CPL Explains Why Electric Bills Now Show Increase

Rapidly increasing fuel costs, primarily due to curtailments of natural gas by Lo-Vaca Gathering System, a subsidiary of Coastal States Gas Producing Company, are causing electric bills to be higher, CPL President Barney M. Davis said today.

He said the average cost of fuel to operate the company's power plants had more than doubled in the past year, and projections show the costs could go up even higher by the end of the year.

"Lo-Vaca doesn't have the gas to meet its commitments, and we have suffered recurring gas curtailments for the past year and a half. The rapid rise in CPL's fuel cost is due almost entirely to the inability of Lo-Vaca Gathering System to deliver the gas it contracted to supply, which is more than 75 per cent of our supply."

"We are doing everything possible to hold down the fuel costs," Davis stated, "by using the cheapest fuel possible to replace the natural gas that Lo-Vaca is not delivering to us. We at CPL do not like these rising costs, and we know our customers don't like them either; however, it is due to a situation that is an outgrowth of the natural gas shortage."

"We're facing a very critical situation that will affect everyone who uses electricity in South Texas," the CPL President said, "however, we expect to have fuel, either natural gas or fuel oil, to assure a dependable power supply now and in the future."

CPL's gas supply from Lo-Vaca has been curtailed by 65 per cent for the past two months, and "it looks like it will get worse as we get further into the year." "Whenever curtailments occur," Davis explained, "we have to purchase higher-priced gas, or switch our power plants over to fuel oil, which costs even more than natural gas."

As reflected in this month's bill, CPL paid an average cost every piece of property in Rockport and Aransas County will be valued at a higher figure than the estimated valuation on which your last taxes were based. Back in January of 1973, the firm of Davis and Wilson of Houston, tax consultants, was hired to conduct a revaluation program for all properties within the county. Aransas County instituted the action and later the School District and the City agreed to pay part of the cost so they could receive reports on the increased valuation of properties. In this way, all three bodies will be preparing tax notices on the higher valuations of properties.

On Monday of this week the Boards of Equalization of the County, City and School District assembled at the courthouse for what was expected to be a week-long session during which they are reviewing reports of the upped valuations of thousands of pieces of property in the city and county.

During the week beginning June 24, property owners who wish to complain about their new property valuations will have the opportunity to appear before the Boards of Equalization. It is expected that many people will do just this.

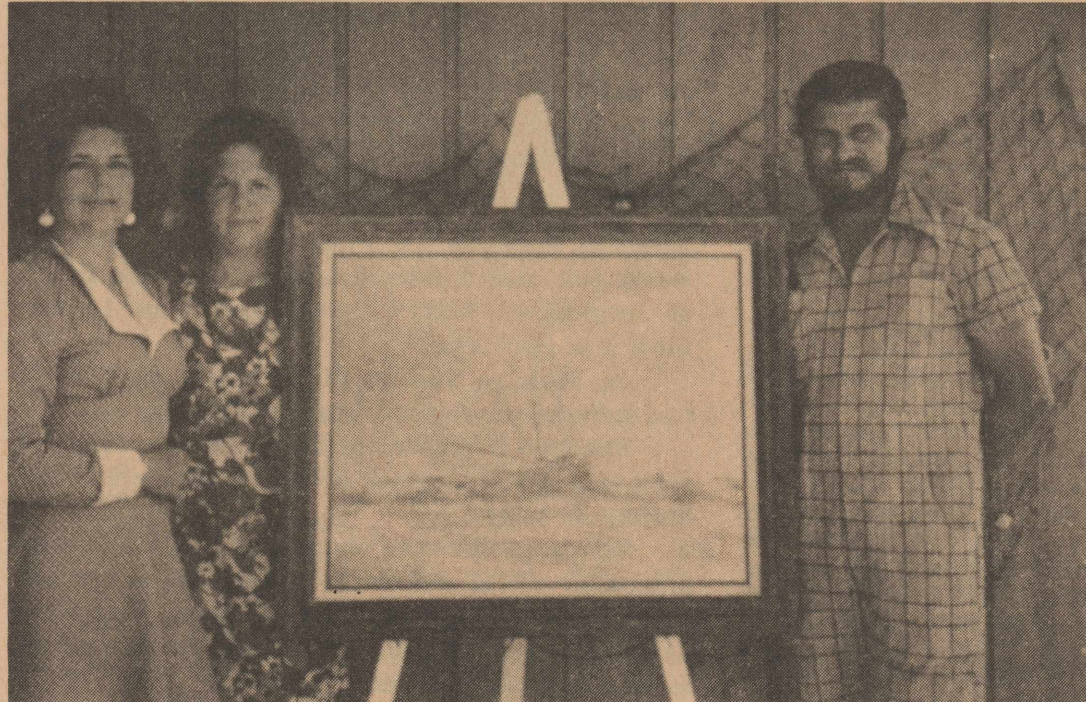

of 74 cents per million BTU's for its power plant fuel. In July, the fuel adjustment will be based on an even higher fuel cost.

CPL is currently having to pay from $1.10 to $1.40 per million BTU's for spot-purchased natural gas, while fuel oil costs up to $2.20 per million BTU's.

"The more our natural gas supply is curtailed, the more oil we'll have to use to keep our power plants running," the CPL President pointed out. "Those higher fuel costs will be reflected in our customers' bills every month."

With the current fuel cost of 74 cents, a residential customer using 1000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month will pay a fuel adjustment of $7.13 on a base bill of $23.43. This is $1.98 more than in May.

In an effort to control spiraling fuel costs, CPL is gearing up to use other types of fuel as soon as possible. The company is participating in a nuclear power plant to be built in Matagorda County, and a coal-fired generating plant is expected to begin operation in 1979. The company is also involved in an exploration and drilling program in an attempt to find additional natural gas supplies.

Castaways Hold Rummage Sales

The Concerned Women of Aransas County, during the summer months, are holding weekly rummage sales at 801 Main Street (Methodist Youth Building) on Thursdays and Saturdays, 9-11 a.m.

One thing about working in rummage sales is your amazement at what comes each week that someone no longer wants, needs or can use. Another thing about working in rummage sales is seeing a shopper's joy at finding items they want or need at a price that pleases them and eases the strain on a budget.

Due to space and physical strength of the Castaway workers there is seldom furniture outside of small tables, lamps, heating stoves, etc. For this week the ladies did accept a drop leaf table and a chest of drawers to sell. Small household items of kitchen-ware, electric irons, draperies, linens are usually available in a limited amount. There are lots of books received. Children's clothing is the most sought item by our customers.

Donations may be brought the days we are open for selling (Thurs. & Sat., 9-11) or call Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, 729-5055, Mrs. Hawes 729-6345, or Mrs. Clark, 729-5500 for other arrangements.

If you would like to be a volunteer worker come and introduce yourself on work days or call one of the above people and talk with them.

Lions Club New Officers

With a fine turnout of 43 Lions and wives at the Monday night Ladies' Night Installation at a buffet supper at Ramada Inn, the 1974-75 officers and board members of Rockport Lions Club, with retired educator Truett A. Roach as president, were installed into office.

Their term begins on July 1. Installing officer was past international director of Lions International Dar Elder, formerly of Colorado, now living at Key Allegro.

Other officers installed were: 1st vice-president Jimmy Fowler, 2nd vice-president William Ratliff, 3rd vice-president Richard Beck, secretary-treasurer Josef A. Barton, Lion tamer Tom McClung, tall twister A. Sam Harris.

And directors: Jimmy Anders and Ray Longino, Jr., for one year and James Dupnik and Eddie Ratliff for two years. In his comments on what is important in life as he sees it, Dar Elder pointed out that the first is the family, in its full integrity, then it is the church, and third is service to fellowman in the community, in the nation, and in the world.

The speaker indicated that this is the proper sequence all over the world, as he discovered in the two years he served as an international director and traveled all over the world, only six years ago.

The service club in the smaller community, according to Elder, is the most effective group to be of real service. He pointed out that most recent figures show that there are over 1,000,000 Lions worldwide, the largest service club in existence.

This July 1st the Rockport Lions Club begins its 25th year. And, out-going President Robert Konvicka mentioned to the club that his last duty is to see that the annual July 4th Lions Club Barbecue is again a successful event.

Fowler went on to say, "I think that we of the Rockport-Fulton community need to get behind Laquita with our morale and if possible financial support. The expense of such an effort is very heavy and the community can help send our representative to the Miss Texas contest in style by their contributions. Let's let Laquita know we are behind her and send your donations to Miss Rockport - Fulton Beauty Pageant - P.O. Box 1452 - Rockport, Texas - 78382. Life In India Speech Topic

Day-by-day living in a small town in northern India far from the usual tourist routes was described by Herb Alvord, father-in-law of Steve Yates, Rockport Rotarian, at a luncheon meeting of the local club June 12 at Ramada Inn.

Alvord, who is a professor of engineering at the University of Michigan, spent two years with his family in an Indian town which he described as but little removed from a village of mud huts. He said its population varied from 3,000 to 30,000 depending on the season of the year.

He and his wife and children made every attempt to become a part of the town's normal life, including participation in local affairs, such as a Rotary club, attendance at local schools and participation in festivals.

Alvord was in India to set up a Ford Foundation-sponsored project at a small local university. Some of the Alvord's associates, in addition to university faculty members, were staff people at a government-sponsored research foundation. They were the only Americans in the community. Their children learned to speak the language and before the family's two years were up they were wearing native clothing, their original state-side clothing having been pretty well worn out, according to Alvord.

He illustrated his talk with color slide films, and among the most impressive scenes were pictures taken at a religious festival which attracted an estimated two million visitors, including some 5,000 holy men to a nearby village. This celebration is held once in 12 years and attracts pilgrims from all over India.

The local Indian Rotary club supports a welfare center and child health clinic as well as helping to support a Catholic school. Unlike American Rotary clubs, wives of members attend all club meetings there, Alvord said.

Ambulance Service

Many were shocked recently by a news story telling how an ambulance was recalled after having responded to an emergency, the tragic result being that a woman and a baby died, perhaps because they didn't reach a hospital sooner.

The ambulance was recalled because it did not serve the community involved unless area residents paid a fee. The husband or the victims in this case had not paid the fee; but he claimed he had made it clear over the telephone it was an emergency call.

Ambulance service varies from county to county and state to state across the nation. In many areas it's a precarious business. Private operators, cities, counties and fire departments all operate rescue vehicles of one kind or another. In some communities ambulance service is good, in others scandalously bad.

Eventually, rescue service might have to become a government service; in many areas, of course, private organizations do it better and cheaper. In others there are not enough calls to make it profitable—especially since modern-day rescue vehicles should be equipped with the latest equipment available, which allows ambulance personnel to begin treating patients upon arrival. Personnel, of course, should be highly-trained professionals.

In the case of some private operations this is not practicable. Also, helicopters are needed in some instances.

Just as postal service should be looked upon as a service which might require government subsidies, rescue service in a modern nation should not be left to chance. Every citizen expects a fast response, by trained personnel, when his or her life is threatened. That is not too much to expect in a nation which sends men to the moon.

Make Dean's List

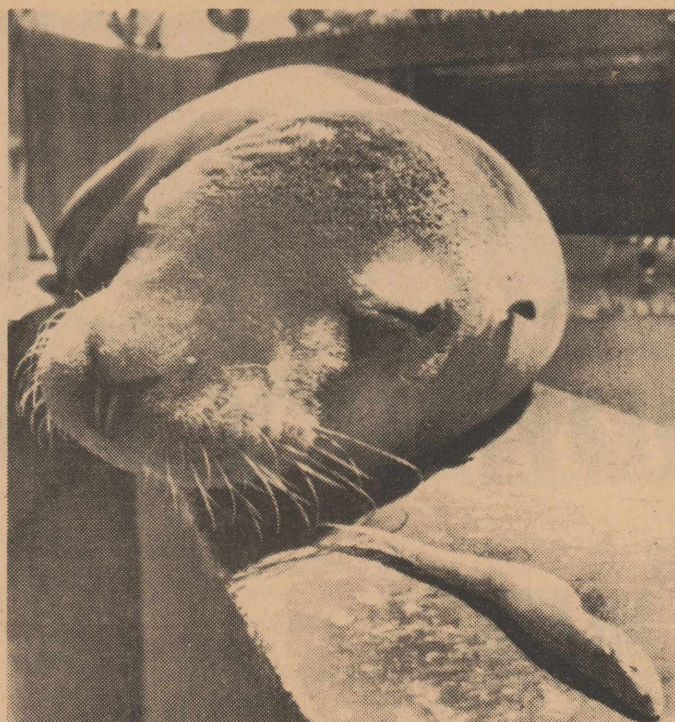

When students at Sam Houston State University excel in their classwork, they are rewarded by having their names placed on the Dean's List of Academic Honors.

The list contains the names of all students who have attained a semester grade point average of at least 3.0 ("B") on a 4.0 ("A") scale in at least 12 hours of university classwork at SHSU.

Released from the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the spring semester, 1974 Dean's List named more than 2,300 students to the honor roll.

Following are the names of students whose names appear on the SHSU Dean's List: Martlee Richards, Fulton and Donna P. Hadley, Rockport.

Trade between Canada and the U. S. amounts to about $12 billion annually.

Rockport Firemen's Auxiliary Meets

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Rockport Fire Department met June 11 for their regular business meeting.

Twelve members answered roll call. One new member, Mary Stengel, was welcomed.

Routine business was carried on. Committee reports were given. Mona McNutt and Judy Kelly will furnish cakes for the firemen's business meeting in July.

Evalon Redden announced that Frances Rameriz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blas Rameriz, won first prize in the area for collecting the largest amount of money during the Cerebral Palsy Telethon, held in Corpus Christi.

Timmy Redden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Redden, was in the eleventh place, and Chris Iles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Iles, was in twelfth place. Frances received a beanbag chair and each of the boys received a football.

There was a discussion on the Annual Dance to be at Lili-Han's Danceland on June 29. Music will be furnished by Johnny McBee. All Auxiliary members have tickets which are $2.50 donation.

Members present were: Evalon Redden, Frances Redden, Gwynne Howland, Cleo Truelove, Sarah Belle Smith, Theresa Howland, Sadie Smith, Kathy Ratliff, Judy Kelly, Joan Truelove, Ivala Hinz, Mary Stengel and Teet Mullinax.

Further information on TOPS #849 may be obtained from, Leader Cathy Gaskin - 729-2116 or Sec'y-Reporter Betty Meredith - 729-6213.

Morning TOPS Holds Meeting

TOPS No. 849 held their weekly meeting on June 11th in the Methodist Youth Bldg.

Queen of the week was Eva Whipple with a 2-3/4 lb. loss. Runner up was Cathy Borey with a 2-1/4 lb. loss. Club total loss for the week was 15-3/4 lbs. Eva Whipple received her 2nd 10 lb. loss star, Sir TOPS member Chuck Smith received his 2nd 10 lb. loss star from leader Cathy Gaskin.

Twila Rays was the winner of the Ha Ha box, in the amount of $3.

The club is still leading in the Ingleside versus Rockport weight contest, but the grapevine has it that the Ingleside group is making an all-out effort to close the gap, and next week's report may tell a different story. It matters not which club wins the contest, what is important is the fact that approximately 60 members male and female, of TOPS, were for a brief few weeks, united in the "Battle of the Bulge". The determination that won that famous battle in World War II is present now in two little South Texas towns.

Further information on TOPS #849 may be obtained from, Leader Cathy Gaskin - 729-2116 or Sec'y-Reporter Betty Meredith - 729-6213.

B.J. Crowley's HOROSCOPE

Week of June 23, 1974

GEMINI--Geminians are fun loving. They are almost always popular with their peers. Variety is the spice of life for those born under this sign. Most possess a quick mind.

GEMINI--May 21 to June 20--Someone who is jealous of your achievements will try to get your goat. Ignore them. You have too much on the ball to be concerned with pettiness.

CANCER--June 21 to July 22--A chance remark enlightens you on something that has been vague in your mind for a long time.

LEO--July 23 to Aug. 22--Whatever you do, avoid and tendency to eat or drink excessively. You have a great deal of self-discipline when needed. Show family and friends how much you care about them by being a good listener.

VIRGO--Aug. 23 to Sept. 22--A strong hunch you have could be right. If your load is heavier than you seem able to bear, change your lifestyle.

LIBRA--Sept. 23 to Oct. 22--Spend time alone. If you are surrounded by people, sometimes your thinking can seem cluttered. For the Libran who is a loner, he would do well to try the opposite approach.

SCORPIO--Oct. 23 to Nov. 22--Take care of your possessions. Keep your surroundings as orderly as possible. Carry through on projects you have begun.

SAGITTARIUS--Nov. 23 to Dec. 21--Curb any tendencies to be fickle. During this period you can get by with nothing, so don't try. You could end up singing the blues.

CAPRICORN--Dec. 22 to Jan. 19--Follow your own instincts. Advice from others right now isn't worth much. A difficult period should level off now.

AQUARIUS--Jan. 20 to Feb. 18--Your efforts seem unappreciated. Don't let this worry you. Those who are really important to you know.

PISCES--Feb. 19 to March 20--Drastic changes are not recommended now. Ride with the tide. Success in your endeavors seems assured. Your hard work pays off.

ARIES--March 21 to April 20--Expect a fun week. Although life is seldom dull for an Arian, during this period exciting surprises may be expected.

TAURUS--April 21 to May 20--Your good intentioned efforts at being honest can lead to complications. Watch out for situations where you could put your foot in your mouth.

It has been fairly well established that man does not do well if cut off from all contact with his fellow man. He needs some sort of companionship, and if he doesn't have it from his own kind he will turn to animals for friends. Wildlife scientists have determined that this need for fellowship is found in almost all wild animals too. Not only do animals need companionship, there are many recorded cases where animals cooperate to get a job done. Many more cases have been observed where one animal went to another for help when there was something he couldn't accomplish alone.

A biologist in Northeast Texas saw a blue jay feeding another jay. This is not unusual during the courtship days of early spring or during the summer when the young birds are just leaving the nest, but it is almost unheard of during the winter -- and this was the dead of winter. When he got his binoculars, the biologist found that the bird being fed was an old grizzled veteran. The lower mandible of his beak was broken off and he couldn't pick up food for himself.

The need for companionship seems to be as biologically important as food and drink. Zoologists have found that a solitary tadpole can regenerate an injured part of its body -- but very slowly given the company of other tadpoles its healing powers speed up almost miraculously.

White pelicans offer a good example of cooperation to reach a common goal. They will form a half-circle around a school of fish and start closing in toward shore while bearing the water with their wings. Just like a living seine they will concentrate the school of fish against the shore and all enjoy a feast that none could have managed alone. A chimpanzee will often pass part of his food through the bars of another open cage when the other cage was left unfed. Sharing sometimes extends to giving help. An ape with a splinter in his finger will go to another ape, and the "doctor" works as earnestly at the job as a human mother would do for her child. Just about everybody who was raised in coyote country knows how they catch jackrabbits. It's almost impossible for one coyote to catch the much faster jackrabbit, but two coyotes, running in relays, can run the rabbit down in a very short while.

TWENTY OF THE MOST FRIGHTENING minutes of their lives were spent recently by two Houston window washers when their motorized scaffold went out of commission. A fireman was finally lowered to the scaffold and the men were rescued.

Not long ago the Philadelphia Zoo had a problem. They had a surly, unapproachable rhinoceros, until they gave him the only available companion they would think of risking in his enclosure; a domestic goat. Almost at once the rhino's disposition began to change. Before long he would stand for hours and let "Old Billy" butt him in the ribs. He had found a friend.

The need for companionship goes back through the years to the dim, dark ages of unrecorded history. It is probably one of the reasons man first domesticated an animal.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

Chases Female Mosquitoes
In case you don't know it, those pesky mosquitoes that bother you while you're fishing are females.

Not only that, they are pregnant females.

Oh boy! We've been slapping at those feds—even tried to kill 'em. And they are loaded with over 100,000 young'uns.

The female mosquito reaches maturity a few days after hatch. She is impregnated almost immediately by the male mosquito and she lays those 100,000 eggs in four to seven days. One female often produces millions of offspring a year.

The male mosquito is a vegetarian and he doesn't need to draw blood from us humans. Neither does the female, except while she's pregnant. But that's most of the time, and she must have a blood meal before each incubation.

There's one thing the old gal can't stand . . . and that's high-frequency sound-waves. So, what's more natural than for someone to come up with an electronic mosquito repeller called Skeeter Skat. It uses sound waves to scatter the "sneeters".

Doesn't kill 'em—just drives 'em away.
Keeping mosquitoes away from humans poses quite a problem today.

Before-shave and after-shave lotions lure mosquitoes to men—as do hair tonics and antiperspirants.

Sweet-smelling perfumes, hand lotion and face powder which the women use attract mosquitoes like a magnet.

Even what you eat may make a difference!

Dr. E. Y. Garcia, a scientist from the Philippines, was quoted recently by L. M. Boyd as having stated that the odor of bananas lingers in the air around banana eaters—and mosquitoes go for it.

So, if you're fond of bananas, mosquitoes may be fond of you.
If you've just returned from an outing recently, I know you've wondered where all the mosquitoes came from. Just remember that outside puddles, buckets, jars, bottles and even old discarded auto tires are good breeding spots.

Why not look around your own area and see how many of these things you can find—and let's fool those pesky mosquitoes!

Retroactive Increase In Service-Connected Compensation for Veterans

The timetable for payment of increases to some 2.5-million service disabled veterans and dependents of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities was reported today by the Veterans Administration.

A new law (Public Law 93-295) signed by the President May 31 increased disability compensation payments to veterans by 15 to 18-per cent, and dependency and indemnity compensation for widows and children by about 17-per cent. The statute made the increases retroactive to last May 1.

A separate retroactive check covering the increases for the months of May and June will be sent by Veterans Administration to the veterans and dependents by mid-July.

The regular monthly checks due next on July 1 will be paid at the old rate, but the new increases will be reflected in checks received August 1 and thereafter.

VA officials emphasized that no application or inquiry will be necessary to receive the increased amounts. The increases, they said, will be made by the agency automatically for all veterans and dependents.

The new law boosts payments to veterans rated 10 to 50-per cent disabled by VA by 15-per cent, and those rated 60 to 100-per cent disabled by 18-per cent.

The monthly payment to single veterans with 10-per cent disabilities goes up from $28 to $32. For veterans rated 100-per cent disabled under VA's general schedule the monthly sum is increased from $495 to $584. And for the most severely disabled veterans the maximum monthly amount is jumped from $1,232 to $1,454.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated 50-per cent or more receive additional allowances if they have dependents. These added allowances are also increased under the new law by 15-per cent.

Local Boys Attend Salvation Army Camp

Four boys from Rockport-Fulton will be given a free, one week vacation this summer at the Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas, according to Rev. John Bradshaw, the Salvation Army Service Unit camp chairman.

Boys chosen to attend the camp this summer are Robert Romero, Gilbert Morales, Joe Lara, and Martin Espinoza. They left for camp on Sunday, June 16.

"This will be an excellent experience for these boys who have never been to a real camp," Bradshaw said. "At Hoblitzelle they will enjoy boating, hiking, archery, horseback riding, fishing, swimming, handicrafts, movies and baseball as well as worship services and Bible study."

All organized activities are supervised by coaches and counselors. The campers are housed in brick and redwood cabins and receive well-balanced meals in the camp dining hall.

"Each boy's trip was financed by the Rockport-Fulton Service Unit Committee with donations from private citizens in our community," Bradshaw said. Camp Hoblitzelle is built on 360 wooded acres with a 30 acre lake and is fully equipped with modern recreational facilities. The Salvation Army operates Camp Hoblitzelle for children and families who could not otherwise have the opportunity to enjoy camp life. This summer over 4,000 are expected to attend camping sessions.

Men, more than women, are afflicted with color blindness.

Fix-It Tip

Handles can be replaced but they must be replaced properly. A different handle off some other tool is not proper replacement. It will make the tool difficult or even dangerous to use. Tools are carefully balanced. When a new handle is put on a hammer it should achieve the same balance as when it was new. Pairing a new handle to the old head should be done with care. Neither picking nor fitting should be done hurriedly.

Try to find a handle as close to the original as possible. Consider size, shape and weight. Make certain it is for the same kind of tool.

presented by the Philadelphia College of Art

Max Ernst—Masterful Image-Maker

The Forest—oil on canvas (1923) by Max Ernst. From Louis and Walter Arensberg Collection, Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Max Ernst is a handsome man, a born non-conformist with a devilish imagination, who has produced controversial art for over 55 years. His work reflects, to some degree, his living experiences in Germany, France and the United States. He was born in Germany in 1891 to a strict Catholic, bourgeois family, but rejected the whole German experience beginning with his stern father, a circumscripted education and finally, the militaristic society under which he served during the first World War.

The subject matter of his work is related to his youthful rebellion. Unlike most modern artists who contrast subjective reality with what is conventionally accepted as reality, Ernst is concerned directly with the external world and all the social, religious and political restrictions and repressions it imposes.

"Thirty years of Germany were enough," he said, and left to join the most influential artists and writers of the first half of the 20th century who congregated in Paris during the 1920's. Ernst became a zealous Dadaist, an artistic movement which combined outrageous outburst with a sense of humor. When Dada flagged, he managed to adapt its negative aspects into positive ones which left him free to decide, combine and rearrange material that was not formerly considered suitable for a work of art.

His efforts were quite varied during the thirties and forties when he produced a five volume novel in collage, sculptures from found objects, paintings within paintings and work in surrealism and cubism.

In 1941, Max Ernst left Europe after his internment as an alien at the outbreak of World War II and came to the United States. He met his fourth wife on this visit, Dorothea Tanning, and during their stay in Arizona, his work mellowed noticeably. He became a United States citizen, but his ties to France were strong enough to cause him to return for good in 1953. On his eightieth birthday, April 12, 1971, he was feted in Houston with an exhibition of his art and proved to be as irrepressible as ever.

In his tribute to Ernst, Painter Robert Motherwell says, "Like every consequential modern painter, Max Ernst has enforced his own madness on the world which has to submit, since madness that moves and creates is a liberation, in contrast to the sterile madness of people tied to conventions."

More Corporations Liable for Estimated Income Tax

Austin -- More corporations will become eligible for estimated income tax in 1974, according to Richard J. Stakem, Jr., district director of the Internal Revenue Service for southern Texas.

The director said that a corporation must make estimated tax payments if it can expect its income tax for the year, less credits, to be $100, or more. Previously, corporations were required to pay estimated tax payments if their tax liability amounted to more than $200.

Now is a good time, he pointed out, for corporations who may be liable under the change, to take a look at their tax status. Corporations newly eligible will pay the estimated tax in three equal payments and the first payment is due June 17.

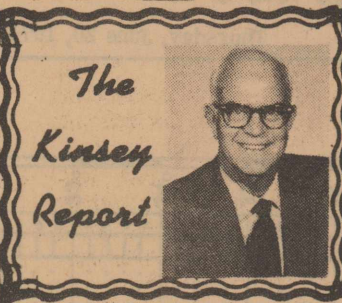

"The payments, accompanied by Form 503, 'Federal Tax Deposit, Corporation Income Taxes,' are deposited in authorized commercial banks or Federal Reserve Banks," said Stakem.

The estimated tax and the amount of each installment can be worked out on Form 1120-W,

The Kinsey
Report

I'm not sure but I think there's an old saying that goes "Little ears have big mouths" or something like that.

At any rate it applies to something that happened in our household this week. It concerned something our grandson, Mike Herbert of Kerrville, said to me.

Mike and his little brother, Jay, and our daughter, Mrs. Ken Herbert, have been visiting us. On Tuesday I took Mike for a ride and on the way home, he suddenly said:

"Grandpa, did you know that some bears got into a home out here (in Peninsula Oaks) and broke out all the windows?"

At first I wondered how on earth such a wild idea had entered his little mind, but then I realized what had happened.

Mike had overheard his wife telling our daughter that after the Don Beard family had moved from their home in the subdivision, some vandals had knocked out all the windows.

Mike had heard "Beard" and broken windows and to him it meant that some "bears" had knocked out a lot of windows.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerle #3500 will meet Monday June 24 at 8 p.m.

They will have nominations for three offices that have been vacated. They need the help of all members. Please try to attend.

PORTS OF CALL

For Travel And Adventure
By Edward H. Sims

New train car service by Amtrak, from the Midwest to Florida, reflects the success of the eastern Amtrak run, and solves the problems of many Midwestern drivers concerning weather. They can ride Amtrak to Florida and drive there.

Such service will inevitably be inaugurated for other southerly climes, like Louisiana, Texas, perhaps Alabama and Mississippi, Arizona, New Mexico and perhaps southern California. It could work in reverse in off seasons.

New England, for example, so delightful in summer and early fall, is missed by many in the South and Midwest, who dread the trip through eastern traffic cesspools. If Amtrak ran a fast car-carrying train from the Washington, D.C. vicinity to New England in summer and fall, it would probably attract many motorists.

Railroads still in private hands, of course, are to get the benefit of a two billion dollar government loan guarantee program, if Congress agrees to the Nixon Administration improvement program.

With these new funds the railroads can not only improve freight service but venture out into the passenger service field where the prospect is again promising.

If an oil shortage is to be a consideration for years to come, which the experts say is likely, passenger travel by rail-on modern, clean and fast facilities-has a future in many areas where it's now dead.

Especially needed are fast rail linkups to airports, and if rail service is good enough, many will choose to travel from airports to nearby cities via rail when the weather is bad. Statistics show most air crashes occur in periods of bad weather and this is when the railroads offer a dependability advantage.

Good service, speed, modern equipment and on-time operations can attract a new generation. But that will mean new terminals, in airports and elsewhere, and new thinking and planning, backed by money.

You don't have to be an economist to know what this line means to your electric bill

Back in January, 1971, we were paying 20.23¢ per million BTU* for fuel to generate your electricity. Since late 1972, fuel costs have been rising sharply due to the natural gas shortage.

These increases are reflected in your electric bills by means of a fuel adjustment clause, which is a standard part of electric rates all over the country. This adjustment recovers only the increased cost of fuel.

In April of this year, our cost of fuel was 74.09¢ per million BTU*, which is reflected in your current bill.

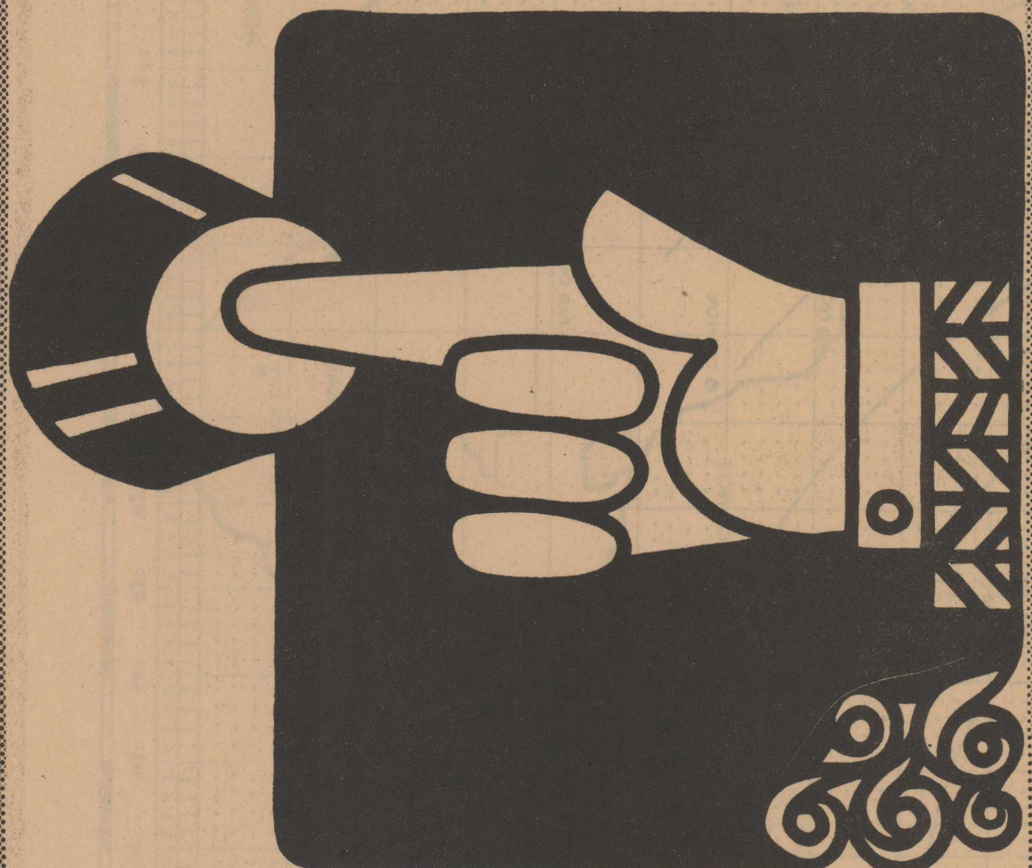

We are buying fuel as economically as possible and using it as efficiently as we can; however, there is no escaping the fact that electric bills will be higher.

In these circumstances, it is more important than ever that you use energy wisely.

Use Care with Home And Garden Pesticides

With the increase in home gardening, more and more people will be using pesticides, many for the first time. Therefore, extra precaution is of utmost importance, cautions D.P. Pawlik, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Pesticides are poisons. So, if they are used carelessly or improperly, a hazardous situation may exist. Proper identification of the pest is an essential first step in determining whether or not the use of a pesticide is warranted. If pesticides are to be used, use that on hand first if it is appropriate for the particular pest situation. Be sure the label on the container is clearly legible.

In purchasing pesticides, buy only that amount which will be required during the season. During each use prepare only as much pesticide mixture as will be required at any one time. Before using any pesticide, read the entire label and follow directions.

If a container is emptied during the process of preparing a spray mix, rinse the container with water three or four times and add the rinse water to the spray mix before diluting it to final volume with water. This reduces the amount of pesticide remaining in the container and minimizes the hazards associated with container disposal.

Use only the amount specified on the label and apply as the label indicates. Do not double the application rate, thinking that twice as much will do twice as good a job.

Read the precautions. In handling any pesticide, avoid contact with the skin and avoid excessive contamination of clothing when spraying or dusting. Heed any advice about wearing protective clothing, and note what to do in the event pesticides are spilled on the skin or clothing. Observe the ingredient statement and first-aid instructions.

Do not save "empty" pesticide containers; dispose of them promptly. Wrap single pesticide containers in several layers of newspapers and place them in the garbage for pickup and disposal.

Accidental poisoning is a serious problem around the home, mostly involving children under five years of age. Storing all pesticides and other household chemicals out of reach of children, preferably in a locked storage unit, is an effective means of avoiding the often disastrous effects of accidental poisoning. Do not place pesticides near food or feed. And do not transfer a pesticide to a soft drink or other container attractive to children.

Keep pesticides in the original container, cautions Pawlik.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Early detection of disease or a physical problem often can be the difference between a bright future or one filled with continuing medical problems.

Texas youngsters -- more than 150,000 of them to date -- have a better chance of good health through special medical and dental programs carried out by the Texas State Department of Health.

Preventive health services are being given Texas children through an agreement between the State Health Department and Department of Public Welfare. Those eligible for medical screening and dental diagnosis and treatment services are those youngsters on the Welfare Department's aid for dependent children rolls.

It is anticipated that the early detection and treatment of disease in children served by this program will have a significant impact on their lives now and in the future.

The program--called the Texas Medical Assistance Program--is designed to create awareness of existing health care services, to stimulate the use of these services, and to make services available so that children can receive medical and dental care before health problems become chronic and permanent damage occurs.

The dental program concept is to provide eligible children a certain level of dental care through utilization of services of private dentists in the state. The more than 68,000 children participating in this program have received examinations, preventive care, remedial and emergency dentistry where necessary. A definite freedom of choice on the parts of both the recipient and dentist is strictly maintained. The Department of Public Welfare is responsible for identifying eligible children, obtaining and seeing that dental appointments are kept, and providing local administrative services to the program. The Health Department monitors the statewide program, provides a list of participating dentists for each county, issues and processes dental invoices, and maintains statistical data.

The program is charged with giving "early and periodic screening, diagnosis and treatment" of eligible children below age of 21.

Medical screening, performed by medical screening teams, is conducted in a different manner under different operational procedures.

Teams may be located in a regular Health Department clinic, or they may take a mobile clinic into any locality and set it up in such facilities as a school or church.

A medical screening team consists of a physician, nurse, licensed vocational nurse, clinical attendant, laboratory technician and clerk. A child's medical history is obtained and physical inspection is performed. If physical defects are observed, the child may be referred to a private physician of the parents' choice for diagnosis and treatment.

In the more than 84,000 youngsters screened thus far many physical defects have been found and referred to private physicians for treatment. The most common reasons for referrals are--in order of frequency--abnormal blood (low hemoglobin), visual defects, hearing defects, skin problems, muscle and bone problems, cardiovascular problems and psychological developmental problems.

The medical screening teams have operated in 213 of the state's 254 counties, and there's a big job ahead in reaching the 365,000 eligible children in Texas.

Medical screening covers a health and developmental history of the child; a brief family history to check for such conditions as diabetes, tuberculosis, cancer and mental disorders; a physical inspection with emphasis on visual and hearing defects, heart abnormalities, skin diseases and bone problems. Certain laboratory tests also are performed. These include routine urinalysis, blood tests, tests for proper metabolism and skin tests for tuberculosis. Complete records are kept on all recipients. The Welfare Department makes initial contacts with families, identifies recipients, gets them to and from screening sites, assists with referrals to private physicians and monitors the child's cooperation with the private physician's recommendations.

Through this program, a strong impact is expected on the present and future health of thousands of young welfare children in Texas.

County Important To Area Economy

Rockport and Aransas County figure prominently in what the Coastal Bend Council of Governments calls the "Corpus Christi Growth Center."

Following is information contained in a report by the Council:

"Portions of the three counties, Aransas, Nueces, and San Patricio, make up the present Corpus Christi Growth Center. Within the Growth Center boundaries are the cities of Aransas Pass, Corpus Christi, Gregory, Ingleside, Port Aransas, Portland, Robstown, and Rockport. Jobs are created from a wide variety of economic activities in this Growth Center area ranging from production of raw materials to the producing of final products. Agriculture, commerce, industry, commercial fishing, military and tourism provide the foundation for jobs in the basic economic sectors. Dependent on these economic sectors are retail trade, wholesale trade, service industries, and the government sector. Within this framework is the impetus for job training and job creation for the Redevelopment Area Counties of Brooks and Duval.

"Based on 1970 Census figures, the cities within the Corpus Christi Growth Center had a total population of 239,963 compared with a 1960 total population of 196,255. This represents a 22.3% percent increase that is somewhat inflated due to Corpus Christi annexing adjoining populated land area. However, Aransas, Nueces and San Patricio were three of the four counties to experience any population growth between 1960 and 1970 in the Coastal Bend Region. All three counties grew at a faster rate than the State of Texas and Aransas County grew at twice the National rate of growth for this decade.

Two sisters, Mrs. Bess Jackson and Mrs. Helen Wilkins were unable to attend due to ill health. The sisters were missed by all the assembled guests.

The twenty-sixth annual reunion will be held in Center Point in 1975.

Mrs. Minta Lancaster returned to her home Sunday after undergoing surgery at Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi, recently.

Rockport Area In Guide

Rockport's fine fishing facilities and its popularity as an art center are featured in the South Texas Vacation Guide, just published by the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The colorful 44-page guide covers special events, fairs and tourist and scenic attractions this spring and summer, said Sam Godfrey, San Antonio, the chamber's tourist committee chairman. The guide emphasizes that South Texas offers nearby vacation opportunities for Texas residents and Midwesterners alike, a timely consideration for the gasoline-conscious traveler.

An extensive listing of 40 area towns and attractions is provided, giving detailed information on population, recreation and park facilities, lakes, special events, airports and museums, along with addresses for further information from each community.

The issue also includes a calendar of events from mid-May through September for the entire 50-county area served by the chamber. It gives dates and places of county fairs, rodeos, art shows, and many other special events and celebrations.

A guide to state parks and historic sites in South Texas describes camping and trailer facilities, fishing, swimming, and other activities available at each park.

Many of the area's communities and attractions are featured throughout the publication, including those in the Hill Country, the Mexican border, and on the Gulf coast. The magazine's regular column, "South Texas Scene," is also featured, reporting on local current happenings.

The vacation guide is a special edition of the South Texan, the chamber's bi-monthly magazine. Free copies are available on request from the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, 1011 N.W. Loop 410, San Antonio, Texas 78213, and at Texas Highway Department tourist information centers around the perimeter of the state.

Vets Educational Entitlement Extended to July 1

Educational assistance checks for some 150,000 veterans whose G.I. Bill eligibility was extended by one month will reach them by late June or earlier, the Veterans Administration announced today.

On May 31, the day the G.I. Education entitlement expired for veterans discharged between January 31, 1955, and July 1, 1966, the President signed PL 93-293 granting a 30 day extension to the eight years entitlement veterans normally have.

Long before the legislation was passed, VA accomplished all possible preliminary work for the speedy service in anticipation that some form of extension would be passed by Congress and approved by the President.

In addition to the May 31 law, a supplemental appropriation is needed to fund the increases, but speedy Congressional action is expected on the President's request for the necessary funds.

The extension also allows 85,000 veterans pursuing correspondence courses during May to continue through June. The extra month of eligibility extends also to nearly 4 million other eligible veterans not currently training.

The new deadline, July 1, 1974, for veterans separated from service between January 31, 1955, and July 1, 1966, applies only to school training, it was pointed out. Veterans taking farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training have until August 30, 1975, to complete training.

Single veterans going to school full-time under the G.I. Bill draw $220 monthly in educational assistance, while those with dependents receive higher benefits.

Va officials noted bills are pending in Congress to increase allowances, and to extend G.I. Bill eligibility from eight to 10 years.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q - Is it against the law for a tax return preparer to reveal a client's Federal tax information?

A - Yes. The law provides that any tax return preparer who discloses or uses Federal tax return information for any purpose other than to prepare or assist in preparing a return can be, upon conviction, fined up to $1,000, imprisoned up to one year, or both.

Q - I filed my return in March but have not yet received my refund. What should I do?

A - If you have not received your refund or a letter explaining the delay within ten weeks after mailing your return, contact the IRS. The IRS will need to know approximately when your return was mailed, your social security number, name and present address and the address on your tax return if it is different from your present address. Residents in the Austin telephone exchange can dial 472-1974 for information about refunds. In Houston, the number is 224-8211. In San Antonio, call 225-6881. Elsewhere in southern Texas call toll free 800-252-1000.

Q - I received an extension of time to file my return. Will I be charged interest on any tax I owe?

A - Yes. Interest at an annual rate of six percent will be charged from the original due date of the return. However, the filing extension will excuse you from penalties for failure to file the return or pay the tax during the period of the extension.

Q - My son is 20, works, and attends night school. I understand that you can claim a full-time student as a dependent regardless of how much income he has if you meet the other dependency tests. Does this rule apply to night school students?

A - Generally, no. Your son is not a full-time student if he attends school exclusively at night. However, one who attends night school is a full-time student if he is enrolled for the number of hours of classes that is considered full-time attendance in order to fulfill the requirements for a degree in the normal period of time at a similar day school.

Q - My company's mandatory retirement age is 65, but it's possible for an employee to retire at 55. I'm 58 and have to retire on account of sickness. I'll be receiving a weekly disability pension. Can I exclude all or part of this amount from my income as tax-free sick pay?

A - In a recent decision, the IRS said that a taxpayer who retires on disability prior to his company's mandatory retirement age can exclude his disability payments from income as tax-free sick pay up to $100 a week. Previously, the IRS held that disability payments could be excluded as sick pay only up to the employee's earliest retirement age. Under this old rule, because you are 58 and the earliest retirement age is 55, you would not have been able to exclude any part of your disability payment as sick pay. However, now you are able to exclude such amounts, up to $100 per week, until mandatory retirement age, which in your case is 65.

The recent IRS decision applies to all tax years not barred by the statute of limitations. Thus, persons retired on disability in 1971, 1972, and 1973 and unable to exclude disability payments as sick pay because of the old rule, may now file a claim for refund (Form 843). For more details call IRS. In Austin, dial 472-1974; in Houston, 224-8211, and in San Antonio, 225-6881. Elsewhere in southern Texas call 800-252-1000.

Q - When is the second installment of estimated tax due?

A - The second installment of estimated tax is due June 17, 1974.

Q - I'm having all my Army Reserve uniforms cleaned in preparation for summer camp. Can I deduct my cleaning bills?

A - Yes. If you itemize your deductions, you can deduct the cost of cleaning and maintaining Reserve and National Guard uniforms. Be sure to keep records to substantiate you deduction.

The first national meeting of the Republican party took place on Feb. 22, 1856, at Pittsburgh, Pa. It met to plan a national presidential nomination convention to be held in June of that year.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN -- Want to look 10 years younger, with a smooth, wrinkle-free skin or a full head of hair?

There are some commercial establishments that promise all this and more. They offer such things as face peeling and suture implantation to hold hairpieces. Unfortunately, some doctors say, what they may also inadvertently deliver to some persons is a discolored, scarred face or an infected scalp.

The court of inquiry held in Dallas last summer to examine practices in the health and beauty industry revealed that some reducing spas offered such related services as face peeling, sometimes called

"chemotherapy."

Some establishments claim to use "secret chemical formulas" to peel off the outer skin, theoretically leaving smooth, youthful skin free of wrinkles and blotches.

But no matter what the "secret formula," the process invariably involves applying some caustic chemical (often carbolic acid) to the face to, in effect, "burn away" the top layer of skin.

Plastic surgeons and other physicians sometimes regard the process as a helpful procedure when performed under medical supervision by trained personnel on certain individuals after extensive skin tests. It is sometimes used after a surgical face lift to remove any tiny scars.

However, at the court of inquiry, doctors testified that in the hands of unskilled individuals, the process could result in pain, swelling, redness, and blisters. More permanent damage could include infection, scarring, and an inability to stand sunlight.

The Federal Trade Commission has ordered several face peeling establishments to tell prospective customers in their advertising and promotional material just what is involved in the peeling process, and what it can lead to.

But the idea of being able to "peel away" the years seems to have attracted many people. The procedure should only be used after consultation with your personal doctor, however.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys remind consumers, too, to read any contract or agreement carefully, since it may contain disclaimers that release the individual or establishment offering the service from certain responsibilities.

Another service designed to appeal to the desire to look younger or more attractive is "suture implantation." This is a procedure which involves implanting wire or plastic in the scalp to hold a hairpiece securely.

The FTC says there is a high probability of discomfort and pain, and a risk of infection or scarring, since the sutures remain in the scalp permanently.

Your personal physician is the best source of information about this or any other health or beauty procedures about which you may have questions. Consult him before embarking on an "improvement" program that might possibly leave you in worse shape than you started.

And remember these things if you do decide to enter into an agreement for certain services:

- (1) Read all material carefully before signing;
- (2) If you are promised something, be sure to "get it in writing";
- (3) Never sign any contract with blank spaces in it; and
- (4) Never be pressured into signing.

If you have a consumer problem, consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.
