The employees later were released. A check up revealed that the loot was approximately $15,000.

CLAIMS DEADLINE SET FOR APR. 15

Farmers who expect to get any pink boll worm money must have their claims filed not later than April 15, according to a letter from Ben F. Chapman, secretary of the compensation claim board, to the Midland chamber of commerce.

The house made other amendments to the original bill and these are set forth in the following verbatim copy of the act in what is known as House Bill No. 79:

H. B. No. 79: An Act amending Section 11 of Chapter 67, acts of the first called session of the Forty-third legislature, same being Senate Bill No. 52, so as to provide the method of prorating funds provided in said chapter, fixing date for filing claims under said appropriation, providing that no claim arising thereunder shall not be negotiable or assignable; providing that no commissions or fees shall be paid for presenting and/or prosecuting said claims; declaring it to be the intention of this act to reimburse growers for expenses incurred in sterilizing cotton seed and fumigating cotton when same is raised in Texas, whether ginned in this state or some other, if said expense was charged by reason of the Texas regulatory laws in such cases, providing that the claimant is paid only in its proportionate part, said claim shall be received in full and no further payment made by the state for said claim, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Section 3 of Senate Bill No. 52, Chapter 67, acts of the first called session of the Forty-third legislature, is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 3. It is further provided that should the sum herein appropriated be insufficient to pay the claims of all growers and producers of cotton in full, then the sum appropriated shall be prorated among the growers and producers of cotton as hereinafter provided, and each grower or producer shall receive the proportion of the total appropriation that his individual claim bears to the total claim approved by the compensation board.

"No part of the money herein appropriated to reimburse farmers for expenses incident to the establishment of regulated zones shall be paid directly or indirectly for commissions or fees to any persons for securing the passage of this bill, or for services before committees or with members of the legislature to secure its passage, or for presenting and/or prosecuting said claims before the compensation claim board, or any of its agents."

"It is further provided that no claim or any part of any claim against the state, which has arisen or may arise, by virtue of and upon authority of the laws of this state, under whose authority said claims are based, shall be negotiable or assignable; provided that this provision shall in no way effect the right of executors, administrators, or assigns of any claimant from presenting the claim of any such claimant who may be deceased, in the same manner such deceased claimant could have done if living."

"Said funds appropriated by Chapter 67, acts of the first called session of the Forty-third legislature, same being Senate Bill No. 52, of said session, shall be prorated among the valid claims of growers and producers of cotton in the zones affected in the following manner:

"First. In so far as the funds which are authorized in said appropriation are sufficient, they shall first be prorated to pay the valid claims that are filed with the compensation claim board on or before April 15, 1934, and which are approved by said board.

"Second. Any funds remaining undistributed after the payment of the valid and approved claims, which have been filed with the compensation claim board, on or before April 15, 1934, and approved by said board, shall be prorated among the valid claims filed after April 15, 1934, and before October 23, 1935, and which are approved by the compensation claim board.

"It is the intention of this act to reimburse the growers and producers of cotton, which is produced in Texas, for expenses incurred in sterilizing cotton seed and fumigating cotton, whether said cotton was ginned in Texas or some other state, if said expense to the growers was charged by reason of the Texas regulatory laws in such cases."

Popular S'water Chorus to Dance, Sing at Luncheon

One of the most popular choruses of West Texas, the Rolling Stones of Sweetwater, will be presented in a program of musical, dance and song numbers at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday, through invitation of Joe D. Chambers, Lions program chairman.

Mrs. Lee Weathers, director of the chorus, wrote Chambers Sunday she is bringing six or seven members, to last about 20 minutes, to include song and dance numbers, a ukelele duet, vocal duet, dance, chorus and a vocal solo featuring Miss Gladys Johnson, popular blues singer.

The Rolling Stones is made up of girls Mrs. Weathers assembled for entertainment purposes. All are high school girls with the exception of two, who were graduated last year.

The chorus entertains for Sweetwater clubs and luncheons, and has been featured at various banquets and conventions, Chambers having first heard it at the West Texas Press convention last year. While the Midland trip is the chorus' first out-of-town engagement, invitations have been made by other towns, including Big Spring, Mrs. Weathers said.

Only a part of the chorus will be here, acoustics of the assembly room of the court house not permitting of a large chorus. Girls who will be here are Misses Johnny Watson, Mary Thomas, Laura Mary Blanton, Gladys Johnson, Sybil Stuart, an accompanist, and Mrs. Weathers, the director.

Mrs. Johnson has been requested to sing "Blue Prelude," a haunting composition to which her voice is especially adapted, and which she was forced by request to sing several times on programs at the press convention.

Lions expect full attendance at the luncheon.

Midland Lions will present a model luncheon Monday, April 23, at the district convention at Colorado.

Female Possum Is Worth More Than Cow, Warden Says

One good mamma possum is worth more than an ordinary cow or ewe!

T. E. Sammons, game warden, made this astonishing statement Monday in a discussion of fur-bearing animals in Texas.

Few Texans know that Texas is the third largest fur producing political sub-division in the United States, exceeded only by Louisiana and Alaska, Sammons said.

Trappers and hunters of Texas took 1,497,884 fur-bearing animals in 1933, of which 990,408 were possums. Possum, or if you wish to be up-to-date, opossum, pelts bring as high as $7 to $8, and a maternally inclined old lady possum will increase the tribe of these North American marsupials by 7 to 8 annually.

Scurrying through the underbrush and hiding in streams of Texas are game and fish estimated to have an annual value of $23,510,394, according to the U. S. biological survey.

This vast wealth, contends the Texas game, fish and oyster commission, is without adequate protection. He advocates a conservation program has been crippled by lack of funds.

To fill the gap, Texas sportsmen have been asked to volunteer in the task of conserving the state's wild life.

Texas leads the nation in the established value of its game. Annual meat and fur values of game in Minnesota, second state in the list, total only $7,244,376. The biological survey also estimates the combined annual positive values of all wild life in Texas are $94,350,394, nearly three times as great as the next ranking state.

The combined values of wild life in Pennsylvania, which spends large sums for conservation, total less than one-third of those of Texas.

AMERICA'S ADVANTAGES

Whatever the calendar may say, or whatever the weatherman may have to add, spring is here. An unflinching harbinger tells us so; the big league baseball clubs have started their spring training seasons.

Now we are beginning to get the annual crop of "dope stories," telling how this rookie is sure to be a sensation, how that veteran has taken a new lease on life, how So-and-so still is holding out for more money, how such-and-such a star is knocking the ball over the fences of the southland with renewed zest.

None of it means very much, probably—but it stirs the citizens' pulses, just the same. It means that winter is over, and that a long stretch of nice weather is just ahead.

Baseball remains the national game, in that, in all its aspects, it is characteristic of America and of no other land. How, one wonders, do the benighted folk of England, or France, or Russia, know when spring has arrived, without the big leaguers to tell them? Do they have to depend on calendars?

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III, it turns out, is a Socialist. But the money keeps rolling in, nevertheless.

UNUSUAL SIGNIFICANCE

McKINNEY. (P)—Unusual importance was attached to the observance of Texas Independence day here, March 2, since Collin McKinney, who died in North Collin, was one of the signers of Texas' declaration of independence. He was a surveyor, pioneer settler, Indian fighter and fought against Santa Anna.

Twenty years later, Collin county was created by a special act of the first legislature of Texas, the county being named in his honor. Two years afterward a new county seat was laid out, now McKinney, which was also named for the other half of his name. Thus both this county and county seat were named in his honor.

"Six of a Kind" Hilarious Dish of Film Fare

Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, W. C. Fields, Alison Skipworth and George Burrs and Grace Allen, Paramount's leading comedians, are responsible for the funniest picture of the season, "Six of a Kind," now playing at the Ritz theatre.

This hilarious concoction was directed by Leo McCarey, the man who directed "Kid from Spain" and the Marx Brothers' latest picture, "Duck Soup." The screen play was written by Walter De Leon and Harry Ruskin.

The picture is an adaptation of an original story by Douglas MacLean, former silent screen comedian, now a producer at the Paramount studios, and Keene Thompson, comedian of the vaudeville stage.

To delay expenses, the adventures which overtake two simple souls, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, who after twenty years of happily married life, start out on their second honeymoon.

With these two throwing laughs in his way all along, and with W. C. Fields and Alison Skipworth waiting at the end of their journey, his second honeymoon turns into a complicated mixture of laughs and troubles.
