations in December 1970.

The appellate court, based on a court ruling since his conviction for assault with intent to murder, dismissed the assault conviction. Hilliard was convicted for assault with intent to murder James Gregory, an attendant, during one of the two robberies.

Skipper arrested

NEW YORK (AP) — While the crews of other sailing ships arrived to waving arms and handshakes, Capt. Jacques Thiry of the tall-masted brig Unicorn was greeted with a summons for his arrest.

Thiry, who had piloted the 98-foot wooden ship from Bermuda to participate in Operation Sail here, was freed without bail Monday after spending the night in jail on a complaint of non-support of his son, Christopher.

Thiry's former wife, Priscilla, filed the complaint. She charged that he owes her nine years of child support, totalling $5,000.

"I have been to court several times over the years in an attempt to collect the back payments, but I always drew short of having him arrested," she said. "But when I found out he was coming here, I just had to do something. I don't want to seem unpatriotic because of Operation Sail and I don't want him to go to jail. All I want is to see the fruits of justice are given to my 12-year-old child."

She said she had lost track of her former husband until someone sent her a recent newspaper clipping identifying Thiry as the skipper of the Unicorn and reporting the ship's participation in Operation Sail.

Thiry declined to comment on the case.

Police beat

Gunshot and fire injure local men

Mark Nairu, 19, 200 Goliad, is in a local hospital today after suffering a gunshot wound to the abdomen, as he sat in his car.

He underwent surgery this morning and his current condition is unknown at this time.

Another Big Spring man was seriously injured last night when his house at 508 Johnson caught fire.

Don McEvers was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Alert Ambulance personnel, and is currently in the intensive care unit, in serious but stable condition. A spokesman at the hospital indicated that he will probably be transferred to a burns center in the state.

Three Big Springers were injured less seriously in separate assault cases.

John Charles Bassett, 21, Rt. 1, Box 411, was the victim of two male subjects who jumped him while he was parked at a local convenience store. The two beat him with their fists and threw a string of fireworks in his car.

Warren Swearengen, 18, 2003 N. Monticello, reported to police that four juvenile males attacked him, hitting him with their fists and kicking him. One of the thugs said, "We know you turned us in."

Raul Loya, 700 N. Scurry, was the intended victim of a knife attack. A man threatened to kill him so that, in the words of the attacker, "I can get the Blue Moon closed." Loya was not injured seriously.

Many more local residents were hurt in another manner. Six auto burglaries, three house burglaries and four cases of theft were reported within the last 24 hours.

Delores Medairy, Southland Apts., reported to police that persons unknown broke into her house, set off numerous fireworks, flooded the bathroom, and rummaged through the apartment. It is unknown at this time what items were taken.

John Pool of the coin-operated Basin Car Wash reported that an unkkown amount of coins were stolen from machines at that location.

W. J. Coats, 605 W. 4th, advised local police that someone broke into his store and took a number of lamps, valued at $125.

Margie Chavarria, 807 Rosemont, reported to police that her car was broken into, and a .22 cal. pistol was taken.

Two autos were burglarized while they were parked at the U.S. Agricultural Research building.

David T. Crawford, 514 Dallas, reported that someone pried the vent window of his car open and stole two metal tool boxes, a trombone, a drill, numerous tools, and a metal engraver. Total value was placed at $850.

James Gay, 1409 E. 19th, advised police that someone popped open the vent window in his car and made off with his $107 CB radio.

Thomas Marvin Jr., 17, Rt. 1, Box 411, had his 8-track stereo, AM-FM player valued at $250 taken from his car while it was parked at a local convenience store. A disturbance was taking place in the parking lot, when the crime occurred.

Roy Soto, Knickerbocker, Tex., had a chainsaw valued at $200 removed from the bed of his pickup while it was parked at a local club.

Zandra Basham, 2311 Mishler, reported to police that $180 worth of new clothes were taken from a counter at a local merchandising store.

Suzanna Williams, 906 Birdwell, had her purse, containing money and a watch, taken from her car. Total value was placed at $124.50.

Ely Clanton, 610 E. 18th, reported that a spare tire, four hub caps, and a CB radio, all valued at $608.90, were taken from his car while it was parked at a local body shop.

Belton Brunson, 3606 Hamilton, had the window of his car broken out by vandals during the night. Damage was estimated at $75.

'Grand Old Man' dies

TOKYO (AP) — Chu Teh, considered the grand old man of the Chinese Communist armed forces, died in Peking Tuesday, Peking radio reported. He was 90.

As chairman of the standing committee of China's National People's Congress, Chu had functioned since January 1975 as the equivalent of China's head of state.

In that capacity, he had met in Peking June 22 with Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser. He took over the job of meeting foreign dignitaries earlier in June after Communist party officials decided that 82-year-old Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung no longer would do so.

Chu also was a member of the inner ruling circle, the standing committee of the party Central Committee's Political Bureau.

Peking radio broadcast a joint announcement by the Central Committee, the Congress' standing committee and the state council, the equivalent of China's cabinet.

It said he died at 3:01 p.m. (3 a.m. EDT).

Holiday road deaths short of prediction

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic deaths on the nation's highways during the Bicentennial weekend totaled 474, falling short of the prediction of the National Safety Council.

The safety council, noting a greater tendency by drivers to break the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, had forecast that as many as 630 persons would die during the four-day weekend that began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday in each time zone.

The safety council said more automobiles than usual would be on the highways for 200th birthday of the nation. It estimated that motorists would travel 17.3 billion miles during the four days, compared with 16 billion miles last Fourth of July when there were 491 traffic fatals.

The record death toll for an Independence Day weekend was 758 in 1972, also a four-day holiday.

Local motorists given probation

No driver's licenses were suspended, but the JP placed 17 motorists on probation for periods from four to six months.

He dismissed eight cases and passed six for consideration in September.

Driver's licenses may be suspended when motorists have four moving violations within a year, or, if they are under 18 years of age, two within a year, Linda Arsiaga, justice court secretary, said.

A hearing is held for an alleged violation of a driver's license restriction, Mrs. Arisaga said.

Fort Worth man behind bars

Ronald E. Harry, 41, Fort Worth, remained in county jail today in lieu of posting $5,000 bond.

Harry is charged with the May 29 burglary of Big Spring TV Service. Stolen in the burglary were two color televisions, two black-and-white sets and three checks, police said.

Canine killed

Midland Demo fails to show

AUSTIN (AP) — A Midland man challenging a state delegate to the Democratic National Convention failed to show up in district court today and Judge Herman Jones passed over the case without ruling or setting a new date for a hearing.

R.L. Corley had filed suit asking for the removal of Delia Gonzalez of Del Rio as national delegate. Mrs. Gonzalez was chosen at the state convention to replace Carmen Gutierrez after it was revealed that Mrs. Gutierrez was a Mexican national.

Self-defense?

35-year prison term reversed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Court of Criminal Appeals said today that a jury should decide whether David Rodriguez was acting in self-defense when he shot at a policeman in Snyder.

The court reversed Rodriguez' 35-year prison sentence on conviction of deadly assault on a peace officer because the trial court failed to charge the jury on the issue of self-defense.

The evidence showed two police officers stopped a car for defective tail lights on the evening of June 8, 1974.

Rodriguez gave this version of what happened:

One officer pushed the driver, Luis Fuentez, and reached for his pistol. Rodriguez, afraid the officer would shoot Fuentez and himself, disarmed the officer and moved to the middle of the street. The second officer fired twice at Rodriguez, hitting him with the second shot. Only then did Rodriguez return the fire.

The appeals court said, "We are of the opinion that (Rodriguez') testimony raised the issue of self-defense and that the trial court erred in overruling (his) objection to the charge. We reiterate that the truth of (his) testimony is not at issue here and we express no opinion on who was telling the truth."

No monsoon in June, rainfall level down

Despite eight rains and sprinkles, June 1976 in Big Spring was drier than is normal.

Total precipitation for the month, according to records from the U.S. Experiment Station here, was .44 of an inch, as compared to the normal 2.06 inches. This brought the total for 1976 to 6.62 inches, below normal by 2.09 inches.

Temperature hit its high mark at 100 degrees on June 14, before plunging to half that during the next 24 hours. The 50-degree low recorded June 15 broke the old record low of 54 degrees set in 1917.

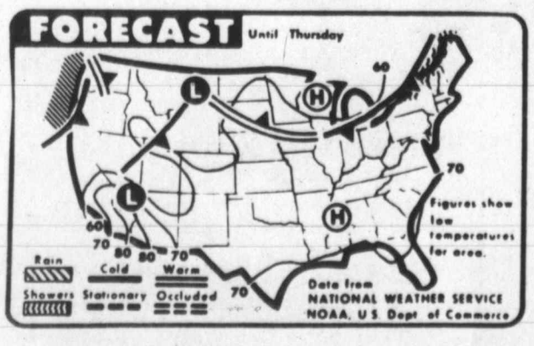

On the average, daily highs and lows during June were slightly below normal

Low temperatures averaged 66 degrees while 67 degrees is normal.

Wind velocity averaged the 4.9 miles per hour which has been computed for the previous 58 years as normal.

Evaporation claimed 11.31 inches of water from a pan as compared to the 61-year average of 10.42 inches.

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny weather with seasonable temperatures is forecast today for most of the nation. Rain is expected for coastal regions of the Northwest and showers on the western edge of northern New England.

Don't think; just take off

Big hurricane overdue on Texas Gulf Coast

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Gulf Coast, especially the Houston-Galveston area, is overdue for a major hurricane and if this is the year one sweeps ashore, the National Weather Service advises residents to "take off."

Davis Benton, chief meterologist for the weather service, said Tuesday once a warning is given "don't think about it; just take off."

Evacuation and disaster officials agree that the only sensible approach to a major storm for residents of low-lying areas is to move out in double time.

The last biggie to hit the Houston-Galveston section was in September 1961 when Hurricane Carla whipped ashore, killing 43 persons and causing more than $400 million in damage.

The National Weather Service said recently the Galveston Bay area could be washed by tides up to 20 feet above normal and many escape routes are less than 10 feet above sea level. This means residents should depart before a hurricane strikes.

If you insist on staying put, the Govennor's Division of Disaster Emergency Services offers these suggestions:

—Stay inside and away from glass doors and windows and on the downwind side of the house.

—Move loose objects such as garbage cans indoors and board up and tape windows.

PBPC region funding OKed

The Permian Basin Planning Council region was one of those approved nationally for funding for Emergency Medical Services as announced by the Dallas regional office of the Public Health Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Permian Basin is one of two planning commissions in the state funded for this project. The other is at Amarillo.

Other fundings went to the Tarrant County Hospital District and to the Texas Department of Health Resources.

The Permian Basin EMS group received $500,000; the Amarillo group, the same amount and the Tarrant District received $529,294. The state office, which manages the systems was granted $580,000.

FAA investigates mysterious crash

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration were to begin checking today into the crash of a light plane.

The crash killed a 30-year-old Morton man and his six-year-old son in an area between Lamesa and Post.

Officers at the scene speculated that the plane may have crashed after losing a wing in turbulent weather Friday.

This would have been the same storm that dumped nine inches of rain into Bull Creek in that area and caused Lake Thomas to rise some seven feet.

Jim Dale White, 30, and his 6-year-old son, Bradley, were found Tuesday evening in the wreckage of their Piper, single-engine plane about 25 miles southwest of Post.

The plane, missing since Friday on a trip back to Morton from Toledo Bend in East Texas, was spotted about 5 p.m. Tuesday on a hill on the Beggs Ranch about 2½ miles from the ranchhouse.

Maudie Wood

Mrs. Weldon (Maudie) Wood, 60, died at 1:15 a.m. today in a local hospital. Funeral services will be at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Dr. Claude Craven will officiate, and the Rev. Elra Phillips will assist. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Wood was born March 18, 1916, in Gunsight, Tex., and came to Howard County in 1931.

She married Weldon (Woodie) Wood Dec. 10, 1934, in Stanton.

She worked for Willard Sullivan at Settles Drug for eight years, Carver Pharmacy for 16 years, and two years at Professional Pharmacy.

She was a member of the First United Methodist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Weldon, of Big Spring; one brother, N. B. Tolle, Breckenridge; one sister, Mrs. Jackie Whiteside of Odessa; one niece, Laverne Clark of Monahans; two grand-nephews, Ronnie and Randy Clark.

Memorials may be given to the Cancer Fund, the family suggests.

Pallbearers will be Asa Tindow, Milton Carver, Milton Junek, Artis Walker, Gary Hancock, and Rodney Roberts.

Mrs. Polly Esch

CHERRYVALE, Kan. — Mrs. Polly Esch, mother of Mrs. Conny (Norma) Wade, Big Spring, died at 3 a.m. Tuesday here. Services for Mrs. Esch will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Wayne-Darling Funeral Home here.

Billy Jackson

Funeral services for Billy Wayne Jackson, 45, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Harold Sitton, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Luther, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Jim Mosley.

Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pallbearers are Bruce Nichols, Keith Nichols, Steve Sartor, Larry Peterson, Gary Wilkerson, Boyce Kemper, Max Zant and David Zant.

Christians claim forces advancing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians claimed their forces were advancing all along the northern side of their 800-square-mile enclave north of Beirut today, driving back Lebanese leftists and Palestinians who pushed into the Christian territory two days ago.

The leftists were trying to ease the pressure on the Palestinians' besieged Tal Zaatar refugee camp.

The Palestine Liberation Organization — PLO — said Syrian forces attacked Palestinian refugee camps in northern Lebanon at dawn, "causing heavy losses among civilians," and shelled areas near the ports of Tripoli and Sidon.

The PLO said in a message to the International Red Cross in Geneva, Switzerland, that hundreds of Palestinians captured in Lebanon were imprisoned in Syria.

Daoud Barakat, the PLO's permanent observer to the United Nations office in Geneva, asked the Red Cross to pressure Syria to halt the attack and protect the lives of Palestinians in Syrian captivity.

PLO chief Yasir Arafat ordered the headquarters of his Palestine Liberation Army shifted today from Damascus to Beirut, leftist-controlled Beirut radio reported. Observers saw the move as an attempt to free the PLO from Syrian influence. The Palestinians say Syria has arrested a number of PLA officers and men.

The leftists charged that Syrian gunners and tanks shelled the southern outlets of Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city 60 miles north of Beirut, to prevent the leftist-Palestinian command from moving reinforcements to the fighting with the Christians.

The leftists claimed that Syrian artillery also shelled the American oil refinery near Sidon, south of Beirut, during the night and set the plant afire. But persons on the scene said they could see no flames.

Hospital and security sources estimated that 500 persons have been killed in the last two days of fighting, pushing the estimated toll in nearly 15 months of civil war toward 31,000.

A Western newsman reporting from the northern front said he saw Christians riding to battle in new armored cars and others returning in jeeps dragging Palestinian bodies through jubilant Christian villages.

The newsman said the leftists had been pushed back about 10 miles from their southernmost advance in their surprise attack Monday.

Amin Gemayel, the elder son of Phalangist party chief Pierre Gemayel, was commanding the Christian offensive from Al Batrun, 37 miles north of Beirut. He said his forces had driven the Moslems and Palestinians out of the deep-water port of Chekka, five miles north of Batrun, with a three-prong attack.

The leftists and Palestinians sliced south from northern Lebanon on Monday, moving along the coastal highway and capturing Chekka and several other villages in the area. But the assault had no visible effect on the Christian offensive against Tal Zaatar, the Palestinian refugee camp on the southeast side of Beirut which has been under attack for two weeks.

A Christian spokesman said Tal Zaatar was "in death agony. It is literally finished." Western reporters at the edge of the camp said the Palestinian defenders were no longer firing mortars or antiaircraft weapons.

"Their resistance is fizzling out," the Christian spokesman said. "They're fighting back only with sporadic volleys of automatic light weapons fire."

Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat appealed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to take "urgent measures to check the extremely grave situation" at Tal Zaatar. Arafat complained because 2,300 Libyan, Saudi Arabian, Sudanese and Syrian peacekeeping troops sent by the Arab League to Beirut have done nothing.

AMA president applauds steps by some doctors to file suits

DALLAS (AP) — The move by physicians to file countersuits in some malpractice cases has been praised by the new president of the American Medical Association as proof that doctors "can have their day in court."

Dr. Richard Palmer of Alexandria, Va., said in a recent interview that the legal steps now being taken by doctors ' the greatest thing that h. appened for us in some ti

"With th. physicians ready to go to court, I think we may see an end to the many frivolous malpractice suits that are plaguing us now," he told The Associated Press.

In the past few months several physicians, Dr. Palmer said, have been successful in winning damages from former patients who had filed malpractice suits dismissed by either the courts or juries.

During the AMA convention in Dallas last week, the House of Delegates, policy-making arm of the organization, adopted a resolution calling on state medical associations to aid doctors who file countersuit in certain malpractice claims.

The malpractice suits have mushroomed during the past few years, sending insurance rates soaring, sparking doctor strikes in some metropolitan areas, and bringing the threat by many physicians to drop all malpractice coverage.

Palmer said the answer to the growing problem may be the countersuit, especially if more and more doctors are successful in collecting money from those who filed questionable malpractice suits.

The new AMA president also was concerned on another legal thorn in the side of the medical profession — the right to determine death.

Palmer said the decision of when life had ended must be made by a physician, "a person qualified and trained in medicine, and with the consultation of the family. A state legislature nor a judge nor an attorney can make such a decision," he said.

The AMA delegates rejected a resolution calling for a firm stand that only physicians, after talking with the family, can say when an individual has died.

Instead, the AMA approved a weaker approach that reaffirmed its earlier stand that no legislation can be passed that determines legally the time of death.

The "dignity in death" controversy was put in the nation's spotlight when the family of Karen Quinlan of New Jersey went to the courts to gain approval for the removal of life-sustaining machines from the young woman who had been in a coma for more than one year.

Police enlist help of banks

Swindlers prey on elderly

DALLAS (AP) — The bank vice president in East Dallas just knew something wasn't quite right.

It wasn't that he was bothered by withdrawals. They were a way of life. But the $3,500 just withdrawn by the elderly woman sitting across the desk from him made him uneasy.

Maybe it was the man standing across the lobby and looking nervously at the bank executive.

Could his customer be the pigeon in the old "pigeon drop" swindle?

He explained the scheme to the woman. He told her of how a stranger would tell her about finding a large sum of money and how she could have part of it if she would just put up good faith money.

The woman insisted on her money. He couldn't refuse. But he did send an employe to follow the woman and her male companion. The employe lost them in traffic.

"When we arrived at the woman's house, the swindlers had just left with all her cash," said Hugh Davis, a swindle investigator with the Dallas police department. He said the con artists have never been arrested.

It was that incident and many similar ones that caused Dallas police to ask for help from area banks in stopping swindlers who prey on elderly persons.

Banks have been asked to notify police when an aged depositor withdraws an unusually large sum of money, Davis said.

Or the bank can subtly warn the account holder about different types of swindles.

Davis and Sgt. Les Beilharz of the police general assignments section said they have recently been investigating about one swindle a week involving an elderly victim.

Police said most cases involve the "pigeon drop."

In this operation a swindler, who claims to have found a large sum of money, approaches a victim and offers to share the money with him if the victim will put up a large amount of good faith money.

To get this money, the person will often go to his bank and withdraw money from an account.

Veto adds impetus to bills

President Ford's veto of the military construction bill may give new impetus to bills now before Congress which would prohibit the closing of military bases without a notice of five years.

Some of the measures would even require that Pentagon to plan 10 years in advance.

The mood is strong for this type of legislation, and I can understand why. Congress doesn't like to be appropriating millions of dollars for project on a base one year and see it closed the next.

THE NEED FOR long-range planning in this area is very clear. No private company would be so capricious with its assets. The Pentagon can be because it is not dealing with an entire balance sheet, only a budget for the coming year. If the assets are lost, so what? If the closures cost the government in other areas more money than they save, so what?

But equally important is the effect such sudden closures and reductions can have on local communities, many of which are urged by military officials to improve community housing one year and closed the next. For any town to grow and prosper, it needs to be able to count at least the short-range operation and stability of its base.

Some communities have gone to great lengths in attempts to assure the permanency of their military bases. Big Spring is one of these. A few years ago, to encourage the Air Force to make the base permanent, local officials gave the deed to the land Webb sits on to the government. Although it may have been a mistake, the point was that Big Spring needed to know that the base would be around. Webb is a huge part of our community, and its presence makes a big difference in our town.

The town was growing and bursting at the seams. New housing was needed, but investors are sometimes reluctant to gamble in places where a military base is such a large portion of the economy.

This nation is strewn with closed military bases that were promised as "permanent."

CONGRESS SEES THE NEED to alter this philosophy. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, when he was in Big Spring, indicated that he felt a long period of waiting on base closings was a good idea. An argument can be made.

However, Cong. Omar Burleson said that he thinks five or ten years is an unreasonable amount of time in these fast changing days. That's why he thought that President Ford would accept the rider to the military construction bill which only required a year's delay.

Cong. Burleson, who represents Big Spring in Washington, said he felt it was the more moderate of the approaches to this problem now before Congress.

But Ford unwisely did not accept it. After urging from the Pentagon, he vetoed the entire $3.3 billion military construction bill to keep Congress from becoming involved in base closing decisions.

Did Ford know what he was doing? Did he fall for that now-denied piece of information which came out of the Pentagon last week and implied that the bill would cost $150 million in lost savings.

The Department of Defense is determined to keep base closings its own private domain, and certainly decisions relating to the defense posture should be made largely by the Pentagon, especially in situations requiring hurried or emergency action.

SUCH IS NOT THE CASE with Webb, or most of the other proposed closing announced this year. In these cases I believe Congress has a right and a duty to determine that the closing decisions are in the best interests of the taxpayers.

Congress should make certain that some top bases, such as Webb, are closed simply because of politics. Congress should be sure that history again won't teach us that the Department of Defense will be back again in two to three years to reclaim the bases at a cost of many, many extra millions.

There is a good chance the President's veto will be overridden this time. I think it should be.

Or Congress may get mad enough to force by law some long-range planning into the Pentagon.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Special interests

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — It is still common practice on Capitol Hill for the special interests to pay off cooperative congressmen. The congressmen may simply pocket the money or use it to pay their expenses. They may show their gratitude, thereafter, by voting for the special interests.

If this sounds like bribery, it is perfectly legal under the laws that congressmen have devised to regulate their own conduct. The laws merely require that the legislators pay taxes on the money that is diverted to their personal use.

TAKE THE CASE of Rep. William C. Wampler, R-Va., who is known among his mountain constituents as "the bald eagle of the Cumberland," an affectionate reference to his hairless pate. He is known even more affectionately among the lobbyists who inhabit Capitol Hill as the darling of the special interests.

He is partial to the coal, dairy and agribusiness interests, but he has also been a friend to the banks and the oil companies. These interests have returned his friendship by contributing heavily to his reelection campaigns.

For 18 months during 1973-74, these interests also contributed to a special fund that he used to purchase supplies, publish a newsletter and pay for his automobile trips back and forth to his district.

In other words, he collected money from the special interests with his left hand to buy office supplies. At the same time, he drew money from the government with his right hand to pay for office supplies. Some of this money wound up instead in his own pocket.

Thus indirectly, Wampler benefited personally from the contributions he received from the special interests. He also voted down the line for these interests. This raises a sticky question: when does a contribution become a bribe?

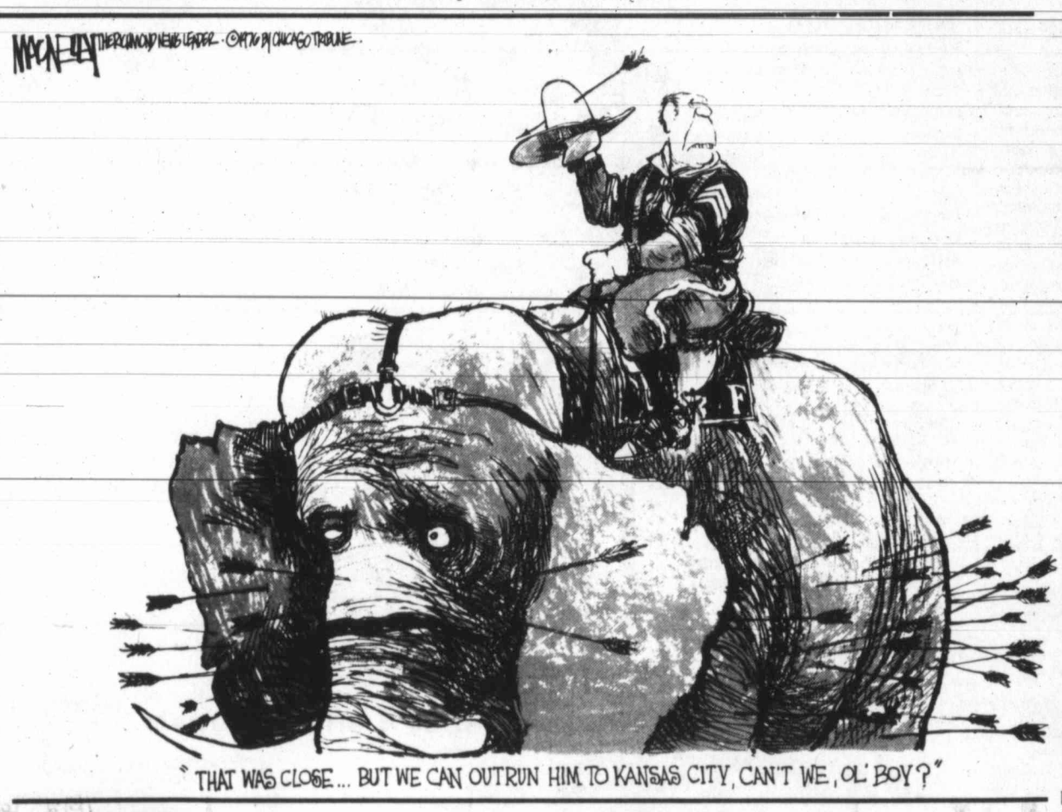

Legally, the bald eagle appears to be in the clear. The laws permitted him to pocket his $6,500 government allowance for supplies — or, for that matter, any campaign contribution he may have wished to expropriate. He was careful to pay income taxes on the extra money that filtered into his bank account.

In fairness to Wampler, it should also be added that his tangled finances aren't altogether unique. Many a congressman would have difficulty separating his government allotments from his political collections.

Wampler told us that he had made "every conscious effort to comply with the law." He added, with apparent sincerity: "I have been just as honest as I know how to be."

NOW LET'S EXAMINE the record. In 1974, he collect $5,000 from the dairy interests for his reelection campaign. The following year he voted on three separate occasions to increase price supports for the dairy industry. Still later, the National Milk Producers Association paid him $1,000 to speak at a New Orleans meeting.

Wampler has also collected thousands of dollars from the coal operators, both for his election campaigns and for his special fund. At the same time, he has championed the coal operators on Capitol Hill.

Ring finger symptom important

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know why recently my ring finger seems to be swollen at the knuckle. It is hard to remove my wedding ring. I don't have any arthritis. I am 53. — Mrs. J. D.

Most likely it is a form of arthritis called "osteoarthritis." But don't panic; it bears no resemblance to the other kind — rheumatoid. Nor is it crippling, as rheumatoid can be.

Osteoarthritis is not unusual at your age. It's not entirely clear why it occurs, but certain hormone deficiencies associated with menopause are suspected. Or prolonged misuse of a joint or many "little injuries" to it can bring it on. In women the fingers seem more often involved than in men.

There is usually no pain involved as there is with rheumatoid arthritis, and then usually only after misuse of the joint. You may also notice the joints at the end of yor finger are enlarged. If so, these are called "Heberden's nodes."

It is a cartilage problem. The cartilage softens, then roughens. Finally the bone is left unprotected and begins to thicken and grow. This is what happened to your knuckle.

Because there is no early pain, the condition often goes undetected until, as with you, difficulty in removing a ring causes concern. In a way this is fortunate, because this type of arthritis responds well to early therapy. Moderate exercise of the joint is the key — that is, avoiding prolonged use but giving it sufficient exercise.

If you are overweight you certainly should reduce. Finger joints aren't the only ones affected. It is, in fact, common in the spine and in weight-bearing joints (such as the knees) which have been exposed to the extra strain of obesity. When pain develops, rest and moist heat usually bring relief.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several of my friends and I have been making hooked rugs. Some of us find that lint from pulling the wool through the backing causes us to cough.

Could this be harmful to the throat or lungs? — Mrs. H. H.

If there is enough to make you cough it is not healthful. I suggest you wear a small gauze mask while you are working.

I know one woman who began teaching a young daughter the art of rug-hooking. Soon the child was developing chronic respiratory symptoms and had to be kept home from school frequently. The child was allergic to the wool, another factor to consider.

The wool motes can also irritate the eyes.

Dr. Dr. Thosteson: What do you do for chicken pox? Is there any lotion or medication to help the sores dry up? I have heard that taking a bath or washing your hair is not a good idea. Please give me some advice. — R. R.

Nothing will hasten the drying-up process. That takes from one to two weeks until scabs form and eventually drop off.

A hot bath could aggravate the itching, but a lukewarm sponge bath would be all right. It's best to wait for the hair washing — until the scabs have disappeared. Vigorous shampooing might cause the pustules to become inflamed and infected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My physician has recently diagnosed that I have one of the collagen diseases. He thinks that a pregnancy might make it go away. Is there any truth to this? — C D.

Collagen is the febrous material which makes up most of the body's connective tissue. There is a group of diseases called "collagen diseases" (five or six, in fact) which affect organs, skin and bones. One of them is arthritis. It is not uncommon for arthritis and similar problems to improve during pregnancy. But it would probably return afterwards. Much depends on what type of collagen disease you have.

It's no reason to become pregnant.

Arthritis suffers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear Dr. Graham: A young friend of mine has recently become involved with a new religious group from the Far East. This group claims it is working to unify churches, but it is headed by a man who claims to be almost a second Messiah. What about this? — O. F.

Dear O. F.: Groups such as you mention seem to making widespread gains in America, which may indicate the deep spiritual hunger of many people. However, we must remember that success is not necessarily a measure of truth. In fact, I believe these groups are radically opposed to the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

I believe Jesus was speaking of a day such as ours when He said, "Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall grow signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they should deceive the very elect" (Matthew 24:23,24).

Remember that the ultimate test of truth is God's Word, the Bible. The Bible tells us that false teachers will attempt to add to its statements, but it warns us not to accept such teachings. 'If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life" (Revelation 22:18,19).

Remember that Satan's ultimate goal is to keep people from Christ, and false religion can be one of his greatest allies. Pray for your young friend, that his spiritual hunger may lead him to Jesus Christ, Who is "the way, the truth, and the life" (John 14:6).

Around the rim

Carol Hart

Yes, I'm still here, although I haven't been in this corner for awhile. I've been sticking with women's news for the past few weeks, but last weekend I almost got the opportunity to do something a little extra.

Almost. Life is rough, folks. Last weekend I went with three friends of mine to see Six Flags. We stayed with a friend who lives and works in Dallas. On the way to Six Flags Saturday morning, we heard on the radio that Gabriel Kaplan, of "Welcome Back, Kotter" fame was going to do two performances at Six Flags that night.

I JOKINGLY said that I was going to interview Mr. Kotter himself when we got to the Arlington amusement park. It was a long time later that I really decided to get that interview.

The performances weren't scheduled until eight and ten that evening, and a lot happened before that time. The first thing my group did was lose one of its members. We had to park a long way from the Six Flags entrance, because almost everyone in the county decided it would be a good day to see Six Flags. We took two cars, because our Dallas friend had two friends of her own that decided to go along. We ran for a tram heading for the entrance because we thought otherwise we would have to walk. That's where we got separated. We didn't see her again until midnight.

I really enjoy Six Flags, and it is a new experience every time I go there. This time was no different. Although it was very crowded that day, we found we didn't have to wait very long for any ride. The four of us left decided to stick together and see the park, all the while keeping an eye out for our lost member Rita and her friends.

Then came the Kaplan performance. The capacity crowd really was excited when he stepped out on the platform of the Music Mill theater, located behind the tall derrick in the park. Everyone stood up and cheered when the curtains opened and the familiar theme music from his show began. Kaplan kept the crowd laughing for 30 minutes, and each minute I was there I kept telling myself that I would get that interview.

After the show was over, my group and I jumped down the amphitheater-type seats to the line of Six Flags personnel showing the crowd out. I flashed the old press card and asked if it might be possible to talk to Mr. Kaplan for a few minutes. The guard I handed that card to took it behind the curtains and came out again about five minutes later.

"Sorry," he said.

Well, I wasn't going to stop there. I went around the platform and up to another guard. I showed her the card, and she took it behind a fenced-in area. Kaplan was behind that fence. I was really getting excited.

A FEW MINUTES later, a girl came out and sat down beside me on the theater seat. "Sorry," she said. I just stared at her. I don't think I heard much except that Mr. Kaplan was only going to talk to four newsmen, including one from WFAA-TV in Dallas-Ft. Worth. I was really mad. It didn't matter to me that the other newspaper people had properly cleared their interviews days earlier. At the moment, I was so disappointed I didn't care what she said. She wasn't going to ask to let me in, and we both knew it. I sat there very seriously contemplating going over the fence, in true investigative-reporter style. I've seen too many Watergate movies.

I decided that the over-the-fence idea wasn't one of my better ones, because I didn't want to spend the night in some Arlington jail. We left the theater and Six Flags without my interview.

But we didn't leave the park before losing Judy and Christine. That left only Barbara and me. We kept a sharp eye out for our companions, but never found them until midnight at the entrance to the park.

All in all, I really enjoyed the day. Six Flags is a good place to go when travel time is short, and you want a lot of different things to keep you occupied.

New boy in town

William F. Buckley, Jr.

At Athens, Georgia, a month or so back, a young man associated with the University of Georgia and formerly on the staff of Governor Carter told a story at the small dinner before the lecture.

. . . IT WAS APRIL, 1973, and Governor Jimmy Carter had flown to Washington to tape an exchange on Firing Line, the weekly television program. "We" — the reference was to the governor's staff — "were all anxious to see how the Governor made out, so I had a bunch of them over to my house to listen. Well, after you introduced him, and he started talking — we couldn't believe it. His accident was completely changed. If we had heard the voice without the picture, we wouldn't have known it was the boss talking."

It transpired that Jimmy Carter had been practicing — in total privacy; Pygmalion-like. A new accent. The deregionalization of Jimmy Carter. Decided southern inflections were left, but what had been there before — the deep southern accent of deep, traditional Georgia, was gone.

"That's his regular voice now," I was told. I asked whether he was still capable of resurrecting the older voice, like Eliza Doolittle when slipping on a banana peel. The qualified answer was yes, he could still speak like the old Jimmy Carter, and under special circumstances, before certain audiences, would do so. But the current accent is now the working Jimmy Carter. Presumably if he wakes up in his sleep and talks, he uses his Firing Line voice. That is true self-mastery.

When Jimmy Carter came to New York the other day to give a foreign policy speech, one might put it that his objective was to win grudging praise from the New York Times, which has always been rather disdainful of Jimmy Carter, suspecting that under that smooth, calm exterior lies a Georgia cracker. Until very recently, James Reston could not refer to Jimmy Carter except as "Wee Jimmy."

HOW DO YOU go about appealing to the New York Times in a foreign policy speech? Well, it takes a little practice, but nothing you can't master by exercising in your bathroom, say ten minutes a day, sitting down, reading the Times' editorials.

1. You say something on the thme of interdependence — we all live on one planet, that kind of thing.

2. You say something on the theme of our natural allies — our great postwar alliances with Europe, and Japan — and the need to revive them.

3. You say something about the international problems of poverty and population control — and the creative role the United States can play in helping people help themselves.

4. You say something about the emerging nations of Africa — encouraging those "trends" within Africa that point the democratic way, and you deplore the racist policies of South Africa.

5. You deplore, in an age of endemic poverty, the amount of money spent on arms throughout the world, but you make moderate references to the need for a U.S. military capable of serving essential American interests.

6. You deplore the continuing aggressiveness of the Soviet Union — but you stress that we live in an age of accommodation, not confrontation, and restress the need for patience and understanding, which however is not to be confused with weakness.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

The 4th of July in Big Spring — how depressing! I envy all the people who were fortunate enough to be somewhere else this past weekend. What is the 4th of July without fireworks?

Not much. Fireworks on the 4th is a tradition, something to look forward to all year — especially this year. So what happened to Big Spring? While the rest of the nation was enjoying great displays of fireworks, we had to watch it on T.V. (all the while wishing we were anywhere but here).

True, no one can control the weather, but how about a little planning on the town's part. Do you just take it for granted that it never rains in this "beautiful West Texas town?" It is insane not to have a rain date for a big, important outdoor event. Fireworks on the 5th of July would have been just impressive as on the 4th. When I found out this town's Bicentennial celebration was going to end forever minus the fireworks, my disappointment turned to madness and then to disgust.

Did a rain and hail storm stop the Tall Ships from coming into Hudson Bay? Did the dead wind stop them? NO! They planned — they had back-up motors and a spirit to do what they came to do. (It seems that a rodeo causes more spirit in this town than our nation's birthday).

And could someone tell me why we had an outside contractor (from Juarez???(plan our fireworks display? In other towns that I've heard of, or been in, the local fire department was in charge of the display. This way you are sure they don't have to be in another town on the 5th, in case of rain.

I just hope next year (our 201st birthday) someone, anyone, plans ahead to insure a fireworks display that will thrill the disappointed people of this year. But this time next year I'll be one of the fortunate ones — I won't be here.

Mrs. Phillip (Kim Springsted
403 East 8th

Editor's note: July 5 couldn't be arranged as an alternate date for the fireworks display, so the Chamber of Coimerce settled for the July 7. And, good luck, Mrs. Springsted, wherever you are next year.

IRS auditors accepted gifts?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has begun investigating allegations that its auditors accepted gratuities from Gulf Oil Corp. while reviewing that company's taxes, two sources close to the investigation say.

The IRS' inspection service unit has been questioning some of the 290 auditors here about gifts of liquor, dinners, golf outings or trips which they allegedly accepted from Gulf, one of the sources said Tuesday.

The inspection service operates out of IRS headquarters in Washington and is responsible to IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander.

The IRS began a special review of Gulf's tax reports after revelations that the giant oil company operated a secret $12.3-million slush fund for payments to domestic and foreign officials.

In the wake of those allegations, a three-member committee headed by New York attorney John J. McCloy last winter gave Gulf and the Securities and Exchange Commission a 300-page report on Gulf's legal and illegal political contributions from 1960 to 1973.

Soon afterward, Bob R. Dorsey, whom the committee said "perhaps chose to shut his eyes to what was going on," resigned as Gulf's chairman and chief executive. Jerry McAfee was named to replace him.

Sources have said the current investigation covers alleged gratuities to IRS auditors over many years. No Gulf officials are under investigation in connection with the alleged gratuities, one of the sources said.

The IRS standard of behavior and federal law forbid revenue officials from demanding or accepting gratuities. An auditor found guilty of impropriety would be subject to administrative sanctions ranging from an oral reprimand to dismissal.

But in most cases of serious misbehavior, the inspection service takes its evidence to the U.S. attorney's office for review. The federal prosecutor then decides whether to present the evidence to a grand jury for criminal indictment.

U.S. Atty. Blair Griffith said he has been asked "for legal assistance by the internal audit section of the IRS in connection with those allegations." But there were no indications a grand jury has begun considering the matter.

If convicted of criminal violations in accepting gratuities, an IRS agent could get a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

The IRS' district director for Pittsburgh, Cornelius Coleman, said no one connected with the agency would have any comment on the matter.

Refinery shut down

CLARENDON, Jamaica (AP) — The Aluminum Company of America says its bauxite refinery here has been shut down by an explosion which damaged the plant and injured 11 workers, two seriously.

The company said the refinery, its second largest alumina production facility, was heavily damaged when a pressure vessel used to dissipate heat ruptured Tuesday.

Alcoa said there was no immediate estimate of damage or of the duration of the shutdown. The plant produces 550,000 tons of alumina a year.

The Pittsburgh-based company said it would increase production of alumina at its Point Comfort, Tex., plant until the refinery here is repaired. Part of the Point Comfort refinery has been idle and will be restarted because of the accident.

Alcoa said it did not expect the accident to impede its shipments to customers.

Team being sent to Alaska to probe welding problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level federal fact-finding team is being sent to Alaska to investigate a welding problem that threatens to delay completion of the oil pipeline under construction there.

President Ford ordered the study after reports that an auditing firm hired by the Interior Department found pipeline records so confused that it could not figure out which of 31,000 welds have been properly X-rayed, as required, and which have not.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Tuesday that Ford directed Transportation Secretary William Coleman and Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe to give him a preliminary report on the problem today. A team headed by Deputy Transportation Secretary John Barnum was ordered to head for Alaska.

Nessen said the team will start its fact-finding trip early next week. He said Ford wants the team to find out whether the welding problem will delay completion of the giant pipeline, currently scheduled to start carrying about 1.2 million barrels of oil a day by mid-1977.

He said Ford also wants to know if the problem threatens any additional cost or environmental impact.

The specter of serious delays arose from the apparent collapse of Interior Department efforts to narrow down the welding problem.

'Tough dispute'

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky of Austria says the United States is going through "a process of self-purification" that will strengthen rather than weaken it.

In a Bicentennial speech, he mentioned "tough disputes" of recent U.S. domestic affairs, referring apparently to the Watergate affair and recent sex scandals in Washington.

Addressing the Salzburg summer school for American university students on Monday, Kreisky said America remained true to its 1776 principles when it provided a haven for the persecuted of Europe, including many Austrians, before World War II.

California earthquake

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A light earthquake, estimated at 4 on the Richter Scale, occured in northern California on Monday night, the National Earthquake Information Service reported.

There were no reports of damage from the earthquake, said Leroy Irby of the U.S. Geological Survey.

He said the earthquake, timed at 8:55 p.m. PDT, was centered near Oroville, Calif., directly north of Sacramento.

It was the second earthquake in the area in a month. Another quake, of about the same magnitude, occurred June 14, he said.

"Just more government regulation"

Attorneys rap advertising

By CANDY SMITH

Local lawyers agree, though their reasons may differ, that advertising in the legal profession should remain limited, as is now spelled out by the American Bar Association.

The government has recently attempted to have advertising guidelines by the American Bar Association held in contempt of antitrust laws, and to pass legislation which would release lawyers from ABA guidelines, and, in fact, compel them to advertise.

An antitrust suit filed by the government in the U.S. District Court against the ABA for prohibiting advertising by lawyers this month was filed despite the recent amendment in February by the ABC Committee on Ethics and Professional Responsibility. The amendment was a compromise between a proposal to allow indiscriminate advertising in all media, and another which was less extreme, drawn up by opposing barristers.

I THINK that prohibition of advertising is a good thing," said John Ferguson, Big Spring attorney. "There is a difference between the practice of law and selling shoes. It's against the ethics of law because it's a profession and not a trade."

The government filed the suit saying that guidelines on advertising restrain trade by limiting information about price and availability of services.

"There should be some means whereby the public would know where to go (for legal service)," said Wayne Burns, local certified specialist in family law, "But I'm not sure an antitrust suit is the way to do it."

"Under the present system, many people with a particular legal need may not know whom to contact. But the word (advertising), in the sense that it's ordinarily used, like selling potatoes, is not the way lawyers' should do it," Burns said.

GUILFORD JONES, of the local firm of Jones, Milstead, Jones and McKinney, repeated the opinion that the argument about advertising by attorneys, "goes back to the basic distinction between a profession and a trade."

The general understanding, he said, it that trademen seek and solicit business while professionals do not. Once a professional begins to price his services, then he is forced to compete on price rather than professional ability, which would destroy the legal profession, according to Jones.

"There's no difference between lawyers advertising and a minister advertising for his services," Jones said. "It's part of what is called the socialist trend. Although it's under the guise of protecting the consumer, the aim is to get everyone down to the same level. It's not so prevalent in our part of the country because we have retained a degree of individuality. But in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, etc., people are really in a rebellious mood and many want the destruction of the capitalist system. It's just more government regulation extended to the sphere of the legal profession," Jones said.

ANOTHER VIEW, from Rick Hamby, unopposed candidate for 118th District Attorney, is that much of the recent legislation of this kind stems from Watergate.

"But," he said, "advertising would put lawyers in the exact position that the law practice is trying to purge itself of. The type of person that has his mind on the money-making aspects rather than service is the type that would succeed. The P.T. Barnum type.

"Maybe times are such that we ought to adapt, but I think it would certainly depreciate the profession," he consented.

Indiscriminate advertising would have a lot of bad effects," said Ferguson. "I'm afraid there would be chains of lawyers with an office in every town furnishing forms to a kid just out of law school. It wouldn't be competent legal service."

The amended guidelines spelled out by the ABA permit limited advertising. "The newly-adopted provisions would permit lawyers to publish basic information including initial consultation fees and field of concentration of practice, but only in approved law lists and telephone yellow pages," said the July issue of the Texas Bar Journal.

However, the amended version of the code of ethics must be approved by the membership of the State Bar of Texas before Texas lawyers could advertise in this manner.

"At the present time, this seems unlikely, given the present mood of a large segment of the Bar and the Board of Directors," added the Journal.

FERGUSON SUMMED up part of the mood saying, "There is no way to convey to the public whether a lawyer is good or not (by advertising). At one time lawyers did advertise," he said, "and the results were pretty bad. It would be a step back to have advertising, though I'm not opposed to some sort of designation in a professional manner."

"I'd hate to see the Supreme Court hold that the prohibition of advertising violates the antitrust laws," Ferguson added.

Most of the lawyers here are not members of the ABA, although many do belong to the Texas Bar Association. The government's view that limited advertising comes under the head of restraint of trade is, apparently, not in accordance with those who practice law in Texas.

Heart pump removed, woman remains critical

HOUSTON (AP) — A mechanical heart pumping device that had kept a 44-year-old woman alive for six days was removed Tuesday by surgeons at Texas Heart Institute and she remained in critical condition.

The patient, whose identity was kept secret by institute officials, remained in the intensive care unit Tuesday night.

She is at least the fifth person to have an abdominal left ventricular assist device (LVAD) implanted at the institute since last November.

Although the LVAD was removed, the woman's own heart still was being aided by an intra-aortic balloon assist pump, a hospital official said.

The woman underwent a triple coronary artery bypass operation last Wednesday, but when her surgeons had difficulty getting her own heart functioning the LVAD was implanted.

Requests for information about the patient or previous LVAD implants here have been referred to Dr. Peter Frommer, associate director of the cardiology program of the National Heart and Lung Institute.

At the time human use of the abdominal LVAD was announced by Frommer last October, he said the mechanical device would be used only in last-ditch efforts where patients could not be weaned from the heart-lung machine.

The LVAD is designed to take over half the pumping normally done by the left ventricle, which ordinarily performs about 80 per cent of the heart's work. It is this chamber that most often fails patients who die from cardiac problems.

Reunion slated this Saturday

STANTON — The annual Martin County Old Settlers Reunion will be held on the traditional second Saturday in July this week.

The event gets under way Saturday at 10:30 a.m. with a downtown parade featuring bands, floats, riding units and walking groups. The mystery rider will again be in the parade.

The reunion's theme this year is "Happy Birthday, Uncle Sam." Registration of all former residents will be held in the old James Jones hardware building. Afternoon activities after lunch include a cow chip throwing contest, an old fiddlers' contest and other games and activities.

Classes that plan special reunions at different locations in town are 1926, 1936, 1946, 1951, 1956, and 1966.

The community barbecue will be held at the city park at 6:30 p.m. A program at that time will recognize special persons who have helped with the event, and awards will be presented for the best window decorations and best old-fashioned attire.

A memorial service for those who have died during the past year will be held. There will also be an election of officers for the next reunion.

Coliseum boosts figures

Building total rises

Building permits for the month of June are listed at $192,075, compared to $538,982 for this time last year.

This included $170,000 for an apartment complex, the first permit of this type since the announcement in March of the possibility of Webb's closing.

Thus far, the building permits for the year are above the first six months in 1975, due primarily to the filing of the permit for the coliseum at Howard College early in the year.

The total in 1976 is $3,324,014 compared to $2,122,675 in 1975 through June.

New permits for the month of June include only the apartment complex and a $20,000 building for the Christ Fellowship Center, 3401 11th Pl.

Other permits include eight additions to present residences for a total of $8,450; two permits to move residences for $3,350; one fence permit; three storage buildings for a total of $1,525; two residential enclosures for $500; three reroofings for $1,250; two carports for $950; four commercial additions for $10,200; one fuel tank for $500; one $10,000 demolition job on a commercial location; one $15,000 sign; and one commercial moving permit for $350.

The $15,000 sign will be constructed by First National Bank. The $10,000 demolition project will include buildings south of First Federal Savings.

Israel's cabinet reportedly mulling death for terrorists

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli cabinet is reported considering the death penalty for convicted terrorists so their presence in prison won't lead to attempts to ransom them by hijacking or kidnaping.

"We should give serious thought to this," Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin reportedly told cabinet members who urged death for terrorists in the wake of the hijacking last week by Palestinians and West Germans who demanded the release of 40 prisoners from Israeli jails.

Rabin added, however, that he had not decided whether to advocate that terrorists be hanged.

Israel must "institute additional security measures for Israelis traveling abroad," the prime minister told other leaders of his ruling Labor party at a meeting Tuesday. Although the security screen at Israel's Ben-Gurion International Airport is considered the tightest in the non-Communist world, Rabin said security measures at many European airports are insufficient.

"Security measures in the United States are much more efficient," Rabin said.

The hijackers who took over the Air France jetliner June 27 on a flight from Tel Aviv to Paris boarded the plane in Athens, its first stop en route. Air France subsequently announced that its planes to and from Israel would make no intermediate stops, and the Israeli government told other foreign airlines they might lose their landing rights in Israel if they did not tighten security at other airports.

Rabin, President Ephraim Katzir and most other leaders of Israel were in the huge crowd Tuesday at the funeral of Lt. Col. Yonatan Netanyahu, the only Israeli commando killed during the raid.

40,000 hospital, nursing home workers stage strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 40,000 hospital and nursing home workers struck 34 private hospitals today after contract talks with representatives of hospital management collapsed.

Federal mediator Paul Yager said bargaining broke down shortly after 4:30 a.m. when Local 1199 of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employes continued to demand a cost-of-living increase recommended by a federal fact-finding panel. The League of Voluntary Hospitals refused to consider it.

Union executive secretary Moe Foner said:

"This tragedy could have been averted if the hospitals had accepted the modest recommendations of the federal board of inquiry for a cost-of-living increase."

Outpatient clinics were closed as a result of the strike, and the hospitals were not taking elective surgery. Officials said emergency services had not been affected.

Salaries for the workers range from $181 a week for orderlies, nurses aides, housekeepers, dietary workers, clerical and laundry workers, to about $370 a week for "a handful" of technicians and supervisors, Foner said.

The hospitals claimed there was no money for wage boosts because the state had clamped a limit on Medicaid and Blue Cross payments. State officials said the fiscal crisis in New York made it impossible to provide more money for wage hikes now. The union says economy moves could be made, with the savings going to the workers.

The strike was expected to affect 34 hospitals with 21,000 beds. One hospital is on Long Island; the rest are in New York City. The strike was also expected to involve 3,000 workers in 13 nursing homes and some 1,500 workers at city hospitals who are under affiliation agreements with private hospitals.

Otherwise, the city's 17 hospitals are not expected to be affected and will be capable of taking patients who cannot be cared for in the struck hospitals, officials indicated.

Monahans man gains honor

The "Outstanding Restaurateur of the Permian Basin" is L. C. Spaugh of Monahans, selected by his fellow food service operators of the Permian Basin Restaurant Association for this top honor of 1976.

Spaugh, owner-operator of Colonial Inn & Restaurant, was presented a plaque at the annual awards dinner at the San Antonio Convention Center June 23 which highlighted the 39th annual convention of the Texas Restaurant Association.

He had been voted by his peers of the Permian Basin chapter of TRA as the food service operator who has been most outstanding during the past year in not only his business and association activities but in community, civic, church and charitable activities as well.

At 14, Spaugh entered the business as a dishwasher at McGraw Restaurants of Sherman and Denison. He rapidly advanced to manager and spent 19 years with McGraw before moving to Dallas to work with Cattleman's Restaurants. In 1965 he moved to Monahans and opened the Colonial.

Spaugh recently held a celebration commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Colonial and the Bicentennial. With the prices rolled back to those of 1966, the occasion was such a success that eager customers were lined up outdoors.

A veteran of over 30 years in the TRA, Spaugh serves on the Permian Basin Restaurant Association board of directors. Spaugh and his wife, Jacqueline, have two children.

$34,806,777 is returned

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 21st Congressional District of Texas, which includes Glasscock County, has received $34,806,777 since January 1972 in revenue sharing funds according to Congressman Bob Krueger (D-Tx). The most recent quarterly payment (effective July 6, 1976) totals $2,053,251.

"I have supported the revenue sharing program," Krueger said, "precisely because of the amount of money that has been returned to Texas through the program. I would personally prefer that these monies be raised and spent at the local level," he added.

UTPB sign-up begins today

Registration for the second short summer term at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin is under way today until 6 p.m. Except for a break from noon until 2, registration will be continuous after 9 a.m. Seventy-one courses are offered, plus off-campus courses in Midland, Big Spring, Lamesa, Andrews and Monahans.

Soviets buy soybeans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought another 700,000 metric tons of soybeans worth an estimated $175 million from this year's U.S. crop, the Agriculture Department says.

The sale was announced Tuesday, four days after a previous Russian purchase of 800,000 tons of soybeans for an estimated $200 million for delivery in 1976-77.

In a related development, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday the Soviet Union's grain prospects appear greatly improved over last year's drought-shriveled harvest of 139.9 million metric tons, the smallest in a decade.

Russia's grain harvest this year should be close to the 190 million metric tons that the USDA tentatively forecast June 22, a USDA official said.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Three U.S. crop experts have just returned from an 18-day tour of seven Soviet grain-producing districts, and the USDA plans to issue a new analysis on Soviet grain Friday.

The Soviet grain crop planted last fall suffered major damage during the winter, but there are indications the surviving acreage has recovered well in some key areas. The balance of Soviet grain comes from crops planted in the spring.

Last year's short crop forced the Soviet Union to buy foreign grain, including 16.5 million tons of wheat and corn from last year's U.S. harvest.

The Soviets also have purchased about 2.2 million tons of American wheat and corn for delivery after Oct. 1. They are expected to order more later in the season.

Soybean prices have jumped in recent months because of rising domestic and export demands. Processed soybeans provide edible oil and high-protein meal for livestock feed.

DAVID LOUDER

FFA to honor Stanton youth at convention

STANTON — David Louder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Louder of Stanton, has been notified that he will be awarded the Santa Fe Education Award at the State FFA Convention in Dallas on July 15. The award consists of a trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri, November 9 through 12 with expenses paid.

Louder will also serve as Area II FFA president at Dallas during the State FFA Convention and will compete in the finals for the State FFA Public Speaking Contest to be held during the convention.

He was elected Area II president a the area convention held May 7 at Lamesa High School. Louder was selected as one of the ten outstanding FFA members in Texas in February and was recognized at the San Antonio Stock Show at an awards banquet. He has served as chapter officer, district president 1974-75, Area II vice-president 1975-76, and will serve as Area II president in 1976-77.

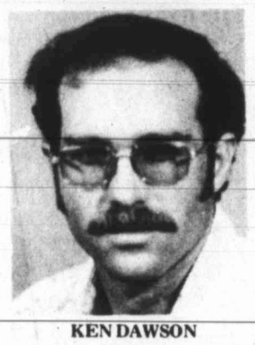

Dawson takes SCS post here

Ken Dawson, who has been employed by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) since graduation from Texas Tech in 1971, started work as district conservationist here Tuesday.

He replaced Jack Elrod, who moved to become district conservationist in Edinburg, Tex.

Dawson was working for the SCS in Houston at the time of his promotion. He also served as a soil conservationist in Brownwood, Lubbock and Spur.

Born in Lubbock, Dawson was reared on an irrigated farm in Lamb County, and graduated from Springlake Earth High School. His bachelor of science degree was earned in agronomy.

KEN DAWSON

His wife, the former Nancy Nix, of Sudan, Tex. graduated from Texas Tech in 1971 with a major in home economics.

Her interests include refinishing antiques, and her husband likes woodworking, hunting and fishing.

July 15 is the deadline for certifying cotton with the Howard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Those with an effective cotton allotment who did not plant cotton must certify zero being planted by the deadline.

Farm markets

Profit taking following recent advances depressed futures prices, but renewed demand caused prices to rebound.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16-inch spot cotton advanced 200 points to 86.84 cents a pound Tuesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $1.30 to $5.00 a bale lower than the previous close. July 90.30, Oct. 92.10, and Dec. 87.60.

Death trial testimony to resume

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Testimony was to resume today in the murder trial of former Castroville City Marshal Frank Hayes, accused of the shotgun slaying of a man allegedly in his custody.

Hayes is charged with murder in connection with the 1975 death of Richard Morales, 27.

Six witnesses gave more than four hours of testimony in State District Court Tuesday in the trial that was moved to San Angelo on a change of venue.

The witnesses included Hayes' son-in-law, Morales' wife, two men who said they were at the scene the night of the shooting and two law enforcement officers who investigated the case.

Maria Morales, wife of the victim, testified that the night of the shooting Donald McCall, Castroville deputy, and Steve Worthy, a friend of McCall from San Antonio, came to her home at 10:45 p.m. She said McCall called Morales outside and handcuffed him.

Mrs. Morales said that was the last time she saw her husband.

According to Dennis Dunford of San Antonio, now married to Hayes' daughter, he and Hayes followed McCall's car down U.S. 90 and another road to a small gravel road known as Old Dunley School Road.

Dunford said the other men then got out of the two cars and, while McCall took the handcuffs off Morales, Worthy handed a 12-gauge shotgun to Hayes.

Hayes and Morales then walked away and, when they were out of his range of vision, Dunford said he heard one shot.

Hayes then took him back to the scene and asked for help in putting Morales' body into the back seat of the car. Dunford said Hayes told him, "five or six times" the shooting was an accident.

Worthy testified that after serving two theft warrants on Morales, Hayes arrived.

Worthy testified Hayes said, "Richard, you're a thieving son-of-a-bitch and I'm gonna kill your ass." He also testified that at the shooting scene, Hayes had said, "I've killed one Mexican and I'm gonna kill another."

Federal appeals court rebuffs manufacturers of Red Dye

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has rebuffed manufacturers of Red Dye No. 2 who wanted to continue using the synthetic coloring, which the government suspects may be a weak cancer-causing agent.

The U.S. Court of Appeals on Tuesday upheld the Food and Drug Administration's 5-monthold ban on Red Dye No. 2, the nation's most widely used artificial coloring for foods, drugs and cosmetics until last year.

The three-judge panel upheld a federal judge who gave the FDA permission in February to ban future use of the coloring. The FDA did not order a recall of products containing the dye already on the shelves.

OUT BY A FOOT — Houston Astros' third baseman Enos Cabell (23) tagged on the foot in the eighth inning by New York Mets' catcher Jerry Grote (15) Tuesday night in Houston's Astrodome. Cabell tried to score from second as teammate Rob Andrews grounded sharply to the shortstop, Bud Harrelson, who went to first for the front end of the double play. Mets' first baseman Ed Kranepool came home to Grote to catch Cabell for the end of the double play.

Walks 10 in 10

Wild Richard skunks Mets

HOUSTON (AP) — J.R. Richard had trouble with his control but fortunately for Houston, everything bounced right for the Astros.

Richard walked 10 New York Mets batters before Jerry DaVanon's infield chop bounced over a drawn-in infield to score Wilbur Howard from third base and give the Astros a 1-0 victory over the Mets Tuesday night.

The 10 walks tied a major league record for a 10-inning shutout as Richard, 8-9, picked up his first whitewash job of the season.

New York starter Jon Matlack, who earlier in the day was named to the National League All-Star team, hurled nine shutout innings for the Mets before reliever Skip Lockwood came on to pitch the fatal 10th inning.

Howard led off the inning with a sharp single which Lockwood fielded and threw wide to first base for a two-base error, allowing Howard to advance to third base.

DaVanon followed with a high chop single over Mets shortstop Bud Harrelson's head and Howard raced home with the game's only run.

"Fortunately, J.R. was getting outs," Houston Manager Bill Virdon said. "I never even thought about taking him out."

New York squandered many scoring changes against Richard, leaving a major league record 15 men on base in 10-inning shutout. Richard walked three men in each of the seventh and eighth innings, but was able to come up with the big out on each occasion.

"I thought Bill (Virdon) was going to take me out a couple of times," Richard said, "but I wasn't surprised when he didn't. I threw more pitches tonight than I have in any one game this season.

"I don't think I could have gone much longer."

Richard survived the rough going without the aid of Houston reliever Ken Forsch, who also was named Tuesday to the NL's All-Star pitching staff.

Forsch, on the team for the first time, warmed up briefly in the seventh inning but did not get into the game.

"I've been having a pretty good year but I was trying not to worry about getting picked to the team," Forsch said. "Relief pitchers don't usually get picked to the team."

Americans having problems

Early lead to unknowns

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Christy O'Connor Jr. of Ireland and Norio Suzuki, a Japanese golfer playing outside his native country for the first time, shot three-under-par 69s today for the early first-round lead in the British Open Golf Championship.

O'Connor, a British Ryder Cup player, was the first finisher on the 7,001-yard, par-72 course which was playing tough for the majority of early finishers. The Irishman made the turn in two-under-par 32 but then fell victim to a triple-bogey eight on No. 13.

Suzuki, 24, went out in one-over 35, then charged home with five birdies, three of them in a row. On the back nine he opened with a par four on the 10th, then shot two birdies—a three on No. 11 and a two on 12. His three straight birdies were a four on 15, three on 16 and a four on 17.

The Japanese would have taken the lead but he missed the 18th green and took a bogey six.

Brian Barnes, another British Ryder Cupper, was in at 70.

U.S. pro Tom Kite was two under par after nine with a 32. He fired three birdies on the first five holes, but took a bogey five on the ninth.

Jack Nicklaus, a two-time British Open winner, was one of those having trouble with the course, made tougher by a tricky breeze. He bogeyed the first two par-four holes, made a birdie on the par-three fourth and was one over after five holes.

Gary Player, the 1974 Open champion, got home in even-par 72 and said, "I played better than I scored."

But Arnold Palmer, who last won the Open in 1962, struggled in with a 75. "All the mistakes I made were costly ones," said Palmer, who opened his round with a bogey five.

A disgusted Hale Irwin finished at 74 in a round which he described as "terribly pitiful, horrendous. I'm a little bit discouraged. It wasn't so much shot execution—just stupidity."

Olympic woes seethe until Saturday setto

MONTREAL (AP) — While one member of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) calls for the cancelation or transfer of the Montreal Games, Lord Killanin sits tight and weighs his alternatives.

Killanin, the unflappable Irishman who heads the IOC, said Tuesday he will make no move on the explosive Taiwan situation before Saturday, when a meeting of the IOC's nine-member executive board is scheduled to convene. He also said he would have no further statements on the affair before Saturday.

Allan MacEachen, external affairs minister, said Tuesday that Taiwan's 52-member contingent would not get past the Montreal airport without assurances that Taiwan will not compete as the Republic of China.

Canada, which recognizes the People's Republic of China (Mainland China), could refuse to issue passports to the Taiwanese, who are to leave for Montreal on Thursday.

Shen Chai-ming, president of the Republic of China Olympic Committee, said the delegation would travel under its official name — the Republic of China.

That places the two sides at loggerheads, and if Canada doesn't budge, then Conte Jean de Beaumont says the Games should be moved or canceled.

De Beaumont, a past vice president of the IOC and former president of France's Olympic committee, said in a telegram to the IOC here that he was "greatly disturbed.

The IOC says, as a matter of principle, that sportsmen from all over the world must be admitted to the Olympics, regardless of political labels.

Looking like $ million

Blue blanks Baltimore

By The Associated Press

Vida Blue looked like a million-dollar pitcher Tuesday night but the Oakland A's still have Blue and the New York Yankees still have their $1.5 million.

Making his second start after three weeks of Charlie Finley-enforced idleness following his voided controversial sale from the A's to the Yankees, Blue hurled the A's to a six-hit 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. It was his first victory since June 6 and his 23rd career shutout.

"It was my best game of the season," said Blue, who evened his record at 7-7.

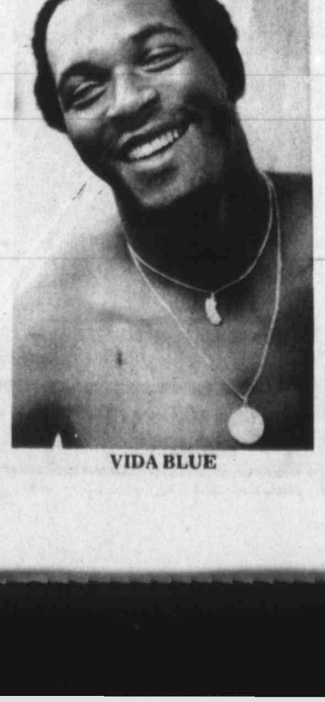

In other American League games, the Kansas City Royals split with the Yankees, winning 3-1, then losing 7-4; the Texas Rangers edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2, the Boston Red Sox blanked the Chicago White Sox 4-0, the Cleveland Indians trimmed the California Angels 7-3 and the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Minnesota Twins 6-2.

Blue had to be good in outdueling Baltimore ace Jim Palmer, who also allowed six hits. The A's scored in the fourth inning on Don Baylor's single, a stolen base and a single by Gene Tenace. They got their other run in the eighth on a walk, a double by Baylor, an intentional walk to Joe Rudi and a bases-loaded walk to Tenace.

Blue's best was a 2-2 pitch on which Reggie Jackson became his ninth strikeout victim.

Royals 3-4, Yankees 1-7

Roy White delivered a tie-breaking two-run single and Chris Chambliss added a decisive three-run homer as the Yankees erupted for five runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap. In the opener, Kansas City's Doug Bird and Steve Mingori combined to pitch a three-hitter and the Royals came from behind on run-scoring singles by John Mayberry and Hal McRae in the sixth inning.

Jones heads NL staff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southpaws Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, who have a combined record of 25-5 this season, will head the National League's eight-man pitching staff at next Tuesday's All-Star baseball game.

The other pitchers, chosen Tuesday by Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, include Tom Seaver of the Mets, Andy Messersmith of Atlanta, Woodie Fryman of Montreal, Ken Forsch of Houston, John Montefusco of San Francisco, and Rick Rhoden of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

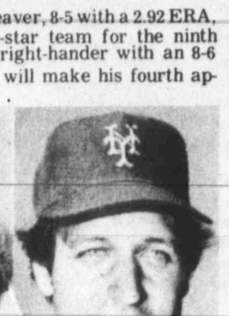

Jones, who will be making his second all-star appearance, is the winningest pitcher in the major leagues this year with a 15-3 record and a 2.51 earned run average in 165 innings.

Matlack, who has put together a 10-2 mark and ERA of 2.61, will be making his third all-star appearance.

Right-hander Tom Seaver, 8-5 with a 2.92 ERA, was named to the all-star team for the ninth time. Messersmith, a right-hander with an 8-6 record and 2.37 ERA, will make his fourth appearance. Lefty Woodie Fryman, also 8-6 with a 3.71 ERA, will be playing in his second all-star game.

JON MATLACK

Three right-handers — Rhoden, Forsch and Montefusco — will be playing in the midseason classic for the first time. Rhoden is 8-0 with a 2.77 ERA while Forsch, a reliever with a 1-2 record and 1.94 ERA, has 14 saves this year.

John "The Count" Montefusco, last season's rookie of the year, is 7-8 with a 3.25 ERA.

The American League pitching staff was named earlier by Boston Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson, who will manage the AL team.

His selections include Mark Fidrych of Detroit, Catfish Hunter and Sparky Lyle of the New York Yankees, Frank Tanana of the California Angels, Bill Travers of Milwaukee, Dave LaRoche of Cleveland, Luis Tiant of Boston, Rollie Fingers of Oakland and Rich Gossage of the Chicago White Sox.

Midland Colts win, Cards finish fourth

The Midland Colts won the Fort Stockton Bicentennial Baseball Tournament and the Big Spring Cardinals finished fourth among the 10-team field.

Midland trounced the Odessa Dorados 19-2 Monday night in the championship game, but many observers, including the tournament director, thought the Colts key win was against the Cards on Sunday.

Robert Schaffer, who pitches for the Texas Longhorns, locked horns with Frankie Rubio, who pitches for the Big Spring Steers, in a real pitching duel that was undecided right up until the last out.

Jody Flores drilled a tape-measure drive over the center field fence to open the scoring in the top of the third. The Colts came back in the bottom of the inning with a pair to take a 2-1 lead.

Joe Martinez singled two runs across in the top of the fifth to put the Cards back in front. Midland rallied, with the help of a Card error, for two runs in the bottom of the sixth to regain the lead.

Big Spring threatened in the final inning (the seventh), but it couldn't crack through Schaffer for any more runs.

Cards	001	020	0—3 8 2
Colts	002	002	x—4 5 0

Big Spring beat the Odessa Stars Saturday afternoon in their opening game 6-3 behind the two-hit pitching of Fernando Urista.

Julio Guerro smacked a double and Sammy Rodriquez led the Cards' six-hit attack with two singles.

Stars	000	300	0—3 2 2
Cards	012	003	x—6 6 0

The Cardinals pulled out the lumber for their first consolation game Sunday night and clobbered the Fort Stockton Sonics 15-9.

Sammy Rodriquez led Big Spring's 16-hit assault smacking two home runs, including a grand slam in the fifth inning, and a single. Billy Pineda and Ernie Garcia also chalked up three hits each against Sonic pitching. Frankie Rubio blasted a two-run homer in the second frame.

Jody Flores scattered six hits to pick up the win.

Sonic	000	432	0—9 6 3
Cards	530	043	x—15 16 1

The rain storms set the tourney schedule back and some of the Cards went home after the opening game leaving nine players to finish the tourney. The remaining nine played well in their loss to Midland and their romp over the Sonics, but their play began to unravel against the Fort Stockton Blue Sox.

Big Spring committed six errors in the consolation final Monday allowing the Sox, a team the Cards beat twice during the regular season, to edge the Cards 8-7.

Rubio's arm was stiff so Flores hurled his second straight game and held the Sox to five hits but with the Cards' erratic fielding that wasn't good enough.

The Cards almost pulled the game out in the last inning. Garcia, the leading hitter in the tourney with eight hits, rifled a two-run homer over the left field fence to pull the Cards within three 8-5.

Tony Martinez knocked in a run to narrow it to two and Billy Pineda plated him with a double. Pineda died on second though and the Cards had to settle for fourth place.

Cards	201	000	4—7 7 6
Blue Sox	000	332	x—8 5 1

Ernie Garcia and Sammy Rodriquez were elected to the all-tournament team. Garcia, besides leading the tourney with eight hits, had nine runs-batted-in.

The San Angelo Lions host the Cardinals for a doubleheader Sunday afternoon game time 1:30.

Star snub has Palmer stewing over choices

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles, passed over for this year's American League All-Star pitching staff, says Boston Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson made "some ridiculous appointments" to the team.

"It's a little upsetting that this is the way the All-Starpitchers are chosen. I think this may be the reason the National League wins every year," said the two-time Cy Young Award winner.

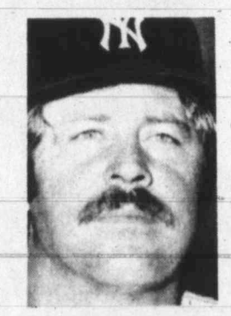

Palmer went on to call Johnson "an idiot" for selecting three relief pitchers among the nine-man bullpen.

Johnson, when asked about Palmer's statement Tuesday night, said, "Who cares. I certainly don't."

Johnson said American League President Lee Mac-Phail, and the managers who will work the All-Star game — Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson and Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, discussed the selections prior to the announcement.

Palmer, 10-7, with an earned run average of 3.10 this season, has an identical won-lost record as Yankee pitcher Catfish Hunter, who was selected for the All-Star team. Both pitchers have five 20-game seasons to their credit.

Joining Hunter on the American League pitching staff will be Detroit's rookie sensation Mark Fidrych, Frank Tanana of California, Bill Travers of Milwaukee, Dave LaRoche of Cleveland, Luis Tiant of Boston, Rollie Fingers of Oakland, Rich Gossage of the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees' Sparky Lyle.

CATFISH HUNTER

'I don't have that good a record'

"The major error he (Johnson) made was naming Hunter," Palmer said.

"If he names Hunter, why didn't he name Palmer? I don't really think I deserve to go because there are a lot of other guys who are having better years," Palmer said.

"I think he named Hunter from his past records. If he checks lifetimes and who won Cy Young Awards, he'll find I've won more and had a better year last year. I suppose if he deserves to go, then so do I," he said.

Hunter agreed that he didn't deserve the All-Star assignment.

"I was picked for the team so I'll be there," Hunter said. "I don't know why I was picked, I don't have that good a record."

Both Palmer and Hunter won 23 games last year. But Palmer, who won the Cy Young Award, had only 11 loses while Hunter had 14. Palmer also received the Cy Young in 1973.

Hero roles for underdogs

Win staves dis-Barr-ment

ERLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Steve Barr—6.27 earned run average—and Joe Lahoud—.168 batting average. Two more unlikely heroes could hardly be found but they performed like All-Stars for the Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

"I've never once been on the All-Star ballot in my career. Every year I get two write-in votes—my mother and my brother," said Lahoud, whose two-out double scored Toby Harrah from first base in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the Rangers a 3-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Meanwhile Barr was pitching a six-hitter, including just one Detroit safety in the last five innings, to pick up his first victory since April 13, when he tossed a four-hitter against the Oakland A's. He now stands 2-4.

"The underdogs did it tonight—Steve Barr and Joe Lahoud," said Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi. "Of all the games we've had this year, I've never rooted harder for a player than I did tonight for Barr."

Lucchesi, admitted that he had become concerned about Barr's continued string of bad outings, added, "He pitched that great game against Oakland, and in the back of your mind you have to remember that. You have to think that he can do it again."

Barr and Detroit starter Vern Ruhle, who also pitched a six-hitter in defeat, had battled with the score tied 2-2 since the fourth inning, when Harrah walked with two outs in the eighth. Then Lahoud, with three infielders on the right side of second base, lined a hanging Ruhle curveball into the alley in right centerfield, scoring Harrah all the way from first.

Then Barr gave up a single to Aurellio Rodriguez, the only hit he allowed for the final five innings, before retiring the side in the ninth.

Diablos nip Amarillo, Cubs, San Antone split

By The Associated Press

El Paso increased its Texas League West lead to five games Tuesday night as the Diablos' Rance Mulliniks waited until the last inning to score the winning run in their 2-1 victory over Amarillo.

In other games, San Antonio won the first game of a doubleheader with Midland 3-2 and dropped the nightcap 7-0, and Jackson swept two games from Shreveport 9-6 and 1-0. Arkansas at Lafayette was rained out.

El Paso's John Caneria hurled three-hitter at Amarillo as he carded his ninth victory with one loss. Loser Roger Coe also pitched three-hit ball but lost when Mulliniks tripled in the ninth inning and scored on a sacrifice fly.

In Shreveport, the Jackson Mets exploded for four runs in the first inning of the first game and added three more in the fourth when Terry Ervin belted a homer with two on. Jackson's Mardie Cornejo, 3-3, picked up his victory in relief while Shreveport starter Doug Nelson, 6-5, took the loss.

In the second game the Mets' Tom Deidel strangled the Captains on five hits until Luis Rosado could slap a double in the eighth and drive home the winning run. Deidel is now 1-1 for the season.

San Antonio's Mike Reedy drove in two runs, including the winning run in the eighth inning, to give Bobby Cuellar his fourth victory with three losses.

In the nightcap, Wayne Doland held San Antonio to four hits as he worked his way to a 9-4 record. Midland's Scott Thompson drove in three runs on two singles.

Tonight's schedule has only one game — Jackson at Shreveport.

Ranching heritage

with Marj Carpenter

T. P. Fowler and D. C. Fowler were among the guests at the Renderbrook-Spade "Evening at the Ranch" last week in Mitchell County and those two gentlemen know a lot of Mitchell County area history.

Their grandfather was Daniel Webster Wallace. He was born a slave in Victoria County in 1860. The Emancipation Proclamation was signed in 1865 and his mother moved with the O'Daniel family to Flatonia.

She stayed with the family she had previously worked for and headed west. The small boy named Daniel Webster went along.

He grew up working on ranches and when he was old enough, he went along on a cattle drive to Buffalo Gap with Sam Galson. He worked on the Galson-Dunn Ranch near Jim Ned Creek. In 1876, when Wallace was 16 years old, a fellow named Nunn came from Washington County to Jim Ned Creek with a herd of cattle.

The ranchers who had arrived earlier weren't wanting Nunn to stop at their creek. Part of his cowboys quit and went back to Washington County.

Galson sent Wallace and James Green along with Nunn who drove onward through Nolan County, Northeast Mitchell County and stopped at Sand Rock Springs 10 miles east of Snyder.

It was the first herd of cattle driven into Scurry County. Green continued to work for Nunn for 20 years. Wallace went to work for Clay Mann at a ranch located in Southeast Mitchell County.

Eventually, he obtained his own ranch land and became the first black man to own ranch land in West Texas. The family owns 12 ½ sections.

Daniel Webster Wallace decided when he was 25-years-old that he wanted to learn to read and write. He got on his horse and went to Navaro where he heard he could get "some schooling." It was there that he met and married his wife, Laura Owen.

The Fowler boys are double cousins since their fathers were brothers and their mothers were Wallace girls. There were three Wallace girls in all, including Mrs. Mary Fowler, who died; Mrs. Eula Harris, who was a Fowler and has remarried and Mrs. Hettie Branch, who resides three miles southeast of Loraine. There was one son, Carson Wallace.

There are four grandchildren, including the two Fowler boys and Mrs. Vonceil Mews, Dallas and Mrs. Elaine McMighaes, Los Angeles, Calif.

The Wallace School in Colorado City was named for Daniel Webster Wallace. Wallace died in 1937. His wife died in 1950. "He was proud of having that school named for him, because he thought highly of education," his grandsons stated.

When the school was closed recently, it was turned into an adult education and recreational center, has been remodeled and is still very much in use in Colorado City. And the family is still very much a part of the ranching heritage of Mitchell County.

I was glad to meet members of a family that have contributed so much to the ranching history of the area — when I was out last week — ridin' fence.

Cuts corners

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Cliff Baxter sent her 8-year-old son Bobby to mail a letter. He soon returned and handed her some change.

"But the money was for the stamp," Mrs. Baxter pointed out.

"Oh, I didn't have to buy a stamp," the boy said proudly. "I put the letter in the box when nobody was looking."

$10,000 grant is approved

COLORADO CITY — A $10,000 grant was approved for the Colorado City Housing Authority last week.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development approved the grant for modernization of low rent public housing units operated by the local housing authority.

Dennis Walding, director of Colorado City Housing Authority, said that 50 of the older units are to be updated in such areas as sidewalks, porch and soffit repair, replacing some windows and window units and purchase of some new ranges and refrigerators.

The 30 units near the hospital, designated Henderson Heights, Delaney Circle and the 20 units on College Avenue named Champion Terrece are the part of the housing authority which will get the modernization.

Wine pro ignores money

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The burglar who broke into a posh restaurant certainly showed discriminating taste. He chose 17 bottles of the finest vintage from a rack of 5,300 bottles of wine.

Police said Monday that a burglar made off with $3,000 worth of rare wines from the Down Under, which was closed Sunday for the Fourth of July.

"There is no question that the robber came here strictly for those wines," said Leonce Picot, co-owner of the tavern. "He ignored the money in the cash registers and in the safe upstairs. He took strictly the best."

Picot said an inventory of the wine cellar showed that two bottles of 1899 Chateau Margaux, each valued at $1,000 on the tavern's wine list, and a 1900 Chateau Margaux, were missing.

Picot said he believed the burglar was "a wine nut" or a thief who had already lined up a wine collector to buy the hot grape.

However, he added that some of the wines were too old to be enjoyed and were kept for their novelty.

Male birth control tests

Nice work if you can get it

HOUSTON (AP) — Twenty super-healthy men between the ages of 20 and 40 are needed by the Baylor College of Medicine for tests of a possible male birth control method.

The research program will involve weekly injections of the male hormone testosterone during a three-month period, and then shots every three weeks for nine months.

Dr. Glenn Cunningham, chief of endocrinology at the Veterans Administration Hospital here and assistant professor of medicine at Baylor, said Monday the project would determine if testosterone is acceptable, feasible and low in toxicity as a male contraceptive.

He said researchers have talked about the need for a completely reversible, effective and safe male birth control method for years, but to date only the condom has fit the criteria.

The scientist said it would appear easy to find 20 volunteers, but the men chosen must be "in exceptionally good health" and willing to stay in the program for 18 months, including preshot checkups and final evaluations.

"The need for an acceptable, reversible and safe male contraceptive is especially apparent for younger men who may still wish to have children and are not willing to consider a vasectomy," he said.

Testosterone has been recognized as a suppressor of testicular functions since the 1930s, Cunningham said, "but scientists didn't follow through with those early leads as far as a male contraceptive."

Earlier research has shown, he said, that when given in certain amounts, testosterone "has a low toxicity or few side effects, and that is very important to us."

Joining Cunningham in the project is Dr. Peter Kohler, chief of endocrinology and professor of medicine and cell biology at Baylor.

The work is being funded by a $100,000 grant from the National Institutes of Health.

Parking fuss ends in death

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Police said one man was shot to death and another was booked on suspicion of murder after an argument over where a car was parked.

Robert Bradley, 27, was killed. He was hit in the chest by a .32 caliber bullet.

Officers booked Luellen Survine, 62, an invalid. The two were neighbors in a double home.

Police said witnesses reported that Bradley parked his car in the yard in front of the house Monday night and Survine, who was sitting in a wheelchair on the front porch, yelled at him not to park there.

A VESTED INTEREST — Smart girls will have a vested interest in the menswear look this fall and winter.

WORKING WELL — Working well for fall and winter is the long muffler in a brilliant range of authentic tartan plaids.

Plaids "in" fall

Tartans are having a fashion fling for the Fall-Winter '76 season.

They will be turning up in a myriad of ways, from scarf squares to ponchos, in the authentic patternings of the Scottish clans.

The poncho is a practical and chic way to wrap up the multi-layered dressing that will be going on beneath. Slipped lightly over the head, and equally light-in-weight to-wear, this is the wise way to dress for the elements and still look smashing. Plaids are going strong and are going to be very big this fall, said Swartz Department store here. "They've been coming in for several seasons, but now they're really catching on. There's also going to be a lot of corduroy this winter."

It's not like the mid-calf length dresses. It will catch on immediately," said Andrew Swartz.

Long flings also turn up in tartans, to toss under the collar of the ubiquitous wrappy coat for added elan, to wrap for beautiful bulk around the turtle neck of sweaterings, even to sash a waistline above cigarette trousers, fullish skirts or mid-long culottes and bermudas.

Companion pieces, too, are the tartan vests, no hard-core menswear in appearance, but an amusing borrowing of the haberdasher look with a fine edge of femininity achieved through braid bindings which pick up a color in the plaiding.

Dear Abby

Why medical bills are like car payments

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that her husband had gone to a doctor six years ago and had a complete physical examination. The doctor told him he needed an operation. She said her husband never had the operation and never went back, and he's never felt better in his life.

This reminds me of the following:

Doctor to Patient: "You're in bad shape. You should have an operation."

Patient: "How much will it cost?"

Doc: "Eight thousand dollars."

Patient: "Gee, Doc, you know I don't have that kind of money."

Doc: "I'll make it easy for you. Give me $3,000 down and pay me $100 a month until the bill is paid."

Patient: "That's just like buying a new car."

Doc: "I am."

NO DOPE IN N.J.

DEAR ABBY: I have put off writing to you long enough. I have fallen out of love with my husband. We've been married for eight years, we have two beautiful, healthy children and a nice home. I don't have to work, I have a car of my own, and from all outside appearances I have it made.

My husband is a good father, is generous and is easy to live with and I know he loves me, but I am sick to death of faking it in the bedroom. I just don't feel a thing for him romantically. I respect him and I really like him, but he's more like a big brother than a husband.

I haven't told him how I feel because I just hate to hurt him. He's such a decent guy. He really deserves better than a wife who can't return his love. We talk about everything but this. Please help me.

TIRED OF ACTING

DEAR TIRED: Tell your husband that you and he should see a marriage counselor. Then do it. If you can't work through the problems that have made you more of a "sister" than a loving wife, level with him. You're right. He deserves better. And there's much more to marriage than you're getting.

DEAR ABBY: I have something to say to HISTORY BUFF who claims that a double-wedding ring ceremony has no meaning. According to him, his old German Bible (1888) says the wedding ring signifies that a woman is no longer a free and independent person, but she's in bondage to her husband. She owes him obedience as a subject owes obedience to his master.

Well, in MY book, a double-ring ceremony joins a man and woman together in holy matrimony as equals.

So, HISTORY BUFF, stick it in your ear and blow it through your nose. For your information, I am only 12, and I plan to have a double-ring ceremony whether you like it or not!

A STRONG VIEW AT 12

DEAR STRONG VIEW: My guess is you're speaking for the second generation of women's libbers, right?

Refusal to hire women may result in cutback

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration is threatening to cut off funds to South Carolina's Highway Patrol because state officials refuse to hire women troopers.

LEAA officials said Monday they will hold a hearing to determine whether funds should be withheld from the South Carolina Highway Patrol. No time or place for the hearing have been set.

Federal law requires state and local agencies receiving LEAA money to comply with federal civil rights laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race, religion or sex.

In Columbia, S.C., the commander of the state's highway patrol said Monday that LEAA's threats to cut off funds "don't mean much" because the federal money — $93,967 in 1975 — is only a small portion of the patrol's budget. LEAA is "not in a position to tell us what to do," Col. P. F. Thompson said.

Thompson said he believes "females have a certain right to perform jobs in law enforcement, but not as uniformed line officers. The type of work a patrolman has to do would put a female in dangerous situations. I don't want to be blamed if something happens to them.

"I've been with the patrol for 35 years, and I've had to fight for my life with unruly drunks. Now, what would a 100-pound female do in that situation?"

In a statement, LEAA officials said they are preparing "a comprehensive analysis of the utilization of women as state troopers in all 50 states" for use at the hearing.

LEAA said 11 states use women as state patrol officers and other states "have undertaken intensified efforts to recruit women."

LEAA has the power to cut off funds, but has not done so in the past.

The department has filed civil suits against state police departments in Maryland, New Jersey, Michigan and Delaware for allegedly discriminating against women in their employment practices.

In the South Carolina case, LEAA officials chose to initiate proceedings to withhold funds, instead of referring the case immediately to the department, and the Justice Department official said this may "signal a tougher compliance policy" at LEAA.

Willie's son born June 27

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Willie, 1615 Shell, Midland, are the parents of a boy born at 10:39 a.m. June 27.

Robert Fulton Willie weighed 6 pounds, 6 ounces. His mother is the former Cheryl Whittington. Grandparents of the child are Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Whittington, Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Willie, Fond Du Lac, Wisconsin. The grandparents visited in Midland with the family.

July Fourth babies born

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Goci can both claim Bicentennial babies when conversation centers on the nation's 200th birthday. Both couples had babies born on the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Smith, 1205 W. 2nd, told all her friends that the baby would be born on July 4th, although the baby wasn't due until the 11th. She said that she was going to be tricky and take castor oil, which she heard induced labor. The couple was surprised when she went into labor naturally without the aid of the castor oil.

"We wanted the first Bicentennial baby," said Mrs. Smith. "We were going to name the baby Liberty, but changed our minds. We weren't sure if she would want that name. My husband picked out the name Stephanie Autumn. The baby was born at 4:50 a.m. at Medical Arts Hospital, and weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces.

Mrs. Smith's father, Harold Gilliam, Austin, also has a birthday on the Fourth of July. "He was thrilled when he heard about the baby," said Mrs. Smith.

Smith is an iron worker presently employed at the building site of the Howard College coliseum.

Lt. and Mrs. Michael Goci were expecting their baby on July 9, and had no special plans for the Fourth.

"We thought the baby would come later," said Mrs. Goci. She added that they were quite happy that the baby was born on the Fourth. The Goci's, 1903 Morrison, also had thoughts about giving the baby an Independence Day related name, but changed their minds. The baby is Kristen Ann, and she was born at 5:56 p.m. at Malone-Hogan hospital. She weighed six pounds, one ounce.

Goci is an instructor pilot at Webb. Mrs. Goci was employed with Howard College as a computer programming instructor.

Tune family celebrates 4th with reunion

The Tune family, originally from O'Donnell, celebrated the Bicentennial with a family reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tune, Big Spring, over the July 4th weekend.

The five children of Rufus and Beaulah Tune and their spouses reunited for the first time in eighteen years for the weekend. Children and spouses are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tune, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fritz, Denver, Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tune, Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Burl Tune, Pomana, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tune, Big Spring.

Other members of the family attending were the Dick Tunes, Lamesa; the Johnny Tunes, Oklahoma City; The Jimmy Tunes, Abilene; the Kent Brownsbergers, San Dimas, Calif.; Emerson Campbell, St. Louis, Mo.; Tom Campbell and Mike Campbell, Champaign, Ill.; Linda Harp and Larry Don Harp, Forsan and Tommy Tune, Austin.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is not the time to get involved in any arguments or discussions since some unfortunate events are apt to follow. With tact and diplomacy you are able to gain the goodwill of one you have wanted to impress for a long time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) You have obligations to meet and should not try to avoid them now. Show you are dependable instead. Try to make a loved one happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use extreme care in carrying out promises you made to associates and gain their cooperation and goodwill. Don't annoy one who opposes you or there is real trouble. Be calm.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Evaluate your workload carefully and tackle the most important part of it first. Plan your time well so you do not get overtired, confused.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to spend too much on recreation. You really can't afford it yet and you could regret it later. Being critical of mate brings much disharmony. Be more charming, sweeter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Turn conversation to whatever is pleasant since the opposite could have unpleasant results. Find causes of disharmony at home and quietly get rid of the cause. A little humor helps a great deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study money status well and don't commit yourself to anything risky, whether it be a small or big matter. Choose your words carefully and avoid friction with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Money problems arise. Refrain from making any commitments today. Keep your mind clear for some sudden eventuality may need careful handling. Take no chances with credit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to help one who is having troubles instead of adding to woes. Be tactful where social matters are concerned and avoid arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some secret desire you have is not for you so forget it and stick with the tried and true. An unpleasant matter should be thoroughly investigated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Try to help friends more today and gain their goodwill and understanding for your problems, too. Some group affair is apt to be troublesome, so use tact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your business interests and weed out those that are no longer useful. Try to understand what a bigwig suggests and follow his ideas and advice. Get good results.

pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There is no worse day than this to get into some new interest, so keep busy at whatever you are presently working on. Don't be forced into anything by an overly dynamic person.

Consumer protection

Jim Eppler, president of the Better Business Bureau of the South Plains, Inc. has announced that the 18-county consumer protection organization now has available an inward WATS line number to service the entire area. This innovation brings Bureau services as near as the telephone to the people of the South Plains.

Last year, the organization was expanded from a Lubbock oriented operation to one capable of serving the entire South Plains. Consumers in Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cochron, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Gaines, Dawson and Borden counties are asked to call 1-800-692-4466 when they need information regarding purchases, investments or contributions. The bureau can be instrumental in solving consumer complaints.

Malcolm T. Cleland, executive vice-president and general manager of the bureau said: "The bureau exists because the business community believes that it is best qualified to correct abuses in the market-place. Legitimate business wants to provide all the help necessary for customers to get satisfaction for their money.

"More people each year use BBBs for consumer information and protection than all the other consumer agencies combined. Now, because we are linked with the entire South Plains through our WATs line, we feel that we will serve the consumer in even greater numbers than ever," he further stated.

Card of Thanks

In sincere appreciation, we would like to thank the many friends and relatives for the flowers, food and their expression of sympathy in our time of bereavement from the passing of our loved one, Walker Merrick. We are especially grateful to the wonderful people of the Sand Springs-Coahoma community. May the Lord bless you all.

'Clears the air,' says agency's chief

Border Patrol can stop, quiz drivers, Supreme Court rules

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The head of the U.S. Border Patrol here says the U.S. Supreme Court decision permitting Border Patrol agents to stop and question motorists, without warrants in some cases, "clears the air."

David V. Blackwell, chief patrol agent for the El Paso sector, said Tuesday's Supreme Court ruling allowing the stops at permanent checkpoints on major roads leading from Mexico parallels the guidelines from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals under which agents in Texas have been operating.

"The ruling doesn't change our procedures but it does give guidance nationwide," Blackwell said.

"If the decision had gone the other way, it would have had disastrous effects on our efforts to control immigration," he said.

In a 7-2 decision, the court said the practice does not violate the Fourth Amendment guarantee against unreasonable searches and seizures.

In a sharp dissent, Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall said the majority decision will subject Mexican-Americans and Mexican aliens who are legally visiting this country to unreasonable harassment.

Writing for the majority, Justice Lewis Powell said, "We hold that stops for brief questioning routinely conducted at permanent checkpoints are consistent with the Fourth Amendment and need not be authorized by a warrant."

The government's interest in halting the flow of illegal aliens justifies the "quite limited" intrusion on a motorist's right to uninterrupted passage, Powell said.

The case primarily involved the Border Patrol's checkpoint on Interstate 5 near San Clemente, Calif., about 66 miles north of the Mexican border. Interstate 5 is the principal highway between San Diego and Los Angeles.

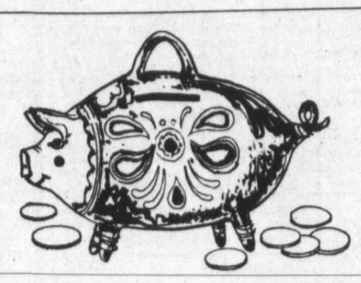

"Even if it be assumed that such referrals are made largely on the basis of apparent Mexican ancestry," Powell wrote, "we perceive no constitutional violation."

Tom Ball, head of the border partrol for the McAllen, Tex., sector, said the ruling will not cause any changes in checkpoints at Saritas and Falfurrias.

The majority stressed that their ruling applies only to the stop-and-question procedures at permanent checkpoints.

The justices noted they have ruled in earlier cases that roving patrols of border police may not stop and question motorists unless they have a reasonable suspicion the car contains illegal aliens.

The court also has ruled that agents may not search cars even at permanent checkpoints unless the motorist consents or unless the agent has probable cause to believe a crime is being committed.
